39. During the Bankruptcy Proceedings, in connection with confirmation of Acis' plan of reorganization, Mr. Worman gave extensive testimony describing Brigade's expertise and competencies, including compliance support for the Acis CLOs, in addition to other tasks, such as day-to-day portfolio management, including but not limited to identifying trades due, executing on those trades.

40. Further, Mr. Terry has delegated certain tasks related to the Acis CLOs to Brigade, including, but not limited to research services as needed, and modeling of ratings, default, and price scenarios as needed. In providing these critical portfolio management services for the ACIS CLOs, Brigade works directly with Terry, and is under Terry's direction and control. Mr. Terry testified in the Acis Bankruptcy proceedings that this was the intention.

41. Given Brigade's extensive level of involvement of the portfolio management of the CLOs, under Mr. Worman's direction, Brigade's and Worman's conduct, and by extension ACM's through Mr. Terry's direction and control, severely and adversely impacts the collateral portfolios in which The Charitable DAF owns as a Secured Noteholder and as the indirect Holder of equity interests under the Acis CLOs.

42. As of February 20, 2019 (and also prior to ACM's emergence from bankruptcy), Brigade has charged ACM fifteen basis points on total ACIS CLO assets under management for these portfolio management services, a fee which Brigade has represented it negotiated in good faith with ACM.

43. As discussed in more detail below, none of Mr. Terry, ACM, Mr. Worman nor Brigade has complied with the duties set forth in the PMAs, and the loans it acquired and the expenses incurred have left the Acis CLOs credit profile severely deteriorated and without sufficient interest income to make distributions to its equity holders.

C. U.S. Bank must satisfy extra-contractual obligations owed to The Charitable DAF.

44. U.S. Bank must satisfy certain extra-contractual obligations in connection with its role as Trustee, and the broad powers associated therewith. These pre-default extra-contractual obligations include the duty to perform all basic, non-discretionary, ministerial tasks with due care, and to avoid conflicts of interest.

45. For example, U.S. Bank was required to perform all basic, non-discretionary, ministerial tasks with due care, including, but not limited to, the following extra-contractual tasks: reserving Noteholder rights impacted by active litigation, such as bankruptcy proceedings; exercising due care in connection with the payment of expenses; collecting and distributing the interest and dividends due on the portfolio securities; and providing Noteholders with periodic reports concerning the interest received, amounts distributed and securities in the portfolio.

46. Notably, no provisions of the ACIS Indentures “shall be construed to relieve the Trustee from liability for its own negligent action, its own negligent failure to act, or its own willful misconduct”.

D. U.S. Bank fails to reserve or otherwise protect The Charitable DAF’s rights in connection with bankruptcy proceedings.

47. The Charitable DAF’s rights as a Secured Noteholder under the ACIS Indentures have been compromised by certain proceedings and judicial rulings in the Bankruptcy Proceeding consolidated Chapter 11 bankruptcy proceeding, and related adversary proceeding.

48. On July 29, 2018, the Chapter 11 Trustee in the Bankruptcy Proceeding filed a First Amended Joint Plan for Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management, GP, LLC (the “First Amended Plan”).

49. The First Amended Plan provided for certain amendments to the ACIS Indentures that would be effected through a certain Plan B and Plan C. These proposals concerned, among other things, re-writing the ACIS Indentures to protect Acis’ management fee stream for several years.

50. In full recognition that the First Amended Plan encroached on the rights of Noteholders under the Acis CLOs like The Charitable DAF, the Trustee filed a Reservation of Rights and Limited Objections to the First Amended Plan in the Bankruptcy Proceeding. The Trustee took prompt measures to protect noteholder rights, filing these pleadings only fifteen days after the filing of the First Amended Plan.

51. Among other infringements on the rights of Noteholders under the ACIS Indentures, the Trustee explained that: “In other words, both Plan B and Plan C purport to ignore the express terms of the Indenture and the rights of the Noteholders with respect to amending the Indenture.”⁶

52. On January 31, 2019, a Third Amended Joint Plan for Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management GP, LLC was entered in the Bankruptcy Proceeding (“Plan D”).

53. Like Plan B and C, Plan D also substantially impacted the rights of Noteholders under the ACIS Indentures, including The Charitable DAF.

⁶ See Bankruptcy Proceeding, case number 18-30264-SGJ-11 at Dkt. Nos. 500, 501, and 500; see id. at Dkt. No. 505.

54. In addition to other restrictions, Plan D impedes the ability of noteholders under the ACIS Indentures to make optional redemptions, which restriction has decimated the value of such investments across the capital stack of each CLO covered by the ACIS Indentures.

55. Moreover, Plan D conflicts with the express terms of the ACIS Indentures. Specifically, the ACIS Indentures do not permit U.S. Bank to “authorize or consent to or vote for or accept or adopt on behalf of any Secured Noteholders, any plan of reorganization, arrangement, adjustment or composition affecting the Secured Notes or any Holder thereof”. (emphases added).

56. Tellingly, in its Reservation of Rights filed in 2018, U.S. Bank acknowledged that the specific plans “adversely affect[ed] the rights of Noteholders.”⁷ The same holds true for Plan D.

57. Notwithstanding its ability to do so, U.S. Bank did not reserve any Noteholders’ rights, or otherwise object to the entry of Plan D.

58. Instead, as noted by the court’s ruling approving confirmation of Plan D on January 31, 2019, “[t]he indenture trustee has retained and appeared through its own separate counsel during the Chapter 11 Bankruptcy Cases and is not currently objecting to the Plan.”⁸ (emphasis added).

59. U.S. Bank’s election to take no action regarding the entry of Plan D amplified the exposure of The Charitable DAF and the overall risk that it faces during the pendency of the Plan D injunction. Though U.S. Bank has a duty to avoid conflicts of interest, its election to take no action regarding the entry of Plan D underscores the Trustee’s self-serving conduct.

⁸ See e.g., Bankruptcy Proceeding, case number 18-30264-SGJ-11 at Dkt. No. 827 p. 5.

60. U.S. Bank is not excused from failing to protect The Charitable DAF's rights affected by Plan D or by the Bankruptcy Proceeding generally.

E. Mr. Terry and ACM, as Portfolio Manager, with the assistance of Mr. Worman's team at Brigade and enabled by U.S. Bank, willfully orchestrate an extensive series of collateral trades that fail to satisfy the collateral quality tests and instead deteriorate the ACIS CLOs' credit profile to the detriment of The Charitable DAF and all investors.

61. As set forth above, U.S. Bank and the Portfolio Manager must ensure that every purchase made under the ACIS Indentures satisfies the collateral quality tests, including the Weighted Average Life Test ("WAL test") and the Minimum Weighted Average Moody's Recovery Rate Test ("WAM test"), or maintains or improves any failing collateral quality tests. They failed to satisfy these obligations in at least two ways.

62. First, U.S. Bank and the Portfolio Manager effectuated or facilitated certain transactions that did not satisfy the WAL test or maintain or improve such failing WAL test. Specifically, they made multiple same-day trades and consolidated the weighted average maturity date for these trades. In so doing, they created the false appearance of a maintained or improved WAL test. Absent this consolidation, the same-day purchases could not have maintained or improved the failing WAL tests on individual bases.

63. The value destruction of this forced "bunched trading" is clear when one compares the prices at trade date against the prices from the previous day. For example:

CLO	Trade	Issuer	Commitment	Date	Trade Px	Day Before	Close Mid Price	2 Day Before	Close Mid Price	Change	P&L
CLO 6	Purchase	Diebold Inc - Diebold DD T/L A	1,578,541.42	3/26/2019	99.00	3/25/2019	95.50	3/22/2019	95.5	-3.50	(55,248.95)
CLO 5	Purchase	Diebold Nixdorf Incorporated - Diebold T/L B New Dollar	4,985,751.99	5/23/2019	96.75	5/22/2019	95.75	5/21/2019	95.75	-1.00	(49,857.52)
CLO 6	Purchase	Team Health Holdings Inc - Team Health Holdings T/L	1,279,236.64	3/26/2019	88.50	3/25/2019	86.13	3/22/2019	86.9375	-2.38	(30,381.87)

64. What is more, this artificial trading philosophy, disguised as “responsible management,” has resulted in myriad poorly conceived and timed buys, which positions have plummeted, destroying value for the investors. For example:

Issuer	Buy/Sell	1st Purchase Date	Last Purchase Date	LoanX ID	Sum of 1/14/20 P&L	Cost	11/8/2019 Mark
Chief Power	Buy	3/13/2019	3/26/2019	LX142450	(2,966,283.06)	95.41	51.50
Peak 10	Buy	9/27/2018	3/19/2019	LX167187	(1,198,856.69)	95.58	85.63
KCA Deutag UK Finance PL	Buy	4/22/2019	5/23/2019	LX172320	(1,723,142.31)	84.89	65.58
Envision Healthcare	Buy	4/3/2018	6/18/2019	LX175867	(1,103,425.06)	94.14	886.26

65. Mr. Terry and ACM, with the assistance of Mr. Worman’s team at Brigade, enabled by U.S. Bank as indenture trustee, have continued this blatant trading misconduct. As recently as November 15, 2019, the Portfolio Manager and U.S. Bank effectuated multiple improper same day trades which fail to meet the applicable collateral quality standards, in further reckless disregard of the portfolio management obligations that bind the Portfolio Manager and U.S. Bank, discussed herein.

66. The transaction history of the ACIS Indentures makes clear that each of Mr. Terry, ACM, Mr. Worman’s team at Brigade and U.S. Bank appreciate the import of trading on specific days. In connection with one such indenture, these defendants authorized the purchase of a term loan in Capital Automotive 1st Lien with a maturity date of March 25, 2024. But, to maintain or improve the WAL test for this indenture, they should have required the CLOs to purchase assets with a maturity date of April 4, 2023 or earlier. They committed or facilitated similar misconduct across the ACIS Indentures.

67. Second, the Weighted Average Moody’s Rating Factor (“WARF”) a factor on which the WAM test turns, has steadily increased this year for each portfolio of the ACIS Indentures.

68. Since the entry of Plan D, under ACM’s and Brigade’s “management” of the ACIS Indentures, U.S. Bank has impermissibly enabled the collective WARF of the portfolios to become one of the dirtiest pools in the market in a matter of months. Specifically, as of October 2019 and through December 20,219, the WARF of each such indenture has dramatically worsened, as follows:

69. Against the backdrop of malfeasance, it is important to note that the Acis CLO portfolios and its investors including The Charitable DAF, had original risk/ratings expectations based on an average life that would shrink materially as modeled now that the reinvestment period of the Acis CLOs ended.

70. Moreover, and in contrast to Mr. Terry’s and ACM’s management, prepayments would lower the risk of the Acis CLO notes, including those held by The Charitable DAF, by paying off senior lower-cost debt (for example, at the AAA tranche of the respective CLO). The benefit would be realized at the junior tranches and the equity as holders would receive less-levered, lower interest payments but those investors’ residual principal value would have more certainty. By keeping the average life extended and avoiding prepayments: (1) risk increases, (2) residual principal value falls, and (3) interest to equity holders theoretically continues for an artificially longer period.

71. Mr. Terry’s and ACM’s management thus kills the equity’s residual principal recoveries while impairing and extending the duration of the debt. It is clear that the ACIS CLOs’ original model and duration and risk expectation was that it would be half of what it is today but for the mismanagement by Mr. Terry and ACM, with the help of Mr. Worman’s team at Brigade and enabled by U.S. Bank. And this mismanagement can be shown through the clear diminution in value at the equity tranches of the ACIS CLOs over 2019, which valuation takes into account the “health” of the overall portfolio in each such deal (in which The Charitable DAF is indirectly an investor through a different investment vehicle) (all of the below are third-party valuations on a mark-to-market methodology):

Valuation at	Acis 5	Acis 6
1/31/2019	34.25	36.50
4/30/2019	31.75	35.00
7/31/2019	29.50	29.92
10/31/2019	21.25	23.17

F. U.S. Bank and the Portfolio Manager’s conduct has damaged The Charitable DAF substantially.

72. The conduct described above has resulted in myriad damage to The Charitable DAF, including, but not limited to, the following.

73. The collective failure by each of Mr. Terry and ACM, with the assistance of Mr. Worman’s team at Brigade, as well as U.S. Bank as Indenture Trustee, to ensure that transactions under the ACIS Indentures comply with the collateral quality tests set forth therein constitute violations of the Defendants’ extra-contractual obligations to The Charitable DAF, negligence, and/or willful misconduct. By committing or facilitating extensive portfolio mismanagement, the Defendants have further violated their obligations to The Charitable DAF. These violations have compromised, among other things, the credit profile of the ACIS Indentures, and the value of The Charitable DAF's secured notes thereunder.

74. Under its watch, since ACM has emerged from bankruptcy, Mr. Terry and ACM have caused the Acis CLOs to incur exorbitant and unprecedented administrative expenses. Indeed, as a result of the payment of uncharacteristically high expenses, equity holders under ACIS Indentures have received zero cash flows, an almost unprecedented situation that severely weakens the overall credit quality of the CLOs, which condition inures to the detriment of all the Secured Noteholders, including The Charitable DAF. The Charitable DAF has summarized these expenses in the following table:

Expenses Paid in 2019
Date	A5	A6	Total
5/1/19	27,135	56,452	176,587
8/1/19	609,974	1,046,612	3,128,642
11/1/19	437,613	1,074,214	3,171,885
Total	$ 1,074,722	$2,177,278	$ 6,477,114

75. On or about November 4, 2019, certain Noteholders under the ACIS Indentures sent a letter to each of Mr. Terry, ACM and U.S. Bank regarding this misconduct. Among other things, Noteholders under the ACIS Indentures requested that each of ACM and U.S. Bank comply with a simple books and records request to provide a written statement setting forth in reasonable detail the Administrative Expenses and other costs and expenses identified in each of the Distribution Reports prepared and delivered pursuant to the Indentures for Payment Dates occurring through November 2019. Highland CLO Funding, Ltd. ("HCLOF"), a Holder of Subordinated Notes under certain of the ACIS Indentures and in which The Charitable DAF is a 49% investor, submitted a substantially similar books and records request to U.S. Bank on November 6, 2019. To date, neither of U.S. Bank nor the Portfolio Manager have provided any kind of accounting for these exorbitant fees or any other books and records response. The sheer magnitude of fees require a necessary inference that expenses unrelated to the Acis CLOs are being improperly reimbursed. This is a clear and actionable conflict of interest. Mr. Terry, one and the same as ACM, abused the privilege of doing business as ACM to perpetuate these wrongs.

76. The request for an accounting described above, was made by similarly situated Noteholders to The Charitable DAF who also own Secured Notes under the Acis Indentures and/or are Holders of equity. As such, the Portfolio Manager, having received the request for an account, had an understanding that Noteholders like The Charitable DAF relied on the Portfolio Manager to perform particular services.

77. Mr. Terry and ACM, Mr. Worman's team at Brigade, and U.S. Bank as Indenture Trustee owed a duty to The Charitable DAF to avoid conflicts of interest. They shirked these duties by, among other things, facilitating trades that did not comply with the collateral test in order to artificially maximize certain management fees. They shirked these duties by incurring unprecedented expenses that were close to twenty times the historical expense rate.

78. Likewise, despite U.S. Bank's duty to avoid conflicts of interest, in failing to object or otherwise reserve any Noteholder rights impacted by Plan D, U.S. Bank further demonstrated its inability to prioritize or protect the rights of Noteholder The Charitable DAF.

G. Moody's knowingly or recklessly published false ratings of the ACIS Indentures.

79. Moody's is a nationally recognized statistical rating organization, or an NRSRO. As an NRSRO, Moody's "evaluate[s] a debt offering based on public, and sometimes nonpublic, information regarding the assets of an issuer and assign[s] the debt offering a rating to convey information to a potential creditor/investor about the creditworthiness of the issuer's debt." Abu Dhabi Commercial Bank v. Morgan Stanley & Co. Inc., 651 F. Supp. 2d 155, 164 (S.D.N.Y. 2009). This rating is important to issuers and investors because, among other things, a "[debt offering]'s success depends on the credit quality of the [underlying] assets," and "[i]f stable [assets] comprise the [debt offering], then [i]nvestors are much less likely to suffer a loss." Id. at 165; see also In re Fitch, Inc., 330 F.3d 104, 106 (2d Cir. 2003) ("[Moody's] endorsement of a given security has regulatory significance, as many regulated institutional investors are limited in what types of securities they may invest based on the securities' NRSRO ratings.")

80. Between June and November 2014, Moody's gave Indenture 5 a AAA rating. This is a top rating, and the "same as those usually assigned by the Rating Agencies to bonds backed by the full faith and credit of the United States Government, such as Treasury Bills." Abu Dhabi Commercial Bank, 651 F. Supp. 2d at 165. The rating is "commonly understood in the marketplace to [indicate an investment is] stable, secure, and safe." Id.

81. Still, depending upon the circumstances, an NRSRO like Moody's can downgrade a particular rating to reflect new information. To that end, on August 6, 2019, certain ACIS Noteholders provided Moody's with written notice of U.S. Bank's misconduct, including its practice of bunched trading under the ACIS Indentures by effectuating multiple same day transactions that did not satisfy the WAL test or maintain or improve such failing WAL test.

82. The same Noteholders provided Moody's with a supplemental notice of U.S. Bank's trading misconduct on September 13, 2019.

83. Nevertheless, and since that time, Moody's has continued to publish false ratings of those assets. Indeed, Moody's has continued to rate Indenture 5 as an AAA investment, notwithstanding its notice of the facts set forth in more detail above.

84. This, in turn, has allowed U.S. Bank and the Portfolio Manager to continue disregarding their obligations under the ACIS Indentures, further compromising the value of the assets securing the Co-Issuers' obligations thereunder. Moody's wrongful conduct has therefore diminished the equity that The Charitable DAF owns indirectly pursuant to the ACIS Indentures.

COUNT I: BREACH OF THE DUTY TO PERFORM ALL BASIC, NON-DISCRETIONARY, MINISTERIAL TASKS WITH DUE CARE
(AGAINST U.S. BANK)

85. The Charitable DAF hereby alleges and incorporates the preceding allegations as if fully set forth herein.

86. U.S. Bank has an extra-contractual duty to perform all basic, non-discretionary, ministerial tasks under the ACIS Indentures with due care. This duty subjects each of the foregoing to tort liability.

87. U.S. Bank breached this duty in at least two ways.

88. First, U.S. Bank breached this duty by permitting the ACIS Indentures to incur exorbitant expenses, which have diminished the equity that The Charitable DAF owns indirectly pursuant to the ACIS Indentures.

89. Second, U.S. Bank breached its duty by negligently failing to act, and by accepting the entry of "Plan D" in the Bankruptcy Proceeding, which directly affects the secured Noteholders. Among other things, Plan D adversely impacts the rights of The Charitable DAF by imposing an injunction that prohibits beneficial trading activity, and impeding the ability of Noteholders to make optional redemptions.

90. U.S. Bank's omission to act was not in good faith. In 2018, U.S. Bank filed multiple pleadings in the Bankruptcy Proceeding, including, but not limited to, a Reservation of Rights, and Limited Objections to the entry of the predecessor plans to Plan D. U.S. Bank failed to take any action whatsoever in regard to Plan D.

91. These breaches were the proximate cause of damages to Charitable DAF.

92. Based on investigation to date, such damages include, but are not limited to, The Charitable DAF's inability to make certain trades or redemptions, which restriction has decreased the value of The Charitable DAF's investment across the capital stack of each contract. They also include the diminished value of the collateral securing the issuer and co-issuer's financial obligations to The Charitable DAF. U.S. Bank's failure to reserve or otherwise protect The Charitable DAF's rights impacted by the Bankruptcy Proceeding has caused it to suffer damages.

COUNT II: BREACH OF THE DUTY TO AVOID CONFLICTS OF INTEREST
(AGAINST U.S. BANK)

93. The Charitable DAF hereby alleges and incorporates the preceding allegations as if fully set forth herein.

94. U.S. Bank has an extra-contractual duty to avoid conflicts of interest. This duty subjects each of such parties to tort liability.

95. U.S. Bank is prohibited from advancing its own interests at the expense of its investor, The Charitable DAF.

96. U.S. Bank breached this duty by, among other things, facilitating extensive portfolio mismanagement and failing to ensure compliance with the collateral quality tests in order to artificially maximize management fees. Such facilitation of noncompliant trades gives rise to an inference of bad faith.

97. U.S. Bank also breached this duty by allowing the ACIS Indentures to incur exorbitant fees which have diminished the equity that The Charitable DAF owns indirectly pursuant to the ACIS Indentures.

98. U.S. Bank's breaches were the proximate cause of damages to The Charitable DAF.

99. Based on investigation to date, such damages include, but are not limited to, the diminished value of the collateral securing the issuer and co-issuer's financial obligations to Charitable DAF.

100. U.S. Bank's breaches, set forth herein, have damaged The Charitable DAF in not less than $5,000,000.00.

COUNT III: DEFAMATION (AGAINST MOODY'S)

101. The Charitable DAF hereby alleges and incorporates the preceding allegations as if fully set forth herein.

102. On August 6, 2019, certain Acis Noteholders provided Moody's with credible information regarding U.S. Bank's wrongful trading conduct and portfolio mismanagement, as described in more detail above. Since that date, Moody's has had actual or constructive notice of U.S. Bank's wrongful trading conduct.

103. Notwithstanding such notice, Moody's has continued to publish a false rating of AAA for Indenture 5 to investors.

104. Moody's published these ratings with knowledge of their falsity or with reckless disregard thereto.

105. In so doing, Moody's has caused The Charitable DAF to suffer special damages. Specifically, by continuing to provide an AAA rating for Indenture 5, Moody's has enabled U.S. Bank and the Portfolio Manager to compromise the value of the assets securing the co-issuer's obligations under the ACIS Indentures. Since August 2019, when Moody's first learned of U.S. Bank's misconduct, these assets have continued to decrease in value.

COUNT IV: NEGLIGENCE (AGAINST ACM)

106. The Charitable DAF hereby alleges and incorporates the preceding allegations as if fully set forth herein.

107. ACM owed independent extra-contractual duties The Charitable DAF, including, but not limited to, the duty to preserve the equity interests that The Charitable DAF indirectly owns, and a duty to refrain from self-dealing. Among other things, ACM assumed obligations that affected The Charitable DAF's rights, and The Charitable DAF detrimentally relied on ACM's continued performance of such obligations. Upon information and belief, ACM understood that The Charitable DAF relied on it to perform the foregoing duties.

108. As set forth in more detail above, ACM breached its duty to The Charitable DAF by mismanaging the portfolio of the ACIS Indentures, and by failing to ensure that new trades complied with the collateral quality tests.

109. The Charitable DAF has suffered direct damages as a proximate result of ACM's breach.

110. Such damages include, but are not limited to, the diminished value of the collateral securing the issuer and co-issuer's financial obligations to The Charitable DAF.

COUNT V: NEGLIGENCE (AGAINST BRIGADE)

111. The Charitable DAF hereby alleges and incorporates the preceding allegations as if fully set forth herein.

112. Brigade owed independent extra-contractual duties to The Charitable DAF, including, but not limited to the duty to preserve the equity interests that The Charitable DAF indirectly owns. As ACM's agent, Brigade assumed obligations that affected The Charitable DAF's rights, and The Charitable DAF detrimentally relied on Brigade's continued performance of such obligations. Upon information and belief, Brigade understood that The Charitable DAF relied on it to perform the foregoing duties.

113. As set forth in more detail above, Brigade breached this duty by mismanaging the portfolio of the ACIS Indentures, and by failing to ensure that new trades complied with the collateral quality tests.

114. The Charitable DAF has suffered direct damages as a proximate result of Brigade's breach.

115. Such damages include, but are not limited to, the diminished value of the collateral securing the issuer and co-issuer's financial obligations to The Charitable DAF.

COUNT VI: CONVERSION (AGAINST MR. TERRY AND ACM)

116. The Charitable DAF hereby alleges and incorporates the preceding allegations as if fully set forth herein.

117. The ACIS CLOs are obligated to pay specific and identifiable Administrative Expenses and other costs and expenses. The payment of these expenses is pulled from a reserve of specific and identifiable equity which includes funds belonging to The Charitable DAF as an indirect holder of equity interests under the Acis CLOs.

118. As a Secured Noteholder and indirect holder of equity interests under the Acis CLOs under the Acis CLOs, The Charitable DAF had ownership, possession or control over the property used to pay the Acis CLOs' Administrative Expenses and costs before the property's conversion.

119. In allowing the payment of uncharacteristically high expenses upwards near twenty times their historical amount—Mr. Terry, upon information and belief, wrongfully and improperly reimbursed ACM, and potentially himself, using The Charitable DAF’s property designated for the payment of the Acis CLOs’ Administrative Expenses and costs.

120. Upon information and belief, Mr. Terry and ACM exercised a wrongful and unauthorized dominion over The Charitable DAF’s property designated for the payment of the Acis CLOs’ Administrative Expenses and costs, to the alteration of its condition or to the exclusion of The Charitable DAF’s rights.

121. An action for the conversion of using The Charitable DAF’s property designated for the payment of the Acis CLOs’ Administrative Expenses and costs lies based on this conduct. The property at issue is a specific, identifiable fund that has an obligation to be returned or otherwise treated in a particular manner.

COUNT VII: NEGLIGENCE (AGAINST MR. TERRY)

122. The Charitable DAF hereby alleges and incorporates the preceding allegations as if fully set forth herein.

123. Mr. Terry owed independent extra-contractual duties The Charitable DAF, including, but not limited to the duty to preserve the equity interests that The Charitable DAF indirectly owns, and a duty to refrain from self-dealing. As ACM’s owner and upon information and belief, ACM’s sole executive level employee, Mr. Terry assumed obligations that affected The Charitable DAF’s rights, and The Charitable DAF detrimentally relied on Mr. Terry’s continued performance of such obligations. Upon information and belief, Mr. Terry as owner and President of ACM, understood that The Charitable DAF relied on it to perform the foregoing duties.

124. As set forth in more detail above, Mr. Terry breached this duty by mismanaging the portfolio of the ACIS Indentures, and by failing to ensure that new trades complied with the collateral quality tests.

125. Mr. Terry also breached the duties that he owes to The Charitable DAF by incurring unprecedented expenses of the Acis CLOs up to twenty times their historical expense rate.

126. The Charitable DAF has suffered direct damages as a proximate result of Mr. Terry's breach. For example, Mr. Terry's conduct related to the expenses of the Acis CLOs has caused damaged The Charitable DAF's equity residual principal recoveries, and impaired and extended the duration of The Charitable DAF's debt.

127. In addition, Mr. Terry's conduct cause The Charitable DAF to sustain damages which include, but are not limited to, the diminished value of the collateral securing the issuer and co-issuer's financial obligations to The Charitable DAF.

REQUEST TO PIERCE ACIS CAPITAL MANAGEMENT'S CORPORATE VEIL

128. The Charitable DAF hereby alleges and incorporates the preceding allegations as if fully set forth herein.

129. Mr. Terry has exercised complete domination over ACM.

130. As described herein, Mr. Terry used such domination to commit a fraud or wrongs that injured the Charitable DAF. Mr. Terry abused the privilege of doing business as ACM to amass unprecedented expenses of the Acis CLOs up to twenty times the historical expense rate, among other wrongs.

131. These expenses, coupled with ACM's refusal to provide the accounting requested by certain Noteholders under the ACIS Indentures, creates an inference of impropriety. Further, the foregoing conduct raises an inference that expenses under the Acis CLOs are being improperly reimbursed.

132. The circumstances described herein warrant the disregard of ACM's corporate form, in particular, because Courts in this District will disregard the corporate form when necessary to prevent fraud or to achieve equity.

133. The Charitable DAF respectfully requests that the Court pierce the corporate veil of ACM such that ACM and Mr. Terry and jointly and severally liable for the wrongful conduct described herein.

CONDITIONS PRECEDENT

134. Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 9(c), Charitable DAF hereby pleads that all conditions precedent have occurred or been performed. Although the ACIS Indentures contain "no-action" clauses that require certain noteholders to make written request to U.S. Bank to institute any judicial proceedings in its own name, the Second Circuit has held that noncompliance with a no-action provision is excused in a suit against the indenture trustee. See Cruden v. Bank of New York, 957 F.2d 961, 968 (2d Cir. 1992) ("The district court held that the 'no action' clause applied only to the debenture holder suits against [the issuer], not the Indenture Trustees . . . This construction of [the limitation on suits provision] obviously is correct, as it would be absurd to require the debenture holders to ask the Trustee to sue itself.").

DEMAND FOR ATTORNEYS' FEES

135. Pursuant to Section 5.15 of the ACIS Indentures, Charitable DAF hereby makes a demand for the attorneys' fees and court costs it has sustained in bringing this action.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs The Charitable Donor Advised Fund, L.P. and CLO HoldCo, Ltd., respectfully requests that judgment be entered in its favor and against Defendants U.S. Bank, Moody's, ACM, and Brigade as follows:

- A. An award of damages sustained as a result of U.S. Bank National Association's activities in not less than $5,000,000.00;
- B. An award of damages sustained as a result of Moody's conduct in an amount to be determined at trial;
- C. An award of damages sustained as a result of ACM's conduct in an amount to be determined at trial;
- D. An award of damages sustained as a result of Brigade's conduct in an amount to be determined at trial;
- E. An award of reasonable attorneys' fees and court costs;
- F. An award of pre-judgment and post-judgment interest on all sums awarded; and
- G. For such other and further relief as the Court may deem just, equitable and appropriate.

OF THE ACIS PLAN INJUNCTION

On April 17, 2020, Acis Capital Management, L.P. ("Acis LP") and Acis Capital Management GP, LLC ("Acis GP" with Acis LP "Acis") filed the Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay Pursuant to Allow Pursuit of Motion for Order to Show Cause of Violations of the Acis Plan Injunction [Docket No. ____] (the "Motion") in the above-referenced case. The Court, having reviewed the Motion and having considered the statements of counsel at a final hearing, if any, before the Court (the "Hearing"), if any, finds that: (a) this Court has jurisdiction over this matter pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1334; (b) this matter is a core proceeding pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2); and (c) notices of the Motion and the Hearing were sufficient under the circumstances. Having considered the evidence, arguments of counsel, and responses, if any, this Court is of the opinion that the Motion is meritorious and establishes sufficient grounds for the relief requested therein.

ACCORDINGLY, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED THAT¹:

1. The Motion is GRANTED.
2. The automatic stay is immediately terminated, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 362(d), as it relates to Highland, and if applicable the Violators, to permit Acis to file, pursue to order, and otherwise prosecute the Show Cause Motion in this Court or any other court.
3. Acis is hereby authorized, but not required, to file, pursue to order, and otherwise prosecute the Show Cause Motion in this Court or any other court.
4. The 14-day stay provided under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 4001(a)(3) shall not apply.
5. This Court shall retain exclusive jurisdiction to enforce the terms of this Order.
6. This Order is a Final Order within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. § 158(a)(1) and is effective immediately upon entry.

END OF ORDER

¹ Unless otherwise noted herein, all undefined capitalized terms appearing in this Order shall have the meaning(s) ascribed to such terms as set forth in the Motion.

1 DALLAS, TEXAS - MAY 26, 2020 - 9:35 A.M.

2 (Transcript excerpt begins at 10:00 a.m.)

3 THE COURT: I'm going to say three things, just for 4 you to make note of and many months down the road, when we 5 have a final hearing on fee apps and I hope a successful 6 reorganization under our belt, these are three things I'd like 7 to see at a final hearing. Or I guess I should say future 8 interim hearings, for that matter.

9 Number one, the Exhibit B to the Foley interim fee app I 10 did not think was as enlightening as I'd like it to be as far 11 as allocation of fees between Neutra and the Debtor, Highland.
12 As we all know, Neutra is the only appellant on the order for 13 relief appeal, and then Highland and Neutra are, of course, 14 jointly appellants on the appeal of the Acis confirmation 15 order. Of course, I recognize HCLOF is out there as an 16 appellant on the confirmation order is well.

17 But anyway, there was that Exhibit B that sort of gave a 18 formula or a methodology, I guess I should say, as far as how 19 the firm decided to allocate the fees amongst Neutra and 20 Highland, but I think the words I used on the day of our 21 retention hearing was, At some point, I need to take a deep 22 dive on understanding what is a fair allocation. I mean, it 23 wouldn't necessarily be 50 percent Highland, 50 percent 24 Neutra, on the time of the appeal of the confirmation order.

25 And so, anyway, Exhibit B just didn't quite get me there,

1 so for future hearings, future fee apps, I hope that's 2 something that might be drilled down on more.

3 The second thing I was going to say is the redactions were 4 heavy, and if there's a concern about attorney-client
5 privilege, well, maybe at the end of the day those concerns 6 will -- or I should say strategy, litigation strategy -- if 7 that's the concern, at the end of the day I would think the 8 time entries could be unredacted. I was just going to have to 9 see unredacted fee apps, and I think others are entitled to 10 see that, especially in this context when we're trying to make 11 sure people stay in their lanes as far as the three or so 12 categories of representation that Foley was going to provide, 13 you know, working on all Acis case matters, working on appeal 14 of the confirmation order, and appeal of the order for relief, 15 but for Neutra to pay that amount.

16 So, hopefully, as we get further down the road, we won't 17 have the concerns about the litigation strategy being 18 revealed, and I think we're going to have to all see 19 unredacted time entries.

20 I said there were three issues. The third one was this.
21 The category in the time entries for "Adverse Proceedings/22 Appeals," it looked like to me there was a mixture of time 23 related to Acis, the Acis bankruptcy, as well as time related 24 to the -- I've got Winstead appeal. I think that was the 25 objection to Winstead's retention in the case and then the 1 appeal of the order approving their retention.

2 I think that is going to have to be, painful as it is,
3 separated out, because, obviously, you know, the board made 4 the decision that Highland should not pursue that appeal.
5 Well, you know, it may or may not be, at the end of the day,
6 reasonable to approve time spent up until the time the board 7 made that decision on the Winstead appeal, but I think at the 8 end of the day we'll need to see a separation of the time 9 spent on that category so we can fully assess the 10 reasonableness.

11 Anyway, so those are just words of advice for future fee 12 apps, but I do appreciate the agreement that was reached on 13 this today and so we'll look for the order and I'll sign it 14 promptly on the Foley interim fee app.

ORDER LIFTING THE AUTOMATIC STAY TO ALLOW PURSUIT OF MOTION FOR ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE FOR VIOLATIONS OF THE ACIS PLAN INJUNCTION

On April 17, 2020, Creditors Acis Capital Management L.P. and Acis Capital Management GP, LLC (collectively “Acis”) filed their Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay to Allow Pursuit of Motion for Order to Show Cause For Violations of the Acis Plan Injunction [ECF No. 593] (the “Motion”).¹ The only pleading filed in response was James Dondero’s Limited Response [ECF No. 617] (the “Limited Response”). The Limited Response notes that “Dondero states that the automatic stay in the above captioned chapter 11 case is not applicable to Dondero in his individual capacity, but to the extent the automatic stay is applicable, Dondero does not oppose relief from stay being granted.” ECF No. 617 ¶3.

The Court, having reviewed the Motion and the lack of opposition to the same, finds that: (a) this Court has jurisdiction over this matter pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1334; (b) this matter is a core proceeding pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2); and (c) notice of the Motion was sufficient under the circumstances. Based on the foregoing, this Court finds that the Motion establishes sufficient grounds for the relief requested therein.

ACCORDINGLY, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED THAT:

1. The Motion is GRANTED.
2. Relief from the automatic stay is granted to permit Acis to file and pursue to order before this Court the relief requested in the Motion.
3. The 14-day stay provided under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 4001(a)(3) shall not apply.
4. This Order is a Final Order within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. § 158(a)(1) and is effective immediately upon entry.
5. The Court shall retain jurisdiction over any and all matters arising from or related to the implementation or the interpretation of this Order.

DEBTOR'S MOTION UNDER BANKRUPTCY CODE SECTIONS 105(a) AND 363(b) FOR AUTHORIZATION TO RETAIN JAMES P. SEERY, JR., AS CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER, CHIEF RESTRUCTURING OFFICER AND FOREIGN REPRESENTATIVE
*NUNC PRO TUNC TO MARCH 15, 2020

The above-captioned debtor and debtor in possession (the “Debtor”) hereby moves (the “Motion”) pursuant to sections 105(a) and 363(b) of title 11 of the United States Code, 11 U.S.C. §§ 101–1532 (the “Bankruptcy Code”) for the entry of an order, substantially in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A (the “Proposed Order”), authorizing the Debtor (a) (i) to retain James P. Seery, Jr. as the chief executive officer and chief restructuring officer of the Debtor, pursuant to the terms of the letter attached as Exhibit 1 to the Proposed Order (the “Agreement”) nunc pro tunc to March 15, 2020, and (ii) for Mr. Seery to replace the Debtor’s current chief restructuring officer as the Debtor’s foreign representative pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1505, and (b) granting related relief. In support of the Motion, the Debtor respectfully represents as follows:

Jurisdiction

1. The United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas (the “Court”) has jurisdiction over this matter pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 157 and 1334. This matter is a core proceeding within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2).

2. The bases for the relief requested herein are sections 105 and 363 of the Bankruptcy Code.

Background

3. On October 16, 2019 (the “Petition Date”), the Debtor filed a voluntary petition for relief under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code in the Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware, Case No. 19-12239 (CSS) (the “Delaware Bankruptcy Court”).

4. On October 29, 2019, the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors (the “Committee”) was appointed by the U.S. Trustee in the Delaware Court. On December 4, 2019, the Delaware Bankruptcy Court entered an order transferring venue of the Debtor's chapter 11 case to this Court [Docket No. 186].¹

5. The Debtor has continued in the possession of its property and has continued to operate and manage its business as a debtor-in-possession pursuant to sections 1107(a) and 1108 of the Bankruptcy Code. No trustee or examiner has been appointed in this chapter 11 case.

6. On December 4, 2019, the Debtor filed in the Delaware Bankruptcy Court its Motion of the Debtor Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a) and 363(b) To Retain Development Specialists, Inc. to Provide a Chief Restructuring Officer, Additional Personnel, and Financial Advisory and Restructuring-Related Services, Nunc Pro Tunc, as of the Petition Date [Docket No. 74] (the "CRO Motion"). The CRO Motion sought, among other things, to appoint Bradley Sharp as the Debtor's chief restructuring officer and for DSI to provide financial advisory services to the Debtor in support of Mr. Sharp.

7. On December 27, 2019, the Debtor filed the Motion of the Debtor for Approval of Settlement with the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors Regarding Governance of the Debtor and Procedures for Operations in the Ordinary Course [Docket No. 281] (the "Settlement Motion"). The Settlement Motion sought approval of the settlement between the Debtor and the Committee and provided for, among other things, the creation of a new independent board of directors of Strand Advisors, Inc.² (the "New Board") consisting of

² Strand Advisors, Inc. ("Strand") is the general partner of the Debtor.

James P. Seery, Jr., John S. Dubel, and Russell Nelms (collectively, the “Independent Directors”).

8. The order granting the Settlement Motion authorized the Debtor to guarantee Strand’s obligations to indemnify each Independent Director pursuant to the terms of any indemnification agreements entered into by Strand with each of the Independent Directors (the “Indemnification Agreements”).

9. The Court entered orders approving the Settlement Motion on January 9, 2020³ and the DSI Approval Order on January 10, 2020.

10. The Settlement Order approved, among other things, a term sheet setting forth the agreement between the Debtor and the Committee. The final term sheet was attached to the Notice of Final Term Sheet filed in the Court on January 14, 2020 [Docket No. 354] (the “Final Term Sheet”). The Settlement Order also provided that no entity could commence or pursue a claim or cause of action against any Independent Director and/or his respective advisors and agents relating in any way to his role as an independent director of Strand unless authorized by this Court pursuant to the criteria set forth in the Settlement Order.⁴

11. The Settlement Motion and Final Term each provided that “[a]s soon as practicable after their appointments, the Independent Directors shall, in consultation with the ³ See Order Approving Settlement with Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors Regarding Governance of the Debtor and the Procedures for Operations in the Ordinary Course [Docket No. 339] (the “Settlement Order”).

⁴ Specifically, paragraph 10 of the Settlement Order provides:

No entity may commence or pursue a claim or cause of action of any kind against any Independent Director, any Independent Director’s agents, or any Independent Director’s advisors relating in any way to the Independent Director’s role as an independent director of Strand without the Court (i) first determining after notice that such claim or cause of action represents a colorable claim of willful misconduct or gross negligence against Independent Director, any Independent Director’s agents, or any Independent Director’s advisors and (ii) specifically authorizing such entity to bring such claim. The Court will have sole jurisdiction to adjudicate any such claim for which approval of the Court to commence or pursue has been granted.

Committee, determine whether a CEO should be appointed for the Debtor. If the Independent Directors determine that appointment of a CEO is appropriate, the Independent Directors shall appoint a CEO acceptable to the Committee as soon as possible, which may be one of the Independent Directors.” Final Term Sheet, page 3; Settlement Motion, ¶ 13.

12. On February 18, 2020, the Court entered its Order (I) Authorizing Bradley D. Sharp to Act as Foreign Representative Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1505 and (II) Granting Related Relief [Docket No. 461] (the “Foreign Representative Order”). The Foreign Representative Order authorized Mr. Sharp, as chief restructuring officer, to act as the Debtor’s foreign representative pursuant to section 1515 of the Bankruptcy Code (the “Foreign Representative”). The Foreign Representative specifically appointed Mr. Sharp to act as the Debtor’s foreign insolvency officeholder to seek appropriate relief in Bermuda pursuant to Bermudian common law (the “Bermuda Foreign Representative”) and the Cayman Islands pursuant to Section 241(1) of the Companies Law (2019 Revision) with respect to that British overseas territory (the “Cayman Foreign Representative”).

13. Since the appointment of the Independent Directors, it was apparent that it would be more efficient to have a traditional corporate management structure oversee the Debtor – i.e., a fully engaged chief executive officer supervised by the New Board – as contemplated by the Final Term Sheet. This need was driven by the complexity of the Debtor’s organization and business operations and the need for daily management and oversight of the Debtor’s personnel. The search for a chief executive officer, however, was delayed while the Independent Directors made initial efforts to learn the Debtor’s business and its day-to-day operations. It was further delayed with the onset of the COVID-19 global pandemic, which both had a serious impact on the Debtor's operations and assets and limited the Independent Directors' ability to search for an appropriate chief executive officer.

14. During this time, however, Mr. Seery integrated himself into the daily operations of the Debtor and became essential in stabilizing the Debtor's assets and trading accounts during the economic distress caused by COVID-19. While Mr. Dubel and Mr. Nelms were each spending on average approximately 140 hours a month addressing the operational issues facing the Debtor and certain of its fund entities, Mr. Seery's workload was at least 180 hours a month.

15. As such, it was readily apparent to the Independent Directors who would be the best fit for the role: Mr. Seery. Mr. Seery had the appropriate skill set, extensive relevant background, and was already carrying the responsibility of the role. Mr. Seery had been functionally operating as the Debtor's de facto chief executive officer since at least early March and was already overseeing the Debtor's ordinary course operations, including managing the Debtor's personnel and the daily interactions with the Debtor's bankruptcy professionals

16. The Independent Directors subsequently appointed a compensation committee consisting of Messrs. Dubel and Nelms (the "Compensation Committee") to negotiate the terms and conditions of the Agreement on behalf of the Debtor. And, on June 23, 2020, the Compensation Committee approved the appointment of Mr. Seery to serve as both the Debtor's chief executive officer and chief restructuring officer concurrently with his role as one of the Independent Directors pursuant to the terms of the Agreement. Because Mr. Seery has been fulfilling the role since March 2020, the Compensation Committee determined that it was appropriate to make Mr. Seery's appointment as the Debtor's chief executive officer and chief restructuring officer effective as of March 15, 2020.⁵ The Independent Directors also authorized the Debtor to file this Motion.

A. The Chief Executive Officer and Chief Restructuring Officer Positions

17. Mr. Seery has agreed to, among other things, provide daily leadership and direction to the Debtor's employees on business and restructuring matters relating to the Debtor's chapter 11 case. In that capacity, he will direct the Debtor's day-to-day ordinary course operations, oversee the Debtor's personnel, make management decisions with respect to the Debtor's trading operations, direct the Debtor's reorganization efforts, monetize the Debtor's assets, oversee the claims objection and resolution process, and lead the process toward the hopeful consensual confirmation of a plan in this chapter 11 case in the capacities as chief executive officer and chief restructuring officer positions. Mr. Seery would report directly to the New Board and would continue to serve as an Independent Director, as provided under the Settlement Order.

18. Mr. Seery has extensive management and restructuring experience. Mr. Seery recently served as a Senior Managing Director at Guggenheim Securities, LLC, where he was responsible for helping direct the development of a credit business. Prior to joining Guggenheim, Mr. Seery was the President and a senior investing partner of River Birch Capital, LLC, where he was responsible for originating, executing, and managing stressed and distressed credit investments. Mr. Seery is also a long-time attorney licensed to practice in New York who has run corporate reorganization groups and numerous restructuring matters. He also served as a Commissioner of the American Bankruptcy Institute's Commission to Study the Reform of Chapter 11. Mr. Seery was also a Managing Director and the Global Head of Lehman Brothers' Fixed Income Loan business where he was responsible for managing the firm's investment grade and high yield loans business, including underwriting commitments, distribution, hedging, trading and sales (including CLO manager relationships), portfolio management and restructuring. From 2000 to 2004, Mr. Seery ran Lehman Brothers' restructuring and workout businesses with responsibility for the management of distressed corporate debt investments and was a key member of the small team that successfully sold Lehman Brothers to Barclays in 2008.

The Agreement

19. The Compensation Committee negotiated the Agreement with Mr. Seery at arm's length. The additional material economic terms of the Agreement are as follows:⁶

(a) Term: Commencing retroactively to March 15, 2020.

(b) Roles: Mr. Seery shall serve as the chief executive officer and chief restructuring officer of the Debtor and shall be responsible for the overall management of the business of the Debtor during its chapter 11 case, including: directing the Debtor's day-to-day ordinary course operations, overseeing the Debtor's personnel, making management decisions with respect to the Debtor's trading operations, directing the reorganization and restructuring of the Debtor, the monetization of the Debtor's assets, resolution of claims, the development and negotiation of a plan of reorganization or liquidation, and the implementation of such plan. Mr. Seery shall remain a full member of the New Board and shall be entitled to vote on matters other than on those in which he is conflicted. Mr. Seery shall devote as much time to the engagement as he determines is required to execute his responsibilities as chief executive officer and chief restructuring officer. Mr. Seery will have no specific on-site requirements in Dallas, Texas, but shall be on site as much as he determines is necessary to execute his responsibilities as chief executive officer and chief restructuring officer, consistent with applicable COVID-19 orders, protocols and advice.

(c) Compensation for Services: Mr. Seery's compensation under the Agreement shall consist of the following:

(1) Base Compensation: $150,000 per month, which shall be due and payable at the start of each calendar month; plus

(2) Bonus Compensation; Restructuring Fee:

Subject to separate Bankruptcy Court approval, the Compensation Committee and Mr. Seery have reached agreement on the payment of a restructuring fee upon confirmation of either a Case Resolution Plan or a Monetization Vehicle Plan in each case as defined below (the "Restructuring Fee").⁷ The Committee has not yet agreed to the amount, composition, and timing of the Restructuring Fee. The Compensation Committee and Mr. Seery have agreed to defer Court consideration of the Restructuring Fee until further development in the Case. The Restructuring Fee agreed to by Mr. Seery and the Compensation Committee is as follows:

Case Resolution Restructuring Plan

On confirmation of any plan or reorganization or liquidation based on resolution of a material amount of the outstanding claims and their respective treatment, even if such plan includes (x) a debtor/creditor trust or similar monetization and claims resolution vehicle, (y) post-confirmation litigation of certain of the claims, and (z) post-confirmation monetization of debtor assets (a "Case Resolution Plan"):

$1,000,000 on confirmation of the Case Resolution Plan;

$500,000 on the effective date of the Case Resolution Plan; and ⁷ Although the Compensation Committee and Mr. Seery have agreed on the amount and timing of the Restructuring Fee, both the Compensation Committee and Mr. Seery understand that the Restructuring Fee is payable only upon order of this Court. The Compensation Committee is reserving the right to seek approval of the Restructuring Fee from this Court in connection with the confirmation hearing on a plan or as otherwise appropriate.

$750,000 on completion of cash or property distributions to creditors as contemplated by the Case Resolution Plan.

Debtor/Creditor Monetization Vehicle Restructuring Fee:

On confirmation of any plan or reorganization or liquidation based on a debtor/creditor trust or similar asset monetization and claims resolution vehicle that does not include agreement among the debtor and creditors on a material amount of the outstanding claims and their respective treatment at confirmation (a “Monetization Vehicle Plan”):

$500,000 on confirmation of the Monetization Vehicle Plan;

$250,000 on the effective date of the Monetization Vehicle Plan; and

A contingent restructuring fee to be determined by the board or oversight committee installed to oversee the implementation of any Monetization Vehicle Plan based on the CEO/CRO (or acting as trustee) based upon performance under the plan after all material distributions under the Monetization Vehicle Plan are made.

(e) Participation in Employee Benefit Plans: Mr. Seery shall act as an independent professional contractor and shall not be an employee of the Debtor. Mr. Seery will pay for his own benefits and will not participate under the Debtor’s existing employee benefit plans.

(f) Expenses: Reimbursement of actual and reasonable out-of-pocket expenses in connection with the services provided under the Agreement. Expenses will be generally consistent with expenses incurred to date as a member of the New Board.

(g) Conflicts and Other Engagements. Mr. Seery is not aware of any potential conflicts of interest based on his understanding of the various parties involved in the Debtor’s chapter 11 case to date. Mr. Seery shall not be precluded from representing or working with or for any other person or entity in matters not directly related to the services being provided to the Debtor under the Agreement. Mr. Seery shall not undertake any engagements directly adverse to the Debtor during the term of his engagement.

(h) Termination. The Agreement may be terminated at any time by either the Debtor or by Mr. Seery upon two weeks advance written notice given to the other party. The termination of the Agreement shall not affect Mr. Seery's right to receive, and the Debtor's obligation to pay, any and all Base Compensation and Expenses incurred (even if not billed) prior to the giving of any termination notice; provided however, that (1) if the Agreement is terminated by Mr. Seery, the amount of Base Compensation owed shall be calculated based on the actual number of days worked during the applicable month and Mr. Seery will return any Base Compensation received in excess of such amount, and (2) if the Agreement is terminated by the Debtor, Base Compensation shall be deemed fully earned as of the first day of any month. Bonus Compensation shall be earned by Mr. Seery immediately upon his termination by the Debtor; provided however, Mr. Seery shall not be entitled to Bonus Compensation if: (A) the Debtor's chapter 11 case is converted to chapter 7 or dismissed; (B) a chapter 11 trustee is appointed in the Debtor's chapter 11 case; (C) Mr. Seery is terminated by the Debtor for Cause;⁸ or (D) Mr. Seery resigns prior to confirmation of a plan or court approval of a sale as described in the Fees and Expense/Compensation for Services section of the Agreement.

(j) Conditional Requirement to Seek Further Court Approval of Agreement. The Committee may, upon two weeks advance written notice to the Debtor, require the Debtor to file a motion with the Bankruptcy Court on normal notice seeking a continuation of the Agreement and if such motion is not filed, the Agreement will terminate at the expiration of such two week period. If the Debtor files such motion, Mr. Seery will be entitled to the Base Compensation through and including the date on which a final order is entered on such motion by this Court. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the Committee may not deliver such notice to the Debtor until a date which is more than ninety days following the date this Court enters an order approving the Agreement.

(j) Indemnification. the Debtor agrees (i) to indemnify and hold harmless Mr. Seery and any of his affiliates (the "Indemnified Party"), to the fullest extent lawful, from and against any and all losses, claims, costs, damages or liabilities (or actions in respect thereof), joint or several, arising out of or related to the Agreement, Mr. Seery's engagement under the Agreement, or any actions taken or omitted to be taken by Mr. Seery or the Debtor in connection with the Agreement and (ii) to reimburse the Indemnified Party for all expenses (including, without limitation, the reasonable fees and expenses of counsel) as they are incurred in connection with investigating, preparing, pursuing, defending, settling or compromising any action, suit, dispute, inquiry, investigation or proceeding, pending or threatened, brought by or against any person (including, without limitation, any shareholder or derivative action, or any fee dispute), arising out of or relating to the Agreement, or such engagement, or actions. However, the Debtor shall not be liable under the foregoing indemnity and reimbursement agreement for any loss, claim, damage or liability which is finally judicially determined by a court of competent jurisdiction to have resulted primarily from the willful misconduct or gross negligence of the Indemnified Party.

The Debtor has agreed to extend the indemnification and insurance currently covering Mr. Seery's role as a director to fully cover Mr. Seery in his roles as chief executive officer and chief restructuring officer. The Debtor is currently working to extend such coverage.

Mr. Seery is also entitled to any indemnification or other similar provisions under the Debtor's existing or future insurance policies, including any policy tails obtained (or which may be obtained in the future), by the Debtor.

Relief Requested

20. By this Motion, the Debtor seeks the entry of the Proposed Order authorizing the Debtor to retain Mr. Seery pursuant to the terms of the Agreement, nunc pro tunc to March 15, 2020. The Motion also seeks to amend the Foreign Representative Order to appoint Mr. Seery as the Debtor's Foreign Representative, Bermuda Foreign Representative and Cayman Foreign Representative in the stead of Mr. Sharp.

21. The Debtor believes that the Debtor's retention of a chief executive officer and chief restructuring officer constitutes an act in the ordinary course of business, and consequently, is permissible under Bankruptcy Code section 363(c) without Court approval. However, out of an abundance of caution, the Debtor seeks this Court's approval of the Agreement under Bankruptcy Code section 363(b).

Basis For Relief

B. The Debtor's Entry Into the Agreement is a Valid Exercise of the Debtor's Business Judgment and the Proposed Compensation is Appropriate Under the Circumstances and Within the Range of Similar Market Transactions

22. The Compensation Committee's decision for the Debtor to retain Mr. Seery pursuant to the terms of the Agreement should be approved pursuant to sections 363(b) and 105(a) of the Bankruptcy Code. Section 363(b)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code provides, in relevant part: "[t]he trustee, after notice and a hearing, may use, sell, or lease, other than in the ordinary course of business, property of the estate." 11 U.S.C. § 363(b)(1). In addition, section 105(a) of the Bankruptcy Code provides that the Court "may issue any order, process, or judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of [the Bankruptcy Code]." 11 U.S.C. § 105(a).

23. The proposed use, sale, or lease of property of the estate may be approved under Bankruptcy Code section 363(b) if it is supported by sound business justification. See In re Montgomery Ward, 242 B.R. 147, 153 (D. Del. 1999) ("In determining whether to authorize the use, sale or lease of property of the estate under this section, courts require the debtor to show that a sound business purpose justifies such actions"). Although established in the context of a proposed sale, the "business judgment" standard has been applied in non-sale situations. See, e.g., Inst. Creditors of Cont'l Air Lines v. Cont'l Air Lines (In re Cont'l Air Lines), 780 F.2d 1223, 1226 (5th Cir. 1986) (applying the "business judgment" standard in context of proposed “use” of estate property). Moreover, pursuant to section 105, this Court has expansive equitable powers to fashion any order or decree which is in the interest of preserving or protecting the value of a debtor’s assets. 11 U.S.C. § 105(a).

24. It is well established that courts are unwilling to interfere with corporate decisions absent a showing of bad faith, self-interest, or gross negligence, and will uphold a board’s decisions as long as they are attributable to “any rational business purpose.” Unocal Corp. v. Mesa Petroleum Co., 493 A.2d 946, 954 (Del. 1985) (citing Sinclair Oil Corp. v. Levien, 280 A.2d 717, 720 (Del. 1971)). Whether or not there are sufficient business reasons to justify the use of assets of the estate depends upon the facts and circumstances of each case. See Comm. of Equity Sec. Holders v. Lionel Corp. (In re Lionel Corp.), 722 F.2d 1063, 1071 (2d Cir. 1983). In this case, the Debtor has ample justification to retain Mr. Seery as the Debtor’s chief executive officer and chief restructuring officer pursuant to the Agreement. The Final Term Sheet expressly contemplated that the New Board could appoint a chief executive officer and that the chief executive officer could also be one of the Independent Directors. Because Mr. Seery will also be serving as chief restructuring officer, it is not necessary to have two separate ranking chief restructuring officers, especially considering that Mr. Sharp (the current chief restructuring officer) and his firm has agreed to continue to provide financial advisory services on behalf of the Debtor.⁹ Mr. Seery is well-qualified to serve as the Debtor’s chief executive officer and chief restructuring officer.

⁹ See Amended Motion of the Debtor Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a) and 363(b) to Employ and Retain Development Specialists, Inc. to Provide Financial Advisory and Restructuring-Related Services, Nunc Pro Tunc, to March 15, 2020 filed concurrently herewith

25. The Compensation Committee negotiated the Agreement in good faith and at arm's length. The Compensation Committee also worked with the Debtor's compensation consultant, Mercer (US) Inc., to determine the appropriate compensation for Mr. Seery as chief executive officer and chief restructuring officer. The Compensation Committee, therefore, believes that the terms of the Agreement are reasonable, are consistent with the market within the Debtor's industry, and are entirely appropriate given the scope of Mr. Seery's duties. Accordingly, entry into the Agreement is a sound exercise of the Debtor's business judgment.

26. Finally, the Debtor requests that the Court apply the same criteria by which parties in interest must first petition the Court prior to asserting claims against the Independent Director approved in the Settlement Order be extended to Mr. Seery in his capacity as chief executive officer and chief restructuring officer contemplated by this Motion. See Settlement Order, ¶ 10. The rationale for the Court to first determine whether or not a colorable claim or cause of action can be maintained against the Mr. Seery, as one of the Independent Directors, is equally applicable to Mr. Seery in his capacity as chief executive officer and chief restructuring officer, will further aid in the implementation of the Settlement Order, and discourage frivolous litigation. As was true in the Settlement Order with respect to the Independent Directors, no parties will be prejudiced by having to first apply to this Court to determine the propriety of any hypothetical claim that may be asserted against Mr. Seery in his officer capacities of the Debtor.

C. The Debtor Has Satisfied Bankruptcy Code Section 503(c)(3)

27. Bankruptcy Code section 503(c)(3) provides that "transfers or obligations that are outside the ordinary course of business . . . including transfers made to . . . consultants hired after the date of the filing of the petition” are not allowed if they are “not justified by the facts and circumstances of the case.” 11 U.S.C. § 503(c)(3). Courts generally use a form of the “business judgment” and the “facts and circumstances” standard. See In re Pilgrim’s Pride Corp., 401 B.R. 229, 236-37 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2009) (citing In re Dura Auto Sys., Inc., Case No. 06-11202 (Bankr. D. Del. June 29, 2007) and In re Supplements LT, Inc., Case No. 08-10446 (KJC) (Bankr. D. Del. Apr. 14, 2008)). Specifically, the court examines first, whether the transaction meets the Debtor’s business judgment standard, and second, whether the facts and circumstances justify the transaction. See In re Pilgrim’s Pride Corp., 401 B.R. at 237 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2009).

28. The Debtor submits that the proposed transaction is within the ordinary course of its business and thus that Bankruptcy Code section 503(c)(3) does not apply to the Agreement. Nevertheless, for the reasons stated above — the benefits from Mr. Seery’s leadership skills and industry experience — even if this were outside the ordinary course of business, entry into the Agreement is well within the Debtor’s business judgment as applied to the facts and circumstances of the Debtor. Further, the facts and circumstances of this case support entry into the relationship under the Agreement where the Debtor will benefit from the ability to retain Mr. Seery at a critical juncture to ongoing restructuring efforts.

29. For the reasons set forth above, the Debtor submits that the relief requested herein is in the best interest of the Debtor, its estate, creditors, stakeholders, and other parties in interest, and therefore, should be granted.

D. The Proposed Chief Executive Officer and Chief Restructuring Officer Should Also Serve as the Debtor's Foreign Representative

30. Bankruptcy Code section 1505 provides that:

A trustee or another entity (including an examiner) may be authorized by the court to act in a foreign country on behalf of an estate created under section 541. An entity authorized to act under this section may act in any way permitted by the applicable foreign law.

11 U.S.C. § 1505.

31. The Debtor respectfully submits that Mr. Seery is qualified and capable of representing the Debtor's estate as the Foreign Representative. The Debtor believes it is appropriate for Mr. Seery, as an officer of the Debtor, to replace Mr. Sharp as Foreign Representative inasmuch as Mr. Sharp will no longer be an officer of the Debtor if the Motion is granted. In order to avoid any possible confusion or doubt regarding this authority and to comply with the requirements of Part XVII of the Cayman Law, the Debtor seeks entry of an order, pursuant to section 1505 of the Bankruptcy Code, explicitly substituting Mr. Seery in the place of Mr. Sharp as the Debtor's Foreign Representative, including specifically to serve as the Bermuda Foreign Representative and Cayman Foreign Representative.

32. For the reasons set forth in the Foreign Representative Motion, authorizing Mr. Seery to act as the Foreign Representative on behalf of the Debtor's estate in Bermuda, the Cayman Islands or any other foreign proceeding will allow coordination of this chapter 11 case and each of the foreign proceedings and provide an effective mechanism to protect and maximize the value of the Debtor's assets and estate. Courts have routinely granted relief similar to that requested herein in other large chapter 11 cases where a debtor has foreign assets or operations requiring a recognition proceeding. See, e.g., In re CJ Holding Co., No. 16-33590 (Bankr. S.D.

Tex. July 21, 2016); ECF No. 59; In re CHC Group Ltd., No. 16-31854 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. Sept. 20, 2016), ECF No. 884; In re Ultra Petroleum Corp., No. 16-32202 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. May 3, 2016); In re Digital Domain Media Grp., Inc., No. 12-12568 (BLS) (Bankr. D. Del. Sept. 12, 2012); ECF No. 82; In re Probe Resources US Ltd., No. 10-40395 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. Mar. 21, 2011); ECF N. 320; In re Bigler LP, No. 09-38188 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. Jan. 12, 2010), ECF No. 159; In re Horsehead Holdings Corp., No. 16-10287 (CSS) (Bankr. D. Del. Feb. 4, 2016); In re Colt Holding Co. LLC, No. 15-11296 (LSS) (Bankr. D. Del. June 16, 2015). The Debtor believes it is appropriate for one of its officers to serve as the Foreign Representative. In several jurisdictions, an officer or someone acting in a similar capacity is a prerequisite to serve as a Foreign Representative.¹⁰ As more fully explained in the Foreign Representative Motion, the Debtor has assets in jurisdictions other than the United States, including in Bermuda and the Cayman Islands. To the extent any disputes with respect to such assets arise, it is critical that the Foreign Representative be permitted to appear on behalf of the Debtor and its estate in any court in which a foreign proceeding may be pending.

Notice

33. Notice of this Motion shall be given to the following parties or, in lieu thereof, to their counsel, if known: (a) the Office of the United States Trustee; (b) the Office of the United States Attorney for the Northern District of Texas; (c) the Debtor's principal secured parties; (d)counsel to the Committee; and (e)parties requesting notice pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 2002. The Debtor submits that, in light of the nature of the relief requested, no other or further notice need be given.

Conclusion

WHEREFORE, the Debtor respectfully requests that the Court enter an order, substantially in the form annexed hereto as Exhibit A, granting the relief requested in the Motion and such other and further relief as may be just and proper.

ORDERED, ADJUDGED, AND DECREED that:

1. The Motion is granted.
2. Pursuant to sections 363(b) and 105(a) of the Bankruptcy Code, the Agreement attached hereto as Exhibit 1 and all terms and conditions thereof are approved, nunc pro tunc to March 15, 2020.
3. The Debtor is hereby authorized to enter into and perform under the Agreement.
4. The Debtor is authorized to indemnify Mr. Seery pursuant to the terms of the Agreement. Mr. Seery is also entitled to any indemnification or other similar provisions under the Debtor's existing or future insurance policies, including any policy tails obtained (or which may be obtained in the future), by the Debtor. The Debtor and Strand are authorized to enter into any agreements necessary to execute or implement the transactions described in this paragraph. For avoidance of doubt and notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Order, Mr. Seery shall be entitled to any state law indemnity protections to which he may be entitled under applicable law.

5. No entity may commence or pursue a claim or cause of action of any kind against Mr. Seery relating in any way to his role as the chief executive officer and chief restructuring officer of the Debtor without the Bankruptcy Court (i) first determining after notice that such claim or cause of action represents a colorable claim of willful misconduct or gross negligence against Mr. Seery, and (ii) specifically authorizing such entity to bring such claim. The Bankruptcy Court shall have sole jurisdiction to adjudicate any such claim for which approval of the Court to commence or pursue has been granted.

6. Notwithstanding Bankruptcy Rule 6004(h), the terms and conditions of this Order shall be immediately effective and enforceable upon its entry.

7. This Court shall retain jurisdiction over any and all matters arising from or related to the interpretation and/or implementation of this Order.

8. The Foreign Representative Order is hereby amended to substitute James P. Seery, Jr., as the chief executive officer, in place of Bradley S. Sharp, as the Debtor's Foreign Representative, Bermuda Foreign Representative and Cayman Foreign Representative. All other provisions of the Foreign Representative Order shall remain in full force and effect.

CONFIDENTIAL

The Board of Directors of Strand Advisors, Inc.
c/o Highland Capital Management, L.P.
300 Crescent Court, Suite 700
Dallas, Texas 75201

Re: Highland Capital Management L.P. (the “Company”)

Dear Fellow Board Members:

This letter agreement (“Agreement”) sets forth the terms and conditions of the engagement of the undersigned James P. Seery, Jr. (“I”, “me” or “my”), as Chief Executive Officer (“CEO”) and Chief Restructuring Officer (“CRO”), effective as of March 15, 2020 (the “Commencement Date”), by the Company and its affiliates to perform financial advisory services as detailed below.

I appreciate the trust you have placed in me by asking me to assume these roles and thank you for the opportunity to continue to work with you to restructure the Company.

Roles:

I will serve as the CEO and CRO of the Company during its Chapter 11 bankruptcy case (the “Bankruptcy Case”) currently pending in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas (the “Bankruptcy Court”).

In those roles, I will be responsible for overall management of the business of the Company in Chapter 11 including, directing the reorganization and restructuring of the Company, monetization of assets, resolution of claims, development and negotiation of a plan of reorganization or liquidation, and implementation of such a plan.

My direct reports will include the individuals at the Company that currently report to the Board of Directors of Strand Advisors, Inc. (the “Board”) or such other individuals employed by the Company as I determine should report to directly to me. In the event that the Board determines to restructure the reporting lines or functions of the Company, my direct reports will be amended in accordance with the Board approved restructuring.

At all times, I will remain a full member of the Board entitled to vote on all matters other than those on which I am conflicted.

I will devote as much time to this engagement as I determine is required to execute my responsibilities as CEO and CRO. I will have no specific on-site requirements in Dallas, but will be on site as much as I determine is necessary to execute my responsibilities as CEO and CRO, consistent with Covid-19 orders applicable to Dallas and New York City.

Limitations on Services

My services under this engagement are limited to those specifically noted in this Agreement and do not include legal, accounting, or tax-related assistance or advisory services. For the avoidance of doubt, I am not providing any legal services in connection with this engagement and will have not any duties as a lawyer to the Company, the Board, or any of the Company's employees. The accuracy and completeness of all information submitted to me by the Company are the sole responsibility of the Company, and I will be entitled to rely on such information without independent investigation or verification.

In my role as CEO and CRO, I will act as an independent professional contractor to the Company and will not be an employee of the Company. I will provide and pay for my own benefits, including medical benefits, by J.P Seery & Co. LLC or otherwise.

Fees and Expenses:

In consideration of my acceptance of this engagement and performance of the services pursuant to this Agreement, the Company shall pay the following:

1. Compensation for Services:

- a. Base Compensation: As compensation for my services as CEO and CRO of the Company, the Company shall pay me $150,000.00 per calendar month ("Base Compensation"). Base Compensation shall be due and payable at the start of each calendar month. Consistent with current Board compensation practice, invoices rendered by me to the Company are due and payable by the Company on receipt. Payment of the Base Compensation will be retroactive to March 15, 2020.
- b. Bonus Compensation/Restructuring Fee:
 - i. The Company has agreed to pay me a restructuring fee upon confirmation of either a Case Resolution Plan or a Monetization Vehicle Plan in each case as defined below (the "Restructuring Fee").
 - ii. Case Resolution Restructuring Plan
 1. On confirmation of any plan or reorganization or liquidation based on resolution of a material amount of the outstanding claims and their respective treatment, even if such plan includes (x) a debtor/creditor trust or similar monetization and claims resolution vehicle, (y) post-confirmation litigation of certain of the claims, and (z) post-confirmation monetization of debtor assets (a "Case Resolution Plan"):
 - a. $1,000,000 on confirmation of the Case Resolution Plan;
 - b. $500,000 on the effective date of the Case Resolution Plan; and
 - c. $750,000 on completion of cash or property distributions to creditors as contemplated by the Case Resolution Plan.

iii. Debtor/Creditor Monetization Vehicle Restructuring Fee:

1. On confirmation of any plan or reorganization or liquidation based on a debtor/creditor trust or similar asset monetization and claims resolution vehicle that does not include agreement among the debtor and creditors on a material amount of the outstanding claims and their respective treatment at confirmation (a "Monetization Vehicle Plan"):
 - a. $500,000 on confirmation of the Monetization Vehicle Plan;
 - b. $250,000 on the effective date of the Monetization Vehicle Plan; and
 - c. A contingent restructuring fee to be determined by the board or oversight committee installed to oversee the implementation of any Monetization Vehicle Plan based on the CEO/CRO (or acting as trustee) based upon performance under the plan after all material distributions under the Monetization Vehicle Plan are made.
2. Out-of-Pocket Expenses: In addition to the Base and Bonus Compensation, I shall be entitled to reimbursement for actual and reasonable out-of-pocket expenses ("Expenses") incurred in connection with the provision of services hereunder. Expenses will be billed along with Base Compensation and shall be paid by the Company at the same time. Expenses will be generally consistent with expenses incurred to date as a member of the Board.

Bankruptcy Court Approval

Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, I understand that this Agreement is contingent, in all respects, on the approval of the Bankruptcy Court. I also understand that the Company will seek approval of this Agreement in stages and that the Company will first seek approval of my retention as CEO and CRO and the payment of the Base Compensation and will defer seeking Bankruptcy Court approval of the Restructuring Fee until there have been further developments in the Bankruptcy Case.

Conflicts and Other Engagements

I am not aware of any potential conflicts of interest based on my understanding of the various parties involved in this matter to date.

The Company is aware that this engagement is not an exclusive engagement of my time, and that I have and will continue to have other business engagements and investments unrelated to the Company. Nothing in this Agreement or otherwise precludes me from representing or working with or for any other person or entity in matters not directly related to the services being provided to the Company under this Agreement. However, I will not take on any engagements directly adverse to the Company during the term of this engagement.

Privilege

I understand that in the course of this engagement, I may become party to or my services may become part of work product of legal counsel to the Company (the Company's in-house and outside counsel are collectively referred to as "Counsel"), and all communications between Counsel and me relating to this engagement shall be protected from disclosure to third parties under the attorney work product doctrine and/or the attorney-client privilege, and, therefore, shall be treated by me as privileged and confidential. I further understand that the Company has the exclusive right to waive the attorney-client privilege, and Counsel has the exclusive right to waive the protections afforded under the attorney work-product doctrine.

Termination of Engagement

This Agreement may be terminated at any time by either the Company or by me upon two weeks advance written notice given to the other party. The termination of this Agreement shall not affect my right to receive, and the Company's obligation to pay, any and all Base Compensation and Expenses incurred (even if not billed) prior to the giving of the termination notice; provided, however, that (i) if this Agreement is terminated by me, the amount of Base Compensation owed shall be calculated based on the actual number of days worked during the applicable month and I will return any Base Compensation received in excess of such amount and (ii) if this Agreement is terminated by the Company, Base Compensation shall be deemed fully earned as of the first day of any month. Bonus Compensation shall be earned by me immediately upon termination of me by the Company; provided, however, I shall not be entitled to Bonus Compensation if (a) the Bankruptcy Case is converted to chapter 7 or dismissed; (b) a chapter 11 trustee is appointed in the Bankruptcy Case; (c) I am terminated by the Company for Cause; or (d) I resign prior to confirmation of a plan or court approval of a sale as described in the Fees and Expense/Compensation for Services section hereof. For purposes of this Agreement, "Cause" means any of the following grounds for termination of my engagement, in each case as reasonably determined by the Board within 60 days of the Board becoming aware of the existence of the event or circumstance: (A) fraud, embezzlement, or any act of moral turpitude or willful misconduct on my part; (B) conviction of or the entry of a plea of nolo contendere by me for any felony; (C) the willful breach by me of any material term of this Agreement; or (D) the willful failure or refusal by me to perform my duties to the Company, which, if capable of being cured, is not cured on or before fifteen (15) days after my receipt of written notice from the Company.

Conditional Requirement to Seek Further Bankruptcy Court Approval of Agreement

The official committee of unsecured creditors in the Bankruptcy Case (the "Committee") may, upon two weeks advance written notice to the Company, require the Company to file a motion with the Bankruptcy Court on normal notice seeking a continuation of this Agreement and if such motion is not filed, this Agreement will terminate at the expiration of such two week period. If the Company files such motion, I will be entitled to my Base Compensation through and including the date on which a final order is entered on such motion by the Bankruptcy Court. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the Committee may not deliver such notice to the Company until a date which is more than ninety days following the date the Bankruptcy Court enters an order approving this Agreement.

Indemnification

As a material part of the consideration to me under this Agreement, the Company agrees (i) to indemnify and hold harmless me and any of my affiliates (the “Indemnified Party”), to the fullest extent lawful, from and against any and all losses, claims, costs, damages or liabilities (or actions in respect thereof), joint or several, arising out of or related to this Agreement, my engagement under this Agreement, or any actions taken or omitted to be taken by me or the Company in connection with this Agreement and (ii) to reimburse the Indemnified Party for all expenses (including, without limitation, the reasonable fees and expenses of counsel) as they are incurred in connection with investigating, preparing, pursuing, defending, settling or compromising any action, suit, dispute, inquiry, investigation or proceeding, pending or threatened, brought by or against any person (including, without limitation, any shareholder or derivative action, or any fee dispute), arising out of or relating to this Agreement, or such engagement, or actions. However, the Company shall not be liable under the foregoing indemnity and reimbursement agreement for any loss, claim, damage or liability which is finally judicially determined by a court of competent jurisdiction to have resulted primarily from the willful misconduct or gross negligence of the Indemnified Party.

The indemnification and insurance currently covering my role as a director shall be extended to me and fully cover me as provided therein in my roles as CEO and CRO.

Miscellaneous

This Agreement (a) constitutes the entire agreement of the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof and supersedes any other communications, understandings or agreements among the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof, and (b) may be modified, amended or supplemented only by written agreement among all the parties hereto.

This Agreement is subject to approval by the Bankruptcy Court. As part of such approval the Company shall request that any such order approving this Agreement contain a provision extending the protections afforded to me as a Board Member pursuant to Paragraph 10 of the Order Approving Settlement with Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors Regarding Governance of the Debtor and Procedures for Operations in the Ordinary Course entered by the Bankruptcy Court on January 9, 2020 [Docket No. 339] to my role as CEO and CRO, which Order prohibits the commencement of any action against me without first obtaining Bankruptcy Court approval to initiate such action.

This Agreement and all controversies arising from or related to performance hereunder shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of New York. The parties hereby submit to the jurisdiction of and venue in the federal and state courts located in New York City and waive any right to trial by jury in connection with any dispute related to this Agreement.

This Agreement shall be binding upon the parties and their respective successors and assigns, and no other person shall acquire or have any right under or by virtue of this Agreement.

Failure of any party at any time to require performance of any provision of this Agreement shall not affect the right to require full performance thereof at any time thereafter, and the waiver by any party of a breach of such provisions shall not be taken as or held to be a waiver of any subsequent breach or as nullifying the effectiveness of such provision.

Notices provided for in this Agreement shall be in writing and shall be deemed to have been duly given when delivered by hand or overnight courier or three days after it has been mailed by United States registered mail, return receipt requested, postage prepaid, addressed to the respective address set forth above in this Agreement, or to such other address as either party may have furnished to the other in writing in accordance herewith.

This Agreement and my rights and duties hereunder shall not be assignable or delegable by me.

The Company may withhold from any amounts payable under this Agreement such Federal, state and local taxes as may be required to be withheld pursuant to any applicable law or regulation.

This Agreement may be executed (including by electronic execution) in any number of counterparts, each of which when so executed shall be deemed an original, but all such counterparts shall constitute one and the same instrument. Delivery of an executed counterpart of this Agreement by electronic mail shall have the same force and effect as the delivery of an original executed counterpart of this Agreement.

Please confirm the foregoing is in accordance with your understanding by signing and returning a copy of this Agreement, whereupon it shall become binding and enforceable in accordance with its terms.

Very truly yours,

1 DALLAS, TEXAS - JUNE 30, 2020 - 9:37 A.M.

2 THE CLERK: All rise.

3 THE COURT: Good morning. Please be seated. This is 4 Judge Jernigan, and I am ready to start our Highland setting.
5 Let me start by getting appearances. I see Mr. Kane there on 6 the video for our Movant this morning on for CLO Holdco. Is 7 that correct?

8 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor. Thank you.

9 THE COURT: Good morning. All right. Who do we have 10 for the Debtor? Do we have Mr. Pomerantz or others from the 11 Pachulski firm?

12 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes. Good morning, Your Honor. It's 13 Jeff Pomerantz and John Morris, and also on the phone is Greg 14 Demo, on behalf of the Debtors.

15 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

16 MR. MORRIS: Good morning, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: Good morning to all of you. All right.
18 What about for the Unsecured Creditors' Committee? Do we have 19 Mr. Clemente or Ms. Reid or others?

20 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes. Good morning, Your Honor.
21 Matthew Clemente from Sidley Austin on behalf of the 22 Creditors' Committee.

23 THE COURT: Okay. Good morning.

24 MR. CLEMENTE: Good morning.

25 THE COURT: All right. I'll just say, do we have

1 some of our other usual participants, maybe someone from Acis, 2 Ms. Patel or Ms. Chiarello? No?

3 MR. ANNABLE: Your Honor, --

4 THE COURT: Oh.

5 MR. ANNABLE: -- this is Zachery Annable --

6 THE COURT: Oh.

7 MR. ANNABLE: Your Honor, --

8 THE COURT: Good morning.

9 MR. ANNABLE: -- this is Zachery Annable.

10 THE COURT: All right. Good morning, Mr. Annable, 11 also for the Debtor. Any other --

12 MS. ANDERSON: Oh, sorry.

13 THE COURT: Oh. Go ahead?

14 MS. ANDERSON: Yes. Sorry, Your Honor. I
15 (inaudible).

16 MS. PATEL: Good morning, Your Honor. Rakhee Patel
17 on the phone. I'm not planning on participating. We're just 18 listening in today.

19 THE COURT: All right. Any other counsel wishing to 20 appear this morning?

21 MS. ANDERSON: Good morning, Your Honor. Oh.

22 THE COURT: Go ahead.

23 (No response.)

24 THE COURT: Do we have -- is that maybe Ms. Anderson?

25 MS. ANDERSON: That was, Your Honor. I apologize.

1 This is Amy Anderson with Jones Walker on behalf of the 2 Issuers. And Mr. James Bentley with Schulte Roth & Zabel is 3 also on the phone this morning.

4 THE COURT: All right. Good morning to you both.
5 Any other people wishing to appear?

6 MR. PLATT: Your Honor, Mark Platt for the Redeemer 7 Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund. And Marc Hankin from 8 Jenner & Block is on the phone as well.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Good morning to you both.

10 MR. HANKIN: Good morning.

11 THE COURT: Anyone else?

12 MR. CLARK: Your Honor, this is Brian Clark from Kane
13 Russell. I'm here with Mr. Kane on behalf of CLO Holdco.

14 THE COURT: Okay. Good morning.

15 MR. CLARK: Good morning.

16 THE COURT: All right. Anyone else?

17 All right. Well, I'll start by asking: Do we have any 18 stipulations or agreements with regard to evidence or how 19 we're going to proceed this morning?

20 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor. This is John Kane for 21 CLO Holdco. We do.

22 THE COURT: All right.

23 MR. KANE: I would like to note on that question that 24 we've actually worked very well together. CLO Holdco has had 25 a pretty open discourse with Committee's counsel and got on

1 the phone yesterday to go through any final evidentiary
2 issues, and then had some follow-up late last night. And so
3 what we'd like to announce to the Court is that there's a 4 stipulation to the admissibility of all of the exhibits in 5 both parties' witness and exhibit list.

6 THE COURT: All right.

7 MR. KANE: And on top of that, there are a number of 8 factual stipulations. And I can walk through that on our kind 9 of case-in-chief presentation, or we can walk through that 10 now, either way, whichever is most convenient for the Court.

11 The actual stipulations are largely related to what is and 12 isn't a dispute in this hearing.

13 So, the Committee has stipulated that, for the purposes of 14 this hearing, there is no contest about the amount in 15 controversy. CLO Holdco is claiming that it is entitled to 16 the full amount of the funds in the registry, and there's 17 really no dispute about the amount that CLO Holdco is 18 asserting its interest in. There's no accounting concerns 19 here.

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 MR. KANE: There is also a stipulation for the 22 purposes of this hearing that I do believe bears reading into 23 the record, and I'd like to do that on the case-in-chief, just 24 to make sure that everything is clear, we're not overstating 25 or understating any party's position.

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MR. KANE: But, in summary of that, there's really no 3 dispute that, upon CLO's obtaining the interests in the 4 Dynamic and AROF Funds, it did not, after obtaining them, 5 later transfer that interest to any other party.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. KANE: And then, finally, Your Honor, this was 8 reached late last night: There is a stipulation between the 9 parties for the purposes of this hearing to a statement made 10 by the Debtor in a footnote that essentially states that there 11 was a transfer of a note from the Dugaboy Trust, it's a note 12 payable owed by the Dugaboy Trust, to the Get Good Trust, that 13 that $24 million note was transferred to the Debtor, and that 14 the principal paid down on that note has reduced the 15 obligation from about $24 million to about $17.5 million in 16 principal obligations, and that the Dugaboy Investment Trust 17 has been paying amounts due and owing under that note to the 18 Debtor. We'll go into a little bit more detail about why 19 that's relevant in our case-in-chief and in our closing 20 argument.

21 THE COURT: All right.

22 MR. KANE: I think the way we'd like to proceed, Your 23 Honor, is each side provide an opening statement, and then 24 we'll transition to showing our case-in-chief and kind of a 25 walk-through of the evidence, and then a closing argument to 1 kind of draw things to a conclusion, Your Honor.

2 I will say that, given the stipulation reached last night
3 on the payments on the Dugaboy Trust, we do not believe that 4 the testimony of Mr. David Klos is going to be necessary any 5 longer.

6 THE COURT: All right. Let me recap a couple of 7 things. First, there was the stipulation as to the 8 admissibility of each other's exhibits. The Movant's 9 exhibits, your exhibits, Mr. Kane, were filed at Docket Entry 10 No. 782, so that's where I'm going to look today as exhibits 11 are referenced.

12 Now, I know there were some sealed documents in the list 13 of exhibits. I show Exhibits 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, and 16 are 14 actually under seal. All right.

15 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: So, then turning to the Creditors' 17 Committee, their exhibits are at Docket Entry No. 789 on 18 PACER. They have three exhibits.

19 So those are the exhibits for the record that we're 20 talking about, correct?

21 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor.

22 MR. CLEMENTE: That's correct, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

24 And then the last thing I wanted to clarify is your 25 comment about there's no contest about the amount in

1 controversy. So, dollars and cents, are we talking about 2 $1,516,354.38 related to the Dynamic Fund and then $898,075.53
3 regarding the Argentina Fund?

4 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: Okay. Very good.

6 MR. KANE: John Kane for CLO. Yes, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. All right. Well, you 8 may make your opening statement.

9 MR. KANE: Thank you, Your Honor.

10 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF CLO HOLDCO, LTD.

11 MR. KANE: So, I would like to begin with just making 12 sure that we have -- we've set the stage for this dispute as 13 well as I can here. I want to look at, Your Honor, the 14 requests for relief that are before this Court.

15 So, CLO has requested that this Court remit funds from its 16 registry. And there is no other (inaudible) request for leave 17 by any other party.

18 There is no adversary proceeding against CLO Holdco filed 19 by the Committee. There are no claims or causes of action of 20 any kind asserted by the Committee. There is no objection to 21 CLO Holdco's proof of claim on file. There is no motion for a 22 prejudgment writ of attachment, and there is no motion by the 23 Committee for an injunction. And we'd argue that that would 24 be procedurally improper anyway.

25 The only thing that the Committee has done is objected to 1 this Court's release of funds from the registry to CLO Holdco.

2 Your Honor, this is a -- this is a registry dispute. This 3 is a dispute under Title 28 of the United States Code, Section 4 2042. And under that statute, CLO Holdco has the burden of 5 proof here to show by a preponderance of evidence that it has 6 a valid legal claim to the funds in the registry of the Court.

7 So, how does it prove by a preponderance of the evidence 8 that it has that claim? Courts looking at this issue show 9 that CLO Holdco has to show that it has title to the funds, it 10 has to provide evidence of ownership, and it has to show proof 11 that that claim is current. In other words, it's not an 12 unliquidated claim, it's not a claim that's been transferred 13 to somebody else or that's possessed by some other party.

14 So, Your Honor, what is the evidence going to show in this 15 case? And as we walk you through our case-in-chief, we think 16 it's going to be very clear that the evidence will show that 17 CLO Holdco obtained an interest in what we are going to refer 18 to as the Dynamic and the AROF Funds. Those interests are 19 evidenced by executed subscription agreements. Once they were 20 in CLO Holdco's possession, those interests weren't 21 transferred to any other party.

22 The Dynamic and the AROF Funds were liquidated. The 23 Debtor accounted for CLO Holdco's interests in those funds.
24 The Debtor sought to distribute those funds to CLO Holdco.
25 There is no dispute over the amount of CLO Holdco's liquidated

1 interests in those funds. And now CLO Holdco is seeking a 2 request for the remittance of those funds from the registry of 3 the Court.

4 Your Honor, our evidence will completely establish that 5 CLO Holdco has a claim, a valid, legal claim well beyond the 6 preponderance of the evidence standard.

7 Your Honor, those, the facts, the evidence that proves up 8 each of those elements are not subject to any objection and 9 are not refuted.

10 Based on that evidence, Your Honor, the bigger question to 11 CLO Holdco is why are fighting in this contested matter? We 12 have to look to the Committee's objection here. What are they 13 really arguing?

14 The Committee's argument is essentially a guilt-by-15 association argument. There's a suggestion in the Committee's 16 objections that James Dondero did bad things. CLO Holdco is 17 this related entity, and so it must have done bad things, too.
18 The Committee needs time to investigate potential claims and 19 causes of action, and because CLO Holdco is a Cayman entity, 20 any judgment that it might hypothetically obtain in the future 21 will be uncollectable unless these funds are seized and held 22 in the registry of the Court and used as a surety against that 23 later hypothetical judgment.

24 So, Your Honor, this is an evidentiary hearing, and what 25 we would ask the Court to do is scrutinize the evidence.

1 So, what is the Committee's evidence likely to show?

2 Well, there are only three exhibits submitted by the 3 Committee. One of them is the Acis opinion that you issued on 4 the involuntary file. The second is the Acis opinion you 5 issued confirming the plan of reorganization in that case.
6 And those two opinions combine for a grand total of two total 7 references to CLO Holdco. And the third exhibit proposed by 8 the Committee is a transcript of the March hearing on the 9 distribution motion, in which there really were no evidentiary 10 issues addressed associated with CLO Holdco at all.

11 So the better question becomes, Your Honor, what elements
12 is missing? And as we go through our case-in-chief, we'd ask 13 you to consider the following. The Committee will provide no 14 evidence that it pursued any discovery from CLO Holdco in the 15 ten weeks since CLO Holdco filed its motion for remittance of 16 funds from the registry. There were no follow-up questions
17 asserted by the Committee in response to CLO Holdco's 18 deposition by written questions and David Klos' responses to 19 those questions. The Committee did not subpoena any witness 20 to testify at this hearing, and they've presented no evidence 21 of wrongdoing by CLO Holdco. And finally, the Committee will 22 show that there is no evidence whatsoever regarding CLO's 23 ability to satisfy a money judgment, should the Committee 24 obtain that judgment in the future.

25 So, if we look at the scope of the evidence that's

1 presented by the parties in this case, we have CLO Holdco 2 presenting overwhelming evidence of a present valid legal 3 claim to the funds in the registry of the Court, and no 4 evidence submitted by the Committee to refute that fact, and 5 no claim for affirmative relief by the Committee or any 6 evidence that would be necessary to prove up any claim for 7 relief.

8 So, Your Honor, based on the evidence that you will hear 9 today, we ask that this Court deny the Committee's objection
10 and grant CLO Holdco's motion.

11 You will see that there is no evidence supporting any kind 12 of injunction or prejudgment writ of attachment, and that the 13 -- that CLO Holdco has satisfied its burden of proof by a 14 preponderance of the evidence to show ownership of the funds 15 in the registry that this Court holds as a statutory trustee 16 for its benefit.

17 Thank you.

18 THE COURT: All right. I am going to interject 19 something here. I'm glad that the March 4, 2020 transcript is 20 part of the evidence here, because I have to say -- I had 21 wanted to go back and look at that, and had not done it, and 22 this is why -- your words, Mr. Kane, were, Why are we fighting 23 this contested matter? I have to say, I had the same reaction 24 myself, but with a slightly different spin on it. I thought 25 this was a pragmatic solution that everyone agreed to on March

1 4th. I don't think CLO Holdco, Ltd., your client, made a 2 formal appearance at the hearing on March 4th, but I take it 3 you all got notice of the hearing.

4 Tell me why so quickly we're revisiting this issue.
5 That's the way I look at it. Maybe my perspective is not 6 accurate and you're going to tell me it's not accurate. But 7 it feels like to me we just were here on this issue with the 8 Debtor's own motion filed February 24, wanting a court order 9 blessing these disbursements to affiliated or potentially 10 insider parties who were due to receive these funds, and then 11 things just sort of evolved at the March 4th hearing where 12 everyone would agree that the money -- I guess at least the 13 money that was owed to your client, as well as Highland 14 Capital Management Services, Inc. -- would be kept in the 15 registry of the Court, just as a placeholder. Okay? So 16 that's the perspective I come in with. That is my memory of 17 what happened. Tell me why I'm not seeing it the way you're 18 seeing it.

19 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor. For the record, John 20 Kane for CLO Holdco. I'd be happy to address the Court's 21 question.

22 That motion was filed seeking relief on essentially an 23 expedited basis.

24 I'm sorry. I don't know if I cut out there. I had a 25 little glitch on my screen.

1 But that hearing sought relief, in essence, on an 2 expedited basis, and drew a vehement objection from both the 3 Committee and also the Acis parties, Mr. Terry and the like.

4 When we looked at that issue, we determined that there was 5 likely a reasonable solution. CLO Holdco's representative, 6 Grant Scott, had conversations with Judge Nelms, one of the 7 Independent Directors for the Debtor, discussing the 8 resolution of a -- of a proposal that would resolve some of 9 what we understood to be the Debtor's concerns about its 10 duties to distribute those funds.

11 It would not be a permanent solution. At least, that was 12 our understanding. Putting funds into the registry of the 13 Court would preserve the issue of CLO Holdco showing this 14 Court that it had a legal entitlement to those funds, as 15 opposed to proceeding with some dispute over the technical 16 merits of the Debtor's right or need legally to distribute 17 those funds to the parties.

18 So we felt like it was a reasonable remedy to satisfy the 19 Debtor's concerns and also to satisfy the Committee's 20 concerns. The Committee would have an opportunity to continue 21 discovery and to take discovery following the filing of that 22 motion, as we sought to prove to this Court that we have a 23 right to the funds, to dispel any concerns that the Court 24 might have.

25 And frankly, Your Honor, I think that there is some case

1 law out there that would suggest that you had a right to 2 deposit the funds in the registry of the Court. So we didn't 3 think that there was any issue whatsoever with depositing the 4 funds in the registry, understanding that that would allow us 5 an opportunity to prove to you at a later date that we had a 6 right to remove those funds from the registry.

7 And Your Honor, I'm happy to try and dig through it real 8 quick, but there's language in the transcript that talks about 9 the preservation of the rights of the parties whose funds 10 would be pled into the registry to then go seek the funds out 11 of the registry as part of that agreement. So that's exactly 12 what we're doing. The issue here for us, Your Honor, is that 13 we can establish our burden of proof that we have a right to 14 these funds.

15 I understand that the Committee had concerns. Right? I 16 mean, they're a little bit in the same position as the Debtor.
17 I understand, as a practitioner, why the Committee had reason 18 to want to scrutinize the transactions involving CLO Holdco as 19 a related entity. That doesn't mean that they have a 20 (inaudible) right to preclude those distributions, and that's 21 why we're here.

22 So we've now had ten weeks for the Committee to perform 23 discovery, to heavily scrutinize the nature of the 24 transactions involving CLO Holdco. Leading up to this 25 presentation to the Court of our evidence that we have a legal

1 and factual right to have these funds back out of the registry 2 under Title 28 of the U.S. Code, the Committee didn't do any 3 discovery at all on these issues. At least, not to CLO
4 Holdco.

5 So we believe that we're here trying to show the Court, 6 okay, we want to dispel the Court's concerns. The Committee 7 has had an opportunity to scrutinize these transactions. But 8 we'd like our money. There are operational needs and the 9 like. We would like to have our funds. And we believe that, 10 unequivocally, the funds that are in the registry of the Court 11 are CLO Holdco's. They're not subject to a claim of any other 12 party.

13 So that, Your Honor, is why we've submitted our motion 14 seeking a recovery of the funds from the registry.

15 THE COURT: All right. So, I think what I hear you 16 saying is that on March 4th you all were agreeable to this 17 money being put into the registry of the Court, but everyone 18 understood that you were, pretty promptly after March 4th, 19 going to file a motion to get an adjudication on why you 20 should get these funds. Is that what you're saying?

21 MR. KANE: What I'm saying, Your Honor, is, at the 22 time, we didn't have any problem with the funds being pled 23 into the registry of the Court, understanding that we had 24 reserved our right to later seek the funds from the registry.

25 THE COURT: Well, --

1 MR. KANE: I'm not sure --

2 THE COURT: -- again, I --

3 MR. KANE: I'm not sure what the commitment says.

4 THE COURT: Maybe I'm splitting hairs, but we were 5 here in March, and then April 15th you file the motion. And,
6 you know, I'm -- it just -- I guess I'm trying to understand.
7 You know, we were here to litigate this in March, and then 8 this, you know, kind of status quo agreement was reached. And 9 then a month later, about a month later, you're filing the 10 motion to tee up the issue all over again.

11 It's just -- it's not what I anticipated. Yes, I knew 12 everyone was reserving their rights, but it wasn't what I was 13 anticipating. You know, if I had known a month later that one 14 of the parties who was agreeing to this was going to be filing 15 a motion, I would have just said, you know, why don't we do 16 this today.

17 So, again, I'm asking: Am I just misremembering this?
18 Did everyone but me have a clear idea that, pretty promptly 19 after March 4th, you all were going to ask to come back on, 20 you know, a non-expedited basis for the Court to adjudicate 21 what was already teed up that day to be adjudicated?

22 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, the --

23 MR. KANE: Your Honor, I can't speak to the other 24 parties' understanding.

25 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Clemente was kind of raising

1 his hand to speak up.

2 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes.

3 THE COURT: Am I going down a trail here that I'm the 4 only --

5 MR. CLEMENTE: No.

6 THE COURT: -- I'm the only one --

7 MR. CLEMENTE: No, you're not.

8 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Clemente?

9 MR. CLEMENTE: No. No, you're not, Your Honor. I 10 have a couple comments, and I have much more to say, 11 obviously. But just direct on what Your Honor said: Nothing 12 has changed since March 4th. I think that is fair to say.
13 And interestingly, in the initial motion, you know, this idea 14 of the 28 U.S. 2042 governing and it becoming a simple issue 15 of taking the time regarding amounts or ownership of the money 16 in the registry was not raised in the motion. So I found that 17 kind of interesting.

18 But I was before you, Your Honor. And you'll recall on 19 March 4th that -- that's absolutely not. I thought what we 20 were doing was merely preserving the status quo for some 21 period of time, which is what I believe Your Honor is 22 suggesting that she recalls as well.

23 It would have been, I think, a little counterintuitive for 24 us to have all been there, ready to do that litigation, and 25 then decide to put something in the registry, and then have

1 the argument that you can't look at the Bankruptcy Code to 2 determine whether the money should come out of the registry or 3 not, and then be back in front of you, you know, three or four 4 weeks later to relitigate any of those issues.

5 So that was absolutely my recollection and understanding, 6 Your Honor, and I think from your comments I intuit that it 7 was your understanding as well, that this was not something 8 that we were going to deal with again very quickly, but was 9 something to preserve the status quo, a reasonable solution, 10 an equitable solution under Section 105. And I believe that's 11 what Your Honor ordered.

12 THE COURT: All right. Well, I'll let you go ahead 13 and make your opening statement. I think Mr. Kane was 14 finished before I started asking my questions.

15 MR. CLEMENTE: Okay.

16 THE COURT: Mr. Clemente, you may proceed.

17 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor. I appreciate 18 that. So, and I'll try and be brief on the opening.

19 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE OFFICIAL COMMITTEE OF 20 UNSECURED CREDITORS

21 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, like it or not, CLO Holdco 22 is not an independent, unrelated, third-party investor merely 23 seeking distributions on account of its own arm's-length 24 independent investments. Instead, CLO is a related party in 25 literally every sense of the word. That's not in dispute.

1 That is part of the Jim Dondero or Mr. Dondero web of 2 entities.

3 CLO Holdco is effectively controlled by Mr. Dondero. It
4 was seeded and received assets transferred from the Debtor, 5 including the assets giving rise to the distribution that's in 6 the registry. None of that is in dispute. All of this at a 7 time when Mr. Dondero controlled the Debtor as well as the 8 parties through the various intermediate transactions that 9 ultimately resulted in the assets arriving in CLO Holdco.
10 That is not in dispute.

11 Mr. Dondero's past fraudulent conduct, including 12 fraudulent transfers, is also not in dispute. He was on all 13 sides of this transaction. And therefore this transaction, 14 along with many of the others, must be viewed with skepticism 15 and scrutinized very closely by the Committee and by this 16 Court.

17 The Committee has only just begun such work, Your Honor.
18 And given the Byzantine empire created by Mr. Dondero, it will 19 take time and significant resources to fully and properly 20 conduct an investigation.

21 And Mr. Kane referred to, did we do discovery? We did 22 not. Our reaction to this motion was the same as Your Honor.
23 And as you can see by the stipulations that we have agreed to 24 for purposes of this hearing, we didn't want this to be a 25 situation where the estate would spend a tremendous amount of 1 resources to deal with something that we thought that was 2 dealt with on March 4th.

3 But aside from that, given the web that's been created 4 here, we can't just isolate one piece of it. We can't just be 5 like, I'm going to look at the CLO Holdco documents and be 6 able to develop a full theory. This is a tapestry of 7 interrelated entities that is opaque and vague and purposely 8 so. So you can't just focus on one piece and then try and 9 say, well, I know what this piece is, because that piece has 10 many interrelated complex ramifications and relationships 11 where, frankly, you can't just say, okay, let's focus on this 12 one issue, because you're going to miss the entire tapestry.

13 We still need to examine, as I mentioned, the whole thing, 14 and this takes time and it takes an investment. So while I 15 understand CLO Holdco wants to receive its distribution, I 16 also understand that my constituency wants to be paid, some of 17 whom have been waiting for over a decade.

18 To be clear, Your Honor, my constituency didn't choose to 19 be here in the bankruptcy. But CLO Holdco chose to associate 20 itself with Mr. Dondero and to take assets from Highland in 21 convoluted related-party transactions and reap the benefits of 22 those transactions. CLO Holdco can't now step away from that 23 and try and suggest to Your Honor that this is about taking 24 time under 28 U.S.C. 2042. That was never what it was about 25 on March 4th, and it's not what it's about today.

1 Instead, it's about the overall situation and why we find 2 ourselves here.

3 And Your Honor, I'm here to tell you, I think, and I 4 believe Your Honor would agree, that the Bankruptcy Code and 5 Section 105 and all the other provisions of the Code are alive 6 and well in this courtroom, despite the distribution being put 7 into the registry on March 4th.

8 You clearly found you had the authority under Section 105
9 to hold the funds, nothing has changed in the intervening 10 time, and therefore the funds should remain in the registry.

11 This is not a dispute under, you know, 28 U.S.C 2042 about 12 ownership, again, or where somebody pleads an amount in the 13 registry to let other people argue that they actually owned 14 the money. This was always about preserving the estate and 15 maintaining the status quo.

16 Such a result might be unfair if it was a different party, 17 but CLO is a related party controlled by Mr. Dondero. It's 18 not an unaffiliated party.

19 So, from our perspective, the motion should be denied,
20 Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

22 I assume no one else has an opening statement because 23 there were no other pleadings filed regarding this motion.

24 All right. Mr. Kane, let's turn to your evidence.

25 MR. KANE: Thank you, Your Honor. I'll tell you

1 what. Just to make sure that we're hitting on the issue that 2 was out in front of this Court a moment ago, I'd like to start
3 by just directing the Court's attention to the Committee's 4 Exhibit 3 or Exhibit C, which is a transcript of that hearing 5 from March.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. KANE: And Your Honor, Page 119, Lines 4 through 8 11, are your statements about what you were doing entering the 9 order. And you know, when the funds are being pled into the 10 registry of the Court, but I do think the Court has broad 11 equitable powers to remedy, to fashion remedies that preserve 12 the status quo. And I think it is appropriate here to order 13 that most of this money, that most of the $8.6 million that 14 would go to related investors in these three Funds -- this is 15 the important part -- be put into the registry of the Court 16 pending further motions, orders, adversary proceedings anyone 17 wants to file to make a claim to that money.

18 So, Your Honor, that's what we did. We -- the rights were 19 reserved. CLO Holdco made a motion, filed its essentially 20 claim to the money that's in the registry of the Court.

21 So, Your Honor, I'd like now to just briefly walk through 22 the exhibits, because I think it's important to understand 23 exactly what CLO Holdco's claim to the funds really is.

24 So, Your Honor, first, I'd like to move for the admission 25 of CLO Holdco's Exhibits 1 through 16 and all subparts.

1 THE COURT: All right. Well, I understood earlier 2 there is a stipulation to the admissibility of these. So, for 3 the record, I am admitting CLO Exhibits 1 through 16 in their 4 entirety, and they appear at Docket Entry 782. All right?

5 MR. KANE: Thank you, Your Honor.

6 (CLO Holdco's Exhibits 1 through 16 are received into 7 evidence.)

8 MR. KANE: Your Honor, Exhibit 1A is the Highland 9 Capital Loan Fund, LP subscription agreement. Now, this 10 subscription agreement is in the amount of $2,032,183.24 and 11 is dated December 28, 2016.

12 You'll notice that CLO Holdco obtains an interest in the 13 Highland Capital I Fund through a transfer in kind. Schedule 14 1 to Exhibit 1A shows the progression of this interest, 15 admittedly, from the Debtor to the Get Good Trust down through 16 a series of charitable entities, through the Charitable DAF, 17 to CLO Holdco.

18 Your Honor, Exhibit 1B, we've included just make sure 19 everybody's on the same page. The Highland Capital Loan Fund, 20 LP, in which H -- CLO had the subscription interest, had a 21 name change to essentially what we were referring to as the 22 Dynamic Fund. It was changed to Highland Dynamic Income Fund, 23 LP. So when there are references to the Highland Capital Loan 24 Fund subscription, it's really a reference to the subscription 25 in the Dynamic Fund.

1 Exhibit 1C is Highland Argentina Regional Opportunity Fund
2 Limited subscription documents. This is a $2.5 million
3 subscription dated June 6, 2018, showing that CLO Holdco 4 obtained its $2-1/2 million subscription in the AROF Fund by 5 payment.

6 Exhibit 1D is a NAV statement dated November 11, 2019
7 showing CLO Holdco's interest in the Dynamic Fund totaled 8 $1.689 million and change.

9 Exhibit 1E is the NAV statement from December 31, 2019 10 from the AROF Fund showing that CLO Holdco's interests in that 11 fund were valued at $918,905.82.

12 Exhibits 1F and 1G are the investment management 13 agreements for Dynamic and AROF. And then Exhibits 1H and 1I
14 are the Dynamic LP agreement and the AROF LP agreement.

15 We can skim over Exhibits -- well, actually, I'd like to 16 point to Exhibit 2 and note that there are no (inaudible) 17 related to any CLO Holdco wrongdoing in the Committee's (audio 18 gap) to the -- CLO Holdco's motion for remittance of funds 19 held in the registry of the Court.

20 Also, on Paragraph 10, the Committee acknowledges that, in 21 exchange for the transfer of the Dynamic interests, the Get 22 Good Trust transferred the Dugaboy Trust note of about $24 23 million.

24 And in Paragraphs 17 and 18, the Committee acknowledges 25 that it had been pursuing discovery on CLO Holdco obtaining

1 interests in the Dynamic Fund since early February.

2 Your Honor, Exhibit 3 is CLO Holdco's reply to the 3 Committee. Exhibit 4 is the notice of hearing. Exhibit 5 is 4 the Debtor's February 4th -- or, 24th distribution motion.
5 And Your Honor, we have a stipulation between the Committee
6 and CLO Holdco for the sake of this hearing to the facts
7 included in Footnote 7.

8 So, in Footnote 7, the Debtor states, I'll read it into 9 the record for the Court:

10 The limited partnership interests in Dynamic held by 11 CLOH, CLO Holdco, were originally held by the Debtor.
12 The Debtor transferred those interests to the Get 13 Good Nonexempt Trust, defined as Get Good, on 14 December 28, 2016, in exchange for 97.6835 percent of 15 Get Good's interest in a promissory note in the 16 original principal amount of approximately $24 17 million issued by the Dugaboy Investment Trust. Get 18 Good subsequently transferred its interests in 19 Dynamic to Highland Dallas Foundation, which 20 transferred those interests to CLO Holdco. The 21 Dugaboy Investment Trust has been paying amounts due 22 and owing under the $24 million note, and the current 23 principal amount is approximately $17.5 million.

24 Your Honor, that's an important fact, and I'll get to that 25 in just a moment. But one of the reasons why that's an

1 important fact is the Dugaboy Investment Trust note is 2 actually (audio gap) note with a balloon payment due at 3 maturity. So, paydown of the principal means that the Dugaboy
4 Trust is actually paying Highland Dallas Foundation principal 5 payments on that note, despite not having a strict contractual 6 obligation to do so until the maturity date, which expires in 7 another 16 years. So it's been paying principal that it 8 doesn't have to pay, and interest on the note, which was 9 exchanged for the Dynamic and other interests transferred to 10 the Get Good Trust.

11 Your Honor, the next exhibit is Exhibit 6. This is the 12 Committee objection to the distribution motion. We'd also 13 note that there is no reference to any bad acts by the 14 Committee alleged against CLO Holdco other than simply having 15 a relationship with James Dondero and the fact that its 16 investments were managed by Highland. And that's included in 17 Paragraph 11 of that pleading.

18 7 is the Debtor's reply to the Committee's objection.

19 8 is the Debtor's responses to CLO Holdco's deposition by 20 written question. Your Honor, this has been stipulated as 21 admissible in full by the Committee. And we think that this 22 is important because, starting on Page 7 of this exhibit, 23 David Klos, the chief accountant -- or, the chief accounting 24 officer of Highland Capital Management, LP, the Debtor, walks 25 through the Debtor's means for determining ownership, the

1 accounting for interests, the liquidation of Funds, and 2 determining amounts due from the proceeds of those Funds to 3 CLO Holdco for both the Dynamic and the AROF Funds.

4 So, again, Your Honor, the Committee is not stipulating 5 that the Debtor has appropriately performed this function and 6 that the amounts that are purportedly due from the Debtor's 7 liquidation of these Funds to the Committee is accurate.

8 Number 9, Your Honor, is a stipulation regarding CLO 9 Holdco's lack of a transfer of any interests in Dynamic and 10 the AROF Funds.

11 I noted for Your Honor at the beginning of my open that 12 this was a stipulation I really did want to read into the 13 record. I want to be fair to the Committee, and there are 14 some limitations on this stipulation. So what I'd like to do 15 is read this, then. This is an email statement from Allison 16 Stromberg of Sidley on behalf of the Committee. And Mr.
17 Clemente is cc'd on this email dated June 22, 2020: "With a 18 few edits, we can agree to the stipulation for the purposes of 19 the June 30 hearing." And this is the edited version that Ms.
20 Stromberg proposed:

21 "The Committee and CLO stipulate to the following, 22 solely for the purposes of this hearing. Grant Scott 23 represented to the Committee that CLO Holdco, Ltd.
24 did not, after obtaining the disputed interests in 25 the entities commonly referred to as the Dynamic and

1 the AROF Funds, transfer those interests to any other 2 party. The Committee, solely for the purposes of 3 this hearing, does not contest that assertion and 4 stipulates to that fact. This stipulation shall not 5 be binding on the Committee in any future proceedings 6 and shall not have any preclusive effect against the 7 Committee in any future disputes, contested matters, 8 adversary proceedings, or other legal matters between 9 the Committee and CLO or any other party. Further, 10 this stipulation shall not in any way preclude or 11 limit the Committee from asserting claims or causes 12 of action against CLO in the future, including but 13 not limited to claims challenging the validity of 14 CLO's disputed interest and/or transactions through 15 which CLO Holdco obtained such disputed interests or 16 claims to avoid and recover such disputed interests 17 in the Dynamic and AROF Funds or their proceeds."

18 Your Honor, for the sake of this hearing, no dispute that 19 when CLO obtained those interests, it didn't transfer them to 20 any other party.

21 Exhibit 10 includes another stipulation between 22 Committee's counsel and CLO Holdco's counsel. And this 23 relates to some of the exhibits that are already in the 24 record. And for that, Your Honor, we can skim over this.

25 When the motion was initially filed, we had a signature

1 page issue on one of the exhibits and a metadata strip on 2 another exhibit that we corrected. We provided the corrected 3 exhibits to the Committee. The corrected exhibits were 4 included with this motion. And it's noted in our witness and 5 exhibit list which corrected exhibits those are. They'll be 6 1A and 1C.

7 Exhibit 11, Your Honor, is an important exhibit for us.
8 And we would direct the Court's attention to Page 3 of this 9 exhibit. So, on Page 3, there is a list of debits and credits
10 associated with the Highland Argentina Regional Opportunity 11 Fund statement of accounts -- essentially, a bank statement 12 from June 6, 2018 to June 30, 2018.

13 You'll note, Your Honor, that there is an incoming source, 14 an incoming wire transfer from CLO Holdco, Ltd., which 15 credited the AROF account by $2.5 million. That's the date of 16 this subscription agreement, Your Honor, and it's consistent 17 with the subscription agreement statement that shows that CLO
18 Holdco obtained a subscription in the AROF Fund by a wire 19 transfer. So it's not a transfer from Highland of the 20 interests like it was with the Dynamic Fund.

21 Exhibit 12, Your Honor, is a purchase and sale agreement.
22 Now, this is an exchange between the Get Good Trust and the 23 Debtor. It's dated December 28, 2016. And I'll talk about 24 this a little bit in our closing argument, but I did want to 25 just have a brief walk through this. Under this purchase and

1 sale agreement, there is an exchange. This is not a one-sided
2 agreement that denudes the Debtor of assets without anything 3 in return. This exhibits shows that the Debtor receives the 4 Get Good interests in the Dugaboy note, which was 5 approximately a $24 million note. In exchange, Get Good 6 received about $23 million worth of various interests. It 7 received a $2.032 million interest in the Highland Loan Fund.
8 And Your Honor, if you'll recall, that's the Dynamic Fund. It 9 received certain American Airlines call options that had a 10 fair market value at the time of about $8.7 million. And then 11 it received various participation interests in Highland's 12 interests in the Crusader Funds, which had a fair market value 13 at the time of about $12.6 million.

14 Now, Exhibit A, which is internally attached to Exhibit 15 12, is a copy of the Dugaboy note. And that, Your Honor, 16 shows that this was an interest-only note, about 2.75 percent 17 interest, with the principal due on a 20-year term. So, 18 annual interest payments, principal due at a later date, and 19 there was no prepayment penalty on principal. So, Your Honor, 20 you've seen that the principal was paid down at least about 21 $6-1/2 million, in addition to other interest payments made 22 under the terms of that note. So the Debtor did receive 23 consideration in exchange.

24 Exhibit 13 is an amendment to that purchase and sale 25 agreement. And we included this as what we call a full

1 disclosure agreement. There is an adjustment to the deal 2 terms in which the call options are revoked, and instead of 3 the Get Good Trust receiving the call options in the American 4 Airlines stock, it received participation interests. There's 5 no adjustment to the Dugaboy note, and there's no adjustment 6 to the Crusader interests that were transferred.

7 Your Honor, Exhibit 14, this is also just a full 8 disclosure exhibit. This shows that the Get Good Trust was 9 identifying as a trust beneficiary the Highland Dallas 10 Foundation, to make, in essence, the charitable donation that 11 would then be pushed down to the Charitable DAF and then 12 invested by CLO Holdco.

13 Exhibit 15 is the Dynamic Fund side letter exhibit dated 14 January 10, 2017. And this really is included to show, in the 15 last "Whereas," Your Honor, the series of transfers from the 16 Debtor to the Get Good Trust down to CLO Holdco and how CLO
17 Holdco came to acquire the interests in the Dynamic Fund.

18 And finally, Your Honor, is Exhibit 16. We think this is 19 an important exhibit for a number of reasons. First, the 20 Debtor disclosed in correspondence with CLO Holdco and the 21 Committee that this exhibit was produced in November of 2019
22 by the Debtor to the Committee. I notice that the Bates stamp 23 was a significantly lower number than the rest of the exhibits 24 we received in our discovery request.

25 But this document shows a number of important facts. If

1 you look at Page 2, Your Honor, this shows that the 2 consolidated balance sheet for Highland Capital Management, LP
3 showed a net -- a positive net worth at the time of about $418
4 million. And if you look at it on a cash flow basis, the 5 consolidated income statement for year-end dated December 31, 6 2016 shows about $39,356,000 of net income in 2016
7 attributable to Highland Capital Management, LP.

8 And then if you turn the Page 33, Your Honor, there is a 9 heading called Investment Liability. And the bottom paragraph 10 on -- over on Page 33 of Exhibit 16 shows that, in this 11 audited financial statement, PricewaterhouseCoopers had 12 analyzed this transfer transaction. It states:

13 "On December 28, 2016, the Partnership" -- that's 14 Highland Capital Management, LP, the Debtor -- 15 "entered into a purchase and sale agreement with the 16 Get Good Nonexempt Trust. In consideration for a 17 note receivable from an affiliate, the Partnership 18 sold or participated in certain investments that it 19 already held, with the participated investments
20 carrying an aggregate market value of $21.3 million 21 as of the date of the transaction. The fair value of 22 the agreement will fluctuate with the fair value of 23 the securities throughout the term. As of December 24 31, 2016" -- that was three days later -- "the 25 participated investment value had reduced from $21.83

1 to $18.7 million."

2 Again, Your Honor, this is in exchange for a $24 million 3 note that it's been paying.

4 So, Your Honor, given the stipulation of the Debtor, we no
5 longer need to call David Klos, so what we would propose to do
6 at this time is close our case-in-chief and allow Mr. Clemente 7 to go forward with (audio gap).

8 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Clemente, you may proceed 9 with your evidence.

10 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor. Just a couple 11 of things to note (indecipherable) into argument, though I 12 would point Your Honor to the Committee's -- so, first of all, 13 I'd move for the formal admission of the Committee's exhibits 14 for purposes of this hearing, Exhibits 1 through 3, which are 15 the two Acis opinions and the transcript from the March 4th 16 hearing. Again, it's subject to the stipulation Mr. Kane 17 referenced earlier.

18 THE COURT: All right. Committee Exhibits 1 through 19 3 are admitted by stipulation, and they appear on the docket 20 at Docket Entry No. 789.

21 (Unsecured Creditors' Committee's Exhibits 1 through 3 are 22 received into evidence.)

23 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor. And I'd like 24 to point Your Honor to Page 43 of Exhibit 3, which is the 25 transcript from the March 4th hearing, and read into the

1 record a statement by Mr. Lynn which says, "We'd like to 2 suggest the following, should the Court determine" --

3 THE COURT: Okay. Tell me --

4 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes?

5 THE COURT: I didn't hear what page again?

6 MR. CLEMENTE: Oh, I'm sorry, Your Honor. It's Page 7 43, starting at Line 14.

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 MR. CLEMENTE: And Mr. Lynn states, "We'd like to 10 suggest the following, should the Court determine that the 11 motion be denied, and that is that instead of the Debtor 12 retaining the funds, that the Debtor distribute the funds into 13 the registry of the Court. That way, they" -- meaning the 14 Debtor, Your Honor -- "lose control over the funds and they 15 can say they distributed them in accordance with their 16 agreements and applicable law."

17 So, the point, again, Your Honor, from the hearing was to 18 simply preserve the status quo yet ensure that the funds would 19 be safeguarded by depositing them within the registry of the 20 Court.

21 Additionally, Your Honor -- and Your Honor may be 22 scratching her head as to why the Committee stipulated to all 23 of this. It's not about taking in kind and filing three 24 documents. That was never the issue at the March 4th hearing.
25 Frankly, that's not the issue today. The March 4th hearing

1 wasn't about ownership of the Funds, which is what the 2 exhibits Mr. Kane just walked through purports to show. The 3 March 4th hearing was about the web and the circumstances
4 surrounding the case and the circumstances surrounding CLO
5 Holdco.

6 What Mr. Kane's exhibits don't refute is the fact that all 7 of the interests that CLO Holdco has on which it's here today 8 and funds were deposited into the registry on account of came 9 from the Debtor. What Mr. Kane's factual record does not 10 dispute is that, at that time, the Debtor was controlled by 11 Mr. Dondero. And the Dugaboy Trust and the Get Good Trust
12 were at various times controlled by Mr. Dondero, Mr. Scott, 13 and Nancy Dondero, Mr. Dondero's sister.

14 So, again, Your Honor, it isn't about walking through 15 account statements. It's about the context in totality.

16 Finally, Your Honor, and I believe the exhibits Mr. Kane
17 referred to, including Exhibit 12, they make clear, and I 18 think Mr. Kane admits that, that these interests did come from 19 the Debtor.

20 Finally, Your Honor, the other factual point I would like 21 to make refers to Mr. Kane's Exhibit 16, which he finished up 22 with. These are the consolidated financial statements of 23 Highland Capital Management. I find it all very interesting 24 what the book values of assets and liabilities are, but I do 25 not believe that there's any reference in these financial

1 statements to contingent liabilities or litigation claims,
2 including claims with respect to Redeemer or potential claims
3 with respect to UBS.

4 So, Your Honor, I would just suggest that this exhibit, 5 although for purposes of the stipulation we agree with what 6 the numbers, you know, that the numbers say what they are, 7 it's entirely replete -- and I think Your Honor would know, of 8 course, that any analysis of fraudulent transfer would have to 9 take into a reasonable estimate of contingent liabilities.

10 So that's the only other point I would like to make from 11 the factual background, Your Honor. Unless you have any 12 questions for me, I'll just reserve the rest for argument.

13 THE COURT: All right. I have no other questions at 14 this time for you.

15 All right. Shall we go to closing arguments, then?

16 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor. This is John Kane for 17 CLO Holdco. I did want to make one important clarification, 18 because it was about a characterization of the exhibits that 19 were presented by CLO Holdco.

20 Mr. Clemente stated that we had no -- or, that the 21 evidence that I've presented indisputably showed that all of 22 the interests have been liquidated, so the funds that we're 23 seeking here today came from the Debtor. And what our Exhibit 24 11 shows is that CLO Holdco used its cash that it wired to the 25 AROF Fund to obtain its interests in AROF.

1 That was not a transfer by the Debtor. There is no
2 evidence suggesting whatsoever that that flowed down from a 3 Highland interest to CLO Holdco. That was a cash acquisition 4 by CLO Holdco to AROF for its subscription interest in the 5 Argentina Fund.

6 THE COURT: All right. Well, Mr. Clemente, let me
7 follow up on that. Are you going back to 2011, and is that 8 what you were referring to, that all of CLO Holdco's original 9 seed money -- I guess it was a couple of levels up from CLO 10 Holdco -- originated from Highland?

11 MR. CLEMENTE: That's correct, Your Honor. And 12 that's what Your Honor writes in the Acis opinions, --

13 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

14 MR. CLEMENTE: -- that ultimately the DAF and the CLO 15 Holdco were seeded by the Debtor. That's our position, that 16 all of the assets that ultimately were used to seed the DAF
17 came from the Debtor, and then obviously Mr. Kane's exhibits 18 demonstrate that the particular interests with respect to 19 Dynamic came from the Debtor.

20 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Kane, any comment about 21 that?

22 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor. And this is -- we're 23 back in an evidentiary hearing. So whether or not there were 24 seed funds that were contributed by Dondero or related trusts, 25 that I think this Court has found that was the case in the 1 past, but that does not mean that there were not other viable

2 investments, personal funding by Dondero individually, 3 deposits by Mark Okada individually or other third parties
4 through Dallas Foundation, that there were not legitimate
5 funds, legitimate means of generating revenue by CLO Holdco 6 that allowed it to reinvest money.

7 And this is -- there's an inference made, Your Honor, by 8 the Committee that because there was an initial seed of this 9 CLO Holdco entity by Jim Dondero and various trusts, whether 10 through Highland or other entities, that all of the funds that 11 it forever uses are somehow inherently tied to Highland.
12 We're talking about 2011, transitioning to 2018 for a cash 13 investment made. I think that is a huge stretch.

14 I think it's important to know that there is zero evidence 15 presented by the Committee to substantiate the statement that 16 this $2.5 million somehow arose from Highland Capital
17 Management, LP.

18 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Well, proceed with 19 your closing argument, please.

20 MR. KANE: Yes, thank you, Your Honor.

21 CLOSING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF CLO HOLDCO, LTD.

22 MR. KANE: So, I do want to go back a little bit to 23 what you had previously stated about the March hearing. So, 24 we acknowledge that the Court has a right to submit funds into 25 the registry of the Court in a contested matter under rare

1 circumstances under Rule 67 and In re Kim. But it is our 2 position that once funds are pled into the registry of the 3 Court, there is a material shift in how those funds are 4 treated and what the Court can really do to adjudicate matters 5 involving those funds.

6 So, there are zero Bankruptcy Code references that relate 7 to a Chapter 11 dispute and Bankruptcy Code statutes that 8 address the registry of the Court. The only Bankruptcy Code 9 statute in the entirety of the Bankruptcy Code that references
10 the registry of the Court or proceeding under 28 U.S.C. 2041 11 and 2042 is Section 347(a) of the Bankruptcy Code, which 12 applies to unclaimed funds only in Chapter 7, 12, and 13 13 cases.

14 So, Your Honor, we're looking at a situation here where 15 funds are in the registry of the Court. And once funds are in 16 the registry of the Court, under 28 U.S.C. 2041, the Court 17 holds money as a statutory trustee for the rightful owners.

18 That's an issue that's been addressed by most circuits, 19 Your Honor. And as noted by the First Circuit, the funds that 20 are deposited in the registry of the Court are not at the 21 disposal of the judge but held in trust for the rightful 22 owner. That's the Alstom Caribe case from the First Circuit
23 in 2007.

24 The Fifth Circuit has addressed this issue on a number of 25 occasions, and noted that once funds are deposited into the

1 Court's registry, the Court should determine ownership and 2 make disbursements. It's not suggesting a long hold. That's 3 from Craig's Stores, a Fifth Circuit decision in 2005.

4 Your Honor, CLO Holdco acknowledges that the Fifth 5 Circuit's decision in U.S. v. Cochran and 28 U.S.C. 2042 place 6 the burden of proof of ownership squarely on the party seeking 7 funds from the registry of the Court. And so here, as shown 8 in Craig's Stores and U.S. v. Beach, which is an Eleventh 9 Circuit decision, CLO Holdco has to prove ownership by a 10 preponderance of the evidence. On that showing, the Fifth 11 Circuit noted in Cochran that a court needs to remit the funds 12 to the party that satisfied its burden of proof.

13 So, how do I satisfy my burden of proof? I have to show 14 that -- I have to show that I have title to those funds or 15 that CLO Holdco has title to those funds.

16 Your Honor, a lot of courts have addressed what title
17 means in a 28 U.S.C. 2042 dispute. And proving title means 18 demonstrating a present right to the funds. A present right 19 is a right that is not hypothetical, it's not unliquidated, 20 and it isn't presently possessed by some other party.

21 So, applying the evidence here, there is overwhelming
22 evidence that CLO Holdco has a present right to these funds.
23 The Dynamic subscription proves that CLO Holdco had an 24 interest in the Dynamic Fund. The AROF subscription proved 25 that CLO Holdco had an interest in the AROF Fund. We provided

1 proof to the Court of either how those interests were 2 transferred to CLO Holdco or how they were acquired by cash 3 payment by CLO Holdco. The Committee has stipulated that, 4 once obtained, CLO Holdco did not transfer those interests to 5 any other party. So, Your Honor, that hits the no other party 6 presently possessing title.

7 We can show Your Honor through Mr. Klos' testimony and 8 testimony previously presented to the Court that the Debtor 9 liquidated all of the parties that had an interest in the 10 Dynamic and AROF Funds interests. Those Funds are done.

11 Mr. Klos' testimony and his deposition by written 12 questions shows that the Debtor calculated the pro rata 13 interest due to CLO Holdco, and the Committee has stipulated 14 to those amounts. They're not in dispute.

15 So, Your Honor, frankly, I'm not entirely sure what else
16 CLO Holdco would need to show to concretely establish that it 17 has a present valid legal claim to the interests in the 18 registry of the Court. It's satisfied every element of its 19 claim to the funds.

20 And right there, under a 28 U.S.C. 2402 dispute, that 21 should end the discussion about whether we're entitled to 22 remittance of the funds from the registry amount. We have a 23 proven, current, valid legal title hold. And that's all 24 that's required for relief under Fifth Circuit case law, 25 Fourth Circuit case law, Eleventh Circuit case law addressing

1 these registry motions.

2 Your Honor, we understand that the Committee is arguing
3 that the funds should just sit in the registry of the Court.
4 We'd like to reiterate, we think it's very important that the 5 Committee has not asserted any form of affirmative relief in 6 this Court. There is no adversary proceeding. There is no 7 motion for some kind of prejudgment writ of attachment or 8 anything like that. This is a defensive play by the 9 Committee. It is an -- it is solely an objection to CLO 10 Holdco's position. That objection wants to maintain the 11 status quo. That's it.

12 So, what is maintaining the status quo? Well, if we're 13 going to address the Committee's objection, we need to look at 14 Rosen v. Cascade, which is an Eleventh Circuit case that says, 15 when a party issues this type of objection, or even a motion 16 for (audio gap) relief, you need to look at the actual nature 17 of the relief sought by the party, not necessarily just the 18 description of the relief sought.

19 Well, what is the nature of the relief? The Committee has 20 noted in its pleadings that it wants this Court to leave CLO
21 Holdco's funds in the registry so that it can use those funds 22 as security against a potential hypothetical future judgment
23 because it believes that collection against CLO Holdco, a 24 Cayman entity, may otherwise be difficult.

25 Okay. So the Committee wants this Court to keep CLO

1 Holdco's funds, after it's proven title to those funds, to 2 serve as surety against a potential future judgment. As we 3 noted in our pleadings, Your Honor, Black's Law defines 4 attachment as seizing of a person's property to secure a 5 judgment. We believe that that's exactly what's happening
6 here. The Committee wants the Court to hold CLO Holdco's 7 property pending a potential future judgment.

8 Your Honor, a prejudgment remedy like attachment invokes 9 Bankruptcy Rule 7064, and at least here the Committee is 10 willing to -- or, CLO Holdco is willing to acknowledge that 11 7064 is applicable in a contested matter like the one before 12 the Court. But to obtain relief under 7064, the party would 13 have to satisfy Texas law and the requirements for a 14 prejudgment writ of attachment.

15 Your Honor, that falls under Section 61 of the Texas Civil 16 Practice and Remedies Code. But importantly, Judge Houser has 17 addressed that specific issue in the Atlas Financial Mortgage 18 case. And she hits the nail on the head. She notes that, To 19 prove a claim for a right to a writ of attachment, prejudgment 20 writ of attachment, the party seeking that relief must have 21 made, and this is a quote, "a certain and liquidated demand or 22 a demand whose amount is reasonably certain." And she cites 23 the Fifth Circuit case In re Fredeman Litigation .

24 There is no demand by the Committee, and there is 25 certainly no demand for an amount certain. There is no claim.

1 There is no cause of action asserted by the Committee against 2 CLO Holdco.

3 Judge Houser went on to state that, If the amount of 4 damages can only be ascertained by the fact-finder, a writ of 5 attachment is inappropriate.

6 Your Honor, again, we have no idea what is asserted.
7 Presumably, any damage model that the Committee asserts that 8 it has would have to be thoroughly litigated and the damage 9 modelled by the Court.

10 Also, prejudgment writ of attachments are only available 11 in liquidated claims that arise out of contract. That doesn't 12 exist in this case.

13 So the Committee is just flat out ineligible for any kind 14 of prejudgment writ of attachment.

15 So, next, Your Honor, that flows to, well, is an 16 injunction available? Arguably, the Committee is defensively, 17 not affirmatively, but defensively asking this Court to enjoin 18 CLO Holdco from removing its funds from the registry of the 19 Court or otherwise using those funds. Well, that was what 20 happened in Atlas Financial Mortgage. Judge Houser said, 21 well, you're not eligible for a prejudgment writ of 22 attachment, but you actually are eligible for a preliminary 23 injunction. But she went into a very detailed analysis of 24 when a preliminary injunction would be obtainable.

25 And Your Honor, I think before I get to Judge Houser's

1 kind of final analysis on that issue, I'd like to look at what 2 do the Bankruptcy Rules say? Bankruptcy Rule 7001, Subsection 3 7, notes that an adversary proceeding is a proceeding to 4 obtain an injunction or other equitable relief other than when 5 that relief is in the plan. So, plan injunction, totally 6 different animal. And CLO Holdco readily admits that. But an 7 injunction against the assets of another party requires an 8 adversary proceeding.

9 Bankruptcy Rule 7065 incorporates Federal Rule of Civil 10 Procedure 65, which is -- which addresses the means of 11 obtaining a preliminary injunction. Importantly, Bankruptcy 12 Rule 9014 excludes 7065 in Bankruptcy Rules applicable in a 13 contested matter.

14 So, again, Your Honor, the Bankruptcy Rules essentially 15 trickle down on this idea that if the Committee wants some 16 form of injunctive relief, it must file an adversary 17 proceeding to obtain that relief against CLO Holdco.

18 And Judge Houser's analysis in the Atlas Financial 19 Mortgage case is very consistent with that position. The 20 party seeking the injunction, she said, must assert a 21 cognizable claim to specific assets or must seek an equitable 22 remedy involving those assets in its adversary proceeding and 23 complaint.

24 There is no adversary proceeding here. There is no
25 complaint. The Committee has not asserted any claim or cause

1 of action against any specific assets owned by CLO Holdco.
2 And the Committee has not asserted any equitable remedy 3 against any specific asset in an adversary proceeding against 4 CLO Holdco.

5 Your Honor, as Judge Houser noted, Federal Rule of Civil 6 Procedure 65, as incorporated by 7065, enables a court to 7 issue preliminary injunctions -- and I stress this -- pending
8 trial. It is a prejudgment, post-commencement of adversary 9 proceeding remedy.

10 And before Judge Houser is willing to issue -- and, 11 really, any court under the Fifth Circuit -- is willing to 12 issue a preliminary injunction, those courts consider four key 13 factors that must be proven by the movant before the 14 injunction can enter. And that is: A substantial likelihood 15 of success on the merits; (2) a substantial threat of 16 irreparable injury if the injunction does not issue; (3) that 17 the threatened injury if the injunction is denied outweighs 18 any harm that will result if the injunction is granted; and 19 (4) that the grant of injunction will not disserve the public 20 interest.

21 That's from Janvey v. Alguire, which is a Fifth Circuit 22 decision in 2011 and is incorporated into Judge Houser's Atlas
23 Financial Mortgage decision.

24 So, let's look at those elements, Your Honor, even 25 assuming that the Committee is somehow asserting a claim for 1 injunctive relief.

2 The Committee has the burden of proving that there is a 3 likelihood of success on the merits of its claims against CLO
4 Holdco. The Committee has not asserted any claims against CLO 5 Holdco. Moreover, CLO Holdco is unable to identify any 6 potential claim that the Committee could assert based on the 7 facts that are in evidence.

8 There is evidence of a $2.5 million cash payment by CLO 9 Holdco to obtain a subscription in AROF. There is evidence of 10 an exchange of reasonably equivalent value between Highland 11 and Get Good for the initial transfer of the Dynamic 12 interests. Your Honor, the Dugaboy Trust note has been paying 13 down. There is no evidence of insolvency at the time of the 14 transfer as a result of the Dynamic transfer. In fact, 15 Exhibit 16 shows the Debtor had a very large equity value and 16 made actually a million dollars. And there's no evidence of 17 any fraudulent intent at any time related to the Dynamic 18 transfer. There is simply no evidence whatsoever, and no 19 attempt by CLO -- or, by the Committee to obtain any evidence 20 from CLO Holdco.

21 So, Your Honor, there is no substantial likelihood of 22 success on the merits. As Judge Houser noted in Atlas
23 Financial, the Committee would have to prove the estate's 24 entitlement -- or doesn't -- the Committee wouldn't have to 25 prove the estate's entitlement to summary judgment on its

1 claim, but it would have present a prima facie case in support 2 of its claim. And in stating that, Judge Houser cited to 3 Janvey's Fifth Circuit decision.

4 So, Your Honor, is there a prima facie case presented by 5 the Committee? The answer is a resounding no. It cannot 6 satisfy the first element of the factor test required to issue 7 an injunction against CLO Holdco.

8 How about a substantial threat of irreparable injury if an 9 injunction is not issued? Your Honor, this goes back to the 10 Committee performing no discovery against CLO Holdco. If the 11 Committee wanted to prove up this point, presumably it would 12 have to present evidence to the Court that CLO Holdco was 13 either financially unable to satisfy a judgment or wouldn't 14 satisfy a judgment for some other reason. The simple fact 15 that CLO Holdco is a Cayman entity does not mean that it is 16 incapable of satisfying a judgment. CLO Holdco, through its 17 counsel, has had conversations with the Committee about the 18 assets in CLO Holdco. And, in fact, there's not a whole lot 19 of dispute that CLO Holdco does possess a significant value of 20 assets.

21 It is not, inherently, Your Honor, some judgment-proof 22 entity.

23 But, again, CLO Holdco does not have the burden of proof 24 on disproving this potential issue. It would be the 25 Committee's burden of proof. The Committee can't satisfy

1 either of the first and most important elements of a test for 2 an injunction. Your Honor, that injunction simply cannot 3 issue.

4 Now, the Committee will say, well, the Court should be 5 able to issue a naked injunction under Section 105(a) of the 6 Bankruptcy Code because the Court has these broad, equitable 7 powers. And in its pleas, it cites to a number of decisions 8 that it alleges support that position.

9 It cites to King Louie Mining. Well, King Louie Mining 10 granted an injunction and cited to Section 105(a), but the 11 injunction was granted against property that was subject to a 12 pending adversary proceeding. Again, injunction issued under 13 7065.

14 The Committee cites to In re Momentum Manufacturing.
15 Well, in that case, 105(a) was used to grant equitable 16 estoppel, not a preliminary injunction.

17 The Committee cites to Caesar's Entertainment repeatedly 18 for this proposition this Section 105(a) can be used by the 19 Court to grant this naked injunction, but the injunction 20 granted in Caesar's was granted against a third party where 21 there was a pending adversary proceeding to claw back the 22 assets of that third party.

23 The Committee also cites to the DeLorean decision. Well, 24 in that case, there was a 105(a) statement by the Court when 25 it entered an injunction in an adversary proceeding filed

1 seeking the injunction. The Court went through the 7065
2 factors before it issued the injunction.

3 And then the Committee cites to Sire Plan. Well, there 4 was 105(a) relief granted, but it was also granted in an 5 adversary proceeding, and the relief was consistent with the 6 language of the Bankruptcy Act, albeit the Court even admitted 7 that it was a liberal interpretation, again.

8 So, what case law or actions have been cited by the 9 Committee in support of this Court's ability to grant a 105(a) 10 injunction outside of the parameters of a plan? Well, it 11 cited to the Lewis v. Celotex decision, which is a Fifth 12 Circuit case. I think it's worth discussing, Your Honor, 13 because we readily acknowledge that, in that case, there was a 14 preliminary injunction that was incredibly broad in that it 15 addressed five parties who were seeking to recover on 16 supersedeas bonds after the case was commenced, after the 17 Celotex bankruptcy case was commenced.

18 And I want to note that there's a Supreme Court decision 19 on a separate dispute called Edwards v. Celotex. Now, in the 20 Edwards v. Celotex dispute, the Fifth Circuit disagreed with 21 the lower court's decision and its ability to enter the 22 injunction. It did so -- officially made its ruling on 23 jurisdictional grounds. But the U.S. Supreme Court reviewed 24 the Fifth Circuit's decision and overturned it. But when it 25 overturned it, the Supreme Court did two things. One, it

1 refused to address whether a court could actually enter the 2 injunction under 105(a). It addressed (audio gap)
3 jurisdictional argument.

4 But the Supreme Court also noted that while the Fifth 5 Circuit allegedly ruled on a jurisdictional basis, it 6 certainly appeared that the Fifth Circuit was partially ruling 7 because it found the 105(a) injunction inappropriate at that 8 position of the case.

9 So there is at least some dicta from the Supreme Court and 10 the Fifth Circuit that that 105(a) injunction issued in the 11 Celotex case was inappropriate.

12 Also, Your Honor, the Third Circuit notes in a footnote in 13 its decision in Lewis v. Celotex that while it would uphold 14 the injunction, it noted that the injunction was narrow in 15 scope as far as what it actually did. And once the bankruptcy 16 judge reviewed the judgments against the debtor, the 17 avoidability, if the judgments were voidable for one reason or 18 another, the Court would have to lift the stay to allow the 19 party in that case to proceed against the assets.

20 And Your Honor, that's basically where we are in this 21 case. The Court used its equitable rights under 105(a) to 22 deposit funds in the registry of the Court, and now the Court 23 has an opportunity to review CLO Holdco's evidence to see if 24 it can meet its preponderance standard to prove that it has a 25 right to the funds in the registry of the Court. And once it

1 does, it should release those funds to CLO Holdco. That 2 analysis is really pretty consistent with the Lewis v. Celotex
3 decision, which is the only case that's cited by the Committee 4 that includes an injunction outside of the scope of an 5 adversary proceeding.

6 So, Your Honor, there really is nothing here supporting 7 the Committee's position. The Committee hasn't proved up any 8 right to a writ of attachment. It hasn't satisfied any of the 9 elements, procedurally or factually, to be able to obtain an 10 injunction against CLO Holdco's assets.

11 So, Your Honor, based on the evidence presented, we 12 request this Court grant CLO Holdco's motion and allow us to 13 withdraw funds from the registry of the Court.

14 THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Kane. All right. Mr.
15 Clemente, I hope that you will focus in your closing argument, 16 I suspect you will, but the arguments, the primary arguments 17 of Mr. Kane that this is -- this holding of money in the 18 registry of the Court in this context is tantamount to a 19 prejudgment remedy, there is no adversary there in order to 20 have a preliminary injunction under 105, you really need an 21 adversary under 7001: I hope you'll address those arguments, 22 among others. All right. Mr. Clemente?

23 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes. Thank you, Your Honor. Matt 24 Clemente from Sidley on behalf of the Official Committee of 25 Unsecured Creditors.

1 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE OFFICIAL COMMITTEE OF

3 MR. CLEMENTE: Well, Your Honor, I think Mr. Kane's 4 arguments overall generally miss the point, and the issue is 5 really about context.

6 Mr. Kane referred to the monies being pled into the 7 registry. That is not the case at all. Your Honor ordered 8 them placed into the registry at the March 4 hearing. That, 9 in my view, distinguishes it almost entirely from all the 10 cases that CLO Holdco cites in their papers.

11 This is not a dispute about ownership. This is not an 12 interpleader. This is not some party saying, I don't know 13 what to do with these monies and so I'm pleading them into the 14 Court and please, Court, give me direction. That is 15 absolutely not the circumstance or context in which the monies 16 were ordered by this Court under Section 105 to be put into 17 the registry.

18 So, from my perspective, I think that, Your Honor, 19 effectively distinguishes the current situation from the 20 situations that Mr. Kane cites.

21 Belatedly, Your Honor, and I'll touch on this in a moment, 22 none of this about 28 U.S.C. was ever raised in the actual 23 motion, which I found to be fairly interesting.

24 So I wanted to start with those comments, but then I want 25 to take a step back, because I do believe that the context and

1 background of this bankruptcy case is critical to this 2 dispute.

3 CLO Holdco would have the Court view it as an independent 4 third-party investor merely requesting the release of proceeds 5 of its investment that Mr. Kane referred to in his argument as 6 another party. It's not just another party. I would do that 7 as well and I would try and distance myself from Mr. Dondero, 8 but the fact of the matter is CLO Holdco cannot.

9 The Committee, as Your Honor knows, never objected to 10 distributions to independent third parties, including in 11 connection with the initial distribution motion, and the 12 Committee is not doing that now.

13 And recall just a bit of context around the March 4th 14 motion, Your Honor. Under the protocol that the Committee 15 negotiated, the Debtor -- related-party transactions needed 16 the consent of the Committee if they exceeded a certain 17 threshold. The Debtor came to us with respect to these 18 distributions, and the Committee said, no, because of the 19 related party involvement and given the web that Mr. Dondero 20 has created. And so the Debtor then filed a motion in front 21 of Your Honor seeking Your Honor's authority to make the 22 distribution.

23 Again, this is entirely unlike the cases that Mr. Kane 24 talks about. This is about the context in which that 25 distribution -- and these were funds that the Debtor

1 controlled -- I agree, weren't funds that the Debtor owned, 2 but the Debtor controlled them, and I believe that is an 3 important factor that I'll touch on later, Your Honor, in 4 distinguishing it from the prejudgment cases and other things 5 that Mr. Kane talks about.

6 Importantly, Your Honor, CLO Holdco is not an independent 7 third-party investor, and CLO Holdco and other related parties 8 hold a special place in this case in the hearts and the minds 9 of the Committee, and I think also of Your Honor.

10 Again, and just a little bit of a background here, because 11 I do need to sort of create the picture here. Mr. Dondero has 12 created a web of over 2,000 related entities, which includes a 13 sub-web involving CLO Holdco. At the outset of the cases, 14 Your Honor, the Debtor's advisors could not even identify all 15 the Debtor's affiliates.

16 As we laid out in our papers, CLO Holdco, through its 17 parent entity, and this is not disputed, and it's proven up -- 18 out by the documents that Mr. Kane walked through, controlled 19 by a patent attorney, not an investment professional but a 20 patent attorney that was a college roommate of Mr. Dondero, it 21 has at all times, including when the transfers were made, been 22 advised by the Debtor, which, when these transfers were made, 23 then it was controlled by Mr. Dondero.

24 Mr. Dondero credited and directed each of the beneficial 25 owners, which are the foundations, and the assets and

1 interests gave rise to the distribution that CLO Holdco is 2 seeking now that were Debtor assets that were either 3 transferred through a series of conduit and intermediate 4 transfers, which is what Mr. Kane's papers, you know, bear 5 out, and which -- with which we agree with, into the hands of 6 CLO Holdco, again, at a time when Mr. Dondero was in control 7 of the Debtor and in control of the intermediate parties and 8 in control of CLO Holdco. So he therefore was on all sides of 9 the transfer.

10 Your Honor, to be specific -- and, again, there's no
11 dispute over this; we lay this out in our papers -- the Debtor 12 transferred its interest in what was ultimately renamed as the 13 Dynamic Fund, along with other interests and assets, to 14 something called the Get Good Nonexempt Trust, in exchange for 15 not a hundred percent, but 97.6 percent of a $24 million note 16 issued by something called the Dugaboy Investment Trust. That 17 note itself, Your Honor, from Exhibit 12, if you read the 18 introduction to the note, was a substitute for a previous note 19 issued by Dugaboy to the Get Good Trust. And at least on the 20 (audio gap) note, (audio gap) unsecured note bearing interest 21 at 2.75 percent. We don't know whether that note in and of 22 itself had been exchanged for a different note. We just don't 23 know.

24 We do know that there was a note with Get Good and 25 Dynamic, or Get Good and Dugaboy, and that note was replaced

1 in a series of transactions, however, documented together, 2 Your Honor. The Get Good Trust then transferred the interests
3 to the Highland Dallas Foundation, and then ultimately through 4 the DAF entities into CLO Holdco.

5 And, again, this is not in dispute, and it's bore out by 6 the documents. Both the Get Good Trust and the Dugaboy Trust
7 are Dondero family trusts for which Nancy Dondero, the sister 8 of Mr. Dondero, and/or Grant Scott are trustees, and for which 9 it appears Mr. Dondero was at some point also a trustee.
10 That's evidenced on Committee Exhibit 12, where it talks about 11 that prior note. It was issued or made by a Mr. Dondero as 12 Trustee, I believe, for the Get Good Trust.

13 And I just would note, these transactions also support the 14 basis or form the basis for CLO Holdco's purported $11 million 15 claim that they filed against the estate.

16 Your Honor, from my perspective, this is all very 17 confusing and it raises many questions, not the least of which 18 is why was this done, what is the Dugaboy Trust, what did the 19 Debtor actually receive relative to what transferred, and, 20 frankly, what was the purpose of all this? And did the 21 Dugaboy Trust ultimately pay on the note? And I'll address 22 Mr. Kane's discussion about payments that were made on the 23 note in a moment.

24 Your Honor, I don't believe any of this is in dispute.
25 And indeed, this Court previously found that CLO Holdco's

1 parent was seeded by the Debtor, managed by the Debtor, and 2 CLO Holdco's quote/unquote independent trustee was a longtime 3 friend of Mr. Dondero. That's in the record. That's where he 4 makes his case.

5 The key point of all this, Your Honor, is that CLO Holdco 6 is anything but an independent third-party investor merely 7 seeking the return of its invested funds, and its argument 8 should not be viewed through that lens and instead should be 9 viewed through the lens of Mr. Dondero being on all sides of 10 the transactions and transfers and pulling the strings and 11 controlling it all. And this lens is clearly tainted by the 12 previous documented conduct of Mr. Dondero.

13 As the Court is well aware, (inaudible) as controlled by 14 Mr. Dondero, has a history of engaging in misconduct, breaches 15 of fiduciary duty, and fraudulent transactions in multiple 16 settings, with its principal, Mr. Dondero, taking a central 17 role. And Your Honor, as you know, this bankruptcy case is 18 the result of arbitration proceedings, awards, judgments, and 19 other litigation against the Debtor arising from this 20 misconduct.

21 Therefore, the Committee and the Court must approach and 22 consider each of the related-party Dondero-controlled 23 transactions with skepticism, including the transactions with 24 CLO Holdco.

25 Now, Your Honor, CLO Holdco provided voluminous documents

1 and other information which Mr. Kane meticulously walked 2 through, none of which, for purposes of this proceeding only, 3 the Committee takes issue with.

4 But Your Honor, as I've mentioned before, this discussion
5 isn't about taking in kind, columns of numbers, and signatures
6 on documents. What it is about is the context in which CLO 7 Holdco's interests arose and the relationship that it has with 8 this Debtor prepetition. And despite the documents and 9 admissions, what CLO Holdco doesn't do and cannot do is refute 10 any of that, including the fact that CLO Holdco was seeded by 11 the Debtor, and the very interests which gave rise to the 12 distributions came from the Debtor at a time when it was 13 controlled by the Debtor.

14 This is not new money third-party investment or anything 15 close to it. Instead, again, and as the Court found in the 16 Acis case, CLO Holdco was seeded by the Debtor, and as its own 17 exhibits demonstrate, the interests were transferred from the 18 Debtor.

19 Your Honor, I don't think I'm painting with too broad of a 20 brush, then, to state that transactions with Dondero on both 21 sides, as we have here, must be subject to scrutiny by the 22 Committee and the creditors -- and, frankly, the Court -- to 23 determine their legitimacy.

24 And yes, Your Honor, the distributions are not property of 25 the Debtor's estate. We've never argued that they are.

1 However, allowing it to be distributed to this entity, through 2 the holding company, a Cayman Island entity, controlled by Mr.
3 Dondero, would have the effect of prejudicing the estates and 4 rewarding Dondero for potentially fraudulent conduct, which is 5 something we cited in the Sire Plan case, where a party should 6 not be allowed to benefit from its fraudulent scheme.

7 All the Committee is asking to do -- and, frankly, what 8 the Court did at the March 4th hearing -- is something the 9 Debtor should have done, and that is let's keep the status quo 10 to allow the investigation to proceed to determine the 11 legitimacy of the transfers to CLO Holdco. This best balances 12 the interests of all parties. CLO Holdco's money is 13 safeguarded. As Mr. Dondero's attorney claimed, stated on the 14 record at March 4th, the registry is, Your Honor, not 15 surprisingly, a place that is safe.

16 And Your Honor, the burden of keeping those distributions 17 with the Court isn't that onerous at all on CLO Holdco, in 18 particular relative to the burden that is on the creditors, 19 some of whom have been seeking recompense for almost a decade.
20 To be clear, Your Honor, the Committee and its constituencies 21 did not ask to be in bankruptcy. It was thrust upon them by 22 the actions of Mr. Dondero and his team. Now that they are in 23 bankruptcy, the creditors are forced to deal with the 24 consequences of that decision by Mr. Dondero.

25 Similarly, CLO Holdco must deal with the consequences that

1 flow from being controlled by Mr. Dondero and having been 2 seeded at the direction of Mr. Dondero and taking transfers of 3 assets from the Debtor at the direction of Mr. Dondero, which 4 I submit here should be having the distributions continue to 5 be maintained in the Court registry.

6 Your Honor, I will turn to some of the arguments raised by 7 Mr. Kane. First, the Bankruptcy Code and Section 105 continue 8 to apply to these issues. As I mentioned before, I was a bit 9 surprised and, frankly, taken aback, Your Honor, when I saw 10 CLO Holdco's response to our objection. Their motion is 11 completely silent on this argument that somehow the Bankruptcy 12 Code doesn't apply and instead the only issue this Court would 13 have to determine would be dictated by a non-bankruptcy 14 statute, 28 U.S.C. 2042.

15 Putting aside any discussion of whether this should have 16 been in the motion to begin with, as I mentioned at the 17 outset, Your Honor, I was before you pre-COVID when we 18 addressed these issues, and I certainly did not view placement 19 of the funds into the registry as some mechanism which would 20 divest the Bankruptcy Code from continuing to be applied.

21 Again, it's all about the context of that March 4th 22 hearing. This wasn't a dispute about ownership of the funds.
23 This was about the Debtor coming in and doing something that 24 the Committee took issue with under the protocols that it had 25 negotiated. That's entirely different and distinct from just

1 placing money into a registry and then allowing all parties to 2 come in with their document to show that, based on my account 3 statement, my book balance, this is my funds, these are my 4 funds. Which I agree with Mr. Kane on that. It's not -- I 5 mean, Your Honor has no stake in that fight from that 6 perspective.

7 But this is different. Your Honor does have a stake in 8 this fight because it was to preserve and protect the estate 9 and maintain the status quo.

10 As I mentioned earlier, I don't presume to speak for Your 11 Honor, but I would suspect that Your Honor didn't think that 12 she was divesting herself of discussion under Section 105 by 13 placing the funds into the registry. Instead, it was simply a 14 mechanism to deal with them and maintain the status quo. They 15 could have been held -- they could have been held in 16 (inaudible) account, for example, but they weren't. This 17 seemed like a logical, practical solution to the issue that 18 was presented to the Court.

19 Had we understood that, Your Honor, had I understood that 20 -- and, again, I was before you -- I wouldn't have agreed to 21 that. And, frankly, I wouldn't have -- wouldn't have 22 understood -- if I understood that we'd be here today
23 belatedly arguing about that, I would not have agreed to it, 24 either.

25 Additionally, Your Honor, the cases cited by CLO Holdco

1 are just not applicable on their facts. Unlike the cases 2 cited by CLO Holdco, this has never been a dispute about the 3 ownership or pleading -- interpleader-type action regarding 4 the funds. This is all about preserving the estate and the 5 status quo. This is why the monies were placed into the 6 registry, not as a mechanism to determine ownership.

7 Therefore, the Bankruptcy Code and Section 105 clearly 8 continue to -- continue to apply. And Your Honor found on 9 March 4th that you already had the authority under Section 104 10 to do this, and nothing has changed in the interim, aside from 11 Mr. Kane has come in with documents showing -- which we don't 12 dispute -- that if you tick and tie everything, it adds up to 13 the money that he asserts that CLO Holdco should be given, 14 should be distributed.

15 Your Honor, regarding the 105 issue, there is clearly an 16 issue as to whether the seeding of CLO Holdco and transfers of 17 Debtor assets to it involved transfers that are fraudulent or 18 otherwise avoidable. And I'll touch on the payment on the 19 note in a moment.

20 Those actions, of course, are assets of the estate for the 21 benefit of the creditors, and in fact, under the governing 22 protocol, the Committee negotiated to have standing to pursue 23 those claims. And CLO Holdco is just that, a holdco. And a 24 Cayman entity, to boot. And despite Mr. Kane's references to 25 conversations that may have been had about what it is CLO

1 Holdco has or doesn't have, we have no idea. And it's 2 controlled, ultimately, let us not lose sight of the fact, by 3 Mr. Dondero.

4 So, allowing CLO Holdco to take distributions will place 5 them with an offshore entity, potentially outside the 6 jurisdiction of this Court, or at the very least, placed in 7 five or six entities removed or who knows where, including 8 potentially other foreign entities.

9 Therefore, exercising authority under Section 105 is 10 consistent with preserving, protecting, and maximizing the 11 value of the Debtor's estate, which estate includes claims, 12 causes of action, and avoidance actions.

13 As you know, 105 is the means and -- circumstances (audio 14 gap) preserve and protect the estate.

15 And to be sure, this is not inconsistent with any other 16 provision of the Bankruptcy Code, and it's, in fact, from our 17 perspective, in furtherance of the goals of the Code.

18 Your Honor, regarding the payments that Mr. Kane (audio 19 gap), the fact that a few payments were made on the note 20 doesn't change the fact that Section 105 applies and the Court 21 should deny the motion.

22 As with all that is Highland, nothing is simple or easy.
23 First, CLO Holdco received millions more in assets and 24 transfers, aside from the interests giving rise to the 25 distributions at issue. So the fact that there were payments

1 on the notes really speak nothing to the fact of whether the 2 overall transaction was for reasonably equivalent value or 3 otherwise problematic, especially when there is nothing in the 4 record regarding the Dugaboy Trust, its wherewithal to pay, or 5 the fairness of the terms of the note, or any of that. Or why 6 the note was structured this way or, you know, what the Get 7 Good Trust and the Dugaboy Trust do, how they interact, who 8 makes decision on what gets paid and doesn't get paid.

9 The few payments, while interesting, Your Honor, again, do 10 not establish reasonably equivalent value or the propriety, in 11 our view, of the transfers.

12 Finally, as this Court knows, reasonably equivalent value
13 is not determinative of whether the transfer was intentionally 14 fraudulent or otherwise potentially avoidable or problematic.
15 So, while deeds are interesting, Your Honor, I would submit 16 that they don't move the needle in changing the fact that the 17 motion should be denied.

18 Now, Your Honor, to the point that you raised with me 19 before I started my remarks here. Much has been made about 20 inappropriate prejudgment remedy or attachment or similar 21 arguments. I submit this case is moot, Your Honor. Again, at 22 the risk of repeating myself, I will emphasize that CLO Holdco 23 is not an independent third party. Like it or not, it is tied 24 up in a ruinous web with Mr. Dondero, and that in and of 25 itself makes this case unique and distinguishes it from the 1 other cases cited by CLO Holdco.

2 Additionally, Your Honor, the current circumstances are 3 distinguishable because the Debtor had control over these 4 funds. That's why we were in front of you on March 4th. I 5 agree, and I'm not arguing, that the Debtor did not own these 6 funds. But it clearly had control over them at the time that 7 it sought to make the distributions on March 4th. So, in my 8 humble opinion, Your Honor, that means the Court had control 9 over that.

10 Having them held in a registry while an investigation 11 occurs is not akin to slapping a lien on someone's house or 12 taking possession of an automobile, like the cases cited by 13 Mr. Kane where they require there's some -- an adversary 14 proceeding or some type of complaint.

15 The situation here, again, Your Honor, matters. The 16 Debtor was before you seeking your authority to make this 17 distribution. That is entirely different than if I were to 18 walk in here and say my colleague, Mr. Twomey, I think that, 19 you know what, I don't like him and so I have a claim against 20 him, and I want Your Honor to enjoin him from being able to 21 sell his automobile. That is entirely different, and in my 22 view completely distinguishes it from any of the cases that 23 Mr. Kane cited, including, of course, I have much respect for 24 Judge Houser, but including the case authored by Judge Houser.

25 So, Your Honor, again, having them held in the registry is 1 not akin to the type of situation -- to the situation that Mr.

2 Kane discussed in his cases.

3 In fact, Your Honor, although the Board chose not to do
4 so, a decision with which Your Honor knows I vehemently
5 disagreed, I think the Debtor could have not and frankly 6 should not have sought to make the distributions to CLO Holdco 7 in the first place, and instead have come to this Court, and 8 this Court clearly had the authority to provide them with the 9 protection in doing so. Because, again, the Debtor had 10 control of the funds.

11 And I understand there's contractual arrangements, and Mr.
12 Kane walked through some of those. But at the end of the day, 13 if the Debtor has control over it, that means Your Honor has 14 control over it. And Your Honor clearly could have ordered -- 15 and, in fact, did, under Section 105 -- the authority to tell 16 the Debtor, don't make the distribution.

17 That is not the same as the Committee walking in and 18 trying to argue it's entitled to some prejudgment remedy or 19 something on a stranger to the case, where there was already 20 the relationship and the establishment and the nexus that 21 existed in this case was already there. I'd submit those 22 other cases that Mr. Kane cites are designed to protect 23 against, and reasonably so: This is not that situation, Your 24 Honor.

25 As a result, Your Honor, of what the Debtor did, the

1 Committee finds itself placed behind the proverbial eight 2 ball. Its constituencies have waited -- literally decades, in 3 some cases -- for recompense from an entity with a documented
4 history of fraudulent conduct. And it's forced to deal with a 5 bankruptcy it did not choose. It must spend literally 6 millions of dollars from the estate that could be part of its 7 recovery investigating an intentional take and obfuscating 8 whatever transaction with literally thousands of entities, 9 while on the other hand the Cayman Island holding company that 10 is controlled by Mr. Dondero, the funds over which the Debtor 11 had control and came to this Court seeking authority to make 12 the distribution, and seeded by the Debtor when Mr. Dondero 13 controlled it, takes distributions on account of interests 14 which were previously the Debtor's and the transfer of which 15 may very well be avoidable.

16 Your Honor, I'd submit this is precisely an appropriate 17 use of Section 105. And talk around prejudgment remedies and 18 attachment, frankly, is simply not on point, Your Honor, 19 because I think this situation is distinguishable.

20 And to be clear, Your Honor, Rule 7064, which is cited by 21 CLO Holdco, as I read it, does not preclude the use of Section 22 105 to achieve this outcome. To the contrary, Rule 7064 might 23 even expand the tools available to the Court to include those 24 available under state law. It does not restrict them, in my 25 view.

1 And there was a reference to Rule 7067, which does not 2 apply, because the Court ordered the funds placed into the 3 registry. They weren't pled into the registry. The Debtor 4 didn't want them put in the registry. The Debtor wanted to 5 distribute them, which is why it came to the Court in the 6 first place.

7 So, Your Honor, I'm at the end of my remarks, and I would 8 like to say that I think -- not that I think; I know -- what 9 we are seeking is an equitable result which is clearly within 10 this Court's authority and discretion under the Bankruptcy
11 Code, including Section 105.

12 CLO Holdco's motion cannot be viewed in a vacuum. The 13 circumstances surrounding, the reason why the distribution
14 motion was brought in the first place, including the Debtor's 15 control over those funds, the circumstances surrounding CLO 16 Holdco, Mr. Dondero's involvement, how it was seeded, how it 17 obtained the interests giving rise to the distribution, all 18 matter, Your Honor, as does the documented history of 19 fraudulent transfers and inappropriate conduct of Mr. Dondero.
20 Viewed appropriately in this context and the balancing of the 21 harms resulting from keeping the distribution in the registry, 22 I submit there is more than ample justification for this Court 23 to deny the motion and order the continued holding of the 24 distributions in the registry.

25 With that, Your Honor, I've concluded my remarks. Am

1 happy to address any questions you may have.

2 THE COURT: Just one. Could you remind me of the 3 relevant provisions of what I'll call the protocol order that 4 was negotiated with the Committee? Because as you pointed 5 out in your argument, the Debtor filed the motion to make 6 these disbursements from the Dynamic Fund and the Argentina 7 Fund because of concerns about the do's and don'ts of that 8 protocol order. So if there's relevant language in there you 9 think I should be reminded of, could you --

10 MR. CLEMENTE: Yeah, that --

11 THE COURT: -- read it?

12 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, that's exactly right.
13 That's exactly correct. I don't -- I'm pretty sure I have it 14 somewhere, but I don't have it right in front of me. But the 15 point there was, Your Honor, when the Committee came to the 16 case and it began to understand all of the related parties, 17 the Committee clearly was concerned that value that either 18 rightfully belonged to the Debtor or had been inappropriately 19 transferred or siphoned away from the Debtor would be 20 distributed to related parties, and then the Committee would 21 be in the position of having to chase after that money.

22 So we negotiated a series of very complicated protocols
23 that Your Honor ultimately approved, and the protocol at issue 24 here was, if distributions, I believe, from any fund where the 25 Debtor managed it and maintained an entity in excess of $2

1 million was to be made, that the Debtor would come to the 2 Committee and the Committee would have five days, I believe, 3 to say, We think you -- you know, we agree with it or we 4 don't. And if the Committee didn't agree with it, that then 5 the Debtor would go to Court before Your Honor to seek the 6 authority to do it.

7 And so, again, back to an argument I made earlier, that's 8 how we found ourselves here on March 4th. The Debtor had 9 control over those funds in the sense of he was the party
10 making distributions and doing other things. They had to come 11 to Your Honor to actually get Your Honor to rule one way or 12 the other to make those distributions. That, to me, 13 distinguishes it from the cases Mr. Kane cites regarding 14 prejudgment remedies and attachments and things of that 15 nature.

16 THE COURT: Thank you. All right. Mr. Kane, the 17 Movant always get the last word. And in making whatever quick 18 rebuttal you have, I'll just ask you to please address Mr.
19 Clemente's argument that context matters.

20 This is not as though someone requested an injunction 21 without an adversary proceeding against CLO Holdco. This 22 order of the Court that money go into the registry of the 23 Court resulted from a Debtor motion, several responses
24 thereto, and then a suggestion that was made by Mr. Dondero's 25 counsel that others embraced: Let's just stick the disputed

1 money into the registry of the Court for now and we'll sort 2 this out in due time.

3 You know, you've made some very compelling legal 4 arguments, I have to say, Mr. Kane, but we have this 5 overarching issue of the context. So, your response, please.

6 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor. I'm happy to start with 7 that. I do think the context is important. I think that Mr.
8 Clemente and I would disagree about what elements of the 9 context are most important.

10 I would note that the portion of your order that I 11 previously cited during this hearing, whether the -- that 12 funds are to be pled into the registry of the Court and that 13 that would allow parties seeking those funds to file whatever 14 motions or to seek whatever orders were necessary to obtain 15 those funds. And so what we're looking at here is, right, 16 there is a related-party entity. But let's talk about 17 generally what the context of this dispute is about.

18 Mr. Clemente noted repeatedly in his closing argument that 19 this is not a dispute about Debtor assets. Okay? And I think 20 that's really important. This is a dispute about funds that 21 are not owned by the Debtor. The Committee readily admits 22 that. The Debtor readily admits that. And so what we're 23 talking about here is tying up assets that are not assets of 24 the Debtor's estate.

25 And so an indefinite freeze on assets that are not assets

1 of the Debtor's estate is disturbing from a procedural
2 perspective.

3 So, I get the Committee's concerns about, hey, this is a 4 related entity. Right? This is CLO Holdco. There are ties
5 to Jim Dondero. We're not trying to hide that fact. We're 6 not trying to say, no, that's not really true. But what I 7 would also say is that there is no evidence that the seeding
8 of CLO Holdco from Highland assets was necessarily a 9 fraudulent transfer or effectuated by seedings of fraudulent 10 conveyances. Okay?

11 Mr. Clemente even noted, as he was giving his 12 presentation, that there is no factual investigation into the 13 Dugaboy Trust by the Committee or anything like that. These 14 are baseless allegations, or at least allegations that 15 entirely lack evidence. So we're at a spot right now, 16 contextually, Your Honor, where the Court has CLO Holdco's 17 funds in its registry. No other party is laying claim to 18 those funds. The Committee wants those funds to stick in the 19 registry for an indefinite period of time, even though they're 20 not assets of the Debtor's bankruptcy estate. And the only 21 reason it wants to do that is for the funds to serve as 22 security against a potential future judgment or claim.

23 And so, contextually for us, well, if there aren't -- if 24 there's no competing claim for the assets and they're stuck in 25 the Court's registry, you know, contrary to Mr. Clemente's

1 argument, a vacuous argument on the balancing of harms, we're 2 deprived of the use of $2.4 million and change of assets that 3 could go to additional investments or to satisfy operating 4 costs.

5 So there is real harm on a going forward basis from CLO 6 Holdco's perspective.

7 So that, Your Honor, is the context as we see this. This 8 is about non-debtor assets frozen to serve as potential 9 security of a hypothetical judgment on claims that have never 10 been ascertained, asserted, identified.

11 So let me address a couple of issues on rebuttal, and I'll 12 be pretty quick about this.

13 THE COURT: Please.

14 MR. KANE: Mr. Clemente was making hay about the fact 15 that I said pled into the registry of the Court and that -- 16 because, Your Honor, pled into the registry of the Court, this 17 isn't an interpleader action, that this was an order entered 18 by the Court. That's a distinction without difference. And 19 the reason that's the case is, if you look at 7067, which is 20 the only Bankruptcy Rule that addresses pleading funds into 21 the registry of the Court, 7067(b) notes, Money paid -- not 22 pled, not ordered -- money paid into the registry of the Court 23 is treated under 28 U.S.C. 2041 and withdrawn pursuant to 28
24 U.S.C. 2042.

25 So, you know, regardless of whether Mr. Clemente

1 appreciated how I had described the transition of funds from 2 the Debtor's control into the Court's registry, the reality is 3 that 28 U.S.C. 2042 does create the legal thresholds that are 4 required to withdraw funds from the registry of the Court.

5 Mr. Clemente argues that, well, cases where a car is 6 repossessed or a lien is placed on a party's assets under a 7 prejudgment writ of attachment or injunction are dissimilar 8 from this case, is really legally -- it's inaccurate. Those 9 are erroneous statements. There is no difference. If this 10 Court retains CLO Holdco's assets, it's the exact same thing 11 as another -- a third party's assets being held in a blocked 12 account or a third party's assets being retained by a court or 13 third party pending a future judgment. We're in the exact 14 same procedural position there.

15 Mr. Clemente got into a balance of harm's analysis when he 16 was discussing this Court's application of an injunction under 17 Section 105(a), arguing that an adversary proceeding is 18 unnecessary or that injunctive relief could be issued under 19 7064. Your Honor, 7064 and 7065 are there. And there is a 20 distinction from the courts between a prejudgment writ of 21 attachment that would be applicable under 7064 and an 22 injunction that would be issued under 7065. Injunctive relief 23 is addressed under 7001(7) and 7065.

24 So you can't just say, well, no, you can do it as a -- as 25 -- on a motion like you would a prejudgment writ of 1 attachment. Bankruptcy Rules aren't structured like that.

2 But importantly, Mr. Clemente presented no facts to 3 support his balancing of harms argument and presented no facts
4 to establish that he has any viable claims against CLO Holdco.
5 Arguments that James Dondero participated in frauds does not 6 mean that there's a claim or cause of action that the 7 Committee can assert against CLO Holdco, which is what would 8 be required to obtain an injunction.

9 This is a big if. If the Committee is seeking to obtain 10 an injunction, it must satisfy its burden of proving under 11 7065 and the four-factor test established by Janvey v. Alguire 12 in the Fifth Circuit in 2011 and the many cases before that.
13 And it just can't do it.

14 So I want to leave the Court with one case citation, 15 because if the Court is considering some means of entering a 16 preliminary injunction outside of an adversary proceeding, I 17 was able to find a grand total of one case that address that 18 in the Fifth Circuit. And that is the 1995 decision of In re
19 Zale in which the Fifth Circuit noted that the only way a 20 105(a) preliminary injunction could be issued, after a finding 21 of these unusual circumstances and the like, was if all of the 22 protections of an adversary proceeding had been afforded to 23 the non-movant and if the party that was requesting the 24 injunction satisfied the four-factor test that's found in 25 7065.

1 There are no extraordinary circumstances or unusual 2 circumstances here. And if this Court believes that the 3 context of this case warrants that, then the Committee would 4 still have to satisfy that four-factor test for a preliminary 5 injunction. And it has the burden of proof on those four 6 factors. It hasn't presented any evidence whatsoever to 7 support that it can meet the first, let alone the second, 8 third, and fourth factors of that test.

9 So, Your Honor, with that, I'll close our case, unless you 10 have additional questions, and request that the Court grant 11 CLO Holdco's motion.

12 THE COURT: A couple of follow-up questions. I have 13 certain facts in my brain, and I can't remember if they're in 14 evidence or stipulated to or I read them in a pleading. So, I 15 just want to ask: Somewhere I remember seeing that CLO 16 Holdco, or, you know, maybe it's its parent, I think -- Mr.
17 Clemente said we have a Byzantine structure here and we have a 18 sub-web within a bigger web with regard to CLO Holdco. But, 19 anyway, CLO Holdco or its parent has assets of approximately 20 $225 million? Is that evidence or undisputed?

21 MR. KANE: Your Honor, that was contained in one of 22 the pleadings asserted, I believe, by the Committee, and that 23 was the Charitable DAF entities, not necessarily CLO Holdco.
24 There hasn't been any evidence presented by the Committee of 25 the assets held by CLO Holdco other than what we have before

1 the Court.

2 THE COURT: Okay. So it's not something you would 3 stipulate or offer one way or another?

4 MR. KANE: No, Your Honor, I think that's factually 5 incorrect and I don't stipulate to that.

6 THE COURT: Okay. I think my notes show that that 7 was the alleged amount of assets as of September 30, 2019.
8 But, again, that may have just been a pleading, not anything 9 in evidence.

10 All right. And are Mr. Scott or Mr. Dondero on the phone 11 today or on the video? I'm just curious.

12 MR. KANE: Your Honor, I lost you on the video a 13 little bit, but assuming you can hear me, though, Mr. Scott is 14 not. We had conversations with the Committee about various 15 exhibits and whether or not Mr. Scott would be here to testify 16 to prove up exhibits. Once the exhibits were all stipulated 17 as admissible, then there was no need for Mr. Scott to 18 participate.

19 THE COURT: Okay. I was not going to ask him
20 anything. I just was curious if he was listening in. Or Mr.
21 Dondero, for that matter. I guess Mr. Dondero is not on the 22 line, correct? (Pause.) All right. I'll --

23 MR. KANE: Your Honor, I -- I think -- I'm sorry.
24 I've had no conversations with Mr. Dondero. I have no idea 25 whether he's on the line.

1 THE COURT: Okay. I'll take silence to mean he's 2 probably not, but --

3 All right. I asked that question for, I guess, a couple 4 of reasons. But the main reason I asked is -- and I'm going 5 to say this as kindly as I can. They're not here to hear it 6 anyway. But I feel like perhaps they are a little tone deaf, 7 for lack of a better term, on how this all looks to the Court 8 today. And what I mean by that is, obviously, I assume it was 9 their decision to bring this motion, at least Mr. Scott's, and 10 likely Mr. Dondero as well had some involvement in that 11 decision. And the reason I say that it feels like they're a 12 little tone deaf about how this looks is that we just had an 13 extensive hearing and some very thorough pleadings, a lot of 14 evidence uploaded, on a $2.5 million issue. And I don't -- 15 you know, I appreciate that that is a significant sum of 16 money, but we've used the word context a lot this morning: In 17 the context of this reorganization, it seems like a very big 18 deal was raised here, at the choice of Mr. Scott and Mr.
19 Dondero, over a $2.5 million issue, in the context of a 20 reorganization that involves at least hundreds of millions of 21 dollars of debt, if not over a billion. UBS says they're owed 22 a billion.

23 And I just asked my question a minute ago about the value 24 of assets that the DAF or CLO Holdco or that sub-structure has 25 managed, because while no one will commit, is it $225 million

1 or not, you know, I take it that the Committee had a good 2 faith basis for saying that, and if it's not that, it's 3 probably a quite sizable number.

4 Again, so I'm kind of thinking out loud about the 5 proportionality of this issue. $2.5 million, not anything to 6 sneeze at, but we're talking about a Charitable DAF that 7 probably has many, many, many more times that of assets. And 8 so there was certainly no equitable argument of hardship or, 9 you know, significant detriment that's befalling CLO Holdco by 10 the tying up of this money in the registry of the Court for 11 this relatively short time period. So, again, it feels a 12 little tone deaf to be bringing this argument, occupying so 13 much time from the parties, the lawyers, the Court, over this 14 issue.

15 And just to further elaborate on that, it matters to me,
16 and I say this about the tone-deafness, partly because I 17 thought -- I said this at the beginning of the hearing, and I 18 still say it -- we already put this issue to rest, albeit 19 temporarily, in March. And in April, we get this new motion.
20 Again, I recognize the language of the March order reserved 21 everyone's rights to come back and argue about this, but, 22 again, the buzzwords for this hearing are going to be context 23 matters, I guess. Mr. Clemente, you get credit for that buzz 24 phrase, those buzzwords.

25 Again, I issued the order with regard to putting these

1 monies in the registry of the Court at the suggestion of Mr.
2 Dondero's very wonderful lawyer, retired Judge Lynn. And,
3 again, the context was we had a protocol order early in this 4 case that the Committee negotiated heavily with regard to 5 monies being disbursed out under the control of the Debtor, 6 and heavily negotiated. I remember the CLO Issuers, I think, 7 had some pause and concerns and got their language into that 8 order.

9 So we had this protocol order. Debtor was worried about 10 violating the protocol order, so Debtor files the motion 11 February 24th, wanting the blessing of a court order before it 12 transferred these monies to CLO Holdco and some other 13 Highland-affiliated entities. There were vehement objections, 14 and the Court issued the order saying, Let's put these monies 15 into the registry of the Court, at the suggestion of very able 16 counsel as to how we could resolve that contested matter we 17 were there on on March 4th.

18 So, you know, a month later, April, we have this new 19 motion of CLO Holdco reviving the dispute, the $2.5 million 20 dispute that we had just put to rest temporarily in March at 21 the suggestion of lawyers. I didn't issue a 105 injunction 22 outside the context of an adversary proceeding just on my own, 23 sua sponte. It was suggested to me that this was a good 24 solution. People embraced it. That's what we did. And I
25 sure didn't have in my brain that a month later we'd have a

1 brand new motion regarding whether these monies should be 2 disbursed to CLO Holdco all over again, when that was the 3 issue that was already before the Court in March.

4 I, again, fully recognize that everybody reserved their 5 rights, but I focus on this context because, again, I wish Mr.
6 Dondero and Mr. Scott were on the call to hear this: This 7 almost feels like a good faith issue to me. You know, maybe I 8 would feel slightly different if there had been a broad 9 emphasis, heavy emphasis, CLO Holdco standing up through a 10 lawyer that day saying, We're just letting you know, we're 11 going to get together a motion in very short order and tee 12 this up again. Because I would have probably said no. You 13 know, if -- let's just hear it right now today, if this is 14 only a three-week mandate or whatever. So, good faith is 15 something that I can't help but scratch my head and be 16 troubled by.

17 So, I want to emphasize that CLO Holdco's lawyer has made 18 perfect arguments regarding the potential legal issues here.
19 There are some valid arguments here about is this tantamount, 20 holding the money in the registry of the Court that a non-21 debtor asserts is its property, is that tantamount to a 22 prejudgment remedy? You know, did it require an adversary 23 proceeding? Did it require the traditional four-prong prove-24 up for a preliminary injunction? And did the Court just give 25 short shrift to those legal technicalities?

1 Again, these are compelling arguments, but I'm overruling
2 the arguments because, again, I believe it ignores the context 3 that CLO Holdco essentially consented, acquiesced, in this 4 placeholder keep-the-status-quo solution. And I question its 5 good faith in, so quickly after consenting, bringing this 6 motion.

7 But moreover, I do find that in the unique context of the 8 disputes before the Court on March 4th, I did have authority
9 to issue a 105 injunction. 105, as we all know, at Subsection
10 (a) gives a bankruptcy court authority to issue orders 11 necessary or appropriate to carry out provisions of Title 11, 12 and the last sentence even provides a mechanism for the Court 13 to sua sponte take action to, among other things, prevent an 14 abuse of process or just do what's necessary or appropriate to 15 implement court orders or rules.

16 So I think, again, in the context before the Court, it was 17 not only a consensual thing, but the Court had authority. And 18 the backdrop of this, again, cannot be overstated. Again, to 19 use Mr. Clemente's word, we have this Byzantine structure 20 here. It's a lot for the Committee to get its arms around.
21 And even the CLO Holdco structure -- again, I'm looking at my 22 notes, my fancy chart -- we have CLO Holdco, a Cayman Island
23 entity. Its parent is Charitable DAF Fund, LP, another Cayman
24 Island entity. It, in turn, is owned by Charitable DAF
25 Holdco, Ltd., yet another Cayman Island entity. Its general

1 partner happens to be a Delaware entity, Charitable DAF GP, 2 LLC, but the beneficial owners of it are the three Highland 3 Foundations, of which Dondero is president and director, and 4 Mr. Scott the treasurer and director.

5 So, I'm not saying the Byzantine structure is in and of 6 itself problematic, although one might wonder why a charitable 7 organization needs to have three offshore entities as part of 8 its structure. I digress. But we all know a Byzantine 9 structure and ties to Dondero do not mean something is 10 attackable in and of itself, but we have had issues raised 11 about the Dynamic Fund and the various transfers with regard 12 to Dugaboy, the Dondero Family Trust, and Get Good Trust and 13 the note. All of that is worthy of examination, and the 14 Committee has not had all that long in this case to 15 investigate it.

16 So, I'm going to say a couple of more things. First, the 17 motion is denied, but I'm going to put more strings on it than 18 that. I'm denying the motion, but as part of this ruling I'm 19 going to order that the Committee has 90 days, unless the 20 Court happens to extend that on motion or agreement of the 21 parties, to file an adversary proceeding against CLO Holdco or 22 the money shall be released. Okay?

23 So, again, I intended it, as I think everybody did, to be 24 a placeholder, to keep the status quo little bit. Again, Mr.
25 Kane has raised good arguments that maybe an adversary

1 conceivably was necessary or might become necessary. So here 2 we have a requirement of an adversary within 90 days or the 3 money shall be released to Holdco -- again, unless someone 4 moves to extend that or I get an agreement to extend that and 5 I happen to decide to issue an order extending that.

6 I presume that if an adversary is filed, then if the 7 Committee wants that money to continue to be held in the 8 registry of the Court, then they would have to file an 9 application for injunctive relief, essentially, to keep the 10 money in the registry of the Court pending the resolution of 11 the adversary proceeding.

12 So that is the ruling of the Court. Mr. Clemente, I'll 13 ask you to draft up the order. And I reserve the right to 14 supplement this oral ruling in that form of order. And please 15 run it by Mr. Kane before electronically submitting it to the 16 Court.

17 Now, I'm going to say a couple of other things, and then 18 I'll, before closing, I'll ask if there are questions or other 19 announcements. I have told the parties and the lawyers to 20 focus on a plan and problem-solving how we're going to pay 21 creditors. And I think I expressed my strong hope that people 22 would stop litigating everything. I think I'm remembering 23 saying this most recently at the UBS hearing a few weeks ago 24 on a motion to lift stay. Once again, we had a very lengthy 25 hearing that day. I denied the motion. And here we are 1 again.

2 You know, I want certain people to understand that it's 3 time to stop fighting everything. The Debtor is in bankruptcy 4 because of years and years and years and years and years of 5 litigating everything to the nth degree. I'm fed up with it, 6 and I tend to believe that behind the scenes -- I have no 7 doubt that behind the scenes there are people working hard 8 towards crafting a plan, and I think we're coming up on an 9 exclusivity deadline in late July, maybe. What do I have to 10 say to make it clear: People need to stop litigating and 11 start focusing on a plan to get creditors paid. I don't want 12 to do something drastic like appoint a global mediator, but it 13 is definitely dancing around in my brain if we keep having, 14 again, sideshows. Okay?

15 So, Mr. Pomerantz, what do you want to tell me about 16 what's going on behind the scenes? Again, I am certainly not 17 probing into settlement discussions, but do we have progress 18 being made, or is everyone just threatening to file new 19 litigation?

20 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes, Your Honor. For the record, 21 it's Jeff Pomerantz; Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones; on behalf 22 of the Debtors.

23 Your Honor, the Debtor took to heart the comments that 24 Your Honor made at the conclusion of the UBS hearing. It's 25 been the Board's desire to move this case forward, both in the 1 plan process and in terms of a claims resolution process. And 2 I think I mentioned to Your Honor that at least with respect 3 to the UBS hearing, I think that we needed to get by that 4 hearing before until I think we can make any progress with 5 them.

6 Since that time, and in anticipation of the hearing that 7 is going to occur on July 8th, when I indicated to Your Honor 8 that we would hopefully present a structure and a mechanism to 9 do exactly what Your Honor said, there has been a lot of work
10 and a lot of effort, both at the Board level to come up with a 11 concept, a structure, and a timing for the mediation process, 12 and I personally have spoken to not only Mr. Clemente but 13 counsel for every member of the Committee, to hopefully 14 coalesce around a concept, identification of mediators, what 15 would be mediated, and how that would take -- process.

16 We understand the Committee is meeting today to discuss 17 that. Right after this hearing, we have a weekly meeting 18 between the Board and the Committee. We will discuss that 19 further. But your message was taken by the Debtor, and I 20 believe by the other parties, loud and clear, that Your Honor 21 would (audio gap).

22 At the same time, we recognize that that might be 23 impossible. Since the last hearing, we filed our objection to 24 the Acis claims. UBS filed its claim on Friday, the 26th. As 25 Your Honor is aware, we're preparing an objection to that

1 claim as well, as well as others.

2 We do not want to litigate while we mediate. However,
3 this case has progressed for a while, and I think it's going 4 to be important for all parties to understand that if the 5 mediation is not successful, they and I will be called on to 6 make some difficult decisions on the claims that are asserted 7 against the estate to go forward.

8 At the same time, and separate and apart from the 9 mediation process, the Debtor has been working on a plan with 10 the Creditors' Committee. It is in its advanced stages. And 11 while it's not ready to be imminently filed, we think in short 12 order we will be able to file a plan. What the plan says and 13 whether it's just essentially putting assets in a monetization 14 vehicle and resolving the claims after confirmation, or 15 whether something can be done more globally, what has been 16 referred to with the parties as a grand bargain, is still 17 something that we are trying to flesh out.

18 But make no mistake, Your Honor: The Board has wanted to 19 move this case forward. Your comments, I think, have been 20 extremely helpful in telegraphing what your thoughts are. I 21 think the Committee understands that, the Creditors' Committee 22 understand that, that it's just not sustainable on a number of 23 levels to keep on fighting and litigating and have these types 24 of hearings.

25 So we will present, hopefully, on July 8th, as -- a game

1 plan. Hopefully, we'll have everyone's approval. But even if 2 we don't have every -- anyone -- everyone's approval, it'd be 3 the Debtor's thoughts to present to Your Honor how the Debtor 4 believes we should proceed.

5 THE COURT: All right. Well, thank you. I had 6 forgotten we were coming back so soon. July 8th. Next week.
7 I had in my brain late July. But that -- is it a status 8 conference or an actual motion that's set?

9 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, we have a couple of 10 hearings on calendar for that day.

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 MR. POMERANTZ: I believe one is exclusivity, --

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MR. POMERANTZ: -- which I do not think is going to 15 be contested, based upon my conversations with Mr. Clemente, 16 although I understand he'll want to explain to the Court what 17 the Committee's position on any further extensions would be.

18 There is also a motion to extend the removal deadline.

19 So, thus far, there is nothing contested, but we intend to 20 be able to use that, Your Honor, to present an approach that 21 hopefully will resolve this.

22 Your Honor, I have one other comment that I wanted to make 23 in connection with the motion Your Honor just heard.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. POMERANTZ: As Your Honor recalls and as we

1 mentioned today, there were distributions from a variety of 2 different Funds to a variety of related parties. In June, 3 distributions were set to be made to those same parties. And 4 with the consent of CLO Holdco and with the consent of HCM 5 Services, those monies were not distributed to them, but are 6 in the process of being submitted to the Court's registry.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. POMERANTZ: The expectation would be that they 9 were going to be treated the same way as the old funds, based 10 upon Your Honor's ruling.

11 We understand from the Court that we, Your Honor, that we 12 probably need a separate order with respect to that, and 13 that's with respect to the CLO and HCM Services. So we would 14 prepare that order.

15 Whether both those distributions would be made to Mark 16 Okada -- and if Your Honor recalls, at the last hearing, Your 17 Honor only withheld the amount necessary to pay Mr. Okada's 18 note, which was ultimately paid, and the remaining amounts 19 were distributed to him. And in light of that, we advised the 20 Committee that we would distribute additional monies to Mr.
21 Okada, and there was no objection.

22 (Echoing.)

23 MR. POMERANTZ: So, in sum, Your Honor, we would 24 submit to Your Honor a further order to Your Honor for the 25 additional funds, otherwise payable from those funds to CLO

1 Holdco and to HCM Services, to be put in the Court's registry.

2 THE COURT: All right. Someone needs to be put on 3 mute. I don't know who that is, but we're getting some 4 background. Okay.

5 MR. CLEMENTE: Again, Your Honor. Your Honor, Matt
6 Clemente, very, very quickly, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. CLEMENTE: Again, the Committee obviously took to 9 heart your comments at the last hearing and very much 10 appreciate the comments you just gave in terms of where you're 11 at and how you're viewing and feeling about things. And so I 12 will obviously discuss those very, very carefully with the 13 Committee.

14 Just to point out to Your Honor, Mr. Pomerantz talked 15 about the distribution to Mr. Okada. And, again, you talk 16 about context and optics and understanding where we are. I 17 read and understood -- I was in front of you -- regarding the 18 ruling from the last time. Remember, we objected to the 19 distribution to Mr. Okada last time. We did not do that this 20 time, Your Honor.

21 So the Committee does very much understand Your Honor's 22 desire for this to not continue to be a litigation issue. We 23 could have easily tried to object to Mr. Okada's distribution 24 again, and we did not, Your Honor.

25 So I want Your Honor to understand that the Committee very 1 much understands where Your Honor is thinking and how she's 2 viewing things, and I suspect that the Committee will be very 3 responsive and respectful of your comments, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: Thank you. All right. Well, then, Mr.
5 Pomerantz, I'll be on the lookout for your order that the 6 Clerk's Office needs for more money to be deposited in the 7 registry of the Court. And, again, I understand that it is 8 the newest disbursement that would otherwise be due to 9 Highland Capital Management Services, Inc. and to CLO Holdco, 10 Ltd., and that would certainly be my intention after today's 11 ruling, that the newest distribution for those entities go 12 into the registry of the Court.

13 So, we'll be on the lookout for that. And I guess I will 14 see you on July 8th for other case matters, and we'll see 15 where we are next week.

16 All right.

17 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor.

18 MR. KANE: Your Honor?

19 THE COURT: Thank you.

20 MR. KANE: Your Honor, this is John Kane.

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MR. KANE: Sorry. I have mainly just a brief
23 statement. And I have no intention of trying to persuade you 24 a different way from your ruling. I understand that ruling is 25 already there.

1 But I was -- I was on the phone representing CLO Holdco on 2 the last Acis plan status conference and listened to your 3 directives to the parties about the litigious nature that's 4 been taking place in this case. And I've had lengthy 5 conversations with my client, Grant Scott, about those same 6 concerns.

7 So I did want to disclose to Your Honor, first, that 8 nothing in our motion was trying to contradict the Court's 9 ability to initiate plead funds into the registry of the Court 10 or order that. We weren't trying to relitigate the same 11 proceeding a second time.

12 But, importantly, at the outset of this, I had 13 conversations with the Committee about our efforts to try and 14 locate a feasible bond to put up as collateral to remove the 15 funds from the registry so that we could satisfy both the 16 Committee's concerns but also CLO Holdco's concerns about 17 liquidity issues at the CLO Holdco level.

18 Unfortunately, we were not able, after discussing with two 19 different bond brokers, to locate a bond that we thought was 20 going to be economically feasible, given the potential time 21 period that the funds could be in the registry, given that 22 there was no temporal limitation on how long the Committee 23 would be investigating these claims, or, really, how long 24 litigation could take, depending on the complexity of the 25 claims and the number of parties included on that complaint.

1 We were looking at a potential even, you know, two percent 2 cash bond on an annual basis was going to be hundreds of 3 thousands of dollars, potentially. And that's something that 4 we decided really wasn't feasible.

5 And I also want to make abundantly clear that I would not 6 have attempted to relitigate any issue whatsoever. I 7 personally viewed that this is a separate and distinct legal 8 issue. I was not present at that March hearing. So I 9 apologize if this came across as some kind of litigation 10 tactic.

11 But the reason that our motion was filed is because of 12 liquidity concerns at the CLO Holdco level relayed to me by 13 Grant Scott. There was no evidence presented of that because, 14 Your Honor, we did not believe that we had the burden of 15 proving any kind of harm issue because we were not the party 16 seeking that injunction, and that wasn't an issue that had 17 been subject to any kind of discovery whatsoever.

18 So, I just -- I always get very uncomfortable when there 19 are allegations of good faith, bad faith, the like. I want 20 this Court to understand that CLO Holdco's counsel is advising 21 CLO Holdco regarding your views on the litigious nature of 22 proceedings in this case, this bankruptcy case, that that is 23 something that is very real, that I have taken to heart, that 24 I am using to influence my client's decision-making, and that 25 this was not an attempt by CLO Holdco to unnecessarily address

1 or relitigate an issue for some small balance.

2 CLO Holdco, most of its assets are either encumbered or 3 are illiquid. There is a large portion of illiquid assets 4 that are not encumbered. So we are able to pay any kind of 5 judgment. Let me restate that. That we would -- we would 6 likely have to liquidate considerable assets to do that, which 7 is where the settlement gives a potential opportunity cost and 8 appreciation of asset value, which is why we proceeded with 9 this motion.

10 I'm not intending any of those statements to be admitted 11 into evidence or to persuade you to either rule differently 12 for some reason or another, but I did think that, given your 13 concerns, that it was important to provide the Court with 14 context for why we took the tactic that we did to try and 15 obtain funds from the registry of the Court.

16 This, on the CLO Holdco level, was not a bad faith effort.
17 We weren't trying to relitigate an issue that was already 18 there, and certainly we weren't trying to litigate unless 19 litigation we felt was necessary from a financial cost-benefit 20 analysis. And that was a real analysis that we discussed 21 between me and my client.

22 I just wanted to share that with the Court. I've shared 23 with the Committee counsel that we understand that there are 24 major concerns about Jim Dondero, about his control over 25 various entities, about transfers. I'm trying to work as hard

1 as I can to distance CLO Holdco from that taint, because 2 understanding that it's in what has been alleged as a 3 Byzantine web, we think it's important to separate CLO Holdco 4 and its operations to ensure that things are done in an 5 appropriate fashion with square corners.

6 That's all I have, Your Honor. We have no objection to 7 the additional funds being pled into the registry of the 8 Court. We can agree those funds would be adjudicated as part 9 of this dispute. We understand that we did not prevail, and 10 we appreciate your Court hearing our argument.

1 DALLAS, TEXAS - JULY 8, 2020 - 1:37 P.M.

2 THE COURT: All right. Hello. This is Judge
3 Jernigan. Hopefully you can all hear me. We're ready to 4 start the Highland hearings we have today, Case No. 19-34054.
5 Let's start off by getting appearances from those lawyers who 6 want to appear formally today. First, for the Debtor, do we 7 have Mr. Pomerantz or a team from Pachulski Stang?

8 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes. Good morning, Your Honor. Jeff 9 Pomerantz; Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones; counsel for the 10 Debtors.

11 THE COURT: All right. Good afternoon. Anyone else
12 for the Debtors that wants to appear?

13 MR. ANNABLE: Yes, Your Honor. Yes, Your Honor.
14 Zachery Annable and Melissa Hayward, local counsel for the 15 Debtors.

16 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. All right. For 17 the Unsecured Creditors' Committee, I think I see Mr. Clemente 18 there on the screen.

19 MR. CLEMENTE: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Matthew 20 Clemente; Sidley Austin; on behalf of the Creditors'
21 Committee.

22 THE COURT: All right. Very good. I know we have 23 lots of other folks on the line. I'm not sure who else might 24 want to formally appear. I'll check on some of the usuals.
25 For Acis, do we have Ms. Patel or Ms. Chiarello?

1 MS. PATEL: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Rakhee Patel
2 and Annmarie Chiarello of the Winstead firm on behalf of Acis 3 Capital Management, LP. Also on the phone is Brian Shaw of 4 the Rogge Dunn Group.

5 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. For the Redeemer
6 Committee, do we have anyone appearing for them?

7 MS. MASCHERIN: Good morning, Your Honor.

8 MR. PLATT: Your Honor, --

9 MS. MASCHERIN: Go ahead, Mark.

10 MR. PLATT: Sorry. Mark Platt, Your Honor, on behalf 11 of the Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund. And, 12 obviously, Ms. Mascherin is on the screen as well.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MS. MASCHERIN: Good afternoon, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Good afternoon. Let's see.

16 MR. PLATT: And Mr. Hankin is on the phone as well, 17 --

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 MR. PLATT: -- Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: All right. Very good. All right. Any 21 other -- UBS, by chance?

22 (No response.)

23 THE COURT: Okay. Anyone for the CLO Issuers?

24 (No response.)

25 THE COURT: All right. Anyone I missed? U.S.

1 Trustee, perhaps?

2 (No response.)

3 THE COURT: All right. Well, --

4 MR. LYNN: Your Honor, --

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MR. LYNN: -- good afternoon. Michael Lynn and John

7 Bonds for Jim Dondero.

8 THE COURT: Oh, okay. Hello. How are you?

9 MR. LYNN: Well, thank you.

10 THE COURT: All right. Anyone else wishing to appear 11 at this time?

12 (No response.)

13 THE COURT: All right. We have a couple of matters 14 set on our calendar. A motion to extend the deadline for 15 removal of actions, to which I saw no written responses, and 16 then a third motion to extend exclusivity, and I saw a 17 Committee response to that.

18 I don't have on my hard calendar anything about a status 19 conference regarding mediation, but I found in our notes from 20 our hearing, I believe it was the UBS hearing in middle of 21 June, that I said, you know, we might want to talk about that 22 if we don't hear some rosy news or some developing positive 23 news today at the July 8th hearing. So we'll kind of put that 24 on the back burner and see if there's a need to talk about 25 that today.

1 All right. So, Mr. Pomerantz, are you going to start us 2 off?

3 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes, Your Honor. And actually, I had 4 some comments that sort of touched on a few of the issues you 5 talked about and I think it's apropos to talk about it in the 6 context of the motion to extend exclusivity, which I do note, 7 Your Honor, is not objected to.

8 We had asked in the motion for a 30-day extension and an 9 additional extension beyond that in increments of 30 days, up 10 to a maximum of 90 days, with the Creditors' Committee's 11 consent. We have read their response. We understand they are 12 accepting a 30-day extension, but wanted to put the Debtor and 13 I'm sure the Court on notice that, at the end of 30 days, they 14 don't anticipate any further extensions, which I think, based 15 upon the course of actions, will be just fine, because I 16 think, as I will report to Your Honor, we expect to be able to 17 file a plan by then.

18 But I thought I would take this time, Your Honor, and sort 19 of (audio gap) little context, and that is the (inaudible) to 20 give Your Honor just a brief update of the status of the case, 21 the status on the filing of the Debtor's plan, and as Your 22 Honor alluded to, the Debtor's thoughts regarding mediation, 23 because we have spent a lot of time since Your Honor first 24 raised the issue in the middle of June talking about it, and 25 we think we have a structure that has significant support from

1 the main parties in this case.

2 So, as I mentioned, Your Honor, at the hearing on June 3 30th, after stabilizing operations, the Board began to focus 4 on resolving the significant litigation claims that have been 5 filed against the estate. And the first step in that process, 6 Your Honor, is the Board wanted to commission an independent 7 analysis of those claims, not burdened by what had come before 8 it in connection with the analysis. So we spent a lot of 9 time, our firm did, providing detailed analysis on the major 10 claims against the estate, including the Acis claim, the UBS
11 claim, and the Redeemer claim.

12 Then the pandemic hit, and a lot of the Board's attention
13 was spent on dealing with the disruption to the Debtor's 14 business that was caused by the pandemic. However, during the 15 last couple of months, Your Honor, the Board has begun to 16 focus on engaging with UBS, Redeemer, and the Acis groups in 17 order to assess the ability to be able to resolve the claims 18 short of contested and time-consuming litigation. Because as 19 I mentioned to Your Honor on several occasions, the Board 20 intended, when it came in on January 9th, and I think has done 21 a good job, is changing the culture that had existed before, 22 the culture of litigation, to potentially a culture of 23 settlement and mediation.

24 And in that regard, Your Honor, I'm pleased to report that 25 the Debtor has reached an agreement in principle with the

1 Redeemer Committee regarding the allowance of the Redeemer 2 Committee's claim. The agreement is subject to resolution of 3 a few minor drafting issues, and the Debtor anticipates 4 seeking Court approval of a settlement in the near future.

5 With respect to Acis, Acis's claims, two weeks ago the 6 Independent Board made an offer to resolve the Acis claims.
7 At this point, has not heard back. Hopes to hear back from 8 Acis.

9 In the interim, the Debtor has also filed an objection to 10 the Acis claim, which it would intend to prosecute if it 11 cannot be resolved consensually, either before or in 12 connection with the mediation process that I will lay out that 13 we would propose to the Court in a few moments.

14 With respect to the UBS claim, Your Honor, the Board
15 believes that the Court's ruling on UBS's relief from stay 16 motion was a necessary first step before settlement 17 discussions could get off the ground, and the hope is that the 18 claim could be resolved through mediation, if not sooner, and 19 the parties discussing potentially different counterproposals.
20 None have been made yet, but it is the intention of the Board 21 to engage with UBS.

22 With respect to the mediation process, Your Honor, the 23 Board agrees with the comments that the Court made that 24 mediation could be a very useful tool and a catalyst to a 25 settlement. That would resolve the litigation that has 1 burdened this estate for many years.

2 Since the last hearing, Your Honor, I've had discussions 3 with both Committee counsel, Mr. Clemente, and counsel for 4 each of the Committee members regarding a mediation process
5 that I think, subject to Your Honor's concurrence, has broad 6 support among the major parties, just proving to Your Honor 7 that the parties can come together and agree on something in 8 this case.

9 There is consensus that the Court should order a mediation 10 that would encompass essentially two general areas. First, 11 the mediation would seek to resolve the claims of Acis and 12 UBS, to the extent the parties cannot reach agreement on their 13 own prior to the commencement of the mediation.

14 However, resolving claims against the estate is really 15 only one part of the equation. A true global resolution would 16 also (audio gap) the Debtor's estate may have against Jim 17 Dondero and related entities, claims that I'm sure Your Honor 18 recalls the Committee bargained for the ability to prosecute 19 in connection with the global settlement approved by Your 20 Honor in January.

21 I've spoken with Mr. Lynn, Mr. Dondero's counsel. I know 22 he's participating in the hearing. And he has indicated that 23 Mr. Dondero is willing to participate in a plan mediation 24 process to see if a global resolution can be reached.

25 The Debtor and the Committee have also discussed the names

1 of potential mediators, and subject, of course, to Your 2 Honor's approval, the Debtor and the Committee have reached 3 out to Judge Jones' clerk for the Southern District of Texas 4 and he has told us that he has the time and the willingness to 5 mediate.

6 We also believe that, if available, since there is a lot 7 in terms of mediation in this case, that it may be helpful to 8 have two mediators. And if Judge Isgur -- we haven't reached 9 out to him -- is also available, we believe that both of those 10 judges possess the qualities that this case would need to 11 resolve -- to give the best chance of resolving the claims and 12 the plan process in an efficient and a timely manner.

13 We would contemplate that the parties would submit fees to 14 the mediator by July 31st, and the mediation would occur 15 sometime in the second half of August.

16 Notwithstanding the mediation process, however, Your 17 Honor, the Debtor is moving forward towards expeditiously 18 filing a plan, which will not need to wait for mediation to 19 conclude. And in that regard, Your Honor, the Debtor and the 20 Committee have worked cooperatively over the last several 21 weeks to draft a plan that would allow the Debtor to emerge
22 from Chapter 11 as quickly as possible -- you know, 120 days 23 or so after it would be filed.

24 The Debtor and the Committee and its members recognize 25 that the administrative fees attending to the continued

1 administration of this case in bankruptcy is material, and 2 that one way to reduce them is to emerge from bankruptcy as 3 quickly as possible.

4 To that end, Your Honor, the Debtor is optimistic that it 5 will be able to file a plan by the end of the current 6 exclusivity period, which, if Your Honor grants the pending
7 motion, would be August 12th. And, at present, the plan 8 contemplates the creation of an asset monetization vehicle 9 that will seek to monetize the assets in an appropriate 10 manner.

11 The Debtor believes that the current plan is confirmable, 12 whether or not the Debtor is successful in resolving the large 13 claims against the estate, either consensually or in 14 mediation. Worst case, the claims litigation process can 15 proceed post-confirmation.

16 At the same time, however, Your Honor, the Independent 17 Board -- led by Mr. James Seery, who has testified before Your 18 Honor and who has been appointed as the Debtor's chief 19 executive officer, subject to Court approval, and that hearing 20 is scheduled for July 14th -- has also had positive 21 discussions with Jim Dondero regarding a plan structure that 22 would not only allow for the prompt exit from Chapter 11 but 23 could also inject some liquidity into the case that would 24 allow actual distributions to be made to creditors much more 25 expedited than perhaps waiting for the monetization of the 1 assets. And Mr. Seery continues to have those discussions

2 with Mr. Dondero, and he and the Board are cautiously 3 optimistic that they will bear fruit.

4 However, Your Honor, just to be clear, the Debtor intends 5 to file a plan by the expiration of exclusivity whether or not 6 Mr. Dondero is part of that plan, and his involvement will not 7 distract the Debtor from emerging from Chapter 11 as quickly
8 as possible.

9 So we feel we have presented some rosy news today in terms 10 of resolution of some of the claims and a path forward, that 11 we think this case is on a different trajectory than it was 12 quite some time ago, and we look forward to continuing a 13 dialogue with the parties before mediation and in mediation, 14 if Your Honor orders it, and hopefully can have a quick and 15 (inaudible) resolution of the case.

16 THE COURT: All right. I have a few questions, but 17 I'll turn to other lawyers to see what they have to say, and 18 their comments may answer some questions I have. Mr.
19 Clemente, go ahead.

20 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes, Your Honor. Thank you. Matthew 21 Clemente from Sidley on behalf of the Committee.

22 Mr. Pomerantz is correct with respect to exclusivity. As 23 we laid out in our papers, the Committee has no objection to 24 the additional 30 days of exclusivity through August 12th, and 25 the Committee sees no reason why a plan cannot be filed within

1 that time frame.

2 As we laid out in our papers, we at this time don't see 3 any reason for exclusivity to extend beyond August 12th. But 4 I do think that is consistent with the relief that the Debtor 5 is asking for.

6 To be sure, Your Honor, given the position of the 7 Committee and its constituency, we do not see any plan here 8 that gets done without our consent, frankly, and approval.
9 And we've made that point consistently to the Debtor, and we 10 continue to make that point. Filing a plan with which the 11 Debtor knows this constituency does not agree, frankly, we 12 think would be a waste of time and resources and will create 13 needless litigation, to which Your Honor expressed a strong 14 distaste for at the last hearing.

15 So, Your Honor, we will continue to work with the Debtor 16 in moving forward with a plan, and we are hopeful that the 17 Debtor will continue to understand the importance of working 18 cooperatively with the Committee to propose a plan the 19 Committee can support, as opposed to one it knows the 20 Committee will take issue with.

21 So, with that, Your Honor, again, we don't have any issue 22 or objection to the entry of the exclusivity order, but I did 23 want to make Your Honor aware of the Committee's views.

24 Second, Your Honor, with respect to mediation, the 25 Committee is supportive of the mediation proposal Mr.

1 Pomerantz laid out. Mr. Pomerantz touched on it, and the 2 Committee has been consistently clear, however, that the 3 mediation should not distract from the task of moving forward 4 with a plan, a plan, as Mr. Pomerantz told you, will be 5 designed to be confirmable even without claim resolution or 6 Mr. Dondero's involvement.

7 The Committee believes that it is important that the 8 claims be addressed first in the mediation, the claim 9 resolution issues, as they believe that that is the 10 appropriate sequencing. It can all happen as part of the same 11 mediation, but the Committee feels very strongly that the 12 claims should be addressed first in the context of that 13 mediation.

14 And with respect to Mr. Dondero's involvement, the 15 Committee is not opposed to having his involvement and the 16 Committee will negotiate in good faith during the mediation 17 and will be looking to the mediator to help determine the most 18 effective way to involve Mr. Dondero in the process -- again, 19 with the very strong view that the claims should be addressed 20 first in the context of that mediation.

21 That is all I have, Your Honor, but I'm happy, obviously, 22 to answer any questions you have.

23 THE COURT: Okay. Let's hear from anyone else. Any 24 other lawyers want to weigh in?

25 MS. PATEL: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Rakhee Patel

1 on behalf of Acis. And I will endeavor to not tread the same 2 ground that Mr. Pomerantz and Mr. Clemente have. But just to 3 kind of -- probably more so for the benefit of others that are 4 participating in the hearing, because I know Your Honor, 5 you're familiar with our matter, I hit on the two pieces of 6 litigation that I think, you know, bear discussing in the 7 context of mediation. And by the way, just to be clear, I 8 have -- I have no position different than Mr. Clemente with 9 respect to exclusivity.

10 But as Your Honor is aware, there is a lawsuit involving 11 Acis and Highland Capital Management. It's an adversary.
12 It's been through various permutations, the first of which 13 started roughly two years ago. I think we just passed the 14 two-year anniversary of the first adversary that all ended up 15 being consolidated down and added to over time. And 16 immediately prior to Highland's bankruptcy, that adversary was 17 effectively abated by virtue of the withdrawal of the 18 reference motion that was filed and argued and the Court was 19 writing what I understand to be a lengthy Report and 20 Recommendation in connection with. And that was then 21 ultimately stayed by Highland's bankruptcy case in October of 22 2019.

23 As Mr. Pomerantz indicated, Highland has now objected to 24 Acis's proof of claim. That just came roughly about two weeks 25 ago. And keeping in mind, Your Honor, that Acis's proof of 1 claim is its complaint in that adversary that I just 2 referenced.

3 At present, Acis's response is due somewhere around July 4 23rd, I believe, and there is a hearing scheduled on that 5 claim objection on August the 6th. So a hearing has been set 6 imminently.

7 Mr. Pomerantz and Mr. Couch were very kind to put in a 8 peremptory call immediately prior to the filing, and they 9 advised that they were going to be filing that claim objection 10 and that they were going to be setting it for hearing on 11 August the 6th, and I advised them that I had planned on being 12 on vacation that week, which is all a very long way of saying, 13 Your Honor, I think we're going to have to, in light of 14 mediation, work up an alternate schedule.

15 And I'm confident that we'll be able to reach that 16 alternate schedule, but we'll be keeping the mediation and its 17 scheduling and the parties with schedules in mind. Because it 18 doesn't seem to make an awful lot of sense to me to be 19 litigating the claim objection before we get to mediation.

20 On the -- on other fronts, and, again, you know, I know 21 Your Honor presided over the Acis case, obviously, for the 22 last two and half years, commencing with the involuntary 23 bankruptcy that touched off that case. But on the -- on the 24 related front, is, as I advised the Court at the status
25 conference during the Acis status conference, there was a suit

1 that was filed by Acis against Mr. Dondero, certain of 2 Highland Capital Management's employees, the former treasurer, 3 Mr. Waterhouse, as well as CLO Holdco, Grant Scott, and 4 certain of the Independent Directors of Highland CLO Funding.

5 And, you know, as Your Honor may recall, that suit was 6 filed to get ahead of the 546 or -- and/or Section 108 time
7 period cutoff. But that suit is now pending. In connection 8 with that litigation, Your Honor, there has been -- there are 9 a couple of answers that were filed and there's -- there have 10 been a panoply of motions to dismiss filed as well on various 11 grounds: Personal jurisdiction -- ranging from personal 12 jurisdiction, subject matter jurisdiction, 12(b)(6) grounds.
13 Kind of a smattering of a whole lot of things. And all of 14 that bundles together, Your Honor, into a whole lot more 15 litigation.

16 So, in thinking about that piece of litigation and its 17 overall impact on where the parties are, I endeavored to reach 18 out to all of the counsel, the various counsel for the 19 constituent groups therein to talk about what we were going to 20 do with that piece of litigation, certainly now that we are 21 discussing mediation. And I've had various positive at least 22 preliminary discussions with Mr. Bonds, counsel for Mr.
23 Dondero, and then also Mr. Kane, who is counsel for CLO Holdco 24 and Grant Scott, and they were generally receptive to the 25 concept of an abatement, pending mediation, just, again, so we

1 can put a pin in the litigation, see where we can get to in 2 the context of mediation, if some sort of resolution can be 3 reached that advances the collective ball and hopefully helps 4 to, if not resolve the litigation, perhaps reduce or certainly 5 streamline it.

6 I've reached out to, by email, to counsel for certain of 7 the other employees who are, at present, evaluating that -- 8 the request for an agreed abatement, and I've also reached out 9 via email and phone to counsel for the Independent -- the two 10 Independent Directors for Highland CLO Funding. That's Mr.
11 Maloney and Ms. Matsumora. And I've not heard from them as 12 yet.

13 So, in connection with that, Your Honor, likely, at least 14 as of right now, my thought is that we would basically be 15 filing a motion tomorrow seeking to abate that piece of 16 litigation in connection with the mediation that we're 17 discussing today, and, of course, depending upon the outcome 18 of today. And we may seek to expedite that motion to abate if 19 the parties don't agree to extend at least present responsive 20 deadlines, et cetera. Because, again, it doesn't seem to make 21 an awful lot of sense to be continuing with litigation while 22 everyone is trying to get into resolution mode.

23 So, Your Honor, as you know, Acis has tried to remain 24 consistently in resolution mode, but we hear Your Honor loud 25 and clear and we will endeavor and try and streamline and at

1 least give the best-faith effort at trying to get things 2 resolved as expeditiously as possible as we can.

3 THE COURT: Well, if that is the case, why haven't -- 4 why hasn't the Debtor heard back from you on the offer they 5 made two weeks ago?

6 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, the offer was made after -- 7 shortly after the claim objection was filed. The claim 8 objection itself, Your Honor, is a two-page claim objection.
9 And, frankly, if I turn my camera around, you'd see that I am 10 surrounded by paper. We are analyzing the claim objection as 11 filed.

12 Your Honor, in terms of talking about Acis's claim, Acis, 13 as you know, has been -- has been attempting to discuss its 14 claim, and even during Acis's bankruptcy case, we engaged in 15 two different mediations to try and resolve the overarching -- 16 a lot of the facts that -- and circumstances that underlie the 17 complaint, and those were unsuccessful.

18 Shortly after the Board was appointed -- and by shortly, I 19 mean I think the hearing was in the morning; we ended up -- I 20 and Mr. Terry ended up having lunch with the Board and the 21 Board's counsel to again being fostering a relationship and to 22 begin discussing Acis's claim in earnest. And we had a 23 lengthy meeting at my offices -- if my memory serves, it was 24 in early February -- with Mr. Nelms and with Mr. Seery. And 25 then, frankly, didn't hear a whole heck of a lot with respect

1 to our claim or any type of negotiation. So the first thing 2 that we heard back with respect to it was just a couple of 3 weeks ago, and Your Honor, we --

4 (Audio interruptions.)

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MS. PATEL: We will --

7 THE COURT: Someone needs to put their phone on mute.
8 Okay. Thank you.

9 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor. We have 10 endeavored -- we have rolled up our sleeves and we are 11 analyzing the claim objection and trying to narrow the issues.
12 And we will be providing a substantive response back to the 13 Debtor as quickly as we can.

14 The settlement proposal, frankly, Your Honor, came in 15 while Mr. Terry was on vacation, so we did have a little bit 16 of time lapse on that.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Where are people going on vacation 18 these days? I can't get anywhere.

19 MS. PATEL: Your --

20 THE COURT: I've had to cancel a couple of vacations.
21 I don't know where people are going.

22 But okay. Well, I'm very disappointed, nevertheless, to 23 hear that there's been zero response in two weeks.

24 Anyone else wish to make a comment before I get to some 25 questions I have?

1 MR. LYNN: Your Honor, Michael Lynn for Jim Dondero.

2 This is just a comment. The Acis v. Dondero, et al. suit 3 parallels in many respects the objection to the claim filed by 4 the Debtor with respect to the Acis claim. We would probably 5 seek to join in the objection, if for no other reason than to 6 preserve our ability to address factual issues that the two 7 matters have in common, to ensure against a future preclusive 8 effect.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Anyone else?

10 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, this is Jeff Pomerantz
11 again. I have a couple of comments with respect to Ms.
12 Patel's. Would you like me to address them now?

13 THE COURT: Go ahead. Uh-huh.

14 MR. POMERANTZ: Okay. Your Honor, I think it's 15 helpful to the Court to understand sort of the big picture in 16 terms of our discussions with Acis. Prior to making a 17 settlement proposal, which, incidentally, occurred before the 18 claim objection was filed, a week or so ago -- well, actually, 19 a few week before that, we had offered to sit down and meet 20 with Acis with respect to their claim.

21 The initial response we received back was that, unless the 22 Guernsey lawsuit was dismissed, they were not interested in 23 sitting down and meeting with us. We were disappointed in 24 that because, as we have consistently maintained since the 25 Board has taken over, the Board does not control that Guernsey

1 lawsuit. But in any event, that was what Acis's position was.

2 Subsequently, a few weeks after that, we were told that 3 Acis would be willing to sit down and have a discussion with 4 us about their claim, similar to the discussions we had with 5 Redeemer and similar to the discussions we had with UBS.

6 To make that discussion most productive, two and a half 7 days into that -- I certainly realize two and a half days is 8 not a lot of time -- we provided Ms. Patel and Mr. Shaw with a 9 draft of the objection, which was mostly identical to the one 10 that got filed. There was a couple of minor changes. We then 11 had a discussion with them. I'm not going to, of course, 12 reveal the substance of the discussion, but the purpose was to 13 go over our thoughts before it was filed. And we were told, 14 as Ms. Patel said, that Mr. Terry was on vacation, and we 15 didn't expect, after putting, as Ms. Patel said, a roughly 60-16 page objection, that they would be able to turn it around.
17 Several days later, we called up Ms. Patel and Mr. Shaw, 18 communicated orally a settlement proposal, told them that a 19 settlement -- told them that an objection would be filed and 20 offered to, at their convenience, to sit down and talk about 21 the claims.

22 We are still hopeful, Your Honor, in light of Ms. Patel's 23 comments that we will receive a response, that we will receive 24 a response. And to the extent we can narrow the issues down 25 and -- before mediation, I think those ought to be helpful.

1 We also spoke to Ms. Patel. She had indicated she had a 2 vacation scheduled. At the time, I think we were starting to 3 talk about mediation. And the Debtor has no intention of 4 mediating while litigating. We don't believe that's an 5 effective use of people's time. So while it is on for August 6 6th, to the extent Your Honor does order us to mediation and 7 mediation occurs at the end of August, we would anticipate 8 that the hearing on the claim objection would be set for some 9 time in September. But we are encouraged.

10 We also, after the additional litigations were filed by 11 Ms. Patel against Mr. Dondero and certain of the Debtor's 12 employees, who are still current employees, we had suggested 13 that it might make sense to have an abatement and a stay of 14 those proceedings, given the interrelatedness of those 15 proceedings and the matters in Acis's claim objection. They 16 initially rejected that, but I'm very happy to hear that their 17 view now is that it does make more sense to try to see if we 18 can coalesce around a mediation process without satellite 19 litigation occurring.

20 So we are -- we are, to the -- we're not a party to that 21 litigation. We weren't asked. The first time we had been 22 told that that litigation would be stayed was I heard it just 23 a few minutes ago. But we are very much in support of that 24 and hope that the parties can coalesce around a mediated 25 resolution as opposed to a litigated resolution.

1 THE COURT: Okay. Remind me again the amount of 2 Acis's proof of claim.

3 MR. POMERANTZ: I will let Ms. Patel answer that 4 because it's a little unclear and there are some -- been 5 disputes in terms of who said what about it. So I would ask 6 Ms. Patel to remind the Court of what they're claiming.

7 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, on the face of our -- of the 8 filed proof of claim, it states that the claim is in excess of 9 $75 million.

10 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Anyone else wish to 11 make a statement today?

12 (No response.)

13 THE COURT: All right. Well, as I said, I have a few 14 questions, some I came in here with and some sort of popped up 15 in my brain as I heard the presentations today.

16 Mr. Pomerantz, I mean, I feel in many ways I have sort of 17 only a 30,000-foot level understanding of certain things going 18 on outside of the courtroom. And here's what I mean by that.
19 You made a comment that the Board, you know, had to deal with 20 the destruction of the Debtor's business caused by the 21 pandemic. I think those were your exact words. I would like 22 to understand that better, because there was indeed a theme in 23 your motion to extend exclusivity of, you know, one of the 24 reasons we're not where we would like to be at this juncture 25 is, among other things, you know, we had the pandemic hit.

1 I don't have a full appreciation of how that has slowed
2 things down. I mean, I know there was one specific comment
3 that Jefferies issued margin calls and so that caused 4 liquidity issues. But other than that, I'm not -- I mean, 5 yes, the capital markets fell off a cliff in March, but my 6 impression, naïve as it may be, is that things have kind of 7 bounced back after March. So, tell me how the pandemic has 8 had an effect in trying to get to resolution of issues and a 9 plan.

10 MR. POMERANTZ: Absolutely, Your Honor. So, as I 11 think Your Honor knows in the calls, the Debtor's primary 12 assets consist of two things. One, public stock that it 13 trades through a proprietary account in its select account, 14 and other stocks, public stocks, which, as Your Honor 15 mentioned, the pandemic roiled the stock market, and for the 16 period of time in March and early April, given the fact that 17 the Debtor had margin accounts, a substantial amount of the 18 time spent primarily by Mr. Seery, who effectively started 19 becoming a CEO at that time -- we'll deal with his motion next 20 week -- if it wasn't for his efforts, his expertise and 21 acumen, the result could have been a lot worse.

22 So he's been spending a lot of time in dealing with 23 Jefferies, because, as Your Honor is aware, with margin 24 accounts, there is really limited protections that are 25 available under the Bankruptcy Code, and the automatic stay

1 and other protections don't necessarily apply, and Jefferies
2 could have turned around and sold all the stock. So the value 3 that was preserved took a lot of time and effort. That was 4 one area.

5 The second area, Your Honor, is the Debtor's assets also 6 include interests in private equity investments. A lot of the 7 Debtor's funds that it manages and which the Debtor has 8 significant interest in have a variety of different companies.
9 Each of those companies were dealing with the pandemic in 10 their own different ways, whether it was addressing issues of 11 applying for PPP loans, whether it was addressing employees, 12 there's capital structure issues, each of them are potentially 13 a Chapter 11 making all of their own.

14 So, again, the type of effort and time that it took -- 15 again, principally, Mr. Seery, acting as CEO, but also, you 16 know, the other Board members -- was a lot, to stabilize those 17 investments and to make sure that they were not lost through 18 actions by lenders or whatnot.

19 And the third aspect is the Debtor manages funds, still 20 manages funds and actively manages funds. And managing funds 21 that have principally financial-type assets in this 22 environment has been extremely challenging.

23 As Your Honor accurately mentions, over the last couple 24 months the stock market has come to a little more stability.
25 Whether that will remain is anyone's guess. And during that

1 time, that's when a lot of the efforts that I've mentioned in 2 terms of the claims work has been put back on. But there was 3 a month or two period during the pandemic, the early stages, 4 that really impacted the Debtor's ability, and it was all-
5 hands-on-deck to address those issues.

6 At the same time, though, Your Honor, our firm was working 7 on the extensive analysis that was required to, for example, 8 address all the legal issues in connection with what I think I 9 recall is a 34-count complaint by Acis; for our firm to get up 10 to speed with respect to the UBS claim, which, as Your Honor 11 heard a few weeks ago, spanned 11 years of litigation; and 12 also to address the issues with Redeemer and be in a position 13 that, as I mentioned before, we have reached a settlement.

14 So, there were a lot of things going on. We had hoped to 15 be where we are now a couple of months ago. But I think the 16 Board, under the strong leadership of the Board and the strong 17 leadership of Mr. Seery, has effectively stabilized the 18 operations, and we have now been able to, the last couple of 19 months, really turn to how do we get out of this case, as 20 evidenced by the comments I made with the substantial effort 21 that's been made in the plan and the substantial progress I 22 think has been made on putting the Board in a position to sit 23 down and have meaningful discussions with creditors
24 (inaudible).

25 THE COURT: Okay. I mean, again, I don't -- I don't 1 have a witness here, but, well, remind me, what do we have set 2 July 14th?

3 MR. POMERANTZ: So, July 14th, Your Honor, we have 4 two motions. One is a motion to appoint Jim Seery as the 5 chief executive officer. Again, I will talk more about it in 6 connection with that hearing. If Your Honor recalls, as part 7 of the term sheet in January, there was a recognition by the 8 Committee and by the Debtor that instilling the Board was 9 obviously critical. It was critical to avoid this case going 10 into a different direction. And I think there was a 11 recognition that it would be important that somebody stepped 12 up and become the CEO.

13 It was too early to tell whether that somebody would come 14 from the Debtor's board, the newly-installed board, or someone 15 else, but there was a contemplated process. And while the 16 first couple of months of the case were spent, again, on 17 stabilizing operations, I think starting in mid-March and as 18 we went on it was pretty clear that, of the three people on 19 the Board, while all of them are providing invaluable services 20 in leading the Debtor to where it is now, Mr. Seery was 21 stepping up primarily because of his significant operational 22 background in connection with these types of assets. And he 23 has essentially been working a couple hundred hours a month or 24 thereabouts over the last few months doing the things I just 25 alluded to, and the Debtor has determined to seek his

1 retention as a CEO. Has had discussion with the Committee on 2 terms. They're not all finalized or resolved yet, but that 3 hopefully will be uncontested by the 14th.

4 Mr. Seery will also undertake the role of chief 5 restructuring officer, which, as Your Honor recalls, we 6 already have Brad Sharp as -- from DSI as chief restructuring
7 officer. They will essentially become financial advisor. DSI 8 has provided a valuable role to the Board and to counsel in 9 this case. But given that Mr. Seery will, if the Court 10 approves the motion, become the CEO, it would make sense that 11 he be the CRO as well, so it's a separate motion to 12 essentially transmute the DSI representation from a CRO 13 representation to a financial advisor representation. So the 14 two matters are on, Your Honor, but I've --

15 THE COURT: Okay.

16 MR. POMERANTZ: -- given Your Honor a preview.

17 THE COURT: Well, I'd like to hear testimony from 18 both of them on the 14th, Mr. Seery and Mr. Sharp.

19 Again, I -- I mean, ideally, we would have evidence at a 20 hearing on a motion to extend exclusivity. And I understand 21 you didn't have any objections, you worked out essentially an 22 agreement with the Committee. So, I mean, I understand you 23 didn't necessarily think that evidence would be needed.

24 But I, again, you know, my understanding is 30,000-foot 25 level. I'm just trying to understand, you know, with three

1 wonderful independent board members and with a CRO and all 2 these fantastic professionals, it just feels like we -- you 3 know, multiple things could be going on at once, and I kind of 4 feel like, you know, January 9th, six months ago, we had the 5 independent board installed. We had the protocol order with 6 the Committee worked out, you know, which we call it a 7 settlement, but it was mostly a mechanism to allow the 8 Committee to have oversight and monitoring. And it just feels 9 like, January 9th, okay, then we were in a position to really 10 start focusing on these big claims. We knew it was Acis and 11 we knew it was UBS, even though the bar date hadn't hit. And 12 it feels like to me we've -- I shouldn't say bought a lot of 13 time, but a lot of time has gone by for not as many results as 14 I would like.

15 Tell me why I'm being unfair. And, again, I go back to, 16 okay, if it's the pandemic, help me to understand what it was 17 about. You know, I kind of got scared by that phrase you 18 used, destruction to the Debtor's business caused by the 19 pandemic. I mean, I guess part of what I'm getting at here 20 is, Has there been a massive loss of value by the Debtor 21 caused by the pandemic, and that has been sort of a halting 22 event to being able to talk about a plan?

23 MR. POMERANTZ: Well, Your Honor, I believe, and I
24 actually went back to my notes, and I think I said disruption.
25 I didn't say destruction.

1 THE COURT: Oh.

2 MR. POMERANTZ: And if Your Honor heard destruction,

3 --

4 THE COURT: I heard destruction. Maybe I --

5 MR. POMERANTZ: -- or if I misspoke, I apologize.

6 But there wasn't any implication of a destruction in the 7 Debtor's business. Again, financial assets did take a hit.
8 There were some concerns in how, you know, to monetize those 9 assets, the stock assets, and working through the Jefferies 10 issues as well as the private equity issues.

11 And look, Your Honor: When the Board took over on January 12 9th, I think they recognized soon after their appointment that 13 there was a lot of stuff to do. There was -- it was a really 14 steep learning curve. Highland, as people have described it 15 in the hearings in this case, is an extremely complicated 16 structure of companies.

17 So, yes, perhaps things could have moved a little quicker.
18 Your Honor does recall the early stages of the case, we dealt 19 with motions for the appointment of a trustee by the United 20 States Trustee. There was other litigation over retention of 21 professionals and others, which, you know, Your Honor has 22 commented about in the past, and I think we're past that and 23 beyond that. But there has been a lot of work.

24 And, again, on the claims work, the Board, to be 25 independent, did not want to rely on the employees of the 1 Debtor in evaluating the various claims. So that took a lot 2 of time and effort.

3 So, you know, look, I think you could look at it two ways.
4 One way you could look at it, that it's been pending six 5 months and we don't have a plan yet, we don't have the claims 6 resolution. I would -- and I tend to be a glass-is-half-full 7 type of person -- I think the message that we are hearing
8 today is that the plan process is on track. We have resolved
9 one of the three major litigation claims. We have coalesced 10 around a mediation process that people can get behind and 11 hopefully have concluded at the end of August. That the 12 process is going to include not only the inbound claims 13 against the company but potentially the claims by the company 14 against some of the targets.

15 I think there is reason for optimism at this point in the 16 case. And while, you know, I wish it was May and we were 17 having this discussion, not July, I still think there has been 18 a lot of groundwork that was prepared to get to the place 19 we're here. And, you know, the Board is laser-focused on 20 getting results, and getting results quick.

21 THE COURT: Okay. Let me follow on about the 22 agreement in principle on the Redeemer claim. They had an 23 arbitration award. So that doesn't sound like a major 24 milestone to me, to be honest. Tell me why I'm wrong about 25 that. They had an arbitration award.

1 MR. POMERANTZ: Sure. Your Honor, they do have an 2 arbitration award, but there are several aspects of the 3 arbitration award that needed negotiation and resolution. A 4 significant part of the arbitration award was the Debtor's
5 obligation to repurchase some Cornerstone shares that Redeemer
6 had for a certain dollar amount. Well, obviously, the Debtor 7 in bankruptcy doesn't have the ability to write a check to 8 repurchase it.

9 There was issues on the Debtor's ability to ultimately 10 recoup different fees that the arbitrator had determined had 11 been taken inappropriately that had to be repaid, and to what 12 extent the Debtor would be entitled to a credit.

13 So, by no means am I telling Your Honor that the Redeemer
14 claims and issues were as difficult as the Acis and UBS claims 15 and issues. But there were a variety of issues, there were a 16 variety of matters that had to be discussed. You know, we 17 worked cooperatively with Redeemer and with Jenner & Block.
18 And we, again, have reached a resolution that is going to 19 provide a face amount of a claim which is materially less than 20 the claim that was on file.

21 But Your Honor, by no means am I trying to convince Your 22 Honor that this was the same type of work that needed to go 23 into -- resolve the others. But having said that, getting 24 that claim resolved, which the Debtor believes is the largest 25 legitimate claim against this estate, I think is an important

1 step forward that will lead towards hopefully the confirmation 2 of a plan and hopefully spur on efforts from all the parties
3 -- Acis, UBS, and the Debtor -- to try to make the same type 4 of progress in their claims.

5 THE COURT: Okay. All right. My next question is, I 6 mean, you've talked about -- I think it was the previous 7 hearing I heard you say a term sheet had been provided to the 8 Committee or going back and forth. I mean, help me to 9 understand what you're envisioning the plan is going to look 10 like in this case. I mean, I know there's a wide swing 11 between UBS being owed a billion dollars and being owed 12 nothing, and Acis being owed $70 million versus, you know, 13 nothing or wherever you think the number should be, or the 14 Debtor's board thinks the number should be. I know, you know, 15 these are giant questions. But can you answer for me what 16 you're envisioning?

17 I mean, again, one of the pleadings said, you know, the 18 plan should provide for orderly monetization of assets, 19 provide for a process for resolution of claims, and pursue 20 causes of action. I mean, again, that's kind of 30,000-foot 21 stuff. Tell me what you're envisioning.

22 MR. POMERANTZ: Sure. So, Your Honor, just to take a 23 step back, we -- this case was filed not necessarily for the 24 traditional reason that cases are filed. There weren't operational 25 fixes that needed to be done at the business.

1 THE COURT: Right.

2 MR. POMERANTZ: There wasn't a capital structure that 3 needed to be revised.

4 THE COURT: Right.

5 MR. POMERANTZ: Right? So, as everyone knows, the case
6 was filed because the Redeemer Committee got its arbitration award, 7 to prevent execution on that. Okay?

8 We also had a very complicated business. There are not many, I 9 think, examples of asset managers around the country of the type of 10 Highland Capital that actually go through a Chapter 11. And it 11 caused a tremendous amount of upheaval, of issues. Your Honor, 12 we've been dealing with the protocols on a daily basis with the 13 Committee. Your Honor has seen some of that.

14 So while the hope was, from the beginning of the case, to end 15 this case in a nice, tidy bow, get a resolution that would not only 16 resolve everyone's claims but also try to resolve the claims that 17 the estate had against third parties, as time was going by the 18 parties realized that there was nothing more bankruptcy could 19 provide this company. This company right now has litigation issues 20 to deal with that can be resolved with the help of the Bankruptcy 21 Court, as appropriate, in connection with the claims process. And 22 the Board -- and the Committee, for that matter -- were looking at 23 the substantial amount of fees that were being incurred by the 24 Debtor professionals and the Committee professionals which were 25 draining liquidity from the company and started to think, How can we

1 exit this case? Even if we can't get what has been referred to by 2 people as a grand bargain, how can we exit this case quickly and 3 efficiently?

4 So what really has to be done in terms of exiting the case?
5 Coming up with a way to monetize the assets, a structure in which 6 those assets can be monetized; not doing anything in the context of 7 a plan process that would in any way interfere with the 8 estate's obligations under the Advisers Act with the SEC or 9 otherwise; and coming up with a governance structure of who's 10 going to govern that.

11 So the plan that is currently contemplated -- and it's 12 more than a term sheet, Your Honor. We have had numerous 13 versions of the plan go back and forth. We are right now 14 waiting. The pen is in the hand of the Committee. We think 15 we are very close to having a form of a plan and a form of a 16 disclosure statement that would essentially contemplate some 17 type of trust vehicle that would monetize the assets. And the 18 structure of how that trust would work, whether it's one 19 trust, whether it's two, whether it's one trustee, whether 20 it's two, how that trust would be governed, who would be on 21 the governing board: Those are all issues that are currently 22 being worked out.

23 At the same time, the company is doing a thorough analysis 24 of every contract and every asset, to make sure that 25 assignment provisions and contract provisions and regulatory 1 issues, that we don't somehow trip up in connection with the 2 plan process.

3 So, essentially, at its core and at its minimum, it will 4 be transferring the assets into a monetization vehicle, some 5 type of trust vehicle, which, again, the corporate and 6 regulatory lawyers are working with us, with the bankruptcy 7 lawyers, to figure out the appropriate way, given the nature 8 of the Debtor's business, having an oversight board that has, 9 you know, creditor support. And if you ask Mr. Clemente, 10 it'll be total creditor identification of the people, which we 11 are in discussions of what the Board looks like after. And 12 monetization over time, and a way to resolve the claims over 13 time.

14 So that is essentially the concept. Again, to the extent 15 we can resolve the claims soon, to the extent we can work on a 16 negotiation with Mr. Dondero to bring in liquidity so that 17 creditors will not have to wait for the monetization of the 18 assets, which a lot of these assets are not assets that are 19 easily monetizable and it will take some time. But it is -- 20 the Debtor feels strongly and I think the Committee feels 21 equally as strongly that emerging from Chapter 11 with some 22 type of vehicle to monetize the assets, governance and 23 control, and a way to resolve remaining claims, that is the 24 minimum that can and should be accomplished and that the 25 Debtor is committed to accomplishing in short order.

1 If something else comes out of it where we get more,
2 again, where the claims are resolved or where we have a grand 3 bargain with Mr. Dondero, that's something we're going to 4 strive for. But at a minimum, it needs to be an asset 5 monetization vehicle, governance, and a way to -- a structure 6 to resolve claims.

7 THE COURT: Okay. Asset monetization vehicle. You 8 know, subject to regulatory lawyers and corporate lawyers 9 figuring out the exact mechanics, you're saying essentially 10 put the business of Highland into a trust or trusts, and then, 11 I guess, from cash flow of the business over time, the 12 creditors would be paid? Or are you saying something more 13 than that?

14 MR. POMERANTZ: Well, again, I think it's on an 15 asset-by-asset basis. And, you know, Mr. Seery, you know, is 16 -- has become very familiar with all the assets, now has a -- 17 ideas in mind which he's shared with the Board on how to best 18 monetize the assets. Some assets, there may be a quick sale.
19 Some assets, it may be over time. So it's a combination.

20 This is not going to be a fire sale of the Debtor's 21 assets. It's not in the best interest of the Debtor, we 22 believe. It's not in the best interest of the creditors. We 23 don't think anyone is in favor of that. It's dealing with 24 each of the assets in an appropriate manner and figuring out 25 how to monetize them, recognizing that given -- even though

1 the stock market has bounced back, the market for privately-2 owned businesses may not have bounced back as much.

3 So it's figuring out with the appropriate people, 4 appropriate governance structure, how best to monetize those 5 assets, recognizing that creditors want to be paid and they're 6 -- they don't want to be in the business of long-term holds.
7 So, the Debtor gets that. But it's really being a thoughtful 8 approach on how to get the best value from those assets.

9 THE COURT: Okay. There's nothing, though, being 10 discussed as far as a big chunk of cash distribution up front, 11 unless Dondero comes up with it?

12 MR. POMERANTZ: Well, potentially. I mean,
13 potentially, Mr. Dondero is a potential source of liquidity.
14 There are some significant assets that may be able to be 15 liquidated sooner rather than later. So it's something that's 16 in discussion.

17 But the lion's share of the value for creditors is likely 18 going to come over time, unless there is someone who, like Mr.
19 Dondero, who is essentially willing to buy back the company.
20 And that is something that's being explored.

21 So, look, we've had a lot of transparency with the 22 Committee. We have weekly meetings, the Board and the 23 Committee. We just started a few weeks ago. I think the 24 professionals are working together. They understand what the 25 assets are in the estate. So, to that end, I think we have

1 been working very cooperatively with our creditors over the 2 last few months and we're just seeking to do it the best way.

3 So nothing I've said today, nothing, you know, should come 4 as and will come as a surprise to the Committee, but we're 5 working better, recognizing that ultimately the creditors want 6 to be paid, and doing that in an appropriate manner and a 7 thoughtful manner is what the Debtor is committed to do with 8 its partner, the Committee, in this process.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Sort of jumping back, I forgot to 10 ask earlier when we were talking about Acis: Has the Fifth 11 Circuit rescheduled oral argument on the appeal of the Acis 12 confirmation order and order for relief?

13 MR. POMERANTZ: I believe -- Your Honor, maybe Ms.
14 Patel would know off the top of her head.

15 THE COURT: Ms. Patel?

16 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, it was -- it was briefly -- I 17 -- and I say briefly, it was briefly we had -- we got a notice
18 at some point, I believe in early June, that the Fifth Circuit 19 had reset oral argument. And then approximately, I can't 20 remember exactly, but it was like, I don't know, a week or 21 maybe ten days later, we got a notice that it was cancelled 22 again. We have not received notice that it is rescheduled, so 23 it is still pending. But it has not been taken off oral -- it 24 has not been taken off oral argument at some juncture.

25 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I acknowledge that that is a

1 pandemic disruption for sure. It would have been nice to have 2 that resolved one way or another by now.

3 MS. PATEL: Agreed, Your Honor. We were trying to 4 figure out, frankly, in the week to ten days that it took from 5 the scheduling to how it was cancelled, exactly how our team 6 was going to get down to New Orleans. And the -- I think the 7 leading contender was to rent an RV and drive down so we could 8 safely get there. So it certainly has been a casualty of the 9 pandemic.

10 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Two more questions.
11 And this one has been a bit of a tough one for me to decide 12 whether I should broach this topic or not. You know, I read 13 the newspapers, the financial papers, just like everyone else, 14 and I saw a headline that I wished almost I wouldn't have 15 seen, and it was a headline about Dondero or Highland 16 affiliates getting three PPP loans. And, you know, I'm only 17 supposed to consider evidence I hear in the courtroom, right, 18 or things I hear in the courtroom, but I've got this 19 extrajudicial knowledge right now thanks to just keeping up on 20 current events. I decided I needed to ask about this.

21 What can you tell me about this, Mr. Pomerantz? I mean, I 22 assumed, from less-than-clear reporting, that it wasn't 23 Highland Capital Management, LP, but I'd like to hear anything 24 you can report about this.

25 MR. POMERANTZ: So, look, Your Honor, the first I

1 could say is that, to my knowledge, Highland Capital, the 2 Debtor, has not obtained a PPP loan. I know there have been 3 discussions with certain funds that basically have certain 4 assets, private operating companies, about obtaining PPP
5 loans. I don't have the specifics for Your Honor. I'm happy 6 to provide that.

7 Of course, to the extent Mr. Dondero, on any of his 8 affiliated funds that are under the control of the Debtor, I 9 would have no way of answering that, but I'm happy to follow 10 up with that with the Board and report back to Your Honor in 11 whatever appropriate manner you felt to obtain that 12 information.

13 THE COURT: Okay. Well, let's have a report on that 14 on the 14th when we come in. You know, maybe Mr. Seery or Mr.
15 Sharp or some other person. But you can probably imagine the 16 different things going through my brain. You know, well, 17 first, let's see if it was -- you know, I don't -- again, I'm 18 not expecting it to be Highland Capital Management, LP. I 19 would be beyond shocked if, you know, that somehow happened 20 when they're in bankruptcy. And, you know, I think it would 21 require a 364 motion, just like any other borrowing, although 22 I know it's kind of a forgivable loan. Strange bird.

23 But then if it's some affiliate of Highland, I still feel 24 like we need some transparency and disclosure on that. I 25 mean, I -- and who were the human beings behind it. It just

1 raises a lot of questions in my brain. Anything else?

2 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, would you mind saying 3 what newspaper you found it in? Because not everything one 4 reads in the newspaper is accurate, but we will definitely --

5 THE COURT: Oh, yeah. I know --

6 MR. POMERANTZ: -- follow up on it and --

7 THE COURT: Fake news really is a thing.

8 MR. POMERANTZ: I didn't say fake news.

9 THE COURT: Oh, I know, I know. It's not really a 10 good term. But Business Insider? Is that reputable? Or no?
11 I thought I saw it in one of the local papers, too. I mean, 12 someone tell me if that's, --

13 MR. POMERANTZ: We -- we --

14 THE COURT: -- you know, something unreliable.

15 MR. POMERANTZ: We will investigate it, Your Honor.
16 I don't know what confidentiality restrictions would be on 17 whether if any of those entities -- but we will get the 18 information. If there's any concern on confidentiality, 19 perhaps we could have an in-camera on that. But before we get 20 ahead of ourselves, let me broach the issue with the Board and 21 Mr. Sharp and then be in a position to act and respond more 22 intelligently.

23 THE COURT: Okay. My last topic is to come back to 24 mediation. I was surprised that Judge Jones' or Judge Isgur's 25 staff expressed that they had availability. They are the

1 busiest judges in the country right now. I'm wondering when 2 were they contacted. Was it really recently, or a week or two 3 ago? Because they've probably gotten ten new mega-cases in 4 the past two weeks.

5 MR. POMERANTZ: So, Your Honor, the last -- the last 6 two weeks, again, probably since June 15th, we had been 7 discussing the structure of a mediation. We, the Debtor, 8 proposed perhaps a combination of Judge Isgur and Jones. We 9 initially had that conversation with Mr. Clemente, and then we 10 socialized it with the rest of the Committee members. As of 11 last Thursday, I believe it was, we had consensus that Judge 12 Jones, and if available, also Judge Isgur, would make sense.

13 I sent an email to Judge Jones' clerk, indicating that we 14 had a hearing today, that it would be helpful if we got a 15 response, and this morning, two hours before the hearing, 16 Judge Jones' clerk responded and told Mr. Clemente and I that 17 he is available and ready and suggested that we have a 18 conference with -- again, I'm not sure if it'll be him or his 19 clerk, to talk about availability. Of course, we didn't want 20 to go ahead and have that discussion until, you know, we got 21 Your Honor's input on it.

22 THE COURT: Okay. I mean, a couple of things come to 23 mind. One is I am just flabbergasted that they would have any 24 availability. I know they're -- I'm aware of Judge Jones 25 doing hearings on weekends.

1 But second, I'm also concerned what is their idea of 2 availability. Because in order for a mediator to meaningfully 3 help you on this, I mean, it's going to take not just hours 4 but days of time, unless you want the mediator to just have a 5 30,000-foot view. And I mean, I just cannot imagine, --

6 MR. POMERANTZ: So, --

7 THE COURT: -- once again, that they would have days 8 and days to come up to speed with, you know, 11 years of 9 litigation or however long it was, not that long, with UBS, 10 you know the years with Acis, you know, the various alleged 11 claims and causes of action, and, you know, the Byzantine 12 structure here. I mean, you know, not that they have to be, 13 you know, as educated as a judge presiding over litigated 14 matters, but I just cannot imagine they could meaningfully 15 spend time on this.

16 So what are you all envisioning? Because I know what I'm 17 envisioning, and maybe we're not seeing it the same way. I 18 mean, what are you thinking? That you'll go in and spend a 19 day with, you know, maybe just each of you doing a 25-page 20 white paper, and you'll either settle it by the end of the day 21 or not, or what?

22 MR. POMERANTZ: So, let me start by saying that when 23 everyone raised the issue of Judge Jones and Isgur, everyone 24 had the same potential concern that Your Honor has mentioned.
25 You know, my firm and me personally, I'm involved in a couple

1 of cases before Judge Jones now, significant cases. So there 2 was a concern.

3 I think people also generally thought that if they 4 accepted and they knew what they were getting into, they would 5 want to do a good job and they'd have the time.

6 We have not had the ability to have an extensive 7 discussion. That discussion could either occur with Mr.
8 Clemente and myself speaking to the clerk or the judge, or if 9 Your Honor -- nothing stops Your Honor from picking up the 10 phone, speaking to Judge Jones and asking him as well.

11 But I expect it to be a very intensive mediation process.
12 I do understand that Judge Jones only does mediations in 13 person, so this would require people getting to Houston, 14 which, in my experience, while I have participated in 15 mediations virtually on the phone, it's a lot more effective 16 to be in person. We would anticipate detailed mediation 17 briefs. We would envision each of the parties speaking to 18 Judge Jones to give him their perspective. But it would be -- 19 it would be a significant assignment.

20 Again, whether we would conclude at the end of August, I 21 don't know, but I would contemplate a good two, three days of 22 in-person mediation at the end of August, and then probably, 23 if necessary, to set up for something else, which, again, 24 there are several different things. And I mentioned in my 25 opening remarks why I think people like Judge Jones -- and

1 this is also why we thought about Judge Isgur as well -- it's 2 not often you have two mediators, but two mediators, 3 especially judges who work together and who are pretty adept 4 at mediation, I mean, you know, having a bankruptcy judge be a 5 mediator is fine, but Judge Jones and Isgur, they have done a 6 lot of that, and I understand have continued to do that, 7 notwithstanding themselves getting busy.

8 So I can't answer Your Honor's question of whether they 9 know what they are getting themselves into. I would hope that 10 by, again, a combination, or Mr. Clemente and I speaking to 11 them or Your Honor speaking to them, they would understand.
12 And if they are willing to do it -- obviously, Highland is a 13 high-profile case; I know judges, sitting judges, often like 14 to help out their brethren who are sitting on the bench. So 15 if they are ready and able to do it, we'd think we'll have 16 lucked out, and we think they would be great to aid the 17 process.

18 If for some reason they don't really appreciate or if 19 Judge Jones doesn't appreciate what it is, then we can go back 20 to square one, and, you know, I'm sure find other people as 21 well. But we'd like to sort of give it a shot.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MR. BJORK: Your Honor?

24 THE COURT: Yes?

25 MR. BJORK: May I be heard? This is Jeff Bjork with

1 Latham, hi, on behalf of UBS. I apologize. I just wanted to 2 say that, from our perspective, we have concern, we raised 3 this concern about Judge Jones or Isgur having the time to 4 really evaluate the claims. I mean, as you noted, our claim 5 is complex, to say the least. So is Acis's. There's a lot of 6 history behind it.

7 And so while we appreciate the fact that there is a 8 mediation process that will be moving forward, we have raised 9 the prospect of having a separate mediator like Dan Weinstein 10 or someone of that ilk to serve as a mediator with respect to 11 our claim dispute, with the goal of trying to advance that in 12 advance of August.

13 So we have put that out to the Debtors. We raised that 14 today in advance of this hearing. We're happy to progress 15 that discussion. But I wanted you to understand, from our 16 perspective, we share your concern.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Anyone else?

18 MR. POMERANTZ: So, just on that, Your Honor, --

19 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

20 MR. POMERANTZ: -- you know, we understood UBS's 21 view. We believe each of the other Committee members and the 22 Committee believe Judge Jones would be the appropriate person.
23 And, again, I think we're all I think somewhat in the dark 24 here, and I think the next step is to really find out the time 25 that they have available to devote to it. And, again, if they

1 have the time to devote to it, I don't think Mr. Bjork could 2 challenge that Judge Jones would be an excellent mediator and 3 excellent to resolve a complicated issue like the UBS claim.

4 THE COURT: Uh-huh. But you all cannot go down to 5 Houston live anytime in the near future. I don't know if 6 you're reading. Houston is pretty much like New York was two 7 months ago. It's -- well, the death rate is not as terrible 8 because it's younger people getting it, but it's the hotspot 9 for coronavirus right now. And --

10 MR. POMERANTZ: And we understand that, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

12 MR. POMERANTZ: And, again, you know, we're sitting 13 here on July 8th. A lot could change by August 25th. A lot 14 couldn't change. I'm not, you know, I'm not sure there are 15 other places in the country people like to travel to more. I 16 mean, you know, --

17 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

18 MR. POMERANTZ: -- there are several places that are 19 hotspots. It may be challenging to do an in-person mediation.
20 I know on the Debtor's side we are committed to make it 21 happen. I might just ask Ms. Patel if she has the number of 22 the RV company she was going to -- because maybe that's an 23 appropriate way to get there.

24 THE COURT: All right. So, well, let's see. I was 25 going to say you'd be quarantined 14 days after, but you're in

1 California, not New York. New York, you know, has quarantined 2 --

3 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes.

4 THE COURT: -- people traveling from Texas. Well, 5 and remind me: August 25th. That was just sort of an 6 internal target date you all had created?

7 MR. POMERANTZ: Yeah. It was around, you know, 8 again, the end of August, you know, that we'd, you know, do 9 around that time.

10 THE COURT: Uh-huh. All right. You know, I'm -- 11 I've been talking to lawyers in different cases, where the 12 topic of mediation is being discussed, about more and more 13 mediators, and this is private mediators, are becoming very 14 adept with Zoom mediation. And what I thought was noteworthy 15 -- I hadn't thought through this, you know. I thought, well, 16 you can do mediation like this. You know, if you can do court 17 by video, why can't you do mediation by video, what's the big 18 deal? But there are private mediators who apparently have 19 become every adept very fast at having these separate caucus
20 rooms, okay? So when you have mediation involving, you know, 21 12 different constituencies, you know, the mediator will close 22 out all the other conference rooms and go to these three 23 people, and then close that out and go to these eight people 24 in this other room. And it just really hadn't occurred to me 25 that, oh, if you're not live and in person, how do you that,

1 you know, the going back and forth from room to room? And 2 they've got some tricks worked out where some of them are 3 doing that. And I just don't know that any sitting judges are 4 going to have that all worked out.

5 I have a couple of names in mind. And I have not talked 6 to either of these folks, but I had thought of these people.
7 You know, they're going to cost you money. They're not going 8 to be free mediators like Judge Jones and Judge Isgur. But 9 two people. One, I had thought of retired Judge Jim Peck. I 10 don't know if he has availability, or, you know, a conflict or 11 anything like that, but he's someone I happened to have gone 12 to baby judge school with back in 2006, and, you know, have 13 somewhat of a friendship with him. And I thought of him 14 because not only does he have a personality that I think might 15 fit this situation, but, as you know if you ever had a case 16 with him, I mean, he's just so very smart. You know, he dealt 17 -- handled the Lehman case. You know, he's not going to be -- 18 he'll be a very quick study, is what I'm thinking, as far as 19 whatever factual background he would need to assemble to get 20 up to speed.

21 And, again, I just worry -- and I'm going to get on the 22 phone and talk to Judge Jones and Judge Isgur -- but I'm just 23 really worried if they will devote the amount of time for this 24 to have a meaningful shot at settling.

25 Another name I thought of is a lawyer in Houston who was

1 at Weil Gotshal many years, Sylvia Mayer. I don't know if any 2 of you know her, but she pretty much does mediation and 3 arbitration full-time now, and she is one of the people I am 4 aware has mastered this Zoom separate conference rooms. So, 5 once again, you know, a very quick study, I think, my 6 impression from past dealings with her.

7 There may be many other names we could add to that list, 8 but you might want to all kind of talk offline about those as 9 well.

10 But here's what I want to do.

11 (Audio interruption.)

12 THE COURT: Was someone wanting to speak up?

13 Okay. I am going to think on this more between now and 14 the 14th. And, again, I'm going to be reaching out to Isgur 15 and Jones, and might reach out to Jim Peck and Sylvia Mayer as 16 well, just to have a lot of options out there. And then we'll 17 talk on the 14th about what my research has revealed in 18 talking to these folks.

19 So, everyone, just let's continue to think on this 20 mediation thing. But, again, I want this to be meaningful.
21 I'm very worried that, you know, if all you get is one day, 22 even a long day, with these folks, that it's just not at all 23 realistic that there would be a chance at settling. So I've 24 really got to think on this.

25 As far as the motions before the Court, I'm going to grant

1 the motion to extend exclusivity for 30 days. Okay? So,
2 August 12th. And no potential add-ons for two 30-day
3 additional extensions, which, you know, the mechanism, I think 4 you were hoping not to have to come back to the Court, that if 5 the Committee agreed, you know, you could just automatically 6 get up to 90 days. I'm not quite clear. But the point is I'm 7 just extending to August 12th, and for now that's all I'm 8 going to do. Okay?

9 MR. POMERANTZ: Understood, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: And we didn't talk about the other 11 motion. That was sort of a no-brainer, I think, as far as 12 everyone was probably concerned, the motion to extend the 13 period to remove actions. The current deadline is July 14th.
14 You're wanting to extend that out to January 14th, 2021,
15 correct?

16 MR. POMERANTZ: Correct, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: All right. Is there anyone who wanted to 18 say anything about that one?

19 (No response.)

20 THE COURT: All right. So that -- I think there's 21 good cause to grant that motion as well.

22 The only other thing --

23 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, one --

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. POMERANTZ: One comment on what Your Honor said

1 about mediation. Again, I had a dialog with Albert, Judge
2 Jones' clerk. We may want to get him on the phone, Mr.
3 Clemente and I. Of course, we won't do it if Your Honor 4 doesn't think it's helpful. But it might be helpful. And,
5 again, I didn't know if that was going to be with Judge Jones 6 or if it was going to be with just his clerk, to talk about 7 days or whatnot.

8 But we'd be happy to get on the phone in order to give him 9 the parties' perspective, which, look, we all agree this has 10 to be a meaningful mediation. And perhaps hearing it also 11 from us in terms of what we expect and what we contemplate and 12 what we think the issues might be and whatnot could be 13 helpful.

14 If Your Honor doesn't want us to do that, that's fine.
15 But since I suspect his clerk will get back to me and say "Are 16 you available?" to Mr. Clemente and I, I just didn't want to 17 step on any toes and I wanted to check with Your Honor whether 18 you want us to take that call or not.

19 THE COURT: Okay. I got a little confused. You're 20 asking for a blessing to kind of continue the dialogue you've 21 already started with their offices?

22 MR. POMERANTZ: Well, I'm just asking. Again, I 23 don't want to be presumptuous.

24 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

25 MR. POMERANTZ: The fact that Your Honor is calling

1 Judge Jones is important. But I expect Judge Jones' clerk to 2 get back to us and say, "Are you available to have a 3 conversation?" And I just want to know what Your Honor's 4 pleasure is in terms of whether we should have it or not. I
5 think it might be helpful, but if Your Honor says, okay, 6 you've brought it here, you want to take it over from here, I 7 would obviously respect that. But just, just wanted to come 8 out of this hearing clear on what your expectations are in 9 terms of that communication.

10 THE COURT: Okay. I'll take it from here. And if 11 they call back, just say, you know, I understand Judge 12 Jernigan is going to be calling Judge Jones directly. And so 13 -- but I'll get on the phone this afternoon, so hopefully 14 there won't be any awkwardness on that.

15 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: All right. Anything else?

17 The only other thing I was going to tie back to is I fully 18 expect that there would be across-the-board agreement to abate 19 the Acis newly-filed adversary, so I hope I would -- I don't 20 even remember who all the defendants are, but please make that 21 a priority, talking about that in the next few days, and 22 report to me on that on the 14th. Okay? Ms. Patel?

23 MS. PATEL: From Acis's perspective, yes, Your Honor, 24 will do. I'm on -- I'm all over it.

25 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Well, if there's 1 nothing else, we'll go ahead and adjourn for today. And I'll 2 keep -- if there's anything worthwhile to report on the 3 mediation front before we have our hearing on the 14th, I'll 4 have my courtroom deputy reach out to all counsel by email and 5 let you know. Okay? All right.

6 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you very much, Your Honor.

7 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Thank you. We stand adjourned.

9 THE CLERK: All rise.

¹ The Debtor's last four digits of its taxpayer identification number are (6725). The headquarters and service address for the above-captioned Debtor is 300 Crescent Court, Suite 700, Dallas, TX 75201.

² All capitalized terms used but not defined herein shall have the meanings given to them in the Motion of the Debtor for Entry of an Order Authorizing, But Not Directing, the Debtor to Cause Distributions to Certain "Related Entities" [Docket No. 474].

HCM Services have reached an agreement on the deposit of certain funds into the Court Registry System, administered by the Administrative Office of the United States Courts under 28 U.S.C. § 2045 (the “Court Registry”) in lieu of distribution of such funds to CLOH and HCM Services, as applicable, it is hereby ORDERED THAT:

1. Unless subsequently ordered otherwise by this Court, the Debtor is directed to pay or to cause the payment of:

a. $84,062.32 otherwise payable to CLOH from Dynamic and any subsequent amounts otherwise payable to CLOH from Dynamic as a deposit into the Court Registry;

b. $20,830.29 otherwise payable to CLOH from AROF and any subsequent amounts otherwise payable to CLOH from AROF as a deposit into the Court Registry; and

c. $30,715.92 otherwise payable to HCM Services from RCP and any subsequent amounts otherwise payable to HCM Services from RCP as a deposit into the Court Registry.

2. The deposit of the foregoing amounts (collectively, the “Payments”) into the Court Registry will be done in each case in accordance with General Order 2016-03, Order Regarding Deposit and Investment of Registry Funds, entered by the United States Bankruptcy Court of the Northern District of Texas on November 17, 2016 (the “General Order”). For the avoidance of doubt, this Order shall constitute the Court’s express order authorizing the deposit or transfer of funds into the Court Registry as required by the terms of the General Order, and the Clerk of Court shall accept this Order as the requisite order of the Court permitting the deposit or transfer of funds into the Court Registry.

3. The deposit of the foregoing Payments into the Court Registry will constitute payment of such amounts in each case in accordance with the Dynamic Fund Documents, the AROF Fund Documents, and the RCP Fund Documents, as applicable, and none of the Debtor, the Funds, the applicable governing or managing entity of each of the Funds, or any other party will have any liability to any of CLOH, HCM Services, or any person that owns or controls CLOH or HCM Services arising out of or from such party's compliance with this Order.

4. CLOH and HCM Services may seek the release of the funds deposited into the Court Registry pursuant to this Order in each case in accordance with the General Order.

5. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary and for the avoidance of doubt, nothing in this Order shall prevent or otherwise hinder distributions to be made to any other investor in Dynamic, AROF, or RCP, and such distributions may be made in each case in accordance with the Dynamic Fund Documents, the AROF Fund Documents, or the RCP Fund Documents, as applicable.

6. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary and for the avoidance of doubt, this Order does not alter the rights of any parties with respect to the monies deposited into the Court Registry pursuant to this Order.

7. Notwithstanding any stay under applicable Bankruptcy Rules, this Order shall be effective immediately upon entry.

8. The Court shall retain jurisdiction over all matters arising from or related to the interpretation and implementation of this Order.

EXHIBIT 1

Engagement Agreement

005561

[REDACTED]

June 23, 2020

CONFIDENTIAL

The Board of Directors of Strand Advisors, Inc.
c/o Highland Capital Management, L.P.
300 Crescent Court, Suite 700
Dallas, Texas 75201

Re: Highland Capital Management L.P. (the "Company")

Dear Fellow Board Members:

This letter agreement ("Agreement") sets forth the terms and conditions of the engagement of the undersigned James P. Seery, Jr. ("I", "me" or "my"), as Chief Executive Officer ("CEO") and Chief Restructuring Officer ("CRO"), effective as of March 15, 2020 (the "Commencement Date"), by the Company and its affiliates to perform financial advisory services as detailed below.

I appreciate the trust you have placed in me by asking me to assume these roles and thank you for the opportunity to continue to work with you to restructure the Company.

Roles:

I will serve as the CEO and CRO of the Company during its Chapter 11 bankruptcy case (the "Bankruptcy Case") currently pending in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas (the "Bankruptcy Court").

In those roles, I will be responsible for overall management of the business of the Company in Chapter 11 including, directing the reorganization and restructuring of the Company, monetization of assets, resolution of claims, development and negotiation of a plan of reorganization or liquidation, and implementation of such a plan.

My direct reports will include the individuals at the Company that currently report to the Board of Directors of Strand Advisors, Inc. (the "Board") or such other individuals employed by the Company as I determine should report to directly to me. In the event that the Board determines to restructure the reporting lines or functions of the Company, my direct reports will be amended in accordance with the Board approved restructuring.

At all times, I will remain a full member of the Board entitled to vote on all matters other than those on which I am conflicted.

I will devote as much time to this engagement as I determine is required to execute my responsibilities as CEO and CRO. I will have no specific on-site requirements in Dallas, but will be on site as much as I determine is necessary to execute my responsibilities as CEO and CRO, consistent with Covid-19 orders applicable to Dallas and New York City.

Limitations on Services

My services under this engagement are limited to those specifically noted in this Agreement and do not include legal, accounting, or tax-related assistance or advisory services. For the avoidance of doubt, I am not providing any legal services in connection with this engagement and will have not any duties as a lawyer to the Company, the Board, or any of the Company's employees. The accuracy and completeness of all information submitted to me by the Company are the sole responsibility of the Company, and I will be entitled to rely on such information without independent investigation or verification.

In my role as CEO and CRO, I will act as an independent professional contractor to the Company and will not be an employee of the Company. I will provide and pay for my own benefits, including medical benefits, by J.P Seery & Co. LLC or otherwise.

Fees and Expenses:

In consideration of my acceptance of this engagement and performance of the services pursuant to this Agreement, the Company shall pay the following:

1. Compensation for Services:

- a. Base Compensation: As compensation for my services as CEO and CRO of the Company, the Company shall pay me $150,000.00 per calendar month ("Base Compensation"). Base Compensation shall be due and payable at the start of each calendar month. Consistent with current Board compensation practice, invoices rendered by me to the Company are due and payable by the Company on receipt. Payment of the Base Compensation will be retroactive to March 15, 2020.
- b. Bonus Compensation/Restructuring Fee:
 - i. The Company has agreed to pay me a restructuring fee upon confirmation of either a Case Resolution Plan or a Monetization Vehicle Plan in each case as defined below (the "Restructuring Fee").
 - ii. Case Resolution Restructuring Plan
 1. On confirmation of any plan or reorganization or liquidation based on resolution of a material amount of the outstanding claims and their respective treatment, even if such plan includes (x) a debtor/creditor trust or similar monetization and claims resolution vehicle, (y) post-confirmation litigation of certain of the claims, and (z) post-confirmation monetization of debtor assets (a "Case Resolution Plan"):
 - a. $1,000,000 on confirmation of the Case Resolution Plan;
 - b. $500,000 on the effective date of the Case Resolution Plan; and
 - c. $750,000 on completion of cash or property distributions to creditors as contemplated by the Case Resolution Plan.

iii. Debtor/Creditor Monetization Vehicle Restructuring Fee:

1. On confirmation of any plan or reorganization or liquidation based on a debtor/creditor trust or similar asset monetization and claims resolution vehicle that does not include agreement among the debtor and creditors on a material amount of the outstanding claims and their respective treatment at confirmation (a "Monetization Vehicle Plan"):
 - a. $500,000 on confirmation of the Monetization Vehicle Plan;
 - b. $250,000 on the effective date of the Monetization Vehicle Plan; and
 - c. A contingent restructuring fee to be determined by the board or oversight committee installed to oversee the implementation of any Monetization Vehicle Plan based on the CEO/CRO (or acting as trustee) based upon performance under the plan after all material distributions under the Monetization Vehicle Plan are made.
2. Out-of-Pocket Expenses: In addition to the Base and Bonus Compensation, I shall be entitled to reimbursement for actual and reasonable out-of-pocket expenses ("Expenses") incurred in connection with the provision of services hereunder. Expenses will be billed along with Base Compensation and shall be paid by the Company at the same time. Expenses will be generally consistent with expenses incurred to date as a member of the Board.

Bankruptcy Court Approval

Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, I understand that this Agreement is contingent, in all respects, on the approval of the Bankruptcy Court. I also understand that the Company will seek approval of this Agreement in stages and that the Company will first seek approval of my retention as CEO and CRO and the payment of the Base Compensation and will defer seeking Bankruptcy Court approval of the Restructuring Fee until there have been further developments in the Bankruptcy Case.

Conflicts and Other Engagements

I am not aware of any potential conflicts of interest based on my understanding of the various parties involved in this matter to date.

The Company is aware that this engagement is not an exclusive engagement of my time, and that I have and will continue to have other business engagements and investments unrelated to the Company. Nothing in this Agreement or otherwise precludes me from representing or working with or for any other person or entity in matters not directly related to the services being provided to the Company under this Agreement. However, I will not take on any engagements directly adverse to the Company during the term of this engagement.

Privilege

I understand that in the course of this engagement, I may become party to or my services may become part of work product of legal counsel to the Company (the Company's in-house and outside counsel are collectively referred to as "Counsel"), and all communications between Counsel and me relating to this engagement shall be protected from disclosure to third parties under the attorney work product doctrine and/or the attorney-client privilege, and, therefore, shall be treated by me as privileged and confidential. I further understand that the Company has the exclusive right to waive the attorney-client privilege, and Counsel has the exclusive right to waive the protections afforded under the attorney work-product doctrine.

Termination of Engagement

This Agreement may be terminated at any time by either the Company or by me upon two weeks advance written notice given to the other party. The termination of this Agreement shall not affect my right to receive, and the Company's obligation to pay, any and all Base Compensation and Expenses incurred (even if not billed) prior to the giving of the termination notice; provided, however, that (i) if this Agreement is terminated by me, the amount of Base Compensation owed shall be calculated based on the actual number of days worked during the applicable month and I will return any Base Compensation received in excess of such amount and (ii) if this Agreement is terminated by the Company, Base Compensation shall be deemed fully earned as of the first day of any month. Bonus Compensation shall be earned by me immediately upon termination of me by the Company; provided, however, I shall not be entitled to Bonus Compensation if (a) the Bankruptcy Case is converted to chapter 7 or dismissed; (b) a chapter 11 trustee is appointed in the Bankruptcy Case; (c) I am terminated by the Company for Cause; or (d) I resign prior to confirmation of a plan or court approval of a sale as described in the Fees and Expense/Compensation for Services section hereof. For purposes of this Agreement, "Cause" means any of the following grounds for termination of my engagement, in each case as reasonably determined by the Board within 60 days of the Board becoming aware of the existence of the event or circumstance: (A) fraud, embezzlement, or any act of moral turpitude or willful misconduct on my part; (B) conviction of or the entry of a plea of nolo contendere by me for any felony; (C) the willful breach by me of any material term of this Agreement; or (D) the willful failure or refusal by me to perform my duties to the Company, which, if capable of being cured, is not cured on or before fifteen (15) days after my receipt of written notice from the Company.

Conditional Requirement to Seek Further Bankruptcy Court Approval of Agreement

The official committee of unsecured creditors in the Bankruptcy Case (the "Committee") may, upon two weeks advance written notice to the Company, require the Company to file a motion with the Bankruptcy Court on normal notice seeking a continuation of this Agreement and if such motion is not filed, this Agreement will terminate at the expiration of such two week period. If the Company files such motion, I will be entitled to my Base Compensation through and including the date on which a final order is entered on such motion by the Bankruptcy Court. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the Committee may not deliver such notice to the Company until a date which is more than ninety days following the date the Bankruptcy Court enters an order approving this Agreement.

Indemnification

As a material part of the consideration to me under this Agreement, the Company agrees (i) to indemnify and hold harmless me and any of my affiliates (the “Indemnified Party”), to the fullest extent lawful, from and against any and all losses, claims, costs, damages or liabilities (or actions in respect thereof), joint or several, arising out of or related to this Agreement, my engagement under this Agreement, or any actions taken or omitted to be taken by me or the Company in connection with this Agreement and (ii) to reimburse the Indemnified Party for all expenses (including, without limitation, the reasonable fees and expenses of counsel) as they are incurred in connection with investigating, preparing, pursuing, defending, settling or compromising any action, suit, dispute, inquiry, investigation or proceeding, pending or threatened, brought by or against any person (including, without limitation, any shareholder or derivative action, or any fee dispute), arising out of or relating to this Agreement, or such engagement, or actions. However, the Company shall not be liable under the foregoing indemnity and reimbursement agreement for any loss, claim, damage or liability which is finally judicially determined by a court of competent jurisdiction to have resulted primarily from the willful misconduct or gross negligence of the Indemnified Party.

The indemnification and insurance currently covering my role as a director shall be extended to me and fully cover me as provided therein in my roles as CEO and CRO.

This Agreement (a) constitutes the entire agreement of the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof and supersedes any other communications, understandings or agreements among the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof, and (b) may be modified, amended or supplemented only by written agreement among all the parties hereto.

This Agreement is subject to approval by the Bankruptcy Court. As part of such approval the Company shall request that any such order approving this Agreement contain a provision extending the protections afforded to me as a Board Member pursuant to Paragraph 10 of the Order Approving Settlement with Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors Regarding Governance of the Debtor and Procedures for Operations in the Ordinary Course entered by the Bankruptcy Court on January 9, 2020 [Docket No. 339] to my role as CEO and CRO, which Order prohibits the commencement of any action against me without first obtaining Bankruptcy Court approval to initiate such action.

This Agreement and all controversies arising from or related to performance hereunder shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of New York. The parties hereby submit to the jurisdiction of and venue in the federal and state courts located in New York City and waive any right to trial by jury in connection with any dispute related to this Agreement.

This Agreement shall be binding upon the parties and their respective successors and assigns, and no other person shall acquire or have any right under or by virtue of this Agreement.

Failure of any party at any time to require performance of any provision of this Agreement shall not affect the right to require full performance thereof at any time thereafter, and the waiver by any party of a breach of such provisions shall not be taken as or held to be a waiver of any subsequent breach or as nullifying the effectiveness of such provision.

Notices provided for in this Agreement shall be in writing and shall be deemed to have been duly given when delivered by hand or overnight courier or three days after it has been mailed by United States registered mail, return receipt requested, postage prepaid, addressed to the respective address set forth above in this Agreement, or to such other address as either party may have furnished to the other in writing in accordance herewith.

This Agreement and my rights and duties hereunder shall not be assignable or delegable by me.

The Company may withhold from any amounts payable under this Agreement such Federal, state and local taxes as may be required to be withheld pursuant to any applicable law or regulation.

This Agreement may be executed (including by electronic execution) in any number of counterparts, each of which when so executed shall be deemed an original, but all such counterparts shall constitute one and the same instrument. Delivery of an executed counterpart of this Agreement by electronic mail shall have the same force and effect as the delivery of an original executed counterpart of this Agreement.

Please confirm the foregoing is in accordance with your understanding by signing and returning a copy of this Agreement, whereupon it shall become binding and enforceable in accordance with its terms.

1 DALLAS, TEXAS - JULY 14, 2020 - 1:34 P.M.

2 THE COURT: ... to get lawyer appearances. First,
3 for the Debtor, do we have some Pachulski lawyers on the 4 phone? Please make your appearance.

5 MR. POMERANTZ: Good morning, Your Honor. It's 6 Jeffrey Pomerantz; Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones. Also with 7 me are John Morris, and then listening in are Greg Demo and 8 Ira Kharasch.

9 THE COURT: All right. Thank you all. And do we 10 have any Hayward lawyers on the phone?

11 MR. ANNABLE: Yes, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: I presume that was Mr. Annable.

13 MR. ANNABLE: Yes, Your Honor. Sorry. My mic's not 14 picking up. It's Zachery Annable and Melissa Hayward --

15 THE COURT: All right.

16 MR. ANNABLE: -- as local counsel for the Debtor.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. For the Unsecured
18 Creditors' Committee, who do we have from Sidley Austin?

19 MR. CLEMENTE: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Matthew 20 Clemente from Sidley Austin, and Paige Montgomery is also on 21 the phone.

22 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. All right. I'll 23 go to some of our usual appearances. Do we have lawyers for 24 the Redeemer Committee this afternoon? (No response.) All 25 right.

1 MS. MASCHERIN: Yes. Excuse me, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: Yes?

3 MS. MASCHERIN: This is Terri Mascherin. I wasn't 4 sure whether I had the microphone on mute or not.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MS. MASCHERIN: I apologize. Terri Mascherin, Jenner
7 & Block. My colleague, Marc Hankin, is on the phone. And I 8 believe that Mark Platt is also on the line.

9 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. What about UBS?
10 Anyone wanting to appear for UBS?

11 MR. CLUBOK: Yes. Good afternoon, Your Honor. This 12 is Andrew Clubok from Latham & Watkins, LLP. And my partner, 13 Kimberly Posin, is on as well.

14 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. What about for Acis?
15 Any lawyers appearing for Acis?

16 MS. PATEL: Yes. Good afternoon, Your Honor. Rakhee
17 Patel of the Winstead firm and Brian Shaw of the Rogge Dunn 18 Group appearing on behalf of Acis.

19 THE COURT: All right. Do we have Mr. Lynn or Mr.
20 Bonds for James Dondero? (No response.) Maybe not. All 21 right. Is there anyone else who wishes to appear for today's 22 hearings?

23 MR. NEIER: Good afternoon, Your Honor. David Neier 24 of Winston & Strawn making a reappearance, but this time for 25 several employees of Highland: Mr. Leventon, Mr. Sevilla, Mr.

1 Ellington, several others.

2 THE COURT: Oh, okay. Thank you. Any other 3 appearances today?

4 (No response.)

5 THE COURT: All right. I'll assume everyone else is 6 just going to observe.

7 Well, we have two employment applications. Mr. Pomerantz, 8 how did you want to proceed on those?

9 MR. POMERANTZ: So, Your Honor, we have the two 10 motions to present, Your Honor. I'm happy to say that neither 11 of them are opposed.

12 Before I present the motions to Your Honor, I wanted to 13 ask if Your Honor would like to address the mediation issues 14 at the conclusion of the hearing or prior to the presentation 15 of the motions.

16 THE COURT: At the conclusion. Thank you.

17 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

18 Your Honor, the first motion on the docket today is a 19 Motion to Appoint James Seery as the Debtors' chief executive 20 officer and chief restructuring officer, effective as of March 21 15th, which is about the time that Mr. Seery began performing 22 the services as the chief executive officer.

23 While there's a good argument that the retention of a 24 chief executive officer is in the ordinary course of business 25 and does not require court approval, the Debtor, out of an

1 abundance of caution, filed the motion, and the motion seeks 2 approval of the agreement which is attached to the motion.

3 The second motion, Your Honor, is a Motion to Approve the 4 Retention of DSI as the Debtors' Financial Advisor. And as 5 the Court is aware, Mr. Sharp, a managing director of DSI, was 6 approved as the Debtors' Chief Restructuring Officer pursuant 7 to this Court's January 10th order.

8 Although Mr. Seery is proposed to replace Mr. Sharp as the 9 Debtors' Chief Restructuring Officer, Mr. Seery still requires 10 the financial assistance and advisory support that DSI has 11 been providing to him, the Board, and the Debtor for several 12 months.

13 While each of these motions, as I mentioned, Your Honor, 14 are unopposed, we plan to put on the testimony of James Seery, 15 John Dubel, and Brad Sharp to provide the Court with the 16 evidentiary basis to support the relief that is requested.
17 And with the testimony, Your Honor, we intend to accomplish 18 several things.

19 First, Your Honor, in light of our exchange at the hearing 20 on July 8th, we thought it'd be appropriate for Mr. Seery to 21 provide a more fulsome response to Your Honor regarding the 22 nature and extent of the Debtors' operations and assets and 23 the variety of significant activities that the Board in 24 general and Mr. Seery as the chief executive officer has been 25 performing over the last several months.

1 We think this is very important, Your Honor, given that 2 the Debtor has substantial and multiple complex business 3 operations that it oversees that are in -- that are in 4 subsidiaries outside of Chapter 11 or are in entities managed 5 by the Debtor and also not in Chapter 11. And the Court, we 6 appreciate, especially in light of Your Honor's comments, does 7 not have the benefit of seeing what is really going on. So 8 we're hoping, by Mr. Seery's testimony, it will provide Your 9 Honor with a much clear picture, and, quite frankly, a better 10 job doing it than I was able to do last week.

11 Mr. Seery's testimony will support the need for the 12 retention of the chief executive officer and why his 13 particular background and qualifications made him the 14 appropriate choice for the role.

15 Second, Mr. Dubel, as the chairman of the compensation 16 committee of the Board, will testify regarding the process 17 undertaken by the compensation committee that led to the 18 conclusion to ask Mr. Seery to become the chief executive 19 officer and the agreement -- under the terms and conditions 20 set forth in the agreement.

21 Lastly, Mr. Sharp will testify regarding the activities he 22 and DSI have been performing since the commencement of the 23 case, the assistance they have been providing to Mr. Seery 24 over the last few months, and how the nature and extent of the 25 services they are providing will essentially remain the same

1 if Your Honor approves the motion to employ Mr. Seery.

2 Before I turn the virtual podium over to my partner, John 3 Morris, to present the testimony, Your Honor, I thought I 4 would provide the Court with a brief summary of the events
5 leading to the Debtors' filing of the motion.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. POMERANTZ: As Your Honor will recall, the Court 8 entered an order on January 9th approving a settlement between 9 the Debtor and the Committee, and a significant part of that 10 settlement involved modifications to the Debtors' corporate 11 governance that resulted in the installation of the 12 Independent Board.

13 The term sheet that was attached in the settlement motion 14 specifically contemplated that the Independent Board, in 15 consultation with the Committee, would determine whether it 16 was appropriate to retain a chief executive officer, and 17 further went on to say that the chief executive officer could 18 be a member of the Board.

19 And the retention of a chief executive officer was on 20 everyone's minds from the beginning, because since Mr.
21 Dondero's authority as the CEO of the Debtor was being 22 terminated in connection with the settlement, the Debtor and 23 the Committee contemplated that, in order to manage a dynamic 24 and widespread asset management platform like Highland's, that 25 the retention of a chief executive officer may very well be

1 necessary.

2 I will leave it to Mr. Seery and Mr. Dubel to explain to 3 the Court what transpired during the early stages of the case
4 and the decision-making process that led to Mr. Seery starting 5 to act as the Debtors' chief executive officer. And I would 6 also leave it to Mr. Dubel to discuss the sequence of events 7 which led from the appointment of him as the chief executive 8 officer through the filing of the motion that brings us here 9 today, which events will include the establishment of a 10 compensation committee; the commissioning of a report from the 11 Debtors' compensation expert, Mercer; the procurement of the 12 Debtors' [sic] and officers insurance coverage to cover Mr.
13 Seery and Mr. Dubel; the negotiations over the (inaudible) of 14 Mr. Seery; and lastly, the negotiations with the Committee 15 which has resulted in the motion being fully consensual.

16 I'll also leave it to Mr. Seery to explain his personal -- 17 professional background and why he was qualified to fill that 18 role.

19 The agreement, Your Honor, between Mr. Seery and the 20 Debtor includes the following material provisions.

21 First, there would be base compensation at the rate of 22 $150,000 a month, retroactive to March 15th. And while Mr.
23 Seery will remain on the Board as part of his role as the 24 chief executive officer, the $150,000 per month would cover 25 his services not only as a CEO but also a member of the Board.

1 In other words, the Board fees that were agreed to back in 2 January of $60,000 a month, $50,000 a month, and $30,000 a 3 month would be replaced by the $150,000 a month commencing on 4 March 15th.

5 While the compensation committee and Mr. Seery reached 6 agreement on the structure of potential bonus compensation, 7 the Committee has not agreed to that proposed structure. As a 8 result, the compensation committee and Mr. Seery decided that 9 approval sought in this motion would only be the monthly 10 compensation and the other non-economic terms, but would not 11 include the bonus compensation. Any bonus compensation sought 12 to be paid to Mr. Seery would be pursuant to a separate motion 13 filed, if at all, a lot later in the case.

14 The Committee was also uncomfortable with the open-ended 15 nature of the agreement and wanted some control in being able 16 to seek to terminate it. To accommodate the Committee, Mr.
17 Seery and the Debtor agreed to the following: After 90 days 18 from the date the Court enters an order approving this 19 agreement, if the Court is inclined to do so, the Committee 20 may provide the Debtor with notice that it does not want the 21 agreement to continue. The Debtor would then have two weeks 22 to file a motion on normal notice seeking to extend the date
23 of the agreement, and Mr. Seery would be entitled to his base 24 compensation until the Court ruled on the motion.

25 Also, the Committee asked us that be made clear in the 1 order, which we've done, that Mr. Seery's retention would 2 terminate on the effective date on the plan, subject, of 3 course, of his right to seek bonus compensation pursuant to a 4 separate motion. The agreement also contains standard 5 reimbursement and indemnification provisions.

6 Your Honor, those conclude my initial remarks. I'm happy
7 to take questions. And then, at the appropriate time, I 8 return it over to Mr. Morris, who will put on the testimony of 9 Mr. Seery, Mr. Dubel, and Mr. Sharp.

10 THE COURT: All right. I'd like to pretty quickly 11 get to the evidence. So, I'll ask: Does anyone have a 12 burning desire to make an opening statement? If so, please 13 let's keep it brief.

14 (No response.)

15 THE COURT: All right. I assume everyone is content 16 to wait until the end and speak up in any way they want to 17 speak up.

18 Mr. Morris, are you ready to call your witness?

19 MR. MORRIS: I am, Your Honor. Can you hear me right 20 now?

21 THE COURT: I can. Thank you.

22 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Your Honor, this is John Morris 23 from Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones for the Debtor. As the 24 Debtors' first witness, we call James Seery.

25 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Seery, I need to swear

Seery - Direct

13

1 you in by video. So could you take your phone off mute and 2 please raise your right hand. Can you say Testing 1, 2, so I 3 know you're there?

4 MR. SEERY: Testing 1, 2.

5 THE COURT: All right.

6 JAMES P. SEERY, DEBTOR'S WITNESS, SWORN

7 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Mr. Morris?

8 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor. Before I begin 9 my questioning of Mr. Seery, the Debtor had filed its witness 10 list and its exhibit list. We provided copies of the exhibits 11 to the Court and to the Committee, and I would like to just 12 move into evidence Debtors' Exhibits 1 through 7 at this time.

13 THE COURT: All right. So I have in front of me 14 Docket Entry No. 822 with Exhibits 1 through 7. Any 15 objection? (No response.) All right. 1 through 7 are 16 admitted.

17 (Debtors' Exhibits 1 through 7 are received into 18 evidence.)

19 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor. And just as an 20 overview, so you have a sense of where we're going with Mr.
21 Seery's testimony, I am going to begin with some very brief 22 background questionings and then have Mr. Seery answer some 23 questions concerning the overview of the company and the 24 corporate structure of the company. You may have heard some 25 of this before, but I think in the context of a motion such as 005582

14

1 the appointment of a CEO, I think it would be helpful to hear 2 it all.

3 When I finish with that, we're going to move into the area
4 of the Board and the work that the Board has done and Mr.
5 Seery's work as a member of the Board.

6 And then we'll transition into really the meat of the 7 discussion here, and that is what has he done in his capacity 8 as CEO. And to be clear, he's not the CEO, he doesn't call 9 himself the CEO, but he's functioned as the CEO, and I think 10 that's the point that we want to present to the Court. And we 11 want to present to the Court the fact that he functioned as a 12 CEO really from day one of the process. And we're not going 13 to get into, you know, every single thing he's done, because 14 we'd be here for an awfully long time, but we do intend to 15 highlight a couple of the transactions that he worked on and 16 give you a sense of his role in trying to develop a plan and 17 resolving claims.

18 And I think, with that, you'll have a better understanding 19 of Mr. Seery, his role, and why we believe it's a proper 20 exercise of the Debtors' business judgment to appoint him as 21 CEO.

22 THE COURT: All right. Sounds good.

23 MR. MORRIS: All right.

1 Q Mr. Seery, can you hear me?

2 A I can. Can you hear me?

3 Q Yes, I can.

4 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, just one other point. I
5 have a legal assistant on the phone here. She's participating 6 in the WebEx. Her name is La Asia Canty. La Asia is going to 7 handle the exhibits when and if we need to put them up on the 8 screen. So we've tried to practice that, and hopefully it 9 will go smoothly, but I may turn to Ms. Canty from time to 10 time with some help with the exhibits.

11 THE COURT: All right. Fine.

12 BY MR. MORRIS:

13 Q Okay. Mr. -- what is your current relationship to the 14 Debtor?

15 A I'm an Independent Director of Strand, which is the 16 general partner of the Debtor.

17 Q All right. And when did you become the Independent 18 Director of Strand?

19 A On January 9th, along with John Dubel and Russ Nelms.

20 Q The Court has previously heard about your background, but 21 from a high level, can you just hit the highlights for the 22 Court as to your experience, et cetera?

23 A To go swiftly -- and if Your Honor wants me to go further, 24 I certainly can -- I was a restructuring and finance lawyer 25 for 10 years, handling virtually every type of restructuring

005584

Seery - Direct

16

1 matter as well as financing in distressed matters during that 2 time.

3 In 1999, I went to the business side and I began to manage
4 distressed assets at Lehman Brothers as well as a leverage
5 finance business. That grew into my running the risky finance 6 business as well as the loan business at Lehman globally, 7 which included high-grade loans, high-yield loans, trading and 8 sales of those products, a big part of distressed, all of 9 restructuring, all of asset management, and all of the hedging 10 of the portfolio that we had.

11 From there, I left Lehman with a small group and sold it 12 to Barclay's. I moved on and ran a hedge fund with two former 13 partners of mine who are the founding partners called River 14 Birch Capital. It was a long-short credit fund; mostly 15 credit, though we did structured finance as well, and we also 16 handled some equities.

17 Q Okay. Let's spend a few minutes, as a preview, talking 18 about the Debtor and its business. And let's start with the 19 basics. Is there a way you can summarize the business of the 20 Debtor?

21 A I think, from a high level, the best way to think about 22 the Debtor is that it's a registered investment advisor. As a 23 registered investment advisor, which is really any advisor of 24 third-party money over $25 million, it has to register with 25 the SEC, and it manages funds in many different ways.

005585

17

1 The Debtor manages approximately $200 million current 2 values -- it was more than that at the start of the case -- of 3 its own assets. It doesn't have to be a registered investment 4 advisor for those assets, but it does manage its own assets, 5 which include directly-owned securities; loans from mostly 6 related entities, but not all; and investments in certain 7 funds which it also manages.

8 In addition, the Debtor manages about roughly $2 billion 9 in -- $2 billion in total managed assets, around $2 billion in 10 CLO assets, and then other entities, which are hedge funds or 11 PE style.

12 In addition, the Debtor provides shared services for 13 approximately $6 billion of assets. Those are assets that are 14 owned by related entities but not owned by Debtor-owned or 15 managed entities. And those are a combination of back office 16 services, which include timely reporting, asset management, 17 legal and compliance support, trading and research support, 18 but not the actual management of the assets.

19 The Debtors run -- and I think the way to think about it 20 is on a functional basis; at least, that's the way I think 21 about it -- and there's really six areas. There's corporate 22 management; finance, accounting and tax; trading and research; 23 private equity and fund investing; compliance and legal; and 24 then structured equity, which really includes all of the CLO 25 businesses.

005586

Seery - Direct

18

1 The goals of the Debtor generally are what you'd expect 2 out of an asset manager. A little bit different than most 3 because the Debtor does own assets, which is a little 4 different than when money asset managers typically hold assets
5 away from the asset manager. But number one, discharge 6 Highland's, which I'll call Highland (inaudible), LP, duties 7 to investors in the funds. Those are fiduciary duties under 8 the Investment Advisors Act. Each day, you've got to make 9 sure that you do that first and foremost.

10 Number two, create positive MPD in each of the funds that 11 we manage, either through sales, purchases, or hedging.

12 Next, make sure that we report timely finances of our own 13 assets, including in the funds, but also, to the third-party 14 investors. Maximize the value of HCMLP's owned assets. And 15 then operate as efficiently as possible for the lowest cost.

16 That's essentially how the Debtor -- how we think about 17 the Debtor from a functional perspective. It's got about 70
18 employees laid out in those areas that I mentioned, and each 19 of those employees every day usually think about those goals 20 and try to discharge their duties by focusing on those goals.

21 Q Thank you, Mr. Seery. And can you describe for the Court 22 how those 70 or so employees are organized? Is there an 23 internal corporate structure that you're working with?

24 A Yeah. The way -- the way -- I apologize. The way we 25 think about it is, as I said, corporate management, which is 005587

Seery - Direct

19

1 really HR and overseeing the function that it's filling every 2 day, that's been really -- because Mr. Dondero was removed 3 from management. It used to all roll up to him. That's been 4 effectively rolling up to me since February.

5 Finance, accounting, and tax. Each of these businesses
6 every day require certain amounts of liquidity. Each of them 7 have requirements that they have to pay out to investors.
8 Each of them have expenses. And all of them have different 9 kinds of tax either obligations or reporting. Those are 10 managed by Frank Waterhouse as the CFO. (inaudible), sorry.

11 Trading and research. With respect to the assets, they're 12 not -- they're not static assets. Many of them do get traded 13 on a regular basis. A gentleman, Joe Sowin, heads up the 14 trading of the liquid assets. John Povish (phonetic) heads up 15 the research and the trading of the more illiquid assets, but 16 not PE. In addition, we have PE assets that require some 17 management every day, including Board seats. That's a 18 gentleman by the name of Cameron Baynard, and also he will 19 fund investments in that area. J.P. Sevilla is responsible 20 for working with Cameron on those investments and leading that 21 team.

22 Importantly, because of the nature of what the Debtor 23 does, the fiduciary obligations, as well as the 24 responsibilities to each investor and the legal overlay, we 25 have a robust compliance and legal department. That's headed

005588

20

1 by Thomas Surgent and Scott Ellington. Scott: more focused 2 on transactional issues with respect to legal. He is actually 3 general counsel. Everything that has do with compliance, the 4 interrelatedness of the funds, trading between funds or 5 positions that are shared across funds, which are many, runs 6 through Thomas Surgent and his team.

7 And finally, structured equity. Sitting on top of the 8 structured finance business that we have, understanding those 9 assets, particularly of two billion-ish assets in CLOs, that's 10 headed by Hunter Covitz.

11 Q Can you describe for the Court your interaction with each 12 of the department heads that you just identified?

13 A Well, depending on the nature of the issue each day, I 14 have at least -- I'd say generally at least weekly contact 15 with most, often daily contact with most. So, for example, 16 when there are trading issues, particularly as the market was 17 extremely volatile with respect to unliquid securities, Joe 18 Sowin and I were on the phone several times a day.

19 Relating to the COVID issues, Brian Collins, who heads the 20 HR group, and I were on the phone several times a day.

21 Relating to structured equity, depending on what's 22 happening with a particular fund or what's happening in loan 23 prices, I speak to Hunter Covitz. And it goes down the line.

24 So it really depends on each of the areas and what's going 25 on in the business, but I try to touch base with each of those

005589

21

1 department heads on a regular basis.

2 Frank Waterhouse, of course, is at least weekly. We have 3 a standing call every week to make sure that we're focused on 4 liquidity, which is always a concern in a Chapter 11, and 5 Frank and his team are on that call and prepare weekly 6 materials for us.

7 Q Okay.

8 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, before I move to the next 9 area of questions, the work of the Board, I just wanted to see 10 if the Court had any questions on the corporate organizational 11 structure, the internal structure of the business, or any of 12 the matters that Mr. Seery touched on?

13 THE COURT: I do not. And I do have in front of me a 14 demonstrative aid that Mr. Annable sent over ahead of time, so 15 I appreciate that as well.

16 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Your Honor, I think Mr. Seery
17 covered much of what's on that document, but if you'd like him 18 to go through that, we're happy to do it.

19 THE COURT: No, that's fine.

20 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

21 BY MR. MORRIS:

22 Q Then let's shift gears a little bit and start talking 23 about the work of the Independent Board itself. The 24 Independent Board was appointed in mid-January; is that right?

25 A Yeah. It was the first -- January 9th, the first week of 005590

22

1 January, and we started working that afternoon.

2 Q Okay. Can you describe for the Court what the -- the 3 Board's initial focus? What were you focused on?

4 A Well, if you think about the areas that I just mentioned 5 previously, the Board initially, for lack of a better term, 6 gang-tackled everything. So we tried to make sure that we had 7 a broad base of understanding among the three of us with 8 respect to the business.

9 I, because of my background, had a lot more familiarity 10 with asset management, these type of asset security 11 businesses. But we wanted to make sure that each of us was at 12 least facile with the main areas that we had to understand.
13 First was operations. How does the company run each day?
14 Particularly, how was it going to run without Mr. Dondero?
15 And I went through some of those functional areas and how we 16 thought about those and who head each of those.

17 Next in the -- I don't mean to say it's second, because 18 it's always first, but liquidity. What did the Debtors' 19 liquidity look like? How are we going to manage that 20 liquidity, not just for the near-term, but also for the 21 medium-term, and then even into the slightly longer-term? We 22 had to think about what assets are there, what money those 23 assets might need that we would have to invest in them, and 24 whether there was liquidity in those assets that we can create 25 liquidity in order to fund the Debtors' business.

005591

23

1 Personnel, we needed a good opportunity to understand who 2 did what, not just in the senior managers that I mentioned, 3 but deeper into the staff, because we're going to rely on 4 those folks. Particularly worked through with DSI.

5 As I mentioned, the Debtor, unlike a lot of other asset 6 managers, owns a lot of assets. It's a disparate group of 7 assets, but getting a feel and understanding for what those 8 assets were, what the critical issues surrounding those assets 9 are, who managed them day-to-day: We wanted to make sure that 10 each of the directors had a good (inaudible) and understanding 11 of those issues that might arise with respect to those assets, 12 and a good sense of how quickly those issues could, you know, 13 further arise.

14 We also had to get a very good understanding of each of 15 the funds that we manage. As I said, the Investment Advisors 16 Act puts a fiduciary duty on Highland Capital to discharge its 17 duty to the investors. So while we have duties to the estate, 18 we also have duties, as I mentioned in my last testimony, to 19 each of the investors in the funds.

20 Now, some of them are related parties, and those are a 21 little bit easier. Some of them are owned by Highland. But 22 there are third-party investors in these funds who have no 23 relation whatsoever to Highland, and we owe them a fiduciary 24 duty both to manage their assets prudently but also to seek to 25 maximize value. And we wanted to make sure we had a good

005592

Seery - Direct

24

1 understanding of that.

2 Finally, with respect to the shared service arrangements, 3 we needed to get an understanding of that $6 billion in assets
4 and how our business, HCMLP, worked with those -- those shared 5 service counterparties and exactly who did what for whom.
6 It's very complicated because it had been run much more on a 7 functional basis than on a line basis from each contract. So 8 it's not as if your employees are allocated to NexBank. It's 9 the whole panoply of businesses that we enter into, and 10 providing those services to NexBank, not through a central 11 point but through whatever requests come in from the counter-12 parties. So we needed a good understanding of what those 13 contracts looked and what those obligations were.

14 A VOICE: John, you're on mute.

15 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

16 BY MR. MORRIS:

17 Q All of that work was going on in the first weeks of the 18 appointment of the Board?

19 A Yeah, it would not be fair to say we could do that in a 20 couple weeks. So it took far longer than that. But that 21 didn't mean that issues didn't start to arise immediately in 22 February. And so, while we were learning, we were also 23 starting to get a feel for different things that could happen 24 in the company.

25 As in many companies, immediately, one of the first things

005593

Seery - Direct

25

1 you have to deal with is, particularly at the beginning of the 2 year, what does compensation look like; who are the -- what do 3 promotions look like; are you going to be able to hold this 4 team together to service these assets? And yeah, we had that,
5 with an additional wrinkle that Highland's payment structure 6 defers a significant amount of compensation to its employees, 7 and it vests over time, and it has the very typical provision 8 that if you are not there when it vests -- when it is going to 9 be paid, actually, not when it vests. Even if you're vested, 10 if you're not there when it gets paid, you're not entitled to 11 it. And so understanding who was owed what; how the vesting 12 worked; what the compensation structure looked like compared 13 to third parties, was one of the first things we had to do.
14 And Highland has an extremely robust review process. Brian 15 Collins manages it. It's first-rate. It goes through both 16 360 in terms of what other employees think of each other as 17 well as bottoms up, in terms of performance. And then it has 18 a top-down component, which ultimately ran through Mr.
19 Dondero. Since he was effectively removed from that role, the 20 Board had to jump in and get a full understanding with Brian 21 about what the process looked like; how it was going to work; 22 how it compared to other firms; and whether we could go 23 forward with it. And that was one of the motions that was 24 brought early to the Court.

25 A Let's talk a minute about the transactional work that the 005594

Seery - Direct

26

1 Board was called to focus on initially. Are you familiar with 2 the transactional protocols that the Debtor agreed to with the 3 Committee?

4 Q I am.

5 A Can you describe for the Court the impact those protocols
6 had on the Board's work?

7 Q Well, they make it extremely difficult. And I understand 8 the purposes behind the protocols. Was not involved in 9 negotiating them. However, because of the limitations they 10 put on the Debtor, they make it very difficult to manage 11 certain of the assets. So, if an asset needs money to invest 12 in it, depending on the size, it may need Committee approval.
13 If the -- if there are expenses that need to be paid from -- 14 in related entities, and the related entity does not have the 15 capital to make the expense payment, the Debtor needs to put 16 the money in. Can the Debtor put that money in without the 17 Committee's approval, and if the Committee doesn't approve, 18 would we have to go to Court?

19 So, the functioning on a day-to-day basis for how to deal 20 with those assets became very difficult. And that came up 21 really early, as the market started to get a lot more 22 volatility by mid-February. We saw with respect to the 23 internal accounts trades that we would have liked to put on, 24 for example, short position, where we just weren't able to put 25 the trades on.

005595

Seery - Direct

27

1 Now, we could go to the Committee, and we did, but 2 understanding why we wanted to put it on; explaining it; 3 presenting that opportunity to the Committee; and then having 4 them go to the full Committee with it: It's very cumbersome.
5 And the trading markets don't wait for a week to determine 6 whether that offering that you want to -- that you want to 7 access is available.

8 So, early on, we got a sense of how difficult it would be 9 to manage the business with the protocols.

10 One of the areas I think that was significant and that we 11 talked about significantly with the Committee was an entity 12 called Multi-Strat. Multi-Strat is a fund that is owned by 13 the Debtor. It's, in essence, a PUNY-style (phonetic) fund.
14 It's an older fund. And it's about 60 percent owned by the 15 Debtor and roughly 30 percent owned by Dondero-related 16 entities.

17 However, there are 90 million, roughly 89 million, 18 approximately, third-party redeemers who had redeemed in that 19 fund but have yet to be paid, so they're treated like equity 20 claims but they're a fixed dollar amount because they are set 21 at the date that they redeemed based on the NAV at that time, 22 the net asset claim.

23 So, we were -- we were stuck with looking at that fund and 24 trying to determine how do we best manage the fund to get up-25 side for the Debtor as well as the related entities that owned

005596

Seery - Direct

28

1 the equity, making sure that we treated the redeemed entities 2 as fiduciaries, so which we acted as their fiduciaries, but 3 then also assuring that we managed the assets that that fund 4 owns in a prudent way.

5 One of the large assets in that fund were 13 life
6 policies. And these are, in essence, life insurance policies
7 that the Debtor bought from third parties. And there's a 8 market that trades life policies, and they owned these 9 policies on (inaudible). The value at the time was marked 10 around $32 million when -- when we took control.

11 The problem with the policies and some of the other 12 expenses at Multi-Strat is that they didn't -- Multi-Strat 13 didn't have the funds to continue to pay premiums. So, if the 14 premiums weren't paid, that $32 million was at risk of going 15 to zero. Why? Because if the premiums aren't paid, the 16 policies lapse. And once they lapse, the insurance company 17 will pay you zero for them. They don't them buy them back 18 anywhere. That's the market. But we looked at those assets 19 and began to consider how we would fund, from a liquidity 20 perspective, monies going into Multi-Strat.

21 The amounts required would require CC's approval under the 22 protocols, and the Debtor prepetition had advanced monies to 23 Multi-Strat to make premium payments and other expenses at 24 Multi-Strat. We went to the Committee and were able to get 25 approval to put a couple million dollars in early on to keep

005597

Seery - Direct

29

1 the policies alive while we analyzed the best opportunity for 2 maximizing value with respect to those policies.

3 But thereafter, we needed additional money to try to 4 consider how to continue to maximize value, and the Committee 5 balked. So we went to Dondero-related entities, and they 6 actually put equity into the Multi-Strats. So we -- the 7 Debtor had made a postpetition, in essence -- it wasn't a 8 postpetition advance because it was going outside of the 9 Debtor, but postpetition, the Debtor made a loan to Multi-10 Strat to service the policies, and then Dondero-related 11 entities made an equity investment into Multi-Strat to 12 continue to service the policies.

13 Well, we understood as a Board but that wasn't going to 14 work and that the protocols were going to continue to hinder 15 us, so we entered into a sale process with respect to those 16 policies.

17 Q And the work that you're describing with respect to Multi-18 Strat, is that -- just to transition to your work as 19 functionary CEO, would it fall into that bucket as opposed to 20 the Board work that we were talking about earlier?

21 A Yeah, absolutely. I think the -- the initial assessment, 22 as I said, we made as a group. And we looked at what the 23 opportunity set was, and determined that, because of the 24 costs, we weren't going to be able to continue to fund money
25 into Multi-Strat to make those payments.

005598

Seery - Direct

30

1 So the Board asked me to take on trying to work out a 2 process to sell those policies. So, working with Fred Caruso
3 of DSI, we hired a broker, after interviewing a couple 4 different brokers. We considered the views of the internal 5 Highland team with respect to value and how to maximize that 6 value. We entered into a sale process for those policies, and 7 we ended up with a number of bidders and broke it down to two 8 bidders for the 13 policies, breaking up the policies to 9 maximize the value. They're only on eight lives, so it's not 10 fair to call it a portfolio. And so there's significant 11 amounts of premiums that have to be paid on a monthly basis 12 and going forward, and realizations on those policies are very 13 uncertain because it's hard to take them over an actuarial 14 methodology because there's only eight lives.

15 We tried to consider other ways to finance those policies, 16 but seven turned out to be, in our view, far and away the best 17 net present value for the investors in the fund.

18 The challenge that we had, as I mentioned, is the 19 complexity of Multi-Strat was also layered with a loan from 20 NexBank that was secured by four of the policies. That $32 21 million loan was also secured by the MGM stock owned by Multi-22 Strat.

23 And then, as we got towards closing, we learned that one 24 of the buyers wanted a more detailed title rep, and as we 25 peeled through, we found a long-dormant UBS fraudulent

005599

Seery - Direct

31

1 conveyance suit that had been brought against Multi-Strat.
2 There was no lien on the policies, but it made it impossible 3 for us to give the clean rep that the buyer wanted.

4 And at this point, I was running that with Fred Caruso, at 5 the request of the Board, and it became almost a full-time job 6 except for the five other things that we have to do during 7 April. And we negotiated a variety of different -- well, 8 considered a variety of different opportunities to try to 9 complete the sale.

10 First, I negotiated directly with UBS to see if they would 11 agree to a release, and then when the funds, other than 12 certain escrows which had to be paid out to NexBank as well as 13 repayment of the Debtors' fund, (inaudible), that didn't -- it 14 was very unfruitful in terms of those negotiations.

15 I then moved towards a potential bankruptcy of Multi-16 Strat, where we would file Multi-Strat, have to do a 363 sale, 17 have a DIP loan to service the NexBank monthly payments. That 18 seemed very expensive.

19 We also thought about doing it as not selling them, so 20 perhaps we would a 360 -- a filing without a sale and try to 21 maximize the value by holding onto the policies but have to 22 get financing.

23 Ultimately, we came up with a structure which was we 24 escrowed funds for UBS, $10 million of funds, but they're not 25 actually for UBS. We preserved all of our rights to defend

005600

Seery - Direct

32

1 the claims and we had paid down NexBank. We allocated funds
2 to make sure that we can pay NexBank for the next year before 3 their loan comes due. We allocated for all the expenses in 4 Multi-Strat. And then when we went back to the sellers, lo 5 and behold, one of the two sellers balked. Didn't -- or 6 buyers, I'm sorry. Balked. Didn't want to complete the sale.
7 And fortunately, our broker (inaudible) and Fred Caruso had 8 had another buyer in the wings, kept them warm, and were able 9 to complete the sale for $37 million.

10 So that goes to: How does this business function, what's 11 the complexity of it, and what have I and the rest of the 12 Board been doing? That was virtually a month's worth of work.

13 Q And when did the Board ask you, if you recall, to 14 undertake this project? When did it begin and when did it 15 end?

16 A Well, the initial project, around -- around Multi-Strat, 17 we started analyzing it as a group in January, the first week
18 we were there. I started probably taking control of it 19 sometime in mid-February, with Fred Caruso. So, DSI was 20 already on it. We were looking to work with the Debtors' team 21 as well as hire a broker. We, as a group, as a Board, made 22 the decision to sell the policies. Ultimately, we sold them 23 for about $37 million, which was -- which was more, a few 24 million dollars more than the mark on the policies when we 25 took them.

33

1 Q Can you give the Judge a sense of your role, as distinct 2 from the Board's role, how you went about completing or 3 attempting to complete all of the tasks that you've described 4 and the interaction with the Board and what the Board's role 5 was in assessing all of that?

6 A With respect to the Multi-Strat policies?

7 Q Uh-huh.

8 A I think, you know, initially, it was a understand, for the 9 three of us, understand the policies; understand the premium 10 obligations; understand what the benefits, the potential up-11 sides to those policies were; and understand what the risks 12 were if we were to fail to make a premium payment; what did 13 the lapse period look like. And we did that collectively.
14 From there, all of the individual work around -- we came up 15 with a strategy to sell the policies, and then the tactical 16 work with Fred Caruso about how to execute sale of the 17 policies and completing that sale through the issues NexBank, 18 through the issues with UBS, resolving those issues, that 19 became really my job.

20 Q Now, I do want to take a step back, because we kind of 21 transitioned from the Board to the work that you were doing, 22 and I wanted to ask: You're seeking -- the Debtor is seeking 23 to have you appointed as the CEO, right?

24 A Yes.

25 Q Can you just describe for Judge Jernigan your 005602

Seery - Direct

34

1 understanding of the duties and responsibilities of the CEO 2 position that we're seeking your appointment for?

3 A Sure. From a high level, it's -- I apologize. From a 4 high level, it's what I said earlier, which is the Board sets
5 the strategy, the CEO implements the strategy. And so I work 6 with the Highland team and the managers that I described 7 earlier, whose function that is, to try to execute on that 8 strategy. So that's, that's the basic overlay of what we do.
9 But that includes everything from, as I mentioned, personnel 10 issues to COVID-19 protocol to determining whether we're going 11 to sell certain assets and then how we're going to sell them, 12 determining how we'll resolve issues like Multi-Strat.

13 Another good example was the trading accounts that the 14 Debtor had. So, on the second or third week of January, or 15 perhaps the third or fourth week, we determined as we were 16 going through the asset review that the Debtor had two primary 17 liquid or semi-liquid securities accounts, and those were in 18 the Select account, which was a separate fund that had 19 previously third-party investors but was effectively a hundred 20 percent, 99 and change percent, owned by Highland at this 21 point. And an internal account, which was basically just 22 HCMLP-owned and denominated securities. These were generally 23 at Jefferies. Both of them employed significant margin.

24 THE WITNESS: If this is too pedantic, Your Honor, 25 please tell me if I'm going too deep.

005603

1 But margin is, in essence, a way for a security purchaser 2 to borrow money to facilitate the purchase and holding of the 3 securities. In essence, the lender, which in this case was 4 Jefferies, a large, well-known, reputable financier and New 5 York investment bank, was the Debtors' account holder. The 6 Debtor would select securities. Jefferies would establish a 7 haircut. The haircut is really the -- how the lender
8 determines how much they want to lend against the assets. So 9 if there's a -- if there's a haircut of a hundred percent in 10 use there, there would be no margin against that asset. A 11 haircut of 50 percent means the debtor will give you -- or, 12 the lender will give you 50 percent of the funds you need to 13 own and hold that asset and you put up 50 percent of the 14 funds.

15 And in a margin loan, the way that the lender protects 16 itself is, each day, it assesses the value of the asset; it 17 looks at the volatility of the asset; and then it asks for 18 more margin if the asset value went down in the trading 19 markets; and then you have a day or two or three, depending on 20 the structure, to post the new margin.

21 If you don't post the new margin, and this the way every 22 margin loan works, the lender has the ability to seize the 23 asset, sell it, and pay off its loan. It will then give you 24 the proceeds above the loan, if any.

25 The debtor -- the lender does that by looking at both the

Seery - Direct

36

1 daily prices, to make sure that it can manage its exposure, 2 but also it considers the volatility. And what it does when 3 it's looking at the volatility, and volatility is really a 4 measure, the way -- the way that securities analysts look at 5 it, is a forward year of the movement, potential movement of a 6 security. And that's how you set your haircut. Because if 7 the -- if the asset is very, very stable -- for example, your 8 home -- if your home was a margin loan and your mortgage, say, 9 is a margin loan, there wouldn't be much calling of margin 10 every day, because if the lender loaned 80 percent of the 11 value of your home, there may be house sales that go higher or 12 lower, but they don't necessary move that much really quickly, 13 particularly if these loans set what's called a threshold 14 amount that allow a little bit of movement each way.

15 The margin loans, though, are on securities that can move 16 tremendously. And what happened in February and then in early 17 March, volatility spiked up, prices moved significantly, 18 prices moved against the Highland positions. So Jefferies did 19 two things. One is it called margin, because it was -- its 20 equity cushion, in essence, was getting trimmed, and it wanted 21 more protection. Number two, it increased the haircuts, which 22 it was entitled to do because it looked forward and said, The 23 volatility in this market is worse than we thought. It will 24 be a higher volatility and there's more risk to us that the 25 asset could be worth less than the loan.

37

1 I started working with Joe Sowin, who's a head trader, a 2 very accomplished trader at Highland. He actually reports
3 into the -- not on the Debtors' payroll but another payroll 4 that we don't manage. But he spends a ton of time working on 5 Highland assets and trading those assets. And Joe and I 6 started working together to try to manage the Jefferies 7 exposure.

8 At one point, Jefferies actually seized the Select 9 account. Again, Select wasn't in bankruptcy, but Jefferies 10 had safe harbor provisions or protections anyway and they 11 could have done it. We felt they were about to seize the 12 internal account, and so we sent them a note that said that 13 perhaps their safe harbors weren't as good as they thought.
14 But, more importantly, here's our sale program. Jim Seery's 15 going to take over the account, working with Joe, and we're 16 going to manage it down.

17 In the Select account, Jefferies took it over -- and this 18 is not really a blame to Jefferies; it's part of the market -- 19 they sold out of that account pretty quickly. They did work 20 with us, but they were the selling position and covering their 21 loan, and we lost virtually all of the value in that account.

22 In the internal account, we effectively kept Jefferies 23 from seizing it, gave them a sale program, and then day-to-day 24 managed the sale of the more significant assets, as well as 25 the hedges, which mean we traded pretty aggressively

005606

Seery - Direct

38

1 throughout the day. This was a full-day job, trading that 2 account, with Joe as the trader and then me acting as the PM, 3 effectively.

4 We took that account, which if Jefferies had taken it over 5 and done -- it had virtually the same securities, it had just 6 a small number of securities, as well as some hedges which had 7 significant basis risk related to the securities -- we took 8 that account over. If we'd gotten the same program as 9 Jefferies, we would have lost $11 million. We made about $23
10 million. So that swing, that swing was pretty significant.
11 I'm sorry, we made about $11-1/2 million, about a $23 million 12 swing than if Jefferies had taken it over.

13 So that was another example of what I've been doing that 14 the Board designated me to do to help run this business.
15 Working with Joe, as well as research, as well as discussing 16 these positions on a regular basis with Jefferies, weekly 17 calls and daily e-mails, we were able to preserve that value 18 in that account.

19 Q And so, just for context, this is happening in late 20 February or early March, as COVID is hitting and the markets 21 are volatile; is that fair?

22 A That's when we started taking it over. The real -- the 23 real -- the lay in the markets was about March 22nd or 23rd.

24 Q Uh-huh.

25 A And that's when it became a daily grind on those positions

005607

Seery - Direct

39

1 for a solid month to make sure that we got it in a decent 2 place.

3 And remind you that we were trading those accounts within 4 the strictures of the protocols. So we didn't have the 5 ability to -- the securities were -- rather less liquid. We 6 didn't have the ability to just dump them, because we would 7 have destroyed the market and taken significant losses.

8 In addition, because of the protocols, we didn't have the 9 ability to go out and buy hedges, even though we had a 10 negative bias as to where the market was, particularly in 11 those less-traded securities.

12 And it's -- it was public that Highland (inaudible) and 13 Highland (inaudible) was in bankruptcy, so you can be certain 14 that the traders were leaning on those -- those securities
15 from short decisions. So it was a very difficult, time-16 consuming effort, and a great job by Joe.

17 Q When you talk about a time-consuming effort, how would 18 you -- how would you characterize the amount of time you spent 19 on this project in the month of March? Was it a full-time 20 job?

21 A Yeah. Yeah. I mean, full-time is relative, right, but it 22 was -- it was a lot of time. So we would start out, you know, 23 like everybody else who is in those markets and do it the same 24 way, it's pretty tried and true: By 6:30 in the morning, 25 you're starting to look at what the EOP, what Asia did, where 005608

Seery - Direct

40

1 European markets were opened up, what the futures were looking 2 like, looking at your own securities, checking all of the 3 mail, talking to your research folks. To the extent that you 4 know that there's other investors in those investments, we 5 reached out to those -- I have a number of contacts in the 6 market who are in these kinds of assets -- to see what they're 7 thinking and how they're looking at value. And then set up a 8 trading strategy with Joe, and then execute on it every day.
9 And that trading strategy, again, was not static. So during 10 the day, a dynamic trading strategy has to be adjusted 11 depending on what the market is doing, and Joe was excellent 12 at it.

13 Q I think you mentioned the protocols earlier. Can you just 14 talk a little bit more about how you and the Debtor 15 communicated with the Committee through this process of 16 addressing the Jefferies mortgage -- mortgage defaults?

17 A Well, every day, we sent a report to -- to the Debtor -- I 18 mean, to the Committee, I apologize -- with our positions in 19 each of the accounts and tell them exactly what we're doing, 20 what the plan is, what we're set up to do, where we think it's 21 going, and what assistance we might need through the 22 protocols.

23 I think it became really difficult for the Debtors' 24 professionals -- the Committee's professionals to deal with 25 these issues, because it's just not what they were used to 005609

Seery - Direct

41

1 doing every day. So we would report to them. The Committee
2 met weekly. We can -- provided direct information to 3 Committee members when they -- you know, there's members on 4 the Committee who are very versed in these types of assets.
5 We would talk to them directly, I would talk to them directly, 6 and tell them exactly what we're doing and why and get their 7 input, because there was no magic special sauce as to exactly 8 what to do.

9 Q And would you characterize the process as transparent and 10 open between you and the Committee and its members?

11 A Oh, oh, absolutely. You know, we were -- they were 12 constructive. I wouldn't say that the Committee wasn't 13 constructive. I think the difficulty the Committee had, which 14 is what, you know, any third party would have, is that: Why 15 are we going to put more money into these accounts when the 16 value is going down, and what's -- what's your -- what are 17 your price targets? How do you think about those assets; 18 who's the analyst who's working on it; how do they compare to 19 other assets? So it wasn't an easy process for the Committee 20 to get their arms around, either.

21 Q Okay.

22 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, we have other transactions 23 that we could talk about if you think that would be useful, or 24 we could continue to push this forward.

25 THE COURT: You can continue to push it forward.

005610

Seery - Direct

42

1 Thank you.

2 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

3 BY MR. MORRIS:

4 Q Then let's transition for a moment just about your 5 recollection as to kind of when and how, you know, the 6 discussions with the Board and the Committee evolved with 7 respect to your taking over as CEO. Did there come a point in 8 time that you can recall when the Board asked you to consider 9 that?

10 A Yeah. The Board asked me to consider it I would say 11 probably late January or early February. And the initial 12 discussions, even before, you know, before we were selected.
13 So, as John Dubel and I had been selected by the Debtor and 14 the Committee, we talked about the need for one central point 15 of management for this company. That it's 70 employees and 16 diverse assets, diverse business practices. How are we going 17 to mold that as a Committee? It really needed somebody to 18 execute the strategic plan that the Board put in place.

19 And so John had asked me about that even before we were 20 selected. Committee counsel asked me about it. So there was 21 -- there was some, at least away from me, there was some view 22 that perhaps I was going to be the person that was most 23 likely, if it was needed.

24 My view in early February was that, you know, we were 25 effectively, as the phrase goes, drinking from a fire hose,

005611

43

1 and I wanted to get a better sense of who the folks were at 2 Highland; what their responsibilities are; how they performed; 3 what I thought of them as performers; how -- I had -- or,
4 having some idea what the claims are and how that process
5 would work; and could we make this a success?

6 So, early on, in January and in February, as we started 7 having these discussions, I was in the Highland offices at 8 least three, usually four days a week. And I was there from 9 7:30 in the morning until 6:00 or 7:00 at night every day.
10 And that gave me just a different feel for exactly how the 11 organization was running and the issues that were coming up 12 every day.

13 That evolved into March where, after I took over the 14 securities accounts in early March and then took over the 15 Multi-Strat issues, that John and Russ Nelms pushed me to 16 really consider stepping up fully to the CEO role. So, by 17 early April, I think it's the first week of April, we actually 18 -- we put it forth and go to the Committee. So we started 19 negotiating what potential terms were, how it would work.

20 You know, one of the concerns that I had, you know, we had 21 no idea, and I suppose we still don't, how the COVID-19 issues 22 will play out and how that would both -- because at the time
23 they were really affecting New York, where I'm based and I 24 live, and less so in Dallas. But by mid-March, it was pretty 25 clear that the whole country was being affected. And now,

005612

Seery - Direct

44

1 obviously, it's hitting all over.

2 And hopefully that will settle, but what we did learn, and 3 I think a lot of businesses learned, is that particularly 4 these types of service businesses that function electronically 5 in lot of respects, even when they are in an office, because 6 you're in front of your screen, that we are very lucky to have 7 these types of roles where we can really perform the job, if 8 not equally well, pretty darn close to how you perform it when 9 you're at the office. And so that issue subsided a little bit 10 in terms of how I would interrelate -- not the issue going 11 away, obviously -- but how I could interrelate and work with 12 the team to drive the business, even if I was doing it from 13 New York.

14 Q And have you continued to play a leadership role from the 15 time you spoke with your fellow Board members in early March 16 until the present?

17 A I have. And I think one of the things that the Committee, 18 you know, recognized was that John and Russ, experienced 19 professionals, were willing to step back and let me take the 20 day-to-day working with the Committee or presenting to the 21 Committee. So we do have weekly Board meetings and we do have 22 almost daily Board calls, and then, without an official 23 meeting, we meet on the phone virtually every Saturday or 24 Sunday, sometimes both, with the three of us, to go through 25 what's happened every -- each week, how the plan has evolved

005613

Seery - Direct

45

1 and where we're pushing it.

2 But in terms of the presentations to the Committee, I took 3 the lead on those in both designing and working with the Board 4 then and then implementing them and laying them out for the 5 Committee, as well as the individual negotiations.

6 So, early on, we determined that we had to try to figure 7 out a way to push this case forward, notwithstanding that we 8 weren't getting -- we didn't see a lot of movement from any of 9 the parties, frankly, on trying to figure out a way to 10 coalesce around a direction. So we designed a program that we 11 laid out for the Committee in which we considered three main 12 areas to consider for a plan. And I took the lead on doing 13 that.

14 Q So, let's talk a little bit about the claims resolution 15 process and the formulation of a plan. Have you played any 16 role in the claims resolution process?

17 A Well, we haven't actually resolved any claims completely 18 yet, but we're very close on one, and I've taken the lead on 19 doing that.

20 On the other two, I've been involved heavily with the -- 21 both counsel and with DSI in analyzing the claims. As well as 22 with the rest of the Board, frankly. The -- you know, we've 23 got a significant amount of expertise between John Dubel and 24 Russ Nelms with respect to how to think about these issues in 25 the context both of a bankruptcy, obviously, with Russ, and in 005614

Seery - Direct

46

1 the context of both a restructuring and in the business with 2 respect to John.

3 So we've gang-tackled those, again, effectively, all 4 analyzing the various issues with respect to these claims.
5 But in terms of having the direct negotiations, particularly 6 on two of them, I've taken -- I've taken more of the lead 7 about where we could go. And if you -- particularly with my 8 background in restructuring, and having wrestled with 9 substantive consolidation, alter ego, piercing the veil since 10 1988 or '89, you know, some of the issues that have arisen in 11 this case are very, very familiar to me. I've spent a 12 significant part of my career dealing with those. So I've 13 taken the lead on those types of issues.

14 I think that where I was going was in terms of structuring 15 potential outcomes for plans. And we are -- you know, we've 16 been slowed down, as I think Jeff Pomerantz mentioned last 17 week, to a fair degree by COVID, in that the business impacts, 18 we can go into, and Jeff touched on some of those, but the 19 social impacts with respect to negotiating are hard to -- are 20 hard to understate. The -- you can run a business like this 21 through your screen. It's very difficult to simply negotiate 22 by phone or by video. The face-to-face, at least in my 23 experience, makes a big difference in moving parties, and we 24 haven't had as much of that.

25 What we've tried to do recently, starting in May, is we've 005615

Seery - Direct

47

1 put together a program for the Committee, and we'll walk them
2 through what I think are the -- what we determine as a Board 3 and then we laid out the specifics -- I didn't; DSI -- of what 4 the options are in this case.

5 And I think number one was the status quo. Do we maintain 6 this case status quo, continue to run the business, and then 7 try to negotiate, resolve, mediate, or litigate, first through 8 dispositive motions, then through something more significant 9 if we can't do it through dispositive motions, these claims?

10 The Debtor right now on an operating basis does burn cash.
11 I can go into the specifics, but the Committee knows them, and 12 I'd prefer to do those in camera if we -- if the Judge would 13 like that. We do burn cash on an operating basis, but not 14 that much. The Debtor has about $30 million (inaudible) and 15 the business does run, and generally each year the operating 16 burn, if you will, which is, in compensation, is filled by 17 selling some assets that have appreciated in value. And the 18 Debtor runs real -- with those accretions, run roughly 19 breakeven.

20 The problem in this case is that we are burning a 21 significant amount of bankruptcy professional fees. And it's 22 the lament of creditors and business operators and the 23 bankruptcy bar. I think, certainly, the judges that I see for 24 a long time. And the percentage -- the cost of the cases 25 keeps going up and the percentage of the assets keeps going,

005616

Seery - Direct

48

1 but particularly if the asset values are going down.

2 So the status quo didn't make a lot of sense unless we 3 were going to get very swift movement from the parties, and I 4 mean all sides, to try to resolve the case.

5 The other type of outcome we thought about in terms of a 6 plan was a downsiding model. Downsizing model, excuse me. In 7 that model, we would try to significantly cut headcount, try 8 to significantly cut expenses. Run the business as leanly as 9 possible. And then try to go through those steps with respect 10 to resolving the claims.

11 Again, the problem, the problem with that is resolution of 12 those claims was uncertain and could take a long time, unless 13 we had significant movement from either side. But, moreover, 14 in terms of operating the business, we determined that with 15 respect to both the managed accounts and shared service 16 agreements, we really couldn't effectively do the job that the 17 Debtor does with a smaller staff. Truth is, even at 70
18 people, the HCMLP staff is pretty lean. It's a really good 19 team and they are very efficient and they've really proved it 20 through working offsite, you know, through the pandemic.

21 But we really thought that if we -- and analyzed it. If 22 we were to try to cut that team and provide the services, we 23 would fall down. So we would breach the duties or potentially 24 incur liabilities under those various contracts.

25 The third area that we took a look at, which was what we

005617

Seery - Direct

49

1 called the subservicing model. In this model, we would try to 2 separate the business of the Debtor, which has a small 3 operating loss, but it's still material money, from the asset 4 management. That way, you could hold onto the assets for the 5 benefit of the creditors or the Debtor, depending on where the 6 claims comes out, still provide the services to those third 7 parties under the subservicing agreements or the management 8 agreements. You wouldn't make money on that, but you'd get 9 rid of the operating burn.

10 And that model had a number of issues, but we've sort of 11 evolved that model to what I think has been referred to in 12 court as the debtor-creditor monetization vehicle. So a 13 little bit of a cumbersome name, but the idea would be to try 14 to separate the assets, which potentially are the ways to pay 15 the creditors, depending on where claims come out, and then -- 16 and the operations, and make sure you can continue the 17 operations without a heavy burn.

18 That model also permits us to cut, we believe, bankruptcy 19 operating expenses significantly. So, right now, because of 20 the nature of the case, we have two professionals doing every 21 job: Committee professionals and Debtor professionals. We 22 would be able to reduce that cost by putting those into one 23 entity that'll be a trust-like structure to service the 24 business, resolve the claims, monetize the assets.

25 And, finally, something I started working on -- I'd say on 005618

Seery - Direct

50

1 my own, but that wouldn't be true -- with the DSI team, 2 particularly the two -- we have two excellent analysts on the 3 case. A very detailed model of what I think has been referred 4 to maybe even in court as a potential grand bargain plan. And 5 that plan looks at monetizing the assets over what period we 6 believe that we could get that done. (inaudible) we're 7 looking at the values that we could achieve as well as setting 8 out what we think are reasonable numbers for the claim 9 distributions and then how they would be made.

10 Now, on the asset side of the ledger, we have a pretty 11 good understanding. We obviously know where the assets are 12 bought, and we have a pretty good sense of what the current 13 market looks like for those assets. We're not a forced 14 seller, but we have -- we have been involved in processes 15 around a number of the assets and have a good sense of where 16 values are and how long it would take to achieve those values.

17 You don't have to sell an asset as well to get money from 18 it. There might be ways to finance those assets. Although, 19 to be sure, in this environment, financing particularly these 20 types of assets has become very, very difficult.

21 The other side of the equation of the claims, and we're 22 using our best estimate of where we think those claims come 23 out in terms of payment, the creditors often have a different 24 view as to what they would like those claims to come out with.
25 So we're trying to figure out, through negotiation and 005619

Seery - Direct

51

1 discussion, how we get those two sides closer together. And 2 that, that would be the grand bargain plan.

3 And I think where we're really focused now is that status
4 quo doesn't make sense. We've gone that way too long.
5 Downsizing doesn't work because of the complexity of these 6 operations and the contractual obligations that the Debtor
7 has. And it's really a grand bargain plan or a Debtor 8 monetization, a debtor-creditor monetization vehicle, which 9 would be structured like a trust and still be able to service 10 the business while resolving the claims.

11 Q Taking into account the uncertainty because there are 12 still some options being considered, in your leadership role, 13 have you -- do you have a sense of timing? Is there a 14 timeline by which certain milestones are at least 15 aspirational, if not achievable?

16 A Well, I don't think I'm telling anyone what they don't 17 know, that deadlines get people to act and make decisions.
18 Sometimes they're good decisions, sometimes they're not, but 19 we're going to push forward on both of these plan 20 opportunities now. So we intend to file a debtor-creditor 21 monetization vehicle plan, and we'll keep pushing the parties 22 towards settlements.

23 You know, as we say on the Multi-Strat negotiations, until 24 it was clear that we were either going to default, because we 25 didn't have the money to pay those premiums, or we're going to 005620

Seery - Direct

52

1 file Multi-Strat as a bankruptcy, it was hard to get folks to 2 really come to the table and think about how to settle that 3 issue.

4 These issues in regard to the total case are much more 5 complicated. We're going to file a plan. We believe that 6 will set a bit of a crucible to folks to think about how to 7 move forward with their claims. We are, as Jeff Pomerantz 8 mentioned last time, agreed in principle, but we have some 9 issues to work through with Redeemer that we hope to be able 10 to resolve by this week. And so that's my internal goal, but 11 I expect to be able to do it.

12 The reason that's complex is not that it's simply a -- the 13 arbitration award is not simply a money award; it actually 14 requires certain offsets, it requires certain assets be sold 15 and paid for. And we're trying to carve our way around some 16 of those, because they (inaudible) agreement, because they're 17 -- they're more difficult than simply exchanging cash for 18 assets, because we don't have the ability to do that right 19 now. We don't have the cash, and we're in bankruptcy.

20 So I do believe that we can get these done. And then if 21 mediation is something that would work, great. We're going to 22 try to do it without mediation as well. Going to try to do it 23 before we get to mediation and resolve claims. And if we're 24 unable to do that, hopefully mediation will push it forward or 25 we have to have a fallback, which will be dispositive motions

005621

53

1 with respect to certain of the claims.

2 But we expect to have and I think we have a number of 3 claims objections that have (inaudible). We've resolved 4 those. We're really down to three claims. And one of them is 5 almost done.

6 Q All right. At the last hearing, --

7 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, that really does finish the 8 substance of the testimony with respect to this motion, but at 9 the last hearing Your Honor raised some questions about PPP 10 loans.

11 THE COURT: Yes.

12 MR. MORRIS: Would you like me to just take a moment 13 with Mr. Seery to address that?

14 THE COURT: Yes, please.

15 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

16 BY MR. MORRIS:

17 Q Mr. Seery, you're aware that the Judge raised some 18 questions about whether and to what extent the Debtor may have 19 been involved in any of the PPP loans?

20 A Yes.

21 Q And have you done any work to try to figure out the 22 answers to the questions the Judge posed?

23 A Well, work in response to the question, but also work 24 previously. So, just a -- quickly, as I think we all know, 25 the PPP program was put forth to try to give companies cash

005622

Seery - Direct

54

1 that they had to use for employee payments, to continue to 2 keep payroll supported and to continue to have folks hold 3 their jobs.

4 We have -- and I think the Business Insider article, which 5 I'm not familiar, I know the publication is not something I 6 seen much, but I'm not familiar with the specifics of that 7 article, and -- but any PPP, away from the assets that HCMLP
8 actually owns or controls. And we've got -- we've got three 9 -- and I think there's some substance to the article. But 10 we've got three businesses. And these are -- this is public, 11 but I'll go into the -- sort of the obvious reasons without 12 going into the specifics of the business around the ones that 13 I know of well.

14 Carey Limousine is a business that transports folks in 15 high-quality cars from airports or from events or between 16 businesses. It was hit severely by the COVID-19 pandemic., 17 particularly with respect to the air transportation, which was 18 really one of its biggest areas. The business, 19 notwithstanding Uber and the other type of shared ride 20 services, had actually done quite well, and Highland was an 21 owner of a significant portion of that business related to 22 some loans that it held in various funds.

23 That business's management, with its own outside counsel, 24 sought a PPP loan. Then our director came to us and discussed 25 with the Board the propriety of that loan. We engaged outside

005623

Seery - Direct

55

1 counsel, not bankruptcy counsel but counsel that had 2 particularized expertise in PPP, and spent a ton of time 3 really understanding both the law as well as the specific 4 regs. Carey did get a PPP loan. It is potentially 5 forgivable, depending on how it's used.

6 The second entity that was similar but didn't come to the 7 Board, we have a business called SSP, which is an excellent 8 highway business that provides equip -- materials for a lot of 9 different road construction, but primarily highway road
10 construction. Very well run business. That entity got a PPP 11 loan as well, primarily worried about whether the construction 12 on the highways would shut down.

13 So it's been -- I don't believe that's really happened in 14 Texas, which is where most of their business is, but they 15 qualified for that loan. They did not come to the Board. A 16 very specific carve-out, because one of the interest holders
17 that we share that position with is a Small Business 18 Administration fund and, so it was very clear that it was 19 entitled to that loan.

20 Then there's a third entity called Roma that got a very 21 small PPP loan. We don't control the entity and we were not 22 involved in its acquisition of that loan. Again, it would 23 have to be used as required.

24 One of the things I want to make sure that is in the 25 record and for Your Honor with respect to Carey, we spent a

005624

Seery - Direct

56

1 lot of time as a Board focused on, one, whether it was legal 2 to get that loan, first. We're doing everything right, by the 3 book. We're not going to play in the gray. There is no gray.
4 There's black and white in these areas.

5 Number two, was it ethical, was it appropriate that we 6 went and got this loan or that Carey went and got this loan?
7 Management, with the outside counsel, was sure that we could 8 do it, but we didn't want to take their word for it, so we 9 went out and got our own counsel, third-party counsel for the 10 Board to make sure that this was appropriate.

11 Three, the requirements around these loans are significant 12 and the penalties for violating them are severe. So if you 13 get a loan by mistake, are you really required to pay it back?
14 And if you're mistaken, that will be expensive, but it won't 15 be a real penalty. But if you get a loan that's really 16 inappropriate, that you shouldn't have gotten, that was a 17 material misstatement of any of the facts around it, the 18 penalties are significant. And not only in terms of the 19 opprobrium that you'd suffer in the press, because that's 20 coming, but in terms of how you use the funds.

21 So they can only be used in very specific ways, and we 22 were exceptionally careful around this program.

23 The basis of the program is to keep people employed. And 24 with a business like Carey Limousine in particular, where 25 there's a significant amount of debt, where the business is 005625

1 shut down by COVID, where we didn't have the funds to put into 2 Carey, nor even if we wanted to, we might not have been able 3 to do it without the Committee's approval because of the 4 protocol, a PPP loan was not only legal but it was 5 appropriate. And it's being used in that fashion, meaning to 6 keep employees employed.

7 Q Thank you very much, Mr. Seery.

8 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I have no further questions
9 of Mr. Seery. Does the Court have any questions?

10 THE COURT: I actually have a follow-up question 11 regarding the PPP, just to kind of put a bow on this.

12 EXAMINATION BY THE COURT

13 THE COURT: I'm looking at the demonstrative aide. I 14 don't know if you, Mr. Seery, have it there handy.

15 THE WITNESS: I do, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: Okay. So I'm turning to Page 6, the 17 chart, the subchart, Investments and Subsidiaries. The third 18 column, Privately-Held Equity, Various Companies. I mean, 19 that would be the type of investment entity we're talking 20 about here that got the PPP loan: Carey Limousine, SSP, Roma?
21 Nothing that was -- well, I'm going to say Highland affiliate.
22 Affiliate, that's a dicey term, but that's the type of entity 23 in the organizational structure we're talking about, correct?

24 THE WITNESS: Those are the ones -- I want to be very 25 careful, because I know what I know and I know I won't

1 represent anything that I don't know.

2 So, with respect to the entities that HCMLP, the Debtor, 3 controls, that's absolutely the case. I don't know, and I can 4 try to find out, but they are not HCMLP-controlled entities.
5 Whether other entities in the related-party complex received 6 loans -- so, obviously, HCMLP did not receive a loan. And the 7 only entities that we were involved with is the ones I 8 mentioned to you.

9 And I should mention, there are other entities in the 10 privately-held equity that got other government money, in the 11 medical space, that they didn't even ask for. HHS pushed 12 forward payments to folks in the business, medical healthcare-13 providing businesses, to assure that they had liquidity to 14 provide. And so -- and this has been described to me exactly 15 this way, that they woke up in the morning and found money in 16 their account. And with one of the companies, they actually 17 returned a bunch of the money because it was from a dormant 18 provider number and they didn't believe it was appropriate to 19 keep that money. So that was one of the entities that we 20 control with other investors.

21 But with respect to our HCMLP entities, these are the only 22 ones I know. With respect to other related entities that 23 might be in the family of businesses, for lack of a better 24 term, that were alluded to in the Business Insider article, I 25 don't know that answer. So, I -- if I -- I can try to find

Seery - Examination by the Court

59

1 out. I just don't know the answer, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Well, this has 3 been extremely helpful.

4 I should ask does anyone have any questions of Mr. Seery?
5 The Committee counsel, perhaps? Anyone else?

6 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, this is Andrew Clubok. In 7 light of the testimony, I do have some questions on behalf of 8 UBS.

9 THE COURT: All right. Briefly. Go ahead.

10 MR. CLUBOK: Okay.

11 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor? Your Honor, I'm sorry to 12 interrupt, but there's no objection lodged here. If Your 13 Honor wants to permit it, that's obviously the Court's 14 prerogative. But as just a point of order, having not lodged 15 an objection, I don't know what right anybody has to cross-16 examine the witness.

17 THE COURT: All right. Well, that's why I said 18 briefly. I think that Mr. Morris makes a good point, Mr.
19 Clubok. You could have filed a written objection, response, 20 comment, or something. So, you're a party in interest. I'll 21 give you a little bit of leeway here. But please keep it 22 brief.

23 MR. CLUBOK: Yeah. Thank you, Your Honor. It's just 24 some of the things that Mr. Seery said which we didn't expect 25 to hear that has raised a few questions that I just very

005628

Seery - Cross

60

1 briefly will try to address.

2 CROSS-EXAMINATION

3 BY MR. CLUBOK:

4 Q Mr. Seery, good afternoon. I'm Andrew Clubok, Latham &
5 Watkins, on behalf of UBS.

6 Mr. Seery, you talked about the fiduciary duties you've 7 understood yourself to have with respect to certain parties, 8 and my question to you is: Have you understood, since the 9 beginning of your service as an Independent Director of 10 Strand, that you had fiduciary duties to the unsecured
11 creditors of the Debtor?

12 A It's a -- it's a -- the answer is I understand the 13 fiduciary duties very well. I think we have fiduciary duties 14 to the estate. So Highland -- what I tried to explain is that 15 Highland, as an asset manager, has very specific fiduciary 16 duties that are set forth in (inaudible) in the cases and the 17 rules that have interpreted it. We, as directors of Strand, 18 have a duty to the estate.

19 I don't think it's -- I don't think it's fair, and I'd 20 have to subject myself to some education from counsel, I don't 21 think it's fair to say we had a specific fiduciary duty to a 22 particular creditor.

23 So, for example, if I had a fiduciary duty to UBS, it 24 would be very difficult for me to object to UBS's claim. It 25 would be -- I don't know how I could do that as a fiduciary.

005629

61

1 When the claim is crystalized in the estate, I believe that we 2 have fiduciary duties to each and every interest holder in the 3 estate.

4 Q My question is a little simpler, and I just -- well, I'm 5 actually not asking legally whether you do or not. I'm asking 6 what your understanding has been since your role. Have you 7 conducted yourself in a way in which you have treated your 8 obligations as though you have a fiduciary obligation to the 9 unsecured creditors?

10 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

11 THE COURT: Sustained.

12 MR. CLUBOK: Okay.

13 BY MR. CLUBOK:

14 Q You said that you believe that you have, with respect to 15 Multi-Strat, which is an entity that you manage, you said that 16 you understood yourself to have fiduciary duties to the 17 redeemers of Multi-Strat. Do you recall that?

18 A Yes.

19 Q Yeah. And Multi-Strat is outside of the estate, but HCM, 20 the Debtor manages Multi-Strat. And you said because of, you 21 know, your role, you personally feel as if you have a 22 fiduciary duty to the redeemers in Multi-Strat, correct?

23 A I --

24 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

25 Mischaracterizes the testimony.

005630

62

1 THE COURT: Sustained.

2 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, I believe that the 3 transcript -- I believe Mr. Seery said in direct that he 4 considered himself to have fiduciary duties with respect to 5 the redeemers of Multi-Strat. The transcript will show it. I
6 don't know what the objection is. Maybe I misstated when I 7 asked my question, but I'm just starting --

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 MR. CLUBOK: I'm just trying to understand --

10 THE COURT: All right. I'll let you rephrase the 11 question, but this -- I've probably -- I may have made a 12 mistake in letting you ask questions, because this is about 13 the propriety of him being CEO and the reasonableness of 14 compensation. This isn't a discovery opportunity. So I'm a 15 little confused the relevance of what you're asking. Could 16 you address that for me?

17 MR. CLUBOK: Sure. Your Honor, Mr. Seery on direct 18 described what he understood his fiduciary duties to be. I 19 think we -- it made me wonder, he didn't mention the unsecured 20 creditors or what he believes his fiduciary relationship is, 21 if any, with the creditors, unsecured creditors. I would -- I 22 think it's a fair question to ask what his understanding is, 23 because now he's going to take on a new role as CEO, and I
24 think it's appropriate for everyone to understand, so we know 25 when we're dealing with Mr. Seery --

005631

Seery - Cross

63

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MR. CLUBOK: -- what his --

3 THE COURT: I think -- I think he --

4 MR. CLUBOK: -- he understands -- what he understands 5 his fiduciary duties to be.

6 THE COURT: I think he answered the question, and 7 frankly, I think he answered it correctly. His fiduciary 8 duties go to the estate, right? And the creditors are the 9 beneficiaries of his actions in that regard, right? So I 10 think he correctly answered the question already. All right?
11 Next question.

12 MR. CLUBOK: Okay. He says that there's three 13 aspects of the business he's been managing: $300 million, 14 roughly, of Highland's own assets; the fact that they manage 15 $3 billion in other assets, I think in managed assets; and 16 then they have shared services for $6 billion in assets owned 17 by related entities, mostly.

18 BY MR. CLUBOK:

19 Q For those three separate businesses, I just want to 20 briefly understand: With respect to the first one, for 21 example, there's $300 million, you said, roughly, of 22 (inaudible) assets. Roughly what were the value of the assets 23 when you started your role in January of 2020?

24 A It's hard to compare apples to apples on this because 25 there are certain assets that we've taken out that didn't

005632

1 change in value. So I would say they were carried on the 2 balance sheet at different levels. I think a good rough 3 number would be in the $500 to $600 million area.

4 Q Okay.

5 A And the biggest -- the biggest movants in asset values 6 have been on securities, both ones that we continue to own and 7 the accounts that Jefferies -- that were levered, and those 8 were shown as unlevered marks on the balance sheet and the 9 losses that were incurred there. And then with respect to 10 certain of the PE assets and then a major movement on a 11 related-party loan, where the Board, through analysis that we 12 did with DSI and others, believes that loan is likely to be 13 worthless. Likewise, the claim of that entity we believe is 14 likely to be worthless.

15 Q And then to the extent the assets, you say, have a rough 16 value of $300 million, you alluded to significant professional 17 fees, bankruptcy costs, administrative fees, the Debtor is 18 burning cash. My question is, If it's $300 million today 19 roughly of total value of assets, what's your current best 20 estimate of the total amount that will be available to be 21 distributed to the creditors net of those -- that burning of 22 cash and the admin fees and the other issue that you 23 mentioned? What is your current expectation of the total 24 amount that will be able to be distributed to the creditors?

25 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, just -- I just object to 1 this line of inquiry. It's like free discovery, as Your Honor

2 suggested earlier. I don't know what it has to do with Mr.
3 Seery's work, his qualifications, the compensation
4 arrangements. And I think it's inappropriate.

5 THE COURT: Okay. I'll overrule and allow this one 6 remaining question, but that's going to be it, unless your 7 next questions pertain to the employment or compensation 8 structure.

9 THE WITNESS: Yeah, I don't have a crystal ball as to 10 what the assets are going to be worth. I think that they are 11 fairly marked right now, and we have significant discovery 12 that we've had with respect to a number of the assets and 13 marked at views as to their value. So I think that we're at a 14 pretty good base value, assuming that we don't rush into 15 forced sales of assets.

16 So, as I know the Court is aware and I hope you're aware, 17 when you look at asset values, and you look at them on a 18 liquidation basis, the numbers are normally much lower than 19 when you look at them as selling them on a more controlled 20 basis. If you have liquid securities, that's not the case.
21 So if I have $500 million of Apple at $363 today, it's 22 probably a good chance that it'll be worth something different 23 in a month, something different in two months. But if I need 24 to move my position, I can do that.

25 These assets are much more difficult to move. And the act

1 of selling them often changes the value, which is why we 2 engage professional bankers to help move, first, those assets.

3 So I just don't have a good crystal ball. I think the 4 valuations that we have now are pretty good. I think they've 5 been scrubbed well. But that doesn't mean that certain of 6 these assets will maintain the exact value they have. So, I 7 gave a good example of Carey Limousine, which is a very small 8 asset but it's an easy one to understand because everybody can 9 relate to a car service company that does, you know, a little 10 bit more high-end and is focused on the airport travel and how 11 that's been impacted.

12 That asset value has gone down precipitously, even though 13 it was small, because of that. So I don't -- I don't really 14 have a great crystal ball as to what's going to happen. If 15 we're very successful in the fourth quarter and the economy 16 stabilizes and the COVID vaccines are out in record time and 17 move forward, then I think we've got potential for upside.
18 But right now, in the current environment, I think we're 19 marked fairly.

20 BY MR. CLUBOK:

21 Q Yeah. But my question really wasn't about the value of 22 the assets. I realize those could go up or down. And you 23 think they're fairly marked. My question was, What's the 24 total amount of setoff from those assets to the extent the 25 bankruptcy fees you alluded to, the burning of cash on the

1 other businesses, you know, how much, you know, net -- what's 2 the amount that will come off of those assets or that should 3 be -- that we should assume will be deducted from those assets 4 because of the professional fees that have been incurred or 5 you predict will be incurred through the end of the year and 6 the burn of cash that you mentioned, et cetera?

7 I'm trying to understand how you supervised -- because 8 you've managed those expenses as well as the assets, right?
9 And so I just think it's important for us to understand, at 10 the end of six months, and then how things are set for the 11 rest of the year, what's the total amount of, you know, call 12 it liabilities or costs associated with running the business, 13 running the business and at a cash burn rate, bankruptcy fees, 14 et cetera, that we --

15 THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to cut it off. I'm 16 going to cut it off. That, in my view, is going a little too 17 far afield. That's a discussion outside the courtroom. So, 18 thank you, and we're going to see: Does the Committee have 19 anything they want to ask?

20 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, Matt Clemente on behalf of 21 the Committee.

22 I certainly do not have any questions to ask. I do have a 23 couple of statements that I want to make, but I don't know if 24 now is the appropriate time or if there's going to be further 25 testimony.

Seery - Examination by the Court

68

1 THE COURT: Okay. I think there might be another 2 witness or two, but we'll let you make your comments at the 3 appropriate time.

4 EXAMINATION BY THE COURT

5 THE COURT: Mr. Seery, I meant to ask, I forgot to 6 ask: You've mentioned a couple of times the Debtor, Highland, 7 has 70-ish employees. Has the number gone down since the case
8 was filed, is Highland losing employees, or is it staying 9 stable?

10 THE WITNESS: We lost -- we lost seven employees.
11 There were some that were severed for performance reasons.
12 That happens every year. There were some that just moved on 13 because they decided to move on. And that some -- and then we 14 had some that, because of the bankruptcy, we lost. We added, 15 I think, one or two employees that we're pretty excited about 16 in the fund valuation area, which is a pretty critical area 17 for the shared services. Unfortunately, they haven't been 18 able to go to the office, but fortunately, they've been able 19 to work.

20 So we're down, Your Honor, probably eight total, and so 21 we're more of the low to mid-60 area right now.

22 THE COURT: Okay. And --

23 MR. SEERY: And we were a little bit north of 70 when 24 we took the case.

25 THE COURT: Okay. And the COVID situation, I mean,

005637

Seery - Examination by the Court

69

1 if you walked into the office, would there be people around in 2 masks, or are people still working at home?

3 MR. SEERY: People -- so, in -- yeah. So, in March, 4 very early on, as things started to shut down, Brian Collins,
5 who's the director of human resources and an accomplished
6 professional, came to the Board and basically said, you know, 7 yeah, Texas is better, but it's not immune. We need to come 8 up with a program.

9 And with Russ Nelms and John Dubel and I, we developed a 10 program, with Brian -- with Brian driving it, to figure out 11 exactly how to approach going into the office; how we would 12 maintain the office; and then, if something were to happen, 13 what we would do.

14 We had an employee who, with her family, got COVID in -- 15 we believe in New York, came back. And as soon as we found 16 out that person wasn't feeling good in the office, it was the 17 first day they were back, a protocol with thermometers and -- 18 at that time, thermometers were thought to be valuable -- we 19 immediately sent that employee home. We then brought in a 20 cleaning crew to clean up the office with EPA and FDA-approved 21 materials, and then had several days off and brought folks 22 back the following week.

23 We found that to be, frankly, unwieldy as COVID started to 24 continue to creep a bit through March and into April. At that 25 point, we did have other employees, not who came into the 005638

1 office, but who had contracted COVID, so we shut down HCMLP.
2 When we cleaned the office, we shut it down completely.
3 Nobody could go in.

4 When -- since then, we have set the office up where we had 5 initial (inaudible) when things were pretty good, so we 6 divided the move into -- into basically 20 percent could be in 7 the office at any one time. And then, since that time, as 8 things have gotten worse, we found that we were, one, working 9 extremely well offsite; and two, that it was just a better 10 environment for the employees. So we've been working 11 continually offsite.

12 If folks need to go in, because either they need more 13 advanced systems that they can't go to plug-and-play at home, 14 or because there's just materials that they want to get,
15 they're able to do in. We have tons of disinfectant 16 everywhere. We have masks available. We put in dividers, 17 Plexiglas dividers between the work stations to assure that if 18 someone was at a station for a long time, it didn't -- it was 19 less likely that you could have transmission.

20 I will tell Your Honor that HCMLP is not reporting to the 21 office. Some of the affiliated businesses, and I don't know 22 the percentage, have been. So those businesses, which we 23 don't control, are going in.

24 From my perspective, as long as the numbers are where they 25 are in Texas, from both a business perspective in terms of

Seery - Examination by the Court

71

1 making sure that the employee base doesn't contract COVID in 2 material amounts -- first, any amount -- but in material 3 amounts that would impact our ability to run the business.
4 And then with respect to the civic part of it, which is we 5 don't want to be a part of forcing the spread or causing the 6 spread of this disease, we know we can work from home. We're 7 going to continue to do that until we believe it's very safe 8 to go back.

9 Notwithstanding that we have the ability and have been 10 doing it with extensive cleaning, extensive disinfectant, and 11 with dividers, until we are very comfortable that we can go 12 back and protect our employees and that it's the right civic 13 thing to do, we're not going to go back, particularly since it 14 doesn't impact our ability to perform.

15 THE COURT: Okay. I really want to, you know, get to 16 the rest of our hearing soon, but I heard something that made 17 me have a question. You said there are other entities we 18 don't control whose employees are going in. Could you tell me 19 exactly what you meant by that?

20 THE WITNESS: There's -- away from HCMLP, there's 21 approximately another 75 to 80 -- it may be slightly more -- 22 employees at the other entities that are NexPoint, NexBank, 23 NexPoint Advisors. They are under different protocols that 24 neither I nor Russ nor John control. The office --

25 THE COURT: Let me just stop you.

005640

1 THE WITNESS: Please.

2 THE COURT: So it's just Nex -- well, NexPoint-3 related companies?

4 THE WITNESS: Uh-huh.

5 THE COURT: NexPoint and --

6 THE WITNESS: Yes.

7 THE COURT: -- affiliates of NexPoint?

8 THE WITNESS: Correct, Your Honor. The office, the 9 HCMLP offices are huge. And when we were there pre-COVID, 10 with the full complement of folks, it felt like they were 11 relatively empty. I shouldn't say -- they felt like there was 12 plenty of space.

13 What we found, with both sets, our employees and then the 14 NexPoint-related employees, when 140 or 150 people were in 15 that office, which pre-COVID felt comfortable, post-COVID 16 didn't feel so comfortable. So our employees, we started, as 17 I mentioned, with the shift-working. And then we decided to 18 go completely mobile unless somebody feels they have to be in 19 the office, and we want to make sure that they follow the 20 protocols when they do.

21 With respect to the non-HCMLP related entities, those 22 entities, some percent of those employees are still going into 23 the office.

24 Now, when they're there, to be frank, what I said was a 25 pretty comfortable place with 140 people is a pretty empty

Seery - Examination by the Court

73

1 place if there's only 50. But our employees, we felt it was 2 important, since we were able to execute from home, we didn't 3 need, on most parts, the extra systems to be able to execute 4 in the office, that we could largely perform from home to make 5 sure that we weren't taking any risks with the business but 6 also taking -- one, taking risks for the employees; two, 7 taking any risks for the business; and three, as I mentioned, 8 the civil perspective.

9 THE COURT: Okay. We're going to have to take a 10 five-minute break here in just a second, but let me kind of 11 elaborate on why I was drilling down on that question about 12 NexPoint. I mean, isn't it Highland employees who service 13 NexPoint? Or am I wrong about that?

14 THE WITNESS: Highland employees service a lot of 15 NexPoint. But NexPoint, NexBank, the various funds, NXRT, 16 there's a number of businesses: They have their own employees
17 as well.

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 THE WITNESS: So the whole complex is about 150 20 employees.

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 THE WITNESS: Highland Management is about 70.

23 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Well, are we finished 24 with Mr. Seery's testimony, Mr. Morris?

25 MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor. Our next witness after 005642

Seery - Examination by the Court

74

1 the break will be John Dubel.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Very good.

3 MR. MORRIS: And we --

4 THE COURT: Mr. Seery, again, this has been extremely 5 helpful for me, and I hope for others. I hope you'll stick 6 around, because when we circle back to the mediation 7 discussion at the end of today, I really would like you to be 8 involved in that discussion. I may want your input on one or 9 two things. So can you stick around?

10 THE WITNESS: Absolutely, Your Honor. Other than 11 getting some water and maybe turning the air conditioning back 12 on in this room, I'll stay.

13 THE COURT: You must not be in Texas if you don't 14 have your air conditioning on. I assume you're in New York.
15 All right. Five-minute break. We'll be back.

16 THE WITNESS: It's hot, but not Texas hot.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

18 THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

19 THE CLERK: All rise.

20 (A recess ensued from 3:16 p.m. until 3:22 p.m.)

21 THE CLERK: All rise.

22 THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. We're back 23 on the record in Highland.

24 Mr. Morris, you were going to call Mr. Dubel next?

25 MR. MORRIS: Yes, the Debtor calls John Dubel.

005643

Dubel - Direct

75

1 THE COURT: Dubel?

2 MR. DUBEL: Your Honor, may I have just one minute to 3 -- my air conditioner.

4 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Dubel, I said your name
5 wrong. Could you say Testing 1, 2?

6 MR. DUBEL: I can do that, Your Honor. Testing 1, 2.

7 THE COURT: Okay. Very good. Please raise your 8 right hand.

9 JOHN DUBEL, DEBTORS' WITNESS, SWORN

10 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Mr. Morris, you 11 may proceed.

12 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor. As Mr. Pomerantz 13 previewed, Mr. Dubel's testimony is going to largely cover the 14 corporate governance-type issues concerning the evolution of 15 the motion, the discussions or the, you know, beginning of the 16 discussions, and how the proposal itself evolved.

17 If I may, Your Honor, just to perhaps move this along, I 18 might lead the witness a little bit. If it's a problem, 19 you'll let me know, okay?

20 THE COURT: Okay. I will let you know if it's a 21 problem.

22 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

23 DIRECT EXAMINATION

24 BY MR. MORRIS:

25 Q Good afternoon, Mr. Dubel. You're a member of the Board

005644

1 of Strand today; is that right?

2 A I am.

3 Q And you've held that position since mid-January; is that 4 right?

5 A Since January 9th, yes.

6 Q Okay. And you understand that we're here today on the 7 Debtors' motion to appoint Mr. Seery as the Debtors' CEO, CRO, 8 and the Foreign Representative?

9 A I do understand that, yes, sir.

10 Q Does the Board unanimously support the motion?

11 A I think the Board does, and specifically the compensation
12 committee, because of obviously the conflict that Mr. Seery 13 might have, you know, but the Board fully supports it, and the 14 compensation committee is comprised of Mr. -- Judge -- Judge 15 Nelms and myself.

16 Q Okay. And do you believe that -- withdrawn. Does the 17 Board believe that it's in the Debtors' best interests to 18 retain Mr. Seery on the terms proposed?

19 A We do.

20 Q And why does the Board believe that?

21 A Well, as the Court has heard from the testimony of Mr.
22 Seery today, he has a tremendous amount of skills and 23 experience in the area of asset management. He's effectively 24 been serving as the CEO since -- well, in a lot of ways, since 25 January 9th, when we asked him to step up and take on some

1 additional responsibilities, but very clearly since the middle 2 of February, and specifically, the middle of March.

3 And as the Court noted, he is -- knows these assets very 4 well. He knows the operations. He's done an exemplary job of 5 handling all of the issues. He has spent a tremendous amount 6 of time working with the Committee members, trying to develop 7 good lines of communications.

8 And, you know, Russ -- having, you know, served in a C 9 Suite position for 25 years of my 30-plus years of 10 restructuring experience, and 15 years as a CEO, we need a 11 good leader, an operational leader to run the organization.
12 So we can support him because you need to have someone in 13 there who can make decisions; work quickly; obviously, 14 communicate well with the Board, which he has been doing for 15 quite some time. So, all the -- all of the reasons why we are 16 very pleased to have him take on this role.

17 Q Okay. Let's talk a little bit about what led to this 18 particular motion. Do you recall when the idea of appointing 19 a CEO first arose?

20 A I would say it was back in December, before the 21 Independent Board was put together, when we first started 22 intervening with the creditors and with the Debtor. It was 23 raised to me in my interview, would I be, you know, willing to 24 step in as a CEO if asked to? And I'm assuming it was also 25 asked of Mr. Seery. I didn't ask him that. And it was all

Dubel - Direct

78

1 obviously coming, you know, out of the protocols that were 2 being developed where Mr. Dondero would step down as the CEO 3 and the Independent Board would basically be responsible for 4 the operations of the company. But we had the opportunity to 5 go out and seek either one of the three Independent Board 6 Members as the CEO or go outside to the marketplace and try 7 and find an independent or a third-party CEO.

8 Q And to the best of your recollection, was that flexibility 9 built into the term sheet that was part of the corporate 10 governance settlement?

11 A It was.

12 Q All right.

13 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, this is where we're going to 14 test our technological capabilities. I'm going to ask Ms.
15 Canty to put up and to share Exhibit 1, and let's see if we're 16 able to do that.

17 THE COURT: Okay. But if anything goes wrong, I 18 actually do have the docket up on my screen. I can pull them 19 up. But, oh, even better. Even better. Okay.

20 MR. MORRIS: All right. It looks like it worked.
21 Ms. Canty, if you could turn to Page 2, please. I think 22 that's Page 1.

23 (Pause.)

24 MR. MORRIS: I think it's stuck.

25 THE COURT: Hmm.

005647

Dubel - Direct

79

1 THE WITNESS: If need be, I have a teenager who could 2 probably figure this out, because I sure can't.

3 MR. MORRIS: I'm impressed that La Asia got to this 4 point already. Okay. Good. Just the one on the right. Is 5 there a way to focus in on the top paragraph on the right?

6 THE WITNESS: I'll put my glasses on and I'll be able 7 to read it.

8 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Right there. Perfect.

9 BY MR. MORRIS:

10 Q Is -- are you familiar with the provisions generally in 11 the term sheet relating to the opening of CEO?

12 A I am.

13 Q And is this the provision that you were referring to 14 earlier?

15 A It is.

16 Q And does this provision, to the best of your 17 understanding, provide the Board with the flexibility, in 18 consultation with the UCC, to exercise its business judgment 19 and appoint a CEO if it determined that to be in the Debtors' 20 best interest?

21 A It does. It's consistent with the discussions had -- that 22 were had prior to our appointment, and it obviously was 23 incorporated in the term sheet that was approved by the Court 24 on January 9th.

25 Q And this also reflects the understanding that you

005648

Dubel - Direct

80

1 described earlier, where one of the Independent Directors
2 could, in fact, be selected as the CEO; is that right?

3 A That is correct.

4 MR. MORRIS: All right. Let's just take that down, 5 please, Ms. Canty.

6 BY MR. MORRIS:

7 Q Mr. Dubel, has Mr. Seery, in fact, taken on day-to-day
8 operational responsibilities for the Debtor?

9 A Yeah. Yes, he has. And I think early on the Board 10 realized that, between the three Board members, we would try 11 and divvy up the responsibilities, as Mr. Seery referred to 12 earlier, and it was definitely like drinking from a fire hose 13 in the early stages of the case, where the new Board was put 14 in place. And we tried to divvy up our responsibilities, 15 taking into consideration each of the Board Members' 16 expertise.

17 But it was pretty clear that the main business operations 18 required somebody with the skill set that Mr. Seery had, and 19 it would be much more efficient, as we progressed forward, to 20 coalesce around one individual as a CEO.

21 MR. MORRIS: Ms. Canty, can you pull up Exhibit 2?

22 BY MR. MORRIS:

23 Q And while we're doing that, Mr. Dubel, do you recall early 24 on that the Board asked Mr. Seery to become involved in the 25 trading of the prime accounts?

005649

Dubel - Direct

81

1 A I do, yes.

2 Q Okay.

3 MR. MORRIS: La Asia, I don't know if you can scroll 4 down just to --

5 Your Honor, these are minutes from the Board's very first 6 meeting. And if we go to the next page, right here, you'll 7 see there's a discussion in the second paragraph.

8 BY MR. MORRIS:

9 Q Mr. Dubel, does that reflect the Board's deliberation and 10 decision, really, on the first day, to give Mr. Seery, you 11 know, the responsibility for dealing and overseeing the prime 12 accounts?

13 A It does. And what I was saying is, prior to the 14 appointment, in doing all of our diligence prior to joining 15 the Board, we realized there were all these issues that needed 16 to be dealt with. And so we came in on the very first day, 17 ready to recognize that there were certain things that needed 18 sort of expertise. And they were presented to us by DSI and 19 the management of HCMLP as areas that needed some additional 20 handling and oversight. And so we asked Mr. Seery to step 21 into that role on the very first day, which he -- which he 22 agreed to and the Board approved it.

23 Q Okay. Let's get to the meat and potatoes here. Did there 24 come a time when the Board and Mr. Seery actually began 25 discussing the possibility of his serving as the CEO?

005650

1 A Yes, there did.

2 Q And can you share with the Court your recollection of how 3 that began?

4 A So, there were informal discussions, I would say, through 5 the month of February, as we started to realize that there 6 were -- the decision-making was going to be cumbersome, 7 having, you know, three parties involved. As I said earlier, 8 having spent 15 years or so my career as a chief executive 9 officer, I understand where you really want to have one person 10 be responsible for these issues.

11 And so we were conversing with Mr. Seery to see if he 12 would take on that role. And, obviously, we had felt very 13 comfortable, Mr. Nelms and I felt very comfortable with the 14 communications that he was having with us on things that we 15 had asked him to do. There was a very free and open 16 discussion with the Board members. So we continued, you know, 17 to look at opportunities where it might make sense.

18 And then, you know, towards the beginning of March, it was 19 pretty obvious that we were going to want to coalesce around 20 the motion. We thought about whether or not that would be 21 some third party. But having, again, experience of having to 22 go out in the marketplace to find CEOs when I'd been either, 23 you know, a director or involved in companies, we realized 24 that can be very time-consuming, would take us months to find 25 somebody.

1 And so we continued to discuss it with Mr. Seery. And 2 around the middle of March or so, right around the time that 3 we had a Creditors' Committee meeting in New York, we asked 4 Mr. Seery if he would take that role on, and he agreed to, to 5 take that role.

6 Q And that's -- and is that why the Debtor is seeking 7 authority to retain Mr. Seery nunc pro tunc back to March 8 15th?

9 A We are. I mean, effectively, he really started the role 10 in the February time frame. But we officially asked him about 11 this in -- right after that meeting on March -- I think it was 12 March 11th or so.

13 Q So, is it fair to say that's when the Board had a meeting 14 of the minds with respect to not necessarily the terms but at 15 least the engagement of Mr. Seery as CEO?

16 A Yes, that is fair to say.

17 Q Okay.

18 A And that's when he really did step up and take on all of 19 those responsibilities, you know, with the acknowledgement and 20 understanding that we would work out the appropriate terms for 21 his engagement.

22 Q Okay. And a couple of weeks later, do you recall that Mr.
23 Seery made a written proposal to you and Mr. Nelms?

24 A He did make a written proposal after, you know, having 25 discussions with us orally about various issues and roles and

84

1 responsibilities. I think it was around April 4th or so that 2 he presented us with a written proposal.

3 MR. MORRIS: All right. Ms. Canty, can you call up 4 Exhibit 3, please? (Pause.) Okay. If you'll scroll down.
5 BY MR. MORRIS:

6 Q Mr. Dubel, is this the April, the early April e-mail that 7 you were referring to in which Mr. Seery made a proposal for 8 the terms of his engagement as CEO?

9 A Yes. This document refreshes my recollection. It wasn't 10 April 4th. It was April (audio gap). But yes, that's the 11 document I was referring to.

12 Q Okay. What happened next, after -- after the -- after 13 this was presented to you and Mr. Nelms? What did you guys 14 do?

15 A So, what we wanted to do is understand what was our 16 responsibility as a board. So we reached out to counsel to 17 figure out how the process should work. We set up a 18 compensation committee. It's called a comp committee; it's 19 more I would call it a nomination committee or a governance 20 committee also, because it was all about retaining Mr. Seery 21 in that role.

22 We got advice from counsel on what the process should be.
23 We reached out to our compensation consultant at Mercer, who 24 had been providing us assistance in other areas of the 25 company's compensation program, to talk to them about what the 005653

1 various market comps, you know, compensation programs were and 2 what would be an appropriate market comp for Mr. Seery's 3 compensation, and, you know, moved forward that way.

4 MR. MORRIS: Ms. Canty, can you pull up Exhibit 4,
5 please?

6 BY MR. MORRIS:

7 Q Do you know what this document is, Mr. Dubel?

8 A Yes. This looks like the minutes from the meeting of our 9 first compensation committee on April 8th, compensation
10 committee of Strand Advisors.

11 Q And this was a meeting between you and Mr. Nelms, with 12 counsel; is that right?

13 A That is correct.

14 Q And this was precipitated by Mr. Seery's written proposal 15 that was made a few days before that; is that fair?

16 A Well, I would say it was precipitated by the advice we had 17 gotten through counsel that we should set up a compensation 18 committee and consider what would be the appropriate way of 19 retaining Mr. Seery, you know, as a chief executive officer.
20 His proposal came in a couple of days earlier than that, and 21 so this was our first official time to get together as a 22 committee and review it and discuss the issue.

23 Q And was this a contemporaneous record of the steps that 24 the compensation committee took to do its due diligence with 25 respect to the proposal?

1 A It is.

2 Q Okay. Did the compensation committee --

3 MR. MORRIS: You can take that down, Ms. Canty.

4 BY MR. MORRIS:

5 Q Did the compensation committee communicate with the 6 Creditors' Committee with respect to these matters?

7 A We did.

8 Q Can you --

9 A As a part of the protocols, one of the things I -- and I'd 10 go back and re-read the protocol language, but one of the 11 things it said was work with the UCC to determine who would be 12 an appropriate CEO. And so we realized we would do that, and 13 we started to reach out to the various members of the 14 Creditors' Committee to discuss that.

15 Q Okay. And do you recall whether the compensation 16 committee or the Debtor generally shared Mr. Seery's proposal 17 with the Committee?

18 A We did. I don't recall the exact date, but we did share 19 it with the UCC through the UCC counsel.

20 Q Do you recall if the report that was commissioned by the 21 Debtor with respect to Mercer, the Mercer Report, was that 22 shared with the Committee?

23 A It was.

24 Q Can you describe for Judge Jernigan your recollection as 25 to, you know, the Committee's reaction and, you know, position

Dubel - Direct

87

1 with respect to the proposed retention of Mr. Seery as CEO?

2 A We shared the report from Mercer with the Committee in -- 3 I think it was early May. And we spent time with them in the 4 April time frame talking about the fact that we were going to 5 be seeking Mr. Seery's appointment as CEO and telling them 6 that we were going to be commissioning a report to make sure 7 we had what we thought was market compensation.

8 The Committee was generally very supportive. They had 9 been obviously experiencing Mr. Seery taking on that role of 10 effectively the CEO for a period of time, so they understood 11 where, you know, where he was coming from and what -- how he 12 was going to operate the business.

13 They understood, to my knowledge and in my discussions, 14 they understood the benefits of having a single person as the 15 CEO rather than trying to manage the business by committee.
16 We discussed with them why it made sense.

17 And so, you know, they were supportive of it. Obviously, 18 we had to negotiate the terms of the compensation.

19 Q And did that take some time, to negotiate the compensation 20 terms?

21 A It did. Initially, it was being done through myself and 22 Mr. Nelms, working directly with the Committee. But, again, 23 having been in that position of having to negotiate with the, 24 you know, the committee on terms of my own personal 25 compensation -- not this committee, but in other cases -- we

005656

1 recognized that it was probably more efficient for Mr. Seery
2 to speak directly with the Committee, Committee members. And 3 so we asked him to pick up that, you know, responsibility
4 also. And he did. He kept us informed every step of the way.
5 And I, as the de facto chairman of the compensation committee,
6 also spoke directly with the various members of the Committee
7 during this time frame, where there was (echoing) 8 communication about compensation.

9 Q Mr. Pomerantz mentioned it in his opening remarks, but do 10 you recall kind of what the bigger issues were with respect to 11 the proposed compensation terms with the Committee?

12 A Sure. The Committee -- well, there was always negotiation 13 going on, obviously. The Committee, at the end of it, they 14 had no problems with the monthly compensation, recognizing 15 that whatever his board compensation would be would 16 effectively be wrapped into the monthly compensation.

17 What the issues really came down to for them revolved 18 around the restructuring fee that was being proposed, success 19 fee, you know, what have you. And there was a lot of 20 different views, as you can imagine, between the four members 21 of the Committee as to how that should be set up.

22 Mr. Nelms and I were very cognizant that we did not want 23 to have Mr. Seery (echoing) -- I'm sorry. I'm getting a lot 24 of background noise here.

25 THE COURT: Yes. I'm not sure who needs to mute

1 their phone, but someone needs to mute their phone. Okay.

2 THE WITNESS: Thank you.

3 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

4 (Echoing subsides.)

5 THE WITNESS: So we were very concerned that 6 structures not be put in place that could cause the potential, 7 the appearance of a conflict between the role that Mr. Seery 8 was playing and his compensation.

9 It's always a, you know, a challenging issue here, to make 10 sure that, you know, a CEO of any company is looking out for 11 the best interests of the estate and not looking out 12 specifically for any particular creditor, equity, or group of 13 creditors, just because that's the way the compensation was 14 designed. And so that was a challenge.

15 At the end of the day, we wanted to have what we felt was 16 fair compensation for the success fee and restructuring fee
17 for Mr. Seery, because we wanted him incented to get the job 18 done, as he has alluded to in his prior testimony as to what 19 he's trying to do here. And so there did come a point where 20 we could not get to a meeting of the minds and so we chose to 21 move forward on the compensation with just the monthly agreed 22 to. Mr. Seery was good enough to agree to that for just the 23 monthly, and that we would put forward the restructuring fee 24 at a later date.

25 BY MR. MORRIS:

1 Q Okay. Thank you. In addition to the CEO title, the 2 Debtor is asking for the Court to appoint Mr. Seery as the CRO
3 and the Foreign Representative; is that right?

4 A That is correct.

5 Q And why is the Debtor seeking that relief?

6 A Well, initially, the CRO was brought in, I believe it was 7 the middle of October, when the case was filed and before the 8 Independent Board was put in place. And there were reasons 9 why, you know, the Committee had asked for the CRO to have 10 certain responsibilities. Those carried through in the 11 protocols.

12 And obviously, you know, we had no issues with those, but 13 what we also felt, Mr. Nelms and I, and in consultation with 14 Mr. Seery, was that it would be more appropriate to have one 15 person be responsible for all of the issues within the 16 company. And since there was an Independent Board, and since 17 one of those Independent Board Members was becoming the CEO, 18 the need for another individual to be the CRO might send 19 conflicting signals inside the organization. And so we 20 decided that it would be appropriate to put those 21 responsibilities into Mr. Seery's lap. And we spoke with Mr.
22 Sharp from DSI, and he agreed. And so that's the reason why 23 we moved it forward that way.

24 Q Okay. I understood you to say that the meeting of the 25 minds, at least conceptually, was somewhere around March 12th

1 in New York, or March 11th. I think the Judge may have asked 2 the question or at least implied that she wanted to know kind 3 of why it took so long to get the motion on file. I think 4 you've discussed some of the issues, but just kind of in a 5 bullet-point way, can you give the Judge an explanation as to, 6 you know, why it took several months to get this motion in 7 front of the Court if a meeting of the minds occurred back in 8 March?

9 A Sure. I believe the motion was filed on the -- I think it 10 was the 22nd or so of June.

11 Q Okay.

12 A And so we -- we asked Mr. Seery. He accepted the 13 responsibility in the middle of March. Right at that point in 14 time was when the whole pandemic issue was, you know, really 15 coming hot and heavy at the company. As Mr. Seery testified 16 earlier, he had -- he was spending a tremendous amount of time 17 just focusing on the operations of the business, focusing on 18 the assets, dealing with the prime accounts, the select 19 accounts, working with Jeff Reeves, working with the other 20 individual investments that we had, to make sure that those 21 were under control.

22 I would say I applaud him for putting the business first 23 in front of him, and then I think probably at 1:00 o'clock in 24 the morning he was able to finally sit down and put together 25 his own compensation request.

1 We did need time to go through with the Mercer folks and 2 get, you know, the market information, and that took a lot of,
3 you know, a lot of time.

4 And then, more importantly, we wanted to make sure we 5 could get something in front of the Court that was agreed to 6 by the Committee. So we did share the information with the 7 Committee. We spent a lot of time in negotiations with the 8 Committee, trying to get to a resolution. As I said earlier, 9 we asked Mr. Seery to step in and there be, you know, one-on-10 one discussions to maybe shortcut some of that.

11 And finally, at the point in time where we realized we 12 could not get a full, you know, fully-agreed compensation 13 program, we asked him to just break it down into the monthly, 14 and then come back for a restructuring bonus at the end of the 15 case.

16 And so all of that, while trying to manage the business in 17 the COVID era, is what took such a long period of time.

18 Q Did it also take some time to obtain appropriate D&O
19 insurance for Mr. Seery as the CEO?

20 A It did. We had to, as the Board of Strand, we had to set 21 up a D&O program for the Board members when we first got 22 involved back in January. That took a tremendous amount of 23 time. It was very difficult to obtain in the marketplace, for 24 any number of reasons, but mainly because the insurance market 25 understood what Highland was all about and the various

Dubel - Direct

93

1 players, and they were very reticent to insure Highland.

2 So, because we were Strand, because there were other 3 protections that were afforded to the Independent Directors, 4 we were able to obtain it.

5 When we asked the various carriers to add Mr. Seery on as 6 the CEO for HCMLP, it was very challenging to put folks on.
7 We were eventually able to get our first layer to sign on, the 8 first-layer insurer. The second layer would not do it, and we 9 had to go find a third carrier who would do it. And we 10 actually got that done at some time in the latter part of 11 June, right after we had filed the motion.

12 Q Okay.

13 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I've got just a few more 14 questions, but they're going to be devoted to the DSI motion.
15 I don't know if you wanted to ask -- if you had any questions 16 on the motion with respect to Mr. Seery or I should just 17 continue on.

18 THE COURT: I do not have questions. You can 19 continue.

20 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

21 BY MR. MORRIS:

22 Q Okay. So, let's just finish up, Mr. Dubel. There is a 23 second motion in front of the Court, and this one is for the 24 appointment of DSI as financial advisor. Are you familiar 25 with that motion?

005662

1 A I am.

2 Q Does the Board unanimously support that motion?

3 A We do.

4 Q Has the Board concluded, in an exercise of its independent 5 business judgment, that the engagement of DSI as financial 6 advisor is in the Debtors' best interests?

7 A We have. Yes.

8 Q Can you explain to the Court why the Board reached that 9 conclusion?

10 A Well, we do need the services of a financial advisor.
11 It's very important in this case to have an independent, you 12 know, restructuring, you know, financial advisor to assist us.
13 As Mr. Seery testified earlier, they have been very 14 instrumental in helping him prepare the financial analysis 15 that has been part of what he's been using to start 16 negotiating and working forward on the -- putting together a 17 plan of reorganization.

18 They've also spent a tremendous amount of time acting as a 19 bridge to FTI, the Committee's financial advisors, which is 20 very common in these types of cases. And so that's been 21 extremely helpful. And that role needs to continue.

22 They also are handling all of -- all the administrative 23 bankruptcy issues, the SOFAs, the MORs. They're doing a lot 24 of work for us, not necessarily specifically on the large 25 claims, but on helping us analyze and review all of the other

1 myriad of -- I think it's two hundred something claims that 2 have been filed in the case.

3 So they've been here since -- I guess they came in pre-
4 filing. They have a lot of history and knowledge, and we want 5 to continue to utilize that knowledge as we continue to move 6 forward. So that's why. And the Board is very comfortable 7 with the job they've been doing, and so we felt it was 8 appropriate to continue to use them as the financial advisor, 9 just in a slightly different role.

10 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I have no more questions of 11 Mr. Dubel.

12 THE COURT: All right. Well, I'm going to just jump
13 in and ask my own questions, and then I will -- I'll, you 14 know, offer him up for cross if people will promise to 15 restrict it to employment terms.

16 EXAMINATION BY THE COURT

17 THE COURT: So, what -- my question is about Mr.
18 Sharp. As I recall, the compensation is not going to change 19 at all, even though the role is changing. He won't be CRO
20 anymore, Mr. Sharp. He won't be the Foreign Representative 21 anymore. But obviously, he and his firm will remain very 22 engaged as financial advisor.

23 What I'm getting at is there was a $100,000 per month flat 24 fee for Mr. Sharp, and then other professionals at DSI will 25 bill by the hour. Tell me why the Board thinks that's still

1 the appropriate compensation package with the modified role of 2 Mr. Sharp. I'm getting at, $100,000 a month, is that still 3 the right thing, or hourly compensation, did you discuss that, 4 and why is --

5 THE WITNESS: We did, Your Honor. And I'll be 6 (inaudible) with you. I don't know who negotiated that 7 originally for -- with, you know, with DSI, but I find it to 8 be a very fair-to-the-Debtor compensation package of $100,000
9 for Mr. Sharp, but it also includes Mr. Caruso, who Mr. Seery 10 has referenced earlier. I think it was a very good 11 negotiation that was had by the Debtor.

12 So when we looked at it, we said, if we switch to a 13 straight hourly, based upon the amount of time and effort 14 that's being put in by the two of those individuals, it might 15 cost us a little bit more. So we chose to continue it at that 16 level.

17 And I know Mr. Seery will continue to lean on those two 18 folks and get his money's worth. I'm confident of that.

19 THE COURT: Okay. You just reminded me of something 20 that I did not remember, I guess. Mr. -- we're getting two 21 for the price of one, is basically the -- Mr. Caruso does not 22 bill by the hour?

23 THE WITNESS: They -- they work together. It's their 24 compensation. I would imagine they keep hours internally, 25 just to keep track of it, but what they bill us for the two

Dubel - Examination by the Court

97

1 individuals, Mr. Caruso and Mr. Sharp, is a flat fee of 2 $100,000 for the two of them.

3 THE COURT: Okay. All right. And do you remember, 4 by comparison, the financial advisor to the Committee -- is it 5 FDI? Whoever it is.

6 THE WITNESS: It -- it --

7 THE COURT: How are they getting compensated? Is it 8 strictly on an hourly basis, or is there also a combo flat fee 9 and hourly?

10 THE WITNESS: (echoing) on an hourly basis, and I 11 have one of their most recent charts. It was the May fee 12 application that they just filed, and they -- they bill in a 13 range from $1,245 an hour for, you know, senior managing 14 directors, to $875 an hour for managing directors, down to, 15 you know, $690 an hour for directors. Yeah. A very fair and 16 appropriate marketplace compensation, but I think what we are 17 incurring under the structure that we have for DSI is below 18 that.

19 THE COURT: If those two guys were billing normal 20 market hourly fees, you think it would be busting $100,000 a 21 month, perhaps?

22 THE WITNESS: I think it -- I think it would be well 23 in excess of $100,000, --

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 THE WITNESS: -- based upon the hours that we have 005666

Dubel - Examination by the Court

98

1 seen to date from them, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Now, does anyone else have 3 questions for Mr. Dubel related to these employment 4 arrangements proposed?

5 (No response.)

6 THE COURT: I guess not. I actually have one more 7 question. I think it will be for my benefit, but maybe for 8 benefit of parties in interest, I hope. You made a comment
9 about getting insurance for Mr. Seery, and you said it was a 10 bit of a challenge because insurers in the marketplace kind of 11 knew what Highland was about. I think those were your words.

12 THE WITNESS: Yes, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: Here is my question. As far as knowing 14 what Highland is about, other persons, not me, have used the 15 words that people were Mr. Dondero's puppet master, or he was 16 the puppet master, had his hands all over this, here and 17 there. And we obviously endeavored to change that with the 18 new Board in place. What would you say if people out there 19 think Dondero still might be a puppet master? What -- I mean, 20 is there any concern there that you could address?

21 THE WITNESS: Sure. And let me, let me take it in 22 two parts, because I think it's important for you to 23 understand from a third-party insurer's point of view. The 24 D&O marketplace has seen a lot of litigation surrounding the 25 Highland Capital name. And because of that, that obviously

005667

1 causes them concern. Their business is to write insurance and 2 never pay a dime. I ran an insurance company for six years, 3 and you never want to pay a dime out, you just want to collect 4 premiums.

5 THE COURT: Yes. And I probably prefaced this in a 6 confusing way. I'm really not going back to the insurance. I 7 just said that comment, when you were talking about insurance, 8 made me want to ask, for my benefit and for other parties' 9 benefit: How much control, if any, does Dondero have? In 10 theory, he was not supposed to have any control over the 11 Debtor anymore, but can you say something to make us all feel 12 comfortable that, if he ever was a puppet master, he's not a 13 puppet master anymore?

14 THE WITNESS: Well, I won't use that terminology.
15 What I will say is, since January 9th --

16 THE COURT: Yes. It was someone else's term, not 17 mine. I'm just repeating it.

18 THE WITNESS: That's okay. Since January 9th, when 19 the Independent Board was put in place, the Independent Board 20 has had the responsibility, is responsible for the operations 21 of this business. Mr. Dondero, as Mr. Seery alluded to 22 earlier in talking about the number of people in the 23 organization, has other businesses that he's involved with 24 that operate out of the offices through shared services. But 25 it's very clear to all the employees that the Independent

Dubel - Examination by the Court

100

1 Board is responsible for HCMLP and that since, really, you
2 know, the early March time frame, that Mr. Seery is the CEO.

3 So there is no concern on my part that Mr. Dondero is 4 having undue influence. He is still our portfolio manager, 5 but Mr. Seery is working with him as appropriate, and I have 6 no concern that Mr. Seery is not getting the job done and 7 getting any undue influence from Mr. Dondero.

8 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

9 Mr. Morris, do you have any redirect?

10 MR. MORRIS: I do not, Your Honor. I appreciate the 11 question, and I think Mr. Dubel answered it appropriately.

12 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Mr. Dubel. I do 13 appreciate your testimony today. It was helpful.

14 All right. Mr. Morris, --

15 THE WITNESS: Thank you, ma'am.

16 THE COURT: -- what else do you have? You have Mr.
17 Sharp on your witness list. Did you want to -- 18 MR. SHARP: I'm here, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: -- put him on?

20 MR. MORRIS: I'm intending to do that. If Your Honor 21 thinks it's not necessary, I don't need to ask more questions.
22 It's a relatively brief examination that will just focus on 23 the slight change in his role.

24 THE COURT: All right. Well, if you feel the need to 25 make a record, you may. I just have one question I want to 005669

Sharp - Examination by the Court

101

1 ask him, to shore up the record.

2 MR. MORRIS: So perhaps, Your Honor, could we swear 3 him in, you ask your question, and then I'll see if there's 4 (echoing)?

5 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Sharp, I see you there.
6 Please raise your right hand.

7 (Echoing.)

8 BRADLEY SHARP, DEBTORS' WITNESS, SWORN

9 THE COURT: Thank you. We were getting some 10 distortion there. So, again, if you're not Mr. Sharp, please 11 put your phone on mute.

12 EXAMINATION BY THE COURT

13 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Sharp, I just wanted to 14 hear from you how many hours a month do you think that you and 15 Mr. Caruso are working on the Highland matter?

16 THE WITNESS: I don't have the hours in front of me, 17 Your Honor, but I think Mr. Dubel unfortunately alluded to 18 poor negotiating on DSI's part. That'd be my responsibility, 19 because I'm the one that did that.

20 From October through May, if you look at the time for Mr.
21 Caruso and myself, DSI has provided about a $730,000 discount.
22 So if we were actually being paid on our hourly rate, our fees 23 would be $730,000 more than the $100,000 a month. We 24 typically run -- my rate is $720 an hour. I think Mr.
25 Caruso's is about the same. The time for the two of us each

005670

Sharp - Direct

102

1 month runs about $200,000, which we then write down to 2 $100,000.

3 THE COURT: All right.

4 THE WITNESS: (echoing) a month.

5 THE COURT: Okay. That answers my question. Mr.
6 Morris, is there anything you wanted to put on the record?

7 DIRECT EXAMINATION

8 BY MR. MORRIS:

9 Q Mr. Sharp, are you the person who was (echoing) with the 10 (echoing) CRO (echoing) Seery (echoing)?

11 A Yes, I am. I think it's much more efficient, frankly.
12 We've worked very well with Mr. Seery since the beginning, 13 since January 9th. That's going to continue. I think it 14 takes away some confusion, both internally and externally, in 15 that, you know, Mr. Seery is the CEO, the CRO, and everyone 16 knows that we are providing the analytical and support for him 17 with whatever he needs.

18 Q And I want to focus just for a second on DSI's (echoing).
19 Is DSI's responsibilities in the case changing at all?

20 A No. No. We have been working for the Board and 21 responding directly to Mr. Seery. You know, as Mr. Seery 22 testified, he works directly with myself and directly with my 23 team, and that's not going to change.

24 MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: All right. Anyone have any questions

005671

103

1 regarding the employment terms?

2 (No response.)

3 THE COURT: All right. Well, I thank you, Mr. Sharp.
4 We appreciate it.

5 All right. Mr. --

6 MR. MORRIS: The Debtor rests, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I presume no one else had a 8 witness to call. Again, we didn't have any responsive 9 pleadings on this.

10 So, with that, I am going to turn to the Committee counsel 11 at this point. Mr. Clemente, I know you said early on that 12 you wanted to make some comments, so this is your opportunity.

13 MR. CLEMENTE: Well, thank you, Your Honor. Matt
14 Clemente from Sidley on behalf of the Committee.

15 And just very briefly, Your Honor, as you know, we did not 16 file an objection. It sounds from what we heard today that 17 Mr. Seery and the Board are working hard, which is, frankly, 18 what I think you expect and what we expect of them.

19 We don't have an objection to the retention of Mr. Seery 20 as CEO at $150,000 a month, which is inclusive of director 21 fees. And as Mr. Pomerantz said, the Committee does not agree 22 -- in fact, that was the source of quite a bit of the 23 negotiation of the last couple of months -- with the bonus 24 proposal. But, again, we understand that that will be 25 addressed by a separate motion.

005672

1 Your Honor, we appreciate Mr. Seery's testimony to advise 2 you and to create the record for purposes of today's 3 uncontested matter. And obviously, the Committee -- there's 4 no live objection. And while the Committee may have different 5 views of what Mr. Seery said -- for example, the working of 6 the protocols, the sophistication of the advisors to the 7 Committee -- again, for purposes of the matter before the 8 Court today, we're not going to take any issue with any of 9 those statements, Your Honor, but reserve the right to do so 10 again in future if it becomes necessary.

11 So, with that, Your Honor, I have no further comments, but 12 I did want to make those couple comments for the record, to 13 make sure Your Honor understood where the Committee is coming 14 from.

15 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Does anyone else wish 16 to make comments about the applications before the Court?

17 (No response.)

18 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, I'll turn it back 19 to you.

20 I found in my notes one question that I had. Looking at 21 your Exhibit 3 is what made me decide I have this question.
22 The Exhibit 3 was the e-mail exchange of Sunday, April 5th 23 amongst the Board members. Let me ask you this. There was 24 something in there regarding Mr. Seery, this would be a full-25 time position, but he would be permitted to serve on outside

1 boards of directors. Is that a term that survived, or no?

2 And if it did, I want to ask how many outside board

3 memberships does he have? Again, I expect, like I think

4 everyone, that it's going to be very full-time, so I don't

5 want to hear that he's on 12 other boards. How did that --

6 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, this is Jeff Pomerantz.

7 Since I was the one who actually was involved in negotiations

8 more than Mr. Morris, --

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. POMERANTZ: -- maybe I can answer. I believe it

11 was something that survived. I am not aware of any other

12 boards that Mr. Seery is on. And if he has actually been able 13 to do anything meaningful while performing what is I think

14 probably 200 hours a month and being available 24/7, I take my 15 hat off to him. But I would ask him to confirm if he has any 16 other material role, but I have not seen anything.

17 THE COURT: All right. What about that, Mr. Seery?

18 MR. SEERY: I -- currently, I'm not on any other

19 outside boards except two charities.

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 MR. SEERY: One is a foundation called the 22 (inaudible) Foundation, which is a charity for (inaudible)

23 individuals, disabled folks, and -- most of whom are abused.

24 And I'm also involved with a charity, I'm not on the board but

25 on a funding committee for Team Rubicon, which is a reference

1 -- reference service, assistance in disasters. So they don't 2 take time like this, and so I'm not going to be involved in 3 any --

4 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. That's what I would 5 hope to hear. I didn't want to hear that you were on, you 6 know, 12 other for-profit boards.

7 So, all right. So, Mr. Morris, Mr. Pomerantz, do you have 8 anything to say before we wrap up this topic?

9 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, I'm happy to give Your 10 Honor a closing statement if you think it's necessary. I 11 think you know what I would say, to summarize. But I think 12 we've been at this a while, so (inaudible).

13 So unless Your Honor has any questions for me, I would 14 just say that the evidentiary record, I believe, supports the 15 entry of an order approving both the Motion to Employ Mr.
16 Seery as the Chief Executive Officer, CRO, and Foreign 17 Representative, and the Motion to Appoint DSI as the Financial 18 Advisor.

19 THE COURT: All right. Well, I am going to grant 20 both of these motions. Again, as for Mr. Seery, it's as 21 modified per the agreements with the Committee, that 22 modification being that, as for any bonuses, we're just 23 deferring to another day whether Mr. Seery is going to get any 24 bonuses related to a plan, what kind of plan it might be, a 25 case resolution plan or a monetization vehicle plan.

1 You know, I really hope, frankly, Mr. Seery is before me
2 seeking a bonus in the very near future and we're all happy 3 about the prospect of paying him a bonus because a plan has 4 been achieved, hopefully a case resolution plan. I will just 5 tell you right now, I will have a big smile on my face and 6 will warmly consider that if we get a great result here.

7 But it's deferred to another day. So I do find it's -- 8 the evidence amply shows a sound business justification and 9 reasonable business judgment on the part of the Debtor in 10 proposing that Mr. Seery be CEO and CRO, essentially, and a 11 foreign representative, where necessary, at the base pay of 12 $150,000 per month, again, with bonuses to be considered at 13 appropriate times down the road if we feel that that is a good 14 thing for Mr. Seery to be paid.

15 And I likewise find that, under 327, 328, 363, the amended 16 application with regard to DSI Specialists and Mr. Sharp and 17 Mr. Caruso should be granted, it appearing to be reasonable 18 business judgment and in the best interests of the estate and 19 appropriate in all ways under those Code sections.

20 All right. So we are going to look for orders on those 21 two matters.

22 Now, unless you have other housekeeping matters you want 23 to talk about, I want to circle back to the mediation topic.
24 Mr. Pomerantz, Mr. Morris, anything you wanted to raise?

25 MR. POMERANTZ: There is actually one other

1 housekeeping matter that Ms. Patel and I have been speaking 2 about and we said we would raise before Your Honor.

3 As Your Honor heard at the last hearing, we had filed an 4 objection to the Acis claim. We initially set the objection
5 for August 6th. Ms. Patel reached out to us, I understand, I 6 remember at the last hearing indicated that August 6th was 7 difficult for her. And especially since we were having the 8 mediation, we had talked to her about a rescheduling. So we 9 are intending put the matter on the September 10th calendar.
10 We have also granted Acis an extension to file a response to 11 July 31st.

12 What I think we would like the Court's input on, and not 13 now, but we would suggest having it done at the next hearing, 14 which is July 21st, as I'm sure Your Honor has not yet read 15 our objection, but it's a quite lengthy objection, I think 55, 16 60 pages. There's a lot of issues there. There are some 17 factual issues, some -- there are some legal issues. There 18 are some combination of factual and legal issues.

19 We think it would be helpful to the process to set up a 20 status conference with Your Honor -- again, to be held perhaps 21 on July 21st, because discovery motions are pending -- where 22 we could walk through with Your Honor what exactly everyone 23 would intend to accomplish on September 10th. We don't 24 believe it should just be a status conference. We searched 25 other dates. On the other hand, I think both parties will

1 have different views on what exactly will be at issue. But I 2 think it would be helpful, from both sides, to hear Your 3 Honor's expectations and to get some ground rules so we can 4 make a hearing, if necessary, on September 10th as productive
5 as possible.

6 THE COURT: All right. So, in writing down dates, 7 did you tell me what -- a deadline you have given Acis, or 8 what is the deadline that would apply under the Rules versus 9 what you have agreed to? Is there something different you've 10 agreed to?

11 MR. POMERANTZ: Sure. I believe, for a hearing on 12 August 6th, based upon when we filed it, I believe their 13 objection would have been due July 23rd or thereabouts. They 14 have asked us for July 31st, and I don't want to be as 15 presumptuous, Your Honor, to say that I have given them the 16 extension. I know that's up to you, Your Honor, to do so.
17 The Debtor does not have any opposition to an extension in 18 that respect, especially given the fact that we're not going 19 to have a hearing until September, although it's obviously 20 going to be important to be able to move forward with 21 negotiations to understand what their specific position is, 22 and, of course, for a mediator to look at both as well.

23 So, again, it's July 31st, September 10th, and then 24 setting up something with Your Honor, whether it be July 21st 25 or some other date, to walk through Your Honor what that

1 hearing will look like so it could be most efficient.

2 THE COURT: All right. Well, I am agreeable to that 3 set of dates and deadlines. Ms. Patel, did you want to say 4 anything about it?

5 MS. PATEL: No, Your Honor. Mr. Pomerantz hit the 6 salient terms. Yes, July 31st is the agreed response date.
7 And that allows, frankly, parties to -- an opportunity -- 8 allows Acis the opportunity to meaningfully brief the issues, 9 as Mr. Pomerantz indicated.

10 It's a 60-page objection. It's very weighty. There's a 11 lot of issues that require due consideration. So we have 12 agreed on that extended date. It's in sufficient time to 13 allow the parties time to read a response and analyze it ahead 14 of a mediation in August.

15 And as Mr. Pomerantz indicated, yes, the parties would 16 like -- effectively, I think he -- he might have referred to 17 it as a status conference. Apologies, my WebEx is cutting in 18 and out a little bit this afternoon. But I think it's 19 probably a status conference/scheduling conference so we can 20 talk about what the trial of the claim objection is going to 21 look like and how it should be structured. And I think, as 22 Mr. Pomerantz alluded to, parties may have very different 23 contexts with respect to that, but we want to just run it by 24 Your Honor, and ultimately it is going to be up to Your Honor 25 with respect to how the trial goes forward.

1 THE COURT: All right. Well, I hope that you all are 2 going to have lots of specific thoughts to share on what the 3 hearing on September 10th would look like, because, holy cow, 4 a $70 million proof of claim that -- I haven't looked at your 5 proof of claim, but it is presumably based on the 34 counts in 6 the adversary proceeding filed in the Acis case, and maybe 7 then some.

8 So, you know, I don't know how in the world, if we had to 9 have a contested hearing on September 10th, we could get that 10 all done in one day.

11 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, Jeff Pomerantz again.
12 Without getting ahead of ourselves, at least the Debtors' view 13 is there are some threshold legal issues --

14 THE COURT: Okay.

15 MR. POMERANTZ: -- that are raised in the objection.
16 And then there are, of course, a series of issues that are 17 factual-intensive.

18 So what we intend to present is how we think we can 19 efficiently deal with it. Again, it's not our expectation to 20 have a lengthy trial on the entire claim objection. But, 21 again, Ms. Patel and I agreed that what we weren't going to do 22 is turn this into a status conference.

23 THE COURT: Okay.

24 MR. POMERANTZ: To the effect that neither party was 25 ready. I would just leave it at that --

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MR. POMERANTZ: -- and say we'd be prepared to talk 3 with you on the 21st.

4 THE COURT: Okay. Well, we -- we'll use that setting
5 partly as a status conference to talk about the September 10th 6 hearing. And, again, I hope you both will have some specific 7 ideas to give me.

8 So, July 21st, we have -- remind me what we have. We are 9 so busy, I haven't looked one week ahead to --

10 MR. POMERANTZ: I believe, and Mr. Morris could 11 correct me if I get ahead of ourselves. I know there's been 12 discussions between us and the Committee on two very -- two, 13 in some sense, the opposite sides of the coin -- discovery
14 motions that are pending before Your Honor. I thought July 15 21st may have been pre-obtained. Again, I could be ahead of 16 my partner there.

17 THE COURT: Okay. That sounds like something that 18 I've set on an expedited basis in the past few days. Mr.
19 Morris, Mr. Clemente -- Mr. Clemente filed a motion, or 20 someone from their shop filed a motion --

21 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor? Your Honor?

22 THE COURT: -- during the middle of our last hearing, 23 as I recall. And I was kind of surprised to get out of court 24 and learn about it. But you're saying you haven't gotten 25 information you've been asking for for months, and we also

1 have a motion for a protective order.

2 So, just give me a short -- I'm trying to figure out how 3 much time we're going to be in court next week on the 21st.
4 It's a discovery dispute.

5 MR. POMERANTZ: And I'll --

6 THE COURT: So, Mr. Pomerantz? Go ahead.

7 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, if my colleague, Paige 8 Montgomery, is on, she's in a better position to address that.
9 I don't know if Ms. Montgomery is on.

10 MS. MONTGOMERY: I'm here. I don't -- my WebEx has 11 been cutting in and out, but I think (inaudible) hear me.

12 THE COURT: We can hear you, but we can't --

13 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes, we can.

14 THE COURT: Oh, there you are. We can now see you as 15 well. So, --

16 MS. MONTGOMERY: Yes, Your Honor. I think the amount 17 of time that might be required for the discovery motions is 18 going to be dependent on the number of third-party objections 19 that may or may not be filed tomorrow. We've been in 20 communication with a number of different parties over the last 21 couple of days, trying to resolve those.

22 But I think, if it were just the two motions and the two 23 parties that filed those, John, I don't know if you disagree, 24 but I'd say that's probably an hour. I just don't know how 25 many other people -- I don't know how many other people will

1 want to participate, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Well, it's going to be whatever 3 it's going to be, but we're going to have -- the main event on 4 the 21st is going to be this document discovery contest, and I
5 guess there's a related motion for protective order. But I 6 don't know how much it's going to be about resisting producing 7 documents versus we'll produce documents if we have a 8 protective order.

9 Mr. Morris, can you, in, you know, a few seconds, answer
10 that?

11 MR. MORRIS: Sure. As the Debtor, we're trying to -- 12 we've got certain interests to protect. We thought we were in 13 a different place in the middle of June, and, you know, this 14 proposal that the Committee made for the first time on July -- 15 on June 26th is really what, from my perspective, prompted us 16 to be here.

17 But we've made a proposal to the Committee. We haven't 18 received a response to that. We're trying to address these 19 issues. But it's not, you know, it's not contentious. I 20 think our interests are legitimate. I think the motion that 21 we made is either for a protective order or for an order 22 directing us to produce the documents. Because as the motion 23 itself sets forth, Your Honor, the Debtor has certain 24 contractual and other obligations to some third parties. We 25 have given notice to those third parties of our -- of our

1 intent to make this motion, because we are kind of between a 2 rock and a hard place. We can't produce the documents 3 without, you know, potentially violating obligations to third 4 parties.

5 And so we'd just ask the Court to be the referee here, to 6 make the decision as to how it gets resolved. And we've given 7 notice to these third parties so that they fairly have an 8 opportunity to be heard, too. And I've been in communication 9 with some of them as well, and I've encouraged them to speak 10 with the Debtor, because ultimately, you know, if the Debtor 11 and the third parties can come to an agreement on the 12 production of the documents, you know, that will resolve, you 13 know, a substantial piece of the issue.

14 MR. POMERANTZ: You mentioned the -- you meant the 15 Committee, John, not the Debtor.

16 MR. MORRIS: I apologize. Yes. Thank you.

17 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, John.

18 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I hope you have this largely 19 worked out. Obviously, I hope that. You know, I just 20 remember doing a very quick pass through the Committee's 21 motion, but I do remember them saying they've been trying to 22 get these documents for a very long time, and I think I recall 23 there's pressure building now because I gave you a 90-day
24 deadline to either file a lawsuit regarding the CLO Holdco 25 issues that we had a hearing on a few weeks ago, a couple of 1 weeks ago, or I'm probably going to release the money in the 2 registry of the Court. And so that's part of why you're 3 trying to get these documents as soon as possible, right, Ms.

4 Montgomery?

5 MS. MONTGOMERY: Yes, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Okay. All right. You all try to work
7 this out. Okay?

8 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you.

9 THE COURT: Well, I was partly pressing the issue of 10 what's July 21st going to look like because I think we may 11 carry over the discussion about mediation. We're going to 12 start it right now, but I think we may have to carry it over 13 to the 21st, and I hope finally kind of get a game plan 14 together on that day.

15 So, I wanted Mr. Seery to be available. Mr. Seery is -- 16 if you're still there somewhere. You're very important, in my 17 view, to mediation potentially being successful here -- and 18 the whole Board is, for that matter -- because -- well, let me 19 digress a minute.

20 Mediation is going to be very tough here. We all know 21 that mediation tends to be more likely to succeed if we've got 22 face-to-face, in-person participation. And as I said last 23 week, I just don't know how I can order people to be in face-24 to-face mediation right now. I just -- we've got people 25 spread out, and I think it would be very, very bad to order

1 face-to-face mediation right now.

2 But on the topic of mediation, you know, I've heard some 3 things that, you know, we all know, but I've heard some things
4 from Mr. Seery that are important to stress today. This isn't 5 the type of case that needs to be in bankruptcy for months and 6 months and months and months. Okay? We have the issue of the 7 professional fees accruing, of course, like every case. But 8 we have a company where -- it's a strange fit for bankruptcy, 9 right, this kind of company. And it's so dependent on people 10 to provide value. And people can bolt. You know, people can 11 get weary of the bankruptcy and want to be somewhere else 12 where that taint is not there in the marketplace.

13 The issue of the UCC protocols was brought up by Mr.
14 Seery, and I know that is something that is going to be 15 cumbersome, you know, for this company to be in bankruptcy 16 long-term.

17 So, I want to go to Mr. Seery, and it may be unusual for 18 me to reach out to you and ask this, but I want to hear from 19 you: Do you think mediation is a waste-of-time pipe dream, 20 for lack of a better term? I really want mediation to happen, 21 because I don't know how we quickly get a confirmed plan if we 22 have, well, the voting issue, for one, right? We have to, at 23 a minimum, figure out what is UBS's voting claim. What's its 24 claim for voting purposes? What is Acis's claim for voting 25 purposes? A looming, huge issue in my mind. So I feel like

1 we've got to have mediation. We've got to get a strong shot 2 at getting these two claims liquidated, at least for voting 3 purposes, if not overall.

4 So, is this a pipe dream, Mr. Seery, in your view, that 5 mediation might get to resolution on these two claims? What 6 do you think about it?

7 MR. SEERY: The quick answer, Your Honor, is I don't 8 think it's a pipe dream. I think there's a legitimate shot to 9 move parties together.

10 Let me just say one thing that -- reflecting on what Mr.
11 Clemente said. I want to make clear for the record that, to 12 the extent I misspoke, and it would have been misspeaking, I 13 have no negative implication regarding the sophistication, 14 professionalism, or focus of Sidley --

15 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

16 MR. SEERY: -- or FTI or any of the professionals. I 17 know these folks. They're really good. They're very 18 sophisticated. I have the highest professional and personal 19 respect for them. So, to the extent that I misspoke, I 20 apologize.

21 THE COURT: I don't think you did, and that's not how 22 I heard it --

23 MR. SEERY: Okay.

24 THE COURT: -- and that's certainly not how I meant 25 it. It's just a fact of bankruptcy that it's expensive.

1 Okay? So, --

2 MR. SEERY: Yeah.

3 THE COURT: Right.

4 MR. SEERY: I just wanted that to be clear.

5 I think, particularly with respect, Your Honor, to the 6 Acis and UBS claims, our professionals have done a lot of work 7 on them. Obviously, the professionals for Acis and UBS have 8 done a lot of work on them. There may be things that we know, 9 the perspectives that we have, and perspectives that the other 10 side has, that may not be as well-founded as each side thinks.
11 It could be very valuable to have a third-party objective 12 observer, cajoler, somebody who's strong, to help move the 13 parties off of certain positions.

14 We would like to think, as a Board, Independent Board, and 15 I'd like to think as an Independent Director and now as a CEO, 16 I didn't really have a -- the proverbial dog in that fight for 17 either of those claims. I wasn't -- I'm not a Highland 18 employee. I don't have any animus towards any of the sides.
19 I don't have any history with any of the sides.

20 But I'm realistic that I take a perspective around certain 21 claims and how they're brought, the factual and legal basis 22 for them. And I get a lot of that information from Highland 23 employees, and we use that information to then perform the 24 analysis with our professionals.

25 Likewise, these parties have been involved in, on the

1 other side, very entrenched disputes with Highland and 2 Highland employees. And they've dug in on their positions.

3 Having a third party hear each side and start to move 4 could give us the chance to break it open. I think there's -- 5 and there's two really important aspects. One is the claim 6 amount, and then, obviously, the distributions on the claims: 7 How to make those, how much are they, when are they made? We 8 can work on both of those, and I think we need some help 9 moving us both on the claim amounts and on how to make the 10 distributions.

11 We've made progress with Redeemer because even though they 12 had -- they had an arbitration award, so we knew what the 13 outside would be. Now, Redeemer and their attorneys are very 14 good and very creative. They could stretch the outside in 15 those discussions. I won't get into what they are. But we 16 were able to more easily fashion around the particulars of 17 that claim because there was that judgment from the 18 arbitrators that, while it hasn't been entered, gave us much 19 more guidelines as to where we could look. The other claims 20 are much more amorphous, at least at this stage, and having a 21 third party help us develop perhaps closer goal lines would be 22 useful, in my opinion.

23 But, again, I think it's very important that we do it 24 quickly. I think we -- you know, somebody who is focused, 25 strong. I'm sure they'll be highly intelligent and versed in

1 the field, but somebody who's got the opportunity and time to 2 do it. And then, if it's unsuccessful, then, as Mr. Pomerantz 3 and Ms. Patel alluded to, then perhaps we may need some 4 judicial help to move those goal lines a little bit.

5 But I do think that mediation -- and I apologize for the 6 length of my answer -- could be a very helpful way to do it, 7 provided we get there quickly.

8 THE COURT: All right. I guess my other question I 9 wanted your view on is structure. You know, when someone -- 10 Mr. Pomerantz, I think -- told me that he or others had 11 reached out to our judges in Houston, Judge Jones and Judge 12 Isgur, my initial reaction -- and, frankly, my continued 13 thought on that -- is they just don't have meaningful time, 14 because I don't think one day of cajoling is going to be 15 enough to get -- you know, you're a billion dollars apart on 16 UBS, right? The Debtor, I guess, thinks zero is the amount of 17 their claim, and UBS thinks it's a billion, and it's been 18 litigated for 11 years. And then I personally know, you know, 19 how Acis feels about its positions.

20 So, anyway, what I'm getting at is structure. I in some 21 ways think what we need here is sort of a master statesman-22 type person who would spend meaningful time, not just a day or 23 two, but days or even weeks trying to reach a grand 24 compromise.

25 On the other hand, in my experience -- I've never done

1 that in a case as judge. But as a lawyer, I felt like that 2 kind of person can hijack a case, and we don't need that here.
3 We have wonderful professionals, a wonderful Board, a 4 wonderful CEO. We don't need that kind of help, I worry.

5 So, I guess where I'm evolving, you know, we've got the 6 two-sitting-judge option that would be free mediators that 7 could give you a day or two. Maybe. And then we have kind of 8 the master statesman who might be in there for weeks, trying 9 to help you reach a grand compromise.

10 Another option, I think, is one or two mediators who just 11 zero in, you know, on the UBS claim versus -- and the Acis 12 claim. And I have a couple of private mediators in mind that 13 have very good video capabilities to have a sophisticated 14 video mediation.

15 So, all of this rambling to say, Do you think we need to 16 just zero in on Acis and UBS and maybe have one or two people 17 to do formal video mediation with those two parties, or do we 18 need sort of more of a grand pooh-bah, grand compromise-type 19 person?

20 MR. SEERY: My view, Your Honor, is that we should 21 focus on the claims, but they're not just going to be two-22 party, because we do have other active constituents. I think 23 Redeemer, with their party in interest status, is going to 24 want to be part of it.

25 I think if we can focus on those, we have the 1 professionals to help drive the grander bargain that I've 2 alluded to in some of those discussions we've been having. So 3 they haven't progressed as far as I would like, but they have 4 progressed. We do need the bottom line number for where 5 claims are going to come out. But also that will help frame a 6 little bit as to what parties expect in terms of distributions 7 on their claims.

8 And I think the reason that we had some impetus behind a 9 sitting judge -- frankly, I didn't know that sitting judges 10 couldn't be paid. I think that's -- there should be a 11 standard rate, because we shouldn't take people's time for 12 free in these cases, and I know judges work extremely hard and 13 if they're going to put in extra time, then they should maybe 14 be compensated, but that's a whole different issue.

15 I don't think we should get too hung up on the cost. We 16 are -- the costs of this case are extremely high, and we are, 17 with best intents, sometimes getting ourselves wrapped up in 18 things that should be, I think, more swiftly and economically 19 dealt with and dispatched.

20 So, if we can get a good mediator, and I think the reason 21 folks think about a judge is -- a sitting judge, it's not just 22 the vast experience that folks -- judges like yourself have, 23 Your Honor, and in particular with these issues, but also the 24 requirement that all the participants, notwithstanding the 25 professionals and -- that you see here, the requirement that

1 all the participants know that they're dealing with a sitting 2 judge, there's a certain decorum that's required. But that, I
3 think we get anyway. But there's also a -- there's less 4 willingness to go to the furthest reaches of your argument
5 when you have someone who's on the bench who sees those types 6 of positions taken frequently and can dispatch with them more 7 readily.

8 So, I think there are a number of individuals that I've 9 dealt with in the past who would have the ability, the 10 gravitas, for lack of a better term, to be able to help push 11 the parties in the right direction. And I think it's a matter 12 of finding somebody, as you said, with both the capabilities, 13 which we'll find, but also the capacity in terms of the time 14 to do it. And then, in the video age, maybe some facility in 15 being able to make that happen both rapidly and effectively on 16 screen.

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, this is Jeff Pomerantz.
19 And I'd just make a couple of comments.

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 MR. POMERANTZ: You know, as Mr. Seery said, we were 22 predisposed towards a sitting judge. And while we did share 23 the same concerns about the timing of Judge Jones and Isgur, 24 we understand you've probably been in communication with them, 25 and if that's not going to work, we appreciate it. We want

1 this mediation to be effective and we want someone to spend 2 the time with it. And if you didn't feel that they, you know, 3 could commit to that, we totally appreciate that.

4 We thought long and hard about the people that you
5 identified at the last hearing, former Judge Peck and Sylvia 6 Mayer. We've done our diligence. The Debtor would be willing 7 to mediate before Sylvia Mayer. We think that, based upon our 8 diligence, the people we've spoken to, that she, if she 9 otherwise had the time and the abil... the time to devote to 10 it, that being a former big-firm lawyer in permanent practice 11 now as a mediator, that the Debtor would find her acceptable.

12 THE COURT: All right. Does anyone else wish to 13 comment? Because I have a very positive view of Sylvia Mayer, 14 and certainly her video capabilities, I think, are far and 15 away better than a few other people I've chatted with.

16 MS. PATEL: Your Honor?

17 MR. CLEMENTS: Your Honor? Oh, I'm sorry.

18 MS. PATEL: Go ahead.

19 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, --

20 THE COURT: Not that I would ever, you know, put that 21 ahead of, you know, overall abilities, but it just is an added 22 plus, a huge plus right now during COVID.

23 Go ahead.

24 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, Matt Clemente on behalf of 25 the Committee. Just a couple observations, building a little

1 bit on what Mr. Seery said.

2 We had consensus among the Committee around Judge Isgur
3 and Judge Jones. I think the view, the consensus view -- and,
4 again, I use the word consensus and not unanimity because I 5 want Your Honor to understand that -- is that having a sitting 6 judge, ideally, given the personalities as you've expressed 7 and I think as Mr. Seery has expressed, provides the best 8 possibility for a successful mediation. It may not be that 9 overlord that spends three weeks, but, you know, it is a 10 strong personality that -- not that any of the names that have 11 been raised aren't tremendously to be respected, but that 12 would be respected by all of the parties simply by the fact 13 that they're a sitting judge.

14 With that said, Your Honor, and, again, the speed. Again, 15 I don't have unanimity from the Committee, but there is 16 consensus to see if Sitting Judge Green from the Southern 17 District of New York would have the time and the capability to 18 spend. And I know Your Honor has concerns about the time. I 19 think Judge Isgur and Judge Jones occupy a special place in 20 terms of how busy they are, but at least among the Committee 21 members, there's been discussion that that may be a suitable 22 approach in terms of identifying a mediator and accomplishing 23 the objectives of having a very strong mediation, mediator, on 24 a timely basis, that has the best possibility of success.

25 That being said, Your Honor, based on what Mr. Pomerantz

1 said, if Mr. Green is not acceptable or if Your Honor doesn't 2 wish for us to go in that direction, I do have consensus among 3 the Committee members to move forward with Ms. Mayer as 4 mediator.

5 So, a little -- maybe a little convoluted in my comments 6 there, Your Honor, but the main thrust is I think there is 7 consensus among the Committee to consider a sitting judge, and 8 Judge Green would be someone who would be satisfactory. And 9 if he's not acceptable, or I should say acceptable but not 10 able to do it, Ms. Mayer would be acceptable to the Committee.

11 THE COURT: All right. Well, let me put this out 12 there. I talked on a no-names basis with Ms. Mayer last 13 Friday. And it was actually more in the nature of making 14 inquiries about how an organization she's connected with, the 15 AAA -- you've heard of the American Arbitration Association; 16 they, of course, do mediation -- what their experience and 17 capabilities were with many, many parties and video mediation.
18 And as you might guess, they have a lot of experience already 19 -- you know, a number well in excess of a hundred; I can't 20 remember -- of doing video mediations with many parties and 21 having the different constituencies in this caucus room and 22 that caucus room. And, very importantly, having lots of IT 23 staff to give instructions, to give help, to, you know, tackle 24 technology problems.

25 But in that discussion, I learned that there is a panel

1 that AAA has put together of 12 mediators that have bankruptcy 2 expertise. And, of course, Sylvia Mayer is one of those 3 people. But Retired Bankruptcy Judge Gropper -- is it Groper 4 or Gropper from the Southern District of New York? I always 5 forget which way he pronounces his name. Anyway, he is on 6 that. He is on that panel of 12.

7 Mr. Seery, you're grinning like you want to say something 8 about this.

9 MR. SEERY: No. Only on the Gropper/Groper, because 10 there's a professional that I know that is similarly named, 11 and I believe -- and I believe Judge Groper -- I may have it 12 wrong, but I think it's -- it's Judge Groper and Dan Gropper.
13 But that's the best I --

14 MR. NEIER: It's Dan Groper and Judge Gropper. I 15 actually had a mediation with the two of them when they argued 16 about the pronunciation of their name.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Well, Gropper. So we -- it's 18 Gropper. Okay.

19 A VOICE: Yes.

20 THE COURT: My point was, without -- I've not talked 21 to him at all. And by the way, I haven't personally reached 22 out to Jim Peck, but we'll stop that discussion about him.
23 But after getting off the call with Sylvia Mayer and a couple 24 of other people at the AAA Friday, I put together in my brain, 25 maybe we could have a Sylvia Mayer/Allan Gropper tag team, two

1 mediators. Okay? I don't know how that would affect the 2 cost, but that might be the way to go in such a complex case.
3 You know, maybe they could divvy up among themselves. One 4 would be the primary mediator on Acis, one would be the 5 primary mediator on UBS, but they would both work together.

6 If you all want to think on that, digest that a little, 7 and we, you know, decide definitely next week on the 21st, we 8 could do that. Or we could just all say, yeah, that's a good 9 game plan, and I can get on the phone after this. Or it 10 actually may be tomorrow, because I have a terrible hearing 11 that I've got to prepare for at 9:30 in the morning tomorrow.
12 It may be tomorrow.

13 But do people want to let that soak in a little bit, or 14 shall -- I mean, --

15 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, this is Jeff Pomerantz.

16 THE COURT: -- frankly, I can order it either way. I 17 can order it. But I just really want to be conciliatory to 18 the parties who are owed the money and have to pay the money, 19 if you want to think on it some.

20 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, it's Jeff Pomerantz.
21 Having my newly-minted CEO on the phone, Mr. Seery, I would 22 ask him, and if he says that it would be okay, then it would 23 be okay with me.

24 MR. SEERY: Be fine with me.

25 THE COURT: Okay.

1 MR. SEERY: Yeah, I think the key is moving forward.
2 I know it's much harder with a Committee, and I respect, you
3 know, Matt Clemente's job there of having to get consensus.
4 But from our perspective, if we were to push it off, you know,
5 on the 21st, Your Honor, we -- we would request you to order
6 something, because I don't want this to delay.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, if I may, speaking for UBS, 9 it's Andrew Clubok. You'll be happy to know I think that 10 we're in agreement with Mr. Seery, and I guess, derivatively, 11 Mr. Pomerantz. We think the most important thing is to move 12 it along quickly, and we trust -- you know, we're familiar 13 with Judge -- or, with Mayer, and whether it's Groper or 14 Gropper, I lost track, but I'm sure he is also going to be 15 equally capable. We do kind of think that two is probably 16 necessary, given, you know, the sort of multi-layer 17 (inaudible).

18 But, really, our position has simply been we'll happily 19 mediate with any, you know, effective mediator as quickly as 20 possible, because we do think the sooner we do that, the 21 sooner we might have a chance to get to yes. So, I'm -- we're 22 prepared to just say yes to the idea.

23 THE COURT: All right. Does anyone else want to 24 comment?

25 MS. PATEL: Your Honor? And can you hear me? I'm 1 sorry. It's --

2 THE COURT: Yes.

3 MS. PATEL: Again, I'm still having WebEx problems.

4 THE COURT: Yes.

5 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, again, for the record, Rakhee
6 Patel.

7 Acis is fine with the proposal, Your Honor. We've been 8 amenable to virtually every proposal, and have been trying to 9 hopefully be helpful with respect to getting this moved to 10 mediation as quickly as possible. We equally think that we 11 should get to mediation as quickly as we can.

12 And, you know, the only -- the only -- and I appreciate 13 Your Honor's contemplativeness on this. As you know, at least 14 in connection with the Acis case, you know, we've been through 15 two unsuccessful mediations so far. So we're really hoping 16 that the third time will go much better than the prior two.

17 So, anyway, this is my very long way of saying we're fine 18 with the proposal and are happy to kind of sign off on it. We 19 don't need until July 21st to respond on that.

20 THE COURT: Okay. Anyone else?

21 (No response.)

22 THE COURT: All right. Well, very good. I'm going 23 to move ahead on this and will confirm to you, hopefully 24 before the 21st, through my courtroom deputy. And, again, 25 given the late hour, I think it's going to be tomorrow before

1 I pick up the phone and reach out to Sylvia Mayer and former 2 Judge Gropper.

3 But, again, I did, in speaking generically with Sylvia
4 Mayer, asking her, Have you ever done like a two-mediator 5 mega-mediation, and she said, Oh, sure. You know, that's -- 6 she acted like it was quite common. It's not something that I 7 have seen very often, but I think we'll be in business with 8 this game plan.

9 Because, you know, I know everyone on this call knows 10 this, but maybe not everyone's client knows this: If we don't 11 -- if we don't have a successful mediation of both of these 12 claims, or at least one of these claims, it's going to be 13 years and years and years. I mean, I know it's already been 14 years for UBS, but it will -- it will be many, many more 15 years. And that's not what we're supposed to do in 16 bankruptcy. We're supposed to stop burdensome litigation and 17 solve problems. And I can't imagine your clients want to go 18 on with three or four more years of litigation. But that's 19 exactly what it will be, it's exactly what it will be, many 20 more years of litigation, if we don't have mediated 21 settlements.

22 So, all right.

23 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, if I may very quickly. I 24 just wanted to make sure the Court was aware of something. In 25 the context of mediation and as it relates to Acis's claim,

1 yesterday counsel for Mr. Dondero filed a joinder in the 2 Debtors' objection to Acis's claim. So, again, just thinking 3 about this in the context of mediation, I think, with that 4 joinder, they will be a necessary party. So, going back to 5 Mr. Seery's point, this is not just --

6 THE COURT: Oh, absolutely. Mr. Dondero is --

7 MS. PATEL: -- a two-party --

8 THE COURT: -- going to be a required party in 9 mediation. Absolutely. So, --

10 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: All right. Well, if there's nothing
12 further, we'll see you on the 21st. And, again, my courtroom 13 deputy may be reaching out before then if we've got things 14 nailed down on mediation.

15 (Proceedings concluded at 4:54 p.m.)

5 THE COURT: This is Judge Jernigan, and we are ready 6 to start a hearing today in Highland. Before I take 7 appearances, let me just kind of say where I think we are.

8 We have a document production dispute on the calendar 9 today, primarily between the Unsecured Creditors' Committee and 10 the debtor. Basically it's an ESI protocol dispute, as I 11 understand it.

12 We have had eight other parties in interest weigh in 13 on the dispute with pleadings. So I'll do a roll call.

14 (The Court engaged in off-the-record unrelated colloquy)

15 THE COURT: I'm a little hamstrung here because I 16 don't have my glasses, but my law clerk is working on that. I 17 guess I do have a magnifying glass here.

18 All right, well, why don't we do a roll call while 19 he's getting my glasses, of the different parties in interest.
20 I'm going to call parties one-by-one to avoid talking overlap.

21 For the Committee, it looks like we have Mr.
22 Clemente, is that correct?

23 (No audible response heard)

24 THE COURT: Oh, you're on mute.

25 MR. CLEMENTE: My apologies, Your Honor. Matt

1 Clemente from Sidley on behalf of the Committee. My partner, 2 Paige Montgomery, is also here with me, and she will be 3 addressing the Court today, as well.

4 THE COURT: Okay. Very good. For the debtor, who do 5 we have participating today?

6 MR. KHARASCH: Good morning, Your Honor. It's Ira 7 Kharasch of Pachulski Stang, and we also have John Morris from 8 Pachulski Stang, as well.

9 THE COURT: Okay; good afternoon.

10 All right. Mr. Dondero's counsel weighed in. Who do 11 we have appearing for Mr. Dondero this afternoon?

12 MR. LYNN: Yes, Your Honor. Michael Lynn and John 13 Bonds for Jim Dondero.

14 THE COURT: Okay, very good.

15 Now I'm going to go through the seven other parties 16 that have weighed in. For the party Atlas, do we have Paul 17 Keiffer or some other lawyer participating?

18 MR. KEIFFER: Yes, Your Honor, Paul Keiffer here.

19 THE COURT: All right; good afternoon.

20 For H.C. and Fund Advisors, who do we have appearing?

21 MR. WRIGHT: Good afternoon, Your Honor. You have 22 James Wright and Steve Topetzes at K&L Gates.

23 THE COURT: Okay; very good.

24 All right, CCS Medical, who do we have appearing?

25 MS. STRATFORD: Your Honor, it's Tracy Stratford from 1 Jones Day.

2 THE COURT: Okay; thank you.

3 MS. STRATFORD: Thank you.

4 THE COURT: CLO Holding, who do we have?

5 MR. KANE: Your Honor, John Kane for CLO Holdco, 6 Limited.

7 THE COURT: Okay, Holdco, excuse me; thank you.

8 What about NexPoint?

9 (No audible response heard)

10 THE COURT: Anyone appearing for NexPoint? Jason 11 Rudd, Lauren Drawhorn perhaps?

12 (No audible response heard)

13 MR. WRIGHT: Your Honor, this is James Wright again
14 at K&L Gates. We represent one of the NexPoint entities, 15 NexPoint Advisors. But I understand there are some other 16 NexPoint entities that we don't represent, and they may have a 17 separate objection, just to be clear.

18 THE COURT: Okay. Yes, there was a separate 19 objection. The same firm, Wick Phillips, filed an objection by 20 MGM.

21 So, again, I'll ask, is there anyone on the phone for 22 those clients?

23 (No audible response heard)

24 THE COURT: All right, well, we may -- oh, I see 25 Lauren Drawhorn on the video; are you muted, Ms. Drawhorn? Ms.

1 Drawhorn, we can see you but we can't hear you. Cannot hear
2 you. We definitely see you.

3 If we can't -- yes, if you could call on your cell 4 phone, we can hear you that way, and you can keep your visual 5 on, as well.

6 Okay, I'll go on. What about HCLOF, do we have 7 someone from King & Spalding?

8 (No audible response heard)

9 THE COURT: Okay. I'm not hearing anyone from King & 10 Spalding.

11 MR. MALONE: Your Honor, this is Mark Malone. I'm 12 not sure if you can hear me, I'm only dialed in on my phone.

13 THE COURT: Okay, I --

14 MR. MALONE: Can you hear me?

15 THE COURT: I do hear you, Mr. Malone; thank you.

16 MR. MALONE: Yes, and Rebecca Matsumura is trying -- 17 I suspect feverishly, I don't have the video. I know she's 18 plugged in on the video. She'll be handling any argument, 19 assuming we can get her on. If not, I'm happy to handle it.
20 But we are here, Your Honor; thank you.

21 THE COURT: All right, thank you.

22 MS. MATSUMURA: Can y'all hear me now?

23 THE COURT: Yes. Who is that?

24 MS. MATSUMURA: This is --

25 THE COURT: Was that Ms. Matsumura?

1 MS. MATSUMURA: This is Rebecca Matsumura; sorry 2 about that.

3 THE COURT: Okay, we hear you and we see you; very 4 good.

5 All right. I'll go back to Ms. Drawhorn, do we have 6 you on the phone yet?

7 (No audible response heard)

8 THE COURT: All right. Well, hopefully -- hopefully 9 we can get whatever technical difficulties there worked out.

10 I'll ask, for the record, are there any other parties 11 in interest wishing to make an appearance? And I'm going to 12 forewarn you that I'm not going to be inclined to let any other 13 party make an argument today unless you give me a reason I 14 should that absolutely knocks my socks off. So I assume we 15 might have people wanting to appear, but who are not going to 16 make an argument. If so, go ahead.

17 MR. ANNABLE: Your Honor, this is Zachary Annable and 18 Melissa Hayward of Hayward & Associates, local counsel for the 19 debtor. We just wanted to let you know we're here, too.

20 THE COURT: All right; thank you.
21 Anyone else?

22 MS. MASCHERIN: Yes, Your Honor. Terri Mascherin and 23 Marc Hankin from Jenner & Block on behalf of the Redeemer 24 Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund.

25 THE COURT: All right; thank you, Ms. Mascherin.

1 MR. SLADE: Your Honor, it's Jared Slade and Jonathan
2 Edwards of Alston & Bird. We're here on behalf of NexBank.
3 And I'm not sure if it's going to knock your socks off, but we 4 were engaged just this week by NexBank as a party in interest, 5 the issue about the ESI disclosures. We have been negotiating 6 with the Creditors' Committee about the issues, and we hope to 7 have an opportunity to present a minute or two at the end about 8 why we were differently situated than some of the other 9 objectors, if the Court entertains it.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. SLADE: Thank you.

12 THE COURT: Thank you.

13 MR. CLUBOK: And, Your Honor, Andrew Clubok and 14 Kimberly Posin for UBS.

15 THE COURT: Okay; thank you.

16 MS. PATEL: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Rakhee Patel
17 and Annmarie Chiarello on behalf of Acis Capital Management, 18 but we don't intend on making any presentation, Your Honor, 19 unless anyone specifically asks to address things. Our matters 20 are after this.

21 THE COURT: Okay, correct.

22 Anyone else?

23 (No audible response heard)

24 THE COURT: All right. Well, let's talk --

25 MS. DRAWHORN: Your Honor?

1 THE COURT: Oh, go ahead.

2 MS. DRAWHORN: This is Lauren Drawhorn, I got my -- 3 I'm sorry, I got the audio -- the speaking to work.

4 THE COURT: Okay.

5 MS. DRAWHORN: I'm appearing on behalf of the 6 NexPoint Real Estate entities, there's 15 of them. I can go 7 through them, if you want, or -- they're listed on Docket 847.

8 And then I'm also appearing on behalf of MGM 9 Holdings, Inc.

10 THE COURT: Okay, thank you, Ms. Drawhorn. We've got 11 you loud and clear now.

12 All right, well, I want to talk for a moment about 13 how we are going to proceed here today, and I'm hoping we don't 14 go late, late, late with ten or so parties wanting to weigh in 15 on document production because we do have the Acis status 16 conference regarding the September 10th setting on the 17 objection to Acis's proof of claim, I want to make sure we get 18 to that today.

19 And then I do want to talk a little bit about where 20 we stand on getting the mediation going.

21 So for everyone's benefit, I'm just going to let you 22 know that I think I have a handle on the primary disputes
23 between the Committee and the debtor. There's a lot of finger-24 pointing that is going on in the papers.

25 The UCC is suggesting that the debtor has been

1 dragging its heels; and the debtor saying no, it hasn't.

2 I really don't want to get bogged down by that today.
3 I really just want to focus on the handful of things that seem 4 to be in dispute between the Committee and the debtor, and so 5 we're going to obviously start with the Committee and the 6 debtor. I want to hear about are we going to have evidence 7 today. I know there were a couple of declarations filed.

8 And then I'm inclined to, thereafter, just give these 9 eight or nine other parties five or ten minutes each to present 10 any arguments that they think I need to hear.

11 But I'll tell you, I closely read the Committee's 12 pleadings, I closely read the debtor's pleadings, Mr. Dondero's 13 pleading.

14 And then, frankly, I skimmed very rapidly the other 15 seven or so pleadings because of being pressed for time, but I 16 do think I get the gist of them. And I think a lot of them 17 kind of have the same theme.

18 But before turning to the debtor and the Committee, 19 let me just tell you what my understanding is that we're going 20 to primarily focus on:

21 We're obviously talking about emails of nine 22 different custodians of the debtor, three of which I understand 23 to be in-house lawyers. And whether it's the Committee's 24 protocol that should be ordered here, or the debtor's protocol, 25 and the way I see the two protocols differing is the debtor

1 wants independent contract -- or contract attorneys for the 2 debtor to do a relevance review. UCC says no, that's going to 3 be time-consuming, and strangers can't meaningfully do that.

4 It looks like there's a dispute about the search term
5 request. Committee thinks what debtor is wanting is too 6 stringent.

7 And then, of course, we have some competing views 8 about how the privilege review process would work, and the 9 debtor has obviously this overriding concern about 10 confidentiality obligations it has, either contractually and/or 11 shared services agreements, or through other law.

12 So now I will, at long last, turn -- I'm going to, I 13 guess, start with the Committee because it is first in time 14 with its pleading the motion to compel. And then, of course, 15 the debtor came quickly behind that pleading with its own 16 motion for protective order.

17 And so -- I don't know, Mr. Montgomery, or Mr.
18 Clemente, let me hear from you on how you --

19 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

20 THE COURT: -- want to go forward today.

21 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, this is John Morris from 22 Pachulski. I greatly apologize for interrupting, but I have a 23 slightly different suggestion.

24 We had made a proposal to try to resolve our disputes
25 with the Committee a few days ago. The Committee responded

1 with its own proposal about an hour before this hearing, and 2 we'd like an opportunity to confer with them. But under -- 3 even under the -- even if we were to reach an agreement, I 4 think the Court needs to rule on the other objections.

5 So my suggestion, subject to the Committee's 6 acceptance and Your Honor's acceptance, of course, is that we 7 allow the Committee to proceed and let the --

8 (Technical interference)

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. MORRIS: Let the other objectors be heard.

11 And then after the conclusion, and the resolution of 12 those objections, some of which I understand may have been 13 resolved already, we take a short break, and allow me to confer 14 with Ms. Montgomery to see if we can resolve the balance of the 15 issues, that's my suggestion.

16 THE COURT: Okay. So start with the Committee, hear 17 their argument, and then any objectors who haven't otherwise 18 been taken care of through agreements, hear from them, all 19 right. Well, I am perfectly happy to go forward this way, 20 especially if it means that we'll save some time in court, and 21 the debtor and Committee can get on the same page without the 22 Court ordering something.

23 So will it be Ms. Montgomery or Mr. Clemente? Which 24 one of you wants to start us off?

25 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, it's Matt Clemente. My

1 colleague, Ms. Montgomery, will be handling it. So I'll turn 2 it over to her, please.

3 THE COURT: All right. Ms. Montgomery?

4 (Pause)

5 MS. MONTGOMERY: ... the objection that the debtor
6 has filed --

7 THE COURT: All right. Ms. Montgomery, I'm going to 8 ask you to start from the beginning, we missed the first few 9 seconds, okay?

10 MS. MONTGOMERY: Sure. Can you hear me now?

11 THE COURT: Yes.

12 MS. MONTGOMERY: So consistent with the proposal that 13 Mr. Morris laid out, I plan to reserve any arguments with 14 regard to the dispute between the Committee and the debtors for 15 now in the hopes that we can get those resolved at the 16 conclusion, and we'll just focus on the objections, if that 17 works for the Court.

18 THE COURT: Okay, that's fine.

19 MS. MONTGOMERY: We've been working diligently with 20 all of the objectors that Your Honor is aware of, as well as a 21 few that did not file objections over the last week or so in an 22 attempt to resolve as many of their concerns as possible before 23 today's hearing.

24 And we're happy to tell the Court that we have 25 resolved some of those objections. We were able to negotiate

1 an out-of-court resolution with regard to an entity called 2 Omnimax International, Inc. without them filing an objection.

3 And we have resolved the objection of Highland CLO
4 Funding Ltd. And pursuant to that agreement with Highland CLO
5 Funding, Highland CLO Funding has requested that the Court 6 order, at the end of today's argument, include a statement that 7 any documents that they produce pursuant to joint privilege 8 aren't subject to a privilege waiver by virtue of their 9 production to the Committee.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MS. MONTGOMERY: And if I missed anything there, I'm 12 sure that counsel for Highland CLO will correct me at the end.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MS. MONTGOMERY: We also have an agreement in 15 principle with Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, LP 16 and the remaining entities that submitted their objections at 17 Docket 841.

18 Pursuant to that agreement in principle, we have no 19 objection to those entities being treated as parties to a 20 protective order or to having certain data being isolated from 21 review as a preliminary matter subject to reservation of 22 rights.

23 What we don't have an agreement on, Your Honor, is 24 how those documents will be isolated. And we intend to 25 continue working with Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors

1 and K&L Gates to try to knock out the details of that in the 2 coming days. We preliminarily don't believe that it's 3 necessary for you to hear the details of that objection for 4 today.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MS. MONTGOMERY: So with regard to the remaining 7 objections -- my apologies, Your Honor.

8 There are essentially three categories of documents 9 that make up the assorted objections -- the issues that are set 10 forth in the objections. There are some documents that are 11 allegedly confidential, and I think that Your Honor has 12 probably read quite a bit about that in the pleadings that have 13 been submitted to the Court.

14 It's our position, Your Honor, that there's a very 15 strong protective order in place in this case. And that the 16 protective order should be sufficient to handle any 17 confidentiality concerns that have arisen pursuant to the 18 objections.

19 We also believe, Your Honor, that a number of the 20 documents at issue are subject to a joint privilege, and we've 21 briefed this, and it sounds like Your Honor is very familiar 22 with the materials that we've submitted to the Court. And as a 23 result of that joint privilege, we believe that many of the 24 documents that are included in the ESI that we've requested 25 should be made available to the Committee.

1 As you know, Your Honor, there are thousands of 2 companies that have been identified as affiliates of the 3 debtor. Many of those affiliates have shared service 4 agreements with the debtor, in which the debtor provided 5 business functions for these purportedly separate entities.

6 And if you look at my briefing, there isn't any 7 segregation of employees of the debtor that represent each of 8 these affiliates. And instead, the debtor maintains a 9 centralized pool, and whoever can perform the service for the 10 affiliate does so.

11 The basis for most of the remaining objections that 12 we're talking about here today is that these shared service 13 agreements include provision of legal services. And in some 14 instances, for shared IT -- like shared service servers for 15 emails and other documents.

16 Under those shared service agreements, the debtor's 17 in-house legal department provides legal advice to these 18 thousands of entities on as-needed basis. And you're going to 19 hear from the objectors in a moment some of those separate 20 companies are objecting to production of their documents by the 21 debtor, even though those documents are on the debtor's 22 servers, in the debtor's employees' files, and generally 23 available to debtor personnel.

24 We wanted to begin, Your Honor, with the objections 25 to NexPoint Real Estate Advisors. We previously -- we

1 previously discussed NexPoint Advisors and its affiliates, 2 represented by K&L Gates, but obviously there's also a separate 3 objection for NexPoint Real Estate Advisors and affiliated 4 entities.

5 NexPoint Real Estate Advisors argues that it would be 6 unduly burdened if the debtor were to produce documents related 7 to it to the Committee. It's unclear, however, how NexPoint 8 would be burdened by the debtor producing documents, nor is it 9 clear what expense NexPoint would incur as a result of that 10 production.

11 In fact, it appears that NexPoint is attempting to 12 raise defenses that belong to the debtor instead. This may be 13 because NexPoint shares many things with the debtor under the 14 shared services agreement:

15 First, they have shared employees who are employed 16 both by the debtor and NexPoint Real Estate. Although pursuant 17 to the shared service agreement, only the debtor pays the 18 salaries of those shared employees. It shares back- and 19 middle-office services, it shares administrative services, 20 including cohabitating in the same office space on information 21 and belief, and it also shares IT services, possibly including 22 servers, and in-house counsel that provide assistance with 23 advice with respect to legal issues.

24 Despite all of the shared services, NexPoint is 25 arguing that it should be given a separate and independent

1 opportunity to review all documents possibly related to it, and 2 to decide what it relevant, responsive, and privileged.

3 Your Honor, it's the Committee's position that 4 NexPoint chose to commingle its data with that of the debtor; 5 to share in-house counsel with the debtor; to co-office with 6 the debtor; to share employees with the debtor; and to 7 generally allow the debtor to provide many of its services.
8 But now it believes it has a separate ability to review 9 documents in the debtor's possession before they're produced to 10 the Committee. And this is the sort of gamesmanship that we've 11 been trying to avoid through the motion to compel.

12 NexPoint may very well be the subject of estate 13 claims, it's impossible for us to know at this point because we 14 don't have access to the data that's necessary for us to 15 determine what estate claims might exist. And we don't believe 16 that NexPoint should also have the ability to dictate to the 17 estate which documents the estate -- that the estate already 18 possesses and needs to investigate those claims.

19 With regard to the various Rand entities and Atlas, I 20 believe Your Honor referenced Atlas when we began. Essentially 21 the same argument appears to apply with Rand, although to a 22 somewhat lesser extent.

23 The objection for Rand is slightly different in that 24 it focuses on the shared IT infrastructure with the debtor, and 25 not necessarily the custodial data for nine individuals that

1 were the subject of the motion to compel.

2 Unlike with NexPoint, it doesn't appear that Rand has 3 legal services provided by the debtor.

4 And their objection primarily focuses on the 5 potential that there is Rand data on servers that are 6 accessible by the debtor which, in itself is an indication that 7 the data may not have been maintained separately as to Rand 8 and, therefore, confidentially. And as such, any privilege 9 related to data contained on that server as to Rand would be 10 waived.

11 That said, we are amenable to their request to be 12 made party to the protective order. And that all data related 13 to them be produced as highly confidential as a preliminary 14 matter, subject, of course, to our ability to request a de-15 designation of that data where the default designation appears 16 to be improper.

17 The next objection is CLO Holdco. CLO Holdco also 18 argues that there may be data among that of the nine 19 custodians, all of whom are employees of the debtor, that 20 relate to a privilege held exclusively by CLO Holdco. We don't 21 believe that that position is tenable.

22 The briefing on this particular objection, Your 23 Honor, includes some back and forth with regard to Teleglobe, 24 and related cases.

25 Teleglobe is one of the foundational cases on the

1 issue of privilege with regard to business affiliates. And it 2 provides that communications between affiliates can maintain 3 privilege because the members of a corporate family are joint 4 clients, and this reflects both the separateness of the entity 5 and the reality that they are all represented by the same in-6 house counsel.

7 We don't believe that Teleglobe stands for the 8 position that there can be completely separate privileges held 9 by affiliates with the in-house counsel that is employed by the 10 parent company, or any other member of an affiliate family.

11 As a result, either the communications are subject to 12 a joint privilege, and the debtor having access to the 13 communications isn't a waiver of confidentiality requirements 14 of privilege, or there is no common interest. There is no 15 joint client interest, and the debtor having access to the 16 documents is a waiver. But either way, the Committee should be 17 provided with the documents under the terms of the final term 18 sheet because the Committee is standing in the debtor's shoes 19 with regard to those estate claims, and the debtor has 20 conceded, and the Court has, you know, ordered that those 21 documents should be -- that the privilege isn't waived. The 22 privilege should be shared with the Committee, it's not 23 waived.

24 Separately, CLO Holdco has argued that it should be 25 able to conduct an independent review of the documents. As you

1 know, and I think we referenced in our hearing last week, the 2 impetus for the motion to compel is specifically the need for 3 expedited access to documents related to CLO Holdco so that we 4 can comply with the Court's 90-day deadline.

5 CLO Holdco entered into the shared service agreement, 6 it agreed to allow the debtor have access to this material, the 7 debtor has that data. And we don't think they can now seek to 8 claw back access to the ESI that's in the debtor's possession.

9 The remaining objectors, Your Honor, stand in a 10 slightly different position. CCS Medical and MGM, in 11 particular, are bringing objections, not based on the shared 12 service agreement, but based upon the facts that there are 13 employees of the debtor that have served in board positions for 14 each of those entities.

15 But, you know, based on the information that we have 16 to date, we understand that that -- that those board positions 17 were obtained pursuant to investments or other relationships 18 with the debtor, and that the debtor has or had relationship 19 with those entities outside of the board position. And those 20 additional relationships that are separate from board 21 membership make it very difficult to craft searches that would 22 exclude only outside information related to board service.

23 And so while the Committee doesn't necessarily have 24 an objection to attempts to isolate the communications that are 25 truly related to board service, we've had difficulty

1 negotiating the terms of what that would look like with MGM, at 2 least. We haven't had an opportunity to speak with CCS Medical 3 because -- because of its overlap, Your Honor.

4 We also think -- and this is set forth in our 5 documents -- that it's possible that the documents that were 6 shared with the debtor are -- have been waived, to the extent 7 that there was any privilege associated with it because of the 8 way that the debtor maintains its email servers.

9 And then I believe finally, the last objection that 10 has been filed with the Court for today is from Mr. Dondero.
11 And he argues that any data related to information that's being 12 produced under the protocols should not be made available to 13 Josh Terry, Acis Capital Management GP LLC, or Acis Capital
14 Management LP.

15 But there's nowhere in Dondero's briefing that sets 16 forth a basis of law for a categorical restriction of that 17 nature. And as you know, Mr. Dondero and his affiliated 18 entities are at the center of the Committee's investigation of 19 the estate claims. And we believe imposing a categorical 20 confidentiality ban against one member of a Committee would 21 considerably complicate and impede that investigation.

22 We understand a desire to have any documents that are 23 created in connection with pending litigation between Acis and 24 the debtor, Dondero, and other Dondero-related parties, that 25 that information be marked as attorneys' eyes only, highly

1 confidential so that only outside counsel has access to it, but 2 that's not really the basis for Mr. Dondero's objection, and as 3 a result, we don't believe that objection has value.

4 And then, Your Honor, I don't know to the extent you 5 intend to hear from NexBank Capital and its affiliates, and so 6 if -- I would like to reserve any sort of response to them --

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MS. MONTGOMERY: -- to the extent that you allow them 9 to speak.

10 But, you know, in concluding, Your Honor, the debtor 11 and its affiliates have interwoven so much of their operations, 12 their legal services, and even their data storage, that it's 13 incredibly difficult to try to pick apart the data, with the 14 exception of MGM and CCS, the objectors here today agreed to 15 those shared services, and now they want to argue that what was 16 shared was actually separate.

17 The Committee has been tasked with investigating the 18 estate's claims against the very affiliates that now seek to 19 unwind their information and said that unnecessary burdens to 20 production. And as a result, we request that those objections 21 be overturned, that the motion be granted, and that the ESI 22 subject to the motion to compel be produced to the Committee.

23 THE COURT: All right. Well, let me -- I'm just 24 going to go down the list of objectors.

25 Let me start with the two that Ms. Montgomery

1 announced have been resolved: Highland CLO Funding Limited.
2 Matsumura, were you going to be the one to weigh in on 3 confirming that?

4 MS. MATSUMURA: Yes, Your Honor. I can confirm we've 5 reached an agreement with the Committee that the documents that 6 are -- contain confidential and privileged information of HCLOF 7 will be produced on a highly confidential designation under the 8 protective order, so that will be only the Committee's 9 professionals.

10 And that as Ms. Montgomery stated, any of the 11 documents produced by the debtor pursuant to this agreement 12 will not be construed as a waiver of any privilege that the 13 funds share of those documents.

14 THE COURT: Okay; thank you.

15 All right, what about HMC Fund Advisors? I 16 understand that your issues have been resolved, you're still 17 working out a couple of things, but who wants to weigh in on 18 that to confirm that?

19 MR. WRIGHT: Good afternoon, Your Honor. It's James 20 Wright at K&L Gates for -- actually a number of entities that 21 are all at Docket 841. There was an objection at 841 that's 22 HMC Fund Advisors, NexPoint Advisors, and then a number of 23 individual funds, and I will not burden the record with listing 24 each of them out.

25 THE COURT: Thank you.

1 MR. WRIGHT: I agree with the Committee's summary, 2 that we have made a lot of progress.

3 There are some technical things that we're still 4 working out, but I think that we're -- you know, we've been -- 5 we've made a lot of progress, we've been working in good faith, 6 and -- get there -- but we just need a minute to -- we were on 7 the phone with them, frankly, ten minutes before this hearing 8 started, I think we just need a little bit more time.

9 THE COURT: Okay; thank you.

10 All right. Well, why don't we start with Mr.
11 Dondero, and your objection which I understand deals mostly 12 with Acis and Josh Terry.

13 Go ahead.

14 MR. LYNN: Thank you, Your Honor.

15 As you've gathered, our concerns are somewhat 16 different from the other parties who are objecting. Mr.
17 Dondero agreed to the arrangement involving shared privilege in 18 allowing the Committee the kind of discovery that they're 19 seeking here.

20 And accordingly, we would (indiscernible) object to 21 what they're doing.

22 But as I understand the Committee's response to the 23 Dondero response to the motion to compel, (indiscernible)
24 because, first, there is no basis in law (indiscernible) Acis
25 and Mr. Terry (indiscernible) and participate (indiscernible)

1 in consideration of the estate claims.

2 And second, (indiscernible) and I quote,
3 "considerably complicate and impede the Committee's 4 investigation."

5 Even assuming for a minute that Acis and Mr. Terry 6 are so central to the investigation that their absence from it 7 could not be tolerated by a Committee, just as there may be 8 nothing in the statute that permits the Court specifically to 9 restrict Mr. Terry and Acis's access to information so, too, 10 there's nothing in the Bankruptcy Code or the Bankruptcy Rules
11 that prevents the Court from doing so.

12 There is (indiscernible) the authority for the 13 Bankruptcy Court to grant what Mr. Dondero asks, which is that 14 Acis and Mr. Terry be excluded from the information gained by 15 the Committee during the course of its investigation. Section 16 105, as this Court is acutely aware, is the problem-solving 17 section of the Bankruptcy Code that allows the Court to fashion 18 results that may be necessary to fill in gaps that the Code 19 leaves open.

20 There was nothing in the law that authorized it, even 21 before the passage of Section (indiscernible) of the Code, it 22 was common for (indiscernible) representatives are 23 (indiscernible). And, indeed, (indiscernible) representatives 24 are also (indiscernible) in other (indiscernible).

25 Similarly, I know of nothing in the Code or the Rules

1 that provides for the retention of a Chief Restructuring
2 Officer. Yet, Section 105 has allowed for that necessary post, 3 as is true (indiscernible) which are also not provided for in 4 the law.

5 In this case, (indiscernible) Section 105 has been 6 used to justify an independent board, and to justify the very 7 same privilege that is at the root of the disputes. Section 8 105 (indiscernible) to justify the removal by a court of a 9 member of the Creditors' Committee. That's in the First 10 Republic Bank Corporation case, Judge Felsenthal determined 11 that he had the authority to remove, and he chose to remove, a 12 member of the Creditors' Committee. A similar result was 13 reached in the MAP International case out of the Eastern 14 District of Pennsylvania, and a similar result (indiscernible)
15 following Judge Felsenthal was reached by the Bankruptcy Court 16 for the District of Arizona in In Re America West Airlines.

17 If the Bankruptcy Court has authority pursuant to 18 Section 105 to remove a Committee member, clearly Section 105 19 gives authority to the Court to eliminate a member's access to 20 and involvement in an investigation that will give that 21 Committee member a leg-up in discovery in another case.

22 In the litigation commenced by Acis is, indeed, in 23 another case, not in this case, and the litigation is intended 24 to provide a benefit -- a windfall to Mr. Terry, not to provide 25 (indiscernible) who he is supposed to be representing as a

1 member of the Creditors' Committee.

2 As pointed out in an article in The Review of Banking
3 and Financial Services in October of 2016, "Members of a 4 Creditors' Committee may not use their positions as Committee 5 members to advance their individual interests." And I'm 6 quoting there the MAP International case. Similarly, that 7 fight has been made by Collier in Paragraph 1102.05[3] of the 8 Collier treatise.

9 Indeed, the Acis litigation may not only drain assets 10 from Highland, it may reduce the (indiscernible) Dondero and 11 other potential defendants in the same causes of action as to 12 their ability to (indiscernible) any judgment that defendants 13 may manage to obtain.

14 Under those circumstances, unsecured creditors
15 represented by Acis and Mr. Terry will have their recovery 16 reduced by virtue of those judgments.

17 It is clear that the Bankruptcy Court may restrict a 18 committee member's access to information, as Collier points 19 out, where a member of a committee is a competitor of the 20 debtor, as, indeed, Acis is, the member may be restricted as to 21 the information that the member gets so it does not obtain 22 competitive advantage.

23 I recognize that the same claims may be, indeed, a 24 central concern of the Committee, (indiscernible) with Acis and 25 Mr. Terry creates serious problems, perhaps Mr. Terry should 1 resign from the Committee or be removed.

2 In fact, in this case, when UBS filed the motion for 3 relief from stay in order to pursue litigation in New York, 4 very properly, UBS excluded itself -- recused itself from 5 discussion of the motion for relief from stay. And Mr. Terry, 6 I respectfully submit, should do the same here.

7 Further, as far as complicating and repeating the 8 Committee's investigation, and the Committee did not elucidate 9 how that would happen, whatever trouble or cost (indiscernible)
10 Acis and Mr. Terry may cost is nothing compared to the trouble 11 and cost to the debtor of complying with a request for millions 12 and millions of communications.

13 In conclusion, Your Honor, in litigation such as that 14 being pursued by Acis in the Acis case, as courts have said, 15 the Federal Rules were designed to create, quote, "a level 16 playing field," end quote.

17 A couple of those cases, the Hillsborough Holding 18 decision of the Bankruptcy Court out of the Middle District of 19 Florida; Allstate Insurance versus Electrolux out of the 20 Northern District of Illinois; and Passlogix, Inc. versus 2FA
21 Tech out of the Southern District of New York.

22 Yet the motion to compel is brought without 23 protection from (indiscernible) that Acis seeks, there clearly 24 will be no level playing field in that litigation. And the 25 commitment of this Court (indiscernible) in general to 1 (indiscernible) litigation processes will be undermined.

2 Your Honor, if anybody wants cites to any of these 3 authorities that I provided to the Court, I'll be happy to 4 provide them.

5 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, I appreciate 6 that.

7 I'm going to go next to --

8 MR. LYNN: Your Honor, I didn't hear you.

9 THE COURT: Pardon? I thanked you for your argument, 10 and I do not need those case cites.

11 I'm going to go next to CLO Holdco. Mr. Kane, will 12 you be making the argument there?

13 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor, I will; thank you for the 14 time. This is John Kane for CLO Holdco, for the record.

15 And first, I want to start by kind of acknowledging 16 that we really did take to heart what you said previously in 17 attempts to avoid unnecessary litigation. I've been working 18 with Ms. Montgomery for over a week now in an effort to try and 19 resolve some of our concerns about the discovery requests, at 20 the same time trying to be mindful of what I believe to be my 21 client's privileges and our right (indiscernible) the party 22 that reviews documents and produces them.

23 We are -- CLO Holdco is subject to a request for 24 production of documents from the Committee. We are working to 25 prepare a review, to obtain all of the requisite documents to 1 have a fulsome production to the Committee. And Ms. Montgomery 2 and I have had conversations about how that production will 3 take place. While we acknowledge that there are obviously some 4 timing concerns here given the 90 days relating to that 5 registry order that was relatively recently entered.

6 So we've mindful of all of those issues, and our 7 dispute here is about whether we're giving up privileged 8 documents or whether we aren't.

9 It's our position that since that request for 10 production of documents to CLO Holdco, CLO Holdco has a right 11 to review those documents, and to produce documents in 12 accordance with the Federal Rules. And that the request by the 13 Committee to have all ESI produced by these various custodians 14 basically provides an end around to the request for production 15 of documents delivered to CLO Holdco. And it does look through 16 the guise of this joint client privilege exception to the 17 general privilege rules.

18 But we've got a fundamental misunderstanding of the 19 law by the Committee as the exception applies to the general
20 rule of privilege. And it basically breaks down to a simple 21 analogy, one we can apply to the case of law. The analogy 22 would be like if our firm, Kane Russell Coleman and Logan, 23 represented Texas Capital Bank and Wells Fargo on a bunch of 24 separate matters, and then because we had a great relationship 25 with both, we are going to represent Texas Capital Bank in a

1 merger with Wells Fargo, and we are going to be retained as 2 kind of a mutual third party counsel by both sides to help 3 manage this merger.

4 Now if that merger representation turned into a later
5 dispute between the parties, the correspondence between Wells 6 Fargo and Kane Russell Coleman and Logan, and the 7 correspondence between Texas Capital Bank and Kane Russell 8 Coleman and Logan would not be precluded from production to 9 either party as long as it were (indiscernible) representation.
10 They have the same counsel for the same representation. So 11 that this idea of privilege doesn't really apply the same way.
12 Those documents pass back and forth, I have a duty to both of 13 those clients equally.

14 But what they wouldn't be able to obtain is, let's 15 say, Texas Capital Bank's request for production of documents 16 to me, counsel, seeking all correspondence that I have ever had 17 with Wells Fargo on any other matter, regardless of whether it 18 was -- it was related to or unrelated to a joint 19 representation. And really, that's what the Committee is 20 trying to do here, they want all ESI, there are no parameters.
21 So it doesn't matter if there's a joint representation on a 22 specific matter between CLO Holdco and the debtor, what the 23 Committee is asserting is because they use the same counsel, 24 that all matters or all correspondence between counsel for the 25 debtor, all internal counsel, and counsel for CLO Holdco, since

1 it was essentially the same person, the same people, all of 2 that is subject to production.

3 So here's an example of how this plays out, Your 4 Honor. At our last hearing, you heard a bunch of testimony 5 about a transfer of Highland, the debtor's interest in the 6 Dynamic fund, and how on December 28, 2016, with one document, 7 we can trace -- I'm sorry -- we can trace this trail of 8 transfers from Highland to CLO Holdco, and we know that 9 Highland's internal counsel was representing both sides of the 10 deal. They were representing the debtor, they were also 11 representing CLO Holdco as the creation of those documents was 12 done for both parties by the same entity and the same 13 transaction, that's critical.

14 So do I have an assertion of privilege for CLO Holdco 15 in that situation? No, I don't believe that I do. I think 16 that joint client exception that's addressed in Teleglobe, and 17 Nguyen, and in the Nester decision that's cited by the 18 Committee in their pleadings precludes me from stopping the -- 19 or the disclosure of documents that were between internal 20 counsel and CLO Holdco as they're related to that dynamic 21 transaction because internal counsel at Highland represented 22 both sides of the deal.

23 But there are other representations taken up by 24 internal counsel for Highland under the shared services 25 agreement between CLO Holdco and Highland that really don't

1 have anything to do with Highland. So much (indiscernible)
2 litigation, we'll say, between CLO Holdco and some other party
3 like U.S. Bank that does not have Highland Capital Management 4 as a party to that litigation, and could not have Highland 5 Capital Management as a party to that litigation.

6 (Indiscernible) under this joint client privilege 7 exception that the Committee is asserting should control this 8 entire deal. So in a situation like that, I would still be 9 able to review and withhold documents that were privileged, 10 attorney-client communications, or work product communications 11 without having to disclose those to the Committee even though 12 the Committee stands in the debtor's shoes. Because there is 13 this isolation, Highland is not a party that is jointly 14 represented in that transaction.

15 So all of the documents that have been exchanged 16 between CLO Holdco and the debtor in representations where the 17 debtor is not an active participant as a party in a joint 18 representation, all of that documentation is the sole property 19 of CLO Holdco. It shouldn't be subject to disclosure simply 20 because one of these custodians engaged in correspondence with 21 CLO Holdco.

22 So, for instance, the Argentina Bank, let's say, if 23 Highland is not being represented in a transaction with CLO 24 Holdco related to the Argentina Bank, and Grant Scott, as 25 trustee of CLO Holdco, inquires internally about a -- let's say

1 a NAV statement related to its interest, that's not necessarily 2 a document that would have to be produced to the Committee 3 because it is a potentially privileged communication if it was 4 with one of the attorneys in-house.

5 Now that doesn't mean that everything is going to be 6 privilege, or that there aren't going to be a significant 7 number of these joint client privilege exceptions where we have 8 to disclose attorney-client communications because Highland was 9 on the other side of the transaction, but that's something that 10 I should be reviewing as CLO Holdco's attorney, and identifying 11 documents for a privilege log, and then having a conversation 12 with the Committee's counsel about whether these are subject to 13 the joint client privilege exception, or whether they are truly 14 privileged documents or not.

15 So we've already got a request for production out 16 there. I mean presumably, Your Honor, this is already -- you 17 know, this is already underway. What we just want to do is try 18 and protect the documents that are actually privileged 19 communications or work product communications from disclosure 20 to the Committee.

21 THE COURT: All right; thank you, Mr. Kane.

22 Let me hear next from NexPoint Real Estate Financial.

23 (No audible response heard)

24 THE COURT: All right. I can't hear you. Is this 25 Ms. Drawhorn who will be addressing this one?

1 MS. DRAWHORN: Can you hear me -- can you --

2 THE COURT: Yes.

3 MS. DRAWHORN: Can you hear me now?

4 THE COURT: I can.

5 MS. DRAWHORN: Okay. I had to unmute both my phone 6 and the -- and the computer, okay.

7 Lauren Drawhorn on behalf of NexPoint Real Estate 8 Finance and the 15 related entities and -- that are listed on 9 Docket 847, I won't go through them all.

10 So our -- one of the -- we've got a couple issues 11 with the motion to compel relative to our shared services 12 agreement with the debtor, and largely because of the breadth 13 of the request wanting ESI from all nine of these custodians.
14 And we have concerns that because there are no limits on that 15 request, that we've got our confidentiality and privilege 16 issues that are concerned about.

17 The real estate entities are -- NexPoint Real 18 Estate entities are typically traded, and there are some 19 regulatory constraints that we have on the dissemination of 20 information and it being public. And so obviously we need to 21 protect those interests and try and prohibit the disclosure of 22 information.

23 While there -- while the NexPoint Real Estate 24 entities do -- did have a shared services agreement, it is the 25 businesses unrelated to and separate from Highland, except for

1 the occasional times when they co-invested.

2 So generally speaking, they were separate businesses.
3 Any use of services from Highland employees under the shared 4 services would be for separate deals. And so because they're 5 separate, we believe that it's unlikely that they would be 6 relevant to the estate claims.

7 In other words, the request should be narrowed to 8 limit the amount of information that's not related to the 9 Committee's estate claims, (indiscernible) related to NexPoint 10 Real Estate entities' deals and confidential information and 11 business information.

12 The other issue we have in connection with 13 confidentiality is in connection with NexPoint Real Estate's 14 entities business operations. They continue to receive 15 information electronically from third parties that have been 16 the subject -- that information was provided subject to 17 confidentiality agreements there. So under those agreements 18 with other parties, there are requirements and obligations for 19 NexPoint Real Estate entities to notify those parties and 20 provide them an opportunity to object.

21 So we are wanting the additional protections and 22 limits on the discovery to protect this confidential 23 information and our obligations to other parties, and to 24 regulatory entities.

25 We also have concerns on the privilege -- any

1 privilege information, again, since these custodians were 2 counsel, and provided -- occasionally provided legal advice in 3 connection with NexPoint Real Estate entities' deals that, 4 again, were unrelated to Highland and separate from the debtor.
5 That information will be -- would be privileged and 6 (indiscernible) NexPoint Real Estate entities' privilege 7 (indiscernible) position you just heard, and the Committee's 8 response is that that was waived or part of this joint client, 9 and we disagree with that. Where the legal advice was given on 10 a separate matter, there would be no joint privilege between 11 the NexPoint Real Estate entities and the debtor. We think 12 that that privilege should be protected, and the privileged 13 documents should be withheld from the production.

14 The Committee responded by their -- that we -- that 15 NexPoint Real Estate entities are not burden. We did argue in 16 our objection that this request, under 26(b) (indiscernible)
17 because it was also an undue burden because it's so broad -- so 18 broad. And that burden (indiscernible), as you know, isn't 19 required to be the physical burden of us going through and 20 producing documents. An undue burden encompasses the invasion 21 of confidential information and privilege concerns. So we 22 think that there is a good basis to limit the information that 23 is being produced to protect NexPoint Real Estate entities' 24 confidential information and business information.

25 So what we're requesting we suggested in our

1 objection was to allow NexPoint -- the NexPoint Real Estate 2 entities to have input on the search terms that would narrow 3 the production and potentially exclude the NexPoint Real Estate 4 entities' confidential information, information that would be 5 unrelated to the Committee's estate claims.

6 We also requested that NexPoint be given an 7 opportunity to review the documents -- the NexPoint documents 8 before produced -- and this is similar to what is my 9 understanding the debtor would -- for all of the -- the 10 previous production that was provided. So it is my 11 understanding that before the debtor produced any document that 12 instituted the shared services agreement, confidentiality 13 privileges, they contacted that party and said "Here's this 14 document that we're going to produce, are you okay with it?
15 Are you okay with it, is there any objection?"

16 And so that's all we're requesting is an opportunity 17 that the NexPoint documents that -- that are potentially giving 18 -- to make sure that they're designated correctly under the 19 protective order, so as highly confidential versus 20 confidential, again, because of those confidentiality concerns 21 that I mentioned earlier. And then also to confirm the 22 privilege designation and to make sure anything privileged is 23 not being produced.

24 And then the last request we have is just to make 25 NexPoint a party to the protective order so that we are able to 1 obtain those protections as the highly confidential and 2 confidential designations.

3 THE COURT: All right; thank you, Ms. Drawhorn.

4 All right, let's see. How about we hear from Atlas 5 IDF GP next.

6 MR. KEIFFER: Thank you, Your Honor. Paul Keiffer
7 for the Atlas IDF entities and parties located at -- or I 8 should say named at Docket Number 837, I won't burden the 9 Court, as others have not done, as well, with the full list of 10 parties.

11 And also taking in mind -- or keeping in mind what 12 the Committee has done as far as discussing issues, I want to -- 13 - I have just a few points:

14 First off is that my clients don't have a specific 15 concern with the ESI request. The shared privileges and the 16 joint privilege is supposed to hold, we want that to hold as it 17 has been requested for everybody else, and I think that was the 18 intent of the Committee in regard to that point.

19 It's also, as the Committee indicated, between the 20 debtor and the -- I'm sorry -- between the Committee and the 21 Rand Advisors' related entities that they want to be expressly 22 involved or brought into the agreed protective order. Lots of 23 documents are being requested, not so much through the 24 electronic -- the ESI, but through the fourth production of 25 documents request that we got that -- which we received on the

1 9th of July that gave us six days to respond to, and that's why
2 we started talking and having discussions with the Committee
3 about this.

4 But there -- there there's all these document
5 requests, and we have our own fiduciary duties, we -- either 6 contractually, statutorily, or regulatorily. And as the 7 Committee noted, they'd be perfectly fine with having us being 8 brought into (indiscernible) -- whatever you want to call the 9 right under the coverage of agreed protective order. We're not 10 expressly under it because we're -- we're not a specific party 11 to it, but we need to be -- we feel it's the most appropriate 12 for us, too, in this context, and they've acknowledged that 13 it's a reasonable step to be added to the agreed protective 14 order, so we're happy with that.

15 As far as the documents being produced, the only -- 16 the principal attached -- the principal issue for Rand Advisors 17 there is that it's principally its email server issue. Rand 18 Advisors, and the others, have their on documents on its own 19 servers, as best as I understand. And so it's really more 20 documents that would be appended to emails and discussions 21 between the parties, either in the context of (indiscernible) 22 some of the nine individuals that are custodians, that they're 23 described as custodians or otherwise.

24 But the UCC has agreed to let whatever documents are 25 produced in that context, both through the ESI and through the 1 request for production that's outlined there, that we're having 2 to respond to under the shared services agreement with the 3 debtor. But those would also be subject to highly confidential 4 status, subject to the Committee seeking to downgrade to 5 confidential, or not confidential at all.

6 Now the other issue is the attorney-client privilege 7 where Rand Advisors and the others were generally using 8 RandAdvisors.com suffix, would have negotiations and 9 discussions with its own private counsels. And the question 10 here, we don't -- I'm not sure whether or not the shared -- I 11 mean the servers are or are not sufficiently silo'd or 12 otherwise.

13 But we really don't have that hard of an issue here - 14 - that difficult of an issue here as we only -- there's only 15 three defined suffixes that are out there that would be of 16 concern to the Rand Advisor entities, and those are suffixes 17 such as romclaw.com, our law firm, we didn't realize that that 18 was the case. Also, there would be maybe Sadis -- Sadis or -- 19 another law firm, maybe three or five suffixes we need to have 20 set aside for attorney-client privilege review. And if we have 21 those, I think that the Rand Advisor group has gotten what they 22 -- what they think is reasonably appropriate under the 23 circumstances.

24 And we're not asking the Court to, you know -- well, 25 we don't see this as truly a request for production, it's kind

1 of a hybrid kind of a (indiscernible). But under the shared 2 services and the final term sheet, and that allows access, lets 3 the Committee be the debtor and get to many things, but yet 4 they use request for productions as a methodology to say what 5 they're looking for, but they're not really requests for 6 production, per se, because it's -- I've already got it now, 7 this is (indiscernible) debtor, it's what we can look at.

8 And so we're wanting to make sure that we have under 9 our side of this relationship under the shared service 10 agreement some modicum of protection for its specific attorney-11 client issues that it has. We recognize the joint privilege 12 issue, that's going to (indiscernible). But there are three to 13 five very simple suffixes as we can give to the Committee for 14 doing its search (indiscernible) romclaw.com, that's my law 15 firm, it would know not to go -- you know, set those aside.
16 There's one or two other law firms that they deal with 17 specifically, and if they go through the next step, and it 18 turns out that there's three or four other people on the email 19 that aren't part of Rand Advisor that's something with the 20 debtor or some third party altogether, then sure, there's no 21 privilege there.

22 But if it's the discussions between Rand Advisor 23 entities and its counsels specifically, then it should be 24 something that's set aside and reviewed in a different manner.
25 And I don't think it's really even close to burdensome in the 1 context of how much is going on in this case, and how many 2 documents are going to be reviewed.

3 That's principally our concern. We are -- that's 4 another suggested solution to deal with the two elements that 5 we raised in our response on Pages 6 and 8 to a likely 6 solution, which is to basically deal with attorney-client
7 privileges, subpart C, is just to have these exclusion -- 8 exclusionary suffixes to address that, very simple.

9 The rest of this, as far as having a log to keep 10 produced items in its context, to be able to (indiscernible)
11 what documents were produced, well, that's probably a bridge 12 too far. We don't need to have that, we don't think that's 13 (indiscernible) concern for us.

14 So keeping up with the few things, the agreed 15 protective order being made expressly applicable to us so that 16 for our purposes, when we have to deal with issues of 17 confidentiality regarding our clients contractually, 18 statutorily, or regulatorily, that's the (indiscernible) I 19 think there's always a legal process (indiscernible).

20 Two, that everything gets a highly confidential 21 status initially, and subject to being downgraded, obviously 22 with notice and opportunity to object.

23 And then lastly, just that the three suffixes be 24 added to the review standard so that -- three to five suffixes, 25 and I'll have those easily enough in the next few days to give

1 to the Committee to allow me to preserve its attorney-client 2 privilege without having to go into the issue of whether or not 3 this is a means by which Rule 34, or the other appropriate 4 discovery rules, are really being invoked or not in this 5 context, or whether this is just "I'm standing in the debtor's 6 shoes, and I should be able to do these things." It's -- 7 that's an odd -- we can bypass that oddity by dealing with 8 those requested suffixes being set aside.

9 THE COURT: Okay; thank you.

10 All right, let's hear from CCS, please.

11 MS. STRATFORD: Good afternoon, Your Honor. This is 12 Tracy Stratford from Jones Day on behalf of CCS Medical.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MS. STRATFORD: Our concern is relatively narrow and 15 unique. CCS is one of the country's leading providers of home 16 delivery medical services. And so they deliver things like 17 insulin pumps and orthotics to people in their homes.

18 Two of Highland's employees, Mr. Parker and Mr.
19 Dondero, were directors of CCS Medical. And so CCS Medical 20 sent information to them, sensitive business information about 21 the strategic direction of the business, about pricing, about 22 what the business would be doing or wouldn't be doing, about 23 decision-making that would happen within CCS Medical. That 24 sensitive information was sent to the director, including these 25 two individuals who were employed by Highland at their Highland

1 email addresses.

2 All we're asking is for the ability to look through 3 these emails first so that we can identify anything that is 4 competitively sensitive, so that we can identify anything that 5 is privileged, and talk to the Committee about it separately.

6 We don't know, frankly, what the claims are that the 7 Committee is looking to press, so I can't say that none of it 8 is relevant, although it doesn't seem to be particularly 9 relevant to what's being discussed today.

10 But to the extent that some of those documents might 11 be relevant, the non-privileged ones, but commercially 12 sensitive ones, we want to have that discussion. We would like 13 the ability to look at those documents first, and that would be 14 at our cost, so there's no cost to the estate. We don't think 15 it would take particularly long.

16 And we would have offered the solution directly to 17 the Committee, but they wouldn't return our phone calls. So 18 we've sent emails, we've called them, and heard nothing back.
19 We would have loved to have negotiated this, but that didn't 20 happen.

21 The only argument that the Committee makes in 22 response to our suggestion, which were laid out pretty clearly 23 in our very short objection, is that there's a privilege waiver 24 here, or a waiver of confidentiality because we sent this 25 information to these two board members who were employed by

1 Highland. (Inaudible) as a matter of law. And the very case 2 that they cite in their papers explains that.

3 If you take a look at the In Re Royce Homes case that 4 they cite in their response to the objection, what they say is 5 that once you send confidential information to another 6 corporation, the privilege is automatically waived. That's not 7 the case.

8 In fact, if you look at that case, it's very lengthy 9 because the Court looks at a number of factors. And amongst 10 those factors is the expectation that the sender has that the 11 recipient will be able to maintain the information as 12 confidential or protected.

13 Here we have two executives at Highland who were 14 receiving information as members of the board of directors, 15 they controlled the company, they had the ability to control 16 who reviewed their email, and CCS Medical had every reason to 17 believe that those two directors would preserve their duty of 18 loyalty to the company and maintain their individual emails as 19 confidential. There's no waiver under that circumstance.

20 But to the extent that this issue is one that needs 21 to be decided, it can't be decided on these papers because none 22 of those facts are before the Court. None of the factors that 23 are discussed in the In Re Royce Homes case are -- have been 24 briefed.

25 And so to the extent that we're going to discuss a

1 waiver, we would like the opportunity to do that. We don't 2 think the Court ever needs to reach this issue because we think 3 that we can, in a very efficient and effective way, screen the 4 emails by just having the vendor search for particular domains, 5 review them ourselves, identify what's privileged. And what's 6 not privileged, we can turn over.

7 To the extent there's any dispute later on, we can 8 bring it before the Court at that time, but we think this is an 9 easy problem to solve, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: Thank you.

11 MS. STRATFORD: Thank you.

12 THE COURT: All right.

13 Well, let's see who I missed. Ms. Drawhorn, did you 14 have a separate argument for MGM?

15 MS. DRAWHORN: Yes, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: Okay, go ahead.

17 MS. DRAWHORN: I do.

18 THE COURT: All right.

19 MS. DRAWHORN: And so MGM is in a similar situation 20 to the party you just heard. And the only reason that MGM is 21 being pulled into the discovery dispute is because Mr. Dondero 22 served as a director on the -- on the board of directors for 23 MGM.

24 So we also believe -- and we have been in discussions 25 with the Committee about potentially pulling out or excluding

1 certain MGM information just by providing a list of the emails, 2 the dot-com of the other executives, or executive assistants, 3 or other board of directors members who would be sending 4 confidential information that was circulated just because -- 5 for purposes of the board of directors of MGM and for MGM 6 business matters.

7 So we -- we agree and -- or disagree with the 8 Committee, and agree with the position you just heard. The 9 Committee's response to our -- to MGM's objection is that we 10 waived by sending confidential MGM information to Mr. Dondero's 11 account at Highland, that waived conference or privilege, and 12 we disagree with that. We -- we just heard that sending to an 13 employer's email account in and of itself is not sufficient to 14 waive privilege or confidentiality. There are a multitude of 15 factors that need to be considered, including the expectation 16 of privacy in considering the fiduciary duties of board of 17 directors under California law, which is where MGM operates.
18 That that confidentiality is one of the fiduciary duties.

19 We would expect that sending information to our 20 directors would remain confidential. And just the mere fact 21 that he utilized his -- Mr. Dondero utilized his Highland email 22 account would not be sufficient to waive any confidentiality or 23 any privilege.

24 And then I -- I -- it is hard to believe that 25 anything MGM-related would be extremely relevant to the

1 Committee's claims, but regardless, I think there's an easy way 2 to pull that information and make sure that nothing is being 3 disclosed, which would be by providing these specific email
4 addresses of outside counsel to MGM's board of directors.
5 We've got, you know, two -- two counsels that would not have 6 provided any services to the debtor, that we can say anything 7 at those email addresses should get excluded from production.

8 Same with the outside advisors to the MGM board, we 9 can easily provide that email address and have that information 10 excluded.

11 And then as to the other confidential MGM 12 information, we have a list of the executives and their 13 assistants, we would have provided -- and other board members, 14 we would have provided that. I just think it should be fairly 15 easy to give those email addresses and exclude them from the 16 production, and make sure that that confidentiality and 17 privilege is maintained and protected.

18 THE COURT: All right; thank you, Ms. Drawhorn.

19 Okay, NexBank's counsel, you were going to try to 20 knock my socks off with a reason why I should hear your 21 argument today when you didn't file an objection. So, Counsel, 22 now's your chance.

23 MR. SLADE: I appreciate it, Your Honor; thank you 24 very much. Jared Slade of Alston & Bird for NexBank.

25 NexBank advances the same arguments about concern of 1 counterparty confidential information, as well as attorney-

2 client privilege concerns. And to that end, it's requested 3 some preview time to be able to review the documents and 4 provide the appropriate search terms.

5 I think there are three things which will happen in 6 the next 50 seconds that make us differently situated:

7 The first is unlike the other objectors, our shared 8 services agreement provides expressly that debtor shall take 9 all options, legal or otherwise, that are necessary to prevent 10 the disclosure of confidential information by the receiving 11 party or any of its representatives. So we have a different 12 legal basis that was addressed in part in the debtor's motion 13 originally on this issue.

14 The reason we have that is because we're a bank, and 15 we have two other categories of information that are 16 particularly sensitive and we're concerned about being 17 disclosed:

18 The first are bank examination materials. Privilege 19 is a part of those, and we are very concerned about an issue or 20 problem with our regulators in connection with the fact that we 21 have, in fact, taken appropriate steps to try to protect those 22 and treat those as privileged and confidential information.

23 The other category of information is consumer 24 information. We're talking about things protected by 25 (indiscernible) and other consumer information which are

1 protected in the statutes.

2 Again, we're willing to go through the effort and 3 expense to be given an opportunity to be able to review that 4 because (indiscernible) that any of that is going to be 5 relevant to what the Creditors' Committee is looking at, that 6 we understand where we are. And provided that we are able to 7 do that, and are also afforded an opportunity by the Court to 8 be a party to the protective orders so we can take advantage of 9 the designations and not be prohibited from the (indiscernible) 10 third party beneficiary provision, we should be able to meet 11 our obligation.

12 Thank you, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: All right; thank you.

14 All right, Ms. Montgomery, I'm going to turn back to 15 you. And let me make sure I understand entirely your position 16 on all of these objectors.

17 You have said -- correct me if I'm wrong -- the 18 Committee has no problem with making all of these objectors 19 subject to the protective order that was negotiated with the 20 debtor way back when in January, or did I overspeak -- overstep 21 on that one?

22 (No audible response heard)

23 THE COURT: Ms. Montgomery, I can't hear you.

24 (No audible response heard)

25 THE COURT: Ms. Montgomery, you must be on mute.

1 Michael, is she still on there?

2 ECRO: (Inaudible).

3 THE COURT: Okay. Ms. Montgomery, we're showing
4 you're on mute. There you are, okay.

5 MS. MONTGOMERY: Can you -- can you understand me 6 now?

7 THE COURT: Yes.

8 MS. MONTGOMERY: Okay. I don't know what happened, I 9 didn't touch anything.

10 THE COURT: That's okay.

11 MS. MONTGOMERY: Technology.

12 No, Your Honor, you're accurate -- that is accurate.
13 We don't have any problem with any of the objectors being made 14 parties to the protective order for purposes of, you know, for 15 their clients to be subject to the same -- the same 16 protections.

17 THE COURT: All right. And then my next thing I 18 wanted to confirm is that protective order, is it already 19 worded that it's UCC professionals' eyes only or no?

20 MS. MONTGOMERY: So the current -- the current 21 protective order has two tiers.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MS. MONTGOMERY And the highly confidential tier has 24 a very -- a much more limited disclosure group, it includes the 25 Court, it includes the outside professionals, so I guess it

1 would be also FTI, etc.

2 And then, you know, other parties that would be, you 3 know, fundamentally necessary for us to use those -- that data, 4 like court reporters. It does not include the members of the 5 Committee.

6 THE COURT: All right, so you said it's two tiers.
7 You mean like there's highly confidential, that's professionals 8 and those people you named only; and then there's a second 9 tier, confidential, then the Committee members, the actual 10 businesspeople could see it?

11 MS. MONTGOMERY: That's absolutely right, but the 12 confidential data would still be subject to protection. So we 13 think it's a strong protective order, and should meet the needs 14 of all of the objectors.

15 THE COURT: Okay. Let me -- I'm giving you the last 16 word. You can respond in any way you want to all of these 17 eight or so separate arguments, but I would like you to start 18 first with CCS Medical and MGM. I think you acknowledged at 19 the beginning they're in a little bit different category, but 20 now that you've heard their lawyers articulate how they are 21 different, do you think that at least with these two, their 22 ability to first review anything you produce, or the debtor is 23 going to produce, relating to CCS Medical and MGM might be 24 reasonable?

25 MS. MONTGOMERY: Yes, Your Honor.

1 I'd even go a step further. I mean we were working 2 to negotiate with MGM, and my apologies to Ms. Stratford 3 because I must have missed her communications, it was not 4 intentional; we would have happily negotiated the same with 5 regard to her. That those documents might even just be 6 excluded from the review subject to some specific, you know, 7 protections so that we can make sure that things aren't being 8 overly included.

9 So I think that the UCC would be open to a limited 10 review. The devil's in the details with all ESI, Your Honor, 11 so it would really just be determining to make that as targeted 12 as possible so it's not -- you know, it's not including 13 documents that don't have anything to do with the board's 14 service.

15 THE COURT: Okay. It's -- let me ponder what you 16 just said.

17 It would exclude anything not having to do with their 18 board service, Dondero or Trey Parker's board service.

19 MS. MONTGOMERY: Yes. So we believe that because the 20 debtor has separate relationships potentially with these other 21 entities, we understand the concern with regard to the data 22 that's related to their role as a director.

23 But, for example, if there is communications between 24 Mr. Dondero and someone else at the debtor that just says like, 25 you know, "MGM stock is trending up," I don't know that that's

1 necessarily related to his status as a director as I don't know
2 that it's related to an estate claim. It's perhaps a bad 3 example, but the concept remains, Your Honor, we think that 4 there has to be a way to slice that so that all the parties are 5 getting the protection that they need for their confidential
6 board communications without overly dipping into the data 7 that's otherwise in the debtor's position.

8 THE COURT: All right.

9 Well, let me -- let me go to Mr. Keiffer's client.
10 I'd like to hear your specific rebuttal to his idea that maybe 11 you can come up with three or five categories, suffix as he 12 called them, to just, at the outset, carve them out from the 13 possibility of Committee review.

14 MS. MONTGOMERY: So I'm not entirely certain that I 15 completely understood the proposal, Your Honor, and my 16 apologies for that. But I don't know that Mr. Keiffer is 17 suggesting that those categories be excluded from these nine 18 custodians that are the subject to the motion to compel, or if 19 he was requesting that there be some sort of exclusion that 20 applies to data that's otherwise produced related to his client 21 by the debtor, so maybe it's not in the nine custodians' data.

22 In any case, Your Honor, we're open to discussions to 23 try to resolve any of these objections. I don't know that 24 we've specifically discussed that with Mr. Keiffer, but we're 25 happy to do so. If it's limited in nature, and it's not going

1 to unnecessarily slow down production, you know, we're open to 2 talking about it.

3 THE COURT: Okay. Well, let me -- let me make sure I 4 understand -- and I know this is subject to discussion with the 5 debtor when we break, but the UCC's proposed protocol here was 6 -- let me go through a couple of mechanics.

7 All the files of the nine custodians would be 8 provided to this E discovery vendor to put in a repository.
9 And then hopefully the debtor and the Creditors' Committee 10 would come up with a set of mutually agreeable privilege terms 11 to hopefully identify what would -- you agree be attorney-12 client privilege or work product privilege so that the search 13 terms don't get to that privileged information.

14 If you have disputes, you're going to have a third 15 party neutral, you've discussed, to resolve the disputes about 16 those search terms.

17 And then all documents, not including those agreed 18 privilege terms, would get produced to the Committee, obviously 19 subject to the earlier agreed upon protective order, and then 20 the debtors contract attorneys would review the held back files 21 to see if they're really privileged, or not. And if not, 22 they'd be produced. And if they are, they would -- if they 23 think they are, a privilege log would be produced, and then any 24 disputes could be resolved by this neutral third party.

25 I don't know if that's still your protocol on the 1 table, but that's how I understood it to work from your papers.

2 I guess what I'm getting at is -- I'm pondering Mr.
3 Keiffer's argument, and really a few others. I mean if this is 4 what you're still holding fast to, I mean there's a lot of 5 opportunities along the way to protect attorney-client 6 privilege information of these affiliated entities, right?
7 You're going to first try to craft appropriate search terms so 8 as not to get at privileged information. If you can't get 9 agreements on those, you'll have the third party neutral weigh 10 in.

11 And then the documents that are turned up ultimately 12 through the search, the debtor's going to get a chance to 13 review for privilege and hold back.

14 I guess -- I guess the thought is the debtor's only 15 going to be looking towards its own privileged information, 16 not necessarily NexPoint, or Highland, CLO Funding, and the 17 others.

18 So -- I mean if you could address -- first off, is 19 that the protocol that's still on the table? Did I correctly 20 described the Creditors' Committee's proposed protocol?

21 MS. MONTGOMERY: Sorry. Yes, Your Honor, that's 22 what's set forth in our motion. We've been working with the 23 debtors to try to make that more functional; we haven't reached 24 an agreement yet. Perhaps we'll be able to do that when we 25 take a break in just a moment.

1 But, you know, we've been trying to figure out, Your 2 Honor, if there are ways that we can further limit the 3 production based on search terms in some way so that we can 4 limit the privilege logging and review that has to occur. But 5 like I said, that's -- that's outstanding at the moment, and I 6 don't know that the parties have an agreement or would be able 7 to reach an agreement. We're hopeful, but I'm not entirely 8 certain.

9 But otherwise, yes, Your Honor, I think you've pretty 10 well explained the protocol, with one exception, which is that 11 the privilege review that was proposed, that review would be to 12 determine whether or not the documents that were being produced 13 -- that were, you know, presumptively privileged were related 14 to estate claims. And if they were related to estate claims, 15 then those would be produced to the Committee under the terms 16 of the final term sheet.

17 If they are attorney-client privileged, and not 18 related to estate claims, then those would be withheld and 19 logged.

20 THE COURT: All right.

21 Well, let's go back to Mr. Keiffer's suggestion. I 22 mean if he -- okay. I was confused; I think Ms. Montgomery was 23 confused, too.

24 Mr. Keiffer, you had talked about these three or four 25 suffixes, and one of them would be your law firm if -- I think

1 what I was understanding, communications that went between 2 Atlas and your law firm; communications that went between Atlas
3 and one or two other outside counsel. Is that encapsulating 4 what you think could be crafted in here --

5 MR. KEIFFER: Yes, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: -- and excluded?

7 MR. KEIFFER: Yes, Your Honor, that's exactly what 8 we're talking about.

9 The reason I used "suffixes" just as a term because 10 after the act. So it's ROMCLAW.com is the suffix. And so if 11 you look for that -- if that is the part of the search terms 12 and, you know, you see that, and that means set aside, you see 13 my law firm's suffix on the email somewhere in that, then you 14 know that that's something you need to set aside, as well as 15 another law firm that they had would be SGLawyers.com, those 16 are the -- that's what was referencing, it's just an easy way.

17 We don't have a lot in our specific circumstance -- 18 and I think it was also some of the more attenuating parties 19 that come in and -- complaining have been -- would be looking 20 for something like that, so if they had a -- maybe that's the 21 same thing that they're kind of looking for. But for us, it is 22 very simple terms, it's what the law firm email addresses are.
23 And when they show up, that's the search term that pushes them 24 aside.

25 THE COURT: All right.

1 MR. KEIFFER: Because that would okay, it's probably 2 something -- because before we even knew what was going on, we 3 were working on putting that proof of claim together that we 4 filed, we would have emails out there concerning circumstances 5 between myself and my client. And those would -- those 6 ostensibly would be available under the -- under the -- if it 7 were (indiscernible) litigated, and the Committee won that 8 issue, those would be available.

9 But we think the easier thing to do is just set them 10 side, let's not go down that road.

11 The other -- we think there's very few of those, and 12 we'll be happy to give them -- the suffixes in a few days.
13 I'll make sure Mr. Honis -- that my client representative gives 14 me all of those.

15 THE COURT: All right.

16 Well, Ms. Montgomery, again, I'm just looking through 17 my notes of your early comments. I mean you had put Mr.
18 Keiffer's client in a little bit of a separate category, right?
19 Saying it didn't appear that Atlas or Rand entities -- they're 20 one in the same, right? Or -- well, same group of clients or 21 same group of entities: Rand, Atlas --

22 MR. KEIFFER: They are, Your Honor, that's all -- 23 they're all in my group.

24 THE COURT: Okay. So you had made the comment, Ms.
25 Montgomery, that they did not appear to share legal counsel.

1 MS. MONTGOMERY: I did.

2 THE COURT: In other words, the three in-house
3 lawyers that are custodians, right?

4 MS. MONTGOMERY: That's right, Your Honor. And I 5 think that our position would be because they don't share legal 6 counsel, if there were communications essentially from these 7 three law -- like law firm email addresses that are in these 8 nine custodial data, then those documents might not be 9 privileged.

10 If what Mr. Keiffer's concerned about is 11 communications not to these nine custodians that involve those 12 three or four addresses where there isn't sort of a debtor 13 representative involved, then I think that's a separate 14 situation, and we'd be more than willing to reach an agreement 15 regarding how those documents should be treated, whether it's 16 by review by Mr. Keiffer in logging or just exclusion from 17 review.

18 MR. KEIFFER: Your Honor, may I ask for one quick 19 clarification. We still want to maintain that to the extent I 20 don't know for sure whether -- what extent legal services were 21 or were not provided.

22 And to the extent that their joint privileges waived, 23 a way around those things, that's the better way of doing it 24 than to say that they've been waived and things. So let's just 25 let the joint client privilege point, which we previously

1 discussed, be the main means by which those go through. There 2 might be (indiscernible) discussions with one of the nine folks
3 that -- when Highland was involved in the transaction. There 4 may be a common interest privilege, etc. I think it has to 5 stay at that highly confidential level just because it's 6 (indiscernible) had it lowered in its tier -- I mean a tier -- 7 or possible references, whether it's confidential, highly 8 confidential, confidential or not confidential at all.

9 THE COURT: Okay. I just --

10 MR. KEIFFER: That's the only --

11 THE COURT: I just got very confused. I think we 12 were discussing if -- if there are --

13 MR. KEIFFER: May I, Your Honor?

14 THE COURT: Yeah, I -- I -- well, if there are 15 communications from folks at Highland to these three or so law 16 firms that Atlas uses, then there could be an agreement those 17 are cut out -- carved out.

18 But if there is -- if there are communications from 19 the six other custodians who are not lawyers to Rand entity -- 20 or -- or these law firms --

21 MR. KEIFFER: No, Your Honor --

22 THE COURT: I -- I --

23 MR. KEIFFER: Pardon me, Your Honor. The law firms 24 aren't really the issue here. Only the issue with regard to 25 seeking things through what is the shared server circumstance

1 in the email server.

2 An example may be that when there's an email that 3 comes in from Isaac to my client saying "You've got some 4 production requirements," and I'm on that email, I would 5 initially show up on that email, but that wouldn't be one that 6 would be as part of a shared services type of potential legal 7 discussions about current circumstances and telling me, "Oh, by 8 the way, we've been requested for this information under a 9 shared services agreement, you have X days to produce."

10 If, on the other hand, it's -- some years ago, back 11 when things were happening, not current, but years ago when 12 things were going on, that there was -- that there was an email 13 between my client's counsel and the debtor's counsel, there 14 would be the shared privilege or the joint privilege element 15 that would keep it at a different level, even though there may 16 be some other issues in regard to the shared services related 17 to privilege.

18 What we mentioned earlier -- and I think the 19 Committee's okay with this -- with the joint client privilege 20 is not affected by the process. And so that -- the only thing 21 that's really, really out here that adds to the circumstance is 22 where emails show the three to five dot-com addresses. That 23 they get set aside to go through a different -- go through a 24 process of review, you know, to see if they're attorney client 25 between myself and my client, or between previous counsels and 1 my clients, just as between them.

2 THE COURT: All right.

3 MR. KEIFFER: That's all we're really looking for in 4 that.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 Ms. Montgomery, again, I'm giving you the last word 7 in rebuttal to any of this you want to say at this point. But 8 I do hope you'll address one more thing as part of that, and 9 that is Mr. Dondero's arguments about Acis. I just want to 10 clarify I understand where you stand on that.

11 MS. MONTGOMERY: Yes, Your Honor. With regard to Mr.
12 Dondero's arguments regarding Acis, we have no qualms with the 13 position that communications that are related to the Acis 14 litigation should be treated as outside counsel or highly 15 confidential -- at the highly confidential level, right? That 16 makes sense, Your Honor, and we're not trying to bypass 17 discovery on behalf of any of the members of the Committee, or 18 anything of that nature.

19 Our concern with the objection was that's not what's 20 being asked for. If Mr. Dondero had asked that communications 21 or documents that relate to the underlying litigation be not 22 provided to the members of the Committee, and held at only the 23 lawyers' eyes only, we wouldn't have had a problem with that.

24 Instead, what he's asking is that all documents not 25 be shared with one of the members of the Committee, and we

1 think that's overly broad. And, frankly, I'm unclear as to why 2 that would be necessary.

3 THE COURT: Okay; all right. Anything else you want 4 to say?

5 MS. MONTGOMERY: Only to the extent that you have 6 questions about any of the arguments that they made, Your 7 Honor. We don't want to take up more of your time than 8 necessary.

9 THE COURT: All right. Well, I'm going to carve out 10 three specific areas, and then I'll just give you the more 11 broad ruling.

12 With regard to CCS Medical and MGM, I think they have 13 shown themselves to be in a more unique -- a unique situation 14 in contrast to the others since we certainly don't have any 15 issues of shared in-house lawyers, shared IT, and whatnot. We 16 just have the board connection to Mr. Dondero and Trey Parker
17 on CCS Medical, and with regard to Mr. Dondero and MGM.

18 So I do think these objectors should have the 19 independent ability to review before disclosure to the 20 Creditors' Committee, at their own cost, any information 21 pertaining to those two entities to make sure there's not any 22 privileged information they want to argue should be held back 23 or commercially sensitive information.

24 So, again, hopefully you all can amicably work out 25 the wording of that, but that is the concept of the ruling of

1 the Court.

2 Second, with regard to the Atlas/Rand parties, I 3 think that they should be entitled to a separate review of any 4 items that involve those dot-com law firm names to weigh in on 5 whether those are privileged.

6 And, of course, these are all subject to further 7 Court review and litigation before the Court if people cannot 8 agree on that. I say that, or the third party neutral, I guess 9 that would hopefully be the first step before any of this comes 10 to the Court.

11 So that is the special category as to Atlas/Rand.

12 As far as the Dondero argument, I do like the 13 suggestion, Ms. Montgomery, that you made that if there is any 14 documentation relating to Acis litigation that is produced to 15 the Committee, that it should be considered in that first 16 category that it's highly confidential, so it's for 17 professional eyes only; Mr. Terry or Acis businesspeople cannot 18 see that. But that it -- that's just a special category of 19 documents, any ESI that pertains to the Acis litigation, 20 wherever that litigation is pending, this Court, Guernsey, 21 State Court, wherever.

22 So all other objections are overruled except -- 23 obviously I do think it's important to do, Ms. Montgomery, what 24 you said you would do, and make all of these objectors 25 expressly parties who are subject to the original agreed

1 protective order. Okay, so I think that gives them some level 2 of protection. But I have been strongly persuaded in 3 everything I've heard today that there is a very strong chance 4 with regard to most of these entities that share legal counsel
5 with Highland, and share IT, and servers that we have had a 6 waiver of privilege, we have common interest privilege, joint 7 privilege, something of that regard to have impaired their 8 privilege arguments. So I'm just throwing that out there for 9 the benefit of everyone as far as future disputes that there 10 might be.

11 All right, Ms. Montgomery, do you have any questions 12 about that ruling?

13 MS. MONTGOMERY: (No audible response heard).

14 THE COURT: No? All right.

15 MS. MATSUMURA: Your Honor, may I make one brief 16 comment? This is Rebecca Matsumura for Highland CLO Funding.

17 THE COURT: Yes.

18 MS. MATSUMURA: I just wanted to clarify, we didn't 19 make it as an explicit part of our deal with the Committee that 20 we also be made party to the protective order. But we'd also 21 ask for that relief, as well as, you know, such being given to 22 all of the objectors.

23 THE COURT: Okay, the Court grants that request.

24 All right, Ms. Montgomery, anything else?

25 MS. MONTGOMERY: (No audible response heard).

1 THE COURT: Shall we break now to let the Committee
2 counsel and debtor counsel talk about their remaining 3 unresolved issues? How long of a break, Ms. Montgomery, do you 4 think you will need?

5 MS. MONTGOMERY: (No audible response heard).

6 THE COURT: Okay. I think you're on mute.

7 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, this is John Morris from 8 Pachulski on behalf of the debtor.

9 THE COURT: Oh, okay.

10 MR. MORRIS: I just -- yeah, I just need to put some 11 -- a couple of bells and whistles, it will probably take me two 12 minutes to finish-up an email from Ms. Montgomery. And then if 13 we could just -- I would suggest give us until -- 45 -- until I 14 guess 3:45 --

15 THE COURT: All right.

16 MR. MORRIS: -- local time.

17 THE COURT: All right. Well --

18 MR. MORRIS: And then see -- hopefully we'll know -- 19 at least narrow the issues, if not reached a complete 20 agreement, by that time.

21 THE COURT: Okay. I'll come back at 3:45.

22 UNIDENTIFIED ATTORNEY: Thank you, Your Honor.

23 (Recess 3:23 p.m./Reconvene 3:46 p.m.)

24 THE COURT: All right. This is Judge Jernigan again.
25 I'm going back on the record in Highland Capital. Do we have 1 at least Mr. Morris and Ms. Montgomery available from their 2 session?

3 MS. MONTGOMERY: Can you guys -- can you hear me,
4 Your Honor?

5 THE COURT: I can hear you now; thank you.

6 MS. MONTGOMERY: Okay, I have no idea why it keeps 7 muting, so my apologies for that.

8 We just briefly met. We need just a few more 9 minutes, Your Honor, to run one issue past our client, but we 10 do believe we're going to have at least one matter outstanding 11 for the Court to consider hopefully, but we've managed to 12 resolve everything else.

13 THE COURT: Okay. So do you literally mean one 14 minute, or were you being general? Do we need five minutes 15 or --

16 MS. MONTGOMERY: I think five would be sufficient, 17 Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: All right. Well, I'll take another 19 break. I'll be back in five minutes.

20 MS. MONTGOMERY: My apologies.

21 THE COURT: Okay; no problem.

22 (Recess 3:47 p.m./Reconvene 3:59 p.m.)

23 THE COURT: All right. This is Judge Jernigan, we're 24 back on the record in Highland after a break.

25 Mr. Morris, I see you there. And do we have positive

1 news to report?

2 MR. MORRIS: I think we do. We haven't completely 3 resolved every single issue, there is still one remaining one 4 that we'd like to present to the Court.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MR. MORRIS: But we have otherwise, I think, reached 7 an agreement with respect to all other matters.

8 Ms. Montgomery, I don't know if you want to share 9 with the Court or -- I don't even know if Your Honor wants us 10 to present the agreement to her or we'll just submit it in a 11 proposed order later.

12 THE COURT: Well, if you could just hit the 13 highlights so we have it on the record that we have an 14 agreement, and the pertinent points.

15 MR. MORRIS: Okay. So I'll just -- I'm just reading 16 from the email.

17 The Requested ESI will be securely delivered to 18 Meta-e. Meta-e is a third-party service provider, 19 (indiscernible) the Committee. So the requested ESI for the 20 nine custodians will be delivered to Meta-e.

21 Number two, the debtor will proceed with the 22 production of the 800,000 e-mails previously identified by use 23 of agreed search terms, subject to the Court's prior rulings 24 with respect to the third party objections, and subject further 25 to a privilege review using terms agreed by the parties, with

1 the resolution of any disputes on those privileged terms 2 resolved on an expedited basis in accordance with the 3 Committee's proposal in their motion to compel. And that 4 really is just longhand, I guess, for a special master.

5 If and when the UCC wants to conduct further searches 6 on the requested e-mails, it will give the debtor with three 7 business days to consent to the search terms, with such consent 8 not to be unreasonably withheld. In the absence of any 9 objection, the e-mails will be produced subject to the Court's 10 rulings on the third-party objections, as well as privilege 11 review previously described. Search terms need not necessarily 12 be tied to formal requests for production, and may be provided 13 to the debtor on a rolling basis.

14 If debtor does not consent to search terms, it must 15 lodge an objection with the Committee. The parties shall 16 confer in good faith and if no resolution is reached within two 17 business days, the debtor may seek judicial review on an 18 expedited basis. It will be debtor's burden to establish that 19 the search terms are not reasonably designed to identify data 20 relevant to Estate Claims. Initial caps because the "Estate 21 Claims" is from the governance settlement back in January.

22 All ESI containing search terms not subject to 23 objection will be produced to the Committee pending 24 determinations on those terms, if any, as to which there is 25 disagreement.

1 Next, Your Honor, taking into account the speed with 2 which the parties intend to proceed and the volume of 3 documents, all ESI produced that is not subject to the 4 privilege term search shall be produced on a "highly 5 confidential" basis under the protective order, and the debtor 6 shall respond within two business days to any designation 7 challenge by the UCC. Documents that have been reviewed for 8 privilege will be categorized by debtor in the first instance 9 as either highly confidential, confidential, or not subject to 10 confidentiality.

11 Next, all persons or entities who objected to the 12 UCC's motion to compel or who are otherwise identified in the 13 debtor's motion for a protective order shall be deemed to be 14 parties to the court-ordered protective order that was entered 15 in January.

16 All documents from any custodian -- any of the non-17 custodians that are related to or otherwise concern the pending 18 Acis litigation shall be marked "highly confidential" and not 19 subject to privilege challenge.

20 And finally, any disputes regarding the privilege 21 review process will be resolved by the special master and both 22 parties expressly reserve their rights thereto.

23 So there's one last issue --

24 THE COURT: Can I -- before we --

25 MR. MORRIS: Of course.

1 THE COURT: -- go on and I forget, can we call this 2 human being a third party neutral instead of a special master?
3 And I'm -- I'm splitting hairs on that because there is a rule 4 somewhere -- is it -- is it in 105 or is it a rule that says a 5 bankruptcy judge can't appoint a special master?

6 MR. MORRIS: I don't know, but let's just call him or 7 her a third party neutral.

8 THE COURT: Yeah, I'm not crazy, isn't that -- I 9 think it's in one of the 9000 rules.

10 MR. MORRIS: I'm sure you're right.,

11 THE COURT: I'm not sure how different this third 12 party neutral is in substance from a special master, but it 13 will just make me feel better.

14 MR. MORRIS: Yeah, it's just somebody who can --

15 THE COURT: If the Fifth Circuit ever looks at it --

16 MR. MORRIS: Yeah, it's just somebody who can help us 17 resolve either issues of creating these privilege terms or 18 resolving any other disputes so that we don't have to burden 19 the Court with such issues.

20 THE COURT: Okay; very good.

21 Well, let's hear the unresolved issue then.

22 MR. MORRIS: Okay. So the last issue, Your Honor, is 23 as Your Honor knows -- Your Honor, I need to, if I may, just 24 provide some perspective here because these issues are very, 25 very important to the debtor. I take personal responsibility

1 for all discovery matters in this case. I've had the support
2 of the independent board, and of all of Highland's employees 3 who have worked very hard to get these documents in this case.

4 We produced -- really we were substantially complete 5 with all (indiscernible), and we did it with the following 6 principles in mind: We wanted to, of course, eliminate or at 7 least limit any potential liability exposure to the debtor, and 8 that's what prompted us to make the motion to compel. And as 9 Your Honor saw, there were eight separate objections brought by 10 40 or 50 different parties, and it's exactly for that reason 11 that we were seeking the ability to do the review initially 12 because we have -- you know, we may have wound up disagreeing 13 with some third parties as to the scope of their obligations, 14 but we knew there were obligations that existed and the board 15 was very specific in instructing me to make sure that we 16 (indiscernible) liability (indiscernible). So I'm really 17 pleased that the objecting party stepped up, and that the Court 18 issued its rulings. But that was really one of our 19 (indiscernible) principles.

20 Another one is to make sure that we protect the 21 privilege to non-estate claims. We negotiated very 22 (indiscernible) term sheet with the Committee. We gave the 23 Committee standing to pursue estate claims. We gave the 24 Committee a shared privilege to all privileged communications 25 of estate claims.

1 But what we did not do, what we did not agree to was 2 to waive the privilege with respect to non-estate claims. So 3 that's the second principle that we've been trying to protect 4 because the board and (indiscernible) we have an obligation to 5 the estate and to the Committee, so we're trying to protect the 6 estate's privilege for non-estate claims.

7 And the third thing is just to make sure this process 8 runs as efficiently as it could. You know, I don't know that 9 going from 800,000 emails to eight million is -- can be 10 categorized as a success, but that's what the Committee's 11 wanted to do, and the board has been very specific not to be 12 obstructionist here, but just to be guided by the principles 13 that I've articulated. And that's kind of how we got here.

14 And so the last issue here, Your Honor, touches on 15 the principles that I just described, and that is the nine 16 custodians at issue, three of them are lawyers: Scott 17 Ellington, Isaac Leventon, and Mr. Surgent. They're all 18 lawyers, they're all licensed to practice law, they all give 19 legal advice, they give legal advice to the board, they give 20 legal advice on countless issues that are completely unrelated 21 to estate claims for which the Committee does not have standing 22 to pursue, and for which the Committee does not have a shared 23 privilege.

24 So the third issue, Your Honor, is just to say that 25 for those three out of nine custodians, we actually do a real

1 privilege review on a document-by-document basis.

2 Now I'll just leave it at that, that's what the issue 3 is. And the Committee, I think -- I'll let them speak for 4 itself.

5 THE COURT: Okay. I -- I didn't know there was any 6 disagreement about debtor lawyers or debtor contract lawyers
7 doing a privilege review. I thought it was just a -- you know, 8 the two-tier, first a relevance review and then a privilege 9 review.

10 MR. MORRIS: It's in our objection, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: Pardon?

12 MR. MORRIS: We did raise it -- we did raise the 13 issue in our objection.

14 THE COURT: Oh.

15 MR. MORRIS: This isn't the first time I --

16 THE COURT: Well, no, no, no, no, I thought --

17 MR. MORRIS: Maybe I'm mistaken.

18 THE COURT: I thought it was already part of the 19 UCC's proposed protocol that there be a privilege review by 20 debtor's lawyers.

21 MR. MORRIS: That's right, and that's just using kind 22 of garden variety search terms. What I'm saying is that when 23 it comes to -- and that's fine to take the six non-lawyers, 24 that's fine for Mr. Dondero, that's fine, you know, for Mr.
25 Waterhouse, and for the other non-lawyers. But for a lawyer,

1 Your Honor, I think -- I think -- I mean this is of such vital 2 importance, and is -- almost everything they do is -- not 3 everything; I overstated. Sometimes they're engaged in 4 business advice. But for the most part, they're practicing 5 lawyers.

6 And I think we just need a heightened standard of 7 protection for those individuals, and it's just the three of 8 the nine. I mean it's for three of the nine who are licensed 9 lawyers, and we're asking for a wholesale privilege review for 10 those three people, not just searching to see if their email 11 says they privilege or work product, you know, there are other 12 search terms that may come up.

13 THE COURT: Okay. Ms. Montgomery, elaborate on where 14 the difference is on your proposed procedure versus the 15 debtor's, all right?

16 MS. MONTGOMERY: Yes, Your Honor.

17 The proposal that is before the Court, you're 18 correct, does provide for a privilege review. We've never 19 argued that there shouldn't be a privilege review. We 20 understand that the creditors stand only in the shoes of the 21 debtor with regard to the estate claims, and not more broadly.

22 The dispute really here, Your Honor, is on the nature 23 of the search when it comes down to these three custodians that 24 are attorneys. And Mr. Morris is suggesting that all of the 25 documents -- every document that has a custodial file, is in

1 their custodian file should be touched by the debtor so that 2 they could look at it and determine whether or not it is 3 privileged. And if it is privileged, whether or not it's 4 related to an estate claim.

5 And our position, Your Honor, is that that's 6 unnecessary, and that it's going to cost a lot of money, and 7 also slow down the review process.

8 And the basis, Your Honor, for our position is that 9 this sort of assumption stands on the ground that every 10 document a lawyer touches can be -- you know, is automatically 11 privileged. And as a general rule, we all know that that's not 12 the case. Not every document a lawyer touches is protectable.
13 And that's particularly true with regard to in-house counsel.
14 Their roles by their nature involve providing both legal advice 15 and business advice, and only the legal advice is protectable.

16 Several courts have held that the presumption might - 17 - regarding privilege that might exist for law firm counsel is 18 not the same presumption that should be held with regard to in-19 house counsel. In fact, the presumption should be that the 20 advice is business advice, unless it's establishing legal 21 advice.

22 And of the three custodians that the debtor
23 discussed, two of them -- they're all, in fact, licensed 24 attorneys. But one of them is not in the legal department, he 25 is acting as the head of compliance. And as you know, the case

1 law on compliance is fairly well-settled that there isn't a 2 presumption of privilege with regard to the compliance issues.

3 And so as a result, we think it's most appropriate to 4 use robust privilege terms. You know, think of things like 5 privilege, lawyer, attorney-client, work product, etc., and 6 we've proposed a list of those terms to the debtor, and we're 7 willing to continue to work that out with this third party 8 neutral.

9 But we don't believe that it's appropriate for every 10 single document that is related to these three custodians be 11 reviewed for privilege purposes, that's just excessive and 12 expensive.

13 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, if I may?

14 THE COURT: You may.

15 MR. MORRIS: I dare say that not ten percent of what 16 I write has the word "privilege," "attorney-client," "work 17 product" in my emails. That is -- you will never be able to 18 create a list that's sufficient to protect a lawyer from 19 producing privileged communications.

20 There's no dispute here that the Committee's rights 21 extend no further than estate claims. And I might feel 22 differently here, Your Honor, and maybe there's some wiggle 23 room here, but they can create six terms that are actually 24 designed to elicit information relating to estate claims, 25 right? And we've asked them to do that for many months. And

1 if they're -- if I thought that they were actually looking for 2 information that related to estate claims for which the debtor
3 has agreed the Committee would share the privilege, my concerns 4 would be much more modest in scope.

5 But here, you have individuals who have been acting 6 as lawyers for five years. To expect them to write the word 7 "lawyer," or "privilege," or "work product" in every email, or 8 to suggest that if they haven't done that, then it's fair game.
9 Even if you have no idea if it relates to an estate claim is 10 just -- it's just (indiscernible). It's just -- it's not 11 right.

12 They're getting the emails of six custodians.
13 They're getting the emails using the search terms with the six 14 custodians. It is costly, it will slow it down for three of 15 the nine people, but that's because they haven't given us -- 16 they haven't given us search terms that are designed to elicit
17 estate claims. They're just -- they're asking for everything.
18 And I've never ever seen anybody -- any court allow, you know, 19 the unfettered access subject to only search terms that may or 20 may not be sufficient. I just -- we feel very, very strongly 21 about this. They're getting six out of nine custodians, and 22 we're not even saying that they won't get the lawyers in these 23 three custodians' emails. We'll give them whatever relates to 24 estate claims.

25 MS. MONTGOMERY: Very briefly. I think what Mr.

1 Morris has raised is dealt with by virtue of the agreement that 2 we just told you about, which is that we're going to be using 3 search terms that are aimed at identifying estate claims. And 4 that the review and the production process to us would be only 5 of the documents that contained that search term, and the 6 privilege would be for the subset of documents that contain 7 that search term and also contain a privilege term.

8 And it's not limited to just privilege, Your Honor.
9 There are things in there like "lawsuit," or "litigation," or 10 "claim," or -- and we're open to continue to discuss those.

11 Like I said, we only object to a wholesale review of 12 every document, we don't really think that that's necessary.

13 MR. MORRIS: We're -- we're -- and I just want to 14 clarify, we're not talking about reviewing every document.
15 We're only talking about the documents that would come up using 16 whatever search terms the Committee devises.

17 So by our count, there's between one point five and 18 two million emails from the three lawyers. We're not 19 suggesting that we would look at every one of them, there would 20 be no need to do that.

21 But what we would do is review the emails that are 22 the subject of search terms to make sure there (indiscernible).

23 THE COURT: Okay. Let me -- at the risk of repeating 24 myself -- go through the explicit protocol the UCC had in its 25 pleading:

1 Number one, all files of the nine custodians,
2 including those three lawyers, would be provided over to the E-3 discovery vendor to put in a repository.

4 Then you come up with this robust list of privilege
5 terms to ferret out what might be privileged. You try to agree 6 on that robust set of privilege terms. If you can't, you get 7 the third party neutral to work out your disagreement, 8 hopefully.

9 So you get that resolved, and the search protocol is 10 executed, and all documents, not including one of those 11 robustly created privilege terms, get produced to the Committee
12 subject to that agreed protective order from January, 2020 13 where there's carve out and, you know, ability to pull back, 14 right, if there's inadvertent production of privilege, right?
15 That's an essential term, right? If something accidentally 16 gets produced that shouldn't, then there's always a mechanism 17 to pull it back.

18 And then the debtor's contract attorneys would review 19 all of the held back documents, the documents held back, you 20 know, because the privilege terms were triggered, and they were 21 held back, to determine if they are really privileged. If not, 22 then they get produced.

23 But if you decide they are, in fact, privilege, then 24 you create a privilege log, and that gets shared with the 25 Committee. And if there are disputes about that, then you go

1 to the third party neutral to resolve those.

2 Okay, is there anything I misstated about what the 3 Committee has proposed?

4 (No audible response heard)

5 THE COURT: Is there anything I've misstated? Ms.
6 Montgomery's shaking her head no.

7 MS. MONTGOMERY: No, Your Honor, I don't believe so.

8 MR. MORRIS: So --

9 THE COURT: So I really am -- if that's the case, I'm 10 not getting, Mr. Morris, why --

11 MR. MORRIS: Let me try one more time, because --

12 THE COURT: You're going to get your chance to review 13 stuff that's --

14 MR. MORRIS: No, but -- but we're not, and here's -- 15 here's the gap in what you have just described. Everything you 16 have just described is perfectly fine for the six non-lawyers.

17 Our concern is if you don't have -- if -- there's no 18 question that the lawyers have engaged in the provision of 19 legal services, there's no question that the provision of legal 20 services extended beyond estate claims.

21 And the concern is no matter how hard you devise 22 search terms, and this is just a matter of practice in my 23 experience, you're always going to get documents that don't get 24 captured by the search terms.

25 And so what you've described works very well if the 1 document -- if the search terms actually work.

2 What our concern is for lawyers only, that that's not 3 sufficient. That we will lose too many documents that will not 4 be captured using the search terms for which, you know, 5 clawback -- clawback issues are just -- we're talking about 6 millions of documents that are going to be reviewed and 7 produced. Under these circumstances, more than any other, Your 8 Honor, these lawyers privileged communications that do not 9 relate to estate claims should be subject to protection. They 10 should be subject to more protection than non-lawyers are 11 getting.

12 THE COURT: The clawback --

13 MR. MORRIS: And given --

14 THE COURT: The clawback isn't enough. The clawback 15 isn't enough.

16 MR. MORRIS: It's not enough. You can't unring the 17 bell, Your Honor.

18 And given the massive amount of information that the 19 Committee is seeking that we are willing to provide, frankly, I 20 don't think it's unreasonable to say, yeah, no, we're going to 21 treat lawyers like lawyers.

22 THE COURT: So balance is you think, you know, those 23 lawyer eyes that can't unsee what they see, okay, if they get 24 it, yeah, you can claw it back, but they can't unsee it. And 25 so somehow, it's going to, you know, be harmful.

1 But the flip side of that is -- well --

2 MR. MORRIS: I did try to create a little more --

3 THE COURT: A great delay and expense, right, for you 4 all to first go through the gazillion documents, and then, you 5 know, there's a privilege log that might be --

6 MR. MORRIS: I --

7 THE COURT: -- much larger than --

8 MR. MORRIS: I did --

9 THE COURT: Go ahead.

10 MR. MORRIS: I did try to create a little space for 11 Your Honor, a little comfort zone, and that is that the 12 Committee actually use search terms that was designed to get 13 communications related to estate claims, right? Because these 14 lawyers have countless emails, for example, relating to the 15 board's deliberations on settlement with UBS, or with the 16 Redeemer Committee, or with Acis, these things have been going 17 on for months. That shouldn't be subject to clawback, they 18 should never be produced.

19 And so if there's -- you know, if the Committee were 20 to devise actual search terms that were intended to get estate
21 claim information, like I said before, that may make more -- 22 that might provide a little bit more comfort. But to allow 23 them to just use, you know, regular search terms on those 24 emails when you have non-estate claim information, and they 25 have -- I'm telling Your Honor, just countless emails over the 1 last six months with the board, responding to board inquiries, 2 responding to claims dispute resolutions, responding to all 3 kinds of things.

4 You know, at a minimum, I would want -- I would want 5 it to stop as of the petition date. But I think -- but I think 6 even beyond that, they're lawyers, they're licensed 7 practitioners who are rendering legal advice, and they're doing 8 so in the kind of context that have nothing to do with estate 9 claims. And you have six other custodians, six, with whom the 10 Committee's proposal is completely acceptable.

11 THE COURT: Well, this is a hard one. This is a very 12 hard one, Ms. Montgomery. What -- I mean what do you have to 13 offer me other than delay/expense? And that's -- you know, 14 those are not small considerations, but that's really what it 15 boils down to, right?

16 MS. MONTGOMERY: Well, there's delay, there's 17 expense, and then there's the protections that are already put 18 forth in the protective order, Your Honor, which we think are, 19 as we've said already today, robust.

20 We understand their concern with regard to clawback.
21 They have an attorneys' eyes only highly confidential 22 designation that they can use, and that will be used under the 23 agreement we've reached with regard to any document that they 24 haven't looked at. So those will only be going to outside 25 counsel and the Committee's professionals.

1 And I just don't know -- you know, I think the 2 protections are there, and that the cost, you know, when 3 balanced against what we're really asking them to do and the 4 protections that are in place for them, just -- they don't -- 5 they don't balance out, Your Honor.

6 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, with all due respect, it's a 7 little -- it's a little difficult for me to listen to cost 8 being a concern when you have a Committee who's asked for the 9 emails of nine custodians over a five-year period. Actually 10 they've asked for ESI, the eight million number is just emails.
11 So it's not -- it's emails and attachments.

12 So the notion that cost is now an impediment while 13 we've gone from 800,000 emails to eight million doesn't 14 (indiscernible) with me.

15 THE COURT: All right. Well, again, I don't find 16 this to be at all easy. But I am going to sustain the debtor's 17 objection on this, if that's the right way to say it. I'm 18 going to accept the position, and order that these three 19 custodians, Scott Ellington, Isaac Leventon, and Tom Surgent, 20 that before any production, those three individuals' files can 21 go through, will go through separate review by the debtor. So 22 they're carved out of the rest of these protocols, and 23 presumably as promptly as possible, there will be rolling 24 production. Debtor will produce non-privileged files and will 25 create a privilege log.

1 And if there are disputes about that privilege log,
2 either the third party neutral will work them out or I guess 3 I'm the ultimate arbiter, if need be. I don't know exactly how 4 you have those mechanics. Maybe you don't have the judge 5 involved; I don't know.

6 Why don't you tell me so I can know whether to be 7 expecting a request to weigh in. Do you have it set up where 8 the third party neutral's the final say on things like whether 9 something belongs on a privilege log or if it's really 10 privileged?

11 MR. MORRIS: I don't think we've addressed that, Your 12 Honor.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MR. MORRIS: But I'm sure we can --

15 MS. MONTGOMERY: I think it may be already be covered 16 in the protective order, Your Honor; I'm just checking to see.

17 THE COURT: Okay. And I just want to say that I 18 understand very well from my months working on the Acis 19 bankruptcy that these in-house lawyers -- I'm inclined to say 20 they wear many hats. I don't know if that's the right way -- I 21 had Mr. Ellington on the witness stand once; I had Mr. Leventon 22 on the witness stand many times. And I will tell you the 23 Court's impression is that they are both businesspeople, as 24 well as lawyers. And I never had Surgent, the compliance 25 fellow, in here.

1 But I'm just letting you know I hope there aren't,
2 you know, umpteen disputes about things held back as privilege.
3 The way I view it, there may be things that are privileged, and 4 things that absolutely were not -- are not. I know we've got 5 privilege related to estate causes of action versus attorney-6 client privilege or work product that doesn't relate to causes 7 of action. And I'm already bracing myself for how hard is that 8 going to be to ferret out is it related to an estate cause of 9 action or not.

10 I'm really -- while I feel good that we've worked out 11 a lot today, I am really bracing myself because I don't think 12 this is the last discovery dispute I'm going to see. I just 13 don't. We have a lot of things that kind of sound good when 14 you say them fast, but just -- you know my view. Well, you 15 know my views. I've seen two of these in-house lawyers on the 16 witness stand before. And, again, part businessperson, part 17 lawyer, and I know what the case law says. If it's really a 18 communication that is about rendering legal advice, that's one 19 thing.

20 But if it has nothing to do with that, or little to 21 do with that, it's mainly in their role as a business 22 consultant, or other capacities, there might not be a
23 privilege.

24 MR. PATEL: Your Honor, this is --

25 THE COURT: Go ahead.

1 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, this is Rakhee Patel. If I 2 can briefly be heard on a point of clarification on the 3 agreement.

4 THE COURT: Well, okay, what are you talking about on 5 the agreement?

6 MS. PATEL: Well, Your Honor, what I heard as part of 7 the agreement reached between the Committee and the debtor is 8 that all Acis information will be designated as highly 9 confidential determination, and certainly --

10 THE COURT: Okay. Acis litigation. If it's related 11 to Acis litigation. If they misspoke, that's what I ordered 12 earlier. You didn't misspeak, right?

13 MR. MORRIS: I don't believe so, Your Honor. I think 14 that's --

15 THE COURT: Okay.

16 MR. MORRIS: That's what was --

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 MR. MORRIS: I think it was relating to or concerning 19 the Acis litigation matters.

20 THE COURT: Is that --

21 MS. PATEL: Understood, Your Honor. Yeah, and I just 22 wanted to clarify because what I heard, and apologies if I 23 caught a bit of it, but is that Acis litigation will be 24 designated as highly confidential, and that it is not subject 25 to further review. And I wrote that down because I wanted to 1 just, again, clarify what "not subject to further review" 2 means.

3 My concerns, Your Honor, are kind of twofold:

4 Number one is that certain documentation, as Your 5 Honor just referenced, and you'll recall Mr. Ellington and Mr.
6 Leventon testify during the Acis bankruptcy case that during 7 the involuntary and then during the case in chief, were 8 generally testifying as fact witnesses. And my concern is is 9 that there are other things, for example, in Acis's bankruptcy
10 case, the original schedules were signed by Mr. Leventon.

11 THE COURT: Right.

12 MS. PATEL: Well, some of these are Acis's documents 13 or Acis's information, and Acis is the holder of the privilege 14 on those.

15 So to say that they're highly confidential and 16 they're privileged, that they're -- it's our privilege, I 17 should be allowed to assert my own privilege with respect to 18 those documents, and waive my own privilege -- my client's 19 privilege with respect to that even though --

20 THE COURT: Okay. Can I cut this off? I -- I -- 21 what I believe is the deal, someone correct me if I'm wrong, is 22 that with regard to documents produced, ESI produced to the 23 Committee, if it pertains to Acis litigation matters, okay, 24 litigation between Acis and any Highland -- Highland or 25 Highland affiliate or Highland insiders, that is going to be

1 designated as highly confidential, meaning only professionals
2 for the Committee get to see it, not Committee 3 members/businesspeople. That's the whole agreement with regard 4 to Acis, right?

5 MR. MORRIS: Yes.

6 MS. PATEL: And that was going to be my only point, 7 Your Honor, was that we can -- Acis is obviously going to be 8 able to go get it if necessary. In other words, we -- this 9 isn't about prejudice to Acis's rights to even get it because 10 it is our privileged information anyway; or, number two, we can 11 get it in the ordinary discovery process.

12 Obviously we've got a claim objection that may go to 13 trial, and we may need to seek these documents separately.

14 THE COURT: Right. That -- this doesn't mean -- this 15 does not mean Acis never gets to see it.

16 MS. PATEL: Okay.

17 THE COURT: If Acis requests something in discovery 18 with regard to the claim objection or other litigation, then 19 that's subject to a whole different agreement or order, right, 20 Mr. Morris?

21 MR. MORRIS: Yes. Yes, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: All right. Well, I -- I kind of lost my 25 train of thought, but I guess I'm trying to signal, for

1 whatever it's worth, that if there are disputes down the road
2 regarding files from these three individuals -- Ellington, 3 Leventon, Surgent -- and the debtor is saying they're 4 privileged, you know, and not related to estate causes of 5 action, and the Committee is disagreeing, be prepared to make 6 your best argument. Because I am expecting that some 7 communications, even if they're unrelated to estate causes of 8 action, may very well be in the nature of business type 9 communications because I've seen with my two eyes that they 10 fulfill different roles in that organization.

11 So I hope we don't get bogged down because of my 12 ruling on this today.

13 The other thing I wanted you to kind of keep dangling 14 in your mind is as I was reading the pleadings, preparing for 15 this afternoon, I was very much fixated on -- we had this 16 protocol and a compromise worked out with the Committee way 17 back, at the end of last year, finalized in January and, you 18 know, the agreement was that the Committee would have standing 19 to pursue the estate causes of action, and would get privileged 20 documents related -- you know, communications related to these 21 estate causes of action. And that was to avoid a Chapter 11 22 trustee, which we all know under case law, Weintraub would 23 inherit all privileges, all attorney-client privilege 24 information.

25 So I guess what I'm getting at is I thought -- I

1 thought we had an agreement last January, and that we were 2 going to be smoothly going down this road of document 3 production. And here we are in mid-July, and we're having this 4 fight. That doesn't make me very happy because I was happy not 5 to appoint a Chapter 11 trustee last January because I thought, 6 okay, we have this major compromise with the Committee, they're 7 going to go forward, and evaluate estate causes of action, 8 they're going to get documents that are subject to attorney-9 client privilege. And, you know, it just -- again, I said 10 earlier I didn't want to get into the he said and she said, but 11 the facts speak for themselves that were in July, and just now 12 finalizing this protocol.

13 And I guess the one more thing I will say on that is 14 I know I gave a 90-day deadline for the Committee to either 15 bring causes of action against CLO Holdco -- and I forget the 16 other entity -- or the money in the registry of the Court would 17 be released.

18 I didn't know we still had so far to go with document 19 production when I ruled that. So if someone asks for an 20 extension after today, I think I'd probably be inclined to give 21 an extension. Not a huge, huge, huge extension, but I was a 22 little bit -- not appreciating where the Committee was with 23 regard to getting documents when I said that that day.

24 All right. So I'll be looking for your form of 25 order, hopefully in the next day or two on this.

1 Is there anything further on this topic? Or shall we 2 go to the Acis status conference?

3 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, just a couple of things.

4 THE COURT: Yes?

5 MR. MORRIS: Number one, I do want to give the Court
6 some comfort of knowing that while Mr. Surgent is the Chief 7 Compliance Officer, he's also the Deputy General Counsel at 8 Highland, so he is -- he is (indiscernible).

9 Number two, as you may have seen from our papers, the 10 board considered three outside vendors to do the document 11 review, and ultimately selected one, and we had prepared a 12 stipulation. The Court should expect to see, hopefully in the 13 next day or two, a stipulation pursuant to which the debtor 14 seeks its authority to retain a third party vendor named Robert 15 Hass (phonetic) to assist with the document review. This has 16 all been discussed with the Committee, the Committee has 17 consented to the theory of the retention, but I would ask them 18 to go back perhaps and look at the stipulation so we can get 19 that signed up and get people to work as quickly as possible.

20 THE COURT: Okay, very good.

21 Now what about the third party neutral, do you have 22 that person identified?

23 MR. MORRIS: No, we haven't talked about that. I'm 24 sure we can get that resolved as we're discussing the form of 25 order.

1 THE COURT: Okay, very good.

2 All right, well, if there's nothing further, again,
3 let's roll to Acis.

4 And I guess actually -- maybe we should briefly talk 5 about mediation, where things stand, in case there are people 6 on the call who don't want to stick around for the Acis 7 discussion. I don't know, maybe everyone wants to hear the 8 whole hearing today.

9 So let me just tell you where things stand: We have 10 -- my courtroom deputy reached out to you all late last week, 11 and let you all know that both Sylvia Mayer from Houston, as 12 well as retired Bankruptcy Judge Allan Gropper, are interested 13 in being co-mediators on this, and that was subject to doing 14 their conflicts review.

15 And then the next thing after that, they were going 16 to reach out to the lawyer contacts, and give their, quote, 17 "initial disclosures."

18 I emailed about 9:30 last night with Sylvia Mayer, 19 and she was making sure she had all the right contact people.
20 I gave her lawyers for the debtor, for the Committee, for Acis, 21 for UBS, for Dondero, and the Redeemer Committee -- Crusader
22 Redeemer Committee.

23 Right now, it's my view that that is the universe of 24 parties to participate, although I can see the co-mediators 25 rolling in more people. Like someone suggested Mark Okada, and 1 -- I think probably it would be premature in the beginning, but 2 maybe he'll be rolled in. You know, if the UBS proof of claim 3 is resolved in mediation, and the Acis -- and/or the Acis proof

4 of claim are resolved in mediation, and then -- you know, I 5 think those are kind of the highest priorities here of the 6 mediation, then certainly he might be brought in, but right 7 now, I'm not going to order that.

8 So about 9:30 last night, I sent Sylvia Mayer the 9 lawyer people to email, the co-mediators' disclosures. And she 10 was going to be in a mediation all day today, but I would 11 suspect probably tonight, if y'all haven't gotten anything yet 12 -- I haven't looked at my email during this hearing, but I 13 would suspect maybe tonight or tomorrow you're probably going 14 to get that communication from Sylvia Mayer with whatever their 15 disclosures are for the parties to consider. And, you know, 16 assuming everyone gets comfortable with that, then the 17 administrative people at the triple A, the American Arbitration 18 Association, we're going to get going with, you know, the 19 administrative side of this, and you all would talk about 20 scheduling.

21 So all this to say I hope here in the next few days 22 there is an active effort to get things scheduled and get the 23 dialogue going with those co-mediators.

24 The only other thing I would add is I don't 25 necessarily anticipate that Sylvia Mayer would mediate the,

1 say, Acis proof of claim, and Judge Gropper would mediate, say,
2 the UBS proof of claim. I think -- I don't think it 3 necessarily breaks down that way. I think you would probably 4 just have co-mediators doing the whole ball of wax here 5 because, among other things, the plan treatment discussion is 6 probably going to roll into proof of claim allowance
7 discussions.

8 So that is, I think, what this would shape up to be.
9 That you would have co-mediators working on all of this.

10 So any questions at this point?

11 (No audible response heard)

12 THE COURT: Again, I know -- if you haven't gotten an 13 email by the end of today, it's surely going to be in the next 14 day or two that you'll get their email reaching out about their 15 disclosures. Okay?

16 UNIDENTIFIED ATTORNEY: Yes, Your Honor.

17 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor --

18 MS. MASCHERIN: Your Honor, this is Terri Mascherin
19 on behalf of the Redeemer Committee.

20 Just a quick question: Did I hear correctly that you 21 have given the mediators our contact information? Because we 22 have not been copied on the email -- the emails that have gone 23 around.

24 In fact, we haven't been copied on any of the emails 25 that have gone around about the mediation.

1 THE COURT: Okay; thank you, Ms. Mascherin.

2 Let me make sure you're completely in the loop. So I
3 did have my courtroom deputy reach out to debtor, Committee, 4 Dondero, UBS, and Acis last week, their counsel, regarding the 5 interest of both Sylvia Mayer and former Judge Gropper.

6 And at the time she did that, I was thinking since 7 the Redeemer Committee had an agreement with the debtor, you 8 all have announced at the last hearing or two you had an 9 agreement that perhaps you all would not be participating.

10 And I actually did have some lawyers respond to my 11 courtroom deputy that, no, we think they very much need to be 12 involved.

13 So that was just a missed step, I would say, on my 14 part, not having that email go out to you originally. So I 15 will make sure when we get out of this hearing that my 16 courtroom deputy forwards to you the little bit of email 17 traffic there was. There were not a lot of emails, but maybe 18 her email and three or four responses of other lawyers.

19 So the co-mediators have been given your name. If 20 others, besides you, want to be on her contact list, you know, 21 certainly Mr. Hankin or Mr. Platt, you can let her know when 22 you get the initial -- her, Sylvia Mayer, know when you get the 23 initial email from her. But you're on the list now, and I -- 24 again, it was just a mistaken belief on my part that maybe you 25 wouldn't be part of the mediation since your claim had been

1 agreed to with the debtor, so --

2 MS. MASCHERIN: Okay. I appreciate it, and thank you
3 for clarifying, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: Okay; thank you.

5 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor --

6 THE COURT: All right --

7 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, this is -- Your Honor, may I 8 speak briefly?

9 THE COURT: Certainly.

10 MR. CLUBOK: Thank you, Your Honor. This is Andrew 11 Clubok on behalf of UBS.

12 And I apologize if you did not see the email that we 13 sent to Ms. Ellison this morning. But we -- our position is we 14 very much are fine with Crusader, or frankly any other major 15 creditor, involving the overall mediation.

16 But the issue of reaching an overall plan, the so 17 call grand bargain that Mr. (indiscernible) talked about. What 18 we don't -- and we just want to be sure that no one takes it 19 that you're ordering this or thinks it's appropriate, because 20 in the first instance to have a productive discussion on our 21 specific claim with the debtor, it's not going to be helpful 22 and productive -- in fact, it would be counterproductive -- to 23 have other creditors in our class sitting in listening to that, 24 weighing in. You know, obviously their position will all be 25 make it as low as possible. It's not helpful to have a whole

1 nother set of lawyers doing that, and I just want to make sure
2 people don't come away thinking that you've ordered -- I hope 3 you have not ordered that, and if you have, I would like to 4 speak to that.

5 But just like we wouldn't be sitting in -- we were 6 not permitted to sit in when the debtor spoke with Crusader 7 about setting their claim, we're not -- we have not been part 8 of the discussion with Acis and if the debtors have discussions 9 -- with Acis. The other parties, we were actually told before 10 they would not be involved in (indiscernible) first instance.

11 There is a time -- an appropriate time for a creditor 12 to object, but we don't even know what the settlement is with 13 Redeemer. Once we hear it, we may have an objection; hopefully 14 not. Hopefully it will be perfectly fine.

15 And we understand that once we reach an agreement 16 with the debtor, that's subject to an objection process, and 17 everyone is going to have a chance to weigh in. It's just not, 18 we think, going to be effective, and I set this out in an email 19 that I sent earlier but -- just today. And so I just want to 20 make sure that, you know, people aren't taking from what you 21 said that Crusader is just going to be able to sit in our 22 (indiscernible), Acis does or does not (indiscernible) 23 specifically their claim, etc.

24 THE COURT: All right. Well, let me tell you how I 25 usually do this, and how I expect to do it here.

1 Once everything is nailed down with the mediators, 2 and I say that because they're going to send you their 3 disclosures, and hopefully everybody's going to be fine with 4 everything. When I get the green light that, yes, we're going 5 to go forward, I have a standard form of mediation order. And 6 it pretty much gives discretion to the mediators to run this 7 the way they want to. And, for example, if they want 8 participants to submit a white paper, you know, no more than 25 9 pages in length, or whatever, you know, the mediators can 10 instruct that.

11 And it has all of the usual bells and whistles about 12 confidentiality that nobody can subpoena the mediators, or 13 compel them to testify. And I'm not going to talk to them 14 about the substance.

15 I just want a report, either things settled or not.
16 People negotiated in good faith or not.

17 And so I don't think there will be any ambiguity
18 about the rules of the road, it's just what I think is a fairly 19 normal mediation order.

20 And, therefore, you know, I think the confidentiality 21 that you're concerned about will be built into that order, and 22 will be kind of the usual -- what I think is the usual 23 protocol. That if you want the mediator to keep something 24 confidential, and not share it with another party, then it's -- 25 that's the way it's going to be.

1 MR. CLUBOK: Okay. I believe -- we certainly agree 2 the mediators will different roles. We just -- I just -- and 3 the mediator may have different sessions, different breakout 4 sessions. But we just believe that if our claim, or any 5 creditor's claim, with the debtor in the first instance, to 6 have a productive mediation, settlement should be done the way 7 the (indiscernible) claim is (indiscernible), which is directly 8 with the debtor. And that we'd have a chance to see if that -- 9 if that gets somewhere and results in something. We're -- 10 we're -- that's our input about about meeting our specific 11 claim to maximize the chance of avoiding litigation and 12 resolving it.

13 THE COURT: Well, again, I fully suspect they're 14 going to reach out to all of you all and get all of your ideas 15 about the sequence of the mediation, you know, whether it's all 16 together with people in separate rooms on day one, or hey, 17 let's start with UBS, let's start with Acis. I mean it would 18 be expected that the co-mediators will reach out to you all 19 from day one with everybody's ideas about what would be the 20 most productive format. So I hope that answers your question.

21 You know, to a large extent, this is to be 22 determined. But, you know, the ground rules I'm giving them is 23 let's try to get this UBS proof of claim resolved. Let's try 24 to get the Acis proof of claim resolved. Let's try to get to a 25 grand bargain on what a plan looks like, and the treatment of 1 all the unsecured creditors.

2 So I think these are extremely experienced people who 3 will be pretty skilled at how to proceed.

4 MR. CLUBOK: That does answer our question; thank 5 you, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. CLUBOK: That's all I wanted to clarify. That 8 you weren't directing them to do anything in terms of how they 9 proceed, and we'll pick it up with them.

10 THE COURT: Okay; very good.

11 MR. CLUBOK: Thank you.

12 THE COURT: Anyone else want to say anything about 13 this?

14 (No audible response heard)

15 THE COURT: All right. Well, let's turn then to the 16 status conference that both the debtor and Acis wanted to have 17 today. Back on the 14th, I guess it was, Mr. Pomerantz, I 18 think, raised the issue that the Acis proof of claim, which at 19 that point the debtor had objected to, and now Mr. Dondero has 20 objected to, was set for hearing, I think, August 6th. But 21 there had been a discussion about continuing that hearing to 22 September 10th to hopefully focus primarily on mediation.

23 But then we wanted to have a status conference today 24 to kind of talk about what the September 10th hearing would 25 look like. We don't want it to just be a status conference.

1 And, Mr. Pomerantz, I don't know if you're on the 2 line, but you said there were legal issues as well as factual 3 issues. And so my brain was kind of going down the trail of 4 are you suggesting motions for summary judgment might be a 5 first step on September 10th? I have no idea what you had in 6 mind.

7 So who -- is it going to be Mr. Morris taking the 8 lead on this --

9 MR. KHARASCH: Your Honor --

10 THE COURT: -- or Mr. Pomerantz?

11 MR. KHARASCH: Your Honor, it's Mr. Kharasch.

12 THE COURT: Oh.

13 MR. KHARASCH: It's Ira Kharasch.

14 THE COURT: Oh, Mr. Kharasch.

15 MR. KHARASCH: Yeah.

16 THE COURT: Okay, there you are.

17 MR. KHARASCH: I --

18 THE COURT: You appeared earlier.

19 MR. KHARASCH: I did. I did. So two things, Your 20 Honor:

21 First, Mr. Pomerantz wanted me to express to Your 22 Honor that he would have loved to have been here today, as he's 23 been here in the past, however, he is in the hospital with a 24 medical condition, we think things will work out just fine, 25 but --

1 THE COURT: I'm sorry to hear that.

2 MR. KHARASCH: Thank you, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: Please express my best wishes.

4 MR. KHARASCH: Absolutely. But he just wanted to let 5 you know why he's not here.

6 So, number two, I think, Your Honor, at the last 7 week, I think we mentioned that the continued hearing on the 8 claim objection would be September 17. There's a little 9 confusion about that versus September 10. I don't know if Ms.
10 Patel is in agreement about that. I think we're both in 11 agreement that it was September 17th, but I'm not completely 12 sure of the different dates.

13 THE COURT: Okay. I did not run that date by my 14 courtroom deputy. I just -- I looked at the transcript from 15 the hearing. Y'all said September 10th, but maybe someone 16 misspoke.

17 What do you think, Ms. Patel?

18 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, I think the confusion might 19 be -- I believe the original hearing was August the 10th, and 20 that's what's getting moved off. And so September 17th is -- 21 I've seen a September 19th date, as well, but I think that's a 22 Sunday or --

23 MR. KHARASCH: It's a Saturday. I think it's a 24 Saturday.

25 MS. PATEL: Saturday. So I think September 17th is

1 the day that Acis is amenable to -- to -- the process we're 2 about to discuss with the date being the 17th of September.

3 THE COURT: Okay; very good.

4 MR. KHARASCH: Thank you, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MR. KHARASCH: And --

7 THE COURT: So 17th, okay.

8 MR. KHARASCH: Yeah. And, Your Honor, I think the 9 good news here is the debtor and Acis's counsels are in 10 agreement subject to your blessing of that agreement as to how 11 we want to approach things.

12 Again, we did continue the hearing to today and the 13 purpose, Your Honor, is to give us a chance to discuss with the 14 Acis team how we both thought -- how to proceed in a manageable
15 way to make this September 17th hearing date a productive 16 hearing, and manageable, and easily understandable, and easy 17 for the Court to deal with, because we're dealing with a 18 massive claim, and a very big claim objection.

19 So what we come up with is the following way that we 20 think should be a productive way to handle it. We would like 21 to have another status conference on or about August 14, which 22 is, I think, just after Ms. Patel's vacation. If it has to be 23 a few days later, that's fine.

24 And during that time, we'll also be seeing a draft 25 response to our claim objection. But the purpose is before

1 that status conference on the 14th, Your Honor, we would 2 propose the following:

3 That a few days before, we file a joint statement
4 that would propose the following to the Court: We would come 5 up come up with respect to the September 17 hearing date, that 6 we would come up with a list of issues for summary adjudication 7 that both parties would like to deal with by summary
8 adjudication on the September 17 hearing date. We would set 9 those forth in the joint statement for the Court to review.

10 We'd also set out a list of issues that are not 11 subject -- we don't believe are not subject to summary
12 adjudication. That would be dealt with later, if not through a 13 trial or otherwise, if not dealt with by the summary 14 adjudication proceeding, depending on how that goes.

15 We would also propose for that status conference, 16 that joint statement, Your Honor, a proposed discovery and 17 pretrial schedule that would occur after the September 17 18 summary adjudication, and a proposed trial date.

19 Just for the record, both parties do want to move as 20 quickly as possible after the September 17th hearing date in 21 terms of discovery, and get to a trial as quickly as possible, 22 maybe even before plan confirmation. But this would be part of 23 the greater discussion, then we'd starting pinning down 24 proposed dates for Your Honor to talk about at the next status 25 conference here, Your Honor, on or about August 14th.

1 We'd also address the Acis request that the debtor
2 file an answer to the Acis second amended complaint in the Acis 3 case. We had talked about that, that was a new topic of 4 discussion.

5 And that's really the -- that's what we would propose 6 to get before the Court. We'd file it -- it's August 14, we'd 7 file it two days before the hearing because that's soon after 8 Ms. Patel's vacation. If it's a few days later, we'd give the 9 Court -- we would file it a few days earlier to give the Court 10 more time to look at the joint statement.

11 To the extent we can't agree on all of these issues 12 that I just enumerated in the joint statement, the joint 13 statement would address those issues that we haven't agreed on, 14 and the unilateral position of the parties to be discussed
15 before the Court at the continued status conference.

16 So we think in that way, Your Honor, we can make 17 everyone's life easier to go forward and get something done at 18 the September 17 claim objection date.

19 THE COURT: All right. Well, Ms. Patel, do you agree 20 with everything you just heard?

21 MS. PATEL: Yes, generally speaking, Your Honor.
22 Just a couple of things.

23 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Bonds, I'm going to ask 24 you to put your phone on mute. I think we're getting some 25 disruption from your end.

1 MR. BONDS: It is on mute; I'm sorry.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Well, Mike, I don't know where 3 that's coming from.

4 ECRO: I think it's Mr. Ira's phone. He's on mute
5 now.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 ECRO: That's where it's coming from.

8 THE COURT: Ms. Patel, go ahead.

9 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor.

10 Just a couple of things, again, so the Court -- just 11 so I can set the Court's expectations a little bit on where 12 we're going to head, and these were discussions we had with Mr.
13 Kharasch over the (indiscernible) yesterday. But I wanted to, 14 again, reiterate the parties' expectation is that if we're 15 going to go down this path -- a double (indiscernible) path 16 while we're doing things by summary adjudication at the 17 September 17th hearing which issues -- you know, we'll decide 18 which buckets of issues are appropriate for September 17th, 19 that nevertheless, that there would be an expeditious trial 20 setting, and that's what I think the parties are anticipating 21 coming back to the Court and asking for in August.

22 And that that trial setting would be at some 23 juncture, preferably before plan confirmation. But if it has 24 to go to trial, that's certainly no (inaudible), so make that 25 simultaneous with the plan confirmation.

1 But just -- that's just a little bit of 2 foreshadowing, I suppose, Your Honor, more than anything else.

3 We also requested that basically we would just go 4 through one -- what we'll call summary adjudication process.
5 And Your Honor hit on a great question of is this a motion for 6 summary judgment? I'm not sure that we really necessarily 7 defined it as a motion for summary judgment, as much as this is 8 intended to be a "there's not going to be anymore motions to 9 dismiss or motions for (indiscernible) pleading, etc." The 10 September 17th hearing is intended to be the full shot of 11 "let's go through all the issues that can be determined on 12 September 17th by agreement, and then that's it, other than 13 that, we're going to be talking about trial."

14 The other point that I would just raise again just to 15 enlighten the Court, this isn't -- the summary adjudication 16 would not just be issues that Highland has raised in its 17 objection to Acis's claim, but it could also be summary 18 adjudication with respect to Acis's affirmative claims as 19 against the estate. So it's a two-way street with respect to 20 that.

21 And then finally, Your Honor, Acis just requested 22 that we at least have a discussion with respect to the Highland 23 Capital Management filing an answer with respect to Acis's 24 complaint. And as Your Honor recalls, the proof of claim that 25 Acis filed is -- attaches the second amended complaint that's

1 pending in the adversary. That complaint has never had an 2 answer filed with respect to it, so we need an answer really as 3 kind of a responsive pleading. And the hope was that that 4 would help streamline the issues so -- and, frankly, I think it 5 would be helpful from my perspective to decide what are the 6 appropriate issues for the summary adjudication basket to be 7 heard on September 17th, and what are the appropriate -- what's 8 the appropriate basket that is going to have to go trial.

9 And that was -- that was my thinking with respect to 10 that. But we'll continue to have those discussions, and foster 11 that.

12 But beyond that, that's just some things that I 13 wanted to sort of foreshadow, I guess, for the Court, just to 14 (indiscernible) the Court's expectations as to what's going to 15 happen at the August hearing, and where things are headed.

16 THE COURT: All right. Well, just a couple of things 17 I'll throw in.

18 Before we get off, I'll make sure September 17th is 19 available.

20 (The Court engaged in off-the-record colloquy)

21 THE COURT: So we'll circle back and make sure that's 22 good.

23 As far as this process, I like everything I heard.

24 As far as getting the summary adjudication on certain 25 issues, I kind of like the idea of not cross-motions for

1 summary judgment, no, please. Maybe instead, you just come up 2 with a set of stipulated facts, and then based on these 3 stipulated facts, we think you can rule as a matter of law on 4 A, B, and C, and then the other side disagrees that you can 5 based on A, B, and C.

6 But on the other hand, you think we can -- you can 7 rule in front of us because of D, E, F. And then the other 8 side -- so I guess what I'm saying is -- hmmm, I'm trying to 9 avoid the whole cumbersome summary judgment process, but -- can 10 we --

11 MR. KHARASCH: Your Honor, can --

12 THE COURT: Mr. Kharasch, do you have an idea?

13 MR. KHARASCH: Yes. We've been thinking about that 14 very point, Your Honor, and that's something I'm going to talk 15 to Ms. Patel about, you know, prior to that status conference 16 hearing.

17 We agree with you, we don't want to recreate the 18 wheel on a bunch of paper that's already before the Court. We 19 might come up with a proposal, Your Honor, where we just submit 20 a short statement of why we think -- you know, before the 21 September hearing date, here's what's going to be argued on 22 summary adjudication, we'll cross-reference what's already in 23 front of the Court in terms of our claim objection, point you 24 to different parts of it, rather than me filing things.
25 Hopefully stipulate to certain facts to make your life easier,

1 and to, you know, just make sure everything's easily directed.

2 But that's the kind of thing we'd like -- I think 3 we're going to be talking about to make things easier and more 4 streamlined.

5 THE COURT: Okay. Ms. Patel, you agree that's a goal
6 to shoot for? Rather than cross motions for summary judgment, 7 and responses, and replies, and giant appendixes, just have 8 something like a set of stipulated facts, and here are the 9 contested issues of law?

10 MS. PATEL: Yes, Your Honor. I think that would be 11 sort of the general goal.

12 THE COURT: Okay, all right. Well, that -- that 13 sounds like a good game plan.

14 So I like this overall idea, we'll kind of check in 15 on August 14th. A few days before that, you'll file the joint 16 statement of what you think the list of issues of law are that 17 would be argued on the 17th.

18 And then as far as the answer to the Acis adversary 19 proceeding, that adversary proceeding is technically subject to 20 the automatic stay, and there are other parties in the 21 litigation. So as I've mentioned before, we have drafted back 22 in chambers a giant report and recommendation on a motion to 23 withdraw the reference that was filed way long ago by -- I 24 think it was jointly by Highland and HCLOF. But I may be 25 wrong, it may have only been HCLOF, it's been so long since

1 I've looked at it.

2 But my point is it's stayed. So I mean as a
3 technical matter, if you want to agree that Highland will file
4 an answer, I mean I guess you'll have to do an agreed order 5 lifting the stay, maybe just for the limited purpose of 6 allowing Highland to do an answer with you all agreeing it's 7 not going to go any further than that at this juncture. Or -- 8 I mean I'm just asking, frankly, because we've got other 9 parties involved who want to know the answer to that question 10 maybe.

11 And then I've got a report and recommendation that 12 I've got to dust off, and finalize, and send in to the District 13 Court if we're lifting the stay for all purposes.

14 I assume you just want to do a limited lifting the 15 stay to let them file an answer, but everything else is still 16 on hold?

17 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, I think that would be the 18 general concept. And to be fair, it's a concept that I was, 19 you know, late in the day yesterday with Mr. Kharasch, and so 20 we haven't really quite formulated exactly how we Proceed 21 forward with it. So I don't -- I'm not trying to ambush him on 22 the issue.

23 But I think we can either craft something that to the 24 extent that it is an answer, a very traditional answer, you 25 know, concept in the adversary proceeding, then, yes, I agree

1 that I think it would be appropriate to do a very limited 2 agreed order lifting the stay for the limited purpose of filing 3 the answer, and that's it. Again, just so we have the 4 pleading.

5 Or if we -- that perhaps maybe Mr. Kharasch and I can 6 come and put our creative brains together and see if we can 7 come up with something that acts an awful lot like an answer, 8 but is here and filed in the Highland bankruptcy case that kind 9 of functions similarly.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. KHARASCH: Yeah, just to be clear, Your Honor, we 12 haven't agreed to anything; we heard about this concept 13 yesterday. I have not really had a chance to think it through.
14 I'm not -- I'm not saying absolutely no, we have to discuss it 15 with our client. (Indiscernible) but we have an open mind, and 16 will continue our discussions.

17 One thing, Your Honor, do we definitely have the 18 August 14 date as a status conference? And if so, at what 19 time?

20 THE COURT: It is available. Let's do it at 9:30, 21 and I'm not going to give you a ton of time that day because I 22 have a bear of a trial that next week that I'm going to need to 23 be in mostly hibernation preparing for. So let's say 9:30 on 24 Friday, August 14th.

25 MR. KHARASCH: That's fine, Your Honor; thank you

1 very much.

2 THE COURT: And then I -- on September 17th at 9:30, 3 I also have available.

4 MR. KHARASCH: That's great.

5 THE COURT: The morning only, I've got a full 6 afternoon.

7 All right, so I was going to ask you to do sort of 8 like a mini scheduling order, reflective of what we discussed 9 today. And it sounds like you'll have a few things to iron out 10 after we get off the phone, but I think we've got enough here 11 to kind of have a partial scheduling order, or something to 12 that effect, dealing with objections to Acis's proof of claim.

13 Mr. Bonds, you're on there, I see now, for Mr.
14 Dondero. I think you've joined in the -- I don't know if you 15 call it a joint, or you filed your separate objection to the 16 Acis proof of claim, correct?

17 MR. BONDS: (No verbal response).

18 THE COURT: Okay. You're on mute, if you could 19 unmute yourself.

20 MR. BONDS: Your Honor --

21 THE COURT: We're getting some echo, but is there 22 anything you want to add to this discussion?

23 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, there is. We believe that we 24 are entitled to participate in the Acis claim of because it's 25 so intertwined with the underlying lawsuit -- Your Honor, I'm 1 sorry.

2 THE COURT: All right. Well, I understand you filed
3 an objection. Is there any -- is there any -- well, is there 4 any objection to the Dondero -- I don't know if he's going to 5 say anything separate from the debtor, but Dondero being 6 involved as an objecting party.

7 MR. BONDS: (Indiscernible). I'm sorry.

8 THE COURT: Okay. We're having real terrible --
9 (The Court engaged in off-the-record colloquy)

10 THE COURT: Okay. We have two feeds that say D.
11 Michael Lynn, and that's causing a feedback loop, according to 12 the younger smarter people here behind me. Like maybe you have 13 a phone and a computer? All right, well, I've actually turned 14 to Mr. Kharasch and Ms. Patel, do you all have any problem with 15 Dondero kind of joining in, and -- I haven't reviewed his 16 objection to see how it differs from the debtor's.

17 MR. KHARASCH: Yeah, frankly, Your Honor -- Ira 18 Kharasch. We have not spent time reviewing that objection, as 19 well, so we haven't really thought about it.

20 I mean it's out there, I'm not sure I see the problem 21 with it. But we would like some time to see how -- what it 22 looks like, and how it plays into it. I'm not -- I'd be 23 surprised if -- well, I'm not even going to say anything as to 24 what's in it because I just haven't read it.

25 THE COURT: Okay, all right. Ms. Patel?

1 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, from Acis's perspective, 2 same. I, frankly, have not given it enough consideration. And 3 just out of the gate, I think one of the issues is going to be 4 Mr. Dondero's standing to kind of join in on the claim
5 objection, but it's something that, frankly, I just truly 6 haven't spent enough time thinking that issue through, or 7 whether there's going to be an issue. So I'm just not sure.

8 THE COURT: All right. Well, I'll try one more time.
9 Mr. Bonds, do you have a good connection now?

10 MR. BONDS: (No audible response heard).

11 THE COURT: All right. I'm just going to direct you 12 all to visit with Mr. Bonds or Mr. Lynn, and see if you can 13 come up with any agreements. And if you can't, then maybe Mr.
14 Dondero's counsel can request a status conference. I'm not 15 inclined to want to do another one before August 14, but maybe 16 we can just hear what they have to say on August 14th about the 17 process.

18 MR. KHARASCH: I think that makes sense, Your Honor.
19 And we'll -- and we'll talk to them.

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 MR. KHARASCH: We'll talk to them beforehand.

22 THE COURT: Okay, all right.

23 MS. PRESTON: Your Honor, may I briefly be heard?

24 THE COURT: Who is this?

25 MS. PRESTON: This is Katherine Preston from Winston

1 & Strawn, I represent Mr. Ellington, Mr. Leventon, and some of 2 the other Highland employees.

3 THE COURT: Okay.

4 MS. PRESTON: And I apologize, I tried to appear 5 earlier and had some technical difficulties.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MS. PRESTON: We just wanted to ask regarding 8 mediation. We've discussed with some of the parties to that 9 mediation dissipating, and so we just wanted to be included, as 10 well, in any of those discussions and communications.

11 THE COURT: All right. And I guess the party in 12 interest status would be that you've been sued by Acis, is 13 that -- is there any --

14 MS. PRESTON: That's correct.

15 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I think what I'm going to do 16 is think about that one a bit.

17 I almost put that one in the same category as Mark 18 Okada. I'm just trying to be as productive as possible in the 19 way this goes forward where the primary issues are the UBS 20 proof of claim and the Acis proof of claim. And granted, 21 there's a lot of satellite litigation out there, and -- and 22 that might be a factor as far as -- let me think about that 23 one, okay?

24 Your request is duly noted, and I'm going to think 25 about that, and I'll let you all know through my courtroom

1 deputy what I decide on that. But I'm leaning towards that 2 might be a second stage of mediation if we have wonderful 3 breakthroughs on the Acis and UBS proof of claim sides, so 4 that's my answer on that.

5 MS. PRESTON: Thank you.

6 THE COURT: Uh-huh. Anything else?

7 MS. PRESTON: Thank you, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: All right. Well, it's a little bit late, 9 it's 5:19 central time, and if there's nothing further, we're 10 adjourned, and we'll look for all the orders to be 11 electronically submitted.

12 Thank you.

13 MULTIPLE SPEAKERS: Thank you.

14 (Whereupon, at 5:20 p.m., the hearing was adjourned.)

Case No. 19-34054-sgj11

ORDER DIRECTING MEDIATION

The Court has determined that mediation would aid and assist in the resolution of numerous issues in the above-captioned case. Accordingly, pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 105 and this Court's inherent authority to regulate its docket, IS HEREBY ORDERED THAT:

¹ The Debtor's last four digits of its taxpayer identification number are (6725). The headquarters and service address for the above-captioned Debtor is 300 Crescent Court, Suite 700, Dallas, TX 75201.

1. The following parties are ordered to mediate as set forth below: (i) Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the “Debtor”); (ii) the official committee of unsecured creditors appointed in the Debtor’s bankruptcy case (the “Committee”); (iii) Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management GP, LLC; (iv) UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG, London Branch; (v) the Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund; and (vi) James Dondero. The foregoing are collectively referred to herein as the “Parties” and individually as a “Party.”

2. One or more mediation sessions may be scheduled. Such sessions are referred to herein collectively as the “Mediation” regardless of the number of days. While exact date(s) have not yet been determined, it is currently anticipated that the Mediation will be held between August 21, 2020 and September 2, 2020. The Mediation will be conducted via video conference.

3. The Mediation will be administered by the American Arbitration Association (“AAA”). Retired Judge Allan Gropper and Sylvia Mayer are appointed to serve as co-mediators (the “Mediators”). The Mediators will confer and determine, in their discretion, whether one or both Mediators will participate in all or part of each mediation session. The Mediators’ fee will be $5,000 per Mediator per mediation session. (For the avoidance of doubt, to the extent a Mediator does not participate in a particular mediation session, that Mediator will not bill for that session.) A mediation session is one day of mediation. There will not be an overtime charge if any of the mediation sessions go into the evening. In addition to the daily fee per mediation session, Judge Gropper bills at an hourly rate of $600 and Ms. Mayer bills at an hourly rate of $425 for time spent preparing for mediation sessions, including study time and communications with the Parties and/or between the Mediators. The Mediators will each maintain time records provided that they may redact or exclude any confidential information. In addition, the Mediators will submit invoices to AAA for their hourly fees for preparation and daily fees for mediation sessions. At a minimum, the Mediators will respectively submit to AAA their first invoice prior to the start of the first mediation session and their final invoice within five (5) business days following conclusion of the last mediation session. In their discretion, the Mediators may submit additional invoices. The Mediators will provide the Parties with a copy of any invoices submitted to AAA.

4. On or as soon as reasonably practicable following the date of this Order, the Debtor will deposit with AAA the sum of $90,000 (the “Deposit”). To the extent requested by AAA, the Debtor will supplement the Deposit as needed. The Deposit will be credited against any fees or expenses incurred by AAA or invoiced by the Mediators. Following conclusion of the Mediation and payment of AAA’s fees and the Mediators’ respective fees, any remaining funds on deposit shall be refunded to the Debtors.

5. The Debtor will bear the costs of the Mediators’ and AAA’s fees and their reasonable and necessary expenses; provided, however, that, for the avoidance of doubt, with the exception of the Committee, each Party will bear its own legal and professional fees and expenses. Payment will be tendered to the Mediators and AAA on the day of the Mediation. Neither the Mediators nor AAA will be required to file a fee application or seek further approval from this Court for payment of the foregoing fees and expenses.

6. Each Party will attend the Mediation and must continue participating in the Mediation as requested by the Mediators. Each Party will designate a client representative with authority to settle on behalf of the respective Party any and all matters, subject to Bankruptcy Court approval in the case of any settlement(s) affecting the administration of the Debtor's bankruptcy estate; provided that, with respect to the Committee, the client representatives shall be the designated representatives of each of the members of the Committee, and the authority to settle on behalf of the Committee remains subject to the vote of such Committee member representatives in accordance with the Committee by-laws; and provided further that, it is understood that any final settlement, depending on its terms, magnitude and scope, may be subject to additional internal approvals such as Board approval. The client representative of each Party will personally attend the Mediation as requested by the Mediators.

7. The Mediators have the authority to require each Party and their client representatives and lawyers to attend additional days of Mediation, in their sole discretion, if the Mediators believe it may be fruitful.

8. Each Party shall submit a written mediation statement to the Mediators. Each Party may share some or all of their mediation statement with other parties. Any Party will, if requested to do so by the Mediators, provide written or oral proposals or counter-proposals, that can be circulated to a Party or the Parties pursuant to the Mediators' direction, during the course of Mediation.

9. The Parties acknowledge that the Mediators may have ex parte communications with one or more Parties prior to or during the course of the Mediation.

10. Each of the Parties and their client representatives will participate in the Mediation in good faith. The Mediators have the authority (but not the obligation) to report to this Court if they believe that any of the respective Parties is not participating in the Mediation in good faith. The Court may sanction any of the respective Parties for failure to participate in the Mediation in good faith.

11. Within five (5) business days after the conclusion of the Mediation, the Mediators will file a report with the Court stating only whether a settlement, in whole or in part, has been reached (the “Report”). Alternatively, in lieu of the Mediators filing the Report, the Mediators may provide the Parties with such a Report to be filed by the Debtors.

12. Regardless of the outcome of the Mediation, it is the order of this Court that the contents of the Mediation, including any statements or representations made by the Mediators, any Party, or any client representative (or attorney or agent of a client representative), agent, or attorney of a Party during the course of the Mediation, are confidential and privileged. None of the Parties, their client representatives (or attorney or agent of a client representative), agents, or attorneys, or the Mediators may reveal such information to any non-party or to the Court, including, without limitation, in any pleadings or submissions, and none may be examined in any judicial or administrative proceeding (or any discovery relating to such a proceeding) regarding anything they may have said, seen, or heard during the course of the Mediation. No term sheet or other document or draft thereof prepared in the course of the Mediation will ever be the subject of discovery nor will such documents ever be admissible at any trial. “In the course of the mediation” includes the Mediation sessions themselves, as well as materials submitted to the Mediators in advance of or during the Mediation, telephone conversations with one or both of the Mediators (or including the Mediators) before or after the Mediation sessions, and communications among the Parties specifically denominated as “in the course of mediation” and memorialized as such via electronic mail or otherwise among the Parties contemporaneously or in advance of that communication. Without limiting any provision of this Order, all communications occurring, and information exchanged, in the course of the Mediation will be entitled to all protections applicable under Federal Rule of Evidence 408, or any other protections afforded to settlement and compromise communications under other applicable law.

13. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein, it will be the responsibility of the Mediators to determine the structure of the Mediation and which Parties should be invited or required to participate in any particular Mediation session depending upon the content of such session.

1 DALLAS, TEXAS - AUGUST 19, 2020 - 9:36 A.M.

2 THE COURT: Status conference in the Highland case 3 regarding the Acis proof of claim objection. I know we have 4 lots of folks on the video or phone this morning. I'm sure 5 not all of them are planning to participate. So I'm going to 6 do a roll call of those I think will definitely participate, 7 and then we'll open it up for anyone else who might wish to 8 make an appearance.

9 Mr. Pomerantz, I see you back. You're appearing for 10 Highland this morning?

11 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes, I am back, Your Honor, along 12 with Ira Kharasch from Pachulski Stang on behalf of the 13 Debtors.

14 THE COURT: All right.

15 MR. KHARASCH: Good morning, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: Good morning. We're glad to see you. We 17 heard you were under the weather with something last time, so 18 we're glad that you look perfectly fine today.

19 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you very much, Your Honor.
20 Glad to be back.

21 THE COURT: All right. Now, I think I see Brian Shaw
22 there for Acis, correct? Mr. Shaw?

23 MR. SHAW: Yes. Yes, Your Honor. Brian Shaw on 24 behalf of Acis.

25 THE COURT: All right. I see Ms. Montgomery's name

1 up there for the Committee, correct?

2 MS. MONTGOMERY: (no audible response)

3 THE COURT: All right. I'm not hearing her. Let me
4 explain a couple things. I may have explained this in a 5 Highland matter before, or maybe not. With these video/audio 6 hearings, what we often do when we have dozens of people
7 participating is we here at the Court will mute everyone's 8 line when we're starting to hear distortion here or there.
9 And so you may not think you have muted yourself, and you'll 10 be correct; we have muted you. So if we can't hear you, we'll 11 need you to make sure you take yourself off mute.

12 And let me explain one more thing that I think people 13 might not be aware of. If you merely call in, okay, you don't 14 do WebEx where you can do video or audio, if you phone-call 15 in, to unmute yourself you need to press *6. Okay? So, we 16 have finally learned that people perhaps don't see that part 17 of the instructions or are not aware of that. So, to unmute 18 yourself if you are merely calling in, that's how you do it.

19 Okay. So, with that, I'll tell -- I'll say, Ms.
20 Montgomery, if you appeared, we did not hear you, so do you 21 want to try again?

22 MS. MONTGOMERY: I'm here, Your Honor, but I don't 23 intend to be participating actively. I think I'm mostly 24 listening today.

25 THE COURT: Okay. Very good. Thank you.

1 All right. I think I see Mr. Bonds there for Mr. Dondero.
2 Is that correct?

3 MR. BONDS: Yes, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Clubok, are you appearing 5 today for UBS?

6 MR. CLUBOK: Yes, Your Honor. Andrew Clubok.

7 THE COURT: Okay. Good morning. All right. Anyone 8 --

9 MR. ANNABLE: Good morning.

10 THE COURT: Anyone else who wishes to appear 11 regarding this matter today?

12 MS. PATEL: Good morning, Your Honor. Rakhee Patel
13 on behalf of Acis.

14 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Anyone else?

15 MR. ANNABLE: Good morning, Your Honor. Zachery
16 Annable of Melissa Hayward as local counsel to the Debtor.

17 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Anyone else?

18 MS. MASCHERIN: Good morning, Your Honor. Terri
19 Mascherin; Jenner & Block; on behalf of the Redeemer Committee 20 of the Highland Crusader Fund.

21 THE COURT: All right. Good morning, Ms. Mascherin.
22 Anyone else?

23 All right. Well, Mr. Pomerantz or Mr. Kharasch, do you 24 want to start us out this morning? We continued this hearing 25 once already. And I think we talked about getting some sort

1 of written stipulation hopefully on file prior to this status
2 conference. I haven't seen it. So tell me where things 3 stand.

4 MR. POMERANTZ: Sure, Your Honor. This is Jeff
5 Pomerantz.

6 Over the last couple of weeks, Mr. Kharasch and I have had 7 multiple calls with counsel for Acis, Mr. Shaw and Ms. Patel, 8 to try to arrive at what we thought was an appropriate way to 9 proceed with the claim objection.

10 If Your Honor has looked at our claim objection even 11 briefly, you know it's in excess of 60 pages, and the response 12 is 70 pages, and that follows on a complaint that Acis had 13 filed. So there are a lot of issues that are dealt with in 14 the objection and are dealt with in the reply, and the hope 15 was that we would come to an agreement, which I think we have, 16 on how we should proceed, subject to, obviously, Your Honor's 17 acceptance.

18 The next hearing on the Acis objection, the objection to 19 Acis' claim, is currently scheduled for September 17th. And 20 as Your Honor is aware, we have mediation dates set with Judge 21 Gropper and Ms. Mayer for August 27th to September 4th, in the 22 hope of resolving not only the Acis claim, the UBS claim, as 23 well as other matters in the case.

24 Given the mediation and given that the parties -- at least 25 Acis and the Debtor -- believe that the best way to proceed

1 and narrow the issues is by cross-motions for summary 2 judgment, we would propose the following: We propose that we 3 would have the September 7th -- 17th date merely as a status
4 conference. That by September 16th, both Acis and the Debtor
5 would file cross-motions for summary judgment on the issues 6 that each of them believe are ripe for adjudication as a 7 matter of law by Your Honor and are not subject to disputed 8 facts.

9 Those motions would be filed according to the Local Rules
10 and the Bankruptcy Rules, and we would seek a hearing before 11 Your Honor on the summary judgment motions during the week of 12 October 19th.

13 During the interim, after the motions are filed, and even 14 before, we are going to work with Acis' counsel to see if we 15 can agree on a set of stipulated facts that would be used for 16 both the Debtor's summary judgment motion and Acis' summary 17 judgment motion.

18 And then, after the Court rules on the summary judgment 19 motions, whether that's at the hearing during the week of the 20 19th or thereafter, I think it's the Debtor and Acis' desire 21 to move expeditiously to a trial on the remaining issues. And 22 at least from the Debtor's perspective at that point, based 23 upon whatever Your Honor's rulings are or whatever is 24 remaining, we would be in a better position to assess what 25 type of discovery or what type of timing.

1 But rest assured, I think one thing that Acis and the 2 company and the Debtor agree on is we would like to, if we 3 can't resolve the matter by mediation, if Your Honor's rulings 4 on summary judgment don't facilitate resolution of the matter,
5 I think both sides would want to move expeditiously towards a 6 resolution through trial of any remaining factual issues.

7 So, essentially, we're asking for the 17th to be a status
8 conference and letting Your Honor know that we would both 9 intend to file cross-summary judgment motions by the 16th and 10 seek a hearing before Your Honor the week of the 19th of 11 October.

12 THE COURT: All right. Well, that sounds like a good 13 game plan to me, assuming this does not get worked out in 14 mediation.

15 I'll start by asking Ms. Patel or Mr. Shaw, will you weigh 16 in and confirm that that is how you all would like to proceed 17 as well?

18 MS. PATEL: Yes. Rakhee Patel for the record, Your 19 Honor, on behalf of Acis.

20 Yes, that's -- we are generally amenable to that -- to the 21 proposal as Mr. Pomerantz set forth. Obviously, any summary 22 judgment motion would need to be in compliance and the process 23 needs to be in compliance with 9014 and Rule 7056, and I think 24 that's the general basis of the agreement.

25 One thing that I would highlight, Your Honor, and I think

1 the parties have been consistent about this since the July 2 21st hearing, is that -- is, as Mr. Pomerantz identified, that 3 we would like to move this expeditiously to trial.

4 It is Acis' desire and our -- it was our expectation, 5 certainly, going into discussions on the process with Highland 6 and its counsel that hopefully the claim would be heard either 7 prior to or simultaneous with confirmation. So, and I know 8 that that brings in sort of a different issue, given the 9 posture of where we are right now with it being a claim 10 objection rather than an adversary proceeding. That is -- I 11 would like to reiterate sort of Acis' hope that this can all 12 be -- if it can't be resolved by agreement, that it would be 13 resolved before or simultaneous with confirmation of the plan, 14 any plan, in Highland's bankruptcy case.

15 One additional note just with respect to the discovery 16 point. Again, Acis is amenable to the summary judgment 17 process, but I think once mediation concludes -- and, again, 18 assuming mediation is not successful and that we are going to 19 nevertheless need to move forward with either a summary 20 judgment process or, frankly, preparations for trial -- in 21 order to keep with that timeline, I do think discovery is 22 going to need to commence shortly after mediation. And we can 23 talk and I'm always amenable and happy to talk with counsel 24 for Highland with respect to some reasonable discovery 25 limitations.

1 You know, we're not looking to -- we're not looking to 2 pile on with respect to discovery, Your Honor, but we are in a 3 situation where, at least vis-à-vis the claims as set forth in 4 the complaint, there has -- there was potential discovery that 5 was conducted during the course of Acis' bankruptcy case, but 6 there is still a significant amount of discovery that needs to 7 be done. It is not -- it is not a mountain of discovery, but 8 there is enough discovery I think that needs to be done that 9 it should commence in September, again, assuming that 10 mediation is unsuccessful.

11 THE COURT: All right.

12 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, this is Jeff Pomerantz.
13 Just a couple of points in response to Ms. Patel.

14 As I indicated, the Debtor desires to move this forward as 15 quickly as possible. We do have a hearing on the Debtor's 16 disclosure statement scheduled for September 29th. This 17 summary judgment motion would be set, if it's consistent with 18 your Court's calendar, the week of October 19th.

19 I'm not sure whether it's going to be feasibly possible, 20 if we stay on our current timeline for plan confirmation, to 21 have a trial in advance. But, again, as I've indicated 22 before, after Your Honor rules on the summary judgment motions 23 we will get together, figure out what remains to be litigated, 24 and we will try to litigate it as expeditiously as possible.
25 We just can't commit that, given the uncertainty on how the 1 summary judgment motion is going to go and given the current 2 plan timeline, to say that it'll be -- that we'll be in a 3 position to actually have a trial before confirmation.

4 With respect to discovery, there's nothing, obviously,
5 before Your Honor, but I would submit, Your Honor, that, given 6 that there's going to be pending cross-motions for summary 7 judgment that may or may not be opposed on the basis of the 8 existence of material issues of fact, that it would seem to us 9 to be a little premature to start discovery because I don't 10 think the parties will really know the extent to which 11 discovery will be necessary until after Your Honor rules on 12 the summary judgment motions.

13 So, obviously, there's nothing before Your Honor now. To 14 the extent there is discovery served and to the extent we 15 believe it's appropriate, that that be deferred until after 16 the hearings on summary judgment. We could come back to Your 17 Honor. To the extent it's something that we could work with 18 counsel and provide some discovery and not have it be 19 burdensome and be the cart before the horse, in our view, we 20 will do so. But just wanted to let Your Honor know we are not 21 necessarily agreeable that we should start discovery back and 22 forth, assuming mediation is not successful. But, again, we 23 can cross that bridge when we come to it.

24 THE COURT: All right.

25 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, if I may, briefly.

1 I hear Mr. Pomerantz on his point with respect to the 2 disclosure statement. I would note, however, that, as it 3 stands right now, Acis has an objected-to claim, so for 4 purposes of plan voting, we're, at a minimum, if we can't have 5 the claim objection heard prior to confirmation, we're at 6 least going to have a claim estimation hearing. So, and which 7 I would anticipate that, again, we would still need some 8 amount of discovery.

9 I think -- I always want to make sure that I'm 10 foreshadowing at least issues with respect to my presentation 11 to the Court, so I do just want to put this on the Court's 12 radar. I'm not sure that it's necessarily an issue that needs 13 to be decided necessarily today, but these are the issues that 14 we certainly have coming down the pike.

15 THE COURT: All right. Before I comment on these 16 issues, is there anyone else who wishes to be heard? For 17 example, Mr. Bonds, I cannot remember now off the top of my 18 head, was it a joinder in the Debtor's objection or did you 19 have separate arguments with regard to objecting to Acis' 20 proof of claim?

21 MR. BONDS: We had an objection as well, Your Honor.
22 And we perceive that we will be trying to mediate with the 23 Debtor and with Ms. Patel. And if we're unsuccessful, we'll 24 have to approach the Court for guidance.

25 THE COURT: All right. So, for now, you're content

1 to be sort of left out of this mini-scheduling order and you 2 don't anticipate the summary judgment process applying to you?

3 MR. BONDS: No, Your Honor, we do not.

4 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Have I covered 5 everyone who has an interest in this? Ms. Mascherin, Mr.
6 Clubok, you know, you're just observing? You care very much 7 how this issue turns out as far as the size of Acis' proof of 8 claim, but you all have not filed an objection on behalf of 9 your clients, correct?

10 MS. MASCHERIN: That's correct, Your Honor.

11 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, Andrew Clubok. We -- UBS 12 has filed an objection. And we -- we've preserved that. We 13 have no problem with the schedule that was outlined in terms 14 of their cross-motions for summary judgment. But we, 15 depending on, I suppose, whether our points are covered in 16 those motions, we would, you know, reserve the right to be 17 heard. I do expect -- I would assume those points will be 18 covered in the cross-motions for summary judgment.

19 THE COURT: All right. So, do you want to be 20 included in this sort of mini-scheduling order at this 21 juncture? Do you anticipate filing your own motion for 22 summary judgment?

23 MR. CLUBOK: We don't anticipate filing a motion for 24 summary judgment.

25 THE COURT: Okay.

1 MR. CLUBOK: I suppose, if there's -- it sounds like 2 the parties -- we had not heard about this proposal until just 3 now, so it sounds like the parties are going to bring cross-4 motions for summary judgment and no responses. I suppose, if 5 that's the process, we're fine not adding additional paper.
6 We would reserve the right, if possible, to be heard at a 7 hearing if our objections are not dealt with in those cross-8 motions. I suppose that's a way to deal with it.

9 Also, in the course of the mediation, I assume we'll find 10 out more, and possibly, if it becomes clearer that there is a 11 clean issue that's not being addressed for some reason by the 12 parties that we feel a need to address, we could file our own 13 cross-brief.

14 I'm trying to think through, you know, on the fly here 15 about how to just preserve the right to say something, 16 although I think it's unlikely we will need to in that 17 process.

18 THE COURT: All right. Well, let me back up and 19 clarify my understanding. I thought that I heard one of you 20 say -- Mr. Pomerantz, I think -- that the Local Rules would 21 apply to the motions for summary judgment. And what I was 22 interpreting that to mean is responses could be filed to 23 motions for summary judgment in, you know, in a 21-day time 24 frame, and then maybe replies thereafter on a 10-day time 25 frame.

1 But am I creating more work here than you anticipated on
2 that?

3 MR. POMERANTZ: No, you are correct, Your Honor. We 4 would follow the Local Rules and be able to respond as 5 provided in the Local Rules.

6 THE COURT: All right. So, --

7 MS. PATEL: And that's Acis' understanding as well, 8 Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: Okay. So, --

10 MR. CLUBOK: Okay. Well, then, if --

11 THE COURT: Go ahead. Mr. Clubok?

12 MR. CLUBOK: Well, I was going to say, if that's the 13 case, perhaps the parties would just agree that we will not 14 file anything. If we feel like there's a need to address our 15 objection after seeing the two cross-motions, we'll file it on 16 the deadline for the response, and that way either side could 17 reply. I doubt that will happen, but in case we have a need 18 for it, we'll preserve that opportunity, if that's acceptable 19 to everybody.

20 THE COURT: All right. That --

21 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, we would --

22 THE COURT: That sounds fair to me. Anyone want to 23 argue differently?

24 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, I'm not arguing differently, 25 but I would like the same opportunity for Mr. Dondero.

1 THE COURT: All right. Well, you know. Pomerantz,
2 Patel, either of you have any opposition to that? It sounds 3 fair to me, since they have filed their own objections.

4 MR. POMERANTZ: No opposition from the Debtor, Your 5 Honor.

6 MS. PATEL: No opposition from Acis, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: All right. Well, let me first see what 8 we can give you the 19th. I think you've picked a good week, 9 because that's normally our trial week, and we would not have 10 set a trial yet since we haven't had the trial docket call for 11 that week.

12 (Pause.)

13 THE COURT: All right. We can give you October 20th, 14 9:30.

15 MR. POMERANTZ: Did you say 9:30, Your Honor?

16 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: October 20th at 9:30.

18 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes. That would be fine, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: Ms. Patel?

20 MS. PATEL: Yes. Thank you, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: Okay. So that's a Tuesday. Tuesday, 22 October 20th, at 9:30.

23 All right. Well, I don't want to address discovery at 24 this juncture, and I don't want to address the ultimate trial 25 setting.

1 I think, you know, Ms. Patel, you've already announced 2 that there has been a lot of discovery and you don't think you
3 would need a "mountain of discovery." So I think what we'll 4 do, if you tell me on October 20th -- which, fingers crossed, 5 I hope I can rule promptly. As you know, I have a lot of 6 familiarity with the original complaint, the adversary filed 7 by Acis. I'm not, you know, well-schooled yet in all of the 8 objections that have been filed yet. But if I can -- what we 9 will do, I will either rule on the 20th orally from the bench, 10 with a written ruling to come, or I'll tell you I need, you 11 know, some time. But we will address on the 20th discovery 12 needs, and I will anticipate allowing expedited discovery at 13 that point, if we have discovery needs, okay, so that we could 14 have a trial setting as soon as possible.

15 I don't know yet how that would coincide with 16 confirmation.

17 Ms. Patel, you're absolutely right that, at a minimum, 18 we'd need an estimation hearing before ballots and whatnot 19 could be counted. And so at this juncture I'd be highly 20 inclined to just want to do an actual claim allowance hearing, 21 if you're going to go through all that trouble of an 22 estimation hearing.

23 So, we're just going to have to figure out the timing of 24 all of this on October 20th. Whether I rule that day or not, 25 we'll leave that setting with a game plan on expedited

1 discovery and a hearing on -- you know, the trial, I should 2 say -- on the claim objection.

3 So, part of my reason for wanting this to remain silent 4 for now is, as you can imagine, I want everyone to be fully 5 focused on the mediation right now. I want everyone to give 6 it one hundred percent of their effort, without having 7 distractions of discovery and gearing up for whatever type of 8 trial we have.

9 So, I'm going to ask -- well, I'll ask, Mr. Pomerantz, 10 your team to be the scrivener on this very short partial 11 scheduling order, if it could just be consistent with 12 everything that's been announced here today.

13 Any last-minute housekeeping issues on this?

14 MR. POMERANTZ: None from the Debtor, Your Honor. We 15 will prepare the order.

16 THE COURT: All right. And, obviously, give Ms.
17 Patel, Mr. Bonds, and Mr. Clubok an opportunity to review it 18 and comment. But it should be short and sweet, and I would 19 think there wouldn't be any room for much controversy on it.
20 Okay?

21 MR. POMERANTZ: Absolutely.

22 THE COURT: All right.

23 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: Well, you know, I don't know if good luck
25 is the right expression for the upcoming mediation, but I

1 trust you're all going to give it your strongest effort. It 2 would obviously be a wonderful outcome here if it's fruitful
3 mediation. All right? So, thank you. We're adjourned.

1 DALLAS, TEXAS - SEPTEMBER 10, 2020 - 2:43 P.M.

2 THE CLERK: All rise.

3 THE COURT: All right. Good afternoon. Please be 4 seated. We apologize for being a little late getting started.
5 Everything has run long today.

6 So, we're about to start the Highland matters. We 7 originally had nine matters set today. Seven of those were 8 interim fee applications, and I think everyone should have 9 gotten the word that the Court reviewed those in chambers and 10 decided to approve those without using court hearing time 11 today. And what I mean by that is I know there was an 12 objection by Acis to -- or, a comment of Acis to the Foley
13 Gardere application, and I understand there were informal 14 comments that the U.S. Trustee may have given several 15 applicants. I'm assuming all of the orders submitted will be 16 reflective of whatever adjustments the parties negotiated. I 17 saw the Foley Gardere order, I haven't seen the others, but I 18 assume they will reflect agreements with the U.S. Trustee.

19 So, again, those were interim applications. We'll not 20 spend any more court time on those. But we do have the 21 exclusivity motion and the first omnibus objection to claim.
22 So, with that, I'm going to take appearances. For the Debtor 23 team, who do we have appearing this afternoon? Do we have Mr.
24 Pomerantz and others?

25 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes, good afternoon, Your Honor.

1 Jeff Pomerantz; Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones; on behalf of 2 the Debtor, with some of my colleagues on the phone and on 3 WebEx who will be participating as appropriate in the hearing.

4 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. For the Official 5 Unsecured Creditors' Committee, who do we have appearing this 6 afternoon?

7 MR. CLEMENTE: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Matt 8 Clemente from Sidley. My colleague Paige Montgomery is on as 9 well.

10 THE COURT: All right. Very good. All right. I'll 11 go through some of the usual participants. We, I think, have 12 Acis appearing. I think I see Ms. Patel there. Is that 13 correct?

14 MS. PATEL: Yes, Your Honor. Rakhee Patel on behalf 15 of Acis, and also my co-counsel Brian Shaw with the Rogge Dunn 16 Group.

17 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. For UBS, I think 18 I see Andrew Clubok there; is that correct? All right.

19 MR. CLUBOK: That's correct, Your Honor. (garbled)
20 of Latham & Watkins (garbled) for UBS.

21 THE COURT: Okay. Our connection there is a little 22 rough, but hopefully we'll get that worked out if you speak 23 more today.

24 All right. Do we have anyone appearing on behalf of the 25 Redeemer Committee?

1 MS. MASCHERIN: Yes, Your Honor. Terri Mascherin and 2 Marc Hankin as well as Mark Platt for the Redeemer Committee.

3 THE COURT: All right. Very good. All right. I
4 think I saw Ms. Lambert for the U.S. Trustee, correct?

5 MS. LAMBERT: Yes, Your Honor. That is correct.

6 THE COURT: All right. Do we have Mr. Lynn or Mr.
7 Bonds for Mr. Dondero?

8 MR. ASSINK: Good afternoon, Your Honor. This is 9 Brian Assink appearing on behalf of James Dondero.

10 THE COURT: All right. I'm afraid we didn't pick 11 that up. Could you repeat your appearance?

12 MR. ASSINK: Yes, Your Honor. I apologize. This is 13 Bryan Assink with Bonds Ellis Eppich Schafer Jones appearing 14 on behalf of Mr. Dondero.

15 THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to cut the court 16 reporter a break here. Could you spell your last name, 17 please?

18 MR. ASSINK: Yes, Your Honor. It's A-S-S-I-N-K.

19 THE COURT: Okay. Anyone else wishing to appear at 20 this time? Go ahead.

21 All right. So, maybe we have a lot of silent observers, 22 which is fine.

23 All right. Well, Mr. Pomerantz, shall we start with the 24 hodgepodge that is the omnibus objection to claims? I know we 25 had like 92 claims and we had some formal responses and 1 whatnot. So, who is going to present that?

2 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, I thought, if I may, it 3 may be helpful just to give an overview on where we are, and 4 then lead into the claims at the end. And Your Honor, we read 5 Your Honor's clerk's email on the things to be addressed, and 6 we have some updates that we think it would be helpful for 7 Your Honor to hear. But however Your Honor would like to do 8 it is fine, too.

9 THE COURT: Well, okay. Let's get to the really good 10 stuff first. Or I hope it's good stuff.

11 MR. POMERANTZ: Okay.

12 THE COURT: So you may proceed.

13 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you. So, I thought I would 14 start, Your Honor, by giving the Court a report on the four 15 days of mediation that the Debtor participated in over the 16 last week, couple of weeks, with the Committee, UBS, Redeemer, 17 Acis, and Mr. Dondero.

18 As Your Honor may recall, the four days of mediation were 19 largely to focus on trying to resolve the claims asserted by 20 UBS and the Acis entities against the estate. The parties 21 still hope to use the mediation to explore the potential for a 22 grand bargain plan with Mr. Dondero, and have, in fact, 23 scheduled another mediation session with the mediators and all 24 the parties for September 15th to further explore a potential 25 settlement.

1 I am pleased to report to Your Honor that the mediation,
2 through the mediation process, the Debtor has reached 3 agreement with Acis to resolve all claims between and among 4 the Acis entities, Mr. and Mrs. Terry on the one hand, and the 5 Debtor's estate on the other hand. Yesterday, the parties 6 actually signed a settlement agreement and a general release, 7 which has been provided to the Committee and the Committee
8 members. And the Debtor intends to seek Court approval 9 pursuant to 9019 in a motion that will be filed within the 10 next week. So I'm sure that is pleasant news for Your Honor 11 to hear.

12 THE COURT: I really want to take a break and do 13 cartwheels through the courtroom. I won't do that, but that's 14 how I feel right now.

15 So, wow. All I can say is wow. And I don't know who 16 deserves the most compliments. I'll assume all of you deserve 17 compliments. So I compliment the hard work getting there, and 18 I think that's a very positive thing, to have that one 19 resolved once and for all. It's been a long haul. So, that's 20 very good news to my ears.

21 MR. POMERANTZ: It certainly has. And the mediators 22 were instrumental in making that happen, in addition to all 23 the parties and their representatives, who worked tirelessly, 24 including over the weekend, to actually document the 25 settlement.

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MR. POMERANTZ: With respect to the negotiations over 3 the UBS claim, the parties are still working to resolve the 4 issues, with the assistance of the mediators. That has not 5 concluded at this point.

6 And as I had previously informed Your Honor, the Debtor
7 and the Redeemer Committee have reached a settlement agreement
8 of the Redeemer Committee's claims. And the settlement 9 agreement is finalized and is in the process of being signed.
10 And the Debtor also anticipates that a 9019 motion seeking 11 Court approval will be filed soon.

12 THE COURT: Okay.

13 MR. POMERANTZ: So, Your Honor, as Your Honor could 14 see, we're making progress, having now resolved at least two 15 of the three big claims, Acis and Redeemer.

16 THE COURT: Okay.

17 MR. POMERANTZ: As I mentioned previously, the Debtor 18 wants to explore the potential of a grand bargain plan with 19 Mr. Dondero. And Tuesday, there is a mediation session 20 scheduled with the mediators to try to accomplish that.

21 Unless Your Honor has any other questions regarding the 22 mediation, I would like now to turn to the exclusivity motion 23 and essentially be requesting that Your Honor continue the 24 hearing from today to the 17th. And I think when I explain 25 the background, you'll understand the reasons why, and this is

1 supported by the Committee.

2 THE COURT: All right. You may proceed with that.

3 MR. POMERANTZ: So, Your Honor, I think some context 4 and background will help the Court understand where we are.
5 If Your Honor recalls, the Court had previously extended the 6 Debtor's exclusivity periods to August 12th for the filing of 7 the plan and October 13th for soliciting acceptances for the 8 plan. And Your Honor, the Debtor heard the Court loud and 9 clear and heard the Committee loud and clear that that 10 exclusivity extension was going to be the last one Your Honor 11 would entertain.

12 So, over the succeeding weeks after Your Honor entered 13 that order, the Debtor continued to work with the Committee to 14 resolve issues in connection with a plan, and I'm pleased to 15 report that most of the issues -- not all, but most of the 16 issues -- had been resolved as of the time exclusivity was set 17 to expire. And the Debtor had intended to file the plan and 18 disclosure statement on August 12th, had secured originally a 19 hearing date from Your Honor of September 29th, and had 20 pledged to work with the Committee through the -- up until the 21 hearing on the disclosure statement to try to resolve the 22 remaining issues.

23 On or about August 10th, right about the time that the 24 mediators, I think, were going out to all the parties and 25 getting their feet wet in the process and understanding where

1 parties were coming from, Mr. Dondero's counsel called me, 2 Your Honor, or called the Debtor, Your Honor, and requested 3 that the Debtor not file the plan and disclosure statement on 4 August 12th and seek a further extension of exclusivity, under 5 the theory that a filed plan may adversely impact the 6 mediation process.

7 The Debtor did not agree to delay. The Debtor believed 8 that we were -- we needed to file the plan and disclosure 9 statement on -- by exclusivity. And we told Mr. Dondero and 10 his counsel that we would still be open to talking about 11 alternatives to the plan through the mediation process.

12 On August 11th, Your Honor, the mediators contacted the 13 Debtor and expressed concern over the filing of a plan a 14 couple of weeks prior to the mediation starting. We don't 15 know, but we're informed and believe that Mr. Dondero's 16 counsel had conversations with the mediators and expressed the 17 same concerns to them that had been expressed to us, and the 18 mediators, being new to the process, hearing that a plan that 19 might be on file might adversely affect the mediation, came to 20 us and said, We would rather you not file the plan and 21 disclosure statement. We indicated we had an exclusivity 22 deadline that we were not prepared to let lapse. They asked 23 us to file an extension, a motion extending exclusivity, or 24 alternatively, to file the plan and disclosure statement under 25 seal.

1 So, in light of that situation, we're in some sense 2 between a rock and a hard place. We were perfectly willing 3 and ready and able to file our plan and disclosure statement, 4 but of course we didn't want the mediation process to get off 5 on the wrong foot.

6 So we did the following. We filed the motion to extend 7 exclusivity, which is the motion before Your Honor today. We 8 filed a heavily-redacted plan and disclosure statement. And 9 we also filed a motion to file the plan and disclosure 10 statement under seal.

11 Your Honor subsequently granted the Debtor's motion to 12 file the plan and disclosure statement under seal, and 13 unredacted versions were filed with the Court, and members of 14 the Committee and their counsel received the unredacted 15 versions, which are subject to the confidentiality provisions 16 in the mediation order.

17 So, Your Honor, as it stands now, the Debtor has its plan 18 and disclosure statement on file, albeit under seal, thereby 19 preserving the plan exclusivity deadline. And as I mentioned, 20 Your Honor, we originally had a hearing scheduled for 21 September 29th. I understand Your Honor is out of town that 22 week and asked us to continue it to October 6th, which we did.

23 However, Your Honor, in light of the additional mediation
24 session scheduled for September 15th, which is next Tuesday, 25 the mediators still believe that the Debtor should not make

1 the plan and disclosure statement public until the grand 2 bargain plan has had -- had an opportunity to explore further.

3 So, as a result, Your Honor, the Debtor requested that the 4 Committee agree to continue this hearing from today until the 5 17th. And we expect that by the 17th, one of two things will 6 likely occur. Either, one, the parties will have reached the 7 terms of a grand bargain plan, which would result in an 8 agreement to revise the plan under certain terms, and likely a 9 scheduling -- a filing of the new plan and disclosure 10 statement and subsequently a disclosure statement hearing and 11 plan hearing.

12 Alternatively, the parties may determine that a grand 13 bargain plan is not obtainable, and at that point the Debtor 14 will be in a position to unseal the plan and disclosure 15 statement, schedule the disclosure statement and plan 16 confirmation hearings. And the hope would be that at that 17 point we would reach an agreement with the Committee to extend 18 the only exclusivity period we need to, which would be the 19 solicitation deadline to confirmation.

20 We have discussed potential dates for a disclosure 21 statement hearing with the Committee, and yesterday reached 22 out to Your Honor to see if Your Honor had either October 22nd 23 or 23rd available for the disclosure statement hearing, and 24 either December 3rd or December 4th available for the 25 confirmation hearing.

1 The Debtor and the Committee intend to also use the 2 mediation on Tuesday to resolve the handful of issues that the 3 Debtor and the Committee have with the plan that would be 4 filed if a grand bargain plan is not reached.

5 Accordingly, Your Honor, this is a long way of saying that 6 the Debtor requests that the Court continue the hearing on the 7 exclusivity motion until next week, pending further 8 developments on a potential grand bargain plan.

9 THE COURT: All right. I'll hear from the Committee.
10 Is there anything you want to say to confirm or add to Mr.
11 Pomerantz?

12 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes, Your Honor. Matt Clemente on 13 behalf of the Committee.

14 Mr. Pomerantz, you know, accurately described the 15 background to the Court.

16 In terms of the filing of the plan under seal, I think, as 17 they made clear in their papers, the Committee did not agree 18 to that, Your Honor, as an initial matter, because, as I have 19 said to Your Honor many times, you know, obviously, we value 20 speed here. And we saw what Mr. Dondero did through his 21 lawyers to be a kind of a tactic that we didn't really see any 22 sort of basis for.

23 But, again, Your Honor, we respected Your Honor's seal 24 decision, and we very much respected what the mediators' point 25 of view was in terms of wanting to give the mediation the best

1 chance to succeed.

2 We did file our objection to exclusivity, as you saw. But 3 given your, obviously, your joy at the resolution of Acis, the 4 Committee shares that positive reaction. We're very happy to 5 see that there is some positive momentum through the mediation 6 process, and therefore we have agreed to adjourn, if you will, 7 the exclusivity hearing for a week, subject, obviously, to 8 Your Honor's schedule. We'll have an opportunity to have a 9 further mediation session on Tuesday, and hopefully further 10 progress will be able to be made that we then can report to 11 Your Honor on Thursday.

12 So, a lot of words there, Your Honor, but the bottom line 13 is Mr. Pomerantz accurately stated the views that I expressed 14 to him on behalf of the Committee, and we agreed to the 15 extension, or the adjournment, if you will, of the exclusivity 16 hearing to --

17 THE COURT: All right. Anyone else wish to be heard 18 on the topic of exclusivity?

19 All right. Well, I'll just say, the so-called sealing 20 decision, I've never ever been asked to seal a disclosure 21 statement and plan. I've never -- I'm not sure I've ever 22 heard of anyone asking for that. You know, I suspect it's 23 happened before. But it, as you allude to, Mr. Clemente, 24 very, very unusual request, but I -- you know, this was a very 25 unique situation with a lot of huge issues to mediate. And I

1 could absolutely understand the argument that was being made, 2 supported by the mediators, that it might hamper the 3 settlement discussion. I'm not entirely clear if it would 4 have or wouldn't have, but I accepted at face value that there 5 might be an adverse effect on the settlement discussions, and 6 I did not want to risk that.

7 So, I hope people won't make that as a new thing that 8 they're asking for and saying, You did it in the Highland 9 case. I think it would take a very unusual set of 10 circumstances to convince me to do that again.

11 All right. So, if there's nothing else to be heard, to be 12 said on the exclusivity motion, I will -- oh, I'm sorry, 13 someone else was going to speak up, I think.

14 MR. POMERANTZ: No, Your Honor, this is Jeff 15 Pomerantz. There's one other sort of off-the-agenda item that 16 I'd like to raise before we go to the claim objection.

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 MR. POMERANTZ: May I?

19 THE COURT: You may.

20 MR. POMERANTZ: So, Your Honor, Your Honor entered an 21 order on August 11th, 2020, with respect to the motion to 22 clarify filed by the NexPoint entities and NexBank SSB. And 23 in that order, Your Honor raised concerns how the independent 24 board, and Mr. Seery in particular as the chief executive 25 officer, was handling potential conflicts that could arise in

1 connection with shared services provided to the related 2 parties by current Debtor employees, including in-house 3 counsel.

4 Your Honor indicated you would like to hear on that issue 5 further. Mr. Seery is on the WebEx and is prepared to provide 6 testimony that my partner, Mr. Morris, would provide -- would 7 question him that I think would address Your Honor's concerns 8 and maybe give Your Honor some more comfort than you had when 9 you raised legitimate issues in that order.

10 So we would like to -- again, it's not in connection with 11 any contested motion, but we're happy to have Mr. Seery be 12 under oath. Either we could do that now or we could do that 13 after the hearing on the claim objection.

14 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I'm glad you brought this 15 up, because it was a loose end out there that I was hoping we 16 would circle back on very soon. So I do appreciate that 17 you're prepared today to have Mr. Seery address that.

18 Let me just say, on the exclusivity, in case there is 19 anyone who was not going to stick around for the whole thing, 20 I am continuing or adjourning this hearing to next Thursday, 21 September 17th, at 9:30 in the morning, the motion to extend 22 exclusivity. So if you were only on the call to find out what 23 happened on that, that's what we're doing on that. We'll come 24 back next Thursday on that.

25 All right. Mr. Seery, are you on the video WebEx or only

Seery - Direct

18

1 phone?

2 MR. SEERY: I am on the WebEx, Your Honor. I 3 apologize that my headphones didn't connect, but hopefully you 4 can hear me.

5 THE COURT: Okay. I can hear you loud and clear.
6 Please raise your right hand.

7 JAMES P. SEERY, JR., DEBTOR'S WITNESS, SWORN

8 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Mr. Morris?

9 MR. MORRIS: Good afternoon, Your Honor. John 10 Morris; Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones. Can you hear me okay?

11 THE COURT: I can.

12 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Mr. Seery, can you hear me okay?

13 THE WITNESS: I can, yes.

14 DIRECT EXAMINATION

15 BY MR. MORRIS:

16 Q Okay. Just a couple of leading questions, just to set the 17 table a little bit. Mr. Seery, you're currently the Debtor's 18 CEO; is that right?

19 A I am.

20 Q And you've held that position since mid-July; is that 21 correct?

22 A That's correct. Effectively doing it before that, back to 23 March. It was a nunc pro tunc order.

24 Q And prior to your appointment, you were serving as one of 25 the independent directors of the general partner since

005872

Seery - Direct

19

1 January; is that right?

2 A Yes, that's correct.

3 Q Are you aware that the Court issued an order last month
4 that raised certain questions about the role that in-house
5 lawyers are playing with respect to the non-debtor Highland-6 related entities?

7 A I am. And just to clarify, it was focused on in-house
8 lawyers, but I took it to mean all employees.

9 Q Very well. Have you personally reviewed that order?

10 A I have.

11 Q And what was your reaction when you first saw the order?

12 A I was very concerned, first, because of the potential 13 conflicts, but second, wanted to make sure that the protocols 14 that we'd previously put in place were, one, enough, and that, 15 two, they'd been adhered to. But, three, wanted to make sure 16 that, going forward, I was hypersensitive to the issue, 17 because as the judge raised in the order, those concerns 18 became particularly acute around things like discovery 19 disputes or proofs of claim.

20 Q So, let's just talk for a moment about the protocols that 21 were in place prior to the Court's order. Can you describe 22 for the Court the protocols that were imposed?

23 A Early on in our tenure as directors, and then as I began 24 to ascend towards the CEO role, we had numerous discussions 25 with the employees about the importance of focusing on HCMLP,

005873

Seery - Direct

20

1 the Debtor, versus the other entities. There are 2 responsibilities to the other entities under shared services 3 arrangements, there are fiduciary responsibilities to certain 4 other entities under management agreements, but, paramount, 5 there's a duty to the Debtor, both for officers, employees, as 6 well as employees acting as attorneys. We wanted to make sure 7 that those roles were very clear. If there were any 8 conflicts, the people who are most likely in a position to be 9 in a conflicted or potentially-conflicted position were to 10 raise it with the board.

11 Those issues really don't come up that much, but they did 12 come up early in the case. In particular, around the bar 13 date. And so with respect to proofs of claim, one of the 14 concerns was whether employees could work under shared service
15 arrangements to work on proofs of claim in the Debtor's case.
16 Typically, if one of the shared service counterparties has a 17 proof of claim to be filed in another case, unrelated to the 18 Debtor, the Debtor's employees would do that under the shared 19 services arrangement. But we, as a board, were concerned that 20 that could be a potential conflict. We wanted to make sure 21 that we cabined what any of the employees would do around 22 those claims.

23 So, predominantly, a couple folks in the legal department 24 worked under the shared service arrangements, made sure that 25 placeholder claims were filed, and that was the end of their

005874

Seery - Direct

21

1 role in respect of the proofs of claim.

2 Next came the discovery issues. Our view was that, as a
3 board, and then my view as CEO, was that we already entered 4 into agreements with respect to our appointment, that the 5 arrangements for the discovery were pretty clear, and that the 6 only issue we wanted to make sure that we dealt with were not 7 breaching any agreements under the shared service agreements 8 so that we didn't create liability for the Debtor.

9 Again, we segregated to make sure that we knew exactly 10 which employees were going to work on those, how those were 11 teed up, and that those negotiations could ensue without real 12 conflict.

13 Those were mostly handled, frankly, by DS -- not by DSI, 14 by Pachulski, with help from DSI and the legal department. We 15 were able to get those issues, I think, down to a manageable 16 set, but then we ended up with -- we had disputes with the 17 Committee regarding both the scope of the discovery, which is 18 pretty massive, as well as the potential risk around some of 19 the privilege issues.

20 That led to our filing of the motion which, for lack of a 21 better term, basically put the shared service parties on 22 notice that it was up to them to hire their own counsel and it 23 was up to them to defend it, that we were giving them notice
24 that we were going to provide the information to the Committee 25 in accordance with the discovery requests.

005875

Seery - Direct

22

1 Q Just a couple of questions, Mr. Seery. With respect to 2 the preparation of the placeholder claims that you described,
3 did DSI and Pachulski play a role with the Debtor's employees 4 in preparing those placeholder claims?

5 A Yes, they did. And so they worked closely with the 6 employees. They're obviously bankruptcy issues, but we wanted 7 to make sure that we weren't either creating liability by not 8 doing it correctly, nor putting in a claim that didn't propose 9 or make -- or make any sense, if you will. So there was 10 certainly discussion and work around making sure that those 11 claims were done correctly.

12 Q And after the filing of those placeholder claims, have the 13 Debtor's employees played any role in the prosecution or 14 advocacy of those claims?

15 A Not to my knowledge. Frankly, we don't think there's 16 substantial -- or, we don't think there's material liability 17 with respect to shared service or related-party claims. To 18 the extent that there are actual obligations owed, those are 19 scheduled and we will continue to work through and satisfy 20 those obligations in appropriate ways under the -- under a 21 plan, whichever that might be. To the extent that they are 22 claims for breaches of the shared service agreements, we want 23 to make sure that we analyze those and we will object to 24 those, because we believe that we performed under the shared 25 service agreements.

005876

Seery - Direct

23

1 Q Okay. And with respect to discovery, I think you referred 2 to the motion for the protective order. Can you just describe 3 for the Court how that motion was intended to resolve the 4 issue of the conflicts that the Court raised?

5 A Yes. I wouldn't exactly call it as an interpleader, but 6 it was essentially a type of motion just to basically put the 7 shared service counterparties on notice that, notwithstanding 8 confidentiality provisions in the shared service arrangements, 9 that if the Court entered such an order, we would be obligated 10 to perform under the order, and that if they had specific 11 objections for their own rights, that they would have to 12 pursue them. And I believe each of -- if not everyone, but 13 many of the shared service counterparties hired counsel, 14 prosecuted their own objections, and those were either 15 resolved directly with the UCC or through the Court's order.

16 Q Did the Debtor or any of its employees play any role, to 17 the best of your knowledge, in connection with the preparation 18 of any of the objections?

19 A To the best of my knowledge, no. And I have checked, and 20 I was told no.

21 Q And did the Debtor play any role in the resolution of any 22 of those objections?

23 A I -- that's probably more of a question for you, Jack. I 24 think the answer is to some degree, to some degree yes, but 25 really they -- they were on their own. There were some, as 005877

Seery - Direct

24

1 the Court handled, that were pretty straightforward. For 2 example, MGM. It's not an entity we control. We do have on 3 our servers information related to board minutes, because Mr.
4 Dondero is on the board there. That's a pretty obvious 5 sensitive one that doesn't really impact the types of claims, 6 and I think that was pretty easily resolved.

7 NexBank had some particular issues related to regulations
8 that they have to adhere to as a regulated bank. I think 9 those types were the things that we helped facilitate best.
10 But usually, in my understanding, is that most of those 11 disputes were either resolved directly with the UCC or by the 12 Court's order.

13 Q And are you aware that CLO Holdco and NexPoint entities, 14 they're the ones who filed the motion for clarification that 15 led to the Court's order? Are you aware of that?

16 A I'm aware of it after reading the order.

17 Q Yeah. Right. And did the Debtor or any of its employees 18 play any role in connection with the preparation of the motion 19 for clarification?

20 A Not to my knowledge. I have checked with respect to all 21 the discovery. I did not check specifically on the motion.
22 But -- but it seemed to have come as a surprise to the folks 23 in the legal department that I did review this with.

24 Q Okay. So you're not aware of any even advance notice or 25 consultation with any of the Movants on the motion for 005878

Seery - Direct

25

1 clarification, right?

2 A That's correct.

3 Q Okay. Did the Debtor take any position with respect to 4 that motion?

5 A We did not, but I took significant positions with respect 6 to the team after -- after the order.

7 Q Can you describe what positions you took with respect to 8 the team after the order?

9 A I think Judge Jernigan's order, you know, rightfully 10 focused on potential disputes that could erupt into rather 11 large disputes between some of the shared service parties and 12 the UCC. In fact, by our own agreements, we were aligned, if 13 you will, with the UCC's position in terms of providing 14 discovery, and I wanted to assure that every employee knew 15 very specifically that they were not permitted to assist in 16 those disputes, not at all, and that if anyone approached them 17 to assist in those disputes I was to be notified and that 18 there would be no variance to my direction. I was very 19 specific.

20 Q And did you communicate those directions personally?

21 A I did. By -- by phone. So, both in terms of the legal 22 department, the financial department, some of the operational 23 folks, but then in groups, but also in specific discussions.
24 So these were not single discussions. It was not meant to be 25 difficult or harsh with our employees.

005879

Seery - Direct

26

1 I should add that I -- my experience with our employees
2 has been excellent. The response when we want to get 3 something done, when I want to get something done, has been 4 first-rate. The skill level is extremely high. I think what 5 the employees actually appreciate is to get specific 6 directions, know where they want to go, and then they have the 7 skill to get there. And these directions were very specific.

8 Q All right. I just want to finish by addressing a couple 9 of the questions that were specifically raised by the Court in 10 the last page of the order. The Court asked whether in-house 11 counsel was "calling the shots on resisting discovery." What 12 is the Debtor's position on that?

13 A Not at all. If anybody is taking a position contrary to 14 the Debtor's position, that would be jeopardizing their role.
15 That specifically would be against the direction that I've 16 given as CEO. I expect it to be followed, and I've seen it 17 being followed. So I'm quite comfortable that, certainly 18 since the order they haven't, and I was told that prior to the 19 order they had not.

20 Q Okay.

21 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, we have nothing further at 22 this time, but if Your Honor has any questions, obviously, Mr.
23 Seery is here to make sure that all of the Court's concerns in 24 this regard are fully addressed.

25 THE COURT: All right. Well, I'm first going to ask

005880

Seery - Examination by the Court

27

1 the Committee. I mean, you didn't really weigh in with a 2 pleading. Well, I guess you did, obviously. This all started
3 with your pleading, right, the discovery requests? So, do you 4 have anything, Mr. Clemente, that you want to ask the witness?

5 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, Matt Clemente on behalf of 6 the Committee. I, frankly, wasn't aware that there was going 7 to be this testimony today.

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 MR. CLEMENTE: And so I'm viewing it as an update to 10 Your Honor, which I very much understand and appreciate what 11 the Debtor is doing. So, but in terms of digesting what it 12 was that we just heard about, you know, filing of proofs of 13 claim and that, I -- frankly, Your Honor, I'm not in a 14 position to even, you know, ask Mr. Seery questions.

15 So I would just ask Your Honor that we treat it as I think 16 it is, which is an update for Your Honor. And if there's an 17 issue that we need to raise as a result of what we just heard 18 or as a result of what may have been happening, you know, I'll 19 just ask Your Honor that you allow us to do that, you know, at 20 some future time.

21 THE COURT: Okay. That's fine.

22 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor.

23 EXAMINATION BY THE COURT

24 THE COURT: I want to ask you, Mr. Seery, to clarify.
25 I mean, conceptually, it all made great sense, but let me just 005881

Seery - Examination by the Court

28

1 make sure I really understand how it's working.

2 As I understand it, Debtor employees filed proofs of claim 3 for various entities in, let's say, the Highland umbrella for 4 monies they might think are owed by Highland. But then you 5 told the employees you kind of step out of it at that point?
6 Am I putting words in your mouth, or is that -- is that what 7 you said?

8 THE WITNESS: Probably not my words, but they're 9 pretty close and the substance is correct. Maybe just, from a 10 higher level, Your Honor, that the employee roles include 11 helping these entities manage their investments, which also 12 include, often, claims in bankruptcy.

13 In our bankruptcy, they helped set up the claims. I think 14 every claim but maybe two, because there are actual -- there 15 may be notes -- are placeholders. They're unliquidated 16 amounts, just a placeholder claim.

17 They've been told specifically if that entity has a 18 dispute with the Debtor now about trying to take the 19 placeholder and turn it into a dollar-denominated claim, then 20 they have to step out, because I view that as putting them in 21 conflict with the Debtor.

22 The only other two areas that I see, but I'm sensitive 23 that there might be something else that could come along, and 24 I've told the employees to be very focused on this, but the 25 only two areas, other areas I see are, one, the discovery

005882

Seery - Examination by the Court

29

1 issues. I think those are largely resolved, and although this 2 may be naïve on my point, I don't see much value in spending
3 money fighting discovery. Get it out, get it done, get it
4 over. And so I don't want us to spend any Debtor time 5 fighting with any discovery. And if a third party that we 6 have a relationship with has a legitimate objection to 7 discovery, they'll need to prosecute that without our 8 assistance.

9 The other --

10 THE COURT: Can I just stop you there?

11 THE WITNESS: Yes, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: I'm under -- I'm having trouble: How do 13 they do that? Who acts for them?

14 THE WITNESS: They'll have to hire their own counsel.

15 THE COURT: But the counsel has to take instruction 16 from some human being.

17 THE WITNESS: Well, each of those entities have 18 employees. They're not -- they're not just shells. So they 19 have business people at those entities that can do things.
20 NexBank, for example, has scores of its own employees. It's a 21 real bank that does real business. If they need help 22 prosecuting their claim objection -- or, a claim; I don't 23 believe they have one -- or a discovery objection, they're 24 going to have to hire their own counsel and deal with it on 25 their own. We're not going to assist them on it.

005883

Seery - Examination by the Court

30

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 THE WITNESS: And they have done so.

3 THE COURT: Okay. Well, that -- this is really one
4 of my concerns. I was afraid that there were entities out 5 there objecting to the discovery, they have lawyers, but who 6 are the human beings directing the lawyers? I assumed, I 7 feared, in many instances it might be Highland employees. But 8 I don't know --

9 THE WITNESS: It's not.

10 THE COURT: Because I thought many of those entities 11 had no employees; they only had the shared services from 12 Highland.

13 THE WITNESS: Yeah. I don't believe that -- I don't 14 believe that's the case, Your Honor. If there's one or two 15 I'm missing, I don't believe that's the case. All of the 16 entities that we've been talking about, I think, that took any 17 kind of material role, certainly have employees and have folks 18 that work for them.

19 For example, HCFMA, I don't know if they were one of them, 20 but they have their own employees. NexBank has its own 21 employees. NexPoint Advisors has its own employees. So 22 there's a lot of back office and support that's provided 23 through the shared services arrangements, but they're not 24 completely empty vessels.

25 THE COURT: Okay. Well, that was, I guess, a

005884

Seery - Examination by the Court

31

1 misunderstanding on my part. I thought at least some of these 2 -- I think I understood that NexPoint was -- or NexBank was an 3 entity that absolutely had --

4 THE WITNESS: Right.

5 THE COURT: -- its own employees. But I thought that 6 several of those objectors had no employees. They solely --

7 THE WITNESS: I don't --

8 THE COURT: -- acted through shared services
9 agreements. Okay.

10 THE WITNESS: I don't believe that's the case. I 11 will double check that, and next time we're in front of you I 12 will report back to Your Honor.

13 The third area, just so you know, that you could see 14 potential disputes would be if Highland or a fund that -- the 15 Debtor or a fund that the Debtor manages holds a position and 16 another funds owns a position. So, for example, a publicly-17 traded closed-end fund. If we both own the same position, 18 there are typically -- and this is not unusual to Highland; 19 this is any asset manager with multiple funds -- there's 20 conflicts committees to run through how you deal with each 21 position. If, for example, I wanted to sell and the other 22 entity didn't want to sell, that could potentially raise a 23 conflict. I want to make sure, and I made clear to the 24 employee team, that if that arises, no one can work, who's a 25 Highland employee, can work for that other entity, because I

005885

1 feel that that would be slowing us down from realizing the 2 value that we want to realize. Likewise, if that entity
3 wanted to sell and drag us along and I didn't want to go, no
4 one's going to be able to work for that entity unless I 5 approve it, and there's no --

6 So, that's the third area. I think you've got the proofs 7 of claim, which I hope are largely resolved, but we'll come to 8 those.

9 The discovery, which, again, I hope is largely resolved, 10 and I'll report back to you with respect to every one of those 11 entities to determine its employee base or substance, if you 12 will.

13 And then that if we both had -- if there were two entities
14 that had an investment, one of them being the Debtor, another 15 a non-debtor, and they wanted to do different things with 16 their investment, that could potentially pose another 17 conflict. And those are typically handled in the ordinary 18 course at a manager like Highland, and that's true of most 19 managers that have multiple funds. I just want to be 20 extremely careful around it, so to the extent that there's a 21 divergence the team is going to work the way I direct them to 22 work, as opposed to how the other fund might want to deal with 23 it.

24 And some of them are retail funds. They have a third-25 party retail board. They're real -- they're real entities,

Seery - Examination by the Court

33

1 and they are publicly traded. But in terms of we shouldn't 2 have conflicts, it's not an unusual situation, but I want to 3 make sure that we're very careful around it so that, if we 4 have this discussion again, I can be more clear.

5 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Very good. And just 6 to go back to my earlier point, for example, Acis. Okay. We 7 had Acis in bankruptcy, as you well know, for many months 8 before Highland ever filed. It had no employees. And so that 9 was a difficult situation, because it acted solely through the 10 Highland employees that were provided to it through the shared 11 services.

12 So, that was my experience where I was drawing from, and I 13 thought that was a very common thing in the 2000 or so 14 Highland affiliates, for many of those entities not to have 15 their own employees at all.

16 THE WITNESS: It's --

17 THE COURT: So that's where I was coming from. Who's 18 giving instructions to lawyers for those entities? And if it 19 was --

20 THE WITNESS: It's a great example. I don't believe 21 that any of the funds will run to those issues, but the funds, 22 you're correct, those typically don't have employees.

23 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

24 THE WITNESS: So the fund is just a vessel that is no 25 employees. You know, it's a special-purpose entity.

005887

1 Typically, it has directors, depending on the jurisdiction
2 it's in. And you've seen some of that. And those are 3 managed, all of its business is managed by the manager.

4 I don't believe that's been the case with respect to 5 discovery disputes. I will check that. But I'm -- I was 6 thinking more along the lines of, for example, the retail 7 funds that do have a separate board. Highland's retail 8 business that does have separate employees, the NexBanks, the 9 NXRTs, et cetera.

10 THE COURT: Okay. But in all events, --

11 THE WITNESS: But the funds, though, you are correct.

12 THE COURT: -- the in-house lawyers, they are not 13 having any role with representation of these entities with 14 regard to any issues -- proofs of claim, discovery, any other 15 contested issues -- those entities might have with the Debtor?

16 THE WITNESS: Yes. It --

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 THE WITNESS: So, to the extent that it slows us 19 down, that's sometimes part of life and it -- in doing that.
20 To the extent that they're performing the normal services that 21 they perform -- for example, if they wanted to file a proof of 22 claim and prosecute it in the Neiman Marcus case because they 23 had it, that's part of the job and that's what they do and 24 that's what we get paid for.

25 If it has to do with Highland and it feels, it smells, it

Seery - Examination by the Court

35

1 tastes even a little bit like a conflict, they've been 2 instructed to not do anything and get to me immediately.

3 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

4 Mr. Morris, anything else you wanted to follow up with 5 with Mr. Seery?

6 MR. MORRIS: No, I don't think so, Your Honor. I 7 think Mr. Seery addressed the issues as we had hoped he would.

8 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Mr. Seery. I 9 appreciate your testimony today.

10 THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Well, Mr. Pomerantz, 12 back to you. Anything else, or shall we go on to the omnibus 13 claim objection?

14 MR. POMERANTZ: No. I appreciate Your Honor 15 indulging me and being able to raise those issues before. And 16 my partner James E. O'Neill is on the WebEx, and he has been 17 the point person on the claim objections, so I will have him 18 present it to Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: All right. Mr. O'Neill, are you there?

20 MR. O'NEILL: Yes, Your Honor. I am here. Can you 21 hear me okay?

22 THE COURT: I can. Go ahead.

23 MR. O'NEILL: Great. Thank you. Your Honor, this is 24 James O'Neil. I am with Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones. And 25 there was a pro hac motion filed for my admission yesterday.

005889

1 So, with Your Honor's permission, I will proceed to present 2 the first omnibus claim objection.

3 THE COURT: All right. I did see that, and you may 4 proceed.

5 MR. O'NEILL: Thank you very much. Your Honor, this 6 is the first claim objection that we've filed in this case.
7 As Your Honor noted at the outset, in this claim objection we 8 objected to 92 claims. The basis of the objections were there 9 were duplicate claims, some claims were overstated, late-filed 10 claims, satisfied claims, no-liability claims, and 11 insufficient claims.

12 We filed this claim objection at Docket No. 906 on July 13 30th, and the same -- on the same time we filed a notice of 14 this hearing and served a copy of the claim objection and the 15 notice on all of the parties that had claims affected by the 16 claims in this claim objection, and then also on our 2002 17 parties.

18 As the Court knows, in this case our claims agent is 19 Carson Kurtzman. Or -- and Your Honor, they did the service 20 for us.

21 Your Honor, we set an objection deadline of September 1st, 22 2020. And as the agenda notes, we did receive some responses, 23 both formal and informal responses. Your Honor, I can go 24 through those just to tell you where we are on that, if that 25 is the appropriate thing to do. The agenda reflects where we

Donohue - Proffer

37

1 are, but I'm happy to do it.

2 THE COURT: Yes. I am looking at the agenda, and if 3 I understand it, there were actually only two creditors who 4 filed formal responses, the Collin County Tax Assessor and 5 then Paul Adkins. But you got various informal responses.
6 So, why don't you just hit those informal responses and where 7 you are.

8 MR. O'NEILL: Sure. And also let me say, Your Honor, 9 with us today on the WebEx is Jack Donohue from Development 10 Specialists, Inc. Mr. Donohue is the person from Development 11 Specialists that worked on the claim objection with the 12 Debtor, so he's knowledgeable about the claim objection and 13 about the claims. I'm happy to give a proffer, if needed, 14 after I go through the overview. Whatever the Court would 15 like.

16 THE COURT: All right. Well, why don't you go 17 through the overview and we'll see if we need to swear him in.

18 JACK M. DONOHUE, PROFFER

19 MR. O'NEILL: Certainly, Your Honor. Your Honor, as 20 the agenda reflects, the first informal response we received 21 was from the Internal Revenue Service. Their claim was 22 originally listed on Schedule 4 to the claim objection. And 23 we worked with the Internal Revenue Service and have agreed on 24 a form of order which will be submitted. We had originally 25 indicated that that claim was satisfied. The Internal Revenue

005891

Donohue - Proffer

38

1 Service did confirm that the claim was satisfied, and they 2 have amended that proof of claim. So we're -- we have agreed 3 on a form of order, which actually has been uploaded already, 4 --

5 THE COURT: All right.

6 MR. O'NEILL: -- with respect to this (audio gap).
7 So that that response, which was an informal response, is 8 resolved.

9 Your Honor, we also heard from Moody's, an informal 10 response, which is Response No. 8 on the agenda. That also 11 was one listed on Schedule 4 to the claim objection. The 12 Debtors believed, from the books and records, that that claim 13 was satisfied. We worked with Moody's to reconcile the claim, 14 and they subsequently agreed that they did receive payment on 15 the claim. And so they have agreed to the treatment that we 16 had requested with respect to this claim so that it could be 17 disallowed through the claim objection process.

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 MR. O'NEILL: Next, Your Honor, we received an 20 informal response from Mr. Andrew Parmentier. Mr. Parmentier 21 was a former employee of the Debtor. We had objected to his 22 claim, and Mr. Parmentier's counsel contacted us. And we had 23 a productive (garbled) with counsel, and as a result, we are 24 not proceeding with that objection today. This matter will be 25 handled by a separate agreement.

005892

1 THE COURT: All right.

2 MR. O'NEILL: Item No. D, we objected to, on Schedule
3 5 to the claim objection, certain of the related-party claims.
4 We received an inquiry from their counsel, requesting that we 5 adjourn the hearing with respect to these claims. And we have 6 agreed to adjourn the hearing with respect to those claims, 7 the claims listed on Schedule 5, except for one claim, I
8 believe, for NexBank SSB, which will remain on Schedule 5.
9 The balance of the claims on Schedule 5 will be adjourned to a 10 date to be determined.

11 THE COURT: All right.

12 MR. O'NEILL: Next, Your Honor, we received a 13 response and an amended response from Mr. Paul Adkins. We -- 14 based on the response that we received, I communicated with 15 Mr. Adkins and informed him that we would not be proceeding 16 with the objection to his claim at this hearing and that we 17 would set it for a continued date to allow us to continue to 18 review his response and communicate with him. So we're not 19 proceeding with the claim objection to Mr. Adkins' claim at 20 this time.

21 THE COURT: All right.

22 MR. O'NEILL: (garbled) Schedule 6 (recording gap) to 23 the claim objection.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. O'NEILL: Your Honor, we also received an

Donohue - Proffer

40

1 informal response from the HarbourVest entities, also listed
2 on Schedule 6. And after talking with HarbourVest, we agreed
3 to adjourn the objection with respect to the HarbourVest 4 entities, so we're not proceeding with the objection to the 5 HarbourVest entities today. Those will be rescheduled for a
6 date to be determined.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. O'NEILL: And Your Honor, what that leaves us 9 with is parties -- all other parties did not respond to the 10 claim objection, so we're proceeding today on an uncontested 11 basis with respect to the claimants that did not respond and 12 also with respect to the one Moody's claim who's consented to 13 the relief that we're requesting in the claim objection.

14 THE COURT: All right. Well, I'll ask, was it Mr.
15 Donohue, if you could swear or affirm that the statements that 16 were just made by Mr. O'Neill were true and correct and the 17 same as you would have testified?

18 MR. DONOHUE: Yes, Your Honor, I do.

19 THE COURT: All right. Do you have anything you want 20 to add to the presentation?

21 MR. DONOHUE: Not at this time, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Okay. All right. And I'll ask one more 23 time, since we have many silent observers today: Is there 24 anyone out there on behalf of a claimant who wishes to be 25 heard?

005894

1 MR. ASSINK: Your Honor?

2 THE COURT: Yes?

3 MR. ASSINK: This is Bryan Assink on behalf of Mr.
4 Dondero. (garbled) some of these original placeholder claims, 5 and we're still figuring out the representation of those 6 entities going forward. And Mr. O'Neill was correct that the 7 claims would be adjourned except for Claim 178 filed by 8 NexBank SSB. In that -- we have relayed to him (garbled) was 9 actually there and the -- that was one of the claims that was 10 filed later that -- for which our extension request actually 11 applied.

12 So, you know, respectfully, we -- we'd also request that 13 Claim 178 be adjourned as well. And I apologize for the 14 misstatement to Debtor's counsel on that one.

15 THE COURT: Okay. Well, we had some distortion 16 there, so let me repeat what I think you said. First, I think 17 you said that Mr. Dondero was involved in preparing these 18 various proofs of claim on Schedule 5?

19 MR. ASSINK: Not involved in preparing them, no, Your 20 Honor. Our firm worked with, as Mr. Seery mentioned 21 previously, worked with Highland's legal team just simply to 22 file the claims. And there were some written by the 23 authorized representative of the (garbled). That was the 24 extent of the involvement (garbled).

25 THE COURT: Okay. Well, this is -- we're getting

1 some terrible distortion there, and I don't know if you have 2 headphones or if you can maybe turn your volume down a little.

3 I can't help but go back to this, that your firm, Bonds
4 Ellis, which represents Mr. Dondero, worked with in-house 5 counsel to prepare these placeholder proofs of claim?

6 MR. ASSINK: Yes, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Okay. All right. In any event, you 8 agree with what you've heard, that the Debtor has offered to 9 continue to a date to be determined the hearing on all of the 10 objections to all of these proofs of claim, but NexBank was in 11 a special category, and repeat again what you think the 12 arrangement is for NexBank.

13 MR. ASSINK: Your Honor, it was an omission on our 14 firm's part when requesting the extension to omit that claim.
15 Initially, we thought that was filed by another law firm, 16 since another law firm has made an appearance on behalf of 17 NexBank in the case. But I don't think that particular firm 18 was involved with this claim. So, just to preserve their 19 rights, that entity's rights, and make sure that there's no 20 issues there, we would request that the extension apply to 21 that claim as well.

22 THE COURT: All right.

23 MR. ASSINK: That was simply an oversight on our part 24 when requesting an extension.

25 THE COURT: All right. Mr. O'Neill, you were not

1 asking today for the Court to sustain the objection on 2 NexBank, were you?

3 MR. O'NEILL: (no audible response)

4 THE COURT: Okay. You're on mute. If you could 5 unmute yourself, Mr. O'Neill.

6 MR. O'NEILL: Sorry. Can you hear me, Your Honor?

7 THE COURT: Yes, I can.

8 MR. O'NEILL: Is that better?

9 THE COURT: Yes.

10 MR. O'NEILL: Sorry about that. Your Honor, I did 11 originally ask that it be disallowed today. But hearing from 12 counsel, I'll change that, and so we'll just include that on 13 the list to be adjourned to a date to be determined.

14 THE COURT: Okay.

15 MR. O'NEILL: So we will not seek to have that 16 disallowed.

17 THE COURT: Okay. So I was right to be confused.

18 All right. Anyone else wish to be heard?

19 All right. So, what I am doing is I sustain the 20 objections except for those that were specifically discussed 21 here. Obviously, the related claims we just mentioned on 22 Schedule 5 are going to be adjourned to a date to be 23 determined. HarbourVest. Paul Adkins.

24 And then I understand that there are going to be agreed 25 orders with regard to IRS.

1 And you were -- you were not real clear on the Parmentier,
2 if there was going to be an agreed order or an agreed 3 withdrawal or what, but that is subject to some -- something 4 other than a sustaining or continuance.

5 And then Moody's, you said they agree, they have no claim.
6 So, anything I missed?

7 MR. O'NEILL: No, Your Honor. I think you have it.
8 And if it's acceptable to Your Honor, we will upload an order 9 after today's hearing which reflects our discussion today and 10 is consistent with your ruling.

11 THE COURT: All right. Well, we will look for that 12 order, and we assume in due course you'll be reaching out to 13 the courtroom deputy for settings on these adjourned 14 objections. So, all right.

15 MR. O'NEILL: Yes, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: Well, is there anything else, or shall I 17 just see you next Thursday?

18 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, it's Matt Clemente from 19 Sidley. Just, I apologize, just a couple quick comments and 20 then -- and I won't keep everybody. But I'm trying to 21 process what I've heard, in particular from Mr. Seery, about 22 Debtor employees actually preparing proofs of claim to be 23 filed against the Debtor. And, again, I --

24 THE COURT: It sounds like --

25 MR. CLEMENTE: There's nothing --

1 THE COURT: -- Bonds Ellis actually had a role in 2 that, didn't it?

3 MR. CLEMENTE: There's nothing before Your Honor, 4 but I just, the more I keep hearing about it, I just -- it 5 makes me very uncomfortable. I just didn't want it all to 6 leave Your Honor with the impression that the Committee was 7 -- had heard about any of this or was, you know, okay with 8 any of that. We're processing it. So I just wanted to make 9 that clear to Your Honor, because I think that was quite 10 extraordinary, what I heard.

11 Second, just quickly on discovery -- and, again, there's 12 nothing before Your Honor on this -- but we have been going 13 back and forth, in particular with CLO Holdco, and I don't 14 know that there's been any emails, documents, that have been 15 turned over yet, although I think there might have been 16 yesterday or the day before. I'm simply saying that, Your 17 Honor, because I do think we're going to have to come before 18 Your Honor to extend that 90-day period in terms of when we 19 were required to bring an action against CLO Holdco. I just 20 wanted to preview that potential for Your Honor.

21 We're going to speak to them about agreeing to an 22 extension, but if we're unable to do that, we may need to 23 come before Your Honor to seek an order on an extension on 24 that 90-day period.

25 So, those are the only two comments that I have, Your

1 Honor. I appreciate you indulging me. If you have any 2 questions for me, happy to answer, but that's all I had.

3 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

4 MR. POMERANTZ: I --

5 THE COURT: I'll -- go ahead. Mr. --

6 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor? Your Honor, Jeff
7 Pomerantz.

8 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

9 MR. POMERANTZ: The only loose end: Do we have a 10 date acceptable to Your Honor for the hearing on the 11 disclosure statement and plan? Do you --

12 THE COURT: All right. Well, placeholder is the word 13 of the hour. We'll give you placeholder settings. I think 14 you said you wanted October 6th.

15 MR. POMERANTZ: No, --

16 THE COURT: No, no, no, no.

17 MR. POMERANTZ: -- October 22nd or 23rd.

18 THE COURT: Okay. I was starting to do the math in 19 my head and I knew that wasn't quite right. So, you said 20 October 22nd or 23rd, and then with hopefully a hearing on 21 confirmation December 3rd or 4th?

22 MR. POMERANTZ: Correct, Your Honor.

23 (Court confers with Clerk.)

24 THE COURT: All right. We're going to give you, as 25 you heard, October 22nd at 9:30 for your disclosure statement

1 hearing, and then we're going to give you -- we'll start
2 December 3rd at 9:30. In the unpleasant event you need more 3 time, you've got the 4th as well, Friday the 4th as well.
4 Okay?

5 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: All right. Well, if there's nothing
7 further, fingers crossed on good things to happen next 8 Tuesday, and we'll see you next Thursday with a report. All 9 right.

10 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

GLOBAL NOTES AND STATEMENT OF LIMITATIONS, METHODS, AND DISCLAIMER REGARDING DEBTOR'S AMENDED SCHEDULES OF ASSETS AND LIABILITIES

Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the "Debtor") submits its Amended Schedules of Assets and Liabilities (the "Schedules") in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division (the "Bankruptcy Court"). The Debtor, with the assistance of its advisors and management, prepared the Schedules in accordance with section 521 title 11 of the United States Code, 11 U.S.C. §§ 101-1532 (the "Bankruptcy Code") and Rule 1007 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure (the "Bankruptcy Rules").

These Global Notes and Statement of Limitations, Methods, and Disclaimer Regarding the Debtor's Schedules (collectively, the "Global Notes") pertain to, are incorporated by reference in, and comprise an integral part of the Schedules. These Global Notes should be referred to, and reviewed in connection with any review of the Schedules.² These Global Notes are intended to supplement the Global Notes filed at Docket No. 247 and 248 which remain applicable to the Schedules and Statement of Financial Affairs ("SoFA") filed at Docket No. 247 and 248, respectively and, to the extent not revised, shall be applicable to the attached Schedules.

The Schedules have been prepared by the Debtor with the assistance of its professionals and are unaudited and subject to further review and potential adjustment and amendment. In preparing the Schedules, the Debtor and its professionals relied on financial data derived from the Debtor's books and records that was available at the time of preparation. The Debtor and its professionals have made reasonable efforts to ensure the accuracy and completeness of such financial information, however, subsequent information or discovery of other relevant facts may result in material changes to the Schedules and inadvertent errors, omissions, or inaccuracies may exist. The Debtor reserves all rights to amend or supplement its Schedules and SoFA.

² These Global Notes are in addition to any specific notes contained in the Debtor's Schedules or SoFA. The fact that the Debtor has prepared a "general note" with respect to any of the Schedules and SoFA and not to others should not be interpreted as a decision by the Debtor to exclude the applicability of such general note to any of the Debtor's remaining Schedules and SoFA, as appropriate.

Reservation of Rights. The Debtor reserves all rights to amend the SoFA and Schedules in all respects, as may be necessary or appropriate, including, but not limited to, the right to dispute or to assert offsets or defenses to any claim reflected on the SoFA and Schedules as to amount, liability or classification of the claim, or to otherwise subsequently designate any claim as “disputed,” “contingent” or “unliquidated.” Furthermore, nothing contained in the SoFA and Schedules shall constitute a waiver of rights by the Debtor involving any present or future causes of action, contested matters or other issues under the provisions of the Bankruptcy Code or other applicable non-bankruptcy laws.

Description of the Case and “As Is” Information Date. On October 16, 2019 (the “Petition Date”), the Debtor filed a voluntary petition for relief with the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware (the “Delaware Bankruptcy Court”) under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code. The Debtor is managing its assets as a debtor in possession pursuant to sections 1107(a) and 1108 of the Bankruptcy Code. On December 4, 2019, the Delaware Bankruptcy Court entered an Order transferring this case to the Bankruptcy Court [Docket No. 1].

Asset information in the Schedules reflects the Debtor’s best estimate of asset values as of the Petition Date, unless otherwise noted. No independent valuation has been obtained.

Basis of Presentation. The Schedules and SoFA do not purport to represent financial statements prepared in accordance with Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (“GAAP”), nor are they intended to fully reconcile to any financial statements otherwise prepared and/or distributed by the Debtor.

Although these Schedules and SoFA may, at times, incorporate information prepared in accordance with GAAP, the Schedules and SoFA neither purport to represent nor reconcile to financial statements prepared and/or distributed by the Debtor in accordance with GAAP or otherwise. Moreover, given, among other things, the valuation and nature of certain liabilities, to the extent that the Debtor shows more assets than liabilities, this is not a conclusion that the Debtor was solvent at the Petition Date. Likewise, to the extent that the Debtor shows more liabilities than assets, this is not a conclusion that the Debtor was insolvent at the Petition Date or any time prior to the Petition Date.

Estimates. To timely close the books and records of the Debtor, the Debtor and its professionals must make certain estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and reported revenue and expenses. The Debtor reserves all rights to amend the reported amounts of assets, liabilities, revenue, and expenses to reflect changes in those estimates and assumptions.

Confidentiality. There may be instances within the Schedules and SoFA where names, addresses, or amounts have been left blank. Due to the nature of an agreement between the Debtor and the third party, concerns of confidentiality, or concerns for the privacy of an individual, the Debtor may have deemed it appropriate and necessary to avoid listing such names, addresses, and amounts.

Intercompany Claims. Any receivables and payables between the Debtor and affiliated or related entities in this case (each an “Intercompany Receivable” or “Intercompany Payable” and, collectively, the “Intercompany Claims”) are reported as assets on Schedule B or liabilities on Schedule E and Schedule F. These Intercompany Claims include the following components, among others: 1) loans to affiliates or related entities, 2) accounts payable and payroll disbursements made out of an affiliate’s or related entity’s bank accounts on behalf of the Debtor, 3) centrally billed expenses, 4) corporate expense allocations, and 5) accounting for trade and other intercompany transactions. These Intercompany Claims may or may not result in allowed or enforceable claims by or against the Debtor, and by listing these claims the Debtor is not indicating a conclusion that the Intercompany Claims are enforceable. Intercompany Claims may also be subject to set off, recoupment, and netting not reflected in the Schedules. In situations where there is not an enforceable claim, the assets and/or liabilities of the Debtor may be greater or lesser than the amounts stated herein. All rights to amend intercompany Claims in the Schedules and SoFA are reserved.

The Debtor has listed the intercompany payables as unsecured claims on Schedule F. The Debtor reserves its rights to later change the characterization, classification, categorization, or designation of such items.

Insiders. For purposes of the Schedules and SoFA, the Debtor defines “insider” pursuant to section 101(31) of the Bankruptcy Code. Payments to insiders are set forth on Question 3.c. of the SoFA.

Persons listed as “insiders” have been included for informational purposes only. The Debtor did not take any position with respect to whether such individual could successfully argue that he or she is not an “insider” under applicable law, including without limitation, the federal securities laws, or with respect to any theories of liability or for any other purpose. Inclusion of any party in the Schedules and SoFA as an insider does not constitute an admission that such party is an insider or a waiver of such party’s right to dispute insider status.

Excluded Accruals and GAAP Entries. The Debtor’s balance sheet reflects liabilities recognized in accordance with GAAP; however, not all such liabilities would result in a claim against the Debtor. Certain liabilities (including but not limited to certain reserves, deferred charges, and future contractual obligations) have not been included in the Debtor’s Schedules. Other immaterial assets and liabilities may also have been excluded.

Classification and Claim Descriptions. Any failure to designate a claim on the Schedules as “disputed,” “contingent” or “unliquidated” does not constitute an admission by the Debtor that such amount is not “disputed,” “contingent” or “unliquidated.” The Debtor reserves the right to dispute, or to assert offsets or defenses to, any claim reflected on its Schedules as to amount, liability or classification or to otherwise subsequently designate any claim as “disputed,” “contingent” or “unliquidated.”

Listing a claim (i) in Schedule D as “secured,” (ii) in Schedule E as “priority” or (iii) in Schedule F as “unsecured nonpriority,” or listing a contract in Schedule G as “executory” or “unexpired,” does not constitute an admission by the Debtor of the legal rights of the claimant or a waiver of the Debtor’s right to recharacterize or reclassify such claim or contract.

Moreover, the Debtor reserves all rights to amend the SoFA and Schedules, in all respects, as may be necessary or appropriate, including, but not limited to, the right to dispute or to assert offsets or defenses to any claim reflected on the SoFA and Schedules as to amount, liability or classification of the claim, or to otherwise subsequently designate any claim as “disputed,” “contingent” or “unliquidated.” Furthermore, nothing contained in the SoFA and Schedules shall constitute a waiver of rights by the Debtor involving any present or future causes of action, contested matters or other issues under the provisions of the Bankruptcy Code or other relevant non-bankruptcy laws.

Credits and Adjustments. The claims of individual creditors for, among other things, goods, products, services or taxes are listed as the amounts entered on the Debtor’s books and records and may not reflect credits, allowances or other adjustments due from such creditors to the Debtor. The Debtor reserves all of its rights respecting such credits, allowances or other adjustments.

Setoffs. The Debtor may incur setoffs from third parties in its business. Setoffs in the ordinary course can result from various routine transactions, including intercompany transactions, pricing discrepancies, warranty claims and other disputes between the Debtor and third parties. Certain of these constitute normal setoffs consistent with the ordinary course of business in the Debtor’s industry. In such instances, such ordinary course setoffs are excluded from the Debtor’s responses to Question 13 of the SoFA. The Debtor reserves all rights to enforce or challenge, as the case may be, any setoffs that have been or may be asserted.

Specific Notes. These general notes are in addition to the specific notes set forth below or in the related Statement and Schedules hereinafter.

General Disclaimer

The Debtor has prepared the Schedules and the SoFA based on the information reflected in the Debtor’s books and records. However, inasmuch as the Debtor’s books and records have not been audited or formally closed and evaluated for proper cut-off on the Petition Date, the Debtor cannot warrant the absolute accuracy of these documents. The Debtor has made a diligent effort to complete these documents accurately and completely. To the extent additional information becomes available, the Debtor will amend and supplement the Schedules and SoFA.

Specific Schedules Disclosures

a. Schedule E/F - Creditors Who Have Unsecured Claims.

Part 1 - Creditors with Priority Unsecured Claims. Pursuant to the Order (I) Authorizing the Debtor to (A) Pay and Honor Prepetition Compensation, Reimbursable Business Expenses, and Employee Benefit Obligations, and (B) Maintain and Continue Certain Compensation and Benefit Programs Postpetition; and (11) Granting Related Relief [Docket No. 39] (the “Wage Order”), the Debtor received authority to pay certain prepetition obligations, including to pay employee wages and other employee benefits, in the ordinary course of business. The Debtor believes that any non-insider employee claims for prepetition amounts related to ongoing payroll and benefits, whether allowable as a priority or nonpriority claim, which were due and payable at the time of the Petition Date have been or will be satisfied as permitted pursuant to the Wage Order. The Debtor filed the Motion of the Debtor for Entry of an Order Authorizing the Debtor to Pay and Honor Ordinary Course Obligations under Employee Bonus Plans and Granting Related Relief [Docket No. 177] pursuant to which the Debtor sought authority to pay and honor certain prepetition bonus programs. The Court granted certain relief with respect to this motion at Docket No. 380. Employee claims related to these programs are shown in the aggregate amounts in Schedule E/F for privacy reasons. Additional information is available by appropriate request to the Debtor. The listing of a claim on Schedule E/F, Part 1, does not constitute an admission by the Debtor that such claim or any portion thereof is entitled to priority status.

Part 2 - Creditors with Nonpriority Unsecured Claims. The liabilities identified in Schedule E/F, Part 2, are derived from the Debtor's books and records. The Debtor made a reasonable attempt to set forth its unsecured obligations, although the actual amount of claims against the Debtor may vary from those liabilities represented on Schedule E/F, Part 2. The listed liabilities may not reflect the correct amount of any unsecured creditor's allowed claims or the correct amount of all unsecured claims.

Schedule E/F, Part 2 reflects liabilities based on the Debtor's books and records.

Schedule E/F, Part 2, contains information regarding threatened or pending litigation involving the Debtor. The amounts for these potential claims are listed as "unknown" and are marked as contingent, unliquidated, and disputed in the Schedules and Statements. Additionally, the amounts of certain litigation claims may be estimates based on the allegations asserted by the litigation counterparty, and do not constitute an admission by the Debtor with respect to either liability for, or the amount of, such claims.

Schedule E/F, Part 2, reflects certain prepetition amounts owing to counterparties to executory contracts and unexpired leases. Such prepetition amounts, however, may be paid in connection with the assumption or assumption and assignment of an executory contract or unexpired lease. In addition, Schedule E/F, Part 2, does not include claims that may arise in connection with the rejection of any executory contracts and unexpired leases, if any, that may be or have been rejected.

As of the time of filing of the Schedules and Statements, the Debtor had not received all invoices for payables, expenses, and other liabilities that may have accrued prior to the Petition Date. Accordingly, the information contained in Schedules D and E/F may be incomplete. The Debtor reserves its rights to amend Schedules D and E/F if and as it receive such invoices.

1 DALLAS, TEXAS - OCTOBER 6, 2020 - 1:36 P.M.

2 THE COURT: Now our Highland status conference 3 regarding the UBS proof of claim and objections. I'm going to 4 just take appearances from, I think, the three main parties in 5 interest here. First, for the Debtor team, who do we have 6 appearing this afternoon?

7 MR. POMERANTZ: Jeff Pomerantz; Pachulski Stang Ziehl
8 & Jones. I'm joined with a few of my colleagues, but the most 9 important one for this hearing is my partner, Robert 10 Feinstein, who will be handling the status conference.

11 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. For UBS, who do 12 we have appearing this afternoon?

13 MR. CLUBOK: Good afternoon, Your Honor. This is 14 Andrew Clubok from Latham & Watkins, LLP. Can you hear me 15 okay?

16 THE COURT: I can, yes.

17 MR. CLUBOK: Oh, great. And I'm here with my 18 colleagues Jeff Bjork and Sarah Tomkowiak.

19 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. The Redeemer 20 Committee has filed its own objection to the UBS proof of 21 claim. Who do we have appearing for the Redeemer Committee?

22 MS. MASCHERIN: Good afternoon, Your Honor. This is 23 Terri Mascherin from Jenner & Block. My colleague Mark Hankin 24 is also on the line today, as I believe is our local counsel, 25 Mark Platt.

1 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

2 All right. So, I know there are lots of other people, 3 either on video or phone. I think we're probably only going 4 to be hearing from Debtor, UBS, and Redeemer Committee today.
5 Before we conclude, I'll see if there's anyone out there who 6 wanted to say anything today, but I'm guessing we just are 7 going to have observers.

8 All right. So, I guess we'll begin with: Mr. Feinstein, 9 what did you hope to accomplish today?

10 MR. FEINSTEIN: Thank you, Your Honor. Good 11 afternoon. First, can you hear me and see me okay?

12 THE COURT: I can. Thank you.

13 MR. FEINSTEIN: Thank you. So, what we hope to 14 accomplish this afternoon, Your Honor, is first to update Your 15 Honor on the status of the claim since the mediation 16 terminated, and also to lay out for Your Honor our plan to 17 bring a motion for partial summary judgment with respect to a 18 number of issues we think are resolvable that way, and to do 19 so promptly. And, in fact, to try to get a hearing before 20 Your Honor prior to confirmation. We think that that will 21 substantially reduce the issues between the parties.

22 And in that regard, Your Honor, I note that the mediation
23 was not successful in resulting -- in resolving the UBS claim, 24 and I think that's largely because of the different 25 perceptions of the parties about the value of the claim. I

1 think UBS still believes they've got a claim for one billion 2 dollars, and none of the other constituents accept that 3 premise.

4 And I guess, while I'm always optimistic going into a 5 mediation, certainly, given the posture of UBS with respect to 6 this claim, I was doubtful, and it turns out that doubt proved 7 to be true, doubtful that this could be resolved in that 8 context, but that it can and should be litigated in the 9 context of partial summary judgment. And then after Your 10 Honor rules, perhaps the claim -- the issues will be narrowed 11 so much that the claim could be resolved at that time.

12 So, we think that the partial summary judgment motion 13 makes a lot of sense. We've proposed a schedule for the 14 filing of the motion and briefing to UBS. You'll hear from 15 their counsel that they've not accepted that, that they'd 16 rather try the case.

17 We think that the summary judgment which we -- partial 18 summary judgment we alluded to, both in the opposition to 19 UBS's stay relief motion and then in our claim objection, we 20 think that there are two very significant arguments that could 21 dispel the notion that there is a billion dollar claim in this 22 case.

23 One would be, Your Honor, regarding on the res judicata 24 opinions of the New York Appellate Division, First Department, 25 holding in essence that UBS cannot make claims, assert claims,

1 based on operative facts that occurred prior to February 24th
2 of 2009. I don't think there's any operative facts that post-3 date that date except for the fraudulent transfers.

4 So, in a way, the -- or the breach of implied covenant 5 claim is redundant of the fraudulent transfer claims. We 6 think that with an appropriate ruling based on those 7 decisions, Your Honor should eliminate any construct, any 8 notion that there's a billion dollar claim in this case, and 9 you can talk about the fraudulent transfers.

10 The second branch of the motion, Your Honor, will be to 11 enforce the settlement releases. Your Honor may recall from 12 the papers that there's a total of $233 million of asserted 13 transfers, but $172 million of those transfers were settled, 14 and settled pursuant to a relief -- a relief -- documents 15 which provided a release to the Debtor for, quote, losses or 16 other relief specifically arising from the fraudulent 17 transfers.

18 So we think, Your Honor, the transactional release, if you 19 will, bars all claims of any characterization -- alter ego, 20 implied covenant, fraudulent transfer -- based on those 21 operative facts, which, again, are the only operative facts
22 that post-dated February 24th of 2009.

23 There's one more aspect to this, Your Honor, that I think 24 is kind of remarkable, again, and it's based on something that 25 was included in UBS's response to our objection to claim. And

1 that is, you know, they've danced around for a long time that 2 they're not -- they're going to assert an alter ego claim
3 against the Debtor for the entirety of the breach of contract 4 judgment, the billion dollars. And what UBS has asserted from 5 time to time is that they don't need to bring that claim 6 because it's a post-judgment remedy under New York State 7 procedure. And yet, Your Honor, there's a bar date. The 8 Debtor is in bankruptcy. So for UBS to say, voluntarily, 9 we're not making this claim now, we think in effect they've 10 voluntarily, through gamesmanship or whatever, missed 11 asserting the alter ego claim prior to the bar date. So we 12 intend to brief that as well.

13 So what we proposed, Your Honor, to UBS is that we would 14 file our motion in the next ten days. We were targeting 15 October the 16th. We've heard that maybe Redeemer wants to 16 file a motion, too. We propose an opposition November the 17 6th, that reply papers would be November the 16th, and then 18 that we have oral argument on the motion at Your Honor's 19 convenience. November 19th or 20th would be ideal, but 20 somewhere in that time frame. All of which, obviously, would 21 be prior to the timeline for the scheduled hearing on 22 confirmation of the Debtor's plan.

23 The other thing we raised with UBS and we haven't gotten a 24 response is that their claim is disputed in the case.
25 Obviously, it's been objected to. And if they want to file a

1 motion under Bankruptcy Rule 3018 for temporary allowance of 2 their claim for voting purposes, given the, essentially, the 3 overlap or identity of the issues, we thought it'd be 4 appropriate to tee up any -- any motion that UBS would like to 5 make in that regard along the same timeline, that they file 6 such a motion October 16th, et cetera, et cetera, and we have 7 it heard at the same hearing on November 19th or 20th.

8 So, we had a call with UBS yesterday. We've heard just 9 before the hearing that they are not interested in agreeing to 10 our schedule, or, for that matter, agreeing to summary 11 judgment practice, motion practice at all. We intend to make 12 such a motion, so I don't know that we need their permission, 13 but they don't want to engage on an agreeable timeline. They 14 want to take the case to trial, which we think it would be an 15 absurdity, Your Honor.

16 I'd also note, Your Honor, just by way of an update, that 17 I read in the New York Law Journal in the last week that 18 Justice Friedman, who presides over the case when it was 19 pending in New York State Supreme Court, presided over the 20 phase one trial, announced her retirement.

21 THE COURT: Oh.

22 MR. FEINSTEIN: She says she's retiring by the end of 23 this year.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. FEINSTEIN: So I guess she won't be hearing phase

1 two, if there's ever a phase two.

2 THE COURT: I guess I feel better about my denial of 3 the motion to lift stay now. Hmm. If I --

4 MR. FEINSTEIN: Exactly, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: If I had any lingering concerns. Wow. I 6 hope this case didn't make her want to retire early.

7 MR. FEINSTEIN: Probably more than that, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 MR. FEINSTEIN: Anyway, I'm going to stop there, Your 10 Honor. I hope that answers Your Honor's questions.

11 THE COURT: Yes.

12 MR. FEINSTEIN: I'm happy to answer any questions.

13 THE COURT: Two or three --

14 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, this is --

15 THE COURT: Two or three follow-up questions before 16 we move on. Okay. So we have our disclosure statement 17 hearing, I know, October 22nd. I seem to recall I gave you 18 sort of a tentative pencil-in date for a confirmation hearing, 19 assuming I approve the disclosure statement on October 22nd.
20 Can someone remind me what that was? Was it early December?

21 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes, Your Honor. This is Jeff 22 Pomerantz. It's December 3rd.

23 I also wanted to point out, Your Honor, that the mediation
24 has not terminated. It has not proven successful with UBS 25 yet, but the mediation continues to be open. We actually just

1 recently, before this hearing, were on the phone with the 2 mediators on some issues. So the mediation hasn't terminated, 3 and we always will welcome the opportunity to continue
4 discussions.

5 THE COURT: Okay. Well, good. I'm glad to hear 6 that.

7 Another question I had is this. I know that my courtroom
8 deputy was on the phone with one of Debtor's counsel earlier 9 today about, if we do this, setting oral argument the week of 10 November 16th. You know, the 19th or 20th. Am I correct in 11 that the time estimate was a three or four-hour hearing on 12 oral argument? I mean, do you really -- I know we have three 13 parties who would be arguing back and forth. Let me just 14 clarify that that is your best guess.

15 MR. FEINSTEIN: Yes, Your Honor. I mean, it's hard 16 to anticipate how long others will spend arguing, but I would 17 imagine that our portion of the argument would last 45 minutes 18 to an hour, --

19 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

20 MR. FEINSTEIN: -- without question, and that there 21 are two other parties who I expect would want to be heard.

22 THE COURT: Uh-huh. But, while complex, you distill
23 it down to three relevant issues: Whether res judicata bars
24 UBS from bringing any claims that arose before February 24, 25 2009, and you think I'm going to look principally at a state

1 court order, I guess, in that regard. And --

2 MR. FEINSTEIN: Yes.

3 THE COURT: -- second, the motion for summary
4 judgment, partial summary judgment, would argue there was a 5 release by UBS of certain claims in a 2015 settlement
6 agreement involving the Crusader Fund. And then you, I think, 7 third, threw in that any alter ego claim they're asserting is 8 barred by not having asserted it by the bar date. Is that 9 what you're saying?

10 MR. FEINSTEIN: Technically, yes, Your Honor. That's 11 correct.

12 THE COURT: Okay. So, distilling this down further, 13 I think you said that if you win on the res judicata argument, 14 that would eliminate any claims except fraudulent transfer 15 claims. Did I get that correct? And then, further, --

16 MR. FEINSTEIN: Yes. I think the -- the -- 17 actionable claims, that's correct, yes.

18 THE COURT: So, it -- oh, okay. And then, further, 19 if you win on the release argument, you would say -- you would 20 say that, out of, what, $233 million potential fraudulent 21 transfers, $172 million were settled. So, is it the Debtor's 22 --

23 MR. FEINSTEIN: Yes.

24 THE COURT: -- theory of the case that UBS has a 25 maximum of a $61 million claim? And I'm just doing the math.

1 MR. FEINSTEIN: A maximum -- a maximum --

2 THE COURT: $233 million minus $172 million? Is that 3 --

4 MR. FEINSTEIN: Yes. Yes. And even as to -- even as 5 to the $61 million that remains, there are other arguments and 6 objections to the claim. But the ones we think are 7 susceptible to summary judgment are the ones we have 8 identified.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. FEINSTEIN: But there are further issues that 11 would take those $61 million conceivably down to zero. But at 12 least for now, if we were to prevail on all the motions, the 13 aspects of the motion we're talking about, we'd be looking at 14 no higher than a $61 million claim. That's correct.

15 THE COURT: Okay. That's just giving me context and 16 certainly helping me to understand why this hasn't settled.
17 You're very, very far apart on the numbers.

18 All right. Well, Mr. Clubok, do you -- well, I guess -- 19 maybe I should take friendlies together before I go to Mr.
20 Clubok.

21 Ms. Mascherin, is there anything that you wanted to say?
22 Do you anticipate that the Redeemer Committee would also want 23 to file a motion for partial summary judgment, or perhaps just 24 a joinder into the Debtor, or what is your view on this?

25 MS. MASCHERIN: Yes, Your Honor. We would either

1 file our own motion or join in the Debtor's motion. But we 2 would -- we are focused on two of the three issues that Mr.
3 Feinstein identified, the res judicata issue and the release
4 issue.

5 And just to -- to preempt any questions Your Honor may 6 have, --

7 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

8 MS. MASCHERIN: -- I think our view of the case is 9 very similar to the Debtor's view, as you heard in the hearing 10 on the motion to lift stay.

11 And with regard to amount of time for an argument, I would 12 imagine, for our part, that we would be able to argue in 13 something like 30 minutes.

14 THE COURT: Okay. All right. And -- okay. I think 15 that's all I have for now. I may have one or two other 16 questions.

17 Mr. Clubok, you don't like this proposed game plan. Tell 18 me why you don't like it.

19 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, we don't like it because, 20 number one, it decreases efficiency. In fact, it's an 21 incredibly inefficient way to proceed as compared to what 22 we're going to propose.

23 And number two, it is just an effort by Highland to have a 24 do-over of what has already been litigated and decided in the 25 state court.

1 They are asking Your Honor -- first of all, with respect 2 to the res judicata argument, the argument, Your Honor, that 3 has been argued, I've lost track, maybe five times in the New 4 York courts. It was originally -- there are at least three, I 5 believe four appellate decisions that address that. There is 6 a summary judgment decision that addressed the impact of res
7 judicata. And there was an appeal of that summary judgment 8 decision to the appellate court in New York. And these 9 arguments that Highland wants to make again have all been 10 rejected. They've been rejected time and time again. And 11 three or four times in a row, Highland kept saying, well, the 12 last court decision didn't really resolve it, or the last 13 court decision doesn't mean what UBS thinks it means. Or at 14 the summary judgment proceeding, they said, we still have this 15 argument about res judicata.

16 Your Honor, that has all been decided time and again, and 17 that's why, where we were, where this thing left off in state 18 court was post-summary judgment, post the fourth or fifth 19 appellate decision on res judicata rejecting this argument 20 that Highland now wants to present to you for either the 21 fourth or the fifth or the sixth time. I've just lost track.
22 It's in our papers.

23 And we were ready to just go to trial on our claims with 24 the rules of res judicata clearly laid out in the -- in Judge 25 Friedman's summary judgment decision and the appellate court's

1 affirmance of that.

2 So they want one more bite at the apple, one more effort
3 to change the case. And frankly, Your Honor, it's really not 4 going to change -- as a practical matter, it's a little bit of 5 a tempest in a teapot because I don't think it's going to 6 decrease the evidence to be presented at trial. They've never 7 explained exactly how it could. But they just want to shoot
8 down measure of damages. It's really all about shooting down 9 our measure of damages in a way that we'll, you know, if we 10 have to brief it again, Your Honor, you know, obviously 11 requires us to, then we'll do it, but it's given Highland the 12 fourth or fifth or sixth bite at this same apple. And that's 13 why we strenuously object to it.

14 It's -- it's -- you know, Your Honor, Highland told you 15 that if you just keep the stay in place and you move these 16 proceedings here, there will be a swift resolution, a much 17 swifter resolution than if it happened in Justice Friedman's 18 chambers. And I just heard the glee in their voice as they 19 talk about Justice Friedman retiring. I think, frankly, had 20 we -- had we -- we could have -- we could have finished these 21 proceedings already in Justice Friedman's court at the 22 beginning of the year, absent what Highland set in motion.

23 But setting that aside, Your Honor, where we left off when 24 they told you, keep this thing in place and we'll get a quick 25 resolution in this Court, is that, hey, we're all ready for

1 trial. That was all that was left to do. Summary judgment
2 had been argued. This res judicata and the other -- and I'll 3 get to the settlement issues in a second -- had all been 4 argued. There was no further chance for them to get another 5 bite at that apple. And that's the reason why, Your Honor, we 6 do object to this. And we get it if Your Honor wants to hear 7 them out and we'd have to respond and we'll do it in a 8 reasonable schedule.

9 But what we propose instead, Your Honor, is that this 10 matter just be set for resolution. We would be ready, and 11 Highland has -- Highland had told Justice Friedman they'd be 12 ready to try this case in June. We know from their papers 13 they've spent I think close to two million dollars now getting 14 ready for this. We're all ready to try the case as 15 expeditiously as possible, but certainly before the plan
16 confirmation. We would say let's just adjudicate our claim 17 in, you know, November, whether it's mid-November or late 18 November, sometime so that our claim is just resolved.

19 What Highland proposed to us yesterday is, you know, they 20 get to do another summary judgment bite at the apple. They 21 get another chance to convince you to do something different 22 than the New York Court of Appeals and Justice Friedman told 23 them they could do when they said denied, go forward to trial.
24 So they want -- they hope to somehow convince you to do 25 something different than what the New York courts were -- had

1 forced them to do.

2 And then they also said, by the way, what we'd like you to 3 do is put in a 3018 motion so you sort of present a truncated 4 view of your claim just for purposes of voting on the plan.
5 And what we say is none of that is efficient. It's -- it's -- 6 what's efficient is the parties just move forward to trial.
7 We set a trial first thing in November. The parties can -- by 8 the way, if all these issues have been mostly briefed, anyway, 9 and the objections and the responses -- you know, we've 10 already almost fully briefed these matters anyway -- but the 11 parties could do supplemental pre-trial briefs. And when Your 12 Honor hears the case, Your Honor can just decide. If what 13 Highland is telling you is true, then -- and it somehow 14 precludes some of our evidence as a result, which, by the way, 15 I don't -- that premise isn't even -- isn't even true. It's 16 not even if they win this it'll cut down on the witnesses or 17 the evidence or anything that we present at trial, which I can 18 explain in a minute. But if any of that is true, then instead 19 of a three-day trial we have a two-day trial, or instead of a 20 two-day trial we have a one-day trial.

21 THE COURT: Let me -- let me --

22 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor could just --

23 THE COURT: Can I stop you right there?

24 MR. CLUBOK: Absolutely.

25 THE COURT: You say, you know, UBS wants this set for

1 trial maybe mid-November. If I didn't hear cross-motions for 2 partial summary judgment, so that there was no possibility of 3 narrowing of issues, what is your estimate of a trial? I 4 remember vividly you told me there was a 13-day bench trial in 5 phase one of this litigation, so I'm just speculating that we 6 would be looking at something like that here if there is no 7 narrowing of the issues. What is your guess about that?

8 MR. CLUBOK: Well, Your Honor, I don't think so at 9 all. Well, and first, not to relitigate this, but for someone 10 who's familiar with that 13-day record, I think maybe we need 11 another three days to try the case. Okay? Presuming full 12 familiarity with that 13-day trial record, it's maybe another 13 three days or so to try this case.

14 It's not -- the additional issues that are remaining do 15 focus on events that occurred -- they focus on claims that 16 accrued after February of 2009 and actions that Highland took 17 post-February 2009, which, by the way, not just to the extent 18 they committed fraudulent transfers, but to the extent they 19 breached their implied duty of good faith and fair dealing 20 under the contract.

21 THE COURT: Can I --

22 MR. CLUBOK: Mr. Feinstein --

23 THE COURT: Can I -- once again, I'm sorry I keep 24 interrupting, but --

25 MR. CLUBOK: That's okay.

1 THE COURT: -- it almost sounded like you're agreeing 2 with their res judicata argument, that there are no claims for 3 conduct arising before February 24, 2009. Did I 4 misunderstand?

5 MR. CLUBOK: I'm not entirely sure what their 6 argument is. I do not -- cannot imagine there can be a 7 dispute over res judicata unless they're trying to relitigate
8 what happened. What the Court has said, and I'm paraphrasing 9 this, is that, against Highland, the claims have to have 10 arisen after February of 2009, but we can rely on evidence 11 pre-February of 2009 to the extent that helps us support our 12 claims. That is the sort of split-the-baby, if you want to 13 call it, approach that the appellate courts took, that the 14 trial court took and the appellate courts affirmed, that, as 15 long as the claim doesn't accrue -- in other words, for a 16 claim to accrue, you know, it might be four steps for a claim 17 to accrue, but it's that fourth final step that occurs after 18 February of 2009, if that's the case, you can still talk about 19 the three steps leading up to that fourth step, and that's the 20 issue that Highland repeatedly tried to convince the Court we 21 would not be allowed to do. That's what they were repeatedly 22 shut down on. I actually am surprised. It's hard for me to 23 imagine what's the remaining res judicata issue.

24 So, we agree that there are no claims pre-February 2009.
25 The part that we disagree, and this is what Mr. Feinstein

1 said, you asked exactly the right question, okay, and I don't 2 know if it was -- I assume it was unintentional on Mr.
3 Feinstein's part. But he said, well, if they arise after 4 February 2009. And you said, oh, does that mean all that's 5 left are fraudulent conveyance claims? And he, I think he 6 said yes or indicated yes to that question. What he didn't 7 tell you, and this is the rub, was that it's not just 8 fraudulent conveyance claims after February 2009; it's also 9 breach of implied duty of the covenant of good faith and fair 10 dealing, because Highland was a contractual party to UBS 11 directly.

12 Highland had a contract with UBS, and they had an implied, 13 under New York law, duty of good faith and fair dealing. And 14 the actions they took after February 2009 to frustrate the 15 ability of the parties to fulfill their contractual 16 obligations, that supports not just fraudulent transfer but a 17 separate claim of the breach of the implied duty of good faith 18 and fair dealing, and that's the issue that we won time and 19 time again.

20 Every time Highland tried to do -- Highland, in the past, 21 did the same thing basically that Mr. Feinstein just did:
22 They would talk about the obvious res judicata issue -- that 23 is, claims that arose before February 2009. There's no 24 dispute that that's what the appellate court ruled were out of 25 the case. At least the (inaudible) Court of Appeals in New 1 York.

2 What implication flows from that is whether or not that 3 kills our implied duty of good faith and fair dealing claim 4 that we argue arose after February of 2009. It's that issue
5 that we have won time and time again in the New York courts, 6 including on summary judgment, defeating their summary
7 judgment motion, and which was affirmed by the First 8 Department Court of Appeals in New York.

9 So, we agree with the legal principle that he said. What 10 we disagree about is the implication. And that issue, of the 11 implication of that ruling, whether it kills our implied 12 covenant of good faith and fair dealing claim, that's the 13 issue that's been decided by the appellate courts. We 14 shouldn't even have to argue it again.

15 If we have -- because -- if we have to, so be it. We'll 16 do it. We presume you will go along with the rulings. And as 17 you said, you're not going to relitigate. So if we're forced 18 to do five weeks of briefing on that issue, of course we'll do 19 it, but we shouldn't have to do it again because that -- all 20 you have to do is look at the summary judgment decision by 21 Justice Friedman and look at the appellate court decision 22 affirming it and know that she was ready, had not for COVID 23 and not for bankruptcy, to just give us -- to go forward with 24 that trial.

25 And right after the bench decision was handed down, we

1 were supposed to, within a matter of -- originally, within a 2 matter of like six weeks -- go forward, have our trial then 3 for the remaining breach of implied duty of good faith and 4 fair dealing against Highland, the remaining fraudulent 5 conveyance claims that are left as well, and get a result.
6 And no more summary judgments, no more pre-trial motions. All 7 that stuff has been argued, lost, waived, done.

8 And by moving it here, Your Honor, Highland's plan, it's 9 been clear, it's now clear to us -- we assumed it, but it's 10 clear to us -- their whole plan was to just convince you, 11 because it's so complex, because all this sounds so 12 complicated, and you don't know the record as well as -- 13 obviously, you can't, possibly, you weren't personally 14 involved -- they want you to just give them another bite at 15 this apple and they just rebrief it. And again, if we have 16 to, we will. We do not think it's appropriate. We think it 17 is a do-over. We think it's exactly the cases that we cited, 18 you know, in our papers, in our response to their objection.
19 You know, like In re Ocasio and the other cases that we cited, 20 about not giving people do-overs, not using a bankruptcy 21 petition as a litigation tactic to slip arguments through the 22 back door when they would have been so clearly turned away at 23 the front door.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. CLUBOK: They know, because Justice Friedman

1 already did, would have rejected these out of hand, and we 2 would have gone forward with the trial, absent a stay and 3 maybe absent COVID.

4 They hope that you will give them another chance to slip 5 through the back door what they couldn't have gotten through 6 the front door. And that's why we think we should just go 7 forward with the trial as scheduled. But, again, of course, 8 Your Honor, if you tell us -- if we have to brief summary 9 judgment, of course we will.

10 THE COURT: All right. So, what I heard you answer 11 on my question of how many days would a trial take if we have 12 no motions for summary judgment, you said three or four days 13 is your guess?

14 MR. CLUBOK: I believe so, Your Honor. And we would 15 work with them to narrow issues and do it as efficiently as 16 possible. It's hard for me to imagine we need more time than 17 that. You know, again, I'm assuming familiarity with the 18 previous record, and so maybe there's some time, and if it's 19 your -- to your benefit to have a rehash of the stuff that was 20 in the first 13 days as background, we could, you know spend 21 time doing that.

22 But in terms of new things to be argued, there is a set of 23 facts that support our breach of implied duty of good faith 24 and fair dealing claims for post -- that arose post-February 25 2009. Okay. Those facts also may support fraudulent transfer

1 claims. They also -- they -- and the damages that flow from 2 those facts may or may not be affected by the settlement.

3 By the way, Justice Friedman also said that the time to 4 determine the impact of a settlement is after, that that's a 5 -- that's a post-trial motion, not a pre-trial motion. She 6 already ruled on that. Mr. Feinstein is shaking his head
7 vigorously, but that's true. She actually specifically denied 8 their efforts to do this very thing in her court.

9 And so the -- it's not -- again, we could go down 10 witnesses right now, and I'd like to hear -- if we had to, I'd 11 ask through the Court, well, which witnesses are not going to 12 be available? You know, as you heard -- you said, I think, 13 $61 million, I think -- and by the way, that's pre -- that's 14 before pre-judgment interest, so it's really doubled.
15 Everyone understands that prejudgment interest applies or -- 16 or at least we understand that. And Redeemer -- that's one 17 thing Redeemer agrees with us on. They do not -- we cited 18 what they said in their papers. But there are not witnesses 19 that are going to be different if the measure of damages is in 20 the, you know, tens or a hundred million versus if it's in 21 several hundred million. The fact pattern that supports the 22 breach of implied duty of good faith and fair dealing is 23 similar to the facts that are in support of the fraudulent 24 transfers. It's -- it would be the same length of trial, 25 whether you granted this or not.

1 It's true, I suppose, that if Your Honor, for the first 2 time ever, ruled that our implied duty of good faith and fair 3 dealing claim is wiped away, Your Honor overrules the First 4 Department and the New York Court of Appeals and all those 5 decisions and said that claim is completely gone, actually, 6 even so, we'd still have our fraudulent conveyance claims. So 7 even that wouldn't really affect the length of the trial.

8 I think all of this is just -- again, we laid this out in 9 our papers. We tried to -- we tried -- I know it's -- it's 10 complicated. It's a lot of history here. And there are so 11 many decisions of the First Department. But suffice it to say 12 that after ten years of litigating in New York and after going 13 up to the Court of Appeals at least five times, we got to a 14 point where Justice Friedman had said the next thing that's 15 going to happen is a trial.

16 And by the way, Highland even -- even after the first 17 phase of the trial but before the second case started, they -- 18 they called her up and they said, oh, we have this brand new 19 idea. We want to file another pre-trial motion. And I don't 20 -- you -- there wasn't a tape-recording of it because it was 21 oral conversation, but I could get their lawyers on the phone 22 and I'm sure they would agree: Justice Friedman raised her 23 voice in a way I've never heard her raise her voice in her 24 refusal to go along with more motions. She said no, the next 25 thing that's happening is the trial.

1 And so that's where we left off this case in New York.
2 Highland told you, if you lift the stay, it'll move quickly
3 here. We want to take them at their word. We want to move 4 quickly here. We are ready to just resolve our claim, prior 5 to a vote on the plan confirmation, for the benefit of every 6 creditor.

7 And by the way, I want to say one other thing, Your Honor.
8 You know, I don't want to get so much into the mediation. I'm 9 not going to get anything into the specifics of the mediation.
10 But Mr. Feinstein said -- well, first of all, I'm glad -- I 11 appreciate Mr. Pomerantz affirming that the mediation has not 12 ended. We -- hope springs eternal. We still believe and hope 13 this case can be mediated, settled, and resolved. Okay.

14 Mr. Feinstein threw out the billion dollars. Just let -- 15 suffice -- I'm not going to get into anything on the 16 mediation, but suffice it to say that's not our -- that's not 17 a settlement position. We -- we fully believe this case still 18 could be resolved. And it should be. And we -- and since -- 19 we hope the mediation is open. I'm glad to hear Mr. Pomerantz 20 say it is still open. I think the parties should keep trying 21 at that and seeing where we can go.

22 And, you know, again, there's -- you know, quite frankly, 23 Your Honor, we'd even be creative if we had to and offer 24 something. We'd do binding arbitration with the mediators if 25 that would resolve our claim. We are -- we believe there's 1 efficient ways to resolve this very quickly. But what we 2 object to is having to redo things that we did already in New 3 York. Again, if it's helpful to Your Honor, if we have to do 4 it, of course we'll do it. We just think that Highland should 5 not be allowed to do it, and we, most importantly, not just 6 about the prejudice, but the inefficiency that that will 7 create, as opposed to just getting our claim resolved.

8 THE COURT: All right. A couple of additional 9 questions. And then, of course, I'm going to have several 10 questions for Mr. Feinstein.

11 So, three or four days of trial, you think, if we went to 12 trial in mid-November? Can you tell me how many witnesses you 13 would have on your side of this?

14 MR. CLUBOK: I -- off the top of my head, I -- I 15 would hate to commit to it right here, Your Honor. I could 16 briefly estimate -- you know, we have lots of video 17 depositions, so it -- you know, some of those witnesses are in 18 this jurisdiction, so it kind -- it may depend on whether the 19 parties stipulate that we could play video depositions instead 20 of calling them live. Right? But I think the parties should 21 be able to work together on a fair amount of that.

22 I think that there are -- so, there's a lot of deposition 23 testimony. Okay? In terms of live witnesses, there's 24 probably -- it's a total guess, Your Honor, because I haven't 25 gone back and done this -- I would say four or five that need

1 to be called. But I caveat that by what I would do is -- and 2 by the way, we -- I, you know, we -- obviously, we put in our 3 papers we think the trial should go forward. I understand -- 4 and I don't -- I understand that Mr. Feinstein has a different 5 approach. But if the parties were forced to just sit and talk 6 and try for a couple days to see if we could agree on a 7 witness list, I would hope we could come up with a trial plan 8 that is designed to be a three or four-day trial.

9 THE COURT: All right. Well, again, if you get your 10 wish, we're talking a month from now, or, you know, five weeks 11 from now. And these are pretty big details to work through, 12 given that you all have been litigating eleven years. But you 13 said maybe five live witnesses, but there would be a lot of 14 potential depositions that you would want the Court to either 15 see video played or read the transcripts of. Help me to 16 understand that, because that's -- whether it's you all 17 sitting here or me going back in chambers and reading, it's 18 Court time.

19 MR. CLUBOK: Yeah, I -- Your Honor, so I'm doing this 20 on the fly, but I do think this is the type of thing that the 21 parties should work together and roll up our sleeves on. I 22 would -- I'm just trying to run through the witnesses. I 23 think there is probably -- I mean, they're snippets of video 24 depositions. You know, there's maybe -- there may be ten 25 witnesses for each of whom there's ten minutes of video

1 deposition. Okay? So there's a number of people who have a 2 key aspect of the case that, unless the parties just stipulate
3 to, I guess you would have to see or hear or read. But, you 4 know, we're talking about a number of witnesses that might 5 have ten minutes or so each. So, you know, maybe a couple 6 hours, two to three hours combined of video depositions if you 7 were to watch them.

8 THE COURT: Unless the other side says, you know
9 what, optional completeness, you need to see more. And so --

10 MR. CLUBOK: For sure. For sure. And --

11 THE COURT: -- you're telling me there are ten 12 depositions that I might end up being asked, Look at the whole 13 darn thing if you're looking at part of it.

14 MR. CLUBOK: Oh, I cannot imagine there's any depo --
15 I -- look, I cannot imagine lawyers on any side would ever 16 tell you, Look at the whole deposition. These depositions are 17 -- you know, we did this in the first trial, Your Honor. In 18 the first trial, the parties agreed and we -- we cut these 19 down.

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 MR. CLUBOK: And by the way, Justice Friedman didn't 22 want to watch ten hours of depositions. She said, Cut them 23 down to like a combined thirty minutes each or something, or 24 twenty minutes each. We worked together to really cut them 25 down to just the key stuff. And if you just roll up your 1 sleeves, you can do that.

2 And so I'm -- this is very much off the top of my head. I 3 guess I would like -- I just keep trying to caveat it. If we 4 were required, even for the next day or two, in good faith, to 5 work with Mr. Feinstein and his colleagues, I'll bet you we 6 can come up with a very concise plan. And when we really get 7 into it, okay, Mr. Smith has to testify for twenty minutes and 8 Mr. Johnson and Ms. Smith, you know, if we roll up our sleeves 9 and do that, I know that lawyers of, you know, their caliber 10 can work with us to find a way to do this efficiently.

11 THE COURT: All right. Well, I guess at this point 12 I'm going to turn back to Mr. Feinstein and ask: Basically, 13 I've heard that there's res judicata on the res judicata
14 issue. You're collaterally estopped from arguing res 15 judicata, you know, the state court has already weighed in on 16 this, he says multiple times. So, what is your response to 17 that? And just so you know, I have not pored over the UBS
18 proof of claim and the objections to -- I was going to say I 19 have only a 30,000-foot view. I have better than that, but 20 I'm not, you know, intimately familiar with every argument 21 yet.

22 So, what -- are you asking this Court to review the very 23 same res judicata issue that the state court has already 24 denied?

25 MR. FEINSTEIN: No, Your Honor. And without going

1 decision by decision, I guess our -- our overall view is that 2 Mr. Clubok is exaggerating or mischaracterizing a number of 3 those opinions, and he's going to have the right, in 4 opposition to the partial summary judgment motion, to point to 5 specific rulings that would bar the arguments that we're 6 making. I don't believe they exist.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. CLUBOK: May I respond, Your Honor, to that?

9 THE COURT: Not yet.

10 MR. CLUBOK: Exaggerating?

11 THE COURT: Not yet.

12 MR. CLUBOK: Okay.

13 THE COURT: Not yet. I'm just trying to -- can you 14 elaborate a little, Mr. Feinstein, without, you know, making a 15 one-hour argument? I mean, he says that the judge in New York 16 was ready to go to trial, was absolutely finished with, you 17 know, partial summary judgment requests, and this has 18 absolutely been argued, the issue -- well, of course, there 19 was nuance in the way he said it. He said the -- I think what 20 I heard Mr. Clubok say is he does not disagree that claims 21 that might have arose before February 24, 2009 were barred, 22 but there's this issue of can you put in evidence to show that 23 part of the cause of action for breach of implied duty of good 24 faith was in play before then and the claim didn't actually 25 arise until after?

1 Okay. I'm not sure I said that very clearly.

2 MR. FEINSTEIN: Yes.

3 THE COURT: But --

4 MR. FEINSTEIN: I think I understand the question, 5 though, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Okay. So, please elaborate.

7 MR. FEINSTEIN: If I may. Yes. So there's a
8 difference between the operative facts that would support a 9 cause of action and the evidence that you would seek to 10 introduce to prove the operative facts.

11 Now, what the Appellate Division has made clear more than 12 once is that the operative facts for a cause of action that 13 UBS could bring that wasn't in its original complaint can only 14 have occurred after February of 2009. Right? So the 15 actionable conduct is what the Appellate Division was focused 16 on. If there was earlier actionable conduct, it should have 17 been in their first complaint, but it wasn't.

18 So now the only actionable conduct that Mr. Clubok alleges 19 occurred after February of 2009 were those transfers that form 20 the basis for the fraudulent transfer claims. So he can't -- 21 he is trying to prove a breach of contract liability against 22 the Debtor on account of a contract that was breached prior to 23 February of 2009. That's the plain fact. Right? So you 24 can't get to a billion dollar claim (audio gap) ruling barred 25 that. (garbled) res judicata barring the kind of arguments

1 he's making now, that he can freely go back to 2008 and seize 2 on evidence and say, This is when the cause of action -- these 3 are germane to the causes of action.

4 Again, it is conceivable that there are elements of 5 evidence of things that may have happened prior to that date 6 that might be germane to whether or not there's liability for 7 post-February 2009 operative facts -- coloration, what have 8 you, I don't know -- but he cannot rely on operative facts 9 that occurred prior to that date. And the operative fact that 10 supports a billion dollar judgment is a breach of contract 11 that allegedly occurred in 2008. Right?

12 So that's what we'd want to show. There's a big 13 difference between a billion-dollar contract breach claim for 14 which he's now trying to hold the Debtor liable on a breach of 15 implied covenant theory, that's a 2008 claim, that's barred.
16 That's been well-established. And that all that's left is the 17 fraudulent transfers.

18 Now, one other point, Your Honor, on the impact of the 19 releases. The state court order barred dispositive motions 20 after sometime in 2013. These settlements occurred in 2015.
21 So there was no opportunity for the Debtor to go back in time 22 and make a summary judgment motion based on the impact of 23 those releases because those didn't happen until 2015, after 24 the deadline for dispositive motions in the state court
25 proceeding. And as I understand the record in the state

1 court, what Justice Friedman said when she was asked, Can we 2 deal with the releases now, is, look, we're trying the 3 fraudulent transfer claims in phase two, so I'm not going to 4 adjudicate now the impact of claims that were released until I 5 know if there's fraudulent transfer liability to begin with, 6 which will be determined in phase two.

7 And let me just say, I'm sure Your Honor is going to ask 8 me how much trial time, and so I'm going to give the answer to 9 that, I do want to respond, but at least let me just stop 10 there, having answered the question you --

11 THE COURT: No questions.

12 MR. FEINSTEIN: I would like to address the trial
13 time, because I think three days is simply absurd.

14 THE COURT: Okay. What is your best guess?

15 MR. FEINSTEIN: So, Your Honor, you have to look at 16 the nature of the claims. So, what -- a critical aspect of 17 the fraudulent transfer claims is establishing alter ego 18 liability in HFP. Otherwise, there are no claims.

19 So, alter ego is a notoriously fact-specific evidentiary-20 based claim that it could take some time to prove. Also, 21 fraudulent transfer claims require proof of insolvency. And 22 so parties are going to have expert testimony about insolvency 23 at various points in time. The -- and the underlying 24 transactions we're talking about, the note, the note 25 settlement, these are fairly complicated transactions. So, it

1 really just defies credibility, Your Honor, that that case is 2 -- which is very complex, could be tried by Mr. Clubok in 3 three days, when it took the state court 13 days to try a 4 bench trial on a breach of contract claim.

5 There's a ton of witnesses, expert testimony, complexity
6 to the underlying causes of action. I cannot imagine him 7 completing his own case in three days, let alone -- let alone 8 both parties fully trying and submitting a case like this in 9 24 working hours in the court. I just think it's impossible.
10 That's -- I would imagine -- again, I'm not close enough to 11 the history of the state court, but I know enough about it, 12 Your Honor, to estimate that a trial like this would be weeks.
13 Would be weeks. Several weeks.

14 THE COURT: Okay. And I didn't even ask Mr. Clubok 15 about discovery, if discovery had been completed in the state 16 court or not.

17 MR. CLUBOK: Yes. It had, Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 MR. CLUBOK: With the exception of one limited -- 20 with one small amount of discovery that Highland is producing 21 to us -- I think they said substantial completion by this 22 Thursday. So, they have committed -- there's one category of 23 information, just about the assets of the entities. That 24 information was supposed to be -- they have committed to 25 substantially completing that by this Thursday.

1 So that should be all of the discovery. There's no other 2 discovery that was going to be included in New York.

3 By the way, if I may respond very briefly to four things 4 that Mr. Feinstein said that I think are very important?

5 THE COURT: Very briefly.

6 MR. CLUBOK: I'll be very brief.

7 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

8 MR. CLUBOK: Okay. Number one, I just tried to focus 9 you on this conduct distinction as a conduct matter. I just 10 want to read you this quote from -- I think this was the last 11 appellate court decision, when Highland made this same 12 argument to them. And this is cited on Page 19 of our 13 opposition. This is what the Appellate Division in New York 14 said, quote: Neither our prior decisions nor the doctrine of 15 res judicata bars Plaintiffs from introducing evidence of pre-16 [February] 24, 2009 conduct to the extent necessary to prove, 17 with respect to post-February 24, 2009 conduct, their alter 18 ego, fraudulent conveyance and breach of implied covenant 19 claims.

20 That, in a nutshell, that -- again, I urge you just to 21 read the appellate court's decision denying summary judgment.
22 I'm sorry, affirming Justice Friedman's denial of summary
23 judgment, where Highland said, hey, those past three appellate 24 arguments all mean that we still can't talk about conduct 25 before pre -- February 2009, oh, it's going to kill everything

1 except for fraudulent conveyance and we don't get to -- it 2 doesn't kill -- it would kill the implied covenant. All of 3 that was addressed in the very last appellate decision, with 4 some frustration, as you can see. The Court said, Look at our 5 -- based on our past decisions. I mean, they refer to the 6 past decision. You know, they knew it. They -- this was the 7 fourth time they were dealing with this. And they said, 8 Highland's argument is just wrong.

9 So that's all that needs to be read, I believe, as opposed 10 to a full briefing. But, again, if you want us to brief, we 11 will.

12 The other thing is, in terms of the summary judgment, 13 summary judgment was argued after the settlement. In fact, 14 the settlement -- the summary judgment was delayed repeatedly 15 and repeatedly while we were having settlement discussions.
16 Mr. Feinstein, I am certain, is just wrong about his 17 chronology, but summary judgment was definitely argued after 18 the settlement, not before. He -- he just said that. He was 19 just inaccurate.

20 Third, and very importantly, in terms of the time it would 21 take, Your Honor, we won a preliminary injunction in which we 22 showed alter ego and fraudulent transfer, we won it in about a 23 three-hour argument, because the evidence was -- which we 24 showed a substantial likelihood of success. We actually had 25 an injunction years ago in this case. You know, under the 1 preliminary injunction standard, so it's substantial 2 likelihood of success and irreparable injury. But we were 3 able to meet the substantial likelihood of success in about 4 three hours, because solvency has been admitted by Highland.

5 It's been admitted by half a dozen of their employees. It's 6 in a letter -- it's -- their board of directors. Insolvency, 7 I understand they're fighting it and they said they were going 8 to fight it in court, but as we showed in the summary judgment 9 there and as we showed in our preliminary injunction victory, 10 it won't take -- I don't think it will take more than a few 11 hours for you to say, call the fight, I can see they're 12 insolvent. It's in black and white. There's the letters.
13 There's statements to the board of directors. Insolvency was 14 not an issue of any great merit. Certainly, not one that's 15 going to take very long to prove.

16 The other one that he said was very fact-specific. Oh, 17 alter ego. The other one. We also proved alter ego at the 18 preliminary injunction stage because the facts are just 19 overwhelming on the alter ego claim. And it's an alter ego 20 claim that is properly pled.

21 You know, there are -- again, I know we've thrown a lot at 22 you, but there are at least three live claims remaining at the 23 appellate court now.

24 THE COURT: What -- what --

25 MR. CLUBOK: We have an alter ego --

1 THE COURT: Can I stop you? What --

2 MR. CLUBOK: Yes.

3 THE COURT: What law did you argue/are you arguing --

4 MR. CLUBOK: We are --

5 THE COURT: -- on alter ego?

6 MR. CLUBOK: In alter ego, we argued it under both 7 Texas law and New York law. And under either standard, it was 8 -- it was -- it was the same -- essentially the same facts, so 9 we, to be safe, we argued under -- there's slightly different 10 wordings of the tests, I believe, but it's essentially the 11 same facts, which I'm sure Your Honor is very familiar with, 12 and we argued under those -- under those same tests. We all 13 -- there wasn't an issue about the law or about what the facts
14 -- had -- the -- not -- there was a seven-factor test, I 15 believe, or a nine-factor test.

16 THE COURT: For alter ego? Because --

17 MR. CLUBOK: Yes, Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: -- the Texas statute is -- it's reined it 19 in. You know, that's why I asked what law, because, you know, 20 it's not the old-fashioned, what was it, Castleberry, the 21 famous Texas Supreme Court case. It's changed hugely in the 22 past --

23 MR. CLUBOK: Yes. I think the parties --

24 THE COURT: -- 20 years. It's a tougher road.

25 MR. CLUBOK: Right.

1 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

2 MR. CLUBOK: The parties have agreed that -- the 3 parties had agreed under standard of law, I believe we all 4 agreed New York applied, but belt-and-suspenders, I believe we 5 agreed Texas law. But it didn't come down to a fight over the 6 law. It just came down to the facts.

7 THE COURT: Okay.

8 MR. CLUBOK: It was a multipart test, and -- and Your 9 Honor, again, we were able to show it in a preliminary 10 injunction hearing that was -- that went up to the appellate 11 court as well. You know, went up with a TRO pending appeal.
12 So I -- it gets complicated, but suffice it to say at summary 13 judgment we did the same thing. We went through our -- we 14 went through our alter ego arguments at summary judgment in 15 maybe 45 minutes. And so that's -- a summary judgment 16 proceeding, a lot faster than a trial would be.

17 But it's -- you know, there's multiple Highland witnesses 18 who made damning admissions, including their own expert -- I'm 19 sorry about saying that -- made, you know, troubling 20 admissions, I would say, for Highland. And, you know, again, 21 that, in a vacuum, Mr. Feinstein wants to get up there and 22 just tell you it's going to be two weeks, three weeks, four 23 weeks.

24 If we sit down and go through the witnesses, I mean, we 25 can agree to a shot clock. A chess clock, I mean, Your Honor.

1 We can do this in a way that -- you know, Mr. Feinstein and 2 his colleagues told you, if you just keep the stay in place 3 and we come here, this will all be done quickly. We are -- we 4 are willing to accept that. Okay? For the sake of 5 efficiency, for the sake of getting our claim adjudicated 6 prior to the confirmation hearing. As I said before, we would 7 do it as a binding arbitration --

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 MR. CLUBOK: -- with the mediators you put in. We 10 would do it any way possible that's very quick, so that we 11 don't -- so we have a fair shot, we don't have to relitigate 12 issues which we don't think we should be put to relitigating, 13 particularly the clear language of the Appellate Division.
14 Given that this case was all set for trial and there was no 15 other summary judgment proceedings or opportunities and 16 Justice Friedman had shut them down when they tried to do this 17 very same thing in front of her, we hoped that you'd pick up 18 where she left off and we just get this claim adjudicated.

19 THE COURT: All right.

20 MR. FEINSTEIN: Your Honor, can I speak for one 21 minute? Just one minute, please?

22 THE COURT: Okay. And I'm just letting you know that 23 one thing I've been kind of monitoring today is I have a 24 matter that is set for trial docket call November 9th.
25 Meaning, you know, normally, we set for trial something the

1 following week. So my courtroom deputy has been communicating 2 with these parties that were set for trial docket call 3 November 9th, and they say yes, they are trial-ready, and they 4 need seven or eight days of trial. And these are people who 5 are earlier in the queue than you all.

6 So I'm just letting you know, me being able to do a three 7 or four-day trial in mid-November just went out the window.
8 You know, they're much earlier in the queue than you all, at 9 least.

10 MR. CLUBOK: Understood, Your Honor. Frankly, --

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 MR. CLUBOK: And, frankly, even if -- if the 13 confirmation hearing has to be pushed back a week or two, just 14 for efficiency's sake, if that would help, obviously, we would 15 try this November 16th or the first week in December, whenever 16 -- even if it has to be November 2nd, frankly. If you say 17 that's when you have to try it, we'll try it then.

18 THE COURT: I actually have another trial set the 19 first week of November, but I think they may --

20 MR. CLUBOK: Understood.

21 THE COURT: They may want to continue. I'm waiting 22 to hear on that one as well.

23 All right. So, Mr. Feinstein, --

24 MR. CLUBOK: But by the way, I'm --

25 THE COURT: Yes, I --

1 MR. CLUBOK: I'm so sorry, but can I correct
2 something that I said, Your Honor?

3 THE COURT: Yes, if you're going to correct.

4 MR. CLUBOK: May I correct something that I said
5 earlier?

6 THE COURT: What do you want to correct?

7 MR. CLUBOK: I just -- my colleague, thankfully, Ms.
8 Tomkowiak, just reminded me that we -- the parties did agree 9 that the alter ego that applied here was New York law. And so 10 it was -- it was just two basic elements, but there's a number 11 of factors, and that's what the parties had -- we all had 12 agreed to throughout the course of the proceedings, and 13 certainly the arguments that were used.

14 There was a lot of different laws or -- I'm sorry, a lot 15 of different legal standards, and I just forget right now 16 exactly which ones.

17 THE COURT: Yes.

18 MR. CLUBOK: But my colleagues are showing New York
19 law applied.

20 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I, you know, I don't know if 21 there's any dispute about that, but we have, like I said, a 22 statute in Texas that --

23 MR. CLUBOK: Yeah, maybe --

24 THE COURT: -- is really --

25 MR. CLUBOK: Yeah.

1 THE COURT: -- narrowly defined. Well, in some 2 contexts.

3 MR. CLUBOK: Yeah.

4 THE COURT: But, anyway, an issue maybe for another 5 day.

6 All right. Mr. Feinstein, I think --

7 MR. FEINSTEIN: Thank you, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: I'm going to get -- this is the last 9 round. What would you like to say?

10 MR. FEINSTEIN: Yes. Just very quickly, Your Honor.

11 Mr. Clubok said more than once that there were findings of 12 substantial likelihood of success to support a preliminary 13 injunction. I read the record myself. That's just not true.

14 Second, he said the Debtors asked Your Honor to keep the 15 case here and we would move it quickly. And we intend to do 16 so. What we also said when we made that request, Your Honor, 17 is that we would do exactly what we're doing today, which is 18 proposed to make a partial summary judgment motion on key 19 dispositive issues. We didn't say that we were going to try 20 the case in bankruptcy after it stayed here.

21 And Mr. Clubok cleverly conflated something the Debtor 22 said before it filed for bankruptcy, around the time of the 23 end of the phase one trial, that the Debtor would be ready in 24 June for trial. That was before the Debtor filed for 25 bankruptcy, and obviously the Debtor has got a lot on its

1 hands being in bankruptcy. So that June date was certainly 2 overtaken by many, many events.

3 But to come back to the main point, Your Honor, we think 4 -- we promised you we'd make a summary judgment motion. We 5 think that's the best course. Mr. Clubok can make all of his 6 arguments about what -- the meaning of those state court
7 decisions in opposition papers. We think this is the best way
8 to advance the case, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: All right.

10 MS. MASCHERIN: Your Honor?

11 THE COURT: Yes?

12 MS. MASCHERIN: Excuse me, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: Yes, Ms. --

14 MS. MASCHERIN: Would you entertain just a brief 15 comment from me?

16 THE COURT: Yes. I said it was the last round, but 17 you only spoke once today, and very briefly, so go ahead.

18 MS. MASCHERIN: And I will try to be brief again,
19 Your Honor.

20 First of all, my client -- and I'm, for purposes of this 21 objection, I'm representing both the Crusader Fund, which is a 22 party to that settlement agreement, and the Redeemer
23 Committee. My client is a party to the release. My client 24 was not a party at the time summary judgment was being argued 25 in New York. I've not eaten this apple, Your Honor. I'd like

1 to take a bite.

2 Whatever -- obviously, you are the -- you're the queen of 3 your docket and you will decide what you think is the wisest 4 way to approach this, but I would just ask that Crusader and 5 the Redeemer Committee be given an opportunity to be heard on 6 these two legal issues, the release and res judicata.

7 Second, with regard to res judicata, I've just been 8 listening to the argument, and I think that, really, the 9 salient point for Your Honor to focus on with regard to res 10 judicata is what are the damages claims that are still in 11 play, given the Court's ruling on res judicata, that only -- 12 the only conduct that can be actionable is conduct that 13 occurred after February 24 of '09? And I would submit, Your 14 Honor, that the record ultimately will show that whether -- 15 whether we call it damages for breach of implied covenant of 16 good faith and fair dealing or damages from fraudulent 17 transfers, the damages that arose post-February 24, '09 are 18 the fraudulent transfer, you know, the values of the 19 fraudulent transfers.

20 So, I think -- I think I've been hearing folks sort of 21 talking past each other to a little bit, to a little extent, 22 but I think that those are -- from our perspective, those are 23 the two key legal issues that will have a material effect on 24 the maximum size of the claim here. And we just, however Your 25 Honor determines you'd prefer to hear the issues, we would

1 just request the opportunity to be heard.

2 THE COURT: All right. Here's what I'm going to do.
3 I am going to issue a scheduling order along the lines of what 4 the Debtor has proposed, so that there will be a deadline of 5 October 16th for any motions for partial summary judgment.
6 Oppositions will be due November 6th. You did not mention 7 replies, Mr. Feinstein.

8 MR. FEINSTEIN: Sorry, Your Honor. I think -- I 9 mentioned -- or, yeah, just November 16th, in advance of the 10 November 19th or 20th hearing.

11 THE COURT: Okay. November 16th for replies.

12 I'm also going to argue that, if UBS wants to file a 3018 13 motion to have its claim estimated for voting purposes, that 14 we'll use this very same time frame, October 16th for such a 15 motion, and then responses will be due November 6th, and 16 replies to that for November 16th.

17 I think, you know, Mr. Clubok, I mean, we have to give 18 this a shot. I understand you very passionately believe and 19 argue that there's res judicata on the res judicata. That's 20 my interpretation of what you're saying. But, you know, you 21 can lay that all out very clearly in your response to the 22 motions for summary judgment: Here, Judge, look at this, 23 this, this, and this. Collateral estoppel, already decided.
24 Or, you know, or whatever estoppel doctrine. And we'll see if 25 we get where the Debtor thinks we're going to get or not prior

1 to confirmation.

2 Now, --

3 MR. CLUBOK: Your --

4 THE COURT: -- let me ask you this. Well, here's 5 what I'll do. I'll set this Friday, November 20th, at 9:30.
6 I'm making my own life kind of uncomfortable doing that, with 7 this allegedly six or seven-day trial I'm going to have in the 8 middle of November. But, you know, hopefully you won't give 9 me each a stack of 500 pages.

10 But maybe you will. I mean, just be honest. Is your 11 summary judgment evidence going to be a stack of 500 pages, 12 Mr. Feinstein?

13 MR. FEINSTEIN: I don't think so, Your Honor, no.

14 THE COURT: Okay. All right.

15 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, if I may? The only thing I 16 would ask is it is extremely prejudicial to us to have to file 17 a 3018 next Friday, simply because, you know, we -- you know, 18 that very much merges with what we would be presenting at a 19 trial, in terms of being able to really bolster our claim. I 20 know that it's truncated. I know that we don't have to put as 21 much in, you know, et cetera, but we sort of will get faced 22 with the choice of either watering down our evidence and not 23 showing you, you know, giving you enough so that you can 24 sufficiently value our claim in the context of 3018, or having 25 to do that all by next Friday. And so much of what we're 1 going to say is going to overlap with our opposition to their 2 summary judgment motion, I believe.

3 It would be much more efficient, if it's acceptable, for 4 us to file that -- our motion for 3018 concurrent with our 5 opposition to --

6 THE COURT: November 6th?

7 MR. CLUBOK: -- summary judgment.

8 THE COURT: November 6th? What do you --

9 MR. CLUBOK: Okay.

10 THE COURT: What do you say about that, Mr.
11 Feinstein?

12 MR. FEINSTEIN: It's less than ideal, Your Honor, but 13 we'll work with it. It's -- I mean, to hear Mr. Clubok say 14 he's unprepared to do this, but also say he's trial-ready in 15 three weeks is a little surprising.

16 It would be better if we could do these on parallel 17 tracks, because we have a certain amount of personnel that are 18 going to be working on the various papers, so this seemed -- 19 what we proposed we thought kind of synchronized the parties' 20 activities as well, so that, you know, while one party is 21 making a motion, the other party is working on oppositions.
22 It just it seemed more efficient that way.

23 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, this is Jeff Pomerantz.
24 I might add that we have our disclosure statement motion on 25 calendar for October 22nd, which we filed two to three weeks

1 ago. Or two weeks ago. And that said that 3018 motions -- 2 and Your Honor hasn't approved it -- but had to be heard by 3 November 20th.

4 So, Mr. Clubok was on notice. Of course, he has the 5 opportunity to object, and he could object by the objection 6 deadline, but this isn't something new we sprung upon him 7 yesterday.

8 THE COURT: Okay. Well, you know, this time frame 9 works rather nicely, actually, if I'm setting this for 10 November 20th at 9:30 in the morning.

11 Does your proposed order talk about when the motion to 12 estimate must be filed, or only the date by which it must be 13 heard?

14 MR. POMERANTZ: It says that -- when it must be 15 heard, --

16 THE COURT: Okay.

17 MR. POMERANTZ: -- I believe, Your Honor. But it 18 didn't contemplate an emergency setting. And if you look at 19 the calendar, in order to timely file it, it would have to be 20 filed by this date.

21 So, again, it should not come as any surprise. And I 22 think we need the sufficient time that we would have to file 23 the opposition.

24 So, I would concur with Mr. Feinstein's comments, that we 25 would like it filed on the same time frame. We think it's 1 fair.

2 THE COURT: All right.

3 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, I liked Mr. Feinstein's 4 initial reaction better.

5 THE COURT: I'm sorry?

6 MR. CLUBOK: You know, if -- go ahead.

7 THE COURT: Well, I mean, I'm just thinking through.
8 In a more normal scenario, the way this would play out is 9 usually we don't have 3018 motion, response, and then reply.
10 So, on the other hand, if he had envisioned November 20th, 11 that kind of envisioned you would file a 3018 motion, you 12 know, around October 30th. But it's silly to inject yet 13 another deadline.

14 I'm going to go with your proposal, Mr. Clubok. And your 15 3018 motion is going to be due November 6th, the same day as 16 your opposition. And any objection to the 3018 motion of 17 either the Debtor or Redeemer is going to be due November 18 16th. So we're compressing those a little, but that's what 19 we're going to do.

20 MR. CLUBOK: Thank you, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: So, any questions? Mr. Feinstein, I 22 would like sort of a mini-scheduling order to be submitted, 23 setting those forth.

24 MR. FEINSTEIN: Sure.

25 THE COURT: And any other housekeeping matters you

1 can think of?

2 MR. FEINSTEIN: We'll prepare a form of order, Your 3 Honor, and circulate it to Mr. Clubok.

4 THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to say it again, even if 5 it's wasted breath. I am urging you, pleading with you, to 6 give another shot at settlement.

7 I'm a little confused, Mr. Clubok, because in your urgency
8 to have this go to trial sooner rather than later, I think I 9 heard you said we might even agree to binding arbitration.
10 Well, I've just sent you to mediation with people who are very 11 respected arbitrators as well, and I don't -- you know, I'm 12 like, why would that be successful if weeks of trying to 13 settle this with two arbitrators/mediators hasn't proven 14 fruitful?

15 MR. CLUBOK: My only point is if we want to make -- 16 give them the decision-making authority, to take the parties 17 out of it, I'm happy to -- I'm happy to turn the decision over 18 to them and make it a binding mediation instead of a 19 mediation.

20 I do think the mediators you chose are terrific. I think 21 they can settle this case. I think the parties should work 22 with them, and I think we should be able to. And my only 23 point was, if the parties can't do it, we'd be fine letting 24 the mediators become binding mediators or binding arbitration 25 and letting them just make the decision.

1 We trust the mediators. And we trust their ability to get 2 this settled. But if whoever, you know, can't get it done, 3 neither party is to blame, without getting into it, we're fine 4 letting the mediators be binding mediators.

5 THE COURT: Well, --

6 MR. CLUBOK: We do agree that it can be settled. It 7 should be settled.

8 You know, you were told -- you keep being told this 9 billion dollars, as if that's the gulf. I'm not going to get 10 into the details, of course, because it's mediation, but I 11 feel it's safe for me to respond to that. That is not the 12 gulf here. And the parties should be able to resolve this in 13 a reasonable amount.

14 And the mediators you chose are terrific. We trust them.
15 We think if we keep working -- I was glad to hear Mr.
16 Pomerantz say they have not declared mediation over. We 17 think we should keep working with them and see if we can get 18 it done. And if we can't, either we -- either we'd like a 19 fast trial or we'd take binding mediation or binding 20 arbitration, whatever you want to call it. We believe this 21 matter can be resolved by reasonable people.

22 THE COURT: All right. Well, I mean, I hope 23 everyone is keeping in the forefront of their mind that there 24 are other parties caught in the crosshairs here. I mean, 25 before the bankruptcy, Highland, UBS, I can understand in 1 that scenario people get very entrenched in their positions.

2 One billion-dollar gulf, as you say.

3 But we have Ms. Mascherin's client, who has been 4 litigating or did litigate with Highland probably before you 5 even started, UBS. I can't remember the timing. Around the 6 same time, right? Around the same time? Wasn't it after the 7 2008 great recession that -- so, but my point is, we've got a 8 party out there with a $200 million-plus, I can't remember, 9 arbitration award, compromised. You know, we have Acis out 10 there that, you know, had a 34-count adversary proceeding in 11 my Court that felt very passionate about their claims. And 12 we've got others.

13 So, you know, this is one of the obvious reasons I am 14 urging you all to go back to the table, go back to the 15 mediators. It's not just about UBS. It's not just about 16 Highland. And we're marching forward with confirmation 17 because it's not just about these two parties. It's about 18 other people who have been trying for a very long time to get 19 paid on their claims.

20 And so please keep that in mind in settlement discussions, 21 you know, that your --

22 MR. CLUBOK: Absolutely.

23 THE COURT: -- your respective clients understand 24 it's not just about them. Okay?

25 MR. CLUBOK: We wholeheartedly agree with that, and 1 we understand that completely.

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, I have one comment on the 4 Rule 3018 scheduling order that we are to prepare. You did 5 not motion a reply. We take that, since the scheduling is 6 going to be truncated, to be purposeful and intentional and 7 that you're expecting to rule on the papers on the motion and 8 the opposition, so that we don't have anyone scurrying and 9 getting a reply the night before the hearing.

10 THE COURT: That's correct.

11 MR. POMERANTZ: I just wanted to make sure that was 12 clear.

13 THE COURT: That's what I meant, --

14 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: -- if I was not clear.

16 All right. Is there any other business in this bankruptcy 17 case that you wanted to bring up? I think I've set a hearing 18 again this week on Thursday on a Committee motion to extend 19 their deadline to bring an adversary against CLO Holdco. I 20 think that's set later this week. But any other case business 21 that you want to bring up at this time?

22 MR. POMERANTZ: Nothing from the Debtor, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: Okay. I'll open it up to the floor, 24 since I know we have others listening in. Committee, or 25 anyone else out there, have anything they want to raise before

1 we conclude?

2 MR. CLEMENTE: Matt Clemente on behalf of the 3 Committee. You're correct. I believe there's been a 4 scheduling for Thursday. But there's nothing else, nothing 5 else we wish to raise, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Okay. It would be very lovely if that 7 could be an agreed order, but I don't know how hopeful you are 8 on that.

9 MR. POMERANTZ: I would hope that it could be, Your 10 Honor, since it's just a set of dates. So, I would hope we 11 and Mr. Clubok could at least agree on that.

12 THE COURT: Okay. Well, but Mr. Clemente, on your -- 13 I cannot remember what the current deadline is, and are you in 14 discussions with CLO Holdco on maybe mutually agreeing to this 15 extension?

16 MR. CLEMENTE: This is Matt Clemente. And my partner 17 has been handling it primarily, but it is safe to say that we 18 have been discussing the extension with CLO Holdco. We have 19 not come to agreement with them. That does not mean we won't 20 continue to discuss it with them before Thursday.

21 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. All right. Well, if 22 there's nothing else, I'll look for the form of order on 23 today's matter, and see you Thursday. Okay. Thank you.

24 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

25 MR. CLUBOK: Thank you, Your Honor.

1 MR. CLEMENTE: Thank you, Your Honor.

¹ The Debtor's last four digits of its taxpayer identification number are (6725). The headquarters and service address for the above-captioned Debtor is 300 Crescent Court, Suite 700, Dallas, TX 75201.

The above-captioned debtor and debtor in possession (the “Debtor”) hereby submits this reply (the “Reply”) in support of its Motion for Entry of an Order Approving Settlement with (A) Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management GP LLC (Claim No. 23), (B) Joshua N. Terry and Jennifer G. Terry (Claim No. 156), and (C) Acis Capital Management, L.P. (Claim No. 159), and Authorizing Actions Consistent Therewith [Docket No. 1087] (the “Motion”).² In further support of the Motion, the Debtor respectfully states as follows:

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. The settlement embodied in the Motion provides for the resolution of the highly-contested litigation between Acis and the Debtor – litigation that has been ongoing for years in both the Debtor’s and Acis’s bankruptcies. The settlement also resolves the majority of the satellite litigation between the parties that has impeded the resolution of not just the Debtor’s bankruptcy case but also the consummation of Acis’s bankruptcy proceeding. Specifically, the Motion provides for, among other things:

- the settlement of Acis’s 34-count proof of claim asserting damages ranging from $75 million to over $200 million;
- the resolution of Acis’s claim against the Debtor related to an ancillary lawsuit brought against the Debtor and a CLO managed by Acis;
- the release of all of Acis’s claims against the Debtor’s employees and the resolution of Acis’s lawsuits against those employees – lawsuits which have distracted the Debtor from its primary goal of confirming a plan of reorganization;
- the withdrawal of the Debtor’s pending proof of claim and suit for administrative expense in Acis’s bankruptcy;
- to the extent controlled by the Debtor, the cessation of the relentless appeals seeking to overturn the resolution of Acis’s bankruptcy case; and ² All capitalized terms used but not defined herein have the meanings given to them in the Motion.

- the settlement of Mr. and Mrs. Terry's proof of claim against the Debtor for misappropriating their retirement account, defamation, and breach of contract.

2. The Motion and the settlement represent the resolution of a major piece of litigation against the Debtor's estate and help pave the way for the confirmation of a plan of reorganization that would see the Debtor exit bankruptcy. None of the major parties in interest or creditors in this case has objected to the Motion. The Committee has not objected; the Redeemer Committee has not objected; and UBS has not objected.

3. In distinction, the only objecting parties are James Dondero and Patrick Daugherty, who between themselves have been engaged in many years of highly contentious litigation. Mr. Dondero has stated his intent never to settle with Acis or Josh Terry and expressed that intent – directly and by proxy – through years of acrimonious litigation. Examples of Mr. Dondero's litigiousness are legion, and this Court is well aware of them. Since the appointment of the independent directors in January 2020, the Debtor has attempted to distance itself from the litigation surrounding Acis and the Motion represents the Debtor's success in doing so. Mr. Daugherty, in turn, is a former employee of the Debtor, who has expressed his personal distaste for Mr. Terry. Mr. Daugherty has been engaged in contentious litigation with Highland, Mr. Dondero, and others for over eight years. Both Mr. Dondero's and Mr. Daugherty's efforts should be rebuffed, and the Objections overruled.

4. Three other parties – CLO Holdco, Ltd. ("CLOH"), Highland CLO Funding, Ltd. ("HCLOF"), and the HarbourVest Entities³ – filed reservations of rights seeking clarification of certain provisions of the Settlement Agreement and Release.

5. The following is a brief summary of the objections and reservations of rights each of which is discussed in greater detail below.

Pleading	Objection/Reservation	Response
Objection of James Dondero [Docket No. 1121] (the “ Dondero Objection ”)	The settlement is not fair and equitable because (1) the Debtor would succeed in its litigation with Acis, (2) the litigation can be summarily adjudicated, and (3) at little cost to the estate.	Mr. Dondero ignores the dangers of the litigation and overestimates the ability to summarily resolve the litigation.
Objection of Patrick Hagaman Daugherty [Docket No. 1201] (the “ Daugherty Objection ” and together with the Dondero Objection, the “ Objections ”).	Mr. Daugherty joined the Dondero Objection.	See above.
	Certain “Cash Payments” violate 11 U.S.C. §§ 1123(a)(4) and 1129.	Mr. Daugherty misinterprets the case law and the Cash Payments should be allowed as a necessary part of the settlement.
	The releases are premature because Acis did not withdraw as the portfolio manager of the “fund” when HCLOF refused to reset transactions.	The Release does not release HCLOF’s claims against Acis or vice versa.
CLO HoldCo, Ltd’s Reservation of Rights [Docket No. 1177] (the “ CLOH Reservation ”)	Any transfer of Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd., (“ HHCF ”) to Acis would violate the Debtor’s fiduciary duties.	The interests in HHCF are not being transferred.
Highland CLO Funding, Ltd’s Reservation of Rights [Docket No. 1191] (“ HCLOF Reservation ”);	Any transfer of HHCF to Acis would violate the Debtor’s fiduciary duties.	The interests in HHCF are not being transferred.
	The Release cannot cause the dismissal of HCLOF’s appeal of the Acis bankruptcy.	The Release does not cause the dismissal of HCLOF’s appeal of the Acis bankruptcy.
HarbourVest Limited Objection and Reservation of Rights [Docket No. 1195] (“ HV Reservation ” and together with the CLOH Reservation and the HCLOF Reservation, the “ Reservations ”)	The Release cannot release HarbourVest’s claims.	The Release does not release HarbourVest’s claims.
	Any transfer of HHCF to Acis would violate the Debtor’s fiduciary duties.	The interests in HHCF are not being transferred.

Because the Reservations raise similar issues, they are discussed first.

REPLY

The Reservations

6. Highland HCF Advisors, Ltd. Each of the Reservations purports to reserve the right to object to the transfer of the Debtor’s direct and indirect rights in HHCF to Acis. Leaving aside the effectiveness of a reservation of the right to collaterally attack an order of this Court, the Settlement Agreement states that such transfer will only occur if the Debtor

“receives written advice of nationally recognized external counsel that it is legally permissible consistent with HCMLP’s contractual and legal duties.” (Settlement Agmt., § 1(c).) The Debtor has received advice of counsel with respect to HHCF and will not be transferring its direct and indirect interests in HHCF pursuant to the Settlement Agreement.

7. HCLOF Reservation. HCLOF reserved its rights in the event the Release causes the dismissal of HCLOF’s appeal with respect to the Acis bankruptcy. HCLOF points to two provisions in the Release: Section 2 and Section 1(d). Section 2 of the Release provides that the “HCMLP Released Party, to the extent applicable, will coordinate [with Acis] to cause the Filed Cases, including any appeals of any Filed Cases, to be dismissed with prejudice. . . .” (Release, § 2.) HCLOF is expressly carved out of the definition of HCMLP Released Party, and Section 2 of the Release does not apply to HCLOF. As such, the Release is not intended to and does not cause HCLOF to release any appeals or any other suits against Acis.

8. The Release also provides for the release of certain Debtor employees – the HCMLP Specified Parties – if those employees execute the Release and refrain from certain actions, including actions adverse to Acis and Mr. and Mrs. Terry. It is unclear from the HCLOF Reservation, but it seems HCLOF is objecting to the release of the HCMLP Specified Parties if it impacts their ability take any “action that impairs the settlement.” The HCMLP Specified Parties, however, are autonomous individuals who are entitled to exercise their own discretion as to whether to sign the Release and whether to assist HCLOF against Acis. For the record, each HCMLP Specified Party has signed the Release but has directed the Debtor to hold their signatures in escrow pending this Court’s ruling on the Motion.

9. HV Reservation. Similar to HCLOF, HarbourVest has reserved its rights to the extent that the Release releases any of HarbourVest's claims. HarbourVest reads the Release as releasing its claims because HarbourVest is an investor in HCLOF and HCLOF is managed by HHCF, a subsidiary of the Debtor. As an initial matter, HHCF's authority as HCLOF's portfolio manager is limited and does not extend to the management of litigation, including HCLOF's litigation with Acis.⁴ Further, HCLOF is expressly carved out of the definition of HCMLP Released Parties, and HCLOF's members, including HarbourVest, are not releasing any claims under the Release and conversely, Acis is not releasing any claims against HarbourVest either. As such, the Release was not intended to, and does not, extend to HCLOF or HarbourVest as a member of HCLOF through HHCF's "management" of HCLOF.

I. Dondero Objection and Daugherty Joinder.

10. As discussed in the Motion, under applicable Fifth Circuit precedent, a bankruptcy court may approve a compromise or settlement as long as the proposed settlement is fair, reasonable, and in the best interest of the estate. See, e.g., In re Age Ref. Inc., 801 F.3d 530, 540 (5th Cir. 2015). In making this determination, courts look to the following factors:

- probability of success in the litigation, with due consideration for the uncertainty of law and fact;
- complexity and likely duration of the litigation and any attendant expense, inconvenience and delay; and
- all other factors bearing on the wisdom of the compromise, including (i) "the paramount interest of creditors with proper deference to their reasonable views."

Official Comm. of Unsecured Creditors v. Cajun Elec. Power Coop. (In re Cajun Elec. Power

⁴ On August 13, 2020, HCLOF's counsel contacted the Debtor to clarify that the "[HCLOF portfolio management agreement] does not provide authority to [HHCF] to take positions on behalf of [HCLOF] in any pending litigation, or to bind [HCLOF] to any decisions or results of litigation in which [HHCF], or its sub-advisors, including [the Debtor], engages." A true and accurate copy of the letter received from HCLOF's counsel is attached hereto as Exhibit A.

Coop.), 119 F.3d 349, 356 (5th Cir. 1997) (citations omitted).

11. In the Dondero Objection, Mr. Dondero focuses on the first two factors – the probability of success in the litigation and its attendant cost and delay and criticizes the Debtor’s settlement as ignoring the Debtor’s ability to succeed in its litigation against Acis and the summary nature of such litigation. (Dondero Obj., ¶¶ 28-32.) Mr. Dondero, however, only summarily addresses each of these issues. He does not state why he believes the Debtor would be successful in its litigation against Acis in this Court or in any subsequent appeals. Mr. Dondero also only makes a bare assertion that Acis’s claim can be resolved in an expeditious fashion because of this Court’s familiarity with the matter. As this Court is aware, the litigation with Acis has been pending for years with no resolution, and there is no indication that summary adjudication is available in this Court (or that any appeals would be expeditiously resolved).

12. Instead, Mr. Dondero seeks to support this view, and assist the Court in adjudicating the merits of the settlement, by providing the expert testimony of Nancy Rapoport. However, assuming Professor Rapoport’s testimony is allowed, it is not anticipated to support Mr. Dondero’s position. Instead, Professor Rapoport is expected to testify that Acis’s claim could have significant value and that it might not be worthwhile for Acis to settle with the Debtor depending on how this Court rules.

13. Finally, Mr. Dondero does not address – at all – the third factor analyzed by the Fifth Circuit: all other factors bearing on the wisdom of the compromise, including (i) “the paramount interest of creditors with proper deference to their reasonable views.” This is telling, first, because, no major creditor or party in interest has objected to the settlement.⁵ Mr. Dondero's preference for constant litigation should not outweigh the preference of the Debtor and its creditors for a reasonable and expeditious settlement of Acis's claims, especially when that settlement paves the way for the Debtor exiting bankruptcy.

14. Second, Mr. Dondero ignores the other benefits from this settlement. In addition to resolving costly and time-consuming litigation, the settlement releases the Debtor's employees from any claims that Acis or Mr. Terry may have against them and dismisses the actions that Acis has already filed. This frees the Debtor's employees to do what they are paid to do: maximize the Debtor's value for the benefit of its estate. Further, and although not directly beneficial to the Debtor, the Motion functionally resolves Acis's bankruptcy as it provides for the withdrawal or dismissal of the Debtor's claims against Acis's estate. In other words, the settlement allows Acis and the Debtor to sever ties and to move on with their lives. That is no small feat and should not be discounted.

II. Daugherty Objection.

15. In addition to joining the Dondero Objection, Mr. Daugherty objected to the Motion on two separate grounds. The first is that, because the Settlement Agreement provides

⁵ In the Dondero Objection, Mr. Dondero asserts that he is a creditor of the Debtor because he filed proof of claim number 138. Mr. Dondero, however, is a creditor in only the most technical sense. His proof of claim is for approximately $100,000.00 against a total claims pool of billions of dollars. Subsequent to the filing of the Dondero Objection, the Debtor objected to Mr. Dondero's claim and believes that it should be disallowed. See Debtor's Second Omnibus Objection to Certain (A) Claims to Be Reclassified and (B) No Liability Claims [Docket No. 1179]. Mr. Dondero's partnership interest in the Debtor is also de minimus, representing approximately 0.2508% of the total interests in the Debtor. These interests may also be worthless depending on the resolution of the claims against the Debtor.

The Debtor has objected to Mr. Daugherty's proof of claim. See Debtor's (i) Objection to Claim No. 77 of Patrick Hagaman Daugherty and (ii) Complaint to Subordinate Claim of Patrick Hagaman Daugherty [Docket No. 1008]. The Debtor believes Mr. Daugherty's claim should be allowed in the amount of $3,722,019 and otherwise disallowed or subordinated in its entirety.

for the payment of certain claims in cash on the effective date of the plan, it is not “fair and equitable” because “general unsecured claims [cannot be paid] other than under a plan.” (Daugherty Obj., ¶ 10.) The second is that the releases are “premature” and should be deferred until after “there is a final resolution to the litigation with HarbourVest.” (Id., ¶ 13.)

a. Violation of 11 U.S.C. §§ 1123 and 1129

16. To support its first objection, Mr. Daugherty cites to two cases neither of which stand for the proposition that a settlement under Rule 9019 cannot provide for payment of claims outside of a plan. Specifically, Mr. Daugherty cites In re CoServ, L.L.C., 273 B.R. 487 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2002). CoServ, however, addresses whether a court can order the payment of prepetition amounts owed to “critical vendors” under the “Doctrine of Necessity” and 11 U.S.C. § 105. Id., 279 B.R. at 491. The Motion is obviously not seeking payment of critical vendor claims. CoServ is, thus, inapposite. It is also contrary to the law of this case. The Debtor in this case was, in fact, authorized to pay prepetition claims of critical vendors outside of a plan of reorganization. See Final Order (A) Authorizing the Debtor to Pay Certain Prepetition Claims of Critical Vendors and (B) Granting Related Relief [Docket No. 175]. Similar orders allowing payment of prepetition amounts owed to employees outside the context of a plan have also been entered in this case. See Order (i) Authorizing the Debtor to (a) Pay and Honor Prepetition Compensation, Reimbursable Business Expenses, and Employee Benefit Obligations, and (b) Maintain and Continue Certain Compensation and Benefit Programs Postpetition; and (ii) Granting Related Relief [Docket No. 39].

17. Mr. Daugherty’s second case also does not support his proposition. The Fifth Circuit in In re AWECO, Inc., addressed whether “in the period prior to confirmation of a reorganization plan must the bankruptcy court apply the fair and equitable standard in considering a priority creditor's objections to a settlement[]." 725 F.2d 293, 298 (5th Cir. 1984).

The Fifth Circuit answered that question by stating:

[bankruptcy's] underlying policies leads us to make a limited extension of the fair and equitable standard: A bankruptcy court abuses its discretion in approving a settlement with a junior creditor unless the court concludes that priority of payment will be respected as to objecting senior creditors.

Id., at 299. In essence, the Fifth Circuit held that a settlement is not "fair and equitable" under Rule 9019 if (1) a senior creditor objects and (2) the settlement provides for the payment of a junior creditor prior to payment in full of such senior creditor. As such, AWECO is irrelevant to the Motion as there are no senior creditors objecting and the Settlement Agreement does not provide for the payment of any claims prior to the payment of senior claims. AWECO also does not state that 11 U.S.C. §§ 1123 or 1129 apply to settlements under Rule 9019 or that cash payments cannot be made outside of a plan.

18. Instead, courts have found that "Section 1123(a)(4). . . under its plain language. . . applies only to a plan of reorganization and therefore not to pre-confirmation settlements. . . core bankruptcy principles, such as the absolute priority rule and the equal treatment rule. . which apply in the plan confirmation process, are not categorically applied in the settlement context." See Energy Future Holdings Corp. v. Del. Trust Co., 648 Fed. Appx. 277, 283 (3d Cir. 2016). As such, while egregiously disparate treatment may be cause to reject a settlement, it is just one thing to consider under Rule 9019 and a court may approve a settlement that provides for disparate treatment of similarly situated creditors when it has grounds to do so. Id., at 284. Here, such grounds exist.

19. The Settlement Agreement provides for the reduction in Acis's proof of claim from between $75 million to $200 million to an allowed general unsecured claim of $23 million. The "Cash Payments" (as defined in the Daugherty Objection) to be paid on the effective date of a plan are less than $1 million in the aggregate; they also represent a discount to the amounts actually owed on the aggregate amount of those claims.⁶ While Mr. and Mrs. Terry's claims were separate and apart from the claims of Acis, all parties believed resolving as many matters as between them was in the best interest of the Debtor. Finally, the Settlement Agreement and Release has the support of all creditors and parties in interest in this case with exception of Mr. Dondero and Mr. Daugherty, and Mr. Daugherty has provided no evidence that the Cash Payments will make any meaningful difference to the similarly situated holders of general unsecured claims.⁷

20. Energy Future is also instructive as it allowed creditors to exchange their prepetition debt during the bankruptcy and prior to the confirmation of a plan; in essence it allowed creditors to receive payment outside of a plan of reorganization pursuant to a settlement agreement. Id., at 290; see also Order Granting the Debtor's Motion for Approval of Settlement Agreement with the SEC Under Bankruptcy Rule 9019, Case No. 14-35043 [Docket No. 1657]

⁷ As set forth in the Debtor's liquidation analysis and financial projections [Docket No. 1173], the Debtor currently anticipates that holders of allowed general unsecured claims will receive a recovery of 92.5%, which anticipates the Cash Payments being made in full on the effective date of the Debtor's plan. If the Cash Payments are classified and paid under the Debtor's plan as Convenience Claims (Daugherty Objection, ¶¶ 8-9), the impact on creditor recoveries is de minimus. Treating the Cash Payments as Convenience Claims would not affect the Convenience Claims' recovery and would increase projected recoveries on the general unsecured claims by only 0.20% from 92.5% to 92.7%. If, however, the claims of UBS, the HarbourVest Entities, and Mr. Daugherty himself are allowed, the impact on the general unsecured recoveries would be even less as the amount of allowed general unsecured claims would be materially higher.

(Bankr. N.D. Tex. Nov. 7, 2016) (overruling unsecured creditors committee’s objection that payments allowed under Rule 9019 were unfair to similarly situated creditors).

21. Energy Future is also consistent with actions previously taken by this Court. On September 4, 2020, the Debtor filed the Motion of the Debtor for Entry of an Order Approving Settlement with Carey International, Inc. [Claim No. 68] and Authorizing Actions Consistent therewith [Docket No. 1025] (the “Carey Motion”). In the Carey Motion, the Debtor sought relief under Rule 9019 to settle the proof of claim filed by Carey International, Inc. (“Carey”). The settlement provided that Carey’s $2.05 million claim would be extinguished in consideration for the Debtor extinguishing approximately $17 million of debt owed by Carey to the Debtor. The Carey Motion was approved by order of this Court on October 5, 2020 [Docket No. 1123]. As such, the Debtor was allowed to exchange its assets – the $17 million in debt – for the $2.05 million owed to Carey. This exchange is not part of the Debtor’s plan and will occur before the effective date of any plan.

22. Ultimately, the Debtor asks this Court to approve the Cash Payments as a necessary component of the Settlement Agreement.

b. The Release is Premature

23. Finally, Mr. Daugherty objects that the Release is “premature” because – based on the Debtor’s best read of the Daugherty Objection – it releases claims that some unidentified entity may have against Acis because Acis did not “withdraw as manager of the fund” after HCLOF declined Acis’s request to discuss a reset. (Daugherty Obj. § 13.) However, as set forth above, and assuming Mr. Daugherty is referring to claims belonging to HCLOF or HarbourVest, the Release does not release Acis’s claims against HCLOF and HarbourVest or HCLOF’s or HarbourVest's claims against Acis.

[Remainder of Page Intentionally Blank]

WHEREFORE, for the reasons set forth above and in the Motion, the Debtor respectfully requests that the Court grant the Motion.

Re: Litigation regarding Acis Capital Management L.P.

Ladies and Gentlemen,

This firm represents Highland CLO Funding, Ltd. (the "Fund") and we have been instructed to provide this notice and confirmation to you. Reference is made to that certain Portfolio Management Agreement dated November 17, 2017 (the "PMA") between the Fund and Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd. ("Portfolio Manager").

As you are aware, the Fund, the Portfolio Manager and others, including specifically Highland Capital Management L.P. ("HCM") are defendants in litigation brought by Acis Capital Management L.P. ("Acis") as plaintiff, pending currently in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas (the "Bankruptcy Court"), styled as Acis Capital Management GP, LLC et al v. Highland Capital Management, L.P. et al., Case No. 18-03078-sgj, (the "Acis Litigation"). That litigation has been stayed since the filing by HCM of its Chapter 11 bankruptcy case, which also is now pending in the Bankruptcy Court. No party has sought to lift the stay in the Acis Litigation, or to otherwise continue the Acis Litigation.

August 13, 2020

HCM and Acis are currently engaged in litigation concerning a proof of claim filed by Acis in HCM's bankruptcy case, which raises the same claims asserted against HCM in the Acis Litigation (the "Proof of Claim Litigation"). The Fund is not a creditor or stakeholder in the HCM bankruptcy case and does not intend to participate in the Proof of Claim Litigation. The Fund maintains its objection, as stated in the Acis Litigation, to the resolution of the Acis Litigation against the Fund before the Bankruptcy Court.

By this letter, the Fund hereby provides notice that the PMA does not provide authority to Portfolio Manager to take positions on behalf of the Fund in any pending litigation, or to bind the Fund to any decisions or results of litigation in which the Portfolio Manager, or its sub-managers, including HCM, engages. Further, the Fund confirms that it has provided no instruction to Portfolio Manager or HCM to engage in litigation on its behalf, or to speak for or advance positions on behalf of the Fund in any pending litigation, including, without limitation, the Acis Litigation or the Proof of Claim Litigation. The Fund, through its two independent directors, holds and retains the sole authority to make decisions on behalf of the Fund in any litigation related to the Fund. Everything stated in this paragraph applies equally to any mediation or other effort to settle the Acis Litigation or the Proof of Claim Litigation.

We do not perceive or understand there to be any disagreement or dispute regarding the foregoing, but the Fund desires to confirm these points with its Portfolio Manager and with HCM given the ongoing activity in the HCM bankruptcy case. If Portfolio Manager or HCM have any contrary views, we ask that you notify us immediately.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

Mark M. Maloney
