STATEMENT OF ISSUES ON APPEAL OF NEXPOINT ADVISORS, L.P. AND HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT FUND ADVISORS, L.P.

COME NOW NexPoint Advisors, L.P. and Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. (together, the “Appellants”) and, with respect to their Joint Notice of Appeal, hereby file this Statement of Issues on Appeal as follows:

The Statement of Issues in this Appeal, with respect to that certain Judgment the subject of this Appeal, are:

1. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred as a matter of law by reviewing and relying on inadmissible extraneous and parol evidence to construe the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements as providing for flat fees, as neither agreement was ambiguous, and in construing Highland’s performance under the Agreements.

2. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred as a matter of law in construing the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements as providing for “actual cost” based on a set monthly amount subject to notice and agreed modification rather than the real “actual cost” for any given period based on the actual “dual employees,” including by deciding that the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements provided no affirmative duty or mandatory obligation on Highland to adjust said amounts.

3. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred as a matter of law in construing the amendments to the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements as made for the “purpose of funneling” money to Highland and receiving tax benefits, as opposed to what the documents say they are, including the Bankruptcy Court’s resort to inadmissible extraneous and parol evidence.

4. Whether, if extraneous and parol evidence was admissible, the Bankruptcy Court erred in construing that evidence as demonstrating (i) that the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements were “flat fee” agreements; (ii) that the Appellants intended the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements to be “flat fee” agreements; (iii) that the Appellants’ knew of the amount of each payment at the time each payment was made and that Appellants made such payments with knowledge that such payments were in excess of the relative value of services provided; and (iv) that Highland was performing under the Agreements.

5. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in finding that the Appellants never made a request to modify the amounts payable under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements such that Highland was required to negotiate the modification in good faith, and erred in finding that Highland did not fail to so negotiate in good faith.

6. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in not finding that Highland, pursuant to contracted services the Appellants were paying Highland for, was under a duty to inform the Appellants of potential overpayments under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements and to trigger any modification to amounts payable under the same, which duty it breached.

7. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in finding that the Appellants waived their claims for overpayments on all four contracts under the facts and under the law, including in light of anti-waiver provisions. While the Bankruptcy Court found that it did not need to decide the issue of the voluntary payment rule, that decision, or lack thereof, is included as an issue on appeal only to preserve rights in case the District Court considers affirming the Judgment on that basis.

8. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in finding that the Appellants did not overpay Highland for services under the Shared Services Agreements that Highland was no longer providing and for which the Appellants had to hire others and pay for cover.

9. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in denying the Appellants' administrative claims under the Bankruptcy Code in light of postpetition overpayments, both under the respective contracts and, additionally or separately, under general principles of equity irrespective of the contracts, given the overwhelming evidence that Highland charged the Appellants, and the Appellants paid, large amounts postpetition for services that Highland did not actually provide to the Appellants, especially in light of the fact that Highland owed fiduciary duties to the estate and its creditors and that Highland owed various contracted duties to the Appellants.

10. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in finding that the Appellants breached the contracts and awarding Highland damages for breach of the four contracts, including because Highland was not providing the services for which it sought compensation and because Highland committed a first material breach of the agreements.

11. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in finding that the Appellants breached the contracts and awarding Highland damages for breach of the four contracts for a period after the Appellants informed Highland that amounts payable thereunder needed to be modified, thus triggering an obligation to negotiate the same in good faith, which Highland failed to do.

12. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in awarding Highland damages for breach of the four contracts when Highland failed to offer evidence of its actual damages.

RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED this 2d day of October, 2022.

PLAINTIFF HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.’S VERIFIED ORIGINAL COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES AND FOR DECLARATORY AND INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

---

Plaintiff Highland Capital Management, L.P., the above-captioned debtor and debtor-in-possession (“Plaintiff” or the “Debtor”), by its undersigned counsel, files this Verified Original Complaint for Damages and for Declaratory and Injunctive Relief (the “Complaint”) against defendants Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. (“HCMFA”) and NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (“NPA,” and together with HCMFA, the “Defendants” or the “Advisors”), seeking damages and declaratory and injunctive relief pursuant to sections 105(a), 362, 542, and 1107 of title 11 of the United States Code (the “Bankruptcy Code”) and Rules 7001(7) and 7065 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure (the “Bankruptcy Rules”). In support of its Complaint, the Debtor alleges upon knowledge of its own actions and upon information and belief as to other matters as follows:

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT<sup>2</sup>

1. The Advisors serve as the investment manager, either directly or indirectly, to a number of investment vehicles (collectively, the “Funds”) regulated pursuant to the Securities Act of 1933, the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, and the Investment Company Act of 1940. Certain of the Funds are publicly traded and have thousands of retail investors who are at risk due to the Advisors’ deleterious conduct.

2. The Advisors are owned and controlled by James Dondero. Pursuant to certain Shared Services Agreements, the Debtor has historically provided back-office and middle-office services that enable the Advisors to manage the Funds. Although the Debtor is paid for these services, providing the services requires the Debtor to maintain a full staff, the cost of which has historically caused substantial net losses to the Debtor.

3. Each of the Shared Services Agreements gives either party the unilateral right to terminate the respective Shared Services Agreement by providing prior written notice. On November 30, 2020, the Debtor provided written notice of its intent to terminate the Shared Services Agreements effective as of January 31, 2021.

4. The Termination Notices could not have come as a surprise to the Advisors because the Debtor was in bankruptcy and had been pursuing an “asset monetization” plan of reorganization that would leave it with a substantially scaled-down work force since at least August 2020. With that in mind, the Debtor began developing a plan pursuant to which the shared services would be transitioned to an entity that would be created, owned, and operated by certain of the Debtor’s employees who were expected to be terminated as part of the implementation of the Debtor’s Plan.

5. At the same time, the Debtor continued to provide the services required under the Shared Services Agreements – despite the Advisors being in substantial arrears with an outstanding amount due to the Debtor in excess of $3 million – and otherwise continued in its attempts to transition those services in a smooth and orderly manner. Indeed, in order to give the Advisors more time to engage and complete the transition, the Debtor has extended the termination date on two occasions, with the current termination deadline being February 19, 2021.<sup>3</sup>

<sup>3</sup> Although the Shared Services Agreement will terminate on February 19, 2021, the Debtor is willing to further extend the termination dates of the Shared Services Agreements through February 28, 2021, solely to prevent catastrophic harm to the retail investors in the Funds, but the Debtor will be unable to extend the termination date any further as the Debtor is expected to reduce its workforce at the end of February and will have insufficient personnel thereafter to perform under the Shared Services Agreements.

6. Regrettably, as described in more detail below, and notwithstanding the Debtor's best efforts to aid in the transition of services, the Advisors have willfully failed and refused to adopt and effectuate a transition plan, choosing instead to spend the last months threatening the Debtor and certain of its employees and seeking to deflect responsibility for their own wrongful conduct.

7. The status quo is untenable. The Debtor has the contractual right to terminate the Shared Services Agreements and has exercised that right. Pursuant to the Debtor's Plan, there will shortly be a substantial reduction in the Debtor's work force and the Debtor will be unable to provide services to the Advisors. The Advisors' failure to work with the Debtor or to otherwise develop a transition plan of their own has put thousands of retail investors at risk.

8. The Debtor is faced with an awful choice. It can either (a) exercise its rights to terminate the Shared Services Agreements to the detriment of the Funds and their investors, and be sucked into more litigation because of Mr. Dondero's conduct, or (b) attempt to provide services to the Advisors under the Shared Services Agreements at substantial losses and risk material delays in the implementation of the Debtor's Plan.

9. Therefore, in addition to seeking damages and declaratory relief, the Debtor is filing a separate emergency motion for a mandatory injunction compelling the Advisors to adopt and implement a transition plan by February 28, 2021, when the Debtor is expected to substantially reduce its workforce. In the absence of such a mandate, the Funds (together with their thousands of investors) and the Debtor will be irreparably harmed.

15. Upon information and belief, NPA is a limited partnership with offices located in Dallas, Texas.

CASE BACKGROUND

16. On October 16, 2019 (the “Petition Date”), the Debtor filed a voluntary petition for relief under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware (the “Delaware Court”), Case No. 19-12239 (CSS) (the “Highland Bankruptcy Case”).

17. On October 29, 2019, the U.S. Trustee in the Delaware Court appointed an Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors with the following members: (a) Redeemer Committee of Highland Crusader Fund, (b) Meta-e Discovery, (c) UBS Securities LLC and UBS

AG London Branch, and (d) Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management GP LLC.

18. On December 4, 2019, the Delaware Court entered an order transferring venue of the Highland Bankruptcy Case to this Court [Docket No. 186].<sup>4</sup>

19. The Debtor has continued to operate and manage its business as a debtor-in-possession pursuant to Bankruptcy Code sections 1107(a) and 1108. No trustee or examiner has been appointed in this chapter 11 case.

20. On November 24, 2020, the Debtor filed the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. [Docket No. 1472] (the “Plan”).

21. On February 2 and 3, 2021, the Court conducted a confirmation hearing with respect to the Plan. [Docket No. 1808].

22. On February 8, 2021, the Court rendered an opinion in which it approved the Plan. [Docket No. 1924].

STATEMENT OF FACTS

A. The Debtor Has the Contractual Right to Terminate the Shared Services Agreements, and It Timely Exercised that Right

23. The Debtor is party to the Shared Services Agreements pursuant to which it has a contractual right of termination upon written notice.

The Debtor’s Shared Services Agreement with HCMFA

24. The Debtor and HCMFA are parties to that certain Second Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement, effective as of February 8, 2013 (the “HCMFA Shared Services Agreement”), a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A.

25. Pursuant to section 2.01 of the HCMFA Shared Services Agreement and Annex A affixed thereto, the Debtor provides certain services to HCMFA that enable HCMFA to manage the Funds.

26. The HCMFA Shared Services Agreement was for a one-year term, subject to automatic one-year renewals “unless sooner terminated under Section 7.02.”

27. Section 7.02 of the Shared Services Agreement provides that “[e]ither Party may terminate this Agreement, with or without cause, upon at least 60 days advance written notice at any time prior to the expiration of the Term.”

28. On November 30, 2020, the Debtor provided written notice to HCMFA that it intended to terminate the HCMFA Shared Services Agreement as of January 31, 2021 (the “HCMFA Termination Notice”). A copy of the HCMFA Termination Notice is attached hereto as Exhibit B.

The Debtor’s Shared Services Agreement with NPA

29. The Debtor and NPA are parties to that certain Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement, effective as of January 1, 2018 (the “NPA Shared Services Agreement” and together with the HCMFA Shared Services Agreement, the “Shared Services Agreements”), a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

30. Pursuant to Article II of the NPA Shared Services Agreement, the Debtor provides certain services to NPA that enable NPA to manage the Funds.

31. The NPA Shared Services Agreement did not have a fixed term. Instead, section 7.01 provided that “[e]ither Party may terminate this Agreement at any time upon at least thirty (30) days’ written notice to the other.”

32. On November 30, 2020, the Debtor provided written notice to NPA that it intended to terminate the NPA Shared Services Agreement as of January 31, 2021 (the “NPA Termination Notice” and together with the HCMFA Termination Notice, the “Termination Notices”). A copy of the NPA Termination Notice is attached hereto as Exhibit D.

B. Prior to Providing the Termination Notices, the Debtor Worked on a Transition Plan, but the Advisors Failed to Engage or Pay for Services Rendered

33. On August 12, 2020, after considering its strategic options, the Debtor filed an “asset monetization” plan of reorganization pursuant to which, in general, the Debtor proposed to reduce staff, reject certain contracts, and monetize its assets consistent with maximizing value for all stakeholders. [Docket No. 944].

34. Thus, at least as of that time, all stakeholders – including the Advisors – were on notice that the Debtor intended to continue operations on a scaled-down basis with the goal being an orderly monetization of assets.<sup>5</sup>

35. Consistent with that intent, the Debtor began formulating a plan for the transition of services provided under the Shared Services Agreements.

36. Specifically, beginning in the summer of 2020, the Debtor attempted to negotiate for the orderly transition of services with James Dondero, the individual who owns and controls each of the Advisors.

37. The Debtor’s proposal contemplated the transition of services to the Advisors from the Debtor to an entity that would be created, owned, and operated by certain of the Debtor’s employees (“NewCo”) who were expected to be terminated as part of the Debtor’s asset monetization plan.

<sup>5</sup> Furthermore, on November 13, 2020, the Debtor filed its Third Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management [Docket No. 1383] (the “Third Amended Plan”). In its Third Amended Plan (and subsequent plans), the Debtor explicitly stated that it did not intend to continue providing services under the Shared Service Agreements precisely because they are money losers. Third Amended Plan, Art. IV.A (“[I]t is currently anticipated that neither the Reorganized Debtor nor the Claimant Trust will assume or assume and assign the contracts between the Debtor and certain Related Entities pursuant to which the Debtor provides shared services and sub-advisory services to those Related Entities. The Debtor believes that the continued provision of the services under such contracts will not be cost effective.”)

38. With Mr. Dondero in control, the Advisors never provided any constructive response to the Debtor's proposal. Indeed, Mr. Dondero specifically informed the Debtor that he intended to make the transition difficult for the apparent purpose of creating leverage in plan negotiations.

39. In addition to failing to engage in any process designed to provide for the orderly transition of services, the Advisors also failed to pay the Debtor for the services provided under the Shared Services Agreement.

40. Since the Petition Date, each of the Advisors has failed to meet certain of its payment obligations under the Shared Services Agreements. For the period between the Petition Date and January 31, 2021, (a) HCMFA owes the Debtor $2,121,276 for services rendered under the HCMFA Shared Services Agreement, and (b) NPA owes the Debtor $932,977 for services rendered under the NPA Shared Services Agreement. These amounts exclude amounts owed for services provided prior to the Petition Date.

41. The Debtor loses significant money providing services under the Shared Services Agreements, which is why it publicly stated its intention in the Third Amended Plan (and each subsequent amendment and modification to the Plan) not to assume or assume and assign them. While that is bad enough, the Advisors failure to pay for services previously rendered is a blatant breach of the Agreements.

C. The Debtor Offers to Extend the Termination Date to Avoid a Catastrophe and Attempts to Engage the Funds' Board to Aid in the Adoption of a Transition Plan

42. Instead of engaging in the process, the Advisors and certain of their employees were more focused on threatening the Debtor and its employees, all in a transparent effort to deflect responsibility for their own obstinate and wrongful conduct.

43. With the January 31, 2021 termination date fast approaching, and with the Advisors continuing to fail to work cooperatively on a transition plan, the Debtor took the initiative and offered to extend the termination date by two weeks (i) in order to avoid catastrophic consequences for the Funds and their investors that would result from an abrupt termination, and (ii) in the hope that the Advisors would use the extended time to finally and constructively engage.

44. Thus, on January 29, 2021, the parties executed an agreement extending the termination date to February 14, 2021 in exchange for the Advisors paying in advance for services to be rendered by the Debtor during that two-week period. A copy of the January 29, 2021, agreement is attached hereto as Exhibit E.

45. During the two-week period, the Debtor and its employees and professionals made every effort to bring the issue of the transition of services to a resolution. Among other things, the Debtor continued to refine the proposal for the transition of services to NewCo.

46. The Debtor also attempted to get the attention of the Funds' Boards because it was concerned that the Boards were either uninformed, not engaged, or were under the influence and control of Mr. Dondero.

47. Among other communications, James P. Seery, Jr., the Debtor's Chief Executive Officer, sent formal written communications to the Board of Directors for the Funds on January 27, 2021, February 8, 2021, and February 12, 2021.<sup>6</sup> Copies of Mr. Seery's letters are attached hereto as Exhibits F, G and H, respectively.

48. Despite the efforts of certain of the Advisors' professionals, and despite the Debtor's willingness to make all reasonable concessions on a transition agreement, Mr. Dondero and the Advisors have refused to “say yes” or to otherwise take steps to formulate a transition plan for the protection of the Funds and their investors.

<sup>6</sup> Mr. Seery's formal correspondence was in addition to his informal correspondence and communications with the Funds' Board and the substantial communications between counsel to the Debtor, the Advisors, and the Funds.

49. Faced with an untenable situation, the Debtor again agreed to extend the termination date, this time to February 19, 2021. See Exhibit I.

50. Finally, on February 16, 2021, the Debtor made its last attempt to reach an agreement before being forced to take alternative actions to protect itself, the Funds, and investors, by sending the Advisors a proposed term sheet (the “Term Sheet”) that provided a reasonable transition plan. A copy of the Term Sheet is attached as Exhibit J. The Advisors refused to agree to the terms thereunder.

51. Given that the Court will soon enter an order confirming the Debtor’s Plan, and the reduction in the Debtor’s work force will follow soon thereafter, the Debtor will be unable to provide services to the Advisors much longer. The Advisors’ failure to agree on or formulate a transition plan is creating catastrophic risk for the Funds and their investors. The Advisors’ failure to plan for a transition is also creating material risk to the Debtor.

FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF

(For Declaratory Relief: -- 11 U.S.C. § 105(a) and Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7001)

52. The Debtor repeats and realleges each of the allegations in each of the foregoing paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

53. A bona fide, actual, present dispute exists between the Debtor and the Advisors concerning their respective rights and obligations under the Shared Services Agreements.

54. A judgment declaring the parties’ respective rights and obligations will resolve their disputes.

55. Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 7001, the Debtor specifically seeks declarations that:

- Each of the Advisors is owned and controlled by Mr. Dondero;
- The Debtor has the contractual right to terminate the HCMFA Shared Services Agreement on 60 days' written notice;
- The Debtor properly exercised its right to terminate the HCMFA Shared Services Agreement by providing at least 60 days' written notice;
- The Debtor's obligation to provide services to HCMFA under the HCMFA Shared Services Agreement (or otherwise) will terminate on February 19, 2021;
- The Debtor has the contractual right to terminate the NPA Shared Services Agreement on 30 days' written notice;
- The Debtor properly exercised its right to terminate the NPA Shared Services Agreement by providing at least 30 days' written notice; and
- The Debtor's obligation to provide services to NPA under the NPA Shared Services Agreement (or otherwise) will terminate on February 19, 2021.

SECOND CLAIM FOR RELIEF

(Breach of Contract)

56. The Debtor repeats and realleges each of the allegations in each of the foregoing paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

57. The Shared Services Agreements are valid and binding contracts.

58. The Debtor has fully performed all obligations under the Shared Services Agreements.

59. The Advisors have breached the Shared Services Agreements by failing to pay for certain services rendered by the Debtor to the Advisors under the Shared Services Agreements.

60. The Advisors have failed to pay the Debtor all amounts due and owing under the Shared Services Agreements despite the Debtor's demands.

61. The Advisors' breach of the Shared Services Agreements has damaged the Debtor in an amount to be determined at trial.

THIRD CLAIM FOR RELIEF

(For Injunctive Relief -- 11 U.S.C. § 105(a) and Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7065)

62. The Debtor repeats and realleges the allegations in each of the foregoing paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

63. Pursuant to Bankruptcy Code section 105(a) and Bankruptcy Rule 7065, the Debtor seeks a mandatory injunction directing the Advisors to adopt and implement a plan for the orderly transition of services currently provided under the Shared Services Agreements from the Debtor to NewCo or any other entity of the Advisors' choosing.

64. Bankruptcy Code section 105(a) authorizes the Court to issue "any order, process or judgment that is necessary or appropriate to carry out the provisions of this title." 11 U.S.C. §105(a).

65. Bankruptcy Rule 7065 incorporates by reference Rule 65 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and authorizes the Court to issue injunctive relief in adversary proceedings.

66. The Debtor will succeed on the merits of its claims for (a) a declaratory judgment that it has the contractual right to terminate each of the Shared Services Agreements, that it properly exercised those rights, and that, effective February 19, 2021, it has no further legal or equitable obligation to provide any services to the Advisors; (b) damages for breach of contract; and (c) for a mandatory injunction requiring the Advisors to adopt and implement a plan for the orderly transition of shared services.

67. The Advisors' failure to adopt and implement a transition plan is untenable because – as the Advisors have known for months – the Debtor will soon be unable to provide services under the Shared Services Agreements, and such willful misconduct and gross negligence will cause irreparable harm to the Funds and their investors and to the Debtor and its estate.

68. Given that (a) the Advisors were on notice since at least August 2020, that the Debtor was unlikely to provide services under the Shared Services Agreement for an extended period of time; (b) the Debtor has been pursuing a transition plan since the summer of 2020; (c) the Third Amended Plan filed on November 13, 2020 (and each subsequent version of the Plan), expressly stated that the Debtor would not assume or assume and assign the Shared Services Agreements; (d) the Debtor timely provided notice of termination of the Shared Services Agreements on November 30, 2020; (e) upon information and belief, the Advisors (and not the Debtor) owe contractual and other duties to the Funds, the entities most at risk; and (f) the Debtor has acted in good faith by, among other things, twice extending the anticipated termination date, the balance of the equities strongly favors the Debtor.

69. Finally, the public interest virtually requires that the Advisors be directed to adopt and implement a transition plan. In the absence of a mandatory injunction, thousands of retail investors are likely to suffer catastrophic losses, and there will likely be substantial market disruptions with unforeseeable consequences.

70. Based on the foregoing, the Debtor requests that the Court direct the Advisors to adopt and implement a plan for the orderly transition of services currently provided under the Shared Services Agreements from the Debtor to NewCo, or any other entity of the Advisors' choosing, by February 28, 2021.

PRAYER

WHEREFORE, the Debtor prays for judgment as follows:

- On the First Cause of Action, a judgment declaring that: (i) each of the Advisors is owned and controlled by Mr. Dondero; (ii) the Debtor has the contractual right to terminate the HCMFA Shared Services Agreement on 60 days' written notice; (iii) the Debtor properly exercised its right to terminate the HCMFA Shared Services Agreement by providing at least 60 days' written notice; (iv) the Debtor's obligation to provide services to HCMFA under the HCMFA Shared Services Agreement (or otherwise) will terminate on February 19, 2021; (v) the Debtor has the contractual right to terminate the NPA Shared Services Agreement on 30 days' written notice; (vi) the Debtor properly exercised its right to terminate the NPA Shared Services Agreement by providing at least 30 days' written notice; and (vii) the Debtor's obligation to provide services to NPA under the NPA Shared Services Agreement (or otherwise) will terminate on February 19, 2021.
- On the Second Cause of Action, damages in an amount to be determined at trial arising from the Advisors' breach of the Shared Services Agreements;
- On the Third Cause of Action, a mandatory injunction directing the Advisors to adopt and implement a plan for the orderly transition of services currently provided under the Shared Services Agreements from the Debtor to NewCo, or any other entity of the Advisors' choosing, by February 28, 2021; and
- For such other and further relief as this Court deems just and proper.

Dated: February 17, 2021.

ARTICLE II
SHARED SERVICES

Section 2.01 Services. During the Term, Service Provider will provide Recipient with Shared Services, including without limitation, all of the (i) finance and accounting services, (ii) human resources services, (iii) marketing services, (iv) legal services, (v) corporate services, (vi) information technology services, and (vii) operations services; each as requested by HCMFA and as described more fully on Annex A attached hereto, the “Shared Services”), it being understood that personnel providing Shared Services may be deemed to be employees of HCMFA to the extent necessary for purposes of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended.

Section 2.02 Changes to the Shared Services.

(a) During the Term, the Parties may agree to modify the terms and conditions of a Service Provider’s performance of any Shared Service in order to reflect new procedures, processes or other methods of providing such Shared Service, including modifying the applicable fees for such Shared Service to reflect the then current fair market value of such service (a “Change”). The Parties will negotiate in good faith the terms upon which a Service Provider would be willing to provide such New Shared Service to Recipient.

(b) The Party requesting a Change will deliver a description of the Change requested (a “Change Request”) and no Party receiving a Change Request may unreasonably withhold, condition or delay its consent to the proposed Change.

(c) Notwithstanding any provision of this Agreement to the contrary, a Service Provider may make: (i) Changes to the process of performing a particular Shared Service that do not adversely affect the benefits to Recipient of Service Provider’s provision or quality of such Shared Service in any material respect or increase Recipient’s cost for such Shared Service; (ii) emergency Changes on a temporary and short-term basis; and/or (iii) Changes to a particular Shared Service in order to comply with applicable law or regulatory requirements, in each case without obtaining the prior consent of Recipient. A Service Provider will notify Recipient in writing of any such Change as follows: in the case of clauses (i) and (iii) above, prior to the implementation of such Change, and, in the case of clause (ii) above, as soon as reasonably practicable thereafter.

Section 2.03 New Shared Services. The Parties may, from time to time during the Term of this Agreement, negotiate in good faith for Shared Services not otherwise specifically listed in Section 2.01 (a “New Shared Service”). Any agreement between the Parties on the terms for a New Shared Service must be in accordance with the provisions of Article IV and Article V hereof, will be deemed to be an amendment to this Agreement and such New Shared Service will then be a “Shared Service” for all purposes of this Agreement.

Section 2.04 Subcontractors. Nothing in this Agreement will prevent Service Provider from, with the consent of Recipient, using subcontractors, hired with due care, to perform all or any part of a Shared Service hereunder. A Service Provider will remain fully responsible for the performance of its obligations under this Agreement in accordance with its terms, including any obligations it performs through subcontractors, and a Service Provider will be solely responsible for payments due to its subcontractors.

ARTICLE III SHARED ASSETS

Section 3.01 Shared IP Rights. Each Service Provider hereby grants to Recipient a non-exclusive right and license to use the intellectual property and other rights granted or licensed, directly or indirectly, to such Service Provider (the “Shared IP Rights”) pursuant to third party intellectual property Agreements (“Third Party IP Agreements”), provided that the rights granted to Recipient hereunder are subject to the terms and conditions of the applicable Third Party IP Agreement, and that such rights shall terminate, as applicable, upon the expiration or termination of the applicable Third Party IP Agreement. Recipient shall be licensed to use the Shared IP Rights only for so long as it remains an Affiliate of HCMLP. In consideration of the foregoing licenses, Recipient agrees to take such further reasonable actions as a Service Provider deems to be necessary or desirable to comply with its obligations under the Third Party IP Agreements.

Section 3.02 Other Shared Assets. Subject to Section 3.01, each Service Provider hereby grants Recipient the right, license or permission, as applicable, to use and access the benefits under the agreements, contracts and licenses that such Service Provider will purchase, acquire, become a party or beneficiary to or license on behalf of Recipient (the “Future Shared Assets” and collectively with the Shared IP Rights, the “Shared Assets”).

ARTICLE IV COST ALLOCATION

Section 4.01 Actual Cost Allocation Formula. The Actual Cost of any item relating to any Shared Services or Shared Assets shall be allocated based on the Allocation Percentage. For purposes of this Agreement, “Allocation Percentage” means:

- (a) To the extent 100% of such item is demonstrably attributable to HCMFA, 100% of the Actual Cost of such item shall be allocated to HCMFA as agreed by HCMFA;
- (b) To the extent a specific percentage of use of such item can be determined (e.g., 70% for HCMLP and 30% for HCMFA), that specific percentage of the Actual Cost of such item will be allocated to HCMLP or HCMFA, as applicable and as agreed by HCMFA; and
- (c) All other portions of the Actual Cost of any item that cannot be allocated pursuant to clause (a) or (b) above shall be allocated between HCMLP and HCMFA in such proportion as is agreed in good faith between the parties.

Section 4.02 Non-Cash Cost Allocation. The actual, fully burdened cost of any item relating to any Shared Services or Shared Assets that does not result in a direct, out of pocket cash expense may be allocated to HCMLP and HCMFA for financial statement purposes only, as agreed by HCMFA, without any corresponding cash reimbursement required, in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, based on the Allocation Percentage principles described in Section 4.01 hereof.

ARTICLE V PAYMENT OF COST AND REVENUE SHARE; TAXES

Section 5.01 Quarterly Statements. Within thirty (30) days following the end of each calendar quarter during the Term (or at such time as may be otherwise agreed by the parties), each Service Provider shall furnish the other Parties hereto with a written statement with respect to the Actual Cost paid by it in respect of Shared Services and Shared Assets provided by it, in each case, during such period, setting forth (i) the cost allocation in accordance with Article IV hereof together with the Applicable Margin on such allocated amounts, and (ii) any amounts paid pursuant to Section 5.02 hereof, together with such other data and information necessary to complete the items described in Section 5.03 hereof (hereinafter referred to as the “Quarterly Report”).

Section 5.02 Settlement Payments. At any time during the Term, any Party may make payment of the amounts that are allocable to such Party together with the Applicable Margin related thereto, regardless of whether an invoice pursuant to Section 5.03 hereof has been issued with respect to such amounts.

Section 5.03 Determination and Payment of Cost and Revenue Share.

(a) Within ten (10) days of the submission of the Quarterly Report described in Section 5.02 hereof (or at such other time as may be agreed by the parties), the Parties shall (i) agree on the cost share of each of the Parties and Applicable Margin as calculated pursuant to the provisions of this Agreement; and (ii) prepare and issue invoices for the cost share and Applicable Margin payments that are payable by any of the Parties.

(b) Within ten (10) days of preparation of the agreement and the issuance of the invoice described in Section 5.03(a) (or at such other time as may be agreed by the parties), the Parties shall promptly make payment of the amounts that are set forth on such cost allocation invoice. Notwithstanding anything in this Agreement to the contrary, provision of the Shared Services shall commence from the Effective Date, but no fees shall be payable from Recipient or otherwise accrue with respect to such services provided during the month of December 2011.

Section 5.04 Taxes.

(a) Recipient is responsible for and will pay all Taxes applicable to the Shared Services and the Shared Assets provided to Recipient, provided, that such payments by Recipient to Service Provider will be made in the most tax-efficient manner and provided further, that Service Provider will not be subject to any liability for Taxes applicable to the Shared Services and the Shared Assets as a result of such payment by Recipient. Service Provider will collect such Tax from Recipient in the same manner it collects such Taxes from other customers in the ordinary course of Service Provider's business, but in no event prior to the time it invoices Recipient for the Shared Services and Shared Assets, costs for which such Taxes are levied. Recipient may provide Service Provider with a certificate evidencing its exemption from payment of or liability for such Taxes.

(b) Service Provider will reimburse Recipient for any Taxes collected from Recipient and refunded to Service Provider. In the event a Tax is assessed against Service Provider that is solely the responsibility of Recipient and Recipient desires to protest such assessment, Recipient will submit to Service Provider a statement of the issues and arguments requesting that Service Provider grant Recipient the authority to prosecute the protest in Service Provider's name. Service Provider's authorization will not be unreasonably withheld. Recipient will finance, manage, control and determine the strategy for such protest while keeping Service Provider reasonably informed of the proceedings. However, the authorization will be periodically reviewed by Service Provider to determine any adverse impact on Service Provider, and Service Provider will have the right to reasonably withdraw such authority at any time. Upon notice by Service Provider that it is so withdrawing such authority, Recipient will expeditiously terminate all proceedings. Any adverse consequences suffered by Recipient as a result of the withdrawal will be submitted to arbitration pursuant to Section 9.14. Any contest for Taxes brought by Recipient may not result in any lien attaching to any property or rights of Service Provider or otherwise jeopardize Service Provider's interests or rights in any of its property. Recipient agrees to indemnify Service Provider for all Losses that Service Provider incurs as a result of any such contest by Recipient.

(c) The provisions of this Section 5.04 will govern the treatment of all Taxes arising as a result of or in connection with this Agreement notwithstanding any other Article of this Agreement to the contrary.

ARTICLE VI SERVICE PROVIDER RESPONSIBILITIES

Section 6.01 Service Provider General Obligations. Service Provider will provide the Shared Services and the Shared Assets to Recipient on a non-discriminatory basis and will provide the Shared Services and the Shared Assets in the same manner as if it were providing such services and assets on its own account (the “Service Standards”). Service Provider will conduct its duties hereunder in a lawful manner in compliance with applicable laws, statutes, rules and regulations and in accordance with the Service Standards, including, for avoidance of doubt, laws and regulations relating to privacy of customer information.

Section 6.02 Books and Records; Access to Information. Service Provider will keep and maintain books and records on behalf of Recipient in accordance with past practices and internal control procedures. Recipient will have the right, at any time and from time to time upon reasonable prior notice to Service Provider, to inspect and copy (at its expense) during normal business hours at the offices of Service Provider the books and records relating to the Shared Services and Shared Assets, with respect to Service Provider’s performance of its obligations hereunder. This inspection right will include the ability of Recipient’s financial auditors to review such books and records in the ordinary course of performing standard financial auditing services for Recipient (but subject to Service Provider imposing reasonable access restrictions to Service Provider’s and its Affiliates’ proprietary information and such financial auditors executing appropriate confidentiality agreements reasonably acceptable to Service Provider). Service Provider will promptly respond to any reasonable requests for information or access. For the avoidance of doubt, all books and records kept and maintained by Service Provider on behalf of Recipient shall be the property of Recipient, and Service Provider will surrender promptly to Recipient any of such books or records upon Recipient’s request (provided that Service Provider may retain a copy of such books or records) and shall make all such books and records available for inspection and use by the Securities and Exchange Commission or any person retained by Recipient at all reasonable times. Such records shall be maintained by Service Provider for the periods and in the places required by laws and regulations applicable to Recipient.

Section 6.03 Return of Property and Equipment. Upon expiration or termination of this Agreement, Service Provider will be obligated to return to Recipient, as soon as is reasonably practicable, any equipment or other property or materials of Recipient that is in Service Provider’s control or possession.

ARTICLE VII TERM AND TERMINATION

Section 7.01 Term. The term of this Agreement will commence as of the Effective Date and will continue in full force and effect until the first anniversary of the Effective Date (the “Term”), unless terminated earlier in accordance with Section 9.02. The Term shall automatically renew for successive one year periods unless sooner terminated under Section 7.02.

Section 7.02 Termination. Either Party may terminate this Agreement, with or without cause, upon at least 60 days advance written notice at any time prior to the expiration of the Term.

ARTICLE VIII LIMITED WARRANTY

Section 8.01 Limited Warranty. Service Provider will perform the Shared Services hereunder in accordance with the Service Standards. Except as specifically provided in this Agreement, Service Provider makes no express or implied representations, warranties or guarantees relating to its performance of the Shared Services and the granting of the Shared Assets under this Agreement, including any warranty of merchantability, fitness, quality, non-infringement of third party rights, suitability or adequacy of the Shared Services and the Shared Assets for any purpose or use or purpose. Service Provider will (to the extent possible and subject to Service Provider's contractual obligations) pass through the benefits of any express warranties received from third parties relating to any Shared Service and Shared Asset, and will (at Recipient's expense) assist Recipient with any warranty claims related thereto.

ARTICLE IX MISCELLANEOUS

Nothing contained in this Agreement will constitute or be construed to be or create a partnership or joint venture between or among HCMLP or HCMFA or their respective successors or assigns. Any dispute over whether the arbitrator(s) has failed to comply with the foregoing will be resolved by summary judgment in a court of law. In all other respects, the arbitration process will be conducted in accordance with the American Arbitration Association's dispute resolution rules or other mutually agreeable, arbitration service rules. The party initiating arbitration shall pay all arbitration costs and arbitrator's fees, subject to a final arbitration award on who should bear costs and fees. All proceedings shall be conducted in Dallas, Texas, or another mutually agreeable site. ## ARTICLE VI

EXCULPATION AND INDEMNIFICATION

Section 6.01. Standard of Care. Except as otherwise expressly provided herein, each Covered Person shall discharge its duties under this Agreement with the care, skill, prudence and diligence under the circumstances then prevailing that a prudent person acting in a like capacity and familiar with such matters would use in the conduct of an enterprise of a like character and with like aims. To the extent not inconsistent with the foregoing, each Covered Person shall follow its customary standards, policies and procedures in performing its duties hereunder. No Covered Person shall deal with the income or assets of the Management Company in such Covered Person's own interest or for its own account. Each Covered Person in its respective sole and absolute discretion may separately engage or invest in any other business ventures, including those that may be in competition with the Management Company, and the Management Company will not have any rights in or to such ventures or the income or profits derived therefrom.

Section 6.02 Exculpation. To the fullest extent permitted by law, no Covered Person will be liable to the Management Company, any Member, or any shareholder, partner or member thereof, for (i) any acts or omissions by such Covered Person arising out of or in connection with the conduct of the business of the Management Company or its General Partner, or any investment made or held by the Management Company or its General Partner, unless it is determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction, in a final nonappealable judgment, to be the result of gross negligence or to constitute fraud or willful misconduct (as interpreted under the laws of the State of Delaware) (each, a “Disabling Conduct”) on the part of such Covered Person, (ii) any act or omission of any Investor, (iii) any mistake, gross negligence, misconduct or bad faith of any employee, broker, administrator or other agent or representative of such Covered Person, provided that such employee, broker, administrator or agent was selected, engaged or retained by or on behalf of such Covered Person with reasonable care, or (iv) any consequential (including loss of profit), indirect, special or punitive damages. To the extent that, at law or in equity, any Covered Person has duties (including fiduciary duties) and liabilities relating thereto to the Management Company or any Member, no Covered Person acting under this Agreement shall be liable to the Management Company or to any such Member for its good-faith reliance on the provisions of this Agreement. The exculpations set forth in this Section 6.02 shall exculpate any Covered Person regardless of such Covered Person’s sole, comparative, joint, concurrent, or subsequent negligence.

To the fullest extent permitted by law, no Covered Person shall have any personal liability to the Management Company or any Member solely by reason of any change in U.S. federal, state or local or foreign income tax laws, or in interpretations thereof, as they apply to the Management Company or the Members, whether the change occurs through legislative, judicial or administrative action.

Any Covered Person in its sole and absolute discretion may consult legal counsel, accountants or other advisers selected by it, and any act or omission taken, or made in good faith by such Person on behalf of the Management Company or in furtherance of the business of the Management Company in good-faith reliance on and in accordance with the advice of such counsel, accountants or other advisers shall be full justification for the act or omission, and to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, no Covered Person shall be liable to the Management Company or any Member in so acting or omitting to act if such counsel, accountants or other advisers were selected, engaged or retained with reasonable care.

Section 6.03 Indemnification by the Management Company. The Management Company shall and hereby does, to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, indemnify and hold harmless any Covered Person from and against any and all claims, causes of action (including, but not limited to, strict liability, negligence, statutory violation, regulatory violation, breach of contract, and all other torts and claims arising under common law), demands, liabilities, costs, expenses, damages, losses, suits, proceedings, judgments, assessments, actions and other liabilities, whether judicial, administrative, investigative or otherwise, of whatever nature, known or unknown, liquidated or unliquidated (“Claims”), that may accrue to or be incurred by any Covered Person, or in which any Covered Person may become involved, as a party or otherwise, or with which any Covered Person may be threatened, relating to or arising out of the investment or other activities of the Management Company or its General Partner, or activities undertaken in connection with the Management Company or its General Partner, or otherwise relating to or arising out of this Agreement, including amounts paid in satisfaction of judgments, in compromise or as fines or penalties, and attorneys' fees and expenses incurred in connection with the preparation for or defense or disposition of any investigation, action, suit, arbitration or other proceeding (a "Proceeding"), whether civil or criminal (all of such Claims, amounts and expenses referred to therein are referred to collectively as "Damages"), except to the extent that it shall have been determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction, in a final nonappealable judgment, that such Damages arose primarily from Disabling Conduct of such Covered Person. The termination of any Proceeding by settlement, judgment, order, conviction or upon a plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent shall not, of itself, create a presumption that any Damages relating to such settlement, judgment, order, conviction or plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent or otherwise relating to such Proceeding arose primarily from Disabling Conduct of any Covered Persons. Any Covered Person shall be indemnified under the terms of this Section 6.03 regardless of such Covered Person's sole, comparative, joint, concurrent, or subsequent negligence.

Expenses (including attorneys' fees) incurred by a Covered Person in defense or settlement of any Claim that may be subject to a right of indemnification hereunder shall be advanced by the Management Company prior to the final disposition thereof upon receipt of a written undertaking by or on behalf of the Covered Person to repay the amount advanced to the extent that it shall be determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction that the Covered Person is not entitled to be indemnified hereunder. The right of any Covered Persons to the indemnification provided herein shall be cumulative of, and in addition to, any and all rights to which the Covered Person may otherwise be entitled by contract or as a matter of law or equity and shall be extended to the Covered Person's successors, assigns and legal representatives. Any judgments against the Management Company and/or any Covered Persons in respect of which such Covered Person is entitled to indemnification shall first be satisfied from the assets of the Management Company, including Drawdowns, before such Covered Person is responsible therefor.

Notwithstanding any provision of this Agreement to the contrary, the provisions of this Section 6.03 shall not be construed so as to provide for the indemnification of any Covered Person for any liability (including liability under Federal securities laws which, under certain circumstances, impose liability even on persons that act in good faith), to the extent (but only to the extent) that such indemnification would be in violation of applicable law, but shall be construed so as to effectuate the provisions of this Section 6.03 to the fullest extent permitted by law.

Section 6.04 Other Sources of Recovery etc. The indemnification rights set forth in Section 6.03 are in addition to, and shall not exclude, limit or otherwise adversely affect, any other indemnification or similar rights to which any Covered Person may be entitled. If and to the extent that other sources of recovery (including proceeds of any applicable policies of insurance or indemnification from any Person in which any of the Clients or Accounts has an investment) are available to any Covered Person, such Covered Person shall use reasonable efforts to obtain recovery from such other sources before the Company shall be required to make any payment in respect of its indemnification obligations hereunder; provided that, if such other recovery is not available without delay, the Covered Person shall be entitled to such payment by the Management Company and the Management Company shall be entitled to reimbursement out of such other recovery when and if obtained.

Section 6.05 Rights of Heirs, Successors and Assigns. The indemnification rights provided by Section 6.03 shall inure to the benefit of the heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns of each Covered Person.

Section 6.06 Reliance. A Covered Person shall incur no liability to the Management Company or any Member in acting upon any signature or writing reasonably believed by him, her or it to be genuine, and may rely in good faith on a certificate signed by an officer of any Person in order to ascertain any fact with respect to such Person or within such Person's knowledge. Each Covered Person may act directly or through his, her or its agents or attorneys.

(a) Neither Party may assign, pledge, grant or otherwise encumber or transfer all or any part of its rights or responsibilities under this Agreement, in whole or in part, except (i) as provided in clauses (b) and (c) of this Section 8.02, without the prior written consent of the other Party and (ii) in accordance with Applicable Law.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in this Section 8.02, the Staff and Services Provider may not assign its rights or responsibilities under this Agreement unless (i) the Management Company consents in writing thereto and (ii) such assignment is made in accordance with Applicable Law.

(c) The Staff and Services Provider may, without satisfying any of the conditions of Section 8.02(a) other than clause (ii) thereof, (1) assign any of its rights or obligations under this Agreement to an Affiliate; provided that such Affiliate (i) has demonstrated ability, whether as an entity or by its principals and employees, to professionally and competently perform duties similar to those imposed upon the Staff and Services Provider pursuant to this Agreement and (ii) has the legal right and capacity to act as Staff and Services Provider under this Agreement, or (2) enter into (or have its parent enter into) any consolidation or amalgamation with, or merger with or into, or transfer of all or substantially all of its assets to, another entity; provided that, at the time of such consolidation, merger, amalgamation or transfer the resulting, surviving or transferee entity assumes all the obligations of the Staff and Services Provider under this Agreement generally (whether by operation of law or by contract) and the other entity is a continuation of the Staff and Services Provider in another corporate or similar form and has substantially the same staff; provided further that the Staff and Services Provider shall deliver ten (10) Business Days' prior notice to the Management Company of any assignment or combination made pursuant to this sentence. Upon the execution and delivery of any such assignment by the assignee, the Staff and Services Provider will be released from further obligations pursuant to this Agreement except to the extent expressly provided herein.

Section 8.03 Non-Recourse; Non-Petition.

(a) The Staff and Services Provider agrees that the payment of all amounts to which it is entitled pursuant to this Agreement shall be payable by the Management Company only to the extent of assets held in the Portfolio.

(b) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, the liability of the Management Company to the Staff and Services Provider hereunder is limited in recourse to the Portfolio, and if the proceeds of the Portfolio following the liquidation thereof are insufficient to meet the obligations of the Management Company hereunder in full, the Management Company shall have no further liability in respect of any such outstanding obligations, and such obligations and all claims of the Staff and Services Provider or any other Person against the Management Company hereunder shall thereupon extinguish and not thereafter revive. The Staff and Services Provider accepts that the obligations of the Management Company hereunder are the corporate obligations of the Management Company and are not the obligations of any employee, member, officer, director or administrator of the Management Company and no action may be taken against any such Person in relation to the obligations of the Management Company hereunder.

(c) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, any Staff and Services Provider agrees not to institute against, or join any other Person in instituting against, the Management Company any bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, insolvency, moratorium or liquidation proceedings, or other proceedings under United States federal or state bankruptcy laws, or similar laws until at least one year and one day (or, if longer, the then applicable preference period plus one day) after the payment in full all amounts payable in respect of any Indebtedness incurred to finance any portion of the Portfolio; provided that nothing in this provision shall preclude, or be deemed to stop, the Staff and Services Provider from taking any action prior to the expiration of the aforementioned one year and one day period (or, if longer, the applicable preference period then in effect plus one day) in (i) any case or proceeding voluntarily filed or commenced by the Management Company, or (ii) any involuntary insolvency proceeding filed or commenced against the Management Company by a Person other than the Staff and Services Provider.

(d) The Management Company hereby acknowledges and agrees that the Staff and Services Provider's obligations hereunder shall be solely the corporate obligations of the Staff and Services Provider, and are not the obligations of any employee, member, officer, director or administrator of the Staff and Services Provider and no action may be taken against any such Person in relation to the obligations of the Staff and Services Provider hereunder.

(e) The provisions of this Section 8.03 shall survive termination of this Agreement for any reason whatsoever.

Section 8.04 Governing Law.

(a) This Agreement shall be governed by, and construed in accordance with, the laws of the State of Texas. The Parties unconditionally and irrevocably consent to the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts located in the State of Texas and waive any objection with respect thereto, for the purpose of any action, suit or proceeding arising out of or relating to this Agreement or the transactions contemplated hereby.

(b) The Parties irrevocably agree for the benefit of each other that the courts of the State of Texas and the United States District Court located in the Northern District of Texas in Dallas are to have exclusive jurisdiction to settle any disputes (whether contractual or non-contractual) which may arise out of or in connection with this Agreement and that accordingly any action arising out of or in connection therewith (together referred to as "Proceedings") may be brought in such courts. The Parties irrevocably submit to the jurisdiction of such courts and waive any objection which they may have now or hereafter to the laying of the venue of any Proceedings in any such court and any claim that any Proceedings have been brought in an inconvenient forum and further irrevocably agree that a judgment in any Proceedings brought in such courts shall be conclusive and binding upon the Parties and may be enforced in the courts of any other jurisdiction.

Section 8.05 WAIVER OF JURY TRIAL. EACH OF THE PARTIES HERETO HEREBY KNOWINGLY, VOLUNTARILY AND INTENTIONALLY WAIVES ANY RIGHTS IT MAY HAVE TO A TRIAL BY JURY IN RESPECT OF ANY LITIGATION BASED HEREON, OR ARISING OUT OF, UNDER, OR IN CONNECTION WITH, THIS AGREEMENT. EACH PARTY HERETO ACKNOWLEDGES AND AGREES THAT IT HAS RECEIVED FULL AND SUFFICIENT CONSIDERATION FOR THIS PROVISION AND THAT THIS PROVISION IS A MATERIAL INDUCEMENT FOR ITS ENTERING INTO THIS AGREEMENT.

Section 8.06 Severability. The provisions of this Agreement are independent of and severable from each other, and no provision shall be affected or rendered invalid or unenforceable by virtue of the fact that for any reason any other or others of them may be invalid or unenforceable in whole or in part. Upon such determination that any term or other provision is invalid, illegal or incapable of being enforced, the Parties shall negotiate in good faith to modify this Agreement so as to effect the original intent of the Parties.

Section 8.07 No Waiver. The performance of any condition or obligation imposed upon any Party may be waived only upon the written consent of the Parties. Such waiver shall be limited to the terms thereof and shall not constitute a waiver of any other condition or obligation of the other Party. Any failure by any Party to enforce any provision shall not constitute a waiver of that or any other provision or this Agreement.

Section 8.08 Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts by facsimile or other written or electronic form of communication, each of which shall be deemed to be an original as against any Party whose signature appears thereon, and all of which shall together constitute one and the same instrument. This Agreement shall become binding when one or more counterparts hereof, individually or taken together, shall bear the signatures of all of the Parties reflected hereon as the signatories.

Section 8.09 Third Party Beneficiaries. This Agreement is for the sole benefit of the Parties hereto and their permitted assigns and nothing herein express or implied shall give or be construed to give to any Person, other than the Parties hereto and such permitted assigns, any legal or equitable rights hereunder. For avoidance of doubt, this Agreement is not for the benefit of and is not enforceable by any Shared Employee, Client or Account or any investor (directly or indirectly) in the Management Company.

Section 8.10 No Partnership or Joint Venture. Nothing set forth in this Agreement shall constitute, or be construed to create, an employment relationship, a partnership or a joint venture between the Parties. Except as expressly provided herein or in any other written agreement between the Parties, no Party has any authority, express or implied, to bind or to incur liabilities on behalf of, or in the name of, any other Party.

Section 8.11 Independent Contractor. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary, the Staff and Services Provider shall be deemed to be an independent contractor and, except as expressly provided or authorized herein, shall have no authority to act for or represent the Management Company or any Client or Account in which the Management Company acts as portfolio manager or investment manager or in a similar capacity in any manner or otherwise be deemed an agent of the Management Company or any Client or Account in which the Management Company acts as portfolio manager or investment manager or in a similar capacity.

Section 8.12 Written Disclosure Statement. The Management Company acknowledges receipt of Part 2 of the Staff and Services Provider's Form ADV, as required by Rule 204-3 under the Advisers Act, on or before the date of execution of this Agreement.

Section 8.13 Headings. The descriptive headings contained in this Agreement are for convenience of reference only and shall not affect in any way the meaning or interpretation of this Agreement.

Section 8.14 Entire Agreement. This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement of the Parties with respect to the subject matter hereof and supersedes all prior agreements and undertakings, both written and oral, between the Parties with respect to such subject matter.

Section 8.15 Notices. Any notice or demand to any Party to be given, made or served for any purposes under this Agreement shall be given, made or served by sending the same by overnight mail or email transmission or by delivering it by hand as follows:

1. Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement dated effective as of January 1, 2018 by and between NPA and HCMLP
2. Payroll Expense Reimbursement Agreement dated as of May 1, 2018 by and between NPA and HCMLP (as amended by Amendment Number One December 14, 2018)

Subject to and in reliance upon the payments by NPA and HCMFA of the Pre-Paid Fees, HCMLP hereby agrees to continue the term of each of the Services Agreements for an additional period of 14 calendar days, with the first of such calendar days being February 1, 2021 (the “Extension Period”). Thereafter, the undersigned parties, HCMLP, NPA, and HCMFA agree and acknowledge that each of the NPA Services Agreement and the HCMFA Services Agreement will terminate automatically and without any further action or notice.

Subject: Response to KL Gates Letter Dated January 27, 2021

Mr. Powell:

I write to respond briefly to your counsel's letter to me dated today. I will not be communicating with your counsel.

Initially, as I stated on the phone to you prior to your termination of my call, either the Funds' Board is unaware of the actions taken by the Funds in court over the past week or the Board is complicit in those actions. In my opinion, the Funds' CCO perjured himself multiple times yesterday, and the advisors and the Funds fabricated a false claim that HCMLP breached the Advisors Act with respect to HCMLP's management of certain CLOs. Based on our prior dealings, I would not have expected the Funds and their Boards to participate in such a false narrative in the Bankruptcy Court and hope that it was a case of counsel and the CCO hiding their tactics from the Board. We can address these issues at a later time.

With respect to the KL Gates letter, as the Board is aware, HCMLP has been pursuing a plan of reorganization that calls for termination of the shared service agreements with the Funds and their advisors for months. HCMLP has given timely notice of termination of the shared service agreements. As the Boards are further aware, for the past several months, HCMLP has attempted to work on a transition of HCMLP employees to a Dondero controlled entity that could work with the Funds to provide the services previously provided by HCMLP. And as I specifically told the Funds' Board, that arrangement is dependent on cooperation from Mr. Dondero as the person in complete control of the advisors. Since Mr. Dondero is also the portfolio manager of the advisors, HCMLP assumes that the Board have been in regular communication with him about the transition, especially since the termination notices were sent. KL Gates is correct that the shared service agreements and all services thereunder terminate on January 31, 2021 (the "Termination Date").

For the past several months, Mr. Dondero has refused to permit the negotiation of a transition arrangement on behalf of advisors. In the past few weeks, HCMLP and its advisors have been attempting to work with Brian Collins and JP Sevilla (senior HCMLP employees) to construct a transition arrangement based on the terms HCMLP has been proposing for months. Those soon to be former HCMLP employees would form their own company (with other former HCMLP employees) to provide the services to the advisors, the Funds, and others. We believe that arrangement is potentially close to agreement and will be documented in a term sheet that will need to be executed prior to the end of the day on the Termination Date. If the term sheet is agreed to, properly executed, and its conditions precedent are met, it will govern the respective parties' arrangement and the provision of services while final documents incorporating the agreement are drafted during the first two weeks of February.

A key condition precedent is for the advisors and their related entities to pay all post-petition amounts due to HCMLP. (HCMLP has already commenced actions to collect certain other amounts due to it from those related entities.). The total post-petition amount owed is approximately $5.5 million.

HCMLP encourages the Board to reach out to Messrs. Collins and Sevilla to gain an understanding of the terms of the potential transition arrangement, the counterparties' willingness to execute the term sheet, and the counterparties' ability to timely make the required payment.

I will not address the remainder of the KL Gates letter. By declining to address the letter, HCMLP does not agree with it, save for the recognition that termination of the shared service agreements has been properly given and that the agreements and services thereunder terminate on the Termination Date. HCMLP reserves all its rights and claims.

Best. Jim

February 8, 2021

Dear Members of the Board of Trustees:

I write regarding the transition of the Shared Services (as defined below) provided by Highland Capital Management LP ("HCMLP") to NexPoint Advisors, L.P. and Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. (the "Fund Advisers"), which serve as investment advisers to the investment companies registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 that are overseen by the Board (collectively, the "Funds").

As you are aware, HCMLP provides certain back- and middle-office services, administrative, infrastructure, and other services to the Fund Advisers under Shared Service Agreements between HCMLP and the Fund Advisers (the "Shared Service Agreements"). These services include office space and facilities, personnel sharing/human resources, information technology, trade desk services, compliance/risk personnel, administrative, tax, document negotiation, valuation, and reporting services as described more fully in the Shared Service Agreements (collectively, the "Shared Services").

As the Board is also aware, HCMLP gave the required advance notice of termination of its services under the Shared Service Agreements more than two months ago, and has extended that notice for an additional two weeks, solely to accommodate the Fund Advisers' need for additional time to transition services. Accordingly, February 14, 2021 is now the extended termination date of the Shared Services Agreements and related Payroll Expense Reimbursement Agreements that form the basis of the services provided by HCMLP to the Fund Advisers.

As of today, the Fund Advisers have not confirmed that they are prepared to fully service the Funds without interruption following the termination. As discussed below, HCMLP is in bankruptcy, has diminishing resources, and is subject to a creditor's committee and plan of reorganization that does not contemplate HCMLP continuing to provide services to the Fund Advisers after February 14, 2021. As a result, we are once again providing the Board with notice that it must exercise its oversight responsibility over the Funds to assure that there is a replacement service provider by February 15, 2021.

Both before and after notice of termination was given, HCMLP has endeavored in good faith to negotiate an appropriate transition of the shared services to a newly-formed company ("NewCo") that will be owned and operated by the very same employees that oversee the provision of the shared services now (following their termination by HCMLP, that is).

Our interest in transitioning this business and these employees is not simply a desire, it is part and parcel of the reorganization and Chapter 11 restructuring plan for HCMLP that was approved by the federal bankruptcy court this morning.

Unfortunately, our negotiations with the Fund Advisers to bring this matter to a conclusion, while ongoing, have not resulted in an agreement. And indeed, the Fund Advisers' conduct at times has been counterproductive to the transition of these services, requiring multiple instances of court intervention to prevent harm to HCMLP or the estate.

HCMLP recognizes the potential consequences of a material disruption in the Fund Advisers' services to the Funds and their investors, and therefore has at all times sought to ensure uninterrupted service to the Fund Advisers. Most recently we offered to extend the termination date for an additional 14 days, despite not having been paid by the Fund Advisers for our services for months prior to the extension. To be clear, however, HCMLP is a debtor in bankruptcy and is winding down its operations and employees. At some point shortly after February 14, HCMLP will no longer have the resources to provide these services to the Fund Advisers. Moreover, the bankruptcy creates uncertainty about future employment status for the HCMLP employees providing services to the Fund Advisers, creating risk to our future ability to provide these services, which we understand are necessary to the Funds.

We remain committed to attempting to transition the Shared Services to NewCo or any other successor servicer selected by the Board and/or the Fund Advisers. We continue to actively negotiate a binding term sheet that would ensure a smooth and successful transition. We cannot complete this negotiation without the Fund Advisers' participation and agreement. For this reason, we reiterate that the Trustees must (i) make clear to the Fund Advisers their shared commitment to that transition, and (ii) specifically articulate to us their plan to ensure the Funds do not fail in the event the Fund Advisers do not agree to a plan of transition.

Without waiver to our claims against the Fund Advisers, including the Fund Advisers' material default in payments to HCMLP, in the interests of facilitating an orderly transition by February 15, HCMLP is also prepared to make the web and e-mail domains and data relevant to the shared services available to NewCo at the time of transition.

In closing, HCMLP has acted in good faith at all times to effectuate the orderly transition of the Shared Services. Now that we face the loss of budget and personnel needed to provide these services, I think we can agree that the interests of the Funds and their shareholders are not served by the Fund Advisers' refusal to bring this matter to closure by the February 14 termination date. The solution is at hand and we see no reason why, with your commitment, the transition cannot be completed in an orderly fashion in advance of that termination.

Sincerely,

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

February 12, 2021

Dear Members of the Boards of Trustees/Directors:

I write further to my letter of February 8, 2021 regarding the termination or transition of the shared services provided by Highland Capital Management LP ("HCMLP") to NexPoint Advisors, L.P. and Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. (the "Fund Advisers"), which serve as investment advisers to the investment companies registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 that are overseen by the Board (collectively, the "Funds").

Specifically, I am writing to be sure that the current status from our perspective is clear to you as HCMLP seeks to resolve this matter:

Negotiation of Term Sheet to Transition Services to an Alternative Service Provider

In my February 8th letter, I indicated that our negotiations with the Fund Advisers are ongoing, but an agreement remains beyond our collective grasp. HCMLP believes that we are at a point where there are no open material business issues. Our most recent draft of the Term Sheet to the Fund Advisers provides the Fund Advisers with access to all necessary information, systems, and data.

Specifically, under the Term Sheet, in exchange for the agreed upon fees, HCMLP will agree to:

(i) provide access for employees and personnel of the Fund Advisers and their subsidiaries to and use of the offices, and facilities of HCMLP in a manner consistent with customary access and use by employees and shared personnel (of the newco) of the Fund Advisers and their subsidiaries,

(ii) provide employees and personnel of the Fund Advisers with access to and use of the systems and resources of HCMLP as set forth on an extensive schedule of vendor agreements, software platforms, IT services, trading systems, administrative systems, and other resources, in each case as agreed by the parties, and

(iii) transfer to the Fund Advisers all of HCMLP's rights title and interest in the domain names required by the Fund Advisers. In turn, the cost of the leased space and other Shared Resources will be shared by the parties as agreed on the detailed schedule on an item-by-item basis, but generally reflecting a split of 60% payable by the Fund Advisers and 40% payable by HCMLP (except with respect to rent where the split is 75% payable by the Fund Advisers and 25% payable by HCMLP).

By way of background, after pushing to commence these negotiations since last summer, we finally got some engagement from the Fund Advisers and provided the revised draft Term Sheet to counsel for the Fund Advisers on January 28th. We have since collectively revised the draft several times, including sending a draft on February 2nd and most recently providing the current draft yesterday. We are prepared to execute the current draft of the revised Term Sheet today.

We write to share this information with the Independent Trustees/Directors of the Funds because HCMLP believes it cannot provide these services beyond February 19, 2021. It is for you and your counsel to assess whether the Board should take steps to assure that services to the Funds will be maintained beyond this date. Of course, our position is that it is your fiduciary duty to meet that obligation. We are confident we have met our obligations and are prepared to take steps to underscore that position.

February 19th Deadline

As you know, last November HCMLP provided the Fund Advisers with the requisite two-month notice under the Shared Services Agreements. The Fund Advisers did not arrange for an alternative service provider during this period, even though this issue has been on the table since last summer.

Nonetheless, in the interest of reaching a good faith resolution, HCMLP extended the termination of the shared services from January 31st to February 14th to provide additional time for the Fund Advisers to transition. We have now agreed to further extended the termination deadline an additional working week, to February 19th, conditioned on payment. But we have reached the point where our obligations to the Estate means that this is a firm deadline. After February 19th, HCMLP will not be in a position to continue to provide services to the Fund Advisers. This will result in the cessation of services that have been provided to the Fund Advisers, including, without limitation, pricing, striking of daily net asset values, compliance support, trading systems, email, and other IT functions. These services may be required for Funds' shareholders to purchase and sell shares of the Funds unless you have arranged alternative services from a successor provider.

HCMLP stands ready to cooperate to transition necessary data and files to a successor services provider identified by the Funds and/or the Fund Advisers.

Fund Board Involvement

In my February 8th letter, I requested on behalf of HCMLP that the Board (i) make clear to the Fund Advisers their shared commitment to that transition, and (ii) specifically articulate to us their plan to ensure the Funds do not fail in the event the Fund Advisers do not agree to a plan of transition.

We await a written position on these issues.

Sincerely,

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

INSTRUCTIONS

The filing of a bankruptcy case creates an “estate” under the jurisdiction of the bankruptcy court which consists of all of the property of the debtor, wherever that property is located. Because the bankruptcy estate is so extensive and the jurisdiction of the court so broad, there may be lawsuits over the property or property rights of the estate. There also may be lawsuits concerning the debtor’s discharge. If such a lawsuit is filed in a bankruptcy court, it is called an adversary proceeding.

A party filing an adversary proceeding must also must complete and file Form 1040, the Adversary Proceeding Cover Sheet, unless the party files the adversary proceeding electronically through the court’s Case Management/Electronic Case Filing system (CM/ECF). (CM/ECF captures the information on Form 1040 as part of the filing process.) When completed, the cover sheet summarizes basic information on the adversary proceeding. The clerk of court needs the information to process the adversary proceeding and prepare required statistical reports on court activity.

The cover sheet and the information contained on it do not replace or supplement the filing and service of pleadings or other papers as required by law, the Bankruptcy Rules, or the local rules of court. The cover sheet, which is largely self-explanatory, must be completed by the plaintiff’s attorney (or by the plaintiff if the plaintiff is not represented by an attorney). A separate cover sheet must be submitted to the clerk for each complaint filed.

Plaintiffs and Defendants. Give the names of the plaintiffs and defendants exactly as they appear on the complaint.

Attorneys. Give the names and addresses of the attorneys, if known.

Party. Check the most appropriate box in the first column for the plaintiffs and the second column for the defendants.

Demand. Enter the dollar amount being demanded in the complaint.

Signature. This cover sheet must be signed by the attorney of record in the box on the second page of the form. If the plaintiff is represented by a law firm, a member of the firm must sign. If the plaintiff is pro se, that is, not represented by an attorney, the plaintiff must sign.

RESPONSE TO DEBTOR’S OBJECTION TO APPLICATION FOR ADMINISTRATIVE CLAIM OF HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT
FUND ADVISORS, L.P. AND NEXPOINT ADVISORS, L.P.

TO THE HONORABLE STACEY G.C. JERNIGAN, U.S. BANKRUPTCY JUDGE:

NOW COME Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. and NexPoint Advisors,
L.P. (the “Advisors”) and file this Response to Debtor’s Objection to Application for

Administrative Claim of Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. and NexPoint Advisors, L.P., respectfully stating as follows:

I. SUMMARY

1. In response to the Advisors' Admin Claim, the Debtor asserts only waiver and the voluntary payment rule. But neither applies. The parties' contracts contain enforceable nonwaiver provisions, and the Advisors acted promptly to assert and protect their rights after becoming aware they had overpaid the Debtor. The voluntary payment rule does not apply to statutory claims or contract claims, nor does it apply when there is a mistake of fact. Neither of these defenses bars the Admin Claim, and the Debtor's other objections amount to irrelevant ad hominem attacks that lack any real substance. The Court should overrule the Debtor's objection and grant the Admin Claim.

II. BACKGROUND

2. On January 24, 2021, the Advisors filed their Application for Allowance of Administrative Expense Claim (Bankr. Dkt. No. 1826, the "Admin Claim").

3. On February 22, 2021, the Court entered its Order (I) Confirming the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) and (II) Granting Related Relief (Dkt. No. 1943, the "Confirmation Order"), pursuant to which it confirmed the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) (the "Plan").

4. Under the Plan and Confirmation Order, the Administrative Expense Claims Bar Date is forty-five days after the Plan's Effective Date. The Effective Date occurred on August 11,

2021, see Dkt. No. 2700, so the Administrative Expense Claims Bar Date did not occur until September 27, 2021.<sup>1</sup>

5. On May 5, 2021, Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the “Debtor”) filed its Debtor’s Objection to Application for Administrative Claim of Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. and NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (Bankr. Dkt. No. 2274, the “Objection”).

6. The Admin Claim is based on overpayments the Advisors made to the Debtor under those certain shared services agreements and payroll reimbursement agreements (collectively, the “Agreements”). In its Objection, the Debtor insinuates the Advisors were aware of the overpayments for more than six months before filing the Admin Claim. But that is not factually accurate. The issue did not crystalize until late November 2020. Upon discovering the overpayments and realizing their magnitude, the Advisors promptly ceased making payments under the Agreements. The Advisors also attempted to address the issue with the Debtor.

7. On December 1, 2021, Debtor employee David Klos acknowledged the overpayments under the payroll reimbursement agreements in particular:

These have not changed since BK, which given the changes in headcount you point out along with not paying insider bonus compensation, has increased the profitability of the contracts from HCMLP’s perspective.

Unsurprisingly, the Advisors’ attempts to negotiate with the Debtor went nowhere.

8. On or about March 1, 2021, following termination of the Agreements, the Debtor and the Advisors entered into that certain Shared Resources Agreement, pursuant to which they expressly preserved the Admin Claim:

For the avoidance of doubt, each Party reserves all rights it has, or may have, including all rights to pursue and defend any claims and/or causes of action, with respect to any matter, agreement, or understanding not explicitly addressed in this Agreement. The Parties expressly reserve all rights with respect to amounts asserted in connection with the NexPoint Parties' administrative claim, including, without limitation the NexPoint Parties' right to amend such claim to assert additional or lesser amounts, including with respect to the post-petition amounts owed under the Shared Services Agreements; provided, that under no circumstances shall such claim or claims give rise to any right of offset against any amounts payable hereunder, the rights of HCMLP to object to such claim as well as all rights and defenses in connection with all pending and potential Adversary Proceedings between the Parties. All such claims and defenses are expressly preserved for future resolution by the court.

9. The shared services agreement between the Debtor and NexPoint contains the following nonwaiver clause:

The performance of any condition or obligation imposed upon any Party may be waived only upon the written consent of the Parties. Such waiver shall be, limited to the terms thereof and shall not constitute a waiver of any other condition or obligation of the other Party. Any failure by any Party to enforce any provision shall not constitute a waiver of that or any other provision or this Agreement.

10. The other three Agreements all contain the following nonwaiver clause:

No failure on the part of any Party to exercise or delay in exercising any right hereunder will be deemed a waiver thereof, nor will any single or partial exercise preclude any further or other exercise of such or any other right.

11. All of the Agreements contain provisions stating they are governed by and shall be interpreted under the laws of the State of Texas.

III. ARGUMENT & AUTHORITIES

A. THE ADVISORS HAVE NOT WAIVED THE ADMIN CLAIM

12. The Debtor claims the Advisors waived the Admin Claim. But this is wrong for two reasons. First, the Agreements contain enforceable nonwaiver provisions. Second, even if they did not, the Advisors plainly never manifested an intent to waive their rights.

i. The Agreements Contain Enforceable Nonwaiver Provisions

13. "Given Texas's strong public policy favoring freedom of contract, there can be no doubt that, as a general proposition, nonwaiver provisions are binding and enforceable." Shields Ltd. P'ship v. Bradberry, 526 S.W.3d 471, 481 (Tex. 2017). True, "a party's rights under a nonwaiver provision my indeed be waived expressly or impliedly.” Id. at 482-83. But in order to waive a nonwaiver provision, “there must, at a minimum, be some act inconsistent with its terms.” Id. at 474. More specifically, “[w]hile waiver may sometimes be established by conduct, that conduct must be unequivocally inconsistent with claiming a known right.” Id. at 485 (quoting Van Indep. Sch. Dist. v. McCarty, 165 S.W.3d 351, 353 (Tex. 2005)). Simply “engaging in the very conduct disclaimed as a basis for waiver is insufficient as a matter of law to nullify the nonwaiver provision in the parties’ ... agreement.” Id. at 484-85.

14. The Debtor has not identified any conduct unequivocally inconsistent with enforcing the nonwaiver provisions in the Agreements, as opposed to conduct allegedly inconsistent merely with asserting the Admin Claim itself. A recent case highlights this critical distinction. In re United Servs. Auto. Ass’n, No. 03-19-00292-CV, 2020 Tex. App. LEXIS 10203 (Tex. App.—Austin Dec. 23, 2020) (“USAA”). Insured homeowners asserted that their insurer’s delay invoking an appraisal clause “should be viewed as waving its rights under the nonwaiver provision as well as waiving its rights under the appraisal clause.” Id. at *6. “However,” the Court held, “even assuming that USAA’s delay amounted to intentional conduct inconsistent with claiming its rights to enforce the appraisal agreement, it does not follow that such behavior was also ‘inconsistent with claiming the right to enforce the nonwaiver agreement.’” Id. at *6-7 (quoting Shields, 526 S.W.3d at 485). The same is true here. None of the Advisors’ alleged conduct is unequivocally inconsistent—or even moderately inconsistent—with enforcing the Agreements’ nonwaiver provisions. Such provisions are enforceable and bar the Debtor’s waiver argument.

ii. The Advisors Never Intended to Waive their Rights

15. Even if the Agreements did not contain enforceable nonwaiver provisions, there is no basis for the Debtor to argue the Advisors waived the Admin Claim. Waiver has three elements:

“(1) an existing right, benefit, or advantage held by a party; (2) the party’s actual knowledge of its existence; and (3) the party’s actual intent to relinquish the right, or intentional conduct inconsistent with the right.” Ulico Cas. Co. v. Allied Pilots Ass’n, 262 S.W.3d 773, 778 (Tex. 2008). Waiver “is ordinarily a question of fact, dependent on things done and said, and the burden of proof is on the party relying on waiver.” Alford, Meroney & Co. v. Rowe, 619 S.W.2d 210, 213 (Tex. App.—Amarillo 1981) (citations omitted). Silence or inaction may be evidence of waiver, but it must be “coupled with knowledge of the known right, for such an unreasonable period of time as to indicate an intention to waive the right. Id.

16. The Advisors discovered the overpayments under the Agreements in late November 2020. They tried to engage the Debtor, but the Debtor refused to listen, even though at least one Debtor employee acknowledged the problem. In January, the Advisors filed the Admin Claim, eight months before the Court-ordered deadline to do so. There is simply no basis under these facts to conclude the Advisors actually intended to relinquish their rights under the Agreements. Indeed, the facts plainly show otherwise.

B. THE VOLUNTARY PAYMENT RULE DOES NOT APPLY

17. Next, the Debtor argues the voluntary payment rule bars the Admin Claim. But this is wrong for two reasons as well. First, the voluntary payment rule does not apply to breach of contract and other similar claims. Second, the voluntary payment rule only applies when there is a mistake of law, not a mistake of fact.

i. The Voluntary Payment Rule Does Not Apply to Breach of Contract

18. Historically, the voluntary payment rule was “a defense to claims asserting unjust enrichment; that is, when a plaintiff sues for restitution claiming a payment constitutes unjust enrichment, a defendant may respond with the voluntary-payment rule as a defense.” See BMG Direct Mktg. v. Peake, 178 S.W.3d 763, 768 (Tex. 2004). But “[a]lthough the voluntary-payment rule has been applied, at times, in both private and public contexts, other legal and statutory remedies have evolved over time to supplant the rule's application in many of these contexts." Id. at 770. "Thus, although the voluntary-payment rule may have been widely used by parties and some Texas courts at one time, its scope has diminished as the rule's equitable policy concerns have been addressed through statutory or other legal remedies." Id. at 771. "Like other equitable claims and defenses, an adequate legal remedy may render equitable claims of unjust enrichment and equitable defenses of voluntary-payment unavailable." Id. at 770. While not completely abrogated, the rule today has only "limited application in Texas jurisprudence." Id. at 771.

19. As an initial matter, an administrative expense claim is a statutory remedy, and the statute should govern. Moreover, Courts have expressly held that the voluntary payment rule does not apply to breach of contract claims. Lopez v. Bailon, No. 07-14-00442-CV, 2016 Tex. App. LEXIS 8458, *10 (Tex. App.—Amarillo Aug. 4, 2016) ("The voluntary payment defense does not apply to a simple breach of contract action."); see BMG Direct Mktg., 178 S.W.3d at 775 ("It is true that, to the extent the subject matter of Peake's claim is covered by the parties' contract, the rule would not apply."). The Advisors have not submitted merely a common-law unjust enrichment claim. They have asserted a claim under the Bankruptcy Code and written contracts. Under these circumstances, the voluntary payment rule does not apply.

ii. The Voluntary Payment Rule Does Not Apply to Mistakes of Fact

20. Long ago, the Texas Supreme Court "stated the common-law voluntary-payment rule as follows: 'Money voluntarily paid on a claim of right, with full knowledge of all the facts, in the absence of fraud, deception, duress, or compulsion, cannot be recovered back merely because the party at the time of payment was ignorant of or mistook the law as to his liability.'" BMG Direct Mktg., 178 S.W.3d at 768 (Tex. 2004) (quoting Pennell v. United Ins. Co., 243 S.W.2d 572, 576 (Tex. 1951) (quoting 40 AM. JUR. § 205 (1942))) (emphasis added). The rule does not apply to mistakes of fact. See Central Austin Apts., LLC v. UP Austin Holdings, LP, No. 03-13-00080-CV, 2014 Tex. App. LEXIS 10357, *44 n.28 (Tex. App.—Austin Dec. 8, 2014. rev'd on other grounds) (“The voluntary-payment rule does not bar restitution based on mutual mistake of fact.”). Indeed, “for the voluntary-payment rule to apply, a person must pay ‘with full knowledge of all the facts.’” BMG Direct Mktg., 178 S.W.3d at 772.

21. Here, the Advisors were not aware of all the facts until late November 2020. Upon becoming aware, they immediately ceased payments under the Agreements. Under the circumstances, the voluntary payment rule does not apply.

IV. RESERVATION OF RIGHTS

22. On December 17, 2021, the Court entered its Order Approving Stipulation Regarding Second Amended Scheduling Order (Adv. Dkt. No. 56, the “Stipulated Order”).

23. Under the Stipulated Order, inter alia, the following deadlines apply:

- a. “Responses to the Objection (‘Responses’) shall be filed on or before December 22, 2021, unless otherwise agreed in writing by the Parties.”
- b. “Depositions shall be scheduled and concluded on or before January 20, 2022, unless otherwise agreed in writing by the Parties.”
- c. “Any Party wishing to file a trial brief shall file and serve the same on or before February 1, 2022.”

24. Accordingly, considering the procedural posture of this adversary proceeding and the fact that discovery is ongoing, the Advisors reserve all their rights, including the right to file a comprehensive trial brief and to put on their case at trial consistent with applicable notice-pleading standards.

V. CONCLUSION

WHEREFORE, PREMISES CONSIDERED, the Advisors respectfully request that the Court enter an order (I) granting and allowing the Admin Claim; (II) overruling the Debtor’s

Objection; and (III) providing the Advisors such other and further relief to which they are entitled at law or in equity.

RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED this 22nd day of December, 2021.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.’S REPLY IN FURTHER SUPPORT OF DEBTOR’S OBJECTION TO APPLICATION FOR ADMINISTRATIVE CLAIMS OF HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT FUND ADVISORS, L.P. AND NEXPOINT ADVISORS, L.P.

Highland Capital Management, L.P., the reorganized debtor and the plaintiff in the above-referenced adversary proceeding (“Highland”), hereby files this reply (i) in opposition to the Advisors’ Response to Debtor’s Objection to Application for Administrative Claim of Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P., and NexPoint Advisors, L.P. [Adv. Docket No. 49] (the “Response”) and (ii) in further support of Debtor’s Objection to Application for Administrative Claim of Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. and NexPoint Advisors, L.P. [Docket No. 2274] (the “Objection”).<sup>2</sup> In furtherance thereof, Highland states as follows:

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. On January 24, 2021, on the eve of Highland’s confirmation hearing and with virtually no prior notice, the Advisors filed their Application for a $14 million administrative priority claim on account of alleged overpayments made to Highland (the “Alleged Claim”). The Application has no merit and ignores or distorts critical facts. Highland performed under the Agreements in accordance with their terms and past practice, including prepetition practice, and the Advisors received exactly what they bargained for. Even assuming the Advisors could meet their burden of proof and establish a breach (which they cannot), the Alleged Claim has been waived, is barred by the “voluntary payment” rule, is facially and incredibly inflated, and is subject to setoff.

2. A quick review of the Advisors’ evolving story and its implications shows the lack of credibility in the Application and the Response:

- The Advisors contend that “beginning around July 2020, Mr. Seery directed the Debtor to cease providing services to the Advisors as otherwise contemplated under the SSAs and PRAs.” Application ¶ 16. This allegation is facially absurd because it would have resulted in the immediate and catastrophic default by the Advisors under their agreements with their retail fund clients, something that obviously never occurred.<sup>3</sup>
- Despite alleging that Highland ceased providing services in July 2020, the Advisors incredibly and inexplicably seek “damages” going back eight months earlier—to the Petition Date—before anyone in the Highland case had even heard of Mr. Seery.
- After Highland discovered written evidence that the Advisors assured the Retail Boards in October 2020 that Highland was performing under the Agreements, the Advisors were forced to change their story, now contending that they did not discover the overpayments until November 2020. Response ¶ 16.

3. As will be proven at trial, the Advisors will fail to meet their burden of proving Highland breached the Agreements. Instead, the evidence will show that, with full knowledge of the services being provided by Highland, the Advisors continued to timely make all payments required under the Agreements until weeks after Mr. Dondero was forced to resign in October 2020. At that time, and despite assuring the Retail Boards that Highland was performing under the Agreements, the Advisors concocted their Alleged Claim, and Mr. Dondero directed the Advisors to stop paying all amounts due and owing to Highland, including those owed under the Agreements – not because of the Alleged Claim, but as part of his broader strategy to burn Highland down.

<sup>3</sup> It is beyond dispute that the Advisors did not have the ability to service their retail funds without Highland’s support during this period of time.

4. The Objection should be sustained, and the Court should enter a judgment in Highland's favor for all unpaid amounts due and owing under the Agreements.

RELEVANT BACKGROUND

A. Highland Complied with the Agreements

5. On February 8, 2013, Highland and HCMFA executed the HCMFA SSA. On January 1, 2018, Highland and NexPoint executed the NexPoint SSA (together with the HCMFA SSA, the "Shared Services Agreements").

6. On May 1, 2018, Highland and NexPoint executed the NexPoint PRA and Highland and HCMFA executed the HCMFA PRA (together with the NexPoint PRA, the "Reimbursement Agreements").

7. James Dondero owned and/or controlled Highland, HCMFA, and NexPoint (i) when the Shared Services Agreements and Reimbursement Agreements (together, the "Agreements") were entered into, and (ii) at all times from the date of execution of the Agreements through January 9, 2020, when he ceded control of Highland. Mr. Dondero has continued to control the Advisors through the present time.

8. As will be established at trial, and consistent with its prepetition practice, Highland provided the services required by the Agreements following the Petition Date.<sup>4</sup> Despite this, the Advisors filed the Application and Response but failed to disclose that (i) with numerous of their officers simultaneously employed by Highland, the Advisors knew at all relevant times exactly what services Highland was providing and by whom they were being provided; (ii) Mr. Waterhouse, the Advisors' "authorized agent," was responsible for, knew of, and approved all payments made by the Advisors to Highland under the Agreements; (iii) the Advisors assured the boards overseeing the Advisors' retail funds (the "Retail Boards") that Highland was performing under the Agreements and was working with the Advisors on a transition plan to avoid any interruption in such services arising from Highland's termination of the Agreements; (iv) in February 2021, the Advisors requested, and received, multiple extensions of the Agreements without which the Advisors could not have operated their business; and (v) until the filing of the Application, the Advisors never contended that Highland had breached any of the Agreements.<sup>5</sup>

B. The Advisors' Allegations Concerning Damages and Related Matters Illustrate the Lack of Credibility in the Alleged Claim

9. On its face, the Advisors' $14 million claim is absurd as it appears to represent nearly all payments made by the Advisors to Highland under all of the Agreements – even during the periods (i) when Mr. Dondero remained in control of all of the entities, (ii) when Mr. Dondero was a portfolio manager at the Debtor, (iii) before Mr. Seery gave his alleged edict to cease all services in July 2020, and (iv) when the Advisors were representing to the Retail Boards that Highland was continuing to provide services under the Agreements.

C. The Timing of the Alleged Claim Is Suspect

10. In the Response, the Advisors contend for the first time that they only discovered the alleged overpayments in November 2020 and could not have filed the Application sooner (even though Mr. Seery allegedly directed the cessation of services in July 2020).

11. This contention makes no sense because there will be no dispute that the Advisors and their officers knew at all relevant times (i) the nature and extent of services Highland was providing, and (ii) the amount of money the Advisors were paying for those services. But as will be shown at trial, this belated contention is being advanced, among other reasons, in a futile attempt to justify the Advisors' tardiness in filing the Alleged Claim in response to Highland's waiver argument and to otherwise support spurious contentions.<sup>6</sup>

ARGUMENT

12. The facts will show the Advisors received the benefit of their bargain and the allegations of alleged overpayment are false. However, the Alleged Claim also fails as a matter of law because it has been waived and is otherwise barred by the "voluntary payment" rule.

A. The Advisors Waived the Alleged Claims

13. The Advisors argue they did not waive the Alleged Claim because (i) the Agreements contain enforceable nonwaiver provisions and (ii) they never manifested an intent to waive their rights. Response § 12.

14. Highland agrees that each Agreement contains a generic and broad nonwaiver provision.<sup>7</sup> However, the Texas Supreme Court has unequivocally held that a nonwaiver provision can itself be waived and has implied that broad, generic nonwaiver provisions – like those in the Agreements – may not be enforceable at all. Shields LP v. Bradberry, 526 S.W.3d 471, 482-83 (Tex. 2017) ("To the extent there has been any doubt up to this time, we affirm that a party's rights under a nonwaiver provision may indeed be waived expressly or impliedly"); Id. at 484 ("a nonwaiver provision absolutely barring waiver in the most general of terms might be wholly ineffective"); see also 8 Corbin on Contracts § 40.13 ("a provision that an express condition of a promise or promises in the contract cannot be eliminated by waiver, or by conduct constituting estoppel, is wholly ineffective”).

<sup>6</sup> As a result of Mr. Dondero's instructions, the Advisors owe Highland $2.56 million under the Agreements plus an additional $2.15 million in unpaid expense reimbursements, as of May 2021. This amount excludes other amounts owed by the Advisors, including the approximately $30 million due under various demand and term notes.

<sup>7</sup> NexPoint SSA § 8.07; HCMFA SSA §§9.02, 9.12; NexPoint PRA § 6.12; HCMFA PRA § 6.12. The Advisors also cite the reservation of rights in the Shared Resources Agreement, executed on March 1, 2021, as evidence of nonwaiver. Response ¶ 8. That agreement was entered into a month and a half after the filing of the Application and does not change the Advisors' conduct prior to the filing of the Application. Nor does it change the Advisors' rights. They reserved the Alleged Claim with all its deficiencies and with Highland's right to assert all defenses. And, because the Alleged Claim had already been waived, the Advisors' effectively reserved nothing.

15. Highland also agrees that waiver has three elements: (i) an existing right or benefit; (ii) actual knowledge of its existence; and (iii) actual intent to relinquish the right or intentional conduct inconsistent with the right. Ulico Cas. Co. v. Allied Pilots Ass’n, 262 S.W. 3d 773, 778 (Tex. 2008); Response ¶ 15. But, while waiver is largely a matter of intent, that intent should be implied where a party has relied on its counterparty’s conduct to its detriment. Enserch Corp. v. Rebich, 925 S.W.3d 75, 82 (Tex. App. 1996) (“[W]aiver by implication should not be inferred contrary to the intention of the party whose rights would be injuriously affected thereby, unless the opposite party has been misled to his or her prejudice”) (citations omitted).

16. The evidence will show that the Advisors’ conduct satisfies each of the foregoing elements and the Alleged Claim and the nonwaiver provisions in the Agreements have been waived. In fact, the Advisors have only put forth one actual argument as to why waiver should not apply in the Response: they did not discover the conduct prior to November 2020. That argument is fallacious. The Advisors have engaged in a multi-year course of conduct with respect to the Agreements, and Highland reasonably relied on that course of conduct. The Advisors’ efforts to re-write that history to Highland’s material detriment are unavailing.

B. The Voluntary Payment Rule Bars the Alleged Claim

17. The Advisors are also precluded from recovering any alleged overpayments under the voluntary payment rule. The Advisors seek to avoid this result by arguing the voluntary payment rule does not apply to (i) breach of contract claims or (ii) mistakes of fact.<sup>8</sup> The Advisors misinterpret the case law and misapply the facts of this case.

18. The Texas Supreme Court case BMG Direct Marketing v. Peake is instructive. 178 S.W. 3d (Tex. 2004). In BMG, the court was asked to decide whether a contract party that had voluntarily paid late fees pursuant to a “contractually agreed-upon late fee” provision could later argue that such provision was an “unenforceable illegal penalty.” Id., at 766-67, 771-76. The court held that recovery of the contractually agreed-upon fees was barred by the voluntary payment rule, and, in doing so, assessed and rejected movant’s argument that the voluntary payment rule did not apply because movant’s claims sought to void a contractual provision. Id., at 775 (“[T]o the extent the subject matter of Peake’s claims is covered by the parties’ contract, the rule would not apply. But insofar as Peake alleges an illegal penalty . . . which would operate to void the contractual late-fee. . . his refund suit sounds in restitution for unjust enrichment”). Because the remedy sounded in unjust enrichment, it was barred by the voluntary payment rule.<sup>9</sup>

19. The Advisors’ allegations are on all fours with BMG. First, they allege overpayment under the Reimbursement Agreements because the calculation was based on an outdated schedule of employees. Application §§ 18, 23. Both parties, however, are obligated to

<sup>8</sup> The Advisors also argue the voluntary payment rule does not apply to statutory claims and the Alleged Claim arises from a statute because it is an administrative claim under the Bankruptcy Code. Response § 19. This argument is frivolous and should be quickly rejected. The Bankruptcy Code did not create the Alleged Claim, which arose from Highland’s alleged breach of the Agreements; rather, the Bankruptcy Code simply provides rules for the priority and treatment of the Alleged Claim relative to other claims asserted against Highland. The Alleged Claim is not a statutory claim.

<sup>9</sup> Notably, various courts, including the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, addressing the voluntary payment rule under different states’ common law (which are substantively similar to the voluntary payment rule under Texas common law), have readily applied the voluntary payment rule to breach of contract claims. See, e.g., Chris Albritton Constr. Co. v. Pitney Bowes Inc., 304 F.3d 527, 531-33 (5th Cir. 2002) (applying voluntary payment rule under Mississippi law (substantively similar to Texas law) to breach-of-contract action; “the voluntary payment doctrine defeats Plaintiffs’ claims for breach of contract”); Salling v. Budget Rent-A-Car Sys., 672 F.3d 442, 444-45 (6th Cir. 2012) (voluntary payment rule under Ohio law (substantively similar to Texas law) was valid defense to breach of contract claim); Utica Mut. Ins. Co. v. Munich Reinsurance Am., Inc., 381 F.Supp.3d 185, 222 (N.D.N.Y. 2019) (breach-of-contract action; applying New York law which is substantively similar to Texas law).

update the schedule of employees (NexPoint PRA § 4.02; HCMFA PRA § 4.02), and the Advisors are essentially arguing “mutual mistake,” the remedy for which is to void the contract and return overpaid fees under a theory of unjust enrichment. See, e.g., Burlington N.R.R. v. Sw. Elec. Power, 925 S.W.2d 92, 97 (Tex. App. 1996) (“Recovery under principles of unjust enrichment is also appropriate when a contemplated agreement is unenforceable, impossible, not fully performed, thwarted by mutual mistake, or void for other legal reasons”). Second, they allege they overpaid under the Shared Services Agreements because they paid for services Highland ceased providing in July 2020. Highland, however, had no obligation to provide such services, which were contrary to its interest,<sup>10</sup> and, even if it did, that obligation would be void under public policy.<sup>11</sup> Phila. Indem. Ins. Co. v. White, 490 S.W.3d 468, 483 (Tex. 2016) (“‘A contract to do a thing which cannot be performed without violation of the law’ violates public policy and is void.”) (citations omitted). Again, the Advisors ability to recover fees paid for such “services” would be through unjust enrichment.<sup>12</sup>

20. The Advisors’ argument that the voluntary payment rule does not apply to mistakes of fact also overstates the case law. The only case cited by the Advisors addressed a “mutual” mistake. Central Austin Apts., LLC v. UP Austin Holdings, LP, 2014 Tex. App. LEXIS 10357, *44 n. 28 (Tex. App. Feb. 6, 2015).<sup>13</sup> As set forth above and as the facts will show, there was no

<sup>11</sup> Mr. Seery’s direction in or around July 2020 was in response to this Court’s order and concern about potential conflicts of interest. See Order on Motion for Clarification of Ruling [DE # 914] and Joinders thereto [DE ## 915 and 927] [Docket No. 935 at 10] (“This could escalate to problematic territory in a hurry. The court trusts the Debtor’s independent directors and new CEO are scrutinizing the issue of in-house lawyers potentially advising both the Debtor and Highland Non-Debtor Entity targets.”) (emphasis in original).

“mutual” mistake. The Advisors had the same information as Highland and voluntarily chose to make payments under the Agreements without reservation. In these circumstances, the voluntary payment rule applies. See, e.g., BMG, 178 S.W.3d at 773 (finding voluntary payment rule applied when late-fee policy was fully disclosed and the contract party was made aware of the amount of such late fees and the circumstances under which they would be imposed); Chris Albritton Constr. Co., 304 F.3d at 531-33 (applying Mississippi law (substantively similar to Texas law) and holding “uncertainty about the facts, irrespective of the reason for such uncertainty, is not the equivalent of a mistake of fact”) (citations omitted); AAA Bonding Agency v. United States Dep’t of Homeland Security, 2015 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 196279, at *4 (S.D. Tex. Nov. 12, 2015) (same).

CONCLUSION

WHEREFORE, Highland respectfully requests that the Court (i) deny the Application, and (iii) grant Highland such other and further relief as the Court deems just and proper.

ADVISORS' TRIAL BRIEF

TO THE HONORABLE STACEY G.C. JERNIGAN, U.S. BANKRUPTCY JUDGE:

COME NOW NexPoint Advisors, L.P. and Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. (together, the "Advisors"), the defendants in the above styled and numbered Adversary Proceeding, and file this their Trial Brief, respectfully stating as follows:

I. SUMMARY

1. The Advisors' administrative claim is simple. Even though the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements required the Advisors to reimburse Highland for Highland's actual costs incurred for various employees, Highland in fact billed the Advisors for 20 employees who were not actually employees, and on account of whom Highland did not incur any actual costs. Highland, contractually obligated to manage the Advisors' contracts and accounts, then used its powers to pay itself for these non-existing employees out of the Advisors' funds, totaling almost $7.7 million in postpetition overpayments – all the while shirking its contractual obligations to ensure that such very overpayments did not occur. These are incontestable facts. Even Highland's own controller calculated the overpayments at $6.6 million on an annualized basis, in December 2020. When at the outset of the Bankruptcy Case, the Advisors had sought to change these amounts on a go-forward basis, Highland stood behind the automatic stay, informing the Advisors that the stay prevented the Advisors from modifying the reimbursement rates. Highland breached the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements and the Advisors are entitled to an administrative claim for the resulting damages.

2. Highland also breached the Shared Services Agreements with the Advisors. First, it failed to provide legal and compliance services, despite the Advisors paying for the same. This led to $425,000 in cover damages. Second, Highland's own internal record demonstrates that Highland was not providing $1.3 million in legal services under the Shared Services Agreements, again despite actually billing the Advisors for the same and paying itself from the Advisors' funds. Third, Highland failed to properly adjust the reimbursement rates under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements, a service which the Advisors contracted for and paid for under the Shared Services Agreements.

3. For similar reasons, Highland cannot recover on its breach of contract claims against the Advisors. Highland committed the first material breaches under each of the agreements. In particular, Highland refused to negotiate the reimbursement rates under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements, as required by those agreements. And, Highland has failed to calculate how much should have been payable under all of the agreements in light of the greatly reduced headcount and services being provided. To the extent that the Advisors owe Highland any amounts under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements and Shared Services Agreements, those amounts must be calculated in light of Highland's actual costs and should be offset against the Advisors' administrative claims.

II. THE FACTS

A. THE AGREEMENTS

4. The Advisors are registered investment advisors. They serve as the investment manager, either directly or indirectly, to a number of investment vehicles, including certain retail funds, regulated pursuant to the Securities Act of 1933, the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, and the Investment Company Act of 1940. The Advisors provide investment advisory services to their Clients pursuant to written investment advisory agreements.

5. In order for the Advisors to provide the required services to their clients and to comply with various legal compliance requirements, the Advisors need the services of a number of employees. Some of these services and employees are highly specialized, while others are not. Thus, in order for the Advisors to be able to provide these services, they contracted with Highland for various so-called "front office," "middle office," and "back office" services. This was effectuated through four (4) written agreements at issue in this Adversary Proceeding.

6. On May 1, 2018, but effective as of January 1, 2018, HCMFA entered into that certain Payroll Reimbursement Agreement with Highland, while on the same date NexPoint (also to be effective as of January 1, 2018) entered into its own, virtually identical Payroll Reimbursement Agreement with Highland (together, the “Payroll Reimbursement Agreements”).

7. Under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements, Highland made various of its employees “dual employees” with the Advisors, and the Advisors agreed to reimburse Highland for a percentage of each employee’s costs (consisting generally of a percentage of compensation, including bonuses, paid by Highland to the employee). The details of the agreements are discussed below but, generally, each provides that these reimbursement amounts will be a monthly payment by each Advisor: $416,000 per month from HCMFA and $252,000 from NexPoint. Each of the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements has a schedule of employees attached to it, together with an allocated percentage of that employee’s compensation per Advisor. For example, for Highland’s provision of employee Cameron Baynard, HCMFA agreed to pay 29% of that employee’s compensation, while NexPoint agreed to pay 9%. These percentages were prepared by Highland employees using a reasonable methodology to determine approximately how much of each employee’s time was devoted to providing services to each of the Advisors.

8. Separately, on February 8, 2013, HCMFA entered into that certain Second Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement with Highland, and, on January 1, 2018, NexPoint entered into that certain Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement with Highland (together, the “Shared Services Agreements”). Unlike the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements, where Highland made its employees directly available to the Advisors, under the Shared Services Agreements Highland agreed to provide various services, using its employees, to the Advisors. Some of the services provided by Highland under the Shared Services Agreements included regulatory compliance, legal, facilities (office space, IT, etc.), book keeping, accounts payable, expense reimbursement, vendor management, and human resources.

9. Under its Shared Services Agreement, HCMFA agreed to pay Highland for the actual costs, at 100%, of the shared services provided by Highland, and an additional margin of 5%. Under its Shared Services Agreement, NexPoint was to pay a flat fee of $168,000 to Highland per month.

10. The Payroll Reimbursement Agreements and the Shared Services Agreements are executory contracts under the Bankruptcy Code. At no time did Highland move to assume or reject any of these agreements. Rather, Highland terminated the Shared Services Agreements effective as of February 28, 2021.

B. HIGHLAND PAYING ITSELF FROM THE ADVISORS' FUNDS

11. It is also important to note that it was Highland employees who, pursuant to the shared services they were providing, controlled the processing and payment of the Advisors' bills, including under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements and the Shared Services Agreements themselves. These employees had access to the Advisors' bank accounts and caused the Advisors to pay each month under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements from the Advisors' funds, without the involvement of any Advisor employee.

C. OVERBILLING OF THE ADVISORS UNDER THE AGREEMENTS

12. As noted, each of the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements contained a schedule of employees, a percentage of whose compensation each Advisor was responsible to reimburse Highland for. However, many of these employees were no longer employed by Highland as of the petition date and thereafter. This is simply because the employees resigned or were terminated, especially postpetition when Highland reduced its workforce. Thus, while each of the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements contains twenty-five (25) employees, twenty (20) of these employees were no longer employees at various points in time postpetition. Yet Highland continued to bill the Advisors for these 20 employees—in effect, the Advisors were paying the compensation of 20 employees who simply were no longer employees of Highland and who were not providing services to the Advisors. The Advisors were “reimbursing” Highland for costs and expenses that Highland simply no longer had. That is the core of the Advisors’ overpayment claim under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements.

13. In the end, and during the postpetition period, Highland billed HCMFA, and paid itself from HCMFA’s funds, $4,928,103 for reimbursements for employees who simply were not there. Likewise, postpetition Highland billed NexPoint, and paid itself from NexPoint’s funds, $2,721,839 for employees who were no longer there. Thus, the Advisors together overpaid Highland $7,649,942 during the postpetition period in reimbursements when Highland itself had no actual costs for these employees since they were no longer employees. Put another way, Highland was contractually obligated to monitor the Advisors’ contracts and to advise the Advisors of undesirable or money-losing contracts; Highland breached that obligation when it chose not to so advise the Advisors where Highland itself was the counterparty; and Highland profited from the same in excess of $7 million.

14. The situation with the Shared Services Agreements is slightly different in that the issue does not involve the payment for non-existing employees, but rather the payment for services that Highland was contracted to provide, paid itself from the Advisors’ funds for providing, yet failed to provide to the Advisors. These services largely involved legal and compliance services, after Mr. Seery, the new CRO and CEO of Highland, instructed Highland’s employees that they could not work on any matter that could be adverse to the interests of Highland (although there were other services which Highland failed to provide for different reasons). Here, the issue is simply a failure by Highland to provide what it contracted to provide and what the Advisors actually paid it to provide.

15. This caused damages to the Advisors. The Advisors were forced to employ two people full time, one to provide legal services and the other compliance services, resulting in the Advisors being forced to pay $425,000 in cover. Separately, as will be discussed below, the Debtor's own internal records demonstrate that the Debtor was making a profit of $1 million on an annualized basis under the Shared Services Agreements, even though no such profit was provided for, except for a 5% margin. Thus, the Advisors overpaid Highland on the Shared Services Agreements as well.

D. ADVISORS' ATTEMPTS TO MODIFY REIMBURSEMENT RATES

16. The Payroll Reimbursement Agreements provide that the monthly reimbursement amounts may be modified periodically based on the actual costs of the dual employees (such as which employees were even being used) and based on allocated percentages (if an employee was spending less time or more time working for an Advisor). In late 2018, and consistent with its general practices to do an annual true-up and reconciliation for its contracts, Highland and the Advisors performed a true-up for amounts reimbursed under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements for the year 2018 (and, to the extent that the agreements provide for a monthly true-up period, which provision is not exclusive, the parties modified such monthly review by doing it annually due to the burdens of performing the true-up every month). As a result of this true-up, HCMFA paid Highland an additional $1,200,000, while NexPoint paid Highland an additional $1,300,000.

17. In late 2019, and after Highland filed bankruptcy, Highland again began the process of a true-up under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreement. At the same time, the Committee requested detailed information regarding the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements and the Shared Services Agreements. Thus, Frank Waterhouse, at the time an officer of both Highland and each of the Advisors, reviewed the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements and noted that the Advisors were overpaying by substantial amounts for reimbursements due to employees who were no longer there.

18. Mr. Waterhouse did exactly as he should have done, both pursuant to prior practice, pursuant to the terms of the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements, and pursuant to the Shared Services Agreements under which, as noted above, Highland was to provide services to the Advisors to make sure that they were paying correct amounts under their contracts and accounts payable. Next, and after he determined that there were sizable overpayments, he again did what he should have done: he discussed the overpayments with Fred Caruso, then the CRO of Highland, and with Highland's general counsel, and he requested that the reimbursement amounts be changed based on the lack of so many employees.

19. In response, Mr. Caruso told Mr. Waterhouse that the automatic stay prevented a modification of the reimbursement amounts in the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements, a position that Highland's legal counsel confirmed. Mr. Caruso informed Mr. Waterhouse that the matter would have to be addressed later, and that it would be addressed. Mr. Waterhouse relied on these representations. Nor was that the only time that the Advisors sought to modify the reimbursement amounts, as Mr. Dustin Norris, an officer of the Advisors, repeatedly discussed the matter with Highland's controller starting in late Summer or early Fall, 2020. Each time the response from Highland was that the automatic stay applied but that the overpayments would be addressed as part of a then-contemplated global resolution between Highland, Mr. Dondero, and his related entities.

E. HIGHLAND'S ADMISSIONS OF OVERPAYMENTS

20. Beginning with Mr. Waterhouse's first discussion of the overpayments with Mr. Caruso, and continuing throughout 2020 with Mr. Norris and Mr. Klos, Highland repeatedly admitted that the Advisors were overpaying under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements and, later, were also paying for services under the Shared Services Agreement that Highland was no longer providing.

21. Most significantly, however, in December, 2020, Mr. Klos undertook an internal analysis at Highland, at the request of Mr. Waterhouse, to determine the profitability of the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements and Shared Services Agreements to Highland. As a professional accountant, and with full knowledge of the facts (and the one who originally populated the employee allocation percentages and lists of employees attached to the agreements), Mr. Klos calculated that the Advisors were overpaying under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements by $6.6 million per year, and that Highland was making a $1 million annual gain on the Shared Services Agreements, despite those agreements' provision for only a 5% markup.

22. Indeed, Mr. Klos even wrote an e-mail in which he stated that, "given the changes in headcount . . . along with not paying insider bonus compensation, has increased the profitability of the contracts from HCMLP's perspective." Exactly. Except that the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements and Shared Services Agreements were not supposed to provide for a "profit" to Highland, and instead only a reimbursement (with the one exception for a 5% margin).

23. It is when these facts—the magnitude of the overpayments—came to light that the Advisors stopped paying on the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements and the Shared Services Agreements. The Advisors did not refuse to pay all amounts, but rather the inflated overpayment amounts, unless and until Highland did as the contracts require, which was to negotiate in good faith what the appropriate reimbursement and actual cost amounts should be. Highland never did that.

III. DISCUSSION

A. HIGHLAND’S BREACHES OF THE AGREEMENTS

24. The evidence will be incontestable that, postpetition, Highland was charging the Advisors, and the Advisors were paying Highland, for 20 employees who were not employees of Highland; i.e. the Advisors were reimbursing Highland for costs that Highland was not actually incurring. The evidence will demonstrate that the amount of these overpayments is $7,649,942 postpetition. Even Highland’s own internal analysis, from December, 2020, demonstrated that the Advisors were overpaying by $6.6 million per year. The question is whether this constituted a breach by Highland of the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements.

25. The elements of a breach of contract are: “(1) the existence of a valid contract; (2) performance or tendered performance by the plaintiff; (3) breach of the contract by the defendant; and (4) damages sustained as a result of the breach.” Schlumberg Ltd. v. Ruherford, 472 S.W. 881, 892 (Tex. App. – Houston [1st Dist.] 2015). The Court’s primary role in interpreting a contract is “to determine the parties’ intent as reflected in the [contract’s] terms.” Chrysler Ins. Co. v. Greenspoint Dodge of Houston Inc., 297 S.W.3d 248, 252 (Tex. 2009). “Contract language that can be given a certain or definite meaning is not ambiguous and is construed as a matter of law.” Id. “If the contract is capable of being given a definite legal meaning, parole evidence is generally not admissible to create an ambiguity.” Kendziorski v. Saunders, 191 S.W.3d 395, 405 (Tex. App. – Austin 2006).

26. The fundamental question is what the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements required the Advisors to pay to Highland. Highland now takes the position that the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements were not reimbursement agreements at all, but rather agreements that provided for a set amount of money to be paid by the Advisors to Highland irrespective of the provisions of the agreements. Any such evidence will be inadmissible parole evidence, as the Payroll

Reimbursement Agreements are not ambiguous. They provide for the Advisors to reimburse Highland for the actual costs of the dual employees, which monthly amount is estimated in the agreements, but subject to modification by either party based on the actual costs incurred.

27. Both of the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements contain the same operative provisions. The most important provisions are those governing reimbursement: “During the Term, HCMLP will seek reimbursement from HCMFA for the cost of certain employees who are dual employees . . . and who provide advice to registered companies advised by HCMFA under the direction and supervision of HCMFA.” See Recital A. In fact, each Payroll Reimbursement Agreement references a “reimbursement” obligation at least ten (10) times.

28. Section 2.01 of the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements provides as follows:

Employee Reimbursement. During the Term, HCMFA shall reimburse HCMLP for the Actual Cost to HCMLP of certain employees who (i) are dual employees of HCMLP and HCMFA and (ii) provide advice to any investment company . . . pursuant to an investment advisory agreement between HCMFA and such investment company.

29. The Payroll Reimbursement Agreements define “Actual Cost” as follows:

Actual Cost means, with respect to any period hereunder, the actual costs and expenses caused by, incurred or otherwise arising from or relating to each Dual Employee, in each case during such period. Absent any changes to employee reimbursement, as set forth in Section 2.02, such costs and expenses are equal to $416,000 per month [and for NexPoint, $252,000 per month].

30. Section 2.02 of the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements provides as follows:

Changes to Employee Reimbursement. During the Term, the Parties may agree to modify the terms and conditions of HCMFA’s reimbursement in order to reflect new procedures or processes, including modifying the Allocation Percentage (defined below) applicable to such Dual Employee to reflect the then current fair market value of such Dual Employee’s employment. The Parties will negotiate in good faith the terms of such modification.

31. Section 4.02 of the Payroll Reimbursement Agreement provides as follows:

Determination and Payment of Cost. HCMFA shall promptly make payment of the Actual Cost within ten (10) days of the end of each calendar month. Should either Party determine that a change to employee reimbursement is appropriate, as set forth in Section 2.02, the Party requesting such modification shall notify the other Party on or before the last business day of the calendar month.

32. The Payroll Reimbursement Agreements are therefore straightforward. The Advisors are to reimburse Highland for Actual Cost. Unless Actual Cost is changed pursuant to section 2.02, Actual Cost is a predetermined monthly amount. And, importantly, section 2.02 does not state when a change must be made, and it does not limit the change to a prospective, as opposed to a retrospective, amount; only that the modification be “during the term” and that the parties “will negotiate in good faith the terms of such modification.” This is exactly what the parties did at the end of 2018 when they retroactively did a “true-up” of Actual Cost for 2018 and the Advisors paid an additional $2.5 million to Highland. And, while section 4.02 suggests that a prospective change must be requested before the end of any given month, nothing in that section makes that requirement exclusive, limits a retrospective modification, or controls section 2.02, which provides that the modification may be at any time during the term.

33. Highland argues that the preset monthly amounts are controlling and that the Advisors failed to follow section 2.02 to change those monthly amounts, in effect waiving their abilities to change those amounts retroactively. On that last point, however, the evidence will demonstrate the following.

- (i) First, in 2018, the parties agreed that a monthly true-up would be too burdensome and cumbersome and that, instead, Highland would perform an annual true-up at the end of each year, consistent with its custom and practice of trueing-up and reconciling its contracts on an annual basis. The parties did so on December 14, 2018 and agreed that the Advisors actually owed Highland more than the monthly amounts. In fact, HCMFA paid Highland an additional $1.2 million and NexPoint paid Highland an additional $1.3 million, because the parties agreed, as part of the true-up, that the preset monthly amounts in the agreements did not provide accurate “reimbursement.”
- (ii) Postpetition in late 2019, Frank Waterhouse, as officer of each of the Advisors and of Highland, again looking at an annual true-up and in response to inquiries made by the Committee, informed both Fred Caruso, Highland’s CRO at the time, and Highland's legal counsel, that the monthly amounts needed to be changed because the Advisors were by then overpaying Highland since many employees the subject of the agreements were no longer actually employed. Mr. Caruso and legal counsel, who were not officers or employees of the Advisors, informed Mr. Waterhouse that the automatic stay prevented the Advisors from changing the amounts or terminating the agreements, but that Highland would get to it and do a true-up later on in the case. Thus, the Advisors triggered section 2.02 of the Agreements but Highland did not, as required by that section, "negotiate in good faith the terms of such modification," instead submitting that the automatic stay prevented any modification. Mr. Waterhouse relied on this representation, especially as it was confirmed by Highland's legal counsel who, at the same time, was also the Advisors' legal counsel pursuant to the Shared Services Agreements. In other words, the Advisors tried, but were rebuked by Highland.

- (iii) The Advisors again sought to trigger section 2.02 in September and October, 2020. Dustin Norris, an officer of the Advisors, discussed the issue on multiple occasions with David Klos, the controller for Highland. Mr. Klos repeatedly acknowledged the fact of overpayments but informed Mr. Norris that Highland could not do anything about it at that time. In fact, Mr. Klos then prepared an internal calculation for Highland, in December, 2020, showing that Highland was making an annualized $6.6 million profit on the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements. Again, the Advisors tried, but were rebuked by Highland, which again did not "negotiate in good faith the terms of such modification," precisely because the agreements had become so profitable to Highland (even as Highland was otherwise informing the Court that the agreements were not profitable at all).
- (iv) Section 4.02 provides that, "[s]hould either Party determine that a change to employee reimbursement is appropriate . . ." Highland should have determined that such a change was appropriate. Under the Shared Services Agreements, Highland was providing services to the Advisors which included legal and payment services such that Highland was responsible to, on behalf of the Advisors, review bills before paying them and review contracts and bills to see whether they were appropriate, whether there were credits or savings to be had, and whether there were defenses to payment. The Advisors were paying Highland precisely to review the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements on a real-time basis to determine whether the Advisors were paying proper reimbursement amounts. Despite knowledge since late 2019 that the Advisors were overpaying, Highland did nothing, either honestly believing that the automatic stay applied or hiding behind the stay in light of the new profitability under the agreements.

34. Accordingly, there was no waiver. On the contrary, the Advisors repeatedly tried to exercise their rights under section 2.02 to change the reimbursement amounts. And, it is Highland that breached the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements first, by charging for employees who were not there, and second, by categorically failing or refusing to negotiate a modification to the monthly amounts in good faith.

35. Importantly, as pointed out above, the Advisors were each paying Highland under the Shared Services Agreements to review and assist with accounts payable, accounting, legal, expense reimbursement, vendor management, and other services pursuant to which Highland should have been the one to raise the overpayment issue, the same as it would have done, and did, when reviewing third party invoices and bills. This would have included checking to see whether correct amounts were being charged the Advisors prior to paying the Advisors' invoices with the Advisors' funds. It utterly failed to do this. In this respect, Texas law is clear that one may not take advantage of another's delay in the performance of a contractual obligation when his own negligence has caused the delay. See, e.g., Collier v. Robinson, 129 S.W. 389 (Tex. Civ. App. 1910) ("plaintiffs were excused from payment of the purchase price of the property within sixty days from the date of the contract, in the event only of a finding by the jury that they were prevented from so doing by the negligence of the defendants"). As explained by one court:

It is settled law that one may not take advantage of, nor recover damages for, delays for which he is himself responsible, and that the time for performance is excused and a corresponding extension of time given where the delay is occasioned by the act or default of the party claiming the damages.

Szanto v. Pagel, 47 S.W.2d 632, 635 (Tex. Civ. App. – Austin 1932).

36. Thus, not only is Highland's failure to take timely and appropriate action to correct the overpayments itself a breach of the Shared Services Agreements, but it also means that Highland cannot take advantage of any delay by the Advisors in enforcing their rights when that delay was occasioned by Highland's own negligence and breach of contract.

37. The situation with the Shared Services Agreements is more straightforward: the Advisors contracted with Highland to provide various services, and they paid Highland for those services, and Highland failed to provide those services. This gives rise to direct damages, which means the “restoration of the benefit of a plaintiff’s bargain.” Signature Indus. Servs. LLC v. Int’l Paper Co., 2022 Tex. LEXIS 44 at *8 (Tex. 2022). Such damages include “cover” damages, meaning the costs incurred by the Advisors to replace the services that Highland failed to provide. See Little Darling Corp. v. Ald, Inc., 566 S.W.2d 347, 349 (Tex. Civ. App. 1978) (where defendant failed to provide services required under contract, finding that plaintiff is entitled to additional sums paid to procure replacement services).

38. Since Highland was not permitted a profit under the Shared Services Agreement and the amounts payable by the Advisors were the reimbursement for actual costs (except to the extent of a 5% margin), yet Highland itself calculated a $1 million annual profit, the damages for its breach of contract are $1,300,000, given the 13 months of payments by the Advisors under the Shared Services Agreements. The cover damages are $425,000, representing the cost to the Advisors of having to hire two employees to cover for the services that Highland was not providing (but for which the Advisors were nevertheless paying Highland in full).

B. ALLOWANCE OF CONTRACT DAMAGES AS ADMINISTRATIVE CLAIMS

39. Administrative expenses generally include “the actual, necessary costs and expenses of preserving the estate ....” 11 U.S.C. § 503(b)(1)(a). However, the list of administrative expense claims set forth in section 503(b) is not exclusive or exhaustive. In re Imperial Bev. Group, LLC, 457 B.R. 490, 500 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2011) (citing various cases for the proposition that “the administrative expenses listed in the subsections of § 503(b)—preceded by ‘including’—are not exclusive”); 11 U.S.C. § 102(3) (“In this title ... ‘includes’ and ‘including’ are not limiting ....”). Here, there is no question that Highland’s breaches of the agreements were committed postpetition, and that the Advisors provided millions of dollars in value to Highland stemming from their overpayments. That is an administrative claim. See, e.g., In re Nat’l Steel Corp., 316 B.R. 287, 300 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 2004) (“[c]laims under § 503(b)(1)(A) are to be measured by the benefit received by the estate”).

40. Each of the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements and Shared Services Agreements were unexpired executory contracts, which Highland never assumed or rejected. Postpetition, pre-rejection performance under an executory contract gives rise to an administrative expense claim. See NLRB v. Bildisco & Bildisco, 465 U.S. 513, 531 (1984) (“If the debtor-in-possession elects to continue to receive benefits from the other party to an executory contract pending a decision to reject or assume the contract, the debtor-in-possession is obligated to pay for the reasonable value of those services”); In re MCS/Tex. Direct, Inc., 02-40229-DML-11, 2004 Bankr. LEXIS 379, *11-12 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. March 30, 2004) (“Even if the contract is rejected, the contract party is entitled to payment for postpetition value received by a debtor.”).

41. Similarly, a postpetition, pre-rejection breach of contract gives rise to an administrative expense claim. See In re United Trucking Serv., 851 F.2d 159, 162 (6th Cir. 1988) (“the damages under the breached lease covenant, to the extent that they occurred post-petition, provided benefits to the bankrupt estate and were property accorded priority under § 503”); Shapiro v. Meridian Auto. Sys. (Del.) (In re Lorro, Inc.), 391 B.R. 760, 766 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 2008) (“the term ‘administrative expense’ has been construed to include claims based on tort, trademark infringement, patent infringement, and breach of contract”) (citing, inter alia, Reading Co. v. Brown, 391 U.S. 471 (1968)). And, as the Supreme Court confirmed in 1968, the “actual and necessary costs” or preserving the estate include, with respect to an operating debtor-in-possession, damages that the debtor causes from its operation of its business. See Reading Co. v. Brown, 391 U.S. 471 (1968).

42. It is incontestable that Highland received millions of dollars from the Advisors in exchange for which the Advisors provided no return consideration. “In order to establish the priority of an administrative claim, the claimant must demonstrate that the debt (1) arose out of a transaction with the debtor-in-possession and (2) benefitted the operation of the debtor's business." In re Jartran, Inc., 732 F.2d 584, 586 (7th Cir. 1984). The measure of the administrative claim is "the benefit received by the estate rather than the costs incurred by a claimant." In In re Nat'l Steel Corp., 316 B.R. 287 (N.D.Ill. 2004). Here, the benefit to the estate, of pure profit and free money where the only "work" Highland performed was to transfer the Advisors' money into its own pockets, totals in the millions of dollars.

43. In Steel Corp., a creditor filed an administrative claim based on the debtor overcharging the creditor for steel. There, the bankruptcy court denied the creditor's administrative claim because, even though the debtor charged the creditor in excess of the agreed-upon contract, the creditor nevertheless received below-market steel, and the debtor did not fail to deliver the steel nor delivered defective steel or steel not made to specifications. Id. Notably, the contract price only informed the Court's decision, but did not control. Here, Highland did not deliver but benefitted greatly. Thus, while the contracts are informative and should guide the Court's ruling, it cannot be the end of the inquiry. Highland's contractual argument taken to its conclusion means that Highland would be contractually entitled to millions of dollars even if Highland provided the Advisors with zero employees and zero services – an absurd result that cannot stand in equity. In the end, Highland received free money well in excess of Highland's costs, every dollar of which benefitted its estate. That entitles the Advisors to an administrative claim to the extent services were not provided.

C. THE ADVISORS DID NOT WAIVE THEIR RIGHTS OR THEIR CLAIMS

44. As explained above, the Advisors did not waive their rights to change the amounts payable under the agreements. On the contrary, they attempted to change those amounts shortly after bankruptcy and repeatedly thereafter, only to be informed by Highland that the automatic stay prevented any modification to the present amounts.

45. Waiver is an affirmative defense on which Highland bears the burden of proof. See Zarate v. Rodriguez, 542 S.W.3d 26, 40 (Tex. App. – Houston [14th Dist.] 2017). “[W]aiver is the intentional relinquishment of a right actually or constructively known, or intentional conduct inconsistent with claiming that right. The elements of waiver include (1) an existing right, benefit, or advantage held by a party; (2) the party’s actual or constructive knowledge of its existence; and (3) the party’s actual intent to relinquish the right or intentional conduct inconsistent with the right.” Perry Homes v. Cull, 258 S.W.3d 580, 602-03 (Tex. 2008) (internal citation omitted). There could have been no actual intent by the Advisors to waive their rights, and no intentional conduct inconsistent with those rights, when their officers attempted repeatedly postpetition to change the reimbursement amounts in the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements.

46. Moreover, the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements expressly contain a no-waiver provision: “[n]o failure on the part of any Party to exercise or delay in exercising any right hereunder will be deemed a waiver thereof, nor will any single or partial exercise preclude any further or other exercise of such or any other right.” Agreements at § 6.12. This provision is fully enforceable under Texas law. See, e.g., Shields Ltd. P’ship v. Bradberry, 526 S.W.3d 471, 481-82 (Tex. 2017) (“[g]iven Texas’s strong public policy favoring freedom of contract, there can be no doubt that, as a general proposition, nonwaiver provisions are binding and enforceable”).

47. The evidence will therefore demonstrate that, despite repeated attempts by the Advisors to exercise their rights under section 2.02 of the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements, Highland did not “negotiate in good faith the terms of such modification.” This constituted a breach by Highland of section 2.02 of the agreements, in addition to its overall breach of the agreements by charging reimbursement amounts that it knew were well in excess of the actual costs it was incurring for its employees. That point should not be lost on the Court. Highland, despite having professional management and being a fiduciary in its bankruptcy case, charged the Advisors millions of dollars postpetition for employees who simply were not there, knowing that it was making a large profit on those agreements, and doing nothing about it and refusing to do anything about it once repeated efforts were made by the Advisors.

D. VOLUNTARY PAYMENT DOCTRINE DOES NOT APPLY

48. Highland argues that the voluntary payment doctrine prevents the Advisors from recovering their overpayments. Under the voluntary payment rule, “money voluntarily paid on a claim of right, with full knowledge of all the facts, in the absence of fraud, duress, or compulsion, cannot be recovered back merely because the party at the time of payment was ignorant of or mistook the law as to his liability.” Miga v. Jensen, 299 S.W.3d 98, 103 (Tex. 2009). Here, the rule does not apply factually for at least two immediate reasons. First, the Advisors did not “voluntarily” make the overpayments; Highland employees, who were not Advisor employees, made the payments from the Advisors’ funds pursuant to the shared services agreement. Second, the Advisors did not have knowledge of all of the facts because, even though they knew that certain employees were no longer there, they did not know that Highland was still billing them, and paying itself, for those employees. Again, it was all Highland employees doing the billing and the payments.

49. Moreover, the voluntary payment rule does not apply to breach of contract claims. Historically, the voluntary payment rule was “a defense to claims asserting unjust enrichment; that is, when a plaintiff sues for restitution claiming a payment constitutes unjust enrichment, a defendant may respond with the voluntary-payment rule as a defense.” See BMG Direct Mktg. v. Peake, 178 S.W.3d 763, 768 (Tex. 2004). But “[a]lthough the voluntary-payment rule has been applied, at times, in both private and public contexts, other legal and statutory remedies have evolved over time to supplant the rule’s application in many of these contexts.” Id. at 770. “Thus, although the voluntary-payment rule may have been widely used by parties and some Texas courts at one time, its scope has diminished as the rule’s equitable policy concerns have been addressed through statutory or other legal remedies.” Id. at 771. “Like other equitable claims and defenses, an adequate legal remedy may render equitable claims of unjust enrichment and equitable defenses of voluntary-payment unavailable.” Id. at 770. While not completely abrogated, the rule today has only “limited application in Texas jurisprudence.” Id. at 771 .

50. Here, the issue is a statutory one, with respect to the Bankruptcy Code’s provisions governing the allowance of an administrative claim. The statute should govern. And, courts have expressly held that the voluntary payment rule does not apply to breach of contract claims. Lopez v. Bailon, No. 07-14-00442-CV, 2016 Tex. App. LEXIS 8458, *10 (Tex. App.—Amarillo Aug. 4, 2016) (“The voluntary payment defense does not apply to a simple breach of contract action.”); see BMG Direct Mktg., 178 S.W.3d at 775 (“It is true that, to the extent the subject matter of Peake’s claim is covered by the parties’ contract, the rule would not apply.”). The Advisors have not submitted merely a common-law unjust enrichment claim. They have asserted a claim under the Bankruptcy Code and written contracts. Under these circumstances, the voluntary payment rule does not apply.

E. THE COURT SHOULD DENY HIGHLAND’S CLAIMS

51. As explained above, Highland breached each of the agreements in question. “It is a fundamental principle of contract law that when one party to a contract commits a material breach of that contract, the other party is discharged or excused from further performance.” Bartush-

Schnitzius Foods Co. v. Cimco Refrigeration Inc., 518 S.W.3d 432, 436 (Tex. 2017). Texas law identifies five (5) nonexclusive factors that govern the materiality question: “(a) the extent to which the injured party will be deprived of the benefit which he reasonably expected; (b) the extent to which the injured party can be adequately compensated for the part of that benefit of which he will be deprived; (c) the extent to which the party failing to perform or to offer to perform will suffer forfeiture; (d) the likelihood that the party failing to perform or to offer to perform will cure his failure, taking account of the circumstances including any reasonable assurances; (e) the extent to which the behavior of the party failing to perform or to offer to perform comports with standards of good faith and fair dealing.” Mustang Pipeline Co. v. Driver Pipeline Co., 134 S.W.3d 195, 199 (Tex. 2004).

52. Certainly with respect to the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements, Highland’s breaches were material: billing the Advisors for 20 out of 25 employees who were no longer there, refusing to negotiate in good faith, and damages of almost $7.7 million. And, Highland will not suffer a forfeiture: it had no right to the overpayments. Likewise, Highland’s behavior does not comport with any standard of good faith and fair dealing. Highland, itself seeking relief from this Court, and with fiduciary duties to its estate, knew full well that it was overbilling the Advisors, refused to do anything about it despite requests and the language of the agreements, refused to negotiate in good faith, and simply pocketed the overpayments as profit.

53. Accordingly, the Court should deny Highland’s claims for unpaid amounts under the agreements. However, if the Court concludes otherwise, Highland has utterly failed to calculate its damages except on its flawed theory that the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements provide for monthly payments, period, irrespective of actual costs and the agreements’ requirements for reimbursement. The Advisors clearly initiated the process of modifying the monthly reimbursement rates well prior to when they stopped payments, and the agreements clearly require Highland to “negotiate in good faith the terms of such modification.” Highland utterly failed or refused to engage in any negotiation, much less a good faith one.

54. Insofar as the Advisors invoked section 2.02 of the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements, and section 4.01 of the HCMFA Shared Services Agreement (as well as any similar provision in the NexPoint Shared Services Agreement), and Highland failed to comply with its obligations, the agreements’ basic requirement of a reimbursement of “the actual costs and expenses” relating to each dual employee controls. Highland has the burden to calculate these amounts, and it has failed to do so, instead relying on its theory that only the preset monthly amounts matter—a theory the Court cannot adopt without reading section 2.02 out of the agreements. Accordingly, the Court should reject Highland’s damages model as a matter of law and deny any relief on Highland’s claims or, alternatively, calculate those claims based on actual costs under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements and the Shared Services Agreements.

HIGHLAND'S PROPOSED FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“Plaintiff” or “Highland”) submits the following Proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law in the above-captioned chapter 11 bankruptcy case (the “Bankruptcy Case”) and the above-captioned adversary proceeding (the “Adversary Proceeding”) pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 7016-1 and the Agreed Amended Scheduling Order [Adv. Pro. Docket No. 60].<sup>2</sup>

I. SUMMARY OF PROPOSED FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS<sup>3</sup>

1. This Adversary Proceeding involves competing claims arising under certain Shared Services Agreements and Payroll Reimbursement Agreements entered into between and among the Parties.

2. The Advisors assert claims against Highland for (a) “overpayment” under the PRAs, (b) “overpayment” under the SSAs, and (c) breach of contract under the SSAs. In support of their claims for “overpayment” under the PRAs, the Advisors contend that they were wrongfully charged their allocable share of the “Actual Cost” of certain Dual Employees who were no longer employed at Highland. The Advisors do not claim that Highland failed to provide advisory services under the PRAs; rather, they contend that they were overcharged for these services since such services were not provided by specified Dual Employees. In their claim for overpayment and breach of the SSAs, the Advisors maintain that (i) Highland did not perform services under the SSAs, and (ii) as a result, the Advisors were overcharged for such services that were allegedly not being provided.

3. In its defense, Highland contends that the PRAs clearly and unambiguously establish that the Advisors agreed to pay – and properly did pay -- a flat monthly fee for investment advisory services rendered, regardless of which employees actually performed those services, unless the parties agreed otherwise.

4. Highland also argues that even if the PRAs are deemed ambiguous, parol evidence, the surrounding circumstances, and the parties’ uninterrupted course of dealing proves that the parties intended that the Advisors would pay a flat monthly fee for investment advisory services, unless modified in writing pursuant to the PRAs. Highland further maintains that, even if the Advisors could prove that they “overpaid” under the PRAs, the Advisors claims have been (i) waived and (ii) are barred by the voluntary payment rule.

5. Highland asserts claims against the Advisors for breach of contract arising from the Advisors’ failure to pay amounts due and owing under the SSAs and PRAs as well as for other reimbursable costs that Highland incurred on their behalf.

6. The Parties’ claims under the Agreements were tried before the court on April 12 and April 13, 2022. The Court heard testimony from [number] of witnesses, including [names], and admitted [number] exhibits into evidence.

7. For the reasons set forth below, the Court finds that the Advisors have failed to meet their burden of proving (i) that they made any “overpayments” under the PRAs; (ii) that Highland breached the SSAs; or (iii) that the Advisors “overpaid” under the SSAs. The Court also finds that even if the Advisors had met their burden of proving that they “overpaid” under the PRAs, the Advisors claims for are (i) waived, and (ii) barred by the voluntary payment rule. The Advisors’ claims for “overpayments” under the SSA are likewise waived.

8. The Court further finds that Highland has met its burden of proving (a) its breach of contract claim against the Advisors, and (b) that it is entitled to recover its costs and expenses, including attorneys' fees, in prosecuting and defending the claims asserted in this Adversary Proceeding.

9. In reaching these conclusions, the Court has considered all of the admissible evidence, including documentary evidence, and has carefully considered weighed the credibility of the witnesses.

10. For the reasons set forth herein, it is hereby ORDERED that the Advisors failed to prove their breach of contract and overpayment claims under the SSA and PRAs, and therefore, the Advisors cannot recover on their claims.

11. It is further ORDERED that Highland met its burden of proving the Advisors breached the SSAs by failing to pay amounts due and owing, and the Advisors are liable to Highland for all amounts due and owing thereunder as well as all costs and expenses, including attorneys' fees, in prosecuting and defending the claims asserted in this Adversary Proceeding.

II. PROPOSED FINDINGS OF FACT

A. The Advisors

12. Pyxis Capital, L.P. ("Pyxis") was formed in or around 2009. In or around 2012, Pyxis changed its name to Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. ("HCMFA"). At all relevant times, James Dondero ("Mr. Dondero") has controlled HCMFA. [Adv. Pro. Docket No. 25].

13. NexPoint Advisors, L.P. ("NexPoint" and together with HCMFA, the "Advisors") was formed in or around 2012. At all relevant times, Mr. Dondero has controlled NexPoint. Id.

14. The Advisors are registered investment advisors under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940. They serve as the investment manager for certain investment vehicles (collectively, the “Clients”), including certain retail funds (the retail funds for which HCMFA and NexPoint serve as the investment advisor are collectively referred to as the “Retail Funds”), regulated pursuant to the Securities Act of 1933, the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, and the Investment Company Act of 1940 (the “ICA”).

15. The Advisors provide investment advisory services to their Clients pursuant to written investment advisory agreements (the “Investment Advisory Agreements”).

16. The Advisors’ Investment Advisory Agreements are (a) the principal source of the Advisors’ revenue, and (b) are the reason for the Advisors’ existence.

B. The Agreements at Issue

1. The HCMFA Shared Services Agreement

17. On February 9, 2012, Highland and Pyxis (HCMFA’s predecessor) entered into that certain Shared Services Agreement, effective as of December 15, 2011. Exhibit 54.

18. On September 12, 2012, Highland and Pyxis entered into that certain Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement, effective as of December 15, 2011. Exhibit 55.

19. Highland and HCMFA entered into that certain Second Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement, effective as of February 8, 2013 (the “HCMFA SSA”), which noted that HCMFA was “formerly known as” Pyxis. Exhibit 2.

20. Pursuant to the HCMFA SSA, HCMFA agreed to pay Highland for certain costs incurred or arising from certain shared services requested by HCMFA and provided by Highland, including, in pertinent part: (i) finance and accounting, (ii) human resources, (iii) marketing, (iv) legal, (v) corporate, (vi) information technology, and (vii) operations (the “HCMFA Shared Services”). See id. (HCMFA SSA) Article II, Section 2.01.

21. Pursuant to the HCMFA SSA, HCMFA was required to pay Highland its allocable share of the Actual Cost of Shared Services and Shared Assets based on an Allocation Percentage, as those terms are defined in the HCFMA SSA. See id. (HCMFA SSA) Section 4.01.

22. To determine the amounts owed, (a) Highland was to prepare Quarterly Reports setting forth the cost allocations and detailing amounts paid during the applicable quarter; (b) the parties were to agree on the allocations set forth in the Quarterly Reports and prepare invoices (the “HCMFA SSA Invoices”); and (c) the invoiced amounts were to be paid within 10 days. See id. (HCMFA SSA) Sections 5.01, 5.02, and 5.03.

23. At all relevant times, David Klos (“Mr. Klos”) served as Highland’s Controller and Chief Accounting Officer and reported directly to Frank Waterhouse (“Mr. Waterhouse”), Highland’s Chief Financial Officer, who simultaneously served as the Treasurer for each of the Advisors.<sup>4</sup>

24. Mr. Klos had primary responsibility for overseeing the preparation of the HCMFA SSA Invoices and will testify (a) about the process of preparing and paying the HCMFA SSA Invoices, and (b) that the process of preparing and paying the HCMFA SSA Invoices was substantively the same from 2012 until the HCMFA SSA was terminated in January 2021.

25. In other words, Mr. Klos will testify that the process of preparing and paying the HCMFA SSA Invoices in 2020 (after the Independent Board took control of Highland) was the same as the process that was in place during the prior eight (8) years (when Mr. Dondero controlled Highland and each of the Advisors).

2. The NexPoint Shared Services Agreement

26. On June 5, 2013, Highland and NexPoint entered into that certain Shared Services Agreement, effective as of January 1, 2013 (the “Original NexPoint SSA”). Exhibit 29.

27. The Original NexPoint SSA was modelled on the HCMFA SSA and included a formula for determining NexPoint’s share of the allocable cost of shared services and assets, which did not rely on an actual analysis of cost, but rather a percentage of managed fund assets. See id. (Original NexPoint SSA) Sections 4.01, 5.01, 5.02, and 5.03.

28. For reasons described in more detail below, Highland and NexPoint amended the Original NexPoint SSA in early 2018. Specifically, Highland and NexPoint, entered into that certain Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement, effective as of January 1, 2018 (the “NexPoint SSA,” and together with the HCMFA SSA, the “Shared Services Agreements”).

Exhibit 3.

29. Among the most significant changes to the parties’ relationship were that (a) the “asset based” formula (which was calculated using asset values of a fund advised by NexPoint) for determining the value of Highland’s services was replaced with a monthly, “flat fee” arrangement, and (b) Highland was provided with exculpation and indemnification rights.

30. Consequently, rather than paying for services based on an agreed-upon formula, NexPoint agreed to pay Highland a flat monthly fee of $168,000, payable in advance on the first business day of each month, in exchange for shared services. See id. (NexPoint SSA) Article III, Section 3.01.

31. In addition, Highland was granted broad indemnity and exculpation rights. See id. (NexPoint SSA), Sections 6.02 and 6.03. Under Section 6.03 of the NexPoint SSA, Highland is entitled to recover its costs and expenses, including attorney’s fees, incurred in connection with the defense or settlement of indemnifiable claims. See id. at Section 6.03.

32. Mr. Waterhouse signed the NexPoint SSA on behalf of both Highland (in his capacity as Treasurer of Strand Advisors, Inc., Highland's General Partner) and NexPoint (in his capacity as NexPoint's Treasurer).

3. Highland Gives Written Notice of Termination of the Shared Services Agreements and Then Agrees to Extend the Termination Date

i. The Termination Notices

33. On November 30, 2020, Highland exercised its right under the HCMFA SSA by providing written notice to HCMFA (the "HCMFA Termination Notice") that it intended to terminate the HCMFA SSA as of January 31, 2021 (the "HCMFA Termination Date"). Exhibit 153.

34. On November 30, 2020, Highland exercised its right under the NexPoint SSA by providing written notice to NexPoint (the "NexPoint Termination Notice", and together with the HCMFA Termination Notice, the "Termination Notices") that it intended to terminate the NexPoint SSA as of January 31, 2021 (the "NexPoint Termination Date", and together with the HCMFA Termination Date, the "Termination Date"). Exhibit 154.

ii. Highland Agrees to Extend the Termination Date

35. Prior to providing the Termination Notices, starting in the summer of 2020, Highland began negotiating a transition plan for the orderly transition of services to the Advisors or their designee. By the end of January 2021, the parties had not reached an agreement on a transition plan.

36. In an act that avoided catastrophic consequences for the Retails Funds and their investors that would have resulted from an abrupt termination of the Shared Services Agreements, Highland offered to extend the termination date by two weeks—provided that the Advisors paid for services in advance.

37. Thus, on January 29, 2021, the parties executed an agreement extending the Termination Date to February 14, 2021 in exchange for the Advisors' payment for services to be rendered by Highland during that two-week period.

38. In February 2021, the parties extended the Termination Date one final time.<sup>5</sup>

4. The Payroll Reimbursement Agreements

39. In addition to the Shared Services Agreements, Highland and each of the Advisors were parties to certain "Payroll Reimbursement Agreements" (the "PRAs" and together with the Shared Services Agreements, the "Agreements") that are the subject of their competing claims.

40. The PRAs were not adopted in a vacuum. While Highland contends, and the evidence shows, that the terms of the PRAs are clear and unambiguous, the background facts and contemporaneous, written communications exchanged before any dispute arose and any manufactured debate over whether the parties intended that the Advisors would each pay Highland a flat monthly fee in exchange for investment advisory (or "front office") services unless and until the parties agreed in writing to amend the flat fee.

iii. Events Leading Up to the Creation of the NexPoint PRA

41. Throughout the latter half of the 2010s, Highland's operating performance steadily declined. By the end of 2017, Highland was operating at a loss, which was expected to accelerate into 2018. Exhibit 86 at 2.

<sup>5</sup> When Highland commenced this Adversary Proceeding, it sought, among other things, a mandatory injunction requiring the Advisors to adopt a viable transition plan. Highland was expected to downsize following confirmation of its plan of reorganization, and it needed finality. See generally Plaintiff Highland Capital Management L.P.'s Verified Original Complaint for Damages and for Declaratory and Injunctive Relief, Adv. Pro. No. 21-03010-sgj, Docket No. 1. The evidence adduced at the hearing on Highland's motion for injunctive relief established that the only issue preventing a consensual transition of shared personnel and services was the Advisors' insistence that Mr. Dondero be given access to Highland's offices, notwithstanding the imposition of temporary and preliminary injunctive relief against him.

42. To help address this problem, and to reduce NexPoint's taxable income, Mr. Dondero directed Highland's team to prospectively increase NexPoint's annual payments to Highland for services to be rendered to exactly $6 million, and that's precisely what Highland's team did.

43. To achieve that result, the Highland team created a new Agreement—a "Sub-Advisory Agreement"—pursuant to which NexPoint would compensate Highland for the "front office" investment advice that Highland provided, while also amending the NexPoint SSA to provide for a fixed fee, rather than a fee calculated by a formula.

44. Mr. Waterhouse will testify that Highland had provided the same "front office" investment advice to the Advisors prior to 2018 without payment or compensation of any kind.

45. In December 2017, however, in order to implement Mr. Dondero's directive that the value of the services that Highland provided to NexPoint be fixed at $6 million per year, the Highland team created the following framework by which NexPoint would compensate Highland for services rendered:

- The NexPoint SSA was changed from a variable "cost based" contract to a "fixed fee" contract whereby NexPoint would pay Highland a flat monthly fee of $168,000 (Exhibit 3 (NexPoint SSA) § 3.01);
- NexPoint would pay Highland a flat monthly fee of $252,000 pursuant to a newly crafted Sub-Advisory Agreement (Exhibit 5 (NexPoint Sub-Advisory Agreement) § 2(a)); and
- An affiliate of NexPoint, NexPoint Real Estate Advisors ("NREA"), would pay Highland a flat monthly fee of $80,000 pursuant to a separate Shared Services Agreement (the "NREA SSA", and together with the NexPoint SSA and the NexPoint Sub-Advisory Agreement, the "NexPoint Agreements").

See Exhibit 130 (January 4, 2018 e-mail from D. Klos allocating the $6 million among the three contemplated NexPoint Agreements); Exhibit 86 at 36 (forecast that assumed that “NexPoint and subs [would pay Highland] $6 million/year subadvisory + shared services”).<sup>6</sup>

46. The flat fees contemplated under the NexPoint Agreements equaled $500,000 per month, or $6 million, as Mr. Dondero instructed.

47. On or about January 11, 2018, Highland and NexPoint entered into that certain Sub-Advisory Agreement, effective as of January 1, 2018 (the “Sub-Advisory Agreement”). Exhibit 5 (Sub-Advisory Agreement). See also Exhibit 130 (January 11, 2018 e-mail from Sean Fox attaching executed copies of, among other things, the NexPoint Agreements).

48. Pursuant to the Sub-Advisory Agreement, Highland, as “Sub-Advisor,” was to provide certain front-office services to the Advisors to enable the Advisors to fulfill their obligations to their Clients under the Investment Management Agreements.

49. Mr. Waterhouse signed the Sub-Advisory Agreement on behalf of both Highland (in his capacity as Treasurer of Strand Advisors, Inc., Highland’s general partner) and NexPoint (in his capacity as NexPoint’s Treasurer).

50. All of this and more was contemporaneously explained to Mr. Dondero and his partner, Mark Okada (“Mr. Okada”). Each year, Mr. Waterhouse and Mr. Klos prepared a written analysis of Highland’s past and projected financial performance (each, an “Annual Review”) that

<sup>6</sup> To remove any doubt about the parties’ intentions, the Annual Review that was presented to Mr. Dondero and Mark Okada on or about January 26, 2018, contained a three-year projection of NexPoint’s profits and losses that projected that NexPoint would pay Highland exactly $6 million per year in 2018, 2019, and 2020 (Exhibit 86 at 46) (projecting annual payments of $3,024,000 for sub-advisory fees (i.e., $252,000 per month), and annual payments of $2,976,000 for shared services (i.e., $168,000 per month for NexPoint’s shared services and $80,000 per month for NREA’s (as defined supra) shared services), which together yield $6 million in annual fees).

they presented to Mr. Dondero and Mr. Okada. See, e.g., Exhibit 86 (2017/2018 Annual Review), Exhibit 142 (2018/2019 Annual Review), and Exhibit 143 (2019/2020 Annual Review).<sup>7</sup>

51. On or about January 26, 2018, Mr. Waterhouse and Mr. Klos presented the Annual Review for 2017/18 to Mr. Dondero and Mr. Okada. The 2017/2018 Annual Review included the following statements and information:

- Highland was projected to incur operating losses of $12 million in 2018 (Exhibit 86 at 2);
- Highland's projected operating losses in 2018 were to be mitigated by the $6 million in fees that Mr. Dondero directed NexPoint to pay Highland for services to be rendered (id. at 36);
- The fixed, $6 million-aggregate, annual payments were projected to be made by NexPoint in 2018, 2019, and 2020 (id. at 46); and
- Extensive information about new hires, terminations, and compensation and benefits paid across the Highland platform (id. at 29-33, 48).

52. Notably, and as discussed in more detail below, the 2017/2018 Annual Review (a) assumed that the NexPoint Sub-Advisory Agreement would be retroactive to January 1, 2018; (b) did not contemplate that HCMFA would enter into a Sub-Advisory Agreement with Highland or that HCMFA would otherwise suddenly begin paying Highland for investment advisory services; and (c) assumed that Highland would continue to receive substantial revenue under sub-advisory and shared services agreements with an affiliate, Acis Capital Management, L.P. ("Acis").

<sup>7</sup> Mr. Waterhouse will testify that Brian Collins, then Highland's head of Human Resources, also participated in the Annual Reviews for the limited purpose of presenting information relating to hires, terminations, compensation, and benefits for everyone employed in the Highland complex. Mr. Collins is on the Advisor's witness and exhibit list, and Highland believes that if he is actually called to testify, Mr. Collins will be forced to acknowledge that (i) he kept Mr. Dondero informed of all personnel matters, including hires and terminations, (ii) Mr. Dondero determined the salary, bonus, and compensation amounts for all employees across the Highland complex, (iii) each month the Human Resources Department e-mailed detailed information to numerous people, including the Advisors' officers, about hires and terminations across the Highland complex (see Exhibits 88-127); and (iv) NexPoint made substantial post-petition payments to Highland's "insiders" without disclosure to the Court or the Independent Board and at times NexPoint now contends it "overpaid" Highland for services rendered.

iv. Highland’s Revenue Stream Faces Unexpected Pressure and Highland Is Advised that the Sub-Advisory Agreement Is Not a Viable Structure for Providing Highland with Urgently Needed Cash

53. Almost immediately after Mr. Waterhouse and Mr. Klos presented the 2017/2018 Annual Review to Mr. Dondero and Mr. Okada, Highland faced a new and substantial threat to its operating revenue stream.

54. In particular, on January 30, 2018, Joshua Terry commenced an involuntary bankruptcy case against Acis in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas, Case No. 18-30264-sgj11 (the “Acis Bankruptcy”).

55. At the time, Acis was an affiliate of Highland that managed certain collateralized loan obligations (“CLOs”). To perform its duties, Acis had entered into sub-advisory and shared services agreements with Highland (the “Acis Agreements”).

56. The Acis Agreements were a vital source of Highland’s revenue. Highland was projected to receive almost $10 million in revenue in 2018 alone from the deals subject to the Acis Agreements—Highland’s second-highest source of revenue representing nearly 12% of its total projected operating income. Exhibit 86 (Annual Review) at 35 (“Highland 2.0 CLOs” refers to the CLOs managed by Acis).

57. Mr. Terry’s decision to commence the Acis Bankruptcy was an unexpected threat to Highland’s operating performance.<sup>8</sup>

58. On top of that, Highland continued to urgently need cash. Exhibit 128. On March 7, 2018, in response to these developments, Highland decided to create a Sub-Advisory Agreement for HCMFA, initially for a flat monthly fee of $450,000, retroactive to January 1, 2018. A week

<sup>8</sup> The threat presented from the potential loss of Acis’s revenue was not limited to 2018, because Highland expected to “reset” the Acis CLOs to extend the reinvestment period and maturity by more than two years. Exhibit 86 (Annual Review) at 34 (“Acis CLOs 3-6 reset and extend investment period and maturity by 2.25 years”). Consequently, the Acis Bankruptcy threatened Highland with the loss of over $20 million in expected revenue over the next 27 months.

later, a draft Sub-Advisory Agreement modeled on the NexPoint Sub-Advisory Agreement was prepared for HCMFA. See Exhibit 87 (e-mails between March 7 and March 15, 2018).

59. The creation of the Sub-Advisory Agreement for HCMFA is notable because (a) the Annual Review presented to Mr. Dondero and Mr. Okada just six weeks earlier did not contemplate that HCMFA would be party to a Sub-Advisory Agreement or otherwise compensate Highland for investment advisory services it was providing, and (b) it corroborates Highland's contention that the parties intended to create a "fee for service" advisory relationship.

60. Within days, however, Highland learned that the Sub-Advisory Agreement structure could not be utilized to implement Mr. Dondero's directive that NexPoint and HCMFA pay Highland fees for "front office" services rendered.

61. Specifically, Highland learned (a) from its outside counsel that (i) the Retail Board needed to approve the Sub-Advisory Agreements during an in-person meeting, and that (ii) the Sub-Advisory Agreements could not be made retroactive to January 1, 2018, and (b) that the next in-person meeting of the Retail Board would not be until June. Exhibit 87 (see March 15, 2018 e-mails from Lauren Thedford, an attorney employed by Highland but who also served as an officer (Secretary) of the Advisors).

62. Based on this advice, Highland concluded that it could not utilize the contemplated Sub-Advisory Agreement structure because (a) Highland would not be able to earn any revenue for sub-advisory services until June, the earliest date the Retail Board could approve of the Sub-Advisory Agreements during an in-person meeting, and (b) it could not be retroactive to January 1, 2018, meaning that Highland would be unable to receive six months of needed revenue. So another method was needed to overcome these obstacles—and the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements were born.

63. The next month, Highland prepared a draft Payroll Reimbursement Agreement that did not need Retail Board-approval and could be made retroactive to the beginning of the year. Mr. Klos immediately expressed his concerns about tying the payments to any assessment of “actual costs,” writing to Ms. Thedford that:

Does it have to be framed as reimbursement of actual costs? We’d much rather it be characterized as just an agreed upon amount between the two entities. It’s not a small task and involves subjective assumptions to allocate individual employees, so as it’s written, it would be creating a ton of work that isn’t creating any value to the overall complex.

Exhibit 129 (emphases added).<sup>9</sup>

64. In response, Ms. Thedford stated that she was “open” to changing the “definition of Actual Costs” but observed that there “needs to be some method of determining the amounts” and that it was “important” to treat the agreement as one for “reimbursement.” In response, Mr. Klos stated:

Could we say that Actual Cost is being determined at the outset of the agreement, have a schedule as of Jan. 1, 2018 and say that Actual Cost shall be as set out in that schedule and shall be paid in monthly installments for the term of the agreement . . . that way the exercise is only performed once.

Beyond that year, termination provision kicks-in, so if there’s a belief that Actual Costs have changed materially, either party could terminate and/or renegotiate for an amended agreement.

Exhibit 129 (Klos e-mail to Thedford sent on April 17, 2018 at 10:56 a.m.) (emphasis added).

<sup>9</sup> Mr. Klos’s reference to the “overall complex” was consistent with Highland’s internal view that Highland and its affiliates were an integrated unit, not arm’s-length business partners. Indeed, in the Annual Review, Mr. Waterhouse and Mr. Klos presented Highland’s results to Mr. Dondero and Mr. Okada on a consolidated basis (including HCMLP, HCMFA, NexPoint and Acis, among other affiliates), entirely stripping out (or “eliminating”) the fees from the shared services and presenting employment information on a unified basis. See Exhibit 86 (Annual Review) at 6 (consolidated balance sheet), 11 (consolidated profit and loss statement for 2015 through 2017, excluding fees under the Shared Services Agreements among the consolidating entities), 13 (analysis of operating income and margins on a consolidated basis), 14 (analysis of net income and net income margin on a consolidated basis), 15 (historical, consolidated revenue), 19 (legal matters), and 29-33 (monthly headcount, hires, terminations, compensation, and other human resource matters across the Highland platform).

65. Ms. Thedford believed that Mr. Klos' suggested approach was "workable" and asked Mr. Klos if he had a "methodology for the outset determination." Mr. Klos subsequently created a list of employees and allocations with "fully loaded compensation." Exhibit 129 (emphasis added).

66. Mr. Klos will testify that the list and allocations were created to "back into" the same monthly fees that were contemplated under the now to-be-replaced Sub-Advisory Agreements. Mr. Klos will further testify that while the estimates were made in good faith, they were based on his personal subjective assessments, were not based on any empirical research, and were only created as a "proxy" to provide cover for the flat monthly payments.<sup>10</sup>

67. With these issues resolved and the parties' intent clear, on or around May 1, 2018, Highland and NexPoint entered into that certain Payroll Reimbursement Agreement, effective as of January 1, 2018 (the "NexPoint PRA"), and Highland and HCMFA entered into that certain Payroll Reimbursement Agreement, effective as of January 1, 2018 (the "HCMFA PRA"). Exhibit 6 (NexPoint PRA); Exhibit 8 (HCMFA PRA).

68. Except for the (a) names of the parties, (b) the amount of monthly fees to be paid thereunder, and (c) the list of Dual Employees and their respective Allocations set forth in Exhibit A, the NexPoint PRA and the HCMFA PRA were identical.

69. Consistent with the understanding reached between Mr. Klos and Ms. Thedford, a then-officer of the Advisors, and despite the Advisors' current protests to the contrary, the PRAs clearly and unambiguously required the Advisors to pay a flat monthly fee for investment advisory services unless and until the parties agreed otherwise.

<sup>10</sup> Mr. Klos and Mr. Waterhouse will confirm that Highland never maintained (and no one was ever asked or expected to maintain) any time records or other documents that could be utilized or relied upon to create the allocations. Mr. Klos did not confer with any of the Dual Employees to determine if his allocations were accurate, nor was he ever asked or instructed to do so.

70. Specifically, pursuant to Section 2.01 of the PRAs, each of the Advisors was required to pay Highland the “Actual Cost to HCMLP” allocated to each Advisor for certain Dual Employees (as defined in the PRAs). Exhibit 6 (NexPoint PRA) §§ 2.01, 3.01; Exhibit 8 (HCMFA PRA) §§ 2.01, 3.01.

71. “Actual Cost” was defined in the PRAs as follows:

[W]ith respect to any period hereunder, the actual costs and expenses caused by, incurred, or otherwise arising from or relating to each Dual Employee, in each case during such period. Absent any changes to employee reimbursement, as set forth in Section 2.02, such costs and expenses are equal to [$X] per month.

Exhibit 6 (NexPoint PRA) Article I (fixing the costs and expenses at $252,000 per month); Exhibit 8 (HCMFA PRA) Article I (fixing the costs and expenses at $416,000 per month) (emphasis added).

72. Pursuant to Section 2.02, the parties could agree to modify the Actual Cost if they believed a change to employee reimbursement was appropriate. Exhibit 6 (NexPoint PRA) § 2.02; Exhibit 8 (HCMFA PRA) § 2.02. See also Exhibit 6 (NexPoint PRA) § 4.02 (“Should either Party determine that a change to employee reimbursement is appropriate, as set forth in Section 2.02, the Party requesting the modification shall notify the other Party on or before the last business day of the calendar month”); Exhibit 8 (HCMFA PRA) § 4.02 (same).<sup>11</sup>

73. The undisputed evidence establishes that (a) neither Mr. Klos nor anyone else ever updated the Exhibits attached to the PRAs; (b) neither Mr. Klos nor anyone else was ever instructed to update the Exhibits attached to the PRAs; (c) at all relevant times, the Advisors and Highland had access to the same information concerning the amounts paid under the PRAs, the amounts projected to be paid under the PRAs, the termination of Dual Employees, the compensation of

<sup>11</sup> The Advisors contend that Section 4.02 imposed an affirmative obligation on Highland to update Exhibit A and unilaterally adjust the monthly payments, but no such obligation exists, nor—notwithstanding any revisionist history or uninformed statement to the contrary—did the Advisors ever expect Highland to do so.

Dual Employees, and the investment advisory services provided by Highland to each of the Advisors; and (d) as discussed below, the parties knew of and relied on Section 2.02 in December 2018 to amend the PSAs while Mr. Dondero was fully in control of the Highland complex.

v. Pursuant to Section 2.02, the Parties Amend the PRAs in December 2018

74. Despite the substantial support provided by the PRAs, Highland continued bleeding cash while the Advisors were generating cash, so by December 2018, Highland turned to the PRAs as a source of further funding.

75. Again, pursuant to Section 2.02 of the PRAs, the parties could “agree to modify” the amounts to be paid under those Agreements. Relying on that provision, Mr. Dondero instructed the Highland team to cause the Advisors make an additional, one-time $2.5 million payment to Highland, allocated between them, under the PRAs.

76. Based on Mr. Dondero’s instruction, on December 14, 2018, (a) Highland and NexPoint entered into that certain Amendment Number One to Payroll Reimbursement Agreement (the “NexPoint PRA Amendment”), pursuant to which NexPoint paid $1,300,000 to Highland, and (b) Highland and HCMFA entered into that certain Amendment Number One to Payroll Reimbursement Agreement (the “HCMFA PRA Amendment” and together with the NexPoint PRA Amendment, the “PRA Amendments”), pursuant to which HCMFA paid $1,200,000 to Highland. Exhibit 7 (NexPoint PRA Amendment); Exhibit 9 (HCMFA PRA Amendment).<sup>12</sup>

77. Mr. Klos will testify that Mr. Dondero fixed the amounts set forth in the PRA Amendments and that the payments were not supported by any analysis of Highland’s “actual costs.” He will further testify that given his knowledge of the profitability of each of Highland

<sup>12</sup> Mr. Waterhouse signed each of the PRA Amendments on behalf of the General Partners of Highland and each of the Advisors but will testify that he has no recollection as to how the amounts set forth in the PRA Amendments were determined.

and the Advisors, the rationale for an adjustment to increase the amounts was not unreasonable at the time, since Highland was operating negatively, whereas the Advisors were operating positively, all whilst operating in the same business with substantive overlap from the same employees supporting each of Highland and the Advisors. There will be no evidence that anyone performed (or was asked to perform) any analysis of Highland's "actual costs" of providing sub-advisory services to the Advisors before Mr. Waterhouse executed the PRA Amendments (or at any time thereafter).<sup>13</sup>

vi. Before Any Dispute Arose, Mr. Klos Confirmed the Parties' Intent that the PRAs Were "Flat Fee for Services" Arrangements

78. In January 2020, at around the time when Mr. Dondero ceded control of Highland, but more than six months before any dispute arose concerning amounts paid or to be paid under the Agreements, Mr. Klos reiterated to Mr. Waterhouse and Ms. Thedford that the PRAs were intended to be fixed-fee agreements for sub-advisory or "front office" services rendered, rather than a "reimbursement" program based on periodic assessments of annual costs.

79. At that time, in response to inquiries from the Retail Board, Ms. Thedford sought information concerning expense reimbursements and allocations under the PRAs. After Mr. Klos informed Ms. Thedford that such information "doesn't exist in terms of current percentages," Ms. Thedford asked whether such information was contained in Exhibit A to the PRAs. In response, Mr. Klos reminded Ms. Thedford that the allocations in Exhibit A were:

a point in time estimate as of 2018. Half the people are gone now and if you were to reallocate them now, all the percentages would be different. On top of

<sup>13</sup> The evidence corroborates Highland's contention that the PRA Amendments (like the PRAs themselves) were not based on "actual costs," because the Advisors were paying millions of additional dollars at a time when they knew that more than one-third of the Dual Employees had already been terminated. Exhibit 14 (responses to Interrogatories 3 and 4 in which the Advisors admit having contemporaneous knowledge that 9 of the 26 Dual Employees (or, more than one-third) were terminated before December 1, 2018). If the parties intended that the Advisors would pay for "actual costs" (as opposed to services), the Advisors would never have agreed to pay millions of additional dollars in December 2018; instead, they would have made the same arguments of "overpayments" that they advance here.

that, we don't have anything comprehensive that is comparable for back office people so the only thing we can really provide is a stale percentage on a small subset of the overall population.

Would be much more logical to do the yes/no and then as a blanket statement say that HCMFA/NPA pay $x/$y annually to HCMLP for these employees' services.

Exhibit 151 (emphases added).

80. Ms. Thedford responded by simply writing "Got it, thanks." Id.

81. Later in January 2020, Mr. Waterhouse asked Mr. Klos for information concerning the "monthly amount for each agreement." In response, Mr. Klos again confirmed that "flat fee" arrangement under the Agreements (except for the HCMFA SSA), and provided information showing NexPoint continued to pay Highland $6 million per year for services rendered:

Monthly amounts below

HCMFA

$290k-300k for shared services

NPA

$252k flat for investment support

$248k flat for shared services ($168k from NPA directly; $80k from NREA, but assume you're looking for a consolidated number)

Exhibit 146 (emphases added).

82. Thus, in January 2020 (the month the Independent Board took control of Highland), the Advisors' Treasurer was reminded in writing of the flat monthly fees that the Advisors were paying under the Agreements. The evidence will show that these exact amounts were charged to, and paid by, the Advisors for the two-year period before January 2020 and continued uninterrupted until Mr. Dondero directed Mr. Waterhouse to cease making all payments to Highland in late 2020.

C. Highland's Claim for Unpaid Fees

83. From October 16, 2019 (the "Petition Date") until November 30, 2020 (the "Relevant Period"), the Advisors paid Highland amounts due and owing under the Agreements each month, just as they had for years.

84. By the end of November 2020, (i) the Independent Board had demanded Mr. Dondero's resignation; (ii) Mr. Dondero had begun interfering with Highland's business and engaging in other improper conduct that ultimately led to the imposition of injunctive relief; and (iii) Highland had delivered the Termination Notices.

85. In the face of this acrimony, Mr. Dondero instructed Mr. Waterhouse to stop making any payments to Highland. As a result of Mr. Dondero's instruction, the Advisors failed to pay amounts due and owing under the Agreements for the month of December 2020 and January 2021 (and in the case of the HCMFA SSA, the month of November 2020). Specifically, (a) for the months of November and December 2020, and January 2021, HCMFA failed to pay Highland $1,726,277 for services rendered, (b) for the months of December 2020 and January 2021, NexPoint failed to pay Highland $1,000,000<sup>14</sup> for services rendered, and (c) the Advisors failed to pay Highland for other reimbursable out-of-pocket costs not otherwise captured through the monthly invoices and represented primarily by the Advisors' allocable portion of accounting software, IT development, and investment research products and tools (e.g., Bloomberg machines).<sup>15</sup>

86. There will be no dispute that the Advisors failed to (i) pay Highland any amounts due and owing under the Agreements or (ii) otherwise compensate Highland for investment advisory and shared services rendered in December 2020 and January 2021 (and as to HCMFA, shared services in November 2020).

<sup>15</sup> HCMFA's portion of such amounts was $2,054,546.19; NexPoint's portion of such amounts was $100,834.96.

D. The Shared Services Agreements

87. The evidence shows that the Shared Services Agreements enabled the Advisors to obtain middle- and back-office services from Highland that were required so that the Advisors could fulfill their obligations to their Clients pursuant to the Investment Advisory Agreements.

88. The evidence also shows that the Advisors fully performed their obligations under the Investment Advisory Agreements and—as specifically described below—that the Advisors repeatedly represented to the Retail Board that Highland’s performance under the shared-services arrangements was not adversely impacted by Highland’s bankruptcy and that service was never interrupted.

1. Highland Performed All of Its Obligations under the Agreements

89. The evidence—including, but not limited to, the Advisors’ contemporaneous and repeated representations to the Retail Board—proves that Highland fully performed its obligations under the Agreements.

90. As required by the ICA, the Retail Board conducts an annual review whereby it determines whether to extend its Investment Advisory Agreements with the Advisors. This is referred to as the “15(c) review” process.

91. As part of this 15(c)-review process, and at other times during Highland’s bankruptcy, the Advisors provided the Retail Board with information concerning the status of the shared services relationship, Highland’s provision of services thereunder, and contingency planning in case the Advisors’ shared services relationship with Highland was terminated.

92. The Advisors provided this information to the Retail Board either in writing or orally during meetings of the Retail Board (the “Retail Board Meetings”). Minutes from the Retail

Board Meetings were created in the ordinary course (the “Board Minutes”). A representative of the Retail Board will testify that the Board Minutes were adopted only after, among other things, the Advisors had an opportunity to review and edit their content to assure their accuracy.

93. The Board Minutes recite, among other things, that one or more of the Advisors’ officers (i.e., Mr. Waterhouse, Mr. Norris, Ms. Thedford, or Mr. Post) or attorneys (i.e., Dennis C. Sauter, the Advisors’ in-house counsel, or K&L Gates, the Advisors’ outside counsel) was present and participated in every applicable Retail Board Meeting. See generally Exhibits 57-73.

94. A representative of the Retail Board will testify that the Retail Board (a) assumed that the Advisors made the statements and representations reflected in the Board Minutes on an informed basis after conducting due diligence, and (b) the Retail Board relied on the statements and representations made by or on behalf of the Advisors in the Retail Board Meetings.

95. The contemporaneous Board Minutes from 2020 constitute substantial, irrefutable evidence of Highland’s uninterrupted performance of its obligations under the Agreements.

96. In January 2020, Mr. Dondero avoided the appointment of a trustee by ceding control of Highland to the Independent Board. With Mr. Dondero’s loss of control of Highland, the Retail Board naturally sought information about whether this change would impact Highland’s staffing. Thus, the Board Minutes from the Retail Board Meeting held on January 22, 2020 (shortly after the Court approved the Corporate Governance settlement) included the following entries:

Ms. Thedford noted that the Meeting Materials included a headcount report that lists each employee associated with HCMLP and the Advisers and identifies whether the employee is dually employed by both HCMLP and an Adviser or pursuant to a separate arrangement, such as Mr. Norris’ employment with the Funds’ distributor, NexPoint Securities, Inc. . . .

Mr. Norris discussed the shared services arrangements that each Adviser is a party to with HCMLP pursuant to which the Adviser may utilize employees from HCMLP for the provision of various services such as human resources, accounting, valuation, information technology services, compliance and legal. Mr. Norris noted, however, that many of these “third party” services are readily available on the open market.

Exhibit 57 at 2, 3.

97. In response to the Retail Board’s request, the Advisors included in the “Meeting Materials” a list of every person employed in the Highland complex, including (a) name, (b) title, (c) department, (d) employing entity (e.g., HCMLP, HCMFA, NexPoint), (e) whether the person was a “dual employee,” (f) office location, and (g) whether the person was an “investment professional” or was providing “back office” services.” Exhibit 75.

98. In mid-June, Jason Post (“Mr. Post”), the Advisors’ Chief Compliance Officer, assured the Retail Board that the Advisors were “monitor[ing]” the “level and quality” of Highland’s shared services and that he was unaware of any disruptions:

Mr. Post described the team members providing compliance and legal support services to the Funds and the Advisers. . . . Mr. Post stated he believed the Compliance department was adequately staffed.

Mr. Post also discussed the quality and continuity of services provided to the Funds by HCMLP pursuant to shared services agreements with the Advisers in the context of the HCMLP bankruptcy. A discussion ensued during which Mr. Post responded to questions from the Board. He noted the regular updates provided to the Board and also discussed how the level and quality of services are being monitored and confirmed that he is not aware of any disruptions in the service levels provided to the Funds.

Exhibit 58 at 20 (emphasis added).

99. In August, Dustin Norris (“Mr. Norris”), an Executive Vice President of each Advisor, represented to the Retail Board that “there had been no issues or disruptions in services as a result of the HCMLP bankruptcy matter,” although James P. Seery, Jr. (“Mr. Seery”), Highland’s Chief Executive Officer, advised the Retail Board that certain conflicts might arise given the differing investment strategies being adopted by Highland, on the one hand, and the Advisors, on the other:

Mr. Norris next provided an overview of the 15(c) review materials and process and discussed the expected timeline with respect to Board consideration of approval of the renewals. He noted that there had been no issues or disruptions in services as a result of the HCMLP bankruptcy matter.

Mr. Seery then pointed out to the Board a potential conflict of interest that had arisen with respect to an investment held by both HCMLP-advised funds and certain of the Funds. Mr. Seery explained that the HCMLP-advised funds were likely to seek to sell their interests in the investment. This divergence of investment objectives of HCMLP and the Funds, and the overlapping portfolio and administrative personnel of HCMLP and HCMFA and the NexPoint Advisors working on the matter, created a potential conflict between the two groups.

Exhibit 59 at 6, 11 (emphasis added).

100. In advance of a Retail Board Meeting to be held in September, the Advisors sent a memorandum to the Retail Board in which they stated, among other things, that the “Advisors and HCMLP believe the current shared services being provided are generally consistent with the level of service that historically been received,” and further addressed potential conflict issues. Exhibit 18 at ACL 080581 (response to question 3).

101. During the two-day Retail Board meeting held on September 17-18, 2020, the Retail Board was advised that Highland continued to perform all of the shared services and was provided with additional information concerning potential conflicts:

In response to questions from the Board, Mr. Ellington noted that he had been advised that Mr. Dondero had a high degree of confidence that, even if an overall settlement could not be achieved, there would be a mechanism in place for the services currently provided by HCMLP such that any impact to the Funds would be minimal. In the short-term, Mr. Seery expected that the shared services agreement (the “Shared Services Agreement”) between HCMLP (on the one hand) and HCMFA/NexPoint Advisers (on the other) to remain in place. In the event that the Shared Services Agreement were terminated, Mr. Seery believes that the employees and services at HCMLP that are currently supporting the Funds would be transferred either directly to HCMFA/NexPoint Advisers or to a third-party that would continue to service the Funds. A discussion then ensued, including as regards the process for addressing any conflicts of interest. . . .

Mr. Surgent joined the Meeting. During the discussion, he responded to the 15(c) follow-up questions submitted by the Board relating to HCMLP matters. He provided the Board with a status update on the HCMLP bankruptcy and discussed the impact of the HCMLP bankruptcy on the shared services arrangements with the Funds, noting he does not expect that the level and quality of services would change in the immediate term. Regarding the bankruptcy, Mr. Surgent reiterated Mr. Seery's stated goal to achieve a consensual, omnibus resolution by the end of the year. To the extent this was not achievable, Mr. Surgent noted that an alternative plan had been filed by HCMLP. . . . He indicated that at this time it was business as usual with respect to the services provided to the Funds and that the Board would be notified immediately of any developments. A robust discussion then ensued, which included an explanation of how conflicts of interests are addressed when certain HCMLP employees are conflicted out of working on particular matters, as was the case in the recent OmniMax International, Inc. (f/k/a Euramax) ("OmniMax") matter. Mr. Surgent and Mr. Norris explained that there were sufficient and appropriate personnel at HCMFA/NexPoint Advisors who are not also dual employees at HCMLP to cover all relevant functions on such matters, including legal, compliance, accounting, administration and portfolio management. Mr. Surgent also provided an update on the current matters where this was being utilized, including with respect to OmniMax, and noted that there were a limited number of such potential conflicts. Mr. Norris confirmed that he was comfortable with the level and quality of services being provided and has not seen any issues with the conflicts process. He also noted that in view of this being an employee of NexPoint and not being an employee of HCMLP, he was not conflicted out of working on any such matter and was able to oversee the process. In response to a request of the Board, Mr. Norris undertook to provide the Board with a list of non-HCMLP employees available to address any conflicts that may arise.

Exhibit 60 at 7, 12-13 (emphases added).

102. On October 9, 2020, Mr. Norris sent an e-mail to the Retail Board and other officers and agents of the Advisors (including outside counsel) to provide an interim update in which he advised the Retail Board that NexPoint was working on contingency plans to "ensure that there is no disruption in services":

We are working on full responses to your with [sic] 15(c) follow-up questions attached, however we want to keep you updated as it pertains to the continued developments with shared services and your first question on the attached. As it stands today, NexPoint's senior management's plan as a backup/contingency plan is to extend employment offers to the vast majority of HCMLP's employees by 12/31/2020. This will help ensure that there is no disruption in services to the Funds. Once we have further details of this we will advise. In the interim the plan is to continue with existing shared services.

Exhibit 81 (emphasis added).

103. A few days later, on October 13, 2020, Mr. Norris informed the Retail Board during a regularly scheduled meeting that, with respect to shared services, “all operations continued in the normal course there [sic] had been no material impact on the day-to-day operations of the Funds” and that contingency plans were “in place to continue to provide the same level and quality of services to the Funds”:

Mr. Ellington then explained three various potential scenarios contemplated during the ongoing negotiations, including a full or partial buyout of certain creditor claims by Mr. Dondero or no agreement, which could potentially lead to liquidation of HCMLP and termination of all HCMLP employees. . . .

Mr. Sauter also discussed the status of the shared services agreements. In response to another question, Mr. Norris discussed the morale employees [sic] and noted that all operations continued in the normal course there [sic] had been no material impact on the day-to-day operations of the Funds. He indicated that there would not likely be any material developments with respect to the status of HCMLP until the end of the year at the earliest. The Board requested that the Advisers continue working toward developing definitive plan to ensure that the resources, both of personnel and equipment, are in place to continue to provide the same level and quality of services to the Funds and to continue to report back to the Board on the status.

Exhibit 61 at 2, 3 (emphases added).

104. On October 23, 2020, the Advisors provided written responses to certain questions posed by the Retail Board, including whether the Advisors had “contingency plans with respect to the services provided under the Shared Services Agreement in the event that the outcome of the HCMLP bankruptcy proceedings were to impact the current servicing structure.” As to that question, the Advisors provided the following response:

Response: As a result of the Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“HCMLP”) bankruptcy, NexPoint’s senior management’s plan as a backup/contingency plan is to extend employment offers to the vast majority of HCMLP’s employees by December 31, 2020. This will help ensure that there is no disruption in services to the Funds. . . .

Exhibit 22 at 1 (emphasis added).<sup>16</sup>

105. The Retail Board also asked whether there were “any material outstanding amounts currently payable or due in the future (e.g., notes) to HLCMLP [sic] by HCMFA or NexPoint Advisors or any other affiliate that provide services to the Funds.” Id. at 2. As to that question, the Advisors informed the Retail Board of the amounts due under various promissory notes and noted that “[a]ll amounts owed by each of NexPoint and HCMFA pursuant to the shared services arrangement with HCMLP have been paid as of the date of this letter.” Id.

106. On October 28, 2020, the Retail Board was again told that (i) Highland was expected to continue to provide shared services without interruption, (ii) the parties continued to work on a “seamless transition,” (iii) according to Mr. Collins, there had been no “significant departures” of employees, and that (iv) the “quality and level” of services had not been negatively impacted by Highland’s bankruptcy:

Mr. Ellington provided an update on the HCMLP bankruptcy, focusing on the contingency plan for fund service providers if HCMLP is unable to perform its current functions. . . . He also noted that based upon on-going discussions with HCMLP, as well as in view of these alternative contingency plans, the Advisers do not expect any interruption to the services to the Funds that are currently being provided by HCMLP pursuant to the Shared Services Agreement.

Mr. Ellington and Mr. Waterhouse next discussed the potential moving of employees from HCMLP to a newly formed company (“NewCo”). Such a transfer of employees to NewCo would take place at the termination of the Shared Services Agreements and would permit a seamless transition of personnel and services for the Funds. . . . Mr. Collins noted that, although employees of HCMLP were not yet able to be released subject to confirmation of the plan of bankruptcy, he was confident in the firm’s ability to retain talent throughout this process based on discussions with the employees. He noted that every employee team leader had been spoken to and also noted that there have been no significant departures to date. He also noted that in order to assist with any potential conflict of interests, Jason Post, the Funds’ CCO, became an employee of NexPoint on October 14, 2020. He noted that Mr. Post, while formerly an HCMLP employee, had only been performing work for the Funds. Mr. Post then referred the Board to the Board Materials, which included a list of current co-investments and cross-held positions held by the funds and a list of non-HCMLP employees who would be available to assist the Board in the event of any conflict of interest between HCMLP, on one hand, and the Advisers of the Funds, on the other. . . .

The Advisers represented that the quality and level of services provided to the Funds by the Advisers and pursuant to the shared services arrangements had not been negatively impacted to date and that adequate plans were in place prevent any diminution of services as a result of any potential issues relating to the HCMLP bankruptcy that might arise. . . .

The Board noted that the level and quality of services to the Funds by the Advisers and its affiliates had not been materially impacted by the HCMLP bankruptcy and took into account the Advisers' representations that the level and quality of the services provided by the Advisers and their affiliates, as well as of those services currently being provided by HCMLP pursuant to the Shared Services Agreement, would continue to be provided to the Funds at the same or higher level and quality.

Exhibit 62 at 2, 3, 7 (emphases added).

107. A week later, Mr. Norris again reassured the Retail Board that Highland continued to provide shared services on an uninterrupted basis and that no issues of “conflict” arose:

Mr. Norris then noted that there has not been any disruption to the services provided to the Funds by HCMLP pursuant to the Shared Services Agreement and that he expects that such services will continue to be provided in normal course. In addition, Mr. Norris noted that there have been no issues with an HCMLP employee being conflicted out since the last update.

Exhibit 63 at 3 (emphasis added).

108. By December 1, 2020, (a) the Court had approved Highland's latest Disclosure Statement [Docket No. 1476]; (b) Highland had sent the Termination Notices (Exhibit 153 and Exhibit 154); and (c) the Advisers had allegedly discovered the “overpayments under the Agreements.” (Exhibit 13 ¶ 16). Yet, the Advisers continued to reassure the Retail Board that everything was proceeding normally and that the parties were working to achieve an orderly, seamless transition.

109. Indeed, on December 1, 2020, Mr. Post confirmed that Highland sent the Termination Notices and informed the Retail Board that the Advisors planned to revise the “disclosure documents for the Funds” to state, among other things, that:

On November 13, 2020, HCMLP filed an amended plan of reorganization and disclosure statement (the “Amended Plan”) which was subsequently accepted by the Creditors and approved by the Court. On November 30, 2020, HCMLP provided notice of termination of the Shared Services Agreement to HCMFA/NPA, effective January 31, 2021. However, based upon on-going discussions with HCMLP, HCMFA/NPA expects to be able to continue to receive these services through a transfer of personnel, equipment and facilities from HCMLP either to HCMFA/NPA or to a third-party service provider.

Exhibit 16 at (December 1, 2020 e-mail from Mr. Post) (emphasis added).

110. On December 7, 2020, the Advisors provided written responses posed by Blank Rome, outside counsel to the Retail Board. In response to a question about who “is responsible for putting together the plan to continue to provide/transition shared services for the retail complex,” the Advisors stated:

The senior management team of the Advisors is responsible for the transition of services, and this group is made up of Jim Dondero, D.C. Sauter, Jason Post, and Dustin Norris. This group is working with HCMLP management to ensure an orderly transition.

Exhibit 10 at 1 (emphasis added).

111. The Retail Board also asked for a “matrix of current services provided and services that will be transferred.” In response, the Advisors stated:

Please see Appendix A below, which includes the list of services provided under the shares services agreement with HCMLP. These services fall into two broader categories: 1) Employees performing services and 2) Systems, infrastructure, software and supplies/equipment. As we understand it, the bankruptcy plan of reorganization approved by the bankruptcy court (the “Approved Plan”) anticipates the termination of all HCMLP employees by 1/31/21. The Advisors anticipate extending employment offers to the vast majority of HCMLP’s employees such that the employees would be rehired immediately upon termination of their employment with HCMLP. This will cover all of the services under category 1 above.

Id. at 2 (emphasis added).

112. During a Retail Board meeting held on December 10-11, 2020, (a) Mr. Norris reviewed the “current services provided under the shared services agreement with HCMLP and discussed the current plans for ensuring the continuation of those services after a plan of reorganization is approved”; and (b) Mr. Sauter “noted that there has been no material attrition to date with respect to employees”:

Mr. Norris provided responses to the Board’s follow up questions that had been submitted on their behalf prior to the Meeting. Among these items, Mr. Norris reviewed a matrix of current services provided under the shared services agreement with HCMLP and discussed the current plans for ensuring the continuation of those services after a plan of reorganization is approved. Mr. Norris noted that these shared services fell into two broader categories: (1) employees performing services and (2) systems, infrastructure, software and supplies/equipment. With respect to the first category, Mr. Norris discussed plans by the Advisers to extend employment offers to the vast majority of HCMLP’s employees such that the employees would be rehired immediately upon termination of their employment with HCMLP. In the alternative, these employees could join a newly formed entity (New Co) and continue to provide services to the Funds through NewCo. With respect to the second category, Mr. Sauter noted that the Advisers and HCMLP were in agreement that these would be assigned with a payment from the Advisers and that there were working groups set up that were pursuing an orderly transition of all of these items, which included orderly assignment and assumption of the relevant agreements needed to continue with all current services. He noted that there has been no material attrition to date with respect to employees. . . . Mr. Norris also discussed the Advisers’ proposed alternative plan and confirmed that regardless of whether the Advisers and HCMLP came to an agreement on shared services, such services would be continued to be provided to the Funds without interruption.

Exhibit 64 at 7, 8 (emphases added).

113. By January 2021, Highland had obtained temporary injunctive relief against Mr. Dondero, but the Advisers assured the Retail Board that it had no impact on the Advisers’ ability to obtain access to information and resources concerning the Retail Funds:

Mr. Norris confirmed that the Advisers did not feel limited by the temporary restraining orders relating to the HCMLP bankruptcy with respect to access to Fund information. Mr. Norris then updated the board on a number of employee moves from HCMLP to NexPoint. In response to a question, Messrs. Post and Norris confirmed that there was sufficient legal and compliance coverage for the Funds.

Mr. Norris then provided an update on the negotiations with HCMLP on the transition of shared services. He noted that both sides had agreed in principal on the transition of services and cost sharing but that it was not yet memorialized in a contract and a number of details still needed to be resolved. He confirmed that the Advisers continued to receive full access to information and resources with respect to the Funds.

Exhibit 66 at 2, 3 (emphases added).

114. On January 29, 2021, Jackie Graham, NREA's Director of Investor Relations and Capital Markets, sent an e-mail to Mr. Dondero, Mr. Sauter, and others in advance of a Board call in which she attached an outline of certain issues concerning shared services provided by Highland and stated, among other things, that:

Because the [relevant Funds] are externally managed by external advisors (NexPoint Real Estate Advisors, L.P. and its affiliates (the "Advisors")), the [relevant Funds] rely on the Advisors to provide certain services to them. The Advisers utilize Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("HCM") to provide a certain subset of these services under a shared services agreement between HCM and the Advisers. . . .

Employees of the Advisors are working with HCM to provide a transition of shared services from HCM to the Advisors or third party providers. . . . Specifically, the Advisors and affiliate advisors would pay a one-time fee of $400,000 and ongoing monthly costs of $270,000. Additionally, HCM may require the Advisors and affiliate advisors to pay previously unpaid fees allegedly owed to HCM totaling $5.5m. . . .

Winston is reviewing potential legal remedies in the event HCM breaches the shared services but denying us access to our data held by HCM or otherwise attempts to cause harm to our shareholders . . .

Exhibit 84 at FUNDS 0000043-44 (emphases added).

115. As the transition of the shared services from Highland to Skyview was nearing completion, the Advisors continued to reassure the Retail Board that all was well. On February 26, 2021, Mr. Norris provided an update on the transition:

Mr. Norris provided an update on the shared services arrangements and employee transitions. He indicated that there would be no impact as a result of certain employees not transitioning to the Advisers and discussed the team in place and their qualifications. He noted that the current shared services arrangements with HCMLP would cease at the end of February and that the Advisers wish to move forward with new Shared Services Agreements between each Adviser and NewCo. He then stated that these Agreements were in the process of being drafted and finalized and will be reviewed with the Board at its next meeting. He indicated that there had been no major issues in connection with the transition and that the personnel from the Advisers had met with HCMLP with respect to data files and are comfortable that HCMLP will be providing the necessary information. In response to a question from the Board, he indicated that there was not an immediate need for such data and confirmed that the Advisers had the data and information files they needed with respect to Fund operations and services.

Exhibit 73 at 9-10 (emphases added).

116. Based on all the information and representations made by the Advisors, the NexPoint Diversified Real Estate Trust (one of the Advisors' Clients) filed its annual report with the SEC in early 2022 (about a year after Highland commenced this Adversary Proceeding and the Advisors filed their administrative claim) in which it disclosed, among other things, the following:

The Fund has retained NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (the "Investment Adviser") to manage the assets of the Fund pursuant to an investment advisory agreement between the Investment Adviser and the Fund (the "Agreement"). . . . The Board of Trustees noted that the level and quality of services to the Fund by the Investment Adviser and its affiliates had not been materially impacted by the HCMLP bankruptcy and took into account the Investment Adviser's representations that the level and quality of the services provided by the Investment Adviser and their affiliates, as well as of those services provided by Skyview to the Investment Adviser under the Skyview Services Agreement, would continue to be provided to the Fund at the same or higher level and quality.

<sup>17</sup> The Highland Income Fund, advised by HCMFA, also filed its annual report in early 2022 that contained the same disclosure.

2. The Advisors Knowingly and Intentionally Made All Payments Due under the Agreements from January 1, 2018 through November 30, 2020

117. From January 1, 2018 (the effective date of all of the Agreements, except the HCMFA SSA) through November 30, 2020, the Advisors knowingly and intentionally made all monthly payments due and owing under the Agreements in exchange for Highland's front-office and middle- and back-office services.<sup>18</sup>

118. The evidence establishing that the Advisors had contemporaneous knowledge of the payments made under the Agreements includes the following:

- The Agreements signed by the Advisors' Treasurer specified the fixed monthly amounts to be paid;<sup>19</sup>
- The monthly payments made by NexPoint were consistent with Mr. Dondero's determination that the total annual payment for Highland's services was to be fixed at $6 million;<sup>20</sup>
- Mr. Dondero was given written projections for 2018, 2019, and 2020 that are consistent with all amounts subsequently paid during those years (except December 2020);<sup>21</sup>
- The parties originally sought to enter into "flat fee" arrangements under the Sub-Advisory Agreements and only entered into the PRAs because outside counsel advised that the Sub-Advisory Agreements could not be retroactive and could not be adopted unless approved by the Retail Board during an in-person meeting;<sup>22</sup>
- Highland sought and obtained Mr. Waterhouse's approval before making payments under the Agreements;<sup>23</sup>

<sup>18</sup> The lone exception was the monthly amount from HCMFA for shared services rendered in November 2020, because such amounts were not determined until after Mr. Dondero's direction to stop making payments.

<sup>21</sup> Exhibit 86 at 46 (projecting annual payments of $3,024,000 for sub-advisory fees (i.e., $252,000 per month) and annual payments of $2,976,000 for shared services (i.e., $168,000 per month for shared services for NexPoint and $80,000 per month for shared services for NexPoint's affiliate, NREA), which together yield $6 million in annual fees)

- The Advisors' contemporaneous books and records recorded all payments to Highland under the Agreements;<sup>24</sup>
- Mr. Klos reminded Mr. Waterhouse in January 2020 of the "flat" monthly fees being charged;<sup>25</sup>
- In April 2020, Mr. Dondero was provided with written forecasts showing that NexPoint was projected to pay Highland exactly $500,000 per month (or, again, $6 million per year on an annualized basis) through December 2020;<sup>26</sup>
- In August 2020, HCMFA provided its unaudited income statement to the Retail Board that showed, among other things, all amounts paid under the Agreements for the twelve months ending June 30, 2020;<sup>27</sup>
- The Advisors represented to the Retail Board in October 2020 that "[a]ll amounts owed by each of NPA and HCMFA pursuant to the shared services arrangement have been paid,"<sup>28</sup> a representation that could not have been made in good faith if made on an unformed basis; and
- Each of the payments that the Advisors made under the Agreements between January and November 2020 (when the Independent Board controlled of Highland) were exactly the same (or utilized the exact same methodology under the HCMFA SSA) as the payments that the Advisors made under the Agreements between January 1, 2018 and December 31, 2019 (when Mr. Dondero solely controlled Highland and the Advisors).

119. There will be no evidence showing that the Advisors were unaware of the amounts being charged and paid under the Agreements between the Petition Date and November 30, 2020, when the Advisors knowingly and intentionally ceased making payments to Highland.

<sup>24</sup> Mr. Waterhouse will testify to this fact and it will be uncontested.

3. The Advisors Knew (i) What Services Were Being Provided, and (ii) When Every Person (Including Every Dual Employee) Was Hired and Terminated by Highland, During the Relevant Period

120. There is overwhelming, irrefutable evidence that the Advisors had contemporaneous knowledge of every person who was hired or terminated by Highland from before January 1, 2018 through at least December 30, 2020, including the following:

- In their written responses to interrogatories, the Advisors admitted that they had contemporaneous knowledge of the termination of every Dual Employee (the “Advisors’ Admissions”);<sup>29</sup>
- Every month from at least October 2017 through January 2021, Highland’s Human Resources department (under the direction of Mr. Collins) prepared a “Monthly Headcount Report” (the “Monthly Headcount Reports”) listing every employee in the Highland complex and highlighting new hires and terminations and distributed such reports to numerous people, including the Advisors’ officers (i.e., Mr. Waterhouse, Ms. Thedford, and Mr. Norris);<sup>30</sup>
- Multiple witnesses will testify that Mr. Dondero was informed (if not approved) of every hiring and termination from before January 1, 2018 through at least January 9, 2020;
- Mr. Dondero was provided with extensive information concerning hires, terminations, and employee compensation and benefits during the Annual Reviews;<sup>31</sup>
- In early 2020, the Advisors provided detailed information to the Retail Board concerning all of Highland’s employees;<sup>32</sup>
- On August 13, 2020, the Advisors informed the Retail Board, among other things, of recent changes to the Advisors’ portfolio management team (i.e., the team that provided investment advisory or “front office” services) and concluded that “there have been no changes that may reasonably be viewed to bear on an Advisers’ performance of services for a Fund or otherwise to have an effect on a Fund;”<sup>33</sup>

<sup>33</sup> Exhibit 17 at 3-5 (responses to Questions 4 and 5).

- On October 28, 2020, Mr. Collins informed the Retail Board that he was confident the Advisors could retain Highland's employees based on his discussions with those individuals and that there were "no significant departures to date;"<sup>34</sup> and
- In December 2020, Mr. Sauter represented to the Retail Board that there was "no material attrition to date with respect to employees."<sup>35</sup>

121. Based on this information, there is no credible basis for the Advisors' contention that the Advisors only intended to pay for the "Actual Cost" of the Dual Employees listed on Exhibit A to each of the PRAs.

122. Based on the Advisors' Admissions and the Monthly Staffing Reports alone, the Advisors knew the following facts at the following times:

- As of May 1, 2018, when the Advisors entered into the PRAs, 4 of the 29 Dual Employees on Exhibit A had already been terminated;
- As of December 14, 2018, when the Advisors entered into the PRA Amendments pursuant to which they agreed to pay Highland an incremental $2.5 million in the aggregate, 9 of the 29 Dual Employees on Exhibit A had already been terminated; and
- As of October 16, 2019, the date Mr. Dondero caused Highland to commence the Bankruptcy Case, 14 of the 29 employees on Exhibit A had already been terminated.

123. Prior to the Petition Date, and indeed prior to the delivery of the Termination Notices,<sup>36</sup> the departure of the Dual Employees was apparently of no concern to the Advisors.

124. There is no dispute that (i) Mr. Dondero controlled Highland and the Advisors from at least January 1, 2018 through the Petition Date and (ii) nearly half of the Dual Employees were terminated during that time. Over this same period, a number of employees were either hired or

<sup>36</sup> At least three additional Dual Employees were terminated between the Petition Date and the date Highland sent the Termination Notices (see Exhibit 14 (response to interrogatory 3)), yet the Advisors never exercised their rights under Section 2.02 of the PRAs or otherwise said or suggested that the fixed monthly amounts that had been charged every month since January 2018 should be modified.

transitioned roles in order to maintain the level of services provided to the Advisors. Despite having contemporaneous knowledge of these facts, there will be no evidence that the Advisors ever attempted to modify the amounts to be paid pursuant to Section 2.02 of the PRAs (except for the December 2018 amendments to increase such amounts) or objected to the amounts being charged.<sup>37</sup> Indeed, the evidence is exactly the opposite: for twenty-two (22) consecutive months, each of the Advisors paid the “flat fee” expressly set forth in the definition of “Actual Costs” in the PRAs.

125. Nor can the Advisors credibly contend that they were “unaware” of what shared services were being provided by Highland. The undisputed evidence shows, among other things, that:

- Until late December 2020, Mr. Dondero was physically present in Highland’s offices and regularly communicated with Highland’s employees;
- Mr. Dondero and each of the Advisors’ officers interacted with Highland’s employees each business day during the post-petition period;
- The Advisors knew that they needed to obtain the shared services so they could fulfill their obligations under the Investment Advisory Agreements;
- Accordingly, and as the Advisors expressly represented to the Retail Board, the Advisors “monitored” the “level and quality” of shared services that Highland was providing,<sup>38</sup>
- The Advisors repeatedly and without exception represented to the Retail Board that Highland continued to provide quality shared services without interruption, notwithstanding the bankruptcy filing;<sup>39</sup>
- Between October 16 and December 31, 2020, the Advisors and their outside counsel, K&L Gates, wrote five (5) separate letters to Highland but—with one

spurious exception—never complained about the shared services being provided by Highland, let alone asserted that Highland was in breach of their obligations under the Shared Services Agreements.<sup>40</sup>

126. In short, the evidence will conclusively establish that, between January 10, 2020 and February 2021, Highland provided the same services to the Advisors under the Agreements, for the same set prices, as Highland provided and charged between January 1, 2018 and January 9, 2020, when Mr. Dondero was in control of Highland and the Advisors.

E. The Advisors’ Damages and Overpayment Theory is Fatally Flawed

127. The Advisors have not and cannot meet their burden of proving damages for at least the following reasons:

- The Advisors’ damage theory is based on an analysis (a) originally created for an unrelated purpose, (b) revised under suspicious circumstances; and (c) based on assumptions that are incompatible with the Advisors’ intended contention;
- The analysis in question was originally prepared by Mr. Klos in November 2019 (Exhibit 144), and was updated a month later for use in discussions with Highland’s Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors (Exhibit 145);
- Mr. Waterhouse has admitted that he asked Mr. Klos to update his analysis in December 2020, and that he made the request because he believed the revised analysis could be useful in “negotiations;”
- As constructed, the analysis is not a reliable basis for determining the Advisors’ allocable share of the “Actual Costs” of the Dual Employees nor is it a reliable indicator of Highland’s alleged profitability under the Agreements; and
- The evidence establishes that Mr. Dondero incorporated the flawed analysis into the “plan” he proposed on the eve of confirmation as a way to drive a bargain.

<sup>40</sup> See Exhibit 148 (October 16, 2020 letter from the Advisors); Exhibit 155 (November 24, 2020 letter from the Advisors); Exhibit 156 (December 22, 2020 letter from K&L Gates); Exhibit 157 (December 23, 2020 letter from K&L Gates); and Exhibit 158 (December 31 2020, letter from K&L Gates). The only issue raised in these letters that even arguably concerns “shared services” is the Advisors’ complaint that Highland would not “allows its employees to work on certain matters that jointly affect HCMLP and the Advisors.” Exhibit 148. This is a reference to “conflicts of interest,” a topic that was transparently and extensively discussed with the Retail Board. See, e.g., Exhibits 18, 59, 60, 62, and 63. Mr. Seery will testify that the actual areas of “conflict” were quite limited and that, in any event, the Agreements did not require (and could never be reasonably read to require) Highland to cause its employees to act against Highland’s own interests or contrary to applicable law.

128. For the reasons set forth below, the Advisors have failed to meet their burden of proving “overpayment” or that Highland breached the HCMFA SSA. Even if they had met their burden, however, the Advisors have failed to meet their burden of proving damages by a preponderance of evidence.

III. PROPOSED CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

A. Jurisdiction and Venue

129. This Court has jurisdiction over this Adversary Proceeding, and this Adversary Proceeding is a core proceeding pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2)(A) and (O).

130. This Adversary Proceeding is commenced pursuant to Bankruptcy Rules 7001 and 7065, Bankruptcy Code sections 105(a) and 362, 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201 and 2202.

131. Venue is proper in this judicial district pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1409.

B. The Parties’ Claims

132. This action involves competing claims for alleged breaches of the Agreements. The Parties’ claims are summarized as follows:

1. Highland’s Claims

133. Highland asserts breach of contract claims against (a) HCMFA for failing to pay for services rendered by Highland under (i) the HCMFA SSA during the months of November 2020, December 2020, and January 2021, and (ii) the HCMFA PRA during the months of December 2020, and January 2021, and against (b) NexPoint for failing to pay for services rendered by Highland under (i) the NexPoint SSA during the months of December 2020 and January 2021, and (ii) the NexPoint PRA during the months of December 2020 and January 2021 and (c) both Advisors for also failing to reimburse Highland for expenses under the Shared Services Agreements.

134. In accordance with the clear and unambiguous provisions of section 6.03 the NexPoint SSA, Highland also seeks to recover its costs and expenses, including attorneys' fees, incurred in the pursuit and defense of the claims asserted in this Adversary Proceeding.<sup>41</sup>

2. The Advisors Claims

135. The Advisors bring claims against Highland for (a) restitution for overpayments made under the PRAs, (b) breach of contract under the SSAs for Highland's failure to perform services thereunder, (c) restitution for overpayments made under the SSAs.

136. The Court will address each claim in turn.

C. Choice of Law

137. Texas law applies to the claims at issue. See Exhibit 2 (HCMFA SSA), Section 9.05 (providing that "the Agreement shall be governed by, and construed in accordance with, the laws of the state of Texas"); Exhibit 3 (NexPoint SSA), Section 8.02 (same); Exhibit 6 (NexPoint PRA), Section 6.05 (same); Exhibit 8 (HCMFA PRA), Section 6.05 (same).

D. The Advisors' Claims for Overpayment under the PRAs

138. The Advisors seek restitution for alleged overpayments they made under the PRAs from the Petition Date until November 30, 2020 (the date the Advisors ceased making any payments under the PRAs).

139. As set forth in the Joint Pretrial Order filed in this Adversary Proceeding, the Advisors contend that each of the Advisors is to reimburse Highland for its actual costs of the Dual Employees listed on Exhibit A to the PRAs, but that as of the Petition Date, certain of the Dual

<sup>41</sup> The parties agree that the "quantification of any attorney's fees awarded in this Adversary Proceeding, subject to defenses, will be handled through post-trial motion practice under Rule 54(d)(2) and no Party need present evidence on any attorney fee claim at the trial of this Adversary Proceeding." Joint Pretrial Order, Section VII. For the reasons set forth below, the Court finds that the Advisors are liable for the reimbursement of Highland's costs and fees (including attorneys' fees), but defers for another day any determination as to the quantum of costs and fees to be paid.

Employees were no longer employed at Highland. Therefore, the Advisors argue, during this period, that they were paying Highland for Dual Employees who were no longer employed by Highland, and that such payments constituted overpayments under the PRAs. The Advisors maintain that their monthly payments under the PRAs resulted in overpayments by the Advisors to Highland totaling $7,649,942, broken down as $4,928,103 in postpetition overpayments by HCMFA and $2,721,839 in postpetition overpayments by NexPoint. The Advisors' overpayment claim is premised on the contention that the Advisors were only required to pay for "actual costs and expenses" relating to each "Dual Employee," notwithstanding the clear, fixed monthly amount required to be paid by the Advisors by the PRAs.

140. Alternatively, the Advisors argue that if Section 2.02 of the PRAs controls, the Advisors sought to modify the clear, fixed monthly amounts under Section 2.02, but that Highland failed to negotiate the same in good faith as required by such section.

141. In defense, Highland argues that the PRAs clearly and unambiguously require that the Advisors pay a flat monthly fee for investment advisory services rendered, regardless of which employees actually performed those services, unless the parties agreed otherwise in writing pursuant to Section 2.02.

142. Highland also argues that even if the PRAs are deemed ambiguous, parole evidence and the parties' uninterrupted course of dealing proves that the parties intended for the Advisors pay a flat monthly fee for investment advisory services, unless modified pursuant to Section 2.02.

143. Alternatively, Highland further maintains that, even if the Advisors could prove that they "overpaid," under the PRAs, the Advisors claims have been (a) waived and (b) are barred by the voluntary payment rule.

144. Since the Parties disagree as to the meaning of “Actual Cost,” the Court first addresses the question of whether the PRAs are unambiguous regarding the Advisors’ payment obligations thereunder. The Court next turns to the merits of Advisors’ overpayment claims and Highland’s defenses.

1. The Payroll Reimbursements are Unambiguous as a Matter of Law

i. Legal Standard

145. “Whether a contract is ambiguous is a question of law for the court to decide by looking at the contract as a whole in light of the circumstances present when the contract was entered into.” BCC Merchant Solutions, Inc. v. Jet Pay, LLC, 129 F.Supp.3d 440, 466 (N.D.Tex. 2015) (internal quotations omitted); see also Watkins v. Petro-Search, Inc., 689 F.2d 537, 538 (5th Cir. 1982) (“[W]hen a question relating to the construction of a contract or its ambiguity is presented, the court is to take the wording of the contract in the light of the surrounding circumstances, in order to ascertain the meaning that would be attached to the wording by a reasonably intelligent person acquainted with all operative usages and knowing all the circumstances prior to and contemporaneous with the making of the integration”). “If, in the light of the surrounding circumstances, the language of the contract appears to be capable of only a single meaning, the court can then confine itself to the writing.” Watkins, 689 F.2d at 538 (internal quotations omitted); see also Columbia Gas Transmission Corp. v. New Ulm Gas, Ltd., 940 S.W.2d 587, 591 (Tex. 1996) (“In determining the parties’ agreement, we are to examine all parts of the contract and the circumstances surrounding the formulation of the contract.”).

146. “In construing a contract, a court must ascertain the true intentions of the parties as expressed in the writing itself.” Italian Cowboy Partners, Ltd. v. Prudential Ins. Co. of Am., 341 S.W.3d 323, 333 (Tex. 2011). “In identifying such intent, we must examine and consider the entire writing in an effort to harmonize and give effect to all the provisions of the contract so that none will be rendered meaningless.” Id. “We begin this analysis with the contract's express language.” Id.

147. A contract is unambiguous and will be enforced as written where it is “susceptible to only one reasonable construction.” BCC Merchant, 129 F.Supp.3d at 477. “[A] cardinal rule of contract interpretation under Texas law is that the entire writing must be examined” and “no single provision taken alone [may] be given controlling effect.” Id. (citing Texas law) (internal quotations omitted). Texas courts consider the entire writing “to harmonize and effectuate all provisions such that none are rendered meaningless.” Id. “An ambiguity is not created simply because the parties advance conflicting interpretations of the contract ... Rather, an ambiguity exists only where such conflicting interpretations are ‘reasonable.’” Id. at 477-78 (internal quotations and citations omitted); see also AXA Art Americas Corp. v. Public Storage, 208 F.Supp.3d 820, 828 (S.D.Tex. 2016) (“Ambiguity arises only when the applicable of the applicable rules of interpretation to the instrument leave it genuinely uncertain which one of ... two meanings is the proper one”) (internal quotations omitted); Instone Travel Tech Marine & Offshore v. Int’l Partners, Inc., 334 F.3d 423, 431 (5th Cir. 2003) (A “contract is not ambiguous because it suffers from mere ‘uncertainty or lack of clarity,’” noting “[t]he failure to include more express language of the parties' intent does not create an ambiguity when only one reasonable interpretation exists.”); Columbia Gas, 940 S.W.2d at 589 (“For an ambiguity to exist, both interpretations must be reasonable.”) (emphasis in original).

148. “Where the language is clear and definite, the contract is not ambiguous, and a court must apply the plain language as a matter of law.” Main Street Bank v. Unisen, No. H-06-3776, 2008 WL 11483415, at *4 (S.D.Tex. Feb. 15. 2008). “Only where a contract is ambiguous may a court consider the parties' interpretation and admit extraneous evidence to determine the true meaning of the instrument.” David J. Sacks, P.C. v. Haden, 266 S.W.3d 447, 450–51 (Tex.2008) (per curiam) (internal quotation omitted); see also Italian Cowboy, 341 S.W.3d at 333 (same).

ii. The PRAs Unambiguously Required the Advisors to Pay Highland Fixed Monthly Fees Absent Changes Made Under Section 2.02

149. There is no ambiguity regarding the Advisors’ payment obligations under the PRAs, and specifically whether the Advisors were obligated to pay fixed monthly fees to Highland.

150. As mandated, the Court begins by examining the express terms of the contracts. Under the plain terms of the PRAs, each of the Advisors were to pay Highland the “Actual Cost” for investment advisory services provided by Dual Employees (as defined in the PRAs). See Exhibit 6 (NexPoint PRA) §§ 2.01, 3.01, Exhibit 8 (HCMFA PRA) §§ 2.01, 3.01.

151. Each of the PRAs contains an identical “ARTICLE I DEFINITIONS” provisions ,save for the fixed dollar amount of “Actual Cost,” which Article sets forth the definitions of terms used in the respective PRAs. Exhibit 6 (NexPoint PRA) Article I, Exhibit 7 (HCFMA PRA) Article I, Exhibit 7. Each of the PRAs also contains an identical “Section 6.15 General Rules of Construction” which provides: [f]or all purposes of this Agreement and the Exhibits and Schedules delivered pursuant to this Agreement: (i) the terms defined in Article I have the meanings ascribed to them in Article I and include the plural as well as the singular.” Exhibit 6 (NexPoint PRA) Section 6.15, Exhibit 7 (HCFMA PRA) Section 6.15. As a result, the definitions in Article I of each of the PRAs are binding on the parties thereto and cannot be amended absent a writing executed by each of the parties to the agreements. Exhibit 6 (NexPoint PRA) Section 6.02, Exhibit 7 (HCMFMA PRA) Section 6.02.

152. The binding definitions of “Actual Cost” and “Dual Employees” in Article I of each of the PRAs is clear, unambiguous, and determinative. The definition of “Actual Cost” is:

[W]ith respect to any period hereunder, the actual costs and expenses caused by, incurred, or otherwise arising from or relating to each Dual Employee, in each case

during such period. Absent any changes to employee reimbursement, as set forth in Section 2.02, such costs and expenses are equal to [X] per month.

Exhibit 6 (NexPoint PRA) Article I, Exhibit 8 (HCMFA PRA) Article I (emphasis added).

153. The PRAs fix a set amount for Actual Cost which is binding unless amended in writing. the plain meaning of these provisions proves, as a matter of law, that the parties agreed (a) on the value to be paid for the investment advisory services each month, and (b) that the value to be paid for those services each month would remain in effect “[a]bsent any changes to employee reimbursement, as set forth in Section 2.02.”

154. The Advisors’ interpretation of the PRAs is unreasonable precisely because it renders the second sentence of the definition of “Actual Costs”—that is, the fixed amount—superfluous, an obvious violation of basic rules of contract interpretation. Stated another way, if—as the Advisors now contend—the parties intended that the Advisors’ payment obligations would fluctuate based on the identity, compensation, and time allocation each Dual Employee, they would never have included the second sentence fixing the amount in the definition of “Actual Costs.”

155. The Advisors’ interpretation is also unreasonable because it would either (a) leave the Advisors with a gap in investment advisory services every time a Dual Employee was terminated or (b) would require Highland to provide the investment advisory services of departed Dual Employees without compensation. This re-writing of the contract makes no sense.

156. The Court finds and determines as a matter of law that, unless modified in writing pursuant to Section 2.02, the “Actual Cost” for the investment advisory services that Highland provided to NexPoint under the NexPoint PRA was fixed at $252,000 per month (see Exhibit 6 (NexPoint PRA), Article I), and the “Actual Cost” for the investment advisory services that Highland provided to HCMFA under the NexPoint PRA was fixed at $416,000 per month. See Exhibit 8 (HCMFA PRA) Article I.

157. The Parties' rights to modify the "Actual Cost" under the PRAs are also unambiguous. Pursuant to the express terms of Section 2.02, either party could request a modification to the "Actual Cost" if they believed a change was appropriate. Exhibit 6 (NexPoint PRA) § 2.02; Exhibit 8 (HCMFA PRA) § 2.02. See also Exhibit 6 (NexPoint PRA) § 4.02 ("Should either Party determine that a change to employee reimbursement is appropriate, as set forth in Section 2.02, the Party requesting the modification shall notify the other Party on or before the last business day of the calendar month"), Exhibit 8 (HCMFA PRA) § 4.02 (same). Any such modification had to be evidence by a writing signed by all parties to the agreement. Exhibit 6 (NexPoint PRA) Section 6.02, Exhibit 7 (HCMFMA PRA) Section 6.02.

158. The inclusion of Sections 2.02, 4.02, and 6.02 is further evidence that the Advisors' current interpretation is unreasonable. Again, if, as the Advisors now contend, the parties intended that the Advisors' payment obligations would be determined by a formula based on the identity, compensation, and time allocation of each Dual Employee, the PRAs would say that. But they don't. Indeed, the right to request modifications to "Actual Costs" under Sections 2.02 and 4.02 would be completely unnecessary if the parties intended that "Actual Costs" would fluctuate based on objectively ascertainable and undisputable facts such as the continued employment of each Dual Employee.<sup>42</sup>

<sup>42</sup> There is more evidence that the Advisors' interpretation is unreasonable. The Advisors admit knowing that four (4) of the 29 Dual Employees listed on Exhibits A were terminated between January 1, 2018 (the effective date of the PRAs) and May 1, 2018 (the date the PRAs were signed). See Exhibit 14 (response to interrogatories 3 and 4). If the parties intended that the Advisors would retroactively pay only for the "Actual Cost" of the Dual Employees beginning on January 1, 2018, then the monthly charge referred to in the definition of "Actual Cost" would have had one price for January 2018 (the only month in which all of the Dual Employees were employed by Highland), and that price would have been reduced for February (when Jake Tomlin and Michael Phillips were terminated); it would have been further reduced for March (when Sanjay Gulati was terminated); and it would have been further reduced for April (when Phillip Ryder was terminated). Instead, the Advisors entered into the PRAs knowing that

159. The Advisors’ suggestion that Sections 2.02 and 4.02 imposed an affirmative obligation on Highland to update the list of Dual Employees and their respective Allocation Percentages, or to unilaterally adjust the “Actual Costs,” is similarly untenable. Under the Advisors’ re-interpretation of the PRA, Highland would have been obligated to invoke Section 4.02 (which is itself dependent on Section 2.02) on the Advisors’ behalf and to adjust the Advisors’ monthly payments as Dual Employees were terminated or changes were made in their compensation or Allocation Percentages. But again, that is simply not what the PRAs say.

160. Indeed, (a) the name “HCMLP” does not even appear in either Section 2.02 or 4.02; (b) modifications to the fee structure under Section 2.02 could not be imposed unilaterally but instead required an “agree[ment]” of the parties; and (c) modifications to the fee structure under Section 2.02 are permissive, not mandatory. See e.g., Exhibit 6 (NexPoint PRA) Section 2.02 (the “Parties may agree” to change the fees to be paid) (emphasis added).

161. Based on the foregoing, the Court concludes as a matter of law that the Advisors’ interpretation of the PRA is not a “reasonable interpretation” that could create ambiguity. See AXA, 208 F.Supp.3d at 828 (finding contract unambiguous as a matter of law where provision “unambiguously” sets forth plaintiff’s right and “creates no affirmative duty” on defendant, noting plaintiff’s “interpretation is not reasonable in light of the [] agreement as a whole”); BCC, 129 F.Supp.3d at 478 (finding no ambiguity in agreement based on its “plain” and “unequivocal” language, noting that party’s “proffered interpretation” “does not reasonably account for the surrounding language” of agreement, would render such language “meaningless,” and is “not reasonable under Texas law”); Instone, 334 F.3d at 431 (“when properly confined to the four corners of the document ... [defendant’s] interpretation” is not “reasonable” because it the monthly charge referred to in the definition of “Actual Cost” included the cost of four (4) Dual Employees on Exhibit A who were already terminated.

“unambiguously holds [defendant] responsible” thereunder); David J. Sacks, , 266 S.W.3d at 450–51 (finding “plain language” of engagement letter unambiguously provided that defendant agreed to pay plaintiff hourly fees, and rejecting defendants’ contention that “fee agreement must specifically state that hourly fees will accrue without limit,” explaining that “the lack of such explicit language is irrelevant if the agreement can be reasonably interpreted only one way.”) Italian Cowboy, 341 S.W.3d at 333 (“We conclude that the only reasonable interpretation of the contract language at issue here is that the parties to this lease intended nothing more than the provisions of a standard merger clause, and did not intend to include a disclaimer of reliance on representations. Therefore, we need not consider any extraneous evidence of the parties’ intent to ascertain the true meaning of the instrument.”); Columbia Gas, 940 S.W.2d at 591-92 (finding party’ interpretation of contract unreasonable where it has effect of “eliminating the viability of” and “frustrate the intend [sic??] of” another provision of the contract, and where party’s “interpretation ignores the contract language.”).

162. Thus, the express terms of the PRAs unambiguously provide, as a matter of law, that NexPoint and HCMFA were obligated to pay Highland a fixed monthly “Actual Cost” in the amount of $252,000 and $416,000, respectively, absent any changes pursuant to Section 2.02 of the PRAs.

iii. Even if the PRAs Are Ambiguous, the Parole Evidence and the Parties’ Course of Dealing Supports Highland’s Interpretation

163. Even if the PRAs were found to be ambiguous on the issue of how the monthly advisory fees were to be determined, the parole evidence and the parties’ course of dealing conclusively establishes that Highland’s interpretation is the only reasonable interpretation of the agreements which accurately reflects the parties’ intent.

164. The Court incorporates by reference by reference all of the Findings of Fact set forth in Section B(4) above but highlights certain particularly pertinent facts here:

- The PRAs were preceded by the Sub-Advisory Agreement (an indisputably fixed-cost contract for investment advisory services) and were only created after the parties learned that the Sub-Advisory Agreement could not be retroactive or adopted except upon approval during an in-person meeting of the Retail Board;
- The Communications between Mr. Klos and Ms. Thedford in April 2018 (Exhibit 129) prove that the parties never intended to update Exhibit A and that the advisory fees would be fixed after being initially set, subject only to termination or an agreement to amend (i.e., Section 2.02);
- Mr. Klos created Exhibits A in good faith but for the purpose of “backing into” the fee structure set forth in the Sub-Advisory Agreement and the annual amounts determined by Mr. Dondero;
- Exhibits A were never updated and there is no evidence anyone was charged with the responsibility for doing so;
- The Advisors, with full knowledge of all relevant facts, paid the fixed monthly fees required by the definition of “Actual Cost” during every month between January 1, 2018 and November 30, 2020, without protest or objection;
- The Parties entered into the PRA Amendments in December 2018 when Mr. Dondero was solely in control of Highland and the Advisors, and the additional fixed amount of $2,500,000 paid by the Advisors bore no relationship to costs incurred by Highland or the schedule of “Dual Employees” (indeed, more than one-third of the Dual Employees were terminated as of December 2018) and
- Highland’s interpretation of the PRAs was ratified in the January 2020 communications exchanged between Mr. Klos and the Advisors’ officers before any dispute existed.

165. The surrounding circumstances (including parole evidence and the parties’ uninterrupted course of dealings) establish that even if the PRAs were found to be ambiguous, Highland’s interpretation makes sense, is intellectually and factually consistent, and is reasonable while the Advisors’ interpretation is not. See Columbia Gas., 940 S.W.2d at 591 (finding party’s “circuitous” interpretation of contract especially unreasonable in light of “circumstances surrounding formulation of contract,” including what parties knew when contract was signed, and that parties incorporated certain provisions at the time the contract was formulated, noting “this interpretation properly considers the circumstances surrounding the formulation of the contract...”).

166. Based on the undisputed circumstances surrounding the creation, drafting, execution and administration of the PRAs, the Advisors were required to pay a flat monthly fee in the amounts of $252,000 and $416,000 for NexPoint and HCMFA, respectively, for investment advisory services unless the Parties agreed in writing otherwise. See Epps v. NCNB Tex. Nat’l Bank, 838 F. Supp. 296, 304 (N.D. Tex. 1993), aff’d sub nom. Epps v. NCNB Tex., 7 F.3d 44 (5th Cir. 1993) (“[A]pplying the undisputed facts to the unambiguous terms of the contract,” the contract is not ambiguous); Watkins, 689 F.2d at 540 (“[T]he express language of the agreement-in the light of this circumstance (known to both parties who confected the agreement) and of others surrounding the agreement-in our opinion is susceptible with regard to the issue before us of only one reasonable (and thus unambiguous) meaning,” finding that “even if we were to construe the agreement to be ambiguous (so as to allow parole evidence to show not only the surrounding circumstances but also the intent of the parties)” the parol evidence does not prove contrary interpretation).

2. The Advisors’ Claim for Overpayment Under the PRAs Fails

167. The Advisors’ claim of overpayments on the PRAs is premised on the theory of unjust enrichment or restitution. “Generally speaking, when a valid, express contract covers the subject matter of the parties’ dispute, there can be no recovery under a quasi-contract theory, such as unjust enrichment.” DeClaire v. G & B McIntosh Family Ltd. P’ship, 260 S.W.3d 34, 49 (Tex. App. 2008). There are, however, exceptions to this general rule, such as when a claim for unjust enrichment is premised on overpayments made under a valid contract. See id.; Sw. Elec. Power Co. v. Burlington N. R.R. Co., 966 S.W.2d 467, 470 (Tex. 1998) (same).

168. The Advisors’ claim for overpayments under the theory of unjust enrichment or restitution fails for the reasons discussed above. The claim is premised on the faulty notion that the Advisors were paying for specific Dual Employees under the PRAs, and not the services rendered by Highland in exchange for a fixed monthly fee, i.e., the “Actual Cost” defined in the PRAs.

169. As discussed supra, the payments made by the Advisors under the PRAs were required under the clear and unambiguous terms of valid contracts. Moreover, the Advisors have not alleged, let alone proven, that Highland failed to provide investment advisory services under the PRAs. The Advisors also adduced no evidence proving that Highland failed to negotiate in good faith under Section 2.02.<sup>43</sup> Accordingly, the Advisors’ claims for “overpayment” under the PRAs fail. See DeClaire, 260 S.W.3d at 49 (finding that party’s claim for overpayments under contract failed where “the parties entered into a valid, written contract and nothing suggests that overpayments were made on the contract” and where such contract contained express language setting forth payments at issue); Sw. Elec. Power, 966 S.W.2d at 470 (party failed to prove claim for unjust enrichment for overcharges on contract, where defendant charged the rates expressly set forth in the contract, and plaintiff paid the rates established in accordance with such contract,

<sup>43</sup> The Court finds that Highland did not violate its obligation to negotiate in “good faith” because the evidence shows that the Advisors’ contentions were manufactured for the purpose of creating negotiating leverage, not because of any legitimate dispute. Even if that were not the case, Highland did not violate any obligation given that the Advisors were on notice of Highland’s monetization plan and its intention to cease providing services when the Advisors first began questioning the amounts charged under the PRAs. Finally, even if Highland breached its obligations, such breach would be of extremely limited utility to the Advisors since any “modification” to the fee structure could only be prospective, not retroactive. See, e.g., Exhibit 6 (NexPoint PRA) Section 4.02 (requests for modifications had to be made “on or before the last business day of the calendar month,” a provision that would be rendered meaningless if the fees paid during the contractual term could be re-visited at any time).

finding that “if the contract rates were paid under the [] agreements, there could be no recovery of ‘overcharges’ under a theory of unjust enrichment.”)

170. There is no evidence showing that the Advisors made “overpayments” under the PRAs. Accordingly, the Advisors cannot recover for their claim of “overpayments.”

3. The Advisors Waived any Claim for Overpayments Under the PRAs

171. The Court finds that, even if the Advisors could prove that they overpaid under the PRAs, any such claim for “overpayment” has been waived.

i. Legal Standard

172. “Under Texas case law, waiver is the intentional relinquishment of a known right or the intentional conduct inconsistent with claiming that right.” Sedona Contracting, Inc. v. Ford, Powell & Carson, Inc., 995 S.W.2d 192, 195 (Tex. App. 1999). The elements of waiver include: (1) an existing right, benefit, or advantage held by a party; (2) the party’s actual or constructive knowledge of its existence; and (3) the party’s actual intent to relinquish the right or intentional conduct inconsistent with the right (which can be inferred from the conduct). See id.; see also Ulico Cas. Co. v. Allied Pilots Ass’n, 262 S.W.3d 773, 778 (Tex. 2008); Tenneco Inc. v. Enter. Products Co., 925 S.W.2d 640, 643 (Tex. 1996) (“The affirmative defense of waiver can be asserted against a party who intentionally relinquishes a known right or engages in intentional conduct inconsistent with claiming that right.”). “Silence or inaction, for so long a period as to show an intention to yield the known right, is also enough to prove waiver.” Tenneco, 925 S.W.2d at 643. While waiver is largely a matter of intent, that intent should be implied where a party has relied on its counterparty’s conduct to its detriment. Enserch Corp. v. Rebich, 925 S.W.2d 75, 82 (Tex. App. 1996) (“‘[W]aiver by implication should not be inferred contrary to the intention of the party whose rights would be injuriously affected thereby, unless the opposite party has been misled to his or her prejudice’”) (emphasis in original) (internal quotations omitted).

173. While waiver is ordinarily a question of fact, when the surrounding facts and circumstances are undisputed, the question becomes one of law. Motor Vehicle Bd. of Tex. Dep't of Transp. v. El Paso Indep. Auto. Dealers Ass'n, Inc., 1 S.W.3d 108, 111 (Tex. 1999); Tenneco, 925 S.W.2d at 643.

ii. The Advisors' Conduct Constitutes Waiver

174. The Advisors' conduct satisfies each of the foregoing elements, and waiver has, therefore, been established as a matter of law.

175. The first factor is easily met. For purposes of this analysis only, the Court assumes (contrary to the conclusions of law set forth above) that the Advisors were only required to pay for their respective, allocated share of the "Actual Cost" of Dual Employees. In addition, as discussed above, the Parties could agree to modify the fixed fee definition of Actual Cost pursuant to Section 2.02 if they believed a change to the reimbursement was appropriate. Exhibit 6 (NexPoint PRA) § 2.02, Exhibit 8 (HCMFA PRA) § 2.02. Section 4.02 provided the mechanism through which the Party could invoke Section 2.02. It provided that "[s]hould either Party determine that a change to employee reimbursement is appropriate, as set forth in Section 2.02, the Party requesting the modification shall notify the other Party on or before the last business day of the calendar month"), Exhibit 8 (HCMFA PRA) § 4.02.

176. Based on the foregoing assumptions and facts, the Advisors had the rights to (a) pay only for their allocable share of the "Actual Cost" for the Dual Employees listed on the Exhibits A, and (b) to seek to modify the amounts charged if they believed a change was appropriate.

177. The second factor—knowledge of these existing rights—is also satisfied. According to the Advisors, their right to pay only for their allocable share of the "Actual Cost" for the Dual Employees listed on the Exhibits A is embedded in the PRAs, as is their right to seek modification. The PRAs were signed by Mr. Waterhouse in his capacity as an officer of the Advisors (and Highland), and the Advisors rely on the PRAs for their claims. Consequently, there is no dispute that the Advisors knew of their “rights” (as they now contend they understood them).

178. The third factor—intent to relinquish, and “the key element of waiver”—is also met. See Sedona, 995 S.W.2d at 196. “In order to establish waiver, the act must be clear and decisive.” Id. The evidence establishes that the Advisors actions constituted a continuous, clear, and decisive intention to relinquish their rights.

179. First, if the Advisors actually believed that they had the right to only pay for their allocable share of the “Actual Cost” of the Dual Employees, then they knowingly and intentionally relinquished that right the moment Mr. Waterhouse signed the PRAs. The monthly fees set forth in the PRAs included the allocable share of the “Actual Cost” of four (4) Dual Employees who were terminated between January 1, 2018 (the effective date of the PRAs) and May 1, 2018 (when the PRAs were signed). In other words, under the Advisors’ theory, they were grossly “overpaying” under the PRAs from the outset.

180. Second, in December 2018, the Advisors agreed to collectively pay an additional $2,500,000 pursuant to Section 2.02 of the PRAs. The Advisors’ decision to enter into the PRA Amendment is another act of waiver because (a) they knew at the time that nine (9) of the Dual Employees listed on Exhibits A had already been terminated and (b) the amounts charged under the PRA Amendments had no relationship to “Actual Costs” (nor would that make sense since the Advisors were paying millions of additional dollars while knowing that more than one- third of the Dual Employees on Exhibit A had already been terminated).

181. Third, from January 1, 2018 through November 30, 2020, the Advisors knowingly and intentionally paid the flat fee amounts set forth in the PRAs (a) with contemporaneous knowledge of the departure of certain of the Dual Employees on Exhibits A and (b) without objection or any attempt to exercise their rights under Section 2.02.

182. The overwhelming evidence demonstrates that for nearly three years, with complete, contemporaneous knowledge of the departure of a substantial number of Dual Employees, the Advisors knowingly and intentionally (a) paid the amounts set forth in the PRAs rather than their supposed allocable share of the “Actual Cost” of the Dual Employees list on Exhibits A, and (b) failed to exercise their known rights to modify the PRAs. This is the definition of “waiver.” See Sedona, 995 S.W.2d at 196 (party’s conduct constituted waiver where he understood terms of the documents he submitted); Tenneco, 925 S.W.2d at 643 (waiver was established as a matter of law where “defendants have shown that until this lawsuit, [party] accepted” situation without invoking provision of agreement at issue); United States Bank, N.A. v. Kobernick, 454 Fed. Appx. 307, 315 (5th Cir. Dec. 16, 2011) (finding “each element of waiver is present” where party had right under agreement, party knew it had that right, and its intentional conduct was inconsistent with such right). Accordingly, the Advisors have waived any claims relating to overpayments under the PRAs.

183. The Advisors cannot avoid the consequences of their inaction by relying on so-called “non-waiver” provisions.<sup>44</sup> Texas law provides that ostensible “non-waiver provisions” can themselves be waived by the parties. See, e.g., Kobernick, 454 Fed. Appx. at 315 (5th Cir. Dec. 16, 2011) (bank’s actions were inconsistent with preserving contractual right to declare a certain default and thus, the bank had waived said right, notwithstanding non-waiver clause (citing

Straus v. Kirby Court Corp., 909 S.W.2d 105, 108 (Tex. App. 1995) and other cases); Shields LP v. Bradberry, 526 S.W.3d 471, 482-83 (Tex. 2017) (“To the extent there has been any doubt up to this time, we affirm that a party’s rights under a nonwaiver provision may indeed be waived expressly or impliedly,” noting “a nonwaiver provision absolutely barring waiver in the most general of terms might be wholly ineffective”); see also 8 Corbin on Contracts § 40.13 (“a provision that an express condition of a promise or promises in the contract cannot be eliminated by waiver, or by conduct constituting estoppel, is wholly ineffective”).

4. The Advisors’ Claim of Overpayment Under the PRAs is Barred by the Voluntary Payment Rule

184. The Advisors are barred from asserting a claim of “overpayment” under the PRAs under the voluntary payment rule.

185. Under the voluntary payment rule, “[m]oney voluntarily paid on a claim of right, with full knowledge of all the facts, in the absence of fraud, deception, duress, or compulsion, cannot be recovered back merely because the party at the time of payment was ignorant of or mistook the law as to his liability.” BMG Direct Mktg., Inc. v. Peake, 178 S.W.3d 763, 768 (Tex.2005) (internal quotations omitted). “The voluntary payment rule precludes a party from ‘pay[ing] out his money, leading the other party to act as though the matter were closed, and then be in the position to change his mind and invoke the aid of the courts to get it back.’” Miga v. Jensen, 299 S.W.3d 98, 103 (Tex. 2009). “Money voluntarily paid on a claim of right, with full knowledge of all the facts, in the absence of fraud, deception, duress, or compulsion, cannot be recovered merely because the party at the time of the payment was ignorant of or mistook the law as to [their] liability.” XTO Energy Inc. v. Goodwin, 584 S.W.3d 481, 497 (Tex. App. 2017). “The rule is a defense to claims asserting unjust enrichment; that is, when a plaintiff sues for restitution claiming a payment constitutes unjust enrichment, a defendant may respond with the voluntary-payment rule as a defense.” Id. (citing BMG Direct Mktg., Inc. v. Peake, 178 S.W.3d 763, 768 (Tex. 2005)). “Because public policy favors protecting the finality of payments when a person is aware of all the facts upon which the liability to make payments depends, and there is no fraud, deception, duress, or coercion involved, Texas courts have, at times, applied the voluntary-payment rule between private parties.” Id.; see also BMG, 178 S.W.3d at 770 (“[T]he rule against recovery of voluntary payments “precludes the courts being occupied in undoing the arrangements of parties which they have voluntarily made, and into which they have not been drawn by fraud or accident, or by any excusable ignorance of their legal rights and liabilities.”) (internal quotations omitted).

186. Here, as discussed supra, the Advisors knowingly and intentionally paid Highland the Actual Costs (as actually defined in the PRAs) every month from January 1, 2018 until November 30, 2020. The Advisors never objected to making such payments. Nor is there any evidence that they made such payments under duress, or otherwise through any deceptive or fraudulent conduct on the part of Highland.<sup>45</sup> Thus, even if the Advisors could show there were any overpayments under the PRAs, the voluntary payment rule would, as a matter of law, preclude the Advisors from recovering on any amounts paid. See BMG, 178 S.W.3d at 771-72 (applying the voluntary payment rule to prevent the recovery of a “late fee” paid by a customer who later claimed it was unlawful); XTO Energy, 584 S.W.3d at 499 (finding voluntary payment was a defense as a matter of law to plaintiff’s claim of unjust enrichment arising from overpayments on royalties where plaintiff voluntarily paid those royalties to defendant, had all the documents and information before it to assess and evaluate the merits of those payments and calculate payments prior to making challenged payments, and where there was no evidence that any accounting errors or incorrect determinations were precipitated through defendant's fraudulent or deceptive conduct); Dallas County Cmty. Coll. Dist. v. Bolton, 185 S.W.3d 868 (Tex. 2005) (finding voluntary payment rule barred plaintiff's recovery of fees paid where defendant introduced evidence that plaintiffs "paid the fees without filing any type of grievance protest" and plaintiffs did not establish duress as a matter of law); Samson Exploration, LLC v. T.S. Reed Properties, Inc., 521 S.W.3d 766, 779-80 (Tex. 2017) (finding voluntary payment rule applied to preclude lessee from seeking to recover alleged overpayments of royalty payments to lessors and other stakeholders where payments were voluntary and lessee made the payments with "full knowledge of the fact" that there was error in zoning designation, and where lessee "never exercised its authority to amend the designation ... even though the designation that it filed expressly provided that [lessee] reserved the right to do so in order to correct any error," further noting that payments were not paid under duress or over any objection to doing so); Texas Nat. Bank of Baytown v. Harris County, 765 S.W.2d 823, 825-26 (Tex. App. 1988) (voluntary payment rule barred recovery on taxes paid, even though it was illegal, where paid where such payments were made voluntarily absent duress). Accordingly, the voluntary payment rule precludes the Advisors' recovery on any alleged overpayments under the PRAs.

E. The Advisors Claims for Breach of the Shared Services Agreements

187. The Advisors vaguely claim that Highland breached the SSAs by failing to perform certain services to the Advisors, including legal and compliance services, thereunder. The Advisors contend that on or around July 2020, Highland instructed its employees to cease providing certain services to the Advisors which Highland believed were adverse to the interests of Highland. The Advisors maintain that this forced the Advisors to retain two new employees to cover for such services, resulting in $425,000 in damages. The Advisors also contend they were forced to pay Highland $1 million for legal services that Highland was no longer providing, resulting in $1.3 million in payments postpetition for services that Highland failed to provide. The Advisors seek damages for overpayments and breaches of the SSAs totaling $1,725,000.<sup>46</sup>

1. The Advisors' Fail to Prove Highland Breached the SSAs

i. Legal Standard

188. Under Texas law, a party claiming breach of contract has the burden to prove the following elements: “(1) the existence of a valid contract; (2) performance or tendered performance by the plaintiff; (3) breach of the contract by the defendant; and (4) damages to the plaintiff as a result of the defendant's breach.” Williams v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., 884 F.3d 239, 244 (5th Cir. 2018) (internal citations omitted); see also Calce v. Dorado Expl., Inc., 309 S.W.3d 719, 733 (Tex. App. 2010) (“A party claiming breach of contract has the burden to prove the elements of that cause of action.”); Velvet Snout, LLC v. Sharp, 441 S.W.3d 448, 451 (Tex. App. 2014) (noting the plaintiff “had the burden of proof on its breach of contract claim.”).

189. The Advisors have not met their burden to establish that Highland breached the Agreements. Specifically, the Advisors fail to prove the elements of (1) breach and (2) damages.

ii. The Advisors Fail to Establish Highland's Nonperformance under the SSAs

190. The Advisors fail to adduce any evidence showing that Highland failed to perform its obligations under the Shared Services Agreements. By contrast, the undisputed and overwhelming evidence demonstrates that, at all relevant times, Highland performed its obligations under the Shared Services Agreements. As discussed supra, the Advisors repeatedly represented to the Retail Board that Highland was fully performing its obligations under the Shared Services Agreements.

<sup>46</sup> It should be noted that Highland charged HCMFA a flat fee of only $10,500 per month for comprehensive legal services. See, e.g., Exhibit 159. Thus, assuming for the sake of argument that the Advisors believed that they had to hire new in-house lawyer in the fall of 2020 and came out of pocket for the small, if even existent, matters that Highland's legal team could no longer assist with, such annualized costs was substantially greater than what HCMFA paid for comprehensive legal services under the HCMFA SSA.

191. In August 2020, the Advisors represented to the Retail Board that Highland was performing its obligations under the Shared Services Agreements. See, e.g., Exhibit 59 (in August 2020, Mr. Norris represented to the Retail Board that “there had been no issues or disruptions in services as a result of the HCMLP bankruptcy matter”); Exhibit 18 (the Advisors represented to the Retail Board that “the Advisors and HCMLP believe the current shared services being provided are generally consistent with the level of services that historically have been received”).

192. The Advisors continued to repeat these representations to the Retail Board into September and October 2020. See, e.g., Exhibit 60 (the Advisors represented to the Retail Board during a two-day Retail Board meeting on September 16-17, 2020 that they do “not expect that the level and quality of services would change in the immediate term,” and Mr. Norris noted that he was “comfortable with the level and quality of services being provided and has not seen any issues with the conflicts process.”); Exhibit 81 (The Advisors represented to the Retail Board on October 9, 2020 that they were formulating “contingency plans” to “ensure that there is no disruption in services,” noting that “NexPoint’s senior management’s plan as a backup/contingency plan is to extend employment offers to the vast majority of HCMLP’s employees by 12/31/2020. This will help ensure that there is no disruption in services to the Funds ... In the interim the plan is to continue with existing shared services.”); Exhibit 61 (Mr. Norris represented to the Retail Board on October 13, 2020 that with respect to shared services, “all operations continued in the normal course there [sic] had been no material impact on the day-to-day operations of the Funds,” and that contingency plans were “in place to continue to provide the same level and quality of services to the Funds.”); Exhibit 22 (reassuring the Retail Board on October 23, 2020 through written responses to Retail Board questions that NexPoint's backup/contingency plan "is to extend employment offers to the vast majority of HCMLP's employees by December 31, 2020. This will help ensure that there is no disruption in services to the Funds..."); Exhibit 62 (the Advisors reiterated to the Retail Board on October 28, 2020 that the parties continued to work on a "seamless transition" of services and that the "quality and level" of services had not been negatively impacted by Highland's bankruptcy); Exhibit 63 (the Advisors reassured the Retail Board a week later that there "has not been any disruption to the services provided to the Funds by HCMLP pursuant to the Shared Services Agreement"). The Advisors' representations to the Retail Board that Highland was performing its obligations under the SSAs continued into December 2020 and January 2021. See Exhibit 16, Exhibit 10, Exhibit 64, Exhibit 66.<sup>47</sup>

193. There is otherwise no evidence showing that Highland failed in any way to fulfill its obligations under the SSAs. Accordingly, the Advisors have not met their burden of proving that Highland did not perform under the SSAs.

iii. The Advisors Fail to Establish Damages

194. The Advisors also cannot prove the element of damages.

195. The Advisors maintain that as a result of Highland's alleged nonperformance under the SSAs, the Advisors were forced to retain two new employees to cover for such services, resulting in $425,000 in damages. The Advisors also contend they were forced to pay Highland

<sup>47</sup> The only services that Highland admittedly did not perform were those in which conflicts of interest existed. This did not constitute a breach of the SSAs, and in fact, such services were not permitted under the SSAs. See Exhibit 3 (NexPoint SSA) section 5.01(b). Highland was not obligated to perform services that were adverse to Highland or violated Applicable Law, including services related to conflicts that would cause its employees to act against Highland's own interests.

$1 million for legal services that Highland was no longer providing, resulting in $1.3 million in payments postpetition for services that Highland failed to provide.

196. Again, there is no evidence in the record showing that the Advisors did not receive services under the SSAs from Highland. The Advisors have not provided any admissible evidence of reasonably ascertainable monetary damages incurred as a result of any alleged breach of the SSAs. “Compensatory damages may only be recovered in a claim for breach of contract when the loss is a ‘natural, probable, and foreseeable consequence of the defendant’s conduct.” Healix Infusion Therapy, Inc. v. Helix Health, LLC, 737 F. Supp. 2d 648, 656 (S.D. Tex. 2010) (applying Texas law) (internal quotations omitted); Velvet Snout, LLC v. Sharp, 441 S.W.3d 448, 451 (Tex. App. 2014) (“The absence of this causal connection between the alleged breach and the alleged damages will preclude recovery.”) (internal quotations omitted). “A party may not recover damages for breach of contract if those damages are remote, contingent, speculative, or conjectural.” Healix, 737 F. Supp. 2d at 656–57.

197. The Advisors fail to show that any losses incurred from retaining two new employees to cover for certain legal services were caused by Highland’s failure to perform under the SSAs. Accordingly, the Advisors fail to prove the element of damages.

2. The Advisors’ Claim for Overpayment under the SSAs Fails

198. The Advisors bring a claim for overpayments under the SSAs, and specifically maintain they overpaid Highland $1 million for legal services that Highland was no longer providing. As discussed supra, Highland provide all required services to the Advisors under the SSAs. The Advisors, therefore, cannot recover on their claim of overpayment under the SSAs.

3. The Advisors Waived Any Claims Relating to the Payments Made Under the Shared Services Agreements

199. Even if the Advisors could prove their claim of overpayment under the SSAs, the Advisors waived any such claim. The Advisors knowingly and intentionally made all monthly payments every month under the SSAs until November 30, 2020. The Advisors never objected to making such payments, sought judicial relief, or otherwise put Highland on notice that the Advisors did not believe such payments under the SSAs were proper. The Advisors were aware of such payments under the SSAs each month, which is demonstrated by the fact that, at all relevant times, (i) Mr. Waterhouse, the Advisors' Treasurer, authorized all such payments prior to making them, (ii) such payments were recorded in the Advisors' books and records, and (iii) the Advisors represented to the Retail Board that such payments had been made.

F. Highland's Claim for Breach of the SSAs

200. Highland has established all elements of its breach of contract against (a) HCMFA for failing to pay for services rendered by Highland under (i) the HCMFA SSA during the months of November 2020, December 2020, and January 2021, and (ii) the HCMFA PRA during the months of December 2020, and January 2021, and against (b) NexPoint for failing to pay for services rendered by Highland under (i) the NexPoint SSA during the months of December 2020 and January 2021, and (ii) the NexPoint PRA during the months of December 2020 and January 2021, as well as additional expenses.

201. It is undisputed that the Agreements are valid contracts. The overwhelming evidence in the record demonstrates that Highland performed under the Agreements, and that the Advisors failed to pay for such services. Finally, Highland has also proven by a preponderance of the evidence that it was damaged as a result of the Advisors' failure to pay for services rendered. Specifically, (a) for the months of November and December 2020, and January 2021, HCMFA failed to pay Highland $1,726,277 for services rendered, (b) for the months of December 2020 and January 2021, NexPoint failed to pay Highland $1,000,000<sup>48</sup> for services rendered, and (c) the Advisors also failed to reimburse Highland for expenses under the Shared Services Agreements.

202. Highland is also entitled to recover its costs and expenses, including its attorneys' fees, prosecuting the foregoing claims and defense against the Advisors' claims.

### END OF FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS ###

JOINT PRETRIAL ORDER

This Joint Pretrial Order is jointly submitted to the Court for entry pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 7016-1 and the Agreed Amended Scheduling Order [A.P. Docket No. 60]<sup>1</sup> by plaintiff Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“Plaintiff” or “Highland”) and defendants Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. (“HCMFA”) and NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (“NexPoint,” and together with HCMFA, “Defendants” or the “Advisors,” and collectively with Plaintiff, the “Parties”), in the above-captioned chapter 11 bankruptcy case (the “Bankruptcy Case”) and Adversary Proceeding.

I. NATURE OF ACTION AND PROCEDURAL POSTURE<sup>2</sup>

1. This action involves competing claims for alleged breaches of certain written Shared Services Agreements and Payroll Reimbursement Agreements (collectively, the “Agreements”).

2. On January 24, 2021, the Advisors filed their Application for Allowance of Administrative Claim [Bankr. Docket No. 1826]<sup>3</sup> (the “Advisors’ Admin Claim”) seeking damages totaling approximately $14 million arising from (i) the Advisors’ alleged overpayment of amounts due under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements and (ii) Highland’s alleged nonperformance under the Shared Services Agreements.

3. On May 5, 2021, Highland filed its Objection to Application for Administrative Claim of Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. and NexPoint Advisors, L.P. [Bankr. Docket No. 2274] (“Highland’s Objection”).

4. On May 31, 2021, the Court entered the Agreed Scheduling Order with Respect to Debtor's Objection to Application for Administrative Claim of Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors L.P. and NexPoint Advisors, L.P. [Bankr. Docket No. 2345] (the "Scheduling Order").

5. On February 17, 2021, Highland commenced the Adversary Proceeding by filing its Verified Original Complaint for Damages and for Declaratory and Injunctive Relief [A.P. Docket No. 1] (the "Complaint"). In its Complaint, Highland (i) asserted a breach of contract claim ("Highland's Breach of Contract Claim") for damages arising from the Advisors' alleged breach of the Agreements, and (ii) sought declaratory and injunctive relief (the "Equitable Relief").

6. On February 24, 2021, following an evidentiary hearing, the Court entered an Order resolving Highland's claims for Equitable Relief [A.P. Docket No. 25] (the "February Order").

7. On March 22, 2021, the Advisors filed their Original Answer to the Complaint [A.P. Docket No. 33].

8. On August 4, 2021, the Parties agreed to consolidate the Advisors' Admin Claim and Highland's Breach of Contract Claim in the Adversary Proceeding since both claims involve related issues of fact concerning the Agreements. See Stipulation (a) Amending Scheduling Order and (b) Consolidating and Resolving Certain Matters [A.P. Docket No. 36] (the "Stipulation").

9. On August 6, 2021, the Court entered an Order Approving Stipulation (a) Amending Scheduling Order and (b) Consolidating and Resolving Certain Matters [A.P. Docket No. 37] (the "Consolidation Order").

10. On December 15, 2021, the Parties filed the Stipulation Regarding Second Amended Scheduling Order [A.P. Docket No. 45] (the "Second Stipulation").

11. On December 17, 2021, the Court entered an Order Approving Stipulation Regarding Second Amended Scheduling Order [A.P. Docket No. 46] (the “Second Amended Scheduling Order”).

12. On January 31, 2022, the Parties filed the Joint Motion to Continue Trial and Extend Scheduling Order [A.P. Docket No. 59] (the “Joint Motion to Continue”).

13. On February 1, 2022, the Court entered an Order Approving the Parties’ Agreed Amended Scheduling Order [Docket No. 60] (the “Third Amended Scheduling Order”).

14. A trial on Highland’s Breach of Contract Claim and the Advisors’ Admin Claim is scheduled for April 12-13, 2022.

II. PARTIES’ CLAIMS AND DEFENSES

The following statements and contentions of the respective Parties in this Section reflect the respective views of each Party and are not a joint statement or stipulation. No Party admits, agrees, or acquiesces to any factual or legal contentions, statements, or allegations of any other Party.

A. Highland’s Claims:

15. Highland asserts breach of contract claims against (a) HCMFA for failing to pay for services rendered by Highland under (i) the HCMFA SSA during the months of November 2020, December 2020, and January 2021, and (ii) the HCMFA PRA during the months of December 2020 and January 2021; (b) NexPoint for failing to pay for services rendered by Highland under (i) the NexPoint SSA during the months of December 2020 and January 2021, and (ii) the NexPoint PRA during the months of December 2020 and January 2021; and (c) the Advisors for reimbursable, out-of-pocket costs of Highland not otherwise captured through the monthly invoices and represented primarily by the Advisors’ allocable portion of accounting software, IT development, and investment research products and tools (e.g., Bloomberg machines).

16. Highland is also entitled to recover its costs and expenses, including its attorneys' fees, prosecuting the foregoing claims and defense against the Advisors' claims.

B. Summary of the Advisors' Defense

17. The Advisors contest Highland's breach of contract claims for unpaid amounts under the Agreements for essentially the same reasons as outlined below regarding the Advisors' Admin Claim; namely, that Highland cannot seek reimbursement under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements for employees who were not actually employees of Highland providing services to the Advisors during the relevant time period, while various of the services to be provided under the Shared Services Agreement were not actually provided by Highland during the relevant time period. Moreover, to the extent that section 2.02 of the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements controls the question of the proper calculation of amounts reimbursable by the Advisors, the Advisors timely sought changes to such proper amounts and Highland failed to negotiate the same in good faith as required by such section, meaning that Highland cannot now claim that the preset monthly reimbursement amounts controls. To the extent that any amounts are owing under the Agreements, such amounts should be setoff and netted against the Advisors' Admin Claim.

C. The Advisors' Admin Claim

18. The Advisors' Admin Claim is based on: (i) postpetition overpayments by the Advisors to Highland under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements; and (ii) postpetition payments by the Advisors to Highland under the Shared Services Agreements for services that Highland failed to provide, resulting in a breach of contract by Highland.

19. Highland, though its employees, provided a wide range of services to the Advisors. Under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements, each of the Advisors is to reimburse Highland for its actual costs of the employees providing services to the Advisors under the Payroll

Reimbursement Agreements, according to schedules of employees and allocations of amounts attached to each of the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements. As of the Petition Date, and through to the termination of the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements, Highland no longer had various employees, who had either resigned or were terminated, a process that continued and accelerated postpetition as Highland reduced its personnel count. Yet, during that whole period, Highland was billing the Advisors—and paying itself from the Advisors’ funds—for employees who were no longer employed by Highland. This resulted in postpetition overpayments by the Advisors to Highland totaling $7,649,942, broken down as $4,928,103 in postpetition overpayments by HCMFA and $2,721,839 in postpetition overpayments by NexPoint.

20. Under the Shared Services Agreements, each of the Advisors was paying to Highland certain set amounts on a monthly basis for services that Highland, through its employees, was to provide to the Advisors. These services included legal services and compliance services. During the bankruptcy case, Highland instructed various of its employees that they could no longer provide certain services to the Advisors, which Highland believed may have been adverse to the interests of Highland. This led the Advisors to being forced to retain two new employees to cover for these services, resulting in $425,000 in damages. Additionally, according to Highland’s own internal analysis, the Advisors were paying Highland $1 million for legal services that Highland was no longer providing, resulting in $1.3 million in payments postpetition for services that Highland failed to provide. Therefore, the Advisors claim administrative claims for overpayments under, and breaches of, the Shared Services Agreements in the amount of $1,725,000.

D. Summary of Highland’s Defenses

21. The Advisors’ claims were manufactured for settlement purposes late in 2020 after (a) the Independent Board demanded Mr. Dondero’s resignation; (b) Highland filed an asset-monetization plan; (c) Highland reached settlements with some of Mr. Dondero’s most bitter adversaries on terms he personally found unreasonable; (d) Highland gave notice of termination of the Shared Services Agreements on November 30, 2020; (e) Mr. Dondero began engaging in conduct that ultimately led to the imposition of a temporary restraining order against him in early December 2020; and (f) Highland was nearing confirmation of its proposed Plan of Reorganization.

22. The clear and unambiguous terms of the HCMFA PRA and NexPoint PRA establish that the Advisors agreed to pay a flat monthly fee for investment advisory services rendered, regardless of which employees actually performed those services, unless the parties agreed otherwise pursuant to Section 2.02 of the PRAs.

23. If the Court were to find the PRAs ambiguous on this point, the parol evidence will corroborate Highland's contention that the parties always intended that the Advisors would pay a flat monthly fee for investment advisory services unless they agreed otherwise.

24. Moreover, the parties' course of dealing will further corroborate Highland's contention in this regard. Specifically, from January 1, 2018 (the effective date of the PRAs) through January 1, 2020 (the month Mr. Dondero was forced to surrender control), the Advisors paid the precise amounts set forth in the PRAs despite having contemporaneous knowledge that a substantial number of Dual Employees had been terminated.

25. The undisputed evidence will show that the Independent Board and Highland engaged in the exact same conduct with respect to the administration of the PRAs that they had engaged in during 2018 and 2019 when Mr. Dondero was in control of Highland and the Advisors. In short, the evidence will show that Highland fully performed its obligations under the PRAs.

26. In addition to the plain and unambiguous terms of the PRAs, and the parol evidence and course of dealing corroborating Highland's contentions, the Advisors' claims under the PRAs are barred by the doctrine of waiver and the Voluntary Payment Rule, and the Advisors cannot prove damages in any event.

27. The Advisors' claims under the Shared Services Agreements fail because Highland fully performed its obligations under those Agreements as reflected in, among other pieces of evidence, the Advisors' extensive representations to the Retail Board that, throughout 2020, Highland continued to provide the same level and quality of services as it always had.

28. Moreover, the Advisors' claims under the Shared Services Agreements are barred by the doctrine of waiver and the Voluntary Payment Rule, and the Advisors cannot prove damages in any event

III. STATEMENT OF STIPULATED FACTS

A. The Parties Stipulate to the Following Facts:

1. Case Background

29. On October 16, 2019, Highland filed a voluntary petition for relief under chapter 11 of title 11 of the United States Code in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware (the "Delaware Court"), Case No. 19-12239 (CSS).

30. On December 4, 2019, the Delaware Court entered an order transferring venue of the Bankruptcy Case to the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division. [Bankr. Docket No. 186] (the "Bankruptcy Court").

31. On January 9, 2020, the Court entered an order removing Highland's founder, James Dondero ("Mr. Dondero"), from control and replacing him with an independent board of directors. [Bankr. Docket No. 339]. The independent directors included: James P. Seery, Jr., John S. Dubel, and Retired Bankruptcy Judge Russell Nelms (the "Independent Directors").

32. On July 16, 2020, the Court approved Mr. Seery's appointment as Highland's Chief Executive Officer, Chief Restructuring Officer, and Foreign Representative. See Order Approving Debtor's Motion Under Bankruptcy Code Section 105(a) and 363(b) Authorizing Retention of James P. Seery, Jr. as Chief Executive Officer, Chief Restructuring Officer and Foreign Representative Nunc Pro Tunc to March 15, 2020 [Bankr. Docket No. 854].

33. On February 22, 2021, the Bankruptcy Court entered the Order (i) Confirming the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) and (ii) Granting Related Relief [Bankr. Docket No. 1943] (the “Confirmation Order”) confirming the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P., (as Modified) [Bankr. Docket No. 1808] (the “Plan”).

34. The Plan went Effective (as defined in the Plan) on August 11, 2021. See Notice of Occurrence of Effective Date of Confirmed Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. [Bankr. Docket No. 2700]. Highland is currently managed by Mr. Seery, one of its former Independent Directors, and a committee, which includes certain of Highland's prepetition creditors and one independent member.

2. The Advisors

35. The Advisors are controlled by James Dondero.

36. The Advisors are registered investment advisors. They serve as the investment manager, either directly or indirectly, to a number of investment vehicles (collectively, the “Clients”), including certain retail funds (the retail funds for which HCMFA and NexPoint serve as the investment advisor are collectively referred to as the “Retail Funds”) regulated pursuant to the Securities Act of 1933, the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, and the Investment Company Act of 1940.

37. The Advisors provide investment advisory services to their Clients pursuant to written investment advisory agreements (the “Investment Advisory Agreements”).

38. HCMFA was formed on or around February 2, 2009, and had previously been known as Pyxis Capital, L.P. (“Pyxis”).

39. NexPoint was formed on or around March 20, 2012.

3. The Shared Services Agreements

40. In 2013, Highland entered into certain Shared Services Agreements with each of the Advisors. The purpose of the Shared Services Agreements was to outsource certain office functions to Highland that the Advisors did not carry in-house. This outsourcing enabled the Advisors to perform their obligations to their Clients under the Investment Advisory Agreements.

41. Specifically, on June 5, 2013, Highland and NexPoint entered into that certain Shared Services Agreement, effective as of January 1, 2013.

42. Highland and NexPoint entered into that certain Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement (the “NexPoint SSA”), effective as of January 1, 2018.

43. On February 9, 2012, Highland and Pyxis (HCMFA’s predecessor) entered into that certain Shared Services Agreement, effective as of December 15, 2011.

44. On September 12, 2012, Highland and Pyxis entered into that certain Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement, effective as of December 15, 2011.

45. Highland and HCMFA entered into that certain Second Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement, effective as of February 8, 2013 (the “HCMFA SSA”, and together with the NexPoint SSA, the “Shared Services Agreements”).

4. The Termination of the Shared Services Agreements

46. On November 30, 2020, Highland provided written notice to (i) HCMFA that it intended to terminate the HCMFA SSA as of January 31, 2021 (the “Termination Date”), and (ii) NexPoint that it intended to terminate the NexPoint SSA as of January 31, 2021 (the written notices are referred to together as the “Termination Notices”).

47. On January 29, 2021, the Parties executed an agreement extending the Termination Date to February 14, 2021 in exchange for the Advisors' advance payment for services to be rendered by Highland during that two-week period, which date was further extended through to the end of February, 2021.

5. The Payroll Reimbursement Agreements

i. The NexPoint PRA

48. Highland and NexPoint entered into that certain Sub-Advisory Agreement, effective as of January 1, 2018 (the "Sub-Advisory Agreement"). Pursuant to the Sub-Advisory Agreement, Highland provided certain front-office services to the Advisors to enable the Advisors to fulfill their obligations to their Clients under the Investment Management Agreements.

49. On or around May 1, 2018, Highland and NexPoint entered into that certain Payroll Reimbursement Agreement (the "NexPoint PRA").

50. The NexPoint PRA replaced the Sub-Advisory Agreement and was effective as of January 1, 2018.

51. On December 14, 2018, Highland and NexPoint entered into Amendment Number One to Payroll Reimbursement Agreement (the "NexPoint PRA Amendment").

ii. The HCMFA PRA

52. On or around May 1, 2018, Highland and HCMFA entered into that certain Payroll Reimbursement Agreement, effective as of January 1, 2018 (the "HCMFA PRA," with the NexPoint PRA, the "Payroll Reimbursement Agreements").

53. On December 14, 2018, Highland and HCMFA entered into that certain Amendment Number One to Payroll Reimbursement Agreement (the "HCMFA PRA Amendment," and together with the NexPoint PRA Amendment, the "PRA Amendments").

The statements and contentions in this section reflect the respective views of each Party and are not a joint statement or stipulation. No Party admits, agrees, or acquiesces to any factual or legal contentions, statements, or allegations of any other Party.

A. Highland's Contested Issues of Fact

54. Highland incorporates by reference as if fully set forth herein paragraphs 12-128 of Highland's Proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law that are being filed contemporaneously with this Pre-Trial Order.

B. The Advisors' Contested Issues of Fact

55. Whether Highland was billing the Advisors postpetition under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements for employees who were no longer actually employed by Highland, and on account of which the Advisors received no value, constituting a breach by Highland of the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements.

56. Whether, as a result of the same, Highland overbilled the Advisors, and the Advisors overpaid to Highland, approximately $7,649,942, representing damages to the Advisors for Highland's postpetition breaches of the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements.

57. Whether Highland was billing the Advisors postpetition under the Shared Services Agreements for services that Highland was not providing, and on account of which the Advisors received no value, constituting a breach by Highland of the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements.

58. Whether, as a result of the same, the Advisors suffered damages in the form of $425,000 expended by the Advisors to obtain replacement and cover services, and $1.3 million in payments by the Advisors to Highland postpetition for which Highland failed to provide the required services.

59. Whether Highland was making a profit under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements postpetition.

60. Whether Highland was making more of a profit under the Shared Services Agreements postpetition than permitted in those agreements.

61. Whether the Advisors' postpetition payments to Highland under the Agreements were voluntarily made by the Advisors.

62. Whether the Advisors' postpetition payments to Highland under the Agreements were made with full knowledge of all relevant facts.

63. Whether the Advisors waived their claim for overpayments under the Agreements by not taking action sooner or by not following any protocol or provision in the Agreements to change monthly amounts payable under the Agreements and specified in the Agreements.

64. Whether, prepetition, the Parties agreed to do an annual true-up and reconciliation of amounts properly payable under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements, as opposed to a monthly process of changing the amounts payable allegedly specified in the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements, thereby modifying the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements by their consent and their actions.

65. Whether, in late 2019 or early 2020, Frank Waterhouse, then an officer of both the Advisors and Highland, raised the issue of the overpayments under the Agreements with Fred Caruso, then Highland's CRO in order to initiate a true-up or reconciliation of amounts properly payable under the Agreements, in response to which Mr. Caruso and Highland's legal counsel informed Mr. Waterhouse that the automatic stay prevented any such true-up or reconciliation.

66. To the extent that the Advisors did not sooner, or allegedly timely, initiate the process to change the monthly reimbursement amounts under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements as provided for therein, whether Highland owed the Advisors a duty to do so on the Advisors' behalf pursuant to the services that Highland was required to provide under the Shared Services Agreements and whether Highland's failure to do so estops or otherwise prevents Highland from raising any issue of timeliness.

67. With respect to Highland's claims against the Advisors for amounts allegedly owing and unpaid under the Agreements, whether Highland breached the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements by not negotiating changes to the reimbursement amounts in good faith as required by the Agreements.

V. CONTESTED ISSUES OF LAW

The statements and contentions in this section reflect the respective views of each Party and are not a joint statement or stipulation. No Party admits, agrees, or acquiesces to any factual or legal contentions, statements, or allegations of any other Party.

A. Highland submits the following Contested Issues of Law:

68. Whether HCMFA breached its obligations under the HCFMA SSA by failing to pay Highland for middle- and back-office services rendered in November 2020, December 2020, and January 2021?

69. Whether HCMFA breached its obligations under the HCMFA PRA by failing to pay for investment advisory services in December 2020 and January 2021?

70. Whether NexPoint breached its obligations under the NexPoint SSA by failing to pay Highland for middle- and back-office services rendered in December 2020 and January 2021?

71. Whether NexPoint breached its obligations under the NexPoint PRA by failing to pay for investment advisory services in December 2020 and January 2021?

72. Whether Highland is entitled to recover from the Advisors its costs and fees, including its attorneys' fees, incurred prosecuting and defending the claims subject to this Adversary Proceeding?

73. Whether the PRAs clearly and unambiguously required each of the Advisors to pay Highland a flat monthly fee for investment advisory services?

74. Whether the parol evidence establishes that the parties intended that the Advisors would Highland a flat monthly fee for investment advisory services?

75. Whether the parties' course of dealing corroborates Highland's contention that, as intended, the PRAs required each of the Advisors to pay Highland a flat monthly fee for investment advisory services?

76. Whether the Advisors waived their right to assert that they "overpaid" under the PRAs and the Shared Services Agreements?

77. Whether the Advisors have met their burden of proving that they have been damaged, and, if so, the quantum of damages sustained?

B. The Advisors submit the following Contested Issues of law:

78. Whether, under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements, the Advisors must reimburse Highland for Highland's employees for actual amounts and costs of such employees or whether the presumed monthly payment amount specified in each Payroll Reimbursement Agreement controls irrespective of actual amounts and costs; in other words, which provision regarding the reimbursement amount in the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements controls.

79. Whether Highland breached the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements by charging the Advisors, and paying itself from the Advisors' funds, for employees who were not actually employees of Highland.

80. Whether the Advisors initiated the process in late 2019 or early 2020 to change the monthly reimbursement amounts under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements and whether Highland breached those agreements by not following or permitting the process for changing the same.

81. Whether the automatic stay prevented the Advisors from terminating or enforcing the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements, as executory contracts that had not been assumed by Highland.

82. Whether Highland breached the Shared Services Agreements by failing to provide certain services for which it billed the Advisors, including legal services, and additionally by failing to address and correct the overbilling under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements.

83. Whether the Advisors' overbilling claim is properly allowable as an administrative claim.

84. Whether the Advisors breached the Shared Services Agreements by not paying Highland for amounts allegedly do under those Agreements.

85. Whether Highland can seek any damages for alleged unpaid amounts under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements after it failed in good faith to negotiate requested changes to the monthly reimbursement amounts.

VI. ESTIMATE OF THE LENGTH OF TRIAL

86. The Parties believe that the trial of this Adversary Proceeding can be completed in two days.

VII. LIST OF PENDING OR ANTICIPATED MOTIONS IN THIS ADVERSARY PROCEEDING

87. Subject to evidentiary objections that may be asserted, the Parties submit that there are no pending or anticipated motions in this Adversary Proceeding.

88. The quantification of any attorney's fees awarded in this Adversary Proceeding, subject to defenses, will be handled through post-trial motion practice under Rule 54(d)(2), and no Party need present evidence on any attorney fee claim at the trial of this Adversary Proceeding.

I. INTRODUCTION

The above-referenced adversary proceeding (“Adversary Proceeding”) is related to the Chapter 11 bankruptcy case of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the “Debtor” or “Highland”), which was filed on October 16, 2019 (the “Petition Date”). Highland is now a Reorganized Debtor (sometimes referred to as such, herein). It obtained confirmation of a plan on February 22, 2021. The plan went effective on August 11, 2021. On direct appeal to the Fifth Circuit, Highland’s confirmation order was affirmed in substantial part, on August 19, 2022.

A few days before confirmation of its plan, Highland filed the complaint (“the Complaint”) initiating this Adversary Proceeding.<sup>1</sup> The defendants in the Adversary Proceeding are two very significant non-debtor entities within the massive Highland complex of companies: one known as Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. (“HCMFA”) and the other known as NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (“NexPoint” or sometimes “NPA”). These two companies are sometimes collectively referred to as the “Advisors” or “Defendants.” It is undisputed that, at all relevant times, the Advisors have been controlled by James Dondero (“Mr. Dondero”), the co-founder and former CEO of the Debtor.<sup>2</sup> Early during the Highland bankruptcy case (on January 9, 2020), Mr. Dondero’s tenure as CEO of Highland was terminated, and three new independent directors (the “Independent Board”) were appointed to manage the affairs of the Debtor, pursuant to a settlement between the Debtor and Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors (“UCC”), approved by the bankruptcy court.<sup>3</sup>

The Adversary Proceeding involves Highland’s breach of contract allegations against the two Advisors arising under four different agreements: (a) two Shared Services Agreements (one between Highland and each of the two Advisors); and (b) two Payroll Reimbursement Agreements (again, one between Highland and each of the two Advisors).<sup>4</sup> As later further explained, the Advisors are “registered investment advisors” who manage approximately $11 billion of assets for numerous clients, including retail investors (the retail investor funds constitute about $3 billion of the $11 billion of assets under management).<sup>5</sup> Pursuant to the two Shared Services Agreements, Highland provided the “back-office” and “middle-office” services (i.e., accounting, legal, regulatory compliance, human resources, information technology, etc.) that enabled the Advisors to operate as a business. And pursuant to the two Payroll Reimbursement Agreements, Highland provided “front-office” advisory services (i.e., investment advisory personnel) that enabled the Advisors to provide investment services to the funds under their management. To be clear, Highland maintained a full staff of actual employees and essentially contracted out to the Advisors

<sup>3</sup> The settlement between the Debtor and UCC is sometimes referred to by the parties as the “corporate governance settlement,” and it was entered into to avert the likely appointment of a Chapter 11 trustee.

<sup>4</sup> The Debtor originally asserted three claims in the Complaint: Count One, seeking declaratory relief, as to the parties’ respective rights and obligations under the two Shared Services Agreements; Count Two for Breach of Contract under the two Shared Services Agreements; and Count Three, seeking injunctive relief requiring the Advisors to cooperate in an orderly transition of services away from the Debtor, under the Shared Services Agreement. DE # 1 in the AP. On February 24, 2021, following an evidentiary hearing, the bankruptcy court entered an order resolving the claims for declaratory and injunctive relief (Counts One and Three) of Highland’s Complaint. Subsequently, on August 4, 2021, the parties entered into a stipulation that the claims for declaratory and injunctive relief were finally resolved by the prior order. DE # 36 in the AP. Thus, the only claims remaining from Highland’s Complaint to be considered are those for breaches of contract (Count Two). Notably, the parties’ Joint Pretrial Order expanded Highland’s Count Two to include breaches of the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements and not simply breaches of the Shared Services Agreements. DE # 92 in the AP, ¶¶ 15, 69, 71, 73, 74, 75, 76, 78, 79, 80, 81 & 85.

for the necessary services, so that the Advisors could manage funds for their clients. The Advisors themselves had relatively few employees.

The Shared Services Agreements, later more fully defined, will sometimes collectively be referred to herein as the “SSAs,” and the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements, also more fully defined herein, will sometimes be referred to as the “PRAs.” The cash flow streams from the SSAs and PRAs were a significant source of revenue and liquidity for Highland. And, of course, the Advisors, themselves, earned significant fees from the contracts that they had with their clients to manage the $11 billion of assets (the Advisors’ revenue numbers are not in evidence).

Highland asserts that breaches of contract occurred due to the Advisors’ failure—late during Highland’s bankruptcy case, when things had become very contentious between Highland and Mr. Dondero—to pay amounts due and owing under the four agreements (specifically, after Highland had given notice on November 30, 2020, of Highland’s intent to terminate the SSAs, in 60 days, in connection with its chapter 11 plan).<sup>6</sup> Highland asserts that the Advisors thereafter failed to pay some $2,747,000 due and owing under the four agreements, in late 2020 and early 2021.

Meanwhile, shortly before the filing of the Adversary Proceeding, on January 24, 2021, the Advisors filed their Application for Allowance of Administrative Claim in the underlying bankruptcy case.<sup>7</sup> On May 5, 2021, Highland filed its Objection to Application for Administrative Claim of Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. and NexPoint Advisors, L.P.<sup>8</sup> Contrary to Highland’s position that the Advisors owe Highland money for unpaid services that

Highland provided, the Application asserted claims back against Highland for: (1) alleged post-petition overpayments by the Advisors to Highland under the PRAs, throughout the bankruptcy case (under a theory that the fees payable to Highland under the PRAs were tied to the headcount of employees providing services, and Highland allegedly improperly charged the Advisors the same fixed, monthly amount under the PRAs, over time, as employee headcount at Highland dwindled); (2) alleged post-petition breaches of the SSAs by Highland, for allegedly failing to provide certain legal and compliance services contemplated under the SSAs—causing the Advisors to have to hire their own employees to provide such services; and (3) alleged post-petition overpayments by the Advisors to Highland under the SSAs for the services that Highland allegedly failed to provide. The Advisors have asserted up to $14 million in administrative expense claims against Highland.

On August 6, 2021, the parties stipulated that the contested matter created by the Advisors’ Application for Allowance of Administrative Claim (and Highland’s objection thereto) should be consolidated with the Debtor’s breach of contract claims within this Adversary Proceeding.<sup>9</sup> All consolidated, competing claims of the parties were tried before the bankruptcy court on April 12 and April 13, 2022, with closing arguments heard on April 27, 2022 (the “Trial”). The court heard from six witnesses and admitted nearly 200 exhibits.

For the reasons set forth below, the bankruptcy court has determined that the Advisors have failed to meet their burden of proving: (i) that they made any “overpayments” under the PRAs; (ii) that Highland breached the SSAs; or (iii) that the Advisors “overpaid” under the SSAs. The court also has determined that, even if the Advisors had met their burden of proving that they “overpaid” under the PRAs, the Advisors claims were waived. The Advisors' claims for "overpayments" under the SSAs were likewise waived. No administrative expense claims will be allowed.

The bankruptcy court has further determined that Highland has met its burden of proving its breach of contract claims against the Advisors for failure to pay certain amounts due under both the SSAs and PRAs in late 2020 and early 2021.

Accordingly, the bankruptcy court denies the request for allowed administrative expense claims by the Advisors. Further, the bankruptcy court grants the relief requested by Highland under its claims for breach of contract in this Adversary Proceeding. Highland is entitled to the damages set forth at the end of this document.

Set forth below are the court's Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law, pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr. Proc. 7052. Any Finding of Fact that should be more appropriately characterized as a Conclusion of Law should be deemed as such, and vice versa.

II. FINDINGS OF FACT

The Defendant/Advisor known as HCMFA was formed on or around February 2, 2009, and was previously known as Pyxis Capital, L.P. ("Pyxis").<sup>10</sup> The Defendant/Advisor known as NexPoint was formed on or around March 20, 2012. It is undisputed that, at all relevant times, both Defendants (i.e., the Advisors) were controlled by Mr. Dondero.<sup>11</sup>

The Advisors are registered investment advisors under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940. They serve as the investment managers for, among other things, certain retail funds (the

“Retail Funds”) that are regulated pursuant to the Securities Act of 1933, the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, and the Investment Company Act of 1940.

The Advisors provide investment advisory services to their clients pursuant to written investment advisory agreements (the “Investment Advisory Agreements”). These Investment Advisory Agreements are: (a) the principal source of the Advisors’ revenue, and (b) are the reason for the Advisors’ existence.

An individual named David Klos (“Mr. Klos”) served as Highland’s Controller and Chief Accounting Officer during the times relevant in this Adversary Proceeding (including overseeing the SSAs and PRAs between Highland and the Advisors) and reported directly to an individual named Frank Waterhouse (“Mr. Waterhouse”), who served as both: (a) Highland’s Chief Financial Officer (“CFO”), while simultaneously serving as (b) the Treasurer for each of the Advisors. Both Mr. Klos and Mr. Waterhouse testified at Trial and seemed to be the witnesses who were most involved with the Agreements at the time of their execution, implementation, and during performance thereof.

Mr. Klos now works as CFO of the Reorganized Debtor. Mr. Waterhouse no longer has any employment position with the Reorganized Debtor, but he still serves as an officer and/or employee of both of the Advisors and of Skyview—the latter of which is an entity that many former Highland employees transitioned to around the time that the Highland plan was confirmed, and they were terminated from Highland (Skyview now provides middle- and back-office services to the Advisors).<sup>12</sup> The court found Mr. Klos to be a credible and knowledgeable witness. The court found Mr. Waterhouse’s testimony to have been only moderately helpful. Mr. Waterhouse testified either “Not that I recall,” “I don’t recall,” “Not that I’m aware of,” or “I don’t remember,” more than 75 times, during two hours and 26 minutes of testimony regarding the SSAs and PRAs.<sup>13</sup>

A. The SSAs

i. The HCMFA SSA.

On February 9, 2012, Highland and HCMFA (then operating as Pyxis) entered into a Shared Services Agreement, effective as of December 15, 2011 (“Original HCMFA SSA”).<sup>14</sup> On September 12, 2012, the parties entered into an Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement, effective as of December 15, 2011.<sup>15</sup> Subsequently, the parties entered the Second Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement, effective as of February 8, 2013—which is the SSA that was in place between Highland and HCMFA during the bankruptcy case and is at issue in this litigation (the “HCMFA SSA”).<sup>16</sup>

To understand the impetus for the HCMFA SSA (and, for that matter, all of the agreements at issue in this Adversary Proceeding) one must fully appreciate that the Defendants/Advisors had relatively few employees of their own during the times relevant in this Adversary Proceeding. Rather, the Defendants/Advisors essentially contracted for services and/or personnel employed by the mothership, Highland. Pursuant to the HCMFA SSA, HCMFA agreed to pay Highland for costs relating to certain shared services requested by HCMFA and provided by Highland, including, in pertinent part: (i) finance and accounting, (ii) human resources, (iii) marketing, (iv) legal, (v) corporate, (vi) information technology, and (vii) operations.<sup>17</sup> According to all witnesses, these services are commonly referred to in the industry as “middle- or back-office” services, in contrast to “front-office” services that would be investment advisory services.

<sup>13</sup> With all due respect, the court realizes that most witnesses do not have perfect memories and occasionally testify “I don’t recall” or “I don’t know” during testimony. Indeed, during this Trial, other witnesses sometimes testified as such. But Mr. Waterhouse’s lack of answers to important questions was somewhat troubling to the court.

Pursuant to the HCMFA SSA, HCMFA was required to pay Highland its allocable share of the “Actual Cost” of “Shared Services” and “Shared Assets” based on an “Allocation Percentage,” as those terms are defined in the HCMFA SSA.<sup>18</sup> To determine the amounts owed, (a) Highland was to prepare Quarterly Reports setting forth the cost allocations and detailing amounts paid during the applicable quarter; (b) the parties were to agree on the allocations set forth in the Quarterly Reports and prepare invoices; and (c) the invoiced amounts were to be paid within 10 days.<sup>19</sup> In contrast to the other SSA with Nexpoint (described below) and the PRAs (also described below), the HCMFA SSA is stipulated to have been a variable fee arrangement between the parties.

ii. The NexPoint SSA.

On June 5, 2013, Highland and NexPoint entered into their original Shared Services Agreement, effective as of January 1, 2013 (the “Original NexPoint SSA”).<sup>20</sup> The Original NexPoint SSA was modelled after the HCMFA SSA and included a formula for determining NexPoint’s share of allocable cost of “Shared Services” and “Shared Assets,” which did not rely on an actual analysis of cost, but rather a percentage of managed fund assets.<sup>21</sup> This contract covered the same “middle- or back-office” services provided under the HCMFA SSA.

Subsequently, Highland and NexPoint amended the Original NexPoint SSA. The parties entered into the Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement, effective as of January 1, 2018—which is the SSA that was in place between Highland and NexPoint during the bankruptcy case and is at issue in this litigation (the “NexPoint SSA”).<sup>22</sup> The notable changes made to the NexPoint SSA included that: (a) the “asset based” formula (which was calculated using the asset values of a fund advised by NexPoint) for determining the value of Highland’s services was replaced with a monthly, “flat fee” arrangement; and (b) Highland was provided with exculpation and indemnification rights. The monthly flat fee charged by Highland to NexPoint in the amended NexPoint SSA was $168,000.<sup>23</sup>

NexPoint agreed to pay Highland the flat monthly fee of $168,000, due before the first business day each month, in exchange for the shared services provided by Highland.<sup>24</sup> Additionally, under Section 6.03 of the NexPoint SSA, Highland is entitled to recover its costs and expenses, including attorney’s fees, incurred in connection with the defense or settlement of indemnifiable claims.<sup>25</sup>

The NexPoint SSA was signed by Mr. Waterhouse on behalf of both Highland (in his capacity as Treasurer of Strand Advisors, Inc., the general partner of Highland) and NexPoint (in his capacity as Treasurer of NexPoint Advisors GP, LLC, the general partner of NexPoint).

On November 30, 2020, Highland—with confirmation of its plan pending, which contemplated a separation of Highland from Dondero-controlled entities—exercised its right to terminate both the HCMFA SSA and NexPoint SSA, by providing a written termination notice to the Advisors, indicating Highland’s intent to terminate them, effective January 31, 2021 (the “Termination Date”). However, on January 29, 2021, Highland agreed to extend the Termination Date by two weeks (to February 14, 2021), due to ongoing negotiations for an orderly transition of services, provided the Advisors paid for the services in advance. Highland has credibly represented that it believed termination without a service provider in place to fill Highland's role would have had dire consequences to the Retail Funds and their investors. The parties later agreed to extend the Termination Date one final time in February 2021, to extend the deadline through the end of February 2021.

The Advisors do not contend that Highland failed to perform under the SSAs, other than, perhaps, providing certain legal and compliance services to the Advisors a handful of times, at a point in time during the bankruptcy case when the Debtor believed it would be a conflict of interest to do so (as the Debtor and Advisors were becoming adverse). Further, it is agreed that the NexPoint SSA contemplated a fixed fee arrangement of $168,000 per month. To reiterate, the HCMFA SSA was not a fixed fee arrangement, but the amounts invoiced under the HCMFA SSA generally ranged between $300,000 to $310,000 each month.

B. The PRAs

In addition to the two SSAs, Highland and each of the Advisors/Defendants were parties to two "Payroll Reimbursement Agreements" (the "PRAs" and together with the SSAs, the "Agreements"). The PRAs—in contrast to the SSAs that were designed to compensate Highland for the Defendants' usage of "middle- and back-office" services—were designed to compensate Highland for the Defendants usage of "front-office" services.

There is a confusing history leading up to execution of the PRAs. Notably, prior to the year 2018, Highland had provided "front-office" services to the Advisors for free. Also notably, in early 2018, the parties embarked on documenting a new arrangement whereby Highland would henceforth be compensated for "front-office" services through the mechanism of "sub-advisory agreements" with the Advisors (which would be typical in the industry generally, as a way to compensate a party for “front-office” services). But the parties ended up using the PRAs instead, as set forth below.

i. Events Leading up to the PRAs.

As noted above, prior to the year 2018, Highland had provided “front-office” services to the Advisors for free, for six years.<sup>26</sup> But at the end of 2017, Highland was operating at a loss and those losses were expected to increase in 2018.<sup>27</sup> According to the credible testimony of Mr. Klos at Trial, Mr. Dondero came up with a number of $6 million that the Defendant NexPoint should be paying Highland, every year in the aggregate, to compensate for the mounting operating losses at Highland—which also had the added benefit of reducing NexPoint’s taxable income that it was generating, that happened to be flowing up to Mr. Dondero.<sup>28</sup>

So, on or about January 11, 2018, Highland and NexPoint entered into that certain Sub-Advisory Agreement, effective as of January 1, 2018 (the “Initial Sub-Advisory Agreement”). Notably, a typical sub-advisory agreement might provide for compensation for front-office services in a myriad of ways, including possibly: based on actual costs; flat fees; or percentage of assets under management (“AUM”), using basis points computed on assets managed.<sup>29</sup> Pursuant to the Initial Sub-Advisory Agreement, Highland would be providing certain “front-office” services to NexPoint to enable it to fulfill its obligations to its Clients under its Investment Management Agreements.<sup>30</sup> In exchange, NexPoint agreed to pay a flat monthly fee of $252,000, while each of the parties agreed to bear their own expenses.<sup>31</sup> As with the NexPoint SSA, Mr. Waterhouse signed the Sub-Advisory Agreement on behalf of both Highland and NexPoint. The payment of $252,000 times 12 equaled $3,024,000; meanwhile NexPoint would be paying Highland $168,000 per month under the fixed fee NexPoint SSA, and $168,000 times 12 equaled $2,016,000. Thus, by the court's calculations, this would mean that NexPoint would be paying Highland not quite $6 million per month for "back-", "middle-", and "front-office" services. However, the court understands that a subsidiary of NexPoint, called NREA, would be paying an additional $80,000 per month flat amount for "back- and middle-office" shared services, which would total $248,000 per month for shared services being paid from NexPoint (inclusive of its subsidiary) to Highland.<sup>32</sup> $248,000 times 12 equals $2,976,000 and, when added to the $3,024,000 being paid for "front-office" sub-advisory services, this totaled exactly $6 million.

Each year, Mr. Waterhouse and Mr. Klos prepared a written analysis of Highland's past and projected financial performance (each, an "Annual Review") that they presented to Mr. Dondero and Mark Okada (the latter of whom was Highland's other co-founder).<sup>33</sup> The 2017/2018 Annual Review included statements and information that: (i) Highland was projected to incur operating losses of $12 million in 2018;<sup>34</sup> (ii) the agreements of NexPoint to pay $6 million in fees to Highland was to "remain unchanged;"<sup>35</sup> (iii) the aggregate of $6 million to be paid by NexPoint to Highland was projected to be unchanged in 2018, 2019, and 2020;<sup>36</sup> and (iv) changes through new hires, internal transfers, terminations, and compensation and benefits paid had been made across the Highland platform.<sup>37</sup>

But, a hugely significant event occurred that affected Highland's cash flow right after the 2017/2018 Annual Review was presented. On January 30, 2018, a former Highland employee named Joshua Terry commenced an involuntary bankruptcy case against Acis Capital Management, L.P. (“Acis”) in this bankruptcy court (Mr. Terry had obtained a large arbitration award and judgment against Acis and was being frustrated in his efforts to collect upon it). At that time, Acis was an affiliate of Highland that managed certain collateralized loan obligations (“CLOs”). To perform its duties, Acis had earlier entered into its own sub-advisory and shared services agreements with Highland (the “Acis Agreements”). The Acis Agreements were a vital source of Highland’s revenue. Highland was projected to receive almost $10 million in revenue in 2018 alone from the Acis Agreements—Highland’s second-highest source of revenue representing nearly 12% of its total projected operating income.<sup>38</sup>

So, on March 7, 2018, just weeks after the 2017/2018 Annual Review was presented—and in an attempt to make up for anticipated lost revenue from Acis—Highland decided to create a Sub-Advisory Agreement also for HCMFA, initially for a flat monthly fee of $450,000, retroactive to January 1, 2018. Recall that, heretofore, Highland had been providing front-office services to HCMFA for free. A week later, a draft Sub-Advisory Agreement modeled on the NexPoint Initial Sub-Advisory Agreement was prepared for HCMFA.<sup>39</sup>

Notably: (a) the 2017/2018 Annual Review presented to Mr. Dondero and Mr. Okada just six weeks earlier did not contemplate that HCMFA would be party to a Sub-Advisory Agreement or otherwise would be compensating Highland for investment advisory services Highland was providing, and (b) both the title and terms of the draft HCMFA Sub-Advisory Agreement corroborated Highland’s contention that the parties intended to create a “fee for service” advisory relationship.

But, alas, the Initial Sub-Advisory Agreements for both HCMFA and NexPoint were not to be, because Highland learned: (a) from its outside counsel that (i) the Advisors' Retail Board<sup>40</sup> needed to approve the Sub-Advisory Agreements during an in-person meeting, and that (ii) the two Sub-Advisory Agreements could not be made retroactive to January 1, 2018, and (b) that the next in-person meeting of the Retail Board would not be until June 2018.<sup>41</sup> This was a problem because Highland needed cash-flow immediately and could not wait until June 2018.

Based on this legal advice, the parties concluded that they could not utilize the contemplated Sub-Advisory Agreement structure because: (a) Highland would not be able to earn any revenue for sub-advisory services until June, the earliest date the Retail Board could approve of the Sub-Advisory Agreements during an in-person meeting, and (b) it could not be retroactive to January 1, 2018, meaning that Highland would be unable to receive six months' of needed revenue. So, another method was needed to overcome these obstacles—and the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements were born.<sup>42</sup>

ii. The Use of PRAs instead of Sub-Advisory Agreements to Compensate Highland for "Front-Office" Advisory Services.

So, the next month, Highland prepared a draft PRA that did not need the Advisors' Retail Board's approval and could be made retroactive to the beginning of the year.

While the Initial Sub-Advisory Agreements had clearly contemplated that a flat fee for front-office services would be paid to Highland, Mr. Klos expressed concerns, after reviewing the draft PRAs, about language therein—and an Exhibit A chart attached thereto, listing out 25 "Dual

<sup>41</sup> See Pl. Ex. 87 (March 15, 2018 e-mails from Lauren Thedford ("Ms. Thedford"), an attorney employed by Highland but who also served as an officer of the Advisors).

Employees” who would be working both for Highland and the Advisors, and suggesting the percentage of time they might be working for the Advisors—that payments to Highland would be based on “actual costs” associated with specific employees. Mr. Klos was worried about the cumbersomeness of the PRAs and wrote to Highland inhouse attorney Lauren Thedford (“Ms. Thedford”), who also served as an officer of the Advisors, that:

Does it have to be framed as reimbursement of actual costs? We’d much rather it be characterized as just an agreed upon amount between the two entities. It’s not a small task and involves subjective assumptions to allocate individual employees, so as it’s written, it would be creating a ton of work that isn’t creating any value to the overall complex.<sup>43</sup>

In response, Ms. Thedford stated that she was “open” to changing the “definition of Actual Costs” but observed that there “needs to be some method of determining the amounts” and that it was “important” to treat the agreement as one for “reimbursement.” In response, Mr. Klos stated:

Could we say that Actual Cost is being determined at the outset of the agreement, have a schedule as of Jan. 1, 2018 and say that Actual Cost shall be as set out in that schedule and shall be paid in monthly installments for the term of the agreement . . . that way the exercise is only performed once.

Beyond that year, termination provision kicks-in, so if there’s a belief that Actual Costs have changed materially, either party could terminate and/or renegotiate for an amended agreement.<sup>44</sup>

At Trial, Mr. Klos credibly testified that the Exhibit A list of employees attached to the PRAs, and the allocation made for employees created in connection with the PRAs, were created to be the same monthly fees previously contemplated under the Initial Sub-Advisory Agreement.<sup>45</sup> Further, Mr. Klos testified that the estimates, despite being made in good faith, were based on his own subjective assessments and were only created as a proxy for the flat monthly fees previously envisioned by Mr. Dondero, to get Highland needed cash flow.<sup>46</sup>

On or around May 1, 2018, Highland and NexPoint entered into that certain Payroll Reimbursement Agreement (the “NexPoint PRA”).<sup>47</sup> The NexPoint PRA replaced the NexPoint Initial Sub-Advisory Agreement that had been effective as of January 1, 2018.<sup>48</sup> Then, on or around May 1, 2018, Highland and HCMFA entered into that certain Payroll Reimbursement Agreement, also effective as of January 1, 2018 (the “HCMFA PRA”).<sup>49</sup>

Except for the (a) names of the parties, (b) the amount of monthly payments thereunder, and (c) the list of “Dual Employees” and their respective allocations set forth in Exhibit A to each of the PRAs, the NexPoint PRA and HCMFA PRA were identical.

So, to be clear, whereas the SSAs were to provide compensation for “middle-” and “back-office” services provided by Highland to each of the Advisors, the PRAs were, generally, structured for the Advisors to pay Highland amounts in recognition of the “front-office” services provided by the Dual Employees to the Advisors (which “Dual Employees” were technically employed by Highland).

To be further clear, both the NexPoint PRA and HCMFA PRA stated that the Advisors were required to pay Highland the “Actual Cost” to Highland for the Dual Employees pursuant to Section 2.01.<sup>50</sup> However, “Actual Cost” was defined in each of the PRAs as:

with respect to any period hereunder, the actual costs and expenses caused by, incurred, or otherwise arising from or relating to each Dual Employee, in each case during such period. Absent any changes to employee reimbursement, as set forth in Section 2.02, such costs and expenses are equal to [$252,000 for NexPoint and $416,000 for HCMFA] per month.<sup>51</sup>

Significantly, pursuant to Section 2.02, the parties could agree to modify the Actual Cost if they believed a change to employee reimbursement was appropriate, and each party was required to negotiate any change in good faith.<sup>52</sup> The Advisors contend that Section 2.02, in conjunction with Section 4.02, imposed an affirmative obligation on Highland to update the Exhibit A list of Dual Employees and unilaterally adjust the monthly payments, but no such obligation exists under the clear language of the PRAs.<sup>53</sup>

The undisputed evidence establishes that: (a) neither Mr. Klos nor anyone else ever updated the Exhibit A list of Dual Employees attached to the PRAs; (b) neither Mr. Klos nor anyone else was ever instructed to update Exhibit A attached to the PRAs; (c) at all relevant times, the Advisors and Highland had access to the same information concerning the amounts paid under the PRAs, the amounts projected to be paid under the PRAs, the termination of Dual Employees, the compensation of Dual Employees, and the investment advisory services provided by Highland to each of the Advisors; and (d) as discussed below, the parties knew of and relied on Section 2.02 in December 2018 to amend the PRAs while Mr. Dondero was still fully in control of the entire Highland complex. The undisputed evidence was also that four out of the twenty-five Dual Employees listed on the Exhibit A's attached to the PRAs were no longer employed as of the May 1, 2018 date on which the PRAs were executed (although they had been employed as of the January 1, 2018 effective date of the PRAs).

Without considering any extrinsic evidence, the court finds the clear and unambiguous language of the definition of "Actual Cost" in the PRAs indicates that these were intended to be fixed amount contracts, simply plugging in a set monthly amount for front-office services that—absent agreed modifications—were never required to be adjusted based on particular employees’ daily activities or their comings-and-goings, despite the use of the words “Actual Cost.” Further, the clear and unambiguous language of Sections 2.02 and 4.02 of the PRAs contemplated possible agreed modifications and required “the Party requesting modification [to] notify the other Party” before the end of the month to change the employee reimbursement amount and the parties had to agree on any change to in amount.<sup>54</sup> The requirement that such notification and agreement be made shows the monthly payment was intended to be fixed and provided no mandatory obligation to update it, based on the Dual Employees’ allocation of time or employment at any time. The court finds these provisions, taken together, leave no ambiguity or lack of clarity that the terms of the PRAs generally intended to set a fixed monthly amount for front-office services, for ease of implementation. The parties could always terminate with or without cause,<sup>55</sup> or seek to modify the PRAs if the plugged-in amount seemed unreasonable over time.<sup>56</sup>

C. The Amendments to the PRAs

On December 14, 2018, (a) Highland and NexPoint entered into that certain Amendment Number One to Payroll Reimbursement Agreement (the “NexPoint PRA Amendment”), pursuant to which NexPoint paid an extra $1,300,000 to Highland, and (b) Highland and HCMFA entered into that certain Amendment Number One to Payroll Reimbursement Agreement (the “HCMFA PRA Amendment” and together with the NexPoint PRA Amendment, the “PRA Amendments”), pursuant to which HCMFA paid an extra $1,200,000 to Highland.<sup>57</sup>

These PRA Amendments are short, sparsely worded documents. They simply indicate that the Advisors are agreeing to pay the additional amounts to Highland “representing an estimate of additional Actual Costs owed under the [PRAs] for additional resources used.”<sup>58</sup> At Trial, Mr. Klos credibly testified that neither he, nor anyone else to his knowledge, ever performed an analysis of Highland’s actual costs under the PRAs to determine the extra amounts that ended up being paid to Highland under the PRA Amendments, and the PRA Amendments were only made because Highland was losing money rapidly and the Advisors had taxable income.<sup>59</sup> Additionally, by December 1, 2018 (before the PRA Amendments were executed), the Advisors had knowledge that nine of the twenty-five Dual Employees listed in Exhibit A to the original PRAs were no longer employed by Highland.<sup>60</sup> Yet, the Advisors made additional lump sum payments exceeding the fixed monthly amounts set forth in the PRAs. The Advisors claim it was their standard practice to perform annual “true-ups” of the various contracts in the Highland complex and that these the PRA Amendments were a “true-up,” which should be used to find that the PRAs did not contemplate flat amounts for services. But this would mean that the Advisors paid Highland $2.5 million on a PRA “true-up,” when they knew that over one-third of the Dual Employees under the PRAs were terminated during the relevant time period. Further, neither the Advisors nor any individual ever requested Exhibit A to the PRAs to be amended at any time prepetition. As of the Highland bankruptcy Petition Date (October 16, 2019), fourteen of the twenty-five Dual Employees were no longer employed at Highland. Mr. Dondero controlled both Highland and the Advisors at this time. To be clear, the Advisors had never taken the position that there were “overpayments” under the PRAs as of the Petition Date or sought modification of the PRAs. Mr.

Waterhouse, who signed the PRA Amendments on behalf of both Highland and the Advisors, testified that he had no recollection of how the amounts set forth in the PRA Amendments were determined or whether it was actually a “true-up.”

The court finds that nothing in the record suggests that the Advisors were doing a “true-up” when implementing the PRA Amendments. Nor do the additional amounts that were paid by the Advisors to Highland under the PRA Amendments suggest that the previously fixed monthly amount set forth in the PRAs was intended to be a variable amount. The court finds that the PRA Amendments were simply made with the purpose of funneling in more money to Highland to help with its liquidity crisis—with the added benefit of reducing the Advisors’ taxable income.

D. Extrinsic Evidence: Post-Petition Communications and Continued Payments under the PRAs and SSAs

The court will now roll forward and consider the extrinsic evidence from the postpetition time period that might shed light on the disputes in this Adversary Proceeding. Both Highland and the Advisors have taken the position that the Agreements are unambiguous—although they each have different interpretations as to what the Agreements mean. While the court is hard-pressed to find any ambiguity in the content of the Agreements,<sup>61</sup> the court will analyze the extrinsic evidence presented, since the parties have submitted it, and want the court to consider it if ambiguity is deemed to exist as to the Agreements.

In January 2020 (early during the Highland bankruptcy case), in response to inquiries from the Advisors’ Retail Board, Ms. Thedford sought information concerning expense reimbursements and allocations under the PRAs. Mr. Klos thereafter informed Ms. Thedford that such information “doesn’t exist in terms of current percentages.” Ms. Thedford then asked whether such information was contained in Exhibit A to the PRAs. In response, Mr. Klos reminded Ms. Thedford that the allocations in Exhibit A were:

a point in time estimate as of 2018. Half the people are gone now and if you were to reallocate them now, all the percentages would be different. On top of that, we don't have anything comprehensive that is comparable for back office people so the only thing we can really provide is a stale percentage on a small subset of the overall population.

Would be much more logical to do the yes/no and then as a blanket statement say that HCMFA/NPA pay $x/$y annually to HCMLP for these employees' services.<sup>62</sup>

Ms. Thedford responded by simply writing "Got it, thanks."<sup>63</sup>

Also, in January 2020 (again, early in the Highland bankruptcy case and the month Mr. Dondero ceded control of Highland to the Independent Board under a stipulated corporate governance order), Mr. Waterhouse, the Treasurer of each of the Advisors, requested information from Mr. Klos concerning the "monthly amount for each agreement."<sup>64</sup> Mr. Klos responded to Mr. Waterhouse confirming the fixed amounts under the Agreements:

Monthly amounts below

$290k-300k for shared services

NPA

$252k flat for investment support

$248k flat for shared services ($168k from NPA directly; $80k from NREA, but assume you're looking for a consolidated number)<sup>65</sup>

There is no credible evidence that Mr. Waterhouse ever raised any concerns about the fixed monthly amounts being charged and, in fact, he continued approving payments for these exact amounts. Payments did not stop until December 2020, when Mr. Dondero, wearing his Advisors' hat, directed Mr. Waterhouse to stop paying the amounts due under the Agreements. Then the Advisors filed their Application for Administration Expense Claim the very next month.<sup>66</sup> While there was some testimony suggesting that concerns had been raised in early January 2020 regarding possible overpayments under the PRAs to an individual named Fred Caruso (a financial advisor for the Debtor at the firm DSI),<sup>67</sup> the court did not have compelling evidence of this—Fred Caruso did not testify, and Frank Waterhouse had a generally poor memory for the details about this.

The court finds that these continued communications to officers of the Advisors confirming the amounts being paid under the Agreements, and the continued payments by the Advisors, after obtaining this information, is further evidence of the intent of the parties to structure the Agreements as fixed amount contracts.

E. Extrinsic Evidence: Highland Performed under the Agreements Postpetition

Significantly, there was extensive evidence at Trial that Highland performed at all times under the Agreements, and the Advisors made contemporaneous and repeated representations to their Retail Board that Highland was providing all services required under the Agreements.

All parties agreed that, as required by the Investment Company Act, the Retail Board for the Advisors conducts an annual review whereby it determines whether to extend its own Investment Advisory Agreements with the Advisors. This is referred to as a “15(c) review” process. A witness Ethan Powell, a member of the Retail Board, credibly testified about all this.<sup>68</sup>

As part of this “15(c) review” process, and at other times during Highland’s bankruptcy case, the Advisors provided the Retail Board with information concerning the status of the shared services relationship, Highland’s provision of services thereunder, and contingency planning in case the Advisors’ shared services relationship with Highland was terminated.

The Advisors provided this information to the Retail Board either in writing or orally during meetings of the Retail Board (the “Retail Board Meetings”). Minutes from the Retail Board Meetings were created in the ordinary course (the “Retail Board Minutes”). Ethan Powell testified that the Retail Board Minutes were adopted only after, among other things, the Advisors had an opportunity to review and edit their content to assure their accuracy.<sup>69</sup>

The Retail Board Minutes recite, among other things, that one or more of the Advisors’ officers (i.e., Mr. Waterhouse, Mr. Norris, Ms. Thedford, or Mr. Post) or their attorneys (i.e., Dennis C. Sauter, the Advisors’ in-house counsel, or K&L Gates, their outside counsel) were present and participated in every applicable Retail Board Meeting.<sup>70</sup>

Mr. Powell further testified that the Retail Board: (a) assumed that the Advisors made the statements and representations reflected in the Retail Board Minutes on an informed basis after conducting due diligence, and (b) the Retail Board relied on the statements and representations made by or on behalf of the Advisors in the Retail Board Meetings.<sup>71</sup>

It is important to note that, in January 2020, Mr. Dondero had avoided the likely appointment of a Chapter 11 trustee in the Highland bankruptcy case, by ceding control of Highland to the three new Independent Board members. With Mr. Dondero’s loss of control of Highland, the Retail Board naturally sought information about whether this change would impact

Highland's staffing. Thus, the Retail Board Minutes from the Retail Board Meeting, held on January 22, 2020, included the following entries:

Ms. Thedford noted that the Meeting Materials included a headcount report that lists each employee associated with HCMLP and the Advisers and identifies whether the employee is dually employed by both HCMLP and an Adviser or pursuant to a separate arrangement, such as Mr. Norris' employment with the Funds' distributor, NexPoint Securities, Inc. . . .

Mr. Norris discussed the shared services arrangements that each Adviser is a party to with HCMLP pursuant to which the Adviser may utilize employees from HCMLP for the provision of various services such as human resources, accounting, valuation, information technology services, compliance and legal. Mr. Norris noted, however, that many of these "third party" services are readily available on the open market.<sup>72</sup>

In response to the Retail Board's request, the Advisers included in the "Meeting Materials" a list of every person employed in the Highland complex, including (a) name, (b) title, (c) department, (d) employing entity (e.g., Highland, HCMFA, NexPoint), (e) whether the person was a Dual Employee, (f) office location, and (g) whether the person was an "investment professional" or was providing "back office" services."<sup>73</sup>

In mid-June 2020, Jason Post ("Mr. Post"), the Advisers' Chief Compliance Officer, assured the Retail Board that the Advisers were "monitor[ing]" the "level and quality" of Highland's shared services and that he was unaware of any disruptions:

Mr. Post described the team members providing compliance and legal support services to the Funds and the Advisers. . . . Mr. Post stated he believed the Compliance department was adequately staffed.

Mr. Post also discussed the quality and continuity of services provided to the Funds by HCMLP pursuant to shared services agreements with the Advisers in the context of the HCMLP bankruptcy. A discussion ensued during which Mr. Post responded to questions from the Board. He noted the regular updates provided to the Board and also discussed how the level and quality of services are being monitored and confirmed that he is not aware of any disruptions in the service levels provided to the Funds.<sup>74</sup>

In August 2020, Dustin Norris (“Mr. Norris”), an Executive Vice President of each of the Advisors, represented to the Retail Board that “there had been no issues or disruptions in services as a result of the HCMLP bankruptcy matter,” although James P. Seery, Jr. (“Mr. Seery”), Highland’s new CEO (and a member of the court-appointed Independent Board), advised the Retail Board that certain conflicts might arise, given the differing investment strategies being adopted by Highland, on the one hand, and the Advisors, on the other:

Mr. Norris next provided an overview of the 15(c) review materials and process and discussed the expected timeline with respect to Board consideration of approval of the renewals. He noted that there had been no issues or disruptions in services as a result of the HCMLP bankruptcy matter.

Mr. Seery then pointed out to the Board a potential conflict of interest that had arisen with respect to an investment held by both HCMLP-advised funds and certain of the Funds. Mr. Seery explained that the HCMLP-advised funds were likely to seek to sell their interests in the investment. This divergence of investment objectives of HCMLP and the Funds, and the overlapping portfolio and administrative personnel of HCMLP and HCMFA and the NexPoint Advisors working on the matter, created a potential conflict between the two groups.<sup>75</sup>

In advance of a Retail Board Meeting to be held in September 2020, the Advisors sent a memorandum to the Retail Board in which they stated, among other things, that the “Advisors and HCMLP believe the current shared services being provided are generally consistent with the level of service that historically been received,” and further addressed potential conflict issues.<sup>76</sup>

During the two-day Retail Board meeting held on September 17-18, 2020, the Retail Board was advised that Highland continued to perform all of the shared services and was provided with additional information concerning potential conflicts:

Mr. Surgent joined the Meeting. During the discussion, he responded to the 15(c) follow-up questions submitted by the Board relating to HCMLP matters. He provided the Board with a status update on the HCMLP bankruptcy and discussed the impact of the HCMLP bankruptcy on the shared services arrangements with the Funds, noting he does not expect that the level and quality of services would change in the immediate term. Regarding the bankruptcy, Mr. Surgent reiterated Mr. Seery's stated goal to achieve a consensual, omnibus resolution by the end of the year. To the extent this was not achievable, Mr. Surgent noted that an alternative plan had been filed by HCMLP. . . . He indicated that at this time it was business as usual with respect to the services provided to the Funds and that the Board would be notified immediately of any developments.<sup>77</sup>

On October 9, 2020, Mr. Norris sent an e-mail to the Retail Board and other officers and agents of the Advisors (including outside counsel) to provide an interim update in which he advised the Retail Board that NexPoint was working on contingency plans to "ensure that there is no disruption in services":

We are working on full responses to your with [sic] 15(c) follow-up questions attached, however we want to keep you updated as it pertains to the continued developments with shared services and your first question on the attached. As it stands today, NexPoint's senior management's plan as a backup/contingency plan is to extend employment offers to the vast majority of HCMLP's employees by 12/31/2020. This will help ensure that there is no disruption in services to the Funds. Once we have further details of this we will advise. In the interim the plan is to continue with existing shared services.<sup>78</sup>

A few days later, on October 13, 2020, Mr. Norris informed the Retail Board during a regularly scheduled meeting that, with respect to shared services, "all operations continued in the normal course there [sic] had been no material impact on the day-to-day operations of the Funds" and that contingency plans were "in place to continue to provide the same level and quality of services to the Funds":

Mr. Ellington then explained three various potential scenarios contemplated during the ongoing negotiations, including a full or partial buyout of certain creditor claims by Mr. Dondero or no agreement, which could potentially lead to liquidation of HCMLP and termination of all HCMLP employees. . . .

Mr. Sauter also discussed the status of the shared services agreements. In response to another question, Mr. Norris discussed the morale employees [sic] and noted that all operations continued in the normal course there [sic] had been no material impact on the day-to-day operations of the Funds. He indicated that there would not likely be any material developments with respect to the status of HCMLP until the end of the year at the earliest. The Board requested that the Advisers continue working toward developing definitive plan to ensure that the resources, both of personnel and equipment, are in place to continue to provide the same level and quality of services to the Funds and to continue to report back to the Board on the status.<sup>79</sup>

On October 23, 2020, the Retail Board asked whether there were “any material outstanding amounts currently payable or due in the future (e.g., notes) to HLCMLP [sic] by HCMFA or NexPoint Advisors or any other affiliate that provide services to the Funds.”<sup>80</sup> As to that question, the Advisors informed the Retail Board that “[a]ll amounts owed by each of NexPoint and HCMFA pursuant to the shared services arrangement with HCMLP have been paid as of the date of this letter.”<sup>81</sup>

On October 28, 2020, the Retail Board was again told that: (i) Highland was expected to continue to provide shared services without interruption, (ii) the parties continued to work on a “seamless transition,” (iii) according to Mr. [Brian] Collins [HR manager], there had been no “significant departures” of employees, and that (iv) the “quality and level” of services had not been negatively impacted by Highland’s bankruptcy:

Mr. Ellington provided an update on the HCMLP bankruptcy, focusing on the contingency plan for fund service providers if HCMLP is unable to perform its current functions. . . . He also noted that based upon on-going discussions with HCMLP, as well as in view of these alternative contingency plans, the Advisers do not expect any interruption to the services to the Funds that are currently being provided by HCMLP pursuant to the Shared Services Agreement.

Mr. Collins noted that, although employees of HCMLP were not yet able to be released subject to confirmation of the plan of bankruptcy, he was confident in the firm’s ability to retain talent throughout this process based on discussions with the employees. He noted that every employee team leader had been spoken to and also noted that there have been no significant departures to date. . . .

The Advisers represented that the quality and level of services provided to the Funds by the Advisers and pursuant to the shared services arrangements had not been negatively impacted to date and that adequate plans were in place prevent any diminution of services as a result of any potential issues relating to the HCMLP bankruptcy that might arise. . . .

The Board noted that the level and quality of services to the Funds by the Advisers and its affiliates had not been materially impacted by the HCMLP bankruptcy and took into account the Advisers' representations that the level and quality of the services provided by the Advisers and their affiliates, as well as of those services currently being provided by HCMLP pursuant to the Shared Services Agreement, would continue to be provided to the Funds at the same or higher level and quality.<sup>82</sup>

A week later, Mr. Norris again reassured the Retail Board that Highland continued to provide shared services on an uninterrupted basis and that no issues of "conflict" arose:

Mr. Norris then noted that there has not been any disruption to the services provided to the Funds by HCMLP pursuant to the Shared Services Agreement and that he expects that such services will continue to be provided in normal course. In addition, Mr. Norris noted that there have been no issues with an HCMLP employee being conflicted out since the last update.<sup>83</sup>

By December 1, 2020: (a) Highland had sent the Termination Notices, indicating its intent to termination the Agreements; and (b) the Advisors had allegedly discovered the "overpayments under the Agreements."<sup>84</sup> Yet, the Advisors continued to reassure the Retail Board that everything was proceeding normally and that the parties were working to achieve an orderly, seamless transition.

Indeed, on December 1, 2020, Mr. Post confirmed that Highland sent the Termination Notices and informed the Retail Board, among other things, that:

On November 30, 2020, HCMLP provided notice of termination of the Shared Services Agreement to HCMFA/NPA, effective January 31, 2021. However, based upon on-going discussions with HCMLP, HCMFA/NPA expects to be able to continue to receive these services through a transfer of personnel, equipment and facilities from HCMLP either to HCMFA/NPA or to a third-party service provider.<sup>85</sup>

On December 7, 2020, the Advisors provided written responses posed by Blank Rome, outside counsel to the Retail Board. In response to a question about who “is responsible for putting together the plan to continue to provide/transition shared services for the retail complex,” the Advisors stated:

The senior management team of the Advisors is responsible for the transition of services, and this group is made up of Jim Dondero, D.C. Sauter, Jason Post, and Dustin Norris. This group is working with HCMLP management to ensure an orderly transition.<sup>86</sup>

The Retail Board also asked for a “matrix of current services provided and services that will be transferred.” In response, the Advisors stated:

Please see Appendix A below, which includes the list of services provided under the shared services agreement with HCMLP. These services fall into two broader categories: 1) Employees performing services and 2) Systems, infrastructure, software and supplies/equipment. As we understand it, the bankruptcy plan of reorganization approved by the bankruptcy court (the “Approved Plan”) anticipates the termination of all HCMLP employees by 1/31/21. The Advisors anticipate extending employment offers to the vast majority of HCMLP’s employees such that the employees would be rehired immediately upon termination of their employment with HCMLP. This will cover all of the services under category 1 above.<sup>87</sup>

During a Retail Board meeting held on December 10-11, 2020: (a) Mr. Norris reviewed the “current services provided under the shared services agreement with HCMLP and discussed the current plans for ensuring the continuation of those services after a plan of reorganization is approved”; and (b) Mr. Sauter “noted that there has been no material attrition to date with respect to employees”:

Mr. Norris provided responses to the Board’s follow up questions that had been submitted on their behalf prior to the Meeting. Among these items, Mr. Norris reviewed a matrix of current services provided under the shared services agreement with HCMLP and discussed the current plans for ensuring the continuation of those services after a plan of reorganization is approved. Mr. Norris noted that these shared services fell into two broader categories: (1) employees performing services and (2) systems, infrastructure, software and supplies/equipment. With respect to the first category, Mr. Norris discussed plans by the Advisers to extend employment offers to the vast majority of HCMLP’s employees such that the employees would be rehired immediately upon termination of their employment with HCMLP. In the alternative, these employees could join a newly formed entity (New Co) and continue to provide services to the Funds through NewCo. With respect to the second category, Mr. Sauter noted that the Advisers and HCMLP were in agreement that these would be assigned with a payment from the Advisers and that there were working groups set up that were pursuing an orderly transition of all of these items, which included orderly assignment and assumption of the relevant agreements needed to continue with all current services. He noted that there has been no material attrition to date with respect to employees. . . . Mr. Norris also discussed the Advisers’ proposed alternative plan and confirmed that regardless of whether the Advisers and HCMLP came to an agreement on shared services, such services would be continued to be provided to the Funds without interruption.<sup>88</sup>

By January 2021, Highland had become embroiled in litigation with Mr. Dondero and had obtained temporary injunctive relief against him. However, the Advisers assured the Retail Board that this had no impact on the Advisers’ ability to obtain access to information and resources concerning the Retail Funds:

Mr. Norris confirmed that the Advisers did not feel limited by the temporary restraining orders relating to the HCMLP bankruptcy with respect to access to Fund information. Mr. Norris then updated the board on a number of employee moves from HCMLP to NexPoint. In response to a question, Messrs. Post and Norris confirmed that there was sufficient legal and compliance coverage for the Funds.

Mr. Norris then provided an update on the negotiations with HCMLP on the transition of shared services. He noted that both sides had agreed in principle on the transition of services and cost sharing but that it was not yet memorialized in a contract and a number of details still needed to be resolved. He confirmed that the Advisers continued to receive full access to information and resources with respect to the Funds.<sup>89</sup>

On January 29, 2021, Jackie Graham, NREA's<sup>90</sup> Director of Investor Relations and Capital Markets, sent an e-mail to Mr. Dondero, Mr. Sauter, and others in advance of a Board call in which she attached an outline of certain issues concerning shared services provided by Highland and stated, among other things, that:

Because the [relevant Funds] are externally managed by external advisors (NexPoint Real Estate Advisors, L.P. and its affiliates (the "Advisors")), the [relevant Funds] rely on the Advisors to provide certain services to them. The Advisers utilize Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("HCM") to provide a certain subset of these services under a shared services agreement between HCM and the Advisers. . . .

Employees of the Advisors are working with HCM to provide a transition of shared services from HCM to the Advisors or third party providers. . . . Specifically, the Advisors and affiliate advisors would pay a one-time fee of $400,000 and ongoing monthly costs of $270,000. Additionally, HCM may require the Advisors and affiliate advisors to pay previously unpaid fees allegedly owed to HCM totaling $5.5m. . . .

Winston is reviewing potential legal remedies in the event HCM breaches the shared services by denying us access to our data held by HCM or otherwise attempts to cause harm to our shareholders . . .<sup>91</sup>

Eventually, a transition of shared services from Highland to a Newco entity known as Skyview was effectuated (Skyview being owned and operated by individuals previously employed by Highland). As the transition of the shared services from Highland to Skyview was nearing completion, the Advisors continued to reassure the Retail Board that all was well. On February 26, 2021, Mr. Norris provided an update on the transition:

Mr. Norris provided an update on the shared services arrangements and employee transitions. He indicated that there would be no impact as a result of certain employees not transitioning to the Advisers and discussed the team in place and their qualifications. He noted that the current shared services arrangements with HCMLP would cease at the end of February and that the Advisers wish to move forward with new Shared Services Agreements between each Adviser and NewCo. He then stated that these Agreements were in the process of being drafted and finalized and will be reviewed with the Board at its next meeting. He indicated that there had been no major issues in connection with the transition and that the personnel from the Advisers had met with HCMLP with respect to data files and are comfortable that HCMLP will be providing the necessary information. In response to a question from the Board, he indicated that there was not an immediate need for such data and confirmed that the Advisers had the data and information files they needed with respect to Fund operations and services.<sup>92</sup>

Based on all the information and representations made by the Advisors, the NexPoint Diversified Real Estate Trust (one of the Advisors' Clients) filed its annual report with the SEC in early 2022 (about a year after Highland commenced this Adversary Proceeding and the Advisors filed their administrative expense claims) in which it disclosed, among other things, the following:

The Fund has retained NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (the "Investment Adviser") to manage the assets of the Fund pursuant to an investment advisory agreement between the Investment Adviser and the Fund (the "Agreement"). . . . The Board of Trustees noted that the level and quality of services to the Fund by the Investment Adviser and its affiliates had not been materially impacted by the HCMLP bankruptcy and took into account the Investment Adviser's representations that the level and quality of the services provided by the Investment Adviser and their affiliates, as well as of those services provided by Skyview to the Investment Adviser under the Skyview Services Agreement, would continue to be provided to the Fund at the same or higher level and quality.<sup>93</sup>

Pursuant to the evidence set forth above, the court finds that the Advisors made numerous representations to the Retail Board, before and after the Advisors allegedly became aware of the "overpayments" and ceased making payments to Highland under the Agreements, indicating that Highland had sufficiently performed all services provided under the Agreements. The court notes that, many times, the communications between the Advisors and the Retail Board (or the Retail

Board Minutes) refer to no interruption in “shared services.” The court interprets this to generically mean shared services under both the SSAs and PRAs. This is strong evidence that Highland, indeed, performed all services contemplated under the Agreements.

F. Extrinsic Evidence that the Advisors had Knowledge of Employees Hired and Terminated by Highland, Both Pre- and Post-Petition

In addition to the evidence detailed above, there is still more credible evidence that the Advisors had knowledge of when employees of Highland, including the Dual Employees, were hired and terminated by Highland. Among other things:

- In their written responses to interrogatories, the Advisors admitted that they had contemporaneous knowledge of the termination of every Dual Employee;<sup>94</sup>
- Every month from at least October 2017 through January 2021, Highland’s Human Resources department (under the direction of a Mr. Brian Collins) prepared a “Monthly Headcount Report” (the “Monthly Headcount Reports”) listing every employee in the Highland complex and highlighting new hires and terminations and distributed such reports to numerous people, including the Advisors’ officers (i.e., Mr. Waterhouse, Ms. Thedford, and Mr. Norris);<sup>95</sup>
- Mr. Dondero was provided with extensive information concerning hires, terminations, and employee compensation and benefits during the Annual Reviews;<sup>96</sup>
- In early 2020, the Advisors provided detailed information to the Retail Board concerning all of Highland’s employees;<sup>97</sup>

Yet, despite having knowledge of Highland terminating certain employees, both when it was controlled by the Independent Board and when it was controlled by Mr. Dondero, the Advisors continued to approve and make payments in the same monthly amounts under the Agreements.

As earlier noted, as of May 1, 2018, when the Advisors entered the PRAs, four of the twenty-five Dual Employees on Exhibit A had already been terminated, and Mr. Waterhouse had every reason to know that cost allocations for terminated employees were being used when he signed the Agreements.<sup>98</sup>

As also earlier noted, as of December 14, 2018, when the PRA Amendments paying Highland $2.5 million of extra compensation were entered, nine of the twenty-five Dual Employees on Exhibit A had already been terminated. Finally, as of the Petition Date, fourteen of the twenty-five Dual Employees on Exhibit A had already been terminated.

Still, no change in the monthly payments (only the unexplained increase in payment made by the Advisors under the PRA Amendments that had no analysis done in connection with it) were ever made or requested by the Advisors under the PRAs.

The court finds the Advisors had knowledge of the termination of Dual Employees under Exhibit A of the PRAs. Further, the court finds the Advisors continued making the same monthly payments under the PRAs, despite knowledge of the terminations, for 35 months.

G. The Advisors Knowingly and Intentionally Made All Payments under the Agreements until November 30, 2020

The evidence is undisputed that, from January 1, 2018 through November 30, 2020, the Advisors made all of the same monthly payments under the Agreements in exchange for the back-office, middle-office, and front-office services provided to them by Highland. Each of the payments that the Advisors made under the Agreements between January and November 2020 (when the new Independent Board controlled Highland) were exactly the same (or, in the case of the HCMFA SSA, utilized the exact same methodology) as the payments that the Advisors made under the Agreements between January 1, 2018 and December 31, 2019 (when Mr. Dondero still controlled Highland).

It cannot be legitimately disputed that the Advisors had knowledge of the payments made under the Agreements. The evidence shows: (1) the Agreements were signed by Mr. Waterhouse, the Treasurer of the Advisors and the CFO of Highland;<sup>99</sup> (2) Highland sought and obtained permission from Mr. Waterhouse before making payments under the Agreements as the officer of the Advisors;<sup>100</sup> (3) Mr. Waterhouse testified that he, in his role as the Treasurer of the Advisors, was responsible for ensuring the Advisors paid the proper amounts under the Agreements;<sup>101</sup> and (4) the Advisors represented to the Retail Board that “[a]ll amounts owed by each of NPA and HCMFA pursuant to the shared services arrangement have been paid.”<sup>102</sup>

The Advisors made an argument in their trial brief that Highland was simply paying itself without any involvement from any Advisor employee or officer. This statement is disingenuous, given Mr. Waterhouse’s testimony that he was the officer in charge of making sure the proper amounts were transferred under the Agreements and his regular approval of payments.

The court finds, when considering the collective of this evidence, that the Advisors had knowledge of and authorized the payments by the Advisors to Highland under the Agreements.

H. The Advisors’ Stoppage of Payments under the Agreements Late in the Bankruptcy Case

As stated above, from the January 1, 2018 until November 30, 2020, the Advisors paid Highland the same fixed monthly amounts due and owing under the Agreements, without change or objection.<sup>103</sup>

By the end of November 2020: (i) the Independent Board had demanded Mr. Dondero's resignation (from his post-petition role as a portfolio manager for Highland); (ii) Mr. Dondero had begun interfering with Highland's business and engaging in conduct that ultimately led to the imposition of injunctive relief; and (iii) Highland had delivered the termination notices for the SSAs.<sup>104</sup>

It was around this time when Mr. Dondero instructed Mr. Waterhouse to stop making any payments to Highland on account of the Agreements. As a result, the Advisors failed to make payments under the Agreements for the months of December 2020 and January 2021 (and, in the case of the HCMFA SSA, also the month of November 2020). The court finds, and there is no dispute by the Advisors, that the Advisors intentionally did not make these payments to Highland under the Agreements.

I. The Advisors' Lack of an Attempt to Modify the PRAs

As earlier noted, the Advisors claim that, in late 2019 or early 2020, after Highland had filed bankruptcy, Mr. Waterhouse raised the existence of overpayments with Fred Caruso ("Mr. Caruso"), an employee of Development Specialists, Inc. ("DSI"), before the new Independent Board of Highland was even appointed. Another employee of DSI, Brad Sharp, serve as the Chief Restructuring Officer in the bankruptcy, at that time (again, before the Independent Board was appointed). However, despite what was alleged in the Advisors' pleadings, Mr. Waterhouse testified that he does not remember ever asking Mr. Caruso to amend the amounts under the PRAs, only that he made him aware that there might be overpayments.<sup>105</sup> The Advisors and Mr.

<sup>104</sup> The termination notices did not mention the PRAs. Mr. Seery credibly testified that he does not know why the PRAs were not mentioned in the termination notices, but that they were rejected as part of the confirmed plan. Tr. Transcript 4/13/22, Part 1 of 2 [DE #114], at 62:1-63:21.

Waterhouse claim that Mr. Caruso told Mr. Waterhouse that the PRAs could not be amended because of the automatic stay in place from the bankruptcy. There is no documentation of this discussion or any subsequent documentation of what Mr. Caruso or Mr. Waterhouse discussed—only the testimony of Mr. Waterhouse where he couldn’t remember specifics. Mr. Caruso did not testify at Trial.

There is no evidence that Mr. Waterhouse might have followed up with Mr. Caruso. Mr. Waterhouse never told anyone else affiliated with the Advisors that he had learned of potential overpayments, other than Scott Ellington (“Mr. Ellington”) and Isaac Leventon (“Mr. Leventon”) with Highland’s legal department, and this included not telling Mr. Dondero.<sup>106</sup> Mr. Waterhouse never made Highland’s new Independent Board aware of the alleged potential overpayments, despite many interactions with the Independent Board.<sup>107</sup> And notably absent from his testimony, was any claim that he made a formal request for modifications to the PRAs as the Advisors’ Treasurer, despite having knowledge of the alleged overpayments since at least late 2019, and likely since the PRAs were signed.

Viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to the Advisors, they only raised the issue of potential overpayments to Highland in late 2019, through Mr. Caruso, Mr. Ellington, and Mr. Leventon. The Advisors never subsequently followed up with Mr. Caruso or informed Highland’s new Independent Board of the alleged overpayments after the Independent Board was put in place shortly after the alleged conversations with Mr. Caruso. Further, and most importantly, the court finds that the Advisors, based on the testimony of Mr. Waterhouse, never made a request to modify

III. CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

A. Jurisdiction and Venue

Bankruptcy subject matter jurisdiction exists in this Adversary Proceeding, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1334(b), and this is a core proceeding pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2)(A), (B), (C), and (O). The court has Constitutional authority to enter a final judgment in this Adversary Proceeding. While Defendants, in their Original Answer, initially contested that core matters were involved and they did not consent to bankruptcy court adjudication,<sup>108</sup> the parties later stipulated to final adjudication of these matters in the bankruptcy court.<sup>109</sup> Venue is proper in this judicial district pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1409.

B. Choice of Law

The four relevant documents in the Adversary Proceeding are the HCMFA SSA, NexPoint SSA, HCMFA PRA, and NexPoint PRA. All four of these contracts contain choice of law provisions that the Agreements “will be governed and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of Texas.”<sup>110</sup> Accordingly, Texas law applies to the claims at issue.

C. The Advisors’ Claims for Overpayment under the PRAs

The Advisors seek an administrative expense claim for alleged overpayments they made under the PRAs from the Petition Date until November 30, 2020 (the date the Advisors ceased making any payments under the PRAs).

As set forth in the Joint Pretrial Order filed in this Adversary Proceeding, the Advisors contend that each of the Advisors were required to reimburse Highland for its actual costs of the Dual Employees listed on the Exhibit A's to the PRAs, but that as of the Petition Date, many of the Dual Employees (fourteen out of twenty-five) were no longer employed at Highland. Therefore, the Advisors argue, during this period, they were essentially paying Highland for Dual Employees who were no longer employed by Highland and that such payments constituted overpayments under the PRAs. The Advisors maintain that their monthly payments under the PRAs resulted in overpayments by the Advisors to Highland totaling $7,649,942, broken down as $4,928,103 in post-petition overpayments by HCMFA and $2,721,839 in post-petition overpayments by NexPoint. The Advisors' overpayment claim is premised on the contention that the Advisors were only required to pay for "actual costs and expenses" relating to each particular Dual Employee.

Alternatively, the Advisors argue that if their interpretation of the PRAs is incorrect—such that the PRAs contemplated fixed monthly payments and Section 2.02 of the PRAs would have required a modification of the PRAs in order to reduce the required monthly payment to conform to a smaller number of Dual Employees—then the court should find that the Advisors did, indeed, seek to modify the fixed monthly amounts under Section 2.02, but that Highland failed to negotiate the same in good faith as required by such section.

In response, Highland argues that the PRAs clearly and unambiguously require that the Advisors pay a flat monthly amount for investment advisory services rendered, regardless of which employees actually performed those services, unless the parties agreed otherwise in writing pursuant to Section 2.02. Highland also argues that parole evidence and the parties' uninterrupted course of dealing proves that the parties intended for the Advisors to pay a fixed monthly amount for investment advisory services, unless modified pursuant to Section 2.02. Highland further argues that the Advisors never sought modification and that their claims have been (a) waived and (b) are barred by the voluntary payment rule.

i. The PRAs are Unambiguous as a Matter of Law

Under Texas law, a party claiming breach of contract has the burden to prove the following elements: “(1) the existence of a valid contract; (2) performance or tendered performance by the plaintiff; (3) breach of the contract by the defendant; and (4) damages to the plaintiff as a result of the defendant's breach.” Williams v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., 884 F.3d 239, 244 (5th Cir. 2018) (internal citations omitted). The court’s primary role in interpreting a contract is “to determine the parties’ intent as reflected in the [contract’s] terms.” Chrysler Ins. Co. v. Greenspoint Dodge of Houston Inc., 297 S.W.3d 248, 252 (Tex. 2009). “Contract language that can be given a certain or definite meaning is not ambiguous and is construed as a matter of law.” Id. “If the contract is capable of being given a definite legal meaning, parole evidence is generally not admissible to create an ambiguity.” Kendziorski v. Saunders, 191 S.W.3d 395, 405 (Tex. App. – Austin 2006). “Whether a contract is ambiguous is a question of law for the court to decide by looking at the contract as a whole in light of the circumstances present when the contract was entered into.” BCC Merchant Solutions, Inc. v. Jet Pay, LLC, 129 F.Supp.3d 440, 466 (N.D.Tex. 2015) (internal quotations omitted); see also Watkins v. Petro-Search, Inc., 689 F.2d 537, 538 (5th Cir. 1982) (“[W]hen a question relating to the construction of a contract or its ambiguity is presented, the court is to take the wording of the contract in the light of the surrounding circumstances, in order to ascertain the meaning that would be attached to the wording by a reasonably intelligent person acquainted with all operative usages and knowing all the circumstances prior to and contemporaneous with the making of the integration”).

A contract is unambiguous and will be enforced as written where it is “susceptible to only one reasonable construction.” BCC Merchant, 129 F.Supp.3d at 477. “[A] cardinal rule of contract interpretation under Texas law is that the entire writing must be examined” and “no single provision taken alone [may] be given controlling effect.” Id. (citing Texas law) (internal quotations omitted). “Where the language is clear and definite, the contract is not ambiguous, and a court must apply the plain language as a matter of law.” Main Street Bank v. Unisen, No. H-06-3776, 2008 WL 11483415, at *4 (S.D.Tex. Feb. 15. 2008).

Thus, the court begins its analysis by looking at the plain language of the PRAs. In both of the PRAs, Section 2.01 mandated that the Advisors were required to pay Highland the “Actual Cost” of the services provided by the Dual Employees.<sup>111</sup> However, despite the use of the words “Actual Cost,” and an Exhibit A attachment purporting to list out the Dual Employees, the PRAs defined that term “Actual Cost” under Article I as a specific dollar amount. The PRAs defined “Actual Cost” as equal to $252,000 per month for NexPoint and $416,000 per month for HCMFA.<sup>112</sup> There was no requirement of periodic reevaluation of the Actual Cost; no automatic adjustments to the Actual Cost amounts, for such things as employee comings-and-goings or employee changes in job duties; and no mention of a “true-up” annually or at any other time. The PRAs simply plugged in a decisive monthly amount.

Section 4.02 of the PRAs required any party seeking modifications to amounts paid under the definition of “Actual Cost” to make a request on the other party “on or before the last business day of the calendar month.” Further, Section 2.02 permitted the parties to “agree to modify the terms and conditions” of the amounts paid and the parties were required to negotiate any modification requested in good faith. Finally, Section 6.02 required that any amendment to the PRAs to be in writing by all parties.

These are the PRA provisions that are germane to the disputes in this Adversary Proceeding. When reading these provisions within the entirety of the PRAs, the court concludes that the PRAs are unambiguous as a matter of law. Section 2.01 and an accompanying Article I definition of “Actual Cost” set forth a flat monthly amount; the parties agreed that this flat monthly amount would be deemed to be the “Actual Cost” of the front-office services that Highland was providing to the Advisors, through the Highland employees. The accompanying Sections 2.02, 4.02, and 6.02 allowed for a modification of these amounts, but only if a party notified the other party on or before the last business day of a calendar month that it requested such a modification. If the parties agreed to a modification, there had to be a written agreement memorializing the amendment.

The Advisors seem to argue that Sections 2.02 and 4.02 imposed an affirmative obligation on Highland to update the list of Dual Employees and their respective Allocation Percentages, or to unilaterally adjust the “Actual Costs.” The literal wording of these provisions does not support such an obligation. Under the Advisors’ interpretation of the PRA, Highland would have been obligated to invoke Section 4.02 (which is itself dependent on Section 2.02) on the Advisors’ behalf and to adjust the Advisors’ monthly payments as Dual Employees were terminated, or as changes were made in their compensation or Allocation Percentages. But again, that is simply not what the PRAs provide. The PRAs use the words the “Parties may agree to modify the terms” when assigning the obligation under Section 2.02, which the preamble defines as both Highland and the Advisors. Further, Section 4.02 requires “the Party requesting modification” to notify “the other Party.” Notably, Section 4.02 does not put this obligation solely on Highland as it uses “Party” to refer to either party to the contract, whereas it uses “HCMLP” specifically when assigning obligations to Highland elsewhere in the PRAs. The court concludes that the unambiguous language put no unilateral obligation on Highland to amend the PRAs to reflect changes in Dual Employees, but rather on both the parties to negotiate such amendments.

ii. Even if the PRAs Were Ambiguous, Extrinsic Evidence Supports a Fixed Payment Interpretation

As stated above, the court concludes that the PRAs are not ambiguous, and that the only reasonable interpretation of the PRAs is they contemplate a fixed monthly payment. In fact, the only aspects of the PRAs that give the court any pause regarding ambiguity are as follow: (a) the title of the PRAs (i.e., Payroll Reimbursement Agreement—suggesting an intention to reimburse payroll costs); and (b) the fact that there was a list of employees attached as Exhibit A. Why use the term “reimbursement” or attach a list of employees if these words/concepts were not really dispositive of anything? If these two aspects of the PRAs make them ambiguous, then the court is required to consider the wording of the contract in the light of the surrounding circumstances, in order to ascertain the meaning the agreements, as might be given by a reasonably intelligent person acquainted with all operative usages, and knowing all of the circumstances prior to and contemporaneous with the making of the agreements. See Watkins v. Petro-Search, 689 F.2d at 538.

The Findings of Fact set out a plethora of evidence that established that the parties always contemplated fixed amounts being used to pay Highland for providing front-office services to the Advisors. This evidence included, among other things: (1) Mr. Klos credibly testifying that the PRAs, and Exhibit A’s, were created to reflect payments, in conjunction with the other Agreements, that equaled the annual amounts that Mr. Dondero wanted transferred to Highland after the 2017/2018 Annual Review to deal with Highland's cash liquidity problems (recall that prior to 2018, Highland provided sub-advisory services to the Advisors for free and Highland was facing an imminent loss of its Acis sub-advisory fees); (2) Mr. Waterhouse testifying that he was aware that four of the Dual Employees had been terminated at the signing of the PRAs, yet did not seek to update the Dual Employee allocations on the Exhibit A's at any point to reflect this; (3) employees and officers of the Advisors received Monthly Headcount Reports from Highland, detailing the hiring and termination of employees, including the Dual Employees during the relevant period; (3) the Exhibit A's were never updated, even though Dual Employees were terminated over time, and no one was ever asked to update them; (4) Mr. Waterhouse, as the Advisors' Treasurer, had knowledge of Dual Employees being terminated or otherwise leaving Highland, and continued to approve payments under the PRAs on 35 separate occasions; (5) Mr. Klos communicated with Mr. Waterhouse in January 2020, during which Mr. Klos confirmed to Mr. Waterhouse that the Agreements were "flat" amount payments and the same amounts had been paid since the PRAs were signed; and (6) no request for an amendment to the PRAs was made through November 2020 (except for the 2018 PRA Amendments—pursuant to which $2.5 million extra was paid to Highland on account of the PRAs, even though five more employees on the Exhibit A lists had left Highland since execution of the PRAs).

In summary, this extrinsic evidence further supports a conclusion that the PRAs were fixed rate contracts, if the PRAs should be determined to be ambiguous. This extrinsic evidence reveals that the Advisors were aware Dual Employees were being terminated, made no request for an amendment to the PRAs, and continued to make payments under the PRAs until Mr. Waterhouse, under the direction of Mr. Dondero, stopped making payments in November 2020.

Given that the court has concluded that the PRAs were fixed rate arrangements, the Advisors have failed to meet their burden of proving overpayments under the PRAs.

iii. Highland Did Not Fail to Negotiate in Good Faith

The court noted above that Section 2.02 of the PRAs included language that required the parties to negotiate in good faith when a party notifies the other party that it is requesting a modification, pursuant to Section 4.02, before the last business day of the calendar month. The Advisors allege that Highland never negotiated in good faith when the Advisors supposedly made Highland aware (through Highland's consultant, Mr. Fred Caruso) that overpayments under the PRAs may have been made, and Mr. Caruso told the Advisors that an amendment could violate the automatic stay in bankruptcy.

The court has already found and concluded that: (a) the PRAs unambiguously created a fixed amount contract; (b) Highland was under no duty to unilaterally modify the PRAs if it knew that Dual Employees were terminated; and (c) the Advisors failed to provide sufficient evidence that they made a formal request of Highland to modify the fixed monthly amount, pursuant to the terms of the PRAs.<sup>113</sup> Thus, the Advisors never triggered Highland's obligation under Section 2.02. Specifically, without a formal notification/request of the type set forth in Section 4.02 of the PRAs, Highland's obligation to negotiate in good faith could not exist. Discussing potential overpayments with a third-party consultant (Mr. Caruso)—assuming such overpayments could even be possible—is not enough. Additionally, if the automatic stay was a valid concern of the Advisors (potentially impairing their ability to exercise contractual rights under the PRA), there were options available to them, including filing a motion for relief from stay to exercise termination rights (termination was permissible under the PRAs, with or without cause, on 60-day notice)<sup>114</sup> or filing a motion to compel rejection of the PRAs pursuant to Bankruptcy Code section 365.

<sup>113</sup> The Advisors, in their pleadings, claimed Mr. Waterhouse made such a request in late 2019 in his conversations with Mr. Caruso. However, Mr. Waterhouse testified that they talked about overpayments possibly being made, but that he never recalled requesting amendment of the PRAs.

As such, the court concludes that Highland did not fail to negotiate in good faith under Section 2.02.

iv. Highland's Waiver Defense to Overpayments under the PRAs

Alternatively, if the PRAs should be construed to have contemplated variable amounts—that should have changed automatically as Dual Employees departed, as opposed to fixed rate amounts—Highland argues that the preset monthly amounts listed in the PRAs were controlling until the Advisors made a request under Section 2.02 to change those monthly amounts, and that the Advisors waived any right to overpayments by not making such a request or objecting to payments under the PRAs for all the many months during which Dual Employees were being terminated.

“Under Texas case law, waiver is the intentional relinquishment of a known right or the intentional conduct inconsistent with claiming that right.” Sedona Contracting, Inc. v. Ford, Powell & Carson, Inc., 995 S.W.2d 192, 195 (Tex. App. 1999). The elements of waiver include: (1) an existing right, benefit, or advantage held by a party; (2) the party’s actual or constructive knowledge of its existence; and (3) the party’s actual intent to relinquish the right or intentional conduct inconsistent with the right (which can be inferred from the conduct). See id.; see also Ulico Cas. Co. v. Allied Pilots Ass’n, 262 S.W.3d 773, 778 (Tex. 2008); Tenneco Inc. v. Enter. Products Co., 925 S.W.2d 640, 643 (Tex. 1996) (“The affirmative defense of waiver can be

Waiver “results as a legal consequence from some act or conduct of the party against whom it operates” and is “essentially unilateral in character,” meaning “no act of the party in whose favor it is made is necessary to complete it.” Shields Ltd. P'ship v. Bradberry, 526 S.W.3d 471, 485 (Tex. 2017) (quotation marks omitted). “Silence or inaction, for so long a period as to show an intention to yield the known right, is also enough to prove waiver.” Tenneco, 925 S.W.2d at 643.

While waiver is ordinarily a question of fact, when the surrounding facts and circumstances are undisputed, the question becomes one of law. Motor Vehicle Bd. of Tex. Dep't of Transp. v. El Paso Indep. Auto. Dealers Ass'n, Inc., 1 S.W.3d 108, 111 (Tex. 1999); Tenneco, 925 S.W.2d at 643.

The first element is met here. Pursuant to Sections 2.02 and 4.02 of the PRAs, the Advisors had the right to seek a change to the fixed monthly rate if they believed a change was appropriate.

There is no dispute over the second element. The PRAs were signed by Mr. Waterhouse as an officer of both Highland and the Advisors. Further, the Advisors have never disputed having knowledge of Sections 2.02 and 4.02 under the PRAs during the relevant period.

The third and final element is the most pertinent under the analysis for waiver—the question being whether the actions or inactions of the Advisors were sufficient to show an intention to relinquish their right to modify the PRAs. Relevant here: (a) the Advisors (through their officers Mr. Waterhouse, Mr. Norris, and Ms. Thedford) were kept up to date from before the PRAs were signed until after November 30, 2020, by Monthly Headcount Reports created by Highland and distributed to these officers; (b) the Advisors signed the PRAs on May 1, 2018, at which time, the Advisors knew four of the twenty-five Dual Employees under the attached Exhibit A’s had been terminated; (c) the Advisors entered into the PRA Amendments in December 2018, when they had knowledge that nine of the twenty-five Dual Employees had been terminated—instead of attempting to amend under Sections 2.02 and 4.02, to reduce the monthly payments, to reflect the reduced number of Dual Employees, the Advisors paid Highland an additional sum of $2.5 million and never requested an amendment thereafter; and (d) on the Petition Date in October 2019, the Advisors were aware that fourteen of the twenty-five Dual Employees had been terminated; yet, from the Petition Date to November 30, 2020, the Advisors never made a request to modify the PRAs under Sections 2.02 and 4.02 and continued to pay the fixed amounts, despite knowledge that over half the Dual Employees had been terminated.

In summary, the Advisors did not exercise their alleged right to correct the monthly flat amount, to account for alleged overpayments, for almost three years (from the time the contract was signed until November 30, 2020). Mr. Waterhouse authorized payments under the PRAs for almost three years—i.e., thirty-five times.

The court notes again that Mr. Waterhouse, when asked directly, did not recall ever requesting that the PRAs be amended in his conversations with Mr. Caruso and also failed to ever make a request to amend to Highland's new Independent Board. The Advisors do not claim to have made a request for amendment to the PRAs, despite claiming that Highland failed to negotiate in good faith when Mr. Caruso allegedly suggested the automatic stay might prevent amendments to the PRAs.

The waiver here cannot be remedied by the general non-waiver provisions in the PRAs.<sup>115</sup> A nonwaiver provision in a contract that purports to absolutely bar waiver in the most general of terms might be wholly ineffective and itself can be waived. Shields Ltd. P'ship v. Bradberry, 526

S.W.3d 471, 484 (Tex. 2017) (while contrarily noting that specific non-waiver provisions noting specific actions or inaction that will not result in waiver are wholly enforceable). Nothing in the general non-waiver provisions in the PRAs provided any specificity as to the above actions or nonactions of the Advisors regarding amendment to the PRAs that would prevent waiver.

The Advisors never exercised their rights under Sections 2.02 and 4.02 of the PRAs and, indeed, acted counter to those rights by continuing to make payments without requesting amendment to the fixed monthly amounts from the time that the PRAs were signed until November 30, 2020, while simultaneously having knowledge that many of the Dual Employees were gone. Accordingly, the court concludes that Highland has met its burden of proof that the Advisors waived any amounts of alleged overpayments that might have been properly remedied by amendment of the monthly rates under Sections 2.02 and 4.02.

v. Highland's Defense to Overpayments under the Voluntary Payment Rule

Highland also raised the voluntary payment rule as a defense to the Advisors claims of overpayments. Under the voluntary payment rule, “money voluntarily paid on a claim of right, with full knowledge of all the facts, in the absence of fraud, duress, or compulsion, cannot be recovered back merely because the party at the time of payment was ignorant of or mistook the law as to his liability.” Miga v. Jensen, 299 S.W.3d 98, 103 (Tex. 2009). “The rule is a defense to claims asserting unjust enrichment; that is, when a plaintiff sues for restitution claiming a payment constitutes unjust enrichment, a defendant may respond with the voluntary-payment rule as a defense.” XTO Energy Inc. v. Goodwin, 584 S.W.3d 481, 497 (Tex. App. 2017). Highland contends that the Advisors overpayment claims under the PRAs are essentially ones for unjust enrichment and, thus, the voluntary payment rule is a proper defense to such claims.

In response, the Advisors contend that the voluntary payment rule cannot be asserted in regard to a breach of contract claim, which is what the Advisors contend they are claiming (i.e., not unjust enrichment). Texas case law cited by the Advisors states, “although the voluntary-payment rule may have been widely used by parties and some Texas courts at one time, its scope has diminished as the rule’s equitable policy concerns have been addressed through statutory or other legal remedies.” BMG Direct Mktg., Inc. v. Peake, 178 S.W.3d 763, 771 (Tex. 2005). “Like other equitable claims and defenses, an adequate legal remedy may render equitable claims of unjust enrichment and equitable defenses of voluntary-payment unavailable.” Id. at 770. While not completely abrogated, the rule today has only “limited application in Texas jurisprudence.” Id. at 771.

The court need not decide the scope and applicability of the voluntary payment rule to the disputes under the PRAs at this time. The court has already found and concluded that the PRAs are unambiguous and created a fixed amount payment arrangement. The court has also found and concluded that, even if the PRAs were ambiguous, the extrinsic evidence supports the interpretation that the PRAs created a fixed amount payment arrangement. Further, the court has found and concluded that, even if the PRAs were not intended to be fixed amount payment arrangements, the Advisors waived their right to modify by continuing to make payments with knowledge of terminated Dual Employees for three years.

D. The Advisors’ Claims under the SSAs

i. The Advisors’ Claim for Breach of Contract under the SSAs

Turning to the SSAs—which were less of a focus at Trial than the PRAs—the Advisors claim that Highland breached the SSAs by failing to perform certain services owing to the Advisors, including legal and compliance services, thereunder. The Advisors contend that on or around July 2020, Highland instructed its employees to cease providing certain services to the Advisors which Highland believed were adverse to the interests of Highland. The Advisors maintain that this forced the Advisors to retain two new employees to “cover” for such lost services, resulting in $425,000 in damages. The Advisors also contend that they were forced to pay Highland $1 million for legal services that Highland was no longer providing, resulting in $1.3 million in payments post-petition for services that Highland failed to provide. The Advisors seek damages for overpayments and breaches of the SSAs totaling $1,725,000.

As stated above, the elements of breach of contract under Texas law are: (1) the existence of a valid contract; (2) performance or tendered performance by the plaintiff; (3) breach of the contract by the defendant; and (4) damages to the plaintiff as a result of the defendant's breach. Williams, 884 F.3d at 244.

Highland argues that the Advisors have not met their burden of proving the elements of breach or damages. Highland argues that the evidence, to the contrary, shows that Highland continued to perform under the SSAs—not the least of which was the evidence of the Advisors’ continuous representations to the Retail Board that the quality of services under the agreements with Highland had not deteriorated.

As discussed extensively in the court’s Findings of Fact above, the Advisors made numerous repeated representations to the Retail Board that performance under the SSAs continued as normal following July 2020—despite the Advisors now alleging that legal and compliance services were withheld.

To recap, in August 2020, the Advisors represented to the Retail Board that “there had been no issues or disruptions in services as a result of the HCMLP bankruptcy matter” and that the Advisors believed “the current shared services being provided are generally consistent with the level of services that historically have been received.”<sup>116</sup> In September and October 2020, the Advisors continued their representations that shared services continued to be properly provided. During a two-day meeting of the Retail Board, on September 16-17, 2020, the Advisors told the Retail Board that they do “not expect that the level and quality of services would change in the immediate term, and Mr. Norris stated he was “comfortable with the level and quality of services being provided and has not seen any issue with the conflicts process.”<sup>117</sup> On October 9, 2020, the Advisors told the Retail Board there were “contingency plans” being formulated but “[i]n the interim the plan is to continue with the existing services.”<sup>118</sup> On October 13, 2020, Mr. Norris represented to the Retail Board that “all operations continued in the normal course [sic] there had been no material impact on the day-to-day operations of the Funds”.<sup>119</sup> On October 28, 2020, the Advisors continued to reassure the Retail Board by saying Highland and the Advisors were working on a “seamless transition” and the “quality and level” of services had not been negatively impacted by Highland’s bankruptcy.<sup>120</sup> A week after that, the Retail Board was told there “has not been any disruption to the services provided to the Funds by HCMLP pursuant to the Shared Services Agreement”.<sup>121</sup> The Advisors continued to communicate with the Retail Board in December 2020 and January 2021 but never made any representation Highland had provided any less quality or level of services than it had previously under the SSAs.

Based on their own representations to the Retail Board, the court finds and concludes that the Advisors have failed to meet their burden for proving the element of breach by Highland for a lack of services provided under the SSAs.

Further, based on those same representations and no other evidence showing otherwise, the Advisors did not meet their burden of showing damages as a result of the alleged breaches. The Advisors failed to show that the “loss” from employing two new employees to provide certain legal services were caused by Highland’s failure to perform under the SSAs.

ii. The Advisors’ Claim for Overpayment under the SSAs

Finally, the Advisors also have brought a claim for overpayments under the SSAs, asserting that they overpaid Highland by $1 million for legal services that Highland stopped providing. This claim, like the Advisors’ breach of contract claim, relies on the court concluding that the Advisors have satisfied their burden of showing Highland did not perform under the SSAs. Relying on the analysis above, the court concludes that the Advisors have not satisfied their burden of showing Highland failed to provide any services contracted for under the SSAs and, thus, cannot succeed on their claim for overpayment.

iii. Highland’s Waiver Defense to the Advisors’ Claims under the SSAs

If the court were to find that Highland had breached the SSAs, Highland alternatively pleaded the defense of waiver, similar as it did with regard to the Advisors’ claims under the PRAs.

The elements of waiver, again, include: (1) an existing right, benefit, or advantage held by a party; (2) the party’s actual or constructive knowledge of its existence; and (3) the party’s actual intent to relinquish the right or intentional conduct inconsistent with the right (which can be inferred from the conduct). Sedona Contracting, Inc., 995 S.W.2d at 195.

The Advisors don’t dispute that they signed the SSAs and were aware of the terms of the SSAs.

Again, similar to waiver under the PRAs, the third element requires the most analysis here. The Advisors have admitted that Mr. Waterhouse oversaw and authorized all payments made under the SSAs. The Advisors never made objections to making such payments under the SSAs as they were making them. Further, the Advisors never raised any objection to the payments with Highland to put them on notice. In fact, quite the opposite, the Advisors made representations to the Retail Board, detailed above, that everything was running smoothly with regard to the services provided under the SSAs. The Advisors knowingly and intentionally made payments every month under the SSAs until November 30, 2020 but decided not to raise the issue at any point with Highland until they stopped paying under the SSAs.

The Advisors' conduct is inconsistent with asserting rights under the SSA. The Advisors hired two new employees to perform certain services under the SSAs, allegedly indicating that they thought the SSAs were being breached. Yet, the Advisors continued authorizing the same payments to Highland. The Advisors did not tell Highland that it believed required services were not being provided and did not assert an administrative expense claim at the time.

If silence were not enough, as detailed above, the Advisors made numerous representations to the Retail Board after the supposed breach that everything was operating as normal under the SSAs, and Highland's service were of the same "quality and level" as always.

The Advisors conducted themselves intentionally in a manner inconsistent with asserting their claims of breach of the SSAs. Accordingly, the court concludes the Advisors have waived their claims resulting from the payments under the SSAs.

D. Highlands' Breach of Contract Claims Relating to All Four Agreements

Finally, Highland has claimed breaches of contract by the Advisors under all four of the Agreements due to nonpayment under each Agreement for certain months, starting in November 2020. The months in which Highland claims nonpayment are as follows:

Agreement	Months of Nonpayment	Amounts Unpaid
HCMFA SSA	November 2020, December 2020, and January 2021	$924,000 <sup>122</sup>
HCMFA PRA	December 2020 and January 2021	$832,000 ($416,000/month)
NexPoint SSA	December 2020 and January 2021	$336,000 ($168,000/month)
NexPoint PRA	December 2020 and January 2021	$504,000 ($252,000/month)

Highland also sought damages relating to the nonpayment of fees under its Shared Service Agreement with NREA. NREA is a wholly owned subsidiary of NexPoint. The SSA with NREA apparently had a monthly fee of $80,000 every month, the payment on which also ceased in November 2020. While there was evidence to support this arrangement existed (for example, Mr. Waterhouse confirmed there was an SSA between Highland and NREA),<sup>123</sup> the NREA SSA itself was not submitted into evidence and NREA is not listed as a defendant to this Adversary Proceeding. The court concludes that, even though NREA is apparently a subsidiary of NexPoint, no sufficient theory of liability has been argued as to why NexPoint should be held liable for an agreement Highland made with NREA. As such, the court will not grant relief related to the alleged NREA SSA in connection with this Trial.

The burden of proving the elements of breach of contract for its claims asserted now switches to Highland. As stated above, the elements are: (1) the existence of a valid contract; (2) performance or tendered performance by the plaintiff; (3) breach of the contract by the defendant; and (4) damages to the plaintiff as a result of the defendant's breach. Williams, 884 F.3d at 244 (internal citations omitted).

Element one is quickly satisfied as neither party disputes the existence of valid contracts here.

The court relies on its Findings of Facts and previous Conclusions of Law to satisfy element two. As stated by the court above, the PRAs unambiguously established a fixed payment arrangement that was not variable based on the termination of certain Dual Employees. The remaining Dual Employees continued to provide front-office services and, thus, Highland performed under the PRAs. Further, Highland clearly performed under the SSAs at all times according to the Advisors' own representations to the third-party Retail Board that Highland was sufficiently performing at all times. The representations were constant and continued from July 2020 through early 2021, the entire period in which the Advisors now claim legal and compliance services were not being provided.

The third element is uncontested. The Advisors do not contest that they stopped making payments under all of the Agreements in November 2020 at the direction of Mr. Dondero.

The last element, damages, is also present and easily calculable. The nonpayment by the Advisors establishes Highland's alleged compensatory damages. Highland's damages are: (a) the amounts that were not paid in December 2020 and January 2021 under all four Agreement, plus for November 2020 in the case of the HCMFA SSA.

The court concludes that Highland has met its burden on breach of contract by the Advisors on each of the Agreements due to their nonpayment of amounts required.

E. Do Equities Matter at All Here?

This court often states that “facts matter”. Occasionally, facts suggest a certain equitable result contrary to what the law requires. This can sometimes make a court wrestle with a result. Are the Advisors being treated inequitably or unfairly here—by having to pay a fixed amount under the PRAs when the number of employees at Highland dropped precipitously during the term of the PRAs?

Putting aside for a moment the fact that the Advisors had a right to seek modification of the PRAs—a fact about which they profess confusion, because of the Bankruptcy Code’s automatic stay—here are a few facts that detract from any equitable arguments that the Advisors might have.

First, prior to 2018—for six years—Highland provided “front-office” sub-advisory services to the Advisors for free. For free. Perhaps this is the real reason why folks were not too worried about potential overpayments under the new PRAs that were executed in May 2018—at least not until the Advisors and Highland began their corporate divorce. Sounds like the Advisors had been getting a windfall.

Additionally, Mr. Seery credibly testified (and no one ever disagreed) that the SSAs (in contrast to the PRAs) were money-losers for Highland. The SSAs were unprofitable for Highland. If the PRAs were profitable, well, that arguably balanced things out a bit.

The fact is that the Agreements were not arms-length agreements, and this cannot be overlooked here. They were intercompany agreements—i.e., entered into between parties that were friendly and affiliated, back at their time of execution. The arrangements were all about the perceived needs of the Highland complex at a time when there was no bankruptcy. The evidence suggests that everyone was just fine with the agreements for years. But the parties are now hostile and disagree on just about everything.

The fact is that the Agreements, by their terms, could have been renegotiated or terminated by either party during the bankruptcy case. But the Advisors would have had to file a motion to lift stay and ask court permission. This would not necessarily have been a good strategy for them, because the Advisors and Mr. Dondero thought/hoped he might gain back control of Highland eventually (and, therefore, would have the whole complex back under his control). Thus, it might not make sense to change the status quo on the Agreements. In any event, in such a scenario, the court might have denied relief from the stay (depending on the merits of arguments made). Or, the court might have granted relief to the Advisors, in which case Highland might have decided it had to abruptly liquidate—due to a loss of a steady cash stream—which might have caused an abrupt departure of employees or, at best, an abrupt transition of employees away from Highland to the Advisors or an entity with whom the Advisors would contract (such as Skyview). This abrupt transition might not have been pretty.

Equities? Ultimately, the court has interpreted the contracts here (and other evidence—in case the Agreements should be construed as ambiguous) as it thinks is required. But again, these were not arms-length contracts. They were contracts among insiders, made at a time when everyone was friendly. Made at a time when Highland needed cash, and at a time when Highland had been providing free front-office services to the Advisors for years. Free services when—meanwhile--the Advisors were parties to investment contracts with Retail Funds, whereby the Advisors were no doubt earning many millions of dollars of fees therefrom for themselves (considering that they were managing many billions of dollars of assets). If equities matter at all here, the result reached here seems entirely fair.

IV. DAMAGES COMPUTATION FOR JUDGMENT

The court will grant damages in favor of Highland of: (i) $924,000 for unpaid fees under the HCMFA SSA for November 2020, December 2020, and January 2021; (ii) $832,000 for unpaid amounts under the HCMFA PRA for December 2020 and January 2021; (iii) $336,000 for unpaid fees under the NexPoint SSA for December 2020 and January 2021; and (iv) $504,000 for unpaid amounts under the NexPoint PRA for December 2020 and January 2021.

All relief requested by the Advisors for administrative expense claims for (i) alleged overpayments and (2) alleged breaches of contract by Highland under the Agreements are denied.

Additionally, Highland has asserted that it is entitled to costs and expenses, including attorneys' fees, in connection with prosecuting its claims and defenses against the Advisors. No evidence was presented on the shifting of expenses, including attorney's fees. The parties agreed in their Joint Pretrial Order that "[t]he quantification of any attorney's fees awarded in this Adversary Proceeding, subject to defenses, will be handled through post-trial motion practice under Rule 54(d)(2), and no Party need present evidence on any attorney fee claim at the trial of this Adversary Proceeding."<sup>124</sup> Accordingly, Highland may file its post-trial motion forthwith. Unless the parties otherwise agree, Highland's post-trial motion for fees, costs, and expenses is due within 21 days of entry of these Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law; with a Responses of the Advisors due 21 days thereafter, and any reply do 10 days thereafter. The parties may seek a hearing thereafter.

IN THE UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT
FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS
DALLAS DIVISION

In re:	§
	§	Chapter 11
HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.,	§
	§	Case No. 19-34054-sgj11
Debtor.	§

APPLICATION FOR ALLOWANCE OF ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSE CLAIM

TO THE HONORABLE STACEY G.C. JERNIGAN, U.S. BANKRUPTCY JUDGE:

COME NOW Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. (“HCMFA”) and NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (“NexPoint,” and with HCMFA, the “Advisors”), creditors and parties in interest in the above-captioned bankruptcy case (the “Bankruptcy Case”), and file this their Application for Allowance of Administrative Expense Claim (the “Application”), respectfully stating as follows:

I. JURISDICTION AND VENUE

1. The Court has jurisdiction to consider this matter pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 157 and 1334. This is a core proceeding pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 157(b).

2. Venue is proper in this District pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1408 and 1409.

II. BACKGROUND

A. SHARED SERVICES AGREEMENTS

3. On or about February 8, 2013, HCMFA entered into that certain Second Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement (each such agreement, a “SSA”) with Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the “Debtor”). On or about the same date, NexPoint also entered into a SSA with the Debtor.

4. Under the SSAs, the Debtor agreed to provide the Advisors with certain services, including “all of the (i) finance and accounting services, (ii) human resources services, (iii) marketing services, (iv) legal services, (v) corporate services, (vi) information technology services, and (vii) operations services ....”

5. The SSAs contain the following detailed cost allocation provisions:

The Actual Cost of any item relating to any Shared Services or Shared Assets shall be allocated based on the Allocation Percentage. For purposes of this Agreement, “Allocation Percentage” means:

(a) To the extent 100% of such item is demonstrably attributable to HCMFA, 100% of the Actual Cost of such item shall be allocated to HCMFA as agreed by HCMFA;

(b) To the extent a specific percentage of use of such item can be determined (e.g., 70% for HCMLP and 30% for HCMFA), that specific percentage of the Actual Cost of such item will be allocated to HCMLP or HCMFA, as applicable and as agreed by HCMFA; and

(c) All other portions of the Actual Cost of any item that cannot be allocated pursuant to clause (a) or (b) above shall be allocated between HCMLP and HCMFA in such proportion as is agreed in good faith between the parties.

6. “‘Actual Cost’ means, with respect to any period [under the SSA], one hundred percent (100%) of the actual costs and expenses caused by, incurred or otherwise arising from or relating to (i) the Shared Services and (ii) the Shared Assets, in each case during such period.”

7. In the event a party wishes to make changes to the shared services under the SSA, “The parties will negotiate in good faith the terms upon which a Service Provider would be willing to provide such New Shared Services to [the Advisors].”

B. PAYROLL REIMBURSEMENT AGREEMENTS

8. On or about May 1, 2018, HCMFA entered into that certain Payroll Reimbursement Agreement (each such agreement a “PRA”) with the Debtor. On or about the same date, NexPoint also entered into a PRA with the Debtor.

9. Under the PRAs, the Debtor is entitled to seek reimbursement from the Advisors “for the cost of certain employees who are dual employees of [the Debtor and the Advisors] and who provide advice to registered investment companies advised by [the Advisors] under the direction and supervision of [the Debtor] ....”

10. The amount of such reimbursement is based on an actual cost allocation formula as follows: “The Actual Cost of any Dual Employee relating to the investment advisory services provided to a Fund shall be allocated based on the Allocation Percentage. For purposes of this Agreement, “Allocation Percentage” means the Parties’ good faith determination of the percentage of each Dual Employee’s aggregate hours worked during a quarter that were spent on” certain matters set forth in the PRA.

11. “‘Actual Cost’ means, with respect to any period [under the PRA], the actual costs and expenses caused by, incurred or otherwise arising from or relating to each Dual Employee, in each case during such period. Absent any changes to employee reimbursement, as set forth in Section 2.02, such costs and expenses are equal to $252,000 per month.”

12. Section 2.02 provides the mechanism to modify employee reimbursement and also provides, “The Parties will negotiate in good faith the terms of such modification.”

C. BANKRUPTCY FILING AND SUBSEQUENT EVENTS

13. On October 16, 2019 (the “Petition Date”), the Debtor filed a voluntary petition for relief under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code (11 U.S.C. §§ 101 et seq.) in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware, thereby initiating the Bankruptcy Case. On or about December 4, 2019, the Bankruptcy Case was transferred to this Court.

14. On January 9, 2020, the Bankruptcy Court entered its Order Approving Settlement with Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors Regarding Governance of the Debtor and Procedures for Operations in the Ordinary Course (Dkt. No. 339, the “Settlement Order”).

15. In connection with the Settlement Order, an independent board (the “Board”) was appointed to manage the Debtor’s general partner, Strand Advisors, Inc. (“Strand”). Its members are John S. Dubel, James P. Seery, Jr., and Russel F. Nelms. Several months later, the Board, with court approval, appointed Mr. Seery as the Debtor’s CEO and CRO.

16. As the Bankruptcy Case progressed, the Court expressed concerns about the Debtor’s employees providing certain services to the non-debtor Advisors. As a result, beginning around July 2020, Mr. Seery directed the Debtor to cease providing services to the Advisors as otherwise contemplated under the SSAs and the PRAs.

17. Nevertheless, the Advisors continued to pay for those services under the SSAs and the PRAs consistent with historical practice, despite the fact that the Debtor is not providing all the required services in return. For example, upon information and belief, the Debtor has booked net income from the SSAs of approximately $10 million since the Petition Date. Given that the SSAs represent actual-cost sharing agreements, said net revenue represents Advisor overpayments under the SSAs—the purpose of the SSAs is not to make a profit. At the same time, the Advisors have incurred significant additional expense obtaining services elsewhere that the Debtor was required to provide under the SSAs.

18. There have also been similar overpayments under the PRAs. There is a schedule attached to the PRAs of investment professionals whose compensation would be reimbursed by the Advisors. But this schedule is incredibly outdated. It includes many individuals, for example, who departed the Debtor before the Petition Date or during the Bankruptcy Case. As a result, the Advisors estimate that, since the Petition Date, they have overpaid under the PRA's more than $9 million.

19. The Advisors have brought these issues to Mr. Seery's attention, and in accordance with the Debtor's obligations under the SSAs and the PRAs, the Advisors expect Mr. Seery to negotiate in good faith. Discovery will be necessary to determine the precise amount of the overpayments under the SSAs and PRAs.

III. ARGUMENTS AND AUTHORITIES

20. Administrative expenses generally include "the actual, necessary costs and expenses of preserving the estate ...." 11 U.S.C. § 503(b)(1)(a). However, the list of administrative expense claims set forth in section 503(b) is not exclusive or exhaustive. In re Imperial Bev. Group, LLC, 457 B.R. 490, 500 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2011) (citing various cases for the proposition that "the administrative expenses listed in the subsections of § 503(b)—preceded by 'including'—are not exclusive"); 11 U.S.C. § 102(3) ("In this title ... 'includes' and 'including' are not limiting ....").

21. Post-petition, pre-rejection performance under an executory contract gives rise to an administrative expense claim. See NLRB v. Bildisco & Bildisco, 465 U.S. 513, 531 (1984) (superseded by statute on other grounds) ("If the debtor-in-possession elects to continue to receive benefits from the other party to an executory contract pending a decision to reject or assume the contract, the debtor-in-possession is obligated to pay for the reasonable value of those services ...."); In re MCS/Tex. Direct, Inc., 02-40229-DML-11, 2004 Bankr. LEXIS 379, *11-12 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. March 30, 2004) (“Even if the contract is rejected, the contract party is entitled to payment for postpetition value received by a debtor.”).

22. Similarly, a post-petition, pre-rejection breach of contract gives rise to an administrative expense claim. See In re United Trucking Serv., 851 F.2d 159, 162 (6th Cir. 1988) (“the damages under the breached lease covenant, to the extent that they occurred post-petition, provided benefits to the bankrupt estate and were property accorded priority under § 503”); Shapiro v. Meridian Auto. Sys. (Del.) (In re Lorro, Inc.), 391 B.R. 760, 766 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 2008) (“the term ‘administrative expense’ has been construed to include claims based on tort, trademark infringement, patent infringement, and breach of contract”) (citing, inter alia, Reading Co. v. Brown, 391 U.S. 471 (1968)).

23. Here, under the SSAs and the RPAs, the Advisors have paid for services they did not receive and for salaries of employees who no longer exist. The Debtor, on the other hand, collected the Advisors’ payments without providing anything in exchange or incurring any actual costs. While the Advisors continued to perform under the SSAs and the RPAs, the Debtor breached its obligations under those same agreements. Accordingly, the Advisors are entitled to an administrative expense claim for the total overpayments, which, upon information and belief, total approximately $14 million. Because the accounting information related to such costs and expenses are within the exclusive control of the Debtor, discovery will be necessary to determine the precise amount of the overpayments under the SSAs and PRAs.

IV. PRAYER

WHEREFORE, PREMISES CONSIDERED, the Funds and Advisors respectfully request that the Court enter an order granting this Application, awarding them an administrative expense claim in an amount to be determined at trial (which is expected to be approximately $14 million), and providing them such other and further relief to which they show themselves to be entitled, at law or in equity.

RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED this 24th day of January, 2021.

RULES

Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7008.....	3
-----------------------------	---

Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the “Debtor”), by and through its undersigned counsel, hereby files this objection (this “Objection”) to the Application for Allowance of Administrative Expense Claim [Docket No. 1826] (the “Application”) filed by Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. (“HCMFA”) and NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (“NexPoint,” and with HCMFA, the “Claimants” or “Advisors”).<sup>1</sup> In support of this Objection, the Debtor represents as follows:

I. PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. The Application should be summarily denied on several grounds. The Claimants are owned and controlled by Mr. James Dondero (“Mr. Dondero”).<sup>2</sup> As alleged in the pending Complaints (as defined below) filed by the Debtor against Mr. Dondero, HCMFA, NexPoint, and certain other entities owned and/or controlled by Mr. Dondero (collectively, the “Dondero Entities”), Mr. Dondero and the Dondero Entities have been actively interfering with and impeding the Debtor’s business and its reorganization under the confirmed Plan and have engaged in a coordinated litigation campaign to harass the Debtor and deplete its resources,<sup>3</sup> in each case to the substantial prejudice of the Debtor’s estate and its stakeholders. The Application is another improper attempt by Dondero-controlled entities to obstruct the Debtor’s reorganization and harass the estate. The Debtor performed under the applicable Agreements, and the Advisors know that.

2. After remaining silent for more than six months<sup>4</sup> while the Debtor allegedly failed to provide services and grossly overcharged the Advisors under the parties' Agreements, and having no prepetition claims against the Debtor, the Advisors seek to manufacture a purported administrative expense priority claim by creating "facts" and rewriting the Agreements, which have been terminated by the Debtor. There will be no credible dispute that NexPoint and HCMFA stood by idly without ever (i) declaring a default under the Agreements; (ii) notifying the Debtor of any problem with the Debtor's services or billings; (iii) withholding payments under the Agreements (until notice of the termination of the Agreements); or (iv) seeking judicial relief regarding such matters. In fact, as described below, the Advisors wrote five separate letters to the Debtor in late 2020 and complained about a litany of items but made only one generalized comment about the services being provided. In short, the Advisors waived any right to dispute the sufficiency of the Debtor's services or the amounts payable to the Debtor under the Agreements.

3. Independently, the Advisors' purported overpayments to the Debtor are barred from recovery under the voluntary payment rule under Texas common law. As explained by the Texas Supreme Court, "[t]he voluntary payment rule precludes a party from 'pay[ing] out his money, leading the other party to act as though the matter were closed, and then be in the position to change his mind and invoke the aid of the courts to get it back.'"<sup>5</sup>

4. Accordingly, the Application should be denied by the Court.<sup>6</sup>

<sup>4</sup> The Advisors allege that in July 2020, "Mr. Seery directed the Debtor to cease providing services to the Advisors as otherwise contemplated under the" applicable agreements (Application, ¶ 16) yet the Advisors sought no relief at any time and only filed the Application on January 24, 2021, on the eve of the Debtor's confirmation hearing.

II. JURISDICTION

5. The Court has jurisdiction to consider and determine this matter pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 157 and 1334. This is a core proceeding pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 157(b)(1) and (b)(2). Venue is proper before this Court pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1408 and 1409.

6. The Debtor confirms its consent, pursuant to Rule 7008 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure, to the entry of a final order.

III. BACKGROUND

7. On October 16, 2019 (the “Petition Date”), the Debtor filed a voluntary petition for relief under chapter 11 of title 11 of the United States Code (the “Bankruptcy Code”) in the Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware, Case No. 19-12239 (CSS) (the “Delaware Court”).

8. On October 29, 2019, the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors (the “Committee”) was appointed by the United States Trustee in the Delaware Court.

9. On December 4, 2019, the Delaware Court entered an order transferring venue of the Debtor’s bankruptcy case to this Court [Docket No. 186].<sup>7</sup>

10. On February 22, 2021, this Court entered the Order Confirming the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) and (ii) Granting Related Relief [Docket No. 1943] (the “Confirmation Order”), which confirmed the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) [Docket No. 1808] (as amended, the “Plan”).<sup>8</sup>

<sup>8</sup> The confirmed Plan included certain amendments filed on February 1, 2021. See Debtor’s Notice of Filing of Plan Supplement to the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified), Ex. B [Docket No. 1875].

11. The Debtor has continued in the possession of its property and has continued to operate and manage its business as a debtor-in-possession pursuant to sections 1107(a) and 1108 of the Bankruptcy Code. No trustee or examiner has been appointed in this chapter 11 case.

12. Each of the Advisors is owned and controlled, directly or indirectly, by Mr. Dondero.

13. The Debtor and NexPoint were parties to a Shared Services Agreement (“NexPoint SSA”) and a Payroll Reimbursement Agreement (“NexPoint PRA” and together with the NexPoint SSA, the “NexPoint Agreements”), each as amended or amended and restated from time to time.<sup>9</sup>

14. Likewise, the Debtor and HCMFA were parties to a Shared Services Agreement (“HCMFA SSA”) and a Payroll Reimbursement Agreement (“HCMFA PRA” and together with the HCMFA SSA, the “HCMFA Agreements”), each as amended or amended and restated from time to time. The NexPoint Agreements and the HCMFA Agreements (collectively, the “Agreements”) were terminated by the Debtor in accordance with their terms.

15. Neither of the Advisors has a prepetition claim against the Debtor. HCMFA’s proofs of claim (Claim Nos. 95 and 119) were expunged with HCMFA’s consent [Docket No. 1233]. Similarly, NexPoint’s proofs of claim (Claim Nos. 104 and 108) were also consensually expunged [Docket No. 1233].

16. At the Debtor’s request, Mr. Dondero resigned on or around October 9, 2020. Less than a week after his ouster, Mr. Dondero and the Advisors he owns and controls initiated their campaign against the Debtor. Thus, on October 16, 2020, the Advisors wrote to the Debtor and raised three issues, contending that:

<sup>9</sup> The Advisors assert that the Debtor and NexPoint entered into the applicable SSA on February 8, 2013, the same day the Debtor and HCMFA entered into a SSA. Application ¶3. This assertion is wrong as the Debtor and NexPoint entered into that certain Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement effective as of January 1, 2018.

- the Debtor had allegedly refused to permit its “employees to work on certain [unidentified] matters that jointly affect HCMLP and the Advisors” and that allegedly caused the Advisors to unnecessarily incur third-party costs;<sup>10</sup>
- if the Debtor terminated employees at the end of the year, the Debtor “will no longer be able to carry out its duties and responsibilities under the Agreements” (the “Prospective Complaint”); and
- the Debtor’s contemplated sale of certain assets held in CLOs could result in the loss of value, and the Advisors asked that no such assets be sold without their prior consent.

17. On November 24, 2020, the Advisors again wrote to the Debtor, this time only to reiterate their complaints about the Debtor’s sale of CLO assets and their demand that all such sales cease in the absence of the Advisors’ prior consent. In this letter, the Advisors registered no complaints about the services the Debtor was providing or the amounts being charged or paid under the Agreements. Morris Dec. Ex. B.

18. The Advisors were clearly focused on the Debtor’s sale of CLO assets because on December 8, 2020, the Advisors and other Dondero-related entities filed their Motion for Order Imposing Temporary Restrictions on Debtor’s Ability, as Portfolio Manager, to Initiate Sales by Non-Debtor CLO Vehicles [Docket No. 1528] (the “Advisors’ CLO Motion”). Morris Dec. Ex. C. The Advisors’ CLO Motion was filed on an emergency basis [Docket No. 1523] (Morris Dec. Ex. D.), but was later denied as “frivolous.” Notably, while the Advisors’ CLO Motion proves that the Advisors know how to seek judicial relief (on an emergency basis, no less), the Advisors

<sup>10</sup> The Advisors have never identified any particular “matters that jointly affect[ed] HCMLP and the Advisors” and caused the Advisors to unnecessarily incur third-party costs. Upon information and belief, the “matters” referred to in the October Letter are those related to the CLO issues and other Estate-Adverse Services, none of which are “services” the Debtor was ever obligated to provide. See infra n. 12.

registered no complaints in the Advisors' CLO Motion or at the hearing about the services the Debtor was providing or the amounts being charged or paid under the Agreements.

19. Unchastened, on December 22, 2020, the Advisors renewed their complaints about the Debtor's CLO sales. Morris Dec. Ex. E. The Advisors also renewed their Prospective Complaint, contending that the anticipated termination of employees on January 31, 2021 "will result in a loss of the employees that [sic] have traditionally serviced the CLOs." Other than the renewal of their Prospective Complaint, the Advisors registered no complaints in their December 22, 2020, letter about the services the Debtor was providing or the amounts being charged or paid under the Agreements.

20. The next day, the Advisors sent the Debtor another letter, this one focused exclusively on the issue of the Debtor's management of the CLOs. In their December 23, 2020, letter, the Advisors gave notice to the Debtor that they "had no choice but to initiate HCMLP's removal as fund manager" for cause. Morris Dec. Ex. F. The Advisors registered no complaints in their December 23, 2020 letter about the services the Debtor was providing or the amounts being charged or paid under the Agreements.

21. Finally, on December 31, 2020, the Advisors again wrote to the Debtor, this time for the sole purpose of registering complaints about the Debtor's decision to evict Mr. Dondero from the Debtor's offices. Morris Dec. Ex. G. Other than as specifically related to Mr. Dondero, the Advisors registered no complaints in their December 31, 2020, letter about the services the Debtor was providing or the amounts being charged or paid under the Agreements.

22. As a result of this continued harassment and incessant interference, their failure to pay, collectively, tens of millions of dollars due and owing under a series of demand notes and other notes which were in default, and for other reasons, beginning in December 2020, the Debtor filed a number of complaints (the “Complaints”) against Mr. Dondero (Adv. Proc. No. 20-03190, filed on December 7, 2020; Adv. Proc. No. 21-03003, filed on January 22, 2021); HCMFA, NexPoint, and certain other affiliated defendants (Adv. Proc. No. 21-03000, filed on January 6, 2021); HCMFA (Adv. Proc. No. 21-03004, filed on January 22, 2021); and NexPoint (Adv. Proc. No. 21-03005, filed on January 22, 2021), among others.

23. As set forth in the Complaints (as applicable), the Debtor has substantial claims against Mr. Dondero, the Advisors and the other affiliated entities for, inter alia, interference with the Debtor’s business and operations (including threatening to have the Debtor removed as the portfolio manager of certain collateralized loan obligation vehicles) and for failing to pay amounts due and owing to the Debtor under certain promissory notes. Such parties’ continued disruptive behavior caused the Debtor to notify Mr. Dondero in December 2020 that he would be evicted and all services provided by the Debtor to him would be terminated.

24. The Application was filed on January 24, 2021, obviously as retaliation for the Debtor’s filing of the Complaints and refusal to surrender to the Advisors’ demands concerning the CLOs. The Application has no merit as the Debtor fulfilled its obligations under the applicable Agreements. Assuming for the sake of argument that the Debtor failed to fully perform, the Advisors plainly waived (or should otherwise be estopped from asserting) their right to complain and are otherwise barred under Texas law from recovering anything, and any claim would be subject to substantial setoffs.

25. During the chapter 11 case and prior to the termination of the Agreements, the Debtor performed the services required under the Agreements. The Debtor anticipates that if the Advisors ever specifically identify any alleged service deficiencies or overcharges, they will likely be predicated upon incredible factual assertions or absurd or other untenable contortions of the Agreements' provisions.<sup>12</sup> Not surprisingly, the Advisors do not identify a single service that the Debtor failed to provide, and instead make only the generalized and uncorroborated assertion that they continued to make payments "despite the fact that the Debtor [was] not providing all the required services in return." Application ¶ 17.

26. The Advisors also try to belatedly manufacture a "breach" under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements by asserting that certain unidentified employees did not provide services for some unidentified periods of time. Specifically, the Advisors observe that there "is a schedule attached to the PRAs of investment professionals whose compensation would be reimbursed by the Advisors" that is "incredibly outdated," and complain that the list includes "many individuals . . . who departed the Debtor before or during the Bankruptcy Case." Application ¶ 18. The Advisors' complaints in this regard serve only to prove that (a) the Advisors did not care about these matters as long as Mr. Dondero was in control of both the Advisors and the Debtor (i.e., at all relevant times since the Agreements were executed until no later than January 9, 2020); (b) until Mr. Dondero ceased to control both the Advisors and the Debtor, the relationship was not an arms'-length relationship, and (c) the Advisors were apparently obtaining the services they bargained for even if such services were not being provided by specified individuals, because there is no allegation (and there will be no evidence) that the Advisors ever sought an adjustment

<sup>12</sup> For example, in or after July 2020, the Debtor's new CEO reminded the Debtor's personnel that they should not provide legal services to the Advisors and other third parties that could be adverse to the bankruptcy estate ("Estate-Adverse Services"), especially in light of the Court's particularized concerns. Order on Motion for Clarification of Ruling [DE # 914] and Joinders thereto [DE ## 915 and 927] [Docket No. 935 at 10] ("This could escalate to problematic territory in a hurry. The court trusts the Debtor's independent directors and new CEO are scrutinizing the issue of in-house lawyers potentially advising both the Debtor and Highland Non-Debtor Entity targets.") (emphasis in original). To the extent that the Advisors may assert the Debtor's services under the Agreements were deficient because the Debtor refused to provide any Estate-Adverse Services, such assertion is patently illogical and unsupportable. It would be an absurd construction of the Agreements to have contemplated and required the Debtor to provide the Advisors with Estate-Adverse Services. See Sojitz Energy Venture, Inc. v. Union Oil Co., 394 F. Supp. 3d 687, 701 (S.D. Tex. 2019) ("We will not construe contracts to produce an absurd result when a reasonable alternative construction exists.").

in the payments or even suggested to the Debtor that they were overpaying for departed employees. Moreover, as the Advisors' litany of letters proves, to the extent the Advisors ever registered a concern about particular employees, it was only as part of the Prospective Complaint.

27. Tellingly, during the chapter 11 case, the Advisors did not, for instance, file an emergency motion to compel the Debtor to assume or reject the Agreements, file a motion for relief from the automatic stay to terminate the Agreements, or seek any other relief with respect to the Agreements. Nor did the Advisors declare any breach or other problem with the Debtor's services and billings or the Advisors' payments under the Agreements. Furthermore, neither in their objections to Plan confirmation nor any other filing prior to the January 24, 2021, Application did the Advisors disclose their alleged multi-million dollar administrative claim.

28. It was only after the chapter 11 case became contentious and the Debtor began gaining traction with its asset monetization plan that the Claimants filed the Application and notified the Debtor, the Court, and the estate's other stakeholders of their purported administrative claim in an effort to create an "asset" that could be used by Mr. Dondero in his fruitless pursuit of a "pot plan." Indeed, at all times post-petition and prior to the Debtor's notice of termination of the Agreements, the Advisors continued to pay the Debtor for the applicable fees and charges under the Agreements, without complaint or objection.

29. Finally, assuming for the sake of argument only that the Advisors had a viable claim, the Debtor is entitled to offsets and has other claims against the Advisors, with respect to which the Debtor reserves all rights. Among other things, the Advisors owe approximately $2.56 million under the Agreements, as well as approximately $2.22 million in unpaid expense reimbursements. And HCMFA and NexPoint owe more than $7.68 million<sup>13</sup> and $23 million,<sup>14</sup> respectively, under various promissory notes owed to the Debtor.

IV. OBJECTIONS

A. The Advisors Waived Any Alleged Breaches, Defaults and Claims Relating to the Purported Deficient Services and Overcharges and the Prior Payments Made By the Advisors Under the Agreements

30. The Advisors waited more than six months to declare that the Debtor allegedly provided deficient services and overcharged the Advisors under the Agreements (“Agreement Claims”). The Agreement Claims were made after the Debtor terminated the Agreements in accordance with their terms. Moreover, the Agreement Claims were asserted as part of a disingenuous plan proposal which asserted the claims for the first time and then unsuccessfully tried to convince the Debtor and its creditors that a plan waiving the Agreement Claims provided the estate with $14 million more value than the Debtor’s Plan. As explained above, in response to such developments and as part of Mr. Dondero’s pervasive scheme to disrupt the Debtor’s business and obstruct and delay the Debtor’s reorganization under the confirmed Plan, the Advisors are attempting to invent ex post facto a multi-million dollar administrative claim against the estate. But the Advisors’ belated complaints are barred as a matter of law.

31. The undisputed facts prove that the Advisors waived any Agreement Claims under applicable Texas law. See Rex Performance Prods., LLC v. Tate, 2020 Tex. App. LEXIS 10465, at *19 (Tex. App. Dec. 31, 2020) “Waiver is defined as ‘an intentional relinquishment of a known right or intentional conduct inconsistent with claiming that right.’” Id. (quoting Sun Expl. & Prod. Co. v. Benton, 728 S.W.2d 35, 37 (Tex. 1987)). The elements of waiver include: (1) an existing

32. As discussed above, the Advisors were evidently so unconcerned with any purported Agreement Claims that, inter alia, they (a) continued to pay the Debtor all amounts due without protest or even a reservation of rights (“Unconditional Payments”), (b) failed to declare a default or put the Debtor on notice of any deficiency with the Debtor's services and billings and the Advisors' payments under the Agreements (“Contractual Notice Actions”), despite sending a litany of letters in late 2020 detailing other purported concerns, and (c) failed to seek judicial relief of any kind (e.g., a motion to compel the Debtor to assume or reject the Agreements or a motion for relief from stay to terminate the Agreements (“Bankruptcy Court Actions”), despite having filed the Advisors' CLO Motion on an emergency basis. See, e.g., EM Bldg. Contrs. Servs., LLC v. Byrd Bldg. Servs., LLC, 2020 Tex. App. LEXIS 6342, *40 (Tex. App. Aug. 11, 2020) (“Silence or inaction, for so long a period as to show an intention to yield the known right, is . . . enough to prove waiver”) (quoting Tenneco Inc. v. Enter. Prods. Co., 925 S.W.2d 640, 643 (Tex. 1996)); In re National Steel Corp., 316 B.R. 287, 307 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 2004) (“[I]t is most significant that the Creditor failed to take timely action to seek appropriate relief during the term of the executory Contract. Specifically, the Creditor failed to come before the Court to seek relief from the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362(d). Nor did the Creditor seek to compel National Steel to assume or reject the Contract pursuant to § 365(d)(2) [footnote omitted]. Instead of availing itself of the procedures set forth in the Bankruptcy Code to compel National Steel's decision to assume or reject the Contract, the Creditor paid National Steel the higher price pursuant to the Amended Price Proposal and chose to 'reserve its rights.'"). In short, the Advisors waived any right to dispute the sufficiency of the Debtor's services or the amounts payable to the Debtor under the Agreements.

33. The Advisors cannot avoid the consequences of their inaction by relying on so-called "non-waiver provisions" in the Agreements.<sup>15</sup> Texas law provides that ostensible "non-waiver provisions" can themselves be waived by the parties. See, e.g., United States Bank, N.A. v. Kobernick, 454 Fed. Appx. 307, 315 (5th Cir. Dec. 16, 2011) (bank's actions were inconsistent with preserving contractual right to declare a certain default and thus, the bank had waived said right, notwithstanding non-waiver clause (citing Straus v. Kirby Court Corp., 909 S.W.2d 105, 108 (Tex. App. 1995) and other cases)).<sup>16</sup>

34. Here, the Advisors' monthly Unconditional Payments, failure to take any Contractual Notice Actions, and failure to take any Bankruptcy Court Actions relating to the Agreements prove that the Advisors waived any Agreement Claims, notwithstanding any non-waiver clauses in the Agreements.

35. Any purported Agreement Claims of the Advisors were viewed and treated as non-issues by the Advisors during the chapter 11 case, and were thus not preserved for purposes of the Application or otherwise.

<sup>15</sup> For example, the Payroll Reimbursement Agreement entered into as of May 1, 2018, by and among the Debtor and HCMFA, provides in section 6.02: "No failure on the part of any Party to exercise or delay in exercising any right hereunder will be deemed a waiver thereof ...."

<sup>16</sup> The Debtor is cognizant of the Texas Supreme Court's opinion in Shields Limited Partnership v. Bradberry, 526 S.W.3d 471 (Tex. 2017), wherein the court stated that "as a general proposition, nonwaiver provisions are binding and enforceable." Id. at 481. However, the Shields court also stated: "To the extent there has been any doubt up to this time, we affirm that a party's rights under a nonwaiver provision may indeed be waived expressly or impliedly." Id. at 482-83.

B. The Voluntary Payment Rule Effectively Bars Any Administrative Claim

36. Separately, the “voluntary payment rule” under applicable Texas law precludes the Advisors from recovering any alleged contractual overpayments under the guise of an administrative claim. As explained above, the Advisors voluntarily and intentionally made postpetition payments under the Agreements to the Debtor. “The voluntary payment rule precludes a party from ‘pay[ing] out his money, leading the other party to act as though the matter were closed, and then be in the position to change his mind and invoke the aid of the courts to get it back.’” Miga v. Jensen, 299 S.W.3d 98, 103 (Tex. 2009); accord, BMG Direct Mktg. v. Peake, 178 S.W.3d 763 (Tex. 2005) (applying the principle to prevent the recovery of a “late fee” paid by a customer who later claimed it was unlawful); see also Nat’l Steel Corp., 316 B.R. at 307-08 (“Nor is it disputed that the Creditor made the payment voluntarily, notwithstanding the fact that it announced the reservation of its rights to later ‘evaluate the situation.’ Despite the Creditor’s fervent denials that it agreed to the price increase and that such an increase was inappropriate under the Contract, the Creditor made an affirmative, voluntary decision to pay the price increase .... The Court finds that the requirements of the voluntary payment doctrine [under Michigan law, which is similar to Texas law] have been met and that, accordingly, the Creditor cannot recover any portion of the payment at issue made to National Steel.”).

V. RESERVATION OF RIGHTS

37. The Debtor reserves all rights relating to NexPoint, HCMFA and/or the Agreements, including, without limitation, any claims, causes of action, setoffs, recoupments and other rights of the Debtor against the Advisors.

VI. CONCLUSION

The Advisors' Application for an administrative claim is part and parcel of the Advisors' and Mr. Dondero's broad strategy to subvert and hinder the Debtor's reorganization to the substantial detriment of the estate and its stakeholders. For the reasons set forth herein, the Debtor respectfully requests that the Court (i) deny the Application, (ii) disallow any asserted administrative claim of the Advisors, and (iii) grant such other and further relief as the Court deems just and proper.

STIPULATION BY AND AMONG NON-PARTY RETAIL BOARD, PLAINTIFF
HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P., AND DEFENDANTS AND CLAIMANTS
HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT FUND ADVISORS, L.P. AND NEXPOINT ADVISORS, L.P., IN CONNECTION WITH REORGANIZED DEBTOR AND PLAINTIFF HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.'S SUBPOENA TO THE RETAIL BOARD DATED JANUARY 4, 2022

Pursuant to Rules 26 and 45 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Non-Party Retail Board ("Retail Board"), reorganized debtor and plaintiff Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Plaintiff"), and claimants and defendants Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. and NexPoint Advisors, L.P. ("Defendants") enter into the following stipulation (the "Stipulation") in connection with the Retail Board's compliance with the Plaintiff's Rule 45 subpoena dated January 4, 2022 (the "Subpoena"), issued with respect to the above captioned matter (the "Action"), which contains four (4) requests for the production of documents (collectively, the “Requests,” and each individually, a “Request”) and five (5) Rule 30(b)(6) deposition topics (collectively, the “Topics,” and each individually, a “Topic”).<sup>1</sup>

STIPULATIONS

1. The Retail Board, Plaintiff and Defendants acknowledge that the “Retail Board” is defined in the Subpoena and is intended to bind the Boards of Directors/Trustees (the “Boards”) of the Funds named therein (the “Funds”). Accordingly, the Boards of each of the Funds will not require individualized subpoenas and have no objection to the service of the Subpoena on counsel for the “Retail Board” or the acceptance of service of the Subpoena by counsel as of January 5, 2022.

2. In order to reduce the burden of documentary compliance on the members of the Retail Board and to achieve a more efficient approach to locating and producing responsive documents, the Retail Board, the Plaintiff and Defendants have agreed to the following process:

- a. As soon as practicable after the execution of this Stipulation, the Retail Board shall provide Plaintiff with the email addresses used by all individuals in performing their duties while serving on any of the Boards (the “Board Members”) from October 16, 2019 through February 1, 2021 (the “Relevant Time”);
- b. As soon as practicable thereafter, Plaintiff shall search for, and produce to counsel for the Retail Board and the Defendants in electronic form (and in particular, in whatever electronic format they reasonably designate in advance), all documents and e-mails sent to or from any of the Board Members at the email addresses used during the Relevant Time (the “Initial Production”);

- c. Plaintiff represents that neither it nor anyone authorized to act on its behalf shall review any of the documents or e-mails contained in the Initial Production.
- d. As soon as practicable after receipt of the Initial Production, the Retail Board and the Defendants shall produce to Plaintiff all responsive, non-privileged documents and communications identified from the Initial Production (the "Responsive Documents").

3. Notwithstanding the foregoing paragraph, the process described above shall not apply to Board Member John Honis. Specifically, the Debtor shall not search for emails to and from Board Member John Honis. Rather, Mr. Honis will conduct a search and review of his records and will provide his documents to counsel for the Retail Board for review and production in accordance with the terms of the Subpoena, subject to applicable privileges and protections and objections asserted by the Retail Board ("Honis Documents").

4. As soon as practicable after the production of Responsive Documents and the Honis Documents, the parties shall confer in good faith to set the date for the deposition noticed in the Subpoena (which shall be no earlier than three business days after the production of the Responsive Documents and the Honis Documents is complete), and Plaintiff shall provide a good faith estimate of the duration of the deposition.

5. The Retail Board reserves all objections to the Subpoena and the Topics except and only to the extent addressed in this Stipulation.

6. Plaintiff reserves all rights with respect to the enforcement of the Subpoena, notwithstanding any objections asserted by Retail Board or Defendants; provided, however, that the parties agree that they shall meet and confer in a good faith attempt to resolve any disputes regarding the Subpoena, as required by the local rules.

ARTICLE II
SHARED SERVICES

Section 2.01 Services. During the Term, Service Provider will provide Recipient with Shared Services, including without limitation, all of the (i) finance and accounting services, (ii) human resources services, (iii) marketing services, (iv) legal services, (v) corporate services, (vi) information technology services, and (vii) operations services; each as requested by HCMFA and as described more fully on Annex A attached hereto, the “Shared Services”), it being understood that personnel providing Shared Services may be deemed to be employees of HCMFA to the extent necessary for purposes of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended.

Section 2.02 Changes to the Shared Services.

(a) During the Term, the Parties may agree to modify the terms and conditions of a Service Provider’s performance of any Shared Service in order to reflect new procedures, processes or other methods of providing such Shared Service, including modifying the applicable fees for such Shared Service to reflect the then current fair market value of such service (a “Change”). The Parties will negotiate in good faith the terms upon which a Service Provider would be willing to provide such New Shared Service to Recipient.

(b) The Party requesting a Change will deliver a description of the Change requested (a “Change Request”) and no Party receiving a Change Request may unreasonably withhold, condition or delay its consent to the proposed Change.

(c) Notwithstanding any provision of this Agreement to the contrary, a Service Provider may make: (i) Changes to the process of performing a particular Shared Service that do not adversely affect the benefits to Recipient of Service Provider’s provision or quality of such Shared Service in any material respect or increase Recipient’s cost for such Shared Service; (ii) emergency Changes on a temporary and short-term basis; and/or (iii) Changes to a particular Shared Service in order to comply with applicable law or regulatory requirements, in each case without obtaining the prior consent of Recipient. A Service Provider will notify Recipient in writing of any such Change as follows: in the case of clauses (i) and (iii) above, prior to the implementation of such Change, and, in the case of clause (ii) above, as soon as reasonably practicable thereafter.

Section 2.03 New Shared Services. The Parties may, from time to time during the Term of this Agreement, negotiate in good faith for Shared Services not otherwise specifically listed in Section 2.01 (a “New Shared Service”). Any agreement between the Parties on the terms for a New Shared Service must be in accordance with the provisions of Article IV and Article V hereof, will be deemed to be an amendment to this Agreement and such New Shared Service will then be a “Shared Service” for all purposes of this Agreement.

Section 2.04 Subcontractors. Nothing in this Agreement will prevent Service Provider from, with the consent of Recipient, using subcontractors, hired with due care, to perform all or any part of a Shared Service hereunder. A Service Provider will remain fully responsible for the performance of its obligations under this Agreement in accordance with its terms, including any obligations it performs through subcontractors, and a Service Provider will be solely responsible for payments due to its subcontractors.

ARTICLE III
SHARED ASSETS

Section 3.01 Shared IP Rights. Each Service Provider hereby grants to Recipient a non-exclusive right and license to use the intellectual property and other rights granted or licensed, directly or indirectly, to such Service Provider (the “Shared IP Rights”) pursuant to third party intellectual property Agreements (“Third Party IP Agreements”), provided that the rights granted to Recipient hereunder are subject to the terms and conditions of the applicable Third Party IP Agreement, and that such rights shall terminate, as applicable, upon the expiration or termination of the applicable Third Party IP Agreement. Recipient shall be licensed to use the Shared IP Rights only for so long as it remains an Affiliate of HCMLP. In consideration of the foregoing licenses, Recipient agrees to take such further reasonable actions as a Service Provider deems to be necessary or desirable to comply with its obligations under the Third Party IP Agreements.

Section 3.02 Other Shared Assets. Subject to Section 3.01, each Service Provider hereby grants Recipient the right, license or permission, as applicable, to use and access the benefits under the agreements, contracts and licenses that such Service Provider will purchase, acquire, become a party or beneficiary to or license on behalf of Recipient (the “Future Shared Assets” and collectively with the Shared IP Rights, the “Shared Assets”).

ARTICLE IV
COST ALLOCATION

Section 4.01 Actual Cost Allocation Formula. The Actual Cost of any item relating to any Shared Services or Shared Assets shall be allocated based on the Allocation Percentage. For purposes of this Agreement, “Allocation Percentage” means:

- (a) To the extent 100% of such item is demonstrably attributable to HCMFA, 100% of the Actual Cost of such item shall be allocated to HCMFA as agreed by HCMFA;
- (b) To the extent a specific percentage of use of such item can be determined (e.g., 70% for HCMLP and 30% for HCMFA), that specific percentage of the Actual Cost of such item will be allocated to HCMLP or HCMFA, as applicable and as agreed by HCMFA; and
- (c) All other portions of the Actual Cost of any item that cannot be allocated pursuant to clause (a) or (b) above shall be allocated between HCMLP and HCMFA in such proportion as is agreed in good faith between the parties.

Section 4.02 Non-Cash Cost Allocation. The actual, fully burdened cost of any item relating to any Shared Services or Shared Assets that does not result in a direct, out of pocket cash expense may be allocated to HCMLP and HCMFA for financial statement purposes only, as agreed by HCMFA, without any corresponding cash reimbursement required, in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, based on the Allocation Percentage principles described in Section 4.01 hereof.

ARTICLE V
PAYMENT OF COST AND REVENUE SHARE; TAXES

Section 5.01 Quarterly Statements. Within thirty (30) days following the end of each calendar quarter during the Term (or at such time as may be otherwise agreed by the parties), each Service Provider shall furnish the other Parties hereto with a written statement with respect to the Actual Cost paid by it in respect of Shared Services and Shared Assets provided by it, in each case, during such period, setting forth (i) the cost allocation in accordance with Article IV hereof together with the Applicable Margin on such allocated amounts, and (ii) any amounts paid pursuant to Section 5.02 hereof, together with such other data and information necessary to complete the items described in Section 5.03 hereof (hereinafter referred to as the “Quarterly Report”).

Section 5.02 Settlement Payments. At any time during the Term, any Party may make payment of the amounts that are allocable to such Party together with the Applicable Margin related thereto, regardless of whether an invoice pursuant to Section 5.03 hereof has been issued with respect to such amounts.

Section 5.03 Determination and Payment of Cost and Revenue Share.

(a) Within ten (10) days of the submission of the Quarterly Report described in Section 5.02 hereof (or at such other time as may be agreed by the parties), the Parties shall (i) agree on the cost share of each of the Parties and Applicable Margin as calculated pursuant to the provisions of this Agreement; and (ii) prepare and issue invoices for the cost share and Applicable Margin payments that are payable by any of the Parties.

(b) Within ten (10) days of preparation of the agreement and the issuance of the invoice described in Section 5.03(a) (or at such other time as may be agreed by the parties), the Parties shall promptly make payment of the amounts that are set forth on such cost allocation invoice. Notwithstanding anything in this Agreement to the contrary, provision of the Shared Services shall commence from the Effective Date, but no fees shall be payable from Recipient or otherwise accrue with respect to such services provided during the month of December 2011.

Section 5.04 Taxes.

(a) Recipient is responsible for and will pay all Taxes applicable to the Shared Services and the Shared Assets provided to Recipient, provided, that such payments by Recipient to Service Provider will be made in the most tax-efficient manner and provided further, that Service Provider will not be subject to any liability for Taxes applicable to the Shared Services and the Shared Assets as a result of such payment by Recipient. Service Provider will collect such Tax from Recipient in the same manner it collects such Taxes from other customers in the ordinary course of Service Provider’s business, but in no event prior to the time it invoices Recipient for the Shared Services and Shared Assets, costs for which such Taxes are levied. Recipient may provide Service Provider with a certificate evidencing its exemption from payment of or liability for such Taxes.

(b) Service Provider will reimburse Recipient for any Taxes collected from Recipient and refunded to Service Provider. In the event a Tax is assessed against Service Provider that is solely the responsibility of Recipient and Recipient desires to protest such assessment, Recipient will submit to Service Provider a statement of the issues and arguments requesting that Service Provider grant Recipient the authority to prosecute the protest in Service Provider’s name. Service Provider’s authorization will not be unreasonably withheld. Recipient will finance, manage, control and determine the strategy for such protest while keeping Service Provider reasonably informed of the proceedings. However, the authorization will be periodically reviewed by Service Provider to determine any adverse impact on Service Provider, and Service Provider will have the right to reasonably withdraw such authority at any time. Upon notice by Service Provider that it is so withdrawing such authority, Recipient will expeditiously terminate all proceedings. Any adverse consequences suffered by Recipient as a result of the withdrawal will be submitted to arbitration pursuant to Section 9.14. Any contest for Taxes brought by Recipient may not result in any lien attaching to any property or rights of Service Provider or otherwise jeopardize Service Provider’s interests or rights in any of its property. Recipient agrees to indemnify Service Provider for all Losses that Service Provider incurs as a result of any such contest by Recipient.

(c) The provisions of this Section 5.04 will govern the treatment of all Taxes arising as a result of or in connection with this Agreement notwithstanding any other Article of this Agreement to the contrary.

ARTICLE VI SERVICE PROVIDER RESPONSIBILITIES

Section 6.01 Service Provider General Obligations. Service Provider will provide the Shared Services and the Shared Assets to Recipient on a non-discriminatory basis and will provide the Shared Services and the Shared Assets in the same manner as if it were providing such services and assets on its own account (the “Service Standards”). Service Provider will conduct its duties hereunder in a lawful manner in compliance with applicable laws, statutes, rules and regulations and in accordance with the Service Standards, including, for avoidance of doubt, laws and regulations relating to privacy of customer information.

Section 6.02 Books and Records; Access to Information. Service Provider will keep and maintain books and records on behalf of Recipient in accordance with past practices and internal control procedures. Recipient will have the right, at any time and from time to time upon reasonable prior notice to Service Provider, to inspect and copy (at its expense) during normal business hours at the offices of Service Provider the books and records relating to the Shared Services and Shared Assets, with respect to Service Provider’s performance of its obligations hereunder. This inspection right will include the ability of Recipient’s financial auditors to review such books and records in the ordinary course of performing standard financial auditing services for Recipient (but subject to Service Provider imposing reasonable access restrictions to Service Provider’s and its Affiliates’ proprietary information and such financial auditors executing appropriate confidentiality agreements reasonably acceptable to Service Provider). Service Provider will promptly respond to any reasonable requests for information or access. For the avoidance of doubt, all books and records kept and maintained by Service Provider on behalf of Recipient shall be the property of Recipient, and Service Provider will surrender promptly to Recipient any of such books or records upon Recipient’s request (provided that Service Provider may retain a copy of such books or records) and shall make all such books and records available for inspection and use by the Securities and Exchange Commission or any person retained by Recipient at all reasonable times. Such records shall be maintained by Service Provider for the periods and in the places required by laws and regulations applicable to Recipient.

Section 6.03 Return of Property and Equipment. Upon expiration or termination of this Agreement, Service Provider will be obligated to return to Recipient, as soon as is reasonably practicable, any equipment or other property or materials of Recipient that is in Service Provider’s control or possession.

ARTICLE VII TERM AND TERMINATION

Section 7.01 Term. The term of this Agreement will commence as of the Effective Date and will continue in full force and effect until the first anniversary of the Effective Date (the “Term”), unless terminated earlier in accordance with Section 9.02. The Term shall automatically renew for successive one year periods unless sooner terminated under Section 7.02.

Section 7.02 Termination. Either Party may terminate this Agreement, with or without cause, upon at least 60 days advance written notice at any time prior to the expiration of the Term.

ARTICLE VIII LIMITED WARRANTY

Section 8.01 Limited Warranty. Service Provider will perform the Shared Services hereunder in accordance with the Service Standards. Except as specifically provided in this Agreement, Service Provider makes no express or implied representations, warranties or guarantees relating to its performance of the Shared Services and the granting of the Shared Assets under this Agreement, including any warranty of merchantability, fitness, quality, non-infringement of third party rights, suitability or adequacy of the Shared Services and the Shared Assets for any purpose or use or purpose. Service Provider will (to the extent possible and subject to Service Provider's contractual obligations) pass through the benefits of any express warranties received from third parties relating to any Shared Service and Shared Asset, and will (at Recipient's expense) assist Recipient with any warranty claims related thereto.

ARTICLE IX MISCELLANEOUS

Nothing contained in this Agreement will constitute or be construed to be or create a partnership or joint venture between or among HCMLP or HCMFA or their respective successors or assigns. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Agreement or the Annexes hereto to the contrary, in the event there is an unresolved legal dispute between the parties and/or any of their respective officers, directors, partners, employees, agents, affiliates or other representatives that involves legal rights or remedies arising from this Agreement, the parties agree to submit their dispute to binding arbitration under the authority of the Federal Arbitration Act; provided, however, that either party or such applicable affiliate thereof may pursue a temporary restraining order and/or preliminary injunctive relief in connection with confidentiality covenants or agreements binding on the other party, with related expedited discovery for the parties, in a court of law, and, thereafter, require arbitration of all issues of final relief. Any dispute over whether the arbitrator(s) has failed to comply with the foregoing will be resolved by summary judgment in a court of law. In all other respects, the arbitration process will be conducted in accordance with the American Arbitration Association's dispute resolution rules or other mutually agreeable, arbitration service rules. The party initiating arbitration shall pay all arbitration costs and arbitrator's fees, subject to a final arbitration award on who should bear costs and fees. All proceedings shall be conducted in Dallas, Texas, or another mutually agreeable site. ## ARTICLE VI

EXCULPATION AND INDEMNIFICATION

Section 6.01. Standard of Care. Except as otherwise expressly provided herein, each Covered Person shall discharge its duties under this Agreement with the care, skill, prudence and diligence under the circumstances then prevailing that a prudent person acting in a like capacity and familiar with such matters would use in the conduct of an enterprise of a like character and with like aims. To the extent not inconsistent with the foregoing, each Covered Person shall follow its customary standards, policies and procedures in performing its duties hereunder. No Covered Person shall deal with the income or assets of the Management Company in such Covered Person's own interest or for its own account. Each Covered Person in its respective sole and absolute discretion may separately engage or invest in any other business ventures, including those that may be in competition with the Management Company, and the Management Company will not have any rights in or to such ventures or the income or profits derived therefrom.

Section 6.02 Exculpation. To the fullest extent permitted by law, no Covered Person will be liable to the Management Company, any Member, or any shareholder, partner or member thereof, for (i) any acts or omissions by such Covered Person arising out of or in connection with the conduct of the business of the Management Company or its General Partner, or any investment made or held by the Management Company or its General Partner, unless it is determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction, in a final nonappealable judgment, to be the result of gross negligence or to constitute fraud or willful misconduct (as interpreted under the laws of the State of Delaware) (each, a “Disabling Conduct”) on the part of such Covered Person, (ii) any act or omission of any Investor, (iii) any mistake, gross negligence, misconduct or bad faith of any employee, broker, administrator or other agent or representative of such Covered Person, provided that such employee, broker, administrator or agent was selected, engaged or retained by or on behalf of such Covered Person with reasonable care, or (iv) any consequential (including loss of profit), indirect, special or punitive damages. To the extent that, at law or in equity, any Covered Person has duties (including fiduciary duties) and liabilities relating thereto to the Management Company or any Member, no Covered Person acting under this Agreement shall be liable to the Management Company or to any such Member for its good-faith reliance on the provisions of this Agreement. The exculpations set forth in this Section 6.02 shall exculpate any Covered Person regardless of such Covered Person’s sole, comparative, joint, concurrent, or subsequent negligence.

To the fullest extent permitted by law, no Covered Person shall have any personal liability to the Management Company or any Member solely by reason of any change in U.S. federal, state or local or foreign income tax laws, or in interpretations thereof, as they apply to the Management Company or the Members, whether the change occurs through legislative, judicial or administrative action.

Any Covered Person in its sole and absolute discretion may consult legal counsel, accountants or other advisers selected by it, and any act or omission taken, or made in good faith by such Person on behalf of the Management Company or in furtherance of the business of the Management Company in good-faith reliance on and in accordance with the advice of such counsel, accountants or other advisers shall be full justification for the act or omission, and to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, no Covered Person shall be liable to the Management Company or any Member in so acting or omitting to act if such counsel, accountants or other advisers were selected, engaged or retained with reasonable care.

Section 6.03 Indemnification by the Management Company. The Management Company shall and hereby does, to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, indemnify and hold harmless any Covered Person from and against any and all claims, causes of action (including, but not limited to, strict liability, negligence, statutory violation, regulatory violation, breach of contract, and all other torts and claims arising under common law), demands, liabilities, costs, expenses, damages, losses, suits, proceedings, judgments, assessments, actions and other liabilities, whether judicial, administrative, investigative or otherwise, of whatever nature, known or unknown, liquidated or unliquidated (“Claims”), that may accrue to or be incurred by any Covered Person, or in which any Covered Person may become involved, as a party or otherwise, or with which any Covered Person may be threatened, relating to or arising out of the investment or other activities of the Management Company or its General Partner, or activities undertaken in connection with the Management Company or its General Partner, or otherwise relating to or arising out of this Agreement, including amounts paid in satisfaction of judgments, in compromise or as fines or penalties, and attorneys' fees and expenses incurred in connection with the preparation for or defense or disposition of any investigation, action, suit, arbitration or other proceeding (a "Proceeding"), whether civil or criminal (all of such Claims, amounts and expenses referred to therein are referred to collectively as "Damages"), except to the extent that it shall have been determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction, in a final nonappealable judgment, that such Damages arose primarily from Disabling Conduct of such Covered Person. The termination of any Proceeding by settlement, judgment, order, conviction or upon a plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent shall not, of itself, create a presumption that any Damages relating to such settlement, judgment, order, conviction or plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent or otherwise relating to such Proceeding arose primarily from Disabling Conduct of any Covered Persons. Any Covered Person shall be indemnified under the terms of this Section 6.03 regardless of such Covered Person's sole, comparative, joint, concurrent, or subsequent negligence.

Expenses (including attorneys' fees) incurred by a Covered Person in defense or settlement of any Claim that may be subject to a right of indemnification hereunder shall be advanced by the Management Company prior to the final disposition thereof upon receipt of a written undertaking by or on behalf of the Covered Person to repay the amount advanced to the extent that it shall be determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction that the Covered Person is not entitled to be indemnified hereunder. The right of any Covered Persons to the indemnification provided herein shall be cumulative of, and in addition to, any and all rights to which the Covered Person may otherwise be entitled by contract or as a matter of law or equity and shall be extended to the Covered Person's successors, assigns and legal representatives. Any judgments against the Management Company and/or any Covered Persons in respect of which such Covered Person is entitled to indemnification shall first be satisfied from the assets of the Management Company, including Drawdowns, before such Covered Person is responsible therefor.

Notwithstanding any provision of this Agreement to the contrary, the provisions of this Section 6.03 shall not be construed so as to provide for the indemnification of any Covered Person for any liability (including liability under Federal securities laws which, under certain circumstances, impose liability even on persons that act in good faith), to the extent (but only to the extent) that such indemnification would be in violation of applicable law, but shall be construed so as to effectuate the provisions of this Section 6.03 to the fullest extent permitted by law.

Section 6.04 Other Sources of Recovery etc. The indemnification rights set forth in Section 6.03 are in addition to, and shall not exclude, limit or otherwise adversely affect, any other indemnification or similar rights to which any Covered Person may be entitled. If and to the extent that other sources of recovery (including proceeds of any applicable policies of insurance or indemnification from any Person in which any of the Clients or Accounts has an investment) are available to any Covered Person, such Covered Person shall use reasonable efforts to obtain recovery from such other sources before the Company shall be required to make any payment in respect of its indemnification obligations hereunder; provided that, if such other recovery is not available without delay, the Covered Person shall be entitled to such payment by the Management Company and the Management Company shall be entitled to reimbursement out of such other recovery when and if obtained.

Section 6.05 Rights of Heirs, Successors and Assigns. The indemnification rights provided by Section 6.03 shall inure to the benefit of the heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns of each Covered Person.

Section 6.06 Reliance. A Covered Person shall incur no liability to the Management Company or any Member in acting upon any signature or writing reasonably believed by him, her or it to be genuine, and may rely in good faith on a certificate signed by an officer of any Person in order to ascertain any fact with respect to such Person or within such Person's knowledge. Each Covered Person may act directly or through his, her or its agents or attorneys.

(b) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, the liability of the Management Company to the Staff and Services Provider hereunder is limited in recourse to the Portfolio, and if the proceeds of the Portfolio following the liquidation thereof are insufficient to meet the obligations of the Management Company hereunder in full, the Management Company shall have no further liability in respect of any such outstanding obligations, and such obligations and all claims of the Staff and Services Provider or any other Person against the Management Company hereunder shall thereupon extinguish and not thereafter revive. The Staff and Services Provider accepts that the obligations of the Management Company hereunder are the corporate obligations of the Management Company and are not the obligations of any employee, member, officer, director or administrator of the Management Company and no action may be taken against any such Person in relation to the obligations of the Management Company hereunder.

(c) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, any Staff and Services Provider agrees not to institute against, or join any other Person in instituting against, the Management Company any bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, insolvency, moratorium or liquidation proceedings, or other proceedings under United States federal or state bankruptcy laws, or similar laws until at least one year and one day (or, if longer, the then applicable preference period plus one day) after the payment in full all amounts payable in respect of any Indebtedness incurred to finance any portion of the Portfolio; provided that nothing in this provision shall preclude, or be deemed to stop, the Staff and Services Provider from taking any action prior to the expiration of the aforementioned one year and one day period (or, if longer, the applicable preference period then in effect plus one day) in (i) any case or proceeding voluntarily filed or commenced by the Management Company, or (ii) any involuntary insolvency proceeding filed or commenced against the Management Company by a Person other than the Staff and Services Provider.

(d) The Management Company hereby acknowledges and agrees that the Staff and Services Provider's obligations hereunder shall be solely the corporate obligations of the Staff and Services Provider, and are not the obligations of any employee, member, officer, director or administrator of the Staff and Services Provider and no action may be taken against any such Person in relation to the obligations of the Staff and Services Provider hereunder.

(e) The provisions of this Section 8.03 shall survive termination of this Agreement for any reason whatsoever.

Section 8.04 Governing Law.

(a) This Agreement shall be governed by, and construed in accordance with, the laws of the State of Texas. The Parties unconditionally and irrevocably consent to the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts located in the State of Texas and waive any objection with respect thereto, for the purpose of any action, suit or proceeding arising out of or relating to this Agreement or the transactions contemplated hereby.

(b) The Parties irrevocably agree for the benefit of each other that the courts of the State of Texas and the United States District Court located in the Northern District of Texas in Dallas are to have exclusive jurisdiction to settle any disputes (whether contractual or non-contractual) which may arise out of or in connection with this Agreement and that accordingly any action arising out of or in connection therewith (together referred to as "Proceedings") may be brought in such courts. The Parties irrevocably submit to the jurisdiction of such courts and waive any objection which they may have now or hereafter to the laying of the venue of any Proceedings in any such court and any claim that any Proceedings have been brought in an inconvenient forum and further irrevocably agree that a judgment in any Proceedings brought in such courts shall be conclusive and binding upon the Parties and may be enforced in the courts of any other jurisdiction.

Section 8.05 WAIVER OF JURY TRIAL. EACH OF THE PARTIES HERETO HEREBY KNOWINGLY, VOLUNTARILY AND INTENTIONALLY WAIVES ANY RIGHTS IT MAY HAVE TO A TRIAL BY JURY IN RESPECT OF ANY LITIGATION BASED HEREON, OR ARISING OUT OF, UNDER, OR IN CONNECTION WITH, THIS AGREEMENT. EACH PARTY HERETO ACKNOWLEDGES AND AGREES THAT IT HAS RECEIVED FULL AND SUFFICIENT CONSIDERATION FOR THIS PROVISION AND THAT THIS PROVISION IS A MATERIAL INDUCEMENT FOR ITS ENTERING INTO THIS AGREEMENT.

Section 8.06 Severability. The provisions of this Agreement are independent of and severable from each other, and no provision shall be affected or rendered invalid or unenforceable by virtue of the fact that for any reason any other or others of them may be invalid or unenforceable in whole or in part. Upon such determination that any term or other provision is invalid, illegal or incapable of being enforced, the Parties shall negotiate in good faith to modify this Agreement so as to effect the original intent of the Parties.

Section 8.07 No Waiver. The performance of any condition or obligation imposed upon any Party may be waived only upon the written consent of the Parties. Such waiver shall be limited to the terms thereof and shall not constitute a waiver of any other condition or obligation of the other Party. Any failure by any Party to enforce any provision shall not constitute a waiver of that or any other provision or this Agreement.

Section 8.08 Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts by facsimile or other written or electronic form of communication, each of which shall be deemed to be an original as against any Party whose signature appears thereon, and all of which shall together constitute one and the same instrument. This Agreement shall become binding when one or more counterparts hereof, individually or taken together, shall bear the signatures of all of the Parties reflected hereon as the signatories.

Section 8.09 Third Party Beneficiaries. This Agreement is for the sole benefit of the Parties hereto and their permitted assigns and nothing herein express or implied shall give or be construed to give to any Person, other than the Parties hereto and such permitted assigns, any legal or equitable rights hereunder. For avoidance of doubt, this Agreement is not for the benefit or and is not enforceable by any Shared Employee, Client or Account or any investor (directly or indirectly) in the Management Company.

Section 8.10 No Partnership or Joint Venture. Nothing set forth in this Agreement shall constitute, or be construed to create, an employment relationship, a partnership or a joint venture between the Parties. Except as expressly provided herein or in any other written agreement between the Parties, no Party has any authority, express or implied, to bind or to incur liabilities on behalf of, or in the name of, any other Party.

Section 8.11 Independent Contractor. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary, the Staff and Services Provider shall be deemed to be an independent contractor and, except as expressly provided or authorized herein, shall have no authority to act for or represent the Management Company or any Client or Account in which the Management Company acts as portfolio manager or investment manager or in a similar capacity in any manner or otherwise be deemed an agent of the Management Company or any Client or Account in which the Management Company acts as portfolio manager or investment manager or in a similar capacity.

Section 8.12 Written Disclosure Statement. The Management Company acknowledges receipt of Part 2 of the Staff and Services Provider's Form ADV, as required by Rule 204-3 under the Advisers Act, on or before the date of execution of this Agreement.

Section 8.13 Headings. The descriptive headings contained in this Agreement are for convenience of reference only and shall not affect in any way the meaning or interpretation of this Agreement.

Section 8.14 Entire Agreement. This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement of the Parties with respect to the subject matter hereof and supersedes all prior agreements and undertakings, both written and oral, between the Parties with respect to such subject matter.

Section 8.15 Notices. Any notice or demand to any Party to be given, made or served for any purposes under this Agreement shall be given, made or served by sending the same by overnight mail or email transmission or by delivering it by hand as follows:

SUB-ADVISORY AGREEMENT

This Sub-Advisory Agreement (as amended, modified, waived, supplemented or restated from time to time in accordance with the terms hereof, this “Agreement”), dated effective as of January 1, 2018, is entered into by and between NexPoint Advisors, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership, as the management company hereunder (in such capacity, the “Management Company”), and Highland Capital Management, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership (“Highland”), as the sub-advisor hereunder (in such capacity, the “Sub-Advisor” and together with the Management Company, the “Parties”).

WHEREAS, the Management Company from time to time has entered and will enter into portfolio management agreements, investment management agreements and/or similar agreements (each such agreement as amended, modified, waived, supplemented or restated, subject in each case to the requirements of Section 8, a “Management Agreement”) and related indentures, credit agreements, collateral administration agreements, service agreements or other agreements (each such agreement as amended, modified, waived, supplemented or restated, subject in each case to the requirements of Section 8, a “Related Agreement”), in each case as set forth on Appendix A hereto, as amended from time to time, pursuant to which the Management Company has agreed to provide portfolio and/or investment management services to certain funds and accounts (any such fund or account, an “Account”, and the assets comprising the portfolio of such Account, a “Portfolio”); and

WHEREAS, the Management Company and the Sub-Advisor desire to enter into this Agreement in order to permit the Sub-Advisor to provide certain limited services to assist the Management Company in performing certain obligations under the Management Agreements and Related Agreements.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the foregoing recitals, and the receipt of good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, the Parties, intending to be legally bound, hereby agree as follows.

1. Appointment; Limited Scope of Services.

(a) Highland is hereby appointed as Sub-Advisor to the Management Company for the purpose of assisting the Management Company in managing the Portfolios of each Account pursuant to the related Management Agreement and Related Agreements, in each case that have been included in the scope of this Agreement pursuant to the provisions of Section 8, subject to the terms set forth herein and subject to the supervision of the Management Company, and Highland hereby accepts such appointment.

(b) Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Sub-Advisor shall, during the term and subject to the provisions of this Agreement:

(i) make recommendations to the Management Company in its capacity as portfolio manager, investment manager or any similar capacity for any applicable Account as to the general composition and allocation of the Portfolio with respect to such Account among various types of securities, the nature and timing of the changes therein and the manner of implementing such changes, including recommendations as to the specific assets to be purchased, retained or sold by any such Account;

(ii) place orders with respect to, and arrange for, any investment by or on behalf of such Account (including executing and delivering all documents relating to such Account's investments on behalf of such Account or the Management Company, as applicable), upon receiving a proper instruction from the Management Company;

(iii) identify, evaluate and recommend to the Management Company, in its capacity as portfolio manager, investment manager or any similar capacity for any applicable Account, and, if applicable, negotiate the structure and/or terms of investment opportunities within the specific investment strategy of the Management Company for such Account;

(iv) assist the Management Company in its capacity as portfolio manager, investment manager or any similar capacity for any applicable Account in performing due diligence on prospective Portfolio investments by such Account;

(v) provide information to the Management Company in its capacity as portfolio manager, investment manager or any similar capacity for any applicable Account regarding any investments to facilitate the monitoring and servicing of such investments and, if requested by the Management Company, provide information to assist in monitoring and servicing other investments by such Account;

(vi) assist and advise the Management Company in its capacity as portfolio manager, investment manager or any similar capacity for any applicable Account with respect to credit functions including, but not limited to, credit analysis and market research and analysis; and

(vii) assist the Management Company in performing any of its other obligations or duties as portfolio manager, investment manager or any similar capacity for any applicable Account.

The foregoing responsibilities and obligations are collectively referred to herein as the "Services."

Notwithstanding the foregoing, all investment decisions will ultimately be the responsibility of, and will be made by and at the sole discretion of, the Management Company. Furthermore, the parties acknowledge and agree that the Sub-Advisor shall be required to provide only the services expressly described in this Section 1(b), and shall have no responsibility hereunder to provide any other services to the Management Company, including, but not limited to, administrative, management or similar services.

(c) The Sub-Advisor agrees during the term hereof to furnish the Services on the terms and conditions set forth herein and subject to the limitations contained herein. The Sub-Advisor agrees that, in performing the Services, it will comply with all applicable obligations of the Management Company set forth in the Management Agreements and the Related Agreements.

In addition, with respect to any obligation that would be part of the Services but for the fact that the relevant Management Agreement or Related Agreement does not permit such obligation to be delegated by the Management Company to the Sub-Advisor, the Sub-Advisor, upon request in writing by the Management Company, shall work in good faith with the Management Company and shall use commercially reasonable efforts to assist the Management Company in satisfying all such obligations.

2. Compensation.

(a) As compensation for its performance of its obligations as Sub-Advisor under this Agreement, the Sub-Advisor will be entitled to receive a monthly fee in the amount of Two Hundred Fifty-Two Thousand and 00/100 Dollars ($252,000.00) (the "Sub-Advisory Fee"). The Sub-Advisory Fee shall be payable monthly in advance.

(b) Each party shall bear its own expenses.

(c) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, if on any date the Management Company determines that it would not have sufficient funds available to it to make a payment of Indebtedness, it shall have the right to defer any and all amounts payable to the Sub-Advisor pursuant to this Agreement, including any fees and expenses; provided that the Management Company shall promptly pay all such amounts on the first date thereafter that sufficient amounts exist to make payment thereof.

3. Representations and Warranties.

(a) Each of the Management Company and the Sub-Advisor represents and warrants, as to itself only, that:

(i) it has full power and authority to execute and deliver, and to perform its obligations under, this Agreement;

(ii) this Agreement has been duly authorized, executed and delivered by it and constitutes its valid and binding, obligation, enforceable in accordance with its terms except as the enforceability hereof may be subject to (i) bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization moratorium, receivership, conservatorship or other similar laws now or hereafter in effect relating to creditors' rights and (ii) general principles of equity (regardless of whether such enforcement is considered in a proceeding, in equity or at law);

(iii) no consent, approval, authorization or order of or declaration or filing with any government, governmental instrumentality or court or other person or entity is required for the execution of this Agreement or the performance by it of its duties hereunder, except such as have been duly made or obtained; and

(iv) neither the execution and delivery of this Agreement nor the fulfillment of the terms hereof conflicts with or results in a breach or violation of any of the terms or provisions of, or constitutes a default under, (A) its constituting and organizational documents; (B) the terms of any material indenture, contract, lease, mortgage, deed of trust, note, agreement or other evidence of indebtedness or other material agreement, obligation, condition, covenant or instrument to which it is a party or by which it is bound; (C) any statute applicable to it; or (D) any law, decree, order, rule or regulation applicable to it of any court or regulatory, administrative or governmental agency, body of authority or arbitration having or asserting jurisdiction over it or its properties, which, in the case of clauses (B) through (D) above, would have a material adverse effect upon the performance of its duties hereunder.

(b) The Sub-Advisor represents and warrants to the Management Company that it is a registered investment adviser under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended (the “Advisers Act”).

(c) The Management Company acknowledges that it has received Part 2 of the Sub-Advisor’s Form ADV filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission. The Sub-Advisor will provide to the Management Company an updated copy of Part 2 of its Form ADV promptly upon any amendment to such Form ADV being filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

4. Standard of Care; Liability; Indemnification.

(a) Sub-Advisor Standard of Care. Subject to the terms and provisions of this Agreement, the Management Agreements and/or the Related Agreements, as applicable, the Sub-Advisor will perform its obligations hereunder and under the Management Agreements and/or the Related Agreements in good faith with reasonable care using a degree of skill and attention no less than that which the Sub-Advisor uses with respect to comparable assets that it manages for others and, without limiting the foregoing, in a manner which the Sub-Advisor reasonably believes to be consistent with the practices and procedures followed by institutional managers of national standing relating to assets of the nature and character of the Portfolios, in each case except as expressly provided otherwise under this Agreement, the Management Agreements and/or the Related Agreements. To the extent not inconsistent with the foregoing, the Sub-Advisor will follow its customary standards, policies and procedures in performing its duties hereunder, under the Management Agreements and/or under the Related Agreements.

(b) Exculpation. To the fullest extent permitted by law, none of the Sub-Advisor, any of its affiliates, and any of their respective managers, members, principals, partners, directors, officers, shareholders, employees and agents (but shall not include the Management Company, its subsidiaries or member(s) and any managers, members, principals, partners, directors, officers, shareholders, employees and agents of the Management Company or its subsidiaries or member(s) (in their capacity as such)) (each a “Covered Person”) will be liable to the Management Company, any Member, any shareholder, partner or member thereof, any Account (or any other adviser, agent or representative thereof), or to any holder of notes, securities or other indebtedness issued by any Account (collectively, the “Management Company Related Parties”), for (i) any acts or omissions by such Covered Person arising out of or in connection with the provision of the Services hereunder; for any losses that may be sustained in the purchase, holding or sale of any security or debt obligation by any Account, or as a result of any activities of the Sub-Advisor, the Management Company or any other adviser to or agent of the Account or any other sub-advisor appointed by the Management Company to provide portfolio management services to any other delegatee of the Management Company or any other person or entity, unless it is determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction, in a final nonappealable judgment, to be the result of gross negligence or to constitute fraud or willful misconduct (as interpreted under the laws of the State of Delaware) (each, a “Disabling Conduct”) on the part of such Covered Person, (ii) any mistake, gross negligence, misconduct or bad faith of any employee, broker, administrator or other agent or representative of the Sub-Advisor, provided that such employee, broker, administrator or agent was selected, engaged or retained by or on behalf of the Sub-Advisor with reasonable care, or (iii) any consequential (including loss of profit), indirect, special or punitive damages. To the extent that, at law or in equity, any Covered Person has duties (including fiduciary duties) and liabilities relating thereto to any Management Company Related Party, no Covered Person acting under this Agreement shall be liable to such Management Company Related Party for its good-faith reliance on the provisions of this Agreement. The exculpations set forth in this Section 4(b) shall exculpate any Covered Person regardless of such Covered Person’s sole, comparative, joint, concurrent, or subsequent negligence.

To the fullest extent permitted by law, no Covered Person shall have any personal liability to any Management Company Related Party solely by reason of any change in U.S. federal, state or local or foreign income tax laws, or in interpretations thereof, as they apply to any such Management Company Related Party, whether the change occurs through legislative, judicial or administrative action.

Any Covered Person in its sole and absolute discretion may consult legal counsel, accountants or other advisers selected by it, and any act or omission taken, or made in good faith by such Person on behalf of the Management Company or in furtherance of the business of the Management Company in good-faith reliance on and in accordance with the advice of such counsel, accountants or other advisers shall be full justification for the act or omission, and to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, no Covered Person shall be liable to any Management Company Related Party in so acting or omitting to act if such counsel, accountants or other advisers were selected, engaged or retained with reasonable care.

(c) Indemnification. The Management Company shall and hereby does, to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, indemnify and hold harmless any Covered Person from and against any and all claims, causes of action (including, but not limited to, strict liability, negligence, statutory violation, regulatory violation, breach of contract, and all other torts and claims arising under common law), demands, liabilities, costs, expenses, damages, losses, suits, proceedings, judgments, assessments, actions and other liabilities, whether judicial, administrative, investigative or otherwise, of whatever nature, known or unknown, liquidated or unliquidated, whether currently existing or accruing in the future (“Claims”), that may accrue to or be incurred by any Covered Person, or in which any Covered Person may become involved, as a party or otherwise, or with which any Covered Person may be threatened, relating to or arising out of the Services, the activities of the Management Company Related Parties, or activities undertaken in connection with the Management Company Related Parties, or otherwise relating to or arising out of this Agreement, any Management Agreement and/or the Related Documents, including amounts paid in satisfaction of judgments, in compromise or as fines or penalties, and attorneys’ fees and expenses incurred in connection with the preparation for or defense or disposition of any investigation, action, suit, arbitration or other proceeding (a “Proceeding”), whether civil or criminal (all of such Claims, amounts and expenses referred to therein are referred to collectively as “Damages”), except to the extent that it shall have been determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction, in a final nonappealable judgment, that such Damages arose primarily from Disabling Conduct of such Covered Person. The termination of any Proceeding by settlement, judgment, order, conviction or upon a plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent shall not, of itself, create a presumption that any Damages relating to such settlement, judgment, order, conviction or plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent or otherwise relating to such Proceeding arose primarily from Disabling Conduct of any Covered Persons. Any Covered Person shall be indemnified under the terms of this Section 4(c) regardless of such Covered Person’s sole, comparative, joint, concurrent, or subsequent negligence.

Expenses (including attorneys’ fees) incurred by a Covered Person in defense or settlement of any Claim that may be subject to a right of indemnification hereunder shall be advanced by the Management Company prior to the final disposition thereof upon receipt of a written undertaking by or on behalf of the Covered Person to repay the amount advanced to the extent that it shall be determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction that the Covered Person is not entitled to be indemnified hereunder. The right of any Covered Persons to the indemnification provided herein shall be cumulative of, and in addition to, any and all rights to which the Covered Person may otherwise be entitled by contract or as a matter of law or equity and shall be extended to the Covered Person’s successors, assigns and legal representatives. Any judgments against the Management Company and/or any Covered Persons in respect of which such Covered Person is entitled to indemnification shall first be satisfied from the assets of the Management Company, including Drawdowns, before such Covered Person is responsible therefor.

Notwithstanding any provision of this Agreement to the contrary, the provisions of this Section 4(c) shall not be construed so as to provide for the indemnification of any Covered Person for any liability (including liability under Federal securities laws which, under certain circumstances, impose liability even on persons that act in good faith), to the extent (but only to the extent) that such indemnification would be in violation of applicable law, but shall be construed so as to effectuate the provisions of this Section 4(c) to the fullest extent permitted by law

(d) Other Sources of Recovery etc. The indemnification rights set forth in Section 4(c) are in addition to, and shall not exclude, limit or otherwise adversely affect, any other indemnification or similar rights to which any Covered Person may be entitled. If and to the extent that other sources of recovery (including proceeds of any applicable policies of insurance or indemnification from any Person in which any Account has an investment) are available to any Covered Person, such Covered Person shall use reasonable efforts to obtain recovery from such other sources before the Company shall be required to make any payment in respect of its indemnification obligations hereunder; provided that, if such other recovery is not available without delay, the Covered Person shall be entitled to such payment by the Management Company and the Management Company shall be entitled to reimbursement out of such other recovery when and if obtained

(e) Rights of Heirs, Successors and Assigns. The indemnification rights provided by Section 4(c) shall inure to the benefit of the heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns of each Covered Person

(f) Reliance. A Covered Person shall incur no liability to any Management Company Related Party in acting upon any signature or writing reasonably believed by him, her or it to be genuine, and may rely in good faith on a certificate signed by an officer of any Person in order to ascertain any fact with respect to such Person or within such Person's knowledge. Each Covered Person may act directly or through his, her or its agents or attorneys.

(g) Rights Under Management Agreements and Related Agreements. The Management Company will ensure that the Sub-Advisor is provided substantially similar indemnification and exculpation rights as are afforded to the Management Company in its role as portfolio manager under any future Management Agreement or Related Agreement encompassed within the Services hereunder, and it is expressly acknowledged by the Parties that the Sub-Advisor may not consent to including a Management Agreement and Related Agreements within the scope of this Agreement pursuant to Section 8 if such indemnification and exculpation rights are not reasonably acceptable to it.

5. Limitations on Employment of the Sub-Advisor; Conflicts of Interest.

(a) The services of the Sub-Advisor to the Management Company are not exclusive, and the Sub-Advisor may engage in any other business or render similar or different services to others including, without limitation, the direct or indirect sponsorship or management of other transactions, investment-based accounts or commingled pools of capital, however structured, having investment objectives similar to those of the Management Company or the Accounts. Moreover, nothing in this Agreement shall limit or restrict the right of any manager, partner, officer or employee of the Sub-Advisor to engage in any other business or to devote his or her time and attention in part to any other business, whether of a similar or dissimilar nature to the Management Company or any Account, or to receive any fees or compensation in connection therewith.

(b) So long as this Agreement or any extension, renewal or amendment of this Agreement remains in effect, the Sub-Advisor shall be the only portfolio management sub-advisor for the Management Company. The Sub-Advisor assumes no responsibility under this Agreement other than to render the services called for hereunder. It is understood that directors, officers, employees, members and managers of the Management Company are or may become interested in the Sub-Advisor and its Affiliates as directors, officers, employees, partners, stockholders, members, managers or otherwise, and that the Sub-Advisor and directors, officers, employees, partners, stockholders, members and managers of the Sub-Advisor and its Affiliates are or may become similarly interested in the Management Company as members or otherwise.

(c) The Management Company acknowledges that various potential and actual conflicts of interest may exist with respect to the Sub-Advisor as described in the Sub-Advisor's Form ADV Part 2A and as described in Appendix B hereto, and the Management Company expressly acknowledges and agrees to the provisions contained in such Appendix B, as amended from time to time with mutual consent of the Parties.

6. Termination; Survival.

(a) This Agreement may be terminated, in its entirety or with respect to any Management Agreement, at any time without payment of penalty, by the Management Company upon 30 days' prior written notice to the Sub-Advisor.

(b) This Agreement shall terminate automatically with respect to any Management Agreement on the date on which (i) such Management Agreement has been terminated (and, if required thereunder, a successor portfolio manager has been appointed and accepted) or discharged; or (ii) the Management Company is no longer acting as portfolio manager, investment manager or in a similar capacity (whether due to removal, resignation or assignment) under such Management Agreement and the Related Agreements. Upon the termination of this Agreement with respect to any Management Agreement the Management Company shall provide prompt notice thereof to the Sub-Advisor, and Appendix A hereto shall be deemed to be amended by deleting such Management Agreement and the Related Agreements related thereto.

(c) All accrued and unpaid financial and indemnification obligations with respect to any conduct or events occurring prior to the effective date of the termination of this Agreement shall survive the termination of this Agreement.

7. Cooperation with Management Company. The Sub-Advisor shall reasonably cooperate with the Management Company in connection with the Management Company's compliance with its policies and procedures relating to oversight of the Sub-Advisor. Specifically, the Sub-Advisor agrees that it will provide the Management Company with reasonable access to information relating to the performance of Sub-Advisor's obligations under this Agreement.

8. Management Agreements and Related Agreements. The Sub-Advisor's duty to provide Services in connection with any Management Agreement shall not commence until (a) Appendix A to this Agreement has been amended by mutual agreement of the Parties to include such Management Agreement and the related Account, fund and/or account and Related Agreements and (b) the Sub-Advisor acknowledges receipt of such Management Agreement and each Related Agreement. The Sub-Advisor shall not be bound to comply with any amendment, modification, supplement or waiver to any Management Agreement or any Related Agreement until it has received a copy thereof from the Management Company. No amendment, modification, supplement or waiver to any Management Agreement or Related Agreement that, when applied to the obligations and rights of the Management Company under such Management Agreement or Related Agreement, affects (i) the obligations or rights of the Sub-Advisor hereunder; (ii) the amount or priority of any fees or other amounts payable to the Sub-Advisor hereunder; or (iii) any definitions relating to the matters covered in clause (i) or (ii) above, will apply to the Sub-Advisor under this Agreement unless in each such case the Sub-Advisor has consented thereto in writing (such consent not to be unreasonably withheld or delayed unless the Sub-Advisor determines in its reasonable judgment that such amendment, modification, supplement or waiver could have a material adverse effect on the Sub-Advisor).

9. Amendments; Assignments.

(a) Neither Party may assign, pledge, grant or otherwise encumber or transfer all or any part of its rights or responsibilities under this Agreement, in whole or in part, except (i) as provided in clauses (b) and (c) of this Section 9, without the prior written consent of the other Party and (ii) in accordance with the Advisers Act and other applicable law.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in this Section 9, the Sub-Advisor may not assign its rights or responsibilities under this Agreement unless (i) the Management Company consents in writing thereto and (ii) such assignment is made in accordance with the Advisers Act and other applicable law.

(c) The Sub-Advisor may, without satisfying any of the conditions of Section 9(a) other than clause (ii) thereof (so long as such assignment does not constitute an assignment within the meaning of Section 202(a)(1) of the Advisers Act), (1) assign any of its rights or obligations under this Agreement to an affiliate; provided that such affiliate (i) has demonstrated ability, whether as an entity or by its principals and employees, to professionally and competently perform duties similar to those imposed upon the Sub-Advisor pursuant to this Agreement and (ii) has the legal right and capacity to act as Sub-Advisor under this Agreement, or (2) enter into (or have its parent enter into) any consolidation or amalgamation with, or merger with or into, or transfer of all or substantially all of its assets to, another entity; provided that, at the time of such consolidation, merger, amalgamation or transfer the resulting, surviving or transferee entity assumes all the obligations of the Sub-Advisor under this Agreement generally (whether by operation of law or by contract) and the other entity is a continuation of the Sub-Advisor in another corporate or similar form and has substantially the same staff; provided, further, that the Sub-Advisor shall deliver ten (10) Business Days' prior notice to the Management Company of any assignment or combination made pursuant to this sentence. Upon the execution and delivery of any such assignment by the assignee, the Sub-Advisor will be released from further obligations pursuant to this Agreement except to the extent expressly provided herein.

10. Advisory Restrictions. This Agreement is not intended to and shall not constitute an assignment, pledge or transfer of any Management Agreement or any part thereof. It is the express intention of the parties hereto that (i) the Services are limited in scope; and (ii) this Agreement complies in all respects with all applicable (A) contractual provisions and restrictions contained in each Management Agreement and each Related Agreement and (B) laws, rules and regulations (collectively, the "Advisory Restrictions"). If any provision of this Agreement is determined to be in violation of any Advisory Restriction, then the Services to be provided under this Agreement shall automatically without action by any person or entity be limited, reduced or modified to the extent necessary and appropriate to be enforceable to the maximum extent permitted by such Advisory Restriction.

11. Records; Confidentiality.

(a) The Sub-Advisor shall maintain or cause to be maintained appropriate books of account and records relating to its services performed hereunder, and such books of account and records shall be accessible for inspection by representatives of the Management Company and its accountants and other agents at any time during normal business hours and upon not less than three (3) Business Days' prior notice; provided, that the Sub-Advisor shall not be obligated to provide access to any non-public information if it in good faith determines that the disclosure of such information would violate any applicable law, regulation or contractual arrangement.

(b) The Sub-Advisor shall follow its customary procedures to keep confidential any and all information obtained in connection with the services rendered hereunder that is either (a) of a type that would ordinarily be considered proprietary or confidential, such as information concerning the composition of assets, rates of return, credit quality, structure or ownership of securities, or (b) designated as confidential obtained in connection with the services rendered by the Sub-Advisor hereunder and shall not disclose any such information to non-affiliated third parties except (i) with the prior written consent of the Management Company, (ii) such information as a rating agency shall reasonably request in connection with its rating of notes issued by an Account or supplying credit estimates on any obligation included in the Portfolios, (iii) in connection with establishing trading or investment accounts or otherwise in connection with effecting transactions on behalf of the Management Company or any Account for which the Management Company serves as portfolio manager, (iv) as required by (A) applicable law or (B) the rules or regulations of any self-regulating organization, body or official having jurisdiction over the Sub-Advisor or any of its affiliates, (v) to its professional advisors (including, without limitation, legal, tax and accounting advisors), (vi) such information as shall have been publicly disclosed other than in known violation of this Agreement or shall have been obtained by the Sub-Advisor on a non-confidential basis, (vii) such information as is necessary or appropriate to disclose so that the Sub-Advisor may perform its duties hereunder, (viii) as expressly permitted in the final offering memorandum or any definitive transaction documents relating to any transaction, or (ix) information relating to performance of the Portfolios as may be used by the Sub-Advisor in the ordinary course of its business. Notwithstanding the foregoing, it is agreed that the Sub-Advisor may disclose without the consent of any Person (1) that it is serving as Sub-Advisor to the Management Company and each Account, (2) the nature, aggregate principal amount and overall performance of the Portfolios, (3) the amount of earnings on the Portfolios, (4) such other information about the Management Company, the Portfolios as is customarily disclosed by Sub-Advisors to management vehicles similar to the Management Company, and (5) the United States federal income tax treatment and United States federal income tax structure of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement and the related documents and all materials of any kind (including opinions and other tax analyses) that are provided to them relating to such United States federal income tax treatment and United States income tax structure. This authorization to disclose the U.S. tax treatment and tax structure does not permit disclosure of information identifying the Sub-Advisor, the Management Company, the Accounts or any other party to the transactions contemplated by this Agreement (except to the extent such information is relevant to U.S. tax structure or tax treatment of such transactions).

12. Notice. Any notice or demand to any party to this Agreement to be given, made or served for any purposes under this Agreement shall be given, made or served by sending the same by overnight mail, facsimile or email transmission or by delivering it by hand as follows (or to such other address, email address or facsimile number as shall have been notified to the other parties hereto):

- (a) If to the Management Company:

NexPoint Advisors, L.P.

13. Governing Law. This Agreement shall be governed by, and construed in accordance with, the laws of the State of Texas. The parties unconditionally and irrevocably consent to the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts located in the State of Texas and waive any objection with respect thereto, for the purpose of any action, suit or proceeding arising out of or relating to this Agreement or the transactions contemplated hereby.

14. WAIVER OF JURY TRIAL. EACH OF THE PARTIES HERETO HEREBY KNOWINGLY, VOLUNTARILY AND INTENTIONALLY WAIVES ANY RIGHTS IT MAY HAVE TO A TRIAL BY JURY WITH RESPECT TO ANY LITIGATION BASED HEREON, OR ARISING OUT OF, UNDER, OR IN CONNECTION WITH, THIS AGREEMENT. EACH PARTY HERETO ACKNOWLEDGES AND AGREES THAT IT HAS RECEIVED FULL AND SUFFICIENT CONSIDERATION FOR THIS PROVISION AND THAT THIS PROVISION IS A MATERIAL INDUCEMENT FOR ITS ENTERING INTO THIS AGREEMENT.

15. Severability. The provisions of this Agreement are independent of and severable from each other, and no provision shall be affected or rendered invalid or unenforceable by virtue of the fact that for any reason any other or others of them may be invalid or unenforceable in whole or in part. Upon such determination that any term or other provision is invalid, illegal or incapable of being enforced, the parties hereto shall negotiate in good faith to modify this Agreement so as to effect the original intent of the parties.

16. No Waiver. The performance of any condition or obligation imposed upon any party hereunder may be waived only upon the written consent of the parties hereto. Such waiver shall be limited to the terms thereof and shall not constitute a waiver of any other condition or obligation of the other party under this Agreement. Any failure by any party to this Agreement to enforce any provision shall not constitute a waiver of that or any other provision or this Agreement.

17. Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts by facsimile or other written form of communication, each of which shall be deemed to be an original as against any party whose signature appears thereon, and all of which shall together constitute one and the same instrument. This Agreement shall become binding when one or more counterparts hereof, individually or taken together, shall bear the signatures of all of the parties reflected hereon as the signatories.

18. Third Party Beneficiaries. Nothing in this Agreement will be construed to give any person or entity other than the parties to this Agreement, the Accounts and any person or entity with indemnification rights hereunder any legal or equitable right, remedy, or claim under or with respect to this Agreement or any provision of this Agreement. Except as provided in the foregoing sentence, this Agreement and all of its provisions and conditions are for the sole and exclusive benefit of the parties to this Agreement and their successors and assigns.

19. No Partnership or Joint Venture. Nothing set forth in this Agreement shall constitute, or be construed to create, an employment relationship, a partnership or a joint venture between the parties. Except as expressly provided herein or in any other written agreement between the parties, no party has any authority, express or implied, to bind or to incur liabilities on behalf of, or in the name of, any other party.

20. Entire Agreement. This Agreement, together with each Management Agreement and Related Agreement, constitutes the entire agreement of the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof and supersedes all prior agreements and undertakings, both written and oral, between the parties with respect to such subject matter.

APPENDIX B

Purchase and Sale Transactions; Brokerage

The Management Company acknowledges and agrees that the Sub-Advisor or any of its affiliates may acquire or sell obligations or securities, for its own account or for the accounts of its clients, without either requiring or precluding the acquisition or sale of such obligations or securities for the account of any Account. Such investments may be the same or different from those made by or on behalf of the Management Company or the Accounts.

Additional Activities of the Sub-Advisor

Nothing herein shall prevent the Sub-Advisor or any of its clients, its partners, its members, funds or other investment accounts managed by it or any of its affiliates, or their employees and their affiliates (collectively, the "Related Entities"), from engaging in other businesses, or from rendering services of any kind to the Management Company, its affiliates, any Account or any other Person or entity regardless of whether such business is in competition with the Management Company, its affiliates, such Account or otherwise. Without limiting the generality of the Sub-Advisor and its Related Entities may:

- (a) serve as managers or directors (whether supervisory or managing), officers, employees, partners, agents, nominees or signatories for the Management Company or any affiliate thereof, or for any obligor or issuer in respect of any of the Portfolio assets or any affiliate thereof, to the extent permitted by their respective organizational documents and underlying instruments, as from time to time amended, or by any resolutions duly adopted by the Management Company, any Account, their respective affiliates or any obligor or issuer in respect of any of the Portfolio assets (or any affiliate thereof) pursuant to their respective organizational documents;
- (b) receive fees for services of whatever nature rendered to the obligor or issuer in respect of any of the Portfolio Assets or any affiliate thereof;
- (c) be retained to provide services unrelated to this Agreement to the Management Company, any Account or their respective affiliates and be paid therefor, on an arm's-length basis;
- (d) be a secured or unsecured creditor of, or hold a debt obligation of or equity interest in, the Management Company, any Account or any affiliate thereof or any obligor or issuer of any Portfolio asset or any affiliate thereof;
- (e) sell any Portfolio asset to, or purchase or acquire any Portfolio asset from, any Account while acting in the capacity of principal or agent; provided, however, that any such sale or purchase effected by the Sub-Advisor shall be subject to applicable law and any applicable provisions of this Agreement, the related Management Agreement and Related Agreements, as applicable;
- (f) underwrite, arrange, structure, originate, syndicate, act as a distributor of or make a market in any Portfolio asset;

(g) serve as a member of any “creditors’ board”, “creditors’ committee” or similar creditor group with respect to any Portfolio asset; or

(h) act as portfolio manager, portfolio manager, investment manager and/or investment adviser or sub-advisor in collateralized bond obligation vehicles, collateralized loan obligation vehicles and other similar warehousing, financing or other investment vehicles.

As a result, such individuals may possess information relating to obligors and issuers of Portfolio assets that is (a) not known to or (b) known but restricted as to its use by the individuals at the Sub-Advisor responsible for monitoring the Portfolio assets and performing the Services under this Agreement. Each of such ownership and other relationships may result in securities laws restrictions on Transactions in such securities by the Management Company and/or any Account and otherwise create conflicts of interest for the Management Company and/or any Account. The Management Company acknowledges and agrees that, in all such instances, the Sub-Advisor and its affiliates may in their discretion make investment recommendations and decisions that may be the same as or different from those made by the Management Company with respect to the investments of any Account and they have no duty, in making or managing such investments, to act in a way that is favorable to any Account.

The Management Company acknowledges that there are generally no ethical screens or information barriers between the Sub-Advisor and certain of its affiliates of the type that many firms implement to separate Persons who make investment decisions from others who might possess applicable material, non-public information that could influence such decisions. The officers or affiliates of the Sub-Advisor may possess information relating to obligors or issuers of Portfolio Assets that is not known to the individuals at the Sub-Advisor responsible for providing the Services under this Agreement. As a result, the Sub-Advisor may from time to time come into possession of material nonpublic information that limits the ability of the Sub-Advisor to effect a Transaction for the Management Company and/or any Account, and the Management Company and/or such Account’s investments may be constrained as a consequence of the Sub-Advisor’s inability to use such information for advisory purposes or otherwise to effect Transactions that otherwise may have been initiated on behalf of its clients, including the Management Company and/or such Account.

Unless the Sub-Advisor determines in its sole discretion that a Portfolio investment complies with the conflicts of interest provisions set forth in the applicable Management Agreement and Related Agreements, the Sub-Advisor will not direct any Account to acquire or sell loans or securities entered into or issued by (i) Persons of which the Sub-Advisor, any of its affiliates or any of its officers, directors or employees are directors or officers, (ii) Persons of which the Sub-Advisor or any of its respective affiliates act as principal or (iii) Persons about which the Sub-Advisor or any of its affiliates have material non-public information which the Sub-Advisor deems would prohibit it from advising as to the trading of such securities in accordance with applicable law.

It is understood that the Sub-Advisor and any of its affiliates may engage in any other business and furnish investment management and advisory services to others, including Persons which may have investment policies similar to those followed by the Management Company with respect to the Portfolio assets and which may own securities or obligations of the same class, or which are of the same type, as the Portfolio assets or other securities or obligations of the obligors or issuers of the Portfolio assets. The Sub-Advisor and its affiliates will be free, in their sole discretion, to make recommendations to others, or effect Transactions on behalf of themselves or for others, which may be the same as or different from those effected with respect to the Collateral. Nothing in this Agreement, in the Management Agreements or in the Related Agreements shall prevent the Sub-Advisor or any of its affiliates, acting either as principal or agent on behalf of others, from buying or selling, or from recommending to or directing any other account to buy or sell, at any time, securities or obligations of the same kind or class, or securities or obligations of a different kind or class of the same obligor or issuer, as those directed by the Sub-Advisor to be purchased or sold on behalf of an Account. It is understood that, to the extent permitted by applicable law, the Sub-Advisor, its Related Entities, or any of their owners, directors, managers, officers, stockholders, members, partners, partnership committee members, employees, agents or affiliates or the other Covered Persons or any member of their families or a Person or entity advised by the Sub-Advisor may have an interest in a particular transaction or in securities or obligations of the same kind or class, or securities or obligations of a different kind or class of the same issuer, as those that may be owned or acquired by an Account. The Management Company agrees that, in the course of providing the Services, the Sub-Advisor may consider its relationships with other clients (including obligors and issuers) and its affiliates.

The Management Company agrees that neither the Sub-Advisor nor any of its affiliates is under any obligation to offer any investment opportunity of which they become aware to the Management Company or any Account or to account to the Management Company or any Account for (or share with the Management Company or any Account or inform the Management Company or any Account of) any such transaction or any benefit received by them from any such transaction. The Management Company understands that the Sub-Advisor and/or its affiliates may have, for their own accounts or for the accounts of others, portfolios with substantially the same portfolio criteria as are applicable to the Accounts. Furthermore, the Sub-Advisor and/or its affiliates may make an investment on behalf of any client or on their own behalf without offering the investment opportunity or making any investment on behalf of the Management Company or any Account and, accordingly, investment opportunities may not be allocated among all such clients. The Management Company acknowledges that affirmative obligations may arise in the future, whereby the Sub-Advisor and/or its affiliates are obligated to offer certain investments to clients before or without the Sub-Advisor offering those investments to the Management Company or any Account.

The Management Company acknowledges that the Sub-Advisor and its affiliates may make and/or hold investments in an obligor's or issuer's obligations or securities that may be pari passu, senior or junior in ranking to an investment in such obligor's or issuer's obligations or securities made and/or held by the Management Company or any Account, or in which partners, security holders, members, officers, directors, agents or employees of the Sub-Advisor and its affiliates serve on boards of directors, or otherwise have ongoing relationships or otherwise have interests different from or adverse to those of the Management Company and the Accounts.

Defined Terms

For purposes of this Appendix B, the following defined terms shall have the meanings set forth below:

"Portfolio" shall mean, with respect to any Account, the assets held by or in the name of the Account or any subsidiary of the Account in respect of such Transaction, whether or not for the benefit of the related secured parties, securing the obligations of such Account.

“Transaction” shall mean any action taken by the Sub-Advisor on behalf of any Account with respect to the Portfolio, including, without limitation, (i) selecting the Portfolio assets to be acquired by the Account, (ii) investing and reinvesting the Portfolio, (iii) amending, waiving and/or taking any other action commensurate with managing the Portfolio and (iv) instructing the Account with respect to any acquisition, disposition or tender of a Portfolio asset or other assets received in respect thereof in the open market or otherwise by the Account.

THIS PAYROLL REIMBURSEMENT AGREEMENT (this “Agreement”) entered into on this 1st day of May, 2018 by and among Highland Capital Management, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership (“HCMLP”), and NexPoint Advisors, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership (“NexPoint”), and any affiliate of NexPoint that becomes a party hereto, is effective as of January 1, 2018 (the “Effective Date”). Each of the signatories hereto is individually a “Party” and collectively the “Parties”.

RECITALS

A. During the Term, HCMLP will seek reimbursement from NexPoint for the cost of certain employees who are dual employees of HCMLP and NexPoint and who provide advice to registered investment companies advised by NexPoint under the direction and supervision of NexPoint as more fully described in this Agreement.

AGREEMENT

In consideration of the foregoing recitals and the mutual covenants and conditions contained herein, the Parties agree, intending to be legally bound, as follows:

ARTICLE I DEFINITIONS

“Actual Cost” means, with respect to any period hereunder, the actual costs and expenses caused by, incurred or otherwise arising from or relating to each Dual Employee, in each case during such period. Absent any changes to employee reimbursement, as set forth in Section 2.02, such costs and expenses are equal to $252,000 per month.

“Affiliate” means a Person that directly, or indirectly through one or more intermediaries, controls, or is controlled by, or is under common control with, a specified Person. The term “control” (including, with correlative meanings, the terms “controlled by” and “under common control with”) means the possession of the power to direct the management and policies of the referenced Person, whether through ownership interests, by contract or otherwise.

“Agreement” has the meaning set forth in the preamble.

“Allocation Percentage” has the meaning set forth in Section 3.01.

“Dual Employee” has the meaning set forth in Section 2.01.

“Effective Date” has the meaning set forth in the preamble.

“Party” or “Parties” has the meaning set forth in the preamble.

“Person” means an association, a corporation, an individual, a partnership, a limited liability company, a trust or any other entity or organization.

“Tax” or “Taxes” means: (i) all state and local sales, use, value-added, gross receipts, foreign, privilege, utility, infrastructure maintenance, property, federal excise and similar levies, duties and other similar tax-like charges lawfully levied by a duly constituted taxing authority against or upon the Shared Services and the Shared Assets; and (ii) tax-related surcharges or fees that are related to the Shared Services and the Shared Assets identified and authorized by applicable tariffs.

ARTICLE II EMPLOYEE REIMBURSEMENT

Section 2.01 Employee Reimbursement. During the Term, NexPoint shall reimburse HCMLP for the Actual Cost to HCMLP of certain employees who (i) are dual employees of HCMLP and NexPoint and (ii) provide advice to any investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the “1940 Act”) pursuant to an investment advisory agreement between NexPoint and such investment company (each, a “Fund”) under the direction and supervision of NexPoint (each, a “Dual Employee”).

Section 2.02 Changes to Employee Reimbursement. During the Term, the Parties may agree to modify the terms and conditions of NexPoint’s reimbursement in order to reflect new procedures or processes, including modifying the Allocation Percentage (defined below) applicable to such Dual Employee to reflect the then current fair market value of such Dual Employee’s employment. The Parties will negotiate in good faith the terms of such modification.

ARTICLE III COST ALLOCATION

Section 3.01 Actual Cost Allocation Formula. The Actual Cost of any Dual Employee relating to the investment advisory services provided to a Fund shall be allocated based on the Allocation Percentage. For purposes of this Agreement, “Allocation Percentage” means the Parties’ good faith determination of the percentage of each Dual Employee’s aggregate hours worked during a quarter that were spent on NexPoint matters, as listed on Exhibit A.

ARTICLE IV PAYMENT OF COST AND REVENUE SHARE; TAXES

Section 4.01 Settlement Payments. At any time during the Term, NexPoint may make payment of the amounts that are allocable to it.

Section 4.02 Determination and Payment of Cost. NexPoint shall promptly make payment of the Actual Cost within ten (10) days of the end of each calendar month. Should either Party determine that a change to employee reimbursement is appropriate, as set forth in Section 2.02, the Party requesting the modification shall notify the other Party on or before the last business day of the calendar month.

Section 4.03 Taxes.

(a) NexPoint is responsible for and will pay all Taxes applicable to it, provided, that such payments by NexPoint to HCMLP will be made in the most tax-efficient manner and provided further, that HCMLP will not be subject to any liability for Taxes applicable to the cost of a Dual Employee of NexPoint as a result of such payment by NexPoint. HCMLP will collect such Tax from NexPoint in the same manner it collects such Taxes from other customers in the ordinary course of its business, but in no event prior to the time it invoices NexPoint for costs for which such Taxes are levied. NexPoint may provide HCMLP with a certificate evidencing its exemption from payment of or liability for such Taxes.

(b) NexPoint will reimburse HCMLP for any Taxes collected from HCMLP and refunded to NexPoint. In the event a Tax is assessed against NexPoint that is solely the responsibility of HCMLP and HCMLP desires to protest such assessment, HCMLP will submit to NexPoint a statement of the issues and arguments requesting that NexPoint grant HCMLP the authority to prosecute the protest in NexPoint's name. NexPoint's authorization will not be unreasonably withheld. HCMLP will finance, manage, control and determine the strategy for such protest while keeping NexPoint reasonably informed of the proceedings. However, the authorization will be periodically reviewed by NexPoint to determine any adverse impact on NexPoint, and NexPoint will have the right to reasonably withdraw such authority at any time. Upon notice by NexPoint that it is so withdrawing such authority, HCMLP will expeditiously terminate all proceedings. Any adverse consequences suffered by HCMLP as a result of the withdrawal will be submitted to litigation pursuant to Section 6.14. Any contest for Taxes brought by HCMLP may not result in any lien attaching to any property or rights of NexPoint or otherwise jeopardize NexPoint's interests or rights in any of its property.

(c) The provisions of this Section 4.03 will govern the treatment of all Taxes arising as a result of or in connection with this Agreement notwithstanding any other Article of this Agreement to the contrary.

ARTICLE V TERM AND TERMINATION

Section 5.01 Term. The term of this Agreement will commence as of the Effective Date and will continue in full force and effect until the first anniversary of the Effective Date (the "Term"), unless terminated earlier in accordance with Section 5.02. The Term shall automatically renew for successive one year periods unless sooner terminated under Section 5.02.

Section 5.02 Termination. Either Party may terminate this Agreement, with or without cause, upon at least 60 days advance written notice at any time prior to the expiration of the Term.

ARTICLE VI MISCELLANEOUS

Section 6.01 No Partnership or Joint Venture; Independent Contractor. Section 6.07 Headings. The descriptive headings of the Articles, Sections and subsections of this Agreement are for convenience only and do not constitute a part of this Agreement.

Section 6.08 Counterparts. ## PAYROLL REIMBURSEMENT AGREEMENT

THIS PAYROLL REIMBURSEMENT AGREEMENT (this “Agreement”) entered into on this 1st day of May, 2018 by and among Highland Capital Management, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership (“HCMLP”), and Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership (“HCMFA”), and any affiliate of HCMFA that becomes a party hereto, is effective as of January 1, 2018 (the “Effective Date”). Each of the signatories hereto is individually a “Party” and collectively the “Parties”.

RECITALS

A. During the Term, HCMLP will seek reimbursement from HCMFA for the cost of certain employees who are dual employees of HCMLP and HCMFA and who provide advice to registered investment companies advised by HCMFA under the direction and supervision of HCMFA as more fully described in this Agreement.

AGREEMENT

In consideration of the foregoing recitals and the mutual covenants and conditions contained herein, the Parties agree, intending to be legally bound, as follows:

ARTICLE I DEFINITIONS

“Actual Cost” means, with respect to any period hereunder, the actual costs and expenses caused by, incurred or otherwise arising from or relating to each Dual Employee, in each case during such period. Absent any changes to employee reimbursement, as set forth in Section 2.02, such costs and expenses are equal to $416,000 per month.

“Affiliate” means a Person that directly, or indirectly through one or more intermediaries, controls, or is controlled by, or is under common control with, a specified Person. The term “control” (including, with correlative meanings, the terms “controlled by” and “under common control with”) means the possession of the power to direct the management and policies of the referenced Person, whether through ownership interests, by contract or otherwise.

“Agreement” has the meaning set forth in the preamble.

“Allocation Percentage” has the meaning set forth in Section 3.01.

“Dual Employee” has the meaning set forth in Section 2.01.

“Effective Date” has the meaning set forth in the preamble.

“Party” or “Parties” has the meaning set forth in the preamble.

“Person” means an association, a corporation, an individual, a partnership, a limited liability company, a trust or any other entity or organization.

“Tax” or “Taxes” means: (i) all state and local sales, use, value-added, gross receipts, foreign, privilege, utility, infrastructure maintenance, property, federal excise and similar levies, duties and other similar tax-like charges lawfully levied by a duly constituted taxing authority against or upon the Shared

Services and the Shared Assets; and (ii) tax-related surcharges or fees that are related to the Shared Services and the Shared Assets identified and authorized by applicable tariffs.

ARTICLE II EMPLOYEE REIMBURSEMENT

Section 2.01 Employee Reimbursement. During the Term, HCMFA shall reimburse HCMLP for the Actual Cost to HCMLP of certain employees who (i) are dual employees of HCMLP and HCMFA and (ii) provide advice to any investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the “1940 Act”) pursuant to an investment advisory agreement between HCMFA and such investment company (each, a “Fund”) under the direction and supervision of HCMFA (each, a “Dual Employee”).

Section 2.02 Changes to Employee Reimbursement. During the Term, the Parties may agree to modify the terms and conditions of HCMFA’s reimbursement in order to reflect new procedures or processes, including modifying the Allocation Percentage (defined below) applicable to such Dual Employee to reflect the then current fair market value of such Dual Employee’s employment. The Parties will negotiate in good faith the terms of such modification.

ARTICLE III COST ALLOCATION

Section 3.01 Actual Cost Allocation Formula. The Actual Cost of any Dual Employee relating to the investment advisory services provided to a Fund shall be allocated based on the Allocation Percentage. For purposes of this Agreement, “Allocation Percentage” means the Parties’ good faith determination of the percentage of each Dual Employee’s aggregate hours worked during a quarter that were spent on HCMFA matters, as listed on Exhibit A.

ARTICLE IV PAYMENT OF COST AND REVENUE SHARE; TAXES

Section 4.01 Settlement Payments. At any time during the Term, HCMFA may make payment of the amounts that are allocable to it.

Section 4.02 Determination and Payment of Cost. HCMFA shall promptly make payment of the Actual Cost within ten (10) days of the end of each calendar month. Should either Party determine that a change to employee reimbursement is appropriate, as set forth in Section 2.02, the Party requesting the modification shall notify the other Party on or before the last business day of the calendar month.

Section 4.03 Taxes.

(a) HCMFA is responsible for and will pay all Taxes applicable to it, provided, that such payments by HCMFA to HCMLP will be made in the most tax-efficient manner and provided further, that HCMLP will not be subject to any liability for Taxes applicable to the cost of a Dual Employee of HCMFA as a result of such payment by HCMFA. HCMLP will collect such Tax from HCMFA in the same manner it collects such Taxes from other customers in the ordinary course of its business, but in no event prior to the time it invoices HCMFA for costs for which such Taxes are levied. HCMFA may provide HCMLP with a certificate evidencing its exemption from payment of or liability for such Taxes.

(b) HCMFA will reimburse HCMLP for any Taxes collected from HCMLP and refunded to HCMFA. In the event a Tax is assessed against HCMFA that is solely the responsibility of HCMLP and HCMFA desires to protest such assessment, HCMLP will submit to HCMFA a statement of the issues and arguments requesting that HCMFA grant HCMLP the authority to prosecute the protest in HCMFA's name. HCMFA's authorization will not be unreasonably withheld. HCMLP will finance, manage, control and determine the strategy for such protest while keeping HCMFA reasonably informed of the proceedings. However, the authorization will be periodically reviewed by HCMFA to determine any adverse impact on HCMFA, and HCMFA will have the right to reasonably withdraw such authority at any time. Upon notice by HCMFA that it is so withdrawing such authority, HCMLP will expeditiously terminate all proceedings. Any adverse consequences suffered by HCMLP as a result of the withdrawal will be submitted to litigation pursuant to Section 6.14. Any contest for Taxes brought by HCMLP may not result in any lien attaching to any property or rights of HCMFA or otherwise jeopardize HCMFA's interests or rights in any of its property.

(c) The provisions of this Section 4.03 will govern the treatment of all Taxes arising as a result of or in connection with this Agreement notwithstanding any other Article of this Agreement to the contrary.

ARTICLE V TERM AND TERMINATION

Section 5.01 Term. The term of this Agreement will commence as of the Effective Date and will continue in full force and effect until the first anniversary of the Effective Date (the "Term"), unless terminated earlier in accordance with Section 5.02. The Term shall automatically renew for successive one year periods unless sooner terminated under Section 5.02.

RE: Supplemental Questions Relating to HCMLP Bankruptcy Matters

Below are follow up questions raised by the Board with respect to matters relating to the HCMLP bankruptcy. The Board would appreciate receiving written responses prior to the discussion on the agenda for the December 10-11, 2020 Board meeting to the extent practicable. If certain questions are more appropriately responded to by HCMLP, the Board requests that these be forwarded for response.

Questions related to Termination of Shared Servicing Arrangements with HCMLP

1. Who is responsible for putting together the plan to continue to provide/transition shared services for the retail complex?

The senior management team of the Advisors is responsible for the transition of services, and this group is made up of Jim Dondero, D.C. Sauter, Jason Post, and Dustin Norris. This group is working with HCMLP management to ensure an orderly transition. Key representatives at HCMLP working on the transition include Frank Waterhouse, David Klos, Jim Seery, Scott Ellington, James Romey, and Fred Caruso.

2. Please provide a matrix of current services provided and services that will be transferred.

Please see Appendix A below, which includes the list of services provided under the shared services agreement with HCMLP. These services fall into two broader categories: 1) Employees performing services and 2) Systems, infrastructure, software and supplies/equipment. As we understand it, the bankruptcy plan of reorganization approved by the bankruptcy court (the "Approved Plan") anticipates the termination of all HCMLP employees by 1/31/21. The Advisors anticipate extending employment offers to the vast majority of HCMLP's employees such that the employees would be rehired immediately upon termination of their employment with HCMLP. This will cover all of the services under category 1 above.

In regards to category 2, the working group described in response 1 above is working on an orderly transition of all of these items. HCMLP has expressed the desire to have the employees sitting in the same seats, working on the same systems, and providing the same services on the day after the termination of the shared services either through an existing entity or a newly formed entity set up for this purpose. HCMLP and the Advisors are working toward this shared goal.

The individuals noted in number 1 above have prepared a working schedule with over 100 agreements in the name of HCMLP that include IT, HR, Accounting, Legal, Research, Valuation, and Admin functions. The Advisors and HCMLP, led by the individuals noted above, are evaluating these agreements to determine which should be accepted or rejected by HCMLP through the bankruptcy process (any agreements that are unnecessary on a go-forward basis will be rejected) and working on an orderly assignment and assumption of the relevant agreements needed to continue with all current services. Some necessary contracts may be assigned to the Advisors; alternatively, the Advisors may be better served in certain instances to enter into new agreements with the counterparty.

3. Specifically explain the personnel, equipment and facilities that will be transferred – and when.

4. Explain if there are any bankruptcy approvals required to facilitate the transfer of any personnel, equipment or facilities?

The operating protocols would require Committee approval or Bankruptcy Court approval for transfers of HCMLP "assets." Employees aren't "assets," but equipment and facilities (if owned) are. If facilities are leased, the leases could be assigned under section 365, which requires court approval.

5. If there are bankruptcy approvals required, please explain the process and timing for obtaining these approvals.

Please refer to response #4.

6. In the event the approvals are not obtained, what is the alternate plan?

If they are unable to receive requisite approvals for equipment for facilities, the Advisers will plan to enter into new license agreements with applicable providers.

7. Please explain the risks associated with transferring the shared services on January 31, 2021.

We are working with HCMLP management to ensure an orderly transition as noted in #1 above.

8. Are there any software licenses, data sharing approvals that need to be modified or obtained?

All required software licenses or data sharing approvals are set forth in #2

9. Are there any regulatory approvals or notifications that need to be obtained to facilitate the transfer?

No regulatory approvals required. Please discuss what steps are being taken to ensure retention of HCMLP employees through the transition to the Highland entity that will take over the services under the Shared Services Agreement. Please address both front office as well as back office level functions.

Representatives of the Advisors and HCMLP will be available to discuss with the Board at the Board meeting on December 10-11

10. What happens if the transition is not able to be completed by the termination date provided by HCMLP?

HCMLP notified all their employees on Friday, December 4th that they would like the transition to be effective on January 31, 2020, however they also communicated that they are committed to making sure it is done smoothly and may need to push it back as needed.

Questions Relating to Cross Holdings of Retail Complex and HCMLP through Direct or Indirect Interests

1. On the existing cross holdings report exhibit IV.A.3 in the December Board materials, please categorize all cross holdings into three groups; 1) those positions where HCMLP is holding the security of a portfolio company held as collateral for the bankruptcy 2) funds or other entities advised by HTMLP (CLOs, NXRT, NHF etc...) and 3) those positions cross held by retail and institutional funds managed by HCMLP.

Please refer to 10.31.20 Cross Holdings Summary Report

2. On the cross holdings report please include the specific retail fund holding the position as well as the percentage of the fund that cross holding represents. Additionally, please provide total security market cap, MSCI level, trading volume or other metrics that will help us evaluate liquidity in the security as well as potential implications to an HCMLP liquidation.

Please refer to 10.31.20 Cross Holdings Summary Report

3. Additionally please include a list of concentrated positions held in the retail funds and comment as to whether or not those concentrated positions have a cross holding in one of the three above mentioned categories and if so provide comparable liquidity metrics (only if it is in one of the categories).

Please refer to 10.31.20 Cross Holdings Summary Report

IN THE UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT
FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS
DALLAS DIVISION

In re:	§ § Chapter 11
HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.,	§ § Case No. 19-34054-sgj11
Debtor.	§ §

APPLICATION FOR ALLOWANCE OF ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSE CLAIM

TO THE HONORABLE STACEY G.C. JERNIGAN, U.S. BANKRUPTCY JUDGE:

COME NOW Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. ("HCMFA") and NexPoint Advisors, L.P. ("NexPoint," and with HCMFA, the "Advisors"), creditors and parties in interest in the above-captioned bankruptcy case (the "Bankruptcy Case"), and file this their Application for Allowance of Administrative Expense Claim (the "Application"), respectfully stating as follows:

I. JURISDICTION AND VENUE

1. The Court has jurisdiction to consider this matter pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 157 and 1334. This is a core proceeding pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 157(b).

2. Venue is proper in this District pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1408 and 1409.

II. BACKGROUND

A. SHARED SERVICES AGREEMENTS

3. On or about February 8, 2013, HCMFA entered into that certain Second Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement (each such agreement, a “SSA”) with Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the “Debtor”). On or about the same date, NexPoint also entered into a SSA with the Debtor.

4. Under the SSAs, the Debtor agreed to provide the Advisors with certain services, including “all of the (i) finance and accounting services, (ii) human resources services, (iii) marketing services, (iv) legal services, (v) corporate services, (vi) information technology services, and (vii) operations services ....”

5. The SSAs contain the following detailed cost allocation provisions:

The Actual Cost of any item relating to any Shared Services or Shared Assets shall be allocated based on the Allocation Percentage. For purposes of this Agreement, “Allocation Percentage” means:

(a) To the extent 100% of such item is demonstrably attributable to HCMFA, 100% of the Actual Cost of such item shall be allocated to HCMFA as agreed by HCMFA;

(b) To the extent a specific percentage of use of such item can be determined (e.g., 70% for HCMLP and 30% for HCMFA), that specific percentage of the Actual Cost of such item will be allocated to HCMLP or HCMFA, as applicable and as agreed by HCMFA; and

(c) All other portions of the Actual Cost of any item that cannot be allocated pursuant to clause (a) or (b) above shall be allocated between HCMLP and HCMFA in such proportion as is agreed in good faith between the parties.

6. “‘Actual Cost’ means, with respect to any period [under the SSA], one hundred percent (100%) of the actual costs and expenses caused by, incurred or otherwise arising from or relating to (i) the Shared Services and (ii) the Shared Assets, in each case during such period.”

7. In the event a party wishes to make changes to the shared services under the SSA, “The parties will negotiate in good faith the terms upon which a Service Provider would be willing to provide such New Shared Services to [the Advisors].”

B. PAYROLL REIMBURSEMENT AGREEMENTS

8. On or about May 1, 2018, HCMFA entered into that certain Payroll Reimbursement Agreement (each such agreement a “PRA”) with the Debtor. On or about the same date, NexPoint also entered into a PRA with the Debtor.

9. Under the PRAs, the Debtor is entitled to seek reimbursement from the Advisors “for the cost of certain employees who are dual employees of [the Debtor and the Advisors] and who provide advice to registered investment companies advised by [the Advisors] under the direction and supervision of [the Debtor] ....”

10. The amount of such reimbursement is based on an actual cost allocation formula as follows: “The Actual Cost of any Dual Employee relating to the investment advisory services provided to a Fund shall be allocated based on the Allocation Percentage. For purposes of this Agreement, “Allocation Percentage” means the Parties’ good faith determination of the percentage of each Dual Employee’s aggregate hours worked during a quarter that were spent on” certain matters set forth in the PRA.

11. “‘Actual Cost’ means, with respect to any period [under the PRA], the actual costs and expenses caused by, incurred or otherwise arising from or relating to each Dual Employee, in each case during such period. Absent any changes to employee reimbursement, as set forth in Section 2.02, such costs and expenses are equal to $252,000 per month.”

12. Section 2.02 provides the mechanism to modify employee reimbursement and also provides, “The Parties will negotiate in good faith the terms of such modification.”

C. BANKRUPTCY FILING AND SUBSEQUENT EVENTS

13. On October 16, 2019 (the “Petition Date”), the Debtor filed a voluntary petition for relief under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code (11 U.S.C. §§ 101 et seq.) in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware, thereby initiating the Bankruptcy Case. On or about December 4, 2019, the Bankruptcy Case was transferred to this Court.

14. On January 9, 2020, the Bankruptcy Court entered its Order Approving Settlement with Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors Regarding Governance of the Debtor and Procedures for Operations in the Ordinary Course (Dkt. No. 339, the “Settlement Order”).

15. In connection with the Settlement Order, an independent board (the “Board”) was appointed to manage the Debtor’s general partner, Strand Advisors, Inc. (“Strand”). Its members are John S. Dubel, James P. Seery, Jr., and Russel F. Nelms. Several months later, the Board, with court approval, appointed Mr. Seery as the Debtor’s CEO and CRO.

16. As the Bankruptcy Case progressed, the Court expressed concerns about the Debtor’s employees providing certain services to the non-debtor Advisors. As a result, beginning around July 2020, Mr. Seery directed the Debtor to cease providing services to the Advisors as otherwise contemplated under the SSAs and the PRAs.

17. Nevertheless, the Advisors continued to pay for those services under the SSAs and the PRAs consistent with historical practice, despite the fact that the Debtor is not providing all the required services in return. For example, upon information and belief, the Debtor has booked net income from the SSAs of approximately $10 million since the Petition Date. Given that the SSAs represent actual-cost sharing agreements, said net revenue represents Advisor overpayments under the SSAs—the purpose of the SSAs is not to make a profit. At the same time, the Advisors have incurred significant additional expense obtaining services elsewhere that the Debtor was required to provide under the SSAs.

18. There have also been similar overpayments under the PRAs. There is a schedule attached to the PRAs of investment professionals whose compensation would be reimbursed by the Advisors. But this schedule is incredibly outdated. It includes many individuals, for example, who departed the Debtor before the Petition Date or during the Bankruptcy Case. As a result, the Advisors estimate that, since the Petition Date, they have overpaid under the PRA's more than $9 million.

19. The Advisors have brought these issues to Mr. Seery's attention, and in accordance with the Debtor's obligations under the SSAs and the PRAs, the Advisors expect Mr. Seery to negotiate in good faith. Discovery will be necessary to determine the precise amount of the overpayments under the SSAs and PRAs.

III. ARGUMENTS AND AUTHORITIES

20. Administrative expenses generally include "the actual, necessary costs and expenses of preserving the estate ...." 11 U.S.C. § 503(b)(1)(a). However, the list of administrative expense claims set forth in section 503(b) is not exclusive or exhaustive. In re Imperial Bev. Group, LLC, 457 B.R. 490, 500 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2011) (citing various cases for the proposition that "the administrative expenses listed in the subsections of § 503(b)—preceded by 'including'—are not exclusive"); 11 U.S.C. § 102(3) ("In this title ... 'includes' and 'including' are not limiting ....").

21. Post-petition, pre-rejection performance under an executory contract gives rise to an administrative expense claim. See NLRB v. Bildisco & Bildisco, 465 U.S. 513, 531 (1984) (superseded by statute on other grounds) ("If the debtor-in-possession elects to continue to receive benefits from the other party to an executory contract pending a decision to reject or assume the contract, the debtor-in-possession is obligated to pay for the reasonable value of those services ...."); In re MCS/Tex. Direct, Inc., 02-40229-DML-11, 2004 Bankr. LEXIS 379, *11-12 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. March 30, 2004) (“Even if the contract is rejected, the contract party is entitled to payment for postpetition value received by a debtor.”).

22. Similarly, a post-petition, pre-rejection breach of contract gives rise to an administrative expense claim. See In re United Trucking Serv., 851 F.2d 159, 162 (6th Cir. 1988) (“the damages under the breached lease covenant, to the extent that they occurred post-petition, provided benefits to the bankrupt estate and were properly accorded priority under § 503”); Shapiro v. Meridian Auto. Sys. (Del.) (In re Lorro, Inc.), 391 B.R. 760, 766 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 2008) (“the term ‘administrative expense’ has been construed to include claims based on tort, trademark infringement, patent infringement, and breach of contract”) (citing, inter alia, Reading Co. v. Brown, 391 U.S. 471 (1968)).

23. Here, under the SSAs and the RPAs, the Advisors have paid for services they did not receive and for salaries of employees who no longer exist. The Debtor, on the other hand, collected the Advisors’ payments without providing anything in exchange or incurring any actual costs. While the Advisors continued to perform under the SSAs and the RPAs, the Debtor breached its obligations under those same agreements. Accordingly, the Advisors are entitled to an administrative expense claim for the total overpayments, which, upon information and belief, total approximately $14 million. Because the accounting information related to such costs and expenses are within the exclusive control of the Debtor, discovery will be necessary to determine the precise amount of the overpayments under the SSAs and PRAs.

IV. PRAYER

WHEREFORE, PREMISES CONSIDERED, the Funds and Advisors respectfully request that the Court enter an order granting this Application, awarding them an administrative expense claim in an amount to be determined at trial (which is expected to be approximately $14 million), and providing them such other and further relief to which they show themselves to be entitled, at law or in equity.

RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED this 24th day of January, 2021.

RULES

Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7008..... 3

Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the “Debtor”), by and through its undersigned counsel, hereby files this objection (this “Objection”) to the Application for Allowance of Administrative Expense Claim [Docket No. 1826] (the “Application”) filed by Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. (“HCMFA”) and NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (“NexPoint,” and with HCMFA, the “Claimants” or “Advisors”).<sup>1</sup> In support of this Objection, the Debtor represents as follows:

I. PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. The Application should be summarily denied on several grounds. The Claimants are owned and controlled by Mr. James Dondero (“Mr. Dondero”).<sup>2</sup> As alleged in the pending Complaints (as defined below) filed by the Debtor against Mr. Dondero, HCMFA, NexPoint, and certain other entities owned and/or controlled by Mr. Dondero (collectively, the “Dondero Entities”), Mr. Dondero and the Dondero Entities have been actively interfering with and impeding the Debtor’s business and its reorganization under the confirmed Plan and have engaged in a coordinated litigation campaign to harass the Debtor and deplete its resources,<sup>3</sup> in each case to the substantial prejudice of the Debtor’s estate and its stakeholders. The Application is another improper attempt by Dondero-controlled entities to obstruct the Debtor’s reorganization and harass the estate. The Debtor performed under the applicable Agreements, and the Advisors know that.

2. After remaining silent for more than six months<sup>4</sup> while the Debtor allegedly failed to provide services and grossly overcharged the Advisors under the parties' Agreements, and having no prepetition claims against the Debtor, the Advisors seek to manufacture a purported administrative expense priority claim by creating "facts" and rewriting the Agreements, which have been terminated by the Debtor. There will be no credible dispute that NexPoint and HCMFA stood by idly without ever (i) declaring a default under the Agreements; (ii) notifying the Debtor of any problem with the Debtor's services or billings; (iii) withholding payments under the Agreements (until notice of the termination of the Agreements); or (iv) seeking judicial relief regarding such matters. In fact, as described below, the Advisors wrote five separate letters to the Debtor in late 2020 and complained about a litany of items but made only one generalized comment about the services being provided. In short, the Advisors waived any right to dispute the sufficiency of the Debtor's services or the amounts payable to the Debtor under the Agreements.

3. Independently, the Advisors' purported overpayments to the Debtor are barred from recovery under the voluntary payment rule under Texas common law. As explained by the Texas Supreme Court, "[t]he voluntary payment rule precludes a party from 'pay[ing] out his money, leading the other party to act as though the matter were closed, and then be in the position to change his mind and invoke the aid of the courts to get it back.'"<sup>5</sup>

<sup>4</sup> The Advisors allege that in July 2020, "Mr. Seery directed the Debtor to cease providing services to the Advisors as otherwise contemplated under the" applicable agreements (Application, ¶ 16) yet the Advisors sought no relief at any time and only filed the Application on January 24, 2021, on the eve of the Debtor's confirmation hearing.

II. JURISDICTION

5. The Court has jurisdiction to consider and determine this matter pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 157 and 1334. This is a core proceeding pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 157(b)(1) and (b)(2). Venue is proper before this Court pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1408 and 1409.

6. The Debtor confirms its consent, pursuant to Rule 7008 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure, to the entry of a final order.

III. BACKGROUND

7. On October 16, 2019 (the “Petition Date”), the Debtor filed a voluntary petition for relief under chapter 11 of title 11 of the United States Code (the “Bankruptcy Code”) in the Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware, Case No. 19-12239 (CSS) (the “Delaware Court”).

8. On October 29, 2019, the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors (the “Committee”) was appointed by the United States Trustee in the Delaware Court.

9. On December 4, 2019, the Delaware Court entered an order transferring venue of the Debtor’s bankruptcy case to this Court [Docket No. 186].<sup>7</sup>

10. On February 22, 2021, this Court entered the Order Confirming the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) and (ii) Granting Related Relief [Docket No. 1943] (the “Confirmation Order”), which confirmed the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) [Docket No. 1808] (as amended, the “Plan”).<sup>8</sup>

<sup>8</sup> The confirmed Plan included certain amendments filed on February 1, 2021. See Debtor’s Notice of Filing of Plan Supplement to the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified), Ex. B [Docket No. 1875].

11. The Debtor has continued in the possession of its property and has continued to operate and manage its business as a debtor-in-possession pursuant to sections 1107(a) and 1108 of the Bankruptcy Code. No trustee or examiner has been appointed in this chapter 11 case.

12. Each of the Advisors is owned and controlled, directly or indirectly, by Mr. Dondero.

13. The Debtor and NexPoint were parties to a Shared Services Agreement (“NexPoint SSA”) and a Payroll Reimbursement Agreement (“NexPoint PRA” and together with the NexPoint SSA, the “NexPoint Agreements”), each as amended or amended and restated from time to time.<sup>9</sup>

14. Likewise, the Debtor and HCMFA were parties to a Shared Services Agreement (“HCMFA SSA”) and a Payroll Reimbursement Agreement (“HCMFA PRA” and together with the HCMFA SSA, the “HCMFA Agreements”), each as amended or amended and restated from time to time. The NexPoint Agreements and the HCMFA Agreements (collectively, the “Agreements”) were terminated by the Debtor in accordance with their terms.

15. Neither of the Advisors has a prepetition claim against the Debtor. HCMFA’s proofs of claim (Claim Nos. 95 and 119) were expunged with HCMFA’s consent [Docket No. 1233]. Similarly, NexPoint’s proofs of claim (Claim Nos. 104 and 108) were also consensually expunged [Docket No. 1233].

16. At the Debtor’s request, Mr. Dondero resigned on or around October 9, 2020. Less than a week after his ouster, Mr. Dondero and the Advisors he owns and controls initiated their campaign against the Debtor. Thus, on October 16, 2020, the Advisors wrote to the Debtor and raised three issues, contending that:

<sup>9</sup> The Advisors assert that the Debtor and NexPoint entered into the applicable SSA on February 8, 2013, the same day the Debtor and HCMFA entered into a SSA. Application ¶3. This assertion is wrong as the Debtor and NexPoint entered into that certain Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement effective as of January 1, 2018.

- the Debtor had allegedly refused to permit its “employees to work on certain [unidentified] matters that jointly affect HCMLP and the Advisors” and that allegedly caused the Advisors to unnecessarily incur third-party costs;<sup>10</sup>
- if the Debtor terminated employees at the end of the year, the Debtor “will no longer be able to carry out its duties and responsibilities under the Agreements” (the “Prospective Complaint”); and
- the Debtor’s contemplated sale of certain assets held in CLOs could result in the loss of value, and the Advisors asked that no such assets be sold without their prior consent.

17. On November 24, 2020, the Advisors again wrote to the Debtor, this time only to reiterate their complaints about the Debtor’s sale of CLO assets and their demand that all such sales cease in the absence of the Advisors’ prior consent. In this letter, the Advisors registered no complaints about the services the Debtor was providing or the amounts being charged or paid under the Agreements. Morris Dec. Ex. B.

18. The Advisors were clearly focused on the Debtor’s sale of CLO assets because on December 8, 2020, the Advisors and other Dondero-related entities filed their Motion for Order Imposing Temporary Restrictions on Debtor’s Ability, as Portfolio Manager, to Initiate Sales by Non-Debtor CLO Vehicles [Docket No. 1528] (the “Advisors’ CLO Motion”). Morris Dec. Ex. C. The Advisors’ CLO Motion was filed on an emergency basis [Docket No. 1523] (Morris Dec. Ex. D.), but was later denied as “frivolous.” Notably, while the Advisors’ CLO Motion proves that the Advisors know how to seek judicial relief (on an emergency basis, no less), the Advisors

<sup>10</sup> The Advisors have never identified any particular “matters that jointly affect[ed] HCMLP and the Advisors” and caused the Advisors to unnecessarily incur third-party costs. Upon information and belief, the “matters” referred to in the October Letter are those related to the CLO issues and other Estate-Adverse Services, none of which are “services” the Debtor was ever obligated to provide. See infra n. 12.

registered no complaints in the Advisors' CLO Motion or at the hearing about the services the Debtor was providing or the amounts being charged or paid under the Agreements.

19. Unchastened, on December 22, 2020, the Advisors renewed their complaints about the Debtor's CLO sales. Morris Dec. Ex. E. The Advisors also renewed their Prospective Complaint, contending that the anticipated termination of employees on January 31, 2021 "will result in a loss of the employees that [sic] have traditionally serviced the CLOs." Other than the renewal of their Prospective Complaint, the Advisors registered no complaints in their December 22, 2020, letter about the services the Debtor was providing or the amounts being charged or paid under the Agreements.

20. The next day, the Advisors sent the Debtor another letter, this one focused exclusively on the issue of the Debtor's management of the CLOs. In their December 23, 2020, letter, the Advisors gave notice to the Debtor that they "had no choice but to initiate HCMLP's removal as fund manager" for cause. Morris Dec. Ex. F. The Advisors registered no complaints in their December 23, 2020 letter about the services the Debtor was providing or the amounts being charged or paid under the Agreements.

21. Finally, on December 31, 2020, the Advisors again wrote to the Debtor, this time for the sole purpose of registering complaints about the Debtor's decision to evict Mr. Dondero from the Debtor's offices. Morris Dec. Ex. G. Other than as specifically related to Mr. Dondero, the Advisors registered no complaints in their December 31, 2020, letter about the services the Debtor was providing or the amounts being charged or paid under the Agreements.

22. As a result of this continued harassment and incessant interference, their failure to pay, collectively, tens of millions of dollars due and owing under a series of demand notes and other notes which were in default, and for other reasons, beginning in December 2020, the Debtor

filed a number of complaints (the “Complaints”) against Mr. Dondero (Adv. Proc. No. 20-03190, filed on December 7, 2020; Adv. Proc. No. 21-03003, filed on January 22, 2021); HCMFA, NexPoint, and certain other affiliated defendants (Adv. Proc. No. 21-03000, filed on January 6, 2021); HCMFA (Adv. Proc. No. 21-03004, filed on January 22, 2021); and NexPoint (Adv. Proc. No. 21-03005, filed on January 22, 2021), among others.

23. As set forth in the Complaints (as applicable), the Debtor has substantial claims against Mr. Dondero, the Advisors and the other affiliated entities for, inter alia, interference with the Debtor’s business and operations (including threatening to have the Debtor removed as the portfolio manager of certain collateralized loan obligation vehicles) and for failing to pay amounts due and owing to the Debtor under certain promissory notes. Such parties’ continued disruptive behavior caused the Debtor to notify Mr. Dondero in December 2020 that he would be evicted and all services provided by the Debtor to him would be terminated.

24. The Application was filed on January 24, 2021, obviously as retaliation for the Debtor’s filing of the Complaints and refusal to surrender to the Advisors’ demands concerning the CLOs. The Application has no merit as the Debtor fulfilled its obligations under the applicable Agreements. Assuming for the sake of argument that the Debtor failed to fully perform, the Advisors plainly waived (or should otherwise be estopped from asserting) their right to complain and are otherwise barred under Texas law from recovering anything, and any claim would be subject to substantial setoffs.

25. During the chapter 11 case and prior to the termination of the Agreements, the Debtor performed the services required under the Agreements. The Debtor anticipates that if the Advisors ever specifically identify any alleged service deficiencies or overcharges, they will likely be predicated upon incredible factual assertions or absurd or other untenable contortions of the Agreements' provisions.<sup>12</sup> Not surprisingly, the Advisors do not identify a single service that the Debtor failed to provide, and instead make only the generalized and uncorroborated assertion that they continued to make payments "despite the fact that the Debtor [was] not providing all the required services in return." Application ¶ 17.

26. The Advisors also try to belatedly manufacture a "breach" under the Payroll Reimbursement Agreements by asserting that certain unidentified employees did not provide services for some unidentified periods of time. Specifically, the Advisors observe that there "is a schedule attached to the PRAs of investment professionals whose compensation would be reimbursed by the Advisors" that is "incredibly outdated," and complain that the list includes "many individuals . . . who departed the Debtor before or during the Bankruptcy Case." Application ¶ 18. The Advisors' complaints in this regard serve only to prove that (a) the Advisors did not care about these matters as long as Mr. Dondero was in control of both the Advisors and the Debtor (i.e., at all relevant times since the Agreements were executed until no later than January 9, 2020); (b) until Mr. Dondero ceased to control both the Advisors and the Debtor, the relationship was not an arms'-length relationship, and (c) the Advisors were apparently obtaining the services they bargained for even if such services were not being provided by specified individuals, because there is no allegation (and there will be no evidence) that the Advisors ever sought an adjustment

<sup>12</sup> For example, in or after July 2020, the Debtor's new CEO reminded the Debtor's personnel that they should not provide legal services to the Advisors and other third parties that could be adverse to the bankruptcy estate ("Estate-Adverse Services"), especially in light of the Court's particularized concerns. Order on Motion for Clarification of Ruling [DE # 914] and Joinders thereto [DE ## 915 and 927] [Docket No. 935 at 10] ("This could escalate to problematic territory in a hurry. The court trusts the Debtor's independent directors and new CEO are scrutinizing the issue of in-house lawyers potentially advising both the Debtor and Highland Non-Debtor Entity targets.") (emphasis in original). To the extent that the Advisors may assert the Debtor's services under the Agreements were deficient because the Debtor refused to provide any Estate-Adverse Services, such assertion is patently illogical and unsupportable. It would be an absurd construction of the Agreements to have contemplated and required the Debtor to provide the Advisors with Estate-Adverse Services. See Sojitz Energy Venture, Inc. v. Union Oil Co., 394 F. Supp. 3d 687, 701 (S.D. Tex. 2019) ("We will not construe contracts to produce an absurd result when a reasonable alternative construction exists.").

in the payments or even suggested to the Debtor that they were overpaying for departed employees. Moreover, as the Advisors' litany of letters proves, to the extent the Advisors ever registered a concern about particular employees, it was only as part of the Prospective Complaint.

27. Tellingly, during the chapter 11 case, the Advisors did not, for instance, file an emergency motion to compel the Debtor to assume or reject the Agreements, file a motion for relief from the automatic stay to terminate the Agreements, or seek any other relief with respect to the Agreements. Nor did the Advisors declare any breach or other problem with the Debtor's services and billings or the Advisors' payments under the Agreements. Furthermore, neither in their objections to Plan confirmation nor any other filing prior to the January 24, 2021, Application did the Advisors disclose their alleged multi-million dollar administrative claim.

28. It was only after the chapter 11 case became contentious and the Debtor began gaining traction with its asset monetization plan that the Claimants filed the Application and notified the Debtor, the Court, and the estate's other stakeholders of their purported administrative claim in an effort to create an "asset" that could be used by Mr. Dondero in his fruitless pursuit of a "pot plan." Indeed, at all times post-petition and prior to the Debtor's notice of termination of the Agreements, the Advisors continued to pay the Debtor for the applicable fees and charges under the Agreements, without complaint or objection.

29. Finally, assuming for the sake of argument only that the Advisors had a viable claim, the Debtor is entitled to offsets and has other claims against the Advisors, with respect to which the Debtor reserves all rights. Among other things, the Advisors owe approximately $2.56 million under the Agreements, as well as approximately $2.22 million in unpaid expense reimbursements. And HCMFA and NexPoint owe more than $7.68 million<sup>13</sup> and $23 million,<sup>14</sup> respectively, under various promissory notes owed to the Debtor.

IV. OBJECTIONS

A. The Advisors Waived Any Alleged Breaches, Defaults and Claims Relating to the Purported Deficient Services and Overcharges and the Prior Payments Made By the Advisors Under the Agreements

30. The Advisors waited more than six months to declare that the Debtor allegedly provided deficient services and overcharged the Advisors under the Agreements (“Agreement Claims”). The Agreement Claims were made after the Debtor terminated the Agreements in accordance with their terms. Moreover, the Agreement Claims were asserted as part of a disingenuous plan proposal which asserted the claims for the first time and then unsuccessfully tried to convince the Debtor and its creditors that a plan waiving the Agreement Claims provided the estate with $14 million more value than the Debtor’s Plan. As explained above, in response to such developments and as part of Mr. Dondero’s pervasive scheme to disrupt the Debtor’s business and obstruct and delay the Debtor’s reorganization under the confirmed Plan, the Advisors are attempting to invent ex post facto a multi-million dollar administrative claim against the estate. But the Advisors’ belated complaints are barred as a matter of law.

31. The undisputed facts prove that the Advisors waived any Agreement Claims under applicable Texas law. See Rex Performance Prods., LLC v. Tate, 2020 Tex. App. LEXIS 10465, at *19 (Tex. App. Dec. 31, 2020) “Waiver is defined as ‘an intentional relinquishment of a known right or intentional conduct inconsistent with claiming that right.’” Id. (quoting Sun Expl. & Prod. Co. v. Benton, 728 S.W.2d 35, 37 (Tex. 1987)). The elements of waiver include: (1) an existing

32. As discussed above, the Advisors were evidently so unconcerned with any purported Agreement Claims that, inter alia, they (a) continued to pay the Debtor all amounts due without protest or even a reservation of rights (“Unconditional Payments”), (b) failed to declare a default or put the Debtor on notice of any deficiency with the Debtor's services and billings and the Advisors' payments under the Agreements (“Contractual Notice Actions”), despite sending a litany of letters in late 2020 detailing other purported concerns, and (c) failed to seek judicial relief of any kind (e.g., a motion to compel the Debtor to assume or reject the Agreements or a motion for relief from stay to terminate the Agreements (“Bankruptcy Court Actions”), despite having filed the Advisors' CLO Motion on an emergency basis. See, e.g., EM Bldg. Contrs. Servs., LLC v. Byrd Bldg. Servs., LLC, 2020 Tex. App. LEXIS 6342, *40 (Tex. App. Aug. 11, 2020) (“Silence or inaction, for so long a period as to show an intention to yield the known right, is . . . enough to prove waiver”) (quoting Tenneco Inc. v. Enter. Prods. Co., 925 S.W.2d 640, 643 (Tex. 1996)); In re National Steel Corp., 316 B.R. 287, 307 (Bankr. N.D. Ill. 2004) (“[I]t is most significant that the Creditor failed to take timely action to seek appropriate relief during the term of the executory Contract. Specifically, the Creditor failed to come before the Court to seek relief from the automatic stay under 11 U.S.C. § 362(d). Nor did the Creditor seek to compel National Steel to assume or reject the Contract pursuant to § 365(d)(2) [footnote omitted]. Instead of availing itself of the procedures set forth in the Bankruptcy Code to compel National Steel's decision to assume or reject the Contract, the Creditor paid National Steel the higher price pursuant to the Amended Price Proposal and chose to 'reserve its rights.'"). In short, the Advisors waived any right to dispute the sufficiency of the Debtor's services or the amounts payable to the Debtor under the Agreements.

33. The Advisors cannot avoid the consequences of their inaction by relying on so-called "non-waiver provisions" in the Agreements.<sup>15</sup> Texas law provides that ostensible "non-waiver provisions" can themselves be waived by the parties. See, e.g., United States Bank, N.A. v. Kobernick, 454 Fed. Appx. 307, 315 (5th Cir. Dec. 16, 2011) (bank's actions were inconsistent with preserving contractual right to declare a certain default and thus, the bank had waived said right, notwithstanding non-waiver clause (citing Straus v. Kirby Court Corp., 909 S.W.2d 105, 108 (Tex. App. 1995) and other cases)).<sup>16</sup>

34. Here, the Advisors' monthly Unconditional Payments, failure to take any Contractual Notice Actions, and failure to take any Bankruptcy Court Actions relating to the Agreements prove that the Advisors waived any Agreement Claims, notwithstanding any non-waiver clauses in the Agreements.

35. Any purported Agreement Claims of the Advisors were viewed and treated as non-issues by the Advisors during the chapter 11 case, and were thus not preserved for purposes of the Application or otherwise.

<sup>15</sup> For example, the Payroll Reimbursement Agreement entered into as of May 1, 2018, by and among the Debtor and HCMFA, provides in section 6.02: "No failure on the part of any Party to exercise or delay in exercising any right hereunder will be deemed a waiver thereof ...."

<sup>16</sup> The Debtor is cognizant of the Texas Supreme Court's opinion in Shields Limited Partnership v. Bradberry, 526 S.W.3d 471 (Tex. 2017), wherein the court stated that "as a general proposition, nonwaiver provisions are binding and enforceable." Id. at 481. However, the Shields court also stated: "To the extent there has been any doubt up to this time, we affirm that a party's rights under a nonwaiver provision may indeed be waived expressly or impliedly." Id. at 482-83.

B. The Voluntary Payment Rule Effectively Bars Any Administrative Claim

36. Separately, the “voluntary payment rule” under applicable Texas law precludes the Advisors from recovering any alleged contractual overpayments under the guise of an administrative claim. As explained above, the Advisors voluntarily and intentionally made postpetition payments under the Agreements to the Debtor. “The voluntary payment rule precludes a party from ‘pay[ing] out his money, leading the other party to act as though the matter were closed, and then be in the position to change his mind and invoke the aid of the courts to get it back.’” Miga v. Jensen, 299 S.W.3d 98, 103 (Tex. 2009); accord, BMG Direct Mktg. v. Peake, 178 S.W.3d 763 (Tex. 2005) (applying the principle to prevent the recovery of a “late fee” paid by a customer who later claimed it was unlawful); see also Nat’l Steel Corp., 316 B.R. at 307-08 (“Nor is it disputed that the Creditor made the payment voluntarily, notwithstanding the fact that it announced the reservation of its rights to later ‘evaluate the situation.’ Despite the Creditor’s fervent denials that it agreed to the price increase and that such an increase was inappropriate under the Contract, the Creditor made an affirmative, voluntary decision to pay the price increase .... The Court finds that the requirements of the voluntary payment doctrine [under Michigan law, which is similar to Texas law] have been met and that, accordingly, the Creditor cannot recover any portion of the payment at issue made to National Steel.”).

V. RESERVATION OF RIGHTS

37. The Debtor reserves all rights relating to NexPoint, HCMFA and/or the Agreements, including, without limitation, any claims, causes of action, setoffs, recoupments and other rights of the Debtor against the Advisors.

VI. CONCLUSION

The Advisors' Application for an administrative claim is part and parcel of the Advisors' and Mr. Dondero's broad strategy to subvert and hinder the Debtor's reorganization to the substantial detriment of the estate and its stakeholders. For the reasons set forth herein, the Debtor respectfully requests that the Court (i) deny the Application, (ii) disallow any asserted administrative claim of the Advisors, and (iii) grant such other and further relief as the Court deems just and proper.

RESPONSE TO DEBTOR’S OBJECTION TO APPLICATION FOR ADMINISTRATIVE CLAIM OF HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT
FUND ADVISORS, L.P. AND NEXPOINT ADVISORS, L.P.

TO THE HONORABLE STACEY G.C. JERNIGAN, U.S. BANKRUPTCY JUDGE:

NOW COME Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. and NexPoint Advisors,
L.P. (the “Advisors”) and file this Response to Debtor’s Objection to Application for

Administrative Claim of Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. and NexPoint Advisors, L.P., respectfully stating as follows:

I. SUMMARY

1. In response to the Advisors' Admin Claim, the Debtor asserts only waiver and the voluntary payment rule. But neither applies. The parties' contracts contain enforceable nonwaiver provisions, and the Advisors acted promptly to assert and protect their rights after becoming aware they had overpaid the Debtor. The voluntary payment rule does not apply to statutory claims or contract claims, nor does it apply when there is a mistake of fact. Neither of these defenses bars the Admin Claim, and the Debtor's other objections amount to irrelevant ad hominem attacks that lack any real substance. The Court should overrule the Debtor's objection and grant the Admin Claim.

II. BACKGROUND

2. On January 24, 2021, the Advisors filed their Application for Allowance of Administrative Expense Claim (Bankr. Dkt. No. 1826, the "Admin Claim").

3. On February 22, 2021, the Court entered its Order (I) Confirming the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) and (II) Granting Related Relief (Dkt. No. 1943, the "Confirmation Order"), pursuant to which it confirmed the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) (the "Plan").

4. Under the Plan and Confirmation Order, the Administrative Expense Claims Bar Date is forty-five days after the Plan's Effective Date. The Effective Date occurred on August 11,

2021, see Dkt. No. 2700, so the Administrative Expense Claims Bar Date did not occur until September 27, 2021.<sup>1</sup>

5. On May 5, 2021, Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the “Debtor”) filed its Debtor’s Objection to Application for Administrative Claim of Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. and NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (Bankr. Dkt. No. 2274, the “Objection”).

6. The Admin Claim is based on overpayments the Advisors made to the Debtor under those certain shared services agreements and payroll reimbursement agreements (collectively, the “Agreements”). In its Objection, the Debtor insinuates the Advisors were aware of the overpayments for more than six months before filing the Admin Claim. But that is not factually accurate. The issue did not crystalize until late November 2020. Upon discovering the overpayments and realizing their magnitude, the Advisors promptly ceased making payments under the Agreements. The Advisors also attempted to address the issue with the Debtor.

7. On December 1, 2021, Debtor employee David Klos acknowledged the overpayments under the payroll reimbursement agreements in particular:

These have not changed since BK, which given the changes in headcount you point out along with not paying insider bonus compensation, has increased the profitability of the contracts from HCMLP’s perspective.

Unsurprisingly, the Advisors’ attempts to negotiate with the Debtor went nowhere.

8. On or about March 1, 2021, following termination of the Agreements, the Debtor and the Advisors entered into that certain Shared Resources Agreement, pursuant to which they expressly preserved the Admin Claim:

For the avoidance of doubt, each Party reserves all rights it has, or may have, including all rights to pursue and defend any claims and/or causes of action, with respect to any matter, agreement, or understanding not explicitly addressed in this Agreement. The Parties expressly reserve all rights with respect to amounts asserted in connection with the NexPoint Parties' administrative claim, including, without limitation the NexPoint Parties' right to amend such claim to assert additional or lesser amounts, including with respect to the post-petition amounts owed under the Shared Services Agreements; provided, that under no circumstances shall such claim or claims give rise to any right of offset against any amounts payable hereunder, the rights of HCMLP to object to such claim as well as all rights and defenses in connection with all pending and potential Adversary Proceedings between the Parties. All such claims and defenses are expressly preserved for future resolution by the court.

9. The shared services agreement between the Debtor and NexPoint contains the following nonwaiver clause:

The performance of any condition or obligation imposed upon any Party may be waived only upon the written consent of the Parties. Such waiver shall be, limited to the terms thereof and shall not constitute a waiver of any other condition or obligation of the other Party. Any failure by any Party to enforce any provision shall not constitute a waiver of that or any other provision or this Agreement.

10. The other three Agreements all contain the following nonwaiver clause:

No failure on the part of any Party to exercise or delay in exercising any right hereunder will be deemed a waiver thereof, nor will any single or partial exercise preclude any further or other exercise of such or any other right.

11. All of the Agreements contain provisions stating they are governed by and shall be interpreted under the laws of the State of Texas.

III. ARGUMENT & AUTHORITIES

A. THE ADVISORS HAVE NOT WAIVED THE ADMIN CLAIM

12. The Debtor claims the Advisors waived the Admin Claim. But this is wrong for two reasons. First, the Agreements contain enforceable nonwaiver provisions. Second, even if they did not, the Advisors plainly never manifested an intent to waive their rights.

i. The Agreements Contain Enforceable Nonwaiver Provisions

13. "Given Texas's strong public policy favoring freedom of contract, there can be no doubt that, as a general proposition, nonwaiver provisions are binding and enforceable." Shields Ltd. P'ship v. Bradberry, 526 S.W.3d 471, 481 (Tex. 2017). True, "a party's rights under a nonwaiver provision may indeed be waived expressly or impliedly.” Id. at 482-83. But in order to waive a nonwaiver provision, “there must, at a minimum, be some act inconsistent with its terms.” Id. at 474. More specifically, “[w]hile waiver may sometimes be established by conduct, that conduct must be unequivocally inconsistent with claiming a known right.” Id. at 485 (quoting Van Indep. Sch. Dist. v. McCarty, 165 S.W.3d 351, 353 (Tex. 2005)). Simply “engaging in the very conduct disclaimed as a basis for waiver is insufficient as a matter of law to nullify the nonwaiver provision in the parties’ ... agreement.” Id. at 484-85.

14. The Debtor has not identified any conduct unequivocally inconsistent with enforcing the nonwaiver provisions in the Agreements, as opposed to conduct allegedly inconsistent merely with asserting the Admin Claim itself. A recent case highlights this critical distinction. In re United Servs. Auto. Ass’n, No. 03-19-00292-CV, 2020 Tex. App. LEXIS 10203 (Tex. App.—Austin Dec. 23, 2020) (“USAA”). Insured homeowners asserted that their insurer’s delay invoking an appraisal clause “should be viewed as waving its rights under the nonwaiver provision as well as waiving its rights under the appraisal clause.” Id. at *6. “However,” the Court held, “even assuming that USAA’s delay amounted to intentional conduct inconsistent with claiming its rights to enforce the appraisal agreement, it does not follow that such behavior was also ‘inconsistent with claiming the right to enforce the nonwaiver agreement.’” Id. at *6-7 (quoting Shields, 526 S.W.3d at 485). The same is true here. None of the Advisors’ alleged conduct is unequivocally inconsistent—or even moderately inconsistent—with enforcing the Agreements’ nonwaiver provisions. Such provisions are enforceable and bar the Debtor’s waiver argument.

ii. The Advisors Never Intended to Waive their Rights

15. Even if the Agreements did not contain enforceable nonwaiver provisions, there is no basis for the Debtor to argue the Advisors waived the Admin Claim. Waiver has three elements:

“(1) an existing right, benefit, or advantage held by a party; (2) the party’s actual knowledge of its existence; and (3) the party’s actual intent to relinquish the right, or intentional conduct inconsistent with the right.” Ulico Cas. Co. v. Allied Pilots Ass’n, 262 S.W.3d 773, 778 (Tex. 2008). Waiver “is ordinarily a question of fact, dependent on things done and said, and the burden of proof is on the party relying on waiver.” Alford, Meroney & Co. v. Rowe, 619 S.W.2d 210, 213 (Tex. App.—Amarillo 1981) (citations omitted). Silence or inaction may be evidence of waiver, but it must be “coupled with knowledge of the known right, for such an unreasonable period of time as to indicate an intention to waive the right. Id.

16. The Advisors discovered the overpayments under the Agreements in late November 2020. They tried to engage the Debtor, but the Debtor refused to listen, even though at least one Debtor employee acknowledged the problem. In January, the Advisors filed the Admin Claim, eight months before the Court-ordered deadline to do so. There is simply no basis under these facts to conclude the Advisors actually intended to relinquish their rights under the Agreements. Indeed, the facts plainly show otherwise.

B. THE VOLUNTARY PAYMENT RULE DOES NOT APPLY

17. Next, the Debtor argues the voluntary payment rule bars the Admin Claim. But this is wrong for two reasons as well. First, the voluntary payment rule does not apply to breach of contract and other similar claims. Second, the voluntary payment rule only applies when there is a mistake of law, not a mistake of fact.

i. The Voluntary Payment Rule Does Not Apply to Breach of Contract

18. Historically, the voluntary payment rule was “a defense to claims asserting unjust enrichment; that is, when a plaintiff sues for restitution claiming a payment constitutes unjust enrichment, a defendant may respond with the voluntary-payment rule as a defense.” See BMG Direct Mktg. v. Peake, 178 S.W.3d 763, 768 (Tex. 2004). But “[a]lthough the voluntary-payment rule has been applied, at times, in both private and public contexts, other legal and statutory remedies have evolved over time to supplant the rule's application in many of these contexts." Id. at 770. "Thus, although the voluntary-payment rule may have been widely used by parties and some Texas courts at one time, its scope has diminished as the rule's equitable policy concerns have been addressed through statutory or other legal remedies." Id. at 771. "Like other equitable claims and defenses, an adequate legal remedy may render equitable claims of unjust enrichment and equitable defenses of voluntary-payment unavailable." Id. at 770. While not completely abrogated, the rule today has only "limited application in Texas jurisprudence." Id. at 771.

19. As an initial matter, an administrative expense claim is a statutory remedy, and the statute should govern. Moreover, Courts have expressly held that the voluntary payment rule does not apply to breach of contract claims. Lopez v. Bailon, No. 07-14-00442-CV, 2016 Tex. App. LEXIS 8458, *10 (Tex. App.—Amarillo Aug. 4, 2016) ("The voluntary payment defense does not apply to a simple breach of contract action."); see BMG Direct Mktg., 178 S.W.3d at 775 ("It is true that, to the extent the subject matter of Peake's claim is covered by the parties' contract, the rule would not apply."). The Advisors have not submitted merely a common-law unjust enrichment claim. They have asserted a claim under the Bankruptcy Code and written contracts. Under these circumstances, the voluntary payment rule does not apply.

ii. The Voluntary Payment Rule Does Not Apply to Mistakes of Fact

20. Long ago, the Texas Supreme Court "stated the common-law voluntary-payment rule as follows: 'Money voluntarily paid on a claim of right, with full knowledge of all the facts, in the absence of fraud, deception, duress, or compulsion, cannot be recovered back merely because the party at the time of payment was ignorant of or mistook the law as to his liability.'" BMG Direct Mktg., 178 S.W.3d at 768 (Tex. 2004) (quoting Pennell v. United Ins. Co., 243 S.W.2d 572, 576 (Tex. 1951) (quoting 40 AM. JUR. § 205 (1942))) (emphasis added). The rule does not apply to mistakes of fact. See Central Austin Apts., LLC v. UP Austin Holdings, LP, No. 03-13-00080-CV, 2014 Tex. App. LEXIS 10357, *44 n.28 (Tex. App.—Austin Dec. 8, 2014. rev'd on other grounds) (“The voluntary-payment rule does not bar restitution based on mutual mistake of fact.”). Indeed, “for the voluntary-payment rule to apply, a person must pay ‘with full knowledge of all the facts.’” BMG Direct Mktg., 178 S.W.3d at 772.

21. Here, the Advisors were not aware of all the facts until late November 2020. Upon becoming aware, they immediately ceased payments under the Agreements. Under the circumstances, the voluntary payment rule does not apply.

IV. RESERVATION OF RIGHTS

22. On December 17, 2021, the Court entered its Order Approving Stipulation Regarding Second Amended Scheduling Order (Adv. Dkt. No. 56, the “Stipulated Order”).

23. Under the Stipulated Order, inter alia, the following deadlines apply:

- a. “Responses to the Objection (‘Responses’) shall be filed on or before December 22, 2021, unless otherwise agreed in writing by the Parties.”
- b. “Depositions shall be scheduled and concluded on or before January 20, 2022, unless otherwise agreed in writing by the Parties.”
- c. “Any Party wishing to file a trial brief shall file and serve the same on or before February 1, 2022.”

24. Accordingly, considering the procedural posture of this adversary proceeding and the fact that discovery is ongoing, the Advisors reserve all their rights, including the right to file a comprehensive trial brief and to put on their case at trial consistent with applicable notice-pleading standards.

V. CONCLUSION

WHEREFORE, PREMISES CONSIDERED, the Advisors respectfully request that the Court enter an order (I) granting and allowing the Admin Claim; (II) overruling the Debtor’s

Objection; and (III) providing the Advisors such other and further relief to which they are entitled at law or in equity.

RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED this 22nd day of December, 2021.

FOR ADMISSIONS, INTERROGATORIES, AND REQUESTS FOR PRODUCTION

TO: Highland Capital Management, L.P. through its counsel of record, John Morris, Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones LLP, 10100 Santa Monica Blvd., 13th Floor, Los Angeles, CA 90067, jmorris@pszjlaw.com; and Zachery Annable, Hayward PLLC, 10501 N. Central Expy., Ste. 106, Dallas, TX 75231, zannable@haywardfirm.com

NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (“NPA”) and Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. (“HCMFA” and collectively, the “Advisors”), the defendants in the above-styled and numbered adversary proceeding, hereby make the following objections and give the following responses to the Debtor’s First Requests for Admissions Directed to NexPoint Advisors, L.P. and Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P., the Debtor’s First Request for Production of Documents Directed to NexPoint Advisors, L.P. and Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P., and the Debtor’s First Set of Interrogatories Directed to NexPoint Advisors, L.P. and Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P., pursuant to Rules 33, 34, and 36 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and Rules 7033, 7034, and 7036 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure.

I. INSTRUCTIONS

1. The Advisors object to Interrogatory Instructions 2, 3, and 5 because they purport to impose obligations in excess of those imposed by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. The Advisors will provide answers consistent with the applicable rules.

2. The Advisors object to Request for Production Instruction 1 to the extent it purports to impose obligations in excess of those imposed by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. The Advisors will comply with the applicable rules governing privilege logs.

3. The Advisors object to Request for Production Instruction 3 because it purports to impose obligations in excess of those imposed by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. The Advisors will provide written responses consistent with the applicable rules.

II. REQUESTS FOR ADMISSIONS

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 1:

Admit that attached as Exhibit A is a true and correct copy of the HCMFA SSA.

RESPONSE: The Advisors admit that Exhibit A is a true and correct copy of the document it purports to be. However, the Advisors are unable to admit or deny that Exhibit A represents the complete agreement between the parties and therefore deny the same. To the extent any related or supplemental agreements exist, for example, they would be under the Debtor's exclusive control. In fact, the Advisors have requested all iterations of the agreements in discovery. To the extent not expressly admitted, this request is denied.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 2:

Admit that attached as Exhibit B is a true and correct copy of the HCMFA Termination Notice.

RESPONSE: Admit.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 3:

Admit that attached as Exhibit C is a true and correct copy of the NexPoint SSA.

RESPONSE: The Advisors admit that Exhibit C is a true and correct copy of the document it purports to be. However, the Advisors are unable to admit or deny that Exhibit C represents the complete agreement between the parties and therefore deny the same. To the extent any related or supplemental agreements exist, for example, they would be under the Debtor's exclusive control. In fact, the Advisors have requested all iterations of the agreements in discovery. To the extent not expressly admitted, this request is denied.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 4:

Admit that attached as Exhibit D is a true and correct copy of the NexPoint Termination Notice.

RESPONSE: Admit.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 5:

Admit that attached as Exhibit E is a true and correct copy of the January 30, 2021 Agreement.

RESPONSE: Admit.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 6:

Admit that in the January 30, 2021 Agreement, the Debtor agreed to extend the termination date of the SSAs to February 14, 2021 in exchange for the Advisors agreeing to pay in advance for services to be rendered by the Debtor during that two-week period.

RESPONSE: The Advisors admit that the document speaks for itself regarding the so-called "Pre-Paid Fees" as defined therein. The Advisors deny that the Debtor was not obligated to earn such fees, and the Advisors deny that the Debtor actually did earn such fees. To the extent not expressly admitted, this request is denied.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 7:

Admit that since the Petition Date, You have not paid certain amounts due and owing under the SSAs to the Debtor.

RESPONSE: Denied.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 8:

Admit that for the period between the Petition date and January 31, 2021, HCMFA did not pay the Debtor $2,121,276.00 that was due and owing under the HCMFA SSA, excluding amounts owed by HCMFA to the Debtor for services provided prior to the Petition Date.

RESPONSE: Denied.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 9:

Admit that for the period between the Petition date and January 31, 2021, NexPoint did not pay the Debtor $932,977.00 that was due and owing under the NexPoint SSA, excluding amounts owed by NexPoint to the Debtor for services provided prior to the Petition Date.

RESPONSE: Denied.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 10:

Admit that Exhibit F accurately sets forth all the payments made by the Advisors to the Debtor under the SSAs and PRAs after the Petition Date.

RESPONSE: The Advisors are unable to admit or deny this request. Records necessary to formulate a response are in the Debtor's possession and control, and discovery is ongoing. To the extent not expressly admitted, this request is denied.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 11:

Admit that prior to the Admin Claim Filing, You did not make a demand on the Debtor for services under the SSAs.

RESPONSE: Denied

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 12:

Admit that prior to the Admin Claim Filing, You did not make a demand on the Debtor with respect to the PRAs.

RESPONSE: Denied.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 13:

Admit that prior to the Admin Claim Filing, You did not declare a default, or otherwise put the Debtor on notice, of the Debtor's breach under the Agreements.

RESPONSE: Denied.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 14:

Admit that prior to the Admin Claim Filing, You did not seek judicial relief in connection with the Debtor's alleged breach or nonperformance under the Agreements, including with respect to the Advisors' CLO Motion.

RESPONSE: Given that the automatic stay would have prevented them from doing so, the Advisors admit solely that they did not formally initiate legal proceedings against the Debtor in connection with the Debtor's breach and nonperformance under the agreements. Furthermore, the Debtor undoubtedly would have invoked the Bankruptcy Court's January 9, 2020 Order, which provided, "Mr. Dondero shall not cause any Related Entity to terminate any agreements with the Debtor." To the extent not expressly admitted, this request is denied.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 15:

Admit that prior to the Admin Claim Filing, You did not seek to terminate the Agreements with the Debtor.

RESPONSE: Given the reasonable expectation that the Debtor would have accused the Advisors of violating the automatic stay by doing so, the Advisors admit they did not terminate the agreements. Furthermore, the Debtor undoubtedly would have invoked the Bankruptcy Court's January 9, 2020 Order, which provided, "Mr. Dondero shall not cause any Related Entity to terminate any agreements with the Debtor." To the extent not expressly admitted, this request is denied.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 16:

Admit that the Advisors do not have a pre-Petition claim against the Debtor.

RESPONSE: The Advisors admit solely that they do not have a pre-petition claim against the debtor that has been allowed in the bankruptcy case. The Advisors deny that they do not have pre-petition claims against the Debtor. To the extent not expressly admitted, this request is denied.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 17:

Admit that attached as Exhibit G is a true and correct copy of the October 16, 2020 Letter.

RESPONSE: Admit.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 19:<sup>1</sup>

Admit that in the October 16, 2020 Letter, the Advisors did not lodge any complaints about, or make any demands concerning, the services the Debtor was providing under the Agreements at that time, or the amounts being charged or paid under the Agreements at that time.

RESPONSE: Denied.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 20:

Admit that attached as Exhibit H is a true and correct copy of the November 24, 2020 Letter.

RESPONSE: Admit.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 21:

Admit that in the November 24, 2020 Letter, the Advisors did not lodge any complaints about, or make any demands concerning, the services the Debtor was providing under the Agreements at that time, or the amounts being charged or paid under the Agreements at that time.

RESPONSE: Admit.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 22:

Admit that attached as Exhibit I is a true and correct copy of the December 22, 2020 Letter.

RESPONSE: Admit.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 23:

Admit that in the December 22, 2020 Letter, the Advisors did not lodge any complaints about, or make any demands concerning, the services the Debtor was providing under the Agreements at that time, or the amounts being charged or paid under the Agreements at that time.

RESPONSE: Admit.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 24:

Admit that attached as Exhibit J is a true and correct copy of the December 23, 2020 Letter.

RESPONSE: Admit.

---

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 25:

Admit that in the December 23, 2020 Letter, the Advisors did not lodge any complaints about, or make any demands concerning, the services the Debtor was providing under the Agreements at that time, or the amounts being charged or paid under the Agreements at that time.

RESPONSE: Admit.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 26:

Admit that attached as Exhibit K is a true and correct copy of the December 31, 2020 Letter.

RESPONSE: Admit.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 27:

Admit that in the December 31, 2020 Letter, the Advisors did not lodge any complaints about, or make any demands concerning, the services the Debtor was providing under the Agreements at that time, or the amounts being charged or paid under the Agreements at that time.

RESPONSE: Denied.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 28:

Admit that attached as Exhibit L is a true and correct copy of the HCMFA PRA.

RESPONSE: The Advisors admit that Exhibit L is a true and correct copy of the document it purports to be. However, the Advisors are unable to admit or deny that Exhibit L represents the complete agreement between the parties and therefore deny the same. To the extent any related or supplemental agreements exist, for example, they would be under the Debtor's exclusive control. In fact, the Advisors have requested all iterations of the agreements in discovery. To the extent not expressly admitted, this request is denied.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION 29:

Admit that attached as Exhibit M is a true and correct copy of the NexPoint PRA.

RESPONSE: The Advisors admit that Exhibit M is a true and correct copy of the document it purports to be. However, the Advisors are unable to admit or deny that Exhibit M represents the complete agreement between the parties and therefore deny the same. To the extent any related or supplemental agreements exist, for example, they would be under the Debtor's exclusive control. In fact, the Advisors have requested all iterations of the agreements in discovery. To the extent not expressly admitted, this request is denied.

III. REQUESTS FOR PRODUCTION

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION 1:

All Documents and Communications Concerning any payments You made to the Debtor under the SSAs or PRAs.

RESPONSE: The Advisors will produce non-privileged, responsive documents that are within their possession, custody, or control. However, the Advisors note that responsive documents are more likely to be in the Debtor's possession, custody, or control.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION 2:

All Documents and Communications Concerning any amounts due and owing by You to the Debtor under the SSAs or PRAs.

RESPONSE: The Advisors object to this request to the extent it suggests amounts are due and owing by them to the Debtor under the agreements. The Advisors' position is that no amounts are due and owing. The Advisors do not, therefore, expect to find any responsive documents. Nevertheless, the Advisors will search for non-privileged, responsive documents and, to the extent any are found in their possession, custody, or control, such documents will be produced.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION 3:

All Documents and Communications Concerning any decision by You to withhold or not to make payments due and owing under the SSAs or PRAs.

RESPONSE: The Advisors will produce non-privileged, responsive documents that are within their possession, custody, or control. However, the Advisors note that responsive documents are more likely to be in the Debtor's possession, custody, or control.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION 4:

All Communications between You and James Dondero Concerning any payments You made to the Debtor under the SSAs or PRAs.

RESPONSE: The Advisors will produce non-privileged, responsive documents that are within their possession, custody, or control. However, the Advisors note that responsive documents are more likely to be in the Debtor's possession, custody, or control.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION 5:

All Communications between You and James Dondero Concerning any amounts due and owing by You to the Debtor under the SSAs or PRAs.

RESPONSE: The Advisors object to this request to the extent it suggests amounts are due and owing by them to the Debtor under the agreements. The Advisors' position is that no amounts are due and owing. The Advisors do not, therefore, expect to find any responsive documents. Nevertheless, the Advisors will search for non-privileged, responsive documents and, to the extent any are found in their possession, custody, or control, such documents will be produced.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION 6:

All Communications between You and James Dondero Concerning any decision by You to withhold or not to make payments due and owing under the SSAs or PRAs.

RESPONSE: The Advisors object to this request to the extent it suggests amounts are due and owing by them to the Debtor under the agreements. The Advisors' position is that no amounts are due and owing. The Advisors do not, therefore, expect to find any responsive documents. Nevertheless, the Advisors will search for non-privileged, responsive documents and, to the extent any are found in their possession, custody, or control, such documents will be produced.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION 7:

All Communications between You and the Debtor Concerning any payments You made to the Debtor under the SSAs or PRAs.

RESPONSE: The Advisors will produce non-privileged, responsive documents that are within their possession, custody, or control. However, the Advisors note that responsive documents are more likely to be in the Debtor's possession, custody, or control.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION 8:

All Communications between You and the Debtor Concerning any amounts due and owing by You to the Debtor under the SSAs or PRAs.

RESPONSE: The Advisors object to this request to the extent it suggests amounts are due and owing by them to the Debtor under the agreements. The Advisors' position is that no amounts are due and owing. The Advisors do not, therefore, expect to find any responsive documents. Nevertheless, the Advisors will search for non-privileged, responsive documents and, to the extent any are found in their possession, custody, or control, such documents will be produced.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION 9:

All Communications between You and the Debtor Concerning any decision by You to withhold or not to make payments due and owing under the SSAs or PRAs.

RESPONSE: The Advisors object to this request to the extent it suggests amounts are due and owing by them to the Debtor under the agreements. The Advisors' position is that no amounts are due and owing. The Advisors do not, therefore, expect to find any responsive documents. Nevertheless, the Advisors will search for non-privileged, responsive documents and, to the extent any are found in their possession, custody, or control, such documents will be produced.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION 10:

All Documents and Communications Concerning Your allegation that, “around July 2020, Mr. Seery directed the Debtor to cease providing services to the Advisors as otherwise contemplated under the SSAs and the PRAs.” Advisors’ Admin Claim ¶16.

RESPONSE: The Advisors will produce non-privileged, responsive documents that are within their possession, custody, or control. However, the Advisors note that responsive documents are more likely to be in the Debtor’s possession, custody, or control.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION 11:

All Documents and Communications Concerning Your allegation that “the Advisors continued to pay for those services under the SSAs and PSAs consistent with historical practice, despite the fact that the Debtor [was] not providing all the required services in return.” Advisors’ Admin Claim ¶17.

RESPONSE: The Advisors will produce non-privileged, responsive documents that are within their possession, custody, or control. However, the Advisors note that responsive documents are more likely to be in the Debtor’s possession, custody, or control.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION 12:

All Documents and Communications Concerning Your allegation that “[t]here have also been similar overpayments under the PRAs . . . [and that] the Advisors estimate that, since the Petition Date, they have overpaid under the PRA’s more than $9 million.” Advisors’ Admin Claim ¶18.

RESPONSE: The Advisors will produce non-privileged, responsive documents that are within their possession, custody, or control. However, the Advisors note that responsive documents are more likely to be in the Debtor’s possession, custody, or control.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION 13:

All Documents and Communications Concerning Your allegation that the “Advisors have brought these issues to Mr. Seery’s attention.” Advisors’ Admin Claim ¶19.

RESPONSE: The Advisors will produce non-privileged, responsive documents that are within their possession, custody, or control. However, the Advisors note that responsive documents are more likely to be in the Debtor’s possession, custody, or control.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION 14:

All Communications in which You notified the Debtor that (a) the Debtor was in breach of the SSAs, or (b) the Debtor was in breach of the PRAs, or (c) the Debtor was failing to provide any of the services required under the SSAs, or (d) there were individuals whose compensation the Advisors were paying for under the PRAs but who departed the Debtor before the Petition Date or during the Bankruptcy Case.

RESPONSE: The Advisors will produce non-privileged, responsive documents that are within their possession, custody, or control. However, the Advisors note that responsive documents are more likely to be in the Debtor's possession, custody, or control.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION 15:

All Documents and Communications Concerning the Advisors' Admin Claim.

RESPONSE: The Advisors object to this request. To the extent it seeks documents covered by the previous requests for production, it is duplicative. To the extent it seeks documents non covered by the previous requests for production, it is overbroad on its face.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION 16:

All Documents You intend to introduce at Trial.

RESPONSE: The Advisors object to this request to the extent it seeks to impose obligations that exceed those imposed by applicable law. The Advisors are still in the process of identifying documents and communications they will offer into evidence, and the local rules govern exhibit lists. For the avoidance of doubt, documents responsive to this request will likely be responsive to other requests, in which case they will not be withheld elsewhere based on this objection.

IV. INTERROGATORIES

INTERROGATORY NO. 1:

Identify all individuals likely to have personal knowledge or information Concerning payments You made to the Debtor under the SSAs after the Petition Date.

RESPONSE: People with personal knowledge or information relevant to the parties' dispute include Jim Seery, James Romey, Fred Caruso, David Klos, Kristin Hendrix, Frank Waterhouse, Brian Collins, Dustin Norris, Lauren Thedford, Jason Post, Hayley Eliason, Joe Sowin, and Thomas Surgent, James Dondero, John Dubel, Hon. Russell Nelms, Gregory Demo, D.C. Sauter (with respect to non-privileged matters only, including communications with the Debtor's counsel), and employees of DSI, HCMLP, NPA and HCMFA.

INTERROGATORY NO. 2:

Identify all individuals likely to have personal knowledge or information Concerning any decision by You to withhold or not to make payments due and owing under the SSAs or PRAs.

RESPONSE: The Advisors object to this interrogatory to the extent it suggests payments are due and owing under the agreements. The Advisors' position is that no amounts are due and owing. People with personal knowledge or information relevant to the parties' dispute include Jim Seery, James Romey, Fred Caruso, David Klos, Kristin Hendrix, Frank Waterhouse, Brian Collins, Dustin Norris, Lauren Thedford, Jason Post, Hayley Eliason, Joe Sowin, and Thomas Sargent, James Dondero, John Dubel, Hon. Russell Nelms, Gregory Demo, D.C. Sauter (with respect to non-privileged matters only, including communications with the Debtor's counsel), and employees of DSI, HCMLP, NPA and HCMFA.

INTERROGATORY NO. 3:

Identify the date on which You believe each of the Former Dual Employees identified on the exhibits annexed to the PRAs, attached hereto as Exhibit A, "departed the Debtor." See Advisors' Admin Claim ¶18.

RESPONSE: James Dondero ceased being a paid employee of the Debtor on or about January 9, 2020 pursuant to the Bankruptcy Court's order of the same date. Mr. Dondero later resigned on or about October 9, 2020. Additionally:

Wilson, Scott

9/19/2018

INTERROGATORY NO. 4:

Identify the date on which You learned that each Former Dual Employee identified on Exhibit A “departed the Debtor.” See Advisors’ Admin Claim ¶18.

RESPONSE: The Advisors were generally aware of the employees’ terminations and departures as they occurred.

INTERROGATORY NO. 5:

Identify the date on which You learned that the Debtor was failing to provide any of the services under the SSAs.

RESPONSE: There is no exact date on which the Advisors realized the Debtor was failing to provide services under the SSAs. The Debtor’s failure to provide support under the SSAs began around the time that Judge Jernigan expressed concern in court regarding potential conflicts of interest, in or around July or August 2020, and the Advisors were aware of the problem as it evolved.

INTERROGATORY NO. 6:

Identify the date on which You learned the Debtor was allegedly in breach of the PRAs.

RESPONSE: There is not a specific date on which the Advisors became aware that the Debtor was breaching the PRAs. Historically, the Debtor and the Advisors would perform a year-end reconciliation of the PRAs. However, due to the Debtor’s bankruptcy filing, this reconciliation was not performed in 2019 or 2020.

INTERROGATORY NO. 7:

Identify all individuals likely to have personal knowledge or information Concerning Your allegation that, “around July 2020, Mr. Seery directed the Debtor to cease providing services to the Advisors as otherwise contemplated under the SSAs and the PRAs.” Advisors’ Admin Claim ¶16.

RESPONSE: People with personal knowledge or information relevant to the parties’ dispute include Jim Seery, James Romey, Fred Caruso, David Klos, Kristin Hendrix, Frank Waterhouse, Brian Collins, Dustin Norris, Lauren Thedford, Jason Post, Hayley Eliason, Joe Sowin, and Thomas Sargent, James Dondero, John Dubel, Hon. Russell Nelms, Gregory Demo, D.C. Sauter (with respect to non-privileged matters only, including communications with the Debtor’s counsel), and employees of DSI, HCMLP, NPA and HCMFA.

INTERROGATORY NO. 8:

Identify all individuals likely to have personal knowledge or information Concerning any failure by the Debtor to provide any of the services under the SSAs.

RESPONSE: People with personal knowledge or information relevant to the parties' dispute include Jim Seery, James Romey, Fred Caruso, David Klos, Kristin Hendrix, Frank Waterhouse, Brian Collins, Dustin Norris, Lauren Thedford, Jason Post, Hayley Eliason, Joe Sowin, and Thomas Surgent, James Dondero, John Dubel, Hon. Russell Nelms, Gregory Demo, D.C. Sauter (with respect to non-privileged matters only, including communications with the Debtor's counsel), and employees of DSI, HCMLP, NPA and HCMFA.

INTERROGATORY NO. 9:

Identify all individuals likely to have personal knowledge or information Concerning the Debtor's alleged breach under the PRAs.

RESPONSE: People with personal knowledge or information relevant to the parties' dispute include Jim Seery, James Romey, Fred Caruso, David Klos, Kristin Hendrix, Frank Waterhouse, Brian Collins, Dustin Norris, Lauren Thedford, Jason Post, Hayley Eliason, Joe Sowin, and Thomas Surgent, James Dondero, John Dubel, Hon. Russell Nelms, Gregory Demo, D.C. Sauter (with respect to non-privileged matters only, including communications with the Debtor's counsel), and employees of DSI, HCMLP, NPA and HCMFA.

INTERROGATORY NO. 10:

Identify each "employee[] who no longer exist[s]." Advisors' Admin Claim ¶23.

RESPONSE: See the Advisors' response to Interrogatory No. 3.

INTERROGATORY NO. 11:

For each "employee[] who no longer exist[s]," identify (a) the date such employee ceased to "exist" and (b) the date You learned such employee ceased to "exist." See Advisors' Admin Claim No. ¶23.

RESPONSE: See the Advisors' responses to Interrogatory Nos. 3 and 4.

INTERROGATORY NO. 12:

Identify the payments that You contend constitute "overpayments," including the date and amount of each payment. See Advisors' Admin Claim ¶23.

RESPONSE: The term "overpayments" as used in the application refers to the total amount by which the payments the Advisors made to the Debtor under the shared services agreements and payroll reimbursement agreements exceeded the value of what the Debtor provided in return. “Overpayments” include, but are not necessarily limited to, instances where the Advisors paid for services the Debtor did not render and/or instances where the Advisors paid amounts attributable to the compensation of individuals whom the Debtor no longer employed. In other words, the term “overpayments” refers to the Advisors total damages. It is too soon for the Advisors to be able to quantify their damages definitively, as discovery is ongoing, and the Debtor has exclusive possession, custody, and/or control of relevant documentation.

INTERROGATORY NO. 13:

Identify each witness that You intend to call at Trial.

RESPONSE: The Advisors object to this request to the extent it seeks to impose obligations that exceed those imposed by applicable law. The Advisors are still in the process of identifying witnesses it will call at trial, and the local rules govern exhibit lists. For the avoidance of doubt, individuals responsive to this request will likely be responsive to other interrogatories, in which case their identities will not be withheld elsewhere based on this objection.

IV. RESERVATION OF RIGHTS

The Advisors reserve the right to amend or supplement these written objections and responses at any time, consistent with the applicable Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

Jim,

I hope you are well and are out of the city for a breather. The Retail Fund Board had a meeting recently and had questions related to shared services contract in light of our 15C consideration later this summer. That combined with the recently proposal naming you as CEO/CRO I thought it would make sense for us to have a quick catch up call and possibly, if you are up to it, have a call where you can address the full board. Wanted to get your thoughts and we can push to next week if you happen to be enjoying a "long holiday weekend".

Best,
Ethan

Stacy – as a follow up to your conversation with Chuck please note the attached termination notices which were received late last night. Please also note the below revised disclosure which plans to be included in the disclosure documents for the Funds.

On November 13, 2020, HCMPLP filed an amended plan of reorganization and disclosure statement with the Court (the "Amended Plan"), which was subsequently accepted by the Creditors and approved by the Court. On November 30, 2020, HCMPLP provided notice of termination of the Shared Services Agreement to HCMFA/NPA, effective January 31, 2021. However, based upon on-going discussions with HCMPLP, HCMFA/NPA expects to be able to continue to receive these services through a transfer of personnel, equipment and facilities from HCMPLP either to HCMFA/NPA or to a third-party service provider.

Hi Jason— Thanks for the update information. With respect to the recent action relating to the Shared Services Agreement, the Board would appreciate an update on this on the agenda at the December quarterly meeting. If there is anything of a more time sensitive nature regarding the status of the Agreement that would require an earlier discussion than that, please let us know.

Best,
 Stacy

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT
FUND ADVISORS

NEXPOINT
ADVISORS

TO: Board of Trustees or Board of Directors (as the case may be) (collectively, the “Board”) of Highland Funds I, Highland Funds II, Highland Income Fund, Highland Global Allocation Fund, NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund, NexPoint Real Estate Strategies Fund and NexPoint Capital, Inc.

FROM: Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P., NexPoint Advisors, L.P. and NexPoint Securities, Inc.

RE: 15(c) Information Request

DATE: August 13, 2020

Pursuant to your request dated June 30, 2020, Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. (“HCMFA”), NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (“NexPoint”, and with HCMFA, each, an “Adviser”, and together, the “Advisers”) and NexPoint Securities, Inc. (“NSI” the “Distributor”) submit the following information to the Board in order to assist the Board in fulfilling its obligations under Section 15(c) of the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the “1940 Act”), and to assist in the Board’s consideration of the investment advisory, and other contractual arrangements, for the funds listed on Appendix A (each, a Fund and, collectively, the “Funds”).

Your requests have been noted below, each of which is followed by our response. Unless otherwise specified, reference documents are located on Director’s Desk at the following location: Home > Documents > Corporate Documents > 15c Reference Documents.

Advisory Contracts

Provide the following information in connection with the Advisory Agreements:

A. Description of each Adviser’s Business

1. Provide financial statements for the last fiscal year of each Adviser (audited, if available). References to each Adviser throughout this letter are meant to include, where appropriate, its affiliates that are registered investment advisers. Please describe any significant adverse changes in the financial condition of each Adviser in the past year or if such a change is anticipated.

Response: Financial statements as of June 30, 2020 are provided in the 15(c) materials. There have been no significant adverse changes in the past year in the financial condition of either Adviser, and no such change is anticipated.

The Advisers have entered into a Shared Services agreement with Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“HCMLP”) to utilize HCMLP personnel alongside Adviser personnel to perform services including Legal and Compliance, Finance and Accounting, IT, Tax, Investment Research, Trading and Operations functions.

On October 16, 2019, HCMLP filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection with the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware. The case was subsequently transferred to the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas. On January 9, 2020, the bankruptcy court approved a change of control of HCMLP, which involved the resignation of James Dondero as the sole director of, and the appointment of an independent board to, HCMLP's general partner. Mr. Dondero remains an employee of HCMLP and as portfolio manager for all funds and vehicles for which he currently holds such titles. Nevertheless, given Mr. Dondero's historic role with HCMLP and his continued ownership interest and roles with respect to the investment platform as a whole, as well as the Shared Services Agreements, we continue to treat HCMLP and its affiliates as the Advisers' affiliates for purposes of discussions with the Board.

The Adviser has provided substantive updates to the Board regarding the HCMLP bankruptcy throughout the process. In addition, the Advisers have ensured the Chairman of the Board of the Retail Funds has the contact information for Jim Seery, independent trustee of HCMLP and, as of July 14, 2020, Chief Executive Officer and Chief Restructuring Officer of HCMLP, in the event the Board of the Retail Funds require further information regarding the continuation of these services. Mr. Seery will join the August 2020 meeting to provide an update to the Board.

We feel that the Advisers can provide services, the nature and quality of which are at least equal to those provided by others offering the same or similar services, and that the fees for such services are fair and within industry standards. Please see the response in D.4 for additional detail regarding the Funds' fees and expenses. Additionally, the Adviser has agreed to cap fees in various Funds when a Fund has de minimus assets under management, for example. Nonetheless, we periodically evaluate alternatives to the services offered and if we feel an alternative solution may be warranted in the future, we will present those options to the Board.

2. State (a) each Adviser's total assets under management, and (b) the amount of assets in each strategy employed by the Funds. State the net change in each amount since the prior year and, if such change is significant, describe the nature of the change and state whether the change has led to operational or staffing changes.

Response: (a) HCMFA's assets under management as of June 30, 2020 were approximately $2.1 billion compared to $2.9 billion as of June 30, 2019 (net decrease of $0.8 billion). NexPoint's assets under management as of June 30, 2020 were approximately $1.0 billion compared to $1.3 billion as of June 30, 2019 (net decrease of $0.3 billion).

(b) Please see the “AUM by Strategy” report provided with the 15(c) materials.

3. Provide a copy of each Adviser’s most recent Form ADV (Parts I and II). Please note any material changes made to the Form over the year.

Response: Copies of the Advisers’ most recent Form ADV (Part I) have been provided on Director’s Desk >Home > Documents > Corporate Documents > Form ADVs. The Advisers do not file Part 2A of Form ADV. There have not been any material changes to either Adviser’s Form ADV during the year.

4. Describe any significant changes that have occurred or are anticipated in each Adviser’s principal activities, other than its services provided to a Fund. Discuss any changes which may reasonably be viewed to bear on each Adviser’s performance of services for a Fund or otherwise to have an effect on a Fund. Indicate if any director or portfolio manager of an Adviser is a director of any company that has outside investors (regardless of whether the company is public or private).

Response: No significant changes have occurred or are anticipated in either Adviser’s principal activities. 5. Describe any changes during the past year in senior management of each Adviser and/or its affiliates and the anticipated effect of these changes on the applicable Fund and such Adviser in the short term and over the longer term. Discuss the succession and/or contingency plans in place to respond to the possible departure or prolonged absence of any portfolio manager or other senior employee of an Adviser who has decision-making authority that impacts the Funds, including James Dondero. Provide a copy of any referenced succession and/or contingency plan.

Response: During the past year, management has made certain changes to senior management and the portfolio management teams of certain Funds, including in connection with the fund rationalization review, each of which has been discussed with the Board at previous Board meetings.

These changes include:

Additions:

- An independent board was appointed to the general partner of HCMLP, an affiliate of the Advisers and shared services agreement counterparty. Please refer to the response to Question 1.A for more information.

Departures:

- Mark Okada departed HCMLP on 9/30/19.
- Trey Parker left the employment of HCMLP in 2/28/20 (Mr. Stoops was Assistant Treasurer to the Fund and to the Advisers).
- Cliff Stoops, Chief Accounting Officer, departed HCMLP on 4/3/20. Dave Klos assumed Cliff Stoops former role.

Representatives of the Adviser will be available at the Board Meeting to discuss the Succession Plan.

Please see “Portfolio Manager Table” provided with the 15(c) materials. The Advisers continue to develop their employees and future leaders so that they will be ready and available to help lead and manage in the event that current portfolio managers or other senior employees leave. The Advisers and affiliates also employ dedicated recruiting resources so that they can attract the best talent now and in the future.

6. Discuss any actual or pending change in control (including changes in ownership, capital structure, form of organization or domicile) of each Adviser and the potential impact on such Adviser’s personnel and operations of a change in control.

Response: No change in control is currently anticipated.

7. Describe the business operations of each Adviser, including the percentage of assets managed in private funds and other separate accounts as compared with the Funds, and provide a simple organizational structure chart showing each Adviser and its affiliated companies, including any overlapping employees or positions.

Response: Please see the “Highland Firm Biographies” and “Highland Firm Organization Chart” reports provided with the 15(c) materials. Please also see the “AUM by Strategy” report provided with the 15(c) materials for detail on percentage of assets managed. Personnel of the Advisers will be available at the Board meeting to discuss the business operations of each Adviser in detail. The Advisers do not advise any private funds or other separate accounts.

8. Discuss any future plans regarding the growth of the Advisers, such as plans for an initial public offering, sale of an Adviser or growth by acquisition.

Response: The Advisers do not currently plan to conduct an initial public offering or sale; however the acquisition of another investment adviser may be considered in the context of expanding the registered fund complex. The Advisers continue to evaluate potential opportunities for growth of the Fund complex by acquisition, including through reviewing registered funds seeking strategic alternatives and activist investments in underperforming registered funds. Due to the smaller assets of certain open-end Funds, HCMFA is evaluating potential merger opportunities of such Funds. HCMFA will provide the Board with more detail on such proposals once determined. Please refer to the Board Materials regarding HCMFA’s proposal to assign the Sub-Advisory Agreements for the Highland Total Return Fund and the Highland Income Fund to Brookmont Capital LLC (the “Brookmont Proposal”) in the Board Book.

9. Describe, if applicable, any advantages that might be available to a Fund due to an Adviser’s involvement in other activities. Describe, if applicable, any advantages that might be available to an Adviser, in the conduct of its other activities, that arise because of the relationship with the Funds.

Response: The Advisers may benefit from so-called “fall-out benefits” such as reputational value derived from serving as adviser to the Funds and as described elsewhere within this response letter (see section titled Fees, Expenses, Profitability and Other Benefits). Potential fall-out benefits may also be derived in connection with the merger, acquisition, or management of funds in which the Funds may have had a previous investment. In addition, certain of the Funds may invest in collateralized loan obligations (“CLOs”), real estate investment trusts (“REITs”), and closed-end funds (“CEFs”) advised by the Advisers or their affiliates, the purchases of which are completed on the secondary market. Such investments may indirectly benefit the Advisers by encouraging subscriptions or sales by outside investors in such investments (i.e. due to size), which in turn may increase fees paid to such Advisers.

The Funds may indirectly benefit from the Advisers’ reputation, AUM and market contacts. The Advisers execute their respective investment strategies alongside their affiliates using a single platform. As a result of this arrangement, the Funds may have access to more sophisticated service providers, including more experienced portfolio management personnel, and may enjoy more efficient trading relationships than each Fund would otherwise have had as a standalone fund. Additionally, other entities advised by affiliates of the Advisers may benefit from trading relationships and other market contacts established in connection with the operation of the Funds (for example, a large, sophisticated bank may be willing to extend credit to a Fund, a private fund or a REIT due to the aggregate level of business).

B. Description of each Adviser's Personnel and Services Provided to a Fund

1. Provide a copy of the current Advisory Agreements and Subadvisory Agreement, and discuss any changes that are proposed, including proposed changes in the services to be performed or fees to be imposed.

Response: Copies of current Advisory and Sub-advisory Agreements are permanently posted on the Directors Desk internet portal. No changes to the Advisory or Sub-Advisory agreements are proposed at the meeting other than those noted in the Brookmont Proposal.

2. (a) Identify the professional personnel (i.e., executives, economists, statisticians, lawyers, investment analysts, and portfolio managers, etc.), including education, experience, and professional affiliation, who perform services for a Fund. Describe any significant personnel changes that have taken place. Note any hirings, departures, or transfers of professional persons, particularly of senior personnel that have occurred in the past year or are anticipated in the next year, and the reason for such actions. With respect to new or anticipated personnel, include a summary of each person's education, experience, affiliation, and various responsibilities.

Response: Please see the "Highland Firm Biographies" reports provided with the 15(c) materials. Changes to the portfolio management teams of certain Funds are noted in Section A(5), above. Notwithstanding those changes, all other portfolio managers remain with the Advisers.

(b) (i) For each portfolio manager or portfolio management team of a Fund, provide the total number of Funds and non-Funds managed and the total amount of assets (Fund and non-Fund) for which the portfolio manager is responsible. Identify whether the Adviser and each portfolio manager is responsible for multiple strategies, and how each Fund fits into the mix. Note whether the manager also manages a hedge fund or other account having performance or other incentive fees.

Response: Please see the "Portfolio Manager Table" provided with the 15(c) materials.

(b) (ii) Discuss how each Adviser monitors for and addresses conflicts of interest in these circumstances and note any changes made during the year to an Adviser's policies with respect to managing such conflicts. Your response should address, without limitation: (a) material conflicts arising because the investment strategy of a Fund and the investment strategy of the other accounts managed by the Adviser differ; and (b) material conflicts in the allocation of investment opportunities (including the purchase of IPOs and limited offerings and the sale of securities that are rapidly declining in value) between a Fund and other accounts managed by the Adviser, especially where a Fund and other accounts are charged different fees.

Response: The Advisers have built a professional working environment, a firm-wide compliance culture and compliance procedures and systems designed to protect against potential incentives that may favor one account over another. The Advisers have adopted policies and procedures that address the allocation of investment opportunities, execution of portfolio transactions, personal trading by employees and other potential conflicts of interest that are designed to ensure that all client accounts are treated equitably over time. Nevertheless, the Advisers furnishes advisory services to numerous clients in addition to the Funds, and the Advisers may, consistent with applicable law, make investment recommendations to other clients or accounts (including accounts that are hedge funds or have performance or higher fees paid to the Advisers or in which portfolio managers have a personal interest in the receipt of such fees) that may be the same as or different from those made to the Funds. In addition, the Advisers, their affiliates and any of their partners, directors, officers, stockholders or employees may or may not have an interest in the securities whose purchase and sale an Adviser recommends to the Funds. Actions with respect to securities of the same kind may be the same as or different from the action that an Adviser, or any of its affiliates, or any of their partners, directors, officers, stockholders or employees or any member of their families may take with respect to the same securities. Moreover, an Adviser may refrain from rendering any advice or services concerning securities of companies of which any of an Adviser's (or its affiliates') partners, directors, officers or employees are directors or officers (for example portfolio companies), or companies as to which an Adviser or any of its affiliates or partners, directors, officers and employees of any of them has any substantial economic interest or possesses material non-public information. In addition to its various policies and procedures designed to address these issues, the Advisers include disclosure regarding these matters to their clients in both their Form ADV, offering documents, and investment advisory agreements.

Given a portion of the Funds' assets are invested in REITs, registered investment companies ("RICS"), asset-backed securities and/or collateralized loan obligations sponsored, organized and/or managed by the Advisers and their affiliates, including HCMLP, the Advisers monitor for conflicts of interest in accordance with their fiduciary duties and their written compliance procedures. The Advisers provide the independent trustees of the Trust with an opportunity to periodically review the Trust's investments in such REITs, RICs, asset backed securities and/or CLOs and assure themselves that continued investment in such securities remains in the best interests of the Trust and its shareholders. For example, the Adviser provided memorandums prior to the Funds' investments in affiliated rights offerings and co-investments.

The Advisers plan to make the following changes to the conflicts of interest disclosure for the Funds' registration statements since the Capital Structure Conflicts Committee is no longer convened. The institutional accounts advised by HCMLP are now overseen by an independent board, which makes determinations on a course of action if more than one part of an issuer's capital structure is held. As has traditionally been the case for the Funds, the applicable portfolio manager will separately and independently make his or her decision on suitability as to the course of action for the applicable Fund.

Disclosure: Conflicts may arise in cases when clients invest in different parts of an issuer's capital structure, including circumstances in which one or more clients own private securities or obligations of an issuer and other clients may own public securities of the same issuer. In addition, one or more clients may invest in securities, or other financial instruments, of an issuer that are senior or junior to securities, or financial instruments, of the same issuer that are held by or acquired for, one or more other clients. For example, if such issuer encounters financial problems, decisions related to such securities (such as over the terms of any workout or proposed waivers and amendments to debt covenants) may raise conflicts of interests. In such a distressed situation, a client holding debt securities of the issuer may be better served by a liquidation of the issuer in which it may be paid in full, whereas a client holding equity securities of the issuer might prefer a reorganization that holds the potential to create value for the equity holders. In the event of conflicting interests within an issuer's capital structure, Highland will generally pursue the strategy that Highland believes best reflects what would be expected to be negotiated in an arm's length transaction with due consideration being given to Highland's fiduciary duties to each of its accounts (without regard to the nature of the accounts involved or fees received from such accounts).

This strategy may be recommended by one or more Highland investment professionals. A single person may make decisions with respect to represent more than one part of an issuer's capital structure. ~~The recommended course of action will be presented to the conflicts committee for final determination as to how to proceed. Highland may elect, but is not required, to assign different teams to make recommendations for different parts of the capital structure as the conflicts committee determines in its discretion. In the event any Highland personnel serve on the board of the subject company, they generally recuse themselves from voting on any board matter with respect to a transaction that has an asymmetrical impact on the capital structure. Highland personnel board members may still make recommendations to the conflicts committee applicable investment professional(s). If any such persons are also on the conflicts committee, they may recuse themselves from the committee's determination. A portfolio manager with respect to any applicable Highland registered investment company clients ("Retail Accounts") participates in such discussions, but will~~ makes an independent determination as to which course of action he or she determines is in the best interest of the applicable Retail Accounts. Highland may use external counsel for guidance and assistance.

(iii) Describe each Adviser's policy regarding portfolio manager investment in the Funds they manage and provide information on the amount of portfolio manager investment in the Funds they manage. If none, please explain why it may not be applicable.

Response: The Adviser encourages, but does not require, investment by portfolio managers in the Funds they manage. Information relating to each portfolio manager's investment in the Funds they manage is available in the respective Fund's offering documents and are updated on an annual basis. Additionally, the Advisers provide for long-term alignment of interests through the issuance of deferred awards in shares of managed Funds.

3. Discuss the ability of each Adviser to attract and retain high-caliber professionals. For personnel providing advisory services, describe each person's level and area of responsibility, and percentage spent on Fund matters relative to other matters of an Adviser. Provide information regarding the basis on which compensation is paid to those persons, including any current or planned "incentive" arrangements. If a substantial portion of the portfolio manager(s) compensation is tied to a Fund's performance, describe the oversight mechanisms used to prevent the portfolio manager(s) from taking undue risks when Fund performance is lagging. Please also describe any differences between the methods used to determine portfolio manager compensation with respect to a Fund versus other accounts of the applicable Adviser. Explain how each Adviser monitors and resolves conflicts of interest that may arise from its compensation system (i.e., favoring investment strategies for non-Fund clients over a Fund or favoring short- over long-term investment results).

Response: The value placed by senior management of each of HCMFA and NexPoint on developing and maintaining key resources is reflected in the financial arrangements each Adviser has with its portfolio managers, its competitive compensation and its career path emphasis at all levels. Compensation may include a variety of components and may vary from year to year based on a number of pre-tax measurements, including the relative risk adjusted performance of a portfolio manager's underlying account, the combined performance of the portfolio manager's underlying accounts, and the relative performance of the portfolio manager's underlying accounts measured against other portfolio managers. The principal components of compensation include a base salary, a discretionary bonus, various retirement benefits and one or more of the incentive compensation programs established by HCMFA or NexPoint, as applicable. Due in part to the discretionary nature of the bonus, which is typically a substantial portion of portfolio manager's total compensation, the manner in which a portfolio manager achieves their return is considered. In the event performance was achieved through excessive risk taking, the relative risk adjusted return is used and reflected in their discretionary bonus.

Because each person's compensation is based on his or her individual performance, neither HCMFA nor NexPoint has a typical percentage split among base salary, bonus and other compensation. Senior portfolio managers who perform additional management functions may receive additional compensation in these other capacities. Compensation is structured such that key professionals benefit from remaining with HCMFA or NexPoint, as applicable. The same methods are utilized to determine compensation with respect to Funds versus other accounts.

Executive management of the firm has an overarching perspective on the firm and all investment activities. They review compensation to help ensure all Funds and investment accounts are appropriately and fairly considered during the compensation process.

To incentivize long-term investment results, performance bonuses are paid out in up to four equal installments over the eighteen (18) months following the grant rather than a single lump sum. In addition, PMs are typically awarded deferred compensation with a three-year cliff vest. The employee must be employed with the firm on the bonus installment date or the deferred compensation vesting date, as applicable, in order to receive each payment.

In light of the HCMLP bankruptcy, the Adviser's recruiting approach has remained consistent in targeting top tier talent for any opening. The Adviser's HR personnel have fielded questions from candidates regarding the bankruptcy, which we address candidly and with as much transparency as possible. HCMLP has had six offers of employment accepted by highly qualified candidates since filing for bankruptcy in October 2019. This number does not include hires by affiliated entities such as the Advisers.

With respect to retaining talent, we have focused on continuing to deliver a very competitive level of compensation and benefits to our employees, with little to no disruption. Executing on this has helped retain employees and reduce the stress associated with the bankruptcy. In addition, HCMLP provides bankruptcy updates to employees when there is new information to share and openly answers any questions proposed about the bankruptcy.

For advisory services personnel, the percentage of mutual fund assets to total assets managed is an approximate of the percentage of time spent on Fund matters. Please see the "Portfolio Manager Table" provided with the 15(c) materials.

4. Describe how each Adviser monitors and evaluates the performance of portfolio managers.

Response: The portfolio managers are evaluated based on the alpha generated by their portfolio versus their bogey. On a regular basis, investment performance is evaluated both versus an index return (bogey) and also compared to the returns of their peers within the firm. Other qualitative attributes considered in the evaluation process are communication, teamwork, attitude and leadership.

5. Describe separately the advisory, administrative and any other material services, as applicable, rendered by an Adviser to a Fund, emphasizing any significant changes or anticipated changes to the nature or amount of these services. Include in this description each Adviser's investment decision-making process and the sources of information upon which it generally relies in providing portfolio management—including risk management—services for a Fund.

Response: The Advisers provide the investment program for the Funds. This includes researching and analyzing the macro financial environment and developing strategies to enable the Funds to meet their investment objectives. The Advisers utilize their employees to source ideas for portfolio investments, research specific investment opportunities, purchase the investments, provide ongoing monitoring of the investments, make sell decisions and finally execute the sell order.

Both of the Advisers bring institutional quality strategies and investment managers to the Funds, where applicable and subject to a Fund's applicable liquidity portfolio and investment objective. Macro themes are set by James Dondero and the Funds' Co-CIOs and are implemented through top-down thematic development and bottom-up fundamental execution. The Advisers and their affiliates are a 25 year, privately held pioneer in global alternative strategies, including credit and equity management, and generally target securities that appear undervalued relative to the market, their peers, historical valuations or growth rates.

The Advisers have entered into a Shared Services agreement with HCMLP to utilize HCMLP personnel alongside Adviser personnel to provide or oversee the provision of all operational services to the Funds (some of which are covered under the administrative fee). These services include accounting for a Fund's income and expenses, calculating a daily NAV for certain Funds, daily portfolio pricing, cash management, interaction with portfolio managers, reporting information to reporting services, expense monitoring, accrual management (for both income and expenses), invoice processing, account receivable management, monitoring leverage, monitoring prospectus compliance, compiling holdings reports and financial statements, managing audits, vendor management, monitoring short selling, securities lending, and derivatives and compliance with applicable rules and regulations, settling trades, compliance functions, preparing board materials, tax management, interaction with fund counsel, distribution management, preparation and filing of certain SEC reports, etc. Additionally, as a business development company, NexPoint Capital, Inc. (the "BDC") is required to offer and provide significant management assistance to portfolio companies in which the BDC is invested, if so requested by the company's management team. To the extent managerial assistance is provided by NexPoint, the costs of providing such services will be passed through to the BDC.

For example, the Advisers have outsourced some of the day-to-day functions related to these services to third party service providers such as:

- State Street Bank and Trust Company ("SSB") as administrator/sub-administrator and custodian to the BDC;
- SEI Investments Global Funds Services ("SEI") as Fund administrator/sub-administrator to all Funds except for the BDC;
- DST Systems, Inc. ("DST") as transfer agent for the open-end Funds and BDC, excluding Highland/iBoxx Senior Loan ETF (the "ETF") and NRESF;
- Bank of New York Mellon ("BNY") as custodian to the Funds (ex-BDC and HFRO) as transfer agent to the ETF; and
- American Stock and Transfer Agent ("AST") as transfer agent for the closed-end Funds. AST also provides proxy solicitation services to the closed-end Funds and the BDC for general and special meetings.

Given the recent significant changes in the Funds' custodian (from SSB to BNY, except for the BDC) and the transition to SEI as administrator, the Advisers do not anticipate additional changes at this time. We believe the Advisers provide a high level of service because of the greater regulatory requirements applicable to registered funds, interval funds and a continuously offered business development company, the need to price the portfolio daily and to calculate a NAV daily, the need to manage leverage and derivatives, and the nature of the shareholder base (e.g., the Advisers are responsible for responding to telephonic inquiries from retail investors, preparing investor reports, interacting with the Funds' transfer agents, speaking with analysts, etc.). For example, with respect to the BDC, because it is treated more like an operating company with a requirement to file Form 10-Q, Forms 10-K and 8-K, and Schedule TO, there is far more time involved in the administrative and reporting process than a typical 1940 Act registered fund or institutional fund. Additionally, NRESF conducts quarterly repurchases, which require additional oversight by administrative, reporting and legal teams.

Given the quality of the Advisers' and their affiliates' back office (many functions are provided by affiliates of the Advisers through a shared services agreement), the Advisers feel the quality of services provided to the Funds is very high. Many of the firms' CPAs also have advanced degrees in their areas of specialty.

Below is a description of the Advisers' retail product group's senior leadership, legal and compliance, fund marketing and distribution and fund operations capabilities.

Senior Leadership

The Funds are supported by an experienced team of investment professionals and executive management, whose biographies are detailed in the "Highland Firm Biographies" document included with the 15(c) materials.

Legal and Compliance

The Advisers have a dedicated CCO who focuses on compliance issues related to the 1940 Act funds. Additionally, he is supported by HCMLP's seven-member legal and compliance department, which includes four compliance (one of whom is also an attorney), three legal and one support personnel. The group is responsible for all legal and compliance matters, including the development of compliance policies and procedures, monitoring adherence to those procedures and fostering a culture of compliance throughout the firm.

The legal and compliance group's responsibilities include the updating of Form ADV, performing risk assessments, coordinating state and federal regulatory reporting and interfacing with each respective party in regards to investigative inquiries, and maintaining the Advisers' and Funds' compliance manuals. The Advisers' compliance manual addresses the handling of complaints, monitoring and mitigating conflicts of interests and reviewing of marketing materials. The group is involved in reviewing trading activities, including compliance with the firm's soft dollar, brokerage, trade errors and trade allocation policies. Members of the group are consulted on the design and implementation of procedural controls related to trade entry and authorization.

The group conducts new hire training and teach-ins to provide refreshers of the firm's procedures and topical updates. In an effort to continue to develop their professional expertise, members of the legal and compliance department attend seminars, receive compliance-related subscriptions and utilize the services of external compliance consultants. The compliance function, however, is not outsourced.

Fund Marketing and Distribution

The Advisers and the Distributor have a proven track record of raising assets in the 1940 Act space. Gross sales by the Distributor during 2019 total $1,716.9 million and 2020 year-to-date gross sales through June 30, 2020 total $352.0 million. The break down by fund type is as follows.

Gross Sales - YTD 6/30/20:

- Mutual Funds $16 million
- Interval Funds $2 million
- ETF $206 million
- Reg D $127 million

Gross Sales - Full Year 2019

- Mutual Funds $65 million
- Closed-End Funds $243 million
- Interval Funds $6 million
- ETF $1.1 billion
- Reg D $288 million

This was accomplished through the effective deployment and management of a national wholesaler team which, as of June 30, 2020, consists of 30 professionals.

Fund Operations

The retail operations group is responsible for bridging communications from the responsible investment teams to the investors and to the Funds' various service providers. The retail operations group's duties include monitoring of the sub-advisory relationship with First Foundation, Inc. ("FFA" or the "Sub-Adviser"). This includes acting as the primary point of contact for communications with the Sub-Adviser of the Funds. In addition to any day-to-day contact, the operations group and the compliance group coordinate the review or preparation of monthly and quarterly Sub-Adviser compliance reporting documents.

Marketing support is part of the retail operation group's responsibilities. This requires interfacing directly with the National Accounts Director and the Retail Product Strategy team to ensure they are provided with accurate and effective marketing materials. This includes working with portfolio managers (both internal and at the Sub-Adviser) and compliance personnel on preparing marketing materials including monthly write-ups, quarterly webcasts and up-to-date presentations (based on market conditions).

Additionally, this group is responsible for ensuring portfolio managers have meaningful, accurate and timely portfolio level data available to make appropriate investment decisions on behalf of the Funds. In this capacity the group is also responsible for the management of data integrity for both internal and external portfolio data sources including the Funds' financial statements and other regulatory filings. This includes the management of external audits.

As part of the operations role this group provides day-to-day operational support of trade settlement, performance of reconciliation processes, management of prime brokerage relationships, sourcing and maintaining credit facilities, measuring and explaining Fund performance and positioning, providing portfolio monitoring for compliance limitations and portfolio positioning goals. This monitoring combined with the reporting from service providers allows the Advisers to oversee each Fund's compliance with its investment objectives, the 1940 Act and prospectus investment restrictions, policies and requirements.

Risk Management

The Advisers' risk management function is overseen by Jim Dondero, with the assistance of Joe Sowin, additional employees and automated reporting. The Adviser is currently in the process of automating the risk management function as the platforms assets have shifted from open-end, liquid equity funds to more real estate and investments in tangible products. An in-depth discussion of the process used to monitor risks in the Funds is provided in response to question B.18. Mr. Sowin will be available at the September 2020 Board meeting to discuss.

Separately, the Advisers employee code of conduct requires employees to bring any issues reasonably believed to place the Advisers or Funds at risk to the attention of the CCO. On at least an annual basis, HCMLP's Director of IT conducts a cyber-security risk assessment. The Director of IT provides the CCO with a summary of any moderate or high-risk vulnerabilities that are identified, as well as a plan to remediate such risks

6. Discuss how the Adviser's role with respect to any sub-advised Fund is different from the Sub-Adviser's role. To the extent possible, describe with respect to each sub-advised Fund the specific services that are provided by the Adviser under the Advisory Agreement that will not be provided by the Subadviser under the Subadvisory Agreement.

Response: The Sub-Adviser is principally involved in the day-to-day investment management of the sub-advised Funds' portfolios, as well as any data needs associated with trades made and positions held in the portfolios that are not maintained by BNY (the sub-advised Funds' custodian). The Sub-Adviser works with the Adviser for cash management as well as for compliance testing and regulatory maintenance.

The Advisers are responsible for all other aspects of Fund management/administration described above, including the following: calculating a daily NAV for certain Funds, daily portfolio pricing, cash management, reporting information to reporting services, expense monitoring, accrual management (for both income and expenses), invoice processing, account receivable management, monitoring leverage, monitoring prospectus compliance, compiling holdings reports and financial statements, managing audits, vendor management, monitoring short selling, securities lending, and derivatives and compliance with applicable rules and regulations, settling trades, compliance functions, preparing board materials, tax management, interaction with fund counsel, distribution management, preparation and filing of certain SEC reports, etc. HCMFA utilizes the services of SEI to assist in certain of the administrative tasks above pursuant to a separate Administration Agreement.

7. Describe the process by which the Advisers engage to review and monitor the Subadviser, including fee negotiation, the nature and quality of the Sub-Adviser's services, compliance monitoring, investment oversight, risk oversight and on-site due diligence. Please note any material changes in an Adviser's processes for supervising the Subadviser within the past year or that are anticipated in the coming year. Describe any material business arrangement that may exist between an Adviser or any of its affiliates and the Subadviser. Provide a recommendation for the continuation of the Subadvisory Agreement.

Response: The Advisers monitor daily, monthly, and quarterly performance reporting for the Sub-Adviser's Fund-specific performance as well as performance compared to the relevant benchmarks. Additionally, the Adviser negotiates the sub-advisory fee at execution of the initial contract and monitors the fee level in connection with its review of the Advisers' profitability (for example, whether the Advisers are able to cover expenses given the fee split between an Adviser and the Sub-Adviser). The Advisers have regular calls with the Sub-Adviser to discuss the management and portfolio construction of the Funds, performance, and capital activity.

From a compliance perspective, the Advisers are copied along with FFA on daily compliance and liquidity reporting distributed to the Sub-Adviser and discuss with the Sub-Adviser any exceptions which require further review, have an open dialogue with the Sub-Adviser's CCO and portfolio management team, and receive a quarterly compliance certification from the Sub-Adviser which is also furnished to the Board. The CCO conducted an on-site due diligence with the Sub-Adviser in Q3 2019. Regarding the continuation of the Subadvisory Agreements with FFA, please refer to the response set forth in B.1.

While there is no arrangement in place: (i) we note that FFA is an investor in Highland Opportunistic Credit Fund, (ii) one of the principals of the parent company of FFA, First Foundation Inc., serves as an independent Board member of two of the Advisers affiliated exchange listed REITs, NXRT and NREF, unlisted affiliated REIT, VineBrook, and (iii) NexBank from time to time may enter into lending arrangements with affiliated entities or employees of FFA.

8. List the key unaffiliated third parties that the Advisers use to perform critical services (i.e. necessary for day-to-day fund operations) under their agreements with the Funds, including services performed by such third parties. Please evaluate the performance of the service providers, specifying whether you believe that the services provided are satisfactory and that the costs are in line with those of competitors. Describe any financial or other benefits received by the Advisers or their affiliates directly or indirectly from any such service provider. Discuss how the Advisers plan to continue and/or promptly resume providing services in the event of a significant business disruption of these third parties.

Response: The Advisers have outsourced some of the day-to-day functions related to these services to third party service providers such as:

- State Street Bank and Trust Company (“SSB”) as administrator/sub-administrator and custodian to the BDC;
- SEI Investments Global Funds Services (“SEI”) as Fund administrator/sub-administrator to all Funds except for the BDC;
- DST Systems, Inc. (“DST”) as transfer agent for the open-end Funds and BDC, excluding Highland/iBoxx Senior Loan ETF (the “ETF”) and NRESF;
- BNY as custodian to the Funds (ex-BDC) and as transfer agent to the ETF; and
- American Stock and Transfer Agent (“AST”) as transfer agent for NHF, HFRO and GAF. AST also provides proxy solicitation services to NHF, HFRO, GAF and the BDC for general and special meetings.

The Adviser believes these third-party service providers are industry leaders in their respective fields. The Adviser feels the quality of services provided to the Funds by these service providers is high, and the overall costs are in line with the competitors. The Adviser does not receive any financial or other benefits directly or indirectly from any such service provider. The Adviser has experience updating service providers and performing due diligence on key unaffiliated third parties to ensure the highest quality of standards at market rates. This was demonstrated as a part of the 2018 Request for Proposal process, in which several service provider’s functions were updated, as well as the 2019 and 2020 auditor updates. The Adviser would reference the BCP, to the extent there was a disruption to any of the service providers’ key services.

9. Provide annualized investment performance of each Fund over the one-year, three-year, five-year and since-inception periods as of June 30, 2020. Include comparative performance information for (a) other clients of the applicable Adviser with similar investment objectives and strategies, (b) a peer group, including peer funds having similar investment objectives and strategies, and (c) appropriate benchmark indices and how they are monitored for ongoing appropriateness. Describe the basis for the selection of the peer group and the benchmark indices. Indicate whether performance information provided is gross or net of fees and expenses. Comment on any significant differences between the performance of each Fund and that of other clients of the applicable Adviser with similar investment objectives and strategies

Response: Please see the “Fuse” report, the “BDC Industry Review” report, and the “NexPoint Capital Performance vs. Peers” report provided with the 15(c) materials. Indices were selected based on the Fund’s prospectus and the peers were selected based on Fuse peers.

Regarding performance differences between Funds and other entities advised by the Adviser with overlapping investment objectives and strategies, the Adviser believes the investment strategies of the Funds are sufficiently different from an investment and stylistic basis that performance is not correlated. For example, NHF and NRESF both have significant exposure to real estate, but still exhibit different return profiles due to the type of real estate exposure. NHF has approximately 67% of its assets invested in real estate securities and has exposure to other credit and diversified equities. This real estate exposure is related to office and development properties while NRESF’s has more exposure to multifamily.

10. For a Fund that is an exchange-traded fund, evaluate how the Fund has performed as an exchange-traded product, including:
  - a. its bid/ask spreads;
  - b. the difference between its share price and its net asset value per share;
  - c. transaction costs of rebalances and awareness of third-party investors front-running rebalancing trades; and
  - d. tracking error (if available).

Response: Please see the “SNLN Bid Ask Spread” report, the “SNLN Premium and Discounts (as of 06.30.20)” report, and the “SNLN Tracking Error” report provided with the 15(c) materials. Regarding (c), the portfolio manager and operations team are in direct communication with the bank loan trade desk to determine the appropriate trades for the rebalance. Once determined, the trades related to rebalances are executed using best execution practices. The Adviser has not seen third-party trade activity that is consistent with investors potentially front-running a monthly rebalance.

11. If a Fund has or is expected to engage in foreign currency transactions, describe whether an Adviser plans to actively trade foreign currency for the Fund or to delegate some or all of the trading to the Fund's custodian. Comment on the quality of execution of currency transactions that you believe the Funds receive and describe the policies and procedures for the oversight of currency transactions.

Response: The Adviser generally does not trade in foreign currencies directly, rather may have residual balances in connection with realization of trades and has delegated most of the foreign currency transactions to the Fund's custodian, BNY. BNY is consistently an industry leader in expertise and volume in the foreign exchange markets. The Advisers' fund accounting teams oversee the instruction and review foreign currency transactions to ensure they are in line with current market rates. The custodian receives automatically, electronic FX file. This file contains foreign trade details executed by the Highland trade desk. A test copy of the FX file is generated and reviewed, and once confirmed, the file is sent to the custodian via FTP. The file is electronically received at the custodian and automatically processed as a trade pending executing.

12. If applicable, provide information regarding the premium or discount at which a Fund's shares have traded since inception on a monthly basis through June 30, 2020, or a shorter period if since inception is not practicable. Please also show the current yields of any such Funds based on current market values as of a recent date. If possible, please provide comparable information for Fund peers.

Response: Please see the "Premium/Discount" reports provided with the 15(c) materials.

13. With respect to each Fund's performance relative to its benchmark index and peer group over the one-year, three-year, five-year and since-inception periods for the fiscal year ended June 30, 2020, please discuss the factors that you believe accounted for the underperformance or outperformance. If a Fund has underperformed, also discuss what steps are being taken to create an environment in which the performance of the Fund can be expected to improve. Please also discuss the impact of Fund performance on asset flows and asset levels of each Fund.

Response: Please refer to Exhibit A attached hereto for the performance chart.

Highland Income Fund – In May 2019 the Fund changed its name to the Highland Income Fund. The Fund's investment objective (to provide a high level of current income consistent with preservation of capital) did not change, but the Fund expanded its investment strategy and removed the policy of investing at least 80% of net assets in floating rate securities. Under the new strategy the Fund will expand upon its focus on floating rate investments to also include investments in securities or related instruments directly or indirectly secured by real estate. The Fund's differentiated portfolio construction and HCMFA's ability to manage a more concentrated, opportunistic portfolio are large contributors to the Fund's short-term and solid long-term performance versus peers. The Fund's drawdown in late 2015 and early 2016 contributed to the underperformance over the five-year period. During this period, several of the Fund's larger positions included investments in loans to undervalued energy-related companies that significantly underperformed due to the continued stress felt by falling commodity prices. Much of the underperformance over the last year is due to the CLO' bucket, energy exposure and certain real estate securities. The Fund's largest investment, Creek Pine Holdings has been one of the top contributors to performance over the last year. As part of the investment changes we expect to see more highly attractive real estate investments such as the Freddie Mac K Deals which bring a favorable risk/return to the Fund. Over the last one year and three-year period the Fund has outperformed its peers. Performance has not impacted asset flows since this Fund is a listed Closed-end Fund.

Highland Merger Arbitrage Fund – Since its January 2015 inception the Fund has significantly outperformed its peers and benchmark, the Barclays U.S. Aggregate Bond Index. In addition to its strong absolute performance, the Fund also provides minimal volatility and low correlation to other asset classes. It is the #1 performing Merger Arbitrage and Market Neutral fund since inception and along with the Fund's high risk adjusted returns it maintains a 5-star rating on Morningstar. The Fund's focus on low risk deals has led to outperformance over nearly all time periods. Performance has not materially impacted asset flows, however we believe the added scale from the merger with the Long/Short Equity Fund will help to increase exposure and raise additional assets on the back of the solid performance of the fund.

We believe the merger arbitrage strategy presents an attractive long-term investment opportunity. Historically, merger arbitrage has demonstrated superior risk-adjusted returns compared to stocks and bonds. The strategy has low correlation to stocks and bonds which can enhance portfolio diversification. The Fund current has a correlation of 0.20 to the S&P and 0.04 to the Barclays Aggregate Bond Index. The Fund continues to boast impressive risk adjusted returns with a Sharpe Ratio of 1.47 which is the highest Sharpe ratio of all US liquid alternative funds.

Highland Small Cap Equity Fund – The Fund has underperformed its peers and benchmark over the one, three and five-year periods primarily due to underperformance in 2020. While the Fund had very strong performance in 2016 and 2018 it gave up most of the gains in the first half of 2020. Several of Fund's top performing themes in previous years have underperformed over the last year. Additionally, the Fund has been underweight in tech stocks, overweight in value, financials, and biotech, and had some single name shorts that have had been up on the year, which has created a loss for the portfolio YTD. Performance has materially impacted asset flows relative to the category.

Highland Healthcare Opportunities Fund – Looking over the long-term, the healthcare sector has faced performance challenges. The healthcare sector was the worst performing sector of the S&P 500 in 2016, while the NASDAQ biotech index was down 21%. Additionally, the healthcare sector experienced a drawdown from July 2015 to February 2016, which was a larger sell off than that the sector experienced during the 2008 financial crisis. The sector yet again entered correction territory in late 2016 when it experienced a 12.38% drawdown stretching from August through November. This persistent volatility has made it challenging to provide strong long-term risk-adjusted returns given the Highland Healthcare Opportunities Fund's beta to the healthcare sector. Although the sector rebounded in 2018 it was the second the worst performing sector in the S&P 500 in 2019. The Highland Healthcare Opportunities Fund has not kept pace with the S&P 500 due to security selection, it's exposure to the healthcare sector, and the fact that the Fund historically operated a short portfolio which limited the Fund's potential for returns in up markets. On November 20, 2019 the Fund changed its name to the Highland Healthcare Opportunities Fund and changed its strategy to focus more on long only and across healthcare debt and equity. Over the last year the Fund has outperformed its benchmark. Over the last 1 year and 3-year periods the Fund has outperformed its peers. Asset flows are attributed to a combination of net outflows in the Long/Short Equity Category and portfolio manager departure.

Highland Socially Responsible Equity Fund – On December 1, 2018 Michael Hurley replaced Michael McLochlin as Portfolio Manager and on July 16, 2019 the Fund changed its name to the Highland Socially Responsible Equity Fund. The investment objective did not change but the strategy now invests in equities securities of socially responsible companies contained in the MSCI KLD 400 Social Index. The Fund has significantly underperformed its peers and benchmark over the last 1-year, 3-year and 5-year time periods, and since PM inception on 12/1/18. Underperformance has been driven by both sector and security selection, and detailed analysis of performance has been provided by Mike Hurley at each of the past three Board meetings. The underperformance has negatively impacted asset flows.

Highland Total Return Fund and Highland Fixed Income Fund– Following the termination of GE Asset Management, Incorporated, HCMFA appointed FFA as sub-adviser to the Highland Fixed Income Fund on August 1, 2014 and the Highland Total Return Fund on February 1, 2015. Since then, FFA has cleaned up portfolio construction and improved performance across the Funds relative to its respective Morningstar category. The Highland Total Return Fund allocates to both equity and fixed income securities in a balanced manner and therefore has two prospectus benchmarks. Given its balanced portfolio, it has underperformed the S&P 500 and the Barclays U.S. Aggregate Bond Index. The Fund also underperformed its peers. The Highland Fixed Income Fund has underperformed its benchmark over the one, three and five-year periods.

Through June 30, 2020, the Highland Fixed Income Fund has only slightly underperformed its Morningstar category over the five-year periods and since FFA took over as sub-adviser. Performance has not materially impacted asset flows.

NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund – The Fund has dual benchmarks and has underperformed the HFRX Global Hedge Fund Index and the DJ CS Hedge Fund index over the one- year period while only slightly underperforming over the three and five-year periods. However, the Fund has significantly outperformed its Morningstar peers and over 90% of all listed Closed-end Funds since Jim Dondero took over the Fund in 2012. The Fund experienced a large drawdown during the second half of 2015 and early part of 2016. The Fund’s exposure to energy-related credits and equities, such as Ocean Rig/Sea Drill and NRG, was a significant detractor to performance. Credit markets experienced a great deal of carnage during this time period that we believe put unwarranted technical pressure on below investment grade credits. This highly correlated ‘risk-off’ sentiment also led to CLOs trading down significantly and which, as one of the largest asset allocations within the portfolio, caused the Fund’s performance to suffer during this period. To provide context, CLO prices fell as much as 37% and 25% on B and BB rated CLO debt, respectively, in which tranches the Fund largely invests. Lastly, the Fund’s sizeable position in TXU, which eventually reorganized into Vistra Energy, provided a great deal of negative performance as a result of the company’s bankruptcy. However, many of these large detractors, such as CLOs and TXU/Vistra Energy, rebounded nicely in 2016 and 2017.

The Fund significantly outperformed its benchmarks in 2018 due to stability in some of the largest real estate interments including the private REIT, Jernigan Capital and the Freddie Mac K Deals. However, the Fund underperformed its benchmarks and peers in 2019. While broad markets significantly rallied in 2019 the Fund was defensive with hedges in place that detracted from performance. Through the first half of 2020 the Fund has slightly underperformed its peers and has underperformed its benchmarks. While many of the Fund’s top themes including TerreStar, Jernigan Capital and the private REIT have been positive performers it has been offset by weakness in CLO equity, and the Fund’s hospitality REIT and mortgage REIT due to the challenges of COVID-19. The Fund’s concentration and outsized exposure within real estate offer access to Highland’s premier real estate platform and significant upside potential. Recent underperformance has not impacted asset flows since this Fund is a listed Closed-end Fund, however the longer term outperformance had a meaningfully positive impact on fundraising, bringing in $590 million in three rights offerings.

NexPoint Capital, Inc. – Although the BDC had historically outperformed its peers it experienced a significant drawdown in 2020 which is the primary reason it has underperformed over the last one year, three year and five-year periods. The BDC significantly outperformed in 2016, 2017 and 2019. The drawdown in 2020 was due to sectors that were significantly impacted by the COVID-19 Pandemic such as mortgage and hospitality REITs. Since the drawdown in March 2020 the BDC has rebounded and has returned approximately 23%. The portfolio management team continues to believe in the long-term growth trajectory of the healthcare market due to demographic trends, increasing healthcare costs and consumer utilization trends. The healthcare sector already benefits from experiencing one of the lowest default rates, and HCMFA believes that these and other positive factors will help maintain stability in healthcare credit markets moving forward. Performance has impacted asset flows.

NexPoint Real Estate Strategies – Although the Fund has slightly outperformed its peers and the MSCI US REIT index since inception it has underperformed both its peers and the MSCI US REIT index over the last one- and three-year periods. Underperformance is primarily due to the Fund's drawdown in Q1 2020 where the Fund was down 31.5%. The Fund had exposure to hospitality REITs including Ashford and Braemar which experienced significant volatility during the COVID 19 pandemic as hospitality was one of the hardest hit real estate sectors. In addition, the fund had significant exposure to the NREF IPO, which dropped significantly in the first quarter in the COVID related liquidity driven selloff. Top themes such as Creek Pine Holdings and Jernigan Capital continue to perform well and have been positive contributors to performance.

Highland/iBoxx Senior Loan ETF – The investment objective of the Highland/iBoxx Senior Loan ETF is to provide investment results that, before fees and expenses, correspond generally to the price and yield performance of the Markit iBoxx USD Liquid Leveraged Loan Index. Before fees the Fund underperformed its index over the one- and three-year periods and has only slightly underperformed over the last 5 years. The Morningstar ETF Bank Loan category consists of both index and actively managed products resulting in different investment objectives and fee structures among constituents. These differences make the Morningstar ETF Bank Loan category an inappropriate performance benchmark. Over the first six years of the ETF, the fund experienced very little tracking error – actually achieving negative tracking error, however over the past two years tracking error has increased significantly as trading activity as a percentage of the fund's size has increased significantly. Performance and recent, increased tracking error has negatively impacted asset flows.

Highland Global Allocation Fund – The Global Allocation Fund benchmark is the FTSE All World which is a long only equity index while the Fund is unconstrained and takes positions in fixed income and other assets, including structured products. As a result, we believe the Fund's performance relative to its Morningstar category is more relevant.

Since the strategy inception in April 2013, the Fund has outperformed the world allocation category. The long term positive performance was led by many of the high conviction positions/themes, including Argentina, American Airlines, and Vistra energy. While the fund has outperformed its category YTD and since inception, the fund has underperformed over the last three, and five year periods. Underperformance in these periods is primarily driven by returns in 2019 as the fund was down -8.5% while world allocation peers returned 28.3%. Underperformance was driven by the hedge book, including market shorts and short positions in Netflix and Zillow which were up significantly during the year, and underperformance in the fund's largest themes including Terrestar, MLPs, Vistra, and Argentina. Vistra returned 2.5% in 2019 while Argentina and MLPs did not keep pace with the broader equity markets, and Terrestar was down on the year as its pricing incorporated the updated valuation model. Year to date through 6/30/2020 however the Fund has outperformed its Morningstar peers by 1.2%. Outperformance was driven by broad market hedges and a positive development in TerreStar. In April the FCC granted TerreStar a conditional waiver for the 1.4 Ghz band of spectrum.

We continue to maintain our exposure and are bullish on Vistra and Terrestar, while reducing our exposure to Argentina and MLPs. We believe there are two near term catalysts with Vistra: 1) we expect positive earnings to be announced in August, and 2) we are very encouraged by their execution on their plan to reduce debt. In regard to Terrestar, we believe in management's ability to meet the milestones laid out by the FCC, which we believe will create significant long term value for the Terrestar spectrum.

14. If a Fund has experienced a significant decline or increase in assets since the Trustees last approved the Advisory Agreements, please discuss the impact to the Fund of such a decline or increase, including the impact on performance and the reason(s) for the decline or increase. Identify any Fund as to which an Adviser believes the size, growth or decline of assets under management may negatively impact portfolio management in its current style. Does an Adviser believe that a Fund may need to be fully or partially, closed, merged or liquidated, and if so, why?

Response: Following the initial approval of the Advisory Agreements between HCMFA and each of the Small Cap Equity and Highland/iBoxx Senior Loan ETF, we have seen a significant decrease in assets. The Highland Small Cap Equity Fund is invested in liquid securities and as of June 30, 2020 has net assets of $17.9 million.

The Highland/iBoxx Senior Loan ETF has also seen a decrease in assets proportionate to the category, though the Fund maintains asset above $75 million and is able to continually track its index with no anticipated detriment to performance. Since the Funds are not adversely affected the Adviser does not believe any Fund should be fully or partially, closed, merged or liquidated.

As previously discussed with the Board, the Advisers continue to monitor smaller open-end funds with portfolios comprised of less liquid assets to determine whether such Fund is a candidate for a closed-end fund conversion or a merger with a closed-end interval fund.

15. Please comment on the strategies employed by each Fund as compared to those available under the Fund's investment objectives and policies. State whether there have been any material changes in a Fund's investment strategy or techniques or portfolio composition in the past year or whether any material changes are anticipated in the next year. If applicable, describe generally the circumstances that led to any change in a Fund's investment risk profile during the year. Identify any Funds that an Adviser believes have faced difficulties in implementing their investment strategies, policies or goals and the strategies that the Adviser is using or proposes to use to resolve such difficulties.

Response: The strategies employed by each Fund are compliant with each such Fund's investment objectives and policies stated in its prospectus. There have been no changes to the underlying Funds' investment objectives except for:

- Highland Merger Arbitrage and Highland Long/Short Equity Merger – On June 29, 2020, Highland Long/Short Equity successfully merged into Highland Merger Arbitrage. The merger was approved by shareholders in November 2019. There has been no change to the Highland Merger Arbitrage's investment strategy as a result of the merger.
- The proposed conversion of NHF into a diversified REIT, as discussed with the Board during the first half of 2020

There have been no other material changes in investment strategy or risk profile requiring shareholder approval and no changes in portfolio composition.

Fund Fact Sheets are available on Directors Desk at Home > Documents > Corporate Documents > Fund Fact Sheets.

16. Identify any Fund that has failed to comply with its investment objectives or investment restrictions during the past two years. Explain generally how the failure occurred and what steps were taken to correct the violation.

Response: To the extent a Fund deviated from its investment restriction it was reported to the Board via customary Board reporting deliverables, for example by a trade error form, reallocation form, or compliance memo, and if necessary, included as part of the annual compliance review. Also, if a Fund is outside of its prospectus limitations, the Fund is monitored until it is back in accordance with its registration statement.

17. Do the Advisers periodically review reports to monitor for style drift, portfolio pumping and window dressing?

Response: Historically, there have not been issues with style drift, portfolio pumping, and window dressing in the Funds. The Adviser separately review reports for each Fund to monitor for artificial inflation of a Fund's portfolio. they analyze prospectus limitations (for example, a Fund's 80% test) and whether such Fund has stayed within its mandated investment range. On a daily basis, the Advisers receive an email detailing each Fund's sector and industry concentration, liquidity, capital activity and performance to relative benchmarks. Additionally, the Advisers receive a daily trade blotter and review prior days trades for any abnormal trading activity.

18. Describe how each Adviser controls the risks (e.g., concentration on sectors, issuers, investment types, geography) taken by the investment personnel providing services to the Funds and in other accounts that it manages.

Response: The Adviser has an institutionalized framework for risk management. The goal of risk management is to balance risk taking to optimize return on invested capital for the level of risk.

Sector, issuer, investment type and geographic concentration are measured using a variety of metrics described here (see diagram 'Sample process for risk management (for a hypothetical fund)'). These metrics include Value at Risk, Marginal Contribution to Risk, exposure as percent of portfolio, scenario and stresses applied to position level exposures. These risks are highlighted on a regular basis via the risk reports and upon material deviation against key comparable concentration levels in benchmarks.

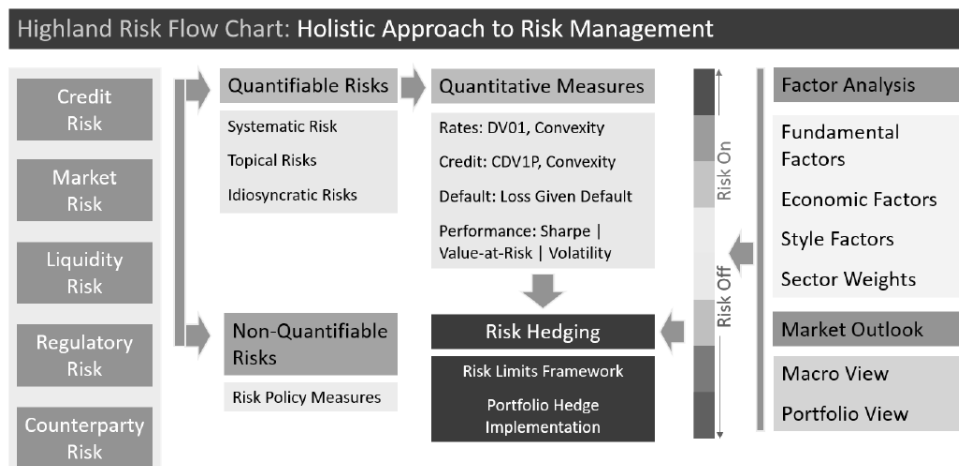

The risk strategy is executed under the supervision of a 'Risk Governance' framework for centralized determination of risk policies, limits and risk appetite:

- Risk appetite is defined by Portfolio Managers and is influenced by the Risk Group. The risk appetite drives investments and hedge allocations.

- A number of risk metrics are developed by the Risk Group, as applicable for various portfolios, and are monitored for dynamic positioning and investment allocation.
- The Risk Group regularly conducts stress tests and scenario analyses to assess portfolio exposure to various market factors and tail risks.
- The inferences drawn from evaluation of risk metrics, scenarios, stress tests and overall risk appetite, drive active risk mitigation strategy. The active risk mitigation strategy involves investment 're-positioning', 're-scaling' and hedging.

Risk Strategy Implementation Process

Development of Risk Appetite: The investment team and risk group may independently analyze markets from multiple dimensions:

- Fundamental factors: These refer to valuations, earning
- Economic factors: These refer to broad based economic indicators such as GDP growth, productivity, unemployment rate and inflation.
- Style factors
- Sector rotations
- Volatility

Based on these analyses, overall market outlook is informed and applied to the existing portfolio.

Risk Measurement: Appropriate classification and accurate measurement of risk is the key to favorable positioning. Some of the key risks measured and monitored (as they apply and are relevant to investments) are:

- Market Risk: the risk of decline in value of investments due to movements in broad market prices. Some of the metrics used to assess market risk are:
  - Broad market CDS Index levels
  - Broad market Index levels

- Volatility Index levels
  - Difference between implied volatility and realized volatility across various market indices
  - Value at Risk (VaR) at 95% and 99% confidence levels
  - Expected Shortfall (ES) at 95% confidence level
  - Interest rate DV01 (change in price due to 1 basis point change in interest rates)
- Exposure and leverage Risk: the risk arising due to gross leverage, net leverage and unanticipated concentrated exposure to a single issuer, sector, region or risk factor. Some of the metrics used to assess single investment exposure are:
    - Marginal contribution to Risk (MCR)
    - Exposure as a percent of the portfolio
    - Volatility contribution to the portfolio
    - Style factor contribution to the portfolio
    - Time series analysis of gross and net exposure of portfolio to identify patterns
    - Gross and net exposures of each sector in the portfolio are measured and benchmarked against corresponding sector exposures in key indices that may be applicable for each portfolio
    - Leverage, not only in the form of exposure, but also in the form of contribution to risk and volatility is quantified
    - The leverage as measured above is benchmarked to assess the ‘excess’ or ‘under’ exposure to key indices that may be applicable for each portfolio
  - Derivatives and hedging risk: Derivative instruments may be employed by investment professionals and risk group from time to time to implement an investment or hedge proposal. Derivative instruments by design offer convex non-linear payouts that increase in magnitude for each corresponding unit move in the underlying security. The convexity in derivatives and the nature of the instruments require separate level of monitoring for risk and operational controls.

The risks in derivatives are measured using some of the following metrics (Greeks):

- Delta
- Gamma
- Vega
- Theta
- Rho
- dGamma/dSpot
- dGamma/dVol
- dVega/dVol
- dVega/dSpot

- Expiration risk

The portfolio risks are appropriate and as needed, aggregated to measure beta and delta adjusted exposures. These exposures are then measured and monitored on a sector level, issuer level and portfolio level. Further, scenario analyses are created to capture the potential impact on the portfolio due to exposure to these derivative instruments under various market scenarios. These scenarios may be updated real-time and provided to portfolio managers, investment professionals and senior management on an as-needed basis to inform them.

Generally, derivative instruments are employed only on a 'net long' basis to hedge investment risks and therefore their risks may be limited to initial premium allocated to them. The exposures to derivative instruments are managed (as applicable) using:

- Automated daily trading summaries that show firm and fund portfolio level changes in derivative exposures
- Daily summaries of option expiries that inform of upcoming exercises and assignments in order to inform fund level cash allocations
- Real time derivative portfolio exposures using Greeks
- Real time aggregate scenario exposures (by including derivatives and investments)
- On days of large market volatility (+/- 2% move in S&P 500) real time derivatives exposure reports may be generated to assess intra-day exposure analysis of portfolios
- Position level reports are run independently by the Risk Group, Operations group and via an automated process set up with the help of Siepe. These are monitored and reconciled daily and act as independent and exclusive layers of checks.
- Automated execution level checks have been implemented to notify traders of position direction and size mismatches at the time of execution.
- In addition, daily trading reconciliation email processes have been set up with each counterparty which act as an additional layer of check for reconciliation of trades at the end of the day.
- As appropriate, there are separate and independent daily trading reports directed to Operations group, Risk group and investment professionals – creating multiple layers of checks. The final reconciliation of trade exercise is performed by Operations team. The final reconciliation of exposures and risk exercise is performed by the Risk group. These exercises are substantially automated at this point

- Under-diversification Risk: refers to the risk of material decline in value of a portfolio due to concentrated exposure to a single issuer, country, sector or industry. Highland includes ‘under-dispersion risk’ which refers to high internal correlation of portfolio constituents within this classification. One of the measures used to assess diversification are: Efficient frontier analysis (if applicable), Sharpe Ratio, Sortino Ratio, Cross-sector, cross-region, cross-industry and cross-security correlations and Security concentration as a percentage of overall portfolio.

- Counterparty Risk: refers to the risk of default of a counterparty of the Adviser (on bilateral agreements), result in losses to the Adviser or Funds. Some of the measures of counterparty risk are:
  - Traded CDS levels of counterparties
  - Stock price of publicly traded stock of counterparties
  - Implied volatility of options on the stock of counterparties
  - Terms of agreement that Highland maintains across its various legal documents vs. trading counterparties

For instance, the Adviser has actively avoided increasing trading exposure to certain counterparties and avoided execution of trading agreements with others when the counterparty risk (or going concern risk of a certain business line of a counterparty) was assessed to be high.

- Credit Risk: refers to the risk of default arising from a borrower’s inability to make principal or interest payments or both, when due. Credit risk in the portfolio is measured using a combination of metrics, as they apply to various portfolios. Some of the metrics used are:
  - Traded CDS Levels on underlying securities in a portfolio or CLO
  - Credit DV01 (change in price due to 1 basis point decline in credit spreads)
  - Credit DV1P (change in price due to 1% decline in credit spreads)
  - Probability of default implied by the ratings of a security
  - Altman Z score for prediction of bankruptcy
  - Loss Given Default, calculated by taking into consideration potential recovery value and default risk of an investment
  - Fundamental analysis of a security to assess deterioration of credit quality (performed by Credit Analysis or CLO specialists within the firm)
- Liquidity Risk: Market liquidity depends essentially on the presence of a sufficient number of counterparties and their willingness to trade in sufficient volume at any given time. The Adviser monitors the open-end Funds’ liquidity through the LRMP discussed in response B. 20. The Adviser has operated through periods of liquidity crisis, defined by market’s inability to absorb order flows without prompting irrational price movements unrelated to the fundamental valuation of securities.

While liquidity risk is certainly difficult to forecast, it is possible to make educated judgement about potential liquidity constraints under various market conditions. We attempt to subjectively and objectively identify the probabilities associated with potential liquidity risk catalysts.

In our experience, the greater the ‘systematic risk’ at any point in time, the greater the possibility of occurrence of a liquidity crisis in the market. Liquidity risk would be managed by monitoring and controlling following risk measures:

- Estimated market impact due to liquidation of a security in 1 day, 5 days, 10 days, 15 days and 30 days. The market impact may be assessed using a combination of bid-offer spread, market depth and slippage measures.
- Market resilience: the rate of reversion of prices to their equilibrium level following an external shock to transactional flow.
- Security concentration in a portfolio as % of outstanding notional of the tranche
- Security concentration in a portfolio as % of daily or weekly traded volume (as applicable)
- Liquidity gap arising due to movement in interest rates, currencies or maturity mismatch
- Liquidity adjusted Value at Risk, defined as the sum of Value at Risk and Exogenous Liquidity Cost (ELC) where ELC is the worst expected half spread at a particular confidence interval (assessed on an as needed basis)

In addition to these measures, we also apply a number of stress tests to estimate liquidity risk under various hypothetical market conditions.

- Regulatory Risk: refers to the risk of an existing or new regulation adversely impacting the value of securities held in the portfolio or, the business model of fund(s) managed by Highland. Measurement of regulatory risk is always subjective, but requires close monitoring of major upcoming regulatory changes and discussion with Compliance and Legal groups to stay prepared.

Each of the aforementioned risks are monitored regularly. The Risk Group develops risk guidelines around various relevant risk measures in active discussion with investment professionals and in alignment with the investment mandate of each portfolio. Risk Group proactively engages in discussion with PMs to discuss management of risk exposures and portfolio guidelines to meet the goal of achieve optimal risk-adjusted returns.

Stress Tests and Scenarios: The Advisers' risk group has developed and continues to enhance stress testing and scenario analyses frameworks for its various funds. There is never a 'one size fits all' model and we customize stress tests and scenario analytics with respect to the characteristics of each portfolio and construct these on an as-needed basis. Generally, the following stress testing frameworks may be applied to the portfolios:

- Historical market moves based simulations: these tests assess historical price movements across asset classes and apply relevant shocks to the portfolio to assess impact of such shocks to portfolio value.
- Assumptions based, futuristic Monte-Carlo simulations: these tests are based on assumptions of anticipated future price movements and apply pre-defined criteria to simulate portfolio performance under futuristic shocks.

The stress tests are applied to the following variables:

- Internal portfolio correlation
- Downside correlations positive and muted upside correlations
- Interest rate shocks
  - Short term rates up or down 50 bps
  - Short term rates up or down 100 bps
  - Long term rates up or down 50 bps
  - Long term rates up or down 100 bps
  - Steepening of the yield curve
  - Flattening of the yield curve
- Credit spread shocks
  - Short term spreads up or down 50 bps to 500 bps in increments of 50
  - Steepening of the credit curve (if applicable)
  - Flattening of the credit curve (if applicable)
- Price shocks
  - 5-day decline in security prices of 5% to 40% (in increments of 5%)
- Volatility shocks
  - 5-day increase in implied volatility across markets of 20% to 100% (in increments of 20%)
- Some of the scenarios analyzed may be the 1987 crash, LTCM crisis, IT Bubble burst, 2008 Credit crisis, Flash Crash, Greece exit stress, EU sovereign credit crisis, Brexit, Russian crisis, Argentina default, EM sovereign default, 2014 Oil price drop. We expect that the current pandemic-related stress will also be considered in the future.

Risk Systems: Risk Group employs a wide variety of tools to assess, monitor and manage risks of various portfolios. The group engages closely with various investment teams to access tools employed by them in addition. These systems can be classified into internal and external systems. Internal systems are in-house developed tools that have been customized for the specific needs of risk management of Highland's funds. Given the firm's specialized nature of investments and our standards, we find it best to develop our own tools to measure and monitor risks. In addition, we employ external tools as necessary, to provide us context and assess the competence of our internally developed tools.

Tools:

- Bloomberg based risk measurement and monitoring tools to create custom portfolio tools and MARS
- In-house developed risk reports using: MS Excel, Visual Basic, SQL, R and BERT
- Stress testing and simulation tools developed in-house, employing MS Excel, Visual Basic, SQL and Risk Analytics Platforms
- Statistical market data analytics developed in-house, utilizing R Programming language, Visual Basic and MS Excel

- Highland Healthcare Opportunities Fund

Please refer to Exhibit B for types of operational reports reviewed by the Adviser.

19. Describe the extent to which the Advisers intend to employ derivatives for the Funds. Describe the risks associated with such investments and any techniques that the Advisers intend to employ to monitor these risks on an investment or portfolio level. Specifically, describe the process for oversight of operational risks associated with derivatives (rather than investment risk), including the types of oversight, who performs the oversight and how often, and to whom they report. Also describe any controls and compliance policies that the Advisers have with respect to derivatives usage. Describe the process for managing leverage assumed by a Fund and the process for monitoring counterparty risk. Discuss any plans to change or enhance these processes.

Response: Please refer to the response to Question B.18, above. The Advisers do not have formal compliance policies related to derivatives use other than pursuant to asset segregation requirements under Section 18. To the extent the SEC puts forth new rules related to derivatives regulation, the Adviser will review and modify its policies as necessary.

20. Discuss each Fund's liquidity status and any actual or potential problems in meeting shareholder redemptions or other liquidity-related issues. Comment on any other significant portfolio management compliance issues that have arisen in the past year. Please comment specifically on the liquidity impact of recent market developments (including any difficulties in meeting redemption requests for any funds managed by the Advisers) and whether the Advisers believe any changes should be made to the liquidity risk management program to reflect those developments.

Response: The open-end Funds are currently positioned to meet any redemptions with a cash bucket, liquid securities and/or drawing upon credit facilities or prime brokerage borrowing accounts entered into by certain funds and/or a fund specific expedited loan settlement program entered into by certain funds with Bank of America and Barclays.

Open-end Funds will also limit their investments in illiquid securities to 15% of NAV. Determinations to conclude if a security is liquid are set forth in further detail in the Fund's Liquidity Risk Management Program ("LRMP") policy which the Board formally approved in May 2019.

HCMFA, as program administrator to the LRMP, will notify the Board within one business day if there are valid breaches on the 15% limit of illiquid investments or if a Fund falls below its established Highly Liquid Investment Minimum ("HLIM") for a period of more than seven consecutive calendar days. These notifications will be supplemental to the customary Fund reporting (LRMP, fund illiquid holdings, and capital activity) the Board receives in connection with each quarterly Board meeting.

Based upon the Adviser's Liquidity Risk Management Committee (the "Committee") review of the LRMP during the most recent period, the Committee has determined that the LRMP of the Funds is operating adequately and effectively in promoting effective liquidity risk management for the Funds.

21. Describe generally the Funds' liquidity risk management program, including the process for assessing the liquidity of individual Fund investments and of the Funds' ability to meet redemptions. Summarize the testing, monitoring and controls of the Advisers that assess each Fund's liquidity (e.g., liquidity stress testing) and the results of such testing. Please provide information as to the percentage of each Fund's net assets that is illiquid as of the most recent date practicable.

Response: See response as set forth in B.20. Also, as set forth in the Adviser's LRMP, open-end Funds are subject to asset classification into four liquidity categories of highly liquid, moderately liquid, less liquid and illiquid, subject to a determination if a fund is deemed primarily highly liquid, if an open-end fund is not deemed primarily highly liquid, determining its HLIM and monitoring any breaches to its HLIM threshold. The program administrator, HCMFA, has engaged MSCI to assist with the daily LRMP liquidity classification, HLIM threshold monitoring, and reporting. At the June 2020 Board meeting, HCMFA presented its annual review of the LRMP Program and noted that the LRMP of the Funds is operating adequately and effectively in promoting effective liquidity risk management for the Funds. The annual review also provided details on recent market volatility related to COVID-19.

22. Identify any Funds that have unusual patterns of shareholder sales or redemptions that may indicate shareholders pursuing an investment purpose other than long-term investment. Identify any Funds that do not restrict exchanges or redemptions.

Response: Short term trading within all open-end funds is monitored with the assistance of the transfer agent, DST. Any 3 changes in direction (ex. buy, sell, buy) is flagged if it occurs within a 90-day period and exceeds a threshold of $10,000. If this excessive trading is identified, the account may be restricted for 90 days from trading. Please also see a more detailed explanation as set for in D.10. HCMFA has noted atypical patterns of sales and/or redemptions in the ETF, however the Adviser learned that certain bank trading desks were using the ETF as a hedging vehicle for certain of their swap derivatives. The ETF separately imposes a variable fee on creation or redemption units in excess of 10 units by a single Authorized Participant on a given day, which has been used to address this issue. The Advisers have not observed unusual patterns in any of the other open-end Funds. This activity is not applicable for closed-end funds.

23. If an Adviser uses expert networks, please describe the policies and procedures with respect to such networks.

Response: The Advisers use one expert network, GuidePoint. If utilized, employees are subject to the Policy Regarding Use of Industry Experts or Similar Consultants (a copy has been provided for reference). The policy features include prohibiting employees from contacting experts who are working on clinical trial which has not been made public, if information is received which could potentially be considered material non-public information, notifying the CCO or his designee, and restrictions on utilization of experts who may have been employed by public or private company within the previous six months. Experts must acknowledge certain statements prior to speaking to employees of the Advisers and employees of the Advisers must complete a form following communication with the expert. Employees of the Advisers may arrange to consult with other expert networks in the future so long as they are an approved provider.

24. Describe how each Fund manages its cash, including any use of registered or unregistered money market funds as cash management vehicles.

Response: Daily cash reports are provided to the respective Fund's portfolio manager for review and monitoring. All Funds are currently enrolled in a daily money market sweep vehicle where the Fund's custodian sweeps excess cash into a registered money market fund.

25. Please comment on how the applicable Adviser has responded to the current market environment in managing each Fund.

Response: Please see the "Quarterly Fund Commentary" reports provided on the Directors Desk internet portal. In addition, the Advisers and the appropriate persons will be available to discuss at the August 2020 meeting.

26. To the extent that any Fund employs leverage, please comment on the Fund's use of leverage, including the impact of leverage on each closed-end Fund's total return. Does leverage remain beneficial to common shareholders? Compare the Funds' use of leverage with the extent of leverage of peer funds. Please describe the consideration given to alternative sources of leverage.

Response: 6/30 Quarter-End Leverage Balances:

Fund	Leverage $ Amount (in millions)	$ of Total Assets	Lender
HFRO	$486.4	35.2%	BAML, Preferred, Mizuho Repo
NHF	$153.0	16.0%	Mizuho Repo, KeyBank
NRES	$1.2	7.6%	Mizuho Repo
GAF	-	0.0%	None
BDC	-	0.0%	None

As noted above, the Funds utilize conventional borrowings on credit facilities through Bank of America, N.A. ("BAML") and KeyBank, N.A. ("KeyBank"), but also utilize other sources of leverage such as margin and derivatives (such as reverse repurchase agreements and total return swaps) to minimize costs and maximize flexibility and utility to the Funds. The Funds intend to use leverage opportunistically so that it remains beneficial to common shareholders.

In addition to traditional leverage, the closed-end Funds may use leverage in the form of preferred shares in an amount up to 50% of the Fund's total assets (including the amount borrowed). HFRO is currently the only closed-end Fund that has preferred shares outstanding, but the Advisers may look to establish shelf registration statements for NHF or GAF which would include preferred shares. The decision on whether to issue preferred shares will be dependent on the Fund's rating and available market pricing.

Peers of HFRO, GAF, NHF, NRESF and the BDC currently have leverage ratios on average of 31%, 26%, 26%, 5% and 39%, respectively.

Leverage ratios for Open-end Mutual Funds are not readily available since leverage is less common in open-end mutual funds and is not a commonly reported field in publicly available databases such as Morningstar direct. Since Jim Dondero took over management of NHF, NHF has outperformed its peers and therefore the Adviser believes leverage has been beneficial to enhancing returns. HFRO and GAF are relatively new closed-end funds and are now being compared to peers that have used leverage for much longer periods.

C. Brokerage and Trading Issues

We understand that with respect to certain Funds, the Adviser hires the Subadviser to directly manage the Funds' portfolios and, therefore, certain items below may not be applicable to the Adviser. In this regard, please discuss any policies utilized with respect to monitoring the Subadviser.

1. Describe each Adviser's procedures in selecting brokers to execute portfolio transactions on behalf of a Fund, including any soft-dollar or directed brokerage arrangements. Describe what each Adviser does to assure "best execution" with respect to such transactions and to evaluate and monitor execution quality. Describe each Adviser's procedures for allocating between brokers and allocating brokerage between the Funds and other accounts managed by the Advisers. Describe each Adviser's policy with regard to paying for Fund services with brokerage fees. Explain whether the commission rates on Fund transactions are consistent across all of each Adviser's managed accounts. If the answer is "no," please explain. Describe any change to an Adviser's brokerage-related policies and procedures that made during the past year.

Response: The Advisers have an obligation to obtain "best execution" for client transactions considering the execution price, overall commission costs paid, and certain other factors. Our trading desk routes orders to various broker-dealers for execution at their discretion. Where possible, we deal directly with the dealers who make a market in the securities involved, except in those circumstances where it believes better prices and execution are available elsewhere. Soft dollars are used to obtain eligible research within the safe harbor of Section 28(e) of the Exchange Act. All soft dollar usage is within the 28(e) Safe Harbor provision.

Through quarterly meetings of a Brokerage Committee, the Adviser's review compensation paid to broker-dealers. The meetings include an in-depth review of "best execution reports" which are third party reports that show how Adviser's execution compared to its peers. The reports also include information regarding the most used broker-dealers, lowest and highest cost broker-dealers, and additional other information that may be useful in ensuring broker-dealer selection and compensation during the review period was reasonable.

A majority of trades are pre-allocated to specific funds and client accounts by the respective portfolio manager. The amount of the allocation is governed by a number of factors, including industry/sector concentrations, credit quality limits and asset class weightings. For those trades that are not pre-allocated, the Allocations Group will then allocate the trade to the funds it is suitable for and in accordance with a "fairness over time" standard.

With respect to the Sub-Adviser, HCMFA receives quarterly a certification from the Sub-Adviser's CCO and which is also provided to the Board. The Sub-Adviser CCO certifies that brokerage transactions executed in the quarter are done in compliance with best execution and if soft dollars are utilized, certifies that soft dollar utilization was within the safe harbor of Section 28(e). If there are deviations to either of these, the Sub-Adviser CCO will provide further details and HCMFA will discuss further with the Sub-Adviser CCO.

Broker list selection is based on a number of factors, including: execution capabilities, research product, sector focus, analyst access, and firm relationships. Potential additions to the broker list must go through an internal approval process and are confirmed by the brokerage committee on a quarterly basis. We have 3 "low-touch" brokers with which we generate soft dollars: BAML, JPM, and ITG (ITG is our CSA aggregator). Commission rates are consistent across all Funds as orders are directed from the Adviser level to the execution brokers so the aggregated order on behalf of the Funds benefit from the same commission rate.

The following list presents the Funds' top 20 brokers:

Broker	Total Commissions
Societe Generale	$672,256

2. Identify any Fund that has “paid” for services for the Funds (such as custodial, transfer agency or fund accounting) with brokerage dollars during the last two calendar years. Identify the broker-dealers used, the commission rates paid, the services provided and the rate of payment for such services.

Response: None

3. Identify any correlations between allocation of Fund brokerage and sales of Fund shares. Set forth in tabular format the top 20 brokers for each Fund for its last fiscal year, the amount of brokerage commissions paid to each broker, the amount of benefits other than execution services received from each broker, and the sales of Fund shares of each broker during the period.

Response: The sale of Fund shares is not considered when allocating Fund brokerage. Please refer to the top 20 Brokers table provided in response to C.1 for the requested information that is available. From 2015 to 2017, the Advisers utilized a process to manage and track the consumption of services from brokers, including research, analyst and corporate access, conferences, etc. During that time, the Advisers compiled and communicated its broker scorecard to its top ten brokers. Since 2018, front office headcount and assets under management have decreased to present levels, so the decision was made to reduce the Funds’ consumption from the street. For example, the healthcare team decreased from a 15-member multi-asset team to two members. The front office headcount was reduced by approximately 30 people. Joe Sowin, Co-CIO and Head Equity Trader will be available at the September in-person meeting to discuss any questions on this topic.

4. Indicate whether there is a target (or suggested minimum) level of transactions to be placed with any particular broker, and if so, the factors used in establishing such a level.

Response: No target level of transactions exists.

5. Describe the manner in which, and the extent to which, the Advisers use electronic communications networks (“ECNs”), dark pools or other alternative trading systems to execute portfolio transactions.

Response: ECN and other alternate venues comprise less than 1% of the Advisers’ trading activity, but are used in certain circumstances to source liquidity.

6. For any Funds for which an Adviser receives research or services other than execution services provided by broker-dealers that effect transactions on behalf of the Funds, describe such research or other services, set forth the amount of brokerage allocated and commissions paid for such services during the one-year period ended as of a recent date, and set forth the cost that an Adviser or the Funds would otherwise have paid to obtain each service separately, and whether such services or products comply with the requirements for safe harbor under Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and applicable SEC guidelines.

Response: The Advisor receives research and brokerage services as defined in Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. Such services include analyses and reports regarding issuers, industries, economic trends, portfolio strategy including advice concerning the advisability of investing in, purchasing or selling securities and the availability of particular securities or buyers or sellers of securities. The Advisor obtains research and brokerage services in accordance with the safe harbor of Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and applicable SEC guidelines.

If the Funds were unable utilize the soft dollar credits to obtain the research, the Advisers would bear the cost of the research. If the Advisers are unable to obtain the research, it could put the Advisers at a disadvantage in performing their decision-making responsibilities. The research obtained complies with Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 as it provides lawful and appropriate assistance to the Advisers in the performance of their investment decision-making responsibilities.

When executing trades for soft dollar credit, the Advisor pays a gross commission rate of .0238 cent per share. Of this gross amount, .02 cents are retained by the Advisers as soft dollar credit to purchase research and .0038 cents is retained by the broker for execution services. The total equity commissions were $3,562,730 of which $994,442 were for soft dollars and $2,568,308 were for execution only. Please see below for a breakdown by Fund:

Fund	Gross Commissions	CSA Commissions
Highland Energy MLP Fund	12,648	-
Highland Global Allocation Fund	288,701	78,998
Highland Income Fund	53,860	4,240

7. Describe any “mixed use” arrangements involving soft dollars, and the basis of any allocation of costs.

Response: The Funds have not had any mixed-use research or brokerage services in the past year.

8. Describe each Adviser’s policies concerning soft dollar arrangements and confirm that they are consistent with Fund policies and SEC guidelines. Please describe any material changes in the trading process since the last renewal of the Agreements, including as a consequence of compliance with the European Union’s revised Markets in Financial Instruments Directive (MiFID II). Disclose the percentage of Fund trades that generate soft dollars and compare the percentage of trades for the Funds that generate soft dollars to the percentage of trades for other clients of an Adviser that generate soft dollars.

Response: The Advisers may only use soft dollars to pay for eligible “research” or “brokerage” services under the safe harbor of Section 28(e), which is consistent with Fund policies and procedures. For the year ending June 30, 2019, 39% of trades or 26% of shares were executed with soft dollar generating brokers. Soft dollar fees are generated for the Funds and are not generated for other clients under the Adviser.

The Advisers have an obligation to obtain “best execution” for Fund transactions under the circumstances of the particular investment transaction. When more than one broker-dealer is able to satisfy the Advisers’ obligation to obtain best execution, the Advisers may place a trade order on behalf of the Funds with a broker-dealer that charges more than the lowest available commission cost or price in exchange for certain brokerage and research services provided either directly from the broker-dealer or through a third party (soft dollar arrangements), provided that each of the following is met:

(i) the Advisers determine (a) the research or brokerage product or service constitutes an eligible brokerage or research service; (b) the product or service provides lawful and appropriate assistance in the performance of the Advisers’ investment decision making responsibilities; and (c) in good faith that the amount of Fund commissions paid is reasonable in light of the value of the products or services provided;

(ii) the brokerage or research is “provided by” a broker-dealer who participates in effecting the trade that generates the commission. The Advisers may not incur a direct obligation for research with a third-party vendor and then arrange to have a broker-dealer pay for that research in exchange for brokerage commissions, although research and brokerage services may be received from a third party other than the broker-dealer with whom commissions are generated provided that the broker-dealer has directly made arrangements with the third party to pay for the services provided to the Advisers;

(iii) the Advisers may only generate soft dollars with commissions in agency transactions;

(iv) the Advisers may not use dealer markups in principal transactions to generate soft dollars. In addition, a trade for a fixed income security or OTC security shall be done on an agency basis only if the trader determines that it would not result in a broker-dealer unnecessarily being inserted between the Advisers and the market for that security;

(v) No soft dollars are generated on accounts for which (i) investment discretion resides with the client (i.e. non-discretionary accounts), (ii) client mandates restrict or prohibit the generation of soft dollar commissions, or (iii) the client has a directed brokerage arrangement; and

(vi) The brokerage trade placed is for “securities” transactions (and not, for example, futures transactions).

There have been no material changes in the trading process since renewal of last agreements, including as a consequence of compliance with the European Union’s revised Markets in Financial Instruments Directive (MiFID II).

9. Describe any affiliated brokerage arrangements including the amount of brokerage commissions paid by each Fund to an affiliated broker. Provide a description of each Adviser’s controls for the purposes of meeting the requirements of Rule 17e-1 under the 1940 Act.

Response: The Funds have not executed any trades with any affiliated broker and do not intend to do so in the future, therefore no additional controls have been implemented.

10. Please state whether there is a commission recapture arrangement in place relating to the Funds’ brokerage. Provide an estimate of the amount recaptured for the Funds for the past year.

Response: The Funds have not engaged any commission recapture arrangements.

11. Describe any significant trends in an Adviser's trading strategy or trading costs incurred in implementing its investment strategy.

Response: There has been an increase in derivative related hedging. See response below B. 18 for further discussion.

D. Fees, Expenses, Profitability and Other Benefits

1. For each Fund, please describe the applicable Adviser's management philosophy for setting fees for the Trustees' approval, its profitability goals, and the rationale for setting the Fund's advisory fee level.

Response: The Adviser intends to keep each Fund competitive relative to its peer set in regards to setting fees. The Adviser will look at each Fund's peers to determine a competitive management fee while also taking into account factors such as asset type and industry trends. With a focus on capital raising the Advisers intend to have reach profitability once a Fund achieves scale. Further analysis of each Fund's management fees can be seen in the "FUSE" report.

2. (a) Provide information regarding the current advisory fee payable by each Fund to its Adviser and any proposals for changes in the terms or amount of compensation to be paid under such Advisory Agreement. Please indicate where relevant when fee waivers are expected to be reduced or eliminated pursuant to the Advisory Agreement or otherwise.

Response: Please see the "FUSE" report and the "BDC Industry Review" report provided with the 15(c) materials, which itemizes and describes the fees and other payments received by the Adviser. These fees and other payments are comprised of advisory fees, administration fees, and incentive/carried interest fees. At this time, the Advisers do not anticipate any changes to the fee waivers.

- (b) Disclose the aggregate dollar amount of fees paid to each Adviser for each of the past two years ended June 30, 2020 and 2019, including any applicable fee waivers or reimbursements.

Response: The accompanying report for each Fund entitled "Advisory Fee Analysis" discloses the actual fees paid to each Adviser for each of the past two years ended June 30, 2020 and 2019, including any applicable fee waivers or reimbursements.

- (c) Compare the advisory fees paid to the Adviser with the advisory fees paid to the investment advisers of other peer funds having similar investment objectives. Please explain the rationale for the selection of the peer group if different from that used in response to item B.9 above. Compare the advisory fees paid to an Adviser by a Fund with the advisory (or subadvisory) fees paid to such Adviser by other types of clients (including, without limitation, both public and private institutional separate accounts, registered and unregistered investment companies, offshore investment vehicles and hedge funds) having similar investment objectives. State whether an Adviser charges lower fees to any other client for which it provides similar investment advice. Discuss the reasons for the difference, if any, in the fees charged to these clients as compared to those charged to a Fund, including any differences in the types of services provided. Please also include in this discussion any actively managed ETFs advised or sub-advised by the Adviser.

Response: Please see the “FUSE” report and the “BDC Industry Review” report provided with the 15(c) materials, which compares the advisory fees paid to the Adviser with the advisory fees paid to the investment advisers of other peer funds having similar investment objectives. Also, there are no actively managed ETFs advised or sub-advised by the Advisers, nor are there any private or separately managed accounts that are advised by the Advisers.

3. For all items or resources shared among Funds or allocated between the Funds and non-Fund investment activities, explain what items are treated as Fund expenses, including any allocations of overhead, legal or accounting expenses, or secretarial or clerical expenses, or other resources.

Response: The treatment of these expenses is governed by the Advisory Agreements in place with each of the Funds. Unless the services are directly attributable to a specific Fund, the expenses are invoiced pro rata based on Fund assets under management. If a non-recurring expense arises and there is a question whether that item is properly allocable to a Fund, the Adviser’s accounting, legal and compliance professionals review the relevant advisory agreement in relation to the expense and make an allocation determination.

4. Compare each Fund’s expenses with expenses of other peer funds having similar investment objectives.

Response: Please see the “FUSE” report and the “BDC Industry Review” report provided with the 15(c) materials which compares each Fund’s expenses with expenses of other peer funds having similar investment objectives.

5. Provide information in reasonable detail regarding the profitability for the year ended June 30, 2020, to each Adviser from relationship with a Fund, including identification of the estimated direct and indirect costs to the Adviser of providing services to such Fund. Please provide such profitability information both before and after distribution-related expenses. Please also provide this information on a Fund-by-Fund, as well as an aggregate basis for the Advisers and their affiliates. Describe the cost structure of each Adviser’s operations and the methodology used for allocating expenses, including any changes from the prior year. Please compare profitability over two years and explain any material increase or decrease. Provide all reasonably available information that might assist the Trustees in determining the profitability of an Adviser from its relationship with a Fund. Provide a comparison of each Adviser's profitability from its relationship with a Fund to the Adviser's profitability from managing other accounts for which it provides similar services. Please also provide a profitability comparison with other fund managers, to the extent that such information is publicly available.

Response: The accompanying report entitled "Profitability Analysis" presents the profitability to the Adviser of each Advisory Agreement. The Adviser will not have insight into other fund managers' profitability. The best comparison to other fund managers is through fee rates and expense loads on the funds, which is detailed in the FUSE Report. The Profitability Analysis will be posted to to the Board Book prior to the August Meeting.

6. Please explain the reasons for any significant changes in an Adviser's expenses in the past year and whether each Adviser expects to experience increased expenses in servicing the Funds in the coming year.

Response: The nature of HCMFA and NexPoint expenses were generally the same as of June 30, 2020, compared to expenses as of June 30, 2019. In the aggregate, total expenses of NexPoint have increased with additional headcount and activity, whereas expenses of HCMFA have declined with decreased headcount related to front office personnel and decrease in assets under management.

Additionally, HCMFA had material extraordinary expenses during the year ended June 30, 2019 related to Highland Global Allocation Fund which were not incurred during the year ended June 30, 2020.

7. Discuss whether each Adviser anticipates that the assets of the Fund(s) it manages will grow in size. Also discuss whether each Adviser believes it has in the past or is likely in the future to experience economies of scale in connection with the operation of such Fund(s). In this connection, discuss whether the Adviser believes that the imposition or modification of breakpoints in any of its fee schedules is appropriate.

Response: The Advisers anticipate that the assets of the Funds will grow in size over time. However, actively managed funds and liquid alternatives have been facing significant outflows over the last 5 years and we expect this trend to continue over the next few years. As such, it is difficult to generalize as to when economies of scale develop and are realizable. However, we do believe we have compelling strategies that will gain additional benefits of scale over time. While breakpoints are one means of sharing economies of scale, each Adviser believes that its reinvestment in its business and its ability to establish expense caps for certain Funds are additional ways in which the Adviser seeks to keep costs down and share with the Funds and their shareholders benefits that arise from economies of scale. We believe NRESF will provide institutional quality investments for retail investors, and believe such investment will help NRESF to (i) reach economies of scale necessary for expense ratios to normalize and (ii) be added to large brokerage and banking platforms.

Other than the Highland Income Fund (formerly, Highland Floating Rate Opportunities Fund), the Funds do not have breakpoints in their advisory fee. Nevertheless, some of the Funds benefit from a waiver of a portion of their advisory and administration fees, which each Adviser believes can be more effective than breakpoints at controlling overall costs borne by shareholders. In light of the Funds' assets and current fee structure, including the ongoing fee waivers, the Advisers do not recommend any new breakpoints for the Funds at this time.

8. Identify the type and amount of any insurance coverage (including deductible) carried by the Advisers that may benefit the Funds, even if the Funds are not a covered party. Discuss any recent or proposed changes to such insurance coverage.

Response: In addition to the coverage that the Advisers share jointly with the Funds, the Advisers have additional insurance coverage as shown below:

Bond: $3,000,000 Limit / $50,000 Deductible

D&O: $10,000,000 Limit, $3,500,000 Retention

9. Describe all indirect "fall-out" benefits that an Adviser or its affiliates may derive from its relationship with a Fund (e.g., enhanced reputation, ability to cross-sell, etc.). In this regard, identify the brokers and dealers that provide research or other services to the Adviser, the types of services provided, the amount of brokerage allocated for those services, and whether such services are useful to the Adviser or reduce the cost to it of providing advice to such Fund. Identify the ten broker-dealers that receive the greatest amounts of commissions for Fund transactions. Indicate whether each Adviser has, with respect to any Fund, received other compensation not described above, including any payment for order flow, from any broker-dealer executing transactions. If so, describe the arrangements and quantify the benefit obtained.

Response: The Advisers execute their respective investment strategies alongside their affiliates using a single platform. As a result of this arrangement, the Funds may have access to more sophisticated service providers, including more experienced portfolio management personnel, and may enjoy more efficient trading relationships than each fund would otherwise have had as a standalone fund. The Advisers make use of soft dollars generated by commissions paid by the Funds to access research or brokerage services allowable under the safe harbor of Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. Each quarter the Board receives a report from the CCO detailing the soft dollar transactions. Additionally, the Advisers may benefit from so-called “fall-out benefits” such as reputational value derived from serving as adviser to the Funds. Affiliates of the Advisers (e.g., NexBank and NexBank Securities, Inc.) may receive fees from the Funds or portfolio companies of the Funds for services provided. Information regarding these services and fees are presented to the Board for approval prior to engagement and a report is presented to the Board on a quarterly basis.

The ten broker-dealers that receive the greatest amounts of commissions for Fund transactions are as follows:

Last, as noted in the Funds’ offering documents, there may be investments in affiliated investment vehicles, such as CLOs, REITs and closed-end funds. Although this results in more assets under management for the respective Adviser, fees are generally waived so that a Fund does not pay duplicative fees. A Fund may only invest in an affiliated CLO on a secondary basis and to the extent the Advisers are not in possession of material, non-public information.

10. If a Fund has a redemption fee, state why the fee continues to be necessary for the Fund. If present, discuss whether the redemption fee is adequately protecting the Fund from the costs that come with short-term trading. If there is no redemption fee, discuss whether such a fee should be implemented in the future.

Response: We do not have redemption fees for our Funds. However, we have undertaken measures to monitor and address short term trading activity. The Funds’ transfer agent monitors transactions for short-term trading. On a periodic basis, the Adviser will receive transaction history reports from the Funds’ transfer agent, identifying any round-trip transactions (i.e., purchases followed by redemptions or redemptions followed by purchases) that occur three times within a period of 90 days in the same account(s) in the Funds or in multiple accounts that are known to be under common control for amounts in excess of $10,000. The Adviser shall review the trading history for any such account to determine if there is evidence that the account could be engaging in market timing activities. In addition, the Adviser will compare the entity involved against a list of entities known to have previously engaged in such activities.

If the Adviser determines that an account shows a pattern of excessive trading and/or excessive exchanging among the Funds, then the account shall be flagged as belonging to a potential market timer (a “PMT”) and shall undergo further review, which may include (a) contacting the PMT or relevant Financial Intermediary to determine the legitimacy of the trading activity in the account and (b) seeking to determine if the PMT or Financial Intermediary controls other accounts of the Funds and whether the PMT or Financial Intermediary may be using such other accounts to engage in excessive trading. The Adviser may use the systems or services of a third party to assist in the review of Fund accounts and/or further review of PMT or a Financial Intermediary’s accounts.

If after further review, it is determined that a PMT has engaged in market timing, the Adviser may take one or more of the following actions with respect to some or all accounts controlled by the PMT or introduced by the Financial Intermediary:

1. Issue a warning to the PMT (or relevant Financial Intermediary) and thereafter monitor subsequent trading activity of accounts controlled by the PMT (or relevant Financial Intermediary) to determine compliance with the Funds’ policies;
2. Reject, delay, limit for a time period of 90 days, or impose other conditions on additional purchase or exchange orders in the PMT account and some or all related accounts (or accounts controlled by the PMT’s Financial Intermediary, if applicable);
3. Take action to restrict further purchases or close the PMT’s accounts; and/or
4. Take measures to address the frequent trading activity with the Financial Intermediary or intermediaries through which the PMT’s frequent trading is affected, which may include termination of any selling agreement with such Financial Intermediary.

In addition, certain investments in Class A and Class C Shares are subject to a CDSC. Shareholders will pay the CDSC only on shares they redeem within the prescribed period after purchase. The CDSC is applied to the NAV at the time of purchase or redemption, whichever is lower. For purposes of calculating the CDSC, the start of the holding period is the date on which the purchase is made.

Shares purchased with reinvested dividends or capital gains are not subject to a CDSC. Generally, for Class A Shares of series of Highland Funds I bought without an initial sales charge in accounts aggregating $500,000 or more at the time of purchase are subject to a 1.00% CDSC if the shares are sold within 18 months of purchase. For Class A Shares of series of Highland Funds II bought without an initial sales charge in accounts aggregating $1 million or more at the time of purchase are subject to a 0.50% CDSC if the shares are sold within one year of purchase. Highland Funds I and II Class C shares are subject to 1% CDSC for redemption within one-year purchase.

We believe the procedures outlined above are sufficient to mitigate the risks of costs associated with short term trading and at this time do not believe a redemption fee is necessary.

11. Please provide an update regarding any litigation involving portfolio companies and/or class action lawsuits that may result in recoveries to the Funds.

Response: Highland Income Fund is the 82% beneficiary and NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund is the 18% beneficiary of a $287.5 million judgment against Credit Suisse, AG Cayman Islands' Branch and Credit Suisse Securities (USA), LLC issued on September 4, 2015 by the courts of Dallas, Texas. Credit Suisse appealed the decision and the Funds filed a cross appeal for an additional $77.5 million against Credit Suisse. On April 24, 2020 the Texas Supreme Court released an opinion on the case noting that it did not uphold the $288 million verdict in favor of the Funds, although it upheld the fraud verdict and remanded back to the trial court for a determination of damages.

The case currently is subject to a motion to reconsider at the Texas Supreme Court, and then will be remanded to the trial court for further rulings on damages. Additionally, the Funds are the beneficiaries of a claim filed against Credit Suisse in the matter of Allenby, LLC and Haygood, LLC v. Credit Suisse Securities (USA), LLC et al. pending in the Courts of New York, New York.

Highland Income Fund holds 299,032 shares of stock in MPM Holdings, Inc. ("Momentive"). Momentive's equity sponsors sold the company for what the Fund believes to be too low a price. On July 3, 2019, the Fund filed an appraisal rights action in Delaware Chancery Court to determine the appropriate value that the Fund should have received for its shares in the sales process. The matter is on-going.

E. Compliance and Regulatory Matters

1. Please provide a brief description of each Adviser's chief compliance officer's experience and credentials.

Response: Mr. Post is Chief Compliance Officer, to the Advisers and the Funds since September 2015. Prior to his current role, Mr. Post was a Deputy Chief Compliance Officer, Director of Compliance, Director of Operations where he oversaw the Settlement and Treasury groups for Highland's Institutional funds, and a Senior Portfolio Operations Analyst where he handled the review and documentation of financing facilities. Before joining Highland in July 2008, Mr. Post was a Treasury Manager and Trader at K Capital Management, LLC from 2005 to 2008, where he was responsible for negotiation and maintenance of financing facilities and was responsible for execution of all equity trades. From 2001 to 2005, he was a Treasury Analyst and Treasury Manager at HBK Investments assisting and overseeing multiple aspects of the firms financing initiatives. Mr. Post received a BBA in Finance and International Business from Baylor University.

2. Describe any material (actual or currently contemplated) changes or enhancements to the compliance policies and procedures under (a) Rule 38a-1 under the 1940 Act and (b) Rule 206(4)-7 under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended. Indicate particular persons within your organization responsible for Fund compliance. Please also describe: (a) the Advisers' oversight of Fund investment objectives, policies and restrictions, compliance with applicable federal securities laws, state laws, anti-money laundering laws, the Internal Revenue Code and Subchapter M requirements; (b) the adequacy and effectiveness of the compliance policies and procedures for the Funds; and (c) the adequacy of compliance resources.

Response: All changes or enhancements to the policies and procedures have been communicated to the Board at the regularly scheduled Board meetings and were also summarized in the presentation of the annual compliance review provided in June 2020. Fund Compliance is overseen by multiple groups within the organization including portfolio management, operations and compliance. In addition, the Advisers also utilize the Funds' administrators to perform compliance testing of both statutory and prospectus limitations. The supporting groups are described in greater detail below. The CCO has previously communicated to the Board that the compliance program is reasonably designed to prevent violations of the federal securities laws (as defined for purposes of Rule 38a-1 under the 1940 Act).

The Advisers believe its policies and procedures are adequate and effective for the Funds. If any inefficiencies or enhancements are identified for its policies and procedures, they will be promptly reviewed and updated. Separately, if there are any changes as a result of recently passed/updated regulations or deficiencies identified in regulatory examinations these will be evaluated and incorporated into the program's policies and procedures accordingly. At this time, the Advisers feel they have adequate external and internal compliance resources and, in the future, if additional resources need to be sourced, the management team of the Advisers would permit such resources.

Compliance

The Advisers have a dedicated CCO who focuses on compliance issues related to the 1940 Act funds. Additionally, he is supported by HCMLP's seven-member legal and compliance department. The group is responsible for all legal and compliance matters, including the development of compliance policies and procedures, monitoring adherence to those procedures and fostering a culture of compliance throughout the firm.

The legal and compliance group's responsibilities include the updating of Form ADV, performing risk assessments, coordinating state and federal regulatory reporting and interfacing with each respective party in regards to investigative inquiries and maintaining the Advisers' and Funds' compliance manuals. The Advisers' compliance manual addresses the handling of complaints, monitoring and mitigating conflicts of interests and reviewing of marketing materials. The group is involved in reviewing trading activities, including compliance with the firm's soft dollar, brokerage, trade errors and trade allocation policies. Members of the group are consulted on the design and implementation of procedural controls related to trade entry and authorization.

The group conducts new hire training and teach-ins to provide refreshers of the firm's procedures and topical updates. In an effort to continue to develop their professional expertise members of the legal and compliance department attend seminars, receive compliance-related subscriptions and utilize the service of external compliance consultants, but noting the compliance function is not outsourced.

Fund Operations

The retail operations group is responsible for bridging communications from the responsible investment teams to the investors and to the Funds' various service providers. The retail operations group's duties include monitoring of sub-advisory relationships. This includes acting as the primary point of contact for communications with sub-advisers of the Funds. In addition to any day-to-day contact, the operations group coordinates the review or preparation of monthly and quarterly sub-adviser compliance reporting documents.

Marketing support is part of the retail operation group's responsibilities. This requires interfacing directly with retail sales and the regional wholesalers to ensure they are provided with accurate and effective marketing materials. This includes working with portfolio managers (both internal and at the sub-advisers) and compliance personnel on preparing marketing materials including monthly write-ups, quarterly webcasts and up-to-date presentations (based on market conditions).

Additionally, this group is responsible for ensuring portfolio managers have meaningful, accurate and timely portfolio level data available to make appropriate investment decisions on behalf of the Funds. In this capacity the group is also responsible for the management of data integrity for both internal and external portfolio data sources including the Funds' financial statements and other regulatory filings. This includes the management of external audits.

As part of the operations role this group provides day-to-day operational support of trade settlement, performance of reconciliation processes, management of prime brokerage relationships, sourcing and maintaining credit facilities, measuring and explaining fund performance and positioning, providing portfolio monitoring for compliance limitations and portfolio positioning goals. This monitoring combined with the reporting from service providers allows the Advisers to oversee each Fund's compliance with its investment objectives, the 1940 Act and prospectus investment restrictions, policies and requirements.

3. Describe any measures taken or anticipated to be taken to prepare for the effective date of any new SEC rules that could impact the Funds that have been promulgated since the last renewal of the Agreements.

Response: The Adviser is currently implementing updates with the Fund Admin, SEI, to address the new SEC Rule 6c-11 and NSCC PCF Enhancements for ETFs. The objective of Rule 6c-11 is to increase consistent, transparency and enhance the regulatory framework for most ETFs to facilitate greater competition and innovation among ETFs. The majority of the enhancements will result in additional data being presented on the Advisers website. Eligible ETFs must be compliant with the requirements under the Rule as of December 22, 2020.

Please also refer to E.21.

4. Identify and describe the process used to monitor code of ethics compliance and maintain records. Describe any changes to an Adviser's codes of ethics in the past year. If there have been any changes, provide a copy of the current codes of ethics. State whether there have been any material violations of such codes of ethics in the past year and, if so, describe the violations and any remedial actions taken. Certify that each Adviser has adopted procedures reasonably necessary to prevent Access Persons (as defined in Rule 17j-1 under the 1940 Act) from violating the Funds' and Advisers' codes of ethics.

Response: There have been no updates to the Fund's Code of Ethics previously approved by the Board aside from those which were administrative in nature (such as Fund name changes). There have been no material violations to the Code of Ethics. The Rule 17j-1 Adviser, Fund, and Sub-Adviser certifications were provided to the Board in June 2020.

Pursuant to Rule 17j-1 under the 1940 Act, the Advisers and the Funds have adopted a code of ethics pursuant to which reports are required to be made by Access Persons and records are maintained in the manner and to the extent set out below. The Adviser distributes the Code of Ethics, and any amendments, to each employee, and each employee is required to sign either electronically or in writing an acknowledgement (upon hire and quarterly thereafter), indicating that they have received a copy of the Code of Ethics and will comply with its provisions. Maintenance and retention of Code of Ethics records is outlined in further detail below

- A copy of each code of ethics for the organization that is in effect, or at any time within the past five years was in effect, must be maintained in an easily accessible place;
  - A record of any violation of the code of ethics, and of any action taken as a result of the violation, must be maintained in an easily accessible place for at least five years after the end of the fiscal year in which the violation occurs;
  - A copy of each report made by an Access Person as required by this section, including any information provided in lieu of the reports under 17j-1(d)(2)(v), must be maintained for at least five years after the end of the fiscal year in which the report is made or the information is provided, the first two years in an easily accessible place;
  - A record of all persons, currently or within the past five years, who are or were required to make reports under 17j-1(d), or who are or were responsible for reviewing these reports, must be maintained in an easily accessible place; and
  - A copy of each report required by 17j-1(c)(2)(ii) must be maintained for at least five years after the end of the fiscal year in which it is made, the first two years in an easily accessible place.
5. Describe all material developments relating to regulatory and compliance matters that have arisen in the past year. This would include: (a) reports, inquiries, or examinations undertaken by the SEC, FINRA, or other regulators of the operations and/or books and records of each Adviser, together with any responses thereto; (b) a description of any pending or reasonably likely anticipated litigation, subpoena, formal or informal investigation or administrative proceeding that may have a significant effect on the ability of an Adviser to provide services to a Fund; (c) a summary of any internal or third-party audit or review of the operations of an Adviser, including a description of any recommendations resulting from, or deficiencies noted by, such review, together with all actions taken in response; and (d) “material compliance matters” (as defined in Rule 38a-1 under the 1940 Act) that have not previously been disclosed to the Trustees. Identify any deficiencies with respect to which remedial action has not yet been fully implemented.

Response:

(a) An update on the examinations with SEC were set forth in the annual compliance review provided to Board during the June 2020 Board meeting. There were no examinations conducted by FINRA or other regulators during the period which have not been reported to the Board. Additionally, the Funds’ CCO provides updates to the board regarding SEC, FINRA or other regulatory requirements in his quarterly reports and the annual review presented in June 2020.

(b) None

(c) None - No deficiencies were noted in the operations of the Advisers for the audited periods ending December 31, 2019.

(d) No deficiencies were noted with respect to compliance matters.

6. To the extent not previously provided to the Trustees, provide copies of any deficiency letters and the Adviser’s responses thereto with respect to any SEC inquiry, inspection or examination.

Response: The Trustees and their counsel have been provided or given updates on all SEC correspondence and responses with respect to any SEC inquiry, inspection or examination.

7. Describe any significant communications “not in the regular course of business” with federal and state authorities, including the SEC, state attorneys general or securities commissions and FINRA, that are not described in response to questions E.5 or E.6 above.

Response: None

8. Describe generally each Adviser’s disclosure controls and procedures and internal controls over financial reporting, and methods used for testing them.

Response: The Adviser employs SEI as administrator/sub-administrator to prepare the financial reports for all Funds except the BDC. For the BDC, SSB acts as administrator and prepares the BDC’s financial reports. The two administrators have dedicated Financial Reporting teams that take a lead role in preparing and drafting the Funds’ reports. This includes all SEC and Regulatory reporting requirements for the Funds. The Advisers ultimately review and approve the final filings.

At the on-set of each financial reporting cycle, the administrators' respective Financial Reporting teams circulate a financial reporting calendar for the Adviser to review and approve. These calendars detail when support and financial drafts will be provided to the Adviser for comments and approval. The Adviser independently reviews these deliverables and reconciles material variances using independent data. Within the Advisers review process, there are various preparer and reviewer levels of review on financial drafts. Shadow financial work books are utilized as a method of testing the administrators' reports, and HOME financial data is an independent source of data to help reconcile the administrator's data.

Various inputs and review are performed across multiple teams at the Adviser, including Fund Accounting, Tax, Valuation, Portfolio Management, and Legal. External legal counsel also reviews the Regulatory filings before being filed.

As previously reviewed with the Board, the Adviser recognized a material weakness in its controls relating to the Funds with fair valuations of certain level three real estate holdings as of the December 31, 2019 year-end. Since that time, the Adviser has enhanced its controls consistent with its plan for remediation. While these controls have been initiated, the Adviser remains in process of evaluating their effectiveness. The Adviser expects that during the third quarter 2020, the Fund's Valuation policy will be amended to appropriately reflect the enhancements already undertaken. While the material weakness relates to valuations of level three real estate holdings, the material weakness did not have broader implications on other areas of the financial statements or internal controls over financial reporting (i.e. neither the Adviser nor the independent registered accounting firm identified broader control implications as a result of the material weakness other than Level 3 real estate holdings).

9. Identify known violations of a Fund's policies on market timing, late trading or disclosure of portfolio holdings that occurred since the Trustees last approved the Advisory Agreements and that have not previously been reported to the Trustees.

Response: None

10. Describe each Adviser's policies on giving or receiving gifts or entertainment, providing a brief description of the policy. Have there been any known violations of the policy? If so, please describe.

Response: Employees are prohibited from accepting all gifts regardless of market value, other than unsolicited perishable gifts. If a non-perishable gift is received, the employee must return the gift to the grantor or donate the gift to a local charity including evidence of the donation (charitable tax deduction cannot be taken in connection with the donation).

Gifts and entertainment may not be solicited. Entertainment and perishable gifts received above $200 in value must be approved by Compliance. Gifts or entertainment provided by an employee of the Advisers should generally be limited to $150 (employees of affiliated broker-dealers are subject to lower limits). There have been no violations of the policy.

11. Describe each Adviser's training and education programs to ensure that employees are aware of their duties and responsibilities under such compliance programs and federal securities laws.

Response: All new employees of the Advisers are required to attend the "New Employee Compliance Training" program. In addition, all employees are required to attend an "Annual Compliance Training" held in the fourth quarter of each year. These training sessions cover AML compliance and the Advisers' Code of Ethics, among other topics, and are led by members of the Compliance Team to set an appropriate "tone at the top" and emphasize the importance of the Funds and Advisers' overall culture of compliance. At the time of hire and annually, employees also receive a cybersecurity questionnaire to gauge knowledge on basic computer security, safe browsing and email usage.

12. Discuss the extent to which the Advisers utilize third-party compliance service providers, the services provided and the oversight of such service providers by personnel of the Advisers.

Response: The Advisers do not outsource the compliance function, but they do utilize third party service providers/technology to assist with certain compliance matters. Details regarding the service providers utilized are described below:

ACA Compliance Group: Assist with regulatory filing support, primarily quarterly 13F reports.

Greyline Solutions, LLC: Conduct several different compliance tests, including conflicting positions; allocations; dispersion; front running; cross trading; insider trading; social media clearance and recordkeeping.

ComplySci f/k/a Financial Tracking: The Advisers use ComplySci, a third party software provider, to automate the approval and monitoring of employee trading and to track gifts and entertainment, political contribution pre-clearing and quarterly and annual compliance certifications.

Bloomberg, Elkins McSherry and MarkIt: The Advisers use Bloomberg's BTCA program, Elkins McSherry and MarkIt to assist in the monitoring of best execution. BTCA is integrated within each Adviser's Order Management System ("OMS") and provides same-day metrics to traders and PMs. Elkins McSherry provides quarterly reporting of select fixed-income trading. MarkIt provides quarterly reporting on select leveraged loan trading. The reports generated by each of these entities are reviewed at the Advisers' quarterly Brokerage Committee Meetings.

Money Media (hosts Board IQ and Ignites) and Fund Directions – The Firm subscribes to Money Media and Fund Directions regulatory and industry news services. These services are tools for the Compliance team and the Board to stay abreast of current regulatory information and developments. The services each include a daily email and an alert email anytime there is breaking regulatory news. The services also provide the ability to search archives for past stories on any regulatory topic.

The Advisers also subscribe to and regularly review periodic industry alerts and other regulatory updates from outside legal counsel.

13. Provide an overview of the Advisers' implementation of the Funds' valuation policies and procedures. Describe any issues that have arisen under the Funds' valuation policies and procedures in the past year and any deficiencies in such policies and procedures that have been identified. State whether the Advisers have ceased to use any particular pricing services in the past year and the reason for no longer using each pricing service. Identify the financial instruments that each Adviser is likely to direct a Fund to purchase in the coming year for which market quotations are not readily available on a routine basis. Please also discuss current and proposed practices for valuing and updating the prices of foreign securities, if any. Please address specifically whether the Advisers encountered any issues in pricing securities with respect to any funds they manage during market upheavals resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic.

Response: As previously reviewed with the Board, the Adviser recognized a material weakness in its controls relating to the Funds with fair valuations of certain level three real estate holdings as of the December 31, 2019 year-end. Since that time, the Adviser has enhanced its controls consistent with its plan for remediation. While these controls have been initiated, the Adviser remains in process of evaluating their effectiveness. The Adviser expects that during the third quarter 2020, the Fund's Valuation policy will be amended to appropriately reflect the enhancements already undertaken.

Foreign securities are priced via pricing service (ICE). For foreign equities, the exchange close price is utilized. In instances with multiple exchanges in the same country, in general the primary exchange is selected based on volume of trading but in other situations it is based on primary listing.

The Advisers continuously monitor investment opportunities that may arise and often must respond to opportunities quickly without significant advanced notice. As a result, identifying instruments in advance for which market quotations are not readily available is not generally practicable. Notwithstanding the foregoing, we expect to continue to invest in (i) real estate assets, for which broker opinions of value are available, (ii) private equity-like investments that do not trade and may require fair valuation; and (iii) credit obligations which may restructure into reorganized, non-listed equity.

During the market upheavals resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic, the Advisers observed that while there was an overall decline in asset values and widening of bid-ask spreads, pricing sources remained fairly consistent (in other words, the population of assets requiring fair valuation due to a lack of market activity or available market pricing sources remained largely the same). However, with respect to NHF's holding of the shares of the NexPoint Hospitality Trust, the Adviser observed a lack of activity compared to other hospitality REIT's and coordinated with Houlihan Lokey to obtain a fair valuation for the holding. The Adviser also normally obtains broker quotes for CLO debt and equity holdings on a monthly basis as of each month end, but given the volatility that occurred during March 2020, these holdings were fair valued for an interim period until broker quotes could be obtained in the normal course at the end of the month.

We continue to monitor security valuations during the pandemic, and may adjust the frequency of valuations if warranted similar to the manner as previously described.

14. Provide an overview of each Adviser's business continuity and/or disaster recovery plans and any material changes made since the last 15(c) requests in 2018. State when such plans were last tested and summarize the results of any testing done in the past year. Discuss the interrelationship of each Adviser's business continuity and/or disaster recovery plans with those of the Funds' other service providers, and the Funds' programs and internal and external communication plans in the event of a business disruption.

Response: The Advisers have established a written disaster recovery, business continuity and cybersecurity plan for the Advisers' business (the "BCP" or "Plan"). This will allow the Company to meet its duties to clients as a fiduciary in managing client assets, among other things, should any disaster, significant business disruption or cybersecurity threat occur. It also allows the Advisers to meet its regulatory requirements in the event of any kind of disaster, such as a bombing, fire, flood, earthquake, power failure or any other event that may limit or disable the Advisers' operations or prevent access to its office(s). To that end, the Advisers have adopted a policy to provide for: (i) procedures for protecting systems and detecting cybersecurity issues; (ii) the rapid recovery and timely resumption of critical operations following a cybersecurity breach or the interruption of key infrastructure or internal components, or the inaccessibility of staff at the Advisers office(s); (iii) the rapid recovery and timely resumption of critical operations following a wide scale disruption; and (iv) robust testing to ensure that critical internal and external continuity arrangements are effective and compatible.

The Advisers are currently in the process of performing an annual update for the year 2020, but none of the changes are deemed material to the Plan that was in place during the prior year. The Plan was most recently tested in March 2020. There were no material issues or deficiencies in the last DR test. All systems were functional and accessible. The Plan also includes key internal contacts along with key external business and vendor contacts which may be contacted during an event. Key vendors have incident response plans in place, which are vendor specific, but may include notification to clients in a timely manner if a formal incident does occur and the Advisers are impacted.

Regarding COVID-19, the Advisers have enabled employees to effectively work remotely by utilizing previously implemented and tested technology solutions to enable remote work. Employees are able to remotely and securely connect to their computers via their personal computers with the same functionality as if they were actually sitting at their workstation in the office. Employees are able to remotely access all email, programs, electronic files, the Intranet, and shared drives. Microsoft Teams, an instant messaging and virtual collaboration tool, has been rolled out to employees to further enhance remote work capabilities. Also, WebEx is available for conference calls and video calls. WebEx is used given the enhanced security of such application. Call forwarding is enabled to transfer calls to employees' office phones to their cell phones.

In order to address the extended work from home situation related to COVID-19 shutdowns and the need to expand the security perimeter to include a greater amount of remote devices, the Advisers are in the midst of deploying Web security and DLP (Zscaler ZPA) to remote and/or non-Adviser owned devices to protect against remote malware and data exfiltration. The Adviser has also implemented a SIEM solution to better correlate hacking attempts and further restricted web filters against "unknown" website categories to mitigate zero day phishing attempts.

Since the remote work protocol was initiated in March 2020, there have not been any material operational or technology issues resulting from employees working remotely. To date, the Advisers have also not experienced any material impacts or issues among the Funds service providers or FFA from COVID-19.

15. Provide an overview of each Adviser's cybersecurity policies and procedures and measures taken to ensure the cybersecurity of the Funds' data, including personal identifying information of shareholders. Please specifically address security measures for protecting against an outside attack on an Adviser's technological systems. Describe any modifications to such policies and procedures, and any cybersecurity incidents, that have taken place in the past year. Discuss the manner and time period in which material cybersecurity incidents are (or would be) communicated to the Trustees. Describe each Adviser's oversight and monitoring of cybersecurity programs of the Funds' other service providers, including the Subadviser, and vendors and any changes in the oversight process in the past year. Please include a description of how each Adviser evaluates cybersecurity controls and the process for escalation of issues. Discuss any material technology problems experienced in the past year that were not previously reported to the Trustees. Please state whether each Adviser has conducted penetration or other testing of the effectiveness of its cybersecurity defenses in the past year and discuss the results of any testing. Also, describe the amount and type of any cyber security insurance coverage maintained by the Advisers, and whether such coverage applies to the Funds as additional insureds. Please also comment on any significant cybersecurity incidents in the past year and whether they resulted in any disruption of operations, loss of data or other adverse effects on an Adviser or its affiliates or on any fund managed by an Adviser. Please also discuss how the Advisers have changed their regular operations in response to the COVID-19 pandemic, and comment on the impact (if any) that such changes had on the Advisers' conduct of their operations. In that connection, please comment on the effectiveness of each Adviser's business continuity plan and any changes made or anticipated to be made in the plan as a result of this experience.

Response: The Advisers will provide the Board with an annual update to their cybersecurity program in September 2020.

Annually, a cybersecurity questionnaire is transmitted to key service providers of the Funds. Summary results of those questionnaires will also be provided to Board at the September 2020 meeting, consistent with prior years. Key service providers to Funds have generally undertaken to notify the Advisers in the event there is a breach with the Fund's data being compromised. The Board would be promptly notified of any material cybersecurity event impacting the Funds. There were no material technology problems within the past year that were not reported to the Board. We do not have any coverage specific to cyber security at this time.

Please also see the response as set forth in E.14 regarding COVID-19.

16. Describe each Adviser's own investments and possible conflicts with a Fund.

Response: As a result of the broad range of activities and the multiple accounts managed by the Advisers together with their affiliates, certain conflicts of interest may arise regarding the allocation of investment opportunities, investments in different parts of an issuer's capital structure, and other matters. Ultimately determinations for Funds advised by the Advisers are made independent of private funds and done in the best interest of the Funds in the event a capital structure conflict arises. Additionally, pursuant to exemptive relief obtained in April 2016, private funds advised by registered investment advisers affiliated with the Advisers have the ability to co-invest alongside the closed-end funds advised by the Advisers in transactions where the Advisers have the ability to negotiate terms other than price, so long as certain conditions of the order are satisfied. The Advisers have adopted additional policies and procedures related to such co-investments. In addition, the CCO will be available to speak about potential conflicts of interest at the September 2020 meeting.

HCMFA does not currently hold shares of any of the Funds. NexPoint holds the following investments in the Funds:

Investment	Quantity	FV
NexPoint Capital, Inc	2,549,002.29	14,962,643.45
NexPoint Real Estate Strategies Fund	12,622.03	188,573.10

17. Describe the functioning and effectiveness of each Adviser's proxy voting practices. In particular, discuss any possible or actual conflicts of interest in the voting of shares and any material changes to an Adviser's proxy voting policies and procedures since they were last provided to the Trustees.

Response: The Advisers have adopted policies and procedures in order to ensure compliance with proxy voting. The proxy policy is included as support and contains a section which addresses conflicts of interest. In the event of a conflict, it may choose to address such conflict by: (i) voting in accordance with the proxy advisor's recommendation; (ii) CCO determining how to vote the proxy (if the CCO approves deviation from the proxy advisor's recommendation, then the rationale shall be documented); (iii) "echo voting" or "mirror voting" the proxy in the same proportion as the votes of other proxy holders that are not advised accounts. If a conflict does arise for the Funds, the conflict and the rationale for the vote taken shall be disclosed to the Board at the next regularly scheduled quarterly meeting via the quarterly Report on Proxy Voting.

The Highland Socially Responsible Equity Fund has adopted additional measures using Glass Lewis data to vote its shares in accordance with Glass Lewis' socially responsible measures.

18. Describe any significant shareholder complaints and communications during the last year not previously disclosed to the Trustees. Describe the policies followed and actions taken in response to such complaints. Describe any complaints received under an Adviser's whistleblower procedures, if not previously reported to the Trustees.

Response: All significant shareholder complaints and communications are promptly provided to the Trustees and Trustee Counsel. There have been no complaints received under the Advisers' whistleblower procedures.

19. Discuss each Adviser's risk management program, including its process of identifying, assessing and controlling enterprise, operational, portfolio management and other risks for itself and the applicable Funds. Discuss the mechanisms and structures in place to monitor and mitigate operational and investment risk. Describe any needed enhancements in these areas that have been identified in the past year, or any enhancements that otherwise are planned. Comment on the adequacy of each Adviser's resources and infrastructure to assess and manage risk.

Response: An annual review is conducted to ensure the Advisers' compliance program is reasonably designed to prevent violations of federal securities laws. In connection with the annual review, the Advisers' Risk and Control Matrix is also reviewed to ensure all appropriate risks are identified and monitored accordingly. The annual review and supporting documentation were provided at the June 2020 Board Meeting.

Operational Risks

Our operations group provides day-to-day operational support of trade settlement, performance of reconciliation processes, management of prime brokerage relationships, sourcing and maintaining credit facilities, measuring and explaining Fund performance and positioning, providing portfolio monitoring for compliance limitations and portfolio positioning goals. This monitoring combined with the reporting from service providers allows the Advisers to oversee each Fund's compliance with its investment objectives, the 1940 Act and prospectus investment restrictions, policies and requirements. A total of 20 professionals support the Fund through the operations, accounting, tax, valuation, and finance functions. Overall staffing levels for the Funds have remained relatively consistent over the past year and an additional two heads are expected to be hired in the third quarter 2020.

Investing Risks

Credit

Our investment philosophy in credit is to produce consistent, above average returns by applying time-tested principles of investing and maintaining discipline around capital preservation while targeting an appropriate risk/return balance in our portfolios.

This philosophy is rooted in a value-oriented, long-term approach, which combines bottom-up research from our deep research group with top-down technical market analysis. The Advisers' sourcing advantage and robust information and research expertise allows each Adviser to comprehensively analyze and monitor a higher percentage of the credit universe. The Advisers follow a rigorous and time-tested process of credit analysis.

Equity

The overarching investment philosophy is to generate strong risk-adjusted returns over an equity market cycle, deliver solid capital appreciation while minimizing volatility and drawdowns compared to traditional equity markets. The investment style is a combination of both value and growth investments, with a multi-cap philosophy. On the value side, we are looking for situations where the downside is limited, due to asset value or free cash flow generation, but that the company is temporarily having fundamental issues which we believe will be overcome, or the market is overly discounting the issues, leading to undervaluation of the stock. On the growth side, we are looking for companies with strong barriers to entry, visibility to sales and/or earnings, reasonable valuations for the growth being generated, high incremental margins, low capital intensity, and recurring revenue. These are attributes we are interested in seeing in companies we invest in, but not all growth investments have these characteristics. We also invest in companies where we believe the growth rates will be higher or more sustainable than the street believes, even if the business itself does not have all the above characteristics. We find companies to invest in through fundamental value and growth screens, technical screens, short-selling boutique research firms, conversations with management teams of public companies, industry conferences, and other buy-side contacts. Please see the prospectus posted on the Directors Desk internet portal for additional information on the Funds' objective and investment philosophy.

Real Estate

Certain of the Funds are significantly invested in real estate and are therefore exposed to economic, market and regulatory changes that impact the real estate market generally. A number of factors may prevent a Fund or its respective REIT Subsidiary's properties and other real estate-related investments from generating sufficient net cash flow or may adversely affect their value, or both, resulting in less cash available for distribution, or a loss, to us. These factors include: national, regional and local economic conditions; changing demographics; the ability of property managers to provide capable management and adequate maintenance; the quality of a property's construction and design; increases in costs of maintenance, insurance, and operations (including energy costs and real estate taxes); potential environmental and other legal liabilities; the level of financing used by the REIT Subsidiary and the availability and cost of refinancing; potential instability, default or bankruptcy of tenants in the properties owned by the REIT Subsidiary; the relative illiquidity of real estate investments in general, which may make it difficult to sell a property at an attractive price or within a reasonable time frame. The Advisers continue to recruit additional talent in the real estate sector to support these investments.

Risk Management

20. An in-depth discussion of the process used to monitor risks in the Funds is provided in response to question B.18. Provide a list of exemptive orders that the Advisers and/or Funds have relied upon in the past year. Include a list of the conditions of each such order and confirm that the Advisers have complied with such conditions.

Response: The Advisers and/or Funds have relied on and complied with the following exemptive orders such conditions in the past year:

1) The ETF Passive Relief Order (812-13478), which permits (a) certain open-end management investment companies or series thereof to issue shares (“Shares”) redeemable in large aggregations only (“Creation Unit Aggregations”); (b) secondary market transactions in Shares to occur at negotiated market prices; (c) certain series to pay redemption proceeds, under certain circumstances, more than seven days from the tender of Shares for redemption; (d) certain affiliated persons of the series to deposit securities into, and receive securities from, the series in connection with the purchase and redemption of Creation Unit Aggregations; and (e) certain registered management investment companies and unit investment trusts outside of the same group of investment companies as the series to acquire Shares.

2) The Fund of Funds (Order 812-13890), which permits the open-end funds to invest in derivatives, shares of other registered open-end management investment companies that are part of the same fund complex, and other securities.

3) The Manager of Managers Relief (Order 812-13770), which provides an exemption from Section 15(a) of the 1940 Act and Rule 18f-2 under the 1940 Act, as well as from certain disclosure requirements. This relief permits the Adviser, subject to Board approval, to select certain Sub-Advisers to manage all or a portion of the assets of a Series pursuant to a Sub-Advisory Agreement and materially amend Sub-Advisory Agreements without obtaining shareholder approval.

4) Co-Investment Order (Order #812-14430), which provides an exemption from sections 17(d) and 57(i) of the 1940 Act and rule 17d-1 under the 1940 Act that permits certain joint transactions otherwise prohibited by sections 17(d) and 57(a)(4) of the Act and rule 17d-1 under the 1940 Act. This relief permits certain registered closed-end funds and/or private funds advised by the Advisers or their affiliated advisers to jointly invest in privately place transactions where terms other than price are negotiated.

5) Multiple Share Class Order (Order #812-13221), which provides an exemption from sections 18(c) and 18(i) of the Act, under sections 6(c) and 23(c)(3) of the Act granting an exemption from rule 23c-3 under the Act and pursuant to section 17(d) of the Act and rule 17d-1 under the Act, that permits certain registered closed-end management investment companies to issue multiple classes of shares and to impose asset-based distribution fees and early withdrawal charges. NRESF utilizes this relief.

6) Timely Filing Relief Related to COVID-19 Relief (IC-33824), which on March 13, 2020 and March 25, 2020 granted exemptions extending the filing periods for (i) Forms N-CEN and N-PORT, subject to certain conditions; and

(ii) Transmittal of Annual and Semi-Annual Repots to Investors, subject to certain conditions.

7) In-Person Board Meeting Relief Due to COVID-19 (IC-33824), which provided temporary exemptive relief for registered management investment companies, BDCs, and any investment adviser or principal underwriter of such companies, in circumstances related to the current or potential effects of COVID-19, from the requirements imposed under sections 15(c) and 32(a) of the Investment Company Act and Rules 12b-1(b)(2) and 15a-4(b)(2)(ii) under the Investment Company Act that votes of the board of directors of either the registered management investment company or BDC be cast in person.

The Funds did not rely on exemptive relief obtained for active ETFs (Order 812-13489 and 812-13489-01).

Please see the “Exemptive Order Conditions” report permanently posted on the Directors Desk internet portal.

21. Discuss the impact on the Adviser, any of its affiliates, or the Funds, of any new regulation or taxation of financial services organizations in the past year.

Response:

Regulation Best Interest (“Reg BI”) and Form CRS – In June 2019, the SEC approved a set of rules and interpretations for standards of conduct that broker-dealers and registered investment advisers would be held to. This included Reg BI and Form CRS Relationship Summary. Reg BI clarifies that broker-dealers may not place their own financial interests ahead of retail clients they advised and broker dealers are required to establish and maintain policies and procedures designed to comply with Reg BI. Form CRS will require broker-dealers and registered investment advisers to provide their clients with (i) services the firm offers, (ii) fees, (iii) costs, (iv) conflicts of interest, (v) legal standard of conduct, and (vi) disciplinary history of its employees. The effective date of each is June 30, 2020. We continue to assess the impact and application of Reg BI and Form CRS with K&L Gates, but believe that neither is applicable to the Advisers and their clients, the Funds, as the Advisers are not providing investment advice directly to retail customers.

Rule 6c-11 ETF rules – rescinds existing exemptive relief for eligible ETF’s effective December 23, 2019 and subject to a one-year implementation period. Highlights of the rule permit use of custom baskets with implementation of written policies and procedures, requires full daily portfolio transparency via enhanced web-site disclosures, and amended reporting detail on Form N1-A specifically around fees. The Advisers are working with SEI, distributor for the ETF, and K&L in implementation of the rule prior to December 22, 2020.

Valuation – the SEC has voted to propose a new rule which would establish a framework for fund valuation practices, the Board’s obligation for fair value determination, and the Board’s ability to assign the determination of fair value to the Advisers subject to certain conditions and reporting. The comment period is set to close at the end of July 2020 and we continue to work with K&L to assess the impact, if and when the rule is formalized.

Optional Internet Availability of Investment Company Shareholder Reports Rules (30e-3 disclosures) – On June 5, 2018, the SEC adopted new rule 30e-3 and rule amendments that provide funds with an optional method to transmit shareholder reports by making such reports and other materials accessible at a website address specified in a notice to investors, subject to certain conditions. One condition requires prominent disclosures on the cover page or beginning of a Fund’s summary prospectus, statutory prospectus, and annual and semiannual reports for two years during the three-year period between January 1, 2019 and December 31, 2021.

Pursuant to a no-action letter issued by the staff of the SEC to Mutual Fund Directors Forum, dated October 12, 2018 with respect to Investment Company Act of 1940 – Sections 10(f), 17(a), and 17(e) and Rules 10f-3, 17a-7 and 17e-1, the Board may rely on written representation from the Advisers’ CCO confirming transactions contemplated pursuant to Rules 10f-3, 17a-7, and 17e-1, where applicable, were effected in accordance with 10f-3, 17a-7, and 17e-1 procedures adopted by the Board pursuant to the Fund’s compliance manual.

The CARES Act – The Adviser is closely monitoring the rollout of the programs provided for under The Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act (commonly referred to as the “CARES Act”) and determining the applicability and availability of CARES Act relief in the Fund’s underlying investments, but there is still significant uncertainty with respect to how the CARES Act will be implemented and what relief may be available for passive real estate investors. The CARES Act was enacted by the U.S. government on March 27, 2020, to combat the economic impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on businesses, individuals and families. The CARES Act contains certain key provisions that will afford relief to the real estate industry from the wide-ranging effects of the pandemic, including two loan programs intended to provide liquidity to businesses in the United States from which certain eligible real estate businesses may benefit. The CARES Act also provides mortgage relief for single family and multi-family property owners with federally backed mortgages who agree to not evict tenants from their property for non-payment of rent.

22. Provide a summary of access persons’ holdings in the Funds as of the most recent month available.

Response: Please see the “Summary of Access Persons” Holdings” included on the Directors Desk internet portal.

23. Please provide a schedule setting forth the portfolio turnover rate of each Fund during its most recently completed fiscal year and discuss the reasons for any material (25% or greater) change a Fund's portfolio turnover since the last contract renewal.

Response: Please see the “Portfolio Turnover Rates” document included with the 15(c) materials.

F. Third-Party Service Providers

1. Comment on the quality of services provided to each Fund by its administrator, custodian, transfer agent, accountants, servicing agent and any other service providers. Summarize how each Adviser oversees and monitors these service providers. Discuss any proposed changes in service providers or the nature of the services provided. Discuss whether the fees charged by the service providers are reasonable when compared to other providers of similar nature and quality.

Response: The Advisers believe the quality of services provided by SSB (for the BDC), SEI, BNY, NSI, DST and AST are sufficient for successful management of the Funds. The Advisers believe that issues related to NAV errors in Funds have been primarily resolved with the transition to SEI as the main administrator to the Funds (other than the BDC). If and when NAV errors have occurred at SEI, the administrator has enhanced and remediated processes and procedures to avoid occurrences going forward. Fees of these service providers are comparable to those of others in the industry.

The Advisers utilize multiple service providers, as were described in more detail during the CCO's June 2020 Annual Review. For certain service providers where activity occurs more frequently, such as SEI and DST, weekly calls (or calls on some other regular basis) occur to discuss current reporting deliverables along with ad hoc requests.

The Advisers have solicited proposals from a number of other service providers in the last year with regards to custody and financing services.

After review of both the Funds' expenses and fees charged by competitors, we generally feel that the fees charged by the service providers are reasonable when compared to other providers of similar nature and quality.

2. Describe any financial or other benefits received by the Adviser or its affiliates directly or indirectly from any third-party service provider. Discuss any conflicts of interest that may arise as a result of any such relationship with the Adviser or its affiliates, including in connection with the negotiation of service provider arrangements on behalf of the Funds.

Response: The Advisers and its affiliates do not generally derive benefits from third-party service providers, but may benefit for example in the event a Fund's (or multiple Funds') lending relationship with a counterparty provides for increased AUM, which indirectly results in increased fees to the Adviser (for example, a large, sophisticated bank may be willing to extend credit to a Fund due to the aggregate level of business across the Adviser and its affiliates).

3. Discuss any material compliance matters involving the third-party service providers, and whether such matters might have an adverse impact on a Fund.

Response: None. Any other matters with third-party service providers were discussed in detail with the Board during the delivery of the annual compliance in June 2020.

4. State whether third-party service providers are required to comply with any of the Advisers' or Funds' compliance policies and procedures, such as insider trading policies.

Response: While we assess our counterparties adherence to their compliance policies and procedures via questionnaires and onsite visits, we do not formally require such providers to comply with our policies and procedures.

5. Discuss the measures taken by such third-party service providers to ensure the cybersecurity of the Funds' data, including personal identifying information of shareholders.

Response: DST, the open-end funds, BDC, and NRESF transfer agent, has security measures that are utilized around all data processing and storage. Backup data for DST Systems, Inc. processing are produced on a daily, weekly, monthly, and annual basis and written electronically to offsite servers. Annual training is conducted to re-emphasize the importance of privacy and security throughout the organization. Also at least annually, a cyber-security risk assessment is conducted to perform full penetration and vulnerability testing on the network and infrastructure. Other service providers employ similar mechanisms and procedures as outlined above.

6. Please state whether an Adviser (or any of its affiliates) currently receives payments from the Fund's third-party service providers to cover marketing or other expenses relating to the Funds.

Response: The Advisers or any of its affiliated broker-dealers do not receive payments from third-party service providers.

G. Other

1. a. Describe any arrangements, written or oral, between an Adviser or NSI, or any of their affiliates, and any entity that provides, directly or indirectly, services to any Fund or its shareholders (i) as to how any fees paid by or on behalf of a Fund or its shareholders will be used, or (ii) that are characterized as a "partnership," "alliance" or "joint venture."

Response: The open-end Funds and NRESF have, upon Board approval, entered into 12b-1 Plans with NSI. Copies of these materials are available on Director's Desk under Documents > Corporate Documents > Rule 12b-1 Plan.

NSI enters into selling agreements with third parties who sell shares of the Funds to their respective clients and receive a 12b-1 fee for servicing shareholders. Separate arrangements are entered into by NSI or the Adviser on a case by case basis for sub-transfer agency fees (where Fund assets may be used to pay for the services) and revenue sharing arrangements (where the Adviser pays for such services). In the event fees under a 12b-1 Plan are not sufficient to cover a Fund's distribution agreements, the Adviser pays the difference. Please refer to the 12b-1 Distribution Expenses report on Director's Desk.

b. Solely with respect to services provided, directly or indirectly, to or on behalf of a Fund or its shareholders, describe any arrangements under which an Adviser or the Distributor, or any of their affiliates, receive any sub-servicing fee from any entity that provides, directly or indirectly, services to a Fund or its shareholders.

Response: Neither the Advisers nor NSI receive a fee for providing sub-transfer agency or other servicing arrangements from an entity that provides such services to a Fund.

2. a. Please indicate whether the Funds are serviced pursuant to any sub-transfer agency, recordkeeping or similar arrangements. If so, please provide information concerning such arrangements for the Funds, as applicable. Describe the services provided pursuant to such arrangements and identify whether any of the services under such agreements are for distribution or marketing. Describe how each Adviser ensures that assets of the Funds, including fees paid to affiliated or unaffiliated service providers, are not used for distribution purposes in contravention of Section 12(b) and Rule 12b-1 under the 1940 Act.

Response: The Funds utilize the recordkeeping services of DST and AST as the respective Fund's transfer agent. Additionally, the open-end Funds and NRESF utilize sub-transfer agency services from various third parties which are reported to the Board on a quarterly basis (see "Quarterly Supermarket Reporting" in each in-person meeting book). Detail regarding the arrangements in place with these providers is included therein. Additionally, the Sub-TA Payments and Oversight Policy approved by the Board in October 2016 is available on Director's Desk (Documents > Corporate Documents > Sub-TA Policy) and details the Adviser's review process to ensure that Fund assets are not used to pay for distribution outside of the 12b-1 Plan.

b. Identify, with respect to each intermediary that collected fees pursuant to a sub-transfer agency, recordkeeping or similar arrangement during the 12-month period ended June 30, 2020, total fees paid to each intermediary for assets held during the period, Fund assets related to such intermediary (total and by share class) and the fee details (including, with respect to asset-based fees, networking fees and/or 12b-1 fees, the fee schedule, actual amount and basis points), identifying amounts paid by the Fund and not paid by the Fund, as applicable.

Response: This information will be provided in the Q2 2020 Quarterly Supermarket Reporting at the September in-person meeting. The Q1 2020 Quarterly Supermarket Reporting provided to the Board at the June in-person Board meeting details 2018 and 2019 year to date fees paid the Funds. Furthermore, DST's June 2020 report for the open-end Funds and NRESF is available on Director's Desk at Home > Documents > Corporate Documents > 15c Reference Documents and provides share class level detail.

c. Please explain whether the portion of any sub-transfer agency, recordkeeping or similar fee that is for non-distribution services is reasonable in relation to (i) the value of those services and the benefits received by the Funds and their shareholders and (ii) the payments that the Funds (directly or indirectly) would be required to make to another entity to perform the same services.

Response: Based on the Adviser's quarterly review of the sub-TA and 12b-1 fees paid by the Funds in relation to industry comparisons received through participation in the PwC/ICI sub-transfer agency survey, we believe the non-distribution services are reasonable in relation to the services provided, are a necessary component to efficiently servicing the Funds, and are reasonable in relation to payments a Fund would be required to pay another entity to perform the same services. The Adviser will also provide an update regarding the 2019 ICI Mutual Fund Transfer Agency upon receipt (expected August 2020).

d. Explain any trends in sub-transfer agency, recordkeeping or similar arrangements. Describe how such arrangements are overseen.

Response: Industry trends are generally shared with the Board on an ad-hoc basis through review of Board IQ, Ignites and Fund Directions articles on the topics and through participation in the PwC/ICI survey every other year. Separately, Board counsel and Fund counsel provide regulatory updates at each quarterly meeting. Sub-transfer agency fees seem to be declining in response to certain industry changes related to the Department of Labor Fiduciary Rule (the "Fiduciary Rule"). Certain intermediaries requested amendments to sub-transfer agency agreements for omnibus accounts which were intended to coincide with the anticipated effectiveness of the Fiduciary Rule (which has since been delayed). In one instance, the arrangement (i) modified the fee from a flat per account fee to a basis point billing arrangement and (ii) expanded the billable asset base to include advisory accounts (excluding money market funds and ERISA accounts).

As discussed above, the Advisers review 12b-1 payments and fees paid for sub-ta services by the Funds on a quarterly basis in connection with preparation of the Quarterly Supermarket Policy. An operations analyst reviews every invoice prior to payment to confirm accuracy and to note any irregularities.

The Advisers have also experienced the effects of fee compression in the overall market, for example service provider turnover or cutbacks and offshoring, as experienced with SSB. In response, the Advisers have implemented several shadow checks to authenticate and/or ensure the accuracy of data received from third parties.

3. Describe any improvements or changes in technology or systems in the past year that you expect to be of benefit to the Funds. In particular, describe any significant changes to investment technology, including automation or artificial intelligence, in connection with services provided by the Advisers to the Funds.

Response: In order to address the extended work from home situation related to COVID-19 shutdowns and the need to expand the security perimeter to include a greater amount of remote devices, the Advisers are in the midst of deploying Web security and DLP (Zscaler ZPA) to remote and/or non-Adviser owned devices to protect against remote malware and data exfiltration. The Adviser has also implemented a SIEM solution to better correlate hacking attempts and further restricted web filters against “unknown” website categories to mitigate zero day phishing attempts.

4. Discuss the Adviser’s relationship with the Funds’ key service providers, including the Subadviser. Describe any issues that arose with such providers in the past year and explain how such issues were resolved.

Response: There were no material issues that arose between the Funds' service providers/Sub-Adviser and the Advisers aside from those previously disclosed above or previously communicated to the Board. As noted in response to question A1, the Advisers continue to monitor the services provided to the Funds pursuant to the Shared Services Agreement with HCMLP as HCMLP’s bankruptcy progresses. Additionally, HCMFA is evaluating the Brookmont Proposal, but notes that such assignment of advisory contracts is not the result of issues with the Sub-Adviser and that it expects FFA to continue to sub-advise the Total Return Fund and Fixed Income Fund.

As discussed during each Board meeting, when errors or issues related to a Fund occur, the Advisers’ compliance and operations personnel work with the service provider to resolve the issues and document the error accordingly. These memos are provided to the Board on a quarterly basis and discussed during the CCO’s quarterly review. The CCO will be available to speak about any particular service providers about which you may have additional questions.

5. Discuss any other facts and provide other information not requested above that may assist the Trustees in evaluating each Adviser's services or which may otherwise be relevant.

Response: We are not aware of any additional information that will be relevant to the Trustees' consideration of this matter. Personnel of the Advisers will be available at the Board meeting to address any questions from the Trustees or Board counsel.

6. Please represent whether you believe you have provided all information within your control that may be reasonably necessary for the Trustees to receive in order to fulfill their responsibilities under section 15(c) of the 1940 Act.

Response: We believe the Trustees have been provided with all information within our control that may be reasonably necessary for the Trustees to receive in order to fulfill their responsibilities under section 15(c) of the 1940 Act.

H. Administration Services

1. Provide a copy of the current Administration Services Agreements, and discuss any changes that are proposed, including proposed changes in the services to be performed.

Response: The Administration Service Agreements are available on Director's Desk (Home > Documents > Corporate Documents > Agreements > Administration Agreements). Following the transition to SEI as Administrator (all Funds except the BDC), no changes in the services are contemplated.

2. Describe the services provided to the Funds under the Administration Services Agreements. Please describe how you monitor the quality of services provided, including with respect to the oversight of the sub-administrator. Discuss any material changes in the nature, quantity or quality of such services in the past year.

Response: Below is a detailed description of the compliance, legal, and operational administrative services provided by the Advisers to the Funds, either directly or indirectly via a shared services agreement with HCMLP and a sub-administration agreement with SSB and/or SEI. The Advisers may engage additional service providers for certain alternative investment strategies executed by the Funds. For example, a Fund that employ short sales requires collateral management services and a Fund investing in senior bank loans requires additional cash, amendment management and settlement services that are not required with DTC traded securities. Further, there have been no material changes in the services provided in the last year.

Compliance & Legal

The CCO of the Advisers is a dedicated compliance manager who focuses on compliance issues related to the Funds. The CCO has access to HCMLP's legal and compliance department (the "Legal Group"). The Legal Group is responsible for all legal and compliance matters, including the development of compliance policies and procedures, monitoring adherence to those procedures and fostering a culture of compliance throughout the firm.

The Legal Group's responsibilities with respect to the Funds include performing risk assessments, conducting annual compliance reviews, coordinating state and federal regulatory reporting and maintaining the Funds' compliance manuals. The Legal Group is involved in reviewing trading activities, including compliance with the Funds' soft dollar, brokerage, trade errors and trade allocation policies. Members of the Legal Group are consulted on the design and implementation of procedural controls related to trade entry and authorization.

Additionally, members of the Legal Group are active participants at board meetings and at various committees including brokerage and valuation committees. They conduct new hire training and teach-ins to provide refreshers of the Funds' procedures and topical updates. In an effort to continue to develop their professional expertise, members of the Legal Group attend seminars, receive compliance-related subscriptions and consult external advisers.

Fund Operations

The retail operations group is responsible for bridging communications from the responsible investment teams to the investors and to the Funds' various service providers. The retail operations group's duties include monitoring of sub-advisory relationships. This includes acting as the primary point of contact for communications with sub-advisers of the Funds. In addition to any day-to-day contact, the operations group coordinates the review or preparation of monthly and quarterly sub-adviser compliance reporting documents.

Marketing support is part of the retail operation group's responsibilities. This requires interfacing directly with President of the Distributor, the Product Strategy Team and the regional wholesalers to ensure they are provided with accurate and effective marketing materials. This includes working with portfolio managers (both internal and at the sub-advisers) and compliance personnel on preparing marketing materials including monthly write-ups, quarterly webcasts and up-to-date presentations (based on market conditions).

Additionally, this group is responsible for ensuring portfolio managers have meaningful, accurate and timely portfolio level data available to make appropriate investment decisions on behalf of the Funds. In this capacity the group is also responsible for the management of data integrity for both internal and external portfolio data sources including the Funds' financial statements and other regulatory filings. This includes the management of external audits.

As part of the operations role this group provides day-to-day operational support of trade settlement, performance of reconciliation processes, management of prime brokerage relationships, sourcing and maintaining credit facilities, measuring and explaining Fund performance and positioning, providing portfolio monitoring for compliance limitations and portfolio positioning goals. This monitoring combined with the reporting from service providers allows the Advisers to oversee each Fund's compliance with its investment objectives, the 1940 Act and prospectus investment restrictions, policies and requirements.

Monitoring

The Advisers monitor the quality of services provided by the administrator or sub-administrator, as the case may be, through quarterly reviews conducted by SEI pursuant to a Quarterly Scorecard and by monitoring the number of administrator-related error reports (such as NAV Error summary reports) created on a quarterly basis.

3. Please identify the relevant personnel comprising the team responsible for providing these services to each of the Funds, and their qualifications to provide such services.

Response: Please refer to the Accounting Structure Chart in the “Highland Firm Organization Chart” provided in the 15c materials. The Advisers operations team oversees the Administration Services provided to the Funds along with the assistance of Jason Post, CCO, and Lauren Thedford, Secretary of the Funds.

4. State: (a) the aggregate dollar amount of services fees received under the Administration Services Agreements in the past year; (b) the amounts, if any, reallocated to other parties; and (c) the extent to which such service fees exceeded the Adviser's costs in providing services under the Administration Services Agreement for each Fund.

Response: The Adviser is entitled to receive an annual administration services fee equal to 0.20% of the average daily managed assets of the Healthcare Opportunities Fund, Income Fund, and NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund. For its services pursuant to separate sub-administration agreements for each entity, SEI receives a fee from the Adviser (and not the Fund) of 0.01% of the Fund's managed assets (calculated in the same manner as the associated administration services agreement), plus fixed amounts for certain services. The service fees paid by the Funds did not exceed the Adviser's costs for any of the Funds (i.e. the minimal service fees paid by the Funds do not offset the Adviser's costs of running the Funds). Please refer to the “Advisory Fee Analysis” provided on the Directors Desk internet portal.

5. Comment upon the following factors identified in SEC guidance in connection with the Trustees consideration of each Administration Services Agreement: (a) whether the agreement is in the best interest of the applicable Funds; (b) whether the services to be performed pursuant to the agreement are required for the operation of the applicable Funds; (c) whether Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. or NexPoint Advisors, L.P., as applicable, can provide services the nature and quality of which are at least equal to those provided by others offering the same or similar services; and (d) whether the fees for such services are fair and reasonable in light of the usual and customary charges made by others for services of the same nature and quality.

Response: All Funds (except for the BDC) have successfully transitioned administrative services to SEI as of the date of this letter.

NexPoint believes the engagement of SSB as administrator to the BDC is in the best interest of the BDC since the SSB team responsible for the BDC’s services are separate from the other SSB teams, and have provided a higher level of service than the other SSB teams. Additionally, they have niche experience for the BDC investment type and their BDC experience improves the overall service level of the BDC. These services are pivotal to the operation of the BDC.

The Advisers believe that the engagement of SEI is in the best interest of the Funds and necessary for the Funds to meet regulatory and back office requirements. In addition to closing the daily NAV, SEI runs a myriad of daily compliance tests on the Funds (ex-BDC). The testing guidelines include frequencies and warning thresholds. Although the Advisers internally monitor prospectus limitations using a proprietary in-house model and OMS rules, SEI also tests for prospectus and SAI investment limits, Internal Revenue Code restrictions, 1940 Act limitations and fund specific rules. SSB performs similar functions as described above for the BDC.

As discussed on page one of this response, the Advisers have entered into a Shared Services agreement with HCMLP to utilize HCMLP personnel alongside Adviser personnel to perform services including Legal and Compliance, Finance and Accounting, IT, Tax, Investment Research, Trading and Operations functions.

We feel that the Advisers can provide services, the nature and quality of which are at least equal to those provided by others offering the same or similar services, and that the fees for such services are fair and within industry standards. Please refer to the FUSE Report provided in the meeting materials, which provides more information regarding each Fund’s fees relative to its peers.

I. Distribution

1. Provide a copy of the current Distribution Agreements, and discuss any changes that are proposed, including proposed changes in the services to be performed or fees to be imposed.

Response: These documents are available on Director's Desk (Documents > Corporate Documents > Rule 12b-1 Plan). No changes to the services or fees are contemplated.

2. Provide a copy of the most recent financial statements for the Distributor.

Response: Please see the redacted financial statements as of June 30, 2020 provided with the 15(c) materials. Detailed line items of the balance sheet have been removed per prior practice when financials are provided to external parties, such that only summary line items remain included. Assets consist primarily of unrestricted cash, restricted cash to be disbursed for marketing and distribution costs of the 12b-1 plan, in its role as administrator of the plan, and marketable investments. Liabilities consist primarily of payables and other accruals incurred in the normal course of business, Payroll Protection Plan loan payable, income taxes payable, and amounts payable on behalf of the 12b-1 plan.

3. Describe the organizational structure of the Distributor and its affiliated companies, including any overlapping employees or positions.

Response: Please see the "Highland Firm Organizational Chart 2020" report provided with the 15(c) materials.

4. Discuss the positions and responsibilities of any employee of the Distributor who is involved in providing services to the Funds.

Response: Please see the "Highland Firm Biographies" and the "Highland Firm Organizational Chart" reports provided with the 15(c) materials.

5. Describe any marketing activities by the Distributor, each Adviser or their affiliates on behalf of the Funds during the past year, and describe any plans for marketing in the upcoming year.

Response: As of June 30, 2020, there were a total of 30 internal and external wholesalers stationed throughout the U.S. marketing the Funds, which is a considerable amount of expansion from the prior year. With the projected growth in the platform the Distributor plans to grow the marketing team in the coming year. The Distributor and other appropriate persons will be available to discuss during the meeting.

6. Summarize the costs and expenses of the Distributor's marketing and sales activities and plans, including any "shelf space" or revenue sharing arrangements. Identify any Funds that require unique or above-average expenditures for marketing activities.

Response: The primary cost and expense NSI incurs is during the marketing of the Funds and relates to sales person travel, meals and entertainment. NSI does not pay for self-space and does not plan on entering into new revenue sharing arrangements, but may if it determines it is in the best interest of the Funds.

7. Discuss the Distributor's compliance policies and procedures related to: (a) assuring compliance of advertising and sales literature with applicable rules and regulations; (b) determining investor suitability for the Funds' various share classes; and (c) monitoring broker-dealers involved in selling Fund shares.

Response: A copy of "NSI's Communications with the Public" procedures has been provided with the 15(c) materials.

The CCO and/or a designated supervisory principal of NSI is responsible for reviewing and approving all retail and institutional communications. All retail and institutional communications with the public are uploaded in the Underwriter's review/approval system. The CCO or an appropriately licensed designee then reviews the submission and either approves or sends the document back for required revisions. Once the document is approved, the appropriate individuals are notified that the document can be used.

If the document is required to be filed with FINRA, the CCO or designee files the document with FINRA by uploading it to the Advertising Review portal in the FINRA Gateway system.

NSI distributes the Funds through external financial advisers who are responsible for determining investor suitability for the various share classes. NSI does track which share classes are being sold by broker-dealers and their financial advisers, but NSI does not directly make the suitability determination. By rule, the broker dealers are responsible for making the suitability determinations for their respective clients.

All broker-dealers selling the Funds' shares are required to execute a selling agreement with the Underwriter that includes representations by the broker-dealers regarding their compliance with the Funds' policies relating to market-timing and order handling. As part of the due diligence process all broker-dealers are also required to complete a "New Broker-Dealer Questionnaire" which includes a review of the broker-dealers CRD record. Any noted disclosures related to the above matters will result in additional due diligence prior to executing a selling agreement. In addition, HCMFA utilizes DST to provide monitoring and reporting services to help ensure compliance with Rule 22c-2 under the 1940 Act.

8. Please identify and describe all arrangements that either are in place or are intended to be implemented in the near-term for the Funds pursuant to which an Adviser and/or its affiliates (including the underwriter) will pay a third party, as a consequence of the third party's efforts to sell shares or service the Funds (including, without limitation, revenue sharing, payments for marketing support, networking fees, subservicing fees and subaccounting fees). Please include information on any fees paid by an Adviser, or any affiliate of an Adviser, to the Distributor for distribution services.

Response: As discussed above, the Advisers review 12b-1 payments and fees paid for sub-transfer agency services by the Funds with the Board on a quarterly basis in connection with preparation of the Quarterly Supermarket Policy. Revenue sharing arrangements are also disclosed in this presentation.

9. Describe the types of advertising and sales materials used to promote the Funds. Discuss any internal standards regarding such materials.

Response: Please see examples on the Directors Desk internet portal of the types of marketing materials, which include Fund Factsheets, Fund Presentations and Educational Guides. All material will be based on principles of fair dealing and good faith, must be fair and balanced, and provide a sound basis for evaluating the particular Fund.

10. Provide information concerning net inflows and outflows for each Fund, including exchanges.

Response: Please refer to table below with net inflows/ (outflows) for each Fund YTD and over the last one, three- and five-year periods.

11. Provide information concerning shares purchased because of the reinvestment of dividends and capital gains distributions.

Response: Please see the “DST Dividend Reinvestment Summary” report provided with the 15(c) materials.

12. State whether the Distributor will derive any benefits from its possession and use of monies paid to it for the purchase of Fund shares, or representing the proceeds of share redemptions, prior to the transmission of such monies to the Funds.

Response: NSI is a limited purpose broker-dealer that has elected to not receive or hold any customer funds or securities. The monies received from purchases and redemptions of Fund shares are transmitted through the transfer agent and are never in the possession or control of NSI. Therefore, no benefits will be gained from these transactions.

13. State whether the Distributor currently has, or within the past year has had, any financial arrangements with any of the Funds’ Advisers or sub-advisers. If so, describe such arrangements.

Response: As the 100% owner of NexPoint Securities, Inc. ("NPSI"), HCMFA has committed to capitalize NPSI. This capitalization occurs primarily through transfer pricing which requires HCMFA to reimburse NPSI (plus an additional 5% charge) for certain expenses of NPSI that benefit HCMFA. Similarly, NexPoint reimburses NPSI (plus an additional 5% charge) certain expenses that benefit NexPoint. In addition to transfer pricing, there is also a shared services agreement between HCMFA and NPSI whereby NPSI is charged an allocation of certain expenses for services provided by HCMFA, such as back office salaries, rent, IT, phones, storage, recordkeeping, operations, etc.

14. Describe any shareholder communications received by the Distributor in the past year.

Response: The Distributor receives occasional shareholder communication that is administrative in nature. These requests are typically for redemptions, change of address, name changes, etc. These requests are forwarded to the transfer agent, DST, for resolution. The Distributor is not aware of any other material communication.

15. Discuss any material compliance issues experienced by the Distributor in the past year. If the Distributor has been examined, audited or received any material communications from any governmental or regulatory body in the past year, please provide any relevant details.

Response: The Distributor has not experienced any material compliance issues in the past year nor has it been examined, audited or received material communications from any regulatory body in the past year other than a routine FINRA cycle exam (approximately every four years), which began on June 16, 2020

16. Provide an overview of the Distributor's business continuity and/or disaster recovery plan and any material changes made to that plan since the last 15(c) requests in 2018. Describe the Distributor's cyber risk/data security programs as applicable to the Funds. Please specifically address security measures for protecting against an outside attack on the Distributor's technological systems and platforms and process for communications to the Board in the event of a material breach. State when such plans were last tested and summarize the results of any testing done in the past year. Please also discuss how the Distributor has changed its regular operations in response to the COVID-19 pandemic, and comment on the impact (if any) that such changes had on the Distributor's conduct of its operations. In that connection, please comment on the effectiveness of the Distributor's business continuity plan and any changes made or anticipated to be made in the plan as a result of this experience.

Response: The Advisers have a BCP which is a function of the entire organization. Highland will update the BCP whenever there is a material change to the operations, structure, business or location. In addition, Highland will review this BCP annually to determine the adequacy and the effectiveness of its policies and procedures. The review considers any compliance matters that arose during the previous year, any changes in the business activities of Highland, and any regulatory developments that might suggest a need to revise the BCP. As part of the BCP, there is a disaster recovery plan which ensures that a significant business disruption does not result in a loss of any data or interrupt normal business functions. Highland maintains a co-location facility in Richardson, TX and a Disaster Recovery Center in Allen, TX. The co-location facility has not been tier rated but it is designed for concurrent maintainability and fault tolerance which are the qualifications for Tier III and Tier IV facilities. In the event of a disaster all employees will have the ability to work remotely without any material disruption to business. The Firm also maintains its electronic records and other records subject to retention requirements of the SEC offsite at Iron Mountain, a nationwide backup and disaster recovery service provider. This office is located in Lewisville, TX.

Please refer to the response to question E.14 for more information about adjustments related to BCP due to COVID-19.

17. Comment upon the following factors identified in SEC guidance in connection with the Trustees consideration of each Distribution Agreement: (a) whether the agreement is in the best interest of the applicable Funds; (b) whether the services to be performed pursuant to the agreement are required for the operation of the applicable Funds; (c) whether the Distributor can provide services the nature and quality of which are at least equal to those provided by others offering the same or similar services; and (d) whether the fees for such services are fair and reasonable in light of the usual and customary charges made by others for services of the same nature and quality.

Response: We believe the Distribution Agreement is in the best interest of the Funds and that it is required for the operation of the Funds. The Distributor, NSI, serves as the principal underwriter of each Fund for which Shares are offered for sale on a continuous basis. We believe NSI will use all reasonable efforts in connection with distribution of shares of the Funds. NSI will also undertake all marketing, advertising and promotional activities it believes reasonable with the sale of Fund Shares. NSI will also enter into written agreements with such sub-agents, including one or more participating brokers or introducing brokers or other financial intermediaries for the purposes of selling shares of the Funds. The Advisers believe that (i) NSI provides services that are equal to or similar to other providers in nature and quality and (ii) the fees for such services are fair and reasonable in light of the usual and customary charges made by others for services of the same nature and quality.

J. Rule 12b-1 Plans

Provide the following information in connection with the Rule 12b-1 plans:

1. Comment upon each of the following factors identified by the SEC in Investment Company Act Releases Nos. 10862 and 11414 in connection with the Trustees' consideration of each Fund's Rule 12b-1 plan: (a) the need for independent counsel or experts to assist the directors in evaluating the plan; (b) the nature of the problems or circumstances which purportedly make implementation or continuation of the plan necessary or appropriate; (c) the causes of such problems or circumstances; (d) the way in which the plan addresses these problems or circumstances and how it resolves or alleviates them, including the nature and approximate amount of the expenditures; the relationship of such expenditures to the overall cost structure of the Fund; the nature of the anticipated benefits, and the time it would take for those benefits to be achieved; (e) the merits of possible alternative plans; (f) the interrelationship between the plan and the activities of any other person who finances or has financed distribution of Fund shares, including whether any payments by the company to such other person are made in such a manner as to constitute the indirect financing of distribution by the Fund; (g) the possible benefits of the plan to any other person relative to those expected to inure to the Fund; (h) the effect of the plan on existing shareholders; and (i) whether the plan has in fact produced the anticipated benefits for the Fund and its shareholders.

Response:

- a. Independent counsel assists the Trustees in reaching this determination.
- b. The Adviser believes the continuation of the Plans is necessary and appropriate to help the Funds achieve economies of scale by raising assets, and retaining accounts. Trail commissions payable from or reimbursed by 12b-1 fees are prevalent in the Fund industry and the Funds would be at a competitive disadvantage vis-à-vis other investment products that might be offered by the same registered representatives if they did not provide a competitive service and distribution fee to registered representatives. For example, without appropriate compensation, registered representatives would not sell shares of the Funds as aggressively as is required to encourage growth and may, in fact, have an incentive to cause existing shareholders to redeem their shares in the Funds in favor of other investment products. In addition, the Plans are used to provide compensation for ongoing shareholder servicing by registered representatives. The provision of these services is important to the Funds' efforts to maintain a stable asset base, as the registered representatives are able to educate investors as to the benefits of the Funds and provide high-quality shareholder services, which is increasingly important during periods of financial uncertainty for many investors.

- c. The sales of fund products and the retention of assets in a Fund continue to be very competitive and challenging. Two trends that will significantly affect the distribution of the Funds are (i) financial intermediaries are limiting the number of distributors that have unlimited access to their financial consultants and (ii) financial intermediaries are demanding an increase in the amounts they receive for mutual funds that are allowed to be sold in their platforms (e.g., 12b-1 fees, sub-transfer agency payments, asset-based and sales-based payments and other one-time payments). Competition and the costs of selling funds in the financial intermediary channel are increasing.
- d. The amount and rate of the 12b-1 fees borne by each share class, and the relationship of this fee to the overall cost structure of the Funds, are set forth in Item 1.h below. As described above, we believe the Plans provide competitive compensation to registered representatives, and therefore help avoid barriers to the Funds' distribution that would result if the Funds were not able to provide competitive compensation. In addition, we believe the Plans have, in fact, helped the Funds to increase sales and minimize redemptions, which benefits the Funds by contributing to economies of scale, allowing the Funds to achieve greater diversification and improved trade execution, and potentially resulting in reduced total expense ratios.
- e. HCMFA is not aware of viable alternative plans that would permit the successful offering of shares of the Funds.
- f. No payments to be made by the Funds will constitute indirect financing of distribution by the Funds.
- g. HCMFA benefits from the Plans in that it receives incremental advisory and administration fees on any new assets that the Plans help facilitate in raising. The Board receives reports quarterly with information regarding expenditures under the Plans.

- h. Existing shareholders bear the expense of the shareholder distribution and service fees incurred in connection with the Plans. An example of the Funds' fees under the 12b-1 Plans are as follows along with an explanation of each, the entire listing of all funds and fees by share class can be found in Appendix A of this document:

Highland Healthcare Opportunities Fund

Class A	0.35%
Class C	1.00%

As described above, the Funds' shareholders also benefit from the Plans as increased assets allow the Funds to achieve greater diversification and improved trade execution and may allow the Funds to realize reduced total expense ratios due to economies of scale. The Adviser believes this is in the best interest of all shareholders.

Highland Healthcare Opportunities Fund

	Class A	Class C
Maximum Sales Load Imposed (as a percentage of offering price)	5.50%	0.00%
Maximum Contingent Deferred Sales Charge	1.00%(a)	1.00% (b)
Distribution & Service Fee	0.35%	1.00%

(a) Class A shares bought without an initial sales charge in accounts aggregating $500,000 or more are subject to a 1.00% CDSC if the shares are sold within 18 months from each purchase. The 18-month period begins on the day on which the purchase is made.

(b) The CDSC is 1.00% within the first year after each purchase. There is no CDSC thereafter.

- i. HCMFA believes the Plans have produced the anticipated benefits for the Funds and their shareholders. The Adviser believes the Plans help to minimize redemptions and to make possible increased sales.

In addition, payments under the Plans enable the Funds to offer retail shareholders four options (Class A, Class C, Class H and Class L shares) with respect to the sales financing method that best suits a shareholder's particular circumstances -- namely, whether to choose to pay a front-end sales load or higher ongoing expenses. Class H shares are not yet effective for any of the Funds. Class L shares are only available for NRESF, and have not yet commenced operations

2. Summarize the actual services provided to Fund shareholders by the recipients of Rule 12b-1 plan payments, the value of such services to investors and the extent to which payments under the Rule 12b-1 plans help to defray costs that would otherwise be borne by the Funds. If there are Funds that are closed to new investors that also charge 12b-1 fees, please discuss how this money is used to benefit shareholders.

Response: The actual services provided to each Fund's shareholders include: assisting shareholders in establishing accounts; maintaining Fund shareholders' accounts; transaction processing (e.g., assistance with purchase, redemption and exchange orders); shareholder reporting; monitoring dividend payments from the Funds on behalf of an intermediary's customers; forwarding certain shareholder communications from the Funds to an intermediary's customers; providing advice and education to shareholders; and maintaining sales platforms. We believe that these services are valuable to the Funds' shareholders because they help shareholders to understand and manage their investments. During periods of financial uncertainty, however, these services take on particular importance as shareholders evaluate their investments and consider their exposure to the financial markets. Certain of these services (e.g., recordkeeping and shareholder servicing) provided by intermediaries might otherwise be expenses of a Fund or its shareholders. There are currently no Funds closed to new investors that charge a 12b-1 fee.

3. State the current level of each Fund's payments under its Rule 12b-1 plan and the extent to which related payments by a Fund and its affiliates have exceeded the amounts reimbursable under the Rule 12b-1 plans.

Response: Please see the "12b-1 Summary" report provided with the 15(c) materials.

4. Analyze the profitability of the Distributor under the 12b-1 Plan and, if the Distributor shows a profit under the 12b-1 Plan, discuss why this is appropriate.

Response: The Distributor does not realize a profit under the 12b-1 Plan. All 12b-1 payments are reserved for and used for distribution related expenses. HCMFA incurs excess expenses for distribution above and beyond what is collected from the Funds under the 12b-1 Plan.

Fund Exposure Report

Please see some suggestions and notes below ahead of the summary which is pasted under:

Suggestions:

- Review net exposure of GAF portfolio and tail risks.
- Add portfolio hedges that provide higher convexity downside exposure
- Add idiosyncratic hedges (important to include upside hedges for shorts in this fund) against single name common stock positions, again to offer high convexity downside protection

Footnotes

- (1) Includes the operating results of NexPoint Securities, Inc. the wholly-owned subsidiary of Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, LP.
- (2) Unaudited and non-US GAAP presentation, prepared in conjunction with the quarterly subadvisor profitability analysis intended for Board discussion purposes only. Excludes non-operating items as well as revenues and expenses attributable to Highland's clients that are not registered investment companies. Amounts presented represent management estimates. In particular, fund by fund expense amounts are estimated using various allocation methodologies that are intended to allocate costs reasonably. Furthermore, a material component of the costs of the adviser are in the form of cash bonuses earned over the course of each year, but not awarded until February of the following year. Consequently, for the twelve months ended June 30, 2020, the bonus expense reflected is an amount equal to 50% of the awards for 2019 (awarded February, 2020) and 50% of an estimate of total awards for 2020 (to be awarded in February, 2021). Since these February, 2021 award amounts are not known at this time, this estimate is subject to change materially.
- (3) Management fees reflected are net of any fee waivers and/or reimbursement of fund expenses assumed by the adviser that are above applicable expense caps.
- (4) Investment professionals ("Investment Professionals") are those employees involved in direct investment management activities (portfolio managers, investment research staff, traders, etc.). The amounts presented are comprised primarily of salary, bonuses, other deferred compensation, employee benefits (health insurance, 401k matching, etc.), and employer FICA taxes (social security and medicare). Allocation by fund is pro-rata based upon a fund's average net asset value. Additionally, compensation of such investment professionals who perform advisory services for clients other than the Highland Funds has been prorated to reflect support of the Highland Funds.
- (5) Shared services expenses are those expenses charged by Highland Capital Management, LP for reimbursement of costs incurred on behalf of Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, LP. These expenses include allocations of employee time in support of the platform but not borne by the Highland Funds including, but not limited to the following departments (retail fund accounting, retail operations including trade settlement, tax, valuation corporate accounting, human resources, legal, compliance, public relations, and IT infrastructure). These expenses also include allocations of general office overhead such as rent, parking, phones, office supplies, etc. These expenses have been allocated on a fund by fund basis by average NAV.
- (6) Includes employees OTHER THAN Investment Professionals or direct selling employees (internal/external wholesalers, national accounts personnel, etc.). This group includes the Product Strategy department and certain other administrative and clerical employees. This line item is comprised primarily of salary, bonuses, other deferred compensation, employee benefits (health insurance, 401k matching, etc.), and employer FICA taxes (social security and medicare). Allocation by fund is pro-rata based upon a fund's average net asset value. Additionally, for such employees who perform services for other Highland clients, total compensation has been prorated to reflect support of Highland Funds.

Introduction

FUSE Research Network LLC, has been contracted to provide the following advisory contract renewal 15(c) materials. The report contained herein was specifically designed to provide the Board of Trustees with fee, expense, and performance information to help fulfill their advisory contract renewal responsibilities under Section 15(c) of the Investment Company Act of 1940.

Our goal in preparing this report is to provide a package of fund analysis that is informative and comprehensive, as well as organized and readable for the user. With this objective in mind, we have designed the 15(c) report to include the following sections:

- Executive Summary
  - Advisory Fee, Total Net Expense, and Total Return Summary
- Individual Fund 15(c) Reports
  - Fund Summary
  - Detailed Expense Analysis
  - Total Return Comparison
  - Contractual Fee Comparison

Executive Summary

Advisory Fee, Total Net Expense, and Total Return Summary: The Advisory Fee, Total Net Expense, and Total Return Summary exhibit presents summary-level relative results for each subject fund against its peer group and/or universe. Results are color-coded and designed so that board members can use the exhibit to quickly identify aspects of individual funds that may warrant closer examination.

Individual Fund 15(c) Reports

Fund Summary: The Fund Summary provides a brief description of peer group and universe characteristics. The peer group is a small hand-selected group of “peer funds” and the universe typically consists of a broader set of funds within the same investment classification as the subject fund.

While this can be customized, the Fund Summary expense comparison typically shows Total Net Expense and the Gross and Net Management Fee of the subject fund relative to the peer group and universe.

The Fund Summary performance comparison shows total return data for several time periods versus the subject fund’s universe as well as versus the fund’s primary benchmark.

For index funds, there is also a Fund vs. Index Performance comparison included that looks at tracking error and excess return results versus the index it seeks to track.

Introduction

Detailed Expense Analysis: The Detailed Expense Analysis is designed to provide an in-depth look at the various fee components of the fund relative to its peer group. There are three sections to this page:

1. Total Net Expense Ratio Comparison: This section provides a view of each peer fund's total net operating expense and its major components (Gross Management Fee, Other Operating Expenses, 12b-1 Fees, and any Waivers and/or Reimbursements).
2. Net Management Fee Comparison: This section provides a comparison of each peer fund's Net Management Fee and the components contributing to these results (Gross Advisory Fees, Gross Administrative Fees, and any Waivers and/or Reimbursements.)
3. Other Operating Expense Comparison: This section provides detail on some of the major components being combined into Other Operating Expenses, including Transfer Agency Expenses, Custodian Expenses, and Accounting Expenses.

Total Return Comparison: The Total Return Comparison generally provides return data for 3 month, 1-, 3-, 5-, 10-year, and since inception periods for the subject fund and peers as well as peer group summary data.

- For open-end and variable funds, the table includes a total return calculation for each time period.
- For closed-end funds, performance NAV-based and Market Price total returns are presented. In addition, each fund's leverage percentage and distribution rate are included on this exhibit.
- For index funds, the table includes a total return calculation for each time period and tracking error results for 1-year, 3-year, and 5-year time periods.

Risk/Return Summary: The Risk/Return Summary provides a graphical view of total returns vs. standard deviation for the 1-, 3-, 5-, 10-year periods for the subject fund and peers as well as the benchmark and the peer group and universe averages.

Contractual Fee Comparisons: The Contractual Fee Comparisons analysis has two sections:

Advisory Fee Schedule: This table provides the details of each peer fund's advisory fee contract (basis points charged) and AUM breakpoints associated with each fee level. The Contractual Advisory Fee calculated at a common asset level is also presented in this table.

Hypothetical Gross Management Fee Ratio at Different Asset Levels: This chart provides a view of contractual management fees (advisory + admin) across all funds in the universe calculated at a number of asset levels.

Introduction

Data

Source of Data: Our 15(c) reports are built using data from Morningstar, Inc. We have access to extensive information on a range of registered investments including open-end mutual funds, closed-end funds, and exchange-traded funds.

Actual Expenses: With the exception of Contractual Advisory and Contractual Management Fees, all expense data shown is calculated using audited fiscal data from each fund's most recent annual report. Ratios are calculated based on estimated average net assets except in the case of closed-end funds where certain fees are also calculated based on estimated average managed assets.

Contractual Advisory & Management Fees: Data presented on the Contractual Fee Comparisons pages show effective advisory and management fees calculated using a common asset level and then applying each fund's contractual fee schedule at that asset level. For the Advisory Fee Schedule table each of the peer funds effective advisory fee rate is calculated at the subject fund's average asset level. For closed-end funds, the subject fund's average managed assets are used as the common asset level for the contractual advisory fee calculation for each peer.

Please note that contractual fee calculations may include various and different contractual fee structures, including schedules with asset-tiered breakpoints, flat fee schedules, and schedules that may be based on complex or a particular group of fund's assets. In addition, fulcrum fee schedules (schedules that consist of a base fee plus or minus an additional fee based on a performance incentive) are calculated at the base-fee level with no reward or penalty included in the contractual fee calculations.

Total Expense Ratios: Unless otherwise noted, Total Gross Expense and Total Net Expense are as of each fund's latest available audited annual report. Total Net Expense is presented after any fee waivers or reimbursements, and does not include non-operating or investment-related expenses (e.g. interest expense, auction fees and other costs of leverage, and acquired fund fees and expenses). Our view is that these expenses do not reflect the underlying operating structure of the fund and are instead investment management decisions. For closed-end funds, we consider the costs associated with leverage to be more closely aligned to operating expenses and therefore we present both Total Gross Expense and Total Net Expense with and without any applicable expenses associated with leverage.

Fee Waivers & Expense Reimbursements: Generally, waivers and/or reimbursements are not specifically attributed to a particular expense in annual report filings. In addition, it is typically the fund's advisor that waives a portion of its fee or reimburses the fund for some or all of its operating expenses. In light of these two generalities, FUSE applies any waivers and/or expense reimbursements against each fund's management (advisory + administrative) fee. This can result in negative net management fees. For ranking purposes any negative net management fees are treated equally as zeros.

Performance Data: Morningstar's calculation of total return is determined each month by taking the change in monthly net asset value, reinvesting all income and capital-gains distributions during that month, and dividing by the starting NAV. Reinvestments are made using the actual reinvestment NAV, and daily payoffs are reinvested monthly. There is no adjustment to total returns for sales charges (such as front-end loads, deferred loads and redemption fees). The total returns do account for management, administrative, 12b-1 fees and other costs taken out of fund assets. Total returns for periods longer than one year are expressed in terms of compounded average annual returns (e.g. annualized total returns).

For closed-end funds, total return based on market prices and total return based on NAV are presented. For this, Morningstar calculates the market-price return by taking the change in the fund's market price, reinvesting all income and capital-gains distributions during the period, and dividing by the starting market price.

Since inception performance begins with the first full month following the subject fund's stated inception date. The exception to this is for exchange traded funds where the Fund vs. Index section on each Fund Summary page is based on daily performance and thus begins as of the subject fund's actual inception date.

Contractual vs. Actual Management Fee Variances: In the reports that follow we present contractual and actual management fees. On occasion, there will be discrepancies between contractual and actual management fees. While there are a number of reasons for these discrepancies including changes in fees since the last fiscal year end, performance fees, the use of wholly-owned foreign subsidiaries, leverage, etc., one of the primary reasons for such discrepancies is how actual management fees are calculated.

In most instances, our data provider, Morningstar, uses an estimated average net asset calculation to calculate the actual management fee from the actual management fee dollars reported in the annual report. In general, the estimated average net assets allows for reliable and accurate expense calculations, but there are certain products and situations when this method results in an average net asset calculation that can result in significantly distorted fee and expense calculations (funds with small asset levels are more significantly affected). As such, some actual management fees can vary significantly from what would be expected based on the contractual fee. In such instances, we recommend that more weight and consideration be placed on contractual advisory or management fees for comparison to peer funds. This anomaly does not affect total gross or total net expense ratios and also does not affect contractual advisory or contractual management fee calculations.

Within the detailed fee comparison, FUSE typically includes a column representing "Other Operating Expenses". This figure represents all fees that are not broken out individually in this section, and is calculated by FUSE such that all of the fee components displayed (including Other Expenses) sum to the Audited Gross Expense Ratio of the fund [numbers may not tie due to rounding or due to the exclusion of non-operating or extraordinary expenses].

Introduction

Please note again, due to discrepancies at the actual “Advisor Fee” level, “Other Expenses” gets thrown off by an equivalent amount. For example, in a fund that should have an Advisory fee of 50 bps and no other fees, but where the actual advisory fee calculation is resulting in 51 bps, the results would appear as follows:

Fund	Advisory Fee	Other Expenses	Total Net Expenses
Fund ABC	51	-1	50

Additional sources of Contractual vs. Actual Management Fee Variances can include:

- Different asset levels of the actual fee calculation and the contractual fee calculation (which is performed for all funds at the asset level of the subject fund in question). [Common, generally does not result in extremely wide discrepancies]
- Changes to the contractual fee schedule during or after the FY period being used for the actual fee calculations. [Common, generally does not result in extremely wide discrepancies]
- Funds with composite contractual schedules:
  - Funds/Firms that feature both a fund level schedule and firm level schedule (e.g. Nuveen). [Rare, may result in wide discrepancies]
  - Funds with a base fee and a performance adjustment (e.g. Fidelity). [Rare, may result in wide discrepancies]
- One-off events that effect the calculation of actual advisory fee calculations: [All rare, but may result in wide discrepancies]
  - Funds that change their fiscal year period during the period being looked at may end up showing the results only for the stub period instead of being annualized.
  - Rarely, Morningstar may accidentally pick up the results from a semi-annual report in which case results will reflect only the stub period instead of being annualized.
  - Merger of funds which result in a change to the FY period during the period being looked at may end up showing the results only for the stub period instead of being annualized.
  - Morningstar’s current process does not include the assets of liquidated share classes in its average asset calculation. In cases of liquidated share classes that represent a significant percentage of total portfolio assets, actual advisory fees presented may reflect a number higher than the contractual level.

In all of these cases, any problematic data that is identified is thoroughly researched and corrected.

Incorporation of External Data: There are a number of cases where data provided by the fund management company or unaffiliated administrator may be incorporated into our 15(c) process:

Introduction

Requested by FUSE:

- Data unavailable to us through our relationship with Morningstar. If we do not have access to data needed to produce elements of our reports, we will request them from fund management. A common example of this is index returns for an index that we do not have access to through Morningstar.
- Data to be used for reconciliation efforts. For certain fund families, fees associated with different services (e.g. administrative, TA, accounting, etc.), or certain class-level expenses may be captured by Morningstar in a manner inconsistent with how FUSE and/or fund management believes they should be presented. In these cases FUSE will adjust the underlying data, but will generally require data from management or its unaffiliated administrator that we can use as we reconcile the particular issue.

Requested by Fund Management:

- Pro forma fee & expense data.
- Updated fee & expense data. Depending on the timing of the board meeting relative to the fiscal year end of the subject funds, fee and expense data using the latest available annual report data can feel stale. In some cases, this is unavoidable, but in others we may be able to take updated audited data directly from fund management or its unaffiliated service providers ahead of when it would be available to us directly through Morningstar.
- Non-standard or proprietary data. Fund management may like to incorporate proprietary data (e.g. profitability metrics) or non-standard data (e.g. custom calculated tracking error) into the reports. FUSE is generally able to accommodate these requests provided we have the time to make any necessary adjustments to our templates and/or associated processes.

The use of data provided by fund management or its unaffiliated service providers that affect what is being presented in the reports, or deviates from what we would view to be our standard processes, will be noted in our special methodology notes as well as in footnotes to each individual fund report as applicable.

Peer Group and Universe Methodology

Our ultimate objective in peer group selection is to develop universe comparisons and peer groups that allow for the relevant evaluations and enable directors/trustees to ask informed questions when reviewing and negotiating management fee contracts. This process requires expertise, insight, and flexibility. FUSE's judgement as a third-party expert will be applied throughout the selection process and may take into account input from the board of directors/trustees, fund management, or counsel. Any input from parties other than FUSE will be disclosed in our special methodology notes section.

Introduction

The following is an introduction to FUSE's universe creation process:

Standard Universe Creation Process

Introduction

Our peer group process begins by building a broad range of funds that share similar investment, operational, and pricing characteristics. We refer to this broad group of funds as the comparison universe (universe). Generally, the universe will be the same for our analysis of a subject fund's results on both the fee & expense and performance dimensions.

Once a universe of comparable funds has been identified, the peer group is selected from within this universe based primarily on investment strategy similarity, but selection will also include dimensions of comparable asset levels and diversification of the peer group by advisor. FUSE does not target a specific number of funds when selecting peers and the size of the peer group may vary significantly from fund to fund, but will generally be in a range from 7 – 18 funds. The final size of the peer group will be influenced by a number of factors:

- The number of funds in the universe from which to select peers
- The similarity of a subject fund's investment strategy relative to category (for example selecting a peer group for a micro-cap strategy from within a broader small-cap universe)
- The distribution of universe funds around a subject fund's asset size
- Other unique investment or operational circumstances

Generally, the peer group will be the same for our analysis of a subject fund's results on both the fee & expense and performance dimensions. A representation of our peer selection process follows:

INVESTMENT CHARACTERISTICS

- While the universe from which peers are being selected from will already feature funds with generally similar investment styles, additional considerations are applied to arrive at a peer group that is as highly comparable from an investment strategy perspective as possible. These may include investment strategy descriptions, allocation of assets on appropriate dimensions (i.e., asset class, capitalization, sector, etc.), market benchmark, or other relevant portfolio characteristics.

ASSET SIZE COMPARABILITY

- Portfolio average net assets of the subject fund is used to the extent possible to select a number of peer funds that are larger and smaller than the subject fund.

ADDITIONAL CONSIDERATIONS

- In order to reduce the potential for overweighting a particular fee structure, we will generally only select one fund from an advisor for the peer group.
- Additionally, if multiple share classes of a single fund fall into the same pricing group, only one class will be selected for use in the peer group
- Unique circumstances

Introduction

Depending on overall size of the available universe, and in some cases the nature of a fund's investment strategy relative to its universe, the asset level and one-fund per advisor constraints are relaxed as needed. For instance, size comparability may be relaxed or removed to include a product from an additional advisor into a small peer group, or multiple products from the same advisor may be included to present additional comparable funds for a small peer group.

Pricing Groups:

---

As noted above, in some cases it may be necessary to combine multiple pricing groups to create a large enough group of reviewable funds. Only groups with similar pricing characteristics will be combined. For example, it is common for us to combine Front Load share classes with No Load w/12b-1 classes as they are highly similar in structure, overall fee level metrics, and distribution focus. When pricing groups are combined, we prioritize the primary pricing group share class for inclusion in our universe and peer group in cases where the combination results in multiple classes of a single portfolio being brought into our review.

Other Important Notes on Universe and Peer Group Creation

While the above description describes our standard methodology, it is not uncommon for subject funds to have strategies for which our standard methodology will not create a sufficiently meaningful comparison universe and/or peer group. This is most common in the ETF universe where exposures may be highly or truly unique. In these cases, we will propose the creation of a custom peer group, in some cases this custom peer group will be used for both fee & expense and performance comparisons, and in others we may create a unique custom peer group for fee & expense comparisons as well as a separate peer group for performance comparisons. A summary description of these alternative methodologies is below:

Standard: In the standard peer grouping approach, a broadly inclusive universe is created based on the investment, pricing, and operational characteristics of the subject fund. For FUSE this broad universe creation generally starts using the retail Morningstar Category of the subject fund. However, we will refine this where we feel it is appropriate. Once the universe is created, a smaller subset of peers is chosen based on a more refined view of the subject fund's investment characteristics, as well as comparable asset levels. Relative comparisons for fees and performance are made and presented versus both the universe and peer group.

Unique Strategy: In the unique strategy approach, FUSE has determined that the strategy of the subject fund is too specialized to allow for the construction of a sufficiently similar universe that would be larger than the more refined peer group. In these cases, the peer grouping effort is to identify as many comparable strategies as possible to serve as a peer group. From a technical standpoint the peer group and universe are synonymous in these cases.

Separate Fee and Performance: In some cases, it is deemed impossible to identify any peers under the previous two methodologies and untethering the requirement of offering comparability on both fee & expense, and performance dimensions allows for more flexibility. For these subject funds, two custom peer groups are created; one to offer a fee & expense comparison, and a second distinct peer group for performance comparison purposes. In some cases, there may be some funds that reside in both groups, but in others the two peer groups will be completely distinct. Under this methodology, there is no broader universe comparison at the fee or performance level.

Project Specific Methodology Notes:

Peer & Universe Notes:

- Socially Responsible Equity: Effective July 16, 2019, the Highland Premier Growth Equity Fund changed its name to the Highland Socially Responsible Equity Fund. The peer group for this fund includes ESG and socially responsible funds from within the large growth and large core universe.
- Healthcare Opportunities Fund: Effective 11/20/19, the Highland Long Short Healthcare Fund was renamed the Highland Healthcare Opportunities Fund. The Fund no longer pursues a long/short strategy and has increased its exposure to fixed-income securities of any credit quality. Relative performance results should be reviewed with this context in mind. The peer group and universe for this fund are Health sector funds.
- NexPoint Real Estate Strategies Fund: The peers for this fund are all unlisted closed-end interval funds identified by FUSE as having a real estate strategy.
- Highland/iBoxx Senior Loan ETF: There is only 1 other passive ETF in the Bank Loan category (Invesco Senior Loan ETF [BKLN]). Because of this, the peer group for the Highland/iBoxx Senior Loan ETF includes a number of actively managed peers.
- NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund (NHF): In light of a pending proposal to change the strategy from one invests primarily in debt and equity securities to a diversified real estate investment trust ("REIT") we have added RMR Real Estate Income Fund (RIF) to the peer group, which would closely resemble the proposed new strategy for NHF.

Additional Notes:

- Morningstar shows the inception date for the Merger Arbitrage Fund as 8/19/16 (the day it was converted to an open-end fund. FUSE has updated the inception date manually and the five year and since inception performance for the Merger Arbitrage Fund were taken by FUSE from the Fund's 2Q20 factsheet.

June 19, 2020

We are excited to release our first quarter 2020 Nontraded BDC Industry Review. As a firm that strives to provide independent, valuable, transparent and useful research, we will continue expanding our research and education efforts for the alternative investment community. We thank our subscribers for their support of Blue Vault.

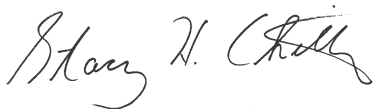

Inside this report, you will find an overview as it relates to BDCs and the investments BDCs make. Additionally, you will find useful capital markets data summarizing capital raising, performance and new issuance of BDCs. Every covered BDC with significant operations has its own page of performance metrics and analysis.

The nontraded BDC industry now has $19.5 billion in assets under management, while raising $186.4 million in the first quarter of 2020. Largely due to the coronavirus pandemic, every nontraded BDC covered in the report posted a negative return in the first quarter of 2020. While uncertainty still exists surrounding the virus, returns are expected to recover somewhat in the second quarter of 2020 and beyond. The average distribution yield for the industry was 6.56%.

The industry has begun to experience some contraction due to several mergers and consolidations. The largest impact has come from FS Investments. The firm merged four of its BDCs in late 2019 and publicly listed their shares on the New York Stock Exchange on June 17.

As always, we appreciate your support and welcome any comments, suggestions or questions on this report. Our goal is that Blue Vault will educate you and help you make informed investment decisions. We are always looking for new ways to improve the reports and add value to our subscribers.

Our Best Regards,

BDC Industry Review: First Quarter 2020

Metric Definitions and Explanations

A Portfolio Details

Includes a summary of the portfolio holdings for the current period as reported on the BDC's balance sheet. Items categorized as investments include debt investments, preferred equity, common equity and other short-term investments. Cash and Cash Equivalents include cash on the balance sheet and other cash-like liquid assets.

This section also includes a current overview of the BDC's investment strategy as it relates to the types of investments it makes, the industries the fund is focused on and the size of companies the fund plans to invest in. Specifics found in this section include the number of portfolio companies and the investment management advisor. Also included is whether the fund employs a Total Return Swap (TRS) and the value of the assets in the TRS.

The initial offering date is defined as the date the BDC was considered "effective" by the SEC and began raising money in its public offering. The number of months effective indicates how long the BDC has been raising capital, while the anticipated close date is the date the BDC anticipates closing the BDC to new investments. The public offering price and reinvestment price per share are based on prices as of the end of the quarter being reported.

B Net Asset Value (NAV) Per Share

The result of the fair value of total assets less total liabilities divided by the total number of shares outstanding. This figure is reported publicly by the BDC at least every quarter.

C Gross Offering Proceeds

Defined as the sales of nontraded BDC shares plus shares purchased through dividend reinvestment plans during the public offering.

D Current Distribution Rate and Historical Distributions

The current distribution rate is calculated based on annualized distributions and the public offering price as of quarter-end. Historical distributions show the actual distributions paid per share in dollars over the past six quarters.

E Sources of Distributions

Note – Comparisons may differ due to some funds using GAAP numbers while others use tax numbers when showing sources of distributions. In funds showing taxable income sources of distributions, unpaid incentive fees and other fees may show as "Other" for sources of distributions.

Net Investment Income – Income earned from investments during the quarter or year less investment and operating expenses. Expense support or the reimbursement of expense support may be subtracted from or added, respectively, to operating expenses. This portion of income is the recurring portion and should represent a majority of distributions.

Capital Gains – Gains or losses from investments that were sold in the quarter or year. Although it is an important component of income to the fund, capital gains can be unpredictable and may not be consistent from quarter to quarter.

BDC Industry Review: First Quarter 2020

Metric Definitions and Explanations

Expense Support/Waivers – Expenses paid for by the advisor, sponsor or affiliated holding company during the quarter or year. Typically, expense support is given at the beginning of the fund's lifecycle and tapers off as the fund begins to make investments and generate income and capital gains. These expenses are typically reimbursed to the sponsor or advisor over time. This number may also include fee waivers by the fund.

F Portfolio Yields

Return on Equity (ROE) – Calculated as the annualized Net Change in Assets from Operations (GAAP earnings measure), a line item that includes net investment income, realized and unrealized gains/losses, divided by average equity year-to-date.

Yield on Equity – Calculated as the annualized total investment income for the quarter divided by average equity for the period.

Yield on Portfolio – Calculated as the annualized total investment income for the quarter divided by the average total dollar amount of investments for the period.

G Portfolio by Asset Type

The percentage of investments in the portfolio allocated by asset class as reported by the fund.

H Portfolio Concentration

The top industry holdings of the fund shown as a percentage of total investments.

I Performance Returns

Fund Total Return – The GAAP reported total return year-to-date. For full year total returns, the number is the annual return. Quarterly and year-to-date returns are not annualized.

S&P/LSTA U.S. Leveraged Loan Index – Capitalization-weighted syndicated loan index based upon market weightings, spreads and interest payments. The index seeks to mirror the market-weighted performance of the largest institutional leveraged loans. This index can be used to compare floating rate debt performance.

Bank of America Merrill Lynch High Yield Index – A commonly used benchmark index for high yield corporate bonds. It is administered by Merrill Lynch. The index is a measure of the broad high yield market, unlike the Merrill Lynch BB/B Index, which excludes lower-rated securities. This index can be used to compare fixed rate/high yield debt performance.

J Floating and Fixed Rate Investments

Calculated as the total dollar amount of floating rate debt investments divided by the total dollar amount of all debt investments. The same calculation is done for fixed rate debt investments. Generally, for debt investors, fixed rate debt is preferred during times of falling interest rates and floating rate debt is preferred during times of rising interest rates. This section does not cover equity and other securities.

Floating Rate Debt – Debt that has a variable rate changes based on changes in key interest rate indicators such as LIBOR, Fed Funds rate, Prime rate, Treasury yields, etc. Many times, the debt will be quoted as the indicator plus a spread amount. An example would be LIBOR + 250, which means the current LIBOR rate plus 2.50% is the current interest rate. Additionally, many floating rate loans have a floor, which indicates the lowest possible interest rate.

BDC Industry Review: First Quarter 2020

Metric Definitions and Explanations

Fixed Rate Debt – Debt that has a fixed interest rate for a set period of time.

K Key Statistics

Fund Operating Expense Ratio (Gross) – Calculated as the annualized year-to-date total operating expenses (less interest expense) divided by average equity for the period. This ratio measures operational efficiency and the impact of management fees and administrative expenses on the fund. This ratio does not take into account any expense support or fee waivers provided by the sponsor.

Fund Operating Expense Ratio (Net) – Calculated in the same way as the Gross ratio but takes into account expense support and fee waivers by the sponsor. As a result, it is calculated as the annualized year-to-date net operating expenses (excluding interest expense) divided by average equity for the period.

Interest Coverage Ratio – Calculated as the sum of net investment income, realized capital gains and interest expense divided by total interest expense. This measures the ability of the fund to pay ongoing interest expenses from operations. This is a year-to-date metric that is not annualized.

Weighted Average Interest Rate – Calculated as the annualized current period interest expense divided by average borrowings for the period. This measure does not precisely evaluate the go-forward interest rate the fund pays, as new borrowings may not be reflected in interest payments for a given period. If the fund provides this number in their financial statements, we use the figure provided by the fund.

Leverage Ratio – Calculated as the total borrowings divided by total assets. This number also includes off-balance sheet net TRS borrowings (TRS notional value minus cash collateral divided by TRS notional value).

Taxable Income Payout Ratio – Calculated as the year-to-date total distributions divided by estimated year-to-date net taxable income. Net taxable income includes net investment income and realized capital gains. This metric is designed to determine how much of the distribution is derived from taxable income. Beyond the beginning stages of the fund, the ratio should be below or close to 100%.

GAAP Earnings Payout Ratio – Calculated as the year-to-date total distributions divided by the year-to-date net change in net assets. This metric is designed to determine how much of the distribution is derived from the net change in assets, or GAAP-related earnings. Beyond the beginning stages of the fund, the ratio should be below or close to 100%.

Waivers as % of Distributions – Calculated as the year-to-date total expense support divided by the year-to-date distributions. This measures the percentage of distributions being funded through fee waivers and expense support.

The History of Business Development Companies (BDCs)

A business development company (BDC) is an SEC-registered investment company that invests in primarily private U.S.-based businesses. This type of company was created by Congress in 1980 as amendments to the Investment Company Act of 1940. BDCs are typically taxed as regulated investment companies (RICs). Similar to REITs, BDCs are required to distribute at least 90% of taxable income as dividends to investors, and the company itself has to pay little or no corporate income tax.

Although the regulation for BDCs was passed in 1980, the creation of these companies did not come until the late 1990s and early 2000s. Furthermore, they did not begin to gain popularity until Apollo Investment Corporation raised $930 million in a period of three months in 2004. This ignited a stream of BDC IPOs over the following years. Still the BDC industry remains relatively small when compared to mutual funds, REITs and other investments. Total BDC assets in the traded and nontraded segments are estimated to be close to $60 billion.

Investments of BDCs

BDCs primarily invest in private companies. They are required to invest 70% or more of their assets in U.S.-based private companies. This is an investment type that was previously limited to institutional and wealthy individuals through private equity and private debt funds. Retail investors now have access to private equity and debt investments through these SEC reporting funds.

Many times, BDCs will invest in smaller or medium sized businesses. BDCs may be diversified in the industries they invest in or have a specific industry specialization (i.e., energy, technology, healthcare). Additionally, they may focus on equity investments in companies, debt investments in companies or a hybrid of the two. BDCs utilize management teams and advisors to underwrite investments and make loans or equity investments into companies. So far, nontraded BDCs have primarily been focused on the debt side of businesses.

Additionally, BDCs are required to offer operational or management assistance to the companies in which they invest. This provides a layer of support not previously available to the companies. Many times, the managers of BDCs are very experienced at improving companies' operations and profitability.

Traded and Nontraded BDCs

Historically, BDCs have been traded on public exchanges. Mirroring what happened about a decade ago in the REIT industry, nontraded BDCs have been available over the past few years. The first nontraded BDC, FS Investment Corporation, became effective in January 2009. Another nontraded BDC did not become effective until 2011 with Corporate Capital Trust.

There are a few reasons that the nontraded structure has come about. One reason is that it allows the BDC to raise capital continuously. There are two parts to this. It allows the BDC to have access to capital across economic cycles rather than only when the capital markets are up. Also, the continuous capital raise allows time for underwriting and investing in assets, rather than having to deploy a very large amount of capital immediately. Another reason is that the liquidity restrictions allow the BDC to be long-term focused. Additionally, the value of the investor's investment is based on the Net Asset Value (NAV) of the asset and is not subject to the same volatility and pricing as the stock market. However, these investments are not for all investors. They cannot be bought and sold on the public markets and have limited liquidity provisions. Typically, the investor will have to wait five to ten years until a "liquidity event" takes place.

External and Internal Management

Similar to REITs, BDCs can be externally or internally managed. External management is a structure where an advisor makes investments and manages the portfolio for the BDC. The BDC itself has no employees. Instead, the BDC pays a management fee to the advisor. Internal management means that the BDC has employees and overhead that are normal operating expenses to the BDC. However, most BDCs, both traded and nontraded, are externally managed. The reason is that many BDCs are advised or sub-advised by experienced private equity or investment management companies. This allows those investment companies to use resources from across their organization to underwrite, manage and handle the administration of the BDC.

BDC Industry Review: First Quarter 2020

BDC Capital Raise By Quarter (in $Millions)
(as of March 31, 2020)

This is not much of a surprise with low capital raise in all public nontraded industries due to regulatory changes and BDCs closing their public offerings. However, we may see increased capital raise later in 2020 as fund fee structures continue to adjust and approved legislation is put into action, particularly as it relates to their ability to increase leverage. Potential tightening in lending policies from commercial banks may also present an opportunity for the industry.

Returns Down Significantly in 1Q20

Each nontraded BDC covered in this report posted a negative return in the first quarter of 2020. The poor returns can be largely attributed to the coronavirus pandemic that began to impact the United States in the first quarter. The uncertainty surrounding the pandemic put the repayment of some of the investments into doubt, driving down the fair value of the investments, resulting in negative returns. Barring a second wave of the virus, returns are expected to bounce back in the second quarter of 2020 and beyond. However, BDCs are expected to experience some level of defaults and continued uncertainty as to whether some of their portfolio companies are able to survive.

For the three-month period ending March 31, 2020, the S&P/LSTA Leveraged Loan Index posted a return of -9.88%, and the BofA Merrill Lynch High Yield Index posted a -13.12% return.

Index Total Returns - Q1 2020

FS Investments BDC Merger

On May 31, 2019, FS Investment Corporation II ("FSIC II"), FS Investment Corporation III ("FSIC III"), FS Investment Corporation IV ("FSIC IV"), and Corporate Capital Trust II ("CCTII"), four non-traded BDCs advised by FS/KKR Advisor, LLC, entered into definitive agreements to merge. FSIC II would be the surviving entity with the expectation to be listed on the New York Stock Exchange. The combined company is expected to become the second largest BDC with approximately $9 billion in assets under management.

On December 18, 2019, FSIC II completed the merger and acquisitions of FSIC III, FSIC IV, and CCTII. In connection with the merger, each outstanding share of FSIC III common stock was converted into 0.9804 shares of FSIC II common stock, each outstanding share of FSIC IV common stock was converted into 1.3634 shares of FSIC II common stock, and each outstanding share of CCTII common stock was converted into 1.1319 shares of FSIC II common stock. These ratios were determined based on the closing net asset value per share of each BDC as of December 16, 2019. After the closing of the merger, FS Investment Corporation II was renamed to FS KKR Capital Corp. II ("FSKR").

On June 10, 2020, FSKR effected a 4:1 reverse split of its shares of common stock. As a result, every four shares of FSKR common stock issued and outstanding were automatically combined into one share of FSKR common stock, and the number of outstanding shares was reduced from approximately 691.2 million to approximately 172.9 million.

On June 17, 2020, FSKR began trading on the New York Stock Exchange under the ticker symbol "FSKR." The Company's share price opened at $13.75, reaching a high of $14.60, before closing at $14.30 per share. During its initial three days of trading from June 17 through June 19, the share price has a range of $12.61-$14.60, closing at $13.70 on June 19, 2020.

Since the merger on December 19, 2018 and through June 19, 2020, while taking into consideration the 4:1 reverse stock split, the stock has a range of $7.60-$25.56, closing at $14.05 June 19, 2020.

Griffin Capital BDC Corp. Transition

On September 29, 2017, Griffin Capital BDC Corp. ("Griffin BDC") transferred all of its assets to Griffin Institutional Access Credit Fund ("Griffin IF"), a non-diversified, closed-end management investment company that is operated as an interval fund, in exchange for Class F shares of Griffin IF. Griffin IF assumed all of the liabilities of Griffin BDC. As a result of this reorganization, all of Griffin BDC's shareholders are now shareholders of Griffin IF. Griffin BDC has cancelled all its authorized shares and is now dissolved. Prior to this reorganization, Griffin BDC reported total assets of approximately $41.0 million with gross offering proceeds totaling approximately $44.8 million, both as of June 30, 2017.

The index was down 27.93% year-to-date through June 19, 2020 with the sizable decline largely due to the coronavirus pandemic.

“Retail investor” means any person other than an institutional investor regardless of whether the person has an account with a member.

Standards

By FINRA Rule, there are certain content standards applicable to all communications with the public, as follows:

- All member communications must be based on principles of fair dealing and good faith, must be fair and balanced, and must provide a sound basis for evaluating the facts in regard to any particular security or type of security, industry, or service. No member may omit any material fact or qualification if the omission, in light of the context of the material presented, would cause the communications to be misleading.
- No member may make any false, exaggerated, unwarranted, promissory or misleading statement or claim in any communication. No member may publish, circulate or distribute any communication that the member knows or has reason to know contains any untrue statement of a material fact or is otherwise false or misleading.
- Information may be placed in a legend or footnote only in the event that such placement would not inhibit an investor's understanding of the communication.
- Members must ensure that statements are clear and not misleading within the context in which they are made, and that they provide balanced treatment of risks and potential benefits. Communications must be consistent with the risks of fluctuating prices and the uncertainty of dividends, rates of return and yield inherent to investments.
- Members must consider the nature of the audience to which the communication will be directed and must provide details and explanations appropriate to the audience.
- Communications may not predict or project performance, imply that past performance will recur or make any exaggerated or unwarranted claim, opinion or forecast; provided, however, that this paragraph (d)(1)(F) does not prohibit:

A hypothetical illustration of mathematical principles, provided that it does not predict or project the performance of an investment or investment strategy

An investment analysis tool, or a written report produced by an investment analysis tool, that meets the requirements of Rule 2214; and

A price target contained in a research report on debt or equity securities, provided that the price target has a reasonable basis, the report discloses the valuation methods used to determine the price target, and the price target is accompanied by disclosure concerning the risks that may impede achievement of the price target.

Testimonials

Communications providing any testimonial concerning the investment advice or investment performance of the Company or its products must prominently disclose the following:

- The fact that the testimonial may not be representative of the experience of other customers.

- The fact that the testimonial is no guarantee of future performance or success.
- If more than a nominal sum is paid, the fact that it is a paid testimonial.

Any comparison in between investments or services must disclose all material differences between them, including (as applicable) investment objectives, costs and expenses, liquidity, safety, guarantees or insurance, fluctuation of principal or return, and tax features. In addition, all communications (except so-called “blind” advertisements used to recruit personnel) must:

- Prominently disclose the name of the Company and may also include a fictional name by which the Company is commonly recognized or which is required by any state or jurisdiction;
- Reflect any relationship between the Company and any non-member or individual who is also named, e.g., any reference to Highland Capital Management, L.P., NexBank, SSB, or any other affiliate of the Company must disclose that those entities and the Company are under common control; and
- If it includes other names, reflect which products or services the Company is offering.

Institutional Communications and Correspondence Only

All institutional communications and correspondence are subject to the content standards of FINRA Rule 2210(d)(1) and the applicable Interpretive Materials under Rule 2210. All correspondence (which includes business cards and letterhead) must:

- Prominently disclose the name of the Company and may also include a fictional name by which the Company is commonly recognized or which is required by any state or jurisdiction.
- Reflect any relationship between the Company and any non-member or individual who is also named, e.g., any reference to Highland Capital Management, L.P., NexBank, SSB, or any other affiliate of the Company must disclose that those entities and the Company are under common control; and
- If it includes other names, reflect which products or services the Company is offering.

Guidelines

The Company must ensure that all communications with the public, including material that has been filed with FINRA, are not misleading. In order to meet this responsibility, all communications with the public must conform to the guidelines detailed above. These guidelines do not represent an exclusive list of considerations that a principal must make in determining whether a communication with the public by a person subject to his/her supervision complies with all applicable standards.

The Supervising Principal must ensure that statements are not misleading within the context in which they are made. A statement made in one context may be misleading even though such a statement could be appropriate in another context. An essential test in this regard is the balanced treatment of risks and potential benefits. Communications should, whenever appropriate, note the risks of fluctuating prices and the uncertainty of dividends, rates of return, and yields inherent to investments.

The Supervising Principal should consider the nature of the audience to which the communication will be directed. Different levels of explanation or detail may be necessary depending on the audience to which a communication is directed. The Supervising Principal must keep in mind that it is not always possible to restrict the audience that may have access to a particular communication with the public. Additional information or a different presentation of information may be required depending upon the medium used for a particular communication and the possibility that the communication will reach a larger or different audience than the one initially targeted. The Supervising Principal should ensure that all communications are clear. A statement made in an unclear manner can cause a misunderstanding. A complex or overly technical explanation may be more confusing than too little information.

Income or investment returns may not be characterized as tax-free or exempt from income tax when tax liability is merely postponed or deferred, such as when taxes are payable upon redemption. In the case of advertisements and sales literature, references to tax-free or tax-exempt income must indicate which income taxes apply, or which do not, unless income is free from all applicable taxes. For example, if income from an investment company investing in municipal bonds is subject to state or local income taxes, this fact must be stated, or the illustration must otherwise make it clear that income is free only from federal income tax.

If the Company chooses to send material to its registered representatives for internal use only, the material will be conspicuously marked "For Internal Use Only." Employees must not distribute or show such material to the public.

Limitations on Use of FINRA's Name

The Company may indicate FINRA membership in conformity with FINRA By-Laws in any communication with the public, provided that the communication complies with the applicable standards of FINRA Rule 2210 and neither states nor implies that FINRA or any other regulatory organization endorses, indemnifies, or guarantees the member's business practices, selling methods, the class or type of securities offered, or any specific security.

The Company will be entitled to display an appropriate certification of FINRA membership in its principal office or a registered branch office.

Review and Approval

All retail communications with the public concerning the securities business of the Company will be reviewed and approved by the Supervising Principal and/or CCO prior to use or distribution (or filing with FINRA's Advertising Regulation Department). Evidence of review and approval of all such communications will be indicated via the relevant Supervising Principal approving the document in AdMaster, the firm's marketing approval program.

For institutional communications, the CCO or appropriate designee will review and approve all institutional marketing documents generally following the procedure noted above. In instances where the document is not uploaded to AdMaster, an electronic log may be maintained that indicates the name of the piece, date of approval and the initials of the approving principal.

The Company utilizes Smarsh's Compliance program to capture and maintain electronic communications/emails. Samples of email correspondence which is flagged for compliance review, incoming and outgoing, are to be reviewed on an ongoing basis by the Supervising Principal by logging into the Symantec Compliance Accelerator and reviewing the flagged emails.

All electronic communications (including interoffice or other internal memoranda and communications) which relate to the Company's securities business will be maintained in an electronically retrievable format for three years, the first two years in a readily accessible place.

Maintenance of Records

The Company will maintain all communications with the public in separate, designated files for a period of three years from the date of receipt, distribution, or last use, with the most recent two years in a readily accessible place. The records within the file will include the name of the person who prepared each item, and in the case of advertising, sales literature and independently prepared reprints, the name of the principal who approved each item and the date that approval was given. The Company will also maintain, in the same file, information concerning the source of any statistical table, chart, graph or other illustration used by the Company in communications with the public.

Certain types of advertising and sales literature require filing with, and approval by, FINRA due to their risk content and variation of principal returns, such as literature concerning registered investment companies. The name and title of the Supervising Principal who approved the sales literature and the date that the approval was given must be noted on the filing.

Each registered representative should consult his/her Supervising Principal on all other retail communications before use.

Retail Communications that are excluded from filing requirements include those that:

- Previously have been filed and are to be used without material change.
- Are related to recruitment or changes in the Company's name, personnel, electronic or postal address, ownership, offices, business structure, officers or partners, telephone or teletype numbers, or concern a merger with, or acquisition by, another member.

- Are prepared in accordance with Section 2(10)(b) of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, or any rule thereunder, such as SEC Rule 134, and announcements as a matter of record that a member has participated in a private placement, unless the advertisement is related to direct participation programs or securities issued by registered investment companies.

The Supervising Principal must pre-approve in writing each retail communication, and evidence his/her approval by dating and initialing a copy of the item or maintaining an electronic log. The initialed copy should be included in the correspondence file maintained by the Supervising Principal for all communications. If an electronic log is maintained, the corresponding file should be maintained electronically. The file is subject to FINRA rules regarding communications with the public.

Instant Messaging

The use of Instant Messaging, including text messages, is not approved for use by Company employees.

Speaking Engagements

Speaking engagements must be pre-approved by the registered representative's Supervising Principal and the CCO. Speakers must have an outline of what will be discussed. The Supervising Principal must also pre-approve the outline and any agenda, script, PowerPoint or other materials the registered representative wishes to use, prior to use or filing with FINRA. Evidence of approval includes: (1) the name of the person providing the speaking engagement, (2) the supervisor's initials, and (3) the date of review on a copy of the materials to be used. Attendees must fill out an attendance sheet.

SIPC

The Securities Investor Protection Corporation (SIPC) is a general fund used to protect customer funds and securities up to $500,000 per account ($250,000 for claims of cash). The Company will display in its offices that it is a member of SIPC. In addition, in all applicable advertising the Company will be identified as "Member SIPC."

If the Company wishes to explain what SIPC is, it must use one of the following two standardized phrases:

- "Member of SIPC, which protects securities customers of its members up to $500,000 (including $250,000 for claims for cash). Explanatory brochure available upon request or at www.sipc.org."
- "Member of SIPC. Securities in your account protected up to $500,000. For details, please see www.sipc.org."

In both cases, the words "Member of SIPC" may be omitted if the official explanatory statement is used in conjunction with the official SIPC symbol.

Social Media Policy – (Social Networking Sites, Internet Chat Rooms, Bulletin Boards and Blogs)

FINRA requires that all business related communications with the public to be supervised and archived by firms. The required timing of the review and approval depends on the type of forum. As a general policy the Company prohibits the use of any social networking site, such as LinkedIn, Facebook and Twitter, to communicate with clients or prospects, however social media for business purposes may only be used in limited circumstances with express advance Compliance approval:

You should not post any business related profiles or other business/investment related information on social media or otherwise on the internet without such approval. You are permitted to have a LinkedIn profile that lists your current position and duties with NexPoint. However, please be aware that FINRA considers any profile, background or wall information to be static content and are “advertisements” under Rule 2210. All LinkedIn profiles and any subsequent updates must be sent to the CCO for review and approval.

All other forms of communications with clients outside of approved company email accounts and on approved devices is strictly prohibited without the approval of the CCO.

EXHIBIT 18

000906

TO: Board of Trustees or Board of Directors (as the case may be) (collectively, the "Board") of Highland Funds I, Highland Funds II, Highland Income Fund, Highland Global Allocation Fund, NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund, NexPoint Real Estate Strategies Fund and NexPoint Capital, Inc.

FROM: Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P., NexPoint Advisors, L.P. and NexPoint Securities, Inc.

RE: 15(c) Information Request

DATE: September 17-18, 2020

Pursuant to your supplemental request dated September 3, 2020, Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. ("HCMFA"), NexPoint Advisors, L.P. ("NexPoint", and with HCMFA, each, an "Adviser", and together, the "Advisers") and NexPoint Securities, Inc. ("NSI" the "Distributor") submit the following supplemental information to the Board in order to assist the Board in fulfilling its obligations under Section 15(c) of the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the "1940 Act"), and to assist in the Board's consideration of the investment advisory, and other contractual arrangements, for the funds listed on Appendix A (each, a "Fund" and, collectively, the "Funds"). References to the 2020 15(c) Response dated August 13, 2020 are referred to as the "2020 15(c) Response".

Your requests have been noted below, each of which is followed by our response. Unless otherwise specified, reference documents are located on Director's Desk at the following location: Home > Documents > Corporate Documents > 15c Reference Documents.

A. Nature, Extent and Quality of Services

1. The Trustees note the discussion of the status of the Capital Conflicts Committee (the "Committee"), including the proposed new disclosure for the Funds' registration statements that indicates that the Committee is no longer being convened and that decisions with respect to HCMLP's institutional clients are made by an independent board, and as has traditionally been the case, decisions with respect to the Funds are made separately and independently by the Funds' portfolio managers. Has the Committee been disbanded? If so, please address how these matters are now being handled across various strategies and entities in terms of both identifying and addressing potential conflicts.

Response: As a result of the Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("HCMLP") bankruptcy, there are now separate decision makers for retail accounts (i.e., the Funds) and institutional (HCMLP-advised) accounts. Accordingly, there is no longer a need to convene the Committee and it has been disbanded. The respective retail portfolio manager (even if an employee of HCMLP) has always separately and independently made determinations for their Fund, with such determinations being made in the Fund's best interest. To the extent a future conflict arises amongst the Funds, the portfolio manager will consult with Legal and Compliance and have the ability to consult external counsel, if necessary.

2. The Trustees note the recent discussions with respect to the Omnimax term loans and the approach for dealing with that conflict as put forth by the Adviser, including the use of non-HCMLP employees. The Trustees note their previous request for a follow-up discussion of this matter with management and look forward to discussing at the upcoming meeting.

Response: Representatives from HCMLP and the Advisers will discuss this request at the September 17-18 meeting (the "Meeting").

3. Please discuss in detail the Advisers and HCMLP's plans to address shared services going forward in the event of any future conflicts in connection with the HCMLP bankruptcy or any other potential matters, including with respect to the Advisers' legal, compliance and accounting oversight functions, as well as other HCMLP employees that provide services to the Funds. In addition, are there currently other potential conflicts that the Advisers are aware of that may impact the Funds? Please discuss the plan to ensure that the Funds continue to receive the same nature, level and quality of services from the Advisers and their affiliates as received under the shared services agreements. In this regard, the Independent Trustees respectfully request that Jim Seery provide an update at the September 2020 meeting in connection with his report to the Trustees at the recent telephonic Board meeting.

Response: The Advisers and HCMLP believe the current shared services being provided are generally consistent with the level of service that has historically been received. However, conflicts have arisen with respect to certain matters in respect of which management of the Advisers has taken a position that conflicts with or is otherwise believed by HCMLP to be contrary to the interests of HCMLP and/or its advised accounts. To date these matters have included OmniMax, UDFI, and any matters adverse to counterparties in which HCMLP is seeking resolution in the bankruptcy process.

To the extent these conflicts continue or arise in the future, the Advisers believe transactions can be staffed under alternative means (similar to the approach undertaken for the Omnimax investment). The Advisers do not expect the continued provision of shared services to be threatened unless a termination of the shared service agreements is proposed to the bankruptcy court, and in the event any such proposal, the Advisers would immediately update the Board to determine the most appropriate manner to ensure adequate services to the Funds.

Mr. Seery will be available to discuss these matters at the Meeting.

4. The Trustees request an update on the HCMLP bankruptcy proceedings at the September 2020 meeting.

Response: The Adviser confirms that Mr. Dondero and Mr. Ellington will provide an update on the HCMLP bankruptcy at the Meeting.

5. The Trustees note the response to question A.5 regarding representatives of the Advisers being available at Meeting to discuss the Succession Plan and look forward to this presentation.

Response: The Adviser will provide an update on the Succession Plan at a later date.

6. Please provide an update on the status of (i) the Payroll Protection Program (“PPP”) loans received by the Advisers and their affiliates, including any plans with respect to forgiveness of such loans; (ii) the application for participation in the SBA’s Economic Injury Loan Disaster EILD Program; and (iii) any other federal, state, or local economic disaster assistance programs to which the Advisers and their affiliates applied. In addition, do the Advisers anticipate participation in the “Main Street” lending program or additional programs that might be offered by the U.S. Government, and if so, for what purposes?

Response: The Advisers have fully utilized all PPP funds and anticipate full forgiveness of the loans for all participating Advisers. The lending bank is working through its forgiveness application process, as there are still changes to the process being made by Congress. The Advisers did not participate in the EILD Program, but HCMFA does have plans to participate in the Main Street lending program later this year, subject to lender approval. Any Main Street loan would be used to fund employee payroll expenses and additionally may be used in part to refinance existing indebtedness.

7. Please discuss the reasons for the portfolio turnover rates for the Merger Arbitrage Fund, Socially Responsible Equity Fund and SNLN relative to anticipated turnover needed to execute each Fund’s strategy.

Response: The Highland Merger Arbitrage Fund’s portfolio turnover rate is high since the Fund frequently rotates through deals, which typically only last 3-4 months on average. The Highland Socially Responsible Equity Fund’s higher than average portfolio turnover rate was the result of the Fund’s strategy change that went effective in July 2019. SNLN’s portfolio rate was slightly above its historical average due to increased capital activity.

B. Profitability

1. With respect to the Estimated Adviser Profitability chart (Item A.2.a in the Board book), is the "Shared Services" line the only expenses attributable to HCMLP? Has any work been done or consideration been given to the solicitation of a third party bid on performing these services or bringing them in house to HCMFA?

Response: Shared services, along with a portion of the investment professional compensation & benefits lines, are the only allocations attributable to HCMLP employees' support of the Advisers. HCMFA does not have the resources to bring these services in-house at this time, but given that HCMLP staffing levels for the provision of the shared services have remained fairly consistent and HCMLP remains capable of providing such shared services on economically reasonable terms, outsourced third-party bids have not been solicited at this time.

The Adviser believes HCMLP-provided services have continued to meet expectations other than in limited circumstances where a conflict of interest between an HCMLP-advised account and a Fund(s) has occurred. Please refer to the response in A.3 for additional discussion of these services.

2. As requested in the 15(c) letter, please also provide the profitability of the Advisers and their affiliates from their relationship with the Funds on an overall complex-wide basis. Please also compare profitability over the past two years and explain any material increase or decrease.

Response: The Advisers' profitability for the previous year has been added to the 15(c) materials. HCMFA's profitability with respect to the Funds increased from -32% of gross revenue in prior year to 1% of gross revenue in the current year. The material increase was primarily attributable to one-time items such as the payment of consent fees with respect to the conversion of Highland Global Allocation Fund as well as NAV error reimbursements in prior year, which were not incurred in the current year.

NexPoint's profitability with respect to the Funds increased from 3% of gross revenue to 30% of gross revenue. This increase is generally attributable to higher fee earning assets contributing to higher revenues.

On a complex-wide basis, other affiliated advisers have similar overall operating revenue and expense structures, with the exclusion of Chapter 11 related expenses incurred by HCMLP. Comparing profitability to the overall complex, the Advisers are similarly profitable to other affiliated advisers within the complex with respect to ordinary course services performed for advised funds.

3. The respective balance sheets for each of the Advisers reflect net operating losses. The Trustees also note that NexPoint Advisors had a larger operating loss than HCMFA. Please discuss the financial wherewithal of the Advisers and commitment to resources going forward. The Trustees note the response to question C.3. regarding front office headcount reductions and look forward to Joe Sowin's update with respect to the same.

Response: Both Advisers experienced a decrease in assets under management ("AUM") due to the COVID-19 pandemic during the months of April, May and June 2020, which caused a temporary decrease in revenues. AUM is expected to recover over the coming months as the economy begins to recover from widespread shutdowns and the Distributor's sales team anticipates continued growth and increasing fee earning AUM. Both Advisers are financially guaranteed by Jim Dondero.

The financials provided for NexPoint are on a stand-alone basis and therefore do not show revenues collected at the subsidiary level (i.e. a consolidated complex-wide level). However, NexPoint is incurring expenses at the stand-alone level that should be viewed as complex-wide expenses. When revenues from wholly owned subsidiaries are included, NexPoint operates with positive net operating cash flow and income.

C. Fund Performance and Asset Flows

1. Please discuss the factors that contributed to all of the Funds (with the exception of Merger Arbitrage Fund) underperforming relative to their respective peer groups as contained in the FUSE report for the one-year period.

Response: Adviser representatives, including Joe Sowin, CIO, will be available to discuss performance at the meeting. To clarify, the Highland Income Fund and the Merger Arbitrage Fund outperformed their peers (please refer to the FUSE Report).

A summary of performance factors was discussed in response to question B-14 of the 2020 15(c) Response. The following information has been provided to supplement B-14 and provide additional color for performance of the Funds over the one-year period.

Highland Global Allocation Fund

- Over the last year many, of the Fund's top themes have detracted from performance. MLPs were a 29% allocation in June 2019 and were down 41.5% over the past year. Argentina was a large detractor given the surprising news of the elections and the new leftist regime taking office. Vistra Energy, which has historically been one the Fund's largest holdings, was down 15.5% over the previous year.

Highland Healthcare Opportunities Fund

- The Fund was structured as a Long/Short fund until November 2019, while its peer group solely includes long-only Funds. The largest underperformers in the Fund included Amino, Portola Pharmaceuticals and Amarin Corporation.

Highland Income Fund

- Over the last year, the Fund outperformed its FUSE peer group. The Fund was down 6.96% while its Peer Group was down 8.23% on average. The Fund benefitted from its defensive posture as the hedge book was able to offset losses during the market turbulence in Q1 2020. Other top contributors included CCS Medical and Creek Pine Holdings.

Highland Small Cap Equity Fund

- Underperformance was primarily driven by investments in Greek banks, which declined in value by over 50%. The Fund also has exposure to two single names shorts in Zoom Video and Coupa Software, which increased by 54% and 62%, respectively, which contributed to the Funds' underperformance. The short positions constituted 15% of the Fund's performance.

Highland Socially Responsible Equity Fund

- Underperformance has been driven by sector selection, security selection, hedging and market timing. A detailed analysis of performance has been provided by Mike Hurley at each of the past three Board meetings.

Highland/iBoxx Senior Loan ETF

- Due to significant redemptions, the Fund has built a sizable cash balance which has been a drag on performance.

NexPoint Capital, Inc.

- Underperformance was primarily driven by investments in publicly traded vehicles, such as hospitality REITs Braemar Hotels and Resorts and NexPoint Real Estate Finance, Inc. ("NREF"). The underperformance primarily occurred in March 2020 as the Fund's publicly priced securities experienced significantly more volatility than other non-traded BDCs with less exposure to daily marked securities.

NexPoint Real Estate Strategies Fund

- Underperformance was primarily driven by investments in publicly traded vehicles, such as hospitality REITs Braemar Hotels and Resorts, Ashford Hospitality and NREF. The Fund maintains a significantly higher exposure to publicly traded REITs than its peers and such REITs experienced a significant drawdown during Q1 2020.

NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund

- NexPoint Hospitality Trust is one of the Fund's largest detractors as the leisure and hospitality sectors has been one of the hardest hit sectors during the COVID-19 pandemic. NREF was also a large detractor as it traded down to a low of $6.34 per share after listing at $19 per share in February 2020. The Fund saw weakness in CLO equity, as well as underperformance in other themes including Argentina, energy and significant drawdowns in some of the Fund's largest healthcare equity holdings.

2. The Trustees note the high expenses and poor performance of the Small-Cap Equity Fund and Socially Responsible Fund relative to their respective peers as included in the FUSE report. Please discuss the Advisers' plans with respect to each of these Funds.

Response: Please refer to the separate memo to the Board discussing a strategic change to the Highland Socially Responsible Equity Fund. Representatives from the Adviser will discuss this proposal further at the Board meeting

Regarding the Highland Small Cap Equity Fund, the Adviser intends to continue managing the Fund pursuant to its current strategy, but is closely monitoring performance and AUM and will keep the Board updated each meeting if a change in strategy, merger, or liquidation is merited. The Fund's recent performance is disappointing; however the portfolio manager and his team are working to recover recent losses associated with the COVID-19 pandemic. Prior to the pandemic, the Fund was one of the top-performing small cap funds in the market and a 5-star fund. However, the Fund's positioning leading into and during the pandemic was not optimal for these unprecedented circumstances. The Fund had leverage, was long on value and short on growth, and had an allocation to foreign financial firms. In addition, as noted above, the Fund also had exposure to two single names shorts in Zoom Video and Coupa Software, which increased by 54% and 62%, respectively, and which contributed to the Fund's relative underperformance. All of these themes moved against the Fund and have not yet rebounded like many other parts of the market.

3. Please discuss the increase in the bid ask spread and tracking error of SNLN, as well as the ETF's performance relative to its peer group as included in the FUSE report. Please also provide the ETF's tracking error relative to the iBoxx liquid loans index, if feasible. Also, please provide a single tracking error number.

Response: The loan market experienced increased volatility during 2020, which led to an increased bid/ask spread. SNLN also experienced material shifts in capital activity throughout the year (over $750 million in inflows and outflows). Given the increased settlement time for bank loans, the Fund requires an operational cash buffer to ensure settlement of bank loans and meet redemptions. The material decrease in NAV together with volatile capital activity required a consistent cash buffer. Note the market volatility and capital activity widens the tracking error as bank loans do not trade at the mid-price and also incur additional fees that are not reflected in the tracking index.

4. Please provide an update of the AUM of each of the Funds as of a more recent date since the issuance of the 15(c) materials.

Response: Net Assets as of September 10, 2020:

Retail Fund	Net Assets
Highland Income Fund	909,568,499
NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund	792,041,527

Highland Opportunistic Credit Fund	9,386,269

5. With respect to NHF, please discuss any potential actions that could be considered to address the discount at the present time, including the Adviser's view of the appropriateness of a tender offer.

Response: In April 2020 the Adviser put in place a new repurchase program to repurchase up to 10% of the Fund's shares over a one-year period. The Adviser believes that, subject to restrictions and cash availability, repurchasing shares may help narrow the Fund's discount. Additionally, after shareholders overwhelmingly voted in the favor of the Fund's conversion to a diversified REIT, the Adviser has experienced an uptick in new solicitations of interest in the Fund. Now that the Fund has received shareholder approval to convert to a REIT, the Adviser believes new investors will start to invest in the Fund, creating new demand and potentially narrowing the discount. During the first week of September, the Distributor received two calls and held two in person meetings with hedge fund investors who are researching NHF for the first time since the conversion was approved, and more meetings are on the calendar.

The Adviser also continues to educate shareholders on the Fund and recently published a 20-page investment commentary. More shareholder education is in production, which is expected to provide investors with more transparency into the Fund and help narrow the discount. The Adviser is also conducting a thorough analysis on the ability of and need to conduct a tender offer, including the effectiveness of such tender on the Fund's discount. The Fund typically maintains a minimal amount of cash and many of its securities cannot be easily sold to generate cash. The Adviser continues to analyze other options to secure financing that could potentially be used for a tender offer.

6. Please provide an update on the liquidation strategy for the BDC.

Response: The BDC terminated its offering two and a half years ago (February 2018). As noted in disclosure to investors, "we intend to seek to complete a liquidity event for our stockholders within five years following the completion of our offering stage; however, the offering period may extend for an indefinite period.” The BDC remains in the window for a liquidity event and the Adviser continues to monitor all available options. At this time, the Adviser does not believe an IPO is a viable option to maximize shareholder value given current market conditions. Given the uncertainty in below investment grade credit markets, the average BDC is trading at a 27% discount to NAV (as of September 8, 2020), and BDCs with a market cap of less than $100 million are trading at an average discount of over 55%. Three BDCs trade at over 70% discount and these discounts were even worse during sharp market sell-off in March 2020.

Two large BDCs IPO-ed in 2020: (i) Owl Rock took its $5 billion BDC public and is now trading at a 15% discount, even with an unlimited sized repurchase plan in place; (ii) FS, the largest non-traded BDC manager took, its $4.2 billion BDC public and is now trading at a 44% discount to NAV. We do not believe it is prudent to force the BDC into a public listing and risk trading down to a severe discount. We will continue to monitor exit options, including potential mergers, acquisitions, or other strategic alternatives as the market stabilizes over the next few years. Currently, investors have access to the quarterly tender process where they can redeem at NAV and the BDC has been able to meet all requested tenders thus far, which indicates there is not a rush for investors to leave or obtain liquidity.

D. Distribution

1. Item G.1. Distribution expenses reimbursed appear to be much higher than historic relative to allowable for reimbursement. Please discuss the reason for this difference.

Response: The 12b-1 Distribution Expenses Report discloses the following 2020 Eligible 12b-1 expense incurred vs. allowable Reimbursement:

- 2020 - $405,243 vs $383,173 = ($22,070) cost to Advisor (thru 06/30/2020)
- 2019 - $2,861,232 vs $1,707,028 = ($1,154,204) cost to Advisor (thru 12/31/19)
- 2018 - $3,267,776 vs $2,665,670 = ($602,106) cost to Advisor (thru 12/31/18)

NSI is currently incurring less mutual fund-related expenses. As a result, HCMFA is submitting fewer expenses for reimbursement. For example, HCMFA is submitting little, if any, requests for travel & expense or wholesaler compensation from NSI's collected 12b-1 fees, therefore such expenses that were previously submitted are no longer being submitted for reimbursement.

While the reduction in expenses submitted could make it appear that HCMFA is being reimbursed at a higher rate, the majority of expenses are being covered by NexPoint and NSI. The majority of all 12b-1 fees collected are paid to the selling broker-dealers in the form of trail commission. Trail commission are paid to the financial advisor that sold Fund shares and are for ongoing servicing of the shares.

2. The Distributor's balance sheet shows approximately $1 million in liabilities. How is this structured? Is this payable to HCMLP? In addition, the Distributor shows a net operating loss. Please discuss the financial wherewithal of the Distributor, including the commitment of its affiliates in this regard.

Response: This balance is majority comprised of the PPP loan proceeds, which are expected to be fully forgiven. None of the liability balance is payable to HCMLP.

The sales team anticipates continued growth in sales and increasing dealer manager fee revenue at the Distributor over the next twelve months. As a result of increased sales, we anticipate the Distributor to produce enough fee revenue to eventually generate net operating income. Until that happens, the Distributor receives equity contributions from HCMFA, as needed

E. Miscellaneous

1. Please confirm inclusion of the Adviser profitability sheet for both HCMFA and NexPoint.

Response: The Adviser confirms there are two separate pages of Adviser profitability: (i) NexPoint (including the BDC) and (ii) HCMFA in the Meeting book.

2. Please provide information regarding the performance of the REIT subsidiaries.

Response: Performance information for each of the REIT Subsidiaries with performance history is provided in Exhibit A.

3. The exhibits to the FFA response do not seem to be in the Board book. Please confirm.

Response: The Adviser notes that the FFA exhibits are located in the August 13, 2020 Exhibit Book (there is a "slip sheet" in the Meeting Book that lists the exhibits).

No shared services outstanding. The HCMFA note is a demand note. The NexPoint note Kristin can give the end term. There was an agreement between HCMLP and HCMFA the earliest they could demand is May 2021. The attorneys think that BK doesn't change that but don't know for sure at the end of the day. The response should include as I covered in the Board meeting that both entities have the full faith and backing from Jim Dondero and to my knowledge that hasn't changed.

I see the below from the 6/30 financials –

NPA: Due to HCMLP and affiliates as of June 30, 2020 - 23,683,000
HCMFA: Due to HCMLP as of June 30, 2020 - 12,286

I expect the follow-up question will be regarding terms and structure of the notes and whether any of the shared services invoices are outstanding.

Draft answer below.

Are there any material outstanding amounts currently payable or due in the future (e.g., notes) to HCMLP by HCMFA or NexPoint Advisors or any other affiliate that provide services to the Funds?

Response: As of June 30, 2020, $23,683,000 remains outstanding to HCMLP and its affiliates from NexPoint and $12,286,000 remains outstanding to HCMLP from HCMFA. The Notes between HCMLP and NexPoint come due on [DATE]. The Notes between HCMLP and HCMFA come due on [DATE]. All amounts owed by each of NexPoint and HCMFA pursuant to the shared services arrangement with HCMLP have been paid as of [DATE].

Good evening Frank, Klos, Kristin – please advise on the below in connection with the Board's follow-up request. Thanks!

Are there any material outstanding amounts currently payable or due in the future (e.g., notes) to HLCMLP by HCMFA or NexPoint Advisors or any other affiliate that provide services to the Funds?

Thomas – please see attached (and reproduced below) additional 15c follow-up questions from the Board.

1. Please provide, to the extent practicable, the contingency plans with respect to the services provided under the Shared Services Agreements in the event that the outcome of the HCMLP bankruptcy proceedings were to impact the current servicing structure. For example, has the Advisers considered any outside service providers if necessary?

Note prior question and response on related topic:

With respect to the Estimated Adviser Profitability chart (Item A.2.a in the Board book), is the "Shared Services" line the only expenses attributable to HCMLP? Has any work been done or consideration been given to the solicitation of a third party bid on performing these services or bringing them in house to HCMFA?

Response: Shared services, along with a portion of the investment professional compensation & benefits lines, are the only allocations attributable to HCMLP employees' support of the Advisers. HCMFA does not have the resources to bring these services in-house at this time, but given that HCMLP staffing levels for the provision of the shared services have remained fairly consistent and HCMLP remains capable of providing such shared services on economically reasonable terms, outsourced third-party bids have not been solicited at this time.

2. Are there any material outstanding amounts currently payable or due in the future (e.g., notes) to HLCMLP by HCMFA or NexPoint Advisors or any other affiliate that provide services to the Funds?
3. The Board notes the provision of the updated list of current co-investments provided by HCMFA/NexPoint Advisors and the Advisers' discussion, including the senior-level team in place, to address any potential conflicts of interest matters. With respect to the compliance function, please confirm that the Funds' Chief Compliance Officer overall will continue in his usual role with respect to the Funds. Are there any other potential conflicts outside of the specific co-investment matters identified?

Please let me know if you would like me to set up a call on Monday to discuss.

Here is the question the retail board asked and the answer proposed by NEXPOINT. I added the ALL CAPS language below. Jim D land to send the answer out this evening. I presume this is ok

1. Please provide, to the extent practicable, the contingency plans with respect to the services provided under the Shared Services Agreements in the event that the outcome of the HCMLP bankruptcy proceedings were to impact the current servicing structure. For example, has the Advisers considered any outside service providers if necessary?

In connection with 15(c) supplemental responses attached, as it stands today, NEXPOINT'S senior management's plan as a backup/contingency plan is to EXTEND EMPLOYMENT OFFERS TO the vast majority of HCMLP's employees by 12/31/2020. This will help ensure that there is no disruption in services to the Funds. Once we have further details of this we will advise. In the interim the plan is to continue with existing shared services.

A. Nature, Extent and Quality of Services

1. Please provide, to the extent practicable, the contingency plans with respect to the services provided under the Shared Services Agreements in the event that the outcome of the HCMLP bankruptcy proceedings were to impact the current servicing structure. For example, has the Advisers considered any outside service providers if necessary?

Response: As a result of the Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“HCMLP”) bankruptcy, NexPoint’s senior management’s plan as a backup/contingency plan is to extend employment offers to the vast majority of HCMLP’s employees by December 31, 2020. This will help ensure that there is no disruption in services to the Funds. Once we have further details of this we will advise. In the interim, the plan is to continue with existing shared services.

Representatives of HCMLP and NexPoint will be available to discuss the structure of these contingency plans, relevant employees, and communications to current employees regarding these matters. Representatives of HCMLP and NexPoint are working to facilitate the shared use of and/or transfer of services such as the intranet, shared computer drives, and third-party contracts.

2. Are there any material outstanding amounts currently payable or due in the future (e.g., notes) to HLCMLP by HCMFA or NexPoint Advisors or any other affiliate that provide services to the Funds?

Response: As of June 30, 2020, $23,683,000 remains outstanding to HCMLP and its affiliates from NexPoint and $12,286,000 remains outstanding to HCMLP from HCMFA. The Note between HCMLP and NexPoint comes due on December 31, 2047. The earliest the Note between HCMLP and HCMFA could come due is in May 2021. All amounts owed by each of NexPoint and HCMFA pursuant to the shared services arrangement with HCMLP have been paid as of the date of this letter. The Adviser notes that both entities have the full faith and support of James Dondero.

3. The Board notes the provision of the updated list of current co-investments provided by HCMFA/NexPoint Advisors and the Advisers' discussion, including the senior-level team in place, to address any potential conflicts of interest matters. With respect to the compliance function, please confirm that the Funds' Chief Compliance Officer overall will continue in his usual role with respect to the Funds. Are there any other potential conflicts outside of the specific co-investment matters identified?

Response: The Advisers confirm that the Funds' Chief Compliance Officer overall will continue in his usual role with respect to the Funds. As of October 14, 2020, the Funds' Chief Compliance Officer is an employee of NexPoint. Please see Exhibit A for a list of current co-investments and cross-held positions where a future conflict may arise together with Exhibit B for the list of non-HCMLP employees available to assist the Board in any future conflicts.

Mr. Powell acted as Chairman of the Board Meeting and Mr. Smith documented the proceedings. A quorum being present, the Board Meeting was called to order. Mr. Powell then confirmed with the Board Members and the Board Meeting participants that they had been able to access the notice and agenda for the Board Meeting and the related materials via Directors Desk’s internet portal (collectively, the “Meeting Materials”) and that all could hear and be heard. Mr. Powell then provided a brief overview of the matters to be discussed at the Board Meeting.

Ms. Thedford reminded the Board Members and the Board Meeting Participants that, due to the recent outbreak of coronavirus disease 2019 (“COVID-19”), this standard quarterly in-person Board Meeting for the third quarter of 2020 was being held virtually. She noted that COVID-19 has led to disruptions to transportation and the impositions of quarantines and self-isolations in the United States and around the world, which have presented significant challenges for boards of trustees of registered investment companies to travel in order to meet.

Ms. Thedford noted that in light of the impacts of COVID-19, the Securities and Exchange Commission issued orders (the “Orders”) that conditionally exempt registered investment companies and their investment advisers and principal underwriters from the in-person voting requirements of the 1940 Act, which exemption is temporarily available from March 13, 2020 through December 31, 2020. She then confirmed that certain approvals related to the Funds’ independent registered accountant would require reliance on the Orders and that the Board Members would be asked to determine that such virtual approvals were necessary and appropriate due to circumstances related to current and potential effects of COVID-19 and that all actions that required a vote of the Board Members at an in-person meeting would be ratified, as required by the SEC's relief, at the Board's next in-person meeting.

Mr. Powell noted that the order in which certain agenda items would be discussed at the Board Meeting may vary from the order listed in the agenda depending on, among other things, the availability of certain Meeting participants and certain matters or items may be discussed on multiple days. He further noted that, while each proposed resolution would be discussed during the normal course of the Board Meeting, formal approval of such resolutions would be sought at the end of the Board Meeting.

MEETING OF THE BOARD

EXECUTIVE SESSION

The Board Members and Independent Trustee Counsel met in executive session prior to and during various points in the Board Meeting to further consider and discuss the Board Materials and items for approval. The Independent Board Members also met separately with their Independent Trustee Counsel. In such cases, all Meeting participants other than the Board Members and Independent Trustee Counsel left the room or dropped from the call at this time, as the case may be. The Board Members and Independent Trustee Counsel also met in executive session separately with representatives of Cohen following the Audit and Qualified Legal Compliance Committee set forth below. The Board Members and Independent Trustee Counsel also met in executive session separately with Mr. Post.

AUDIT AND QUALIFIED LEGAL COMPLIANCE COMMITTEE MEETING

Commented [LT1]: Frank/Klos/Will to review

The members of the Audit and Qualified Legal Compliance Committees (the "Audit Committee") of the Board (composed of Messrs. Ward, Froehlich, Powell, and Constantino (for NHF only) with Mr. Ward serving as Chair) convened the Audit and Qualified Compliance Committee.

Presentation by Cohen Regarding the Audit Scope for the FYE 9/30/2020 for HFII and GAF

Ms. Novak and Ms. Selick from Cohen joined the Meeting. Ms. Novak began Cohen's presentation to the Audit Committee regarding the scope of the audit of HFII and GAF for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2020. She then referred the Audit Committee to Cohen's presentation contained in the Meeting Materials and then reviewed Cohen's audit plan, key audit areas, strategy and approach for the audit, and responded to questions. In response to a question from a Board Member, Ms. Novak confirmed she had no concerns with the Adviser's plan to remediate the material weakness by the prior independent registered accountant of HFII and GAF at December 31, 2019, and noted Cohen's view on the material weakness finding, which had differed from the prior auditor, had not changed. She then discussed the Adviser's testing of its remediation plan planned for October 2020.

Ms. Selick then discussed Cohen's communications with the Audit Committee, noting that they are designed to comply with standards established by the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (the "PCAOB"). The Audit Committee discussed the proposed fees and Ms. Novak then discussed Cohen's independence and responded to the questions from the Audit Committee. In connection with Cohen's discussion of independence, it was noted that Cohen also provides audit services to certain private funds advised by Mr. Honis. Ms. Novak confirmed there was no issue with respect to the firm's independence. A discussion ensued with respect to the services to be provided by Cohen, during which the Committee requested that the auditor perform testing of the remediation plan and fair valuation models early in its audit process to prevent any last minute issues before filing deadlines. The Committee also reiterated the importance of communication between the Committee, the Adviser and Cohen.

Ratification of Annual Report for HF I

Mr. Ward stated that the Audit Committee would next consider the ratification of the annual report for HFI. Ms. Selick noted that during the June 30, 2020 fiscal year-end financial reporting process the Adviser discovered an unreconciled adjustment on the balance sheet of Highland/iBoxx Senior Loan ETF ("SNLN"), a series of HFI. She noted that this adjustment was material to SNLN and required incorporation into the financial statements, but since the Adviser caught the error during its review then such adjustment rose only to the level of a significant deficiency. Mr. Klos discussed the Adviser's reconciliation process with respect to the error, clarifying that reconciliation is performed by SNLN's administrator, SEI. He then discussed the Adviser's ongoing analysis of the error and remediation plans and undertook to provide the Board with a memorandum discussing the remediation at a future Board meeting. A discussion ensued.

Commented [LT2]: Confirm timing and if/when this went out. I am referencing the 9/9/20 document but not sure I have seen the final.

After a discussion and upon a motion duly made, seconded and unanimously carried, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

RESOLVED, that the Audit and Qualified Legal Compliance Committee ("Audit Committee") of Highland Funds I ("HFI"), subject to ratification by the Board of Trustees of HFI, including a majority of the board members who are not "interested persons" as defined in the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended, hereby approves and ratifies the report (the "Audit Report") of HFI's independent registered public accounting firm, Cohen & Company, regarding the results of the June 30, 2020 audit of HFI, and the inclusion in HFI's annual shareholder report dated June 30, 2020 of the Audit Report and audited financial statements, as presented at this meeting, with such changes as the officers of HFI may approve, with advice of counsel.

Draft (D2) – 11/02/20

Ratification of Audit and Non-Audit Fees for Fiscal Year Ended June 30, 2020 for HFI

Mr. Ward then noted that the Board was being asked to ratify revised audit and non-audit fees for the fiscal year ended June 30, 2019 for HFI. After a discussion and upon a motion duly made, seconded and unanimously carried, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

RESOLVED, that the revised estimated fees for audit and non-audit services to be provided by Cohen and Co. to Highland Funds I (“HFI”), as presented at this meeting, are hereby ratified, confirmed and approved by the Audit and Qualified Legal Compliance Committee of HFI.

Approval of Cohen Engagement Letters

Mr. Ward noted that the next agenda item was for the Audit Committee to consider the recommendation to the Board of the Cohen engagement letters. After a discussion and upon a motion duly made, seconded and unanimously carried, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

RESOLVED, that the Audit and Qualified Legal Compliance Committees of Highland Funds I (“HFI”), Highland Funds II (“HFII”), Highland Income Fund (“HFRO”), Highland Global Allocation Fund (“GAF”), NexPoint Real Estate Strategies Fund (“NRESF”) and NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund (“NHF”), subject to approval by the Board of Trustees of HFI, HFII, HFRO, GAF, NRESF and NHF, including by separate vote a majority of the Trustees who are not “Interested Persons” (as such term is defined in the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended) of HFI, HFII, HFRO, GAF, NRESF and NHF, hereby approve the engagement letters with Cohen & Co. included in the materials for the meeting.

Houlihan Lokey Discussion Regarding Valuation

Commented [LT3]: Klos/Mills to review

Next, Mr. Powell invited Dr. Ma and Mr. Cessna of Houlihan Lokey to join the meeting to provide an update on the services provided by Houlihan Lokey. Dr. Ma then gave an overview of Houlihan Lokey and the valuation services it provided to the Funds over the past 12 months. Mr. Cessna then provided a detailed review of the valuation of TerreStar Corporation (“TerreStar”) and noted how the positive development of the recent waiver grant for the 1.4 GHz band spectrum was incorporated into the valuation. In response to questions from the Board, Mr. Cessna explained how fundamental analysis and historical transactions were incorporated into the valuation of TerreStar, noting that the weight given to past transactions on valuation was reduced over time. Mr. Cessna then reviewed the valuation methodology used for the CCS Medical, Inc. (“CCS”), noting that recent indications of interest in CCS were roughly in line with the valuation Houlihan Lokey determined independently with fundamental analysis. Throughout the discussion, Dr. Ma and Mr. Cessna responded to questions from the Board. Dr. Ma and Mr. Cessna then departed the Meeting.

There being no further business to discuss, the Audit Committee Meeting was adjourned.

Draft (D2) – 11/02/20

GOVERNANCE AND COMPLIANCE COMMITTEE MEETING

At this time, the members of the Governance and Compliance Committee (collectively, the “Governance Committee”) of the Board (composed of Messrs. Ward, Froehlich, Honis and Powell, with Mr. Powell serving as Chair) convened the Governance Committee Meeting.

Update on HCMFA/HCMLP Litigation Matters

Commented [LT4]: Seery to review

Messrs. Seery, Leventon and Ellington and Mmes. Vitiello and Bannon then joined the Governance Committee Meeting and provided an update the Board on the HCMLP bankruptcy and litigation matters relating to the Funds.

Update on HCMLP Bankruptcy

Mr. Seery provided the Board with an update on the HCMLP Bankruptcy, noting that HCMLP recently completed the mediation process. Although not all claims were resolved in mediation, Mr. Seery noted that there was momentum for a larger deal. He noted that HCMLP reached settlement with Acis Capital Management, L.P., a former affiliated investment adviser to a CLO platform. With respect to the UBS claim of $1 billion, Mr. Seery noted that a settlement could not be reached, so a litigation strategy was being pursued instead. Mr. Seery noted that there were two separate summary judgements pending with respect to the UBS claim, upon which Mr. Seery expected HCMLP to prevail. Mr. Seery then summarized three other open claims, including a [new?] $100 million claim by HarbourVest Partners LLC.

In response to questions from the Board, Mr. Seery noted that Mr. Dondero had a high degree of confidence that, even if an overall settlement could not be achieved, there would be a mechanism in place for the shared services currently provided by HCMLP such that any impact to the Funds would be minimized. In the short-term, Mr. Seery expected that the shared services agreement (the “Shared Services Agreement”) between HCMLP (on the one hand) and HCMFA/NexPoint Advisers (on the other) to remain in place. In the event that the Shared Services Agreement were terminated, Mr. Seery believes that the employees and services at HCMLP that are currently supporting the Funds would be transferred either directly to HCMFA/NexPoint Advisers or to a third-party that would continue to service the Funds. A discussion then ensued. Ms. Bannon then discussed the overall public relations approach in responding to inquiries regarding the ongoing bankruptcy matter and turned the Board’s attention to the quarterly Media Coverage Report provided in the Materials.

Update on Credit Suisse Matter

Commented [LT5]: Isaac to review (and Lanotte)

With respect to the Credit Suisse litigation, Mr. Leventon reminded the Board that the Adviser had filed a motion for a rehearing before the Texas Supreme Court on June 12, 2020, and noted that he expected a decision soon. In response to questions from the Board, Mr. Leventon noted that if the case was remanded back to the trial court, there would not be a new trial. Instead, he said the trial court would decide the case in accordance with the Supreme Court's decision. A discussion then ensued.

Update on Lanotte Matter

With respect to the Lanotte matter, Mr. Leventon reminded the Board that the Court granted the motion to dismiss with prejudice as to all defendants on all claims. He added, however, that the plaintiff recently filed an appeal of that decision. In response to a question, Mr. Leventon noted that the grounds for the appeal were not yet known since the plaintiff's appellate brief had not been filed. He stated that he would update the Board as the appeal progressed further.

After further discussion, Messrs. Seery, Leventon and Ellington and Mmes. Vitiello and Bannon then departed from the Meeting.

Discussion of AIC III Reorganization Proposal

Commented [LT6]: Dustin to review

Ms. Thedford first noted that no approvals were being asked of the Board at this Meeting. She then provided further details about the proposed timeline for the reorganizations the reorganizations of the Highland Total Return Fund and the Highland Fixed Income Fund, each a series of HFIL, into shell series of the Advisors' Inner Circle III Trust ("AIC"), noting that proposal would be brought to the Board for formal approval in the near future, after certain information requested by the Board and Independent Trustee Counsel about the transaction is updated. The Governance Committee members then engaged in a discussion with Independent Trustee Counsel and the Adviser about ensuring its independence in reviewing the proposal, including the recusal of Mr. Powell from any vote.

The Board then discussed the history of these Funds and broader strategic planning related to the ongoing fund rationalization process. In response to questions from the Board, Mr. Norris discussed certain other options for these Funds considered by management, including liquidation or merger with an interval fund. The Board then discussed the potential synergies between these Funds and Brookmont Capital, LLC ("Brookmont"). Specifically, Mr. Powell noted Brookmont's value-based, dividend-centric investment approach. Mr. Powell then discussed the plan for distribution and cost-savings on the AIC fund platform. In response to a question from the Board, Mr. Smith of SEI provided an update on the anticipated timing for the AIC board's approval and filing of the AIC funds' shell registration statements. He noted that approval by both boards would be needed prior to the filing of the AIC funds' shell registration statements.

Mr. Norris concluded the discussion by noting that updated materials would be distributed to the Board in the near future—likely within the next week—so that the Board could make a formal determination regarding the proposal.

ALTERNATIVES AND DISTRIBUTION OVERSIGHT COMMITTEE

The members of the Alternatives and Distribution Oversight Committee (the “Distribution Oversight Committee”) of the Board (composed of Messrs. Honis, Powell, Ward and Froehlich, with Mr. Froehlich serving as Chair) convened the Distribution Oversight Committee Meeting.

Review Payments to Financial Intermediaries

Mr. Froehlich stated that the first item for the Distribution Oversight Committee to consider was a review of payments made by the Funds to financial intermediaries. Ms. Thedford reminded the Distribution Oversight Committee that shares of the Funds are available for purchase both directly and through arrangements in which investors hold their shares indirectly through an omnibus account in the name of their financial intermediary, such as a broker, investment adviser, insurance company separate account, or employee benefit plan (each, an “Intermediary”). She noted that Intermediaries frequently provide Sub-TA and other services to shareholders of the Funds. Ms. Thedford then reviewed the payment process for such Intermediaries, noting that payments are only made to Intermediaries with which the Funds have agreements and are made in accordance with the terms stated in the Funds’ prospectuses.

Ms. Thedford then reviewed a list of the Intermediaries and Funds that currently participate in such arrangements and commented on the nature of services provided by each Intermediary, the contractual billing arrangements and actual fees paid by the Funds, HCMFA or any affiliate of HCMFA for such services, and whether a portion of any such fee was paid for distribution, Sub-TA, administration or other non-distribution services. Ms. Thedford reviewed information relating to Sub-TA fees paid by the Funds in connection with “fund supermarket” and other types of programs in which a third party maintains records of indirect beneficial ownership interests in the Funds. Ms. Thedford reviewed the amount of Sub-TA fees paid by the Funds, along with a summary of the services provided by each Intermediary that receives Sub-TA fees from the Funds, noting that HCMFA requests quarterly certifications confirming the relevant invoices received from each Intermediary and assets serviced in order to ensure accuracy in the discussion of each arrangement.

Discussion of Merger of Highland Socially Responsible Equity Fund into MAF

Mr. Froehlich noted that the next item of business was a discussion of the proposed merger of Highland Socially Responsible Equity Fund (“SRE”) into MAF. Mr. Norris referenced the memo included in the Meeting Materials that summarized the proposal, noting that the memorandum is for informational purposes only and no approvals were being requested at this time. He reminded the Board of SRE’s underperformance, and the Board’s request to review potential options, such as a change in strategy or potential merger. Mr. Norris then discussed the details of the merger proposal, including an overview of various considerations required under Rule 17a-8. In response to a question from the Board, Mr. Norris undertook to provide additional rationale for the merger given the higher fees paid by shareholders of MAF and to ensure outreach to any shareholders who had invested in SRE following its strategy change to an ESG fund.

Commented [LT7]: Dustin to review

At this time, the Committee Meeting was adjourned and the Board Meeting reconvened.

BOARD MEETING

Fund Performance and Business Update

Commented [LT8]: Dustin/Kevin to review

Mr. Norris then reviewed the Advisers' broad market strategy, year-over-year revenue and net income. He then led a discussion of the components of the Daily Performance and Capital Flow Report, including each applicable Fund's (i) Morningstar rating, if any; (ii) performance for month-to-date, quarter-to-date, year-to-date and one year versus its benchmark; and (iii) capital flows. He noted that capital flows included daily subscriptions, daily redemptions, daily net assets, year-to-date sales, year-to-date net sales, net assets and adjusted net assets, which took into consideration redemptions and sales for the time period. Mr. Norris then led a discussion regarding whether each Fund under- or over-performed its benchmark, the reasons for such under- or over-performance and each Fund's capital flows. He then updated the Board on the Advisers' sales goals and projections. A discussion then ensued among the Board.

Mr. Norris then highlighted certain Fund proposals the Advisers were considering. With respect to the closed-end funds, he stated his belief that HFRO, NHF and GAF were trading at inappropriately high discounts considering the underlying assets of each Fund. For NHF, Mr. Norris noted that the Adviser was considering a potential tender offer as an interim solution to narrowing NHF's discount prior to the REIT conversion since the generally positive market response to approval of the REIT conversion had not helped to narrow the discount as expected. Although at the initial stages, Mr. Norris noted that NexPoint was in discussions with Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom LLP, who is acting as special counsel for NHF in connection with the REIT conversion, to explore a tender offer of a certain amount of NHF's common shares for newly-issued preferred shares plus cash, subject to certain terms and conditions. He noted that the Board would be updated if and when a more definitive proposal was developed.

Next, Mr. Norris discussed the positive trading of HFROs preferred stock and related ongoing costs. He then stated that the Adviser was exploring the feasibility of converting HFRO into an unregistered investment company that maintained its listing on the New York Stock Exchange and taxed as a "C-Corp" and then summarized the potential benefits of such a conversion. Finally, with respect to GAF, Mr. Norris noted that, in light of the Fund's underperformance this past year, Mr. Dondero was considering various options to maximize shareholder value but that nothing was proposed at this time as certain long-term, material investments continued to develop. Throughout the discussion, Mr. Norris responded to questions from the Board.

In response to a question from the Board, Mr. Norris discussed tracking errors occurring in SNLN due to significant trading volumes. He noted that the Adviser was considering whether additional purchase and redemption fees should be implemented in order to ease friction costs and that he, Mr. Dondero and SNLN's new portfolio manager, David Owens, were exploring a strategy change.

Mr. Norris then highlighted the Adviser's focus on real estate [for certain of the Funds?], particularly single-family rentals and storage given recent volatility in the real estate markets due to COVID-19. He reminded the Board that representatives of the Adviser's real estate team would attend the meeting on Friday to cover specific issuers and properties in more detail.

Discussion with FUSE Research Network 15(c) Research Provider

Next, Mr. Norris noted that, in connection with the Board's 15(c) review, the Meeting Materials included a report from FUSE Research Network, an independent source of investment company data, relating to each Fund's performance and expenses compared to the performance and expenses of a group of funds deemed by FUSE to be comparable to the respective Fund (the "peer group"), and to a larger group of comparable funds (the "peer universe"). He noted that this was the second year in a row that FUSE was used to assist in compiling data to assist the Board in their 15(c) review and that the Advisers were very impressed with the quality of the reports provided by FUSE, as compared to reports provided by other third-party investment company data providers in the past. Mr. Norris also clarified that performance and expense data for the BDC was separately covered in materials prepared by Blue Vault Partners.

At this time, Mr. Campbell of FUSE joined the Meeting and provided a detailed review of the FUSE report. Mr. Campbell first reviewed the report format and described the methodology used to compile the data, both of which he noted were the same as that used last year. He then described the process by which each Fund's peer group and peer universe were identified, noting that the peer group and peer universe were the same for some Funds given their unique mandate or strategy focus. Mr. Campbell also noted that, depending on a Fund's vehicle type (e.g., open-end, closed-end or ETF), additional data elements for comparison purposes were provided. For instance, for closed-end funds, he noted that the report included premium/discount data, leverage and distribution rates, and certain other unique data elements relevant to closed-end fund comparisons.

Next, Mr. Campbell specified the data presented in the report for specific Funds that departed from the standard methodology presented in order to provide more useful peer comparison. For example, in light of the investment strategy change of the Highland Socially Responsible Equity Fund in July 2019, he noted that the peer group selected for the Fund was comprised of other ESG funds but that the peer universe was comprised of large cap equity funds. Given Highland/iBoxx Senior Loan ETF's unique passive bank loan exposure, he noted that this Fund's peer group includes both active and passive strategies, which was a departure from the standard methodology. Throughout his presentation, Mr. Campbell responded to questions from the Board. In addition, the Board noted that they had received the FUSE report approximately a month before the Meeting and that, since that time, they had the opportunity to carefully review the report and had many of their questions answered at the August 13, 2020 pre-15(c) meeting. After further discussion, Mr. Campbell departed the Meeting.

Annual Matters for Board Review and Approval

Review of 15(c) Materials

At this time, Mr. Surgent joined the Meeting and provided the Board with a status update on the HCLMP bankruptcy and discussed the impact of the HCMLP bankruptcy on the shared services arrangements with the Funds, noting his expectation that the level and quality of services would continue going forward. Regarding the bankruptcy, Mr. Surgent reiterated Mr. Seery's stated goal to achieve a consensual, omnibus resolution by the end of the year. To the extent this was not achievable, Mr. Surgent noted that an alternative plan akin to a liquidation of assets was possible. In response to questions from the Board, Mr. Surgent noted that, even under an alternative scenario, the Board would have adequate advance notice to address any impact to the shared services provided to the Funds. A robust discussion then ensued, which included an explanation of evaluation of how conflicts of interests are addressed when certain HCMLP employees are conflicted out of working on particular matters, as was the case in the recent OmniMax International, Inc. (f/k/a Euramax) ("OmniMax") matter. Mr. Surgent and Mr. Norris explained that there were sufficient personnel at HCMFA/NexPoint Advisors who are not also dual employees at HCMLP to cover all relevant functions on such matters, including legal, compliance, accounting, administration and portfolio management. In response to a request of the Board, Mr. Norris undertook to provide the Board with a list of non-HCMLP employees available to address any conflicts that may arise. At this time, Mr. Surgent departed from the Meeting.

Annual Update on HCMFA's and NexPoint's Financial Condition

Mr. Powell asked Mr. Waterhouse to provide an update on the Advisers' financial condition. Mr. Waterhouse directed the Board's attention to the Meeting Materials related to the Advisers' financial condition including, for each of HCMFA and NexPoint, financial statements as of June 30, 2020 that included a balance sheet and income statement, each as contained in the 15(c) responses of the Advisers. A discussion ensued about the methodology and calculation of each of HCMFA's and NexPoint's profitability and factors such as revenues, direct and indirect costs and shared costs and how the Advisers' investment advisory fees are allocated among each Fund in the Fund Complex. Mr. Waterhouse discussed how the Advisers' costs are allocated among the Funds and other advisory clients of the Advisers and responded to questions from the Board. In response to a question from the Board, Mr. Waterhouse described the impact of the COVID-19-induced work-from-home environment, including any unexpected cost savings. Mr.

Commented [JP11]: He technically spoke before Seery and then I thought at least referenced Seery would be available to discuss later on during the Board meeting -- shouldn't we move this to prior to the conversation with Seery

Commented [MC12]: I think that it's important to note that adequate non-HCMLP personnel are available for any such conflict situation -- this was the Board's key concern.

Commented [DJ13]: Agreed.

Commented [LT14]: Dustin to review -- I note you mentioned Sowin, Heiss, McG and DC to Honis.

Draft (D2) – 11/02/20

Waterhouse then discussed the potential impact of moving employees from HCMLP to either HCMFA or NexPoint in the event of an HCMLP liquidation. Throughout the discussion, Mr. Waterhouse responded to questions from the Board.

Annual Cybersecurity Service Provider Update

Board then discussed cybersecurity with Mr. Post and measures taken by the Advisers and the Funds relating to the prevention and detection of cyberattacks. Mr. Post reported that a member of the Compliance team circulates a questionnaire to the Funds' key service providers to solicit information relating to such service providers' cybersecurity policies and preparedness. He indicated the summary level responses for the key service providers was included as part of the Board materials. As part of the discussion he also touched on the Advisers' cybersecurity and disaster recovery policies and incident response plan. He noted that these policies were developed with the historical assistance of ACA Compliance Group and Mr. Rothstein, HCMLP's Director of IT, and are updated if new guidance is issued or as elements of the Advisers' environment changes. Mr. Post then summarized his meeting on September 9, 2020 with members of the Governance and Compliance Committee, Mr. Powell and Mr. Ward, employees of SEI, and Mr. Rothstein in advance of the Board Meeting to the Board. During the September 9, 2020 meeting, the summary level responses from key service providers were discussed in further detail, Mr. Rothstein provided further detail on HCMLP cybersecurity enhancements as well as developments in connection with remote functionality as the pandemic continued, and members of the SEI team discussed a security breach with one of its service providers, Brunner. During the security breach discussion with SEI, it was noted that compromised information pertained to more "phone book" type of information (email addresses, investor names, etc.) for only institutional clients serviced by SEI and none of the Funds' or Advisers' sensitive data was compromised. In addition SEI noted they were transitioning services performed by Brunner to be internally performed.

Ratification of HFI Annual Report

Ms. Thedford then proposed that the Board ratify HFI's Annual Report. After discussion, upon a motion duly made and seconded, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

RESOLVED, that the report (the "Audit Report") of Cohen & Co., the independent registered public accounting firm of Highland Funds I ("HFI"), regarding the audit of the June 30, 2020 financial statements of HFI, and the inclusion in HFI's annual shareholder reports dated June 30, 2020 of the Audit Reports and audited financial statements, hereby is approved by the Board of Trustees of HFI, with such changes as the officers of HFI may approve.

Approval of Cohen Engagement Letters

Mr. Ward noted that the Board was being asked to approve Cohen's engagement letters for HFI, HFIL, HFRO, GAF, NRESF, and NHF. After a discussion and upon a motion duly made, seconded and unanimously carried, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Draft (D2) – 11/02/20

RESOLVED, that the Board of Trustees of Highland Funds I (“HFI”), Highland Funds II (“HFII”), Highland Income Fund (“HFRO”), Highland Global Allocation Fund (“GAF”), NexPoint Real Estate Strategies Fund (“NRESF”) and NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund (“NHF”), and by separate vote, the Trustees who are not “Interested Persons” (as such term is defined in the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended) of HFI, HFII, HFRO, GAF, NRESF and NHF, hereby approve the engagement letters with Cohen & Co. included in the materials for the meeting.

Compliance Matters

Executive Summary

As the next order of business, Mr. Post provided an update on compliance matters relating to the Funds for the quarter ended June 30, 2020 and responded to questions from the Board.

Quarterly Discussion with Chief Compliance Officer

Mr. Post provided is quarterly update of the Funds’ compliance program pursuant to Rule 38a-1 for the quarter ended June 30, 2020.

Quarterly Sub-Adviser Compliance Certification

Mr. Post next discussed the quarterly Sub-Adviser Compliance Certification for the quarter ended June 30, 2020. Mr. Post referred the Board to information provided by FFA that was included in the Meeting Materials.

12d1-2(a) Exemptive Application Order Certification

Mr. Post then directed the Board’s attention to the certification relating to the Rule 12d1-2(a) exemptive relief (the “Exemptive Order”) in the Meeting Materials. He stated that the Funds listed on the certification had relied on the Exemptive Order and had done so in compliance with all applicable conditions, requirements, and limitations set forth in the certification.

Report on Provision of Services and Products to Portfolio Companies by Affiliated Service Providers and Affiliated Bulk Negotiating Reporting

Mr. Post next directed the Board’s attention to the certification in the Meeting Materials relating to services and products provided to portfolio companies by affiliated service providers. Mr. Post certified that there had been no transactions for the quarter ended June 30, 2020 for which he found a correlation between the Funds’ positions in NexPoint Real Estate Opportunities, LLC (AM Uptown Hotel, LLC, CP Tower Owner, LLC, Freedom LHV, LLC, and Freedom Lubbock, LLC) and NFRO REIT Sub, LLC (EDS Legacy Partners, LLC and EDS Legacy Heliport, LLC) and any such entity’s recent engagement or termination of an affiliated service provider that might suggest a violation of the Policies and Procedures for the Provision of Services & Products to Portfolio Companies by Affiliated Service Providers.

Certification of Potential “Financial Interests”

The Board next considered the certification for the quarter ended June 30, 2020 provided in the Meeting Materials with respect to possible direct or indirect financial interest of the Advisers or their affiliated persons in the Funds that invested in privately placed securities alongside other Funds in certain types of transactions.

Review of Quarterly Code of Ethics Report

Mr. Post noted that there had been no material violations of the Code of Ethics of the Advisers or the Funds during the quarter ended June 30, 2020.

Co-Investment Report

Mr. Post directed the Board’s attention to the Co-Investment Report, which detailed the retail and institutional co-investments in loan, bond, and CLO instruments for the quarter ended June 30, 2020. He noted that all co-investments had been allocated pro-rata among retail and institutional accounts and that there were no exceptions to report.

Review of Co-Investment Transactions pursuant to Exemptive Relief Update

Mr. Post reminded the Board that the closed-end funds, NexPoint, HCMLP, and certain other advisers which are no longer registered had received co-investment exemptive relief pursuant to Sections 17(d) and 57(i) of the 1940 Act and Rule 17d-1 thereunder (the “Order”) in April 2016. Mr. Post explained that the Order permits closed-end registered investment companies to invest alongside private funds in transactions where the adviser has the ability to negotiate terms other than price, as long as certain conditions of the Order are satisfied (such transactions, a “Co-Investment Transaction”). He reported that, pursuant to the Order, the Board Members of the Funds who have no financial interest in a Potential Co-Investment Transaction, are not interested persons of the Funds, and do not serve as a director, general partner, managing member or principal, and are not otherwise an affiliated person (as defined in the 1940 Act) of any Co-Investment Affiliate (the “Eligible Directors”) will be asked to consider and approve that all Co-Investment Transactions during the preceding quarter complied with the Order, and that all Potential Co-Investment Transactions complied with the conditions of the Order applicable to Potential Co-Investment Transactions. Mr. Post provided an overview of the information NexPoint is required to report to the Board pursuant to the Order and reported that: (i) there were no excluded opportunities during the quarter; (ii) there were no co-investment transactions that the Funds considered but declined to participate in; (iii) there were no dispositions made during the quarter; and (iv) certain Funds had participated in a follow-on investment in NexPoint Real Estate, Inc. (“NREF”).

Draft (D2) – 11/02/20

He noted that in July 2020, NHF, HFRO, NRESF, and GAF (the BDC declined to participate) participated in a non-pro-rata follow-on investment by NHF, HFRO, NRESF, and GAF in NREF, and discussed the various rationales for the non-pro-rata nature of such investments. He also discussed the Funds’ proposed tax restructuring transaction planned to occur by September 30, 2020, whereby GAF, HFRO, the BDC, NRESF and NHF would convert their OP IV interests into partnership units of NexPoint Real Estate Finance Operating Partnership, L.P. units (the “OP”). Such restructuring is contemplated under NREF’s organizational documents of NREF and none of the Funds currently hold an interest in the OP. The OP is the 100% owner of OP IV, so this effectively converts and simplifies the Funds’ interest one step up in the ownership chain to the OP, which sits directly under the Issuer. Further details of the restructuring transaction were set forth in the memo and indicated that Board approval is not required because this is an existing investment and the Funds are exercising an existing conversion right rather than purchasing a new investment. The restructuring would also improve the Funds’ position for Tax Asset Diversification Testing purposes and diversify the Funds’ investment in the broader OP’s asset base.
