HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.,[1]	§	Case No. 19-34054-sgj11
Reorganized Debtor.	§	Response Deadline: March 6, 2023 at 5:00 p.m. (CT)

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.'S OBJECTION TO SCHEDULED CLAIMS 3.65 AND 3.66 OF HIGHLAND CLO MANAGEMENT, LTD.

Pursuant to sections 502(a)-(d) and 558 of title 11 of the United States Code (the "Bankruptcy Code") and Rule 3007 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure (the "Bankruptcy Rules"), the reorganized debtor in the above-referenced bankruptcy case, Highland [1] Highland's last four digits of its taxpayer identification number are (8357). The headquarters and service address for Highland is 100 Crescent Court, Suite 1850, Dallas, TX 75201.

Capital Management, L.P. (as temporally required, referred to as "Highland" (the entity that existed before the Petition Date) or the "Debtor" (the entity that existed from the Petition Date until the Effective Date) or "Reorganized Highland" (the entity that came into existence upon the Effective Date)), hereby objects to scheduled claim numbers 3.65 and 3.66 (together, the "HCLOM Scheduled Claim") carried on Schedule F of the Debtor's Amended Schedules [see Docket No. 1082] with respect to Highland CLO Management, Ltd. ("HCLOM").

Reorganized Highland respectfully submits that there are numerous bases for the disallowance of the HCLOM Scheduled Claim and represents as follows:

Preliminary Statement[2]

1. The HCLOM Scheduled Claim arises out of a note dated October 7, 2016 (the "Note") executed by Highland in favor of Acis Capital Management, L.P. ("Acis", and together with Highland and HCLOM, the "Parties"), then an affiliate of Highland, in the original amount of $12,666,446.00, which was then purportedly assigned to HCLOM. The HCLOM Scheduled Claim should be disallowed because HCLOM provided no consideration for the Note and otherwise materially breached the Parties' agreements, thereby relieving Highland of any obligation to perform under the Note.

2. The background facts are straight-forward. At all relevant times, Mr. Dondero controlled each of the Parties. Acis managed certain CLOs and received certain Servicer Fees in exchange. Since Acis had no employees of its own, Highland provided the services on behalf of Acis that enabled Acis to fulfill its obligations to the CLOs. In October 2016, Acis and Highland entered into the Purchase Agreement pursuant to which Highland tendered the Note to Acis in exchange for purported "Participation Interests" in Acis' Servicer Fees over a specified period, less certain expenses. Highland and Acis appeared to perform their respective obligations under the Purchase Agreement through early November 2017.

3. In November 2017 (immediately after the Joshua Terry arbitration award was issued but before the Acis involuntary), Highland purportedly notified Acis that it was unwilling to continue to support Acis' management of the CLOs, leaving Acis unable to fulfill its obligations as the CLOs' manager. HCLOM, a newly-formed entity created to replace Acis, purportedly offered to step into the breach and serve as Acis' Successor Manager in exchange for an assignment of the Note. On November 3, 2017, the Parties executed the Assignment pursuant to which, among other things, (a) HCLOM was to become the CLOs' Successor Manager, (b) Acis and HCLOM were to remit the Servicer Fees to Highland, and (c) the Note was assigned to HCLOM. Dondero executed the Assignment for both Highland and Acis. One of the Dondero entities' then-regular Cayman Islands directors, John Cullinane, executed the Assignment on behalf of HCLOM.

4. Notwithstanding the purported Assignment, HCLOM and Acis failed to perform their respective obligations under the Assignment and HCLOM never provided anything of value to Highland in exchange for the Note. HCLOM and Acis breached the Assignment by, among other things, failing to tender any Servicer Fees associated with the Acis Participation Interests and failing to "promptly pursue Successor Manager appointment . . . in respect of each CLO, including but not limited to achieving all conditions precedent required under the CLO Documents." (Assignment § 2).

5. Consequently, HCLOM never obtained an Appointment (defined in the Assignment as the "consummation of HCLOM's appointment as Portfolio Manager of a given CLO"), the entire purpose and purported quid pro quo of the Assignment. In fact, Acis has continued to manage the CLOs, including during the first six months after the Assignment was executed while Mr. Dondero remained in control of Acis, but no Servicer Fees were paid to Highland. These failures (a) constituted material breaches of contract that relieved Highland of its obligations under the Note, both by the express terms of the Parties' agreements and also pursuant to applicable law; and (b) resulted in a complete failure of consideration under the Assignment, which had the effect of voiding the assignment of the Note.

6. As set forth in more detail below, Reorganized Highland has no continuing liability under the Note and received nothing of value for the Note. The HCLOM Scheduled Claim should, therefore, be disallowed in its entirety. Alternatively, if Reorganized Highland is determined to have any continuing obligations under the Note, any such obligations would be subject to Reorganized Highland's rights of offset and recoupment for all amounts due from both Acis and HCLOM (i.e., all covered Servicer Fees on the Acis CLOs from the date of the Note to present). On information and belief, such amounts exceeded the purported amount of the Note.

Jurisdiction

7. The Court has jurisdiction over this matter under the Bankruptcy Code and pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 157 and 1334. This matter is a core proceeding within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. §§ 157(b)(2)(A), (B), and (L). Venue is proper in this District under 28 U.S.C. §§ 1408 and 1409.

8. The statutory predicates for the relief requested herein are 11 U.S.C. § 502(b)-(d), 11 U.S.C. § 558, and Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 3007.

Factual Background

9. On October 16, 2019 (the "Petition Date"), the Debtor filed a voluntary petition for relief under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code in the Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware, Case No. 19-12239 (CSS) (the "Delaware Court").

10. On December 4, 2019, the Delaware Court entered an order transferring venue of the Debtor's Bankruptcy Case to this Court [Docket No. 186].[3]

11. On February 22, 2021, this Court entered the Order Confirming the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) and (ii) Granting Related Relief [Docket No. 1943] (the "Confirmation Order"), which confirmed the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) [Docket No. 1808] (the "Plan").

12. The Plan became effective on August 11, 2021 (the "Effective Date") [Docket No. 2700].

The Note and Purchase Agreement

13. Prior to the Petition Date, Acis, using Highland employees, provided management services with respect to certain collateralized loan obligations ("CLOs") in exchange for management fees ("Servicer Fees") paid by the CLOs to Acis. Purportedly, because "cash flows from the Servicer Fees [we]re unpredictable," Acis sought to "obtain[] a guaranteed fixed amount of cash flow" in exchange for the Servicer Fees it earned from the CLOs. Purchase Agreement (as defined) at 102. In that context, Highland, as Purchaser, and Acis, as Seller, entered into the Agreement for Purchase and Sale of CLO Participation Interests dated October 7, 2016 (the "Purchase Agreement").

14. Pursuant to Section 1 of the Purchase Agreement, Acis agreed to sell to Highland "participation interests in the Servicer Fees (the "Acis Participation Interests") in an amount equal to . . . the total Servicer Fees paid to Seller [Acis] by each of the CLOs beginning in November 2016 and ending August 2019," less certain specified amounts. In exchange for the [3] All docket numbers refer to the docket maintained by this Court.

Acis Participation Interests, Highland agreed to pay Acis $666,655 in cash and to execute the Note in favor of Acis as Payee. Thus, the Note was the primary form of consideration tendered by Highland to Acis in exchange for the Acis Participation Interests.

15. The Note and the Purchase Agreement were inextricably tied together as part of the purchase transaction. The Purchase Agreement attached a copy of the Note as an exhibit and made repeated references to the Note. Moreover, by its terms, the Note was to become effective only upon the effectiveness of the Purchase Agreement, which was executed contemporaneously by Highland and Acis. A condition precedent to the effectiveness of the Note provides:

> This Note shall not become effective and Payee shall have no obligation to make the advance hereunder until Payee has received each of the following in form and substance acceptable to Payee:
> . . . .
> (b) the Agreement for Purchase and Sale of CLO Participation Interests dated of even date herewith (the "Purchase Agreement"), by and between Maker and Acis Capital Management, LP, a Delaware limited partnership ("Highland") [sic], and copies of all agreements, documents and instruments executed or delivered in connection therewith and evidence that all conditions to the effectiveness of the Purchase Agreement have been or will be fulfilled contemporaneously with the initial advance under this Note;

Note at 1 (emphases added).

16. Moreover, as highlighted above, Acis' obligation to remit the cash received with respect to the Acis Participation Interests to Highland was expressly incorporated into the terms of the Note through multiple references to the obligation of the Payee (i.e., Acis) to make advances "hereunder" or "under this Note" to the Maker (i.e., Highland). For example, as quoted above, the Note provides that "Payee shall have no obligation to make the advance hereunder until Payee has received" certain specified documents. Note at 1 (emphases added). The Note also states that, in the event of a default by the Maker, the Payee may "terminate Payee's commitment to make any advances under this Note." Note at 3. The Note further provides:

> Notwithstanding any provision contained herein to the contrary, the total amount of interest that Maker is obligated to pay and Payee is entitled to receive with respect to this Note shall not exceed the amount calculated on a simple (i.e., non-compounded) interest basis at the maximum rate allowed by applicable law on principal amounts actually advanced hereunder to or for the account of Maker.

Id. (emphasis added).

17. These repeated references to amounts to be advanced by the Payee to the Maker "under" the Note describe Acis's obligations to "remit" the cash received with respect to the Acis Participation Interests to Highland, as noted in Section 4 below.

18. Section 4 of the Purchase Agreement is titled "Covenants" and imposes several obligations on the parties to the Purchase Agreement. Section 4.1 of the Purchase Agreement includes the following covenant of the Seller (i.e., Acis): "The Seller agrees to promptly remit, or cause to be promptly remitted, to the Purchaser the cash received with respect to the Acis Participation Interests." Purchase Agreement, § 4.1.

19. Section 3.6 of the Purchase Agreement further provides:

> Subject to Section 1.5, the Purchaser acknowledges and agrees that: (a) except as provided in Section 1.5, should the Seller's rights with respect to the Servicer Fees be terminated, such termination shall not affect the Purchaser's obligations under the Note; (b) except as provided in Section 1.5, the Seller may exercise all of its legal rights and remedies to enforce the Purchaser's obligations under the Note even if the Acis Participation Interests are not paid, in full or part, by the CLO trustees for any reason, including the termination of the Seller as the manager, a hostile buyout of such CLO, or any other reason (other than as a result of the Seller breaching its covenants under this Agreement or as a result of fraud or by willful misconduct of the Seller); and (c) Purchaser has had the opportunity to consult with its own legal counsel with respect to the purchase of the Acis Participation Interests. The Purchaser understands such actions could negatively impact the timing and amount of payment of such Acis Participation Interests during the pendency of such dispute by the trustee of such CLO. The Purchaser bears the sole risk with respect to nonpayment of the Acis Participation Interests (other than as a result of the Seller breaching its covenants under this Agreement or as a result of the fraud or willful misconduct of the Seller).

Purchase Agreement, § 3.6 (emphases added).

20. Thus, the Purchase Agreement is clear that, whereas Highland would remain obligated under the Note if Acis did not receive Servicer Fees from the CLO third parties, in the event that Acis breached its covenants under the Purchase Agreement to remit the cash received with respect to the Acis Participation Interests to Highland, Acis would forfeit the right to enforce the Note (subject to Section 1.5, which addresses a seizure or forfeiture of Servicer Fees due to governmental action, which did not occur here). In short, Highland's payment obligations under the Note were conditioned upon Acis' compliance with its own agreement to transfer to Highland the cash received with respect to the Acis Participation Interests pursuant to Sections 1 and 4.1 of the Purchase Agreement.

21. Section 5.7 of the Purchase Agreement provides Highland with the right to seek specific performance of the Purchase Agreement in the event of a breach by Acis:

> The Seller and the Purchaser agree that the rights created by this Agreement are unique and that the loss of any such rights is not susceptible to monetary quantification. Consequently, the Seller and the Purchaser agree that an action for specific performance (including for temporary and/or permanent injunctive relief) of the obligations created by this Agreement is a proper remedy for the breach of the provisions of this Agreement, and the Purchaser shall be entitled to such relief without the necessity of proving actual damages or posting a bond.

Purchase Agreement, § 5.7.

22. Both the Purchase Agreement and the Note are governed by Texas law.

The Purported Assignment of the Note to HCLOM

23. In November 2017, Highland (controlled by Mr. Dondero) notified Acis that it was "unwilling to continue to provide support personnel and other critical services to Acis with respect to the CLOs." Acis (also controlled by Mr. Dondero) then determined that it could no longer "fulfill its duties as portfolio manager of the CLOs" and needed to find a replacement, and HCLOM (also controlled by Mr. Dondero) offered to fill the void. Assignment (as defined below) at 1.

24. To address the problem that Mr. Dondero manufactured, Highland, Acis, and HCLOM then entered into that certain Assignment and Transfer Agreement dated as of November 3, 2017 (the "Assignment"), the purpose of which was to have HCLOM replace Acis as the Successor Manager for the CLOs and assume all of Acis' rights and obligations under the Purchase Agreement and Note.

25. Thus, pursuant to the Assignment, (a) HCLOM agreed to act as Acis's Successor Manager, (b) Acis assigned to HCLOM all rights in the Note, (c) each of Acis and HCLOM agreed to transfer to Highland any Servicer Fees received by Acis and HCLOM, respectively, that Acis would have been required to remit to Highland pursuant to the Purchase Agreement, and (d) HCLOM agreed to execute a joinder to the Purchase Agreement.

26. A recital to the Assignment provides: "HCLOM, a qualified Successor Manager, irrevocably commits to be appointed as Successor Manager in consideration of Acis assigning to it the Note." Assignment at 1 (emphasis added).

27. Section 1 of the Assignment required Acis (again, then under Mr. Dondero's control) to "promptly provide the Controlling Class (as defined in the CLO Indentures) with notice requesting the appointment of HCLOM as Portfolio Manager pursuant to the requirements of the CLO Documents."

28. Section 2 of the Assignment provides that each of Acis and HCLOM would "promptly pursue Successor Manager appointment of HCLOM in respect of each CLO." Assignment, § 1.

29. Section 3 of the Assignment provides:

3. Assignment and Transfer of the Promissory Note; Stabilization Payments.

a. Effective immediately upon execution of this Agreement by the Parties, all right, title and interest of Acis under the Note, including the right to any and all Stabilization Payments[4] not yet paid to Acis, are hereby irrevocably assigned and transferred by Acis to HCLOM, it being understood that from the date of such assignment, HCLOM shall become the "Payee" thereunder.

b. For so long as Acis shall receive Servicer Fees following the date hereof, Acis shall remit to HCM the HCM Stabilization Fees[5] pursuant to the Note Purchase Agreement.

c. For so long as HCLOM receives any Servicer Fees following any Appointment, then HCLOM shall remit to HCM any portion of such fees that would otherwise have constituted HCM Stabilization Fees pursuant to the Note Purchase Agreement if Acis was the recipient of such fees.

d. HCLOM shall sign a joinder to Note Purchase Agreement upon HCM's written notice thereof.

Assignment, § 3 (emphasis added).

30. Thus, the parties to the Assignment contemplated that HCLOM would assume Acis's rights under the Note, subject to HCLOM becoming the Successor Manager and to the continuing obligation of both Acis and HCLOM to remit Servicer Fees received by each entity to Highland.

31. Section 6.h of the Assignment contains a right of specific performance for breach and provides:

> The Parties agree that the rights created by this Agreement are unique and that the loss of any such rights is not susceptible to monetary quantification. Consequently, the Parties agree that an action for specific performance, including for temporary and/or injunctive relief) of the obligations created by this Agreement is a proper remedy for the breach of the provisions of this Agreement, and the Debtor shall be entitled to such relief without the necessity of proving actual damages or posting a bond.

[4] The term "Stabilization Payments" is defined in the Assignment to mean "cash flows from HCM," as set forth in the Note.

[5] The term "HCM Stabilization Fees" is defined in the Assignment to mean the "future Servicer Fees identified to be paid to HCM pursuant to the Purchase Agreement."

Assignment, § 6.h.

32. After the parties executed the Assignment, Acis and HCLOM failed to consummate the appointment of HCLOM as Successor Manager. Moreover, although Acis retained the benefit of the CLO servicer arrangements and received the Servicer Fees that were the subject of the Purchase Agreement and Assignment, neither Acis nor HCLOM made any further payments to Highland.

33. Following the commencement of the Acis bankruptcy, HCLOM and Highland released each other from the obligations under the Note and the Assignment.

Objection

A. Legal Standard

34. The Bankruptcy Code establishes a burden-shifting framework for proving the amount and validity of a claim. As the HCLOM Scheduled Claim was scheduled in the Debtor's schedules but was not scheduled as disputed, contingent, or unliquidated, the HCLOM Claim is deemed filed under section 501 of the Bankruptcy Code, notwithstanding that no proof of claim was filed by HCLOM. 11 U.S.C. § 1111(a). Furthermore, "[a] claim . . . , proof of which is filed under section 501 [of the Bankruptcy Code], is deemed allowed, unless a party in interest . . . objects." 11 U.S.C. § 502(a). "A proof of claim executed and filed in accordance with the [Bankruptcy Rules] shall constitute prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim." FED. R. BANKR. P. 3001(f); see also In re Armstrong, 347 B.R. 581, 583 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2006). However, the ultimate burden of proof for a claim always lies with the claimant. Armstrong, 347 B.R. at 583 (citing Raleigh v. Ill. Dep't of Rev., 530 U.S. 15 (2000)).

35. The HCLOM Scheduled Claim is based upon the Note. For the reasons described below, the Debtor is not liable on the Note. The HCLOM Scheduled Claim should, therefore, be disallowed in full.

B. Acis' Material Breaches of Contract Excused the Debtor's Performance under the Note

36. For the reasons discussed below, Acis' material breaches of the Purchase Agreement, the Note, and the Assignment relieved the Debtor from any purported payment obligations under the Note.

1. HCLOM and/or Acis' Breach of the Purchase Agreement Relieved the Debtor from any Purported Payment Obligations under the Note.

37. Pursuant to the terms of the Note, Highland was to make three payments to Acis. The first payment was scheduled to be made on May 31, 2017 in the amount of $3,370,694. The second payment was scheduled to be made on May 31, 2018 in the amount of $5,286,243, and the third payment was scheduled to be made on May 31, 2019 in the amount of 4,677,690. Highland made the first payment, but not the other two for the reasons set forth below.

38. As noted above, Acis agreed in Section 1 of the Purchase Agreement to remit to the Debtor the cash received with respect to the Acis Participation Interests through August 2019. Acis last remitted cash to Highland with respect to the Acis Participation Interests on November 1, 2017, before the Assignment was executed. Upon information and belief, the CLOs consistently paid the Servicer Fees to Acis on a regular basis. HCLOM and Acis breached their obligations under the Assignment by failing to remit to Highland any of the Servicer Fees related to the Acis Participation Interests (or any other amounts). The failure to remit such cash to Highland constituted a material breach of that agreement.

39. Pursuant to the express terms of the Purchase Agreement, HCLOM's and Acis' breach of their covenant to remit the cash received with respect to the Acis Participation Interests to Highland excused Highland's own performance under the Note. As explained above, Section 3.6 of the Purchase Agreement provides that Acis would retain the right to enforce Highland's obligations under the Note except where Acis' failure to transfer the cash received with respect to the Acis Participation Interests to Highland is "a result of [Acis] breaching its covenants under" the Purchase Agreement.

40. Upon information and belief, HCLOM and/or Acis apparently continued to receive Servicer Fees after November 3, 2017; they simply failed to remit those fees to Highland as the Purchase Agreement required. Since this failure to remit was due to a breach of the covenant to make such payments under the Purchase Agreement, Highland's obligation to pay any amounts under the Note was excused under Section 3.6 of the Purchase Agreement, and Acis (as well as any assignee) forfeited its rights to enforce Highland's obligations under the Note.

41. Indeed, even had Highland's obligations on the Note not been excused by the express terms of the Purchase Agreement, HCLOM's and Acis' material breaches would still have excused Highland's performance under applicable law. See, e.g., Allied Elevator, Inc. v. E. Tex. State Bank, 965 F.2d 34, 38 (5th Cir. 1992) (holding that, if defendant had materially breached an agreement to procure life insurance, as required by the terms of a promissory note provided by plaintiff to the defendant in exchange for borrowed money, plaintiff would be excused from performing under the note, because "'[a] fundamental rule of contract law is that whenever a party to a contract … commits a material breach, the other party to that contract, at its election, is excused from further performance'") (quoting Bernal v. Garrison, 818 S.W.2d 79, 83 (Tex. App. 1991); see also MJR Corp. v. B & B Vending Co., 760 S.W.2d 4, 20-21 (Tex. App. 1988) ("It is fundamental that whenever one party to a contract commits a material breach, the other party, at its election, is excused from further performance") (citing Mead v. Johnson Grp., Inc., 615 S.W.2d 685, 689 (Tex. 1981)).

2. HCLOM and Acis Breached the Note, Thereby Excusing the Debtor's Performance.

42. The failure by HCLOM and Acis to remit the requisite Servicer Fees to Highland resulted in a breach of the Note. As described above, the Note expressly requires Acis to make advances to Highland "under" the Note. The only advances that Acis committed to make to Highland in connection with the transactions that were the subject of the Purchase Agreement and the Note were those constituting the Servicer Fees received with respect to the Acis Participation Interests. By failing to honor the payment obligations under the Note, HCLOM and Acis materially breached their obligations under the Note.

43. Such material breach of the Note deprived Highland of the benefit of its bargain under that agreement in a manner that excused Highland's performance under the Note, which was given as the primary form of consideration provided in exchange for the Acis Participation Interests. See, e.g., Mustang Pipeline Co. v. Driver Co., 134 S.W.3d 195, 199 (Tex. 2004) (defendant's material breach of contract discharged plaintiff from its duties under the contract); see also In re Dallas Roadster, Ltd., 846 F.3d 112 (5th Cir. 2017) ("A fundamental principle of contract law is that when one party to a contract commits a material breach of that contract, the other party is discharged or excused from any obligation to perform") (quoting Hernandez v. Gulf Grp. Lloyds, 875 S.W.2d 691, 692 (Tex. 1994)).

3. Alternatively, HCLOM's and Acis's Breach of the Purchase Agreement also Breached the Note, which Excused the Debtor's Performance under the Note.

44. It is a general rule of contract interpretation under Texas law that "separate instruments or contracts executed at the same time, for the same purpose, and in the course of the same transaction are to be considered as one instrument, and are to be read and construed together." Jones v. Kelley, 614 S.W.2d 95, 98 (Tex. 1981); see also Vista Dev. Joint Venture II v. Pac. Mut. Life Ins. Co., 822 S.W.2d 305, 307 (Tex. App. 1992) (applying rule to promissory note and deed of trust).

45. The Note was unquestionably an integral part of the Purchase Agreement. It was tendered by Highland as the primary form of consideration in exchange for the Acis Participation Interests, it was executed at the same time as the Purchase Agreement, and the Purchase Agreement attached a copy of, and made repeated references to, the Note. Similarly, the Note is conditioned on the effectiveness of the Purchase Agreement. The Purchase Agreement and the Note should, therefore, "be considered as one instrument, and . . . be read and construed together." See Kelley, 614 S.W.2d at 98.

46. When considered as part of the Purchase Agreement, HCLOM's and Acis' material breach of the Purchase Agreement excused Highland's obligations under the Note. See, e.g., Fitzpatrick v. Animal Care Hosp., PLLC, 104 A.D.3d 1078 (N.Y. App. Div. 2013) (where promissory note executed contemporaneously with purchase agreement represented partial consideration for the purchased assets and the purchase agreement specifically referred to the note, the court concluded that the parties' rights and obligations set forth in the note and purchase agreement were inextricably intertwined and one party's breach of the purchase agreement permitted the other party to offset its obligations due under the promissory note against any damages caused by the breach); see also Ingalsbe v. Mueller, 257 A.D.2d 894 (N.Y. App. Div.

1999); A+ Assocs. v. Naughter, 236 A.D.2d 655 (N.Y. App. Div. 1997); Windmill Run Assocs. v. Fannie Mae (In re Windmill Run Assocs.), 566 B.R. 396, 444 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 2017) (applying Texas law; "[s]eparate documents executed at the same time, for the same purpose, and in the course of the same transaction are to be construed together.... The note, the deed of trust, and the RRSA [replacement reserve and security agreement] were executed contemporaneously. The court concludes that these documents form the contract between the parties"); Rieder v. Woods, 603 S.W.3d 86, 94 (Tex. 2020) ("We construe a contract in a manner that gives 'effect to the parties' intent expressed in the text,' but we may also take into account 'the facts and circumstances surrounding the contract's execution.' In that vein, Texas courts have long recognized that, under appropriate circumstances, 'instruments pertaining to the same transaction may be read together to ascertain the parties' intent, even if the parties executed the instruments at different times and the instruments do not expressly refer to each other.' Where appropriate, 'a court may determine, as a matter of law,' that multiple separate contracts, documents, and agreements 'were part of a single, unified instrument.' In determining whether multiple agreements are part and parcel of a unified instrument, a court may consider whether each written agreement and instrument was 'a necessary part of the same transaction'" (footnotes and citations omitted)); Nat'l City Bank of Ind. v. Ortiz, 401 S.W.3d 867, 884 (Tex. App. 2013) ("National City's [noteholder] claims for breach of contract and judicial foreclosure cannot be parsed fairly into claims under the Note and claims under the Deed of Trust. Because the two documents form a single contract, both the Note and the Deed of Trust must be considered on remand in relitigating these claims"); Wasaff v. Lipscomb, 713 S.W.2d 730, 732 (Tex. App. 1986) ("We hold that the 'Trusteeship Agreement,' the promissory note and the deed of trust securing same must be read together and that when so read together, they permit the trustee to conduct the sale").

47. Notably, the Purchase Agreement expressly provides for specific performance and injunctive relief in the event of a breach by Acis. Because the Note and the Purchase Agreement must be construed together, absent strict performance by HCLOM and Acis of their obligations under the Purchase Agreement, Reorganized Highland cannot be compelled to honor any obligations under the Note.

4. The Note Is Unenforceable Due to a Failure of Consideration

48. The Note is unenforceable because there was a failure of consideration provided by HCLOM or Acis to support the Note. "Failure of consideration generally 'occurs when, because of some supervening cause after an agreement is reached, the promised performance fails.'" Ropa Expl. Corp. v. Barash Energy, No. 02-11-00258-CV, 2013 Tex. App. LEXIS 7290, at *15 (Tex. App. June 13, 2013) (quoting US Bank, N.A. v. Prestige Ford Garland Ltd. P'ship, 170 S.W.3d 272, 279 (Tex. App. 2005). "[F]ailure of consideration may result as a consequence of one party's failure to perform its obligations under the agreement, resulting in the other party's failure to receive the consideration set forth in the agreement." City of The Colony v. N. Tex. Mun. Water Dist., 272 S.W.3d 699, 733 (Tex. App. 2008). The defense of failure of consideration "challenges the agreement as a whole." Doskocil Mfg. Co. v. Sang Nguyen, No. 02-16-00382-CV, 2017 Tex. App. LEXIS 5961, at *15 (Tex. App. June 29, 2017).

49. Highland tendered the Note to Acis in exchange for the Acis Participation Interests and Acis' obligation to remit the related cash received with respect to such interests. HCLOM's and Acis' failure to honor the obligation to remit those amounts after the Assignment was executed deprived Highland of its bargained-for consideration. Because the performance promised by Acis failed, the Note is unenforceable, including by Acis' assignees.

C. Material Breaches of the Assignment by HCLOM and Acis Excuse the Debtor's Performance under the Note

1. HCLOM's Failure to Perform under the Assignment Resulted in the Note Being Unenforceable Due to a Failure of Consideration.

50. The Parties purportedly entered into the Assignment because:

> (a) Highland sent the Notification (as defined in the Assignment) to Acis pursuant to which Acis was informed that Highland was "unwilling to continue to provide support personnel and other critical services to Acis with respect to the CLOS,"
> (b) Acis determined that in light of the Notification, it could not "fulfill its duties as portfolio manager of the CLOs," and
> (c) HCLOM "irrevocably commit[ted] to be appointed as Successor Manager [as defined in the Assignment] in consideration of Acis assigning to it the Note."

Assignment at 1.

51. Thus, the whole purpose of the Dondero-engineered Assignment was to have HCLOM step into Acis' shoes as the Successor Manager of the CLOs. Assignment §§ 1, 2. Until the Appointments (as defined in the Assignment) were consummated, Acis agreed to remit to Highland the "HCM Stabilization Fees pursuant to the Note Purchase Agreement" (to the extent Acis received Servicer Fees). After the Appointments (as defined in the Assignment) were consummated, HCLOM agreed to remit to Highland the any portion of such Fees that would have constituted HCM Stabilization Fees had they been received by Acis. Id. § 3(b), (c).

52. Although the Note was purportedly assigned to HCLOM, HCLOM never succeeded to Acis' role as the Successor Manager, no Appointments were ever consummated, and, therefore, HCLOM never transferred any Servicer Fees to Highland. In short, because the intent of the Assignment was never realized, HCLOM cannot receive all of the benefits of the transaction – i.e., the Note – without accepting any of the burdens or providing anything of value in exchange for the Note or payments thereunder.

53. The total failure of consideration provided by HCLOM to support the Assignment, to which Highland was a party, renders the Assignment unenforceable as against Reorganized Highland. As described above, "failure of consideration may result as a consequence of one party's failure to perform its obligations under the agreement, resulting in the other party's failure to receive the consideration set forth in the agreement." City of The Colony, 272 S.W.3d at 733. HCLOM agreed in the Assignment to assume certain rights and obligations then held by Acis, including the obligation to transfer Servicer Fees to Highland. The assumption of those obligations constituted the consideration provided by HCLOM in exchange for the right to receive an assignment of the Note and to receive payments from Highland under the Note. Indeed, Highland consented to the Assignment only because HCLOM agreed to perform in accordance with its agreements under the Assignment.

54. HCLOM's failure to succeed to Acis as Successor Manager meant that HCLOM never assumed any servicer obligations, controlled any Servicer Fees, or transferred any Servicer Fees to Highland; indeed, HCLOM completely failed to perform under the Assignment as the parties intended. As a result, Highland never received any of the consideration for which it bargained under the Assignment. The total failure of performance by HCLOM under the Assignment renders the Note unenforceable by HCLOM.

2. Alternatively, HCLOM's Breach of the Assignment Excused the Debtor's Performance under the Note.

55. Even if the Assignment is not rendered unenforceable for failure of consideration, HCLOM's failure to comply with its obligations constituted material breaches thereof. Specifically, HCLOM breached the Assignment by failing to: (a) "provide the Controlling Class (as defined in each of the CLO Indentures) with notice requesting the appointment of HCLOM as Portfolio Manager," as required by Section 1 of the Assignment; (b) "promptly pursue Successor Manager appointment," as required by Section 2 of the Assignment; (c) "achiev[e] all conditions precedent required by the CLO Documents," as required by Section 2 of the Assignment; and (d) execute a joinder to the Purchase Agreement, as required by Section 3.d of the Assignment.

56. HCLOM's material breaches of the Assignment excused Highland's obligations under the Note. See, e.g., Mustang Pipeline Co., 134 S.W.3d at 199 (defendant's material breach of contract discharged plaintiff from its duties under the contract).

D. Any Obligations that May Be Due under the Note Are Subject to Highland's Rights of Offset and Recoupment

57. Even if Reorganized Highland's remaining obligations under the Note are not excused, Reorganized Highland's rights of setoff and recoupment would reduce those obligations by an amount that is not less than the amount of unpaid Servicer Fees that should have been remitted to Highland through August 2019 by Acis and HCLOM. On information and belief, that amount exceeds the face amount of the Note.

58. As discussed above, Highland became obligated to Acis under the Note in exchange for Acis' simultaneous commitment to transfer Acis Participation Interests to Highland. Acis assigned its interests in the Note to HCLOM on the condition that HCLOM share Acis' payment obligations to Highland. Both Acis and HCLOM failed to transfer any cash received with respect to the Acis Participation Interests to Highland from and after November 3, 2017.

59. As summarized by the Texas appellate court:

> "Recoupment" allows a defendant to reduce the amount of a plaintiff's claims by asserting a counterclaim which arose out of the same transaction. There are two general requirements for recoupment: (1) some type of overpayment must have been made, and (2) both the creditor's claim and the amount owed the debtor must arise from a single transaction. . . .

> The right of setoff allows entities that owe each other money to apply their debts to each other. Where setoff is allowed, there are mutual debts arising from different transactions, which contrasts with the single transaction required in recoupment.

Sommers v. Concepción, 20 S.W.3d 27, 35 (Tex. App. 2000) (citing Matter of Kosadnar, 157 F.3d 1011, 1013 (5th Cir. 1998)).

60. Because Highland's obligations under the Note arose from the same transaction as Acis' payment obligations under the Purchase Agreement, Highland's obligations must be reduced under a theory of recoupment by the amount of Acis' obligations to Highland. Similarly, since Highland's consent to the assignment of the Note by Acis to HCLOM was conditioned on the agreement by both Acis and HCLOM to continue making payments to Highland under the Purchase Agreement, Reorganized Highland's obligations must be reduced under a theory of recoupment by the amount of HCLOM's obligations to Highland.

61. Alternatively, even if Highland's obligations under the Note are not viewed as arising under the same transaction as Acis' or HCLOM's respective obligations to Highland, Reorganized Highland's obligations must be reduced under a theory of setoff by all amounts owed by Acis and HCLOM to Highland, which include all unpaid obligations of those entities under the Purchase Agreement and the Assignment.

E. Reservation of Rights

62. Reorganized Highland reserves its right to supplement, amend, or modify this Objection based on facts adduced in discovery or otherwise, including to assert further objections, defenses or arguments in support of the disallowance of the HCLOM Scheduled Claim.

[REMAINDER OF PAGE INTENTIONALLY BLANK]

WHEREFORE, Reorganized Highland respectfully requests (i) that the HCLOM Claim be disallowed in its entirety, and (ii) for such other and further relief as this Court may deem just and proper.

Today's date is September 24, 2024. The time is 10:09 a.m. This is the start of Media 1.

For the record, counsel will state their appearances and the court reporter will swear in the witness.

MR. MORRIS: Good morning, John Morris, Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones for the reorganized Debtor, Highland Capital Management, LP.

MR. AIGEN: Michael Aigen from Stinson representing HCLOM.

FRANK WATERHOUSE,

having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q. Good morning, Mr. Waterhouse,

A. Good morning.

Q. I'm going to give to you a document that has been labeled Highland Capital Management's Amended Notice of Rule 30(B)(6) Deposition and ask you if you -- I would like to mark that as Exhibit 1.

MR. MORRIS: Do you have a stapler?

Thank you.

(Exhibit 1 marked.)

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Have you had a chance to look at Exhibit 1, sir?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you seen it before?

A. I haven't -- I don't think I have seen this particular document.

Q. Have you seen a form of this document before?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you understand that you are here today in your individual capacity and as in your capacity as a corporate representative of Highland CLO Management Ltd.?

A. I thought I was just the representative for HCLOM but if I'm here individually, then understood.

Q. And do you understand that as the corporate representative of Highland CLO Management, Ltd., your answers and testimony will be binding on that entity?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. Yes.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) If I use the phrase "HCLOM," will you understand that I'm referring to the entity that is named Highland CLO Management, Ltd. and no other entity?

A. I'm sorry. You said HCLOM?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes.

Q. Are you aware that there's a different entity called Highland CLO Management, LLC?

A. I'm not aware. I just don't recall.

Q. So when I use the phrase "Highland CLO Management, Ltd.," I'm -- withdrawn.

When I use the phrase "HCLOM," I'm only referring to Highland CLO Management, Ltd. Do you understand that?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Did you do anything to prepare for today's deposition?

A. Yes.

Q. What did you do?

A. I met with Michael here and Deborah. We went through documents and just had a discussion.

Q. Did any of the documents refresh your recollection?

A. Yes. I mean, the -- they refreshed recollection to the extent that I had memories of that.

Q. Okay. And can you describe for me the documents that you reviewed that refreshed your recollection in any way?

A. Yes. There was a note agreement between Highland and Acis. There was a purchase and sale agreement of servicing fees between Acis and Highland. There was a transfer agreement between Acis for the note or there was a transfer agreement from the note between Acis and HCLOM.

We reviewed other documents like topics. We reviewed Pachulski's, I don't know, we'll call it observations, Stinson's answers, things like that.

Q. Did you review any emails?

A. No.

Q. Did you review any transcripts of any prior testimony or any prior proceeding?

A. I briefly reviewed some testimony, yes.

Q. And do you recall who was testifying?

A. It was Jim Dondero.

Q. And do you know, was that in the Highland case or was that in the Acis case; do you recall?

A. That was the Acis case.

Q. And do you recall if it was deposition testimony or trial testimony or both?

A. I don't recall that.

Q. Did you review an entire transcript on your own?

A. No.

Q. Were there portions of the transcript that you were focused on?

A. Not really. Just scanning the document that was provided to me.

Q. Were you previously familiar with Mr. Dondero's testimony as you read it?

A. No.

Q. So can you describe for me what you recall about the testimony that you read?

A. Yeah. It was focused around the transactions between Highland and Acis.

Q. And was the note and the purchase and sale agreement and the transfer agreement among the transactions that were the subject of the deposition testimony that you reviewed?

A. I don't know, because they weren't specifically stated.

Q. Did you review any other -- withdrawn.

You are aware that at some point Acis was put into involuntary bankruptcy, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And you just testified that you reviewed at least portions of the transcript in which Mr. Dondero gave testimony in connection with the Acis bankruptcy, right?

A. Yeah. I believe it's a transcript or a summary or something that had portions of what he testified. I mean, it wasn't -- I have reviewed transcripts where you have people's names. It wasn't like that, but it was testimony that Jim Dondero gave.

Q. Do you recall if you reviewed any other document or transcript that was created in connection with the Acis bankruptcy?

A. I did not.

Q. Are you aware that there's ongoing litigation in the Acis bankruptcy between Acis and Mr. Dondero?

A. I am not.

Q. Do you recall what year Mr. Dondero testified that resulted in the transcript that you reviewed?

A. I don't know.

Q. Did you speak with anybody other than counsel in connection with the preparation for today's testimony?

A. I did not.

Q. So just to be clear, you're here today as HCLOM's 30(b)(6) witness but you never spoke with Mr. Dondero to prepare for today's deposition, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Do you know who John Cullinane is?

A. I know -- yes. He's -- yes, I do.

Q. Did you make any attempt to speak with Mr. Cullinane in connection with the preparation for today's deposition?

A. I did not.

Q. Have you ever spoken with Mr. Cullinane?

A. No.

Q. Have you ever communicated with Mr. Cullinane by email or otherwise?

A. Not that I recall. But I don't have access to emails that I would have acted in a capacity. So I could have, but I don't remember.

Q. Okay. How about J.P. Savilla, did you speak with him as part of your preparation for today's deposition?

A. No.

Q. Did you speak with Scott Ellington to prepare for today's deposition?

A. No.

Q. Did you speak with Isaac Levanton to prepare for today's deposition?

A. No.

Q. So again, other than counsel, you did not speak with any person to prepare for today's deposition; is that fair?

A. Correct.

Q. Let's just look at the topics quickly on Exhibit 1. If you can turn, I guess, to the document that says 7 of 9 at the top. You will see their topics.

A. Uh-huh.

Q. The first topic concerns the purchase agreement. Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you review the purchase agreement to prepare for answering questions on Topic 1?

A. Yes. I reviewed the purchase agreement.

Q. Are there any other documents that you reviewed to prepare for answering questions on Topic 1 --

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) -- that you recall?

A. I just read portions of the purchase agreement and discussed it with counsel.

Q. Okay. Would the answer be the same for the note, do you recall -- withdrawn.

Did you review the note?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Do you recall reviewing any other documents to prepare to answer questions about the note?

A. No. I -- no.

Q. How about the assignment, did you review the assignment?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you review any other documents to prepare to answer questions concerning the assignment?

A. No.

Q. I have defined the term "ancillary agreement" to refer to several other agreements. Are you prepared to answer questions on the topic of the ancillary agreements?

A. Yeah. We did review other ancillary agreements as well. So yes.

Q. And when you say other ancillary agreements, if we can go to the definition of ancillary agreement, it refers specifically to three agreements or four agreements, rather.

A. Yes. Counsel and I reviewed the forbearance agreements.

Q. Right.

A. And the acknowledgement -- we reviewed these agreements together.

Q. Did you review any other agreement other than the ancillary agreements and the ones that were the subject of the prior topics in connection with the preparation of today's deposition?

A. Not that I'm aware.

Q. Okay. On the next page, Topic 5 refers to actually one more agreement, the cancellation agreement.

Are you familiar with the cancellation agreement?

A. Cancellation agreement? Generally.

Q. Okay. How about the formation and operation of HCLOM, are you prepared to testify as to the facts and circumstances concerning the formation and operation of HCLOM?

A. Yes.

Q. And are you prepared to testify to the balance of the topics that are here? We don't need to go through them all, but is it safe to say that you are prepared to testify to all topics on this notice?

A. Sure.

Q. Okay. What's your current position, sir?

A. I'm the chief financial officer for Skyview Group.

Q. And what is Skyview Group?

A. Skyview Group is a -- it's an entity that provides back-office services to financial services firms.

Q. Does Skyview Group provide financial services to any firm in which Mr. Dondero lacks an ownership, a direct or indirect ownership interest, or control position?

A. Yeah, there are entities -- if you are asking -- if I'm understanding your question correctly, that Skyview Group provides services to -- that are not -- that Mr. Dondero does not own, yes. If that's the question.

Q. It was a little broader than that. Don't worry. I'll just move on.

Did you ever serve as an officer of HCLOM?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Do you know if you're an officer of HCLOM today?

A. I don't know. But I am the representative.

Q. For today's deposition?

A. For today's deposition.

Q. I appreciate that.

Did you ever serve as a director of HCLOM?

A. No.

Q. No. So you can affirmatively state that you have never served as a director but you are unsure as to whether you have ever served as an officer; is that fair?

A. Correct.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) All right. Let's mark as Exhibit 2, a document ending in Bates Number 9363 and it's certain resolutions that are dated October 27, 2017. Let me know when you have had a chance to review that.

A. Okay. Okay.

Q. All right. So do you understand that these are certain resolutions that were prepared for HCLOM?

A. I think that's -- yeah, that's what it appears to be.

Q. Have you ever seen this document before?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. You didn't see this document in connection with your preparation for today's deposition, right?

A. I did not.

Q. Do you see that it's signed and dated as of October 27, 2017?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you understand that that's the date on which HCLOM was formed?

A. That's what this -- yes.

Q. Okay. And do you see that under paragraph two,

Summit Management, Limited was appointed the sole director of HCLOM?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know who Summit Management, Limited is?

A. It's -- they are the directors of HCLOM.

Q. Do you know where Summit Management, Limited is located?

A. They would be located in where this entity was incorporated.

Q. Do you know where this entity was incorporated?

A. Yeah, I believe it was the Cayman's.

Q. What's the basis for that belief?

A. Just looking at Ltd., you know, reviewing the documents with counsel prior, John Cullinane, as you alluded to, was a director. So, you know, he's -- this is an officer entity. So that's my belief.

Q. Okay. Do you know how Summit Management came to be HCLOM's sole director at formation? Do you know who decided that?

A. I don't.

Q. Are you aware of any communications with either Mr. Cullinane or Summit Management, Limited concerning the formation of HCLOM?

A. I -- I'm -- no. I'm not aware of any communications.

Q. Do you know whether someone at Highland caused HCLOM to be created?

A. Do I know why someone at Highland --

Q. Do I know -- withdrawn.

Do you know whether Highland caused HCLOM to be created?

A. I don't know who formed HCLOM.

Q. Were you aware that HCLOM was formed in October 2017?

A. Generally, yes.

Q. Do you recall any discussions concerning the formation of HCLOM?

A. I generally recall discussions of -- yes, of HCLOM's formation.

Q. Who did you have those discussions with?

A. Generally been the Highland legal team and Mr. Dondero.

Q. Do you recall anything about your conversations with the Highland legal team and Mr. Dondero concerning the formation of HCLOM?

MR. AIGEN: And, John, I just want to interject. Obviously, that brings a privilege but it is your privilege. Are you willing to waive privilege related to that?

MR. MORRIS: We have waived all privileges prepetition.

MR. AIGEN: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: So can't call that back now. That was in the Kirschner suit.

MR. AIGEN: Okay.

A. I, generally, recall with the need for HCLOM to be formed due to the issues that Acis was having.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) What issues was Acis having?

A. Acis was -- basically had a large liability to Josh Terry that it was not able to meet. You know, it wasn't in a position to continue to serve as the manager for the CLOs that it managed. So therefore, there was a need to create a new CLO asset manager.

Q. Okay. So is it fair to say that in October 2017, you discussed with Highland's team and Mr. Dondero the need to form HCLOM, who was intended to substitute as the collateral manager and portfolio manager of the Acis CLOs?

A. I don't recall specifically whether that was in October. I don't -- I don't remember. But I remember generally that there were discussions about the issues that Acis was having and therefore there was a need to create a successor asset manager for the CLOs.

Q. Was Acis facing any issues other than the adverse judgment that Mr. Terry obtained?

A. From what I re- -- yes.

Q. Can you identify any issue that Acis was confronting in October 2017 that caused the formation of HCLOM, other than Mr. Terry's judgment -- or arbitration award?

A. Again, I can't speak directly to the date. So I don't know if it was October 2017. But Highland, from what I recall, notified Acis that it would no longer support Acis from a personnel prospective.

Q. Anything else?

A. I generally recall that having been told that the investors in the CLOs did not want to be associated with Acis due to its difficulties.

Q. Who told you that?

A. Just Highland personnel.

Q. Do you know -- can you tell me -- can you identify any of Highland's personnel who told you that, in fact, investors didn't want to be associated with Acis?

A. These were general discussions that I don't -- I mean, I -- this was seven years ago. I generally recall those discussions being had or being informed of them. I can't tell you who exactly or where. This was seven years ago; it's a long time.

Q. Do you recall if any investors were identified?

A. I -- I -- as an asset manager, what I do recall is that, you know, the asset manager knows who the investors are that are invested in the deals, especially the CLO. So I don't recall who those investors were, but we had a team at Highland who's -- that's what they did and, you know, they were in touch with those investors.

Q. Okay. But my only question is whether you recall whether anybody identified any particular investor who expressed the view that they didn't want to be associated with Acis any longer?

A. I don't recall. Again, I heard -- I remember general conversations. So I don't recall.

Q. Do you recall whether any of these conversations occurred before the Terry arbitration award was issued?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you know why HCM, LP told Acis it would no longer support it?

A. I don't remember specifically, no.

Q. Do you know whether HCLOM ever engaged in any business activities?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. Yes, generally.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Can you describe the business activities that you believe HCLOM engaged in?

A. Well, HCLOM was formed to be the successor CLO servicer for the Acis deals.

Q. I appreciate that's the reason it was formed. But it never served in that capacity, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Okay. So did HCLOM ever generate a dollar of revenue?

A. Not that I'm aware.

Q. Did HCLOM ever incur any expenses?

A. It may have -- I don't remember. There may have been some expenses incurred for formation.

Q. As well as preps, director fees; is that right?

A. Perhaps.

Q. Okay. And are you aware that Highland paid all of HCLOM's expenses?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Other than formation expenses and perhaps director's fees or other lawyer's fees, do you know whether HCLOM ever incurred any other expenses?

A. I don't have access to HCLOM's records. So I don't know.

Q. You were the treasurer of HCLOM, right?

A. I -- like I said earlier, I don't know.

Q. Do you know if HCLOM ever had any employees?

A. Not that I'm aware.

Q. Do you know if HCLOM ever had a shared services agreement with Highland or any other entity?

A. Not that I remember.

Q. Do you know if HCLOM was ever party to an advisory agreement or a sub-advisory relationship with Highland or any other entity?

A. Not that I'm aware.

(Exhibit 3 marked.)

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Okay. All right. Let's mark as Exhibit 3 a one-page document ending in Bates Number 1373468, which are written resolutions of HCLOM dated February 7, 2018, and have you had a chance to review this exhibit, sir?

A. Yes.

Q. And have you ever seen this before?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Do you see that you are identified as the treasurer of HCLOM?

A. Yes.

Q. But until you saw this document, you had no recollection of being HCLOM's treasurer; is that fair?

A. I don't have recollection but, you know, I'm not surprised that I was named treasurer due to my former position at Highland Capital Management. So I just didn't remember if I was or not.

Highland Capital Management owned a lot of entities and so there was -- you know, he had a lot of assets under management, things like that. So, I mean, I can't remember every single position that I'm a part of.

Q. Right. But this is the entity that is asserting a $10 million claim against Highland, right?

A. Again, I'm not the lawyer here. But, I guess, yes. Again, as the representative of HCLOM, I think HCLOM's books and records and all of their -- were held at Highland, or things like, you know, documents.

Q. Right. Do you see that we produced this document in response to your lawyer's request since it has got that Bates number on it?

A. If that's what the Bates number identifies, sure. I see a number here.

Q. All right. And one of the topics you were asked about, if you look back at Exhibit 1, is the formation and operation of HCLOM, including as set forth in subpart C, the identification, appointment, and/or selection of HCLOM's officers and directors.

Do you have any idea who HCLOM's officers and directors are today?

A. I do not.

Q. Other than the people identified as officers on Exhibit 3 and Summit Management, Limited who is identified as the director of HCLOM on Exhibit 2, are you able to identify who at any time was an officer or director of HCLOM?

A. I don't have a list of all the officers and directors at HCLOM, no.

Q. Okay. So is it fair to say you don't recall anybody discussing with you becoming the treasurer of HCLOM in February of 2018?

A. I don't remember those discussions, specifically.

Q. Okay. Is it fair to say that since you weren't aware that you were the treasurer of HCLOM, you didn't perform any services for HCLOM, in your capacity as the treasurer of HCLOM?

A. I don't recall myself providing services. You know, like I said, HCLOM was formed to be the successor manager of the Acis CLOs.

Q. And it never did that, correct?

A. It tried to. But, yeah, I mean, HCLOM tried to become the successor manager of the Acis CLOs. What I don't recall about providing services is there were -- you are asking -- I'm a representative, I'm an individual and now you are asking me for treasurer.

So, John, it is a little bit difficult to kind of -- you know, HCLOM was working with the investors of the Acis deals because, again, there was issues with Acis.

So there were likely numbers that were needed. There were likely presentations, data, you know, things like that provided to those investors.

So I mean, again, do I remember specifically if I provided those services seven years ago when this was formed? I -- you know, that's so long ago. But HCLOM definitely did a lot of work. They tried hard, worked with investors, communicated with investors. There were resets that were in the market. They did a lot with the investors to become the successor managers of the Acis CLOs.

Q. Okay. Do you know if everything you just described was done not by HCLOM but by Highland CLO management, LLC, or do you not know the difference?

A. I don't recall.

Q. You don't recall that there were two entities that were called Highland CLO Management, one of which was Ltd. and one of which was LLC?

A. John is -- Pachulski and Highland has asserted throughout this case, there are thousands of entities in the Highland company. I don't remember every single entity that was there.

Q. Okay.

A. And if we're talking about the substitution of one word seven years ago, I don't recall.

Q. Okay. Do you know if HCLOM ever held title to a bank account?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Do you know if HCLOM ever had a bank account?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Do you know if anybody ever prepared financial statements for HCLOM?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Do you know if anybody ever maintained any books and records on behalf of HCLOM?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Do you know if HCLOM was a registered investment advisor?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Do you know if HCLOM was ever qualified to be a portfolio manager?

A. I mean, presumably. Right? When HCLOM is working with the investors to transfer the agreements to HCLOM, they would have demonstrated the ability to manage those assets. And, you know, the investors would not have submitted, you know, these resets if they didn't feel confident that HCLOM had the ability to manage the CLOs.

Q. Have you ever seen a document concerning resets where HCLOM was identified as the proposed portfolio manager as opposed to Highland CLO Management, LLC?

A. I have not.

Q. Okay. I'm getting to my last document to try to move this along.

A. Okay.

Q. I'll mark as Exhibit 4 a document entitled Acknowledgment and Waiver, which begins at Bates Number ending in 2807.

(Exhibit 4 marked.)

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) This is one of the ancillary documents that was cited in the Rule 30(b)(6) Notice.

Are you aware of that?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you seen this before?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know what it is?

A. Yes.

Q. What is it?

A. Pursuant to the transfer agreement, it says here in paragraph -- "Acis was required to promptly provide notice to the controlling class of each CLO and subsequent to the delivery notices to each of Acis and each H-C-L-O-M, HCLOM was required to promptly pursue an appointment for each CLO."

So basically -- this document basically waives that.

Q. Okay. And do you see that it is signed by Mr. Dondero on behalf of Highland and it's acknowledged by him on behalf of Acis?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you see Mr. Cullinane signed on behalf of HCLOM?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you see at the top that it's dated as of January 19, 2018?

A. Yes.

Q. And so this is just about, what, ten weeks after the transfer agreement is signed -- withdrawn.

I can bring it out if you would like, but do you recall that the transfer agreement was dated November 3rd, 2017?

A. It says under the paragraph two. So yeah, sure.

Q. Okay. So this acknowledgment and waiver is signed, what, about ten weeks later?

A. Yes.

Q. And it's signed by Mr. Dondero and Mr. Cullinane in their capacities as indicated?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And is there anything about this document that you think is inaccurate or incorrect?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. Not that I'm aware.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Okay. And you would agree, then, as set forth in paragraph three, "That pursuant to Sections 1 and 2 of the transfer agreement, Acis was required to promptly provide notice to the controlling class of each CLO, and subsequent to the delivery of the notices, each of Acis and HCLOM was required to promptly pursue an appointment for each CLO."

Have I read that accurately?

A. Yes.

Q. And are you aware that this acknowledgment and waiver is signed and executed before the involuntary bankruptcy was filed against Acis?

A. I don't remember the exact date for the Acis involuntary.

Q. Do you recall that it was at the end of January?

A. I remember it was towards the end of January.

Q. Right. And so HCLOM and Highland acknowledge in this document that A, each CLO was going to be reset.

Have I paraphrased that fairly?

A. Yes. It was intended for each CLO to be reset.

Q. B, that each reset transaction will need to comply with certain rules.

Is that fair?

A. Fair.

Q. C, in order to comply with those risk retention rules in connection with each reset, "Each applicable CLO issuer will appoint Highland CLO Management, LLC as the collateral manager of the CLO."

Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. So is it your understanding as the corporate representative of HCLOM, that in this acknowledgment and waiver from January 19, 2018, that HCLOM was acknowledging that Highland CLO Management, LLC would succeed Acis as the collateral manager and not HCLOM, Ltd.?

A. I don't know. I mean, I didn't draft this document or sign it. It could be just a typo.

Q. That's pure speculation on your part, right?

A. I -- yeah. I'm just -- but I don't know. But it could be just a typo.

Q. Well, do you still think it's a typo when you look at the next clause that says, "None of the notices have been nor will be delivered"?

A. That's what it says.

Q. And do you understand that to be a fact that as of January 19, 2018, quote, "None of the notices have been nor will be delivered pursuant to Section 1 of the transfer agreement and none of the appointments have been nor will be made pursuant to Section 2 of the transfer agreement"?

A. As of January 19, 2018, it is my understanding that none of the CLOs were reset at the time and -- but that's what this document says.

Q. Doesn't it also say that the notices and appointments required under the transfer agreement will never occur?

A. Yes.

Q. And, in fact, the notices and appointments described in the transfer agreement never occurred, correct?

A. Yes. But, I mean, there could be other ancillary reasons for that.

Q. Okay. But you are not aware of any?

A. I'm not aware of any.

Q. And is it fair to say that since the Acis bankruptcy started after the date of this acknowledgment and waiver, that the Court's injunction preventing the resets had nothing to do with the failure to deliver the notices or attend the appointments as set forth in this document?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. I mean, I can't say that with -- agree with that with certainty. I mean, if, again, it's asset managers talk to their investors, and yes, there are policies and procedures that are in deal, but if you are talking to investors and they're going to reset deals or do certain things, the manager and the investors can -- you know, they can agree to whatever they want to agree to.

So I wasn't in any of these discussions; that wasn't my position. But it doesn't surprise me that an asset manager or the investors can say, "Hey, we're going to reset these deals. We are just not going to give you these notices, because we're talking about it, you don't need it."

I mean, I'm not saying it didn't happen; I'm not saying it did happen. But it wouldn't surprise me that this -- that something like this would be filed.

MR. MORRIS: I'm going to move to strike.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Let's try and take this in smaller bites.

A. Well, you were asking about if these were delivered.

MR. AIGEN: Let John ask a question.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Are you prepared to testify about the resets?

A. I know generally of the resets.

Q. Okay. And does your general knowledge include knowledge about the identity of the specific entity that was identified in 2018 to be the substitute collateral manager and portfolio manager for the Acis CLOs?

A. I'm sorry. I don't follow the question.

Q. Do you know who -- withdrawn.

Do you know the name of the entity that was designated in 2018 to be the successor collateral manager or portfolio manager of the Acis CLOs?

A. I mean, Highland CLO manager or HCLOM, as we have been referring to it, it was my general understanding that it was going to be the manager.

Q. And looking at this document, was it your understanding that it was going to be HCLOM, Ltd. or HCLOM, LLC or you didn't really have an understanding at the time?

A. Well, I -- again, Highland CLO Management, LLC could be a subsidiary of HCLOM, Ltd. I mean, I don't --

Q. Do you have any facts that support that statement?

A. Well, just given the fact that HCLOM was going to be the successor manager, it just makes sense.

Q. Okay. Other than what you think makes sense, are you aware of any facts? Do you know who owns HCLOM?

A. Yeah. Today, yeah. Yes.

Q. And who owns HCLOM?

A. Dugaboy and Okada.

Q. Okay. And who owns HCLOM, LLC?

A. I don't know who the name there is -- or who the owner is. I said it could be the -- it could be HCLOM, for all I know.

Q. Or it could be you, right?

A. Well, no. I would know if I owned it.

Q. You didn't know you were the treasurer of HCLOM; isn't that right?

A. That doesn't mean I -- being a treasurer and owning something --

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form. I don't think that was a serious question.

A. Being treasurer and owning something are pretty big distinctions.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Well, is there a distinction in your -- if -- I think you said that you thought HCLOM was formed in the Cayman Islands because it ended in Ltd. Do I have that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. In your experience, do Cayman Island entities ending in LLC, are they formed in the Cayman Islands?

A. Well, this says here it's a Delaware Limited Liability Company and it says it right there.

Q. Okay.

A. But that doesn't mean that -- just because you have an officer entity, it doesn't mean that an officer entity can't be owned by an officer, you know.

Q. It's a very simple question, sir. Can you tell me any facts to support your speculation --

A. It --

Q. Let me finish the question.

A. Okay.

Q. -- that there is an ownership relationship between HCLOM, Ltd. and HCLOM, LLC?

A. No. It's generally based on my experience of being the CFO at Highland Capital Management for -- for my work there since being employed from October of 2006 to February of 2021.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. I move to strike everything after the word "no."

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) And I will ask you to turn back to Exhibit 1, and let's look at Topic 6(e), which refers to the direct or indirect ownership of HCLOM at all time since formation and the timing and reasons for ownership changes.

I think you mentioned that Dugaboy and Mr. Okada owned HCLOM; is that right?

A. They're the owners now, yes.

Q. And have there ever been any other owners of HCLOM?

A. Yes.

Q. Who were the other owners of HCLOM?

A. Highland Capital Management.

Q. And when was Highland Capital Management the owner of HCLOM?

A. I think as recently as 2022.

Q. Are you sure that Highland had an ownership interest as opposed to a voting interest?

A. I -- it may have had both. I don't -- I don't -- it's my understanding that Highland was the owner of HCLOM until a few years ago.

Q. Has any other person or entity ever had an ownership in HCLOM, other than Highland Capital Management, L.P., Mr. Okada, and Dugaboy?

A. Not that I'm aware.

Q. Did you do any work to prepare to answer questions about the ownership of HCLOM or were you just going from your memory?

A. Just what I generally understand or know.

Q. Okay. And based on your general understanding, you have no reason to believe that Highland CLO Management, LLC ever had an ownership interest in Highland CLO Management, Ltd., correct?

A. I don't recall Highland CLO Management. I --

Q. I'm not sure that -- that sounded like a fragment there.

A. Sorry.

Q. I'm going to ask the question again.

Based on your general understanding, you have no reason to believe that Highland CLO Management, LLC ever had a direct or indirect ownership interest in Highland CLO Management, Ltd., correct?

A. I don't know.

Q. Do you know who owned HCLOM at the time it was formed?

A. From what I recall, it was Highland Capital Management.

Q. Do you know when Dugaboy and Mr. Okada obtained an ownership interest in HCLOM?

A. It was sometime in 2022.

Q. So it's your testimony as the 30(b)(6) representative today, that HCLOM was owned solely by Highland at all times from formation until 2022 when Mr. Okada and Dugaboy became owners?

A. I would say that without these records, I mean, generally, that's my understanding, yes. You know, I haven't been -- you know, Highland could have assigned its interest, you know, to another Highland entity prior to 2022. Again, I don't -- I was let go of Highland in February 2021. So something could have happened in between but...

Q. Okay. I don't want the speculation. I just want your knowledge here today, sir.

A. Well, that's -- I mean, I can only talk to what I know. And so if there were things that happened when I wasn't there, then, I mean, I can't really speak to that.

Q. And that's fine.

But based on what you know, based on your understanding, Highland was the sole owner of HCLOM from the time of formation until sometime in 2022 when Dugaboy and Mr. Okada obtained ownership interest in HCLOM; is that right?

A. Yeah. That's generally my understanding.

Q. And when Mr. Okada and Dugaboy obtained the ownership interest in HCLOM, did they obtain 100 percent of the ownership interest or something less than that?

A. A hundred percent is my understanding.

Q. Okay. So to the best of your knowledge, at the time of this transaction, Highland sold its 100 percent interest in HCLOM to Mr. Okada and Dugaboy, right?

A. I don't know whether they sold it or they transferred it, assigned it. But Mr. -- or Dugaboy and Mr. Okada were -- became new owners of HCLOM.

Q. Okay. Do you know who controlled HCLOM from the time it was formed until the time it was sold to Dugaboy and Mr. Okada?

A. You showed me the officer and director list earlier. So those would have been the officers and directors at -- you know, after that. I don't know.

Q. Let's switch gears now to Acis.

You're familiar with an entity called Acis Capital Management, L.P., right?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know when Acis was first formed?

A. I don't remember. It was -- I don't recall.

Q. Were you at Highland when it was formed?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know if Mr. Terry had a role at Acis at least until June of 2016?

A. Yes.

Q. And was he the portfolio manager of Acis?

A. I mean, he was a portfolio manager.

Q. Who else served as portfolio manager of Acis prior to June of 2016?

A. I recall Mr. Okada and Mr. Dondero having, you know, involvement with Acis.

Q. Do you know if Mr. Terry was ever employed by Acis?

A. He wasn't an employee.

Q. He was employed by Highland, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And he was terminated on June 9, 2016, correct?

A. I -- I don't remember.

(Exhibit 5 marked.)

MR. MORRIS: Let's just mark this as Exhibit 5 --

THE WITNESS: I don't mean to rush -- slow things down but can we take a bathroom break soon.

MR. MORRIS: Yeah. Of course. Just --

THE WITNESS: We can do it whenever is a good stop time.

MR. MORRIS: It's perfectly fine. Let's go off the record.

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: Off the record. The time is 11:13.

(Break taken from 11:13 a.m. to 11:23 a.m.)

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: Back on the record. The time is 11:23.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Are you ready to proceed, Mr. Waterhouse?

A. Yes.

Q. Earlier I asked you about your preparation for today's deposition and you mentioned that you met with counsel. Do I have that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you looked at documents; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And you searched your memory; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And those were all the things you did to prepare for today, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. How many times did you meet with counsel for purposes of preparing for today's deposition?

A. Just once.

Q. And when was that?

A. A couple of weeks ago.

Q. And how long did you spend with counsel to prepare for today's deposition during that one meeting?

A. Two or three hours.

Q. Where did the meeting take place?

A. In his conference room.

Q. Did anybody participate in that meeting, other than you and Mr. Aigen, Ms. Deitsch-Perez?

A. No.

Q. I have put in front of you what we have marked as Exhibit 5, which is one of the bankruptcy court's decisions from the Acis matter, just to identify some basic facts. If you look at paragraph seven, does that refresh your recollection that Mr. Terry was terminated on June 9, 2016?

A. It doesn't refresh my recollection, but I -- if it's in here, sure.

Q. You don't have any reason to dispute that, correct?

A. I don't.

Q. Okay. Are you aware of the circumstances surrounding Mr. Terry's termination?

A. Generally.

Q. Can you tell me generally what you know about the circumstances surrounding Mr. Terry's termination?

A. From what I recall, Mr. Dondero was not happy with Mr. Terry and decided to terminate him.

Q. Do you know what made Mr. Dondero unhappy with Mr. Terry?

A. Honestly, at this point, I have kind of blanked it all out.

Q. So you have no recollection of why Mr. Dondero was so unhappy with Mr. Terry that he terminated him?

A. I don't remember if it was for performance reasons or, you know, things like that. I don't remember the specifics of what led to his termination on this date, on June 9th. Just he wasn't --

Q. Would that be -- I'm sorry.

A. He wasn't -- obviously, he wasn't happy with him. I don't remember exactly why.

Q. Okay. Were you ever an officer of Acis?

A. Yes.

Q. What position did you hold?

A. I was likely treasurer.

Q. And do you know when you became the treasurer of Acis?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Is -- do you know -- I assume you ceased to be the treasurer of Acis at some point?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you know when that was?

A. It was likely sometime during the bankruptcy.

I don't remember the exact date.

Q. Okay. Are you aware that after Mr. Terry was terminated, you and Mr. Dondero were the only officers of Acis?

A. I don't remember, but...

Q. Okay. Let's mark as Exhibit 6 -- I'm sorry.

A. I mean, I don't remember. This was long ago and I don't remember. I didn't -- we're going off memory of years ago and, you know, we were preparing on HCLOM, not Acis too. So I don't...

Q. Well, Acis is very much involved in the transactions that we're here to talk about, right? Acis entered into the original participation agreement, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay.

THE COURT REPORTER: Are we marking this?

MR. MORRIS: Yes.

(Exhibit 6 marked.)

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Have you seen this before, sir?

A. Not that I remember.

Q. Do you see that it's the consent of the sole member of Acis Capital Management, GP and it's dated June 10, 2016?

A. Yes.

Q. And at least based on Judge Jernigan's decision, this is the day after Mr. Terry was terminated?

A. Yeah. That was June 9, right?

Q. Yeah.

A. Yes.

Q. And do you see the first resolution below states that Mr. Terry was removed as the portfolio manager of the company?

A. Yes.

Q. And you and Mr. Dondero are identified as the sole officers of Acis as of that time, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know if anybody was ever added as an officer of Acis at any time prior to the Acis bankruptcy?

A. I don't remember. I -- it wasn't -- I don't remember. No, I don't remember.

Q. All right. This consent is signed by Nancy Dondero in her capacity as the trustee of the Dugaboy Investment Trust. Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever discuss your appointment as treasurer of Acis with Ms. Dondero?

A. No. I mean, if I was --

Q. Sure.

A. No, because if I was treasurer before, I wouldn't have talked to Nancy.

Q. Okay. I'm asking a broader question without regard to time.

A. Okay.

Q. Did you ever have a conversation with Nancy Dondero concerning your appointment as the treasurer of Acis?

A. No.

Q. Have you ever had a conversation with Nancy Dondero regarding anything having to do with Acis?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Do you know who made the decision that you and Mr. Dondero would be the only officers of Acis following Mr. Terry's departure?

A. I don't remember.

Q. I think we have established that in late January 2018, Mr. Terry filed an involuntary bankruptcy petition against Acis and its general partner, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you recall that sometime in the spring of 2018, Robin Phalen was appointed the trustee of the Acis entities?

A. I have heard that name, yes.

Q. And do you recall that Mr. Phalen was appointed sometime in the spring of 2018?

A. I really don't know.

Q. Okay. Do you know if there were any changes in Acis' roster of officers between June 10, 2016, and the time of Mr. Phalen's appointment as trustee?

A. I don't know.

Q. Do you know whether Acis was a registered investment advisor at least until control shifted to Mr. Phalen?

A. I generally recall that it filed form A, D & Es so that would I think make it an RAA.

Q. Would you agree that Mr. Dondero controlled Acis from at least June 2000 -- withdrawn.

Would you agree that Mr. Dondero controlled Acis at all times from at least June 10, 2016, until Mr. Phalen's appointment during the bankruptcy case?

A. Yes.

Q. Nobody else controlled Acis during that period, true?

A. I mean, Dugaboy is the -- you know, like I said, Dugaboy Investment Trust, Trustee of Acis Capital Management GP, LLC, there could have been. I mean, again, I didn't have discussions with Nancy. The other officer could have. There could have been other things. I wasn't involved in that.

Q. And you certainly never turned to Nancy Dondero for her approval with regard to anything having to do with Acis, correct?

A. I didn't talk -- I didn't talk to Nancy. I didn't have a conversation with Nancy. But again, I -- but that's my experience. I'm not saying that -- you are asking about Acis in general. I don't know if there were other things if -- you know, if she was involved in Acis, talking with Jim, I don't know.

Q. Okay. But whenever you believed you needed approval to do something in your capacity as the treasurer of Acis, you sought that approval from Mr. Dondero and nobody else, correct?

A. I -- yeah. I would talk to Jim.

Q. Okay. And the reason that you would talk to Jim is because it was your perception that he controlled Acis, correct?

A. When I was employed at Highland Capital Management, Jim Dondero was my boss.

Q. Is it your understanding that from the time Acis was formed until the bankruptcy filing in 2018, that Acis never had any employees?

A. Correct.

Q. But Acis was party to a shared services agreement as amended with Highland, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Acis was also party to an advisory agreement as amended with Highland, correct?

A. Acis -- I believe Acis and Highland were -- there was a sub-advisory agreement.

Q. Okay. And is it your understanding that Acis was able to perform its duties as portfolio manager because it had entered into the shared services agreement and the sub-advisory agreement with Highland?

A. Yes.

Q. Acis couldn't have fulfilled its duties as portfolio manager unless it entered into the shared services and sub-advisory agreements, correct?

MR. AIGEN: Object to form.

A. Yes.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Withdrawn. That's a fair objection.

The services that Acis received from Highland under the shared services agreement as amended and the sub-advisory agreement as amended were required in order to enable Acis to fulfill its duties as portfolio manager, correct?

MR. AIGEN: Object to form.

A. Yes. Acis hadn't -- had no employees.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Right. And Acis paid Highland for those services under those two agreements as amended, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Let's take a look at those agreements for a moment. The first one we'll look at is The Second Amended and Restated Sub-Advisory Agreement, which we will mark as Exhibit 7 and actually attached to it as Exhibit A is the Shared Services Agreement. So it's all in one document.

(Exhibit 7 marked.)

A. Thank you.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) And the first document here is The Second Amended and Restated Sub-Advisory Agreement.

Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. And if you turn to the page ending in Bates Number 5305, you will see some signatures. Let me know when you are there.

A. I'm there.

Q. Okay. And am I right that Mr. Dondero signed this agreement on behalf of both Acis and Highland Capital Management?

A. Yes.

Q. And this document is signed the month after Mr. Terry was terminated, correct?

A. Um.

Q. At the top. I apologize. It said it was made this 29th day of July 2016 but effective as of the beginning of the year. Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. So Mr. Dondero signs this agreement the month after he terminates Mr. Terry, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you aware that a second amended and restated sub-advisory agreement was being prepared?

A. I don't recall. I don't remember.

Q. Do you recall discussing whether Acis sub-advisory agreement with Highland needed to be amended at any time in the summer of 2016?

A. I wasn't -- I don't -- I wasn't in any of those discussions. If those discussions were had, I wasn't in those discussions, that I can recall.

Q. Did anybody ask for your input with respect to any of the terms of the proposed second amended and restated sub-advisory agreement?

A. I don't remember. And this was -- I don't remember.

Q. Okay. Do you recall doing any analysis in connection with the preparation of this document?

A. This was eight years ago; I don't remember.

Q. Do you recall whether you directed anybody on your team to undertake any work or any analysis in connection with the preparation of this agreement?

A. I don't remember. I don't remember. I mean -- when I'm saying I don't remember, could it have happened? Maybe. Could it have not happened? Maybe. I don't remember.

Q. Okay. And, Mr. Waterhouse, we have done this a few times. And you must know that "I don't remember" is a perfectly reasonable answer if you don't remember.

A. Yeah. I don't.

Q. Okay? I don't mean to embarrass you. I don't mean to make you uncomfortable. I do understand it was a while ago. I'm just going to ask my questions and if you remember, great. If you don't, just say "I don't remember."

What I don't want you to do is say "I don't remember" when you do; is that fair?

A. Yeah. Sure.

Q. Okay. Do you know why the sub-advisory agreement was amended and restated the month after Mr. Terry was terminated?

A. I don't remember. I don't recall. I don't know.

Q. Do you know if Mr. Terry's departure was a factor in the decision to amend and restate the sub-advisory agreement?

A. I don't remember what the sub-advisory agreement said. I would have to read -- yeah, I don't remember the sub-advisory agreement.

Q. Okay. Let's take a look at Section 2 of this document where the heading is Sub-Advisory Duties. Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Is it generally fair -- is it fair to summarize this paragraph as saying that Highland, in its capacity as the sub-advisor, would provide both the shared services as set forth in Exhibit A and it would also provide advisory services as set forth in this document?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And at the time, Highland was controlled by Mr. Dondero, right? As Highland's president?

A. Yes.

Q. And Highland was to provide the shared services and the advisory services to Acis in its capacity as the investment manager, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And Acis was also controlled by Mr. Dondero at the time, correct? In his capacity as Acis president?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Turn to page five, please. And we'll look at paragraph five, Compensation. Simply take your time to read it and let me know when you have done that.

A. Okay.

Q. All right. Did you have any input into paragraph five?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you remember having any conversation with anybody in July 2016 concerning the compensation that Highland was to receive from Acis in exchange for this shared services and the sub-advisory services Highland was going to provide?

A. I remember having general conversations with Mr. Dondero, but this was eight years ago.

Q. Do you remember anything about those general conversations?

A. I just remember we had discussions about -- but I don't -- again, I just remember there were just discussions.

Q. Okay. And is it fair to just summarize paragraph five by saying the compensation for shared services was set forth in the shared services agreement attached as Exhibit A and the compensation for the sub-advisor fees were going to be set forth in Schedule A to this agreement?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. So let's just take a look at Schedule A. It's on the page ending Bates Number 5306.

A. Okay.

Q. All right. Simple question. Is it your understanding that under this agreement, Acis agreed to pay Highland 20 bases points for sub-advisory services?

A. That's -- as I am reading it now, that's what it appears to say.

Q. And does that interpretation of this agreement comport with your memory, did Acis in fact begin paying Highland 20 bases points for sub-advisory services in July 2016?

A. I don't re- -- I mean, there was a prior sub-advisory agreement. I don't recall when Acis started paying Highland fees as sub-advisory. I don't remember.

Q. Is it your recollection that there was a period of time when Highland was providing sub-advisory services to Acis without compensation, without receiving compensation?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you remember if there was any method of calculating the compensation by which Acis would pay Highland for sub-advisory services, other than 20 bases points?

A. I don't remember how, you know, how 20 bases points was derived. I don't remember.

Q. Do you know who determined that the compensation would be set at 20 bases points?

A. I mean, I -- since Mr. Dondero signed the agreement I would -- I mean, I -- the assumption is he was fine with 20 bases points being the appropriate amount of fees to be remitted to Highland.

Q. And even though you were the treasurer of both -- well, withdrawn.

Even though you were the treasurer of Acis and the CFO of Highland at this time, you don't know whether the 20 bases points set forth in Schedule A represented a change in the method of compensation for sub-advisory services; is that fair?

A. Yeah. I don't remember something that happened eight years ago. I don't remember what was on the initial document. I mean, I -- if we had the other document we could compare the first document to this document but I don't remember.

Q. Do you know if this was ever an issue in the Acis bankruptcy case, the amount of fees that were being charged pursuant to this agreement?

A. I wasn't involved in the Acis bankruptcy case.

Q. Okay. The last sentence says quote, "The parties may agree to a different allocation from that set forth above during any period in order to reflect the then current fair market value of the services rendered."

Do you see that? I'm still on Exhibit A or Schedule A.

A. I'm --

Q. Yeah, it ends in 06.

A. 06.

Q. Take your time. Do you see that last sentence?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Do you have any recollection as to whether the parties ever agreed to a different allocation than the 20 bases points set forth in Schedule A?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Okay. Do you see that it's -- the fee is retroactive to January 1st, 2016?

A. It says effective January 1st, 2016.

Q. Do you recall any discussion as to why the agreement was made retroactive to January 1st, 2016?

A. I don't. I mean, I don't -- I don't --

Q. Do you recall whether Acis had to pay Highland any money on account of the retroactive date of January 1, 2016 to make Highland whole?

A. I don't recall. I -- but if the agreement was effective as of another date, I mean, you know, I just don't remember. I mean, I just don't remember what happened.

To the extent that the document that was executed, you know, one date but effective another date, what happened, you know, to make that effective.

Q. Okay. But the fact that it's retroactive to January does suggest to you that there is a change, right? Otherwise, there would be no reason to make it retroactive, fair?

A. Yeah. Yeah. I mean, fair.

Q. But you just don't know what the change is as you sit here today, fair?

A. Yeah. I don't remember.

Q. And you don't know who determined what the change would be, fair?

A. I mean, I don't. I don't -- I don't -- again, I don't -- I don't remember what -- again, I don't -- can't even -- I can't tell you if there was a change because I don't have the other document.

And again, presume -- I don't know if

Mr. Dondero determined this number -- you know, I mean, he signed the document, but I don't know.

Q. Is it fair to say that from your prospective, Mr. Dondero would have had to have approved the 20-bases-point formula on behalf of both Acis and Highland before it was effective?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Do you recall whether any analysis of -- withdrawn.

To the best of your knowledge, as Acis' treasurer and Highland's CFO, was -- did Acis pay Highland 20 bases points for sub-advisory agreements from January 1, 2016 until the time Brigade took over in the summer of 2018?

A. I recall Acis remitting payments to Highland. But I don't recall when that started or exactly when it -- you know, I don't -- or when it stopped. I don't -- don't have those details from that long ago.

Q. Okay. Let's go to Section 10 of this agreement. No, I apologize, it's 14. Do you see Section 14 deals with duration and termination?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And do you see that in Subpart A on page six, there's a reference to the agreement being in effect for ten years?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And then on the next page it says that "Subject to Section 14(b), the agreement could be terminated under (i) by Highland at any time with 60 days written notice."

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Are you aware as to whether or not Highland ever provided written notice of termination under this agreement?

A. I'm not aware.

Q. You never saw a written termination of this agreement, correct?

A. Yeah. No. I'm not aware.

Q. And nobody ever told you that Highland had given notice of termination of this agreement, correct?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. And the shared services agreement was amended and restated at the same time, correct? If you take a look at the agreement beginning with the page ending in Bates Number 5308, do you see that's the Third Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement?

A. Yes.

Q. And again, if you go to page 12 of the agreement ending in Bates Number 5319, can you confirm that Mr. Dondero signed on behalf of both parties?

A. Yes.

Q. And were you aware that the shared services agreement was being amended in the summer of 2016?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Okay. Do you recall whether anybody asked for your input with respect to any of the terms of this agreement?

A. I don't recall specifically. But generally, with shared services agreements, you know, there was an analysis, you know, we tried to put together to estimate the cost of providing services under Annex A.

Q. Okay. Do you have any recollection as to why the shared services agreement was amended and restated at this time?

A. I -- I don't remember what prompted this to be amended and restated.

Q. Okay. Turn to Article IV on page four, please.

Are you familiar with the methodology set forth in Article -- in Section 4.01?

A. I don't recall this cost allocation formula but I -- I am reading it now.

Okay.

Q. Was there somebody on your team who was responsible for making sure that Acis paid Highland the proper amounts under this amended and restated shared services agreement?

A. There would be someone who would be responsible for that.

Q. Do you recall who that person was?

A. I don't -- it would have been someone on the corporate accounting team.

Q. And so would that be either Mr. Closs or Ms. Hendrix?

A. Yes. I mean -- okay. We're going back to 2016. I don't remember what their titles were eight years ago but we had other individuals there. You know, Drew -- there were other individuals besides Mr. Closs, Ms. Hendrix -- Ms. Hendrix, you know, we typically had another accountant. So it would have been someone on that team.

Q. And it would have been someone who reported to you, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know if Highland sent bills to Acis for shared services or did Acis just remit payment to Highland?

A. I didn't generate any of these invoices, but for form they -- Highland should have, you know, generated an invoice out of the accounting system to bill Acis for the services rendered.

And I can't tell you sitting here today what was provided but it was always -- we always tried to, you know, to the extent possible provide support.

Q. All right. If we go back to Article IV, is it fair to summarize it as saying that in Subpart A, if there is an item demonstratively attributable to Acis, Acis will pay a hundred percent of the cost; if a specific percentage could be identified, that under B, that specific percentage would be charged, but under C, if you are not really sure, you would go to exhibit B -- Annex B?

A. No. If you weren't sure, it says that cost would be allocated between fee-earning assets. So you would -- I -- what I'm reading is you would take Acis' proportion of the fee-earning assets related to Highland and they would be allocated that way.

Q. Okay. And if you look at Annex B, which is the last page --

A. And annex -- that's what this said. Maybe that's what Annex B says. I'm just reading.

Q. That's okay.

So am I reading this correctly that under Annex B, if to the extent Annex B was being relied upon to set the shared service fee, Acis was agreeing to pay 15 bases points from each of the funds that it managed?

A. Yeah. It looks like -- yes. So under Annex B, there was a 15 bases point shared service fee that was being paid from these funds listed in the annex, to Highland.

Q. Okay. Can you recall at any time after June of 2016 that Acis was charged 100 percent of an item that was demonstratively attributable to it? I'm looking at 4.01A. Yeah. Let me try this differently.

Are you aware of any methodology that was used to calculate the fees due for shared services, other than the application of the 15 bases points, after the summer of 2016?

A. I -- what I do remember is, if there were costs attributable to Acis outside of this annex, Acis was charged those expenses. They paid those expenses. I don't recall that changing in time, so after 2016. I don't recall that changing.

So to the extent there were items that were allocable to Acis under this cost allocation, I don't recall that changing.

Q. Okay. Is it fair to say, looking at the two documents, the sub-advisory agreement and the shared services agreement, that it's your understanding of -- both based on recollection and looking at the documents now, that Acis was going to pay Highland a total of 35 bases points for sub-advisory services and shared services?

A. Under these documents, yes.

Q. Okay. Can we go to Section 7.02, Termination. And you will see in Subpart A, it says that "Subject to 7.02(b), either party may terminate this agreement upon at least 30 days' advance written notice at any time prior to expiration."

Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. To the best of your knowledge, did either party ever provide 30 days' written notice of termination of this agreement?

A. I -- earlier I said that Highland notified Acis that it would not be providing services. That's what I recall.

Q. Okay. So let me ask my question again.

A. Uh-huh.

Q. To the best of your knowledge, did either party ever provide 30 days' written notice of termination of this agreement as set forth in Section 7.02 A?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Okay. Did you ever see a written notice of termination?

A. I may have. I don't remember.

Q. Okay.

A. I don't recall.

Q. Okay. Did anybody ever tell you that the -- that the written notice of termination had been tendered by one party to the other?

A. That -- I don't remember. This was -- I don't know how many years -- I don't remember.

Q. Okay. In fact, both of these agreements were amended in 2017, right?

A. This is -- this is made in July 2016.

Q. That's right.

And do you recall that the following spring in 2017, the agreements were amended yet again?

A. I -- again, this was years ago. I don't remember.

Q. Okay. Let's just look at them quickly and then we can take our lunch break.

(Exhibit 8 marked.)

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) So I have marked as Exhibit 8, the Fourth Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement dated March 17, 2017. You know what, I'm just going to go ahead and mark as Exhibit 9, the Third Amended and Restated Sub-Advisory Agreement also dated March 17, 2017.

(Exhibit 9 marked.)

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) And looking at Exhibit 8, do you see the title page, the Fourth Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement between Acis and Highland dated March 17, 2017?

A. Yes.

Q. And if you go to the page ending in Bates Number 3337, do you see that Mr. Dondero has signed on behalf of both entities again?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And if you look at the last page, do you see the annualized staff and services fees is 15 bases points for each of the funds?

A. Yeah. Yes. Yes.

Q. Okay. And if we look at Exhibit 9, that's the Third Amended and Restated Sub-Advisory Agreement between Acis and Highland dated also March 17, 2017.

Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. And if you go to page ending in Bates Number 3483, you will see Mr. Dondero has signed on behalf of both parties, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And if you go to Exhibit A, the chart that's on the page ending in 3485, you will see that the sub-advisory fee was 20 bases points, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. So that with these amended agreements, Acis agreed, again, to pay a total of 35 bases points to Highland on account of the shared services and sub-advisory services, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And do you know why the agreements were amended and restated in March 2017?

A. I don't remember.

Q. This is -- so if Mr. Terry was terminated in June of 2016, this is about nine months after he was terminated, right?

A. Yes.

Q. So is it fair to say that Acis was still the vehicle through which the Acis CLOs were expected to be managed?

A. Yeah. I mean, these are the agreements in place, correct. That's right.

Q. Well, you wouldn't go through the trouble of amending and restating agreements if you didn't think that Acis was going to continue to be the portfolio manager of the Acis CLOs; is that fair?

A. Yes. I mean, I -- I don't know why these are restated, but, yes, there is agreements that -- there is sub-advisory, there's shared services arrangements between Highland and Acis dated in March, so...

Q. And through these -- through Mr. Dondero's execution of these agreements on behalf of both parties, it was your understanding that Acis would continue to manage the Acis CLOs for the foreseeable future, fair?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall whether as of the first quarter of 2017 anybody ever suggesting that Acis should not continue to manage the Acis CLOs?

A. I don't recall.

Q. You don't recall any of the investors expressing any concerns about the continuation of Acis as the portfolio manager of the Acis CLOs, correct?

A. Yeah. I never talked to the CLO investors directly, so I would hear things secondhand. I don't recall any of those conversations.

Q. Right. You don't recall anybody telling you in the first quarter of 2017 that they had heard from investors that they had concerns about Acis continuing on as the manager of the Acis CLOs; is that fair?

A. Yeah. Not at this time. In 2018, with all the problems with Acis, yes, there were -- I remember discussions happening then. But not -- these agreements are dated in March of 2017.

Q. Okay. We can turn to Article VII, which at Section 7.01, which is on the page ending in Bates Number 3332. Okay. At the bottom it says, "Either party may terminate this agreement at any time upon at least 30 days' written notice to the other."

Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know if either party ever gave written notice of termination to the other party pursuant to this provision?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Have you ever seen written notice of termination of this agreement pursuant to Section 7.01?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you recall whether anybody ever told you that written notice of termination was given?

A. I don't remember.

Q. In fact, this agreement was never terminated, correct?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

MR. MORRIS: Withdrawn.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) To the best of your knowledge, sir, this agreement was never terminated, was it?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. I mean, yeah. I mean, what --

MR. MORRIS: Withdrawn.

I appreciate the objection now that I realize what he was objecting to.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) To the best of your knowledge, this agreement was not -- was never terminated until the transition of services to Brigade in August of 2018, correct?

A. I don't even know that. I don't know. I don't recall. All -- what I do remember is there was the involuntary bankruptcies we talked about and there was a TRO put in place. I don't remember -- usually when TROs are put in place, everything stays as is.

So I don't -- I don't remember if and when this was terminated or what the TRO did -- I don't recall. I wasn't involved in those proceedings.

Q. Do you recall that there was a time that Brigade replaced Highland as the provider of shared services and advisory services to Acis?

A. I recall the name Brigade that -- now that you bring that up. I don't remember what capacity they served.

Q. Okay.

A. But they were involved, you know, while the bankruptcy was going on.

Q. Okay. Is it fair to say that you have no reason to believe the shared services agreement was terminated prior to the Acis bankruptcy?

MR. AIGEN: Object to form.

A. I don't know.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Okay. Let's turn to Section 8.01. That deals with amendments. Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. The agreement cannot -- withdrawn.

"The agreement may not be amended or modified except by an instrument on writing signed by each party."

Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know if the parties ever amended or modified this agreement in writing?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Have you ever seen a writing signed by both parties that amended or modified this agreement?

A. I may have. I don't remember.

Q. Okay. Do you remember if anybody ever told you that a written amendment or modification existed?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Okay. The next section is 8.02; it deals with assignment and delegation. Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know if this agreement was ever assigned or delegated to anybody?

A. I don't remember this ever -- that ever happening, so I don't recall.

Q. You never saw a written consent pursuant to Section 8.02, pursuant to which, you know, all or any of the rights or responsibilities under this agreement were assigned or delegated, correct?

A. Again, I may have. I don't remember. This was years ago. I may have at some point. I just don't remember.

Q. Okay. Do you remember if anybody ever told you that Acis or Highland had assigned or delegated any part of their rights or obligations under this agreement?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Looking at Subsection C, there's a reference to the staff and services provider.

That's Highland, correct?

A. The agreement doesn't say Highland but, I mean, I don't think it names Highland. It just says staff and services provider.

Q. If you look on the very first page.

A. Uh-huh. Is it Highland?

Q. Yeah. Ending in 3319.

A. Okay.

Q. You see there's a reference to Highland Capital Management as the staff --

A. Staff and services provider.

Q. Okay.

A. Yes.

Q. So you will agree, based on that, that Highland is the staff and services provider referred to in Section 8.02(c)?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you see that it didn't need to obtain prior written consent to assign any of its rights or obligations under the agreement as long as it was assigning it to an affiliate under the circumstances set forth in that paragraph?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. So do you know whether Highland ever assigned any of its rights or obligations under this agreement to any affiliate?

A. Not that I'm aware.

Q. Have you ever seen anything, any document that purported to assign any of Highland's rights or obligations under this agreement to an affiliate?

A. I'm not aware.

Q. And you don't have any recollection of anybody ever telling you that Highland had assigned any of its rights or obligations under this agreement to an affiliate, correct?

A. Yeah. I don't recall any of those discussions.

Q. Okay. Let's just knock off the sub-advisory agreement and then we'll take a break. If we can switch to Exhibit 9. Again, I apologize if I asked you this question, but if you turn to page ending in Bates Number 3483, can you just confirm that those are Mr. Dondero's signatures?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you have any recollection as to why the sub-advisory agreement was amended and restated in March of 2017?

A. I don't.

Q. If you take a look at -- oh, no, look at that.

Let's go to Section 6, Termination, which is page eight.

A. Okay.

Q. Okay. So for purposes of this agreement, Acis is identified as the management company and Highland is either Highland or the sub-advisor.

Do you see under 6(a), Acis had the ability to terminate this agreement upon 30 days' prior written notice to Highland?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Do you know if Acis ever gave written notice of termination of this agreement to Highland?

A. I'm not aware.

Q. Okay. Did anybody ever tell you that Acis had provided written notice of termination of this agreement?

A. I don't recall any of those discussions.

Q. Okay. Do you know if this agreement was ever terminated by anybody at any time prior to the Acis bankruptcy?

A. I'm not aware of that.

Q. You never saw any document that stated that the Third Amended and Restated Sub-Advisory Agreement had been terminated prior to the Acis bankruptcy, correct?

A. The third -- I don't remember seeing a document.

Q. And nobody ever told you that the Third Amended and Restated Sub-Advisory Agreement had been terminated at any time prior to the bankruptcy, correct?

A. I don't -- yeah, I don't remember those conversations but...

Q. Okay. If we can turn to page nine, Section 9. That deals with amendments and assignments.

Do you know if this agreement was ever amended?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Did you ever see any document that purported to amend this agreement?

A. There could be a fourth amendment. I don't remember.

Q. Okay. Do you recall if anybody ever told you that this agreement was amended?

A. I don't remember. And again, I don't know.

Q. Okay.

A. There could be an amendment. I don't remember.

Q. How about assignment, are you aware of this agreement ever being assigned to anybody?

A. I'm not aware of that.

Q. Have you seen a -- do you recall ever seeing any documents that purported to assign this agreement to anybody?

A. No. I don't recall any.

Q. Did anybody ever tell you that Highland had assigned any of its rights or obligations under this agreement to an affiliate?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. All right.

MR. MORRIS: Let's break.

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: Off the record. The time is 12:26.

(Lunch break from 12:26 p.m. to 1:13 p.m.)

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: Back on the record. The time is 1:13.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Mr. Waterhouse, are you ready to proceed?

A. Yes.

MR. MORRIS: Mr. Aigen, you ready to go?

MR. AIGEN: Absolutely.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) We're going to mark as the next exhibit, Exhibit Number 10, the Acis -- the agreement for purchase and sale of CLO participation agreements that begins with Bates Number ending in 3384.

THE COURT REPORTER: Oh.

MR. MORRIS: Uh-huh. You're up.

(Exhibit 10 marked.)

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) All right. Have you seen this document before, sir?

A. Yes.

Q. What is it?

A. To summarize, Highland purchased an interest of -- interest in Acis' SM management fees.

Q. And what did it pay for the -- what -- do you have an understanding of what it paid for that interest, if anything?

A. What Highland actually purchased -- I mean, it exchanged a promissory note for that.

Q. So is it your understanding that -- we'll look at this in a bit. Okay. Do you know who prepared this document?

A. What I recall is like on page nine, Hunton & Williams was involved, which is why they were referenced under Section 5.6. But I don't recall specifically who prepared this.

But I remember an outside law firm being involved and it could have been involved with in-house attorneys again, but there was -- there was several -- there were many people involved in this.

Q. Okay. And if you go to the page ending in 3398, can you just confirm for me that Mr. Dondero signed this agreement on behalf of both Acis and Highland?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Do you know who came up with the idea to enter into this agreement, the idea of a participation interest agreement?

A. I mean, yeah. Generally, yeah. It was -- this agreement and a promissory note were the -- it was an overall tax -- it was a tax-driven strategy to enter into these agreements, both on Acis' and Highland's part.

Q. And is it your understanding that that's the purpose of this agreement and the note, was that those -- the entry into both agreements was part of a tax strategy?

A. I would say generally tax and there's also, from Highland's prospective, some cash management advantages as well.

Q. What cash management advantages were there from this arrangement?

A. Well, I mean Highland would receive fees in advance of when they had to pay them out. So they had the ability to use cash. It is like -- it's kind of like -- what's a good analogy? Like, you have the cash, you can use it, right? And then you don't have to pay for it until a later day.

Q. Okay. So if I understand you correctly, Acis was going to pay Highland the servicer fees at a faster rate than Highland was supposed to pay under the terms of the note?

A. Yeah. Acis was remitting fees as they received them on a quarterly bases, while Highland's obligation to remit payments under the note were done on a yearly bases.

Q. So that -- and at the end of the process, was the expectation that Highland would pay to Acis an amount that equalled what Acis was expected to pay to Highland?

A. I don't remember the specifics of the numbers. I think there -- I think it's in the ballpark.

Q. So that at any given moment in time, Acis may have paid more to Highland than Highland paid to Acis, but the expectation was at the end of the agreement, everybody should be about equal; is that fair?

A. I mean, maybe Acis has paid a little more and -- but, yeah. I mean, I -- I, again, it's a timing so -- and, again, not -- there's all sorts of calculations that go into what the quarterly service fees are, right?

The promissory note was fixed at inception. You know, you could have assets that go down in the -- right in the -- again, there's a lot of unknowns going in the future. But I think in -- if you just take the assumption that nothing -- everything stays kind of static and the same, which it's very hard to predict the future, the cash flows are in a ballpark.

Q. Okay.

A. Yeah.

Q. Okay. And that was the intent; is that fair?

A. Yeah. I mean, I think, yeah. I mean, I think the intent of -- yes.

Q. Okay.

A. Yes.

Q. Did you participate in any discussions concerning this agreement before it was actually executed?

A. Yes. I was involved in discussions, for sure.

Q. And do you remember the substance of any of the discussions?

A. I mean, the substance was around -- and in tax planning, it was around, just like I said, you know, cash management. But it's more optimizing, you know, they're more focused around tax.

Q. And who is "they"?

A. Just with internal tax folks at Highland and outside tax counsel.

Q. And who is the internal tax folks that you spoke to?

A. It would have been Mark Patrick, Rick Swadley.

Q. Did you speak with Mr. Dondero about this agreement before you signed it?

A. Yes. Yes. We definitely spoke with Jim.

Q. And was Jim supportive of creating a mechanism that would assist in tax planning and cash management?

A. Yes.

Q. Are you aware of any discussions with anybody at any time that suggested there was a purpose or intent with the participation and agreement other than tax planning and cash management?

A. I generally, what I generally remember is that these were, again, the drivers for the transaction.

Q. Okay. And this agreement is entered into in October 2016, if you look at the first page; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. And this is just four months after Mr. Terry was terminated, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And just maybe a month after litigation was commenced between Terry and Highland, correct?

A. I don't recall the -- when litigation between Terry and Highland commenced.

Q. Did anything happen in September or October of 2016 that caused folks to think that of -- that that was the right moment to do this tax planning and cash management through these agreements?

A. I don't recall a significant, you know, "Oh, this really happened therefore" -- you know, at Highland we are tax planning and, you know, optimizing things are always just part of the job.

Q. Okay. Do you know whether the concept of a participation agreement was ever considered before Mr. Terry was terminated?

A. Again, we're going back many years. I don't -- I remember we had discussions over the years of things of this nature. I can't really put in a timeline around was it post or pre Mr. Terry being terminated.

But there were always discussions around tax optimization. It's just so long ago to pinpoint where exactly on the timeline these discussions took place.

Q. Okay. Do you know whether Mr. Terry's termination and subsequent litigation was a factor at all in the decision to enter into this agreement?

A. I don't recall that being a factor.

Q. And do you know if any option was considered to address the tax issues and the cash management issues, other than the participation agreement and note?

A. We strive to come up with different tax planning ideas year to year. I don't recall what other options were available in 2016.

But there are, I guess, as past practices we do try to brainstorm as business conditions change and, you know, tax laws change, things like that, various options.

But I can't tell you, sitting here today, what was on the table in 2016. I just don't remember.

Q. Did -- could a loan have addressed the issues that you have identified, the cash management and tax issues, if Highland had just loaned Acis the money?

A. No. I don't believe so. No.

Q. Is -- Acis was a pass-through entity, correct?

A. Yeah. I mean, Acis was a partnership, yes.

Q. Do you know who the ultimate beneficial owners of Acis was at the time the participation agreement was executed?

A. Um.

Q. Is that just Dugaboy and Mr. Okada?

A. I don't remember. Mr. Terry was an owner in Acis. I don't remember when he -- when his -- I think -- his ownership, right, was -- I don't remember if it was terminated when he was terminated or exactly what happened to that.

But, yes, there was a point where there were three owners in Acis and then it was Mr. Okada and Mr. Dugaboy -- or Dugaboy.

Q. Okay. So you mentioned that tax benefits were one of the drivers of this agreement; is that right?

A. Correct.

Q. And Acis is a pass-through entity, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Who was the beneficiary on the Acis side -- withdrawn.

Were Acis' ultimate beneficial owners the beneficiary of the tax benefits on the Acis side?

A. Yes.

Q. And the same is true with respect to Highland, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Highland was a pass-through entity, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And this transaction and the note together created tax benefits for the beneficial owners of Highland, correct?

A. Yes. And the beneficial owners of Acis, as well.

Q. All right.

A. Because they're one and the same. Unless Mr. Terry somehow in there and I can't -- I don't remember what -- when he exited.

Q. Do you have an understanding of what the tax benefit was?

A. Yes.

Q. What's your understanding of the tax benefit?

A. It's a deferral of income.

Q. And who was deferring the income?

A. Acis.

Q. And how did this agreement and the note permit Acis to defer income?

A. The income that Acis paid to Highland was not -- was not reported as income upon receipt, upon Highland receiving. The income would then be reported as when -- when Acis -- when there were payments made to Acis is -- is -- I mean, that's what I generally remember. I mean, I could be screwing this up.

Q. And how about from the Highland side? How did Highland -- how did the beneficial owners of Highland receive a tax benefit from the entry into the participation agreement and note?

A. From what I recall, income on the Highland side was shielded by other tax planning.

Q. And is that through Hunter Mountain?

A. I mean, Hunter Mountain was involved. I don't think it's Hunter Mountain.

Q. Well, was Highland able to write off the income it received from Acis against the debt that Hunter Mountain had as the beneficial owner of Highland?

A. I don't think it would work like that.

Q. Okay. I'll just ask one more time and I -- I can see of we can do this a clean way.

Can you describe for me the tax benefits from the participation agreement and the note for Highland and its beneficial owners?

A. Highland received income from Acis which was shielded at the Highland level, and then as cash went out from Highland to Acis, that income was then picked up at the Acis' level.

So therefore the timing between the cash being received and paid by Acis to Highland versus the deferral of recognition of income just, you know, it created tax benefit because you are deferring when taxes are eventually being paid. Taxes are being paid; it's just a deferral.

Q. Do you know if anybody quantified the tax benefit to Acis or Acis' ultimate beneficial owners from the participation agreement and note arrangement?

A. Yes. I remember generally.

Q. What do you remember generally about that?

A. I remember working with Hunton & Williams and there were models that were put together to basically, you know, calculate what the benefits were.

Q. Do you have any recollection as to the range of the benefits?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you remember if it was more than a million dollars?

A. I don't remember, but it likely was.

Q. And how about from the Highland side? Was a similar analysis done to attempt to quantify the tax benefits to Highland from entering into the participation agreement and note?

A. It would have been done from both sides. So -- and sorry. To clarify that, a million dollars of that was specifically -- if that was just what Acis was saving. I'm just remembering generally from the transaction just with both parties.

I can't say with specificity what did Acis say, what did Highland say. I don't remember those details. But it was significant enough where, you know, this transaction with tax benefits was put together.

Q. And is it your understanding at the time that, other than perhaps Josh Terry, the ultimate beneficial owners of Acis were the same as the ultimate beneficial owners of Highland?

A. Yes. I mean, Highland has -- I mean, what I recall from Acis is you had Dugaboy and you had Mr. Okada. At Highland you had -- on the Okada side you had other trusts that I remember being owners in Highland. I don't -- I can't -- I wasn't involved with Mr. Okada that much.

So if you are saying are they the exact same people? I don't know, because I don't know how those trusts reported income, what kind of trusts they were on Mr. Okada's side.

I mean, there were Okada entities involved; there were Dondero-related entities involved.

Q. Can you identify the Dondero-related entities?

A. I mean, it would have been Dugaboy.

Q. Okay. So is it fair to say that other than Mr. Terry, all of the beneficial owners of Acis and Highland at the time the participation agreement and note were entered into, were entities that were either owned, controlled, or affiliated with Mr. Dondero and Mr. Okada?

A. Yes. Unless Mr. Akada's trusts -- again, I --

Q. Right.

A. -- I don't know how those trusts were structured.

Q. Okay.

A. So maybe there was a different beneficiary other than Mr. Okada and those trusts. I don't know.

Q. And so the analysis that Hunton & Williams did, was that an analysis done to determine the net tax benefit looking at both entities at once or were each entity looked at in isolation, if you recall?

A. I don't remember. I just remember generally they were putting together calculations. I don't remember if it was separate, whether it was together or anything like that.

Q. Okay. Now you were the treasurer of Acis and the CFO of Highland at the time, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Would you have recommended this transaction to Mr. Dondero if the only benefit were the cash management issues that you identified earlier and that there was no tax benefit?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. I don't remember -- I don't remember the cash -- I don't remember the significance of the cash -- I mean -- and I don't remember where cash was. So -- I don't know. I mean, what I do recall is there were cash benefits and there were also tax benefits. So, again --

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Do you know -- do you recall if anybody did any analysis to determine the benefit to Highland on the cash management side, on the cash management issue? Was that ever quantified?

A. I think what I remember generally, it was part of these models or whatever was put together. It was, you know, again, another benefit of the transaction.

Q. All right. So if the cash management was a benefit to Highland, then it must have been a disadvantage to Acis; is that fair?

A. No. As we talked about, there was a -- it had these advisory agreements and shared services agreements. But if it had -- and it didn't have any other employees or really any other, you know, significant expenses.

So if it is just sitting on -- if it just has cash that's just sitting there and it's not doing anything, you know, I wouldn't say it would hurt Acis, you know.

Q. How could the flow of funds under the participation and note benefit one side without hurting the other side? Isn't it binary?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. Well, I mean, I'm looking at this to the -- yeah. I -- like, well, I guess, you are right there -- well, there is a benefit to Highland. So if the opposite of that is could Acis have used that cash for another purpose? Sure. It could have decided to have done that.

I think it looked at this transaction and said, "Hey, you know, this transaction overall with the tax benefits and everything is beneficial, you know, there are benefits." So there could be cash management detriments. But I think maybe, you know, in this transaction it says, well, you know, we do benefit better off from tax, you know, prospective.

So I think if there were some cash management detriments to Acis, which I can't really -- it could have invested the money or something like that. But it made the decision that it was -- that was in the best benefit or interest of Acis.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Is it true that prior to the entry into this agreement, Acis used its revenue to pay its expenses and to make annual distributions to its equity holders?

A. Acis -- yes. I, you know, recall Acis paid for its expenses and then there were distributions made to its owners. I don't remember the amounts, magnitude, and frequency. I just don't remember those details but I generally recall that.

Q. Okay. If you take a look at the agreement, the first page and you look down at the fourth whereas clause, it says that the seller here, which is Acis, was -- I'm summarizing and paraphrasing. If you disagree with my summary or paraphrasing, let me know.

But Acis was engaged -- had engaged a banker to try to actively market a new CLO to prospective investors. Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that true at that time?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Okay. Were you involved? Do you recall being involved in any activities relating to the marketing of the new CLO to prospective investors in October of 2016?

A. I don't remember. I mean -- I -- yeah. I don't remember.

Q. Okay. Do you see the next whereas clause refers to a risk retention amount?

A. Yes.

Q. And are you generally familiar with the concept of risk retention mandates of managers of CLOs?

A. Yes.

Q. And what's your general understanding of the risk retention mandate?

A. It's -- the manager of the CLOs has to retain a certain interest, like it says here, in -- in the equity of the CLO.

Q. Okay. And then the next whereas clause refers to a joint venture with another entity to originate and sponsor new CLO investments pursuant to which Acis would contribute 51 percent of the risk retention amount.

Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know anything about that?

A. I don't -- I don't remember it.

Q. Do you have any idea who the joint venture partner was?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you know if there was a joint venture partner?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Do you know how it was decided that Acis would contribute 51 percent of the risk retention amount?

A. I -- I don't remember. I guess, like I said earlier, we had a special group at Highland that all they did was manage the CLOs. They managed the investments. You know, that's -- that was all their purview.

Q. Okay. Do you see towards the bottom, the next of the last whereas clause says, quote, "Cash flows from the servicer fees are unpredictable and unstable."

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know who made that determination?

A. I guess, I don't understand -- I think -- I guess I don't understand the question. Any investments that are -- or any fees that are calculated on an investment portfolio, right, investment portfolio by nature can go up, go down. So I just...

Q. So was that a known fact for a long time?

A. I think it was a general fact about investments in general. So it's like, I mean.

Q. That's all that is intended to convey, is that investments can fluctuate?

A. That's how I read. Like earlier I testified like, hey, there's, you know, your -- Acis is paying management fees on Acis. Right? Those can be -- those vary as market conditions can -- market conditions dictate.

And, you know, markets depending on -- sometimes we've got bear, you know, bull markets or bear markets, right? We could have recessions. How I read that is I think it's unpredictable and completely unstable.

Q. Okay. Servicer fees are paid by the issuer to the portfolio manager, right?

A. Servicer fee -- so, yeah. Those are paid by the CLO to the manager of the CLO but they are paid by the -- there's a trustee at the CLO. The trustee is the one who calculates that and pays that out.

Q. And as -- in the trustee's capacity is the agent for the CLO, right? The trustee is not paying its own money, is it?

A. Yeah. No, the trustee is the trustee over the CLO. Yeah.

Q. So --

A. Yeah, I mean, yeah.

Q. And this agreement related to participation interest only in the CLOs that are identified on Schedule A at Bates Number ending 3399, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. You know, the first of those CLOs was formed in 2013, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Did Acis do anything from 2013 until this agreement was entered into to mitigate the risk of investments in the manner that you described earlier? The instability and the unpredictability of the servicing fees, did they do anything to mitigate that risk until now?

A. I mean, I -- just generally, that's the job of the portfolio manager is to -- right? You're managing assets to provide a return but also mitigate risks. I mean, that's just -- that's just -- you know, so I guess it's a long way of saying yes.

But I guess I just don't understand the question, because that's their job.

Q. I appreciate that's their job.

I'm asking you if you can identity anything that Acis did prior to October 2016 to mitigate against the unpredictability and the instability of servicing fees.

A. Just by performing its duties, performing its job. That's inherent, it was providing services. So I would say yes.

Q. Okay. So it could have -- it was mitigating the risk without a participation agreement, in your view; is that fair?

A. Acis was providing advisory services to the CLOs and as part of that agreement. It -- you know, it's managing the assets and the CLO. A participation interest isn't needed for that to occur.

Q. Okay. Do you know if the unpredictability and instability of servicing fees ever caused Acis to breach any obligations under any contract?

A. I don't -- not that I recall.

Q. Okay. Do you recall if the unpredictability and instability of the servicer fees ever caused Acis to fail to timely pay for expenses and goods that it had purchased or acquired?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Okay. As the treasurer of Acis and the CFO of Highland, can you identify any adverse consequences flowing to Acis from the alleged unpredictability and instability of servicer fees?

A. You are asking if the Acis fees are unpredictable and unstable, what consequences does that do to Acis? Is that what you are --

Q. Kind of. You testified that, you know, like all investments, servicer fees, can be unpredictable and unstable; is that fair?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Can you identify any adverse consequence to Acis arising from the instability and uncertainty of the servicing fees? Because they didn't breach contract, right?

A. Yeah. I mean, if those servicing fees became unstable where they couldn't pay for expenses, that would be adverse to Acis.

Q. Right. But that never happened, correct?

A. I mean, in hindsight, yes, that did not happen. That isn't to say when you enter into an agreement that it couldn't happen.

Q. I appreciate that but I'm just asking a really simple question.

Can you identify any adverse consequence to Acis from the alleged unpredictability and instability of servicing fees?

A. Not that I'm aware.

Q. Thank you.

The contracts that gave Acis the right to receive the servicing fees, those are portfolio management agreements, correct?

A. I don't -- there is a special con- -- there is a specific contract between the CLO and the -- the manager of the CLO. I don't know if it's called a portfolio management agreement. I don't -- there -- or an advisory agreement or a servicing fee agreement. There is a special name in the CLO world for the agreement.

Q. Okay. And that agreement, whatever it's called, is the agreement that gives -- that obligates Acis to perform portfolio management services and gives it the right to receive the servicing fees in exchange for those services, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And I think you said this earlier, the party who is obligated -- the counterparty is the issuer, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Well, who controlled the Acis CLOs before Mr. Terry was terminated; do you know?

A. I guess the trustees control the CLO, right, because they're trustee.

Q. Uh-huh. Okay. Withdrawn. Good point.

Who controlled the management of the CLOs before Mr. Terry was terminated?

A. My recollection is Mr. Terry, Mr. Dondero, Mr. Okada, and there are other analysts that worked at Highland that provided analysis.

There was a CLO group at Highland that would provide analysis, right? To -- so it was -- there was a team of people.

Q. Right. I don't want to know about who did analyses. I want to know who the ultimate decision-makers were for Acis.

Was Mr. Dondero an ultimate decision-maker? Could he have -- did he have the authority and the ability to make decisions on behalf of Acis prior to Mr. Terry's departure?

A. Yes.

Q. And could Mr. Terry do that too?

A. Yes.

Q. And could Mr. Okada do that too?

A. Yes.

Q. Was there anybody else who had that ability?

A. Not that I'm aware. They were the owners.

Q. Okay. And after Mr. Terry was terminated, did Mr. Dondero and Mr. Okada retain the control and authority to manage Acis?

A. Yes.

Q. And was that true until Mr. Phalen was appointed the trustee of Acis?

A. Yes. Mr. Phalen took over Acis then that presumably ceased.

Q. Do you know if any of the Acis CLOs ever breached their obligation to pay the servicing fees to Acis?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Do you recall whether Acis ever declared a default as a result of the issuers failure to timely pay all servicer fees it owed?

A. I don't recall. I'm not aware of any.

Q. Okay. Let's go to Section 1 of the agreement, which is on the page ending in Bates-stamped 3387.

A. Okay.

Q. Section 1 deals with the sale and purchase of the Acis participation agreements, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And the participation agreements are shown on Schedule A, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And that's at the page ending in Bates-stamped 3399, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And on page -- on Schedule A, Schedule A lists the CLO issuers that are the subject of this agreement, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And the total servicer fees or the total fees that Acis is entitled to receive from each CLO in exchange for its portfolio management services, correct?

A. I believe so. I mean, I don't remember the agreements but if it is -- this matches the agreement, yes.

Q. Okay. And so then the next two columns divide up the total servicer fee between what Acis is going to keep, which is the servicer fee retention amount and the Acis participation interest, which is what Highland is supposed to get; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. So, for example, for the 2015-6 CLO, is it fair to say that Acis was going to receive from that CLO 40 bases points as its servicing fee, it was going -- and it was going to split that fee between Highland and itself?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Do you remember earlier that we concluded that under the amended and restatement shared services agreement and sub-advisory agreement that Acis was going to pay Highland 35 bases points for those services?

A. Yes.

Q. And here they're promising to pay Highland an additional 20 to 30 bases points as part of the participation interest, right?

A. Yes.

Q. So can you conclude -- is it fair to conclude that between this agreement, the shared services agreement and sub-advisory agreement, Acis was obligated to pay to Highland more than it expected to receive in servicing fees?

A. Yeah. If all those agreements were in force, yes.

Q. Okay. If you look down further on that page there's the purchase price. Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. And in Section 1.1 it says, quote, "In consideration of the sale of the Acis participation interest to the purchasers, to the purchaser, the purchaser shall do two things."

It's going to pay the cash purchase price and it's going to give up the note. Is that a fair summary of that?

A. Yes.

Q. Are you familiar with the phrase "quid pro quo"?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And is the quid pro quo here that Acis would transfer to Highland the Acis participation interest and Highland would give to Acis the cash purchase price and the note?

A. I mean, I'm familiar with quid pro quo. I mean, it just says, "In consideration of the sale."

Q. Right.

A. "Of the Acis part- -- then the purchaser shall pay to seller this amount 606,655 and deliver to seller a promissory note and the initial principle balance of 12,666,446."

Q. Right. So Highland is giving the cash purchase price and the note to Acis in exchange for Acis' promise to share the Acis participation interest as defined in this agreement, fair?

A. Fair.

Q. Okay. All right. And that was your understanding as the treasurer of Acis and the CFO of Highland at the time, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you see that if you add up the -- withdrawn.

Do you know how the cash purchase price and the initial principle balance of the note were determined?

A. I don't recall. Again, I talked about there were models done and things like that. I'm sure it was in the model.

Q. Do you recall whether if you added the cash purchase price and the initial principle balance of the note, if you added those two numbers together, do you recall if that total number equalled to the dollar the projected value of the Acis participation interest as defined in this agreement?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you know if these numbers in Section 1.1 were the subject of any negotiation?

A. I don't recall.

Q. If you turn to the Section 1.3 on the next page, it says that "The parties acknowledge and agree that the purchase price reflects the arm's-length value of the Acis participation interest as of the date of the agreement as determined by mutually-agreed appraisal methods."

Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Isn't that -- do you see that the purchase price is defined as the cash purchase price and the delivery of the note on the bottom of the prior page?

A. Yes.

Q. So would you agree that in Section 1.3 the parties are agreeing that the value of the cash purchase price plus the note reflects the arm's-length value of the Acis participation interest as of the date of the agreement?

A. That's what the parties agreed to.

Q. All right. And so your understanding is that, in fact, the purchase price and the value of the Acis participation interest were supposed to be the same, at least as of the date of the agreement?

A. I don't know if that's -- I don't know if they were the same.

Q. Well, it says that the purchase price reflects the arm's-length value of the Acis participation agreements. Doesn't that mean that they were supposed to be equal? They reflect the same value.

A. Arm's-length value doesn't mean the same value. It just means what -- you know, someone will participate in an arm's-length transaction. You know, that's not saying value. I don't agree that arm's-length transaction is saying value.

Q. Do you know how the purchase price was calculated?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you know if it was intended to be the equivalent of the expected value of the Acis participation interest?

A. Like I said, I don't remember.

Q. Well, you're here as the 30(b)(6) witness today. Does HCLOM have a view as to how the purchase price was determined?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. Again, we -- I discussed there is models, right? That was -- that were put together around this transaction, presumably the models, right? Modeled what an arm's-length transaction would have been.

So again, there's different ways to value different transactions. So presumably that's what was in the model.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) All right. I appreciate that you presume a lot of things.

Did you do anything to prepare today --

A. I don't --

Q. -- to determine how the purchase price was calculated?

A. I don't have access to the models. HCLOM doesn't have access to the models. I don't know.

Q. Okay. Does HCLOM have a view as to whether or not the purchase price was intended to equal the value of the Acis participation interest as of the date of the agreement?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. I mean, from HCLOM's point of view, I don't think HCLOM was around on October 27, 2016. So this agreement was between Acis and Highland. It looks like Acis and Highland's -- those parties acknowledge that it was supposed to be done in an arm's-length transaction. HCLOM wasn't even there.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) I appreciate that.

A. So --

Q. Thank you very much. So let me ask the question again.

As the treasurer of Acis and the CFO of Highland, do you have a view as to whether the purchase price was intended to equal the value of the Acis participation interest as of the date of this agreement?

A. It was intended -- it should have intended to be whatever the arm's-length value was determined.

Q. Do you have any idea what that was?

A. I don't recall. I don't have any of those models.

Q. Can you think of a reason why one party would be giving the other party more money --

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) -- than it was expecting to receive?

A. Yeah. What's, you know, there's other benefits involved. We talked about tax benefits or things like that. Sure. I mean, there's all sorts of things that you model into the model.

So, again, without looking at the details of the model and you are talking about you are actually going to have to model in maybe variability of servicing fees, and discount rates, and tax benefits, I mean, there's all sorts of things you can assume. But it's intended per 1.3 for however what was decided to reflect the arm's-length value.

Q. There's a reference there to mutually agreed appraisal methods. Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you identify those appraisal methods?

A. I don't remember what was used.

Q. Do you know if any appraisals were actually done?

A. Well, I don't -- it doesn't say -- it says appraisal methods. It doesn't say appraisals. So I don't know what appraisals were done. It says appraisal method. So you can put something together using an appraisal method.

So again, I don't have access to these records. I don't remember what was done.

Q. Okay. Let's look at the promissory note.

MR. MORRIS: Let's mark that as Exhibit 11 I think.

(Exhibit 11 marked.)

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Have you seen this before, sir?

A. Yes.

Q. And what is this?

A. This is the -- this is the note between Highland Capital and Acis Capital Management.

Q. And is this the note that HCLOM contends it's the holder in due course of today?

A. Yes.

Q. And is this the note that HCLOM contends Highland is obligated to satisfy?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know -- this note was executed at the same time as the participation agreement, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And they were part and parcel of the same overall transaction, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know if the terms of this note were negotiated?

A. This was part of the transaction. I don't remember. As we talked about, these numbers were derived from models and things like that.

So again, they are -- the different assumptions are in these models. I don't remember the back and forth but it's somehow derived --

Q. Are the same people making decisions on behalf of both Acis and Highland at this time in connection with the participation agreement and the note? It's the same human beings, right?

A. Yeah. Acis doesn't have employees.

Q. Right. And Jim Dondero was signing everything on behalf of everybody, right?

MR. AIGEN: Object to form.

A. I mean, Jim executed these agreements, correct.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Right. And he executed them on behalf of both parties, right?

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Acis and Highland didn't obtain independent counsel, did they?

A. I just recall Hunton & Williams being involved. I don't -- I -- you would have to look at the engagement letter. I don't know how those things are written.

Q. Was there a team at Highland that was dedicated to protecting Highland's interest and another team that was dedicated to protecting Acis' interest?

A. I don't recall that at Highland. So, again, I -- but, you know, if there's outside counsel involved, maybe there's other dynamics there as well.

Q. Do you remember any law firm being involved other than Hunton & Williams?

A. No. I just recall Hunton.

Q. Do you know who established the terms of the notes -- of the note?

A. I don't remember those. I don't remember that detail.

Q. Okay. And you don't know how that principle amount of the note was determined, correct?

A. Like I said before, it would have been in these analyses, and cash consideration, and other consideration and all that would have been determined.

Q. Do you believe Acis would have agreed to give Highland a portion of its servicing fees without receiving an agreement to receive the cash purchase price and the note?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. I'm sorry. Acis would have agreed --

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Withdrawn.

Do you believe that Acis would have agreed to give a portion of its servicing fees to Highland if Highland didn't simultaneously agree to give that cash purchase price and the note to Acis?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. I think that was all -- in order for the tax planning to work, I mean, Acis had to receive compensation later.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Stated another way, in order for the tax planning to work, Acis had to share the servicing fees with Highland and Highland had to make that cash purchase price payment and the payments under the note. That was the intent, correct?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. No. I mean, no. I mean, the -- for the tax planning to work the note here had to be a real bona fide note. You don't -- you have to create tax planning with economic substance. Without economic -- real economic substance, it's not tax planning; it's just shuffling papers.

So this note is a real binding note between Highland and Acis. If -- you know, and Highland has to pay, and is obligated to pay that to Acis. Without that, it's not tax planning.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Okay. I don't mean to quarrel with you but let me try and make this easier.

In order for the tax planning to work, you need both pieces to happen, right? You need both Acis to share its participation interest and you need Highland to give the note, correct?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. I mean, the agreement was to share the participation interest because that was agreed to. But if the participation interests were never paid, it's still a bona fide note.

But Highland bears the risk of this planning to pay those amounts to Acis. You know, as we -- and as you pointed those whereas clauses, the markets are uncertain and unstable. So, you know, we saw that through the great recession, right, in 2008, 2009.

So to the extent that those payments -- that was the deal, right? As you said, that was the -- but if those payments aren't made, the promissory note is still a good note. You have to have -- you have to make good on these agreements.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) But the failure to pay the servicing fees had nothing to do with the unpredictability and instability of the market, right?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) It had to do with the involuntary bankruptcy that filed against Acis?

A. No. I mean, I'm saying in the -- when we entered into this in 2016, right? The -- you don't know what markets are going to do. So the whole idea is in the event there is turmoil in the markets and here it is an ability not to pay, as we saw in a prior turmoil, there still is an obligation under this note to make payment to Acis.

Q. Did you discuss with anybody at any time before this transaction was entered into, that there was a risk that Highland might receive zero in servicing fees?

A. Sure. A hundred percent.

Q. And Mr. Dondero and you as the officers of Highland agreed to give this promissory note with the understanding that you might receive nothing in return?

A. One, I will tell you what I remember and what stands up, 110 percent we sat with Jim, the tax team, and said you understand if you make this note and for some reason these participation interests are not paid on, you still owe this money. Yes, that was the understanding.

There was no way we wanted to obl- -- like that's part of tax planning. If you don't do that, the tax planning doesn't work.

Q. But isn't the failure to pay servicing fees a breach of the agreement?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. When you say -- we're talking about the note. There is a note between Highland and Acis. This note doesn't say if you don't pay -- like it's my understanding that, you know, these are real -- again, it's my understanding that these payments under the note were real obligations and that was stressed.

I remember having those conversations with this transaction.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) So you are saying that Highland gave the note and -- it gave the note not in exchange for the participation interest?

A. No. No. It did. It received the participation interest. But as we talked about, those participation interests can vary, right? There's variability under those participation interests.

So to the extent there's -- you know, again, Highland is making a fixed commitment, right, which is outlined in this promissory note.

And the fees that are received, you know, you are -- you are -- they are -- they were modeled out initially. But they're models. And models, you know, again, you are projecting out to the best of your ability but I, you know, again, markets move.

Q. Did the market cause HCLOM to not pay servicing fees?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Withdrawn.

HCLOM never paid Highland any servicing fees, right?

A. We already talked about that earlier, yes.

Q. Okay. Why didn't HCLOM pay Highland any servicing fees?

A. Because despite its best efforts, HCLOM -- the -- these servicing, you know, these resets we talked about were never effectuated over to HCLOM. It never became the collateral manager of the CLOs.

Q. And why didn't it become the collateral manager of the CLOs?

A. Because of the Acis bankruptcy.

Q. Okay. Great.

Can you turn to Exhibit A on the note.

A. Yes.

Q. The first payment was due on May 31, 2017, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And that payment was made, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Did Highland make the payment that was due on May 31, 2018?

A. It did not.

Q. Did HCLOM declare default under this note?

A. Not that I'm aware of.

Q. Did you discuss with anybody declaring a default under the note?

A. No, because there was a forbearance in place.

Q. Instead of declaring a default you entered into a forbearance agreement, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. After the participation agreement was signed, Acis satisfied its obligations by paying Highland its allocated portion of the servicing fees through at least October 2017, correct?

A. Correct. I mean, I remember Acis making the payments. That's -- so I don't recall when that stopped.

Q. And Highland made its payment in the spring of 2017, correct? We just established that.

A. Yeah, in May of 2017.

Q. Do you recall that as of the end of October 2017, for the timing reasons you described earlier, Acis had paid Highland about $3 million more in servicing fees than Highland had paid under the note?

A. I don't remember numbers.

Q. As of November 1st, 2017, you and Mr. Dondero were the sole officers of Acis, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And you remained the sole officers of Acis until Mr. Phalen was appointed in the summer or spring of 2018, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Acis continued to receive servicing fees after November 1st, 2017, correct?

A. Yes. I mean, the CLOs paid quarterly. So it would have received -- yeah, I mean -- your question is did it received fees after November? Yes. I mean, the CLOs kept paying. So yes.

Q. And did Acis remit any servicing fees to Highland after November 1st, 2017?

A. I don't recall.

Q. The participation agreement, remember, referred to a potential new CLO issuance by Acis. Do you remember that?

A. Yes. There was a...

Q. And in fact, in April 2017 a new Acis CLO was issued, correct?

A. I don't recall. What was the name of the --

Q. It's Acis CLO seven.

A. Okay. Okay.

Q. And so do you remember that that launched in the spring of 2017?

A. Vaguely.

Q. Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Let's mark this the next Exhibit 12, a portfolio management agreement for Acis seven.

(Exhibit 12 marked.)

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) This is 12. Okay. Have you seen this document before, sir?

A. I may have. If I did, I just don't remember.

Q. And if you go to the page ending in Bates-stamped 7089, you will see Mr. Dondero signed on behalf of Acis CLO Management, LLC, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. So here it is April 2017, Mr. Terry's been gone for ten months. And under Mr. Dondero's direction, Acis is launching a brand-new CLO, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And he wouldn't have done that if he didn't believe the Acis CLO Management, LLC couldn't perform its obligations as the portfolio manager, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. You don't recall any discussions before April 20, 2017, where anybody expressed a concern regarding Acis' ability to perform?

A. I didn't -- we have a team of folks that put together CLOs. They source the CLOs. They put together the warehouses. I'm not involved in any of that, so...

But I don't remember discussions being directed towards myself.

Q. Do you know if Acis Seven had a -- had to make a risk retention payment?

A. I don't recall. But again, it's part of the rules. So, I mean, presumably an entity made that -- you are not going to issue a CLO without the risk retention of that percentage being retained by somebody.

Q. Do you have a recollection as to how the risk retention amount was funded?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you remember that Highland actually loaned Acis $3 million for the purpose of making the risk retention payment in connection with the launch of Acis seven?

A. I don't remember. But if that's what happened, that's what happened.

Q. Mr. Dondero used Highland to make loans to affiliates from time to time. We know that, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And did Mr. Dondero cause Highland to make loans to Acis from time to time?

A. I don't recall loans between Acis and Highland. You know, if you said that -- if Highland loaned Acis the $3 million, I don't recall there being a flurry of loans between Highland and Acis.

Q. Do you remember that Acis just used the money that it received on May 31, 2017, to repay Highland for the loan that Highland had just made so it could make its risk retention payment? That doesn't ring a bell?

A. No. This is seven years ago.

Q. Okay. In late 2017 and early 2018, Acis was looking to reset certain of the CLOs, correct?

A. Late '17, late '18, yes.

Q. Okay. Do you have an understanding of what a reset is?

A. Yeah. You're -- yes.

Q. What's your understanding of a reset?

A. You are basically resetting the cap structure in the underlying CLO.

Q. And why was Acis looking to reset the CLOs in late 2017, early 2018?

A. From what I recall, it was Acis 2013-3. So I think it had hit -- you know, it -- there was a time, a life of a CLO and you can extend that life by doing a reset.

Q. Okay. And was it -- do you know if it was contemplated that a new entity would replace Acis as the portfolio manager for those CLOs that were successfully reset?

A. Are you saying -- and can you go back to your timeline? Are you saying at the time of the reset in 2017?

Q. Yeah. When -- in late 2017, early 2018, when the concept of resets was being discussed, was a decision made that an entity other than Acis would serve as the portfolio manager for the reset CLOs?

A. I don't recall the reset of Acis 2013-3 was a reset with Acis Capital being the manager.

Q. And when did that take place; do you remember?

A. It was like January of '18, early '18.

Q. So your recollection is that with the reset of Acis 2013 CLO, Acis was going to remain as the portfolio manager?

A. That's what I generally remember. But, again, this was six years ago. So there may be a document that refutes that but that's what I generally remember.

Q. Did you look at any documents to prepare for your testimony today on the topic of resets?

A. No. I looked -- I looked at the documents that were in the topics. I don't recall the resets being -- but I generally am aware of resets.

Q. Can you take Exhibit 1 out? It's the first exhibit.

A. Yeah. Okay.

Q. And the last topic is Topic 12, on page three.

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Can you tell me what documents you looked at to prepare yourself to answer questions about Topic 12?

A. I didn't look at any documents. I am generally aware of the resets that occurred, but I didn't look at any documents.

Q. So you didn't look at any documents and you didn't talk to anybody other than counsel, correct?

A. Just counsel.

Q. And you weren't directly involved in the resets, correct? You had no personal direct involvement in any of the issues concerning the resets, correct?

A. I -- we have -- there was a team at Highland Capital that managed that process.

Q. Were you part of that team?

A. I was not.

Q. So, again, you had no personal knowledge about any of the issues surrounding the proposed resets in late 2017 or early 2018, correct?

A. I'm aware of the resets that did occur, the potential resets.

Q. What resets occurred?

A. Well, there's the Acis 2013-3, right? That was -- the reset -- they reset in and it went to market and there was a -- like an article the day before and publication, and then that's when Josh Terry filed the involuntary, like, you know, the day that it was supposed to reset.

Q. But it didn't reset, correct?

A. No. The -- yeah, but there -- that was the attempted reset, right? So that reset was occurring but it didn't -- it wasn't finalized because of the involuntary bankruptcy.

And there was -- there were other reset attempts by investors, I think one in April, April -- end of April of 2018, another like mid-June. These are 45-day resets. So, again, they're 45 days.

But the investors were trying to reset these. Again, with Acis in bankruptcy, right. The investors wanted to reset these.

MR. MORRIS: All right. Can we take a break now?

MR. AIGEN: Yes.

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: Off the record. The time is 2:37.

(Break taken from 2:37 p.m. to 2:51 p.m.)

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: Back on the record. The time is 2:51.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. Let's mark as the next exhibit, it's 13, the Assignment and Transfer Agreement. It was previously marked Exhibit D in a different deposition.

(Exhibit 13 marked.)

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Mr. Waterhouse, do you recall that the arbitration panel issued its final award in favor of Mr. Terry and awarded him damages of $8 million on October 20, 2017?

A. I'm aware of it.

Q. Okay. Did the award come as a surprise to you?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. I didn't think of it either way. I wasn't close to the case. I mean, I -- I'm not a lawyer. I don't know. You know, Josh did not treat me well at my time at Highland. So -- but I didn't have a dog in the fight. He was just a very abusive person, abusive towards me and things like that.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) The trial was in September, right, of 2017?

A. I don't recall.

Q. And you are part of the senior management team at Highland at the time, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Were people talking about the case, was the senior management team talking about how the case was going?

A. I mean, they may have. I wasn't really talking to them. I mean, I don't really talk to lawyers and say, hey, how's this going or how's that going. And unless someone --

Q. Okay.

A. -- really offers their view, kind of like near a water cooler, you know, I'm not really -- you know, I think I have testified before, I like to go to work. I like to do a good job. I like to come home. I like to see my family and my kids.

Q. Amen. Me too. That's all I want to do myself, to be honest with you.

A. So I mean --

Q. But around the water cooler, I mean, did anybody give you any indication as to how they thought the case was going?

A. Not that -- I mean, I just remember, hey, we have arguments. These guys have arguments as far as -- it's being heard.

Q. Was there any reaction when the award was rendered on October 20th? Did anybody talk about it?

A. Yeah. When the award was rendered. It's like, I remember, you know, I remember it's -- I remember learning at some point that Josh Terry won and I thought -- you said the amount was $8 million. I thought it was like 6. You know, it was a seven-figure amount.

Q. And was anybody -- did anybody express any emotion at the rendering of the award? Did anybody react at all?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. I mean, I think there was disappointment that he -- that Josh Terry won. I mean, I don't remember, you know, people cussing or yelling or -- you know, it wasn't like an emotional lash-out. People weren't happy. But I wouldn't say it was -- there was very disappointment is what I recall.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Do you recall any discussion at any time in September, October 2017, about transferring assets away from Acis so that Josh would be unable to collect on his judgment?

A. I don't recall the time frame. I don't.

Q. Do you recall the substance of what I described, just not when the conversations took place?

A. I really don't recall, you know, conversations around Josh or what Josh would get, you know, things like that. I think he was entitled to what he was entitled to.

Q. Well, he had judgment against Acis, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Did anybody give any instruction or direction to transfer assets from Acis to other entities in October 2017?

A. I don't recall assets leaving Acis at that time. I mean, I don't remember cash moving or Acis -- I don't remember Acis having other, you know, other items of value on its balance sheet, probably just the cash. I don't remember that just leaving.

So I don't remember those conversations being had.

Q. Are you aware that Josh filed the involuntary against Acis because Acis had no assets to satisfy the arbitration award and judgment he obtained?

A. No. I thought -- my understanding was that Josh filed the involuntary when that Acis 2013 was being reset. So, again, when it was being reset into a new -- my recollection, it was being reset into a new manager. And that reset is when Josh filed the involuntary.

Q. And as the CFO of Acis, you have no recollection of any transfers occurring in the fourth quarter of 2017, any transfer of assets, any assets out of Acis to other Highland affiliates?

A. We have billions of dollars of AUM at Highland. Acis was just one part of it. I don't remember every transfer that occurred.

Q. I'm not asking you to remember any particular transfer.

I'm asking you if you have a recollection of that in the fourth quarter of 2017, transactions were undertaken to transfer Acis' assets to other Highland entities?

A. I don't remember those -- I don't remember even generally that happening.

Q. Do you recall that the day before the arbitration award was rendered, Highland created Highland CLO Management, LLC?

A. I wasn't aware at that time.

Q. Are you aware today that Highland caused an entity called Highland CLO Management, LLC to be formed in Delaware?

A. I didn't remember that until you showed me -- you know, you showed me the entity names earlier or, yeah. Again, I don't recall the entity's date of formation. There's all sorts of entities at Highland that we have gone through and I mean -- I'm not aware of specifics.

Q. Did you know before today that an entity called Highland CLO Management, LLC existed?

A. I may have known at one time but I just don't remember.

Q. So is it fair to say that you also don't know why the entity was formed?

A. I can speculate but I don't know.

Q. No. Do you know who authorized the creation of that entity?

A. I don't.

Q. Did you have any discussions with anyone at any time concerning the formation of HCLOM, LLC?

A. I don't recall any discussions. I mean, typically -- the lawyers are the ones that are involved in entity formation and things of that sort. I'm typically not in -- you know, in my role at Highland and Acis I'm typically not involved in those types of discussions.

Q. Do you know if HCLOM, LLC ever managed any of the Acis CLOs?

A. Not that I'm aware.

Q. Going back to the transfer agreement, do you know why this agreement was entered into at this time?

A. I mean, it's --

MR. AIGEN: Are you asking him why it was entered or why it was entered on that specific date?

MR. MORRIS: At this time, as of November 3rd, 2017.

A. November 3rd, 2017, I mean, I don't recall the events of exactly why it was entered as of November 3rd, 2017. But, you know, just that there were issues at Acis and, you know, there are new entities being formed and this was part of -- this assignment and transfer agreement was part of the issues that Acis was facing.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Well, other than the adverse judgment entered against it, what other issues was Acis facing at this time?

A. I mean, I think we talked about Highland wasn't willing to provide support to Acis as well. So it was facing -- I mean, you know, without employees it's not able to perform its duties.

Q. Okay. So we've got the adverse judgment and Highland said it wouldn't support it anymore, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Anything else?

A. That's what I recall generally.

Q. Okay. So Mr. Dondero with his Highland hat told Mr. Dondero with his Acis' hat that he wasn't going to support Acis any longer?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Do I have that right?

A. Highland made that determination that it wouldn't support Acis on a go-forward bases at some point.

Q. Okay.

A. You know --

Q. All right. Other than the adverse judgment -- withdrawn.

Other than the adverse arbitration award that was entered into against Acis' and Highland's decision that it would no longer support Acis, were there any other issues that Acis was confronting in the fourth quarter of 2017?

A. Not that I can recall.

Q. And is it your testimony on behalf of HCLOM that those are the two reasons why the assignment and transfer agreement was entered into?

A. Yeah. I mean, that's what I -- yes. That's what I generally remember from an HCLOM prospective. I mean, could there be something else that I don't remember? But that's what generally was going on at the time.

Q. Okay. And who made the decision to enter into this agreement?

A. I don't -- well, we can see who executed it.

Q. Right.

A. It looks like Jim did. Looks like Jim and the new director of HCLOM.

Q. So Jim did it both on behalf of Highland and Acis and Mr. Cullinane did it on behalf of HCLOM, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know why Dondero entered into this agreement on behalf of Acis and Highland?

A. Yes, generally. I mean, if Mr. Dondero sees, right, that the manager of the Acis CLOs is not going to be Acis Capital Management going forward, then to preserve the planning that's going on, he would have to sign and transfer the fees.

Q. And the reason that Acis wasn't going to be the manager of the CLOs is because Highland said that it would no longer support Acis, correct?

A. Highland would not support Acis, but also Acis didn't have the wherewithal for -- to make its obligations to Mr. Terry.

Q. All right. What was the purpose of the agreement; do you know?

A. The purpose of Exhibit 13?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. To transfer the participation interest. Transfer -- I'm sorry. The interest and the promissory note.

Q. Is that the only purpose of the agreement was to transfer the promissory note?

A. Well, and the interest too.

Q. Which interest are you referring to?

A. The CLO participation interest.

Q. That's the servicing fees we referred to earlier?

A. Yes.

Q. Was it anticipated that HCLOM would succeed Acis as the manager of the CLOs?

A. That was my understanding.

Q. And it was only as the manager of the CLOs that HCLOM would have been entitled to receive the servicing fees that are the subject of the participation interest, correct?

A. Yes. For -- HCLOM would only get the -- it had to become the manager, right, of the Acis deals to receive the servicing fees to then in turn remit the participation interest to Highland. That was it.

Q. Do you know if this agreement was the subject of any negotiations?

A. I don't know.

Q. Do you know what role, if any, Mr. Cullinane played in the drafting or negotiation of this document?

A. I wasn't involved. I don't know.

Q. Did you ever ask anybody who the -- and he was the person acting on behalf of HCLOM at the time, correct?

A. He's the director of HCLOM, yes.

Q. Did you do any diligence at all to try to figure out what his intent and his motivation was in signing this agreement on behalf of HCLOM?

A. At the time of execution?

Q. At any time.

A. Documents like this are typically handled by the attorneys. So I would assume the attorneys would have hashed any of that out or anything like that.

Q. But in preparation for today's deposition as HCLOM's representative, you didn't make any effort to speak with Mr. Cullinane to determine what he was thinking when he entered into this agreement on behalf of HCLOM, correct?

A. I did not.

Q. Are you aware of any demands or requests Mr. Cullinane made on behalf of HCLOM with respect to this agreement?

A. I'm not aware.

Q. Okay. If we look at the agreement, the third recital says, "HCM has notified Acis that HCM is unwilling to continue to provide support personnel and other critical services to Acis with respect to the CLOs."

Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Who made that decision on behalf of Highland that Highland was unwilling to continue to provide support personnel and critical services to Acis?

A. I mean, that would be Mr. Dondero.

Q. Do you know the reasons for the decision -- withdrawn.

Did he ever tell you what his reasoning was for that decision?

A. I'm trying to -- talking about in November. I mean, I don't know if it was related -- I mean, again, this is in November 2017. I don't know. There is an -- you know, Josh Terry has an award that's I think public, from my understanding and you're managing assets at the time with a very public dispute. You have investors that aren't happy about it.

So I think my general understanding was it's best to move on from -- you know, you want a clean manager to manage these assets. You don't -- on a go-forward bases.

Q. What's the bases for your recollection that the award was public as of November 3rd, 2017?

A. I don't know. Just -- that's what I kind of generally remember. I thought it was like a, you know, something that was known.

Q. Do you recall seeing any articles in the press prior to November 3rd about the arbitration award?

A. I don't recall seeing it in the press. Like, you know, when there's decisions made in court cases, right, those remain -- you know, like those are published by the Court, things like that.

So, again, this is -- this happened seven years ago. I kind of -- I thought that was part of the caliculus. Sort of like, hey, you know, the investors don't want this, right?

You got to -- you have to move to a different manager or otherwise, you know, the business is that -- you just -- it doesn't look good for the business.

Q. But Mr. Dondero was in control of Acis before and after the arbitration award, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. So there was no change in control with the issuance of the arbitration award, correct?

A. There was not.

Q. Was there a -- did you perceive that there was a loss of confidence in Mr. Dondero?

A. No.

Q. Mr. Dondero was the face of Acis at this time, correct? He was the leader of Acis, correct?

A. Yeah. Yes. He was the control -- but there was a team, a CLO team, right? That -- yeah, but -- Mr. Dondero is always kind of the head, right? So he's the head of all these entities. There's a CLO team there that is, you know, interfacing on a day-to-day bases.

So there's -- to answer your question, yeah, Mr. Dondero was there. There's a team of people still managing the Acis deals. Jim can't do it all by himself.

Q. Right. And that team was the exact same as it had been since Mr. Terry left Acis in June of 2016, correct?

A. I believe so. I don't remember anyone leaving afterwards but -- again, it could be. It was so long ago.

Q. So, in fact, the only thing that happened to Acis between June 1, 2016, and the date of entry of this agreement is, number one, Mr. Terry left, correct?

A. He did, yes.

Q. And Mr. Terry's departure didn't cause any problems for Acis, correct?

A. I -- look, I think whenever there is portfolio manager turnover and there is -- I mean, there are perceptions in the market, right, of what people -- when you invest your own money, you want to know who the manager is. Josh was the day-to-day person. I mean, you know, it could have upset some of the investors. I don't know.

Q. Well, Mr. Dondero certainly had enough confidence in the Acis' brands to enter into two different sets of sub-advisory and shared services agreements after Mr. Terry left, correct? We have looked at those.

A. Yes.

Q. And Mr. Dondero certainly had enough confidence in Acis and the Acis' brand to launch the Acis Seven CLO in the spring of 2017, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. So is it fair to say that notwithstanding Mr. Terry's termination -- oh, one more thing. Mr. -- Highland sued Mr. Terry in the fall of 2016, correct?

A. I don't remember the dates, so...

Q. It was a public litigation, right? And then Mr. Terry forced it into arbitration. Do you remember that?

A. Vaguely.

Q. So notwithstanding Mr. Terry's departure and the public litigation that Highland itself commenced, Mr. Dondero was still confident enough in the Acis' brand to both enter into new restated and amended shared services agreements and sub-advisory agreements and launch a new CLO under the Acis' brand, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. So is it anything other than the arbitration award that caused the entry into this assignment and transfer disagreement?

A. Yeah, I don't know. What I generally remember was that the Acis' brand at that time was -- the award was not a positive for the Acis' brand. And the decision was made to therefore, you know, kind of shift things to a new manager.

Q. Okay. Do you know who on behalf of Highland provided the notification referred to in the third whereas clause?

A. I don't know who did that.

Q. Do you know who received the notification on behalf of Acis?

A. I don't.

Q. But you would agree that Mr. Dondero was the control person for both entities at this time, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. At the time, do you recall whether Acis was in default under the shared services agreement?

A. I don't remember.

Q. At the time, do you recall if Acis was in default under the sub-advisory agreement?

A. I don't remember.

Q. At the time, do you recall if Acis was in default under any agreement with anybody in the world?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Did Highland ever send a notice of default to Acis for failure to pay for services rendered under any agreement that it had with Acis?

A. I don't know. You would have to ask the attorneys.

Q. Okay. As the accountant, are you aware -- withdrawn.

As the chief financial officer of Highland, are you aware as you sit here right now of Acis failing to pay Highland any monies due and owing, other than the participation fees?

A. I don't -- I don't know -- this was seven years ago. I don't remember. There could have been some outstanding bills. I don't remember.

Q. All right. But your speculation aside, you have no recollection of that, correct?

A. Yeah. Without documents, it's like -- I don't know.

Q. The next whereas clause says that, quote, "Acis has determined that the effect of the notification is that it cannot fulfill its duties as the portfolio manager of the CLOs."

Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. So Highland is the one who gave the notification and as a result of Highland's notification, Acis determined that it couldn't fulfill its duties, correct?

A. Yeah. I guess, if Highland notified Acis that it's not going to provide support and then -- then turn around and says, yeah, Acis has determined the effect of the notification is that it cannot fulfill its duties as portfolio manager of the CLOs.

Q. Okay. And Mr. Dondero is the person on behalf of Highland who made the decision not to continue to provide support to Acis, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And was Mr. Dondero also the person who made the decision on behalf of Acis that Acis could no longer fulfill its duties as portfolio manager as a direct consequence of the decision he made on behalf of Highland not to provide support?

A. Yeah. Yes. It was the portfolio manager and also I think the fees it was going to incur and, like I said, the brand was damaged at that point.

Q. Okay. Was there any damage to the brand other than the issuance of the arbitration award?

A. I generally recall that as being, you know, again, as kind of -- that was pretty much it. I'm trying to remember if there was any other -- I'm not -- I mean, I just --

Q. So as you sit here today, you can't remember any cause of the alleged damage to the Acis' brand other than the issuance of the arbitration award, correct?

A. Yeah. I can't -- there may have been other factors. Again, I'm not talking to the investors. Where I sit, that's my general understanding.

Q. Okay. There are other entities that provide similar shared services and sub-advisory services other than Highland, correct?

A. Are you saying there's this other third-party servicing entities?

Q. Yeah.

A. Yes.

Q. In fact, Brigade is one, right? Brigade wound up providing the same services to Acis that Highland used to provide to Acis, correct?

A. Yes. Yes. I mean, there are other CLO servicers.

Q. Is it fair to say Mr. Dondero made a determination on behalf of Acis that the Acis CLOs would not be managed -- withdrawn.

Do you know if Acis ever considered finding a service provider other than Highland before it determined that it couldn't fulfill its duties?

A. No.

Q. Are you aware that under the shared services agreement and the sub-advisory agreement, unless Acis consented, then Highland could not terminate their provision of services unless and until a replacement was found?

A. I don't remember that.

Q. But that's actually what happened, right?

A. Yeah. I mean, it's in this document. It says Highland is not going to provide services. Right.

Q. But Highland did continue to provide services, notwithstanding Mr. Dondero's statement to the contrary, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Did Acis ever consider suing Highland for breach of contract?

A. I don't know.

Q. Is it fair to say that Acis simply accepted Highland's notification and said, okay, we're done?

A. Yeah.

Q. Again, notwithstanding the notification, Highland continued to provide services to Acis and Acis continued to perform until Mr. Phalen was appointed the Chapter 11 Trustee, correct?

A. Yes. I mean, if you are -- if a successor manager is going to take over the existing Acis deals, you still have to continue to provide support. Otherwise, those deals are going to fall apart.

Even if you telegraphed your intent to not provide support, you are still going to provide support until the transfer is effectuated.

Q. Can you turn to paragraph four of this agreement? Do you know that -- what paragraph four relates to?

A. The expense support paragraph?

Q. Yes.

A. It looks like when -- you are transferring from one manager to another manager, right? And I think this agreement is contemplating that there were some expenses that will still be in Acis' name, right?

But then HCLOM, I think the intent was going to receive fees, right? So then you are saying HCLOM shall promptly pay to Acis or Acis with a request to Acis' creditors the amount of such shortfall.

Right in the middle of that, HCLOM's obligations -- this paragraph two -- exceed greater than 2 million of Acis' legal expenses --

THE COURT REPORTER: You are going to have to either slow down for me or read in your head.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

A. Or greater than 1 million of Acis' administrative expenses in the aggregate. I guess these are all defined.

I think that's -- I think what the attorney is trying to -- you know, you are moving from Acis to HCLOM, HCLOM was going to receive fees. There may not be anything in Acis to pay some of these expenses.

I think that HCLOM owes to Acis for whatever reason. And so that's what this -- that's what this pair is trying to do.

Q. Did you have any involvement in the drafting of this section?

A. I don't remember, really.

Q. Do you remember participating in any discussions concerning expense support?

A. No.

Q. As the HCLOM corporate representative today, is it your understanding that HCLOM owed Highland any obligations or had any duties under this agreement?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) I'm not asking for a legal conclusion. As a matter of fact, is it, you know, did HCLOM have any responsibilities to Highland after this agreement?

A. Responsibilities to Highland?

Q. Yes.

A. I'm not aware of any.

Q. Okay. So it's your testimony as HCLOM's representative, that you're not aware of any obligation that HCLOM undertook to Highland under this agreement?

A. Yeah. I mean, HCLOM, the purpose of this agreement is to assign and transfer the note and assume our participation interest.

I mean, those are -- the note would then be owed from Highland to HCLOM and the Acis fees from the Acis CLOs to HCLOM. I just don't see how HCLOM, you're asking, would have an obligation to Highland.

Q. Well, the expectation was that HCLOM would succeed Acis, including the right to receive the servicing fees, right?

A. Right. And then HCLOM would then remit the fees to Highland, right? And that -- that's -- because they're going to step into Acis' shoes, under this -- that agreement, right?

So then HCLOM will have the obligation under the CLO participation interest agreement to remit, you know, that 20 bases points over to Highland.

Q. And is it fair to say that the reason Highland agreed to transfer the note to HCLOM is because HCLOM was agreeing to become the new portfolio manager for the Acis CLOs and would share in the servicing fees after that happened?

A. Yeah. My general recollection is to preserve the planning and -- and you change the collateral manager. So you just assign over all the agreements to preserve the planning.

Q. Okay. So --

A. Yeah, that's my general recollection.

Q. Okay. The reason Highland agreed to transfer the note to HCLOM is because the parties intended and expected HCLOM to succeed Acis as the portfolio manager of the Acis CLO and reap the benefits in the form of the servicing fees, which it would share with Highland, correct?

A. I mean, it -- I just view it as there's a note between Acis and Highland and there's a CLO participation agreement. And that each agreement is moving to HCLOM as successor manager to preserve the tax planning that was effectuated Acis, you would preserve that at HCLOM.

So I guess, my view isn't, well, you moved the note because you're getting a new manager. It's just you had the planning set up at Acis. Now you have the planning set up at HCLOM.

Q. So you move the two of them in tandem, right?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) That's what this agreement does, isn't it?

A. Yeah. I mean, yeah. I mean, both -- both agreements were -- yeah, I mean, both -- they were -- both of them were moved over, just like they were --

Q. Could you think of any reason why Highland would give HCLOM the note, assign the -- I mean, Highland isn't even the one signing the note, right? It's Acis.

Can you think of why Acis would assign the note to HCLOM if it wasn't also assigning the obligation to become the portfolio manager?

A. I mean, if you are saying would the Acis that are -- be -- if HCLOM got the CLO participation interest and then the Acis note wouldn't move over, again, that wasn't part of the planning. So I just don't see that as the tax planning.

To me, they are -- you know, the planning contemplated the sale of the CLO participation interest and a note to the CLO manager. So if HCLOM is the successor manager, it just -- those -- those agreements move as well.

Q. All right. But under the note, Highland agreed originally to pay Acis money, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. What did Highland receive in consideration of the agreement to pay money?

A. Again, we talked about there was tax benefits of this transaction. There was cash management benefits of this transaction. So that's what Highland is --

Q. Did it not also agree to issue the note because it was going to obtain its participation interest in the servicing fees? Was that not a reason to give the note?

A. So we're saying when Highland initially entered into the note with Acis, it entered into the -- again, it entered into the note with Acis as part of the deferral.

You know, it's -- the tax planning would have been, hey, pay participation interest and Highland just keep that, right? So the tax planning was you pay a portion of your CLO fees, Highland, right?

But those -- that transaction, that -- like I said earlier, that note irrespective of what fees you would receive -- let's say the fees went to zero. That note between Highland and Acis was a real bona fide note subject to risk, subject to -- you know, again, subject to the payment streams that Highland agreed to pay Acis, the fixed payment stream.

Q. Again, notwithstanding that transfer agreement, Highland continued to provide services to Acis under both the sub-advisory agreement and the shared services agreement, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. In fact, Highland wound up filing proofs of claim in the Acis bankruptcy case, correct?

A. Highland filed proofs of claim for -- are you asking me the question of -- I'm sorry. I don't understand what --

Q. Are you aware that Highland filed proofs of claim against Acis in the Acis bankruptcy case for unpaid fees under the shared services and sub-advisory agreement?

A. Obviously, I was involved. I don't -- there was so much going on at the time, John, I don't recall.

Q. Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Let's mark as the next exhibit, which is 14, a proof of claim from the Highland bankruptcy case that was marked as Claim Number 27.

(Exhibit 14 marked.)

MR. MORRIS: Good stapler you have there.

MR. AIGEN: Right. I can't believe it is still going.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. Very good.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) All right. Mr. Waterhouse, do you see this is a proof of claim that was filed by Highland in the Acis bankruptcy?

A. In the Acis bankruptcy, yes. I see this. This is the Acis bankruptcy.

Q. Right.

A. Okay.

Q. And if you look at the second page, the bases for the claim is the sub-advisory services and the shared services agreements in Number 8 there.

A. Yes.

Q. And the claim is for over $4.6 million. Do you see that?

A. I do.

Q. And it was signed by Mr. Ellington on August 1, 2018. Do you see that?

A. I do.

Q. Okay. And so does that refresh your recollection that Highland filed an unsecured proof of claim against Acis in the Acis bankruptcy for unpaid fees under the shared services agreement and the sub-advisory agreement?

A. I don't recall even -- as I was saying, I'm not aware that this happened but obviously it did. I was -- I had pretty much zero involvement in the Acis bankruptcy.

Q. Well, as the Highland CFO, were you aware in 2018 that Highland was carrying a receivable from Acis in excess of four and a half million dollars?

A. I don't recall, but if it's on the books, it's on the books.

Q. Are you aware that Highland also filed an administrative claim in the Acis bankruptcy?

A. I had zero involvement in the Acis bankruptcy.

Q. All right. So you are not aware of it?

A. I just...

MR. MORRIS: Let's mark as the next exhibit which is --

THE COURT REPORTER: 15.

MR. MORRIS: -- 15.

(Exhibit 15 marked.)

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) HCLOM's Combined Discovery Responses and Objections. I need a copy of that. We'll come back to it. Instead, let's go back to -- let's see if we can get side-by-side Exhibit 4, which is the acknowledgment and waiver and the assignment and transfer agreement, which is Exhibit 13.

Okay. So the assignment and transfer agreement is signed as of November 3rd, 2017, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And if you look at Section 1 and 2 of that agreement, Acis was required to promptly provide notice to the controlling class of each CLO and subsequent to the delivery of the notices each of Acis and HCLOM was required to promptly pursue an appointment for each CLO, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And those things never happened, correct?

A. No. I mean, we talked about the resets, right? They were working with the existing investors in the Acis CLOs about a successor manager. There was a reset on the table, as we discussed, Acis 2013-3, that got nixed because of the bankruptcy.

There were subsequent reset attempts, right? But it was all stopped because of the bankruptcy. As there was a TRO from what I --

Q. Well, so look at Exhibit 4. That's the acknowledgment and waiver. That's where HCLOM agreed that those things never happened and never would happen and it's dated January 19, 2018, before the Acis bankruptcy is even filed. Isn't that correct?

A. Well, I think this acknowledgment and waiver just says we have to promptly provide notice. But again, we talked about this. I think this is just waiving the notice provision, but they're talking to the investors of the CLO in definitely January 2018, Acis 2013-3.

So my interpretation is that they -- whoever drafted this is saying we don't have to provide you the notice -- yeah. There's a notice provision and we're just waiving that.

Q. But that's because HCLOM, Limited will never become the successor manager, correct? That's what this is saying?

A. I don't think they -- the Acis 2013 reset, what I remember, was that at the end of January. Right? This is January 19th. So again, I think that CLO went to market and -- at the end of January.

Q. And who was marketing that reset? Was that Mizuho?

A. Our CLO team was working with a third -- you know, a counterparty. I don't remember the counterparty but Hunter Covitz, the CLO team, was working on that reset as --

Q. And if the reset was successful, do you know who the portfolio manager was going to be?

A. It's my understanding, HCLOM.

Q. HCLOM, LLC or HCLOM, Ltd.?

A. My understanding is HCLOM, Ltd.

Q. And what's the bases for that understanding?

A. Yeah, just kind of -- just general knowledge of being in there.

Q. Even though this agreement, this very agreement that HCLOM signed says that each applicable CLO issuer will appoint Highland CLO Management, LLC?

A. Yeah. I mean, that's what this document says. It was just my general understanding that HCLOM was going to be the successor management.

I don't recall the interface between how Highland CLO Management, LLC or maybe -- again, I wasn't involved in drafting these documents. I'm not -- or notice provisions under the attorneys.

I mean, the attorneys could be contemplating it goes to, you know, again to HCLOM. Maybe there's a subsidiary of HCLOM. I don't know.

Q. But you have said multiple times today that seven or eight years ago is a long time and that you don't remember, correct?

A. Yeah. I mean, you are --

Q. Just let me finish.

Is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And you did not look at one single document to prepare for the topic on resets, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And so all you are doing here today is going on your memory of what you think happened seven or eight years ago, correct?

A. Yes. I'm doing that for a lot of things.

Q. Okay. And do you think -- how do you explain the fact that Mr. Dondero and HCLOM signed an agreement that says that CLO Management, LLC will be appointed as the new collateral manager of the CLOs and not HCLOM, Limited? How do you explain that?

A. No. I think I said earlier, I mean, it could be just an oversight. It could be a typo. Could be when we went through expense report in para four. When we read the -- parsed this. Did you see HCLOM is referred to as HCOLM, H-C-O-L-M, instead of H-C-L-O-M?

These things are very close to each other. Just as an attorney messed this up, it could have easily messed this up too.

Q. So that's your testimony, that that's the speculation, that this is a typo? Is that HCLOM's explanation for this document is that it's a typo?

A. What I'm saying is, I don't know for sure and I have testified to that.

Q. Do you understand that indeed the reason, you know, C follows -- D follows C, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And C says that "In order to comply with the U.S. Risk Retention Rules, in connection with each such reset transaction, each applicable CLO issuer will appoint Highland CLO Management, LLC as the collateral manager of such CLO."

Have I read that accurately?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And the very next sentence says, "Therefore."

And what does therefore mean to you?

That's a consequence, right? Is that a fair way to read therefore?

A. Yes.

Q. As a consequence of the decision to appoint Highland CLO Management, LLC, quote, "None of the notices have been, nor will be delivered pursuant to the transfer agreement and none of the appointments have been, nor will be made pursuant to the transfer agreement."

Have I read that in substance correctly?

A. Yes.

Q. So is it fair as HCLOM's corporate representative today to say that D is the effect of C? There's a cause and effect there?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. I mean, it's saying that in order to comply with each -- you know, each reset transaction, it's saying none of the notices have been nor will be delivered. I mean, it's --

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) It's because -- the reason the notices have not and will not be delivered is because a different entity has been designated to be the portfolio manager or the collateral manager, correct?

A. I don't know that, but...

Q. Okay. You're HCLOM's corporate representative today, right? And this is one of the ancillary agreements, right?

A. I mean.

Q. Is that correct?

A. Correct.

Q. You understood that before you walked in the room today, that I would be asking you questions about this document in your capacity as HCLOM's corporate representative, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And you didn't talk to anybody who signed this document about whether or not there was a typo or what it meant, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And you don't have any -- and you weren't involved in the drafting of this document, correct?

A. I was not.

Q. You didn't have any input into the terms of the document, correct?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. And you didn't look at any of the reset documents, correct?

A. I did not.

Q. So you don't know whether HCLOM, Ltd. or HCLOM, LLC is identified as the prospective portfolio manager of the reset Acis CLOs, correct?

A. I don't. I don't know.

Q. We talked earlier that Highland owed a payment under the note as of May 31, 2018. Do you remember that?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And I think you acknowledged at the time that Highland didn't make that payment, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And instead of making the payment, a forbearance agreement was entered into; is that right?

A. Yes.

Q. Let's mark as the next exhibit which is 15, the forbearance agreement dated as of May 31, 2018.

(Exhibit 15 marked.)

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Now, you signed this document, right?

A. I did.

Q. Is that your electronic signature or is that your wet signature, if you know?

A. I really don't know.

Q. Do you remember the circumstances surrounding your execution of this document?

A. Not really.

Q. Do you know why Highland didn't make the payment that was due on May 18 -- withdrawn.

Do you know why Highland didn't make the payment that was due on May 31, 2018?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Do you know if Mr. Dondero made the determination not to make the payment at that time?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Did you discuss with anyone whether Highland should make the payment that was due on May 31, 2018?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Did HCLOM ever demand the payment?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Do you know if HCLOM ever declared a default under the note for failure to make the payment that was due on May 31, 2018?

A. I don't believe it did.

Q. Do you know if HCLOM ever exercised any remedies arising from Highland's failure to make the payment that was due on May 31, 2018?

A. I'm not aware of any.

Q. Instead, the forbearance agreement was entered, correct?

A. A forbearance agreement was entered into.

Q. Okay. And did you review this document before you signed it?

A. I don't remember signing this document. So I don't even -- I may have. I may not have.

Q. This is another one of the ancillary agreements that was identified in the 30(b)(6) notice, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. What did you do to prepare yourself to answer questions about this agreement?

A. Just read through the agreement.

Q. You never spoke with Mr. Cullinane about this agreement, right, because you never spoke to him at any time, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Do you recall discussing this document with anybody before you signed it?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Do you recall who asked you to sign it?

A. I don't.

Q. Do you recall where the idea of a forbearance agreement originated?

A. I don't.

Q. What was the benefit to HCLOM from entering into this forbearance agreement -- withdrawn.

Do you know why HCLOM entered into this forbearance agreement?

A. It's my general understanding that everything that was going on with the Acis bankruptcy and the litigation there, the forbearance agreement was entered into to kind of let things settle in the Acis bankruptcy.

Q. Is it HCLOM's position that Highland had an obligation to pay on the note regardless of whether or not it received any benefits in connection with the transfer agreement?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. So then what does the Acis bankruptcy have to do with anything? You mentioned the Acis bankruptcy and wanting to let things, you know, settle down. How does the Acis bankruptcy have any impact on Highland's obligation to pay HCLOM under the note?

A. I don't know. That's what I generally remember.

Q. HCLOM was relieved of the obligation to make the HCM stabilization fees, correct?

A. HCLOM was, yes.

Q. But HCLOM -- everybody knew that HCLOM wasn't receiving any fees under the portfolio management agreement, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. So there's no benefit to HCLOM from being relieved of an obligation it didn't have, fair?

A. There's no benefit to HCLOM -- I mean, yeah. HCLOM didn't have any assets.

Q. Right. And it didn't have any -- it wasn't receiving anything which would be defined as the HCM stabilization fees, correct?

A. Correct. Yeah. I mean, HCLOM never received -- it didn't have any assets; it wasn't getting any.

Q. And everybody knew that, right, at this time?

A. I mean, yes. There were people at HCLOM or Highland that knew about this.

Q. What was the benefit to HCLOM from entering into this forbearance agreement?

A. I mean, it's working with the investors. It's working with Highland to preserve that relationship with Highland. It's working to -- the CLO fees I think were still, you know, trying to be reset or moved over at some point. So I mean it's HCLOM's benefit to, you said, hasn't received anything, to work with Highland and kind of preserve that relationship.

Q. What investors are you referring to?

A. The investors in the CLOs.

Q. Why do the investors in the CLO care if Highland pays HCLOM under the note?

A. I mean, the investors care about entering into new agreements with HCLOM as manager of the CLO. What I'm referring to is HCLOM entered into forbearance while all that's going to be worked out with Highland to preserve its relationship with Highland.

Q. So HCLOM did this as a solid to Highland; that's the benefit that it got?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. I mean, you know, there's -- people work things out. There are work-outs. There are things that happen like that. I mean, it's -- if you get in a loan work-out situation, yeah, things like that happen.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) But usually the lender gets something in return, right? I'm not familiar with lenders agreeing to forebear and getting nothing in return and I'm still struggling to identify what -- I'm still struggling to hear from you if you can identify, as HCLOM's corporate representative today, what exactly HCLOM got in exchange for not getting paid.

A. Again, it's preservation of relationship, things like that.

Q. Okay. Any other things like that?

A. No.

Q. Did Mr. Dondero ever tell Mr. Cullinane that if HCLOM pressed for the payment under the notes, HCLOM can forget about being a CLO manager in the future?

A. You would have to ask Mr. Dondero.

Q. Did you ever hear that?

A. I didn't.

Q. Do you think the relationship would have been damaged if HCLOM asked for what it now contends it was entitled to under the note?

A. I mean, that's my understanding.

Q. Who did you get that understanding from?

A. Just being in the environment, being in -- it's -- if you are going to forebear something, right, with Highland -- what is HCLOM getting? HCLOM didn't receive cash. So, again, you are looking at this saying to enter into the forbearance agreement, right, what is it getting? It is getting a promise to pay in another year. And so it's preserving that relationship and kind of kicking the timetable out. So that's just kind of my bases just reading the document.

Q. Is it fair to say that there's a quid pro quo in this document that Highland won't ask for the HCM stabilization fees and HCLOM won't ask for the stabilization payments?

A. I mean, it's saying in one, HCM agrees it will not demand payment. Right? And then it says HCLOM agrees it will not demand payment of the stabilization payments for a period of one year.

So it's saying Highland agrees it will not demand payment of stabilization fees for a year, kicks it a year, and then HCLOM is saying that they won't demand payment for a year as well.

Q. Let's look at the next document which is the other forbearance agreement dated a year later.

(Exhibit 16 marked.)

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) And you have seen this document before, sir?

A. Yes.

Q. And you signed it now on behalf of both HCLOM and Highland, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. By this time, the Acis's plan had been confirmed, correct?

A. I don't remember when it was confirmed, but...

Q. Do you remember it was in the summer of 2018?

A. Okay. So, yeah.

Q. So there's no more Acis resets going on in May of 2019, correct?

A. Yeah, I don't think there are.

Q. And you signed this document on behalf of HCLOM, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember the circumstances that led you to sign this document in May of 2019 on behalf of both Highland and HCLOM?

A. I don't I mean absolutely. I think HCLOM -- when I reviewed this document, I looked at it and said, oh, wow, I signed on behalf of both entities.

Q. Yeah.

A. But, no, I don't recall.

Q. Is it fair to say that as of May 2019, there's no chance that HCLOM is ever going to be the portfolio manager for Acis, any Acis CLO?

A. The Acis bankruptcy was confirmed. If all that went to Brigade, then yeah. None of the Acis deals would have been able to go to HCLOM.

Q. Was there any business being contemplated with HCLOM in the first half of 2019?

A. The CLO group is always trying to want CLOs and do deals. I don't remember specifically.

Q. Do you remember generally? Do you remember HCLOM ever being identified -- let me finish -- do you remember HCLOM, Ltd. ever being identified as a portfolio manager in 2019?

A. I don't recall. Again, I don't recall, but there's a CLO team at Highland and it's responsible for that, but I don't recall.

Q. What benefit was there to HCLOM from entering into this amended-and-restated forbearance agreement?

A. The only thing I can think of is for -- again, to preserve that relationship as well.

Q. To preserve it for what?

A. For future fees or things like that.

Q. But you are not aware of any attempt being made by anybody in 2019 to install HCLOM, Ltd. as a portfolio manager that would generate fees, correct?

A. I don't recall, but I'm not saying there weren't efforts that were ongoing.

Q. But you have no reason to believe that there were any efforts ongoing; it's pure speculation, correct?

A. There is a team at Highland that is responsible for managing the CLOs. They routinely were, again, coming up with new CLOs, talking to investors. Just because I'm not aware of it doesn't mean that it wasn't going on in the background.

Q. Okay. You weren't a member of the team, right?

A. I wasn't.

Q. You had no personal knowledge of anything you are speculating about, correct?

A. I wasn't -- I wasn't a member of the Highland CLO team. I typically never engaged in any type of marketing or I never talked to CLO investors, anything like that. So that's part of that team and that's the unique thing about Highland is it was a CLO manager and there was a team of folks and that's how it grew up.

Q. And in fact, you have no personal knowledge of any discussion or attempt by anybody in the world after January 19, 2018, to install HCLOM, Ltd. as the portfolio manager of the CLO, correct?

A. I'm not aware of any, but that doesn't mean they weren't going on in the background.

MR. MORRIS: I'm going to move to strike everything after "I'm not aware of any."

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Do you recall anybody explaining to you why the amended-and-restated forbearance agreement was needed?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you know why Mr. Cullinane didn't sign this document?

A. No.

Q. Do you know who's handwriting it is that put your name and your titles on this document?

A. I do.

Q. Who is that?

A. Kristin.

Q. Kristin Hendrix?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Did she explain to you what this document was?
A. I can speculate, but I don't remember.
Q. I appreciate the lack of speculation.
MR. MORRIS: Let's take a short break. I'm really near the end. I have one or two documents left maybe.
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: Off the record. The time is 4:12.
(Break taken from 4:12 p.m. to 4:25 p.m.)
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: Back on the record. The time is 4:25.
Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) I have just a few more minutes, Mr. Waterhouse. Thank you for your patience. Let's go to what we'll mark as Exhibit 17, which is HCLOM, Limited's response to Highland's objection.
(Exhibit 17 marked.)
Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Do you see this document, sir?
A. Yes.
Q. And have you read it before?
A. Yes.
Q. And do you see that it was prepared in April of 2023?
A. Uh-huh.
Q. As HCLOM's corporate representative today, are you aware of any mistakes in this document?

A. I'm not aware.

Q. Are you aware of any amendments needed to fully and accurately set forth HCLOM's factual and legal bases for responding to the claimed objection?

A. I'm not aware.

Q. So HCLOM doesn't intend to amend this in any way; is that correct?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. Not that I'm aware of.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) There's a section in here starting on page eight concerning the Debtor's position taken in this case in the Acis bankruptcy case. Do you see that?

A. Which paragraph?

Q. It's the heading that's above 33.

A. Yeah.

Q. Do you see that section of this brief?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. As HCLOM's corporate representative, are you aware of any factors that are relevant to the position described in Heading C that are not described in this document?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. I'm not aware.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Let's mark as the next

Exhibit 18, a document that is labeled HCLOM's Combined Discovery Responses and Objections.

(Exhibit 18 marked.)

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Do you know what this document is, sir?

A. Yes.

Q. What is this document?

A. It's Highland's Combined Discovery Responses and Objections.

Q. If you look at page ten, you will see it's dated August 23, 2024. Do you see that?

A. August 23, 2024, yes.

Q. Did you personally review this document at any time before August 23, 2024?

A. I did not.

Q. So is it fair to say that this document doesn't reflect any comments or -- withdrawn.

Is it fair to say, then, that you did not have an opportunity to amend this document before it was served on me?

A. Yes. I mean, I didn't review it as of -- I read it later.

Q. Okay. You read it in accordance with the last page, the verification on or about September 11, 2024, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. In looking at the verification, it says that -- towards the bottom, quote, "Based on my personal knowledge and/or knowledge obtained from other persons believed to have personal knowledge, HCLOM's answers to the Debtor's interrogatories are true."

Have I read that correctly?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you identify what other persons you are referring to there with personal knowledge?

A. I didn't talk to anybody.

Q. Well, but it says that you did.

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) It says, quote, you obtained knowledge from, quote, "From other persons believed to have personal knowledge."

Is that just not accurate?

A. Yeah. I mean, I prepped with Deborah and Michael.

Q. And in verifying these interrogatories answers, you did not obtain any knowledge from other persons believed to have personal knowledge, correct?

A. Yeah. I just read through this document.

Q. Okay. So would it be more accurate to amend that statement to say, "Based on my personal knowledge and/or discussions with counsel, Highland's answers to the Debtor's interrogatories are true"?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. Sure.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) That would be more accurate because you did not, in fact, speak with anybody that you believed had personal knowledge, correct?

A. True.

Q. And you have no reason to believe that the lawyers you spoke with have personal knowledge regarding any of the facts of these interrogatory responses, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Are the responses set forth in this document accurate today to the best of your knowledge?

A. Yes.

Q. Are you aware of any responses that need to be amended or modified in any way to make them more accurate?

A. I'm not aware.

Q. Can you turn to Response Interrogatory Number 1, which is on the second page of the document.

Do you understand that HCLOM was asked to identify each thing of value that HCLOM provided for Highland's benefit in exchange for the transfer of the note? That's what the interrogatory asked, right?

A. Correct. Yeah.

Q. Does the answer to Interrogatory Number 1 accurately describe what HCLOM contends is, quote, "each thing of value" that HCLOM provided for Highland's benefit in exchange for the transfer of the note?

A. Yes. I mean, this seems fine.

Q. I'm looking at Interrogatory Number 2. That asks HCLOM to identify the person who negotiated the assignment on behalf of each party thereto. Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. HCLOM states that Mr. Surgent and Mr. Cournoyer drafted the terms of the assignment. Do you see that?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Do you know if anybody instructed them to do so?

A. I'm not aware.

Q. Do you have any reason to believe that Mr. Surgent and Mr. Cournoyer drafted the terms of the assignment without instruction or direction?

A. I wasn't -- I don't know.

Q. Did you make any effort to ascertain the voracity of the statement concerning Mr. Surgent and Mr. Cournoyer before signing the verification?

A. No. I took what counsel provided as correct.

Q. Then it says that Mr. Dondero executed the assignment on behalf of Acis and Highland. Do you see that?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. And you can see that from the document, correct?

A. (Moving head up and down.)

Q. And you can also --

A. Yes.

Q. And you can also see that Mr. Cullinane executed on behalf of HCLOM, correct?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Okay. But this interrogatory response doesn't identify the person who negotiated the assignment on behalf of each party thereto, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Is that because the assignment wasn't the subject of any negotiations?

A. I don't know.

Q. You don't know if it was the subject of negotiations?

A. I don't know, yeah.

Q. And you didn't speak with anybody who might have personal knowledge as to whether or not the document is the subject of negotiations, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Interrogatory Number 8 asks when HCLOM first disclosed the existence of the agreement to Mr. Terry or his counsel. Do you see that?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. And the answer is that -- there's an objection because Highland was actually the party that made the disclosure. Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know who on behalf of Highland made the disclosure?

A. I don't.

Q. Did you ever ask anybody who made that disclosure?

A. No.

Q. Do you know when the disclosure was made?

A. I don't.

Q. Do you know if it was before or after Acis filed for bankruptcy?

A. I don't know.

Q. Do you know anything about Highland's disclosure of the assignment to Acis or Mr. Terry?

A. I don't.

Q. If you flip a few pages there are Request for Admission. Do you see that?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. The first Request for Admission says, "Admit that HCLOM did not provide anything of value for Highland's benefit in exchange for the transfer of the note."

Do you see that? And HCLOM has denied it?

A. I'm sorry. What page are you --

Q. It's page seven. Take your time. I know we're all anxious to finish.

A. Yes, I see that.

Q. Okay. Do you see that Acis denied -- withdrawn.

Do you see that HCLOM denied the first Request for Admission?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know the bases for the denial?

A. I don't.

Q. Can you identify anything that HCLOM provided for Highland's benefit in exchange for the transfer of the note?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. It kind of goes along with the forbearance. You are preserving -- as a successor manager you are preserving that relationship. You are trying to reset the CLOs at the time, so...

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) But HCLOM is receiving the note?

A. Yeah.

Q. So I'm asking you what, if anything, HCLOM gave to -- withdrawn.

The request to admit had asked HCLOM to identify -- withdrawn.

The request to admit asks HCLOM to admit that it didn't give anything of value to Highland in exchange for the note, correct? And it was denied?

A. Correct.

Q. So does that mean that HCLOM contends that it gave something of value for Highland's benefit in exchange for the transfer of the note?

MR. AIGEN: Objection; form.

A. Based on the denial, it's saying it did not provide -- sorry.

Q. (BY MR. MORRIS) Take your time. It's late and it's a double-negative.

A. Admit that HCLOM did not provide. So we're denying. So HCLOM did provide value for Highland's benefit in exchange for transfer of the note.

Q. Exactly. And now I'm asking you what it actually provided of value to Highland's benefit.

Is it just what's in response to Interrogatory Number 1?

A. I --

Q. Because Interrogatory Number 1 asks HCLOM to identify anything of value. So can we just incorporate by reference? Can we say the denial is based on response to Interrogatory Number 1?

A. I -- I view -- my view is that HCLOM, again, is working -- again, working with Highland, become successor manager. As part of that, it's preserving that relationship. It's preserving the tax planning. You know, to me that's the benefit HCLOM is providing to Highland.

Q. The relationship is between and among the same people; isn't that right?

A. They are the same people, but as we established, they're different entities.

Q. But the same people are making the same decisions on behalf of both entities, correct?

A. Yeah. I mean the same individuals are involved, yes.

Q. And we looked at the roster of HCLOM's officers earlier, right?

A. Right.

Q. And it's you and Mr. Dondero and Mr. Ellington, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Who were the same leadership at Highland, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And are you worried about preserving the relationship with yourself?

A. I view this more as the -- you have a separate entity. This is just my view and then there are -- you are trying to respect the formalities. Right? So, yes, I understand that they're same players here but -- or the same individuals but, you know -- that's it.

Q. Just try and summarize here. HCLOM and Highland were at all times controlled by the same people, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And at all times the owners of HCLOM -- withdrawn.

And at all times the beneficial owners of HCLOM and Highland were the same, correct?

A. Yes. Up until 2022.

Q. Up until 2022.

MR. MORRIS: All right. I have no further questions. Thank you very much.

MR. AIGEN: Okay.

THE COURT REPORTER: Before we go off the record, do you want a copy of the transcript?

MR. AIGEN: Yeah. Can you get us a rough quickly?

THE COURT REPORTER: Yes. I'll send rough drafts out today. The final is being rushed for tomorrow. Do you need a rush?

MR. AIGEN: I don't need the final that quickly. Thursday is fine for me.

FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW IN SUPPORT OF ORDERS FOR RELIEF ISSUED AFTER TRIAL ON CONTESTED INVOLUNTARY BANKRUPTCY PETITIONS

Joshua N. Terry (the "Petitioning Creditor" or "Mr. Terry") filed involuntary bankruptcy petitions (the "Involuntary Petitions") against each of the two above-referenced related companies (the "Alleged Debtors") on January 30, 2018.[1] The Involuntary Petitions were contested, and the court held a multi-day trial (the "Trial") spanning March 21, 22, 23, 27, and March 29, 2018.[2] This constitutes the court's findings of fact, conclusions of law and ruling, pursuant to Fed. Rs. Bankr. Proc. 7052 and 9014.[3] As explained below, the court has decided that Orders for Relief are legally required and appropriate as to each of the Alleged Debtors.

I. FINDINGS OF FACT

A. Introduction.

1. The Alleged Debtors—Acis Capital Management, L.P. ("Acis LP"), a Delaware limited partnership, and ACIS Capital Management GP, L.L.C. ("Acis GP/LLC"), a Delaware limited liability company—are two entities in the mega-organizational structure of a company that is known as Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland").

2. Highland is a Dallas, Texas-based company that is a Registered Investment Advisor. Highland was founded in 1993 (changing its original name from "Protective Asset Management" to Highland in 1997) by James D. Dondero ("Mr. Dondero"), originally with a

[2] Shortly after the Involuntary Petitions were filed, the court held hearings on February 6-7, 2018, on the Petitioning Creditor's Emergency Motion to Abrogate or Modify 11 U.S.C. § 303(f), Prohibit Transfer of Assets, and Import, Inter Alia, 11 U.S.C. § 363 [DE # 3] (the "303(f) Motion") and the Alleged Debtors' Emergency Motion to Seek Emergency Hearing on the Alleged Debtors' Motion to Dismiss Involuntary Petitions and Request for Award of Fees, Costs, and Damages [DE # 9] (the "Emergency Motion to Set Hearing on Motion to Dismiss"). The court ultimately granted the 303(f) Motion and denied the Emergency Motion to Set Hearing on Motion to Dismiss. Both the Petitioning Creditor and the Alleged Debtors have proposed that the court should consider the evidence it heard at the hearings held on February 6-7, 2018, in determining whether it should enter orders for relief. The court has, accordingly, considered such evidence in this ruling.

[3] Bankruptcy subject matter jurisdiction exists in this contested matter, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1334(b). This is a core proceeding over which the bankruptcy court may exercise subject matter jurisdiction, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 157(b)(2)(A) and (O) and the Standing Order of Reference of Bankruptcy Cases and Proceedings (Misc. Rule No. 33), for the Northern District of Texas, dated August 3, 1984. This bankruptcy court has Constitutional authority to issue a final order or judgment in this matter, as it arises under a bankruptcy statute—11 U.S.C. § 303. Venue is proper in this district, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1409(a), as the Alleged Debtors have their business headquarters in this district.

75% ownership interest, and Mark K. Akada ("Mr. Akada"), originally with a 25% ownership interest.[4]

3. Both Mr. Dondero and Mr. Akada provided witness testimony at the Trial on the Involuntary Petitions, and their names are mentioned numerous times herein—since they were generally the subject of significant evidence and argument presented at the Trial. Mr. Dondero is the chief executive officer for Highland and Mr. Akada is the chief investment officer. Mr. Dondero is also the president of each of the two Alleged Debtors.

4. Highland, through its organizational structure of approximately 2,000 separate business entities, manages approximately $14-$15 billion of investor capital in vehicles ranging from: collateral loan obligation funds ("CLOs"); private equity funds; and mutual funds.

5. Highland's CLO business was front-and-center at the Trial on the Involuntary Petitions. The Alleged Debtor, Acis LP, for approximately the past seven years, has been the vehicle through which Highland's CLO business has been managed.

6. The Petitioning Creditor, Mr. Terry, became an employee of Highland in the year 2005, starting as a portfolio analyst, promoting to a loan trader, then ultimately becoming the portfolio manager for (and 25% limited partner in) Highland's CLO business—specifically, Mr. Terry was the human being who was acting for the CLO manager, Acis LP.

7. Mr. Terry was highly successful in his role in the CLO business, managing billions of dollars of assets during his tenure, but Mr. Terry and Mr. Dondero had a bitter parting of ways on June 9, 2016. Specifically, Mr. Terry's employment was terminated on that date (for reasons that have been highly disputed) and his 25% limited partnership interest in Acis LP was deemed forfeited without any payment of consideration to him.

8. In September 2016, Highland sued Mr. Terry in the 162nd Judicial District Court of Dallas County, Texas ("State Court 1") for breach of fiduciary duty/self-dealing, disparagement, breach of contract, and various other causes of action and theories. Mr. Terry asserted his own claims against Highland, and also claims against the two Alleged Debtors, Mr. Dondero, and others and demanded arbitration. On September 28, 2016, State Court 1 stayed the litigation and ordered the parties to arbitrate. The parties participated in ten days of arbitration in September 2017 before JAMS. On October 20, 2017, Mr. Terry obtained an Arbitration Award (herein so called),[5] jointly and severally against both of the Alleged Debtors in the amount of $7,949,749.15, plus post-award interest at the legal rate, which was based on theories of breach of contract and breach of fiduciary duties.

9. There are still claims pending between and among the Petitioning Creditor, Highland, and others (not including the Alleged Debtors) in State Court 1.

10. A Final Judgment (herein so called) confirming the Arbitration Award was entered by the 44th Judicial District Court of Dallas County, Texas ("State Court 2") on December 18, 2017, in the same amount as that contained in the Arbitration Award—$7,949,749.15.[6]

11. Mr. Terry began pursuing post-judgment discovery soon after obtaining his Arbitration Award and even more so after entry of the Final Judgment. Mr. Terry undertook a UCC search on November 8, 2017, to investigate whether there were any liens on the Alleged

[5] Exh. 1.

[6] Exh. 105.

Debtors' assets (none appeared).[7] Mr. Terry also pursued a garnishment of an Acis LP bank account (at a time when there was only around $2,000 in the account). Mr. Terry's counsel deposed Highland's General Counsel Scott Ellington (who sat for the deposition as a representative of Acis, LP) on January 26, 2018, and asked numerous questions about: (a) how many creditors the Alleged Debtors had, [8] and (b) whether Acis LP was able to pay its debts as they became due,[9] but did not receive meaningful answers.

12. Mr. Terry requested a temporary restraining order ("TRO") from State Court 2, on January 24, 2018, after discovering certain transactions and transfers involving Acis LP's interests, that he believed were pursued without any legitimate business purpose and with the purpose of denuding Acis LP of its assets and to make it judgment proof. Most particularly, it appeared as though Highland was engaged in a scheme to transfer certain fee-generating CLO management contracts of Acis LP away from it and into a Cayman Island affiliate of Highland.[10] At a January 24, 2018 hearing on the request for a TRO, Acis LP agreed and State Court 2 ordered that, between that hearing and a later hearing on a request for a temporary injunction, no CLO management contracts would be transferred away from Acis LP and that no monies would be diverted from it.[11]

13. Then, on January 29, 2018, the Controller of and CPA for Highland (David Klos) submitted a Declaration to State Court 2 concerning the net worth of the Alleged Debtors, stating that Acis GP/LLC had a net worth of $0 and that Acis LP might have a net worth, at best, of $990,141.[12] Mr. Terry thought this was preposterous—given the management fees that Acis LP was entitled to and the receivables that should be owing to it. Mr. Terry believes that the collateral management agreements on which Acis LP receives management fees have a present value of $30 million (about $6 million for each of the five CLOs which Acis LP has been managing).

14. On January 29, 2018, the Alleged Debtors filed a motion for leave to post a supersedeas bond in the amount of $495,070.50 with State Court 2 (purportedly half of the net worth of the two Alleged Debtors—as stated in the David Klos Declaration), so that they could suspend enforcement of the Final Judgment while they appealed it.[13] Although there is a very stringent standard for appealing an Arbitration Award, the Alleged Debtors apparently believe they have an argument that State Court 2 lacked the subject matter jurisdiction to confirm the Arbitration Award (a motion to vacate the Final Judgment based on this argument has previously been denied by State Court 2).[14]

15. Meanwhile, Mr. Terry was learning of more transactions and transfers involving Acis LP's assets and interests. On January 29, 2018, Mr. Terry filed supplemental pleadings with State Court 2, alleging that further shenanigans (i.e., transfers and transactions that would amount to fraudulent transfers) were underway at Acis LP and seeking a receiver.[15] Also, at some point, in the weeks leading up to this, an Acis LP lawyer represented to Mr. Terry's counsel that the Alleged Debtors were "judgment proof."[16]

16. At approximately 11:57 p.m. on January 30, 2018 (on the evening before a scheduled temporary injunction hearing in State Court 2—at which time State Court 2 presumably might have considered the Alleged Debtors' request to post the $495,070.50 supersedeas bond to stay enforcement of the Final Judgment), Mr. Terry filed the Involuntary Petitions, as a sole petitioning creditor, against both Acis LP and Acis GP/LLC.

17. For purposes of this Trial (and this Trial only), the Alleged Debtors do not dispute that Mr. Terry has standing to be a petitioning creditor pursuant to Bankruptcy Code section 303(b)—in other words, they do not dispute that Mr. Terry is a holder of a claim against the Alleged Debtors that is not contingent as to liability or the subject of a bona fide dispute as to liability or amount and that aggregates at least $15,775 in unsecured amount. However, the Alleged Debtors argue that: (a) the Alleged Debtors have 12 or more creditors and, thus, three or more petitioning creditors were required to prosecute the Involuntary Petitions pursuant to Bankruptcy Code section 303(b)(1); (b) the Petitioning Creditor did not establish, pursuant to Bankruptcy Code section 303(h)(1), that the Alleged Debtors are not generally paying their debts as such debts become due unless such debts are the subject of a bona fide dispute as to liability or amount; (c) regardless of whether the Petitioning Creditor has met the statutory tests in sections 303(b)(1) and (h)(1), the Petitioning Creditor has acted in bad faith—which serves as an equitable basis for dismissal of the Involuntary Petitions; and (d) if the court disagrees with the Alleged Debtors and determines that the section 303(b) and (h) statutory tests are met, and also determines that the Petitioning Creditor has not acted in bad faith, the court should nevertheless abstain in this matter, pursuant to Bankruptcy Code section 305, since this is essentially a two-party dispute and the interests of creditors and the debtor would be better served by dismissal.

18. The Petitioning Creditor argues that he has met the statutory tests of sections 303(b) and (h) but, even if he has not, there is a "special circumstances" exception to the section 303 statutory requirements, whenever a petitioning creditor establishes fraud, trick, scheme, artifice or the like on the part of an alleged debtor—which "special circumstances," Mr. Terry alleges, have been established here. Moreover, the Petitioning Creditor argues that the facts here do not warrant section 305 abstention because the interests of creditors and the Alleged Debtors would not be better served by dismissal.

19. As further explained below, the court finds and concludes that the Petitioning Creditor has met his burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that the statutory tests of sections 303(b) and (h) are met here. Thus, the court does not need to reach the question of whether there is a "special circumstances" exception to the section 303 statutory requirements, whenever a petitioning creditor establishes fraud, trick, scheme, artifice or the like on the part of an alleged debtor, and—if so—whether the exception is applicable here.[17]

20. Moreover, the Alleged Debtors have not shown by a preponderance of the evidence that the Petitioning Creditor acted in bad faith, such that the Involuntary Petitions should be dismissed.

21. Finally, the Alleged Debtors also have not shown facts here that warrant section 305 abstention because they have not shown that the interests of creditors and the Alleged Debtors would be better served by dismissal.

B. The CLO Business: Understanding the Alleged Debtors' Business Operations, Structure, and What Creditors and Interest Holders They Actually Have.

22. Highland set up its first CLO in the year 1996. Highland was one of the early participants in the CLO industry.

23. The Alleged Debtors were formed in 2011 to be the new "brand" or face of the Highland CLO business, after Highland's name had suffered some negative publicity in the marketplace.

24. Acis LP has acted as the portfolio manager of Highland's CLOs since 2011. Acis LP currently has a contractual right to CLO portfolio management fees on five CLOs[18] which were referred to at the Trial as CLO 2013-1; CLO 2014-3; CLO 2014-4; CLO 2014-5; and CLO 2016-6. CLOs typically have an 8-12 year life. Thus, there are still several years of life left on these CLOs (since the oldest one was established in the year 2013).

25. The key "players" in and features with regard to the Highland CLOs, during the time period relevant to the issues adjudicated at the Trial, have been:

(a) The CLO manager. As mentioned earlier, the CLO manager is the Alleged Debtor, Acis LP. Acis LP, has collateral management agreements (hereinafter, the "CLO Collateral Management Agreements") with the CLOs (which CLOs were set up as special purpose entities) and, pursuant thereto, receives [18] There is still another Highland CLO (CLO 2017-7), set up in April 2017, as to which Acis LP's contractual right to manage was terminated shortly before the Petition Date, as will be further described herein.

management fees[19] from the CLOs in exchange for managing the pool of assets within the CLOs and communicating with investors in the CLOs.[20] As mentioned earlier, Mr. Terry was the human being that performed the management function at Acis LP until Highland fired him on June 9, 2016 and also terminated his limited partnership interest in Acis LP. Mr. Terry, and all employees who have ever provided services to the CLO manager, are Highland employees—which were provided to Acis LP through shared and sub-advisory services agreements—as further explained below. Thus, to be clear, Acis LP has always essentially subcontracted its CLO managerial function out to Highland.

(b) The pool of assets. Within each CLO that the CLO manager manages is a basket of loans that the CLO manager purchases. The basket of loans typically consists of approximately 200 loans-payable (or portions of loans payable), on which large well-known companies typically are the makers/obligors (and which loans, collectively, provide a variable rate of interest).[21] The CLO manager can typically decide to buy and sell different loans to go into the pool of assets, with certain restrictions, during a four or five year reinvestment time period.

[19] These fees typically include "senior fees" (e.g., 15 basis points); additional "subordinate fees" (e.g., 25 basis points) if the CLOs are passing certain tests; and perhaps even an "incentive fee" beyond a certain hurdle rate (e.g., after the equity in the CLO received an internal rate of return of 10%, the CLO manager would get 15% of the excess). Exh. 82, p. 59, lines 14-25.

[20] See, as an example, Exh. 3 (the collateral management agreement between Acis LP and CLO 2014-3). Note that the document is entitled "Portfolio Management Agreement" but, to avoid confusion with other similarly titled documents and to highlight the true nature of the agreement, the court uses the defined term "CLO Collateral Management Agreement," which terminology the lawyers also sometimes used at the Trial.

[21] Exh. 8.

(c) The CLO investors (i.e., CLO note holders). These may be any number of persons or entities, including pension funds, life insurance companies, or others who decide to invest in the CLOs and contribute capital to fund the purchase of a CLO's loan pool, and, in return, receive fixed rate notes payable—the ratings on which can range anywhere from Triple-A to Single-B, depending upon the risk option the investor chooses. There are typically five or six traunches of notes issued by the CLO (with the top AAA-rated traunche being the least risky and the bottom traunche being the most risky) and—to be clear—the CLO itself (again, in each case, the CLO is a special purpose vehicle) is the obligor. As the CLO manager receives income from the pool of loans in the CLO, he distributes that income to the CLO investors, in accordance with their note indentures,[22] starting with the top traunche of notes and then down to the other traunches. The top traunche of notes (AAA-rated) is considered the "controlling" class and a majority of holders in this class can terminate the CLO manager (i.e., Acis LP) for cause on 45 days' notice, although all parties seem to agree this would be a rare event.

(d) The CLO equity holder. The CLO equity holder actually is a holder of subordinated notes issued by the CLOs (i.e., the bottom traunche of notes on which the CLO special purpose entity is obligated), and has voting rights and is itself a capital provider, but it takes the most risk and receives the very last cash flow from the CLOs. It, in certain ways, controls the CLO vehicle[23]—for example, by virtue of having the ability to make a redemption call after a certain "no-call" period—which would force a liquidation of the basket of loans in the CLO, with the proceeds paying down the traunches of notes, starting at the top with the Triple A's). Note that, until recently, a separate entity known as Acis Loan Funding, Ltd. ("ALF"), which was incorporated under the laws of the island nation of Guernsey,[24] was the CLO equity holder. To be clear, ALF was essentially the equity owner in the CLO special purpose entities—not the equity owner of Acis LP. Acis LP was a party to a separate portfolio management agreement with ALF (hereinafter, the "ALF Portfolio Management Agreement"—not to be confused with the CLO Collateral Management Agreements that Acis LP separately has with the special purpose CLOs). No fees were paid from ALF to Acis LP pursuant to the ALF Portfolio Management Agreement (rather, fees are only paid to Acis LP on the CLO Collateral Management Agreements). The complicated structure of the CLO business—all parties seemed to agree—has been developed, among other reasons, to comply with "risk-retention requirements" imposed by the U.S. Congress's massive Dodd-Frank financial reform legislation[25] enacted in year 2010, in response to the financial crisis and recession that first began in 2008.

[22] The indenture trustee on the CLO notes may actually operate as a payment agent in some cases, for purposes of making the quarterly note payments to holders.

[23] The top traunche of AAA notes also has certain control—such as the ability to terminate the portfolio manager for cause, on notice.

[24] Guernsey is located in the English Channel. ALF was created in August 2015.

[25] Simply put, one of the results of the Dodd-Frank legislation (i.e., the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act, Pub. L. 111-203, H.R. 4173, 124 Stat. 1376-2223, 111th Congress, effective July 21, 2010), which was implemented over a period of several years, was that, subsequent to December 2016, managers of securitizations needed to retain at least a 5% interest in that securitization. Thus, if a $400 million CLO were to be

(e) The Equity Owners of ALF. Until recently (i.e., until October 24, 2017—four days after the Arbitration Award), Acis LP itself, as required for a CLO manager, had a 15% indirect ownership in ALF, in order to be regulatory compliant.[26] The parties sometimes refer to ALF (and the web of ownership between it and Acis LP) as the "risk retention structure."[27] The evidence at the Trial revealed that ALF (which has recently been renamed), now, has three equity owners: (i) a 49% equity owner that is a charitable fund (i.e., a donor advised fund or "DAF") that was seeded with contributions from Highland, is managed/advised by Highland, and whose independent trustee is a long-time friend of Highland's chief executive officer, Mr. Dondero; (ii) 2% is owned by Highland employees; and (iii) finally, ALF may be 49% owned by a third-party institutional investor based in Boston that Highland believed it was required to keep anonymous at the Trial. Not only is the court unaware of who this independent third-party is, but the evidence seems to suggest that it may have acquired its interest fairly recently or may have simply committed to invest recently.[28] issued, the CLO manager would need to retain at least 5% or $20 million of the assets in the CLO (which 5% could be either all at the equity level or vertically, up and down the note traunches). There are multiple ways to accomplish this 5% retention (i.e., with either the CLO manager directly investing in at least 5% of the CLO or doing it through a controlled subsidiary). This particular rule was announced in December 2014 and the SEC thereafter issued a no action letter stating that if a CLO was issued prior to December 2014, then any refinancing of such CLO that happens within four years can be done without risk retention in place. Resets of any CLO (i.e., changes in terms and maturity—as opposed to mere changes in interest rates), on the other hand, must have risk retention in place. Four of Acis LP's current CLOs were issued prior to December 2014. Thus, these four CLOs are still technically able to do a refinancing without a risk retention structure in place. In any event, by early-to-middle 2017, Acis LP was risk retention compliant. Exh. 82, pp. 65-69 & 75. That was recently changed—on October 24, 2017—four days after the Arbitration Award—as later explained herein.

[26] See n.23, supra.

[27] See Demonstrative Aid No. 3.

[28] See Exh. 173, which seems to suggest that the only equity owners of ALF just prior to October 24, 2017 were Acis LP and the DAF, until Acis LP's interest in ALF was sold back to ALF on October 24, 2017. See also Exh. 82, p. 162, lines 2-7.

(f) The underwriter for the CLO notes. As with any publicly traded notes, there is an underwriter for the CLO notes which solicits investors for the CLO notes (examples given at the Trial: Mizuho Securities USA, LLC; Merrill Lynch; JP Morgan Chase).[29] The CLO notes are traded on the Over-the-Counter Market.

(g) The independent indenture trustee for the CLO notes. As also with any issuance of publicly traded notes, there is an indenture trustee (example given at the Trial: U.S. Bank).[30]

26. Mr. Terry, the Petitioning Creditor, as earlier mentioned, began working for Highland in 2005 until his employment was terminated on June 9, 2016.

27. Acis LP and Acis GP/LLC have never had any employees. Rather, all employees that work for any of the Highland family of companies (including Mr. Terry) have, almost without exception, been employees of Highland itself. Highland has approximately 150 employees in the United States. Highland provides employees to entities in the organizational structure, such as Acis LP and Acis GP/LLC, through both the mechanism of: (a) a Shared Services Agreement (herein so called),[31] which provides "back office" personnel—such as human resources, accounting, legal and information technology to the Highland family of companies; and (b) a Sub-Advisory Agreement (herein so called),[32] which provides "front office" personnel to entities—such as the managers of investments like Mr. Terry. The evidence indicated that this is typical in the CLO industry to have such agreements. The court notes that all iterations of the Shared Services Agreements and Sub-Advisory Agreements between Acis LP and Highland were signed by Mr. Dondero both as President of Acis LP and as President of the General Partner of Highland.

28. Because Acis LP essentially subcontracts out all of its functions to Highland pursuant to the Shared Services Agreement and the Sub-Advisory Agreement, Acis LP has very few vendors or creditors. Rather Highland incurs expenses and essentially bills them to Acis LP through these two agreements.[33] In other words, Highland is one of Acis LP's largest and most frequent creditor.

29. The evidence reflected that at all times Mr. Dondero has been the President of both of the Alleged Debtors, and there have been, at all times, very few, if any, other officers. It appears that the only other officer of Acis GP/LLC that ever existed was Frank Waterhouse, Treasurer.[34] It also appears that the only other officer of Acis LP that ever existed was Frank Waterhouse, Treasurer, Mr. Terry as Portfolio Manager, and someone named Patrick Boyce as Secretary at one time.[35]

30. Mr. Dondero testified that he has decision making authority for the Alleged Debtors but usually delegates that authority to Highland's in-house lawyers, Scott Ellington (General Counsel, Chief Legal Officer, and Partner of Highland) and Isaac Leventon (Assistant General Counsel of Highland) and is rarely involved in "nitty gritty negotiations." Sometimes instructions will come to him from the compliance group headed up by Chief Compliance Officer Thomas Surgent. Additionally, he testified that he signs hundreds of documents per week, and much of what he signs is on advice of counsel and he sometimes even delegates to his assistant the authority to sign his name. As set forth above, Mr. Ellington (who did not testify at the Trial)[36] and Mr. Leventon (who did testify at the Trial) are not officers, directors, or employees of the Alleged Debtors. Mr. Leventon is designated to be the representative for the Alleged Debtors (and testified as a Rule 30(b)(6) witness during pre-Trial discovery)—he explained that this representative-authority derives from the Shared Services Agreement. Mr. Leventon testified that he takes his instructions generally through his direct supervisor, Mr. Ellington, although Highland partners can ask him to perform legal services for any of Highland's 2,000 entities.

C. Transfers and Transactions Involving the Alleged Debtors Since the Litigation with Mr. Terry Commenced—and Especially After the Arbitration Award.

31. Below is a listing of some (but not necessarily all) of the transfers and transactions that the Alleged Debtors, Highland, and related parties undertook after the litigation with Mr. Terry commenced.

(a) Acis LP's Sale to Highland of a "Participation Interest" in its CLO Cash Flow Stream. On October 7, 2016 (approximately one month after the litigation arose among Mr. Terry, Highland, and the Alleged Debtors), Acis LP sold to Highland a participation interest in its expected future cash flow from the CLO Collateral Management Agreements—specifically, it sold a portion of the cash flow it expected to earn from November 2016 to August 2019 (not the full life of the CLOs), for $666,655 cash, plus a $12,666,446 note payable from Highland to [36] Mr. Ellington did testify at a hearing in the bankruptcy court on February 6, 2018—which the parties asked this court to take judicial notice of—and also provided deposition testimony that was submitted into evidence. See Exh. 25.

Acis LP (hereinafter, the "Acis LP Note Receivable from Highland"). Mr. Dondero signed the purchase and sale agreement for both purchaser and seller.[37] Mr. Dondero signed the Acis LP Note Receivable from Highland, which accrued interest at 3% per annum. It appears that the $666,665 cash down payment was actually paid, and a payment required on the Acis LP Note Receivable from Highland of $3,370,694 on May 31, 2017, was actually made. The Acis LP Note Receivable from Highland was payable in three installments, with a $5,286,243 payment required on May 31, 2018, and a $4,677,690 payment required on May 31, 2019. When viewed in complete isolation, this transaction does not necessarily appear problematic. Although there was evidence that Acis LP had been managing the five CLOs for about $10 million per year of fees, some of the recitals in the purchase and sale agreement suggest that there may have been a sound business reason for the transaction and the arbitration panel,[38] viewing this transaction in isolation, did not think it was necessarily problematic or actionable. In any event, Highland is adamant it was a net neutral transaction.

(b) Transfer of Acis LP's interest in ALF. Recall that ALF was the entity that held equity (i.e., the subordinated notes) in the CLO special purpose vehicles, and held voting rights and was a capital provider to the overall risk retention structure supporting the CLOs. And Acis LP, in turn, held a 15% indirect interest in ALF. On October 24, 2017 (four days after the Arbitration Award), Acis, LP entered into an agreement with ALF whereby ALF acquired back the shares that Acis LP indirectly held in ALF (966,679 shares) for the sum of $991,180.13.[39] No credible business justification was offered for this transaction, other than mostly uncorroborated (and self-serving) statements from Highland witnesses that Acis LP was "toxic" in the market place (due to the litigation with Mr. Terry) and this was a step in the process of extricating Acis LP from the CLO business.[40] The court finds the testimony about Acis LP's toxicity in the marketplace to not be credible or at all convincing. For one thing, a new CLO (Acis CLO 2017-7, Ltd.) was closed on April 10, 2017 with Acis LP as the portfolio manager. Moreover, Acis LP subcontracts all of its CLO management function to Highland—and there was no evidence to suggest that anyone in the marketplace at this juncture differentiates between Acis LP (whose president is Mr. Dondero) and Highland (whose president is Mr. Dondero). In any event, the October 24, 2017 transaction had the highly consequential effect of making Acis LP "noncompliant" or unable to continue serving as a CLO manager for regulatory purposes for any new CLOs or reset CLOs (or for a refinancing of any of the Highland CLOs that had been created after December 2014)[41] because aspects of the federal Dodd Frank legislation require CLO managers to have "skin in the game" with regard to the CLOs they manage (i.e., they must retain at least 5% of CLOs they manage). Mr. Akada, who testified that he had been involved with the CLO business from the beginning and that the CLO team reported to him (including Mr. Terry before his termination), testified that he had no knowledge of this particular transaction. The document effectuating this transaction was signed by Frank Waterhouse, Treasurer for and on behalf of Acis LP, acting by its general partner, Acis GP/LLC.[42]

[37] Exhs. 14 & 15.

(c) ALF Next Decides to Jettison Acis, LP as its Portfolio Manager and Replace it with a new Highland Cayman Island Entity. On October 27, 2017 (seven days after the Arbitration Award), ALF—having purchased back the ownership interest that Acis LP had in it, just three days earlier—decided that it would no longer use Acis LP as its portfolio manager and entered into a new portfolio management agreement to supersede and replace the ALF Portfolio Management Agreement. Specifically, on October 27, 2017, ALF entered into a new Portfolio Management Agreement with a Cayman Island entity called Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd., replacing Acis LP in its role with ALF.[43] This agreement appears to have been further solidified in a second portfolio management agreement dated November 15, 2017.[44]

(d) The Acis LP Note Receivable from Highland is Transferred from Acis LP to Yet Another Highland Cayman Island Entity. On November 3, 2017 (10 days after the Arbitration Award), Acis LP assigned and transferred its interests in the Acis LP Note Receivable from Highland—which at that point had a balance owing of over $9.5 million—to a Highland Cayman Island entity known as Highland CLO

Management Ltd. which apparently was created sometime recently to be the new collateral manager of the CLOs (in other words, the new Acis LP).[45] The Assignment and Transfer Agreement memorializing this transaction is signed by Mr. Dondero for Acis LP and Mr. Dondero for Highland and some undecipherable name for Highland CLO Management Ltd.[46] The document recites that (i) Highland is no longer willing to continue providing support services to Acis LP, (ii) Acis LP, therefore, can no longer fulfill its duties as a collateral manager, and (iii) Highland CLO Management Ltd. agrees to step into the collateral manager role if Acis LP will assign to it the Acis LP Note Receivable from Highland. One more thing: since Acis LP was expected to potentially incur future legal and accounting/administrative fees, and might not have the ability to pay them when due, Highland CLO Management Ltd. agreed to reimburse Acis LP (or pays its vendors directly) up to $2 million of future legal expenses and up to $1 million of future accounting/administrative expenses.[47]

(e) Various Additional Transactions that further Transitioned CLO Management and Fees Away from Acis LP to Highland Cayman Island Entity. On December 19, 2017—just one day after the Arbitration Award was confirmed with the entry of the Final Judgment—the vehicle that can most easily be described as the Acis LP "risk retention structure" (necessitated by federal Dodd Frank law) was transferred away from Acis LP and into the ownership of Highland CLO

Holdings, Ltd. (yet another Cayman Island entity, incorporated on October 27, 2017[48]).

(f) In addition to transferring Acis LP's interest in the Acis LP risk retention structure on December 19, 2017, Acis LP also transferred its contractual right to receive management fees for Acis CLO 2017-7, Ltd. (which had just closed April 10, 2017), which Mr. Terry credibly testified had a combined value of $5 million, to Highland CLO Holdings, Ltd., another Cayman entity, purportedly in exchange for forgiveness of a $2.8 million receivable that was owed to Highland under the most recent iteration of the Shared Services Agreement and Sub-Advisory Agreement for CLO-7.[49] In conjunction with this transfer, Highland CLO Holdings, Ltd. then entered into new Shared Services and Sub-Advisory Agreements with Highland.[50]

(g) Change of Equity Owners of the Alleged Debtors. When Acis LP was first formed, it was owned by one general partner (Acis GP/LLC, with a .1% interest) and it had three limited partners: (a) Dugaboy Investment Trust (a Dondero family trust of which either Mr. Dondero or his sister, Nancy Dondero, have been the Trustee at all relevant times) with a 59.9% interest; (b) Mr. Terry with a 25% interest; and (c) Mr. Akada with a 15% interest. When Acis GP/LLC was formed

(i.e., the .1% owner of Acis LP), its sole member was the Dugaboy Investment Trust. After Mr. Terry was terminated by Highland, his 25% limited partnership interest in Acis LP was forfeited and divided among the two remaining limited partners: Mr. Akada (increasing his interest by 10% up to 25%), and Dugaboy Investment Trust (increasing its interest by 15% up to 74.9%). But, more importantly, on the day after entry of Mr. Terry's Final Judgment (i.e., on December 18, 2017), both Mr. Akada and Dugaboy Investment Trust conveyed their entire limited partnership interests in Acis LP—25% and 74.9%, respectively—to a Cayman Island entity called Neutra, Ltd., a Cayman Islands exempted company. Dugaboy Investment Trust also conveyed its 100% membership interest in Acis GP/LLC to Neutra, Ltd. Mr. Akada testified that he did this on advice of counsel. He also did not dispute that he had made millions of dollars of equity dividends from his equity investment in Acis LP in recent years[51]—which he conveyed away for no consideration on December 18, 2017.

(h) The Intended Reset of Acis CLO 2014-3. With all of the above maneuverings having been accomplished, Highland was posed to do a reset on Acis CLO 2014-3 in February 2018 (until Mr. Terry filed the Involuntary Petitions). The investment bank Mizuho Securities USA, LLC was engaged November 15, 2017[52] and a final offering circular was issued in January 2018[53]—contemplating a reset of Acis CLO 20-14-3 with the recently created Highland CLO Management Ltd.

Identified as the new portfolio manager, rather than Acis LP. The act of implementing a reset on the CLO was not in itself suspect. However, the reset would, of course, have the effect of depriving Acis LP from a valuable asset—an agreement that could realistically be expected to provide millions of dollars of future collateral management fees—coincidentally (or not) just after Mr. Terry obtained his large judgment.

D. Findings Regarding Credibility of Witnesses.

32. The court found the testimony of Mr. Terry to be very credible. He was very familiar with the financial condition of the Alleged Debtors, since he presided over the business of the Alleged Debtors from their inception until June 9, 2016, and has also closely followed publicly available information regarding the companies since his termination. Mr. Terry credibly testified that the Alleged Debtors have never had a significant number of creditors, since most of the Alleged Debtors' vendors are engaged by and send their invoices to Highland, and Highland simply obtains reimbursement from the Alleged Debtors (and other entities in the Highland family), as its in-house lawyers determine is appropriate, through the Shared Services Agreement and Sub-Advisory Agreement. Thus, Highland should at all times be the Alleged Debtors' main creditor. The court finds that Mr. Terry had a good faith belief that the Alleged Debtors had only a handful of creditors (maybe four or so) besides him and Highland. The court also finds that Mr. Terry—at the time he filed the Involuntary Petitions—had a good faith belief that the Alleged Debtors and those controlling them were engaged in an orchestrated, sophisticated effort to denude the Alleged Debtors of their assets and value (i.e., transferring assets and rights for less than reasonably equivalent value), which started with intensity after issuance of the Arbitration Award (if not sooner).[54]

33. The court found the testimony of almost all of the witnesses for the Alleged Debtors to be of questionable reliability and, oftentimes, there seemed to be an effort to convey plausible deniability. For example, sometimes business decisions concerning the Alleged Debtors were said to have been made by a "collective," and other times the in-house Highland lawyers (who, of course, are not themselves officers or employees of Acis LP and Acis GP/LLC) stressed that Mr. Dondero (the president and manager of the two entities) had ultimate decision making authority for them. Meanwhile, Mr. Dondero testified that, while he has decision making authority at Acis LP, he usually delegates to Highland's in-house lawyers Scott Ellington and Isaac Leventon. He testified that he signs hundreds of documents per week and often must rely on information of others when signing. Additionally, Mr. Dondero (again, the President of each of the Alleged Debtors) testified that he had never even read the Arbitration Award. While Mr. Dondero is the chief executive of a multi-billion dollar international investment company, and naturally has widespread responsibilities and must delegate to and rely upon others including lawyers, this court simply does not believe that he never read the Arbitration Award. The court perceived the animosity between Mr. Dondero and Mr. Terry to be rather enormous and Mr. Dondero even testified (as did others) that the litigation with Mr. Terry was hurting Acis LP and Highland in the CLO marketplace (i.e., no investors or underwriters wanting to be associated with the Acis brand).[55] If that were the case, it strains credulity to suggest Mr. Dondero never even read the Arbitration Award.

34. As mentioned earlier, in December 2017, Acis GP/LLC became 100% owned by a Cayman Island entity known as Neutra, Ltd. (whose beneficial owner is a Dondero family trust) and Acis LP became 99.9% owned by Neutra, Ltd. The directors of Acis GP/LLC and Acis LP are provided to it now by an entity known as "Maples Fiduciary Services"—another Cayman Island entity, but the Highland Assistant General Counsel could not remember the names of those directors provided to Acis GP/LLC and Acis LP, except for perhaps one. Mr. Dondero, when questioned about some of the recent transactions pertaining to Acis LP, testified that there were tax reasons—tax lawyers recommended the recent transactions and transfers. No tax lawyers testified. Mr. Dondero also testified that certain transactions were at the directive of the Thomas Surgent group (the Highland chief compliance officer). Neither Mr. Surgent nor anyone else from the compliance group testified.

35. Meanwhile, Mr. Akada, who, while testifying, seemed like a generally lovely person and seemed as knowledgeable as a human being could possibly be on the topic of CLOs generally, had no idea if he was an officer or director of the Alleged Debtors, nor did he know whom its officers were. He could not testify as to the meaning of certain transactions in which Acis LP had engaged in during recent weeks and said that he signed certain documents on advice of counsel. He also could not even testify as to whether Highland was opposing the Involuntary Petitions.

36. Again, there was a lot of plausible deniability at Trial as to the "whos" and "whys" for the recent maneuverings involving the Alleged Debtors assets and rights in the weeks since the Arbitration Award. The one thing that the court was wholly convinced of was that conflicts of interest among Highland and the Alleged Debtors abound, and no one is looking out for the interests of the Alleged Debtors as a fiduciary should.

[55] No such investors or underwriters provided testimony.

E. Evidence Regarding the Number of Creditors of the Alleged Debtors.[56]

37. The Alleged Debtors do not dispute Mr. Terry's claim for the purposes of counting creditors under section 303(b) of the Bankruptcy Code. However, Mr. Terry asserts that the Alleged Debtors have fewer than 12 creditors, and the Alleged Debtors dispute this fact. Specifically, the Alleged Debtors initially filed on January 31, 2018, a Notice of List of Creditors Pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr. P. 1003(b) signed by Mr. Dondero listing 18 creditors (the "Original Notice of Creditors").[57] The Alleged Debtors subsequently filed on February 5, 2018, a First Amended Notice of List of Creditors Pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr. P. 1003(b) signed by Mr. Leventon listing 19 creditors (the "First Amended Notice of Creditors").[58] Finally, the Alleged Debtors filed on March 6, 2018, a Second Amended Notice of List of Creditors Pursuant to Fed. R. Bank. P. 1003(b) signed by Mr. Leventon listing 20 creditors (the "Second Amended List of Creditors").[59] The following chart summarizes the name, amount, and nature of the 20 creditors listed by the Alleged Debtors in their Second Amended List of Creditors.

[56] The court notes that neither Mr. Terry nor the Alleged Debtors attempted to differentiate between the creditors of Acis GP/LLC versus the creditors of Acis LP, but rather presented evidence regarding the collective number of creditors for both of the Alleged Debtors. This seems legally appropriate, since Acis LP is the entity that incurred most of the debt, and ACIS GP/LLC would be liable on such debt as the general partner of Acis LP.

38. First, the court believes it necessary to remove certain insider creditor claims, which are required not to be counted pursuant to section 303(b)(2) of the Bankruptcy Code.[61] This would clearly include Highland (the Alleged Debtors do not dispute this).

[60] The dollar amounts listed here are based upon the amounts listed in the Second Amended List of Creditors.

39. Additionally, there were certain creditors that filed sworn statements saying they were not creditors of the Alleged Debtors or were subsequently removed from the creditor list by agreement of the Alleged Debtors. These creditors would include Case Anywhere, CSI Global Deposition Services,[62] Elite Document Technology, JAMS, Inc.,[63] Stanton Advisors LLC,[64] and the TASA Group, Inc..[65] Thus, the updated chart now shows 13 creditors of the Alleged Debtors.

40. Next, the court finds that there are certain creditors included in the "Law Firm Vendor" category (e.g., experts, data hosting, document managers, court reporters) that are really creditors of the individual law firms and/or Highland, and that these law firm vendor creditors should not be considered creditors of the Alleged Debtors. For these, there was no evidence of a direct contractual obligation on the part of either the Alleged Debtors or Highland—although the court certainly understands that, when the law firms would retain vendors, they would bill these to either the Alleged Debtors or Highland as an expense to be reimbursed. Most of these were already eliminated with agreement of the Alleged Debtors but, from the remaining list of creditors, this would include David Langford (a Dallas County court reporter).[66] To be clear, while the individual law firm creditors may ultimately have a right to reimbursement for these vendor expenses from Highland (who may then potentially have a right to reimbursement from the Alleged Debtors via the Shared Services and Sub-Advisory Agreements), the court does not find this vendor to have a claim directly against the Alleged Debtors for purposes of section 303(b) of the Bankruptcy Code.

[66] See Exh. 40D, Exh. 187, Exh. 40O.

41. Next, as to the Stanton Law Firm, the court finds that this creditor should also be removed from the pool of creditors that "count," for section 303(b) purposes, since this claim appears to be the subject of a "bona fide dispute as to liability or amount,"[67] based on the evidence presented at the Trial. First, there was no engagement letter between either of the Alleged Debtors and the Stanton Law Firm produced.[68] Second, the heavily redacted invoice of the Stanton Law Firm dated October 18, 2016 shows only that it was relating to the "Joshua Terry Matter" and that it was billed to Highland.[69] Third, the Responses and Objections to Mr. Terry's Notice of Intention to Take Depositions by Written Questions sent to the Stanton Law Firm[70] provides the following responses:

> Question No. 22: Does the Firm currently represent Acis Capital Management GP, LLC? If so, please state the representation?
> Answer: Based on Acis's assertion that this question calls for information protected by the attorney-client privilege, the Firm cannot answer this question at this time. . . .[71]

The court finds that this evidence demonstrates that the claim of the Stanton Law Firm is the subject of a bona fide dispute as to either liability or amount and should not be counted since there is no real way of even knowing who the Stanton Law Firm was engaged by and, thus, whether the Alleged Debtors are even responsible for these alleged legal fees. The court would also specifically refer to the testimony of Mr. Leventon, the in-house lawyer employed by Highland who was in charge of allocating all of the bills that came into Highland's legal invoicing system, where he described a process in which all legal bills relating to the "Terry Matter" would automatically be assigned to the Alleged Debtors, without any real regard to whether the particular law firm had even been engaged by the Alleged Debtors or if whether the [71] See Exhibit 139.

representation was actually relating to one of the other parties in the Terry litigation (e.g., Highland, Mr. Dondero, etc.). Accordingly, the court finds that there is a bona fide dispute as to whether the Alleged Debtors are actually liable for the Stanton Law Firm legal fees and that they should not be counted as a creditor for purposes of section 303(b) of the Bankruptcy Code.[72]

42. Thus, it appears, at most, that there are 11 creditors[73] of the Alleged Debtors as set forth in the chart below:

[73] The court notes that, in all likelihood, the list of creditors that should be tallied for purposes of section 303(b) may actually be less than 11, because certain of the remaining creditors (i.e., Drexel Limited, Highfield Equities, Inc., Lackey Hershman LLP, and David Simek) received payments during the 90 days preceding the Petition Date—and, thus, arguably should not be counted as creditors pursuant to section 303(b) of the Bankruptcy Code (which instructs that transferees of voidable transfers should not be counted). See, e.g., Exh. 124 & Exh. 131. Additionally, certain of the remaining law firm creditors that are owed legal fees are also creditors of Highland and Highland-affiliates, not just the Alleged Debtors. To elaborate, many of these law firm creditors were employed to represent not only the Alleged Debtors, but also Highland and Highland-affiliates, so there may be an actual dispute as to the allocation of these legal fees among Highland and the Alleged Debtors (thus there could be bona fide disputes as to the amounts allocated by Highland's in-house lawyers to the Alleged Debtors). See, e.g., Ex. 123 (McKool Smith, P.C. engagement letter referencing representation of numerous parties) & Exhibit 90 (Reid Collins & Tsai's Answers and Objections to Mr. Terry's Deposition by Written Questions, questions 13 & 14, stating that based upon allocation determinations to be made by Highland, other individuals may be liable for the full amount of the debt including Acis LP, Highland, Mr. Dondero, and Mr. Okada).

43. Finally, on the topic of creditor numerosity, the court further finds that the evidence strongly suggested hurried manufacturing of creditors on the part of the Alleged Debtors and Highland, in order to bolster an argument that having a sole petitioning creditor was legally inadequate in this case.[75] For example, the Klos Declaration and other information, that was provided to State Court 2 and in discovery, only days before the Involuntary Petitions were filed, [74] Mr. Terry has also argued that certain of the law firm creditors (McKool Smith, P.C., Lackey Hershman, LLP, and Reid Collins & Tsai) are "insiders" that must be excluded from the creditor list pursuant to section 303(b) of the Bankruptcy Code. While there may be some support in case law for such an argument, Mr. Terry would ultimately need to show by a preponderance of the evidence that the law firms exercised such control or influence over the Alleged Debtors as to render their transactions not at arm's length. See In re CorrLine Intern., LLC, 516 B.R. 106, 157-58 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 2014) (citing to Kepler v. Schmalbach (In re Lemanski), 56 B.R. 981, 983 (Bankr.W.D.Wis.1986)). See also In re Holloway, 955 F.2d 1008, 1011 (5th Cir. 1992) (in evaluating whether insider status existed for purposes of evaluating alleged fraudulent conveyance court considered (1) the closeness of the relationship between the transferee and the debtor; and (2) whether the transactions between the transferee and the debtor were conducted at arm's length). Because there was no evidence suggesting abuse or control by these law firm creditors, nor was there any evidence that would suggest that their dealings with the Alleged Debtors were anything but arm's length, the court finds that these law firm creditors should not be excluded from the creditor list as "insiders" pursuant to section 303(b) of the Bankruptcy Code.

[75] See the Original Notice of Creditors, the First Amended Notice of Creditors, and the Second Amended Notice of Creditors.

seemed to show only a small number of creditors of Acis LP—Mr. Terry credibly testified that he thought there were less than 12 creditors based on his review of such information, as well as his understanding of the Alleged Debtors' business. Yet, only a few days later, the Alleged Debtors filed their Original Notice of Creditors, which showed 18 creditors, which was amended twice to add another creditor and then yet another. This simply does not jive in the court's mind and supports this court's belief that the Alleged Debtors were scurrying to determine which Highland creditors might cogently be painted as Acis LP creditors—so as to preclude Mr. Terry from being able to file the Involuntary Petitions as the single, petitioning creditor.

F. Evidence Regarding Whether the Alleged Debtors are Generally Not Paying Debts as They Become Due (Unless Such Debts are the Subject of a Bona Fide Dispute as to Liability or Amount).

44. The evidence submitted reflects that, for the 11 creditors identified above, 9 out of 11 have unpaid invoices that were more than 90 days old. The remaining 2 of the 11 were McKool Smith, P.C. (current counsel for the Alleged Debtors) and the Petitioning Creditor.[76] The court makes findings with regard to each of the 11 creditors below—focusing specifically on whether the Alleged Debtors have been paying these creditors as their debts have become due.

45. First, with regard to Andrews Kurth & Kenyon ("AKK"), the evidence reflected that out of the $211,088.13 allegedly owed by Acis LP to AKK, the great majority of it—$173,448.42—was invoiced on November 16, 2016[77] (more than 14 months before the Petition Date). Other, smaller amounts were invoiced on a monthly basis in each of the months August 2017, September 2017, October 2017, November 2017, and December 2017. Although requested in discovery, no engagement letter for AKK was produced and AKK represented in written discovery that, to its knowledge, none existed.[78] The court notes anecdotally that AKK's invoices (although allegedly related to Acis LP legal matters) were addressed to Highland.[79] In any event, AKK represented that both the Alleged Debtors and Highland are jointly and severally liable for the fees owed to it.[80] AKK also represented that, to its knowledge, the amounts owing to it by Acis LP and Highland are not disputed.[81] AKK also represented that it has not provided legal work on a contingency basis for the Alleged Debtors or Highland.[82] The court makes a logical inference that AKK expected timely payment of its invoices—the largest of which was dated more than 14 months prior to the Petition Date—and, thus, it has generally not been paid timely.

[77] Exh. 40.

46. Next, with regard to Drexel Limited, the Petitioning Creditor concedes that its $6,359.96 indebtedness (which is a fee rebate owing to it) is not past-due.

47. Next, with regard to Highfield Equities, Inc., the Petitioning Creditor concedes that its $2,510.04 indebtedness (which is also a fee rebate owing to it) is not past-due.

48. Next, with regard to the Jones Day law firm, the $368.75 indebtedness owed to it is well more than 90 days old. Specifically, there is a six-and-a-half-month old invoice dated July 19, 2017 invoice in the amount of $118.75, and two five-month old invoices dated August 30, 2017 (both in the amount of $150).[83] The court makes a logical inference that Jones Day expected timely payment of its invoices prior to the Petition Date and, thus, it has generally not been paid timely.

49. Next with regard to the Petitioning Creditor, Mr. Terry, the court notes that his liquidated claim in the amount of $8,060,827.84 first arose with the final Arbitration Award on October 20, 2017 (although such award was not confirmed by State Court 2 until December 18, 2017). The judgment was unstayed as of the January 30, 2018 Petition Date, although the Alleged Debtors state that they still desire to appeal it—as difficult as that is in the situation of an arbitration award. The court makes a logical inference that the Alleged Debtors had, on the Petition Date, no intention of paying this claim any time soon based on their conduct after the Arbitration Award—although the Arbitration Award had only been in existence for three-and-a-half months as of the Petition Date. The cash in the Alleged Debtors' bank accounts is wholly insufficient to cover the Arbitration Award and, meanwhile, corporate transactions have been ongoing to ensure that no cash streams will be coming into Acis LP in the future in the same way that they have in the past. Thus, this court finds that this large claim, as of the Petition Date, was not being paid timely.

50. Next with regard to KPMG LLP, the $34,000 indebtedness owed to it was for the service of auditing Acis LP's financial statements, pursuant to an engagement letter with it dated March 1, 2017.[84] KPMG's engagement letter reflected a $40,000 flat fee was agreed to by Acis LP for the service, of which 40% was due October 2017 (i.e., $16,000), with another 45% was due in January 2018 ($18,000), and the remaining 15% would be due at the time that a final bill was sent. Acis LP has only paid $6,000 of the agreed upon amount—meaning $28,000 was overdue as of the January 30, 2018 Petition Date (with $10,000 of that being four months past due). The court makes a logical inference that KPMG LLP expected payment of its audit fees in accordance with its engagement letter and, thus, it has generally not been paid timely.

51. Next with regard to Lackey Hershman LLP, the $236,977.54 indebtedness owed to it was for legal services provided to the Alleged Debtors and Highland in connection with the arbitration and litigation with Mr. Terry. No engagement letter was provided, but the invoices for their services are all directed to Highland.[85] The evidence reflected that three invoices had not been paid as of the Petition Date: an October 31, 2017 invoice in the amount of $56,909.53; a November 30, 2017 invoice setting forth new fees in the amount of $84,789.83; and a December 31, 2017 invoice setting forth new fees in the amount of $95,278.18.[86] The court makes a logical inference that Lackey Hershman LLP expected prompt payment on its invoices (if nothing else, the statement on its invoice indicating "Total now due")[87] and, thus, it has generally not been paid timely.

52. Next with regard to Reid Collins & Tsai LLP, the $17,383.75 indebtedness owed to it was billed in an invoice dated August 31, 2017, indicating an August 31, 2017 "Due Date" (five months before the Petition Date).[88] Although requested in discovery, no engagement letter for this firm was produced and Reid Collins & Tsai LLP in fact represented in written discovery that none existed.[89] Moreover, written discovery propounded on the law firm indicated that, while Acis LP was liable on this debt, other parties including Acis GP/LLC, Highland, Mr.

Dondero, the Dugaboy Trust, and Mr. Akada might also be liable for the full amount of the debt—subject to Highland's allocation determinations.[90] Based on this evidence, the court makes a logical inference that Reid Collins & Tsai LLP generally has not been paid timely.

53. Next with regard to CT Corporation and the $517.12 indebtedness that the Alleged Debtors represent is owed, CT Corporation asserts that $4,074.84 is, in fact, owed to it by Acis LP and Acis GP/LLC.[91] CT Corporation also believes Highland has liability for the Alleged Debtors' indebtedness.[92] CT Corporation also believes the amount owed to it is undisputed.[93] CT Corporation further represents that its invoices are due upon receipt.[94] CT Corporation produced several invoices in discovery, all showing due upon receipt, and one was dated as far back as December 31, 2016 (in the amount of $932).[95] Based on this evidence, the court makes a logical inference that CT Corporation expected prompt payment on its invoices and, thus, has not been paid timely.

54. Next with regard to David Simek, the Petitioning Creditor concedes that his $1,233.19 indebtedness (which is apparently an expense reimbursement relating to some consulting) is not past-due.

55. In summary, the evidence reflects that the creditors of the Alleged Debtors are generally not being paid timely (except for perhaps four that are relatively insignificant and which may also be able to look to Highland for payment).[96]

56. Further on the topic of timeliness, Mr. Leventon (Highland's in-house Assistant General Counsel) testified that 96% of bills submitted get paid more than 90 days after they are submitted, that approximately 70% of bills are later than 120 days after they are submitted, and some are even later than 150 days. Mr. Leventon testified that this was a result of Acis LP receiving cash on a quarterly basis from the CLOs. He further elaborated and testified that, for example, if Acis LP got cash on say February 1st, and it received a legal bill on that same day, that he would probably not approve it and allocate it until say February 8th. By that time, Acis LP would have already used up all its cash, and that particular creditor would need to wait until the next quarterly payment was received in order to be paid. He further testified that he explained this to law firms before their engagements and that, if they wanted the business, they would need to understand the process. There are several things the court finds problematic about this testimony. First, no testimony was offered showing that this was, in fact, the understanding of the law firms or other creditors, and, moreover, none of the engagement letters or invoices submitted into evidence reflect such payment terms. Without this additional evidence, the court believes that the Alleged Debtors' testimony regarding how it paid invoices was mostly self-serving and did not support a finding that the Alleged Debtors were generally paying their debts as they became due.[97] Second, to the extent Mr. Leventon's testimony demonstrates that creditors of the Alleged Debtors expected to be paid on a quarterly basis (at the latest), certain of the remaining 11 creditors have debts that are significantly older than four months (i.e., CT Corporation, Jones Day, AKK, and possibly even Reid Collins & Tsai LLP). Third, the Financial Statements of Acis LP submitted into evidence do not support the notion that the cash balances at Acis LP were only sufficient enough to pay vendors once every quarter.[98] For example, the balance sheet for January 31, 2017 shows a cash balance in Acis LP bank accounts of $1,061,663.19; the balance sheet for February 28, 2017 shows a cash balance in Acis LP bank accounts of $905,212.36; the balance sheet for March 31, 2017 shows a cash balance in Acis LP bank accounts of $525,626.59; the balance sheet for April 30, 2017 shows a cash balance in Acis LP bank accounts of $117,885.96; the balance sheet for May 31, 2017 shows a cash balance in Acis LP bank accounts of $62,733.31; the balance sheet for June 30, 2017 shows a cash balance in Acis LP bank accounts of $10,329.15; the balance sheet for July 31, 2017 shows a cash balance in Acis LP bank accounts of $701,904.39; the balance sheet for August 31, 2017 shows a cash balance in Acis LP bank accounts of $332,847.05.[99] In summary, while there may be cash fluctuations with Acis LP, there is not a clear pattern of Acis LP being only able to pay vendors once every quarter.

[96] Courts have also held that a debtor is generally not paying its debts as they become due when a debtor is found to have been transferring assets so as to avoid paying creditors. See, e.g., In re Moss, 249 B.R. 411, 423 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2000) (bankruptcy court determined that an alleged debtor was not paying its debts as they came due when the alleged debtor "attempted to delay creditors through the transfers of assets she has made," concluding that "[the alleged debtor's] overall conduct of her financial affairs has been poor"). This court has also found that there may have been significant transfers of the Alleged Debtors' assets prior to the filing of the Involuntary Petitions to potentially avoid paying creditors (i.e., Mr. Terry) and this may provide further support for the court's finding that the Alleged Debtors are generally not paying their debts as they become due under section 303(h).

II. Conclusions of Law

Section 303 of the Bankruptcy Code sets forth the various requirements for initiating an involuntary bankruptcy case. First, pursuant to section 303(b) of the Bankruptcy Code, an involuntary case may be filed against a person by the filing with the bankruptcy court of a petition under Chapter 7—

> (1) by three or more entities, each of which is either a holder of a claim against such person that is not contingent as to liability or the subject of a bona fide dispute as to liability or amount ... [that] aggregate at least $15,775 more than the value of any lien on property of the debtor securing such claims held by the holders of such claims;
> (2) if there are fewer than 12 such holders, excluding any employee or insider of such person and any transferee of a transfer that is voidable under section 544, 545, 547, 548, 549, or 724(a) of this title, by one or more of such holders that hold in the aggregate at least $15,775 of such claims . . .[100]

Thus, if there are twelve or more eligible creditors holding qualified claims on the Petition Date, three or more entities must participate in the involuntary filing and must hold unsecured claims aggregating $15,775.00. If there are less than twelve creditors, a single creditor with an unsecured claim of $15,775.00 may file the involuntary petition. To the extent a bankruptcy court finds that the requisite number of petitioning creditors have commenced the involuntary case, the court shall order relief against the debtor under the chapter under which the petition was filed only if "the debtor is generally not paying such debtor's debts as such debts become due unless such debts are the subject of a bona fide dispute as to liability or amount."[101]

Here, as noted earlier, the Alleged Debtors have made four arguments as to why an order for relief should not be entered against the Alleged Debtors: (1) the Alleged Debtors have 12 or more creditors, and, thus, with Mr. Terry being the sole petitioning creditor, the Involuntary Petitions were not commenced by the requisite number of creditors; (2) the Alleged Debtors are generally paying their debts as they become due; (3) the Involuntary Petitions were filed in bad faith by Mr. Terry; (4) the interests of creditors and the debtors would be better served by dismissal and the court should abstain pursuant to section 305 of the Bankruptcy Code.

A. Have the Requisite Number of Creditors Commenced the Involuntary Proceedings?

Pursuant to section 303(b)(2) of the Bankruptcy Code, a sole petitioning creditor holding at least $15,775 in claims can initiate an involuntary bankruptcy case so long as the alleged debtors have fewer than 12 creditors. After the Second Amended List of Creditors was filed, Mr. Terry had the burden, by a preponderance of the evidence, of showing that the Alleged Debtors actually had less than 12 qualified creditors.[102] Here, the court has found that the Alleged Debtors have, at most, 11 qualified creditors.[103] Accordingly, Mr. Terry has met his burden of showing that the Alleged Debtors have less than 12 creditors for section 303(b) purposes, and that he, as the sole petitioning creditor, was permitted to file the Involuntary Petitions. While Mr. Terry has made additional arguments as to why certain of these 11 creditors should not be counted as creditors for purposes of section 303(b) of the Bankruptcy Code, the court does not believe it necessary to address these arguments at this time.[104]

[102] See In re Moss, 249 B.R. 411, 419 n. 6 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2000); In re Smith, 415 B.R. 222, 229 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2009).

[103] To be clear, the court believes that even on these 11, there are likely bona fide disputes as to the liability or amount that Acis LP has—as opposed to the liability or amount that Highland or other insiders bear responsbility.

[104] Moreover, as previously stated, since the court has determined there are fewer than 12 creditors, the court need not address whether there is a "special circumstances" exception to the statutory requirements of section 303, in situations where an alleged debtor may have engaged in fraud, schemes, or artifice to thwart a creditor or creditors. See, e.g., In re Norriss Bros. Lumber Co., 133 B.R. 599 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 1991); In re Moss, 249 B.R. 411 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2000); In re Smith, 415 B.R. 222 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2009).

B. Are the Alleged Debtors Generally Paying Their Debts as They Become Due?

Section 303(h) of the Bankruptcy Code requires that a court shall enter order for relief in an involuntary case "if … (1) the debtor is generally not paying such debtor's debts as such debts become due unless such debts are the subject of a bona fide dispute as to liability or amount . . . ."[105] Again, the burden is on the Petitioning Creditor to prove this element by a preponderance of the evidence.[106] The determination is made as of the filing date of the Involuntary Petitions.[107] In determining whether an alleged debtor is generally paying its debts as they come due, courts typically look to four factors: (i) the number of unpaid claims; (ii) the amount of such claims; (iii) the materiality of the non-payments; and (iv) the nature of the debtor's overall conduct in its financial affairs.[108] No one factor is more meritorious than another; what is most relevant depends on the facts of each case.[109] Courts typically hold that "generally not paying debts" includes regularly missing a significant number of payments or regularly missing payments which are significant in amount in relation to the size of the debtor's operation.[110]

Furthermore, any debt which the alleged debtor is not current on as of the petition date should be considered as a debt not being paid as it became due.[111]

Here, the court concludes that the creditors of the Alleged Debtors—what few there are—are generally not being paid as their debts have become due (except for perhaps four[112] that are relatively insignificant and which may also be able to look to Highland for payment). Mr. Terry has met his burden by a preponderance of the evidence as to section 303(h) of the Bankruptcy Code.

C. With the Section 303 Statutory Requirements Being Met by the Petitioning Creditor, Should the Court, Nonetheless, Dismiss the Involuntary Petitions Because They Were Filed in Bad Faith?

Despite Mr. Terry meeting the necessary statutory requirements for this court to enter orders for relief as to the Alleged Debtors pursuant to section 303 of the Bankruptcy Code, the Alleged Debtors have argued that the Involuntary Petitions must, nonetheless, be dismissed because they were filed in "bad faith" by Mr. Terry. As support for this argument, the Alleged Debtors rely primarily on the Third Circuit's decision in In re Forever Green Athletic Fields, Inc., 804 F.3d 328 (3d Cir. 2015). While the court certainly acknowledges that authority exists in other circuits that suggests that dismissal of an involuntary bankruptcy case may be appropriate—even when section 303's statutory requirements have been met—based upon an independent finding of "bad faith," the court need not ultimately decide the efficacy or applicability of such authority, because the court does not believe that the evidence demonstrated any "bad faith" on the part of Mr. Terry (or his counsel) in filing the Involuntary Petitions. Indeed, the evidence suggested that Mr. Terry and his counsel filed the Involuntary Petitions out of a legitimate concern that Highland was dismantling and denuding Acis LP of all of its assets and value and that a bankruptcy filing was the most effective and efficient way to preserve value for the Acis LP creditors. The court concludes that Mr. Terry was wholly justified in pursuing the Involuntary Petitions.

N.D. Tex. 2009) (while the debtor was paying small recurring debts, he was not paying 99 percent of his debts in the aggregate amount and thus was not generally paying his debts as they became due).

D. Should This Court, Nonetheless, Abstain and Dismiss the Involuntary Petitions Pursuant to Section 305 of the Bankruptcy Code?

Section 305(a)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code provides that:

> (a) The court, after notice and a hearing, may dismiss a case under this title, or may suspend all proceedings in a case under this title, at any time if—
> (1) the interests of creditors and the debtor would be better served by such dismissal or suspension; . . .[113]

Courts construing section 305(a)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code have found that abstention in a properly filed bankruptcy case is an extraordinary remedy.[114] Moreover, granting an abstention motion pursuant to section 305(a)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code requires more than a simple balancing of harm to the debtor and creditors; rather, the interests of both the debtor and its creditors must be served by granting the request to abstain.[115] The moving party bears the burden to demonstrate that dismissal benefits the debtor and its creditors.[116] Courts must look to the individual facts of each case to determine whether abstention is appropriate.[117]

Case law has set forth a litany of factors to be considered by the court to gauge the overall best interests of the creditors and the debtor for section 305(a)(1) purposes:

> (1) the economy and efficiency of administration;
> (2) whether another forum is available to protect the interests of both parties or there is already a pending proceeding in state court;
> (3) whether federal proceedings are necessary to reach a just and equitable solution;
> (4) whether there is an alternative means of achieving an equitable distribution of assets;
> (5) whether the debtor and the creditors are able to work out a less expensive out-of-court arrangement which better serves all interests in the case;
> (6) whether a non-federal insolvency has proceeded so far in those proceedings that it would be costly and time consuming to start afresh with the federal bankruptcy process; and > (7) the purpose for which bankruptcy jurisdiction has been sought.[118]

While all factors are considered, not all are given equal weight in every case and the court should not conduct a strict balancing.[119]

i. Factor 1: The Economy and Efficiency of Administration.

The Alleged Debtors cite to the case of In re Murray, 543 B.R. 484 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2016), in particular, as support for why this court should abstain under section 305(a) of the Bankruptcy Code and dismiss the Involuntary Petitions. However, in Murray, Judge Gerber was analyzing dismissal of an involuntary proceeding pursuant to section 707 of the Bankruptcy Code, more specifically for "cause," and not based upon abstention under section 305(a) of the Bankruptcy Code. Thus, the court is not convinced Murray is relevant to this court's section 305 abstention analysis.

[119] In re TPG Troy, LLC, 492 B.R. 150, 160 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2013) (citing Monitor Single Lift, 381 B.R. at 464).

The economy and efficiency of administering a case in the bankruptcy court is routinely evaluated in considering abstention under section 305 of the Bankruptcy Code. Here, the evidence suggests that the most economical and efficient forum for these parties to resolve their disputes is the bankruptcy court. The court heard ample evidence that the Alleged Debtors are already, essentially, in the process of being liquidated by Highland. This is not a situation where an ably-functioning, going-concern business is being foisted in disruptive fashion into a bankruptcy.[120] Because of the fact that the Alleged Debtors are already in the process of being liquidated, the bankruptcy court (and not a state court) is the most efficient and economical forum to complete this liquidation and distribute whatever assets remain to creditors in accordance with the distribution scheme set forth in the Bankruptcy Code and with the oversight of a neutral third-party trustee. Thus, with the bankruptcy court being the more economic and efficient forum for administering this case, this factor goes against abstention.

ii. Factors 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6: Whether Another Forum is Available to Protect the Interests of Both Parties or There is Already a Pending Proceeding in State Court; Whether Federal Proceedings are Necessary to Reach a Just and Equitable Solution; Whether There is an Alternative Means of Achieving an Equitable Distribution of Assets; Whether the Debtor and the Creditors are Able to Work Out a Less Expensive Out-of-Court Arrangement Which Better Serves All Interests in the Case; and Whether a Non-Federal Insolvency Has Proceeded so Far in Those Proceedings That it Would Be Costly and Time Consuming to Start Afresh With the Federal Bankruptcy Process.

[120] See, e.g., In re The Ceiling Fan Distrib., Inc., 37 B.R. 701 (Bankr. M.D. La. 1983) (noting that while the dissection of a living business may not properly be the business of a bankruptcy court, the division of a "carcass" and the reclamation of pre-petition gouging may well be); In re Bos, 561 B.R. 868, 898-99 (Bankr. N.D. Fla. 2016) (citing as one of the reasons to abstain under section 305 of the Bankruptcy Code the fact that entities and subsidiaries under the alleged debtor's umbrella were still operating successful businesses and had employed more than 500 people); but see Remex Elecs. Ltd. v. Axl Indus., Inc. (In re Axl Indus., Inc.), 127 B.R. 482, 484-86 (S.D. Fla. 1991) (in affirming the bankruptcy court's decision to dismiss an involuntary bankruptcy case, the district court also found that "the interests of a defunct business enterprise would be little affected by the pendency of a bankruptcy proceeding," which the district court believed favored abstention).

The court believes that factors 2-6 should be grouped together for purposes of its abstention analysis, since all of these factors specifically touch on the availability of an alternative forum to achieve an equitable distribution.[121] By way of example, where bringing a case into the bankruptcy court would simply add an additional layer of expense to the resolution of a two-party dispute and another forum already provides a suitable place to resolve the dispute, some courts have found that abstention is the more appropriate choice since keeping the case would transform the bankruptcy process into a collection device.[122] Here, the Alleged Debtors have repeatedly argued that, because there is already pending state court litigation involving Mr. Terry, Highland, and the Alleged Debtors, these cases should be dismissed and the parties should go back to state court to resolve their issues. The court does not agree for several reasons.

First, it is worth noting that this court has already heard multiple days of evidence in this case (including almost five days just for the Trial) and would certainly not be "starting afresh" by any means if things go forward in the bankruptcy court. Additionally, while the Alleged Debtors have argued that a significant amount of attorney's fees have already been spent litigating this case in state court (which they believe supports abstention), the court surmises that these fees have not been wasted dollars, as the money expended by the parties developed discovery of facts that could assist a bankruptcy trustee in pursuing avoidance actions that may be viable and might lead to value that could pay creditors' claims.[123]

[122] AMC Investors, LLC, 406 B.R. at 488; see also Axl Indus., Inc., 127 B.R. at 484-86.

[123] See, e.g., The Ceiling Fan Distributor, Inc., 37 B.R. at 703 (the court noted that, despite there being significant legal expenses in the state court, such expenses were not wasted since the legal work done to date would be quite helpful to a trustee).

Second, this court heard considerable evidence involving potentially voidable transfers that may have occurred involving the Alleged Debtors and Highland/Highland-affiliates and, while the state court certainly provides a forum for eventually bringing fraudulent transfer claims, the court also heard evidence that none of these claims have actually been brought in the state court.[124] Moreover, to the extent fraudulent transfer claims were to be pursued in state court and were successful, the state court would still need the ability to reach the assets of alleged fraudulent transfer recipients (which, in this situation, include certain Highland-affiliates located in the Cayman Islands). The bankruptcy court has concerns whether a state court process could efficiently accomplish this task.[125] Similarly, it is worth noting that, while a request for a receiver was filed in the state court by Mr. Terry, such request had not yet been heard and decided by the state court. Thus, at the present time, it does not appear that there is an alternative forum to address the pertinent issues in this case, without the necessity of significant, additional steps being taken by the parties in the state court.

Third, this court believes that a federal bankruptcy proceeding is necessary in order to achieve an equitable result in this case. Specifically, the court heard evidence from the Alleged Debtors that, if this court chose to abstain and dismiss the Involuntary Petitions, the Alleged Debtors would ultimately pay all of their creditors in full, except for Mr. Terry. This clearly demonstrates how keeping the case in the bankruptcy court is necessary to allow an equitable distribution to all creditors, including Mr. Terry. Additionally, a federal bankruptcy court has certain tools available to it that are not available to a state court such as the ability to invalidate potential ipso facto clauses in contracts pursuant to section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code, sell assets free and clear of liens, claims and encumbrances pursuant to section 363 of the Bankruptcy Code, and impose the automatic stay pursuant to section 362 of the Bankruptcy Code. These are all useful tools available to the Alleged Debtors in a bankruptcy case that would be lost if this court were to ultimately abstain.

Finally, there was more than enough evidence showing the acrimonious and bitter relationship that exists between Mr. Terry and Mr. Dondero. Thus, the availability of an out-of-court arrangement being obtained in this case is, in this court's mind, slim to none.

In summation, the court finds that all of the factors above support this case staying with the bankruptcy court.

iii. Factor 7: The Purpose for Which Bankruptcy Jurisdiction Has Been Sought.

The Alleged Debtors have repeatedly argued that Mr. Terry filed this case in bad faith and as a litigation tactic to gain some sort of advantage in the state court proceedings. The court has already found above that these cases were not filed in bad faith and that Mr. Terry has met the necessary statutory requirements of section 303 of the Bankruptcy Code. Moreover, it is worth noting that at least one court has stated that the filing of an involuntary bankruptcy petition is always a "litigation tactic," but whether the filing is inappropriate for abstention purposes is a fact-dependent determination.[126] Here, the facts show that there was no inappropriateness behind Mr. Terry's decision to file the Involuntary Petitions. Specifically, Mr. Terry repeatedly and credibly testified that the purpose for filing the Involuntary Petitions was to ensure that creditors (including him) were treated fairly and received an equal distribution from the Alleged Debtors' assets, not to gain some sort of advantage in the state court. This testimony was absolutely consistent with additional evidence showing that, since the entry of the arbitration award, there has been a calculated effort (largely by Highland) to effectively liquidate the Alleged Debtors. Unlike the bankruptcy court in In re Selectron Mgmt. Corp.,[127] which had no evidence or "smoking gun" showing that steps were being taken by the alleged debtor to evade payment on the petitioning creditor's judgment, thereby necessitating abstention, this court has heard ample evidence showing that the Alleged Debtors, with the aid of Highland, were transferring assets away from the Alleged Debtors, so that Mr. Terry would have nowhere to look at the end of the day.

[126] In re Marciano, 459 B.R. 27, 50 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. 2011) (noting that while the filing of the involuntary bankruptcy was a litigation tactic, the bankruptcy court did not abuse its discretion in denying the alleged debtor's motion to dismiss based upon the bankruptcy court's primary concern that the issue of equality of distribution would not effectively be dealt with in another forum).

In light of the court's analysis of all the seven factors above, the Alleged Debtors have not credibly shown how both the Alleged Debtors and the creditors are better served outside of bankruptcy. If this matter were to remain outside of bankruptcy, there seems to be a legitimate prospect that the Alleged Debtors and Highland will continue dismantling the Alleged Debtors, to the detriment of Acis LP creditors. Abstention would fly in the face of fundamental fairness and the principles underlying the Bankruptcy Code.

Beyond just addressing the factors above, the Alleged Debtors have also argued that, if this court were to not abstain under section 305 of the Bankruptcy Code, there would be [127] In re Selectron Mgmt. Corp., No. 10-75320-DTE, 2010 WL 3811863, at *6-7 (Bankr. E.D.N.Y. Sept. 27, 2010); see also In re White Nile Software, Inc., No. 08–33325–SGJ–11, 2008 WL 5213393, at *4 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. Sept. 16, 2008) (finding that where the filing of a voluntary chapter 11 did not appear to be about insuring a distribution to creditors or winding down or giving a soft landing to a business or avoiding dismantling and dissipation of valuable assets or preserving avoidance actions, but rather was about changing the forum of ongoing litigation between the parties, abstention under section 305 was proper).

significant harm to the "equity" of the Alleged Debtors. Specifically, the Alleged Debtors have argued that, if this court were to enter orders for relief, the equity would be forced to "call" and ultimately liquidate CLO 2014-3 (and perhaps all of the CLOs Acis LP manages), resulting in substantial losses to the equity on their investments. First, to be clear, the current equity of the Alleged Debtors is being held by a Highland-affiliate called Neutra, Ltd., which actually only became the equity of the Alleged Debtors on December 19, 2017. But this is not the "equity" being referred to by the Alleged Debtors in its argument. Rather, the so-called "equity," about which the Alleged Debtors seemed so concerned, is actually certain parties that own the equity of the entity that owns the equity in the CLOs—which includes (a) an unnamed third-party investor out of Boston (49%),[128] (b) a charitable foundation managed by a Highland-affiliate (49%), and (c) Highland employees (2%). However, abstention under section 305 of the Bankruptcy Code does not require this court to look at what is in the best interests of these third-parties (who are not current creditors or interest holders of the Alleged Debtors), but rather what is in the best interests of the Alleged Debtors and the creditors. Accordingly, the Alleged Debtors' effort to argue potential harm to these parties is misplaced for purposes of evaluating abstention under section 305 of the Bankruptcy Code, and, if anything, further highlights who the Alleged Debtors are really out to protect—Highland and Highland-affiliates. Moreover, the court would note that, even if there were to be a "call" and liquidation of CLO 2014-3, thereby ending the Alleged Debtors' right to receive future management fees, there would still be potential assets for a chapter 7 trustee to administer such as chapter 5 causes of action (which include fraudulent transfers) as well as the Alleged Debtors' contingent claim for approximately [128] Notably, this entity never appeared at the Trial or filed papers stating that it would be harmed by entry of orders for relief in these cases.

$3 million in expense reimbursement owing by Highland CLO Management Ltd., as part of the November 3, 2017 transfer of the Acis LP Note Receivable from Highland. Thus, even if the so-called doomsday scenario of an equity call on CLO 2014-3 (or other CLOs) were to happen, there is still a potential benefit to creditors if this court chooses not to abstain.

III. CONCLUSION

In conclusion, these involuntary proceedings were appropriately filed under section 303, and orders for relief will be issued forthwith. This court declines to exercise its discretion to abstain, because a chapter 7 trustee appears necessary to halt the post-Arbitration Award transactions and transfers of value out of Acis LP, as discussed above. A chapter 7 trustee appears necessary to resolve the inherent conflicts of interest between the Alleged Debtors and Highland. A chapter 7 trustee will have tools available to preserve value that a state court receiver will not have. The bankruptcy court is single handedly the most efficient place to administer property of the estate for creditors. This is not just a two party dispute between Mr. Terry and the Alleged Debtors, and even if it were, dismissal or abstention is clearly not warranted.

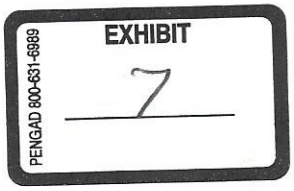
WHEREAS, one or more funds and/or accounts (collectively, the "Accounts") has retained Investment Manager to render investment management services to the Accounts pursuant to an investment or collateral management agreement and each such agreement authorizes Investment Manager to engage a sub-advisor to assist Investment Manager with its responsibilities with respect to the investment management of such Accounts;

WHEREAS, Investment Manager retained Sub-Advisor to furnish certain services to the Accounts in accordance with the Amended and Restated Sub-Advisory Agreement between the parties hereto effective January 1, 2011 (as amended by the Amendment to Amended and Restated Sub-Advisory Agreement between the parties hereto dated July 1, 2011, the "Original Agreement"); and

WHEREAS, the parties hereto now desire to amend and restate the Original Agreement.



NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the promises and mutual covenants herein contained, it is agreed between Investment Manager and Sub-Advisor, and the Original Agreement is hereby amended, restated and replaced in its entirety, as follows:

1. Appointment. Investment Manager hereby appoints Sub-Advisor, to act as sub-advisor of Investment Manager to provide Services (defined below) to the Accounts for the periods and on the terms set forth in this Agreement. Sub-Advisor accepts such appointment and agrees to furnish the Services for the compensation herein provided.

In performing the Advisory Services, Sub-Advisor:

(a) will conform with (1) the Advisers Act and all rules and regulations thereunder, and releases and interpretations related thereto, (2) all other applicable federal and state laws and regulations, (3) any applicable written procedures, policies and guidelines adopted by the applicable Account or, except as expressly provided in Section 2 to the contrary, Investment Manager and furnished to Sub-Advisor, and (4) the Account's objectives, policies and restrictions as stated in the Account's Indenture, Management Agreement, Partnership Agreement, Bye-laws, and/or other governing documents, as applicable, each as supplemented or amended from time to time, as furnished to Sub-Advisor (such governing document, the "Applicable Restrictions"). Until Investment Manager delivers any supplements or amendments to Sub-Advisor, Sub-Advisor shall be fully protected in relying on the Applicable Restrictions previously furnished by Investment Manager to Sub-Advisor. In providing the Services in accordance with the requirements of this Section 2, Sub-Advisor shall be entitled to receive and act upon advice of counsel to the Accounts, to Investment Manager or to Sub-Advisor that is also acceptable to Investment Manager.

(b) as directed by Investment Manager, may assist Investment Manager with the decisions of Investment Manager to buy and sell securities and other investments for the Accounts, for broker-dealer and futures commission merchant ("FCM") selection, and for negotiation of commission rates. Sub-Advisor acknowledges that the Services will be provided with the goal of supporting Investment Manager with Investment Manager's obligation to obtain the best execution for the Accounts, taking into account the factors and subject to the limitations specified in the Applicable Restrictions, as they may be amended or supplemented from time to time and furnished to Sub-Advisor. Sub-Advisor is further authorized to place orders on behalf of the Accounts through Sub-Advisor if such orders are directed by Investment Manager and Sub-Advisor is registered as a broker or dealer with the SEC or as a FCM with the Commodities Futures Trading Commission ("CFTC"), through any of its affiliates that are brokers or dealers or FCMs or such other entities which provide similar services in foreign countries, or through such brokers and dealers that also provide research or statistical research and material, or other services to the Accounts or Sub-Advisor. Such allocation shall be in such amounts and proportions as Investment Manager's Allocation Committee shall determine consistent with the above standards, and, upon request, Sub-Advisor will report on said orders to Investment Manager, indicating the brokers, dealers or FCMs to which such orders have been made. If directed by Investment Manager, Sub-Advisor is authorized to open brokerage accounts on behalf of the Accounts in accordance with Account procedures.

(c) may, to the extent permitted by applicable laws and regulations, but shall not be obligated to, aggregate the securities to be so sold or purchased with those of its other clients where such aggregation is not inconsistent with the policies set forth in the Applicable Restrictions as furnished to Sub-Advisor. In such event, allocation of the securities so purchased or sold, as well as the expenses incurred in the transaction, will be made by the Allocations Committee of Investment Manager in a manner that is fair and equitable over time.

(d) will, in connection with the purchase and sale of securities for the Accounts, as directed by Investment Manager, arrange for the transmission to the custodian and recordkeeping agent for the Accounts, on a daily basis, such confirmation(s), trade tickets, and other documents and information, including, but not limited to, CUSIP, SEDOL, or other numbers that identify securities to be purchased or sold on behalf of the Accounts, as may be reasonably necessary to enable the custodian and recordkeeping agent to perform its administrative and recordkeeping responsibilities with respect to the Accounts, and with respect to Account securities to be purchased or sold through the Depository Trust Company, will arrange for the automatic transmission of the confirmation of such trades to the applicable Account's custodian and recordkeeping agent, and, if required, Investment Manager. Sub-Advisor agrees to comply with such rules, procedures and time frames as Investment Manager or applicable Account's custodian may reasonably set or provide with respect to the clearance and settlement of transactions for an Account, including but not limited to submission of trade tickets; provided that the custodian follows Loan Syndication and Trading Association or other standardized clearance and settlement guidelines. 10. Cooperation. Each party to this Agreement agrees to cooperate with each other party and with all appropriate governmental authorities having the requisite jurisdiction (including, but not limited to, the SEC and state insurance authorities) in connection with any investigation or inquiry relating to this Agreement or the Accounts.

11. Responsibility and Control. NOTWITHSTANDING ANY OTHER PROVISION OF THIS AGREEMENT, IT IS UNDERSTOOD AND AGREED THAT INVESTMENT MANAGER IS SOLELY RESPONSIBLE FOR ALL DECISIONS RELATED TO THE MANAGEMENT OF THE ACCOUNTS AND SUB-ADVISOR'S SERVICES ARE BEING PROVIDED HEREUNDER MERELY TO SUPPORT AND ASSIST INVESTMENT MANAGER IN THE PERFORMANCE OF ITS DUTIES AND IN NO EVENT SHALL ANY OF THE PROVISIONS HEREOF BE CONSTRUED AS A DELEGATION OF ANY DUTIES OF INVESTMENT MANAGER TO SUB-ADVISOR. In furtherance of the foregoing, Investment Manager reserves the right to direct, approve or disapprove any action hereunder taken on their behalf by Sub-Advisor, provided, however, that Sub-Advisor shall not be liable for any losses to the Accounts resulting from any Account's direction, or from an Account's disapproval of any action proposed to be taken by Sub-Advisor.

12. Services Not Exclusive. It is understood that the services of Sub-Advisor and its employees are not exclusive, and nothing in this Agreement shall prevent Sub-Advisor (or its employees or affiliates) from providing similar services to other clients, including investment companies (whether or not their investment objectives and policies are similar to those of the Accounts) or from engaging in other activities.

13. Liability. Except as may otherwise be required under applicable law, Investment Manager agrees that Sub-Advisor, any affiliated person of Sub-Advisor, and each person, if any, who, within the meaning of Section 15 of the 1933 Act, controls Sub-Advisor, shall not be liable for, or subject to any damages, expenses, or losses in connection with, any act or omission connected with or arising out of any services rendered under this Agreement, except by reason of willful misfeasance, bad faith, or gross negligence in the performance of Sub-Advisor's duties, or by reason of reckless disregard of Sub-Advisor's obligations and duties under this Agreement.

14. Duration and Termination. (a) Subject to Section 14(b), this Agreement shall become effective as of the date of execution first written above, and shall continue in effect for 10 years and continue thereafter on an annual basis with respect to each Account unless notice of termination is provided at least 60 days prior to the date of renewal.

(b) In the event of any proposed termination of this Agreement while services are being rendered hereunder with respect to one or more Accounts, the effectiveness of such termination shall be conditioned on either (i) Investment Manager confirming, in a manner reasonably satisfactory to such Accounts, that the termination of this Agreement would not cause an Adverse Account Event (as defined below), or (ii) the continued provision of the Advisory Services on substantially the terms provided herein until such time as a replacement provider or providers of the Advisory Services can be engaged by Investment Manager on terms that would not cause an Adverse Account Event. As used herein, "Adverse Account Event" means (i) any event that would constitute a violation of the Applicable Restrictions of an Account, (ii) any event that would result in a material adverse deviation from the standard of services rendered to an Account immediately prior to such event, or (iii) in the case of any Account that is an issuer of structured finance securities under an indenture with notes rated by S&P or Moody's, the failure to receive rating agency confirmation consistent with the terms of such indenture that the termination of this Agreement would not cause either S&P or Moody's to effect a withdrawal, reduction, suspension or other adverse action with respect to any then current rating of any class of notes of such Account issued under such indenture. In the event Investment Manager relies on clause (ii) above to avoid termination of this Agreement, Investment Manager agrees to use its commercially reasonable efforts to procure such replacement Advisory Services as soon as reasonably practicable following Sub-Advisor's notice of its desire to terminate this Agreement.

Within sixty (60) days following the end of each calendar quarter during the Term (or at such time as may be otherwise agreed by the parties), each Service Provider shall furnish the other Parties hereto with a written statement with respect to the Actual Cost paid by it in respect of Shared Services and Shared Assets provided by it, in each case, during such period, setting forth (i) the cost allocation in accordance with Article IV hereof together with the Applicable Margin on such allocated amounts, and (ii) any amounts paid pursuant to Section 5.02 hereof, together with such other data and information necessary to complete the items described in Section 5.03 hereof (hereinafter referred to as the "Quarterly Report").

Section 5.02 Settlement Payments. At any time during the Term, any Party may make payment of the amounts that are allocable to such Party together with the Applicable Margin related thereto, regardless of whether an invoice pursuant to Section 5.03 hereof has been issued with respect to such amounts.

Section 5.03 Determination and Payment of Cost and Revenue Share.

(a) Within ten (10) days of the submission of the Quarterly Report described in Section 5.02 hereof (or at such other time as may be agreed by the parties), the Parties shall (i) agree on the cost share of each of the Parties and Applicable Margin as calculated pursuant to the provisions of this Agreement; and (ii) prepare and issue invoices for the cost share and Applicable Margin payments that are payable by any of the Parties.

(b) Within ten (10) days of preparation of the agreement and the issuance of the invoice described in Section 5.03(a) (or at such other time as may be agreed by the parties), the Parties shall promptly make payment of the amounts that are set forth on such cost allocation invoice.

Section 5.04 Taxes.

(b) Recipient is responsible for and will pay all Taxes applicable to the Shared Services and the Shared Assets, provided to Recipient, provided, that such payments by Recipient to Service Provider will be made in the most tax-efficient manner and provided further, that Service Provider will not be subject to any liability for Taxes applicable to the Shared Services and the Shared Assets as a result of such payment by Recipient. Service Provider will collect such Tax from Recipient in the same manner it collects such Taxes from other customers in the ordinary course of Service Provider's business, but in no event prior to the time it invoices Recipient for the Shared Services and Shared Assets, costs for which such Taxes are levied. Recipient may provide Service Provider with a certificate evidencing its exemption from payment of or liability for such Taxes.

(c) Service Provider will reimburse Recipient for any Taxes collected from Recipient and refunded to Service Provider. In the event a Tax is assessed against Service Provider that is solely the responsibility of Recipient and Recipient desires to protest such assessment, Recipient will submit to Service Provider a statement of the issues and arguments requesting that Service Provider grant Recipient the authority to prosecute the protest in Service Provider's name. Service Provider's authorization will not be unreasonably withheld. Recipient will finance, manage, control and determine the strategy for such protest while keeping Service Provider reasonably informed of the proceedings. However, the authorization will be periodically reviewed by Service Provider to determine any adverse impact on Service Provider, and Service Provider will have the right to reasonably withdraw such authority at any time. Upon notice by Service Provider that it is so withdrawing such authority, Recipient will expeditiously terminate all proceedings. Any adverse consequences suffered by Recipient as a result of the withdrawal will be submitted to arbitration pursuant to Section 9.14. Any contest for Taxes brought by Recipient may not result in any lien attaching to any property or rights of Service Provider or otherwise jeopardize Service Provider's interests or rights in any of its property. Recipient agrees to indemnify Service Provider for all Losses that Service Provider incurs as a result of any such contest by Recipient.

(d) The provisions of this Section 5.04 will govern the treatment of all Taxes arising as a result of or in connection with this Agreement notwithstanding any other Article of this Agreement to the contrary.

ARTICLE VI
SERVICE PROVIDER RESPONSIBILITIES

Section 6.01 Service Provider General Obligations. In providing the Services, the Service Provider:

(a) will conform with (1) any applicable written procedures, policies and guidelines adopted by the applicable Recipient and furnished to the Service Provider, and (2) the Recipient's objectives, policies and restrictions as stated in the Recipient's Indenture, Management Agreement, Partnership Agreement, Bye-laws, and/or other governing documents, as applicable, each as supplemented or amended from time to time, as furnished to the Service Provider (such governing document, the "Applicable Restrictions"). Until the Recipient delivers any supplements or amendments to the Service Provider, the Service Provider shall be fully protected in relying on the Applicable Restrictions previously furnished by the Recipient to the Service Provider. In providing the services in accordance with the requirements of this Section, the Service Provider shall be entitled to receive and act upon advice of counsel to the Recipient, or to the Service Provider that is also acceptable to the Recipient; and

(b) will provide the Shared Assets, or the Services, as applicable, to Recipient on a non-discriminatory basis and will use commercially reasonable efforts to provide the Shared Assets, or the Services, as applicable, in the same manner as if it were providing such services and assets on its own account. Service Provider will use its commercially reasonable efforts to conduct its duties hereunder in a lawful manner in compliance with applicable laws, statutes, rules and regulations and in accordance with the service standards. The standards set forth in this Section 6.01 are referred to in this Agreement as the "Service Standards."

Section 6.02 Books and Records; Access to Information. Service Provider will keep and maintain books and records on behalf of Recipient in accordance with past practices and internal control procedures. Recipient will have the right, at any time and from time to time upon reasonable prior notice to Service Provider, to inspect and copy (at its expense) during normal business hours at the offices of Service Provider the books and records relating to the Shared Services and Shared Assets, with respect to Service Provider's performance of its obligations hereunder. This inspection right will include the ability of Recipient's financial auditors to review such books and records in the ordinary course of performing standard financial auditing services for Recipient (but subject to Service Provider imposing reasonable access restrictions to Service Provider's and its Affiliates' proprietary information and such financial auditors executing appropriate confidentiality agreements reasonably acceptable to Service Provider). Service Provider will promptly respond to any reasonable requests for information or access.

Section 6.03 Return of Property and Equipment. Upon expiration or termination of this Agreement, Service Provider will be obligated to return to Recipient, as soon as is reasonably practicable, any equipment or other property or materials of Recipient that is in Service Provider's control or possession.

ARTICLE VII
TERM AND TERMINATION

Section 7.01 Term. The term of this Agreement will commence as of the Effective Date and will continue in full force and effect until the first anniversary of the Effective Date (the "Term"), unless terminated earlier in accordance with Section 7.02. The Term shall automatically renew for successive one year periods unless sooner terminated under Section 7.02.

Section 7.02 Termination.

(a) Subject to Section 7.02(b), either Party may terminate this Agreement upon at least 30 days advance written notice at any time prior to the expiration of the Term.

(b) In the event of any proposed termination of this Agreement while services are being rendered hereunder with respect to any Recipient, the effectiveness of such termination shall be conditioned on either (i) Acis or HCMLP, as applicable, confirming, in a manner reasonably satisfactory to each such Recipient, that the termination of this Agreement would not cause an Adverse Account Event (as defined below), or (ii) the continued provision of the Shared Services and Shared Assets, and/or Investment Services, as applicable, on substantially the terms provided herein until such time as a replacement provider or providers of the Shared Services and Shared Assets, or Investment Services, can be engaged by Acis or HCMLP, as applicable, on terms that would not cause an Adverse Account Event. As used herein, "Adverse Account Event" means (i) any event that would constitute a violation of any of the Applicable Restrictions, (ii) any event that would result in a material adverse deviation from the Service Standards rendered to the Recipient immediately prior to such event, or (iii) in the case of any Recipient that is an issuer of structured finance securities under an indenture with notes rated by S&P or Moody's, the failure to receive rating agency confirmation consistent with the terms of such indenture that the termination of this Agreement would not cause either S&P or Moody's to effect a withdrawal, reduction, suspension or other adverse action with respect to any then current rating of any class of notes of such Recipient issued under such indenture. In the event Acis or HCMLP relies on clause (ii) above to avoid termination of this Agreement, such party agrees to use its commercially reasonable efforts to procure such replacement Shared Services and Shared Assets, or Investment Services, as applicable, as soon as reasonably practicable following the Service Provider's notice of its desire to terminate this Agreement.

ARTICLE VIII
LIMITED WARRANTY; LIMITATION ON LIABILITY; INDEMNIFICATION

Section 8.01 Limited Warranty. Service Provider will perform the Shared Services hereunder in accordance with the Service Standards. Except as specifically provided in this Agreement, Service Provider makes no express or implied representations, warranties or guarantees relating to its performance of the Shared Services and the granting of the Shared Assets under this Agreement, including any warranty of merchantability, fitness, quality, non-infringement of third party rights, suitability or adequacy of the Shared Services and the Shared Assets for any purpose or use or purpose. Service Provider will (to the extent possible and subject to Service Provider's contractual obligations) pass through the benefits of any express warranties received from third parties relating to any Shared Service and Shared Asset, and will (at Recipient's expense) assist Recipient with any warranty claims related thereto.

Section 8.02 Indemnification. Subject to the limitations of liability set forth in Section 8.04, Service Provider and Recipient will indemnify and hold each other harmless against all Losses resulting from: (i) such Party's performance or failure to perform, in any material manner, any of its obligations under this Agreement; (ii) the breach by such Party, in any material manner, of any representation, warranty, covenant or agreement contained herein; (iii) loss of or damage to tangible real or tangible personal property (including damage to their property), in any material manner, in each case to the extent that such Loss was proximately caused by any negligent or willful act or omission by the Party from whom indemnity is sought, its agents, employees or subcontractors, in connection with the provision or receipt of the Shared Services or the Shared Assets; (iv) such Party's use of the Shared Services and Shared Assets; (v) the breach by such Party of the license granted in Section 3.01; or (vi) the breach by such party of the Third Party IP Agreements.

Section 8.03 Notice and Procedures. A Party seeking indemnification pursuant to Section 8.02 (the "Indemnified Party") will give prompt written notice in reasonable detail (the "Notice of Claim") to the indemnifying Party (the "Indemnifying Party") stating the basis of any claim for which indemnification is being sought hereunder within thirty (30) days after its knowledge thereof; provided, however, that the Indemnified Party's failure to provide any such notice to the Indemnifying Party will not relieve the Indemnifying Party of or from any of its obligations hereunder, except to the extent that the Indemnifying Party suffers prejudice as a result of such failure. If the facts giving rise to such indemnification involve an actual or threatened claim by or against a third party:

(a) the Parties will cooperate in the prosecution or defense of such claim and will furnish such records, information and testimony and attend to such proceedings as may be reasonably requested in connection therewith; and

(b) the Indemnified Party will make no settlement of any claim that would give rise to liability on the part of the Indemnifying Party without the latter's prior written consent which will not be unreasonably withheld or delayed, and the Indemnifying Party will not be liable for the amount of any settlement affected without its prior written consent.

Section 8.04 Consequential Damages. Except with respect to a Party's fraud or willful misconduct, and except with respect to damages sought by a third party in connection with a third party claim, none of the Parties, or their Affiliates, will be liable to the other Parties, or their Affiliates, for any damages other than direct damages. Each Party agrees that it is not entitled to recover and agrees to waive any claim with respect to, and will not seek, consequential, punitive or any other special damages as to any matter under, relating to or arising out of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement, except with respect to such claims and damages arising directly out of a Party's fraud or willful misconduct, or with respect to damages sought by third parties in connection with third party claims.

This Agreement and any amendment hereto or any other agreement delivered pursuant hereto may be executed in one or more counterparts and by different Parties in separate counterparts. All counterparts will constitute one and the same agreement and will become effective when one or more counterparts have been signed by each Party and delivered to the other Parties.

(d) Each Party may continue to oversee, supervise and manage the services of each Shared Employee in order to (1) ensure compliance with the Party's compliance policies and procedures, (2) ensure compliance with regulations applicable to the Party and (3) protect the interests of the Party and its clients; provided that Staff and Services Provider shall (A) cooperate with the Management Company's supervisory efforts and (B) make periodic reports to the Management Company regarding the adherence of Shared Employees to Applicable Law, including but not limited to the 1940 Act, the Advisers Act and the United States Commodity Exchange Act of 1936, as amended, in performing the services hereunder.

(e) Where a Shared Employee provides services hereunder through both Parties, the Parties shall cooperate to ensure that all such services are performed consistently with Applicable Law and relevant compliance controls and procedures designed to prevent, among other things, breaches in information security or the communication of confidential, proprietary or material non-public information.

(f) The Staff and Services Provider shall ensure that each Shared Employee has any registrations, qualifications and/or licenses necessary to provide the services hereunder.

(g) The Parties will cooperate to ensure that information about the Shared Employees is adequately and appropriately disclosed to clients, investors (and potential investors), investment banks operating as initial purchaser or placement agent with respect to any CLO or Account, and regulators, as applicable. (i) The Staff and Services Provider shall make reasonably available for use by the Management Company, including through Shared Employees providing services pursuant to this Agreement, any relevant intellectual property and systems necessary for the provision of the services hereunder.

(j) The Staff and Services Provider shall require that each Shared Employee:

(i) certify that he or she is subject to, and has been provided with, a copy of each Party's Code of Ethics and will make such reports, and seek prior clearance for such actions and activities, as may be required under the Codes of Ethics;

(ii) be subject to the supervision and oversight of each Party's officers and directors, including without limitation its Chief Compliance Officer ("CCO"), which CCO may be the same Person, with respect to the services provided to that Party or its clients;

(iii) provide services hereunder and take actions hereunder only as approved by the Management Company;

(iv) provide any information requested by a Party, as necessary to comply with applicable disclosure or regulatory obligations;

Section 2.04 Applicable Asset Criteria and Concentrations. The Management Company will promptly inform the Staff and Services Provider in writing of any Applicable Asset Criteria and Concentrations to which it agrees from time to time and the Staff and Services Provider shall take such Applicable Asset Criteria and Concentrations into account when providing assistance and advice in accordance with Section 2.2 above and any other assistance or advice provided in accordance with this Agreement.

Section 2.05 Compliance with Management Company Policies and Procedures. The Management Company will from time to time provide the Staff and Services Provider and the Shared Employees with any policy and procedure documentation which it establishes internally and to which it is bound to adhere in conducting its business pursuant to regulation, contract or otherwise. Section 2.06 Authority. The Staff and Services Provider's scope of assistance and advice hereunder is limited to the services specifically provided for in this Agreement. The Staff and Services Provider shall not assume or be deemed to assume any rights or obligations of the Management Company under any other document or agreement to which the Management Company is a party. Notwithstanding any other express or implied provision to the contrary in this Agreement, the activities of the Staff and Services Provider pursuant to this Agreement shall be subject to the overall policies of the Management Company, as notified to the Staff and Services Provider from time to time. The Staff and Services Provider shall not have any duties or obligations to the Management Company unless those duties and obligations are specifically provided for in this Agreement (or in any amendment, modification or novation hereto or hereof to which the Staff and Services Provider is a party).

Section 2.07 Third Parties.

(a) The Staff and Services Provider may employ third parties, including its affiliates, to render advice, provide assistance and to perform any of its duties under this Agreement; provided that notwithstanding the employment of third parties for any such purpose, the Staff and Services Provider shall not be relieved of any of its obligations or liabilities under this Agreement.

(b) In providing services hereunder, the Staff and Services Provider may rely in good faith upon and will incur no liability for relying upon advice of nationally recognized counsel (which may be counsel for the Management Company, a CLO or Account or any Affiliate of the foregoing), accountants or other advisers as the Staff and Services Provider determines, in its sole discretion, is reasonably appropriate in connection with the services provided by the Staff and Services Provider under this Agreement.

Section 2.08 Management Company to Cooperate with the Staff and Services Provider. In furtherance of the Staff and Services Provider's obligations under this Agreement the Management Company shall cooperate with, provide to, and fully inform the Staff and Services Provider of, any and all documents and information the Staff and Services Provider reasonably requires to perform its obligations under this Agreement.

Section 2.09 Power of Attorney. If the Management Company considers it necessary for the provision by the Staff and Services Provider of the assistance and advice under this Agreement (after consultation with the Staff and Services Provider), it may appoint the Staff and Services Provider as its true and lawful agent and attorney, with full power and authority in its name to sign, execute, certify, swear to, acknowledge, deliver, file, receive and record any and all documents that the Staff and Services Provider reasonably deems appropriate or necessary in connection with the execution and settlement of acquisitions of assets as directed by the Management Company and the Staff and Services Provider's powers and duties hereunder (which for the avoidance of doubt shall in no way involve the discretion and/or authority of the Management Company with respect to investments). Any such power shall be revocable in the sole discretion of the Management Company.

ARTICLE III

CONSIDERATION AND EXPENSES

As compensation for its performance of its obligations as Staff and Services Provider under this Agreement, the Staff and Services Provider will be entitled to receive the Staff and Services Fee payable thereto. The "Staff and Services Fee" shall be payable in accordance with Appendix A attached hereto, as such appendix may be amended by the Parties from time to time.

From time to time, the Management Company may enter into shared services agreements with certain management companies on similar terms to this Agreement. Promptly following the receipt of any fees pursuant to such shared services agreements, the Management Company shall pay 100% of such fees to the Staff and Services Provider.

ARTICLE IV

REPRESENTATIONS AND COVENANTS

Section 4.01 Representations. Each of the Parties hereto represents and warrants that:

(a) It has full power and authority to execute and deliver, and to perform its obligations under, this Agreement;

(b) this Agreement has been duly authorized, executed and delivered by it and constitutes its valid and binding, obligation, enforceable in accordance with its terms except as the enforceability hereof may be subject to (i) bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization moratorium, receivership, conservatorship or other similar laws now or hereafter in effect relating to creditors' rights and (ii) general principles of equity (regardless of whether such enforcement is considered in a proceeding, in equity or at law);

(c) no consent, approval, authorization or order of or declaration or filing with any Governmental Authority is required for the execution of this Agreement or the performance by it of its duties hereunder, except such as have been duly made or obtained; and

ARTICLE V

COVENANTS

Section 5.01 Compliance; Advisory Restrictions.

(a) The Staff and Services Provider shall reasonably cooperate with the Management Company in connection with the Management Company's compliance with its policies and procedures relating to oversight of the Staff and Services Provider. Specifically, the Staff and Services Provider agrees that it will provide the Management Company with reasonable access to information relating to the performance of Staff and Services Provider's obligations under this Agreement.

(b) This Agreement is not intended to and shall not constitute an assignment, pledge or transfer of any portfolio management agreement or any part thereof. It is the express intention of the parties hereto that this Agreement and all services performed hereunder comply in all respects with all (a) applicable contractual provisions and restrictions contained in each portfolio management agreement, investment management agreement or similar agreement and each document contemplated thereby; and (b) Applicable Laws (collectively, the "Advisory Restrictions"). If any provision of this Agreement is determined to be in violation of any Advisory Restriction, then the services to be provided under this Agreement shall automatically be limited without action by any person or entity, reduced or modified to the extent necessary and appropriate to be enforceable to the maximum extent permitted by such Advisory Restriction.

Section 5.02 Records; Confidentiality.

The Staff and Services Provider shall maintain or cause to be maintained appropriate books of account and records relating to its services performed hereunder, and such books of account and records shall be accessible for inspection by representatives of the Management Company and its accountants and other agents at any time during normal business hours and upon not less than three (3) Business Days' prior notice; provided that the Staff and Services Provider shall not be obligated to provide access to any non-public information if it in good faith determines that the disclosure of such information would violate any applicable law, regulation or contractual arrangement.

The Staff and Services Provider shall follow its customary procedures to keep confidential any and all information obtained in connection with the services rendered hereunder that is either (a) of a type that would ordinarily be considered proprietary or confidential, such as information concerning the composition of assets, rates of return, credit quality, structure or ownership of securities, or (b) designated as confidential obtained in connection with the services rendered by the Staff and Services Provider hereunder and shall not disclose any such information to non-affiliated third parties, except (i) with the prior written consent of the Management Company, (ii) such information as a rating agency shall reasonably request in connection with its rating of notes issued by a CLO or supplying credit estimates on any obligation included in the Portfolio, (iii) in connection with establishing trading or investment accounts or otherwise in connection with effecting transactions on behalf of the Management Company or any CLO or Account for which the Management Company serves as portfolio manager or investment manager or in a similar capacity, (iv) as required by (A) Applicable Law or (B) the rules or regulations of any self-regulating organization, body or official having jurisdiction over the Staff and Services Provider or any of its Affiliates, (v) to its professional advisors (including, without limitation, legal, tax and accounting advisors), (vi) such information as shall have been publicly disclosed other than in known violation of this Agreement or shall have been obtained by the Staff and Services Provider on a non-confidential basis, (vii) such information as is necessary or appropriate to disclose so that the Staff and Services Provider may perform its duties hereunder, (viii) as expressly permitted in the final offering memorandum or any definitive transaction documents relating to any CLO or Account, (ix) information relating to performance of the Portfolio as may be used by the Staff and Services Provider in the ordinary course of its business or (xx) such

This authorization to disclose the U.S. tax treatment and tax structure does not permit disclosure of information identifying the Staff and Services Provider, the Management Vehicles, the CLOs or Accounts or any other party to the transactions contemplated by this Agreement (except to the extent such information is relevant to U.S. tax structure or tax treatment of such transactions).

ARTICLE VI

EXCULPATION AND INDEMNIFICATION

Section 6.01 Standard of Care. Except as otherwise expressly provided herein, each Covered Person shall discharge its duties under this Agreement with the care, skill, prudence and diligence under the circumstances then prevailing that a prudent person acting in a like capacity and familiar with such matters would use in the conduct of an enterprise of a like character and with like aims. To the extent not inconsistent with the foregoing, each Covered Person shall follow its customary standards, policies and procedures in performing its duties hereunder. No Covered Person shall deal with the income or assets of the Management Company in such Covered Person's own interest or for its own account. Each Covered Person in its respective sole and absolute discretion may separately engage or invest in any other business ventures, including those that may be in competition with the Management Company, and the Management Company will not have any rights in or to such ventures or the income or profits derived therefrom

Section 6.02 Exculpation. To the fullest extent permitted by law, no Covered Person will be liable to the Management Company, any Member, or any shareholder, partner or member thereof, for (i) any acts or omissions by such Covered Person arising out of or in connection with the conduct of the business of the Management Company or its General Partner, or any investment made or held by the Management Company or its General Partner, unless such act or omission was made in bad faith or is determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction, in a final nonappealable judgment, to be the result of gross negligence or to constitute fraud or willful misconduct (as interpreted under the laws of the State of Delaware) (each, a "Disabling Conduct") on the part of such Covered Person, (ii) any act or omission of any Investor, (iii) any mistake, gross negligence, misconduct or bad faith of any employee, broker, administrator or other agent or representative of such Covered Person, provided that such employee, broker, administrator or agent was selected, engaged or retained by or on behalf of such Covered Person with reasonable care, or (iv) any consequential (including loss of profit), indirect, special or punitive damages. To the extent that, at law or in equity, any Covered Person has duties (including fiduciary duties) and liabilities relating thereto to the Management Company or any Member, no Covered Person acting under this Agreement shall be liable to the Management Company or to any such Member for its good-faith reliance on the provisions of this Agreement.

To the fullest extent permitted by law, no Covered Person shall have any personal liability to the Management Company or any Member solely by reason of any change in U.S. federal, state or local or foreign income tax laws, or in interpretations thereof, as they apply to the Management Company or the Members, whether the change occurs through legislative, judicial or administrative action.

Any Covered Person in its sole and absolute discretion may consult legal counsel, accountants or other advisers selected by it, and any act or omission taken, or made in good faith by such Person on behalf of the Management Company or in furtherance of the business of the Management Company in good-faith reliance on and in accordance with the advice of such counsel, accountants or other advisers shall be full justification for the act or omission, and to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, no Covered Person shall be liable to the Management Company or any Member in so acting or omitting to act if such counsel, accountants or other advisers were selected, engaged or retained with reasonable care.

Section 6.03 Indemnification by the Management Company. The Management Company shall and hereby does, to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, indemnify and hold harmless any Covered Person from and against any and all claims, demands, liabilities, costs, expenses, damages, losses, suits, proceedings, judgments, assessments, actions and other liabilities, whether judicial, administrative, investigative or otherwise, of whatever nature, known or unknown, liquidated or unliquidated ("Claims"), that may accrue to or be incurred by any Covered Person, or in which any Covered Person may become involved, as a party or otherwise, or with which any Covered Person may be threatened, relating to or arising out of the investment or other activities of the Management Company or its General Partner, or activities undertaken in connection with the Management Company or its General Partner, or otherwise relating to or arising out of this Agreement, including amounts paid in satisfaction of judgments, in compromise or as fines or penalties, and attorneys' fees and expenses incurred in connection with the preparation for or defense or disposition of any investigation, action, suit, arbitration or other proceeding (a "Proceeding"), whether civil or criminal (all of such Claims, amounts and expenses referred to therein are referred to collectively as "Damages"), except to the extent that it shall have been determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction, in a final nonappealable judgment, that such Damages arose primarily from Disabling Conduct of such Covered Person. The termination of any Proceeding by settlement, judgment, order, conviction or upon a plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent shall not, of itself, create a presumption that any Damages relating to such settlement, judgment, order, conviction or plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent or otherwise relating to such Proceeding arose primarily from Disabling Conduct of any Covered Persons.

Expenses (including attorneys' fees) incurred by a Covered Person in defense or settlement of any Claim that may be subject to a right of indemnification hereunder may be advanced by the Management Company prior to the final disposition thereof upon receipt of a written undertaking by or on behalf of the Covered Person to repay the amount advanced to the extent that it shall be determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction that the Covered Person is not entitled to be indemnified hereunder. The right of any Covered Persons to the indemnification provided herein shall be cumulative of, and in addition to, any and all rights to which the Covered Person may otherwise be entitled by contract or as a matter of law or equity and shall be extended to the Covered Person's successors, assigns and legal representatives. Any judgments against the Management Company and/or any Covered Persons in respect of which such Covered Person is entitled to indemnification shall first be satisfied from the assets of the Management Company, including Drawdowns, before such Covered Person is responsible therefor.

Notwithstanding any provision of this Agreement to the contrary, the provisions of this Section 6.03 shall not be construed so as to provide for the indemnification of any Covered Person for any liability (including liability under Federal securities laws which, under certain circumstances, impose liability even on persons that act in good faith), to the extent (but only to the extent) that such indemnification would be in violation of applicable law, but shall be construed so as to effectuate the provisions of this Section 6.03 to the fullest extent permitted by law.

Section 6.04 Other Sources of Recovery etc. The indemnification rights set forth in Section 6.03 are in addition to, and shall not exclude, limit or otherwise adversely affect, any other indemnification or similar rights to which any Covered Person may be entitled. If and to the extent that other sources of recovery (including proceeds of any applicable policies of insurance or indemnification from any Person in which any of the CLOs or Accounts has an investment) are available to any Covered Person, such Covered Person shall use reasonable efforts to obtain recovery from such other sources before the Company shall be required to make any payment in respect of its indemnification obligations hereunder; provided that, if such other recovery is not available without delay, the Covered Person shall be entitled to such payment by the Management Company and the Management Company shall be entitled to reimbursement out of such other recovery when and if obtained.

Section 6.05 Rights of Heirs, Successors and Assigns. The indemnification rights provided by Section 6.03 shall inure to the benefit of the heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns of each Covered Person.

Section 6.06 Reliance. A Covered Person shall incur no liability to the Management Company or any Member in acting upon any signature or writing reasonably believed by him, her or it to be genuine, and may rely in good faith on a certificate signed by an officer of any Person in order to ascertain any fact with respect to such Person or within such Person's knowledge. Each Covered Person may act directly or through his, her or its agents or attorneys.

ARTICLE VII

TERMINATION

Section 7.01 Termination. Either Party may terminate this Agreement at any time upon at least thirty (30) days' written notice to the other.

ARTICLE VIII

MISCELLANEOUS

Section 8.01 Amendments. This Agreement may not be amended or modified except by an instrument in writing signed by each Party.

Section 8.02 Assignment and Delegation.

(a) Neither Party may assign, pledge, grant or otherwise encumber or transfer all or any part of its rights or responsibilities under this Agreement, in whole or in part, except (i) as provided in clauses (b) and (c) of this Section 8.02, without the prior written consent of the other Party and (ii) in accordance with Applicable Law.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in this Section 8.02, the Staff and Services Provider may not assign its rights or responsibilities under this Agreement unless (i) the Management Company consents in writing thereto and (ii) such assignment is made in accordance with Applicable Law.

(c) The Staff and Services Provider may, without satisfying any of the conditions of Section 8.02(a) other than clause (ii) thereof, (1) assign any of its rights or obligations under this Agreement to an Affiliate; provided that such Affiliate (i) has demonstrated ability, whether as an entity or by its principals and employees, to professionally and competently perform duties similar to those imposed upon the Staff and Services Provider pursuant to this Agreement and (ii) has the legal right and capacity to act as Staff and Services Provider under this Agreement, or (2) enter into (or have its parent enter into) any consolidation or amalgamation with, or merger with or into, or transfer of all or substantially all of its assets to, another entity; provided that, at the time of such consolidation, merger, amalgamation or transfer the resulting, surviving or transferee entity assumes all the obligations of the Staff and Services Provider under this Agreement generally (whether by operation of law or by contract) and the other entity is a continuation of the Staff and Services Provider in another corporate or similar form and has substantially the same staff; provided further that the Staff and Services Provider shall deliver ten (10) Business Days' prior notice to the Management Company of any assignment or combination made pursuant to this sentence. Upon the execution and delivery of any such assignment by the assignee, the Staff and Services Provider will be released from further obligations pursuant to this Agreement except to the extent expressly provided herein.

Section 8.03 Non-Recourse; Non-Petition.

(a) The Staff and Services Provider agrees that the payment of all amounts to which it is entitled pursuant to this Agreement shall be payable by the Management Company only to the extent of assets held in the Portfolio.

(b) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, the liability of the Management Company to the Staff and Services Provider hereunder is limited in recourse to the Portfolio, and if the proceeds of the Portfolio following the liquidation thereof are insufficient to meet the obligations of the Management Company hereunder in full, the Management Company shall have no further liability in respect of any such outstanding obligations, and such obligations and all claims of the Staff and Services Provider or any other Person against the Management Company hereunder shall thereupon extinguish and not thereafter revive. The Staff and Services Provider accepts that the obligations of the Management Company hereunder are the corporate obligations of the Management Company and are not the obligations of any employee, member, officer, director or administrator of the Management Company and no action may be taken against any such Person in relation to the obligations of the Management Company hereunder.

(c) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, any Staff and Services Provider agrees not to institute against, or join any other Person in instituting against, the Management Company any bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, insolvency, moratorium or liquidation proceedings, or other proceedings under United States federal or state bankruptcy laws, or similar laws until at least one year and one day (or, if longer, the then applicable preference period plus one day) after the payment in full all amounts payable in respect of any Indebtedness incurred to finance any portion of the Portfolio; provided that nothing in this provision shall preclude, or be deemed to stop, the Staff and Services Provider from taking any action prior to the expiration of the aforementioned one year and one day period (or, if longer, the applicable preference period then in effect plus one day) in (i) any case or proceeding voluntarily filed or commenced by the Management Company, or (ii) any involuntary insolvency proceeding filed or commenced against the Management Company by a Person other than the Staff and Services Provider.

(d) The Management Company hereby acknowledges and agrees that the Staff and Services Provider's obligations hereunder shall be solely the corporate obligations of the Staff and Services Provider, and are not the obligations of any employee, member, officer, director or administrator of the Staff and Services Provider and no action may be taken against any such Person in relation to the obligations of the Staff and Services Provider hereunder.

(e) The provisions of this Section 8.03 shall survive termination of this Agreement for any reason whatsoever.

Section 8.04 Governing Law.

(a) This Agreement shall be governed by, and construed in accordance with, the laws of the State of Texas. The Parties unconditionally and irrevocably consent to the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts located in the State of Texas and waive any objection with respect thereto, for the purpose of any action, suit or proceeding arising out of or relating to this Agreement or the transactions contemplated hereby.

(b) The Parties irrevocably agree for the benefit of each other that the courts of the State of Texas and the United States District Court located in the Northern District of Texas in Dallas are to have exclusive jurisdiction to settle any disputes (whether contractual or non-contractual) which may arise out of or in connection with this Agreement and that accordingly any action arising out of or in connection therewith (together referred to as "Proceedings") may be brought in such courts. The Parties irrevocably submit to the jurisdiction of such courts and waive any objection which they may have now or hereafter to the laying of the venue of any Proceedings in any such court and any claim that any Proceedings have been brought in an inconvenient forum and further irrevocably agree that a judgment in any Proceedings brought in such courts shall be conclusive and binding upon the Parties and may be enforced in the courts of any other jurisdiction.

EACH OF THE PARTIES HERETO HEREBY KNOWINGLY, VOLUNTARILY AND INTENTIONALLY WAIVES ANY RIGHTS IT MAY HAVE TO A TRIAL BY JURY IN RESPECT OF ANY LITIGATION BASED HEREON, OR ARISING OUT OF, UNDER, OR IN CONNECTION WITH, THIS AGREEMENT. EACH PARTY HERETO ACKNOWLEDGES AND AGREES THAT IT HAS RECEIVED FULL AND SUFFICIENT CONSIDERATION FOR THIS PROVISION AND THAT THIS PROVISION IS A MATERIAL INDUCEMENT FOR ITS ENTERING INTO THIS AGREEMENT.

Section 8.06 Severability. The provisions of this Agreement are independent of and severable from each other, and no provision shall be affected or rendered invalid or unenforceable by virtue of the fact that for any reason any other or others of them may be invalid or unenforceable in whole or in part. Upon such determination that any term or other provision is invalid, illegal or incapable of being enforced, the Parties shall negotiate in good faith to modify this Agreement so as to effect the original intent of the Parties.

Section 8.07 No Waiver. The performance of any condition or obligation imposed upon any Party may be waived only upon the written consent of the Parties. Such waiver shall be limited to the terms thereof and shall not constitute a waiver of any other condition or obligation of the other Party. Any failure by any Party to enforce any provision shall not constitute a waiver of that or any other provision or this Agreement.

Section 8.08 Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts by facsimile or other written or electronic form of communication, each of which shall be deemed to be an original as against any Party whose signature appears thereon, and all of which shall together constitute one and the same instrument. This Agreement shall become binding when one or more counterparts hereof, individually or taken together, shall bear the signatures of all of the Parties reflected hereon as the signatories.

Section 8.09 Third Party Beneficiaries. This Agreement is for the sole benefit of the Parties hereto and their permitted assigns and nothing herein express or implied shall give or be construed to give to any Person, other than the Parties hereto and such permitted assigns, any legal or equitable rights hereunder. For avoidance of doubt, this Agreement is not for the benefit or and is not enforceable by any Shared Employee, CLO or Account or any investor (directly or indirectly) in the Management Company.

Section 8.10 No Partnership or Joint Venture. Nothing set forth in this Agreement shall constitute, or be construed to create, an employment relationship, a partnership or a joint venture between the Parties. Except as expressly provided herein or in any other written agreement between the Parties, no Party has any authority, express or implied, to bind or to incur liabilities on behalf of, or in the name of, any other Party.

Section 8.11 Independent Contractor. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary, the Staff and Services Provider shall be deemed to be an independent contractor and, except as expressly provided or authorized herein, shall have no authority to act for or represent the Management Company or any CLO or Account in which the Management Company acts as portfolio manager or investment manager or in a similar capacity in any manner or otherwise be deemed an agent of the Management Company or any CLO or Account in which the Management Company acts as portfolio manager or investment manager or in a similar capacity.

Section 8.12 Written Disclosure Statement. The Management Company acknowledges receipt of Part 2 of the Staff and Services Provider's Form ADV, as required by Rule 204-3 under the Advisers Act, on or before the date of execution of this Agreement.

Section 8.13 Headings. The descriptive headings contained in this Agreement are for convenience of reference only and shall not affect in any way the meaning or interpretation of this Agreement.

Section 8.14 Entire Agreement. This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement of the Parties with respect to the subject matter hereof and supersedes all prior agreements and undertakings, both written and oral, between the Parties with respect to such subject matter.

Appendix A

The Management Company shall pay to the Staff and Services Provider a Staff and Services Fee for the services for the CLOs or Accounts in an amount equal to the aggregate management fees that would be received by the Management Company for such CLOs or Accounts if such management fees were calculated in exact conformity with the calculation of management fees for such CLOs or Accounts, except that the management fee rates applied in such calculation were replaced by the fee rate set forth in the following table. Such fees shall be payable promptly (or at such time as is otherwise agreed by the parties) following the Management Company's receipt of management fees for such CLOs or Accounts, it being understood that none of the foregoing shall prohibit the Management Company from waiving or entering into side letters with respect to management fees for such CLOs or Accounts; provided that any such waived or reduced amounts shall not be recognized for purposes of calculating the fees payable by the Management Company hereunder. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the parties may agree to a different allocation from that set forth during any period in order to reflect the then current fair market value of the Services rendered.

RECITALS

WHEREAS, the Parties entered into that certain Second Amended and Restated Sub-Advisory Agreement dated July 29, 2016 to be effective January 1, 2016 (the "Existing Agreement");

WHEREAS, the Management Company from time to time has entered and will enter into portfolio management agreements, investment management agreements and/or similar agreements (each such agreement as amended, modified, waived, supplemented or restated, subject in each case to the requirements of Section 8, a "Management Agreement") and related indentures, credit agreements, collateral administration agreements, service agreements or other agreements (each such agreement as amended, modified, waived, supplemented or restated, subject in each case to the requirements of Section 8, a "Related Agreement"), in each case as set forth on Appendix A hereto, as amended from time to time, pursuant to which the Management Company has agreed to provide portfolio and/or investment management services to certain funds and accounts and to certain collateralized loan obligation issuers and to borrowers in certain short-term or long-term warehouse or repurchase facilities in connection therewith (any such transaction, a "Transaction", any fund, account, issuer, warehouse borrower or repurchase agreement seller in respect of any such Transaction, an "Account", and the assets collateralizing each such Transaction and/or comprising the portfolio of such Account, a "Portfolio");

WHEREAS, the Management Company and the Sub-Advisor desire to enter into this Agreement in order to permit the Sub-Advisor to provide certain limited services to assist the Management Company in performing certain obligations under the Management Agreements and Related Agreements;

WHEREAS, the Parties now desire to amend and restate the Existing Agreement.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the foregoing recitals, and the receipt of good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, the Parties, intending to be legally bound, hereby agree that the Existing Agreement is hereby amended, restated and replaced in its entirety as follows.

1. Appointment; Limited Scope of Services.

(a) Highland is hereby appointed as Sub-Advisor to the Management Company for the purpose of assisting the Management Company in managing the Portfolios of each Account pursuant to the related Management Agreement and Related Agreements, in each case that have been included in the scope of this Agreement pursuant to the provisions of Section 8, subject to the terms set forth herein and subject to the supervision of the Management Company, and Highland hereby accepts such appointment.

(b) Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Sub-Advisor shall, during the term and subject to the provisions of this Agreement:

(i) make recommendations to the Management Company in its capacity as portfolio manager, investment manager or any similar capacity for any applicable Account as to the general composition and allocation of the Portfolio with respect to such Account among various types of securities, the nature and timing of the changes therein and the manner of implementing such changes, including recommendations as to the specific loans and other assets to be purchased, retained or sold by any such Account;

(ii) place orders with respect to, and arrange for, any investment by or on behalf of such Account (including executing and delivering all documents relating to such Account's investments on behalf of such Account or the Management Company, as applicable), upon receiving a proper instruction from the Management Company;

(iii) identify, evaluate, recommend to the Management Company, in its capacity as portfolio manager for such Account, and, if applicable, negotiate the structure and/or terms of investment opportunities within the specific investment strategy of the Management Company for such Account;

(iv) assist the Management Company in its capacity as portfolio manager for such Account in performing due diligence on prospective Portfolio investments by such Account;

(v) provide information to the Management Company in its capacity as portfolio manager for such Account regarding any investments to facilitate the monitoring and servicing of such investments and, if requested by the Management Company, provide information to assist in monitoring and servicing other investments by such Account

(vi) assist and advise the Management Company in its capacity as portfolio manager for such Account with respect to credit functions including, but not limited to, credit analysis and market research and analysis; and

(vii) assist the Management Company in performing any of its other obligations or duties as portfolio manager for such Account.

The foregoing responsibilities and obligations are collectively referred to herein as the "Services."

Notwithstanding the foregoing, all investment decisions will ultimately be the responsibility of, and will be made by and at the sole discretion of, the Management Company. Furthermore, the parties acknowledge and agree that the Sub-Advisor shall be required to provide only the services expressly described in this Section 1(b), and shall have no responsibility hereunder to provide any other services to the Management Company or any Transaction, including, but not limited to, administrative, management or similar services.

(c) The Sub-Advisor agrees during the term hereof to furnish the Services on the terms and conditions set forth herein and subject to the limitations contained herein. The Sub-Advisor agrees that, in performing the Services, it will comply with all applicable obligations of the Management Company set forth in the Management Agreements and the Related Agreements. In addition, with respect to any obligation that would be part of the Services but for the fact that the relevant Management Agreement or Related Agreement does not permit such obligation to be delegated by the Management Company to the Sub-Advisor, the Sub-Advisor, upon request in writing by the Management Company, shall work in good faith with the Management Company and shall use commercially reasonable efforts to assist the Management Company in satisfying all such obligations.

2. Compensation.

(a) As compensation for its performance of its obligations as Sub-Advisor under this Agreement in respect of any Transaction, the Sub-Advisor will be entitled to receive the Sub-Advisory Fee payable thereto. The "Sub-Advisory Fee" shall be payable in accordance with Appendix A attached hereto, as such appendix may be amended by the Parties from time to time.

(b) Each party shall bear its own expenses; provided that the Management Company shall reimburse the Sub-Advisor for any and all costs and expenses that are properly Company Expenses or that may be borne by the Management Company under the Management Company LLC Agreement.

(c) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, if on any date the Management Company determines that it would not have sufficient funds available to it to make a payment of Indebtedness, it shall have the right to defer any and all amounts payable to the Sub-Advisor pursuant to this Agreement, including any fees and expenses; provided that the Management Company shall promptly pay all such amounts on the first date thereafter that sufficient amounts exist to make payment thereof.

(d) From time to time, the Management Company may enter into sub-advisory agreements with certain management companies on similar terms to this Agreement. Promptly following the receipt of any fees pursuant to such sub-advisory agreements, the Management Company shall pay 100% of such fees to the Sub-Advisor.

3. Representations and Warranties.

(a) Each of the Management Company and the Sub-Advisor represents and warrants, as to itself only, that:

(i) it has full power and authority to execute and deliver, and to perform its obligations under, this Agreement;

(ii) this Agreement has been duly authorized, executed and delivered by it and constitutes its valid and binding, obligation, enforceable in accordance with its terms except as the enforceability hereof may be subject to (i) bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization moratorium, receivership, conservatorship or other similar laws now or hereafter in effect relating to creditors' rights and (ii) general principles of equity (regardless of whether such enforcement is considered in a proceeding, in equity or at law);

(iii) no consent, approval, authorization or order of or declaration or filing with any government, governmental instrumentality or court or other person or entity is required for the execution of this Agreement or the performance by it of its duties hereunder, except such as have been duly made or obtained; and

(iv) neither the execution and delivery of this Agreement nor the fulfillment of the terms hereof conflicts with or results in a breach or violation of any of the terms or provisions of, or constitutes a default under, (A) its constituting and organizational documents; (B) the terms of any material indenture, contract, lease, mortgage, deed of trust, note, agreement or other evidence of indebtedness or other material agreement, obligation, condition, covenant or instrument to which it is a party or by which it is bound; (C) any statute applicable to it; or (D) any law, decree, order, rule or regulation applicable to it of any court or regulatory, administrative or governmental agency, body of authority or arbitration having or asserting jurisdiction over it or its properties, which, in the case of clauses (B) through (D) above, would have a material adverse effect upon the performance of its duties hereunder.

(b) The Sub-Advisor represents and warrants to the Management Company that it is a registered investment adviser under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended (the "Advisers Act").

(c) The Management Company acknowledges that it has received Part 2 of Highland Capital Management, L.P.'s Form ADV filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission. The Sub-Advisor will provide to the Management Company an updated copy of Part 2 of its Form ADV promptly upon any amendment to such Form ADV being filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

4. Standard of Care; Liability; Indemnification.

(a) Sub-Advisor Standard of Care. Subject to the terms and provisions of this Agreement, the Management Agreements and/or the Related Agreements, as applicable, the Sub-Advisor will perform its obligations hereunder and under the Management Agreements and/or the Related Agreements in good faith with reasonable care using a degree of skill and attention no less than that which the Sub-Advisor uses with respect to comparable assets that it manages for others and, without limiting the foregoing, in a manner which the Sub-Advisor reasonably believes to be consistent with the practices and procedures followed by institutional managers of national standing relating to assets of the nature and character of the Portfolios, in each case except as expressly provided otherwise under this Agreement, the Management Agreements and/or the Related Agreements. To the extent not inconsistent with the foregoing, the Sub-Advisor will follow its customary standards, policies and procedures in performing its duties hereunder, under the Management Agreements and/or under the Related Agreements.

(b) Exculpation. To the fullest extent permitted by law, none of the Sub-Advisor, any of its affiliates, and any of their respective managers, members, principals, partners, directors, officers, shareholders, employees and agents (but shall not include the Management Company, its subsidiaries or member(s) and any managers, members, principals, partners, directors, officers, shareholders, employees and agents of the Management Company or its subsidiaries or member(s) (in their capacity as such)) (each a "Covered Person") will be liable to the Management Company, any Member, any shareholder, partner or member thereof, any Account (or any other adviser, agent or representative thereof), or to any holder of notes, securities or other indebtedness issued by any Account (collectively, the "Management Company Related Parties"), for (i) any acts or omissions by such Covered Person arising out of or in connection with the provision of the Services hereunder, for any losses that may be sustained in the purchase, holding or sale of any security or debt obligation by any Account, or as a result of any activities of the Sub-Advisor, the Management Company or any other adviser to or agent of the Account or any other sub-advisor appointed by the Management Company to provide portfolio management services to any other delegatee of the Management Company or any other person or entity, unless such act or omission was made in bad faith or is determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction, in a final nonappealable judgment, to be the result of gross negligence or to constitute fraud or willful misconduct (as interpreted under the laws of the State of Delaware) (each, a "Disabling Conduct") on the part of such Covered Person, (ii) any mistake, gross negligence, misconduct or bad faith of any employee, broker, administrator or other agent or representative of the Sub-Advisor, provided that such employee, broker, administrator or agent was selected, engaged or retained by or on behalf of the Sub-Advisor with reasonable care, or (iii) any consequential (including loss of profit), indirect, special or punitive damages. To the extent that, at law or in equity, any Covered Person has duties (including fiduciary duties) and liabilities relating thereto to any Management Company Related Party, no Covered Person acting under this Agreement shall be liable to such Management Company Related Party for its good-faith reliance on the provisions of this Agreement.

To the fullest extent permitted by law, no Covered Person shall have any personal liability to any Management Company Related Party solely by reason of any change in U.S. federal, state or local or foreign income tax laws, or in interpretations thereof, as they apply to any such Management Company Related Party, whether the change occurs through legislative, judicial or administrative action.

Any Covered Person in its sole and absolute discretion may consult legal counsel, accountants or other advisers selected by it, and any act or omission taken, or made in good faith by such Person on behalf of the Management Company or in furtherance of the business of the Management Company in good-faith reliance on and in accordance with the advice of such counsel, accountants or other advisers shall be full justification for the act or omission, and to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, no Covered Person shall be liable to any Management Company Related Party in so acting or omitting to act if such counsel, accountants or other advisers were selected, engaged or retained with reasonable care

(c) Indemnification. The Management Company shall and hereby does, to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, indemnify and hold harmless any Covered Person from and against any and all claims, demands, liabilities, costs, expenses, damages, losses, suits, proceedings, judgments, assessments, actions and other liabilities, whether judicial, administrative, investigative or otherwise, of whatever nature, known or unknown, liquidated or unliquidated ("Claims"), that may accrue to or be incurred by any Covered Person, or in which any Covered Person may become involved, as a party or otherwise, or with which any Covered Person may be threatened, relating to or arising out of the Services, the activities of the Management Company Related Parties, or activities undertaken in connection with the Management Company Related Parties, or otherwise relating to or arising out of this Agreement, any Management Agreement and/or the Related Documents, including amounts paid in satisfaction of judgments, in compromise or as fines or penalties, and attorneys' fees and expenses incurred in connection with the preparation for or defense or disposition of any investigation, action, suit, arbitration or other proceeding (a "Proceeding"), whether civil or criminal (all of such Claims, amounts and expenses referred to therein are referred to collectively as "Damages"), except to the extent that it shall have been determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction, in a final nonappealable judgment, that such Damages arose primarily from Disabling Conduct of such Covered Person. The termination of any Proceeding by settlement, judgment, order, conviction or upon a plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent shall not, of itself, create a presumption that any Damages relating to such settlement, judgment, order, conviction or plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent or otherwise relating to such Proceeding arose primarily from Disabling Conduct of any Covered Persons.

Expenses (including attorneys' fees) incurred by a Covered Person in defense or settlement of any Claim that may be subject to a right of indemnification hereunder may be advanced by the Management Company prior to the final disposition thereof upon receipt of a written undertaking by or on behalf of the Covered Person to repay the amount advanced to the extent that it shall be determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction that the Covered Person is not entitled to be indemnified hereunder. The right of any Covered Persons to the indemnification provided herein shall be cumulative of, and in addition to, any and all rights to which the Covered Person may otherwise be entitled by contract or as a matter of law or equity and shall be extended to the Covered Person's successors, assigns and legal representatives. Any judgments against the Management Company and/or any Covered Persons in respect of which such Covered Person is entitled to indemnification shall first be satisfied from the assets of the Management Company, including Drawdowns, before such Covered Person is responsible therefor.

Notwithstanding any provision of this Agreement to the contrary, the provisions of this Section 4(c) shall not be construed so as to provide for the indemnification of any Covered Person for any liability (including liability under Federal securities laws which, under certain circumstances, impose liability even on persons that act in good faith), to the extent (but only to the extent) that such indemnification would be in violation of applicable law, but shall be construed so as to effectuate the provisions of this Section 4(c) to the fullest extent permitted by law

(d) Other Sources of Recovery etc. The indemnification rights set forth in Section 4(c) are in addition to, and shall not exclude, limit or otherwise adversely affect, any other indemnification or similar rights to which any Covered Person may be entitled. If and to the extent that other sources of recovery (including proceeds of any applicable policies of insurance or indemnification from any Person in which any of the Transactions has an investment) are available to any Covered Person, such Covered Person shall use reasonable efforts to obtain recovery from such other sources before the Company shall be required to make any payment in respect of its indemnification obligations hereunder; provided that, if such other recovery is not available without delay, the Covered Person shall be entitled to such payment by the Management Company and the Management Company shall be entitled to reimbursement out of such other recovery when and if obtained

(e) Rights of Heirs, Successors and Assigns. The indemnification rights provided by Section 4(c) shall inure to the benefit of the heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns of each Covered Person

(f) Reliance. A Covered Person shall incur no liability to any Management Company Related Party in acting upon any signature or writing reasonably believed by him, her or it to be genuine, and may rely in good faith on a certificate signed by an officer of any Person in order to ascertain any fact with respect to such Person or within such Person's knowledge. Each Covered Person may act directly or through his, her or its agents or attorneys.

(g) Rights Under Management Agreements and Related Agreements. The Management Company will ensure that the Sub-Advisor is provided substantially similar indemnification and exculpation rights as are afforded to the Management Company in its role as portfolio manager under any future Management Agreement or Related Agreement encompassed within the Services hereunder, and it is expressly acknowledged by the Parties that the Sub-Advisor may not consent to including a Management Agreement and the related Transaction and Related Agreements within the scope of this Agreement pursuant to Section 8 if such indemnification and exculpation rights are not reasonably acceptable to it.

5. Limitations on Employment of the Sub-Advisor; Conflicts of Interest.

(a) The services of the Sub-Advisor to the Management Company are not exclusive, and the Sub-Advisor may engage in any other business or render similar or different services to others including, without limitation, the direct or indirect sponsorship or management of other Transactions, investment-based accounts or commingled pools of capital, however structured, having investment objectives similar to those of the Management Company or the Accounts. Moreover, nothing in this Agreement shall limit or restrict the right of any manager, partner, officer or employee of the Sub-Advisor to engage in any other business or to devote his or her time and attention in part to any other business, whether of a similar or dissimilar nature to the Management Company or any Account, or to receive any fees or compensation in connection therewith.

(b) So long as this Agreement or any extension, renewal or amendment of this Agreement remains in effect, the Sub-Advisor shall be the only portfolio management sub-advisor for the Management Company. The Sub-Advisor assumes no responsibility under this Agreement other than to render the services called for hereunder. It is understood that directors, officers, employees, members and managers of the Management Company are or may become interested in the Sub-Advisor and its Affiliates as directors, officers, employees, partners, stockholders, members, managers or otherwise, and that the Sub-Advisor and directors, officers, employees, partners, stockholders, members and managers of the Sub-Advisor and its Affiliates are or may become similarly interested in the Management Company as members or otherwise.

(c) The Management Company acknowledges that various potential and actual conflicts of interest may exist with respect to the Sub-Advisor as described in the Sub-Advisor's Form ADV Part 2A and as described in Appendix B hereto, and the Management Company expressly acknowledges and agrees to the provisions contained in such Appendix B, as amended from time to time with mutual consent of the Parties.

6. Termination; Survival.

(a) This Agreement may be terminated, in its entirety or with respect to any Management Agreement, at any time without payment of penalty, by the Management Company upon 30 days' prior written notice to the Sub-Advisor.

(b) This Agreement shall terminate automatically with respect to any Management Agreement on the date on which (i) such Management Agreement has been terminated (and, if required thereunder, a successor portfolio manager has been appointed and accepted) or discharged; or (ii) the Management Company is no longer acting as portfolio manager, investment manager or in a similar capacity (whether due to removal, resignation or assignment) under such Management Agreement and the Related Agreements. Upon the termination of this Agreement with respect to any Management Agreement the Management Company shall provide prompt notice thereof to the Sub-Advisor, and Appendix A hereto shall be deemed to be amended by deleting such Management Agreement and the Related Agreements related thereto.

(c) All accrued and unpaid financial and indemnification obligations with respect to any conduct or events occurring prior to the effective date of the termination of this Agreement shall survive the termination of this Agreement.

7. Cooperation with Management Company. The Sub-Advisor shall reasonably cooperate with the Management Company in connection with the Management Company's compliance with its policies and procedures relating to oversight of the Sub-Advisor. Specifically, the Sub-Advisor agrees that it will provide the Management Company with reasonable access to information relating to the performance of Sub-Advisor's obligations under this Agreement.

8. Management Agreements and Related Agreements. The Sub-Advisor's duty to provide Services in connection with any Management Agreement shall not commence until (a) Appendix A to this Agreement has been amended by mutual agreement of the Parties to include such Management Agreement and the related Account, fund and/or account and Related Agreements and (b) the Sub-Advisor acknowledges receipt of such Management Agreement and each Related Agreement. The Sub-Advisor shall not be bound to comply with any amendment, modification, supplement or waiver to any Management Agreement or any Related Agreement until it has received a copy thereof from the Management Company. No amendment, modification, supplement or waiver to any Management Agreement or Related Agreement that, when applied to the obligations and rights of the Management Company under such Management Agreement or Related Agreement, affects (i) the obligations or rights of the Sub-Advisor hereunder; (ii) the amount of priority of any fees or other amounts payable to the Sub-Advisor hereunder; or (iii) any definitions relating to the matters covered in clause (i) or (ii) above, will apply to the Sub-Advisor under this Agreement unless in each such case the Sub-Advisor has consented thereto in writing (such consent not to be unreasonably withheld or delayed unless the Sub-Advisor determines in its reasonable judgment that such amendment, modification, supplement or waiver could have a material adverse effect on the Sub-Advisor).

9. Amendments; Assignments.

(a) Neither Party may assign, pledge, grant or otherwise encumber or transfer all or any part of its rights or responsibilities under this Agreement, in whole or in part, except (i) as provided in clauses (b) and (c) of this Section 9, without the prior written consent of the other Party and (ii) in accordance with the Advisers Act and other applicable law.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in this Section 9, the Sub-Advisor may not assign its rights or responsibilities under this Agreement unless (i) the Management Company consents in writing thereto and (ii) such assignment is made in accordance with the Advisers Act and other applicable law.

(c) The Sub-Advisor may, without satisfying any of the conditions of Section 9(a) other than clause (ii) thereof (so long as such assignment does not constitute an assignment within the meaning of Section 202(a)(1) of the Advisers Act), (1) assign any of its rights or obligations under this Agreement to an affiliate; provided that such affiliate (i) has demonstrated ability, whether as an entity or by its principals and employees, to professionally and competently perform duties similar to those imposed upon the Sub-Advisor pursuant to this Agreement and (ii) has the legal right and capacity to act as Sub-Advisor under this Agreement, or (2) enter into (or have its parent enter into) any consolidation or amalgamation with, or merger with or into, or transfer of all or substantially all of its assets to, another entity; provided that, at the time of such consolidation, merger, amalgamation or transfer the resulting, surviving or transferee entity assumes all the obligations of the Sub-Advisor under this Agreement generally (whether by operation of law or by contract) and the other entity is a continuation of the Sub-Advisor in another corporate or similar form and has substantially the same staff; provided, further, that the Sub-Advisor shall deliver ten (10) Business Days' prior notice to the Management Company of any assignment or combination made pursuant to this sentence. Upon the execution and delivery of any such assignment by the assignee, the Sub-Advisor will be released from further obligations pursuant to this Agreement except to the extent expressly provided herein.

10. Advisory Restrictions. This Agreement is not intended to and shall not constitute an assignment, pledge or transfer of any Management Agreement or any part thereof. It is the express intention of the parties hereto that (i) the Services are limited in scope; and (ii) this Agreement complies in all respects with all applicable (A) contractual provisions and restrictions contained in each Management Agreement and each Related Agreement and (B) laws, rules and regulations (collectively, the "Advisory Restrictions"). If any provision of this Agreement is determined to be in violation of any Advisory Restriction, then the Services to be provided under this Agreement shall automatically without action by any person or entity be limited, reduced or modified to the extent necessary and appropriate to be enforceable to the maximum extent permitted by such Advisory Restriction.

11. Records; Confidentiality.

(a) The Sub-Advisor shall maintain or cause to be maintained appropriate books of account and records relating to its services performed hereunder, and such books of account and records shall be accessible for inspection by representatives of the Management Company and its accountants and other agents at any time during normal business hours and upon not less than three (3) Business Days' prior notice; provided, that the Sub-Advisor shall not be obligated to provide access to any non-public information if it in good faith determines that the disclosure of such information would violate any applicable law, regulation or contractual arrangement.

(b) The Sub-Advisor shall follow its customary procedures to keep confidential any and all information obtained in connection with the services rendered hereunder that is either (a) of a type that would ordinarily be considered proprietary or confidential, such as information concerning the composition of assets, rates of return, credit quality, structure or ownership of securities, or (b) designated as confidential obtained in connection with the services rendered by the Sub-Advisor hereunder and shall not disclose any such information to non-affiliated third parties except (i) with the prior written consent of the Management Company, (ii) such information as a rating agency shall reasonably request in connection with its rating of notes issued in connection with a Transaction or supplying credit estimates on any obligation included in the Portfolios, (iii) in connection with establishing trading or investment accounts or otherwise in connection with effecting transactions on behalf of the Management Company or any Account for which the Management Company serves as portfolio manager, (iv) as required by (A) applicable law or (B) the rules or regulations of any self-regulating organization, body or official having jurisdiction over the Sub-Advisor or any of its affiliates, (v) to its professional advisors (including, without limitation, legal, tax and accounting advisors), (vi) such information as shall have been publicly disclosed other than in known violation of this Agreement or shall have been obtained by the Sub-Advisor on a non-confidential basis, (vii) such information as is necessary or appropriate to disclose so that the Sub-Advisor may perform its duties hereunder, (viii) as expressly permitted in the final offering memorandum or any definitive transaction documents relating to any Transaction, or (ix) information relating to performance of the Portfolios as may be used by the Sub-Advisor in the ordinary course of its business. Notwithstanding the foregoing, it is agreed that the Sub-Advisor may disclose without the consent of any Person (1) that it is serving as Sub-Advisor to the Management Company and each Account, (2) the nature, aggregate principal amount and overall performance of the Portfolios, (3) the amount of earnings on the Portfolios, (4) such other information about the Management Company, the Portfolios and the Transactions as is customarily disclosed by Sub-Advisors to management vehicles similar to the Management Company, and (5) the United States federal income tax treatment and United States federal income tax structure of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement and the related documents and all materials of any kind (including opinions and other tax analyses) that are provided to them relating to such United States federal income tax treatment and United States income tax structure. This authorization to disclose the U.S. tax treatment and tax structure does not permit disclosure of information identifying the Sub-Advisor, the Management Company, the Accounts or any other party to the transactions contemplated by this Agreement (except to the extent such information is relevant to U.S. tax structure or tax treatment of such transactions).

12. Notice. Any notice or demand to any party to this Agreement to be given, made or served for any purposes under this Agreement shall be given, made or served by sending the same by overnight mail, facsimile or email transmission or by delivering it by hand as follows (or to such other address, email address or facsimile number as shall have been notified to the other parties hereto):

13. Governing Law. This Agreement shall be governed by, and construed in accordance with, the laws of the State of Texas. The parties unconditionally and irrevocably consent to the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts located in the State of Texas and waive any objection with respect thereto, for the purpose of any action, suit or proceeding arising out of or relating to this Agreement or the transactions contemplated hereby.

14. WAIVER OF JURY TRIAL. EACH OF THE PARTIES HERETO HEREBY KNOWINGLY, VOLUNTARILY AND INTENTIONALLY WAIVES ANY RIGHTS IT MAY HAVE TO A TRIAL BY JURY WITH RESPECT TO ANY LITIGATION BASED HEREON, OR ARISING OUT OF, UNDER, OR IN CONNECTION WITH, THIS AGREEMENT. EACH PARTY HERETO ACKNOWLEDGES AND AGREES THAT IT HAS RECEIVED FULL AND SUFFICIENT CONSIDERATION FOR THIS PROVISION AND THAT THIS PROVISION IS A MATERIAL INDUCEMENT FOR ITS ENTERING INTO THIS AGREEMENT.

15. Severability. The provisions of this Agreement are independent of and severable from each other, and no provision shall be affected or rendered invalid or unenforceable by virtue of the fact that for any reason any other or others of them may be invalid or unenforceable in whole or in part. Upon such determination that any term or other provision is invalid, illegal or incapable of being enforced, the parties hereto shall negotiate in good faith to modify this Agreement so as to effect the original intent of the parties.

16. No Waiver. The performance of any condition or obligation imposed upon any party hereunder may be waived only upon the written consent of the parties hereto. Such waiver shall be limited to the terms thereof and shall not constitute a waiver of any other condition or obligation of the other party under this Agreement. Any failure by any party to this Agreement to enforce any provision shall not constitute a waiver of that or any other provision or this Agreement.

17. Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts by facsimile or other written form of communication, each of which shall be deemed to be an original as against any party whose signature appears thereon, and all of which shall together constitute one and the same instrument. This Agreement shall become binding when one or more counterparts hereof, individually or taken together, shall bear the signatures of all of the parties reflected hereon as the signatories.

18. Third Party Beneficiaries. Nothing in this Agreement will be construed to give any person or entity other than the parties to this Agreement, the Accounts and any person or entity with indemnification rights hereunder any legal or equitable right, remedy, or claim under or with respect to this Agreement or any provision of this Agreement. Except as provided in the foregoing sentence, this Agreement and all of its provisions and conditions are for the sole and exclusive benefit of the parties to this Agreement and their successors and assigns.

19. No Partnership or Joint Venture. Nothing set forth in this Agreement shall constitute, or be construed to create, an employment relationship, a partnership or a joint venture between the parties. Except as expressly provided herein or in any other written agreement between the parties, no party has any authority, express or implied, to bind or to incur liabilities on behalf of, or in the name of, any other party.

20. Entire Agreement. This Agreement, together with each Management Agreement and Related Agreement, constitutes the entire agreement of the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof and supersedes all prior agreements and undertakings, both written and oral, between the parties with respect to such subject matter.

Appendix A

The Management Company shall pay to the Sub-Advisor a Sub-Advisory Fee for the Services for the Accounts in an amount equal to the aggregate management fees that would be received by the Management Company for such Accounts if such management fees were calculated in exact conformity with the calculation of management fees for such Accounts, except that the management fee rates applied in such calculation were replaced by the fee rate set forth in the following table. Such fees shall be payable promptly (or at such time as is otherwise agreed by the parties) following the Management Company's receipt of management fees for such Accounts, it being understood that none of the foregoing shall prohibit the Management Company from waiving or entering into side letters with respect to management fees for such Accounts; provided that any such waived or reduced amounts shall not be recognized for purposes of calculating the fees payable by the Management Company hereunder. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the parties may agree to a different allocation from that set forth during any period in order to reflect the then current fair market value of the Services rendered.

APPENDIX B

Purchase and Sale Transactions; Brokerage

The Management Company acknowledges and agrees that the Sub-Advisor or any of its affiliates may acquire or sell obligations or securities, for its own account or for the accounts of its customers, without either requiring or precluding the acquisition or sale of such obligations or securities for the account of any Account. Such investments may be the same or different from those made by or on behalf of the Management Company or the Accounts.

Additional Activities of the Sub-Advisor

Nothing herein shall prevent the Sub-Advisor or any of its clients, its partners, its members, funds or other investment accounts managed by it or any of its affiliates, or their employees and their affiliates (collectively, the "Related Entities"), from engaging in other businesses, or from rendering services of any kind to the Management Company, its affiliates, any Account or any other Person or entity regardless of whether such business is in competition with the Management Company, its affiliates, such Account or otherwise. Without limiting the generality of the Sub-Advisor and its Related Entities may:

(a) serve as managers or directors (whether supervisory or managing), officers, employees, partners, agents, nominees or signatories for the Management Company or any affiliate thereof, or for any obligor or issuer in respect of any of the Portfolio Assets or any affiliate thereof, to the extent permitted by their respective organizational documents and underlying instruments, as from time to time amended, or by any resolutions duly adopted by the Management Company, any Account, their respective affiliates or any obligor or issuer in respect of any of the Portfolio Assets (or any affiliate thereof) pursuant to their respective organizational documents;

(b) receive fees for services of whatever nature rendered to the obligor or issuer in respect of any of the Portfolio Assets or any affiliate thereof;

(c) be retained to provide services unrelated to this Agreement to the Management Company, any Account or their respective affiliates and be paid therefor, on an arm's-length basis;

(d) be a secured or unsecured creditor of, or hold a debt obligation of or equity interest in, the Management Company, any Account or any affiliate thereof or any obligor or issuer of any Portfolio Asset or any affiliate thereof;

(e) sell any Portfolio Asset to, or purchase or acquire any Portfolio Asset from, any Account while acting in the capacity of principal or agent; provided, however, that any such sale or purchase effected by the Sub-Advisor shall be subject to applicable law and any applicable provisions of this Agreement, the related Management Agreement and Related Agreements, as applicable;

(f) underwrite, arrange, structure, originate, syndicate, act as a distributor of or make a market in any Portfolio Asset;

(g) serve as a member of any "creditors' board", "creditors' committee" or similar creditor group with respect to any Portfolio Asset; or

(h) act as portfolio manager, portfolio manager, investment manager and/or investment adviser or sub-advisor in collateralized bond obligation vehicles, collateralized loan obligation vehicles and other similar warehousing, financing or other investment vehicles.

As a result, such individuals may possess information relating to obligors and issuers of Portfolio Assets that is (a) not known to or (b) known but restricted as to its use by the individuals at the Sub-Advisor responsible for monitoring the Portfolio Assets and performing the Services under this Agreement. Each of such ownership and other relationships may result in securities laws restrictions on transactions in such securities by the Management Company and/or any Account and otherwise create conflicts of interest for the Management Company and/or any Account. The Management Company acknowledges and agrees that, in all such instances, the Sub-Advisor and its affiliates may in their discretion make investment recommendations and decisions that may be the same as or different from those made by the Management Company with respect to the investments of any Account and they have no duty, in making or managing such investments, to act in a way that is favorable to any Account.

The Management Company acknowledges that there are generally no ethical screens or information barriers between the Sub-Advisor and certain of its affiliates of the type that many firms implement to separate Persons who make investment decisions from others who might possess applicable material, non-public information that could influence such decisions. The officers or affiliates of the Sub-Advisor may possess information relating to obligors or issuers of Portfolio Assets that is not known to the individuals at the Sub-Advisor responsible for providing the Services under this Agreement. As a result, the Sub-Advisor may from time to time come into possession of material nonpublic information that limits the ability of the Sub-Advisor to effect a transaction for the Management Company and/or any Account, and the Management Company and/or such Account's investments may be constrained as a consequence of the Sub-Advisor's inability to use such information for advisory purposes or otherwise to effect transactions that otherwise may have been initiated on behalf of its clients, including the Management Company and/or such Account.

Unless the Sub-Advisor determines in its sole discretion that such Transaction complies with the conflicts of interest provisions set forth in the applicable Management Agreement and Related Agreements, he Sub-Advisor will not direct any Account to acquire or sell loans or securities entered into or issued by (i) Persons of which the Sub-Advisor, any of its affiliates or any of its officers, directors or employees are directors or officers, (ii) Persons of which the Sub-Advisor or any of its respective affiliates act as principal or (iii) Persons about which the Sub-Advisor or any of its affiliates have material non-public information which the Sub-Advisor deems would prohibit it from advising as to the trading of such securities in accordance with applicable law.

It is understood that the Sub-Advisor and any of its affiliates may engage in any other business and furnish investment management and advisory services to others, including Persons which may have investment policies similar to those followed by the Management Company with respect to the Portfolio Assets and which may own securities or obligations of the same class, or which are of the same type, as the Portfolio Assets or other securities or obligations of the obligors or issuers of the Portfolio Assets. The Sub-Advisor and its affiliates will be free, in their sole discretion, to make recommendations to others, or effect transactions on behalf of themselves or for others, which may be the same as or different from those effected with respect to the Collateral. Nothing in this Agreement, in the Management Agreements or in the Related Agreements shall prevent the Sub-Advisor or any of its affiliates, acting either as principal or agent on behalf of others, from buying or selling, or from recommending to or directing any other account to buy or sell, at any time, securities or obligations of the same kind or class, or securities or obligations of a different kind or class of the same obligor or issuer, as those directed by the Sub-Advisor to be purchased or sold on behalf of an Account. It is understood that, to the extent permitted by applicable law, the Sub-Advisor, its Related Entities, or any of their owners, directors, managers, officers, stockholders, members, partners, partnership committee members, employees, agents or affiliates or the other Covered Persons or any member of their families or a Person or entity advised by the Sub-Advisor may have an interest in a particular transaction or in securities or obligations of the same kind or class, or securities or obligations of a different kind or class of the same issuer, as those that may be owned or acquired by an Account. The Management Company agrees that, in the course of providing the Services, the Sub-Advisor may consider its relationships with other clients (including obligors and issuers) and its affiliates.

The Management Company agrees that neither the Sub-Advisor nor any of its affiliates is under any obligation to offer any investment opportunity of which they become aware to the Management Company or any Account or to account to the Management Company or any Account for (or share with the Management Company or any Account or inform the Management Company or any Account of) any such transaction or any benefit received by them from any such transaction. The Management Company understands that the Sub-Advisor and/or its affiliates may have, for their own accounts or for the accounts of others, portfolios with substantially the same portfolio criteria as are applicable to the Accounts. Furthermore, the Sub-Advisor and/or its affiliates may make an investment on behalf of any client or on their own behalf without offering the investment opportunity or making any investment on behalf of the Management Company or any Account and, accordingly, investment opportunities may not be allocated among all such clients. The Management Company acknowledges that affirmative obligations may arise in the future, whereby the Sub-Advisor and/or its affiliates are obligated to offer certain investments to clients before or without the Sub-Advisor offering those investments to the Management Company or any Account.

The Management Company acknowledges that the Sub-Advisor and its affiliates may make and/or hold investments in an obligor's or issuer's obligations or securities that may be pari passu, senior or junior in ranking to an investment in such obligor's or issuer's obligations or securities made and/or held by the Management Company or any Account, or in which partners, security holders, members, officers, directors, agents or employees of the Sub-Advisor and its affiliates serve on boards of directors, or otherwise have ongoing relationships or otherwise have interests different from or adverse to those of the Management Company and the Accounts.

Defined Terms

For purposes of this Appendix B, the following defined terms shall have the meanings set forth below:

"Portfolio" shall mean, with respect to any Account and/or Transaction, the assets held by or in the name of the Account or any subsidiary of the Account in respect of such Transaction, whether or not for the benefit of the related secured parties, securing the obligations of such Account.

"Portfolio Asset" shall mean any loan, eligible investment or other asset contained in the Portfolio.

"Transaction" shall mean any action taken by the Sub-Advisor on behalf of any Account with respect to the Portfolio, including, without limitation, (i) selecting the Portfolio Assets to be acquired by the Account, (ii) investing and reinvesting the Portfolio, (iii) amending, waiving and/or taking any other action commensurate with managing the Portfolio and (iv) instructing the Account with respect to any acquisition, disposition or tender of a Portfolio Asset or other assets received in respect thereof in the open market or otherwise by the Account.

THIS AGREEMENT FOR PURCHASE AND SALE OF CLO PARTICIPATION INTERESTS (this "Agreement"), dated as of the 7th day of October, 2016, is entered into by and between ACIS CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership (the "Seller"), and HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership (the "Purchaser").

RECITALS

Whereas, the Seller is the owner of certain rights to receive senior and subordinated management fees (the "Servicer Fees"), as described in Schedule A, attributable to the collateralized loan obligation issuances also listed in Schedule A (the "CLOs");

Whereas, all of the reinvestment periods of the CLOs will have expired by August 2019;

Whereas, the Seller operates an investment management business focused on sponsoring and managing collateralized loan obligations ("CLO Investments");

Whereas, Seller has recently engaged an investment bank to actively market a new CLO to prospective investors and Seller currently is uncertain as to the likelihood of success and timing of securing new investors;

Whereas, recent European and U.S. regulatory rules require sponsors of newly issued CLO investments, such as Seller, to retain during the life of the CLO, a five percent ownership interest in the equity or capital structure of the CLO (the "Risk Retention Amount");

Whereas, in order to fund the Risk Retention Amount, Seller has undertaken a joint venture with another entity to originate and sponsor new CLO investments, pursuant to which Seller is obligated to contribute fifty-one percent of the Risk Retention Amount;

Whereas, Seller has typically paid overhead expenses first with its revenue, then made an annual distribution of excess cash to the partners of Seller;

Whereas, Seller has determined to stop making annual distributions of excess cash to Seller's partners while efforts are underway to form new CLOs;

Whereas, cash flows from the Servicer Fees are unpredictable and unstable;

Whereas, Seller has determined that obtaining a guaranteed fixed amount of cash flow from Buyer is a prudent business decision in order to facilitate Seller's compliance with its obligation to contribute funds toward the Risk Retention Amount to the joint venture entity;

Whereas, the Purchaser acknowledges it is a sophisticated investor and, in particular, has a knowledge and understanding of CLO Investments;

Whereas, the Purchaser acknowledges that it understands the inherent risk in the timing and amount of the payment of the Servicer Fees by the trustees of the respective CLOs; and

Whereas, the Purchaser acknowledges that it has undertaken all the necessary due diligence to feel comfortable in determining the inherent risks of purchasing such Servicer Fees from the Seller.

AGREEMENT

Now, therefore, in consideration of the premises and mutual agreements set forth herein, and in consideration of the mutual representations, warranties and covenants contained herein, and intending to be legally bound hereby, the parties agree as follows:

1. Sale and Purchase of Acis Participation Interests.

Subject to and upon the terms and conditions set forth in this Agreement, the Seller hereby sells to the Purchaser, and the Purchaser hereby purchases from the Seller, participation interests in the Servicer Fees (the "ACIS Participation Interests") in an amount equal to (A) the total Servicer Fees paid to Seller by each of the CLOs beginning in November 2016 and ending August 2019 (each, with respect to both a particular CLO payor and a particular payment date, a "Servicer Fee Payment," and in the aggregate for a particular payment date the "Aggregate Servicer Fee Payment") less (B) the Servicer Fee Retention Amount with respect to each CLO, as shown on Schedule A.

Purchase Price; Additional Documents; Termination.

1.1 In consideration of the sale of the Acis Participation Interests to the Purchaser, the Purchaser shall (a) pay to the Seller an amount equal to $666,655.00 in cash (the "Cash Purchase Price"), and (b) deliver to the Seller a promissory note (the "Note"), duly executed by the Purchaser and substantially in the form of Exhibit 1, with an initial principal balance of $12,666,446.00 (the Cash Purchase Price and the delivery of such Note, collectively, the "Purchase Price").

1.2 The Purchaser shall pay the Cash Purchase Price to the Seller by wire transfer of immediately available funds to an account designated in writing by the Seller.

1.3 The parties acknowledge and agree that the Purchase Price reflects the arm's-length value of the Acis Participation Interests as of the date of this Agreement as determined by mutually agreed appraisal methods.

1.4 Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement, to the extent that the sale and purchase of the Acis Participation Interests hereunder shall require the consent or approval of another party or any governmental authority, the consummation of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement shall not constitute an assignment or an attempted assignment with respect to the Servicer Fees if such assignment or attempted assignment would constitute a breach or violation with respect to the terms of the governing CLO agreements (the "CLO Documents"). Each of the parties hereto shall use its commercially reasonable efforts to obtain any such consent or approval. If such consent or approval is not obtained, each party agrees to cooperate with the other party in any reasonable manner necessary or desirable to provide the Purchaser the benefits of the Acis Participation Interests.

1.5 In the event that any governmental entity commences a formal regulatory proceeding against Seller and within 90 days thereof (or later, but solely in the event of removal of Seller by order of such governmental entity), Seller is terminated or otherwise removed as manager of one or more of the CLOs and such governmental action results in the seizure or forfeiture of Servicer Fees, then the outstanding principal of the Note shall be reduced in proportion to the reduction in Servicer Fees resulting from such termination or seizure.

2. Representations and Warranties of the Seller.

The Seller represents and warrants to the Purchaser that each of the following representations and warranties is true and correct as of the date of this Agreement:

2.1 Organization and Authority of the Seller. The Seller is a limited partnership, duly formed, validly existing and in good standing under the laws of the State of Delaware and has requisite power and authority to enter into this Agreement and any other agreements entered into in connection herewith and to perform its obligations hereunder and thereunder.

2.2 Title to the Acis Participation Interests. The Seller owns good and valid title to, and is the sole record and beneficial owner of, the Servicer Fees, free and clear of any and all mortgages, liens, pledges, charges, adverse rights or claims, security interests, restrictions on use and/or transfer or encumbrances of any kind (collectively, "Liens"), except as provided herein and in the CLO Documents and agreements governing the CLOs. Other than as provided in the CLO Documents, the Acis Participation Interests are not subject to any rights of first refusal or other rights to purchase such Acis Participation Interests.

2.3 Due Authorization and Enforceability. All action on the part of the Seller necessary for the authorization, execution and delivery of this Agreement and any other agreements entered into in connection herewith and the performance by the Seller of its obligations hereunder and thereunder has been taken. This Agreement and any other agreements entered into in connection herewith constitute the valid and legally binding obligations of the Seller, enforceable in accordance with their terms, except as may be limited by (a) applicable bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization or other laws of general application relating to or affecting the enforcement of creditors' rights generally and (b) the effect of rules of law governing the availability of equitable remedies.

2.4 Consents. Except as may be required under the CLO Documents, no consent, approval, order or authorization of, or registration, qualification, designation, declaration or filing with, any federal, state or local governmental authority or any third party is required by the Seller in connection with the consummation of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement or any other agreements entered into in connection herewith.

2.5 Non-Contravention. Other than with respect to any consents required under the CLO Documents, the execution, delivery and performance of this Agreement and any other agreements entered into in connection herewith and the consummation of the transactions contemplated hereby and thereby will not result in (a) a violation or default, or be in conflict with or constitute a default, under the Seller's organizational documents, or any agreement or contract that the Seller is party to or that its assets are bound by, (b) a violation of any statute, law, regulation or order; provided, however, that with respect to any statute, law, regulation or order applicable to any of the CLO Documents the foregoing is limited to the knowledge of the Seller, or (c) the creation of any Lien upon any asset of, or the loss of any right or asset by, the Seller that would not reasonably be expected to cause a material adverse effect on the Seller.

3. Representations and Warranties of the Purchaser.

The Purchaser represents and warrants to the Seller that each of the following representations and warranties is true and correct as of the date of this Agreement:

3.1 Organization and Authority of the Purchaser. The Purchaser is a limited liability company, duly formed, validly existing and in good standing under the laws of the State of Delaware and has requisite power and authority to enter into this Agreement and any other agreements entered into in connection herewith and to perform its obligations hereunder and thereunder.

3.2 Due Authorization and Enforceability. All action on the part of the Purchaser necessary for the authorization, execution and delivery of this Agreement and any other agreements entered into in connection herewith and the performance by the Purchaser of its obligations hereunder and thereunder has been taken. This Agreement and any other agreements entered into in connection herewith constitute the valid and legally binding obligations of the Purchaser, enforceable in accordance with their terms, except as may be limited by (a) applicable bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization or other laws of general application relating to or affecting the enforcement of creditors' rights generally and (b) the effect of rules of law governing the availability of equitable remedies.

3.3 Consents. No consent, approval, order or authorization of, or registration, qualification, designation, declaration or filing with, any federal, state or local governmental authority or any third party is required by the Purchaser in connection with the consummation of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement or any other agreements entered into in connection herewith.

3.4 Non-Contravention. The execution, delivery and performance of this Agreement and any other agreements entered into in connection herewith and the consummation of the transactions contemplated hereby and thereby will not result in (a) a violation or default, or be in conflict with or constitute a default, under the Purchaser's organizational documents, or any agreement or contract that the Purchaser is party to or that its assets are bound by, (b) a violation of any statute, law, regulation or order, or (c) the creation of any Lien upon any asset of, or the loss of any right or asset by the Purchaser.

3.5 Information Concerning the Acis Participation Interests. The Purchaser (a) has received and had the opportunity to review information with respect to the Seller, the Acis Participation Interests, the CLOs, and the CLO Documents, (b) is familiar with the Seller, the CLOs and the CLO Documents, and (c) has been afforded the opportunity to ask questions of and received satisfactory answers concerning the Seller, the CLOs and the CLO Documents and has asked any questions the Purchaser desires to ask and all such questions have been answered to the full satisfaction of the Purchaser. The Purchaser understands that the purchase and/or receipt of the Acis Participation Interests involves various risks and that the Purchaser may lose some or all of its investment due to economic conditions that could negatively impact the CLOs and/or the Seller and/or for other unforeseen reasons. The Purchaser acknowledges and agrees that no representations or warranties have been made to the Purchaser by the Seller, or any person acting on the Seller's behalf, as to the tax consequences of this investment, or as to profits, losses or cash flow that may be received or sustained as a result of this investment. All documents, records and books pertaining to a proposed investment in and/or receipt of the Acis Participation Interests which the Purchaser has requested have been made available to the Purchaser.

3.6 Acknowledgments of the Purchaser. Subject to Section 1.5, the Purchaser acknowledges and agrees that: (a) except as provided in Section 1.5, should the Seller's rights with respect to the Servicer Fees be terminated, such termination shall not affect the Purchaser's obligations under the Note; (b) except as provided in Section 1.5, the Seller may exercise all of its legal rights and remedies to enforce the Purchaser's obligations under the Note even if the Acis Participation Interests are not paid, in full or part, by the CLO trustees for any reason, including the termination of the Seller as the manager, a hostile buyout of such CLO, or any other reason (other than as a result of the Seller breaching its covenants under this Agreement or as a result of fraud or by willful misconduct of the Seller); and (c) Purchaser has had the opportunity to consult with its own legal counsel with respect to the purchase of the Acis Participation Interests. The Purchaser understands such actions could negatively impact the timing and amount of payment of such Acis Participation Interests during the pendency of such dispute by the trustee of such CLO. The Purchaser bears the sole risk with respect to non-payment of the Acis Participation Interests (other than as a result of the Seller breaching its covenants under this Agreement or as a result of the fraud or willful misconduct of the Seller).

3.7 No additional Representations. The Purchaser has relied solely upon its investigation and analysis and the representations and warranties of the Seller set forth in this Agreement and the Purchaser acknowledges that, other than as set forth in this Agreement, the Seller does not make any other representation or warranty, either express or implied.

4. Covenants.

4.1 Payments on the Acis Participation Interests. The Seller agrees to promptly remit, or cause to be promptly remitted, to the Purchaser the cash received with respect to the Acis Participation Interests. If the Seller is required at any time to return to any person, any portion of the payments made to the Seller pursuant to the Servicer Fees, then the Purchaser shall, on demand of the Seller, forthwith return to the Seller any such payments transferred to the Purchaser by the Seller but without interest or penalty on such payments.

4.2 Actions With Respect to Servicer Fees. Notwithstanding anything else contained in this Agreement, the Seller shall not, without the Purchaser's written consent, and other than as required by the CLO Documents, take or omit to take any action which would (a) postpone any date fixed for any payment under the CLO Documents of the Servicer Fees; (b) amend the CLO Documents so as to materially and adversely affect the payment of the Servicer Fees; or (c) release any material claim of the Seller under the CLO Documents that relates to the Servicer Fees.

4.3 Reporting. Seller shall provide Purchaser a detailed certification of any Servicer Fees received from the CLOs within forty-five (45) business days of the date such Servicer Fees are received by the Seller.

The parties have participated jointly in the negotiation and drafting of this Agreement. In the event an ambiguity or question of intent or interpretation arises, this Agreement shall be construed as if drafted jointly by the parties and no presumption or burden of proof shall arise favoring or disfavoring any party by virtue of the authorship of any of the provisions of this Agreement.

5.14 Arbitration. Any disputes or controversies arising out of or related to this Agreement that are not resolved by the parties shall be resolved by arbitration under the administration of the American Arbitration Association ("AAA"). The Seller and the Purchaser will seek to agree on an arbitrator. If the parties cannot agree, each of the Seller and the Purchaser will appoint an arbitrator, and such arbitrators will select a third arbitrator to serve as the sole arbitrator to determine the dispute. Such dispute or controversy shall be resolved pursuant to the rules of the AAA with the findings and any award by such arbitrator being final and binding upon all parties. Judgment on any award or finding rendered by the arbitrator may be entered in any court of proper jurisdiction. Exhibit 1

PROMISSORY NOTE

October __, 2016

FOR VALUE RECEIVED, the undersigned, Highland Capital Management, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership ("Maker"), hereby promises to pay to the order of Acis Capital Management, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership ("Payee"), at its office at 300 Crescent Court, Suite 700, Dallas, Texas 75201 in lawful money of the United States of America, the principal sum of TWELVE MILLION SIX HUNDRED SIXTY-SIX THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED FORTY-SIX DOLLARS ($12,666,446), together with interest on the outstanding principal balance thereof from day to day remaining at the rate of three percent (3%) per annum, as provided herein.

Payments

THE UNPAID PRINCIPAL HEREOF, TOGETHER WITH ALL ACCRUED AND UNPAID INTEREST THEREON, SHALL AUTOMATICALLY BE DUE AND PAYABLE IN FULL, WITHOUT NECESSITY OF DEMAND OR NOTICE, ACCORDING TO THE AMORTIZATION TABLE ATTACHED HERETO AS EXHIBIT A.

All past due principal and interest shall bear interest from and after the date when due at a rate equal to the rate equal to the lesser of (a) eighteen percent (18.0%) per annum or (b) the Maximum Rate (as defined herein).

Interest on the indebtedness evidenced by this Note shall be computed on the basis of a year of 360 days and the actual number of days elapsed (including the first day but excluding the last day) unless such calculation would result in a rate that exceeds the maximum rate allowed by applicable law (such rate, the "Maximum Rate") in which case interest shall be calculated on the basis of a year of 365 or 366 days, as the case may be. If the regularly scheduled due date for any payment under this Note is not a Business Day, the due date for such payment shall be the next succeeding Business Day, and payment made on such succeeding Business Day shall have the same force and effect as if made on the regularly scheduled due date. "Business Day" means a day, other than a Saturday, Sunday or legal holiday, on which a bank in Dallas, Texas is open for business.

Maker shall have the right to prepay this Note, in whole or in part, at any time and from time to time without premium or penalty. Amounts borrowed and repaid hereunder may not be reborrowed.

Conditions Precedent

This Note shall not become effective and Payee shall have no obligation to make the advance hereunder until Payee has received each of the following in form and substance acceptable to Payee:

(a) this Note executed by Maker;

(b) the Agreement for Purchase and Sale of CLO Participation Interests dated of even date herewith (the "Purchase Agreement"), by and between Maker and Payee, and copies of all agreements, documents and instruments executed or delivered in connection therewith and evidence that all conditions to the effectiveness of the Purchase Agreement have been or will be fulfilled contemporaneously with the initial advance under this Note;

(c) evidence that the execution, delivery and performance by Maker of this Note and all other documents and instruments related to this Note have been duly authorized by, or on behalf of, Maker; and

(d) such other agreements, documents, information, and other assurances as Payee may reasonably request.

Events of Default

Maker shall be in default under this Note upon the occurrence of any of the following events or conditions (each, an "Event of Default"):

(a) the failure of Maker to make any payment required to be made under this Note when such payment becomes due;

(b) Maker defaults in the performance of any obligation, covenant, or agreement now or hereafter made or owed by Maker to Payee, whether under this Note or any related document;

(c) any representation or warranty made by Maker to Payee in connection with this Note or any document executed or delivered in connection therewith, is false or misleading in any material respect when made;

(d) Maker shall commence a voluntary proceeding seeking liquidation, reorganization, or other relief with respect to itself or its debts under any bankruptcy, insolvency, or other similar law now or hereafter in effect, or seeking the appointment of a trustee, receiver, liquidator, custodian, or other similar official for it or a substantial part of its property or shall consent to any such relief or to the appointment of or taking possession by any such official in an involuntary case or other proceeding commenced against it or shall make a general assignment for the benefit of creditors or shall generally fail to pay its debts as they become due or shall take any corporate action to authorize any of the foregoing;

(e) any involuntary proceeding shall be commenced against Maker seeking liquidation, reorganization, or other relief with respect to it or its debts under any bankruptcy, insolvency, or other similar law now or hereafter in effect, or seeking the appointment of a trustee, receiver, liquidator, custodian, or other similar official for it or a substantial part of its property, in each case, that results in the entry of an order for any such relief or appointment that has not been vacated, discharged or stayed or bonded pending appeal within 60 days from the entry thereof;

(f) any lien, attachment, sequestration or similar proceeding against any of Maker's assets or properties other than liens in favor of Payee;

(g) any event or condition occurs that results in any indebtedness of Maker becoming due prior to its scheduled maturity or that enables or permits (with or without the giving of notice, the lapse of time, or both) the holder of such indebtedness to cause any of such indebtedness to become due, or to require the prepayment, repurchase, redemption or defeasance thereof, prior to its scheduled maturity; or

(h) the validity or enforceability of this Note shall be contested or challenged by Maker.

Remedies

Should an Event of Default exist, Payee may but without any obligation to do so, at its option and at any time, and without presentment, demand, or protest, notice of default, dishonor, demand, non-payment, or protest, notice of intent to accelerate all or any part of the advances hereunder, notice of acceleration of all or any part of the indebtedness evidenced by this Note, or notice of any other kind, all of which Maker hereby expressly waives, except for any notice required by applicable statute which cannot be waived: (a) terminate Payee's commitment to make any advances under this Note; (b) declare the indebtedness evidenced by this Note, or any part thereof, immediately due and payable, whereupon the same shall be due and payable (provided, however, that upon the occurrence of any event described in clause (e) of the definition of "Event of Default", such indebtedness shall become immediately due and payable in full without demand or acceleration); (c) reduce any claim to judgment; (d) to the maximum extent permitted under applicable laws, set-off and apply any and all deposits, funds, or assets at any time held and any and all other indebtedness at any time owing by Payee to or for the credit or the account of Maker against any and all obligations, whether or not Payee exercises any other right or remedy hereunder and whether or not such obligations are then matured; (e) may cure any Event of Default, or event of nonperformance under this Note and/or (f) exercise any and all rights and remedies afforded by this Note, or by law or equity or otherwise, as Payee deems appropriate. No failure or delay of the holder hereof to exercise any of its rights or remedies shall not constitute a waiver thereof.

If the holder hereof incurs any costs or expenses in any attempt to enforce payment of all or any part of this Note, or if this Note is placed in the hands of an attorney for collection, Maker agrees to pay all such costs fees and expenses incurred, including without limitation, reasonable attorneys' fees.

Miscellaneous

It is expressly stipulated and agreed to be the intent of Maker and Payee at all times to comply with the applicable law of the State of Texas governing the maximum rate or amount of interest payable on or in connection with the indebtedness under this Note (or applicable United States federal law to the extent that it permits Payee to contract for, charge, take, reserve or receive a greater amount of interest than under Texas law). If such law is ever judicially interpreted so as to render usurious any amount contracted for, charged, taken, reserved or received with respect to this Note, or if any payment by Maker results in Maker having paid any interest in excess of the amount that is permitted by such law, then it is Maker's and Payee's express intent that all excess amounts theretofore collected by Payee be credited on the principal balance hereof (or, if the principal balance has been or would thereby be paid in full, refunded to Maker), and the provisions of this Note shall immediately be deemed reformed and the amounts thereafter collectible thereunder reduced, without the necessity of the execution of any new documents, so as to comply with all such applicable laws, but so as to permit the recovery of the fullest amount otherwise called for thereunder. All sums paid or agreed to be paid to Payee for the use, forbearance or detention of money and other indebtedness evidenced by this Note shall, to the extent permitted by applicable law, be amortized, prorated, allocated and spread throughout the full term of such indebtedness until payment in full so that the rate or amount of interest on account of such indebtedness does not exceed the applicable usury ceiling provided by such applicable law. Notwithstanding any provision contained herein to the contrary, the total amount of interest that Maker is obligated to pay and Payee is entitled to receive with respect to this Note shall not exceed the amount calculated on a simple (i.e., non-compounded) interest basis at the maximum rate allowed by applicable law on principal amounts actually advanced hereunder to or for the account of Maker.

MAKER AND EACH SURETY, GUARANTOR, ENDORSER, AND OTHER PARTY EVER LIABLE FOR PAYMENT OF ANY SUMS OF MONEY PAYABLE ON THIS NOTE JOINTLY AND SEVERALLY WAIVE NOTICE, PRESENTMENT, DEMAND FOR PAYMENT, PROTEST, NOTICE OF PROTEST AND NON-PAYMENT OR DISHONOR, NOTICE OF ACCELERATION, NOTICE OF INTENT TO ACCELERATE, NOTICE OF INTENT TO DEMAND, DILIGENCE IN COLLECTING, GRACE, AND ALL OTHER FORMALITIES OF ANY KIND, AND CONSENT TO ALL EXTENSIONS WITHOUT NOTICE FOR ANY PERIOD OR PERIODS OF TIME AND PARTIAL PAYMENTS,

BEFORE OR AFTER MATURITY, AND ANY IMPAIRMENT OF ANY COLLATERAL SECURING THIS NOTE, ALL WITHOUT PREJUDICE TO THE HOLDER. Without limiting the foregoing, any notice or demand upon Maker in connection with this Note shall be in writing and shall become effective (a) upon personal delivery, (b) three (3) days after it shall have been mailed by United States mail, first class, certified or registered, with postage prepaid or (c) when properly transmitted by telecopy, in each case addressed to Maker's address for notice specified in connection with its signature below.

THIS NOTE SHALL BE GOVERNED BY AND CONSTRUED IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE LAWS OF THE STATE OF TEXAS AND THE APPLICABLE LAWS OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA. THIS NOTE IS PERFORMABLE IN DALLAS COUNTY, TEXAS. ANY ACTION OR PROCEEDING UNDER OR IN CONNECTION WITH THIS NOTE AGAINST MAKER OR ANY OTHER PARTY EVER LIABLE FOR PAYMENT OF ANY SUMS OF MONEY PAYABLE ON THIS NOTE MAY BE BROUGHT IN ANY STATE OR FEDERAL COURT IN DALLAS COUNTY, TEXAS. MAKER AND EACH SUCH OTHER PARTY HEREBY IRREVOCABLY (I) SUBMITS TO THE NONEXCLUSIVE JURISDICTION OF SUCH COURTS AND (II) WAIVES ANY OBJECTION IT MAY NOW OR HEREAFTER HAVE AS TO THE VENUE OF ANY SUCH ACTION OR PROCEEDING BROUGHT IN SUCH COURT OR THAT SUCH COURT IS AN INCONVENIENT FORUM. NOTHING HEREIN SHALL AFFECT THE RIGHT OF PAYEE TO BRING ANY ACTION OR PROCEEDING AGAINST MAKER OR ANY OTHER PARTY LIABLE HEREUNDER OR WITH RESPECT TO ANY COLLATERAL IN ANY STATE OR FEDERAL COURT IN ANY OTHER JURISDICTION. ANY ACTION OR PROCEEDING BY MAKER OR ANY OTHER PARTY LIABLE HEREUNDER AGAINST PAYEE SHALL BE BROUGHT ONLY IN A COURT LOCATED IN DALLAS COUNTY, TEXAS.

MAKER AND PAYEE EACH IRREVOCABLY WAIVES ITS RIGHT TO A TRIAL BY JURY OF ANY CLAIM OR CAUSE OF ACTION BASED UPON OR ARISING OUT OF OR RELATED TO THIS NOTE OR THE TRANSACTIONS CONTEMPLATED HEREBY OR THEREBY, IN ANY ACTION, PROCEEDING OR OTHER LITIGATION OF ANY KIND BROUGHT BY EITHER AGAINST THE OTHER, WHETHER WITH RESPECT TO CONTRACT CLAIMS, TORT CLAIMS, OR OTHERWISE. MAKER AND PAYEE EACH AGREES THAT ANY SUCH CLAIM OR CAUSE OF ACTION SHALL BE TRIED BY A COURT WITHOUT A JURY. WITHOUT LIMITING THE FOREGOING, THE PARTIES FURTHER AGREE THAT ITS RIGHT TO A TRIAL BY JURY IS WAIVED AS TO ANY ACTION, COUNTERCLAIM OR OTHER PROCEEDING WHICH SEEKS, IN WHOLE OR IN PART, TO CHALLENGE THE VALIDITY OR ENFORCEABILITY OF THIS NOTE OR ANY PROVISION HEREOF. THIS WAIVER SHALL APPLY TO ANY SUBSEQUENT AMENDMENTS, RENEWALS, SUPPLEMENTS OR MODIFICATIONS TO THIS NOTE, WHETHER OR NOT SPECIFICALLY SET FORTH THEREIN.

This Note embodies the final, entire agreement of Maker and Payee with respect to the indebtedness evidenced hereby and supersedes any and all prior commitments, agreements, representations and understandings, whether written or oral, relating thereto and may not be contradicted or varied by evidence of prior, contemporaneous or subsequent oral agreements or discussions of Maker and Payee. There are no oral agreements between Maker and Payee.

$12,666,446 October 7, 2016

FOR VALUE RECEIVED, the undersigned, Highland Capital Management, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership ("Maker"), hereby promises to pay to the order of Acis Capital Management, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership ("Payee"), at its office at 300 Crescent Court, Suite 700, Dallas, Texas 75201 in lawful money of the United States of America, the principal sum of TWELVE MILLION SIX HUNDRED SIXTY-SIX THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED FORTY-SIX DOLLARS ($12,666,446), together with interest on the outstanding principal balance thereof from day to day remaining at the rate of three percent (3%) per annum, as provided herein.

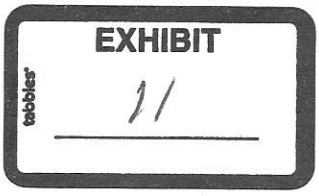
Payments

THE UNPAID PRINCIPAL HEREOF, TOGETHER WITH ALL ACCRUED AND UNPAID INTEREST THEREON, SHALL AUTOMATICALLY BE DUE AND PAYABLE IN FULL, WITHOUT NECESSITY OF DEMAND OR NOTICE, ACCORDING TO THE AMORTIZATION TABLE ATTACHED HERETO AS EXHIBIT A.

All past due principal and interest shall bear interest from and after the date when due at a rate equal to the rate equal to the lesser of (a) eighteen percent (18.0%) per annum or (b) the Maximum Rate (as defined herein).

Interest on the indebtedness evidenced by this Note shall be computed on the basis of a year of 360 days and the actual number of days elapsed (including the first day but excluding the last day) unless such calculation would result in a rate that exceeds the maximum rate allowed by applicable law (such rate, the "Maximum Rate") in which case interest shall be calculated on the basis of a year of 365 or 366 days, as the case may be. If the regularly scheduled due date for any payment under this Note is not a Business Day, the due date for such payment shall be the next succeeding Business Day, and payment made on such succeeding Business Day shall have the same force and effect as if made on the regularly scheduled due date. "Business Day" means a day, other than a Saturday, Sunday or legal holiday, on which a bank in Dallas, Texas is open for business.

Maker shall have the right to prepay this Note, in whole or in part, at any time and from time to time without premium or penalty. Amounts borrowed and repaid hereunder may not be reborrowed.



Conditions Precedent

This Note shall not become effective and Payee shall have no obligation to make the advance hereunder until Payee has received each of the following in form and substance acceptable to Payee:

(a) this Note executed by Maker;

(b) the Agreement for Purchase and Sale of CLO Participation Interests dated of even date herewith (the "Purchase Agreement"), by and between Maker and Acis Capital Management, LP, a Delaware limited partnership ("Highland"), and copies of all agreements, documents and instruments executed or delivered in connection therewith and evidence that all conditions to the effectiveness of the Purchase Agreement have been or will be fulfilled contemporaneously with the initial advance under this Note;

(c) evidence that the execution, delivery and performance by Maker of this Note and all other documents and instruments related to this Note have been duly authorized by, or on behalf of, Maker;

(d) true and correct copies of the organizational documents of Maker; and

(e) such other agreements, documents, information, and other assurances as Payee may reasonably request.

Events of Default

Maker shall be in default under this Note upon the occurrence of any of the following events or conditions (each, an "Event of Default"):

(a) the failure of Maker to make any payment required to be made under this Note when such payment becomes due;

(b) Maker defaults in the performance of any obligation, covenant, or agreement now or hereafter made or owed by Maker to Payee, whether under this Note or any related document;

(c) any representation or warranty made by Maker to Payee in connection with this Note or any document executed or delivered in connection therewith, is false or misleading in any material respect when made;

(d) Maker shall commence a voluntary proceeding seeking liquidation, reorganization, or other relief with respect to itself or its debts under any bankruptcy, insolvency, or other similar law now or hereafter in effect, or seeking the appointment of a trustee, receiver, liquidator, custodian, or other similar official for it or a substantial part of its property or shall consent to any such relief or to the appointment of or taking possession by any such official in an involuntary case or other proceeding commenced against it or shall make a general assignment for the benefit of creditors or shall generally fail to pay its debts as they become due or shall take any corporate action to authorize any of the foregoing;

(e) any involuntary proceeding shall be commenced against Maker seeking liquidation, reorganization, or other relief with respect to it or its debts under any bankruptcy, insolvency, or other similar law now or hereafter in effect, or seeking the appointment of a trustee, receiver, liquidator, custodian, or other similar official for it or a substantial part of its property;

(f) any lien, attachment, sequestration or similar proceeding against any of Maker's assets or properties other than liens in favor of Payee and liens in favor of Highland;

(g) any event or condition occurs that results in any indebtedness of Maker becoming due prior to its scheduled maturity or that enables or permits (with or without the giving of notice, the lapse of time, or both) the holder of such indebtedness to cause any of such indebtedness to become due, or to require the prepayment, repurchase, redemption or defeasance thereof, prior to its scheduled maturity; or

(i) the validity or enforceability of this Note shall be contested or challenged by Maker.

Remedies

Should an Event of Default exist, Payee may but without any obligation to do so, at its option and at any time, and without presentment, demand, or protest, notice of default, dishonor, demand, non-payment, or protest, notice of intent to accelerate all or any part of the advances hereunder, notice of acceleration of all or any part of the indebtedness evidenced by this Note, or notice of any other kind, all of which Maker hereby expressly waives, except for any notice required by applicable statute which cannot be waived: (a) terminate Payee's commitment to make any advances under this Note; (b) declare the indebtedness evidenced by this Note, or any part thereof, immediately due and payable, whereupon the same shall be due and payable (provided, however, that upon the occurrence of any event described in clause (e) of the definition of "Event of Default", such indebtedness shall become immediately due and payable in full without demand or acceleration); (c) reduce any claim to judgment; (d) to the maximum extent permitted under applicable laws, set-off and apply any and all deposits, funds, or assets at any time held and any and all other indebtedness at any time owing by Payee to or for the credit or the account of Maker against any and all obligations, whether or not Payee exercises any other right or remedy hereunder and whether or not such obligations are then matured; (e) may cure any Event of Default, or event of nonperformance under this Note and/or (f) exercise any and all rights and remedies afforded by this Note, or by law or equity or otherwise, as Payee deems appropriate. No failure or delay of the holder hereof to exercise any of its rights or remedies shall not constitute a waiver thereof.

If the holder hereof incurs any costs or expenses in any attempt to enforce payment of all or any part of this Note, or if this Note is placed in the hands of an attorney for collection, Maker agrees to pay all such costs fees and expenses incurred, including without limitation, reasonable attorneys' fees.

Miscellaneous

It is expressly stipulated and agreed to be the intent of Maker and Payee at all times to comply with the applicable law of the State of Texas governing the maximum rate or amount of interest payable on or in connection with the indebtedness under this Note (or applicable United States federal law to the extent that it permits Payee to contract for, charge, take, reserve or receive a greater amount of interest than under Texas law). If such law is ever judicially interpreted so as to render usurious any amount contracted for, charged, taken, reserved or received with respect to this Note, or if any payment by Maker results in Maker having paid any interest in excess of the amount that is permitted by such law, then it is Maker's and Payee's express intent that all excess amounts theretofore collected by Payee be credited on the principal balance hereof (or, if the principal balance has been or would thereby be paid in full, refunded to Maker), and the provisions of this Note shall immediately be deemed reformed and the amounts thereafter collectible thereunder reduced, without the necessity of the execution of any new documents, so as to comply with all such applicable laws, but so as to permit the recovery of the fullest amount otherwise called for thereunder. All sums paid or agreed to be paid to Payee for the use, forbearance or detention of money and other indebtedness evidenced by this Note shall, to the extent permitted by applicable law, be amortized, prorated, allocated and spread throughout the full term of such indebtedness until payment in full so that the rate or amount of interest on account of such indebtedness does not exceed the applicable usury ceiling provided by such applicable law. Notwithstanding any provision contained herein to the contrary, the total amount of interest that Maker is obligated to pay and Payee is entitled to receive with respect to this Note shall not exceed the amount calculated on a simple (i.e., non-compounded) interest basis at the maximum rate allowed by applicable law on principal amounts actually advanced hereunder to or for the account of Maker.

MAKER AND EACH SURETY, GUARANTOR, ENDORSER, AND OTHER PARTY EVER LIABLE FOR PAYMENT OF ANY SUMS OF MONEY PAYABLE ON THIS NOTE JOINTLY AND SEVERALLY WAIVE NOTICE, PRESENTMENT, DEMAND FOR PAYMENT, PROTEST, NOTICE OF PROTEST AND NON-PAYMENT OR DISHONOR, NOTICE OF ACCELERATION, NOTICE OF INTENT TO ACCELERATE, NOTICE OF INTENT TO DEMAND, DILIGENCE IN COLLECTING, GRACE, AND ALL OTHER FORMALITIES OF ANY KIND, AND CONSENT TO ALL EXTENSIONS WITHOUT NOTICE FOR ANY PERIOD OR PERIODS OF TIME AND PARTIAL PAYMENTS,

BEFORE OR AFTER MATURITY, AND ANY IMPAIRMENT OF ANY COLLATERAL SECURING THIS NOTE, ALL WITHOUT PREJUDICE TO THE HOLDER. (ii) exercises with respect to comparable assets that it manages for others, and in a manner consistent with practices and procedures followed by institutional managers of national standing relating to assets of the nature and character of the Assets, except as expressly provided otherwise in this Agreement and/or the Indenture. To the extent not inconsistent with the foregoing, the Portfolio Manager shall follow its customary standards, policies and procedures in performing its duties under the Indenture and hereunder (including those duties of the Issuer under the Indenture which the Portfolio Manager has agreed hereunder to perform on the Issuer's behalf). The Portfolio Manager also may rely upon any statement made to it orally or by telephone and made by a Person the Portfolio Manager has no reason to believe is not duly authorized, and shall not incur any liability for relying thereon. The Portfolio Manager is entitled to rely on any other information furnished to it by third parties that it reasonably believes in good faith to be genuine.

(xii) to make loans to ETB Subsidiaries.

(g) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Agreement, none of the services performed by the Portfolio Manager shall result in or be construed as resulting in an obligation to perform any of the following:

(i) the Portfolio Manager acting repeatedly or continuously as an intermediary in securities for the Issuer;

(ii) the Portfolio Manager providing investment banking services to the Issuer; or

(iii) the Portfolio Manager having direct contact with, or actively soliciting or finding, outside investors to (x) invest in the Issuer or (y) make co-investments in securities of portfolio companies with the Issuer.

(h) The Portfolio Manager hereby agrees to the following:

(i) The Portfolio Manager agrees not to institute against the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or any ETB Subsidiary any bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, insolvency, moratorium or liquidation proceedings or other proceedings under U.S. federal or state bankruptcy or similar laws, or the similar laws of the Cayman Islands or other applicable jurisdiction until the payment in full of all Notes issued under the Indenture and the expiration of a period equal to one year, or, if longer, the applicable preference period, and a day following such payment. Nothing in this Section 3(h)(i) shall preclude, or be deemed to stop, the Portfolio Manager (i) from taking any action prior to the expiration of the aforementioned period in (A) any case or Proceeding voluntarily filed or commenced by the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or any ETB Subsidiary or (B) any involuntary insolvency Proceeding filed or commenced by a Person other than the Portfolio Manager, or (ii) from commencing against the Issuer, the Co-Issuer, any ETB Subsidiary or any of their respective properties any legal action which is not a bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, insolvency, moratorium or liquidation proceeding. The provisions of this Section 3(h)(i) shall survive termination of this Agreement.

(ii) The Portfolio Manager shall cause any purchase or sale of any Collateral Obligation to be conducted on arm's length terms or in the manner contemplated by Section 6, if applicable.

(iii) In providing services hereunder, the Portfolio Manager may employ third parties, including its Affiliates, to render advice (including investment advice), to provide services to arrange for trade execution and otherwise provide assistance to the Issuer, and to perform any of the Portfolio Manager's duties under this Agreement; provided that the Portfolio Manager shall not be relieved of any of its duties hereunder regardless of the performance of any services by third parties. Notwithstanding the foregoing, this Agreement, and any obligations or duties of the Portfolio Manager under this Agreement, can be delegated by the Portfolio Manager, in whole or in part, to any entity that (i) is controlled by any of James Dondero or Mark Okada and (ii) is one in which any of James Dondero or Mark Okada is involved in the day-to-day management and operations (and in any such case pursuant to an instrument of delegation in form and substance satisfactory to the Issuer), with the prior written consent of the Issuer and, notwithstanding any such consent, no delegation of obligations or duties by the Portfolio Manager (including, without limitation, to an entity described above) shall relieve the Portfolio Manager from any of its duties or any liability under this Agreement.

(i) From and after the occurrence and continuance of an Event of Default, the Portfolio Manager will continue to perform and be bound by the provisions of this Agreement and the Indenture. Subject to the terms and conditions of the Indenture, the Trustee will be entitled to rely and be protected in relying upon all actions and omissions to act of the Portfolio Manager thereafter as fully as if no Event of Default had occurred.

4. Brokerage.

(a) The Portfolio Manager will seek to obtain the best execution (but shall have no obligation to obtain the best prices and execution) for all orders placed with respect to the Assets, in a manner permitted by law and in a manner it believes to be in the best interests of the Issuer. Subject to the preceding sentence, the Portfolio Manager may, in the allocation of business, select brokers and/or dealers with whom to effect trades on behalf of the Issuer and may open cash trading accounts with such brokers and dealers (provided that none of the Assets may be credited to, held in or subject to the lien of the broker or dealer with respect to any such account). In addition, subject to the first sentence of this paragraph, the Portfolio Manager may, in the allocation of business, take into consideration research and other brokerage services furnished to the Portfolio

Manager or its Affiliates by brokers and dealers which are not Affiliates of the Portfolio Manager; provided that the Portfolio Manager in good faith believes that the compensation for such services rendered by such brokers and dealers complies with the requirements of Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended ("Section 28(e)"), or in the case of principal or fixed income transactions for which the "safe harbor" of Section 28(e) is not available, the amount of the spread charged is reasonable in relation to the value of the research and other brokerage services provided. Such services may be used by the Portfolio Manager or its Affiliates in connection with its other advisory activities or investment operations. The Portfolio Manager may aggregate sales and purchase orders of securities placed with respect to the Assets with similar orders being made simultaneously for other accounts managed by the Portfolio Manager or with accounts of the Affiliates of the Portfolio Manager, if in the Portfolio Manager's reasonable business judgment such aggregation shall result in an overall economic benefit to the Issuer, taking into consideration the advantageous selling or purchase price, brokerage commission or other expenses, as well as the availability of such securities on any other basis. In accounting for such aggregated order price, commissions and other expenses may be apportioned on a weighted average basis. When a transaction with respect to the Assets occurs as part of any aggregate sales or purchase orders, the objective of the Portfolio Manager shall be to allocate the executions among the accounts in an equitable manner the Portfolio Manager believes, in its reasonable business judgment, to be appropriate and in accordance with (x) its internal conflicts of interest and allocation policies and (y) any applicable requirements of the Investment Advisers Act.

(b) The Issuer acknowledges and agrees that (i) the determination by the Portfolio Manager of any benefit to the Issuer will be subjective and will represent the Portfolio Manager's evaluation at the time that the Issuer will be benefited by relatively better purchase or sales prices, lower brokerage commissions, lower transaction costs and expenses and beneficial timing of transactions or any combination of any of these and/or other factors and (ii) the Portfolio Manager shall be fully protected with respect to any such determination to the extent the Portfolio Manager acts in accordance with Section 3(b).

(c) Subject to the Portfolio Manager's execution obligations described in Sections 4(a) and (d) and the covenants set forth in Section 6, the Portfolio Manager is hereby authorized to effect client cross-transactions where the Portfolio Manager causes a transaction with respect to the Assets to be effected between the Issuer and another account advised by it or any of its Affiliates; provided that, if and to the extent required by the Investment Advisers Act, such authorization is terminable prior to the initiation of such cross-transaction at the Issuer's option without penalty. Such termination shall be effective upon receipt by the Portfolio Manager of written notice from the Issuer. Subject to the Portfolio Manager's execution obligations described in Sections 4(a) and (d) and the covenants set forth in Section 6, the Portfolio Manager is hereby authorized to effect transactions, including principal transactions, where the Issuer may invest in securities of obligors or issuers in which the Portfolio Manager and/or its Affiliates have a debt, equity or participation interest, in each case in accordance with applicable law.

(d) The Issuer acknowledges and agrees that the Portfolio Manager or any of its Affiliates may acquire or sell obligations or securities, for its own account or for the accounts of its customers, without either requiring or precluding the acquisition or sale of such obligations or securities for the account of the Issuer. Such investments may be the same or different from those made on behalf of the Issuer. If, in light of market conditions and investment objectives, the Portfolio Manager determines that it would be advisable to purchase the same item of Collateral Obligation both for the Issuer, and either the proprietary account of the Portfolio Manager or any Affiliate of the Portfolio Manager or another client of the Portfolio Manager, the Portfolio Manager shall allocate such investment opportunities across such entities for which such opportunities are appropriate, consistent with (i) its internal conflicts of interest and allocation policies and (ii) any applicable requirements of the Investment Advisers Act. The Issuer agrees that, in the course of managing the Collateral Obligations held by the Issuer, the Portfolio Manager may consider its relationships with other clients (including obligors and issuers) and its Affiliates. The Portfolio Manager may decline to make a particular investment for the Issuer in view of such relationships.

5. Additional Activities of the Portfolio Manager.

(a) Nothing herein shall prevent the Portfolio Manager or any of its Related Entities from engaging in other businesses, or from rendering services of any kind to the Issuer and its Affiliates (other than those services that would violate the Portfolio Manager's covenants under this Agreement), the Trustee, the Holders, the Placement Agent or any other Person to the extent permitted by applicable law, regardless of whether such business is in competition with the Issuer or otherwise. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Portfolio Manager, its Related Entities and the directors, officers, employees and agents of the Portfolio Manager and its Related Entities may, subject to any limits specified in the Indenture:

(i) serve as directors (whether supervisory or managing), officers, partners, employees, agents, nominees or signatories, and receive arm's length fees in connection with such service, for the Issuer or its Affiliates, or for any obligor or issuer in respect of the Collateral Obligations, Equity Securities or Eligible Investments or any affiliate thereof, to the extent permitted by their Governing Instruments, as from time to time amended, or by any resolutions duly adopted by the Issuer, its Affiliates or any obligor or issuer in respect of any of the Collateral Obligations, Eligible Investments or Equity Securities (or any Affiliate thereof) pursuant to their respective Governing Instruments, and neither the Holders of the Notes nor the Issuer shall have the right to any such fees; provided that, in the reasonable business judgment of the Portfolio Manager, such activity will not have a material adverse effect on any item of the Assets;

(ii) receive fees or other compensation from third parties (including Persons in which the Issuer has made or proposes to make an investment) in connection with any business activities of the Portfolio Manager and its Affiliates and which are not related to the use of the Issuer's capital (which fees or other compensation shall be for the benefit of the Portfolio Manager's own account); provided that, in the reasonable business judgment of the Portfolio Manager, such activities will not have a material adverse effect on any item of the Assets; and

(iii) be a secured or unsecured creditor of, or hold an equity interest in, or own or hold notes issued by, the Issuer, its Affiliates or any obligor or issuer of any obligation included in the Assets, subject to the Portfolio Manager's obligations in Section 8 hereof.

As a result, such individuals may possess information relating to obligors and issuers of Collateral Obligations that is (a) not known to or (b) known but restricted as to its use by the individuals at the Portfolio Manager responsible for monitoring the Collateral Obligations and performing the other obligations of the Portfolio Manager under this Agreement. Each of such ownership and other relationships may result in securities laws restrictions on transactions in such securities by the Issuer and otherwise create conflicts of interest for the Issuer. The Issuer acknowledges and agrees that, in all such instances, the Portfolio Manager and its Affiliates may in their discretion make investment recommendations and decisions that may be the same as or different from those made with respect to the Issuer's investments and they have no duty, in making or managing such investments, to act in a way that is favorable to the Issuer.

The Issuer acknowledges that there are generally no ethical screens or information barriers among the Portfolio Manager and certain of its Affiliates of the type that many firms implement to separate Persons who make investment decisions from others who might possess material, non-public information that could influence such decisions. The officers or Affiliates of the Portfolio Manager may possess information relating to obligors or issuers of Collateral Obligations that is not known to the individuals at the Portfolio Manager responsible for monitoring the Collateral Obligations and performing the other obligations under this Agreement. As a result, the Portfolio Manager may from time to time come into possession of material nonpublic information that limits the ability of the Portfolio Manager to effect a transaction for the Issuer, and the Issuer's investments may be constrained as a consequence of the Portfolio Manager's inability to use such information for advisory purposes or otherwise to effect transactions that otherwise may have been initiated on behalf of its clients, including the Issuer.

(b) It is understood that the Portfolio Manager and any of its Affiliates may engage in any other business and furnish investment management and advisory services to others, including Persons which may have investment policies similar to those followed by the Portfolio Manager with respect to the Assets and which may own securities or obligations of the same class, or which are of the same type, as the Collateral Obligations or the Eligible Investments or other securities or obligations of the obligors or issuers of the Collateral Obligations or the Eligible Investments. The Portfolio Manager will be free, in its sole discretion, to make recommendations to others or effect transactions on behalf of itself or for others, which may be the same as or different from those effected with respect to the Assets. Nothing in the Indenture and this Agreement shall prevent the Portfolio Manager or any of its Affiliates, acting either as principal or agent on behalf of others, from buying or selling, or from recommending to or directing any other account to buy or sell, at any time, securities or obligations of the same kind or class, or securities or obligations of a different kind or class of the same obligor or issuer, as those directed by the Portfolio Manager to be purchased or sold on behalf of the Issuer. It is understood that, to the extent permitted by applicable law, the Portfolio Manager, its Affiliates or Related Entities, or any of their directors, managers, officers, stockholders, members, partners, partnership committee members, personnel, employees, agents or affiliates or any member of their families or a Person or entity advised by the Portfolio Manager or any of its Affiliates may have an interest in a particular transaction or in securities or obligations of the same kind or class, or securities or obligations of a different kind or class of the same obligor or issuer, as those whose purchase or sale the Portfolio Manager may direct hereunder.

(c) The Portfolio Manager shall not be obligated to pursue any particular investment strategy or opportunity with respect to the Assets.

(d) The Issuer acknowledges that the Portfolio Manager and its Affiliates may make and/or hold an investment in an obligor's or issuer's securities that may be pari passu, senior or junior in ranking to an investment in such obligor's or issuer's securities made and/or held by the Issuer or in which partners, security holders, members, officers, directors, agents or employees of the Portfolio Manager and its Affiliates serve on boards of directors or otherwise have ongoing relationships.

6. Conflicts of Interest.

(a) Subject to compliance with applicable laws and regulations and subject to this Agreement and the Indenture, the Portfolio Manager may direct the Collateral Agent to acquire a Collateral Obligation from, or sell a Collateral Obligation, Equity Security, Eligible Investment or asset held by any ETB Subsidiary to, the Portfolio Manager, any of its Affiliates or any account or portfolio for which the Portfolio Manager or any of its Affiliates serve as investment advisor for fair market value. The Portfolio Manager may obtain the Issuer's written consent through the Independent Review Party as provided herein if any such transaction requires the consent of the Issuer under Section 206(3) of the Investment Advisers Act (any such transaction, an "Affiliate Transaction"). The Issuer hereby acknowledges that the Portfolio Manager, its Affiliates or accounts advised or sub-advised by the Portfolio Manager or its Affiliates or their respective advised accounts (collectively, the "Portfolio Manager Affiliates") will purchase on the Closing Date, $21,250,000 of the Class D Notes, all of the Class E Notes, all of the Senior Subordinated Notes and all of the Junior Subordinated Notes (the "Portfolio Manager Notes"). The Issuer further acknowledges and agrees that no Portfolio Manager Affiliate is under any obligation to retain any Portfolio Manager Notes, and may sell all or a portion of such Portfolio Manager Notes at any time. In addition, the Issuer acknowledges that the Portfolio Manager Affiliates may acquire and subsequently sell other Notes after the Closing Date. In certain circumstances, the interests of the Issuer and/or the Holders or beneficial owners of the Notes with respect to matters as to which the Portfolio Manager is advising the Issuer may conflict with the interests of the Portfolio Manager Affiliates or its Related Entities. The Issuer hereby acknowledges that various potential and actual conflicts of interest may exist with respect to the Portfolio Manager as described above and as described in the final offering memorandum relating to the Notes; provided that nothing in this Section 6 shall be construed as altering the duties of the Portfolio Manager referred to herein.

(b) At the written request of the Portfolio Manager, the Issuer shall establish a conflicts review board or appoint an independent third party to act on behalf of the Issuer (such board or party, an "Independent Review Party") with respect to Affiliate Transactions. Decisions of any Independent Review Party shall be binding on the Portfolio Manager, the Issuer, and Holders of the Debt.

(c) Any Independent Review Party (i) shall either (A) be the Issuer's Board of Directors, (B) be an established financial institution or other financial company with experience in assessing the merits of transactions similar to the Affiliate Transactions or (C) be a review board comprised of one or more individuals selected by the Issuer (or at the request of the Issuer, selected by the Portfolio Manager), (ii) shall be required to assess the merits of the Affiliate Transaction and either grant or withhold consent to such transaction in its sole judgment and (iii) shall not be (A) affiliated with the Portfolio Manager (other than as a Holder or as a passive investor in the Issuer or an Affiliate of the Issuer) or (B) (other than the Issuer's Board of Directors) involved in the daily management and control of the Issuer.

(d) The Issuer (i) shall be responsible for any fees relating to the services provided by any Independent Review Party and shall reimburse members of any Independent Review Party for their out-of-pocket expenses and (ii) may indemnify members of such Independent Review Party to the maximum extent permitted by law, subject to terms and conditions satisfactory to the Portfolio Manager.

7. Records; Confidentiality.

The Portfolio Manager shall maintain or cause to be maintained appropriate books of account and records relating to its services performed hereunder, and such books of account and records shall be accessible for inspection by representatives of the Issuer, the Trustee, the Holders, and the Independent accountants appointed by the Portfolio Manager on behalf of the Issuer pursuant to Article 10 of the Indenture at any time during normal business hours and upon not less than three Business Days' prior notice. The Portfolio Manager shall keep confidential any and all information that is either (i) of a type that would ordinarily be considered proprietary or confidential or (ii) designated as confidential (collectively "Confidential Information") obtained in connection with the services rendered hereunder and shall not disclose any such Confidential Information to non-affiliated third parties (excluding any Holders and beneficial owners of Notes to the extent required by the terms of the Indenture) except (a) with the prior written consent of the Issuer, (b) such Confidential Information as the Rating Agency shall reasonably request in connection with its rating of the Secured Notes or supplying credit estimates on any obligation included in the Assets, (c) in connection with establishing trading or investment accounts or otherwise in connection with effecting transactions with respect to the Assets on behalf of the Issuer, (d) as required by (i) applicable law, regulation, court order, or a request by a governmental regulatory agency with jurisdiction over the Portfolio Manager or any of its Affiliates, (ii) the rules or regulations of any stock exchange or self-regulating organization, body or official having jurisdiction over the Portfolio Manager or any of its Affiliates or (iii) the Irish Stock Exchange, (e) to its professional advisors (including, without limitation, legal, tax and accounting advisors), (f) such Confidential Information as shall have been publicly available or disclosed other than in known violation of this Agreement or the provisions of the Indenture or shall have been obtained by the Portfolio Manager on a non-confidential basis, (g) such Confidential Information as is necessary or appropriate to disclose so that the Portfolio Manager may perform its duties hereunder, under the Indenture or the related documents or (h) general performance information which may be used by the Portfolio Manager or its Affiliates in connection with their marketing activities. Notwithstanding the foregoing, it is agreed that the Portfolio Manager may disclose (a) that it is serving as portfolio manager of the Issuer, (b) the nature, aggregate principal amount and overall performance of the Issuer's assets, (c) the amount of earnings on the Assets, (d) such other Confidential Information about the Issuer, the Assets and the Notes as is customarily disclosed by managers of collateralized loan obligations and (e) each of its respective employees, representatives or other agents may disclose to any and all Persons, without limitation of any kind, the United States federal income tax treatment and United States federal income tax structure of the transactions contemplated by the Indenture, this Agreement and the related documents and all materials of any kind (including opinions and other tax analyses) that are provided to them relating to such United States federal income tax treatment and United States income tax structure. For purposes of this Section 7, the Holders and beneficial owners of the Notes shall not be considered "non-affiliated third parties."

8. Obligations of Portfolio Manager.

In accordance with the performance standard set forth in Section 3(b), the Portfolio Manager shall use commercially reasonable efforts to ensure that no action is taken by it, and shall not intentionally or with reckless disregard take any action, which would (a) materially and adversely affect the status of the Issuer for purposes of Cayman Islands law, United States federal or state law, or other law known to the Portfolio Manager to be applicable to the Issuer, (b) not be permitted by the Issuer's Governing Instruments, (c) violate any law, rule or regulation of any governmental body or agency having jurisdiction over the Issuer, including, without limitation, actions which would violate any Cayman Islands law, United States federal, state or other applicable securities law that is known by the Portfolio Manager to be applicable to it and, in each case, the violation of which would have a material adverse effect on the business, operations, assets or financial condition of the Issuer or have a material adverse effect on the ability of the Portfolio Manager to perform its obligations hereunder or under the Indenture, (d) require registration of the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or the pool of Assets as an "investment company" under Section 8 of the Investment Company Act, (e) cause the Issuer to be treated as engaged in a trade or business within the United States for U.S. federal income tax purposes or otherwise cause the Issuer to be subject to U.S. federal or state income tax on a net basis; provided that it shall not be a violation of this clause (e) for the Issuer to be treated as engaged in a trade or business within the United States for U.S. federal income tax purposes or otherwise to be subject to U.S. federal income tax on a net basis as a result of an action taken either (i) in compliance with the Trading Restrictions attached hereto as Schedule 1 or (ii) in reliance upon Tax Advice to the effect that, under the relevant facts and circumstances with respect to such action, the Issuer's contemplated action "will" not cause the Issuer to be engaged, or deemed to be engaged, in a trade or business within the United States for U.S. federal income tax purposes or otherwise to be subject to U.S. federal income tax on a net basis, so long as (in respect of either (i) or (ii)) (x) there has been no material change in U.S. federal income tax law or the interpretation thereof that is relevant to such action since the date of such Tax Advice or the date hereof, as applicable; and (y) the Portfolio Manager does not have actual knowledge that such action, when considered in the light of the other activities of the Issuer, would cause the Issuer to be treated as engaged in a trade or business within the United States for U.S. federal income tax purposes; or (f) knowingly and willfully adversely affect the interests of the Holders in the Assets in any material respect (other than (i) as expressly permitted hereunder or under the Indenture or (ii) in connection with any action taken in the ordinary course of business of the Portfolio Manager in accordance with its fiduciary duties to its clients). In furtherance of the foregoing clause (e), the Portfolio Manager shall at all times comply with the Trading Restrictions set forth in Schedule 1, except with respect to actions taken in compliance with clause (e)(ii). If the Portfolio Manager is ordered by the Board of Directors of the Issuer or the requisite Holders or beneficial owners of Notes to take any action which would, or could reasonably be expected to, in each case in its reasonable business judgment, have any such consequences, the Portfolio Manager shall promptly notify the Issuer that such action would, or could reasonably be expected to, in each case in its reasonable business judgment, have one or more of the consequences set forth above and shall not take such action unless the Board of Directors of the Issuer then request the Portfolio Manager to do so and at least a Majority of both the Controlling Class and the Subordinated Notes (voting separately by Class) have consented thereto in writing. Notwithstanding any such request, the Portfolio Manager shall not take such action unless (1) arrangements satisfactory to it are made to insure or indemnify the Portfolio Manager, Affiliates of the Portfolio Manager and members, shareholders, partners, directors, managers, officers or employees of the Portfolio Manager or such Affiliates from any liability and expense it may incur as a result of such action and (2) if the Portfolio Manager so requests in respect of a question of law, the Issuer delivers to the Portfolio Manager an opinion of a nationally recognized law firm (from outside counsel satisfactory to the Portfolio Manager) that the action so requested does not violate any law, rule or regulation of any governmental body or agency having jurisdiction over the Issuer or over the Portfolio Manager. Neither the Portfolio Manager nor its Affiliates, shareholders, partners, directors, members, managers, officers or employees shall be liable to the Issuer or any other Person, except as provided in Section 11. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Agreement to the contrary, any indemnification or insurance by the Issuer provided for in this Section 8 or Section 11 shall be payable out of the Assets in accordance with the Priority of Payments, and the Portfolio Manager may take into account such Priority of Payments in determining whether any proposed indemnity arrangements contemplated by this Section 8 are satisfactory. The Portfolio Manager will comply in all material respects with requirements of the U.S. Risk Retention Rules applicable to it in connection with the performance of its duties under this Agreement and the Indenture, in each case, except in such instances in which (i) such requirement, order, writ, injunction or decree is being contested in good faith by appropriate proceedings diligently conducted or (ii) failure to comply therewith would not have a Material Adverse Effect on the Issuer or a material adverse effect on the ability of the Portfolio Manager to perform its obligations hereunder or under the Indenture.

9. Compensation.

(a) The Issuer shall pay to the Portfolio Manager, for services rendered under this Agreement, on each Payment Date, the Senior Management Fee. Accrued and unpaid Senior Management Fees shall be paid as set forth in Article 11 of the Indenture.

(b) The Portfolio Manager shall pay (without reimbursement by the Issuer) its general overhead expenses, including (i) all costs and expenses on account of salaries, wages, bonuses and other employee benefits of the Portfolio Manager and (ii) all occupational expenses, including rent, taxes and utilities, of the Portfolio Manager. The Issuer shall pay or reimburse the Portfolio Manager (at closing in the case of clause (i) below) for its payment of any and all reasonable costs and expenses incurred on behalf of the Issuer, including, without limitation: (i) the costs and expenses of the Portfolio Manager incurred in connection with the negotiation and preparation of this Agreement and all other agreements and matters related to the issuance of the Debt; (ii) any transfer fees necessary to register any Collateral Obligation in accordance with the Indenture; (iii) any costs, fees and expenses in connection with the acquisition, management or disposition of Assets or otherwise in connection with the Notes or the Issuer (including (a) investment related travel, communications and related expenses, (b) loan processing fees, legal fees and expenses and other expenses of professionals retained by the Portfolio Manager on behalf of the Issuer and (c) amounts in connection with the termination, cancellation or abandonment of a potential acquisition or disposition of any Assets that is not consummated); (iv) any and all costs and expenses incurred in connection with the carrying or management of the Assets; (v) any and all costs and expenses incurred in connection with the Notes and other indebtedness of the Issuer; (vi) any and all attorneys', accountants', rating agencies', consultants', brokers' and other professionals' fees and disbursements relating to Issuer matters (including in house attorneys' and accountants' services provided by or on behalf of the Portfolio Manager to the Issuer as may be reasonably allocated to the Issuer); (vii) any and all taxes and governmental charges that may be incurred or payable by the Issuer or any ETB Subsidiary; (viii) any and all insurance premiums or expenses incurred in connection with the activities of the Issuer by the Portfolio Manager; (ix) any and all costs, fees and expenses incurred in connection with the rating of the Debt or obtaining ratings or credit estimates on Collateral Obligations, and communications with the Rating Agency (including (a) any expenses related to compliance with Rule 17g-5 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, and (b) any fees, expenses or other amounts payable to the Rating Agency); (x) any and all costs, fees and expenses incurred in connection with the Portfolio Manager's communications with the Holders (including charges related to annual meetings) and costs and expenses for services to the Issuer in respect of the Assets relating to asset pricing and rating services and specialty database software licensing and development fees; (xi) any and all costs and expenses incurred by the Portfolio Manager in connection with the establishment of any ETB Subsidiary (provided that such costs and expenses are directly attributable to the establishment of such ETB Subsidiary), and (xii) any and all expenses incurred to comply with any law or regulation related to the activities of the Issuer, any ETB Subsidiary and the Portfolio Manager. Other than as stated above, the Issuer will bear, and will pay directly in accordance with the Indenture, all other costs and expenses incurred by it or on its behalf in connection with the organization, operation or liquidation of the Issuer.

(c) Upon the effectiveness of any termination of this Agreement or any removal or resignation of the Portfolio Manager hereunder, all Senior Management Fees accrued but not paid prior to the effective date of such termination, removal, resignation or assignment, as the case may be (the "Exit Date"), shall continue to be payable to the exiting Portfolio Manager on Payment Dates occurring after the Exit Date.

(d) Notwithstanding anything contained herein to the contrary, the obligations of the Issuer are limited recourse obligations payable solely from Assets granted to the Trustee pursuant to the Granting Clauses of the Indenture in accordance with the Priority of Payments and, following realization of the Assets and reduction thereof to zero, all obligations of the Issuer and any claims against the Issuer under this Agreement shall be extinguished and shall not thereafter revive. No recourse shall be had for the payment of any amount owing in respect of this Agreement against any other asset of the Issuer or against any officer, director, employee, shareholder or incorporator of the Issuer. The provisions of this Section 9(d) shall survive termination of this Agreement.

10. Benefit of the Agreement.

The Portfolio Manager agrees that its obligations hereunder in accordance with the terms of this Agreement and the terms of the Indenture applicable to it shall be enforceable by the Issuer and by the Trustee on behalf of the Holders, as provided in the Indenture. The Portfolio Manager agrees and consents to the provisions contained in Section 15.1 of the Indenture.

11. Limits of Portfolio Manager Responsibility.

(a) Subject to Section 8, the Portfolio Manager assumes no responsibility under this Agreement other than to render the services called for hereunder and under the terms of the Indenture applicable to it and affecting the duties and functions that have been delegated to it thereunder and hereunder in good faith and, subject to the standard of conduct described in the next succeeding sentence. The Portfolio Manager shall not be responsible for any action or inaction of the Co-Issuers or the Collateral Agent in declining to follow any advice, recommendation or direction of the Portfolio Manager including as set forth in Section 8. Neither the Portfolio Manager nor any of its directors, managers, officers, stockholders, members, partners, partnership committee members, personnel, employees, agents or Affiliates will be liable to the Co-Issuers, the Collateral Agent, the Trustee, the Holders of the Debt, the Placement Agent or any other Person for any act, omission, error of judgment, mistake of law, or for any claim, loss, liability, damage, judgments, assessments, settlement, cost, or other expense

(including attorneys' fees and expenses and court costs) arising out of any investment, or for any other act taken by or recommended by or omission arising out of or in connection with the performance by the Portfolio Manager, its directors, managers, officers, stockholders, members, personnel, partners, partnership committee members, employees, agents or Affiliates under this Agreement or the terms of the Indenture applicable to the Portfolio Manager, incurred as a result of actions taken or recommended or for any omissions of the Portfolio Manager, or for any decrease in the value of the Collateral Obligations, except that the Portfolio Manager shall be liable (i) by reason of acts or omissions constituting bad faith, willful misconduct, gross negligence or reckless disregard in the performance of its obligations hereunder or the terms of the Indenture applicable to the Portfolio Manager or, (ii) with respect to the information concerning the Portfolio Manager included in the Offering Memorandum dated April 18, 2017 (the "Offering Memorandum") under the headings "Risk Factors—Risks Relating to the Portfolio Manager" and the sub-headings thereunder, "Risk Factors—Risks Relating to the Issuer and its Service Providers—The Issuer will be subject to various conflicts of interest involving the Portfolio Manager and its affiliates" and "The Portfolio Manager" (the "Portfolio Manager Information") as of the date of such information, to the extent that such information contains any untrue statement of material fact or omits to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements therein, in light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading. The Portfolio Manager shall not be liable for any consequential, punitive, exemplary or treble damages or lost profits hereunder or under the Indenture. The Issuer (the Issuer in such case, the "Indemnifying Party") shall indemnify and hold harmless the Portfolio Manager, its directors, managers, officers, stockholders, members, partners, partnership committee members, agents, personnel and employees and its Affiliates and their directors, managers, officers, stockholders, members, partners, partnership committee members, agents, personnel and employees (each, an "Indemnified Party") from and against any and all losses, claims, damages, judgments, assessments, costs or other liabilities (other than losses in the value of a Collateral Obligation or Eligible Investment incurred by the Portfolio Manager or any of its Affiliates in connection with a transaction in which it elects to acquire a Collateral Obligation or an Eligible Investment from the Issuer as principal) (collectively, "Liabilities"), and will promptly reimburse each such Indemnified Party for all reasonable fees and expenses (including reasonable fees and expenses of counsel) as such fees and expenses (collectively, the "Expenses") are incurred in investigating, preparing, pursuing or defending any claim, action, proceeding or investigation with respect to any pending or threatened litigation (collectively, the "Actions"), caused by, or arising out of or in connection with the Assets or business of the Issuer or any ETB Subsidiary or otherwise relating to the Indenture or this Agreement, and/or any action taken by, or any failure to act by, such Indemnified Party; provided that the Portfolio Manager shall not be indemnified for any Liabilities or Expenses (x) it incurs as a result of any acts or omissions constituting bad faith, willful misconduct, gross negligence or reckless disregard in the performance by the Portfolio Manager of its obligations hereunder or the terms of the Indenture applicable to the Portfolio Manager, or (y) it incurs with respect to the Portfolio Manager Information as of the date of such information, to the extent that such information contains any untrue statement of material fact or omits to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements therein, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading. Notwithstanding anything contained herein to the contrary, the obligations of the Issuer under this Section 11 are limited recourse obligations of the Issuer payable solely out of the Assets in accordance with the Priority of Payments. The Indemnified Parties are not required to consult with, or obtain the consent of, the Issuer with respect to any settlement, negotiation or other act of the Indemnified Parties in connection with any Action.

(b) The Portfolio Manager shall indemnify and hold harmless (the Portfolio Manager in such case, the "Indemnifying Party") the Issuer (the Issuer in such case, the "Indemnified Party") from and against any and all expenses, losses, damages, liabilities, demands, charges and claims (including reasonable attorneys' fees) arising directly out of any information described in Section 11(a)(ii) above, as of the date of such information, to the extent that such information contains any untrue statement of material fact or omits to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements therein, in light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading; provided that the Portfolio Manager shall not be liable for any special, indirect, consequential, punitive, exemplary or treble damages or lost profits.

(c) The Indemnified Party shall promptly notify the Indemnifying Party if the Indemnified Party receives a complaint, claim, compulsory process or other notice of any losses or damages giving rise to a claim for indemnification under this Section 11, but failure so to notify the Indemnifying Party or to comply with paragraph (d) below shall not relieve such Indemnifying Party from its obligations under this Section 11 unless and to the extent that such Indemnifying Party did not otherwise learn of such action or proceeding and to the extent such failure results in the forfeiture by the Indemnifying Party of material rights and defenses.

(d) With respect to any claim made or threatened against an Indemnified Party, or compulsory process or request served upon such Indemnified Party for which such Indemnified Party is or may be entitled to indemnification under this Section 11, such Indemnified Party shall:

(i) at the Indemnifying Party's expense, provide the Indemnifying Party such information and cooperation with respect to such claim as the Indemnifying Party may reasonably require, including, but not limited to, making appropriate personnel available to the Indemnifying Party at such reasonable times as the Indemnifying Party may request;

(ii) at the Indemnifying Party's expense, cooperate and take all such steps as the Indemnifying Party may reasonably request to preserve and protect any defense to such claim;

(iii) in the event suit is brought with respect to such claim, upon reasonable prior notice, afford to the Indemnifying Party the right, which the Indemnifying Party may exercise in its sole discretion and at its expense, (A) to participate in the investigation, defense and settlement of such claim, and, (B) to the extent that it shall wish, to assume the defense thereof, with counsel satisfactory to such Indemnified Party (who shall not, except with the consent of the Indemnified Party, be counsel to the Indemnifying Party), and, after notice from the Indemnifying Party to such Indemnified Party of its election so to assume the defense thereof, the Indemnifying Party shall not be liable to such Indemnified Party under such subsection for any legal fees and expenses of other counsel or any other expenses, in each case subsequently incurred by such Indemnified Party, in connection with the defense thereof other than reasonable costs of investigation, except that, if such Indemnified Party reasonably determines that counsel selected by the Indemnifying Party has a conflict of interest, such Indemnifying Party shall pay the reasonable fees and disbursements of one additional counsel selected by the Indemnified Party (in addition to any local counsel) separate from its own counsel for all Indemnified Parties in connection with any one action or separate but similar or related actions in the same jurisdiction arising out of the same general allegations or circumstances; and

(iv) neither incur any material expense to defend against nor make any admission with respect thereto, nor permit a default or consent to the entry of any judgment in respect thereof, in each case without the prior written consent of the Indemnifying Party; provided that the Indemnifying Party shall have advised such Indemnified Party that such Indemnified Party is entitled to be indemnified hereunder with respect to such claim.

(e) No Indemnified Party shall, without the prior written consent of the Indemnifying Party, which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld, settle or compromise any claim giving rise to a claim for indemnity hereunder, or permit a default or consent to the entry of any judgment in respect thereof; provided that if the Indemnified Party is the Portfolio Manager or an Affiliate or a Related Entity of the Portfolio Manager or of an Affiliate thereof, such Indemnified Party shall not be required to seek or obtain such consent if it determines in good faith that the Indemnifying Party is unlikely to have sufficient funds available to indemnify it in full, taking into account the Priority of Payments.

(f) No Indemnifying Party shall, without the prior written consent of the Indemnified Party, which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld, settle or compromise or consent to the entry of any judgment with respect to any claim giving rise to a claim for indemnity hereunder if such settlement includes a statement as to or an admission of fault, culpability or a failure to act by or on behalf of any Indemnified Party.

(g) If the indemnification provided for in this Section 11 is unavailable to an Indemnified Party in respect of any claims or liabilities referred to herein, then the Indemnifying Party, in lieu of indemnifying such Indemnified Party hereunder, shall contribute to the amount paid or payable by such Indemnified Party as a result of such claims or liabilities in such proportion as is appropriate to reflect the relative benefits received by, and the relative fault of, the Indemnifying Party, on the one hand, and the Indemnified Parties, on the other hand, as well as any other relevant equitable considerations.

(h) The required indemnification provided by this Section 11 shall be in addition to any rights to which an Indemnified Party may otherwise be entitled by contract or as a matter of law, and shall extend to each of its or his or her heirs, successors and assigns. The provisions of this Section 11 shall continue to afford protection to each Indemnified Party regardless of whether such Indemnified Party remains in the position or capacity pursuant to which such Indemnified Party became entitled to indemnification under this Section 11.

(i) United States federal securities laws impose liabilities under certain circumstances on persons who act in good faith and nothing herein shall constitute a waiver or limitation of any rights which the Issuer or any Holder of Notes may have under any applicable federal securities laws.

(j) Notwithstanding anything in this Agreement to the contrary, the Portfolio Manager's obligations hereunder will be solely the obligations of the Portfolio Manager, and the Issuer will not have any recourse to any Manager Related Party other than the Portfolio Manager, with respect to any claims, losses, damages, liabilities, indemnities or other obligations in connection with any transactions contemplated hereby.

(k) The Portfolio Manager shall not be liable for any act or omission of the custodian, any sub-custodian, prime broker or other Person appointed by the Issuer. Any compensation to any such Person for its services to the Issuer shall be the obligation of the Issuer and not the Portfolio Manager.

(l) The Portfolio Manager shall not be responsible for any liability resulting from any failure by the Portfolio Manager to fulfill its duties under this Agreement if such liability or failure shall be caused by or directly or indirectly due to a Force Majeure Event, provided that the Portfolio Manager shall use commercially reasonable efforts to minimize the effect of the same. As used herein, the term "Force Majeure Event" means such an operation of the forces of nature as reasonable foresight and ability could not foresee or reasonably provide against including but not limited to, acts of god, flood, war (whether declared or undeclared), terrorism, fire, strikes or work stoppages for any reason, embargo, government action, including any laws, ordinances, regulations or the like which restrict or prohibit the providing of the services contemplated by this Agreement, inability to obtain material, equipment, or communications or computer facilities, or the failure of equipment or interruption of communications or computer facilities, and other causes beyond a party's control whether or not of the same class or kind as specifically named above.

(m) The Portfolio Manager shall be entitled to conclusively rely in good faith, and shall be fully protected in relying, upon any writing, resolution, notice, consent, certificate, affidavit, letter, cablegram, telegram, facsimile, email, telex or teletype message, statement (which may be made orally or by telephone), order or other document or communication reasonably believed by it to be genuine and correct and to have been signed, sent or made by a Person that the Portfolio Manager has no reason to believe is not duly authorized and upon the advice and statements of independent accountants.

(n) The Portfolio Manager may consult with outside legal counsel of nationally recognized standing in the United States experienced in such matters as to questions of law pertaining to the performance of its duties hereunder and the advice or opinion of such counsel on any such question shall be full and complete authorization and protection in respect of any action taken or omitted by it hereunder in good faith and in accordance with the advice or opinion of such counsel; provided that the Portfolio Manager may take actions not permitted by the Trading Restrictions only in compliance with Section 8.

12. No Partnership or Joint Venture.

The Issuer and the Portfolio Manager are not partners or joint venturers with each other and nothing herein shall be construed to make them such partners or joint venturers or impose any liability as such on either of them. The Portfolio Manager's relation to the Issuer shall be deemed to be that of an independent contractor.

13. Term; Termination.

(a) This Agreement shall commence as of the date first set forth above and shall continue in force and effect until the first of the following occurs: (i) the payment in full of the Notes and the termination of the Indenture in accordance with its terms; (ii) the liquidation of the Assets and the final distribution of the proceeds of such liquidation to the Holders; or (iii) the termination of this Agreement in accordance with subsections (b) of this Section 13 or Section 15 of this Agreement.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provision hereof to the contrary but subject to the provisions of clause (e) below, this Agreement may be terminated without cause by the Portfolio Manager, and the Portfolio Manager may resign, upon 90 days' (or such shorter notice as is acceptable to the Issuer) written notice to the Issuer; provided that the Portfolio Manager shall have the right to resign immediately upon the effectiveness of any material change in applicable law or regulations which renders the performance by the Portfolio Manager of its duties hereunder or under the Indenture to be a violation of such law or regulation.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of clause (b) above, no resignation or removal of the Portfolio Manager or termination of this Agreement pursuant to such clause shall be effective until the date as of which a successor Portfolio Manager shall have been appointed and approved in accordance with Section 13(e) and has accepted all of the Portfolio Manager's duties and obligations pursuant to this Agreement in writing and has assumed such duties and obligations.

(d) If this Agreement is terminated pursuant to this Section 13, neither party shall have any further liability or obligation to the other, except as provided in Section 3(h)(i), Sections 9(c) and (d) and Sections 11 and 16 of this Agreement.

(e) Any termination, removal or resignation of the Portfolio Manager while any Notes are Outstanding will be effective only upon (a) the appointment by the Issuer, (x) at the direction of a Majority of the Subordinated Notes, with the consent of a Majority of the Controlling Class, of a successor Portfolio Manager and (y) if the Controlling Class does not consent to such appointment within 30 days, at the direction of a Majority of the Controlling Class, with the consent of a Majority of the Subordinated Notes, in each case, that is an established institution which (i) has demonstrated an ability to professionally and competently perform duties reasonably comparable to those imposed upon the Portfolio Manager hereunder, (ii) is legally qualified and has the capacity to act as successor to the Portfolio Manager under this Agreement in the assumption of all of the responsibilities, duties and obligations of the Portfolio Manager hereunder and under the terms of the Indenture applicable to the Portfolio Manager, (iii) satisfies the Moody's Rating Condition, (iv) shall not cause the Issuer or the Co-Issuer or the pool of collateral to become required to register under the provisions of the Investment Company Act and (v) shall not result in the imposition of any entity-level or withholding tax on the Issuer or the payments to the Holders or cause any other material adverse tax consequences to the Issuer and (b) written acceptance of appointment by such successor Portfolio Manager. The Issuer shall use its commercially reasonable efforts to appoint a successor Portfolio Manager to assume the duties and obligations of the removed or resigning Portfolio Manager. The Issuer, the Trustee and the successor Portfolio Manager shall take such action (or cause the outgoing Portfolio Manager to take such action) consistent with this Agreement and the terms of the Indenture applicable to the Portfolio Manager, as shall be necessary to effectuate any such succession. In the event that the successor manager has not been appointed or has not assumed the duties of the Portfolio Manager in writing within an additional 30 day period after the Controlling Class has failed to consent to or nominate a successor Portfolio Manager to which the Subordinated Notes have failed to consent, any of the Portfolio Manager, a Majority of the Controlling Class or a Majority of the Subordinated Notes may petition a court of competent jurisdiction for the appointment of a successor Portfolio Manager, which appointment will not require the consent of, or be subject to the approval or disapproval of, the Issuer or any Holder (so long as such court appointed successor meets the requirements of clauses (a)(i) through (v) above).

(f) In the event of removal of the Portfolio Manager pursuant to this Agreement by the Issuer or, to the extent so provided in the Indenture, by the Trustee, the Issuer shall have all of the rights and remedies available with respect thereto at law or equity, and, without limiting the foregoing, the Issuer or, to the extent so provided in the Indenture, the Trustee may by notice in writing to the Portfolio Manager as provided under this Agreement terminate all the rights and obligations of the Portfolio Manager under this Agreement (except those that survive termination pursuant to Section 13(d) above). Upon resignation or removal of the Portfolio Manager in accordance with this Section 13 or Section 15 of this Agreement, as applicable, and upon acceptance by a successor Portfolio Manager of appointment, all authority and power of the Portfolio Manager under this Agreement and the Indenture, whether with respect to the Assets or otherwise, shall automatically and without further action by any Person pass to and be vested in the successor Portfolio Manager.

(g) Any successor Portfolio Manager shall agree, as condition precedent to assuming the obligations of the Portfolio Manager hereunder, that, in the event the initial Portfolio Manager determines at any time (based on advice of nationally recognized counsel experienced in such matters) that it is necessary or advisable under the applicable requirements under Section 15G of the Exchange Act of 1934 and the applicable rules and regulations thereunder (the "U.S. Risk Retention Requirements") to transfer the eligible horizontal residual interest retained by for purposes of the U.S. Retention Requirements (the "U.S. Retention Interest") (or cause the U.S. Retention Holder to transfer the U.S. Retention Interest) to the successor Portfolio Manager, such successor Portfolio Manager shall acquire such U.S. Retention Interest from the initial Portfolio Manager and/or the U.S. Retention Holder on an arm's-length basis.

(h) For so long as Acis CLO Management, LLC or an Affiliate of Acis CLO Management, LLC is the Portfolio Manager, the Issuer and the Co-Issuer will be permitted to use the "Acis" name; provided that, if the Portfolio Manager ceases to be Acis CLO Management, LLC or an Affiliate of Acis CLO Management, LLC, the Issuer shall use commercially reasonable efforts to change its name to remove all reference to the name "Acis" therefrom. In addition, the Portfolio Manager, without the consent of the Issuer, may change the name of the Portfolio Manager.

14. Delegation; Assignments.

(a) Except as provided herein, the Portfolio Manager may not assign its rights or responsibilities hereunder without the written consent of the Issuer, a Majority of the Subordinated Notes (provided that failure to object within 45 days of written notice of assignment will constitute consent) and a Majority of the Controlling Class and satisfaction of the Moody's Rating Condition. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Portfolio Manager may, (i) with the consent of a Majority of the Controlling Class and without satisfaction of the S&P Rating Condition or the consent of any other Class, assign any of its rights or obligations hereunder to an Affiliate; provided that such Affiliate (A) has demonstrated ability, whether as an entity or by its personnel, to professionally and competently perform duties similar to those imposed upon the Portfolio Manager pursuant to this Agreement, (B) has the legal right and capacity to act as Portfolio Manager hereunder and (C) shall not cause the Issuer or the pool of collateral to become required to register under the provisions of the Investment Company Act, or (ii) enter into (or have its parent enter into) any consolidation or amalgamation with, or merger with or into, or transfer of all or substantially all of its assets to, another entity and, (A) at the time of such consolidation, merger, amalgamation or transfer the resulting, surviving or transferee entity assumes all the obligations of the Portfolio Manager hereunder generally and the other entity is solely a continuation of the Portfolio Manager in another corporate or similar form and has substantially the same staff and (B) such action does not cause the Issuer to be subject to tax in any jurisdiction outside of its jurisdiction of incorporation; provided that the Portfolio Manager shall deliver prior notice to the Rating Agencies of any assignment, delegation or combination made pursuant to this sentence.

(b) Notwithstanding the foregoing to the extent that applicable law requires the consent of the Issuer to any "assignment" (as defined in the Investment Advisers Act) of this Agreement to any Person, in whole or in part, by the Portfolio Manager, such requirement may be satisfied with respect to the Issuer and all holders (i) by obtaining consent to such assignment on behalf of the Issuer from any of the following persons as determined by the Portfolio Manager: (A) one or more directors of the Issuer independent from the Portfolio Manager, (B) the Independent Review Party, or (C) an advisory committee established by the Portfolio Manager; or (ii) in any other manner that is permitted pursuant to then applicable law. Any assignment consented to by the Issuer and such Holders shall bind the assignee hereunder in the same manner as the Portfolio Manager is bound. In addition, the assignee shall execute and deliver to the Issuer and the Trustee a counterpart of this Agreement naming such assignee as Portfolio Manager. Upon the execution and delivery of such a counterpart by the assignee, the Portfolio Manager shall be released from further obligations pursuant to this Agreement, except with respect to its obligations arising under Section 11 of this Agreement prior to such assignment and except with respect to its obligations under Section 3(h)(i) and Section 16 hereof.

(c) This Agreement shall not be assigned by the Issuer without the prior written consent of the Portfolio Manager, and unless the S&P Rating Condition has been satisfied in connection with such assignment, except in the case of assignment by the Issuer to (i) an entity which is a successor to the Issuer permitted under the Indenture, in which case such successor organization shall be bound hereunder and by the terms of said assignment in the same manner as the Issuer is bound thereunder or (ii) the Trustee as contemplated by the Granting Clause of the Indenture. In the event of any assignment by the Issuer, the Issuer shall use its commercially reasonable efforts to cause its successor to execute and deliver to the Portfolio Manager such documents as the Portfolio Manager shall consider reasonably necessary to effect fully such assignment.

15. Termination by the Issuer for Cause.

This Agreement may be terminated, and the Portfolio Manager may be removed for cause by a Majority of the Controlling Class upon 30 days' prior written notice to the Portfolio Manager. For purposes of determining whether the holders of the required percentage of relevant principal amount of the Debt have given notice of removal of the Portfolio Manager for cause, Notes owned or controlled by the Portfolio Manager or any Affiliate thereof or an account or fund managed on a discretionary basis by the Portfolio Manager or its affiliates will be disregarded and deemed to be not outstanding. No such termination or removal shall be effective until the date as of which a successor Portfolio Manager shall have agreed in writing to assume all of the Portfolio Manager's duties and obligations pursuant to this Agreement and as specified in the Indenture. For purposes of determining "cause" with respect to any such termination of this Agreement or removal of the Portfolio Manager, such term includes any one of the following events:

(a) the Portfolio Manager willfully violates, or takes any action that it knows breaches, any material provision of this Agreement or the Indenture applicable to it in bad faith (not including a willful and intentional breach that results from a good faith dispute regarding reasonable alternative courses of action or interpretation of instructions);

(b) the Portfolio Manager breaches in any respect any provision of this Agreement or any terms of the Indenture applicable to it (other than as covered by clause (a) and it being understood that failure to meet any Coverage Test, any Concentration Limitation, Interest Reinvestment Test or the Collateral Quality Test is not such a violation) (except for any such violations or breaches that have not had, or could not, either individually or in the aggregate, reasonably be expected to have, a material adverse effect on the Issuer) and fails to cure such breach within 30 days of a Responsible Officer receiving notice of such breach, unless, if such breach is remediable, the Portfolio Manager has taken action that the Portfolio Manager believes in good faith will remedy such breach, and such action does remedy such breach, within 60 days after a Responsible Officer receives notice thereof;

(c) the Portfolio Manager is wound up or dissolved or there is appointed over it or a substantial portion of its assets a receiver, administrator, administrative receiver, trustee or similar officer; or the Portfolio Manager (i) ceases to be able to, or admits in writing its inability to, pay its debts as they become due and payable, or makes a general assignment for the benefit of, or enters into any composition or arrangement with, its creditors generally; (ii) applies for or consents (by admission of material allegations of a petition or otherwise) to the appointment of a receiver, trustee, assignee, custodian, liquidator or sequestrator (or other similar official) of the Portfolio Manager or of any substantial part of its properties or assets, or authorizes such an application or consent, or proceedings seeking such appointment are commenced without such authorization, consent or application against the Portfolio Manager and continue undismissed for 60 days; (iii) authorizes or files a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, or applies for or consents (by admission of material allegations of a petition or otherwise) to the application of any bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, readjustment of debt, insolvency or dissolution, or authorizes such application or consent, or proceedings to such end are instituted against the Portfolio Manager without such authorization, application or consent and are approved as properly instituted and remain undismissed for 60 days or result in adjudication of bankruptcy or insolvency; or (iv) permits or suffers all or any substantial part of its properties or assets to be sequestered or attached by court order and the order remains undismissed for 60 days;

(d) the occurrence of an Event of Default under the Indenture that consists of a default in the payment of principal or interest on the Secured Debt when due and payable and results primarily from any material breach by the Portfolio Manager of its duties hereunder or under the Indenture, which breach or default is not cured within any applicable cure period;

(e) the occurrence of an act by the Portfolio Manager that constitutes fraud or criminal activity in the performance of its obligations under this Agreement (as determined pursuant to a final adjudication by a court of competent jurisdiction), or the Portfolio Manager being indicted for a criminal offense materially related to its business of providing asset management services;

(f) any senior executive officer of the Portfolio Manager (in the performance of his or her investment management duties) is convicted for a criminal offense materially related to the business of the Portfolio Manager providing asset management services and continues to have responsibility for the performance by the Portfolio Manager hereunder for a period of 10 days after such conviction; or

(g) the inability of the Portfolio Manager to perform its duties hereunder in accordance with the standard of care specified herein due to the termination of the Service Agreements, unless the Portfolio Manager believes in good faith that it will be able to either (i) secure reasonably equivalent substitute services to those that were performed for the Portfolio Manager under the Service Agreements or (ii) perform its duties hereunder in accordance with the applicable standard of care without engaging a third-party service provider, in each case, within 30 days, and the Portfolio Manager is in fact able to secure such services or perform such duties within such 30-day period.

If any of the events specified in the definition of "cause" in this Section 15 shall occur, the Portfolio Manager shall give prompt written notice thereof to the Issuer, the Rating Agencies, each Holder of Debt, the Trustee and the Collateral Agent upon the Portfolio Manager's becoming aware of the occurrence of such event. A Majority of the Controlling Class may waive any event described in (a), (b), (d), (e), (f) or (g) above as a basis for termination of this Agreement and removal of the Portfolio Manager under this Section 15.

16. Action Upon Termination.

(a) From and after the effective date of the termination of the Portfolio Manager's duties and obligations pursuant to this Agreement or resignation or removal of the Portfolio Manager hereunder, the Portfolio Manager shall not be entitled to compensation for further services hereunder, but shall be paid all compensation accrued to the date of termination, as provided in Section 9 hereof, and shall be entitled to receive any amounts owing under Section 11 hereof. Upon such termination, resignation or removal, the Portfolio Manager shall as soon as practicable:

(i) deliver to the Issuer all property and documents of the Trustee or the Issuer or otherwise relating to the Assets then in the custody of the Portfolio Manager; and

(ii) deliver to the Trustee an accounting with respect to the books and records delivered to the Trustee or the successor Portfolio Manager appointed pursuant to Section 13(e) hereof.

Notwithstanding such termination, resignation or removal, the Portfolio Manager shall remain liable to the extent set forth herein (but subject to Section 11 hereof) for its liabilities hereunder arising prior to termination and for any expenses, losses, damages, liabilities, demands, charges and claims (including reasonable attorneys' fees) in respect of or arising out of a breach of the representations and warranties made by the Portfolio

Manager in Section 17(b) hereof or from any failure of the Portfolio Manager to comply with the provisions of this Section 16.

(b) The Portfolio Manager agrees that, notwithstanding any termination, it shall reasonably cooperate in any Proceeding arising in connection with this Agreement, the Indenture or any of the Assets (excluding any such Proceeding in which claims are asserted against the Portfolio Manager or any Affiliate of the Portfolio Manager) upon receipt of appropriate indemnification and expense reimbursement.

17. Representations and Warranties.

(a) The Issuer hereby represents and warrants to the Portfolio Manager as follows:

(i) The Issuer has been duly incorporated and is validly existing under the laws of the Cayman Islands, has the full corporate power and authority to own its assets and the securities proposed to be owned by it and included in the Assets and to transact the business in which it is presently engaged and is duly qualified under the laws of each jurisdiction where its ownership or lease of property or the conduct of its business requires, or the performance of its obligations under this Agreement, the Indenture, the Collateral Administration Agreement or the Notes (collectively, the "Issuer Documents") would require, such qualification, except for failures to be so qualified, authorized or licensed that would not in the aggregate have a material adverse effect on the business, operations, assets or financial condition of the Issuer.

(ii) The Issuer has the necessary corporate power and authority to execute, deliver and perform each of the Issuer Documents and all obligations required thereunder, and has taken all necessary action to authorize each of the Issuer Documents on the terms and conditions hereof and thereof and the execution, delivery and performance of each of the Issuer Documents and the performance of all obligations imposed upon it hereunder and thereunder. No consent of any other Person including, without limitation, shareholders and creditors of the Issuer, and no license, permit, approval or authorization of, exemption by, notice or report to, or registration, filing or declaration with, any governmental authority, other than those that may be required under state securities or "blue sky" laws and those that have been or shall be obtained in connection with the Indenture and the issuance of the Notes, is required by the Issuer in connection with the Issuer Documents or the execution, delivery, performance, validity or enforceability of the Issuer Documents or the obligations imposed upon it hereunder or thereunder. This Agreement constitutes, and each instrument or document required hereunder, when executed and delivered hereunder, shall constitute, the legally valid and binding obligation of the Issuer enforceable against the Issuer in accordance with its terms, subject, as to enforcement, to (a) the effect of bankruptcy, insolvency, or similar laws affecting generally the enforcement of creditors' rights, as such laws would apply in the event of any bankruptcy, receivership, insolvency or similar event applicable to the Issuer and (b) general equitable principles (whether enforceability of such principles is considered in a proceeding at law or in equity).

(iii) The execution, delivery and performance of this Agreement and the Collateral Administration Agreement and the documents and instruments required hereunder and thereunder do not violate any provision of any existing law or regulation binding on the Issuer, or any order, judgment, award or decree of any court, arbitrator or governmental authority binding on the Issuer, or the Governing Instruments of, or any securities issued by, the Issuer or of any mortgage, indenture, lease, contract or other agreement, instrument or undertaking to which the Issuer is a party or by which the Issuer or any of its assets may be bound, the violation of which would have a material adverse effect on the business, operations, assets or financial condition of the Issuer, and do not result in or require the creation or imposition of any lien on any of its property, assets or revenues pursuant to the provisions of any such mortgage, indenture, lease, contract or other agreement, instrument or undertaking (other than the lien of the Indenture).

(iv) The Issuer is not required to register as an "investment company" under the Investment Company Act.

(v) The Issuer is not in violation of its Governing Instruments or in breach or violation of or in default under the Indenture or any other contract or agreement to which it is a party or by which it or any of its assets may be bound, or any applicable statute or any rule, regulation or order (including, without limitation, any anti-money laundering statute or related rule, regulation or order) of any court, government agency or body having jurisdiction over the Issuer or its properties, the breach or violation of which or default under which would have a material adverse effect on the validity or enforceability of this Agreement or the performance by the Issuer of its duties hereunder or under the Collateral Administration Agreement.

(vi) True and complete copies of the Indenture and the Issuer's Governing Instruments have been delivered to the Portfolio Manager.

(vii) The Issuer is a "qualified client" as such term is defined under the Investment Advisers Act.

(viii) The Issuer understands that the rules and regulations administered by the U.S. Treasury Department's Office of Foreign Assets Control ("OFAC") prohibit, among other things, the engagement in transactions with, and the provision of services to, certain countries, territories, entities and individuals. The lists of OFAC prohibited countries, territories, persons and entities can be found on the OFAC website at <http://www.treas.gov/ofac>. In addition, the programs administered by OFAC ("OFAC Programs") prohibit dealing with individuals or entities in certain countries regardless of whether such individuals or entities appear on the OFAC lists. To the best of its knowledge, none of:

(1) the Issuer; (2) any person controlling or controlled by the Issuer; (3) any person having a beneficial interest in the Issuer; or (4) any person for whom the Issuer is acting as agent or nominee in connection with this investment is a country, territory, individual or entity named on an OFAC list, or is a person or entity prohibited under the OFAC Programs.

(ix) The Issuer has received and had an opportunity to review a current copy of Part 2 of the Form ADV of Acis CLO Management, LLC, at least forty-eight hours prior to its entering into this Agreement.

The Issuer agrees to deliver a true and complete copy of each amendment to the documents referred to in Section 17(a)(v) above to the Portfolio Manager as promptly as practicable after its adoption or execution.

(b) The Portfolio Manager hereby represents and warrants to the Issuer as follows:

(i) The Portfolio Manager is a limited partnership duly organized and validly existing and in good standing under the laws of the State of Delaware and has full power and authority to own its assets and to transact the business in which it is currently engaged and is duly qualified and in good standing under the laws of each jurisdiction where its ownership or lease of property or the conduct of its business requires, or the performance of this Agreement or the Collateral Administration Agreement (together with this Agreement, the "Manager Documents") would require such qualification, except for those jurisdictions in which the failure to be so qualified, authorized or licensed would not have a material adverse effect on the business, operations, assets or financial condition of the Portfolio Manager or on the ability of the Portfolio Manager to perform its obligations under, or on the validity or enforceability of, the Manager Documents and the provisions of the Indenture applicable to the Portfolio Manager; the Portfolio Manager is registered as an investment adviser under the Investment Advisers Act.

(ii) The Portfolio Manager has full power and authority to execute, deliver and perform each of the Manager Documents and all obligations required hereunder and under the provisions of the Indenture applicable to the Portfolio Manager, and has taken all necessary action to authorize each of the Manager Documents on the terms and conditions hereof and thereof and the execution, delivery and performance of each of the Manager Documents and all obligations required hereunder and thereunder and under the terms of the Indenture applicable to the Portfolio Manager. No consent of any other Person, including, without limitation, creditors of the Portfolio Manager, and no license, permit, approval or authorization of, exemption by, notice or report to, or registration, filing or declaration with, any governmental authority is required by the Portfolio Manager in connection with the Manager Documents or the execution, delivery, performance, validity or enforceability of the Manager Documents or the obligations required hereunder and thereunder or under the terms of the Indenture applicable to the Portfolio Manager. Each of the Manager Documents has been, and each instrument and document required hereunder and thereunder or under the terms of the Indenture shall be, executed and delivered by a duly authorized officer of the Portfolio Manager, and each of the Manager Documents constitutes, and each instrument and document required hereunder and thereunder or under the terms of the Indenture when executed and delivered by the Portfolio Manager hereunder or thereunder or under the terms of the Indenture shall constitute, the valid and legally binding obligations of the Portfolio Manager enforceable against the Portfolio Manager in accordance with their terms, subject to (a) the effect of bankruptcy, insolvency or similar laws affecting generally the enforcement of creditors' rights and (b) general equitable principles.

(iii) The execution, delivery and performance of the Manager Documents and the terms of the Indenture applicable to the Portfolio Manager and the documents and instruments required hereunder or thereunder or under the terms of the Indenture shall not violate any provision of any existing law or regulation binding on the Portfolio Manager, or any order, judgment, award or decree of any court, arbitrator or governmental authority binding on the Portfolio Manager, or the Governing Instruments of, or any securities issued by the Portfolio Manager or of any mortgage, indenture, lease, contract or other agreement, instrument or undertaking to which the Portfolio Manager is a party or by which the Portfolio Manager or any of its assets may be bound, the violation of which would have a material adverse effect on the business, operations, assets or financial condition of the Portfolio Manager or its ability to perform its obligations under the Manager Documents, and shall not result in or require the creation or imposition of any lien on any of its property, assets or revenues pursuant to the provisions of any such mortgage, indenture, lease, contract or other agreement, instrument or undertaking, the existence of which would have a material adverse effect on the business, operations, assets or financial condition of the Portfolio Manager or its ability to perform its obligations under the Manager Documents.

(iv) There is no charge, investigation, action, suit or proceeding before or by any court pending or, to the best knowledge of the Portfolio Manager, threatened that, if determined adversely to the Portfolio Manager, would have a material adverse effect upon the performance by the Portfolio Manager of its duties under, or on the validity or enforceability of, the Manager Documents and the provisions of the Indenture applicable to the Portfolio Manager hereunder.

(v) The Portfolio Manager is authorized to carry on its business in the United States and in all other jurisdictions necessary to the performance of its obligations under the Manager Documents and the Indenture applicable to the Portfolio Manager.

(vi) The Portfolio Manager is not in violation of its Governing Instruments or in breach or violation of or in default under any contract or agreement to which it is a party or by which it or any of its property may be bound, or any applicable statute or any rule, regulation or order of any court, government agency or body having jurisdiction over the Portfolio Manager or its properties, the breach or violation of which or default under which would have a material adverse effect on the validity or enforceability of the Manager Documents or the provisions of the Indenture applicable to the Portfolio Manager, or the performance by the Portfolio Manager of its duties hereunder or thereunder.

(vii) The Portfolio Manager Information, as of the respective dates of the Offering Memorandum and as of the Closing Date, is true in all material respects and does not omit to state any material fact necessary in order to make the statements therein, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading.

19. Binding Nature of Agreement; Successors and Assigns.

Subject to Section 14 hereof, this Agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties hereto and their respective heirs, personal representatives, successors and permitted assigns as provided herein.

20. Entire Agreement.

This Agreement contains the entire agreement and understanding between the parties hereto with respect to the subject matter hereof, and supersedes all prior and contemporaneous agreements, understandings, inducements and conditions, express or implied, oral or written, of any nature whatsoever with respect to the subject matter hereof. The express terms hereof control and supersede any course of performance and/or usage of the trade inconsistent with any of the terms hereof.

21. Amendment.

This Agreement may not be modified or amended other than by an agreement in writing executed by the parties hereto and (other than in respect of a modification or amendment of the type that may be made to the Indenture without Holder consent) (i) the consent of a Majority of the Subordinated Notes, (ii) the consent of a Majority of the Controlling Class and (iii) notice to the Rating Agencies. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the parties hereto, without the consent of any Holders and without satisfaction of the Moody's Rating Condition, may amend or modify any provision of this agreement to (i) reflect a change that is of an inconsequential nature, (ii) correct inconsistencies, typographical or other errors, defects or ambiguities, (iii) conform this Agreement to the Offering Memorandum or the Indenture (as it may be amended from time to time) or (iv) reflect a change that is necessary or desirable to satisfy any requirements, conditions or guidelines contained in any opinion, directive, order, ruling or regulation (including ERISA, the Code, the Investment Advisers Act and the Investment Company Act) of any U.S. federal or state agency or contained in any U.S. federal or state statute. In addition, Schedule 1 may be amended or modified by the parties hereto without the consent of any Holder in accordance with Tax Advice.

22. Conflict with the Indenture.

In the event that this Agreement requires any action to be taken with respect to any matter and the Indenture requires that a different action be taken with respect to such matter, and such actions are mutually exclusive, the provisions of the Indenture (as in effect on the date hereof or as amended or supplemented, with the consent of the Portfolio Manager if such consent is required by Section 3(b)) in respect thereof shall control.

23. Priority of Payments.

The Portfolio Manager agrees that the payment of all amounts to which it is entitled pursuant to this Agreement shall be subordinated to the extent set forth in, and the Portfolio Manager agrees to be bound by the provisions of, Article 11 and Section 15.1 of the Indenture as if the Portfolio Manager were a party to the Indenture and each of the Portfolio Manager and Issuer hereby consents to the assignment of this Agreement as provided in Section 15.1 of the Indenture.

24. Governing Law; Jury Trial.

THIS AGREEMENT SHALL BE GOVERNED BY AND CONSTRUED IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE LAW OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK (WITHOUT GIVING EFFECT TO THE CONFLICTS OF LAWS PROVISIONS THEREOF). EACH PARTY HERETO HEREBY IRREVOCABLY WAIVES, TO THE FULLEST EXTENT PERMITTED BY LAW, ANY AND ALL RIGHT TO TRIAL BY JURY IN ANY LEGAL PROCEEDING ARISING OUT OF OR RELATING TO THIS AGREEMENT OR THE TRANSACTIONS CONTEMPLATED HEREBY. EACH OF THE PARTIES HERETO ACKNOWLEDGES AND AGREES THAT IT HAS RECEIVED FULL AND SUFFICIENT CONSIDERATION FOR THIS PROVISION AND THAT THIS PROVISION IS A MATERIAL INDUCEMENT FOR SUCH PARTIES ENTERING INTO THIS AGREEMENT.

25. Indulgences Not Waivers.

Neither the failure nor any delay on the part of any party hereto to exercise any right, remedy, power or privilege under this Agreement shall operate as a waiver thereof, nor shall any single or partial exercise of any right, remedy, power or privilege preclude any other or further exercise of the same or of any other right, remedy, power or privilege, nor shall any waiver of any right, remedy, power or privilege with respect to any occurrence be construed as a waiver of such right, remedy, power or privilege with respect to any other occurrence. No waiver shall be effective unless it is in writing and is signed by the party asserted to have granted such waiver.

26. Titles Not to Affect Interpretation.

The titles of Sections and subsections of this Agreement are for convenience only, and they neither form a part of this Agreement nor are they to be used in the construction or interpretation hereof.

27. Execution in Counterparts.

This Agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts by facsimile or other written form of communication, each of which shall be deemed to be an original as against any party whose signature appears thereon, and all of which shall together constitute one and the same instrument. This Agreement shall become binding when one or more counterparts hereof, individually or taken together, shall bear the signatures of all of the parties reflected hereon as the signatories.

28. Provisions Separable.

To the fullest extent permitted by law, in case any provision in this Agreement shall be invalid, illegal or unenforceable as written, such provision shall be construed in the manner most closely resembling the apparent intent of the parties with respect to such provision so as to be valid, legal and enforceable; provided that, if there is no basis for such a construction, to the fullest extent permitted by law, such provision shall be ineffective only to the extent of such invalidity, illegality or unenforceability and, unless the ineffectiveness of such provision destroys the basis of the bargain for one of the parties to this Agreement, the validity, legality and enforceability of the remaining provisions hereof or thereof shall not in any way be affected or impaired thereby.

29. Number and Gender.

Words used herein, regardless of the number and gender specifically used, shall be deemed and construed to include any other number, singular or plural, and any other gender, masculine, feminine or neuter, as the context requires.

30. Jurisdiction and Venue.

The parties to this Agreement irrevocably submit to the non-exclusive jurisdiction of any New York state or federal court sitting in the Borough of Manhattan in The City of New York in any action or proceeding arising out of or relating to this Agreement, the Notes or the Indenture, and the parties irrevocably agree that all claims in respect of such action or proceeding may be heard and determined in such New York state or federal court. The parties to this Agreement irrevocably waive, to the fullest extent they may legally do so, the defense of an inconvenient forum to the maintenance of such action or proceeding. The parties to this Agreement irrevocably consent to the service of any and all process in any action or proceeding by the mailing or delivery of copies of such process to it in accordance with Section 18. The parties agree that a final judgment in any such action or proceeding shall be conclusive and may be enforced in other jurisdictions by suit on the judgment or in any other manner provided by law.

31. Third Party Beneficiaries.

Other than as provided below, no party, including any Holder of Notes, is a third party beneficiary of this Agreement. The parties hereby acknowledges and agrees that the Trustee will be a third-party beneficiary of this Agreement.

32. Miscellaneous.

(a) With respect to any Defaulted Obligation, the Portfolio Manager, on behalf of the Issuer, may instruct the agent or the trustee for such Defaulted Obligation to enforce the Issuer's rights under the Underlying Instruments governing such Defaulted Obligation and under any applicable law, rule or regulation in any manner permitted under the Indenture that the Portfolio Manager has determined in its reasonable business judgment will be in the best interests of the Issuer. In the event any Offer is made with respect to any Collateral Obligation or Equity Security, the Portfolio Manager, on behalf of the Issuer, may take such action as is permitted by the Indenture and that the Portfolio Manager has determined in its reasonable business judgment will be in the best interests of the Issuer.

(b) Without prejudice to Section 15(f) hereof, any corporation, partnership or limited liability company into which the Portfolio Manager may be merged or converted or with which it may be consolidated, or any corporation, partnership or limited liability company resulting from any merger, conversion or consolidation to which the Portfolio Manager shall be a party, or any corporation, partnership or limited liability company succeeding to all or substantially all of the collateral management business of the Portfolio Manager, shall be the successor to the Portfolio Manager without any further action by the Portfolio Manager, the Co-Issuers, the Trustee, the Holders or any other Person or entity; provided that the Portfolio Manager shall give prompt written notice to the Rating Agency upon any such occurrence.

(c) Notwithstanding anything herein or in the Indenture to the contrary, with respect to any report, information, communication, request, demand, authorization, direction, notice, consent or waiver to be given to the Rating Agency by the Issuer, the Issuer shall instead provide such information to the Portfolio Manager, and the Portfolio Manager shall then provide such information as well as any information related to the transaction requested by the Rating Agency directly from the Portfolio Manager to the Rating Agency via the website established on behalf of the Issuer for purposes of Rule 17g-5 under the Exchange Act.

(d) If the Issuer shall receive any written or oral communication from the Rating Agency (or any of its respective officers, directors or employees) with respect to the transactions contemplated hereby or in any way relating to the Notes, the Issuer agrees to refrain from communicating with the Rating Agency and to promptly (and, in any event, within one Business Day) notify the Portfolio Manager of such communication. The Issuer agrees to coordinate with the Portfolio Manager with respect to any communication to the Rating Agency and further agrees that in no event shall it engage in any oral or written communication with respect to the transactions contemplated hereby or in any way relating to the Notes with the Rating Agency (or any of its respective officers, directors or employees) without the participation of the Portfolio Manager.

33. Power of Attorney.

The Issuer hereby makes, constitutes and appoints each of Hunter Covitz and Mark Okada, with full power of substitution, as its true and lawful agent and attorney-in-fact (each an "Attorney" and together the "Attorneys"), jointly and severally with full power and authority in its name, place and stead, in accordance with the terms of this Agreement and the Indenture (a) to prepare, sign and deliver tax documentation, transfer documentation and all other documentation in connection with the acquisition and sale by the Issuer of Collateral Obligations and (b) to (i) vote in its discretion any securities, instruments or obligations included in the Assets, (ii) execute proxies, waivers, consents and other instruments with respect to such Collateral Obligations, (iii) endorse, transfer or deliver such securities, instruments and obligations, (iv) participate in or consent (or decline to consent) to any modification, work-out, restructuring, bankruptcy proceeding, class action, plan of reorganization, merger, combination, consolidation, liquidation or similar plan or transaction with regard to such Collateral Obligations and (v) take any other action specified in Section 3 of this Agreement. This grant of power of attorney will expire (a), with respect to each Attorney (and to each substitute appointed by such Attorney), when such Attorney ceases to be an officer or employee of Acis CLO Management, LLC or an Affiliate thereof, acting on behalf of Acis CLO Management, LLC or (b) upon (x) termination of this Agreement in accordance with its terms or (y) any assignment by the Portfolio Manager of its obligations under this Agreement in accordance with Section 14 hereof.

SCHEDULE 1

TRADING RESTRICTIONS

The Issuer (and the Portfolio Manager and the Independent Investment Professional acting on behalf of the Issuer) and any other person acting on behalf or at the direction of the Issuer, and any Affiliate of the Issuer, will comply with all of the provisions set forth in this Schedule 1 (the "Trading Restrictions") unless, with respect to a particular transaction, the Portfolio Manager shall have received Tax Advice in compliance with Section 8 of this Agreement. For purposes of these Trading Restrictions, a "Collateral Obligation" shall include any "Assets" as defined in the Indenture.

The Issuer shall acquire, hold, lend and dispose of Collateral Obligations only for its own account, and shall acquire and hold its Collateral Obligations solely for investment with the expectation and intention of realizing a profit from income earned on the Collateral Obligations and/or any increase in their value during the interval of time between acquisition and disposition thereof.

Notwithstanding any other provision of these Trading Restrictions, the Issuer shall not (each of the following, a "Prohibited Activity"):

(i) act as, or engage in any activities customarily undertaken by, an agent, arranger, or structuring agent with respect to, or negotiate the terms of, any Collateral Obligation or otherwise; provided that, notwithstanding the foregoing, after the date on which the Issuer has acquired a Collateral Obligation, the Issuer may exercise any voting or other rights available to a holder of a Collateral Obligation under the terms of the Collateral Obligation, and may accept or reject any amendment or modification of the terms of that Collateral Obligation if (w) the amendment or modification is proposed by the obligor under that Collateral Obligation and does not require or provide for any advance of additional funds, the Collateral Obligation is not an Affiliate Collateral Obligation (as defined below), neither the Issuer nor the Portfolio Manager, nor any Affiliate of either, has participated directly or indirectly in the negotiation of the amendment or modification, and the Issuer is not the largest holder of the Collateral Obligation, or (x) the modification does not require or provide for any advance of additional funds by the Issuer and would not constitute a Significant Modification (for purposes of this clause, "Significant Modification" means any amendment, supplement or modification that involves (1) a change in interest rate or yield of the Collateral Obligation, (2) a change in the stated maturity or the timing of any material payment on the Collateral Obligation (including deferral of an interest payment), (3) a change in the obligor of the Collateral Obligation or (4) a change in the collateral or security for the Collateral Obligation, including the addition or deletion of a co-obligor or guarantor, all within the meaning of United States Department of the Treasury regulation section 1.1001-3), or (y) in the reasonable judgment of the Portfolio Manager, the obligor is in financial distress, the obligor was not in financial distress on the date on which the Issuer acquired such Collateral Obligation and such change in terms is desirable to protect the Issuer's investment, or (z) the Issuer has received Tax Advice that the Issuer's involvement in such amendment, supplement or modification of the terms of that

Collateral Obligation will not cause the Issuer to be treated as engaged in a trade or business within the United States for U.S. federal income tax purposes;

(ii) act as, hold itself out as, represent to others that it is, or engage in any activities customarily undertaken by, a dealer, middleman, market maker, retailer or wholesaler in any property, or hold as inventory for purposes of resale to customers, any property owned by the Issuer;

(iii) perform services, or hold itself out as willing to perform services, for any person, or have or seek customers;

(iv) register as a broker-dealer under the laws of any country or political subdivision thereof, or register as, or become subject to regulatory supervision or other legal requirements under the laws of any country or political subdivision thereof as, a bank, insurance company, loan originator, finance company or other institution engaged in a similar loan origination or insurance business;

(v) take any action causing it to be treated as a bank, insurance company, loan originator, finance company or other institution engaged in a similar loan origination or insurance business for purposes of any tax, securities law or other filing or submission made to any governmental authority, any application made to a rating agency, or qualification for any exemption from tax, securities law or any other legal requirements;

(vi) hold itself out to the public as a bank, insurance company, loan originator, finance company or other institution engaged in a similar loan origination or insurance business, or hold itself out to the public, through advertising or otherwise, as originating loans or making a market in loans or other assets;

(vii) establish a branch, agency or other place of business within the United States; provided, that entering into this Agreement and the appointment of the Portfolio Manager as described herein shall not be construed as a violation of this clause (vii);

(viii) make any tax election which would cause it to be subject to United States federal, state or local income or franchise tax;

(ix) buy any security in order to earn a dealer spread or dealer mark-up over its cost; or

(x) buy any security with an expectation or intention of restructuring or entering into a workout of such security.

For purposes of this Schedule 1, "dealer" means: (a) a merchant of securities with an established place of business who in the ordinary course of business is engaged as a merchant in purchasing securities and selling them to customers with a view to the gains and profits that may be derived therefrom, and (b) a person that regularly offers to enter into, assume, offset, assign or otherwise terminate positions in derivatives with customers in the ordinary course of a trade or business, including regularly holding itself out, in the ordinary course of its trade or business, as being willing and able to enter into either side of a derivative transaction.

Requirements With Respect to Collateral Obligations.

The Issuer may acquire Collateral Obligations only by assignment or participation, and may not execute any credit agreement whereby Collateral Obligations are issued. The Issuer shall not acquire any Collateral Obligation, or enter into any understanding, arrangement, forward sale agreement or commitment with any person to acquire any Collateral Obligation (a "Commitment"), in each case (i) prior to 48 hours after the completion of the issuance and funding of such Collateral Obligation, other than as otherwise permitted under "Forward Purchase Commitments" below, or (ii) if the Issuer would own more than 50 percent of the loan, obligation, issue, class or tranche that includes the Collateral Obligation or, if the loan, obligation, issue, class or tranche that includes that Collateral Obligation is part of a larger credit facility, more than 25 percent of that entire credit facility. In the case of any Collateral Obligation that is amended or modified in a manner that constitutes a Significant Modification after issuance and funding of such Collateral Obligation and before acquisition by the Issuer of such Collateral Obligation, any seasoning requirement set forth herein shall be computed and applied with respect to the date of such Significant Modification.

The Issuer shall not have any contractual relationship with the borrower or issuer with respect to a Collateral Obligation until the Issuer actually closes the acquisition of that Collateral Obligation. On the funding date of the Collateral Obligation, the documents relating to the Collateral Obligation shall not list the Issuer as a lender or otherwise as a party to any document relating to the issuance of the Collateral Obligation. The Issuer shall not be a signatory on any lending agreement or any other document relating to the issuance of the Collateral Obligation.

The Issuer shall not have any communications or negotiations with the borrower or issuer of any Collateral Obligation (directly or indirectly through the seller of such Collateral Obligation, the agent, negotiator, originator or structuror thereof, or any other person) prior to the completion of the issuance and funding thereof, in connection with the issuance or funding of such Collateral Obligation or commitments with respect thereto, or the Issuer's acquisition of such Collateral Obligation or the Issuer's Commitment with respect thereto, in each case, except as otherwise permitted under "Forward Purchase Commitments" below. For the avoidance of doubt, (i) the Issuer, or the Portfolio Manager or the Independent Investment Professional acting on its behalf, may, however, undertake customary due diligence communications with an issuer or obligor of any Collateral Obligation that would be reasonably necessary in order for an investor or trader to make a reasonably informed decision to acquire any such Collateral Obligation for its own account, and (ii) nothing contained herein shall prohibit expressions of interest or providing comments as to mistakes or inconsistencies in documents relating to any Collateral Obligation by the Issuer, or by the Portfolio Manager or the Independent Investment Professional acting on its behalf.

The Issuer shall not be entitled to earn or receive from any person any premium, fee, commission or other compensation for services, whether or not denominated as received for services, in connection with acquiring or disposing of a Collateral Obligation, or entering into a commitment to acquire or dispose of a Collateral Obligation, including without limitation, in each case, any amount that is attributable or otherwise determined by reference to the amount of any origination, underwriting or similar profit or related or similar fees for services earned by an underwriter, placement agent, lender, arranger, agent or other similar person in connection with the issuance or funding of a Collateral Obligation. In furtherance and not in limitation of the immediately preceding sentence, the Issuer shall not be entitled to earn or receive directly from any person any separately stated premium, fee or commission that is compensation for services or that is based upon or otherwise determined by reference to the amount of any such services. For the avoidance of doubt, the foregoing prohibition against earning or receiving fees and similar amounts shall not apply to (i) any compensation paid other than for a Prohibited Activity pursuant to the terms of any Collateral Obligation (e.g., a prepayment fee or commitment fee), (ii) any amendment or waiver fee, or (iii) any discount in the price paid by the Issuer for a Collateral Obligation from the price paid by the seller of the Collateral Obligation where such discount is attributable to the time value of money, credit quality of the related borrower, market conditions, or terms and conditions of the Collateral Obligation.

Additional Requirements With Respect to Affiliate Collateral Obligations.

Except as provided below, the Portfolio Manager shall not cause the Issuer to purchase any Collateral Obligation of any borrower or issuer with respect to which the Issuer, Portfolio Manager or any of their Affiliates:

(i) acted as an underwriter, financial advisory, placement or other agent, arranger, negotiator or structuror in connection with the issuance or origination of such Collateral Obligation,

(ii) was an agent, negotiator, structuring agent, bridge loan provider (where a bridge loan is repaid by any Collateral Obligation) or member of the original lending syndicate with respect to such Collateral Obligation, or

(iii) earned or received any compensation relating to the origination of such Collateral Obligation (each such Collateral Obligation, an "Affiliate Collateral Obligation").

The Portfolio Manager on behalf of the Issuer shall be permitted to cause the Issuer to purchase Affiliate Collateral Obligations, provided that the following conditions are met:

(I) at least 30 days shall have passed since the issuance and funding of such Affiliate Collateral Obligation and the holder of the Collateral Obligation did not identify the obligation or security as intended for sale to the Issuer within 30 days of its issuance;

(II) following such 30-day period, the Independent Investment Professional shall have approved the purchase by the Issuer of such Affiliate Collateral Obligation after a review of the terms and conditions thereof and a determination that such transaction shall be effected on an arm's length basis and that the purchase price represents fair market value (x) by reference to dealer quotes or the price paid by an unrelated secondary buyer in a material contemporaneous sale on substantially the same terms, or (y) to the extent there is no independent sale or the price paid in such sale is not readily ascertainable, by reference to the fair market value price at which an unrelated independent secondary market acquirer would acquire such Affiliate Collateral Obligation in an arm's length transaction;

(III) the Portfolio Manager or its Affiliate, as the case may be, originated the Collateral Obligation in the ordinary course of its business and not in contemplation of its acquisition by the Issuer; and

(IV) the Issuer may not purchase any Affiliate Collateral Obligation having a greater principal amount than the principal amount of such Affiliate Collateral Obligation held following such purchase by the Portfolio Manager and its Affiliates (excluding the Issuer).

Maintenance of Separate and Independent Status.

At the written request of the Portfolio Manager, the Issuer shall establish a conflicts review board or appoint an independent third party to act on behalf of the Issuer (such board or party, an "Independent Investment Professional") with respect to transactions involving any Affiliate Collateral Obligation. Any Independent Investment Professional (i) shall either (A) be an established financial institution or other financial company with experience in assessing the merits of transactions similar to the transactions involving any Affiliate Collateral Obligation or (B) be a review board comprised of one or more individuals selected by the Issuer (or at the request of the Issuer, selected by the Portfolio Manager), (ii) shall be required to assess the merits of the transaction involving any Affiliate Collateral Obligation and either grant or withhold consent to such transaction in its sole judgment and (iii) shall not be (A) affiliated with the Portfolio Manager (other than as a holder or as a passive investor in the Issuer or an Affiliate of the Issuer) or (B) involved in the daily management and control of the Issuer.

Neither the Independent Investment Professional nor any of the employees or personnel performing duties of the Portfolio Manager on behalf of the Issuer relating to the purchase of Affiliate Collateral Obligations shall be directly or indirectly involved in any origination or underwriting activities with respect to any Collateral Obligation, or have access to any files, records, or other information that is not available to independent unrelated secondary market acquirers concerning the origination or underwriting of any such Collateral Obligation. In addition, neither the Independent Investment Professional nor any of the employees or personnel performing duties of the Portfolio Manager on behalf of the Issuer relating to the purchase of Affiliate Collateral Obligations shall be a party to any discussions or meetings relating to origination or underwriting activities with respect to any Affiliate Collateral Obligation. No employee or personnel of the Portfolio Manager who is involved in any origination or underwriting activities with respect to any Affiliate Collateral Obligation shall have any direct or indirect influence over the decision making process of the Issuer or the Independent Investment Professional with respect to the acquisition or disposition of any Affiliate Collateral Obligation on behalf of the Issuer, but no such employee or personnel shall be prohibited from making recommendations to the Independent Investment Professional. However, in all cases the decision whether to invest in an Affiliate Collateral Obligation or to sell a Collateral Obligation to the Portfolio Manager or one of its Affiliates shall be an independent decision by the Independent Investment Professional.

Revolving Collateral Obligations, Delayed Drawdown Collateral Obligations and Letter of Credit Facilities.

Neither the Issuer nor the Portfolio Manager acting on the Issuer's behalf shall acquire an interest (including by means of participation) in a Revolving Collateral Obligation or a Delayed Drawdown Collateral Obligation or a letter of credit facility unless:

(i) such interest is acquired in the secondary market, the acquisition of such interest will not cause the Issuer to hold more than 25 percent of such Revolving Collateral Obligation or Delayed Drawdown Collateral Obligation or letter of credit facility, and taken together with the aggregate principal amount of other such interests held by the Issuer does not exceed 15% of the aggregate principal amount of all Collateral Obligations held by the Issuer;

(ii) with respect to any Revolving Collateral Obligation or Delayed Drawdown Collateral Obligation:

(a) neither the Issuer, the Portfolio Manager acting on behalf of the Issuer, nor the Independent Investment Professional acting on behalf of the Issuer has participated in the negotiation of the terms of such Revolving Collateral Obligation or Delayed Drawdown Collateral Obligation;

(b) the terms of such Revolving Collateral Obligation or Delayed Drawdown Collateral Obligation are fixed as of the date of the Issuer's acquisition thereof and do not provide the Issuer any discretion as to whether to make advances under such Revolving Collateral Obligation or Delayed Drawdown Collateral Obligation;

(c) more than a de minimis amount of such Collateral Obligation has been funded, or such loan is associated with a term loan to such borrower which has been fully funded; and

(d) the Issuer does not acquire any interest in a Revolving Collateral Obligation or Delayed Drawdown Collateral Obligation which is not associated with a term loan prior to 60 days after the issuance thereof, and all such interests combined shall not exceed 10% of the aggregate principal amount of all assets held by the Issuer; and

(iii) with respect to any letter of credit facility:

(a) (I) such letter of credit facility has been fully funded by the original lender, and such lender has completed all of its obligations with respect to that letter of credit facility (such that the letter of credit facility does not constitute to any extent a Delayed Drawdown Collateral Obligation), at least 48 hours before the Issuer committed to acquire such letter of credit facility; and

(II) the lead or agent lender or bank or other withholding agent with respect to such letter of credit will deduct and withhold all applicable withholding taxes on all payments made to the Issuer with respect to such letter of credit facility that are subject to withholding tax imposed by the United States; or

(b) (I) such letter of credit facility is associated with a term loan to such borrower which has been fully funded;

(II) all terms of such letter of credit facility were fully negotiated and final no later than the time at which the terms of the related loan were fully negotiated and final;

(III) the Issuer, or the Portfolio Manager acting on behalf of the Issuer, holds the same proportionate interest in such letter of credit facility as the proportionate interest it holds in the term loan(s) associated with such letter of credit facility; and

(IV) the lead or agent lender or bank or other withholding agent with respect to such letter of credit will deduct and withhold all applicable withholding taxes on all payments made to the Issuer with respect to such letter of credit facility that are subject to withholding tax imposed by the United States.

Forward Purchase Commitments.

The Issuer shall not have nor make any Commitment to acquire a Collateral Obligation from a seller before completion of the closing, full funding and seasoning (except, with respect to funding, in the case of a Revolving Collateral Obligation or a Delayed Drawdown Collateral Obligation) of the Collateral Obligation, except as permitted in the following provisions.

If a Commitment is made to acquire a Collateral Obligation, other than an Affiliate Collateral Obligation, from a seller before completion of the closing and full funding of the Collateral Obligation by such seller (the "Original Lender"), such commitment shall only be made pursuant to a forward sale agreement at an agreed price (a "Forward Purchase Commitment"). Any Forward Purchase Commitment with any Original Lender in respect of a Collateral Obligation (other than a Broadly Syndicated Collateral Obligation) may only be made after such Original Lender has delivered its own commitment to acquire its own interest in that Collateral Obligation and after all material terms of the Collateral Obligation have been agreed to.

In the process of making or negotiating to make a Forward Purchase Commitment, the Issuer shall not negotiate with respect to any term of the Collateral Obligation to which the Forward Purchase Commitment relates. The Issuer is not prevented from negotiating the terms of the Forward Purchase Commitment, including the price at which the Issuer shall acquire the Collateral Obligation to which the Forward Purchase Commitment relates.

Except in the case of a Broadly Syndicated Collateral Obligation, if the Issuer enters into a Forward Purchase Commitment to acquire a Collateral Obligation, the Issuer's obligation under the Forward Purchase Commitment shall be conditioned on there being, as of the time the Issuer is to acquire the Collateral Obligation, no material adverse change in the condition of the borrower or issuer, the Collateral Obligation or the financial markets, and in all other respects, the Forward Purchase Commitment may only be conditional to the extent the related counterparty's own commitment in the origination process and funding of the Collateral Obligation is delayed, reduced or eliminated; provided that, notwithstanding the foregoing, a Forward Purchase Commitment shall not be required to be conditioned on the absence of a material adverse change if (y) the Issuer enters into the Forward Purchase Commitment no sooner than 48 hours after the Original Lender has delivered its own commitment with respect to the related Collateral Obligation and after all material terms of the Collateral Obligation have been agreed to, and (z) the Issuer's Commitment is documented in a form for secondary market purchases that is substantially similar to that used for commitments given by all other persons who will acquire an interest in the Collateral Obligation from the Original Lender (including as to the absence of a material adverse change condition). In the event of any delayed, reduced or eliminated funding, the Issuer shall not receive any premium, fee, or other compensation in connection with having entered into the Forward Purchase Commitment, other than commitment fees or fees in the nature of commitment fees that are customarily paid in connection with such delays, reductions or eliminations of funding of Collateral Obligations of the type permitted to be purchased by the Issuer.

The Issuer shall not have any contractual relationship with the borrower or issuer with respect to a Collateral Obligation that will be subject to a Forward Purchase Commitment until the Issuer actually closes the acquisition of that Collateral Obligation. On the funding date of the Collateral Obligation, the documents relating to the Collateral Obligation shall not list the Issuer as a lender or otherwise as a party to any document relating to the issuance of the Collateral Obligation. The Issuer shall not be a signatory on any lending agreement or any other document relating to the issuance of the Collateral Obligation.

The Issuer shall not enter into any Forward Purchase Commitment in respect of any Affiliate Collateral Obligation. The Issuer, or Portfolio Manager or the Independent Investment Professional acting on its behalf, may, however, undertake customary due diligence communications with an issuer or obligor of an Affiliate Collateral Obligation or any other Collateral Obligation that would be reasonably necessary in order for an investor or trader to make a reasonably informed decision to acquire any such Collateral Obligation for its own account.

For the avoidance of doubt, except as provided above with respect to Forward Purchase Commitments, the Issuer may enter into a Commitment with respect to a Collateral Obligation only when the Collateral Obligation is funded and at least 48 hours have thereafter elapsed.

For purposes of these guidelines, a "Broadly Syndicated Collateral Obligation" shall mean a Collateral Obligation that: (i) is marketed and sold pursuant to a "customary underwriting"; (ii) is acquired in a "permissible fund acquisition"; and (iii) constitutes a "syndicated loan," each as defined below.

(i) Customary Underwriting. A Collateral Obligation is marketed and sold pursuant to a "customary underwriting" if the Portfolio Manager reasonably believes that the underwriting of the Collateral Obligation includes the following features:

(a) A bank or a syndicate of banks (the "lead bank") negotiates the terms of the Collateral Obligation with the issuer or the borrower;

(b) The lead bank assists the issuer or borrower compile a "confidential information memorandum," a "bank book" or a similar written document to be used in connection with soliciting loan sales, that describes the material terms of the Collateral Obligation and of the issuer or the borrower (a "Bank Book"). For the avoidance of doubt, a Bank Book, once initially provided and disseminated, may be updated to reflect changes to the material terms through supplements or through data postings on Bloomberg, Intralinks or Fintrac;

(c) The lead bank markets or seeks buyers for the Collateral Obligation from a wide (although potentially targeted) group;

(d) The lead bank effectuates its underwriting process through soliciting indications of interest or orders, making loan allocations or similar procedures;

(e) The lead bank is paid or compensated by the issuer or the borrower in respect of its underwriting, arranging, placement or for other similar services; and

(f) The lead bank is free to sell or allocate such Collateral Obligation to the highest bidder (or to allocate the Collateral Obligation based on other criteria determined in its sole discretion), even after (I) a "soft circling" process has occurred, (II) indications of interest have been provided and (III) preliminary allocations have been communicated to investors.

(ii) Permissible Fund Acquisition. A Collateral Obligation is acquired in a "permissible fund acquisition" if the following criteria are satisfied:

(a) Neither the Portfolio Manager, the Issuer nor any Affiliates thereof provided any underwriting, placement, arranging, structuring or other similar services on behalf of any lending entity or any intermediary in connection with the issuance or origination of such Collateral Obligation;

(b) The Commitment is entered into (x) after receipt of the Bank Book (including any supplements thereto) and (y) at a time when the material terms of such Collateral Obligation (other than interest rate and pricing) have been fully negotiated, it being understood that the interest rate and pricing of the Collateral Obligation might not be finalized until just prior to execution and funding;

(c) The Portfolio Manager has no reason to believe that the Collateral Obligation would not be executed on the same terms regardless of whether the Commitment was made;

(d) The Commitment is provided pursuant to typical allocation procedures and the lead bank for such Commitment has acknowledged that the lead bank is not acting as the agent of the Issuer for this purpose;

(e) The Commitment relates to a purchase of less than 5% of the face amount of the respective tranche of which the Collateral Obligation forms a part;

(f) The Issuer, together with any related or commonly managed or advised parties, purchases less than 15% of the face amount of the respective tranche of which the Collateral Obligation forms a part;

(g) Each Commitment is independently agreed upon (and there is no ongoing understanding or arrangement by which the Issuer has agreed to provide funds to the lead bank or issuers or borrowers) although the Issuer may purchase different tranche of loans offered contemporaneously; and

(h) To the best of its knowledge, the Issuer provides its Commitment at the same time as commitments are provided by the majority of the lending syndicate.

(iii) Syndicated Loan. A Collateral Obligation constitutes a "syndicated loan" if the following criteria are satisfied:

(a) The aggregate size of the Collateral Obligation facility (including undrawn commitments) is at least $100 million;

(b) The Issuer and the Portfolio Manager reasonably believe that the lead bank is acting in the ordinary course of its trade or business of originating and syndicating loans; and

(c) The Collateral Obligation is considered by the market to be a broadly syndicated loan offered to typical institutional non-bank investors.

Equity Restrictions.

The Issuer shall not acquire (whether as part of a "unit" with a Collateral Obligation, in exchange for a Collateral Obligation, or otherwise) any asset that is treated for U.S. federal income tax purposes as:

(i) an equity interest in a partnership, a trust or a disregarded entity (unless all of the assets of such trust or disregarded entity would otherwise qualify either as Collateral Obligations hereunder or as equity interests in entities taxable as corporations for U.S. federal income tax purposes that are not ineligible to be acquired by the Issuer under clause (iv) below);

(ii) a residual interest in a "REMIC" (as such term is defined in the Code);

(iii) an ownership interest in a "FASIT" (as such term is defined in the Code); or

(iv) any asset that constitutes a "United States real property interest" ("USRPI"), including certain interests in a "United States real property holding corporation" ("USRPHC") (as such terms are defined in the Code), except that, if otherwise permitted under the Indenture, the Issuer may acquire and/or hold an interest in a USRPHC under circumstances where the USRPHC may not be liquidated, and stock of the USRPHC may not be sold, unless prior to such liquidation or sale all USRPI held by the USRPHC have been sold and all U.S. federal income taxes payable by the USRPHC have been paid, and the Issuer reasonably believes, at the time of the acquisition of the interest in the USRPHC, that the USRPHC will be liquidated or the stock of the USRPHC will be sold (in each case, in accordance with the restrictions in this clause (iv)) prior to the liquidation of the Issuer.

Synthetic Securities.

The Issuer shall not acquire or enter into any swap transaction or security, which swap transaction or security provides for payments associated with either (i) payments of interest and/or principal on a reference obligation or (ii) the credit performance of a reference obligation.

3. Assignment and Transfer of the Promissory Note; Stabilization Payments.

   a. Effective immediately upon execution of this Agreement by the Parties, all right, title and interest of Acis under the Note, including the right to any and all Stabilization Payments not yet paid to Acis, are hereby irrevocably assigned and transferred by Acis to HCLOM, it being understood that from the date of such assignment, HCLOM shall become the "Payee" thereunder.
   b. For so long as Acis shall receive Servicer Fees following the date hereof, Acis shall remit to HCM the HCM Stabilization Fees pursuant to the Note Purchase Agreement.
   c. For so long as HCLOM receives any Servicer Fees following any Appointment, then HCLOM shall remit to HCM any portion of such fees that would otherwise have constituted HCM Stabilization Fees pursuant to the Note Purchase Agreement if Acis was the recipient of such fees.
   d. HCLOM shall sign a joinder to Note Purchase Agreement upon HCM's written notice thereof.

4. Expense Support. In the event Acis delivers written notice to HCLOM that Acis is unable to pay when due any Acis Expenses, then HCLOM shall promptly pay to Acis, or at Acis' written request, to Acis' creditors, the amount of such shortfall, provided that in no event shall HCOLM's obligations under this paragraph exceed greater than $2 million of Acis Legal Expenses in the aggregate, or greater than $1 million of Acis Administrative Expenses in the aggregate.

5. Indemnity. Acis shall and hereby does, to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, advance, indemnify and hold harmless any Covered Person from and against any and all claims, demands, liabilities, costs, expenses, damages, losses, suits, proceedings, judgments, assessments, actions and other liabilities, whether judicial, administrative, investigative or otherwise, of whatever nature, known or unknown, liquidated or unliquidated ("Claims"), that my accrue to or be incurred by any Covered Person, or in which any Covered Person may be threatened, relating to this Agreement, including amounts paid in satisfaction of judgments, in compromise or as fines or penalties, and attorneys' fees and expenses incurred in connection with the preparation for or defense or disposition of any investigation, action, suit, arbitration or other proceeding (a "Proceeding"), whether civil or criminal (all of such Claims, amounts and expenses referred to therein are referred to collectively as "Damages"), except to the extent that it shall have been determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction, in a final nonappealable judgment, that such Damages arose primarily from fraud, bad faith or willful misconduct of such Covered Person. The termination of any Proceeding by settlement, judgment, order, conviction or upon a plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent shall not, of itself, create a presumption that any Damages relating to such settlement, judgment, order, conviction or plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent or otherwise relating to such Proceeding arose primarily from fraud, bad faith or willful misconduct of any Covered Persons. "Covered Person" means each of HCLOM and HCM, as well as each and every one of their affiliates (other than Acis), and all of HCLOM's and HCM's respective managers, members, principals, partners, directors, officers, shareholders, employees and agents.

United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas

EXHIBIT A TO PROOF OF CLAIM

1. Claimant: Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland") maintains its business at 300 Crescent Court, Suite 700, Dallas, Texas 75201. Highland files its proof of claim (the "Claim") pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a), 501, and 502(f) and the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure 3002 and 3003. Prior to the Involuntary Petition Date (defined below), Highland provided sub-advisory and shared services to the Debtors (defined below). Highland has provided portfolio management and advisory services to the Debtors pursuant to that certain Third Amended and Restated Sub-Advisory Agreement by and between the Debtors and Highland dated March 17, 2017 ("Sub-Advisory Agreement") (Exhibit 1). Specifically, Highland has acted as an investment manager and has identified, evaluated, and recommended investments to investment vehicles advised or sub-advised by the Debtors. Highland has also provided the Debtors with back and middle office services pursuant to that certain Fourth Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement by and between the Debtors and Highland dated March 17, 2017 ("Shared Services Agreement") (Exhibit 2). Highland has provided the Debtors with all of the employees and staff necessary to manage the portfolios. Highland continued to provide the same sub-advisory and shared services to the Debtors throughout the Gap Period (defined below). To date, Highland continues to provide such services.

2. Debtors: Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management, G.P. (the "Debtors"). The Debtors' cases have been consolidated under case number 18-30264 in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas. Highland provides the service at the following address: 300 Crescent Court, Suite 700, Dallas, Texas 75201.

3. Indebtedness: Because the Debtors were put into bankruptcy involuntarily, the amount included in the proof of claim accounts for pre-petition claims as well as Gap Claims (defined below).

a. Pre-Petition: Joshua Terry, the petitioning creditor, filed the involuntary petition on January 30, 2018 (the "Petition Date"). As of the Petition Date, the outstanding indebtedness owing from the Debtors to Highland was as set forth below by account number:

Invoice	Type	Balance
A1-A7; BVK[1]	Sub-Advisory	$1,605,362.41
A1-A7; BVK	Shared Services	$1,017,213.62
	Totals	$2,622,576.03

b. Gap Period: When a debtor files bankruptcy, the order for relief is typically entered on the date the petition is filed. However, an involuntary bankruptcy case diverges from the simultaneous entry of an order for relief in that an order for relief is entered at a later date than when a petition is filed. This creates a period of time, referred to as the "gap period", where the debtor may accrue post-petition but pre-order for relief debt. Pursuant to Section 502(f) of the Bankruptcy Code:

> In an involuntary case, a claim arising in the ordinary course of the debtor's business or financial affairs after the commencement of the case but before the earlier of the appointment of a trustee and order for relief shall be determined as of the date such claim arises, and shall be allowed under subsection (a), (b), or (c) of this section…the same as if such claim had arisen before the date of the filing of the petition.

11 U.S.C. 502(f).

[1] A1-A7 and BVK account for the following vehicles: Acis CLO 2013-1, Ltd.; Acis CLO 2013-2, Ltd.; Acis CLO 2014-3, Ltd.; Acis CLO 2014-4, Ltd.; Acis CLO 2014-5, Ltd.; Acis CLO 2015-6, Ltd.; Acis CLO 2017-7, Ltd.; BayVK R2 Lux S.A., SICAV-FIS.

Claims arising during the gap period are entitled to priority treatment under section 507(a)(3). The Court entered the Order for Relief on April 13, 2018 ("Order for Relief Date"). Highland continued to provide services to the Debtors from January 30, 2018 to April 13, 2018 ("Gap Period"). The outstanding balance owed from the Debtors to Highland for the sub-advisory and shared services during the Gap Period is set forth below (and shall be referred to as the "Gap Claim"):

Account No.	Type	Balance
A1-A7; BVK	Sub-Advisory	$1,170,147.06
A1-A7; BVK	Shared Services	$879,417.29
	Totals	$2,049,564.35

c. Reservation of Rights as to Administrative Claim: Highland has provided uninterrupted sub-advisory and shared services since the Order for Relief Date. Highland reserves its rights to seek allowance of its administrative claims.

d. Indemnity Claims: Highland has contingent claims for indemnification pursuant to Section 6.03 of the Shared Services Agreement and Section 4(c) of the Sub-Advisory Agreement. According to Section 6.03 of the Shared Services Agreement and Section 4(c) of the Sub-Advisory Agreement, "the Management Company [Debtors] hereby does, to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, indemnify and hold harmless Covered Person [Highland and its representatives] from…any and all claims, demands, liabilities, costs…suits, proceedings, judgments, assessments, actions…of whatever nature, known or unknown, liquidated, or unliquidated...arising out of the investment or other activities of the Management Company." Highland reserves such contractual indemnification right.

4. Reservation of Rights; Other Rights: The Claims described in this Attachment are legal, binding, enforceable, allowed, and not subject to any offset, defense, claim, counterclaim or any other diminution of any type, kind or nature, whatsoever; provided, however, the Chapter 11 Trustee alleges that he may offset Highland's Claims and recover from Highland through his current adversary proceeding against Highland (Adversary Proceeding 18-03212). Highland disputes such contention, and believes all Claims sought herein are recoverable despite the Chapter 11 Trustee's allegations. No portion of the Claims or any funds previously paid to Highland are subject to impairment, avoidance, subordination, or disallowance pursuant to the Bankruptcy Code (including, without limitation, Bankruptcy Code § 502) or applicable non-bankruptcy law. Highland expressly reserves the right in the future to assert any and all claims that it may have, including, without limitation, imposition of a constructive trust, equitable lien, security interest, subrogation, marshaling, or other legal or equitable remedies to which it may be entitled. The filing of this proof of claim is not to be construed as an election of remedies. Highland further reserves the rights (a) to amend, modify or supplement this proof of claim, including any exhibit, schedule or annex, or to file an amended proof of claim for the purpose of modifying or liquidating the amount of any interest, fees, costs and expenses accrued or incurred subsequent to the Petition Date or any contingent or unliquidated claims or rights of Highland set forth herein; (b) file additional proofs of claim; and (c) against third parties.

5. Notices: All notices to Highland are to be sent to:

Re: In re Acis Capital Management, L.P.

7. Miscellaneous: This proof of claim is filed under compulsion of the bar date established in this bankruptcy case solely out of an abundance of caution to protect Highland from forfeiture of its claim within this bankruptcy proceeding. The amounts set forth in this proof of claim shall not be construed as an admission by Highland as to the amounts due and owing outside of this bankruptcy proceeding. The filing of this proof of claim is not: (a) a waiver or release of and/or Highland's rights or remedies against any person, entity or property; (b) a consent by Highland to entry of final judgment by this Court in any core proceeding commenced in this bankruptcy case, consistent with the United States Supreme Court's holding in Stern v. Marshall, 131 S. Ct. 2594 (2011); (c) a waiver of the right to move to withdraw the reference or otherwise challenge the jurisdiction of this Court; (d) a waiver of the right to a jury trial; (e) an election of a remedy which waives or otherwise affects any other remedy; or (f) a waiver of the right to assert a different or enhanced classification of priority for its Claim in respect of the other claims asserted in this bankruptcy case.

Whereas, pursuant to the Assignment Agreement, Acis assigned all right, title and interest of Acis under the Note, including the right to any and all Stabilization Payments not yet paid to Acis to HCLOM;

Whereas, for so long as HCLOM receives any Servicer Fees following the Assignment, HCLOM is required to remit to HCM any portion of such fees that would otherwise have constituted HCM Stabilization Fees pursuant to the Note as if Acis was the recipient of such fees;

Whereas, HCM and HCLOM are party to that certain Forbearance Agreement, dated May 31, 2018 (the "Forbearance Agreement"); and

Whereas, HCM and HCLOM wish to extend the forbearance under the Forbearance Agreement for an additional year.

AGREEMENT

Now, therefore, in consideration of the promises and mutual agreements set forth herein, and in consideration of the mutual representations, warranties and covenants herein, and intending to be legally bound hereby, the Parties agree as follows:

1. Forbearance of HCM Stabilization Fees. HCM agrees that it will not demand payment of the HCM Stabilization Fees for a period of an additional one (1) year and hereby Counsel for Highland CLO Management, Ltd.

IN THE UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS
DALLAS DIVISION

In re:	Chapter 11
HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.	Case No. 19-34054 (sgj)
Reorganized Debtor.

RESPONSE OF HIGHLAND CLO MANAGEMENT, LTD. TO HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.'S OBJECTION TO SCHEDULED CLAIMS 3.65 AND 3.66 OF HIGHLAND CLO MANAGEMENT, LTD.

Highland CLO Management, Ltd. ("HCLOM"), by and through its undersigned attorneys, hereby submits this response to Highland Capital Management, L.P.'s Objection to Scheduled Claims 3.65 and 3.66 of Highland CLO Management, Ltd. [Docket No. 3657] (the "Objection"). In support of its response, HCLOM states the following:

I. INTRODUCTION

1. In the Objection, reorganized debtor Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("HCMLP" or the "Debtor") seeks to expunge the undisputed, non-contingent, liquidated claims it scheduled for HCLOM for a promissory note [the "Note"] and related interest. Although HCMLP asserts that there was a prior material breach of contract under the Note and other documents and asserts that such prior material breach is both itself a defense and gives rise to a failure of consideration, these allegations are inconsistent with the language of the Note, the underlying facts, and, importantly, positions the Debtor has successfully taken elsewhere in this bankruptcy proceeding.

II. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

2. On October 16, 2019 (the "Petition Date"), HCMLP filed a voluntary petition for relief under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code, 11 U.S.C. §§ 101 – 1532 in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware.

3. Pursuant to an Order Transferring Venue of this Case to the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas, the resulting bankruptcy case was transferred to this Court on December 4, 2019.

4. On December 13, 2019, the Debtor filed its schedule of liabilities. The schedule of creditors who have unsecured claims included a claim for "Interest payable" in the amount of $599,187.26, and a claim for "Note payable" in the amount of $9,541,446.00. The schedule incorrectly listed the promissory note principal and interest as payable to Highland CLO Holdco.[1]

5. James P. Seery, Jr. was engaged as Chief Executive Office and Chief Restructuring Office ("CEO/CRO") for the Debtor effective as of March 15, 2020.

6. The Debtor filed amended schedules on September 22, 2020 (the "Amended Schedules"), correcting the claimant name to HCLOM, but leaving the amounts the same.[2]

7. The Amended Schedules did not list the HCLOM Scheduled Claims as disputed, contingent or unliquidated. Mr. Seery, in his role as CEO/CRO for the Debtor, signed the Amended Schedules under penalty of perjury.

8. The Debtor's note principal and interest obligations to HCLOM arose under a Promissory Note in the original principal amount of $12,666,446 with HCMLP as the maker, and Acis Capital Management, L.P. ("Acis") as the payee. [3]

9. The Note originated as part of a transaction in October 2016 whereby Acis agreed to pay fifty percent (50%) of its collateralized loan obligation ("CLO") servicing fees over a period of years to the Debtor pursuant to an Agreement for Purchase and Sale of CLO Participation Interests (the "CLO Participation Agreement"), and in exchange the Debtor promised to pay Acis the principal amount of the Note over a period of three years. [4]

10. The Debtor was to make principal amortization payments under the Note in May of each of the three scheduled payment years, and Acis was to pay the Debtor its portion of the CLO servicing fees on a quarterly basis (the "Servicer Fees").[5]

11. The Note was assigned to HCLOM pursuant to an Assignment and Transfer Agreement between Acis, HCMLP and HCLOM dated November 3, 2017 (the "Note Transfer Agreement").[6]

12. Following execution of the Note Transfer Agreement, an involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed against Acis in this Court on January 30, 2018, leading to the entry of an order

III. LEGAL STANDARD

13. The Debtor listed the HCLOM Scheduled Claims on the Amended Schedules and did not schedule them as disputed, contingent, or unliquidated. As a result, the HCLOM Scheduled Claims constitute prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claims pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 3003(b)(1).

14. Once such prima facie evidence is established, the claimant will prevail unless a party objecting to a claim produces evidence to rebut at least one of the allegations that is essential to the claim's legal sufficiency. See In re Fidelity Holding Co., Ltd., 837 F.2d 696, 698 (5th Cir. 1988); McGee v. O'Connor (In re O'Connor), 153 F.3d 258, 260 (5th Cir. 1988).

15. If the objecting party rebuts the presumption of validity, the claim is not per se denied. In re Armstrong, 320 B.R. 97, 104 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2005). Rather, "[t]he claimant may still establish the claim's validity at an evidentiary hearing." In re Today's Destiny, Inc., 2008 WL 5479109 at *4 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. Nov. 26. 2008). At this point the burden shifts back to the claimant to prove its claim by a preponderance of the evidence. In re Armstrong, 347 B.R. 581, 583 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2006).

IV. RESPONSE

A. No Alleged Breaches of the CLO Participation Agreement and/or the Note Excuse the Debtor's Performance under the Note.

16. The Debtor first argues that Acis's breaches of contract excuse the Debtor's performance under the Note. In doing so, it alleges breaches of the CLO Participation Agreement by "HCLOM and/or Acis." Objection, ¶¶ 36 – 47.

17. However, HCLOM is not a party to the CLO Participation Agreement, and could not breach it.

18. Further, although the Note was made as consideration for the CLO Participation Agreement, the Debtor's liability on the Note contains no provision conditioning the Debtor's payment obligations on performance by Acis of its obligations under the CLO Participation Agreement.[7]

19. In fact, the plain language of the Note states the opposite. The "Note embodies the final, entire agreement between Maker [Debtor] and Payee [Acis] with respect to the indebtedness evidenced hereby" and does not incorporate the CLO Participation Agreement by reference.[8]

20. Courts are tasked with construing a contract by looking at the langue of the parties' agreement. Barrow-Shaver Res. Co. v. Carrizo Oil & Gas Inc., 590 S.W. 3d 471, 479 (Tex. 2019). The court must "give effect to the parties' intentions, as express in their agreement" unless the "plain, grammatical meaning would clearly defeat the parties' intentions." Id. (internal citations omitted).

21. In claiming that alleged breaches of contract by Acis excuse the Debtor's performance under the Note, the Debtor cites to cases holding that in certain circumstances multiple documents can be deemed to be part of one instrument. However, this concept cannot be stretched to replace the parties' intentions when preparing the documents.

> Where appropriate, "a court may determine, as a matter of law," that multiple separate contracts, documents, and agreements "were part of a single, unified instrument." In determining whether multiple agreements are part and parcel of a unified instrument, a court may consider whether each written agreement and instrument was "a necessary part of the same transaction." But when construing multiple documents together, courts must do so with caution, bearing in mind that tethering documents to each other is "simply a device for ascertaining and giving effect to the intention of the parties and cannot be applied arbitrarily and without regard to the realities of the situation."

Rieder v. Woods, 603 S.W.3d 86, 94–95 (Tex. 2020).

22. Here, the CLO Participation Agreement states that

> [E]xcept as provided in Section 1.5, the Seller [Acis] may exercise all of its legal rights under and remedies to enforce the Purchaser's [Debtor's] obligations under the Note even if the Acis Participation Interests are not paid, in full or in part, by the CLO Trustee for any reason… The Purchaser bears the sole risk with respect to non-payment of the Acis Participation Interests (other than as a result of the Seller breaching its covenants under this Agreement or as a result of the fraud or willful misconduct of the Seller).[9]

The only exception, § 1.5, contemplates Acis failing to pay the Participation Interests/Servicer Fees as a result of regulatory proceeding against Acis, which did not occur.[10]

23. In furtherance of its efforts to tie the Note to the CLO Participation Agreement, the Debtor cites the provision in the CLO Participation Agreement stating that the Note shall not be payable until "all conditions to the effectiveness of the Purchase Agreement have been or will be fulfilled contemporaneously with the initial advance under this Note." Objection at ¶ 15. While "initial advance" is not defined in the Note, the Debtor was obligated to pay Acis an initial amount of $666,655 under the CLO Participation Agreement.[11] There is no dispute that the Debtor made that payment and that the conditions precedent for the Note to become effective were met.

24. The Debtor also made further payments to Acis on the Note, additional evidence that the Debtor was performing under the Note and that the conditions precedent was satisfied.[12] While HCLOM requires discovery to obtain the complete payment history, the Debtor's schedules show that $9,541,446 25 remains owed on the original Note balance of $12,666,446. Compare Ex. 1 with the Amended Schedules at Schedule E/F §3.66. This reflects that the Debtor made a principal pay down of $3,125,000 prior to the Petition Date. According to Ex. 1 at Exhibit A thereto, the Amortization Schedule shows that a principal payment was due May 31, 2017, in the amount of $3,125,000.[13]

B. HCLOM Did Not Breach the Note Transfer Agreement, Nor Would Any Alleged Breach Excuse the Debtor's Performance under the Note.

25. The Debtor then argues that HCLOM breached the Note Transfer Agreement, thus excusing the Debtor from performing under the Note. However, HCLOM acted to perform under the Note Transfer Agreement.

26. HCLOM "irrevocably commits" in the Note Transfer Agreement to be appointed as successor manager.[14] The Note Transfer Agreement contemplated that the controlling class of each of the Acis-managed CLOs would provide a notice to replace Acis with HCLOM as the manager of the CLOs.[15]

27. The controlling classes of the Acis CLOs issued optional redemptions attempting to effectuate the process of designating HCLOM as the manager of the Acis CLOs.[16] However, this Court entered a temporary restraining order, and then a plan injunction in the Acis Bankruptcy Case, preventing the Notices from being effectuated.[17]

28. As a result, HCLOM never was appointed as the manager of the CLOs.

[13] The Amended Schedules also reflect a balance of $599,187.26 in unpaid interest on the Note. See Ex. 2, Schedule E/F §3.65, at App.0105.

29. Prior to HCLOM becoming the manager, Acis continued to be responsible for paying the Servicer Fees due to the Debtor under the CLO Participation Agreement.[18] The Note Transfer Agreement is clear that only when HCLOM became the replacement manager of the CLOs and started to receive fees would HCLOM be obligated to remit a portion of the Servicer Fees to the Debtor.[19]

30. HCLOM never received any of the Servicer Fees contemplated under the Note Transfer Agreement §3(c). Instead, Acis at all times continued to receive such Servicer Fees.

31. Therefore, HCLOM was under no obligation to remit any Servicer Fees to the Debtor, and could not breach the Note Transfer Agreement by failing to do so.

32. Nor would any alleged breach of the Note Transfer Agreement excuse the Debtor's obligation to perform under the Note. Under the Note Transfer Agreement, the Note was transferred from Acis to HCLOM "effective immediately upon execution" of the agreement and was not conditional.[20]

C. The Debtor's Allegations in the Objection Are Inconsistent with the Debtor's Positions Taken in this Case and the Acis Bankruptcy Case.

33. The Debtor's claims in the Objection that is has no obligation to perform under the Note stand in stark contrast to the positions it has taken and testimony it has provided both in this case and in the Acis Bankruptcy Case.

34. In the Acis Bankruptcy Case adversary proceeding, Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management GP, LLC v. Highland Capital Management, L.P., et al., Adversary

Proceeding No. 18-03078 (the "Acis Adversary Proceeding"), Acis asserted claims against both the Debtor and HCLOM for fraudulent transfer with respect to the Note.[21]

35. The Debtor moved to dismiss these claims, but did not assert a defense that the Note was either invalid or subject to set off because of prior material breach.[22]

36. After the Debtor filed for bankruptcy, Acis incorporated the Acis Complaint into its proof of claim filed in this case designated as Claim No. 23 in the Claims Register maintained by the Debtor's noticing and claims agent (the "Acis POC").[23]

37. In its objection to the Acis POC ("Acis Claim Objection), the Debtor stated that "Not only did the Debtor not receive the Note, it remains liable!"[24] The Debtor continued that "Debtor did not receive the Note, and indeed remains liable on the Note."[25]

38. The Debtor enumerated five separate grounds for objecting to the Note-related claims in the Acis Complaint, but never argued that Debtor was not liable on the Note for failure of consideration or prior material breach.[26] Notably, the Debtor's objection was filed in June 2020, well after the Independent Board has assumed control of the Debtor from previous management and Mr. Seery stepped in as CEO/CRO.

39. Subsequently, the Debtor reached a settlement of a $23 million allowed claim amount on the Acis POC, which was documented in a settlement agreement (the "Acis Settlement Agreement").[27] As part of this settlement, Acis specifically disclaimed and released all claims for payment with respect to the Note (the "Acis Release").[28] . Acis further agreed to withdraw its claims against the Debtor-controlled defendants.[29]

40. Consistent with the Acis Settlement Agreement, on November 3, 2020, Acis moved to voluntarily dismiss all claims against HCLOM in the Acis Adversary Proceeding, which was promptly approved by this Court.[30]

41. In obtaining the Court's approval of the Acis Settlement Agreement, Mr. Seery specifically addressed the Debtor's liability on the Note. When asked to explain the basis for the settlement, Mr. Seery testified:

> Some of them [the Acis claims], we looked at and we thought those were actually, if we could get that settlement as part of it, it would be a pretty straightforward trade. So with respect to an intercompany note that's about $10 million, it was arguably (inaudible) transferred from -- from Acis, it was transferred -- its claim was it was transferred to Highland. Highland paid on the note. It was actually transferred to an entity that Highland owns and controls. That transfer was done without consideration, was about $10 million. We would have been liable on that note.
> We now believe that, for example, that one, we had very little defense on other than a technical defense, and that we would have – we'd have -- not going to have any liability on it because we effectively owe it to ourself, and now we believe it can be recharacterized or should have been recharacterized as equity in the first instance.[31]

Mr. Seery continued "In addition, as I mentioned, of the total amount, we think that the note was one that we actually owe, and we owe it to somebody, but now we owe it to ourselves. So of the total settlement amount, $10 million really is self-funding because we're not going to have to pay that obligation."[32]

42. In addition to providing evidence that the Debtor believes its performance is required under the Note, to the extent that this Court relied on Mr. Seery's testimony in approving the settlement with Acis, the contract positions in the Objection should be barred by the doctrine of judicial estoppel. "In order for judicial estoppel to apply, three requirements must be satisfied: (1) the party's position must be clearly inconsistent with the position previously taken by the party; (2) the court must have accepted the previous position; and (3) the previous position (or non-disclosure) must not have been inadvertent." In re Tex. Rangers Baseball Partners, 521 B.R. 134, 173 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2014); citing In re Superior Crewboats Inc., 374 F. 330, 335 (5th Cir. 2004).

43. As Mr. Seery expressed above, the Debtor owed on the Note, but Mr. Seery understood that the Note was transferred to "an entity that Highland owns and controls," so the Debtor could effectively wipe out the Note obligation as a result of the settlement.

44. However, Mr. Seery either misapprehended or misstated the structure of HCLOM, in which the Debtor then held controlling, but not economic, interest. Any inadvertence in understanding the nature of the Debtor's interest in HCLOM was not inadvertence in its belief that it was liable under the Note. Apparently believing that the Debtor effectively owned the Note, Mr. Seery freely admitted that the Note was payable.

45. Mr. Seery knew or should have known that the Debtor did not have an economic interest in HCLOM. The declaration in support of the Debtor's first day motions addressed the [32] Id., 196:25-197:4, at App.0339-0340.

Note. Specifically, the Debtor stated that, as of the Petition Date, "[t]he Debtor's obligations under the CLO Purchase Agreement and CLO Note are unsecured."[33]

46. The Debtor further stated that Acis had assigned the Note to HCLOM in November 2017, and that "the Debtor does not have any beneficial ownership interest in HCLOM."[34] It concluded that "[a]s of the Petition Date, the aggregate principal balance of the CLO Note was approximately $9.5 million."[35]

47. Subsequent to the Acis settlement, the Debtor and Mr. Seery further confirmed that the Note was a valid liability of the Debtor owed to HCLOM. As explained above, the Debtor's original schedules filed prior to the installation of the Independent Board incorrectly recorded the Note principal and interest as payable to a similarly named affiliate called Highland CLO Holdco.[36]

48. The Debtor executed the Settlement Agreement with Acis on September 9, 2020,[37] and thirteen days later, the Debtor filed the Amended Schedules properly reflecting that the Note principal and interest were owed to HCLOM.[38] Mr. Seery signed the Debtor's Amended Schedules under penalty of perjury.

49. Neither HCLOM nor any other party took any action to prompt the Debtor to make this amendment to its schedules, so this amendment appears to be the Debtor's independent belief about its own liability on the Note. As of the date of this Response, the Debtor has not amended its Schedules to remove this liability. At all times, from its First Day declaration to its current schedules, the Debtor readily admitted that it owed this liability.

D. The Debtor's Arguments about Failure of Consideration for the Note Are Inconsistent and Unavailing.

50. The Debtor also tries to argue that the Note is unenforceable due to a failure of consideration. When there is a written agreement between parties, the "written contract presumes that there was consideration for its execution." Gooch v. Am. Sling Co., 902 S.W.2d 181, 185 (Tex. App.—Fort Worth 1995, no writ) (citing Wright v. Robert & St. John Motor Co., 122 Tex. 278, 282, 58 S.W.2d 67, 69 (1933); Hargis v. Radio Corp. of Am., 539 S.W.2d 230, 232 (Tex. Civ. App.—Austin 1976, no writ)).

51. Under Texas law, failure of consideration is recognized as an affirmative defense to an action on a written agreement. See Nat'l Bank of Commerce v. Williams, 125 Tex. 619, 84 S.W.2d 691, 692 (Tex. 1935). As such, the burden is on the Debtor to prove a failure of consideration.

52. There was no failure of consideration under the CLO Participation Agreement, to which HCLOM is not a party. As the Debtor admits in the Objection, "Highland and Acis appeared to perform their respective obligations under the [CLO Participation] Agreement through early November 2017." Objection at ¶ 2.

53. Nor was there a failure of consideration under the Note Transfer Agreement. The Note Transfer Agreement came about after the Debtor informed Acis that it was "unwilling to continue providing support personnel and other critical services to Acis with respect to the CLOs."[39] As explained above, HCLOM irrevocably agreed to step in as successor manager and Acis and HCLOM took efforts to effectuate the transfer as promised.

[39] Ex. 5, p. 1, at App.0137.

54. Any subsequent failure by Acis to transfer the Servicer Fees to HCMLP was not a failure by HCLOM, and such underlying claims have been released in the Debtor's settlement with Acis.

55. Additionally, Debtor has no standing to object to the Note Transfer Agreement. As a matter of law, the Debtor is not permitted to object to failure of consideration for a contract if the Debtor was not a party to that specific contract. Berger v. Berger, 578 S.W.2d 547, 549 (Tex. Civ. App. – Houston [1st Dist.] 1979, no writ) (holding a grantor was the only person who could set aside a deed for failure of consideration); see also Lopez v. Morales, No. 04-09-00476-CV, 2010 WL 3332318, at *3 (Tex. Civ. App. – San Antonio 2010, no pet.) (holding a grandson did not have standing to assert a claim for failure of consideration on behalf his grandfather when the grandson was not a party to the deed).

56. Even if payment on the Note is deemed an undeserved windfall, then it is a windfall received by Acis and allowed to occur by the Debtor and its counsel. Similarly, as asserted by the Debtor against Acis in the Acis Claim Objection, any claim by HCMLP against its alleged co-conspirators would be barred by in pari delicto, as HCMLP was a least equally culpable in all of the conduct it alleges."[40]

57. Texas courts refer to the doctrine of in pari delicto as the "unlawful acts rule." Rico v. Flores, 481 F.3d 234, 241 (5th Cir. 2007). It is an equitable affirmative defense which bars a party from asserting an action where the party itself has engaged in substantially equal wrongdoing or criminal conduct. Id. at 242. Although it is an open question in the Fifth Circuit whether in pari delicto can be asserted against a trustee or reorganized debtor, there is support for doing so.

[40] Ex. 15, ¶ 69, at App.1010.

See Osherow v. York, No. 5:17-CV-483-DAE, 2019 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 200382, at *16-17 (W.D. Tex. Aug. 5, 2019).

58. The same lawyers that signed the Objection in February 2023 signed the Acis Claim Objection in June 2020. The Debtor's First Day Declaration, which they also helped prepare, put them on notice of the issues surrounding the Note. The same lawyers assisted in negotiating the settlement of the Acis POC and sponsored Mr. Seery's testimony at the Acis 9019 hearing that the Note was a valid obligation of the Debtor.

59. The underlying facts and law are the same now as they were then, as are the persons making the arguments for the Debtor. If the Debtor is correct in its currently asserted arguments, then the Debtor's management and professionals permitted a windfall payment to Acis and the objection should be denied under the doctrine of in pari delicto.

E. The Debtor Has No Right to Setoff or Recoupment Against HCLOM.

60. Finally, the Debtor argues in the alternative that if its performance under the Note is not excused, its obligations are subject to setoff and recoupment.

61. As the Debtor noted in the Objection, recoupment requires that "(1) some type of overpayment must have been made, and (2) both the creditor's claim and the amount owed the debtor must arise from a single transaction." Objection, at ¶ 59 (citing Sommers v. Concepción, 20 S.W.3d 27, 35 (Tex. App. 2000)).

62. No overpayment has been made by the Debtor. As the Debtor admits in the Objection, "Highland and Acis appeared to perform their respective obligations under the [CLO Participation] Agreement through early November 2017." Objection at ¶ 2.

63. Nor did the Scheduled HCLOM Claims and HCMLP's alleged right to Servicer Fees arise from a single transaction. Any amounts owed to the Debtor arose under the CLO

Participation Agreement and the Scheduled HCLOM Claims arose under the Note, which was assigned to HCLOM over a year later pursuant to the Note Transfer Agreement.

64. Setoff is similarly unavailable to the Debtor. "In order for one demand to be set off against another, there must be mutuality." F.D.I.C. v. Projects American Corp., 828 S.W.2d 771, 772 (Tex. App. - Texarkana1992, writ denied). "Mutuality of demand exists where debts are owing between the same parties in the same right or capacity." Id.

65. Here there is no mutuality. HCLOM had no obligation to pay the Debtor under the Note Transfer Agreement. Any right of the Debtor to be paid is against Acis, and such claims were unequivocally released in the Acis settlement.

WHEREFORE, HCLOM respectfully requests that this Court enter an Order (i) overruling the Objection; (ii) allowing the HCLOM Scheduled Claims; and (iii) granting such other and further relief as this Court may deem equitable and proper.

INTERROGATORIES

Interrogatory No. 1:

Identify each thing of value that HCLOM provided for Highland's benefit in exchange for the transfer of the Note.

Answer to Interrogatory No. 1:

HCLOM objects to this Interrogatory to the extent is assumes that HCLOM was obligated to provide Highland anything of value in exchange for Acis transferring the Note to HCLOM. Subject to and without waiving such objection, after Highland informed Acis that it was "unwilling to continue providing support personnel and other critical services to Acis with respect to the CLOs", HCLOM irrevocably committed in the Assignment to be appointed as successor manager and then took steps to effectuate the transfer as promised.

Interrogatory No. 2:

Identify the person who negotiated the Assignment on behalf of each party thereto.

Answer to Interrogatory No. 2:

HCLOM objects to this Interrogatory to the extent that the information is more readily available to Highland. Subject to and without waiving such objection, HCLOM states that Thomas Surgent and Tim Cournoyer, current employees of Highland, drafted the terms of the Assignment and James Dondero executed the Assignment on behalf of Acis and Highland, and John Cullinane executed on behalf of HCLOM.

Interrogatory No. 3:

For each obligation or duty that You had under the Assignment, identify each one that You fulfilled.

Answer to Interrogatory No. 3:

HCLOM objects to this Interrogatory to the extent that it calls for a legal conclusion.

Interrogatory No. 4:

Identify the date on which You became the Successor Manager.

Answer to Interrogatory No. 4:

HLCOM did not become Successor Manager to the CLOs.

Interrogatory No. 5:

Identify the date on which You first began to manage any of the CLOs.

Answer to Interrogatory No. 5:

HCLOM did not manage the CLOs.

Interrogatory No. 6:

Identify all Servicer Fees that You transferred or remitted to Highland, including the amount(s) and date(s) of each transfer or remittance.

Answer to Interrogatory No. 6:

HCLOM did not transfer or remit Servicer Fees to Highland.

Interrogatory No. 7:

Identify all Ultimate Beneficial Owners at the time of the Assignment and each such owner's percentage of direct or indirect economic ownership.

Answer to Interrogatory No. 7:

HCLOM objects to this Interrogatory to the extent that Highland has better access to such information. Subject to and without waiving such objection, based on the information obtained from Highland, the Ultimate Beneficial Owners were The Dugaboy Investment Trust (75%) and Mark Okada (25%).

Interrogatory No. 8:

Identify the date that You first disclosed the existence of the Assignment to Josh Terry or his counsel (if You cannot identify the precise date, then identify the month and year when You first disclosed the existence of the Agreement to Josh Terry or his counsel).

Answer to Interrogatory No. 8:

HCLOM objects to this Interrogatory to the extent that it assumes that HCLOM was the party that first disclosed the existence of the Assignment to Josh Terry or his counsel, when in fact it was Highland who made such disclosure. After Highland made such disclosure to Josh Terry or his counsel, HCLOM no longer could "disclose" to Mr. Terry or his counsel what they already knew.

Interrogatory No. 9:

Identify all Stabilization Payments that would have been paid to Highland in 2018 and 2019 if You had become the Successor Manager and managed the CLOs in those years.

Answer to Interrogatory No. 9:

HCLOM incorporates by reference the Assignment and the Agreement for Purchase and Sale of CLO Participation Interests dated as of October 7, 2016 by and between Acis and Highland, and states that it took all actions as required by those two documents regarding Stabilization Payments, and otherwise the documents speak for themselves.

Interrogatory No. 10:

Identify each witness that You intend to call at trial in this proceeding.

Answer to Interrogatory No. 10:

Jim Dondero

Frank Waterhouse

David Klos

James Seery

MR. AIGEN: Michael Aigen from Stinson representing Highland CLO Management, Ltd.

MR. MORRIS: And John Morris, Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones. I am counsel to Highland Capital Management, LP, and I'm here to represent the witness today, David Klos.

DAVID KLOS,

having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Can you state your full name, please?

A David Kelly Klos.

Q Good morning, Mr. Klos. You've been deposed before; is that correct?

A Yes.

Q Approximately, how many times?

A A few, approximately five, plus or minus.

Q Is it fair to say that you understand the process and what's going to happen today?

A Yeah, I think generally.

Q Okay. I won't go through all of the rules and the procedure today, but a few sort of ground rules, as you just did, you understand that you need to answer the questions audibly rather than with a shake or nod of the head, correct?

A I understand. I'll -- I'll try to -- I'll try to do that.

Q And I will do my best to make my questions as clear as possible, but that will not happen sometimes. And if you don't understand a question, I would ask that you let me know that you don't understand a question; is that fair?

A That's fair.

Q Okay. And if you don't tell me that you don't understand the question, I'm going to presume that you understand the question; is that fair?

A That's fair.

Q Okay. Can you tell me, generally, how you prepared for today's deposition?

A It's a little bit broad because of -- I was part of, you know, helping work through document production, discussing with our 30(b)(6) witness, so it's hard to say how much of that bleeds into my own preparation. It's certainly a component. But, I'd -- I'd say I had several calls with -- with counsel in the lead up to this. And -- and again, some of that is kind of preparing me and some of it is more just generally, you know, getting an understanding of -- of where we are.

Q Okay. And by "counsel," are you referring to Mr. Morris?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Anyone else?

A No.

Q Okay. And by 30(b)(6) witness, you're referring to Mr. Seery?

A Yes.

Q Okay. So, other than Mr. Serry and Mr. Morris, is there anyone else that you talked to to prepare for today's deposition?

A We had several conference calls with other members of the Highland team, in addition to Mr. Serry and Mr. Morris.

Q Okay. Who would that be?
A That would be some combination, maybe not necessarily every call, but some combination of Tim Cournoyer, Matthew Gray and Thomas Surgent.
Q Not Kristin Hendrix?
A I don't believe so.
Q Did you review any documents to prepare for your deposition today?
A Yes.
Q Generally, tell me what documents you reviewed.
A Generally, I would say the -- the purchase and sale agreement from October of 2016, excuse me, the assignment -- I'm going to butcher the name of the agreement, but the assignment and transfer from early November. The -- I think it's the acknowledgment and waiver from January, and the -- the two forbearance agreements from approximately May of 2018 and May of 2019.
Q Okay. Other than agreements, did you review any e-mails --
A Yes.
Q -- in your preparation?
A Yes, I did.
Q Tell me about the e-mails that you reviewed in preparation for the deposition.

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I reviewed primarily my own in-box from -- from that time period. When I say "that time period," from call it middle part of 2016 up until really middle part of 2018, primarily. And -- and also, I think as part of our production, there were some other e-mails that were circulated that I had a chance to review.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) And what were those e-mails?

A I don't remember specifically.

Q Generally.

A E-mails that were part of our production that seemed in some way or another pertinent to -- to the -- to this matter.

Q And what topics were they related to within this matter?

A I -- I can't think of any specifically.

Q Okay. Other than e-mails and the agreements that you referenced earlier, do you remember any other types of documents that you looked at in preparation for the deposition?

A Yes, I -- I'm -- I'm sure I looked at other -- other documents that were part of our production. So, maybe CLO documents, formation documents that -- things of that nature, kind of -- those types of things.

Q Okay. Did you look at any pleadings or discovery in preparation for the deposition?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A Yes.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) All right. Tell me what you reviewed with respect to pleadings or discovery.

A I'm not sure I understand what you mean by "pleadings" and "discovery." Could you just be more specific?

Q Well, did you review any legal pleadings in preparation for today's deposition, filings in this case or the bankruptcy?

A Yes.

Q Tell me which pleadings you remember reviewing.

A I would have reviewed -- sorry, can you ask the question again?

Q Let me -- I might be a little more specific to help. For instance, there was an objection that Highland filed to the claim at issue in this case, and then there was a response by HCLOM. Are those documents that you reviewed in preparation?

A I think I reviewed those documents some time ago. I -- I don't know that I'm really sharp on those. I certainly, I think, skimmed those, but I don't -- I don't know that I have a facile, you know, feel for every -- every word in the document.

Q Any other pleadings that you remember reading in preparation for the deposition other than those?

A I reviewed my own deposition testimony in the Acis -- I think it's Acis versus Dondero matter. I reviewed trial testimony that I'd given, I think, back in 2018. Frankly, I don't recall who the exact parties were to that, but I reviewed those -- those -- those transcripts.

Q Okay. And the deposition you're referring to, that's one that was in the last couple of months?

A I believe it was March -- March, April, February, that -- that time range of '24.

Q Switching topics here a little bit. I just want to go over background very quickly. Where do you currently work?

A Highland Capital Management, LP.

Q Okay. And if I refer to that entity as "Highland" or "Highland Capital" throughout this deposition, you'll know what I'm talking about?

A Yeah. I'll assume if you refer to "Highland" or "Highland Capital," that you're referring to HCMLP or Highland Capital Management, LP. I'll use those interchangeably.

Q Okay. Thank you. Okay. What is your current position there?

A I'm the CFO and COO.

Q And generally, what are your duties and responsibilities as CFO and COO?

A It's -- it's a broad set of responsibilities, but -- but, generally, I have oversight over the accounting function for the -- the entities that are part of what I'll colloquially refer to as the bankruptcy estate. I oversee an accountant that is the internal fund accountant for the funds that we manage.

And then kind of from an operational perspective, just managing certain members of the team and dealing with what I'd call kind of routine operational issues, like, you know, contracts with some of our vendors that -- that we have, and then being -- being a -- a resource for Jim Seery, our -- our CEO.

Q And my next question was going to be, who do you report to as CFO and COO?

A Jim Seery.

Q When did you first start at Highlands?

A March of 2009.

Q Okay. And what was your position at that point?

A Senior valuation analyst.

Q And we'll move forward to sort of the relevant time period here. So, in let's say in October 2016, what was your position then?

A I'm actually not certain. I was either assistant controller or controller.

Q Okay. Is it fair to say at one point you were assistant controller and at some point you became controller at Highlands?

A That's fair.

Q Okay. Can you generally tell me what your duties were as assistant controller and controller to the extent that they differed?

A I -- I would -- I'd characterize those roles as functionally the same. My job didn't change all that much between those two roles. But, at that time, I reported to Frank Waterhouse, who was the -- the then CFO, and similarly, have a focus on the -- the corporate accounting entities, accounting for Highland Capital Management, LP, and certain other entities. I believe, at that time, I was also the -- at that point the head of valuation, so I had a small valuation department that -- that ran up to me.

Q And I think I probably misheard you. When you described Frank Waterhouse, did you say CEO or CFO?

A CFO.

Q Okay. I'm just making sure. I think I misheard. And at some point after October 2016, did your position at Highland eventually change?

A Well, notwithstanding the assistant controller, controller distinction, it -- it next changed in approximately April of 2020 when I became the chief accounting officer.

Q Okay. And how did your duties and responsibilities change at that point?

A That was a larger shift. That was really taking over the fund accounting responsibilities for both the -- what I'll refer to as the institutional funds as well as the retail funds, the 1940 Act registered funds. And taking over oversight of the operations team, maybe another department or two that I'm missing. And that was a -- a shift away from the corporate team. I was still loosely involved. I'd still attend calls occasionally, but my responsibilities shifted, and I wasn't as involved in what I'll refer to as the corporate accounting group.

Q Okay. And at some point in time Highland filed for bankruptcy; is that correct?

A Yes.

Q Do you know the approximate date of that?

A October 15th or 16th of 2019.

Q So, I just want to talk a little bit about the time period, let's say from October 2016 until the filing of the bankruptcy.

A You said '16. Did you mean --

Q Yeah.

A Oh, oh, okay, October of '16 until the filing?

Q Yeah, until the bankruptcy. Just during that time period, can you tell me did you report to Mr. Waterhouse directly during that whole time period?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And during that time period, approximately, how many people reported to you?

A Directly or indirectly?

Q Directly.

A Directly, I believe two, two or three.

Q Who were those two or three people?

A I think it was probably three. But, at -- at -- it would have been Kristin Hendrix, Sean Fox, maybe for part of it, but maybe not the whole -- the whole part. I'm just not sure. And then somebody from the valuation team. I think we might have had a few different bodies in that role. And so, I'm -- I'm not certain who it would have been at that time, but let's just call did a valuation person.

Q Okay. And who is Jim Dondero?

A Jim Dondero is the -- is -- is many things, but he is --

Q Let me rephrase that. During that time period, what was he with respect to Highlands?

A At that time, he was -- I believe he was the president of -- of -- of Highland, and -- and he was the -- the sole owner of Highland's general partner.

Q And that's Strand?

A Yeah, Strand Advisors, Inc., I believe.

Q Okay. Was he also CEO of Highland during that time period?

A I'm not sure.

Q Okay. But, you generally knew him as the president during that time period?

A I don't know that I even knew him as the president, he's -- he was -- he was -- he was the big boss.

Q And I know you told me before that you reported directly to Mr. Waterhouse during that time period. I want to just ask you generally about conversations with Mr. Dondero during that time period. So, did you report directly to Mr. Dondero at all during that time period?

A No.

Q Okay. Fair to say that you had conversations with Mr. Dondero during that time period?

A Fair.

Q Okay. At a high level, tell me what would generally be the reasons that you would talk to Mr. Dondero if you didn't directly report to him?

A The most frequent reason I would talk to Mr. Dondero was with respect to the Highland Select account, which was frequently experiencing margin calls and liquidity issues. So, part of my duties at that time, which I didn't -- didn't delve into earlier, were monitoring that -- that select portfolio. And you know, to the extent that there were margin calls or other events that would require updating Mr. Dondero, I would -- I would make those updates to him directly.

Q How often would you say you talked to Mr. Dondero in this timeframe?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A Very hard to say, because it wasn't -- it wasn't a standing weekly meeting or something like that, so I might talk to him, you know, eight times in a week, and then I might not talk to him for three weeks kind of -- kind of thing.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) And you worked in the same office; is that correct?

A That's correct.

Q Changing topics a little bit here. Are you familiar with a company called Acis Capital Management, LP?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And if I refer to that as "Acis," will that work for you?

A That will be fine.

Q Can you tell me what Acis is?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A Acis is a -- well, I don't know what it is right now, but --

MR. MORRIS: That's my objection.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Intentionally vague question.

A Could you just restate that for me?

Q Let's start to the beginning, then. Do you know approximately when Acis was formed?

A Approximately, 2010 or 2011.

Q Do you know why it was formed?

A My understanding is that it was set up really as a compensation vehicle for Josh Terry.

Q Why was a compensation vehicle needed for Josh Terry?

A I don't know.

Q And who is Josh Terry?

A Josh Terry is a former Highland employee. He was -- had various roles, but he was the -- the -- I think of him as the head of structured products for a time, that's Highland's CLO business.

Q Okay.

A And he was a senior -- senior employee, and I believe at some point he was a partner at Highland as well.

Q Okay. And -- and I apologize, but you are the first person I'm deposing in this case, so you have to go through some background questions. You used the term "CLO" before. Can you explain what a CLO is?

A Sure. CLO stands for Collateralized Loan Obligation. It's a investment vehicle where the CLO borrows a significant amount of money. And that borrowing is divided up into several tranches. It uses that money to invest in loans, hence, the name collateralized loan obligation.

And the -- the idea behind a CLO is that those -- those loans that are purchased, are going to be accruing more interest than the -- than the debt that has been borrowed. And -- and as a result, overtime, the -- the debt holders will all be paid back and then there will be a healthy return to the residual equity holders, who also put up money at the outset of the deal.

Q Okay. What connection, if any, did -- did Acis have with the CLO industry?

A So, Acis was a -- was the -- the named CLO manager. Again, I'm not sure if that's the exact -- might be the portfolio manager, collateral manager, something along those lines. So, Acis would serve as the -- as the manager of those CLOs, making recommendations and purchasing loans on behalf of those CLOs.

Q Okay. And when I originally asked about Acis, I believe the term you used was it was -- it was set up as a compensation vehicle. Can you tell me about how it either turned from a compensation vehicle into a CLO manager or how those two sort of acted together?

A Sure. So, Highland Cap -- Highland, Highland Capital Management, LP, had previously issued CLOs pre-financial crisis. Post financial crisis, it's my understanding that the -- the market for new CLOs was slow to recover. Obviously, this was an area that was hit hard by the crisis. And so, post crisis, new CLOs were going to be launched under the -- the Acis brand. And so, Acis's mandate was to launch new CLOs, and -- and it -- it did that starting around 2013, really with its -- with its first one.

That being said, Acis didn't have employees of its own. So it -- it was really the people of Highland that were providing the services to the CLOs, but there were -- there were contracts in place between Acis and Highland to compensate Highland for the services it was providing with respect to those CLOs.

Q Between the time Acis was formed, and I believe you said 2010, 2011 period, and when it started managing CLOs in 2013, did it do anything?

A It -- yes, it -- there was a CLO that wasn't actually launched by Acis, but it was basically -- I'll be imprecise here. It was essentially acquired by Acis. It was a CLO called Hewett's Island that had been previously managed by another CLO manager. So, Acis stepped in to the management shoes of -- as the portfolio manager for that CLO, and then it launched its first -- Acis launched its first CLO in 2013.

Q When Acis was first formed, are you aware of who owned it?

A Generally, yes.

Q Who?

A I would refer to the limited partnership agreement from that time, but I believe the founding partner group was -- was the Dugaboy Investment Trust, Mark Okada, in his individual capacity, and Josh Terry.

Q Do you know whether the ownership of Acis ever changed?
A I believe it did.
Q Okay. And at some point Acis was in bankruptcy; is that correct?
A Yes.
Q Okay. For now I just want to talk about pre-bankruptcy.
A Sure.
Q So, prior to the bankruptcy, can you tell me if you have any knowledge of how the ownership structure of Acis changed?
A The only change I'm aware of -- and I don't honestly know the -- whether it was effective or exactly what happened in the -- in the time period. But, after Josh Terry terminated at Highland, the -- he -- he was dropped as -- from the founding partner group of Acis. So, you know, the -- the ownership of Acis became just Dugaboy -- the Dugaboy Investment Trust and -- and Mark Okada.
Q Okay. And prior to the Acis bankruptcy, you're not aware of any other changes to the Acis ownership structure; is that correct?
A None that I can think of.
Q What's your understanding as to who controlled

Acis prior to the Acis bankruptcy?

A Jim Dondero.

Q And what was his connection to Acis?

A He was -- I'm not -- I'm not -- I'm not certain from a legal perspective.

Q Do you know whether he had any formal relationship or connection to Acis?

A I -- I believe he did. I -- I believe he was an officer of Acis's general partner.

Q And my next question was going to be, do you know who any of the officers of Acis were prior to the bankruptcy?

A Prior to the bankruptcy, I know there were officers of the general partner. I know Jim Dondero was one of those. I believe Frank Waterhouse was another. After that, I'm not sure.

Q Okay. To your understanding, though, that from the formation of Acis, at least until the Acis bankruptcy, that Acis was controlled by Mr. Dondero; is that correct?

A Yes.

Q Is there anyone else that controlled Acis, other than Mr. Dondero during that time period?

A I would -- I think you could argue that in some ways Josh Terry controlled from the standpoint that he was the portfolio manager of various Acis deals. I mean, ultimately, the buck stopped with Jim Dondero, but he did -- Josh Terry exercised I -- I suppose a modicum of control.

Q Was he an officer of Acis?

A I believe he was, but I'm not certain.

Q Okay.

A Don't know.

Q And you said -- I apologize if I'm misquoting you here. But, that it was set up as a compensation vehicle for Mr. Terry. Is that unusual to have a whole entity set up as a compensation vehicle for one individual in Highlands?

A No, not entirely.

Q Okay. Can you just give me a little context as to why a compensation vehicle was set up for Mr. Terry?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I believe it was set up to effectively incentivize him to -- to grow the CLO business and -- and launch new CLOs. So, there was -- there -- there would be a relationship between his ability to get CLOs launched and how much he would get paid, you know, via -- via his partnership interest.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. Narrow down the timeframe here a little bit. I just want to talk about the -- I guess what we would say the relevant time period to this case, starting October 2016, let's say until the Highland bankruptcy in 2019. What was Highland's relationship with Acis?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question. You can answer.

A As a -- Highland was a contractual counter-party to shared services and sub-advisory agreements. Highland made one or more loans to Acis during that time period. And Highland had a, you know, relationship via the participation agreement and note from October of 2016.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. Did Highland ever have any ownership interest in Acis?

A No.

Q Okay. And two of the agreements you mentioned before, a shared service agreement and a sub-advisory agreement, let's talk about the shared services agreement first. Can you tell me just generally what the purpose of the shared service agreement was between Highland and Acis?

A Yes. Generally, shared services agreement is for provision of back and middle office services. So, that's things like accounting, tax, IT, kind of behind the scenes type -- type roles that are, you know, nevertheless integral to -- to an investment advisor.

Q And then the sub-advisory agreement, what's the purpose of the sub-advisory agreement between Highland and Acis?

A So, that is for the provision of what I would colloquially refer to as front office services, so investment advice.

Q And you mentioned before -- sorry. When I asked you about the relationship, you mentioned that it was a lender and then you also mentioned the note that we're going to discuss today that's at issue here. And we'll get into the note that's at issue in this litigation. But, other than that note, are you aware of any other loans or lending relationship between Highland and Acis?

A I'm -- I'm certain that Highland loaned Acis funds in April of 2017.

Q And that was pursuant to a written note; is that correct?

A I'm not certain, but I believe it was a promissory note.

Q Other than that promissory note, are you aware of any other loans, other than that note and the one at issue in this case?

A None that I can think of off the top of my head, but not precluding the possibility that one could have existed.

Q And I don't need to get into details on it. But, do you know generally why the loan was made from Highland to Acis in April of 2017?

A Yes, it was made to Acis to enable Acis to be able to effectively seed or provide equity capital to launch a CLO that was called -- again, I'm going -- I'm going to butcher the name, but Acis 2017-7.

Q Okay. And is that generally referred to as Acis 7?

A Yes.

Q And did Acis ever have any employees?

A No. Let me clarify that. It -- it may have nominally had dual employees like that technically were a dual employee of Acis and Highland. But, in terms of who paid their paycheck, it was always Highland.

Q And were these employees of Highland that did work for Acis? Was that work done through the two agreements you discussed before, the shared services agreement and the sub-advisory agreement?

A Sorry. Can you just repeat that again? I just -- I kind of missed it.

Q So, Highland was providing employees to do work for Acis; is that correct?

A Yes.

Q And I assume at least some of those employees were doing that work as part of the shared services agreement and the sub-advisory agreement; is that correct?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A Yes. But, with the qualifier that -- I don't know how many people at Highland even knew of the existence of shared services and sub-advisory, so people were doing what their direct report asked them to do. So, I don't know that people were caught up in the distinction of is this a Highland thing or is this an Acis thing. They're -- people are just doing their jobs.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Fair enough. Do you have an understanding as to whether all the work that Highland employees were doing for Acis, was that pursuant to those two agreements or was there work outside of those two agreements?

A I -- I just don't know.

Q Okay. Approximately, how many employees of Highland did work for Acis?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I don't know that I could answer that. It's -- it's too -- it's -- it's too squishy. When you say "work for Acis," it's -- I think under the broadest definition, it could be a huge number. And on a very narrow definition, it could be a small number.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. Let's start with a narrow definition, or I'll try to narrow or define it a bit. How many employees of Highland did what you would term significant work for Acis?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A Could you clarify time period?

Q (By Mr. Aigen) And I'll be able to rephrase that. Again, I'm -- I'm talking about -- let's talk about the -- the -- the period from October 2016 on to the Highland bankruptcy. Can you tell me who the -- what Highland employees did the most work for Acis?

A The -- the type of employees that did the most work were the -- the credit research team at Highland, which I would guess was somewhere between -- I'm setting a wide goal post here, but probably between five and 20 people. The structured products team, which is a smaller team consisting of, call it, two to four people, that was really the thrust of the investment side of the equation.

On the back office side, you could have as many as -- you could probably argue as many as 30 or 40 people spending some time. I don't think you would have people spending the majority of their time, maybe some of the operations people that are just closing, settling loans. But, it would really -- it would be -- it's a really hard question to answer on the back office side, because -- because they're -- they're providing services to a large number of entities in the complex and this is one of many.

Q Okay. Would you say Mr. Terry did the majority of his work with respect to Acis during this time period?

A I would say probably the majority, not -- not the entirety.

Q Yeah. Is there anyone else at Highland that you think during that time period was spending the majority of their time with respect to Acis work?

A I would say Hunter Covitz, and then I don't recall the exact time period when -- when people would come and go. But, there were -- there was at least one other person at various times in that structured products group that was in my opinion probably mostly focused on Acis.

Q And that structured product team that you said there were two to four people in, does that include Mr. Covitz an Mr. Terry?

A Yes.

Q And who else had worked on that team?

A I don't know the -- the exact time period. It's hard to remember when people were coming and going, but there was -- there was an individual named Alexey Dronov who worked on that team.

Q Can you spell the last name?

A It's D -- excuse me, D R O N O V, I believe, Russian. And then there was an individual named Neil Desai, D E S A I. Those are the two that stand out to me. Oh, you know, there was another individual named David Owens.

Q Can you generally explain how Acis made money?

A Acis made money pursuant to -- again, using the term loosely, management agreements with -- with the CLOs, so it would provide the advisory services to the CLO and collect a fee pursuant to portfolio management agreements and the indentures of the applicable CLOs.

Q Okay. Other than collecting management fees from CLOs, did Acis make any money in any other way that you're aware of?

A It -- Acis also managed -- it -- it generated most of its revenue via CLOs. It was also the manager of a small hedge fund. It was also the manager of a -- a separate account, at least one separate account, where the strategy was -- was basically trading CLO paper -- third-party CLO paper for -- for an investor who -- that was the mandate.

Q Do you have an approximate amount or percentage as to what the revenue for Acis was for these non-CLO type businesses?

A Certainly less than half. I would -- hard to say, it's going to ebb and flow with time a little bit, but I would -- I would venture to guess probably somewhere in the 10 to 25 percent range.

Q And I'll narrow down the timeframe as needed. But, generally, how much money did -- how much revenue did Acis make a year?

A I need you to narrow down the time period, because it was -- that was a changing number.

Q Okay. You said it started -- well, when did it start bringing in revenue, 2013?

A No, it started earning revenue in, I believe, 2011. It might have been 2010 with that -- with that Hewett's Island CLO.

Q Between 2010 and 2016, just generally at a high level, can you tell me how much revenue Acis was making?

A It would have ramped from somewhere in the hundred thousand or hundreds of thousands range, all the way up to 2016, north of $10 million. I don't know that that -- I don't know that that was a straight stair-step, but that's -- that's where it ended up. And it would have been more than 10 -- more than 10, less than 20.

Q Okay. Narrowing down the time period a little, let's talk again from what I'll call sort of the relevant time period for today, from October 2016 until the Acis bankruptcy in January of 2018. Roughly, what revenues was Acis bringing in during that time period?

A Sorry. Can you give me the start?

Q And just to put it into context, we'll get into the relevant agreements that you talked about earlier. But, you're aware that one of the issues in this case are a promissory note that was entered into October of 2016. Does that sound right?

A Yes.

Q So, I'm using that as sort of the start to the relevant timeframe today.

A Okay.

Q So, around that timeframe, October 2016 to the Acis bankruptcy, can you tell me what sort of revenues Acis was making?

A I don't know with specificity. But, in that timeframe, it would have been -- I would -- I believe it was somewhere in the 10 to $15 million range, annualized.

Q Do you have any understanding as to when that money came into Acis? Was it then -- what was done with it? Was it distributed to owners, used for expenses?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A From October of '16 to 2018, the -- the three main uses of funds that it received would have been paying Highland -- Highland Capital Management, LP, sub-advisory fees, paying Highland Capital Management, LP, shared services fees, and making payments pursuant to the -- I'll call it the participation agreement from October of 2016. There would have been other uses, but those would be -- I -- I would expect that those would be the three biggest buckets.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) And I don't think I asked you this. But, generally, what was your role with respect to Acis in, let's say, the October '16 through 2018 timeframe?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A So, at that time -- again, whether I was the assistant controller or the controller, notwithstanding, there were a number of affiliate advisors that my group did the accounting for. So, my group, being Kristin Hendrix, who reported directly to me, and then, you know, more of a junior accountant and an AP person. And those individuals would, you know, support us -- a large swath of different entities, Acis being one of those, and that -- that group, you know, rolled up to me who rolled up to Frank. And so, you know, I would be involved in, you know, basically overseeing Kristin and her team's work and closing -- you know, closing financials and -- and doing the accounting for those entities tease.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) And at some point Acis was filed into bankruptcy; is that correct?

A That's correct. You know, the mechanics of how it was filed, but Acis was -- was in bankruptcy at some point, yes.

Q Do you know why it was put into bankruptcy?

A I believe there was an involuntary, you know, petition by Mr. Terry in late January of 2018.

Q Did you have any knowledge that Acis would be filed into bankruptcy prior to the actual filing?

A No.

Q It's not anything that you discussed with anyone prior to the bankruptcy?

A Not that I remember.

Q So, you just discussed with me sort of your role with respect to Acis. Once Acis was filed into bankruptcy, is it fair to say that your role changed with respect to Acis?

A In some ways, yes, and in some ways, no.

Q During that period, once Acis was in bankruptcy, can you generally describe for me what role you had, if any, with respect to Acis?

A Well, for one, I was -- I was, I guess, called on to assist in the preparation of things like SOFAs and schedules and -- basically, I had a lot more touch points with legal than I've had previously had. So, when there were questions, I -- I don't know that I necessarily had a great picture of what was going on. But, when -- but, I was getting a lot more, you know, questions and giving more assistance to our legal department, who was coming to me with -- with -- with questions, that would have been I'd say the biggest change.

Q And in October of 2019, Highland filed for bankruptcy; is that correct?

A Yes.

Q Okay. So, I want to generally just ask you about the time period. After the Highland bankruptcy, can you just tell me generally what work you did with respect to Acis?

A With respect to Acis, after 2019, after Highland filed?

Q Uh-huh.

A I didn't do any work for Acis. Acis was under different control.

Q If I said "for Acis," I apologize. I meant related to Acis.

A Related to Acis, okay. Related to Acis, I -- I don't really remember. I'm -- I'm sure I might have gotten inquiries from legal from time to time, but fairly minimal.

Q Okay.

MR. MORRIS: What's that airport out there?

MR. AIGEN: Love.

THE WITNESS: Love Field.

A And I should -- should clarify that I've been -- I was called as a witness in a 30(b)(6) witness in the Acis versus -- I think it's Acis versus Dondero, litigation that seems to be going on. And so, again, that seems to be a touch point that comes up from time to time. The specifics of which I -- it's just too much of a blur.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. And let me -- so, you did some work with respect to the Acis verse Dondero lawsuit that you just talked about, and you've done some work related to the claims at issue today.

A Yes.

Q Related -- and that relates to Acis to some degree; is that correct?

A Yes.

Q Other than that, since the Highland bankruptcy, do you have any recollection of doing any other work related to Acis?

A The only other thing I can think of off the top of my head, and maybe I've done other things, but it would be kind of ministerial type work. I know there have been -- there have been exceptionally minor questions that have come up in one capacity or another that -- I couldn't get -- I couldn't tell you the specifics, other than that they're not consequential.

Q A couple of follow-up questions on the -- the two agreements we talked about before, the shared service agreement and the sub-advisory agreement. Let's start with the shared services agreement. Were you involved at all with the negotiation or execution of that agreement?

A I -- well --

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A That -- the shared services agreement had several amendments. So, which -- which agreement are we talking about?

Q (By Mr. Aigen) The original one.

A I -- I don't recall having any involvement in that one.

Q Do you recall having any involvement with any of the amendments or restatements of the shared services agreement?

A Not significant involvement. I might have -- I might have reviewed them prior to execution, but certainly not involved in the negotiation or the terms.

Q Who would have been involved with that, with respect to the original shared services agreement?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I -- I have no personal knowledge, but I would assume it would be some combination of Mr. Dondero, Mr. Terry and Mr. Okada.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. And what about for the restatements or amendments of that agreement, same people?

A Same answer. And again, I don't have any specific recollection or -- of that.

Q Okay. Okay. And with respect to the sub-advisory agreement, did you have any role with respect to the negotiation of that agreement?

A Same answer.

Q Okay. And were the same people involved with that one?

A Yes, I -- I assume. Again, I don't -- I don't know, but I -- I assume so.

(Exhibit 1 marked.)

MR. AIGEN: We can cover that up. It will just get confusing later.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) I've handed you what's been marked as Exhibit 1. You can flip through that. And my first question is going to be hopefully an easy one, just do you recognize this document?

A I believe so.

Q Okay. Can you identify this document for the record, please?

A This -- this appears to be the Agreement for Purchase and Sale of CLO Participation Interests, whereby, you know, Acis sold a stream of fees in exchange for cash on the note.

Q Okay. And is this the agreement you referred to before when you said you were going to sort of mess up the name?

A I don't know, maybe, maybe.

Q That's all right. If you turn to -- toward the back, I guess the second to the last page, there's a couple of signatures on that. Do you recognize those signatures?

A Just so we're clear, I'm at the bottom. I'm on R018138?

Q Correct.

A Okay. Yeah, I recognize those signatures.

Q Whose signatures are those?

A That's Jim Dondero's.

Q Okay. And when I asked you if you recognized this, it sounded like you weren't completely sure, and I -- so, I just want to pin this down. Was this one of the agreements that you reviewed in preparation for the deposition?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And I know you didn't read through this word for word. But, is there some reason you might be hesitant about whether this is the same document?

A No, no particular reason.

Q Okay. If you look at the top of the first -- well, actually let me ask you a different question. It does have this rather cumbersome name here. Do you have a certain term or a certain name for this document that you usually use? I want to make sure we are using the same terminology here.

A I would probably most often refer to this as the participation agreement.

Q I will try to use that term. Is it your understanding that the participation agreement was entered on or about October 7th, 2017?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And are you familiar with this agreement?

A Generally familiar.

Q Okay. And I know you said you reviewed it in preparation for this deposition. Had you seen it before that?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Would you have seen it on or about October 7th, 2016 or in that timeframe?

A Yes. Yeah, on or around that time.

Q Or, you're familiar with this document in 2016 and 2017?

A Generally, yeah.

Q Okay. And I know you touched on this, so I apologize for asking again. But, what was the purpose of this document?

A So, this -- this document -- the purpose of it was for Acis to take effectively a portion of their revenue and give it to Highland, for lack of a better word. And in consideration, Acis was going to receive up front cash as well as a note.

Q And how much was the up front cash? And let me -- I don't want to make this a guessing game for you. Let's point -- go to Page 2 and look at the bottom, that may help a little bit. And let me ask you --

A Yep. Yes. So, the up-front cash for -- for all of the -- for all of the religious folks out there, sorry, but the -- the original up front cash was 666,655.

Q And the note you referenced before, was that in the 12,666,446 amount referenced right below that?

A Yes, that's -- that's the -- the original face of the note. Should have known we'd been -- we'd -- we'd be here later with all those sixes.

Q Do you have any understanding as to who negotiated this agreement?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I -- I don't know whether this was really negotiated in the first place.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. Can you -- let's take a step back then. Can you give me the context as to how this agreement was entered into? Whose idea it was?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I believe the idea for this agreement originated with an individual named Mark Patrick, who was a tax -- tax attorney. This was a transaction that I think he had been kicking for awhile. And you know, I think he was the main -- main driver in terms of being able to sell Jim Dondero on the benefits of entering into the transaction.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Do you recall whether you had any conversations with Mr. Patrick at or around the time this agreement was entered into?

A I'm sure I did.

Q Okay. So, if I ask you what your basis was, that it was Mr. Patrick who came up with this idea, it would be through firsthand experience you had in conversations with Mr. Patrick?

A Firsthand experience as well as, you know, review of some of our document production.

Q If the agreement was entered into -- the date on it is October 7th, 2016. Do you have any idea how long before that, the idea for this agreement first came up?

A I think the idea for this agreement was probably first quarter of 2016, not certain, but --

Q Okay. So, during that time period, I want to talk a little bit about the idea when it first came up, which I know you're not certain, but let's say first quarter of 2016 until the time the agreement was entered into, can you tell me generally who worked on the preparation of this agreement?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I don't know how much work was done from -- first of all, I don't know when the idea popped into someone's head, so it's hard to put a start date on that. But, in terms of the -- what I would call the -- the -- the harder work or the -- the work to bring it to fruition, it would have been in the August -- maybe as early as August, September and early October timeframe would have been the lion share of the work.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) And who was working on it at that time period?

A Mainly, Mark Patrick, outside counsel, which I believe was Hunton & Williams, and I don't know the extent to which the Highland legal team might have been involved in drafting. They may have, I'm not certain.

And then I would have been involved from the standpoint of kind of putting together some of the numbers in the back.

Q You say "in the back," are you referring to Schedule A?

A No, no, and thank you for clarifying that.

Q Let me ask you a different question, maybe get into this. What work did you do related to this agreement prior to it be being entered into?

A So, yes -- so -- so, I had an understanding that -- of the basic mechanic transaction, which was going to be a portion of the fees in exchange for cash and a note. So, that the main exercise that -- that I did was reach out to -- I think it was Hunter Covitz. I'm not certain, but I believe it was Hunter Covitz, with respect to a projection of the fees that would be coming off of the various Acis CLOs over a discreet period of time. And then compiling that information and, you know, assessing how much -- how much cash we were expecting to come in during that time on those fees.

Q Okay. This agreement where -- to use your words, it was an exchange of fees in exchange for a note, is that a structure type of agreement that Highland had done with other companies prior to this timeframe?

A Hard -- hard to answer. The notion of seller financing, which is effectively what this -- what this was, was certainly something I had seen from time to time. I don't know if I'd seen it exactly like this. But, the idea of, you know, cash -- cash plus a note in exchange for something, I'd seen that before.

Q Let me narrow it down a little bit. You said that the purpose of this was more Mark Patrick was doing it for some sort of tax reason; is that correct?

A That's my understanding.

Q If I narrow down the previous question to have you seen another situation where Highland for tax reasons created a similar structure, did that happen?

A Yes.

Q At a high level, tell me about that.

A There was a similar -- a very similar transaction to -- to this one. I don't know the time period. It was -- that was a long time ago, maybe 2012, 2013, 2014-ish, where similar -- similar structure but with Highland as the seller, and with an entity owner -- I'm not sure if it was owned or controlled, but an entity related to Mark Okada as the buyer.

Q Do you remember the name of that entity?

A I'm not certain.

Q Did you do any work related to that transaction?

A Similar. Getting a -- getting a fee projection from the CLO team and putting it into a spreadsheet.

Q This was also related to a CLO?

A Many CLOs, but these were CLOs that were managed by Highland.

Q And I don't really need to get into that transaction. But, can you just tell me what happened with it? Was the note eventually paid off or --

A Yeah, that -- that transaction was -- I don't know how to put it other than it kind of went the way that it was expected to go, which Highland -- Highland earned fees, turn the fees over, Okada had -- or Okada's entity had notes that it needed to pay, paid the notes with interest and, you know, everyone moved on.

Q Okay. Do you know approximately when everyone moved -- what year we're talking about?

A I'm not sure.

Q After October 2016?

A No, no, before, that transaction was -- was prior to this one.

Q Okay. You mentioned Hunton Williams before. Do you remember which lawyers there provided tax advice related to this transaction?

A The one that I recall specifically was Alex McGeoch. I don't know how to say his last name.

Q Do you know how to spell it?

A McGeoch, I think it's M C capital G E O C H.

Q We'll refer to him as "Alex" for purposes of today.

A Sounds good.

MR. MORRIS: You can find it on page --

MR. AIGEN: Oh, yeah, that's right.

MR. MORRIS: -- ending in Bates No. 18134, it's capital M, lower case C, capital G, E O C H.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) And for the record, the witness spelled it correctly.

A Get a lollipop.

Q Are you aware of any other lawyers, other than Alex, that provided tax advice on this transaction?

A Not specifically, but I'm sure he had help on that transaction.

Q Did you have conversations with any of the Hunton lawyers related to this transaction?

A I may have, but I'm not certain.

Q Okay. You have no recollection of any conversations with Hunton lawyers regarding this transaction?

A Not specifically, no.

Q Okay. Would Mr. Patrick have conferred with the tax lawyers at Hunton regarding this transaction?

A Yes, I think he would have been the primary point of contact.

Q Okay. Anyone else at Highland that you can think of that would have been talking with the Hunton lawyers?

A It's speculation, but potentially someone from the legal team at Highland, you know, looking at the document.

Q Okay. I was going to make an -- an assumption, but let me just ask the question. Are you -- do you consider yourself to be an expert on taxes?

A No, no, no, I don't.

Q All right. I recognize that you're not telling me you're expert on taxes. But, at a high level, do you have an understanding as to what the potential tax benefits were that they were trying to get as a result of this transaction?

A Yes, I have a general understanding.

Q Okay. Give me your general understanding as to what the tax benefits were that the parties were trying to achieve from this transaction.

A So, the -- the tax benefits wouldn't accrue to the parties themselves, because the parties themselves are pass-throughs, but it would -- it would accrue to their -- you know, someone up the ownership chain. But, the -- the -- the transaction was really a ordinary to capital gain treatment, and so basically turning fees that are ordinary income taxed at the -- at the ordinary rate, which at the time would have been, I think, high 30s percent, not certain if that's exactly right. And converting that to capital gain treatment, which at the time would have been low 20s percent.

Q Okay. And do you happen to have any understanding as to how it converted ordinary to capital gains?

A A very general understanding.

Q Give me your high level general understanding.

A So, basically turning -- turning the fee stream into almost a capital asset that can be bought or sold. And so, the -- with the sale of proceeds, not really having any basis in the -- like tax basis in the -- in the fees, but being able to sell a future fee stream for a dollar amount. And then as you receive the proceeds from that sale, treating it as a capital asset that will get capital gain treatment for tax purposes.

Q Okay. Did you specifically at that time have an understanding that this would provide a better tax treatment, or were you relying on other people to provide those sort of conclusions?

A That's what I -- that's what I heard, that's what I understood. I don't know that I independently knew that, but that's -- that's certainly my -- was my understanding at the time.

Q Okay. And when you mentioned before that the tax benefit would flow to the owners, were we talking about -- well, let me take a step back.

Who are the parties to this Exhibit 1 participation agreement?

A The parties are Acis Capital Management, LP, as seller, and Highland Capital Management, LP, as purchaser.

Q Okay. So, when you stated before that the tax benefits would flow to the owners, were you talking about the owners of Acis, Highland or both?

A This was targeted for the owners of Acis.

Q Okay. Let me try to get the other side out of the way then. Are you aware of any tax benefits that were intended to Highland or its owners as a result of the transactional in Exhibit 1?

A Not specifically, no.

Q Okay. So, with respect to the benefits to Acis or the intended benefits as a result of this agreement, it's fair to say that that tax benefit was supposed to go to Acis's owners, not Acis itself?

A Maybe splitting hairs a little bit. The -- the -- the capital gain would be recorded at -- at Acis Capital Management and then passed through to its owners.

Q Okay. And at the time this was entered into, who do you believe the owners were of Acis that would be potentially receiving this tax benefit?

A It would have been Dugaboy and Okada. And I should clarify, I believe that was the intent. I don't know if that's actually what happened, but I -- I believe that was the intent.

Q Well, let's close out on that then. Are you aware of whether any of these intended tax benefits were actually received?

A I believe they were with respect to tax year 2016. After that point, I -- I don't know.

Q Is there any particular reason why you knew for 2016 but not after that period?

A Yes.

Q Why?

A Because I've -- I've had a chance to review the tax return for Acis for 2016 and see that they took the treatment that I expected them to take. And then after that point, for 2017 and 2018, I just don't have access to that information.

Q When did you review these tax documents?

A At some point in preparation for either producing materials or my own deposition, however you want to --

Q Within the last six months?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Do you know whether those tax documents were produced in this case?

A I believe they were.

Q Okay. Do you know why you didn't review the '17 and '18 tax returns?

A Because Highland wasn't in control of Acis anymore.

Q Do you know whether those tax documents exist?

A I don't know. I presume they do.

Q Prior to Exhibit 1 being entered into, can you tell me who you had conversations with about the potential tax benefits related to the agreement?

A I don't have a specific recollection. My -- my assumption would -- would have been that it would have been Mark Patrick and Frank.

Q Okay. You don't remember having any conversations with Dondero about tax benefits with respect to this transaction prior to it being entered into?

A Not specifically, it's possible that I did, but I don't -- I don't have a recollection.

Q And when I asked those questions, I was asking about prior to the agreement. Let me just ask to sort of finish that line of questioning. After the agreement when Exhibit 1 was entered into, did you have any discussions with anyone about the intended tax benefits of this transaction?

A And what's the time period?

Q Let's go from 2016 until Highland stopped having any control of Acis.

A So, to put a finer point on that, Highland didn't have any control over Acis at some point in 2018, middle -- middle part of 2018. I'm sure -- actually, I'm not sure. I -- it's -- it's very possible that I would have had discussions with people that were part of the Acis, Terry litigation team, people from our -- our -- Highland's internal legal and litigation team, very possible. I don't have a specific recollection of it, though.

Q Okay. Have you ever had any conversations about the tax benefits of this transaction with Mr. Dondero?

A It's possible, but I don't have a recollection.

Q Okay. When I asked you who you talked to about the tax benefits, you told me Mr. Patrick and Mr. Waterhouse. So, at a high level, can you generally tell me what conversation you had with them about the tax benefits of this transaction?

A No, because I don't remember the specifics of that -- that conversation or those conversations. I just -- and I don't know that I had them, but I presume that I did.

Q Okay. Well, why do you presume that you did?

A Well, for -- for one, with -- with Mr. Patrick, that -- there certainly would have been a conversation in order to, you know, model the cash flows with -- you know, requesting the cash flows from Hunter Covitz. So, someone would have had to have told me to do that. And then Frank was my boss at the time, so I'm -- I'm certain I would have at the very least kept him in the loop on something like that, or -- or alternatively, just it would have come up in natural discussion.

Q Prior to the agreement being entered into, do you know whether you had any conversations with anyone about whether -- in order for the tax benefits to be obtained, the payments on the note needed to be de-linked from the payments of the fees?

A Not a specific recollection.

Q And you say not specific, so following up on that, generally, do you remember discussing that with anyone prior to the transaction?

A I -- I always -- my impression was always that they were -- that they were linked. This is a very circular transaction happening over a three-year period where money was going to slosh from one side to the other, back to the other and so forth. And at the end, there wasn't really going to be anything -- there -- there's -- the pie has not been made bigger or smaller from this transaction, but there have been created tax benefits. So, I -- I -- I think I had that understanding.

Q And I know you used the word "linked" after I did, but I want to make sure we're kind of using the same terminology. When you say that your understanding was that the payments would be linked, what do you mean by that?

A That the consideration for the fees was -- was the note, and the consideration for the note was the fees. So, if, you know, Acis had obligation to turnover the fees, Highland -- and if -- and if that was -- and if that was completed, then Highland would be paying on the note. And so, they were -- I don't know how to use a word other than "linked." They were always linked in my mind.

It's just a -- it's just a timing issue, really, because you have -- you have one that's paying four times a year versus another that's paying one time a year. And other than that, it's really just money kind of switching bank accounts.

Q Okay. So, prior to the transaction being entered -- entered into, you never had any conversations with anyone about the fact that the payments needed to be de-linked in order to get the tax incentives or advantages; is that correct?

A I -- I don't have any recollection of that.

Q Okay. And I asked you about prior to the agreement. Since the agreement was entered into, are you -- did you ever have any conversations with anyone about the idea that the payments needed to be de-linked in order to obtain tax advantages?

A It's possible, but I don't remember.

Q Okay. You stated before that you had an understanding that the payments were linked; is that correct?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Other than the words in the agreement, is that understanding coming from anywhere else?

A I -- I suppose intuition or just -- it's kind of -- it's kind of obvious on its face that no one entered into this if they didn't have certainty that the other party is going to perform.

Q So, you never had any conversations with anyone about whether the payments needed to be linked or de-linked in order to obtain tax advantages?

A I don't have a specific recollection.

Q And again, just to follow-up, you said "specific." Generally, do you remember having any conversations on that topic?

A I -- I don't -- no, I don't recall any. But -- but, I wouldn't foreclose on the possibility that I did, you know.

Q And I know you're not a tax expert. But, sitting here today, do you have an understanding as to whether the payments needed to be linked or de-linked in order to obtain a tax advantage?

A I don't have a, I suppose, an expert opinion. I have, again, an intuition that they don't -- or that they -- that they don't need to be.

Q That's your --

A I -- I might have said that -- that wrong. I -- I -- I should stop talking.

Q Let -- let me try to rephrase that.

A Yeah.

Q Is it your understanding that the payments did not need to be de-linked in order to obtain the intended tax advantages of this plan?

A Sorry, I -- that was like a triple negative. I --

Q Sorry. Is it your understanding that the payments did not need to be linked in order to obtain the tax advantages that were intended by this plan?

A I don't know that I had a specific understanding of the -- the tax treatment.

Q And that's all I'm trying to get at is whether you have any understanding on that, do you?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Let me rephrase. Let me rephrase. At the time the transaction was entered into, do you believe that you had an understanding as to whether the payments needed to be linked or de-linked to achieve the tax advantages?

A I'm not sure.

Q Okay. Sitting here today, do you have an understanding as to whether the payments needed to be linked or de-linked to achieve the tax advantages?

A Yeah, I don't know that I have a great understanding.

Q Okay. And again, you said not "a great understanding," do you have any understanding?

A We're -- we're -- we're kind of splitting hairs, I -- I -- no.

Q Okay. And I don't want to get into conversations you had with counsel here today. But, other than conversations with counsel, do you remember having any conversations with anyone about whether the payments needed to be de-linked or linked in order to obtain tax advantages?

A I don't think so.

Q Okay. If Mr. Waterhouse testified yesterday that he was involved with discussions with Mr. Dondero about the de-linking or linking topic, would you have any reason to agree or disagree that those conversations occurred?

A I don't have any personal knowledge to know whether they did or did not.

Q Okay. Fair to say, you weren't involved in any of those discussions; is that correct?

A Most likely, but it's possible. I -- I don't know.

Q You can finish. Sorry.

A No, that was it.

Q And you don't remember anyone telling you about any conversations that Mr. Dondero had with respect to whether payments needed to be linked or de-linked; is that correct?

A No, no specific recollection.

Q And I know you touched on this, but going back to the agreement, what's your understanding as to what obligations Acis had under the agreement?

A My basic understanding -- and then I would certainly, you know, refer back to the document, that's -- that's going to be the -- the -- the real answer. But, my understanding was that in a very general sense, they had the obligation to turnover the fees as they were -- as described in the agreement. So, when they received fees, you -- you turnover whatever you're supposed to turnover.

Q Okay. And when you say "fees," what type of fees are you talking about?

A Management fee -- management fees, I think they're referred to as servicing fees. I'm kind of using those interchangeably, but fee revenue that's being earned from the subject CLOs.

Q Yeah.

A And a portion of it -- it wasn't the entire -- the entire fee but a portion of each of those fees.

Q And the -- the portion that was supposed to be turned over is reflected on Schedule A; is that correct?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And again, this is just a terminology question. I have seen fees referred to as servicing fees and management fees, which term do you like to use?

A I -- I use them interchangeably.

Q Okay. And at a high level, what obligations did Highland have under the participation agreement?

A I'm not certain, aside from whatever is in the document.

Q Okay. Is it your understanding that Highland had to make payments under the agreement?

A I -- I'm -- I'm not certain if that's -- I know that the note is a -- is its own document, so I'm not sure -- I'm not sure.

Q Okay. If we turn to the purchase price, the paragraph we looked at before in Section 1.1 that describes an initial payment and the note; do you see that in there?

A We're looking at Section 1.1?

Q Correct.

A Yep, I see that.

Q Okay. Other than the payment and the note referenced in here, are you -- do you have an understanding that Highland had any other obligations under this agreement?

A None specifically, but I refer back to the document.

Q Okay. Is it your understanding that Acis performed all of its obligation under the participation agreement?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A No, that's not my understanding.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. So, there are certain things that you believe Acis was required to do under the participation agreement, but it did not do; is that correct?

A That's correct.

Q Okay. We'll get into that in a second. But, let me ask about Highlands. Do you believe that Highland was required to do anything under this agreement that it didn't do?

A I'm not sure.

Q Okay. Tell me, generally, what was Acis required to do under this agreement that it did not do?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A Like I said, the -- the document should speak for itself, and I wouldn't -- I wouldn't venture to say that this is an all encompassing list. But, the -- the fact -- the fact of the matter is Acis turned over the fees from end of 2016 until end of 2017. And then after that point, it didn't, notwithstanding that there were -- there were fees, you know, in 2018 and 2019, the -- the fee stream I believe went to August of 2019.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) And when you say "fees," you're talking about the management or servicing fees we referenced before?

A The portion -- yeah, the portion that they were to turnover.

Q What's your understanding as to what management or servicing fees Acis received but didn't turnover to Highland as required by the agreement?

A Everything after November 1st, 2017, 1st or 2nd.

Q When you say "November 1st, 2017," you're talking about fees that were received by Acis after November 1st, 2017; is that correct?

A Can you just clarify that?

Q Well, let me ask you. When you said "November 1st, 2017," what are you referring to?

A What I'm referring to is on November 1st, 2017 Acis received fees from various CLOs. And I don't know if it was the same day, maybe the next day, turned over those fees pursuant to the participation agreement. That -- that did not happen -- that did not happen again after that point, with the limited exception of there was a -- there was -- there were funds sent in January of 2018 that were then sent back to Acis.

Q Going back to November 1st, so, on November 1st, the fees that Acis received were sent to Highland, that was the last date they did that properly?

A Correct, the portion of the fees, yeah.

Q And tell me about the January 2018 fees that were sent back to Acis.

A So, there was a -- there was a -- it's a little bit confusing, because there's a number of CLOs -- it's always confusing, of course. There were a number of CLOs that were subject to this agreement. Most of them paid -- they all paid quarterly. Most of them paid on the 1st of February, May, August, November. There was one of the CLOs that paid on a certain -- slightly different cycle, and that one paid in -- in -- I believe it was the 18th. I could be off by a day or two -- of January, April, July, October.

So, there were fees received in January of 2018 by Acis. Acis then swept all of its cash over to Highland, save for two small wires that went out to a third-party. And then, you know, approximately a week later, Highland sent all of that money back.

Q Why?

A As directed by legal.

Q Do you know why?

A No, I don't know.

Q Okay. So, sitting here now, you have no idea why those fees were sent back?

A I could speculate.

Q What's your speculation?

A I would -- I would speculate that, for lack of a better term, things were heating up in the Terry litigation, and the optics of sending all the money to Highland was viewed negatively. And there would have been, you know, a push to send those funds back to Acis. But, that's -- again, that's total speculation.

Q Do you know the approximate amount of those fees that were sent back?

A It was between 600 and 650,000.

Q Okay. And I -- I apologize, I think you gave me the date. But, you said starting on November 2017 -- well, on November 2 -- November 1st, 2017, Acis still properly performed and sent those fees; is that correct, that was the last date?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A Yeah. Yes, with the caveat that it could have been the 1st or the 2nd, but it -- it -- but, it -- it did on one of those dates.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) So, starting after that date, what was the time period that Acis received fees but did not send them to Highland as they were supposed to do under the agreement?

A Everything after that date.

Q Do you know when it received fees up until that it did not send to Highland that it was supposed to?

A So, certainly, January of 2018, and then I don't know the specifics around the timing of when it eventually got fees for -- you know, through the end of 2019.

Q So, is it fair to say that the fees that Acis was supposed to send to Highland but did not were in the 2018, 2019 timeframe?

A Yes.

Q And just to sort of put a cap on that, are there any fees that Acis received in 2020 or after that it was supposed to send to Highland under the agreement?

A No. And -- and just to put a finer point on 20 -- 2019, it would have stopped in August of 2019.

Q Why did it stop in August of 2019?

A That was just the -- looked to the agreement, that was the period in which the fees were going to be sent.

Q Do you know the approximate amount of the fees that Acis received in '18 and '19 that it did not send to Highland that it was required to under the agreement?

A Not off the top of my head.

Q We're talking about more then a million dollars?

A Yeah, yes.

Q More than 10 million?

A No.

Q More than five million?

A Don't know.

Q Okay. Are those amounts reflected in documents that you've seen?

A If I can -- probably more than five, I'm not certain.

Q Okay. Is that amount reflected in documents that you've reviewed?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Reviewed in preparation for this deposition?

A Yes.

Q Was that in spreadsheets produced by Highland?

A That was in trustee reports that I -- that I reviewed in preparation.

Q When you say "trustee reports," what is a trustee report?

A Yeah, sorry. So, each of the CLOs has a -- has its own trustee, and they -- those trustees produce reports every time there's a payment made out of the CLOs. And so, it describes the fees, among other things, that are -- that are being paid out on each of the payment dates. And so, you know, I've had a chance to review those trustee reports, and I know that they're part of the production.

Q Okay. To get to the total, whatever it is, between five and $10 million, was that a number you saw in one document, or did you have to add up all of the different numbers from the different trustee reports?

A I had to add them up.

Q It's fair to say, then, that you haven't seen one document that has the total number of the amount of fees that were received by Acis and not sent to Highland; is that fair to say?

A No, I don't believe so.

Q Okay. And again, not trying to trick you, just trying to see if I'm missing any documents. So, is it fair to say that all of the money that Acis received that it did not send to Highland under the agreement were received after Acis was placed into bankruptcy?

MR. MORRIS: I'm sorry, can I have that question read back?

MR. AIGEN: Let me rephrase it.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Was there any money that Acis received that it did not send to Highland under this agreement that it received prior to the Acis bankruptcy?

A Yes.

Q Tell me about that money.

A That was the -- the January -- the -- the January amount that we were discussing before, and it -- it sent it, but then it sent it back.

Q Okay.

A But, sorry, I need to be much more clear on that. Acis sent it to Highland and then Highland sent it back.

Q Okay. Was it sent from Acis to Highland prior to the Acis bankruptcy?

A Yes.

Q So, the Acis bankruptcy was at the end of January of 2018; is that correct?

A That's correct.

Q Okay. And do you know whether that money was received in 2018 or prior to 2018 for -- from Acis?

A In 2018.

Q Okay. So, Acis received it in 20 -- in January of 2018 and sent it to Highland in 2018 in January; is that correct?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And is it your understanding that Highland then sent it back to Acis prior to the bankruptcy in January of 2018?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Do you know who would have been involved in the decision to send it back?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I -- I don't know with 100 percent certainty, but I would certainly -- I would strongly speculate that it would have been Scott Ellington and Isaac Leventon.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. Are you aware of any money that was received by Acis where they didn't send the fees to Highland under this agreement prior to the Acis bankruptcy?

A Other than the January of '18?

Q Well, but that agreement Acis did send it to Highland, it was just returned; is that correct?

A Yes, that's correct.

Q Okay. So, let me ask, are you aware of any money that Acis received where it didn't send the fees to Highland prior to the Acis bankruptcy?

A No, but with the caveat that Highland sent some of it back.

Q Fair enough. Did you have any involvement at all in -- well, let me rephrase that.

Do you have any idea why Acis did not make payments to Highland under the participation agreement after its bankruptcy?

A I don't -- I don't know.

Q You've never entered into discussions with anyone about that?

A I may have. I don't -- I'm not sure.

Q Okay. Do you have any understanding as to whether Acis was prevented from sending those fees as a result of something in the bankruptcy?

A I -- I don't know.

Q Okay.

A Sorry, if I could interrupt. Could I get a bathroom break the next few minutes or find a natural stopping point.

Q Yeah, yeah, let's take one now. Anytime you need a break, let me know.

VIDEOGRAPHER: We're off the record at 10:57.

(Break taken.)

VIDEOGRAPHER: We are back on the record at 11:07.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Mr. Klos, before the break, we were talking about fees received by Acis after its bankruptcy that it did not send to Highland. Do you remember that?

A Yes, generally.

Q I have some follow-up questions about those. I think I might have already asked this, and I apologize. But, do you know why Acis did not forward those fees to Highland?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I don't know specifically, but I'm -- I'm under the understanding that Highland and Acis and Josh Terry have been in lengthy protracted litigation for along time. So, I would -- I would surmise that that has something to do with it.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. Did you ever have any conversations with anyone about why Acis didn't send the -- the payments owed to Highland under the agreement after its bankruptcy?

A Not that I can specifically remember.

Q Generally?

A No, not generally.

Q Okay. Do you know whether Highland made any demands for those payments that Acis received after the bankruptcy but didn't send to Highland?

A I don't know.

Q Did you do any work related to money that came into Acis but they didn't send, such as trying to figure out how much it was or anything like that?

A Not that I can remember.

Q Are you aware as to whether those fees that weren't sent were subject to the litigation and the Acis bankruptcy between Acis and Highland?

A I don't know.

Q Okay. Did you have any involvement with that -- well, bad question, because you said you don't know.

Are you aware as to whether there were any settlement agreements with respect to the payments that Acis received but didn't forward to Highland under the participation agreement?

A I'm not sure.

Q Okay. Are you aware that there was a settlement between Acis and Highland in the bankruptcy?

A Yes.

Q Okay. At a high level, can you tell me if you had any role with respect to that settlement?

A No role that I can -- can remember.

Q Do you have any understanding as to whether the payments we're talking about are part of that settlement in any way?

A Don't remember.

Q Are you aware of any conversations that anyone had with respect to the payments that Acis received after the bankruptcy that it didn't send to Highland under the agreement?

A No specific awareness.

Q General?

A Just that I'm -- I'm certain there were negotiations between Highland and Acis principals about the terms of the agreement. I don't know the nature of those, but I -- I assume that those happened.

Q And you weren't part of any of those discussions?

A No, I wasn't.

Q Okay. Do you know the approximate total amount of fees that Highland did receive from Acis under the participation agreement?

A Yeah, I could probably do the math, be, you know, around six million, plus or minus.

Q And that would have been in the time period from October 7th, 2016 until November 1st, 2017?

A Correct.
Q Okay.
A 1st or 2nd, I just don't know if it was paid on that day.
Q Approximately, when are those payments made? Are we talking annually, quarterly?
A Quarterly.
Q So, if the agreement was entered into October 7th, 2016, do you know when the quarterly payments would have been made?
A Yes. So, there would have been one approximately October 18th of 2016. There would have a payment approximately November 1st or 2nd of 2016. And then there would have been payments throughout '17, so that would have been January of '17, February of '17, April of '17, May of '17, July of '17, August of '17, October of '17 and November of '17.
Q What dictated when those payments were made?
A That was when they were paid by the CLOs. They're -- they're quarterly -- it's a quarterly waterfall to use the general term.
Q And although they're quarterly, they're not receiving them quarterly, because they were receiving -- "they" meaning Acis, was receiving payments from different times from the different CLOs; is that fair to say?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form.

A So, as I was explaining, there's -- there's I think five CLOs at issue. One of those pays quarterly on the 18th of January, April, July, October. The other four pay on 1st of February, May, August, November. So, that's just the timing of when those -- those -- those deals paid. And you know, they pay on a business day. So, if the 1st falls on a weekend, it's the following business day. That -- that -- that's why I'm hedging a little bit on the specific date.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Fair enough. And I know we touched on this before, but the participation agreement, in general, is this something that you would have seen at or about the time it was executed in October of 2016?

A I don't have a specific recollection, but I -- I assume that I would have.

Q Okay. Would the terms of this effected your job responsibilities?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) In other words, why -- why would you have seen it at the time it was being entered into?

A Would have seen it in -- you know, maybe for other reasons, but certainly in conjunction with the accounting at the Highland and the Acis entities.

Q Okay. So, you testified that you may have seen it at the time it was entered into, and obviously, you've reviewed it recently as part of this litigation. Do you know whether it was a document that you would have reviewed in the middle?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) For instance, an agreement was entered into in October of 2016. So, between 2016 and let's say 2019, was there any reason you would have gone and had to review this document?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I don't have a specific recollection, but I assume that I would have looked at it around the time of the Acis bankruptcy. It's possible that I would have looked at it at certain intervening periods, but I don't have a specific recollection.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. Fair enough. Can you take a look at, starting on Page 6 of the agreement, it's Section 3.6, Acknowledgments of the Purchaser, and it goes on to Page 7.

A Okay.

Q And I'll give you a second just to read that paragraph as it's kind of long, so I won't bother reading it into the record.

A Okay. (Witness complies.) Sorry, I'm not --

Q You don't have to read it out loud.

A I'm not going to be like referring back to Section 1.5.

Q If I ask you --

A It might be more timely to just ask -- ask the question and I'll try to --

Q Okay. Are you familiar with provision 3.6 in this agreement?

A Generally, familiar, I'm sure I've read it at some point in the fast.

Q At a high level, what's your understanding of what the -- what the purpose of Section 3.6 is with respect to this agreement?

A It looks like its acknowledgment to the purchaser. Outside of that, I would just let the document speak for itself.

Q Okay. Have you ever had any conversations with anyone about what Section 3.6 means?

A It's possible, probable that I've discussed this with counsel or Jim Seery.

Q Do you remember any conversations with Mr. Seery about Section 3.6?

A Not independent of Mr. Morris.

Q And I assume you don't want to tell me about those conversations with Mr. Morris?

MR. MORRIS: I'm going to direct him not to tell whether he wants to or not.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Other than conversations where Mr. Morris was present, do you remember ever having any other conversations with anyone about Section 3.6?

A No, not that I can remember.

Q Were you familiar with Section 3.6 prior to let's say the Highland bankruptcy?

A I don't know.

Q Okay. You don't remember having any conversations about it prior to the Highland bankruptcy?

A No, I don't remember.

Q Okay. And it says acknowledgment of the purchaser, the purchaser is Highland; is that correct?

A Yes, that's correct.

Q Okay. And I don't really want to spend a lot of time going into detail on this, but under subsection A, it says, should the seller's right with respect to the servicer fees be terminated. Do you see that?

A Yes, I see that.

Q Do you know whether the servicer fees were ever terminated?

A Caveat that I don't know what's -- except what's provided in Section 1.5, just don't know what that -- is in reference to. But, I -- I don't -- I'm sorry to do this, but can you ask the question again?

Q Okay. With respect to that clause, which reads: Except as provided in Section 1.5, should the -- shall the seller's rights with respect to the servicer fees be terminated.

So, my question is just, do you know whether the servicer fees were actually terminated at any point in time?

A I don't -- I don't know. I don't believe that they -- that they were. Although, it's possible that some of them might have been terminated through the -- through the wind down of the CLOs themselves.

Q Do you have any idea what the purpose of this Section 3.6 is with respect to this agreement?

A Not -- not beyond the -- the text of the -- of the paragraph.

Q Okay. Do you understand the text of this paragraph to be saying that if the servicer fees are not made from Acis to Highland, then Highland still has to make payments under the note, except for certain exceptions that are set forth here?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A Yeah, I just don't know. To me, that's -- that's for the -- the legal eagles.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Fair enough. If you go a few lines down -- well, to be exact, seven lines down on Page 7, there's a parenthetical, and I'll just read that into the record. It says: Other than a result of the seller reaching its covenants under this agreement or as a result of fraud or by willful misconduct of the seller.

Do you see that?

A I see that.

Q Did you ever have any discussions with anyone about that part of this agreement?

A Yeah, I think I've had discussions with counsel.

Q Mr. Morris?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Have you ever had any conversations with anyone other than Mr. Morris about that provision?

A Possibly, but never not in the presence of Mr. Morris.

Q Okay. Do you have any understanding as to whether seller breached its covenants under this agreement or there was fraud or willful misconduct as referenced in this parenthetical?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A So, in terms of making a conclusion about fraud or willful misconduct, you know, I think that's just a function of -- it's more of a legal conclusion. I don't know that I could -- I don't know if I could make that conclusion. But, I think -- you know, it's possible the seller breached its covenants in terms of not turning over its fees, and it's possible that there's fraud or willful misconduct of the seller.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. And because you said it's possible, I just have some follow-ups. Do you have an understanding, sitting here today, that the seller breached its covenants with respect to this agreement?

A Not other than just in the general sense that I -- I know that Acis didn't turnover funds from 2018 to 2019. And it's possible there could be other covenants breached, but that's the -- that's the one that sticks out in my mind.

Q Did you have any conversations with anyone other than Mr. Morris about whether not turning over those payments was a breach of covenants?

A Outside of conversations with Mr. Morris, no, I -- I don't believe so.

Q Okay. And you never had any conversations with anyone about what potentially would be a breach of these covenants before the Highland bankruptcy?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A Before the Highland bankruptcy, no, I don't believe I would have had any of those conversations. Although, I suppose it's possible in connection with the Acis bankruptcy, but I -- I have no recollection.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. It references fraud or willful misconduct of the seller. Sitting here today, do you have any understanding as to whether there was any fraud or willful misconduct of the seller as referenced in this document?

A Again, there's -- it calls for a legal conclusion that I don't know that I can -- I can make. But, you know, I -- I -- I do believe that there were assets taken out of Acis that were -- that were -- that were Acis assets, and, you know, effectively sent -- sent to other parties.

Q Can you give me a little more detail on that? What assets you're talking about and what timeframe?

A So, the main -- the main assets being the -- the note that we're talking about here. I'll call it the participation note. Hopefully, everyone knows what that -- what that means. There was an indirect interest that Acis had in 2017-7, which was actually -- you know, we talked about -- we touched on it earlier. That was the money that Acis borrowed from Highland to make that investment. And so, that asset was -- was taken out of Acis in the November, December 2017 time period.

And then there was a portfolio management agreement that was -- that was moved under a new advisor, again, in the November -- I believe in the November 2017 timeframe. Could have been December, but I believe it was November.

Q Okay. Do you have an understanding as to whether these actions that you've just described would be considered fraud under this agreement?

A Not specifically. Again, that's kind of not my conclusion to make, but -- so, no.

Q Are you aware of whether anyone made any false misrepresentations to anyone with respect to this agreement?

A Not that I can think of right now.

Q And more specifically, let's talk about Mr. Dondero. Do you know whether Mr. Dondero made any misrepresentations to anyone about this agreement?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A It -- it's -- it's just too broad. I just -- I don't know.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. And it has the term "willful misconduct." Let me ask you, do you have any understanding as to what "willful misconduct" means?

A Hard to define it without using the words. But, it's a -- in my very lay -- lay terms, non -- non-lawyer terms, you know, an intentionally bad act.

Q Have you ever had any discussions with anyone about willful misconduct and what that means under this agreement?

A I'm sure I have.

Q Anyone other than lawyers, other than Mr. Morris?

A No, not that I can think of. And I -- and I should -- I started answering that question before you said about this agreement. I -- I think it's probably the same answer more generally, but anyways continue.

Q Sitting here today, are you aware of any misrepresentations that anyone made with respect to any of the issues in this case?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I think there have been conflicting representations.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) And what are you referring to there?

A I -- I think that some of the positions that were taken in the Acis bankruptcy and maybe in the Acis and Dondero saga are contradictory to some of the positions in this case.

Q Okay. At a high level, can you tell me what you're referring to?

A Interrogatories and deposition or trial transcripts.

Q What were the topics that you're talking about?

A The participation agreement.

Q And what specifically about it?

A That they were paired all -- all intended to wash and -- and very much linked.

Q Okay. Other than the linking issue that we already discussed, were there any other areas that you've seen someone make what you call misrepresentations about issues related to this case?

A Not that I can specifically think of off the top of my head.

Q Okay. And just, I guess, go back to what we were talking about, I -- I believe I asked you, did you have any conversations with anyone about whether the payment terms were linked or de-linked and you said no; is that fair to say?

A There's -- there's none that I can remember.

Q Okay. But, then, you -- is it fair to say that you saw some pleadings or litigation documents that reference that topic?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A Yes.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. What were you referring to before? What -- what sort of documents? Where did you see this?

A Trial or deposition transcripts.

Q Okay. Other than trial or deposition testimony, is it fair to say that you don't know of any other conversations that anyone had about whether the payments needed to be linked or de-linked?

A Conversations, no, and I -- and I should have -- I should have added the interrogatories. I mentioned that before, but, conversations, I -- I don't know.

Q Okay. And all of the documents you've seen were related to litigation; is that correct?

A I believe so, but not 100 percent certain.

Q In other words, you testified before that you didn't have any conversations with anyone about whether the payments needed to be linked or de-linked. So, let me just ask this question: Have you ever seen any documents about the topic about whether the payments need to be linked or de-linked?

A I believe I have.

Q What documents did you see?

A Deposition transcripts, trial transcripts, interrogatories.

Q All documents related to litigation; is that fair to say?

A Yeah, to the best of my knowledge.

Q Okay. No documents from the 2016, '17, '18 timeframe; is that fair to say?

A I -- I don't know.

Q When you say "I don't know," is that because you don't know if there are documents other than the litigation documents that discussed it, or you don't know the timeframe of the litigation documents?

A That's a mouthful. The -- could you -- I was a little confused by the question. So, if you could ask again, that would be great.

Q Let me go back to the other question. Other than documents related to -- or that were part of litigation, have you seen any documents that ever discussed or referenced the topic of whether the payments needed to be linked or de-linked to get tax advantages?

A None that come to mind.

Q Take a look at Section 1.5 of that agreement. And it talks about -- well, it starts off, in the event that any governmental entity commences a formal regulatory proceeding against seller, and then it goes on. Let me just first ask you. Are you -- are you familiar with Section 1.5?

A Again, I'm sure I've read it at some point in the past. Familiar, I don't know.

Q My question is simply, do you have any understanding as to whether 1.5 was triggered because a government entity commenced a formal regulatory proceeding against seller as described in this?

A Yeah -- sorry, I shouldn't say "yeah." To my knowledge, that -- that hasn't -- that hasn't or didn't occur, but I'm -- I'm not certain.

Q Okay. And you've never had any conversations with Mr. Dondero about the participation agreement; is that correct?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question?

A It's -- it's very possible I have. I -- none that I remember. Thank you.

(Exhibit 2 marked.)

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. Okay. I've just handed you a document that's been marked as Exhibit 2. It's Bates labeled HCLOM8535, and is titled, Promissory Note.

My first question is, simply, do you recognize this document?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Can you identify it for the record?

A It's a promissory note between Highland Capital Management as maker and Acis Capital Management as payee.

Q Okay. And does this appear to be the note that we've talked about today that is referenced in the participation agreement?

A It -- it does.

Q Okay. And if you turn to the second to last page, there's a signature there on 8539. And my question is simply going to be, do you recognize that signature?

A 8539, yes.

Q Okay. Whose signature is that?

A Jim Dondero's.

Q Okay. What role, if any, did you have with respect to the preparation of this promissory note?

A So, this was a note that was attached to the purchase and sale agreement. And to the best of my recollection, my involvement would have been probably -- I don't have a specific recollection, but would have been doing the math on this amortization schedule, basically, how much interest would have accrued between October 7th of 2016 and May 31st of 2017, and so on and so forth. And -- and preparing the schedule and giving it to someone to put it as Exhibit A.

Q Okay. Do you remember doing anything else with respect to the preparation of this promissory note?

A Not that I remember.

Q Do you know who specifically drafted this promissory note?

A No.

Q Okay. Do you know whether it was negotiated in any way?

A No.

Q Do you know if Hunton & Williams was involved in the preparation of this note?

A I don't know. If I would speculate, I would speculate probably, but not certain.

Q And why was this promissory note entered into, if you know?

A It was entered into in connection with the purchase and sale agreement as part of the consideration for the -- for the fees.

Q And how do you know that?

A I know that probably for a number of reasons, but one reason being that it's the note that's referred to in the agreement.

Q And if it's easier to refer to the end of this document, you can. I just want to generally ask you, what payments do you understand were made pursuant to the promissory note?

A There was one payment -- one cash payment made on May 31st of 2017. Again, I'll hedge a little bit, maybe it was the day before kind of thing, but -- and that would have been for the full amount of the principal as well as the interest. So, 3,125,000 in principal, $245,694 of interest. I'm not sure if that was made as one payment or two payments, but those two amounts would have been paid to Acis.

Q Okay. Did you have any role with respect to that payment being made?

A Probably.

Q What role would that have been?

A I was part of -- I guess, you could call it the treasury cycle. So, it's possible that I might have approved that payment, or I might have clicked the button to, you know, send the funds from one place to the other. And certainly would have been aware of it from a -- I guess more from a budgeting and forecasting perspective that the payment was coming and would be made. Because, again, at that time, everything was -- was happening according to Hoyle.

Q Do you have a recollection as to who specifically would have approved that payment?

A No specific recollection. But, it -- that would either have been a Dondero or -- or Frank, or just as simple as someone like me or someone like Kristin flagging for Frank that, oh, this -- this payment is going to be -- is going to be due on this date. And then -- but, again, who -- who actually gave the thumbs up, I have no recollection of.

Q Okay. Sitting here today, are you aware of any typos or anything that was wrong about this document?

A No.

Q Okay.

A I hope not.

Q You didn't draft it, though?

A The document, no.

Q Okay.

A To be clear, I -- I most likely did draft Exhibit A, if you -- if you want to call that --

Q And there's no mistakes in Exhibit A?

A If you want to call that -- that -- that drafting.

Q Okay. You are not aware of any mistakes in Exhibit A?

A I'm not aware of any.

Q Okay. On the first page, you can see there's a section toward the bottom that says, conditions precedent. Do you see that?

A I see that.

Q Okay. And I will read the sentence under that into the record. It says: This note shall not become effective and payee shall have no obligation to make the advance hereunder until payee has received each of the following in form and substance acceptable to payee.

Do you see that?

A I see that.

Q Okay. Are you familiar with that clause? Is that something you've read before?

A I'm sure I read it before.

Q Okay. What's the purpose of that clause?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A Sorry, I got to --

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Let me ask maybe a background question before that. Do you know who that's referring to when it says "payee"?

A That's what -- that's what I was just actually looking to. So, payee is Acis Capital Management, LP.

Q Okay. And your understanding that that's referring to payee, is that just coming from reading the first paragraph of the agreement or something else?

A From the first paragraph of the agreement, I -- I know that to be true as well, so...

Q Okay.

A (Witness reviews document.) Oh, sorry.

Q Okay.

A I was done.

Q Have you ever had any conversations with anyone about that clause that I just read to you?

A None that I can specifically remember.

Q Okay. What advance by payee is this referring to?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I'm not sure what it's referring to.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. Are you aware of any advances contemplated by the promissory note by payee?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I -- I don't know.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Is it possible the payee should say payor and it's talking about the payment under the note?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I have -- I have no idea.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. So, you have no reason to believe the advance it's talking about here under conditions precedent is a payment that was supposed to be made under the participation agreement; is that fair to say?

A I have -- I have no idea.

Q And in paragraph B, right under that, if you can take a second and read through that. Well, I'll give you my question before. At the very end of it, there's a reference to initial advance. And similarly, I'm just going to ask you if you have any understanding to what initial advance that's talking about?

A Yeah, I'm not sure what that's referring to.

MR. MORRIS: I'm sorry, where were you, Michael?

MR. AIGEN: Right here, John (indicating.)

MR. MORRIS: Oh, okay, thank you.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) You have no reason to believe that that initial advance refers to the $665,000 payment that we discussed earlier under the participation agreement?

A I don't know, but I don't know that the 666,000 appears anywhere in this document.

Q Okay. Fair to say that as part of your responsibilities, you've read lots of promissory notes?

A That's -- that's an understatement.

Q Is it unusual for there to be a term in a promissory note like this that you don't understand?

A I -- I don't know.

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. So, does it surprise you that they're using terms in this promissory note, like advance, and you don't know what it's referring to?

A I don't know if it's surprising. Most of the promissory notes I've seen have been drafted by legal, and 99 percent of it is -- doesn't affect me. So, I don't -- I don't know that I'm focused on every, you know, word and comma.

Q On the second page, it refers to events of default. Do you see that?

A I see that.

Q Do you have a general understanding as to what the purpose of this section is?

A Generally to, I suppose, reflect the parties' agreement of which events constitute an event of default.

Q Would you agree that this section contemplates what happens if the maker, meaning Highland, defaults; is that correct?

A It appears to be.

Q Okay. And there's nothing in here that contemplates what would happen if payee, meaning Acis, defaults; is that correct?

A I don't -- I don't see anything in this section.

Q And would you agree that that's because the payee or Acis has no obligations under this note?

A I -- I don't know what obligations it has under the note.

Q Okay. If you could turn to the remedy section on the next page, and I'll let you read as much as you need to in that section, but I'll give you my question ahead of time. About six lines down, it starts with subsection A, and it refers to -- it says, terminate payee's commitment to make any advances under the note.

MR. MORRIS: I apologize, where are you, Michael?

MR. AIGEN: Here you go.

MR. MORRIS: What page?

MR. AIGEN: Under remedies -- three, four, five -- six lines down, under remedies on --

MR. MORRIS: Ah, okay.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) So, again, my question is just going to be, do you know what this is referring to when it says, advances under this note?

A Same answer. I'm not sure what "advances under this note" is referring to.

Q And payee is not making any under advances under this note; is that correct?

A Yeah, it's terminate payees commitment to make any advances under this note.

Q But, only payor is making advances under this note; is that correct?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I don't know who payor is.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Oh, I apologize. Maker.

A Correct, there's -- I -- I don't see "maker" referred to in this section.

Q Okay.

A I -- actually, there's -- there's an instance of it, but it seems to apply to something else.

Q What are you referring to, just so I know?

A I'm just -- I'm looking for the word "maker".
Q Oh, okay.
A And I'm seeing it under part D and I'm seeing it in the next paragraph.
Q Okay.
A But, doesn't seem to apply to the part A.
Q But, the advance it's talking about in this section is talking about a potential advance by payee, meaning Acis; is that correct?
MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.
A Yes, it's -- Acis is -- Acis is payee -- yeah, could you -- could you repeat it one more time?
Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. When it's talking about, within subsection A, advances under the note, it's talking about advances made by payee, correct?
A That's -- that's correct, that's how I read it.
Q And since we don't know about any advances by payee under this note, is it possible that that was supposed to refer to maker instead of payee?
MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.
A I have no idea.
Q (By Mr. Aigen) You never had any discussions with anyone as to what advances this was referring to?

A I don't believe so.

Q Okay. Do you have an understanding as to whether Acis failed to comply with any provisions of this promissory note?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I don't know. And I'm frankly not certain what obligations Acis had under this promissory note, so it's hard to speculate as to what they could have not performed.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Good answer. Let me ask you that then. Are you aware of any obligations that Acis has under the promissory note?

A Not other than what's in the four corners of the document.

Q Okay. Are you aware of any references in this note to the participation agreement?

A Not other than what's in the document.

Q Okay. So, if we go outside of the document, let me ask you, did you ever have any conversations with anyone about the promissory note being linked to the participation agreement?

MR. MORRIS: Objection, asked and answered.

A It would be -- it would be the same answer, I don't recall specific conversations.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. Have you ever seen any memos or writings that discuss the potential tax advantages of the structure of these transactions?

A I don't know. It's possible.

Q Okay. When we talked about before that there was potential tax advantages of this transaction, what's your basis for that? If you don't remember seeing documents, was it from conversation?

MR. MORRIS: Objection, asked and answered.

A A combination of conversations and documents.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. As best as you can, can you tell me what documents might have informed you about anything related to tax advantages related to this transaction?

A Like I said, I don't remember specific documents, but it's possible that I read a memo at some point or I saw a memo. So, it's -- it's possible that it was documents. As I said before, there was a similar transaction that Highland had done in recent years. So, I was generally aware of the mechanics of the transaction and how -- how the benefits would be conveyed to seller, so that -- that was, I suppose, my basis.

MR. AIGEN: Okay. I am going to switch topics now. Do we want to do lunch break or keep going for a little bit?

MR. MORRIS: You know, I have a got a call at 12:30 --

MR. AIGEN: You want to go until --

MR. MORRIS: So, I'd like to keep going if we can.

THE WITNESS: Can I do a real quick bathroom, like a two minute?

MR. AIGEN: Of course. Let's go off the record.

VIDEOGRAPHER: We're off the record at 11:47.

(Break taken.)

VIDEOGRAPHER: We're back on the record at 11:51.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) All right. Mr. Klos, changing topics a little bit. Are you familiar with an entity called Highland CLO Management, LTD?

A Yes.

Q Okay. I heard people refer it as HCLOM or H C L O M. Is there a certain way you refer to it?

A I usually refer to it as HCLOM, LTD.

Q Okay. And there's another HCLOM entity called

HCLOM, LLC; is that correct?

A Correct. And it's, you know, spelled out the same way, Highland CLO Management, LLC.

Q Yes. Purpose of this, I'm going to refer to it as either HCLOM or H C L O M, and I'm only referring to the LTD for now. I will ask some separate questions later about LLC, and I will be specific about that at that point --

A Perfect.

Q -- if that works.

Okay. Approximately, when was HCLOM formed?

A October 27th, 2017.

Q Why was it formed?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I don't have any personal knowledge, but I believe that it was formed to take assignment of the -- the note that we've been discussing, the participation note, as I've been describing it.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. And you said you don't have any personal knowledge. So, what would be your basis for believing it to be the purpose was to take assignment?

A I don't think it's ever done anything else other than that.

Q Have you ever had any conversations with anyone about the purpose of HCLOM being formed?

A No, I'm sure I discussed with counsel, but nothing -- nothing outside of that.

Q Okay. Were you involved in any way with HCLOM's formation?

A No.

Q Okay. Do you know who would have been involved with its creation?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I -- I believe -- when you say involved in, there's -- I don't know who -- I think who would have directed that versus who would have coordinated with counsel to -- to form it are probably two different answers, if you could clarify.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. Let's start with, who directed it, the idea of forming HCLOM?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A So, no -- no personal knowledge, but I -- I believe that to be either or both Jim Dondero or Scott Ellington.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. And do you have any idea who would have done the work to actually set it up and create it?

A I -- I think that would have been a combination of JP Sevilla, possibly Helen Kim, who was a paralegal, and possibly others, but those would be the -- the two I would expect.

Q Okay.

A And they would have been asking counsel, but -- so there would have been outside counsel used to help form it. I don't recall who that was.

Q Do you know whether it was set up as a U.S. or a foreign entity?

A It was set up as a Cayman entity.

Q Do you have any understanding as to why it was set up as a Cayman entity?

A No personal knowledge. I -- I believe it was set up as a Cayman entity, most likely to obfuscate ultimate ownership.

Q Why do you believe that?

A That seems to be consistent with everything else that happened over that time period.

Q With respect to other entities that were being set up as --

A With respect -- with respect -- I'm sorry to -- I'm sorry to step on you. With respect to other entities that were formed at that time and other assignments and transfers that occurred over that time, the formation of the -- the trust above the entity that's called Neutra, there seemed to be a significant number of steps taken to obfuscate ownership.

Q Okay. And again, I don't want to put words in your mouth, so I'm going to unfortunately be a little repetitive. Again, what was -- what did you say was the purpose or reason that they were creating HCLOM?

A So, I don't know or have personal knowledge, but it -- it seems to me that the purpose was to take receipt of this note.

Q And that's the note we previously talked about?

A Yes, the -- the participation note (indicating). Sorry for the parentheses.

Q And other than counsel here, you've never had any conversations about why HCLOM was set up that you remember?

A Not -- not other than with -- with counsel present.

Q And what -- what did HCLOM do?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I don't believe HCLOM has ever done anything from a -- from an operational standpoint. I'm sure it's -- there -- there have been, you know, corporate -- corporate actions and signatures on documents, but I -- I don't believe it's ever done anything.

Q Okay. Are you aware of any revenue that HCLOM has ever made?

A No.

Q Are you aware of any expenses that HCLOM has ever paid?

A There are likely expenses that have been incurred that were paid by Highland.

Q Did HCLOM ever have any employees?

A No, not that I'm aware. I have no idea in the last couple of years.

Q Fair enough. What relationship, if any, did Highland have with HCLOM?

A Relationship is a little broad, but I'll -- I'll do my best. So, it -- it Highland employees formed the entity or worked with counsel to form the entity, Highland paid for whatever set up expenses were incurred as part of that. And then Highland has had indirect ownership in the entity at various points in time, economic ownership. And then it's also had voting control over the entity at various points in time.

Q Did Highland enter into any written agreements with HCLOM?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A The -- I believe it's -- I'm not certain. It might be an exhibit, but I -- I believe it's a party to the assignment and transfer agreement from November 3rd of 2017. Beyond that, I'm -- I'm not thinking of any, it's possible it could be.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) You're not aware of any shared service agreements or advisory agreements or any similar written agreements between Highland and HCLOM?

A Correct.

Q Do you know who the officers were of HCLOM at any time?

A The officers I don't know if I know the full slate, but it was a very similar officer list to the Highland officer list. So I believe it was Mr. Dondero, Frank Waterhouse, I believe Scott Ellington, may be one or two more, but I'm not certain.

Q Okay. Are you aware of any change in the officers of HCLOM at any time?

A I believe there was a period where there were officers, so there were officers that were put on a slate.

Q Was that just at the beginning when it was first formed?

A It was a little after -- after it was formed, I think it was in early '18.

Q But there were no officers and then no officers, and then different officers, it was just no officers and then the officers you talked about?

A I believe that's right. I guess I -- I would refer to our production because I'm not totally facile, but that's my -- that's my basic understanding.

Q As far as you know, Mr. Dondero was the only president of HCLOM; is that correct?

A I don't know if he was the president of HCLOM. I believe he was on the officer slate, I don't know what his corporate title was or officer title.

Q Are you aware of who the directors were of HCLOM at any time?

A Yes.

Q Who?

A I might get this flipped, but I believe there was -- there was a period where there was an individual named John Cullinane, and then the firm he works for is -- I'm going to get the name wrong, it's Summit, I think it's Summit Investment Management, it has Summit in the name. So at one point it was Summit and then at one point it was Cullinane, I forget if those are flipped. And I believe there was a second director added at some point whose name escapes me.

Q Okay. So Summit, an entity, was the actual director, is that fair to say?
A I believe that's correct for some period of time.
Q Okay. Have you ever had any conversations with John Cullinane?
A I think I talked to him once.
Q Anything about the events related to this case?
A No.
Q When HCLOM was first formed, do you have an understanding as to who owned it?
A Can you clarify now or then?
Q When it was first formed?
A Oh, I don't -- I don't know.
MR. MORRIS: I'm sorry, I think you guys may be talking past each other.
Q (By Mr. Aigen) My question is, when HCLOM was first created, do you have an understanding as to who the owners were of HCLOM?
A No. I -- and to be a little bit more specific, I -- I don't know that I knew that HCLOM was formed when it was formed.
Q Okay. Do you have any understanding as to who the owners of HCLOM were at any time?
MR. MORRIS: May I help?

MR. AIGEN: Sure.

MR. MORRIS: I think -- I think he may be confused as to the time line for which you're asking about his knowledge, as opposed to the time line of ownership. Those are two different things.

MR. AIGEN: Okay.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) I'm not asking when you learned things. I'm just asking generally, let's start with who the owners were of HCLOM. So --

MR. MORRIS: Does that help?

THE WITNESS: That does help because you're exactly right.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Yeah. So tell me who the owners were of HCLOM at any period that you knew who the owners were?

A Sure. So, the -- when the entity was formed, there was an initial share that was directed by Highland under -- it was like Maples Service Corp., I might have that entity name wrong, but it was basically just a single issued share. And then when ownership was actually divvied out, I suppose, to an actual entity, it was transferred to an entity called Neutra, LTD, which is another Cayman entity.

And -- and I should clarify, as part of that, that was when the -- called the AB structure was set up where there was an economic owner. And then there was a voting owner. And so, Highland Capital Management had the -- the vote. And the ownership of the entity itself ran up to Neutra.

MR. MORRIS: That's N E U T R A.

THE WITNESS: Correct, sorry.

A (Continuing) And I'm not sure, I don't recall off the top of my head whether that was 99 percent economic ownership or if it was 100 percent.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) For Neutra?

A For Neutra, yeah.

Q And that ownership structure you just talked about, did that change at some point that you're aware of?

A Not that I could think of; however, there were other changes in ownership further up the chain.

Q What are you referring to there?

A So Neutra was owned by an entity called Pollock, LTD.

Q How do you spell that?

A Like Jackson Pollock. And Pollock transferred its interest in Neutra to an entity domiciled in the British Virgin Islands called Highland CLO Assets Holdings Limited, I believe.

Q Okay. Other than the ownership change higher up that you talked about, are you aware of any other ownership change with HCLOM after the ownership structure you just discussed with me?

A At some point there was a trust placed between two of the entities in the structure, I don't recall the name of that trust.

Q Do you know which two entities?

A Between which two entities? I believe it was between Neutra and Highland CLO Assets Holdings Limited, but I'm not 100 percent certain on that.

Q And how is Neutra --

A Sorry, there was one other change that I recall which was at some point in 2022 or 2023 Highland, I don't recall the mechanics of how it lost its voting shares, but its voting shares were -- were no longer.

Q And was that part of the Highland bankruptcy?

A Generally, yeah.

Q After Highland lost its voting shares in 2022 or '23, did Highland have any sort of interest at all in HCLOM?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I struggle with "interest." I mean, we -- we, Highland, have -- have, you know, funds that are reserved for the claim. So in that sense we have a -- we have skin in the game with respect to HCLOM, but other than that I can't think of anything.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) That makes sense. Let me reask that and say after this 2022-23 time where Highland lost its voting shares, did it retain any economic interest or ownership interest or control interest in HCLOM?

A No, I don't believe so.

Q The Neutra entity you talked about, does that have any relationship to Jim at all?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A Jim Dondero.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Yes. Sorry.

A Sorry, yes.

Q How is Jim Dondero related to Neutra?

A It's possible that there are other ways, but as I understand it, he's the lifetime beneficiary of Dugaboy Investment Trust, which is the 75 percent owner of Highland CLO Assets Holdings Limited, which is the sole owner of Neutra LTD.

Q And you talked about the ownership structure, how it was -- there's initial share that was directed to Highland, is that correct, initially?

A Initial share of directed to Maples.

Q Oh, Maples.

A Yeah.
Q And then at some point it was -- Neutra was brought in; is that correct?
A (Witness nods head.)
Q Do you know approximately when that was?
A I think early February 2018.
Q Do you know why that was?
A It seems like -- again, I don't have personal knowledge of this, but the -- the only conclusion that I can reach from having prepared is that it was done to, you know, purposely move assets away from Highland and further out of the reach of Josh Terry.
Q And why do you believe that?
A Because I can't think of any other logical explanation for it.
Q How would moving it to Neutra affect Josh Terry?
A Moving it to Neutra puts it away from Highland. And given that Highland -- that Josh was involved in litigation with Highland, it seems like that was probably like an extra step removed from -- from Highland.
Q When it went to Neutra, did it come from Highland or did it come from Maples?
A I think legally speaking it came from Maples, but at the direction of Highland.

Q So prior going to Neutra, was Maples the sole owner of HCLOM?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the --

A I don't know legally, yeah, not my bailiwick.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. After it got transferred from Maples and Neutra came in, what affect did that have on Highlands' ownership of HCLOM?

A Sorry, could you do that again.

Q Well, let me try to rephrase it. Describe for me Highlands ownership interest in HCLOM, if any, after Neutra was involved?

A So, prior to Neutra being transferred to what I'll call the BVI entity, Highland was indirectly the sole economic owner of HCLOM. And then after that transfer, it either had no or -- I believe it had no economic interest, or maybe small.

Q And the transfer you're referring there is the transfer to Highland CLO Asset Holdings Limited?

A Correct.

Q And so --

A And -- and I should clarify to, the voting interest is consistent throughout, but that's a -- that's a noneconomic.

Q Okay. Is it fair to say that once there was this transfer to Highlands CLO Asset Holdings Limited, Highland no longer held a economic interest in HCLOM?

A That's a mouthful, but I think that's correct.

Q And when approximately did that occur?

A That transfer to -- you're talking about the transfer to the BVI entity?

Q To Highland CLO Asset Holdings Limited, that the BVI entity?

A Yes, yes, that happened December 20th, 2017.

Q 2017?

A Yes.

Q Okay. I may have some of this mixed up because I thought that occurred after Neutra was involved, but then I thought you told me Neutra came in in February of 2018.

A So Highland controlling the share through Maples issues shares in February to Neutra. So it's a little -- it's a little wonky in terms of the order.

Q But at that point Highland didn't have a economic interest, is that correct, when it issued it to Maples?

A I don't know from a legal standpoint it formed the entity. I don't know the status when it's under that Maple kind of placeholder, for lack of a better term.

Q Fair enough. During this whole 2017, '18 period, all these little transactions you talked about, during that time period, were you involved in these ownership change transactions at all?

A No.

Q Okay. Do you know who generally would have been handling there?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A Again, I don't have a personal knowledge, but the team that I understood to be working on that consisted of mainly JP Sevilla, Isaac Leventon, and likely a couple of others, but I don't know.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Were these changes in ownership interest in HCLOM that you just talked about something you were aware of at the time or just something you dealt with and learned about later?

A Learned about later.

Q Okay. Approximately, when did you learn or what were the -- what was the context?

A Middle of January 2018.

Q Of 2018. And that was a result of the Acis bankruptcy?

A No.

Q What was the context that you learned and had to deal with this stuff?

A I don't have a super fresh recollection of it, but I -- I remember having some, I guess, kind of getting wind of the fact that there were transfers that had happened towards the end of the year. And being the accountant who's trying to close the books for year end, I had conversation with Isaac about, hey, what -- I've heard there are some -- there have been some transfers, can I get the documentation for that. And then I think he followed up within a couple of days. I don't know if he provided all the documentation of those transfers, but he provided certainly a great deal.

Q Okay. And I may be missing all these dates, but is it accurate to say that Highland hasn't had an economic interest in HCLOM since December 20, 2017?

MR. MORRIS: Objection -- withdrawn.

A I'm not sure. And the reason I say that is because of the -- the -- the Maples piece.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. And you're not sure if Highland retained some sort of economic ownership through the Maples piece, is that the issue?

A Correct, because Highland was issuing -- Highland created it, Highland set it up, it's being basically held -- I'm using the wrong term, but effectively held in escrow for however Highland wants to direct it. So, that's what's giving me some pause.

Q Okay. Sitting here today, are you aware of any economic interest that Highland had in HCLOM after the December 20th, 2017 transaction we talked about?

A With the same caveat, yeah, I think certainly post February of 2018, no.

Q Okay. And you talked about in the 2022-23 time frame, Highland lost its voting shares in HCLOM; is that correct?

A Sometime in the '22-23 -- I think it's '22, but I'm not sure.

Q Can you give me the context about what you're referring to there?

A Well, I don't remember the specifics of -- of how it was mechanically done, but it was -- I think it was untenable for Highland to be the voting -- the voting interest in HCLOM with no economic interest and all the litigation going back and forth with Highland and Dondero. So again, I don't recall the mechanics, but mechanically it was -- it was made such that the -- the vote would effectively go back to either Dondero or some designee that he had.

Q Okay. Who set up that transaction?

A I think that was done amongst counsel, outside counsel and --

Q For who?

A I'm not -- I'm not sure.

Q Do you know if it was Dondero side doing this or Highland side doing this?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A It would have been Highland's, you know, internal counsel working with outside counsel to help effectuate that. And I believe there was coordination at the time with the Dondero side about who would you like to be put into this role. And so maybe -- maybe overstepping to say it was one-sided because I think there was conversation, but I think it's fair to say that Highland was driving that process.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. And I think originally you used the word that they lost their voting rights, is it fair to say that this was an agreement between Highland side and Jim side, or was one side forcing the other side to do it?

A I just don't even recall the mechanics of it to get into that specificity.

Q And was this an agreement that was approved by the bankruptcy court?

A I don't know if it was done via an agreement.

Q Have you ever seen an agreement papering up that transaction?

A Probably, but I don't -- I don't even know if it was an agreement. And then I don't -- whatever it was, whether it was an agreement or something else, I'm sure I've seen it, I'm sure it came across my e-mail at some point --

Q Okay.

A -- but I don't have a specific recollection.

Q Let me just ask, other than counsel -- other than conversations with counsel, have you had any conversations with anyone about this --

A Not that I can remember.

Q -- don't want to use the term transaction, it might be a transaction, but this time where Highland loss it's voting rights in HCLOM?

A Not that I can remember, but I'm sure I had conversations.

Q Who do you think they would have been with?

A Most likely with Tim Cournoyer from our legal team.

Q Was there a time within Highland, we're talking about after the bankruptcy, where there was some confusion as to whether Highland still held a economic interest in HCLOM?

A Could you ask it -- could you ask it again, I missed the beginning?

Q Was there some time period where Highland, I'm talking about in the bankruptcy, that there was some confusion about whether Highland held a economic ownership in HCLOM?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I think there was -- there were -- there were periods of confusion.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. And tell me about that?

A Well, the -- the piece that I am most familiar with is that there was a -- the paralegal at the Highland team who was -- had the impossible task of keeping track of entities in the Highland structure --

Q Is that Helen?

A Yes.

Q Helen Kim?

A Helen Kim. And so, she would -- she would keep track of those entities, and she -- she was fantastic at her job, she was very, very good. But, she -- she would keep track of the entities and periodically send out lists of -- of those entities, which, you know, would be used by other people in the organization for various purposes. And there's definitely some confusion in some of those spreadsheets with respect to who actually owns this thing and, you know, from -- from that -- that time period of 2018, 2019.

Q Okay. Was there some point in time where you remember people at Highland realizing, oh, we don't actually have a economic interest in HCLOM when they originally thought they did?

A I -- I couldn't tell you the specific time or remember a specific time, but at some point came to that understanding.

Q Okay. Do you know what year was that?

A Probably -- probably 2021.

Q And tell me about that, were you involved in any of these conversations?

A Possible, but I don't remember.

Q How do you know that this sort of, for lack of better words, revelation came that people at Highland learned that they did not have a economic interest in HCLOM when they originally thought they might have?

A I think -- I think it most likely came about around the time of post-confirmation, sometime between post-confirmation and call it end of '21 or early '22 where the -- the focus shifted to, all right, let's -- let's work through and bang through all of the schedules and any -- any loose-end claims that are -- that are out there. And so I -- I suspect that as part of that process, you know, in digging into the scheduled claims and the other proof of claims that were out there, people really dug in and got a really better understanding.

Q Do you have any idea who was the one who discovered that Highland did not have this ownership interest in HCLOM?

A No.

Q Do you know when you learned that?

A No.

Q Okay. Do you have any understanding as to what -- I know you don't know the person, but what someone reviewed or saw that led Highland to the conclusion that it did not have an economic interest in HCLOM?

A No personal knowledge, but I -- but I assume one or more people reviewed the corporate docs and the share registers, and things of that nature to determine that -- precisely what had happened and when it had happened, but I don't know when that occurred.

MR. MORRIS: Finish up in just three minutes?

MR. AIGEN: Yeah.

MR. MORRIS: It's 12:22.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) What are the significance of the Class A shares of HCLOM?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I don't know which shares are the Class A shares.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Is it your understanding that there are Class A and Class B shares?

A I'm not -- I'm sure there's two classes, I'm just not sure what they are.

Q And is it your understanding that one is voting interest and one is non-voting?

A Generally, one is voting, one is economic, as I would probably phrase it.

Q Okay. And we've gone through all the different owners, the economic owners of HCLOM, is there any other changes or anything that you know about that you didn't tell me about them with respect to that?

A None that I can remember.

Q Okay. Maybe we can do this in two minutes, but can you tell me generally who had the controlling interest in HCLOM when it was formed and how that changed, if it did?

A I don't know how to define "controlling interest."

Q Okay. Well, let's say who had an interest in HCLOM separate and apart from the economic interest?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I'm not certain, but I believe it would have been Highland Capital Management LP via the voting shares. I'm not certain if it held those, but I -- I think it most likely did.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. Well, we talked about before how in either 2022 or '23 Highland lost its voting shares in HCLOM?

A Yes, and I should have clarified, I think that's directly, but maybe it was indirectly.

Q If it was indirectly, do you know who it would have been through, what entity?

A No.

Q Prior to this loss of its voting shares, do you know anyone else other than Highland or its entity that may have held its voting shares in that would have held the voting shares in HCLOM?

A I suppose maybe Maples during that period before the -- I think it's an A/B structure -- before that A/B structure was set up, so maybe, maybe during that time period, but I couldn't make that conclusion. Afterwards, I can't think of any.

MR. AIGEN: Okay. Now is a good time to take a lunch break.

VIDEOGRAPHER: We're off the record at 12:24.

VIDEOGRAPHER: We are back on the record at 1:22.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Prior to the break, I just want to finish this topic up, we were talking a little bit about the fact that at some point people at Highland thought that it had a economic ownership interest in HCLOM and then it turned out that they learned that they didn't, do you remember that?

A Generally.

Q I think I asked you, but I don't remember, do you remember the approximate date where people at Highland realized that they had made is this mistake?

A No.

Q Okay. Do you know how it was discovered?

A No.

Q Okay. Do you know who would know that?

A I don't know.

Q Okay. To put it into context, at that time period, again, I know you don't know exactly when, was it your understanding at that time, did you have also hold this erroneous belief that Highland had an ownership interest in HCLOM?

A I am not sure. I'm not sure when I came to my current understanding.

Q And that's -- I was asking the prior questions about Highlands and now I'm just seeing if I got any difference answer so I'm asking about you. So, do you remember a time period when you realized you had a mistaken belief about Highland having a economic interest in HCLOM?

MR. MORRIS: Hey, Frank, still has that belief, he's your 30(b)(6) witness.

A I'm not sure. I'm not sure.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Is it accurate to say sitting here today that Highland does not have a economic ownership interest in HCLOM?

A Yes, that's correct.

Q Okay. Do you know who currently owns a economic interest in HCLOM?

A Well, Dubaboy -- Dugaboy Investment Trust and Mark Okada through the structure.

Q And do you know who has the controlling or voting interest we talked about before?

MR. MORRIS: Are you asking today?

MR. AIGEN: Yes.

A I'm -- I'm not certain, but it -- I believe it's a person or entity that -- that was designated.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. And are you familiar with a similarly named entity called Highland CLO Management LLC?

A Am I familiar?

Q Yeah, have you ever heard of it?

A Yeah, I've heard of it.

Q If I referred to it as HCLOM LLC, will that work for today?

A That would be great.

Q Okay. And what is HCLOM LLC?

A HCLOM LLC is -- well, I don't know what it is today. I don't -- I don't believe it is today, but when it was formed, it was intended to be the -- the Highland risk retention vehicle. So new CLO's that would have been launched after its formation would have been managed by Highland CLO Management LLC.

Any Acis deals that were going to be reset or refinanced were going to be reset under Highland CLO Management LLC or HCLOM LLC. And it was effectively going to be a mirror of a similar structure that existed under Acis previously, with a very similar sounding name Acis CLO Management LLC.

Q You used a term "risk retention vehicle" in referring to HCLOM LLC, but then you used the term manager, is that -- are those different terms?

A Yes.

Q What's the difference between HCLOM LLC being a risk retention vehicle and HCLOM LLC being a manager?

A So, there was a -- there was a expected regime change around the time that went to managers of CLO's having more skin in the game and actually putting up their own capital in -- in CLO's that they launched. And so, prior to that point, and I'll get my dates wrong a little bit, but, you know, prior to the 2015, 2016 time period, there wasn't a requirement for managers to have skin in the game. There was a series of regulation, which I'm not familiar with enough to speak eloquently about it, but that was coming through at that time that required managers to have some skin in the game. And so, there were structures put in place by CLO managers like Highland or like an Acis to ensure their compliance with risk retention when that regime became effective. But then ultimately, that -- the rules around risk retention ultimately got reversed I believe in 2018.

Q Okay.

A And then I think the second part was about the -- the portfolio manager role and that's -- that's just the very basic role of being the manager for the CLO's, making investment decisions on behalf of the CLO's and earning a fee.

Q Okay. So an entity can be a manager of the CLO or it could be the risk retention vehicle or it could be both; is that fair to say?

A I think that's fair to say. I'm not -- I'm not 100 percent certain. Risk retention vehicle, I don't -- I don't exactly know what that means the way you're using it, but so I should qualify it that way.

Q And I was just trying to use the term you were using.

So approximately when was HCLOM LLC formed?

A I believe it was formed in early October of 2017.

Q And do you have an understanding as to who owned it when it was formed?

A I don't -- I don't recall.

Q Okay. Or who owned it later?

A I don't recall.

Q Or do you know its officers were, its directors at any point in time?

A I'm not sure that it had directors, it may have. In terms of officers, I think it was the same slate as the Highland slate, but I'm not -- I'm not certain.

Q Did it have any employees?

A No.

Q Okay. Whose idea was it to create this entity?

A I don't know.

Q What role, if any, did you have with respect to creating this entity?

A None.

Q Okay. What role did you have, if any, with respect to this entity at all?

A I -- I think ultimately the accounting for -- when we say that entity, it's one entity out of a structure of probably six or seven entities. So the accounting for probably not all, but for some of those entities would have fallen under my -- under my group.

Q And what are the other entities, I don't mean the names, but what -- when you say that group, are you talking about HCLOM related entities or something different?

A HCLOM LLC related entities.

Q Okay. That being the case, to the best you can, can you tell me the names of these other entities or just describe how they're related?

A I may get the names slightly wrong, but there was Highland CLO Intermediate Holdings 1, Highland Intermediate Holdings 2, Highland CLO Management LP, and I believe one or two more that are escaping me.

Q Okay. And just so I have this right, was HCLOM LLC formed to be the risk retention vehicle or the manager of Acis CLO's or both?

A It was meant to be the -- the manager of CLO's launched perspectively. And it was going to be fulfilling that role in a risk retention compliant way.

Q Was there any specific reason that HCLOM, the other entity, couldn't do that and the HCLOM LLC needed to be created?

A Well, HCLOM LLC was created before HCLOM LTD.

And as to the rest of the question, can you ask it again?

Q Okay. And we're kind of getting something we're going to get into, but is it your understanding that at some point an agreement was entered where it was contemplated that HCLOM would replace Acis as manager?

A I believe that's contemplated in the assignment agreement.

Q So given that that was contemplated, why was there this other entity created, HCLOM LLC, that also appears to have been contemplated to be the manager of Acis CLO's?

A I -- I don't think it was created with that purpose in mind.

Q Okay. Explain how I'm incorrect or what was the purpose?

A Well, I -- I think the purpose was to take the note. The purpose of HCLOM LLC seems to have been done with good intentions of actually being the successor manager and perspective manager for new CLO's in a way that would have been risk retention compliant. And so, it took a series of steps to make that happen. And I'm not aware of any of those steps being taken at HCLOM LTD. Whether it could have taken those steps, I don't know.

Q Do you have any understanding as to whether there was anything preventing HCLOM LTD from becoming the manager like HCLOM LLC was intended to be?

A I'm not certain one way or the other.

Q But it's your understanding or your belief that these two separate entities were created so one could take the note and the other one could manage; is that correct?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A The two entities were formed it seems like -- it seems to me that the HCLOM LLC entity was formed to be the manager perspectively. And there -- there doesn't seem to be a good reason for HCLOM LTD to be formed other than to take the assignment of the note.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. And let me -- I'm probably assuming answers to my question which isn't a good idea, so let me just ask generally, why were there two different HCLOM entities formed?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form.

A I don't have personal knowledge into that, but -- but again, it -- it seems to me like one was formed to take the note and the other was formed to have a valid business purpose.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) And what's the basis for that belief?

A For one, lack of evidence to the contrary. And then No. 2 would be, all the actions that HCLOM LLC actually, you know, did undertake through Highland. Because again, there were no employees, but there were -- there were things at -- things like engaging bankers to launch new CLO's, having written shared services and sub-advisory agreements with Highland, and actually taking the reset of Acis 2014-3 all the way to the finish line with respect to -- with respect to that reset under HCLOM LLC.

Q Okay. Did you ever have any discussions with anyone about the reasons why two HCLOM entities were created?

A Not that I can remember.

Q Is it correct that you were characterizing this as your speculation why they were created and you don't have firsthand knowledge as to why two different HCLOM entities were created?

A I think that's fair.

Q Okay. So you said -- you gave me two different reasons, one was the lack of evidence to the contrary and one were the actions that LLC took. The second one I think is easier to start with. The actions that HCLOM LLC took, is it fair that what you were referring to, it took actions that would allow it to become a manager of CLO's, is that what you're referring to?

A Yes.

Q Are you referring to anything else other than HCLOM LLC taking actions that would allow it to become a manager?

A Not that I can think of.

Q And then the other one, lack of evidence to the contrary. What are you referring to when you say that there's a lack of evidence to contrary?

A Just that this is more with respect HCLOM LTD -- sorry, for the LLC's and LTDs -- I -- I haven't seen any evidence of HCLOM LTD really doing anything.

Q Okay. Can you give me some examples of what you haven't seen evidence of actions that it took?

A It's kind of phrased in the negative, so can I put it in terms of the --

Q You can compare it to the other entity.

A So some of the things that HCLOM LLC did were -- well, first of all, before HCLOM LLC was even a thing, new issued CLO's as well as resets were contemplated to be under Acis CLO Management LLC because it already had a risk retention compliant structure and it actually launched a CLO within that structure. So I guess that's a starting point.

But at some time it seems in early October, there's a decision made to continue all the activities that were planned for H- -- Acis CLO Management at Highland CLO Management LLC. And so in terms of engaging with a bank to organize and launch new CLO's, as well as resets of existing CLO's, that's all being contemplated to occur at HCLOM LLC. And so there are engagement letters either negotiated or signed at that time. There is written shared services and sub-advisory agreements entered into, I don't remember the specific timing of those, but it did occur.

And when it came to actually taking these to the finish line, which was, as best as I can tell, ongoing throughout October, November, December into January, that was entirely done through really the CLO team that's leading that charge, but on behalf of Highland CLO Management LLC.

Q And do you have any personal knowledge as to why HCLOM LTD did not take any of those actions?

A No personal knowledge.

Q Have you ever had any discussions with anyone about why HCLOM LTD did not take those actions?

A Other than rank speculation with counsel, no.

Q The fact that HCLOM LTD did not take those actions, is that something that you were aware of back when all this was happening, or just something that you learned recently as part of all this litigation?

A More recently as part of the litigation.

Q Were you aware that there were two different HCLOM entities in the 2017 time frame, 2017, 2018?

A I'm not sure. I think -- I think by 2018 I was.

Q So back when you were aware in 2018, what was your understanding as to why there were two HCLOM entities?

A I have no recollection.

Q Are you aware of anything that would -- would have prevented HCLOM LTD from becoming the manager and taking all these actions that HCLOM LLC did?

A Not that I can articulate, but I believe there probably were some, but I'm not sure specifically what.

Q So one difference between the entities is that the LLC is a US entities and LTD is a foreign entity; is that correct?

A Yes, that's right.

Q Do you know if that was one of the differences that may have stopped LTD from being able to take these steps?

A It may have been, but I don't know.

Q Sitting here today, can you identify any hurdles or anything that would have prevented HCLOM LTD to take these steps to become the manager?

A I can't identify any. It doesn't preclude that there could be, but I couldn't identify.

Q I understand. And to sort of paraphrase your words, your speculation is that HCLOM LTD was created to take the note, is that a fair description of how you testified?

A It seems that way based on -- I can't come up with another conclusion.

Q Okay. And when you say "to take the note" what do you mean?

A To take assignment of the note.

Q Okay. Have you ever had any conversations with anyone other than counsel about the fact that HCLOM LTD may have been created for the purposes of taking the note?

A I don't -- I don't think so.

Q Okay. Is it your belief that HCLOM LTD was not created to become the successor manager for the Asic CLOs?

A I'm not sure if I perfectly understand the question, but I can answer in the sense that I haven't seen evidence that it was created for that purpose, other than the actual assignment agreement.

Q Okay. At the time of the assignment, you were aware that other assignment agreement was entered into; is that correct?

A I became aware at some point, I'm not sure when.

Q At that point in time, did you have a belief that HCLOM LTD was being created to take over the management of the Acis CLOs?

A I don't know. I don't know when I found out, so --

Q And that's what I'm just trying to pin down a little bit, at some point between then and now, you formed the belief that HCLOM LTD was formed to take the note and not to manage the CLO's; is that correct?

A Yeah, at some point.

Q Approximately, when did you form that belief; sometime recently in the bankruptcy or back in the day when you -- prior to the bankruptcy?

A Recently, in the last six months.

Q Okay. And what did you see or who did you talk to that led you to that conclusion?

MR. MORRIS: Objection, asked and answered about four times.

A Yes.

MR. MORRIS: You can answer.

A So, through review of documents and preparation for this deposition.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. But is there any information you saw in preparation that led to you to this conclusion that you didn't have access to back in 2017 and 2018?

A I'm not sure what I had access to in 2017 and 2018.

Q Well, was there any newly discovered information that you discovered in preparation that led you to this belief?

A I'm not sure if I knew or if I could have known, but being able to see the time line of when entities were formed, when like, for example, an engagement letter, I wouldn't have -- in the moment, is it possible that I could have known that Highland was -- or Highland CLO Management LLC was signing up with Mizuho to be the banker, possibly. But, until spending the time to look at what happened and when it happened, it didn't really paint as clear -- that's when I got more clarity to the picture.

Q So did you see anything in 2017 or 2018 that would have led you to believe that HCLOM LLC was the entity that was attempting to become the manager?

A Yes, I -- I think I would have seen -- I would have been on e-mail communications at some point between October and January where I'm seeing that HCLOM LLC is going to be the successor manager, is going to be the manager to these reset CLOs. I'm certain I would have been on e-mails to that effect.

Q Did you ever say to anyone, well, why isn't HCLOM LTD doing this instead of HCLOM LLC?

A I don't know.

Q Do you remember having any discussions with anyone about the fact that it was supposed to be HCLOM LTD, but instead it looked to be HCLOM LLC that was doing it back in 2017 or '18?

A I don't remember any.

Q Okay. So is there any specific reason that you now have this opinion that something nefarious was going on with trying to take the note, but you didn't hold that opinion back in 2017 and '18?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I don't think I had a basis in 2017, 2018 to be able to make that kind of a conclusion. Whereas, I feel like I do now.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) And can you point me to any specific information that you have now that allows you to make the conclusion that you did not have back in 2017 or '18?

MR. MORRIS: Objection, asked and answered.

A Just the -- the documents that I've had a chance to review in preparation for the deposition.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) But were there any specific documents that you reviewed that helped you reach that conclusion that you did not have access to back in '17 and '18?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question?

A I don't know what I had access to in 2017 or '18, that's the hard part.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Are HCLOM LLC and HCLOM LTD connected in any way, do they have any common ownership or does one own the other?

A That's a little broad. You know, ultimately they're -- they were controlled by Dondero. But in terms of a economic ownership of one owning the other, no.

(Exhibit 3 marked.)

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. I've just -- I've just handed you what's been marked as Exhibit 3. This is a document entitled Assignment and Transfer Agreement and it is Bates labeled -- from other litigation, it's Bates labeled Acis 50 through 55.

A Okay.

Q And my simple question is just going to start with, do you recognize needs this document?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Can you identify this document for the record?

A It's the Assignment and Transfer Agreement by in between Acis Capital Management LP, Highland Capital Management LP, and Highland CLO Management LTD.

Q And is this the assignment agreement we've generally talked about throughout this deposition?

A Yes.

Q Do you prefer a shorter name for this, assignment and/or transfer agreement?

A How about the November transfer agreement.

Q Okay. There are times throughout this deposition where you uses the term "assignment," fair to say this is the document you were talking about?

A Not necessarily. In some cases, yes, but there might be some other instances where I was referring to something else.

Q Okay. There's no other document you know of where the note that we talked about was being transferred to another company, is there; this is the only assignment of that note?

A Correct.

Q Okay. Did you have any role with respect to the preparation of this document?

A I had no role with respect to the preparation of this document. I don't believe I did, but I'll clarify, I think I had some surreptitious involvement because I know that I was asked at this time, you know, how -- with money sloshing back and forth, who was ahead, who was behind. And I know I was asked at this time who's ahead and who's behind, and how much are they behind. And it was, well, Acis is behind by $3 million. And then lo and below, there's $3 million of expense support, so in that sense, if you want call that being involved then.

Q Is that something you actually remember or you just know that happened because you've being reviewing documents for the deposition?

A I vaguely remember it, but I think there's an e-mail to that effect of just asking me where we stand.

Q Do you have any idea who was responsible for drafting this document?

A Not specifically.

Q Generally?

A It -- it would have been some combination of JP Sevilla, Isaac, Tim Cournoyer, maybe others, but I would expect that one -- one of those would have been involved in the drafting.

Q And those were all internal Highland lawyers that you just named?

A That's correct. And I don't know to what extent that they used outside counsel, but they may have.

Q Other than what you just told me about, who was behind and how much, do you remember having any conversations with anyone about Exhibit 3 prior to it being drafted?

A No.

Q Okay. What's your understanding as to who the parties are to this agreement?

A Per -- per the document, Highland CLO Management LTD, Acis Capital Management LP, and Highland Capital Management LP are the parties.

Q And do you have an understanding as to what the purpose of this document was?

A Yeah, basic understanding.

Q Can you tell me that understanding, please?

A So, the -- the purpose is to -- I guess to put it in more lay terms, is to have HCLOM undertake to be the successor manager and remit fees over to Highland and effectively step into Acis's shoes. And also step into Acis's shoes with respect to receipt of principal interest payments on the note. With the -- with the added quirk that there's this concept of expense support where HCLOM is agreeing to -- is agreeing to do the things that it talks about in paragraph 4.

Q You referred to that as a "quirk", I'm just curious why you used that language?

A Just because this wouldn't be something that I would -- that would be customary, I suppose, in a assignment and transfer agreement based on my experience.

Q Do you know why clause 4, Expense Support, was include in this agreement?

A Yeah, I believe it was included because Highland was ahead by about three million at that time, and that was -- I don't know this for a fact, but I strongly suspect that this was to somewhat inoculate against the defense that, you know, material asset value is being stripped out of Acis.

Q Okay. And that's why they were three million ahead, that's why the number in this add up to three million, the two million plus the one million?

A That's correct.

Q Have you ever had any conversations with anyone other than counsel about the purpose or intent of this expense support clause?

A I'm sure I had conversations with Isaac back in 2018 or 2019, but I don't -- I don't remember the nature of those.

Q Prior to this agreement being entered into, do you remember having any conversations with anyone about why this agreement was being used?

A I'm sorry, prior to when?

Q The agreement being entered into.

A No.

Q Okay. After it was entered into, did you have any conversations with anyone other than counsel about why this agreement was being used?

A Not that I can think of.

Q Have you ever had any conversations with Mr. Dondero about this agreement?

A I don't believe so.

Q Have you ever had any conversations with Mr. Waterhouse about this agreement?

A Not that I can remember, but very possible.

Q None that you remember?

A None that I remember specifically.

Q Any conversations with Mr. Serry about this document outside the presence of counsel?

A None that I can think of.

Q What's your understanding as to what responsibilities Acis had under this agreement, if any?

A I'm not sure that I really have an understanding other than just what's contained in the document.

Q Okay. And what understanding do you have, if any, as to what Highland's responsibilities were under this agreement?

A Same answer.

Q Okay. And what's your understanding, if any, as to what HCLOM's responsibilities were under this agreement?

A Same answer.
Q And just so we have the record, can you give me that answer?
A Sure, I'm I'll probably butcher it, but the HCLOM responsibilities?
Q Yes.
A Let's see. Looks like HCLOM -- yeah, caveating that the whole agreement applies, HCLOM is going to -- it -- really the -- the big two are, as I see it, is Section 3.C where it's undertaking to remit servicer fees. And then section 4 where it's offering to pay expense support to Acis. There may be other things in here, but those are the two that stick out.
Q With respect to 3.C, remitting servicer fees, do you believe that HCLOM failed to remit any servicer fees that it was supposed to remit to Highland?
A I don't believe HCLOM received any servicer fees.
Q Is it fair to say, then, that it's not your belief that HCLOM failed to comply with section 3.C?
MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.
A Yeah, I would -- I'd say 3.C looks almost inapplicable just from the standpoint of what is -- what is envisioned to happen never happened.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) And then Section 4 that you mentioned before, the offer to pay expense support, did HCLOM fail to do anything with respect to Section 4 that it was supposed to do under this agreement?

A I believe it may have. I -- I know Acis made demands from time to time with respect to expenses.

And I should go back to Section 2 as well, that's another undertaking of HCLOM where it says it will promptly pursue successor manager appointment. So, you know, again, I'd rely on the whole document, not just the parts I cherrypicked, but clearly there's an undertaking envisioned in Section 2.

Q Okay. I just want to finish up what you said about Section 4, do you have any specific recollection about demands that Acis may have made that implicated Section 4 here?

A No -- no recollection, but I believe I've seen that as part of the preparation.

Q What sort of demands; for reimbursement?

A Correct.

Q Do you know roughly what sort of money we're talking about?

A I don't remember.

Q Do you remember when approximately?

A No, not specifically.

Q Okay. And then Section 2, you mentioned that it talks about probably pursuing to get appointed as manager; is that correct?

A Pursue successor manager appointment.

Q Okay. And it's your understanding that HCLOM did not promptly pursue successor management appointment, is that correct, is that understanding?

A That's correct.

Q Okay. And tell me why not?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Actually, what do they not do that leads you to the belief that they did not seek successor manager appointment?

A I'm not sure what steps would have been involved in that pursuit, but I don't believe they did anything. So whatever they had to do, they didn't do.

Q So when you say they don't believe they did anything, do you have firsthand knowledge or personal knowledge as to what they did or didn't do with respect to becoming manager?

A No personal knowledge, I just haven't seen any -- in my preparation, I haven't seen any evidence of them having done something.

Q Okay. So sitting here today, you have no firsthand knowledge as to whether HCLOM took any steps to become successor manager; is that fair to say?

A Well, I -- I -- I think I have a basis to say that they didn't from having done the work that I've done to prepare. But, I -- I suppose I couldn't foreclose that possibility entirely. Just, I don't know what I haven't seen, I guess.

Q Let me ask you, what have you seen that would support the conclusion that HCLOM did not pursue successor manager appointment?

A It's kind of proving a negative. It's -- it's the fact that I haven't seen anything.

Q Fair enough. So there's nothing specific we can point to that you've seen that would lead to the conclusion that HCLOM did not seek appointment as successor manager?

MR. MORRIS: You have.

A Well, the -- let me -- one thing I've seen is the things that HCLOM LLC did during that time. So seeing these things, these entities formed at approximately the same time, LLC's first, and seeing all the things LLC did do effectively at the same time HCLOM LTD, I think it's theoretically, should have been doing and not seeing any evidence of LTD doing anything, leads me to believe that they didn't do anything.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. Let me ask you about just a couple of the recitals on the first --

A You know, and actually --

Q Oh, sorry.

A -- another document that -- that comes to my mind is the acknowledgment and waiver from January where again, it's the parties acknowledging -- the parties being, I believe, HCLOM LTD and Highland Capital Management LP -- that HCLOM LTD is never going to be the successor manager and it's going to be this company called LLC.

Q We'll get to that. Turn to the first page because I have a couple of quick questions. There's fourth recital that says or starts, Whereas, Acis has determined that the effective notification is that it cannot fulfill its duties of the portfolio manager of the CLO's, do you see that "whereas" clause?

A I do.

Q Do you have any reason to disagree or agree with that "whereas" clause?

A So I'm not aware -- I'm not aware of the notification. I've seen this document, but I don't have any knowledge of that notification having actually occurred.

And then, on -- as far as the -- the beef of it, has Acis has determined that it cannot fulfill its duties as portfolio manager, I think that's undermined a little bit by the fact that it continued to fulfill its duties as portfolio manager from this point forward, you know, into 2018 until it lost control of the CLO's.

Q And why did it continue to act as manager after the -- this agreement was entered into?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A It was -- Acis was still the manager of the CLO's.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) I apologize if I asked this before, but do you have an understanding as to whether Acis failed to do anything that it was supposed to do under the assignment transfer agreement?

A I don't believe that Acis promptly provided the controlling class with notice requesting appointment of HCLOM. It may have, but I don't believe it did.

Q Why do you not believe it did --

MR. MORRIS: Hold on let him finish.

A Well, I was going to move on to the next thing. I don't believe Acis pursued -- in Section 2, I don't believe Acis pursued successor manager appointment of HCLOM as described in the agreement.

I think that Acis certainly didn't remit servicer fees after the end of -- after the date of this agreement with -- you know, with the -- I guess you could -- you could split hairs on the January payment where they sent it, but then Highland sends it back and then it's probably all under the same control. But then certainly didn't send anymore fees after the bankruptcy, after, you know, January of 2018, after that point.

So, it's -- those are the things that jump out, there may be others.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) What do you believe that HCLOM could have done to become successor manager that it did not do?

A I -- I just don't know. I -- I don't know what the steps involved in that with any level of detail.

Q Do you know if the ability of HCLOM to be successor manager was affected by Acis's bankruptcy or the temporary restraining order being entered?

A I don't know if it was affected, but by that -- but by the time Acis was put into bankruptcy, everything was under LLC anyways.

Q What do you mean by that?

A Every -- all resets, new issued CLOs were contemplated to be under HCLOM LLC, you know, well prior to the bankruptcy.

Q And I think you said it was all done, but then you said something about contemplated. So let me ask you, when were these resets issued with HCLOM LLC with respect to the Acis bankruptcy?

A Sorry, you got to do that again.

Q Let me ask it easier maybe. When were these resets completed with HCLOM LLC that you referred to?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A None were completed. One was, you know, at the altar in late January, and that was going to be under HCLOM LLC.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) And how do you know it was going to be under LLC and not LTD?

A Because the entities were formed, cash was funded, bank accounts were set up, agreements were entered into. It was -- it was ready to price.

Q And at that point in time, did you have any discussions with anyone about why it was being done through LLC not LTD?

A Not that I remember.

Q Okay. But you were aware that it was contemplated that is it would be through LTD, is that correct, at that time?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I don't know -- I don't know what I knew at the time. I think people were charging forward with there's going to be a new Acis reset under LLC, and that's what people were working towards.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Changing topics a little bit here. You're aware that there was litigation between Highland and Acis; is that correct?

A Generally speaking, yes.

Q And you're aware at some point they reached a settlement; is that fair to say?

A Yes.

Q And just so I can determine how much we get into this, what -- what knowledge do you have related to the litigation between Acis and Highland that lead to the settlement?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I really need you to be more specific, it's too broad.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Do you have an understanding of any of the claims asserted by Acis against Highland?

A Very rough understanding.

Q Give your me rough understanding?

A Really that Highland was, you know, involved in an effort to deprive Josh Terry of his arbitration award that he had received from Acis. And that, you know, Highland took steps to deprive him of that -- that award. Beyond that, I don't really -- couldn't go into the specifics.

Q And is it your understanding that one of these efforts included the transfer of the note as part of Exhibit 3?

A I'm not sure exactly.

Q And I guess that's what I wanted to get into, do you have any knowledge related to what role the note and the transfer had with respect to the litigation between Acis and Highland?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I think it was a part of it, but I don't know how big of a part or how big of an issue, if it was a small issue, a big issue, an almost nothing issue.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. You're aware that within that litigation, Highland never took the position that the note was unenforceable, right?

A I'm not sure if I'm facile with the exact position that Highland took.

Q But is that consistent with your understanding?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I'm not sure.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) You just don't know?

A Yeah, I'm not sure.

Q Okay. Are you aware of anything, any new evidence that was discovered that would have led Highland to change its position with respect to the enforceability of the note?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A You said new information?

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Or any information?

A Yeah, I mean, I think it wasn't until doing the deeper dive into the scheduled claims and other miscellaneous proof of claims that -- I don't think it was until that point.

Q And what do you mean by that?

A I just don't know that anyone had looked at it with that amount of specificity.

Q When you say looked at it with respect to the scheduled claims, are you referring to the claims in the Highland bankruptcy related to the note?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And it's your understanding that the schedule originally listed the payee under the note as someone other than HCLOM; is that correct?

A Yes, the original schedules, yes.

Q And do you remember who the payee was under the original schedules?

A I believe it was scheduled as Highland CLO -- Highland CLO Hold Co, I think, I'm not certain on that, but I think that was the entity that was list.

Q And at some point it was discovered that that was a mistake and it was amended, and HCLOM was listed at the payee; is that correct?

A I don't have personal knowledge of that, but I believe that to be correct, yea.

Q Okay. Do you have any knowledge as to how that error was made or why it was -- or how it was discovered?

A No personal knowledge or recollection. I -- I know that there was a -- a schedule of the note -- note amortization schedule that had at the top Highland -- I think it was Highland CLO Holdings Limited at the top of it. So total speculation, but I think whoever was probably putting together the schedules, saw that, picked up that entity, maybe there was like a text limitation in the software or whatever, again total speculation. And so, they started shortened "Holdings" to "Hold Co," but again that's just a total -- that's a total guess.

Q Is there any connection between the Highland CLO entity that you mentioned and the Highland CLO Hold Co?

A I don't believe Highland CLO Hold Co is a thing.

Q Oh, okay. Sitting here today, you have no reason to believe it's an actual entity?

A I haven't seen it, I'm not aware.

Q Have you ever had any -- well, you testified that this is sort of your assumptions on what happened, have you ever had any conversations with anyone other than counsel on how that mistake was made or how it was discovered?

A No. Not that I can remember.

Q And that was two question, let me get into the second one. Do you have any knowledge as to how that mistake was discovered?

A Oh, how that was discovered? No.

Q When did you first find out about this mistake, was it after or before the amended schedule was filed?

A Oh, I think -- I think after, quite a bit after.

Q So you weren't involved in filing of the amended schedules?

A No.

Q Who would have been? Other than lawyers?

A Yeah, I'm -- I'm sure lawyers, possibly DSI the financial advisor, possibly internal people at Highland, Highland legal team.

Q And sitting here today, you don't know who discovered that mistake?

A No.

Q Did you ever have any conversations with Mr. Serry about whether Highland would be liable on the note? That's of counsel.

A I don't believe so outside of with counsel.

Q Okay. Are you aware of whether Mr. Serry testified in the Acis bankruptcy that Highland would be liable on the note?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I don't have a specific recollection of that.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Generally?

A I -- I -- I believe he may have testified to that effect.

Q Do you believe that's still Highland's position today that it is liable on that note?

A I don't believe Highland's position is that we're liable on the note, no.

Q So what changed between Mr. Serry testifying to that and the position currently today?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I'm not sure and don't have personal knowledge, but I believe he was under the impression that HCLOM was owned 100 percent by Highland, so it was -- the whole thing was kind of moot.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Did you ever have any conversations with anyone about that?

A I'm sure it's come up with Mr. Serry and with counsel at times, but I couldn't pinpoint anything for you.

Q Have you ever seen anything in writing about Mr. Serry's mistaken belief that HCLOM was owned by Highland?

A Not that I can recall.

Q Okay. Are you aware of anything that Mr. Serry may have learned sometime in between telling the Acis bankruptcy court that Highland would be liable on the note and today where Highland is taking the position that it is not liable on the note?

A Not specifically, but you know, I think he's had a chance to review many of the same documents that I've had a chance to review just as part of my preparation and I'm sure his preparation.

Q Okay. And what is it that you believe that he would have learned that led to that change?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A Well, for starters, that Highland CLO Management isn't a wholly owned subsidiary of Highland, but also just the more granularity around the transfers and the transactions that occurred between, you know, call it November -- October, October, November of 2017 and early part of 2018.

And to be clear, I don't -- I don't know when he became aware of those things, if that was through this production or earlier, I -- you'd have to ask him.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) And -- and those things we're referring to, I believe, as what you earlier testified about the LLC vs. LTD difference, is that what you're referring to?

A Among other things.

Q Okay. And again, I don't like to put words in your mouth, but you had some information back in 2017 and '18, but you came to the conclusion sometime as part of the litigation going on that LTD was never actually trying to become the successor manager; is that correct?

A I'm not sure what information I had access to in 2017, 2018.

Q Again, I already asked you that part, I'm trying to ask something new here. Did you come to that conclusion from your review of documents or did someone bring that conclusion to you and you said, oh, yes I agree?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I think I've reached that conclusion independently. If other people agree with that, you know, possible. I don't know who brought it to who, but I think I could have reached that conclusion independently and I think I probably did, but I'm not sure.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) And that sitting here today, you can't tell me whether you independently reached that conclusion or someone brought it to you; is that fair to say?

A I don't know. I don't know.

Q Just don't remember?

A Don't remember.

Q Do you remember discussing the conclusion with anyone other than counsel?

A Not specifically.

Q Okay. Take a look at some those other agreements that you've referenced throughout today.

MR. AIGEN: Let's mark these two. They go chronologically. Thank you.

(Exhibit 4 and Exhibit 5 marked.)

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. I've just handed you two documents that may or may not be related, we'll figure that out, Exhibit 4 and Exhibit 5. Exhibit 4 is titled Payment Cancellation Agreement and it's Bates labeled HCLOM8893. And document five -- or Exhibit 5 is titled Forbearance Agreement and it's Bates labeled HCLOM9462.

Can you -- are you familiar with these two documents?

A Generally, I've seen them both.

Q Okay. They are dated 2017, 2018, do you believe you saw them back in that time period or is it just something you've seen recently?

A Sorry, I'm thrown off because I think there's a typo in the -- in the date. So, I believe this payment cancellation agreement -- so first of all, I don't believe this was ever executed so this was a draft. But I believe this was drafted around early May of 2018, not '17, so I think that's probably a typo.

Q Okay. Let's just start with Exhibit 4, the Payment Cancellation Agreement that as you indicated is unsigned, and you've never seen assigned version of that, correct?

A No.

Q Do you know generally why this agreement was being drafted?

A Yes. Generally, this was, you know, post Acis bankruptcy April -- April, May, you know, I think the -- I think the view at the time was the whole -- the whole participation transaction, both legs, both the -- both the note and the servicer fees should just completely go away and disappear. So, you know, cancel the future payments on the note. Cancel the future -- any obligations that anybody has to remit servicer fees, and -- and everyone just walks away.

Q Okay. Do you have any personal knowledge of that?

A I believe so, but not that I recall very specifically. I know that I was on e-mail communications at the time and I was talking to Isaac and Stephanie, Isaac Leventon, Stephanie Vitiello, you know, about this concept around that time.

Q You've seen specific e-mails where the purpose of the Payment Cancellation Agreement being to make the other agreements go away was actually discussed?

A I'm not certain, I don't have --

Q Okay. We'll ask the easier question. Do you have any specific recollection of conversation about the purpose of the Payment Cancellation Agreement to make the other agreements go away?

A No specific recollection.

Q Generally?

A No, just that there were conversations.

Q Okay. And you -- who -- who would you have had those conversations with?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A Either Isaac Leventon or Stephanie Vitiello; probably Isaac, but I'm not sure.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) And you believe there are also e-mails on the purpose of the Payment Cancellation Agreement being to have the other agreements go away; is that correct?

A I don't know if there's e-mails on the -- on the purpose, there may be, but I'm not -- I'm not sure.

Q Do you know why the Payment Cancellation Agreement was never entered into?

A I believe it was stopped by Scott Ellington.

Q Why do you believe that?

A Based on review of e-mails from that time period.

Q Okay. And these were e-mails that were produced in this case?

A As far as I know.

Q What do you remember seeing in an e-mail that led you to the belief that Scott Ellington stopped this from going forward?

A I believe there was an e-mail, I forget who it was from, I believe it from Isaac to Scott saying, Scott, here's the Payment Cancellation Agreement. We're -- FYI, we're going to get this executed. And Scott may be replying something to the effect of, let's talk about this, or something like, let's take it offline. And then the Payment Cancellation Agreement is no more.

Q Other than that e-mail you just talked about, is there any other reason to believe that Mr. Ellington stopped the Payment Cancellation Agreement from happening?

A None that I can think of.

Q Okay. Do you know why Mr. Ellington or anyone else stopped the Payment Cancellation Agreement from being executed?

A No.

Q It's nothing you've ever discussed with anyone?

A (Shakes head.)

Q The other agreement --

A Sorry, sorry, for the nonverbal.

Q Exhibit 5, that's the Forbearance Agreement, similar questions about that one. Do you know why that was entered into?

A I think that one was at my request. So, this was going to be the -- you know, the note was going to be cancelled, there was a payment that was going to be coming up on May 31st, 2018. And so, I think I was thinking about this in the context of Highland's situation, you know, we should have some sort of a forbearance in place. If it's not going to be cancelled, the parties should at least agree nothing is going to happen under this. So, I don't know if I suggested forbearance, but the idea there needs to be something to reflect that Highland is not making this payment on May 31st of 2018. So that was, I think, put back into Stephanie's and Isaac's lap, and you know this document was born.

Q Did someone tell you prior to you coming up with that idea that they were not going to make the payment on 5-31-2018?

A I -- I don't know if someone told me. I -- could you ask the question again, I'm sorry?

Q Yeah, so, you came up with this idea based on the fact --

A If I could -- I don't necessarily agree with the premise of the question. I don't know that I came up with the idea of this agreement. I just knew that there was something that needed to be done, and so I certainly communicated that to Issac and Stephanie.

Q Is it fair to say that something needed to be done because a payment due date was coming up, but it was your belief that the payment was not going to be made?

A Yes.

Q Why did you believe the payment was not going to be made?

A Well, I -- I knew that Highland hadn't received any servicer fees in the last five months, so I -- I don't know for certain, but I assume at that time I would have, in my head, thought, all right, this whole -- this whole transaction is just unwinding. So, I think that would be the main basis.

Q Okay. Did you have any conversations with anyone prior to this agreement being entered into about whether Highland is going to make the upcoming note payment?

A I -- I don't know. I may have, not that I specifically remember. But, it would have been -- it would have been -- it would have been obvious to me or to Frank, my boss, that Highland would not be making this payment.

Q Why would it be obvious, because the servicer payment weren't being made?

A Correct.

Q And that's -- sorry?

A In addition, I -- frankly, sitting here today, I don't know what Highland's liquidity situation was. Highland may not have even had the money to make that payment. I'm not saying that was the situation, but it's very possible.

Q Well, sitting here today, is one of the reasons that you believe that Highland wouldn't make the payment because of Highland's liquidity decision, or was it because of the servicer fees, or both?

A I think probably the servicer fees would be the -- would be the main thing, but I'm just -- what I'm saying is, there may been other -- there may have been other things, I'm just speculating.

Q So you came to a conclusion on your own that Highland wouldn't make the next note payment because it hadn't been receiving the servicer fees; is that correct?

A I don't know that I came to that conclusion on my own. I may have, I may have not.

Q Okay. But do you have a specific remem- -- recollection of coming to that conclusion prior to the Forbearance Agreement being executed?

A No.

Q Okay. And I guess what I'm getting at, is it possible someone just said draft the Forbearance Agreement, or do you have a specific recollection that you realized that the payment was not going to be made, so we had to do something?

A I don't have a recollection one way or the other. So we're all in the same office, I'm sure I had conversations with Isaac, with Stephanie, with people on my accounting team, with Frank, I just don't remember what conversations and when and with who.

Q Fair enough. So sitting here today, do you have any recollection as to whether you believed that Highland wasn't going to make the next note payment because it hadn't received servicer fees at that time period?

A I think I could safely say that I believed that Highland wasn't going to make the payment, just period, full stop. The because, I -- I'm not as certain on that.

Q Okay. Do you have a recollection that Highland was not going to make the fees or you're just saying that because a forbearance agreement was entered into so it must be the case?

MR. MORRIS: Objection asked and answered about five times already, but you can answer.

A Yeah, I -- I -- I knew that it wasn't going to be, I don't know how else I can frame it, but I -- I was certain it wouldn't be paid at that time.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) And I guess I -- I don't -- why were you certain it wouldn't be paid, did anyone else tell you that?

A I -- I don't know.

Q Okay. Is it fair to say that you don't remember whether you came up with that conclusion yourself or someone else told you?

MR. MORRIS: Objection asked and answered.

A I think that's fair.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Fair to say you certainly don't remember any discussions prior to the Forbearance Agreement with anyone about whether Highland would make the next payment?

A Not that I can remember.

MR. AIGEN: Let's mark this one 6. Thank you.

(Exhibit 6 marked.)

Q (By Mr. Aigen) I've handed you what's been marked as Exhibit 6, labeled HCLOM9466 and this document is titled Amended and Restated Forbearance Agreement, do you see this?

A I see it.

Q Okay. Did you have any role with respect to the preparation of this document?

A Exceptionally limited.

Q And what would your role have been?

A I don't have a recollection, but from having reviewed e-mails, I -- I believe I sent an e-mail to Kirsten Hendricks sometime -- let's call it, sometime between April and May of 2019, saying here's a copy of the amended and restated -- here's a copy of the Forbearance Agreement from last year which I can only surmise was my way of telling her, hey, you -- you deal with legal this year because I don't see any other e-mails about it, at least e-mails from me, so I think I had her take it and run with it.

Q And was -- this agreement was entered into because another payment was coming up on the note; is that fair to say?

A Yeah, yeah, well, I think it's -- it's -- there's another payment -- you know, there's another scheduled payment under the original schedule. And then there's also the previous year where I think we'd extended it out for a year, so I don't know which of those reasons trumps the other, but those are the two reasons that I can think of.

Q Do you know why those payments weren't going to be made at this time and this agreement was needed?

A Same -- same reason, Highland hasn't gotten anything at this point in 18 months or 17 months whatever.

Q But you never had any conversation with anyone about that; is that fair to say?

A Not that I can specifically remember.

Q Do you know who would have made the decision at the time of Exhibit 6 to not make the payment on the note?

A No, I'm not sure. You know, I think ultimately if that payment was going to be made, that would have been a decision that would have had to come from Mr. Dondero. I don't know if that conversation ever took place or not, but it would have had to come from him.

Q But you don't know whose decision it was to not make the payment; is that correct?

A No, not specifically.

Q And same question with respect to Exhibit 5 and the payment that was contemplated in there, do you have any idea as to who would have made the decision to not make the payment at issue in that Forbearance Agreement?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A No personal knowledge. But again, kind of in the inverse, the decision to make the payment would have come from Frank or Jim, and if from Frank, from Frank via Jim.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) But you have no personal knowledge on that?

A Correct.

MR. AIGEN: Let's mark this one.

(Exhibit 7 marked.)

Q (By Mr. Aigen) All right. I just handed you what is Exhibit 7, HCLOM13277 and this document is called Acknowledgement and Waiver. Do you recognize this document?

A Yes, I've seen it.

Q Okay. Is this a document that you've only seen in preparation for this litigation deposition or was this a document that you saw back in the day?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A I believe that -- I believe that I'm aware of this through the -- the preparation for this deposition and this litigation. It's possible that I was aware of it beforehand, but I don't -- I don't think I was, I may have been, but I don't think so.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Did you have any role with respect to this document's preparation?

A No, I don't believe so.

Q Do you have any understanding as to what the purpose of this document was?

A You know, again, none other than what's in the four corners of the agreement.

Q Okay. You don't -- you've never had any discussions with anyone about this document or what's contained in it other than with counsel?

A Correct.

Q So this -- is it your understanding that this document contemplates using HCLOM LLC instead of HCLOM LTD as the successor manager?

A I'm not sure, but at least in looking at you know item C of the one, two, three, fourth paragraph, it talks about that in connection with each reset, Each applicable CLO issuer will appoint Highland CLO Management LLC a Delaware Limited Liability Company as the collateral manager, so it appears that this is contemplating LLC as the manager.

Q And in subparagraph C, it says, in order to comply with the US Risk Retention Rules, those are the regulations and rules you talked about earlier with me?

A Yes.

Q Do you know whether there was something about HCLOM LTD that made it necessary to use HCLOM LLC with respect to the US Risk Retention Rules?

A Not that I could articulate.

Q At the end of this it talks about, none of the appointments have been made nor will be made pursuant to Section 2 of the transfer agreement, do you see that?

A Yes.

Q Is that anything that you're aware of in the 2018 time frame?

A I don't think so. Again, I'm not -- I'm not sure when I became aware of this agreement, so yeah, so I'm not sure.

Q Well, what about the idea that Highland CLO LTD would not be made successor manager or seek appointment, is that something you're aware of in the 2018 time frame or just something you became aware of --

A I'm pretty sure I would have been aware of that because I would have seen e-mail traffic about moving forward resets with HCLOM LLC at that time. So independent of this document, I think I would have that understanding.

MR. AIGEN: And hopefully the last one.

(Exhibit 8 marked.)

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Okay. I've handed you what's been marked Exhibit 8. It is labeled Agreement and it's Bates labeled HCLOM --

MR. MORRIS: Creative.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) -- 13413. Do you know who came up with the name "Agreement"?

A No, no, I don't.

MR. MORRIS: I did.

Q (By Mr. Aigen) Are you familiar with this document?

A Generally, again, I've seen it.

Q Is it just something you've seen in preparation for this litigation or something that you saw back in 2018?

A I think I saw this in real time.

Q Okay. What was the purpose of this document, if you know?

A I don't know or recall with certainty, but I could -- I could speculate.

Q What do you think it was for?

A I think the purpose of this agreement was likely to make sure that Highland was getting credit for expenses that it was paying on Acis's behalf. And netting those payments off of future -- any sort of future obligations that Highland would have to Acis or to anybody.

Q Do you know why that would have been needed and why they would have to paper it up into a document like this?

A Not sure.

Q You don't remember having any conversations about anyone about this agreement?

A I don't remember having any, I'm sure I did.

Q Was there anything unusual about putting an agreement like this in writing as opposed to what Highland usually does?

A Hard to say. It's not -- it's not completely unheard of. I'd say more often than not these types of expenses would just -- there would just be an invoice or something, and the other side would reimburse the other. But I'm sure there were probably instances over the year where some things were papered up a little more formally like this.

Q Sitting here today, do you know why there was a need to create this and make it more formal?

A I don't know, I don't -- nor do I have a recollection, but my assumption again is that there was a known specter of litigation with -- with Terry involving Acis, so probably better to have a more formalized record of -- of this type of thing.

Q Do you have any idea who at Highland would have been involved in drafting this or coming up with the idea of this?

A I think Tim Cournoyer drafted this one.

Q Why do you think that?

A Because I'm pretty sure I've seen an e-mail to that effect.

MR. AIGEN: Why don't we take a break and I hopefully I can wrap this up.

MR. MORRIS: Great.

VIDEOGRAPHER: We're off the record at 2:39.

(Break taken.)

VIDEOGRAPHER: We are back on the record at 2:46.

MR. AIGEN: I have no more questions, thank you for your time, Mr. Klos.

MR. MORRIS: It was less than a half an hour, good call.

VIDEOGRAPHER: We are off the record at 2:47.

CAUSE NO. DC-16-11396

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, LP,	§	IN THE DISTRICT COURT
Plaintiff,	§
v.	§	OF DALLAS COUNTY, TEXAS
JOSHUA N. TERRY,	§
Defendant.	§	162nd JUDICIAL DISTRICT

DEFENDANT'S MOTION TO COMPEL ARBITRATION AND FOR SANCTIONS

Defendant Joshua N. Terry ("Terry") files this Motion to Compel Arbitration and For Sanctions against Plaintiff Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland"), with reference to the Original Petition and Application For Injunctive Relief (the "Petition") filed by Highland, and in support shows the Court the following:

SUMMARY OF MOTION

1. Highland and Jim Dondero are desperate because they fear Terry will expose the fraudulent culture that Dondero increasingly promoted at Highland in recent months; a culture where Dondero attempts to pilfer Highland's outside investors, the very investors the firm is supposed to serve. What happened is simple: First, Dondero fired Terry the same day Terry stood up for Highland's outside investors and refused Dondero's self-dealing, and illegal, demand. Second, Dondero and his companies owe Terry millions of dollars under the parties' partnership agreement. Instead of doing the right thing and paying his long-time partner the millions he is owed, Dondero engages in a smear campaign in an attempt to avoid paying Terry what he is contractually owed.

2. Dondero's motive is to harm something that Dondero does not have: a reputation for honesty and integrity that Terry earned over his career. Psychologists call that projection. Terry is proud of his decision to stand up for the investors he represented, and he would do it all over again, despite the mudslinging, lies, and scorched-earth litigation tactics he and his young family now face. Someone must stop Dondero. When one reads the myriad of falsehoods contained in Highland's Petition, it should consider the source: one of the most litigious asset managers in the country, the same firm three arbitrators recently ruled committed "willful misconduct" by defrauding its outside investors – exactly what Dondero fired Terry for trying to stop. And this is not Dondero's first foray into a partnership dispute – Dondero has run off almost every partner he ever had; Terry is just the latest.

3. Terry will answer Highland's empty lies in this forum with overwhelming evidence refuting the misstatements and slander, and he could throw in the sordid details of life at Highland and of Dondero in particular. But it will not surprise those who know Terry that he will take the high ground, stick to the facts, and not stoop to Dondero and Highland's level. Terry will pursue his claims in a professional and thoughtful way, based on facts, in the forum to which the parties agreed – binding arbitration before JAMS.

RELEVANT FACTS

A. Terry works his way up at Highland and leads the ascendency of Acis.

4. Terry was a long-time employee and partner with Highland. He was arguably the third-highest ranking employee at Highland before his wrongful termination. Terry managed over half of Highland's $17 billion of assets under management, and developed a market-beating investment performance track record for Highland and its affiliates' investors.

5. In 2011, Terry, Dondero and Mark Okada ("Okada") formed Acis Capital Management, L.P. ("Acis") as an SEC-registered investment adviser to raise money from third-party investors to manage and invest in Collateralized Loan Obligations ("CLOs"). Terry had a 25% partnership interest in Acis; Dondero and Okada owned the rest. Terry served as Co-Founder and Portfolio Manager of Acis, and was responsible for growing the business, managing its funds on behalf of its investors, and issuing and managing new CLOs. Acis was a resounding success due to Terry's hard work and management, and Acis grew to $3.7 billion in assets under management by May 2016. As a result of Terry's efforts over the years, over $100 million of value has accrued to Dondero and Okada.

6. The Acis limited partnership agreement is attached as Exhibit 1 (the "LPA"), and it provides Dondero's motivation for making up these salacious lies about Terry: If Terry is terminated for "cause," Acis does not owe Terry millions of dollars in compensation. Ex. 1, §4.04. So, Dondero saw his opportunity to avoid paying yet another of his partners; all he would need to do is to fabricate lies about Terry and malign him in the public eye.

7. Partnership fights are old hat for Dondero. In just the past five years, Dondero ran off all of the four senior partners who occupied or were intended to occupy Terry's former corner office at Highland. It seems as though Dondero takes joy in shirking his contractual obligations to his partners. Dondero's main problem against Terry, however, is that Terry has overwhelming and compelling evidence to refute the falsehoods Highland alleges. The truth hurts.

B. Dondero changes his priorities from managing other people's money, to managing his own.

8. Dondero recently tired of managing other people's money and told Terry on several occasions that investors have given him "too much aggravation." Instead of the inconvenience of dealing with investors that could pull their money from Highland at any time they become unhappy, Dondero stated that he wants to "get more towards permanent capital…we got to build [our platform companies]…there is no aggravation, no clients, no customer service, no whatever…"

9. Dondero's "platform companies" (the "Dondero Companies") are two business that he controls through Highland's ownership. These two companies were originally owned almost wholly by Highland's investors. Dondero has consolidated control of these companies by purchasing equity back from his investors over the years at "Jim friendly" prices. Two sets of his investors sued Dondero recently for his self-dealing on the repurchase of one of the two Dondero Companies.

10. As Dondero consolidated control of the two Dondero Companies, the CLOs—which were once a lender to the Dondero Companies when they were previously owned by Highland's fund investors—now became a lender to Dondero.

C. Dondero's recent financial difficulties drive him to demand illegal transactions for his personal gain.

11. Dondero has experienced recent personal financial trouble, which includes numerous margin calls in the past year, not paying his 2014 or 2015 taxes on time, and having to borrow from his own bank against his large gun collection (allegedly one of the world's largest). Dondero's personal cash shortage motivated his unethical justification to fraudulently borrow from his investors. As Dondero's improper requests on Terry increased, Terry took precautionary measures to accurately document many of them. Terry did so to protect the investors, his young family, and his reputation. It is a good thing he did – that documentation completely refutes the false allegations in Highland's Petition.

12. As just one example of Dondero's increasingly desperate personal financial situation, Okada, the co-founder of Highland, stated on February 10, 2016, "Dude are you aware Jim hasn't paid any taxes in the past year? And he took out a loan from NexBank to pay them but then he got caught up in one of the leverage situations he did with American [Airlines] and a couple of other stocks and he doesn't have the money until March 31 to actually do this. So he's put a lien on his assets…but if some clerk there decides to put the lien on, it would be a PR nightmare. I was just in his office yelling at him, 'I approved the loan at the bank so you could pay your taxes but you never paid your taxes.'"

13. Dondero's personal cash shortage worsened in late 2015 and early 2016, and his requests of Terry became increasingly more unreasonable. In February 2016, when Terry recommended that Highland sell assets in an older CLO because it was the right thing for its investors, Dondero instead responded by saying:

THIS DOCUMENT IS A CONFIDENTIAL FILING. ACCESS IS PROHIBITED EXCEPT AS AUTHORIZED BY COURT ORDER.

- "Is there a chance we can expand some of the [Dondero Company 1] loan and shove it in there?" (emphasis added).
- "Instead of having a distribution to the equity … I'd rather not have any distribution if I could have $10 million more of liquidity at [Dondero Company 1]."

Terry rejected Dondero's illegal ideas. Dondero responded by asking if the CLO owned Dondero Company 2's loan:

- Dondero said "maybe we can extend [the Dondero Company 2 loan]. It's the same trick … I could use the liquidity."

14. Importantly, Dondero even admitted in February 2016 that "I know [CLO investors] won't like it if you have notes outstanding and you extend loans to portfolio companies."

15. In April 2016, Dondero's personal cash situation worsened as he finally had to pay his 2014 taxes. Frank Waterhouse, Highland's CFO, described Dondero's tax situation as "freaking crazy." Waterhouse went on to state that "[i]f you don't pay by this date then it gets assigned to a collector…that's when they do a public lien and all of this stuff…you can just kiss this place goodbye."

D. Dondero fires Terry on the same day Terry refuses Dondero's illegal scheme.

16. Dondero wrongfully fired Terry for refusing to approve a transaction that Highland's Chief Compliance Officer ("CCO"), Thomas Surgent ("Surgent"), described as "Highland doesn't have the money for something, let's borrow it from the CLOs. That's effectively what we are doing here." Dondero needed cash to fund his purchase of a South American manufacturer, which he intended to convert to a condom manufacturer (the "Dondero Scheme"). At Dondero's direction, Highland's private equity team entered into a binding contract to buy the South American manufacturer. Just one problem: Highland did not have the money to pay for it.

THIS DOCUMENT IS A CONFIDENTIAL FILING. ACCESS IS PROHIBITED EXCEPT AS AUTHORIZED BY COURT ORDER.

17. Highland's outside CLO and mutual fund investors were due repayment of certain loans to a company controlled by Dondero. But Dondero saw this as an opportunity to get the liquidity he needed to fund his purchase of the South American manufacturer. Instead of repaying these obligations to the outside investors on time, Dondero pushed to extend the loans and almost fully draw on a revolving credit facility so he could purchase the South American manufacturer for himself. The Dondero Scheme was an audacious conflict-of-interest; and it was illegal.

18. On May 24, 2016, Terry went to Dondero's office after he learned about the proposed transaction. Terry wanted to help Dondero understand why the Dondero Scheme was not the right thing for Highland's CLO investors and why it would present regulatory issues. Terry told Dondero, among other things:

- "I know the investors want their money back, and I am extending it, and we didn't even pursue a refi process, how can I explain that to investors?"
- "I have fiduciary liability."
- "If the SEC came in and looked at it and wanted to talk to the portfolio manager for the CLOs, and they asked me 'why did you think this was a good idea for the investors in [CLO 1] or [CLO 2], especially the ones going past their maturity date…?'"

Dondero responded to Terry's concerns for the investors—to whom Terry owed fiduciary duties—by saying:

- "Let's just think about who these jackasses are. Are they buying any of your new deals? […] But none of them are. Anyway I don't have a lot of sensitivity towards them…"
- "[The loan] will be paid off before [the SEC] have time to look at it."

19. Dondero refused to further discuss Terry's concerns with the Dondero Scheme, and instead threatened to disband the Highland Conflicts Committee that was set up to stop exactly the type of illegal transactions Dondero advocated. Dondero wanted the money from the CLO investors for his South American manufacturer, and it did not matter to him if he had to do so on the backs of the CLO investors.

THIS DOCUMENT IS A CONFIDENTIAL FILING. ACCESS IS PROHIBITED EXCEPT AS AUTHORIZED BY COURT ORDER.

20. Terry immediately attempted to discuss Dondero's response with Highland's CCO, Surgent, the person at Highland whose job it was to ensure compliance with the law. Surgent was gone for the day, so Terry called him on his cell phone and left him a voicemail.

21. The next morning, on May 25, 2016, Terry went to Surgent's office to tell him about his meeting with Dondero and the compliance concerns it raised. In the meeting:

- Surgent described the Dondero Scheme as "pretty crazy."
- Surgent contrasted Terry's view of compliance as compared to the Dondero Scheme, saying "with you it's like common f*cking sense. You come in, you say 'this is what I want to do,' you tell me in advance, you're like 'these are all the aspects of it, can we do this, let's talk about it, and you get whether there are issues … On this f*cking transaction? Holy f*ck."
- Surgent also said, "And by the way, if that just gets through that way, Jim will be happy, now because he will be 'great we got it done.' But if it comes on the regulatory radar … that's like … that's like … I am not going into what the exposure is on that transaction."
- Surgent later expressed fear for his job in this conversation, saying, "I know there will probably come a day when [Dondero] will view me as no longer whatever and all I can do is the best I can and protect the firm and hopefully still keep everyone happy."

22. In this conversation on May 25, 2016, Surgent admitted that Dondero's demands were getting increasingly worse in recent months with regard to conflicts-riddled transactions. Surgent stated:

- "I feel like we are regressing … I know everyone is pushing offense and we have stalled on fundraising … and everyone is trying to get paid and justify their existence … but we are in a f*cking environment where … and this is your point, the regulators are not f*cking around, they will come and they will f*cking bring the heat."

23. Other senior partners were also initially opposed to the Dondero Scheme for obvious reasons:

- Okada told Terry it was not his problem and Terry needed to inform Dondero of his fiduciary liability on the transaction even if Dondero gets mad.
- Trey Parker, Highland's Partner and Head of Credit Research, expressed to Terry "if anything ever were to go bad, it would bite you in the ass," and agreed the

THIS DOCUMENT IS A CONFIDENTIAL FILING. ACCESS IS PROHIBITED EXCEPT AS AUTHORIZED BY COURT ORDER.

Dondero Scheme was not the right thing to do.

- The team working on the Dondero Scheme told Terry that Dondero's demand "puts you in a bad position, I totally get that."

24. However, after Dondero returned from a week and a half vacation in Paris on June 6, 2016, he called Okada and told him he was pissed off over the status of the Dondero Scheme and called him an idiot. Dondero then put pressure on Surgent and Parker to coerce Terry into approving the Dondero Scheme. Yet Terry consistently stood his ground and continued to refuse Dondero's illegal demand, even while acknowledging the increasing threat of retaliation from Dondero.

25. At 1:00 p.m. on June 9, 2016, because of Terry's opposition to the Dondero Scheme, the Highland Conflicts Committee voted to approve an alternative transaction to the Dondero Scheme.

26. At 5:00 p.m. that same day, Terry went to Dondero's office to discuss the outcome of the vote. Before Terry could begin the discussion, Dondero told Terry he needed to "work on an exit" because "I can't go through another [Conflicts Committee] process like that again with you" and "I need my senior guys to be more deferential to me." The following morning, Dondero emailed Terry "Do not come to the office anymore."

E. Dondero and Highland retaliate and manufacture reasons to deny Terry his benefits under the LPA.

27. Terry has overwhelming evidence that in the 12 business days leading up to his termination, he expressed to Dondero, Surgent, Okada, Parker and other senior members of Highland on more than 50 occasions that the Dondero Scheme was wrong for Highland's investors, more than 50 times that it presented fiduciary and regulatory risks, and more than fifteen times that he was fearful that Dondero would retaliate against him for standing up for the CLO investors and refusing the Dondero Scheme.

28. The day Dondero fired Terry, Dondero said it was because of the process on the

THIS DOCUMENT IS A CONFIDENTIAL FILING. ACCESS IS PROHIBITED EXCEPT AS AUTHORIZED BY COURT ORDER.

Dondero Scheme and his alleged lack of deference to Dondero. But thereafter, Highland took weeks to come up with additional excuses—other than the Dondero Scheme—of why Dondero fired Terry on the same day Terry refused to approve the Dondero Scheme. It took weeks for Highland to concoct excuses so that Dondero could do what he always does to his partners – refuse to pay them what they are owed, regardless of the contracts at issue.

29. Consider that the Petition is signed by Highland's longtime employment lawyer, Marc Katz, who just a week before Dondero fired Terry referred a family friend to Terry for a job. It seems odd that Highland's top employment lawyer would refer a family friend to Terry just days before Terry was fired for the alleged widespread wrongdoing that Highland now alleges well after firing Terry.

30. Mr. Katz did not know anything because there was nothing to know – the allegations are not true. Highland manufactured the allegations, after the fact, to cover up Dondero's wrongdoing, to smear Terry and harm his family, and to deny Terry the money he is owed.

31. Also consider that the day before Terry's wrongful termination, Highland's Head of Human Resources, Brian Collins, laughed and joked with Terry while separately working through another employee's resignation. Again, that is not behavior that is consistent with suspecting Terry was alleged to be engaged in widespread wrongdoing.

32. Clearly Highland's Human Resources department and lead employment attorney were not aware of Dondero's intentions to terminate Terry. No one knew. And that is because Dondero fired Terry solely for refusing Dondero's illegal transaction – the Dondero Scheme.

(i) Surgent is not credible.

33. Surgent is a lawyer and CCO on whom Highland relies for most of its allegations in the Petition (it references him 16 times). But Surgent is one of Dondero's malleable "yes men" who is scared of Dondero and is scared for his job. Surgent has serious credibility issues, as a three-arbitrator AAA panel in New York concluded recently when it found Highland engaged in "willful misconduct" in defrauding its outside investors to the tune of over seven million dollars:

THIS DOCUMENT IS A CONFIDENTIAL FILING. ACCESS IS PROHIBITED EXCEPT AS AUTHORIZED BY COURT ORDER.

> [13] We know of no justification for Highland's having provided the Houlihan valuation to Cornerstone, which in this context was adverse to Highland. Highland's compliance officer, Mr. Surgent suggested that providing the valuation to Cornerstone was necessary to avoid "insider trading" liability. We found this justification, to put it mildly, far-fetched.

Final Award, AAA Case No. 13-20-1300-1808; Redeemer Committee of Highland Strategies Fund v. Highland Capital Management, L.P. Not only is Surgent not credible, but his statements to Terry leading up to Terry's wrongful termination paint the exact opposite picture than Highland's Petition. As previously stated, days before his termination, Surgent went out of his way to describe how careful and thoughtful Terry was to comply with the law. That is not something anyone says to a person you believe is engaged in widespread wrongdoing. Highland's problem this time is that Terry has the evidence to refute Highland's lies.

(ii) The amendment Highland complains about was requested by an outside investor, it actually created value for investors, and Terry did not self-deal.

34. Highland claims that Terry self-dealt because he "personally cashed out nearly $700,000.00 invested [in a fund] far earlier than he otherwise would be able to do so." It is unclear how this constitutes self-dealing, since the payment was a repayment of a loan owed to Terry, Okada received a similar amount, and four other Highland employees were repaid their loans. If Terry self-dealt, why did Highland not take action against him at the time of the alleged self-dealing, and why did Highland not pursue Okada and others? It did not do so because this is an after-the-fact excuse to not pay Terry what he is owed.

35. Highland also left out many other relevant facts that interfere with their false narrative, including but not limited to:

THIS DOCUMENT IS A CONFIDENTIAL FILING. ACCESS IS PROHIBITED EXCEPT AS AUTHORIZED BY COURT ORDER.

- The purpose of the fund amendment was to improve Highland's ability to raise additional capital for the fund. Therefore, it reduced fees paid by investors and improved other terms – a benefit for investors.

- The fund increased in value after Terry's loan was repaid, which accrued to the benefit of outside investors rather than Terry, Okada or other Highland employees.

- Terry worked with Surgent to ensure all facts were disclosed to all investors in the fund at all times, especially the Highland employees' necessary capital withdrawal.

- Terry has proof that the asset contribution and amendment were actually Dondero's idea to grow the fund in October 2015, and that both Dondero and Surgent were extensively involved throughout the entire process.

36. On January 4, 2016, Dondero said this to Terry about the proposed amendment which would eliminate the dividend, among other things:

- "On every twist and turn on this, you have been properly focused on what you believe the market and the customer wants."

- "So going back to the dividend or no dividend in [Acis CLO Value Fund]. To make a long story longer. I think you defer to what you think sells best. […] I don't think anyone will give a rat's ass."

- Terry responded, "A scheduled [dividend]…it's awkward, right?"

- Dondero then responded, "It's a bit awkward, but in the big scheme of things, structure the fund in a way that you think sells best."

37. Highland also conveniently omits that the "client" who "invest[ed] tens of millions into the Fund" on December 31, 2015 is Dondero's own Donor Advised Fund which he manages, and that the asset contribution was Dondero's idea in October 2015 to help scale the size of the fund. The Donor Advised Fund nor any other investor suffered any loss— in fact, CLO Value Fund was leading the market and up over 12% year-to-date through May 31, 2016—and Terry always ensured Dondero, Surgent, and the many lawyers at Highland were involved in each and every step taken along the way. As Surgent himself stated, "with [Terry] it's like common f*cking sense. [Terry] come[s] in, [Terry] say[s] 'this is what I want to do,' [Terry] tell[s] me in advance,

THIS DOCUMENT IS A CONFIDENTIAL FILING. ACCESS IS PROHIBITED EXCEPT AS AUTHORIZED BY COURT ORDER.

[Terry is] like 'these are all the aspects of it, can we do this, let's talk about it, and you get whether there are issues …'"

(iii) Terry did not have a sexual relationship with any of his subordinates or the junior lawyer at the center of Highland's made-up self-dealing story.

38. Dondero and Highland's disregard for the truth knows no bounds. Highland's allegations in this regard are patently false, and Terry looks forward to bringing forth evidence to refute the allegations, including the sworn testimony of the "junior lawyer" with whom Highland claims Terry had a relationship. It did not happen. And Terry will not stoop to Dondero's level by discussing in detail Dondero and other high-level executives at Highland and its affiliates in the "sexual relationship" context.

39. As for the alleged sexual harassment, Terry disputes he sexually harassed any person at Highland, or for that matter anywhere else during his lifetime, and the lack of any previous notice to Terry, written or otherwise, belies this allegation. Consider the report from Highland's Human Resource Department from March 2016 regarding Terry's formal performance review:

- Terry's colleagues described Terry as "Pleasant to work with," "Good communication," "Very good [Portfolio Manager], "Technically Very Sound," "Has high expectations" and "Extremely involved, extremely smart."

(iv) Terry did not misappropriate Highland's confidential information.

40. Highland is trying a play out of its playbook with another former partner with whom Highland has engaged protracted litigation: accuse the partner of failing to return confidential information. Terry has gone over and above his obligations under his Employment Agreement. Highland actually resisted Terry's attempt to return company property in order to manufacture a dubious argument against Terry.

41. Terry offered to cooperate in returning Highland's company property within hours of his formal termination notice, and asked in writing how to best coordinate it.

THIS DOCUMENT IS A CONFIDENTIAL FILING. ACCESS IS PROHIBITED EXCEPT AS AUTHORIZED BY COURT ORDER.

42. Highland ignored Terry's offer, and instead waited five days to send him a letter claiming Terry was in breach of his Employment Agreement for not returning company property immediately. It is impossible for Terry to have been more diligent in his return of company property, and the facts will bear that out.

43. Additionally, Marc Katz, Highland's counsel, suggested to Terry's counsel that he should obtain a forensic image of his electronic devices.

44. Terry then spent approximately $10,000.00 of his own money for an outside vendor to create forensic images of every computer in his household, in addition to his iPhone and iPad. Terry used an industry-standard third party to do so, as well as an industry-standard protocol to create images, delete all of Highland's company property off of his computers and electronic devices, and return copies of all company files to Highland. The outside vendor locked the forensic images in a safe and maintains a meticulous chain-of-custody until the conclusion of this dispute.

45. No employee in the history of Highland has willingly gone to greater lengths and expense than Terry to return Highland's company property. Now Highland complains that Terry complied with Highland's attorney's request. Highland actually went to great lengths to resist Terry's efforts, and it did so in order to manufacture claims against Terry.

46. Additionally, Highland refused to return all of Terry's personal property, including notes on years' worth of charity work that Terry provided, and which he wants to continue to provide in his spare time. Instead, Highland contacted a charity in an attempt to remove Terry as a board member. The charity refused because they value Terry's hard work and abilities. Highland then sent Terry a letter demanding he resign from the charity board anyway.

F. Terry follows the appropriate mediation/arbitration dispute resolution procedures called for in LPA.

47. Shortly after his termination, Terry was the first party to demand contractual mediation pursuant to the terms of the LPA. The LPA is signed by Highland's 75% owner,

THIS DOCUMENT IS A CONFIDENTIAL FILING. ACCESS IS PROHIBITED EXCEPT AS AUTHORIZED BY COURT ORDER.

Dondero; its 25% owner, Mark Okada; and Terry. The parties agreed to attend a contractually-mandated mediation which occurred at JAMS before retired U.S. Magistrate Judge Jeff Kaplan on September 7, 2016.

48. Minutes after the mediation concluded, Highland filed its Petition in an effort to malign Terry in public. Highland could not do so in arbitration because arbitrations are confidential.

49. Terry, Dondero, Okada and Highland (and others) are subject to mandatory arbitration pursuant to the LPA, excerpts of which are provided below:

> Section 6.12 Dispute Resolution. The following procedures shall be used to resolve any controversy or claim ("Dispute") arising out of, relating to or in connection with the Agreement or otherwise involving the Partnership, its Partners and/or any GP Party. If any of these provisions are determined to be invalid or unenforceable, the remaining provisions shall remain in effect and binding on the parties to the fullest extent permitted by law.
> (a) Mediation.
> (i) Any Dispute shall be submitted to mediation by written notice to the other party or parties. In the mediation process, the parties will try to resolve their differences voluntarily with the aid of an impartial mediator, who will attempt to facilitate negotiations. The mediator will be selected by agreement of the parties. If the parties cannot agree on a mediator, a mediator shall be designated by JAMS/Endispute at the request of a party using, if necessary, strike and rank procedures then in effect.
> (ii) The mediation will be conducted as specified by the mediator and agreed upon by the parties. The parties agree to discuss their differences in good faith and to attempt, with the assistance of the mediator, to reach an amicable resolution of the dispute.

THIS DOCUMENT IS A CONFIDENTIAL FILING. ACCESS IS PROHIBITED EXCEPT AS AUTHORIZED BY COURT ORDER.

(iii) The mediation will be treated as a settlement discussion and therefore will be confidential. The mediator may not testify for either party in any later proceeding relating to the dispute. No recording or transcript shall be made of the mediation proceedings.

(iv) Each party will bear its own costs in the mediation. The fees and expenses of the mediator will be shared equally by the parties.

(b) Arbitration.

(i) If a Dispute has not been resolved within 90 days after the written notice beginning the mediation process (or a longer period, if the parties agree to extend the mediation), the mediation shall terminate and the dispute will be settled by arbitration. A party who files a suit in court regarding a Dispute rather than in arbitration waives its claim and must pay all attorney's fees and costs incurred by the other party in seeking to have such suit dismissed. Under no circumstances will a party maintain its right to pursue his/her/its Dispute if that party initiates a judicial suit instead of complying with the mediation and arbitration provisions herein. The arbitration will be conducted through JAMS/Endispute in accordance with the procedures in this document and the commercial dispute arbitration rules then in effect ("Arbitration Rules"). In the event of a conflict, the provisions of this document will control.

The LPA was signed effective January 21, 2011 well after the March 2, 2009 Employment Agreement on which the Petition relies.

ARGUMENT & AUTHORITY

A. Motion to Compel Arbitration.

50. Highland is bound to arbitrate any dispute between Highland and Terry under the LPA. §16.12 ("The following procedures shall be used to resolve any controversy or claim ("Dispute") arising out of, relating to or in connection with the Agreement or otherwise involving the Partnership, its Partners and/or any GP Party") (emphasis added). "GP Party" is defined as Acis GP, "any director, officer, employee, agent, or representative or other Affiliate of [Acis GP]." Id. §4.01(h). The definition of "Affiliate" under the LPA > means any Person that directly or indirectly controls, is controlled by, or is under common control with the Person in question. As used in this definition, the term "control" means the possession, directly or indirectly, of the power to direct or cause the direction of the management and policies of a Person, whether through ownership of voting Securities, by contract or otherwise."

Id. §2.01. Last, the term "Person" means "an individual or a corporation, partnership, trust, estate,

THIS DOCUMENT IS A CONFIDENTIAL FILING. ACCESS IS PROHIBITED EXCEPT AS AUTHORIZED BY COURT ORDER.

HCLOM00269387

unincorporated organization, association, or other entity." Id.

51. Highland is a "GP Party" because it is an "Affiliate" under the terms of the LPA (a partnership this is controlled by Dondero). Highland's own Petition calls Acis "an SEC registered investment adviser affiliated with Highland." Petition ¶12 (emphasis added). Thus, it is bound by the arbitration agreement contained in the LPA. There is no real question that Highland is "controlled" by Dondero, and thus this suit is subject to mandatory arbitration pursuant to the clear intent of the LPA.

52. The arbitration provision in the LPA is governed by the Federal Arbitration Act (the "FAA"). The FAA is liberally construed to effectuate "the federal policy favoring arbitration, and ambiguities as to the scope of the arbitration clause itself resolved in favor of arbitration." Volt Info. Sci., Inc. v. Bd. Tr. of Leland Stanford Junior Univ., 489 U.S. 468, 478 (1989); see also In re FirstMerit Bank, N.A., 52 S.W.3d 749, 754 (Tex. 2001). "In construing an arbitration agreement within the coverage of the FAA, 'as with any other contract, the parties' intentions control, but those intentions are generously construed as to issues of arbitrability.'" Id. at 475 (quoting Mitsubishi Motors Corp. v. Soler Chrysler–Plymouth, Inc., 473 U.S. 614, 626 (1985)).

53. Both the Texas Supreme Court and the Fifth Circuit have similarly held that "the question of who is actually bound by an arbitration agreement is ultimately a function of the intent of the parties, as expressed by the terms of the agreement." In re Rubiola, 334 S.W.3d 220, 224 (Tex. 2011) (internal quotations and changes omitted) (quoting Bridas S.A.P.I.C. v. Gov't of Turkmenistan, 345 F.3d 347, 355, 358 (5th Cir.2003). "Once the trial court concludes that the arbitration agreement encompasses the claims, and that the party opposing arbitration has failed to prove its defenses, the trial court has no discretion but to compel arbitration and stay its own proceedings." In re FirstMerit, 52 S.W.3d at 754.

54. The intent of the parties—that Highland agreed to be bound by the LPA—is clear from the plain text of the LPA. This Court need not even "generously construe[]" the LPA because

THIS DOCUMENT IS A CONFIDENTIAL FILING. ACCESS IS PROHIBITED EXCEPT AS AUTHORIZED BY COURT ORDER.

HCLOM00269388

Highland's intent is manifest.

55. The Court has no discretion but to compel this suit to arbitration, and stay these proceedings, because the dispute is subject to the LPA's mandatory arbitration clause.[1]

B. Motion for Sanctions.

(i) Chapter 10.

56. By signing the petition, counsel for Highland swore that to the best of his knowledge the Petition, among other things:

(a) Was not brought for an improper purpose, including to harass or to cause unnecessary delay or needlessly increase the costs of litigation;

(b) That each claim or legal contention is warranted by existing law or for the non-frivolous argument for the extension, modification, or reversal of existing law or the establishment of new law; and

(c) That each allegation or factual contention in the motion has evidentiary support.

TEX. CIV. PRAC. & REM. CODE § 10.001. Courts may award the prevailing party with an award of its reasonable expenses and attorneys' fees. Id. at § 10.002(c).

57. Highland, with its large team of in-house and outside lawyers, is well aware that it is bound by the arbitration provision in the LPA. Nevertheless, it filed this suit. It did so for an improper purpose, including to harass and embarrass Terry, and to needlessly increase the costs of litigation. Moreover, many of the claims, including but not limited to Highland's claim that Terry had a sexual relationship with a "junior attorney," have no evidentiary support.

58. Highland's claim that it needs a declaratory judgment to relieve it of liability under the Employment Agreement is also baseless. The Employment Agreement provides as follows:

[1] The governing documents of CLO Value Fund also have a mandatory arbitration provision.

consideration for the Executive's release of claims at the time of termination. In the event the Executive declines to sign the separation agreement and release, he/she shall not be entitled to any severance, and the Company will have no further liability or obligation to the Executive under this Agreement or in connection with his/her employment or termination.

59. Any benefits under the Employment Agreement are predicated on the employee executing the release, and Highland does not, and cannot in good faith, allege that Terry agreed to do so. Consequently, Highland's request for declaratory relief is not warranted by existing law or the non-frivolous argument for the extension, modification, or reversal of existing law or the establishment of new law. Highland's Petition violates Chapter 10 of the Texas Civil Practice and Remedies Code, and Terry requests the Court award him his attorneys' fees and costs reasonably incurred in compelling arbitration.

CONCLUSION

60. Dondero has a checkered and unsavory reputation for good reason – this filing is further proof of that. It is unfortunate that he and Highland, once again, took the path of lies and deceit in order to shirk their contractual obligations. Another former partner, another lawsuit. Highland filed the Petition for in improper purpose—to malign Terry and increase the costs of litigation—in the face of a binding arbitration provision. The LPA is clear, and it requires arbitration of this dispute consistent with the federal and state policy in favor of arbitration. The Court should compel arbitration and stay this proceeding, sanction Highland for its improper filing, and grant Terry such other relief to which he is entitled.

Notwithstanding any other provision of this Article 3 (other than Section 3.04(a)), if there is a net decrease in Partner Nonrecourse Debt Minimum Gain with respect to a Partner Nonrecourse Debt during any taxable year or other period for which allocations are made, any Partner with a share of such Partner Nonrecourse Debt Minimum Gain as of the beginning of the year shall be specially allocated items of Partnership income and gain for that period (and, if necessary, subsequent periods in an amount equal to that Partner's share of the net decrease in the Partner Nonrecourse Debt Minimum Gain during that year determined in accordance with Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-2(g)(2). THIS DOCUMENT IS A CONFIDENTIAL FILING. ACCESS IS PROHIBITED EXCEPT AS AUTHORIZED BY COURT ORDER.

HCLOM00269403

(d) Gross Income Allocation. If a Partner has a deficit Capital Account at the end of any Fiscal Year of the Partnership that exceeds the sum of (i) the amount the Partner is obligated to restore, and (ii) the amount the Partner is deemed to be obligated to restore pursuant to the penultimate sentences of Treasury Regulations Sections 1.704-2(g)(1) and 1.704-2(i)(5), then each such Partner shall be specially allocated items of income and gain of the Partnership in the amount of the excess as quickly as possible; provided, however, an allocation pursuant to this Section 3.04(d) shall be made if and only to the extent that the Partner would have a deficit Capital Account in excess of that sum after all other allocations provided for in this Article 3 have been tentatively made without considering Section 3.04(c) or 3.04(d).

(e) Nonrecourse Deductions. Nonrecourse Deductions for any taxable year or other period for which allocations are made shall be allocated among the Partners in accordance with their Percentage Interests.

(f) Partner Nonrecourse Deductions. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Agreement, any Partner Nonrecourse Deductions for any taxable year or other period for which allocations are made will be allocated to the Partner who bears the economic risk of loss with respect to the Partner Nonrecourse Debt to which the Partner Nonrecourse Deductions are attributable in accordance with Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-2(i).

(g) Section 754 Adjustments. To the extent an adjustment to the adjusted tax basis of any asset of the Partnership under Code Section 734(b) or Code Section 743(b) is required, pursuant to Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-1(b)(2)(iv)(m), to be taken into account in determining Capital Accounts, the amount of the adjustment to the Capital Accounts shall be treated as an item of gain (if the adjustment increases the basis of the asset) or loss (if the adjustment decreases the basis of the asset) and that gain or loss shall be specially allocated to the Partners in a manner consistent with the manner in which their Capital Accounts are required to be adjusted pursuant to that Section of the Treasury Regulations.

Section 3.05 Curative Allocations. The "Basic Regulatory Allocations" consist of (i) the allocations pursuant to Section 3.02(c), and (ii) the allocations pursuant to Sections 3.04. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement, the Basic Regulatory Allocations shall be taken into account in allocating items of income, gain, loss and deduction among the Partners so that, to the extent possible, the net amount of the allocations of other items and the Basic Regulatory Allocations to each Partner shall be equal to the net amount that would have been allocated to each such Partner if the Basic Regulatory Allocations had not occurred. For purposes of applying the foregoing sentence, allocations pursuant to this Section 3.05 shall be made only with respect to allocations pursuant to Section 3.04(g) to the extent that it can reasonably be determined that those allocations will otherwise be inconsistent with the economic agreement among the parties to this Agreement.

Section 3.06 Allocations of Built-in Items. In accordance with Code Sections 704(b) and 704(c) and the Treasury Regulations thereunder, income, gain, loss and deduction with respect to property actually or constructively contributed to the capital of the Partnership shall, solely for tax purposes, be allocated among the Partners so as to take account of any variation at the time of the contribution between the tax basis of the property to the Partnership and the fair market value of that property. Except as otherwise provided herein, any elections or other decisions relating to those allocations shall be made by the General Partner in any manner that reasonably reflects the purpose and intent of this Agreement. Allocations of income, gain, loss and deduction pursuant to this Section 3.06 are solely for purposes of federal, state and local taxes and shall not affect, or in any way be taken into account in computing, the Capital Account of any Partner or the share of Profits, Losses, other tax items or distributions of any Partner pursuant to any provision of this Agreement.

The provisions of this Section 3.07 and the other provisions of this Agreement relating to the maintenance of Capital Accounts have been included in this Agreement to comply with Code Section 704(b) and the Treasury Regulations promulgated thereunder and will be interpreted and applied in a manner consistent with those provisions. The General Partner may modify the manner in which the Capital Accounts are maintained under this Section 3.07 in order to comply with those provisions, as well as upon the occurrence of events that might otherwise cause this Agreement not to comply with those provisions.

(b) Negative Capital Accounts. If any Partner has a deficit balance in its Capital Account, that Partner shall have no obligation to restore that negative balance or to make any Capital Contribution by reason thereof, and that negative balance shall not be considered an asset of the Partnership or of any Partner.

(c) Interest. No interest shall be paid by the Partnership on Capital Contributions or on balances in Capital Accounts.

(d) No Withdrawal. No Partner shall be entitled to withdraw any part of his/her/its Capital Contribution or his/her/its Capital Account or to receive any distribution from the Partnership, except as provided in Section 3.09 and Articles 4 and 5.

Issue during that Fiscal Year, and (ii) specially allocate items of gain (or loss) to Partners who withdraw capital during any Fiscal Year in a manner designed to ensure that each withdrawing Partner is allocated gain (or loss) in an amount equal to the difference between that Partner's Capital Account balance (or portion thereof being withdrawn) at the time of the withdrawal and the tax basis for his/her/ its Partnership Interest at that time (or proportionate amount thereof); provided, however, that the General Partner may, without the consent of any other Partner, (a) alter the allocation of any item of taxable income, gain, loss, deduction or credit in any specific instance where the General Partner determines such alteration to be necessary or appropriate to avoid a materially inequitable result (e.g., where the allocation would create an inappropriate tax liability); provided that if such alteration has a material adverse effect on any particular Partner, the consent of such Partner shall be required; and/or (b) adopt whatever other method of allocating tax items as the General Partner determines is necessary or appropriate in order to be consistent with the spirit and intent of the Treasury Regulations under Code Sections 704(b) and 704(c).

Section 3.09 Distributions.

(a) General. All Net Available Cash as of each calendar year end shall be distributed to the Partners as soon as practicable following each such year end. The General Partner may also make interim distributions of Net Available Cash at any time during the year to the extent the General Partner determines such distribution is advisable or appropriate. Except to the extent Sections 5.03 or 5.04 are applicable, all distributions pursuant to this Section 3.09 shall generally be made in proportion to the Partners' Capital Accounts (and such distributions shall be allocated against increases in Capital Accounts in proportion in which they occurred); provided, however, the General Partner may make a disproportionate distribution to a Partner to the extent that Partner has (or is anticipated to have by the end of the current Fiscal Year) a sufficient positive balance in his/her/its Capital Account therefor; provided that the consent of the Partners not receiving such distribution shall first be required. Distributions shall be deemed to first reduce amounts that were first added to the Capital Accounts of the Partners (i.e., a first-in, first-out approach).

(b) Tax Distributions. The General Partner shall promptly declare and make cash distributions pursuant hereto to the Partners to allow the federal and state income tax attributable to the Partnership's taxable income that is passed through the Partnership to the Partners to be paid by such Partners (a "Tax Distribution"). To satisfy this requirement, the Partnership shall pay to each Partner on or before April 14 of each Fiscal Year, an amount at least equal to the product of (i) the sum of the Partnership's positive taxable income attributed to that Partner during the prior Fiscal Year (including without limitation, the taxable income attributable to the special allocation of Profits constituting the Reallocation Amount) multiplied by (ii) the sum of the highest federal and state individual income tax rates imposed on any Partner in effect that prior Fiscal Year. Any Tax Distribution to a Partner shall reduce the amount that Partner is otherwise entitled to receive on its next distribution pursuant to Section 3.09(a).

(c) Payments Not Deemed Distributions. Any amounts paid pursuant to Sections 4.01(e) or 4.01(h) shall not be deemed to be distributions for purposes of this Agreement.

Notwithstanding any other provision of this Section 3.09 to the contrary, each Partner hereby authorizes the Partnership to withhold and to pay over, or otherwise pay, any withholding or other taxes payable by the Partnership with respect to that Partner as a result of that Partner's participation in the Partnership. If and to the extent that the Partnership shall be required to withhold or pay any such taxes, that Partner shall be deemed for all purposes of this Agreement to have received a payment from the Partnership as of the time that withholding or tax is paid, which payment shall be deemed to be a distribution with respect to that Partner's Partnership Interest to the extent that the Partner (or any successor to that Partner's Partnership Interest) is then entitled to receive a distribution.

To the extent that the aggregate of such payments to a Partner for any period exceeds the distributions to which that Partner is entitled for that period, the amount of such excess shall be considered a loan from the Partnership to that Partner. Such loan shall bear interest (which interest shall be treated as an item of income to the Partnership) at the "Applicable Federal Rate" (as defined in the Code), as determined hereunder from time to time, until discharged by that Partner by repayment, which may be made in the sole and unfettered discretion of the General Partner out of distributions to which that Partner would otherwise be subsequently entitled. Any withholdings authorized by this Section 3.09(d) shall be made at the maximum applicable statutory rate under the applicable tax law unless the General Partner shall have received an opinion of counsel or other evidence satisfactory to the General Partner to the effect that a lower rate is applicable, or that no withholding is applicable.

(a) Compensation. The General Partner and any Affiliate of the General Partner shall receive no compensation from the Partnership for services rendered pursuant to this Agreement or any other agreements unless approved by a Majority Interest; provided, however, that the aggregate annual expenses of the Partnership, inclusive of such compensation, may not exceed 20% of Revenues without the consent of all of the members of the Founding Partner Group.

The General Partner shall keep or cause to be kept appropriate books and records with respect to the Partnership's business, which shall at all times be kept at the principal office of the Partnership or such other office as the General Partner may designate for such purpose. The books of the Partnership shall be maintained for financial reporting purposes on the accrual basis or on a cash basis, as the General Partner shall determine in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and applicable law. Such books and records shall be available for inspection by any Partner upon reasonable notice to the extent required under the Delaware Act.

(b) Fiscal Year. The fiscal year of the Partnership shall be the calendar year unless otherwise determined by the General Partner in its sole and unfettered discretion.

(c) Reports.

(i) As soon as reasonably practicable after the end of each Fiscal Year, the General Partner shall cause to be mailed to each Partner reports containing financial statements of the Partnership for that Fiscal Year, presented on cash or accrual basis, including a balance sheet and statement of income and, if the General Partner shall so determine, such statements may be audited by a firm of independent public accountants selected by the General Partner.

The classification, realization, and recognition of income, gain, loss, deduction, credit and other items shall be on the cash or accrual method of accounting for federal income tax purposes, as the General Partner shall determine in its sole and unfettered discretion. The General Partner in its sole and unfettered discretion may pay state and local income taxes attributable to operations of the Partnership and treat such taxes as an expense of the Partnership.

(c) Tax Controversies. Subject to the provisions hereof, the General Partner is designated the Tax Matters Partner (as defined in Code Section 6231), and is authorized and required to represent the Partnership, at the Partnership's expense, in connection with all examinations of the Partnership's affairs by tax authorities, including resulting administrative and judicial proceedings, and to expend Partnership funds for professional services and costs associated therewith. Each Partner agrees to cooperate with the General Partner in connection with such proceedings.

The Partnership shall also indemnify and hold harmless any Limited Partner, employee, agent, or representative of the Partnership, any Person who is or was serving at the request of the Partnership acting through the General Partner as a director, officer, partner, trustee, employee, agent, or representative of another corporation, partnership, joint venture, trust, or other enterprise, and any other Person to the extent determined by the General Partner in its sole and unfettered discretion, provided that, in each case the General Partner may condition such indemnification on the agreement of such indemnitee to confidentiality, non-prosecution, non-disparagement and cooperation covenants in form and substance reasonably satisfactory to the General Partner and, provided further that, in no event shall such indemnification exceed the indemnification permitted by the Delaware Act. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Section 4.01(h) or elsewhere in this Agreement, no amendment to the Delaware Act after the date of this Agreement shall reduce or limit in any manner the indemnification provided for or permitted by this Section 4.01(h) unless such reduction or limitation is mandated by such amendment for limited partnerships formed prior to the enactment of such amendment. In no event shall Limited Partners be subject to personal liability by reason of the indemnification provisions of this Agreement.

authorization and protection in respect of any action taken or suffered or omitted by the General Partner hereunder in good faith and in accordance with such opinion.

(k) Officers. The General Partner may, from time to time, designate one or more Persons to be officers of the Company. No officer need be a Partner. Any officers so designated shall have such authority and perform such duties as the General Partner may, from time to time, delegate to them. The General Partner may assign titles to particular officers, including, without limitation, president, vice president, secretary, assistant secretary, treasurer and assistant treasurer. Each officer shall hold office until such Person's successor shall be duly designated and shall qualify or until such Person's death or until such Person shall resign or shall have been removed in the manner hereinafter provided. Any number of offices may be held by the same Person. The salaries or other compensation, if any, of the officers and agents of the Partnership shall be fixed from time to time by the General Partner. Any officer may be removed as such, either with or without cause, by the General Partner whenever in the General Partner's judgment the best interests of the Partnership will be served thereby. Any vacancy occurring in any office of the Partnership may be filled by the General Partner.

Section 4.02 Rights and Obligations of Limited Partners. In addition to the rights and obligations of Limited Partners set forth elsewhere in this Agreement, Limited Partners shall have the following rights and obligations:

(a) Limitation of Liability. Limited Partners shall have no liability under this Agreement except as provided herein or under the Delaware Act.

(b) Management of Business. No Limited Partner shall take part in the control (within the meaning of the Delaware Act) of the Partnership's business, transact any business in the Partnership's name, or have the power to sign documents for or otherwise bind the Partnership other than as specifically set forth in this Agreement.

(c) Return of Capital. No Limited Partner shall be entitled to the withdrawal or return of its Capital Contribution except to the extent, if any, that distributions made pursuant to this Agreement or upon termination of the Partnership may be considered as such by law and then only to the extent provided for in this Agreement.

Section 4.03 Transfer of Partnership Interests.

(a) Transfer. No Partnership Interest shall be Transferred, in whole or in part, except in accordance with the terms and conditions set forth in this Section 4.03. Any Transfer or purported Transfer of any Partnership Interest not made in accordance with this Section 4.03 shall be null and void. An alleged transferee shall have no right to require any information or account of the Partnership's transactions or to inspect the Partnership's books. The Partnership shall be entitled to treat the alleged transferor of a Partnership Interest as the absolute owner thereof in all respects, and shall incur no liability to any alleged transferee for distributions to the Partner owning that Partnership Interest of record or for allocations of Profits, Losses, deductions or credits or for transmittal of reports and notices required to be given to holders of Partnership Interests.

(b) Transfers by General Partner and its Affiliates. Affiliates, other than transfers (i) to Affiliates, (ii) pursuant to James Dondero's estate plan or (iii) otherwise to trusts or vehicles established for estate planning purposes. Any Transfer by the General Partner or its Affiliates of its Partnership Interest under this Section 4.03(b) to an Affiliate of the General Partner or its Affiliates or any other Person shall not constitute a withdrawal of the General Partner or its Affiliates under Section 4.05(a), Section 5.01(b), or any other provision of this Agreement. If any such Transfer is deemed to constitute a withdrawal under such provisions or otherwise and results in the dissolution of the Partnership under this Agreement or the laws of any jurisdiction to which the Partnership of this Agreement is subject, the Partners hereby unanimously consent to the reconstitution and continuation of the Partnership immediately following such dissolution, pursuant to Section 5.02.

(c) Transfers by Limited Partners. Except as provided above, the Partnership Interest of a Limited Partner may not be Transferred, encumbered, participated or pledged without the consent of the General Partner (which consent may be withheld in the sole and unfettered discretion of the General Partner except to trusts or similar vehicles for estate planning purposes, which shall be permitted without consent).

(d) Distributions and Allocations in Respect of Transferred Partnership Interests. If any Partnership Interest is Transferred during any Fiscal Year in compliance with the provisions of Article 4, Profits, Losses, and all other items attributable to the Transferred interest for that period shall be divided and allocated between the transferor and the transferee by taking into account their varying interests during the period in accordance with Code Section 706(d), using any conventions permitted by law and selected by the General Partner. All distributions on or before the date of that Transfer shall be made to the transferor. Solely for purposes of making such allocations and distributions, the Partnership shall recognize that Transfer not later than the end of the calendar month during which it is given notice of that Transfer; provided, however, if the Partnership does not receive a notice stating the date that Partnership Interest was Transferred and such other information as the General Partner may reasonably require within thirty (30) days after the end of the Fiscal Year during which the Transfer occurs, then all of such items shall be allocated, and all distributions shall be made, to the person who, according to the books and records of the Partnership, on the last day of the Fiscal Year during which the Transfer occurs, was the owner of the Partnership Interest. Neither the Partnership nor any Partner shall incur any liability for making allocations and distributions in accordance with the provisions of this Section 4.03(d), whether or not any Partner or the Partnership has knowledge of any Transfer of ownership of any Partnership Interest.

Section 4.04 Resignation or Removal of Limited Partners. Upon the resignation, death, Disability or termination of employment with the Partnership or any Affiliate Employer (for any reason whatsoever) (as such event, a "Removal Event") of any Limited Partner, the Partnership Interest of such Limited Partner shall automatically be forfeited to the Partnership and such Limited Partner shall be entitled to receive in consideration of such interest an amount equal to (i) 100% such Limited Partner's Percentage Interest of all Net Available Cash through the first year end following the Removal Event, (ii) 66 2/3% of such Limited Partner's Percentage Interest of all Net Available Cash through the second year end following such Removal Event, (iii) 33 1/3% of such Limited Partner's Percentage Interest of Net Available Cash through the third year end following such Removal Event, and (iv) to the extent that the Partnership acquired investment assets during the tenure of the departing Partner that are still owned by the Partnership as of the Removal Event, such departing Limited Partner shall receive (without duplication of any Net Available Cash distributed pursuant to clauses (i) through (iii) above) either (A) a pro rata in-kind distribution of such assets or (B) its pro rata share (based on the departing Limited Partner's Percentage Interest immediately preceding the Removal Event) of all future distributions and liquidation proceeds from such asset(s) if and when received by the Partnership, net of any applicable taxes and expenses; provided, that if the basis of such Removal Event was termination of employment with the Partnership or any Affiliate Employer for Cause or if the Limited Partner competes in any way with the Partnership at any time during which any payments would otherwise be owed under this paragraph, such partner shall automatically forfeit its right to any further compensation or consideration for its Partnership Interest. Following any Removal Event, Joshua Terry shall have the non-exclusive right (without limiting the right of the General Partner and its control persons, as applicable, to use each such track record) to use the performance "track record" of each advised account of the Partnership covering the period for which Joshua Terry was named a Portfolio Manager (or more senior management title) with respect to such account prior to such Removal Event.

Section 4.05 Issuances of Partnership Interests to New and Existing Partners.

(a) Issuance of Partnership Interests to New Limited Partners. The General Partner may admit one or more additional Persons as Limited Partners ("Additional Limited Partners") to the Partnership at such times and upon such terms as it deems appropriate in its sole and unfettered discretion. Upon the admission of any Additional Limited Partner, the Percentage Interest of all Partners (other than the General Partner in the event the Percentage Interest of the General Partner is less than or equal to 0.01) diluted pro rata. The General Partner shall also specify whether such Limited Partner is limited to being a "Profits Interest Partner" for purposes of this Agreement. No Person may be admitted to the Partnership as a Limited Partner until he/she/it executes an Addendum to this Agreement in the form attached as Exhibit B (which may be modified by the General Partner in its sole and unfettered discretion).

(b) Issuance of an Additional Partnership Interest to an Existing Partner. The General Partner may not issue an additional Partnership Interest to any member of the Founding Partner Group without the consent of all of the members of the Founding Partner Group. Upon the issuance of an additional Partnership Interest to an existing Partner, the Percentage Interest of all Partners (other than the General Partner in the event the Percentage Interest of the General Partner is less than or equal to 0.01) shall be diluted pro rata. Any additional Partnership Interest shall be subject to all the terms and conditions of this Agreement.

Section 4.06 Withdrawal of General Partner.

(a) Option. In the event of the withdrawal of the General Partner from the Partnership, the departing General Partner (the "Departing Partner") shall, at the option of its successor (if any) exercisable prior to the effective date of the departure of that Departing Partner, promptly receive from its successor in exchange for its Partnership Interest as the General Partner, an amount equal to (i) 100% such General Partner's Percentage Interest of all Net Available Cash through the first year end following its departure, (ii) 66 2/3% of such General Partner's Percentage Interest of all Net Available Cash through the second year end following its departure, (iii) 33 1/3% of such General Partner's Percentage Interest of Net Available Cash through the third year end following its departure, and (iv) to the extent that the Partnership acquired investment assets during the tenure of the departing Partner that are still owned by the Partnership as of its departure, such departing General Partner shall receive (without duplication of any Net Available Cash distributed pursuant to clauses (i) through (iii) above) either (A) a pro rata in-kind distribution of such assets or (B) its pro rata share (based on the departing General Partner's Percentage Interest immediately preceding its departure) of all future distributions and liquidation proceeds from such asset(s) if and when received by the Partnership, net of any applicable taxes and expenses.

(b) Conversion. If the successor to a Departing Partner does not exercise the option described in Section 4.06(a), the Partnership Interest of the Departing Partner as the General Partner of the Partnership shall be converted into a Partnership Interest as a Limited Partner.

HCLOM00269414

(c) Capital Contribution. If the successor to a Departing Partner does not exercise the option described in Section 4.06(a), its successor shall, at the effective date of its admission to the Partnership, contribute to the capital of the Partnership cash or property or other consideration such that its Capital Account, after giving effect to that contribution, shall be equal to one percent (1%) of the total Capital Account balances at that date.

Section 4.07 Admission of Substitute Limited Partners and Successor General Partner.

(a) Admission of Substitute Limited Partners. A transferee (which may be the heir or legatee of a Limited Partner) or assignee of a Limited Partner's Partnership Interest shall be entitled to receive only the distributive share of the Partnership's Profits, Losses, deductions, and credits attributable to that Partnership Interest. To become a substitute Limited Partner (a "Substitute Limited Partner"), that transferee or assignee shall (i) obtain the consent of the General Partner (which consent may be withheld in the sole and unfettered discretion of the General Partner), and (ii) execute an Addendum to this Agreement in the form attached as Exhibit B (which may be modified by the General Partner in its sole and unfettered discretion). Upon admission of a Substitute Limited Partner, that Limited Partner shall be subject to all of the restrictions applicable to, shall assume all of the obligations of, and shall attain the status of a Limited Partner under and pursuant to this Agreement with respect to the Partnership Interest held by that Limited Partner; provided, that, without the unanimous consent of the Founding Partner Group, no substitute partner shall be part of the Founding Partner Group unless such substitute partner is an affiliate or estate planning entity of a transferring member of the Founding Partner Group.

(b) Admission of Successor General Partner. A successor General Partner selected pursuant to Section 5.02 or the transferee of or successor to all of the Partnership Interest of the General Partner pursuant to Section 4.03(b) shall be admitted to the Partnership as the General Partner, effective as of the date of the withdrawal or removal of the predecessor General Partner or the date of Transfer of that predecessor's Partnership Interest.

(c) Action by General Partner. In connection with the admission of any substitute Limited Partner or successor General Partner or any additional Limited Partner, the General Partner shall have the authority to take all such actions reasonably necessary or advisable in connection therewith, including the amendment of Exhibit A and the execution and filing with appropriate authorities of any necessary documentation.

Section 4.08 Business Opportunities. In the event that the Partnership recapitalizes, distributes or otherwise transfers any of its business units, business interests or assets to a new entity that will be primarily owned by one or more members of the Founding Partner Group, each of the Limited Partners shall receive a proportionate share of that entity, subject to identical terms and conditions as are provided to the members of the Founding Partner Group, unless that Limited Partner agrees to receive a different percentage interest in that entity.

Section 4.09 FCC Matters.

(a) The Partners acknowledge that the Partnership will invest, directly or indirectly, in one or more FCC Regulated Entities, and intend that the Limited Partners (except for any Limited Partner that serves as an officer of the Partnership) not be attributed with an ownership interest in any such FCC Regulated Entities for purposes of the FCC Rules to the extent possible. Notwithstanding any provision of this Agreement to the contrary, for so long as the Partnership has a direct or indirect investment in any FCC Regulated Entity, no Limited Partner (except for any Limited Partner that serves as an officer of the Partnership) and no officer, director, partner or other official of any such Limited Partner that is not an individual shall:

(i) act as an employee of, or provide services to, the Partnership, or any Portfolio Company that is an FCC Regulated Entity, if such Limited Partner's functions directly or indirectly relate to the FCC-regulated enterprises of the Partnership or such Portfolio Company;

(ii) serve, in any material capacity, as an independent contractor or agent with respect to the FCC-regulated enterprises of the Partnership or any Portfolio Company that is an FCC Regulated Entity;

(iii) communicate with the General Partner or any Portfolio Company that is an FCC Regulated Entity on matters pertaining to the day-to-day operations of the business of any such FCC Regulated Entity;

(iv) vote to admit any additional general partners of the Partnership unless such vote may be vetoed by the General Partner;

(v) vote on the removal of the General Partner unless the General Partner is (a) subject to bankruptcy proceedings, (b) adjudicated insane or incompetent by a court of competent jurisdiction, or (c) otherwise removed for cause, where cause is defined as malfeasance, criminal conduct or wanton or willful neglect, as determined by a neutral arbiter;

(vi) perform any services for the Partnership or any Portfolio Company that is an FCC Regulated Entity materially relating to the FCC-regulated enterprises of the Partnership or any such FCC Regulated Entity, other than acting as lender or surety; or

(vii) become actively involved, directly or indirectly, in the management or operation of any Portfolio Company that is an FCC Regulated Entity.

(b) To enable the Partnership to invest in FCC Regulated Entities consistent with the requirements of the Communications Act and the rules, regulations and policies of the FCC, each Limited Partner will provide the General Partner, upon request, the following information:

(i) information regarding the percentage of its equity ownership owned, controlled or voted by Aliens, and the number and percentage of its partners, shareholders or members that are Aliens;

(ii) all other information that the General Partner requires to make necessary filings with, or other submissions to, the FCC; and

(iii) all other information that the General Partner reasonably deems necessary, advisable or convenient in order to enable the Partnership to make, manage and dispose of actual or potential investments.

(c) Each Limited Partner will provide the General Partner with prompt notice if any information provided by such Limited Partner pursuant to this Section 4.09(b) is no longer true and complete. In addition, no Limited Partner will take any action that such Limited Partner knows would cause a violation by the Partnership of the Communications Act or the rules, regulations or policies of the FCC. In the event that the General Partner determines that the continued participation by a Limited Partner in an investment in the Partnership at a time when the Partnership has made an investment in any FCC Regulated Entity would cause the Partnership or such FCC Regulated Entity to be in violation of the Communications Act or the rules, regulations or policies of the FCC or would prevent the Partnership from making an investment that the General Partner believes to be in the best interest of the Partnership, then such Limited Partner will, at the request of the General Partner, transfer its entire interest in the Partnership (or such portion thereof as the General Partner deems necessary to avoid or prevent such violation) in accordance with Section 4.03.

ARTICLE 5 DISSOLUTION AND WINDING UP

Section 5.01 Dissolution. Subject to Section 5.02, the Partnership shall be dissolved upon:

(a) The death of James Dondero or the withdrawal, bankruptcy, or dissolution of the General Partner or any Affiliate thereof that holds a Partnership Interest, or any other event that results in its ceasing to be a Partner (other than by reason of a Transfer pursuant to Section 4.03(b));

(b) An election to dissolve the Partnership by the General Partner that is approved by the affirmative vote of all members of the Founding Partner Group;

(c) Any other event that, under the Delaware Act, would cause its dissolution; or

(d) A sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the Partnership that results in the liquidation of operating assets, the material shrinking of operations and personnel and the failure to redeploy the proceeds within twelve (12) months into other activities and investments.

For purposes of this Section 5.01, the bankruptcy of the General Partner shall be deemed to have occurred when the General Partner: (i) makes a general assignment for the benefit of creditors; (ii) files a voluntary bankruptcy petition; (iii) becomes the subject of an order for relief or is declared insolvent in any federal or state bankruptcy or insolvency proceeding: (iv) files a petition or answer seeking a reorganization, arrangement, composition, readjustment, liquidation, dissolution, or similar relief under any law; (v) files an answer or other pleading admitting or failing to contest the material allegations of a petition filed against the General Partner in a proceeding of the type described in clauses (i) through (iv) of this paragraph; (vi) seeks, consents to, or acquiesces in the appointment of a trustee, receiver, or liquidator of the General Partner or of all or any substantial part of the General Partner's properties; or (vii) one hundred twenty (120) days expire after the date of the commencement of a proceeding against the General Partner seeking reorganization, arrangement, composition, readjustment, liquidation, dissolution, or similar relief under any law if the proceeding has not been previously dismissed, or ninety (90) days expire after the date of the appointment, without the General Partner's consent or acquiescence, of a trustee, receiver, or liquidator of the General Partner or of all or any substantial part of the General Partner's properties if the appointment has not previously been vacated or stayed, or ninety (90) days expire after the date of expiration of a stay, if the appointment has not previously been vacated.

Section 5.02 Continuation of the Partnership. Upon the occurrence of an event described in Section 5.01(a), the Partnership shall be deemed to be dissolved and reconstituted if a majority in interest of the remaining members of the Founding Partner Group (calculated as of percentage of the total partnership interest held by the remaining members of the Founding Member Group) elect to continue the Partnership within ninety (90) days of that event. If no election to continue the Partnership is made within ninety (90) days of that event, the Partnership shall conduct only activities necessary to wind up its affairs. If an election to continue the Partnership is made upon the occurrence of an event described in Section 5.01(a), then:

(a) Within that ninety (90)-day period a successor General Partner shall be selected by a majority in interest of the remaining member(s) of the Founding Partner Group;

HCLOM00269417

(b) The Partnership shall be deemed to be reconstituted and shall continue until the end of the term for which it is formed unless earlier dissolved in accordance with this Article 5;

(c) The interest of the former General Partner shall be converted to an interest as a Limited Partner; and

(d) All reasonable steps shall be taken to amend or restate this Agreement and the Certificate of Limited Partnership, and the successor General Partner may for this purpose amend this Agreement and the Certificate of Limited Partnership, as appropriate, without the consent of any Partner.

Section 5.03 Liquidation. Upon dissolution of the Partnership, unless the Partnership is continued under Section 5.02, the General Partner or, in the event the General Partner has been dissolved, becomes bankrupt (as defined in Section 5.01), or withdraws from the Partnership, a liquidator or liquidating committee selected by a Majority Interest, shall be the Liquidator. The Liquidator (if other than the General Partner) shall be entitled to receive such compensation for its services as may be approved by a Majority Interest. The Liquidator shall agree not to resign at any time without fifteen (15) days' prior written notice and (if other than the General Partner) may be removed at any time, with or without cause, by notice of removal approved by a Majority Interest. Upon dissolution, removal, or resignation of the Liquidator, a successor and substitute Liquidator (who shall have and succeed to all rights, powers, and duties of the original Liquidator) shall within thirty (30) days thereafter be selected by a Majority Interest. The right to appoint a successor or substitute Liquidator in the manner provided herein shall be recurring and continuing for so long as the functions and services of the Liquidator are authorized to continue under the provisions hereof, and every reference herein to the Liquidator shall be deemed to refer also to any such successor or substitute Liquidator appointed in the manner provided herein. Except as expressly provided in this Article 5, the Liquidator appointed in the manner provided herein shall have and may exercise, without further authorization or consent of any of the parties hereto, all of the powers conferred upon the General Partner under the terms of this Agreement (but subject to all of the applicable limitations, contractual and otherwise, upon the exercise of such powers) to the extent necessary or desirable in the good faith judgment of the Liquidator to carry out the duties and functions of the Liquidator hereunder for and during such period of time as shall be reasonably required in the good faith judgment of the Liquidator to complete the winding up and liquidation of the Partnership as provided herein. The Liquidator shall liquidate the assets of the Partnership and apply and distribute the proceeds of such liquidation in the following order of priority, unless otherwise required by mandatory provisions of applicable law:

(a) To the payment of the expenses of the terminating transactions including, without limitation, brokerage commission, legal fees, accounting fees and closing costs;

(b) To the payment of creditors of the Partnership, including Partners, in order of priority provided by law;

(c) To the Partners and assignees to the extent of, and in proportion to, the positive balances in their respective Capital Accounts as provided in Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-1(b)(2)(ii)(b)(2); provided, however, the Liquidator may place in escrow a reserve of cash or other assets of the Partnership for contingent liabilities in an amount determined by the Liquidator to be appropriate for such purposes; and

(d) To the Partners (other than the Profits Interest Partners) in proportion to their respective Percentage Interests.

Section 5.04 Distribution in Kind. Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 5.03 that require the liquidation of the assets of the Partnership, but subject to the order of priorities set forth therein, if on dissolution of the Partnership the Liquidator determines that an immediate sale of part or all of the Partnership's assets would be impractical or would cause undue loss to the Partners and assignees, the Liquidator may defer for a reasonable time the liquidation of any assets except those necessary to satisfy liabilities of the Partnership (other than those to Partners) and/or may distribute to the Partners and assignees, in lieu of cash, as tenants in common and in accordance with the provisions of Section 5.03, undivided interests in such Partnership assets as the Liquidator deems not suitable for liquidation. Any such distributions in kind shall be subject to such conditions relating to the disposition and management of such properties as the Liquidator deems reasonable and equitable and to any joint operating agreements or other agreements governing the operation of such properties at such time. The Liquidator shall determine the fair market value of any property distributed in kind using an independent third party for determining the valuation of such property.

Section 5.05 Cancellation of Certificate of Limited Partnership. Upon the completion of the distribution of Partnership property as provided in Sections 5.03 and 5.04, the Partnership shall be terminated, and the Liquidator (or the General Partner and Limited Partners if necessary) shall cause the cancellation of the Certificate of Limited Partnership in the State of Delaware and of all qualifications and registrations of the Partnership as a foreign limited partnership in jurisdictions other than the State of Delaware and shall take such other actions as may be necessary to terminate the Partnership.

Section 5.06 Return of Capital. The General Partner shall not be personally liable for the return of the Capital Contributions of Limited Partners, or any portion thereof, it being expressly understood that any such return shall be made solely from Partnership assets.

Section 5.07 Waiver of Partition. Each Partner hereby waives any rights to partition of the Partnership property.

ARTICLE 6 GENERAL PROVISIONS

Section 6.01 Amendments to Agreement. The General Partner may amend this Agreement without the consent of any Partner to the extent such amendment does not adversely affect the rights of the non-consenting Partners. To the extent the Partnership or the General Partner requests, in writing, the waiver or consent of one or more Limited Partners, any Limited Partners with respect to whom receipt of such notice is confirmed but that do not respond in writing within 15 days shall be deemed to have consented to such request. In no event shall any provision of this Agreement be amended or waived in a manner that adversely affects the rights or obligations of any Partner Affiliated with James Dondero or any estate planning trust or other vehicle established by James Dondero without the express written consent of James Dondero.

Section 6.02 Addresses and Notices. Any notice, demand, request, or report required or permitted to be given or made to a Partner under this Agreement shall be in writing and shall be deemed given or made when delivered in person or when sent by United States registered or certified mail to the Partner at his/her/its address as shown on the records of the Partnership, regardless of any claim of any Person who may have an interest in any Partnership Interest by reason of an assignment or otherwise.

Section 6.03 Titles and Captions. All article and section titles and captions in the Agreement are for convenience only, shall not be deemed part of this Agreement, and in no way shall define, limit, extend, or describe the scope or intent of any provisions hereof. Except as specifically provided otherwise, references to "Articles," "Sections" and "Exhibits" are to "Articles," "Sections" and "Exhibits" of this Agreement. All Exhibits hereto are incorporated herein by reference.

Section 6.04 Pronouns and Plurals. Whenever the context may require, any pronoun used in this Agreement shall include the corresponding masculine, feminine, or neuter forms, and the singular form of nouns, pronouns, and verbs shall include the plural and vice versa.

Section 6.05 Further Action. The parties shall execute all documents, provide all information, and take or refrain from taking all actions as may be necessary or appropriate to achieve the purposes of this Agreement.

Section 6.06 Binding Effect. This Agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties hereto and their heirs, executors, administrators, successors, legal representatives, and permitted assigns.

Section 6.07 Integration. This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement among the parties hereto pertaining to the subject matter hereof and supersedes all prior agreements and understandings pertaining thereto.

Section 6.08 Creditors. None of the provisions of this Agreement shall be for the benefit of or enforceable by any creditors of the Partnership.

Section 6.09 Waiver. No failure by any party to insist upon the strict performance of any covenant, duty, agreement, or condition of this Agreement or to exercise any right or remedy consequent upon a breach thereof shall constitute waiver of any such breach or any other covenant, duty, agreement, or condition.

Section 6.10 Counterparts. This agreement may be executed in counterparts, all of which together shall constitute one agreement binding on all the parties hereto, notwithstanding that all such parties are not signatories to the original or the same counterpart.

Section 6.11 Applicable Law. Subject to Section 6.12, this Agreement shall be construed in accordance with and governed by the laws of the State of Delaware, without regard to the principles of conflicts of law.

Section 6.12 Dispute Resolution. The following procedures shall be used to resolve any controversy or claim ("Dispute") arising out of, relating to or in connection with the Agreement or otherwise involving the Partnership, its Partners and/or any GP Party. If any of these provisions are determined to be invalid or unenforceable, the remaining provisions shall remain in effect and binding on the parties to the fullest extent permitted by law.

(a) Mediation.

(i) Any Dispute shall be submitted to mediation by written notice to the other party or parties. In the mediation process, the parties will try to resolve their differences voluntarily with the aid of an impartial mediator, who will attempt to facilitate negotiations. The mediator will be selected by agreement of the parties. If the parties cannot agree on a mediator, a mediator shall be designated by JAMS/Endispute at the request of a party using, if necessary, strike and rank procedures then in effect.

(ii) The mediation will be conducted as specified by the mediator and agreed upon by the parties. The parties agree to discuss their differences in good faith and to attempt, with the assistance of the mediator, to reach an amicable resolution of the dispute.

THIS DOCUMENT IS A CONFIDENTIAL FILING. ACCESS IS PROHIBITED EXCEPT AS AUTHORIZED BY COURT ORDER.

HCLOM00269420

(iii) The mediation will be treated as a settlement discussion and therefore will be confidential. The mediator may not testify for either party in any later proceeding relating to the dispute. No recording or transcript shall be made of the mediation proceedings.

(iv) Each party will bear its own costs in the mediation. The fees and expenses of the mediator will be shared equally by the parties.

(b) Arbitration.

(i) If a Dispute has not been resolved within 90 days after the written notice beginning the mediation process (or a longer period, if the parties agree to extend the mediation), the mediation shall terminate and the dispute will be settled by arbitration. A party who files a suit in court regarding a Dispute rather than in arbitration waives its claim and must pay all attorney's fees and costs incurred by the other party in seeking to have such suit dismissed. Under no circumstances will a party maintain its right to pursue his/her/its Dispute if that party initiates a judicial suit instead of complying with the mediation and arbitration provisions herein. The arbitration will be conducted through JAMS/Endispute in accordance with the procedures in this document and the commercial dispute arbitration rules then in effect ("Arbitration Rules"). In the event of a conflict, the provisions of this document will control.

(ii) The arbitration will be conducted before a panel of three arbitrators, regardless of the size of the dispute, to be selected as provided in the Arbitration Rules. Any issue concerning the extent to which any dispute is subject to arbitration, or concerning the applicability, interpretation, or enforceability of these procedures, including any contention that all or part of these procedures are invalid or unenforceable, shall be governed by the Federal Arbitration Act ("FAA"), and resolved by the arbitrators. Under no circumstances will a state arbitration act preclude application of the FAA, including any choice of law provisions in this agreement, or any other agreement. No potential arbitrator may serve on the panel unless he or she has agreed in writing to abide and be bound by these procedures.

(iii) The arbitrators may not award non-monetary or equitable relief of any sort. They shall have no power to award punitive damages or any other damages not measured by the prevailing party's actual damages, and the parties expressly waive their right to obtain such damages in arbitration or any in other forum. In no event, even if any other portion of these provisions is held to be invalid or unenforceable, shall the arbitrators have power to make an award or impose a remedy that could not be made or imposed by a court deciding the matter in the same jurisdiction. The arbitrator(s) shall be required to state in a written opinion all facts and conclusions of law relied upon to support any decision rendered. Any dispute over whether the arbitrator(s) has failed to comply with the foregoing will be resolved by summary judgment in a court of law.

(iv) The parties involved in arbitration shall split all arbitration costs and arbitrator's fees, subject to a final arbitration award on who should bear costs and fees. All proceedings shall be conducted in Dallas, Texas, or another mutually agreeable site. Each party shall bear its own attorneys fees, costs and expenses, including any costs of experts, witnesses and/or travel, subject to a final arbitration award on who should bear costs and fees. The duty to arbitrate described above shall survive the termination of this Agreement. This provision is intended to supersede any rights under Texas Civil Practices and Remedies Code § 38.001(8), which rights the parties expressly waive.

THIS DOCUMENT IS A CONFIDENTIAL FILING. ACCESS IS PROHIBITED EXCEPT AS AUTHORIZED BY COURT ORDER.

HCLOM00269421

(v) Only limited discovery will be allowed in connection with the arbitration unless the arbitration panel, upon a showing of substantial need, expressly authorizes it. In any event, there shall be no more than (1) two party depositions of six hours each. Each deposition is to be taken pursuant to the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure; (2) one non-party deposition of six hours; (3) twenty-five interrogatories; (4) twenty-five requests for admission; (5) ten requests for production. In response, the producing party shall not be obligated to produce in excess of 5,000 total pages of documents. The total pages of documents shall include electronic documents; and (6) one request for disclosure pursuant to the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure. Any discovery not specifically provided for in this paragraph, whether to parties or non-parties, shall not be permitted.

(vi) All aspects of the arbitration shall be treated as confidential, including its institution and/or settlement. Neither the parties nor the arbitrators may disclose the existence, content or results of the arbitration, except as necessary to comply with legal or regulatory requirements. Before making any such disclosure, a party shall give written notice to all other parties and shall afford such parties a reasonable opportunity to protect their interests. In the event a party who recovered monies by settlement, award by the arbitration panel, or otherwise in connection with the Dispute violates this confidentiality term, he, she, or it shall refund all such sums recovered. The parties expressly intend to waive the right to retain any monies received through settlement, award by the arbitration panel, or otherwise in connection with the Dispute in the event that that party violates the aforementioned confidentiality term.

(vii) The result of the arbitration will be binding on the parties, and judgment on the arbitrators' award may be entered in any court having jurisdiction. In addition, the Partnership or such applicable affiliate thereof may also pursue a restraining order and/or other injunctive relief in a court of law, if such remedy is deemed appropriate by the arbitrators.

Section 6.13 Invalidity of Provisions. If any provision of this Agreement is declared or found to be illegal, unenforceable, or void, in whole or in part, then the parties shall be relieved of all obligations arising under that provision, but only to the extent that it is illegal, unenforceable, or void, it being the intent and agreement of the parties that this Agreement shall be deemed amended by modifying that provision to the extent necessary to make it legal and enforceable while preserving its intent or, if that is not possible, by substituting therefor another provision that is legal and enforceable and achieves the same objectives.

Capital Management, LP ("ACIS"), ACIS Capital Management GP, LLC ("ACIS GP"), James Dondero, as Trustee of the Dugaboy Investment Trust ("Trust"), and Mark K. Okada ("Okada"), all Respondents were submitted to binding arbitration before JAMS. The Arbitration Panel members are the Hon. Glen M. Ashworth (Ret.), the Hon. Mark Whittington (Ret.) and the Hon. Harlan Martin (Former), serving as Chairman of the Panel.

The arbitration hearing was conducted in Dallas, Texas on the dates of September 2, 3, 6, 7, 8, 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15, 2017, with additional briefing submitted thereafter. The briefing was closed and the hearing was complete on September 28, 2017.

PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

In Cause No. DC-16-11396, styled Highland Capital Management, LP vs. Joshua N. Terry, the 162nd Judicial District Court stayed the litigation and Ordered the parties to arbitration.

The Panel has previously dismissed all claims stated by Terry against Jams Dondero, individually. James Dondero is not an appropriate party to this proceeding and did not obligate himself to the Parties' arbitration agreement.

The Panel has previously dismissed Terry's claims for Declaratory Judgment relief.

The Panel has previously dismissed Terry's claims for Exemplary Damages, as same are an excluded remedy by the terms of the Parties' arbitration agreement.

The Panel has previously denied Respondents' Motion to Disqualify Clouse Dunn and ruled that the firm is not disqualified to represent Terry.

The Panel has declined to entertain any request for injunctive relief.

REMAINING CLAIMS STATED BY PARTIES

Terry states claims against Highland for Sabine Pilot wrongful termination and seeks damages for deferred compensation, unpaid wages, future wages and reimbursement of benefits not paid. Terry states claims against ACIS, ACIS GP and Highland for reputational damages, resulting from statements published in the pending District Court litigation and a press release to Law 360.

Terry states claims against ACIS, ACIS GP, Trust and Okada for breach of contract and seeks damages for amounts due under the terms of the ACIS LPA and damages resulting from overcharging expenses and withholding of retirement assets.

Terry states claims against ACIS and ACIS GP for fraud.

Terry states claims against ACIS GP for breach of fiduciary duty.

Terry states claims against ACIS, ACIS GP and Highland for conversion of assets, fraudulent transfer of ACIS assets, recovery of his attorney's fees and costs, together with pre and post award interest.

Highland states claims against Terry, "subject to, and without waiver of its contention that Highland is not a party to a valid arbitration agreement with Terry and its claims against him are not arbitrable or within the scope of any applicable arbitration agreement, which contentions remain fully reserved." With this reservation, Highland states claims against Terry for breach of employment agreement, theft/theft of trade secrets, breach of fiduciary duty/self-dealing and recovery of its attorneys' fees and costs together with pre and post award interest.

BACKGROUND FACTS

Terry began his employment with Highland in 2005. During the ensuing years he achieved remarkable success and ultimately became Highland's most productive portfolio manager and had direct responsibility for more than ten billion dollars of assets under his management.

In 2011, Terry, James Dondero and Okada formed ACIS as a registered investment advisor to raise money from third-party investors to invest in collateralized loan obligations, (CLOs). ACIS earns a fee for managing the loans.

As the general partner of ACIS, ACIS GP owned .1%. As limited partners of ACIS, Trust owned 59.9%; Okada owned 15% and Terry owned 25%.

James Dondero owned 100% of Trust and was an officer of ACIS GP, and in fact made or approved the financial strategies and decisions of ACIS. While Okada was less active, Terry was responsible for the day-to-day management of ACIS. Terry managed well, attracted significant investors and grew ACIS assets under his management from nothing to three billion seven hundred million dollars in less than six years.

Prior to 2016, Terry enjoyed a good relationship with Dondero. Terry had never been criticized, written up or disciplined during his eleven years of employment with Highland. Terry had been paid millions of dollars in Highland salary, bonuses and ACIS profit distributions, as he had produced many more millions for Highland and his ACIS partners.

Thereafter, tensions arose between Terry and Dondero which were centered in Dondero's plans to have Trussway Holdings, Inc. acquire Targa, a Brazilian latex manufacturer, out of bankruptcy. Trussway is a Highland affiliated company controlled by Dondero. The plan was to have Highland managed CLOs loan Trussway approximately seventeen million dollars so Trussway could loan a Highland affiliated Brazilian entity the money to acquire Targa and have Trussway use its cash to acquire its own equity to effectively increase Highland's ownership in Trussway.

At this time, Trussway's only lenders were the Highland CLOs and it owed the Highland CLOs approximately fifty six million dollars in Trussway notes coming due on May 31, 2016. Trussway did not have the money to pay the notes. Trussway did have more than twenty three million dollars still available on its revolver note (credit line), with the Highland CLOs. Dondero's plan was to extend the notes then due within days and finance Trussway's acquisition of Targa by drawing down the revolver funds. Dondero's plan was to not pay any of the CLOSs' notes until such time as Trussway could be refinanced or sold.

All of the Highland CLOs lending to Trussway were "pre-crisis" 2009, CLOs. One of the CLOs, Pamco-Cayman, had matured years before and its notes were in technical default. Another, Vahalla was maturing within four months.

Terry was opposed to Dondero's plan and saw a need to vigorously oppose the plan. Terry was the portfolio manager of these Highland CLOs and was convinced it would be a breach of his fiduciary duty to allow the Pamco-Cayman and Vahalla notes to be extended, as they were past or near maturity. Terry's opposition escalated at the May 2016 Conflicts Committee meeting and having been told that outside counsel had approved the transaction, Terry was sure they could not know all of the facts. Terry then informed outside counsel of "the facts" and his opposition to Dondero's plan. Outside counsel was in agreement with Terry and thereafter, on June 9, 2016, the Conflicts Committee approved the Trussway/Targa Transaction, but with the Pamco-Cayman and Vahalla notes being paid off and not extended. Thus, less cash was available to Dondero to fund his plan.

On June 9, 2016, following the Conflicts Committee meeting, Dondero told Terry that "he had lost all trust in him"; that "he could not go through another conflicts process with him"; and "it was best that Terry work with Surgent, Highland's Chief Compliance Officer (CCO), on an exit or transition out of Highland." The next day, Dondero emailed Terry and told him to focus on a "clean break scenario" and not come back to the office. On June 13, 2106, Terry received an email from Highland's Human Resources (H/R) director advising that he had been terminated for cause, but that Highland was "willing to consider the separation package previously offered", presumably referring to CCO Surgent's email of June 10, 2106, wherein he acknowledges that, "We are in agreement that we would like the termination of this relationship to be amicable." On June 13, 2016, Terry communicates with Dondero protesting his termination and demanding he be paid by Highland and ACIS. Thereafter, Highland's outside counsel sent a letter to Terry's counsel, demanding the return of all Highland related documents in the possession of Terry. Terry's counsel responds and reminds Highland's counsel of Terry's prior offer to return appropriate documents to Highland, and suggests a protocol for managing the electronically stored documents and electronic devices in possession of ESI, a third party forensics vendor, and demands redemption of Terry's and his wife's retirement account investments in ACIS CLO Value Fund II (CLOVF). Terry first requested redemption of these retirement account investments on June 20, 2016.

Thereafter, on June 27, 2016, Terry returns documents to Highland and continues to await an agreement on ESI return protocols. However, on July 27, 2016, Highland's counsel rejects the proposed ESI return protocols and does not suggest alternate protocols. In the same e-mail string, Highland's counsel responds to Terry's request for redemption of the retirement investments in CLOVF, advising that; "we do not contest that Mr. Terry has submitted a request for redemption in full of all of his accounts. However, please note that those accounts do not have any value." On September 1, 2016, the CCO, for the first time, memos Terry's "compliance file" with allegations of Terry's breach of fiduciary duty, self-dealing and material compliance violations regarding the CLOVF. This memo alleges an investor loss in the CLOVF attributed solely to Terry's actions and that Highland in part offset such loss against "Mr. Terry's" remaining interest in the CLOVF, "in accordance with Section 3.5(c) of the Agreement of Limited Partnership." Thus, Terry's and his wife's retirement investment in the CLOVF was swept by Highland or others and "those accounts have no value," as stated in Highland's counsel's email of July 27, 2016.

On September 7, 2016, the Parties mediated their dispute, but did not settle. The next day Highland filed suit against Terry alleging the same facts which the CCO alleged in his September 1, 2016 memo, and alleging Terry had a sexual relationship with a number of his subordinates, and alleging that Terry made disparaging/disrespectful remarks about Dondero. Highland's suit stated claims for breach of employment agreement, breach of fiduciary duty/self-dealing, violation of the Texas Uniform Trade Secrets Act and sought declaratory relief that Terry was terminated for cause.

On September 12, 2106, Highland files its Application for Temporary Restraining Order and Motion to Disqualify Terry's attorneys, and Terry files his Motion to Compel Arbitration. On September 28, 2106, the Court issued its Order compelling the Parties to arbitration and Ordered the litigation (Cause No. DC-16-11396, 162nd Judicial District Court) stayed pending a Final Award in Arbitration.

ANALYSIS OF FACTS AND CLAIMS

The Panel first addresses Terry's claims for breach of contract stated against ACIS and ACIS GP and breach of fiduciary duty stated against ACIS GP.

The evidence establishes that Highland terminated Terry's employment on June 9, 2016. The ACIS Limited Partnership Agreement (LPA), Section 4.04 requires that, "upon the resignation, death, disability or termination of employment with the Partnership or any Affiliate Employer (for any reason whatsoever) (as such event, a 'Removal Event') of any Limited Partner, the Partnership Interest of such Limited Partner shall automatically be forfeited to the Partnership and such Limited Partner shall be entitled to receive in consideration of such interest an amount equal to (i) 100% of such Limited Partners Percentage Interest of all Net Available Cash through the first year end following the Removal Event, (ii) 66 2/3% of such Limited Partner's Percentage Interest of all Net Available Cash through the second year end following such Removal Event, (iii) 33 1/3% of such limited Partner's Percentage Interest of Net Available Cash through the third year end following such Removal Event…; provided, that if the basis of such Removal Event was termination of employment with the Partnership or any Affiliate Employer for cause…such partner shall automatically forfeit its right to any further compensation or consideration for its Partnership Interest."

Because Highland stated that Terry was terminated for cause, ACIS and ACIS GP invoked the provided clause and deemed all of Terry's limited partnership interest and entitlement to payout as forfeit. Thus, ACIS and ACIS GP claim to owe Terry nothing for his 25% limited partnership interest in ACIS, as Terry claims he is contractually owed twelve million nine hundred and eight two thousand dollars for his 25% limited partnership interest in ACIS.

The evidence establishes that ACIS and ACIS GP did not just simply rely on Highland's statement of terminating Terry for cause. ACIS and ACIS GP became part of Highland's and Dondero's efforts to construct a pretext of "for cause" termination so Terry could be denied the value of his limited partnership interest in ACIS. ACIS and ACIS GP knowingly and willingly pretextually characterized Terry's termination from Highland as a "for cause" termination to deny Terry the value of his limited partnership interest, all in contractual breach of the ACIS LPA and in breach of fiduciary duty to Terry as its limited partner. ACIS and ACIS GP have no employees. All who act for ACIS and ACIS GP are officers or employees of Highland and perform multiple roles.

The evidence establishes that Highland's termination of Terry was, in fact, pre-textual, without basis of cause and only because Dondero wanted him gone. Terry's opposition to Dondero's Trussway/Targa plan was not self-dealing and not a breach of fiduciary duty. Terry's opposition to Dondero's plan to not pay investors and extend past due and near due notes was appropriate and was ultimately accepted by all to be the correct approach to complete the Trussway/Targa acquisition. Dondero was simply angry and realized Terry was not a "yes man" willing to let Dondero have his wrongheaded way, so Dondero fired Terry on the spot and later sought to characterize Terry's termination of employment as "for cause."

Respondents' offer to prove that Terry's termination was "for cause" is not persuasive. The contrasts between the true facts and their temporal relationship to Terry's termination, as those "facts" are characterized by Respondents as a predicate for his "for cause" termination, are not credible. The CCO's memo to Terry's file of September 1, 2016 was the first documentation of his alleged breach of fiduciary duty or self-dealing as a justification for his "for cause" termination.

There is no credible evidence that anyone ever discussed any prior sexual relationship between Terry and a co-worker, other than Terry in a "father/son" talk with Dondero in January 2015. That admitted relationship had ended months earlier, was not significant to Dondero and he told Terry there was no need to report the relationship to Human Resources. Respondents alleged other sexual relationships between Terry and co-workers which are denied by Terry. One is alleged to have occurred in 2011, but there is no credible evidence that it even occurred. It is simply not credible that a rumored relationship four years prior was any motivation for or could be any justification for Terry's "for cause" termination. Respondents' allegation that Terry had a sexual relationship with a Highland junior attorney is most offensive, as the relationship did not occur and was denied by both Terry and the junior attorney. This allegation was based solely on someone's fantasy related to costumes they wore at an office Halloween party and their common attendance at a business conference. It is not credible that a sophisticated CCO and H/R director would reasonably rely on such as a basis for Terry's "for cause" termination and resulting forfeiture of the value of his limited partnership interest in ACIS. The evidence establishes that Terry did not have a sexual relationship with the junior attorney, and the Respondents or others, in good faith, could not have reasonably believed he did.

The Panel is persuaded that the Respondents, feeling need to find motive for the junior attorney's assistance of Terry and her involvement in the CLOVF restructure, sponsored these allegations to support their claims that Terry was seeking the restructure of the CLOVF out of self-interest and in breach of his fiduciary duties, and establish the motives of the junior attorney in "knowingly" facilitating Terry's alleged breach of duty. This is a pretextual construct of the CCO and is simply not credible.

The proposed restructure of the CLOVF began in early 2015 and was always known by Dondero, Highland's legal department and CCO. The CLOVF was small, only had a few investors, was subject to investor redemption requests, had been co-opted to be supported by Highland employee's investment of their retirement accounts and not structured in a way to attract a target group of investors. The proposal was to restructure the CLOVF to make it more "hedge fund like", and grow the CLOVF with new investors.

The CLOVF routinely paid profit distributions to its investors. This is not "hedge fund like" because profits were distributed rather than retained to be reinvested for growth. The two primary investors, referred to as Rampart and Kyser did not require routine distributions and sought growth. Highland employees had access to investing in the CLOVF by investing in its ITA retirement accounts, which were basically IRAs. Employee investors who wished to invest more in their ITA retirement accounts were required to invest in the CLOVF's interest bearing notes at a ratio of 80% notes to support 20% investment in their ITA retirement accounts. If the CLOVF was to no longer distribute profits to accomplish "hedge fund like" reinvestment for growth, no distributions would be available to pay interest on the employee investment notes and the notes would need to be paid off. If there was no longer a vehicle to support aggressive employee investment in the CLOVF (the four to one ratio), the ITA did not need to continue to exist. The employee's retirement accounts could simply be redeemed or transferred to other IRAs.

Terry was the portfolio manager of the CLOVF and its third largest investor. Like other investors, Terry had rights to redeem his investment, but he did not seek to redeem and continued to invest in CLOVF notes and he and his wife continued to invest their retirement funds in the ITA. Nonetheless, Respondents allege that a dichotomy of interest led Terry to lie and scheme to have his investment in the CLOVF paid while others were encouraged to invest. This is the substance of Respondents' allegations of Terry's self-dealing and breach of fiduciary duty, supporting both their allegations of "for cause" termination and Highland's claims for damages and offset in the District Court suit. As noted, these claims were never documented or disclosed to Terry prior to the CCO's memo of September 1, 2016, and Highland's District Court suit.

As noted, the proposed restructure of CLOVF began in early 2015 and continued for a year thereafter. The business purpose of the restructure was well known to Dondero and the CCO. As early as the fall of 2015, Dondero and Terry were discussing the appropriateness of continuing the CLOVF without new investors. Dondero did not want to close the CLOVF and suggested that the DAF would become a major investor. The DAF (Donor Advised Fund), CLO Hold Co is the Parties' reference to a group of charitable foundations which were invested in Highland managed CLOs. The DAF's trustee is a Highland employee and Dondero's former college roommate. Apparently, Dondero knew he could direct the DAF's investment in the CLOVF and support its continuation. Dondero and the Highland CCO were aware of the planned restructure and its consequential effect on the ITA and the employee investor notes supporting the employee's retirement investments in the ITA. By December 2015, Dondero approves the restructure plan, payment of employee investor notes and the windup of the ITA. The Highland CCO expresses concern that Rampart's and Kyser's written approval is necessary for the CLOVF to stop paying profit distributions. Later the necessary approval is documented, apparently to the CCO's satisfaction, and the restructure plan proceeds. The DAF contributes sixteen million six hundred thousand dollars of Highland managed assets to the CLOVF, employee investor notes are paid and the ITA is wound up by the end of April 2016.

Following Terry's termination and later notice of "for cause" termination, Terry requested redemption of his and his wife's remaining investments in the CLOVF. Five weeks later, on July 27, 2016, he is advised that his investment has no value. Apparently, when the ITA was wound up in late April, Terry's and his wife's retirement investments were somehow re-characterized as Terry's capital account in the ACIS CLO Value Master Fund II, L.P. or his capital account in the CLOVF.

On or about July 19, 2106, Highland rescinded the DAF contributions to the CLOVF and returned the contributed assets to the DAF. Respondents state this rescission was necessary because they had "recently discovered (a) conflict of interest regarding an ex-employee." However, the Rescission Agreement itself recites that, "the Parties have each determined that it is in their respective best interests of each of the Parties to rescind and cancel the Contribution."

Incident to the rescission, the CLOVF returned all of the contributed assets to the DAF and paid in cash or transfer of additional assets the total value of seven hundred and eight thousand dollars, "to make the DAF whole", and economically in the same position as before its contribution to the CLOVF.

The "recently discovered conflict of interest" is the CCO's recent epiphany that Terry must have lied when he advised that the CLOVF investors Rampart and Kyser "requested" that distributions be terminated to accommodate reinvestment growth. The CCO's testimony that he called these investors and confirmed this lie is not persuasive and begs credibility. The only documented evidence are the investors written approvals which the CCO required.

The July 27, 2016 advice that Terry's and his wife's retirement accounts had no value is only accurate because the value was taken and used to pay the DAF following the rescission. In the District Court suit, Highland states a claim for damages and offset for the additional value paid to the DAF. Respondents' witness testified that the retirement fund's value was in Terry's capital account and it was swept pursuant to Section 3.5(c) of the ACIS CLO Value Master Fund II, L.P.'s limited partnership agreement.

Terry is a limited partner in the CLOVF and the CLOVF is a limited partner in the ACIS CLO Value Master Fund II (CLOVMF) but the evidence does not show Terry to be a partner in the CLOVMF. Assuming that Terry is a partner, as referenced in Section 3.5(c), Respondents' claimed authority to sweep the accounts in satisfaction of or offset of damage or loss is directly dependent upon a nexus in causation between the alleged damage or loss and the conduct of Terry.

The evidence establishes that the CCO's claims of "recently discovered conflict of interest" is yet another construct and pretext to support Respondents' denial of limited partnership value based on a "for cause" termination and was not in fact the reason for the DAF rescission. It would make little difference to Highland which of its CLOs managed the DAF investments. Dondero simply reconsidered his decision to support the continuation of the CLOVF with Highland managed funds and realized, that in fact, as Terry had advised, the fund would be too small to manage without significant investors. The CLOVF was ultimately closed out because Dondero did not see benefit to its continuation. The evidence establishes that no conduct of Terry was a cause of damage or loss to the CLOVMF or the CLOVF.

Section 3.10(a) of the ACIS LPA limits compensation and reimbursement of expenses payable to the General Partner and any Affiliate of the General Partner to an amount not to exceed 20% of Revenues without the consent of all members of the Founding Partner Group. There is no dispute that Terry is a member of the Founding Partner Group. There is no evidence that Terry offered written consent to any expenses paid by ACIS in excess of 20% of Revenues. It is undisputed that ACIS habitually paid more than 20% of Revenues to Highland for providing ACIS with overhead and administration. Respondents' evidence and arguments that Terry waived or consented to ACIS's payment of excess expenses is not persuasive. At most, Terry accepted his ACIS distributions without regard to the expenses paid to Highland. This is not consent contemplated by the ACIS LPA. Highland is owned 75% by Dondero and 25% by Okada and Terry is not a partner in Highland. Terry had no reason to consent to excess expenses being paid to Highland. Additionally, the ACIS LPA has an express waiver clause at Section 6.09 which states,

"Waiver. No failure by any party to insist upon strict performance of any covenant, duty, agreement, or condition of this Agreement or exercise of any right or remedy consequent upon breach thereof shall constitute waiver of any such breach or any other covenant, duty, agreement, or condition."

The evidence establishes that Terry did not consent to ACIS payments of expenses in excess of 20% of Revenue and Terry has not waived his right to claim damages directly resulting from ACIS' and ACIS GP's breach of contract and breach of fiduciary duty. Clearly ACIS and ACIS GP ignored Terry's contractual rights and ACIS GP as a general partner has a fiduciary duty not to benefit itself or another at the expense of its limited partner, as they ignore and breach the terms of the partnership agreement and diminish Terry's distributions.

The Panel next addresses Terry's claim for conversion of the ITA retirement accounts stated against Highland, ACIS and ACIS GP.

Without again reciting the convoluted structure and history of the ITA retirement accounts in issue, it is established that there is no remaining value to the accounts because its value was swept and used by Highland or CLOVF to pay the DAF incident to the DAF rescission. It is noted that Respondents argue and offer to prove that Terry has no standing to state a claim for conversion of three of the five accounts because his wife is the trustee and owner of those three accounts. She is the trustee and owner of those accounts. Yet those accounts too were swept to pay the DAF and construct a pretextual damage and offset claim for having paid the DAF. While this establishes conversion of the accounts to the damage of Terry and his wife, the converters (CLOVF, CLOVMF, ACIS CLO VF GP), are not parties to this arbitration. The claims for breach of contract and conversion and damages should be stated against those parties or others, elsewhere.

The Panel next addresses Terry's claims for reputational damages and fraudulent transfer stated against Highland, ACIS and ACIS GP.

The evidence establishes that Highland and not ACIS or ACIS GP was the publisher of any false or defamatory statements. Whether those statements in pleadings or press release to Law360 are actionable against Highland is a matter deferred for the District Court suit. Terry's claims for reputational damages stated against ACIS or ACIS GP are not proved.

Terry states a claim against Highland, ACIS and ACIS GP for the fraudulent transfer or conveyance of assets under the Texas Fraudulent Transfer Act. In October 2016, ACIS sold to Highland a participation interest in ACIS's Service Fees (management fees) which ACIS would receive between November 2016 and through August 2019. This sale of a participation interest represents near one-half of ACIS revenues during the covered period. Highland is to pay, in cash and promissory note with interest at 3%, ACIS a total of thirteen million three hundred and thirty three thousand dollars, plus interest for the participation interest. Highland's payment is scheduled as follows:

- October 7, 2016 - $666,655.00 – cash at closing
- May 31, 2017 - $3,370,694.00 – principal and interest
- May 31, 2018 - $5,286,243.00 – principal and interest
- May 31, 2019 - $4,677,690.00 – principal and interest

The transactional documents recite business purpose and reasonable consideration for the sale. Terry offers no evidence that ACIS did not receive reasonable equivalent value in the transaction or that ACIS made the transfer with "actual intent to hinder, delay or defraud." Terry has not proved a claim for fraudulent transfer or conveyance.

The Panel next addresses Terry's claims for wrongful termination and resulting damages stated against Highland.

Terry's employment with Highland was "At Will" and he could have been terminated for any reason other than an unlawful reason. Terry did not prove that the sole reason for his termination was his refusal to commit an illegal act, as is required under Sabine Pilot. The evidence establishes that Dondero terminated Terry because he was angry with Terry's opposition to his Trussway/Targa acquisition plan and he wanted Terry gone. "At Will" employment contemplates that if the boss wishes, one's employment is terminated and the termination is not actionably wrongful. Even as an "At Will" employee, Terry may have claims for damages against Highland for his unpaid severance, unused vacation, deferred compensation and unreimbursed expenses, but these claims are a matter deferred for the District Court suit. Terry's claims stated against Highland for Sabine Pilot wrongful termination are not proved.

Although Trust and Okada are limited partners in ACIS and are named as Respondents in this arbitration, Terry has failed to offer any evidence of actionable claims against Trust or Okada. All claims stated by Terry in this arbitration against Trust or Okada are not proved.

The Panel next addresses Highland's claims for breach of employment agreement, theft/theft of trade secrets and breach of fiduciary duty stated against Terry.

Although Highland is a party to the District Court suit Ordered to arbitration, Highland is not a party to an arbitration agreement and has stated claims against Terry with the above noted reservation, "subject to and without waiver." To the extent these claims are stated in this Arbitration in affirmative avoidance of Terry's claims stated against ACIS and ACIS GP they are addressed in this Award.

The evidence does not establish that Terry breached his employment agreement or any fiduciary duty to Highland, ACIS or ACIS GP or that Terry self-dealt in anyway. On the contrary, Terry's actions in opposing Dondero's Trussway/Targa acquisition plan and his efforts to restructure the CLOVF were reasonable and appropriate and as his portfolio manager duties required. These claims are not proved and are not an affirmative defense or avoidance available to ACIS or ACIS GP.

The evidence does not establish that Terry is guilty of theft or theft of trade secrets. Respondents offered no evidence of a trade secret or a protectable trade secret interest in the documents in issue. Although Highland's claim for turnover is overreaching, it was heard in this Arbitration at Respondents' insistence and the record and all evidence admitted in that preliminary hearing was offered and admitted in the final hearing. This claim is not proved and is not an affirmative defense or avoidance available to ACIS or ACIS GP. Otherwise, the Panel issues its turnover decision in this Award.

The evidence does not establish that any disparaging remarks of Terry were ever communicated to Dondero prior to Terry's termination or that the alleged remarks could have been a reason for Terry's "for cause" termination. All of Respondents' alleged bases of "for cause" termination of Terry's employment are not proved and none are an affirmative defense or avoidance available to ACIS or ACIS GP.

ANALYSIS OF TERRY'S DAMAGES

The Panel only addresses proved claims stated against appropriate Parties to this Arbitration.

Terry has proved his claims stated against ACIS and ACIS GP for breach of contract and claims stated against ACIS GP for breach of fiduciary duty incident to their payment of excess expenses to Highland and their wrongful forfeiture of Terry's contractual right to be paid for his ACIS limited partnership interest.

The evidence establishes that ACIS and ACIS GP paid excess expenses to Highland during the years of 2013, 2014, 2015 and January through May 2016. These expenses paid exceeded the 20% of Revenues cap stated in Section 3.10(a) of the ACIS LPA. The payment of these excess expenses reduced Terry's ACIS partnership distributions during this period. Had excess expenses not been paid and only the contractually capped expenses had been paid, Terry would have received additional ACIS profits distributions of $1,755,481.00 for his 25% partnership interest in ACIS.

The best evidence of the value of the Section 4.04 limited partnership payout is Terry's June 13, 2016 calculations, which he communicated to Dondero within days of his termination. Terry was the portfolio manager of ACIS and as such was most aware of ACIS's financial performance and expected performance within the payout period. The calculations do not include an assumed growth rate of ACIS revenues and are not burdened by Highland's after termination manipulations of ACIS managed assets or ACIS revenues.

The evidence establishes that Terry's ACIS limited partnership payout upon termination had a total value of $5,688,351.00.

Because ACIS and ACIS GP breached the ACIS LPA and ACIS GP breached its fiduciary duty in June 2016 when they repudiated their obligations to their limited partner, Terry's contractual entitlement to payout under the ACIS LPA is liquidated, accelerated and is now fully due.

Additionally, Terry is entitled to pre-award interest at the rate of five percent (5%) per annum from the date of commencement of this Arbitration, September 20, 2016, until entry of Final Award in the amount of $372,192.00.00.

FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS

Based upon the Parties' offers of proof, evidence submitted and argument of counsel, the following facts and conclusions are found by these Arbitrators to be established by the evidence to be true and necessary to this Award. To the extent these findings and conclusions differ from any Parties' position that is the result of these Arbitrators determinations as to credibility, relevance, burden of proof considerations, and the weighing of the evidence, both oral and written.

The Arbitration Panel finds and concludes as follows:

1. This dispute is arbitrable pursuant to the Parties' agreement to arbitrate and prior Court Order in Cause No. DC-16-11396, 162nd Judicial District Court, Dallas County, Texas.
2. The Arbitration panel has jurisdiction to resolve all disputes presented and not deferred to the 162nd District Court.
3. JAMS Comprehensive Arbitration Rules and Procedures govern the resolution of this dispute with the law of the States of Texas and Delaware.
4. Prior to his termination on June 9, 2016, Terry was an at will employee of Highland and a 25% limited partner in ACIS.
5. Highland's termination of Terry's employment was not, in fact, "for cause." Highland's stated "for cause" termination of Terry's employment was, in fact, pretextual and for purpose of denying Terry benefits of employment payable at his termination and as a basis for the forfeiture of the value of Terry's limited partnership interest in ACIS.

6. ACIS and ACIS GP knowingly and willingly invoked Highland's false pretext of "for cause" termination to deny Terry the value of his 25% limited partnership in ACIS.
7. ACIS and ACIS GP paid Highland expenses in excess of the contractual limit imposed by Section 3.10(a) of the ACIS LPA.
8. ACIS and ACIS GP wrongfully denied Terry his contractual rights to payment for his limited partnership interest in ACIS and are liable for and owe Terry for same.
9. In breach of contract and fiduciary duties, ACIS and ACIS GP are liable to and owe Terry his ACIS profits distributions which were payable but for the wrongful payment of excess expenses to Highland.
10. ACIS GP's actions were willful and wanton breaches of their fiduciary duties to Terry as their limited partner.
11. All claims stated by Highland, "subject to and without waiver" against Terry are not proved and as such none are an affirmative defense or avoidance of Terry's claims stated against ACIS and ACIS GP.
12. All claims stated by Terry against Trust and Okada are not proved and are denied.
13. All claims stated by Terry against ACIS and ACIS GP for fraudulent transfer or conveyance are not proved and are denied.
14. Terry's fraud claims stated against ACIS and ACIS GP are not proved and are denied.
15. All claims, not denied or awarded, are deferred to the 162nd District Court, Dallas County, Texas or other appropriate venue.

16. ACIS's and ACIS GP's breaches of contract and ACIS GP's breach of fiduciary duties have injured Terry and resulted in damages, together with pre-award interest in the total amount of Seven Million Eight Hundred Sixteen Thousand Twenty-Four Dollars and No/100 ($7,816,024.00).
17. The Parties' agreement to arbitrate does not allow the award of prevailing party attorneys' fees. All claims for attorneys' fees are denied.
18. The Parties' agreement to arbitrate allows the Panel discretion to award the prevailing party costs of arbitration. Terry is entitled to recover his JAMS arbitration cots.
19. Terry is awarded One Hundred Thirty Three Thousand, Seven Hundred Twenty Five and 15/100 Dollars ($133,725.15) for his JAMS arbitration costs.
20. Terry is entitled to recover post-award interest on all amounts awarded herein.

At the time of each delivery of Custodial Assets to the Custodian by or on behalf of a Series, the Company agrees that it shall expressly identify the same to the Custodian as Custodial Assets being delivered under these Standard Terms and identify the Series to which such Custodial Assets relate.

(b) The Custodian accepts its appointment as custodian for each Series hereunder, and agrees to receive and hold, as custodian for each Series pursuant to the terms of these Standard Terms, the Custodial Assets delivered and identified to it by each Series (or the Company on its behalf) on each Delivery Date and any Proceeds received from time to time therefrom.

(c) Subject to the terms of these Standard Terms, the Accounts shall be established for each Series and under the complete control and dominion of such Series, and such Series shall be entitled to make deposits, withdrawals, transfers and payments to and from the Accounts from time to time as it may determine. Custodial Assets held in the Custodial Account may be withdrawn by the related Series from time to time pursuant to Section 3.2 below. Amounts held in the Cash Account from time to time may be withdrawn by the related Series upon receipt of Proper Instructions therefor, and may be invested upon and pursuant to specific direction of the related Series in the form of Proper Instructions, pursuant to Section 3.4 below. Any Account may include for administrative or ministerial purposes subaccounts thereof.

SECTION 3. CUSTODIAL DUTIES.

Section 3.1. Holding Custodial Assets. (a) For each Series, the Custodian shall hold and segregate for the account of such Series, all Custodial Assets received by it pursuant to these Standard Terms other than Custodial Assets which are held in a Securities System and shall properly account for all Custodial Assets held in a Securities System and identify the same on its books and records as held for the account of the related Series.

(b) It is hereby expressly acknowledged that (a)(i) certain Loans may be acquired by a Series from time to time which are evidenced by, or accompanied by delivery of, an instrument (an "Instrument"), as that term is defined in Section 9-102(a)(4a) of the UCC (any such Loan, a "Certificated Loan"), (ii) certain Loans may be acquired by a Series from time to time which are not evidenced by, or accompanied by delivery of, an Instrument (any such Loan, an "Uncertificated Loan"), and such Loans may instead be evidenced solely by delivery to the Custodian of a facsimile or electronic copy of an assignment agreement ("Loan Assignment Agreement") in favor of the related Series as assignee or, in respect of any Loan acquired as a participation interest, a participation agreement ("Participation Agreement") in favor of the related Series as the participant, (iii) for Uncertificated Loans (A) any such Loan Assignment Agreement (and the registration of the related Uncertificated Loans on the books and records of the applicable obligor or bank agent) shall be registered in the name of the related Series (or its nominee) or (B) any such Participation Agreement (and the registration of the related Uncertificated Loan on the books and records of the participating lender (or, if applicable, other party responsible for maintaining a participant register)) shall be registered in the name of the related Series (or its nominee) and (iv) any duty on the part of the Custodian with respect to any Loan shall be limited to the exercise of reasonable care by the Custodian in the physical custody of any such Instrument, in the case of a Certificated Loan, or any such Loan Assignment Agreement or Participation Agreement, in the case of an Uncertificated Loan, which has been delivered to it in accordance with the terms herein, and (b) nothing herein shall require the Custodian to treat as a financial asset (within the meaning of Section 8-102(a)(9) of the UCC) any such Uncertificated Loan or other asset in the nature of a general intangible (as defined in Section 9-102(a)(42) of the UCC) or to "maintain" a sufficient quantity thereof. The Custodian has no obligation to examine or determine the validity, sufficiency, marketability or enforceability of any Instrument, Loan Assignment Agreement, Participation Agreement or other Financing Document (and shall have no responsibility for the genuineness or completeness thereof), or for a Series' title to any related Loan. The Custodian may assume the genuineness of each such Instrument, Loan Assignment Agreement or Participation Agreement it may receive and the genuineness and due authority of any signatures appearing thereon, and shall be entitled to assume that each such Instrument, Loan Assignment Agreement or Participation Agreement, as the case may be, it may receive is what it purports to be. If an original Instrument is or shall be or becomes available with respect to any Uncertificated Loan, it shall be the sole responsibility of the related Series to make or cause delivery thereof to the Custodian, and the Custodian shall not be under any obligation at any time to determine whether any such original Instrument has been or is required to be issued or made available in respect of any Uncertificated Loan or to compel or cause delivery thereof to the Custodian. Except as expressly provided above, the Custodian is not under any duty to hold custody of any Financing Document.

Section 3.2. Release of Custodial Assets. The Custodian shall release and deliver Custodial Assets of a Series held by the Custodian from time to time upon receipt of Proper Instructions (which shall, among other things, specify the Custodial Assets to be released, with such delivery and other information as may be necessary to enable the Custodian to perform and which may, in the case of Custodial Assets which are Loans, consist of a trade ticket provided by an Authorized Person); provided, that, except to the extent a Series provides instructions to the contrary, Proper Instructions shall be deemed to have been provided in the following cases:

(i) upon a sale of such Custodial Assets by or on behalf of the Company as directed by Proper Instructions:

(A) delivery in accordance with the customary or established practices and procedures in the jurisdiction or market where the transactions occur, including, without limitation, delivery to the purchaser thereof or to a dealer therefor (or an agent of such purchaser or dealer) against expectation of receiving same day payment; or

(B) in the case of a sale effected through a Securities System, in accordance with the rules governing the operations of the Securities System;

(ii) delivery of Custodial Assets that are the subject of a repurchase agreement upon the receipt of payment under such repurchase agreement;

(iii) delivery of Custodial Assets to the depositary agent in connection with tender or other similar offers for such Custodial Assets;

(iv) delivery of Custodial Assets to the issuer thereof or its agent when such Custodial Assets are called, redeemed, retired or otherwise become payable and, unless otherwise directed by Proper Instructions, the cash or other consideration is to be delivered to the Custodian;

(v) delivery of Custodial Assets to an issuer thereof, or its agent, for transfer into the name of the Custodian or for exchange for a different number of bonds, certificates or other evidence representing the same aggregate face amount or number of units;

(vi) delivery of Custodial Assets to brokers, clearing banks or other clearing agents for examination in accordance with "street delivery" custom;

(vii) delivery of Custodial Assets for exchange or conversion pursuant to any plan of merger, consolidation, recapitalization, reorganization or readjustment of the securities of the issuer of such securities, or pursuant to any deposit agreement and, unless otherwise directed by Proper Instructions, the new securities and cash, if any, are to be delivered to the Custodian; and

(viii) in the case of warrants, rights or similar securities, the surrender thereof in the exercise of such warrants, rights or similar securities or the surrender of interim receipts or temporary securities for definitive securities and, unless otherwise directed by Proper Instructions, the new securities and/or cash, if any, are to be delivered to the Custodian.

Section 3.3. Registration of Custodial Assets. Custodial Assets held by the Custodian (other than bearer securities or securities held in a Securities System) shall be registered in the name of the applicable Series or its nominee; provided, however, that Bonds or Securities held in definitive form may be held in Street Name with the consent of the Custodian. Securities held in a Securities System shall be maintained in Street Name or other good deliverable form. Each Series, or the Company on its behalf, shall instruct each issuer or obligor (or related paying agent, administrative agent or other agent of such issuer or obligor) of a Custodial Asset to (i) except with respect to bearer securities or securities held in a Securities System, register the Company on its books and records as the legal owner of such Custodial Asset, (ii) deliver any certificated security or instrument evidencing such Custodial Asset to the Custodian, appropriately completed and reflecting such ownership, for safekeeping by the Custodian on behalf of the related Series, (iii) make all payments in respect of such Custodial Asset to the Cash Account and (iv) deliver all notices and other communications in respect of such Custodial Asset to the Custodian at its address for notices pursuant to these Standard Terms.

Section 3.4. Bank Accounts, and Management of Cash. (a) Cash Proceeds from the Custodial Assets of a Series received by the Custodian from time to time in respect of amounts which constitute interest payments or other payments in respect of income on the Custodial Assets shall be credited to the Interest Cash Account for such Series. Cash Proceeds from the Custodial Assets of a Series received by the Custodian from time to time in respect of amounts which constitute principal payments on the Custodial Assets shall be credited to the Principal Cash Account for such Series. The Custodian shall be entitled to request and receive Proper Instructions in respect of any determination regarding whether any Proceeds received by the Custodian should be deposited into the Interest Cash Account or Principal Cash Account.

(b) Amounts held in the Cash Accounts shall remain uninvested, except to the extent that the related Series provides a Proper Instruction to invest the amounts in the Cash Account for such Series in Eligible Investments. Any such investments shall be subject to availability and the Custodian's then applicable transaction charges (which shall be at the Company's expense). Funds may be commingled for purpose of investment, provided however that the Custodian shall properly account for the allocation of such investments to the related Account. The Custodian shall have no liability for any loss incurred on any such investment. In no instance will the Custodian have any obligation to provide investment advice to the Company or any Series. Any earnings from such investment of amounts held in the Cash Account from time to time (collectively, "Reinvestment Earnings") shall be redeposited in the Interest Cash Account (and may be reinvested at the written direction of an Authorized Person on behalf of the Company or the related Series). Eligible Investments may include, without limitation, those investments issued by or made with the Custodian or for which the Custodian or affiliate of the Custodian provides services and receives compensation. The Custodian shall have no liability for any losses on any investments made as described herein.

(c) In the event that a Series shall at any time request a withdrawal of amounts from the Cash Account, the Custodian shall be entitled to liquidate, and shall have no liability for any loss incurred as a result of the liquidation of, any investment of the funds credited to such account as needed to provide necessary liquidity.

(d) Each Series is solely responsible for directing the Custodian with respect to deposits to, withdrawals from and transfers to or from the Accounts of such Series. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Custodian has no responsibility for compliance with any restrictions, covenants, limitations or obligations to which the Company or a Series may be subject or for which it may have obligations to third-parties in respect of the Accounts, and the Custodian shall have no liability for the acts or omissions of any other Person or for the application or misapplication of any funds by another Person or by the Custodian at the direction of the related Series. Each Series (or the Company on its behalf) shall be solely responsible for properly instructing all applicable payors to make all appropriate payments to the Custodian for deposit to the Accounts of each Series, and for properly instructing the Custodian with respect to the allocation or application of all such deposits.

(e) Subject to the terms of these Standard Terms, which shall control in the event of any inconsistency, each Account shall otherwise be subject to the Custodian's standard terms and conditions applicable to such Account, as amended from time to time, and the Custodian is authorized to follow its usual operating procedures in connection with such Account; and the terms of these Standard Terms and operation of the Accounts shall be subject to the requirements and provisions of applicable law and regulation governing such Account, including without limitation with respect to any account adjustments, returned deposit items, chargebacks and overdrafts associated with the Account. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, and notwithstanding any term of these Standard Terms to the contrary, the Custodian shall be responsible only for funds actually received, and it shall not be obligated to credit or remit payment on any payment item received for deposit to an Account (and any credit given in such respect shall be deemed to be provisional), unless and until settlement of the item is or becomes final.

Section 3.5. No Foreign Exchange. Except as otherwise agreed in writing by the Company and the Custodian, the Company shall not engage in any foreign exchange transactions or otherwise trade in non-U.S. Custodial Assets or Custodial Assets not denominated in U.S. Dollars.

Section 3.6. Payment of Moneys. Upon receipt of Proper Instructions, which may be standing instructions, the Custodian shall pay out from the Cash Account of a Series moneys on deposit therein in the following cases:

(i) upon the purchase of Custodial Assets for such Series pursuant to such Proper Instruction; and such purchase may, unless and except to the extent otherwise directed by Proper Instructions, be carried out by the Custodian;

(A) in accordance with the customary or established practices and procedures in the jurisdiction or market where the transactions occur, including, without limitation, delivering money to the seller thereof or to a dealer therefor (or any agent for such seller or dealer) against expectation of same day delivery of such securities; or

(B) in the case of a purchase effected through a Securities System, in accordance with the rules governing the operation of such Securities System; and

(ii) for any other purpose directed by such Series upon receipt of Proper Instructions specifying the amount of such payment, and naming the Person or Persons to whom such payment is to be made.

Section 3.7. Proxies. The related Series may respond to such proxies, or may provide Proper Instructions to the Custodian to respond to such Proxies on its behalf. In order for the Custodian to act, it must receive Proper Instructions no later than the deadline applicable to responses for corporate actions for the bank serving as Custodian. In the absence of such Proper Instructions, or in the event that such Proper Instructions are not received in a timely fashion, the Custodian shall be under no duty to act with regard to such proxies.

Section 3.8. Proper Instructions. (a) The Company shall be entitled to provide Proper Instructions on behalf of each Series for all purposes under these Standard Terms. The Company shall provide an incumbency certificate to the Custodian, in the form acceptable to it, specifying the names, titles, contact information (including email addresses) and specimen signatures of persons authorized to give Proper Instructions (collectively, "Authorized Persons", and each is an "Authorized Person") which certificate shall be signed by an officer or duly authorized agent of the Company or by another Authorized Person previously certified to the Custodian. The Custodian may receive and accept a certificate signed by any Authorized Person as conclusive evidence of:

(a) the authority of any person to act in accordance with such certificate; or

The Company acknowledges that any data and information held by the Custodian from time to time concerning the Custodial Assets and to which the Company may be given access (without herein implying any obligation or agreement by the Custodian to maintain or provide access to any particular information or database) from time to time at the election of the Custodian (the "Custodial Assets Database") is unaudited and the Custodian does not independently verify the accuracy of information it receives from third parties concerning the Custodial Assets (whether from the Company, from others at the Company's behest or on its behalf, or from issuers or obligors of the Custodial Assets or their agents) prior to its inclusion in the Custodial Assets Database. The Custodian will not be liable to the Company or any other Person for any loss or damage arising out of or in connection with the relationship established by these Standard Terms as a result of inaccuracies in any such third-party provided information contained in the Custodial Assets Database.

SECTION 7. DEPOSIT IN SECURITIES SYSTEMS.

The Custodian may deposit and/or maintain Custodial Assets in a Securities System in accordance with applicable Federal Reserve Board and Securities and Exchange Commission rules and regulations, if any, and subject to the following provisions:

The Custodian shall have no liability for any action (or forbearance from action) taken in good faith in accordance with a Proper Instruction of a Series (or the Company on its behalf). Except as provided in the immediately preceding sentence, the Custodian shall not be liable for any action taken by it in good faith and believed by it to be within powers conferred upon it, or taken by it pursuant to any direction or instruction by which it is governed hereunder, or omitted to be taken by it by reason of the lack of direction or instruction required hereby for such action.

(d) In no event shall the Custodian be liable for any punitive, indirect, special or consequential damages (including, without limitation, lost profits) whether or not it has been advised of the likelihood of such damages.

(e) The Custodian may consult with, and obtain advice from, nationally recognized legal counsel selected in good faith with respect to any question as to any of the provisions hereof or its duties hereunder, or any matter relating hereto, and the opinion or advice of such counsel shall be full and complete authorization and protection in respect of any action taken, suffered or omitted by the Custodian in good faith in reliance upon the opinion or advice of such counsel, and the reasonable cost of such services shall be reimbursed pursuant to Section 6(b) above.

(g) No provision of these Standard Terms shall require the Custodian to expend or risk its own funds, or to take any action (or forbearance from action) hereunder which might in its judgment involve any expense or any financial or other liability unless it shall be furnished with acceptable indemnification. Nothing herein shall be construed to obligate the Custodian to (i) undertake any collection actions on behalf of a Series against any issuer or obligor (or agents thereof) of a Custodial Asset or (ii) commence, prosecute or defend legal proceedings in any instance, whether on behalf of a Series on its own behalf or otherwise, with respect to any matter arising hereunder or relating to these Standard Terms or the services contemplated hereby.

(h) The permissive right of the Custodian to take any action hereunder shall not be construed as duty.

(l) The Custodian shall have no responsibility for performing or monitoring the performance of any anti-money laundering procedures undertaken by the Company or a Series and shall have no liability for any violation of any anti-money laundering rules or regulations by the Company or a Series.

(m) Nothing herein shall obligate the Custodian to review or examine the terms of any underlying instrument, certificate, credit agreement, indenture, loan agreement, promissory note, or other Financing Document evidencing or governing any Custodial Asset, whether for purposes of performing any of its duties hereunder or otherwise.

(n) Except as otherwise agreed in writing, the Custodian shall have no obligation to take any action to preserve, protect, enforce or exercise any rights in the Custodial Assets, or under or in respect of the related underlying documents, or to perform any obligations of the Company or a Series thereunder.

(o) Notwithstanding any other provision of these Standard Terms, the Custodian shall have no duty or obligation under these Standard Terms to inquire into, and shall not be liable for, the legality of the Custodial Assets, the purchase, transfer or sale of any Custodial Assets, the sufficiency of the amount to be received, or the authority of the Company or a Series to effect any such purchase, transfer or sale.

Section 8.4. Indemnity. The Company agrees to indemnify, defend and hold harmless the Custodian against any and all claims, losses, liabilities, damages or expenses (including, but not limited to, reasonable attorneys' fees, court costs and costs of investigation) of any kind or nature whatsoever arising out of its provision of custody services under these Standard Terms that may be imposed upon, incurred by or asserted against the Custodian; provided, however, that this Section 8.4 shall not relieve the Custodian from liability for the Custodian's fraud, gross negligence, bad faith or willful misconduct in performing its duties hereunder. Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing, the Custodian shall not be liable for any damage or loss resulting from or caused by events or circumstances beyond its reasonable control including nationalization, expropriation, currency restrictions, the interruption, disruption or suspension of the normal procedures and practices of any securities market, power, mechanical, communications or other technological failures or interruptions, fires, floods, earthquakes or other natural disasters, civil or military disturbances, acts of war or terrorism, riots, revolution, acts of God, work stoppages, strikes or national disasters of any kind.

Section 8.6. Disputes. If any dispute or conflicting claim is made by any person with respect to securities or other property held for a Series, the Custodian shall be entitled to refuse to act until either (a) such dispute or conflicting claim has been finally determined by a court of competent jurisdiction or settled by agreement between conflicting parties, and the Custodian has received written evidence satisfactory to it of such determination or agreement; or (b) the Custodian has received an indemnity, security or both satisfactory to it and sufficient to hold it harmless from and against any and all loss, liability and expense which the Custodian may incur as a result of its actions. The Custodian shall notify the Company if any such dispute or conflicting claim is made by any person other than the Company.

SECTION 21. REQUEST FOR INSTRUCTIONS.

If, in performing its duties under these Standard Terms, the Custodian is required to decide between alternative courses of action, the Custodian may (but shall not be obliged to) request written instructions from the related Series (or the Company on its behalf) as to the course of action desired by it. If the Custodian does not receive such instructions within two (2) days after it has requested them, the Custodian may, but shall be under no duty to, take or refrain from taking any such courses of action. The Custodian shall act in accordance with instructions received from the related Series or the Company in response to such request after such two-day period except to the extent it has already taken, or committed itself to take, action inconsistent with such instructions.

SECTION 22. OTHER BUSINESS.

Nothing herein shall prevent the Custodian or any of its affiliates from engaging in other business, or from entering into any other transaction or financial or other relationship with, or receiving fees from or from rendering services of any kind to the Company or any other Person. Nothing contained in these Standard Terms shall constitute the Company and/or the Custodian

(and/or any other Person) as members of any partnership, joint venture, association, syndicate, unincorporated business or similar assignment as a result of or by virtue of the engagement or relationship established by these Standard Terms.

SECTION 23. REPRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS.

These Standard Terms and all schedules, exhibits, attachments and amendment hereto may be reproduced by any photographic, photostatic, microfilm, micro-card, miniature photographic or other similar process. The parties hereto each agree that any such reproduction shall be admissible in evidence as the original itself in any judicial or administrative proceeding, whether or not the original is in existence and whether or not such reproduction was made by a party in the regular course of business, and that any enlargement, facsimile or further production shall likewise be admissible in evidence.

Re: Sale of Certain CLO Participation Interests

Ladies and Gentlemen:

We are acting as special U.S. federal income tax counsel to Acis Capital Management L.P., a Delaware limited partnership ("ACIS"), in connection with ACIS's sale of certain participation interests in senior and subordinated management fees attributable to certain collateralized loan obligations to Highland Capital Management, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership ("Buyer"). The above-referenced sale will be referred to herein as the "Transaction." Capitalized terms used but not defined herein shall have the meanings ascribed to them in the Transaction Document (as defined below).

II. Facts

The following is a summary of our understanding of the facts, which is based on discussions with representatives of ACIS, the Certificate of Representations of ACIS, attached as Exhibit O, and review of the Transaction Document and certain other related documents furnished to us by you, including but not limited to Exhibits A - O. Our analysis and conclusion are based on this factual background and our conclusion could differ if the actual facts are not as stated herein.

ACIS is organized as a limited partnership under Delaware law. ACIS is a cash method taxpayer. ACIS is a registered investment advisor with the Securities and Exchange Commission and has approximately $3.5 billion of assets under management. Those assets primarily are held by various collateralized loan obligation ("CLO") special purpose entities sponsored and managed by ACIS.

ACIS has engaged an investment banking firm to market a new CLO on its behalf. Recent European and United States regulations require sponsors of newly formed CLOs to retain during the life of the CLO a five percent ownership interest (the "Risk Retention Amount"). To finance the acquisition of the Risk Retention Amount, ACIS has entered into a joint venture wherein it is required to fund 51 percent of the Risk Retention Amount and the joint venture partner is to fund the remaining 49 percent.

Given the instability of CLO management fee income streams, and ACIS's upcoming need to fund its portion of the Risk Retention Amount, ACIS's management has determined that it is prudent to sell a portion of its existing rights to CLO management income streams to: (i) raise cash through receipt of the Cash Purchase Proceeds; and (ii) stabilize annual cash flows by replacing uncertain cash flows from the income streams underlying the Participation Interests with the Note Purchase Proceeds, which consist of a promissory note that pays principal and interest on a predetermined schedule.[1] The Transaction will also provide cash to ACIS adequate to fund its obligation to acquire the Risk Retention Amount.

[1] The terms Cash Purchase Proceeds, Note Purchase Proceeds, and Participation Interests are defined below in Section II.E

A. The Portfolio Management Agreements

ACIS's only activity prior to the Transaction was to perform servicing and management functions for various CLOs and CLO-related commingled funds and separate accounts, including CLO 2013-1, CLO 2014-3, CLO 2014-4, CLO 2014-5 and CLO 2015-6 (the "ACIS CLOs"). Each of the ACIS CLOs is serviced and managed in accordance with its respective Portfolio Management Agreement.

ACIS was the named manager for each of the ACIS CLOs, which were sponsored by ACIS. Prior to the closing of the ACIS CLOs, ACIS was engaged as manager to select the proposed collateral for each of the ACIS CLOs and to manage the assets that were acquired to collateralize those CLOs (this pre-closing asset acquisition period is hereinafter referred to, with respect to any of the ACIS CLOs, as the "Warehouse Period").

Some of the assets of the ACIS CLOs were acquired during the Warehouse Period by the fund equity investor investing in a total return swap (a "TRS") with a national investment bank, the value of which was tied to loans an ACIS CLO intended to acquire. The investment bank actually acquired such loans (the "Reference Assets") to support its position as counterparty to the TRS. Under the terms of the TRS, the fund equity investor would post cash collateral equal to between 20 percent and 30 percent of the Reference Assets. Under the TRS, the investment bank was obligated to pay to the fund equity investor the amount of any interest earned on the Reference Assets plus any appreciation in the value of the Reference Assets and minus any depreciation. The Fund Equity Investors paid a negotiated interest rate to the investment bank based on the notional value of the Reference Assets. The fund equity investor possessed the risk of changes in asset value during the Warehouse Period.

Upon the closing of an ACIS CLO utilizing a TRS to finance the acquisition of loans during the Warehouse Period, the TRS was liquidated and the ACIS CLO would acquire the Reference Assets. The fund equity investor would then use the returned cash collateral to acquire the equity of that ACIS CLO. At all times during the Warehouse Period, the Fund Equity Investor – and not ACIS – possessed the risk of changes in value of the Reference Assets. The remainder of the assets of the ACIS CLOs were acquired when the CLO was "priced" and funded through the issuance of debt.

i. CLO 2013-1

ACIS entered into the CLO 2013-1 Portfolio Management Agreement on March 18, 2013. Pursuant to the CLO 2013-1 Portfolio Management Agreement, ACIS was entitled to three fees: (i) a Senior Management Fee payable from Interest Proceeds equal to a per annum rate of .20% of the Fee Basis Amount; (ii) a Subordinated Management Fee payable from Interest Proceeds equal to a per annum rate of .30% of the Fee Basis Amount after meeting applicable Coverage Tests; and (iii) an Incentive Management Fee equal to 20% of Interest and Principal Proceeds provided the Incentive Management Fee Threshold[2] is met. It is our understanding that ACIS did not report any taxable income associated with acquiring the right to receive future Senior Management Fees, Subordinated Management Fees or incentive Management Fees with respect to CLO 2013-1.

iii. CLO 2014-3; CLO 2014-4; CLO 2014-5; and CLO 2015-6

ACIS entered into the CLO 2014-3 Portfolio Management Agreement on February 25, 2014, the CLO 2014-4 Portfolio Management Agreement on June 5, 2014, the CLO 2014-5 Portfolio Management Agreement on November 18, 2014, and the CLO 2015-6 Portfolio Management Agreement on April 16, 2015. Pursuant to each respective Portfolio Management Agreement, ACIS was entitled to three fees: (i) a Senior Management Fee[3] payable from Interest Proceeds equal to a per annum rate of .15% of the Fee Basis Amount; (ii) a Subordinated Management Fee payable from Interest Proceeds equal to a per annum rate of .25% of the Fee Basis Amount after meeting applicable Coverage Tests; and (iii) an Incentive Management Fee equal to 20% of Interest and Principal Proceeds provided the Incentive Management Fee Threshold[4] is met. It is our understanding that ACIS did not report any taxable income associated with acquiring the right to receive future Senior Management Fees, Subordinated Management Fees or Incentive Management Fees with respect to CLO 2014-3, CLO 2014-4, CLO 2014-5 or CLO 2015-6.

C. Duties of the Manager

i. The Warehouse Period

During the Warehouse Period, ACIS was responsible for performing due diligence with respect to potential collateral and acquiring and managing the assets that would comprise the respective portfolios that would collateralize the ACIS CLOs, which ACIS would service. In executing those duties, ACIS evaluated and selected the various assets that would be acquired by the relevant ACIS CLO.

[2] The Subordinated Note Holders have to reach an aggregate IRR threshold of 12% under the CLO 2013-1 Portfolio Management Agreement for the manager to earn any Supplemental Management Fees.

[3] The CLO 2014-3 Indenture uses the term "Base Management Fee" in lieu of "Senior Management Fee," which is used in the other indentures.

[4] The Subordinated Note Holders have to reach an aggregate IRR threshold of 12% under each of the Portfolio Management Agreements for CLO 2014-3, CLO 2014-4, CLO 2014-5 and CLO 2015-6 for the manager to earn any Supplemental Management Fees.

ii. Ongoing Management Responsibilities

With respect to each CLO, ACIS, as manager, had responsibility for managing, administering and servicing the portfolio of assets in each of the CLOs and exercised operational and decision-making responsibility. ACIS also was responsible for (i) general accounting and reporting such as collecting payments and monitoring collateral value, (ii) evaluating the ongoing reinvestment of the assets during the Reinvestment Period, (iii) evaluating the ongoing viability of each investment, (iv) identifying replacement investments to the extent existing assets no longer met certain criteria or exceeded performance criteria, and (v) executing available remedies for defaulted or otherwise non-performing collateral. Relative to more actively traded CLOs, the CLOs serviced by ACIS are static after the Reinvestment Period absent a collateral defect or default. The assets of the CLOs consist primarily of senior loans and mezzanine loans, in each case secured by various types of collateral.

D. Termination Rights

Under each ACIS CLO's Portfolio Management Agreement, the manager can terminate the servicing arrangement at any time so long as the manager provides at least 90 days prior written notice. Additionally, the manager may be terminated by the CLO under each of the Portfolio Management Agreements with 30 days notice under the following conditions: (i) the manager willfully violates or breaches a material provision of the respective Portfolio Management Agreement or Indenture in bad faith; (ii) the manager breaches any other provision of the respective Portfolio Management Agreement or Indenture without timely curing such breach; (iii) the manager is wound up or dissolved or becomes insolvent; (iv) the manager commits fraud; (v) any senior manager of the manager is convicted of a criminal offense materially related to the manager's business; or (vi) the manager is unable to perform its duties.

E. Sale of Participation Interests

ACIS entered into the Transaction Document with Buyer on October 7, 2016, which conveys from ACIS to Buyer sixty percent of the Senior Management Fee and Subordinated Management Fee paid between November 2016 and August 2019 by CLO 2013-1 under the CLO 2013-1 Portfolio Management Agreement and the CLO 2013-1 Indenture. The Transaction Document also conveys from ACIS to Buyer fifty percent of the Senior Management Fees and Subordinated Management Fees paid between November 2016 and August 2019 by each of the other ACIS CLOs under their respective portfolio management agreements and indentures. With respect to each CLO, ACIS will retain rights to the remaining Senior Management Fees and Subordinated Management Fees, as well as all of the Incentive Management Fees (together the "Retained Fees"). Each of the interests in Senior Management Fees and Subordinated Management Fees conveyed to Buyer under the Transaction Document are referred to herein as the "Participation Interests."

The sale was effected by a partial sale for cash and a partial sale for a note. Upon closing, Buyer paid to ACIS $666,655 in cash (the "Cash Purchase Proceeds") and gave ACIS a promissory note for an additional $12,666,446 (the "Promissory Note" or "Note Purchase Proceeds," as the context requires). The Promissory Note matures on May 31, 2019 and accrues interest at a rate of 3 percent per annum. Principal and interest payments are payable on May 31st of each year beginning in 2017 through the Promissory Note's maturity in accordance with the amortization schedule included as an attachment to Exhibit M. The Promissory Note is unsecured and there are no partner-level guarantees. It is, however, recourse debt to Buyer, and Buyer has demonstrated its creditworthiness through a long history of business operations and its ownership of assets worth hundreds of millions of dollars. Buyer is an SEC-registered investment adviser which, together with its affiliates, has in excess of $15 billion of assets under management. In addition to its expertise in forming and managing CLOs, Buyer also specializes in credit strategies, such as credit hedge funds, long-only funds and separate accounts, and distressed and special situations private equity. Buyer also offers alternative investments, including emerging markets, long/short equities, and natural resources. Buyer's diversified client base includes public pension plans, foundations, endowments, corporations, financial institutions, fund of funds, governments, and high net-worth individuals. In excess of ninety-nine percent of Buyer's profits and losses are allocated to limited partnership interests in Buyer indirectly owned by an investment fund. Neither Buyer nor its parent investment fund has any ownership interest in ACIS.

III. Representations

In connection with the issuance of our opinion, you have directed us to rely on the representations listed below as stated in the Certificate of Representations of ACIS attached hereto as Exhibit O. You have represented that these statements are accurate and complete in all material respects. These representations are material to our opinion, are relied upon by us as a basis for our opinion, and our opinion is conditioned upon the initial and continuing accuracy of these representations. These representations are:

1. The summary of facts set forth in Part II above and Exhibits A - N hereto are accurate and complete in all material respects;

2. ACIS is and has been during all relevant times properly treated as a partnership for U.S. federal income tax purposes;

3. The Portfolio Management Agreements are in accord with market standard CLO cash and synthetic securitizations generally, and the obligations of ACIS under the Portfolio Management Agreements are consistent with industry standards and are substantially in accord with those of other similar CLOs;

4. Based on industry standards, the Retained Fees represents industry standard reasonable compensation for performing the services under the Portfolio Management Agreements. For this purpose, reasonable compensation means that, as of the relevant acquisition date, ACIS would not have paid (or required an upfront payment from a seller) to acquire the Portfolio Management Agreements if its servicing compensation consisted of only the Retained fees. The Retained Fees will not have more than a nominal value in relation to the expected costs of servicing the CLOs pursuant to the Portfolio Management Agreements;

5. ACIS has no intention to or reason to believe it will not fulfill the obligations related to the Portfolio Management Agreements and has no current intention to terminate the Portfolio Management Agreements or reason to believe that it will be terminated under the Portfolio Management Agreements;

6. During the Warehouse Period for each CLO, ACIS did not have the economic benefits and burdens of ownership of the assets acquired for the related CLOs;

7. For U.S. federal income tax purposes, any taxable gain or loss in respect of the sale of the Participation Interests will be calculated using a zero basis for such Participation Interests;

8. The parties to the Transaction believe and intend that the Promissory Note will be paid in accordance with its terms; and

9. For U.S. federal income tax purposes, any previously reported income in respect of fee payments received pursuant to the Participation Interests has been reported by ACIS as ordinary income.

IV. Conclusion

Subject in all respects to the detailed discussion below and the limitations set forth herein, and based in part on our reliance on the Certificate of Representations and the Exhibits provided to us, it is our opinion that, for U.S. federal income tax purposes, it is more likely than not that any gain recognized from the Transaction will be treated as capital gain to the extent allocable to Excess CLO Fees.[5]

V. Discussion and Analysis

A. Servicing Income as a Code Section 1286 Strip

[5] The term Excess CLO Fees is defined below in section V.A.vi.

i. Revenue Ruling 91-46

In Revenue Ruling 91-46 (the "Ruling"), the Internal Revenue Service (the "Service") stated its current position with respect to the characterization of residential mortgage servicing rights. The Ruling held that, if a taxpayer sells residential mortgage loans and retains a contract to service the mortgages in exchange for a portion of interest payments on the mortgages that exceeds reasonable compensation for the services to be performed, the mortgages constitute "stripped bonds" under section 1286 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"). Accordingly, the taxpayer's right to receive interest amounts under the servicing contract in excess of reasonable compensation for the services performed constitutes a series of "stripped coupons."[6]

The taxpayer described in the Ruling was a mortgage company engaged in the business of originating and servicing residential mortgages. The mortgage company sold a pool of mortgages with a principal amount of $100 million and retained servicing rights in the pool. The mortgage company sold the pool of mortgages for $100 million to an agency in the business of purchasing residential mortgages and securitizing and selling interests in those mortgages ("Agency"). As part of the transaction, Agency entered into a servicing contract with the mortgage company to service the pool of mortgages after the transaction was complete. Under the servicing contract, the mortgage company was required to collect monthly mortgage payments and remit those payments to Agency, as well as to accumulate escrows for the payment of insurance and taxes, to disburse those funds as the payments were due, to maintain records relating to the mortgage pool, and to exercise remedies in respect of defaulted or otherwise non-performing mortgages.

The servicing contract provided that the mortgage company, as servicer, was entitled to receive fee amounts from interest payments collected on the mortgages. Annually, the mortgage company was entitled to a maximum annual fee of 1.25% of the outstanding principal balance of the mortgage pool, and a minimum annual fee of .25% of the outstanding principal balance of the mortgage pool. The Ruling referred to the minimum fee as "normal" servicing, and any amounts above the minimum fee as "excess" servicing. The Ruling explains that the present value of the amounts to be paid to the mortgage servicer that should be considered reasonable compensation for performing services under the servicing contract is less than the sum of the present value of the amounts that the mortgage company is entitled to receive as normal servicing and the present value of the income from other sources under the contract (e.g., late fees paid by borrowers). The Service's approach to valuing the components of the mortgage servicing contract is significant in that the Ruling concludes that a so-called "normal servicing fee" can be expected to exceed the amount that would constitute "reasonable compensation" for performing the servicing function.

connection with such sale shall be remitted to the Non-Permitted ERISA Holder. The terms and conditions of any sale under this subsection shall be determined in the sole discretion of the Issuer, and the Issuer shall not be liable to any Person having an interest in the ERISA Limited Notes sold as a result of any such sale or the exercise of such discretion.

Section 2.13. Issuer Purchase of Secured Notes.

(a) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Indenture, the Portfolio Manager, on behalf of the Issuer, may conduct purchases of the Secured Notes, in whole or in part, in accordance with, and subject to, the terms and conditions set forth in Section 2.13(b) below, by disbursing amounts in the Principal Collection Subaccount or the Interest Collection Subaccount for purchases of Secured Notes in accordance with the provisions described in this Section 2.13. The Trustee shall cancel in accordance with Section 2.10 any such purchased Secured Notes surrendered to it for cancellation or, in the case of any Global Notes, the Trustee shall decrease the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of such Global Notes in its records by the original principal amount of the purchased Secured Notes, and instruct DTC or its nominee, as the case may be, to conform its records.

(b) No purchases of the Secured Notes by, or on behalf of, the Issuer may occur without the consent of a Majority of the Subordinated Notes and unless each of the following conditions are satisfied:

(i) such purchases of Secured Notes shall occur in the following sequential order of priority: first, the Class A Notes until the Class A Notes are retired in full; second, the Class B Notes, until the Class B Notes are retired in full; third, the Class C Notes until the Class C Notes are retired in full; fourth, the Class D Notes, until the Class D Notes are retired in full; and fifth, the Class E Notes, until the Class E Notes are retired in full;

(ii) (1) each such purchase of Secured Notes of any Class shall be made pursuant to an offer made to all Holders of the Secured Notes of such Class, by notice to such Holders, which notice shall specify the purchase price (as a percentage of par) at which such purchase will be effected, the maximum amount of Principal Proceeds that will be used to effect such purchase and the length of the period during which such offer will be open for acceptance, (2) each such Holder shall have the right, but not the obligation, to accept such offer in accordance with its terms and (3) if the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of Notes of the relevant Class held by Holders who accept such offer exceeds the amount of Principal Proceeds specified in such offer, a portion of the Secured Notes of each accepting holder shall be purchased pro rata based on the respective principal amount held by each such holder;

(iii) each such purchase shall be effected only at prices discounted from par;

iii. Valuation of the Compensatory Component under Private Rulings

According to FSA 306, the compensatory component of a mortgage servicing contract generally represents the present value of the "reasonable compensation" that the servicer is expected to receive over the life of the contract less the present value of the expenses of providing the service and a reasonable allowance for profit.[11] The Service further stated that "the compensatory portion usually will represent a small part, if any, of the present value of the contract; therefore, it will represent a small part, if any, of the gain from the sale of the contract."

In order to calculate the value of the compensatory component according to the formula above, one must first determine the amount of "reasonable compensation" the servicer expects to receive under the servicing agreement as well as expected costs. In PLR 9410008[12], the Service defined "reasonable compensation" as a function of expected cost. According to PLR 9410008, reasonable compensation is based on the taxpayer's expected costs plus a reasonable allowance for profit, reduced by the expected value of the taxpayer's other income from servicing the portfolio (e.g., interest earned on escrow funds, late payment fees, etc.). According to PLR 9410008, a reasonable allowance for profit is based on the facts and circumstances.

The formula in PLR 9410008 indicates that the portion of the servicing fees allocable to the compensatory component will only be enough to cover the servicer's expenses and to produce the amount of profit that a third party servicer would normally expect. This approach is consistent with the Service's expectation in FSA 306 that little or none of the purchase price would be allocable to the compensatory component of a servicing contract.

The presumption that the compensatory component of the stripped coupon should have little or no value is further supported by FSA 1999-1179,[13] which specifically states that to the extent normal servicing fees do not exceed the expected costs of servicing (including a reasonable profit), they should not be considered to have a positive value at that time. FSA 1999-1179 does not explicitly employ the net present value formula used in FSA 306, but its conclusion is consistent with the general principle that the compensatory component of a mortgage servicing contract should have little or no value in a sale to a third party. From an economic standpoint, if reasonable compensation equals expected costs plus an allowance for a reasonable profit, then the present value of such reasonable compensation should equal zero.

FSA 1999-1179 states that although a servicer's right to payment under a mortgage servicing contract is contingent on its performance of the service, "it is unlikely that the seller-servicer would jeopardize the servicing contract by providing the purchaser with cause to terminate the contract." Moreover, this FSA explains that since the servicing contracts generally provide that the servicer can be terminated without cause upon payment of a termination fee, that "characterization of the taxpayer's remaining interest in the mortgage, i.e., the excess mortgage servicing rights, as a mere executory contract with the owner of the mortgages for the performance of future services, rather than a legally enforceable ownership interest is, in substance, incorrect. Indeed, the servicing rights are often transferred between servicers and frequently are hedged."

iv. Valuation of the Stripped Coupon

Investors commonly value a series of stripped coupons (referred to as an "interest strip") by calculating the present value of the expected cash flows from the interest strip. Adjustments for credit risk and interest rate risk typically are taken into account through adjustments to the discount rate used to calculate the present value. Fluctuations in the discount rate used by a taxpayer to calculate the value of an interest strip can have a significant effect on the calculated value. In FSA 1231, while acknowledging that the valuation of an interest strip could be calculated as the present value of expected cash flows, the Service refused to rule on an appropriate discount rate used for the purpose of valuing an interest strip.[14] The Service suggested that the determination of an appropriate discount rate is a factual question and that it should be determined by considering the duration of the cash flows (and the related exposure to interest rate risk) and any credit risk inherent in the cash flow stream.

v. Application of Code Section 1286 to Other Types of Servicing Contracts

The stripped coupon rules of Code section 1286 that were applied to residential mortgage servicing contracts are broad enough to cover analogous excess management and servicing fees in the CLO asset management context. None of Code section 1286, the Ruling, or any of the FSAs or private rulings indicate that the concept of excess servicing as an interest strip is limited to residential mortgage loans, or that the concept does not apply to the types of loans and bonds that comprise the assets of the CLOs. In both contexts the servicer or manager is entitled to a specified percentage of interest in the securitization vehicle's collateral that exceeds the actual cost of servicing or managing the collateral and reasonable compensation for the services provided. While the Ruling and most of the related private rulings only discuss residential mortgage servicing contracts, FSA 1999-1179 expanded the stripped coupon analysis by stating that the Ruling should be applied in "analogous circumstances" in addition to the mortgage servicing context.[15] Thus, the Ruling should apply to excess management and servicing fees received from the CLOs.

[14] FSA 1231 (Apr. 1, 1994).

vi. Application of Authorities

The Portfolio Management Agreements are analogous to mortgage servicing contracts. In the context of the securitization of a pool of mortgages or other debt obligations, the collateral is transferred to an issuer. The issuer in turn issues a series of notes or certificates collateralized by the transferred assets. In the case of both residential mortgages and CLOs, the asset pool must be "serviced" and "managed." In the case of the CLOs, the collateral consists of loans and bonds to which the stripped coupon rules should apply. In addition, the activities of a mortgage servicer and a CLO servicer/manager have material similarities. Specifically, both service providers typically are responsible for performance of due diligence with respect to the transferred collateral, collection of payments with respect to the collateral, management of collateral performance, exercising rights and remedies with respect to the collateral and otherwise preserving and protecting the collateral, working out or selling non-performing or defaulted collateral, advancing payments or waiving fee rights in order to ensure payments to security holders. The servicers or managers receive a set fee that is paid from interest scheduled to be paid with respect to the collateral. In many cases, the fee paid is a basis point "strip" off of the interest paid to the issuer on the aggregate outstanding collateral balance. In addition, some servicers are paid an incentive fee or supplemental fee to the extent certain performance thresholds are met with respect to the collateral. In some cases, the fees paid to the servicer are in excess of the actual cost of performing the contracted services plus a reasonable profit allowance. The Service refers to this excess in the residential mortgage servicing context as the "excess servicing strip."[16]

Because the Portfolio Management Agreements are analogous to the mortgage servicing contracts, the stripped bond analysis found in the Ruling and related private rulings discussed above more likely than not applies to the Portfolio Management Agreements. Although the amount of labor required to service a CLO holding senior loans, mezzanine loans and high yield bonds may be less than that involved in residential mortgage servicing primarily because of differences in the volume of the obligations and the number of obligors being serviced, the primary objective is the same: the servicer is required to manage the portfolio of loans and other debt obligations and collect payment on behalf of the owner of the portfolio, as discussed above. In addition, in the residential mortgage servicing context and in connection with the ACIS CLOs, the servicer or manager is entitled to a specified interest rate strip off of the underlying loans or other debt obligations. The fees paid to a CLO servicer or manager in excess of the actual cost of performing the contracted services plus a reasonable profit allowance are referred to as "Excess CLO Fees." Therefore, the stripped bond analysis more likely than not would apply to the Portfolio Management Agreements, to which ACIS is a party.

vii. Character of Gain on Sale of Strip

In FSA 306, the Service advised that, to the extent the value of a mortgage servicing contract is attributable to a "stripped coupon," it should be considered a capital asset under Code section 1221. As stated above, there are three components to the value of a mortgage servicing contract under the Ruling: (i) a compensatory portion, representing "reasonable compensation," which is ordinary income; (ii) goodwill, which is capital; and (iii) an interest strip, which is capital. FSA 306 states that "substantially all, if not all, of the gain on the sale of mortgage servicing contracts in this case is capital." In making this determination, the Service specifically cited the Bisbee and Bankers Guarantee cases (discussed below) and stated that these cases were applicable only to the compensatory portion of the servicing contract. Accordingly, because Excess CLO Fees are closely analogous to excess servicing fees, the sale of Excess CLO Fees is more likely than not a sale of a capital asset resulting in capital gain or loss.

viii. Case Law on Mortgage Servicing Rights Prior to the Ruling

Prior to the issuance of the Ruling, several cases considered the proper treatment of gain recognized from the sale or termination of mortgage servicing rights. In Bisbee-Baldwin Corp. v. Tomlinson,[17] the taxpayer received a termination payment for cancellation of a contract under which the taxpayer was entitled to be paid an annual half percentage point fee for servicing mortgages. The court held the portion of the mortgage servicing rights that "represent the right to earn future income in the form of commissions for services rendered" was ordinary income." The court, however, characterized the portion of the proceeds from the sale that constituted payment for goodwill as capital gain. Similarly, the court in General Guaranty Mortgage Co. v. Tomlinson[18] held that gain received from termination of mortgage servicing contracts was ordinary to the extent received as a substitute for future income and otherwise was capital, such as for the sale of goodwill. In Bankers Guarantee Title v. U.S.,[19]

[17] 320 F.2d 929 (5th Cir. 1963).

[18] 335 F.2d 518 (5th Cir. 1964).

[19] 418 F.2d 1084 (6th Cir. 1969). See also Realty Loan Corp v. Commissioner, 478 F.2d 1049 (9th Cir. 1973) (proceeds from sale of right to future servicing fees treated as ordinary income).

the court allowed capital gain treatment on the portion of the sale of mortgage servicing rights that was attributable to goodwill, but denied capital gain treatment on the portion that was a substitute for the performance of services. Also, in U.S. v Woolsey,[20] proceeds of the sale of a management contract with a mutual insurance company were treated as ordinary because the proceeds represented "unrealized receivables" and the present value of the right to earn ordinary income in the future. The Woolsey court relied by analogy on the Bisbee-Baldwin court's treatment of mortgage servicing contract sales.

As noted above, all of these cases preceded by many years the development of securitization and the Service's refinement of its analysis with respect to the sale of mortgage servicing rights set forth in the Ruling and the various FSAs that followed the Ruling. In fact, certain of the FSAs specifically refer to the prior cases and limit the ordinary income analysis applied in decisions such as Bisbee-Baldwin and Bankers Guarantee to the portion of sales proceeds attributable to the compensatory portion of such contracts as distinct from proceeds attributable to excess servicing fees.

Importantly, these cases also pre-dated the enactment of Code section 1286 (and its predecessor section). Since the Service has followed the Ruling with an FSA holding that the profitable sale of mortgage servicing rights generates capital gains (except to the extent, if any, attributable to the compensatory component of the contracts), although the matter is not entirely clear, we do not believe that these earlier cases prevent tax treatment of any gains recognized from the Transaction as capital to the extent of Excess CLO Fees and goodwill. Instead, we believe that the prior case law as described above would be applied only to the compensatory portion of the gain.

B. Payment for Right to Earn Income

i. Application of U.S. v. Dresser Industries, Inc.

If the Service argues against the servicing strip analogy discussed above and argues that the CLO management and servicing rights are not analogous to mortgage servicing rights, then U.S. v. Dresser Industries, Inc.[21] is more likely than not the applicable precedent. Unlike in Bisbee and Bankers Guarantee, the court analyzed a taxpayer's gain on a sale back to an original patent holder of an exclusive license with respect to the patent as capital gain. In making its determination, the court distinguished the case from others in which only a portion of the rights were sold. Instead, the court concluded that when the totality of the rights are sold, the sale should be treated as the sale of a capital asset. The court distinguished between

---

[20] 326 F.2d 287 (5th Cir. 1963).

[21] 324 F.2d 56 (5th Cir. 1963).

"the present sale of the future right to earn income and the present sale of the future right to earned income."[22] Specifically, the court noted that "[t]he only commercial value of any property is the present worth of future earnings or usefulness" and that the "[t]axpayer had an asset, a right, a property which would produce income. The fact that the income which could be earned would be ordinary income is immaterial; such would be true of the sale of all income-producing property."[23] Thus, the substitute for ordinary income doctrine is commonly limited to amounts paid for income that has already been earned.

ii. Additional Authorities Supporting Application of Dresser

Dresser was heavily cited and followed more recently in Lattera v. Commissioner.[24] The court denied capital gain treatment on the sale of rights to future lottery installments. Borrowing from securities law cases, the court adopted a "family resemblance test" which compared the sale of the asset in question (rights to lottery payments) to (i) assets that are known to result in capital gain (such as stocks, bonds, options, currency contracts, land, etc.) and (ii) assets that are known to not result in capital gain (such as rental and interest income).[25] The court also considered whether the sale was a horizontal or vertical carve-out. The court defined a horizontal carve-out as a division of a property interest in which a portion of an interest is retained (e.g., payment right from a working interest in an oil lease or the sale of only several lottery installment payments). Unlike horizontal carve-outs, vertical carve-outs represent a more complete disposition of a property right. The court stated that horizontal carve-outs typically lead to ordinary income treatment while vertical carve-outs are more likely to receive capital gain treatment.[26] In reaching its holding, the court extensively cited Dresser, and noted that "all capital assets are substitutes for ordinary income." The court drew a distinction between rights to earned income and a right to earn income, and cited Dresser as support for the position that the substitute for ordinary income rules should not apply to the sale of a right to earn income.[27]

TAM 9443005 dealt with the sale of a cogeneration contract. The Service relied on the reasoning in Dresser, stating that "the fact that an asset may generate ordinary income in the future does not, of itself, mandate ordinary income treatment." Situations involving purported property interest transfers that are really assignments of future ordinary income must be distinguished from situations involving the sale of a right or opportunity to earn future income, which are sales of capital assets. The Service stated that in making such a distinction, "courts evaluate the entire economics of the transaction"[28] and concluded that the asset was a capital asset.

(iii) Potential Characterization of Servicing Rights as Code Section 1231 Assets

In the event that the amounts received in exchange for the CLO servicing rights were determined not to constitute purchase price for an interest strip or for goodwill, they may represent purchase price for a Code section 1231 asset. In FSA 1999-1218 the Service considered whether certain mortgage servicing rights could be treated as Code section 1231 assets. In concluding that Code section 1231 should not be applicable to the servicing rights, the Service nevertheless recognized that it faced "some real hazards in arguing that section 1231 does not apply."

Generally, gain recognized upon the sale of a Code section 1231 asset will be treated as capital gain. In order to qualify as Code section 1231 property, an asset must be a depreciable asset used in a trade or business and held for more than one year. Additionally, the asset must not fall under certain excluded categories of property such as inventory.

This position provides an additional basis for capital gain treatment with respect to the Excess CLO Fees. Mortgage servicing rights may be depreciable under Code section 167(f)(3). Treating a portion of the CLO management rights as Code section 1231 assets would not be inconsistent with treating a different portion of the rights as stripped interest. Recognizing this possibility, Treasury regulation section 1.167(a)-14(d)(1) notes that "[m]ortgage servicing rights are not depreciable to the extent the rights are stripped coupons." Accordingly, ACIS may assert that Code section 1231 provides an alternative basis for treating its gain from the sale of the Excess CLO Fees as capital gain to the extent the Service were to challenge the application of the Ruling and the line of authority under Dresser.

C. Business Purpose and Economic Substance of Transaction

The economic substance and business purpose doctrines can apply to deny tax benefits from a transaction if the transaction lacks economic substance (i.e., it does not change the taxpayer's economic position aside from the claimed tax benefits) or the transaction was not [28] TAM 9443005 (Oct. 28, 1994). The Service also applied the Dresser analysis in PLR 200919055 (May 8, 2009), PLR 200826026 (June 27, 2008) and FSA 1999-1179 (December 14, 1992).

entered into for a business purpose.[29] A transaction will be treated as having economic substance only if the transaction changes in a meaningful way (apart from federal income tax effects) the taxpayer's economic position, and the taxpayer has a substantial purpose (apart from federal income tax effects) for entering into such transaction.[30]

In ACM Partnership, the taxpayer formed a partnership with its financial advisor and a Netherlands Antilles subsidiary of the taxpayer's foreign bank with the goal of creating a loss that the taxpayer could carry back to offset a large taxable gain recognized in a prior tax year. The partnership sold assets in a contingent payment installment sale structured to cause the partnership to recognize a large gain in the year of sale which was allocated to the related foreign subsidiary and, therefore, not subject to tax. As a result of the contingent payment installment sale basis recovery rules, the initial gain was largely offset by losses in subsequent years. The partnership redeemed the interest of the foreign subsidiary prior to the partnership's recognition of such losses and allocated the losses to the taxpayer as planned. The Tax Court and the Third Circuit denied the allocation of the partnership losses to the taxpayer finding that the partnership was formed to create an artificial loss through manipulation and abuse of the tax laws.[31]

In Klamath, the taxpayers contributed funds advanced to them by a bank and associated liabilities to newly-formed limited liability companies treated as partnerships for tax purposes.[32] The taxpayers' utilized partnership tax basis rules to claim large tax losses when they withdrew from the partnerships 60 days later, although the taxpayers had not suffered an economic loss. The partnership conducted essentially no business and the taxpayer derived no profit from the use of the borrowed funds. The Fifth Circuit affirmed the district court's denial of the losses claimed, finding that the loan transaction lacked economic substance because it was structured such that the taxpayers had no reasonable possibility of profit.[33] The court explained that the loan transaction was structured to create substantial tax [31] See ACM Partnership. The Tax Court noted that this loss was a "phantom loss" that lacked economic substance. See ACM Partnership, TC Memo 1997-115. The Third Circuit upheld the Tax Court's determination that the transaction thus did not form the basis of a capital loss deduction.

benefits but that the lender's funds were not, and were never intended to be, placed at risk in the investment business the partnership was purportedly organized to pursue.

Code Section 7701(o) provides that a transaction to which the economic substance doctrine is relevant, will be treated as having economic substance only if:

(a) the transaction changes in a meaningful way (apart from federal income tax effects) the taxpayer's economic position; and

(b) the taxpayer has a substantial purpose (apart from federal income tax effects) for entering into the transaction.

This conjunctive test requires that both the objective economic effect of the transaction on the taxpayer and the subjective motive of the taxpayer for engaging in the transaction must be considered to determine if the transaction has economic substance.

If the Service were to challenge ACIS's tax treatment of the Transaction under the economic substance and business purpose doctrines, ACIS would respond that the business purpose and economic substance of the Transaction were manifest in (i) ACIS's need to raise cash through receipt of the Cash Purchase Proceeds to meet its regulatory obligations as a CLO sponsor and its desire to stabilize annual cash flows by replacing uncertain cash flows from the Participation Interests with the Note Purchase Proceeds, which consist of a promissory note that pays principal and interest on a predetermined schedule, and (ii) the substantial risk undertaken by ACIS that its economic return from the CLOs would be diminished in exchange for the cash flow certainty the Transaction provided.[34] We believe that these facts would be sufficient to satisfy the economic substance and business purpose doctrines, including the conjunctive test of Code Section 7701(o).

"S&P Weighted Average Fixed Coupon": As of any date of determination, the number, expressed as a percentage (rounded up to the nearest 0.01%), equal to: (i) the aggregate sum, in respect of each fixed rate Collateral Obligation (excluding Deferring Securities), of an amount equal to the product of (a) the interest coupon of such Collateral Obligation multiplied by (b) the Principal Balance of such Collateral Obligation, divided by (ii) the Aggregate Principal Balance of all such fixed rate Collateral Obligations.

"S&P Weighted Average Floating Spread": As of any date of determination, the number, expressed as a percentage (rounded up to the nearest 0.01%), obtained by calculating the sum of: (w) in the case of each floating rate Collateral Obligation (excluding Deferring Securities, Revolving Collateral Obligations and Delayed Drawdown Collateral Obligations), the aggregate interest on such Collateral Obligation over LIBOR multiplied by the outstanding Principal Balance of such Collateral Obligation as of such date and (x) in the case of each Revolving Collateral Obligation or Delayed Drawdown Collateral Obligation, (i) the commitment fee for such Revolving Collateral Obligation or Delayed Drawdown Collateral Obligation multiplied by the undrawn commitments of such Revolving Collateral Obligation or Delayed Drawdown Collateral Obligation and (ii) the aggregate interest on such Collateral Obligation over LIBOR multiplied by the outstanding principal amount of such Revolving Collateral Obligation or Delayed Drawdown Collateral Obligation (provided that letter of credit fees shall be excluded for all purposes), and dividing such sum by the Aggregate Principal Balance of all such floating rate Collateral Obligations as of such date of determination. For purposes of the foregoing, (1) in the case of each floating rate Collateral Obligation that bears interest at a spread over an index other than a London interbank offered rate based index, the interest over LIBOR for such Collateral Obligation shall be equal to the excess of the sum of such spread and such index (or, in the case of a Pre-funded Letter of Credit, the applicable rate of interest on the deposited amount) over LIBOR calculated for the Secured Notes for the immediately preceding Interest Determination Date (which spread or excess may be expressed as a negative number), (2) LIBOR with respect to any floating rate Collateral Obligation that bears interest based on a spread over LIBOR shall be calculated in the same manner as it is calculated for payments on such Collateral Obligation, (3) with respect to any LIBOR Floor Obligation, the interest over LIBOR for such Collateral Obligation shall be equal to the sum of (a) the applicable spread over LIBOR and (b) the excess, if any, of the specified "floor" rate relating to such Collateral Obligation over LIBOR calculated for the Secured Notes for the immediately preceding Interest Determination Date and (4) the interest over the applicable index in respect of a floating rate Step-up Obligation shall be deemed to be its current interest spread over such index and the interest over the applicable index in respect of a floating rate Step-down Obligation shall be deemed to be the lowest possible interest spread over such index under the Underlying Instruments relating to such Step-down Obligation.

"Sale": The meaning specified in Section 5.17(a) (Sale of Assets).

"Sale Proceeds": All proceeds (excluding accrued interest, if any) received with respect to Assets as a result of sales of such Assets less any reasonable expenses incurred by the Portfolio Manager or the Trustee (other than amounts payable as Administrative Expenses) in connection with such sales. Sale Proceeds will include Principal Financed Accrued Interest received in respect of such sale.

"Schedule of Collateral Obligations": The schedule of Collateral Obligations attached as Schedule 1 hereto, which schedule shall include the issuer, principal balance, coupon/spread, the Stated Maturity, the Moody's Rating and the S&P Rating for each Collateral Obligation and the percentage of the aggregate commitment under each Revolving Collateral Obligation and Delayed Drawdown Collateral Obligation that is funded, as amended from time to time (without the consent of or any action on the part of any Person) to reflect the release of Collateral Obligations pursuant to Article 10 hereof, the inclusion of additional Collateral Obligations pursuant to Section 7.18 (Ramp-up Period; Purchase of Additional Collateral Obligations) hereof and the inclusion of additional Collateral Obligations as provided in Section 12.2 (Purchase of Additional Collateral Obligations) hereof.

Asset Assigned Recovery Rate Method

If available, the S&P Recovery Rate for Collateral Obligations shall be determined by reference to the table below and a list of debt securities with asset-by-asset current recovery ratings (each such recovery rate, an "Asset Assigned Recovery Rating") listed on the S&P website at "www.standardandpoors.com" or such other website address designated by S&P. For the avoidance of doubt, Asset Assigned Recovery Ratings are determined by reference to the recovery rating of the security and without regard to its characterization as senior secured, senior unsecured, mezzanine or subordinated (or any other designation of seniority or Domicile).

If the relevant Collateral Obligation has no Asset Assigned Recovery Rating from S&P, the S&P Recovery Rate of such Collateral Obligation shall be determined by reference to the "Tiered Recovery Rate Method" tables; provided that, if the Collateral Obligation is either a senior unsecured debt security or a subordinated debt security with no Asset Assigned Recovery Rating designated but the issuer of such Collateral Obligation has an Asset Assigned Recovery Rating on senior secured debt obligations issued by it, the S&P Recovery Rate for such Collateral Obligation shall be derived from the Asset Assigned Recovery Rating of such senior secured debt obligations by reference to the tables set forth below or such other table(s) as directed by S&P upon request by the Portfolio Manager; provided further, that, if on any date of determination a Collateral Obligation does not have an Asset Assigned Recovery Rating, if on such date of determination S&P provides an Asset Assigned Recovery Rating estimate service, the Portfolio Manager may request from S&P such an estimate for such Collateral Obligation and, upon receipt of such credit estimate, the S&P Recovery Rate for such Collateral Obligation shall be derived by reference to such estimate.

"Zero Coupon Security": Any Collateral Obligation that at the time of purchase does not by its terms provide for the payment of cash interest; provided, that if, after such purchase, such Collateral Obligation provides for the payment of cash interest it shall cease to be a Zero Coupon Security.

Section 1.2. Assumptions as to Pledged Obligations. In connection with all calculations required to be made pursuant to this Indenture with respect to Scheduled Distributions on any Pledged Obligation, or any payments on any other assets included in the Assets, with respect to the sale of and reinvestment in Collateral Obligations, and with respect to the income that can be earned on Scheduled Distributions on such Pledged Obligations and on any other amounts that may be received for deposit in the Collection Account, the provisions set forth in this Section 1.2 (Assumptions as to Pledged Obligations) shall be applied. The provisions of this Section 1.2 shall be applicable to any determination or calculation, whether or not reference is specifically made to Section 1.2, unless some other method of calculation or determination is expressly specified in the particular provision.

(a) All calculations with respect to Scheduled Distributions on the Pledged Obligations securing the Notes shall be made on the basis of information as to the terms of each such Pledged Obligation and upon report of payments, if any, received on such Pledged Obligation that are furnished by or on behalf of the issuer of such Pledged Obligation and, to the extent they are not manifestly in error, such information or report may be conclusively relied upon in making such calculations.

(b) For purposes of calculating the Coverage Tests and the Interest Reinvestment Test, except as otherwise specified in the Coverage Tests or the Interest Reinvestment Test, as applicable, such calculations will not include scheduled interest and principal payments on Defaulted Obligations or payments (including under any Hedge Agreement) as to which the Portfolio Manager or the Issuer has actual knowledge that such payments will not be made unless or until such payments are actually made.

(c) For each Collection Period and as of any date of determination, the Scheduled Distribution on any Pledged Obligation (other than a Defaulted Obligation, which, except as otherwise provided herein, shall be assumed to have a Scheduled Distribution of zero) shall be the sum of (i) the total amount of payments and collections to be received during such Collection Period in respect of such Pledged Obligation (including the proceeds of the sale of such Pledged Obligation received and, in the case of sales which have not yet settled, to be received during the Collection Period and not reinvested in additional Collateral Obligations or Eligible Investments or retained in the Collection Account for subsequent reinvestment pursuant to Section 12.2 (Purchase of Additional Collateral Obligations)) that, if paid as scheduled, will be available in the Collection Account at the end of the Collection Period and (ii) any such amounts received in prior Collection Periods that were not disbursed on a previous Payment Date.

(d) Each Scheduled Distribution receivable with respect to a Pledged Obligation shall be assumed to be received on the applicable Due Date, and each such Scheduled Distribution shall be assumed to be immediately deposited in the Collection Account to earn interest at the Assumed Reinvestment Rate. All such funds shall be assumed to continue to earn interest until the date on which they are required to be available in the Collection Account for application, in accordance with the terms hereof, to payments of principal of or interest on the Notes or other amounts payable pursuant to this Indenture. For purposes of the applicable determinations required by Section 10.7(b)(iii) (Accountings), Article 12 and the definition of "Interest Coverage Ratio," the expected interest on Secured Notes and floating rate Collateral Obligations will be calculated using the then-current interest rates applicable thereto.

(e) References in Section 11.1(a) (Disbursements of Monies from Payment Account) to calculations made on a "pro forma basis" shall mean such calculations after giving effect to all payments, in accordance with the Priority of Payments described herein, that precede (in priority of payment) or include the clause in which such calculation is made.

(f) For purposes of determining whether the Effective Date Overcollateralization Test has been satisfied, all calculations shall be made on a "pro forma basis" giving effect to any purchases and sales, and, for purposes of determining whether any Coverage Test or the Interest Reinvestment Test has been satisfied on any Determination Date for purposes of the Priority of Payments, all calculations shall be made on a "pro forma" basis after giving effect to any payments made through the applicable clause of the Priority of Payments.

(g) For purposes of calculating all Concentration Limitations, in both the numerator and the denominator of any component of the Concentration Limitations, Defaulted Obligations will be treated as having a Principal Balance equal to zero.

(h) If one or more Collateral Obligations included in the Assets would be deemed Current Pay Obligations but for the applicable percentage limitation in the definition thereof, the Portfolio Manager shall determine which such Collateral Obligations have the lowest Market Value expressed as a percentage and such Collateral Obligations with the lowest Market Value expressed as a percentage will be deemed Defaulted Obligations. Each such Defaulted Obligation will be treated as a Defaulted Obligation for all purposes until such time as the Aggregate Principal Balance of Current Pay Obligations would not exceed, on a pro forma basis including such Defaulted Obligation, the applicable percentage of the Collateral Principal Amount.

(i) Except as otherwise provided herein, Defaulted Obligations will not be included in the calculation of the Collateral Quality Test. Solely, for purposes of determining whether a Collateral Obligation satisfies the S&P CDO Monitor Test with respect to a purchase, additional Collateral Obligations purchased with proceeds from the sale of a Credit Risk Obligation, a Defaulted Obligation or an Equity Security shall not be included in the calculation of the S&P CDO Monitor Test.

(j) For purposes of calculating the Collateral Quality Test, DIP Collateral Obligations will be treated as having an S&P Recovery Rate equal to the recovery rate for Senior Secured Loans set forth in the definition of "Weighted Average S&P Recovery Rate."

(k) For purposes of calculating compliance with the Investment Criteria, the Portfolio Manager may elect to execute one or more Trading Plans (with notice to the Collateral Administrator, which notice shall include the identity of all sales and purchases forming part of such Trading Plan); provided that if a previous Trading Plan failed to comply with the Investment Criteria, the Portfolio Manager may not execute any further Trading Plans until the S&P Rating Condition is satisfied (and, following the satisfaction of the S&P Rating Condition, any number of additional Trading Plans may be executed subject to the other limitations in this Section 1.2(k) (Assumptions as to Pledged Obligations)). "Trading Plan" means, with respect to any proposed investment, a plan under which compliance with the Investment Criteria will be evaluated after giving effect to all sales and purchases proposed to be entered into within ten Business Days following the date of determination of such compliance (such period, the "Trading Plan Period"); provided that (i) the execution of a Trading Plan will not result in the averaging of the purchase price of a Collateral Obligation or Collateral Obligations purchased at separate times for purposes of any calculation made in connection with the Investment Criteria; (ii) no Trading Plan may be executed over a time period that includes a Determination Date; (iii) no Trading Plan may relate to the purchase of Collateral Obligations having an Aggregate Principal Balance in excess of 5.0% of the Collateral Principal Amount; (iv) only one Trading Plan may be outstanding at any time; (v) so long as the Investment Criteria are satisfied upon the expiry of the applicable Trading Plan Period, the failure of all of the terms and assumptions specified in such Trading Plan to be satisfied shall not be deemed to constitute a failure of such Trading Plan and (vi) the difference between the Collateral Obligation with the highest Weighted Average Life and the Collateral Obligation with the lowest Weighted Average Life, in each case, purchased in connection with a Trading Plan may not be greater than two years.

(l) For purposes of calculating the sale proceeds of a Collateral Obligation in purchase and sale transactions, sales proceeds will include any Principal Financed Accrued Interest received in respect of such sale.

(m) For purposes of calculating clauses (v) and (vi) of the Concentration Limitations, without duplication, the amounts on deposit in the Collection Account and the Ramp-up Account (including Eligible Investments therein) representing Principal Proceeds shall each be deemed to be a floating rate Collateral Obligation that is a Senior Secured Loan.

(n) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Indenture to the contrary, all monetary calculations under this Indenture shall be in U.S. Dollars.

(o) For all purposes of this Indenture, (i) a Senior Secured Note shall be deemed to be a Moody's Senior Secured Loan if such Senior Secured Note, if it were a loan, would meet the definition of Moody's Senior Secured Loan and (ii) a Senior Secured Note shall be deemed to be a Moody's Non-Senior Secured Loan if such Senior Secured Note, if it were a loan, would meet the definition of Moody's Non-Senior Secured Loan.

(p) If the Issuer (or the Portfolio Manager on behalf of the Issuer) is notified by the administrative agent or other withholding agent or otherwise for the syndicate of lenders in respect of any Revolving Collateral Obligation, Delayed Drawdown Collateral Obligation or Pre-funded Letter of Credit or other letter of credit that amounts associated therewith are subject to withholding tax imposed by any jurisdiction, the applicable Collateral Quality Test, the Coverage Tests and the Interest Reinvestment Test shall be calculated thereafter net of the full amount of such withholding tax unless the related obligor is required to make "gross-up" payments to the Issuer that cover the full amount of any such withholding tax on an after-tax basis pursuant to the underlying instruments with respect thereto.

(q) For all purposes (including calculation of the Coverage Tests, and the Interest Reinvestment Test), the Principal Balance of a Revolving Collateral Obligation or a Delayed Drawdown Collateral Obligation will include all unfunded commitments that have not been irrevocably reduced or withdrawn.

(r) For purposes of calculating compliance with any tests, ratios, or calculations under this Indenture, the trade date (and not the settlement date) with respect to any acquisition or disposition of a Collateral Obligation or Eligible Investment shall be used to determine whether and when such acquisition or disposition has occurred.

(s) For reporting purposes and for purposes of calculating the Coverage Tests, the Investment Criteria and the requirements of Section 12.2(b) (Purchase of Additional Collateral Obligations), assets held by any ETB Subsidiary shall be treated as Equity Securities owned by the Issuer (and the equity interest in such ETB Subsidiary shall not be included in such calculation).

(t) For purposes of calculating the Weighted Average Fixed Coupon and Weighted Average Floating Spread, only the interest payable in cash, including Deferrable Cash-Pay Interest with respect to a Partial Deferrable Security, shall be included in such calculation.

(c) Book Entry Provisions. This Section 2.2(c) (Forms of Notes) shall apply only to Global Notes deposited with or on behalf of DTC.

The provisions of the "Operating Procedures of the Euroclear System" of Euroclear and the "Terms and Conditions Governing Use of Participants" of Clearstream, respectively, will be applicable to the Global Notes insofar as interests in such Global Notes are held by the Agent Members of Euroclear or Clearstream, as the case may be.

Agent Members shall have no rights under this Indenture with respect to any Global Notes held on their behalf by the Trustee, as custodian for DTC and DTC may be treated by the Co-Issuers, the Trustee, and any agent of the Co-Issuers or the Trustee as the absolute owner of such Note for all purposes whatsoever. Notwithstanding the foregoing, nothing herein shall prevent the Co-Issuers, the Trustee, or any agent of the Co-Issuers or the Trustee, from giving effect to any written certification, proxy or other authorization furnished by DTC or impair, as between DTC and its Agent Members, the operation of customary practices governing the exercise of the rights of a Holder of any Note.

(d) Certificated Securities. Except as provided in Section 2.11 (Certificated Notes) hereof, owners of beneficial interests in Global Notes will not be entitled to receive physical delivery of Certificated Notes.

Section 2.3. Authorized Amount; Stated Maturity; Denominations. The Aggregate Outstanding Amount of Secured Notes and the Subordinated Notes that may be authenticated and delivered under this Indenture is limited to $525,500,000 Aggregate Outstanding Amount of Notes, except for Deferred Interest with respect to the Deferred Interest Notes, Additional Subordinated Notes issued pursuant to Section 2.4 (Additional Notes) and Notes authenticated and delivered upon registration of transfer of, or in exchange for, or in lieu of, other Notes pursuant to Section 2.6 (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange), 2.7 (Mutilated, Defaced, Destroyed, Lost or Stolen Note) or 8.5 (Reference in Notes to Supplemental Indentures) and Notes issued pursuant to supplemental indentures in accordance with Article 8. Such Notes shall be divided into the Classes, having the designations, original principal amounts and other characteristics as follows:

The Combination Note will not bear interest at a stated rate, but will be entitled to receive interest with respect to the Underlying Classes. The ranking of the Combination Notes is determined by reference to the Underlying Classes. The Stated Maturity of the Combination Note is determined by reference to the Underlying Classes. Reference must be made to the Underlying Classes to determine whether a particular Component of the Combination Notes is a Deferrable Interest Note.

(2) For the definition of LIBOR, see Exhibit G.

(3) The Issuer will obtain initial ratings for the Class X Notes, the Class A-1 Notes and the Class A-2 Notes from both Moody's and S&P, and will obtain initial ratings for all Secured Notes from S&P.

(4) The Subordinated Notes do not bear interest at a stated rate but will receive distributions on each Payment Date in accordance with the Priority of Payments.

(5) The Class X Notes will be pari passu to the Class A-1 Notes and the Class A-2 Notes interest payments and in certain circumstances will be senior in right of principal payment to the Class A-1 Notes and the Class A-2 Notes. The Class A-1 Notes will be pari passu to the Class A-2 Notes. Interest payments on the Class A-2B Notes will be subordinated in all respects to interest payments on the Class A-2A Notes. Principal payments of the Class A-2B Notes will be subordinated in all respects to principal payments of the Class A-2A Notes.

(6) These represent the expected stated maturity, index, index maturity and interest to be paid on the Combination Note based on the stated maturity, index, index maturity and interest rates of the Underlying Classes. The Initial Rating by S&P of the Combination Note is with respect to the ultimate repayment of principal and interest at a rate of LIBOR plus 1.227% per annum by the Stated Maturity.

Section 2.4. Additional Notes. (a) At any time, the Applicable Issuers may issue Additional Subordinated Notes; provided, that the following conditions are met as certified to the Trustee by the Issuer:

(i) such issuance is approved by (x) the Holders of at least 66⅔% of the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Subordinated Notes, (y) the Portfolio Manager and (z) after the Effective Date only, at least a Majority of the Controlling Class;

(ii) such issuance may not exceed 100% of the original outstanding amount of the Subordinated Notes;

(iii) the terms of the Subordinated Notes issued must be identical to the respective terms of previously issued Subordinated Notes;

(iv) an opinion of tax counsel of nationally recognized standing in the United States experienced in such matters shall be delivered to the Trustee to the effect that (1) such issuance will not result in the Issuer becoming subject to U.S. federal income taxation with respect to its net income, (2) such issuance would not cause the holders or beneficial owners of Secured Notes previously issued to be deemed to have sold or exchanged such Notes under Section 1001 of the Code and (3) such issuance would not adversely affect the tax characterization of any Outstanding Notes that was characterized as debt at the time of issuance; provided, that such opinions described in clauses (2) and (3) shall not be required with respect to any Class if 100% of the Holders of such Class have consented to a waiver of such requirement; and

(v) after giving effect to the issuance of Additional Subordinated Notes, each Overcollateralization Ratio Test for each Class of Notes is satisfied.

(b) The Additional Subordinated Notes will rank pari passu in all respects with the initial Subordinated Notes.

(c) Any Additional Subordinated Notes issued pursuant to this Section 2.4 (Additional Notes) will, to the extent reasonably practicable, be offered first to Holders of the Subordinated Notes, in such amounts as are necessary to preserve their pro rata holdings of Subordinated Notes.

(d) Any Additional Subordinated Notes may be offered at prices that differ from the applicable initial offering price.

(e) The net proceeds of any Additional Subordinated Notes may be designated as Interest Proceeds or Principal Proceeds by the Portfolio Manager.

Section 2.5. Execution, Authentication, Delivery and Dating. The Notes shall be executed on behalf of each of the Applicable Issuers by one of their respective Authorized Officers. The signature of such Authorized Officer on the Notes may be manual or facsimile.

Notes bearing the manual or facsimile signatures of individuals who were at any time the Authorized Officers of the Issuer or the Co-Issuer, as applicable, shall bind the Issuer and the Co-Issuer, notwithstanding the fact that such individuals or any of them have ceased to hold such offices prior to the authentication and delivery of such Notes or did not hold such offices at the date of issuance of such Notes.

At any time and from time to time after the execution and delivery of this Indenture, the Issuer and the Co-Issuer may deliver Notes executed by the Applicable Issuers to the Trustee or the Authenticating Agent for authentication and the Trustee or the Authenticating Agent, upon Issuer Order, shall authenticate and deliver such Notes as provided in this Indenture and not otherwise.

Each Note authenticated and delivered by the Trustee or the Authenticating Agent upon Issuer Order on the Closing Date shall be dated as of the Closing Date. All other Notes that are authenticated after the Closing Date for any other purpose under this Indenture shall be dated the date of their authentication.

Notes issued upon transfer, exchange or replacement of other Notes shall be issued in authorized denominations reflecting the original Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Notes so transferred, exchanged or replaced, but shall represent only the current Outstanding principal amount of the Notes so transferred, exchanged or replaced. In the event that any Note is divided into more than one Note in accordance with this Article 2, the original principal amount of such Note shall be proportionately divided among the Notes delivered in exchange therefor and shall be deemed to be the original aggregate principal amount of such subsequently issued Notes.

No Note shall be entitled to any benefit under this Indenture or be valid or obligatory for any purpose, unless there appears on such Note a Certificate of Authentication, substantially in the form provided for herein, executed by the Trustee or by the Authenticating Agent by the manual signature of one of their authorized signatories, and such certificate upon any Note shall be conclusive evidence, and the only evidence, that such Note has been duly authenticated and delivered hereunder.

Section 2.6. Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange. (a) The Issuer shall cause to be kept a register (the "Register") at the office of the Trustee in which, subject to such reasonable regulations as it may prescribe, the Issuer shall provide for the registration of Notes and the registration of transfers of Notes. The Trustee is hereby initially appointed "Registrar" for the purpose of registering Notes and transfers of such Notes with respect to the Register maintained in the United States as herein provided. Upon any resignation or removal of the Registrar, the Issuer shall promptly appoint a successor or, in the absence of such appointment, assume the duties of Registrar.

If a Person other than the Trustee is appointed by the Issuer as Registrar, the Issuer will give the Trustee prompt written notice of the appointment of a Registrar and of the location, and any change in the location, of the Register, and the Trustee shall have the right to inspect the Register at all reasonable times and to obtain copies thereof and the Trustee shall have the right to rely upon a certificate executed on behalf of the Registrar by an Officer thereof as to the names and addresses of the Holders of the Notes and the principal or face amounts and numbers of such Notes. Upon request at any time the Registrar shall provide to the Issuer, the Portfolio Manager, the Placement Agents or any Holder of Notes a current list of Holders as reflected in the Register.

Subject to this Section 2.6 (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange), upon surrender for registration of transfer of any Notes at the office or agency of the Co-Issuers to be maintained as provided in Section 7.2 (Maintenance of Office or Agency), the Applicable Issuers shall execute, and the Trustee shall authenticate and deliver, in the name of the designated transferee or transferees, one or more new Notes of any authorized denomination and of a like aggregate principal or face amount. The Trustee shall provide notice of any such transfer to the Placement Agents.

At the option of the Holder, Notes may be exchanged for Notes of like terms, in any authorized denominations and of like aggregate principal or face amount, upon surrender of the Notes to be exchanged at such office or agency. Whenever any Note is surrendered for exchange, the Applicable Issuers shall execute, and the Trustee shall authenticate and deliver, the Notes that the Holder making the exchange is entitled to receive.

All Notes issued and authenticated upon any registration of transfer or exchange of Notes shall be the valid obligations of the Issuer and, solely in the case of the Co-Issued Notes, the Co-Issuer, evidencing the same debt (to the extent they evidence debt), and entitled to the same benefits under this Indenture as the Notes surrendered upon such registration of transfer or exchange.

Every Note presented or surrendered for registration of transfer or exchange shall be duly endorsed, or be accompanied by a written instrument of transfer in form satisfactory to the Registrar duly executed by the Holder thereof or his attorney duly authorized in writing.

No service charge shall be made to a Holder for any registration of transfer or exchange of Notes, but the Trustee may require payment of a sum sufficient to cover any tax or other governmental charge payable in connection therewith. The Trustee shall be permitted to request such evidence reasonably satisfactory to it documenting the identity and/or signature of the transferor and the transferee, with such signature guaranteed by an "eligible guarantor institution" meeting the requirements of the Registrar, which requirements include membership or participation in Securities Transfer Agents Medallion Program ("STAMP") or such other "signature guarantee program" as may be determined by the Registrar in addition to, or in substitution for, STAMP, all in accordance with the Exchange Act.

(b) No Note may be sold or transferred (including, without limitation, by pledge or hypothecation) unless such sale or transfer is exempt from the registration requirements of the Securities Act, is exempt from the registration requirements under applicable state securities laws and will not cause either of the Co-Issuers to become subject to the requirement that it register as an investment company under the Investment Company Act.

(c) (i) No transfer of any ERISA Limited Note will be effective, and the Trustee will not recognize any such transfer, if it would result in 25% or more of the value of any Class of ERISA Limited Notes being held by Benefit Plan Investors (the "25% Limitation"). For purposes of these calculations and all other calculations required by this subsection, any ERISA Limited Notes held by a Person (other than a Benefit Plan Investor) that has discretionary authority or control with respect to the assets of the Co-Issuers or that provides investment advice for a fee (direct or indirect) with respect to such assets (or any "affiliate" of such a Person (as defined in 29 C.F.R. Section 2510.3-101(f)(3)) (a "Controlling Person"), the Trustee, the Portfolio Manager, the Placement Agents and their respective affiliates shall be disregarded and not treated as being Outstanding. In addition, if any Holder of ERISA Limited Notes (a) informs the Trustee that as a result of a proposed transfer of interests in, or securities issued by, such Holder, all or a specified portion of the ERISA Limited Notes owned by such Holder would be deemed to be held by a Benefit Plan Investor and (b) requests the Trustee to determine and notify such Holder whether the 25% Limitation would be exceeded after giving effect to such transfer, then the Trustee shall make such determination, subject to the last sentence of this clause (i), and notify such Holder accordingly. Each Holder of ERISA Limited Notes shall be required to covenant that it will inform the Trustee of any such transfer, will not permit any such transfer that would cause the 25% Limitation to be exceeded to become effective, and will notify the Trustee of the effectiveness of any transfer that is not prohibited by this paragraph. After it is notified of the effectiveness of any transfer pursuant to the foregoing sentence, the Trustee shall regard the ERISA Limited Notes held by such Holder (or specified portion thereof) as being held by a Benefit Plan Investor in future calculations of the 25% Limitation made pursuant to this Indenture unless subsequently notified by such Holder that such Notes (or specified portion thereof) would no longer be deemed to be held by Benefit Plan Investors. The Trustee shall be entitled to rely exclusively upon the information set forth in the face of the transfer certificates received pursuant to the terms of this Section 2.6 (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange) and only Notes that a Bank Officer of the Trustee actually knows to be so held shall be so disregarded.

(d) The Trustee shall not be responsible for ascertaining whether any transfer complies with, or for otherwise monitoring or determining compliance with, the requirements or terms of the Securities Act, applicable state securities laws, ERISA, the Code or the Investment Company Act; except that if a certificate is specifically required by the terms of this Section 2.6 (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange) to be provided to the Trustee by a prospective transferor or transferee, the Trustee shall be under a duty to receive and examine the same to determine whether it conforms substantially on its face to the applicable requirements of this Section 2.6 (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange).

(e) For so long as any of the Notes are Outstanding, the Issuer shall not issue or permit the transfer of any shares of the Issuer to U.S. Persons and the Co-Issuer shall not issue or permit the transfer of any membership interests of the Co-Issuer to U.S. Persons.

(f) So long as a Global Note remains Outstanding and is held by or on behalf of DTC, transfers of such Global Note, in whole or in part, shall only be made in accordance with Section 2.2(b) (Forms of Notes) and this Section 2.6(f) (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange). Subject to clauses (i), (ii) and (iii) of this Section 2.6(f) (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange), transfers of a Global Note shall be limited to transfers of such Global Note in whole, but not in part, to nominees of DTC or to a successor DTC or such successor's nominee.

(i) Rule 144A Global Note to Regulation S Global Secured Note. If a holder of a beneficial interest in a Rule 144A Global Note deposited with DTC wishes at any time to exchange its interest in such Rule 144A Global Note for an interest in the corresponding Regulation S Global Secured Note, or to transfer its interest in such Rule 144A Global Note to a Person who wishes to take delivery thereof in the form of an interest in the corresponding Regulation S Global Secured Note, such holder, provided such holder or, in the case of a transfer, the transferee is not a U.S. person and is acquiring such interest in an offshore transaction, may, subject to the immediately succeeding sentence and the rules and procedures of DTC, exchange or transfer, or cause the exchange or transfer of, such interest for an equivalent beneficial interest in the corresponding Regulation S Global Secured Note. Upon receipt by the Trustee or Registrar of (A) instructions given in accordance with DTC's procedures from an Agent Member directing the Trustee or Registrar to credit or cause to be credited a beneficial interest in the corresponding Regulation S Global Secured Note, but not less than the minimum denomination applicable to such holder's Notes, in an amount equal to the beneficial interest in the Rule 144A Global Note to be exchanged or transferred, (B) a written order given in accordance with DTC's procedures containing information regarding the participant account of DTC and the Euroclear or Clearstream account to be credited with such increase and (C) a certificate in the form of Exhibit B1 attached hereto given by the holder of such beneficial interest stating that the exchange or transfer of such interest has been made in compliance with the transfer restrictions applicable to the Global Notes, including that the holder or the transferee, as applicable, is not a U.S. person, and in an offshore transaction pursuant to and in accordance with Regulation S, then the Trustee or Registrar shall instruct DTC to reduce the principal amount of the Rule 144A Global Note and to increase the principal amount of the Regulation S Global Secured Note by the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the beneficial interest in the Rule 144A Global Note to be exchanged or transferred, and to credit or cause to be credited to the securities account of the Person specified in such instructions a beneficial interest in the corresponding Regulation S Global Secured Note equal to the reduction in the principal amount of the Rule 144A Global Note.

(ii) Regulation S Global Secured Note to Rule 144A Global Note. If a holder of a beneficial interest in a Regulation S Global Secured Note deposited with DTC wishes at any time to exchange its interest in such Regulation S Global Secured Note for an interest in the corresponding Rule 144A Global Note or to transfer its interest in such Regulation S Global Secured Note to a Person who wishes to take delivery thereof in the form of an interest in the corresponding Rule 144A Global Note, such holder may, subject to the immediately succeeding sentence and the rules and procedures of Euroclear, Clearstream and/or DTC, as the case may be, exchange or transfer, or cause the exchange or transfer of, such interest for an equivalent beneficial interest in the corresponding Rule 144A Global Note. Upon receipt by the Trustee or Registrar of (A) instructions from Euroclear, Clearstream and/or DTC, as the case may be, directing the Trustee or Registrar to cause to be credited a beneficial interest in the corresponding Rule 144A Global Note in an amount equal to the beneficial interest in such Regulation S Global Secured Note, but not less than the minimum denomination applicable to such holder's Notes to be exchanged or transferred, such instructions to contain information regarding the participant account with DTC to be credited with such increase and (B) a certificate in the form of Exhibit B2 attached hereto given by the holder of such beneficial interest and stating, among other things, that, in the case of a transfer, the Person transferring such interest in such Regulation S Global Secured Note reasonably believes that the Person acquiring such interest in a Rule 144A Global Note is a Qualified Institutional Buyer, is obtaining such beneficial interest in a transaction meeting the requirements of Rule 144A and in accordance with any applicable securities laws of any state of the United States or any other jurisdiction, and is also a Qualified Purchaser, then the Trustee or Registrar will instruct DTC to reduce, or cause to be reduced, the Regulation S Global Secured Note by the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the beneficial interest in the Regulation S Global Secured Note to be transferred or exchanged and the Trustee or Registrar shall instruct DTC, concurrently with such reduction, to credit or cause to be credited to the securities account of the Person specified in such instructions a beneficial interest in the corresponding Rule 144A Global Note equal to the reduction in the principal amount of the Regulation S Global Secured Note.

(iii) Regulation S Global Subordinated Note to Certificated Subordinated Note. If a holder of a beneficial interest in a Regulation S Global Subordinated Note deposited with DTC wishes at any time to transfer its interest in such Regulation S Global Subordinated Note to a Person who wishes to take delivery thereof in the form of a Certificated Subordinated Note, such holder may, subject to the immediately succeeding sentence and the rules and procedures of Euroclear, Clearstream and/or DTC, as the case may be, transfer, or cause the transfer of, such interest for a Certificated Subordinated Note. Upon receipt by the Registrar of (A) certificates substantially in the form of Exhibits B4 and B6 attached hereto executed by the transferee and (B) appropriate instructions from DTC, if required, the Registrar will approve the instructions at DTC to reduce, or cause to be reduced, the Regulation S Global Subordinated Note by the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the beneficial interest in the Regulation S Global Subordinated Note to be transferred, record the transfer in the Register in accordance with Section 2.6(a) (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange) and upon execution by the Issuer and authentication and delivery by the Trustee, one or more corresponding Certificated Subordinated Notes, registered in the names specified in the instructions in clause (B) above, in principal amounts designated by the transferee (the aggregate of such principal amounts being equal to the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the interest in such Regulation S Global Subordinated Notes transferred by the transferor), and in authorized denominations.

(iv) Other Exchanges. In the event that a Global Note is exchanged for Notes in definitive registered form without interest coupons pursuant to Section 2.11 (Certificated Notes) hereof, such Notes may be exchanged for one another only in accordance with such procedures as are substantially consistent with the provisions above (including certification requirements intended to insure that such transfers are made only to Holders who are Qualified Purchasers and comply with Rule 144A or are to persons who are not U.S. persons who are non-U.S. residents (as determined for purposes of the Investment Company Act), and otherwise comply with Regulation S under the Securities Act, as the case may be), and as may be from time to time adopted by the Co-Issuers and the Trustee.

(g) So long as a Certificated Note remains Outstanding, transfers of a Certificated Note, in whole or in part, shall only be made in accordance with this Section 2.6(g) (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange).

(i) Transfer and Exchange of Certificated Secured Note to Certificated Secured Note. If a Holder of a Certificated Secured Note wishes at any time to transfer such Certificated Secured Note to a Person who wishes to take delivery thereof in the form of one or more Certificated Secured Notes of the same Class, such Holder may transfer or cause the transfer of such Note as provided below. Upon receipt by the Trustee or the Registrar of (A) such Holder's Certificated Secured Note properly endorsed for assignment to the transferee and (B) a certificate in the form of Exhibit B3 attached hereto given by the transferee of such Certificated Secured Note, then the Registrar shall cancel such Certificated Secured Note in accordance with Section 2.10 (Cancellation), record the transfer in the Register in accordance with Section 2.6(a) (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange) and upon execution by the Applicable Issuers authenticate and deliver one or more Certificated Secured Notes bearing the same designation as the Certificated Secured Notes endorsed for transfer, registered in the names specified in the assignment described in clause (A) above, in principal or face amounts designated by the transferee (the aggregate of such principal or face amounts being equal to the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Certificated Secured Notes surrendered by the transferor), and in authorized denominations. Certificated Secured Notes may be exchanged in the manner set forth in Section 2.6(g)(iv) (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange).

(ii) Transfer and Exchange of Certificated Subordinated Note to Certificated Subordinated Note. Upon receipt by the Registrar of (A) a Holder's Certificated Subordinated Note properly endorsed for assignment to the transferee and (B) certificates substantially in the form of Exhibits B4 and B6 attached hereto (which may be in the form of a subscription agreement containing substantially the representations in Exhibits B4 and B6) given by the transferee of such Certificated Subordinated Note, then the Registrar shall cancel such Certificated Subordinated Note in accordance with Section 2.10 (Cancellation), record the transfer in the Register in accordance with Section 2.6(a) (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange) and upon execution by the Issuer authenticate and deliver one or more Certificated Subordinated Notes bearing the same designation as the Certificated Subordinated Note endorsed for transfer, registered in the names specified in the assignment described in clause (A) above, in principal amounts designated by the transferee (the aggregate of such principal amounts being equal to the aggregate principal amount of the Certificated Subordinated Note surrendered by the transferor), and in authorized denominations. Certificated Subordinated Notes may be exchanged in the manner set forth in Section 2.6(g)(iv) (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange).

(iii) Transfer of Certificated Subordinated Note to Regulation S Global Subordinated Note. If a holder of a Certificated Subordinated Note wishes at any time to transfer such Certificated Subordinated Note to a Person who wishes to take delivery thereof in the form of a beneficial interest in a Regulation S Global Subordinated Note, such holder may, subject to the rules and procedures of Euroclear, Clearstream and/or DTC, as the case may be, exchange or transfer, or cause the exchange or transfer of, such Certificated Subordinated Note for a beneficial interest in a Regulation S Global Subordinated Note. Upon receipt by the Registrar of (A) a holder's Certificated Subordinated Note properly endorsed for assignment to the transferee, (B) a certificate substantially in the form of Exhibit B5 attached hereto executed by the transferor, (C) instructions given in accordance with Euroclear, Clearstream or DTC's procedures, as the case may be, from an Agent Member to instruct DTC to cause to be credited a beneficial interest in the Regulation S Global Subordinated Note in an amount equal to the Certificated Subordinated Note to be transferred or exchanged and (D) a written order given in accordance with DTC's procedures containing information regarding the participant's account at DTC and/or Euroclear or Clearstream to be credited with such increase, the Registrar shall cancel such Certificated Subordinated Note in accordance with Section 2.10 (Cancellation), record the transfer in the Register in accordance with Section 2.6(a) (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange) and approve the instructions at DTC, concurrently with such cancellation, to credit or cause to be credited to the securities account of the Person specified in such instructions a beneficial interest in the Regulation S Global Subordinated Note equal to the principal amount of the Certificated Subordinated Note transferred or exchanged.

(iv) Exchange of Certificated Notes. If a Holder of one or more Certificated Notes wishes at any time to exchange such Certificated Notes for one or more Certificated Notes of the same Class of different principal amounts, such holder may exchange or cause the exchange of such Certificated Note for Certificated Notes bearing the same designation as the Certificated Notes endorsed for exchange. Upon receipt by the Applicable Issuers and the Trustee or the Registrar of (x) such Holder's Certificated Notes properly endorsed for such exchange and (y) written instructions from such Holder designating the number and principal or face amounts of the Certificated Notes to be issued (the aggregate of such principal or face amounts being equal to the aggregate principal or face amount of the Certificated Notes surrendered for exchange), then the Registrar shall cancel such Certificated Notes in accordance with Section 2.10 (Cancellation), record the exchange in the Register in accordance with Section 2.6(a) (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange) and upon execution by the Applicable Issuers authenticate and deliver one or more Certificated Notes bearing the same designation as the Certificated Notes endorsed for exchange, registered in the same names as the Certificated Notes surrendered by such Holder, in different principal or face amounts designated by such Holder, and in authorized denominations.

(v) Transfer of Certificated Secured Notes to Regulation S Global Note or Rule 144A Global Note. If a Holder of a Certificated Secured Note wishes at any time to transfer such Certificated Secured Note to a Person who wishes to take delivery thereof in the form of a beneficial interest in a Regulation S Global Note or Rule 144A Global Note, such Holder may, subject to the rules and procedures of DTC, exchange or transfer, or cause the exchange or transfer of, such Certificated Secured Note for a beneficial interest in a Regulation S Global Note or Rule 144A Global Note, as applicable. Upon receipt by the Registrar of (A) a Holder's Certificated Secured Note properly endorsed for assignment to the transferee, (B) a certificate substantially in the form of Exhibit B3 attached hereto executed by the transferor, (C) instructions given in accordance with Euroclear, Clearstream or DTC's procedures, as the case may be, from an Agent Member to instruct DTC to cause to be credited a beneficial interest in the Regulation S Global Note or Rule 144A Global Note, as applicable, in an amount equal to the Certificated Secured Note to be transferred or exchanged and (D) a written order given in accordance with DTC's procedures containing information regarding the participant's account at DTC and/or Euroclear or Clearstream, as applicable, to be credited with such increase, the Registrar shall cancel such Certificated Secured Note in accordance with Section 2.10

(Cancellation), record the transfer in the Register in accordance with Section 2.6(a) (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange) and approve the instructions at DTC, concurrently with such cancellation, to credit or cause to be credited to the securities account of the Person specified in such instructions a beneficial interest in the Regulation S Global Note or Rule 144A Global Note, as applicable, equal to the principal amount of the Certificated Secured Note transferred or exchanged

(h) If Notes are issued upon the transfer, exchange or replacement of Notes bearing the applicable legends set forth in the applicable part of Exhibit A hereto, and if a request is made to remove such applicable legend on such Notes, the Notes so issued shall bear such applicable legend, or such applicable legend shall not be removed, as the case may be, unless there is delivered to the Trustee and the Applicable Issuers such satisfactory evidence, which may include an Opinion of Counsel acceptable to them, as may be reasonably required by the Applicable Issuers (and which shall by its terms permit reliance by the Trustee), to the effect that neither such applicable legend nor the restrictions on transfer set forth therein are required to ensure that transfers thereof comply with the provisions of the Securities Act, the Investment Company Act, ERISA or the Code. Upon provision of such satisfactory evidence, the Trustee or its Authenticating Agent, at the written direction of the Applicable Issuers shall, after due execution by the Applicable Issuers authenticate and deliver Notes that do not bear such applicable legend.

(i) Each Person who becomes a beneficial owner of Notes of a Class represented by an interest in a Global Note will be deemed to have represented and agreed as follows:

(i) In connection with the purchase of such Notes: (A) none of the Co-Issuers, the Portfolio Manager, the Trustee, the Collateral Administrator, the Placement Agents or any of their respective Affiliates is acting as a fiduciary or financial or investment adviser for such beneficial owner; (B) such beneficial owner is not relying (for purposes of making any investment decision or otherwise) upon any advice, counsel or representations (whether written or oral) of the Co-Issuers, the Portfolio Manager, the Trustee, the Collateral Administrator or the Placement Agents other than any statements in the final offering circular for such Notes, and such beneficial owner has read and understands such final offering circular; (C) such beneficial owner has consulted with its own legal, regulatory, tax, business, investment, financial and accounting advisers to the extent it has deemed necessary and has made its own investment decisions (including decisions regarding the suitability of any transaction pursuant to this Indenture) based upon its own judgment and upon any advice from such advisers as it has deemed necessary and not upon any view expressed by the Co-Issuers, the Portfolio Manager, the Trustee, the Collateral Administrator or the Placement Agents; (D) such beneficial owner is either (1) (except in the case of the Subordinated Notes) both (x) a Qualified Institutional Buyer that is not a broker-dealer which owns and invests on a discretionary basis less than $25 million in securities of issuers that are not affiliated persons of the dealer and is not a plan referred to in paragraph (a)(1)(d) or (a)(1)(e) of Rule 144A or a trust fund referred to in paragraph (a)(1)(f) of Rule 144A that holds the assets of such a plan, if investment decisions with respect to the plan are made by beneficiaries of the plan and (y) either (i) a Qualified Purchaser or (ii) (in the case of the Subordinated Notes only) a Knowledgeable Employee with respect to the Issuer; or corporations, partnerships, limited liability companies or other entities (other than trusts) each shareholder, partner, member or other equity owner of which is either a Knowledgeable Employee or a Qualified Purchaser or (2) not a U.S. person and is acquiring the Notes in an offshore transaction in reliance on the exemption from registration provided by Regulation S; (E) such beneficial owner is acquiring its interest in such Notes for its own account; (F) such beneficial owner was not formed for the purpose of investing in such Notes; (G) such beneficial owner understands that the Issuer may receive a list of participants holding interests in the Notes from one or more book-entry depositories; and (H) such beneficial owner will hold and transfer at least the minimum denomination of such Notes and provide notice of the relevant transfer restrictions to subsequent transferees; provided, that in the case of clauses (A), (B) and (C) above, the Portfolio Manager or an Affiliate of the Portfolio Manager has acted as financial and investment advisor to certain accounts for the benefit of certain beneficial owners of Notes managed by the Portfolio Manager or such Affiliate of the Portfolio Manager and in that capacity has provided, and in the future may provide, advice to such beneficial owners of Notes.

(ii) (a) In the case of the Secured Notes other than the Class E Notes and Class F Notes, on each day from the date on which such beneficial owner acquires its interest in such Secured Notes through and including the date on which such beneficial owner disposes of its interest in such Secured Notes that either (x) it is neither a Benefit Plan Investor nor a governmental, church, non-U.S. or other plan which is subject to any federal, state, local or non-U.S. law that is substantially similar to the provisions of Section 406 of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code or (y) its acquisition, holding and disposition of such Secured Note will not constitute or result in a non-exempt prohibited transaction under Section 406 of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code (or, in the case of a governmental, church, non-U.S. or other plan, a non-exempt violation of any substantially similar law) and (b) in the case of Class E Notes and Class F Notes, on each day from the date on which such beneficial owner acquires its interest in such Class E Note or Class F Note through and including the date on which such beneficial owner disposes of its interest in such Class E Note or Class F Note, that (1) it is not a Benefit Plan Investor and (2) if it is a governmental, church, non-U.S. or other plan that is subject to any federal, state, local or non-U.S. law that is substantially similar to the provisions of Title I of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code, its acquisition, holding and disposition of such Class E Note or Class F Note will not constitute or result in a non-exempt violation under any such substantially similar law. Any purported transfer of a Secured Note, or any interest therein to a purchaser or transferee that does not comply with the requirements specified in the applicable documents will be of no force and effect and shall be null and void ab initio.

Each purchaser of Regulation S Global Subordinated Notes from the Issuer in the initial offering will be required to represent and warrant, with certificates substantially in the form of Exhibit B4 hereto, with respect to each day it holds such Regulation S Global Subordinated Note or any beneficial interest therein, (1) whether or not the purchaser or transferee is a Benefit Plan Investor, (2) whether or not the purchaser or transferee is a Controlling Person and (3) (a) if it is a Benefit Plan Investor, its acquisition, holding and disposition of Regulation S Global Subordinated Notes will not constitute or result in a non-exempt prohibited transaction under Section 406 of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code or (b) if it is a governmental, church, non-U.S. or other plan which is subject to any federal, state, local or non-U.S. law that is substantially similar to the provisions of Title I of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code, its acquisition, holding and disposition of Regulation S Global Subordinated Notes will not constitute or result in a non-exempt violation under any such substantially similar law. Each purchaser from the Issuer in the initial offering of a Regulation S Global Subordinated Note that fails to provide the certification described in the prior sentence will be deemed to have represented and warranted, with respect to each day it holds such Regulation S Global Subordinated Note or any beneficial interest therein, that (1) such purchaser is not a Benefit Plan Investor or Controlling Person and (2) if the purchaser is a governmental, church, non-U.S. or other plan that is subject to any federal, state, local or non-U.S. law that is substantially similar to the provisions of Title I of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code, its acquisition, holding and disposition of Regulation S Global Subordinated Notes will not constitute or result in a non-exempt violation under any such substantially similar law. Such purchaser or transferee, as applicable, acknowledges that no Regulation S Global Subordinated Notes may be acquired by any purchaser or transferee, as applicable, that is a Benefit Plan Investor or Controlling Person if it would cause 25% or more of the value of the Subordinated Notes to be held by Benefit Plan Investors. Each purchaser or transferee of Regulation S Global Subordinated Notes from persons other than from the Issuer in the initial offering will be deemed to have represented and warranted, with respect to each day it holds such Regulation S Global Subordinated Note or any beneficial interest therein, that (1) such purchaser or transferee is not a Benefit Plan Investor or Controlling Person and (2) if the purchaser or transferee is a governmental, church, non-U.S. or other plan that is subject to any federal, state, local or non-U.S. law that is substantially similar to the provisions of Title I of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code, its acquisition, holding and disposition of Regulation S Global Subordinated Notes will not constitute or result in a non-exempt violation under any such substantially similar law. No Regulation S Global Subordinated Notes may be acquired from persons other than from the Issuer in the initial offering by Benefit Plan Investors or Controlling Persons. Any purported transfer of the Regulation S Global Subordinated Notes, or any interest therein, to a purchaser or transferee that does not comply with the requirements of this paragraph will be of no force and effect, shall be null and void ab initio and the Issuer will have the right to direct the purchaser to transfer the Subordinated Notes, or any interest therein, as applicable, to a person who meets the foregoing criteria.

(iii) Such beneficial owner understands that such Notes are being offered only in a transaction not involving any public offering in the United States within the meaning of the Securities Act, such Notes have not been and will not be registered under the Securities Act, and, if in the future such beneficial owner decides to offer, resell, pledge or otherwise transfer such Notes, such Notes may be offered, resold, pledged or otherwise transferred only in accordance with the provisions of this Indenture and the legend on such Notes. Such beneficial owner acknowledges that no representation has been made as to the availability of any exemption under the Securities Act or any state securities laws for resale of the Notes. Such beneficial owner understands that neither of the Co-Issuers has been registered under the Investment Company Act, and that the Co-Issuers are exempt from registration as such by virtue of Section 3(c)(7) of the Investment Company Act.

(iv) It is aware that, except as otherwise provided in this Indenture, the Notes being sold to it, if any, in reliance on Regulation S will be represented by one or more Regulation S Global Notes, and that beneficial interests therein may be held only through Euroclear or Clearstream.

(v) The holder will provide notice to each Person to whom it proposes to transfer any interest in the Notes of the transfer restrictions and representations set forth in this Section 2.6 (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange), including the Exhibits referenced herein.

(j) Each Person who becomes an owner of a Certificated Subordinated Note will be required to make the representations and agreements set forth in Exhibit B4 and Exhibit B6.

(k) Any purported transfer of a Note not in accordance with this Section 2.6 (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange) shall be null and void and shall not be given effect for any purpose whatsoever.

(l) To the extent required by the Issuer, as determined by the Issuer or the Portfolio Manager on behalf of the Issuer, the Issuer may, upon written notice to the Trustee, impose additional transfer restrictions on the Subordinated Notes to comply with the Uniting and Strengthening America by Providing Appropriate Tools Required to Intercept and Obstruct Terrorism Act of 2001 and other similar laws or regulations, including, without limitation, requiring each transferee of a Subordinated Note to make representations to the Issuer in connection with such compliance.

(m) Each purchaser has read the summary of the U.S. federal income tax considerations under the heading "Certain Tax Considerations" in the Offering Circular. Each purchaser will treat the characterization of the Notes as debt or equity for U.S. tax purposes in a manner consistent with the treatment of such Notes by the Issuer as described under the heading "Certain Tax Considerations" in the Offering Circular and will take no action inconsistent with such treatment.

(n) Each purchaser understands that the Issuer may require certification acceptable to it (i) to permit the Issuer to make payments to it without, or at a reduced rate of, withholding or (ii) to enable the Issuer to qualify for a reduced rate of withholding in any jurisdiction from or through which the Issuer receives payments on its assets. Each purchaser agrees to provide any such certification that is requested by the Issuer.

(o) Each Holder and beneficial owner of a Note that is not a U.S. Person will make, or by acquiring such Note or an interest therein will be deemed to make, a representation to the effect that (a) either (i) it is not a bank (or an affiliate of a bank) extending credit pursuant to a loan agreement entered into in the ordinary course of its trade or business (within the meaning of Section 881(c)(3)(A) of the Code) or (ii) it is a Person that is eligible for benefits under an income tax treaty with the United States that eliminates U.S. federal income taxation of U.S. source interest not attributable to a permanent establishment in the United States and (b) it is not purchasing the Note in order to reduce its U.S. federal income tax liability pursuant to a tax avoidance plan.

(p) Any holder may assign its voting rights to one or more assignees pursuant to agreements entered into between such holder and the assignees. Holders shall not assign voting rights to a person that has no right to cashflows from the applicable Notes (directly or indirectly) or retain voting rights when such holders have no remaining right to cashflow from the applicable Notes (directly or indirectly).

(q) Each purchaser has read the summary of the provisions related to no petitions for bankruptcy in "Description of the Offered Securities – No Petitions for Bankruptcy" in the Offering Circular. Each purchaser will not institute against, or join any other person in instituting against, either of the Issuers or any ETB Subsidiary any bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, insolvency, moratorium or liquidation proceedings, or other proceedings under Cayman Islands law, United States federal or state bankruptcy law or similar laws until the date which is one year plus one day (or, if longer, the applicable preference period then in effect) after the payment in full of all Notes. Each purchaser understands that the foregoing restrictions are a material inducement for each holder and beneficial owner of the Notes to acquire such Notes and for the Issuer, the Co-Issuer and the Trustee to enter into this Indenture (in the case of the Issuer and the Co-Issuer) and the other applicable transaction documents and are an essential term of this Indenture and that any holder or beneficial owner of a Note, the Trustee, the Portfolio Manager or either of the Issuers may seek and obtain specific performance of such restrictions (including injunctive relief), including, without limitation, in any bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, insolvency, moratorium or liquidation proceedings, or other proceedings under Cayman Islands law, United States federal or state bankruptcy law or similar laws.

(r) Each Holder and beneficial owner of a Note (including a Holder or beneficial owner of a Note that receives a definitive physical Note pursuant to the succeeding sentence) agrees to (i) provide the Issuer (or an authorized agent acting on behalf of the Issuer) with the Holder FATCA Information and (ii) permit the Issuer, the Portfolio Manager and Trustee (on behalf of the Issuer) to (w) share such information with the IRS or the relevant Cayman Islands tax authority, (x) compel or effect the sale of such Note if such holder or beneficial owner fails to sell such Notes within 30 days of notice from the Issuer, the Portfolio Manager or the Trustee of its failure to comply with the foregoing requirements, (y) assign to such Note a separate CUSIP number or numbers and (z) make other amendments to this Indenture to enable the Issuer to comply with FATCA. A clearing organization that holds a Note on behalf of a beneficial owner may convert such Note from a Global Note to a definitive physical Note, upon request from such beneficial owner or the Holder of such Note, if it is unable to obtain the Holder FATCA Information from such beneficial owner or the holder of such Note.

(s) Each purchaser, beneficial owner and subsequent transferee of a Combination Note or interest therein, by acceptance of such Combination Note or an interest in such Combination Note, will be deemed to have agreed that before any interest in a Combination Note may be exchanged for its ratable share of the Class A-1 Notes, the Class B Notes or the Class C Notes that comprise its Components, the Holder will be required to provide the Trustee with an Exchange Notice in the form of Exhibit B7.

Section 2.7. Mutilated, Defaced, Destroyed, Lost or Stolen Note. If (a) any mutilated or defaced Note is surrendered to a Transfer Agent, or if there shall be delivered to the Applicable Issuers, the Trustee and the relevant Transfer Agent evidence to their reasonable satisfaction of the destruction, loss or theft of any Note and (b) there is delivered to the Applicable Issuers, the Trustee and such Transfer Agent such security or indemnity as may be required by them to save each of them harmless (an unsecured indemnity agreement delivered to the Trustee by an institutional investor with a net worth of at least $200,000,000 being deemed sufficient to satisfy such security or indemnity requirement), then, in the absence of notice to the Applicable Issuers, the Trustee or such Transfer Agent that such Note has been acquired by a protected purchaser, the Applicable Issuers shall execute and, upon Issuer Order, the Trustee shall authenticate and deliver, in lieu of any such mutilated, defaced, destroyed, lost or stolen Note, a new Note, of like tenor (including the same date of issuance) and equal principal or face amount, registered in the same manner, dated the date of its authentication, bearing interest from the date to which interest has been paid on the mutilated, defaced, destroyed, lost or stolen Note and bearing a number not contemporaneously outstanding.

If, after delivery of such new Note, a protected purchaser of the predecessor Note presents for payment, transfer or exchange such predecessor Note, the Applicable Issuers, the Transfer Agent and the Trustee shall be entitled to recover such new Note from the Person to whom it was delivered or any Person taking therefrom, and shall be entitled to recover upon the security or indemnity provided therefor to the extent of any loss, damage, cost or expense incurred by the Applicable Issuers, the Trustee and the Transfer Agent in connection therewith.

In case any such mutilated, defaced, destroyed, lost or stolen Note has become due and payable, the Applicable Issuers in their discretion may, instead of issuing a new Note pay such Note without requiring surrender thereof except that any mutilated or defaced Note shall be surrendered.

Upon the issuance of any new Note under this Section 2.7 (Mutilated, Defaced, Destroyed, Lost or Stolen Note), the Applicable Issuers may require the payment by the Holder thereof of a sum sufficient to cover any tax or other governmental charge that may be imposed in relation thereto and any other expenses (including the fees and expenses of the Trustee) connected therewith.

Every new Note issued pursuant to this Section 2.7 (Mutilated, Defaced, Destroyed, Lost or Stolen Note) in lieu of any mutilated, defaced, destroyed, lost or stolen Note shall constitute an original additional contractual obligation of the Applicable Issuers and such new Note shall be entitled, subject to the second paragraph of this Section 2.7 (Mutilated, Defaced, Destroyed, Lost or Stolen Note), to all the benefits of this Indenture equally and proportionately with any and all other Notes of the same Class duly issued hereunder.

The provisions of this Section 2.7 (Mutilated, Defaced, Destroyed, Lost or Stolen Note) are exclusive and shall preclude (to the extent lawful) all other rights and remedies with respect to the replacement or payment of mutilated, defaced, destroyed, lost or stolen Notes.

Section 2.8. Payment of Principal and Interest and Other Amounts; Principal and Interest Rights Preserved. (a) Each Class of Secured Notes shall accrue interest during each Interest Accrual Period at the applicable Note Interest Rate and such interest will be payable in arrears on each Payment Date on the Aggregate Outstanding Amount thereof on the first day of the related Interest Accrual Period (after giving effect to payments of principal thereof on such date), except as otherwise set forth below. Payment of interest on each Class of Secured Notes (and payments of Interest Proceeds to the Holders of the Subordinated Notes) will be subordinated to the payments of interest on the related Priority Classes. So long as any Priority Classes are Outstanding with respect to any Class of Deferred Interest Notes, any payment of interest due on such Class of Deferred Interest Notes which is not available to be paid ("Deferred Interest" with respect thereto) in accordance with the Priority of Payments on any Payment Date shall not be considered "due and payable" for the purposes of Section 5.1(a) (Events of Default) (and the failure to pay such interest shall not be an Event of Default) until the earliest of the Payment Date (i) on which such interest is available to be paid in accordance with the Priority of Payments, (ii) which is a Redemption Date with respect to such Class of Deferred Interest Notes and (iii) which is the Stated Maturity of such Class of Deferred Interest Notes. Deferred Interest on any Class of Deferred Interest Notes shall be added to the principal balance of such Class of Deferred Interest Notes and payable on the first Payment Date on which funds are available to be used for such purpose in accordance with the Priority of Payments, but in any event no later than the earlier of the Payment Date (i) which is the Redemption Date with respect to such Class of Deferred Interest Notes and (ii) which is the Stated Maturity of such Class of Deferred Interest Notes. Interest will cease to accrue on each Secured Note, or in the case of a partial repayment, on such part, from the date of repayment or the respective Stated Maturity, unless payment of principal is improperly withheld or unless default is otherwise made with respect to such payments of principal. To the extent lawful and enforceable, (x) interest on Deferred Interest with respect to any Class of Deferred Interest Notes shall accrue at the Note Interest Rate for such Class until paid as provided herein and (y) interest on the interest on any Class X Notes, the Class A-1 Notes, the Class A-2 Notes or the Class B Notes or, if no Class X Notes, Class A-1 Notes, Class A-2 Notes or Class B Notes are Outstanding, any Class C Note or, if no Class C Notes are Outstanding, any Class D Note or, if no Class D Notes are Outstanding, any Class E Notes or, if no Class E Notes are Outstanding, any Class F Notes that is not paid when due shall accrue at the Note Interest Rate for such Class until paid as provided herein.

(b) The principal of each Secured Note of each Class matures at par and is due and payable on the Payment Date which is the Stated Maturity for such Class of Secured Notes, unless the unpaid principal of such Secured Note becomes due and payable at an earlier date by declaration of acceleration, call for redemption or otherwise. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the payment of principal of each Class of Secured Notes (and payments of Principal Proceeds to the Holders of the Subordinated Notes) may only occur (other than amounts constituting Deferred Interest thereon which will be payable from Interest Proceeds pursuant to Section 11.1(a)(i) (Disbursements of Monies from Payment Account)) after principal on each Class of Notes that constitutes a Priority Class with respect to such Class has been paid in full and is subordinated to the payment on each Payment Date of the principal and interest due and payable on such Priority Class(es), and other amounts in accordance with the Priority of Payments, and any payment of principal of any Class of Secured Notes which is not paid, in accordance with the Priority of Payments, on any Payment Date (other than the Payment Date which is the Stated Maturity of such Class or any Redemption Date), shall not be considered "due and payable" for purposes of Section 5.1(a) (Events of Default) until the Payment Date on which such principal may be paid in accordance with the Priority of Payments or all of the Priority Classes with respect to such Class have been paid in full.

(c) Principal payments on the Notes will be made in accordance with the Priority of Payments and Section 9.1 (Mandatory Redemption) hereof.

(d) As a condition to the payment of principal of and interest on any Secured Note or any payment on any Subordinated Note, without the imposition of withholding tax, the Paying Agent may require certification acceptable to it to enable the Issuer, the Co-Issuer, the Trustee and any Paying Agent to determine their duties and liabilities with respect to any taxes or other charges that they may be required to deduct or withhold from payments in respect of such Note under any present or future law or regulation of the United States and any other applicable jurisdiction, or any present or future law or regulation of any political subdivision thereof or taxing authority therein or to comply with any reporting or other requirements under any such law or regulation.

(e) Payments in respect of interest on and principal of any Secured Note and any payment with respect to any Subordinated Note shall be made by the Trustee in United States dollars to DTC or its designee with respect to a Global Note and to the Holder or its nominee with respect to a Certificated Note, by wire transfer, as directed by the Holder, in immediately available funds to a United States dollar account, as the case may be, maintained by DTC or its nominee with respect to a Global Note, and to the Holder or its designee with respect to a Certificated Note; provided, that in the case of a Certificated Note, the Holder thereof shall have provided written wiring instructions to the Trustee on or before the related Record Date; and provided, further, that if appropriate instructions for any such wire transfer are not received by the related Record Date, then such payment shall be made by check drawn on a U.S. bank mailed to the address of the Holder specified in the Register. Upon final payment due on the Maturity of a Note, the Holder thereof shall present and surrender such Note at the Corporate Office of the Trustee or at the office of any Paying Agent on or prior to such Maturity; provided, however, that if the Trustee and the Applicable Issuers shall have been furnished such security or indemnity as may be required by them to save each of them harmless and an undertaking thereafter to surrender such certificate, then, in the absence of notice to the Applicable Issuers or the Trustee that the applicable Note has been acquired by a protected purchaser, such final payment shall be made without presentation or surrender. None of the Co-Issuers, the Trustee, the Portfolio Manager, the Collateral Administrator nor any Paying Agent will have any responsibility or liability for any aspects of the records maintained by DTC, Euroclear, Clearstream or any of the Agent Members relating to or for payments made thereby on account of beneficial interests in a Global Note. In the case where any final payment of principal and interest is to be made on any Secured Note (other than on the Stated Maturity thereof) or any final payment is to be made on any Subordinated Note (other than on the Stated Maturity thereof), the Trustee, in the name and at the expense of the Applicable Issuers shall, not more than 30 nor less than 10 days prior to the date on which such payment is to be made, mail (by first class mail, postage prepaid) to the Persons entitled thereto at their addresses appearing on the Register a notice which shall specify the date on which such payment will be made, the amount of such payment per $100,000 original principal amount of Secured Notes, original principal amount of Subordinated Notes and the place where such Notes may be presented and surrendered for such payment.

(f) Payments of principal to Holders of the Secured Notes of each Class shall be made in the proportion that the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Debt of such Class registered in the name of each such Holder on the applicable Record Date bears to the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of all Notes of such Class on such Record Date. Payments to the Holders of the Subordinated Notes from Interest Proceeds and Principal Proceeds shall be made in the proportion that the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Subordinated Notes registered in the name of each such Holder on the applicable Record Date bears to the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of all Subordinated Notes on such Record Date.

(g) Interest accrued with respect to the Secured Notes shall be calculated on the basis of the actual number of days elapsed in the applicable Interest Accrual Period divided by 360.

(h) All reductions in the principal amount of a Note (or one or more predecessor Notes) effected by payments of installments of principal made on any Payment Date or Redemption Date shall be binding upon all future Holders of such Note and of any Note issued upon the registration of transfer thereof or in exchange therefor or in lieu thereof, whether or not such payment is noted on such Note.

(i) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Indenture, the obligations of the Applicable Issuers under the Notes and this Indenture are limited recourse obligations of the Applicable Issuers payable solely from the Assets and following realization of the Assets, and application of the proceeds thereof in accordance with this Indenture, all obligations of and any claims against the Co-Issuers hereunder or in connection herewith after such realization shall be extinguished and shall not thereafter revive. No recourse shall be had against any Officer, director, partner, employee, shareholder, member, manager or incorporator of either the Co-Issuers, the Portfolio Manager or their respective successors or assigns for any amounts payable under the Notes or (except as otherwise provided herein or in the Portfolio Management Agreement) this Indenture. It is understood that the foregoing provisions of this paragraph (i) shall not (i) prevent recourse to the Assets for the sums due or to become due under any security, instrument or agreement which is part of the Assets or (ii) constitute a waiver, release or discharge of any indebtedness or obligation evidenced by the Notes or secured by this Indenture until such Assets have been realized. It is further understood that the foregoing provisions of this paragraph (i) shall not limit the right of any Person to name the Issuer or the Co-Issuer as a party defendant in any Proceeding or in the exercise of any other remedy under the Notes or this Indenture, so long as no judgment in the nature of a deficiency judgment or seeking personal liability shall be asked for or (if obtained) enforced against any such Person or entity. The Subordinated Notes are not secured hereunder.

(j) Subject to the foregoing provisions of this Section 2.8 (Payment of Principal and Interest and Other Amounts; Principal and Interest Rights Preserved), each Note delivered and upon registration of transfer of or in exchange for or in lieu of any other Note shall carry the rights of unpaid interest and principal (or other applicable amount) that were carried by such other Note.

Section 2.9. Persons Deemed Owners. The Issuer, the Co-Issuer, the Trustee and any agent of the Co-Issuers or the Trustee may treat as the owner of such Note the Person in whose name any Note is registered on the Register on the applicable Record Date for the purpose of receiving payments of principal of and interest on such Note and on any other date for all other purposes whatsoever (whether or not such Note is overdue), and neither the Issuer, the Co-Issuers nor the Trustee nor any agent of the Issuer, the Co-Issuers or the Trustee shall be affected by notice to the contrary.

Section 2.10. Cancellation. All Notes surrendered for payment, registration of transfer, exchange or redemption, or deemed lost or stolen, shall be promptly canceled by the Trustee and may not be reissued or resold. No Note may be surrendered (including any surrender in connection with any abandonment) except for payment as provided herein, or for registration of transfer, exchange or redemption in accordance with Article 9 hereof, or for replacement in connection with any Note deemed lost or stolen. Any such Notes shall, if surrendered to any Person other than the Trustee, be delivered to the Trustee. No Notes shall be authenticated in lieu of or in exchange for any Notes canceled as provided in this Section 2.10 (Cancellation), except as expressly permitted hereunder. All canceled Notes held by the Trustee shall be destroyed or held by the Trustee in accordance with its standard retention policy unless the Co-Issuers shall direct by an Issuer Order that they be returned to it. Neither of the Co-Issuers may acquire or purchase any Notes (including any Notes surrendered or abandoned). The previous sentence shall not limit any Optional Redemption, Clean-up Call Redemption, Special Redemption or Mandatory Redemption pursuant to the terms of this Indenture.

Section 2.11. Certificated Notes. (a) A Global Note deposited with DTC pursuant to Section 2.2 (Forms of Notes) shall be transferred in the form of a Certificated Note to the beneficial owners thereof only if such transfer complies with Section 2.6 (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange) and either (i) DTC notifies the Co-Issuers that it is unwilling or unable to continue as depository for such Global Note or (ii) if at any time DTC ceases to be a Clearing Agency registered under the Exchange Act and, in each case, a successor depository is not appointed by the Co-Issuers within 90 days after such notice. In addition, the owner of a beneficial interest in a Global Note will be entitled to receive a Certificated Note in exchange for such interest if an Event of Default has occurred and is continuing.

(b) Any Global Note that is transferable in the form of a Certificated Note to the beneficial owners thereof pursuant to this Section 2.11 (Certificated Notes) shall be surrendered by DTC to the Trustee's office located in the Borough of Manhattan, the City of New York to be so transferred, in whole or from time to time in part, without charge, and the Applicable Issuers shall execute and the Trustee shall authenticate and deliver, upon such transfer of each portion of such Global Note, an equal aggregate principal amount of definitive physical certificates (pursuant to the instructions of DTC) substantially in the form of Exhibit A3 or Exhibit A4 (each such Secured Note (including a Certificated Class E Note or a Certificated Class F Note) issued in definitive form, a "Certificated Secured Note" and, each such Subordinated Note issued in definitive form, a "Certificated Subordinated Note" and, collectively, the "Certificated Notes") in authorized denominations. Any Certificated Note delivered in exchange for an interest in a Global Note shall, except as otherwise provided by Section 2.6(h) (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange), bear the legends set forth in the applicable Exhibit A and shall be subject to the transfer restrictions referred to in such legends.

(c) Subject to the provisions of paragraph (b) of this Section 2.11 (Certificated Notes), the Holder of a Global Note may grant proxies and otherwise authorize any Person, including Agent Members and Persons that may hold interests through Agent Members, to take any action which a Holder is entitled to take under this Indenture or the Notes.

(d) In the event of the occurrence of either of the events specified in subclauses (i) and (ii) of subsection (a) of this Section 2.11 (Certificated Notes), the Co-Issuers will promptly make available to the Trustee a reasonable supply of Certificated Notes in definitive, fully registered form without interest coupons.

(e) The Certificated Subordinated Notes issued pursuant to this Section 2.11 (Certificated Notes) shall be in substantially the same form as the Certificated Subordinated Notes issued pursuant to Section 2.2(b) (Forms of Notes) with such changes therein as the Issuer and Trustee shall agree.

(f) In the event that Certificated Notes are not so issued by the Issuer to such beneficial owners of interests in Global Notes as required by Section 2.11(a) (Certificated Notes), the Issuer expressly acknowledges that the beneficial owners shall be entitled to pursue any remedy that the Holders of a Global Note would be entitled to pursue in accordance with Article 5 of this Indenture (but only to the extent of such beneficial owner's interest in the Global Note) as if Certificated Notes had been issued.

Section 2.12. Notes Beneficially Owned by Persons Not QIB/QPs or in Violation of ERISA Representations. (a) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary elsewhere in this Indenture, (x) any transfer of a beneficial interest in any Secured Note (other than the Class E Notes and Class F Notes) to a U.S. person that is not a QIB/QP and that is not made pursuant to an applicable exemption under the Securities Act and the Investment Company Act, (y) any transfer of a beneficial interest in any Class E Note or Class F Note to a U.S. person that is not (i) a Qualified Institutional Buyer or an Institutional Accredited Investor and (ii) a Qualified Purchaser and that is not made pursuant to an applicable exemption under the Securities Act and the Investment Company Act and (z) any transfer of a beneficial interest in any Subordinated Note to a U.S. person that is not (i) a Qualified Institutional Buyer or an Accredited Investor and (ii) a Qualified Purchaser, a Knowledgeable Employee or a corporation, partnership, limited liability company or other entity (other than a trust) each shareholder, partner, member or other equity owner of which is either a Knowledgeable Employee or a Qualified Purchaser and that is not made pursuant to an applicable exemption under the Securities Act and the Investment Company Act shall be null and void and any such purported transfer of which the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or the Trustee shall have notice may be disregarded by the Issuer, the Co-Issuer and the Trustee for all purposes.

(b) If (A) (x) any U.S. person that is not a QIB/QP shall become the beneficial owner of an interest in any Secured Note (other than the Class E Notes and Class F Notes), (y) any U.S. person that is not (i) a Qualified Institutional Buyer or an Institutional Accredited Investor and (ii) a Qualified Purchaser shall become the beneficial owner of an interest in a Class E Note or a Class F Note and (z) any person that is not a Qualified Purchaser, a Knowledgeable Employee or a corporation, partnership, limited liability company or other entity (other than a trust) each shareholder, partner, member or other equity owner of which is either a Knowledgeable Employee or a Qualified Purchaser shall become the beneficial owner of an interest in any Subordinated Note (any such person a "Non-Permitted Holder") or (B) any beneficial owner of an interest in any Note is designated as a Recalcitrant Holder or Non-Compliant FFI, the Issuer may (in its sole discretion), promptly after discovery (or after designation as a Recalcitrant Holder or Non-Compliant FFI) that such person is a Non-Permitted Holder, a Recalcitrant Holder or a Non-Compliant FFI by the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or the Trustee (and notice by the Trustee or the Co-Issuer to the Issuer, if either of them makes the discovery), send notice to such Non-Permitted Holder, Recalcitrant Holder or Non-Compliant FFI demanding that such Non-Permitted Holder, Recalcitrant Holder or Non-Compliant FFI transfer its interest in the Notes held by such person to a Person that is not a Non-Permitted Holder, Recalcitrant Holder or Non-Compliant FFI within 30 days of the date of such notice. If such Non-Permitted Holder, Recalcitrant Holder or Non-Compliant FFI fails to so transfer such Notes, the Issuer shall (1) have the right to compel such Holder to sell its interest in the Notes, (2) assign such Notes a separate CUSIP number or numbers and (3) have the right, without further notice to the Non-Permitted Holder, Recalcitrant Holder or Non-Compliant FFI, to sell such Notes or interest in such Notes to a purchaser selected by the Issuer that is a not a Non-Permitted Holder, Recalcitrant Holder or Non-Compliant FFI on such terms as the Issuer may choose. The Issuer, or the Portfolio Manager acting on behalf of the Issuer, may select the purchaser by soliciting one or more bids from one or more brokers or other market professionals that regularly deal in securities similar to the Notes, and selling such Notes to the highest such bidder. However, the Issuer or the Portfolio Manager acting on behalf of the Issuer may select a purchaser by any other means determined by it in its sole discretion. The Holder of each Note, the Non-Permitted Holder, Recalcitrant Holder or Non-Compliant FFI and each other Person in the chain of title from the Holder to the Non-Permitted Holder, Recalcitrant Holder or Non-Compliant FFI, by its acceptance of an interest in the Notes, agrees to cooperate with the Issuer and the Trustee to effect such transfers. The proceeds of such sale, net of any commissions, expenses and taxes due in connection with such sale shall be remitted to the Non-Permitted Holder, Recalcitrant Holder or Non-Compliant FFI. The terms and conditions of any sale under this subsection shall be determined in the sole discretion of the Issuer, and the Issuer shall not be liable to any Person having an interest in the Notes sold as a result of any such sale or the exercise of such discretion.

(c) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary elsewhere in this Indenture, any transfer of a beneficial interest in any ERISA Limited Note to a Person who has made or is deemed to have made an ERISA-related representation required by Section 2.6 (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange) that is subsequently shown to be false or misleading shall be null and void and any such purported transfer of which the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or the Trustee shall have notice may be disregarded by the Issuer, the Co-Issuer and the Trustee for all purposes.

(d) If any Person shall become the beneficial owner of an interest in any ERISA Limited Note who has made or is deemed to have made an ERISA-related representation required by Section 2.6 (Registration, Registration of Transfer and Exchange) that is subsequently shown to be false or misleading or whose beneficial ownership otherwise causes a violation of the 25% Limitation (any such person a "Non-Permitted ERISA Holder"), the Issuer shall, promptly after discovery by the Issuer that such person is a Non-Permitted ERISA Holder (or upon notice by the Trustee to the Issuer if it makes the discovery), send notice to such

Non-Permitted ERISA Holder demanding that such Non-Permitted ERISA Holder transfer all or any portion of the ERISA Limited Notes held by such Person to a Person that is not a Non-Permitted ERISA Holder within 14 days of the date of such notice. If such Non-Permitted ERISA Holder fails to so transfer its ERISA Limited Notes the Issuer shall have the right, without further notice to the Non-Permitted ERISA Holder, to sell such ERISA Limited Notes or interest in such ERISA Limited Notes to a purchaser selected by the Issuer that is not a Non-Permitted ERISA Holder on such terms as the Issuer may choose. The Issuer may select the purchaser by soliciting one or more bids from one or more brokers or other market professionals that regularly deal in securities similar to the ERISA Limited Notes and selling such ERISA Limited Notes to the highest such bidder. However, the Issuer may select a purchaser by any other means determined by it in its sole discretion. The Holder of each ERISA Limited Note, the Non-Permitted ERISA Holder and each other Person in the chain of title from the Holder to the Non-Permitted ERISA Holder, by its acceptance of an interest in the ERISA Limited Notes agrees to cooperate with the Issuer and the Trustee to effect such transfers. The proceeds of such sale, net of any commissions, expenses and taxes due in connection with such sale shall be remitted to the Non-Permitted ERISA Holder. The terms and conditions of any sale under this subsection shall be determined in the sole discretion of the Issuer, and the Issuer shall not be liable to any Person having an interest in the ERISA Limited Notes sold as a result of any such sale or the exercise of such discretion.

Section 2.13. Tax Purposes. (a) Each Holder and each beneficial owner of a Secured Note by acceptance of such Secured Note, or its interest in such Secured Note, as the case may be, shall be deemed to have agreed to treat, and shall treat, such Secured Note as debt of the Issuer for U.S. federal income tax purposes except as otherwise required by law. Each Holder and each beneficial owner of a Subordinated Note by acceptance of such Subordinated Note or its interest in such Subordinated Note, as the case may be, shall be deemed to have agreed to treat, and shall treat, such Subordinated Note as equity in the Issuer for U.S. federal income tax purposes except as otherwise required by law.

(c) Each purchaser, beneficial owner and subsequent transferee of a Note or interest therein, by acceptance of such Note or an interest in such Note, shall be deemed to have agreed (1) to provide the Issuer and Trustee (i) any information as is necessary (in the sole determination of the Issuer or the Trustee, as applicable) for the Issuer and the Trustee to determine whether such purchaser, beneficial owner or transferee is a United States person or a United States owned foreign entity (as described in Section 1471(d)(3) of the Code) ("United States owned foreign entity") and (ii) any additional information that the Issuer or its agent requests in connection with FATCA and (2) if it is a United States person or a United States owned foreign entity that is a Holder or beneficial owner of Notes or an interest therein (x) to provide the Issuer and Trustee its name, address, U.S. taxpayer identification number and any other information requested (in connection with FATCA) by the Issuer or its agent upon request and (y) to update any such information provided in clause (x) promptly upon learning that any such information previously provided has become obsolete or incorrect or is otherwise required (such obligation, the "Noteholder Reporting Obligations"). Each purchaser and subsequent transferee of Notes will be required or deemed to acknowledge that the Issuer may provide such information and any other information concerning its investment in the Notes to the IRS. Each purchaser and subsequent transferee of Notes will be required or deemed to understand and acknowledge that the Issuer has the right, hereunder, to compel any beneficial owner of an interest in a Note that fails to comply with the foregoing requirements to sell its interest in such Note, or may sell such interest on behalf of such owner following the procedures and timeframe relating to Non-Permitted Holders specified in Section 2.12 (Notes Beneficially Owned by Persons Not QIB/QPs or in Violation of ERISA Representations). In addition, each purchaser and subsequent transferee of Notes will be required or deemed to understand and acknowledge that the Issuer has the right, hereunder, to withhold (without any gross-up) on any beneficial owner of an interest in a Note that fails to comply with the foregoing requirements.

Section 2.14. No Gross Up. The Issuer shall not be obligated to pay any additional amounts to the Holders or beneficial owners of the Notes as a result of any withholding or deduction for, or on account of, any present or future taxes, duties, assessments or governmental charges imposed on payments in respect of the Notes.

(a) either:

(i) all Notes theretofore authenticated and delivered to Holders (other than (A) Notes which have been mutilated, defaced, destroyed, lost or stolen and which have been replaced or paid as provided in Section 2.7 (Mutilated, Defaced, Destroyed, Lost or Stolen Note) and (B) Notes for whose payment Money has theretofore irrevocably been deposited in trust and thereafter repaid to the Issuer or discharged from such trust, as provided in Section 7.3 (Money for Note Payments to be Held in Trust), have been delivered to the Trustee for cancellation; or

(ii) all Notes not theretofore delivered to the Trustee for cancellation (A) have become due and payable, (B) will become due and payable at their Stated Maturity within one year or (C) are to be called for redemption pursuant to Article 9 under an arrangement satisfactory to the Trustee for the giving of notice of redemption by the Applicable Issuers pursuant to Section 9.3 (Redemption Procedures), Section 9.6 (Clean-up Call Redemption) and the Issuer has irrevocably deposited or caused to be deposited with the Trustee, in trust for such purpose, Cash or non-callable direct obligations of the United States of America; provided, that the obligations are entitled to the full faith and credit of the United States of America or are debt obligations which are rated "Aaa" by Moody's and "AAA" by S&P, in an amount sufficient, as verified by a firm of Independent certified public accountants which are nationally recognized, to pay and discharge the entire indebtedness on such Notes not theretofore delivered to the Trustee for cancellation, for principal and interest to the date of such deposit (in the case of Notes which have become due and payable), or to the respective Stated Maturity or the respective Redemption Date, as the case may be, and shall have Granted to the Trustee a valid perfected security interest in such Eligible Investment that is of first priority or free of any adverse claim, as applicable, and shall have furnished an Opinion of Counsel with respect thereto; provided, however, that this subsection (ii) shall not apply if an election to act in accordance with the provisions of Section 5.5(a) (Optional Preservation of Assets) shall have been made and not rescinded;

(b) the Issuer has paid or caused to be paid all other sums then due and payable hereunder (including any amounts then due and payable pursuant to the Hedge Agreements, the Collateral Administration Agreement and the Portfolio Management Agreement without regard to the Administrative Expense Cap) by the Issuer and no other amounts are scheduled to be due and payable by the Issuer; and

(c) the Co-Issuers have delivered to the Trustee Officers' certificates and an Opinion of Counsel, each stating that all conditions precedent herein provided for relating to the satisfaction and discharge of this Indenture have been complied with;

provided, however, that in the case of clause (a)(ii) above, the Issuer has delivered to the Trustee an Opinion of Counsel of Independent U.S. tax counsel of nationally recognized standing in the United States experienced in such matters to the effect that the Holders of Secured Notes would recognize no income gain or loss for U.S. federal income tax purposes as a result of such deposit and satisfaction and discharge of this Indenture; provided, further, that, upon the final distribution of all proceeds of any liquidation of the Collateral Obligations, the Equity Securities and the Eligible Investments effected pursuant to Article 5, the requirements of clauses (a) and (b) above shall be deemed satisfied for the purposes of discharging this Indenture.

Notwithstanding the satisfaction and discharge of this Indenture, the rights and obligations of the Co-Issuers, the Trustee, the Portfolio Manager and, if applicable, the Holders, as the case may be, under Sections 2.8 (Payment of Principal and Interest and Other Amounts; Principal and Interest Rights Preserved), 4.2 (Application of Trust Money), 5.4(d) (Remedies), 5.9 (Unconditional Rights of Holders to Receive Principal and Interest), 5.18 (Action on the Notes), 6.6 (Money Held in Trust), 6.7(c) (Trustee Compensation and Reimbursement), 7.1 (Payment of Principal and Interest), 7.3 (Money for Note Payments to be Held in Trust), 13.1 (Subordination; Non-Petition), 14.13 (Confidential Information) and 14.14 (Liability of Co-Issuers) hereof shall survive.

Section 4.2. Application of Trust Money. All Monies deposited with the Trustee pursuant to Section 4.1 (Satisfaction and Discharge of Indenture) shall be held in trust and applied by it in accordance with the provisions of the Notes and this Indenture, including, without limitation, the Priority of Payments, to the payment of principal and interest (or other amounts with respect to the Subordinated Notes), either directly or through any Paying Agent, as the Trustee may determine; and such Money shall be held in a segregated account identified as being held in trust for the benefit of the Secured Parties.

Section 4.3. Repayment of Monies Held by Paying Agent. In connection with the satisfaction and discharge of this Indenture with respect to the Notes, all Monies then held by any Paying Agent other than the Trustee under the provisions of this Indenture shall, upon demand of the Co-Issuers, be paid to the Trustee to be held and applied pursuant to Section 7.3 (Money for Note Payments to be Held in Trust) hereof and in accordance with the Priority of Payments and thereupon such Paying Agent shall be released from all further liability with respect to such Monies.

ARTICLE 5

Remedies

Section 5.1. Events of Default. "Event of Default," wherever used herein, means any one of the following events (whatever the reason for such Event of Default and whether it shall be voluntary or involuntary or be effected by operation of law or pursuant to any judgment, decree or order of any court or any order, rule or regulation of any administrative or governmental body):

(a) a default in the payment, when due and payable, of (i) any Class X Note Payment Amount or any interest on any Class X Note, Class A-1 Note, Class A-2 Note or Class B Note or, if there are no Class X Notes, Class A-1 Notes, Class A-2 Notes or Class B Notes Outstanding, any Class C Note or, if there are no Senior Notes or Class C Notes Outstanding, any Class D Note or, if there are no Co-Issued Notes Outstanding, any Class E Note or, if there are no Co-Issued Notes or Class E Notes Outstanding, any Class F Note, and the continuation of any such default for five Business Days or (ii) any principal, interest, or Deferred Interest on, or any Redemption Price in respect of, any Secured Note at its Stated Maturity or any Redemption Date; provided that, in each case, if such failure resulted solely from an administrative error or omission by the Trustee, the continuation of any such default for an additional five Business Days;

(b) unless legally required or permitted to withhold such amounts, the failure by the Issuer on any Payment Date to disburse amounts available in the Payment Account in accordance with the Priority of Payments (other than as provided in clause (a) above), which failure is incapable of remedy or, if capable of remedy, is not remedied within 30 days after notice of such failure has been given to the Issuer by the Trustee or to the Issuer, the Trustee and the Portfolio Manager by at least a Majority of the Controlling Class (or, if such failure can only be remedied on a Payment Date, is not remedied by the later of the 30 day period specified above and the next Payment Date); provided that, if such failure has not been remedied within the period specified above (or before the next Payment Date, as applicable) it shall not constitute an Event of Default if corrective action is instituted within such specified period (or before the next Payment Date, as applicable) and is diligently pursued until the failure has been remedied;

(c) either of the Co-Issuers or the Assets becomes an investment company required to be registered under the Investment Company Act;

(d) except as otherwise provided in this Section 5.1 (Events of Default), a default, in a material respect, in the performance, or breach, in a material respect, of any other material covenant or other agreement of the Issuer or the Co-Issuer in this Indenture (it being understood, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, that any failure to meet any Concentration Limitation, Collateral Quality Test or Coverage Test is not an Event of Default), or the failure of any material representation or warranty of the Issuer or the Co-Issuer made in this Indenture or in any certificate or other writing delivered pursuant hereto or in connection herewith to be correct in all material respects when the same shall have been made, and the continuation of such default, breach or failure for a period of 30 days after notice to the Applicable Issuers and the Portfolio Manager by registered or certified mail or overnight courier, by the Trustee, or to the Applicable Issuers, the Portfolio Manager and the Trustee by at least a Majority of the Controlling Class, specifying such default, breach or failure and requiring it to be remedied and stating that such notice is a "Notice of Default" hereunder; provided, that if the Issuer or the Co-Issuer, as applicable (as notified to the Trustee by the Portfolio Manager in writing) has commenced curing such default, breach or failure during the 30 day period specified above, such default, breach or failure shall not constitute an Event of Default under this clause (d) unless it continues for a period of 45 days (rather than, and not in addition to, such 30 day period specified above) after notice to the Applicable Issuers and the Portfolio Manager by registered or certified mail or overnight courier;

(e) the entry of a decree or order by a court having competent jurisdiction adjudging the Issuer or the Co-Issuer as bankrupt or insolvent, or approving as properly filed a petition seeking reorganization, arrangement, adjustment or composition of or in respect of the Issuer or the Co-Issuer under the Bankruptcy Law or any other applicable law, or appointing a receiver, liquidator, assignee, or sequestrator (or other similar official) of the Issuer or the Co-Issuer or of any substantial part of its property, respectively, or ordering the winding up or liquidation of its affairs, and the continuance of any such decree or order unstayed and in effect for a period of 60 consecutive days;

(f) the institution by the shareholders or members, as applicable, of the Issuer or the Co-Issuer of Proceedings to have the Issuer or Co-Issuer, as the case may be, adjudicated as bankrupt or insolvent, or the consent by the shareholders or members, as applicable, of the Issuer or the Co-Issuer to the institution of bankruptcy or insolvency Proceedings against the Issuer or Co-Issuer, or the filing by the Issuer or the Co-Issuer of a petition or answer or consent seeking reorganization or relief under the Bankruptcy Law or any other similar applicable law, or the consent by the Issuer or the Co-Issuer to the filing of any such petition or to the appointment of a receiver, liquidator, assignee, trustee or sequestrator (or other similar official) of the Issuer or the Co-Issuer or of any substantial part of its property, respectively, or the making by the Issuer or the Co-Issuer of an assignment for the benefit of creditors, or the taking of any action by the Issuer or the Co-Issuer in furtherance of any such action;

(g) on any Measurement Date prior to payment in full of the Class A Notes, failure of the percentage equivalent of a fraction, (i) the numerator of which is equal to (1) the Collateral Principal Amount plus (2) the aggregate Market Value of all Defaulted

Obligations on such date and (ii) the denominator of which is equal to the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Class A Notes, to equal or exceed 102.5%; or

(h) on any Measurement Date prior to payment in full of the Class A Notes, failure of the percentage equivalent of a fraction, (i) the numerator of which is equal to (1) the Collateral Principal Amount plus (2) the aggregate Market Value of all Defaulted Obligations on such date minus (3) the CCC/Caa Par Reduction Amount and (ii) the denominator of which is equal to the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Class A Notes, to equal or exceed 102.5%.

Upon obtaining knowledge of the occurrence of an Event of Default (in the case of the Trustee, subject to Section 6.1(d) (Certain Duties and Responsibilities of the Trustee) hereof), each of (i) the Co-Issuers, (ii) the Trustee and (iii) the Portfolio Manager shall notify each other of such Event of Default. Upon the occurrence of an Event of Default actually known to a Bank Officer of the Trustee, the Trustee shall promptly notify each Hedge Counterparty, the Noteholders (as their names appear on the Register), each Paying Agent, DTC, each of the Rating Agencies and the Irish Stock Exchange (for so long as any Class of Notes is listed on the Irish Stock Exchange and so long as the guidelines of such exchange so require) of such Event of Default in writing (unless such Event of Default has been waived as provided in Section 5.14 (Waiver of Past Defaults)).

Section 5.2. Acceleration of Maturity; Rescission and Annulment. (a) If an Event of Default occurs and is continuing (other than an Event of Default specified in Section 5.1(e), (f) or (h) (Events of Default)), the Trustee may, and shall, upon the written direction of at least a Majority of the Controlling Class, by notice to the Co-Issuers and each Rating Agency, declare the principal of all the Secured Notes to be immediately due and payable, and upon any such declaration such principal, together with all accrued and unpaid interest thereon, and other amounts payable hereunder, shall become immediately due and payable. If an Event of Default specified in Section 5.1(e) or (f) (Events of Default) occurs, all unpaid principal, together with all accrued and unpaid interest thereon, of all the Secured Notes, and other amounts payable hereunder, shall automatically become due and payable without any declaration or other act on the part of the Trustee or any Noteholder. If an Event of Default specified in Section 5.1(h) (Events of Default) occurs and is continuing, the Trustee may, and shall, upon the written direction of the Holders of at least a Majority of the Class A Notes, the Class B Notes, the Class C Notes and the Class D Notes (voting separately by Class) by notice to the Co-Issuers and each Rating Agency, declare the principal of all the Secured Notes to be immediately due and payable, and upon any such declaration such principal, together with all accrued and unpaid interest thereon, and other amounts payable hereunder, shall become immediately due and payable.

(b) At any time after such a declaration of acceleration of maturity has been made and before a judgment or decree for payment of the Money due has been obtained by the Trustee as hereinafter provided in this Article 5, at least a Majority of the Controlling Class (or in the case of an acceleration as a result of an Event of Default specified in Section 5.1(h) (Events of Default), the Holders of at least a Majority of the Class A Notes, the Class B Notes, the Class C Notes and the Class D Notes (voting separately by Class)) by written notice to the Issuer and the Trustee, may rescind and annul such declaration and its consequences if:

(i) The Issuer or the Co-Issuer has paid or deposited with the Trustee a sum sufficient to pay:

(A) all unpaid installments of interest and principal then due on the Secured Notes (other than as a result of such acceleration);

(B) to the extent that the payment of such interest is lawful, interest upon any Deferred Interest at the applicable Note Interest Rates; and

(C) all unpaid taxes and Administrative Expenses of the Co-Issuers and other sums paid or advanced by the Trustee hereunder and any other amounts then payable by the Co-Issuers hereunder prior to such Administrative Expenses; and

(ii) The Trustee has determined (based upon the information available to it) that all Events of Default, other than the nonpayment of the interest on or principal of the Secured Notes that have become due solely by such acceleration, have (A) been cured, and at least a Majority of the Controlling Class (or in the case of an acceleration as a result of an Event of Default specified in Section 5.1(h) (Events of Default), the Holders of at least a Majority of Class A Notes, the Class B Notes, the Class C Notes and the Class D Notes (voting separately by Class)) by written notice to the Trustee has agreed with such determination (which agreement shall not be unreasonably withheld) or (B) been waived as provided in Section 5.14 (Waiver of Past Defaults).

No such rescission shall affect any subsequent Default or impair any right consequent thereon.

Section 5.3. Collection of Indebtedness and Suits for Enforcement by Trustee. The Applicable Issuers covenant that if a Default shall occur in respect of the payment of any principal of or interest when due and payable on any Secured Notes, the Applicable Issuers will, upon demand of the Trustee, pay to the Trustee, for the benefit of the Holder of such Secured Note, the whole amount, if any, then due and payable on such Secured Note for principal and interest with interest upon the overdue principal and, to the extent that payments of such interest shall be legally enforceable, upon overdue installments of interest, at the applicable Note Interest Rate, and, in addition thereto, such further amount as shall be sufficient to cover the costs and expenses of collection, including the reasonable compensation, expenses, disbursements and advances of the Trustee and its agents and counsel.

If the Issuer or the Co-Issuer fails to pay such amounts forthwith upon such demand, the Trustee, in its own name and as agent for the Secured Parties, may, and shall upon written direction of at least a Majority of the Controlling Class, institute a Proceeding for the collection of the sums so due and unpaid, prosecute such Proceeding to judgment or final decree, and enforce the same against the Applicable Issuers or any other obligor upon the Secured Notes and collect the Monies adjudged or decreed to be payable in the manner provided by law out of the Assets.

If an Event of Default occurs and is continuing, the Trustee may in its discretion, and shall upon written direction of at least a Majority of the Controlling Class (and, if the action of the Applicable Issuers pursuant to such written direction would have a material adverse effect on any Hedge Counterparty as determined by the Applicable Issuers, with the consent of such Hedge Counterparty), proceed to protect and enforce its rights and the rights of Holders of the Secured Notes by such appropriate Proceedings as the Trustee shall deem most effectual (if no such direction is received by the Trustee) or as the Trustee may be directed by at least a Majority of the Controlling Class, to protect and enforce any such rights, whether for the specific enforcement of any covenant or agreement in this Indenture or in aid of the exercise of any power granted herein, or to enforce any other proper remedy or legal or equitable right vested in the Trustee by this Indenture or by law.

In case there shall be pending Proceedings relative to the Issuer or the Co-Issuer or any other obligor upon the Secured Notes under the Bankruptcy Law or any other applicable bankruptcy, insolvency or other similar law, or in case a receiver, assignee or trustee in bankruptcy or reorganization, liquidator, sequestrator or similar official shall have been appointed for or taken possession of the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or their respective property or such other obligor or its property, or in case of any other comparable Proceedings relative to the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or other obligor upon the Secured Notes, or the creditors or property of the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or such other obligor, the Trustee, regardless of whether the principal of any Secured Notes shall then be due and payable as therein expressed or by declaration or otherwise and regardless of whether the Trustee shall have made any demand pursuant to the provisions of this Section 5.3 (Collection of Indebtedness and Suits for Enforcement by Trustee), shall be entitled and empowered, by intervention in such Proceedings or otherwise:

(a) to file and prove a claim or claims for the whole amount of principal and interest owing and unpaid in respect of the Secured Notes upon direction by at least a Majority of the Controlling Class, and to file such other papers or documents as may be necessary or advisable in order to have the claims of the Trustee (including any claim for reasonable compensation to the Trustee and each predecessor Trustee, and their respective agents, attorneys and counsel, and for reimbursement of all reasonable expenses and liabilities incurred, and all advances made, by the Trustee and each predecessor Trustee, except as a result of negligence or willful misconduct) and of the Holders of the Secured Notes allowed in any Proceedings relative to the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or other obligor upon the Secured Notes or to the creditors or property of the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or such other obligor;

(b) unless prohibited by applicable law and regulations, to vote on behalf of the Holders of the Secured Notes, upon the direction of at least a Majority of the Controlling Class, in any election of a trustee or a standby trustee in arrangement, reorganization, liquidation or other bankruptcy or insolvency Proceedings or person performing similar functions in comparable Proceedings; and

(c) to collect and receive any Monies or other property payable to or deliverable on any such claims, and to distribute all amounts received with respect to the claims of the Noteholders and of the Trustee on their behalf; and any trustee, receiver or liquidator, custodian or other similar official is hereby authorized by each of the Holders of the Secured Notes to make payments to the Trustee, and, in the event that the Trustee shall consent to the making of payments directly to the Holders of the Secured Notes, to pay to the Trustee such amounts as shall be sufficient to cover reasonable compensation to the Trustee, each predecessor Trustee and their respective agents, attorneys and counsel, and all other reasonable expenses and liabilities incurred, and all advances made, by the Trustee and each predecessor Trustee except as a result of negligence or willful misconduct.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to authorize the Trustee to authorize or consent to or vote for or accept or adopt on behalf of any Holder of the Secured Notes, any plan of reorganization, arrangement, adjustment or composition affecting the Secured Notes or any Holder thereof, or to authorize the Trustee to vote in respect of the claim of any Holder of the Secured Notes in any such Proceeding except, as aforesaid, to vote for the election of a trustee in bankruptcy or similar person.

In any Proceedings brought by the Trustee on behalf of the Holders of the Secured Notes (and any such Proceedings involving the interpretation of any provision of this Indenture to which the Trustee shall be a party), the Trustee shall be held to represent all the Holders of the Secured Notes.

Notwithstanding anything in this Section 5.3 (Collection of Indebtedness and Suits for Enforcement by Trustee) to the contrary, neither the Trustee nor any Holder may sell or liquidate the Assets or institute Proceedings in furtherance thereof pursuant to this Section 5.3 (Collection of Indebtedness and Suits for Enforcement by Trustee) except according to the provisions specified in Section 5.5(a) (Optional Preservation of Assets).

Section 5.4. Remedies. (a) If an Event of Default shall have occurred and be continuing, and the Secured Notes have been declared due and payable and such declaration and its consequences have not been rescinded and annulled, the Co-Issuers agree that the Trustee may, and shall, upon written direction of at least a Majority of the Controlling Class, to the extent permitted by applicable law, exercise one or more of the following rights, privileges and remedies:

(i) institute Proceedings for the collection of all amounts then payable on the Secured Notes or otherwise payable under this Indenture, whether by declaration or otherwise, enforce any judgment obtained, and collect from the Assets any Monies adjudged due;

(ii) sell or cause the sale of all or a portion of the Assets or rights or interests therein, at one or more public or private sales called and conducted in any manner permitted by law and in accordance with Section 5.17 (Sale of Assets) hereof;

(iii) institute Proceedings from time to time for the complete or partial foreclosure of this Indenture for the benefit of all Secured Parties with respect to the Assets;

(iv) exercise any remedies of a secured party under the UCC and take any other appropriate action to protect and enforce the rights and remedies of the Trustee and the Holders of the Secured Notes hereunder; and

(v) exercise any other rights and remedies that may be available at law or in equity; provided, however, that the Trustee may not sell or liquidate the Assets or institute Proceedings in furtherance thereof pursuant to this Section 5.4 (Remedies) except according to the provisions specified in Section 5.5(a) (Optional Preservation of Assets).

The Trustee may, but need not, obtain (at the expense of the Co-Issuers) and rely upon an opinion of an Independent investment banking firm of national reputation with demonstrated capabilities in structuring and distributing securities similar to the Secured Notes, which may be either of the Placement Agents, as to the feasibility of any action proposed to be taken in accordance with this Section 5.4 (Remedies) and as to the sufficiency of the proceeds and other amounts receivable with respect to the Assets to make the required payments of principal of and interest on the Secured Notes, which opinion shall be conclusive evidence as to such feasibility or sufficiency.

(b) If an Event of Default as described in Section 5.1(d) (Events of Default) hereof shall have occurred and be continuing the Trustee may, and at the direction of the Holders of not less than 25% of the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Controlling Class shall, institute a Proceeding solely to compel performance of the covenant or agreement or to cure the representation or warranty, the breach of which gave rise to the Event of Default under such Section, and enforce any equitable decree or order arising from such Proceeding.

(c) Upon any sale, whether made under the power of sale hereby given or by virtue of judicial Proceedings, any Holder of Secured Notes may bid for and purchase the Assets or any part thereof and, upon compliance with the terms of sale, may hold, retain, possess or dispose of such property in its or their own absolute right without accountability; and any purchaser at any such sale may, in paying the purchase Money, deliver to the Trustee for cancellation any of the Class A Notes in lieu of Cash equal to the amount which shall, upon distribution of the net proceeds of such sale, be payable on the Class A Notes so delivered by such Holder (taking into account the Priority of Payments and Article 13). Said Notes, in case the amounts payable thereon shall be less than the amount due thereon, shall be returned to the Holders thereof after proper notation has been made thereon to show partial payment.

Upon any sale, whether made under the power of sale hereby given or by virtue of judicial Proceedings, the receipt of the Trustee, or of the Officer making a sale under judicial Proceedings, shall be a sufficient discharge to the purchaser or purchasers at any sale for its or their purchase Money, and such purchaser or purchasers shall not be obliged to see to the application thereof.

Any such sale, whether under any power of sale hereby given or by virtue of judicial Proceedings, shall bind the Co-Issuers, the Trustee and the Holders of the Secured Notes, shall operate to divest all right, title and interest whatsoever, either at law or in equity, of each of them in and to the property sold, and shall be a perpetual bar, both at law and in equity, against each of them and their successors and assigns, and against any and all Persons claiming through or under them.

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Indenture, the Trustee may not, prior to the date which is one year plus one day (or if longer, any applicable preference period) after the payment in full of all Notes, institute against, or join any other Person in instituting against, the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or any ETB Subsidiary any bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, insolvency, moratorium or liquidation Proceedings, or other Proceedings under Cayman Islands, U.S. federal or State bankruptcy or similar laws. Nothing in this Section 5.4 (Remedies) shall preclude, or be deemed to stop, the Trustee (i) from taking any action prior to the expiration of the aforementioned period in (A) any case or Proceeding voluntarily filed or commenced by the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or any ETB Subsidiary or (B) any involuntary insolvency Proceeding filed or commenced by a Person other than the Trustee or (ii) from commencing against the Issuer, the Co-Issuer or any ETB Subsidiary or any of its properties any legal action which is not a bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, insolvency, moratorium or liquidation Proceeding.

Section 5.5. Optional Preservation of Assets. (a) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein, if an Event of Default shall have occurred and be continuing, the Trustee shall retain the Assets securing the Secured Notes intact, collect and cause the collection of the proceeds thereof and make and apply all payments and deposits and maintain all accounts in respect of the Assets and the Notes in accordance with the Priority of Payments and the provisions of Article 10 and Article 12 unless:

(i) the Trustee, in consultation with the Portfolio Manager (so long as no "cause" (as defined in the Portfolio Management Agreement) for the termination of the Portfolio Manager has occurred under the Portfolio Management Agreement) determines that the anticipated proceeds of a sale or liquidation of the Assets (after deducting the reasonable expenses of such sale or liquidation) would be sufficient to discharge in full the amounts then due (or, in the case of interest, accrued) and unpaid on the Secured Notes for principal and interest (including Deferred Interest), and all amounts payable prior to payment of principal on such Secured Notes (including amounts payable to any Hedge Counterparty upon liquidation of the Assets and all Administrative Expenses);

(ii) if an Event of Default described in Section 5.1(a), (d) or (g) has occurred and is continuing, the Holders of at least a Majority of the Controlling Class (without consent of any other Class of Notes) direct, subject to the provisions of this Indenture and in compliance with applicable law, such sale and liquidation; provided, that, this clause (ii) shall not apply in the case of an Event of Default described in Section 5.1(a) that arises solely from an acceleration of the Secured Notes due to an Event of Default in Section 5.1(b), (c), (e), (f) or (h);

(iii) if an Event of Default described in Section 5.1(b), (c), (e) or (f) has occurred and is continuing, the Holders of at least 66 2/3% of the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of each Class of Secured Notes (voting separately by Class) direct, subject to the provisions of this Indenture and in compliance with applicable law, such sale and liquidation of the Assets;

(iv) if an Event of Default described in Section 5.1(h) has occurred and is continuing, the Holders of at least a Majority of each Class of Secured Notes (voting separately by Class) direct, subject to the provisions of this Indenture and in compliance with applicable law, such sale and liquidation of the Assets; or

(v) if an Event of Default described in Section 5.1(a), (b), (c), (d), (e), (f), (g) or (h) has occurred and is continuing and all of the Secured Notes has been repaid in full, the Holders of at least 66 2/3% of the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Subordinated Notes direct, subject to the provisions of this Indenture and in compliance with applicable law, such sale and liquidation.

The Trustee shall give written notice of the retention of the Assets to the Issuer with a copy to the Co-Issuer and the Portfolio Manager. So long as such Event of Default is continuing, any such retention pursuant to this Section 5.5(a) (Optional Preservation of Assets) may be rescinded at any time when the conditions specified in clause (i), (ii), (iii), (iv) or (v) exist.

(b) Nothing contained in Section 5.5(a) (Optional Preservation of Assets) shall be construed to require the Trustee to sell the Assets securing the Secured Notes if the conditions set forth in any of clauses (i) through (iv) of Section 5.5(a) (Optional Preservation of Assets) are not satisfied. Nothing contained in Section 5.5(a) (Optional Preservation of Assets) shall be construed to require the Trustee to preserve the Assets securing the Notes if prohibited by applicable law.

(c) In determining whether the condition specified in Section 5.5(a)(i) (Optional Preservation of Assets) exists, the Trustee shall obtain bid prices with respect to each security contained in the Assets from two nationally recognized dealers (as specified by the Portfolio Manager in writing) at the time making a market in such securities and shall compute the anticipated proceeds of sale or liquidation on the basis of the lower of such bid prices for each such security. For the purposes of making the determinations required pursuant to Section 5.5(a)(i) (Optional Preservation of Assets), the Trustee shall apply the standards set forth in Section 6.3(c)(i) or (ii) (Certain Rights of the Trustee). In addition, for the purposes of determining issues relating to the execution of a sale or liquidation of the Assets and the execution of a sale or other liquidation thereof in connection with a determination whether the condition specified in Section 5.5(a)(i) (Optional Preservation of Assets) exists, the Trustee may retain (at the Co-Issuers' expense) and rely on an opinion of an Independent investment banking firm of national reputation.

The Trustee shall deliver to the Noteholders, the Issuer and the Portfolio Manager a report stating the results of any determination required pursuant to Section 5.5(a)(i) (Optional Preservation of Assets) no later than 10 days after such determination is made. The Trustee shall make the determinations required by Section 5.5(a)(i) (Optional Preservation of Assets) at the request of at least a Majority of the Controlling Class at any time after the occurrence of an Event of Default during which the Trustee retains the Assets pursuant to Section 5.5(a)(i) (Optional Preservation of Assets); provided, that any such request made more frequently than once in any 90 day period shall be at the expense of such requesting party or parties.

Section 5.6. Trustee May Enforce Claims Without Possession of Notes. All rights of action and claims under this Indenture or under any of the Secured Notes may be prosecuted and enforced by the Trustee without the possession of any of the Secured Notes or the production thereof in any trial or other Proceeding relating thereto, and any such action or Proceeding instituted by the Trustee shall be brought in its own name as trustee of an express trust, and any recovery of judgment shall be applied as set forth in Section 5.7 (Application of Money Collected) hereof.

Section 5.7. Application of Money Collected. Any Money collected by the Trustee with respect to the Notes pursuant to this Article 5 and any Money that may then be held or thereafter received by the Trustee with respect to the Notes hereunder shall be applied in accordance with the provisions of Section 11.1 (Disbursements of Monies from Payment Account), at the date or dates fixed by the Trustee.

Section 5.8. Limitation on Suits. No Holder of any Note shall have any right to institute any Proceedings, judicial or otherwise, with respect to this Indenture, or for the appointment of a receiver or trustee, or for any other remedy hereunder, unless:

(a) such Holder has previously given to the Trustee written notice of an Event of Default;

(b) the Holders of not less than 25% of the then Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Notes of the Controlling Class shall have made written request to the Trustee to institute Proceedings in respect of such Event of Default in its own name as Trustee hereunder and such Holder or Holders have offered to the Trustee indemnity reasonably satisfactory to it against the costs, expenses and liabilities to be incurred in compliance with such request;

(c) the Trustee for 30 days after its receipt of such notice, request and offer of indemnity has failed to institute any such Proceeding; and

(d) no direction inconsistent with such written request has been given to the Trustee during such 30 day period by at least a Majority of the Controlling Class; it being understood and intended that no one or more Holders of Notes shall have any right in any manner whatever by virtue of, or by availing of, any provision of this Indenture to affect, disturb or prejudice the rights of any other Holders of Notes of the same Class or to obtain or to seek to obtain priority or preference over any other Holders of the Notes of the same Class or to enforce any right under this Indenture, except in the manner herein provided and for the equal and ratable benefit of all the Holders of Notes of the same Class subject to and in accordance with the Priority of Payments.

In the event the Trustee shall receive conflicting or inconsistent requests and indemnity from two or more groups of Holders of the Controlling Class, each representing less than a Majority of the Controlling Class, the Trustee shall act at the direction of the group of Holders representing a greater percentage of the Controlling Class. If both groups represent the same percentage, the Trustee in its sole discretion may determine what action, if any, shall be taken, notwithstanding any other provisions of this Indenture. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, Holders and beneficial owners of Notes may enforce the obligations of other Holders and beneficial owners described in Section 13.1(d) (Subordination; Non-Petition).

Section 5.9. Unconditional Rights of Holders to Receive Principal and Interest. Subject to Section 2.8(i) (Payment of Principal and Interest and Other Amounts; Principal and Interest Rights Preserved), but notwithstanding any other provision in this Indenture, the Holders of any Secured Note shall have the right, which is absolute and unconditional, to receive payment of the principal of and interest on such Secured Note as such principal and interest become due and payable in accordance with the Priority of Payments and Section 13.1 (Subordination; Non-Petition), and, subject to the provisions of Section 5.8 (Limitation on Suits), to institute proceedings for the enforcement of any such payment, and such right shall not be impaired without the consent of such Holder. Holders of Secured Notes ranking junior to Notes still Outstanding shall have no right to institute proceedings for the enforcement of any such payment until such time as no Secured Note ranking senior to such Secured Note remains Outstanding, which right shall be subject to the provisions of Section 5.8 (Limitation on Suits), and shall not be impaired without the consent of any such Holder.

Section 5.10. Restoration of Rights and Remedies. If the Trustee or any Noteholder has instituted any Proceeding to enforce any right or remedy under this Indenture and such Proceeding has been discontinued or abandoned for any reason, or has been determined adversely to the Trustee or such Noteholder, then and in every such case the Co-Issuers, the Trustee or Noteholder shall, subject to any determination in such Proceeding, be restored severally and respectively to their former positions hereunder, and thereafter all rights and remedies of the Trustee and the Secured Parties shall continue as though no such Proceeding had been instituted.

Section 5.11. Rights and Remedies Cumulative. No right or remedy herein conferred upon or reserved to the Trustee or any Secured Party is intended to be exclusive of any other right or remedy, and every right and remedy shall, to the extent permitted by law, be cumulative and in addition to every other right and remedy given hereunder or now or hereafter existing at law or in equity or otherwise. The assertion or employment of any right or remedy hereunder, or otherwise, shall not prevent the concurrent assertion or employment of any other appropriate right or remedy.

Section 5.12. Delay or Omission Not Waiver. No delay or omission of the Trustee or any Holder of Secured Notes to exercise any right or remedy accruing upon any Event of Default shall impair any such right or remedy or constitute a waiver of any such Event of Default or an acquiescence therein or of a subsequent Event of Default. Every right and remedy given by this Article 5 or by law to the Trustee or to the Holders of Secured Notes may be exercised from time to time, and as often as may be deemed expedient, by the Trustee or by the Holders of the Secured Notes, as the case may be.

Section 5.13. Control by Majority of Controlling Class. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Indenture, at least a Majority of the Controlling Class shall have the right following the occurrence, and during the continuance of, an Event of Default to cause the institution of and direct the time, method and place of conducting any Proceeding for any remedy available to the Trustee; provided, that:

(a) such direction shall not conflict with any rule of law or with any express provision of this Indenture;

(b) the Trustee may take any other action deemed proper by the Trustee that is not inconsistent with such direction; provided, however, that subject to Section 6.1 (Certain Duties and Responsibilities of the Trustee), the Trustee need not take any action that it determines might involve it in liability (unless the Trustee has received the indemnity as set forth in (c) below);

(c) the Trustee shall have been provided with indemnity reasonably satisfactory to it; and

(d) notwithstanding the foregoing, any direction to the Trustee to undertake a Sale of the Assets shall be by the Holders of Notes secured thereby representing the requisite percentage of the Aggregate Outstanding Amount of Notes specified in Section 5.4 (Remedies) and/or 5.5 (Optional Preservation of Assets).

Section 5.14. Waiver of Past Defaults. Prior to the time a judgment or decree for payment of the Money due has been obtained by the Trustee, as provided in this Article 5, at least a Majority of the Controlling Class may on behalf of the Holders of all the Notes waive any past Default and its consequences, except a Default:

(a) in the payment of the principal of any Secured Note (which may be waived with the consent of each Holder of such Secured Note);

(b) in the payment of interest on the Notes of the Controlling Class (which may be waived with the consent of the Holders of 100% of the Controlling Class);

(c) in respect of a covenant or provision hereof that under Section 8.2 (Supplemental Indentures With Consent of Holders of Offered Securities) cannot be modified or amended without the waiver or consent of the Holder of each Outstanding Note adversely affected thereby (which may be waived with the consent of each such Holder); or

(d) in respect of a representation contained in Section 7.19 (Representations and Warranties Relating to Security Interests in the Assets) (which may be waived by at least a Majority of the Controlling Class if the S&P Rating Condition is satisfied).

In the case of any such waiver, the Co-Issuers, the Trustee and the Holders of the Notes shall be restored to their former positions and rights hereunder, respectively, but no such waiver shall extend to any subsequent or other Default or impair any right consequent thereto. The Trustee shall promptly give written notice of any such waiver to S&P, Moody's, the Portfolio Manager and each Noteholder.

Upon any such waiver, such Default shall cease to exist, and any Event of Default arising therefrom shall be deemed to have been cured, for every purpose of this Indenture, but no such waiver shall extend to any subsequent or other Default or impair any right consequent thereto.

Section 5.15. Undertaking for Costs. All parties to this Indenture agree, and each Holder of any Note by his acceptance thereof shall be deemed to have agreed, that any court may in its discretion require, in any suit for the enforcement of any right or remedy under this Indenture, or in any suit against the Trustee for any action taken, or omitted by it as the Trustee, the filing by any party litigant in such suit of an undertaking to pay the costs of such suit, and that such court may in its discretion assess reasonable costs, including reasonable attorneys' fees, against any party litigant in such suit, having due regard to the merits and good faith of the claims or defenses made by such party litigant; but the provisions of this Section 5.15 (Undertaking for Costs) shall not apply to any suit instituted by the Trustee, to any suit instituted by any Noteholder, or group of Noteholders, holding in the aggregate more than 10% in Aggregate Outstanding Amount of the Controlling Class, or to any suit instituted by any Noteholder for the enforcement of the payment of the principal of or interest on any Note on or after the applicable Stated Maturity (or, in the case of redemption, on or after the applicable Redemption Date). Such waiver shall not affect the rights of any Hedge Counterparty, which rights shall be governed by its respective Hedge Agreements.
