26. Defendant Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund, L.P. ("CDO Fund") is a Bermuda exempted limited partnership, with its principal place of business at 52 Reid Street, Hamilton, Bermuda. Highland Capital controls CDO Fund's investment decisions through an investment management agreement. Between January 31, 2007 and August 31, 2008, Highland Capital's and its affiliates' aggregate ownership interest in CDO Fund ranged between 43.36% and 56.44%. Highland CDO Opportunity Fund, L.P. and Highland CDO Opportunity Fund, Ltd. serve as so-called "feeder funds" for defendant CDO Fund.

4. The Affiliated Transferee Defendants [REDACTED]

27. Defendant Highland Credit Strategies Master Fund, L.P. (“Credit Strategies”) is a Bermuda limited partnership organized with its principal place of business at Victoria Place, 31 Victoria Street, Hamilton HM10, Bermuda. Credit Strategies transacts business within New York, and derives substantial revenue from interstate and international commerce.

28. Defendant Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, L.P. (the “Crusader Fund”) is a Bermuda limited partnership with its principal place of business at Victoria Place, 31 Victoria Street, Hamilton HM10, Bermuda. The Crusader Fund also has an office located at 13455 Noel Road, Suite 800, Dallas, Texas 75240. The Crusader Fund transacts business within New York, and derives substantial revenue from interstate and international commerce.

29. Defendant Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, L.P. (the “Credit Opp. Fund”) is a Delaware limited partnership with its principal place of business at 13455 Noel Road, Suite 800, Dallas, Texas 75240.

30. Credit Strategies, the Crusader Fund and the Credit Opp. Fund are referred to herein collectively as the “Affiliated Transferee Defendants” [REDACTED]

D. Non-Parties Affiliated With Highland Capital In Which The Fund Counterparties Invested

31. The Fund Counterparties held investments in several Highland Capital-affiliated funds, including Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, L.P., Highland Legacy, Highland Loan Funding V, Highland Park CDO I, Ltd., Highlander Euro CDO B.V. and Highlander Euro

CDO III B.V. Highland Capital served as the investment manager for these affiliated funds, and received valuable fees derived from the valuations of these funds' assets, which it managed.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

32. Venue in this Court is proper under CPLR 503 because plaintiff UBSS has a principal place of business in New York County.

33. Venue is also proper under CPLR 501, and this Court may exercise jurisdiction over the Fund Counterparties because UBS, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties all agreed in writing, before this action was commenced, to submit to such jurisdiction and venue, in connection with any dispute that may arise out of, in connection with, or related to, the Agreements (defined below), or any of the matters contemplated thereby. This Court also may exercise jurisdiction over Highland Financial because it is the alter ego of SOHC.

34. This Court also may exercise jurisdiction over all defendants pursuant to CPLR 301 and 302(a)(1) and (3), because defendants regularly transact and solicit business in New York, committed tortious acts causing injury in New York, should reasonably have expected that their tortious acts would have consequences in New York, the effect of their wrongful conduct was felt in New York, and/or derive substantial revenue from interstate or international commerce. Additionally, Highland Capital has an office in New York and is a foreign limited partnership registered to do business in New York.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

A. The Original Engagement

35. In or around April 2007, Highland Capital approached UBS for short-term financing in connection with a securitization that Highland Capital wanted to sponsor. UBS agreed to do so (the "Original Engagement").

36. On or about April 20, 2007, UBSS and Highland Capital entered into an engagement letter (the “Original Engagement Letter”), which contemplated that UBSS would act as the exclusive financial arranger and placement agent for a type of collateralized debt obligation transaction (“CDO”), known as a collateralized loan obligation (“CLO”) squared or “CLO Squared” transaction. (A copy of the Original Engagement Letter is annexed hereto as Exhibit A.)

37. CLOs are a form of securitization where interest and principal payments on corporate loans made to multiple mid-sized and large businesses are pooled together by a lender or the owner of the loans, and then passed on through a securitization structure to investors. CLOs typically involve multi-million dollar loans known as syndicated loans, or leveraged loans made to new businesses or existing businesses, often to acquire other companies. The loan originators are able to spread risk through the CLO securitization, and simultaneously free up capital to make new loans to other businesses. The Original Engagement contemplated the securitization of CLO securities. Thus, the securitization contemplated by Highland Capital would have been a “CLO Squared” transaction.

38. On or about May 22, 2007, as contemplated by the Original Engagement Letter, UBSS and Highland Capital entered into a warehouse agreement (the “Original Cash Warehouse Agreement”). (A copy of the Original Cash Warehouse Agreement is annexed hereto as Exhibit B.) In accordance with the terms of the Original Engagement Letter and the Original Cash Warehouse Agreement, UBSS agreed to acquire securities as directed by Highland Capital. Highland Capital instructed UBS to acquire various CLO securities issued in connection with prior CLO transactions involving other sponsors and issuers (the “Cash Portfolio”).

39. In a separate but related synthetic warehouse agreement (the “Original Synthetic Warehouse Agreement,” and together with the “Original Cash Warehouse Agreement,” the “Original Warehouse Agreements”), UBS AG agreed to enter into credit default swaps (the “CDS Portfolio,” and together with the Cash Portfolio, the “Warehouse Assets”), pursuant to which UBS AG sold credit protection to various third parties. (A copy of the Original Synthetic Warehouse Agreement is annexed hereto as Exhibit C.)

40. For Highland Capital’s benefit, UBS held the Warehouse Assets on its balance sheet (the “Warehouse Facility”). UBS was expected to hold the Warehouse Assets until such time as the parties could arrange for the assets to be securitized as part of the contemplated securitization. In particular, if the parties believed that a securitization was economically feasible, they would create a special purpose entity that would acquire the Warehouse Assets from UBS using the proceeds from the sale of securities to investors. The special purpose entity’s debt securities would be secured by those Warehouse Assets.

41. Under the Original Warehouse Agreements, if the Original Engagement terminated without a securitization, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties were obligated to pay UBS for losses on the Warehouse Assets. In particular, under the terms of the Original Cash Warehouse Agreement, Highland Capital was directly responsible for the first $50 million in losses in the Cash Portfolio, and under the terms of the Original Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the Fund Counterparties were obligated to pay UBS for any and all losses suffered on the CDS Portfolio.

42. The Original Engagement Letter expired by its terms on August 15, 2007 without a securitization occurring. The Original Warehouse Agreements expired on the same date in accordance with their respective terms.

43. As of August 15, 2007, the Warehouse Assets in the Warehouse Facility had lost in excess of $86 million in value. Although they had sufficient capital to do so,

Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties failed and refused to pay UBS what it was owed under the Original Warehouse Agreements.

44. As a result of extensive negotiations as well as representations and warranties made by Highland Capital on its own behalf, and on behalf of the Fund Counterparties as their investment manager, UBS agreed to restructure the terms of the Original Engagement.

B. Highland Capital And The Fund Counterparties Resort To Fraud To Avoid Highland Capital's Obligations To UBS

45. As alleged above, as a result of the termination of the Original Engagement, Highland Capital was directly liable to UBS under the Original Warehouse Agreement for in excess of $86 million.

46. Between August 2007 and March 14, 2008, UBS, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties had discussions and negotiations concerning a restructuring of the terms of the Original Engagement. Those negotiations resulted in agreements to restructure the Original Engagement (the "Restructured Transaction"), including a release by UBS of its claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties arising out of the Original Engagement. (The terms of the Restructured Transaction are set forth in the Engagement Letter and Warehouse Agreements described below (collectively, the "Agreements"), which are annexed hereto as Exhibits D, E and F, respectively.)

47. During the course of negotiations and before March 14, 2008, Highland Capital and Fund Counterparties made several material misrepresentations to UBS concerning the creditworthiness of the Fund Counterparties. Dondero, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties also failed to disclose to UBS information which would have been material to UBS's decision to enter the Restructured Transaction ("Omissions," as defined above). As

Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knew, UBS reasonably relied upon those material misrepresentations and, due to the Omissions, a misstated assessment of the Fund Counterparties, all to its detriment in deciding whether to enter the Restructured Transaction. UBS reasonably and justifiably relied on these misrepresentations and Omissions of facts and information that were solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Given UBS's prior dealings with Highland Capital and its affiliates, as well as Highland Capital's size and presence in the market, UBS reasonably believed that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties would not provide it with false, incomplete or otherwise misleading information about the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets as it in fact did.

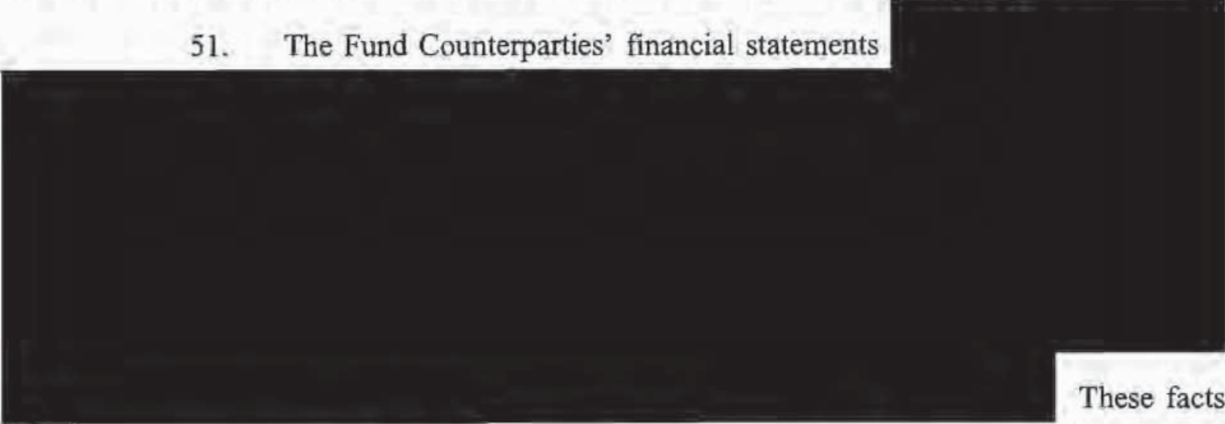

48. For example, on or about December 28, 2007, to induce UBS to enter the Restructured Transaction and related Agreements, Gibran Mahmud of Highland Capital sent SOHC financial statements to UBS. On or about January 29, 2008, UBS requested additional financial information related to SOHC. Later that same day, to induce UBS to enter the Restructured Transaction and related Agreements, Phil Braner of Highland Capital emailed UBS a copy of SOHC's Statement of Financial Condition, dated December 31, 2007.

49. As described with more particularity below, the SOHC financial information that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided to UBS, which Highland Capital was responsible for preparing, was materially false and misleading. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knew that UBS would rely upon SOHC's financial information in connection with deciding whether to agree to the Restructured Transaction and the terms of the Agreements being negotiated.

50. On or about February 4, 2008, Matt Killebrew of Highland Capital provided UBS with financial reports via email that reflected financial summaries, and aggregate valuations for CDO Fund's assets as of December 31, 2007. On or about March 4, 2008, Mr. Killebrew sent UBS similar reports for the period ended January 31, 2008. As described with more particularity below, these financial reports, which Highland Capital prepared, also were materially false and misleading. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knew that UBS would rely upon CDO Fund's financial information in connection with deciding whether to agree to the Restructured Transaction and the terms of the Agreements being negotiated.

51. The Fund Counterparties' financial statements and information were solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties.

These facts

52. CDO Fund's financial statements

[REDACTED]

53. Similarly, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties concealed from UBS the fact that the Fund Counterparties [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

54. In addition, the Fund Counterparties' financial statements that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided to UBS in advance of the Restructured Transaction contained [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

55. During the course of negotiations concerning the restructuring, UBS also insisted that the Fund Counterparties have the ability to post $70 million in cash and securities as collateral, which would be held at State Street Bank (the "Initial Restructured Transaction Collateral"), and in which UBS would hold a security interest. The Fund Counterparties' ability to do so using their own assets was qualitatively and quantitatively material to UBS. Among other things, it demonstrated the strength of their balance sheets, and by extension, their ability to satisfy future obligations to UBS.

56. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties agreed that the Fund Counterparties would post $70 million in Initial Restructuring Collateral.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

58. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] As the Fund Counterparties' investment manager, Highland Capital maintained the Fund Counterparties' accounting records, and knew [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Given UBS's prior dealings with Highland Capital and its affiliates, as well as Highland Capital's size and presence in the market, UBS had no reason to believe, and reasonably did not believe, that Highland Capital would provide it with false, incomplete or otherwise misleading information about [REDACTED]

59. If UBS had known that the Fund Counterparties [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] It also would have drawn into question the Fund Counterparties' liquidity.
[REDACTED]

60. But for Dondero's, Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' false and misleading statements and Omissions concerning the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets, and [REDACTED] UBS would not have entered into the Restructured Transaction or the Agreements that memorialized its terms. Given the Fund Counterparties' weak credit quality, additional adverse information about their collective or individual creditworthiness would have deterred UBS from going forward with the Restructured Transaction and putting more assets at risk. These misrepresentations and Omissions proximately caused harm to UBS.

61. UBS would not have entered into a transaction with parties that made misrepresentations as Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties did. UBS also would not have agreed to release its valuable claims arising out of the Original Engagement under such circumstances. Because of, and in reliance on, the false and misleading information about the Fund Counterparties provided by Dondero, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties, UBS entered into the Restructured Transaction memorialized in the Agreements. Because each of the misrepresentations and Omissions identified above disguised the Fund Counterparties' inability to satisfy their obligations to UBS, the misrepresentations and Omissions proximately caused harm to UBS.

C. The Restructured Transaction Agreements

1. The Engagement Letter

62. On or about March 14, 2008, the parties reached agreement on the terms of a restructured engagement, which were memorialized in a new engagement letter (the “Engagement Letter,” annexed hereto as Exhibit D). Pursuant to the Engagement Letter, Highland Capital re-engaged UBSS to act as placement agent in the event that market conditions improved, and the parties could go forward with securitizing the Warehouse Assets already held by UBS in the Warehouse Facility. UBS agreed to continue holding the Warehouse Assets in the Warehouse Facility, which had a notional value of approximately $818 million.

63. Under the terms of the Engagement Letter, UBS released claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties arising out of the Original Engagement.

2. The Restructured Warehouse Agreements

64. On March 14, 2008, UBSS, the Fund Counterparties and Highland Capital also entered into a cash warehouse agreement (the “Cash Warehouse Agreement”), pursuant to which UBSS agreed to continue to hold the Cash Portfolio. (A true and correct copy of the Cash Warehouse Agreement is annexed hereto as Exhibit E.)

65. UBS AG, the Fund Counterparties and Highland Capital also entered into a synthetic warehouse agreement, dated as of March 14, 2008 (the “Synthetic Warehouse Agreement,” and together with the Cash Warehouse Agreement, the “Warehouse Agreements”), pursuant to which UBS AG agreed to continue warehousing credit protection that it sold, i.e., the CDS Portfolio. (A true and correct copy of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement is annexed hereto as Exhibit F.)

66. Section 13(B) of the Cash Warehouse Agreement and § 11(B) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement make Highland Capital liable for losses, including losses in the Warehouse Facility, by reason of acts or omissions constituting bad faith, willful misconduct, or gross negligence.

67. Under § 12 of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the Fund Counterparties agreed to transfer to State Street the Initial Restructuring Collateral to partially secure their respective obligations to UBS under the Warehouse Agreements. Annex C to the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement identified the six assets that the Fund Counterparties purportedly transferred to State Street to satisfy their Initial Restructuring Collateral obligations, along with $20 million in cash.

68. The Warehouse Agreements also contained releases whereby UBS agreed to release claims it had against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties for losses arising out of the Original Engagement.

D. Highland Capital Uses Its Control Over The Fund Counterparties To Dissipate Their Assets Without Regard For The Fund Counterparties' Growing Obligations To UBS

69. Almost immediately after the Restructured Transaction Agreements were executed, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knowingly began to dissipate the Fund Counterparties' assets and make it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to ever repay UBS what they owed. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties did so at various times when the Fund Counterparties owed UBS hundreds of millions of dollars.

70. For example, on or about March 26, 2008, just days after entering the Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital caused certain SOHC assets to be encumbered by entering into a transaction with Barclays Bank, plc. ("Barclays"). At or around the same time, CDO Fund was negotiating financing arrangements with Morgan Stanley & Co. International Ltd. and Highland Capital IV SPC, whereby it granted a security interest in its assets to those entities. By granting a security interest in the Fund Counterparties' assets to other creditors,

Highland Capital unfairly and improperly reduced the assets available to satisfy the Fund Counterparties' obligations to UBS in bad faith and in violation of UBS's rights.

71. Similarly, on or about April 2, 2008, Highland Capital advised UBS that defendant CDO Fund had recently monetized a $129 million long position in SunCom Wireless. When Highland Capital and CDO Fund subsequently provided UBS with additional financial information about CDO Fund, however, UBS discovered that Highland Capital had caused CDO Fund to transfer approximately $100 million of the cash proceeds from the SunCom Wireless sale out of CDO Fund.

72. By improperly removing such a substantial amount of cash from CDO Fund, Highland Capital interfered in bad faith with CDO Fund's ability to satisfy its steadily increasing financial obligations to UBS. In particular, in or around May 2008, when the cash proceeds from the SunCom Wireless position were siphoned off, the Fund Counterparties owed UBS in excess of $166 million related to losses in the Warehouse Facility, approximately 50% of which CDO Fund was obligated to pay.

73. Highland Capital also repeatedly caused SOHC's cash to be transferred by defendant Highland Financial. In particular, during the first five months of 2008, SOHC's cash position was reduced by over $10 million at a time when its obligations to UBS were increasing substantially.

E. In the Fall of 2008, Losses Mount And The Fund Counterparties Face Collateral Calls From Creditors Including UBS That They Cannot Meet Despite Highland Capital's Belated Efforts To Do So [REDACTED]

74. Under the terms of the Warehouse Agreements, the Fund Counterparties were required to post additional collateral with UBS if the combined market value of (a) the Warehouse Assets and (b) the Initial Restructured Transaction Collateral, declined below a certain amount.

75. By September 2008, losses in the Warehouse Facility had increased significantly. At the same time, the value of the Initial Restructuring Collateral had declined substantially, as had the value of the assets held by the Fund Counterparties.

76. Highland Capital was desperate to avoid a default by any of its affiliates, including the Fund Counterparties. If a Highland Capital affiliate defaulted on its obligations to a creditor, Highland Capital's reputation in the investment community would be damaged, and there was a risk that Highland Capital's business would collapse. Highland Capital feared that a public default would lead investors in Highland Capital's hedge fund family to withdraw their capital, and lead creditors to take aggressive actions to protect themselves, including foreclosing on collateral and aggressively enforcing their contractual rights.

1. The First Margin Call

77. On or about September 16, 2008, as losses in the Warehouse Facility continued to grow, UBS began to exercise its contractual rights and make margin calls demanding additional collateral from the Fund Counterparties. Specifically, UBS notified Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties that, pursuant to § 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the Fund Counterparties were each required to post $10 million in cash or equivalent securities (the "First Margin Call").

78. Because Highland Capital had routinely drained cash from the Fund Counterparties, the Fund Counterparties lacked the liquidity to meet UBS's demands using their own assets.

79. On or about September 19, 2008, the Fund Counterparties satisfied the First Margin Call by together posting $20 million in cash as additional collateral.

[REDACTED]

2. UBS Is Harmed By Highland Capital's Response To The Fund Counterparties' Liquidity Crisis

80. In the wake of the First Margin Call, the Fund Counterparties remained starved for liquidity. Still desperate to avoid defaults to creditors and the consequences described above, Highland Capital resorted to

[REDACTED]

81. Highland Capital and the individuals that directed the Fund Counterparties knew that they had caused the Fund Counterparties to become incapable of satisfying their obligations to all of their respective creditors when they came due, and that they were insolvent or, at the very least, within the zone of insolvency.

82. For example, on or about September 26, 2008, Dondero and Highland Capital improperly

[REDACTED]

86.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Highland Capital executed this plan at UBS's expense to protect their substantial personal stake in Highland Financial and prevent negative publicity associated with defaulting [REDACTED]. Implementing this plan, however, caused SOHC (and its alter ego, Highland Financial) to improperly and in bad faith breach duties and obligations to UBS.

87.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] SOHC's expected obligations to UBS were well in excess of $250 million, which were due and owing to UBS no later than March 14, 2009. Thus, by [REDACTED], Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties made a fraudulent conveyance and interfered in bad faith with the Fund Counterparties' ability to meet their contractual obligations to UBS.

88. Given the state of the financial markets at the time, Highland Capital, Highland Financial and SOHC had no expectation that SOHC would be able to satisfy its obligations to UBS when they came due.

89.

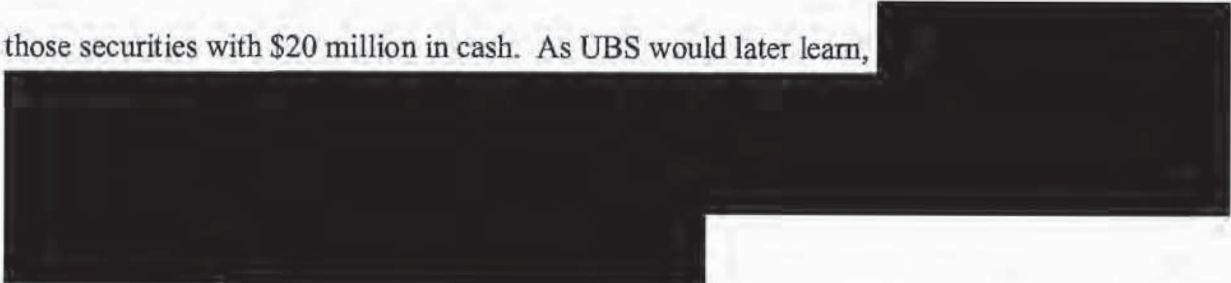

3. The Second Margin Call

90. On or about October 21, 2008, UBS notified Highland Capital that, pursuant to § 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the Fund Counterparties each owed another $10 million (the “Second Margin Call”).

91. In response to the Second Margin Call, Highland Capital offered UBS numerous assets as collateral. UBS rejected those offers for various business-related reasons. As UBS would later learn, however, at the time Highland Capital was offering the assets to UBS, the Fund Counterparties did not own them.

92. On or about October 24, 2008, the Fund Counterparties satisfied the Second Margin Call by together posting assets with a notional value of $49.97 million (but a market value of approximately $20 million), with the understanding that UBS would authorize State Street to return the securities if and when the Fund Counterparties were able to replace those securities with $20 million in cash. As UBS would later learn,

93. Moreover, at the same time that Highland Capital was telling UBS that the Fund Counterparties did not have sufficient cash assets to meet the Second Margin call,

4. The Third Margin Call

94. On or about November 7, 2008, UBS notified Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties that, pursuant to § 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the Fund Counterparties had an obligation to post another $10 million as collateral (the “Third Margin Call”).

95. On or about November 11, 2008, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties offered to post various securities to satisfy the Third Margin Call. In response to the Third Margin Call, Phil Braner of Highland Capital emailed UBS a list of proposed collateral including eight securities with a purported market value of approximately $20 million (i.e., twice the amount of cash due to satisfy the Third Margin Call).

96. Pursuant to the Warehouse Agreements, UBS was authorized to reject proposed collateral. UBS determined that the proposed additional collateral offered by Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties was unacceptable. On or after November 13, 2008, UBS formally rejected the offered securities, and requested that the Fund Counterparties provide cash or cash equivalent collateral to satisfy their obligations under § 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement.

97. UBS would later learn that [REDACTED]

98. When UBS confronted Highland Capital about this issue Mr. Braner of Highland Capital explained that [REDACTED]

F. Termination Of The Agreements And Demand For Payment Of Losses

99. As of December 3, 2008, the Fund Counterparties still had not met the Third Margin Call in accordance with § 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement. This failure resulted in UBS's declaration of a termination date ("Termination Date") under the Agreements.

100. On December 3, 2008, UBS delivered a letter (the "Termination Date Letter") to Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties notifying them of such failure and the occurrence of a Termination Date under each Agreement. (A true and correct copy of the Termination Date Letter is annexed hereto as Exhibit G.)

101. Sections 5 and 7 of the Cash Warehouse Agreement provided that if the closing date of the securitization contemplated by the Restructured Transaction failed to occur on or prior to March 14, 2009, UBSS could, in its sole discretion, retain any of the securities in the Warehouse Facility or sell such securities to one of UBSS's affiliates or an unaffiliated party.

102. Pursuant to the terms of the Agreements, if the closing date of the securitization contemplated by the Restructured Transaction failed to occur on or prior to March 14, 2009, each of the Fund Counterparties was obligated to pay to UBS its pro rata share of any market value losses on the Warehouse Assets, which UBS determined it had experienced and so notified Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties.

103. On December 19, 2008, UBSS delivered a letter (the "Cash Warehouse Demand Letter") to Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties demanding payment for its losses. (A true and correct copy of the Cash Warehouse Demand Letter is annexed hereto as Exhibit H.) UBSS demanded that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties wire that required amount to UBSS no later than 5:00 pm on December 24, 2008 (i.e., the third business day after the date of the Cash Warehouse Demand Letter) (the "Final Payment Date"). Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties failed to make the required payment to UBSS.

104. The Synthetic Warehouse Agreement provided that in the event the closing date of the securitization contemplated by the Restructured Transaction failed to occur on or prior to March 14, 2009, the Fund Counterparties would be collectively responsible for 100% of the aggregate amount of losses on the CDS Portfolio and each of the Fund Counterparties would pay, after notice of such amount due from UBS, its pro rata share of such amount to UBS within three business days.

105. On December 19, 2008, UBS AG delivered a letter (the “Synthetic Warehouse Demand Letter”) to Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties demanding payment for its losses. (A true and correct copy of the Synthetic Warehouse Demand Letter is annexed hereto as Exhibit I.) UBS AG demanded that the Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties wire the required amount to UBS AG no later than 5:00 PM on the Final Payment Date (i.e., December 24, 2008 — the third business day after the date of the Synthetic Warehouse Demand Letter). Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties failed to make the required payment to UBS AG.

G. Notice Of Failure to Pay, Auction And Final Accounting Letter

106. On January 5, 2009, UBS notified Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties of the failure to make the requisite payments when due pursuant to the Agreements and the applicable demand letters. On or about January 16, 2009, in connection with unwinding the Warehouse Facility, UBS conducted the auction contemplated by the Warehouse Agreements.

107. On or about March 19, 2009, UBS delivered a letter to Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties concerning a final accounting concerning the auction and the losses in the Warehouse Facility. UBS determined that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties owed it $686,853,290.26.

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
(Fraud Against The Fund Counterparties)

115. UBS repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 114 of this Second Amended Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

116. In connection with restructuring the Original Engagement, and negotiating the terms of the Agreements and Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties had a duty to communicate accurate and complete information to UBS.

117. As alleged above, in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties intentionally misrepresented material facts and made Omissions (as defined earlier herein).

118. As set forth in more detail above, prior to the restructuring being completed, and the Agreements being executed, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties misrepresented information and made Omissions to UBS concerning the creditworthiness of the Fund Counterparties as well as information about their finances and assets, including, but not limited to, information regarding the following:

- (a)
- (b)
- (c)

119. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties acted knowingly and purposefully in making the materially false representations and Omissions to UBS in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction to induce UBS to enter the Agreements. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knew that their representations and Omissions were materially false and misleading. Knowingly using material misrepresentations and Omissions, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties intended to induce, and fraudulently induced UBS into entering the Agreements.

120. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties also knew that their false representations and Omissions were material to and caused UBS's decision to enter the Agreements. In particular, the misrepresentations and Omissions were both quantitatively and qualitatively material to UBS inasmuch as UBS would have acted differently had it known the truth about the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets when UBS made the decision to go forward with the restructuring and releasing, among other things, valuable claims against Highland Capital.

121. UBS was not aware and could not have been aware of the falsity and misleading nature of Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' misrepresentations and Omissions. The facts and information underlying the false, inaccurate and incomplete financial reports that Highland Capital provided to UBS in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction were peculiarly within Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' knowledge.

122. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties had superior knowledge compared to UBS about Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets. Indeed, such facts and information were solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Moreover, it was necessary for Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties to complete or clarify the information that it provided to UBS concerning the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets. Consequently, Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' concealment of the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets was fraudulent.

123. UBS reasonably and justifiably relied to its detriment on Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' misrepresentations and Omissions regarding the Fund Counterparties' financial condition and assets. In particular, UBS reasonably and justifiably relied on misrepresentations and Omissions of facts and information solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Given UBS's prior dealings with Highland Capital and its affiliates, as well as Highland Capital's size and presence in the market, UBS had no reason to question the veracity and completeness of the financial information that Highland Capital provided to UBS about the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets. UBS also had no reason to believe that the financial information that Highland Capital provided to it to induce UBS to enter the Restructured Transaction would be false, incomplete or otherwise misleading. When UBS evaluated the Fund Counterparties' financial statements in early 2008,

124. But for Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS would not have entered the Agreements, or released its claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties arising out of the Original Engagement.

125. In reasonable and justifiable reliance on the foregoing material misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS also surrendered and released valuable claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties at a time when UBS could have been made whole for the losses that it had suffered to that point as a result of the Original Engagement. Nor would UBS have suffered the additional losses in the Warehouse Facility.

126. UBS reasonably relied to its detriment on Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions. As a direct and proximate result of Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS continued to maintain the Warehouse Facility through, at least, December 3, 2008, suffering in excess of $686 million in losses that the Fund Counterparties cannot pay to UBS.

127. Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions were the direct and proximate cause of UBS's losses complained of herein. As a direct result of, and in reliance upon, Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS was induced to, among other things, (a) enter the Agreements; (b) release its pre-existing claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties related to the Original Engagement; and (c) assume the credit-risk of the Fund Counterparties; and as a direct result, caused UBS to incur substantial losses and damages in an amount to be determined at trial.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
(Fraud Against The Fund Counterparties)
(Pled Solely To Preserve For Appeal)

128. UBS repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 127 of this Second Amended Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

129. In connection with restructuring the Original Engagement, and negotiating the terms of the Agreements and Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties had a duty to communicate accurate and complete information to UBS.

130. As alleged above, in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties intentionally misrepresented material facts and made Omissions (as defined earlier herein).

131. As set forth in more detail above, prior to the restructuring being completed, and the Agreements being executed, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties misrepresented information and made Omissions to UBS concerning the creditworthiness of the Fund Counterparties and information about their finances, assets and business practices, including, but not limited to, information regarding the following:

- (a) [REDACTED]
- (b) [REDACTED]
- (c) [REDACTED]
- (d) [REDACTED]
- (e) [REDACTED]
- (f) [REDACTED]

(g)

132. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties acted knowingly and purposefully in making the materially false representations and Omissions to UBS in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction to induce UBS to enter the Agreements. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knew that their representations and Omissions were materially false and misleading. Knowingly using material misrepresentations and Omissions, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties intended to induce, and fraudulently induced UBS into entering the Agreements.

133. These Omissions rendered the Fund Counterparties' representations, statements and financial statements materially misleading. Because Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties concealed this information from UBS, UBS could not properly evaluate SOHC's ability to satisfy its obligations to UBS. For instance, UBS received financial reports from Highland Capital for the Fund Counterparties that suggested that the Fund Counterparties held hundreds of millions of dollars worth of assets that could be used to satisfy their obligations to UBS. However, a substantial portion of the assets that UBS reasonably believed would be available, were, in fact, not going to be available to pay UBS because they were going to be encumbered as a result of other transactions. In other words, because Highland Capital concealed its intentions, the financial reports that it provided to UBS were misleading as they provided UBS with false and illusory comfort regarding the Fund Counterparties' capacity to fulfill their contractual obligations to UBS. As the Fund Counterparties' investment manager, Highland Capital would have led the negotiations related to the other financing arrangements.

134. Similarly, during negotiations concerning the Initial Restructuring Collateral, Highland Capital and SOHC made an additional Omission by not disclosing to UBS

the fact that SOHC had a serious liquidity problem. SOHC had to borrow cash from Highland Capital to satisfy the cash portion of its Initial Restructuring Collateral obligation. On or about December 18, 2007, while the parties were negotiating the restructuring, Highland Capital loaned $30 million to SOHC, which Highland Capital and SOHC's alter ego, Highland Financial, earmarked for SOHC to use as collateral in connection with negotiating extensions of warehouse facilities, including the one with UBS. As Highland Financial's and SOHC's investment manager, Highland Capital knew about SOHC's liquidity problems since they were discussed openly at Highland Financial board meetings attended by Highland Capital. The failure to fully disclose SOHC's liquidity problem, and its inability to meet the Initial Restructuring Collateral obligation using its own cash assets was an Omission, because it was indicative of the strength of SOHC's finances and assets, and SOHC's ability to satisfy obligations to UBS.

135. Highland Capital and Fund Counterparties also concealed from UBS that Highland Capital had to commingle assets among its various affiliates and disregard corporate formalities to satisfy the Fund Counterparties' liquidity needs. Facts and information concerning these business practices, including Highland Capital's commingling of assets and disregard of corporate formalities was information solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and its affiliates. As the investment manager to Highland Financial, SOHC and CDO Fund (as well as the Affiliated Transferee Defendants), Highland Capital knowingly arranged and caused the asset transfers between and among the various affiliates in disregard of corporate formalities.

136. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties also knew that their false representations and Omissions were material to and caused UBS's decision to enter the Agreements. In particular, the misrepresentations and Omissions were both quantitatively and qualitatively material to UBS inasmuch as UBS would have acted differently had it known the truth about the Fund Counterparties' finances, assets and business practices when UBS made the decision to go forward with the restructuring and releasing, among other things, valuable claims against Highland Capital.

137. In addition, if UBS had known that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties ignored corporate formalities or that Highland Capital freely transferred assets among its controlled entities, UBS would not have entered the Restructured Transaction. These misrepresentations and Omissions proximately caused harm to UBS.

138. UBS was not aware and could not have been aware of the falsity and misleading nature of Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' misrepresentations and Omissions. The facts and information underlying the false, inaccurate and incomplete financial reports that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided to UBS in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction were peculiarly within Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' knowledge.

139. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties had superior knowledge compared to UBS about Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' finances, assets and business practices. Indeed, such facts and information were solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Moreover, it was necessary for Highland Capital and the Highland Entities to complete or clarify the information that it provided to UBS concerning the Fund Counterparties' finances, assets and business practices. Consequently, Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' concealment about the Fund Counterparties' finances, assets and business practices was fraudulent.

140. UBS reasonably and justifiably relied to its detriment on Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' misrepresentations and Omissions regarding the Fund

Counterparties' financial condition, assets and business practices. In particular, UBS reasonably and justifiably relied on misrepresentations and Omissions of facts and information solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Given UBS's prior dealings with Highland Capital and its affiliates, as well as Highland Capital's size and presence in the market, UBS had no reason to question the veracity and completeness of the financial information that Highland Capital provided to UBS about the Fund Counterparties' finances, assets and business practices. UBS also had no reason to believe that the financial information that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided to it to induce UBS to enter the Restructured Transaction would be false, incomplete or otherwise misleading. When UBS evaluated the Fund Counterparties' financial statements in early 2008,

141. But for Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS would not have entered the Agreements, or released its claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties arising out of the Original Engagement.

142. In reasonable and justifiable reliance on the foregoing material misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS also surrendered and released valuable claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties at a time when UBS could have been made whole for the losses that it had suffered to that point as a result of the Original Engagement. Nor would UBS have suffered the additional losses in the Warehouse Facility.

143. UBS reasonably relied to its detriment on Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions. As a direct and proximate result of Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS continued to maintain the Warehouse Facility through, at least, December 3, 2008, suffering in excess of $686 million in losses that the Fund Counterparties cannot pay to UBS.

144. Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions were the direct and proximate cause of UBS's losses complained of herein. As a direct result of, and in reliance upon, Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS was induced to, among other things, (a) enter the Agreements; (b) release its pre-existing claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties related to the Original Engagement; and (c) assume the credit-risk of the Fund Counterparties; and as a direct result, caused UBS to incur substantial losses and damages in an amount to be determined at trial.

THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION
(Breach of Contract Under the Cash Warehouse Agreement Against The Fund Counterparties)

145. Plaintiff UBSS repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs I through 144 of this Second Amended Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

146. The Cash Warehouse Agreement is a valid and binding contract.

147. UBSS has performed all of its obligations under the Cash Warehouse Agreement.

148. Pursuant to the Cash Warehouse Agreement, each of the Fund Counterparties was required to transfer their respective pro rata shares of additional collateral to satisfy the Third Margin Call within two business days of November 7, 2008. The Fund Counterparties failed to make the required transfer. The Fund Counterparties' failure to make such transfer is a breach under the Cash Warehouse Agreement, and resulted in a Termination Date under the Cash Warehouse Agreement.

149. In accordance with the terms of the Cash Warehouse Agreement, UBSS demanded that each of the Fund Counterparties pay to UBS their respective pro rata shares of the amount of losses on the Cash Portfolio and estimated expenses by 5 P.M. on the Final Payment Date (i.e., December 24, 2008 – the third business day after the date of the Cash Warehouse Demand Letter). The Fund Counterparties failed to pay this amount to UBSS. The failure to pay these amounts to UBSS when due under the Cash Warehouse Agreement constituted a further breach under the Cash Warehouse Agreement.

150. By reason of the foregoing, UBSS has suffered and will continue to suffer damages in an amount to be determined at trial.

FOURTH CAUSE OF ACTION
(Breach of Contract Under the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement Against The Fund Counterparties)

151. Plaintiff UBS AG, repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 150 of this Second Amended Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

152. The Synthetic Warehouse Agreement is a valid and binding contract.

153. UBS AG has performed all of its obligations under the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement.

154. Pursuant to the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, each of the Fund Counterparties were required to transfer their respective pro rata shares of additional collateral to satisfy the Third Margin Call within two business days of November 7, 2008. The Fund Counterparties failed to make the requisite transfer. The failure to make such transfer resulted in a breach and a Termination Date under the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement.

155. UBS AG demanded that each of the Fund Counterparties pay to UBS AG their pro rata share of losses on the CDS Portfolio and estimated expenses by 5 P.M. on the Final Payment Date (i.e., December 24, 2008 – the third business day after the date of the Synthetic Warehouse Demand Letter). The Fund Counterparties failed to pay this amount to UBS. The failure to pay these amounts when due under the Agreements was a further breach under the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement.

156. By reason of the foregoing, UBS AG has suffered and will continue to suffer damages in an amount to be determined at trial.

157. Paragraphs 157 to 166 have been intentionally left blank.

FIFTH CAUSE OF ACTION
(Fraudulent Conveyances Against All Defendants)

167. UBS repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 166 of this Second Amended Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

168. Between March 14, 2008 and December 3, 2008, as losses in the Warehouse Facility grew, Highland Capital exercised its control over the Fund Counterparties and caused the Fund Counterparties to transfer valuable cash and assets out of the Fund Counterparties, thereby impairing their ability to bear losses in the Warehouse Facility, and otherwise satisfy their obligations to creditors, including UBS. 179. As a result of the foregoing fraudulent conveyances, the Fund Counterparties were unable to satisfy their obligations to UBS. As a result of the foregoing fraudulent conveyances, UBS has been harmed in an amount to be determined at trial.

SIXTH CAUSE OF ACTION
(Tortious Interference With Contractual Relations Against The Affiliated Transferee Defendants)
(Pled Solely To Preserve For Appeal)

180. UBS repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 179 of this Second Amended Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

181. The Agreements are valid and binding contracts.

182. The parties agreed that UBS would not bear the risk of any losses in connection with the Restructured Transaction. As a direct result of the Fund Counterparties' breach of the Warehouse Agreements, UBS suffered no less than $686,853,290.26 in damages. Under the terms of the Warehouse Agreements, the Fund Counterparties' obligation to pay UBS for losses in the Warehouse Facility expressly survived the termination of the Agreements.

183. Highland Capital knew of the Agreements, and were familiar with their terms, including the Fund Counterparties' obligations to UBS thereunder. The Affiliated Transferee Defendants, also knew of the Agreements, and their terms, including the Fund Counterparties' obligations to UBS thereunder.

184. Highland Capital and the Affiliated Transferee Defendants intentionally and improperly caused and ensured a breach of the Warehouse Agreements by the Fund Counterparties, thereby tortiously interfering with UBS's rights under the Agreements.

185. Specifically, in 2008 and 2009 Highland Capital wrongfully caused the improper and fraudulent asset transfers, payments, distributions and dividends described above, and thereby tortiously interfered with UBS's contractual relationship with the Fund Counterparties by knowingly impairing UBS's contractual right under the Warehouse Agreements to be reimbursed by the Fund Counterparties for the losses on the Warehouse Assets. For example, Highland Capital wrongfully caused the March 2009 Fraudulent Conveyance for which there was no legitimate purpose. The Affiliated Transferee Defendants

186. Highland Capital and the Affiliated Transferee Defendants

187. Highland Capital and the Affiliated Transferee Defendants engaged in the foregoing unlawful and improper conduct, and tortiously interfered with UBS's contractual rights under the Warehouse Agreements, for their own improper personal gain by knowingly violating UBS's rights and making it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to perform under the Warehouse Agreements. In particular, the foregoing conduct constitutes independent torts and predatory acts directed at UBS for Highland Capital's and the Affiliated Transferee Defendants' own personal gain.

188. As a direct and proximate result of Highland Capital's and the Affiliated Transferee Defendants' tortious interference with UBS's contractual rights under the Agreements, UBS has suffered damages in an amount to be determined at trial. Had Highland Capital and the Affiliated Transferee Defendants not tortiously interfered with UBS's contractual rights, the Fund Counterparties would have been able to make payments to UBS of the amount they owed to UBS under the Warehouse Agreements.

SEVENTH CAUSE OF ACTION
(Declaratory Judgment For General Partner Liability Against Strand)

189. UBS repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 188 of this Second Amended Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

190. A limited partnership's general partner is personally liable for the partnership obligations of the limited partnership.

191. Highland Capital is a Delaware limited partnership. Defendant Strand is Highland Capital's general partner. As such, Strand is personally liable for the liability, debts and obligations of Highland Capital, including but not limited to Highland Capital's liabilities to UBS arising out of the Consolidated Action.

192. A justiciable controversy exists as to whether Strand is liable to UBS for the injuries caused by Highland Capital complained of in the Consolidated Action as a result of Strand being Highland Capital's general partner.

EIGHTH CAUSE OF ACTION
(Declaratory Judgment For Alter Ego Liability Against Highland Financial)

193. UBS repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 192 of this Second Amended Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

194. As alleged above, SOHC breached the Warehouse Agreements and otherwise harmed UBS by engaging in fraudulent misconduct. Highland Financial is SOHC's alter ego and should be held responsible and liable for SOHC's breach of the Warehouse Agreements and fraudulent misconduct.

195. SOHC is a mere instrumentality of Highland Financial. SOHC had no independence and could not exercise any business discretion whatsoever. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] SOHC did not have its own offices, officers or employees. Rather, it shared common officers, directors and employees, as well as common office space, with Highland Financial.

196. As alleged in detail above, Highland Financial completely dominated the day-to-day operations of SOHC as well as SOHC's sister-affiliates. In particular, Highland Financial operated Highland Financial and its subsidiaries, including SOHC, as a single entity, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

197. A justiciable controversy exists as to whether Highland Financial is liable to UBS as SOHC's alter ego for the losses and harm that UBS suffered that were caused by SOHC's breach of the Warehouse Agreements, and the fraudulent and tortious conduct complained of herein.

RELIEF DEMANDED

WHEREFORE, plaintiffs UBSS and UBS AG demand judgment:

(a) On the first cause of action, as against the Fund Counterparties, declaring that UBS was induced to enter the Agreements as a result of fraud committed by the Fund Counterparties, and awarding damages to UBS for all losses and liabilities incurred by UBS, and that UBS incurs, with respect to the Agreements and the Warehouse Facility, including, without limitation, interest, reasonable attorneys' and accountants' fees and expenses and any other losses, fees and expenses that UBS incurred or incurs, in an amount to be determined at trial but in any event, no less than $686,853,290.26;

(b) On the second cause of action, which is pled solely to preserve UBS's appellate rights, as against the Fund Counterparties, declaring that UBS was induced to enter the Agreements as a result of fraud committed by the Fund Counterparties, and awarding damages to UBS for all losses and liabilities incurred by UBS, and that UBS incurs, with respect to the Agreements and the Warehouse Facility, including, without limitation, interest, reasonable attorneys' and accountants' fees and expenses and any other losses, fees and expenses that UBS incurred or incurs, in an amount to be determined at trial but in any event, no less than $686,853,290.26;

(c) On the third cause of action, as against the Fund Counterparties, declaring that the Fund Counterparties breached the Cash Warehouse Agreement, and awarding UBS an amount to be determined at trial;

(d) On the fourth cause of action, as against the Fund Counterparties, declaring that the Fund Counterparties breached the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, and awarding UBS an amount to be determined at trial;

(e) On the fifth cause of action, as against all defendants, (i) declaring that the dispositions of the Fund Counterparties' and Highland Financial's assets, as directed by Highland Capital, constituted fraudulent conveyances; (ii) appointing a receiver over defendants; (iii) directing that a full accounting be had of defendants' affairs and finances; (iv) imposing a constructive trust over defendants' assets until such an accounting is completed; and/or (v) awarding UBS damages in an amount to be determined at trial, but no less than the value of the assets fraudulently and improperly transferred, or, alternatively, directing that defendants and their partners, members or shareholders return to the Fund Counterparties any assets or consideration received from Highland Financial or the Fund Counterparties, directly or indirectly, as distributions, dividends, consideration, compensation, fees, interest, principal or otherwise, between March 14, 2008 and the present.

(f) On the sixth cause of action, as against the Affiliated Transferee Defendants, which is pled solely to preserve UBS's appellate rights, declaring that each of those defendants is liable for tortiously interfering with UBS's contractual rights under the Warehouse Agreements, and awarding UBS an amount to be determined at trial;

(g) On the seventh cause of action, as against defendant Strand, declaring that Strand is responsible for Highland Capital's liability and obligations arising out of the Consolidated Action;

(h) On the eighth cause of action, as against defendant Highland Financial, declaring that Highland Financial is SOHC's alter ego, and that as such, Highland Financial is responsible for SOHC's liability and obligations to UBS arising out of this action;

(i) Awarding UBS punitive damages in an amount to be determined at trial;

(j) Granting UBS its costs and disbursements, including reasonable attorneys' fees and expenses of this action;

(k) Granting UBS pre-judgment interest; and

(l) Granting such other and further relief as the Court deems just and proper.

TRIAL

This action arises out of a failed restructured transaction between plaintiffs UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG, London Branch (collectively, UBS) and defendants Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund, L.P. (CDO Fund) and Highland Special Opportunities Holding Company (SOHC) (together, the Fund Counterparties), and defendant Highland Capital Management, L.P. (Highland Capital) (together with the Fund Counterparties, Highland), for the securitization of collateralized loan obligations (CLOs) and credit default swaps (CDSs).

The court conducted a bench trial from July 9 through July 27, 2018 on plaintiffs' third and fourth causes of action in the second amended complaint for breach of contract, and on defendant Highland Capital's first and second counterclaims against plaintiff UBS Securities

LLC for breach of contract and unjust enrichment, respectively.¹ Based on the credible evidence at trial, the court now makes the following determination as to the breach of contract causes of action and counterclaims.²

In April and May 2007, the parties agreed to pursue a collateralized debt obligations transaction governed by an Engagement Letter, a Synthetic Warehouse Agreement for CDSs, and a Warehouse Agreement for CLOs (Original Agreements). (DX 4, DX 5, DX 6.)³ It is undisputed that UBS acted as the “financial arranger” for the transaction and was responsible for financing the acquisition of assets, which would then be held in portfolios, which the parties refer to as the Cash Warehouse and the Synthetic Warehouse or collectively as the Knox Warehouse. (Ps.’s Findings, ¶ 4; Ds.’s Findings, ¶ 5.)⁴ Highland Capital acted as the “Servicer” and was responsible for identifying the specific CLOs to be securitized and the Reference Obligations for the CDSs to be securitized. (Ps.’s Findings, ¶¶ 3, 4; Ds.’s Findings, ¶¶ 6, 8.)

In furtherance of the transaction, UBS acquired assets with a notional value of $818 million. (Ps.’s Findings, ¶ 6; Ds.’s Findings, ¶ 5.) There were 33 CLO tranches in the Cash Warehouse, with a notional value of $174 million. UBS paid $170 or $170.5 million to acquire the CLOs because the bonds were purchased at a slight discount on their par value. (Ds.’ Findings, ¶ 6; Ps.’s Findings, ¶ 6.) The Synthetic Warehouse contained 87 credit default swaps,

² At the trial, the parties agreed to the submission of extensive evidence, subject to standing objections. This decision is not based on such evidence, unless the decision expressly states otherwise.

³ Defendants’ and plaintiffs’ trial exhibits will be referred to as DX _ and PX _, respectively. The parties’ demonstrative exhibits will be referred to as DX Demo. _ and PX Demo. _

⁴ The Fund Counterparties’ and Highland Capital Management, L.P.’s Proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law will be referred to as Ds.’s Findings. Plaintiffs’ Proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law will be referred to as Ps.’s Findings. Defendants’ Findings are all identified by paragraph number. Plaintiffs’ Findings of Fact are identified by paragraph number, while their Findings of Law are identified only by page number.

with a notional value of $644 million. (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 7; Ps.'s Findings, ¶ 6.). UBS served as the protection seller on all of the CDSs. (Ps.'s Findings, ¶ 4; Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 8.) For five of the CDSs, with a notional value of $45 million, Lehman Brothers Special Financing, Inc. (Lehman) acted as the protection buyer (Lehman Swaps). (Ps.'s Findings, ¶ 8; Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 9; PX 755⁵, at 1.) For 20 of the CDSs, with a notional value of $124 million, UBS acted as both protection seller and protection buyer (the Internal Swaps). (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 10; Ps.'s Findings, ¶ 9; PX 755, at 4-5.)

The Original Agreements expired by their terms on August 15, 2007. (PX 1, at 1.) The parties agreed to restructure the transaction, signing a new Engagement Letter, the 2008 Cash Warehouse Agreement (CWA), and the 2008 Synthetic Warehouse Agreement (SWA), as of March 14, 2008. (See PX 1, PX 2, PX 3.) As of March 14, 2008, the Knox assets had lost significant value and the parties agreed that, given the market conditions existing as of the date of the restructured transaction, it was not then feasible to sell the securities and close the transaction. (Ps.'s Findings, ¶ 20; 2008 Engagement Letter [PX 1, at 8].)

As discussed further below, the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement provided for the roll-over of the Existing Credit Default Swaps and the Existing Collateral Portfolio into the warehouses created under the 2008 restructured transaction. (See SWA, Whereas Clause 5.) Section 12 of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement provided that the Fund Counterparties would transfer additional cash and securities "to secure its obligations to UBS" under the SWA and the CWA. In particular, this Section required the Fund Counterparties to make an Initial Deposit of $20 million in cash and approximately $54 million in Eligible Securities on the date of the execution of the SWA. (Id., § 12 [A].) The SWA contained a collateral call provision under which UBS was required to track its CDS and Cash Exposure to losses, as defined under the Agreement, on a semi-monthly basis, and the Fund Counterparties were required to deposit an additional $10 million in collateral (cash and/or Eligible Securities) for every $100 million increase in the defined Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount. (Id., §§ 12 [B], [C].)

It is undisputed that, pursuant to Section 12 (C) of the SWA, UBS made a first collateral call for $10 million on September 17, 2008 (PX 4), and a second collateral call for $10 million on October 21, 2008 (PX 5), both of which were satisfied by the Fund Counterparties. (Testimony of Keith Grimaldi, Former Head of UBS's CDO Secondary Trading Desk, Trial Transcript (Tr.) at 81, 112, 119.)

On November 7, 2008, UBS issued the third, and final, collateral call to the Fund Counterparties for an additional $10 million. (PX 6.) It is undisputed that the Fund Counterparties did not meet this collateral call. (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 17; Ps.'s Findings, ¶¶ 43-47).⁶

On December 3, 2008, UBS sent a notice to Highland stating that, to date, no deposits have been made in response to the November collateral call, and that "a Termination Date has occurred under the Warehouse Agreements and a termination date has occurred under the Engagement Letter." (PX 7; PX 9.) The notice further stated that "UBS is forbearing from exercising its remedies [under the Agreements] for a period of two Business Days from the date hereof in order to permit [the Fund Counterparties] to pay the Additional Deposits by 5 pm New York time on December 5, 2008." (Id.) On December 5, 2008, UBS sent an additional notice to

⁶ It is undisputed that the Fund Counterparties offered to post CLO assets to satisfy the third collateral call and that UBS did not accept that collateral. UBS's Keith Grimaldi testified that UBS rejected the CLOs because "at that time the marketplace was declining and declining rapidly. We thought there would be more declines, so we collectively made a decision that we wanted cash or government securities ... that would be easily liquid and reflect better value." (Trial Tr. at 122.) Defendants stipulated that UBS had the right to insist on cash. (See Statement of Andrew Cruciani [Ds.'s Atty.], Trial Tr. at 1736.)

Highland stating that the Additional Deposit has not been made, and that “[c]onsequently, UBS will proceed to exercise the rights and remedies available to it under the Warehouse Agreements, the Engagement Letter, at law and otherwise.” (PX 8.)

THIRD COLLATERAL CALL

As a threshold matter, the parties dispute whether the third collateral call was proper. Highland argues that UBS should not have included the 20 Internal Swaps in calculating the Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount “because the Intradesk [i.e., Internal] Swaps were not Existing Credit Default Swaps under the SWA” (Ds.’s Findings, ¶ 28.) Highland also claims that the Lehman Swaps were not properly included in the calculation because they had been terminated prior to the third collateral call. (See id., ¶ 27.)

More particularly, Highland claims that the Internal Swaps were not Existing Credit Default Swaps because they were not documented, as allegedly required by Section 3 of the SWA, in the form of an ISDA Master Agreement and ISDA Confirmation. (Ds.’s Findings, ¶¶ 28, 30-31.) UBS does not dispute that the Internal Swaps were not documented by the ISDA Master Agreement and Confirmation, but argues that Section 3 does not require such documentation for the Internal Swaps. (Ps.’s Findings, at 24-25.)⁷

Resolution of this dispute involves an issue of contract interpretation. It is well settled that the determination of whether a contract is ambiguous is one of law to be resolved by the court. (Matter of Wallace v 600 Partners Co., 86 NY2d 543, 548 [1995]; W.W.W. Assocs., Inc. v Giancontieri, 77 NY2d 157, 162 [1990].) Written agreements are to be construed in accordance with the parties’ intent, and “the best evidence of what parties to a written agreement

intend is what they say in their writing.” (Schron v Troutman Sanders LLP, 20 NY3d 430, 436 [2013] [internal quotation marks, brackets, and citation omitted].) The court should determine from contractual language, without regard to extrinsic evidence, whether there is any ambiguity. (Chimart Assocs. v Paul, 66 NY2d 570, 573 [1986].) Extrinsic or parol evidence “may not be considered when the intent of the parties can be gleaned from the face of the instrument.” (Id. at 572-573.) “Extrinsic evidence of the parties’ intent may be considered only if the agreement is ambiguous. . . .” (Greenfield v Philles Records, Inc., 98 NY2d 562, 569 [2002].) “Ambiguity in a contract arises when the contract, read as a whole, fails to disclose its purpose and the parties’ intent, or where its terms are subject to more than one reasonable interpretation.” (Universal Am. Corp. v National Union Fire Ins. Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa., 25 NY3d 675, 680 [2015] [internal quotation marks and citation omitted].)

It is also well settled that a court should “construe the [contract] so as to give full meaning and effect to the material provisions. A reading of the contract should not render any portion meaningless. Further, a contract should be read as a whole, and every part will be interpreted with reference to the whole; and if possible it will be so interpreted as to give effect to its general purpose.” (Beal Sav. Bank v Sommer, 8 NY3d 318, 324-25 [2007] [internal quotation marks and citations omitted]; National Conversion Corp. v Cedar Bldg. Corp., 23 NY2d 621, 625 [1969] [holding that “[a]ll parts of an agreement are to be reconciled, if possible, in order to avoid inconsistency”].)

Applying these precepts, the court holds that the SWA is not ambiguous with respect to the requirements for documentation of CDSs, that Section 3 of the SWA only applies to CDSs in which a third party is the protection buyer, and that this Section does not require ISDA documentation for the Internal Swaps.

The SWA defines “Existing Credit Default Swap[s]” as the CDSs “that were the subject of the Original Synthetic Warehouse Agreement.” (SWA, Whereas Clause 5.) Section 3 of the SWA provides, in pertinent part:

“Form of Documentation. Each Existing Credit Default Swap between UBS, acting as Seller, and a counterparty, acting as Buyer, has been documented in the form of (i) the ISDA Master Agreement and Schedule currently in effect between UBS and the related counterparty, which documents are confidential between UBS and such counterparty and (ii) an ISDA published confirmation. . . . Each Additional Credit Default Swap between UBS, acting as Seller, and a counterparty, acting as Buyer, will be documented in the form of (i) the ISDA Master Agreement and Schedule currently in effect between UBS and the related counterparty, which documents are confidential between UBS and such counterparty and (ii) the Confirmation attached [to the SWA]”

As the Agreement that governs the securitization of Existing and Additional Credit Default Swaps, the SWA contains numerous detailed provisions regarding the accumulation and disposition of these financial instruments. Section 3, which pertains to documentation of the swaps, is the only provision in the SWA that is limited to CDSs in which UBS is the Seller and a counterparty is the Buyer. All of the other provisions of the SWA refer to CDSs without such limitation.

Moreover, like SWA Section 3, the Original SWA provided: “Each Credit Default Swap between UBS, acting as Seller, and a counterparty, acting as Buyer, will be documented in the form of (i) the ISDA Master Agreement and Schedule currently in effect between UBS and the counterparty, which documents are confidential between UBS and each counterparty and (ii) the Confirmation attached hereto. . . .” (Original SWA, § 3 [NYSCEF Doc. No. 626].) It is undisputed, however, that the Internal Swaps were included in the Original SWA portfolio but were not documented by the ISDA Master Agreement or Confirmation. It is also undisputed that the Internal Swaps were nevertheless again included in the Initial Net Exposure Amount in the SWA for the restructured transaction. (Testimony of Peter Vinella [Highland’s expert in structured financial products], Trial Tr. at 1097, 1124-1125 [acknowledging that the Internal Swaps were included in the Initial Net Exposure Amount].)

Initial Net Exposure Amount is defined in the SWA⁸ as “111,767,486.88, being the amount by which the Aggregate Net Exposure Amount as of the date hereof [i.e., the March 14, 2008 “as of” date of the SWA] exceeds the Initial Deposit.” As defined in SWA Section 12 (A), the Initial Deposit is the deposit of approximately $74,000,000 in cash and Eligible Securities made on the date of execution of the SWA. Aggregate Net Exposure Amount is defined as the amount by which CDS Exposure and Cash Exposure, as of the date of the collateral calculation, exceed the balance on deposit in the Deposit Account plus Positive Carry with respect to each Collateral Obligation.⁹ As discussed above, Section 12 (C) of the SWA requires a deposit of $10 million in additional collateral when the Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount is greater than or equal to $100 million. The Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount is defined in the SWA as “the amount, if any, by which (i) the Aggregate Net Exposure Amount as of [the date of the collateral calculation] exceeds (ii) the Initial Net Exposure Amount.” The Initial Net Exposure Amount, which includes the Internal Swaps, is thus integral to the calculation of the Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount.

Based on this reading of the SWA as a whole, the court concludes that the Internal Swaps were Existing Credit Default Swaps within the meaning of the SWA. The lack of ISDA documentation was therefore not a bar to their inclusion in the collateral call calculation.

The court rejects Highland’s further contention that the Internal Swaps should not have been included because there was “no economic consequence” to UBS from these swaps. (Ds.’s

⁸ Definitions are found in the Definitions section of the SWA (SWA, Ex. A), unless the term is defined in a particular provision of the SWA, in which case the provision will be cited.

⁹ Positive Carry is defined in the CWA. As explained by Adam Warren, Highland’s damages expert, carry includes interest payments from the CLOs. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1299.)

Findings, ¶ 33.) The complex formula set forth in Section 12 for calculating the exposure of UBS on the assets in the warehouse that would trigger a collateral call does not contain any requirement that UBS include in the calculation only assets for which it was at risk of sustaining actual losses.¹⁰

The court further holds that, although the Internal Swaps were properly included in the third collateral call calculation, the Lehman Swaps were not. The parties do not dispute that the Lehman Swaps had been terminated based on the Event of Default that occurred upon Lehman's filing for bankruptcy on September 15, 2008. (DX 87 [UBS Default Notice].) Highland asserts, and UBS does not persuasively counter, that the Lehman Swaps should not have been included in the third collateral call. Indeed, UBS's Grimaldi forthrightly acknowledged that, given the termination, there should not have been "markdowns" on the Lehman Swaps. (Grimaldi Testimony, Trial Tr. at 297-298.).

Highland contends, based on the inclusion of the Lehman Swaps and Internal Swaps in the third collateral call calculation, that UBS "committed a prior material breach by failing to ¹⁰ In view of this holding that the Internal Swaps were properly included in the collateral call calculation pursuant to the unambiguous terms of the SWA, the court has not considered parol evidence on the issue.

The court thus rejects Highland's request for a finding that UBS admitted that the SWA required ISDA documentation of the Internal Swaps. (See Ds.'s Findings, ¶¶ 30-31.) This request is based on testimony of UBS's Keith Grimaldi who, when shown Section 3 during cross-examination and asked if every CDS was required to have ISDA documentation, responded: "According to the language, yes." (Grimaldi Testimony, Trial Tr. at 262-264.) Even if this evidence were properly considered, Highland's reliance on this answer ignores that Mr. Grimaldi further testified that ISDA documentation would not be "filled out" until the assets were transferred in the securitization. (Id. at 267-270.)

The court further notes that Highland requests a finding, arguably in support of its claim that the CDSs were not Existing Credit Default Swaps, that a CDS "cannot be created with the same legal entity on both sides of the transaction. . . ." (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 29.) Even if parol evidence were properly considered, there was substantial evidence in the record that internal swaps were common in securitizations of synthetic assets. (LeRoux Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1673-1676; (Vinella Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1158-1162 [denying that intracompany swaps are "economic transactions" but acknowledging their use in CLO securitizations].)

properly calculate the collateral call[].” (Ds.’s Findings, ¶¶ 23, 27-28.) In support of this contention, Highland relies on the testimony of its expert Peter Vinella. According to Mr. Vinella’s own analysis, however, if the Lehman swaps are excluded from the calculation for the third collateral call, but the Internal Swaps are included, the total increase in the Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount as of November 4, 2008 is $328.62 million—an amount greater than the $300 million required to authorize the third collateral call pursuant to Section 12 of the SWA. (Vinella Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1122-1139; DX Demo. 8.) Louis Dudney, UBS’s expert in forensic accounting and damages (Trial Tr. at 824), analyzed Mr. Vinella’s testimony and confirmed, using the same numbers as Mr. Vinella, that the Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount still exceeded $300 million on November 4, 2008, after excluding the Lehman Swaps but including the Internal Swaps. (PX Demo. 20 [accepted without objection in lieu of Dudney rebuttal testimony, Trial Tr. at 1870-1871].)

Based on this credible testimony that the threshold for the collateral call was met without the Lehman Swaps, the court holds that the third collateral call did not constitute a material breach of the contract, notwithstanding UBS’s improper inclusion of the Lehman Swaps in the calculation.¹¹ (See generally Awards.Com v Kinko’s, Inc., 42 AD3d 178, 187 [1st Dept 2007], affd 14 NY3d 791, 793 [2010]; Frank Felix Assocs., Ltd. v Austin Drugs, Inc., 111 F3d 284, 289 [2d Cir 1997] [under New York law, for a breach to be material, “it must go to the root of the agreement between the parties”] [internal quotation marks and citations omitted].)

¹¹ In view of this holding that the Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount exceeded $300 million as of November 7, 2008, the court need not reach UBS’s contention that the collateral call was proper because the Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount exceeded $300 million as of December 2, 2008, prior to the termination of the transaction. (Ps.’s Findings, at 15 n 10.)

As discussed above, there is no dispute that the Fund Counterparties failed to meet the third collateral call. The court accordingly finds that the Fund Counterparties breached the SWA and turns to the issue of damages.

DAMAGES

Designation of Ineligible Securities

A critical issue in determining UBS's damages is whether UBS may recover damages for CDSs that UBS retained after its termination of the 2008 transaction, under these circumstances in which UBS did not designate the underlying reference obligations for any of the CDSs as "Ineligible Securities." Resolution of this issue requires interpretation of the SWA. Highland and UBS both contend that the SWA is unambiguous as to whether Ineligible Securities must be designated, but assert fundamentally inconsistent readings of the Agreement. (Ds.'s Findings, ¶¶ 44-49; see Ps.'s Findings, at 29 n 21.)

As held above, the determination of whether a contract is ambiguous is one of law to be resolved by the court. (Matter of Wallace, 86 NY2d at 548.) Ambiguity will be found to arise where the terms of a contract are "subject to more than one reasonable interpretation." (Universal Am. Corp., 25 NY3d at 680 [internal quotation marks and citation omitted].) As also held above, a court should construe a contract so as to give full meaning and effect to its material provisions, and should read the contract as a whole and so as not to render any portion meaningless, if possible. (See Beal Sav. Bank, 8 NY3d at 324-25.)

Sections 5 (A), 5 (B), and 6 of the SWA are relevant to the calculation of CDS damages: Section 5 (A) provides for the calculation of losses with respect to CDSs removed from the warehouse during the term of the Agreement or "otherwise pursuant to Section 6"; Section 5 (B) (2) governs the calculation of losses upon a closing; and Section 6 governs this calculation in the event of a failure to close, incorporating terms from Sections 5 (A) and 5 (B).

Section 6 provides in pertinent part:

- “(A) If the Closing Date fails to occur on or prior to the Termination Date, then UBS may, with the consent of the related counterparty, either (at the election of the Servicer; provided that notice of such election is received on or prior to the Termination Date) (i) terminate each Credit Default Swap or (ii) novate each Credit Default Swap to a third party or to the Servicer (or any Affiliate of the Servicer designated by the Servicer), in each case, on the Termination Date.
- “(C) To the extent there are any CDS Losses, the CDO Fund and SOHC shall collectively be responsible for 100% of any such CDS Losses. Such CDS Losses shall be allocated between the CDO Fund and SOHC on the basis of their respective Allocation Percentages. Each of the CDO Fund and SOHC shall, after notice of the amount due from UBS, remit such amounts by wire transfer in immediately available funds to UBS within three Business Days after the Termination Date.”

CDS Losses are in turn defined in Section 5 (B) (2), the closing provision, as:

“(x) the sum of (1) the aggregate Floating Amount payments and Physical Settlement Amount payments made by UBS with respect to all of the Credit Default Swaps as to which a Floating Amount Event or a Credit Event occurred under the terms thereof, plus (2) the aggregate amount of Net Hedging Payments made by UBS with respect to all Hedging Transactions related to the Credit Default Swaps, plus (3) the aggregate Replacement Losses determined with respect to all of the Credit Default Swaps and the related Hedging Transactions that were terminated or novated or as to which the exposure was retained by UBS, in each case upon the designation of the Reference Obligation relating to such Credit Default Swap as an Ineligible Security (such amount in this clause (x), the ‘CDS Losses’)”

Relying on the requirement in the definition of CDS Losses that Reference Obligations be designated as Ineligible Securities, Highland argues that “[t]he term ‘CDS Losses’ unambiguously limits UBS's recovery for unrealized (mark-to-market) losses to securities designated as 'Ineligible Securities,' and the Court is bound to enforce the agreement pursuant to its unambiguous terms." (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 46.) Put another way, Highland argues that UBS may recover mark-to-market losses only on CDSs that have been designated Ineligible Securities. (Id., ¶ 53.)¹² UBS asserts, among other things, that under Section 6, UBS may terminate, novate, or retain CDSs regardless of eligibility, that ineligibility designations are not relevant absent a closing, and that Highland's reading renders meaningless other provisions of the SWA. (Ps.'s Findings, at 29 n 21.)

Upon close reading of the SWA, the court concludes that the SWA is not ambiguous with respect to ineligibility designations and that, under Section 6, upon the failure to close UBS is entitled to retain CDSs and to recover losses for the retained CDSs, without first designating the underlying Reference Obligations as Ineligible Securities. Section 6 (A) expressly provides for UBS to terminate or novate the CDSs, and does not require UBS to first make such designation. Although Section 6 (A) does not also, by its terms, provide for UBS to retain CDSs, a reading of the contract as a whole leaves no question that UBS was not only entitled to retain the CDSs upon the failure to close, but also that it was entitled to recover losses on the retained CDSs without first designating the underlying Reference Obligations as Ineligible.¹³

¹² Highland's damages expert, Adam Warren, testified that realized losses are losses sustained where a transaction has been closed out and an actual cash payment has been made. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1249, 1253.) He also testified that, in his opinion, there were no unrealized losses in the Synthetic Warehouse because no assets had been designated as ineligible. (Id. at 1257 ["[O]ur computation is that there are no unrealized losses in the Synthetic Warehouse because of the need to . . . create a designation of ineligible. And we saw no evidence of any Synthetic Warehouse asset being designated ineligible".])

¹³ In its decision of defendants' motion for summary judgment, this court held that it could not determine on the record of that motion whether the SWA was ambiguous with respect to UBS's entitlement to recover losses on retained CDSs, pursuant to Section 6, without a prior designation of such assets as Ineligible Securities. (2017 NY Slip Op. 30546[U], 2017 WL 1103879, * 4-7 [Sup Ct, NY County Mar. 13 2017], aff'd 159 AD3d 512, lv dismissed 32 NY3d 1080.) With the benefit of the parties' extensive trial briefing on this issue, the court now concludes, for the reasons discussed further in the text, that the agreement is not ambiguous.

As the above-quoted definition of CDS Losses in Section 5 (B) (2) shows, this definition relates to Credit Default Swaps which, upon a closing, have been “terminated or novated or as to which the exposure was retained by UBS, in each case upon the designation of the Reference Obligation relating to such Credit Default Swap as an Ineligible Security” After setting forth the definition of CDS Losses (and CDS Gains) in the context of a closing, Section 5 (B) (2) further provides: “To the extent the Closing Date fails to occur, allocation of CDS Losses, CDS Gains and any other amounts payable hereunder will be determined in accordance with the provisions of Section 6 hereof.”

Significantly, while Section 6 (C) incorporates the defined term CDS Losses, the term CDS Losses also incorporates both the definition of Ineligible Security and the term Replacement Losses from Section 5 (A). These incorporated terms modify the definition of CDS Losses where a closing does not occur.

The definition of Ineligible Security pertains to securities that are ineligible for securitization upon a closing. The SWA thus defines Ineligible Security, in pertinent part, as “any Reference Obligation in the CDS Portfolio which has become ineligible for sale to the Issuer on the Closing Date as a result of the failure of such Reference Obligation to conform to the Eligibility Criteria as it exists at such time of determination” (SWA, Exhibit A-2 [emphasis added].)

Section 5 (A), which defines the term Replacement Losses, distinguishes between such Losses sustained during the term of the Agreement and those sustained upon termination in the event of a failure to close pursuant to Section 6. Section 5 (A) primarily addresses the removal of CDSs from the warehouse “during the term of this [the SWA] Agreement” where “a Reference Obligation or the related Credit Default Swap does not conform to the Eligibility Criteria” that must be met for securitization. This section provides that “UBS shall be entitled in good faith to designate any Reference Obligation (and the related Credit Default Swap) as an Ineligible Security and (ii) in its sole discretion to remove any such Reference Obligation (and the related Credit Default Swap) from the CDS Portfolio.” Section 5 (A), however, continues:

“To the extent any such Credit Default Swaps are terminated or novated, or at UBS’s discretion, such exposure is retained following the designation of such Reference Obligations as Ineligible Securities or otherwise pursuant to Section 6, UBS shall determine the Replacement Gain or Replacement Loss relating to such Credit Default Swaps [according to the formula that follows].”

(emphasis added). Section 5 (A) then sets forth a formula for calculating Replacement Gain and Replacement Loss, which specifically provides for such calculation not only upon termination or novation but also upon UBS’s retention of the CDSs. (SWA § 5 [A] [1] – [3].)

Section 5 (A) thus clearly contemplates that UBS may novate, terminate, or retain CDSs both during the term of the Agreement and in the event of a failure to close. The Section affords UBS the discretion to terminate, novate, or retain CDSs “pursuant to Section 6,” as distinct from its discretion to do so upon a designation of the underlying Reference Obligation as Ineligible during the term of the Agreement. Any other reading would render meaningless the Section 5 (A) provision “or otherwise pursuant to Section 6.”

Moreover, in order to reconcile all of the provisions of the SWA, the Section 5 (B) (2) definition of CDS Losses, when used in Section 6, cannot be construed as requiring a designation of Ineligible Securities. As discussed above, Ineligible Securities are defined as securities ineligible for sale at a closing. Section 5 (B) (2), which governs the calculation of losses where a closing will occur, requires the designation of Ineligible Securities to facilitate the parties’ calculation of losses on assets deemed ineligible for inclusion in the securitization that will occur upon the closing. When a closing will not occur, none of the CDSs or other assets will be securitized, and there is no need to distinguish between eligible and ineligible assets. While the definition of CDS Losses with the Ineligible Security designation requirement serves the purposes of Section 5 (B) (2) in the event of a closing, it is inconsistent with the CDS Loss calculation required in Section 6 where the closing does not occur.

Contrary to Highland's apparent contention (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 46), a reading of the CDS Loss provision in Section 6 to permit calculation of losses on retained assets without an Ineligible Security designation does not violate the fundamental precept that a defined term in a contract must be given effect. (See generally Mionis v Bank Julius Baer & Co., 301 AD2d 104, 109 [1st Dept 2002].) Rather, the CDS Loss definition, as used in Section 6, is modified by the contractual provisions discussed above.

Although inartfully drafted, the SWA is not ambiguous. If the contract is read as a whole, and all of the provisions are given meaning, it is reasonably susceptible to only one meaning—namely, that CDS Losses for retained assets may be recovered without a designation of the underlying Reference Obligations as Ineligible Securities where, as here, the contract has been terminated before the closing.¹⁴ The court accordingly holds that UBS is entitled to recover damages for the retained CDSs in the Synthetic Warehouse.¹⁵

Calculation of Damages

As discussed above, UBS terminated the transaction based on the Fund Counterparties'

¹⁴ The court notes that the SWA and the Cash Warehouse Agreement (CWA) both contain provisions which state that the two agreements "set forth the entire understanding of the parties hereto relating to the subject matter hereof" (SWA, § 18; CWA, § 18.) Assuming, without deciding, that these agreements should be read together in construing the SWA, the court finds that, although the assets at issue in the SWA and the CWA have markedly different attributes, the CWA is consistent with the SWA to the extent that the CWA permits UBS, in the event a closing does not occur, to retain and recover for losses on the CLOs that are the subject of the CWA, without a designation of the CLOs as Ineligible Securities. (See CWA, §§ 5 [A], 7 [A].)

failure to meet the third collateral call. UBS sent Highland a notice, dated December 3, 2008, stating that a Termination Date had occurred under the Warehouse Agreements but that it would forbear from exercising its remedies for two days to permit the Fund Counterparties to meet this collateral call. (PX 7.) UBS then sent a further notice to Highland, dated December 5, 2008, stating that it would exercise its remedies as the call had not been met. (PX 8.) UBS held a public auction of the assets in the Knox Warehouse on December 16, 2008. By notice dated December 19, 2008, UBS demanded payment for its claimed losses based on the results of the auction—$157,949,885.47 for the assets in the Cash Warehouse (PX 10) and $587,357,060.59 for the assets in the Synthetic Warehouse. (PX 11.) UBS also notified Highland that it elected to retain the Collateral Obligations in the Cash Warehouse. (PX 10.)

CDS Damages

Highland argues that even if the recovery of damages for the CDSs is not barred by UBS's failure to designate the Reference Obligations for the CDSs as Ineligible Securities (a claim this court has rejected above), UBS has not proved damages for these CDSs. Specifically, Highland contends that UBS did not comply with the contractual requirements for calculation of losses because its post-termination auction was untimely and otherwise improper. (Ds.'s Findings, ¶¶ 57-59.) Highland also contends that UBS's marks do not otherwise "establish a reasonable connection between the asset value and UBS's alleged damages." (Id., ¶¶ 60-65.) UBS disputes these assertions. (Ps.'s Findings, at 29-31.)

Sections 6 (C), 5 (B) (2), and 5 (A) (3) are the provisions of the SWA that govern the calculation of CDS Losses upon termination. Section 6 (C) provides in full:

"To the extent there are any CDS Losses, the CDO Fund and SOHC shall collectively be responsible for 100% of any such CDS Losses. Such CDS Losses shall be allocated between the CDO Fund and SOHC on the basis of their respective Allocation Percentages. Each of the CDO Fund and SOHC shall, after notice of the amount due from UBS, remit such amounts by wire transfer in immediately available funds to UBS within three Business Days after the Termination Date.”

As discussed above, the definition of CDS Losses in Section 5 (B) (2) includes Replacement Loss, the calculation of which is governed by Section 5 (A). With respect to Replacement Loss relating to CDSs that are retained, Section 5 (A) (3) provides in full:

“To the extent UBS retains such exposure, the Replacement Gain and Replacement Loss will be imputed based on the arithmetic average of at least three bids (or, if UBS is unable to obtain three such bids having made commercially reasonable efforts, such lesser number of bids as UBS is able to obtain) obtained by or on behalf of UBS from nationally recognized derivatives dealers in the relevant market (no more than one of which may be UBS or any of its Affiliates; provided that any such bid must be provided in good faith) to assume UBS’s position under such Credit Default Swap.”

The SWA, by its terms, thus contemplated that payment would be made within three days after the Termination Date, subject to notice from UBS. As the SWA provided for an auction to calculate the amount of the losses, it also contemplated that an auction could or would occur within that three day period.

By the terms of UBS’s notices to Highland, although a Termination Date had occurred as of December 3, UBS extended the Fund Counterparties’ time to meet the third collateral call until December 5. The court thus finds that the Fund Counterparties’ breach of the Agreements for failure to meet the third collateral call occurred on December 5. UBS did not conduct the auction to calculate the CDS Losses until December 16.

UBS’s delay of approximately 11 days in conducting the auction, while seemingly de minimis, in fact had momentous financial consequences, given that the delay occurred in the wake of the September 15, 2008 Lehman bankruptcy filing and at the height of the financial crisis. With the market spiraling downward, the CDS losses ascertained through the auction process were approximately $117 million more than the losses calculated by using UBS’s marks on either December 3 or December 5. (PX Demo. 21; DX Demo. 12 [showing UBS and Highland marks as of December 3 and 5; PX Demo. 28 at 60 [Ps.'s Closing Statement Demonstrative Exhibit, acknowledging that CDS damages, as calculated based on the auction, exceeded the losses calculated using UBS's marks on December 3 and 5 by over $117 million].)¹⁶

UBS contends that the three day payment period was for its benefit and that it "could exercise its right to get paid after three business days without waiver." (Ps.'s Findings, at 28.) The court agrees that UBS's delay in demanding payment or holding the auction did not result in a waiver of its right to seek payment of its damages resulting from the Fund Counterparties' breach. (See SWA § 20 ["Neither the failure nor any delay on the part of any party hereto to exercise any right, remedy, power or privilege under this Agreement shall operate as a waiver hereof. . . ."].) Highland correctly contends, however, that the delayed auction could not serve as a basis for calculating UBS's damages because the results of the auction did not reflect market conditions as of the date of termination or breach. (See Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 57.)

As explained by the Court of Appeals:

"It has long been recognized that the theory underlying damages is to make good or replace the loss caused by the breach of contract. Damages are intended to return the parties to the point at which the breach arose and to place the nonbreaching party in as good a position as it would have been had the contract been performed. Thus, damages for breach of contract are ordinarily ascertained as of the date of the breach."

[1998] [internal citations omitted].)

¹⁶ At the trial, the parties stipulated to dispense with rebuttal testimony from plaintiffs' damages expert, Louis Dudney and, in lieu of such testimony, to the admission into evidence of plaintiffs' Demonstrative Exhibits 20 and 21, and defendants' Demonstrative Exhibit 12. (Trial Tr. at 1868, 1870 [Stipulation].) PX Demo. 21 and DX Demo. 12, which were prepared by Mr. Dudney, calculated damages using plaintiffs' and defendants' marks, respectively, on December 3 and 5, 2008. (Trial Tr. at 1870-1877.)

It is further settled that damages need not be proven with mathematical certainty. It is sufficient that a reasonable basis for the calculation of damages be shown. (See generally J.R. Loftus, Inc. v White, 85 NY2d 874, 877 [1995] [“While a plaintiff may recover damages when the measure of damages is unavoidably uncertain or difficult to ascertain, a reasonable connection between a plaintiff’s proof and a [] determination of damages is nevertheless necessary”]; CDO Plus Master Fund Ltd. v Wachovia Bank, N.A., No. 07 Civ. 11078 [LTS], 2011 WL 4526132, *2 [US Dist Ct SD NY, Sept. 29, 2011] [“The law of New York is clear that once the fact of damage has been established, the non-breaching party need only provide a stable foundation for a reasonable estimate [of damages]” [internal quotation marks and citations omitted, brackets in original].)

UBS’s December 16, 2008 auction cannot satisfy either of these standards because, as held above, the auction did not provide a reliable basis for determining UBS’s losses at, or even shortly after, the breach, due to the exceptional circumstances presented by the financial crisis.¹⁷ The court accordingly turns to the alternative basis advanced by UBS for the calculation of damages—its marks on December 5, 2008. (Ps.’s Findings, at 29.)

It is well settled that “where the breach involves the deprivation of an item with a determinable market value, the market value at the time of the breach is the measure of damages.” (Sharma v Skaarup Ship Mgt. Corp., 916 F2d 820, 825 [2d Cir 1990], cert denied 499 US 907 [1991] [applying New York law and citing Simon v Electrospace ¹⁷ There is authority that “in accordance with the objective that a party seeking recovery for breach of contract is entitled ‘to be made whole’ as of the time of the breach, the [factfinder] should be able to make its valuation determination on all relevant elements of the case, whether dated prebreach, on the date of breach, or ‘some short time period thereafter.’” (Credit Suisse First Boston v Utrecht-America Fin. Although the auction was held shortly after the breach, this authority does not support calculation of damages based on the auction results, as the auction did not provide a reliable basis for assessing the losses.

Corp., 28 NY2d 136, 145-146 [1971], motion to amend remittitur and clarify denied 28 NY2d 809].) In accordance with the objective that the injured party be made whole, “damages for breach of contract are ordinarily ascertained as of the date of the breach.” (Brushton-Moira Cent. Sch. Dist., 91 NY2d at 261.)

UBS offered credible testimony that its December 5, 2008 marks reasonably reflected the market value of the CDSs as of the December 5 breach date. In particular, Timothy LeRoux, who at the time of the transaction was second in command to Mr. Grimaldi on the UBS trading desk (LeRoux Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1640), gave credible testimony that, in the regular course of business, the trading desk “marked to market” hundreds of CLO assets, and every week or two was required to assign values on every one of the assets, both cash and synthetic, in the Knox Warehouse. (Id. at 1724.) Mr. LeRoux also described the marking process and identified information, including public information as to offers and bids on CDSs in the marketplace, that UBS considered in developing “objective” prices. (Id. at 1727, 1745-1750.) Mr. Grimaldi also testified that, although the trading desk performed the mark-to-market valuation of the assets in the Knox Warehouse, the UBS valuation group established oversight due to the volatility of the market and “would look at other market observations and make sure that those [the trading desk marks] were in line with the marketplace.” (Grimaldi Testimony, Trial Tr. at 207-208.)

Highland does not dispute that the mark-to-market process is a methodology for determining loss in market value of retained assets. (See e.g. Testimony of Adam Warren [Highland’s damages expert], Trial Tr. at 1268-1269; Testimony of Philip Braner [Highland former executive], Trial Tr. at 469-472; Testimony of UBS’s Timothy LeRoux, Trial Tr. at 1640, 1727-1729.)

Rather, in claiming that UBS’s marks are not competent evidence on which to award damages, Highland suggests that the setting of marks by the trading group involved a conflict of interest, because the trading group's bonuses were based on the performance of the mark-to-mark assets and the group had the incentive to inflate the value of the assets. (Ds.s' Findings, ¶¶ 61-62.) Highland makes no showing that UBS inflated the value of the CDSs or that trading groups do not routinely develop marks. Moreover, Highland's assertion that "UBS's trading group alone set the marks for the Knox Warehouse assets" (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 62) ignores UBS's credible testimony, discussed above, that the valuation group exercised oversight in connection with the development of the marks.

Highland's further assertion that its own marks are more reliable (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 65) is unsupported by persuasive evidence. Philip Braner, who ultimately became Chief Operating Officer of the Highland Capital Management CLO Group and COO of Highland Financial Partners (Braner Testimony, Trial Tr. at 397), testified that Highland was itself tracking marks on the assets in the Knox Warehouse (id. at 615) and had an "internal valuation team that was responsible for accumulating marks" in a process in which portfolio managers of the Highland funds participated. (See id. at 467.) While Highland appears to assert that its marks are more reliable than UBS's because they were set by a valuation team, Highland fails to show that the role of its valuation team differed in any material respect from that of the UBS valuation group that performed oversight on its trading group in the marking process.

Notably, Highland fails to explain how its methodology in setting marks was more reliable than UBS's. Adam Warren, Highland's damages expert, forthrightly testified that he was not opining on the reasonableness of any marks in this case (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1247-1248), and he did not in fact give any testimony on whether UBS's or Highland's marks were more reliable.

The evidence at trial also demonstrated that Highland, like UBS, set marks on the CDSs on an asset by asset basis from March 2008 through October 2008. While there were differences between Highland's and UBS's marks during this period, the Highland and UBS marks in the month of October were substantially similar. The difference in the marks did not escalate substantially until November 2008. (PX Demo. 9, at 4.) Mr. Dudney gave testimony, which was not disputed, that although Highland, like UBS, had been setting marks on an asset by asset basis, Highland stopped doing so as of October 2008 and, in a November 30, 2008 calculation of damages, attributed the same mark (37) to each asset. (Dudney Testimony, Trial Tr. at 883-884, 905-909, DX 116.) Highland offered no explanation for this change in methodology. Mr. Dudney, in contrast, gave plausible testimony that this use of the same mark did not make sense given the deterioration of the market. (Id. at 908.)

In sum, based on the credible evidence at the trial, the court holds that UBS has met its burden of demonstrating that its December 5, 2008 marks provide a reasonable basis, under the circumstances, for the calculation of damages at the time of the breach. In so holding, the court rejects Highland's not fully articulated contention that only an auction, and not a mark-to-market methodology, is a reliable method for calculating damages. (See Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 59.) Highland's reliance on the testimony of its damages expert, Adam Warren, in support of this contention (see id.) is misplaced. While Mr. Warren testified that CDSs are "bespoke contracts," he did not give any testimony that an auction was required to ascertain their value.

Further, as held above, the auction did not provide a reliable basis for determining UBS's damages due to the volatility of the market at the time of the auction. It bears emphasis that, although the market was also volatile at the time the December 5, 2008 marks were accumulated, Highland has not advanced an alternative, other than the non-viable auction, to the mark-to-market valuation methodology. Nor has Highland made any showing that the market value of the CDSs was not reasonably determinable as of the date of breach using the mark-to-market valuation methodology.¹⁸

The court further holds that UBS has met its burden of demonstrating the reasonableness of its calculation of damages using those marks. UBS's and Highland's experts both provided the court with calculations of damages using UBS's and Highland's marks, respectively, as of December 5, 2008. Mr. Warren confirmed that his main differences with Mr. Dudney regarding the calculation of damages for the Synthetic Warehouse were that Mr. Dudney considered it appropriate, and he did not, to include damages for unrealized CDS losses and for the 20 Internal Swaps in which UBS was both the protection seller and the protection buyer. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1298; DX Demo. 12; PX Demo. 21; see also Dudney Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1004.)

Mr. Warren excluded from his damages calculation unrealized CDS losses for all CDSs as to which a designation of ineligibility had not been made. He testified that his basis for doing so was his understanding of the contract—i.e, his understanding that the SWA required such designation—and not industry custom. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1281-1282.) For the reasons discussed above, this court has rejected Highland's position that the SWA should be construed as requiring ineligibility designations as a condition of the inclusion of unrealized losses on the CDSs in the calculation of damages. Also for the reasons discussed above, the court has rejected Highland's position that the losses on the Internal Swaps should not be included in this calculation.

¹⁸ In its post-trial briefing, Highland sought a finding that if UBS is held to be entitled to recover damages for CDS losses, Highland's marks are more reliable than UBS's for determining those damages. (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 65.) Highland did not argue that the market value of the losses could not reasonably be determined by using marks. In contrast, in support of its claim that it is entitled to an offset against CDS damages for post-breach termination payments received by UBS on the CDSs, Highland questioned the accuracy of the market valuation at the time of the breach. Highland thus asserted in a footnote: "Given the scant market pricing data available at the time of the breach, post-termination payments and asset dispositions are relevant for the additional reason that they provide a more accurate measurement of the actual value of the Knox assets." (Ds.'s Post-Trial Memo., at 8 n 5.) This assertion is unsupported by any citation to trial testimony. More important, at the trial Highland did not offer any expert testimony that the mark-to-market methodology was not a reliable basis for calculating the CDS damages. For the additional reasons set forth in the section of this decision on Highland's requested Offset for Post-Breach Appreciation In CDS Asset Value, the court finds that offset of post-breach payments received by UBS on the CDSs would be inconsistent with calculation of UBS's damages based on their market value at the time of the breach.

Review of the experts' calculations shows, moreover, that when such losses are included in the calculations, the difference between Highland's and UBS's totals is substantially reduced. As previously noted, the parties stipulated to the introduction into evidence of charts prepared by Mr. Dudney comparing his and Mr. Warren's calculations of CDS damages using UBS's and Highland's marks as of December 5, 2008. Using Highland's marks, Mr. Dudney calculated CDS mark-to-market losses of $388,284,750, compared to Mr. Warren's calculation of $26,952,895—a difference of $361,331,855. (DX Demo. 12.) Using UBS's marks, Mr. Dudney calculated losses of $470,113,605, compared to Mr. Warren's calculation of $26,952,895—a difference of $443,160,710. (PX Demo. 21.)

The difference in the totals is largely due to Mr. Warren's exclusion from his calculation of all unrealized CDS losses and all losses for the Internal Swaps. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1296-1299.) His calculation of $26,952,895 for CDS losses includes only realized CDS losses. (Id. at 1250.) According to Mr. Warren, the Internal Swaps account for $93,952,173 of the CDS damages using UBS's marks, or $68,801,027 using Highland's marks. (Id. at 1269.) Although Mr. Warren disputed UBS's entitlement to unrealized CDS losses, he performed a calculation including such losses. Using UBS's marks as of December 5, 2008, these losses totaled $355,487,606. (DX Demo. 10, at 14.) Using Highland's marks as of that date, these losses totaled $299,118,973. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1269; DX Demo. 10, at 14.) Mr. Warren's total, using UBS's marks, for the Internal Swaps ($93,952.173) and the unrealized CDS losses ($355,487,606) was $449,439,779. (DX Demo. 10, at 14.) As stated above, Mr. Dudney's calculation of total Synthetic Warehouse losses, using UBS's December 5, 2008 marks, was $470,113,605. Given the magnitude of the damages, this disparity is not material.

The court accordingly holds that UBS incurred losses in the Synthetic Warehouse of $470,113,605 as of December 5, 2008, the date of the breach, subject to the adjustments discussed below.

CLO Damages

Highland does not dispute that unrealized losses are recoverable for the CLO assets. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1293.) Moreover, UBS's (Mr. Dudney's) and Highland's (Mr. Warren's) calculations of the CLO losses as of December 5, 2008 are the same: Using Highland's marks, these losses were $106,157,101. (DX Demo. 12, at 2.) Using UBS's marks, the losses were $128,848,101. (PX Demo. 21.) Having concluded that UBS's damages were properly calculated based on UBS's marks as of December 5, 2008, the date of the breach, the court holds that UBS incurred losses in the Cash Warehouse of $128,848,101, subject to the adjustments discussed below.

Adjustments to Damages Calculation

In calculating the Synthetic and Cash Warehouse losses, Mr. Dudney and Mr. Warren made adjustments for the same items: carry (premiums and interest), collateral value, financing fees, and financing savings. Mr. Dudney's adjustment of $79,587,557 and Mr. Warren's adjustment of $76,632,634 did not differ materially. (PX Demo. 21.) According to Mr. Warren, the difference of approximately $3 million is due to Mr. Warren's exclusion of the Internal Swaps in calculating the carry. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1298-1299.) As the court has held that the Internal Swaps were properly included in the damages calculation, Mr. Dudney's adjustments will be accepted.

Reducing UBS's damages by the adjustments, the court holds that UBS sustained total damages of $519,374,149 (Cash Warehouse Losses of $128,848,101 plus Synthetic Warehouse Losses of $470,113,605 minus $79,587,557).

OFFSETS

Offset for Post-Breach Appreciation In CDS Asset Value

A central issue in this action is whether Highland is entitled to an offset against UBS's damages for appreciation in the value of the CDSs after the breach. The parties stipulated that UBS received post-breach termination payments net of carry on the CDSs, including the Internal Swaps, in the amount of $202,223,059. (DX 491.) It is undisputed that these payments were received months and, for many of the CDSs, years after the termination of the transaction. (Ds.'s Post-Trial Memo., at 10 [acknowledging that UBS "liquidated the assets years later"]; PX 335 [spreadsheet showing termination dates for CDSs through 2011].)

Highland argues that, at the time the transaction was terminated, "frozen credit markets had created a severe mismatch between the assets' alleged market value and their actual value based on their cash flows." (Ds.'s Post-Trial Memo., at 10.) Highland further argues that UBS was able to sell these assets for hundreds of millions of dollars more than their December 2008 marks and that, while UBS is entitled to retain the sale proceeds, "it cannot ignore these monies in calculating the harm it actually suffered." (Id. at 11.) According to Highland, if disposition of the assets after the termination is not considered, UBS will receive "an enormous windfall." (Id.) UBS acknowledges that if a non-breaching party obtains a benefit "because of the breach," the benefit must be offset against the non-breaching party's damages. (Ps.'s Post-Trial Memo., at 6 [emphasis UBS's].) UBS argues, however, that the Fund Counterparties' breach was not a but for cause of the post-breach payments UBS received for the CDSs. (Id. at 7.) Rather, subsequent gains that resulted from UBS's disposition of the assets were "the result of UBS's contractual rights [to retain the assets] in the event of any termination and of its subsequent investment strategy.” (Id. at 14.) According to UBS, the Fund Counterparties’ proposed offset would deprive UBS of the benefit of the bargain and result in a windfall for the Fund Counterparties. (Id.)

As discussed above, contract damages are intended to make “good or replace the loss” caused to a party by the breach of contract and “to place the nonbreaching party in as good a position as it would have been had the contract been performed. Thus, damages for breach of contract are ordinarily ascertained as of the date of the breach.” (Brushton-Moira Cent. Sch. Dist., 91 NY2d at 261.) Further, “where the breach involves the deprivation of an item with a determinable market value, the market value at the time of the breach is the measure of damages.” (Sharma, 916 F2d at 825 [applying New York law and citing Simon, 28 NY2d at 145-146].)

The calculation of damages is also subject to the fundamental precept that where a non-breaching party acquires a “benefit or opportunity for benefit . . . because of the breach, a balance must be struck between benefit and loss” and the benefit must be offset against the non-breaching party’s damages. (Indu Craft, Inc. v Bank of Baroda, 47 F3d 490, 495 [2d Cir 1995] [applying New York law]; accord Aristocrat Leisure Ltd. v Deutsche Bank Trust Co. Americas, 727 F Supp 2d 256, 289 [SD NY 2010] [“[I]f a victim derives a benefit from the breaching party’s breach of contract, the breaching party only is responsible for the victim’s net loss”], reconsideration denied 2010 WL 3431132; Fertico Belgium S.A. v Phosphate Chemicals Export Assn., Inc., 70 NY2d 76, 84 [1987], rearg denied 70 NY2d 694 [holding, in a “cover” action governed by the Uniform Commercial Code, that “[g]ains made by the injured party on other transactions after the breach are never to be deducted from the damages that are otherwise recoverable, unless such gains could not have been made, had there been no breach”] [quoting 5 Corbin, Contracts § 1041].)

Here, although UBS and Highland agree that any benefit derived by UBS because of the breach must be offset against its losses, neither party has cited, and the court's own research has not located, any case in which a court has considered how to apply this precept to a non-breaching party's retention of assets upon a failed securitization transaction and realization of subsequent gains. There is, however, a substantial body of law involving a breaching party's failure to deliver or purchase assets subject to fluctuations in value, in which the courts have assessed damages based on the market value of the assets at the time of breach and have declined to consider any subsequent increases or decreases in value of the assets. As discussed further below, the court concludes that these cases are inconsistent with the offset sought by Highland.

As the Second Circuit has explained in reviewing this body of law, New York courts reject damage awards "based on what 'the actual economic conditions and performance' were in light of hindsight." (Sharma, 916 F2d at 826, quoting Aroneck v Atkin, 90 AD2d 966, 967 [4th Dept 1982], lv denied 59 NY2d 601 [1983].) "They have explicitly rejected the use of subsequent changes in value or profits where they would increase an award, and where they would decrease the award." (Sharma, 916 F2d at 826 [internal citations omitted].)

In the securities context, courts have repeatedly held that the damages for failure to deliver or purchase shares of stock should be based on their market value at the time of breach, and not on any subsequent increase or decrease in their value. (Simon, 28 NY2d at 145-146 [where the seller breached a contract to deliver shares, holding: "The proper measure of damages for breach of contract is determined by the loss sustained or gain prevented at the time and place of breach. The rule is precisely the same when the breach of contract is nondelivery of shares of stock"] [internal citations omitted]; Aroneck, 90 AD2d at 967 [where the buyer breached a contract to purchase shares, holding that damages should be based on market value at the time of breach, and rejecting the buyer's theory that the "value should be based on the actual economic conditions and performance" of the company post-breach]; Emposimato v CIFIC Acquisition Corp., 89 AD3d 418, 421 [1st Dept 2011] [quoting Aroneck and citing Simon in holding that "[i]n the case of a breach of contract to sell securities, expectation damages are calculated as 'the difference between the agreed price of the shares and the fair market value at the time of the breach'"]; Oscar Gruss & Son, Inc. v Hollander, 337 F3d 186, 197 [2d Cir 2003] [following Simon and Aroneck in a case involving the defendant's breach of a contract to deliver warrants]; see also Kaminsky v Herrick Feinstein LLP, 59 AD3d 1, 11-12 [1st Dept 2008], lv denied 12 NY3d 715 [2009] [holding that damages for breach of contract to deliver shares prior to an initial public offering (IPO) should be awarded based on the value of the shares at time of the breach, not their higher value post-IPO].)

The court holds that these cases involve transactions that are analogous to (although far less complex than) the transaction at issue, and apply the same measure of damages that this court has adopted above—namely, the measure of damages based on the market value of the assets on the date of the breach. These cases accordingly govern the calculation of damages here. The court notes, moreover, that sound reasons support the application of this measure of damages without consideration of post-breach fluctuations in the value of the assets.

As the Second Circuit reasoned, a contrary rule that would permit calculation of damages at the time of trial "would be a two-edged sword, because courts would have to diminish damage awards where the value of the item decreased or where losses were encountered subsequent to the breach as well as enhance them where conditions improve. However, New York courts have expressly refused to adopt this 'wait and see' theory of damages.” (Sharma, 916 F2d at 826.) In addition, although the court does not adjust for changes in the value of the shares when calculating damages according to the date of breach measure, the parties themselves can protect against changes in value by hedging or acquiring shares in the market. As the Second Circuit further reasoned: “To be sure, uncertainties about the future and lack of perfect information may cause an asset to be under- or over-valued at any particular time. At that time, however, either party has an opportunity to hedge according to his or her judgment about the future stream of income.” (Sharma, 916 F2d at 826; see also Simon, 28 NY2d at 146 [where the seller breached a contract to deliver shares, reasoning that “[i]f plaintiff were anxious to own the shares rather than obtain their value, he was free to purchase them in the market. His cause of action should not and may not be converted into carrying a market ‘call’ or ‘warrant’ to acquire the stock on demand if the price rose above its value as reflected in his cause of action”].)

The court further holds that application of the date of breach measure of damages, without adjustments for fluctuations in the value of the assets, will serve the objective of putting UBS in the position it would have been in had the contract been performed. If the securitization had closed, UBS would have been entitled, under the express terms of the SWA, to novate to the Issuer its positions as protection seller on all of the eligible Knox CDSs. (SWA § 5 [B] [1].) As a result of the breach, UBS was forced to assume a substantial risk of loss under the CDSs that would have been novated to the Issuer had the closing occurred. As discussed above, the loss in market value of the retained CDSs as of the date of breach was determined using the mark-to-market methodology. More specifically, as confirmed by both UBS’s and Highland’s experts, the mark-to-market losses calculated as of the date of breach represent the cost to UBS to exit the CDSs—that is, the payments to be made to third-parties so that they would take on, and UBS could extricate itself from, the risk. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1304-1306; Dudney Testimony, Trial Tr. at 894-895.) A damage award for these mark-to-market losses will therefore compensate UBS for the exposure to risk that it would not have faced had the contract been performed.

To the extent that Highland contends that a damage award is not appropriate for these mark-to-market losses because the losses were not realized, the court rejects that contention. The damage award is appropriate, notwithstanding that the losses were not realized, because, as held above, the contract affords UBS the right of recovery for such losses. (See CDO Plus Master Fund Ltd. v Wachovia Bank, N.A., No. 07 Civ. 11078 [LTS], 2011 WL 4526132, * 2 [US Dist Ct SD NY, Sept. 29, 2011] [reasoning that, where the contractual definition of loss for the purpose of calculating damages did not require the CDS protection buyer to sustain “actual loss,” “[t]he absence of an actual loss on a Reference Obligation transaction, thus, is not a barrier to [the protection buyer’s] recovery. . .”] [emphasis in original].)

The court further holds that the record does not support Highland’s contention that UBS’s post-breach gains were realized because of the breach, and that this case therefore falls under the line of authority that requires an offset for such gains. Highland in effect contends that because UBS retained the CDSs as a result of the breach, it also realized the post-breach gains because of the breach.¹⁹ That conclusion does not follow. As held above, UBS had a contractual right to retain the CDSs upon the termination of the transaction based on the Fund Counterparties' breach of the SWA by failing to meet the collateral call. The SWA does not contain any provision that limited UBS's discretion as to when to dispose of the assets after termination. Rather, as UBS persuasively argues, the gains realized as a result of the post-breach disposition of assets were attributable not to the breach itself but to UBS's assumption of the risk of loss on the CDSs and its investment strategy as to when to dispose of them based on its assessment of the market. (See G & R Corp. v American Sec. Trust Co., 523 F2d 1164, 1175 [DC Cir 1975] [holding that while the transfer of property to the plaintiffs was caused by the defendant's breach, the profit realized by the plaintiffs from a post-breach sale was not "caused by the breach" but was "attributable to the [plaintiffs'] decision to hold [the property] until [its] condition and the market were favorable for sale"].)

Nor does Highland successfully argue that the gains realized by UBS on the post-breach disposition of the assets must be offset under general principles which require a party who suffers damages as a result of another's breach to take reasonable steps to mitigate its damages. (See Ds.'s Post-Trial Memo., at 5-9.) Highland cites cases requiring mitigation in connection with the purchase and sale of securities and transactions in other markets. (See e.g. Drummond v Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc., No. 95 Civ. 2011 [DC], 1996 WL 631723, * 2-3 [US Dist Ct SD NY, Oct. 31, 1996] [holding that where the buyer breached a contract to purchase securities, the seller must take steps to mitigate its damages by selling the securities within "a reasonable period of time"]; Saboundjian v Bank Audi (USA), 157 AD2d 278, 284-285 [1st Dept 1990] [holding that where a broker failed to execute a customer's speculative currency exchange order, the customer was required to direct execution of the trade "within a reasonable time after he learned that it had not been effected earlier"].)

These cases are inapposite, as the SWA affords UBS the contractual right to retain the securities upon the Fund Counterparties' breach. Ironically, although purporting to rely on these cases, which in fact require that the non-breaching party mitigate within a reasonable period of time, Highland argues not that UBS was required to dispose of the CDSs within a reasonable period of time after the breach but that it was required to hold them for months and, indeed, years, until the market improved. Highland thus asserts that UBS reasonably mitigated by "holding (as opposed to fire selling) fully performing interest and premium-bearing assets in the face of a dysfunctional market. . .," and that "UBS's mitigation was not only reasonable, but required by law." (Ds.'s Post-Trial Memo., at 7.) Put another way, Highland does not identify a specific date or dates by which UBS was required to mitigate. To the contrary, without citation to any legal authority, Highland argues that UBS was required to hold the assets for an indefinite period, until the market improved, to minimize its losses.

The mitigation cases provide no support for Highland's assertion that UBS's disposition, months and years after the breach, of assets that it had a contractual right to retain, constitutes mitigation.²⁰ Rather, in claiming that it is entitled to "offsets" for the post-breach gains realized by UBS, Highland appears in effect to advance a measure of damages that is patently inconsistent with the fundamental tenet of the date of breach measure of damages—namely, that a non-breaching party's damages for assets with a determinable market value must be calculated

at the date of breach, not based on hindsight, and that neither party can select the date on which the damages calculation will be most favorable to it. Thus, a non-breaching buyer cannot select the date on which the assets “had their highest value or a period of time that was profitable but that excludes periods when losses occurred.” (See Sharma, 916 F2d at 826.) Similarly, a breaching buyer cannot avoid or reduce the damages caused by its breach by invoking post-breach decreases in the value of the assets. (See id.)

The court accordingly holds that Highland’s request for an offset for UBS’s post-breach gains from the disposition of the CDSs must be denied.

Offset for Right of First Refusal Counterclaim

Highland Capital Management, L.P. (Highland Capital) seeks judgment on its first counterclaim against plaintiff UBS Securities LLC for breach of the Cash Warehouse Agreement provision affording it the right to purchase CLO assets in the event UBS elected to retain such assets upon the termination of the Agreement. Section 5 (A) of the CWA provides that in event of failure to close, “UBS shall be authorized (but not required) to sell each Collateral Obligation then in the Warehouse Account in accordance with the Liquidation Procedures.” The Liquidation Procedures set forth in section 7 (A) of the CWA provide in pertinent part:

“If any Collateral Obligation is to be sold, UBS shall have the right to direct such sale on such terms and in such manner and at such time that it deems appropriate in its sole discretion. UBS may, in its sole discretion, elect to retain any such Collateral Obligation or to sell such Collateral Obligation to one of UBS’s Affiliates in which event, for purposes of determining Net Collateral Gain and Net Collateral Loss, such Collateral Obligation shall be deemed to have been liquidated at a price equal to its Market Value. To the extent that UBS in its sole discretion elects to retain such Collateral Obligation, the Servicer will have the right to purchase such Collateral Obligation at its Market Value.”

Section 7 (A) further provides that if UBS elects to sell CLOs upon termination, “the Servicer will have the right to bid for and purchase such Collateral Obligation at a purchase price equal to the highest third party bid received by UBS for the purchase of such Collateral Obligation.”

It is undisputed that Highland Capital notified UBS that it sought to purchase six of the CLOs with a bid price of $1.9 million and a notional value of $44 million, but that it sought to provide the funds for the purchase, and to settle the trades, in the name of one of its affiliates, CLO Value Fund. (Ds.’s Findings, ¶ 21.) UBS declined to agree to the sale to the Highland Capital affiliate. (Id.; DX 72; PX 292.)

The court is unpersuaded that a Highland Capital affiliate had the right, under the CWA, to purchase the CLOs. Section 7 (A), which governs the disposition of the CLO assets upon termination, expressly affords one UBS Affiliate the right to purchase CLOs. In contrast, this Section affords the right to purchase only to the Servicer, and not to any other Highland entity. The Servicer is defined as Highland Capital Management, L.P. (CWA, First Paragraph.) Reading the CWA as a whole, the court further finds that no other provision modifies or is inconsistent with this limitation. On the contrary, where the acts of Highland Capital’s Affiliates were implicated, the CWA expressly referred to the Affiliates. (CWA, § 13 [B] [limiting the liability of the “Servicer” “for any acts or omissions by the Servicer or any Affiliate of the Servicer, or any of their directors, officers, members, agents, equity holders [and others] under or in connection with this Agreement, or for any decrease in the value of the Collateral Portfolio”].)²¹ The court accordingly holds that the CWA unambiguously provides that the right to purchase retained CLOs is limited, among the Highland entities, to Highland Capital.

In view of this holding that the CWA is not ambiguous with respect to Highland’s post-

termination right to purchase CLOs, the court rejects Highland's contention that the court should consider evidence allegedly showing that UBS and Highland Capital had a prior course of conduct in which UBS permitted Highland Capital to settle trades "at its fund level." (Ds.'s Findings, ¶¶ 80-81.) Parol evidence of course of conduct is not admissible to construe an unambiguous contract. (See e.g. Sigismondi v Queens Transit Corp., 38 AD2d 71, 73 [2d Dept 1971], affd no opinion 32 NY2d 745 [1973]; Evans v Famous Music Corp., 1 NY3d 452, 459 [2004].)

The court further notes that even if Highland Capital could recover on its counterclaim, the damages it seeks are not recoverable. Highland Capital seeks a finding that because the CLOs continued to perform until maturity, "it would have profited $46 million" if it had been permitted to exercise its right of first refusal to purchase the CLOs. (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 82; DX Demo. 9.) As Highland Capital acknowledges, however, the market value of the CLOs at the time of breach was $1,934,214. (DX Demo. 9.) The measure of damages, as explained above in connection with Highland Capital's claim for offsets against UBS's damages, is the market value of the assets as of the date of breach, not the increase in their value in the indefinite future.

Offset for Unjust Enrichment

Highland Capital also seeks judgment on its second counterclaim alleging that UBS was unjustly enriched by its failure to permit Highland Capital, through its affiliate CLO Value Fund, to purchase the Collateral Obligations upon termination. This claim for unjust enrichment is not maintainable as the right to purchase is governed by contract—the CWA. (See generally Pappas v Tzolis, 20 NY3d 228, 234 [2012], rearg denied 20 NY3d 1075 [2013]; Clark-Fitzpatrick, Inc. v Long Is. R.R. Co., 70 NY2d 382, 388-389 [1987].)

Offset for Settlements with Highland Affiliates

Highland also requests an offset for settlements with three Highland Affiliates—Highland Credit Strategies Master Fund, L.P. (Credit Strategies), Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, L.P. (Crusader Offshore), and Highland Crusader Holding Corporation (Crusader Holding) (collectively, the Settling Highland Affiliates). Credit Strategies and Crusader Offshore were defendants in this action. UBS asserted its fraudulent conveyance cause of action against them as well as all of the other defendants. (Second Am Compl., Fifth Cause of Action.) Crusader Holding was a defendant in a separate complaint, which asserted a fraudulent conveyance cause of action against it. (UBS Secs. LLC v Highland Crusader Holding Corp., Sup Ct, NY County, Index No. 652646/11, Compl., First Cause of Action; Ps.'s Letters, dated July 21, 2015 [NYSCEF Doc. No. 397]; Jan. 7, 2016 [NYSCEF Doc. No. 398].) This court bifurcated the trial of this action, directing that it would first hold a bench trial on the breach of contract claims, which were triable by the court and are the subject of this decision, and that the fraudulent conveyance and other claims, which are triable by a jury, would be heard subsequently. (May 1, 2018 Decision on the Record [NYSCEF Doc. No. 494].)

The parties dispute whether the confidential settlements (DX 76 id and DX 77 id) may be considered in this action. They also dispute whether the settlements may be offset, pursuant to statute or case law, against the damages awarded by this decision to UBS against the Fund Counterparties on the breach of contract causes of action. (See Ps.'s Post-Trial Memo., at 14-21; Ds.'s Post-Trial Memo., at 15-19, 21-24.)

Even assuming, without deciding, that the damages may be subject to offset by the settlements, the determination of whether or to what extent the offset should be allowed must await determination of the jury trial. Where an offset for a settlement is sought, "the damages against which the settlement is sought to be applied should be determined so a proper comparison can be made between them and the damages covered by the settlement." (Carter v.

State of New York, 139 Misc 2d 423, 429 [Ct Cl, 1988], affd 154 AD2d 642 [2d Dept 1989]; accord Moller v North Shore Univ. Hosp., 12 F3d 13, 16 [2d Cir 1993] [applying New York law].)

Here, Highland argues that the causes of action against the settling defendants are “wholly derivative of its breach-of-contract claims against the Fund counterparties.” (Ds.’s Post-Trial Memo., at 16.) UBS persuasively argues, in opposition, that the fraudulent conveyance causes of action seek relief in addition to compensatory damages, including imposition of a constructive trust and punitive damages. (Ps.’s Post-Trial Memo, at 22-24; Second Am. Compl., at 57-58.) Moreover, the damages, if any, that will be awarded against the Fund Counterparties and Highland Capital on the fraudulent conveyance cause of action remain to be determined at the jury trial. On this record the court accordingly cannot compare the settlements with the fraudulent conveyance damages. Nor is there any basis for the court to determine the extent to which the settlements cover the same damages, or damages that overlap with, the breach of contract damages awarded to UBS against the Fund Counterparties by this decision. The determination of the offset issue will therefore be deferred pending the jury trial. As it appears, however, that Highland may be entitled to an offset for some or all of the settlement amounts, the court will stay enforcement, to the extent of the settlement amount ($70.5 million), of the judgment to be awarded to UBS against the Fund Counterparties for the damages for breach of contract.

Conclusion

UBS is entitled to damages for $519,374,149 on the third and fourth causes of action against the Fund Counterparties for breach of the Cash Warehouse and Synthetic Warehouse Agreements. Enforcement of the judgment for this amount will be stayed up to $70.5 million, the amount of the settlements with the Settling Highland Affiliates.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the parties shall meet and confer with a view to reaching agreement on the form of the judgment, including but not limited to the Allocation Percentages of CDO Fund and SOHC, and the award of interest. If the parties are unable to reach such agreement, they shall promptly settle judgment; and it is further ORDERED that this decision shall be filed under seal for ten business days from the date hereof to afford the parties the opportunity to confer and to advise the court as to whether there is any information in the decision which is claimed by any party to be confidential. The parties shall, within five business days of the date hereof, submit a joint letter of no more than three pages, advising the court of their positions on this issue. The letter should be accompanied by a joint copy of the decision, highlighting the portion(s) of the decision which each party claims is confidential and should be redacted in the decision that will be publicly filed; and it is further

ORDERED that the parties shall telephone the court on a conference call within five business days of the date hereof (at a specific date and time to be arranged with the Clerk of Part 60) to discuss the above confidentiality issue as well as the jury trial phase of this action. The parties should be prepared to address whether, or to what extent, the jury trial may proceed in light of Highland Capital's filing of a bankruptcy petition.²²

This constitutes the decision and order of the court.

MARCY FRIEDMAN, J.S.C.

Re: Opinion in In re Highland Capital Management, L.P., Case No. 19-34054, United States Bankruptcy Court, Northern District of Texas

Dear Mr. Bonds:

You have asked me the following questions:

1. What is the likelihood that the Acis claim will be allowed for $23 million or more if the objections are pursued?
2. How much will it cost to pursue the objections through to the 5th Circuit?
3. Does the proposed settlement advance the reorganization process through improving the likelihood of confirmation of the plan or otherwise?

My answers to your questions, and the assumptions on which my answers are based, are set forth below. First, however, I will set forth my qualifications.

Professional background. I am the Garman Turner Gordon Professor of Law at the William S. Boyd School of Law at UNLV and an Affiliate Professor of Business Law and Ethics at UNLV's Lee Business School. My work address is University of Nevada, Las Vegas, Mail Stop 1003, 4505 S. As a professor, my research areas all involve the intersection of ethics with various fields: bankruptcy ethics, fees in chapter 11 cases, the behavior of lawyers generally, the ways that lawyers and legal ethics are portrayed in popular culture, the changes in the legal profession, the dynamics of law firms, the relationship of social science to the behavior of lawyers and other professionals, possible changes to legal education, and the ethics of corporate governance. I have served as one of two Reporters for the American Bankruptcy Institute's Task Force on National Ethics Rules, and I am also the Secretary and Reporter for the American Bankruptcy Institute's Task Force on Veterans and Servicemembers Affairs. In terms of my familiarity with bankruptcy law, I have testified in several bankruptcy cases, I have been a bankruptcy lawyer, and I have taught bankruptcy law. I am a Fellow of the American College of Bankruptcy and a Fellow of the American Bar Foundation. I am also a member of the American Law Institute. A true and correct copy of my expert CV is attached hereto as Attachment A.

Assumptions. In forming my opinion, you have asked me to make the following assumptions:

1. That the "convenience" class will accept the filed plan;
2. That the convenience class, administrative expenses, and other financial requirements are as set out in the Disclosure Statement [Docket No. 1080];
3. That the debtor's asset values are as set out in the Disclosure Statement;
4. That Mr. Dondero will pay all of the legal fees and expenses of Debtor's counsel that are associated with litigating the Acis claim objection; and
5. That the unsecured class of creditors, which includes the Acis claim, will consist of Pat Daugherty, Acis, UBS, and the Redeemer Committee. For the purposes of this assumption, I will also assume that the two UBS claims are really just one claim, filed in duplicate.

The documents that I have reviewed are set forth in Attachment B.

Questions presented. I have been asked to opine on the following issues:

1. What is the likelihood that the Acis claim will be allowed for $23 million or more if the objections are pursued?
2. How much will it cost to pursue the objections through to the 5th Circuit?
3. Does the proposed settlement advance the reorganization process through improving the likelihood of confirmation of the plan or otherwise?

Question 1. It is my opinion that, if the assumptions that I have been asked to make are correct, then the likelihood that the Acis claim will be allowed for $23 million or more if the objections are pursued depends on a mix of questions of law that the Court can determine (without the need for any expert opinions) and questions of fact that will come into play, depending on how the Court rules on the questions of law.

In terms of answering this question, I found it helpful to break down the parties' various arguments about the Acis proof of claim into questions of law and questions of fact. My analysis of the arguments, on a point-by-point basis, is set forth in Attachment C. I am assuming that the following questions of law are "gating" questions, in that, depending on how the Court rules, any related fact-based issues either would or would not need to be litigated.

The following issues can be resolved as questions of law:

- Whether Acis's sole owners owed a fiduciary duty to their company;
- Whether Delaware law lets creditors of a limited partnership sue third parties for breach of a fiduciary duty or allow a trustee to sue on their behalf;
- Whether the doctrine of in pari delicto bars Acis's duty-based claims against the Debtor and other third parties;
- Whether Acis properly pleaded the preference cause of action (or, if the preference claim was not properly pleaded, whether the Omnibus Response [Docket No. 908] cured any mistakes in pleading);
- Whether, under sec. 550, a debtor can recover avoidance claims for its own benefit, or whether the benefit must inure to the estate (i.e., to the creditors of the estate);
- Whether Bangor Punta Operations, Inc. v. Bangor & A. R. Co., 417 U.S. 703 (1974), prevents Acis from asserting claims against prior equity holders or third parties that were not pending when Mr. Terry purchased Acis as part of the Acis reorganization;
- Whether Acis's four claims seeking $7 million in "Overpayments" have a legal basis (and whether those claims belong to Reorganized Acis);
- Whether Acis can maintain a civil conspiracy claim if that claim is not recognized as a statutory remedy for fraudulent transfers under Section 550;
- Whether Acis can maintain a tortious interference claim w/r/t at-will employment contracts;
- Whether Acis's breach of contract claim fails as a matter of law;
- Whether Acis's alter ego claim can go forward as a matter of law;
- Whether Acis is entitled to punitive damages under any theory of law;
- Whether, as a matter of law, Highland violated the automatic stay (based on the issue of the Court's interpretation of the Temporary Injunction);
- Whether Acis is entitled to any attorney fees;
- Whether, if Highland didn't timely object to the preserved causes of action in the Acis plan,² Highland is now barred from raising objections to the Acis claim in Highland's case; and ² Whether Highland objected to the preserved causes of action in the Acis plan is a question of fact, but it is one that does not require a hearing. The Court could take judicial notice of whether or not Highland lodged such an objection.

- Whether any claim by Highland against Acis can be set off against the Acis claim;

The following issues are predominately fact-based but are first dependent on how the Court rules on the related questions of law:

- The value of any claims for breach of fiduciary duty;
- The value of the avoidance claims;³
- The value of any claims against prior equity holders or third parties that were not pending when Mr. Terry purchased Acis as part of the Acis reorganization;
- The value of the “overpayments” claim;
- The value of the civil conspiracy claim;
- The value of the tortious interference claim;
- The value of the breach of contract claim;
- The value of the alter ego claim;
- The amount of any punitive damages claim;
- The amount of any reasonable attorney fees;
- Whether Acis can establish that Highland violated the automatic stay and, if so, what the appropriate damages would be; and
- If the claim by Highland against Acis can be set off against the Acis claim, the resulting amount after a setoff.

As is clear from the Objections⁴ and from the Omnibus Response to the Objections,⁵ the questions of law have been thoroughly briefed. With respect to any questions of law, the Court certainly does not need to hear from an expert as to what the answers to those questions might be, though my own opinion as to the ultimate threshold question (whether there must be a benefit to the estate in order to pursue the Acis claim, or whether there need be only a benefit to Reorganized Acis, in order to maintain the various causes of action) is that, if the Acis creditors have been paid in full, Reorganized Acis has no standing to pursue its claim in Highland Capital Management’s bankruptcy case.⁶ If the Court agrees with my interpretation, then many, if not all, of the other issues would fall away, causing the Acis claim to be worthless (and thus not worthwhile to compromise). On the other hand, if the Court finds that Highland is not able to lodge objections to the Acis claim, based on a theory of Highland's waiver, then the Acis claim, valued by Acis at "at least $75 million," could possibly have significant value.⁷ Still, that value would depend on how the facts fall, after the Court hears testimony and is able to weigh the evidence.

Question 2. It is my opinion that, if the assumptions that I have been asked to make are correct, then the range of likely fees to pursue the objections through to the 5th Circuit is between approximately $350,000 and just over $1.1 million.

For purposes of this question, I am making some additional assumptions. I am assuming that the team that would be arguing the objections would consist of Jeffrey N. Pomerantz (hourly rate of $1,075), Beth E. Levine (hourly rate of $825), Steven W. Golden (hourly rate of $625), and Karina K. Yee (hourly rate of $400).⁸ Naturally, Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones LLP could choose any combination of partners, attorneys who are listed as Of Counsel, associates, and paralegals to litigate these issues. I assume, however, that the firm would not use everyone who is listed in its fee applications. I thus chose Mr. Pomerantz because I have known him for several years (and I have a great deal of respect for him), Ms. Levine because of her relative seniority, Mr. Golden because most litigation teams need an associate, and Ms. Yee because virtually every good team needs a paralegal. My additional assumption is that Mr. Pomerantz would act primarily in a supervisory role, dealing only with the most complex issues and ensuring that the litigation is effective (and that the fees are reasonable), that he and Ms. Levine would take the depositions of any key personnel, given the high stakes involved, that Mr. Golden would be asked to do any less-than-key depositions and would do any additional legal research, and that Ms. Yee would organize any exhibits, prepare trial binders, handle any technology issues at trial, and generally ensure that the day-to-day issues were managed appropriately.

With those assumptions in mind, I will make the following additional assumptions:

At the trial level.

- The questions of law have already been adequately researched, and thus, Mr. Golden might spend 10-20 hours translating that research into a trial brief (or any dispositive motions), Ms. Yee might spend 5-10 hours assisting him; and Mr. Pomerantz might spend 5-10 hours reviewing any such brief or dispositive motions;
- The entire team would have regular meetings to discuss strategy and determine which

Mirant Corp., 348 B.R. 725, 733 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2006) ("[W]hether a creditor whose claim has been discharged and who has received distributions (other than full cash payment) the value of which distributions may be affected by proposed actions brought before the court for its consideration is otherwise represented or not should not affect that creditor's right to appear and be heard.") (emphasis added); see also In re Mirant Corp., 675 F.3d 530, 533-34 (2012) (holding that MC Asset Recovery did have standing to pursue an avoidance action, even though Mirant's creditors had been paid in full, because "[o]nce a trustee's avoidance rights are triggered at the time of filing, they persist until avoidance will no longer benefit the estate under § 550.") (emphasis added).

⁷ If the Court so finds, then it might not be worthwhile to Acis to settle the claim for $23 million.

member of the team would have which responsibilities, with those meetings perhaps ranging from 1-2 hours per week for up to eight weeks;

- For the various depositions relating to the various fact-based issues, I am assuming that Mr. Pomerantz might take between two and four 10-hour depositions of some witnesses, Ms. Levine might take another two and four 10-hour depositions of some witnesses, and Mr. Golden might take two and four 10-hour depositions of some witnesses;
- In order to prepare for any such depositions, the various professionals would have to review documents, develop theories, think about the order of questions, and determine which exhibits would be used, so the low end for each of the professionals might be 20 hours per witness, and the high end might be 50 hours per witness;
- There are always miscellaneous activities necessary to prepare for trial, so I am assuming another 10-20 hours per professional for those activities (including the preparation of any pretrial briefs and trial notebooks, plus gaining familiarity with the trial notebooks); and
- The trial itself might take between three and five eight-hour days, plus an extra 2-4 hours per day for post-trial recap and next-day planning; and
- Any post-trial briefing might take 5-10 hours of Mr. Pomerantz's time, 5-10 hours of Ms. Levine's time, 10-20 hours of Mr. Golden's time, and 10-20 hours of Ms. Yee's time.

Based on these admittedly ballpark estimates, the trial phase might cost between approximately $300,000 and $975,000:⁹

⁹ As an intellectual exercise, I also considered the possibility of bifurcating a trial so that the Court first considered just the issue of whether, under sec. 550, a debtor can recover avoidance claims for its own benefit, or whether the benefit must inure to the estate (i.e., to the creditors of the estate). That question would involve the briefing of a question of law, and my estimate of the possible fees for just that portion of any trial ranged from approximately $20,000 to approximately $33,000:

If just the sec. 550 issue is argued:	Jeffrey N. Pomerantz ($1,075/hour)	Beth E. Levine ($825/hour)	Steven W. Golden ($625/hour)	Karina K. Yee ($400/hour)	Total

The appeal(s). Because any appeals would focus more on errors of law than on attempts to argue that the Court made clearly erroneous findings of fact, if I assume an intermediate level of appeal (to the District Court or the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel), then I would assume:

- For the preparation and drafting of briefs, 3-5 hours for Mr. Pomerantz, 3-5 hours for Ms. Levine, 10-20 hours for Mr. Golden, and 5-10 hours for Ms. Yee;
- For the preparation for argument and the argument itself, 10-15 hours for Mr. Pomerantz and 5-10 hours for some additional research or factual questions for which Mr. Pomerantz might want Mr. Golden's assistance;
- For post-argument team meetings, 1 hour per professional; and
- A built-in "miscellaneous" of two hours a week per professional.

Based on these admittedly ballpark estimates, the first appeal phase might cost between approximately $36,000 and $60,000:

I would assume roughly the same expense for an additional appeal to the 5th Circuit. If the appeal went straight from the Bankruptcy Court to the 5th Circuit, per the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals Procedures for 28 U.S.C. 158(d) Appeals, then there would be only one layer of costs for an appeal. Thus, my estimate for the total work would range from approximately $350,000 to just over $1.1 million.¹⁰

¹⁰ Thus, one of the factors that the Court might consider is the relative cost of determining if Acis's claim has any value versus the proposed settlement's probable net benefit to the estate stemming from avoiding the costs of litigation. See, e.g., Mohns, Inc. v. Wilson, 498 B.R. 907, 911 (E.D. Wis. 2013) (in a chapter 13 case, the District Court stated that "the correct standard is whether it is probable that rejecting the settlement and litigating to judgment will net more for the estate"); id. at 910 ("Determining the reasonableness of a settlement requires comparing the amount of the settlement to the net expected gain of seeking a litigated judgment. The 'expected gain' is the gain if the judgment is favorable, discounted (that is, multiplied) by the probability of a favorable judgment. The qualification 'net' signals the need to subtract the cost of pressing ahead to judgment in order to estimate the value of litigating to judgment rather than of settling.").

Low-end trial	$312,025.00	High-end trial	$975,050.00
Low-end first appeal	$36,600.00	High-end first appeal	$57,150.00
Low-end second appeal	$36,600.00	High-end second appeal	$57,150.00
Sum of low-end trial and two appeals	$385,225.00	Sum of high-end trial and two appeals	$1,089,350.00
Sum of low-end trial and just one appeal	$348,625.00	Sum of high-end trial and just one appeal	$1,032,200.00

Therefore, if the estate were to litigate all the way to the 5th Circuit, it is possible that the cost would be anywhere from approximately $350,000 to just over $1.1 million, with one possible outcome to be the reduction of Acis's claim from $75 million to $0. A second possible outcome would be that the litigation resulted in an Acis claim higher than the $23 million suggested in the proposed settlement. But if the assumption about Mr. Dondero's willingness to reimburse the Debtor's legal expenses for such litigation is correct, then—other than time—there is no downside to postponing any consideration of a settlement and pursuing such litigation.¹¹

Question 3. It is my opinion that, even if the assumptions that I have been asked to make are correct, it is impossible, at this point, to tell whether the proposed settlement advances the reorganization process through improving the likelihood of confirmation of the plan or otherwise. It is impossible to tell because there are still too many unknowns.¹²

¹² The Debtor bears the burden of proof in terms of establishing that the proposed settlement is in the best interest of the estate. See, e.g., Official Comm. of Unsecured Creditors v. Moeller (Matter of Age Refining, Inc.) 801 F.3d 530, 540 (5th Cir. 2015) ("A bankruptcy court must evaluate: (1) the probability of success in litigating the claim subject to settlement, with due consideration for the uncertainty in fact and law; (2) the complexity and likely duration of litigation and any attendant expense, inconvenience, and delay; and (3) all other factors bearing on the wisdom of the compromise. These 'other' factors ... include: (i) 'the best interests of the creditors, with proper deference to their reasonable views'; and (ii) 'the extent to which the settlement is truly the product of arms-length bargaining, and not of fraud or collusion.'" (footnotes and citations omitted); *Comm. of Unsecured Creditors v. Cajun Elec. Power Coop., Inc. (Matter of Cajun Elec. Insufficient information for a conclusion as to whether reducing the Acis claim changes the voting dynamics on the proposed Plan of Reorganization. Paragraph 35 of the Debtor's Motion to Compromise re Acis Claim [Docket No. 1087] states:

35. Furthermore, the settlement embodied in the Settlement Agreement and the Release is in the best interests of all creditors. The Acis Proof of Claim was filed for "at least" $75 million, and that $75 million was substantially below what Acis contended its claim was actually worth (which, on information and belief, was in excess of $200 million with punitive damages). Furthermore, Acis's ongoing lawsuits against the Debtor and its employees were a costly and time-intensive endeavor and a substantial impediment to the Debtor's restructuring. Resolving the Acis Proof of Claim—not to mention the Terry Proof of Claim, the Acis LP Proof of Claim, and the various claims against the Debtor's employees—for a $23-million allowed claim plus approximately $1 million in cash payments on the effective date of a plan and the waiver of the Debtor's disputed claims in the Acis Bankruptcy Case represents a substantial benefit to the Debtor's estate and a huge step towards confirmation of the Plan and the Debtor's exit from bankruptcy.

I find it impossible to conclude, one way or another, whether the proposed settlement constitutes "a huge step towards confirmation of the Plan" based on the information contained in the Disclosure Statement.¹³

Based on the Disclosure Statement [Docket No. 1080], the Convenience Claims Class (Class 5) is impaired, and the holders of claims in that class are thus entitled to vote. The Disclosure

AWECO (Matter of AWECO), 725 F.2d 293 (5th Cir. 1984) (in a case involving former Rule 919(a), 5th Circuit applies the "fair and equitable" standard in reviewing approval of a proposed settlement); but see Motorola, Inc. v. Official Comm. of Unsecured Creditors (In re Iridium Op., LLC, 478 F.3d 452, 464-65 (2d Cir. 2007) (rejecting AWECO's per se rule requiring compliance with absolute priority rule but observing that "whether a particular settlement's distribution scheme complies with the Code's priority scheme must be the most important factor for the bankruptcy court to consider when determining whether a settlement is 'fair and equitable under Rule 9019.'")

Statement estimates that the Convenience Claims Class is likely to recover 75% of the claim value for the claims in that class.¹⁴ A Convenience Claim is defined as “any prepetition unsecured Claim against the Debtor other than an Unpaid Employee Claim that is voluntarily reduced to an Allowed amount less than or equal to $2,500,000.”¹⁵ Based on my experience,¹⁶ including the fact that the Convenience Claim definition is based on a seven-figure amount, I would assume that the Convenience Class will vote to accept the plan.

The General Unsecured Class (Class 7) is also impaired, and the holders of claims in that class are thus entitled to vote.¹⁷ The Disclosure Statement estimates that “the non-subordinated, unsecured Claims against the Debtor, including claims filed by certain Related Entities and affiliates but excluding claims filed by Acis, UBS, the Redeemer Committee, Patrick Daugherty, Integrated Financial Associates, Inc. (“IFA”), Hunter Mountain, and the HarbourVest Entities should total approximately $26.1 million.”¹⁸

The claims to which the Debtor has filed objections are the UBS Securities Claim ($1,039,957,799.40), the UBS Claim ($1,039,957,799.40), IFA ($241,002,696.73), Hunter Mountain ($60,298,739), and HarbourVest Entities (over $100,000,000). Even assuming that the HarbourVest Entities Claim is at most $100,000,000, the total of those remaining claims is $2,481,217,034.53. I have no way of knowing if the Debtor will be successful in its objections to these claims. I also have no way of knowing what the Debtor might estimate the amounts of these disputed claims to be for voting purposes.³⁸ But unless the Debtor provides the Court with information about (1) the likely values for claims estimation and (2) the likely cost of actually litigating the Acis claim, the Debtor cannot make a viable argument as to whether reducing the Acis claim changes the voting dynamics on the proposed Plan of Reorganization and whether the proposed settlement with Acis is in the best interests of all of the creditors. If I were to assume that the general unsecured class votes in favor of the plan, the Debtor would still have to establish that the plan is confirmable pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1129(a). If the general unsecured class votes to reject the plan, the Debtor would still have to establish that the plan is confirmable pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1129(b). An analysis of the ability of the Debtor to meet the requirements of Section 1129 is beyond the scope of this opinion.

³⁷ If I were to add up the values of only those claims that have been estimated or for which proposed compromises are before the Court, that total is only $189,568,629.

Because the Debtor has not yet valued the remaining disputed claims (thus making the evaluation of the $23 million settlement amount of the Acis claim, in terms of voting power among the total general unsecured claims, impossible), then the only other way to evaluate the proposed settlement is in terms of whether it is better to settle the Acis claim or litigate it. If my assumptions as to the potential fees involved in any litigation of the Acis claim are correct, then determining the value of the claim, from initial trial through an appeal to the 5th Circuit, might range from approximately $350,000 to $1.1 million.³⁹ It is my opinion that spending up to approximately $1.1 million to determine whether the value of the Acis claim is $0, $23 million, $75 million, or some other figure would be a reasonable use of estate funds.

I hold the foregoing opinions to a reasonable degree of professional certainty.

Very truly yours,

Nancy B. Rapoport

accepting impaired class:

Acis's settled claim is $23 million, and Acis votes in favor of the plan	$23,000,000.00
Estimated UBS claim is estimated at $82 million (for voting purposes) and UBS votes to reject	$82,320,000.00
Redeemer Committee votes in favor of the plan	$136,696,610
Dougherty votes in favor of the plan	$3,722,019
Total amount of claims being considered	$245,418,629
Amount voting to accept the plan	$163,418,629	67%
Amount voting to reject the plan	$82,320,000	33%

In contrast, if the UBS claim is estimated at, say, $82,325,000, and it votes to reject the plan, then that vote to reject would cause there to be only 66% in favor of the plan, leading to cramdown considerations under Section 1129(b).

³⁹ Or, if the parties chose to bifurcate the trial in order to determine whether, under sec. 550, a debtor can recover avoidance claims for its own benefit, or whether the benefit must inure to the estate (i.e., to the creditors of the estate), then the estimate for just that portion of the trial would likely range from approximately $20,000 to approximately $33,000, given that that portion of the trial would simply involve the adjudication of a question of law. See n.9, supra.

S.D.N.Y. 2005); see especially the summary of the argument on p. 27: "Accordingly, any recoveries of the transfers sought to be avoided in the Acis Claim should be limited to any amount needed to satisfy obligations under the Acis Plan, that is to say, to pay creditors and administrative claimants in full. No creditors have a stake in restoring Acis to the financial condition it occupied prior to any of the transfers that are the subject matter of the Acis Claim, at least not on account of any unpaid claims. Upon payment of creditors in full under the Acis Plan, therefore, all avoidance claims should be dismissed as moot, and the only thing stopping the avoidance claims from actually being moot is Mr. Terry's unwillingness to pay Acis's creditors with the cash at Acis."

Whether Bangor Punta Operations, Inc. v. Bangor & A. R. Co. , 417 U.S. 703, 710, 94 S. Ct. 2578 (1974), prevents Acis from asserting claims against prior equity holders or 3d parties that were not pending when Mr. Terry purchased Acis	Law	Bangor Punta Operations, Inc. v. Bangor & A. R. Co. , 417 U.S. 703, 710, 94 S. Ct. 2578 (1974); Midland Food Servs., LLC v. Castle Hill Holdings V, LLC , 792 A.2d 920, 929 (Del. Ch. 1999) [Obj. at 7; see also Obj. at 27-29].
Whether Acis's four claims seeking $7 million in "Overpayments" have a legal basis	Law	Including whether Delaware still uses the ultra vires doctrine [Obj. at 12-14]; whether turnover applies in this situation [Obj. at 14-15]; whether "money had and received" applies in this situation [Obj. at 15]; whether conversion is a viable theory [Obj. at 15-16].
Whether Acis can maintain a civil conspiracy claim if that claim is not recognized as a statutory remedy for fraudulent transfers under Section 550	Law	See Obj. at 43-46.
Whether Acis can maintain a tortious interference claim w/r/t at-will employment contracts	Law	See Obj. at 46-48.
Whether Acis's breach of contract claim fails as a matter of law	Law (but if Acis can then go forward with the claim, then it will involve Qs of fact)	See Obj. at 48.
Whether Acis's alter ego claim can go forward as a matter of law (i.e., single enterprise	Law (but if Acis can then go	Obj. at 56-60.

liability based on common control by Mr. Dondero)	forward with the claim, then a Q of fact)
Whether Acis is entitled to punitive damages	Q of law (and only if Court decides that a claim for punitive damages can go forward would there be a Q of fact)	Obj. at 54-56.
Whether Acis can establish a willful violation of the automatic stay	Initial argument involves a Q of law	Obj. at 60-61.
Whether Acis can establish a right to payment of attorney fees	Initially a Q of law	Obj. at 61.
Any defenses, including solvency	Q of fact	See, e.g., Qs of fact listed at Obj. at 30-31.

UBS's Objection to Acis POC and Joinder in Debtor's Objection to same [Docket No. 891] adds consideration of Tronox Inc. v. Anadarko Petroleum Corp. (In re Tronox Inc.), 429 B.R. 73, 111, n.24 (S.D.N.Y. 2010) (some state fraudulent transfer statutes allow punitive damages, and some do not). See para. 11:

UBS recognizes these legal bases for a fraudulent conveyance claim, when appropriate, to support an award of punitive damages and/or attorneys' fees. However, because UBS agrees that Acis's state law claims, including those under TUFTA, are subject to summary disallowance and agrees with the Debtor's arguments regarding the Bangor Punta doctrine, UBS concurs on these alternative grounds with the Debtor Objection's conclusion that Acis is not entitled to an award of punitive damages or attorneys' fees.

See also para. 14:

In addition to its own wrongful conduct, Acis has successfully restructured and, on knowledge and belief, Acis's creditors have been or are well on their way to being paid in full.

These facts help to show why summary disposition of the portion of the Acis Claim predicated on counts 5-25 of the second amended complaint is appropriate, despite the fact that “recovery under section 550(a) is subject to a case-by-case analysis of the facts of the case and the equities” involved. (Debtor Obj. ¶ 34; see also id. ¶¶ 37, 40.) This is a case where the facts (and this Court’s familiarity with them) unquestionably negate the need for section 550(a) recovery without further factual development.

James Dondero’s Objection to Acis POC and Joinder in Debtor’s Objection to same [Docket No. 827] reiterates certain legal arguments in para. 24 [pp. 6-7]:

- a. The Acis Claim for breach of fiduciary duty should be disallowed because sole owners do not owe fiduciary duties to their company.
- b. Even if fiduciary duties had been owed, this part of the Acis Claim should be disallowed because Acis cannot sue others for participating in a scheme in which it, as one of the entities it alleges was commonly owned and controlled, was equally culpable.
- c. The fraudulent transfer claims should be disallowed because a debtor cannot recover avoidance claims for its own benefit under section 550(a) of the Bankruptcy Code.
- d. All claims asserted by Acis on its own behalf against prior equity holders or third parties that were not pending when Mr. Terry purchased the company should be disallowed under the Bangor Punta doctrine.

Actions Consistent Therewith (the “ACIS 9019 Motion”) [Docket No. 1087], and joinder in James Dondero’s Response to the ACIS 9019 Motion (the “Dondero ACIS 9019 Objection”)[Docket No. 1121] and represents as follows:

Background

1. On October 16, 2019 (the “Petition Date”), Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the “Debtor” or “Highland”), filed its voluntary petition for bankruptcy under chapter 11 of title 11 of the United States Code (the “Bankruptcy Code”) in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware.

2. On October 29, 2019, the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors (the “Committee”) was appointed by the United States Trustee for in Delaware.

3. On September 23, 2020, the Debtor filed the ACIS 9019 Motion seeking inter alia to approve a settlement with ACIS Capital Management L.P. (“ACIS”), ACIS Capital Management GP LLC, and Joshua N. Terry and Jennifer G. Terry (the “Terrys”). The settlement proposed in the ACIS 9019 Motion (the “ACIS Settlement”) provides inter alia for (i) cash payments to (a) the Terrys in the amount of $425,000, (b) ACIS Capital Management L.P. in the amount of $97,000, and (c) Mr. Terry in the amount of $355,000 (collectively the “Cash Payments”), and (ii) provides general releases to Mr. Terry and other “ACIS Parties”).¹

Relief Requested

4. In pertinent part, Bankruptcy Rule 9019(a) provides “[o]n motion by the trustee and after notice and a hearing, the court may approve a compromise or settlement.” FED. R. BANKR. P. 9019(a). Under Bankruptcy Rule 9019(a), this Court may approve a compromise or settlement

“on motion by the trustee and after a hearing on notice to creditors, the debtor and indenture trustee” Protective Comm. For Indep. Stockholders of TMT Ferry, Inc. v. Anderson, 390 U.S. 414, 424 (1968). “In conducting a hearing under Rule 9019(a), the bankruptcy court is to determine whether the proposed compromise is fair and equitable, and in the best interests of the bankruptcy estate.” Id. In making this determination, a bankruptcy court is required to apprise itself “of all facts necessary for an intelligent and objective opinion of the probabilities of ultimate success should the claim be litigated.” Id. To determine whether a settlement should be approved under 9019, the Court should:

[F]orm an educated estimate of the complexity, expense, and likely duration of such litigation, the possible difficulties of collecting on any judgment which might be obtained, and all other factors relevant to a full and fair assessment of the wisdom of the proposed compromise. Basic to this process in every instance, of course, is the need to compare the terms of the compromise with the likely rewards of the litigation.

Id. at 424-25.

5. For the reasons specified in the Dondero ACIS 9019 Objection, and the reasons separately specified herein, the Court should deny approval of the proposed ACIS 9019 Settlement.

Argument and Authority

6. Daugherty joins in the legal arguments and authorities set forth in the Dondero ACIS 9019 Objection.

7. In addition to the objections raised in the Dondero ACIS 9019 Objection, Daugherty raises two additional objections: (1) the proposed ACIS 9019 Settlement purports to pay prepetition claims outside the confines of a plan of reorganization in violation of the Bankruptcy Code and Fifth Circuit law, and (2) the releases provided in the ACIS 9019 Settlement are premature when there is pending litigation that would be affected by the releases.

8. The ACIS 9019 Settlement proposes “on the effective date of the plan of reorganization...the Debtor will pay in cash” approximately $877,000 to the Terrys and ACIS LP.² The Debtor’s proposed Plan³ does not separately classify or specifically treat the Terrys’ claims. The only three classes that purport to pay cash are Class 3 (Priority Non-Tax Claims), Class 5 (Convenience Claims), and Class 6 (Unpaid Employee Claims). The Terrys’ claims don’t fall within the definition of “Priority Non-Tax Claims”⁴ or “Unpaid Employee Claim.”⁵ As such, the only potential class their claims could fall into, would be Class 5 (Convenience Claims), which is defined to include “any prepetition unsecured Claim against the Debtor other than an Unpaid Employee Claim that is less than or equal to $2,500,000 or any General Unsecured Claim that is voluntarily reduced to an Allowed amount less than or equal to $2,500,000.00.”⁶ At first blush, this would seem to fit. However, the proposed settlement of Terrys’ claims (payment of 100% of what they are owed and a definitive cash amount) is not consistent with the treatment provided to Class 5 creditors under the Plan. Class 5 Claims are treated as follows:

On or as soon as reasonably practicable after the later (i) the Initial Distribution Date if such Class 5 Claim is Allowed on the Effective Date or (ii) the date on which such Class 5 Claim becomes an Allowed Class 5 Claim, each Holder of an Allowed Class 5 Claims will receive in full satisfaction, settlement, discharge and release of, and in exchange for, its Allowed Class 5 Claim (1) the treatment provided to Allowed Holders of Class 7 General Unsecured Claims if the Holder of such Class 5 Claim makes the GUC Election or (2) an amount in Cash equal to either (a) 75% of the Allowed amount of such Holder’s Class 5 Claim or (b) if the total amount of Allowed Class 5 Claims exceeds $15,000, such Holder’s Pro

⁵ Plan at 14 (“any Claim filed by Scott Ellington, Thomas Surgent, Frank Waterhouse, Hunter Covitz, Jean Paul Sevilla, or Isaac Leventon; provided, however, that is any such Claim or portion of such Claim is entitled to priority pursuant to section 507(a) of the Bankruptcy Code, such Claim or portion of such Claim will be a Priority Non-Tax Claim.”).

⁶ Plan at 6.

Rata share of the Convenience Claims Cash Pool.⁷

9. The Cash Payments to the Terrys is inconsistent with Class 5 treatment on multiple fronts. First, the payments made to holders of Class 5 Claims are made on the “Initial Distribution Date,” not the “Effective Date” as the ACIS 9019 Settlement proposes. Second, Class 5 Claims receive either 75% of the “Allowed” amount of such Holder’s claim or their Pro Rata portion of the Convenience Claims Cash Pool; whereas, the Terrys appear to receive 100% of their Claims in a sum certain.⁸

10. Courts in this district have held payment of general unsecured claims other than under a plan is inconsistent with Fifth Circuit precedent. See In re CoServ, L.L.C., 273 B.R. 487, 495 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2002)(citing In re AWECO, 725 F.2d 293 (5th Cir. 1984)). The Fifth Circuit in AWECO reversed the approval of a settlement that paid a general unsecured creditor outside the confines of a plan of reorganization because the payment violated the “fair and equitable” standards of the Bankruptcy Code. See In re AWECO, 725 F.2d at 298-300. Similar to how the settlement in AWECO violated the “fair and equitable” principles of the Bankruptcy Code (i.e., the absolute priority rule), here, the proposed ACIS 9019 Settlement would violate section 1123(a)(4) of the Bankruptcy Code, which requires that a plan shall “provide the same treatment for each claim or interest of a particular class, unless the holder of a particular claim or interest agrees to a less favorable treatment of such particular claim or interest.” 11 U.S.C. § 1123(a)(3). Further, the violations of section 1123(a)(4) would prohibit confirmation of the Debtor’s plan. See 11 U.S.C. § 1129(a)(1)(the plan complies with the applicable provisions of this title). Consequently, the

⁷ Plan at 19-20.

⁸ A review of the ACIS 9019 Motion and the attached settlement reveals nowhere in any of the documents are Terrys’ Claim(s) actually “allowed.”

Court should deny the proposed ACIS 9019 Settlement because the Cash Payments to the Terrys are impermissible payments to a general unsecured creditor outside the confines of a plan of reorganization in violation of the Bankruptcy Code and Fifth Circuit precedent.

11. Daugherty also objects that the releases provided to ACIS and Terry are premature.⁹ As this Court is well-aware, Mr. Terry emerged as the post-confirmation owner of ACIS Capital Management, LP, which is the portfolio manager for CLOs where Highland CLO Funding, Ltd (f/k/a Acis Loan Funding, Ltd.) (“HCLOF”) maintains ownership of the controlling class subordinate notes. After confirmation of ACIS’s plan, counsel for ACIS wrote to counsel for HCLOF and expressed ACIS’s desire to “reset or refinance” the relevant CLOs in the portfolio.¹⁰ HCLOF declined the invitation and responded that it was “constrained under its governing Investment Policy from authorizing a reset transaction with Acis and Brigade.”¹¹

12. HarbourVest¹² as filed a number of proofs of claim in the Debtor’s case that, upon information and belief, aggregate to over $100 Million in claims related to its ownership in HCLOF and the Debtor’s feud with ACIS and Mr. Terry.¹³

13. As the Debtor’s CEO/CRO in this case, James Seery, has stated on the record in this case, under the Adviser’s Act, an advisor (like Terry and ACIS) must subordinate his own interests to the interests of the investors. Specifically, Seery stated:

And what’s important in the Adviser’s Act, and its an interesting part of

⁹ At the outset, Daugherty notes that a significant amount of the facts underlying the objection to the releases proposed to Terry and ACIS are contained in HarbourVest Response to Debtor’s First Omnibus Objection to Certain (A) Duplicate Claims; (B) Overstated Claims; (C) Late-Filed Claims; (D) Satisfied Claims; (E) No-Liability Claims; and (F) Insufficient-Documentation Claims (the “HarbourVest Objection Response”)[Docket No. 1057]

U.S. law. At least my understanding, its been confirmed by outside counsel, is if the manager, which would be Highland, has an interest, its actually required to subordinate that interest to the interest of the investors in the funds it managed.¹⁴

if the manager, which would be ACIS/Terry, has an interest (i.e., Portfolio management fees), ACIS/Terry is actually required to subordinate that interest to the interest of the investors (HCLOF) in the funds it managed.

Put differently, when HCLOF responded that its “Investment Policy” prohibited it from authorizing a reset with ACIS/Brigade, ACIS/Terry likely had a duty under the Adviser’s Act to withdraw as manager of the fund. Whether and what amount of culpability ACIS/Terry may have as a result of their acts, is beyond the purview of this Objection. However, the issue is raised herein as result of the broad general releases proposed in the ACIS 9019 Settlement. Until there is a final resolution to the litigation with HarbourVest, and any claims arising therefrom, a broad general release of ACIS and Terry is premature.

WHEREFORE, Daugherty respectfully requests that the Court enter an order (i) denying the ACIS 9019 Settlement proposed in the ACIS 9019 Motion, and (ii) granting Daugherty such other and further relief, legal or equitable, special or general, to which he may show himself justly entitled.

Re: Resets or refinancings of Acis CLOs

Dear Counsel:

I represent Acis Capital Management, L.P. ("Acis"). I write to you as counsel for Highland CLO Funding, Ltd. ("HCLOF"), Highland Capital Management, L.P., and Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd., respectively.

I assume HCLOF still maintains its position in the subordinated notes of CLOs for which Acis presently serves as portfolio manager. If so, Acis desires to work with HCLOF to attempt a reset or refinance of the relevant CLOs, as provided in the plan of reorganization for Acis (the "Plan"). This desire is constrained, of course, by market conditions, the governing documents of the CLOs, the Plan, as well as any other applicable law or contractual limitation.

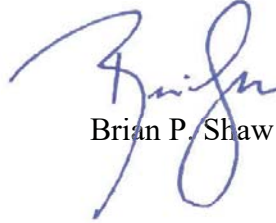

HCLOF and its directors have repeatedly stated that a reset or refinance of the relevant CLOs is in HCLOF's best interests. Acis wants to do everything reasonably practicable to accomplish that goal.

Acis notes that while it is not presently a shareholder in HCLOF, Acis believes its status as a shareholder will be recognized in the future by courts in the United States, and that recognition will be retroactive.

Please contact me as soon as possible so we can get this process moving. My hope is that the attorneys can step aside and we can let the business people get to business.

Re: Resets or refinancings of Acis CLOs

Dear Counsel,

I am responding to your letter of February 26, attached, which I have discussed with Highland CLO Funding Limited ("HCLOF").

As you know, Highland CLO Funding Limited ("HCLOF") is appealing the bankruptcy court's confirmation order. As you also know, HCLOF has repeatedly denied that a reset transaction led by Acis and Brigade is either feasible, or in HCLOF's best interests, and HCLOF has received and continued to rely on independent advice to that effect. Further, as also noted in connection with HCLOF's objections to confirmation of the plan of reorganization, HCLOF is constrained under its governing Investment Policy from authorizing a reset transaction with Acis and Brigade.

For the above reasons, while HCLOF will continue to evaluate all options and alternatives, at present HCLOF is neither interested in pursuing, nor able to pursue, a reset transaction.

Sincerely,

Mark M. Maloney

CASE No. 19-34054-SGJ

CLO HOLDCO, LTD.'S RESERVATION OF RIGHTS AND RESPONSE TO DEBTOR'S MOTION FOR ENTRY OF ORDER APPROVING SETTLEMENT WITH
(A) ACIS CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P. AND ACIS CAPITAL MANAGEMENT GP
LLC; (B) JOSHUA N. TERRY AND JENNIFER G. TERRY; AND (C) ACIS CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, LP

CLO Holdco, Ltd. ("CLO"), a creditor and party-in-interest in this case, files this Reservation of Rights and Response (the "Response") to the Debtor's Motion for Entry of an Order Approving Settlement with (A) Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management GP LLC, (B) Joshua N. Terry and Jennifer G. Terry, and (C) Acis Capital Management, L.P., and Authorizing Actions Consistent Therewith (the "Acis Settlement Motion") [Dkt. No. 1087]. In support of this Response, CLO states:

RESERVATION OF RIGHTS & RESPONSE

1. CLO's Response is limited in scope. CLO does not generally oppose the Debtor's settlement of claims and causes of action involving the Acis parties. CLO notes, however, that the Acis Settlement Motion fails to reference a portion of the proposed settlement that could materially affect numerous non-debtor parties who may not have received notice of the proposed settlement.

2. Exhibit 1 to the Declaration of Gregory V. Demo in support of the Acis Settlement Motion (the "Settlement Agreement") [Dkt. No. 1088-1] contains the following material provision:

On the effective date of a plan of reorganization proposed by HCMLP and confirmed by the Bankruptcy Court, if HCMLP receives written advise of nationally recognized external counsel that it is legally permissible consistent with HCMLP's contractual and legal duties to transfer all of its direct and indirect right, title and interest in Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd. to Acis or its nominee and that doing so would not reasonably subject HCMLP to liability, HCMLP shall transfer all of its right, title and interest in Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd., whether its ownership is direct or indirect, to Acis or its nominee, subject at all times to Acis's right to unilaterally reject the transfer in its sole and absolute discretion;

Settlement Agreement, ¶ 1.(c).

3. Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd. serves as a fund advisor and portfolio manager to numerous parties-in-interest, including funds in which CLO owns a material interest. The Debtor's representatives have noted, on many occasions, Acis's atrocious performance managing CLO funds during the period following Acis' plan confirmation in February, 2019. From CLO's perspective, Acis's performance conclusively validates the Debtor's representatives' allegations. CLO has suffered dearly from Acis's mismanagement of CLO funds in which it owns an interest, and has seen its interests decline in value by tens of millions of dollars since Acis began managing certain fund portfolios.

4. By this Response, CLO reserves its rights against the Debtor should the Debtor effectuate a transfer of Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd. to Acis or its nominee. Given the Debtor's prior representations, CLO questions how the Debtor could effectuate such a transfer in good faith and whether such a transfer would violate its fiduciary duties. Moreover, given the potential change-in-control of Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd., CLO reserves the right to exercise all rights and remedies against Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd., any proposed successor-in-interest, and against the Debtor arising from any breach of any applicable advisory or portfolio management agreement to which CLO, the Debtor, and Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd. are parties.

WHEREFORE, CLO reserves all rights against the Debtor, Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd., and Acis or its nominee should the Debtor attempt to or effectuate a transfer of its interests in Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd. to Acis or its nominee.

TO THE HONORABLE STACEY G.C. JERNIGAN,
UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY JUDGE:

Highland CLO Funding, Ltd. (“HCLOF” or the “Fund”) files this Reservation of Rights regarding the Debtor’s Motion for Entry of an Order Approving Settlement with (A) Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management GP LLC (Claim No. 23), (B) Joshua N. Terry and Jennifer G. Terry (Claim No. 156), and (C) Acis Capital Management, L.P. (Claim No. 159), and Authorizing Actions Consistently Therewith, ECF No. 1087 (the “Motion”), the Declaration of Gregory V. Demo in Support of the Debtor’s Motion for Entry of an Order Approving Settlement *with (a) Acis Capital Management, L.P. Capital Management GP LLC (Claim No. 23), (B) Joshua N. Terry and Jennifer G. Terry (Claim No. 156), and (C) Acis Capital Management, L.P. (Claim No. 159), and Authorizing Actions Consistently Therewith (the “Demo Decl.”), Demo Decl. Ex. 1 (the “Settlement”), and Demo Decl. Ex. 2 (the “Release”).*¹ The Fund respectfully states as follows:

I. Introduction

The Debtor and Acis have mediated their disputes, but the Settlement does not resolve the pending and threatened claims against the Fund. Acis, apparently, intends to continue its aggressive litigation strategy against the Fund and certain other parties expressly carved out from the Release. The Fund therefore files this Reservation of Rights to dispel any claim that it has provided consent or otherwise agreed to the Settlement, and to reserve all its rights, including all rights and remedies under applicable non-bankruptcy law. The Settlement and the recently proposed Plan may have far-reaching consequences affecting the Fund and other parties’ rights under non-bankruptcy law. The Fund is seeking input from its investors on these issues.

For example, a component of the Settlement that is not even mentioned in the Motion is the requirement (subject to certain conditions) that the Debtor “transfer all of its right, title and interest in Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd., [“HCF Advisor”] whether its ownership is direct or indirect to Acis or its nominee.” Settlement § 1(c). The Settlement provides that this transfer will occur in the future (on the effective date of the Debtor’s plan of reorganization) but only if the Debtor receives legal advice that the transfer is “legally permissible consistent with [the Debtor’s] contractual and legal duties” and “would not reasonably subject [the Debtor] to liability.” Id. As such, the proposed transfer is prospective in nature and is not before the Court. Nonetheless, the Fund notes that it has not consented to this proposed transfer, or to the undertaking by the Debtor to execute this transfer. Nor is the Fund consenting to be bound by any legal advice received by the Debtor concerning the proposed transfer. The Fund reserves all rights.

Further, the Release requires the parties to “coordinate to cause . . . to be dismissed with prejudice” the Fifth Circuit appeal of Acis’s Plan of Reorganization. Release § 2. The Fund is a party to that appeal and states that it does not consent to a dismissal.

II. Relevant Background

A. Relationship between the Fund, the Debtor, and Acis

The Fund is a Guernsey closed-end investment fund governed by two directors wholly independent of HCM and Acis. It relies on its service providers to perform certain operational tasks. One of these service providers is its portfolio manager, HCF Advisor. Pursuant to sub-advisory and sub-service contracts with HCF Advisor, the Debtor performs portfolio management functions for the Fund. The individuals employed by the Debtor who provide portfolio management services for the Fund include but are not limited to Hunter Covitz, Isaac Leventon, and Jean Paul Sevilla.

Acis serves as portfolio manager to certain collateralized loan obligations (“CLOs”), in which the Fund holds a majority of the subordinated notes. As representatives of the Debtor have testified, Acis has mismanaged the CLOs to the detriment of the subordinated notes. See, e.g., Dkt. No. 18-3078, Aug. 1, 2018 Hr’g Tr. at 121:6–124:8 (Test. of H. Covitz); Dkt. No. 18-3078, Dec. 13, 2018 (AM) Hr’g Tr. at 25:5–27:25. The value of the Fund’s investments in the CLOs has decreased dramatically since August 2018. Pursuant to Acis’s Plan, the Fund is prohibited from exercising contractual rights that would provide a mechanism for the Fund to replace Acis as manager of the CLOs.

The Fund has also been very materially prejudiced by the acrimonious, multi-front litigation between the Debtor and Acis. First, the Fund opposed four proposed plans in the Acis bankruptcy. The confirmed plan is on appeal to the Fifth Circuit. Second, Acis has sued the Fund in an adversary proceeding pending before this Court, but stayed by the Debtor's automatic stay. Every count of that thirty-five-count complaint that names the Fund is also brought against the Debtor. See Second Amended Complaint (Including Claim Objections and Objections to Administrative Expense Claims), Dkt. No. 18-3078, ECF No. 157. Third, Acis has threatened to file a sanctions motion against the Fund, its former directors, and certain Debtor employees who provide services to the Fund. See Order Lifting the Automatic Stay to Allow Pursuit of Motion for Order to Show Cause for Violations of Acis Plan Injunction, Dkt. No. 19-34054, ECF No. 764. Fourth, Acis has sued the Fund's former directors and certain Debtor employees who provide services to the Fund in another adversary proceeding pending before this Court, which has recently been abated. See Motion to Abate Adversary Proceeding and Pending Deadlines, Dkt. No. 20-03060, ECF No. 27. Fifth, some individuals employed by the Debtor who provide services to the Fund are also named in yet another lawsuit recently brought by Acis, captioned Acis Capital Management, L.P. v. Cruciani, Case No. DC-20-055354, pending in the 162nd District Court of Dallas County Texas.

B. Summary of the Settlement and Release

As relevant to this Reservation of Rights, the Settlement provides for the transfer of the Debtor's interest in HCF Advisor to Acis:

(c) On the effective date of a plan of reorganization proposed by HCMLP and confirmed by the Bankruptcy Court, if HMCLP receives written advice of nationally recognized external counsel that it is legally permissible consistent with HCMLP's contractual and legal duties to transfer all of its direct and indirect right, title and interest in Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd. to Acis or its nominee and that doing so would not reasonably subject HCMLP to liability, HCMLP shall transfer all of its right, title and interest in Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd., whether its ownership is direct or indirect, to Acis or its nominee, subject at all times to Acis's right to unilaterally reject the transfer in its sole and absolute discretion;

Settlement § 1(c).

The Release does not resolve the pending and threatened litigation involving the Fund. See Release § 1(a) ("Notwithstanding anything contained herein to the contrary, the term HCMLP Released Parties shall not include . . . Highland CLO Funding, Ltd. . . ."). However, it contains several provisions affecting the Fund. First, it provides that Acis and the Debtor will attempt to cause the dismissal with prejudice of the Fifth Circuit appeal:

Within five days of the Effective Date, each Acis Released Party and HCMLP Released Party, to the extent applicable, will coordinate to cause the Filed Cases, including any appeals of any Filed Cases, to be dismissed with prejudice as to any Acis Released Party or HCMLP Released Party

Release § 2.

Second, the Release provides that Acis's claims pending against certain Debtor employees (referred to as "HCMLP Specified Parties" in the Release), including those employees that provide portfolio management and other services to the Fund, will be released only if those parties take no action that impairs the Settlement:

Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, if (A) any HCMLP Specified Party has not executed this Release on or before the Effective Date or (B) any HCMLP Released Party, including any HCMLP Specified Party, (i) sues, attempts to sue, or threatens or works with or assists any entity or person to sue, attempt to sue, or threaten any Acis Released Party on or in connection with any HCMLP Released Claim or any other claim or cause of action arising prior to the date of this Release, (ii) takes any action that, in HCMLP's reasonable judgment, impairs or harms the value of HCMLP, its estate, and its assets; or (iii) in HCMLP's reasonable judgment fails to use commercially reasonable efforts to support confirmation of the Plan and/or the monetization of HCMLP's assets at their maximum value, then (a) such HCMLP Released Party (and only such HCMLP Released Party) will be deemed to have waived (x) the release and all other protections set forth in Section 1a hereof and will have no further rights, duties, or protections under this Release and (y) any releases set forth in the Plan, (b) the Acis Released Parties, as applicable, may, in their discretion, assert any and all Acis Released Claims against such HCMLP Released Party (and only such HCMLP Released Party), and (c) any statutes of limitation or other similar defenses are tolled against such HCMLP Released Party (and only such HCMLP Released Party) from the execution of this Release until ninety (90) days after the Acis Released Parties receive actual written notice of any violation of this Section 1d. For the avoidance of doubt, by signing this Release each of the HCMLP Specified Parties is acknowledging and agreeing, without limitation, to the terms of this Section 1.d and the tolling agreement set forth herein.

Id. § 1(d).

III. Reservation of Rights

A. Applicable law and the contracts governing the relationship between the Debtor and the Fund bear upon the proposed transfer of HCF Advisor.

By the express terms of the Settlement, the proposed transfer of HCF Advisor will occur only upon the following conditions: (1) the occurrence of the effective date of a plan of reorganization proposed by the Debtor and confirmed by the Court; and (2) the Debtor “receives written advice of nationally recognized external counsel that [i] it is legally permissible consistent with [the Debtor’s] contractual and legal duties” to effectuate the transfer and [ii] “doing so would not reasonably subject [the Debtor] to liability.” Therefore, the legality of this potential transfer is not currently before the Court, and the Court’s approval of the Settlement under Rule 9019 does not insulate the transfer from later legal challenge. See Van Curen v. Escamilla (In re Vec Farms, LLC), 395 B.R. 674, 683 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2008) (“[A]pproval by court does not immunize [a] clause in settlement agreement that is otherwise illegal.” (citation omitted)).

Without limitation, the Fund observes that multiple provisions of the Fund’s governing documents and third-party contracts, as well as provisions of applicable non-bankruptcy law, including the Investment Advisers Act, bear upon the legality of, and the consequences flowing from, the transfer of ownership of HCF Advisor without the Fund's consent. Presumably these and other issues are to be addressed in the legal opinion anticipated by the Settlement. The Fund has never been consulted on any of these issues and does not consent to, or agree in any way to be bound by, any determination by the Debtor or its legal advisors that it can properly transfer ownership of the Fund's portfolio manager without its consent. The Fund expressly reserves its right to challenge the legality of this transfer, should it occur, on any and all available legal or equitable grounds, and/or to exercise any remedy available to the Fund as a result of the transfer should it occur without its consent.

B. The Fund does not consent to dismissal of its Fifth Circuit appeal.

The Release provides that Acis and the Debtor will attempt to cause the dismissal with prejudice of the Fifth Circuit appeal of the Acis plan of reorganization. Release § 2. The Fund is also a party to that appeal. The Fund recognizes that the Release contemplates dismissal efforts with the Fifth Circuit and that this Court is not being asked to, nor could it, take action on this contemplated future event. Nonetheless, to avoid any inference that the Fund consents to these futures events, the Fund states that it does not consent to dismissal of its appeal.

IV. Conclusion

The Fund therefore reserves all rights to challenge potential transactions or actions described in the Settlement and Release, should those events come to pass, and to pursue any rights and remedies available to it if these events occur without its consent.

Street IX Investment L.P., HV International VIII Secondary L.P., HarbourVest Skew Base AIF L.P., and

HarbourVest Partners L.P., on behalf of funds and accounts under management (collectively, “HarbourVest”) hereby files this limited objection (the “Objection”) to the Debtor’s Motion for Entry of an Order Approving Settlement with (A) Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management GP LLC (Claim No. 23), (B) Joshua N. Terry and Jennifer G. Terry (Claim No. 156), and (C) Acis Capital Management, L.P. (Claim No. 159), and Authorizing Actions Consistent Therewith (Docket No. 1087) (the “Acis Settlement”) by Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the “Debtor” or “Highland”). In support of the Objection, the HarbourVest respectfully represents the following:

I. PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. HarbourVest objects to the Acis Settlement, on which it otherwise takes no position, to the extent that it attempts to infringe upon HarbourVest’s claims or other rights. Specifically, HarbourVest objects to those portions of the Acis Settlement that purport to (i) to release HarbourVest’s claims without the consent or involvement of HarbourVest or (ii) mandate the transfer of Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd. (“Advisor”) to Acis Capital Management, L.P. (“Acis”) without the consent of HCLOF or its investors, including HarbourVest, in violation of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 and its applicable agreements.

II. RELEVANT BACKGROUND

2. HarbourVest owns an approximately 49% interest in Highland CLO Funding, f/k/a Acis Loan Funding, Ltd. (“HCLOF”). Advisor, a subsidiary of the Debtor, is the current portfolio manager of HCLOF. As described in its proofs of claim, listed in the Debtor’s claim register as claims number 143, 147, 149, 150, 153, and 154 (the “Proofs of Claim”) and further detailed in the HarbourVest Response to Debtor’s First Omnibus Objection to Certain (A) Duplicate Claims; (B) Overstated Claims; (C) Late-Filed Claims; (D) Satisfied Claims; (E) No-Liability Claims; and (F) Insufficient-

Documentation Claims [Docket No. 1057] HarbourVest also has significant claims against the Debtor (the “HarbourVest Claims”).

3. The Acis Settlement was negotiated without any input from, or involvement of, HarbourVest, and HarbourVest has not consented to any of its terms or to the transactions contemplated thereby.

III. LIMITED OBJECTION

A. The Acis Settlement Purports to Release HarbourVest’s Claims

4. The General Release, attached Exhibit 2 to the Declaration of Gregory V. Demo in Support of the Debtor’s Motion for Entry of an Order Approving Settlement with (A) Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management GP LLC (Claim No. 23), (B) Joshua N. Terry and Jennifer G. Terry (Claim No. 156), and (C) Acis Capital Management, L.P. (Claim No. 159), and Authorizing Actions Consistent Therewith [Docket No.1088] (the “General Release”) included in the Acis Settlement purports to release the claims of, and provide releases to, a wide variety of parties – none of whom were party to the settlement – including HarbourVest.

5. The General Release provides for each “HCMLP Released Party” to mutually release all claims against each “Acis Party.” General Release at §1(b). “HCMLP Released Parties” include, but are not limited to, entities “managed by either [the Debtor] or a direct or indirect subsidiary of [the Debtor]” and members of such managed entities. General Release at §1(a). As HarbourVest is a member of HCLOF, which in turn is an entity for which Advisor—a subsidiary of the Debtor—acts as portfolio manager, it is arguably included in the definition of HCMLP Released Parties. While HCLOF is expressly excluded as an HCMLP Released Party, HarbourVest is not.

6. It is not clear whether the Debtor intended to attempt to release HarbourVest’s claims through this settlement, and nor can the Debtor purport to do so in the context of a settlement between itself and Acis. Nonetheless, out of an abundance of caution, HarbourVest files this limited objection to ensure all of its rights and claims are preserved and unaffected by the Acis Settlement.

7. For the avoidance of doubt, HarbourVest did not and does not consent to this release. An involuntary release of this nature is beyond the proper scope of the Acis Settlement. To the extent the Release, or any other provision of the Acis Settlement or the proposed order approving the same, purports to release any HarbourVest Claims, or any other claims or rights of HarbourVest, HarbourVest objects. HarbourVest respectfully requests that the Court make clear that the rights, and claims, of HarbourVest and its employees and affiliates remain unaffected.

B. The Acis Settlement Purports to Unlawfully Transfer Highland HCF Advisor to Acis

8. The Acis Settlement purports to require the Debtor to “transfer all of its right, title and interest in Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd., whether its ownership is direct or indirect to Acis or its nominee.” Exhibit 1 to the Declaration of Gregory V. Demo, § 1(c) (the “Settlement Agreement”). Any such transfer, absent the consent of, among others, HarbourVest as an investor in HCLOF, would violate Advisor’s portfolio management agreement as well as the Investment Advisers Act of 1940. To the extent that the Acis Settlement purports to authorize any such transfer absent HarbourVest’s express consent, HarbourVest objects. HarbourVest respectfully requests that the Court make clear that all of its rights under applicable non-bankruptcy law (including those which arise under contract or under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940) are expressly preserved.

1 DALLAS, TEXAS - OCTOBER 20, 2020 - 9:41 A.M.

2 THE COURT: A little bit of a wait. I was trying to
3 make sure I was caught up on all of the late-day filings
4 yesterday. There were a few of them.

5 All right. This is Judge Jernigan, and we're ready to 6 start our setting in Highland Capital Management, Case No. 19-
7 34054. We have two motions set today where the Debtor is 8 seeking approval for compromise and settlement agreements, one
9 with Acis and related parties and one with Redeemer Committee
10 and the Crusader Fund.

11 All right. We have 70 or so people on the line, so we 12 have put you all on mute. But I am going to now take a roll
13 call, so you'll have to take yourself off mute when I call
14 your name for an appearance.

15 All right. First, for the Debtor team, do we have Mr.
16 Pomerantz and a team of others? Would you appear at this 17 time?

18 MR. KHARASCH: Good morning, Your Honor. Ira
19 Kharasch of Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones on behalf of the 20 Debtor and Debtor-in-Possession.

21 I'd first like to let the Court know that Mr. Pomerantz is 22 on the phone in a listening mode. He will not be appearing 23 today as he's still recuperating from successful surgery last 24 week, but glad to say that he's improving daily and looking 25 forward to appearing in front of Your Honor again in the very 1 near future.

2 THE COURT: All right.

3 MR. KHARASCH: I have with me today John Morris as 4 well as Greg Demo.

5 THE COURT: All right. Good morning to all of you.
6 And we wish Mr. Pomerantz well.

7 All right. For the Redeemer Committee, Crusader Funds, do
8 we have a team appearing for them this morning? Go ahead.

9 MS. MASCHERIN: Yes, Your Honor. Terri Mascherin of 10 Jenner & Block. I'm appearing today on behalf of both The 11 Redeemer Committee of the Crusader Funds and also the Crusader
12 Funds, --

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MS. MASCHERIN: -- whose claim is likewise resolved
15 in the settlement.

16 With me today on the line are my partner Mark Hankin, and 17 Mark Platt of Frost Brown Todd.

18 THE COURT: All right. Good morning to all of you.

19 All right. For Acis, do we have Ms. Patel and others
20 appearing this morning?

21 MS. PATEL: Yes. Good morning, Your Honor. Rakhee
22 Patel on behalf of Acis Capital Management, LP, with the 23 Winstead firm. Also on the line is Brian Shaw of the Rogge
24 Dunn Group, also counsel for Acis and counsel for Mr. Terry.
25 I'll let him announce if he has additional parties.

1 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Shaw, are you there with 2 us?

3 MR. SHAW: (no response)

4 THE COURT: Okay. Maybe technical --

5 MS. PATEL: Brian, we can't hear you.

6 (No response.)

7 THE COURT: All right. Well, Mr. Shaw, --

8 MS. PATEL: Well, --

9 THE COURT: -- we put -- the Court put everyone on 10 mute, so if you could take yourself off mute if you are trying 11 to appear. (No response.) Well, maybe we'll get him at some 12 point when -- if he wants to speak up.

13 All right. We have several objecting parties this 14 morning. I'll start with Mr. Dondero's counsel. Do we have 15 Mr. Lynn or someone from his team on the phone or on the 16 video?

17 MR. WILSON: Yes, Your Honor. This is John Wilson
18 with Bonds Ellis Eppich Schafer Jones, LLP. I am joined today
19 by John Bonds, Michael Lynn, and Bryan Assink.

21 All right.

22 MR. WILSON: Thank you.

23 THE COURT: We had Patrick Daugherty as an objecting 24 party to the Acis settlement. Do we have Mr. Kathman and his 25 team?

1 MR. KATHMAN: Good morning, Your Honor. Jason
2 Kathman on behalf of Mr. Daugherty.

3 THE COURT: Okay. Good morning.

4 All right. We had UBS objecting to the Redeemer
5 Committee/Crusader Fund settlement. Do we have Mr. Clubok or 6 others appearing for UBS?

7 MR. CLUBOK: Good morning, Your Honor. This is 8 Andrew Clubok from Latham & Watkins, LLP on behalf of UBS.
9 I'm here with Sarah Tomkowiak, who will actually be leading 10 the proceedings for us today, and also Kimberly Posin.

11 THE COURT: All right. Good morning to all of you.
12 We had a few reservation of rights type limited
13 objections, so I'll check now on these parties. CLO Holdco:
14 Do we have Mr. Kane or others appearing?

15 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor. John Kane on behalf of 16 CLO Holdco, specifically related to the Acis settlement.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you, Mr. Kane.

18 All right. HCLO Funding: Do we have either Mr. Maloney
19 or Ms. Matsumora on the line?

20 MS. MATSUMORA: Yes, Your Honor. This is Rebecca 21 Matsumora from King & Spalding. And Mr. Maloney may be 22 joining us later, once we turn to the Acis settlement.

23 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

24 HarbourVest filed a limited objection to the Acis
25 settlement. Do we have Ms. Driver or others appearing for

1 HarbourVest?

2 MS. WEISGERBER: Good morning, Your Honor. Erica
3 Weisgerber from Debevoise & Plimpton appearing for HarbourVest
4 this morning.

5 THE COURT: Okay. Good morning.

6 All right. Well, I think I've covered all of the parties
7 who filed a pleading today. I suspect the Unsecured
8 Creditors' Committee is out there. Do we have someone 9 appearing for them?

10 MR. CLEMENTE: Good morning, Your Honor. Matthew 11 Clemente from Sidley Austin on behalf of the Unsecured
12 Creditors' Committee.

13 THE COURT: All right. Good morning, Mr. Clemente.

14 All right. Is there anyone else who wishes to appear that 15 I did not hear from?

16 All right. Well, Mr. Kharasch, do you want to start us
17 off this morning?

18 MR. KHARASCH: I would like to, Your Honor, just very 19 briefly, before I turn it over to my partner, John Morris.

20 As you know, Your Honor, we're down to two motions to 21 approve the separate settlements, one with Acis and Josh and 22 Jennifer Terry on the one hand, as well as the Redeemer
23 Committee and the Highland Crusader Funds on the other.

24 There's one significant update in the case that may come
25 up during today's proceeding, it may not, but it's that Mr.

1 James Dondero has resigned from his position where he held the
2 title of Portfolio Manager where he managed certain assets
3 under the direction of the Independent Directors, and all
4 actions were subject to the protocols and director oversight.

5 Here's how we'd like to proceed, Your Honor, today. John 6 Morris of our firm, senior bankruptcy litigator, will be the 7 one to primarily handle most aspects of the 9019 settlement
8 motions, including putting on the testimony of our CEO, Mr.
9 James Seery, and responding to the objections. However, Greg 10 Demo will deal with the response to the technical arguments
11 raised by Mr. Daugherty.

12 If that works with the Court, I would now turn the floor
13 over to John Morris to present the motions.

14 THE COURT: All right. Let me just ask one 15 clarification on the Dondero announcement. Does that mean he 16 has no role at all with the Debtor only, or does it mean he 17 has no role with the various affiliates out there as well?

18 MR. KHARASCH: Your Honor, certainly, I mean, I would 19 defer to Mr. Seery when he gets on the stand, --

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 MR. KHARASCH: -- but there's no role with the 22 Debtor. In terms of the word affiliates, Your Honor, that 23 gets a little tricky in the Highland case. Certainly, you
24 know, it's no -- no role with the controlled entities,
25 Highland's -- the Debtor's controlled entities. But,

1 obviously, the word affiliates could spill over to other
2 entities that are truly managed and owned by Mr. Dondero or 3 his various companies.

4 THE COURT: Okay. I know folks tend to bristle when 5 I use that word affiliate. I know there's nuance in some 6 situations. But all right.

7 Well, let's go ahead, then, and hear from Mr. Morris. And 8 I'll just say right now I don't think I need lengthy opening
9 statements. I don't know if that was your intention, to go
10 straight to the evidence. Certainly, if people feel like 11 they've got to say a word or two, I'll let that happen, but 12 we've done our best to read all the pleadings so I don't 13 really think I need much of an opening statement. I'd rather 14 go to evidence pretty quickly. Mr. Morris?

15 MR. MORRIS: Good morning, Your Honor. Can you hear 16 me?

17 THE COURT: I can. Uh-huh.

18 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTORS

19 MR. MORRIS: Thank you. John Morris from Pachulski
20 Stang Ziehl & Jones for the Debtor. Thank you for the 21 guidance, Your Honor. I'll probably cut considerably on what 22 I had been prepared to say, but I appreciate the time that the 23 Court has taken to review our papers. I know that we didn't 24 get them in until last evening, although they weren't 25 particularly voluminous.

1 We're really pleased to be here today, Your Honor. This
2 case has just recently passed its one-year anniversary. We're 3 here today, really, quite excited to resolve two of the most
4 contentious, litigious cases that the Debtor has faced, both
5 on a pre-petition basis, and frankly, in certain respects, on 6 a post-petition basis. These cases with Acis -- and Acis, in 7 particular, Your Honor, you're very familiar with, and I just 8 wanted to let the Court know that our plan here is to proceed
9 first with the Redeemer settlement.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. MORRIS: And so let me just say a few words about 12 that. (garbled) I've shared with all of the objecting
13 parties, so there's no surprise here. I think everybody is 14 prepared for the path that we're going to go down. I'd like 15 to do my short opening. Ms. Patel and Mr. Shaw may -- I
16 apologize, Ms. Mascherin may speak on behalf of the Redeemer
17 Committee. Somebody may speak on behalf of the Crusader
18 Funds. UBS, who is the only objecting party, may choose to 19 make an opening. And I'll call Mr. Seery. And I'll do my 20 direct of Mr. Seery. I've got just a few exhibits to put into 21 the record, and we expect to rest. And I'll leave it to Mr.
22 Clubok and the Latham firm to decide how they want to respond.

23 So, once that's completed, we will shift to the Acis
24 settlement. I would propose to proceed in the same manner, 25 with a very short opening, put Mr. Seery on the stand to

1 testify as to the issues and the facts relating to the Acis
2 settlement, and hopefully we'll be done.

3 THE COURT: All right. So, in both situations, Mr.
4 Seery would be the only witness for --

5 MR. KHARASCH: Yes.

6 THE COURT: -- the Debtor. And I guess with regard
7 to the UBS objection to the Redeemer Committee/Crusader Fund
8 settlement, there is a person that was identified for UBS:
9 Moentmann. I'm not sure if I'm saying that correctly. Are we 10 anticipating having him as a witness? I guess I need to hear
11 from Mr. Clubok, but --

12 MR. CLUBOK: Yeah. Yeah, I don't -- I don't --

13 MS. TOMKOWIAK: I think --

14 MR. CLUBOK: -- I'll speak.

15 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Good morning, Your Honor. This this 16 is Sarah Tomkowiak on behalf of UBS.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Good morning.

18 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Yes, we do intend to present Mr.
19 Moentmann as a witness today.

20 THE COURT: All right. Well, I'm getting ahead on 21 this because what I want to know is, do people -- can people
22 give me a time estimate at least of your direct? Okay? I'm 23 trying to figure out, are we going to need to put any time
24 limitations, reasonable time limitations on witnesses?

25 Mr. Morris, you acted like Mr. Seery would be fairly quick

1 in both situations.

2 MR. MORRIS: Yeah, I would appreciate 10 minutes for 3 an opening, and then certainly no more than 30 but hopefully
4 closer to 20 minutes for direct.

5 THE COURT: All right. Ms. Tomkowiak, what do you
6 think as far as time?

7 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Yeah. We would like about the same,
8 approximately 10 minutes for our opening and about 20 minutes
9 to cross-examine Mr. Seery. And then I expect that our direct 10 of Mr. Moentmann would take about the same amount of time.

11 THE COURT: All right . Well, I've got some loose
12 estimates. If you start going well beyond those estimates,
13 I'm going to kind of rein it in, but I think this all sounds
14 very reasonable.

15 All right. Mr. Morris, you may make your opening
16 statement.

17 MR. MORRIS: Thank you very much, Your Honor. What I
18 want to do with my opening is just describe at a very high 19 level what we expect the evidence to show today. The Court is 20 obviously familiar with the settlement terms, so I'm not going 21 to spend any time with that. They're set forth both in our 22 papers and in the agreement itself. The Court is familiar
23 with the legal standard. So I'd like to spend a few minutes
24 at the end talking about the UBS objection and why the Debtor
25 firmly believes that it ought to be overruled.

1 As Your Honor is aware, the Debtor had served as the
2 investment manager of the Crusader Funds. In 2008, following
3 the stock market and financial crisis, the Debtor put the 4 Crusader Funds into (garbled). Disputes arose among the 5 interest holders of the Crusader Funds, and they spent a few
6 years fighting among themselves. And a few years later, they 7 came up with a plan and scheme, pursuant to which the Redeemer
8 Committee was formed. The Redeemer Committee had the -- had 9 the right, the unfettered right to decide when, how, and 10 whether the Debtor would continue on as its financial manager.
11 And in the summer of 2016, it decided to terminate the 12 Debtor's position as investment manager.

13 An arbitration ensued. Litigation, frankly, throughout --
14 throughout numerous countries and numerous courts ensued.
15 There were two cases in Aruba, I believe. There was a case in 16 the Cayman Islands. There was a case filed in the Delaware
17 Chancery Court. You had the arbitration. So I think there
18 was litigation going on on five different fronts.

19 The parties spent two years in arbitration, engaged in 20 extensive discovery and motion practice. They had a nine-day
21 trial in September of 2018, and ultimately the panel issued an 22 award, and that award came in three parts. The first part was 23 called a partial final award, which was rendered in March of 24 2019. That was followed, I think, about eight days later with 25 a modification award. And finally, in May, they issued their

1 final award.

2 All three awards are attached to my declaration. They
3 have been offered into evidence under seal. The sealing order
4 has already been entered, and that sealing order, I think, is 5 also one of our exhibits. I'm not moving them into evidence
6 yet. We'll get to that point. But I just wanted Your Honor
7 to know that the arbitration awards are very much part of the 8 record.

9 That award, I don't think there's any dispute that,
10 pursuant to the award, the Debtor was obligated to pay
11 approximately $190 million. Shortly after the award was 12 filed, the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds moved to 13 have the arbitration award confirmed in the Delaware Chancery
14 Court, and Highland moved for partial -- for a partial 15 vacation of that award.

16 Notably, Highland did not challenge any of the Court --
17 any of the arbitration panel's factual findings. They didn't 18 challenge any substance of the award. But they raised a 19 number of procedural defects that primarily went to the 20 overarching argument that the partial final award should have 21 been treated as the final award, such that any relief granted
22 in the modification award and the actual final award was 23 impermissible.

24 I think UBS has calculated the value of the awards given
25 post those two documents as approximately $36 million.

1 So, you've -- the Redeemer Committee has filed their claim
2 in this case of $490 million. The Crusader Funds have filed a
3 separate proof of claim for approximately $23 million, if I
4 remember correctly. And their basis for the Crusader's Fund
5 claim is that they sued to claw back certain fees that had 6 been paid to Highland in its role as investment manager.
7 Admittedly, I think -- I don't want to speak for the Crusader
8 Funds -- but I do think they acknowledge that there is some 9 overlap in those amounts.

10 You will hear from Mr. Seery today. Mr. Seery will 11 describe for you what he and an independent board of directors
12 did to educate themselves about the scope, nature, and value
13 of the Redeemer Committee's claim. They will -- Mr. Seery
14 will discuss the extensive advice that the board was given
15 with respect to these matters. Mr. Seery will also describe 16 for you the extensive negotiations that took place between the 17 Debtor and representatives of the Redeemer Committee and the 18 Crusader Funds. You will hear about communications between 19 and among lawyers, communications between and among 20 principals.

21 I recall, Your Honor, back in June, when we I think first
22 alerted to the Court that we were negotiating the settlement, 23 you expressed some mild surprise, because, after all, this is 24 an arbitration award, so what -- what, in fact, was there to 25 settle? And it was a very fair point, and we appreciated the

1 fact that you didn't have visibility into the specifics. But 2 lo and behold, there were really -- let's just call them very
3 two -- two very large issues.

4 And Mr. Seery will describe this in more detail for the 5 Court so it's part of the evidentiary record, but the first 6 issue related to something called deferred fees. Pursuant to 7 the plan and scheme that were agreed upon, Highland was 8 entitled to recover its fees as investment manager only upon 9 the completion of the Crusader Funds' liquidation. But in the 10 early part of 2016, as the panel found, Highland had helped 11 itself to approximately $32 million in deferred fees, and that 12 was one of the claims that the Crusader Fund and the Redeemer
13 Committee brought in the arbitration, and the arbitration
14 required that Highland return that $32 million plus interest.

15 So why is that an issue now in the settlement? It's an 16 issue because the Debtor chose a different path. Rather than 17 paying that money now and waiting for some time in the future
18 to seek to collect that money, it compromised. And it's a 19 very reasonable and fair and rational compromise, Your Honor.
20 They took two-thirds of the value of the deferred fee today
21 instead of having no settlement, continuing with the 22 litigation, having a fight on setoff issues, because 23 undoubtedly the Redeemer Committee would argue that they ought 24 to get paid a hundred-cent dollars. So we'd have another
25 litigation over setoff. We would have to wait until the

1 completion of the Crusader Funds' liquidation before we could
2 even make a demand for the deferred fee. And as Your Honor
3 knows, the Crusader Funds are going to have and the Redeemer
4 Committee will have an allowed claim in this case, and that 5 claim won't be satisfied until all distributions are made, and 6 those distributions won't be completed until all estate claims
7 are pursued.

8 It may be many years before this happens. And so the 9 Debtor, I think rationally, chose to take two-thirds now
10 rather than fight over setoff issues, rather than wait what 11 would likely be many years to even apply for it. And then 12 once they did that, we'd be litigating over the Redeemer
13 Committee's faithless servant defense, one that, if you read
14 the -- if you read the partial final award, I think it's fair
15 to say there would be risk here that the Debtor would get 16 nothing on the deferred fee. So that was one big issue that 17 we dealt with.

18 The other one related to Cornerstone. Under the terms of 19 the final order by the Court -- the panel, not the Court, but 20 the panel -- but the panel found that Highland acted 21 improperly and was required to buy -- basically buy out the 22 Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds' interest in 23 Cornerstone. They would have been required to pay $48 million
24 to do that.

25 Again, issues of setoff would have abounded. And frankly,

1 the Debtor doesn't have the money to pay that, doesn't think
2 it's, frankly, worth that price.

3 So, instead, negotiations, very, very solid negotiations,
4 the Debtor chose to allow the Redeemer Committee and the 5 Crusader Funds to retain those Cornerstone shares and instead 6 give us a credit of $30.5 million against the gross value of 7 the arbitration award.

8 So the $190 million is reduced first by $21 million for 9 the deferred fee; then, second, by $30-1/2 million for the 10 Cornerstone issue.

11 How did they arrive at the $30.5 million figure? We'll 12 hear Mr. Seery testify about the diligence that he did and 13 about how he relied in substantial part on certain valuation
14 reports that the Debtor receives in the ordinary course of 15 business from Houlihan Lokey.

16 He will tell you that these reports are provided by 17 Houlihan for a fee. They're provided not just with respect to 18 Cornerstone but with respect to lots of other assets that the 19 Debtor either owns or manages.

20 He will tell you that the Debtor relies on the Houlihan
21 reports for setting the marks on their books and for all kinds
22 of other reasons.

23 We believe that that, again, is a perfectly rational
24 statement, and we want to emphasize to the Court that we're 25 not here today to tell you that this is the absolute best

1 result that the Debtor could obtain, because no settlement can 2 ever represent that.

3 Instead, this is a compromise, where everybody gives a
4 little and everybody gets a little. And within that context,
5 no expert that comes in here after having spent 20 or 30 hours
6 doing their own analysis should be able to upset this apple
7 cart. And that's what you're going to hear from UBS's expert.
8 This is the only point that they really make, is that he did
9 his analysis and he thinks that the value is higher. And I
10 don't think that's the corpus of Rule 9019. It's the Debtor's 11 judgment. Is what the Debtor doing fair and reasonable? Has 12 the Debtor engaged in a process to educate itself? Has the 13 Debtor thoughtfully gone through negotiations? Is there a 14 rational basis for where the Debtor is coming out with? There
15 is no question as to all of those things.

16 And so those are the two big adjustments. Mr. Seery will 17 tell you that there was one other more modest adjustment that 18 was made, another million dollars in favor of the Debtor. But 19 that is the evidence that we plan on presenting, Your Honor.

20 We think that there will be no dispute that this
21 negotiation was arm's length, it was not the product of fraud
22 or collusion, and that it is in the paramount interest of the 23 Debtor and its estates and all constituents that this 24 litigation with the Redeemer Committee finally be brought to 25 an end.

1 I have no further comment, unless you have any questions,
2 Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: Thank you. I guess I should ask Ms.
4 Mascherin, before I go to Ms. Tomkowiak: Did you have 5 anything you wanted to say, as you represent the settling
6 party, obviously?

7 MS. MASCHERIN: Yes, Your Honor, I would appreciate
8 it if you'd allow me just a brief set of remarks.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE REDEEMER COMMITTEE

11 MS. MASCHERIN: The standard, of course, that governs
12 us today is a familiar standard under Fifth Circuit law. In 13 the Debtor's papers, the Debtor has cited to In re Cajun
14 Electric Power Co-Op, Incorporated, 119 F.3d 349, a Fifth
15 Circuit decision from 1997. And the Fifth Circuit tells us
16 that approval is to be given to a settlement if it is fair and 17 equitable and in the best interest of the estate. And the 18 Fifth Circuit has guided courts to consider such issues as 19 probability of success in litigation, taking into account any 20 uncertainties in fact and in law; the complexity and likely 21 duration of a litigated resolution of the dispute, and any 22 attendant expense, inconvenience, and delay; and other
23 factors, such as whether the settlement would be in the best 24 interest of all creditors and whether the settlement was the 25 result of arm's-length negotiation.

1 Your Honor, I would -- I will submit that after you hear
2 Mr. Seery's testimony, and even in light of the Debtor's -- or 3 UBS's, rather -- effort now to turn this into a valuation
4 dispute over Cornerstone, that the Court will agree that this 5 settlement was in the reasonable business judgment of the 6 Debtor and is in the best interest of the creditors.

7 Just very briefly, Your Honor, the current state of 8 affairs is that the Redeemer Committee holds an arbitration
9 award entitling it to almost $190 million in damages. As part 10 of that award, as Mr. Morris said, the Debtor is required to 11 pay $48 million in principal plus an additional $21 million in 12 pre-judgment interest to purchase the 42 percent minority
13 interest in Cornerstone that's held by the Crusader Fund.

14 In addition, under that award, the Redeemer Committee is 15 entitled to the cancellation of several limited partnership
16 interests in Crusader Funds which the panel found Highland 17 Capital Management had obtained by way of breaching the 18 Crusader Fund plan of liquidation and breaching its fiduciary 19 duties.

20 Only one small piece of that limited partnership interest
21 relief was challenged by the Debtor in the action to confirm 22 or vacate the award, and only one small piece of that, which 23 we'll refer to, I think, in arguments later, perhaps, is the 24 Barclay's claim for a limited partnership interest which 25 Highland transferred to its wholly-owned affiliate Eames,

1 E-A-M-E-S, is at issue in UBS's objection.

2 In addition to the relief that the Redeemer Committee was
3 granted in the arbitration award, Your Honor, the Crusader
4 Fund, as Mr. Morris says, has asserted its own separate claim
5 to claw back certain fees paid in the past to the Debtor and 6 also to avoid the payment of any further fees under what New 7 York law recognizes as the Faithless Servant Doctrine, which I
8 will submit there is ample findings in the arbitration awards
9 in this case of breaches of fiduciary duty, and New York law
10 holds that when a servant has been found to have breached its 11 fiduciary duties and acted unfaithfully, that servant is not 12 entitled to further compensation from the client -- in this 13 case, the Crusader Fund.

14 Now, all of that, as Mr. Morris notes, would be for 15 litigation many years from now upon complete liquidation of 16 the Crusader Fund, because the deferred fees that the Crusader
17 Fund would seek to avoid paying would not be payable in any 18 event unless and until the Fund -- the Crusader Fund was 19 completely liquidated, which, as Mr. Morris notes, could not 20 happen until this claim is fully paid, because this claim now
21 is -- will be the single largest claim -- the single largest 22 asset, rather -- of the Crusader Fund.

23 Your Honor, this compromise, this settlement, would be to 24 the benefit of the Debtor's estate for several reasons. First
25 and foremost, as Mr. Morris emphasized, it will end all

1 disputes between the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Fund
2 on one hand and Highland Capital Management, the Debtor, on 3 the other, and would provide for releases of the Debtor and 4 several of its affiliates and employees in connection with the
5 settlement.

6 As a net matter, this compromise would reduce the amount
7 of the Redeemer Committee's damages claim to an allowed claim
8 of just over $137 million, a reduction of over $54 million
9 from the amount of the arbitration award.

10 This settlement would also allow a very modest claim to 11 the Crusader Funds of only $15,000, Your Honor.

12 It would provide for the same relief as the arbitration
13 panel ordered with respect to the disputed limited partnership
14 interests, including the interests that is currently held by 15 the Debtor's wholly-owned affiliate, Eames.

16 And, significantly, it would also relieve the Debtor of 17 its obligation to purchase the shares of Cornerstone that are 18 held by the Crusader Fund -- as I mentioned, a 42 percent
19 minority interest in that company -- which otherwise, under 20 the terms of the award, the Debtor would be required to pay a
21 total of $79 million to acquire. As Mr. Morris said and as I 22 believe Mr. Seery will testify, the Debtor doesn't have that 23 kind of money and has no interest in buying those shares. The 24 Debtor is in liquidation, and its interest is in monetizing
25 the 58 percent majority interest that it owns or controls in

1 Cornerstone.

2 And significantly, Your Honor, to that end, this 3 settlement also includes an agreement by my clients, the 4 Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Fund, to cooperate with 5 the Debtor so that the Cornerstone asset, the company as a
6 whole, can be monetized jointly. And we've even agreed upon 7 some terms, which I won't get into because they are 8 confidential, given that this is an asset that the Debtor will 9 be seeking to deal with in the future, but under those terms,
10 faithfully cooperate and will attempt to achieve a 11 monetization that would bring in substantial value of what the 12 Debtor could otherwise achieve holding a 58 percent interest
13 rather than a 100 percent interest in that asset.

14 So, Your Honor, in sum, I submit that this settlement was 15 in the reasonable business judgment of the Debtor and it amply
16 meets the requirements for approval that the Fifth Circuit set
17 forth in In re Cajun Electric Power Co-Op. Thank you.

18 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

19 All right. Now I will go back to UBS. Ms. Tomkowiak? Am
20 I saying your name correctly? Correct me if I'm not.

21 MS. TOMKOWIAK: It's pretty close for a first try.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MS. TOMKOWIAK: It's Tomkowiak.

24 THE COURT: Tomkowiak? Okay. Thank you. You may 25 proceed.

1 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Thank you, Your Honor. Before I
2 proceed, I did want to raise one housekeeping issue that
3 hopefully will not count against my time, but I think it's 4 important to resolve it before I do my opening statement.

5 As you just heard from both the Debtor and Redeemer's
6 counsel, part of the -- one of two very large issues in this 7 settlement relate to the value of Cornerstone, and 8 specifically the value of Crusader's ownership interest in 9 Cornerstone. The Debtor put -- assigned a value to that of 10 $30.5 million, and they put that in their papers, they filed
11 that in court, they've said it here again here today, and 12 they've said that Mr. Seery intends to testify as to the 13 diligence that he purportedly did in order to arrive at that 14 number.

15 We've, you know, received documents from the Debtor and 16 Redeemer showing the valuations that were alluded to. The 17 numbers in those valuations are substantially higher. Our own
18 expert has also performed his own analysis of the valuations, 19 and his own valuation analysis, and we would like to be able
20 to testify to those numbers and talk about them.

21 Frankly, we're surprised that the Debtor doesn't want to 22 put those valuations into evidence, considering that it is the 23 Debtor's burden to show that the settlement had some rational
24 basis, as they just said.

25 But, and we have previewed that to the Debtor, and they

1 have expressed their views that those values and those 2 valuation reports are confidential and should not be part of 3 the public record. We think that is prejudicial. We think it
4 is prejudicial to put the lowest of the low of any of these 5 ranges into the public record without also being allowed --
6 allowing us to put on evidence that the true valuation is, in 7 fact, much higher.

8 Again, they put into the record that the perceived fair
9 market value of this asset, which is critical and central to 10 our objection and to their -- the value of the settlement and 11 whether or not it's fair and equitable, they've put that into 12 the record, and we would like to be able to get evidence into 13 the record relating to that number and relating to our 14 analysis of it and why we believe it's well, you know, below
15 any range of reasonableness.

16 We don't think it's confidential. We think it should all
17 be part of the public record. We do not object if the Court
18 wishes to proceed in some other manner, such as, you know,
19 sealing the courtroom, although, again, that's not our 20 preference. We would prefer to just be able to talk about the 21 evidence and the numbers. But we would welcome your Court's 22 guidance on this. You know, I believe, and I won't speak for 23 the Debtor's counsel, but I believe that that is -- was their 24 preference.

25 MR. MORRIS: May I be heard, Your Honor?

1 THE COURT: You may.

2 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Your Honor, the reports that are
3 being referred to are reports that were provided on a 4 confidential basis. They're stamped confidential. They were 5 produced pursuant to the protective order.

6 I'm a little confused as to why no effort has been made to 7 deal with the issue prior to the last 12 hours or so, because
8 (garbled). They received the documents as confidential
9 documents. There's no question about that.

10 And the important point here, Your Honor, is why are they 11 marked confidential. It's one thing to disclose a settlement
12 number. It's very different to disclose the analyses. There 13 may be discounts. There may be adjustments. We're about to 14 embark, if this settlement is approved, the Debtor and the 15 Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds are about to embark 16 on a sales and marketing process. That part is known to the 17 public. But the value, if the value -- I'm stunned that UBS
18 is surprised that we care. There's probably not many things 19 that we care about more than maintaining the confidence of the 20 value -- of our perception of value, how we get there, the 21 methodologies that were employed, and particularly when we're 22 about to go into the marketplace. And we believe this 23 information really does need to be kept confidential for that 24 reason.

25 The option that I can think of, Your Honor, and I know it

1 may not be popular with everybody here, but there is only one
2 objecting party. There's nobody else here. You've got your 3 statutory committee. You've got the U.S. Trustee. They've 4 got statutory obligations to continue to be part of the 5 process. You've got UBS and you've got the Debtor. I would 6 respectfully request that this part of the proceeding be 7 limited, or at least the portion when their expert witness is 8 testifying, because -- well, be limited to those folks, and 9 everybody else just has to go off the line. That would be my 10 proposal, Your Honor.

11 If this information gets into the marketplace, not only 12 the Debtor but the other stockholders, including the Crusader
13 Funds, will be harmed.

14 MS. MASCHERIN: Your Honor, may I speak?

15 THE COURT: You may.

16 MS. MASCHERIN: May I, just briefly?

17 THE COURT: You may.

18 MS. MASCHERIN: On behalf of the Crusader Funds and 19 the Redeemer Committee, Your Honor, I join in Mr. Morris's
20 objection. We have produced in discovery and UBS has included
21 on its exhibit list the independent third-party valuations
22 that the Crusader Fund has obtained, pursuant to strict
23 confidentiality obligations, with respect to the Crusader
24 Funds' shares in the Cornerstone asset, as well as highly 25 confidential portions of reports by the Crusader Funds'

1 manager to the Redeemer Committee concerning its opinions
2 regarding the value of that asset.

3 And we share the concern. And there should be a concern,
4 I think, Your Honor, with respect to anyone who cares about
5 the Debtor's ability to maximize the value of the Cornerstone
6 asset. The market should not see the confidential valuation
7 reports and other advice that the Debtor and my clients
8 considered when we negotiated this compromise.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Let me --

10 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Your Honor, may I --

11 THE COURT: Let me think about --

12 MS. TOMKOWIAK: May I briefly make just a couple 13 points?

14 THE COURT: Well, just a minute. Let me think about 15 the mechanics here. I know there was a declaration of your 16 expert submitted ahead of time. Have you filed under seal --
17 I've granted lots of sealing motions and I'm losing track --
18 have you filed under seal a valuation report of your expert?

19 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Your Honor, we have filed these 20 papers under seal, to be cautious. Again, we view that 21 differently than an open proceeding. These documents were on 22 our exhibit list. No one objected to them. Some of these 23 documents we did not have a chance to file because, although 24 we've been asking for them for a very long time, we've only 25 received them in the last, you know, 36, 24 hours.

1 So while some of them are under seal, there are other more
2 recent valuations that would not be. And, again, we have a
3 very different view here of what would or would not be harmful
4 to a sales process.

5 We believe it is incredibly more harmful and prejudicial
6 to have put in their motion, and I'm looking at it -- Page 10,
7 Paragraph 31 -- to say that there's a $30.5 million perceived
8 fair market value of Crusader's 42 percent ownership in 9 Cornerstone, and then not be able to put into the public
10 record all of the numbers in these, you know, secret
11 valuations that suggest that it should be much, much higher
12 than that. Substantially higher than that. Double, triple 13 higher than that.

14 So that's our view. And, you know, again, we're willing 15 to proceed as the Court wishes, but, you know, we have a very 16 different view of who's really being harmed here, and, you
17 know, we think it's the estate and we think it's us.

18 THE COURT: All right. Well, what I was thinking is,
19 because this is going to be mechanically cumbersome and we're 20 not going to have complete certainty about the integrity of 21 the process if I say everyone has to leave the call except 22 UBS, Redeemer, the Debtor, and the Committee, there's always a 23 risk of someone somehow slipping by, I'm wondering if we can 24 have your witness later and he can testify about the under-
25 seal document without -- I don't know, can we have testimony

1 with him just referring to page whatever for the Court to look
2 at, without saying the numbers out loud? Is that a ridiculous
3 thought, or is that possible, do we all think?

4 MS. TOMKOWIAK: That might be possible, Your Honor,
5 when it comes to our witness. And it might be possible to,
6 for example, share slides with you in advance with respect to 7 both my opening and our experts so that only you could see
8 them but then we would talk about them vaguely.

9 I do, you know, I hesitate because we'd also like to use
10 these documents potentially in our cross-examination of Mr.
11 Seery. Again, we literally got some of these, you know,
12 yesterday. And so I'm not sure that that's -- entirely solves
13 the problem.

14 I mean, one other suggestion is that we could pause here
15 and switch to the Acis claim and try in the meantime to work
16 something out. You know, we've already proceeded down this 17 road, though.

18 MS. LAMBERT: Judge Jernigan?

19 THE COURT: Yes.

20 MS. LAMBERT: This is Lisa Lambert for the United 21 States Trustee. I had not anticipated needing to make an 22 appearance in this hearing, but the U.S. Trustee has asked for 23 sealed documents in this case, some of which have not been 24 sent. And in addition, we'd ask to be excluded specifically
25 as contemplated in the argument, but I wasn't sure the Court

1 was aware that we were on the call.

2 THE COURT: Okay. You're saying that if we have
3 sealed testimony or documents, the U.S. Trustee wants to be 4 included?

5 MS. LAMBERT: Yes.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MS. LAMBERT: And for those who have not e-mailed
8 those documents, we would be grateful if there were e-mailed,
9 because I do not have all of them yet.

10 THE COURT: Okay. All right. This is a little bit 11 --

12 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

13 THE COURT: -- challenging -- Mr. Morris, I'm going 14 to go to you -- in a vacuum. I mean, I don't know what the 15 whole set of documents are. I mean, a part of me is torn 16 here. If we have the UBS expert's information out there for 17 public consumption, will that alone, in the Debtor's view,
18 chill the bidding process? I mean, this is one objecting 19 party's view of the world, and, you know, perhaps it would 20 simply be perceived as one objecting party's view of the world
21 and not the end-all be-all on value. What do you think?

22 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. You know, I know this is a little 23 unusual, Your Honor, but can Mr. Seery be heard since he is 24 the CEO? I don't want to put him under oath and do -- but I
25 think he can probably articulate much better than I can as to

1 the Debtor's concern. He's very familiar with the documents.
2 He's reviewed them. And I don't know if -- Mr. Seery, are you
3 able to hear me? Do you want to speak up on this particular 4 topic?

5 MR. SEERY: I can hear you, yes. If the Court can 6 hear me, if the Court wants to hear me, I'm happy to --

7 THE COURT: I would like --

8 MR. SEERY: -- describe what these documents are and 9 how they derive into this issue.

10 THE COURT: Please. Go ahead.

11 MR. SEERY: Your Honor, each month -- and this is not 12 unique to the Debtor -- with respect to what our view is of -- 13 of the three -- two or three assets, the Debtor gets 14 valuations from a third-party service, in this case Houlihan
15 Lokey, which is probably the most prominent valuator of these 16 assets, these types of assets. They set a -- well, what we 17 call fair value. We use it for our NAV. Doesn't mean that 18 it's fair market value. It's their perception of what value
19 can be for these assets using various models and comparisons.

20 And we use those every month, we try to do it on a 21 consistent basis, and that's how we value all our liquid
22 assets.

23 Houlihan also does this service for a myriad of funds,
24 investment funds, as well as the retail funds that are smaller 25 affiliated with the Debtor but we don't control. So these

1 valuations for various assets go into the NAVs that those 2 entities produce.

3 Again, they're not fair market value, but perception using 4 models and desktop analysis as to what the value is, to allow 5 investors in the funds to understand movements in the value of 6 assets and get a sense of what the value may be.

7 In this case, the Debtor owns around three percent of 8 Cornerstone. RCP owns --

9 THE COURT: I'm sorry.

10 MR. SEERY: -- around 55 --

11 THE COURT: I got the math wrong. What is the 12 Debtor's ownership?

13 MR. SEERY: About three percent, Your Honor.

14 THE COURT: Okay.

15 MR. SEERY: RCP, which is a fund called Restoration
16 Capital Partners, --

17 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

18 MR. SEERY: -- we've dealt with a little bit in the 19 case before, is a fund with third-party investors mostly, a --
20 an interest by some Dondero-affiliated entities, and about 16
21 percent owned by the Debtor. That owns 55 percent of 22 Cornerstone.

23 So, roughly, the Debtor's derivative interest in the asset
24 is around 11 percent, 12 percent. In that neighborhood. The 25 rest is owned by Crusader.

1 UBS -- we provide these documents on a regular basis to 2 the Unsecured Creditors' Committee. UBS sits on that 3 Committee. Our confidential information we provide to the 4 Debtor and provide to the Committee, and have been doing
5 exclusively for months, contains various valuations using 6 these marks, and then what we think we can achieve for various 7 outcomes.

8 We're working with Cornerstone management to put in a 9 management retention program and enhance that opportunity for 10 them so that interests are aligned. We think that's in the 11 best interest of RCP, with whom -- manage the asset. We think 12 it's in the best interest for the estate and our interest.
13 Also in the best interest for Crusader.

14 We hope to then be able to go to the market. We may or 15 may not be able to go to the market. The market may not be 16 ready. It may not be the right time. We may have to do
17 different things to the asset to get it in the best condition
18 to sell it. We may have to even think about (inaudible) to 19 get the best value. Because we have a duty to RCP as well.
20 Releasing the detail that's in these NAV valuations that we 21 get from Houlihan every month would be extremely detrimental
22 to that process.

23 The interests of the Debtor, as I said, it's material, but 24 there's significant third-party interests here. Significant 25 third-party interests. For UBS -- these are not the types of

1 reports that ever are or should be released generally, and
2 they will have an effect on the sale process.

3 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Mr. Seery.

4 THE COURT: All right. Well, let me go back.

5 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Your Honor, may I -- may I just real
6 briefly reply to that?

7 THE COURT: Let me ask you this first. Are we -- I
8 want to make sure I understand the universe of documents we're 9 talking about. Is it just your expert plus these Houlihan
10 documents?

11 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Well, yes, and a couple of other 12 documents that were produced by the Redeemer Committee. The 13 -- those documents, I think what's confidential about them is 14 that they refer back to these Houlihan valuations.

15 THE COURT: Okay. Isn't there a simpler answer to 16 all of this, and that is, if I don't have a Houlihan person,
17 if I don't have the person who created these documents, then 18 they're hearsay I shouldn't allow in.

19 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Well, Your Honor, but we're not -- 20 we're not necessarily putting them in for the truth of what's 21 in them. In fact, we think what's in them is unreasonably low
22 and significantly flawed and inaccurate. But, you know, they 23 are relevant for other purposes, including the fact that they 24 are much, much higher than the perceived fair market value
25 that the Debtor put into their motion.

1 I was confused to hear Mr. Seery say that these don't show
2 anything about fair market value, and those were their words,
3 not ours. It's their burden to show that they had a rational
4 basis and sound business judgment in entering into this 5 settlement, so we are -- we should be allowed to explore with 6 Mr. Seery what, to quote the Debtor's counsel, what diligence
7 he did, including if he looked at these reports; why he didn't 8 accept the higher values that are in these reports; why he 9 took a value as of March, over six months ago, as opposed to 10 the much more recent values in these reports that show that 11 Cornerstone has continued to improve its performance. So, and 12 the -- of our expert, who is allowed to rely on hearsay and 13 allowed to explain what he did and what he reviewed in coming 14 to his own analysis that this asset is worth, you know, two to 15 three times the value that it's been assigned to it, the value
16 that the Debtor's estate is giving up and that Redeemer is 17 getting as part of this deal, which we just think is a
18 windfall. And I don't understand how the Court can have all
19 of the information available to make that independent judgment 20 without --

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MS. TOMKOWIAK: -- without seeking that information.

23 THE COURT: Okay. So I'm going to take --

24 MS. TOMKOWIAK: I mean, we want these assets to be 25 worth more. We want them to be able to monetize them and

1 maximize their recovery. We just -- we, again, disagree as to
2 what's more harmful, having one very low, incredibly low,
3 unreasonable number out in the public, or having, you know,
4 the -- all of the information out there in the public that
5 shows that the value of these assets is much higher.

6 THE COURT: Okay. Well, let's take this in chunks.
7 I'm not going to allow any evidence in regarding these 8 Houlihan reports. There was a way to do this, and I may or 9 may not have been amenable to this way, but you could have 10 subpoenaed the Houlihan person. I don't know what kind of 11 fight you would have had on your hand. Probably would have 12 had one. But without a Houlihan person to testify about this,
13 this is hearsay and I think it would be offered to prove the 14 truth of the matter asserted. So I'm not allowing the 15 Houlihan information in for that reason.

16 I'll say a couple of additional things. We have a 17 longstanding rule in this District that the Debtor can always 18 testify about value. Okay? So, it goes to, obviously, the 19 weight and credibility I give it, but -- so if he speaks about 20 value, he's entitled to speak about value. It's just how much
21 weight do I give it. He has the burden of proof.

22 The last thing I want to say on this topic is we all know
23 that, in a 9019 context, the Court is not technically required
24 to have a mini-trial. It needs to consider all facts and 25 circumstances that "bear on the wisdom of the settlement

1 proposed." But I think that is probably yet another reason to
2 keep this information out, that it's going a little bit beyond
3 what I think is necessary today. And, again, the Debtor is 4 either going to meet its burden or not. It has the burden.
5 So that's the Houlihan-related stuff.

6 You've alluded to Redeemer Committee or Crusader Fund
7 information. That's another category of stuff we're talking
8 about?

9 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Yes and no, Your Honor. I think we 10 also have presentations that were provided to the Crusader
11 Fund, I believe by Alvarez & Marsal, that show -- again,
12 discuss the valuation of Cornerstone as of particular dates,
13 and frankly, we believe, directly contradicts the testimony
14 that the Debtor has indicated that they intend to elicit from 15 Mr. Seery and shows how unreasonable the efforts were here.

16 THE COURT: All right. Well, I think my ruling needs
17 to be consistent, then, with the ruling with regard to the 18 Houlihan information. I don't have an Alvarez & Marsal
19 witness. It would be hearsay without the Alvarez & Marsal
20 person here to testify about it. I think it would be offered 21 for the truth of the matter asserted. And so I'm not going to 22 allow that.

23 So, does that bring us down to just this one category of 24 Mr. Moentmann and his work product?

25 MS. TOMKOWIAK: I believe so, Your Honor, in terms

1 of, you know, can he testify about his, you know, his own
2 valuation, his own analysis of what he believes that these 3 assets are worth and the flaws that he's identified in the 4 Houlihan valuations as well, which I think, with respect to 5 his own analysis, you know, I believe it would be helpful for 6 the Court to hear the numbers and, you know, the flaws in what 7 Houlihan has done. That's part of his opinions. And I think
8 he could do that without, you know, referencing specific 9 numbers, if that's what the Court would prefer.

10 THE COURT: All right. So I'm going to go back again
11 to Mr. Morris and Ms. Mascherin. I'm inclined to let Mr.
12 Moentmann testify, and I can -- he can refer to his report
13 that's here under seal. And as long as he doesn't make 14 references to numbers of Houlihan, Alvarez & Marsal, I'm not 15 sure I'm convinced it would hurt the future marketing effort.
16 Again, wouldn't the market just say this is one objector's
17 opinion and they either give it weight or not?

18 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I probably should have said
19 this earlier. I am going to have a very short voir dire. And 20 I think, you know, if you would allow me to do that, the 21 Debtor expects to move to exclude this witness in its 22 entirety, in his entirety. He's a lovely man, I'm sure he 23 knows his work very well, but I don't think it's worth the 24 time, money, and effort to continue down this path on a 9019
25 motion. And so we will be making that motion.

1 I suppose if that motion is denied, you know, if he can be
2 limited in the manner you're describing, we could probably
3 live with that. But we do intend to make that motion.

4 THE COURT: All right. Ms. Mascherin, anything to 5 add?

6 MS. MASCHERIN: No, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Okay. So that is the path we'll take.
8 We'll let Ms. Tomkowiak call Mr. Moentmann. We'll either
9 allow it or exclude it depending on where I go on that 10 request. And then, if he does testify, he will be directed to 11 just cross-reference his report that's here under seal and not 12 mention numbers of other experts that he may be critical of.

13 All right. So, with that, Ms. Tomkowiak, you may make 14 your opening statement.

15 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF UBS SECURITIES, LLC

16 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Okay. Thank you, Your Honor. And to 17 -- just to be crystal clear, I do intend in that statement to 18 refer to the conclusions, his own, not those of anybody else.

19 THE COURT: All right.

20 (Pause.)

21 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Your Honor, as I -- I also appreciate
22 you taking the time to read all of our papers. As you know,
23 UBS strongly believes that the settlement is not fair, it is 24 not equitable, and it is not in the best interest of the 25 estate.

1 It is the Debtor's burden, that nobody disagrees about
2 that, to show that it has exercised business judgment within a
3 range of reasonableness. And the Debtor has not submitted to 4 this Court any evidence whatsoever to meet that burden. The 5 Debtor -- Mr. Seery testified at his deposition that he agreed
6 that the only thing before the Court to determine whether or 7 not the settlement is fair and equitable is their motion and 8 that's it.

9 As you've observed, no one from Houlihan Lokey intends to 10 come here and testify today. There is no evidence before you 11 to independently evaluate the true value of these two very 12 large issues, as the Debtor's counsel described them. It's 13 just Mr. Seery and his say so of what he thinks is reasonable.
14 And we don't think that that is enough to show that the 15 settlement is reasonable, we think there's been a complete
16 abdication of business judgment here, and we don't think this 17 is in the best interest of the estate.

18 We believe that the Debtor and Redeemer have negotiated a
19 sweetheart deal, frankly, that gives Redeemer a ginormous
20 windfall and deprives the estate of its right to these 21 meaningful assets that could be available to UBS and to other
22 creditors.

23 And, so, yes, in addition to harming the estate, this deal
24 is absolutely to the detriment of UBS, and we are a 25 significant unsecured creditor whose rights are affected by

1 this deal. Our views must be taken into consideration under 2 the Fifth Circuit law that Ms. Mascherin cited to. And 3 respectfully, we just don't think that the Debtor has met its 4 burden for giving Your Honor the full picture necessary to 5 fully understand the value of this settlement compared to the 6 arbitration award on which it's supposedly based.

7 I wanted to briefly talk a little bit about that
8 arbitration award, if you can go to the next slide. So,
9 again, that we all agree that the claim is based upon an 10 arbitration award. No court has ever confirmed this award.
11 It's not a final judgment. I want to walk you briefly through 12 the components of that award as they're relevant here. So,
13 Gail, if you could pull that up.

14 You know, Redeemer asserted a number of claims against 15 Highland and they're laid out here, including the panel's
16 findings. The first row is the uncontested claims. And by 17 that, I mean that, you know, no one has disputed that portions
18 of them should be subject to vacatur in Delaware law.

19 The next component, there are legal fees and costs that 20 the panel awarded to Redeemer. Next, we have the deferred fee
21 claim. And this was alluded to in the openings of the Debtor
22 and Redeemer as well. And the panel agreed with Redeemer that 23 Highland had, to quote the Debtor's counsel, helped itself to 24 over $32 million in fees that were supposed to be deferred
25 until the end of liquidation of the Crusader Fund.

1 The panel awarded Redeemer damages, but it did not relieve
2 Redeemer of its obligation to pay the Debtor those fees in the 3 future when they are due. And I don't think that is 4 reasonably in dispute here.

5 The Cornerstone award, as we've all acknowledged, that was 6 a finding by the panel that Highland did not act appropriately
7 in liquidating Cornerstone and Crusader's interest in
8 Cornerstone. And so the panel awarded Redeemer nearly $70
9 million for that claim. Or, I'm sorry, over $70 million for 10 that claim. And that was based on the panel's view at the 11 time, around a year or so ago, that the fair market value of 12 Crusader's interest in Cornerstone was $48 million,
13 approximately, and then plus pre-judgment interest, for a 14 total of $71 million.

15 And then there was also this claim relating to the 16 Barclay's interest. This particular award was included by the 17 panel as a modification to its first final award. That second
18 final award also increased the amount of pre-judgment interest
19 that Redeemer was receiving under the arbitration award by 20 extending the period of time by which they could receive that.

21 It's that portion of the Barclay's claim here, which is 22 approximately $30 million, and then another $6 million of pre-23 judgment interest. That is the subject of the motion to 24 vacate that was filed in Delaware a long time ago and was set
25 to be heard the day that the Debtor filed this case for

1 bankruptcy.

2 So, the sum of these components, in terms of what Redeemer
3 was owed, is approximately $190 million, but the story does 4 not end there, as the Debtor and Redeemer would like you to 5 believe. And I think, in fact, they acknowledge, you know,
6 this is not a straightforward arbitration award, because there
7 are reciprocal obligations that Redeemer still owed to the 8 Debtor. And Gail, if you could click here.

9 So, what's reflected here are the various setoffs and 10 other issues that we believe you need to consider when you
11 think about the true value of the arbitration award. So the 12 first one is the Cornerstone shares. We all agree that the 13 arbitration award required -- required Redeemer,
14 simultaneously with payment of the damages award, to give 15 back, to tender back to the Debtor, absolutely no question,
16 not in dispute, they were required to give those shares back
17 to the Debtor.

18 And so we've assigned here, just for purposes about 19 thinking about the arbitration award at the time it was 20 issued, a value of $48 million, which, again, is the fair
21 market value that the panel concluded was appropriate for 22 Cornerstone at the time this award was issued, which, again,
23 was a long time ago.

24 And then there was the payment of deferred fees. I think 25 you heard a lot about those today. These are the fees that,

1 again, the panel found that Highland took them too soon, but
2 they are required to get -- they are -- they have a right to
3 get them at some future point in time when the Crusader Funds
4 are fully liquidated. And so nothing about the arbitration
5 award relieved Redeemer of its obligation to pay those fees,
6 even though, necessarily, and as you can see by their name,
7 they were deferred until some future point in time.

8 And then finally here, you know, any -- we -- there's a
9 certain amount of contested claims. And, again, that relates
10 to the Barclay's claim and with respect to the amount of pre-
11 judgment interest that was included in the second final award.

12 That -- you know, Mr. Seery, I think, testified at his 13 deposition that he believed they had little chance of 14 succeeding on that motion, and they've assigned that zero
15 value in their settlement and gave one hundred percent of the 16 value of that to Redeemer. We believe that's inappropriate
17 and we believe that even if you take 50-50, although, you
18 know, we think it should be higher than that, but even if you
19 just assume for settlement purposes that they might win that 20 issue, they might lose that issue, and you take 50 percent of 21 those contested amounts that are subject to vacatur by the 22 Delaware Court, or frankly, by this Court, then, accounting
23 for that litigation risk, you should remove another $18
24 million from the value of this arbitration award.

25 And so, at the end of the day, you've got an adjusted

1 award of around $90 million, and that's what we believe is the 2 true value of the award.

3 If you go to the next slide. We really just have two 4 large problems with the proposed settlement. The first is the 5 Cornerstone shares. And, again, without getting into the 6 numbers, they are -- indisputably, the Debtor's fair market
7 value calculation is based on the very lowest end of the 8 valuation range prepared by Houlihan Lokey for Crusader, not 9 the Debtor. It's a bit confusing, but Houlihan Lokey actually 10 provided two different valuations: one for Crusader, one for 11 the Debtor. They used the one provided for Crusader, and they 12 took the very lowest end of that range as of March 2020. They 13 did it despite having a different valuation that had a higher
14 range and despite the Debtor's own policy of typically marking 15 assets at the mid-point.

16 They provided no basis for using a valuation in March, 17 when the COVID pandemic was in its very initial stages. The 18 market was very, very low. They've only said and we expect 19 Mr. Seery to testify that, well, that's when the parties first 20 started negotiating this deal. But the settlement wasn't 21 finalized until, you know, six months later, and the Debtor is 22 not bound by that valuation or some handshake deal. They 23 could have but they did not insist that more current numbers
24 were used.

25 And our expert, you know, we intend to offer his testimony

1 that they've used some very flawed assumptions and that the 2 30.5 is well below any range of reasonableness that you could
3 assign to the shares.

4 And then really the -- you know, we don't think that the 5 Debtor has appropriately taken litigation risk into account.
6 You know, they've given a very large litigation discount for a
7 claim regarding the deferred fees and this applicability of 8 the Faithless Servant Doctrine that hasn't even been filed. I
9 mean, that -- that litigation is hypothetical. It's not 10 pending. It's a future dispute that isn't even ripe yet. And 11 yet they've applied a very large litigation discount for that 12 claim.

13 Conversely, they've applied a zero litigation discount for 14 a claim that has been fully briefed to the Delaware court in 15 the form of a motion to vacate. And again, inexplicably, they 16 just (inaudible) amount and provided Redeemer with a hundred 17 percent of the value of that claim.

18 Can you go to the next slide?

19 You will hear from our expert, Mr. Moentmann. He's a 20 principal at Grant Thornton. He has over 30 years of 21 experience in valuations. He specializes in healthcare
22 valuations.

23 I heard Ms. Mascherin say that we would like to turn this 24 into a valuation case. Well, frankly, we don't see how 25 valuation is not relevant when the settlement includes the

1 forfeiture of a very, very meaningful asset such as
2 Cornerstone.

3 He's going to testify, again, that, in his opinion, when 4 he has looked at all of the information and corrected for 5 these assumptions, that the true value of Crusader's ownership
6 in Cornerstone as of June is, you know, as great as -- as much
7 as triple the value that has been assigned to it by Highland
8 as the "perceived fair market value."

9 We believe that this is the value that the estate is 10 giving up. The estate has the right to those shares, and we 11 believe that in forfeiting the right to them they're giving up
12 a meaningful asset that -- that's -- has a much greater value
13 than the amount taken into account by -- in the settlement.

14 And by the way, no one disputes that this asset is 15 performing better today than it was in June, and certainly 16 than it was in March, when they took the very, very lowest of 17 the range of valuations done at that time.

18 What that means is that, under the proposed settlement,
19 Redeemer actually does far better than it ever could under the 20 underlying arbitration award.

21 And if we can go to the next slide, where I have hopefully 22 provided redacted -- yep. And what that means is what the 23 Debtor has said and what Mr. Seery has testified is that he 24 expects the Debtor to be solvent. He expects that Redeemer
25 will recover one hundred percent of its allowed claim in real

1 or one hundred dollars. And so what that means here is that
2 they get to keep their $137 million allowed claim. They're
3 receiving a release of their obligation to pay $32.3 million
4 in deferred fees --

5 MS. MASCHERIN: I'm sorry, Your Honor. I must
6 object. This line I believe at the bottom essentially
7 includes the same, if you do the math, the very same values
8 that are discussed in the confidential documents that were 9 just the subject of their sidebar discussion.

10 THE COURT: All right. That does seem to be the 11 case, Ms. Tomkowiak. Agree? I can go backwards and figure 12 out --

13 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Yes, I do apologize. We --

14 THE COURT: -- what that redacted number is. So,
15 yes, move on to another screen, please.

16 MS. TOMKOWIAK: We redacted these on the fly, Your 17 Honor, and we just didn't redact the full column.

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 MS. TOMKOWIAK: So we apologize for that. I believe 20 it has now been fixed.

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Sarah, does that address your 23 concern? So, --

24 MS. MASCHERIN: No, that's -- no, you're -- you still 25 have a reference in the last column, Counsel.

1 MS. TOMKOWIAK: The 30.5? That's public. That is --

2 MS. MASCHERIN: No, the other number, Counsel. The 3 other number comes from confidential documents.

4 THE COURT: Okay. I thought the --

5 MS. MASCHERIN: Unless I was misreading it.

6 THE COURT: I think it was Grant Thornton. There was 7 a -- there was the public number, the 30.5 March number, and 8 then there was the Grant Thornton number. I think she revised
9 it where those were the only two remaining, correct?

10 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Correct.

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 MS. MASCHERIN: I apologize, Your Honor. I misread
13 it.

14 THE COURT: Okay. Go ahead.

15 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Okay. Gail, if you could put that 16 back up.

17 The bottom line, then, Your Honor, is that when you take 18 into account one hundred percent recovery in real dollars on 19 the allowed claim, release of the obligation to pay $32.3
20 million in deferred fees in the future, retaining Crusader's
21 interest in Cornerstone as opposed to giving it back to the 22 estates, we believe that Redeemer could be receiving an actual 23 recovery of over one hundred percent of its filed claim under 24 the arbitration award. Grant Thornton's estimate, you know,
25 over $60 million -- $60 million over its allowed claim.

1 But even, even using the 30.5 perceived market value that
2 the Debtor assigned to Cornerstone in the settlement, they 3 still recover more than one hundred percent on their claim, as 4 reflected in that Final column.

5 THE COURT: All right. Ms. Tomkowiak, we have gone
6 well over the ten minutes. I know there have been lots of 7 starts and stops, but you need to wrap it up pretty soon.
8 Okay?

9 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Will do. Absolutely. All right.
10 And I guess I'll just -- I don't -- I don't have any more
11 slides.

12 I will just say that there's a genuine dispute, I think 13 that is apparent now, about the value of Cornerstone. We 14 don't think the Debtor has provided the Court with any 15 evidence, let alone sufficient evidence to accept their 16 valuation of this asset. We don't think Mr. Seery will 17 testify that he's ever talked to Houlihan about this 18 valuation. Houlihan is not here to defend their methodology.
19 And we, fundamentally, we agree that settlement is desirable,
20 we understand that, particularly here in this complex case,
21 and that it is tempting to approve and allow all of this 22 litigation to go away.

23 Quite frankly, UBS still believes that its claim can be 24 settled and the mediation is still open and we're hopeful that 25 we can resolve our claim, too, and we're making every effort

1 to do that. But this, this settlement is designed to overpay
2 Redeemer, frankly. We feel like it has bought their support
3 and they're working together with the Debtor to object to our 4 claim.

5 We think that, at minimum, the settlement should not be 6 approved without further information being provided to the 7 Court in the form of real evidence or an independent valuation
8 of Cornerstone being done.

9 Alternatively, Your Honor, the final thing I will say is 10 that, in the alternative, if Your Honor is inclined to approve
11 the settlement, the -- one of the terms of the settlement
12 requires the -- Redeemer and the Debtor to work together to 13 sell Cornerstone over a period of time. In the event that 14 sale occurs and the purchase price is, as UBS suspects it will 15 be, well above the value that's been calculated by the Debtor, 16 then we believe that it would be appropriate for the Court to 17 take Crusader's proceeds of that sale into consideration at 18 the time of plan confirmation, when distributions are to be 19 made, and any upside should be taken into account when 20 calculating Redeemer's actual recovery.

21 THE COURT: All right.

22 MS. TOMKOWIAK: I appreciate your indulgence, Your 23 Honor, and that's all I have.

24 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Mr. Morris, shall 25 we go ahead and have Mr. Seery testify now?

Seery - Direct

56

1 MR. MORRIS: I'd be delighted.

2 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Seery, welcome back. I
3 need to swear you in. Please raise your right hand.

4 JAMES P. SEERY, DEBTOR'S WITNESS, SWORN

5 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You may proceed.

6 THE WITNESS: Can you hear me, Your Honor?

7 THE COURT: We can hear you loud and clear. Thank 8 you.

9 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

10 DIRECT EXAMINATION

11 BY MR. MORRIS:

12 Q Good morning, Mr. Seery. Before we get into the 13 substance, let me just ask you. Is it your -- have you rolled 14 over here?

15 A I'm not known for that. The answer is no.

16 Q Okay. When were you appointed an independent director?

17 A In January of this year.

18 Q Okay. And you were appointed as the CEO in July; is that
19 right?

20 A That's correct.

21 Q And the Court approved that in the form of an order; is 22 that right?

23 A Yes, it is.

24 Q Okay. I want to move this along as efficiently as I can,
25 so let me ask you an open-ended question: Can you describe

002846

Seery - Direct

57

1 for the Court the diligence that you and the independent
2 directors did to familiarize yourself with the claims that are
3 being made by the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds?

4 A Yes. From the start, and obviously we have several
5 litigation claims, but Redeemer was a significant litigation
6 claim and they sit on the Committee. So right from the start,
7 even before the appointment as an independent director, I and 8 I'm relatively certain Mr. Dubel, read the Redeemer partial 9 arbitration award and then the final arbitration award. After 10 our appointment and our selection of Mr. Nelms as the third
11 director, I am quite sure that Mr. Nelms did the same thing.

12 So we looked at the awards, investigated with the Debtor's
13 team the underlying nature of the awards, what led to the 14 disputes. Then we worked with counsel, going through the 15 underlying case issues that the arbitration raised. And in 16 particular, the disputes between the partial final award and 17 the final award.

18 And that took place through our initial appointment, after 19 we got our feet wet, as I said, early in February and in 20 March, because we thought this was one of the key issues we 21 had to determine: Would we continue to litigate with Redeemer
22 or would we seek to reach an accommodation and a compromise
23 with respect to their arbitration award?

24 Q And did counsel provide you with written analyses,
25 including advice concerning the nature and scope of the 002847

Seery - Direct

58

1 Redeemer Committee's arbitration award?

2 A As with each of the claims that we've looked at, we've had
3 counsel, and I think the time records reflect it, do
4 significant work researching the underlying claims, getting to 5 know the underlying case law. In this case, looking at the 6 arbitration awards. Thinking about the defenses. Thinking
7 about and analyzing the issues that Highland raised,
8 challenging the final award. Analyzing the situation of the 9 Delaware Chancery Court, including the appeals. And then 10 report to us as an independent board on those issues.

11 Our practice -- you know, I don't have a specific 12 recollection if this is the case of every one of the claims --
13 our practice is to have a board meeting after those documents
14 that counsel's produced have been reviewed. Our practice is 15 to challenge them. Our practice is to challenge them quite 16 vigorously and send counsel back to do more work and hopefully 17 educate us in a way that we have a good understanding of the 18 risks and rewards with respect to various options with respect
19 to each of the litigation claims.

20 Q And did the board spend time and did you personally spend 21 time considering and getting advice on the issue of the 22 Faithless Servant defense?

23 A We did. To be frank, it's one that, despite having a lot
24 of experience in these areas, I had not heard of it before.
25 So the board requested that counsel do research and provide

002848

Seery - Direct

59

1 additional written information regarding the defense, its 2 likelihood of success, and particularly with respect to the 3 facts that are outlined in the partial award and in the final 4 award and how those might impact attempts that we would have 5 to get around that defense.

6 Q All right. Let's shift from the diligence that you and 7 your fellow board members did to the manner of the 8 negotiations. Did you (audio gap) participate in the 9 negotiations?

10 A I'm sorry. There was a -- there was a beep.

11 Q Did you -- do you have personal knowledge as to the 12 negotiations that led to the agreement?

13 A I did, yes.

14 Q All right. Again, can you just describe in general terms
15 for the Court the process that the Debtor undertook in 16 negotiating the agreement that led to this motion?

17 A Well, there was extensive back and forth, as I think 18 everyone in the case knows, that we started with a hundred 19 percent case, and we negotiated that with Redeemer very 20 aggressively. Redeemer brought in Crusader at times. We 21 negotiated various points to -- where they gave and we did,
22 back and forth. We went back and did additional research on 23 some of their claims with respect to -- and particularly with 24 respect to the interests, which we can get into in detail,
25 that are extinguished in the award. We spent a ton of time

002849

60

1 not only with our counsel but also with the Highland team to 2 understand the underlying history, how those interests were 3 obtained, whether they -- what did they cost when they 4 originally purchased them, how they potentially were found to 5 violate the -- the scheme. And then negotiated those points
6 with Redeemer.

7 Q And just to complete the record, did you personally speak
8 with one or more principals who were representing the 9 interests of the Redeemer Committee to negotiate any aspect of 10 the settlement?

11 A I did. We had many discussions, all telephonic, 12 negotiating the particular terms. We also had a number of 13 meetings with counsel with the entire board, with the 14 professional -- the personnel who represented Redeemer plus 15 their professionals, plus counsel and representatives of 16 Crusader in Zoom calls. So there were multiple sessions, both 17 on the phone directly with the Redeemer principal who sits on 18 the Committee as well as with the Redeemer principal and his 19 counsel.

20 Q All right. Let's talk about the adjustments that were 21 made to the gross value of the arbitration award of $190
22 million. Just to identify them, they include the issue of the 23 deferred fee. Do I have that right?

24 A Yes. I think you summarized it in the opening quite well.
25 Highland had, in the scheme that was approved originally to 002850

61

1 liquidate the Crusader Fund, Highland had agreed to a fee
2 arrangement where the vast majority of the fees were deferred,
3 and they were deferred until the end of the liquidation --
4 i.e., until all of the assets in the Crusader Fund had been 5 liquidated and funds were distributed, and then Highland would 6 be entitled to receive its fees. And along the lines, for a 7 variety of reasons that the arbitration panel did not give 8 much credence to, Highland took them before the end of the 9 liquidation.

10 Q And did the Debtor decide to reach a compromise with 11 respect to the amount of fees that it might have been owed had 12 it successfully requested them at the end of the day?

13 A We did. We obviously, or maybe not so obviously, but we 14 did start with asking for the full reduction, with the 15 argument that this liquidation will get done quickly, we've 16 only got a couple assets left in Crusader, and we should be 17 entitled to the full setoff.

18 Redeemer's position and Crusader's position was, wait a
19 second, you're asking us to pay you fees on account of a 20 scheme that you were breaching while you were supposedly 21 earning these fees, and then you took the fees that you earned
22 while you breached it early. And they were of the belief that 23 they did not have to pay any of those fees. So we negotiated
24 off of those two positions.

25 The arbitration award does not deal with the fees. It

002851

62

1 talks about the repayment of the $32 million plus the
2 interest, but it doesn't say what happens later. And it's a
3 -- it's a failing or (inaudible) in this, you know, for 4 Highland, but it doesn't -- it certainly doesn't give Highland
5 the award of the fees.

6 And we had similar arguments with respect to briefing
7 before the panel, arguments before the panel, where we were 8 arguing that we were -- we'd be entitled to get those fees at 9 the end, and that Redeemer and Crusader knew it, but there
10 were some holes in those arguments.

11 Q Let's see if we can identify that. Ultimately, the board
12 agreed with the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Fund to 13 accept a credit today for two-thirds the value of the total
14 deferred fee; is that right?

15 A That's the math in terms of what the reduction in the 16 claim is. It was hard-fought in that we wanted to make a 17 decision if we could get a full settlement with a number of 18 components or whether we would try to get pieces and litigate
19 the other piece. Redeemer wasn't interested in a partial 20 settlement. It was either full or litigate. And that left 21 us, we thought, exposed, both with respect to the time and 22 cost as well as the risk of a complete loss, which we factored
23 into our settlement.

24 Among other things, you know, and this will permeate the 25 case, and we'll talk about it with Acis as well, this case,

002852

63

1 the business runs the way it runs. It does have revenues and
2 the team does provide service to a number of counterparties
3 and they do a great job. So the employees of Highland are 4 able to execute and perform a valuable service to their shared
5 service counterparties and the funds to which they provide 6 investment management services. But these litigations have 7 been hanging over this case for most of ten years. And it's 8 remarkable in that, every time we try to settle one, someone 9 else wants to keep them going.

10 Q All right. Let's just talk about some of the factors that 11 the Debtor considered or may have considered in agreeing to 12 the compromise that you've described. Did the Debtor take 13 into account the possibility that if there was no agreement
14 that there would be a separate litigation on the question of 15 setoff and how the compensation would have been -- how the 16 compensation would go back and forth?

17 A Certainly. And we considered -- we considered whether 18 that litigation would happen in the Bankruptcy Court in front
19 of Judge Jernigan or whether we would be sent back to the 20 aforementioned Chancery Court, which as counsel for UBS noted,
21 those arguments have already been briefed. And the risks with 22 respect to both avenues in terms of pursuing a -- either a 23 knockout win or a partial win, the time delay, and then the 24 risk of a knockout loss or a partial loss.

25 And so we thought about that with respect to each of the 002853

64

1 settlement components.

2 Q All right. So, under the agreement, will the Debtor get
3 the value of $21 million with respect to the deferred fees
4 immediately upon the allowance of the claim?

5 A Well, it reduces the claim. So I think that that's a fair
6 -- that's a fair way to look at it. And each of the board
7 members analyzed it with that perspective.

8 Q And did you and the board members try to make any 9 determination as to how long the Debtor would have to wait
10 before it had the opportunity to request or demand the 11 deferred fee?

12 A We did. It's hard to estimate. So I think that it's, in 13 a vacuum, the Crusader Fund should be able to liquidate pretty 14 quickly. The problem is that the Crusader Fund's liquidation
15 are tied to Highland's liquidation or monetization. And the 16 timing on that, depending on the parties, can be uncertain.
17 We would hope to be able to monetize the assets quickly, but 18 we also are contemplating a litigation trustee. And as we've 19 seen, that -- that litigation can take some time with these 20 parties.

21 In addition, while we -- we had a grand bargain
22 opportunity, we continue to negotiate with Mr. Dondero, who's 23 made a material effort with his counsel on an ongoing but 24 certainly a recent movement. And that could expedite it.
25 It's very uncertain as to how long -- how long a complete

002854

65

1 liquidation would take. If we -- if we were able to reach an
2 agreement with Mr. Dondero, we hopefully can, at least with 3 respect to part of the case, resolve it quickly. And I think
4 that that would be more of a pot plan type approach.

5 The problem with a pot plan is that we still have a number
6 of unresolved litigation claims that will take time to 7 resolve.

8 Q All right. So let's just focus on what would happen if we 9 didn't have the agreement. And just assume for the sake of 10 argument that at some point in the future, however many years
11 that may be, the Crusader Fund has completed its liquidation.
12 Do you have any reason to believe that at that time the 13 Crusader Fund would roll over and no longer assert the 14 Faithless Servant defense in the face of a demand for the 15 deferred fee?

16 A Well, I guess you'd have to look at it two ways. If -- if 17 the fees do not reduce the Crusader claim, Redeemer's claim,
18 then there would be nothing to roll over on. Because what's 19 really important that everybody has to understand is Highland 20 got the fees. It took them. It took the cash. And so the 21 only -- the only way that you have a deferral of recovery of 22 that fees, those fees, is if you pay back hundred-cent dollars
23 to Redeemer and Crusader, which would include the $32 million
24 plus the interest.

25 Q Okay. Are there any other reasons that you can think of 002855

Seery - Direct

66

1 at this time that the board and you as CEO took into account
2 in deciding on the compromise of the deferred fee issue?

3 A Of the fee component? Well, I think -- I think that --
4 that really summarized it. It's not that complex. The only
5 -- the complexity is really if you consider not settling, what 6 are your avenues to, if you will, be able to keep the full
7 amount of the fees and interest.

8 Q So, would it be fair to describe it as taking a certain
9 two-thirds of the fee today rather than a speculative chance
10 of getting a full fee at some undetermined time in the future,
11 after spending money to litigate the Faithless Servant
12 defense?

13 A I think that that -- that's very -- to be honest, it may 14 cabin it too much. We looked at this as a total settlement.
15 And so it's not just one piece. And in an effort to move this 16 case forward, we looked for the reasonableness of each 17 transaction as a whole, and I think that's a more full way to 18 look at it. We could litigate with Redeemer and Crusader for 19 another two years, maybe. I'm sure that there's ways to keep 20 it going and diminish all the assets of the estate in 21 litigation costs. But we thought that this was a fair and 22 equitable settlement as a whole, and this component we thought
23 was pretty straightforward. Getting the full amount of fees,
24 which we would have liked, we thought was not something that 25 we had much success -- much chance of a success if we 002856

67

1 litigated this.

2 Q Okay. Let's shift to Cornerstone. Can you just describe
3 for the Court what Cornerstone is and who the stakeholders
4 are. I think you -- I think you may have (garbled), but just 5 for context.

6 A Cornerstone is a portfolio company. It's Cornerstone
7 Healthcare Group. It's a portfolio company of Highland, in 8 that Highland owns about three percent of the equity.
9 Restoration Capital Partners, which is a liquidating fund, and 10 Highland, as the advisor to that fund, owns about 55 percent,
11 and Crusader owns about 52 [sic] percent. Cornerstone
12 operates in the LTAC space, which is Long Term Acute Care,
13 Senior, and Behavior Health. Senior living. And it has a 14 home hospice, a smaller home hospice and home -- home business
15 that also helps with rehab, and which -- and some of those are 16 newer acquisitions.

17 It's a -- it's a company that I believe Highland first got 18 involved with in 2007, I believe. And so it's been another
19 asset that's a long-term holding. We have a solid management
20 team. We like the -- we like the team a lot. We think that 21 they've performed and done a great job in incredibly difficult
22 circumstances, you know, through the first half of this year.
23 Against -- against that, some of the related entities, the 24 CLOs, have a loan, a term loan, and there's also other
25 mortgage debt and equipment financing at Cornerstone.

002857

Seery - Direct

68

1 Q And do you understand that the Crusader Fund's interest in
2 Cornerstone is a subject of the arbitration award?

3 A Yes.

4 Q And can you describe for the Court your understanding of 5 what the panel found and determined with respect to that 6 asset?

7 A The panel found that basically Highland has an obligation
8 to purchase Cornerstone back from -- those Cornerstone shares
9 back from Crusader. And it assigned a value of $48 million to 10 those shares, which was considerably in excess of fair market
11 value at the time of the award, we believed, as well as at all 12 times since then.

13 Q And you reached an agreement with the Redeemer Committee
14 on the treatment of the Crusader Fund's interest in 15 Cornerstone; is that right?

16 A Yes.

17 Q Can you describe the treatment of that interest for the 18 Court?

19 A What we agreed with Crusader is that we wouldn't buy back
20 the shares, because we don't have the capital to do that, that 21 we would reduce their total claim by about $30 million.

22 Q Okay. Before we get to that specific point, are there
23 other aspects of the settlement agreement that concern the 24 Cornerstone asset?

25 A Well, we -- the other piece of Cornerstone is really a 002858

Seery - Direct

69

1 Crusader issue. As I laid out the share holdings, the
2 combined Highland interest, if you will, is about 58 percent.
3 Crusader's is 42 percent. This is a private company. It does
4 not trade. It -- it is -- it was controlled by the majority
5 shareholders. And Crusader was interested in trying to find
6 some liquidity in either their shares --

7 (Audio cuts out.)

8 THE COURT: Uh-huh. Mr. Seery?

9 THE WITNESS: And so we --

10 THE COURT: Mr. Seery, we lost you for about 20
11 seconds there. You were speaking but we couldn't hear you.
12 So repeat the last 20 seconds, please.

13 THE WITNESS: I'm sorry. I'm sorry, Your Honor.
14 That cut out. Highland owns or controls 58 percent, with RCP
15 as the main holder in Highland holding about three percent.
16 Highland's the manager for RCP. Crusader is a minority
17 holder. It has 42 percent. It really has no say or control
18 over the company and what it does.

19 Crusader was looking to create the opportunity to either
20 get real liquidity in for this interest, not just us reducing 21 our claim, or -- or at least the appearance of that, frankly.
22 And so what we have agreed is that, since RCP is actually a 23 liquidating fund and we want to monetize the asset, that we 24 will work with Crusader to try to monetize Cornerstone in 25 2021.

002859

70

1 Now, it -- there's -- the way the agreement works is that
2 we'll work in good faith to try to do that. If we're not able
3 to do that, there's really no -- there's no breach. There's 4 no -- there's no damages. There's no -- no penalty. And the 5 reason for that is that monetizing this asset may take work.
6 The management team, as I mentioned, is excellent. They're 7 doing a great job. And we're working with the management team
8 to assure their long-term commitment to the business and the 9 line of interests.

10 But there may be different ways to monetize this asset.
11 It may be that we sell parts of it. May be that we invest in 12 parts of it. It may be that we sell the whole company. It
13 may be that we would go to meet a banker with the management
14 team, that the banker says don't do it now, you should do x, 15 y, and z in order to enhance the value. While RCP is 16 liquidating, we are looking to procure value for their stake
17 in -- in Cornerstone. And we'll take all of those issues into 18 account. And even if Redeemer wants -- or Crusader wants to 19 sell but RCP doesn't and management doesn't, it's unlikely
20 that this asset will trade.

21 That said, as I mentioned, we are looking to see if we can 22 monetize it, and we are looking to try to cash out and 23 liquidate Redeemer -- RCP's interests as well.

24 Q As part of the negotiations that -- the board has agreed 25 to certain milestones and a schedule for the sale and 002860

Seery - Direct

71

1 marketing of the asset?

2 A We did. But as I mentioned earlier, I think this had a
3 lot more lead for Crusader than it exactly had for -- for me
4 and for Highland. We've talked to RCP about it and we talked
5 to management at Cornerstone about it.

6 Milestones with respect to a sale process, you know,
7 usually, the only thing you know for certain is that they 8 likely won't be met. And, really, they depend on the market.
9 If you tried to do the same milestones in 2020 as are -- our 10 aspiration to put up for 2021, there's no chance of that. And 11 so we'll have to see what the market looks like, and most 12 importantly, what the management team thinks is in the best 13 interest of the enterprise and what the bankers think is in 14 the best interest of the enterprise and then -- and question
15 -- equally importantly is what RCP wants to do.

16 Q All right. Now let's turn to the $30.5 million value. I
17 think you heard counsel for UBS refer to our pleading as -- I
18 forget what the exact term was, but an indicator or predictor 19 of -- of fair market value. Did you hear her in that 20 commentary?

21 A I heard it, yes.

22 Q Okay. And do you have a view as to whether that was 23 necessarily the best characterization of the -- of the --

24 A Yeah, I -- I think the reports that we get monthly and 25 that all investment firms get monthly are where they're

002861

Seery - Direct

72

1 referred to as fair value valuations. And they help set the 2 NAV.

3 There's a reason they're not called fair market value.
4 There's no market test whatsoever. And so they are -- they 5 are -- they are desktop model-driven valuations. You look for 6 comparables. You look for a DCF. You do a bottoms-up in 7 terms of asset value, depending on the type of asset. And you
8 try to come up with a reasonable way to assess the value of 9 the asset.

10 They are not market tests. So, and I can give you dozens
11 of examples of why they're not, really simple examples of why
12 they're not, as to -- as to fair market.

13 Nevertheless, we use them and rely on them. And investors
14 use them and rely on them. And Houlihan Lokey is probably the 15 preeminent firm doing this in the U.S.

16 Q Do you believe, if 30.5 doesn't represent a fair market
17 value, do you believe that it is nevertheless a fair and 18 reasonable place to come for purposes of the negotiation with 19 the Redeemer Committee?

20 A Certainly. It's typically within our range of 21 reasonableness. We look at, you know, where we have NAVs. We 22 considered the issues with respect to the business. You know,
23 we -- we thought about the total of 48. We considered where 24 third parties, you know, might want to purchase it. But we 25 did not go get a market test.

002862

73

1 I'm quite certain that if UBS wanted to make a bid because 2 they thought it was so low, that if they took the advice of 3 their expert, they would have a willing seller, and -- and 4 Crusader would sell. We would certainly have a willing seller
5 in RCP. We'd -- happy to negotiate in the range that they 6 threw out. It's a giant bank. They should probably buy it if 7 it's that cheap.

8 Q Do you communicate with either officers or directors of 9 Cornerstone on a regular basis?

10 A I wouldn't say on a regular basis. I do -- I do
11 communicate with them. We have a team that serves as the 12 board of directors at Cornerstone, and they -- they deal on a 13 regular daily and weekly basis with the Cornerstone team, and 14 then they feed me the information and we analyze it and we 15 send them back.

16 So I have talked to the team at Cornerstone. I've 17 discussed the business with them and the approach we're taking 18 in the case, because it's obviously important to them. Their 19 -- their stock is -- it's a -- it's a big company. Their 20 stock is owned by a liquidating fund managed by Highland, a 21 liquidating fund suing Highland, and a small amount by 22 Highland. So I've tried to keep them up to speed. As I -- as 23 I said, we like the team. We think they're -- they're good
24 and we want to see them stay.

25 Q And does your work with the team and the communications

002863

Seery - Direct

74

1 that you've just described, do they help to inform you as to
2 the fairness and the reasonableness of the number that you
3 arrived at with the Redeemer Committee?

4 A It certainly -- it certainly factored in. Yeah. We 5 looked at the overall quality of the business, where it was in 6 the -- in cycle, the market that we're in now in terms of 7 where they have to perform, and considered the NAVs that we 8 have as well as the litigation risk with respect to -- with 9 respect to Crusader.

10 Q Do you have a view as to whether Cornerstone has done
11 anything in terms of its business model or business generally
12 that would cause valuation to fluctuate, or is it more
13 attributable to the fluctuations of the marketplace?

14 A Oh, well, I don't think that the value of Cornerstone has 15 moved or should move materially through the year. It probably 16 was depressed from a perception standpoint early, and I think 17 the team has done a good job. They've grown EBITDA from where 18 it was on a trailing basis to, you know, I think quite well.
19 And so the business is in a good, steady place.

20 The LTAC business is performing very well and I think is 21 -- is -- has proven itself to be a valuable asset in the -- in 22 the COVID. The senior living business is more challenged.
23 That business relies on a lot of capital, which we are 24 capital-constrained compared to some of the competitors. And 25 if we look at the public comps for those, those businesses, I

002864

Seery - Direct

75

1 think it's fair to say that some of the larger ones are
2 challenged. And I think the company has done a nice job.

3 But if -- I guess the question is, has -- do I think it's 4 materially different than it was early in the year? Depending 5 on perceptions, just like the market, you know, there's highs
6 and lows, but the company is doing a nice job. I think
7 they're planning on a steady pace.

8 Q Did -- you testified to it just a moment ago, but let's
9 talk about the Houlihan Lokey reports. Without going into any 10 substance, can you tell me how many assets or portfolio
11 companies does the Debtor commission Houlihan Lokey to produce
12 valuation reports similar to the one that's been described 13 there?

14 A Yeah. I don't have the exact number, because the Debtor
15 doesn't just do it for its portfolio companies. We have to 16 perform shared services for a myriad of funds, including 17 public funds, and Houlihan provides the -- the NAVs with 18 respect to their Level 2 and 3 assets as well.

19 Q And does the Debtor rely on those reports in the ordinary 20 course of its business?

21 A It does, yes.

22 Q Can you describe for the Court how the Debtor relies on 23 the Houlihan Lokey reports?

24 A In front of -- you know, Level -- Level 1 are assets that 25 have a market that you can look to directly to figure out the 002865

76

1 value of your asset. Think about Apple stock.

2 Level 2 assets are there is a market, but it may be more
3 -- more of a trade-by-appointment market. Think about not the 4 bigger high-yields, but high-yield loans, distressed or 5 stressed names where there's not a ton of market activity.

6 And Level 3 assets are ones where there's not real good
7 discernible market inputs and you try to value those on a
8 market -- on a model basis.

9 So, we use Houlihan reports in order to set the exit value
10 of various funds. We use it to report to the creditors in our 11 case. We use it for, as I said, like RCP, which is a fund
12 that gets -- strikes a NAV every month. And we use it with 13 respect to the CLO assets that we manage.

14 Q And to the best of your recollection, was the $30.5
15 million number that has been agreed upon, was that within the 16 range of any of the Houlihan Lokey reports that you reviewed
17 as you were considering whether or not to enter into the 18 agreement?

19 A The number we agreed, the 30.5, was in the range, and it
20 was in the range when we -- when we struck this deal, which I 21 think was April-May. So I think it would fit in the range in 22 the May Houlihan valuation. I don't know about each month.
23 As I said, there are -- because it's a desktop and model-
24 driven valuation, there are anomalies that show up. And we 25 try to review those with Houlihan to try to make it as 002866

77

1 accurate -- use as accurate information as they can. But
2 that, you know, their numbers in their model over model, we
3 like to use it consistently. And you'll see that with respect
4 to any kind of assets that get this type of valuation before
5 the -- as opposed to a market valuation.

6 Q Okay. Before we leave the topic, let me just ask you: Is 7 there anything else that you recall taking into account when 8 -- when you and the board decided to accept the $30.5 million
9 number?

10 A Well, we -- we didn't just -- we didn't just accept it.
11 As I say, we negotiated starting at 48, which we didn't think 12 there was a chance that we could sell it for that value. And 13 we negotiated with the Crusader and Redeemer interests to try
14 to come up with a settled amount.

15 So the same issues with respect to the deferred fees
16 factored in here. Again, it's a package deal, so we looked at 17 the litigation, the timing, the risk of not being able to get
18 a deal done and the damages that we would have, the potential
19 impact on RCP and Highland's interest in Cornerstone, the 20 impact on the management team at Cornerstone, the litigation
21 about the -- of who owns the equity interests. And so all of 22 those factors in trying to get to a deal weigh in as we 23 analyzed whether to do this transaction.

24 Q All right. I want to shift gears to one argument that has 25 been made by --

002867

78

1 THE COURT: Mr. Morris? I'm just letting you know,
2 you've gone 35 minutes. And I said I wouldn't, like, get the
3 shepherd hooks out after 30 minutes, but let's try to wrap it
4 up so we finish today. Okay?

5 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. No problem, Your Honor. I really
6 appreciate it. In fact, I'm going to wait and let UBS
7 question Mr. Seery on its theory concerning going back to 8 Chancery Court and I'll just skip that, because it's not --
9 it's not -- not my -- it's not our issue anyway.

10 BY MR. MORRIS:

11 Q Mr. Seery, let me just finish up, then, and see if we can 12 identify the various litigations that are being resolved if 13 this settlement approved. Would the settlement resolve the 14 Delaware Chancery Court litigation, to the best of your 15 knowledge?

16 A Yes, it would.

17 Q Are you aware that there's litigation pending between the 18 Redeemer Committee and the Debtor in the Cayman Islands?

19 A I -- I've heard of it. To be frank, we haven't looked at 20 it. It was part of the original discussions around all of the 21 open issues, but we expect that will be resolved as well.

22 Q And are you aware that there are two pending litigations
23 in Bermuda between the Redeemer Committee and the Debtor?

24 A Same -- same answer. We looked at those. We understood
25 what they -- you know, in terms of a board perspective.

002868

Seery - Direct

79

1 Counsel spent time on them. From a board perspective, it was 2 more of a sideshow. Those will be resolved. We thought the 3 main event was the arbitration award and the issues in 4 Delaware.

5 Q Okay. And did the -- did the elimination of the -- of all
6 of those litigations, the fees that might be incurred with 7 respect to them, the litigation risk, was that also a factor
8 in the board's determination to accept this settlement?

9 A Yeah, it always is. And again, not just the fees with 10 respect to this particular litigation but the overall case.
11 So it factors into analyzing whether this is a good, fair deal
12 for the entire estate and whether each component works to 13 support that overall thesis.

14 Q Okay. Last question. Can you explain to the Court why 15 the Debtor believes that this settlement is in the best
16 interest of the Debtor's estate?

17 A Hopefully, I've encapsulated that in the prior testimony,
18 but I think that, with respect to settling this claim, this 19 one was more straightforward than many of them,
20 notwithstanding the complexity of the arbitration award,
21 because there was an arbitration award. And it had been 22 litigated in front of the arbitration panel, which was an 23 esteemed panel, for a couple years, with tons of testimony,
24 tons of documents, and a partial finding and then a final
25 award that really hit on all the various issues with respect

002869

80

1 to disputes among the parties.

2 And if we don't settle it at all, I think we're going to 3 be back in for potentially a lengthy litigation, depending on 4 what happens in the Chancery Court. If we lose in the 5 Chancery Court, it's a significant impact to the estate. So
6 we viewed this as reasonable. We continually updated it and 7 -- our analysis, and, you know, feel confident that this is in 8 the best interest of the estate, the Highland interests, the 9 creditors, the investors.

10 MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: All right. Pass the witness.

12 Ms. Mascherin, when I was doing my time calculations
13 earlier, I didn't take you into account. Do you have any 14 examination that's not duplicative of Mr. Morris?

15 MS. MASCHERIN: I'll make this easy, Your Honor. No.

16 THE COURT: Thank you. Ms. Tomkowiak, it is your 17 turn to examine Mr. Seery. Go ahead.

18 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor?

19 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Thank you, Your Honor. My colleague,
20 Andy Clubok, will be cross-examining. Appreciate it.

21 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Clubok, go ahead.

22 MR. CLUBOK: Yes, Your Honor. Ms. Tomkowiak is going
23 to let me do this part of the proceeding.

25 BY MR. CLUBOK:

002870

81

1 Q Mr. Seery, you just testified that the $30.5 million
2 assigned credit for Cornerstone was within the range of the 3 Houlihan Lokey reports that you get on a monthly basis.

4 Correct?

5 A Yes.

6 Q Okay. And, in fact, the -- have you reviewed the latest
7 Houlihan Lokey reports?

8 A I have.

9 Q Okay. And isn't it the case that -- or, what's the date
10 of that report, by the way?

11 A There's a draft in for September and there was one for 12 August.

13 Q So, that draft report for September has not been provided
14 to us, and certainly not been submitted to the Court.

15 Let me ask you, then, about the August valuation. It's 16 fair to say that $30.5 -- well, what Houlihan does is that 17 they give you a low and a high, and that's the so-called range
18 in the value of Cornerstone, in their valuation reports.

19 Correct?

20 A They do.

21 Q And typically what Highland does is it assumes the 22 midpoint is the best number to use for that -- for what it
23 uses those reports for. Correct?

24 A Yes. Yeah.

25 Q Okay. And in the August 2020 Houlihan report, there is a 002871

82

1 low to high range, and in fact, 30.5 falls below the lowest
2 point in that range. Isn't that true?

3 A I don't recall the specifics of the report.

4 Q Well, you said that 30.5 falls within the range, and my 5 question to you, sir, is would you agree that, at least in the 6 August report, which is the latest that has been provided to 7 us, just, actually, about 24 hours ago, that 30.5 is below the 8 lowest point of the range and not within the range? Would you
9 agree with that?

10 A I don't know the answer off the top of my head. If I had 11 the report, I could look at it.

12 Q Yes, please. If you could look at the report and confirm 13 that.

14 A I don't have it.

15 Q Oh, I'm sorry. You said you don't have it? I see.

16 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, I'm mindful of your order
17 and I don't want to run afoul of it, but Mr. Seery testified 18 under oath that he believes that 30.5 is in the range of the 19 Houlihan report, which I will proffer to you that it is not.
20 It is below the range. I would like to present the report to 21 show at least Mr. Seery that contention. I'm not using it for 22 hearsay to prove the truth. Frankly, I think the Houlihan
23 reports (echo) themselves what a reasonable expert will say.
24 But they certainly are in a range that is above the 30.5.

25 THE COURT: All right.

002872

83

1 MR. CLUBOK: So I'd like to --

2 THE COURT: Let me start with your premise that he 3 testified inconsistently. My notes are that he said at the 4 time they struck the deal in April or May that this value was 5 within the range of the Houlihan modeling. Okay? So is 6 someone able to correct me one way or another? That -- I may 7 have written it down wrong, but that's what I thought I heard
8 and wrote down. Mr. --

9 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

10 THE COURT: Go ahead.

11 MR. MORRIS: Very briefly.

12 THE COURT: Go ahead.

13 MR. CLUBOK: If I may, I believe that is -- Your 14 Honor, I do believe that's what he said on the direct, but I
15 think under cross I asked him if it was in the range of the 16 most -- for the most recent report, and he said it was.
17 That's what I thought he just testified to in response to my 18 question. And if -- if that's the -- if -- Your Honor, if 19 there was a court reporter -- I don't have a real-time
20 transcript, so maybe I misheard it. But --

21 THE COURT: Well, Mr. Seery, why don't you just say
22 again what the answer to that question is, if we're confused
23 what you said. Go ahead.

24 THE WITNESS: Yeah. I think Your Honor had it
25 correctly. When we struck the deal, this was within the 002873

1 range, because I checked.

2 The ranges do move, and they have moved considerably,
3 which is one of the interesting things about these kinds of 4 valuations. Because it's model-input, it does move around
5 even though there's not a market to say that someone would pay
6 more or less for their stock. So, there would be times during 7 2020 that that number would be outside of the range. And even 8 in the -- in the May time frame, the April-May, I don't 9 remember exact numbers off the top of my head, it would be in 10 the -- in the lower end of the range.

11 THE COURT: Okay. Proceed.

12 MR. CLUBOK: Okay. I'll proceed with that, Your 13 Honor.

14 THE COURT: Okay.

15 BY MR. CLUBOK:

16 Q So we're clear, Mr. Seery, as we sit here today, the last 17 completed valuation, the most recent completed final
18 valuation, which was during August, for Houlihan Lokey has a 19 current range such that the lowest point of that range is 20 above the $30.5 million number, correct?

21 A I don't recall off the top of my head. You've represented
22 it. I wouldn't quibble with it.

23 Q And, in fact, the midpoint of the most current Houlihan
24 Lokey valuation is significantly higher than $30.5 million;
25 isn't that true?

85

1 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

2 THE COURT: Sustained.

3 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, I -- this is where I would
4 like the read the exact numbers. I have the exact numbers
5 right here. I'm looking at them.

6 THE COURT: We --

7 MR. CLUBOK: And I -- I'm going -- I can impeach him.

8 THE COURT: We've already addressed this issue that 9 we would need a Houlihan witness if you're going to give 10 details about a Houlihan report. And he testified he didn't 11 know. He wouldn't quibble with you. So I think that was sort
12 of a lack of foundation objection Mr. Morris waged, and I'm 13 sustaining it. Okay.

14 MR. CLUBOK: Okay.

15 BY MR. CLUBOK:

16 Q Did you, before submitting the settlement to the Court,
17 check the range of the most current available Houlihan Lokey
18 report before the settlement was submitted to the Court?

19 A I -- I think I may have. I don't -- I don't recall 20 specifically.

21 Q Okay. If we compare to the motion that you submitted, and 22 I think you explained that before the motion was filed you
23 read it carefully and discussed it with your lawyers and had 24 opportunity to ask questions with the other directors about 25 the entirety of the motion. Is that correct?

002875

1 A I think -- I think we -- we fought about the word
2 carefully. I try to read everything carefully, but I assumed
3 you were trying to pin me down to some -- some super-fine
4 reading. I did read the motion. I did comment on the motion.
5 Yes.

6 Q Okay. Now, if we can put the motion up, please. This is 7 Debtor's motion. It's Docket No. 1099, I believe. Yes. You
8 were asked by Mr. Morris about the language that was 9 supposedly used in the motion that my colleague, Ms.
10 Tomkowiak, referenced in her opening. I just want to turn to 11 that exact language that was used in your motion. It's on 12 Page 10, Paragraph 31. And what it said in your motion is 13 that the damage award will be reduced by approximately $30.5
14 million to account for the perceived fair market value of 15 those shares.

16 Well, the first question I have is, before this was 17 submitted -- well, strike that. Fair to say you have not 18 performed what you would consider to be a fair market
19 valuation of the shares, or caused that to be performed before
20 filing this motion, correct?

21 A Yes.

22 Q Okay. But you did have documents from Houlihan Lokey that 23 reports a -- what they called a fair valuation, and that gives 24 a range of what Houlihan Lokey calls a fair valuation, and you
25 have them -- have available to you every month for the

1 Cornerstone shares, correct?

2 A Yes.

3 Q And do you know whether or not the fair valuation of the 4 most current Houlihan Lokey report that you had in your
5 possession prior to causing this to be submitted to the Court
6 put that fair valuation at, say, at least 50 percent higher
7 than 30.5?

8 A I don't know and I -- off the top of my head, I don't have 9 in front of me. I said I wouldn't quibble with you, but I
10 don't want to accede to your math.

11 Q You wouldn't -- but you wouldn't quibble, based on your --
12 you know enough to know about Cornerstone today that you
13 wouldn't quibble with that rough math? Correct?

14 A Without -- without -- I believe that the valuation in the 15 more current Houlihan values is higher than it was in May. I 16 don't know if it's higher than it was at the beginning of the 17 year off the top of my head. And I don't know whether 50
18 percent is the right number or 40 percent or 52 percent. I
19 take you at your word that it's higher and that this number
20 doesn't fall within the range.

21 Q Okay. Now let's go back, because you said, well, it did 22 fall within the range at one point. I guess you said back in 23 May it fell within the range. Is that correct?

24 A I believe that's correct, yes.

25 Q Okay. So there was a Houlihan Lokey report that was

Seery - Cross

88

1 available to you in May of 2020 that had a range where $30.5
2 million fell within, correct?

3 A There's a report every month. I'm not sure exactly which 4 report we looked at.

5 Q Well, the point on the -- I believe you did testify, this
6 is what the Judge heard, too, that there is a report that you
7 looked at around April or May that had a range from Houlihan
8 Lokey, and 30.5 fell within that range, and that's what you
9 used to in your mind justify the reasonableness of the $30.5
10 million at that time. Is that correct?

11 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

12 THE COURT: Overruled.

13 MR. MORRIS: Mischaracterizes.

14 THE COURT: Overruled. He can answer.

15 THE WITNESS: The answer is to, with respect to that 16 piece of the discussion, which went along with Mr. Morris's
17 analysis, yes. And it did fall the within the range.

18 BY MR. CLUBOK:

19 Q Right. And, in fact, --

20 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, I would like to proffer that 21 the Houlihan Lokey report that was dated -- that was available
22 in April and May had a range that was, in fact, higher at the 23 low point than 30.5. And if we could use that document to 24 impeach Mr. Seery, or we could demonstrate, proffer evidence
25 that's not for hearsay but they're offering it for the truth

002878

1 of the matter asserted. We think that (inaudible) and
2 certainly shows -- it impeaches Mr. Seery telling you
3 repeatedly that 30.5 at least fell within that range.

4 THE COURT: Well, I --

5 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, may I be heard?

6 THE COURT: I overrule -- I heard him say that at 7 various points during 2020 the modeling of Houlihan would go
8 to different points. I'm not sure what you think you're 9 impeaching. What --

10 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, may I --

11 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Morris, go ahead.

12 MR. CLUBOK: Well, Your Honor, I mean, --

13 THE COURT: Mr. Morris, go ahead.

14 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I would also point out, Your 15 Honor, consistent with exactly what you just said, that UBS's
16 witness, expert witness, which is one of the reasons why I
17 think he ought to be excluded, expressly says in his report
18 that the value came within the range of the Houlihan Lokey
19 valuation. I think it was from March. But he makes the 20 admission expressly. Expressly. It's --

21 MR. CLUBOK: That is not true. There is a Houlihan
22 Lokey report that I'm looking at right now that was for March
23 of 20 -- I know Mr. Seery just said off the top of his head
24 that the values fluctuate. There is -- I will represent there
25 is no Houlihan Lokey report since March, which was the lowest

002879

90

1 point of COVID, through today, that ever had a range that was
2 provided to Highland where 30.5 falls within, as opposed to 3 below the range. So we have the reports. We have every 4 report they produced to us. We asked for all of them. We've 5 got them. We could offer them to the Court and you would see 6 that Mr. Seery's statement off the top of his head that it is 7 in the middle or that it varies or have been telling you that 8 it fluctuates and the ranges go up and down is just not true,
9 --

10 THE COURT: All right.

11 MR. CLUBOK: -- based on the actual Houlihan reports
12 that we have that they just provided to us a few days ago.

13 THE COURT: Okay. Let me take this in parts. I've 14 already ruled that the Houlihan reports will not get in, the 15 main reason out of two or three reasons being that it's 16 hearsay without a Houlihan person here. Okay? And someone 17 could have subpoenaed a Houlihan person and maybe I would have 18 been enforced that subpoena. All right?

19 But second, I just want to be clear what I'm hearing.
20 What I heard -- again, I've taken notes occasionally. The 21 testimony that I guess you're wanting to use the Houlihan
22 reports to impeach is that Mr. -- I heard Mr. Seery say that 23 when the deal was struck, the proposed compromise with the 24 Redeemer Committee was struck in April or May, that he thought
25 this $30.5 million value was in the range of the modeling --

002880

91

1 the models or the valuations that Houlihan had done. And I
2 have inferred from other comments and testimony that it was a
3 March -- it was March Houlihan modeling that he was looking at 4 at that point.

5 As for anything else, I'm not sure he used the word -- the 6 words ups and downs. I think he used the words that if you
7 would check at various points in time during 2020, Houlihan's
8 modeling showed different numbers for valuation, but he relied 9 on the information in the April-May time frame when the deal
10 was struck.

11 All right. So, based on what I've heard, I don't think
12 there is some independent grounds to try to get the Houlihan
13 reports in now as impeachment.

14 All right. So that's the ruling. Continue.

15 MR. CLUBOK: Okay.

16 BY MR. CLUBOK:

17 Q Today's fair market value of Cornerstone, in your best
18 judgment, with all the information you have available to you,
19 for 42 percent, is significantly above $30.5 million, correct?

20 A Fair market value? I don't have that information. I
21 don't -- I don't think that today, if you wanted to transact
22 those shares, in my opinion, other than an insider, that you
23 could sell those shares today for $30.5 million.

24 Q If the shares were being marketed and sold together, as 25 the settlement requires the Debtor to do in good faith over

002881

1 the next year, the fair value estimates currently today
2 available to the Debtor show that it's worth significantly
3 more than $30.5 million; isn't that true?

4 A The Houlihan share value marks show a higher value, yes.
5 They're not fair market. Let's make sure we are precise.

6 Q Understood. Houlihan uses the phrase "fair value" in its 7 reports. And the current marks that you pay Houlihan to 8 provide to Highland shows today, October 20th, 2020, that the 9 value of 42 percent of Cornerstone is significantly higher
10 than $30.5 million, correct? The fair value? Whether or not 11 --

12 A I believe it's -- I believe it's higher. And the last one 13 we have is 8/31. I just don't remember the amount that it is.

14 Q Okay. You did not offer that information into evidence in 15 support of your motion? You chose not to do that, correct?

16 A I -- I chose -- I think -- I don't know what counsel put 17 in other than -- than me.

18 Q Well, you are aware, actually, that the only evidence that 19 counsel put in the record to support this motion is the motion
20 itself and your testimony?

21 MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. He -- he's here
22 testifying. And --

23 (Audio interruption.)

24 MR. MORRIS: We'll -- we'll be putting our exhibits
25 in as well. But to continually refer to the motion itself as

1 the only evidence is just not right.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Overruled.

3 MR. CLUBOK: I'll move on, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: Okay.

5 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

6 BY MR. CLUBOK:

7 Q You said in your direct that Houlihan -- you called them
8 the premier -- you used some superlative. Said they're the 9 premier valuation experts or something for -- for modeling or 10 -- some superlative about Houlihan. Do you recall that?

11 A Yes, I do. In terms of providing third-party valuations
12 to investment funds and others, I think they are the premier 13 firm.

14 Q Okay. Who -- you don't know who at Houlihan actually 15 works on the valuations for Cornerstone, correct?

16 A I don't, no.

17 Q You have no idea what the credentials are of anybody at 18 Houlihan who have done any work to help prepare those 19 valuations that you've got other than from them, correct?

20 A That's not true.

21 Q You're -- do you know the names of any of these -- their 22 people?

23 A No.

24 Q Okay. You've never spoken to any of them, correct?

25 A In regard to this assignment? No.

Seery - Cross

94

1 Q Yeah. You've never asked for anyone at Houlihan who works
2 on valuing Cornerstone to be available to you as part of due
3 diligence in preparing for this settlement review, though.

4 Correct?

5 A I -- I have not, no.

6 Q You yourself have never done a valuation of a health
7 company, healthcare company on your own, correct?

8 A On my own? No.

9 Q You have -- you've never heard -- I asked you on Saturday,
10 but before Saturday, at least, you'd never heard of something
11 called the Gordon Growth Model for estimating terminal value
12 with respect to healthcare funds. That is correct?

13 A I had not heard of it before Saturday, no.

14 Q You have no idea whether or not the choice of using a low
15 exit multiple as compared to using a Gordon Growth method
16 would affect a proper DCF analysis for analyzing a healthcare
17 company like Cornerstone, correct?

18 A No. That's not true.

19 Q Well, you don't know that the Gordon Growth method -- you
20 don't know how the Gordon Growth method factors into any 21 analysis of DCF, correct?

22 A That's not true.

23 MR. CLUBOK: Could we put up Mr. Seery's deposition?

24 BY MR. CLUBOK:

25 Q Well, you certainly don't know how the Gordon Growth

002884

1 method factors into Houlihan's analysis of Cornerstone,
2 correct?

3 A I don't think they use it. They show on their valuations
4 a terminal multiple. And they do a DCF and do a terminal
5 multiple, which is the way virtually everybody does it in 6 these kinds of assets, because Gordon Growth focuses on 7 continued growth businesses that continually grow their 8 dividends.

9 Q Well, now, that -- that statement you gave about Gordon
10 Growth method, that's something you just learned between 11 Saturday and today, correct?

12 A That is correct.

13 Q Okay. Who told you that?

14 A I both looked it up and talked to professionals.

15 Q Who, exactly?

16 A I'd rather not say the names of my friends who provide me
17 help on these things.

18 Q Well, with all due respect, Mr. Seery, if it relates to 19 the basis for a statement you make, I'd just like the source 20 of that statement.

21 MS. LAMBERT: Your Honor, I object on the ground of 22 relevance. I've -- I've held my tongue for overall, but I
23 don't think this is really germane to the issues.

24 THE COURT: Sustained.

25 MR. MORRIS: I join in the objection.

1 THE COURT: I sustain.

2 BY MR. CLUBOK:

3 Q You expect, Mr. Seery -- well, per the settlement,
4 proposed settlement, Crusader would have (garbled) that a
5 claim valued -- a stipulated claim of about $137 million.
6 Correct?

7 A That's correct.

8 Q And also Redeemer would be allowed to keep their 42
9 percent interest in Cornerstone that the arbitration award had 10 otherwise said needed to be tendered to Highland, correct?

11 A That's correct.

12 Q You, based on your current analysis, expect that the --
13 Redeemer would be fully paid in the full amount of that 14 allowed claim of roughly $137 million, according to current 15 thinking of the Debtors and creditors in the estate. Is that
16 correct?

17 A I can only speak to my thinking, and that we put forth
18 relatively conservative numbers in our projections, that 19 assuming that the denominator ends up where I believe it
20 should end up, which is the number of claims in the case,
21 which assumes UBS has a zero claim, and that Mr. Daugherty's
22 claim is capped at the amount that we've -- we've agreed to in 23 our papers, which I believe is around $3.7 million, and that 24 HarbourVest has a zero claim, and then there are some 25 assumptions around operating costs, I believe that we will be

1 able to pay these claims in full.

2 Q Well, but you've made it clear to Redeemer that your
3 current expectation is to be able to pay that $137 million
4 allowed claim in full, if everything goes the way you just 5 described you think it should go or you believe it will go?

6 A I've never had that discussion with Redeemer.

7 Q You have advised Redeemer in words or substance that you
8 expect there to be full payment of a $137 million allowed
9 claim under the settlement? Is that true?

10 A I don't believe I have.

11 Q You don't believe you've ever (inaudible) that, in words
12 or substance, with either Redeemer or any of its counsel?

13 A I don't believe I have, no.

14 Q Okay.

15 MR. CLUBOK: Just one moment, Your Honor, while I
16 (inaudible).

17 (Pause.)

18 BY MR. CLUBOK:

19 Q Mr. Morris asked you, asked you whether you roll over.
20 You said no. Then he asked you whether you thought that 21 Redeemer would roll over on one of their claims completely,
22 and you said no.

23 With respect to one point in the settlement, the EERS
24 (phonetic) interest, those (inaudible) that Highland currently 25 holds, if there was a settlement it would it extinguish

1 roughly five to six million dollars of your current
2 valuations. Is that right?

3 A I think that's about right.

4 Q And those -- that five to six million in value is one of 5 the issues that would be subject to a ruling on the vacatur
6 motion that we talked about, the idea that -- that additional 7 substantive elements were added to the arbitration award after 8 the first part of the award. Is that correct?

9 A I believe that's one of the issues that -- that I am 10 briefed.

11 Q Yeah. And on that issue, under this settlement, you're 12 giving a hundred percent credit to Crusader's or Redeemer's
13 claims with respect to that particular element. Correct?

14 A That's correct.

15 Q And, in fact, you're giving a hundred percent credit to 16 all of Redeemer's claims with respect to the amounts that were 17 disputed under the argument that claims added after the first 18 final arbitration award are impermissible, correct?

19 A I'm -- I just -- I'm not -- I'm not sure what you're 20 asking me there. I'm sorry.

21 Q Well, for example, that Barclay's claim is another claim
22 that's worth about $30 million in total. And that's -- that's 23 about $21 million awarded, about $9 million pre-judgment
24 interest. That $30 million, like the EERS, is subject to this 25 argument that it shouldn't be properly -- it was impermissibly

99

1 awarded by the arbitration panel because it came after the
2 first final award. Correct?

3 A I think that there's an argument to that effect, correct.

4 Q Yeah. And under the proposed settlement, you're giving it
5 a hundred percent -- you're giving a zero percent settlement
6 discount, or a very -- a zero percent settlement discount for 7 Highland, correct?

8 A That's correct.

9 Q Thank you.

10 MR. CLUBOK: I have nothing further.

11 THE COURT: All right. Redirect?

12 MR. MORRIS: Just a few questions, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 REDIRECT EXAMINATION

15 BY MR. MORRIS:

16 Q Mr. Seery, if the Debtor walks away from this agreement, 17 has the Debtor done any analysis and taken advice on the 18 likelihood of succeeding in Chancery Court?

19 A The Debtor has, yes.

20 Q And can you share with the Court the Debtor's view as to 21 the likelihood of success in the Chancery Court?

22 MR. CLUBOK: Objection. Objection, Your Honor.

23 Just, number one, I don't think that's -- to the extent that
24 that's going to rely on advice of counsel, I just (inaudible).
25 We're going to get a -- the percentage that's based on -- 002889

Seery - Redirect

100

1 waiving the privilege. I raised that ahead of time.

2 MR. MORRIS: I appreciate that, counsel. We're
3 certainly not intending to waive the privilege. I'm just 4 asking for a statement as to the Debtor's position as to why
5 it does not believe it is likely to succeed in Chancery Court.
6 I'm not asking him to share any confidential communications,
7 but thank you for the comment.

8 THE COURT: Okay. Please proceed.

9 MR. CLUBOK: Um, --

10 THE COURT: Mr. Seery, you can answer.

11 THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor. When we looked 12 at the Chancery Court, there is a number of the issues the 13 Debtor raised previously in the arbitration. There was a 14 partial award that clearly says it's a partial award. And 15 then the Debtor raised a number of procedural issues that 16 there were additions to the partial award between the partial 17 and the final. And the final goes through those in detail
18 with this panel that, as we said, is -- was esteemed and had 19 lot of work on it.

20 For example, in one section, they gave the whole rationale
21 in the partial and they left out the damage number. So they 22 -- they had ruled basically fully against the Debtor, but 23 without giving a number. And so Highland attempted to argue 24 that to the arbitration panel in between the partial and the 25 final. The arbitration panel said that's a scrivener's error,

002890

1 we're allowed to do this, and they went through the analysis.

2 Our counsel looked at these issues again. And we thought
3 that the likelihood of success at the Chancery Court to re-
4 raise these issues was very low. So we did factor it in and 5 we did analyze it. It wasn't something that we missed. We 6 just didn't think it was a fruitful opportunity to litigate in 7 the Chancery Court.

8 MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: All right. Any recross?

10 MR. CLUBOK: No, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: All right.

12 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, may I just move my exhibits
13 into evidence, and then I'll rest?

14 THE COURT: Okay. You may.

15 MR. MORRIS: Okay. The Debtor would like, then, to 16 move into evidence exhibits that are marked 1 through 4. And 17 to be specific, and we can take them one at a time, Exhibit 1
18 is Proof of Claim #72. That was filed, I believe, on behalf
19 of the Crusader Funds.

20 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, objection on hearsay
21 grounds, Your Honor. It has been offered into evidence.

22 THE COURT: All right.

23 MR. CLUBOK: It's the proof of claim.

24 MR. MORRIS: Object to the compromise. I'm not -- it
25 is the proof -- I'm not offering it for the truth of the 1 matter asserted at all, actually.

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 MR. CLUBOK: That's fine. If it's not being offered
4 for the truth of the matter asserted, but just for those 5 purposes, then we have no objection.

6 THE COURT: Okay. So that --

7 MR. MORRIS: Correct.

8 THE COURT: -- is admitted. And to be clear where 9 this appears in the Court record, Docket Entry #1178, Debtor's
10 witness and exhibit list, I think it was attached to that as 11 Exhibit 1. That's admitted.

12 (Debtor's Exhibit 1 is received into evidence.)

13 MR. MORRIS: Exhibit 2 is Proof of Claim #81, is the 14 proof of claim filed by the Redeemer Committee. The Debtor
15 respectfully moves that exhibit into evidence as well.

16 THE COURT: Okay. Same sort of concept, for notice
17 purposes only, it's admitted.

18 (Debtor's Exhibit 2 is received into evidence.)

19 MR. MORRIS: Okay. And the Debtor also moves into 20 evidence the declaration of John Morris submitted in support
21 of the 9019 motion and the exhibits annexed thereto. To be 22 clear, Exhibit 1 to my declaration is the stipulation of 23 settlement. Exhibits 2, 3, and 4 are the partial final award,
24 the modification award, and the final award. Those three 25 documents have been filed under seal pursuant to a sealing

1 motion which is on our exhibit list as Exhibit #4. And I
2 think there might also be duplicate copies of the proofs of 3 claim attached to my declaration as well. But we'd move all
4 of those documents into evidence, subject to the sealing
5 order.

6 THE COURT: All right. Any objection? All right.

7 MR. CLUBOK: No objection, for the non-hearsay
8 purposes of those.

9 THE COURT: All right. So, Exhibit 3, with all of 10 those subparts, some of which are under seal, are admitted.

11 (Debtor's Exhibit 3, including subparts, is received into 12 evidence.)

13 MR. MORRIS: I do want to clarify, Your Honor, that 14 with respect to the three parts of the award, we're offering 15 them for the truth of the matter asserted insofar as they are 16 the findings of fact and the conclusions of law of the 17 arbitration panel.

18 MR. CLUBOK: No objection.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: Thank you.

22 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, and I do have a -- also 23 similar housekeeping. And I raise this with a trembling voice
24 because I really am -- very respectfully. I'd just like to 25 make a proffer that there are four Houlihan Lokey exhibits

1 that have been recently produced to us in the last few days.

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 MR. CLUBOK: If I can just make my proffer, then I'll 4 stop.

5 THE COURT: Let me -- let me stop -- let me stop you.
6 I'm not sure Mr. Morris was finished yet with the exhibits he 7 was going to offer. Let me clarify.

8 Are you finished, Mr. Morris?

9 MR. CLUBOK: Oh, I apologize.

10 MR. MORRIS: Just -- just to be clear, I think I was,
11 but Exhibit #4, which is the sealing order, we also offer into 12 evidence, just to support the sealing of Exhibits 2, 3, and 4
13 to my declaration.

14 THE COURT: All right. Well, I can certainly take 15 judicial notice of that and we'll go ahead for clarity and 16 admit that as a witness -- as an exhibit.

17 (Debtor's Exhibit 4 is received into evidence.)

18 THE COURT: All right. So, with that, you rest, Mr.
19 Morris?

20 MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: All right. Now, Mr. Clubok, you were 22 saying?

23 MR. CLUBOK: I appreciate it, Your Honor. There are 24 -- we had a document request. We were provided four Bates-
25 labeled productions within the last few days of Houlihan Lokey

1 reports that are dated March 2020, June 2020, July 2020, and 2 August 2020, the only ones that they've been -- have been
3 provided to us during that time period.

4 I understand Your Honor ruled that they are hearsay and 5 can't come in for the truth of the matter, but we believe that 6 they should properly be admitted for the purpose of notice,
7 the fact that that information is available to Mr. Seery, and 8 also, frankly, for impeachment if we are allowed to present
9 that for the Court's view, at least under seal. I believe
10 we've already submitted two of them under seal on Friday
11 night. The other two, we just got like last night or the wee
12 hours of the morning yesterday. And we would like to proffer
13 that there are four Houlihan Lokey exhibits that were made
14 available to us that should be admitted for non-hearsay
15 purposes.

16 THE COURT: All right. Well, I once again will make 17 clear for the record that I am not admitting those. I think 18 they are hearsay. I think you would need the creator or 19 supervisor of the reports here to properly offer them into 20 evidence.

21 I also think that, as I said earlier, I'm not required to 22 conduct a mini-trial and accept every piece of possible
23 evidence of valuation. I am supposed to, you know, consider 24 facts and circumstances that bear on the wisdom of the 25 compromise. And so I've heard valuation testimony from Mr.

1 Seery and what he considered the range of reasonableness.

2 Anyway, I primarily rely on the hearsay problem here in
3 not admitting these four exhibits. So that is the ruling.

4 If you want to put them into the record under seal for 5 purposes of maybe appeal purposes -- he or she made an error,
6 she didn't accept this stuff -- then obviously you can submit 7 them under seal for the court reporter to keep them in the 8 record. So I assume you'll coordinate after the hearing
9 getting those into the court reporter's hands under seal.

10 Okay?

11 MR. CLUBOK: Thank you, Your Honor. Thank you very 12 much. Appreciate it.

13 THE COURT: Okay. So, I guess at this point we've 14 had the Debtor rest and we're going to go to UBS's evidence.
15 I want to make the most efficient use of time possible. And 16 let me clarify. I had told you all I would stop at 12:30
17 Central time. It's 12:19. My quandary is that I have a 1:30
18 status conference in an adversary proceeding in another case,
19 and then I have a 2:30 hearing that should not last very long
20 in yet another case. So I have told you all you can come back
21 at 3:00 o'clock.

22 Is there anything worthwhile you think we can accomplish
23 in ten minutes, or shall we just break? What do you all 24 think?

25 MR. CLUBOK: What I do think, Your Honor, is if we

1 have the ten minutes, maybe we can work to make sure that we
2 have addressed any other confidentiality issues and make sure
3 that Mr. Morris and his law firm are comfortable with what 4 we're going to do with our next witness so we don't have an
5 accidental foot fault. I think that can be useful. We'll 6 spend the time doing that to make sure that --

7 THE COURT: Okay. You mean talk offline?

8 MR. CLUBOK: Yeah. The attorneys will talk amongst 9 themselves and just --

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. CLUBOK: We don't want to accidentally put 12 something up that is going to be objected to. We'd rather 13 show it -- now show it to Mr. Morris in advance and hopefully 14 work it out so that we don't have to accidentally put 15 something in the record they're, you know, going to object to.

16 THE COURT: All right. Well, I am good with that.
17 And so let's talk about a couple of additional things. My 18 courtroom deputy I think has put up the instructions for how 19 to reconnect at 3:00 o'clock, because obviously we're going to 20 have to break this off and I have other video hearings. So,
21 you know, contact my courtroom deputy if you don't see those 22 instructions. The instructions should be on the website, as 23 far as numbers and passwords and whatnot to use for the new 24 setting or the new resumption of this hearing at 3:00 o'clock.

25 The next thing I will say is I think I told you all we

1 could go until 5:00 or 5:30-ish. I do want to again be
2 efficient and break when it makes sense to break. I have
3 availability to come back tomorrow at 9:30 in the morning. So
4 maybe you all could be thinking ahead with regard to the Acis
5 motion. You know, do you want to start late today and do your 6 darnedest to finish, or is that a pipe dream and we'll have to 7 come back tomorrow?

8 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, just speaking for the 9 Debtor, I don't think that we're going to have -- I don't
10 anticipate having any of the same confidentiality issues.

11 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

12 MR. MORRIS: I think that this was handled as 13 efficiently as it could under the circumstances. I have a 14 better sense of how to get this done. I'm hopeful that we 15 won't need but a few more minutes to finish the Redeemer, and 16 I'd like to try to get to as much of the Acis part as we can.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Well, we will shoot to try to get 18 it done today if we can. And if that means we need to go a 19 little later than I've projected, we will, if we can avoid 20 coming back tomorrow.

21 All right. So I shall see you all at 3:00 o'clock Central 22 time. Okay.

23 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, if I -- this is Rakhee Patel.
24 If I could, just quickly on the Acis issue, I am unavailable
25 tomorrow morning, so I just wanted to put everybody -- to put

1 that out there. I haven't discussed that with either Mr.
2 Morris or Mr. Demo. But unfortunately, I've got an unmovable
3 conflict tomorrow morning. So, if it did run over, I wouldn't 4 be available. So if we could finish it today, that would be 5 greatly appreciated.

6 THE COURT: All right. Well, I have in my notes that 7 we'll have Mr. Seery again. And Mr. Daugherty was listed as a
8 witness, possible witness, by his lawyer. And then Ms.
9 Rappaport as a possible expert witness. I'm not a hundred
10 percent clear what the scope of that testimony would be. I 11 don't know if there are objections. But if we do in fact have 12 three witnesses, it may be a challenge finishing tonight.
13 But, you know, I will go past 5:00 or 5:30, but not insanely
14 past those hours. Okay? I don't want to be up here at 9:00
15 o'clock when we have staff who isn't getting paid overtime.
16 So, all right.

17 MR. MORRIS: We're grateful, Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. We stand adjourned.

19 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor.

20 THE CLERK: All rise.

21 (A recess ensued from 12:24 p.m. until 3:01 p.m.)

22 THE CLERK: All rise.

23 THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. Welcome
24 back. We are going to resume our Highland hearing. It looks 25 like we've got a lot of folks on the phone once again.

1 When we broke at 12:20, the Debtor had rested on the
2 motion to approve the compromise with the Redeemer Committee
3 and the Crusader Fund, and we were about to hear from UBS and 4 their evidence objecting to the settlement.

5 Any housekeeping matters before we turn it over to Mr.
6 Clubok?

7 All right. Well, Mr. Clubok, are you there? Are you
8 ready to call your witness?

9 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, it's actually Ms. Tomkowiak.

10 THE COURT: Oh.

11 MS. TOMKOWIAK: I going to handle this portion of the 12 hearing.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MS. TOMKOWIAK: And we are ready to call Mr. (audio 15 gap).

16 THE COURT: Mr. Moentmann? Is that how you say the 17 name? Is it Mr. Moentmann?

18 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Yes, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: All right.

20 MR. MOENTMANN: That's -- yes, that's correct.

21 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Moentmann, I need to 22 swear you in. So there you are. I can see you now. Please
23 raise your right hand.

24 W. KEVIN MOENTMANN, UBS SECURITIES, LLC'S WITNESS, SWORN

25 THE COURT: All right. You may proceed.

Moentmann - Direct

1 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Great.

2 DIRECT EXAMINATION

3 BY MS. TOMKOWIAK:

4 Q And Mr. Moentmann, I understand that you've prepared some 5 demonstratives to assist with your testimony; is that correct?

6 A That is correct.

7 Q Okay.

8 MR. MORRIS: Excuse me. May I -- as I previewed
9 earlier, I have a motion. I'd like to voir dire. It'll be 10 about 12 questions, and then I'd like to make a motion to 11 exclude the witness's testimony. May I?

12 THE COURT: All right. Well, Ms. Tomkowiak, you knew
13 this was coming. Anything you want to say at this point?

14 MS. TOMKOWIAK: I don't think this is the motion. I
15 mean, I haven't -- I haven't -- I heard that earlier, but no
16 preview as to the grounds for a motion were provided.

17 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, what about that?

18 MR. MORRIS: It's voir dire, Your Honor. I would 19 just like to ask questions to see if this witness can provide 20 testimony consistent with Federal Rule of Evidence 702. I
21 just took his deposition yesterday.

22 THE COURT: Okay. You may proceed with voir dire.

23 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Thank you.

24 VOIR DIRE EXAMINATION

25 BY MR. MORRIS:

002901

1 Q Sir, you had never heard of Cornerstone before this case;
2 is that right?

3 A That's correct.

4 Q And you were retained just a couple of weeks ago; is that
5 right?

6 A Yes.

7 Q And you spent approximately 20 or 30 hours preparing your 8 analysis, right?

9 A Yes. Up until my deposition on Saturday, yes.

10 Q Yes. And without getting into the details, one of the 11 biggest drivers in the difference between the values that you
12 come up with and the values that Houlihan Lokey comes up with 13 is a difference in one aspect of the methodology, whereby you
14 use what's called the Growth Model and Houlihan Lokey uses
15 exit -- exit multiples. Do I have that right?

16 A That is one area, yes.

17 Q And it's one of the biggest areas; isn't that right?

18 A It's -- yes and no.

19 Q Okay. But you'll agree that the use of exit multiples in 20 the manner that Houlihan Lokey has done is an accepted
21 practice in the valuation industry; isn't that right?

22 A If the multiples selected are reasonable, yes.

23 Q Okay. The methodology is certainly accepted; is that
24 right?

25 A It's -- it's not the prevalent one that is accepted.

1 Q Okay. And your firm is Grant Thornton; is that right?

2 A Yes. That's right.

3 Q And Grant Thornton prepares valuation reports similar in 4 nature to the ones that Houlihan Lokey prepares; is that
5 right?

6 A Yes, we do.

7 Q And in fact, you personally consider Houlihan Lokey to be
8 a competitor; is that fair?

9 A Yes.

10 Q And you've reviewed Houlihan Lokey reports before being 11 engaged in this matter, haven't you?

12 A I have.

13 Q And based on your professional experience, you believe 14 Houlihan Lokey has a good reputation in the field of 15 valuation; isn't that correct?

16 A I believe it is a reputable firm, yes.

17 Q In fact, you're aware that from time to time Grant
18 Thornton's own audit clients have used Houlihan Lokey's
19 valuation services; isn't that right?

20 A I couldn't tell you specifically which clients, but I'm 21 sure they have, given the large number of audit clients that 22 we have, yes.

23 Q And those audit clients use Houlihan Lokey even though
24 Houlihan Lokey uses a methodology different from the one
25 employed by Grant Thornton; isn't that right?

1 A I couldn't say that affirmatively. I don't know if they
2 use a different methodology when they're performing the 3 valuation for our audit client.

4 Q Okay. You're aware, though, that your audit clients not
5 only use Houlihan Lokey but they actually rely on Houlihan
6 Lokey's valuation services; is that fair?

7 A Again, I'm assuming they do, just given the large number
8 of audit clients. We have, you know, thousand plus audit
9 clients, I would imagine, so I would assume that Houlihan is 10 doing some of them.

11 Q Okay. And --

12 A (overspoken)

13 Q I'm sorry to interrupt.

14 A Yeah. I was just -- I was actually just getting to answer
15 your question. So I'm sure they do and rely on Houlihan for 16 valuation.

17 Q Okay. Thank you, sir. Putting aside your own personal
18 views as reflected in your declaration, you have no reason to 19 believe that it was unreasonable for the Debtor to utilize
20 Houlihan Lokey's reports in this instance; isn't that correct?

21 A Well, I think I've pointed out several areas where I 22 think, given the assumptions made, that it -- it is 23 unreasonable.

24 Q Okay. I'm going to ask the question one more time and ask
25 you to listen very carefully. Putting aside your own personal

1 views as reflected in your declaration, you have no reason to
2 believe that it was unreasonable for the Debtor to utilize
3 Houlihan Lokey's reports in this instance; isn't that correct?

4 A Putting aside my -- my different viewpoint from a
5 valuation -- as a valuation professional, yes.

6 Q Okay.

7 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, Rule 702 requires that 8 qualified experts may only offer opinion testimony if four 9 specific conditions are satisfied.

10 One of those conditions is that the opinion testimony will 11 help a trier of fact understand the evidence or determine a 12 fact at issue. The only issue in this case is whether or not 13 this settlement is fair or reasonable. This is not a 14 valuation fight. This is not a fight over whether or not the 15 Debtor is maximizing value. This is a dispute over whether or 16 not the Debtor is properly exercising its business judgment,
17 whether it's done a fair and reasonable investigation and 18 diligence of the matters at issue. And I think, given the 19 witness's testimony just now that his own clients use Houlihan
20 Lokey and that he has no reason to believe that it would be 21 unreasonable for the Debtor to use Houlihan Lokey in this 22 instance, I don't see (garbled) respect to the witness.
23 Because I'm not challenging his qualifications. This is not a 24 Daubert motion. I just don't see how this is at all useful to 25 you as the trier of fact to understand the evidence and

1 determine a fact at issue.

2 Thank you, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: Okay. Your response, Ms. Tomkowiak?

4 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Well, Your Honor, I feel like it's 5 important to acknowledge that -- he's saying this is not a 6 Daubert motion. This is not a 702 issue. This witness is 7 extremely qualified to provide his opinion on the valuation of 8 Cornerstone, which is an issue in the settlement. It does go
9 exactly to the question that Your Honor is being asked to 10 evaluate, which is, you know, is this settlement fair,
11 equitable, and in the best interest of the estates?

12 I don't understand this hypothetical about, putting aside
13 your opinion, do you have a view? I mean, his opinion is his 14 view. And I believe that it is absolutely relevant. He 15 should be allowed to testify to it. His testimony is based on 16 facts and data. It's the product of a reliable methodology
17 that everybody agrees, you know, can be applied to value an 18 asset. Is to apply that methodology to the facts of this 19 case.

20 So, you know, I understand that the Debtor chose not to 21 put on any evidence regarding the value of this incredibly 22 meaningful asset that they decided to give up in this 23 settlement, but that doesn't mean that UBS shouldn't be 24 allowed to do so in support of its valid objection to the 25 settlement.

117

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MS. TOMKOWIAK: So, I object and I believe we should
3 be allowed to proceed with our examination of Mr. Moentmann.

4 THE COURT: Okay. I overrule the objection. I'm
5 going to allow some testimony. Go ahead.

6 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Thank you. Okay.

7 DIRECT EXAMINATION, RESUMED

8 BY MS. TOMKOWIAK:

9 Q And Mr. Moentmann, I think you prepared some slides to 10 assist with your testimony today; is that correct?

11 A That's correct.

12 Q Can you pull those up? All right. So, very briefly,
13 let's just go to the first slide. Please tell the Court,
14 where do you currently work?

15 A Yes. I work at Grant Thornton.

16 Q How long have you worked at Grant Thornton?

17 A For just over four years.

18 Q Briefly, what are your responsibilities at Grant Thornton?

19 A I'm the principal in the firm responsible for providing 20 valuation services. I provide those services extensively in 21 the healthcare industry to a variety of healthcare entities.

22 Q Where were you employed prior to (garbled)?

23 A I believe the question was prior employment. Was at a --
24 was at another professional services firm, CBIZ.

25 Q And what was your role at CBIZ?

002907

1 A My role at CBIZ, which is publicly-traded professional
2 services firm, was similar. I was a managing director
3 responsible for the Central Region, but provided valuation
4 services really across the country, and, again, extensively in 5 the healthcare industry.

6 Q What's your educational background?

7 A Yes. I'm -- my undergraduate degree was -- was a finance
8 degree from University of Missouri Columbia. I received my 9 MBA, again with a finance emphasis, from Washington University
10 in St. Louis.

11 Q Do you have any professional certifications?

12 A Yes. Two. One, the CFA. And the second, the CEIV.
13 That's a newer designation. I received it through the AICPA.
14 It's Certified -- as you can see there, it's Certified in 15 Entity and Intangible Valuations. But it addresses
16 specifically fair value determinations for publicly-traded
17 entities.

18 Q Over the course of your career, how many valuations have 19 you performed?

20 A I wish I'd kept a log, but over the course of thirty-plus
21 years, you know, maybe fifty or so a year, so well over a
22 thousand. Maybe close to two thousand.

23 Q How many of those have involved healthcare companies?

24 A My focus has been on healthcare really since the early
25 '90s, so maybe two-thirds of my valuation work and experience

1 has been healthcare-related.

2 Q Broadly speaking, when performing a valuation, what do you
3 do?

4 A Yes. All valuations, whether it's on a business or an
5 asset, regardless of the industry, we're looking at three
6 approaches to value: An income approach, a market approach,
7 and an asset or cost approach.

8 Q Are these methodologies commonly used and accepted by your 9 peers as well?

10 A Yes. Yes, they're widely accepted.

11 Q And when you're performing a valuation of a healthcare
12 company, in your day-to-day -- your role at your job, what is 13 the purpose of that valuation work?

14 A It ranges. Oftentimes, we're brought in pre-transaction
15 to assist healthcare entities with their M&A activity. If 16 we're assisting not-for-profits, it's a combination of their 17 M&A activity as well as providing regulatory support if that 18 valuation is ever challenged. We also provide valuations
19 post-transaction for financial reporting purposes.

20 Q And did you apply those same methodologies that you use in 21 your ordinary job to the assignment in this case?

22 A Yes, I did.

23 Q How many times have you testified under oath as an expert?

24 A Probably over -- over the last thirty years, maybe every 25 other year, so maybe -- maybe fifteen times.

120

1 Q Has any court ever rejected you as an expert?

2 A No.

3 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Your Honor, at this time, pursuant to 4 Rule 702, I'd just like to tender Mr. Moentmann as an expert
5 in the field of valuation.

6 THE COURT: Any comment?

7 MR. MORRIS: No objection.

8 THE COURT: All right.

9 MR. MORRIS: No objection.

10 THE COURT: He is so accepted.

11 BY MS. TOMKOWIAK:

12 Q Mr. Moentmann, what were you asked to do in this case?

13 A Yes. I was asked to assess the valuation of Cornerstone
14 based on the most recent information available, which in this 15 case were certain valuation reports that were prepared for 16 2020. The latest available up until a few days ago were the 17 June 30 reports.

18 Q Have you -- have you formed any opinions?

19 A Yes. We have.

20 Q Let's talk about your opinions. So if you can go to the 21 next slide. Can you please explain to the Court what your 22 first opinion is?

23 A Yes. The first opinion reflects my calculation of 24 Crusader's ownership interest in Cornerstone. It shows, as 25 presented in the second bullet on the slide here, that the 002910

1 subject equity interest ranges in value from $48 through $87
2 million.

3 Q If you can go to the next slide. Can you walk the Court
4 through your second opinion that's reflected on this slide?

5 A Yes. Yes, the -- the second opinion here focuses on 6 various issues that we identified in our review of the 7 information that was made available.

8 The first issue was the selection of very low market
9 multiples. The multiples used in the -- in the valuations
10 relative to what we observed in the marketplace were low, and 11 we did not see any explanatory information as to the selection
12 of those multiples.

13 The second, it was previewed a few minutes ago, and I
14 don't want to get too complex here, but involved the use of 15 the -- or, the estimate of the terminal value, their 16 methodology. And this was in the income approach that was 17 referenced earlier. The methodology that was used was market
18 multiples. They were essentially the same market multiples
19 that were applied in the market approach, rather than a Gordon
20 Growth method. And as I mentioned a few minutes ago, the 21 Gordon Growth method is what we typically see. It is the more
22 common of its -- in my experience.

23 I answered a question both yes and no because one could 24 use the market approach, an exit multiple, I think it was -- 25 as it was called in the question. But that exit multiple

Moentmann - Direct

122

1 still needs to be consistent with market data, and to the 2 first point here, we think that -- you know, I think -- I feel
3 the exit multiples is -- is low, in my opinion.

4 The third issue here involves a CARES Act loan that the 5 company has on its books. It's a $30 million liability. The 6 observation here is that, based on the information available,
7 we don't know to what extent, if any, this CARES Act loan is 8 forgivable.

9 Q Okay. And then I see the last bullet there references
10 inconsistencies between valuations. What do you mean by that?

11 A Yeah. The last bullet applies less to our conclusion and 12 more our observation of -- Houlihan had prepared reports as of 13 the same date for different clients, for Highland as well as 14 Crusader. And we're observing that they had a different value
15 opinion depending upon -- a different value range depending on 16 who the client was, even though the valuation was performed as 17 of the same date.

18 Q And I think you said you reviewed multiple valuations
19 provided by Houlihan. Were the issues you identified here --
20 in particular, the first and second issues -- present in all
21 of the valuations that you reviewed for Houlihan, regardless
22 of the particular time period?

23 A Yes. They were prevalent in all. I would say the CARES
24 Act loan I believe did not hit the books until April, so may 25 not have been prevalent in the early -- the early -- the 002912

Moentmann - Direct

123

1 valuations prior to them.

2 Q What happens when you use, in your opinion, the right
3 assumptions?

4 A The use of the -- the right assumptions, is your question?
5 Right. I -- the use of the right -- could you repeat the 6 question?

7 THE COURT: Yes. Could you repeat your answer? You
8 broke off a little bit, sir.

9 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I've -- I've objected to the 10 question.

11 THE COURT: Oh. I didn't hear you were -- okay. You
12 objected to the question. And what is your basis?

13 MR. MORRIS: Just the use of the phrase the right
14 approach. Don't know if his opinion is any or more less valid
15 than any other opinion.

16 THE COURT: All right.

17 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Your Honor, I'm -- I can -- I'm happy
18 to rephrase the question.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 BY MS. TOMKOWIAK:

21 Q What happens when you use the approaches that you use, Mr.
22 Moentmann?

23 A Yes. The use of the assumptions that -- that I believe 24 are reasonable result in a valuation range -- actually, the 25 valuation range presented earlier.

002913

Moentmann - Direct

124

1 Q You listened to Mr. Seery testify both at his deposition
2 and in court today; is that right?

3 A Yes, I did.

4 Q What are your reactions to his testimony as it relates to 5 the Cornerstone value?

6 A I've -- I had a handful of reactions to the testimony.
7 One was with regard to fair value and fair market value. And 8 as someone who's been in the valuation industry for over
9 thirty years, both premises of value, fair value and fair
10 market value, represent a valuation firm's, whether it's 11 Houlihan or Grant Thornton, it is that firm's opinion and best
12 estimate of a market participant value. Both definitions, 13 whether it's fair value or fair market value, focuses on 14 market participant, market participant concepts.

15 Another observation was the -- the use of -- the Gordon
16 Growth method only being applicable for dividend-paying 17 companies. And I can assure you, that's -- that is not the 18 case. This -- there are some methods, the discounted cash
19 flow method and -- and/or the Gordon Growth method, the use of 20 the Gordon Growth method to calculate a residual value or a 21 terminal value is used for all companies, regardless of 22 whether they're dividend-paying or not.

23 Q What is the most -- and by what, I mean by -- not the 24 information itself, but the date -- what is the most recent 25 value -- valuation information that you've been provided with 002914

1 respect to Cornerstone?

2 A We -- we recently received a valuation, I think within the
3 last day or two, as of August 31st.

4 Q And so that was after you prepared and submitted the 5 declaration that you submitted in this case?

6 A Yes.

7 Q If we could go to that slide.

8 MS. TOMKOWIAK: So, consistent with Your Honor's
9 rulings, you know, we would proffer that we have this
10 information, the valuation performed by Houlihan in August, 11 but we have redacted it per this morning's rulings regarding 12 confidentiality.

13 BY MS. TOMKOWIAK:

14 Q Mr. Moentmann, my question is, without talking about the 15 numbers themselves, based on your of view of that valuation, 16 you know, what did it show in terms of, you know, trends in 17 the -- or performance with respect to the valuation of 18 Cornerstone?

19 A The valuation reflected an upward trend. Really, a 20 continued upward trend in the valuation of Cornerstone.

21 Q Were you able to tell if that was -- what that was based 22 on? Again, broadly speaking.

23 A Based on a quick review of it, yes. The -- that upward
24 trend in value was being driven primarily by the company's 25 continued strong performance and improvement in -- in

126

1 earnings.

2 Q If you took this latest valuation information, this latest
3 valuation into account in your own analysis, what impact would 4 it have?

5 A It would have a positive impact. The August information
6 reflecting the company's performance through August was 7 strengthening and is -- it would increase our valuation.

8 Q Let's go to the next point on the slide. So, I know that 9 you had summarized the various valuations that you have 10 reviewed. And, again, we have all of these valuations. We 11 have all of these numbers. Pursuant with the Court's rulings
12 this morning, we have redacted the numbers themselves except 13 for the $30.5 million that the Debtor has already put in the 14 public record and your own valuation. Do you understand --
15 have you reviewed the Debtor's motion for approval of the 16 settlement that we've been discussing today?

17 A Yes.

18 Q And you understand that in that motion they've represented
19 that, for settlement purposes, they valued Crusader's
20 ownership interest in Cornerstone at a perceived fair market
21 value of $30.5 million?

22 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

23 THE COURT: Okay. What exactly was it about the 24 question that you found objectionable?

25 MR. MORRIS: The number is the result of 002916

Moentmann - Direct

127

1 negotiations. And I think Mr. Seery testified quite clearly
2 that the notion of perceived market value, you know, probably
3 was a little bit misstated. It's -- it's a negotiated number.
4 That's where we are. That's all.

5 THE COURT: Okay. If you could rephrase, I sustain
6 that objection.

7 BY MS. TOMKOWIAK:

8 Q You understand that the damage award in this case is,
9 according to the Debtor in the motion that it's filed, it's 10 reducing the Redeemer award by approximately $30.5 million to 11 account for the value that they've assigned to the Cornerstone
12 shares owned by Crusader, right?

13 A Yes. That's my understanding.

14 Q In your opinion and based on the accepted valuation
15 methodologies and standards in your field, is $30.5 million
16 within the range of reasonable valuation of Crusader's
17 interest in Cornerstone today, based on the information
18 available to you?

19 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

20 THE COURT: Overruled.

21 MR. MORRIS: The use of the phrase --

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

24 THE COURT: I overrule.

25 THE WITNESS: No. As shown here, our opinion of 002917

Moentmann - Direct

128

1 value is presented at the bottom here. I found $48 to $87
2 million, I mean, is significantly in excess of the agreed-to 3 amount.

4 BY MS. TOMKOWIAK:

5 Q Right. And then the same question as of June 30, 2020.
6 In your opinion and based on the accepted methodologies and 7 valuation standards in your field, is $30.5 million within any 8 range of a reasonable valuation of Crusader's interest in 9 Cornerstone, even as of June 30, 2020?

10 A Again, though, I misspoke on the earlier question. I was 11 referencing June on the earlier question. The August
12 valuation, as mentioned earlier, I think it would be only 13 higher than this. In both cases, no.

14 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Subject to redirect, I don't have any 15 further questions.

16 THE COURT: All right. Pass the witness. Mr.
17 Morris, any questions?

18 MR. MORRIS: Just a few, Your Honor.

19 CROSS-EXAMINATION

20 BY MR. MORRIS:

21 Q Your valuation hasn't been market-tested, has it, sir?

22 A I'm not sure I understand the question of market testing.

23 Q It's not the result of any negotiation, is it?

24 A No, it is not.

25 Q Okay. And your valuation was prepared for purposes of 002918

1 this motion; isn't that right?

2 A Yes, it was.

3 Q And you understand that the reports that were prepared by 4 Houlihan Lokey were prepared for the client's sole benefit,
5 not for purposes of litigation; is that right?

6 A Well, I'm not sure I understand that. I did not review
7 the engagement letter.

8 Q Okay. But you do understand that they -- because you
9 reviewed a number of monthly reports, you -- withdrawn. You
10 do understand that these reports are prepared monthly for the 11 benefit of Highland; is that right?

12 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Objection. This witness lacks
13 foundation on that.

14 THE COURT: Overruled. He can answer if he knows.

15 THE WITNESS: That's my understanding from the 16 testimony of Mr. Seery.

17 BY MR. MORRIS:

18 Q And in fact, you said that your firm prepares reports
19 similar in nature to the Houlihan reports, right?

20 A Yes.

21 Q And you don't prepare them in the ordinary course of your 22 business for purposes of litigation; is that right?

23 A Can you repeat the question?

24 Q Do you -- do you participate in the preparation of monthly
25 reports on behalf of clients?

1 A No, not in the context of -- of establishing an NAV.

2 Q Okay. I believe you testified that you could use a market
3 approach; there's nothing in the rules or principles of 4 valuation methodology that prohibits the use of a market
5 approach; is that right?

6 A Yes. I testified that a market approach is one of the 7 three primary approaches to value.

8 Q And I think -- I think on one of the slides there were a
9 couple of issues that were raised, and I think you testified
10 or you were asked whether the issues identified were prevalent
11 in each of the Houlihan Lokey reports. Do you remember that?

12 A Yes.

13 Q And that's -- they were prevalent because Houlihan Lokey
14 used consistently the same methodology; is that right?

15 A Yes. They used the same methodology.

16 Q And that's the methodology that you don't think they 17 should use but they think they should use; is that fair?

18 A With respect to the income approach, that's -- that is
19 correct.

20 Q Okay. Have you ever seen anybody publicly criticize
21 Houlihan Lokey for using a market approach as a methodology?

22 A Again, the question -- I think your question is 23 specifically to the use of the market approach within the 24 income approach and calculation of an exit multiple. I have 25 not seen any public statements regarding that topic.

1 Q And in fact, you can't identify any peer-reviewed article
2 or industry publication that specifically says that the Gordon
3 Growth Model is the preferred methodology as opposed to the 4 one employed by Houlihan Lokey; isn't that right?

5 A I can't point you to a peer-reviewed article, but I can
6 tell you from our review of peers what is the prevalent
7 methodology.

8 Q Okay. But nobody's out there writing that; that's your 9 interpretation of the marketplace. Is that fair?

10 A Well, I would say if the marketplace -- there are 11 publications that state how a discounted cash flow analysis is 12 to be performed. There's courses out there that address this.
13 So, --

14 Q Did you ever -- did you ever tell any of your clients who 15 use Houlihan Lokey that they shouldn't do it because Houlihan
16 Lokey uses a flawed methodology?

17 A I've never been asked or had the opportunity to comment on 18 Houlihan's valuation work.

19 Q In the competitive nature, in the competitive field of 20 competing for clients, you never tried to tell you clients,
21 don't use Houlihan, use Grant Thornton, we've got a better
22 method?

23 A I don't run into Houlihan that often in the healthcare
24 industry. I've got too much work myself to -- I find it poor
25 practice to badmouth my competition.

1 Q Good for you. I'm not surprised. Do you think -- do you
2 think Houlihan Lokey artificially manipulated their analysis
3 to come up with a lowball number?

4 A I don't -- I don't know what Houlihan -- I have no idea
5 what Houlihan was thinking with regard to their assumptions in 6 their analysis.

7 Q Did you make any attempt to reach out to anybody at 8 Houlihan to speak to them about their methodologies and the 9 areas that you claim to have identified?

10 A No, I did not contact Houlihan.

11 Q Can you think of -- does Houlihan have a reputation in the 12 industry for undervaluing assets?

13 A I'm not aware of Houlihan's reputation for overvaluing or 14 undervaluing assets.

15 Q So you, in your thirty years of practice, you've never 16 heard anything that causes you to conclude that Houlihan has a 17 reputation for undervaluing assets; is that fair?

18 A That's fair.

19 Q Okay. Can you think of any motivation that Houlihan Lokey 20 would have to undervalue the assets that are reflected in 21 Cornerstone?

22 A No, I'm not aware of Houlihan's motivations.

23 Q Okay. You said that the company was on an upward trend;
24 is that right?

25 A Yes. Specifically, the LTAC business, yes.

1 Q And do you recall yesterday I asked you about the cause of
2 any fluctuation in the value of Cornerstone and you told me
3 that it was the result of market forces and maybe COVID
4 issues?

5 A Yes. The upward trend could be attributed to market
6 forces, including COVID issues.

7 Q Right. Do you remember yesterday I'd asked you whether,
8 since coming to your conclusions, you've gone to your clients
9 and -- or informed your colleagues to try to find a buyer of 10 this grossly-undervalued asset? Remember I asked you about 11 that?

12 A Yes. I recall the question very well.

13 Q And you hadn't done so, right?

14 A I think it would be against our ethical guidelines, so I
15 have not done that.

16 Q Have you made any attempt to confer with either the 17 Redeemer Committee or the Debtor to see if you could, you
18 know, maybe Grant Thornton could act as a broker to, you know,
19 use their valuation report to sell this asset?

20 A No. We are not in the brokerage business.

21 Q Okay.

22 MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

23 MS. MASCHERIN: Your Honor, I have just a few
24 questions --

25 THE COURT: Okay.

1 MS. MASCHERIN: -- on cross, if I may.

2 THE COURT: You may. Go ahead, Ms. Mascherin.

3 MS. MASCHERIN: Thank you, Your Honor.

4 CROSS-EXAMINATION

5 BY MS. MASCHERIN:

6 Q Mr. Moentmann, am I correct that the earliest numbers that 7 you've referred to in the two different value estimates that 8 you gave on your last slide, the earliest of those dates was 9 June 30th of 2020? Is that correct?

10 A Yes, that is correct.

11 Q And that was based upon your review of Houlihan Lokey
12 valuation reports dated as -- for -- for the date as June 13 30th, 2020, correct?

14 A Yes. It was their reports as of that same date.

15 Q And would you agree, sir, based on your experience in 16 performing valuations, that that likely indicates a valuation
17 report that was prepared sometime after June 30th of 2020, so 18 as to take into consideration the company's performance during 19 the month of June?

20 A Yes, I would agree.

21 Q And do you have any idea, sir, when it was that either the 22 Crusader Fund or Highland Capital Management received
23 valuation reports for the Cornerstone asset valued as of June 24 30th of 2020?

25 A I don't recall specifically. I thought it was in -- in

1 July. It ought to have been subsequent to the June 30 date.

2 Q And you heard Mr. Seery testify this morning that the 3 negotiations that led to the compromised setoff for the value
4 of the Cornerstone asset took place in the March/April/May 5 time frame? Did you hear that testimony?

6 A Yes.

7 Q Now, in your report, sir, your declaration, and in your
8 testimony today, you made reference to certain different
9 reports that were prepared by Houlihan Lokey for different
10 clients. Do you recall that testimony, sir?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And what you meant by that is that, on the one hand, a 13 team from Houlihan Lokey does regular valuation reports under 14 contract for the Debtor, valuing the 50 -- approximately 58
15 percent or so interest that the Debtor owns or manages in 16 Cornerstone; is that correct?

17 A Yes.

18 Q And would you agree that the Debtor and its managed fund,
19 Restoration Capital Partners, together own the majority
20 interest of the shares in Cornerstone?

21 A Yes. I believe I even pointed that out in my declaration,
22 yes.

23 Q Right. And Crusader, on the other hand, owns something in 24 the low forty percents of the shares of Cornerstone, correct?

25 A Correct.

1 Q And would you agree, sir, that the -- based upon the
2 documents you've seen, the Crusader Fund's manager, Alvarez &
3 Marsal, contracts as well with a team from Houlihan Lokey to 4 value Cornerstone's interest in the Crusader -- or, in the
5 Cornerstone asset?

6 A Could you -- could you repeat the question?

7 Q Sure. You've seen documents that lead you to know, sir,
8 that Crusader likewise uses Houlihan Lokey to value Crusader's
9 low forty percent share of the Cornerstone asset, correct?

10 A Yes.

11 Q And you would agree that Cornerstone -- or, that 12 Crusader's interest in Cornerstone is a minority position?

13 A Yes.

14 Q And you would agree that the Houlihan Lokey valuations
15 that are provided to Crusader value Crusader's interest in 16 Cornerstone on a non-marketable minority interest basis,
17 correct?

18 A That's right.

19 Q And wouldn't you expect, sir, based upon your experience,
20 that there would be a difference in the value of -- in the 21 fair value estimate for a minority position in a privately-
22 traded company as compared to an estimate of value of a
23 majority interest in that same company?

24 A Generally speaking, yes.

25 MS. MASCHERIN: No further questions, Your Honor.

Moentmann - Redirect

137

1 THE COURT: All right. Redirect?

2 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Yes.

3 THE COURT: Okay.

4 MS. TOMKOWIAK: I just have one, one question.

5 REDIRECT EXAMINATION

6 BY MS. TOMKOWIAK:

7 Q Sir, even setting aside your opinion regarding the errors
8 and the flawed methodologies in the Houlihan reports, is it
9 fair to say that, just looking at the most recent valuation
10 that you were provided, in your opinion is $30.5 million
11 within any reasonable range of valuation for Crusader's share
12 of Cornerstone?

13 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

14 THE COURT: Overruled.

15 THE WITNESS: No.

16 BY MS. TOMKOWIAK:

17 Q So, your answer?

18 A Yes. My response was no. Again, based on our analysis
19 and the valuation range that was presented, we don't -- I
20 don't believe it would be reasonable.

21 Q Okay.

22 MS. TOMKOWIAK: I have no further questions.

23 THE COURT: Any recross on that --

24 MR. MORRIS: Nothing, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: -- question?

002927

1 MR. MORRIS: Nothing, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: I have one follow-up question.

3 EXAMINATION BY THE COURT

4 THE COURT: I tend to think, and maybe I'm being 5 affected by certain healthcare Chapter 11s I've had in recent
6 months, but is it a tough time to value a healthcare business
7 like Cornerstone in 2020, with COVID? Are there challenges,
8 or am I making something up here?

9 THE WITNESS: I'd say it depends on the segment
10 within the healthcare industry. Some segments are of benefit.
11 I recently called three or four public companies in the 12 healthcare industry on behalf of a client that was selling 13 with -- a business within -- a segment of those within the 14 healthcare industry, and found all four public companies to be 15 highly interested and still very active in their acquisition
16 process.

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 THE WITNESS: But I am aware there are some companies
19 that have been impacted. And that's -- that's the appearance
20 people --

21 THE COURT: Okay. Well, and maybe I asked it in too
22 general a way. I mean, the understanding I have of 23 Cornerstone is there's the long-term acute care business,
24 which you said is on an upward track, but then we have senior
25 living facilities as another big segment. So, focusing not

1 generally but more on private company in these segments in 2 healthcare, are there challenges with a company like this,
3 valuing it in a post-COVID/still under COVID times?

4 THE WITNESS: I think this is a segment with the 5 healthcare industry that -- where that challenge does not 6 exist. They're well-positioned for what's happening to the 7 population demographically within the United States. I think 8 the performance of the company during this time period is 9 reflective of the ability to continue to perform well and make 10 the evaluation process easier, if you will, or less -- less
11 impacted as compared to some of the other healthcare industry
12 peers.

13 THE COURT: So your answer is no, you don't think 14 there's any challenge valuing Cornerstone right now because of 15 the pandemic?

16 THE WITNESS: That's correct.

17 THE COURT: Okay. How big a segment of its revenue
18 is the senior care segment?

19 THE WITNESS: From a valuation perspective, on an 20 enterprise level, I believe it accounted for 10 to 20 percent
21 --

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 THE WITNESS: -- of the aggregate enterprise value.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 THE WITNESS: That's including all the real estate.

1 Yes.

2 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Thank you.

3 I always give the lawyers a chance, if they want to ask
4 any follow-up questions, only based on the Court's question, I
5 think that's fair. So, anyone feel the need to ask a follow-
6 up question based on my questions?

7 MR. MORRIS: Just one, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 RE CROSS EXAMINATION

10 BY MR. MORRIS:

11 Q And that is, talking about COVID, does your valuation
12 assume that Cornerstone has received cash from the government
13 that is forgivable?

14 A We presented our value in a range to reflect that the cash
15 that was received, the $30 million that I referenced, could be 16 completely repayable or could be completely forgivable. We 17 weren't privy to information with regard to the forgiveness of 18 that liability.

19 Q Okay. But that, that liability and that influx of cash is 20 something that is unique to the COVID period. Is that fair?

21 A It's -- it's fair. The cash is, or was, at least in the 22 -- in the company, although, as mentioned earlier, so is the 23 liability. So, on the one hand, it's neutral. I received $30
24 million of cash; I have a liability for $30 million --

25 Q Certainly --

1 A -- (overspoken).

2 Q Certainly helps cash flow, doesn't it?

3 A Yes. And that's why I made the statement about -- it does
4 help liquidity, yeah.

5 MR. MORRIS: Okay. No further questions, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: All right. Either Ms. Mascherin or 7 Tomkowiak?

8 All right. Well, thank you, Mr. Moentmann. We appreciate
9 your testimony.

10 THE WITNESS: Thank you.

11 THE COURT: All right. Ms. Tomkowiak, do you have 12 any other evidence?

13 MS. TOMKOWIAK: I don't have any other witnesses,
14 Your Honor. Give me one moment, Your Honor, to confer with my 15 colleagues.

16 THE COURT: Okay.

17 (Pause.)

18 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, I don't know if this is 19 particularly out of order, but I'm going to just ask Your 20 Honor if we may also proffer. There were two Houlihan Lokey
21 valuations that were prepared for Redeemer and also a 22 presentation that was produced to us by Redeemer, all of those 23 excluded by your order this morning. We just would like to be 24 able to offer them under the same terms that we offered the 25 Houlihan valuations for -- that were prepared for Highland.

1 We'll put them under seal and just proffer them for the 2 record. We think the collection of all that shows a very
3 different story than what Mr. Seery described. But we would 4 get that for the time being, yes, Your Honor, as to avoid 5 that.

6 THE COURT: All right. So, just to be clear, you've
7 offered those and I have declined to admit those for reasons
8 I've stated earlier today. But you can put them in the record
9 as an offer of proof under seal, so that if there's any appeal
10 the higher court can see what it was that I refused to allow.
11 Okay? So you're going to have to get with the courtroom
12 deputy later and submit those under seal to be kept in the 13 record in case there's an appeal, okay?

14 MR. CLUBOK: Thank you, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: All right. Any other evidence from UBS,
16 then? I think that's it, right?

17 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I would just -- I'd just ask 18 that it change sides to (garbled). In fairness (garbled), put 19 them all in, rather than being selective.

20 THE COURT: Okay. So you're saying that if -- you
21 want all --

22 MR. MORRIS: Otherwise (inaudible) better.

23 THE COURT: -- all of the Houlihan -- all of the 24 Houlihan reports should go in as part of the offer for proof?
25 Because your argument is if some of them were allowed in and

1 it was error, then all of them should go in. Is that your 2 point?

3 MR. MORRIS: Correct.

4 THE COURT: Okay.

5 MR. MORRIS: Correct.

6 THE COURT: So I don't know how far you mean to go
7 back in the past.

8 MR. MORRIS: Sure. Just to be very specific, from 9 March, I think, until August is the last one that has been 10 prepared by Houlihan, and it's been provided to UBS.

11 THE COURT: All right. So, Mr. Clubok, that is what 12 you're going to submit to the courtroom deputy to be your 13 offer of proof on this, March through August.

14 MR. CLUBOK: And first, Your Honor, that's fine, Your 15 Honor, with also the clear intention by doing that it reflects
16 that information, then -- and since -- now, since Mr. Morris
17 added that, then I'd (inaudible) there's also some sealed
18 testimony of Mr. Seery during his deposition that I didn't get 19 into because it was all, I thought, excluded under the same 20 rubric. And so the point-counterpoint, if Mr. Morris has an 21 offer of proof, that's fine, but if we just pull the whole
22 record in, the whole line, everything we got into, we could 23 put it in as an offer of proof and combine the information Mr.
24 Morris said and then the deposition testimony of Mr. Seery's
25 deposition. I would have explored all of this had I been

1 allowed to get into it. We make that as an offer of proof.

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

4 THE COURT: I'm very confused.

5 MR. MORRIS: Yeah, the Debtor -- this is -- this is 6 -- they offered the reports, Your Honor made the ruling, and 7 they're doing this because they actually made an offer of 8 proof. They actually sought to introduce this into evidence.
9 They had Mr. Seery on the stand. They could have done the 10 exact same thing. They can't clean it up now.

11 THE COURT: Agree.

12 MR. CLUBOK: We -- hold on a second.

13 THE COURT: I sustain that objection.

14 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, if I can just respond here.

15 THE COURT: I sustain that objection, okay?

16 All right. Anything else?

17 All right. Anything in rebuttal, Mr. Morris?

18 MR. MORRIS: No, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: All right. I'll hear closing arguments.

20 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTOR

21 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I do want to keep this 22 relatively brief because I think the Debtor was easily -- are 23 you hearing background?

24 THE COURT: We're hearing a little bit of background.
25 Is that -- was that on Mr. Morris's end?

1 THE CLERK: Yes, because he's moving around.

2 THE COURT: Okay. I think it was just because you
3 were moving around, according to the court reporter. So,
4 anyway, but --

5 MR. MORRIS: I apologize.

6 THE COURT: -- I'm timing. Let's keep it within --

7 MR. MORRIS: It's five minutes.

8 THE COURT: -- you know, five to ten minutes per 9 argument, okay? You may proceed.

10 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. Thank you very much, Your Honor.
11 I think this is a very, very simple case under the standards
12 of 9019, a standard the Court is quite familiar with. And I
13 don't think there's any dispute between or among the parties 14 is focusing on the terms of the compromise, determining the 15 probability of success in litigation, the complexity and 16 likely duration of the litigation, other factors that courts
17 in the Fifth Circuit have interpreted to mean the paramount
18 interests of creditors, with proper deference to their 19 reasonable views, and the extent to which the settlement is 20 truly the product of arm's-length bargaining and not fraud or 21 collusion.

22 I'll take the last point first, Your Honor, because it's 23 just so simple. There's absolutely compelling evidence that 24 this settlement was the product of lengthy negotiations
25 between counsel, between principals, between counsel and

1 principals. You've heard Mr. Seery testify quite credibly
2 that there was a lot of back and forth. And obviously, there
3 is no evidence of fraud and collusion. So I think we get a
4 hundred percent on that prong of the ledger.

5 With respect to the paramount interests of creditors, Your 6 Honor, as the evidence shows, the Debtor, in choosing to 7 exercise its judgment to enter into this settlement, will be 8 ending litigation, I think, in five different courts in three 9 different countries, litigation that has cost the estate an 10 enormous amount of money, and they're doing so on terms that 11 are really fair and reasonable. And that is the standard,
12 Your Honor. It is not, is the Debtor maximizing value? While 13 you always hope to do so, that's really difficult when you're 14 in a 9019 motion. I've never heard of a movant either have 15 the burden or even suggest that somehow they're entering into 16 a compromise that maximizes value.

17 We've heard from the one witness that UBS offered. I --
18 there's no reason to challenge his qualifications. I'm sure 19 that he's a perfectly able professional. But I think the 20 Court should take into account the context in which he 21 prepared his analysis. That analysis was prepared in a mere 22 20 or 30 hours. It was prepared solely for purposes of this
23 litigation. And to his credit, the witness testified
24 unambiguously that his own clients rely on Houlihan Lokey.
25 There's nothing -- fraud in the methodology that Houlihan

1 Lokey employs. And the ultimate question is that he has no
2 reason to believe that it was unreasonable for the Debtor to 3 rely on the Houlihan Lokey report.

4 The evidence also showed, Your Honor, though, that the 5 Houlihan Lokey report was not the only data point that Mr.
6 Seery considered. He testified unambiguously and unchallenged
7 that he also communicated with Cornerstone's management, with 8 Cornerstone's board of directors, that he gets regular updates
9 about the financial condition and the performance of the 10 business, and that he specifically used that information to 11 validate the (garbled) further negotiation on this (echoing).

12 With respect to the reasonable deference of creditors,
13 Your Honor -- I don't know if somebody's -- can put their 14 phone on mute.

15 With respect to the reasonable deference of creditors,
16 Your Honor, there's only one creditor here who is challenging
17 the Debtor's motion, and not surprisingly, that creditor, UBS,
18 has had a very longstanding dispute itself with -- with the 19 Redeemer Committee. And I think it would be fair if the Court
20 took that into account in terms of litigation and perhaps 21 prejudice and bias.

22 The likelihood of success, I think, goes to UBS's argument
23 that the Debtor really should walk away from this deal and go
24 back to Chancery Court to relitigate the issues that the panel
25 has already decided with respect to whether the procedural

1 issues and the rendering of the award were proper.

2 You know, we've had a chance to analyze. Mr. Seery
3 actually, I think, described in some detail how the panel came
4 about, about its decision. I think he testified quite clearly
5 that Highland would be a particularly unsympathetic litigant
6 in the Chancery Court, having voluntarily participated in 7 arbitration for years, an arbitration pursuant to which the 8 parties engaged in substantial discovery.

9 Your Honor has the evidentiary -- not the evidentiary
10 record, but Your Honor has the very extraordinarily detailed 11 findings of the panel. Those findings refer to substantial 12 evidence, both documented and testimonial evidence. The 13 findings made severe credibility findings, a lot of which,
14 quite frankly, are not flattering to the Debtor. And Mr.
15 Seery specifically testified that he took all of that into 16 account in assessing the probability or the likelihood of 17 success of going back to Chancery Court and prevailing.

18 With respect to the compromise that was made on the 19 deferred fees, in all honesty, Your Honor, I don't see how 20 that can be challenged on any rational basis. If you followed
21 UBS's path, we would have, in the first instance, another
22 litigation over setoff. And once that litigation was 23 resolved, whether it's hundred-cent dollars or bankruptcy
24 dollars, the Debtor would have to return that to Redeemer
25 Committee and then wait until this bankruptcy is over before

1 it can even ask for the deferred fee.

2 You've heard very, very clear, unambiguous testimony,
3 unchallenged testimony, from Mr. Seery that when they finally 4 do get around to making that request, they're going to be 5 involved in another litigation. Why? Because during the 6 negotiations, the Redeemer Committee made it crystal clear
7 that it was relying on the Faithless Servant defense. Is it
8 one that is, you know, common? It's not common, but it has 9 been used successfully. And the fear that Mr. Seery
10 specifically described is that the findings in the arbitration
11 award might give credence to the Faithless Servant defense.
12 And having gone through the setoff litigation, having paid the 13 money, having waited the time, having spent the cost to 14 litigate the issue again, they might lose. And I think if 15 Your Honor reads the partial final award, you may come to the 16 same conclusion.

17 Whether you do or you don't, Your Honor, the point is that 18 the evidence is crystal clear that there is a very strong 19 foundational evidentiary basis for the Debtor's decision to 20 enter into this award, and there's no question that it meets
21 the standard of 9019.

22 Again, Your Honor, we would remind the Court, not that I
23 need to, but that the test here isn't maximization of value.
24 It's not getting the most that you possibly can. It's taking 25 everything into account. Is this in the best interest of the

1 estate? And I do not think this is a close call.

2 Unless Your Honor has any questions, I have nothing
3 further.

4 THE COURT: I did have one follow-up question on the 5 deferred fee compromise. I'm wondering if you could generally
6 quantify: Assuming a hundred percent success for UBS, I'm 7 trying to figure out how big a discount the 20 percent -- I
8 mean, the $20 million number was. Because I understand $32
9 million is what Highland paid itself early. But then I
10 understand the component, the award component of the $190
11 million arbitration award, it was $43.105 million because of,
12 I guess, interest, calculating interest from the date they 13 paid themselves the $32 million until the time of the award.
14 Right? And the award, was it March of 2018 or September 2018?

15 MR. MORRIS: The partial final award was March.

16 THE COURT: Yes.

17 MR. MORRIS: The final award was May.

18 THE COURT: Okay. So I assume, then, we keep 19 calculating interest post --

20 MR. MORRIS: Until the petition date.

21 THE COURT: Until the petition date.

22 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

23 THE COURT: So we're at -- and it was a high interest
24 rate, right? Nine percent? High these days, right? Nine 25 percent?

1 MR. MORRIS: Well, just to be clear, Your Honor,
2 you're absolutely right, you have a great memory, it is nine
3 percent. But that's statutory interest in New York.

4 THE COURT: Right.

5 MR. MORRIS: Those of us who live in New York always
6 call it the absolute best investment you could make if you
7 actually have a liquid defendant. I mean, nine percent
8 guaranteed.

9 THE COURT: I'd rather have that --

10 MR. MORRIS: No doubt --

11 THE COURT: I'd rather have that than my mutual fund
12 right now. So, --

13 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

14 THE COURT: So we're talking close to $50 million.
15 But that's not even the whole story, right? Because they,
16 they'll get it -- not only would they maybe never have to pay
17 it back because of this Faithless Servant award, but even if 18 they did have to pay it back, it wouldn't be until the 19 Crusader Fund was liquidated, --

20 MR. MORRIS: Correct.

21 THE COURT: -- and litigation?

22 MR. MORRIS: Which can't happen until this -- which 23 can't happen until this case is completed, --

24 THE COURT: So, --

25 MR. MORRIS: -- which means the estate claims that

1 are going to be prosecuted by the UCC and any of its
2 successors against Mr. Dondero and his affiliates, all of that
3 has to play out. And UBS, more than anybody in this
4 courtroom, should know how long it takes to litigate with Mr.
5 Dondero. Maybe he'll have a change of heart. Maybe something
6 different will happen. But based on prior experience, I don't 7 think this Court or anybody should make any assumptions as to 8 this case being ended quickly.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. MORRIS: Just based on history.

11 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. I'll go to 12 friendly parties next.

13 Ms. Mascherin, anything you wanted to say as far as 14 closing argument?

15 MS. MASCHERIN: Yes, Your Honor. Thank you.

16 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE REDEEMER COMMITTEE

17 MS. MASCHERIN: First of all, with regard to the 18 deferred fees, I think Your Honor has already made all the 19 points that I would have made had I argued that. Suffice it
20 to say that I think any reasonable person would conclude that 21 it is a reasonable compromise for the Debtor to retain two-
22 thirds of the $32.3 million that the Debtor, as the panel
23 found, as Mr. Seery testified, helped itself to in early 2016.
24 That amount -- there's no assurance that that amount would 25 ever come back to the estate upon complete liquidation of the

1 Fund, and the Redeemer Committee at least is quite confident
2 that, whether or not a settlement here, the factual findings
3 that were made in that arbitration certainly were replete with 4 findings of breaches of fiduciary duty, of willful misconduct,
5 and of other misconduct which would provide a firm basis for 6 showing that Highland was, in fact, a faithless servant.

7 I would submit that's why the Redeemer Committee fired
8 them as manager of the Fund when it -- when the Committee
9 learned that they had taken the $32.3 million without the 10 right to take it.

11 With regard to the likelihood of success assessment, Your 12 Honor, I would submit that the record is likewise clear. The 13 only issue that UBS raises with regard to the litigation, the 14 compromise of the litigation, has to do with two procedural 15 challenges that the Debtor had raised when -- in the 16 proceedings to confirm the award in Delaware. As Your Honor
17 knows, arbitration awards under the Federal Arbitration Act
18 are pretty close to sacrosanct. The grounds on which an 19 arbitration award can be challenged are quite limited.

20 The two procedural arguments that the Debtor made, one 21 having to do with whether pre-judgment interest should 22 continue to run after the date of partial final award, and the 23 other dealing with the relief that the panel, as Mr. Seery
24 testified, inadvertently omitted due to a scrivener's error
25 with respect to what was referred to in the arbitration as the

1 Barclay's claim, both of those procedural issues were raised
2 by the Debtor and were ruled upon by the arbitration panel.
3 And the panel found that it -- that because its first award
4 was specifically denominated as a partial award and not a
5 final award, that the panel had jurisdiction to award
6 additional pre-judgment interest for the small period between 7 March and May, which is all that was at issue with respect to 8 that disputed pre-judgment interest amount.

9 And likewise, the panel found that it had the power under 10 the AAA rules to correct the scrivener's error, the clerical
11 error that resulted in the omission -- the inadvertent
12 omission from the partial final award of the damages amount 13 that the panel was awarding for the finding it made in the 14 partial final award that Highland Capital Management had taken 15 -- had improperly taken for its own account any of the 16 partnership's interest that had belonged to Barclay's, and 17 Highland had done that despite the Committee's express
18 disapproval of the terms of a settlement with Barclay's.

19 Importantly, Your Honor, the AAA rules specifically
20 allocate to the panel the jurisdiction to interpret the AAA
21 rules. And the Fifth Circuit has held that in circumstances
22 like this, where the applicable arbitration awards -- or 23 arbitration rules give the arbitrator the jurisdiction to 24 interpret the rules, the arbitrator's findings bind the 25 parties to the arbitrator's interpretation, so long as it is

1 within reasonable limits, even where reasonable judges and
2 arbitrators could interpret the AAA rules differently.
3 That's coming from the Communication Workers of America, AFL-
4 CIO v. Southwestern Bell Telephone Company case, 953 F.3d 822,
5 a Fifth Circuit decision from this year, 2020, Your Honor.
6 And that's cited in our -- in the Debtor's motion to approve
7 the settlement.

8 So I think it certainly is the case that the Debtor made a
9 reasonable assessment that it would be unlikely to succeed if 10 it continued to prosecute in Delaware that motion to vacate
11 those two small parts of the arbitration award.

12 Finally, Your Honor, with regard to the Cornerstone asset,
13 let me review what the current state of facts is with regard
14 to that asset. And I feel that I must need to -- I must do
15 this this because Ms. Tomkowiak, if I said that correctly, Ms.
16 Tomkowiak suggested a couple of times that the Cornerstone
17 asset somehow is an asset of the Debtor's estate. She made 18 reference to the Debtor forfeiting the Cornerstone asset or 19 giving up the Cornerstone asset. That is, simply put, Your 20 Honor, a fallacy.

21 As things stand right now, the Crusader Fund owns 22 approximately 42 percent of the shares of Cornerstone. The 23 Debtor and its managed fund, Restoration Capital Partners, 24 owns the rest. The panel ordered the Debtor, as part of its 25 award, to pay the Crusader Fund $48 million in principal plus

1 approximately $24 million in pre-judgment interest on that
2 amount, for a total of $72 million. And the award
3 specifically provides that, upon payment of that amount to the 4 Crusader Fund, the Crusader Fund should transfer its 42
5 percent interest in Cornerstone to the Debtor.

6 Your Honor, it is undisputed that the Debtor doesn't have
7 $72 million to pay to purchase those shares. We heard Mr.
8 Seery today testify that the Debtor doesn't want to acquire 9 those shares. The Debtor is in liquidation. So what the 10 parties did here was reach a compromise.

11 In addition to the substantial offset of the arbitration
12 award relating to the two-thirds of the deferred fees that I
13 already spoke about, the parties also agreed to offset a
14 negotiated amount for a fair market value of Crusader's
15 minority 42 percent shares in Cornerstone as of the time of 16 the negotiations, as Mr. Seery testified, in the spring, late
17 spring of 2020. That offset that the parties agreed to as a 18 compromise was $30.5 million.

19 Now, to be clear, Crusader and the Redeemer Committee
20 would have the right not to enter into any settlement and to 21 ask Your Honor to confirm the arbitration award or to go back
22 to Delaware and seek to lift the stay to have the award
23 confirmed there. And if we did that, then we would continue 24 to hold a claim for seventy -- you know, a portion of which 25 $72 million would be for, for sale of that -- of those

1 Cornerstone shares to the Debtor.

2 But Your Honor, that's a fantasy. We much prefer to enter
3 into a settlement here. We think that the -- I would submit 4 that the compromise that my clients and the Debtor reached to 5 allow the Debtor not to have to purchase those shares, to 6 allow for what the parties agreed to as a reasonable offset to 7 the claim amount to account for the fact that the Debtor will 8 not be purchasing their shares, is eminently fair. And it's 9 of great value to the estate. The estate doesn't have to pay
10 to buy those shares and the Debtor gets, in addition, the 11 benefit of the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Fund
12 agreeing to compromise to try to monetize its minority
13 position in Cornerstone, along with the majority position
14 that's held by Highland Capital Management and its managed
15 fund, Restoration Capital Partners.

16 And as Mr. Seery testified, there are -- Restoration
17 Capital Partners is majority-owned by a number of independent 18 investors. They're entitled to the best value for their 19 shares in Cornerstone. My clients are entitled to the best
20 value for its shares in Cornerstone. And Highland is entitled 21 to the best value for the shares it owns in Cornerstone. And 22 that value can only be maximized, Your Honor, if the company
23 is available to be monetized as a whole.

24 So I would submit, Your Honor, the compromise is eminently 25 reasonable. The Debtor, I believe, has met its burden of,

1 under the applicable Fifth Circuit case law, of demonstrating
2 that the compromise is reasonable and is fair to the estate
3 and to the creditors of the estate. And we would ask that 4 Your Honor approve the settlement. Thank you.

5 THE COURT: Thank you. Ms. Tomkowiak, you're next.

6 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Thank you, Your Honor.

7 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF UBS SECURITIES, LLC

8 MS. TOMKOWIAK: I'll try to keep (garbled) I'm 9 responding to two.

10 Your Honor, the -- this settlement is not fair, equitable,
11 or (garbled). We don't think it's a close call, either.
12 Whether you look at each component or you evaluate it as a 13 whole, as Mr. Seery purports to do, we think that the Debtor
14 did in fact roll over. The bottom line there is that the 15 compromises made by the Debtor result in Redeemer getting more
16 than a hundred percent recovery on their claim, in real
17 hundred-dollars, even using the very lowest possible value
18 that anybody has calculated for Crusader's Cornerstone shares,
19 as the Debtor did.

20 It's the Debtor's burden to show that it exercised 21 business judgment here within a range of reasonableness. They 22 haven't submitted any evidence to meet that burden or to allow 23 this Court to conduct the independent analysis that it's 24 supposed to do before approving this deal.

25 Again, the analysis of problems with it -- including with

1 respect to the way that the parties have allocated litigation
2 risk, giving a lot of value to claims which have not even 3 begun to be litigated and giving zero value to claims which,
4 in fact, are at the very late stages of litigation in Delaware
5 and could be dealt with in short order.

6 But the biggest problem, again, with the settlement is 7 that instead of the estate getting a meaningful asset that 8 could be worth up to $80 million, Redeemer effectively gets to 9 keep it and -- for $30 million.

10 We believe that the Debtor has grossly undervalued those 11 shares. Their fair market value calculation, or whatever they 12 want to call it -- they called it in their motion their fair
13 market value calculation -- is based on the very lowest end of 14 a valuation range prepared by Houlihan Lokey back in the 15 spring, despite the availability of much more recent 16 information.

17 Mr. Seery has provided no basis for using a valuation
18 back in March, and particularly in the midst of the 19 uncertainty caused by the developing pandemic at the time.
20 The testimony was, so that's when we started to negotiate this 21 deal. But the settlement was not finalized until six months
22 later. And so if there was a lot of back and forth, as Mr.
23 Morris just said in his closing, well, I guess that happened,
24 you know, six months ago, when apparently the Debtor has 25 chosen to freeze inexplicably the value of this asset.

1 Again, there is no evidence that that $30.5 million is
2 fair or within any range of reasonableness. Not only did the 3 Debtor not put in any evidence, it was successful in excluding
4 evidence that went directly to the valuation of this asset.

5 Despite succeeding on that, Mr. Seery did not quibble with 6 my colleague Mr. Clubok's questioning. He agreed with the 7 general proposition that the current value of Cornerstone is 8 higher today than what's been taken account into the 9 settlement.

10 This is a settlement of a, you know, a $190 million claim,
11 and UBS notes that the Debtor has scores of financial advisors
12 who are being paid tens of millions of dollars every month to 13 analyze claims and assets. We see their fee statements. And 14 not a single one of them, including Houlihan Lokey, anyone at 15 the premier firm of Houlihan Lokey whose names Mr. Seery did
16 not even know, are here to testify today. Or any of the other
17 financial advisors.

18 According to our expert, who is, you know, the only 19 evidence that is before this Court, Mr. Moentmann -- he does 20 this for a living; he values healthcare companies in the real 21 world, unlike Mr. Seery, who does not -- the value assigned to 22 Cornerstone in the settlement falls below any reasonable range
23 of what Cornerstone is worth today or even what it was worth
24 back in June, let alone back in March.

25 And yes, he prepared his opinion for purposes of this

1 litigation, but he's not a professional testifier. This is
2 what he does for a living. He testifies once every couple of 3 years. And he did a valuation analysis exactly like what he 4 would do in the real world for a healthcare company, as he's 5 done for the past 30 years.

6 And when he corrects for the significant flaws in the 7 assumptions used by Houlihan Lokey, the true value of the 8 asset that the Debtor is giving up -- they're giving up the 9 right to receive it. I understand that they don't have it,
10 but they -- the arbitration award explicitly said that they 11 have the right to get it. It is -- it should be theirs. And 12 they're giving up that asset. And according to Mr. Moentmann, 13 when he accounts for all of the significant flaws in the 14 assumptions used, that asset is worth double or triple what 15 the Debtor has assigned to it for settlement purposes.

16 Now, again, Mr. Seery testified today that he expects 17 Redeemer will recover one hundred percent of its allowed $137
18 million claim in real dollars. I don't -- based on those 19 numbers alone, I don't understand, respectfully, Ms.
20 Mascherin's argument that the Debtor somehow doesn't have the 21 ability to purchase the shares for $48 million.

22 I also, frankly, don't understand the argument that the 23 value can only be maximized when monetizing this asset as a
24 whole. And to be clear, I understand that argument, but I
25 don't get why that can only happen in a settlement where

1 Redeemer and the Debtor agree to work together to do that, as 2 opposed to the Debtor getting Crusader's portion of the 3 Cornerstone shares, as it was required to, and then working to 4 monetize that asset as a whole.

5 My final few points, Your Honor. I think the value of 6 Cornerstone -- it's been said a lot today that this is not a
7 valuation case, but it matters when you are looking at an 8 asset with potentially a $50 million swing in the true value
9 of it. That matters in the context of a case where the Debtor
10 has said that they expect to distribute $195 million to 11 creditors. So giving -- giving up the right to this asset
12 matters. And yes, it hurts the remaining major creditor,
13 which is UBS.

14 Now, Mr. Morris talked about, you know, UBS's motive and 15 our supposed prejudice and bias. And we have no longstanding 16 dispute with the Redeemer Committee. Ironically, it's 17 actually the Debtor and Redeemer who have had their 18 longstanding dispute. But now they've teamed up to object to 19 our claim and to, you know, strike this deal that we believe 20 provides Redeemer with a more than one hundred percent
21 recovery windfall.

22 So, Your Honor, we think the settlement should not be
23 approved, and we only -- don't think it should be approved
24 without holding the Debtor to its burden to provide actual 25 evidence, including evidence of the value of the Cornerstone

1 shares that are forfeited in this settlement.

2 And alternatively, I would just reiterate what I said in
3 my opening, that if you are inclined to approve the settlement
4 anyways, in the event that a sale of Cornerstone does occur in 5 the future and the purchase price is well above the value that 6 that asset has been assigned here, then we request that the 7 Court take the proceeds of that sale into consideration at the 8 time of plan confirmation when the distributions are to be 9 made. And it should -- the outcome of that sale should be 10 taken into account when calculating Redeemer's recovery.

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Thank you, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: Thank you.

14 Well, I thank you all for your hard work in the pleadings
15 as well as the presentations here today. I assure you that 16 we've read the paperwork very carefully and considered all
17 your evidence carefully today.

18 As we know, with regard to this motion to approve
19 compromise of controversy, the Court is guided by Bankruptcy
20 Rule 9019. And that rule does not say a heck of a lot, but 21 we've got lots of jurisprudence to guide the Court. Cases
22 such as the AWECO case, the Jackson Brewing case, the TMT
23 Trailer Ferry case, Cajun Electric, Foster Mortgage, all of 24 these were cited in the papers. And the legal standards that 25 those cases instruct this Court to use are the Court has to

1 evaluate whether the compromise and settlement is fair and 2 equitable and in the best interest of creditors when 3 considering three things: One, the probability of success on 4 the merits in future litigation, with due consideration for 5 uncertainty of law and fact; two, the complexity and likely 6 duration of litigation and any attendant inconvenience and 7 delay; and three, all other factors bearing on the wisdom of 8 the compromise.

9 The Court is also supposed to consider the paramount
10 interests of the creditors.

11 So I will back up and find that we have had all required
12 notice of this motion. And when applying those legal 13 standards I just outlined, the Court finds that this 14 settlement is eminently reasonable, fair and equitable, in the 15 best interest of creditors, and so therefore I am approving
16 it.

17 I will note a couple of pieces of evidence, or more than a 18 couple, a few pieces of evidence that were especially 19 persuasive to me. First, I will say that Mr. Seery's
20 testimony was very credible to me. And I do believe that he 21 did not consider this a laydown by any means, and I don't 22 think it was by any means. The facts are that this settles
23 many, many years of litigation, as someone said, in five 24 different fora, in three different countries. And there was a
25 nine-day trial in front of a very respected arbitration panel.

1 And I agree with the verbiage of Ms. Mascherin that the 2 arbitration award is very much sacrosanct. This isn't a
3 situation where, you know, if I lifted the stay and allowed
4 things to go forward in the Delaware Court to see if they
5 would confirm the arbitration award, it's not a situation
6 where there would be a heck of a lot of arguments the Debtor
7 could make to refute the $190 million award or knock it down
8 very much. Things like fraud, misconduct, a very narrow set 9 of circumstances would have to be demonstrated. It certainly 10 wouldn't sit in the shoes of an appellate court.

11 So I think that is a very relevant factor that certainly 12 shows the Debtor didn't lay down here. The Debtor's options 13 were narrow with regard to challenging very many aspects of 14 the arbitration award.

15 I believe that Mr. Seery and the board did a lot of due 16 diligence as far as evaluating their options here. I believe 17 that there were good-faith arm's-length negotiations. And 18 specifically, the reductions, if you will, seem extremely 19 reasonable to this Court.

20 With regard to the $20 million credit on the $190 million
21 award for the deferred fees, it appears to me the Debtor got a
22 pretty good deal on that one. You know, it looks like to me
23 we really started at a number around $43 million that would 24 have gone up with time in interest. And there was a strong
25 argument that, once the Debtor paid that back, that there

1 would be no obligation to ever kick in under the Faithful
2 Servant Doctrine for the Redeemer Committee/Crusader to ever
3 have to pay it back again to the Debtor. So I think that $20
4 million number settled on is a very fair number.

5 With regard to the $30.5 million number for the 6 Cornerstone credit that has been so contentious today, I
7 respect the arguments, but ultimately it bears emphasizing
8 this was a negotiated amount, not a situation where there was 9 a precise valuation that was even required.

10 And I think it is very significant that we're talking
11 about a minority interest, a 42 percent minority interest that 12 Highland was required to buy back. And one could almost take 13 judicial notice that minority interests in private companies
14 are darn hard to value, and some might say should be 15 discounted.

16 And while I found Mr. Moentmann to certainly be well
17 qualified and explained well his different views, at bottom, I 18 don't find them to be as persuasive as Mr. Seery, in that he 19 has spent two weeks on the assignment and 20 to 30 hours. You
20 know, certainly, I think reasonable minds can differ, but at 21 bottom the $30.5 million number was within the range of 22 reasonableness for a compromise on this amount.

23 I'll just emphasize further that, with regard to 24 Cornerstone, I felt like the $30 million CARES Act loan should 25 be regarded as a huge question mark, uncertainty, as far as

1 affected value. The fact that no one knows if it's forgivable
2 or not, well, that's a pretty big deal. And it's just one of 3 many reasons I think there's a big range of possibilities
4 here, so that the number that the Debtor settled on is 5 certainly within the range of reasonableness.

6 All right. So, with that, I approve the compromise and 7 will look to Debtor's counsel to submit a form of order. All
8 right. Thank you again.

9 We now are going to turn to Acis, and let's talk about 10 timing. Mr. Morris, are you the key presenter on this one or 11 is Mr. Demo going to be?

12 MR. MORRIS: No, I will be the presenter on this one,
13 though Mr. Demo will address the Court certainly with respect
14 to two of the legal issues on the Daugherty objection. But 15 otherwise this one is all mine as well.

16 THE COURT: All right. So, shall we roll to 17 extremely brief opening statements? I guess one thing I'll 18 need you to tell me is, do we really have five objections, or 19 do we have two? Have the sort of limited objections been 20 resolved, or no?

21 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, that is an excellent
22 question. They haven't been resolved consensually, but they 23 ought to be, based on the testimony from Saturday's 24 deposition. And if I can, I'd be happy to just start with 25 that issue first, if you'll just give me a moment.

1 (Pause.)

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTOR

4 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Putting aside Mr. Dondero and Mr.
5 Daugherty for the moment, there are three other objections:
6 One by CLO (garbled). That was filed at Docket No. 1177. One
7 by Highland CLO Funding Limited, filed at Docket No. 1191.
8 And one filed by HarbourVest at Docket No. 1195.

9 I believe all three of these objections or responses
10 either objected to or reserved their right to object to one 11 provision of the settlement agreement pursuant to which the 12 Debtor would have the obligation to transfer its rights in an 13 entity called Highland HCF Advisors Limited to Acis if the 14 Debtor had received written advice from nationally-recognized
15 external counsel that it is even permissive -- permissible to 16 make that transfer.

17 That can be found, Your Honor -- the settlement agreement
18 is Exhibit 1 to my declaration, and I believe when I offer
19 that into evidence it'll be Exhibit #3. But that's where the 20 settlement can be found, and this is Paragraph 1(c). And that 21 matter really, from the Debtor's perspective, has been 22 resolved. Mr. Seery testified on Saturday and he will testify
23 again today that the Debtor has obtained the advice of the 24 WilmerHale firm, I believe, and that advice is that it is --
25 they cannot give the comfort that if they transferred that

1 asset that it would be legally permissible and that the Debtor
2 would bear no risk.

3 So, from my perspective, that objection or reservation of 4 rights, depending on the party, should be resolved.

5 There were two other issues, I think, raised. I know it
6 was HarbourVest. I'm not sure who the other one was. But 7 they're both related to whether or not the release applied to 8 them. HarbourVest in particular objected on the ground that 9 the release -- to make sure that the release doesn't release
10 any claims that HarbourVest may have. It does not, Your 11 Honor. I think a plain reading of the release shows that 12 HarbourVest is not implicated.

13 In addition, HCLOF also -- HarbourVest is an investor in 14 HCLOF. And HarbourVest -- HCLOF, rather, Your Honor, is 15 specifically excluded from the release. So HarbourVest is not 16 included, and HCLOF, the entity in which HarbourVest invested,
17 is actually specifically carved out of the release, so that 18 there's no ambiguity.

19 So I think, on that basis, Your Honor, perhaps it would be 20 most efficient to hear from those three particular parties.
21 You know, Mr. Seery will testify, and if you want to take him
22 out of turn and do that now on the issue of the advisors and 23 the advice that he's received, I'd be happy to do that.

24 THE COURT: All right. Well, maybe we should first
25 hear from our objectors.

1 Let me start with HarbourVest. I have misplaced for a
2 minute my appearance. I think it was Ms. Weisgerber. Was it
3 Ms. Weisgerber who was appearing for HarbourVest?

4 MS. WEISGERBER: Yes.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MS. WEISGERBER: Yes, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Do you -- have you heard what you need to 8 hear to withdraw your limited objection, or no?

9 MS. WEISGERBER: Your Honor, I think we're -- we're 10 pleased to hear those updates from the Debtor. I think, from 11 our perspective, we'd just look to a couple of housekeeping
12 matters regarding documentation of this. Specifically with 13 respect to the release point, in the settlement itself there
14 are certain entities that are explicitly carved out of the 15 release, and we would ask that HarbourVest be included as an 16 explicitly carved-out party, for the avoidance of doubt,
17 whether that appears in the settlement agreement or in the 18 order approving the settlement.

19 So, I'll pause on that, and then I'll just turn to the 20 second issue, to confirm if the Debtors are amenable to that.

21 MR. MORRIS: Well, we don't have the exclusive right
22 in this regard. If you'll give me one moment, I'm going to 23 just confer --

24 (Pause.)

25 MR. MORRIS: -- the Court to the next issue, if you

1 may, while I'm trying to resolve this. Because that is
2 certainly our intent. We never intended HarbourVest to be
3 part of this. And we would have no objection if the Court,
4 either through an order or otherwise, made it clear that
5 HarbourVest is not subject to the release.

6 MS. PATEL: Well, let me chime in. Mr. Morris, if 7 it's me that you're looking to confer with, I'm not sure, or 8 if it's Mr. Seery, but I think I can go ahead and address
9 this.

10 And, Your Honor, just to back up for a quick second on 11 this issue, I wanted to just, of course, remind not only the 12 Court but the other parties of the overall structure here.
13 And as Your Honor may remember, Acis is the portfolio manager
14 for certain CLOs in which Highland CLO Funding owns the -- 15 either the majority or all of the equity strip and equity
16 piece.

17 Separate and apart from that, Highland CLO Funding's
18 investors, conversely, are an entity by the name of CLO
19 Holdco, who has filed a limited reservation of rights, solely,
20 frankly, on the HCF Advisor transfer piece. More on that in a
21 minute, if you care to hear it. But, and also HarbourVest.
22 And HarbourVest, just to refresh the Court's recollection and 23 the other parties, was the secret third-party investor that 24 you heard oodles and oodles and oodles of testimony regarding 25 during the Acis bankruptcy case.

1 And then Highland and certain Highland employees'
2 retirement funds own the other remaining two percent equity
3 interest in Highland CLO Funding.

4 So what we're really talking about here, Your Honor, in 5 connection with HarbourVest, is something that is one step
6 removed from even the equity piece. So I just want to be on 7 record as saying, number one, Acis would dispute very hotly
8 that any duties -- and whether any duties are owed to entities
9 such as CLO Holdco or HarbourVest or HCLOF. There is -- it's 10 frankly beyond the scope of the hearing today. And our 11 position is that, certainly as it relates to HarbourVest or 12 CLO Holdco, Acis owes no duties by virtue of its role as 13 portfolio manager to the Acis CLOs.

14 Secondly, Your Honor, let's go to the issue of whether 15 there are even any potential claims. And with respect to 16 that, you know, there's at least, if not by implication, and 17 perhaps not in connection directly with HarbourVest, but 18 others that are objecting, so I'll just go ahead and address
19 the issue now: There are implications of some sort of 20 mismanagement. And I and Acis want to be clear on record as 21 saying those are obviously hotly-disputed issues as well.
22 Your Honor, frankly, those types of implications or claims are 23 unfounded and specious with respect to any mismanagement
24 allegations, and are frankly offensive, given the facts here.
25 Many are based by certain of the objectors and have -- on

1 prior -- testimony provided prior to the confirmation and have
2 been soundly rejected by this Bankruptcy Court.

3 Second, these Acis CLOs, frankly, Your Honor, have 4 performed either as well or better than the broad CLO market
5 since Brigade took over from Highland. And as you may recall,
6 Your Honor, Brigade started behind a $300 million eight-ball
7 created by former Highland Capital Management leadership. So
8 to argue that there is some form of Acis mismanagement is 9 frankly just jaw-dropping.

10 All of this, Your Honor, is particularly remarkable in 11 light of the fact that these deals are some of the only deals
12 now -- and by deals, I mean, the Acis CLOs -- passed through 13 the investment period. They haven't been reset. Acis has 14 tried to engage in reset discussions, and Your Honor heard
15 about this in the Acis status conference and in the Acis
16 bankruptcy, but I want to make sure it's on the record here:
17 Acis tried to engage in reset discussions with HCLOF -- again,
18 the entity in which HarbourVest, et al. have the investments
19 -- but they've been rebuffed, and in fact have been sued by 20 HCLOF's investor once removed, CLO Holdco, and then ultimately 21 the DAF (phonetic), and been named in all the scorched-earth
22 litigation that HCLOF has brought against Acis and Mr. Terry
23 in this Court and all around the world.

24 So, this allegation that there is some form of 25 mismanagement and that there are claims that need to be

1 reserved, again, I think are angels on the heads of pins.

2 Nevertheless, I think, to the extent it makes somebody
3 feel better to include that language in there, I think
4 HarbourVest's rights -- and I'll be specific to HarbourVest
5 here, since they're the party raising the issue -- to the 6 extent that they are concerned that the release somehow
7 impacts them, to the extent that they flow through HCLOF, I
8 think that they're already covered. But if you want some 9 belt-and-suspenders language that they're not included either,
10 that their rights that flow through HCLOF are also excluded
11 from release, then I suppose that's okay.

12 THE COURT: All right. So, we got the agreement of 13 Acis that, for belts and suspenders, they are agreeable to 14 language in any order approving this settlement, if there
15 should be one, they're agreeable to clarification that 16 HarbourVest claims are not released pursuant to this
17 settlement.

18 So, Mr. Morris, back to you.

19 Mr. Seery, you all would be good with that extra language?

20 MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: All right. So, with that assurance, Ms.
22 -- I'm sorry, Ms. Weisgerber, you are withdrawing the 23 HarbourVest objection. Is that correct?

24 MS. WEISGERBER: I just wanted to address briefly the 25 other issue regarding the transfer of Highland HCF Advisor and

1 confirm, so it will not go forward, whether it will either be
2 carved out of the settlement agreement or whether the Court
3 will not be approving that transfer as part of the settlement
4 order. Again, just confirm that it's been excepted, it's not
5 going forward, but we just want to be -- it to be confirmed
6 that, with our concerns if later the Debtors got subsequent 7 legal advice and attempted to engage in a transfer. I think,
8 again, we always say belts and suspenders, Your Honor, but,
9 you know, my client has a history here that we'd like to be 10 certain about what we're getting when dealing with all the 11 parties here.

12 THE COURT: Well, Mr. Morris, --

13 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

14 THE COURT: -- we heard you say that you didn't get 15 the legal advice you needed and so you aren't going to be 16 transferring direct or indirect interests in HHCF pursuant to 17 the settlement agreement. Is there something you can add to 18 -- I don't know. This is it. There's --

19 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

20 THE COURT: Go ahead.

21 MR. MORRIS: If you want to put it in an order,
22 that's fine, but I don't see any reason to go and tinker over 23 language in the settlement agreement. If Your Honor, you'll 24 make a finding based on Mr. Seery's testimony that the Debtor
25 has received advice, and based on that advice, the asset will

1 not be transferred. And that'll be part of the order, it
2 seems to me. We don't need to do this.

3 THE COURT: All right. So, Ms. Patel, you agree?
4 It's not happening?

5 MS. PATEL: That's -- that is correct, Your Honor.
6 We understand that the Debtor attempted to and has otherwise
7 complied with the terms of the settlement agreement. They had
8 -- they did not get that opinion from nationally-recognized
9 counsel. And Acis understands where that ended up.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MS. PATEL: So, no. No problem.

12 THE COURT: All right. So there, there's your 13 answer, Ms. Weisgerber, on both of your points.

14 So I'll move on, I guess, to Highland CLO Funding now.
15 Are you in a position to say if your objections are resolved
16 by these announcements? Ms. Matsumura, are you there?

17 MS. MATSUMURA: Your Honor, my colleague, Mr.
18 Maloney, had joined the call, but perhaps he's having 19 technical difficulties.

20 Our -- based on what's been said here, our reservation or 21 rights has been resolved.

22 Of course, the other issue that we had that I don't think
23 Mr. Morris addressed was the business of the appeal. I don't 24 think we need anything else said on that. We just wanted to 25 note for the record that we don't consent to dismissing our

1 portion of that appeal.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Well, let's turn, then, to Mr.
3 Kane, CLO Holdco. Have you heard what you needed to hear to 4 get comfortable?

5 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor. John Kane for CLO
6 Holdco. The discussion about the satisfaction of our concerns
7 on Section 1(c) of the settlement agreement has resolved our 8 concerns.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Very good.

10 All right. So we're down, I guess, to Mr. Dondero and Mr.
11 Daugherty. All right. Mr. Morris, did you want to make 12 anything further as far as an opening statement, or call your 13 witness?

14 MR. MORRIS: Yes. You know what, I'm happy to call
15 the witness, and then I'll reserve my time for closing
16 argument, if Your Honor (garbled).

17 MR. DEMO: Mr. Morris, this is Greg Demo. Just as 18 one more brief item before we do that, certain of the 19 employees are also being released by this agreement. We've 20 had conversations with their counsel. They didn't file a 21 formal reservation, but they asked a few clarifying questions,
22 which I believe that we and Ms. Patel are in agreement with.
23 And so those employees who are being released by the 24 settlement with Acis, we did want to clarify on the record
25 that the release does not affect any of their rights against

1 -- to assert a claim against the estate. Some of these 2 employees have filed proofs of claim. Others may have 3 administrative claims. And the settlement does not affect 4 their rights under those claims.

5 The settlement also does not affect their rights under the 6 -- to vote for or against the plan.

7 And then, finally, if any of those employees are 8 subpoenaed or subject to discovery requests, it does not 9 affect their right to truthfully respond to those.

10 THE COURT: All right. Anyone disagree with that 11 announcement? (No response.) All right.

12 MS. PATEL: Acis confirms, confirms the agreement,
13 Your Honor.

14 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

15 All right. So I promised people you will get ample time
16 to do closing arguments, but I think, given how late in the 17 day it is, we need to just go to the evidence. And so, Mr.
18 Morris, you call Mr. Seery?

19 MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor. The Debtor calls James
20 Seery.

21 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Seery, are you there?
22 Can you hear me?

23 MR. SEERY: I am, Your Honor. Can you hear me?

24 THE COURT: We can hear you. We can't see you yet,
25 but if you'll say "Testing 1, 2" it'll pick you up.

Seery - Direct

179

1 MR. SEERY: Testing 1, 2.

2 THE COURT: All right. There you are. All right.

3 Well, I've sworn you in once today. Do you understand you're 4 still under oath?

5 MR. SEERY: I do, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: All right. You may proceed.

7 MR. MORRIS: All right. Thank you very much, Your
8 Honor.

9 I don't know if anybody else has had the issue, but there
10 were a couple of times when the screen froze for a second or 11 three. So we'll just see how it goes.

12 THE COURT: Okay.

13 JAMES P. SEERY, DEBTOR'S WITNESS, PREVIOUSLY SWORN

14 DIRECT EXAMINATION

15 BY MR. MORRIS:

16 Q Good afternoon, Mr. Seery. We're here on the 9019 motion
17 for Acis. Can you describe for the Court generally the 18 diligence that you and the independent board members did to 19 educate yourself about the claims that the Debtor had against 20 Acis and the claims that Acis had against the Debtor?

21 A Yes. Recognizing that we're making a separate record, I
22 will -- I'll do all the points, but I'll try to do them
23 slightly more quickly, since it's very similar to what I
24 testified with respect to Redeemer.

25 When we were appointed as directors, we initially did a

002969

180

1 lot of work around various claimants and what claims they had,
2 particularly those who were on the Creditors' Committee. And
3 that necessarily led us to dig into the Acis bankruptcy case
4 and the issues surrounding both Mr. Terry and Acis, of which 5 the Court is very familiar.

6 Starting on the very first day of the case, when -- first 7 day that we were appointed, we actually met with Mr. Terry and 8 his counsel, discussed the issues that they raised with 9 respect to their claims and what they thought were substantial
10 claims coming out of the Acis bankruptcy against the Highland
11 estate.

12 After that, we engaged our counsel to research the claims,
13 to do significant work around the legal issues.

14 Early on, as those -- as that work was going on, Mr. Nelms
15 and I ended up going to a meeting with Mr. Terry and Ms.
16 Patel, extensive debriefing on their claims and challenging a 17 number of the positions that they had. We took that back and 18 did extensive work with the team, which is the team at both 19 Highland, in terms of the underlying factual issues related to 20 the Acis case, as well as the legal issues both from Acis and 21 as were articulated by Ms. Patel and Mr. Terry.

22 When they filed their claim, we dug into that completely
23 and analyzed it both with respect to the legal and factual
24 issues, and had numerous meetings with the board and with 25 counsel with respect to each and every section of the 002970

Seery - Direct

181

1 complaint, as well as the -- how that would dovetail into our
2 case.

3 Q Did you have an opportunity to review any of the Court's
4 decisions in the Acis bankruptcy case?

5 A Yes, we did. We -- I did, and I know that each Mr. Nelms
6 and Mr. Dubel did as well.

7 There were numerous decisions, including the confirmation
8 of orders and the (inaudible) that started, you know, back in 9 the arbitration decision, which we also all read, and then 10 right into the case, into the plan of reorganization, and the 11 specifics with respect to the various transfers that were 12 articulated or laid out in the Acis complaint.

13 Q Did you receive advice and review yourself the advice on 14 issues, on legal issues such as those arising out of the 15 Mirant decision, and did you read that case?

16 A I read -- I read Mirant. I read all of the cases cited in 17 Mirant. I think I read most of its progeny, although it's got 18 a lot of different avenues that courts have taken. I was 19 familiar with the case as an investor because we invested in 20 the Mirant debt back in -- when Mirant had filed, and so I was 21 familiar and aware of it.

22 I think the issues with respect to Mirant are some of the 23 things that I was already familiar with, but we dug in again,
24 and I certainly reread the cases.

25 Q And did the board request and did (inaudible) extensive

002971

Seery - Direct

182

1 analyses, written memorandum covering the issues surrounding
2 the Acis claims?

3 A Like the Redeemer case, the Redeemer issues, we requested
4 memoranda from the Debtor's counsel. Debtor's counsel did
5 extensive work on the issues, both with respect to the Acis
6 case as well as the complaint coming out of the case. We had 7 extensive meetings regarding that memoranda, and then sent
8 counsel back to work harder and to come back, challenging
9 their assumptions and some of their conclusions. So it was -- 10 it was an aggressive effort by the team.

11 In addition, we incorporated the Highland team because 12 they had the factual underpinnings. We had our own analysis, 13 but we wanted to see if there was something we were missing to 14 really challenge some of the assumptions that we were making
15 with respect to the claims.

16 Q Thank you.

17 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, a lot of the factual
18 background is really contained in the Court's own rulings from 19 the Acis case, so we're not going to spend any time on that.
20 I would ask the Court to take judicial notice of its own
21 decisions, including the decisions not of this Court but of 22 the District Court on appeal with respect to the matters that 23 were handled in the Acis bankruptcy.

24 THE COURT: Okay. I'll do that.

25 MR. MORRIS: Is that -- 002972

Seery - Direct

183

1 THE COURT: I'll do that.

2 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Thank you.

3 BY MR. MORRIS:

4 Q Mr. Seery, during the course of your diligence, did you
5 learn that Acis and the Debtor and related parties were 6 litigating in different forums?

7 A It didn't -- yeah, the answer is yes. We understood that.
8 We also, you know, received copies of litigation, and even 9 from related-party litigation, from my lawyer, Ms. Patel, the 10 lawyer for Mr. Terry, with respect to various litigations, 11 including the Guernsey litigation and litigation initiated in 12 New York. Obviously, the underlying pleadings from the 13 bankruptcy adversary proceeding in Acis that became the basis
14 of the proof of claim in this case.

15 Q And did you learn that there were also proceedings that 16 were pending, or frankly, that were commenced after you were 17 appointed, in the Texas state court system related to certain
18 of Highland's employees?

19 A Yes, and those, those we learned from the employees.
20 Basically, I think coming out of the Acis case and the 21 positions that Mr. Terry had, litigation was initiated against 22 certain employees that we thought was pretty aggressive
23 litigation, frankly. And it was certainly disturbing, even if 24 -- even if one is indemnified as an employee and there is some 25 insurance, it's unsettling to be sued. So it's certainly sent

002973

1 a ripple through the organization.

2 Q And under the proposed settlement that the Debtor has 3 negotiated with Acis and (garbled), is the litigation that
4 you've just described going to end, at least for the Debtor,
5 the employees that signed the releases, and the affiliates
6 that are specifically identified in the release?

7 A Yes. As a management team and a board of directors, but 8 also as a CEO, it's critical to us to try to get as much of 9 this litigation resolved as possible.

10 As the Court is aware, this is some other litigation
11 that's gone on for a really long time. It's multi-front. It
12 involves multiple parties. It has collateral damage like the 13 employees. And we wanted to try to resolve all of that 14 litigation, to the extent that we could. We can't bind this,
15 as the Court heard earlier some of the -- those who had 16 reservation of rights. We can't bind entities that we don't 17 own or control. And if it's an entity that we manage, it
18 would have to be in the best interests of that entity in order
19 for us to bind that entity.

20 So we wanted it to be as full as possible. We wanted it
21 to be -- if we were going to have a settlement, that it had to 22 be obviously fair and beneficial to the estate. And if we 23 weren't, we were going to take a pretty aggressive litigation
24 posture vis-à-vis the claims.

25 Q All right. Let's shift from -- well, before I shift, is

Seery - Direct

185

1 there anything that you think the Court wants to hear in 2 regard to the diligence that you and the board did to educate
3 yourself about the nature, scope, and value of the Acis
4 claims, Mr. and Mrs. Terry's claims, and the Debtor's claims
5 against Acis?

6 A I think the one additional factor that we have in this
7 claim as opposed to Redeemer -- because Redeemer, although it
8 wasn't completely done before the mediation, and there were 9 certainly hard negotiations after the mediation started, it
10 was outside of mediation. In addition to all the work that we 11 did leading up to our objection to claim, our initial 12 negotiations with Ms. Patel as counsel for Acis, and then Mr.
13 Terry and his own counsel, we also prepared for the mediation.
14 And that was an incredible amount of work, to really examine 15 our own positions, understanding the failings, the weaknesses,
16 and also the strengths, set up what we thought was the most 17 appropriate way to proceed in a mediation there. We hoped to 18 come out with a settlement, if possible, but knowing 19 (inaudible). So we had an additional step with respect to the 20 Acis claim that we didn't have in the Redeemer.

21 Q Well, let's talk about the period prior to the mediation,
22 because obviously you weren't able to, as in your testimony,
23 you weren't able to reach an agreement prior to that. But can 24 you describe for the Court in general terms how the 25 negotiations went, who took part in the negotiations, so the 002975

186

1 Court has a good mindset as to the level of arm's length of
2 discussions that took place?

3 A Well, in the pre-mediation negotiations, we, as I said,
4 had had extensive dealings with and among counsel, and the 5 board was kept regularly informed of any of those discussions.
6 In addition, each of the board members -- Mr. Dubel, Mr.
7 Nelms, and myself -- had direct negotiations with Mr. Terry
8 regarding the very specific pieces of his complaint or of the 9 Acis complaint. And those were numerous, and they went on for 10 a considerable amount of time.

11 We initially made settlement offers to Acis and to Mr.
12 Terry, really, around the -- around the crucible of what this 13 -- monetization plan. As I mentioned earlier this morning, we 14 still hoped to have a more grand bargain, and maybe that will 15 get rid of more litigation. As I mentioned further, Mr.
16 Dondero' has made a proposal that I think is -- certainly 17 merits additional work. But we, we set up the plan that is on 18 file that will in front of the Court on Thursday, and it's the 19 alternative plan, but it sets up a crucible that if you are --
20 if we're unable to settle, we're going to litigate claims.
21 And we're still going to be open to settling. I think that -- 22 that sort of fostered some early pre-mediation dialogue with 23 Acis and Mr. Terry to set up a possibility that something
24 could get done.

25 Q Is it fair to say that at certain points during these 002976

187

1 negotiations frustration set in? Did they -- were they
2 difficult negotiations? Were they -- how would you
3 characterize them?

4 A I would say, to be perfectly fair, and not at all
5 aggrandizing to anybody or flattering, they were arm's length
6 and they were hard negotiations, but they were extremely 7 professional. So I don't think there was, you know, ever any 8 particular difficulty, animus, you know, pre-mediation. The 9 mediation might have gotten a little hot, but at the 10 mediation, we don't want to go into details, but it was very 11 -- it was very professional. It was very arm's-length but it
12 was very professional. It was -- it was slow going.

13 Q I do want to spend just a moment talking about the 14 objection that the Debtor filed to the Acis claim. Do you 15 recall that the Debtor filed an objection to the Acis claim?

16 A Yes.

17 Q Do you recall the arguments? You know, in general, what 18 was the position that the Debtor took with respect to the Acis
19 claim in its objection?

20 A I think our objection had three main components. Number 21 one, and maybe it had good merit, it's legally valid, but some 22 very technical objections. So, we objected to some specific 23 allegations regarding either constructive fraudulent
24 conveyances or fraudulent conveyances, whereas the Acis
25 complaint alleges that the Debtor got them, and some of our 002977

Seery - Direct

188

1 objections were things like no, we didn't get them, a
2 subsidiary got it. And so that would be a technical
3 objection, which I think has merit. You know, as an equitable
4 argument, it could certainly be argued that, well, you control
5 that a hundred percent or 99-1/2 percent, so how do you say
6 you didn't get the benefit? So there were those types of 7 issues.

8 Some of them were, I think, what I would call (inaudible),
9 that they were excellent arguments and they would have been 10 very difficult for Acis and Mr. Terry to ever overcome.

11 The other big overriding objection that we had was that we 12 -- we wanted to get around the Mirant holding and really lean
13 on the equities of the case. And so our position was that,
14 while -- while Acis and Mr. Terry had gone through a difficult 15 time, they had a plan of reorganization, and ultimately -- 16 ultimately, Mr. Terry would receive the full amount of his 17 original arbitration award, less the amount he paid for the 18 equity, and that that should probably be enough from an 19 equitable perspective to satisfy him, as opposed to having 20 claims against our estate. Our estate.

21 And the third, which ties into this, was an interesting
22 Supreme Court case, and it just -- Punta -- it'll come back to 23 me. Which was an argument, I think it's a good argument, 24 hasn't been really applied in bankruptcy often, but that the 25 buyer of an estate doesn't get to get the benefit of claims

002978

Seery - Direct

189

1 because -- against the former owners of the estate or the
2 company because that was factored into the price.

3 I think the challenge with that is, in the bankruptcy
4 context, these claims are often preserved and always pursued.
5 Or often pursued. So there was a challenge to that part of 6 it. But I think we were -- you know, we had solid technical 7 grounds on many of the objections, and we had, I think, a
8 good, creative argument on merit -- on Mirant that really was 9 dependent, though, on the perception of the equities of the 10 case.

11 Q Okay. There is a mediation privilege here, so I don't 12 want to divulge anything about the mediation or the end -- the 13 following. Just some very specific questions. Did the -- was 14 -- did the Court enter an order pursuant to which the Debtor,
15 Acis, and others participated in the mediation?

16 A Yes.

17 Q Did the Debtor submit a mediation statement in connection
18 with the mediation?

19 A Yes, an extensive one.

20 Q And was the agreement -- I think it's already been 21 revealed to the Court, but we'll do it again -- was the 22 settlement -- were the settlement terms agreed upon during the 23 mediation?

24 A Yes. And the -- just to be clear and not to reveal the 25 specifics, that part of mediation was very hard-fought. And 002979

Seery - Direct

190

1 then in order to get the actual terms of the deal done, which
2 was exceedingly difficult -- were just good negotiations on 3 each side, I think -- that was done just directly between the 4 parties without the mediators. The actual drafting of the 5 provisions, the structuring of the releases, the limitations
6 on those releases, those were negotiated by the parties
7 without the mediators. The product -- the settlement is a
8 product of the mediation, but those specific pieces were 9 actually done between the parties directly, without the 10 mediators.

11 Q Thank you for the clarification. So, at some point early 12 in the summer, the Debtor files an objection, pursuant to 13 which it claims it has no liability. Is that fair?

14 A I -- I think that's fair, yeah. I think we -- we believed 15 we had a defense to -- at least some defense to every one of 16 their points.

17 Q And then you come out of the mediation and you have this 18 agreement that we're now asking the Court to approve; is that
19 right?

20 A That's correct.

21 Q Okay. Can you just explain to the Court the factors that 22 you and your fellow board members took into account,
23 considered, debated, in deciding that this was a fair and 24 reasonable deal?

25 A Sure. We -- we did believe we had good, meritorious

002980

191

1 defenses, and certainly defenses that we put up in good faith,
2 but we had a lot of risk. And so when we went through each
3 count, we thought about the risks that the prior rulings of 4 the Court were in the Acis case and how that might affect our 5 own attempt to deflect our liability.

6 Some of them, we looked at and we thought those were 7 actually, if we could get that settlement as part of it, it
8 would be a pretty straightforward trade. So with respect to 9 an intercompany note that's about $10 million, it was arguably
10 (inaudible) transferred from -- from Acis, it was transferred 11 -- its claim was it was transferred to Highland. Highland
12 paid on the note. It was actually transferred to an entity
13 that Highland owns and controls. That transfer was done
14 without consideration, was about $10 million. We would have 15 been liable on that note.

16 We now believe that, for example, that one, we had very 17 little defense on other than a technical defense, and that we 18 would have -- we'd have -- not going to have any liability on 19 it because we effectively owe it to ourself, and now we 20 believe it can be recharacterized or should have been 21 recharacterized as equity in the first instance.

22 So, there are a number of provisions like that. And it's 23 a long complaint. There are a number of allegations that are 24 duplicative, but things like changing the fees. We thought
25 that you could argue that the fee change was a market change

002981

Seery - Direct

192

1 and made sense in the context of what Highland was doing, and 2 I think that's a good, valid defense. The problem with it was
3 the timing. And like a lot of the things in the Acis case,
4 the timing did not help with respect to the equities tilting
5 in favor of Highland. They tilted more towards Acis and Mr.
6 Terry.

7 So when we went through count by count, we put risk
8 probabilities and thought about whether we would be able to 9 prevail or whether there was an opportunity to settle.

10 In addition, you know, just like Redeemer, if this case is 11 going to get resolved, we're going to have to reach
12 settlements. They're not going to be our opportune -- not 13 going to be the best outcome that we would hope. Our best 14 outcome was zero. Our best outcome with Redeemer would have 15 been to deduct everything. But these are settlements that we 16 think are fair and reasonable based upon the risks of -- the 17 likelihood of success, the risks and the rewards of the -- the 18 timing, and the cost.

19 Q And the cost that we're referring to is the cost of 20 litigation; do I have that right?

21 A That's correct.

22 Q Okay.

23 A But by the way, just the cost on these settlements is not 24 just the cost of the two sides' litigation. It's we have a
25 bankruptcy case that, you know, as I've testified before,

002982

Seery - Direct

193

1 Highland's employees do a really good job doing the job they
2 do. The company has a small operating burn. The case is just
3 chewing up the value of the assets. And if everything
4 litigates until the end, we're not going to be in a position
5 to make very good distributions at all.

6 So there's a compelling argument that we should be trying
7 to settle any claims that are meritorious. We have no reason
8 to settle claims that are not meritorious, but claims that are 9 meritorious, we should try to settle if we can.

10 Q Okay. Let's talk for a moment about some of the claims
11 other than the main Acis claims, because there's a few, and I
12 just -- quickly. Claim No. 156 is characterized in our -- as 13 the Terry claim. That's the claim that relates to the taking 14 of the retirement funds. Can you just explain to the Court
15 the board's rationale and their reasoning in deciding to treat
16 the claim in the manner that is being proposed under the 17 settlement?

18 A Yeah, I think this one is again pretty straightforward, 19 that Highland, you know, had arguable justification for the 20 treatment of that account. We went through it pretty closely.
21 It ended up with Mr. Terry and Mrs. Terry receiving no value
22 from the -- the value from his -- from his 401(k). And we 23 thought that this was a claim that was pretty straightforward
24 that should have been settled years ago. And that -- and it's 25 not a large amount of money, but it's, we think, in the 002983

Seery - Direct

194

1 context of the case, the right answer was to simply settle
2 that one for the full value of the claim.

3 Q Thank you. And Claim #155 is defined as the Acis, LP
4 claim. I think that's the claim arising out of the NWCC
5 litigation in New York. Can you just describe briefly for the 6 Court what that -- your understanding of what that claim is 7 and why the Debtor has chosen to enter into the agreement for 8 the settlement of that claim?

9 A Yeah. And this is another one. It's not as personal and 10 difficult in terms of settling it, but it is one that's 11 nettlesome. Highland -- it's a long saga, but Highland had 12 retained a party to assist with some (inaudible) kind of 13 financing. It turned out it didn't either want or need it.
14 It turned over the contract. It owed a small amount of money
15 under the contract. And then it just didn't pay. And that 16 party sued in New York Supreme Court, and then Highland was 17 deleterious. Its counsel just failed to respond.

18 Ultimately, after getting an extension, its counsel
19 responded. Its counsel responded, including with respect to 20 Acis. Unfortunately, Acis was controlled by a trustee, so
21 Acis then never -- never got the proper notices. And the case
22 proceeded to Acis's detriment, and this is the cost of the 23 fees to try to undo that, which ultimately Acis was able to 24 do. It's still, I believe, a defendant in the case, but was 25 able to -- to separate from default-type judgments and risks

002984

1 it had incurred because Highland's counsel had not properly
2 dealt with the case.

3 Ultimately, the case went against Highland. I think it's 4 one that should not have gone against it. And what was a very 5 small amount that was owed is now a few hundred grand.

6 Q Hmm. And then the last piece of the puzzle, I believe, is 7 the satisfaction of the fees incurred in connection with 8 Guernsey. Can you describe for the Court your understanding
9 of what that provision of the settlement pertains to and why
10 the Debtor believes it's in the best interests of creditors to 11 do that?

12 A Yes. The Guernsey litigation was brought by HCLOF in 13 Guernsey. The Debtor was not part of it. However, the Debtor
14 has an advisory agreement through HCF that we talked about 15 earlier. And Acis and Mr. Terry took the view that we had the 16 ability to stop that litigation. We actually went out and had 17 outside counsel tell us we did not have that ability. And 18 after doing -- doing work on it. But it was one of those 19 issues, again, a nettlesome one, where HCLOF lost in Guernsey.
20 Guernsey is a loser-pays jurisdiction. And this is one of 21 those items that I suspect that, because of our case as a
22 manager, it was something that was really important to Mr.
23 Terry. And for the amount of the settlement, in order to get 24 the overall deal done, we agreed that we would compromise that 25 amount, his statutory amount, and then he could litigate for

1 his full fees.

2 So, rather than have either HCLOF or Acis go and spend
3 additional dollars to litigate in Guernsey to determine the 4 fees -- which we don't really know how that would have come
5 out, but there's at least a minimum, the statutory amount --
6 we compromised it.

7 Q Last question, as I did with the earlier settlement:
8 We've touched, I think, on all of the factors at play under a 9 9019 analysis, but can you just explain to the Court in your 10 own words why you and the Debtor and the independent board
11 members believe that this settlement is in the paramount
12 interests of creditors?

13 A Well, we, again, we went through a rigorous examination of 14 the risks and rewards of the litigation. The timing, the 15 costs overall to the estate, and the claims that Acis and Mr.
16 Terry had. The challenge that we had is that, where we are in 17 the case, it's not just creditors that are at -- potentially 18 on the other side, the creditors of Highland on the other 19 side. And that means that there's a risk that a finder of 20 fact, looking at the totality here, based upon Mirant and the 21 subsequent cases, when you balance the equities, they may not 22 always find that they tilt in Highland's favor. So the risks
23 that they would tilt against us was material, and that left us
24 open to potentially a significant award.

25 In addition, as I mentioned, of the total amount, we think

Seery - Direct

197

1 that the note was one that we actually owe, and we owe it to
2 somebody, but now we owe it to ourselves. So of the total
3 settlement amount, $10 million really is self-funding because 4 we're not going to have to pay that obligation.

5 So our view is that, overall, this is a -- like the 6 Redeemer. It's a fair total settlement that we can reach with 7 Acis and Mr. Terry. We can wrap up a number of litigations,
8 including litigations against the employees, and that is --
9 even though I think it's got good, meritorious defenses,
10 having that over one settlement, harder to bring this case to 11 a close, and we'd be -- we'd be relying every day on those 12 very employees. And I can tell you for certain that it was 13 important to them to eliminate that risk from their day-to-day
14 lives.

15 Q You know, I apologize, there was one other question I
16 wanted to ask with respect to the probability of success on 17 the merits. Did you and the independent board take into 18 account the credibility findings that this Court made in prior 19 decisions and the equities that the Court might interpret
20 based on the Court's prior findings in assessing the 21 likelihood of success on the merits?

22 A Yes. And the risk that we saw, frankly, is that if we 23 were just dealing in the pure world of constructive fraudulent
24 conveyance and we were dealing in a pure world where equities
25 were balanced and didn't tilt against us, then we would be 002987

198

1 more likely to push the litigation angle of it. I think this
2 case still should settle, but it would give us more likelihood 3 that we would have a probability of winning.

4 With the prior decisions, it puts a significant amount of 5 risk on the Mirant equities argument. And once we -- if we 6 were to lose that, or if it was to be found that these were 7 actual fraudulent conveyances, and based upon some of the 8 prior testimony, one might assess that there were some risks
9 there, that certainly leads us to believe that this is a fair
10 settlement.

11 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I have no further questions
12 and no further witnesses. But I would like at this time to 13 move for the introduction -- for the admission into evidence
14 of certain exhibits.

15 THE COURT: All right. Point me to where those 16 appear on the docket again.

17 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. I really apologize. That's the 18 one docket number I don't have. I think we filed it on Friday
19 evening, if that helps.

20 THE COURT: Okay. Just a moment. Okay. Let me back
21 up. Your witness and exhibit list is at Docket 1202.

22 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

23 THE COURT: And I'm sorry, you're wanting to move
24 into evidence all of the items on here, or no?

25 MR. MORRIS: The four items, the first four items on 002988

Seery - Direct

199

1 there.

2 THE COURT: All right. So the three proofs of claim
3 at issue and then the declaration of Mr. Demo that I think was 4 just attaching the settlement agreement and related items,
5 correct?

6 MR. MORRIS: That's exactly right, Your Honor. Mr.
7 Demo's declaration can be found at Docket No. 1088.

8 THE COURT: All right.

9 MR. MORRIS: And there was just the two exhibits, the 10 settlement agreement and the release. And the Debtor
11 respectfully moves for the admission into evidence of those 12 documents.

13 THE COURT: All right. Any objection? (No
14 response.) All right. Those four exhibits are admitted.
15 Again, they are found at Docket Entry 1202.

16 (Debtor's Exhibits are received into evidence.)

17 THE COURT: All right. So you have the passed the 18 witness. First, any friendly examination that is not 19 duplicative? Ms. Patel, anything from you?

20 MS. PATEL: No, Your Honor. We'd reserve anything
21 for redirect, if at all.

22 THE COURT: All right. So I'll turn now to counsel,
23 I guess, for Mr. Dondero first. Any cross-examination?

24 MR. WILSON: Yes, Your Honor. This is John Wilson
25 for Mr. Dondero.

002989

200

1 THE COURT: Mr. Wilson, you have cross?

2 MR. WILSON: Yes, ma'am.

3 THE COURT: All right. Go ahead.

4 CROSS-EXAMINATION

5 BY MR. WILSON:

6 Q Good afternoon, Mr. Seery. Can you hear me?

7 A I can, yes.

8 Q All right. And we met over Zoom on Saturday, but again,
9 I'm John Wilson and I represent James Dondero. I just wanted
10 to ask you a few questions. And we -- Mr. Dondero and I don't 11 want to re-plow a lot of ground, but you described earlier
12 about how, when you were appointed to the independent board,
13 you began meeting with members of the Official Committee of 14 Unsecured Creditors and then to try to determine what their 15 claims were and began to undertake an analysis of those.

16 Would that be fair?

17 A Yes.

18 Q And in the process of doing so, the board instructed the 19 Pachulski firm to undertake specific legal analysis of the 20 Acis claims and all the causes of action asserted therein; is 21 that correct?

22 A That's correct.

23 Q And in fact, the board worked closely with counsel to 24 analyze the Acis proof of claim, correct?

25 A I -- you broke up. Did we work closely?

002990

1 Q Yes.

2 A Yes, we did.

3 Q All right. And you described that you requested memoranda
4 and conducted meetings with counsel, instructed counsel to go
5 back and work harder. Is that a fair characterization of what 6 you testified to a minute ago?

7 A I think that is part of it, yes.

8 Q Okay. So, through this process, when you were analyzing 9 the Acis proof of claim and becoming familiar with the 10 particular claims asserted therein, you became aware that this
11 was the subject of an adversary proceeding in the Acis
12 bankruptcy, correct?

13 A Yes.

14 Q And in fact, that there is -- the Acis proof of claim
15 attaches the second amended claim from the Acis versus 16 Highland adversary proceeding; is that correct?

17 A You broke up at the end, but I think the answer is yes, if 18 it was that it attaches the second amended complaint. I
19 believe that's correct.

20 Q Right. And that Acis v. Highland adversary proceeding had 21 been the subject of litigation at the time the Highland 22 bankruptcy was filed, right?

23 A I believe yes, it had commenced.

24 Q And that litigation had been proceeding for actually many 25 months, correct?

1 A Yeah. The Acis case and the adversary had been initiated
2 well before our filing.

3 Q Right. And you became aware through your analysis and 4 attempts to discover information about this claim that 5 discovery was being conducted in that adversary proceeding;
6 that's correct?

7 A I don't know that I ever saw any of the specifics of 8 discovery. I assume there was discovery.

9 Q Well, and I think you testified on Saturday that you were 10 aware that discovery was being conducted in the adversary
11 proceeding.

12 A I mean, I'm sure -- I'm sure I knew that there was 13 discovery in the adversary, but I don't -- I don't have a 14 specific recollection of what the discovery was. That's not 15 something --

16 Q Right. And my question wasn't whether you reviewed all 17 the discovery. It was just that you were aware that it was 18 being conducted, correct?

19 A I was aware that it had. I don't know that it was current 20 at the time that we got involved.

21 Q Now, I think that -- I think you've offered testimony that 22 you worked with the Pachulski firm in developing the written 23 objection that was ultimately filed to the Acis proof of 24 claim?

25 A That's correct.

1 Q And before that objection was filed, you and the other
2 members of the board reviewed it, right?

3 A Yes.

4 Q And the other members -- you and the other members of the 5 board took the position or agreed with the position taken in 6 the written objection, correct?

7 A Yes.

8 Q And the board approved the written objection before it was 9 filed?

10 A That's correct.

11 Q And so ultimately the Pachulski firm filed Highland's
12 objection to Acis' proof of claim on June 23rd, 2020?

13 A I believe that's correct. I don't know the date off the 14 top of my head.

15 Q And would you agree with me that the Highland objection
16 took a pretty aggressive stance with regard to the Acis proof
17 of claim?

18 A I agree, yes.

19 Q And in fact, the Highland objection took the position that 20 the Acis claim should be disallowed in its entirety; is that
21 right?

22 A That's correct.

23 Q I've got Bryan Assink from my firm here with me, and he's,
24 excuse me, going to try to share a document on -- on the 25 webcam. What we're going to look at is Exhibit G, which is

1 actually -- it's Dondero Exhibit G, which is actually the 2 Highland objection to the Acis proof of claim. Can you see
3 that on your screen?

4 A I can, yes.

5 Q All right. And if you look at the top of that, the very
6 top where it has the file stamp that shows that -- it shows
7 that it was indeed filed on 6/23/20, and it's Docker No. 771.
8 Can you go to Page 3 now? And I don't want to work through 9 the entire 65 pages of this document, but I'd like to kind of 10 work through some of the -- some of the statements made in the 11 preliminary statement that I think are intended as a --
12 somewhat of a summary of the positions taken in the document.

13 But if you look on Page -- if you look on Page 3, about 14 halfway down, the beginning of that Paragraph No. 2, where it
15 says, (inaudible) Terry keeps a $75 million windfall, which 16 would come not at Dondero's expense but from the pockets of 17 the Debtor's innocent creditors, including unsecured trade
18 creditors, the Redeemer Committee, the Highland Crusader Fund, 19 with an arbitration award of $191,824,557, and UBS Securities
20 (inaudible).

21 And so Highland took the position on June 23rd that Mr.
22 Terry was seeking a $75 million windfall, correct?

23 A That's correct.

24 Q And they took the position that that windfall was not 25 going to come at Mr. Dondero's expense but instead at the 1 expense of Debtor's innocent creditors, correct?

2 A That's what we said, yes.

3 MR. WILSON: All right. Can you go to Page --

4 BY MR. WILSON:

5 Q Now, this is the next page of the document, Page 4, where 6 it says that James Dondero and Mark Okada were Acis's sole
7 owners, and it's hornbook law that sole owners do not owe
8 fiduciary duties to their company.

9 MR. WILSON: Can we go to the top of Page 5?

10 (Pause.)

11 MR. WILSON: Sorry. Having technical difficulties.

12 BY MR. WILSON:

13 Q And starting at the bottom of that paragraph, it says that 14 Delaware law does not permit creditors of a limited
15 partnership to sue third parties for breach of fiduciary
16 duties, nor does it permit a trustee to sue on their behalf.
17 These claims are not and cannot as a matter of law be brought 18 for the benefit of Acis's foreign creditors.

19 And so on June 23rd, 2020, Highland was thinking that the 20 breach of the -- the breach of fiduciary duty claims could not 21 be brought as valid claims in the Highland bankruptcy,
22 correct?

23 A Yes.

24 MR. WILSON: And then go to the bottom of Paragraph

25 B.

1 BY MR. WILSON:

2 Q It says -- the last sentence of Paragraph B says that even
3 if the equities are applied as this Court once held they may,
4 there is no equity in permitting a new owner to sue persons
5 for conspiring with the old owner in order to parlay a $1
6 million investment into $75 million, at the expense of this 7 Debtor's creditors.

8 And once again, you're taking the -- I'm sorry -- Highland
9 is taking the position that there is no equity in Acis's claim
10 because they're parlaying a $1 million investment into $75
11 million at the expense of Debtor's creditors. And that was 12 Highland's position on June 23rd, 2020, correct?

13 A That's correct.

14 MR. WILSON: Go to Page -- actually, just go down a 15 little bit.

16 BY MR. WILSON:

17 Q And then with respect to the fraudulent transfer claims,
18 Highland took the position that, third, the fraudulent
19 transfer claims fail and may be summarily resolved because the 20 Debtor did not receive the benefit of the alleged fraudulent
21 transfers since, with one exception, it was not the transferee
22 of the transferred rights.

23 So Highland had taken the position on June 23rd, 2020 that 24 the fraudulent transfer claims must be fail and can be 25 summarily resolved, correct?

1 A That's correct.

2 MR. WILSON: All right. Go to D on the next page.

3 BY MR. WILSON:

4 Q And here in Paragraph D, it says there is nothing left of 5 the former Acis estate. Creditors were paid, Old Equity was 6 cancelled, and New Equity is held by a purchaser who paid $1
7 million, no different than if he had done so at an auction.
8 There is no estate to benefit.

9 So, and then it continues on, authorities before and after 10 Mirant hold that the (inaudible) recovery should be limited
11 based on equitable considerations. Unlike Mirant, in this 12 Court's Texas Rangers decision, this is not a case in which 13 the recovery will enable the debtor to satisfy outstanding 14 claims, obligations, or one in which creditors are forced to 15 take equity instead of cash and are depending on its value for 16 recovery on their claims. There is no estate and no equity to 17 support Mr. Terry's windfall.

18 So, Highland, on June 23rd, 2020, was taking the position
19 that there was no estate to benefit because all the creditors
20 have been paid and Old Equity was transferred and New Equity
21 was held by Josh Terry; is that correct?

22 A That's correct.

23 Q In Paragraph E, that's where Highland discusses how the 24 (inaudible) Doctrine holds that the purchase of controlling 25 equity in a company may not be used to control through

1 corporate machinery to turn around and assert claims against 2 the prior owners if the claims arose prior to the date when
3 the purchaser took control.

4 So Highland was saying on June 23rd, 2020 that the 5 (inaudible) Doctrine prohibited many of Terry's claims? Or 6 Acis's claims, I'm sorry. Is that correct?

7 A That's correct.

8 Q All right. Now, on Paragraph F. Acis (inaudible) seeking 9 $7 million in so-called overpayments have no legal basis and 10 should be summarily disallowed.

11 So Highland took the position on June 23rd, 2020 that the 12 overpayment claims can be summarily disposed and had no legal 13 basis, correct?

14 A That's correct, sir.

15 Q And 11G says that Acis's civil conspiracy claim also fails
16 as a matter of law because that claim is not recognized. So
17 now -- H. Acis's tortious interference claim fails as a
18 matter of law because it does not apply to at-will contracts.
19 I, Acis's breach of contract claim, like its claim for breach 20 of fiduciary duty, rests on the fallacy that Acis had legal 21 interests that were distinct from those of its sole owners.
22 J, alter ego liability was inadequately pled (inaudible)
23 claim, and moreover, is unavailable on the alleged grounds.

24 MR. WILSON: The top of the next page.

25 BY MR. WILSON:

002998

1 Q And then K, you talk about Debtor's defenses that are
2 meritorious but may not be able to be decided summarily.

3 So, on these 55 pages of this claim, there's a lot of 4 legal argument and briefing over the objections, but I think
5 you would have to agree with me that Highland asserted the 6 position that every single one of the 34 Acis claims could be 7 resolved by summary disposition, correct?

8 A I don't -- I don't think that's correct. I think we said
9 that numerous of the claims could be dealt with by summary
10 disposition, and certain other ones we had meritorious
11 defenses that would have to be litigated because they were 12 fact-based.

13 Q But in any event, you would agree with me that the bulk of 14 this claim was argued could be disposed by summary
15 disposition, correct?

16 A That's correct.

17 MR. WILSON: All right. Now --

18 BY MR. WILSON:

19 Q And I think you told me on Saturday that, with respect to 20 your -- Highland's claim that there's no estate to benefit in 21 Acis, that if there was an estate it would be Josh Terry; is 22 that correct?

23 A I don't believe that's correct, no.

24 Q You don't believe that that's correct or you don't believe 25 that you testified to that?

210

1 A I'd probably say both.

2 Q Well, maybe I can refresh your recollection as to that.

3 MR. WILSON: Page --

4 BY MR. WILSON:

5 Q We've produced the infamous video. I'm going to try to 6 pull up Page 38 of the deposition that you gave on October 17,
7 2020.

8 MR. WILSON: It's at the top.

9 BY MR. WILSON:

10 Q So starting at Line 3, where it says, I don't think that 11 will be necessary, but in practical terms it's Acis's estate, 12 now just Terry. Mr. Morris asserted an objection. And the 13 answer was, Yeah, I think we would certainly from a litigation
14 perspective try to cabin it that way. And there are a bunch
15 of technical reasons for that, but it's certainly a bit
16 broader than that. There's not a big creditor body, but there
17 are still a few creditors. He is, in my understanding, the 18 only shareholder -- there are, you know, in fact, customers, 19 albeit the management of the investment outsourced some of the 20 funds, so we would -- you know, we tried and attempted to 21 draft it in a way that cabined it to a couple different
22 creditors that could be paid off in --

23 MR. MORRIS: And Your Honor? Your Honor, if I may, 24 just in the future I would respectfully request that if my 25 witness or my client is going to be cross-examined with 003000

Seery - Cross

211

1 deposition testimony, and I've lodged an objection
2 specifically to preserve the objection, that the Court rule on 3 the objection before the answer is read into the record.
4 Thank you.

5 THE COURT: All right. So, I'm sorry, you had --

6 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

7 THE COURT: Let me be clear if you have a pending
8 objection at the moment.

9 MR. MORRIS: If it's not -- if the Court doesn't deem 10 it too late, since it's already been read into the record, 11 yes, I would just ask the Court to rule on the objection that 12 I made during the deposition. That's why we do that.

13 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I got lost, I suppose, on 14 what the objection was that was lodged during the deposition.

15 MR. MORRIS: I objected to the form of the question
16 to the extent it calls for a legal conclusion.

17 THE COURT: All right.

18 MR. WILSON: And Your Honor, I'm --

19 MR. MORRIS: I just want it to be clear that if the 20 Court sustains the objection, that whatever Mr. Seery
21 testified to is not going to be somehow binding as some kind
22 of legal conclusion. That's all.

23 THE COURT: All right.

24 MR. WILSON: Your Honor, my response to that --

25 THE COURT: Response, Mr. Wilson?

003001

212

1 MR. WILSON: Yes. My response to that objection will
2 be that I did not ask him for a legal conclusion. I asked him
3 a question in practical terms, if Acis's estate now is just 4 Terry.

5 THE COURT: Okay. I overrule the objection.

6 MR. MORRIS: All right. Thank you, Your Honor.

7 THE WITNESS: So I think I answered it correctly.
8 You asked me what I thought, and I said, from a -- this answer
9 is from a litigation perspective. That's the position we 10 took, yes. I think a moment ago you asked me what I thought
11 now from a factual perspective. Most of the issues are laid 12 out in my answer.

13 BY MR. WILSON:

14 Q Turn with me to -- on Page 9. I'm now going to direct 15 your attention to Paragraph 4 of the Highland objection on 16 Page 9, which says, The rights of creditors to be paid were 17 the legal basis of the Acis plan injunction, which is why the 18 injunction terminates once those creditors are paid in full.
19 Mr. Terry elected to acquire new equity for $1 million. He is 20 not entitled to receive another $75 million by claiming that 21 Acis was damaged by those transfers, much less from the 22 pockets of the Debtor's unpaid creditors. To impose on the 23 former partners and third parties such as the Debtor a duty to 24 restore $75 million to the former business, not to pay its 25 creditors but for the sole benefit of successor owner who

003002

1 bought the diminished entity for $1 million, would be a
2 legally groundbreaking windfall, to say the least. The Acis
3 claim can and should summarily be disallowed in its entirety
4 on the record before the Court.

5 And so does that paragraph to you pretty much sum up
6 Highland's position on the Acis claim as of June 23rd, 2020?

7 A Yes. That's the position we took.

8 Q And the board believed in good faith that these arguments
9 it was making were meritorious, correct?

10 A That's correct.

11 Q And the board had a good faith belief that the legal 12 contentions made in Highland's objection were warranted by 13 existing law, correct?

14 A The legal what?

15 Q The legal contentions were warranted by existing law.

16 A Yes.

17 Q And the board had a good faith belief that the factual
18 contentions in Highland's objection had evidentiary support,
19 correct?

20 A That's correct.

21 Q And so Highland had a good faith belief that Acis's claim
22 could be disposed of, disposed of in its entirety on summary
23 judgment. Correct?

24 A Largely, yes.

25 Q And you agree with me that if claims can be disposed of

214

1 summarily, that would be a shorter and less expensive legal
2 process than a trial on those issues?

3 A If they are summarily dismissed, that is correct.

4 Q And in fact, an agreement was reached by the parties in 5 this case that Highland and Acis would file motions for 6 summary judgment regarding the Highland objection to the Acis
7 claim by September 16th, 2020, and that those motions would be 8 heard on October 20th, which is today. Do you recall that?

9 MR. MORRIS: Objection, --

10 MR. WILSON: I'm sorry, go ahead.

11 THE WITNESS: That's fine. We don't need to agree.
12 We took a very aggressive position that we wanted to get to 13 court as quickly as we could to put pressure on the Acis side.

14 BY MR. WILSON:

15 Q But my point in asking you these questions is -- so they 16 took the position that there was summary adjudication
17 available for these claims in the -- in the Bankruptcy Court.
18 Is that correct? Would you agree with that?

19 A We were definitely scheduled to have that, yes.

20 Q Okay. Because I read the Debtor's omnibus reply that came 21 in yesterday. And on Page 7, it says there was no indication
22 that summary adjudication is available in this Court. And I
23 just wanted to make that clear, that there was actually an 24 agreed-upon procedure that was approved by the Court. So
25 Highland's initial position was that if Highland paid the Acis

003004

1 claim they were going to give a $75 million windfall to Terry,
2 correct? And we've just gone through reading a few times in 3 the objection. Can you agree with that?

4 A Yes.

5 Q But I think that you have previously described how there's 6 a counterargument to that windfall from Terry's perspective.
7 Is that right?

8 A There is a counterargument, yes.

9 Q And what would that counterargument be?

10 A In sum, when you look at Mirant and the related cases,
11 they do talk about restoring the estate. And so while we --
12 we believed an argument was I think strong that the initial 13 injunction in Acis quote/unquote made Mr. Terry whole, there's 14 a strong argument to be made that the estate has claims and 15 that the owner of an estate who buys it through a plan open to 16 everybody is entitled to try to benefit from those claims. So
17 the recovery for the benefit of that enterprise is permitted, 18 and that just happens to be what the law is.

19 Moreover, while we said it was inequitable, there's a 20 counterargument that Mr. Terry would make, which is that he's 21 been -- he had a claim that could have been settled easily and 22 could have been paid off and it wasn't. Instead, there was a
23 long litigation. And it came about because assets from Acis
24 were pulled out of Acis. It's a pretty straightforward
25 factual recitation that we get from the prior decisions of

Seery - Cross

216

1 this Court. And there's a strong equitable argument that Mr.
2 Terry makes that his life has been turned upside down and
3 there's a lot of damage that comes from that. Now, we have,
4 as we lay out, what we thought were meritorious defenses, but 5 they do rely a lot on the equities.

6 Q Right. And we'll get to it now. In your deposition on 7 Saturday, I think you described this with a little more color.

8 (Pause.)

9 BY MR. WILSON:

10 Q On Lines 7 through 13, you were discussing the Highland
11 position related to the windfall, but starting I think and you
12 said equally on the other side, we could say that the man's 13 life was ripped out from him, that his position was taken 14 away, that he got an arbitration award that arguably the 15 Debtor and the Debtor's management at the time stripped away
16 all the assets (inaudible) to try to leave him with no
17 recovery. And then when he sought a recovery, they sought to 18 sue him in every jurisdiction in the world to make sure to 19 ruin the guy's life and put him in a position where, while for 20 some it might seem a windfall, to him it might seem just.

21 MR. WILSON: And skip down toward -- go on to that 22 next answer.

23 BY MR. WILSON:

24 Q Where it says, that it took a bunch of years of his life
25 and destroyed his career is not really our issue.

003006

217

1 So these are the equities that you were considering when
2 you -- when the board decided to settle this claim, this Acis
3 claim?

4 A Overall. This is my summation. I wouldn't want to 5 engraft it necessarily on Mr. Dubel and Mr. Nelms. But 6 certainly this general position. I'm not quite sure why you
7 read it out. But yes, that's the other side, in a nutshell.

8 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, this is -- this is John
9 Morris. Mr. Seery made a point, frankly, that I was thinking
10 of, but it is an important point. There's really, in my 11 experience, no need to go to a deposition transcript unless 12 it's being used for impeachment purposes. If Counsel has a
13 question of my witness, I would -- I would respectfully
14 request that he simply ask it.

15 THE COURT: All right.

16 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

17 THE COURT: Mr. Wilson, what do you have to say about 18 that?

19 MR. WILSON: Yes, Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: I think he's correct. Anything you want
21 to challenge about that point?

22 MR. WILSON: Well, not really, Your Honor. I could
23 -- I could ask the questions, but I just, in that instance, I
24 thought it was easier to get the exact testimony on the 25 record. I don't think it's inadmissible for any purpose. And 003007

Seery - Cross

218

1 he's, you know, he's welcome to comment on it if he needs to
2 or put it in context or -- I mean, if there's a (inaudible) or 3 something else, you know, I'll live with that. I was just 4 doing it for ease, instead of having to ask him a bunch of 5 individual pointed questions.

6 THE COURT: Okay. Well, we've got him here, so let's
7 just -- you know, we've got him here so we don't need to use
8 the deposition unless, you know, there's some impeachment
9 purpose.

10 So let me just ask you. You have -- you've been going 27
11 minutes on cross. I really want to break tonight at a point
12 that makes sense, which to me suggests we should finish this 13 witness. How much longer do you feel like you need?

14 MR. WILSON: I believe I'm at least halfway done, if 15 not further along, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: All right. Well, hmm. I'm going to ask
17 you to just speed it up. I'm going to stop -- well, here's 18 the deal. We have maybe two more witnesses, right? You all 19 have named Professor Rappaport, and Mr. Daugherty is named as 20 a witness. And I said I would come back tomorrow, but I'm 21 trying to respect the fact that Acis's counsel, their lead
22 counsel is not available tomorrow. So add to this
23 complication that, as we have been conducting this hearing
24 this afternoon, four objections to the disclosure statement
25 have been filed that at some point -- that at some I need to 003008

219

1 read and a lot of other lawyers in the room need to read. And 2 I'm -- what is our hearing? It's Thursday. Is it 9:30 in the 3 morning Thursday? Yes. My law clerk is saying yes. So we're 4 running --

5 MS. MASCHERIN: I believe that's right.

6 THE COURT: We're running out of available hours
7 here. So, with respect, Mr. Wilson, I'm going to give you 15
8 more minutes. So we're going to pass the witness --

9 MR. KATHMAN: Your Honor, this is --

10 THE COURT: Yes?

11 MR. KATHMAN: Your Honor, this is Jason Kathman. And 12 I don't know if this helps or makes things more difficult, but 13 I think my cross of Mr. Seery is at least probably 20 or 30
14 minutes, and so I'm just telling you now, if the Court's
15 thinking about breaking now, and to give Mr. Wilson another 15
16 minutes, I'm not a five-minute cross-examination. I don't 17 think I'm an hour, but it's certainly more than five minutes.
18 So, again, I say that. I don't know if that helps or hurts, 19 but I wanted to pass that information if it affects the 20 Court's decision-making.

21 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Wilson, continue. You've got 22 15 minutes to wrap it up.

23 MR. WILSON: Thank you, Your Honor.

24 BY MR. WILSON:

25 Q Now, Mr. Seery, is it true that prior to filing that 003009

1 Highland objection that we just reviewed that Highland made an
2 offer to settle the Acis claim for $4 million?

3 A We did. We made an initial settlement offer to Acis for 4 $4 million plus withdrawing our claims in the Acis case.

5 Q Okay. And around that same time, did Highland make an 6 offer to settle UBS's $1 billion proof of claim for 7 approximately $20 million?

8 A I think that's about the right amount, yes.

9 Q Okay. And you believe the Debtor in this case is solvent,
10 correct?

11 A Yeah. I believe, and I think I testified earlier, and 12 also on Saturday, that I believe that we have projections
13 that, if we are able to hit them, we have to improve on them,
14 and we have to keep our costs down, and if we have a claim
15 amount for UBS which we think is zero, and we do believe
16 that's the case, as well as zero for HarbourVest, which I
17 argue is the same, and Mr. Daugherty I believe it's 3.7, that 18 we would be very close to paying claims in full, yes.

19 Q So, based on those assumptions, you believe there'll be 20 room for equity to participate under the currently-filed plan?

21 A It would be -- it would be close, yeah, but there's a 22 potential, certainly. It would be close. But again, to --
23 again, there's -- again, there's -- these are not -- it's not 24 a matter of distributing a sack of cash. These are assets
25 that we have to manage and then sell into the market. And as

1 we had testimony earlier on Cornerstone, these are not big,
2 giant high-grade companies. These are private, smaller
3 companies with issues and risks.

4 Q Okay. And it's your information that the allowed amount
5 of the UBS claims should be zero, right?

6 A Yes.

7 Q And I won't ask you again to give your reasons for that.
8 And can you -- there's been lots of argument and talk about 9 this all day today, but I think it's a pretty simple question.
10 But you would agree with me that, in the Fifth Circuit, and 11 that's based on U.S. Supreme Court precedent, that a 12 bankruptcy court should not approve a settlement unless it's 13 fair and equitable and in the best interest of the estate,
14 correct?

15 A I think that's generally the standard, yes.

16 Q Right. And you believe that, although Highland's 9019
17 motion to approve the Acis settlement doesn't actually use the 18 phrase "fair and equitable," I believe you testified that you
19 believe the Acis settlement is fair and equitable; is that
20 correct?

21 A Yes, I do believe that.

22 Q And can you briefly describe for me why that is that you
23 have that belief?

24 A Yeah. I believe I testified earlier that a lot of our 25 defenses were, you know, technical defenses, or that we have

1 the -- we had some straight legal defenses which we think are 2 very good, and then a lot of them rested on Mirant and the 3 equities. And that we felt strongly about the legal defenses.
4 The technicals are more difficult because I think a court of 5 equity could look through them. And the Mirant was really a
6 question of the -- of the equities and how they tilt.

7 And so you have to think your way through those based upon
8 the prior experience of this Court and Acis's prior 9 litigation, and there's, frankly, prior rulings talking about 10 certain of the valuations and the transfers. And the risks on 11 those were significant.

12 If we could win on Mirant and argue that there is no real 13 estate, I think that would be -- would have been an 14 interesting argument, and in a different circuit we may have 15 had a stronger argument. I think that Mirant in particular,
16 which, although I guess not for me to say, but I don't think 17 it's the right law, but it's the law. And so we have to -- we 18 have to adhere to the legal framework that we have, as well as 19 the factual underpinnings of the case, including the history
20 in Acis.

21 And so we think that, in the context of this case,
22 settling this multi-year litigation that involves a myriad of 23 different parties, a myriad of different courts, is a fair and 24 equitable settlement for this estate to try to move it
25 forward.

1 Q And you believe that the equities in this case tilt
2 heavily in favor of Terry and heavily against Highland,
3 correct?

4 A I wouldn't -- I wouldn't -- I wouldn't want to say that
5 directly. I don't think that that's necessarily the case. I
6 think that they tilt -- they tilt in Mr. -- in Acis's favor
7 and Mr. Terry's favor on a lot of the key issues. And I think 8 one could argue that they're heavily -- they heavily tilt on 9 -- you know, I think that there's a lot of -- there are 10 certainly equities in Highland's favor in terms of the 11 Highland team and what they do and how they perform, and the 12 creditors in the Highland estate and their claims against 13 Highland, but there are certainly -- certain of the equities
14 tilt very favorably towards Mr. Terry and Acis.

15 Q And in applying those standards that the Fifth Circuit
16 sets for approving a 9019 motion, do you understand that the 17 Fifth Circuit has instructed courts to consider certain 18 factors such as the probability of success on the litigation?
19 Is that correct?

20 A Yes.

21 Q And did you consider that factor in reaching a settlement
22 with Acis?

23 A We did, yes.

24 Q And we've talked about how Highland maintained the 25 position as of June 23rd, 2020 that the Acis claims should be

1 disallowed in its entirety, correct?

2 A That's correct.

3 Q All right. And the next factor that the Court is supposed
4 to consider is the expected duration and expense of 5 litigation. Did you consider that factor?

6 A We did.

7 Q And we talked about how it was Highland's position on June
8 23rd, 2020 that all of Acis's claims were amenable to summary
9 disposition, which is, as you agree, substantially less
10 expensive and time-consuming than a full trial, correct?

11 A Yes. If you are successful, it's much more efficient,
12 yes.

13 Q And did the board conduct a specific analysis as to the 14 time and expense that the litigation -- of the litigation
15 anticipated to resolve the Acis claim would require?

16 A I'm not sure what you mean by a specific analysis. It was 17 certainly part of our analysis that if we went forward with 18 summary judgment, we felt strongly that we had a real
19 opportunity to prevail on a certain number of the claims.
20 However, if we lost, we were going to be at a significant
21 disadvantage because that would have meant most likely then 22 showing that there were factual issues and most likely would 23 have hinted that there were some equitable issues. And that 24 would have put us in a very difficult position both in 25 litigating those claims and pushing the case forward.

1 Q Did the board come up with a specific number or a range of
2 numbers that it considered?

3 A I don't recall a specific number. I think at the 4 deposition you asked me what I thought it would cost to try
5 these claims. And from probably just one side I could come up
6 with that number. But as I testified before, there's multiple 7 sides here. And the case also continues to burn, from a legal 8 and professional fee perspective, additional overhead as that 9 trial would go on.

10 Q Okay. And even if the Acis settlement is approved, and we 11 know now that the Redeemer settlement is approved, the UBS
12 claim remains outstanding, which will require lengthy 13 litigation, correct?

14 A I disagree with that. The UBS claim does remain
15 outstanding, but we have summary judgment papers in front of 16 the Court, and they're very narrow issues. We think that the 17 vast majority of UBS's claims, which are against foreign 18 subsidiaries with no recourse to the Debtor whatsoever, are 19 going to be disposed of. So we're going to be down to what we 20 think are equally weak or unfortunately factual claims on 21 fraudulent conveyances. And -- but they're minimal dollar
22 amounts.

23 Q And did the board conduct an analysis of how long that 24 litigation is going to take?

25 A A specific analysis to how long a fraudulent conveyance

226

1 litigation would take? We haven't done a specific one, but
2 we've thought about it. This one's pretty straightforward
3 because it's not going to be real complicated in order to 4 value the assets because the assets that were returned by HFP
5 -- there's a much more difficult process for UBS because they 6 don't have a claim against HFP, which is the transferor. They
7 have a -- they have to get an alter ego first. So it is -- it
8 is -- there's a number of steps. But the defenses and the 9 valuation is very easy because these are assets that were,
10 just prior to the -- in the same year as the fraudulent
11 conveyance, I think, or maybe 14 months after, had been 12 purchased by Multi Strat, which was a firm that had third-
13 party investors as well.

14 Q Okay. And I just want to ask a handful more questions,
15 because I think I'm running out of time. But one of the other 16 factors that the Fifth Circuit looks at is whether the 17 settlement was reached by an arm's-length transaction. And I
18 would ask what you believe arm's-length bargaining means.

19 A What I think arm's-length bargaining means?

20 Q Yes.

21 A I think it's two parties that are on opposite sides, that 22 do not have undue influence on each other, that do not have --
23 there's no collusion. There's no side deals. That they're 24 negotiating fairly and they're negotiating in their own
25 interests. That is the typical definition of arm's length.

003016

1 Q And I believe that Highland has maintained a mediation
2 privilege as to the specific negotiations that were undertaken
3 in this case, but it's your position that this settlement was 4 conducted pursuant to an arm's-length bargaining?

5 A Absolutely. With or without the mediation. We have no --
6 no interests in -- nor does anyone else -- with Acis or with 7 Mr. Terry or his counsel. These were hard-fought. They were 8 multifaceted. They involved a lot of analysis. They did
9 involve the mediators and their -- their leaning on one side
10 or the other. We don't what they said specifically to Acis.
11 I only know what they said to our side. But it was the 12 product of a mediation.

13 But even without the mediation, this was -- this would 14 have been arm's length because it's folks without undue 15 influence on each other and no interests in each other's 16 sides.

17 Q Okay. If this settlement is approved, will it end all the 18 litigation regarding Acis's claims?

19 A Unfortunately, I don't think so. And we had a little bit
20 of a preview of that earlier. And frankly, unfortunately for 21 our cases, is limited by what we can do in our own case. But 22 it will end all litigation with respect to Acis and Mr. Terry
23 and Highland and the entities owned by Highland more than 51
24 percent, or more than 50 -- 50 or more percent, I think it is.
25 Anyone that we directly manage. And all of the employees at

1 Highland. So, in retrospect, it does solve all the 2 litigations related to Highland vis-à-vis Acis, Highland
3 employees, Mr. Terry and Mrs. Terry.

4 Q All right. But you'd agree with me that the substance of 5 many of these claims have been asserted against other parties
6 and they're pending in other places, including an adversary
7 proceeding in the Acis bankruptcy case?

8 A There are some. And to be fair, you know, we considered
9 whether we should try to involve third parties. There's 10 lawsuits against law firms that Acis and Mr. Terry have 11 brought. I don't know who brought each one. There's against 12 individual lawyers. We just -- we can only solve the problems
13 that we have control over and we can solve. I would love to 14 have been more expansive, but we didn't have, you know, the 15 facility or the legal right to do those, and we didn't want to 16 try to bring in more parties than we could or we would never 17 get this done.

18 Q Okay. Is it your position that we need the -- that any 19 two of the three large unsecured creditors who are members of 20 the Creditors' Committee, which you probably know them,
21 referring to Acis, UBS, and Redeemer, that you need the 22 support of two of those three to support the plan?

23 A I would say to do -- to do any kind of grand bargain, we 24 would need at least two of those three. And to have the 25 Committee not object, because it's a four-person Committee, we

229

1 would need two of four.

2 But I do think that, you know, with respect to the plan
3 that we have, we're going to need probably two of those 4 creditors, at least two of those creditors to support it. And 5 those negotiations are equally hard-fought, and the positions
6 that we're taking, you know, we're -- we feel very confident
7 in and we intend to pursue them.

8 THE COURT: All right.

9 BY MR. WILSON:

10 Q And so was that one of the motives --

11 THE COURT: Last question.

12 BY MR. WILSON:

13 Q -- for settling the Acis claim?

14 THE COURT: Last question, Mr. Wilson. It's been 15
15 minutes.

16 MR. WILSON: Okay. Thank you, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: Last question.

18 BY MR. WILSON:

19 Q Yes. So my question was: Was that part of your motive
20 for settling with Acis?

21 A Certainly, settling with Acis, settling with everybody,
22 you know, to try to resolve the case, if they're fair
23 settlements and in the best interest of the estate, we would 24 do it. We obviously are not settling with everybody. There
25 are claims that we think are (inaudible) and don't merit real

003019

Seery - Cross

230

1 dollars, and we've been unable to settle those claims because 2 of that.

3 But yes, settling -- settling with Acis, settling with,
4 you know, any of the creditors, we think is critical to try
5 and move this case forward. You know, we would love to have 6 everybody settle. As I said, there are some claims we think
7 are worth zero and we would love to settle them at a dollar.
8 That may require some judicial intervention.

9 Q All right. Thank you, Mr. Seery.

10 MR. WILSON: That was my last question.

11 THE COURT: All right. Let's talk about whether 12 we're going to break or not.

13 Mr. Morris, is there any way you can predict how long your 14 redirect might take, not knowing what Mr. Kathman is going to 15 ask?

16 MR. MORRIS: At the moment, I have none, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Then I'm going to ask -- Mr.
18 Seery, I'm going to put your opinion above all others because 19 you have been testifying --

20 THE WITNESS: Sure.

21 THE COURT: -- a long time. If I cut -- if I limit
22 Mr. Daugherty's cross to 20 minutes, would you rather do that 23 and be done tonight or do you need to break? It's late,
24 obviously.

25 THE WITNESS: Your Honor, I'm open. I do most of my 003020

Seery - Cross

231

1 work for the estate, and so it's really your call and your
2 staff's call. If you want to do it tomorrow, I'm certainly 3 ready to do that. If you want to do it tonight, we'll just 4 keep going. Either way.

5 THE COURT: All right.

6 THE WITNESS: I'm completely open. And I didn't mean
7 to throw it back at you like that, but, you know, you have a
8 staff and I -- I just have a small abode here.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Kathman, you've got 20 minutes
10 for your cross. And, you know, I'm sorry. We've just been 11 going a long time today and we just had a very extensive cross
12 by Mr. Wilson, so I'm hoping you can give some non-duplicative
13 cross for us. All right.

14 CROSS-EXAMINATION

15 BY MR. KATHMAN:

16 Q Mr. Seery, like Mr. Wilson, we met on Saturday at your 17 deposition, correct?

18 A That's correct.

19 MR. KATHMAN: And for the record, Jason Kathman for 20 Patrick Daugherty.

21 BY MR. KATHMAN:

22 Q Mr. Seery, Acis makes its money from managing CLOs,
23 correct?

24 A That's my understanding, yes.

25 Q Okay. And Acis was essentially Highland's CLO business; 003021

Seery - Cross

232

1 isn't that right?

2 A I think that's fair, yes.

3 Q Okay. In fact, I think your words were Acis was just a
4 shell for Highland; isn't that right?

5 A I don't know if I said -- I think Acis as a corp was a
6 shell. I don't -- so I want to make sure we're not saying
7 shill. But having a shell corporation, there's nothing wrong
8 with it, that's where the Acis -- that's where the Highland
9 business was moved to, into the Acis corporate loan, and Acis
10 then took off from there. But it's the Highland -- it was the 11 Highland business, my understanding.

12 Q Highland's CLO business was moved to Acis and Acis ran 13 Highland's CLO business, correct?

14 A That's correct.

15 Q Okay. In fact, I think your testimony on Saturday was 16 Acis was Highland, right?

17 A Well, they're two -- they're two separate corporations.
18 There's nothing -- there's nothing wrong with being two 19 separate corporations. But Acis was Highland in that Highland 20 provided the employees. I don't believe at the time -- there
21 were partners in Acis, but I don't think there were employees
22 in Acis. I think they were all from -- from the Highland
23 business. And the payroll, everybody who worked there I
24 believe was on the Highland payroll.

25 Q Acis is the manager of certain CLOs, right?

003022

1 A That's correct.

2 Q Okay. And as the manager of those CLOs, it owes certain
3 fiduciary duties to its client, the CLOs, correct?

4 A Yes. I think that's a fair assessment.

5 Q Okay. Under the Advisors Act, right?

6 A Yeah. That's correct.

7 Q And not just the CLOs, but also the investors in those 8 CLOs, correct?

9 A Well, I think it's actually more (garbled). I think it's 10 actually more the investors. The CLO is just a thing, so it's 11 sort of hard to owe a fiduciary duty to just a thing which is 12 just an investment vehicle.

13 Q Understood. So you would agree with me, then, Acis, as 14 the manager of the CLOs, owed fiduciary duties to the 15 investors in those CLOs.

16 A That's my understanding, yes.

17 Q Okay. And in exercising those duties, the manager, under 18 the Advisors Act, has a duty to subordinate its interest to 19 the interests of those investors in the CLOs, correct?

20 A I think, I think generally when you think about the 21 fiduciary duty, and I think that we -- I want to make sure I'm 22 very specific about this -- is that the manager has a duty --
23 fiduciary duties -- there's a whole bunch of legal analysis of 24 what they are -- but they are significant, serious (inaudible)
25 that the manager owes to the investors. And to the extent

Seery - Cross

234

1 that the manager's interests would somehow be -- somehow
2 interfere with the investors in the CLO, he's supposed to --
3 he or she is supposed to subordinate those to the benefit of 4 the investors.

5 Q Okay. So I think your answer, I think the answer to my 6 question was yes, the manager has to subordinate its interests
7 to the interests of the investors in the CLO, correct?

8 A Yeah. But your problem -- words was pretty loaded.
9 That's why I had to -- no self-interest. Not fees. There's a 10 whole bunch of different analysis. So I think it's fair to 11 say yes. I don't want to quibble with you about your 12 presentation. But we had a long discussion about this on 13 Saturday.

14 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, if I may, I don't want to 15 interrupt Counsel's flow, but I'm not sure what the purpose of 16 this is, but I just want to make it clear that Mr. Seery is 17 not being offered as an expert on fiduciary duties, and to the 18 extent any of these questions are designed to elicit some type
19 of binding result on the Debtor, I would object.

20 THE COURT: What about that, Mr. Kathman?

21 MR. KATHMAN: Your Honor, may I respond?

22 THE COURT: Please.

23 MR. KATHMAN: I would like to respond to that, Your 24 Honor. There was a hearing held on March 4th in this hearing
25 where the Debtor put Mr. Seery on the stand and he testified

003024

Seery - Cross

235

1 pretty extensively about what his duties are under the 2 Advisors Act. They were trying to pay people. Ms. Hayward
3 had him under direct examination and Mr. Seery testified there
4 about what the duties are under the Advisors Act.

5 So to the extent that Mr. Seery has already been asked
6 questions in this case about what an advisor's duties are 7 under the Advisors Act, I think that that has opened the door
8 and he can answer questions on what his understanding and 9 belief is under the Advisors Act.

10 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

11 MS. MASCHERIN: Your Honor, I'm going to also join in 12 with a relevance objection, and I fail to see how testimony at 13 a March hearing that was not a 9019 motion, what possible
14 relevance that has here.

15 THE COURT: Okay. How about the relevance objection,
16 Mr. Kathman? I'm a little concerned.

17 MR. KATHMAN: Sure, I'll answer the relevance
18 objection, Your Honor. The main thrust of one of our 19 objections is that the Acis releases are too -- are 20 essentially premature at this point. And the testimony I
21 think you're going to hear from Mr. Seery is that he didn't
22 consider at all whether Acis had violated its own Advisors Act
23 obligation to any of its investors. He's going to testify he 24 doesn't know who the investors are in the Acis CLOs and 25 whether Acis may have liability for violation of the Advisors

003025

236

1 Act. That just purely wasn't something that he considered in 2 determining whether to grant these releases that are -- or 3 agree to these releases that were included in the settlement
4 agreement.

5 And so what I want to know, Your Honor, is, is there
6 potential liability that's there? And I'm getting at the 7 question, I'm asking Mr. Seery, did he consider those things?
8 His answer is going to be no. I took his deposition on 9 Saturday. And that's relevant, Your Honor, because as Mr.
10 Clemente -- and I'm almost done, Your Honor. As Mr. Clemente
11 said a couple of months ago, these things all looked at 12 individually can a lot of time be justified, but when you put 13 it in context and you look at the broader scope of things, you
14 have to examine all of these settlements and all of these 15 motions in the broader context.

16 And our argument, Your Honor, is that there's a whole lot
17 of litigation pending right now. We have the Committee that 18 has a deadline to potentially bring causes of action against 19 Highland CLO Funding. There's a HarbourVest objection on file
20 right now that involves stuff going on with Highland CLO
21 Funding. And all of those facts relate to potential
22 obligations that Acis has to Highland CLO Funding. You heard 23 Ms. Patel talk about that relation earlier when she was 24 speaking.

25 And so, Your Honor, part of our argument is that until we 003026

Seery - Cross

237

1 know what the result of all of that litigation is, that these
2 releases are just a little premature. And Mr. Seery's
3 testimony is going to be he didn't consider any of that in 4 determining whether to approve the settlement.

5 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, may --

6 THE COURT: You say these releases, plural. I mean,
7 we've already heard that HCLOF and Holdco and HarbourVest are 8 carved out.

9 MR. KATHMAN: I understand.

10 THE COURT: So it's all about the Highland release,
11 right? Or no? I mean, I don't know who you're talking about.

12 MR. KATHMAN: The answer to that question, Your 13 Honor, is the Committee, again, has specifically said in this 14 Court that they investigated the quote/unquote Byzantine 15 empire. They're undertaking an investigation right now of 16 whether to bring alter ego causes of action and fraudulent
17 transfer causes of action.

18 So the concern that I have and the concern my client has 19 is if at some point Highland CLO Funding and all of these 20 entities that are in the Highland Byzantine get collapsed back
21 into Highland, Highland has no ability to go back and point
22 the finger at Acis because it's given that release away, it's 23 given that release away in the settlement agreement.

24 THE COURT: I'm not understanding. Okay. Let's
25 start with this fundamental. Acis went through its own

003027

238

1 bankruptcy. So I guess you're talking about post-confirmation
2 Acis.

3 MR. KATHMAN: Correct.

4 THE COURT: January 2018 --

5 MR. KATHMAN: Correct.

6 THE COURT: -- is the only Acis that claims can be
7 asserted against, okay?

8 MR. KATHMAN: Correct. Yes.

9 THE COURT: Post-January --

10 MS. PATEL: 2019, Your Honor, to be clear.

11 THE COURT: Oh, 2019? Okay.

12 MS. PATEL: Yes, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: Time flies.

14 MS. PATEL: Our plan went effective actually February 15 of 2019.

16 THE COURT: Time flies. So, can we agree that nobody 17 has any ability -- well, I say nobody. I mean, there are -- 18 there's the proof of claim of Highland. There's the 19 administrative expense claim in Acis's case that are being --
20 that's been compromised. But if anyone is going to say Acis
21 is part of an alter ego type theory, it's too late, right?
22 It's too late because --

23 A VOICE: Not the --

24 MR. MORRIS: Exactly.

25 THE COURT: That's not your argument? Then -- 003028

239

1 MR. KATHMAN: No, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: -- I'm confused what, what the argument
3 is.

4 MR. KATHMAN: Your Honor, my argument is that
5 Highland CLO Funding or CLO Holdco or any of the entities that 6 the Committee is targeting, okay, --

7 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

8 MR. KATHMAN: -- there are -- there are entities.
9 Back in July, remember Mr. Clemente came before this Court and 10 you put a 90-day deadline --

11 THE COURT: Right. Right.

12 MR. KATHMAN: -- on him to investigate those claims
13 and causes of action.

14 THE COURT: Uh-huh. Uh-huh.

15 MR. KATHMAN: Okay? That was just recently extended,
16 I think, last week. If any of those entitles, CLO Holdco, 17 Highland CLO Funding, or any other of those entities that the 18 Committee might target for alter ego, not Acis, --

19 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

20 MR. KATHMAN: -- if any of those entities are 21 ultimately determined to be the alter ego and are collapsed
22 back into Highland, and those entities, like Highland CLO
23 Funding, which the Debtor is carving out of this release, --

24 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

25 MR. KATHMAN: -- or CLO Holdco, which it's carving

003029

Seery - Cross

240

1 out of the release, --

2 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

3 MR. KATHMAN: -- if those entities end up getting 4 clawed back, or even fraudulent transfers for the CLOs that 5 were transferred to those entities get brought back into
6 Highland, --

7 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

8 MR. KATHMAN: -- Highland can't sue for anything that 9 Acis did post-confirmation because it's giving those releases
10 away in the settlement. I see I lost you.

11 THE COURT: Well, I -- I mean yes, that's the point
12 of the settlement.

13 A VOICE: Yeah.

14 THE COURT: But I'm not sure -- I'm not sure where 15 the questioning about fiduciary duties, where it ties into 16 this.

17 MR. KATHMAN: It's really, Your Honor -- and I can 18 probably skip a lot of this by asking Mr. Seery a penultimate
19 question: Did he consider any of this in determining whether 20 to approve the settlement or not? That will shortcut it.
21 That will shortcut it because his answer is going to be no,
22 that wasn't considered as a part of this settlement.

23 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

24 MS. PATEL: I still don't --

25 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. I would just -- I would just 003030

Seery - Cross

241

1 point out that his reliance on the UCC, which hasn't even
2 filed an objection to this motion, is misplaced for that very
3 reason. I don't see how he gets to piggyback on something Mr.
4 Clemente said a couple months ago in a different context in a
5 motion today in which the UCC doesn't take a position. It's -
6 - this is just so far afield, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Kathman, I'm going to 8 sustain what is essentially a relevance objection. I'm not 9 connecting the dots on -- since we established at the 10 beginning of this hearing that there would be no release of 11 HCLO Funding or CLO Holdco or HarbourVest, no mutual releases, 12 I feel like the scenario you have defined as being your 13 concern, what if the Committee decides to bring causes of 14 action against them or seek alter ego remedies, I don't know
15 how that's impacted by this proposed settlement. I just don't 16 get it.

17 MR. KATHMAN: Yeah. Can I answer that, Your Honor,

18 THE COURT: Please.

19 MR. KATHMAN: -- and address that concern?

20 THE COURT: Please.

21 MR. KATHMAN: Okay. This really isn't the crux of 22 what our objection is, Your Honor. Is that if you -- and I'm 23 not asking the Court to, I'm just -- to agree with me. What 24 I'm proposing is that, in the event Highland CLO Funding has 25 some cause of action against Acis for breach of the Advisors

003031

1 Act, okay, under the settlement as it is sitting right now
2 carved out, no problems. Correct? But if --

3 THE COURT: So, for post-January 2019, yeah.

4 MR. KATHMAN: Right. All I'm saying -- and I'm 5 talking about --

6 THE COURT: The others are barred by the confirmation
7 order, okay?

8 MR. KATHMAN: I'm talking about post -- post-
9 confirmation Acis causes of action, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: Uh-huh. Uh-huh.

11 MR. KATHMAN: If Highland CLO Funding were to have 12 causes of action for that, as currently proposed, yes, it's 13 carved out in the settlement agreement. But in the event
14 Highland CLO Funding is collapsed into the Debtor, okay, those 15 are causes of action that the Debtor would then have. Because 16 if Highland CLO Funding is collapsed into the Debtor, the 17 Debtor then possesses those causes of action against Acis for 18 violations of the Investors Act. But the Debtor would not be 19 able to bring those causes of action for violations of the 20 Investors Act because of these releases in the settlement
21 agreement. My point is it's premature.

22 THE COURT: I'm not sure I agree with you legally. I
23 mean, can you give me some authority for that?

24 MR. KATHMAN: I don't, Your Honor. To be honest with 25 you, no, off the top of your head, I do not have authority

Seery - Cross

243

1 that if it's collapsed back in there the -- if Highland --
2 well, I --

3 THE COURT: I disagree with the premise so I'm going
4 to find the line of questioning irrelevant, okay? So please 5 move on.

6 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

7 MR. KATHMAN: Can I ask my penultimate question?

8 THE COURT: Go ahead.

9 BY MR. KATHMAN:

10 Q The penultimate question being: Mr. Seery, in determining 11 whether to approve this settlement, did you consider whether 12 Acis might have violated its Investors -- its Advisors Act
13 duties to the investors in the Acis CLO?

14 MR. MORRIS: Objection.

15 MS. MATSUMURA: Objection, relevance.

16 THE COURT: Sustained.

17 MS. MATSUMURA: Sorry. This is Rebecca Matsumura
18 from Highland CLO Funding. I just want to state on the record
19 that we also object to the premise of this line of questioning
20 and don't understand why he would be raising these on behalf
21 of our client, and we would object to whatever alter ego
22 argument he seems to be suggesting.

23 THE COURT: All right.

24 MS. MATSUMURA: Thank you.

25 THE COURT: All right.

003033

Seery - Cross

244

1 MR. KATHMAN: Your Honor, I don't have any further
2 questions.

3 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Any redirect, Mr.
4 Morris?

5 MR. MORRIS: No, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: All right. Well, Mr. Seery, thank you.
7 That concludes your testimony, unless someone recalls you for 8 rebuttal tomorrow.

9 All right. So we're going to recess, and we'll start back
10 at 9:30 in the morning.

11 Do we want to talk a little bit about -- well, Mr. Morris,
12 are you resting? I shouldn't have assumed you're resting. I
13 think this was your only witness, correct?

14 MR. MORRIS: He was. We -- exhibits -- rebuttal.
15 And so we -- we went through the --

16 THE COURT: We did.

17 MR. MORRIS: -- Exhibits 1 through 4.

18 THE COURT: We did.

19 MR. MORRIS: So the Debtor does rest, Your Honor.
20 And I think it'll be up to Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Dondero as to 21 whether Mr. Daugherty is going to testify. He was on a 22 witness list. And whether Professor Rappaport is going to 23 testify. I think those are the only two potential witnesses,
24 if they're still planning on doing it.

25 THE COURT: All right. Well, let me double-check

003034

1 with Ms. Patel. I can't remember if you filed a witness and 2 exhibit list. Did you have any separate evidence on this?
3 You did file a witness and exhibit -- but it didn't say, it
4 didn't designate a witness. It just said --

5 MS. PATEL: It did not, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Okay. So you're not going to put on any
7 evidence?

8 MS. PATEL: We are not putting on any additional 9 evidence, Your Honor. Our witness and exhibit list was 10 essentially a "Me, too" along with the Debtor.

11 THE COURT: Okay. So the Debtor has rested.

12 And Mr. Kathman, can I presume you're putting on Mr.
13 Daugherty if we reconvene tomorrow morning?

14 MR. KATHMAN: Well, that would have been a good
15 presumption before this argument here, Your Honor. I'm going 16 to talk to my client about that, because if Your Honor's not 17 going to hear any testimony about potential causes of action
18 that may exist and potential liabilities out there, that may 19 alleviate the need for Mr. Daugherty's testimony. So I'm 20 going to talk to him. And what I'd like to do is reserve my 21 right to call him tomorrow morning, but I can't tell you
22 definitively one way or the other as I sit here.

23 THE COURT: All right. And then Mr. Wilson, can you
24 tell us about witnesses you plan to call? Was there anyone
25 besides Professor Rappaport?

1 MR. WILSON: No, Your Honor. We had two witnesses on
2 our list, one of which was Mr. Seery, and I've covered
3 everything we need to cover with him, so I wasn't going to 4 recall him in our case in chief.

5 We do have potential scheduling issues with Professor
6 Rappaport. She is a practicing professor, and her teaching
7 schedule does not allow her to appear tomorrow morning. She 8 has somewhat of a limited schedule. She told us that Thursday
9 morning or Tuesday --

10 THE COURT: I'm sorry, she told you what?

11 MR. WILSON: That she was available Thursday morning
12 or Tuesday. Or next Tuesday.

13 THE COURT: All right. Well, I'm sorry. We gave 14 this hearing date quite a while back. So you're saying even 15 if I went tonight until 8:00 o'clock she wasn't available
16 tonight; is that correct?

17 MR. WILSON: Well, I do believe she has another hour
18 available today.

19 THE COURT: Well, you know, it is 6:37 Central time,
20 and we've been going a very long time today. Remember, I've 21 had two other hearings besides these.

22 Let me ask this: Is there any objection to Professor 23 Rappaport? I'm not sure what the nature of her testimony is 24 going to be. And were there any objections, or no?

25 MR. MORRIS: You know, Your Honor, I actually was

1 planning on making another motion. Can we just take two
2 minutes and let me confer with my colleagues? If -- what I'm
3 considering, if it would be okay with counsel for Mr. Dondero,
4 is to just let the report in for what it is, without 5 testimony. I don't know if that's something that they would 6 consider. And then subject to, you know, consulting with my 7 client, that would be something that I might recommend in 8 order to move this along.

9 It sets forth her opinions. I'm not sure -- you know, and 10 if I don't object to it, I'm not sure why we need to hear from 11 the witness.

12 THE COURT: All right. What about that, Mr. Wilson?

13 MR. WILSON: If you'll allow me a real quick consult 14 with my co-counsel, I'll give you an answer.

15 THE COURT: Okay.

16 MR. MORRIS: Can we just take three minutes, Your 17 Honor?

18 THE COURT: Yes.

19 MR. MORRIS: Not a long break.

20 THE COURT: But yes, please, three minutes. There 21 may be people wanting to watch the World Series, but others of 22 us are just tired. Okay.

23 MR. MORRIS: Thanks so much.

24 THE COURT: Okay. Three minutes.

25 (A recess ensued from 6:40 p.m. to 6:43 p.m.)

1 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, during the break if we could
2 also -- if Mr. Kathman wouldn't mind asking his client, I
3 believe Mr. Daugherty's on the hearing as well, if they could
4 make a decision. Assuming a couple dominoes fall into place,
5 if Mr. Daugherty's not going to testify, and assuming 6 Professor Rappaport's report is going to come in, I'm hoping
7 you close this tonight or talk about when we're going to do
8 closing those arguments if they're going to be lengthy.

9 MR. KATHMAN: Your Honor, Ms. Patel has always --
10 maybe sometimes, maybe not always, but sometimes a step ahead
11 of me. I have spoken with Mr. Daugherty and we're not going 12 to call him.

13 THE COURT: You are not going to call him? That's 14 what you said?

15 MR. KATHMAN: No.

16 THE COURT: Okay.

17 MR. KATHMAN: No, we are not going to call him, Your 18 Honor.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. MORRIS: The Debtor is prepared to allow her
21 report to come in without testimony. And without objection.

22 THE COURT: I'm sorry, say again?

23 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, the Debtor would consent, if 24 Mr. Dondero consents, the Debtor would consent to the 25 admission of Professor Rappaport's report into evidence

1 without objection, provided there's no testimony.

2 THE COURT: All right. So do we have Mr. Wilson
3 back?

4 MR. WILSON: Yes, Your Honor. Mr. Dondero will agree
5 to the admission of Professor Rappaport's report in lieu of 6 her testimony.

7 I would ask a couple things. Number one, that I be
8 allowed an opportunity to admit the exhibits on my exhibit
9 list, which include the report and Professor Rappaport's CV.

10 And then the second thing I would ask is that Judge Lynn
11 had prepared a closing argument and we would like sufficient 12 time to -- for him to give that before the close of this 13 hearing.

14 THE COURT: All right. Well, as far as Dondero's
15 exhibits, they are at Docket #1194. There are --

16 MR. KATHMAN: Your Honor, can I make a suggestion
17 with closing arguments, I mean, potentially?

18 THE COURT: Okay. Let me take these in steps. We 19 have Exhibits A through AA, A through Z plus AA, that I think 20 you're offering. That's --

21 MR. WILSON: Well, Your Honor, briefly, we're not 22 going to try to put in the Seery depo, the Seery video, or the 23 Nancy Rappaport depo.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. WILSON: I guess we'll just do Dondero Exhibits A

1 through X.

2 THE COURT: A through X have been offered. Does
3 anyone object?

4 MR. MORRIS: Just one second, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 (Pause.)

7 MR. MORRIS: Only to Exhibit P as in Peter. That is 8 the expert report. And as long as it's not being offered for 9 the truth of the matter asserted, it's being offered solely 10 for the purposes of expert testimony, the Debtor has no
11 objections to any other of the proffered A through X.

12 THE COURT: All right. Any other objections?

13 All right. With that caveat -- Mr. Wilson, I assume you
14 don't have any issue with the caveat on the Rappaport report.
15 So with that, I'll --

16 MR. WILSON: No, there is none.

17 THE COURT: I'll admit these.

18 (James Dondero's Exhibits A through X are received into 19 evidence.)

20 THE COURT: If I go to the docket, the expert report
21 of Professor Rappaport is actually there on the docket at 22 1194.

23 MR. WILSON: (inaudible). Yes, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: Okay. So I need to read that before we 25 come back tomorrow, and I guess see if there's anything else

1 on here I haven't looked at.

2 So what we will do is we'll come back tomorrow morning for 3 closing arguments. And Mr. -- well, let me ask. I was going
4 to say 9:30, but would 10:00 o'clock, by chance, be a little
5 bit better? That'll help me look at this Professor Rappaport
6 report. I don't know how long it is, but --

7 MR. MORRIS: I will be available whatever time is 8 convenient for the Court. Can you give us some guidance as to 9 how long you will tolerate closing statements?

10 THE COURT: Tolerate. Your word. I think, you know,
11 20 minutes each ought to be plenty.

12 MR. MORRIS: That's fair.

13 THE COURT: So we'll start at 10:00 o'clock Central
14 and we'll hear those closing arguments. And when we're done
15 tomorrow or with this issue, I'd love to get a preview as far
16 as the disclosure statement hearing Thursday at 9:30. I think
17 I told you four. Five objections were filed in the last, you 18 know, few hours we've been in court. Every member of the 19 Creditors' Committee plus the Creditors' Committee filed an 20 objection. And I have not looked at them to know how lengthy 21 they are. But I'd love to get a preview on whether you're 22 going to be working and trying to resolve these and maybe
23 we'll start and adjourn, or if we're going to have a knock-
24 down drag-out. Okay?

25 MR. KATHMAN: Your Honor, I would like to offer two

1 exhibits. I don't think they're controversial. It's just the
2 Debtor's plan and disclosure statement. They were our PHD 23
3 and 24. They're filed at Docket #1079 and 1080 in the case.
4 It's the Debtor's plan and disclosure statement. I can't 5 imagine there's any objection to those.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. MORRIS: No objection.

8 THE COURT: All right. Those will be admitted.

9 (Patrick Daugherty's Exhibit 23 and 24 are received into 10 evidence.)

11 THE COURT: All right. So we'll see you at 10:00
12 o'clock in the morning.

13 MS. PATEL: Your Honor?

14 MR. ANNABLE: Your Honor?

15 MS. PATEL: If I may.

16 THE COURT: Briefly.

17 MS. PATEL: My apologies. I know I kind of started
18 off late in the hearing, but as I explained earlier today, I
19 have an in-movable conflict tomorrow morning. Mr. Shaw will 20 handle closing arguments for us. And may I be excused from 21 appearing tomorrow?

22 THE COURT: You are excused. Thank you. All right.
23 Good night.

24 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor.

25 MR. ANNABLE: Your Honor? Your Honor?

1 THE CLERK: All rise.

2 MR. ANNABLE: This is Zach Annable. Your Honor?

3 Your Honor?

4 THE COURT: This better be good, Mr. Annable.

5 MR. ANNABLE: I apologize. This is just a
6 housekeeping matter. For purposes of the continued hearing
7 tomorrow morning, I know it's too late for your staff to 8 probably set up the WebEx meeting information, but if you
9 could have Ms. Ellis distribute that to me tomorrow morning, I
10 will try to make sure to get it out to everybody. Just 11 letting you know we will need a new WebEx invitation for the 12 hearing tomorrow morning.

13 THE COURT: All right.

14 MR. MORRIS: Thank you. Thank you. Good catch.

15 THE CLERK: She's probably listening anyway. She 16 usually listens.

17 THE COURT: Yes. She -- hang on. Knowing Traci, she 18 is listening.

19 (Pause.)

20 THE COURT: Well, she surprised me. She didn't pick 21 up the phone. I promise you, she'll be all over it, so we'll

22 --

23 THE CLERK: I'll send an e-mail.

24 THE COURT: Yes. Mike's sending her an e-mail right
25 now, so you all will have it in plenty of time to get

1 connected. Okay. Thank you. Mr. Annable, that was worth it.
2 Okay?

3 MR. ANNABLE: Thank you, Your Honor.

4 THE CLERK: All rise.

1 DALLAS, TEXAS - OCTOBER 21, 2020 - 10:05 A.M.

2 THE CLERK: All rise. The United States Bankruptcy
3 Code for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division, is 4 now in session, the Honorable Stacey Jernigan presiding.

5 THE COURT: Good morning. Please be seated. All
6 right. We are back today for closing arguments in the 7 Highland matter, the motion for approval of a compromise with 8 Acis and the Terrys. This is Case Number 19-34054. Let's see
9 if we have all necessary parties. Appearing for the Debtor,
10 do we have Mr. Morris and crew?

11 MR. MORRIS: Good morning, Your Honor. John Morris;
12 Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones, for the Debtor. I know Mr.
13 Kharasch is with us, as I think Mr. Demo and Mr. Pomerantz are 14 on the line.

15 THE COURT: Okay. Very good.

16 MR. MORRIS: And, of course, we have our CEO, James
17 Seery.

18 THE COURT: Okay. Very good.

19 All right. For the Acis team, I see Ms. Chiarello today.

20 MS. CHIARELLO: Good morning, Your Honor. Annmarie
21 Chiarello of Winstead, P.C. here on behalf of Acis Capital
22 Management, LP, and Acis Capital Management, GP. On the phone
23 we also have Mr. Shaw of the Rogge Dunn firm on behalf of Acis
24 and a number of Josh Terry related parties, including Mr.
25 Terry individually.

1 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

2 All right. For Mr. Dondero, do we have Mr. Lynn and team?

3 MS. CHIARELLO: Thank you.

4 A VOICE: You're on mute, sir.

5 MR. LYNN: Okay. I'm sorry, Your Honor. I'm
6 technologically inept. Michael Lynn together with John Wilson
7 for Mr. Dondero.

8 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. A lot of us are 9 technologically inept, by the way, myself included at times.

10 All right. For Mr. Daugherty, do we have Jason Kathman
11 there?

12 MR. KATHMAN: Good morning, Your Honor. Jason
13 Kathman on behalf of Pat Daugherty.

14 THE COURT: All right. We had the limited objectors
15 that I think everything is resolved with, but I'll go ahead
16 and take a roll call there. CLO Holdco, do we have Mr. Kane
17 or others?

18 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor. John Kane for CLO
19 Holdco.

20 THE COURT: All right. For Highland CLO Funding, do
21 we have Ms. Matsumura?

22 MS. MATSUMURA: Yes, Your Honor. Rebecca Matsumura
23 from King & Spalding for Highland CLO Funding, Limited.

24 THE COURT: All right. For HarbourVest, do we have 25 Erica Weisgerber?

1 MS. WEISGERBER: Yes. Good morning, Your Honor.
2 Erica Weisgerber from Debevoise & Plimpton for HarbourVest.

3 THE COURT: All right. Good morning.

4 And I'm guessing we have UBS, even though it has not
5 objected to this settlement. Do we have Ms. Tomkowiak? (No
6 response.) All right. Maybe they have decided to sit this 7 one out.

8 Do we have anyone for the Redeemer Committee? Ms.
9 Mascherin, perhaps?

10 MR. PLATT: Your Honor, Mark Platt here on behalf of 11 the Redeemer Committee, and also Mark Hankin from Jenner &
12 Block is on as well.

13 THE COURT: Okay. Very good. All right. Let's see 14 if I missed anyone. Committee, we have Mr. Clemente?

15 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes. Good morning, Your Honor. Matt
16 Clemente from Sidley on behalf of the Committee.

17 THE COURT: All right. U.S. Trustee, do we have any 18 representative of there?

19 MS. LAMBERT: Good morning, Your Honor. It's Lisa
20 Lambert for the United States Trustee.

21 THE COURT: Good morning. Any other parties wishing 22 to appear at this time?

23 All right. Well, as I said, we're here for closing
24 arguments. I set a 20-minute time limit for each of you. So,
25 Mr. Morris, are you going to be making the closing argument

1 for the Debtor?

2 MR. MORRIS: Yes, I will, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: All right. You may proceed.

4 MR. MORRIS: Before I do, may I turn the microphone
5 over to Jason Kathman for Mr. Daugherty? I think he might 6 have something to share with the Court.

7 THE COURT: Oh, okay. Mr. --

8 MR. KATHMAN: Your Honor, as a point of housekeeping,
9 Mr. Daugherty is going to withdraw his objection to the 9019
10 settlement. We heard Your Honor loud and clear yesterday at 11 the hearing, and at this point we'll withdraw our objection to 12 the 9019 settlement.

13 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you, Mr. Kathman.

14 All right. Go ahead, Mr. Morris.

15 MR. MORRIS: So, may I proceed?

16 THE COURT: You may.

17 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTORS

18 MR. MORRIS: So, we're pleased that four of the five 19 objections have been resolved in one way or another, and we're 20 left still with Mr. Dondero's objection.

21 Before I get into the application of the facts to the law,
22 I want to address more generally the substance of a good
23 portion of the cross-examination of Mr. Seery yesterday. And 24 that examination was directed towards, you know, questioning
25 about the objection that the Debtor had filed against the Acis

1 claim.

2 Mr. Seery, I think to his considerable credit, testified
3 very credibly that the Debtor believed very much in the 4 substance of the objection and believed that the objection was 5 well-founded. What I think -- what I think the examination
6 and the argument misses, though, is that's not really the 7 decision-making process that the Debtor went through in order
8 to get to this settlement.

9 What the Debtor went through was what I think any rational
10 actor would go through, and that is compare what we may 11 believe would happen with what we think might actually happen
12 in the courtroom and weigh that against what the options are.
13 And Mr. Seery testified very clearly that, for example, he 14 believed Mirant was wrongly decided in his personal -- but he 15 had the humility to check his personal views at the door when 16 assessing whether this settlement was better than the 17 alternative and to come to the understanding -- he testified
18 to this clearly; this isn't even argument; this is just a 19 statement of fact of record -- that while he believed Mirant
20 was wrongly decided, he understands that it's Fifth Circuit
21 law and he has to take that into account in deciding whether 22 the alternative is better to litigation.

23 And the notion that because we have strongly-held beliefs
24 set forth in the pleading that we should no longer be willing
25 to compromise I think would make this Court reject every 9019

1 motion that ever comes before it.

2 I daresay that Mr. Terry and Ms. Patel and Mr. Shaw firmly
3 believe that their client has been wronged and that they're 4 entitled to $75 million or more. Thankfully, they were able 5 to check their egos at the door and come to an agreement, I
6 guess, that they believe represents a fair and reasonable
7 compromise.

8 So I understand that while -- that Mr. Dondero embraced 9 and appreciated the arguments that the Debtor made in its 10 pleading, but the fact of the matter is the Debtor came to a 11 position when it had the choice of either going forward with 12 that litigation, with all of the costs and risks and 13 uncertainty that were described, or taking this settlement.
14 And it came to the -- I believe the record shows -- the very 15 considered and reasonable decision to end all of the 16 litigation with Acis on the terms set forth in the agreement.

17 And I just wanted to kind of -- that doesn't go to any of 18 the particular -- necessarily go to any of the particular 19 elements of the legal standard, but so much time was spent 20 trying to tie Mr. Seery and the Debtor to the objection, and I
21 think -- I think it's important for the Court to look at this 22 in context.

23 And frankly, there are other very substantial claims out
24 there. And Mr. Seery was very clear that each case is going 25 to be judged on its own merits. And just because we've

1 settled a case where we put forth a strong legal position
2 here, it's only because we got to terms that the Debtor felt
3 were fair and reasonable. We've taken -- and parties do this
4 all the time. They take their litigation position and we're 5 going to take our litigation position. But when it comes to 6 settlement, you have to view: What are the alternatives? And 7 that's all Mr. Seery did. That's what the board did, servant
8 of their fiduciary duties.

9 And I'm going to talk in a few minutes about the benefits
10 to the estate that this settlement entails, but I just -- I
11 was a little surprised that anybody would try to say that 12 because we took a position in litigation we're not allowed to 13 compromise that position. Because if that were the standard,
14 Your Honor, no 9019 would ever be approved, because, by 15 definition, 9019s are compromises.

16 So let me turn for a moment now to the actual elements of 17 the standard under 9019. The first one is the probability of 18 success on the merits. As I said, Mr. Seery felt strongly 19 about the position, but he also articulated some very, very 20 specific concerns, from Mirant to the Court's views on 21 equities that may not be -- the Court may not share our views 22 on equities. The Court may not share. The Court has a lot of 23 experience with these particular litigants. The Court has 24 already assessed the credibility of certain witnesses in 25 relation to the claims at issue in this matter. The Court has

1 already rendered decisions with respect to certain aspects of 2 this matter. And so the Debtor took all of those things into
3 account in assessing the probability of success on the merits,
4 and that's all very much in the record.

5 But I did want to point to one other piece of evidence
6 that hasn't been discussed yet, and that is Professor 7 Rapoport's expert report that has now been admitted into
8 evidence. You know, I question the weight that the Court
9 should give, but never -- only because I'm not sure how -- the 10 depth of the opinion. But nevertheless, Professor Rapoport
11 specifically says at the top of Page 5, on Page 13, at the 12 very end of her opinion as to Question 1, she says, in 13 substance, if the Court follows Mirant and otherwise finds
14 that damages would benefit the Acis estate, then the Acis
15 claim, valued by Acis at least $75 million, could have 16 significant value. Still, that value would depend on how the 17 Court found -- how the facts fall after the Court hears
18 testimony and is able to weigh the evidence.

19 That's kind of what Mr. Seery did. So I'm not even sure 20 that there's a dispute, frankly, over the probability of 21 success. Nobody has quantified it. Nobody asked Mr. Seery to 22 quantify it. We haven't gone down that path.

23 But Professor Rapoport, in her very first opinion, said:
24 Could be zero, could be $75 million or more. It depends on 25 where the Court comes out.

1 How could it be unreasonable for the Debtor to follow
2 Professor Rapoport's guidance and settle the claim at less
3 than two -- at less than one-third of the value that she 4 herself says was possible? So that's how I would deal with 5 the probability of success on the merits.

6 The second issue, Your Honor, has to do with the 7 complexity and the duration of the expected litigation. I
8 think it's fair to say that the litigation would be fairly 9 complex. You've got 34 different claims. And this is -- and 10 I remind the Court that this is just in the adversary
11 proceeding in this court. I'm not even talking about the 12 complexity of the litigation of dealing with the employees,
13 the complexity of the litigation -- and I guess the Guernsey
14 matter is concluded at this point. But there's a lot of 15 satellite litigation that has to be taken into account when 16 discussing the complexity of the matters at issue.

17 As far as duration, Your Honor, you know, the suggestion
18 was made, why don't you spend a little bit of money and see if 19 your motion is good? Mr. Seery could not have been more
20 clear. What if we lose? Right? What if we lose on Mirant
21 and 550, such that, you know, actual fraudulent transfers come 22 into play? Defenses such as reasonably equivalent value and 23 insolvency fall by the wayside.

24 That's a risk we could take, I suppose. And let's look at 25 it the other way. What if we win? Does this Court think for

1 one second that Mr. Terry and Ms. Patel and Mr. Shaw are 2 packing their bags, shrugging their shoulders, and going home?
3 No. We'd be left with an appeal to the District Court. And 4 if they lost there, based on -- and this is based on record.
5 This is not speculation. We know what happens with these 6 litigants. We'd be in the Fifth Circuit somewhere in 2024,
7 probably.

8 And so even if you won, are you really winning? And all
9 the other litigation continues and the estate is still 10 spending all of this money. Does anybody think for a second 11 that that litigation is really -- just be resolved if we could 12 just let the Court hear the motion? We don't think so. We 13 don't think the record supports that. We don't think there's 14 a fair inference for that.

15 I'll deal with arm's length bargaining, Your Honor, very 16 quickly. You know, I don't think that board can do much more 17 to fulfill its duties, do the diligence to satisfy itself as 18 to the nature and extent of the claims. You heard Mr. Seery
19 testify unambiguously -- and, frankly, not surprisingly --
20 that there were substantial negotiations that went on between 21 the principals, between the lawyers, between the principals
22 and the lawyers. And you know what? We couldn't come to an 23 agreement. We couldn't come to an agreement on our own.

24 We were sent to mediation. And again, I don't intend to 25 waive mediation privilege at all. It is a stated fact and the

1 Court knows a settlement was reached in mediation. If a
2 settlement is reached in mediation, I don't know how you can
3 get a better definition of arm's-length bargaining.

4 The last point, Your Honor, is paramount interests of 5 creditors. I won't go through again the litany of litigation
6 that has been resolved here. I will remind the Court that the 7 parties were so contentious, and, frankly, even -- even the 8 Debtor under this management has been engaged in such 9 tangential issues as spending time, money, and effort fighting
10 over Acis' request to redact monthly operating reports.

11 That's where we were a couple of months ago, Your Honor.
12 Forget about the merits of the litigation. That's where we 13 were. That's what we were doing. The suggestion that this 14 settlement is not in the paramount interests of creditors,
15 that resolves in a fair and reasonable way, I think just isn't 16 credible, Your Honor.

17 For all of those reasons, we respectfully request that the 18 Court enter an order approving this motion in all respects.

19 And before I finish, just who won the game last night?

20 THE COURT: Who won the game last night?

21 MR. MORRIS: Yes. I knew you'd --

22 THE COURT: Okay. I --

23 MR. MORRIS: Thank you for your time yesterday, Your 24 Honor, is really what I wanted to say. You were so patient
25 with all of the litigants. You gave us so much time. And the

1 Debtor is very, very grateful just for the opportunity to 2 complete this matter in a timely fashion. And I just, from 3 the Debtor's perspective, wanted to say thank you.

4 I thought you said that you were going to the game, but 5 now I was reminded that somebody else did.

6 THE COURT: Oh, no, it was a law clerk down the hall.
7 And he and his wife used to live in Los Angeles. What I
8 pointed out was that Kershaw, the winning pitcher, of course,
9 grew up in Dallas.

10 MR. MORRIS: Ah.

11 THE COURT: So that was a reason I think a lot of 12 people were interested in the game here. But anyway, --

13 MR. MORRIS: Thank you so much, Your Honor.

14 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

15 Okay. Well, I'll hear from friendlies before we hear from 16 objectors. I think we heard that Mr. Shaw was going to make a
17 closing argument for Acis and the Terrys, so you may go ahead.

18 (Pause.)

19 THE COURT: Mr. Shaw, you must be on mute still. If 20 you could unmute yourself.

21 See there, Mr. Lynn, I told you you weren't the only one
22 who had technical issues from time to time.

23 All right. Brian Shaw or Annmarie Chiarello, here is your 24 chance to make a closing argument. We need to hear from you
25 now or we're going to move on.

1 MS. CHIARELLO: Yes.

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 MS. CHIARELLO: Your Honor. This is Annmarie
4 Chiarello. I believe Mr. Shaw is having technical 5 difficulties. It looks like he's muting and I'm muting him as 6 well. Let's see if he can log on, and if not I'll try my best
7 to pinch hit here, I guess is probably the right analogy.

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 MS. CHIARELLO: Mr. Shaw, can you hear us?

10 (No response.)

11 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF ACIS CAPITAL MANAGEMENT

12 MS. CHIARELLO: Okay. Well, with that, Your Honor, 13 Acis is very supportive of the settlement. And really, at 14 this juncture, I think it's just important to note a couple of 15 clarifications or points of clarification with respect to Mr.
16 -- or, Professor Rapoport's report. I think it was never 17 fully examined here, but there's a presumption that Mr.
18 Dondero was going to pay the legal fees associated with 19 litigating the Acis case, I guess to the Fifth Circuit, 20 potentially. I'm not sure that's in the record anywhere. But 21 to the extent the Court has already taken judicial notice of 22 the Acis pleadings, I would note that Mr. Dondero's track
23 record of paying attorneys for just about anything is a little 24 suspect.

25 Next, let's see. Next, Professor Rapoport does

1 acknowledge in a Footnote 6 that the Mirant case is really her
2 contrary case law for her position that she thinks that
3 effectively Acis would lack standing to bring the Chapter 5
4 causes of action and other fraudulent transfer actions that
5 are in the Acis complaint. Here, we have controlling Fifth
6 Circuit case law on this issue. We're not trying to, you
7 know, operate in a vacuum. It's pretty clear where the case
8 law stands, and I think that should go into the Court's 9 analysis.

10 To the extent the merits are even at issue here, which we 11 don't believe they are, I think this is a fair and equitable 12 settlement without getting into the merits of the underlying 13 claim objection, necessarily.

14 I would also note for Your Honor that you have decided 15 this issue, this Mirant-type issue, in the Texas Rangers
16 Baseball case. That case concerned a 538 cause of action and 17 not 550, but we know at this juncture you can apply the Mirant
18 case law and we're not concerned -- we don't believe it's the 19 slam-dunk that Mr. Dondero, I guess, feels that he has, and as 20 you've seen from our very lengthy response to the objection to 21 the claim, Acis is prepared to litigate this matter.

22 Let's see. Finally, I think it's also notable that 23 Professor Rapoport didn't go through a balance of the equities
24 in her analysis of I suppose the claims that are at issue.
25 And this wasn't talked about extensively, but Mr. Seery has

1 previously testified, and I think it was touched on a little
2 bit yesterday, that the equities in this case are fairly
3 striking. And as Your Honor has found, this was a blatant
4 fraudulent transfer scheme immediately with the most part
5 beginning or starting in earnest when Mr. Terry was terminated
6 from Acis and really just picking up with a vengeance -- with 7 vengeance after there was an arbitration award entered. To 8 the extent that equities are really at issue here -- and 9 again, I don't think Professor Rapoport really weighed those - 10 - we would submit to Your Honor the equities lay in favor of 11 Acis.

12 But again, that's really not the question here. The 13 question is whether this is fair and equitable and is the 14 outcome of good faith negotiations with two very, very 15 qualified mediators. And you haven't heard any evidence to 16 the contrary of that. In fact, if you would -- can merely 17 review the time sheets and the fee applications that were on 18 file, you would see that there have been hundreds of thousands 19 of dollars spent just trying to get to this point. It has 20 been hard-fought on all sides. And we submit that this is a
21 fair and equitable settlement.

22 And at this juncture, I am available to answer any 23 questions you have about the settlement.

24 THE COURT: I do not have any questions. Thank you,
25 Ms. Chiarello.

1 All right. Mr. Lynn, your closing argument?

2 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF JAMES DONDERO

3 MR. LYNN: Yes, Your Honor. First, I'd like to make
4 a couple of comments. Professor Rapoport's report will speak
5 for itself. As Your Honor knows, we agreed with the Debtor
6 not to put Professor Rapoport on, and I think it's a little 7 unfair to comment on what she would or wouldn't have said had 8 she actually been called as a witness.

9 Second, yesterday, Ms. Patel spent a great amount of time
10 talking about the fine job Acis has done managing CLOs. I
11 think Your Honor will not be surprised that we do not concur
12 in her assessment of her client's work, and we truly believe
13 that if the evidence ever needs to be presented to Your Honor
14 on that issue, you'd be able to listen to that evidence and 15 arrive at an appropriate conclusion.

16 Finally, Your Honor, speaking preliminarily, I wanted to 17 tell you that what I'm about to say was all written down and 18 ready to go yesterday. And I say that because one of the 19 things I'm going to talk about is Mr. Dondero's agreement to 20 underwrite fees for pursuit of the claim objection.

21 Our original reason for filing this response, Your Honor,
22 was we felt very strongly that the Court should be fully 23 informed in order to arrive at an informed judgment as to 24 whether or not the compromise and settlement should be 25 approved.

1 During our discovery, which consisted of one deposition,
2 and as a result of hearing Professor -- or reading Professor
3 Rapoport's report, we have come to the conclusion that the 4 settlement should not be approved.

5 There is one specific concern that we have with the 6 settlement at this point that, should the Court decide to 7 approve the settlement, we would ask that you clarify in your
8 court order. As Your Honor may be aware, in the pending
9 adversary of Acis v. Dondero, et al. pending in the Acis
10 Chapter 11 case, Acis asks in Count Three that Mr. Dondero be 11 determined to be the alter ego of Highland (inaudible).
12 Obviously, under In re S.I. Acquisition, this is four square a 13 violation of the automatic stay in the Highland case. In the 14 settlement release, it appears that Highland will be releasing
15 its claim or -- its claim against Acis for the violation of 16 stay. We would object to that to the extent that it leaves 17 Acis free to assert the alter ego claim, and we would ask the 18 Court that any order granting the motion not provide that 19 Acis's release extend so far, or alternatively that any damage
20 claim is released but the stay of the alter ego claim remains 21 in place.

22 I also would like to inform the Court that I am
23 authorized, and have been now for some time, by Mr. Dondero to 24 commit him to reimburse Highland for fees and expenses
25 incurred by counsel for Highland in pursuing the objection to

1 the Acis claim, should the motion under Rule 9019 be denied.
2 I understand Ms. Chiarello's view that Mr. Dondero's promise
3 to pay attorneys ought not to be taken too seriously. I am
4 reasonably confident that an order can be crafted by the Court
5 that would ensure that Mr. Dondero indeed keeps his word on 6 this. My experience with Mr. Dondero to date is he pays his 7 attorneys on time.

8 I have several points to make with respect to the actual
9 motion under Rule 9019. First, as Professor Rapoport points
10 out, there are many hurdles Acis must cross for its claim to 11 be allowed at all. There is an excellent argument that all 12 that Acis is entitled to is the remaining amount necessary to 13 satisfy creditors in full, mostly Mr. Terry and Highland 14 itself.

15 While there is no Fifth Circuit law that addresses
16 recovery in this context of fraudulent transfers post-
17 confirmation, Professor Rapoport cites a number of cases
18 saying it cannot be done if there is no recovery at least once
19 creditors are paid. MCAR Recovery v. Commerzbank (In re 20 Mirant Corporation) -- and Your Honor will be familiar with 21 the fact that I know a bit about the Mirant case -- merely 22 determined that a post-confirmation entity created to pursue
23 litigation may indeed pursue that litigation, but does not 24 address what may be recovered in the litigation.

25 Moreover, that case is inapposite to Acis's case when

1 talking about recovery beyond the amount of pre-confirmation
2 debt.

3 In Mirant, the plan, which would have been in the record
4 before the Circuit Court, provided that interests in MCAR held
5 by pre-confirmation creditors and pre-confirmation
6 shareholders were not transformable. Thus, no post-
7 confirmation purchaser of Mirant debt or equity could
8 participate in recoveries of fraudulent transfers in suits
9 brought by MCAR.

10 This case, where Mr. Terry bought the stock of Acis post-
11 confirmation, was entirely different, and any amount in excess 12 of unpaid pre-confirmation debt should not be recoverable for 13 the benefit of Acis or Mr. Terry. I have relayed this fact to 14 Mr. Seery, Mr. Nelms, and other members of the Debtor's team.

15 Second, it is clear from Mr. Seery's testimony that an 16 important factor for Highland agreeing to the Acis settlement
17 was Highland's alleged mistreatment of Mr. Terry and its 18 effect on Mr. Terry's life and career. While we do not agree
19 with Mr. Seery's assessment, even if he is correct it should 20 not count in determining whether the Acis settlement should be 21 approved.

22 First, the Highland bond is to Mr. Terry, not to Acis, and 23 so should not affect a settlement between Highland and Acis.

24 Second, neither Acis nor the Terrys have sought recovery
25 for the pain and suffering that Mr. Seery suggests they

1 incurred, not from Highland, not from Mr. Dondero, not from 2 anyone, where they could have sought such relief. Whereas
3 here it is apparent that a debtor's decision to allow a $23
4 million claim -- and Your Honor, the settlement is actually in 5 place of a $30 million, whereas here it is clear that the 6 settlement was motivated by sympathy for the owner of the 7 claimant, the settlement should not be approved.

8 Similarly, Mr. Seery was motivated by the need to get two 9 of the three large creditors on the Creditors' Committee on 10 board with respect to the plan of reorganization. This,
11 again, is not a proper reason to settle a claim such as 12 Acis's.

13 Third, as the Fifth Circuit has repeatedly said in AWECO,
14 Cajun Electric, AGE Refining, and other cases, a settlement
15 must be fair and equitable. As the Court is fully aware, fair
16 and equitable is a term of art for the so-called absolute 17 priority rule that requires that senior debt be fully 18 satisfied before there is any return for junior debt.

19 But fair and equitable also brings into play the corollary
20 for the absolute priority rule, and that is that senior debt
21 is only entitled to full payment and not to a greater return,
22 a windfall, that comes at the expense of equal or junior debt
23 or equity.

24 In Highland's case, where Mr. Seery has opined there may 25 be a return to equity, not only will creditors like UBS -- if

1 it has a claim, indeed -- or Redeemer be potentially affected
2 if Acis receives too much, but junior classes down to equity
3 might see their recovery reduced or eliminated by reason of 4 the proposed settlement.

5 Yet the Debtor proposes to settle the Acis claim with all
6 of six times the amount initially proposed for settlement by 7 Mr. Seery. The presentation by Professor Rapoport strongly
8 suggests that Acis should be resolved for much less. That, in 9 turn, means the corollary to the absolute priority rule
10 requires that Debtor's 9019 motion be denied.

11 In sum, Your Honor, the proposed settlement of the Acis
12 claim objection meets none of the tests set by Rule 9019 and 13 the Fifth Circuit. The evidence shows that Acis faces many 14 hurdles that it must cross in order to have a claim allowed
15 beyond that that remains of the debt to Mr. Terry, and so 16 there is a great likelihood of success. Because most of those 17 hurdles can be addressed summarily, the cost and time involved
18 is not great, and anyway, Mr. Dondero has offered to cover the 19 cost, and the length of time required to resolve the UBS
20 billion-dollar claim will affect the process of distributions
21 under the filed plan far more than litigation of the Acis
22 claim will.

23 Even the arm's-length nature of the negotiations leading 24 to the settlement is tainted, tainted, in that Mr. Seery was 25 so affected not by harm to Acis, but by the harm he perceived

1 to Mr. Terry. As to the settlement being -- as to the 2 settlement being fair and equitable, it fails to meet the 3 corollary to that Rule and likely provides much greater return
4 to Acis than it is entitled to.

5 And (inaudible) therefore, we respectfully suggest that 6 the Court deny Debtor's Rule 9019 motion.

7 Thank you, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: All right. Thank you very much. All
9 right. Well, Mr. --

10 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, brief rebuttal?

11 THE COURT: Yes. Mr. Morris, you get a rebuttal. Go
12 ahead.

13 MR. MORRIS: Thank you. Very briefly.

14 First, the notion that somehow the Debtor bought off two 15 creditors on a committee because somehow that would move this 16 case forward I think is a very gross misrepresentation of the 17 evidence in the record. I think Mr. Seery testified very 18 clearly that he was able to reach agreement with two of the 19 Committee members, and he would actually like to reach
20 agreement with all creditors in this case.

21 The fact remains, Your Honor, that there is no plan
22 support agreement. There is no commitment on the part of 23 Redeemer or Acis to do anything to help the Debtor in this 24 case. And I note, without irony, that both parties were here
25 yesterday and today trying to get their case settled while

1 simultaneously filing objections to the Debtor's disclosure
2 statement. I don't think that -- if the Debtor's intent was
3 to buy cooperation, I would agree that that wasn't terribly
4 successful. It's -- that's just not the case. Mr. Seery
5 testified crystal clearly the reasons why he's entering into 6 the settlement here, and none of them have anything to do with 7 what happens tomorrow.

8 Second, the notion that Mr. Seery became weepy and just 9 decided that he should settle this case for more than it's 10 worth because of (inaudible) Mr. Terry is just, again,
11 completely belied by the record itself. The fact remains that 12 what Mr. Seery testified to is that he was concerned that if 13 we litigated the -- the -- the claim, Your Honor and this 14 Court would find in Mr. Terry's favor on basis of the 15 equities. That was -- that was a risk analysis. It wasn't -- 16 it wasn't the reason why -- he didn't do it because it's what 17 he believed. The Debtor didn't do it because that was their 18 view. It did it because it was a risk that that was what 19 would have happened in the courtroom, and it remains a very 20 real and credible risk.

21 Number three, respectfully, Professor Rapoport didn't say
22 anything about how this case should be settled for less.
23 There is nothing in her report. Is a statement without 24 evidentiary support at all.

25 In fact, I read one sentence to you from Professor

1 Rapoport's report, and I'd like to read the very last sentence
2 of her report: It is my opinion that spending up to 3 approximately $1.1 million to determine whether the value of 4 the Acis claim is zero dollars, $23 million, $75 million, or 5 some other figure, would be a reasonable use of estate funds.
6 There is nothing in Professor Rapoport's report that suggests,
7 that states, that even implies that this case should be 8 settled for a lower amount than what has been agreed to.

9 Finally, Your Honor, we've heard a number of times in 10 closing by Mr. Lynn that Mr. Seery -- I mean, I apologize, Mr.
11 Dondero has made some offer to pay the legal fees. I won't
12 discuss the substance of the assertion. I just need to point
13 out that there is no evidence in the record for such a thing.
14 And if Mr. Dondero wanted that to be part of the record for 15 the Court's consideration, he had every opportunity to 16 testify.

17 I have nothing further, Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: All right. Let me ask a couple of 19 follow-up questions. And this first one is actually for Mr.
20 Lynn. I did read Professor Rapoport's report this morning,
21 and her estimate of fees of anywhere between, I don't know,
22 $350,000 and $1.1 million, that was specific to the proof of 23 claim objection, which, you know, obviously is -- the claim
24 itself is the 34-count adversary proceeding and objection.
25 It's just fees related to that, right? In other words, to the

1 extent there's more litigation regarding plan confirmation --
2 of course, we don't know that -- Acis may very well be
3 contesting the plan even without a settlement. But my point
4 is, it's just related to the proof of claim and the objection,
5 right? It doesn't take into account any other satellite
6 litigation that may somehow involve Highland, correct?

7 MR. LYNN: That is correct. I would point out, Your 8 Honor, that the 9019 motion does not resolve the Acis v.
9 Highland suit. It will continue against -- before Your Honor
10 against other defendants other than Highland.

11 THE COURT: Yes, I do realize that. Okay. I think
12 that's my only question for you, Mr. Lynn.

13 I guess this question is for Ms. Chiarello. Obviously,
14 the 34-count adversary proceeding is pre-confirmation Acis
15 activity. Are there torts or anything else alleged by Acis
16 against Highland post-confirmation? I mean, I know there's 17 all this satellite litigation against affiliates and 18 employees, but is that something that goes away? Is there
19 something there that would go away as well, or no?

20 MS. CHIARELLO: Your Honor, I'm going to try my best
21 to answer what I think you're asking. I would first note that 22 I didn't get a chance to have a rebuttal closing argument, so
23 I would like to be permitted to do the same as Mr. Morris did.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MS. CHIARELLO: But with respect to the 34-count

1 adversary, I -- to my knowledge, that is the only Acis v.
2 Highland Capital Management, LP litigation that's currently 3 pending.

4 The adversary was amended post-confirmation, not
5 substantially, but there -- I do believe there are causes of 6 action that could be considered torts that were in the 7 underlying adversary. And I'm trying not to mince words
8 because I do believe whether something is in tort or contract
9 may be material to litigation -- that litigation, and I -- so
10 I don't -- and I don't want to overstep. And that's really 11 something Mr. Lamberson is more familiar with than I am.

12 So, but there is no other Acis v. Highland Capital
13 Management, LP litigation pending. For the most part, the 14 litigation looks quite similar to the litigation that was 15 admitted into evidence in connection with Acis's plan
16 confirmation, and there are counts for mismanagement against 17 Highland and breach of fiduciary duties related to -- if Your 18 Honor recalls, there was -- there are some issues related to 19 the BEK (phonetic) separate account and items like that. But 20 my understanding, and Mr. Morris can verify, is that this 21 would be peace between Acis and -- Acis Capital Management on 22 one hand and Highland Capital Management on the other hand.

23 THE COURT: Right. Understood. Uh-huh. All right.
24 Your rebuttal argument?

25 MS. CHIARELLO: Yes, Your Honor. So I think the

1 first thing to note is that, and as Your Honor has taken into
2 account and admitted into evidence the Acis adversary
3 proceedings -- I'm sorry, the Acis opinion -- Mr. Dondero
4 isn't here today testifying that he will pay fees. In fact,
5 you don't see Mr. Dondero. I know that's been an ever-present
6 issue throughout these cases, but I think it is important to 7 note that he wasn't included as a witness.

8 Mr. Dondero did sign the Highland Capital Management
9 petition and put this case into bankruptcy. He is the 10 authorized signatory, if you look back at Docket No. 1. So,
11 at this juncture, I think he -- he has to deal with the 12 benefits and the burdens of Chapter 11, and this is one of -- 13 this is one of the issues that you get when you sign up for a
14 Chapter 11.

15 Just to address one of Mr. Lynn's points, I don't believe 16 Mr. Dondero has standing under 362(k) to assert any sort of 17 stay violation issue as a third party. And I think to the 18 extent that that is being released, the Debtor or -- and/or 19 the Committee, whomever has that cause of action, would be 20 fully capable of releasing such claims.

21 Next, I think the AWECO case doesn't say anything terribly
22 notable, particularly in light of the relatively recent 23 (inaudible) decisions of the Supreme Court. You have to pay
24 creditors in their -- in the priority scheme that's set forth
25 in the Bankruptcy Code. It doesn't matter if it's a

1 structured dismissal or a settlement. I think that's not
2 controversial here. And there's really no question that --
3 that this -- this 9019 would still be subject to confirmation,
4 and payments made under the 9019 will be subject to a plan of 5 reorganization. There's no absolute priority issue, as Mr.
6 Lynn suggested.

7 Finally -- not finally. Next, I think the analogy that 8 Mr. Terry is Acis is -- has been misplaced throughout this 9 bankruptcy case. It is not the case that Mr. Terry is Acis,
10 and Acis was harmed during the systematic dismantling of its 11 assets before -- after Mr. Terry was fired and before the 12 entry of the ultimate judgment against Acis related to Mr.
13 Terry's litigation.

14 Finally, Mr. Dondero and any other person who thought that 15 there were -- any other person or entity who believed there
16 were assets in Acis that were valuable or something that 17 should -- litigation that should be estopped, that could be -- 18 should be purchased, had the opportunity to buy from Mr.
19 Phelan, a third-party individual, to buy the equity in Acis.
20 Mr. Terry bought the equity in Acis for a discount on his --
21 for a million dollars, and he has -- and he took a discount
22 effectively on his claim in order to buy the equity. If Mr.
23 Dondero was concerned about -- or wanted to spend a million
24 dollars to stop the Acis claim, he had the ability to do that 25 in December of 2018, and he didn't -- he decided not to.

1 Unless you have any other questions, Your Honor, that is,
2 I believe, all Acis has today. And we would submit that the 3 9019 meets the standards set forth by the Fifth Circuit and 4 request entry of the order confirming the same.

5 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

6 MR. LYNN: Your Honor, may I simply correct one
7 statement by Ms. Chiarello?

8 THE COURT: You may.

9 MR. LYNN: The 9019 will also effect the release of 10 the supposed contempt motion that Acis filed on an emergency
11 basis last April, or had sought relief from the stay to file
12 on an emergency basis last April but to date has not filed, I 13 think for good reason, and that was released -- I -- that 14 would be released as well.

15 I do not wish to respond to various of the other incorrect
16 comments by either counsel. I trust the Court to review the 17 record completely and to come to its own conclusion respecting 18 Professor Rapoport's report.

19 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

20 Well, again, I not only read Professor Rapoport's report,
21 but spent some time last night reviewing all the evidence
22 before the Court. And I am going to go ahead and give a
23 ruling without any further review of the record.

24 First, preliminarily, we've had notice of this motion to 25 compromise with Acis and the Terrys that is reasonable and

1 consistent with the Bankruptcy Rules. The notice was given on 2 September 23rd, so we're certainly good from notice and 3 opportunity to be heard, from that standpoint.

4 As we all know and as I went through yesterday in ruling
5 on the Redeemer Committee settlement, I am consulting
6 Bankruptcy Rule 9019 as well as the abundance of jurisprudence
7 that tells bankruptcy courts how they are to evaluate 8 compromises and settlements: Cases such as AWECO, Jackson
9 Brewing, TMT Trailer, Cajun Electric, and Foster Mortgage,
10 significantly, among the cases.

11 I am to look at, obviously, whether the proposed 12 compromise is fair and equitable and in the best interest of 13 creditors when considering probability of success in future
14 litigation, with due consideration for the uncertainty of law
15 and fact; when considering the complexity and likely duration
16 of future litigation and any attendant inconvenience and 17 delay; and all other factors bearing on the wisdom of the 18 compromise.

19 Case law also talks about the Court probing into whether a 20 settlement is within the range of reasonableness, and 21 obviously the Court should consider the paramount interests of 22 creditors.

23 So, here, giving all due consideration of the record
24 before me and the very eloquent arguments, I am going to 25 approve the compromise today.

1 I'm going to turn for a moment to Mr. Seery's testimony.
2 Just as I found his testimony to be very credible with regard
3 to the Redeemer Committee settlement, I once again found it to 4 be very credible and compelling in connection with the Acis
5 and Terry settlements.

6 Among other things, I believe his testimony reflected a
7 deep understanding of the risks and rewards of further
8 litigation and the uncertainty that there was in both the law
9 and the fact. He mentioned his understanding of the Mirant
10 holding and how that absolutely posed some risks for the 11 estate in challenging the claims of the reorganized Acis. He 12 mentioned what I consider significant due diligence that he 13 performed. He mentioned not only reading many of the rulings
14 of this Court throughout the tortured history of the Acis
15 bankruptcy, but he mentioned meeting with the board members.
16 In fact, meeting with Mr. Terry and Acis's professionals. He 17 picked out certain of the issues, the fact issues, the $10
18 million note transfer that was argued to be a fraudulent
19 transfer. He described the disputes regarding the changing of 20 the fee structure imposed by Highland or Highland entities on 21 Acis, and he expressed concerns regarding the cost of 22 litigating all of that.

23 He spoke in depth about Mr. Terry's claims regarding his 24 retirement funds, and said he thought it was a pretty 25 straightforward win for the Terrys that he thought should have

1 been settled years ago for full value.

2 He mentioned his knowledge about the Guernsey litigation,
3 that being a jurisdiction where loser pays. So that was sort
4 of an open-shut one as far as he was concerned. And he talked 5 about the Acis GP proof of claim in some depth, regarding the 6 lawsuits in New York.

7 So, again, I find that he was very compelling and his 8 testimony reflected significant due diligence.

9 Now, the next thing I want to highlight that is very
10 compelling to me in deciding I should approve this settlement
11 is -- and I probably should have mentioned this first and 12 foremost -- this was a mediated settlement. This is certainly 13 some indication of its good faith and arm's-length nature, and 14 certainly is a point in favor of the wisdom of the settlement,
15 given that we had two very respected co-mediators, retired
16 Judge Gropper from the Bankruptcy Court of the Seventh
17 District of New York. Ms. Mayer was a partner at Weil Gotshal
18 with a very impressive career background. And so it, again,
19 it is a point very much in favor of the bona fides of this 20 settlement. So I cannot overstate that one.

21 A few other points I will make. In looking at the risks
22 and rewards and likely expense and inconvenience of further
23 litigation, while Professor Rapoport estimated maybe $350,000
24 to $1.1 million of fees might be incurred for future
25 litigation of the issues between Highland and Acis, and while

1 I respect her views tremendously -- I know she's been a fee
2 examiner in many, many cases and really has some bona fides in 3 speaking about fees in bankruptcy cases -- I tend to think
4 that is an extremely low estimate. And I can't separate from 5 this analysis my own experience and knowledge with how 6 litigious and expensive things have historically been between 7 Acis and Highland.

8 I cannot remember the final fee application amounts of the 9 Chapter 11 Trustee and his professionals, but I know that in a
10 year-plus of the Acis case, the fees were much, much larger
11 than this amount, and I seem to remember that at least Foley
12 Lardner had a very, very large unsecured claim in this case
13 related to its fees representing Highland v. Acis, millions of 14 dollars.

15 So, with complete respect to Professor Rapoport, I believe 16 with all my heart that that number is way, way low as far as 17 future fees and expenses.

18 And as Ms. Chiarello pointed out and I think Mr. Morris
19 pointed out, we don't actually have evidence of Mr. Dondero's
20 willingness to pay legal fees for fights of Highland v. Acis.
21 While certainly I believe one hundred percent that Mr. Lynn 22 was told that Dondero would pay those fees and he has every 23 reason to believe him, I just don't have the equivalent of 24 evidence there that I can point to, evidence being Mr. Dondero
25 testifying that he would do that and maybe putting something

1 else in front of me to show a commitment.

2 So I again will turn to Ms. Rapoport's report. While she
3 used words to the effect of, you know, she thought challenging
4 this would be a reasonable endeavor, I think that, all in all,
5 Mr. Seery was just very credible in his evaluation of things
6 and his strong feeling from the beginning that we're going to 7 fight this, it should be zero, and then as he did his due
8 diligence, as he looked at some of the issues -- and I will 9 point out that Professor Rapoport identified 16 issues of law
10 this Court would have to determine, in her estimation, and 11 then there could be potentially 12 fact issues the Court might 12 have to rule on, depending on how I ruled on the 16 issues of 13 law. I don't think I could do that as swiftly as maybe this 14 case needs and deserves to get on its way to reorganization,
15 and I do think the settlement enhances the likelihood of 16 confirmation of a plan in the near future. While we may have 17 miles to go before we get there, I think this settlement is a 18 step in the right direction, just like the settlement with the 19 Redeemer Committee is a step in the right direction. And 20 that's a big factor in my mind. I'm supposed to look at all
21 factors bearing on the wisdom of the compromise, and I think 22 the compromise enhances the prospect of a reorganization
23 sooner rather than later.

24 All right. I reserve the right to supplement in more
25 detailed findings and conclusions, but Mr. Morris, I'm going

1 to ask you to upload an appropriate form of order consistent
2 with the Court's ruling, obviously, on this as well as the 3 Redeemer Committee order.

4 Actually, here's one loose end I feel like Mr. Lynn wanted
5 the Court to address, and I'm not exactly sure what the 6 request is. Let me talk about the 362(k) issue. The way I
7 see it, and I can't remember which litigation it appears in,
8 but to the extent Acis has pursued post-petition in the 9 Highland case that Dondero is the alter ego of Highland, I do
10 acknowledge that S.I. Acquisition and other authority says
11 that is a cause of action remedy, whatever it is, that is 12 really at this point something that Highland controls and only 13 Highland should be pursuing. So it would be a stay violation
14 under 362(a)(3) for some other party to be pursuing it.

15 The way I see this is that any 362(k) claim for damages
16 that the Debtor would have for Acis's post-petition pursuit of 17 that are getting released in the settlement. As far as if 18 Dondero under 362(k) can assert his own damages, I think
19 there's a case called St. Paul something from the Fifth
20 Circuit from 2009 or 2011 that suggests maybe he can assert
21 his own damages as a creditor but not as an equity holder.
22 It's kind of a weird opinion. But that isn't getting 23 released, okay? I'm not opining one way or another whether he 24 would have a good claim for 362 damages personally, but it's 25 not released. So is that something we need clarification on?

1 MR. KHARASCH: Your Honor, it's Ira Kharasch of 2 Pachulski Stang. If I may be heard just for a minute?

3 THE COURT: Okay. You may.

4 MR. KHARASCH: I agree with you, Your Honor, it's --
5 if in fact Acis is asserting a cause of action that is not
6 property of the Acis estate but is property of the Highland 7 estate, which may well include an alter ego action, it's 8 certainly not the intent of our settlement agreement that we 9 cannot stop Acis from continuing an act that it is not 10 entitled to assert.

11 So this is -- we are not -- we did not convey any assets
12 to Acis, a right of property of the estate assets, which would 13 include alter ego actions under the law. So, to the extent
14 Acis is unlawfully using an asset of the estate, it was 15 certainly not the intent and I think it arguably should not 16 come within the ambit of the release agreement, that --

17 THE COURT: Can I stop you right there? I meant that 18 if the estate wants damages it has suffered heretofore under 19 362(k) for the prosecution of that alter ego claim, any 20 damages that have occurred up through the order approving this
21 compromise are released, at Highland's 362(2)(k) damages
22 against Acis. But if tomorrow Acis starts pursuing that alter
23 ego action, that hadn't been released. Are we saying the same 24 thing?

25 MR. KHARASCH: We are saying exactly the same thing,

1 Your Honor. I think you are technically quite correct.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Lynn, what did you want to 3 say?

4 MR. LYNN: Your Honor, may I speak to that, since it
5 was my concern?

6 THE COURT: Yes.

7 MR. LYNN: We were not -- we weren't looking for 8 damages. They would be minimal at this stage. We just want 9 to know that the stay remains in place and that they are 10 prevented from pursuing an alter ego claim in the Acis v.
11 Dondero, et al. suit pending in the Acis case. We really 12 ought to dismiss it. It's been going for six months, in 13 violation of the stay, as has the Debtor. And it really ought 14 to go away. We would file a motion to dismiss it except that 15 case is currently abated, so we can't file a motion to dismiss
16 it.

17 THE COURT: All right. Well, Ms. Chiarello, I don't
18 know if you had any clue this conversation would occur today
19 to be prepared. But it sounds like this is something that 20 needs to go away. I can't imagine why it -- you know, what 21 argument that Acis would have to pursue it at this juncture.
22 Do you want to respond to that?

23 MS. CHIARELLO: Your Honor, yes. We're obviously 24 aware of S.I. Acquisition. But I think -- one, I don't think 25 this was raised in the papers, so you're correct, we haven't

1 done a deep dive into the analysis of those. And truthfully,
2 I'm not -- I was not responsible for drafting the complaint
3 that Mr. Lynn complains about.

4 I think to the extent that this is a standing issue, which 5 is how the Fifth Circuit has characterized it, I think that's 6 something that can be examined. My recollection, and it's 7 quite fuzzy from almost a year ago, is that I believe that 8 there was a cause of action pled -- which is, again, inartful,
9 because as the Supreme Court said, that it's a remedy, but it
10 may have been against all of the Highland-related entities.
11 So I think we'll -- we'll just need to parse that. Dondero
12 would -- I think the thought was that Dondero would be an 13 alter ego of Highland HCLF, you know, the other entities, as 14 part of the fraudulent transfer scheme. But again, I'm -- I'm 15 not -- I haven't looked at that in quite some time.

16 We'll get with Mr. Lynn to hopefully resolve this. Or,
17 really, it's actually an -- to the extent it's an estate cause
18 of action, I think it's probably a conversation between Mr.
19 Morris and Ms. Patel that needs to occur. Obviously, not 20 today.

21 But to be clear, there's no -- we weren't intending to 22 violate the stay or pursue causes of action that were 23 otherwise within the province of I believe the Committee or 24 maybe potentially Highland. I haven't looked, again, at that 25 settlement in quite some time --

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MS. CHIARELLO: -- with respect to who owns estate
3 causes of action.

4 THE COURT: All right. Well, if it's abated right
5 now -- that's my understanding; we've abated it, right -- then 6 no harm right now at the moment. But I trust you're going to 7 -- from what I heard, I mean, it would be a stay violation to 8 go forward with any claim that Dondero Highland entity
9 somewhere is an alter ego of Highland. That would be 10 Highland's claim to pursue, the Committee's claim to pursue.
11 So I trust you all will get to the bottom of it, as they say.
12 All right.

13 MS. CHIARELLO: Yes, Your Honor. Before you
14 continue, though, I just -- I don't want Ms. Patel to come 15 back online and feel like I misstepped. So, to be clear, to 16 the extent that there's any argument with respect to 17 individual causes of action related to alter ego versus -- 18 creditor-specific causes of action versus creditor body causes
19 of action with respect to alter ego claims, we'd reserve that.
20 And we would not concede that there's been any damages as 21 relate -- as it relates to -- if there was a stay violation,
22 that there have been any damages. I think that should be 23 something that shouldn't be adjudicated today, and I don't
24 want anything that I have said thus far to be used in a
25 pleading related to 362(k) damages --

1 THE COURT: Okay. Fair --

2 MS. CHIARELLO: -- or a stay violation.

3 THE COURT: Fair enough. Fair enough. All right.

4 Mr. Morris, are you going to give me a preview for tomorrow
5 and the various disclosure statement objections? Is this 6 something that is being worked on as we speak?

7 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I'm going to defer to my
8 colleagues Mr. Kharasch and Mr. Demo for that and let them
9 address the Court on this objection.

10 THE COURT: All right.

11 MR. KHARASCH: Yeah, Thank you, Your Honor. Ira
12 Kharasch again.

13 Your Honor, we are even presently digesting the various 14 disclosure statement objections that have been filed as of 15 several days ago, including yesterday and last night. We are 16 working through potential solutions to many of them. We are 17 continuing to have a dialogue with the Committee and the 18 Committee counsel, Committee members, with our client. We 19 will be having calls today with them to see about working 20 through potential solutions as best we can.

21 We are very optimistic that, with regard to a number of 22 the objections, we can work through them. Some objections we 23 believe are just confirmation objections.

24 Notwithstanding that, we even think some of those possible
25 objections may well be worked out before the day is over.

1 And just to give Your Honor a bit of a head's up with
2 regard to these kind of -- these kind of changes raised by --
3 that I'm alluding to, that we'll be addressing some of these 4 objections and other changes that we've been -- we need to 5 make as well.

6 We will be filing later today, as early as possible, a
7 redline of the disclosure statement and the plan. We will be 8 filing our responsive reply brief to all the objections.

9 In order to assist the Court, what we generally do with 10 regard -- and what we will do is attach a chart to that 11 response that will, in a bullet point -- bullet form,
12 summarize both the objections and across the chart we'll 13 summarize our response to the objection and any potential
14 agreement or change that was made to address that response.

15 So we're doing the best we can, Your Honor, to deal with 16 all of this before tomorrow's very early hearing.

17 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Well, we will be 18 on the lookout, then, for that reply, with the chart, and that 19 will be --

20 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, if I may?

21 THE COURT: Yes.

22 MR. CLEMENTE: Briefly?

23 THE COURT: Go ahead.

24 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor. Matt Clemente
25 for the Committee. Just a couple of comments to (garbled),

1 Your Honor.

2 We have and we will endeavor to continue to work with the 3 Debtor over the course of, you know, if it turns out to be the 4 next 22 hours or whatever it is. But I do want to emphasize 5 for the Court, and I think the Court will see that, if she 6 hasn't already, from looking at the papers: This really isn't
7 one of these where, Let's just kick it all to confirmation.
8 We have the key voting constituencies, not through me but on 9 their own, telling this Court that they're not prepared to 10 vote for the plan in its current construct.

11 So I would just encourage the Debtor to understand that 12 that's the context within which we are heading into the 13 hearing tomorrow. And somehow managing to move past tomorrow,
14 when you have the creditors saying, We're just not going to 15 vote for it unless there are some things that are addressed,
16 I'm not sure that's the most efficient way or effective way to 17 proceed forward. So I just wanted to provide a little bit of 18 context of that for Your Honor. There are some things that I 19 don't think are just, Let's put a few more words in the 20 disclosure statement. There are some things that -- beyond
21 that that need to be addressed in order, I think, to achieve
22 the vote that everybody here is hopeful we can get on the 23 plan.

24 So I just wanted to give Your Honor a little bit of 25 context.

1 THE COURT: All right. Well, I appreciate hearing
2 that. And I'm all for, you know, us efficiently using our
3 time. And if we need to adjourn tomorrow and come back in a 4 few days, obviously, I'll happily accommodate that in my 5 schedule next week. And again, I'm just trying to be 6 realistic. It may be that there's a little bit too much to 7 address with some wordsmithing here and there. So I'll just 8 stay tuned. If there's --

9 MR. KHARASCH: Your Honor?

10 THE COURT: Yes.

11 MR. KHARASCH: Ira Kharasch again. You raised
12 something that might be a useful idea. You know, the hearing
13 is fairly early tomorrow. I'm wondering if maybe we started 14 an hour later that might give us a bit more time to try to get 15 things resolved before Your Honor comes on the bench.

16 THE COURT: I'm absolutely agreeable to that. I have 17 a -- what time is our afternoon hearing? Do you remember?

18 Well, yes, we have a very, very short 1:30 hearing, and 19 then we have a lengthier 2:00 or 2:30 hearing. So that's my 20 situation. I would have to break for the afternoon matters.
21 So, 10:30 Central time? Do you want to --

22 MR. KHARASCH: Well, I think that would be -- even 23 the one hour could be very productive, Your Honor, given the 24 early time in the morning, that we could -- it might be an 25 hour very well used.

1 THE COURT: All right.

2 MR. KHARASCH: If we need more time, obviously, we
3 will be letting you know.

4 THE COURT: All right. So, rescheduled for 10:30
5 tomorrow morning. And if there's nothing further, we're 6 adjourned. Thank you.

7 MR. KHARASCH: Thank you, Your Honor. Appreciate it.

8 THE CLERK: All rise.

Part III sets forth the relevant facts in support of the First Day Motions filed by the Debtor concurrently herewith in support of its chapter 11 case. PART I

BACKGROUND

A. Description and History of the Debtor’s Business

5. Highland Capital Management, L.P. (together with its affiliates, “Highland”) is a multibillion-dollar global alternative investment manager founded in 1993 by James Dondero and Mark Okada. A pioneer in the leveraged loan market, the firm has evolved over 25 years, building on its credit expertise and value-based approach to expand into other asset classes.

6. Today, Highland operates a diverse investment platform, serving both institutional and retail investors worldwide. In addition to high-yield credit, Highland’s investment capabilities include public equities, real estate, private equity and special situations, structured credit, and sector- and region-specific verticals built around specialized teams. Additionally, Highland provides shared services to its affiliated registered investment advisors.

7. Highland is headquartered in Dallas, Texas and maintains offices in Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro, Singapore, and Seoul.

8. The Debtor itself is a Delaware limited partnership and one of the principal operating arms of the Highland business. The Debtor employs approximately 76 people, including executive-level management employees, finance and legal staff, investment professionals, and back-office accounting and administrative personnel. The Debtor also leases office space, contracts with third party vendors, and maintains banking and brokerage relationships. Pursuant to various contractual arrangements, the Debtor provides money management and advisory services for approximately $2.5 billion of assets under management. Separately, the Debtor provides shared services for approximately $7.5 billion of assets managed by a variety of affiliated and unaffiliated entities, including other affiliated registered investment advisors. None of these affiliates are filing for Chapter 11 protection.

9. The Debtor primarily generates revenue from fees collected for the management and advisory services provided to funds that it manages, plus fees generated for services provided to its affiliates. For additional liquidity as and when needed, the Debtor intends to sell liquid securities in the ordinary course held through its prime brokerage account at Jefferies, LLC (“Jefferies”), as described in additional detail below. The Debtor may also supplement its liquidity by selling assets at non-Debtor subsidiaries and distributing those proceeds to the Debtor in the ordinary course of business. During calendar year 2018, the Debtor’s stand-alone annual revenue totaled approximately $50 million. Through August 31, 2019, the Debtor’s stand-alone revenue for the year to date totaled approximately $24 million.

10. The Debtor’s organizational chart is attached hereto as Exhibit A. The organizational chart is not all inclusive and certain entities have been excluded for the sake of brevity. As noted above, the Debtor is a Delaware limited partnership.

B. The Debtor’s Prepetition Capital Structure

i. Jefferies Margin Borrowings (Secured)

11. The Debtor is party to that certain Prime Brokerage Customer Agreement with Jefferies dated May 24, 2013 (the “Brokerage Agreement”). Pursuant to the terms of the Brokerage Agreement and related documents, the Debtor maintains a prime brokerage account with Jefferies (the “Prime Account”).

12. A prime brokerage account is a unique type of brokerage account that allows sophisticated investors to, among other things, borrow both money on margin to purchase securities and common stock to facilitate short positions. A prime brokerage account also serves as a custodial account and holds client securities in the prime broker’s street name.

As of October 11, 2019, the Debtor held approximately $87 million in liquid and illiquid equity and debt securities (the “Securities”) in the Prime Account and had borrowed approximately $30 million on margin from Jefferies secured by the Securities. Pursuant to the Brokerage Agreement, the Debtor granted a lien in favor of Jefferies in the Securities and all of the proceeds thereof. As of October 11, 2019, the Debtor had approximately $9.6 million of excess margin in the Prime Account. The Debtor does not intend to borrow any additional amounts on margin, absent the approval of this Court. As reflected in the Budget, the Debtor intends to liquidate certain of the Securities for cash and to use such cash in the Debtor’s operations and to satisfy ongoing chapter 11 administrative expenses. The Debtor may also supplement its liquidity by selling assets at non-Debtor subsidiaries and distributing those proceeds to the Debtor in the ordinary course of business.

ii. The Frontier Bank Loan (Secured)

13. The Debtor and Frontier State Bank (“Frontier Bank”) are parties to that certain Loan Agreement dated as of August 17, 2015 (the “Original Frontier Loan Agreement”), pursuant to which Frontier Bank loaned to the Debtor the aggregate principal amount of $9.5 million. On March 29, 2018, the Debtor and Frontier Bank entered into that certain First Amended and Restated Loan Agreement (the “Amended Frontier Loan Agreement”), amending and superseding the Original Frontier Loan Agreement. Pursuant to the Amended Frontier Loan Agreement, Frontier Bank made an additional $1 million loan to the Debtor (together with the borrowings under the Original Frontier Loan Agreement, the “Frontier Loan”). The Frontier Loan matures on August 17, 2021.

14. Pursuant to that certain Security and Pledge Agreement dated August 17, 2015, between Frontier Bank and the Debtor, as amended by the Amended Frontier Loan Agreement, the Debtor's obligations under the Frontier Loan are secured by 171,724 shares of voting common stock of MGM Holdings, Inc. (collectively, the "Frontier Prepetition Collateral"). For the avoidance of doubt, the Debtor does not seek authority to liquidate any portion of the Frontier Prepetition Collateral and is not requesting the use of the Frontier Prepetition Collateral.

15. As of the Petition Date, the aggregate principal balance of the Frontier Loan was approximately $5.2 million.

iii. The CLO Purchase Agreement (Unsecured)

16. On October 7, 2016, the Debtor and Acis Capital Management L.P. ("Acis") entered into that certain Agreement for Purchase and Sale of CLO Participation Interests (the "CLO Purchase Agreement" and the promissory note therein, the "CLO Note"). Previously, Acis managed certain collateralized loan obligations ("CLOs") identified in the CLO Purchase Agreement and was entitled to fee compensation in connection therewith (the "Servicer Fees").² The Debtor's obligations under the CLO Purchase Agreement and CLO Note are unsecured.

17. Pursuant to the CLO Purchase Agreement, Acis sold a portion of its future Servicer Fees to the Debtor in exchange for cash flows from the Debtor, as evidenced in the CLO Note (such Servicer Fees to be paid to the Debtor, the "Debtor Stabilization Fees" and such cash flows from the Debtor, the "Stabilization Payment").

² Acis was subsequently the subject of an involuntary bankruptcy filing in 2018.

18. Pursuant to that certain Agreement for Assignment and Transfer of Promissory Note dated as of November 3, 2017 (the “CLO Assignment Agreement”), Acis assigned all of its right, title, and interests in the CLO Note, including the right to any and all Stabilization Payments not yet paid to Acis, to Highland CLO Management, Ltd. (“HCLOM”). The Debtor does not have any beneficial ownership interest in HCLOM.

19. Pursuant to that certain Amended and Restated Forbearance Agreement dated as of May 31, 2019, by and between the Debtor and HCLOM, HCLOM agreed not to demand payment of the Stabilization Payments under the CLO Note for a period of one year (i.e., until June 1, 2020).

20. As of the Petition Date, the aggregate principal balance of the CLO Note was approximately $9.5 million.

iv. Other Unsecured Obligations

21. The Debtor has various substantial litigation claims asserted against it, including a recent arbitration award in the purported amount of approximately $189 million.

22. In addition, the Debtor has ordinary course trade debt totaling less than $10 million, accrued and unaccrued employee bonus obligations totaling approximately $30 million, and contractual commitments to various affiliated and unaffiliated non-Debtor entities for capital calls, contributions, and other potential reimbursement or funding obligations that could total in the tens of millions of dollars.

C. Events Leading to the Debtor's Bankruptcy Filing and Commencement of the Chapter 11 Case

26. The Debtor's filing was precipitated by an arbitration award (the "Award") initially issued against the Debtor in March 2019, as subsequently modified and finalized, by a panel of the American Arbitration Association, in favor of a Committee of Redeemers in the Highland Crusader Fund (the "Redeemer Committee").

27. The Debtor was formerly the investment manager for the Highland Crusader Fund (the "Crusader Fund") that was formed between 2000 and 2002. In September and October 2008, as the financial markets in the United States began to fail, the Debtor was flooded with redemption requests from Crusader Fund investors, as the Crusader Fund's assets lost significant value.

28. On October 15, 2008, the Debtor placed the Crusader Fund in wind-down, thereby compulsorily redeeming the Crusader Fund's limited partnership interests. The Debtor also declared that it would liquidate the Crusader Fund's remaining assets and distribute the proceeds to investors.

29. However, disputes concerning the distribution of the assets arose among certain investors. After several years of negotiations, a Joint Plan of Distribution of the Crusader Fund (the "Crusader Plan"), and the Scheme of Arrangement between Highland Crusader Fund and its Scheme Creditors (the "Crusader Scheme"), were adopted in Bermuda and became effective in August 2011. As part of the Crusader Plan and the Crusader Scheme, the Redeemer Committee was elected from among the Crusader Fund's investors to oversee the Debtor's management of the Crusader Fund.

30. Between October 2011 and January 2013, in accordance with the Crusader Plan and the Crusader Scheme, the Debtor distributed in excess of $1.2 billion to the Crusader Fund investors. The Debtor distributed a further $315.3 million through June 2016.

31. However, disputes subsequently arose between the Redeemer Committee and the Debtor. On July 5, 2016, the Redeemer Committee (a) terminated and replaced the Debtor as investment manager of the Crusader Fund, (b) commenced an arbitration against the Debtor (the “Arbitration”), and (c) commenced litigation in Delaware Chancery Court, inter alia, to obtain a status quo order in aid of the arbitration, which order was subsequently entered.

32. In September 2018, the Debtor and the Redeemer Committee participated in a multi-day evidentiary hearing. In March 2019, following post-trial briefing, the arbitration panel issued its Award, as subsequently modified and finalized, finding in favor of the Redeemer Committee on a variety of claims and requiring the Debtor to pay a gross amount of $189 million, which later would be partially netted against certain assets and deferred cash to be sent back to Debtor. The Redeemer Committee set a hearing in the Delaware Chancery Court for October 8, 2019, in order to obtain entry of a judgment with respect to the Award. The hearing was subsequently continued to October 16, 2019. The Debtor has sought to vacate certain aspects of the Award.

33. The Debtor believes that it has substantial liquid and illiquid assets, which include interests in a large number of subsidiaries and contractual rights to receive management fees and other forms of compensation from affiliated and unaffiliated entities. Although the Debtor believes that the aggregate value of its assets exceeds the amount of its liabilities, the Debtor filed this chapter 11 case because it does not have sufficient liquidity to immediately satisfy the Award or post a supersedeas bond necessary to pursue an appeal. The Debtor intends to utilize the breathing spell provided by the automatic stay to consider all of its restructuring options with the goal of ultimately proposing a chapter 11 plan that will maximize the value of the estate's assets for the benefit of all constituents. To assist and coordinate the restructuring process, the Debtor retained Bradley D. Sharp as Chief Restructuring Officer of the Debtor (the "CRO") on October 7, 2019.

PART II

ORDINARY COURSE ACTIVITIES

34. During the pendency of the chapter 11 case, the Debtor intends to continue operating its business in the ordinary course. Part of that business includes the purchase and sale of securities held through the Prime Account. In order to raise cash for its ordinary course operations and other projected chapter 11 administrative expenses, the Debtor intends to liquidate certain securities held in the Prime Account on a postpetition basis in the ordinary course. Additionally, Debtor is the majority owner and investment manager of a non-Debtor affiliate called Highland Select Equity Fund, L.P. (the "Select Fund").³ Ordinary course operations of Select Fund include the purchase and sale of securities. With respect to any trades in either the Prime Account or the Select Equity Fund, the Debtor will follow the following protocol: (i) all trades will be with unaffiliated third parties; (ii) all securities will be traded through either a public or over-the-counter exchange; and (iii) all trades will be fully disclosed to

35. Further, in the ordinary course of business, the Debtor may be the named counterparty with various broker dealers through which the Debtor trades securities on behalf of its clients. Any transactions that the Debtor executes on behalf of its clients are settled through non-Debtor client accounts pursuant to a standardized internal allocation system. As such, the Debtor has no property interest in any such assets, nor is the Debtor likely to have any liability if any trade fails.⁴ The Debtor simply as a matter of convenience interacts in its own name with the various broker dealers on behalf of its clients. Certain dealers have suggested that the Debtor should no longer be the named counterparty now that the Debtor is in bankruptcy and, instead, that a non-Debtor entity act as the “street name” on the trades. The Debtor is considering this request and intends to comply to the extent necessary.

36. Although the Debtor believes that it has the authority to conduct its business going forward in the ordinary course, the Debtor will file a precautionary motion with the Court, out of an abundance of caution, as soon as practicable after the Petition Date seeking approval to continue conducting its business in the ordinary course pursuant to section 363(c)(1) and, to the extent necessary, section 363(b) of the Bankruptcy Code (the “Ordinary Course Motion”).

37. In addition, and as will be set forth more fully in the Ordinary Course Motion, the Debtor also intends to seek authority to continue the operation of its three primary business lines: (i) proprietary trading; (ii) investment management; and (iii) the provision of certain middle and back office services to other registered investment advisors (collectively, the “Ordinary Course Services”). Generally speaking, the Ordinary Course Services are as follows:

a. Proprietary Trading. The Debtor buys and sells securities for its own account through the Prime Account and the Select Fund and has invested, in its own name, as a limited partner in two unaffiliated private equity style funds (the “PE Entities”). The Debtor has certain obligations to fund capital calls made by the PE Entities, which it intends to continue following the Petition Date.

b. Investment Management. The Debtor provides investment management and advisory services to its clients, which include hedge funds, private equity style funds, separately managed accounts, and collateralized loan obligations. As part of these services, the Debtor, in most cases, has the authority to cause its clients to buy or sell assets if the Debtor believes such purchases or sales would be advantageous. With certain exceptions, the clients pay the Debtor a fee for providing these services, which generally consists of a management fee based on the total amount of assets managed and, for certain funds, an incentive fee based on the returns generated for the client.

c. Shared Services. The Debtor provides certain middle and back office support to other registered investment advisors pursuant to shared services agreements. The Debtor receives a fee for providing these shared services.

38. The fees and investment returns generated from the foregoing three business lines are the Debtor’s primary source of income and are necessary for the Debtor’s successful reorganization. Although the Debtor believes that it has the authority to continue operating its business in the ordinary course without Court approval, the Debtor intends to file the Ordinary Course Motion out of an abundance of caution in order to provide clarity to its customers – as well as its creditors – that the Debtor can continue operating as a going concern and generating positive returns. If the Debtor is not able to continue providing such services or is required to seek prior approval from this Court to buy or sell assets in every instance, the Debtor’s ability to generate positive returns for its clients and creditors in this fast moving marketplace will be severely compromised.

PART III

FIRST DAY MOTIONS

39. In order to enable the Debtor to minimize the adverse effects of the commencement of the chapter 11 case, the Debtor has requested various types of relief in the First Day Motions filed simultaneously with this Declaration. A summary of the relief sought in each First Day Motion is set forth below.

40. I have reviewed each of these First Day Motions (including the exhibits and schedules thereto). The facts stated therein are true and correct to the best of my knowledge, information, and belief. I believe that the type of relief sought in each of the First Day Motions: (a) is necessary to enable the Debtor to operate in chapter 11 with minimal disruption; and (b) is essential to maximizing the value of the Debtor’s assets for the benefit of its estate and creditors.

A. Motion of Debtors for Entry of Interim and Final Orders (A) Authorizing the Use of Cash Collateral, (B) Providing Adequate Protection, (C) Authorizing the Liquidation of Securities, (D) Modifying the Automatic Stay, and (E) Scheduling a Final Hearing (the “Cash Collateral Motion”)

41. Through the Cash Collateral Motion, the Debtor seeks the entry of interim and final orders: (a) authorizing the Debtor to use cash collateral, (b) providing adequate protection to the Debtor's prepetition broker and margin creditor, Jefferies LLC

("Jefferies"), (c) authorizing the liquidation of securities by the Debtor, and to cause its non-Debtor affiliates to do the same, in the ordinary course of business, and (d) modifying the automatic stay.

42. The Debtor has a prime brokerage account with Jefferies (i.e., the Prime Account) that contains approximately $87 million of the Debtor's liquid and illiquid securities. Through the Prime Account, the Debtor has borrowed approximately $30 million on margin from Jefferies. Such margin balance is secured by the Debtor's securities in the Prime Account and any proceeds thereof. The Debtor submits that the collateral pledged to secure the margin debt to Jefferies far exceeds the amount due. Nonetheless, the Debtor anticipates that Jefferies may assert an interest in any cash in the Prime Account. Although the Cash Collateral Motion is filed on a non-consensual basis, the Debtor will endeavor to negotiate the terms of a consensual cash collateral order with Jefferies in advance of the interim hearing on the Cash Collateral Motion.

43. The Debtor has an urgent and immediate need for the use of cash, including the Cash Collateral. The Debtor has not obtained postpetition financing and, without the use of Cash Collateral, the Debtor will not be able to operate as a going concern or preserve its assets for the benefit of its creditors.

44. The Debtor itself is the operating arm of the Highland business. The Debtor employs approximately 76 people, including executive-level management employees, finance and legal staff, investment professionals, and back-office accounting and administrative personnel. Pursuant to various contractual arrangements, the Debtor provides money management and advisory services to a variety of affiliated and unaffiliated entities with respect to a wide range of asset classes. The Debtor also leases office space, contracts with third party vendors, and maintains banking and brokerage relationships.

45. As set forth in the Budget, the Debtor anticipates funding this Chapter 11 Case with cash on hand, postpetition receipts on account of management services and sales of liquid assets, including the Securities in the Prime Account, and projected distributions from subsidiaries. Proceeds of the Securities in the Prime Account comprise collateral of Jefferies and, pursuant to the Cash Collateral Motion, the Debtor seeks authority to use such Cash Collateral in the ordinary course of business to preserve its operations and thereby maximize the value of the Debtor's assets for the benefit of its creditors.

46. Notably, Jefferies will be adequately protected by a substantial equity cushion in the Prime Account and the Replacement Lien, the Adequate Protection Lien, and the Adequate Protection Claim.

47. Without immediate access to Cash Collateral, the repercussions to the Debtor's restructuring efforts will be catastrophic and likely irreparable, ending its ability to maximize value for the benefit of all constituents. The Debtor needs to fund, among other things, payroll obligations, payments to vendors for ongoing goods, services, and rent, and other administrative obligations.

48. If the Motion is not approved, the Debtor's only alternative would be a piecemeal liquidation that would substantially handicap recoveries by creditors and eliminate the Debtor's going concern value. Hence, the relief sought in the Cash Collateral Motion should be granted as soon as possible, at least on an interim basis.

B. Motion of Debtor for Interim and Final Orders Authorizing (A) Continuance of Existing Cash Management System and Brokerage Relationships, (B) Continued Use of the Prime Account, (C) Limited Waiver of Section 345(b) Deposit and Investment Requirements, and (D) Granting Related Relief (the “Cash Management Motion”)

49. Pursuant to the Cash Management Motion, the Debtor seeks the entry of an order authorizing: (a) the Debtor to continue using its existing cash management system and brokerage relationships in the ordinary course of business; (b) the Debtor to make intercompany transactions; and (c) a limited waiver of section 345(b) deposit and investment requirements.

50. The Debtor’s cash management system (the “Cash Management System”) facilitates the timely and efficient collection, management, and disbursement of funds used in the Debtor’s business. The Cash Management System currently consists of six accounts (collectively, the “Bank Accounts”) held in the name of the Debtor at BBVA USA (“BBVA”) and NexBank, SSB (“NexBank”). BBVA and NexBank are together referenced herein as the “Banks.”

51. BBVA is a bank regulated by the Federal Reserve, and its deposits are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (the “FDIC”). NexBank is Texas-based savings bank that is regulated by the FDIC, and its deposits are FDIC-insured. NexBank is indirectly owned by James Dondero and Mark Okada. Mr. Dondero is an insider of the Debtor and the owner of 100% of the equity in the Debtor’s general partner, Strand Advisors, Inc. Mr. Dondero also has an indirect interest in the Debtor’s Class A limited partnership interests. Mr. Okada is an insider of the Debtor and has an interest in the Debtor’s Class A limited partnership interests.

52. The following chart sets forth the Bank Accounts and their balances as of the close of business on October 15, 2019:

Bank	Account Type	Account No.	Balance
NexBank	Checking Account	XXXX735	$1,435.40
NexBank	Checking Account	XXXX668	$0.00
NexBank	Checking Account	XXXX513	$291,309.27
NexBank	Certificate of Deposit	XXXXXX891	$135,205.21
NexBank	Money Market Deposit Account	XXXX130	$190.82
BBVA	Checking Account	XXXXXXXX342	$2,125,975.28

53. Master Operations Account. The Debtor’s main operating account is its account at BBVA (Account No. 342) (the “Master Account”). Except for payment of certain intercompany expenses discussed below, all proceeds from the Debtor’s operations flow into the Master Account and, on average, the Debtor receives approximately $8 million in deposits into the Master Account every month though deposits can vary significantly on a month-to-month basis. Virtually all of the Debtor’s expenses, including payroll expenses, are paid from the Master Account either through the issuance of paper checks or via wire or other electronic transfers. As described below, the Debtor also uses the Master Account to fund certain Intercompany Transactions (as defined below).

54. Money Market Account. The Debtor maintains a money market deposit account at NexBank (Account No. 130) (the “Money Market Account”). Although the Debtor does not have a specific policy governing the Money Market Account, the Debtor generally sweeps excess cash from the Master Account into the Money Market Account in order to earn

56. Certificate of Deposit. The Debtor has a certificate of deposit (Account No. 891) at NexBank (the “Certificate of Deposit”). The Certificate of Deposit was originally opened in June 2008 with a principal balance of $1,400,000. The current balance is $135,205.21. The Certificate of Deposit is renewed every June and currently accrues interest at a rate of 2.67% per annum.

57. The Debtor's remaining two accounts at NexBank – Account No. 735 and Account No. 668 – are legacy accounts that have not been utilized in many years. Account No. 735 holds a de minimis amount of cash and is accruing interest. Account No. 668 has a balance of zero dollars.

i. Prime Brokerage Account

58. As described in Part I above, the Debtor maintains the Prime Account with Jefferies. As of October 11, 2019, the Debtor held approximately $87 million in Securities in the Prime Account and had borrowed approximately $30 million on margin from Jefferies against the Securities.

ii. Intercompany Transactions.

59. As noted above, the Debtor occasionally engages in intercompany cash transactions with certain of its affiliates. These transfers include (a) the movement of cash to and from the Insurance Account to fund the payment of health insurance claims and (b) the receipt of cash in the Master Account in connection with the provision of services to certain non-Debtor affiliates. In addition to the foregoing, the Debtor also funds the following using the Master Account:

a. Highland Multi Strategy Credit Fund, L.P. The Debtor serves as the investment manager for Highland Multi Strategy Credit Fund, L.P. ("MCSF") and is also a limited partner in MCSF. MCSF invests in and holds life settlement policies that require regular payment of premiums (generally monthly) to keep the policies from lapsing. If the policies were to lapse, MCSF would be unable to collect when the proceeds of such policies become realizable and, consequently, its ability to make distributions to the Debtor as a limited partner or pay amounts owed to the Debtor as the investment manager would be impaired. Because MSCF has limited liquidity, the Debtor provides MSCF the funding required to pay the premiums on its life settlement policies, among other expenses, in the amount of approximately $1 million per month. In return, MSCF issues on demand, zero interest notes to the Debtor, which will be repaid once MSCF's investments become liquid.

b. Highland Capital Management Korea Limited. Highland Capital Management Korea Limited ("HCM Korea") is a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Debtor and an affiliated investment advisor domiciled in South Korea. HCM Korea is the advisor for, and minority limited partner in, an investment fund (the "HCM Korea Fund"). Each limited partner in the HCM Korea Fund, including HCM Korea, is required to provide capital when called by the HCM Korea Fund, and the failure to fund capital calls could lead to a default under the HCM Korea Fund's partnership agreement. Because of HCM Korea's limited liquidity, the Debtor has provided HCM Korea with a revolving note pursuant to which the Debtor has extended up to $20 million in credit for HCM Korea to use to fund its commitments to the HCM Korea Fund. The note is at zero percent interest, and there is currently approximately $3.06 million outstanding on the note. The Debtor anticipates that HCM Korea will draw an additional $3 million on the note over the next one to two years and will repay the note as the HCM Korea Fund realizes gains on its portfolio and distributes those gains to its investors.

c. Highland Capital Management Latin America, L.P. Highland Capital Management Latin America, L.P. (“HCM Latin America”) is a wholly owned subsidiary of the Debtor and an affiliated investment advisor domiciled in the Cayman Islands. HCM Latin America is the advisor for an investment fund investing primarily in Argentina (the “SA Fund”). HCM Latin America employs several consultants to assist in advising and marketing the SA Fund. However, because of the recent instability in the Argentinian market, the value of the SA Fund dropped precipitously and consequently, the SA Fund does not currently generate sufficient fees to cover the cost of these consultants. In addition to its original equity contribution, the Debtor has been contributing equity to HCM Latin America to help cover its costs during the downturn. To date, the Debtor has provided approximately $0.7 million in additional equity to cover such operating costs. The Debtor anticipates that HCM Latin America will require additional equity contributions of between $1 million to $1.5 million per year until the Argentinian market recovers. However, because of HCM Latin America’s fee structure, there are opportunities for HCM Latin America to make outsized returns depending on the SA Fund’s performance, and, in the event of an Argentinian recovery and a concomitant uptick in the SA Fund, HCM Latin America’s fee revenue and profitability will also increase. Consequently, the Debtor believes that contributing equity now will lead to increased returns on its investment in HCM Latin America going forward.

d. Highland Capital Management (Singapore) Pte Ltd. Highland Capital Management (Singapore) Pte Ltd. is a wholly owned subsidiary of the Debtor based in Singapore (“HCM Singapore”). Historically, HCM Singapore has been a marketing office that has solicited investments in the Debtor’s managed funds from Asian-based institutional investors. To facilitate HCM Singapore's marketing efforts, the Debtor agreed to cover HCM Singapore's costs. The Debtor agreed to this arrangement as any capital raised by HCM Singapore would directly increase the management fees – and potentially long-term incentive fees – earned by the Debtor. The Debtor believes such increased revenue, should it materialize, would more than offset the costs paid by the Debtor.

e. Expense Allocations. As is customary among investment advisors, the Debtor tasks its employees with researching and evaluating potential investments and opportunities for the Debtor's clients. The Debtor also provides certain back office support for its clients from time to time. In order to provide such services, the Debtor has directly contracted with various service providers and is required to pay for such services. However, pursuant to the Debtor's expense allocation policy, such expenses are then allocated amongst the Debtor and its various clients either pro rata based on the assets owned by a client or otherwise in a manner consistent with the policy. Consequently, although the Debtor fronts these costs, the Debtor is reimbursed for a portion of such costs by its clients. On a monthly basis, the Debtor generally expects to pay approximately $450,000 for such services and is reimbursed for a substantial majority of such costs by its clients or affiliates.

60. The transactions described in the foregoing paragraphs are referred to collectively as the "Intercompany Transactions."

61. By Cash Management Motion, and out of an abundance of caution, the Debtor seeks authority to make the Intercompany Transactions and to satisfy postpetition obligations associated with the Intercompany Transactions. Moreover, the Debtor seeks authority, to the extent required, to transfer funds between the Bank Accounts as described above.

62. The Debtor seeks a waiver of the United States Trustee's requirement for the closure of the Bank Accounts (and potentially the Prime Account) and opening of new postpetition bank accounts at depositories authorized by the United States Trustee. If strictly enforced in this chapter 11 case, the requirement to close and open new bank accounts could cause a severe disruption in the Debtor's activities and could impair the Debtor's ability to operate under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code. Maintenance of the Bank Accounts, the Prime Account, and the Cash Management System generally will greatly facilitate the Debtor's operations for the duration of this chapter 11 case.

63. If the Bank Accounts were closed, the Debtor would need to undertake the laborious effort of opening new bank accounts and, with respect to the Prime Account, establishing a new brokerage account to hold and maintain the Securities, which would require the satisfaction of any outstanding margin balances. Any disruption to the Debtor's operations would severely impact its ability to operate at this critical juncture. If the Debtor were required to close the Bank Accounts and the Prime Account, and open new debtor in possession accounts, the Debtor would be forced to reconstruct its cash management system in its entirety. Moreover, as noted above, the closure of the Prime Account would trigger the repayment of the approximately $30 million that has been borrowed against the Securities.

64. In the ordinary course of the operation and maintenance of the Cash Management System, the Debtor incurs routine charges and fees relating to the administration of the Cash Management System. While it is difficult to readily determine the aggregate amount of unpaid prepetition account fees and charges as of the Petition Date, on average, the Debtor pays BBVA approximately $4,500 in quarterly fees and charges. The Debtor does not pay fees to NexBank. The Debtor seeks authority, in its sole discretion, to pay any such routine and ordinary course prepetition fees and charges, and to continue the postpetition payment of such fees and charges in the ordinary course of business.

65. As addressed above, the Debtor may utilize the Cash Management System for the Intercompany Transactions. Other than as described herein, no other Intercompany Transactions occur. The Debtor believes that the Intercompany Transactions described herein are beneficial to its estate and creditors and other parties in interest and, therefore, should be authorized by the Court.

66. In sum, the Debtor submits that the relief requested in the Cash Management Motion is necessary to avoid immediate and irreparable harm and should be granted by this Court.

C. Motion of Debtor for Entry of Order (I) Authorizing the Debtor to (A) Pay and Honor Prepetition Compensation, Reimbursable Business Expenses, and Employee Benefit Obligations, and (B) Maintain and Continue Certain Compensation and Benefit Programs Postpetition; and (II) Granting Related Relief (the “Wage Motion”)

67. Pursuant to the Wage Motion, the Debtor seeks the entry of an order authorizing: (a) authorizing the Debtor to (i) to pay all prepetition Workforce Compensation and all costs related to the prepetition Benefit Programs, as set forth in the Wage Motion; and (ii) maintain and continue to honor the Benefit Programs as they were in effect as of the Petition Date and as such may be modified, amended, or supplemented from time to time in the ordinary course of business; and (b) authorizing the Banks to honor and process checks and electronic transfer requests for payment of prepetition obligations with respect to the Workforce

Compensation and Benefit Programs. The Debtor does not seek authority to pay any Employees on account of Wages in excess of the statutory cap of $13,650.

i. The Debtor's Workforce

68. The Debtor employs approximately 76 employees (the "Employees"), all but one of whom are full-time Employees. Approximately 55 Employees are salaried workers, while approximately 21 are hourly Employees. Except as otherwise noted, the Debtor provides the Benefit Programs (discussed below) to all of its Employees.

69. In addition to the Employees, the Debtor also periodically retains specialized individuals as independent contractors and temporary workers (the "Independent Contractors") to complete certain projects or tasks. As of the Petition Date, the Debtor retained approximately six (6) Independent Contractors. The Independent Contractors are a critical supplement to the efforts of the Employees and integral to the Debtor's operations and business.

70. Typically, the Employees, as well as the Independent Contractors, rely on their compensation and benefits (as applicable) to pay their daily living expenses and to support their families. If the Debtor is not permitted to continue to pay wages and salaries, provide employee benefits, and maintain benefit programs in the ordinary course of business, many of the Employees may be exposed to significant financial constraints. Consequently, the Debtor respectfully submits that the relief requested herein is necessary and appropriate under the facts and circumstances of this chapter 11 case.

71. As explained in more detail below, the Debtor seeks authority to pay, in its discretion, any prepetition amounts owed for the programs and benefits described in the Wage

Motion up to the cap amounts set forth in the chart below. The Debtor also seeks authority to continue to pay amounts related to the programs described in the Wage Motion in the ordinary course of business.

BENEFIT/PROGRAM	CAP AMOUNT ⁶
Wages	$50,000
Independent Contractor Compensation	$40,000
Payroll Processor	$2,500
Medical Plan/FSA	$200,000
Dental Plan	$15,000
Life and Disability Plans	$15,000
Workers Compensation Plan	$5,000
COBRA	$2,500
401(k) Plan	$25,000
Other Employee Benefits	$20,000
Reimbursable Expenses	$110,000
Independent Contractor Compensation	$40,000s

ii. Employee and Contractor Compensation

72. Employee compensation is comprised primarily of wages and salaries (“Wages”).⁷ The current average payroll of the Debtor is approximately $240,000 per calendar week on account of Wages.

⁶ Unless otherwise noted, the dollar caps included in the table above and in the proposed order include reasonable cushions in the event that the Debtor’s estimates herein are understated.

⁷ In addition to Wages, most Employees are eligible to receive bonuses under certain ordinary course programs. No commissions are paid to Employees. The Debtor will file a separate motion relating to ordinary course Employee

73. Employees are paid Wages on a semi-monthly payroll schedule (i.e., on the 15th day of each month, or the business day immediately preceding the 15th day if that day falls on a weekend or holiday, and the last business day of the month). Per the Debtor's direction, payrolls are processed by a third party service provider, Paylocity (the "Payroll Processor"), and are generally funded with money in the Debtor's operating account one (1) business day prior to the applicable payroll date. Although the Payroll Processor typically withdraws funds from the Debtor's operating account using ACH, in some cases where the aggregate amount exceeds $1,000,000 or the employee needs to be paid off-cycle as in the case of severance payments, the Debtor wires the money to the Payroll Processor or applicable employee recipient. The Payroll Processor then makes the applicable payroll distributions to Employees on the applicable payday.

74. The Debtor's last payroll was paid to Employees on October 11, 2019 (four days early in light of the Debtor's anticipated bankruptcy filing), on account of Wages earned from October 1, 2019, through October 15, 2019. The next payroll date is October 31, 2019, with employees to be paid concurrently. Although the last payroll was paid a few days early, it is nonetheless possible that certain Employees did not receive payment of their prepetition Wages. Accordingly, the Debtor requests authority to pay up to $50,000 to Employees in the aggregate on account of Wages for prepetition services (excluding any vacation or other paid-time-off, reimbursable expenses, or other compensation).⁸

bonuses. The Debtor further reserves the right to seek approval of an additional bankruptcy-related key employee incentive plan and key employee retention plan.

⁸ As noted, unless stated otherwise, the dollar caps set forth herein include reasonable cushions in the event that the Debtor's estimates are understated.

iii. Payroll Administration Fees

75. As noted above, the Debtor uses the Payroll Processor to administer its payroll. The Debtor estimates that it owes no more than $2,500 to the Payroll Processor on account of prepetition costs and fees for administrative services as of the Petition Date. The Debtor seeks authority to pay any and all prepetition amounts owing to the Payroll Processor up to the cap requested herein and to continue to make payments on account of such fees and charges in the ordinary course of business postpetition.

iv. Employee Benefits & Insurance Plans

76. The Debtor provides eligible Employees with several Benefit Programs, including (a) medical, dental, life, disability, and other insurance plans, (b) a 401(k) plan, and (c) other benefit programs.

(i) Medical Plan

77. The Debtor offers eligible Employees and their dependents 100% employer-paid PPO health insurance coverage (the “Medical Plan”) through BlueCross BlueShield of Texas (“BCBS”). The Medical Plan is self-insured, but the Debtor maintains a stop-loss insurance policy with BCBS to cover catastrophic medical claims (the “Stop-Loss Insurance”). The total premiums cost of the Medical Plan, including the Stop-Loss Insurance, is approximately $102,000 per month, paid by the Debtor each month in advance into a bank account used to pay medical/dental plan administrative fees and claims. From the total premiums of approximately $102,000 per month, the Debtor pays approximately $85,000 per month on average on medical claims asserted under the self-insured Medical Plan. Without the Medical Plan, the Employees and their dependents would be forced to either forego health insurance coverage entirely or obtain themselves potentially expensive out-of-pocket insurance coverage, which would likely adversely affect the Employees' morale.

78. Relatedly, the Debtor provides Employees who participate in the Medical Plan with access to flexible spending accounts (the "FSA"), administered by Discovery Benefits, which can be used to cover incidental medical costs and dependent childcare. The Debtor pays Discovery Benefits, on average, $300 per month for the administration of the FSAs. The Debtor does not make any contributions to any Employee's FSA.

79. The Debtor believes that, as of the Petition Date, no more than $200,000 will be owed on account of obligations associated with the Medical Plan and the FSA. By the Wage Motion, the Debtor seeks authorization to pay any prepetition amounts due on account of or related to the Medical Plan and FSAs (including any medical claims that may have accrued prepetition) up to the cap requested herein and to continue the Medical Plan and the FSA in the ordinary course of business postpetition.

(ii) Dental Plan

80. The Debtor offers eligible Employees a PPO dental insurance plan (the "Dental Plan") administered by BlueCross BlueShield of Texas. The Dental Plan premiums for eligible Employees and their dependents are paid by the Debtor. The average cost to the Debtor of maintaining the Dental Plan, including administrative costs and premiums, is approximately $6,600 per month. As of the Petition Date, the Debtor estimates that no more than $15,000 will be owed on account of obligations associated with the Dental Plan. By the Wage Motion, the Debtor seeks authorization to pay any prepetition amounts due on account of the Dental Plan up to the cap requested herein and to continue the Dental Plan in the ordinary course of business postpetition.

(iii) Life and Disability Plans

81. The Debtor provides all of its full-time Employees with basic life insurance, accidental death and dismemberment insurance, and short-term and long-term disability insurance (collectively, the “Standard Life and Disability Plans”), which are provided by Lincoln Financial; provided, however, the Debtor’s short-term disability insurance coverage is self-insured by the Debtor and administered by Lincoln Financial. Additionally, the Debtor offers its eligible senior personnel with additional life insurance and long-term disability insurance coverage (collectively, the “Executive Life and Disability Plans” and together with the Standard Life and Disability Plans, the “Life and Disability Plans”) provided by Brighthouse/MetLife and The Standard, respectively.

82. The Life and Disability Plans are fully paid for by the Debtor (except with respect to any supplemental coverage that is paid by the Employees through paycheck withholding deductions). In the aggregate, the Debtor’s average annual cost of maintaining the Life and Disability Plans, including administrative costs and premiums, is approximately $140,000.⁹ As of the Petition Date, the Debtor estimates that no more than $15,000 in prepetition obligations associated with the Life and Disability Plans will be owed. By the Wage Motion, the Debtor seeks authorization to pay any and all prepetition amounts due on account of the Life and Disability Plans (including, without limitation, any Employee claims payable under the self-insured short-term disability insurance plan) up to the cap requested herein, and to continue the Life and Disability Plans in the ordinary course of business postpetition.

(iv) Paid Time Off and Sick Time

83. The Debtor grants paid time off to all Employees, which includes vacation and sick time (“PTO”), ranging from 15 to 24 days based on certain factors, in addition to holiday pay. Employees are able to carry forward up to 10 days of PTO for each year of service into a subsequent year (e.g., after two years of service, an Employee can potentially roll over 20 days of PTO). In accordance with applicable state law, the Debtor pays all accrued PTO to Employees upon termination. As of the Petition Date, the accrued liabilities of the Debtor with respect to PTO are estimated to total approximately $940,000. The Debtor seeks authority to allow Employees to use accrued prepetition PTO time after the Petition Date in the ordinary course. The Debtor further seeks authority to pay out any PTO owed to Employees who become separated from the Debtor postpetition to the extent required under the Debtor’s policies and applicable state law.

(v) Workers’ Compensation Plan

84. The Debtor provides all eligible Employees with workers’ compensation insurance (the “Workers’ Compensation Plan”) as required by federal and state law. The Workers’ Compensation Plan is a policy-based, fully insured plan provided by Chubb. The average annual cost of maintaining the Workers’ Compensation Plan, including administrative costs and premiums, is approximately $11,000 in the aggregate. The Debtor makes payments to Chubb monthly in arrears. As of the Petition Date, the Debtor believes that no more than $5,000 will be owed on account of prepetition obligations under the Workers’ Compensation Plan. By the Wage Motion, the Debtor seeks authorization to satisfy all obligations related to the Workers' Compensation Plan, including, without limitation, premiums and any related fees, costs, and expenses up to the cap requested herein, and to continue its Workers' Compensation Plan in the ordinary course.

85. The Debtor submits that the continuance of the Workers' Compensation Plan is appropriate in the ordinary course of business, but out of abundance of caution, seeks authority to maintain the Workers' Compensation Plan in accordance with applicable law postpetition. The Debtor also seeks authority for relief from the automatic stay solely to allow holders of workers' compensation claims to proceed with their claims in accordance with the Workers' Compensation Plan and to allow the Workers Compensation Plan insurer to administer, handle, defend, settle and/or pay a claim covered by the Workers' Compensation Plan and the cost related hereto in accordance with such plan.

(vi) COBRA

86. Pursuant to the requirements of the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986 ("COBRA"), the Debtor provides temporary continuation of healthcare benefits at group rates to former Employees after their termination, retirement, or disability leave. The former Employee or the Debtor bears the costs associated with COBRA, depending on the terms of the separation agreement between the former Employee and the Debtor. As of the Petition Date, the Debtor was responsible for COBRA related costs of approximately $2,300 per month. The Debtor requests that former Employees and eligible dependents retain the right to coverage under the Medical Plan in accordance with the requirements of the terms of COBRA and requests authorization to pay obligations arising under such plans, regardless of when such obligations accrued, up to $2,500.

(vii) 401(k) Plan

87. The Debtor allows eligible Employees to participate in a 401(k) plan (the “401(k) Plan”) administered by an independent third party, BOK Financial (the “401(k) Administrator”). The 401(k) Plan is funded by participating Employees through payroll withholding deductions, and the Debtor makes matching contributions up to 4% of the applicable Employee’s compensation (subject to certain annual caps of $5,000 for highly compensated employees and $11,000 for other employees). The Debtor estimates that it will fund approximately $400,000 in total matching contributions in 2019; more than $300,000 has been funded by the Debtor for this year to date. The Debtor intends to continue to make ordinary course matching contributions to the 401(k) Plan on a going forward basis.

88. The Debtor also has a discretionary profit sharing plan (the “Profit Sharing Plan”) administered by the 401(k) Administrator. For a given calendar year, Employees who are enrolled in the 401(k) Plan and employed by the Debtor as of December 31 of that year are eligible to participate in the Profit Sharing Plan. If profit sharing is approved for a given year, each eligible Employee would receive a percentage of his or her cash compensation based on various factors, and capped at a certain amount. The profit sharing contribution typically ranges from 4% to 7.5% of eligible compensation (for 2019, the maximum eligible compensation is $280,000). The award is then paid into the 401(k) Plan for the Employee’s benefit as a Debtor contribution; this award vests upon three (3) years of service (with a year defined as 1,000 hours in a calendar year), but once the initial three (3) years of service has been met, all future awards vest immediately. The approved profit sharing contributions for 2018 (approximately $854,000) were previously funded by the Debtor prepetition. No profit sharing for year 2019 has been calculated or approved by the Debtor as yet, but would typically be approved in the ordinary course in February 2020 and would be payable no later than September 15, 2020. The Debtor will be filing a separate motion to seek authority to continue the Profit Sharing Plan on a postpetition basis in the ordinary course.

89. In the aggregate, with respect to 401(k) Plan, the Debtor annually pays approximately $82,000 in administrative costs to the 401(k) Administrator (typically funded in part out of 401(k) Plan forfeitures), actuarial and legal costs of approximately $50,000, and audit costs of approximately $7,000 (audit cost is for 2018 audit which is nearly complete; 2019 audit has not yet been commenced).

90. The Debtor believes that, as of the Petition Date, all of Q3 2019 administrative costs and only a relatively de minimis amount of prepetition Q4 2019 administrative costs is owed relating to the 401(k) Plan. The Debtor seeks authorization to continue to pay any prepetition amounts due on account of the 401(k) Plan, including any administrative, audit or advisory fees, up to a cap of $25,000 and to continue to pay postpetition costs of the 401(k) Plan in the ordinary course of business.

(viii) Other Employee Benefits

91. The Debtor provides eligible Employees with a number of other miscellaneous benefits (the “Other Employee Benefits”), which include, without limitation, (i) flexible spending accounts; (ii) daily catered lunches (the Debtor pays $16 maximum per workday through GrubHub, etc.); (iii) cell phone service reimbursement (the Debtor provides each eligible Employee $100 per month in reimbursement); (iv) gym memberships (the Debtor pays gym dues of approximately $25 per month for each eligible Employee); (v) paid office parking; and (vi) access to stocked office kitchens.

92. As the foregoing descriptions suggest, the aggregate cost of maintaining the Other Employee Benefits is relatively de minimis. The Debtor seeks authorization to pay any prepetition amounts that may be due on account of the Other Employee Benefits up to $20,000, and to continue the Other Employee Benefits in the ordinary course of business postpetition.

v. Reimbursable Expenses

93. Prior to the Petition Date, the Debtor reimbursed Employees for Reimbursable Expenses incurred on behalf of the Debtor in the scope of their duties. The Reimbursable Expenses are incurred in the ordinary course of the Debtor's business operations and include, without limitation, reasonable expenses for business meals, travel, relocation, car rentals, and other business-related expenses. As of the Petition Date, the Debtor estimates that it owes no more than $110,000 in Reimbursable Expenses. Although the Debtor has requested that Employees submit reimbursement requests promptly, Employees may nonetheless submit reimbursement requests for prepetition Reimbursable Expenses after the Petition Date. Absent authority to pay the Reimbursable Expenses incurred prepetition, the Employees could be obligated to pay such amounts out of their personal funds. The Debtor therefore seeks authority to pay all outstanding prepetition Reimbursable Expenses, and to continue its expense reimbursement policies in the ordinary course of business.

vi. Withholding Obligations

94. The Debtor routinely deducts amounts from Employees' compensation with respect to certain Withholding Obligations, including, but not limited to, various federal, state, and local income taxes, wage garnishments, flexible spending account contributions, dependent daycare account contributions, and 401(k) contributions (the "Employee Withholdings").

95. The Debtor is also responsible for remitting to third parties, for their own account, various taxes and fees associated with payroll pursuant to the Federal Insurance Contributions Act and federal and state laws regarding unemployment and disability taxes (the "Payroll Taxes"). On average, the Debtor pays approximately $15,000 in the aggregate for employer-obligated Payroll Taxes each pay period.

96. The Debtor does not believe that any prepetition Withholding Obligations remain to be remitted to the appropriate parties. However, out of caution, the Debtor seeks authority to deduct and remit any outstanding prepetition Employee Withholdings and Payroll Taxes, and to continue to deduct and remit all owed Employee Withholdings and all owed Payroll Taxes to the appropriate third party recipients in the ordinary course of business.

vii. Independent Contractors

97. As noted above, the Debtor also uses and depends on various Independent Contractors. The Debtor makes payments to Independent Contractors ("Independent Contractor Compensation") and together with Wages, "Workforce Compensation") for the performance of certain specialized services important to the Debtor's business and operations, including, among other things, investment management, tax/legal, real estate advisory, executive recruiting, life settlements valuation / actuary, and other miscellaneous consulting services. On average, the Debtor pays approximately $80,000 per month in Independent Contractor Compensation. As of the Petition Date, the Debtor estimates that it may owe up to $40,000 on account of accrued, unpaid Independent Contractor Compensation.

98. Importantly, the Debtor relies on the continuous support of Independent Contractors to handle and/or assist with projects and matters in furtherance of the Debtor's business. The Debtor believes the authority to continue paying the Independent Contractor Compensation, including any prepetition amounts, is critical to minimize disruption of the Debtor's operations. Accordingly, the Debtor seeks authority to satisfy any prepetition accrued but unpaid Independent Contractor Compensation up to $40,000 and continue to pay the Independent Contractor Compensation on a postpetition basis in the ordinary course of business and consistent with past practices.

viii. Direction to Banks and Financial Institutions

99. The Debtor also seeks an order authorizing its banks and other financial institutions (collectively, the "Banks") to receive, process, honor, and pay all of the Debtor's prepetition checks and fund transfers on account of any prepetition amounts owed on account of or relating to Workforce Compensation or the Benefit Programs, including all checks issued with regard to any Workforce Compensation and Benefit Programs, and prohibiting the Banks from placing any holds on, or attempting to reverse, any automatic transfers to any account of an Employee or other party for prepetition Workforce Compensation and Benefit Programs obligations. The Debtor also seeks an order authorizing the issuance of new postpetition checks or new postpetition funds transfers on account of prepetition Workforce Compensation and Benefit Program obligations to replace any prepetition checks or funds transfer requests that may be dishonored or rejected, and to reimburse Employees or other applicable party for any fees or expenses incurred in connection with any rejected checks as a result of the Debtor's bankruptcy filing.

D. Motion of Debtor for Entry of Interim and Final Orders (A) Authorizing Debtors to Pay Prepetition Claims of Critical Vendors and (B) Granting Related Relief (the "Critical Vendor Motion")

100. Through the Critical Vendor Motion, the Debtor seeks the entry of interim and final orders (a) authorizing, but not directing, the Debtor to pay certain prepetition claims (each a "Critical Vendor Claim" and, collectively, the "Critical Vendor Claims") of certain essential vendors and service providers (each, a "Critical Vendor" and, collectively, the "Critical Vendors") on an interim basis not to exceed $250,000 (the "Interim Critical Vendor Cap"), representing the critical expenditures the Debtor will need to make to Critical Vendors during the first four weeks of this case, and, on a final basis, not to exceed $1,000,000 (the "Critical Vendor Cap") and (b) granting related relief.

101. The Debtor's business relies on continuing access to and relationships with various vendors and service providers. Any disruption in the Debtor's access to the provision of critical goods and services to the Debtor would have a far-reaching and adverse economic and operational impact on its business.

102. The bulk of the remaining goods and services that the Debtor depends on are provided by a critical network of vendors and service providers that, for the most part, conduct business with the Debtor on an invoice by invoice or purchase order by purchase order basis, and not pursuant to long-term contracts. These vendors typically supply their customers with services and products on trade terms based on their experience with and perceived risk of conducting business with such customers. The Debtor believes that it would be extremely difficult, if not impossible, to replace the Critical Vendors within a reasonable time without severe disruption to the Debtor's business. Such harm would likely far outweigh the cost of payment of the Critical Vendor Claims.

103. Hence, it is essential to the success of the Debtor's restructuring effort that it be able to maintain the flow of goods, and services to its business.

104. Further, as discussed in the Cash Management, the Debtor will be reimbursed for a substantial amount of the payments made to Critical Vendors from the Critical Vendor Cap.

105. The Debtor undertook a process to identify the Critical Vendors using the following criteria: (i) whether certain specifications prevent the Debtor from obtaining a vendor's goods or services from alternative sources within a reasonable timeframe; and (ii) if a vendor is not a sole-source or primary provider of services or products, whether the Debtor can continue to operate in the ordinary course while a replacement vendor is secured. As a result of their critical review and evaluation, the Debtor has identified a narrow subset of vendors as Critical Vendors.

106. The Debtor's Critical Vendors generally fall into the following categories:

a. Back Office Support Services. The Debtor contracts with certain services to assist in maintaining their back office and supporting the Debtor's investment team. These services consist of, for example, data providers that provide and manage intranet portals necessary to streamline information flow and data accuracy and other service providers that supply telephone services or warehouse necessary files or data.

b. Research Services. The Debtor's business consists of advising its clients on potential investments. To do that, the Debtor subscribes to various services that provide access to real-time data and analytics. These services enable the Debtor to provide accurate analysis of the investments they manage and to satisfy their fiduciary and other obligations to their clients as a registered investment advisor.

107. As of the Petition Date, the Debtor will owe amounts to certain Critical Vendors (a) that have been billed and invoiced and/or (b) that have accrued immediately prior to the Petition Date for which they have not yet been invoiced or payment is not yet due. The Debtor anticipates the total amount of Critical Vendor Claims will not exceed $1,000,000 of which $250,000 is being requested on an interim basis. As discussed above, a portion of that amount will also be reimbursed to the Debtor through the ordinary course of the Debtor's business.

108. Given the importance of the goods, and services provided by the Critical Vendors, it is imperative that the Debtor be granted, on an emergency basis, the flexibility and authority to satisfy the prepetition claims of the Critical Vendors up to the Interim Critical Vendor Cap and, if approved on a final basis, the Critical Vendor Cap.

E. Debtor's Motion for Entry of an Order (I) Extending Time to File Schedules of Assets and Liabilities, Schedules of Executory Contracts and Unexpired Leases, and Statements of Financial Affairs, and (II) Granting Related Relief (the "Schedules Extension Motion")

109. Through the Schedules Extension Motion, the Debtor seeks the entry of an order extending the deadline by which it must file its schedules of assets and liabilities, schedules of executory contracts and unexpired leases, and statement of financial affairs (collectively, the “Schedules and Statements”) by an additional thirty (30) days, for a total of fifty-eight (58) days from the Petition Date.

110. To prepare the Schedules and Statements, the Debtor must compile information from books, records, and documents relating to creditor claims, as well as the Debtor’s various assets and contracts.

111. Given the amount of work entailed in completing the Schedules and Statements, the Debtor requires more time to complete the Schedules and Statements within the required time period. Accordingly, the Debtor requests that the Court grant the Schedules Extension Motion.

F. Motion of Debtor for Entry of Interim and Final Orders Authorizing Debtor to File Under Seal Portions of Its Creditor Matrix Containing Employee Address Information (the “Motion to Redact Employee Addresses”)

112. Through the Motion to Redact Employee Addresses, the Debtor seeks the entry of an interim order and a final order: (a) authorizing the Debtor to file a redacted version of its creditor matrix without publicly disclosing employee address information, (b) authorizing the Debtor to file under seal an unredacted version of its creditor matrix, and (c) granting such other relief as the Court deems just and proper.

113. In the present case, the Debtor respectfully submits that cause exists to authorize the Debtor to redact the address information of individual employees from the creditor matrix because such information: (a) is private and confidential, (b) could be used to perpetrate identity theft – which has occurred in the past with certain of the Debtor’s employees, (c) would potentially allow competitors to poach the Debtor’s employees at the expense of this estate; and (d) could pose other risks to employees.

114. The benefit of including such information on the publicly filed matrix is far outweighed by the potential risks for the Debtor's individual employees.

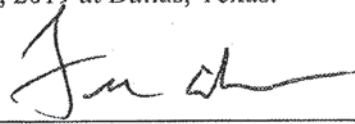

115. If the relief requested in the Motion to Redact Employee Addresses is granted, the unredacted matrix will be filed and remain under seal until further order of the Court. The Debtor will share the unredacted matrix with the Office of the United States Trustee upon request and the Debtor proposes that any party-in-interest who seeks to review the unredacted matrix may submit a request in writing to the Debtor. If the Debtor and the party seeking access to the unredacted matrix are unable to reach agreement on the terms of reviewing the unredacted matrix, the party may seek the assistance of this Court by filing a motion and make an appropriate showing for the Court to evaluate whether or not the unredacted matrix should be made available and under what terms. Upon any such motion seeking access to the unredacted matrix, the Debtor could continue to try and resolve the matter or present its opposition to the Court for consideration at a hearing on appropriate notice.

116. Accordingly, the Debtor requests that the Court grant the Motion to Redact Employee Addresses.

MOTION OF THE OFFICIAL COMMITTEE OF UNSECURED CREDITORS
FOR AN ORDER TRANSFERRING VENUE OF THIS CASE TO THE UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS

The official committee of unsecured creditors (the “Committee”) of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the “Debtor”), hereby submits this motion (this “Motion”) for entry of an order, substantially in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A (the “Proposed Order”), pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1408 and 1412 and Rule 1014 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure (“Bankruptcy Rules”), transferring the venue of the above-captioned chapter 11 case to the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas.

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. Although a debtor’s choice of venue generally warrants deference, this case presents unique facts that make a change in venue appropriate. The Debtor has only one location in the United States—its Dallas, Texas headquarters, which houses the Debtor’s management and key personnel. In fact, the Debtor’s headquarters sit less than two miles from the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas (the “Dallas Bankruptcy Court”), making the venue clearly more convenient for the Debtor and its management than Delaware. Additionally, although the Debtor's creditors span the nation, a substantial number of the Debtor's creditors (including several of the top twenty unsecured creditors and Committee members) are concentrated in Texas, or the Midwest more broadly. Likewise, nearly all of the professionals active in this case are concentrated in Texas, Chicago, or Los Angeles. The Dallas Bankruptcy Court is more centrally located and easily accessible to the key parties in this case, along with their advisors. Transferring venue from Wilmington, Delaware to Dallas, Texas would result in greater efficiencies and significant cost savings for the Debtor's estate.

2. Moreover, the Dallas Bankruptcy Court is already intimately familiar with the Debtor's principals and complex organizational structure—the involuntary chapter 11 cases of the Debtor's former affiliates and current Committee members, Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management GP, L.P. (collectively, "Acis") are pending in the Dallas Bankruptcy Court. Specifically, the Dallas Bankruptcy Court has (a) heard multiple days' worth of material testimony from the Debtor's principal owner (James Dondero), the Debtor's minority owner (Mark Okada), the Debtor's general counsel, at least two assistant general counsels, and numerous other employees of the Debtor and other witnesses; and (b) issued at least six published opinions to date, many of which have been affirmed on appeal to the United States District Court for the Northern District of Texas (the "Dallas District Court") in subsequent published opinions. The Dallas Bankruptcy Court is still presiding over an adversary proceeding commenced by the Debtor and its affiliates, and the Debtor's appeal of Acis's confirmed chapter 11 plan is still pending before the Fifth Circuit. As evidenced by the published opinions, the Dallas Bankruptcy Court and the Dallas District Court are intimately familiar with the Debtor's business, principal owner, and key executives. For these reasons, the Dallas Bankruptcy Court is uniquely positioned to oversee this chapter 11 case.

3. The Committee respectfully submits that, for the reasons set forth above and discussed more fully below, based on the unique facts of this case, both the interests of justice and convenience of the parties justify an exception to the general deference granted to a debtor's choice of venue and warrant the transfer of venue to the Dallas Bankruptcy Court.

JURISDICTION

4. The Court has jurisdiction over this matter pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1334 and the Amended Standing Order of Reference from the United States District Court for the District of Delaware, dated February 29, 2012. This matter is a core proceeding within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2), and the Committee confirms its consent, pursuant to rule 9013-1(f) of the Local Rules of Bankruptcy Practice and Procedure of the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware (the "Local Rules"), to the entry of a final order or judgment by the Court in connection with this Motion if it is determined that the Court, absent consent of the parties, cannot enter final orders or judgments in connection herewith consistent with Article III of the United States Constitution.

5. The statutory and other bases for the relief requested herein are 28 U.S.C. §§ 1408 and 1412, Bankruptcy Rule 1014, and Local Rule 1014-1.

BACKGROUND

6. On October 16, 2019, the Debtor filed a voluntary petition for relief under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware (the "Court"). The Committee was appointed by the United States Trustee on October 29, 2019 [Docket No. 65].

I. The Debtor's Connections to Dallas.

7. As noted in the Voluntary Petition [Docket No. 1], the Debtor's principal place of business is 300 Crescent Court, Suite 700, Dallas, Texas 75201, which also serves as the Debtor's international headquarters, and, in fact, its only office in the United States. See Declaration of Frank Waterhouse in Support of First Day Motions [Docket No. 9] (the “First Day Declaration”),

¶ 7. Although it is unclear how many of the Debtor’s 76 employees are based in the Debtor’s international offices, presumably those employees based in the U.S. live in or around the Debtor’s headquarters in Dallas, Texas. Furthermore, all but one of the Debtor’s equity holders are also located in Dallas, Texas. See Voluntary Petition [Docket No. 1], at pg. 14. In sum, Dallas, Texas is the epicenter of the Debtor’s operations.

II. The Dallas Bankruptcy Court’s Familiarity with the Debtor.

8. Prior to the commencement of this chapter 11 case, the Debtor was (and currently remains) actively involved in the involuntary chapter 11 case of Acis, its then-affiliate and current Committee member, captioned In re Acis Capital Mgmt., L.P., Case No. 18-30264 (SGJ) (the “Acis Bankruptcy”). Until 2019, Acis was the “structured credit arm of Highland.” In re Acis Capital Mgmt., L.P., Nos. 18-30264 (SGJ), 2019 Bankr. LEXIS 292, at *17 n. 21 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. Jan. 31, 2019) (the “Acis Confirmation Opinion”), aff’d, 604 B.R. 484 (N.D. Tex. 2019).² Acis did not have any of its own employees and, instead, contracted with the Debtor to perform all day-to-day functions, meaning that all Acis corporate representatives and witnesses in the Acis Bankruptcy were employees of the Debtor. Id. at *9. Moreover, there was complete overlap between Acis and the Debtor at the executive level, with the Debtor’s CEO James Dondero serving as President of Acis and the Debtor’s CFO, and first day declarant, Frank Waterhouse serving as Treasurer.

9. The Acis Bankruptcy commenced on January 30, 2018, when Joshua N. Terry filed involuntary petitions against Acis to commence chapter 7 cases in the Dallas Bankruptcy Court.

² The Acis Confirmation Opinion is attached hereto as Exhibit B.

In connection with a hotly-contested trial on the involuntary petitions, the Dallas Bankruptcy Court heard seven days of testimony and argument, entered orders for relief and issued a written opinion, which is attached hereto as Exhibit C (the “Acis Involuntary Opinion”). Testimony included that of the Debtor’s co-founder and CEO, James Dondero, the Debtor’s co-founder and then-Chief Investment Officer, Mark Okada, the Debtor’s General Counsel, Scott Ellington, the Debtor’s Controller, David Klos, and the Debtor’s Assistant General Counsel, Isaac Leventon.

10. In May 2018, the Acis bankruptcy cases were converted from Chapter 7 to Chapter 11, and a Chapter 11 Trustee was appointed “due to what the bankruptcy court perceived to be massive conflicts of interest with regard to the Debtors’ management.” See Acis Confirmation Op. at *15.

11. The Debtor and its affiliates were, and remain, exceptionally active throughout the Acis Bankruptcy, objecting to virtually every action proposed by the Chapter 11 Trustee throughout the case. See In re Acis Capital Mgmt., L.P., 603 B.R. 300, 302 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2019). As a result, the Dallas Bankruptcy Court was forced to conduct many evidentiary hearings, during which the Debtor’s executives and employees were often called to testify. Overall, between the Acis Bankruptcy and related adversary proceedings, the Dallas Bankruptcy Court has to date reviewed approximately 700 exhibits, heard more than thirty days of testimony and oral argument, and issued six opinions. The Dallas District Court has also ruled on three appeals related to the Acis Bankruptcy, all of which were filed by the Debtor and/or its affiliates. The Debtor’s appeal of the Acis confirmation order is now pending before the Fifth Circuit.³

12. The Dallas Bankruptcy Court is also currently adjudicating a number of fraudulent transfer causes of action that Acis has brought against the Debtor and certain of its non-debtor

³ See generally Debtor’s Application for an Order Authorizing the Retention and Employment of Foley Gardere, Foley & Lardner LLP as Special Texas Counsel Nunc Pro Tunc to the Petition Date [Docket No. 69] and affiliates in a consolidated adversary case (the “Acis Adversary Proceeding”). Distilled to its essence, the Acis Adversary Proceeding concerns actions taken by the Debtor and its affiliates to denude the Acis debtors’ estates of their value and frustrate an imminent, substantial judgment against Acis. See Acis Capital Mgmt., GP, LLC v. Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P. (In re Acis Capital Mgmt., L.P.), 600 B.R. 541, 549 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2019) (the “Acis Arbitration Opinion”).⁴

13. In sum, the Dallas Bankruptcy Court and the Dallas District Court are already intimately familiar with the Debtor’s complex structure, its management, and key personnel, and are well-versed in the contentious relationship between the Debtor and several of its largest creditors, including members of the Committee. Accordingly, the Dallas Bankruptcy Court is uniquely situated to oversee this chapter 11 case.

RELIEF REQUESTED

14. By this Motion, the Committee requests entry of the Proposed Order, substantially in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A, transferring the venue of this chapter 11 case to the Dallas Bankruptcy Court.

BASIS FOR RELIEF

III. The Dallas Bankruptcy Court is an Appropriate Venue Under 28 U.S.C. § 1408.

15. Section 1408 of title 28 of the United States Code provides that bankruptcy cases may be commenced in the district court for the district “in which the domicile, residence, principal place of business in the United States, or principal assets in the United States” of the debtor is located or the district “in which there is a pending case under title 11 concerning such person’s affiliate.”

Debtor’s Application for an Order Authorizing the Retention and Employment of Lynn Pinker Cox & Hurst LLP as Special Texas Litigation Counsel Nunc Pro Tunc to the Petition Date [Docket No. 70] (describing the Debtor’s ongoing litigation and involvement with the Acis Bankruptcy).

⁴ A copy of the Acis Arbitration Opinion is attached hereto as Exhibit D.

16. The Debtor’s headquarters, and indeed its only office in the United States, is located in Dallas, Texas. Moreover, had this chapter 11 case commenced mere months ago, the Acis Bankruptcy would be a “pending case under title 11 concerning” the Debtor’s affiliate.⁵ The Dallas Bankruptcy Court easily satisfies the statutory venue requirements under 28 U.S.C. § 1408.

IV. The Court Should Exercise its Discretion to Transfer Venue to the Dallas Bankruptcy Court.

17. It is within a court’s discretion to transfer a case to another venue if it is “in the interest of justice or for the convenience of the parties.” 28 U.S.C. § 1412. Courts have interpreted this statutory provision to create two distinct bases upon which transfer of venue may be granted: interest of justice or convenience of the parties. See In re Qualtec Inc., No. 11-12572 (KJC), 2012 WL 527669, at *6 (Bankr. D. Del. Feb. 16, 2012). Movants for transfer of venue have the burden of showing that a transfer is warranted based on the preponderance of the evidence.⁶ Id. at *5.

A. Transferring Venue to the Dallas Bankruptcy Court Would Serve the Convenience of the Parties.

18. In determining whether a venue transfer would serve the convenience of the parties, courts generally examine the following six factors: “(a) proximity of the creditors of every kind to the court; (b) proximity of the debtor; (c) proximity of the witnesses who are necessary to the administration of the estate; (d) the location of the debtor’s assets; (e) the economic administration of the estate; and (f) the necessity for ancillary administration in the event of liquidation.” In re

⁵ The Debtor ceased to be an affiliate of Acis following confirmation of the Acis plan of reorganization in January 2019, when equity in reorganized Acis was distributed to Mr. Terry in exchange for a reduction of his allowed claim.

⁶ To meet its burden herein, the Committee is relying on the record of this case, including the First Day Declaration, and the established record of the Acis Bankruptcy. The Committee therefore does not anticipate there being any need to hold an evidentiary hearing on this Motion.

Rests. Acquisition I, LLC, No. 15-12406 (KG), 2016 WL 855089, at *2 (Bankr. D. Del. Mar. 4, 2016) (quoting Commonwealth of Puerto Rico v. Commonwealth Oil Refining Co. (In re Commonwealth Oil Refining Co.), 596 F.2d 1239, 1247 (5th Cir. 1979)). Under this analysis, the factor given the most weight is the economic and efficient administration of the estate. Id.

1. Proximity of Creditors of Every Kind to the Court.

19. Of the Debtor's twenty largest unsecured creditors, at least seven⁷ are listed as having Texas addresses: Acis, Joshua and Jennifer Terry, McKool Smith, P.C., Foley Gardere, DLA Piper LLP (US), Lackey Hershman LLP, and Andrews Kurth LLP. See Voluntary Petition [Docket No. 1]. Additionally, of the total known claims at this juncture, it appears that a significant number of the Debtor's creditors are located in Texas, and the rest of the creditors appear to be scattered across the United States. No known creditors appear to be based in Delaware. See id.

20. Courts may also focus on the location of the debtor's and creditors' professionals in deciding whether to transfer venue. See In re Caesars Entm't Operating Co., Inc., No. 15-10047 (KG), 2015 WL 492529, at *6 (Bankr. D. Del. Feb. 2, 2015). The Committee's proposed counsel is primarily located in Chicago, Illinois, but also maintains an office in Dallas, Texas (where its litigation team for this case is based). If this case were to proceed before this Court, the Committee would have to retain Delaware co-counsel.⁸ Additionally, several of the Debtor's largest creditors are separately represented by counsel based in the Midwest: the Acis is represented by the Rogge Dunne Group and Winstead PC in Dallas [Docket No. 81], the Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund is represented by Jenner & Block LLP primarily out of its Chicago office

⁸ Under Local Rule 9010-1(d), the Committee has until November 27, 2019, to obtain Delaware co-counsel, if necessary.

[Docket Nos. 1, 36], and USB Securities LLC and UBS AG London Branch is represented by Latham & Watkins LLP, which has an office in Houston [Docket No. 85].

21. Considering the proximity of both the Debtor's creditors and their professionals to the Dallas Bankruptcy Court, this factor should weigh in favor of transfer. See In re Rehoboth Hosp., LP, No. 11-12798 (KG), 2011 WL 5024267, at *3 (Bankr. D. Del. Oct. 19, 2011) (concluding that, on balance, this factor favored transfer to Texas when the overwhelming majority of creditors were located in Texas).

2. Proximity of the Debtor to the Court.

22. Courts have noted that this inquiry should focus primarily on the parties that must appear in court. See Caesars Entm't Operating Co., Inc., 2015 WL 495259, at *6. The Debtor's headquarters, and only office located in the United States, is in Dallas, Texas. See First Day Decl., at ¶ 7. As a result, it is likely that any of the Debtor's personnel who would have to appear in court are located in Dallas, Texas. The Debtor has no connection to Delaware other than the fact that it was formed there.

23. The Committee concedes that Debtor's counsel maintains an office in Delaware but does not have an office in Dallas. That said, Debtor's counsel represents itself as having a "national presence," including in the Fifth Circuit,⁹ and its lead lawyers on this matter are based in Los Angeles. The Debtor's proposed financial advisor team is also predominantly based in Los Angeles with several members located in Chicago. No proposed advisor from Development Specialists, Inc. is located on the East Coast, let alone in Delaware. See Motion of the Debtor Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a) and 363(b) to Employ and Retain Development Specialists, Inc. to Provide a Chief Restructuring Officer, Additional Personnel, and Financial Advisory and Restructuring-Related Services, Nunc Pro Tunc as of the Petition Date [Docket No. 75], Ex. A. Accordingly, the Committee respectfully submits that this factor weighs in favor of transferring venue to the Dallas Bankruptcy Court.

3. Proximity of the Witnesses Necessary to the Administration of the Estate.

24. The Committee anticipates that the witnesses likely to be necessary in this chapter 11 case are the Debtor's management, who are all located in Dallas, Texas, or the Debtor's financial advisors, who are all located in either Chicago, Illinois, or Los Angeles, California. Dallas, Texas, is significantly closer to any potential witness than Wilmington, Delaware. Thus, the Committee respectfully submits that this factor also weighs in favor of transferring venue to the Dallas Bankruptcy Court.

4. Location of the Assets.

25. The location of the Debtor's assets is not as important as other factors where "the ultimate goal is rehabilitation rather than liquidation." See In re Caesars Entm't Operating Co., Inc., 2015 WL 495259, at *6 (quoting In re Enron Corp., 274 B.R. 327, 347 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2002)). Although the Committee believes that the Debtor's U.S. assets would be located at the Debtor's headquarters in Dallas, Texas, the Committee does not believe this factor important to the Court's decision.

5. Economic Administration of the Estate.

26. As noted above, the most important factor is the economic and efficient administration of the Debtor's estate. Id. The Committee does not dispute the ability of this Court to administer this chapter 11 case in a just and efficient manner. That said, there are many factors that make the Dallas Bankruptcy Court the more economical venue. As discussed in more detail below as part of the "interests of justice" analysis: (1) there is a higher concentration of creditors and creditors' counsel in Texas and the Midwest than elsewhere in the country; (2) the Debtor and all of its U.S. personnel are in Dallas, Texas; (3) Dallas, Texas is more centrally located in the United States than Wilmington, Delaware and arguably easier and cheaper for parties to travel to; (4) most creditors would need to obtain Delaware co-counsel if venue remains before this Court; and (5) the Dallas Bankruptcy Court and the Dallas District Court has already expended great time and effort familiarizing itself with the Debtor, the Debtor's operations, and the disputes between the Debtor and some of its largest creditors. For these reasons and the reasons set forth below in Section II.B, this factor weighs heavily in favor of transferring venue to the Dallas Bankruptcy Court. See In re Qualteq, Inc. 2012 WL 527669, at *6 (noting that same considerations for this factor arise in applying the "interest of justice" prong).

6. Necessity for Ancillary Administration if Liquidation Should Result.

27. "Most cases do not consider liquidation because it is illogical to focus on liquidation contingencies when the goal of the bankruptcy is reorganization." In re Dunmore Homes, Inc., 380 B.R. 663, 672 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2008). However, should this case be converted to a liquidation, the Debtor's personal property would be predominantly located in Dallas, Texas. As a result, this factor also weighs in favor of transfer.

B. Interests of Justice.

28. When determining whether a transfer would serve the interests of justice, courts consider whether such transfer "would promote the efficient administration of the estate, judicial economy, timeliness, and fairness." Caesars Entm't Operating Co., Inc., 2015 WL 495259, at *7 (quotations omitted). The interests of justice standard is a "broad and flexible standard which must be applied on a case-by-case basis." In re Safety-Kleen Corp., Adv. Proc. No. 00-1984, 2001 Bankr. LEXIS 1296, at *6 (Bankr. D. Del. Aug. 27, 2001) (citing Gulf States Expl. Co. v. Manville Forest Prods. Corp. (In re Manville Forest Prods. Corp.), 896 F.2d 1384, 1391 (2d Cir. 1990)).

1. Judicial Economy.

29. Judicial economy would be served by transferring this case to the Dallas Bankruptcy Court. At the time of this filing, this Court has only held one hearing, granting interim relief for a handful of routine “first day” motions. In contrast, the Dallas Bankruptcy Court has heard at least 30 days of testimony, including that of the Debtor’s executives, and conducted countless hearings in the Acis Bankruptcy. With the exception of the Debtor’s proposed chief restructuring officer and Mr. Waterhouse, the Dallas Bankruptcy Court is familiar with nearly all of the Debtor’s senior management. As summarized above, the Dallas Bankruptcy Court and Dallas District Court have already devoted multiple days of court time to the Debtor.

30. Additionally, Acis’s claim against the Debtor (which is listed on the list of twenty largest unsecured creditors) and the Debtor’s proof of claim and administrative claim against Acis (which is technically an asset of the Debtor’s estate) are currently pending in the Dallas Bankruptcy Court. Judicial economy would best be served by utilizing the time and resources already extended by the Dallas Bankruptcy Court in connection with these claims. This factor weighs overwhelmingly in favor of transfer. Indeed, it is hard to imagine a case where judicial economy would be better served by a transfer of venue under 28 U.S.C. § 1412.

31. Courts in this district have historically placed a particular emphasis “on the “learning curve” that typically militates against a transfer. See In re Rests. Acquisition I, LLC, No. 15-12406 (KG), 2016 WL 855089, at *5 (Bankr. D. Del. Mar. 4, 2016). This case is unique in that the “learning curve” that typically militates against a transfer in the interests-of-justice basis is actually inverted. That is, it is not the proposed transferee court that will have a “learning curve,” but rather it is this Court that would. Given that this Court has only considered first day relief, and on an interim basis, while the Dallas Bankruptcy Court and Dallas District Court both have intimate familiarity with the parties and their businesses, transferring the venue would be in furtherance of judicial economy.

2. Economic and Efficient Administration of the Bankruptcy Estate.

32. As previously noted, there are economic efficiencies available in Dallas, Texas that are not available in Wilmington, Delaware. Venue in Dallas would allow the Debtor's employees to easily attend hearings in this case and thus eliminate the need for air travel for most witnesses. The Debtor's headquarters are located in The Crescent in Dallas, Texas, approximately 1.2 miles from the Dallas Bankruptcy Court. By contrast, this Court is located approximately 1,437 miles from the Debtor's headquarters. Travel to this Court from the Debtor's headquarters requires, at a minimum, a 30-minute car ride to Dallas/Fort Worth International Airport, approximately three hours flying time to Philadelphia International Airport, and then a 30-minute car ride to Wilmington, Delaware. The foregoing does not take into account recommended early arrival times at airports for check-in, flight delays, traffic, or the need for overnight stays in Wilmington. If this case remains in Delaware, critical management personnel will be required to spend extended periods away from their offices when they should be focused on maximizing value for all creditors.

33. Additionally, as the Debtor's professionals and proposed CRO are primarily located in Los Angeles, venue in Dallas would eliminate hours of travel time and the administrative expense associated with the same. Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport, consistently the third-busiest airport in the country (behind Chicago O'Hare and Atlanta Hartsfield-Jackson), offers nearly 1,800 flights per day. American Airlines alone offers approximately 14 non-stop flights per day from LAX to DFW. According to FlightSphere.com, there are approximately 20 total flights per day from LAX to DFW and 7 flights per day from DAL to LAX. By contrast, according to FlightSphere.com, there are approximately 10 flights per day from DFW to Philadelphia and approximately 8 flights per day from DAL to Philadelphia. The flight from LAX to DFW is approximately 3 hours, whereas the flight from LAX to Philadelphia is approximately 6 hours. See In re Rehoboth Hosp., LP, No. 11-1279 (KG), 2011 Bankr. LEXIS 3992, at *15 (Bankr. D. Del. October 19, 2011) (transferring venue of a single asset real estate case from Delaware to Texas because “the estate may incur significant travel costs to obtain the testimony of witnesses that are located in Texas”).

34. Additionally, Rule 45 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, incorporated by Bankruptcy Rule 9016, mandates that contested non-party discovery disputes (potentially like those related to the Debtor’s approximately 2,000 non-debtor affiliates) be heard in the place of compliance, which would most likely be in the Northern District of Texas. The Committee is already aware of the Debtor’s history of contesting discovery. See, e.g., Hamilton Partners, L.P. v. Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., CV 6547-VCN, 2016 WL 61223, at *1 (Del. Ch. Feb. 2, 2016). It is therefore likely that the Dallas District Court and Dallas Bankruptcy Court will need to hear and resolve multiple discovery disputes. In light of that inevitability, it would be sensible to transfer this case so that related disputes aren’t being heard in multiple venues.

35. There is no doubt that transferring venue to Dallas would promote the economic and efficient administration of this chapter 11 case. This factor weighs in favor of transfer.

3. Timeliness.

36. As of the date of this Motion, this case has only been pending for 16 days. The Committee is also seeking to have this Motion heard on an expedited basis, as set forth in the motion to shorten notice filed concurrently herewith. Cf. In re Jones, 39 B.R. 1019, 1020 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1984) (“[t]he debtor’s motion to change venue is untimely given the fact that this case was commenced over one and one-half years ago”). The Court has only considered the Debtor’s request for first day relief on an interim basis. The next hearing is not scheduled until November 19, 2019. The Motion is timely and this factor weighs in favor of transfer.

4. Fairness.

37. Transferring this chapter 11 case to a venue where employees, creditors, and numerous other parties-in-interest may more easily participate in the restructuring process would be manifestly fair. To the extent the Debtor chose this forum in order to distance itself from largely unfavorable findings, fairness dictates that this case should be transferred.

* * * * *

38. For the foregoing reasons, it is both in the interest of justice and for the convenience of the parties that this chapter 11 case be transferred to the Dallas Bankruptcy Court. The majority of the parties and professionals involved in this chapter 11 cases are more centrally located to Dallas, Texas than Wilmington, Delaware, which would create significant costs savings to the Debtor's estate compared to keeping the case in Delaware. Moreover, the Dallas Bankruptcy Court and Dallas District Court are both well-versed in the facts and issues that will undoubtedly need to be addressed in this chapter 11 case. As such, the Committee respectfully requests that this Court transfer venue of this case to the Dallas Bankruptcy Court.

NOTICE

39. Notice of this Motion will be provided to (i) the Debtor, (ii) the Office of the United States Trustee for the District of Delaware, and (iii) any party that has requested notice pursuant to Local Rule 2002-1 as of the date of this Motion. In light of the nature of the relief requested herein, the Committee submits that no other or further notice is necessary.

WHEREFORE, the Committee respectfully requests that the Court enter the Proposed Order, substantially in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A, granting the relief requested herein and such other and any further relief as the Court may deem just and proper.

BENCH RULING AND MEMORANDUM OF LAW IN SUPPORT OF:
(A) FINAL APPROVAL OF DISCLOSURE STATEMENT; AND (B)
CONFIRMATION OF CHAPTER 11 TRUSTEE'S THIRD AMENDED JOINT PLAN

Before this court is a request by the Chapter 11 Trustee (herein so called) for final approval of the adequacy of a disclosure statement and for confirmation of his Third Amended

Joint Plan of Reorganization,¹ as amended, modified or supplemented (the “Plan”), for the two above-referenced debtors: (1) Acis Capital Management, L.P. (the “Debtor-Acis”), a Delaware limited partnership, and (2) Acis Capital Management GP, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company (the general partner of the Debtor-Acis; collectively, the “Debtors”). The two chapter 11 cases have been administratively consolidated.²

The hearing on these matters transpired over multiple days in December 2018, and the court considered the testimony of more than a dozen witnesses, more than 700 exhibits, and hundreds of pages of legal briefing. Based on the foregoing, the court overrules all objections and will confirm the Plan, including all proposed modifications to it. The Chapter 11 Trustee has demonstrated, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the Plan, as modified, satisfies the applicable provisions of the Bankruptcy Code including but not limited to Sections 1122, 1123, 1127, and 1129 of the Bankruptcy Code.³ The court also approves on a final basis the adequacy of the accompanying disclosure statement to the Plan, determining that it meets the requirements set forth in Section 1125 of the Bankruptcy Code. Notice and solicitation with respect to the ² Note that the Debtor-Acis is, essentially, the debtor that is the operating company. As a general partner, Acis Capital Management GP, LLC is legally obligated on all of the operating company’s debt. See 6 Del. C. § 17-403(b) (“Except as provided in this chapter, a general partner of a limited partnership has the liabilities of a partner in a partnership that is governed by the Delaware Uniform Partnership Law in effect on July 11, 1999 (6 Del. C. § 1501 et seq.) to persons other than the partnership and the other partners.”); see also 6 Del. C. § 15-306(a) (“(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsections (b) and (c) of this section, all partners are liable jointly and severally for all obligations of the partnership unless otherwise agreed by the claimant or provided by law”). The Plan jointly addresses both of the Debtors’ debts.

Plan is determined to have complied with the applicable Bankruptcy Rules and due process. The court provides reasoning for its ruling below. The court directs the Chapter 11 Trustee to submit to the court for signing the proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law and Order that were filed at DE # 814. This Bench Ruling supplements those Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law and Order and, where appropriate, should be considered additional findings and conclusions as contemplated by Fed. R. Bankr. Proc. 7052.

I. Background.⁴

The above-referenced bankruptcy cases (the “Bankruptcy Cases”) have been pending since January 30, 2018 and have been astonishingly contentious. The Chapter 11 Trustee has been in place since on or about May 14, 2018. The Plan (which is the fourth one proposed by the Chapter 11 Trustee) has been objected to by three related entities: (a) Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“Highland”), (b) Highland CLO Funding Ltd. (“HCLOF Guernsey”), and (c) Neutra, Ltd. (“Neutra Cayman”). The Chapter 11 Trustee loosely refers to these three objectors (the “Objectors”) as “the Highlands” because they are not only related to each other (i.e., they are all, directly or indirectly, part of the Highland 2,000-member corporate organizational structure), but they also have been in “lockstep” with one another in objecting to virtually every position taken by the Chapter 11 Trustee during the Bankruptcy Cases.⁵ These Objectors’ parties-in-interest status will be explained below.

⁴ For a complete set of background facts, the court incorporates herein by reference its Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law in Support of Orders for Relief Issued After Trial on Contested Involuntary Petitions, entered April 13, 2018. DE # 118. Exh. 243.

⁵ It is also undisputed that, prior to the appointment of the Chapter 11 Trustee, the Debtors and Highland were affiliated and had a close relationship. Exhs. 17, 18, 22-27, 251, 619 & 649.

In simplest terms, the Debtor-Acis, which was formed in the year 2011, is primarily a CLO portfolio manager.⁶ It manages hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of CLOs (which is an acronym for "collateralized loan obligations"). Specifically, it provides fund management services to various special purpose entities that hold CLOs. The Debtor-Acis was providing management services for five such special purpose entities (the "Acis CLOs") as of the time that it and its general partner were put into the involuntary Bankruptcy Cases. The parties have informally referred to the special purpose entities themselves as the "CLO Issuers" or "CLO Co-Issuers" but, to be clear, these special purpose entities (hereinafter, the "CLO SPEs") are structured as follows: (a) on the asset side of their balance sheets, the entities own pieces of senior debt owed by large corporations and, therefore, earn revenue from the variable interest payments made by those corporations on such senior debt; and (b) on the liability side of their balance sheets, the entities have obligations in the form of notes (i.e., tranches of fixed interest rate notes) on which the CLO SPEs themselves are obligated—the holders of which notes are mostly institutions and pension funds (these tranches of notes are usually rated anywhere from Triple A to Single B, depending upon things such as their interest rate and perceived risk). The CLO SPEs make a profit, based on the spread or "delta" between: (a) the variable rates of interest paid on the assets that the CLO SPEs own (i.e., the basket of senior notes); and (b) the fixed rates of interest that the CLO SPEs must pay on their own tranches of debt. At the bottom of the CLO SPEs' capital structure is their equity (sometimes referred to as "subordinated notes," but these "notes" are genuinely equity). As portfolio manager, the Debtor-Acis manages the CLO SPEs' pools of assets (by buying and selling senior loans to hold in the CLO SPEs' portfolios) and communicates with investors in the CLO SPEs. The CLO SPEs' tranches of notes are traded on the Over-the-Counter market.

⁶ The Debtor-Acis has managed other funds, from time to time, besides CLOs.

To be perfectly clear, none of the CLO SPEs themselves are in bankruptcy. This has never been threatened or a concern. Only the Debtor-Acis which manages the CLO business is in bankruptcy. For the most part, the CLO SPEs have continued somewhat "business as usual" during the Chapter 11 Bankruptcy Cases (i.e., they have continued to receive interest payments on their baskets of loans; the usual interest payments on their tranches of debt have been paid;⁷ and baskets of loans have been bought and sold from time to time). The CLO SPEs have retained their own separate counsel during the Chapter 11 cases, have appeared from time-to-time on matters, and are not currently objecting to the Plan. There is also an indenture trustee (U.S. Bank National Association) for the CLO SPEs' debt, that has seemingly faithfully carried on its role during the Chapter 11 Bankruptcy Cases without many objections to the bankruptcy process—only making occasional statements aimed at ensuring that the indentures for the CLOs are not interfered with or disrespected. The indenture trustee has retained and appeared through its own separate counsel during the Chapter 11 Bankruptcy Cases and is not currently objecting to the Plan.

Historically, the Debtor-Acis has had four main sets of contracts that were at the heart of its business and allowed it to function. The Chapter 11 Trustee has from time-to-time credibly testified that these agreements essentially created an “eco-system” that allowed the Acis CLOs to be effectively and efficiently managed by the Debtor-Acis.

⁷ The evidence reflected that there have been a couple of occasions recently when there were insufficient funds to make distributions to the equity. E.g., Transcript 12/11/18 (PM) [DE # 790], at p. 15 (line 2) through p. 16 (line 18). But it appears to this court that these missed distributions were due to actions of Highland—as later explained herein—in improperly, surreptitiously attempting to liquidate the Acis CLOs, from the time period after the Chapter 11 Trustee was appointed, until the bankruptcy court issued an injunction to temporarily halt Highland's actions. E.g., Transcript 12/11/18 (AM) [DE # 789], p. 67 (line 14) through p. 68 (line 6).

1. The PMAs with the CLO SPEs.⁸

First, the Debtor-Acis has various portfolio management agreements (the “PMAs”) with the CLO SPEs, pursuant to which the Debtor-Acis earns management fees. The PMAs have been the primary “assets” (loosely speaking) of the Debtor-Acis (to be more precise, the PMAs are executory contracts pursuant to section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code). They are what generate revenue for the Debtor-Acis.

2. The Sub-Advisory Agreement with Highland.⁹

Second, the Debtor-Acis had a Sub-Advisory Agreement (herein so called) with an insider, Highland (i.e., one of the Objectors). Highland’s “insider” status will be further explained below. Pursuant to this agreement, the Debtor-Acis essentially sub-contracted for the use of Highland front-office personnel/advisors to perform management services for the Debtor-Acis (i.e., so that the Debtor-Acis could fulfill its obligations to the CLO SPEs under the PMAs). The Debtor-Acis paid handsome fees to Highland pursuant to this agreement. This, too, was an executory contract pursuant to section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code. As explained below, this agreement was rejected (with bankruptcy court approval)¹⁰ by the Chapter 11 Trustee during the Bankruptcy Cases, when the Chapter 11 Trustee credibly represented that he had not only found resources to provide these services at a much lower cost to the estate, but he also had begun to believe that Highland was engaging in stealth efforts to liquidate the Acis CLOs, to the detriment of the Debtor-Acis's creditors.¹¹

3. The Shared Services Agreement with Highland.¹²

Third, the Debtor-Acis also had a Shared Services Agreement (herein so called) with Highland, pursuant to which the Debtor-Acis essentially sub-contracted for the use of Highland's back-office services (again, so that the Debtor-Acis could fulfill its obligations to the CLO SPEs under the PMAs). To be clear, the Debtor-Acis had no employees of its own—only a couple of officers and members. The Debtor-Acis paid handsome fees to Highland for the personnel and back-office services that Highland provided to the Debtor-Acis. This, too, was an executory contract pursuant to section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code. As explained below, this agreement was also rejected by the Chapter 11 Trustee during the Bankruptcy Cases (with bankruptcy court approval) for the same reasons that the Sub-Advisory Agreement with Highland was rejected.

4. The Equity PMA.¹³

Fourth, until a few weeks before the Bankruptcy Cases were filed, the Debtor-Acis also had yet another portfolio management agreement (distinct from its PMAs with the CLO SPEs) whereby the Debtor-Acis provided services not just to the CLO SPEs themselves, but separately to the equity holder in the CLO SPEs. This portfolio management agreement with the equity holder in the CLO SPEs is sometimes referred to by the parties as the "ALF PMA," but it would probably be easier to refer to it as the "Equity PMA" (for ease of reference, the court will refer to it as the “Equity/ALF PMA”).¹⁴ The Debtor-Acis did not earn a specific fee pursuant to the Equity/ALF PMA, but the Chapter 11 Trustee and certain of his witnesses credibly testified that the Debtor-Acis considered the agreement valuable and very important, because it essentially gave the Debtor-Acis the ability to control the whole Acis CLO eco-system—in other words, gave the Debtor-Acis the ability to make substantial decisions on behalf of the CLO SPEs’ equity—distinct from making decisions for the CLO SPEs themselves pursuant to the PMAs. The more credible evidence before the court suggests that the Equity/ALF PMA delegated to the portfolio manager (i.e., the Debtor-Acis) the right to control the terms of any liquidation of collateral in an optional redemption under the terms of the CLO indentures.¹⁵ In any event, shortly before the Bankruptcy Cases were filed, agents of Highland and/or others controlling the Debtor-Acis (including but not limited to Mr. James Dondero—the chief executive officer of both the Debtor-Acis and of Highland): (a) caused the Debtor-Acis to terminate this Equity/ALF PMA (notably, the counter-party to this agreement, the equity owner, would have only been able to terminate it “for cause”¹⁶); and (b) then caused the equity owner to enter into a new Equity PMA with a newly formed offshore entity called Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd. (“Highland HCF”).¹⁷ Mr. Dondero, in addition to being the chief executive of Highland and the Debtor-Acis, also became the president of the newly formed Highland HCF.¹⁸ The Equity/ALF PMA would have been an executory contract of the Debtor-Acis, pursuant to section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code, if it had not been terminated shortly before the Bankruptcy Cases. The court has heard credible testimony that leads it to conclude that the Equity/ALF PMA would have been assumed by the Debtor-Acis, pursuant to section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code, if not terminated by agents of Highland on the eve of bankruptcy. The court has heard credible testimony that it is important for a portfolio manager to have not only the PMAs with the CLO SPEs themselves, but also with the equity owners of the CLO SPEs.

II. A Few More Basics About CLOs.

In the world of CLOs (like other public debt instruments) there are occasionally redemptions, refinancings, and resets. A redemption is essentially when the equity in the CLO, before maturity, calls for the liquidation of the collateral in the CLO and the repayment of the tranches of notes, so that the CLO comes to an end. A refinancing is when a lower interest rate can be accomplished in the market place on the tranches of debt of the CLO, but the maturity date and other terms remain in place (similar to a refinancing on a home mortgage). This can happen typically after a two-year non-call period. A reset is when the maturity date, the reinvestment period, or other changes in the terms of a CLO (beyond simply interest rate) are accomplished.¹⁹

It should be noted that the top tranche of notes in the CLO SPEs (AAA-rated) is considered the “controlling” class, and a majority of holders in this class can terminate the CLO manager (i.e., the Debtor-Acis LP) for cause on 45 days’ notice, but these folks have apparently been content to ignore the Bankruptcy Cases and the fighting between the Debtor-Acis and ¹⁹ See generally Transcript 2/9/2018 [DE # 26], at p. 74-75.

Highland (as further described below)—no doubt because they are earning their fixed income stream without a hitch. And the bottom tranche of “notes” in the CLO SPEs (the equity) has voting rights and is a capital provider and, in certain ways, controls the CLO SPEs, by virtue of having the ability to make a redemption call after a certain “no-call” period—which would force a liquidation of the basket of loans in the CLO, with the proceeds paying down the tranches of notes, starting at the top with the Triple A’s. But, by virtue of the Equity/ALF PMA, the Debtor-Acis was really acting for the equity. It seems substantially likely to the court that this is why Highland and its agents caused the Debtor-Acis to terminate the Equity/ALF PMA (which, as mentioned above, was an agreement that the equity could have only terminated “for cause”—and it appears there would have been no “cause”).

III. The Non-Insider Creditors.

The Debtor-Acis does not have many creditors. The non-insider creditors are, for the most part, Joshua Terry (“Mr. Terry”) and a few vendors (most of which are law firms).

Mr. Terry commenced the Bankruptcy Cases with the filing of involuntary bankruptcy petitions. Mr. Terry was the human being who formerly, quite successfully served as the portfolio manager for the Debtor-Acis for many years. Mr. Terry was terminated under contentious circumstances on June 9, 2016, after getting into disagreements with Mr. Dondero. Mr. Terry was technically an employee of Highland itself (like all employees are, in the Highland family of companies—no matter which subsidiary or affiliate they work for). After his employment termination, Highland sued Mr. Terry in September 2016. Mr. Terry asserted claims back against Highland and both of the above-referenced Debtors. The litigation was referred to arbitration, and, after a ten-day arbitration trial in September 2017 before “JAMS,” Mr. Terry obtained an Arbitration Award (herein so called), on October 20, 2017, jointly and severally, against both of the Debtors in the amount of $7,949,749.15, plus post-award interest at the legal rate. A Final Judgment (the “Terry Judgment”) confirming the Arbitration Award was entered on December 18, 2017, in the same amount as that contained in the Arbitration Award—$7,949,749.15.

Mr. Terry commenced the Bankruptcy Cases when he became concerned that the Debtor-Acis was being rendered insolvent and unable to pay creditors including himself, due to actions undertaken by Highland and its agents immediately after entry of the Arbitration Award (e.g., transfers of assets, contracts, and business away from the Debtor-Acis).

The Debtor-Acis also is obligated on large administrative expense claims, since: (a) a Chapter 11 Trustee was appointed very early—due to what the bankruptcy court perceived to be massive conflicts of interest with regard to the Debtors’ management; and (b) the Objectors have opposed virtually every action taken by the Chapter 11 Trustee during the Bankruptcy Cases, resulting in many long hearings.

IV. The Objectors (all of which are “Insiders”).

There are no non-insider creditors objecting to the Plan. Mr. Terry supports the Plan. The CLO SPEs and Indenture Trustee do not oppose the Plan. None of the vendors oppose the Plan. The U.S. Trustee is not opposing the Plan. As a technical matter, two impaired classes of creditors voted to accept the Plan.²⁰ So who are the Objectors to the Plan (which Plan will be further described below) and what is their party-in-interest status here?

As earlier mentioned, the Objectors are: (a) Highland, (b) HCLOF Guernsey, and (c) Neutra Cayman. As noted earlier, the Chapter 11 Trustee frequently refers to them collectively as “The Highlands”—but the Objectors do not like this conflation. At one time Highland and ²⁰ Classes 2 and 3. See Exh. 613.

HCLOF Guernsey had the same lawyers. They do not anymore. However, they frequently file joint pleadings and take the same positions. Highland and Neutra Cayman do still have the same lawyers.

1. Highland.

Highland is a Dallas, Texas-based company that is a Registered Investment Advisor. Highland was founded in 1993 by Mr. Dondero, originally with a 75% ownership interest, and Mark K. Akada (“Mr. Akada”), originally with a 25% ownership interest. As mentioned earlier, Mr. Dondero is the chief executive of Highland. Highland, through its organizational structure of approximately 2,000 separate business entities, manages approximately $14-$15 billion of investor capital in vehicles including CLOs, private equity funds, and mutual funds. Highland provides employees to entities in the organizational structure, such as it did with the Debtor-Acis, through the mechanism of shared services agreements and sub-advisory agreements (as mentioned above). Notably, Highland’s chief executive, Mr. Dondero, served as the President of the Debtor-Acis at all relevant times prepetition.²¹ Highland claims to be a large creditor of the Debtor-Acis for services provided to the Debtor-Acis under the Shared Services Agreement and the Sub-Advisory Agreement. The Chapter 11 Trustee disputes these claims and has asserted numerous claims back against Highland in an adversary proceeding (the “Highland Entities Adversary Proceeding”).

In any event, Highland is a disputed insider creditor. It is an “insider,” as contemplated by Bankruptcy Code section 101(31)(C), because it, beyond any shadow of a doubt, controlled the Debtor-Acis until these Bankruptcy Cases developed to the point of having a Chapter 11

²¹ One witness, Hunter Covitz, referred to the Debtor-Acis as the “structured credit arm of Highland.” Transcript 12/13/18 (AM) [DE # 793], at p. 57.

Trustee take charge of the Debtor-Acis. Highland does not seem to dispute that it is an insider.²² But, for the avoidance of doubt, Highland should be considered an insider of the Debtor-Acis for at least the following reasons: (a) the same human being (Mr. Dondero) was president of the Debtor-Acis and was the chief executive of Highland; (b) Highland's General Counsel, Scott Ellington, testified that Mr. Dondero controlled them both;²³ and (c) Highland provided the Debtor-Acis with employees and management services pursuant to the Sub-Advisory Agreement and Shared Services Agreement.²⁴

Additionally, the court believes that the Chapter 11 Trustee made a convincing argument in connection with Plan confirmation (and his justification for the separate classification of Highland's claim in the Plan from other general unsecured creditors) that Highland should also be regarded as a "competitor" of the Debtor-Acis at this juncture, since they are both in the fund management business and Highland's control over the Debtor-Acis has now been divested. Highland's competitor status, in addition to its insider status, warrants additional scrutiny of its motivations in objecting to the Plan. More importantly, it provides a sound legal and business justification for separately classifying its claim in the Plan.

²² Under section 101(31) of the Bankruptcy Code, an insider includes certain enumerated parties, such as an officer of the debtor, affiliate, etc. Further, the list of enumerated "insiders" is not exclusive or exhaustive. See Wilson v. Huffman (In re Missionary Baptist Foundation of Am., Inc.), 712 F.2d 206, 210 (5th Cir. 1983). Recently, the United States Supreme Court stated: "Courts have additionally recognized as insiders some persons not on that [101(31)] list—commonly known as 'nonstatutory insiders.' The conferral of that status often turns on whether the person's transactions with the debtor (or another of its insiders) were at arm's length." U.S. Bank N.A. v. Vill. at Lakeridge, LLC, 138 S. Ct. 960, 963 (2018). The Fifth Circuit has noted that "cases which have considered whether insider status exists generally have focused on two factors in making that determination: (1) the closeness of the relationship between the parties and (2) whether the transaction . . . [was] conducted at arm's length." Browning Interests v. Allison (In re Holloway), 955 F.2d 1008, 1011 (5th Cir. 1992).

²⁴ See 11 U.S.C. §§ 101(2)(D); (31)(C)(5). The court notes that, although Highland has, from time to time, alleged that Mr. Terry is a "non-statutory insider" of the Trustee, it has never put on any credible evidence to support this contention.

2. HCLOF Guernsey.

The second Objector, HCLOF Guernsey, is an entity formed in the island nation of Guernsey. It has two allegedly independent Directors from Guernsey who have provided testimony in connection with confirmation of the Plan. It was enormously clear to the court (as will be elaborated upon below) that the two Directors of HCLOF Guernsey are—stated in the kindest way possible—mere “figureheads” for HCLOF Guernsey and they defer to Highland entirely to tell them what to do, what to say, and when. In any event, HCLOF Guernsey is the owner of the equity in the CLO SPEs (as earlier mentioned, this equity is sometimes referred to as the “subordinated notes” in the CLO SPEs). According to HCLOF Guernsey's 2017 Annual Report and Audited Financials, all of its subordinated notes issued by the Acis CLOs are physically held at and are pledged to HCLOF Guernsey's lender, NexBank, which happens to be a Dallas bank that is an affiliate of Highland.²⁵ HCLOF Guernsey was created in the year 2015 and was formerly known as “ALF.”²⁶ Its name was changed on October 30, 2017 (ten days after Mr. Terry's Arbitration Award was entered), to allegedly distance itself from the Debtor-Acis. The equity owner HCLOF Guernsey, in turn, has three equity owners: (i) a 49% equity owner that is a charitable fund (i.e., a donor advised fund or “DAF”) that was seeded with contributions from Highland, is managed/advised by Highland, and whose independent trustee is a long-time friend of Highland's chief executive officer, Mr. Dondero; (ii) 2% is owned by Highland employees; and (iii) a 49% equity owner that is a third-party institutional investor based in ²⁵ Exh. 647.

²⁶ “ALF” is short-hand for Acis Loan Funding, Ltd.

Boston, Massachusetts that only recently invested in HCLOF Guernsey (i.e., in November 2017, just after the Terry Arbitration Award was issued), and desires to remain passive and anonymous (hereinafter, the “Passive Investor”).²⁷ Notably, the Debtor-Acis itself owned a small percentage of HCLOF Guernsey, in addition to providing management services to it, until October 24, 2017 (four days after the Terry Arbitration Award was issued).

The court has allowed HCLOF Guernsey to vigorously participate in the confirmation hearing (and other hearings during the Bankruptcy Cases), although its party-in-interest status has been questionable. So how is HCLOF Guernsey a party-in-interest? The answer is a bit of a stretch—but the court has decided it is impacted by the Plan, so it should have the right to object. Its party-in-interest status has evolved during the Bankruptcy Cases.

First, early on in these Bankruptcy Cases, HCLOF Guernsey (together with Highland) sued the Chapter 11 Trustee in the above-mentioned “Highland Entities Adversary Proceeding”—mostly, if not entirely, seeking injunctive relief. At that point, the Chapter 11 Trustee treated HCLOF Guernsey as a disputed creditor,²⁸ since it was seeking equitable relief that could arguably be monetized.²⁹ However, HCLOF Guernsey subsequently withdrew its requests for relief in that Highland Entities Adversary Proceeding. But then, the Chapter 11 Trustee subsequently filed claims against HCLOF Guernsey in the Highland Entities Adversary Proceeding (along with his claims against Highland and a couple of other Highland entities) asserting avoidance actions and other causes of action against HCLOF Guernsey (among other things, the Chapter 11 Trustee alleged that HCLOF Guernsey schemed with Highland to terminate the Equity/ALF PMA, in a step toward systematically dismantling the Debtor-Acis of its value). Thus, HCLOF Guernsey may ultimately owe money to this estate. But most importantly, HCLOF Guernsey should be deemed a party-in-interest because of a proposed temporary injunction in the Plan that essentially would enjoin (for a finite, defined period) HCLOF Guernsey from exercising certain of its rights with regard to its equity in the CLO SPEs, pending resolution of the Highland Entities Adversary Proceeding. This temporary injunction in the Plan, directed towards HCLOF Guernsey and affiliates, will be further described below.

²⁷ The testimony was that the Passive Investor committed to a $150 million investment ($75 million immediately and $75 million callable over the next several years).

²⁸ In fact, on August 15, 2018, the Chapter 11 Trustee filed a proof of claim on behalf of HCLOF Guernsey. HCLOF Guernsey has since objected to the proof of claim.

²⁹ See 11 U.S.C. §§ 101(5)(B) & 101(10).

3. Neutra Cayman.

Neutra Cayman is a Cayman island exempted company that is the equity owner of the Debtor-Acis itself (in contrast to HCLOF Guernsey, which only owns equity in the CLO SPEs). Neutra Cayman only acquired its equity interest in the Debtor-Acis the day after the Terry Judgment was entered (on December 18, 2017), and for no consideration, from the Dugaboy Investment Trust (a family trust on which Mr. Dondero's sister is named trustee, that previously owned 74.9% of the Debtor-Acis) and from Mr. Akada (who previously owned 25% of the Debtor-Acis).³⁰ The court concludes that Neutra Cayman has standing to object to the Plan, ³⁰ The court is repeatedly referring to the Debtor-Acis but, to be clear, there are two consolidated Debtors: Acis Capital Management, L.P. ("Acis LP") and Acis Capital Management GP, LLC ("Acis GP/LLC"). See note 2, supra. When Acis LP was first formed, it was owned by one general partner (Acis GP/LLC, with a .1% interest) and it had three limited partners: (a) the Dugaboy Investment Trust (a Dondero family trust of which either Mr. Dondero or his sister, Nancy Dondero, have been the trustee at all relevant times) with a 59.9% interest; (b) Mr. Terry with a 25% interest; and (c) Mr. Akada with a 15% interest. When Acis GP/LLC was formed (i.e., the .1% owner of Acis LP), its sole member was the Dugaboy Investment Trust. After Mr. Terry was terminated by Highland, his 25% limited partnership interest in Acis LP was forfeited and divided among the two remaining limited partners: Mr. Akada (increasing his interest by 10% up to 25%), and the Dugaboy Investment Trust (increasing its interest by 15% up to 74.9%). But, most importantly, on the day after entry of Mr. Terry's Final Judgment (i.e., on December 18, 2017), both Mr. Akada and the Dugaboy Investment Trust conveyed their entire limited partnership interests in Acis LP—25% and 74.9%, respectively—to Neutra Cayman. The Dugaboy Investment Trust also conveyed its 100% membership interest in Acis GP/LLC to Neutra Cayman.

The Plan is fairly simple, considering the complexity of the business and the relationships, and the contentiousness of the Bankruptcy Cases. Again, there aren't many creditors.

Mr. Terry (again, the former human manager of the Debtor-Acis and also the largest creditor) shall receive 100% of the equity interests in the Reorganized Debtor, in exchange for a negotiated $1 million reduction in his partially secured claim.³³ The remainder of his claim will

³³ Mr. Terry has asserted partial secured status as to his claim in the proofs of claim he has filed in these cases. The Chapter 11 Trustee credibly testified that there was no other logical party to take the equity of

be treated as an unsecured claim. Each unsecured creditor will receive on the Plan Effective Date an unsecured cash flow note in the full amount of its claim, which notes will mature three years after the Effective Date of the Plan, with equal quarterly payments of principal and interest, at 5% interest per annum. These cash flow notes are expected to yield payment in full (actually 102%) to the unsecured creditors.³⁴

As for the sub-advisory and shared services agreements with Highland, as noted earlier, the Chapter 11 Trustee, with bankruptcy court approval, has already (as of August 2018) rejected these during the Bankruptcy Cases, pursuant to section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code. The Chapter 11 Trustee caused the Debtor-Acis to subsequently contract, with bankruptcy court approval, with a different entity, Brigade Capital Management, L.P. (“Brigade”), to provide the sub-advisory and shared services going forward, for a minimum two-year term (unless the Reorganized Debtor and Brigade otherwise agree), at a much cheaper cost than Highland.³⁵ Thus, Brigade will provide sub-servicing and sub-advisory services to the Reorganized Debtor.

the Reorganized Debtor, at this juncture, and that he had negotiated this reduction to Mr. Terry’s secured claim, and he thought it was justified by the circumstances of this case. While the Objectors have argued that the secured status of Mr. Terry’s claim may be subject to challenge under section 547(b) of the Bankruptcy Code, section 547(b) is discretionary (e.g., a “trustee may avoid any transfer” that might be avoidable as a preference). The Chapter 11 Trustee credibly emphasized that this was negotiated treatment of an asserted secured claim, and he had no “exclusivity” on proposing a plan if someone else had wanted to propose something different. Transcript 12/11/18 (AM) [DE # 789], at p. 70 (line 3) through p. 71 (line 2).

³⁴ Insider claims—namely Highland—are separately classified from general unsecured claims under the Plan. To the extent such claims are ultimately allowed (after any allowed defenses and offsets), and to the extent such claims are not equitably subordinated by Bankruptcy Court adjudication, these claims will receive the same treatment as other general unsecured claims (cash flow notes). To the extent any of these claims are ultimately allowed but equitably subordinated, they will receive subordinated promissory notes, accruing interest at 5% per annum, that will not be payable until all non-subordinated claims have been paid in full (they will have maturity dates to occur on the earlier of: (i) the date that is two years after the date all Unsecured Cash Flow Notes have been paid in full, or (ii) five years after the Effective Date). The expected recovery under the Plan for the insider claims is from 65% to 100%.

³⁵ An entity named Cortland Capital Markets Services LLC (“Cortland”) is actually providing some of the back-office shared services agreement type functions.

As for the Equity/ALF PMA, it is not an agreement with the Debtor-Acis anymore to either be assumed or rejected, pursuant to section 365. However, in the Highland Entities Adversary Proceeding, the Chapter 11 Trustee seeks to avoid the termination of the Equity/ALF PMA. Pursuant to the Plan, the Reorganized Debtor will be vested with certain Assets of the Debtors, including Estate Claims and Estate Defenses, to be administered and liquidated by the Reorganized Debtor.

1. The Highland Entities Adversary Proceeding (Adv. Proc. No. 18-03212).

Suffice it to say that the Highland Entities Adversary Proceeding is a somewhat significant part of the Plan; it is what justifies the temporary injunction that is a critical part of the Plan. With regard to the Highland Entities Adversary Proceeding, the Defendants in it (there are five of them) are: (i) Highland; (ii) HCLOF Guernsey; (iii) Highland HCF (i.e., the Cayman Island entity that was recently formed to essentially replace the Debtor-Acis under the Equity/ALF PMA); (iv) Highland CLO Management, Ltd. (“Highland Management”) (an entity registered in the Cayman Islands on October 27, 2017—seven days after Mr. Terry’s Arbitration Award); and (v) Highland CLO Holdings, Ltd. (yet another entity incorporated in the Cayman Island on October 27, 2017). The Highland Entities Adversary Proceeding is essentially a multi-faceted fraudulent transfer action. The statutory predicates for the relief sought are sections 502, 542, 544, 547, 548, and 550 of the Bankruptcy Code and Texas Business & Commerce Code § 24.001 et seq. (“TUFTA”).

Distilled to its essence, the Highland Entities Adversary Proceeding argues that Highland, along with its related Co-Defendants, orchestrated a systematic transfer of value away from the Debtor-Acis to other Highland entities (all of those transferee-entities are offshore entities—whereas the Debtor-Acis is a Delaware entity), beginning almost immediately after Mr. Terry was terminated in June 2016, and continuing on during Mr. Terry's litigation/arbitration with the Debtor-Acis, and then rapidly unfolding after the Arbitration Award. This was allegedly done to denude the Debtor-Acis of value and make the Debtors "judgment proof." This was allegedly also done to ensure that the Debtor-Acis's very valuable business as portfolio manager would be taken over by other Highland entities and remain under Highland's and Mr. Dondero's control.³⁶

The evidence is rather startling on this point. Among other things, pursuant to amendments made to the Debtor-Acis's Sub-Advisory Agreement and Shared Services Agreements with Highland, starting soon after Mr. Terry was terminated, the fees owed by the Debtor-Acis to Highland under these agreements shot up to an enormously higher level. Then, in April 2017, a new CLO was issued (or actually a former Acis CLO was reset) and a new Highland-affiliated Cayman Island entity was ultimately put in place to manage it instead of the Debtor-Acis (even though the Debtor-Acis managed all other CLOs in the Highland corporate empire). Numerous other transactions were undertaken through the Fall of 2017, removing assets and agreements away from the Debtor-Acis. For example, a multi-million dollar note receivable owed to the Debtor-Acis by Highland was transferred out of the Debtor-Acis,³⁷ and ³⁶ Exh. 627.

³⁷ On November 3, 2017, the Debtor-Acis, Highland, and Highland Management (a newly created, offshore Highland affiliate) entered into that certain Agreement for Assignment and Transfer of Promissory Note (the "Note Assignment and Transfer Agreement"). Exh. 225. The Note Assignment and Transfer Agreement, among other things, transferred a $9.5 million principal amount promissory note executed by Highland and payable to the Debtor-Acis (the "Note"), Exh. 218, from the Debtor-Acis to Highland Management (the "Note Transfer"). The Assignment and Transfer Agreement memorializing this transaction is signed by Mr. Dondero for the Debtor-Acis. The document recites that (i) Highland is no longer willing to continue providing support services to the Debtor-Acis, (ii) the Debtor-Acis, therefore, can no longer fulfill its duties as a collateral manager, and (iii) Highland Management agrees to step into the collateral manager role if the Debtor-Acis will assign the Note to it. Notably, Highland Management was registered in the Cayman Islands on October 27, 2017, roughly a week before the Note Transfer. Thus, Highland Management had no portfolio or collateral management experience whatsoever when it entered the Assignment and Transfer Agreement. To the contrary, it appears Highland Management was an entity that was created specifically to hold the Note and eventually take possession of the CLO PMAs in an international forum that would be difficult for Mr. Terry to reach. The Debtor-shares in HCLOF Guernsey held by the Debtor-Acis were sold back to HCLOF Guernsey (four days after the Arbitration Award). And then the Equity/ALF PMA was terminated so that the Debtor-Acis would no longer have management-control over HCLOF Guernsey as its portfolio manager—arguably putting Highland in a position to liquidate the Acis CLOs and put the Debtor-Acis out of business. Specifically, on October 27, 2017, just seven days after Mr. Terry's Arbitration Award, the Debtor-Acis ostensibly terminated its own portfolio management rights under the Equity/ALF PMA³⁸ and transferred its authority and its valuable portfolio management rights—for no value—to Highland HCF, an affiliate of Highland. It appears that the only alleged consideration for these transfers, to the extent there was any, was the satisfaction of purported debts owed to other Highland entities or their representatives.

Acis appears to have received no or insufficient consideration for the Note Transfer. The primary consideration for the Note Transfer was an alleged payable due from the Debtor-Acis to Highland in the approximate amount of $7.5 million for participation fees, which was transferred to Highland Management shortly before the Note Assignment and Transfer Agreement was entered. The validity of the alleged “participation fees” is unknown. The remainder of the consideration for the Note Transfer is a promise to pay certain expenses of the Debtor-Acis, which has apparently never occurred. In any event, it appears highly likely that the Note Transfer took away the Note as an asset from which Mr. Terry could collect his judgment.

³⁸ As mentioned earlier, the Equity/ALF PMA provided that the Debtor-Acis could only be removed as portfolio manager by the equity owner (now known as HCLOF Guernsey) “for cause” at § 14(a)-(e). Exh. 11. Meanwhile, the Debtor-Acis could terminate the Equity/ALF PMA without cause upon at least ninety (90) days’ notice, pursuant to § 13(a)-(c). Exh. 11. It would appear that these terms were wholly ignored by the persons orchestrating the Equity/ALF PMA termination. It appears that the Debtor-Acis was simply manipulated to consent and agree to its removal and replacement as portfolio manager of HCLOF Guernsey. This transfer of the Debtor-Acis's portfolio management rights to the offshore entity Highland HCF was accomplished by way of a new portfolio management agreement entered into by the equity owner (now known as HCLOF Guernsey) and Highland HCF on October 27, 2017, which empowered Highland HCF with the same broad authority to direct the management of HCLOF Guernsey as was previously held by the Debtor-Acis LP under the Equity/ALF PMA. See Exh. 19, October 27, 2017 PMA §§ 1 & 5(a)-(q). This agreement appears to have been further solidified in a second portfolio management agreement dated November 15, 2017. Exh. 215. The Debtor-Acis received no consideration for this transfer.

The Highland Defendants argue that the Equity/ALF PMA (its termination being arguably the most significant transfer referenced in the Highland Entities Adversary Proceeding) did not have value. But the evidence convinces the court that it absolutely did. A witness, Mr. Zachary Alpern, credibly testified that the portfolio manager (under the Equity/ALF PMA) made decisions regarding the underlying financial instruments including seeking an optional redemption and negotiating a reset. Mr. Alpern also credibly testified about the importance, in the CLO industry, of the portfolio manager having control of a CLO's equity to ensure an "evergreen fee stream."³⁹ Additionally, Mr. Terry also credibly testified that the portfolio manager (not the CLO equity interest holder) has the right to control the terms of the liquidation of collateral in an optional redemption under the terms of the indentures.⁴⁰ The Chapter 11 Trustee also credibly testified that the Equity/ALF PMA allowed the Debtor-Acis to have control of an optional redemption.⁴¹ Finally, a witness, Mr. Klein, credibly testified about the value of the Equity/ALF PMA and the negative impact of its transfer on the Debtor-Acis LP.⁴²

To be clear, Highland and HCLOF Guernsey have argued in opposition to the Chapter 11 Trustee's position that it is HCLOF Guernsey—the actual equity holder of the CLO SPEs—that had/has the absolute power and authority to control the CLO SPEs' destinies and it is ludicrous to suggest otherwise. However, not only does the Equity/ALF PMA appear to this court to have delegated the relevant power and authority to the Debtor-Acis, but Highland's own expert on this topic, Mr. Castro, testified that the “actual humans” who would make the decision for HCLOF Guernsey as to whether to request an optional redemption of the Acis CLOs were not the HCLOF Guernsey directors but, rather, Highland executives Mr. Dondero, Mr. Okada, and Highland employee Mr. Covitz (acting for Highland HCF).⁴³ Moreover, Mr. Alpern credibly testified that, before the Terry Arbitration Award, the Debtor-Acis, as the portfolio manager under the Equity/ALF PMA, rather than the HCLOF Guernsey’s directors, issued the notices of optional redemption for HCLOF Guernsey.⁴⁴

The court concludes that the Chapter 11 Trustee has demonstrated a likelihood of success on the merits with regard to his claims set forth in the Highland Entities Adversary Proceeding. Therefore, the Temporary Injunction that is part of the Plan is supportable (as further explained below). Of course, the nature and extent of the rights ultimately recovered by the Debtor-Acis will either be determined in the Highland Entities Adversary Proceeding or, as HCLOF Guernsey’s own Guernsey expert conceded, in a binding arbitration in Dallas, Texas under the terms of the Equity/ALF PMA.⁴⁵

2. The Plan Injunction.

The most controversial aspect of the Plan—the aspect of it that seems to be the primary focus of the Objectors—is a portion of an injunction in the Plan (the “Temporary Injunction”). The Temporary Injunction would temporarily enjoin the following parties from effectuating an optional redemption or liquidating the Acis CLOs and related actions: (i) Highland; (ii) HCLOF

Guernsey; (iii) CLO Holdco, Ltd. (the donor advised fund, seeded with Highland contributions and managed by Highland that owns 49% of HCLOF Guernsey); (iv) Neutra Cayman; (v) Highland HCF (the Cayman Island entity created shortly before the Bankruptcy Cases to replace the Debtor-Acis under the Equity/ALF PMA); (vi) Highland Management (the Highland-created entity that entered into a portfolio management agreement with a new Acis-CLO that was established in 2017); and (vii) any affiliates of Highland and their respective employees, agents, representatives, transferees, assigns, and successors.⁴⁶ This Temporary Injunction is proposed to only last until the earlier of when: (a) the creditors of the Debtors are paid in full; (b) resolution of the Highland Entities Adversary Proceeding; (c) a material breach in the Plan; or (d) the bankruptcy court terminates the Temporary Injunction upon request of a party-in-interest. Fully consensual resets of the Acis CLOs are permissible if HCLOF Guernsey, as the equity owner in the CLO SPEs, chooses to agree to resets. The basis for the Temporary Injunction is as follows: The Chapter 11 Trustee has asserted numerous claims in the Highland Entities Adversary Proceeding against Highland, HCLOF Guernsey, and affiliates, including claims to recover the Debtor-Acis's rights under the Equity/ALF PMA.⁴⁷ The Temporary Plan Injunction essentially provides for the continuation, after the Effective Date, of injunctive relief that the bankruptcy court previously granted in its Preliminary Injunction Order (the "Preliminary Injunction") [DE # 21 in Adversary No. 18-03212-sgj] entered on July 10, 2018 in the Highland Entities Adversary Proceeding. The Preliminary Injunction was originally set to expire by its ⁴⁶ There is another portion of this Plan injunction that is more of a general plan injunction (i.e., very typical) that would prohibit actions against the Debtors, Reorganized Debtor and the Estate Assets, based on acts occurring before the Effective Date, which would be permanent and would not expire upon the occurrence of any event that causes the Temporary Plan Injunction to expire.

⁴⁷ See Exh. 627, Trustee's Counterclaims and Claim Objection.

is very important because it protects the revenues under the Acis PMAs, which is a source of potential recovery to creditors under the Plan.⁵² Mr. Terry credibly testified that the Temporary Plan Injunction is a critical component of the Plan and that the Debtor-Acis would have no going concern value without it. In fact, without the Plan Injunction, Mr. Terry will be precluded from reorganizing the business and paying creditors.⁵³

The Objectors have argued that the Chapter 11 Trustee cannot suffer irreparable harm because he has an adequate remedy at law. This argument misses the mark. The destruction of the Debtors' ongoing business, which has the potential to repay creditors under the Plan in two years, constitutes irreparable harm. The fact that the estate possesses a number of avoidance claims for damages against Highland and its affiliates, and could potentially obtain damages on such claims, does not render the destruction of the Debtor-Acis's ongoing business any less harmful. Indeed, according to the Fifth Circuit:

[T]he mere fact that economic damages may be available does not always mean that a remedy at law is 'adequate.' For example, some courts have found that a remedy at law is inadequate if legal redress may be obtained only by pursuing a multiplicity of actions.⁵⁴

Likelihood of Success on the Merits. The Chapter 11 Trustee has also demonstrated a likelihood of succeeding on the merits in the Highland Entities Adversary Proceeding.

The record contains substantial evidence of both intentional and constructive fraudulent transfers with regard to the Equity/ALF PMA and other assets.⁵⁵ The numerous prepetition transfers that occurred around the time of and after the Terry Arbitration Award appear more likely than not to have been made to deprive the Debtor-Acis of value and with actual intent to hinder, delay or defraud the Debtors' creditors. Highland's only purported business justifications for the prepetition transfers were that the Passive Investor demanded it and that the Debtor-Acis's brand was toxic in the market place.⁵⁶ However, these business justifications were not supported (and, in fact, were contradicted) by the evidence.

Indeed, while representatives of Highland and its affiliates said that the Passive Investor's demands were the reason for the termination (i.e., essentially a "transfer") of the Equity/ALF PMA, the Passive Investor's representative testified that this was untrue and that these alleged demands were never made by the Passive Investor.⁵⁷ In fact, the Passive Investor was just that—a passive, minority investor in HCLOF Guernsey with no ability to influence or control any of ⁵⁶ Highland General Counsel Scott Ellington testified that the Passive Investor said it had no interest in doing business with the Debtor-Acis because the Debtor-Acis brand was purportedly toxic and, consequently, nothing associated with the Debtor-Acis could be managed or marketed as a CLO. Exh. 23, Transcript 2/7/18 at pp. 55-58. Mr. Ellington further testified that the Passive Investor demanded that the Equity/ALF PMA be transferred. Exh. 23, Transcript 2/7/18 at pp. 203-204. Mr. Ellington also testified that, because the Passive Investor would be putting in additional capital in connection with any reset CLOs, it had the ability to "start calling the shots" and dictate the terms of any reset transactions. Exh. 23, Transcript 2/7/18 at p. 226. Additionally, Highland executive Mark Okada testified that a reset transaction could not be performed by the Debtor-Acis because the market would not accept the Debtor-Acis as a portfolio manager and the Debtor-Acis was no longer risk-retention compliant. Exh. 25, Transcript 3/23/18 at p. 53. Additionally, Mr. Dondero testified that the "Boston investor" deal was contingent on getting away from the Debtor-Acis and getting a new collateral manager. Exh. 25, Transcript 3/23/18 at pp. 143-144.

the actual investment decisions.⁵⁸ The only other business justification Highland and HCLOF Guernsey have suggested for the prepetition transfers was that the Debtor-Acis “was a shell” and not capable of being risk retention compliant.⁵⁹ However, Highland portfolio manager Hunter Covitz testified that in October 2017, prior to the Terry Arbitration Award, there was a structure in place that would comply with risk retention.⁶⁰ Mr. Covitz could not convincingly distinguish why the “shell” status of the Debtor-Acis was distinguishable from the “shell” status of other Highland-related entities that were the recipients of various fraudulent transfers.⁶¹ Mr. Covitz also subsequently admitted that the Passive Investor did not request that the Debtor-Acis end its involvement with HCLOF Guernsey through the Equity/ALF PMA fraudulent transfer or request that ALF change its name to HCLOF [Guernsey].⁶² Mr. Covitz’s testimony contradicted the testimony provided by Scott Ellington, General Counsel⁶³ and Mr. Dondero.⁶⁴ And, at bottom, if the Debtor-Acis was a thinly capitalized “shell,” it appears to be only because Highland systematically made it that way after the Terry Arbitration Award.

The evidence established overwhelmingly that there is a substantial likelihood that the transfers were part of an intentional scheme to keep assets away from Mr. Terry as a creditor. Highland put on an expert, Mr. Greenspan, who testified that he did not consider whether the

Equity/ALF PMA transfer was an “actual” fraudulent transfer, but only considered whether the transfer was “constructively” fraudulent.⁶⁵ While Highland has taken the position that termination of the Equity/ALF PMA was not a transfer, Mr. Greenspan testified that the termination of a contract can constitute a transfer and acknowledged that the definition of a transfer in the Bankruptcy Code does not include a value component.⁶⁶

Balance of Harms. The Chapter 11 Trustee has also shown the balance of harms weighs in his and the estates’ favor in granting the Plan’s Temporary Injunction. The Chapter 11 Trustee is entitled to the Temporary Injunction pending resolution of the claims asserted in the Highland Entities Adversary Proceeding. The Chapter 11 Trustee credibly testified that the Temporary Plan Injunction is important to the Plan, because it allows the cash flow from the CLO management to be collected by the Reorganized Debtor, and that is the source of revenue available at this time to pay creditors.⁶⁷ Mr. Terry also credibly testified that the Temporary Plan Injunction is a critical component of the Plan necessary to preserve the Debtors’ going concern value and allow the Reorganized Debtor to generate new business and repay creditors.⁶⁸ Conversely, in this court’s view, there is no real harm to Highland or the Co-Defendants because they can ask for a reset under the Plan.⁶⁹ Mr. Scott, a director of HCLOF Guernsey, testified that

The definition of “transfer” under the Texas Uniform Fraudulent Transfer Act (“TUFTA”) also does not include a value component. Tex. Bus. & Comm. Code Ann. § 24.002(12) (West, Westlaw through 2017).

HCLOF Guernsey can sell its interest in the subordinated notes in the market.⁷⁰ The Chapter 11 Trustee credibly testified that the Temporary Plan Injunction would not impair the value of the subordinated notes because a rational investor would not want to liquidate the Acis CLOs, but rather would acquire them to do a reset under the Plan.⁷¹ Mr. Terry credibly testified that even if the Acis CLOs are not reset, it still does not make sense to redeem the Acis CLOs.⁷²

Public Interest. Finally, issuance of the Plan Injunction is consistent with public policy. Public policy favors the equitable collecting of a debtor's assets, maximizing the value of those assets, and distributing the proceeds in an orderly fashion in accordance with the priorities and safeguards set forth in the Bankruptcy Code, rather than in an uncontrolled, piecemeal, and potentially wasteful way. Public policy also supports successful reorganizations.⁷³ The public interest is furthered by confirming a plan that saves the Debtor-Acis's business operations and allows it to pay its creditors under a successful plan of reorganization. The public interest is also furthered by maintaining the status quo through the Temporary Plan Injunction so that the avoidance action relating to the Equity ALF PMA can be determined on its merits. The public interest is not furthered by allowing potential wrongdoers to complete the last step in what appears likely to have been a scheme to strip the Debtor-Acis of its assets, steal its business, and leave it unable to pay creditors. The public interest is not furthered by leaving the Debtors without sufficient resources to pursue and effectively litigate potentially valuable causes of action.

In sum, the court finds and concludes that the proposed Plan injunction (including the Temporary Injunction) is legally permissible and justified under all the circumstances. It is narrowly tailored to address the specific harm to which it is directed and comports with governing case and statutory authority and applicable rules of bankruptcy and civil procedure. The Plan Injunction is consistent with Fifth Circuit precedent.⁷⁴ Such an injunction would not violate section 524(e) of the Bankruptcy Code. That subsection provides that “discharge of a debt of the debtor does not affect the liability of any other entity on, or the property of any other entity for, such debt.”⁷⁵ The Plan Injunction would not affect the liability of any entity, or the liability of any property. The injunction would only temporarily prohibit Highland and its Co-Defendants from exercising one form of economic recourse, thereby preserving the status quo while the Chapter 11 Trustee and/or Reorganized Debtor has a fair opportunity to prosecute the ⁷⁴ The Fifth Circuit, in an unpublished opinion, has recognized the propriety of an injunction to preserve the status quo in cases where equitable relief is sought. *See Animale Group v. 3. Feasibility of the Plan—Specific Findings and Conclusions Regarding Mr. Terry and Brigade.

The Objectors have challenged the feasibility of the Plan.⁷⁹ The court finds and concludes that the preponderance of the evidence supported the feasibility of the Plan. Among other things, the Chapter 11 Trustee credibly testified that Mr. Terry has an excellent track record as a portfolio manager, and that there is no reason why Mr. Terry will not be able to obtain new business—that is, new portfolios to manage which will provide additional revenue streams for the Reorganized Debtor.⁸⁰ The evidence was credible and compelling that Mr. Terry will be capable of fulfilling the equity owner position in the Reorganized Debtor (stepping in to essentially run the Reorganized Debtor) and will be able to ensure the feasibility of the Plan. He is well qualified to reorganize the Debtor-Acis. Mr. Terry testified that his role with the Reorganized Debtor will be similar to the role he very successfully performed for the Debtor-Acis.⁸¹ The Debtor-Acis received numerous awards during Mr. Terry's service as the portfolio manager of the Acis CLOs.⁸² The arbitration panel that issued the Arbitration Award found that Mr. Terry was terminated for essentially doing the right thing for investors.⁸³ Mr. Terry credibly testified that numerous market participants have expressed an interest in working with the Reorganized Debtor if the Plan is confirmed.⁸⁴

Moreover, the court finds and concludes that Brigade (who stepped in as sub-advisor in place of Highland during the Bankruptcy Cases and is a registered investment advisor) is qualified to serve as a sub-advisor to the Reorganized Acis. Mr. Jared Worman, a portfolio manager for Brigade,⁸⁵ credibly testified that Brigade, founded in the year 2007, currently has $20 billion of total assets under management, $5 billion of which consists of six U.S. CLOs, two U.S. CDOs, and three European CLOs.⁸⁶ Mr. Worman credibly testified that Brigade has issued 17 CLOs and has reset or refinanced several of them.⁸⁷ Mr. Worman and Mr. Terry credibly testified that Brigade is willing to serve as sub-advisor to the Reorganized Acis for fifteen basis points.⁸⁸ Highland attempted to show with evidence and argument that Brigade had made some failed trades since stepping in as sub-advisor to the Acis CLOs and that this perhaps made them unfit to serve in this role. But Mr. Terry credibly testified that the fact that a few failed trades were made by Brigade does not make them unfit to serve as sub-advisor to Reorganized Acis, and that trades out of compliance with the applicable CLO tests occasionally happen, and Brigade has handled them appropriately.⁸⁹ In fact, the evidence suggested that at least ten failed trades occurred while Highland was acting as sub-advisor to the Debtor-Acis.⁹⁰

Highland's suggestions that Brigade is not up to the task to manage the Reorganized Debtor are specious. Likewise, HCLOF Guernsey's insistence that it will not be getting the benefit of its bargain if the Acis CLOs are not managed by Highland personnel going forward appears to be a manufactured position aimed at thwarting Mr. Terry at all costs. Not only is there no credible evidence of Brigade mismanagement but, to the contrary, it appears that Highland (prior to the Debtor-Acis's rejection of the Sub-Advisory Agreement and Shared Services Agreement), intentionally liquidated assets of the CLO SPEs and built up cash without reasonable justification. Specifically, Mr. Terry credibly testified that there were $85 million in purchases in the Acis CLOs in the hours leading up to the entry of the orders for relief, but virtually no purchases of loans in the CLOs afterwards—only sales.⁹¹ And Mr. Worman further credibly testified that Highland, while acting as sub-advisor, allowed approximately $380 million in cash to build up in the Acis CLOs. Meanwhile, Brigade has subsequently reduced that cash balance by $280 million to approximately $100 million.⁹² Mr. Worman also credibly testified that Brigade has purchased approximately $300 million in loans for the Acis CLOs.⁹³ The Chapter 11 Trustee and Mr. Terry both credibly testified that the build-up of cash in the Acis CLOs while Highland was sub-advisor, rather than the loans acquired by Brigade, left the Acis CLOs without sufficient interest income to make a distribution to the equity holders.⁹⁴ Certain contradictory testimony of Hunter Covitz was not convincing that: (a) there were very few conforming loans available to be purchased for the Acis CLOs in the approximately four months that elapsed between the entry of the Order for Relief and the time when Highland was terminated as sub-advisor;⁹⁵ and (b) it made more sense to accumulate cash to pay down the AAA notes rather than invest in new loans.⁹⁶ The court found more convincing the testimony of Mr. Terry: (a) that there was $310 billion of performing loans rated above CCC in the S&P loan index in May of 2018 available for purchase in CLO-6 that would have satisfied the weighted average life test;⁹⁷ (b) that Highland purchased loans for CLO-7 that would have satisfied the weighted average life constraints in the Debtor-Acis's CLO-4, CLO-5, and CLO-6;⁹⁸ and (c)

that, although there was no change in market conditions, Highland essentially stopped buying collateral for the Acis CLOs⁹⁹ after the entry of the Orders for Relief.¹⁰⁰

4. Resets—Non-impairment of Anyone’s Rights.

The Plan only contemplates consensual resets of the Acis CLOs—in other words, only if HCLOF Guernsey requests resets.¹⁰¹ Messrs. Worman and Terry both credibly testified that they believed the Reorganized Acis and Brigade could perform a consensual reset of the Acis CLOs.¹⁰² Mr. Terry credibly testified that other asset managers have been able to issue or reset CLOs after a bankruptcy proceeding.¹⁰³ Mr. Terry also credibly testified that he wants to come to a resolution with HCLOF Guernsey and consensually reset the Acis CLOs.¹⁰⁴

HCLOF Guernsey has taken the position that it and its new Passive Investor (new as of mid-November 2017—just before the Bankruptcy Cases) only want to be involved with CLOs that are managed by Highland or Highland affiliates. Is the Plan impairing their rights—to the extent the Plan (and any subsequent re-sets) brings in Brigade as the sub-advisor to the Reorganized Debtor (whereas Highland was in that sub-advisor role before)? It appears no. The ¹⁰⁰ Highland has also argued that the Plan is not feasible because the administrative expense claims are extremely high (to which the Chapter 11 Trustee responds, it is of Highland’s making, since Highland has objected to literally every action proposed by the Chapter 11 Trustee). The court does not believe there is a legitimate feasibility problem here. Not only has the court not ruled yet on final professional fee applications, but the Chapter 11 Trustee represented that certain professionals have agreed to defer their fees (beyond payment in full on the Effective Date) as necessary.

Offering Memorandum between HCLOF Guernsey and the Passive Investor, dated November 15, 2017, pursuant to which the Passive Investor agreed to invest in HCLOF Guernsey, provided that there may be a change in circumstances following the date of the Offering Memorandum and that any forward-looking statements in the Offering Memorandum involved risks and uncertainties “because they relate to events and depend on circumstances that may or may not occur in the future.”¹⁰⁵ Heather Bestwick, one of the HCLOF Guernsey directors, testified that the Offering Memorandum does not require HCLOF Guernsey to invest only in Highland-managed funds¹⁰⁶ and instead expressly provides that HCLOF Guernsey will invest in “CLOs managed by other asset managers.”¹⁰⁷ Another witness, Mr. McGuffin, testified that the HCLOF Guernsey directors’ fiduciary duties require them to act independently and objectively in the best interests of HCLOF Guernsey, and also require them to consider a change in circumstances.¹⁰⁸ HCLOF Guernsey’s counsel, HCLOF Guernsey’s director, and the Passive Investor have all testified that they would consider doing a reset with the Reorganized Acis in the event the Plan is confirmed.¹⁰⁹

Mr. Terry credibly testified that a reset of the Acis CLOs can occur after the expiration of the reinvestment periods of the Acis CLOs.¹¹⁰ The Plan is feasible regardless of whether a reset of the Acis CLOs is requested by HCLOF Guernsey. Messrs. Phelan and Terry both credibly

VI. General Credibility Assessments.

In ruling in a contested matter such as confirmation, and weighing the preponderance of the evidence, the credibility of witnesses and contradictions in their testimony naturally can be significant. Here, there were some noteworthy problems and contradictions with some of the testimony provided by the Objectors' witnesses. They are summarized below.

1. Scott Ellington: A Seemingly Manufactured Narrative to Justify Prior Actions.

Scott Ellington testified on February 7, 2018 at the trial on the involuntary petitions, and the court was asked to consider his testimony again in connection with confirmation (he did not attend the confirmation hearing). He is the General Counsel, Chief Legal Officer, and a Partner at Highland. Mr. Ellington testified that the Debtor-Acis's name is "toxic" in the market place and that, due to the litigation with Mr. Terry and allegations in that litigation, "nothing can be associated with the Acis brand and be managed as a CLO or marketed as a CLO."¹¹² Mr. Ellington elaborated that it had been determined in late 2016 or 2017 that re-sets or re-financings of the Acis CLOs were a prudent thing to pursue (in fact, there was indeed a trend of refinancings and resets for this vintage of CLOs in the market place) and, in connection with that, the Debtor-Acis's contracts and assets needed to be diverted to different, newly created entities because: (a) the "Acis" name was toxic and underwriters and investors were not going to be interested in re-financings or resets for CLOs managed by the Debtor-Acis;¹¹³ and (b) the new Passive Investor wanted the Debtor-Acis out of the picture.¹¹⁴ Mr. Ellington further elaborated: “The equity, you know, calls the tune, so to speak, in terms of the CLO . . .”¹¹⁵ In summary, an overarching theme of Mr. Ellington’s testimony was that the Debtor-Acis was tainted or toxic in the marketplace and the Passive Investor wanted the Debtor-Acis out of the picture—thus, this was the motivation for the prepetition transactions orchestrated by Highland prior to the Bankruptcy Cases. The problems with the Scott Ellington testimony were at least two-fold. First, there is no credible evidence that the Debtor-Acis is/was toxic in the market place. In fact, in April 2017 (well after the litigation with Mr. Terry commenced), the Debtor-Acis issued a new CLO (CLO-7). And in market publications as recently as August 21, 2017, Highland was touting the Acis structure stating “our vehicle will allow us to issue between six and 12 CLOs over the next few years.”¹¹⁶ Second, the Passive Investor denies demanding that the Debtor-Acis be removed as the CLO manager. Term sheets as recent as August 21, 2017 contemplated the Debtor-Acis as the continuing portfolio manager of CLOs, with apparently no protestations by the Passive Investor.¹¹⁷

2. Michael Pugatch: The Passive Investor Made Into a Scapegoat.

The reality is that Highland, indeed, started working on the concept of doing resets of some of the older vintage Acis CLOs in at least early 2017 (and perhaps late 2016). Highland, in fact, completed a reset of one Acis CLO in April 2017 (with the Debtor-Acis still in place as the portfolio manager for that reset in April 2017). As part of that process of implementing resets for the Acis CLOs, Highland worked on bringing in a new investor or investors to have a share of the equity tranche of the Acis CLOs. Highland finally obtained the commitment of the Passive Investor in November 2017, after starting initial discussions with them in the second quarter of 2017.¹¹⁸ A representative for the Passive Investor referred to itself as “passive” in a deposition.¹¹⁹ Concepts and documentation for the Passive Investor’s investment in the Acis CLOs were discussed for a while during 2017. As recently as August 2017, the negotiations with the Passive Investor appeared to contemplate the Debtor-Acis still as the portfolio manager for the CLOs.¹²⁰ Then the arbitration trial with Mr. Terry began in September 2017 and the Terry Arbitration Award was issued on October 20, 2017. Suddenly, it appears that the dismantling of the Debtor-Acis began with all deliberate speed. The court believes, based on the totality of the evidence, that it was Highland who did not want the Debtor-Acis as CLO manager going forward, so that Highland could keep reaping the benefits of the reset CLOs. Specifically, when deposed on the topic, a representative for the Passive Investor, Mr. Pugatch, denied the accuracy of Mr. Ellington’s testimony, stating that the Passive Investor “viewed Acis and Highland as interchangeable from the perspective of the—you know, the actual investment opportunity.”¹²¹ When asked, “Are you aware that Scott Ellington, general counsel for HCM, testified that [the Passive Investor] said with absolute certainty that they had no interest in doing business with Acis because the Acis brand was purportedly toxic and, consequently, nothing associated with Acis could be managed or marketed as a CLO?” Mr. Pugatch testified that he had read that testimony and that the statement was not true.¹²² He further stated that “the ultimate sort of name change did not come from [the Passive Investor].”¹²³ In fact, when further asked whether the Passive Investor knew why Acis CLO Funding Limited changed its name to Highland CLO Funding Limited (i.e., HCLOF Guernsey), Mr. Pugatch testified, “We were told that it was a change in the brand or the name, as requested by Highland.”¹²⁴ And when asked “Did [the Passive Investor] request that the name be changed?” he answered “No.”¹²⁵ When asked whether the Passive Investor considered “Acis toxic in the industry?” Mr. Pugatch answered: “No. What I would say is, when the suggested name change did occur, there were commercial reasons given to us as to why that would be beneficial in terms of the ongoing management of those CLOs and the intended investment thesis around the investment that we had made, which seemed to make commercial sense.”¹²⁶ When Mr. Pugatch was asked, “Those reasons were given by Highland, correct?” he replied “Correct” and confirmed that they were not demanded by the Passive Investor.¹²⁷ Mr. Pugatch was emphatic that the Passive Investor was just that—a passive investor—that did not have the ability to “start calling the shots” and dictate the terms of any reset transactions.¹²⁸ When asked if the Passive Investor was concerned about the Terry Arbitration Award, Mr. Pugatch replied: “The award itself, no. I think the only thing we were concerned about or focused on was that vis-à-vis our equity investment in Highland CLO Funding Limited and, in turn, the equity that that vehicle held in the various CLOs was appropriately, you know, ring-fenced or not exposed to any potential damages or economic loss in value as a result of that arbitration award.”¹²⁹

The Passive Investor further testified that Brigade has “a fine reputation in the market” but that it had no interaction with them historically.¹³⁰ The Passive Investor also testified that it was concerned about the cash buildups that had happened recently due to actions while Highland had still been the sub-advisor on the Acis CLOs.¹³¹

3. The Seemingly Rehearsed Testimony of the Two HCLOF Guernsey Witnesses.

The court was presented with video depositions of HCLOF Guernsey’s two non-executive directors (i.e., its only directors): Mr. William Scott¹³² and Ms. Heather Bestwick.¹³³ It was very apparent to the court that HCLOF Guernsey is controlled by Highland in every way. Putting things in the kindest way possible, Mr. Scott and Ms. Bestwick appear to be nominal figureheads who are paid to act like they are in charge, while they are not. They are both basically professional directors-for-hire, for companies that choose to form/organize in the nation of Guernsey.

Ms. Bestwick testified that she is a nonexecutive director for six companies in Guernsey (none of the others are in the CLO business).¹³⁴ She testified that she earned £35,000 per year to serve as a director of HCLOF Guernsey.¹³⁵ She testified that she was selected by Highland¹³⁶ and that Highland also made the decision to hire HCLOF Guernsey's law firm in the Bankruptcy Cases.¹³⁷ Ms. Bestwick, when questioned as to why the Equity/ALF PMA it had with the Debtor-Acis was terminated shortly after the Terry Arbitration Award was issued, testified that she was told it was "a condition precedent to the new Passive Investor" coming in and that she was told this by Highland.¹³⁸ She also testified that she had never talked to the Passive Investor (who, of course, is a 49% owner of HCLOF Guernsey)¹³⁹ or Grant Scott (the trustee of the charitable organization that owns 49% of HCLOF Guernsey).¹⁴⁰ She reiterated that she only talks to Highland employees. She also was under the impression that terminating the Equity/ALF PMA would improve marketability of the CLOs going forward but that it was the same people and "business as usual for us."¹⁴¹ She testified that she learned of the Terry Arbitration Award in mid-April 2018 (some six months after the fact)¹⁴² and “[y]ou’d have to ask Highland”¹⁴³ why it did not inform her sooner. Her testimony was clear that she defers to Highland on everything, stating that as directors they were “heavily reliant on our service providers, and that means Highland.”¹⁴⁴ With regard to a lawsuit that HCLOF Guernsey filed against Mr. Terry in Guernsey during the Bankruptcy Cases, she testified that it was neither her nor the other director, William Scott’s, idea.

Mr. Scott, the other HCLOF Guernsey director, is a “professional director” for 10-15 Guernsey companies¹⁴⁵—all of which are “paying assignments.”¹⁴⁶ He became rather incensed when testifying, at the suggestion that he and Ms. Bestwick were not in control of HCLOF Guernsey, stating that board minutes and other documents would show that they took a great level of interest in running the company.¹⁴⁷ He testified that he earned £40,000 per year to serve as a director of HCLOF Guernsey and that, due to the extra work of the Bankruptcy Cases, he also was charging another £350 per hour, after the first 35 hours¹⁴⁸ (the court notes, anecdotally, that it required participation in court hearings by a director of HCLOF Guernsey each time that HCLOF Guernsey took a position in court). Mr. Scott confirmed that he was not aware of the litigation with Mr. Terry nor the Acis Bankruptcy Cases until April 2018.¹⁴⁹ He also testified that Highland had proposed the legal counsel HCLOF Guernsey used in the Bankruptcy Cases and that he had never disagreed with Highland's advice.¹⁵⁰ He confirmed that all investment decisions were made by Highland and that he and Ms. Bestwick's role was to "police" service providers.¹⁵¹ Like Ms. Bestwick, Mr. Scott testified that they were told that the Passive Investor had made it a condition precedent to their investment in HCLOF Guernsey that "Acis depart."¹⁵² But he had not talked to the Passive Investor.¹⁵³ As if all this deference to Highland were not enough, HCLOF Guernsey's lender is NexBank (an affiliate of Highland—which is based in Dallas, not Guernsey) and HCLOF Guernsey has given its actual equity notes to NexBank as security for its loans from NexBank.¹⁵⁴ Also, interestingly, when asked about the adversary proceeding that HCLOF Guernsey filed against the Chapter 11 Trustee a few months ago in the Bankruptcy Cases (i.e., the Highland Entities Adversary Proceeding—it was originally commenced by Highland and HCLOF Guernsey as Plaintiffs), Mr. Scott testified that "we haven't sued the trustee, he has sued us" but later acknowledged his mistake when corrected by counsel.

This court is not naïve—it realizes that so-called "fiduciary services firms" are apparently a typical thing in the world of off-shore jurisdictions that are large financial centers.¹⁵⁵ Maybe ¹⁵⁵ During the testimony of both Ms. Bestwick and Mr. Scott, the court was reminded of an old TV commercial in which an actor states, "I am not a doctor, but I play one on TV." The court could not help but conclude that these were not real directors but were playing them (when legally necessary).

the system works, for the most part and in many business contexts. But not when trying to convince a bankruptcy court of the bona fides of transactions that look like attempts to denude another party of value and/or to thwart creditors. And not when accusations are made that you are the alter ego of the party (Highland) who orchestrated the company's creation. The evidence was overwhelming that: (a) the HCLOF Guernsey Directors do whatever they are told to do by Highland; (b) they do not talk to anyone else but Highland; (c) they have never challenged Highland; (d) they let Highland pick and consult with their lawyers; and (e) they were not made aware by Highland of the Terry Arbitration Award, the Terry Judgment, the involuntary bankruptcy petitions, or pleadings that lawyers filed in the Bankruptcy Cases on HCLOF Guernsey's behalf.

In summary, the testimony of these two HCLOF Guernsey Directors was of little or no value in convincing the court that the Objector, HCLOF Guernsey, has valid concerns of its own (separate from Highland's) with regard to the bona fides of the Plan.

VII. Conclusion.

This Bench Ruling and Memorandum Opinion is intended to address some of the most pertinent facts and issues raised in connection with confirmation of the Plan. Among other things, the court believed it was necessary to stress, in a separate ruling: (a) the unique status of the Objectors (they are "insiders" as defined in the Bankruptcy Code whose prepetition actions suggest unclean hands—this seems highly relevant to consider, when there are no non-insider creditors or other relevant parties objecting to the Plan); (b) the appropriateness and legality of the proposed Plan Injunction that would temporarily prevent nonconsensual redemptions/liquidations (it is in all ways justified given the allegations in the Highland Entities Adversary Proceeding and under the traditional four-prong test for preliminary injunctions); and

(c) the feasibility of the Plan (Mr. Terry and Brigade are well qualified to perform their contemplated roles).

The court will separately sign the Findings of Fact, Conclusions of Law and Order Confirming Plan submitted by the Chapter 11 Trustee to address all other relevant issues.

FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW IN SUPPORT OF ORDERS FOR RELIEF ISSUED AFTER TRIAL ON CONTESTED INVOLUNTARY BANKRUPTCY PETITIONS

Joshua N. Terry (the “Petitioning Creditor” or “Mr. Terry”) filed involuntary bankruptcy petitions (the “Involuntary Petitions”) against each of the two above-referenced related companies (the “Alleged Debtors”) on January 30, 2018.¹ The Involuntary Petitions were contested, and the court held a multi-day trial (the “Trial”) spanning March 21, 22, 23, 27, and March 29, 2018.² This constitutes the court’s findings of fact, conclusions of law and ruling, pursuant to Fed. Rs. Bankr. Proc. 7052 and 9014.³ As explained below, the court has decided that Orders for Relief are legally required and appropriate as to each of the Alleged Debtors.

I. FINDINGS OF FACT

A. Introduction.

1. The Alleged Debtors—Acis Capital Management, L.P. (“Acis LP”), a Delaware limited partnership, and ACIS Capital Management GP, L.L.C. (“Acis GP/LLC”), a Delaware limited liability company—are two entities in the mega-organizational structure of a company that is known as Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“Highland”).

2. Highland is a Dallas, Texas-based company that is a Registered Investment Advisor. Highland was founded in 1993 (changing its original name from “Protective Asset Management” to Highland in 1997) by James D. Dondero (“Mr. Dondero”), originally with a

² Shortly after the Involuntary Petitions were filed, the court held hearings on February 6-7, 2018, on the Petitioning Creditor’s Emergency Motion to Abrogate or Modify 11 U.S.C. § 303(f), Prohibit Transfer of Assets, and Import, Inter Alia, 11 U.S.C. § 363 [DE # 3] (the “303(f) Motion”) and the Alleged Debtors’ Emergency Motion to Seek Emergency Hearing on the Alleged Debtors’ Motion to Dismiss Involuntary Petitions and Request for Award of Fees, Costs, and Damages [DE # 9] (the “Emergency Motion to Set Hearing on Motion to Dismiss”). The court ultimately granted the 303(f) Motion and denied the Emergency Motion to Set Hearing on Motion to Dismiss. Both the Petitioning Creditor and the Alleged Debtors have proposed that the court should consider the evidence it heard at the hearings held on February 6-7, 2018, in determining whether it should enter orders for relief. The court has, accordingly, considered such evidence in this ruling.

75% ownership interest, and Mark K. Akada (“Mr. Akada”), originally with a 25% ownership interest.⁴

3. Both Mr. Dondero and Mr. Akada provided witness testimony at the Trial on the Involuntary Petitions, and their names are mentioned numerous times herein—since they were generally the subject of significant evidence and argument presented at the Trial. Mr. Dondero is the chief executive officer for Highland and Mr. Akada is the chief investment officer. Mr. Dondero is also the president of each of the two Alleged Debtors.

4. Highland, through its organizational structure of approximately 2,000 separate business entities, manages approximately $14-$15 billion of investor capital in vehicles ranging from: collateral loan obligation funds (“CLOs”); private equity funds; and mutual funds.

5. Highland’s CLO business was front-and-center at the Trial on the Involuntary Petitions. The Alleged Debtor, Acis LP, for approximately the past seven years, has been the vehicle through which Highland’s CLO business has been managed.

6. The Petitioning Creditor, Mr. Terry, became an employee of Highland in the year 2005, starting as a portfolio analyst, promoting to a loan trader, then ultimately becoming the portfolio manager for (and 25% limited partner in) Highland’s CLO business—specifically, Mr. Terry was the human being who was acting for the CLO manager, Acis LP.

7. Mr. Terry was highly successful in his role in the CLO business, managing billions of dollars of assets during his tenure, but Mr. Terry and Mr. Dondero had a bitter parting of ways on June 9, 2016. Specifically, Mr. Terry’s employment was terminated on that date (for reasons that have been highly disputed) and his 25% limited partnership interest in Acis LP was deemed forfeited without any payment of consideration to him.

8. In September 2016, Highland sued Mr. Terry in the 162nd Judicial District Court of Dallas County, Texas (“State Court 1”) for breach of fiduciary duty/self-dealing, disparagement, breach of contract, and various other causes of action and theories. Mr. Terry asserted his own claims against Highland, and also claims against the two Alleged Debtors, Mr. Dondero, and others and demanded arbitration. On September 28, 2016, State Court 1 stayed the litigation and ordered the parties to arbitrate. The parties participated in ten days of arbitration in September 2017 before JAMS. On October 20, 2017, Mr. Terry obtained an Arbitration Award (herein so called),⁵ jointly and severally against both of the Alleged Debtors in the amount of $7,949,749.15, plus post-award interest at the legal rate, which was based on theories of breach of contract and breach of fiduciary duties.

9. There are still claims pending between and among the Petitioning Creditor, Highland, and others (not including the Alleged Debtors) in State Court 1.

10. A Final Judgment (herein so called) confirming the Arbitration Award was entered by the 44th Judicial District Court of Dallas County, Texas (“State Court 2”) on December 18, 2017, in the same amount as that contained in the Arbitration Award—$7,949,749.15.⁶

11. Mr. Terry began pursuing post-judgment discovery soon after obtaining his Arbitration Award and even more so after entry of the Final Judgment. Mr. Terry undertook a UCC search on November 8, 2017, to investigate whether there were any liens on the Alleged

⁶ Exh. 105.

Debtors' assets (none appeared).⁷ Mr. Terry also pursued a garnishment of an Acis LP bank account (at a time when there was only around $2,000 in the account). Mr. Terry's counsel deposed Highland's General Counsel Scott Ellington (who sat for the deposition as a representative of Acis, LP) on January 26, 2018, and asked numerous questions about: (a) how many creditors the Alleged Debtors had,⁸ and (b) whether Acis LP was able to pay its debts as they became due,⁹ but did not receive meaningful answers.

12. Mr. Terry requested a temporary restraining order ("TRO") from State Court 2, on January 24, 2018, after discovering certain transactions and transfers involving Acis LP's interests, that he believed were pursued without any legitimate business purpose and with the purpose of denuding Acis LP of its assets and to make it judgment proof. Most particularly, it appeared as though Highland was engaged in a scheme to transfer certain fee-generating CLO management contracts of Acis LP away from it and into a Cayman Island affiliate of Highland.¹⁰ At a January 24, 2018 hearing on the request for a TRO, Acis LP agreed and State Court 2 ordered that, between that hearing and a later hearing on a request for a temporary injunction, no CLO management contracts would be transferred away from Acis LP and that no monies would be diverted from it.¹¹

13. Then, on January 29, 2018, the Controller of and CPA for Highland (David Klos) submitted a Declaration to State Court 2 concerning the net worth of the Alleged Debtors, stating that Acis GP/LLC had a net worth of $0 and that Acis LP might have a net worth, at best, of $990,141.¹² Mr. Terry thought this was preposterous—given the management fees that Acis LP was entitled to and the receivables that should be owing to it. Mr. Terry believes that the collateral management agreements on which Acis LP receives management fees have a present value of $30 million (about $6 million for each of the five CLOs which Acis LP has been managing).

14. On January 29, 2018, the Alleged Debtors filed a motion for leave to post a supersedeas bond in the amount of $495,070.50 with State Court 2 (purportedly half of the net worth of the two Alleged Debtors—as stated in the David Klos Declaration), so that they could suspend enforcement of the Final Judgment while they appealed it.¹³ Although there is a very stringent standard for appealing an Arbitration Award, the Alleged Debtors apparently believe they have an argument that State Court 2 lacked the subject matter jurisdiction to confirm the Arbitration Award (a motion to vacate the Final Judgment based on this argument has previously been denied by State Court 2).¹⁴

15. Meanwhile, Mr. Terry was learning of more transactions and transfers involving Acis LP's assets and interests. On January 29, 2018, Mr. Terry filed supplemental pleadings with State Court 2, alleging that further shenanigans (i.e., transfers and transactions that would amount to fraudulent transfers) were underway at Acis LP and seeking a receiver.¹⁵ Also, at some point, in the weeks leading up to this, an Acis LP lawyer represented to Mr. Terry's counsel that the Alleged Debtors were "judgment proof."¹⁶

16. At approximately 11:57 p.m. on January 30, 2018 (on the evening before a scheduled temporary injunction hearing in State Court 2—at which time State Court 2 presumably might have considered the Alleged Debtors' request to post the $495,070.50 supersedeas bond to stay enforcement of the Final Judgment), Mr. Terry filed the Involuntary Petitions, as a sole petitioning creditor, against both Acis LP and Acis GP/LLC.

17. For purposes of this Trial (and this Trial only), the Alleged Debtors do not dispute that Mr. Terry has standing to be a petitioning creditor pursuant to Bankruptcy Code section 303(b)—in other words, they do not dispute that Mr. Terry is a holder of a claim against the Alleged Debtors that is not contingent as to liability or the subject of a bona fide dispute as to liability or amount and that aggregates at least $15,775 in unsecured amount. However, the Alleged Debtors argue that: (a) the Alleged Debtors have 12 or more creditors and, thus, three or more petitioning creditors were required to prosecute the Involuntary Petitions pursuant to Bankruptcy Code section 303(b)(1); (b) the Petitioning Creditor did not establish, pursuant to Bankruptcy Code section 303(h)(1), that the Alleged Debtors are not generally paying their debts as such debts become due unless such debts are the subject of a bona fide dispute as to liability or amount; (c) regardless of whether the Petitioning Creditor has met the statutory tests in sections 303(b)(1) and (h)(1), the Petitioning Creditor has acted in bad faith—which serves as an equitable basis for dismissal of the Involuntary Petitions; and (d) if the court disagrees with the Alleged Debtors and determines that the section 303(b) and (h) statutory tests are met, and also determines that the Petitioning Creditor has not acted in bad faith, the court should nevertheless abstain in this matter, pursuant to Bankruptcy Code section 305, since this is essentially a two-party dispute and the interests of creditors and the debtor would be better served by dismissal.

18. The Petitioning Creditor argues that he has met the statutory tests of sections 303(b) and (h) but, even if he has not, there is a “special circumstances” exception to the section 303 statutory requirements, whenever a petitioning creditor establishes fraud, trick, scheme, artifice or the like on the part of an alleged debtor—which “special circumstances,” Mr. Terry alleges, have been established here. Moreover, the Petitioning Creditor argues that the facts here do not warrant section 305 abstention because the interests of creditors and the Alleged Debtors would not be better served by dismissal.

19. As further explained below, the court finds and concludes that the Petitioning Creditor has met his burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that the statutory tests of sections 303(b) and (h) are met here. Thus, the court does not need to reach the question of whether there is a “special circumstances” exception to the section 303 statutory requirements, whenever a petitioning creditor establishes fraud, trick, scheme, artifice or the like on the part of an alleged debtor, and—if so—whether the exception is applicable here.¹⁷

20. Moreover, the Alleged Debtors have not shown by a preponderance of the evidence that the Petitioning Creditor acted in bad faith, such that the Involuntary Petitions should be dismissed.

¹⁷ See e.g., In re Norriss Bros. Lumber Co., 133 B.R. 599 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 1991); In re Moss, 249 B.R. 411 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2000); In re Smith, 415 B.R. 222 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2009).

21. Finally, the Alleged Debtors also have not shown facts here that warrant section 305 abstention because they have not shown that the interests of creditors and the Alleged Debtors would be better served by dismissal.

B. The CLO Business: Understanding the Alleged Debtors' Business Operations, Structure, and What Creditors and Interest Holders They Actually Have.

22. Highland set up its first CLO in the year 1996. Highland was one of the early participants in the CLO industry.

23. The Alleged Debtors were formed in 2011 to be the new “brand” or face of the Highland CLO business, after Highland’s name had suffered some negative publicity in the marketplace.

24. Acis LP has acted as the portfolio manager of Highland’s CLOs since 2011. Acis LP currently has a contractual right to CLO portfolio management fees on five CLOs¹⁸ which were referred to at the Trial as CLO 2013-1; CLO 2014-3; CLO 2014-4; CLO 2014-5; and CLO 2016-6. CLOs typically have an 8-12 year life. Thus, there are still several years of life left on these CLOs (since the oldest one was established in the year 2013).

25. The key “players” in and features with regard to the Highland CLOs, during the time period relevant to the issues adjudicated at the Trial, have been:

- (a) The CLO manager. As mentioned earlier, the CLO manager is the Alleged Debtor, Acis LP. Acis LP, has collateral management agreements (hereinafter, the “CLO Collateral Management Agreements”) with the CLOs (which CLOs were set up as special purpose entities) and, pursuant thereto, receives management fees¹⁹ from the CLOs in exchange for managing the pool of assets within the CLOs and communicating with investors in the CLOs.²⁰ As mentioned earlier, Mr. Terry was the human being that performed the management function at Acis LP until Highland fired him on June 9, 2016 and also terminated his limited partnership interest in Acis LP. Mr. Terry, and all employees who have ever provided services to the CLO manager, are Highland employees—which were provided to Acis LP through shared and sub-advisory services agreements—as further explained below. Thus, to be clear, Acis LP has always essentially subcontracted its CLO managerial function out to Highland.

¹⁸ There is still another Highland CLO (CLO 2017-7), set up in April 2017, as to which Acis LP’s contractual right to manage was terminated shortly before the Petition Date, as will be further described herein.

- (b) The pool of assets. Within each CLO that the CLO manager manages is a basket of loans that the CLO manager purchases. The basket of loans typically consists of approximately 200 loans-payable (or portions of loans payable), on which large well-known companies typically are the makers/obligors (and which loans, collectively, provide a variable rate of interest).²¹ The CLO manager can typically decide to buy and sell different loans to go into the pool of assets, with certain restrictions, during a four or five year reinvestment time period.

¹⁹ These fees typically include “senior fees” (e.g., 15 basis points); additional “subordinate fees” (e.g., 25 basis points) if the CLOs are passing certain tests; and perhaps even an “incentive fee” beyond a certain hurdle rate (e.g., after the equity in the CLO received an internal rate of return of 10%, the CLO manager would get 15% of the excess). Exh. 82, p. 59, lines 14-25.

²⁰ See, as an example, Exh. 3 (the collateral management agreement between Acis LP and CLO 2014-3). Note that the document is entitled “Portfolio Management Agreement” but, to avoid confusion with other similarly titled documents and to highlight the true nature of the agreement, the court uses the defined term “CLO Collateral Management Agreement,” which terminology the lawyers also sometimes used at the Trial.

²¹ Exh. 8.

- (c) The CLO investors (i.e., CLO note holders). These may be any number of persons or entities, including pension funds, life insurance companies, or others who decide to invest in the CLOs and contribute capital to fund the purchase of a CLO's loan pool, and, in return, receive fixed rate notes payable—the ratings on which can range anywhere from Triple-A to Single-B, depending upon the risk option the investor chooses. There are typically five or six tranches of notes issued by the CLO (with the top AAA-rated tranche being the least risky and the bottom tranche being the most risky) and—to be clear—the CLO itself (again, in each case, the CLO is a special purpose vehicle) is the obligor. As the CLO manager receives income from the pool of loans in the CLO, he distributes that income to the CLO investors, in accordance with their note indentures,²² starting with the top tranche of notes and then down to the other tranches. The top tranche of notes (AAA-rated) is considered the “controlling” class and a majority of holders in this class can terminate the CLO manager (i.e., Acis LP) for cause on 45 days' notice, although all parties seem to agree this would be a rare event.
- (d) The CLO equity holder. The CLO equity holder actually is a holder of subordinated notes issued by the CLOs (i.e., the bottom tranche of notes on which the CLO special purpose entity is obligated), and has voting rights and is itself a capital provider, but it takes the most risk and receives the very last cash flow from the CLOs. It, in certain ways, controls the CLO vehicle²³—for example, by virtue of having the ability to make a redemption call after a certain “no-call” period—which would force a liquidation of the basket of loans in the CLO, with the proceeds paying down the tranches of notes, starting at the top with the Triple A’s). Note that, until recently, a separate entity known as Acis Loan Funding, Ltd. (“ALF”), which was incorporated under the laws of the island nation of Guernsey,²⁴ was the CLO equity holder. To be clear, ALF was essentially the equity owner in the CLO special purpose entities—not the equity owner of Acis LP. Acis LP was a party to a separate portfolio management agreement with ALF (hereinafter, the “ALF Portfolio Management Agreement”—not to be confused with the CLO Collateral Management Agreements that Acis LP separately has with the special purpose CLOs). No fees were paid from ALF to Acis LP pursuant to the ALF Portfolio Management Agreement (rather, fees are only paid to Acis LP on the CLO Collateral Management Agreements). The complicated structure of the CLO business—all parties seemed to agree—has been developed, among other reasons, to comply with “risk-retention requirements” imposed by the U.S. Congress’s massive Dodd-Frank financial reform legislation²⁵ enacted in year 2010, in response to the financial crisis and recession that first began in 2008.

²³ The top tranche of AAA notes also has certain control—such as the ability to terminate the portfolio manager for cause, on notice.

²⁴ Guernsey is located in the English Channel. ALF was created in August 2015.

²⁵ Simply put, one of the results of the Dodd-Frank legislation (i.e., the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act, Pub. L. 111-203, H.R. 4173, 124 Stat. 1376-2223, 111th Congress, effective July 21, 2010), which was implemented over a period of several years, was that, subsequent to December 2016, managers of securitizations needed to retain at least a 5% interest in that securitization. Thus, if a $400 million CLO were to be

- (e) The Equity Owners of ALF. Until recently (i.e., until October 24, 2017—four days after the Arbitration Award), Acis LP itself, as required for a CLO manager, had a 15% indirect ownership in ALF, in order to be regulatory compliant.²⁶ The parties sometimes refer to ALF (and the web of ownership between it and Acis LP) as the “risk retention structure.”²⁷ The evidence at the Trial revealed that ALF (which has recently been renamed), now, has three equity owners: (i) a 49% equity owner that is a charitable fund (i.e., a donor advised fund or “DAF”) that was seeded with contributions from Highland, is managed/advised by Highland, and whose independent trustee is a long-time friend of Highland’s chief executive officer, Mr. Dondero; (ii) 2% is owned by Highland employees; and (iii) finally, ALF may be 49% owned by a third-party institutional investor based in Boston that Highland believed it was required to keep anonymous at the Trial. Not only is the court unaware of who this independent third-party is, but the evidence seems to suggest that it may have acquired its interest fairly recently or may have simply committed to invest recently.²⁸ issued, the CLO manager would need to retain at least 5% or $20 million of the assets in the CLO (which 5% could be either all at the equity level or vertically, up and down the note tranches). There are multiple ways to accomplish this 5% retention (i.e., with either the CLO manager directly investing in at least 5% of the CLO or doing it through a controlled subsidiary). This particular rule was announced in December 2014 and the SEC thereafter issued a no action letter stating that if a CLO was issued prior to December 2014, then any refinancing of such CLO that happens within four years can be done without risk retention in place. Resets of any CLO (i.e., changes in terms and maturity—as opposed to mere changes in interest rates), on the other hand, must have risk retention in place. Four of Acis LP’s current CLOs were issued prior to December 2014. Thus, these four CLOs are still technically able to do a refinancing without a risk retention structure in place. In any event, by early-to-middle 2017, Acis LP was risk retention compliant. Exh. 82, pp. 65-69 & 75. That was recently changed—on October 24, 2017—four days after the Arbitration Award—as later explained herein.

²⁶ See n.23, supra.

²⁷ See Demonstrative Aid No. 3.

²⁸ See Exh. 173, which seems to suggest that the only equity owners of ALF just prior to October 24, 2017 were Acis LP and the DAF, until Acis LP’s interest in ALF was sold back to ALF on October 24, 2017. See also Exh. 82, p. 162, lines 2-7.

- (f) The underwriter for the CLO notes. As with any publicly traded notes, there is an underwriter for the CLO notes which solicits investors for the CLO notes (examples given at the Trial: Mizuho Securities USA, LLC; Merrill Lynch; JP Morgan Chase).²⁹ The CLO notes are traded on the Over-the-Counter Market.
- (g) The independent indenture trustee for the CLO notes. As also with any issuance of publicly traded notes, there is an indenture trustee (example given at the Trial: U.S. Bank).³⁰

26. Mr. Terry, the Petitioning Creditor, as earlier mentioned, began working for Highland in 2005 until his employment was terminated on June 9, 2016.

27. Acis LP and Acis GP/LLC have never had any employees. Rather, all employees that work for any of the Highland family of companies (including Mr. Terry) have, almost without exception, been employees of Highland itself. Highland has approximately 150 employees in the United States. Highland provides employees to entities in the organizational structure, such as Acis LP and Acis GP/LLC, through both the mechanism of: (a) a Shared Services Agreement (herein so called),³¹ which provides “back office” personnel—such as human resources, accounting, legal and information technology to the Highland family of companies; and (b) a Sub-Advisory Agreement (herein so called),³² which provides “front office” personnel to entities—such as the managers of investments like Mr. Terry. The evidence indicated that this is typical in the CLO industry to have such agreements. The court notes that

²⁹ See Exh. 193.

³⁰ See Exh. 7.

³¹ Exhs. 17, 99, 179 & 5.

³² Exhs. 18, 178 & 4.

all iterations of the Shared Services Agreements and Sub-Advisory Agreements between Acis LP and Highland were signed by Mr. Dondero both as President of Acis LP and as President of the General Partner of Highland.

28. Because Acis LP essentially subcontracts out all of its functions to Highland pursuant to the Shared Services Agreement and the Sub-Advisory Agreement, Acis LP has very few vendors or creditors. Rather Highland incurs expenses and essentially bills them to Acis LP through these two agreements.³³ In other words, Highland is one of Acis LP's largest and most frequent creditor.

29. The evidence reflected that at all times Mr. Dondero has been the President of both of the Alleged Debtors, and there have been, at all times, very few, if any, other officers. It appears that the only other officer of Acis GP/LLC that ever existed was Frank Waterhouse, Treasurer.³⁴ It also appears that the only other officer of Acis LP that ever existed was Frank Waterhouse, Treasurer, Mr. Terry as Portfolio Manager, and someone named Patrick Boyce as Secretary at one time.³⁵

30. Mr. Dondero testified that he has decision making authority for the Alleged Debtors but usually delegates that authority to Highland's in-house lawyers, Scott Ellington (General Counsel, Chief Legal Officer, and Partner of Highland) and Isaac Leventon (Assistant General Counsel of Highland) and is rarely involved in "nitty gritty negotiations." Sometimes instructions will come to him from the compliance group headed up by Chief Compliance Officer Thomas Surgent. Additionally, he testified that he signs hundreds of documents per week, and much of what he signs is on advice of counsel and he sometimes even delegates to his assistant the authority to sign his name. As set forth above, Mr. Ellington (who did not testify at the Trial)³⁶ and Mr. Leventon (who did testify at the Trial) are not officers, directors, or employees of the Alleged Debtors. Mr. Leventon is designated to be the representative for the Alleged Debtors (and testified as a Rule 30(b)(6) witness during pre-Trial discovery)—he explained that this representative-authority derives from the Shared Services Agreement. Mr. Leventon testified that he takes his instructions generally through his direct supervisor, Mr. Ellington, although Highland partners can ask him to perform legal services for any of Highland's 2,000 entities.

³³ Exh. 83, pp. 228 (line 8)-230 (line 14).

³⁵ Exhs. 14 & 15.

C. Transfers and Transactions Involving the Alleged Debtors Since the Litigation with Mr. Terry Commenced—and Especially After the Arbitration Award.

31. Below is a listing of some (but not necessarily all) of the transfers and transactions that the Alleged Debtors, Highland, and related parties undertook after the litigation with Mr. Terry commenced.

- (a) Acis LP's Sale to Highland of a "Participation Interest" in its CLO Cash Flow Stream. On October 7, 2016 (approximately one month after the litigation arose among Mr. Terry, Highland, and the Alleged Debtors), Acis LP sold to Highland a participation interest in its expected future cash flow from the CLO Collateral Management Agreements—specifically, it sold a portion of the cash flow it expected to earn from November 2016 to August 2019 (not the full life of the CLOs), for $666,655 cash, plus a $12,666,446 note payable from Highland to ³⁶ Mr. Ellington did testify at a hearing in the bankruptcy court on February 6, 2018—which the parties asked this court to take judicial notice of—and also provided deposition testimony that was submitted into evidence. See Exh. 25.

Acis LP (hereinafter, the “Acis LP Note Receivable from Highland”). Mr. Dondero signed the purchase and sale agreement for both purchaser and seller.³⁷ Mr. Dondero signed the Acis LP Note Receivable from Highland, which accrued interest at 3% per annum. It appears that the $666,665 cash down payment was actually paid, and a payment required on the Acis LP Note Receivable from Highland of $3,370,694 on May 31, 2017, was actually made. The Acis LP Note Receivable from Highland was payable in three installments, with a $5,286,243 payment required on May 31, 2018, and a $4,677,690 payment required on May 31, 2019. When viewed in complete isolation, this transaction does not necessarily appear problematic. Although there was evidence that Acis LP had been managing the five CLOs for about $10 million per year of fees, some of the recitals in the purchase and sale agreement suggest that there may have been a sound business reason for the transaction and the arbitration panel,³⁸ viewing this transaction in isolation, did not think it was necessarily problematic or actionable. In any event, Highland is adamant it was a net neutral transaction.

- (b) Transfer of Acis LP’s interest in ALF. Recall that ALF was the entity that held equity (i.e., the subordinated notes) in the CLO special purpose vehicles, and held voting rights and was a capital provider to the overall risk retention structure supporting the CLOs. And Acis LP, in turn, held a 15% indirect interest in ALF. On October 24, 2017 (four days after the Arbitration Award), Acis, LP entered into an agreement with ALF whereby ALF acquired back the shares that Acis LP

³⁷ Exhs. 14 & 15.

³⁸ Exh. 1, p. 18.

indirectly held in ALF (966,679 shares) for the sum of $991,180.13.³⁹ No credible business justification was offered for this transaction, other than mostly uncorroborated (and self-serving) statements from Highland witnesses that Acis LP was “toxic” in the market place (due to the litigation with Mr. Terry) and this was a step in the process of extricating Acis LP from the CLO business.⁴⁰ The court finds the testimony about Acis LP’s toxicity in the marketplace to not be credible or at all convincing. For one thing, a new CLO (Acis CLO 2017-7, Ltd.) was closed on April 10, 2017 with Acis LP as the portfolio manager. Moreover, Acis LP subcontracts all of its CLO management function to Highland—and there was no evidence to suggest that anyone in the marketplace at this juncture differentiates between Acis LP (whose president is Mr. Dondero) and Highland (whose president is Mr. Dondero). *In any event, the October 24, 2017 transaction had the highly consequential effect of making Acis LP “noncompliant” or unable to continue serving as a CLO manager for regulatory purposes for any new CLOs or reset CLOs (or for a refinancing of any of the Highland CLOs that had been created after December 2014)*⁴¹ because aspects of the federal Dodd Frank legislation require CLO managers to have “skin in the game” with regard to the CLOs they manage (i.e., they must retain at least 5% of CLOs they manage). Mr. Akada, who testified that he had been involved with the CLO business from the beginning and that the CLO team reported to him (including Mr. Terry before his termination), testified that he had no knowledge of this particular transaction. The document effectuating this transaction was signed by Frank Waterhouse, Treasurer for and on behalf of Acis LP, acting by its general partner, Acis GP/LLC.⁴²

- (c) ALF Next Decides to Jettison Acis, LP as its Portfolio Manager and Replace it with a new Highland Cayman Island Entity. On October 27, 2017 (seven days after the Arbitration Award), ALF—having purchased back the ownership interest that Acis LP had in it, just three days earlier—decided that it would no longer use Acis LP as its portfolio manager and entered into a new portfolio management agreement to supersede and replace the ALF Portfolio Management Agreement. Specifically, on October 27, 2017, ALF entered into a new Portfolio Management Agreement with a Cayman Island entity called Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd., replacing Acis LP in its role with ALF.⁴³ This agreement appears to have been further solidified in a second portfolio management agreement dated November 15, 2017.⁴⁴
- (d) The Acis LP Note Receivable from Highland is Transferred from Acis LP to Yet Another Highland Cayman Island Entity. On November 3, 2017 (10 days after the Arbitration Award), Acis LP assigned and transferred its interests in the Acis LP Note Receivable from Highland—which at that point had a balance owing of over $9.5 million—to a Highland Cayman Island entity known as Highland CLO

Management Ltd. which apparently was created sometime recently to be the new collateral manager of the CLOs (in other words, the new Acis LP).⁴⁵ The Assignment and Transfer Agreement memorializing this transaction is signed by Mr. Dondero for Acis LP and Mr. Dondero for Highland and some undecipherable name for Highland CLO Management Ltd.⁴⁶ The document recites that (i) Highland is no longer willing to continue providing support services to Acis LP, (ii) Acis LP, therefore, can no longer fulfill its duties as a collateral manager, and (iii) Highland CLO Management Ltd. agrees to step into the collateral manager role if Acis LP will assign to it the Acis LP Note Receivable from Highland. One more thing: since Acis LP was expected to potentially incur future legal and accounting/administrative fees, and might not have the ability to pay them when due, Highland CLO Management Ltd. agreed to reimburse Acis LP (or pays its vendors directly) up to $2 million of future legal expenses and up to $1 million of future accounting/administrative expenses.⁴⁷

- (e) Various Additional Transactions that further Transitioned CLO Management and Fees Away from Acis LP to Highland Cayman Island Entity. On December 19, 2017—just one day after the Arbitration Award was confirmed with the entry of the Final Judgment—the vehicle that can most easily be described as the Acis LP “risk retention structure” (necessitated by federal Dodd Frank law) was transferred away from Acis LP and into the ownership of Highland CLO

Holdings, Ltd. (yet another Cayman Island entity, incorporated on October 27, 2017⁴⁸).

- (f) In addition to transferring Acis LP's interest in the Acis LP risk retention structure on December 19, 2017, Acis LP also transferred its contractual right to receive management fees for Acis CLO 2017-7, Ltd. (which had just closed April 10, 2017), which Mr. Terry credibly testified had a combined value of $5 million, to Highland CLO Holdings, Ltd., another Cayman entity, purportedly in exchange for forgiveness of a $2.8 million receivable that was owed to Highland under the most recent iteration of the Shared Services Agreement and Sub-Advisory Agreement for CLO-7.⁴⁹ In conjunction with this transfer, Highland CLO Holdings, Ltd. then entered into new Shared Services and Sub-Advisory Agreements with Highland.⁵⁰
- (g) Change of Equity Owners of the Alleged Debtors. When Acis LP was first formed, it was owned by one general partner (Acis GP/LLC, with a .1% interest) and it had three limited partners: (a) Dugaboy Investment Trust (a Dondero family trust of which either Mr. Dondero or his sister, Nancy Dondero, have been the Trustee at all relevant times) with a 59.9% interest; (b) Mr. Terry with a 25% interest; and (c) Mr. Akada with a 15% interest. When Acis GP/LLC was formed

(i.e., the .1% owner of Acis LP), its sole member was the Dugaboy Investment Trust. After Mr. Terry was terminated by Highland, his 25% limited partnership interest in Acis LP was forfeited and divided among the two remaining limited partners: Mr. Akada (increasing his interest by 10% up to 25%), and Dugaboy Investment Trust (increasing its interest by 15% up to 74.9%). But, more importantly, on the day after entry of Mr. Terry's Final Judgment (i.e., on December 18, 2017), both Mr. Akada and Dugaboy Investment Trust conveyed their entire limited partnership interests in Acis LP—25% and 74.9%, respectively—to a Cayman Island entity called Neutra, Ltd., a Cayman Islands exempted company. Dugaboy Investment Trust also conveyed its 100% membership interest in Acis GP/LLC to Neutra, Ltd. Mr. Akada testified that he did this on advice of counsel. He also did not dispute that he had made millions of dollars of equity dividends from his equity investment in Acis LP in recent years⁵¹—which he conveyed away for no consideration on December 18, 2017.

- (h) The Intended Reset of Acis CLO 2014-3. With all of the above maneuverings having been accomplished, Highland was posed to do a reset on Acis CLO 2014-3 in February 2018 (until Mr. Terry filed the Involuntary Petitions). The investment bank Mizuho Securities USA, LLC was engaged November 15, 2017⁵² and a final offering circular was issued in January 2018⁵³—contemplating a reset of Acis CLO 20-14-3 with the recently created Highland CLO Management Ltd.

Identified as the new portfolio manager, rather than Acis LP. The act of implementing a reset on the CLO was not in itself suspect. However, the reset would, of course, have the effect of depriving Acis LP from a valuable asset—an agreement that could realistically be expected to provide millions of dollars of future collateral management fees—coincidentally (or not) just after Mr. Terry obtained his large judgment.

D. Findings Regarding Credibility of Witnesses.

32. The court found the testimony of Mr. Terry to be very credible. He was very familiar with the financial condition of the Alleged Debtors, since he presided over the business of the Alleged Debtors from their inception until June 9, 2016, and has also closely followed publicly available information regarding the companies since his termination. Mr. Terry credibly testified that the Alleged Debtors have never had a significant number of creditors, since most of the Alleged Debtors' vendors are engaged by and send their invoices to Highland, and Highland simply obtains reimbursement from the Alleged Debtors (and other entities in the Highland family), as its in-house lawyers determine is appropriate, through the Shared Services Agreement and Sub-Advisory Agreement. Thus, Highland should at all times be the Alleged Debtors' main creditor. The court finds that Mr. Terry had a good faith belief that the Alleged Debtors had only a handful of creditors (maybe four or so) besides him and Highland. The court also finds that Mr. Terry—at the time he filed the Involuntary Petitions—had a good faith belief that the Alleged Debtors and those controlling them were engaged in an orchestrated, sophisticated effort to denude the Alleged Debtors of their assets and value (i.e., transferring assets and rights for less than reasonably equivalent value), which started with intensity after issuance of the Arbitration Award (if not sooner).⁵⁴

33. The court found the testimony of almost all of the witnesses for the Alleged Debtors to be of questionable reliability and, oftentimes, there seemed to be an effort to convey plausible deniability. For example, sometimes business decisions concerning the Alleged Debtors were said to have been made by a “collective,” and other times the in-house Highland lawyers (who, of course, are not themselves officers or employees of Acis LP and Acis GP/LLC) stressed that Mr. Dondero (the president and manager of the two entities) had ultimate decision making authority for them. Meanwhile, Mr. Dondero testified that, while he has decision making authority at Acis LP, he usually delegates to Highland’s in-house lawyers Scott Ellington and Isaac Leventon. He testified that he signs hundreds of documents per week and often must rely on information of others when signing. Additionally, Mr. Dondero (again, the President of each of the Alleged Debtors) testified that he had never even read the Arbitration Award. While Mr. Dondero is the chief executive of a multi-billion dollar international investment company, and naturally has widespread responsibilities and must delegate to and rely upon others including lawyers, this court simply does not believe that he never read the Arbitration Award. The court perceived the animosity between Mr. Dondero and Mr. Terry to be rather enormous and Mr. Dondero even testified (as did others) that the litigation with Mr. Terry was hurting Acis LP and Highland in the CLO marketplace (i.e., no investors or underwriters wanting to be associated with the Acis brand).⁵⁵ If that were the case, it strains credulity to suggest Mr. Dondero never even read the Arbitration Award.

34. As mentioned earlier, in December 2017, Acis GP/LLC became 100% owned by a Cayman Island entity known as Neutra, Ltd. (whose beneficial owner is a Dondero family trust) and Acis LP became 99.9% owned by Neutra, Ltd. The directors of Acis GP/LLC and Acis LP are provided to it now by an entity known as “Maples Fiduciary Services”—another Cayman Island entity, but the Highland Assistant General Counsel could not remember the names of those directors provided to Acis GP/LLC and Acis LP, except for perhaps one. Mr. Dondero, when questioned about some of the recent transactions pertaining to Acis LP, testified that there were tax reasons—tax lawyers recommended the recent transactions and transfers. No tax lawyers testified. Mr. Dondero also testified that certain transactions were at the directive of the Thomas Surgent group (the Highland chief compliance officer). Neither Mr. Surgent nor anyone else from the compliance group testified.

35. Meanwhile, Mr. Akada, who, while testifying, seemed like a generally lovely person and seemed as knowledgeable as a human being could possibly be on the topic of CLOs generally, had no idea if he was an officer or director of the Alleged Debtors, nor did he know whom its officers were. He could not testify as to the meaning of certain transactions in which Acis LP had engaged in during recent weeks and said that he signed certain documents on advice of counsel. He also could not even testify as to whether Highland was opposing the Involuntary Petitions.

36. Again, there was a lot of plausible deniability at Trial as to the “whos” and “whys” for the recent maneuverings involving the Alleged Debtors assets and rights in the weeks since the Arbitration Award. The one thing that the court was wholly convinced of was that conflicts of interest among Highland and the Alleged Debtors abound, and no one is looking out for the interests of the Alleged Debtors as a fiduciary should.

⁵⁵ No such investors or underwriters provided testimony.

E. Evidence Regarding the Number of Creditors of the Alleged Debtors.⁵⁶

37. The Alleged Debtors do not dispute Mr. Terry's claim for the purposes of counting creditors under section 303(b) of the Bankruptcy Code. However, Mr. Terry asserts that the Alleged Debtors have fewer than 12 creditors, and the Alleged Debtors dispute this fact. Specifically, the Alleged Debtors initially filed on January 31, 2018, a Notice of List of Creditors Pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr. P. 1003(b) signed by Mr. Dondero listing 18 creditors (the "Original Notice of Creditors").⁵⁷ The Alleged Debtors subsequently filed on February 5, 2018, a First Amended Notice of List of Creditors Pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr. P. 1003(b) signed by Mr. Leventon listing 19 creditors (the "First Amended Notice of Creditors").⁵⁸ Finally, the Alleged Debtors filed on March 6, 2018, a Second Amended Notice of List of Creditors Pursuant to Fed. R. Bank. P. 1003(b) signed by Mr. Leventon listing 20 creditors (the "Second Amended List of Creditors").⁵⁹ The following chart summarizes the name, amount, and nature of the 20 creditors listed by the Alleged Debtors in their Second Amended List of Creditors.

⁵⁶ The court notes that neither Mr. Terry nor the Alleged Debtors attempted to differentiate between the creditors of Acis GP/LLC versus the creditors of Acis LP, but rather presented evidence regarding the collective number of creditors for both of the Alleged Debtors. This seems legally appropriate, since Acis LP is the entity that incurred most of the debt, and ACIS GP/LLC would be liable on such debt as the general partner of Acis LP.

38. First, the court believes it necessary to remove certain insider creditor claims, which are required not to be counted pursuant to section 303(b)(2) of the Bankruptcy Code.⁶¹ This would clearly include Highland (the Alleged Debtors do not dispute this).

⁶⁰ The dollar amounts listed here are based upon the amounts listed in the Second Amended List of Creditors.

⁶¹ In re Moss, 249 B.R. 411, 419 n. 6 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2000).

39. Additionally, there were certain creditors that filed sworn statements saying they were not creditors of the Alleged Debtors or were subsequently removed from the creditor list by agreement of the Alleged Debtors. These creditors would include Case Anywhere, CSI Global Deposition Services,⁶² Elite Document Technology, JAMS, Inc.,⁶³ Stanton Advisors LLC,⁶⁴ and the TASA Group, Inc..⁶⁵ Thus, the updated chart now shows 13 creditors of the Alleged Debtors.

⁶³ JAMS, Inc. was removed as a creditor by agreement of the Alleged Debtors.

40. Next, the court finds that there are certain creditors included in the “Law Firm Vendor” category (e.g., experts, data hosting, document managers, court reporters) that are really creditors of the individual law firms and/or Highland, and that these law firm vendor creditors should not be considered creditors of the Alleged Debtors. For these, there was no evidence of a direct contractual obligation on the part of either the Alleged Debtors or Highland—although the court certainly understands that, when the law firms would retain vendors, they would bill these to either the Alleged Debtors or Highland as an expense to be reimbursed. Most of these were already eliminated with agreement of the Alleged Debtors but, from the remaining list of creditors, this would include David Langford (a Dallas County court reporter).⁶⁶ To be clear, while the individual law firm creditors may ultimately have a right to reimbursement for these vendor expenses from Highland (who may then potentially have a right to reimbursement from the Alleged Debtors via the Shared Services and Sub-Advisory Agreements), the court does not find this vendor to have a claim directly against the Alleged Debtors for purposes of section 303(b) of the Bankruptcy Code.

⁶⁶ See Exh. 40D, Exh. 187, Exh. 40O.

41. Next, as to the Stanton Law Firm, the court finds that this creditor should also be removed from the pool of creditors that “count,” for section 303(b) purposes, since this claim appears to be the subject of a “bona fide dispute as to liability or amount,”⁶⁷ based on the evidence presented at the Trial. First, there was no engagement letter between either of the Alleged Debtors and the Stanton Law Firm produced.⁶⁸ Second, the heavily redacted invoice of the Stanton Law Firm dated October 18, 2016 shows only that it was relating to the “Joshua Terry Matter” and that it was billed to Highland.⁶⁹ Third, the Responses and Objections to Mr. Terry’s Notice of Intention to Take Depositions by Written Questions sent to the Stanton Law Firm⁷⁰ provides the following responses:

Question No. 11: What is the total amount of debt Acis Capital Management L.P. to the Firm. is liable to the Firm.

Answer: Acis Capital Management L.P.’s debt to the Firm is unknown at this time.

Question No. 12: What is the total amount of debt Acis Capital Management GP, LLC is liable for to the firm?

Answer: Acis Capital Management GP, LLC to the Firm is unknown at this time.

Question No. 13: Is any other party also liable for the debt of Acis Capital Management L.P. to the Firm? If so, please state the liable party and portion of Acis Capital Management L.P. debt the other party is liable for to the Firm.

⁶⁷ See Credit Union Liquidity Servs., L.L.C. v. Green Hills Dev. Co., L.L.C. (In re Green Hills Dev. Co., L.L.C.), 741 F.3d 651, 655 (5th Cir. 2014) (a claimholder does not have standing to file a petition under section 303(b) if its claim is “the subject of a bona fide dispute as to liability or amount”); In re Smith, 415 B.R. 222, 237 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2009) (only “a holder of a claim ... that is not contingent as to liability or the subject of a bona fide dispute as to liability or amount” is counted in determining the number of creditors necessary to file an involuntary petition).

⁶⁸ Rather, there is only an engagement letter between Lackey Hershman LLP (acting on behalf of its client, Highland) and Stanton Advisors LLC to act as an expert in the Terry litigation. See Exh. 144. As previously noted, the claim of Stanton Advisors LLC was removed from the creditor list by agreement of the Alleged Debtors.

⁶⁹ See Exh. 40R.

⁷⁰ The court notes that these responses were actually signed by James Michael Stanton, attorney for Stanton LLP. See Exh. 139.

Answer: Whether any other party is also liable to the firm for the debt of Acis Capital Management, L.P. is unknown at this time.

Question No. 14: Is any other party also liable for the debt of Acis Capital Management GP, LLC to Firm? If so, please state the liable party and portion of Acis Capital Management GP, LLC debt the other party is liable for to the Firm.

Answer: Whether any other party is also liable for the debt of Acis Capital Management GP, LLC is unknown at this time. . . .

Question No. 21: Does the Firm currently represent Acis Capital Management, L.P.? If so, please state the representation.

Answer: Based on Acis's assertion that this question calls for information protected by the attorney-client privilege, the Firm cannot answer this question at this time.

Question No. 22: Does the Firm currently represent Acis Capital Management GP, LLC? If so, please state the representation?

Answer: Based on Acis's assertion that this question calls for information protected by the attorney-client privilege, the Firm cannot answer this question at this time. . . .⁷¹

The court finds that this evidence demonstrates that the claim of the Stanton Law Firm is the subject of a bona fide dispute as to either liability or amount and should not be counted since there is no real way of even knowing who the Stanton Law Firm was engaged by and, thus, whether the Alleged Debtors are even responsible for these alleged legal fees. The court would also specifically refer to the testimony of Mr. Leventon, the in-house lawyer employed by Highland who was in charge of allocating all of the bills that came into Highland's legal invoicing system, where he described a process in which all legal bills relating to the "Terry Matter" would automatically be assigned to the Alleged Debtors, without any real regard to whether the particular law firm had even been engaged by the Alleged Debtors or if whether the representation was actually relating to one of the other parties in the Terry litigation (e.g., Highland, Mr. Dondero, etc.). Accordingly, the court finds that there is a bona fide dispute as to whether the Alleged Debtors are actually liable for the Stanton Law Firm legal fees and that they should not be counted as a creditor for purposes of section 303(b) of the Bankruptcy Code.⁷²

⁷¹ See Exhibit 139.

42. Thus, it appears, at most, that there are 11 creditors⁷³ of the Alleged Debtors as set forth in the chart below:

Creditor No.	Creditor Name	Nature of Claim	Total Indebtedness
1	Andrews Kurth	Legal Fees	$211,088.13
2	Case Anywhere, LLC	Law Firm Vendor	$417.20

⁷² See also In re CorrLine Int'l, LLC, 516 B.R. 106, 152 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 2014) (bankruptcy court found that creditors contained in the alleged debtor's list of creditors with uncertain or unknown amounts could not be counted towards the numerosity requirement of section 303(b)).

⁷³ The court notes that, in all likelihood, the list of creditors that should be tallied for purposes of section 303(b) may actually be less than 11, because certain of the remaining creditors (i.e., Drexel Limited, Highfield Equities, Inc., Lackey Hershman LLP, and David Simek) received payments during the 90 days preceding the Petition Date—and, thus, arguably should not be counted as creditors pursuant to section 303(b) of the Bankruptcy Code (which instructs that transferees of voidable transfers should not be counted). See, e.g., Exh. 124 & Exh. 131. Additionally, certain of the remaining law firm creditors that are owed legal fees are also creditors of Highland and Highland-affiliates, not just the Alleged Debtors. To elaborate, many of these law firm creditors were employed to represent not only the Alleged Debtors, but also Highland and Highland-affiliates, so there may be an actual dispute as to the allocation of these legal fees among Highland and the Alleged Debtors (thus there could be bona fide disputes as to the amounts allocated by Highland's in-house lawyers to the Alleged Debtors). See, e.g., Ex. 123 (McKool Smith, P.C. engagement letter referencing representation of numerous parties) & Exhibit 90 (Reid Collins & Tsai's Answers and Objections to Mr. Terry's Deposition by Written Questions, questions 13 & 14, stating that based upon allocation determinations to be made by Highland, other individuals may be liable for the full amount of the debt including Acis LP, Highland, Mr. Dondero, and Mr. Okada).

43. Finally, on the topic of creditor numerosity, the court further finds that the evidence strongly suggested hurried manufacturing of creditors on the part of the Alleged Debtors and Highland, in order to bolster an argument that having a sole petitioning creditor was legally inadequate in this case.⁷⁵ For example, the Klos Declaration and other information, that was provided to State Court 2 and in discovery, only days before the Involuntary Petitions were filed, ⁷⁴ Mr. Terry has also argued that certain of the law firm creditors (McKool Smith, P.C., Lackey Hershman, LLP, and Reid Collins & Tsai) are “insiders” that must be excluded from the creditor list pursuant to section 303(b) of the Bankruptcy Code. While there may be some support in case law for such an argument, Mr. Terry would ultimately need to show by a preponderance of the evidence that the law firms exercised such control or influence over the Alleged Debtors as to render their transactions not at arm’s length. See In re CorrLine Intern., LLC, 516 B.R. 106, 157-58 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 2014) (citing to Kepler v. Schmalbach (In re Lemanski), 56 B.R. 981, 983 (Bankr.W.D.Wis.1986)). See also In re Holloway, 955 F.2d 1008, 1011 (5th Cir. 1992) (in evaluating whether insider status existed for purposes of evaluating alleged fraudulent conveyance court considered (1) the closeness of the relationship between the transferee and the debtor; and (2) whether the transactions between the transferee and the debtor were conducted at arm’s length). Because there was no evidence suggesting abuse or control by these law firm creditors, nor was there any evidence that would suggest that their dealings with the Alleged Debtors were anything but arm’s length, the court finds that these law firm creditors should not be excluded from the creditor list as “insiders” pursuant to section 303(b) of the Bankruptcy Code.

⁷⁵ See the Original Notice of Creditors, the First Amended Notice of Creditors, and the Second Amended Notice of Creditors.

seemed to show only a small number of creditors of Acis LP—Mr. Terry credibly testified that he thought there were less than 12 creditors based on his review of such information, as well as his understanding of the Alleged Debtors’ business. Yet, only a few days later, the Alleged Debtors filed their Original Notice of Creditors, which showed 18 creditors, which was amended twice to add another creditor and then yet another. This simply does not jive in the court’s mind and supports this court’s belief that the Alleged Debtors were scurrying to determine which Highland creditors might cogently be painted as Acis LP creditors—so as to preclude Mr. Terry from being able to file the Involuntary Petitions as the single, petitioning creditor.

F. Evidence Regarding Whether the Alleged Debtors are Generally Not Paying Debts as They Become Due (Unless Such Debts are the Subject of a Bona Fide Dispute as to Liability or Amount).

44. The evidence submitted reflects that, for the 11 creditors identified above, 9 out of 11 have unpaid invoices that were more than 90 days old. The remaining 2 of the 11 were McKool Smith, P.C. (current counsel for the Alleged Debtors) and the Petitioning Creditor.⁷⁶ The court makes findings with regard to each of the 11 creditors below—focusing specifically on whether the Alleged Debtors have been paying these creditors as their debts have become due.

45. First, with regard to Andrews Kurth & Kenyon (“AKK”), the evidence reflected that out of the $211,088.13 allegedly owed by Acis LP to AKK, the great majority of it—$173,448.42—was invoiced on November 16, 2016⁷⁷ (more than 14 months before the Petition Date). Other, smaller amounts were invoiced on a monthly basis in each of the months August 2017, September 2017, October 2017, November 2017, and December 2017. Although requested in discovery, no engagement letter for AKK was produced and AKK represented in written discovery that, to its knowledge, none existed.⁷⁸ The court notes anecdotally that AKK's invoices (although allegedly related to Acis LP legal matters) were addressed to Highland.⁷⁹ In any event, AKK represented that both the Alleged Debtors and Highland are jointly and severally liable for the fees owed to it.⁸⁰ AKK also represented that, to its knowledge, the amounts owing to it by Acis LP and Highland are not disputed.⁸¹ AKK also represented that it has not provided legal work on a contingency basis for the Alleged Debtors or Highland.⁸² The court makes a logical inference that AKK expected timely payment of its invoices—the largest of which was dated more than 14 months prior to the Petition Date—and, thus, it has generally not been paid timely.

46. Next, with regard to Drexel Limited, the Petitioning Creditor concedes that its $6,359.96 indebtedness (which is a fee rebate owing to it) is not past-due.

47. Next, with regard to Highfield Equities, Inc., the Petitioning Creditor concedes that its $2,510.04 indebtedness (which is also a fee rebate owing to it) is not past-due.

48. Next, with regard to the Jones Day law firm, the $368.75 indebtedness owed to it is well more than 90 days old. Specifically, there is a six-and-a-half-month old invoice dated July 19, 2017 invoice in the amount of $118.75, and two five-month old invoices dated August 30, 2017 (both in the amount of $150).⁸³ The court makes a logical inference that Jones Day expected timely payment of its invoices prior to the Petition Date and, thus, it has generally not been paid timely.

49. Next with regard to the Petitioning Creditor, Mr. Terry, the court notes that his liquidated claim in the amount of $8,060,827.84 first arose with the final Arbitration Award on October 20, 2017 (although such award was not confirmed by State Court 2 until December 18, 2017). The judgment was unstayed as of the January 30, 2018 Petition Date, although the Alleged Debtors state that they still desire to appeal it—as difficult as that is in the situation of an arbitration award. The court makes a logical inference that the Alleged Debtors had, on the Petition Date, no intention of paying this claim any time soon based on their conduct after the Arbitration Award—although the Arbitration Award had only been in existence for three-and-a-half months as of the Petition Date. The cash in the Alleged Debtors’ bank accounts is wholly insufficient to cover the Arbitration Award and, meanwhile, corporate transactions have been ongoing to ensure that no cash streams will be coming into Acis LP in the future in the same way that they have in the past. Thus, this court finds that this large claim, as of the Petition Date, was not being paid timely.

50. Next with regard to KPMG LLP, the $34,000 indebtedness owed to it was for the service of auditing Acis LP’s financial statements, pursuant to an engagement letter with it dated March 1, 2017.⁸⁴ KPMG’s engagement letter reflected a $40,000 flat fee was agreed to by Acis LP for the service, of which 40% was due October 2017 (i.e., $16,000), with another 45% was due in January 2018 ($18,000), and the remaining 15% would be due at the time that a final bill was sent. Acis LP has only paid $6,000 of the agreed upon amount—meaning $28,000 was overdue as of the January 30, 2018 Petition Date (with $10,000 of that being four months past due). The court makes a logical inference that KPMG LLP expected payment of its audit fees in accordance with its engagement letter and, thus, it has generally not been paid timely.

51. Next with regard to Lackey Hershman LLP, the $236,977.54 indebtedness owed to it was for legal services provided to the Alleged Debtors and Highland in connection with the arbitration and litigation with Mr. Terry. No engagement letter was provided, but the invoices for their services are all directed to Highland.⁸⁵ The evidence reflected that three invoices had not been paid as of the Petition Date: an October 31, 2017 invoice in the amount of $56,909.53; a November 30, 2017 invoice setting forth new fees in the amount of $84,789.83; and a December 31, 2017 invoice setting forth new fees in the amount of $95,278.18.⁸⁶ The court makes a logical inference that Lackey Hershman LLP expected prompt payment on its invoices (if nothing else, the statement on its invoice indicating “Total now due”)⁸⁷ and, thus, it has generally not been paid timely.

52. Next with regard to Reid Collins & Tsai LLP, the $17,383.75 indebtedness owed to it was billed in an invoice dated August 31, 2017, indicating an August 31, 2017 “Due Date” (five months before the Petition Date).⁸⁸ Although requested in discovery, no engagement letter for this firm was produced and Reid Collins & Tsai LLP in fact represented in written discovery that none existed.⁸⁹ Moreover, written discovery propounded on the law firm indicated that, while Acis LP was liable on this debt, other parties including Acis GP/LLC, Highland, Mr.

Dondero, the Dugaboy Trust, and Mr. Akada might also be liable for the full amount of the debt—subject to Highland’s allocation determinations.⁹⁰ Based on this evidence, the court makes a logical inference that Reid Collins & Tsai LLP generally has not been paid timely.

53. Next with regard to CT Corporation and the $517.12 indebtedness that the Alleged Debtors represent is owed, CT Corporation asserts that $4,074.84 is, in fact, owed to it by Acis LP and Acis GP/LLC.⁹¹ CT Corporation also believes Highland has liability for the Alleged Debtors’ indebtedness.⁹² CT Corporation also believes the amount owed to it is undisputed.⁹³ CT Corporation further represents that its invoices are due upon receipt.⁹⁴ CT Corporation produced several invoices in discovery, all showing due upon receipt, and one was dated as far back as December 31, 2016 (in the amount of $932).⁹⁵ Based on this evidence, the court makes a logical inference that CT Corporation expected prompt payment on its invoices and, thus, has not been paid timely.

54. Next with regard to David Simek, the Petitioning Creditor concedes that his $1,233.19 indebtedness (which is apparently an expense reimbursement relating to some consulting) is not past-due.

55. In summary, the evidence reflects that the creditors of the Alleged Debtors are generally not being paid timely (except for perhaps four that are relatively insignificant and which may also be able to look to Highland for payment).⁹⁶

56. Further on the topic of timeliness, Mr. Leventon (Highland's in-house Assistant General Counsel) testified that 96% of bills submitted get paid more than 90 days after they are submitted, that approximately 70% of bills are later than 120 days after they are submitted, and some are even later than 150 days. Mr. Leventon testified that this was a result of Acis LP receiving cash on a quarterly basis from the CLOs. He further elaborated and testified that, for example, if Acis LP got cash on say February 1st, and it received a legal bill on that same day, that he would probably not approve it and allocate it until say February 8th. By that time, Acis LP would have already used up all its cash, and that particular creditor would need to wait until the next quarterly payment was received in order to be paid. He further testified that he explained this to law firms before their engagements and that, if they wanted the business, they would need to understand the process. There are several things the court finds problematic about this testimony. First, no testimony was offered showing that this was, in fact, the understanding of the law firms or other creditors, and, moreover, none of the engagement letters or invoices submitted into evidence reflect such payment terms. Without this additional evidence, the court believes that the Alleged Debtors' testimony regarding how it paid invoices was mostly self-serving and did not support a finding that the Alleged Debtors were generally paying their debts

⁹⁶ Courts have also held that a debtor is generally not paying its debts as they become due when a debtor is found to have been transferring assets so as to avoid paying creditors. See, e.g., In re Moss, 249 B.R. 411, 423 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2000) (bankruptcy court determined that an alleged debtor was not paying its debts as they came due when the alleged debtor "attempted to delay creditors through the transfers of assets she has made," concluding that "[the alleged debtor's] overall conduct of her financial affairs has been poor"). This court has also found that there may have been significant transfers of the Alleged Debtors' assets prior to the filing of the Involuntary Petitions to potentially avoid paying creditors (i.e., Mr. Terry) and this may provide further support for the court's finding that the Alleged Debtors are generally not paying their debts as they become due under section 303(h).

II. Conclusions of Law

Section 303 of the Bankruptcy Code sets forth the various requirements for initiating an involuntary bankruptcy case. First, pursuant to section 303(b) of the Bankruptcy Code, an involuntary case may be filed against a person by the filing with the bankruptcy court of a petition under Chapter 7—

(1) by three or more entities, each of which is either a holder of a claim against such person that is not contingent as to liability or the subject of a bona fide dispute as to liability or amount ... [that] aggregate at least $15,775 more than the value of any lien on property of the debtor securing such claims held by the holders of such claims;

(2) if there are fewer than 12 such holders, excluding any employee or insider of such person and any transferee of a transfer that is voidable under section 544, 545, 547, 548, 549, or 724(a) of this title, by one or more of such holders that hold in the aggregate at least $15,775 of such claims . . .¹⁰⁰

Thus, if there are twelve or more eligible creditors holding qualified claims on the Petition Date, three or more entities must participate in the involuntary filing and must hold unsecured claims aggregating $15,775.00. If there are less than twelve creditors, a single creditor with an unsecured claim of $15,775.00 may file the involuntary petition. To the extent a bankruptcy court finds that the requisite number of petitioning creditors have commenced the involuntary case, the court shall order relief against the debtor under the chapter under which the petition was filed only if “the debtor is generally not paying such debtor’s debts as such debts become due unless such debts are the subject of a bona fide dispute as to liability or amount.”¹⁰¹

Here, as noted earlier, the Alleged Debtors have made four arguments as to why an order for relief should not be entered against the Alleged Debtors: (1) the Alleged Debtors have 12 or more creditors, and, thus, with Mr. Terry being the sole petitioning creditor, the Involuntary Petitions were not commenced by the requisite number of creditors; (2) the Alleged Debtors are generally paying their debts as they become due; (3) the Involuntary Petitions were filed in bad faith by Mr. Terry; (4) the interests of creditors and the debtors would be better served by dismissal and the court should abstain pursuant to section 305 of the Bankruptcy Code.

¹⁰⁰ 11 U.S.C.A § 303(b) (West 2018).

¹⁰¹ 11 U.S.C.A § 303(h) (West 2018).

A. Have the Requisite Number of Creditors Commenced the Involuntary Proceedings?

Pursuant to section 303(b)(2) of the Bankruptcy Code, a sole petitioning creditor holding at least $15,775 in claims can initiate an involuntary bankruptcy case so long as the alleged debtors have fewer than 12 creditors. After the Second Amended List of Creditors was filed, Mr. Terry had the burden, by a preponderance of the evidence, of showing that the Alleged Debtors actually had less than 12 qualified creditors.¹⁰² Here, the court has found that the Alleged Debtors have, at most, 11 qualified creditors.¹⁰³ Accordingly, Mr. Terry has met his burden of showing that the Alleged Debtors have less than 12 creditors for section 303(b) purposes, and that he, as the sole petitioning creditor, was permitted to file the Involuntary Petitions. While Mr. Terry has made additional arguments as to why certain of these 11 creditors should not be counted as creditors for purposes of section 303(b) of the Bankruptcy Code, the court does not believe it necessary to address these arguments at this time.¹⁰⁴

¹⁰³ To be clear, the court believes that even on these 11, there are likely bona fide disputes as to the liability or amount that Acis LP has—as opposed to the liability or amount that Highland or other insiders bear responsibility.

¹⁰⁴ Moreover, as previously stated, since the court has determined there are fewer than 12 creditors, the court need not address whether there is a “special circumstances” exception to the statutory requirements of section 303, in situations where an alleged debtor may have engaged in fraud, schemes, or artifice to thwart a creditor or creditors. See, e.g., In re Norriss Bros. Lumber Co., 133 B.R. 599 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 1991); In re Moss, 249 B.R. 411 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2000); In re Smith, 415 B.R. 222 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2009).

B. Are the Alleged Debtors Generally Paying Their Debts as They Become Due?

Section 303(h) of the Bankruptcy Code requires that a court shall enter order for relief in an involuntary case “if ... (1) the debtor is generally not paying such debtor's debts as such debts become due unless such debts are the subject of a bona fide dispute as to liability or amount”¹⁰⁵ Again, the burden is on the Petitioning Creditor to prove this element by a preponderance of the evidence.¹⁰⁶ The determination is made as of the filing date of the Involuntary Petitions.¹⁰⁷ In determining whether an alleged debtor is generally paying its debts as they come due, courts typically look to four factors: (i) the number of unpaid claims; (ii) the amount of such claims; (iii) the materiality of the non-payments; and (iv) the nature of the debtor's overall conduct in its financial affairs.¹⁰⁸ No one factor is more meritorious than another; what is most relevant depends on the facts of each case.¹⁰⁹ Courts typically hold that “generally not paying debts” includes regularly missing a significant number of payments or regularly missing payments which are significant in amount in relation to the size of the debtor's operation.¹¹⁰

Furthermore, any debt which the alleged debtor is not current on as of the petition date should be considered as a debt not being paid as it became due.¹¹¹

Here, the court concludes that the creditors of the Alleged Debtors—what few there are—are generally not being paid as their debts have become due (except for perhaps four¹¹² that are relatively insignificant and which may also be able to look to Highland for payment). Mr. Terry has met his burden by a preponderance of the evidence as to section 303(h) of the Bankruptcy Code.

C. With the Section 303 Statutory Requirements Being Met by the Petitioning Creditor, Should the Court, Nonetheless, Dismiss the Involuntary Petitions Because They Were Filed in Bad Faith?

Despite Mr. Terry meeting the necessary statutory requirements for this court to enter orders for relief as to the Alleged Debtors pursuant to section 303 of the Bankruptcy Code, the Alleged Debtors have argued that the Involuntary Petitions must, nonetheless, be dismissed because they were filed in “bad faith” by Mr. Terry. As support for this argument, the Alleged Debtors rely primarily on the Third Circuit’s decision in In re Forever Green Athletic Fields, Inc., 804 F.3d 328 (3d Cir. 2015). While the court certainly acknowledges that authority exists in other circuits that suggests that dismissal of an involuntary bankruptcy case may be appropriate—even when section 303’s statutory requirements have been met—based upon an debtors had ceased making interest payments; the unpaid debts represented 99.9% of the total dollar amount of debt of each of the alleged debtors); Crown Heights Jewish Cmty. Council, Inc. v. Fischer (In re Fischer), 202 B.R. 341, 350–51 (E.D.N.Y. 1996) (even though the debtor only had two outstanding debts, the total dollar amount failed to establish that, in terms of dollar amounts, the debtor was paying anywhere close to 50% of his liabilities, so he was not generally paying his debts as they became due); In re Smith, 415 B.R. 222, 231 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2009) (while the debtor was paying small recurring debts, he was not paying 99 percent of his debts in the aggregate amount and thus was not generally paying his debts as they became due).

independent finding of “bad faith,” the court need not ultimately decide the efficacy or applicability of such authority, because the court does not believe that the evidence demonstrated any “bad faith” on the part of Mr. Terry (or his counsel) in filing the Involuntary Petitions. Indeed, the evidence suggested that Mr. Terry and his counsel filed the Involuntary Petitions out of a legitimate concern that Highland was dismantling and denuding Acis LP of all of its assets and value and that a bankruptcy filing was the most effective and efficient way to preserve value for the Acis LP creditors. The court concludes that Mr. Terry was wholly justified in pursuing the Involuntary Petitions.

D. Should This Court, Nonetheless, Abstain and Dismiss the Involuntary Petitions Pursuant to Section 305 of the Bankruptcy Code?

Section 305(a)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code provides that:

- (a) The court, after notice and a hearing, may dismiss a case under this title, or may suspend all proceedings in a case under this title, at any time if—
(1) the interests of creditors and the debtor would be better served by such dismissal or suspension; . . .¹¹³

Courts construing section 305(a)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code have found that abstention in a properly filed bankruptcy case is an extraordinary remedy.¹¹⁴ Moreover, granting an abstention motion pursuant to section 305(a)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code requires more than a simple balancing of harm to the debtor and creditors; rather, the interests of both the debtor and its creditors must be served by granting the request to abstain.¹¹⁵ The moving party bears the burden to demonstrate that dismissal benefits the debtor and its creditors.¹¹⁶ Courts must look to the individual facts of each case to determine whether abstention is appropriate.¹¹⁷

Case law has set forth a litany of factors to be considered by the court to gauge the overall best interests of the creditors and the debtor for section 305(a)(1) purposes:

- (1) the economy and efficiency of administration;
- (2) whether another forum is available to protect the interests of both parties or there is already a pending proceeding in state court;
- (3) whether federal proceedings are necessary to reach a just and equitable solution;
- (4) whether there is an alternative means of achieving an equitable distribution of assets;
- (5) whether the debtor and the creditors are able to work out a less expensive out-of-court arrangement which better serves all interests in the case;
- (6) whether a non-federal insolvency has proceeded so far in those proceedings that it would be costly and time consuming to start afresh with the federal bankruptcy process; and
- (7) the purpose for which bankruptcy jurisdiction has been sought.¹¹⁸

While all factors are considered, not all are given equal weight in every case and the court should not conduct a strict balancing.¹¹⁹

i. Factor 1: The Economy and Efficiency of Administration.

Colo. 2001) (applied a four criteria test in evaluating section 305 abstention which included: (1) the motivation of the parties who sought bankruptcy jurisdiction; (2) whether another forum was available to protect the interests of both parties or there was already a pending proceeding in state court; (3) the economy and efficiency of administration; and (4) the prejudice to the parties). The Alleged Debtors cite to the case of In re Murray, 543 B.R. 484 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2016), in particular, as support for why this court should abstain under section 305(a) of the Bankruptcy Code and dismiss the Involuntary Petitions. However, in Murray, Judge Gerber was analyzing dismissal of an involuntary proceeding pursuant to section 707 of the Bankruptcy Code, more specifically for “cause,” and not based upon abstention under section 305(a) of the Bankruptcy Code. Thus, the court is not convinced Murray is relevant to this court’s section 305 abstention analysis.

The economy and efficiency of administering a case in the bankruptcy court is routinely evaluated in considering abstention under section 305 of the Bankruptcy Code. Here, the evidence suggests that the most economical and efficient forum for these parties to resolve their disputes is the bankruptcy court. The court heard ample evidence that the Alleged Debtors are already, essentially, in the process of being liquidated by Highland. This is not a situation where an ably-functioning, going-concern business is being foisted in disruptive fashion into a bankruptcy.¹²⁰ Because of the fact that the Alleged Debtors are already in the process of being liquidated, the bankruptcy court (and not a state court) is the most efficient and economical forum to complete this liquidation and distribute whatever assets remain to creditors in accordance with the distribution scheme set forth in the Bankruptcy Code and with the oversight of a neutral third-party trustee. Thus, with the bankruptcy court being the more economic and efficient forum for administering this case, this factor goes against abstention.

- ii. Factors 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6: Whether Another Forum is Available to Protect the Interests of Both Parties or There is Already a Pending Proceeding in State Court; Whether Federal Proceedings are Necessary to Reach a Just and Equitable Solution; Whether There is an Alternative Means of Achieving an Equitable Distribution of Assets; Whether the Debtor and the Creditors are Able to Work Out a Less Expensive Out-of-Court Arrangement Which Better Serves All Interests in the Case; and Whether a Non-Federal Insolvency Has Proceeded so Far in Those Proceedings That it Would Be Costly and Time Consuming to Start Afresh With the Federal Bankruptcy Process.

¹²⁰ See, e.g., In re The Ceiling Fan Distrib., Inc., 37 B.R. 701 (Bankr. M.D. La. 1983) (noting that while the dissection of a living business may not properly be the business of a bankruptcy court, the division of a “carcass” and the reclamation of pre-petition gouging may well be); In re Bos, 561 B.R. 868, 898-99 (Bankr. N.D. Fla. 2016) (citing as one of the reasons to abstain under section 305 of the Bankruptcy Code the fact that entities and subsidiaries under the alleged debtor’s umbrella were still operating successful businesses and had employed more than 500 people); but see Remex Elecs. Ltd. v. Axl Indus., Inc. (In re Axl Indus., Inc.), 127 B.R. 482, 484-86 (S.D. Fla. 1991) (in affirming the bankruptcy court’s decision to dismiss an involuntary bankruptcy case, the district court also found that “the interests of a defunct business enterprise would be little affected by the pendency of a bankruptcy proceeding,” which the district court believed favored abstention).

The court believes that factors 2-6 should be grouped together for purposes of its abstention analysis, since all of these factors specifically touch on the availability of an alternative forum to achieve an equitable distribution.¹²¹ By way of example, where bringing a case into the bankruptcy court would simply add an additional layer of expense to the resolution of a two-party dispute and another forum already provides a suitable place to resolve the dispute, some courts have found that abstention is the more appropriate choice since keeping the case would transform the bankruptcy process into a collection device.¹²² Here, the Alleged Debtors have repeatedly argued that, because there is already pending state court litigation involving Mr. Terry, Highland, and the Alleged Debtors, these cases should be dismissed and the parties should go back to state court to resolve their issues. The court does not agree for several reasons.

First, it is worth noting that this court has already heard multiple days of evidence in this case (including almost five days just for the Trial) and would certainly not be “starting afresh” by any means if things go forward in the bankruptcy court. Additionally, while the Alleged Debtors have argued that a significant amount of attorney’s fees have already been spent litigating this case in state court (which they believe supports abstention), the court surmises that these fees have not been wasted dollars, as the money expended by the parties developed discovery of facts that could assist a bankruptcy trustee in pursuing avoidance actions that may be viable and might lead to value that could pay creditors’ claims.¹²³

¹²³ See, e.g., The Ceiling Fan Distributor, Inc., 37 B.R. at 703 (the court noted that, despite there being significant legal expenses in the state court, such expenses were not wasted since the legal work done to date would be quite helpful to a trustee).

Second, this court heard considerable evidence involving potentially voidable transfers that may have occurred involving the Alleged Debtors and Highland/Highland-affiliates and, while the state court certainly provides a forum for eventually bringing fraudulent transfer claims, the court also heard evidence that none of these claims have actually been brought in the state court.¹²⁴ Moreover, to the extent fraudulent transfer claims were to be pursued in state court and were successful, the state court would still need the ability to reach the assets of alleged fraudulent transfer recipients (which, in this situation, include certain Highland-affiliates located in the Cayman Islands). The bankruptcy court has concerns whether a state court process could efficiently accomplish this task.¹²⁵ Similarly, it is worth noting that, while a request for a receiver was filed in the state court by Mr. Terry, such request had not yet been heard and decided by the state court. Thus, at the present time, it does not appear that there is an alternative forum to address the pertinent issues in this case, without the necessity of significant, additional steps being taken by the parties in the state court.

Third, this court believes that a federal bankruptcy proceeding is necessary in order to achieve an equitable result in this case. Specifically, the court heard evidence from the Alleged Debtors that, if this court chose to abstain and dismiss the Involuntary Petitions, the Alleged Debtors would ultimately pay all of their creditors in full, except for Mr. Terry. This clearly demonstrates how keeping the case in the bankruptcy court is necessary to allow an equitable ¹²⁴ See, e.g., In re Texas EMC Mgmt., LLC, Nos. 11-40008 & 11-40017, 2012 WL 627844, at *3 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 2012) (noting that one of the reasons abstention was proper under section 305 of the Bankruptcy Code was because the issues to be litigated amongst the parties were already joined in the state court litigation); Spade, 258 B.R. at 236 (court held that one of the reasons abstention was warranted under section 305 of the Bankruptcy Code was because the petitioning creditors had already filed and had pending a “collection case” in the state court).

In summation, the court finds that all of the factors above support this case staying with the bankruptcy court.

The Alleged Debtors have repeatedly argued that Mr. Terry filed this case in bad faith and as a litigation tactic to gain some sort of advantage in the state court proceedings. The court has already found above that these cases were not filed in bad faith and that Mr. Terry has met the necessary statutory requirements of section 303 of the Bankruptcy Code. Moreover, it is worth noting that at least one court has stated that the filing of an involuntary bankruptcy petition is always a “litigation tactic,” but whether the filing is inappropriate for abstention purposes is a fact-dependent determination.¹²⁶ Here, the facts show that there was no inappropriateness behind Mr. Terry's decision to file the Involuntary Petitions. Specifically, Mr. Terry repeatedly and credibly testified that the purpose for filing the Involuntary Petitions was to ensure that creditors (including him) were treated fairly and received an equal distribution from the Alleged Debtors' assets, not to gain some sort of advantage in the state court. This testimony was absolutely consistent with additional evidence showing that, since the entry of the arbitration award, there has been a calculated effort (largely by Highland) to effectively liquidate the Alleged Debtors. Unlike the bankruptcy court in In re Selectron Mgmt. Corp.,¹²⁷ which had no evidence or "smoking gun" showing that steps were being taken by the alleged debtor to evade payment on the petitioning creditor's judgment, thereby necessitating abstention, this court has heard ample evidence showing that the Alleged Debtors, with the aid of Highland, were transferring assets away from the Alleged Debtors, so that Mr. Terry would have nowhere to look at the end of the day.

In light of the court's analysis of all the seven factors above, the Alleged Debtors have not credibly shown how both the Alleged Debtors and the creditors are better served outside of bankruptcy. If this matter were to remain outside of bankruptcy, there seems to be a legitimate prospect that the Alleged Debtors and Highland will continue dismantling the Alleged Debtors, to the detriment of Acis LP creditors. Abstention would fly in the face of fundamental fairness and the principles underlying the Bankruptcy Code.

Beyond just addressing the factors above, the Alleged Debtors have also argued that, if this court were to not abstain under section 305 of the Bankruptcy Code, there would be

Sept. 16, 2008) (finding that where the filing of a voluntary chapter 11 did not appear to be about insuring a distribution to creditors or winding down or giving a soft landing to a business or avoiding dismantling and dissipation of valuable assets or preserving avoidance actions, but rather was about changing the forum of ongoing litigation between the parties, abstention under section 305 was proper).

significant harm to the “equity” of the Alleged Debtors. Specifically, the Alleged Debtors have argued that, if this court were to enter orders for relief, the equity would be forced to “call” and ultimately liquidate CLO 2014-3 (and perhaps all of the CLOs Acis LP manages), resulting in substantial losses to the equity on their investments. First, to be clear, the current equity of the Alleged Debtors is being held by a Highland-affiliate called Neutra, Ltd., which actually only became the equity of the Alleged Debtors on December 19, 2017. But this is not the “equity” being referred to by the Alleged Debtors in its argument. Rather, the so-called “equity,” about which the Alleged Debtors seemed so concerned, is actually certain parties that own the equity of the entity that owns the equity in the CLOs—which includes (a) an unnamed third-party investor out of Boston (49%),¹²⁸ (b) a charitable foundation managed by a Highland-affiliate (49%), and (c) Highland employees (2%). However, abstention under section 305 of the Bankruptcy Code does not require this court to look at what is in the best interests of these third-parties (who are not current creditors or interest holders of the Alleged Debtors), but rather what is in the best interests of the Alleged Debtors and the creditors. Accordingly, the Alleged Debtors’ effort to argue potential harm to these parties is misplaced for purposes of evaluating abstention under section 305 of the Bankruptcy Code, and, if anything, further highlights who the Alleged Debtors are really out to protect—Highland and Highland-affiliates. Moreover, the court would note that, even if there were to be a “call” and liquidation of CLO 2014-3, thereby ending the Alleged Debtors’ right to receive future management fees, there would still be potential assets for a chapter 7 trustee to administer such as chapter 5 causes of action (which include fraudulent transfers) as well as the Alleged Debtors’ contingent claim for approximately ¹²⁸ Notably, this entity never appeared at the Trial or filed papers stating that it would be harmed by entry of orders for relief in these cases.

$3 million in expense reimbursement owing by Highland CLO Management Ltd., as part of the November 3, 2017 transfer of the Acis LP Note Receivable from Highland. Thus, even if the so-called doomsday scenario of an equity call on CLO 2014-3 (or other CLOs) were to happen, there is still a potential benefit to creditors if this court chooses not to abstain.

III. CONCLUSION

In conclusion, these involuntary proceedings were appropriately filed under section 303, and orders for relief will be issued forthwith. This court declines to exercise its discretion to abstain, because a chapter 7 trustee appears necessary to halt the post-Arbitration Award transactions and transfers of value out of Acis LP, as discussed above. A chapter 7 trustee appears necessary to resolve the inherent conflicts of interest between the Alleged Debtors and Highland. A chapter 7 trustee will have tools available to preserve value that a state court receiver will not have. The bankruptcy court is single handedly the most efficient place to administer property of the estate for creditors. This is not just a two party dispute between Mr. Terry and the Alleged Debtors, and even if it were, dismissal or abstention is clearly not warranted.

ADVERSARY NO. 18-03078-SGJ

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER DENYING MOTION TO COMPEL ARBITRATION [DE # 102]

I. Introduction.

Before this court is a Motion to Compel Arbitration (the “Arbitration Motion”),¹ requesting that the bankruptcy court send to arbitration only a sub-set of claims asserted in the above-referenced adversary proceeding (the “Adversary Proceeding”). Some procedural context is crucial in analyzing the merits of the Arbitration Motion and, thus, is set forth immediately below.

This Adversary Proceeding has morphed into a large, complex lawsuit—at this stage primarily involving 35 claims, 20 of which are grounded in fraudulent transfer theories.² The Arbitration Motion, as explained below, seeks arbitration of eight of the 35 claims (i.e., Counts 1-8).

The Arbitration Motion was filed by party Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“Highland”). Highland and a related company, Highland CLO Funding Ltd. (“HCLOF”), were originally the plaintiffs in this Adversary Proceeding, suing the Chapter 11 Trustee for injunctive relief (arguing early during the above-referenced Chapter 11 bankruptcy cases that the Chapter 11 Trustee was interfering with their business rights and decisions, essentially). The Chapter 11 Trustee fired back with 35 counterclaims against Highland and HCLOF (adding three parties related to Highland as third-party defendants with regard to some of those 35 counterclaims). Notably, these 35 counterclaims—as directed toward Highland—were also alleged to be objections to Highland’s two $4,672,140.38 proofs of claim filed in the underlying bankruptcy cases.³ In that regard, the Chapter 11 Trustee stated that his Answer and Counterclaims included

² There is also a preference count and a section 550 recovery count—thus, 22 out of the 35 claims are chapter 5 avoidance actions and recovery. 11 U.S.C. §§ 544, 547, 548 & 550.

³ See Defendant’s Amended Answer, Counterclaims (Including Claim Objections) and Third-Party Claims (DE # 84), filed November 13, 2018, in response to the Original Complaint and Request for Preliminary Injunction of

“an objection to Highland Capital's proofs of claim pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 3007(b), and the counterclaims asserted herein shall constitute recoupment and/or offset to such proofs of claim, to the extent such claims are otherwise allowed.”⁴ In fact, after the 35 counts were articulated in the Chapter 11 Trustee’s Answer and Counterclaims, there were 20 paragraphs (¶¶ 252-271, pp. 70-77) solely articulating the Chapter 11 Trustee’s objections to Highland’s proofs of claim.⁵ The Chapter 11 Trustee also filed yet a separate adversary proceeding, Adv. Proc. No. 18-03212, seeking his own injunctive relief, which has recently been consolidated with this Adversary Proceeding.⁶

The Chapter 11 Trustee ultimately proposed and obtained confirmation of a Chapter 11 plan in the underlying bankruptcy cases, and the Reorganized Debtors, now under new ownership and management, were vested in that plan with the counterclaims in this Adversary Proceeding (among other rights and claims). The injunctive relief initially sought by Highland and HCLOF, as plaintiffs in the Adversary Proceeding, later became mooted by various orders in Highland CLO Funding, Ltd and Highland Capital Management Against Chapter 11 Trustee of Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management GP, LLC (DE # 1), filed May 30, 2018, and also in response to the proofs of claims filed by Highland Capital Management, L.P. (see Proof of Claim No. 27, filed in Case No. 18-30264, and Proof of Claim No. 13 filed in Case No. 18-30265, each in the amount of $4,672,140.38, with the basis of each of the proofs of claim listed as “Sub-Advisory Services and Shared Services”; these proofs of claim are virtually identical).

⁴ DE # 84, ¶ 6. The Chapter 11 Trustee has argued that the Highland proofs of claim should be disallowed under (i) section 502(b)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code (in that the Highland proofs of claim are allegedly unenforceable against the Debtors under the limited partnership agreement of Acis Capital Management, L.P. and applicable law); (ii) section 502(b)(4) of the Bankruptcy Code (in that the proofs of claim are for services of an insider of the Debtors and allegedly exceed the reasonable value of the services); and (iii) under section 502(d) of the Bankruptcy Code (in that the Trustee has asserted avoidance actions against Highland). Finally, to the extent allowed at all, the Trustee has argued that the Highland proofs of claim should be equitably subordinated under section 510(c) of the Bankruptcy Code. In summary, pursuant to section 502(b) and (d) of the Bankruptcy Code and Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 3007, the Trustee has sought entry of an order disallowing and expunging the Highland proofs of claim from the Debtors’ claims registers. See id. at ¶¶ 251-272.

the bankruptcy cases and such claims were voluntarily dismissed without prejudice.⁷ Thus, Highland, which is pursuing the Arbitration Motion, now wears the hat of only a defendant (and proof of claimant), and the Reorganized Debtors are the plaintiffs asserting the 35 original “counterclaims” asserted by the Chapter 11 Trustee against Highland (which 35 claims are also objections to Highland’s proof of claim). The separate adversary proceeding that was filed by the Chapter 11 Trustee seeking injunctive relief (Adv. Proc. No 18-03212) was consolidated into this Adversary Proceeding, and the style of this Adversary Proceeding was adjusted to reflect that the Chapter 11 Trustee had become situated as plaintiff.⁸ But, to be clear, the Reorganized Debtors are actually now plaintiffs in place of the Chapter 11 Trustee. The Reorganized Debtors are Acis Capital Management, L.P. (“Acis LP”) and Acis Capital Management GP, LLC (“Acis GP”), and they oppose the Arbitration Motion.⁹

Citing to the Federal Arbitration Act (the “FAA”), 9 U.S.C. § 1 et seq., Highland argues that the bankruptcy court must enter an order compelling arbitration as to counts 1-8 because: (a) these eight counts revolve around the interpretation of certain prior versions of a Sub-Advisory Agreement and Shared Services Agreement (later defined); and (b) the aforementioned agreements contained binding arbitration clauses. Highland also requests that the Adversary Proceeding be stayed regarding counts 1-8, pending binding arbitration. The Reorganized Debtors dispute that there are binding arbitration clauses applicable to counts 1-8. As explained further below, the aforementioned agreements were amended many times and the arbitration clauses were eventually eliminated in the last versions of the agreements. The Reorganized

⁹ DE # 123.

Debtors also urge that, even if there are applicable arbitration clauses, the court may and should exercise discretion and decline to order arbitration, since core bankruptcy matters are involved and arbitration would conflict with the purposes of the Bankruptcy Code. For the reasons set forth below, the Arbitration Motion is denied. This means that Counts 1-26 & 33-35 will go forward and be adjudicated in this Adversary Proceeding.¹⁰ But as will be explained in a separate order that is being issued shortly following this order, there are certain counts complaining of postpetition state law torts and breaches of contract in this Adversary Proceeding (Counts 27-32) that this court believes should be separated out into a different adversary proceeding and consolidated with a contested matter involving a Highland request for allowance of a postpetition administrative expense claim [DE # 772].

II. Background Facts.

A. First, the Agreements Between the Parties.

As this court has noted on various occasions, Acis LP was formed in the year 2011, and is primarily a CLO portfolio manager.¹¹ Specifically, Acis LP provides fund management services to various special purpose entities that hold CLOs (which is an acronym for “collateralized loan obligations”). Acis LP was providing management services for five such special purpose entities (the “Acis CLOs”) as of the time that it and its general partner were put into the above-referenced involuntary bankruptcy cases (the “Bankruptcy Cases”). The parties have informally referred to the special purpose entities themselves as the “CLO Issuers” or “CLO Co-Issuers” but, to be clear, these special purpose entities (hereinafter, the “CLO SPEs”)

¹⁰ The court notes that a Supplemental Motion to Withdraw the Reference in this Adversary Proceeding has recently been filed by Highland and HCLOF [DE # 134] and that motion will be addressed in due course hereafter. The ruling herein with regard to the Arbitration Motion does not affect such motion and such motion will be separately addressed, after a status conference, and through a report and recommendation to the District Court.

are structured as follows: (a) on the asset side of their balance sheets, the entities own pieces of senior debt owed by large corporations and, therefore, earn revenue from the variable interest payments made by those corporations on such senior debt; and (b) on the liability side of their balance sheets, the entities have obligations in the form of notes (i.e., tranches of fixed interest rate notes) on which the CLO SPEs themselves are obligated—the holders of which notes are mostly institutions and pension funds. The CLO SPEs make a profit, based on the spread or “delta” between: (a) the variable rates of interest paid on the assets that the CLO SPEs own (i.e., the basket of senior notes); and (b) the fixed rates of interest that the CLO SPEs must pay on their own tranches of debt. At the bottom of the CLO SPEs’ capital structure is their equity (sometimes referred to as “subordinated notes,” but these “notes” are genuinely equity). As portfolio manager, Acis LP manages the CLO SPEs’ pools of assets (by buying and selling senior loans to hold in the CLO SPEs’ portfolios) and communicates with investors in the CLO SPEs. The CLO SPEs’ tranches of notes are traded on the Over-the-Counter market.

To be perfectly clear, none of the CLO SPEs themselves have been in bankruptcy. Only Acis LP which manages the CLO business and its general partner, Acis GP, were put into bankruptcy.

Historically, Acis LP has had four main sets of contracts that were at the heart of its business and allowed it to function. They are described below. The second and third agreements set forth below are highly relevant to the Arbitration Motion before the court. The Chapter 11 Trustee, from time-to-time, credibly testified that these agreements collectively created an “eco-system” that allowed the Acis CLOs to be effectively and efficiently managed by Acis LP.

1. The PMAs with the CLO SPEs.

First, Acis LP has various portfolio management agreements (“PMAs”) with the CLO SPEs, pursuant to which Acis LP earns management fees. The PMAs have been the primary “assets” (loosely speaking) of Acis LP. They are what generate revenue for Acis LP.

2. The Sub-Advisory Agreement with Highland.

Second, Acis LP had a Sub-Advisory Agreement (herein so called) with Highland. Pursuant to this agreement, Acis LP essentially sub-contracted for the use of Highland front-office personnel/advisors to perform management services for Acis LP (i.e., so that Acis LP could fulfill its obligations to the CLO SPEs under the PMAs). Acis LP paid handsome fees to Highland pursuant to this agreement. This agreement was rejected (with bankruptcy court approval) by the Chapter 11 Trustee during the Bankruptcy Cases, when the Chapter 11 Trustee credibly represented that he had not only found resources to provide these services at a much lower cost to the estate, but he also had begun to believe that Highland was engaging in stealth efforts to liquidate the Acis CLOs, to the detriment of Acis LP’s creditors.

There were five iterations of the Sub-Advisory Agreement between the parties over time: (a) the initial Sub-Advisory Agreement, “made effective January 1, 2011” (which had an arbitration clause at section 16(f));¹² (b) an Amended and Restated Sub-Advisory Agreement, “made” May 5, 2011, “to be effective January 1, 2011” (which also had an arbitration clause at section 16(f))¹³; (c) an Amendment to Amended and Restated Sub-Advisory Agreement “entered into as of” July 1, 2011 (which did not seem to affect in any way the aforementioned arbitration clause);¹⁴ (d) Second Amended and Restated Sub-Advisory Agreement “made” on July 29, 2016, “to be effective January 1, 2016” (which had an arbitration clause at section 16(f));¹⁵ and (e) the Third Amended and Restated Sub-Advisory Agreement “dated as of March 17, 2017” (which suddenly contained no arbitration clause, with no explanation).¹⁶

3. The Shared Services Agreement with Highland.

Third, Acis LP also had a Shared Services Agreement (herein so called) with Highland, pursuant to which Acis LP essentially sub-contracted for the use of Highland’s back-office services (again, so that Acis LP could fulfill its obligations to the CLO SPEs under the PMAs). To be clear, Acis LP had no employees of its own—only a couple of officers and members. Acis LP paid handsome fees to Highland for the personnel and back-office services that Highland provided to Acis LP. This agreement was also rejected by the Chapter 11 Trustee during the Bankruptcy Cases (with Bankruptcy Court approval) for the same reasons that the Sub-Advisory Agreement with Highland was rejected.

There were five iterations of the Shared Services Agreement between the parties over time: (a) the initial Shared Services Agreement “effective as of January 1, 2011” (which had an arbitration clause at section 9.14);¹⁷ (b) an Amendment to Shared Services Agreement, “entered into as of” July 1, 2011 (which did not seem to affect in any way the aforementioned arbitration clause);¹⁸ (c) a Second Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement “dated effective

January 1, 2015” (which had an arbitration clause at section 9.14);¹⁹ (d) a Third Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement “dated effective as of January 1, 2016 (which had an arbitration clause at section 9.14);²⁰ and (e) a Fourth Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement “dated as of March 17, 2017” (which suddenly contained no arbitration clause, with no explanation).²¹

4. The Equity/ALF-PMA.

Fourth, until a few weeks before the Bankruptcy Cases were filed, Acis LP also had yet another portfolio management agreement (distinct from its PMAs with the CLO SPEs) whereby Acis LP provided services not just to the CLO SPEs themselves, but separately to the equity holder in the CLO SPEs. This portfolio management agreement with the equity holder in the CLO SPEs is sometimes referred to by the parties as the “ALF PMA,” but it would probably be easier to refer to it as the “Equity PMA”²² (for ease of reference, the court will refer to it as the “Equity/ALF PMA”). Acis LP did not earn a specific fee pursuant to the Equity/ALF PMA, but the Chapter 11 Trustee and others credibly testified during the Bankruptcy Cases that Acis LP considered the agreement valuable and very important, because it essentially gave Acis LP the ability to control the whole Acis CLO eco-system—in other words, it gave Acis LP the ability to make substantial decisions on behalf of the CLO SPEs’ equity—distinct from making decisions for the CLO SPEs themselves pursuant to the PMAs. In any event, shortly before the Bankruptcy Cases were filed, agents of Highland and/or others controlling Acis LP: (a) caused Acis LP to terminate this Equity/ALF PMA; and (b) then caused the equity owner to enter into a new Equity PMA with a newly formed offshore entity called Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd. (one of the Defendants in this Adversary Proceeding).

5. Limited Partnership Agreement of Acis LP.

There is actually a fifth agreement that should be mentioned. Although not as integral as the previous four agreements, there was a certain Amended and Restated Agreement of Limited Partnership of Acis Capital Management, L.P., dated to be effective as of January 1, 2011 (the “LPA”), entered into among the general partner and limited partners of Acis LP. Reorganized Acis has argued in the Adversary Proceeding that this LPA limited in some respects the compensation that could be paid to Highland under the Sub-Advisory Agreement and the Shared Services Agreement.

B. Next, the 35 Counts Asserted Against Highland in this Adversary Proceeding.

The Adversary Proceeding, distilled to its essence—and as currently framed—is all about certain activities of Highland and some of its affiliates and actors who controlled it, which activities were allegedly aimed at denuding Acis LP of all of its value, at a time when the former portfolio manager for Acis LP was on the verge of obtaining a very large judgment claim against Acis LP. Specifically, these activities of Highland began soon after: (a) it terminated former Acis CLO manager Joshua Terry (“Terry”) in June 2016; (b) it began litigating with him (which litigation was sent to arbitration) in September 2016; and (c) Terry obtained an approximately $8 million arbitration award against Acis LP in October 2017, which was confirmed by a judgment in December 2017. The activities and counts revolve around: (a) Highland’s alleged overcharging of Acis LP by more than $7 million for fees/expenses under the Sub-Advisory and Shared Services Agreement, as limited by the LPA (Counts 1-4); (b) alleged fraudulent transfers of value out of Acis LP, by virtue of various amendments and modifications of the Sub-Advisory and Shared Services Agreements (Counts 5-8); (c) an alleged fraudulent transfer as to the Equity/ALF PMA (Counts 9-12); (d) an alleged fraudulent transfer pertaining to Acis LP's conveyance away of its so-called ALF Equity (Counts 13-16); (e) an alleged fraudulent transfer of a $9.5 million note receivable Acis LP held (Counts 17-20); (f) various other fraudulent transfers (Counts 21-24); (g) preferences (Count 25); (h) assertion of a section 550 recovery remedy for the aforementioned avoidance actions (Count 26); and (i) requests for punitive damages, an alter ego/veil piercing remedy, and attorneys' fees (Counts 33-35). There are also some counts complaining of postpetition state law torts and breaches of contract (Counts 27-32).

As mentioned earlier, Highland's Arbitration Motion only requests the court defer to arbitration Counts 1-8—that is the counts relating to: (a) Highland's alleged overcharging of Acis LP by more than $7 million for fees/expenses under the Sub-Advisory and Shared Services Agreement, as perhaps limited by the LPA (Counts 1-4); and (b) the alleged fraudulent transfers of value out of Acis LP, by virtue of various amendments and modifications of the Sub-Advisory and Shared Services Agreements (Counts 5-8). Highland argues that, since all of these counts pertain to the Sub-Advisory Agreement and Shared Services Agreement between Acis LP and Highland, the arbitration clauses in those agreements dictate that the counts be carved out from this Adversary Proceeding and sent to binding arbitration. Highland acknowledges that these two agreements were amended and restated numerous times, and that the last time they were amended (March 17, 2017) the arbitration clauses were eliminated, but Highland argues that, since all of the activity complained of in Counts 1-8 occurred prior to March 17, 2017, the older iterations of the Sub-Advisory and Shared Services Agreements, with arbitration clauses, govern. Highland zeroes in on the fact that Counts 1-4, at their essence, are assertions that the fees for services charged by Highland in the Sub-Advisory and Shared Services Agreements were excessive for the years 2013, 2014, 2015, and through May 2016 (all before the March 17, 2017 iteration of the agreements). And Counts 5-8, while articulated as fraudulent transfer claims, pertain to the modifications made to the Sub-Advisory and Shared Services Agreements at various stages up to the March 17, 2017 versions.

The Reorganized Debtors have argued that it is quite clear that the last iterations of the Sub-Advisory and Shared Services Agreements intended to supersede in every way the prior versions. That includes the provisions directing arbitration. And, they argue, it does not matter when the causes of action occurred/accrued or not. What matters is that the parties agreed at some point that their disputes would not be sent to arbitration and this was the last governing document.

C. The Relevant Language in the Sub-Advisory and Shared Services Agreements Pertaining to (i) Arbitration and (ii) Superseding of Prior Agreements.

As mentioned earlier, there was an arbitration clause at Section 16(f) of the Sub-Advisory Agreement until the last March 17, 2017 version. The clause read as follows:

[I]n the event there is an unresolved legal dispute between the parties and/or any of their respective officers, directors, partners, employees, agents, affiliates or other representatives that involves legal rights or remedies arising from this Agreement, the parties agree to submit their dispute to binding arbitration under the authority of the Federal Arbitration Act. . . .²³

In the Shared Services Agreement, an arbitration clause appeared at Section 9.14, as follows:

Notwithstanding anything contained in this Agreement or the Annexes hereto to the contrary, in the event there is an unresolved legal dispute between the parties and/or any of their respective officers, directors, partners, employees, agents, affiliates or other representatives that involves legal rights or remedies arising from this Agreement, the parties agree to submit their dispute to binding arbitration under the authority of the Federal Arbitration Act. . . .²⁴

²³ Exh. 1 of Arbitration Motion, at 7-8.

²⁴ Exh. 6 of Arbitration Motion, at 9-10.

As earlier mentioned, these two agreements were later amended and restated several times. The arbitration provisions remained identical until they were completely eliminated in March 2017. The Reorganized Debtor argues that this is a short analysis: there was no longer an operative arbitration provision as of March 17, 2017.

In the March 17, 2017 version of the Shared Services Agreement, the parties agreed “that the courts of the State of Texas and the United States District Court located in the Northern District of Texas in Dallas are to have exclusive jurisdiction to settle any disputes (whether contractual or noncontractual) which may arise out of or in connection with this Agreement and that accordingly any action arising out of or in connection therewith (together referred to as ‘Proceedings’) may be brought in such courts.”²⁵

The same type language appeared in the March 17, 2017 version of the Sub-Advisory Agreement: “The parties unconditionally and irrevocably consent to the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts located in the State of Texas and waive any objection with respect thereto, for the purpose of any action, suit or proceeding arising out of or relating to this Agreement or the transactions contemplated hereby.”²⁶

More generally, the March 17, 2017 versions of the agreements each provided that they “amended, restated and replaced the existing agreements in [their] entirety.”²⁷ The March 17, 2017 agreements also each provided that they “supersede[d] all prior agreements and undertakings, both written and oral, between the parties with respect to such subject matter.”²⁸

²⁸ Exh. 5 of Arbitration Motion, ¶ 20; Exh.10 of Arbitration Motion, ¶ 8.14.

In summary, the Reorganized Debtors argue that, under Texas common law, basic principles of contract interpretation, and the plain language of the March 17, 2017 version of the agreements, there is no agreement to arbitrate. “A contract's plain language controls.”²⁹ Because the prior versions of the agreements were “amended, restated and replaced in [their] entirety” with the March 17, 2017 agreements—which not only omit an arbitration provision, but also expressly provide for jurisdiction and venue in Texas state or federal courts—the Reorganized Debtors argue that there exists no valid agreement to arbitrate between Highland and Acis LP. The court's inquiry can and should end there. But, if the court concludes the arbitration clauses are still applicable, the Reorganized Debtors argue that the bankruptcy court has discretion not to compel arbitration when (a) bankruptcy core matters are involved, and (b) arbitration would conflict with the purposes of the Bankruptcy Code. Therefore, this is further reason why the Arbitration Motion should be denied.

III. Legal Analysis.

A. The Federal Arbitration Act and Arbitration Clauses Generally.

The FAA provides that arbitration agreements are always “valid, irrevocable, and enforceable, save upon such grounds as exist at law or in equity for the revocation of any contract.”³⁰ Thus, the FAA reflects a liberal federal policy favoring arbitration, and requires arbitration agreements to be rigorously enforced according to their terms.³¹ The FAA “expresses a strong national policy favoring arbitration of disputes, and all doubts concerning the arbitrability of claims should be resolved in favor of arbitration.”³² “There is a strong presumption in favor of arbitration and the party seeking to invalidate an arbitration agreement bears the burden of establishing its invalidity.”³³

When considering a motion to compel arbitration, the Fifth Circuit has held there are two threshold questions: (1) whether an arbitration agreement is valid; and (2) whether the dispute falls within the scope of the agreement.³⁴ To evaluate the enforceability of an arbitration agreement, courts apply the contract law of the state that governs the agreement,³⁵ whereas the scope of the agreement is a matter of federal substantive law.³⁶

B. Is There a Valid Agreement to Arbitrate that Applies Here and is Still Enforceable?³⁷

With respect to the first element—whether a valid agreement to arbitrate exists—federal courts “apply ordinary state-law principles that govern the formation of contracts.”³⁸ Here, the choice of law provisions of the Highland-Acis Agreements state: “This Agreement shall be

Hardee’s Food Sys., Inc.*, 918 F.2d 34, 37 (5th Cir. 1990) (under federal law, courts “resolve doubts concerning the scope of coverage of an arbitration clause in a contract in favor of arbitration,” and arbitration should not be denied “unless it can be said with positive assurance that an arbitration clause is not susceptible of an interpretation which would cover the dispute at issue”).

³⁷ The court is assuming, without analysis, that the Chapter 11 Trustee (and the Reorganized Debtors) are bound by the arbitration clauses, if Acis LP affirmatively agreed to be bound by them and would still be bound by them outside of bankruptcy. Case law has stated that a bankruptcy trustee “stands in the shoes of the debtor for the purposes of [an] arbitration clause” and “the trustee-plaintiff is bound by the clause to the same extent as would the debtor.” *Hays & Co. v. governed by the laws of Texas. . . .”³⁹ “Under the Texas rules, in those contract cases in which the parties have agreed to an enforceable choice of law clause, the law of the chosen state must be applied.”⁴⁰ Accordingly, Texas law governs whether the parties are subject to an enforceable agreement to arbitrate.

Here, obviously the parties entered into an agreement to arbitrate in both the Sub-Advisory Agreement (Section 16(f))⁴¹ and the Shared Services Agreement Section 9.14.⁴² And, it would seem to be beyond peradventure that this was, at one time, enforceable between the parties, with regard to any disputes that arose regarding the agreements. The tricky conundrum here is that those arbitration provisions were deleted in the most recent iterations of the agreements—that is, the March 17, 2017 versions of the agreements. Highland argues that, since Counts 1-8 involve alleged overcharges under the agreements in years 2013-2016, and alleged fraudulent transfers up to March 17, 2017 (such fraudulent transfers allegedly occurring by virtue of modifications to the agreements that were made up to March 17, 2017), the pre-March 17, 2017 version of the agreements must be applied with respect to these Counts 1-8 and, thus, the arbitration provisions apply. In other words, what matters is when causes of action accrue not when they are ultimately asserted.

The parties have cited a handful of cases to the court, but the one that the court believes is most analogous is the *Coffman v. Provost * Umphrey Law Firm, L.L.P.* case.⁴³ In the Coffman case, ³⁹ See, e.g., Exh. 1 to Arbitration Motion, § 16(a); Exh. 5 to Arbitration Motion, § 13; Exh. 6 to Arbitration Motion, § 9.05; Exh. 10 to Arbitration Motion, § 8.04(a).

the plaintiff was a former non-equity partner of a law firm and brought a lawsuit against the firm and its equity partners, alleging inter alia, breach of contract, breach of fiduciary duty, violations of Title VII and/or the Texas Commission on Human Rights Act (“TCHRA”), and violations of the Equal Pay Act. The law firm filed a motion to compel arbitration with regard to all of these claims. The law firm’s motion to compel was based upon various partnership agreements which governed the law firm. The original partnership agreement was first effective on August 26, 1986, and the plaintiff did not sign that agreement. Subsequent to that time, however, the original partnership agreement was amended and restated on several occasions. The plaintiff admitted that she signed four partnership agreement documents: (1) a Restated Partnership Agreement of Provost * Umphrey Law Firm, L.L.P.—Effective January 1, 1994 (“1994 Partnership Agreement”); (2) a Restated Partnership Agreement of Provost * Umphrey Law Firm, L.L.P.—Effective January 1, 1996 (“1996 Partnership Agreement”); (3) an Amendment No. 1 to the Restated Partnership Agreement of Provost * Umphrey Law Firm, L.L.P., Dated January 1, 1996—Effective January 1, 1997 (“1996 Amendment No. 1”); and (4) a Partnership Agreement of Provost * Umphrey Law Firm, L.L.P., As Restated —Effective January 1, 1998 (“1998 Partnership Agreement”). The earlier two agreements—i.e., the 1994 and 1996 Partnership Agreements—did not contain an arbitration clause. The 1996 Amendment No. 1 and the 1998 Partnership Agreement, on the other hand, both contained an identical arbitration clause as follows:

Binding Arbitration. The equity partners and non-equity partners shall make a good faith effort to settle any dispute or claim arising under this partnership agreement. If the equity or non-equity partners fail to resolve a dispute or claim, such equity or non-equity partner shall submit the dispute or claim to binding arbitration under the rules of the American Arbitration Association then in effect. Judgment on arbitration awards may be entered by any court of competent jurisdiction.⁴⁴

⁴⁴ Id. at 723.

Additionally, all four of the above-referenced partnership agreements contained an integration clause stating that “[t]his agreement contains the entire agreement . . . and all prior agreements . . . are terminated.”⁴⁵

Interestingly, the plaintiff conceded that claims she asserted involving the 1996 Amendment No. 1 and the 1998 Partnership Agreement were required to go to arbitration (such claims requested determinations regarding: (1) the enforceability of the 1996 Amendment No. 1 and the 1998 Partnership Agreement; (2) breach of the 1996 Amendment No. 1 and the 1998 Partnership Agreement; (3) repudiation; and (4) breach of the duty of good faith and fair dealing). However, the plaintiff disagreed that her remaining claims were also required to go to arbitration and those were: (a) breach of the 1994 and 1996 Partnership Agreements; (b) breach of fiduciary duty; (c) violations of Title VII and/or TCHRA; and (d) violations of the Equal Pay Act. The district court granted in part and denied in part the motion to compel arbitration, holding that: (1) the plaintiff’s contract claims arising under earlier partnership agreements, which did not contain arbitration clauses, were not arbitrable; (2) a common law breach of fiduciary duty claim was arbitrable under the agreements (it appears that these claims arose after the 1996 Amendment No. 1 and 1998 Partnership Agreement); and (3) statutory sex-based discrimination claims were not arbitrable under the agreements.⁴⁶

Relevant to the case at bar, the Coffman court noted, first, that the conduct underlying the alleged breaches of the 1994 and 1996 contracts occurred at a time when no arbitration clause was in effect. The plaintiff’s complaint specifically alleged that, during the time the four

⁴⁶ Id. at 733.

agreements were in effect, the law firm failed to properly calculate Plaintiff's compensation, failed to promote her, and deprived her of benefits from a tobacco case. The court noted that, if the law firm did participate in such conduct during the time that the 1994 and 1996 Partnership Agreements were in effect, such conduct could not have "arisen under" the 1996 Amendment No. 1 or the 1998 Partnership Agreement because those agreements did not even exist at that time. But, to the extent that the conduct Plaintiff complained of occurred when the 1996 Amendment No. 1 and the 1998 Partnership Agreement were in effect, her claims would be subject to arbitration.⁴⁷

The court further noted that the arbitration clause should not be interpreted as covering the plaintiff's claims for breach of the 1994 and 1996 Partnership Agreements because the plain grammatical language of the arbitration clause gave no indication that it would apply retroactively. "To interpret the arbitration clause to apply retroactively would cause Plaintiff to forego her vested right to litigate an accrued claim."⁴⁸

Sys. v. AT&T Corp.*, No. 97-1774, 1998 WL 153254, at *1 (1st Cir. Feb.25, 1998) (arbitration clause in 1994 contracts did not apply to pre-1994 contracts when the language of the arbitration clause did not indicate "that the parties ever contemplated so radical a retroactive renegotiation of their earlier agreements"); Hendrick, 50 F. Supp. 2d at 535 (arbitration clause was not retroactive when the text of the clause expressed no language providing that it "reache[d] back in time to require an employee to arbitrate a claim which had accrued before the contract was signed or the [arbitration clause] took effect"); Connett, 1989 WL 47071, at *2 (arbitration clause did not apply retroactively when it did not specify that it applied to past conduct); Kenworth of Dothan, Inc. v. Univ., 711 A.2d at 1261 (arbitration clause was not retroactive when "the arbitration clause itself contained no indication whatsoever that its terms would apply . . . before [its effective date]").

Bottom line, the court in Coffman seemed to focus on when each cause of action accrued and looked to the agreement that governed at such time. This court agrees with that reasoning and sees no reason why the result should be different in the case at bar, simply because the arbitration clauses in the case at bar were in earlier versions of the Sub-Advisory and Shared Services Agreements as opposed to being in the later versions of those agreements (in other words, the opposite sequence as in the Coffman case).

The Reorganized Debtors have cited a couple of cases that they believe justify a determination that there is no binding arbitration clause in the case at bar. One is the case of *Goss-Reid & Assocs. Inc. v. Tekniko Licensing Corp.*⁴⁹ This case involved a motion to compel arbitration that was denied (which denial was affirmed by the Fifth Circuit). Like the case at bar, it involved a situation where there had been a succession of agreements, with earlier agreements containing arbitration provisions and the last agreement containing no arbitration clause. Specifically, in the Goss-Reid case, there were three agreements that were relevant. First, a Franchise Agreement between a franchisor named Transformational Technologies, Inc. (“TTI”) and a party named Rittenhaus-Tate Organization (“RTO”). RTO was a business owned by Tracy Goss and Sheila Reid. The Franchise Agreement, among other things, provided that RTO’s owners Tracy Goss and Sheila Reid would be “licensed franchisees of TTI” and would have use of certain of TTI’s intellectual property. During the term of the Franchise Agreement, Tracy Goss and Sheila Reid developed certain consulting services technology they called “The Winning Strategy” and it apparently was built off of TTI’s intellectual property. This first agreement contained a mandatory arbitration provision. Second, there was a License

⁴⁹ Goss-Reid & Assocs. Inc. v. Tekniko Licensing Corp., 54 Fed. Appx. 405 (5th Cir. 2002) (per curiam opinion which is designated as having no precedential effect).

Agreement between the apparent successor-in-interest of TTI called Tekniko, Inc., on the one hand, and Tracy Goss, Sheila Reid and Goss-Reid & Associates, Inc. (collectively, “Goss/Reid”), on the other, pursuant to which Goss/Reid obtained a “a non-exclusive license to use the same intellectual property covered by the Franchise Agreement.” This second agreement also contained a mandatory arbitration agreement. Third, there was a Transfer Agreement that appears to have been entered into by the same parties as the second agreement (Tekniko, Inc. and Goss/Reid). The Transfer Agreement “permanently transferred [to Goss/Reid] the non-exclusive right to use the intellectual property that was the subject of the prior agreements in exchange for a percentage of [Goss & Reid’s] adjusted gross profits for that year.” There was no arbitration provision in this third agreement and the agreement did not adopt or refer to the arbitration provisions contained in the earlier agreements. The third agreement stated that it constituted “an amendment to the License Agreement . . . between you and this company (‘TEKNIKO’), supersedes all prior agreements between you and TEKNIKO and, except as provided below, will terminate your rights and those of TEKNIKO under the License Agreement.”

At some subsequent time, Goss/Reid filed a lawsuit alleging improper use of “The Winning Strategy” by the entities Tekniko Licensing Corporation and Landmark Education Company. These Defendants (hereafter so called) asserted ownership themselves of “The Winning Strategy” based on the Franchise Agreement. The Defendants—citing to the arbitration clauses in both the Franchise Agreement and the License Agreement—filed a motion to compel arbitration, which was denied at the district court level and also at the Fifth Circuit. The district court determined that New York law applied (i.e., the Transfer Agreement was governed by New York law and apparently the parties agreed that New York law applied), and that the Transfer Agreement constituted a novation and extinguished the arbitration provisions of the previous agreements. On appeal, the Fifth Circuit stated that the issue before it was “whether the arbitration provisions of the Franchise and License Agreements were superseded by the Transfer Agreement. Thus, the question before us is one of contractual interpretation.”⁵⁰

The Fifth Circuit stated certain principles that apply under both New York and Texas law. Among other principles, the Fifth Circuit noted that courts construing contracts “should strive to give effect to the intentions of the parties, as expressed in the terms of the contract.”⁵¹ The Transfer Agreement stated that “it supersedes all prior agreements” between Goss/Reid and the predecessor-in-interest of one of the Defendants, Tekniko Licensing Corporation.⁵² “This type of agreement clearly constitutes a novation under New York law.”⁵³ The court also noted that it was not appropriate to consider any extrinsic or parol evidence, since there was no ambiguity in the Transfer Agreement. The court further stated that “[t]he only potential ambiguity raised by the Defendants is that the Transfer Agreement refers to itself as an ‘amendment to the License Agreement.’ Read as a whole, however, the Transfer Agreement plainly manifests an intention to supersede all prior agreements between the parties and, except as specifically provided, to terminate all rights and obligations under the License Agreement.”⁵⁴

The other case that the Reorganized Debtors have significantly relied upon to justify a determination that there is no binding arbitration clause in the case at bar is *Valero Energy Corp. v. Teco Pipeline Co.*⁵⁵ In Valero, there had been numerous agreements entered into over time amongst the litigating parties, all of which involved gas pipelines and transportation rights, and those various agreements were not amendments or restatements of one initial agreement. Rather, there was an Operating Agreement, there were documents that were alleged to create a joint venture or partnership, a Purchase Agreement, an Ownership Agreement, a Transportation Agreement, and a couple of Settlement Agreements entered into later when various disputes arose. One of the key agreements, the so-called Operating Agreement, contained an arbitration clause. When party Teco Pipeline sued party Valero and other related parties, Valero moved to compel arbitration, arguing that the litigation was subject to the arbitration clause in the Operating Agreement. The trial court denied Valero's motion, but the court of appeals reversed.

Teco had argued that the claims it was asserting were not based on the Operating Agreement that contained the arbitration clause but, even if they were, a later Settlement Agreement essentially redefined the parties' relationship—essentially superseding the parties' relationship that had been set forth in the numerous prior agreements—and it did not have an arbitration clause. Rather the Settlement Agreement stated that:

Each party irrevocably consents and agrees that any legal action, suit or proceeding against any of them with respect to their obligations, liabilities, or any other matter under or arising out of or in connection with this Agreement may be brought in the United States District Court for the Western District of Texas, San Antonio Division, or in the courts of the State of Texas, and hereby irrevocably accepts and submits to the jurisdiction of each of the aforesaid court in personam, generally and unconditionally with respect to any such action, suit or proceeding for itself and in respect of its properties, assets and revenues.⁵⁶

Teco asserted that the quoted clause provided for the procedure to be used in future disputes, i.e., that the parties would go through judicial channels, not arbitration. Teco also asserted that the intent to revoke the arbitration clause was signified by a typical merger clause contained in the ⁵⁶ Id. at 587.

Settlement Agreement. The appeals court disagreed with Teco's argument and determined arbitration was required. First, the court determined that the provision regarding litigation applied only to disputes arising under the Settlement Agreement not the previously executed Operating Agreement, Purchase Agreement, Ownership Agreement, or Transportation Agreements. There was nothing to indicate that all the terms of those previous agreements had been superseded by the Settlement Agreement. In fact, it appeared that only select terms of the earlier agreements were being modified. Significantly, the Settlement Agreement referred to an "Amendment No. 1" to the Operating Agreement being attached as an Exhibit D to the Settlement Agreement—suggesting that it remained intact (except for the amendment attached). Moreover, there was a post-Settlement Agreement letter submitted into evidence stating that the prior Operating Agreement and arbitration provision were still in effect. The court addressed many other arguments made by Teco and, in the end, found nothing had superseded or otherwise revoked the prior arbitration clause.

This bankruptcy court does not consider the Valero or Goss-Reid cases to be dispositive of the situation in the case at bar. Those cases clearly dealt with a myriad of agreements—for example, in Valero, one key agreement had an arbitration clause, and an allegedly superseding Settlement Agreement (with no arbitration clause) was determined not to have been intended to supersede or replace the agreement with the arbitration clause. In Goss-Reid, there were also a myriad of agreements (i.e., a franchise agreement, a license agreement and then a transfer agreement), and the last one containing no arbitration clause was held to have been a novation of the prior agreements. In Valero and Goss-Reid, the various agreements were not amendments or restatements of one initial agreement. The case at bar is more analogous to the Coffman case (involving amendments and restatements of an initial agreement) and the logic of that holding seems sound to apply here—especially given the fact that there is nothing in the March 17, 2017 version of the agreements that suggests that the agreement to submit disputes to litigation in Texas and the deletion of the arbitration clauses should be applied retroactively. The court believes it should look at when a cause of action accrued and determine if there was a binding arbitration clause between the parties at that time in the governing version of the agreement. Thus, the court determines that there were valid arbitration agreements that applied to all disputes arising out of the Sub-Advisory Agreement and Shared Services Agreement—to the extent that those disputes involved conduct prior to March 17, 2017. Since Counts 1-8 involve conduct prior to March 17, 2017, Counts 1-8 fall within the scope of the arbitration agreements in the Sub-Advisory Agreement and Shared Series Agreement.

C. But Wait, this is Bankruptcy and Core Matters and a Proof of Claim Objection are Involved.

The analysis does not end here. Yes, there is an otherwise valid, binding arbitration clause that was contained in each of the Sub-Advisory and Shared Services Agreements (prior to March 17, 2017). And, yes, Counts 1-8 involve conduct and disputes arising under these pre-March 17, 2017 agreements. But what about the fact that these disputes arise in an adversary proceeding that involves mostly, if not entirely, “core” matters (e.g., Counts 5-25 are all fraudulent transfers or preference claims under Section 544,⁵⁷ 547,⁵⁸ or 548;⁵⁹ Count 2 is a Section 542 turnover request;⁶⁰ Count 26 is a request for Section 550 recovery⁶¹)? And what about the fact that Highland (the counter-party to the Sub-Advisory and Shared Services Agreement who has asked for enforcement of the arbitration clauses in those agreements) has filed proofs of claim?⁶² And what about the fact that Counts 1-8 (as with every count in the Adversary Proceeding) are all urged to be offsets to Highland's proofs of claim?⁶³ Highland's proofs of claim are based on the post-March 17, 2017 versions of the Sub-Advisory and Shared Services Agreements (i.e., the versions that have no arbitration clauses). Highland has not argued that its proofs of claim are subject to arbitration (likely because they are governed by the post-March 17, 2017 versions of the Sub-Advisory and Shared Services Agreements). But, again, Highland argues that Counts 1-8 must be sent to arbitration, and the Reorganized Debtors argue that each of these counts present potential offsets to Highlands' proofs of claim. As a reminder, these counts are:

- COUNT 1: Declaratory Judgment of Ultra Vires Acts by Acis LP in Violation of the LPA (Highland allegedly overcharged expenses by $7M+ (i.e., excessive fees) under the Sub-Advisory and Shared Services Agreements).
- COUNT 2: Turnover of Property of the Estate Under § 542 for Unauthorized Overpayments (turnover the $7M+ overcharged).
- COUNT 3: Money Had and Received for Overcharges and Unauthorized Overpayments (again, seeking redress for the $7M+ overcharged—implicating the Sub-Advisory Agreement and Shared Services Agreement).
- COUNT 4: Conversion for Unauthorized Overpayments (again, seeking redress for the $7M+ overcharged implicating the Sub-Advisory Agreement and Shared Services Agreement).
- COUNT 5: Actual Fraudulent Transfer under § 548 related to the Sub-Advisory Agreement (modifications to the Sub-Advisory Agreement in subsequent iterations were allegedly fraudulent transfer, as were payments thereunder).

⁶² See 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2)(B).

⁶³ See 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2)(C).

- COUNT 6: Actual Fraudulent Transfer Under TUFTA, § 24.005(a)(1) related to the Sub-Advisory Agreement (same theory as Count 5, asserted through section 544 of the Bankruptcy Code).
- COUNT 7: Constructive Fraudulent Transfer Under § 548(a)(1)(B) related to the Sub-Advisory Agreement (same facts as Count 5 only constructive not actual fraud).
- COUNT 8: Constructive Fraudulent Transfer Under TUFTA §§ 24.005(a)(2) and 24.006(a) related to the Sub-Advisory Agreement (same facts as Count 5, only constructive fraud under TUFTA, and asserted through section 544 of the Bankruptcy Code).

Thus, to recap, five of the eight counts that Highland wants arbitrated (Counts 2, and 5-8) clearly involve statutory core matters.⁶⁴ Moreover, all of the counts in the Adversary Proceeding are asserted defensively to two proofs of claim—meaning all eight counts that Highland wants arbitrated (even Counts 1, 3, and 4) have transformed into statutory core matters.⁶⁵ Does this matter? This court believes yes.

The Fifth Circuit has shed some light on this topic in the cases of In re Gandy and In re National Gypsum.⁶⁶ In those cases, the Fifth Circuit instructed that a bankruptcy court may decline to enforce arbitration clauses when it finds: (a) the underlying nature of the proceeding

⁶⁴ See 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2)(E), (F), and (H).

⁶⁵ See 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2)(C). This court realizes that, from a Stern v. Marshall perspective, 131 S. Ct. 2594 (2011), being a statutory “core” matter does not necessarily mean a bankruptcy court has Constitutional authority to issue final orders or judgments in the matter. However, even if this Stern pronouncement has any relevance, when evaluating an arbitration clause/right, the court perceives that the various counterclaims here (i.e., all 35 counts) are likely inexplicably intertwined with the Highland proofs of claim, such that the bankruptcy court would likely have Constitutional authority to adjudicate them. While Highland’s proofs of claim merely seek payment for services under the post-March 17, 2017 versions of the agreements—which is after the time frame that Counts 1-8 implicate—it is not so simple as dividing claims and counterclaims into discreet time periods. For one thing, the Reorganized Debtors argue that modifications to the Sub-Advisory and Shared Services Agreements that increased fees that Highland could charge (and that Highland is now seeking in its proofs of claim) were tantamount to fraudulent transfers. Thus, how does one evaluate the proofs of claim separately from this argument? Additionally, Highland has asserted unliquidated indemnification claims in its proofs of claim that presumably reach back to earlier iterations of the Sub-Advisory and Shared Services Agreement (meaning that claims ultimately awarded to the Reorganized Debtors under earlier versions of the agreements might result in indemnification claims being asserted back against them by Highland relating to those very claims). The point being that all of Highland’s assertions in its proofs of claim seem inextricably intertwined with all the Counts in the Adversary Proceeding.

⁶⁶ Gandy v. Gandy (In re Gandy), 299 F.3d 489 (5th Cir. 2002); Ins. Co. of N. Am. v. NGC Settlement Trust & Asbestos Claims Mgmt. Corp. (In re Nat’l Gypsum Co.), 118 F.3d 1056 (5th Cir. 1997).

derives from the provisions of the Bankruptcy Code; and (b) that enforcement of the arbitration provision would conflict with the purposes/goals of the Bankruptcy Code.⁶⁷ Some purposes/goals of the Code that might support a denial of arbitration, include: (1) the equitable and expeditious distribution of assets of the Debtor's estate; (2) centralized resolution of pure bankruptcy issues; (3) protection of creditors and reorganizing debtors from piecemeal litigation, and (4) the undisputed power of a bankruptcy court to enforce its orders.⁶⁸

The In re Gandy opinion from the Fifth Circuit is worthy of discussion here. In Gandy, an individual Chapter 11 debtor had first, prepetition, filed a state court lawsuit against various business partners, asserting causes of action against them for making transfers out of a partnership affecting her ownership interests, and the causes of action included breach of contract, negligence, breach of fiduciary duty, fraud and constructive trust. There was an arbitration clause in the applicable partnership agreement and the state court granted a motion to compel arbitration. Then, the debtor filed a Chapter 11 case and removed the state court lawsuit to the bankruptcy court and filed new claims under sections 544, 548, 550, civil "RICO," and alter ego in a separate adversary proceeding, and requested substantive consolidation. The bankruptcy court granted consolidation of the two actions and then the defendants filed a motion to compel arbitration. The bankruptcy court denied the motion, after finding that the debtor was essentially seeking avoidance of fraudulent transfers. The Fifth Circuit affirmed the bankruptcy court's refusal to enforce an arbitration clause contained in the underlying partnership agreement. The court agreed with the bankruptcy court that the complaint essentially—more than anything else—sought avoidance of fraudulent transfers, and the court not only determined that such rights derived from the Bankruptcy Code (fully acknowledging the fact that there were state law tort claims and breach of contract also asserted) but also—in looking at whether enforcing the arbitration clause would conflict with the purposes of the Bankruptcy Code—noted that one central purpose of the Bankruptcy Code is the expeditious and equitable distribution of the assets of a debtor’s estate. The court thought the avoidance actions predominated over the “peripheral” contract and tort claims and, in such a circumstance, “the importance of the federal bankruptcy forum provided by the Code is at its zenith.”⁶⁹ The court stated that “[s]ome of the purposes of the Code we mentioned in *National Gypsum*⁷⁰ as potentially conflicting with the Arbitration Act include the goal of centralized resolution of purely bankruptcy issues, the need to protect creditors and reorganizing debtors from piecemeal litigation, and the undisputed power of the bankruptcy court to enforce its own orders.”⁷¹

This court believes, like the court in Gandy, that this Adversary Proceeding—more than anything else—seeks avoidance of fraudulent transfers. Such avoidance theories derive from the Bankruptcy Code. Sections 542, 547, 548 and 550 of the Bankruptcy Code are front and center, as are the “strong arm” powers of section 544(a). Enforcing the arbitration clause here would conflict with the purposes of the Bankruptcy Code—one of the central purposes of which is the ⁶⁹ Gandy, 299 F.3d at 497.

⁷⁰ In the National Gypsum case, an asbestos litigation trust created under a confirmed plan filed a post-confirmation adversary proceeding against debtor’s liability insurer, seeking a declaratory judgment that the plan had discharged its obligations to the insurance company. The insurance company, in response to the litigation, sought to exercise its rights to seek arbitration under a certain agreement. The Fifth Circuit, in affirming the lower courts’ refusal to compel arbitration, stated that, “We believe that nonenforcement of an otherwise applicable arbitration provision turns on the underlying nature of the proceeding, i.e., whether the proceeding derives exclusively from the provisions of the Bankruptcy Code and, if so, whether arbitration of the proceeding would conflict with the purposes of the Code.” Nat’l Gypsum Co., 118 F.3d at 1067. Because the debtor sought to bar the insurance company’s actions either by invoking section 524(a)’s discharge injunction or by invoking the terms of a confirmed plan, the proceeding derived entirely from the provisions of the Bankruptcy Code, and, hence, the National Gypsum court would not send the dispute to arbitration.

expeditious and equitable distribution of the assets of a debtor's estate. The avoidance actions in this Adversary Proceeding predominate over all other counts and, in such a circumstance, "the importance of the federal bankruptcy forum provided by the Code is at its zenith." Arbitrating Counts 1-8 would seriously jeopardize the Adversary Proceeding because they are an integral part of determining Highland's proofs of claim and the other core counts in the Adversary Proceeding. The bankruptcy court's quintessential duties are to adjudicate proofs of claim and to provide a central forum for litigation, whenever feasible and jurisdictionally sound. Indeed, in Gandy, the Fifth Circuit noted that when a proof of claim is filed, one of the "peculiar powers" of the bankruptcy court has been invoked and the nature of estate claims becomes "different from [their] nature . . . following the filing of a proof of claim."⁷²

In summary, this court believes it has discretion under established Fifth Circuit authority to decline to order arbitration here.⁷³ It is, therefore,

ORDERED that the Arbitration Motion is DENIED.

END OF MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER#####

⁷³ See also Anderson v. Credit One Bank, N.A. (In re Anderson), 884 F.3d 382, 389-90 (2d Cir. 2018) (in proceeding involving whether section 524 discharge was violated by credit card company whose agreement with debtor contained arbitration clause, Second Circuit held that bankruptcy court had discretion to decline to enforce the arbitration agreement; Second Circuit engaged in a particularized inquiry into the nature of the claim and the facts of the specific bankruptcy and determined that arbitrating claims for violations of the 524 injunction would "seriously jeopardize a particular core bankruptcy proceeding" because: "(1) the discharge injunction is integral to the bankruptcy court's ability to provide debtors with a fresh start, (2) the claim relates to an ongoing matter with continuing court supervision, and (3) the equitable powers of the court to enforce its own injunctions are central to the structure of the Code.").

In re:

) Chapter 11

) Case No. 19-12239 (CSS)

) Related to Docket No. 86

OBJECTION OF THE DEBTOR TO MOTION OF OFFICIAL COMMITTEE OF UNSECURED CREDITORS
TO TRANSFER VENUE OF THIS CASE TO THE UNITED STATES
BANKRUPTCY COURT FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS

The above-captioned debtor and debtor in possession (the “Debtor”) hereby objects to the motion to transfer venue of this case [Docket No. 86] (the “Motion to Transfer”) to the Northern District of Texas (the “Texas Bankruptcy Court”), filed by the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors (the “Committee”).

In support of this objection, the Debtor respectfully states as follows:

Preliminary Statement

1. The Debtor owns and manages a sophisticated financial services and money management business that has assets and interests all over the world. The amounts at stake in this case involve hundreds of millions of dollars in terms of asset values and asserted liabilities. The Debtor’s creditors are sophisticated parties who are either represented by highly qualified counsel or are attorneys themselves. The top 20 unsecured creditors in this case consist almost entirely of litigation claimants and law firms. There are no “mom and pop” creditors who would be prejudiced if they were not provided with ready access to a local bankruptcy court.

2. Further, the Texas Bankruptcy Court has no special familiarity with the Debtor or its current management. The Debtor's restructuring efforts are now led by Bradley Sharp as Chief Restructuring Officer (the "CRO") who has had no prior involvement with either Acis (as defined below) or the Texas Bankruptcy Court with respect to this matter. The Texas Bankruptcy Court also knows little about the Debtor's business or financial affairs, aside from its prior relationship with Acis. The Debtor is no longer affiliated with Acis and, in fact, is directly adverse to Acis, which now asserts various contested litigation claims against the Debtor. Hence, the Committee's opening position that this case should be transferred to the Texas Bankruptcy Court is little more than a litigation ploy. The Committee has decided, based on prior rulings of the Texas Bankruptcy Court in the Acis cases, that such forum would be more advantageous from a litigation perspective vis-à-vis the Debtor. That is not an appropriate basis to transfer venue.

3. The fact that the Debtor is headquartered in Dallas, Texas also does not mean that this case should be transferred there. The Debtor's assets, interests, and contractual entanglements are dispersed throughout this country and the world. As an example, the Debtor has assets under management, including its own proprietary assets and those of its clients, through various related parties in Asia, South America, and Europe. The Debtor has already brought a motion in this case to appoint a foreign representative in order to manage its various foreign interests [Docket No. 68], including those in pending proceedings in Bermuda and the Cayman Islands. The Debtor's principal assets in the United States consist of custodial and non-custodial interests in investments located all over the country. The Debtor's primary brokerage accounts that hold the bulk of the Debtor's liquid and illiquid securities are located in New York City with Jefferies, LLC ("Jefferies"). The Debtor is also the subject of two pending lawsuits in the Delaware Chancery Court, one of which involves claims brought by the Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund (the "Redeemer Committee"), a member of the Committee. Another member of the Committee, UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG London Branch ("UBS"), has longstanding litigation pending against the Debtor in New York state court (not Texas). Predictably, the Debtor's professionals and those of its creditors are located around the country. Given the amounts at stake in this case and the complexity of the Debtor's assets and liabilities, venue should not be determined by how many miles the Debtor's employees or professionals or those of its creditors are located from the courthouse. All parties reside at various commercial centers around this country and can easily travel wherever necessary in order to handle the important matters in this case.

4. Further, the pendency of the involuntary bankruptcy cases of Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management GP, LLP (together, "Acis") in Dallas, Texas does not make the Texas Bankruptcy Court a preferable forum for this case. Acis's involuntary cases were commenced by Joshua Terry ("Terry"), who now owns and manages Acis and represents that entity on the Committee. Terry assumed ownership of Acis by virtue of a contested plan of reorganization that was confirmed by the Texas Bankruptcy Court and which is now the subject of a pending appeal.² The interests of Acis are directly adverse to those of this estate.³ The Debtor and Acis have been, and continue to be, involved in highly contentious litigation, including matters that are the subject of multiple appeals from decisions of the Texas Bankruptcy Court and pending fraudulent transfer claims brought by Acis against the Debtor in the Texas Bankruptcy Court. The Debtor and Acis assert various substantial disputed and unliquidated claims against each other. Further, the Debtor's current business is unrelated to Acis, which is focused on managing certain collateralized loan obligations (or CLOs) in which the Debtor no longer has any direct interest. The Committee also does not establish how the prior testimony of the Debtor's representatives in the Acis bankruptcy is relevant to the instant chapter 11 case.⁴ Aside from the Debtor's prior relationship with Acis, the Texas Bankruptcy Court is not familiar with the Debtor's business and assets or the Debtor's liabilities that need to be restructured in this case. The Debtor's restructuring efforts are now managed by an independent and highly qualified CRO who has had no prior involvement with Acis or its bankruptcy proceedings. Hence, while it may be in the interests of the Acis estate for this matter to be transferred to the Texas Bankruptcy Court, it is certainly not in the best interests of the Debtor's estate or the parties to these proceedings, which is the only thing that matters.

5. As the Committee admits, the Debtor is entitled to substantial deference with respect to its choice of forum for its bankruptcy case. This Court is indisputably a legally proper forum given that the Debtor is a Delaware limited partnership. This Court also presents a convenient forum given that the Debtor's assets are so widely dispersed and there has been extensive ongoing litigation against the Debtor in the Delaware Chancery Court, including litigation commenced by the Redeemer Committee, a member of the Committee. In sum, aside from the Committee's perceived litigation advantage before the Texas Bankruptcy Court, there is no credible, let alone valid, basis for this case to be transferred to the Texas Bankruptcy Court where an adverse proceeding is pending when this Court presents a perfectly appropriate forum for effectuating a successful reorganization of the Debtor's affairs. The Debtor therefore urges this Court to deny the Motion to Transfer filed by the Committee.

Background

A. The Debtor's Bankruptcy Filing

6. On October 16, 2019 (the "Petition Date"), the Debtor commenced this case by filing a voluntary petition for relief under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code. The factual background regarding the Debtor, including its current and historical business operations and the events precipitating the chapter 11 filing, is set forth in detail in the Declaration of Frank Waterhouse in Support of First Day Motions, which is incorporated herein by reference.

7. The Debtor continues in the possession of its property and continues to operate and manage its business as a debtor in possession pursuant to sections 1107(a) and 1108 of the Bankruptcy Code.

8. No trustee or examiner has been appointed in the Debtor's chapter 11 case.

9. On October 29, 2019, the United States Trustee appointed the Committee, which consists of four members: (1) the Redeemer Committee; (2) UBS; (3) Acis; and (4) Meta-e Discovery. The Committee is represented by Sidley & Austin, with one of its lead attorneys based in New York City. Since retaining counsel, the Committee's first order of business was to file the Motion to Transfer.

B. The Debtor's Organizational Structure and Governance

10. The Debtor is a Delaware limited partnership. Its limited partnership interests are owned as follows: (a) 99.5% by Hunter Mountain Trust, a Delaware statutory trust based in New York, (b) 0.1866% by Dugaboy Investment Trust, a Delaware trust, (c) 0.0627% by Mark Okada, personally and through family trusts, and (d) 0.25% by Strand Advisors, Inc., a Delaware corporation. In sum, 99.94% of the Debtor's partnership interests are held through Delaware entities. Strand Advisors, Inc. also owns 100% of Debtor's general partnership interest. This Delaware entity, through its principal James Dondero, ultimately controlled the Debtor as of the Petition Date.

11. There is now new governance in place. On October 29, 2019, the Debtor filed its motion to retain Bradley Sharp as the CRO [Docket No. 75] (the "CRO Motion"). Pursuant to the CRO Motion, the Debtor seeks to retain the CRO with certain independent and exclusive powers and significant restrictions on termination. Specifically, the CRO will have sole authority over claims and transactions involving insiders. The CRO was previously appointed chief restructuring officer in Delaware cases such as Variant Holding Company LLC before Judge Brendan Shannon and Woodbridge Group of Companies LLC before Judge Kevin Carey (retired). The CRO Motion is set for hearing on November 19, 2019, the same date as the Motion to Transfer.⁵

⁵ In an apparent effort to prevent this Court from considering the CRO Motion, the Committee sought to have the Motion to Transfer set for hearing on shortened notice for November 7, but this Court denied that request before the Debtor filed its response.

12. Also on October 29, 2019, the Debtor filed its motion for approval of certain protocols with respect to ordinary course transactions [Docket No. 77] (the “Protocols Motion”). Pursuant to the Protocols Motion, the Debtor seeks approval of certain protocols to allow the Debtor to conduct ordinary course business in an uninterrupted and transparent manner, both for the benefit of the Debtor’s estate and its creditors and for the investors to whom the Debtor provides services. The Protocols Motion also is set for hearing on November 19.

13. The CRO Motion and the Protocols Motion are intended to bring independence and clarity to the Debtor’s governance structure. Based on these motions, there should be no doubt that qualified, independent management is in place with the Debtor and will be operating under a specified set of protocols and procedures to ensure that estate assets are properly preserved.

C. The Debtor’s Business, Assets, and Creditor Relationships are Complex and International in Scope

14. The Debtor is a multibillion-dollar global alternative investment manager. The Debtor operates a diverse investment platform, serving both institutional and retail investors worldwide. In addition to high-yield credit, the Debtor’s investment capabilities include public equities, real estate, private equity and special situations, structured credit, and sector- and region-specific verticals built around specialized teams. The Debtor also provides shared services to its affiliated registered investment advisors.

15. Pursuant to various contractual arrangements, the Debtor provides money management and advisory services for approximately $2.5 billion of assets under management. Separately, the Debtor provides shared services for approximately $7.5 billion of assets managed by a variety of affiliated and unaffiliated entities, including other affiliated registered investment advisors.

16. Although the Debtor is headquartered in Dallas, Texas, and most of its employees are based there, the Debtor's affiliates and related entities maintain offices in many international locales, including in Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro, Singapore, and Seoul. The Debtor primarily generates revenue from fees collected for the management and advisory services provided to funds that it manages, plus fees generated for services provided to its affiliates. These funds have investments all over the world. Specifically, the Debtor has its own proprietary investment assets and those of its clients held through various affiliates in Asia, South America, and Europe.

17. On October 29, 2019, the Debtor filed a motion to appoint a foreign representative in order to manage its various foreign interests [Docket No. 68] (the "Foreign Representative Motion"), including those in pending proceedings filed by the Redeemer Committee in Bermuda and the Cayman Islands.

18. The Debtor's principal assets in the United States consist of custodial and non-custodial interests in investments located all over the country. The Debtor has brokerage accounts at Jefferies in New York City that hold the bulk of the Debtor's liquid and illiquid securities. As of the Petition Date, the Debtor owed Jefferies approximately $30 million on account of margin borrowings. The Debtor's other principal secured creditor, Frontier State Bank, is based in Oklahoma City and is owed approximately $5.2 million as of the Petition Date.

D. The Debtor Has Litigation Pending in Delaware Chancery Court and New York

19. Aside from Acis, no Committee members are based in Dallas and two of them have litigation pending against the Debtor outside of Texas. As discussed further below, the Redeemer Committee commenced litigation against the Debtor in the Delaware Chancery Court and UBS commenced litigation against the Debtor in New York state court. The chairman and the majority of the members of the Redeemer Committee are located in Chicago. UBS's business representatives are based in or around New York City. The only trade vendor on the Committee, Meta-e Discovery, is based in Connecticut. Yet another allegedly substantial creditor of the Debtor, Patrick Daugherty ("Daugherty"), also has litigation pending against the Debtor in Delaware Chancery Court, including a matter that went to trial on October 14, 2019, just prior to the Petition Date, before it was stayed.

20. Redeemer Committee Litigation: Delaware Chancery Court and New York Arbitration. The Debtor's bankruptcy filing was precipitated by an arbitration award in favor of the Redeemer Committee (the "Award") initially issued against the Debtor in March 2019 by a panel of the American Arbitration Association based in New York City. The Debtor was formerly the investment manager for the Highland Crusader Fund (the "Crusader Fund"), which was based in Bermuda and the subject of insolvency proceedings there. On July 5, 2016, the Redeemer Committee (a) terminated and replaced the Debtor as investment manager of the Crusader Fund, (b) commenced an arbitration against the Debtor in New York City, and (c) commenced litigation against the Debtor in Delaware Chancery Court. In September 2018, the Debtor and the Redeemer Committee participated in a multi-day evidentiary hearing in New York City. In March 2019, following post-trial briefing, the arbitration panel issued its Award finding in favor of the Redeemer Committee on a variety of claims and requiring the Debtor to pay a gross amount of $189 million, subject to certain offsets and deductions. The Redeemer Committee set a hearing in the Delaware Chancery Court for October 8, 2019, in order to seek entry of a judgment with respect to the Award. The hearing was subsequently continued to October 16, 2019. The Debtor filed this case just prior to that hearing. The Redeemer Committee is represented by Jenner & Block attorneys based in Chicago, Illinois.

21. UBS Litigation: New York State Court. The Debtor and UBS are parties to a long-running litigation originally filed by UBS in February 2009 in the New York Supreme Court, County of New York. At bottom, UBS alleges that the Debtor and certain funds fraudulently induced UBS to restructure a transaction at the expense of UBS and then these parties and other entities fraudulently diverted certain assets to prevent UBS from obtaining a recovery on its claims. There have been numerous prejudgment motions and appeals in this case. The claims that remain consist primarily of breach of contract, fraudulent inducement and alter ego claims against certain defendants, a breach of implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing claim against the Debtor, and fraudulent conveyance claims against all defendants. UBS has asserted damages in excess of $686 million in the litigation, which the Debtor and the other defendants continue to vigorously dispute. The case was bifurcated, and the contract claims against certain fund defendants as well as the Debtor's counterclaim were addressed at a bench trial in July 2018. The court has not yet ruled on phase one of the trial. If the court finds a breach of contract occurred and awards damages against the fund defendants, then the remaining claims will be tried in a second phase of the trial. While awaiting a decision on phase one, the defendants filed a motion for judgment before trial with respect to the fraudulent transfer claims based on the fact that UBS is not a creditor of the parties who made the alleged fraudulent transfers. The motion was withdrawn due to its timing without prejudice to defendants' right to refile the motion after a decision has been made on phase one of the trial. UBS is represented by Latham & Watkins attorneys based in Washington, DC.

22. Daugherty Litigation: Delaware Chancery Court. Another allegedly substantial creditor of the Debtor who is not on the Committee, Daugherty, also commenced litigation against the Debtor in Delaware Chancery Court. Daugherty appears on the top 20 list in this case in the amount of $11.7 million, scheduled as contingent, unliquidated, and disputed. Daugherty is a former senior management employee of the Debtor. Among other matters, Daugherty sued the Debtor and certain of its affiliates in Delaware Chancery Court in July 2017 arising from his separation from the Debtor. In June 2018, the Delaware Chancery Court dismissed many of the claims asserted by Daugherty in the litigation. The remaining counts went to trial just prior to the Petition Date and have since been stayed by virtue of the Debtor's bankruptcy filing. Daugherty is represented by Delaware counsel.

E. The Debtor's Relationship with Acis and Ongoing Adverse Claims and Litigation

23. The Debtor previously provided sub-manager and sub-advisory services to Acis pursuant to certain contractual agreements that were terminated during the course of the Acis bankruptcy in or around August 2018. Since that time, the Debtor has not had, and does not currently have, any direct business dealings with respect to Acis or the CLO assets for which Acis serves as the CLO portfolio manager.⁶

⁶ The Debtor, through an affiliate, manages a client account that owns a notional value of approximately $150 million in securities issued by Acis CLOs. All of the Debtor's affiliated CLOs are currently in wind-down, meaning that they are not making any new investments.

24. Prior to his termination in June 2016, Terry was one of the Debtor's senior management employees who handled Acis and also had a partnership interest in Acis. After Terry was discovered surreptitiously tape recording internal meetings and conversations with numerous Highland personnel, he was terminated by the Debtor and subsequently asserted claims against Acis that went to arbitration. Terry ultimately obtained an arbitration award against Acis in the approximate amount of $8 million. Notably, although Terry asserted claims against the Debtor and other persons at Highland, the arbitration panel did not find liability against any party besides Acis.

25. Terry commenced involuntary chapter 7 bankruptcy cases against Acis in the Texas Bankruptcy Court in January 2018 on his own behalf. No other creditors joined in the petitions, which Terry asserted was appropriate on the basis that Acis had fewer than 12 creditors. The Debtor is a major prepetition creditor of Acis, owed in excess of $8 million for various contractual services provided to Acis before and after the Acis bankruptcy filings. Acis, the alleged debtor in those matters, objected to the involuntary bankruptcy filings and presented evidence from certain of the Debtor's employees relating to whether the technical requirements for involuntary bankruptcy filings were met. These objections were ultimately overruled by the Texas Bankruptcy Court, which decision remains on appeal. Acis's bankruptcy cases were later converted to chapter 11 and a chapter 11 trustee (Robin Phelan) (the "Acis Trustee") was appointed in May 2018. No Chief Restructuring Officer was ever appointed in the Acis cases, much less a CRO with expanded powers.

26. Subsequently, the Debtor and two of its related, affected parties in interest objected to the confirmation of a chapter 11 plan proposed by the Acis Trustee (and supported by Terry) for a multitude of reasons, including that certain injunctive provisions were inappropriately targeted at the Debtor and related parties. The Texas Bankruptcy Court ultimately overruled all objections and confirmed the plan in January 2019, which decision remains on appeal. During the course of the Acis bankruptcy cases, the Texas Bankruptcy Court heard no material evidence from the Debtor's employees about the details of its business, assets, or liabilities, aside from its prior involvement with Acis. The Committee does not establish how the prior testimony of the Debtor's representatives in the Acis bankruptcy is relevant to the instant chapter 11 case. Hence, the Texas Bankruptcy Court has no specialized knowledge with respect to the Debtor generally or the issues that will be relevant in this chapter 11 case.

27. Pursuant to the Acis Trustee's confirmed chapter 11 plan, Terry is Acis's sole equity holder and controls and manages that entity. The Acis Trustee had previously commenced litigation in the Texas Bankruptcy Court against the Debtor and other parties for breach of contract, breach of fiduciary duties, fraudulent transfers, and conspiracy, and has sought to offset and/or subordinate the Debtor's claims against Acis. In a nutshell, the causes of action in that lawsuit revolve around the hotly contested allegations that the Debtor conspired to strip Acis of its assets at Terry's expense. Through his ownership and control of Acis pursuant to the Acis Trustee's confirmed plan, Terry now controls these claims against the Debtor, which remain at an early stage in the Texas Bankruptcy Court and have been stayed as to the Debtor.⁷

⁷ The defendants have filed motions to withdraw the reference as well as motions to dismiss. The Texas Bankruptcy Court held a status conference on the motions to withdraw the reference on September 4, 2019 and was required to submit a "Report and Recommendation" to the United States District Court for the Northern District of Texas. As of the Petition Date, the Texas Bankruptcy Court had not issued its Report and Recommendation. This adversary proceeding is now subject to the automatic stay of 11 U.S.C. §362(a). This proceeding has yet to reach the procedural stage where any of the defendants have had to file their answers.

28. The respective bankruptcy estates of Acis and the Debtor are adverse to each other. Acis has claims and pending litigation against the Debtor and the Debtor has outstanding claims against Acis that total no less than $8 million for services rendered. The various litigation claims of Acis against the Debtor are prepetition claims that have been stayed.

29. The Committee now seeks to move the Debtor's bankruptcy case to the Texas Bankruptcy Court -- Acis's "home court" -- in order to obtain some perceived litigation advantage. The Debtor objects to the Motion to Transfer as completely contrary to the interests of this estate.

Legal Basis for Objection to Motion to Transfer

A. The Debtor's Case is Properly Venued in This District Because the Debtor is Organized in the State of Delaware

30. The Debtor is a limited partnership formed under the laws of Delaware. Consequently, venue of this case is proper in Delaware as a matter of law under 28 U.S.C. § 1408. See, e.g., In re Restaurants Acquisition I, LLC, 2016 Bankr. LEXIS 684, at *6 (Bankr. D. Del. Mar. 4, 2016) ("Because the Debtor is organized under the laws of Delaware, this forum is proper under the statute."); In re Innovative Communication Co., LLC, 358 B.R. 120, 125 (Bankr. D. Del. 2006) ("Venue is appropriate in the state of incorporation, 28 U.S.C. § 1408(1), so venue is proper in Delaware with respect to the corporate Debtors."). The Committee does not (and cannot) challenge this point.

B. The Debtor's Choice of Forum in Delaware is Entitled to Substantial Weight and Should Not Be Disturbed

31. Given that venue in this District is legally proper, the Debtor's choice of this forum is entitled to great weight. See, e.g., Restaurants Acquisition, 2016 Bankr. LEXIS at *7 (“movant bears the burden of demonstrating that the factors strongly weigh in favor of a transfer as courts will generally grant substantial deference to a debtor’s choice of forum”); In re Ocean Properties of Delaware, Inc., 95 B.R. 304, 305 (Bankr. D. Del. 1988) (same). Therefore, a court considering a venue transfer motion “should exercise its power to transfer cautiously, and the party moving for the transfer must show by a preponderance of the evidence that the case should be transferred.” In re Commonwealth Oil Refining Co., Inc. (Commonwealth of Puerto Rico v. Commonwealth Oil Refining Co., Inc.), 596 F.2d 1239, 1241 (5th Cir. 1979), cert. denied, 444 U.S. 1045 (1980) (“CORCO”) (internal citations omitted); accord In re Fairfield Puerto Rico, Inc., 333 F. Supp. 1187, 1989 (D. Del. 1971) (“This Court should not freely abandon to any other district its duty to determine a matter clearly within its jurisdiction.”); In re Rehoboth Hospitality, LP, 2011 WL 5024267, at *3 (Bankr. D. Del. 2011) (“The burden of proof is on the moving party requesting transfer.”).

32. These principles apply with even greater force in a case such as this where a Delaware-organized partnership seeks the protection of Delaware courts. As noted above, over 99% of the Debtor’s limited interests and 100% of its general partnership interests are held by Delaware entities. There is a “fundamental legal tenet that every citizen of a state is entitled to take advantage of the state and federal judicial process available in that state.” In re PWS Holdings, 1998 Bankr. LEXIS 549, at *14 (Bankr. D. Del. Apr. 28, 1998). Further, “Delaware has an interest in protecting the rights of its citizens,” and correspondingly, change of venue can only be granted upon a strong showing of equities favoring the transfer. Intel Corp. v. Broadcom Corp., 167 F. Supp. 2d 692, 706 (D. Del. 2001).

33. Given the strong presumption that a debtor's choice of forum should not be disturbed, courts rarely grant such relief. In those few cases where venue has been transferred, there was generally some unique compelling factor that justified transfer, such as the debtor's consent, the matter was a single asset real estate case, or there was non-stayed litigation that warranted consolidation of cases before a single court or judge. None of these factors are present here.

34. In fact, the various adversary claims pending against the Debtor that currently linger in the Texas Bankruptcy Court weigh strongly against a transfer of venue there. The claims asserted by Acis against the Debtor are prepetition claims that are stayed. Whether those claims are ever unstayed, they are clearly adverse to the interests of the Debtor's estate, particularly where Acis is asserting such claims as a basis to offset and/or subordinate the large claims that the Debtor holds against Acis. Notably, Acis is no longer affiliated with the Debtor. It is merely a litigation claimant. Yet, the Committee chose to file the Motion to Transfer to the Texas Bankruptcy Court in order to achieve a litigation advantage at the expense of this estate. The Debtor urges the Court to see through this blatant litigation tactic which fails to come close to overcoming the strong presumption in favor of the Debtor's proper choice of venue in Delaware.

C. The Convenience of the Parties Weighs in Favor of Retaining Venue in Delaware

35. When a bankruptcy court is asked to transfer an entire bankruptcy case to another bankruptcy court, it must examine whether the transfer would be (a) in the interest of justice, or (b) the convenience of the parties. 28 U.S.C. § 1412. In considering the "convenience of the parties,” courts have identified six factors, among others, to help guide their discretion.

These six factors are:

- i. the economic administration of the estate;
- ii. the location of the assets;
- iii. the proximity of creditors of every kind to the court;
- iv. the proximity of the debtor to the court;
- v. the proximity of the witnesses necessary to the administration of the estate; and
- vi. the necessity for ancillary administration if liquidation should result.

See, e.g., CORCO, 596 F.2d at 1247; Restaurants Acquisition, 2016 Bankr. LEXIS at *7

(applying CORCO factors); Innovative, 358 B.R. at 125 (citing CORCO factors and other private and public interests that may be relevant). As discussed herein, the Committee has failed to meet its “heavy burden of proof . . . to demonstrate that the balance of convenience weighs in [its] favor.” Lionel Leisure, Inc. v. Trans Cleveland Warehouses, Inc. (In re Lionel Corp.), 24 B.R. 141, 142 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1982). Consequently, the Motion to Transfer must be denied.

i. The Economic Administration of the Estate

36. The economic and efficient administration of the estate is the most important factor when considering a motion to transfer venue. CORCO, 596 F.2d at 1247; In re Caesars Entertainment Operating Co., 2015 Bankr. LEXIS 314, at *22 (Bankr. D. Del. Feb. 2, 2015); In re Industrial Pollution Control, Inc., 137 B.R. 176, 182 (Bankr. W.D. Pa. 1992). Despite the importance of this factor, however, the Committee makes little effort to explain why the economic administration of the estate would be improved if this case was transferred, other than to argue that the Texas Bankruptcy Court heard days of evidence in an unrelated matter of questionable relevance to the chapter 11 proceedings at hand. See Motion to Transfer at ¶¶11 – 13, 29 – 31. The pendency of the Acis bankruptcy in the Texas Bankruptcy Court should not form a basis for transferring venue for the following six (6) reasons.

37. First, the Debtor is now managed by the CRO, who is charged with administering the restructuring efforts of the Debtors in this case and has independent authority as to insider claims and insider transactions. Whatever may have been said by the Debtor's management in the context of the Acis bankruptcy is irrelevant to the tasks at hand in this case that will be carried out by the CRO, an independent and highly qualified professional who has had no involvement in the Acis cases.

38. Second, the evidence presented by the Debtor's employees in the Acis bankruptcy cases is irrelevant to the case at hand. Their testimony generally focused on (a) whether Terry satisfied the legal requirements to file involuntary cases against Acis and (b) the structure of actively managed CLOs. None of this testimony by the Debtor's employees is relevant to the Debtor's present chapter 11 case. Acis was the sole branch of the Debtor's affiliated structure that managed active CLOs. As a result of the confirmed chapter 11 plan in the Acis cases, Acis is no longer part of the Debtor's organizational structure. The Debtor owns no equity in Acis. The Debtor no longer advises or sub-advises any active CLOs. The Debtor only has CLOs that are in liquidation -- monetizing their underlying assets and paying off their remaining investors. While the Texas Bankruptcy Court learned much about the complexities of managing active CLOs, that information is irrelevant to this Debtor.

39. Third, the core issue in the reorganization of Acis was maintaining the cash flows from Acis's managed CLOs. However, the CLOs currently managed by the Debtor provide just 10% of the Debtor's revenue, and that number will shrink over time as the CLOs liquidate. The Debtor derives the other 90% of its revenue from managing asset classes that were never implicated in the Acis proceeding, including private equity, mutual funds, open-ended retail funds, hedge funds, and real estate funds.

40. Fourth, the Committee neither attaches evidence demonstrating what relevant facts the Texas Bankruptcy Court learned about the Debtor, nor explains how any such evidence could possibly implicate an insurmountable "learning curve" for this Court. See Motion to Transfer at ¶31. The Committee does not attach any of the 700 allegedly relevant exhibits or any of the testimony from the Acis proceeding. The Committee references three published opinions of the Texas Bankruptcy Court from the Acis proceeding, but provides no reasoning or even citations demonstrating how these opinions evidence the Texas Bankruptcy Court's purportedly extensive knowledge of the Debtor's current structure and management.

41. Fifth, even assuming it learned anything relevant about the Debtor's corporate structure, the Texas Bankruptcy Court knows little about the details of the Debtor's business, assets, or liabilities, or its restructuring efforts. To the extent it addressed the Debtor's business, the evidence in the Acis proceeding focused on a CLO business that the Debtor no longer operates nor manages in any way. The evidence in the Acis proceeding never focused on the Debtor's assets and liabilities. Even at this early stage of the Debtor's chapter 11 case, this Court is already more familiar with the Debtor than the Texas Bankruptcy Court, which is appropriately charged with overseeing the Acis proceeding and not this one.

42. Sixth, the level of conflicts between the Debtor and Acis make the economic and fair administration of this case in the Texas Bankruptcy Court highly problematic. There is a pending adversary proceeding by Acis against the Debtor, which proceeding has been stayed. The Committee does not explain how the Texas Bankruptcy Court is supposed to preside over the Debtor's estate and the pending adversary proceeding in the Acis case concurrently.⁸ Indeed, the only reason for the Committee to seek a transfer of venue to the Texas Bankruptcy Court in the first place is to obtain some perceived litigation advantage vis-à-vis the Debtor's estate, which is not a proper basis to transfer venue.⁹ Given the substantial adverse interests that exist between the Debtor and Acis, the Debtor submits that this chapter 11 case can be much more effectively administered by this Court.

ii. The Location of the Assets

43. Although the Debtor's headquarters is located in Dallas, Texas and most of its employees are based there, the Debtor's assets are widely dispersed all over the world. The Debtor has over $2.5 billion of assets under management and receives management and advisory fees from a multitude of sources around the world. The Debtor also provides shared services for approximately $7.5 billion of assets managed by a variety of affiliated and unaffiliated entities, including other affiliated registered investment advisors. The Debtor's affiliates and related parties maintain offices in many international locales, including Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro, ⁸ See supra n. 8.

⁹ As part of this ongoing litigation strategy, Acis has objected to the Debtor retaining Foley & Lardner LLP ("Foley") and Lynn, Pinker, Cox, & Hurst LLP ("Lynn Pinker") as counsel to pursue the Debtor's claims against Acis and to defend the Debtor and certain of its wholly owned subsidiaries against Acis's claims. See Dkt. 116. Acis's objection to Foley and Lynn Pinker's retention does not even attempt to explain the benefit to the Debtor's estate of stripping the Debtor of its counsel litigating both affirmative and defensive claims against Acis. This highlights the conflict that the Texas Bankruptcy Court would face in handling both the Acis and Highland matters.

Singapore, and Seoul. And the Debtor has its own proprietary investment assets and those of its clients held through various affiliates in Asia, South America, and Europe. The Debtor has already filed the Foreign Representative Motion in order to assist the Debtor in managing its various foreign interests.

44. Similarly, the Debtor's principal assets in the United States consist of custodial and non-custodial interests in investments located across the country. The Debtor has brokerage accounts at Jefferies in New York City that hold the bulk of the Debtor's liquid and illiquid securities. As of the Petition Date, the Debtor owed Jefferies approximately $30 million on account of margin borrowings. The Debtor's other principal secured creditor, Frontier State Bank, is based in Oklahoma City and is owed approximately $5.2 million as of the Petition Date. Relatively speaking, the Debtor has minimal assets in Texas.

45. Nonetheless, even if most of the Debtor's assets were construed to be located in Texas (which they are not), numerous courts have found that the location of assets is not a significant factor in deciding whether venue should be transferred unless the case involves liquidation as opposed to rehabilitation or is a single asset real estate case. See Restaurants Acquisition, 2016 Bankr. LEXIS at *12 ("the location of a company's assets is not as crucial to the analysis where the ultimate goal is rehabilitation rather than liquidation"); In re Safety-Kleen Corp., 2001 Bankr. LEXIS 1296, at *10 (Bankr. D. Del. Aug. 27, 2001) ("location of assets is generally only significant in a single asset real estate case or liquidation"); see also In re Enron Corp., 274 B.R. 327, 348 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2002) ("[W]hile a debtor's location and the location of its assets are often important considerations in single asset real estate cases, these factors take on less importance in a case where a debtor has assets in various locations.").

46. The outcome of this case will not turn on the day-to-day management of the Debtor's assets, but instead will be driven by the Debtor's ability to restructure its balance sheet and maximize the value of its assets, many of which are illiquid. This Court will be focused on matters such as plan confirmation and governance, which the Debtor proposes to place into the capable hands of the CRO pursuant to the terms of the pending CRO Motion and subject to the guidelines set forth in the Protocols Motion. Most of the objections to the key issues that will arise in this case will be grounded in the Bankruptcy Code and not based on any particular facts or circumstances unique to the Debtor's assets wherever located. However, to the extent this Court gives weight to the location of the Debtor's assets, this factor weighs in favor of denying the Motion to Transfer because the Debtor's interests and assets are widely dispersed throughout the country and the world.

iii. The Proximity of Creditors of Every Kind

47. The Committee spends a substantial portion of the Motion to Transfer evaluating the location of the Debtor's creditors and their professionals, and the relative amount of time that it takes to travel to this Court as compared to the Texas Bankruptcy Court. This analysis is misguided and irrelevant under the circumstances of this case. The Debtor does not have thousands of small or unsophisticated creditors who cannot navigate their way to Delaware. The creditors here are generally litigants or attorneys. They are located in commercial centers all over the country. The amounts at stake total hundreds of millions of dollars. It is of no consequence whether a creditor or an attorney is based in Chicago, New York, or Los Angeles. The creditors and professionals involved in this case will travel wherever necessary in order to advocate their respective positions, and Delaware is certainly just as convenient as Dallas.

Caesars, 2015 Bankr. LEXIS 314, at *23 (“in this day of law firms with multiple offices across the nation, convenient and accessible airports, electronic access to information and court dockets at every lawyer’s fingertips, it is fair to say that both this [Delaware Bankruptcy] Court and the Illinois Court are convenient forums for purposes of the CORCO analysis.”).

48. Further, one of the Committee members and the Debtor’s largest creditor, the Redeemer Committee, has commenced litigation that is pending in the Delaware Chancery Court. In fact, the main trigger for the Debtor’s bankruptcy filing was a hearing set by the Redeemer Committee in the Delaware Chancery Court to obtain a judgment on a $189 million Award. If Delaware is convenient enough for the Redeemer Committee, it is certainly an appropriate forum for this case. Daugherty is another allegedly significant creditor of the Debtor who chose to commence litigation in Delaware Chancery Court, which matter commenced trial just prior to the Petition Date. UBS, another member of the Committee, has litigation pending against the Debtor in New York.

49. The bottom line is that in a case of the size and complexity of this one, involving highly sophisticated and well-represented creditors, there is absolutely no reason to transfer venue on the basis of the proximity of creditors to the Texas Bankruptcy Court.

iv. The Proximity of the Debtor and Witnesses Necessary to the Administration of the Estate

50. As discussed in CORCO, the Court’s consideration of the location of the Debtor should focus on the proximity to the Court of the Debtor’s employees and representatives who must appear in court, not with the employees who conduct the day-to-day business activities of the Debtor. CORCO, 596 F.2d at 1248; see also Restaurants Acquisition, 2016 Bankr. LEXIS at *11 (“Courts have noted the inquiry should focus primarily on the location of parties that must appear in court.”).

51. In this case, the CRO is expected to take the lead in managing the Debtor’s restructuring efforts and testifying on behalf of the Debtor. The CRO is a highly accomplished and independent professional based in Los Angeles who regularly appears in this Court and was previously chief restructuring officer in Delaware cases such as Variant Holding Company LLC before Judge Brendan Shannon and Woodbridge Group of Companies LLC before Judge Kevin Carey (retired). Few Debtor employees should be required to testify in this case on a going forward basis and, even if they were, travel to this Court is easily accomplished and consistent with the many prior trips required of such employees by the Redeemer Committee and Daugherty in choosing to commence litigation in Delaware Chancery Court. The Debtor’s bankruptcy counsel also has an office in Delaware and has no need to hire local counsel here, whereas in Dallas, local counsel would need to be retained.

52. Given what is at stake, the Debtor and its employees, including the CRO, are conveniently located within sufficient proximity of this Court such that this factor does not weigh in favor of a venue transfer to the Texas Bankruptcy Court.

v. The Necessity for Ancillary Administration if Liquidation Should Result

53. The final factor relates to the necessity for ancillary administration if liquidation should result. As the courts in CORCO, Enron and Fairfield Puerto Rico recognized, “anticipation of the failure of the [Chapter 11] proceeding is an illogical basis upon which to predicate a transfer.” CORCO, 596 F.2d at 1248; see also Enron, 274 B.R. at 349; In re Fairfield Puerto Rico, Inc., 333 F. Supp. at 1191. Indeed, “[t]his factor is often discounted by courts.” Enron, 274 B.R. at 343, n. 11. The Debtor’s focus in this case is to propose a chapter 11 plan that will maximize value for all constituents, and the Committee offers no factual basis for this Court to contemplate the failure of the Debtor’s chapter 11 case. See In re Fairfield Puerto Rico, Inc., 333 F. Supp. at 1191. Accordingly, this factor does not favor transfer of venue.

D. The Interest of Justice is Not Served By Transferring Venue

54. In determining whether a transfer would be “in the interest of justice,” the court should consider “whether transfer of venue will promote the efficient administration of the estate, judicial economy, timeliness, and fairness.” Enron, 274 B.R. at 387. These factors have generally been discussed above and support keeping this case in Delaware. Additional concerns that would speak to the “interest of justice” include facts such as the importance of a debtor to the welfare and economic stability of a jurisdiction, and are not present in this case. See CORCO, 596 F.2d at 1248 (even though the importance of the debtor, a major supplier of petroleum to Puerto Rico, to the welfare and economic stability of Puerto Rico implicated “interest of justice” considerations, the court determined not to transfer venue to Puerto Rico).

55. As noted above, venue is legally proper in this Court and the Debtor is entitled to substantial deference as to its choice of forum. But even if the Court considered the interests of justice and the convenience of the parties, there is no legitimate basis to transfer this case to the Texas Bankruptcy Court given the sophistication, complexity, and scope of the Debtors’ business, domestic and foreign assets, and creditor constituents, and pendency of creditor actions in the Delaware Chancery Court and New York.

56. The Texas Bankruptcy Court is also the venue where the unaffiliated and adverse bankruptcy case of Acis has been pending. Acis has asserted fraudulent transfer and other disputed claims against the Debtor, which claims are all prepetition in nature. The Debtor, in turn, has contract claims against Acis totaling in excess of $8 million. The efficient administration of this estate, judicial economy, timeliness, and fairness would not be served by having the Texas Bankruptcy Court adjudicate these countervailing claims and interests. The interests of justice also would not be served by transferring venue in order for the Committee to realize a tactical litigation advantage before the Texas Bankruptcy Court.

57. For all these reasons, the Debtor urges this Court to maintain venue of this case in Delaware.

WHEREFORE, the Debtor respectfully requests that this Court enter an order denying the Motion to Transfer and granting such other and further relief as this Court deems appropriate.

ACIS’S JOINDER IN MOTION TO TRANSFER VENUE

Creditors Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management GP, LLC (collectively “Acis”) join in the Motion of the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors For an Order Transferring Venue of this Case to the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas (the “Motion”) [Dkt. No. 86] pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1412, and respectfully show the following:²

SUMMARY OF JOINDER

1. The “astonishingly contentious” Texas bankruptcy proceedings of the former “structured credit arm of Highland” makes this transfer request unique. This Court should not reinvent the wheel in Delaware, a wheel that was ably constructed in Texas by the tireless work of a federal bankruptcy and district court located less than two miles from Highland’s international headquarters, a wheel that was constructed through the expenditure of millions and millions of the Debtor’s, its affiliates’, and its creditors’ money. Those precious resources should be preserved and maximized. Congress enacted section 1412 for cases such as this, where the interests of justice compel a transfer. The convenience of the parties is just icing on

¹ The Debtor’s last four digits of its taxpayer identification number are (6725). The headquarters and service address for the above-captioned Debtor is 300 Crescent Court, Suite 700, Dallas, TX 75201.

² Unless otherwise defined, Acis incorporates herein the defined terms in the Motion. Acis uses the term “Debtor” and “Highland” interchangeably.

the cake. While Highland had the ability to file this case in Delaware, its choice of venue squanders the considerable resources expended—by Highland, various creditors and stakeholders, and the judiciary—and foists upon this Court the burden of reinventing the wheel. The Court should, instead, transfer this case to the Northern District of Texas using the broad discretion afforded it by section 1412.

ARGUMENT & AUTHORITY

A. Acis and Highland were affiliates under the Bankruptcy Code.

2. Until a short time ago, Acis was an affiliate of Highland under the Bankruptcy Code – that is beyond dispute. In re Acis Capital Mgmt., L.P. (“Acis III”), 604 B.R. 484, 499 (N.D. Tex. 2019) (“Highland conducted its CLO business through an entity called Acis ...”); In re Acis Capital Mgmt., L.P. (“Acis II”), 18-30264-SGJ-11, 2019 WL 417149, at *2 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. Jan. 31, 2019), aff’d, 604 B.R. 484 (N.D. Tex. 2019) (“It is also undisputed that, prior to the appointment of the Chapter 11 Trustee, the Debtors and Highland were affiliated and had a close relationship.”); 11 U.S.C. § 101(2)(defining affiliate). Highland’s employee, Hunter Covitz, testified that Acis was the “structured credit arm of Highland.” Acis II, 2019 WL 417149, at *5. Highland controlled Acis “beyond a shadow of a doubt” until a Chapter 11 Trustee was appointed over Acis. Id.

3. Until Acis’ bankruptcy, both Acis and Highland were controlled by the same person, James Dondero. Id. (“Highland's General Counsel, Scott Ellington, testified that Mr. Dondero controlled them both.”). James Dondero remains in control of Highland. Dkt. No. 1. Acis and Highland were affiliates as defined by section 101(2) of the Bankruptcy Code.

4. As reflected in the extensive writings of Judges Jernigan and Fitzwater, it was impossible to discuss and understand Acis without understanding Highland’s business and its “organizational structure comprised of roughly 2,000 different entities.” Acis III, 604 B.R. at 499. Acis had no employees of its own, no physical location of its own, no leadership of its own. Id.; In re Acis Capital Mgmt., L.P. (“Acis I”), 584 B.R. 115, 125-26 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2018), appeal dismissed, 604 B.R. 484 (N.D. Tex. 2019). Instead, Acis acted solely through Highland and its ultimate authority, James Dondero. Id. Make no mistake, the “structured credit arm of Highland” was a debtor in bankruptcy in Texas until a very short time ago. Id.

B. In the bankruptcy context, three other federal courts recently expended, or will soon expend, countless hours of judicial resources on Highland.

5. The following chart summarizes the recent and extensive work performed, or that will be imminently performed, by three separate federal courts bearing directly upon—and mostly caused by—the Debtor, Highland:³

- (i) Hon. Stacey G.C. Jernigan Federal Bankruptcy Judge for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division, in Acis’s “astonishingly contentious” bankruptcy case⁴ and various related adversary proceedings.⁵ Acis II, 2019 WL 417149, at *2.
- (ii) Hon. Sidney A. Fitzwater Federal District Judge for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas, Division, in Highland and related parties’ serial appeals of Judge Jernigan’s rulings;⁶ and
- (iii) United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit Second set of appeals filed by Highland and related parties.⁷

(taking judicial notice of circumstances of previous case, such as nature of the claims and outcome of the case); In re Chicago Newspaper Liquidation Corp., 490 B.R. 487, 492 n.8 (Bankr. D. ⁵ Case Nos. 18-03078-sgj, 18-0312-sgj, and 19-03103-sgj (collectively the “Adversaries”)

⁶ Highland and its related parties filed no less than five appeals of Judge Jernigan’s rulings: Civil Action Nos. 3:18-CV-1056-D, 3:18-CV-1057-D, 3:18-CV-1073-D, 3:18-CV-1084-D, 3:18-CV-1822-D, 3:19-CV-0291-D (collectively the “District Court Appeals”). To the extent any party disputes that Highland CLO Funding, Ltd. and Nuetra, Ltd. are related to Highland, see Acis II, 2019 WL 417149, at *7 (“As with HCLOF Guernsey, the court also concludes that Nuetra-Cayman is absolutely, beyond any reasonable doubt, controlled by Highland, as explained further below.”) (emphasis added).

C. The interest of justice warrants a transfer to the Northern District of Texas.

6. The Committee addressed the “convenience of the parties” basis for transfer under section 1412, and Acis hereby incorporates by reference the Committees’ arguments thereon. Acis submits that while a transfer is more than justified on that ground alone, the Court should strongly consider the less-often-argued “interest of justice” basis for transfer under section 1412. The one-of-a-kind nature of this case vis-à-vis the Acis Bankruptcy, the Adversaries, the District Court Appeals, and the Fifth Circuit Appeals makes a transfer for the interest of justice particularly appropriate in this unique case.

7. Under section 1412, the moving party need only show by a preponderance of the evidence that the transfer of venue is appropriate. In re Dunmore Homes, Inc., 380 B.R. 663, 677 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2008) (finding moving parties met burden of proof to transfer Chapter 11 proceeding).

8. This Court's sister court addressed the section 1412 transfer of a Chapter 11 proceeding in a well-reasoned opinion in In re Rests. Acquisition I, LLC, 15-12406 (KG), 2016 WL 855089, at *2 (Bankr. D. Del. Mar. 4, 2016) (Gross, J.); see also In re Dunmore, 380 B.R. at 677 (granting § 1412 transfer of a Chapter 11 proceeding). Judge Gross stated that “[w]hen determining whether a transfer would serve the interest of justice, courts consider whether such transfer ‘will promote the efficient administration of the estate, judicial economy, timeliness, and fairness.’” In re Rest. Acquisition I, LLC, 2016 WL 855089, at *5 (quoting In re Enron Corp., 274 B.R. 327, 343 (Bankr.S.D.N.Y.2002) (quoting *Gulf States Exploration Co. v. Manville Forest Prods. Corp. (i) A transfer will promote the efficient administration of the estate.

9. “The most weight is given to the promotion of the economic and efficient administration of the estate.” In re Dunmore Homes, Inc., 380 B.R. 663, 676 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2008). It is more economic to administer this case in the Northern District of Texas. Transferring venue will mean that Debtor and its agents, along with a vast number of creditors, the majority of which are located in Texas over any other state will not have to travel to Delaware for hearings. The Northern District of Texas provides for permissive admission pro hac vice. <http://www.txnd.uscourts.gov/pro-hac-vice-appearance>. Many of Debtor's counsel have taken advantage of these rules – they have appeared numerous times in the Northern District of Texas. E.g. In re Buffet Partners, L.P., 14-30699-HDH-11, 2014 WL 3735804 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. July 28, 2014); Objecting Class 3 Claimholders v. New Mirant Entities, 4:06-CV-744-A, 2006 WL 3780884 (N.D. Tex. Dec. 26, 2006); In re Reddy Ice Holdings, Inc., 12-32349-SGJ-11, 2017 WL 2347551 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. May 30, 2017).

10. Courts in this district have historically placed a particular emphasis “on the “learning curve” that typically militates against a transfer. See In re Rests. Acquisition I, LLC, No. 15-12406 (KG), 2016 Bankr. LEXIS 684, at *15-16 (Bankr. D. Del. March 4, 2016). Indeed, that issue was the first one raised by Judge Gross in Rests. Acquisition. Id. However, as discussed by the Committee, the “learning curve” that typically militates against a transfer in the interest-of-justice basis of § 1412 is actually inverted in this case. That is, it is not the proposed transferee court that will have a “learning curve,” but rather this Court if this case stays in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware.

11. That is true, and will soon be true, on three separate levels of federal court jurisdiction: the bankruptcy court, district court, and circuit court of appeals. Judge Jernigan, Judge Fitzwater, and soon a panel of the Fifth Circuit will have a far less steep learning curve regarding the Debtor if this Court grants transfer. The Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division has extensive knowledge regarding the Debtor, its business operations, its litigation, its management, its executives, and that court just so happens to be a stone's throw from Highland's international headquarters.¹².

- (ii) A transfer will promote judicial economy.

13. If ever a transfer would promote judicial economy, it is in this case. It is beyond reasonable dispute that transferring this case to the Dallas Bankruptcy Court is in the interest of judicial economy. Judges Jernigan and Fitzwater, and soon a panel of the Fifth Circuit, have expended untold hours working on the Acis Bankruptcy, the Adversaries, and the District Court Appeals. That experience, as manifested by their extensive writings, gave these jurists intimate and deep knowledge regarding Highland. They have done so in a timely and fair fashion. Not taking advantage of these courts' previous hard work is the antithesis of promoting judicial economy. Nor should we squander the millions and millions of dollars that Highland, Acis, other creditors and other stakeholders spent in legal fees, lost productivity, and costs in the Acis Bankruptcy to get an otherwise capable bankruptcy court, this Court, to the same point on the learning curve. All parties should be interested in making sure that those precious resources are not wasted, including Highland. A transfer to the Northern District of Texas promotes judicial economy.

(iii) A transfer will promote timeliness.

14. With their vast knowledge of Highland and could-not-be-closer proximity to relevant witnesses and evidence, the Northern District of Texas can undoubtedly timely adjudicate this case.

(iv) A transfer will promote fairness.

15. There is certainly nothing unfair about transferring these cases to a venue in which employees, creditors, and numerous other parties-in-interest may participate in the restructuring process. Highland is centralized in a venue, the Northern District of Texas, that is well-positioned to handle these cases and readily accessible to all parties-in-interest.

16. The Northern District of Texas has a local interest in deciding local controversies at home. See In re Cubic Energy, Inc., 603 B.R. 743, 756 (Bankr. D. Del. 2019). Highland prides itself on its Texas connections. <https://www.highlandcapital.com/about-us/our-history/> (“Within a year of finalizing the PAMCO agreement, Mr. Dondero and Mr. Okada moved the firm to Dallas, Texas. The new headquarters put the firm closer to the finance capital of New York, both in terms of the time zone and travel distance. Texas also offered a more business-friendly environment and lower taxes, as well as a better commute.”). Highland employs a significant number of residents of Dallas, Texas. Dkt. 9 at 7-8. And Highland takes credit for philanthropic efforts aimed at various organizations in Texas, and specifically Dallas. <https://www.highlandcapital.com/community/>. Finally, local courts in Texas have already made significant rulings that are highly relevant to this Chapter 11 proceeding. Highland’s purported inability to timely pay its creditors, many of which are in Texas (far more than any other single state), and Highland’s efforts to reorganize, are a local controversy that should be decided at home in Texas.

17. It is supremely fair to require Highland to reorganize before courts from which Highland asked so much. Highland, through its extremely aggressive litigation tactics, forced Judges Jernigan and Fitzwater to spend significant resources to understand its business and the issues that Highland and related parties chose to appeal.

18. Is it fair for Highland to adjudicate this bankruptcy proceeding before those same courts, those same courts where time and again, Highland requested more and more of the judges’ and their clerks’ time and effort? Acis believes the answer to that question is manifest, as it was largely Highland’s actions that forced the expenditure of significant judicial resources, not to mention Highland’s and others’ resources. Highland forced Judges Jernigan and Fitzwater to educate themselves on Highland – fairness mandates that this Court transfers this case to the Northern District of Texas.

CONCLUSION

19. A debtor's choice of venue is not sacrosanct. Otherwise, section 1412 would not exist. We must, of course, operate under the cannon that Congress intended the laws it passes to have meaning. See Hibbs v. Winn, 542 U.S. 88, 89 (2004). The deference afforded to a debtor's choice of forum gives way to the practicalities and facts of a particular case, as manifested in section 1412. This case is the posterchild for a transfer in the interest of justice. The fact that that transferee court is less than two miles from Highland's headquarters is merely a bonus. Acis requests the Court to transfer this case to the Northern District of Texas pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1412, and such other relief to which Acis is entitled.

REPLY OF THE OFFICIAL COMMITTEE OF UNSECURED CREDITORS IN SUPPORT OF MOTION TO TRANSFER VENUE OF THIS CASE TO THE UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS

The official committee of unsecured creditors (the “Committee”) of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the “Debtor”) hereby submits this reply (the “Reply”) to the Objection of the Debtor to Motion of Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors to Transfer Venue of this Case to the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas [Docket No. 118] (the “Objection”) in support of the Motion of Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors to Transfer Venue of this Case to the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas [Docket No. 86] (the “Motion”).² In response to the Objection and in further support of the Motion, the Committee respectfully states as follows:

REPLY

1. Transferring the venue of this case to the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas (the “Dallas Bankruptcy Court”) is entirely appropriate, and doing so serves the convenience of the parties and is in the interest of justice. Rather than reiterate all of

¹ The Debtor’s last four digits of its taxpayer identification number are (6725). The headquarters and service address for the above-captioned Debtor is 300 Crescent Court, Suite 700, Dallas, TX 75201.

² Capitalized terms used but not otherwise defined herein shall have the meanings set forth in the Motion.

the arguments set forth in the Motion, the Committee submits this Reply only to respond to six misguided arguments the Debtor raises in its Objection.

2. First, the Debtor asserts that the Committee has not established that the testimony of the Debtor's management team in the Acis Bankruptcy is relevant to the Debtor's choice of venue because the Debtor is now managed by its proposed Chief Restructuring Officer ("CRO"), Mr. Bradley Sharp, who had no prior involvement with the Acis Bankruptcy. This argument misses the mark. As more fully set forth in the Omnibus Objection of the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors to the Debtor's (I) Motion for Final Order Authorizing Continuance of the Existing Cash Management System, (II) Motion to Employ and Retain Development Specialists, Inc. to Provide a Chief Restructuring Officer, and (III) Precautionary Motion for Approval of Protocols for "Ordinary Course" Transactions [Docket No. 125] (the "Omnibus Objection"), filed on November 12, 2019, and incorporated herein by reference, it is inaccurate to say that the CRO is "managing" the Debtor. To start, the CRO was engaged mere days before the chapter 11 filing, and has only been employed by the Debtor for approximately one month, several weeks of which the Committee understands the CRO has spent recovering from serious medical issues. While the Committee is not disputing the CRO's qualifications, it is simply implausible that any professional—even one who was physically present at the Debtor's office—could get completely up to speed with an organization as complex as the Debtor's and become as familiar with the business as the Debtor's current management in such a short time frame. More critical, however, is the fact that the Debtor is still controlled by the exact same management who (i) historically managed the Debtor, (ii) testified in the Acis Bankruptcy, (iii) can be terminated by Mr. Dondero and, (iv) as the Debtor's motion to retain the CRO makes clear, to whom the CRO still reports. Nothing has changed—Mr. Dondero is still in control. Notwithstanding the "fresh start" that

Chapter 11 affords, the Debtor's case will very much be about the past—the past conduct and transactions engaged in by the Debtor, Mr. Dondero and his labyrinth of affiliated and controlled entities. As such, the Dallas Bankruptcy Court's familiarity with how the Debtor operates, gained through many days of testimony and argument including on topics such as advisory agreements and shared services agreements with the Debtor, is extremely relevant to the Debtor's bankruptcy case. See In re Acis Capital Mgmt., L.P., No. 18-30264 (SGJ), 2019 WL 406137, at *8 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. Jan. 31, 2019) (the "Acis Confirmation Opinion").

3. Second, the Debtor argues that the testimony given by the Debtor's employees in the Acis Bankruptcy is irrelevant to this case. On the contrary, as set forth in the Omnibus Objection, the prior testimony of the Debtor's employees reflects a pattern of behavior by Mr. Dondero and his senior executives that, if permitted to continue during this chapter 11 case, is likely to deplete value from the Debtor's estate to the detriment of its creditors. This pattern of past behavior, with which the Dallas Bankruptcy Court is extremely familiar, is highly relevant to examining the Committee's concerns regarding the potential siphoning of funds from the Debtor by Mr. Dondero.

4. Third, the Debtor's argument that the core issue in the Acis Bankruptcy was maintaining cash flows from CLOs is misguided. The Dallas Bankruptcy Court considered an extensive record pertaining to a litany of transactions and agreements with the Debtor and conduct by the Debtor's management.³ Thus, the Dallas Bankruptcy Court is familiar with how the Debtor, through Mr. Dondero, operates and is uniquely situated to preside over the Debtor's bankruptcy case.

³ For example, in what the Dallas Bankruptcy Court referred to "startling" evidence, the Court examined, among other things, amendments to Acis' sub-advisory agreement and shared services agreement with the Debtor and the removal of a multi-million dollar note owed to Acis by the Debtor. See In re Acis Capital Mgmt., L.P., 2019 WL 406137, at *8. The Dallas Bankruptcy Court clearly has familiarity with more than just cash flows from CLOs.

5. Fourth, the Debtor argues that the Motion is without merit because the Committee did not attach a number of published opinions that it cites to or the hundreds of documents that are already part of the Acis Bankruptcy record. It is well-established that courts may take judicial notice of published opinions and the contents of court records more generally. See FED. R. EVID. 201(b)(2); Southmark Prime Plus, L.P. v. Falzone, 776 F. Supp. 888, 892 (D. Del. 1991) (“Pursuant to Rule 201(b)(2) [of the Federal Rules of Evidence], the Court can take judicial notice of the contents of court records from another jurisdiction.”); United States ex rel. Geisler v. Walters, 510 F.2d 887, 890 n.4 (3d Cir. 1975) (taking judicial notice of briefs and petitions filed in other courts); Southern Cross Overseas Agencies, Inc. v. Wah Kwong Shipping Group Ltd., 181 F.3d 410, 413 (3d Cir. 1999) (taking judicial notice of a published opinion as a matter of public record). The Committee therefore need not attach opinions and other documents from the Acis Bankruptcy to meet its burden here. Notably, the Debtor does not dispute the merits of the Committee's argument on this point. Rather, the Debtor attempts to misdirect the Court by mischaracterizing the Committee's position. For the avoidance of doubt, the Committee's position is that transfer of venue to the Dallas Bankruptcy Court is in the interest of justice and convenience of the parties and will help conserve this Court's time and judicial resources, given the voluminous record in the Dallas Bankruptcy Court.

6. Fifth, the Debtor argues that the Dallas Bankruptcy Court “knows little about the details of the Debtor's business, assets, or liabilities, or its restructuring efforts.” Obj. at ¶ 41. As set forth above, this is incorrect. The Dallas Bankruptcy Court is clearly and undisputedly familiar with the Debtor's liabilities as to Acis, as well as the counterclaims the Debtor has raised against Acis in the Acis Bankruptcy adversary proceeding (which counterclaims are assets of the Debtor's estate). Moreover, it was "undisputed that, prior to the appointment of the Chapter 11 Trustee, the [Acis] Debtors and Highland were affiliated and had a close relationship." In re Acis Capital Mgmt., L.P., 2019 WL 417149, at *2 n.5. In other words, the Dallas Bankruptcy Court is intimately familiar with the Debtor's corporate structure, which, except for the Acis spin-off, the Committee believes has remained substantially unchanged.⁴ Furthermore, as detailed in the Acis Confirmation Opinion, the Dallas Bankruptcy Court closely examined, among other things, the sub-advisory agreement and the shared services agreement Acis had with the Debtor. See id. at *2-3. Therefore, it is clear that the Dallas Bankruptcy Court does indeed know about the Debtor's business and its assets.

7. Sixth, the Dallas Bankruptcy Court is not conflicted from presiding over this case because it is currently presiding over an adversary proceeding between the Debtor and Acis. Indeed, that is precisely why the Dallas Bankruptcy Court is the proper venue for this case, as it is already overseeing litigation involving the Debtor and one of its largest creditors on matters that will likely affect this case. Moreover, the Debtor's argument appears to be based on the unstated “presumption” that each Chapter 11 debtor gets to have its own “home court.” As such, this argument contravenes the foundational principle of judicial impartiality.

⁴ During the pendency of the Acis Bankruptcy Cases, Acis and Highland were affiliates within the Highland enterprise consisting of more than 2,000 entities. Acis had no employees of its own and was managed by Highland. This required the Dallas Bankruptcy Court to become intimately familiar with Highland's management team and several other Highland entities, including, but not limited to, Highland Capital Management, L.P., Highland CLO Funding Ltd., Highland HCF, Highland CLO Management Ltd., Highland CLO Holdings, Ltd., and Neutra Ltd., and their relationships with Acis. See, e.g., In re Acis Capital Mgmt., L.P., 2019 WL 417149, at *2, 5-8 (analyzing several Highland affiliates, their relationships with Acis, and their roles as defendants in the adversary proceeding); In re Acis Capital Mgmt., L.P., 584 B.R. 115, 122-127 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2018) (explaining the Acis business operations and structure, including Highland's operations in connection therewith). A number of these Highland entities are also defendants in the adversary proceeding currently pending before the Dallas Bankruptcy Court.

8. In addition, the Debtor also notes multiple times throughout its Objection that its appeal of the Acis confirmation order is pending before the Fifth Circuit, without considering the impact on this case if that appeal is successful. See, e.g., Obj. ¶¶ 4, 25, 26. To be clear, if the Debtor’s appeal is successful, Acis would revert to being an affiliate of the Debtor and the Dallas Bankruptcy Court would have initial venue over this case pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 1014 and would be the Court that would properly make the determination of where this case would proceed. In other words, if the Debtor were to get its way with both the Acis appeal and this Motion, it would be juggling simultaneous bankruptcy proceedings in Delaware and Texas. That is hardly a picture of judicial economy. Transferring this case to the Dallas Bankruptcy Court now would avoid any such potential issues down the road.

9. The Debtor dismisses all of the Committee’s legitimate bases for requesting a transfer of venue by simply taking the position that the Debtor’s choice of venue is entitled to deference. While that is true, that does not mean that the Debtor’s right to choose venue is absolute. See, e.g., In re Pubco Corp., 27 B.R. 139 (Bankr. E.D. Penn. 1983) (ordering the transfer of venue upon request of the creditors’ committee); In re Palmer Lake Plaza, LLC, 470 B.R. 511 (Bankr. W.D. Wis. 2012) (holding that a chapter 11 case had to be transferred in the interest of justice and for convenience of parties); In re Shorts Auto Parts of Warren, Inc., 136 B.R. 30 (Bankr. N.D.N.Y. 1991) (same); In re Patriot Coal Corp., 482 B.R. 718 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2012) (same); In re Grand Dakota Partners, LLC, 573 B.R. 197 (Bankr. W.D.N.C. 2017) (transferring the venue of the bankruptcy case to where the debtor’s principal asset was located). As discussed in the Motion, there are in fact circumstances that warrant a transfer of venue despite the Debtor's choice. This case is no exception.

CONCLUSION

10. In sum, each of the arguments raised by the Debtor in its Objection fail to demonstrate why a transfer of venue would be improper. For all of the reasons set forth herein and in the Motion, the Committee respectfully requests that the Court grant the Motion and transfer the venue of this case to the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas.

ACIS’S REPLY IN SUPPORT OF MOTION TO TRANSFER VENUE

Creditors Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management GP, LLC (collectively “Acis”) file this Reply in Support of the Motion of the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors For an Order Transferring Venue of this Case to the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas (the “Motion”) [Dkt. No. 86] and, in addition to the reply filed by the Committee [Dkt. No. 156], to specifically address certain of the matters raised in the Objection to the Motion filed by Debtor Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the “Objection”) [Dkt. 118], and respectfully show the following:²

SUMMARY OF REPLY

1. Highland is the only party to object to the Motion. Highland repeatedly calls the Motion, filed by the Committee who owes duties to the entire unsecured creditor class, a “litigation ploy” or “litigation tactic.” E.g. Objection ¶ 2. It is not. Highland cannot feign surprise that the Committee and others seek to transfer this case to Highland’s home venue where it incurred many of the debts that Highland listed in its top 20 creditors, including at least two law firms that represent Highland—but Highland failed to pay—in the Acis Bankruptcy.

¹ The Debtor’s last four digits of its taxpayer identification number are (6725). The headquarters and service address for the above-captioned Debtor is 300 Crescent Court, Suite 700, Dallas, TX 75201.

² Unless otherwise defined, Acis incorporates herein the defined terms in the Motion and the Objection. Acis uses the term “Debtor” and “Highland” interchangeably.

Dkt. No. 1 at 10. Acis seeks a transfer because it is in the interest of justice and for the convenience of the parties to do so—section 1412 exists for a reason.

ARGUMENT & AUTHORITY

A. The administration of this particular Chapter 11 is more appropriate in Debtor’s hometown.

2. The Court should consider what the future holds for this Chapter 11 bankruptcy. This is not a simple “balance sheet restructuring.” The Debtor has stated that it needs to sell assets to operate and fund claims repayment. This is a quintessential “freefall” operational restructuring. Given the significant business issues, i.e. sale of assets, retention of employees, streamlining of operational divisions, driving the end result, it follows that the bankruptcy itself should be where the principal business (and business people) is/are located. Indeed, even the proposed CRO concedes that when he deploys his “boots on the ground,” those boots are deployed to Dallas, Texas.

3. By its own admission, Debtor filed this Chapter 11 because of repeated and significant losses in litigation that constitute the vast majority of the claims in this case. That litigation must either be resolved in the course of this Chapter 11, or at a minimum a court must estimate the claims, including the claims against the Debtor currently pending before the Northern District of Texas. As reflected by the Committee’s Motion, the major litigation claimants believe that the Northern District of Texas is better suited—based on its experience with the Debtor—to address their claims. Since their votes will be necessary to support any exit strategy, venue should be transferred to Texas.

B. The Dallas Bankruptcy Court knows Highland’s current management.

4. Incredibly, the Objection asserts that “the Dallas Bankruptcy Court has no special familiarity with the Debtor or its current management.” Id. ¶ 2. Highland presumably makes this bold statement based on the installation a very short time ago of the proposed CRO, on the eve of its bankruptcy filing. Dkt. No. 75 ¶¶ 6,13. Highland cannot point to one other change in “management”—all of the same players who got Highland into myriad litigation and ultimately this bankruptcy, including Mr. Dondero, remain firmly in control of the Debtor, which Highland seeks Court permission to continue operating in the “ordinary course.” Dkt. No. 77. Notably, Mr. Dondero alone can fire the CRO at any time with 30-days’ notice. Dkt. No. 75 ¶ 11. Clearly, these players will continue to play a significant role as this bankruptcy case proceeds forward. The Dallas Bankruptcy Court’s familiarity with the management that will set the go-forward plan is critical.

C. The Dallas Bankruptcy Court knows Highland’s business.

5. Despite Highland’s efforts to minimize the Dallas Bankruptcy Court’s knowledge regarding Highland, Judge Jernigan’s knowledge runs far and deep. First, the Dallas Bankruptcy Court is further along the learning curve on Highland’s “investment management,” which includes structured products, including collateralized loan obligations (“CLOs”). Dkt. No. 77. Debtor expends at least three paragraphs discussing CLOs in its filings, and discloses that it is “currently the collateral manager for twenty CLOs ...” Id. at ¶¶ 25-27 (emphasis added). Structured credit products—and specifically CLOs—form a core part of Highland’s current business. Debtor promotes on its website that “Highland was one of the early pioneers in the collateralized loan obligation (CLO) market, setting up one of the first non-bank CLO deals in 1996.”³ Highland had its fingers in every aspect of the bankruptcy of Debtor’s own “structured credit arm,” which this Court can see by reading the extensive rulings by both the Texas Bankruptcy and District Court. Indeed, the Dallas Bankruptcy Court heard extensive testimony from Mr. Dondero (CEO and co-owner), Mr. Okada (co-owner), Mr. Ellington (General Counsel), and many other Highland executives about Highland's inner workings and advisory actions. Acis I at 119; Acis II at *16. The testimony was in no way limited, as Highland attempts to advance, to "whether Terry satisfied the legal requirements to file involuntary cases against Acis and (b) the structure of actively managed CLOs." Id. ¶ 38. It is simply not true that the Dallas Bankruptcy Court has "no special familiarity with the Debtor or its current management." Id. ¶ 2.

6. Highland argues that Judge Jernigan and Fitzwater's demonstrated knowledge regarding Acis is not relevant to understanding Highland's "business, assets, or liabilities, aside from its prior involvement with Acis." Dkt. No. 118 at ¶ 26. According to Highland's own pleadings in this case, one of Debtor's "three primary business lines" (in addition to investment advisory services, which includes the management of CLOs) is "the provision of certain middle and back office services to other registered investment advisors ..." Dkt. No. 9 ¶ 37. As stated by the Dallas Bankruptcy Court, "[t]he Debtor-Acis paid handsome fees to Highland for the personnel and back-office services that Highland provided to the Debtor-Acis." In re Acis Capital Mgmt., L.P., 18-30264-SGJ-11, 2019 WL 417149, at *3 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. Jan. 31, 2019), aff'd, 604 B.R. 484 (N.D. Tex. 2019). This is the exact business that Highland states is one of its "three primary business lines," Dkt. No. 9; Id., and regarding which the Dallas Bankruptcy Court is considerably further along the learning curve.

D. The Debtor has already demonstrated why a transfer is warranted in multiple filings in this Court.

7. In terms of the administration of this bankruptcy estate, the Northern District of Texas is intimately familiar with the services provided to the Debtor by Foley Gardere and Lynn Pinker, two firms Debtor seeks to hire as special counsel in this case. Dkt. No. 69-70. The retention applications for Foley Gardere and Lynn Pinker, and more importantly, the objections thereto, highlight the efficiency of the Northern District of Texas hearing this matter and the inefficiency posed to this Court. Debtor proposes the retention of both firms (two of the three legal professionals sought to be specifically retained in this case and who are both owed money for services rendered in the Acis Bankruptcy) for litigation stemming from the Acis Bankruptcy in the Northern District of Texas. Those courts have viewed the entirety of the past representation and can assess more closely, and certainly with far less effort, the prudence of retention go forward under the applicable provisions of section 327 of the Bankruptcy Code.

E. The Dallas Bankruptcy Court has no conflict with a transfer.

8. Highland makes much of the fact that “[t]he interests of Acis are directly adverse to those of this estate.” Objection ¶ 4 (emphasis in original). Highland goes on to argue that the pendency of litigation against Highland in the Dallas Bankruptcy Court militates against a transfer to the Dallas Bankruptcy Court, as if Acis has somehow co-opted the Dallas Bankruptcy Court. See id.; ¶ 34. “Courts have recognized the strong public policy favoring centralization of bankruptcy proceedings in a bankruptcy court.” Kurz v. EMAK Worldwide, Inc., 464 B.R. 635, 640 (D. Del. 2011). Accordingly, Highland's bankruptcy case should be heard by the same court as the first-filed adversary pending against Debtor in the Northern District of Texas—that is quintessential “judicial economy” and the promotion of “the efficient administration of the estate.”

9. Highland's argument also runs contrary to the fundamental obligations of bankruptcy courts, which are tasked with “appropriately resolv[ing] competing economic interests in an orderly and effective way.” Taylor v. Slick, 178 F.3d 698, 702 (3d Cir. 1999) (internal citations omitted). If what Highland argues is true, then every bankruptcy court would have a conflict in adjudicating disputed proofs of claims, as those proofs of claims inherently represent claims against the estate, or in jointly administering bankruptcy cases. That is non-sensical. The Dallas Bankruptcy Court has no conflict, just as this Court is not conflicted in hearing multi-debtor matters, many with intercompany claims, or adjudicating third party disputed proofs of claims.

CONCLUSION

10. In their Motion and Joinder, neither the Committee nor Acis cast aspersions regarding Highland's motive in filing this bankruptcy proceeding over a thousand miles from the Dallas Bankruptcy Court and District Court from which the Debtor has recently requested so much. The Motion is meritorious because it is firmly rooted in the express text and the cases interpreting section 1412. Acis has said it before and will say it again: this case presents extremely unique facts. A transfer to the Northern District of Texas is warranted. Acis respectfully requests the Court grant the Motion and such other relief to which Acis is entitled.

COUNSEL FOR ACIS

Related to Docket Nos. 86, 122

2. The current principal of Acis (Joshua Terry) commenced an involuntary case against Acis in the Texas Bankruptcy Court that subsequently stripped the Debtor of its interests in Acis. Acis, under the direction of Terry, is suing the Debtor for recovery of alleged fraudulent transfers and a variety of other claims, which if successful will deplete assets of the Debtor's estate available to pay creditors. Almost every aspect of Acis's bankruptcy proceeding has been adverse to the interests of the Debtor to date. The Debtor is currently supporting two pending appeals of the orders of the Texas Bankruptcy Court granting the involuntary petition against Acis and confirming the chapter 11 plan that put Terry in charge of Acis.

3. Under these circumstances, Acis should not be permitted to subvert the Debtor's choice of forum before this Court, no matter the number of hearings that may have occurred, filings that may have been made, and orders that may have been entered in Acis's bankruptcy case. Acis seeks a transfer of venue not because Acis is an alleged affiliate of the Debtor – it most certainly is not affiliated with the Debtor today. Acis seeks a transfer to the Texas Bankruptcy Court because that would serve Acis's own litigation objectives in its "home court."

4. This chapter 11 case is about the Debtor, not Acis. The prior proceedings that occurred in the Texas Bankruptcy Court revolved around Acis and its business, assets, and liabilities and claims that it may or may not have against the Debtor. The Texas Bankruptcy Court and the appellate courts within the Fifth Circuit have heard nothing about the details of the Debtor's business, assets, and liabilities, aside from its prior involvement with Acis. Like the Motion to Transfer, the Joinder fails to establish how the apparently substantial amount of documents and testimony considered in the Acis bankruptcy and any related appeals is relevant to the instant chapter 11 case. Yes, there was a lot of paper submitted in the Acis matter and the Texas Bankruptcy Court conducted many hearings, but what does that have to do with this Debtor's case?

5. Perhaps out of desperation, Acis turns to the “interest of justice” component of 28 U.S.C. § 1412. Acis cites to Judge Gross's decision in In re Restaurants Acquisition I, LLC, 2016 Bankr. LEXIS 684 at *14-15 (Bankr. D. Del. Mar. 4, 2016), for the proposition that the interest of justice is determined by “whether transfer of venue will promote the efficient administration of the estate, judicial economy, timeliness, and fairness.” Notably, in the Restaurants Acquisition case, Judge Gross declined to transfer venue based, among other factors, on the learning curve that would be required by the transferee court in Texas and the need for parties in interest to retain new professionals. Id. at *15-16. Judge Gross also found it pertinent that the debtor in that case selected Delaware as the forum of choice for its bankruptcy case. Id. at *16-17.

6. Virtually the same analysis applies in the instant case. The Debtor's choice of venue in this Court deserves a certain amount of deference. Further, a transfer of the Debtor's case to the Texas Bankruptcy Court would bring with it attendant delays in scheduling hearings and retaining new professionals, including local counsel, and would require the Texas Bankruptcy Court to get up to speed on the Debtor and all that has transpired in this case to date. As noted, the Texas Bankruptcy Court may be familiar with Acis and even the Debtor's prior involvement in Acis, but that translates into few current details about the Debtor itself and its operations, assets, and liabilities. All parties (and their chosen professionals) are already before this Court and there are various significant matters pending that are set for hearing on the same date as the Motion to Transfer, including the CRO Motion and the Protocols Motion. For these reasons, just like in the Restaurants Acquisition case, the interest of justice strongly supports retaining venue of this case in Delaware.

7. Finally, venue of this case should remain in this Court so that Acis is not permitted to achieve some perceived litigation advantage by transferring this case to the Texas Bankruptcy Court. That court should continue to focus on the interests of Acis, including pending litigation brought by Acis against the Debtor (which now has been stayed). This Court, on the other hand, can preside over the Debtor's estate, free from any of the countervailing interests and motives of Acis and its principal, Terry.

WHEREFORE, the Debtor respectfully requests that this Court enter an order denying the Motion to Transfer and granting such other and further relief as this Court deems appropriate.

Status/Scheduling Conference

Friday, December 6, 2019

9:35 o'clock a.m.

P R O C E E D I N G S

COURT SECURITY OFFICER: All rise. The United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division, is now in session, the Honorable Stacey Jernigan presiding.

THE COURT: All right. Please be seated.

All right. We have a larger crowd in the courtroom than I thought we might, also lots of people on the phone. Let's start by getting appearances from the lawyers in the courtroom who wish to appear.

We had agreed on Wednesday when we were contacted to represent Highland Capital subject to clearance of conflicts. And late last night a conflict arose that we can't resolve, so we will not be able to accept the representation, but I got a limited waiver to appear today for the primary purpose of introducing the lead counsel for the debtor, the Pachulski Stang, in particular Jeff Pomerantz and Ira Kharasch, and they will handle the hearing today.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

Status/Scheduling Conference

1 (No audible response.)

2 THE COURT: Well, how about this: Anyone on the phone
3 who wishes to appear go ahead. I'm all ears.

4 MR. MAXCY: Good morning, Your Honor. This is Patrick
5 Maxcy from Dentons US LLP on behalf of Jefferies LLC. My – my 6 pro hac vice motion, application was really filed this afternoon
7 and notice of appearance. I ask your indulgence to allow me to 8 appear today.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Yes, you may appear today.
10 Anyone else?

11 MR. MAXCY: Thank you, Your Honor.

13 Jenner and Block. Mr. Platt has already introduced my colleague

17 Anyone else?

18 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, it's John Morris – excuse me
19 – from Pachulski Stang Ziehl and Jones, on behalf of the debtor.

20 THE COURT: All right. Good morning.
21 Anyone else?

22 (No audible response.)

23 THE COURT: All right. Well, we're here obviously for 24 what we've called a status/scheduling conference. A couple of 25 housekeeping matters.

Status/Scheduling Conference

1 We do have pulled over to the Dallas docket now all of
2 the pleadings that were filed in the Delaware case. So just for 3 your ease of operation, if you will. I think we've got a
4 complete docket now in Dallas.

5 Obviously I'm going to defer to Highland at the outset
6 to see what it thinks we need to accomplish today. I'll tell
7 you that I did pull up – my law clerk pulled up the agenda that
8 was on file in Delaware for the hearing earlier this week,
9 December 2nd. I saw that there were 12 matters on it. One was 10 venue the motion, so there are 11 matters. Looks like two 11 didn't really need court hearing time. Interim orders have 12 become final.

13 So I guess – one thing I'm going to ask you: Do we 14 have nine matters – doing the math subtraction – that need
15 hearings and how soon? Four or five of those look like 16 employment matters. So I'll defer now to Highland's counsel to 17 see what you think we need to accomplish today, but I figure 18 this agenda is one of the things we need to talk about.

19 MR. POMERANTZ: Good morning, Your Honor. Again it's 20 Jeff Pomerantz and Ira Kharasch from Pachulski Stang Ziehl
21 Jones, representing the debtor. Good to be in Your Honor's
22 courtroom.

23 What I thought I would do is I would like to introduce 24 some people on behalf of the debtor who are here with me. And 25 then I thought it might be helpful for Your Honor for me to give

Status/Scheduling Conference

1 Your Honor a little background on the case, what transpired in 2 Delaware, how we got here, and then some thoughts about where 3 we're going.

4 THE COURT: Okay, that would be good.

5 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, in the courtroom sitting
6 in the first row is Mr. Brad Sharp.

7 THE COURT: Good morning.

8 MR. POMERANTZ: He is the managing director of DSI.
9 He is the debtor's proposed chief restructuring officer.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. POMERANTZ: Also as I will discuss in a few
12 moments, the debtor is in discussions with the creditors
13 committee with respect to some management changes, significant
14 management changes, and in connection with that the appointment
15 of the new board. The debtor has identified certain people to 16 serve on that board. While those people have not yet been 17 agreed to and you will hear it's the subject of discussion, we 18 invited Judge Lee Clark (phonetic) to be here. He is one of the 19 debtor's proposed –

20 THE COURT: Well, good morning. I just now saw you.

21 MR. CLARK: Here I am.

22 THE COURT: Okay. Nice to see you.

23 MR. POMERANTZ: So his presence should be nothing
24 other than he is one of the debtor's proposed people. We are in 25 conversations, as you will hear, with the committee on the

Status/Scheduling Conference

1 management training.

2 THE COURT: Very good.

3 MR. POMERANTZ: So, Your Honor, Highland is a
4 multibillion dollar global asset management fund. There are 75
5 employees in Dallas and its affiliates have approximately 50
6 employees at locations around the world. It directly manages 7 two and a half billion dollars of assets and also provides
8 shared services for additionally seven and a half billion
9 dollars of assets. And the assets consist primarily of public
10 securities, interests in private equity funds, interest in hedge
11 funds. And there are assets located all around the world,
12 Singapore, Latin America, and Korea.

13 The debtor commenced the case on October 16th as a 14 result of an adverse arbitration ruling in a dispute between the 15 debtor and the Redeemer Committee, which was a committee
16 appointed in connection with the winddown of one of Highland's
17 Funds, the Crusader Fund. The debtor lacked the liquidity to 18 satisfy the Redeemer arbitration award, and the debtor sought
19 Chapter 11 protection to provide a time to develop a 20 restructuring plan with respect to how it would address those 21 claims as well as other claims.

22 The debtor retained our firm on approximately 23 September 26th. And based upon our understanding of the claims 24 that were asserted in the Redeemer matter, prior proceedings in 25 this Court, as well as the claims of other creditors, we

Status/Scheduling Conference

10

1 recommended that the debtor appoint a chief restructuring
2 officer with expanded powers. The debtor retained Brad Sharp
3 and DSI October 7th. And I'm not sure if the Court is familiar
4 with Mr. Sharp and DSI, but DSI is a nationally-recognized
5 restructuring and financial advisory firm headquartered in 6 Chicago. And Mr. Sharpe served as the chief restructuring
7 officer in a variety of extremely challenging cases. And he is 8 known too and respected by the committee.

9 Mr. Sharp has been serving as the chief restructuring
10 officer for the past two months. And he and his lieutenant Fred 11 Caruso (phonetic) have been onsite at the debtor almost every 12 day since then as well as several other DSI personnel. And, as 13 a result, they have developed a substantial amount of knowledge
14 regarding the debtor's operations, its business, its assets, and 15 its liabilities. Importantly, Your Honor, since DSI's retention
16 there have been no allegations of any postpetition misconduct;
17 and DSI has been and will continue to be accessible to the 18 committee as well as answerable to the Court and transparent
19 with respect to the debtor's operations.

20 While under the Bankruptcy Code the debtor can operate
21 in the ordinary course without Bankruptcy Court approval, Mr.
22 Sharp and our firm thought that especially in a case like this 23 and given the debtor's operations, it was unclear how the 24 ordinary course standard should be applied to an
25 asset-management firm such as Highland. This is especially true

Status/Scheduling Conference

11

1 giving the – given the interconnective relationship the debtor
2 has with a lot of its affiliates and inside. Also we felt it
3 was collect – we collectively felt it was important to be 4 transparent with the creditors in the Court in light of the 5 allegations that have been made in various forums against the 6 debtor relating to certain of its prepetition conduct. As a
7 result, Pachulski Stang and DSI work with the debtor to develop
8 a series of protocols that would outline what is and what is not 9 an ordinary course transaction. And in developing those 10 protocols, the debtor tried to balance the concerns of a fair
11 and transparent process with creditor input with the necessary
12 time exigencies, given the company such as the debtor and the 13 need to quickly transact business.

14 The committee was formed on October 29th, and the 15 debtor and its professionals immediately engaged with the 16 committee and their professionals in a dialogue to discuss a
17 variety of things, including the nature and scope of the CRO's
18 duties, the ordinary course protocols, and other matters
19 relating to the debtor's business. And such efforts have 20 included the debtor providing a substantial amount of discovery, 21 both informal and formal to the committee; and also having 22 several of the debtor personnel, including the CRO, sit for 23 depositions.

24 The committee filed its motion-to-transfer-venue
25 motion early on in the case. And while for the better part of

Status/Scheduling Conference

12

1 the last three weeks, the parties have been focused on written
2 discovery and depositions, the debtor has also worked with the 3 committee to narrow the disputes that were pending before Judge
4 Sontchi on December 2nd. While the parties made some progress
5 and several orders had been entered, including I think some of 6 the items Your Honor may see on the docket, they had not reached
7 agreement by December 2nd on a variety of issues.

8 In addition to the venue matter, the following four 9 motions were the motions that were to be contested at the 10 hearing on the 2nd. First, the motion to obtain the chief
11 restructuring officer. Second, the protective motion to approve
12 ordinary-course protocols. Third, the cash-management motion.
13 And, fourth, the motion to approve the retention of Foley
14 Gardere and Lynn Pinker as special litigation counsel.

15 After Judge Sontchi granted the committee's motion to 16 transfer venue, he declined to rule on the remaining motions,
17 instead deferring to Your Honor. For the reasons I will explain
18 in a couple of moments, Your Honor, we do not believe that the 19 Court right now at this hearing needs to schedule those motions
20 for hearing. Rather, we will be seeking a continued hearing,
21 perhaps for later next week, to discuss the results of what I'm 22 about to describe to the Court.

23 Leading up to today, the debtor has engaged the 24 committee on an alternative corporate governing structure that 25 we hope will address the committee's concerns with the

Status/Scheduling Conference

13

1 management and operation of the debtor, and will allow the
2 parties to start working consensually and constructively towards
3 a reorganization plan.

4 The debtor has heard the committee loud and clear,
5 Your Honor, that the committee does not want Mr. Dondero to be 6 in this position to manage the debtor's operations.
7 Accordingly, the debtors have informed the committee that Mr.
8 Dondero is willing to resign from any and all positions of the 9 debtor, and use his authority over the debtor's general partner
10 to appoint an independent board that would be in charge with 11 managing the debtor. Mr. Dondero would further agree that any 12 further changes to the board could only be made with the 13 committee's consent. The CRO would remain. It would be the 14 senior most employees answering directly to the board.

15 While Mr. Dondero will no longer be in a position of 16 control with the debtor, the committee and the debtor will be 17 discussing whether maximizing the estate's assets will need to 18 include Mr. Dondero being involved with the debtor in some 19 capacity, subject to appropriate controls. That is because the 20 debtor may lose certain valuable revenue streams if Mr. Dondero
21 is not associated with the business, based upon the various 22 contracts the debtor was a party to.

23 In any event, Your Honor, that decision will be made
24 first in the first instance subject to this committee's consent
25 and, second, subject to the directly of the board. The debtor

Status/Scheduling Conference

14

1 has actually provided documents to the committee that Mr.
2 Dondero has signed effectuating these management changes, and 3 those documents are being held in our, my firm's, possession and 4 trust, pending approval of the Court.

5 The debtor signed these documents not to be 6 presumptuous enough that the committee would accept them without 7 modification. Rather, the debtor wanted to impress upon the 8 committee and this Court that the proposal is more than just a
9 concept, and then Mr. Dondero is serious about change.

10 Last night we received a termsheet from the committee
11 regarding the governance proposal. And as recently as right
12 before this hearing, we have had further discussions with 13 committee counsel, and we expect that dialogue to continue over 14 the next few days.

15 I believe the debtor and the committee both recognize 16 this case is at a crossroads and it takes some time – and it
17 makes sense to take some time to see if the parties can reach an 18 agreement on a consensual path forward. And I think I speak for 19 the debtor and the committee in saying that achieving a
20 consensual resolution on governance control is more preferable
21 than time-consuming and costly litigation of what would likely 22 be a trustee motion, a deal I think would also be better for the 23 business and allow the stakeholders to focus on the business and 24 not on litigation. It is for this reason, Your Honor, that we 25 request that the Court continue this hearing until perhaps later

Status/Scheduling Conference

15

1 next week, consistent with the Court's calendar. And by that
2 time, I think, Your Honor, it will be clear whether the debtor
3 and the committee have reached a deal for which we would seek
4 approval from Your Honor, which can be sought under appropriate
5 notice or whether the case will go in another direction, which 6 will likely involve one or more motions for a trustee and 7 litigation over those motions.

8 Based upon the ongoing dialogue, the committee has 9 told the debtor that while of course it reserves the right to 10 file a trustee motion at any time, it is not seeking that relief
11 today.

12 The debtor wants the Court and the committee to be 13 assured that pending any resolution or any litigation, the 14 debtor will continue to comply with the protocols that were 15 shared with the committee in advance of the December 2nd hearing
16 – there are further modifications that make it even more
17 stringent than what is on the docket – and that either Mr. Sharp
18 or Mr. Caruso, his lieutenant, will be onsite at the debtor's
19 headquarters pending whatever outcome is reached.

20 Your Honor, I'm happy to answer any further questions
21 you might have.

22 THE COURT: All right. Well, before I ask questions
23 I'll ask does the committee want to speak up –

24 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: – and give its own version, consistent or

Status/Scheduling Conference

16

1 not consistent, with this.

2 MR. CLEMENTE: Good morning, Your Honor. Matthew
3 Clemente from Sidley Austin on behalf of the committee. It is a
4 pleasure to be in front of Your Honor this morning.

5 If I could just maybe make a few preliminary comments
6 to provide Your Honor with some background that Mr. Pomerantz
7 didn't cover, and then we can talk a little bit further about 8 what Mr. Pomerantz did talk about.

9 THE COURT: By the way, -

10 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes.

11 THE COURT: - you're probably going to get to this,
12 but who are the members of the committee -

13 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes. That's exactly my first starting 14 point, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Okay, very good.

16 MR. CLEMENTE: I would say great minds, but I wouldn't 17 consider mine a great mind, so, Your Honor, it is a four-member
18 committee.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. CLEMENTE: And the committee consists of the 21 following parties: The Redeemer Committee of the Highland 22 Crusader Fund. Your Honor, this is a formal committee appointed
23 - there was a Bermuda winddown proceeding for the Crusader Fund, 24 and that was a committee appointed in connection with that 25 winddown proceeding.

Status/Scheduling Conference

17

1 The second member of the committee, Your Honor, is
2 ACIS Capital Management, L.P. and ACIS Capital Management, GP,
3 LLP. I believe Your Honor is familiar with ACIS.

4 THE COURT: Yes.

5 MR. CLEMENTE: The third member, Your Honor, is UBS
6 Securities, LLC and UBS AG London Branch.

7 The fourth member, Your Honor, is Meta-e Discovery,
8 and Meta-e Discovery is a trade vendor to the debtor.

9 The committee hired Sidley on October 29th, 2019, and 10 hired FTI as its financial advisor on November 6th, 2019. Now
11 that we're before Your Honor, we will be filing our retention
12 application very shortly.

13 It is important to note, Your Honor, that three of the 14 four members of the committee, the Redeemer Committee, ACIS, and 15 UBS, all have extensive experience litigating with Highland,
16 several of the unaffiliated myriad Highland entities – excuse me
17 – nondebtor affiliated Highland entities and Mr. Dondero, the 18 sole person in control of Highland – Highland Capital Management
19 – excuse me – who is our debtor here. The vast majority of 20 claims in terms of dollar amount, Your Honor, in this case arise
21 from litigation claims against the debtor. And, in fact, as Mr.
22 Pomerantz stated, the precipitating factor behind the bankruptcy
23 filing was the arbitration award obtained by the Redeemer
24 Committee.

25 So, Your Honor, we do not believe that this is a case

Status/Scheduling Conference

18

1 where the balance sheet became over levered. Instead, this is a
2 case driven by litigation claims arising out of conduct with 3 this debtor prior to the bankruptcy.

4 Although the schedules have not yet been filed, Your 5 Honor, I believe they're due to be filed shortly, within the 6 next week or two. We do not believe there are other large
7 creditors, secured or unsecured, that exist, but there are two 8 secured creditors that we are aware of. Jefferies is a name
9 Your Honor may have seen. They're owed, I believe,
10 approximately $30 million, and they are significantly over 11 secured by virtue of a trading account. It's a margin loan, I 12 believe.

13 Frontier Bank, Your Honor, is owed approximately $5
14 million, and we also believe they are significantly over 15 secured.

16 So from the committee's perspective, Your Honor, I
17 provide you with that background because we believe this is a
18 case about unsecured creditors, and the vast majority in terms
19 of dollar amount are represented on the creditor's committee.
20 And the overwhelming amount of those dollars arise from 21 litigation judgments against the creditors – excuse me – against 22 the debtor.

23 Your Honor, the first thing the committee did after 24 its appointment was determine that venue was more appropriate in 25 this Court, so we filed our motion, which was ultimately granted

Status/Scheduling Conference

19

1 by Judge Sontchi, and we are now very pleased to be in front of 2 Your Honor here in Dallas.

3 The second thing the committee did was immediately
4 focus on the governance and the need for transparency by this 5 debtor. On the governance, Your Honor, the debtor and some of 6 its 2,000 affiliated nondebtor entities are all owned and 7 controlled in one fashion by Mr. Dondero. The committee quickly
8 came to the conclusion that a world where Mr. Dondero remained 9 in control, from a governance perspective, particularly given
10 the very real history many of the parties have with Mr. Dondero,
11 was not one which could work.

12 The debtor did file a CRO motion and a protective 13 ordinary-course motion designed, Your Honor, we believe in our 14 view, the cement these otherwise unacceptable governance issues
15 in place. And that is why we filed our objection, and we're 16 prepared to prosecute that objection very vigorously.

17 Regarding transparency, Your Honor, the situation is 18 unique in a couple respects. One is there is no DIP loan or use
19 of cash collateral. So where you normally have a DIP lender or 20 a cash collateral provider, there is reporting, transparency
21 that – discipline that's inherent in that process. And we don't 22 have that because we don't have that type of postpetition
23 secured lender here.

24 Additionally, there are myriad transactions and 25 structures that are Byzantine and we believe intentionally

Status/Scheduling Conference

20

1 opaque and are rife with insider and related-party dealings,
2 requiring a tremendous need for open dialogue and access to
3 information to understand the web of interconnected
4 transactions, issues, and agreements.

5 So we believe that those two factors create a
6 heightened level of transparency that's required by this
7 committee.

8 Some efforts, Your Honor, were made to address these 9 concerns, in particular the transparency concern, but the 10 creditors committee does not believe the debtor's current 11 governance structure, where Mr. Dondero remains in control, can 12 work. And, therefore, the committee has been, as Mr. Pomerantz
13 referred to, focused on preparing a motion for the appointment
14 of a Chapter 11 trustee as the solution to the governance and 15 transparency issues. The status quo as it exists today simply 16 cannot and does not and will not be able to work for the 17 committee.

18 However, as Mr. Pomerantz pointed out, the debtors
19 have approached the committee with a structure to address the 20 governance issues. And the committee is engaging with the 21 debtor on that structure. However, if we are not able to come
22 to resolution is that, we will be pursuing a Chapter 11 trustee.

23 As Mr. Pomerantz pointed out, they have some documents
24 that they have prepared, they have identified some certain 25 names. Again to be clear to, Your Honor, the committee has not

Status/Scheduling Conference

21

1 consented to any of that at this point, but we are engaged in a
2 dialogue with the debtor concerning the governance issues, and
3 we're hopeful, cautiously hopeful, that we will be able to come
4 to a resolution on that. But again if we do not, we believe the 5 only way to resolve the governance issues and to create the 6 transparency necessary is to bring forth a Chapter 11 trustee
7 motion.

8 Your Honor, regarding the ultimate outcome of the 9 cases, and if I may for a moment, it's too early to tell. The 10 statement and schedules have not been filed yet. It's not a – 11 not a criticism, it's just a fact they haven't been filed yet.

12 The committee needs much more transparency into the 13 assets of the debtors, the liabilities, and what can be done in 14 terms of an exit solution, and what the contours of an exit
15 solution might look like here. And, again, given the tangled
16 web of insider and affiliated and related-party transactions
17 that have occurred, that is going to be a critical focus 18 understanding those past historical transactions in order to 19 determine ways that potentially supplement the estate by 20 bringing things back into the estate that we may conclude 21 appropriately belong in the estate.

22 Your Honor, to sum up, we do remain very concerned 23 about the governance issues and the existing structure and the 24 lack of transparency. We are hopeful that by engaging with the 25 debtor on a new governance structure we can address those

Status/Scheduling Conference

22

1 concerns. If not, we will proceed to seek a Chapter 11 trustee.
2 It's only once we have the governance issues resolved and have
3 full and complete transparency will we be able to then assess
4 the best way to resolve these cases.

5 In terms of timing, Your Honor, I do think it makes 6 sense to have a status conference again maybe some time late in 7 the week next week. It could be something that perhaps we can
8 do by telephone or folks can show up in person because, you
9 know, as a committee we – obviously we need to work through 10 these issues and we have multiple members and it takes us, you
11 know, time to work through them. So I wouldn't want to suggest
12 to Your Honor we'd be in a position to be back before Your Honor 13 early next week, but perhaps something later in the week next 14 week.

15 With that, unless Your Honor has any questions of me,
16 I will cede the podium.

17 THE COURT: I don't think I have any more questions.

18 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: Thank you.

20 Who else wishes to speak, anyone else?

21 (No audible response.)

22 THE COURT: So when – when are the schedules due? I
23 know there was an order, you know, obviously extending the 24 deadline, but I heard next week perhaps?

25 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, Jeff Pomerantz, Pachulski

Status/Scheduling Conference

23

1 Stang Ziehl and Jones. They are due to be filed next Friday.

2 THE COURT: Next Friday, okay.

3 All right. Well, obviously I'm very glad to hear
4 there are constructive conversations going on with the committee
5 regarding these governance issues. I'm not meaning to compare
6 apples to oranges here, but the ACIS case that this Court
7 presided over, fairly quickly got a Chapter 11 trustee because
8 of I think some of these same issues that are being mentioned
9 with regard to Mr. Dondero and a concern about independence and 10 – and people in charge appreciating fiduciary duties. So 11 obviously if there's some in-between approach here, where we 12 have independent people involved and that potentially preserves
13 value of revenue streams which has been alluded to, that sounds
14 like a nice fix to address people's concerns, and get the 15 company fairly quickly focused on a reorganization plan.

16 Again, we had a very contentious, litigated Chapter 11
17 with ACIS, and it would seem to me that if we get these 18 corporate governance issues quickly resolved to everybody's 19 satisfaction, we might have a more constructive path in this 20 case than we sometimes did in the ACIS case.

21 So, anyway, that's very good music to my ears. I
22 would hate to think we're going to have lots of adversary
23 proceedings and lots of litigation at the very start of this
24 case – well, it's not the start. The case has been pending
25 almost two months, but – but it occurs to me that, well, if what

Status/Scheduling Conference

24

1 I'm hearing is true, we've got two secured creditors who are
2 very over secured and then we have several large creditors
3 already with judgments or arbitration awards. The focus needs
4 to be on how to pay those people more than, you know, claim
5 objections, challenges with various parties-in-interest.

6 So I am happy to give you time next week for another
7 status conference. It sounds like that is all you want it to be
8 at this point. You don't want any of these hangover motions
9 from the December 2nd agenda set yet?

10 MR. POMERANTZ: That is correct, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 MR. POMERANTZ: There is nothing on those hangover
13 motions that are emergent.

14 There was a matter also scheduled for December 17th
15 before Judge Sontchi dealing with bonuses, which is not on the 16 agenda. That is something that we'll be talking with the 17 committee about and at least with respect to part of it, having 18 it go forward as quickly as possible but not something we're 19 going to ask for Your Honor now. We feel that next week when we 20 come back and we have a little better sense of where the case is 21 going, we could then propose an appropriate schedule for Your 22 Honor taking up those motions.

23 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I am going to see if I can
24 work you in Thursday if that is good for everyone. My son's
25 graduating from grad school on Friday, so I'm trying to take the

Status/Scheduling Conference

25

1 day off, but –

2 MR. POMERANTZ: I'm glad Your Honor has her priorities
3 straight.

4 (Pause in the proceedings at 10:04 a.m.)

5 THE COURT: All right. So we can give you 9:30 next
6 Thursday, December 12th.

7 And, as far as your future planning, we could give you
8 time the week of December 16th if motions end up needing time
9 that week, just you know let us know when. But the week of the 10 23rd, I am out the entire week, so plan to be back in the office
11 the 31st, December, and thereafter. So that's going to be the 12 one bad week for hearings, the week of the 23rd. You're 13 probably glad to hear that, a lot of folks, so.

14 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you for that, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Um-hum.

16 MR. POMERANTZ: After the hearing before Judge Sontchi
17 on the Monday after Thanksgiving, it's very nice to hear that 18 you're going to be out that week.

19 THE COURT: Okay. Well, you know, I was having court
20 that day too, so.

21 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, one other comment. Ms.
22 O'Neill mentioned to me that there's an appellate brief due on 23 December 15th in one of the ACIS matters, for which we are 24 seeking Foley Gardere and Lynn Pinker's retention. I think 25 we're going to just proceed with preparing those but recognize

Status/Scheduling Conference

26

1 that Your Honor has not yet approved their employment. And I
2 suspect that we will try hopefully, you know, by the end of next
3 Friday to maybe get a consensual order, if that's possible. And 4 if not, perhaps have that hearing set for the week of the 16th.

5 THE COURT: All right. We'll stay tuned for that 6 possibly.

7 All right. Anything else?

8 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: All right. Good to see you and we'll see
10 you next Thursday.

11 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you.

12 THE COURT: All right.

13 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you.

14 COURT SECURITY OFFICER: All rise.

15 (The hearing was adjourned at 10:06 o'clock a.m.)

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P., ¹	§	Case No. 19-34054-sgj11
Debtor.	§

GLOBAL NOTES AND STATEMENT OF LIMITATIONS, METHODS, AND DISCLAIMER REGARDING DEBTOR’S SCHEDULES OF ASSETS AND LIABILITIES AND STATEMENT OF FINANCIAL AFFAIRS

Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the “Debtor”) submits its Schedules of Assets and Liabilities (the “Schedules”) and Statement of Financial Affairs (the “SoFA”) in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division (the “Bankruptcy Court”). The Debtor, with the assistance of its advisors and management, prepared the Schedules and SoFA in accordance with section 521 title 11 of the United States Code, 11 U.S.C. §§ 101-1532 (the “Bankruptcy Code”) and Rule 1007 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure (the “Bankruptcy Rules”).

These Global Notes and Statement of Limitations, Methods, and Disclaimer Regarding the Debtor’s Schedules and SoFA (collectively, the “Global Notes”) pertain to, are incorporated by reference in, and comprise an integral part of the Schedules and SoFA. These Global Notes should be referred to, and reviewed in connection with any review of the Schedules and SoFA.²

The Schedules and SoFA have been prepared by the Debtor with the assistance and under the direction of the Debtor’s proposed Chief Restructuring Officer and additional personnel at Development Specialists, Inc. (collectively, the “CRO”) and are unaudited and subject to further review and potential adjustment and amendment. In preparing the Schedules and SoFA, the CRO relied on financial data derived from the Debtor’s books and records that was available at the time of preparation. The CRO has made reasonable efforts to ensure the accuracy and completeness of such financial information, however, subsequent information or discovery of other relevant facts may result in material changes to the Schedules and SoFA and inadvertent errors, omissions, or inaccuracies may exist. The Debtor reserves all rights to amend or supplement its Schedules and SoFA.

¹ The Debtor’s last four digits of its taxpayer identification number are (6725). The headquarters and service address for the above-captioned Debtor is 300 Crescent Court, Suite 700, Dallas, TX 75201.

² These Global Notes are in addition to any specific notes contained in the Debtor’s Schedules or SoFA. The fact that the Debtor has prepared a “general note” with respect to any of the Schedules and SoFA and not to others should not be interpreted as a decision by the Debtor to exclude the applicability of such general note to any of the Debtor’s remaining Schedules and SoFA, as appropriate.

Reservation of Rights. The Debtor reserves all rights to amend the SoFA and Schedules in all respects, as may be necessary or appropriate, including, but not limited to, the right to dispute or to assert offsets or defenses to any claim reflected on the SoFA and Schedules as to amount, liability or classification of the claim, or to otherwise subsequently designate any claim as “disputed,” “contingent” or “unliquidated.” Furthermore, nothing contained in the SoFA and Schedules shall constitute a waiver of rights by the Debtor involving any present or future causes of action, contested matters or other issues under the provisions of the Bankruptcy Code or other applicable non-bankruptcy laws.

Description of the Case and “As Is” Information Date. On October 16, 2019 (the “Petition Date”), the Debtor filed a voluntary petition for relief with the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware (the “Delaware Bankruptcy Court”) under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code. The Debtor is managing its assets as a debtor in possession pursuant to sections 1107(a) and 1108 of the Bankruptcy Code. On December 4, 2019, the Delaware Bankruptcy Court entered an Order transferring this case to the Bankruptcy Court [Docket No. 1].

Asset information in the Schedules reflects the Debtor’s best estimate of asset values as of the Petition Date, unless otherwise noted. No independent valuation has been obtained.

Basis of Presentation. The Schedules and SoFA do not purport to represent financial statements prepared in accordance with Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (“GAAP”), nor are they intended to fully reconcile to any financial statements otherwise prepared and/or distributed by the Debtor.

Although these Schedules and SoFA may, at times, incorporate information prepared in accordance with GAAP, the Schedules and SoFA neither purport to represent nor reconcile to financial statements prepared and/or distributed by the Debtor in accordance with GAAP or otherwise. Moreover, given, among other things, the valuation and nature of certain liabilities, to the extent that the Debtor shows more assets than liabilities, this is not a conclusion that the Debtor was solvent at the Petition Date. Likewise, to the extent that the Debtor shows more liabilities than assets, this is not a conclusion that the Debtor was insolvent at the Petition Date or any time prior to the Petition Date.

Estimates. To timely close the books and records of the Debtor, the CRO must make certain estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and reported revenue and expenses. The Debtor reserves all rights to amend the reported amounts of assets, liabilities, revenue, and expenses to reflect changes in those estimates and assumptions.

Confidentiality. There may be instances within the Schedules and SoFA where names, addresses, or amounts have been left blank. Due to the nature of an agreement between the Debtor and the third party, concerns of confidentiality, or concerns for the privacy of an individual, the Debtor may have deemed it appropriate and necessary to avoid listing such names, addresses, and amounts.

Intercompany Claims. Any receivables and payables between the Debtor and affiliated or related entities in this case (each an “Intercompany Receivable” or “Intercompany Payable” and, collectively, the “Intercompany Claims”) are reported as assets on Schedule B or liabilities on Schedule E and Schedule F. These Intercompany Claims include the following components, among others: 1) loans to affiliates or related entities, 2) accounts payable and payroll disbursements made out of an affiliate’s or related entity’s bank accounts on behalf of the Debtor, 3) centrally billed expenses, 4) corporate expense allocations, and 5) accounting for trade and other intercompany transactions. These Intercompany Claims may or may not result in allowed or enforceable claims by or against the Debtor, and by listing these claims the Debtor is not indicating a conclusion that the Intercompany Claims are enforceable. Intercompany Claims may also be subject to set off, recoupment, and netting not reflected in the Schedules. In situations where there is not an enforceable claim, the assets and/or liabilities of the Debtor may be greater or lesser than the amounts stated herein. All rights to amend intercompany Claims in the Schedules and SoFA are reserved.

The Debtor has listed the intercompany payables as unsecured claims on Schedule F. The Debtor reserves its rights to later change the characterization, classification, categorization, or designation of such items.

Insiders. For purposes of the Schedules and SoFA, the Debtor defines “insider” pursuant to section 101(31) of the Bankruptcy Code. Payments to insiders are set forth on Question 3.c. of the SoFA.

Persons listed as “insiders” have been included for informational purposes only. The Debtor did not take any position with respect to whether such individual could successfully argue that he or she is not an “insider” under applicable law, including without limitation, the federal securities laws, or with respect to any theories of liability or for any other purpose. Inclusion of any party in the Schedules and SoFA as an insider does not constitute an admission that such party is an insider or a waiver of such party’s right to dispute insider status.

Excluded Accruals and GAAP Entries. The Debtor’s balance sheet reflects liabilities recognized in accordance with GAAP; however, not all such liabilities would result in a claim against the Debtor. Certain liabilities (including but not limited to certain reserves, deferred charges, and future contractual obligations) have not been included in the Debtor’s Schedules. Other immaterial assets and liabilities may also have been excluded.

Classification and Claim Descriptions. Any failure to designate a claim on the Schedules as “disputed,” “contingent” or “unliquidated” does not constitute an admission by the Debtor that such amount is not “disputed,” “contingent” or “unliquidated.” The Debtor reserves the right to dispute, or to assert offsets or defenses to, any claim reflected on its Schedules as to amount, liability or classification or to otherwise subsequently designate any claim as “disputed,” “contingent” or “unliquidated.”

Listing a claim (i) in Schedule D as “secured,” (ii) in Schedule E as “priority” or (iii) in Schedule F as “unsecured nonpriority,” or listing a contract in Schedule G as “executory” or “unexpired,” does not constitute an admission by the Debtor of the legal rights of the claimant or a waiver of the Debtor’s right to recharacterize or reclassify such claim or contract.

Moreover, the Debtor reserves all rights to amend the SoFA and Schedules, in all respects, as may be necessary or appropriate, including, but not limited to, the right to dispute or to assert offsets or defenses to any claim reflected on the SoFA and Schedules as to amount, liability or classification of the claim, or to otherwise subsequently designate any claim as “disputed,” “contingent” or “unliquidated.” Furthermore, nothing contained in the SoFA and Schedules shall constitute a waiver of rights by the Debtor involving any present or future causes of action, contested matters or other issues under the provisions of the Bankruptcy Code or other relevant non-bankruptcy laws.

Credits and Adjustments. The claims of individual creditors for, among other things, goods, products, services or taxes are listed as the amounts entered on the Debtor’s books and records and may not reflect credits, allowances or other adjustments due from such creditors to the Debtor. The Debtor reserves all of its rights respecting such credits, allowances or other adjustments.

Setoffs. The Debtor may incur setoffs from third parties in its business. Setoffs in the ordinary course can result from various routine transactions, including intercompany transactions, pricing discrepancies, warranty claims and other disputes between the Debtor and third parties. Certain of these constitute normal setoffs consistent with the ordinary course of business in the Debtor’s industry. In such instances, such ordinary course setoffs are excluded from the Debtor’s responses to Question 13 of the SoFA. The Debtor reserves all rights to enforce or challenge, as the case may be, any setoffs that have been or may be asserted.

Specific Notes. These general notes are in addition to the specific notes set forth below or in the related Statement and Schedules hereinafter.

General Disclaimer

The Debtor has prepared the Schedules and the SoFA based on the information reflected in the Debtor’s books and records. However, inasmuch as the Debtor’s books and records have not been audited or formally closed and evaluated for proper cut-off on the Petition Date, the Debtor cannot warrant the absolute accuracy of these documents. The Debtor has made a diligent effort to complete these documents accurately and completely. To the extent additional information becomes available, the Debtor will amend and supplement the Schedules and SoFA.

Specific Schedules Disclosures

- a. Schedule A/B, Part 4 - Investments; Non-Publicly Traded Stock and Interests in Incorporated and Unincorporated Businesses, including any Interest in an LLC, Partnership, or Joint Venture. Certain ownership interests in subsidiaries have been listed in Schedule A/B, Part 4, at their book value on account of the fact that the fair market value of such ownership is dependent on numerous variables and factors. Fair value of such interests may differ significantly from their net book value. Further, for investments listed at fair value, many of the Debtor’s assets are not exchange traded and are fair valued utilizing unobservable inputs, historical information, and significant and/or subjective estimates. As a result the liquidity and ultimately realized value of such investments may differ materially from the fair value listed on the schedule.

- b. Schedule A/B, Part 7 - Office Furniture, Fixtures, and Equipment; and Collectibles. Dollar amounts are presented net of accumulated depreciation and other adjustments.
- c. Schedule A/B, Part 11 - All Other Assets. Dollar amounts are presented net of impairments and other adjustments. Debtor has reflected “unknown” for value of its interests in various other assets. While the face value of the notes receivable is included, the current value of these as well as the other assets has not been determined and may differ materially.

Additionally, the Debtor may receive refunds, income tax refunds or other sales tax refunds at various times throughout its fiscal year. As of the Petition Date, however, certain of these amounts are unknown to the Debtor, and accordingly, may not be listed in Schedule A/B.

Other Contingent and Unliquidated Claims or Causes of Action of Every Nature, including Counterclaims of the Debtor and Rights to Setoff Claims. In the ordinary course of its business, the Debtor may have accrued, or may subsequently accrue, certain rights to counter-claims, cross-claims, setoffs, or refunds with its customers and suppliers. Additionally, the Debtor may be party to pending litigation in which the Debtor has asserted, or may assert, claims as a plaintiff or counter-claims and/or cross-claims as a defendant. Because certain of these claims are unknown to the Debtor and not quantifiable as of the Petition Date, they may not be listed on Schedule A/B, Part 11.

- d. Schedule D - Creditors Who Have Claims Secured by Property. The Debtor reserves its rights to dispute or challenge the validity, perfection, or immunity from avoidance of any lien purported to be granted or perfected in any specific asset to a secured creditor listed on Schedule D. Moreover, although the Debtor has scheduled claims of various creditors as secured claims, the Debtor reserves all rights to dispute or challenge the secured nature of any such creditor’s claim or the characterization of the structure of any such transaction or any document or instrument related to such creditor’s claim.

The descriptions provided in Schedule D are intended only to be a summary. Reference to the applicable agreements and other related relevant documents is necessary for a complete description of the collateral and the nature, extent, and priority of any liens.

The Debtor has not included on Schedule D parties that may believe their claims are secured through setoff rights or inchoate statutory lien rights. Although there are multiple parties that hold a portion of the debt included in the secured facilities, only the administrative agents have been listed for purposes of Schedule D.

e. Schedule E/F - Creditors Who Have Unsecured Claims.

Part 1 - Creditors with Priority Unsecured Claims. Pursuant to the Order (I) Authorizing the Debtor to (A) Pay and Honor Prepetition Compensation, Reimbursable Business Expenses, and Employee Benefit Obligations, and (B) Maintain and Continue Certain Compensation and Benefit Programs Postpetition; and (11) Granting Related Relief [Docket No. 39] (the “Wage Order”), the Debtor received authority to pay certain prepetition obligations, including to pay employee wages and other employee benefits, in the ordinary course of business. The Debtor believes that any non-insider employee claims for prepetition amounts related to ongoing payroll and benefits, whether allowable as a priority or nonpriority claim, which were due and payable at the time of the Petition Date have been or will be satisfied as permitted pursuant to the Wage Order. The Debtor filed the Motion of the Debtor for Entry of an Order Authorizing the Debtor to Pay and Honor Ordinary Course Obligations under Employee Bonus Plans and Granting Related Relief [Docket No. 177] pursuant to which the Debtor seeks authority to pay and honor certain prepetition bonus programs. Employee claims related to these programs are shown in the aggregate amounts in Schedule E/F for privacy reasons. Additional information is available by appropriate request to the Debtor. The listing of a claim on Schedule E/F, Part 1, does not constitute an admission by the Debtor that such claim or any portion thereof is entitled to priority status.

Part 2 - Creditors with Nonpriority Unsecured Claims. The liabilities identified in Schedule E/F, Part 2, are derived from the Debtor’s books and records. The Debtor made a reasonable attempt to set forth its unsecured obligations, although the actual amount of claims against the Debtor may vary from those liabilities represented on Schedule E/F, Part 2. The listed liabilities may not reflect the correct amount of any unsecured creditor’s allowed claims or the correct amount of all unsecured claims.

Schedule E/F, Part 2 reflects liabilities based on the Debtor’s books and records.

Schedule E/F, Part 2, contains information regarding threatened or pending litigation involving the Debtor. The amounts for these potential claims are listed as “unknown” and are marked as contingent, unliquidated, and disputed in the Schedules and Statements. Additionally, the amounts of certain litigation claims may be estimates based on the allegations asserted by the litigation counterparty, and do not constitute an admission by the Debtor with respect to either liability for, or the amount of, such claims.

Schedule E/F, Part 2, reflects certain prepetition amounts owing to counterparties to executory contracts and unexpired leases. Such prepetition amounts, however, may be paid in connection with the assumption or assumption and assignment of an executory contract or unexpired lease. In addition, Schedule E/F, Part 2, does not include claims that may arise in connection with the rejection of any executory contracts and unexpired leases, if any, that may be or have been rejected.

As of the time of filing of the Schedules and Statements, the Debtor had not received all invoices for payables, expenses, and other liabilities that may have accrued prior to the Petition Date. Accordingly, the information contained in Schedules D and E/F may be incomplete. The Debtor reserves its rights to amend Schedules D and E/F if and as it receive such invoices.

- f. Schedule G - Executory Contracts and Unexpired Leases. While reasonable efforts have been made to ensure the accuracy of Schedule G, inadvertent errors or omissions may have occurred.

Listing a contract or agreement on Schedule G does not constitute an admission that such contract or agreement is an executory contract or unexpired lease or that such contract or agreement was in effect on the Petition Date or is valid or enforceable. The Debtor hereby reserves all of its rights to dispute the validity, status, or enforceability of any contracts, agreements, or leases set forth in Schedule G and to amend or supplement such Schedule as necessary. Certain of the leases and contracts listed on Schedule G may contain renewal options, guarantees of payment, indemnifications, options to purchase, rights of first refusal and other miscellaneous rights. Such rights, powers, duties and obligations are not set forth separately on Schedule G. In addition, the Debtor may have entered into various other types of agreements in the ordinary course of its business, such as supplemental agreements, amendments, and letter agreement, which documents may not be set forth in Schedule G.

Certain of the agreements listed on Schedule G may have expired or terminated pursuant to their terms, but are listed on Schedule G in an abundance of caution.

The Debtor reserves all rights to dispute or challenge the characterization of any transaction or any document or instrument related to a creditor's claim.

In some cases, the same supplier or provider may appear multiple times in Schedule G. Multiple listings, if any, reflect distinct agreements between the Debtor and such supplier or provider.

The listing of any contract on Schedule G does not constitute an admission by the Debtor as to the validity of any such contract. The Debtor reserves the right to dispute the effectiveness of any such contract listed on Schedule G or to amend Schedule G at any time to remove any contract.

Omission of a contract or agreement from Schedule G does not constitute an admission that such omitted contract or agreement is not an executory contract or unexpired lease. The Debtor's rights under the Bankruptcy Code with respect to any such omitted contracts or agreements are not impaired by the omission.
