Jim – As discussed with you and Dave, attached is a revised draft with one change to Section 3 (removing the provision tying the $500k payment to any specific component of the settlement).

@Jeff Pomerantz, @John A. Morris, @Gregory V. Demo – Please let us know if you expect to have any comments and expected timeframe.

We need to circulate drafts to Class 9's, CTOB and HMIT. We can likely send a draft to Class 9's and CTOB now subject to ongoing review, since I don't believe you will have any changes to the economic proposal we're making, but obviously want everyone signed off asap for purposes of getting a draft back to HMIT.

Thank you.

Two principal comments: 1) we don't own the entire Dugaboy Note as defined in the agreement, so we can't assign the amount of the note owed to Get Good. If language as drafted is fine then no worries, 2) clarifying we pay all P&I received on Dugaboy note between execution date and assignment date.

Matt – can you send a PDF of your comments? I think the colors of the various comments is dependent on each user's individual Word settings.

John,

Please see the HMIT Entities' responsive version of the settlement agreement along with the redline from your version 9. First, I apologize for the delay, as the last version, sent by Mr. Seery, arrived on the day I landed in Istanbul, and scheduling on my side plus my schedule while overseas made it difficult to get things done. And then I just took longer to get over the lag from traveling back.

We have made some proposed changes. First major change is that we are willing to have the releases made effective as of bankruptcy court approval, and live with that in the event of an appeal. We also think, because the bankruptcy court will have approved the agreement, that the assignment of the Dugaboy Note and the Kirchner litigation should be done within the revised timeline set forth, and that there is no reason for any reservation of HMIT Note Claims by the Litigation Sub Trust (and no reason that we can see for continued day to day activity of the sub-trust, as the litigation would only be returned if an appeal is successful (which none of us think will be the case – at least I think none of us do)). We have added an agreed abatement of everything pending bankruptcy court approval. We have also accelerated funding, though propose an agreement to escrow funds in the event of reversal on appeal. We have reviewed the information provided by Mr. Seery and his group and think our structure and timing of funding leaves plenty of money aside for indemnification. We also have tried to identify and make clear what a Threat would be, to get something objective we can rely on and receive notice of.

I am around tomorrow and Friday. I will be working this weekend (without jet lag) and in my New Orleans office Monday preparing for an all day trial on Tuesday. We should be able to corral my side quickly.

There are some other tweaks that are minor we think, with the changes mentioned above being the major changes in structure.

Also, John, while the parties have discussed this matter the attached draft agreement does not contain any reference. That is ok with us, but my clients request from your side an answer to the following question: "Did any of the Highland Entities or their affiliates, for their own account or on behalf of Highland CDO Holding Company, affirmatively give consent to the transfer by Sentinel Reinsurance, Ltd. or its affiliates of that certain promissory note in the original principal amount of app.$32.8M and dated December 13, 2010, and executed by CLO Holdco, Ltd.?"

I really appreciate your patience. Look forward to visiting soon.

AGREEMENT

1. Stay and Dismissal of Pending Litigation With Prejudice.

(a) Within five (5) Business Days after the Agreement Date, the HMIT Entities shall take all steps necessary (at their own cost) to stay the Pending Litigation.

(b) Within five (5) Business Days after the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, the HMIT Entities shall take all steps necessary (at their own cost) to dismiss the Pending Litigation with prejudice.

2. Maintenance of Stay and Dismissal of Certain Defendants from the Amended Complaint.

(a) The Litigation Trustee shall continue to maintain the stay of Adv. Proc. No. 21-03076-sgj and all related proceedings arising therefrom through the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date. Within five (5) Business Days after the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, the Litigation Sub-Trust shall take all steps necessary (at its own cost) to dismiss, with prejudice, HMIT and Rand PE from Counts I, II, III, and XXIV of the Amended Complaint.

3. Cash Payment to HMIT. Within five (5) Business Days following the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, Highland shall pay HMIT a one-time, lump sum of Five Hundred Thousand Dollars (US$500,000.00) (the "Payment") by wire transfer:

[wire instructions]

4. HMIT Class 10 Interest.

(a) Subject to entry of the Bankruptcy Court Order, and the terms of this Agreement, the HMIT Class 10 Interest shall be deemed allowed in the amount of Three Hundred Thirty-Six Million Nine Hundred Forty Thousand Two Hundred Thirty and 58/100 Dollars (US$336,940,230.58), which amount represents the HMIT Capital Account Balance, less the HMIT Note Balance.

(b) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Plan or the Claimant Trust Agreement, as an integral part of this Agreement to consent to the allowance of the HMIT Class 10 Interest and the other considerations in this Agreement, HMIT shall not be deemed, and no holder of the HMIT Class 10 Interest shall be, a Claimant Trust Beneficiary or a "Beneficiary" under the Claimant Trust Agreement, and the Highland Released Parties, individually and collectively, shall owe no duty to any HMIT Releasor (whether contractual, fiduciary, equitable, statutory or otherwise), including with respect to the HMIT Class 10 Interest, in each case, except as expressly set forth in this Agreement. Furthermore, without limiting the foregoing and for the avoidance of doubt, the contractual right of the holder of the HMIT Class 10 Interest to receive or recover any payments or Indemnity Trust Assets from the Indemnity Trust as set forth in this Agreement or the Indemnity Trust Agreement does not make any HMIT Releasor or any other Person a beneficiary of the Indemnity Trust or under the Indemnity Trust Agreement.

(c) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Plan, the Claimant Trust Agreement or the Indemnity Trust Agreement, in no event shall HMIT sell, transfer, assign, pledge, hypothecate, participate or otherwise dispose of or encumber the HMIT Class 10 Interest or any rights (including any right to payment) with respect thereto (collectively, a "Class 10 Assignment"), and any attempted Class 10 Assignment shall be null and void.

(d) For the avoidance of doubt, the HMIT Class 10 Interest is and shall remain senior to the not yet allowed, unvested contingent Class 11 Claims of Equity Interests as provided for in the Plan, the Plan Documents, and the Claimant Trust Agreement.

5. Initial Interim Distributions on the Allowed Class 10 Interests.

(a) Within five (5) Business Days after the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, the Indemnity Trust shall distribute (the date on which such distribution is made, the "Initial Interim Distribution Date") Pro Rata to the Holders of allowed Class 10 Claims or Equity Interests cash in the aggregate amount of Ten Million Dollars (US$10,000,000.00) (the "Initial Interim Cash Distribution Amount").

(b) Within five (5) Business Days after the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date (the "Note Assignment Date"), the Highland Entities shall cause the portion of the Dugaboy Note held by the Highland Entities to be distributed to HMIT in-kind and take all actions necessary for HMIT to become the holder of such portion of the Dugaboy Note, and shall in addition pay to HMIT cash in the aggregate amount of all principal and interest payments actually received on the Dugaboy Note by the Highland Entities, including the Indemnity Trust, from the Agreement Date to the Note Assignment Date. Prior to the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, HMIT will engage an independent valuation service provider to value the Dugaboy Note for purposes of determining the magnitude of reduction to the outstanding allowed Class 10 Interests on account of such in-kind distribution, which shall not be less than Fifty percent (50%) of the current balance owed under the Dugaboy Note. The HMIT Entities acknowledge and agree that none of the Highland Entities are representing or warranting that the Dugaboy Note can be sold, or the price, if any, that could be received for the Dugaboy Note and further acknowledge and agree that any such purchase price may be de minimis.

6. Subsequent Distribution(s) on the Allowed Class 10 Interests.

(a) On December 1, 2027, the Indemnity Trust shall distribute (such distribution, collectively, the "First Subsequent Distribution", and the date on which such Subsequent Distribution is made, the "First Subsequent Distribution Date") Pro Rata to the Holders of allowed Class 10 Claims or Equity Interests: cash in the aggregate amount of Five Million Dollars (US$5,000,000.00).

(b) On December 1, 2028, the Indemnity Trust shall distribute (such distribution, collectively, the "Second Subsequent Distribution", and the date on which such Subsequent Distribution is made, the "Second Subsequent Distribution Date") Pro Rata to the Holders of allowed Class 10 Claims or Equity Interests cash in the aggregate amount of Five Million Dollars (US$5,000,000.00).

(c) Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the obligations of the Indemnity Trust to make the First Subsequent Distribution or Second Subsequent Distribution is subject in all respects to (i) there being no Threats and (ii) a determination in accordance with Article VIII, Section 8.1(c) of the Indemnity Trust Agreement that the Indemnity Trust Assets comprising such distributions are not reasonably necessary to satisfy current or potential

Indemnification Obligations (as defined in the Indemnity Trust Agreement) to all persons who are or might become Beneficiaries (as defined in the Indemnity Trust Agreement).

7. Final Distribution on the Allowed Class 10 Interests.

(a) On the later of the Final Court Approval Date and April 1, 2029, the Indemnity Trust will distribute all excess remaining Indemnity Trust Assets in accordance with Article VIII of the Indemnity Trust Agreement; provided, however, that the obligation of the Indemnity Trust to make any such distributions and/or dissolve and wind up the affairs of the Indemnity Trust is subject in all respects to (i) there being no Threats and (ii) a determination in accordance with Article VIII of the Indemnity Trust Agreement that (1) a Final Order(s) (as defined in the Indemnity Trust Agreement) has been entered resolving all litigation, claims or proceedings in any forum of any kind which could give rise to Indemnity Obligations (as defined in the Indemnity Trust Agreement) and payment in full of all such Indemnity Obligations and (2) all applicable statutes of limitations and any applicable tolling of such statutes of limitation have expired.

(b) The Indemnity Trust agrees to not use Indemnity Trust Assets to fund Operating Expenses.

(c) Following the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, at the request of Mark Patrick, solely in his capacity, and to the extent he remains, as administrator of HMIT, but not more often than quarterly, Highland and the Indemnity Trust Administrator agree to review (i) the status of their respective assets, (ii) the balance of cash held, (iii) the status of any claims made for indemnification and any resolutions thereof, (iv) the status of any litigation, and (v) forecasted operating expenses with Mr. Patrick, and will each work in good faith to reduce operating expenses where reasonably practicable; provided, however, that all such reporting shall be subject to Mr. Patrick's agreement to maintain confidentiality with respect to any non-public information.

8. Transfer Kirschner Claims; Dismissal of HMIT Note Claims.

(a) Within five (5) Business Days after the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, but after the dismissal provided for in Section 2, the Litigation Sub-Trust shall execute a short-form assignment in in favor of the HMIT Entities transferring all of the Litigation Sub-Trust's right, title, and interest in and to the Kirschner Claims (the "Kirschner Transfer"). Such assignment shall be in a form mutually acceptable to the Parties and its substance shall be consistent with the terms, conditions and limitations set forth in this Agreement, including Section 8(b) below. Each HMIT Entity acknowledges and agrees that none of the Highland Entities will have any duty or obligation to assist the HMIT Entities in any way with respect to the Kirschner Claims, including the prosecution thereof, except as provided in this Agreement, including the terms of Section 8(c) below.

THEIR REPRESENTATIVES AS TO ANY MATTERS CONCERNING THE KIRSCHNER CLAIMS AND AMENDED COMPLAINT, INCLUDING WITH RESPECT TO THE ENFORCEABILITY, TRANSFERABILITY, VIABILITY, STRENGTH, OR VALUE OF ANY OF THE KIRSCHNER CLAIMS OR THE AMENDED COMPLAINT. The HMIT Entities hereby specifically acknowledge that they have carefully reviewed this Section and have had the opportunity to discuss its import with legal counsel and that the provisions of this Section are a material part of this Agreement. Thus, if for any reason HMIT is precluded from or is otherwise unable to prosecute all or any of the Kirschner Claims, (i) the HMIT Releasors shall have no recourse against any Highland Released Parties whatsoever and shall not be entitled to compensation of any kind, it being agreed that the HMIT Entities are otherwise receiving adequate consideration for the duties and obligations they are undertaking pursuant to this Agreement and (ii) there will be no effect whatsoever on the validity and enforceability of this Agreement or any of the other transactions contemplated hereby.

(c) As promptly as reasonably practicable following the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, the Highland Entities shall provide to the HMIT Entities electronic copies of written discovery requests and responses thereto, and documents produced in discovery in respect of the Kirschner Claims and the Amended Complaint. The Highland Entities will not provide any other documents regarding the Kirschner Claims including any attorney-client communications and any documents subject to the attorney work-product doctrine or similar privileges or immunities concerning the Kirschner Claims (collectively, the "Kirschner Privileges"), it being understood and agreed that the Highland Entities are retaining, and not transferring or waiving, the Kirschner Privileges.

(d) Each Party acknowledges and agrees that if the Kirschner Transfer is found or deemed to be impermissible or invalid, for any reason, the Kirschner Claims and Amended Complaint will revert to, and remain an asset of, the Litigation Sub-Trust.

9. General Release By The HMIT Entities. On the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, and to the maximum extent permitted by law, each of the HMIT Entities, on behalf of itself and each of its respective Affiliates (including Affiliated and/or managed funds, accounts and other investment vehicles) and its and their respective current and former advisors, consultants, administrators, trustees, directors, officers, managers, executives, members, partners (including limited and general partners), employees, beneficiaries, direct and indirect shareholders and other equity holders, agents, participants, direct and indirect subsidiaries and parents, successors, predecessors, designees, and assigns (whether by operation of law or otherwise) and all Persons claiming through, under or on their behalf (collectively with the HMIT Entities, the "HMIT Releasors") hereby forever, finally, fully, unconditionally, and completely releases, relieves, acquits, discharges, remises, and exonerates each Highland Released Party from, and waives and relinquishes, any and all Claims, which the HMIT Releasors, or any Person claiming through, under, or on behalf of any of the HMIT Releasors, ever had, now has, or hereafter can, shall, or may have against any of the Highland Released Parties by reason of, arising from, relating to, or in connection with, any fact, matter, or transaction that occurred prior to the Agreement Date, including any fact, matter, transaction, or occurrence asserted by any HMIT Entity in the Pending Litigation or in connection with, relating to, or with respect to the Bankruptcy Case, the management or operation of any of the Highland Released Parties, or the Highland Released Parties' property and including any defense, affirmative defenses, and right to setoff arising out of, or otherwise related to, any of the foregoing (collectively, the "HMIT Entity Released Claims").

10. General Release By The Highland Entities. On the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, and to the maximum extent permitted by law, each of the Highland Entities, on behalf of itself and each of its respective Affiliates (including Affiliated and/or managed funds, accounts and other investment vehicles) and its or their respective current and former advisors, consultants, administrators, trustees, directors, officers, managers, executives, members, partners (including limited and general partners), employees, beneficiaries, direct and indirect shareholders and other equity holders, agents, participants, direct and indirect subsidiaries and parents, successors, predecessors, designees, and assigns (whether by operation of law or otherwise) and all Persons claiming through, under or on their behalf (collectively with the Highland Entities, the "Highland Releasors") hereby forever, finally, fully, unconditionally, and completely releases, relieves, acquits, discharges, remises, and exonerates each HMIT Released Party from, and waives and relinquishes, any and all Claims which the Highland Releasors, or any Person claiming through, under, or on behalf of any of the Highland Releasors, ever had, now has, or hereafter can, shall, or may have against any of the HMIT Released Parties by reason of, arising from, relating to, or in connection with, any fact, matter, or transaction that occurred prior to the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, including any fact, matter, transaction, or occurrence in connection with, relating to, or with respect to the Bankruptcy Case, the management or operation of any of the HMIT Released Parties, or the HMIT Released Parties' property and including any defense, affirmative defenses, and right to setoff arising out of, or otherwise related to, any of the foregoing (collectively, the "Highland Released Claims").

11. Further Provisions Concerning The General Releases.

(a) FOR THE AVOIDANCE OF DOUBT, THE FOREGOING RELEASES ARE INTENDED TO BE GENERAL AND INCLUDE A RELEASE OF ALL RELEASED CLAIMS, WHETHER KNOWN OR UNKNOWN, SUSPECTED OR UNSUSPECTED, ARISING OR EXISTING FROM THE BEGINNING OF TIME THROUGH AND INCLUDING THE AGREEMENT DATE.

(b) To the maximum extent permitted by law, each of the HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, waives the benefit of any statute or other principle of law or equity that limits the applicability of a release with respect to Claims that the releasing party does not know or suspect to exist in his, her or its favor at the time of executing the release.

(c) Without limiting the scope of the foregoing waiver, in connection with the foregoing release, each of the HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on its own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, waives the benefits of Section 1542 of the California Civil Code (to the extent, if any, that Section 1542 might apply to the foregoing release), which provides as follows:

> A GENERAL RELEASE DOES NOT EXTEND TO CLAIMS THAT THE CREDITOR OR RELEASING PARTY DOES NOT KNOW OR SUSPECT TO EXIST IN HIS OR HER FAVOR AT THE TIME OF EXECUTING THE

RELEASE AND THAT, IF KNOWN BY HIM OR HER, WOULD HAVE MATERIALLY AFFECTED HIS OR HER SETTLEMENT WITH THE DEBTOR OR RELEASED PARTY.

Each of the HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, hereby agrees that the provisions of Section 1542 of the Civil Code of the State of California and all similar federal or state law, rights, rules or legal principles, legal or equitable, in each case solely to the extent such provisions apply, ARE HEREBY KNOWINGLY AND VOLUNTARILY WAIVED AND RELINQUISHED BY EACH OF THE HMIT ENTITIES AND THE HIGHLAND ENTITIES, ON THEIR OWN BEHALF AND ON BEHALF OF THE OTHER HMIT RELEASORS AND HIGHLAND RELEASORS, RESPECTIVELY, in each and every capacity, to the full extent that such rights and benefits pertaining to the matters released herein may be waived, and each of the HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, hereby agrees and acknowledges that this waiver and relinquishment is an essential term of this Agreement, without which the consideration provided would not have been given.

In connection with such waiver and relinquishment, each of the HMIT Entities and Highland Entities acknowledges that it is aware that it may hereafter discover Claims presently unknown or unsuspected, or facts in addition to or different from those which it now knows or believes to be true, with respect to the matters released herein. Nevertheless, it is the intent of each of the HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on its own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, in executing this Agreement fully, finally, and forever to settle and release all such matters, and all Claims related thereto, which exist, may exist or might have existed (whether or not previously or currently asserted in any action) which are the subject to the releases granted above.

(d) As an integral component of this Agreement, and notwithstanding the Parties' intent set forth in the preamble hereto and the general nature of the releases in Sections 9 and 10, should:

(i) any HMIT Releasor contend or assert that any Claim of any kind whatsoever held by any HMIT Releasor against any Highland Released Party survives this Agreement and is in any way related to or arising from or in connection with any HMIT Entity Released Claim (such claim or cause of action, a "HMIT Alleged Claim"), such HMIT Releasor will be deemed to have irrevocably, fully, and finally assigned such HMIT Alleged Claim to the Highland Entities and the Highland Entities will be deemed to have forever, finally, full, unconditionally, and irrevocably, and completely released such HMIT Alleged Claim.

(ii) any Highland Releasor contend or assert that any Claim of any kind whatsoever held by any Highland Releasor against any HMIT Released Party survives this Agreement and is in any way related to or arising from or in connection with any Highland Entity Released Claim (such claim or cause of action, a "Highland Alleged Claim"), such Highland Releasor will be deemed to have irrevocably, fully, and finally assigned such Highland Alleged Claim to the HMIT Entities and the HMIT Entities will be deemed to have forever, finally, full, unconditionally, and irrevocably, and completely released such Highland Alleged Claim.

12. Covenant Not To Sue; Limitation on Standing. Upon the Agreement Date:

(a) Each of the HMIT Releasors covenants and agrees that it will not institute or prosecute any Action, in law, in equity or otherwise, against any of the Highland Released Parties, to recover, enforce, investigate, or collect any HMIT Entity Released Claim and will not (i) induce, encourage or direct any other Person to do so or (ii) act in concert with or assist (financially or otherwise) any other Person in doing so.

(b) Each of the Highland Releasors covenants and agrees that it will not institute or prosecute any Action, in law, in equity or otherwise, against any of the HMIT Released Parties, to recover, enforce, investigate, or collect any Highland Entity Released Claim and will not (i) induce, encourage or direct any other Person to do so or (ii) act in concert with or assist (financially or otherwise) any other Person in doing so.

(c) For the avoidance of doubt, this Agreement shall not operate to give any HMIT Entity standing for any purpose in connection with the Bankruptcy Case (or in connection with any appeal arising from any order entered by the Bankruptcy Court), except for the limited purpose of seeking Court approval of this Agreement (including with respect to any appeal concerning any order entered granting or denying such approval), and except for the limited purpose of enforcing this Agreement, no HMIT Entity shall commence any Action in connection with the HMIT Class 10 Interest.

13. Representations and Warranties.

(a) Each of the HMIT Entities hereby represents and warrants that every HMIT Entity Released Claim has not heretofore been assigned or encumbered and is not the subject of a transfer (as such term is defined in 11 U.S.C. § 101(54)), by any HMIT Releasor.

(b) The HMIT Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors, acknowledge and agree that each Plan Provision is lawful, effective, and binding on the HMIT Releasors. The HMIT Entities further agree, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors, that the HMIT Releasors will never, in any way, challenge or seek to modify, nullify, vacate, or revoke, or induce, encourage or direct any other Person to do so or act in concert with or assist (financially or otherwise) any other Person in doing so the Confirmation Order, the Plan, the Plan Protections, or any Plan Document, including the Claimant Trust Agreement, the LPA, the Indemnity Trust Agreement or the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement, in the Bankruptcy Court, in any other state or federal court, in any other forum or tribunal, or otherwise, including administrative or regulatory tribunals and foreign courts.

(c) Each of the Highland Entities hereby represents and warrants that every Highland Entity Released Claim has not heretofore been assigned or encumbered and is not the subject of a transfer (as such term is defined in 11 U.S.C. § 101(54)), by any Highland Releasor.

(d) Each Party severally represents and warrants as to itself only that: (i) it has taken all necessary action to authorize and approve the execution, delivery and performance of this Agreement; (ii) such Party has full power and authority to execute and deliver this Agreement; and (iii) this Agreement constitutes a valid, legal and binding obligation of such Party, and is enforceable subject to its terms. Each individual signatory hereto individually warrants and represents to all Parties hereto that such individual has full power and authority to act on behalf of and bind the Party for which he or she has executed this Agreement; provided, however that no signatory shall otherwise provide any warranty or representation or otherwise be a party to this Agreement on an individual basis.

14. No Continuing Rights, Duties or Obligations. Except for the rights, duties, and obligations expressly set forth in this Agreement, all Rights and Obligations that existed or may have existed shall be deemed terminated, extinguished, and released upon the Agreement Date. For the avoidance of doubt, from and after the Agreement Date, (a) the Highland Released Parties, individually and collectively, shall owe no duty, past or present, including with respect to the Kirchner Claims, to the HMIT Released Parties, individually and collectively, whether contractual, fiduciary, equitable, statutory or otherwise, except as arising out of this Agreement, and (b) the HMIT Released Parties, individually and collectively, shall owe no duty to the Highland Released Parties, individually and collectively, whether contractual, fiduciary, equitable, statutory or otherwise, except as arising out of this Agreement.

(a) The HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, acknowledge and agree that, notwithstanding the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit's decision in Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. v. Highland Capital Management, L.P., No. 23-10534 (5th Cir. Mar. 18, 2025), the "Gatekeeper" provisions contained in Highland's Original Plan is forever binding on each of the HMIT Entities and any Persons claiming through, under or on behalf of any of them, and for a claim or cause of action to be "colorable" for purposes of the Gatekeeper, it must be found by final order of the Bankruptcy Court (the "Gatekeeper Court"), which order shall be subject to appeal to a court of competent jurisdiction, to have satisfied the "Gatekeeper Colorability Test" as such term is defined in In re Highland Capital Management, L.P., 2023 Bankr. LEXIS 2104 at *124-36 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. Aug. 24, 2023).

(b) The HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, acknowledge and agree that compliance with the Gatekeeper requires (i) a motion seeking leave to sue an Exculpated Party (as that term is defined in Highland's original Plan) and a finding that the litigant's claims and causes of action are "colorable" attaching a complaint setting forth the basis for such claims or causes of action and (ii), in the Gatekeeper Court's sole discretion, an evidentiary hearing (during which the Gatekeeper Court may, among other things, hear testimony and assess the credibility of any witness(es)) to determine whether a proposed claim or cause of action is "colorable."

(c) The HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, further acknowledge and agree that the moving party under the Gatekeeper has the burden of satisfying the "Gatekeeper Colorability Test," and that the dismissal of the Pending Litigation shall have res judicata effect.

16. Indemnification.

(a) Without in any manner limiting the available remedies for any breach of this Agreement, the HMIT Entities, severally but not jointly, agree to indemnify, defend, and hold the Highland Released Parties harmless from and against any and all Liability, that may arise or result from or on account of, or that are otherwise related or attributable to (x) any breach of this Agreement or of any representation or warranty contained in the Agreement, including the representations and warranties of any HMIT Entity set forth in Section 13 or (y) any Actions brought or prosecuted by or on behalf of, any HMIT Releasor or that are induced, encouraged, assisted or directed by any HMIT Releasor or brought or prosecuted in concert with any HMIT Releasor against any Highland Released Party with respect to or related to any HMIT Entity Released Claims. Without limiting the scope of the foregoing in any manner, any HMIT Entity that breaches Section 12 shall be liable to the Highland Released Party against whom the applicable Action has been brought or prosecuted in violation of Section 12 for the reasonable attorneys' fees and costs incurred by such Highland Released Party in defending against or otherwise responding to such Action. Each HMIT Entity acknowledges and agrees that the HMIT Entities are and shall be severally but not jointly liable for any Liability arising from or out of any breach of this Agreement or of any representation or warranty set forth in this Agreement.

(b) Without in any manner limiting the available remedies for any breach of this Agreement, the Highland Entities, severally but not jointly, agree to indemnify, defend, and hold the HMIT Released Parties harmless from and against any and all Liability, that may arise or result from or on account of, or that are otherwise related or attributable to (x) any breach of this Agreement or of any representation or warranty contained in the Agreement, including the representations and warranties of any Highland Entity set forth in Section 13 or (y) any suits, proceedings, or other actions brought or prosecuted by or on behalf of, any Highland Releasor or that are induced, encouraged, assisted or directed by any Highland Releasor or brought or prosecuted in concert with any Highland Releasor against any HMIT Released Party with respect to or related to any Highland Entity Released Claims. Without in any manner limiting the scope of the foregoing, any Highland Entity that breaches Section 12 shall be liable to the HMIT Released Party against whom the applicable Action has been brought or prosecuted in violation of Section 12 for the reasonable attorneys' fees and costs incurred by such HMIT Released Party in defending against or otherwise responding to such Action. Each Highland Entity acknowledges and agrees that the Highland Entities are and shall be severally but not jointly liable for any Liability arising from or out of any breach of this Agreement or of any representation or warranty set forth in this Agreement.

17. Execution. This Agreement may be executed by the exchange of signatures by facsimile or by PDF attachment to an email transmittal and in counterparts, and if so executed, shall be fully executed when a counterpart has been executed and delivered by all Parties hereto through counsel. All counterparts taken together shall constitute one and the same agreement and shall be fully enforceable as such.

18. Bankruptcy Court Order. This Agreement and the transactions contemplated hereby is subject to the entry of the Bankruptcy Court Order. To that end, the Highland Entities shall file the 9019 Motion no later than five (5) Business Days after the Agreement Date. Each Party shall, and shall cause each of their respective Affiliates to, undertake any and all actions in compliance with applicable law to obtain the Bankruptcy Court Order as promptly as practicable, and without limiting the foregoing, if an Action is threatened or instituted by any Person opposing

WHEREAS, certain distributions to be made to the holders of allowed Class 10 Claims or Equity Interests pursuant to the terms and subject to the conditions set forth herein are premised on the consent of certain Highland Covered Parties in their capacity as Holders of Class 9 Interests, and such Persons are only willing to provide such consent in exchange for the releases as set forth in this Agreement;

WHEREAS, some or all of the Highland Entities have asserted certain Claims against certain HMIT Entities, including the HMIT Note Claims;

WHEREAS, the Parties wish to terminate, extinguish, and release any and all rights, duties, obligations and Claims that (a) any of the Highland Released Parties owed or have, or may have owed or have, to or with respect to any of the HMIT Released Parties, and (b) any of the HMIT Released Parties owed or have, or may have owed or have, to or with respect to any of the Highland Released Parties, as provided in this Agreement (collectively, the "Rights and Obligations");

NOW THEREFORE, for good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, the Parties hereby agree as follows:

AGREEMENT

1. ~~Abatement~~Stay and Dismissal of Pending Litigation With Prejudice.

(a) Within ~~three (3~~five (5) Business Days after the Agreement Date, the HMIT Entities shall take all steps necessary (at their own cost) to ~~abate~~stay the Pending Litigation.

(b) Within ~~three (3~~five (5) Business Days after the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, the HMIT Entities shall take all steps necessary (at their own cost) to dismiss the Pending Litigation with prejudice.

2. Maintenance of ~~Abatement~~Stay and Dismissal of Certain Defendants from the Amended Complaint.

(a) The Litigation Trustee shall continue to maintain the ~~abatement~~stay of Adv. Proc. No. 21-03076-sgj and all related proceedings arising therefrom through the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date. Within ~~three (3~~five (5) Business Days after the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, the Litigation Sub-Trust shall take all steps necessary (at its own cost) to dismiss, with prejudice, HMIT and Rand PE from Counts I, II, III, and XXIV of the Amended Complaint.

3. Cash Payment to HMIT. ~~In consideration for the dismissal of the Pending Litigation, within three (3~~Within five (5) Business Days following the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, Highland shall pay HMIT a one-time, lump sum of Five Hundred Thousand Dollars (US$500,000.00) (the "Payment") by wire transfer:

[wire instructions]

4. HMIT Class 10 Interest.

(a) Subject to entry of the Bankruptcy Court Order, and the terms of this Agreement, the HMIT Class 10 Interest shall be deemed allowed in the amount of Three Hundred Thirty-Six Million Nine Hundred Forty Thousand Two Hundred Thirty and 58/100 Dollars (US$336,940,230.58), which amount represents the HMIT Capital Account Balance, less the HMIT Note Balance.

(b) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Plan or the Claimant Trust Agreement, as an integral part of this Agreement to consent to the allowance of the HMIT Class 10 Interest and the other considerations in this Agreement, HMIT shall not be deemed, and no holder of the HMIT Class 10 Interest shall be, a Claimant Trust Beneficiary or a "Beneficiary" under the Claimant Trust Agreement, and the Highland Released Parties, individually and collectively, shall owe no duty to any HMIT Releasor (whether contractual, fiduciary, equitable, statutory or otherwise), including with respect to the HMIT Class 10 Interest, in each case, except as expressly set forth in this Agreement. Furthermore, without limiting the foregoing and for the avoidance of doubt, the contractual right of the holder of the HMIT Class 10 Interest to receive or recover any payments or Indemnity Trust Assets from the Indemnity Trust as set forth in this Agreement or the Indemnity Trust Agreement does not make any HMIT Releasor or any other Person a beneficiary of the Indemnity Trust or under the Indemnity Trust Agreement.

(c) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Plan, the Claimant Trust Agreement or the Indemnity Trust Agreement, in no event shall HMIT sell, transfer, assign, pledge, hypothecate, participate or otherwise dispose of or encumber the HMIT Class 10 Interest or any rights (including any right to payment) with respect thereto (collectively, a "Class 10 Assignment"), and any attempted Class 10 Assignment shall be null and void.

(d) For the avoidance of doubt, the HMIT Class 10 Interest is and shall remain senior to the not yet allowed, unvested contingent Class 11 Claims of Equity Interests as provided for in the Plan, the Plan Documents, and the Claimant Trust Agreement.

5. Initial Interim Distributions on the Allowed Class 10 Interests.

(a) Within ~~ten (10~~five (5) Business Days after the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, the Indemnity Trust shall distribute (the date on which such distribution is made, the "Initial Interim Distribution Date") Pro Rata to the Holders of allowed Class 10 Claims or Equity Interests cash in the aggregate amount of ~~Twelve~~Ten Million Dollars (US$~~12~~10,000,000.00) (the "Initial Interim Cash Distribution Amount").

~~(b) HMIT shall deposit and hold Ten Million Dollars (US$10,000,000) of the Initial Interim Cash Distirbution Amount in an interest bearing escrow account (the "HMIT Escrow Account") pending the Final Court Approval Date.~~

~~(c)~~(b) Within ~~ten (10~~five (5) Business Days after the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date ~~("~~(the "Note Assignment Date"), the Highland Entities shall cause the portion of the Dugaboy Note held by the Highland Entities to be ~~assigned~~distributed to HMIT in-kind and take all actions necessary for HMIT to become the holder of such portion of the Dugaboy Note, and shall in addition pay to HMIT cash in the aggregate amount of all principal and interest payments actually received on the Dugaboy Note by the ~~the~~ Highland Entities, including the Indemnity Trust ~~as of~~, from the Agreement Date to the Note Assignment Date. Prior to the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, HMIT will engage an independent valuation service provider to value the Dugaboy Note for purposes of determining the magnitude of reduction to the outstanding allowed Class 10 Interests on account of such in-kind distribution, which shall not be less than Fifty percent (50%) of the current balance owed under the Dugaboy Note. The HMIT Entities acknowledge and agree that none of the Highland Entities are representing or warranting that the Dugaboy Note can be sold, or the price, if any, that could be received for the Dugaboy Note and further acknowledge and agree that any such purchase price may be de minimis.

6. Subsequent Distribution(s) on the Allowed Class 10 Interests.

(a) On December 1, 2027, the Indemnity Trust shall distribute (such distribution, collectively, the "First Subsequent Distribution", and the date on which such Subsequent Distribution is made, the "First Subsequent Distribution Date") Pro Rata to the Holders of allowed Class 10 Claims or Equity Interests: cash in the aggregate amount of ~~Eight~~Five Million Dollars (US$~~8~~5,000,000.00). ~~. HMIT shall deposit and hold Six Million Dollars (US$6,000,000) of the First Subequent Distribution in the HMIT Escrow Account pending the Final Court Approval Date.~~

(b) On ~~Decemeber~~December 1, 2028, the Indemnity Trust shall distribute (such distribution, collectively, the "Second Subsequent Distribution", and the date on which such Subsequent Distribution is made, the "Second Subsequent Distribution Date") Pro Rata to the Holders of allowed Class 10 Claims or Equity Interests cash in the aggregate amount of ~~Eight~~Five Million Dollars (US$~~8~~5,000,000.00).

~~(c) HMIT shall deposit and hold Six Million Dollars (US$6,000,000) of the Second Subequent Distribution in the HMIT Escrow Account pending the Final Court Approval Date.~~

~~(d)~~(c) Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the obligations of the Indemnity Trust to make the First Subsequent Distribution or Second Subsequent Distribution is subject in all respects to (i) there being no Threats and (ii) a determination in accordance with Article VIII, Section 8.1(c) of the Indemnity Trust Agreement that the Indemnity Trust Assets comprising such distributions are not reasonably necessary to satisfy current or potential Indemnification Obligations (as defined in the Indemnity Trust Agreement) to all persons who are or might become Beneficiaries (as defined in the Indemnity Trust Agreement).

7. Final Distribution on the Allowed Class 10 Interests.

(a) On the later of the Final Court Approval Date and April 1, 2029, the Indemnity Trust will distribute all excess remaining Indemnity Trust Assets in accordance with Article VIII of the Indemnity Trust Agreement; provided, however, that the obligation of the Indemnity Trust to make any such distributions and/or dissolve and wind up the affairs of the Indemnity Trust is subject in all respects to (i) there being no Threats and (ii) a determination in accordance with Article VIII of the Indemnity Trust Agreement that (1) a Final Order(s) (as defined in the Indemnity Trust Agreement) has been entered resolving all litigation, claims or proceedings in any forum of any kind which could give rise to Indemnity Obligations (as defined in the Indemnity Trust Agreement) and payment in full of all such Indemnity Obligations and (2) all applicable statutes of limitations and any applicable tolling of such statutes of limitation have expired.

(b) The Indemnity Trust agrees to not use Indemnity Trust Assets to fund Operating Expenses.

(c) Following the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, at the request of Mark Patrick, solely in his capacity, and to the extent he remains, as administrator of HMIT, but not more often than quarterly, Highland and the Indemnity Trust Administrator agree to review (i) the status of their respective assets, (ii) the balance of cash held, (iii) the status of any claims made for indemnification and any resolutions thereof, (iv) the status of any litigation, and (v) forecasted operating expenses with Mr. Patrick, and will each work in good faith to reduce operating expenses where reasonably practicable; provided, however, that all such reporting shall be subject to Mr. Patrick's agreement to maintain confidentiality with respect to any non-public information.

8. Transfer Kirschner Claims; Dismissal of HMIT Note Claims.

(a) ~~In consideration of the dismissal of the Pending Litigation and the releases provided herein, within ten (10~~Within five (5) Business Days after the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, but after the dismissal provided for in Section 2, the Litigation Sub-Trust shall execute ~~an~~a short-form assignment in~~ the form attached hereto as Exhibit [_]~~ in favor of the HMIT Entities transferring all of the Litigation Sub-Trust's right, title, and interest in and to the Kirschner Claims

(the "Kirschner Transfer"). Such assignment shall be in a form mutually acceptable to the Parties and its substance shall be consistent with the terms, conditions and limitations set forth in this Agreement, including Section 8(b) below. Each HMIT Entity acknowledges and agrees that none of the Highland Entities will have any duty or obligation to assist the HMIT Entities in any way with respect to the Kirschner Claims, including the prosecution thereof, except as provided in this Agreement, including ~~without limitation~~ the terms of Section 8(c) below.

(b) THE HMIT ENTITIES SPECIFICALLY ACKNOWLEDGE AND AGREE THAT THE LITIGATION SUB-TRUST IS TRANSFERRING THE KIRSCHNER CLAIMS ON AN "AS IS AND WITH ALL FAULTS" BASIS AND THAT THE HMIT ENTITIES ARE NOT RELYING ON ANY REPRESENTATIONS OR WARRANTIES OF ANY KIND WHATSOEVER, EXPRESS OR IMPLIED, FROM THE HIGHLAND ENTITIES OR THEIR REPRESENTATIVES AS TO ANY MATTERS CONCERNING THE KIRSCHNER CLAIMS AND AMENDED COMPLAINT, INCLUDING WITH RESPECT TO THE ENFORCEABILITY, TRANSFERABILITY, VIABILITY, STRENGTH, OR VALUE OF ANY OF THE KIRSCHNER CLAIMS OR THE AMENDED COMPLAINT. The HMIT Entities hereby specifically acknowledge that they have carefully reviewed this Section and have had the opportunity to discuss its import with legal counsel and that the provisions of this Section are a material part of this Agreement. Thus, if for any reason HMIT is precluded from or is otherwise unable to prosecute all or any of the Kirschner Claims, (i) the HMIT Releasors shall have no recourse against ~~the~~any Highland Released Parties whatsoever and shall not be entitled to compensation of any kind, it being agreed that the HMIT Entities are otherwise receiving adequate consideration for the duties and obligations they are undertaking pursuant to this Agreement and (ii) there will be no effect whatsoever on the validity and enforceability of this Agreement or any of the other transactions contemplated hereby.

(c) As promptly as reasonably practicable following the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, the Highland Entities shall provide to the HMIT Entities electronic copies of written discovery requests and responses thereto, and documents produced in discovery in respect of the Kirschner Claims and the Amended Complaint. The Highland Entities will not provide any other documents regarding the Kirschner Claims including any attorney-client communications and any documents subject to the attorney work-product doctrine or similar privileges or immunities concerning the Kirschner Claims (collectively, the "Kirschner Privileges"), it being understood and agreed that the Highland Entities are retaining, and not transferring or waiving, the Kirschner Privileges.

(d) Each Party acknowledges and agrees that if ~~(a)~~ the Kirschner Transfer is found or deemed to be impermissible or invalid, for any reason~~, or (b) the Final Court Approval Date does not occur~~, the Kirschner Claims and Amended Complaint will revert to, and remain an asset of, the Litigation Sub-Trust.

9. General Release By The HMIT Entities. On the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, and to the maximum extent permitted by law, each of the HMIT Entities, on behalf of itself and each of its respective Affiliates (including Affiliated and/or managed funds, accounts and other investment vehicles) and its and their respective current and former advisors, consultants, administrators, trustees, directors, officers, managers, executives, members, partners (including limited and general partners), employees, beneficiaries, direct and indirect shareholders and other

APPELLANT'S AMENDED DESIGNATION OF ITEMS TO BE INCLUDED IN THE RECORD ON APPEAL AND STATEMENT OF THE ISSUES PRESENTED

Pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr. P. 8009(a) and Docket No. 4366, Appellant Patrick Daugherty ("Daugherty") hereby submits his amended designation of items to be included in the record on appeal and statement of issues to be presented in connection with his appeal from the Order Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9019 and 11 U.S.C. § 363 Approving Settlement Between the Highland Entities and the HMIT Entities and Authorizing Actions Consistent Therewith [Docket

[1] Highland's last four digits of its taxpayer identification number are (8357). The headquarters and service address for Highland is 100 Crescent Court, Suite 1850, Dallas, TX 75201.

No. 4297] (the "HMIT Settlement Order").[2] See Notice of Appeal [Docket No. 4310, as amended at Docket No. 4327].

Statement of Issues on Appeal

1. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in its approval of the HMIT Settlement Order [Docket No. 4297], which permits payment to Class 10 creditors before all Class 8 and Class 9 claims have been paid in full when the plain language of the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. [Dkt. 1808], the Court's Confirmation Order [Dkt. 1943] and the Claimant Trust Agreement [Dkt. 3817-4] require full payment plus applicable interest to all Class 8 and Class 9 creditors before any Class 10 or Class 11 claims can vest.

2. Whether the Bankruptcy Court abused its discretion by approving the HMIT Settlement Order [Docket No. 4297] when the settlement is not fair, reasonable, or in the best interests of the estate as the Debtor, through its principals, is forgoing the recovery of millions in material value to the estate in exchange for, inter alia, self-serving releases of its principals.

Designation of Record

Daugherty respectfully designates the following items to be included in the appellate record pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 8009(a): equity holders, agents, participants, direct and indirect subsidiaries and parents, successors, predecessors, designees, and assigns (whether by operation of law or otherwise) and all Persons claiming through, under or on their behalf (collectively with the HMIT Entities, the "HMIT Releasors") hereby forever, finally, fully, unconditionally, and completely releases, relieves, acquits, discharges, remises, and exonerates each Highland Released Party from, and waives and relinquishes, any and all Claims, which the HMIT Releasors, or any Person claiming through, under, or on behalf of any of the HMIT Releasors, ever had, now has, or hereafter can, shall, or may have against any of the Highland Released Parties by reason of, arising from, relating to, or in connection with, any fact, matter, or transaction that occurred prior to the Agreement Date, including any fact, matter, transaction, or occurrence asserted by any HMIT Entity in the Pending Litigation or in connection with, relating to, or with respect to the Bankruptcy Case, the management or operation of any of the Highland Released Parties, or the Highland Released Parties' property and including any defense, affirmative defenses, and right to setoff arising out of, or otherwise related to, any of the foregoing (collectively, the "HMIT Entity Released Claims").

000001 1. Amended Notice of Appeal for Bankruptcy Case No. 19-34054-sgj11 [Dkt. 4327].

10. General Release By The Highland Entities. On the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, and to the maximum extent permitted by law, each of the Highland Entities, on behalf of itself and each of its respective Affiliates (including Affiliated and/or managed funds, accounts and other investment vehicles) and its or their respective current and former advisors, consultants, administrators, trustees, directors, officers, managers, executives, members, partners (including limited and general partners), employees, beneficiaries, direct and indirect shareholders and other equity holders, agents, participants, direct and indirect subsidiaries and parents, successors, predecessors, designees, and assigns (whether by operation of law or otherwise)() and all Persons claiming through, under or on their behalf (collectively with the Highland Entities, the "Highland Releasors") hereby forever, finally, fully, unconditionally, and completely releases, relieves, acquits, discharges, remises, and exonerates each HMIT Released Party from, and waives and relinquishes, any and all Claims which the Highland Releasors, or any Person claiming through, under, or on behalf of any of the Highland Releasors, ever had, now has, or hereafter can, shall, or may have against any of the HMIT Released Parties by reason of, arising from, relating to, or in connection with, any fact, matter, or transaction that occurred prior to the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, including any fact, matter, transaction, or occurrence in connection with, relating to, or with respect to the Bankruptcy Case, the management or operation of any of the HMIT Released Parties, or the HMIT Released Parties' property and including any defense, affirmative defenses, and right to setoff arising out of, or otherwise related to, any of the foregoing (collectively, the "Highland Released Claims").

11. Further Provisions Concerning The General Releases.

(a) FOR THE AVOIDANCE OF DOUBT, THE FOREGOING RELEASES ARE INTENDED TO BE GENERAL AND INCLUDE A RELEASE OF ALL RELEASED CLAIMS, WHETHER KNOWN OR UNKNOWN, SUSPECTED OR UNSUSPECTED, ARISING OR EXISTING FROM THE BEGINNING OF TIME THROUGH AND INCLUDING THE AGREEMENT DATE.

(b) To the maximum extent permitted by law, each of the HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, waives the benefit of any statute or other principle of law or equity that limits the applicability of a release with respect to Claims that the releasing party does not know or suspect to exist in his, her or its favor at the time of executing the release.

(c) Without limiting the scope of the foregoing waiver, in connection with the foregoing release, each of the HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on its own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, waives the benefits of Section 1542 of the California Civil Code (to the extent, if any, that Section 1542 might apply to the foregoing release), which provides as follows:

> A GENERAL RELEASE DOES NOT EXTEND TO CLAIMS THAT THE CREDITOR OR RELEASING PARTY DOES NOT KNOW OR SUSPECT TO EXIST IN HIS OR HER FAVOR AT THE TIME OF EXECUTING THE RELEASE AND THAT, IF KNOWN BY HIM OR HER, WOULD HAVE MATERIALLY AFFECTED HIS OR HER SETTLEMENT WITH THE DEBTOR OR RELEASED PARTY.

Each of the HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, hereby agrees that the provisions of Section 1542 of the Civil Code of the State of California and all similar federal or state law, rights, rules or legal principles, legal or equitable, in each case solely to the extent such provisions apply, ARE HEREBY KNOWINGLY AND VOLUNTARILY WAIVED AND RELINQUISHED BY EACH OF THE HMIT ENTITIES AND THE HIGHLAND ENTITIES, ON THEIR OWN BEHALF AND ON BEHALF OF THE OTHER HMIT RELEASORS AND HIGHLAND RELEASORS, RESPECTIVELY, in each and every capacity, to the full extent that such rights and benefits pertaining to the matters released herein may be waived, and each of the HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, hereby agrees and acknowledges that this waiver and relinquishment is an essential term of this Agreement, without which the consideration provided would not have been given.

In connection with such waiver and relinquishment, each of the HMIT Entities and Highland Entities acknowledges that it is aware that it may hereafter discover Claims presently unknown or unsuspected, or facts in addition to or different from those which it now knows or believes to be true, with respect to the matters released herein. Nevertheless, it is the intent of each of the HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on its own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, in executing this Agreement fully, finally, and forever to settle and release all such matters, and all Claims related thereto, which exist, may exist or might have existed (whether or not previously or currently asserted in any action) which are the subject to the releases granted above.

(d) As an integral component of this Agreement, and notwithstanding the Parties' intent set forth in the preamble hereto and the general nature of the releases in Sections 9 and 10, should:

(i) any HMIT Releasor contend or assert that any Claim of any kind whatsoever held by any HMIT Releasor against any Highland Released Party survives this

Agreement and is in any way related to or arising from or in connection with any HMIT Entity Released Claim (such claim or cause of action, a "HMIT Alleged Claim"), such HMIT Releasor will be deemed to have irrevocably, fully, and finally assigned such HMIT Alleged Claim to the Highland Entities and the Highland Entities will be deemed to have forever, finally, full, unconditionally, and irrevocably, and completely released such HMIT Alleged Claim.

(ii) any Highland Releasor contend or assert that any Claim of any kind whatsoever held by any Highland Releasor against any HMIT Released Party survives this Agreement and is in any way related to or arising from or in connection with any Highland Entity Released Claim (such claim or cause of action, a "Highland Alleged Claim"), such Highland Releasor will be deemed to have irrevocably, fully, and finally assigned such Highland Alleged Claim to the HMIT Entities and the HMIT Entities will be deemed to have forever, finally, full, unconditionally, and irrevocably, and completely released such Highland Alleged Claim.

12. Covenant Not To Sue; Limitation on Standing. Upon the Agreement Date:

(a) Each of the HMIT Releasors covenants and agrees that it will not institute or prosecute any Action, in law, in equity or otherwise, against any of the Highland Released Parties, to recover, enforce, investigate, or collect any HMIT Entity Released Claim and will not (i) induce, encourage or direct any other Person to do so or (ii) act in concert with or assist (financially or otherwise) any other Person in doing so.

(b) Each of the Highland Releasors covenants and agrees that it will not institute or prosecute any Action, in law, in equity or otherwise, against any of the HMIT Released Parties, to recover, enforce, investigate, or collect any Highland Entity Released Claim and will not (i) induce, encourage or direct any other Person to do so or (ii) act in concert with or assist (financially or otherwise) any other Person in doing so.

(c) For the avoidance of doubt, this Agreement shall not operate to give any HMIT Entity standing for any purpose in connection with the Bankruptcy Case (or in connection with any appeal arising from any order entered by the Bankruptcy Court), except for the limited purpose of seeking Court approval of this Agreement (including with respect to any appeal concerning any order entered granting or denying such approval), and except for the limited purpose of enforcing this Agreement, no HMIT Entity shall commence any Action in connection with the HMIT Class 10 Interest.

13. Representations and Warranties.

(a) Each of the HMIT Entities hereby represents and warrants that every HMIT Entity Released Claim has not heretofore been assigned or encumbered and is not the subject of a transfer (as such term is defined in 11 U.S.C. § 101(54)), by any HMIT Releasor.

(b) The HMIT Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors, acknowledge and agree that each Plan Provision is lawful, effective, and binding on the HMIT Releasors. The HMIT Entities further agree, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors, that the HMIT Releasors will never, in any way, challenge or seek to modify, nullify, vacate, or revoke, or induce, encourage or direct any other Person to do so or act in concert with or assist (financially or otherwise) any other Person in doing so the Confirmation Order, the Plan, the Plan Protections, or any Plan Document, including the Claimant Trust Agreement, the LPA, the Indemnity Trust Agreement or the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement, in the Bankruptcy Court, in any other state or federal court, in any other forum or tribunal, or otherwise, including administrative or regulatory tribunals and foreign courts.

(c) Each of the Highland Entities hereby represents and warrants that every Highland Entity Released Claim has not heretofore been assigned or encumbered and is not the subject of a transfer (as such term is defined in 11 U.S.C. § 101(54)), by any Highland Releasor.

(d) Each Party severally represents and warrants as to itself only that: (i) it has taken all necessary action to authorize and approve the execution, delivery and performance of this Agreement; (ii) such Party has full power and authority to execute and deliver this Agreement; and (iii) this Agreement constitutes a valid, legal and binding obligation of such Party, and is enforceable subject to its terms. Each individual signatory hereto individually warrants and represents to all Parties hereto that such individual has full power and authority to act on behalf of and bind the Party for which he or she has executed this Agreement; provided, however that no signatory shall otherwise provide any warranty or representation or otherwise be a party to this Agreement on an individual basis.

14. No Continuing Rights, Duties or Obligations. Except for the rights, duties, and obligations expressly set forth in this Agreement, all Rights and Obligations that existed or may have existed shall be deemed terminated, extinguished, and released upon the Agreement Date. For the avoidance of doubt, from and after the Agreement Date, (a) the Highland Released Parties, individually and collectively, shall owe no duty, past or present, including with respect to the Kirchner Claims, to the HMIT ~~Releasors~~Released Parties, individually and collectively, whether contractual, fiduciary, equitable, statutory or otherwise, except as arising out of this Agreement, and (b) the HMIT Released Parties, individually and collectively, shall owe no duty to the Highland ~~Releasors~~Released Parties, individually and collectively, whether contractual, fiduciary, equitable, statutory or otherwise, except as arising out of this Agreement.

15. Gatekeeper Standard.

(a) The HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, acknowledge and agree that, notwithstanding the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit's decision in Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. v. Highland Capital Management, L.P., No. 23-10^{53}4 (5th Cir. Mar. 18, 2025), the "Gatekeeper" provisions contained in Highland's Original Plan is forever binding on each of the HMIT Entities and any Persons claiming through, under or on behalf of any of them, and for a claim or cause of action to be "colorable" for purposes of the Gatekeeper, it must be found by final order of the Bankruptcy Court (the "Gatekeeper Court"), which order shall be subject to appeal to a court of competent jurisdiction, to have satisfied the "Gatekeeper Colorability Test" as such term is defined in In re Highland Capital Management, L.P., 2023 Bankr. LEXIS 2104 at *124-36 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. Aug. 24, 2023).

(b) The HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, acknowledge and agree that compliance with the Gatekeeper requires (i) a motion seeking leave to sue an Exculpated Party

(as that term is defined in Highland's original Plan) and a finding that the litigant's claims and causes of action are "colorable" attaching a complaint setting forth the basis for such claims or causes of action and (ii), in the Gatekeeper Court's sole discretion, an evidentiary hearing (during which the Gatekeeper Court may, among other things, hear testimony and assess the credibility of any witness(es)) to determine whether a proposed claim or cause of action is "colorable."

(c) The HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, further acknowledge and agree that the moving party under the Gatekeeper has the burden of satisfying the "Gatekeeper Colorability Test.~~"~~," and that the dismissal of the Pending Litigation shall have res judicata effect.

16. Indemnification.

(a) Without in any manner limiting the available remedies for any breach of this Agreement, the HMIT Entities, severally but not jointly, agree to indemnify, defend, and hold the Highland Released Parties harmless from and against any and all Liability, that may arise or result from or on account of, or that are otherwise related or attributable to (x) any breach of this Agreement or of any representation or warranty contained in the Agreement, including the representations and warranties of any HMIT Entity set forth in Section 13 or (y) any Actions brought or prosecuted by or on behalf of, any HMIT Releasor or that are induced, encouraged, assisted or directed by any HMIT Releasor or brought or prosecuted in concert with any HMIT Releasor against any Highland Released Party with respect to or related to any HMIT Entity Released Claims. Without limiting the scope of the foregoing in any manner, any HMIT Entity that breaches Section 12 shall be liable to the Highland Released Party against whom the applicable Action has been brought or prosecuted in violation of Section 12 for the reasonable attorneys' fees and costs incurred by such Highland Released Party in defending against or otherwise responding to such Action. Each HMIT Entity acknowledges and agrees that the HMIT Entities are and shall be severally but not jointly liable for any Liability arising from or out of any breach of this Agreement or of any representation or warranty set forth in this Agreement.

(b) Without in any manner limiting the available remedies for any breach of this Agreement, the Highland Entities, severally but not jointly, agree to indemnify, defend, and hold the HMIT Released Parties harmless from and against any and all Liability, that may arise or result from or on account of, or that are otherwise related or attributable to (x) any breach of this Agreement or of any representation or warranty contained in the Agreement, including the representations and warranties of any Highland Entity set forth in Section 13 or (y) any suits, proceedings, or other actions brought or prosecuted by or on behalf of, any Highland Releasor or that are induced, encouraged, assisted or directed by any Highland Releasor or brought or prosecuted in concert with any Highland Releasor against any HMIT Released Party with respect to or related to any Highland Entity Released Claims. Without in any manner limiting the scope of the foregoing, any Highland Entity that breaches Section 12 shall be liable to the HMIT Released Party against whom the applicable Action has been brought or prosecuted in violation of Section 12 for the reasonable attorneys' fees and costs incurred by such HMIT Released Party in defending against or otherwise responding to such Action. To that end, the Highland Entities shall file the 9019 Motion no later than five (5) Business Days after the Agreement Date. Each Party shall, and shall cause each of their respective Affiliates to, undertake any and all actions in compliance with applicable law to obtain the Bankruptcy Court Order as promptly as practicable, and without limiting the foregoing, if an Action is threatened or instituted by any Person opposing the 9019 Motion or otherwise challenging the validity or legality, or seeking to restrain the consummation, of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement or the Bankruptcy Court Order, each Party shall, and shall cause its respective Affiliates to, use their commercially reasonable best efforts to avoid, resist, resolve or, if necessary, and defend to effectuate this Agreement and consummate the transactions hereby. 19. Fees and Expenses. Whether or not the transactions contemplated hereby are consummated or the Bankruptcy Court Order is obtained, and except as otherwise expressly provided in this Agreement, each Party will bear its respective fees, costs and expenses (including legal, accounting and other professional fees) incurred in connection with the preparation, negotiation, execution and performance of this Agreement or the transactions contemplated hereby, including with respect to each Party's respective obligations pursuant to Section 18. Notwithstanding the foregoing, if any Party hereto brings an Action to enforce or interpret the terms and provisions of this Agreement, the prevailing Party in that Action shall be entitled to have and recover from the non-prevailing Party all such fees, costs and expenses (including all court costs and reasonable attorneys' fees) as the prevailing Party may suffer or incur in the pursuit or defense of such action or proceeding.

20. Entire Agreement; No Other Representations. THIS AGREEMENT CONTAINS THE ENTIRE AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE PARTIES, AND NO RIGHTS ARE CREATED IN FAVOR OF ANY ~~PARTY~~PERSON OTHER THAN AS SPECIFIED OR EXPRESSLY SET FORTH IN THIS AGREEMENT. (b) On December 1, 2028, the Indemnity Trust shall distribute (such distribution, collectively, the "Second Subsequent Distribution", and the date on which such Subsequent Distribution is made, the "Second Subsequent Distribution Date") Pro Rata to the Holders of allowed Class 10 Claims or Equity Interests cash in the aggregate amount of Six Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars (US$6,500,000.00).

(c) Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the obligations of the Indemnity Trust to make the First Subsequent Distribution or Second Subsequent Distribution is subject in all respects to (i) there being no Threats and (ii) a determination in accordance with Article VIII, Section 8.1(c) of the Indemnity Trust Agreement that the Indemnity Trust Assets comprising such distributions are not reasonably necessary to satisfy current or potential

Indemnification Obligations (as defined in the Indemnity Trust Agreement) to all persons who are or might become Beneficiaries (as defined in the Indemnity Trust Agreement).

7. Final Distribution on the Allowed Class 10 Interests.

(a) On the later of the Final Court Approval Date and April 1, 2029, the Indemnity Trust will distribute all excess remaining Indemnity Trust Assets in accordance with Article VIII of the Indemnity Trust Agreement; provided, however, that the obligation of the Indemnity Trust to make any such distributions and/or dissolve and wind up the affairs of the Indemnity Trust is subject in all respects to (i) there being no Threats and (ii) a determination in accordance with Article VIII of the Indemnity Trust Agreement that (1) a Final Order(s) (as defined in the Indemnity Trust Agreement) has been entered resolving all litigation, claims or proceedings in any forum of any kind which could give rise to Indemnity Obligations (as defined in the Indemnity Trust Agreement) and payment in full of all such Indemnity Obligations and (2) all applicable statutes of limitations and any applicable tolling of such statutes of limitation have expired.

8. Transfer Kirschner Claims; Dismissal of HMIT Note Claims.

(a) Within five (5) Business Days after the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, but after the dismissal provided for in Section 2, the Litigation Sub-Trust shall execute a short-form assignment in in favor of the HMIT Entities transferring all of the Litigation Sub-Trust's right, title, and interest in and to the Kirschner Claims (the "Kirschner Transfer"). Such assignment shall be in a form mutually acceptable to the Parties and its substance shall be consistent with the terms, conditions and limitations set forth in this Agreement, including Section 8(b) below. Each HMIT Entity acknowledges and agrees that none of the Highland Entities will have any duty or obligation to assist the HMIT Entities in any way with respect to the Kirschner Claims, including the prosecution thereof, except as provided in this Agreement, including the terms of Section 8(c) below.

THEIR REPRESENTATIVES AS TO ANY MATTERS CONCERNING THE KIRSCHNER CLAIMS AND AMENDED COMPLAINT, INCLUDING WITH RESPECT TO THE ENFORCEABILITY, TRANSFERABILITY, VIABILITY, STRENGTH, OR VALUE OF ANY OF THE KIRSCHNER CLAIMS OR THE AMENDED COMPLAINT. The HMIT Entities hereby specifically acknowledge that they have carefully reviewed this Section and have had the opportunity to discuss its import with legal counsel and that the provisions of this Section are a material part of this Agreement. Thus, if for any reason HMIT is precluded from or is otherwise unable to prosecute all or any of the Kirschner Claims, (i) the HMIT Releasors shall have no recourse against any Highland Released Parties whatsoever and shall not be entitled to compensation of any kind, it being agreed that the HMIT Entities are otherwise receiving adequate consideration for the duties and obligations they are undertaking pursuant to this Agreement and (ii) there will be no effect whatsoever on the validity and enforceability of this Agreement or any of the other transactions contemplated hereby.

(c) As promptly as reasonably practicable following the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, the Highland Entities shall provide to the HMIT Entities electronic copies of written discovery requests and responses thereto, and documents produced in discovery in respect of the Kirschner Claims and the Amended Complaint. The Highland Entities will not provide any other documents regarding the Kirschner Claims including any attorney-client communications and any documents subject to the attorney work-product doctrine or similar privileges or immunities concerning the Kirschner Claims (collectively, the "Kirschner Privileges"), it being understood and agreed that the Highland Entities are retaining, and not transferring or waiving, the Kirschner Privileges.

(d) Each Party acknowledges and agrees that if (i) the Kirschner Transfer is found or deemed to be impermissible or invalid, for any reason, or (ii) any HMIT Entity materially breaches this Agreement, the Kirschner Claims and Amended Complaint will revert to, and remain an asset of, the Litigation Sub-Trust.

9. General Release By The HMIT Entities. On the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, and to the maximum extent permitted by law, each of the HMIT Entities, on behalf of itself and each of its respective Affiliates (including Affiliated and/or managed funds, accounts and other investment vehicles) and its and their respective current and former advisors, consultants, administrators, trustees, directors, officers, managers, executives, members, partners (including limited and general partners), employees, beneficiaries, direct and indirect shareholders and other equity holders, agents, participants, direct and indirect subsidiaries and parents, successors, predecessors, designees, and assigns (whether by operation of law or otherwise) and all Persons claiming through, under or on their behalf (collectively with the HMIT Entities, the "HMIT Releasors") hereby forever, finally, fully, unconditionally, and completely releases, relieves, acquits, discharges, remises, and exonerates each Highland Released Party from, and waives and relinquishes, any and all Claims, which the HMIT Releasors, or any Person claiming through, under, or on behalf of any of the HMIT Releasors, ever had, now has, or hereafter can, shall, or may have against any of the Highland Released Parties by reason of, arising from, relating to, or in connection with, any fact, matter, or transaction that occurred prior to the Agreement Date, including any fact, matter, transaction, or occurrence asserted by any HMIT Entity in the Pending Litigation or in connection with, relating to, or with respect to the Bankruptcy Case, the management or operation of any of the Highland Released Parties, or the Highland Released

Parties' property and including any defense, affirmative defenses, and right to setoff arising out of, or otherwise related to, any of the foregoing (collectively, the "HMIT Entity Released Claims").

10. General Release By The Highland Entities. On the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, and to the maximum extent permitted by law, each of the Highland Entities, on behalf of itself and each of its respective Affiliates (including Affiliated and/or managed funds, accounts and other investment vehicles) and its or their respective current and former advisors, consultants, administrators, trustees, directors, officers, managers, executives, members, partners (including limited and general partners), employees, beneficiaries, direct and indirect shareholders and other equity holders, agents, participants, direct and indirect subsidiaries and parents, successors, predecessors, designees, and assigns (whether by operation of law or otherwise) and all Persons claiming through, under or on their behalf (collectively with the Highland Entities, the "Highland Releasors") hereby forever, finally, fully, unconditionally, and completely releases, relieves, acquits, discharges, remises, and exonerates each HMIT Released Party from, and waives and relinquishes, any and all Claims which the Highland Releasors, or any Person claiming through, under, or on behalf of any of the Highland Releasors, ever had, now has, or hereafter can, shall, or may have against any of the HMIT Released Parties by reason of, arising from, relating to, or in connection with, any fact, matter, or transaction that occurred prior to the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, including any fact, matter, transaction, or occurrence in connection with, relating to, or with respect to the Bankruptcy Case, the management or operation of any of the HMIT Released Parties, or the HMIT Released Parties' property and including any defense, affirmative defenses, and right to setoff arising out of, or otherwise related to, any of the foregoing (collectively, the "Highland Released Claims").

11. Further Provisions Concerning The General Releases.

(a) FOR THE AVOIDANCE OF DOUBT, THE FOREGOING RELEASES ARE INTENDED TO BE GENERAL AND INCLUDE A RELEASE OF ALL RELEASED CLAIMS, WHETHER KNOWN OR UNKNOWN, SUSPECTED OR UNSUSPECTED, ARISING OR EXISTING FROM THE BEGINNING OF TIME THROUGH AND INCLUDING THE AGREEMENT DATE.

(b) To the maximum extent permitted by law, each of the HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, waives the benefit of any statute or other principle of law or equity that limits the applicability of a release with respect to Claims that the releasing party does not know or suspect to exist in his, her or its favor at the time of executing the release.

(c) Without limiting the scope of the foregoing waiver, in connection with the foregoing release, each of the HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on its own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, waives the benefits of Section 1542 of the California Civil Code (to the extent, if any, that Section 1542 might apply to the foregoing release), which provides as follows:

A GENERAL RELEASE DOES NOT EXTEND TO CLAIMS THAT THE CREDITOR OR RELEASING PARTY DOES NOT KNOW OR SUSPECT

TO EXIST IN HIS OR HER FAVOR AT THE TIME OF EXECUTING THE RELEASE AND THAT, IF KNOWN BY HIM OR HER, WOULD HAVE MATERIALLY AFFECTED HIS OR HER SETTLEMENT WITH THE DEBTOR OR RELEASED PARTY.

Each of the HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, hereby agrees that the provisions of Section 1542 of the Civil Code of the State of California and all similar federal or state law, rights, rules or legal principles, legal or equitable, in each case solely to the extent such provisions apply, ARE HEREBY KNOWINGLY AND VOLUNTARILY WAIVED AND RELINQUISHED BY EACH OF THE HMIT ENTITIES AND THE HIGHLAND ENTITIES, ON THEIR OWN BEHALF AND ON BEHALF OF THE OTHER HMIT RELEASORS AND HIGHLAND RELEASORS, RESPECTIVELY, in each and every capacity, to the full extent that such rights and benefits pertaining to the matters released herein may be waived, and each of the HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, hereby agrees and acknowledges that this waiver and relinquishment is an essential term of this Agreement, without which the consideration provided would not have been given.

In connection with such waiver and relinquishment, each of the HMIT Entities and Highland Entities acknowledges that it is aware that it may hereafter discover Claims presently unknown or unsuspected, or facts in addition to or different from those which it now knows or believes to be true, with respect to the matters released herein. Nevertheless, it is the intent of each of the HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on its own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, in executing this Agreement fully, finally, and forever to settle and release all such matters, and all Claims related thereto, which exist, may exist or might have existed (whether or not previously or currently asserted in any action) which are the subject to the releases granted above.

(d) As an integral component of this Agreement, and notwithstanding the Parties' intent set forth in the preamble hereto and the general nature of the releases in Sections 9 and 10, should:

(i) any HMIT Releasor contend or assert that any Claim of any kind whatsoever held by any HMIT Releasor against any Highland Released Party survives this Agreement and is in any way related to or arising from or in connection with any HMIT Entity Released Claim (such claim or cause of action, a "HMIT Alleged Claim"), such HMIT Releasor will be deemed to have irrevocably, fully, and finally assigned such HMIT Alleged Claim to the Highland Entities and the Highland Entities will be deemed to have forever, finally, full, unconditionally, and irrevocably, and completely released such HMIT Alleged Claim.

(ii) any Highland Releasor contend or assert that any Claim of any kind whatsoever held by any Highland Releasor against any HMIT Released Party survives this Agreement and is in any way related to or arising from or in connection with any Highland Entity Released Claim (such claim or cause of action, a "Highland Alleged Claim"), such Highland Releasor will be deemed to have irrevocably, fully, and finally assigned such Highland Alleged Claim to the HMIT Entities and the HMIT Entities will be deemed to have forever, finally, full, unconditionally, and irrevocably, and completely released such Highland Alleged Claim.

12. Covenant Not To Sue; Limitation on Standing. Upon the Agreement Date:

(a) Each of the HMIT Releasors covenants and agrees that it will not institute or prosecute any Action, in law, in equity or otherwise, against any of the Highland Released Parties, to recover, enforce, investigate, or collect any HMIT Entity Released Claim and will not (i) induce, encourage or direct any other Person to do so or (ii) act in concert with or assist (financially or otherwise) any other Person in doing so.

(b) Each of the Highland Releasors covenants and agrees that it will not institute or prosecute any Action, in law, in equity or otherwise, against any of the HMIT Released Parties, to recover, enforce, investigate, or collect any Highland Entity Released Claim and will not (i) induce, encourage or direct any other Person to do so or (ii) act in concert with or assist (financially or otherwise) any other Person in doing so.

(c) For the avoidance of doubt, this Agreement shall not operate to give any HMIT Entity standing for any purpose in connection with the Bankruptcy Case (or in connection with any appeal arising from any order entered by the Bankruptcy Court), except for the limited purpose of seeking Court approval of this Agreement (including with respect to any appeal concerning any order entered granting or denying such approval), and except for the limited purpose of enforcing this Agreement, no HMIT Entity shall commence any Action in connection with the HMIT Class 10 Interest.

13. Representations and Warranties.

(a) Each of the HMIT Entities hereby represents and warrants that every HMIT Entity Released Claim has not heretofore been assigned or encumbered and is not the subject of a transfer (as such term is defined in 11 U.S.C. § 101(54)), by any HMIT Releasor.

(b) The HMIT Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors, acknowledge and agree that each Plan Provision is lawful, effective, and binding on the HMIT Releasors. The HMIT Entities further agree, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors, that the HMIT Releasors will never, in any way, challenge or seek to modify, nullify, vacate, or revoke, or induce, encourage or direct any other Person to do so or act in concert with or assist (financially or otherwise) any other Person in doing so the Confirmation Order, the Plan, the Plan Protections, or any Plan Document, including the Claimant Trust Agreement, the LPA, the Indemnity Trust Agreement or the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement, in the Bankruptcy Court, in any other state or federal court, in any other forum or tribunal, or otherwise, including administrative or regulatory tribunals and foreign courts.

(c) Each of the Highland Entities hereby represents and warrants that every Highland Entity Released Claim has not heretofore been assigned or encumbered and is not the subject of a transfer (as such term is defined in 11 U.S.C. § 101(54)), by any Highland Releasor.

(d) Each Party severally represents and warrants as to itself only that: (i) it has taken all necessary action to authorize and approve the execution, delivery and performance of this Agreement; (ii) such Party has full power and authority to execute and deliver this Agreement; and (iii) this Agreement constitutes a valid, legal and binding obligation of such Party, and is enforceable subject to its terms. Each individual signatory hereto individually warrants and represents to all Parties hereto that such individual has full power and authority to act on behalf of and bind the Party for which he or she has executed this Agreement; provided, however that no signatory shall otherwise provide any warranty or representation or otherwise be a party to this Agreement on an individual basis.

14. No Continuing Rights, Duties or Obligations. Except for the rights, duties, and obligations expressly set forth in this Agreement, all Rights and Obligations that existed or may have existed shall be deemed terminated, extinguished, and released upon the Agreement Date. For the avoidance of doubt, from and after the Agreement Date, (a) the Highland Released Parties, individually and collectively, shall owe no duty, past or present, including with respect to the Kirchner Claims, to the HMIT Released Parties, individually and collectively, whether contractual, fiduciary, equitable, statutory or otherwise, except as arising out of this Agreement, and (b) the HMIT Released Parties, individually and collectively, shall owe no duty to the Highland Released Parties, individually and collectively, whether contractual, fiduciary, equitable, statutory or otherwise, except as arising out of this Agreement.

15. Gatekeeper Standard.

(a) The HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, acknowledge and agree that, notwithstanding the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit's decision in Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. v. Highland Capital Management, L.P., No. 23-10534 (5th Cir. Mar. 18, 2025), the "Gatekeeper" provisions contained in Highland's Original Plan is forever binding on each of the HMIT Entities and any Persons claiming through, under or on behalf of any of them, and for a claim or cause of action to be "colorable" for purposes of the Gatekeeper, it must be found by final order of the Bankruptcy Court (the "Gatekeeper Court"), which order shall be subject to appeal to a court of competent jurisdiction, to have satisfied the "Gatekeeper Colorability Test" as such term is defined in In re Highland Capital Management, L.P., 2023 Bankr. LEXIS 2104 at *124-36 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. Aug. 24, 2023).

(b) The HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, acknowledge and agree that compliance with the Gatekeeper requires (i) a motion seeking leave to sue an Exculpated Party (as that term is defined in Highland's original Plan) and a finding that the litigant's claims and causes of action are "colorable" attaching a complaint setting forth the basis for such claims or causes of action and (ii), in the Gatekeeper Court's sole discretion, an evidentiary hearing (during which the Gatekeeper Court may, among other things, hear testimony and assess the credibility of any witness(es)) to determine whether a proposed claim or cause of action is "colorable."

(c) The HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, further acknowledge and agree that the moving party under the Gatekeeper has the burden of satisfying the "Gatekeeper Colorability Test," and that the dismissal of the Pending Litigation shall have res judicata effect.

16. Indemnification.

(a) Without in any manner limiting the available remedies for any breach of this Agreement, the HMIT Entities, severally but not jointly, agree to indemnify, defend, and hold the Highland Released Parties harmless from and against any and all Liability, that may arise or result from or on account of, or that are otherwise related or attributable to (x) any breach of this Agreement or of any representation or warranty contained in the Agreement, including the representations and warranties of any HMIT Entity set forth in Section 13 or (y) any Actions brought or prosecuted by or on behalf of, any HMIT Releasor or that are induced, encouraged, assisted or directed by any HMIT Releasor or brought or prosecuted in concert with any HMIT Releasor against any Highland Released Party with respect to or related to any HMIT Entity Released Claims. Without limiting the scope of the foregoing in any manner, any HMIT Entity that breaches Section 12 shall be liable to the Highland Released Party against whom the applicable Action has been brought or prosecuted in violation of Section 12 for the reasonable attorneys' fees and costs incurred by such Highland Released Party in defending against or otherwise responding to such Action. Each HMIT Entity acknowledges and agrees that the HMIT Entities are and shall be severally but not jointly liable for any Liability arising from or out of any breach of this Agreement or of any representation or warranty set forth in this Agreement.

(b) Without in any manner limiting the available remedies for any breach of this Agreement, the Highland Entities, severally but not jointly, agree to indemnify, defend, and hold the HMIT Released Parties harmless from and against any and all Liability, that may arise or result from or on account of, or that are otherwise related or attributable to (x) any breach of this Agreement or of any representation or warranty contained in the Agreement, including the representations and warranties of any Highland Entity set forth in Section 13 or (y) any suits, proceedings, or other actions brought or prosecuted by or on behalf of, any Highland Releasor or that are induced, encouraged, assisted or directed by any Highland Releasor or brought or prosecuted in concert with any Highland Releasor against any HMIT Released Party with respect to or related to any Highland Entity Released Claims. Without in any manner limiting the scope of the foregoing, any Highland Entity that breaches Section 12 shall be liable to the HMIT Released Party against whom the applicable Action has been brought or prosecuted in violation of Section 12 for the reasonable attorneys' fees and costs incurred by such HMIT Released Party in defending against or otherwise responding to such Action. Each Highland Entity acknowledges and agrees that the Highland Entities are and shall be severally but not jointly liable for any Liability arising from or out of any breach of this Agreement or of any representation or warranty set forth in this Agreement.

17. Execution. This Agreement may be executed by the exchange of signatures by facsimile or by PDF attachment to an email transmittal and in counterparts, and if so executed, shall be fully executed when a counterpart has been executed and delivered by all Parties hereto through counsel. All counterparts taken together shall constitute one and the same agreement and shall be fully enforceable as such.

18. Bankruptcy Court Order. The allowance of the allowed HMIT Class 10 Interest pursuant to Section 4 is subject to the entry of the Bankruptcy Court Order. To that end, the Highland Entities shall file the 9019 Motion no later than five (5) Business Days after the Agreement Date. Each Party shall, and shall cause each of their respective Affiliates to, undertake any and all actions in compliance with applicable law to obtain the Bankruptcy Court Order as promptly as practicable, and without limiting the foregoing, if an Action is threatened or instituted by any Person opposing the 9019 Motion or otherwise challenging the validity or legality, or seeking to restrain the consummation, of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement or the Bankruptcy Court Order, each Party shall, and shall cause its respective Affiliates to, use their commercially reasonable best efforts to avoid, resist, resolve or, if necessary, and defend to effectuate this Agreement and consummate the transactions hereby. If the 9019 Motion is not approved by entry of the Bankruptcy Court Order or if the Bankruptcy Court Approval is precluded from becoming a Final Order, (a) there will be no affect on, adjustment to, or impairment of, in any way, the validity and enforceability of the remainder of this Agreement, and the other transactions contemplated hereby, all of which shall remain in full force and effect and (b) each Party shall, and shall cause its respective Affiliates to, use their best efforts to seek the allowance of the HMIT Class 10 Interest in a substantially similar amount and on substantially similar terms as set forth in Section 4 to the fullest extent possible so as to give effect to the original intent of the Parties as closely as possible.

19. Fees and Expenses. Whether or not the transactions contemplated hereby are consummated or the Bankruptcy Court Order is obtained, and except as otherwise expressly provided in this Agreement, each Party will bear its respective fees, costs and expenses (including legal, accounting and other professional fees) incurred in connection with the preparation, negotiation, execution and performance of this Agreement or the transactions contemplated hereby, including with respect to each Party's respective obligations pursuant to Section 18. Notwithstanding the foregoing, if any Party hereto brings an Action to enforce or interpret the terms and provisions of this Agreement, the prevailing Party in that Action shall be entitled to have and recover from the non-prevailing Party all such fees, costs and expenses (including all court costs and reasonable attorneys' fees) as the prevailing Party may suffer or incur in the pursuit or defense of such action or proceeding.

20. Entire Agreement; No Other Representations. THIS AGREEMENT CONTAINS THE ENTIRE AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE PARTIES, AND NO RIGHTS ARE CREATED IN FAVOR OF ANY PERSON OTHER THAN AS SPECIFIED OR EXPRESSLY SET FORTH IN THIS AGREEMENT. THERE ARE NO REPRESENTATIONS, CONDITIONS, WARRANTIES, STATEMENTS, OR UNDERSTANDINGS (COLLECTIVELY, "REPRESENTATIONS"), EITHER ORAL OR WRITTEN, BETWEEN THE PARTIES OTHER THAN THOSE EXPRESSLY SET FORTH IN THIS AGREEMENT. THE PARTIES EXPRESSLY AGREE THAT THEY HAVE NOT BEEN INDUCED TO ENTER INTO THIS AGREEMENT BY ANY REPRESENTATIONS NOT SET FORTH IN THIS AGREEMENT; AND THE PARTIES EXPRESSLY AGREE THAT THEY HAVE NOT RELIED ON ANY REPRESENTATIONS NOT EXPRESSLY SET FORTH IN THIS AGREEMENT. THE PARTIES EXPRESSLY AGREE THAT THEY ARE ENTERING INTO THIS AGREEMENT RELYING SOLELY ON THEIR OWN JUDGMENT AND NOT ON ANY REPRESENTATIONS BY ANY PARTY, EXCEPT FOR THOSE REPRESENTATIONS EXPRESSLY SET FORTH IN THIS AGREEMENT. THE PARTIES AGREE THAT REPRESENTATIONS NOT EXPRESSLY SET FORTH IN THIS AGREEMENT SHALL NOT BE USED IN THE INTERPRETATION OR CONSTRUCTION OF THIS AGREEMENT, AND NEITHER THE HMIT RELEASED PARTIES NOR THE

HIGHLAND RELEASED PARTIES SHALL HAVE ANY LIABILITY FOR ANY CONSEQUENCES ARISING AS A RESULT OF ANY REPRESENTATIONS NOT SET FORTH IN THIS AGREEMENT.

21. Agreement and Release Knowing and Voluntary. The Parties acknowledge that they have considered this Agreement with their respective attorneys and have carefully read this Agreement, that it has been fully explained by their attorneys, and that they have had a reasonable opportunity to consider this Agreement. The Parties further represent that they know and fully understand the contents of this Agreement, that they intend to be legally bound by this Agreement and the releases and covenants contained herein, and that they are signing this Agreement, including the release provisions herein, voluntarily and of their own free will and without coercion, and with the benefit of advice of counsel.

22. Cooperation. The Parties agree to perform any services or actions reasonably necessary to carry out the terms and conditions of this Agreement or the transactions contemplated hereby, including the execution and delivery of reasonable additional documents, instruments, conveyances and/or assurances, in good faith, and to reasonably communicate and cooperate with one another in this regard. For the avoidance of doubt, nothing in this Section shall obligate the Highland Entities to assist the HMIT Entities in any way with respect to the Kirschner Claims, including the prosecution thereof.

23. Governing Law. This Agreement shall be construed pursuant to and governed by the laws of the State of Delaware (substantive and procedural) without reference to principles of conflicts of law that would result in the application of any other State's laws.

24. Jurisdiction/Venue. The Parties hereby irrevocably submit to the jurisdiction and venue of the Bankruptcy Court with respect to any Action arising out of or related to this Agreement or the subject matter hereof; if (and only if) the Bankruptcy Court lacks personal or subject matter jurisdiction to adjudicate an Action arising out of or related to this Agreement or the subject matter hereof, then the Parties irrevocably submit to the jurisdiction and venue of the United States District Court for the Northern District of Texas.

25. No Admissions. All Parties acknowledge and agree that the matters set forth in this Agreement constitute the settlement and compromise of disputed Claims and that this Agreement shall not constitute the admission of any fact or liability by any of them regarding any Claim, including the Claims released hereunder, and neither the terms hereof, nor the fact of this Agreement itself, shall be evidence of any kind in any Action, other than an Action to enforce the terms of the Agreement or any instrument executed in connection herewith or any claim for damages or other relief for breach of any representation or warranty contained herein or in any instrument executed in connection herewith.

26. Other Provisions.

(a) No representation, inducement, agreement, promise or understandings altering, modifying, amending, taking from or adding to, the terms and conditions hereof shall have any force or effect unless the same is in writing and validly executed by each of the Parties hereto.

(b) The waiver by any Party of any breach of, or default under, any provision of this Agreement shall not operate or be construed as a waiver of any subsequent breach or default; provided, however, that for any such waiver to be enforceable, it shall be in writing and executed by the non-breaching Party.

(c) The headings contained in this Agreement are for convenience only and shall in no way restrict or otherwise affect the construction of the provisions hereof.

(d) The Parties shall each execute all documents and perform all acts necessary and proper to effectuate the terms of this Agreement.

Jim,

It was nice meeting you virtually this morning. As a follow-up to our discussion, I understand the attached materials have already been provided to Louis, but I am re-sending this subset to you as well as I understand he's heading out of the country soon.

Attached are:

1. Discussion materials from April 8 meeting (the projected budget build-up can be found on p. 4)
2. Clean draft of settlement structure
3. Illustrative sources and uses of timing/amounts of potential future Indemnity Trust payouts

If you have other follow-ups or clarifications needed, feel free to reach out to John, Jim, or me.

Thank you,

-Dave

REVISED DRAFT

PRIVILEGED AND CONFIDENTIAL ATTORNEY CLIENT COMMUNICATON

PREPARED AT THE DIRECTION OF COUNSEL IN CONNECTION WITH EXISTING LITIGATION AND IN ANTICIPATION OF FUTURE LITIGATION

PROTECTED BY FRE 408 AND SIMILAR STATE LAW PROTECTIONS. PROVIDED PURSUANT TO NDA

April 15, 2025

DRAFT Potential Settlement Structure with DAF and HMIT

HMIT

- Settlement of remanded motion to sue – HCMLP, the Claimant Trust, and HMIT settle existing motion to sue and all other claims with prejudice for a cash payment of [$500k]
- Allowance of claim - HCMLP to allow HMIT Class 10 interest in the amount of ~$337mm (calculated as ~$395mm Petition Date capital account, less ~$58mm P&I outstanding on HMIT note as of Petition Date), subject to:
  - The HMIT allowed Class 10 interest is not transferable
  - HMIT releases all claims and accepts the "Litigation Protections" – see separate document containing the releases and other required provisions – which eliminate claims and limit the Class 10 allowed interest
  - LT releases HMIT from all other claims in the LT litigation and otherwise
  - LT transfers to holders of allowed Class 10 interests all remaining LT litigation (after HMIT and DAF/CLO Holdco releases) "as-is, where-is" along with all documents produced in the LT case to date
    - Such causes of action are limited to the currently stayed litigation and other causes of action that may exist related to former employees Ellington and Leventon
    - If for any reason the transfer of the LT litigation is nullified, the settlement will not be affected
  - Complete cessation and withdrawal of any other litigation among the parties
  - Class 10 remains senior to Class 11 as required by the Plan
- Court Approval – Settlement and allowance of Class 10 Claim subject to approval of the Bankruptcy Court

DAF

- Settlement of DAF Claims – HCMLP, the Claimant Trust, and DAF/CLO Holdco settle all claims underlying the current Fifth Circuit appeal and all other claims with

DRAFT - SUBJECT TO CONFIDENTIALITY AGREEMENT

prejudice for a cash payment of $[2mm] within [10] business days of execution of the settlement; the Fifth Circuit appeal will be dismissed with prejudice within [10] business days of execution of the settlement

- HCMLP will purchase DAF's right to distribution from HCLOF related to Acis 6, as is - where is, without representation except for unencumbered ownership, for $[3mm] cash, to be paid within [10] business days of execution of the settlement; DAF releases HCLOF from any claims related to Acis 6 distributions
- DAF/CLO Holdco release all claims and accept the "Litigation Protections" – see separate document containing the releases and other required provisions
- LT releases DAF/CLO Holdco from all other claims in the LT litigation and otherwise
- Complete cessation and withdrawal of any other litigation among the parties
- Settlement will be filed with the Bankruptcy Court and "so ordered"

Distributions

- Initial Interim Cash Distributions – Within [91] days of the receipt of a final/non-appealable order not subject to certiorari:
  - The Indemnity Trust will distribute $[10]mm cash directly to Class 9 Claimant Trust Beneficiaries in accordance with the waterfall and the Indemnity Trust Agreement
  - [Subject to Class 9 Approval], the Indemnity Trust will distribute $[10]mm cash directly to holders of allowed Class 10 interests
    - On approval of the settlement by the Bankruptcy Court, the Indemnity Trust will set up a separate $[10]mm reserve for the Initial Interim Cash Distribution which reserve will be held in UST on the same terms as other Indemnity Trust holdings pending distribution to Class 10 interest holders or reversal/remand of the settlement
    - Any payments on the Dugaboy Note from the date of Bankruptcy Court approval of the settlement to the date of the Initial Interim Cash Distributions will be held by the Indemnity Trust in a separate account and also be paid to holders of allowed Class 10 interests
      - The actual dollar amount of any such P+I payments paid will reduce the Class 10 interests outstanding

DRAFT - SUBJECT TO CONFIDENTIALITY AGREEMENT

- Subsequent Distribution(s) - Following the Initial Interim Cash Distributions, most, if not all remaining assets will be held by the Indemnity Trust, except for potentially the Disputed Claims Reserve (if the pending claim is not fully resolved) and cash at the Claimant Trust and HCMLP (indirectly owned by the Indemnity Trust) to be used in the wind-down of those entities with any excess amounts contributed/distributed to the Indemnity Trust
    - On April 1, 2028, if no threats, demands, or litigations have been brought against the Indemnity Trust or its beneficiaries:
        - The Indemnity Trust will distribute ~$[11]mm cash directly to Class 9 Claimant Trust Beneficiaries in accordance with the waterfall and the Indemnity Trust Agreement, satisfying the remainder of the Class 9 interests outstanding
        - The Indemnity Trust will distribute $[5]mm cash directly to holders of allowed Class 10 interests
        - Note Cash or In-Kind Distribution – At the election of HMIT, the Indemnity Trust will either (a) sell the currently $[17.6]mm face value (P+I) promissory note receivable from Dugaboy Investment Trust to HCMLP that has been irrevocably participated (and may be assigned if it defaults) to the Indemnity Trust (the "Dugaboy Note") and distribute the net proceeds (plus all P+I payments on the Dugaboy Note from the Interim Cash Distribution Date to April 1, 2028) to holders of allowed Class 10 interests or (b) assign the Dugaboy Note directly to holders of allowed Class 10 interests
            - For purposes of tracking progress toward the ~$337mm Class 10 interest:
                - if the Dugaboy Note is sold, the distribution will be valued at the amount of cash distributed;
                - if the Dugaboy Note is distributed in kind, the distribution will be valued at fair market value as determined by the Indemnity Trust Administrator
            - Assumes the Dugaboy Note continues to perform; if there is a default prior to April 1, 2028, the Indemnity Trust will accelerate the Dugaboy Note and pursue full collection plus cost of collection
                - If distribution of the Dugaboy Note is to be effected on April 1, 2028 and collection litigation has been commenced, at its election, holders of allowed Class 10 interests can receive, the collected balance or the litigation or elect to have the Indemnity Trust continue the litigation and subsequently pay the proceeds to holders of allowed Class 10 interests

- As it pertains to the Disputed Claims Reserve, Highland will object to the Daugherty tax POC (final remaining pending claim). Following a final non-appealable order resolving the claim, any remaining funds will be distributed to Class 9 or, if Class 9 has been paid in full, to holders of allowed Class 10 interests

- "Final Distribution" - After April 1, 2029, if no threats, demands, or litigations have been brought against beneficiaries of the Indemnity Trust and all statutes of limitation (SOLs) and any potentially applicable tolling thereof have expired, at the Indemnity Trust Administrator's sole discretion, any excess remaining funds in the Indemnity Trust shall be paid out in accordance with the Plan and the Indemnity Trust Agreement (i.e. to holders of allowed Class 10 interests, up to allowed amounts) in conjunction with the dissolution, wind down and cancellation of the Indemnity Trust
  - The Indemnity Trust Administrator will consult with [Mark Patrick] regarding potentially applicable SOLs and tolling

- Other
  - Extension of Claimant Trust – A one-year extension for the Claimant Trust will be sought in the bankruptcy court. During the 1-year extension period, the Claimant Trust will be placed into dissolution and begin its winding up.
    - The Indemnity Trust will covenant not to transfer any funds to the Claimant Trust following the date of final non-appealable approval of the HMIT settlement
  - HCMLP wind down – the remaining unliquidated assets of the estate, including HCMLP, itself, will be retained within the Indemnity Trust and will be liquidated.
    - HCMLP personnel will complete the liquidation, dissolution, cancellation, tax compliance, and any other winding up activities for the remaining entities under its purview, including HCMLP.
    - Any excess amounts remaining at cancellation of HCMLP will be distributed to the Indemnity Trust.

DRAFT - SUBJECT TO CONFIDENTIALITY AGREEMENT

- The Indemnity Trust will covenant not to transfer any funds to HCMLP following the date of final non-appealable approval of the HMIT settlement
    - HCMLP will have a funding agreement with the Claimant Trust to assure that the Claimant Trust has sufficient funds to complete its wind-down
    - Any excess funds in the Claimant Trust at its cancellation will be contributed to the Indemnity Trust; excess funds at HMLP will be distributed to the Indemnity Trust

- HCMLP and its general partner – While HCMLP will be placed into dissolution, the entity will continue to survive during its winding up period, during which time it may continue to defend inbound litigation, prosecute outbound litigation, maintain its books and records, and monetize its remaining assets. HCMLP's general partner will be dissolved, wound-down and cancelled along with HCMLP
- Claimant Trust Oversight Board – Subject to the Plan and Claimant Trust agreement, it is anticipated that the members of the Oversight Board will continue in their existing roles until the final/non-appealable order approving the HMIT settlement is received
- Information rights to HMIT – After Bankruptcy Court approval of the HMIT settlement, per the Claimant Trust Agreement, except that:
    - HCMLP will review forecasted expenses with [Mark Patrick] at his request, but not more often than quarterly, and will work in good faith to reduce expenses where possible
- Approval rights – None, other than as specified elsewhere
- Duties to HMIT – None before or after vesting/Bankruptcy Court approval of the HMIT settlement
- Compensation – CEO and employee compensation remains governed by existing agreements with the oversight of the Claimant Trust Oversight Board; following the vesting of HMIT's interests, no changes will be permitted to those agreements without HMIT written consent; CEO maintains ability to maintain or reduce headcount in his absolute discretion

DRAFT - SUBJECT TO CONFIDENTIALITY AGREEMENT

[1] As of April 3, 2025. This disclosure is NOT a balance sheet prepared in accordance with US GAAP. In some instances, values are estimated and actual amounts realized may ultimately differ materially. No liabilities are included herein, including existing liabilities, contingent liabilities, indemnification obligations, or considerations for future expenses, including costs of liquidation that have not yet been, but will be incurred.

[2] Claimant Trust, including consolidation of the various "Plan" entities other than the Indemnity Trust (HCMLP GP, LLC, Highland Capital Management, LP, Litigation Sub-Trust), each on a standalone basis, with intercompany balances eliminated.

[3] Stand-alone assets retained by the Indemnity Trust. Other than less than <$1M retained in cash, remainder of cash is invested in US treasuries with maturities less than 1 year. Excludes <$1M of cash/treasuries on account of the Okada settlement. Pursuant to the Okada settlement, these funds are segregated and are to be repaid to Okada as first-out funds to the extent that any excess exists in the Indemnity Trust. Accordingly, in a settlement scenario, these funds would not be available to Class 10 interest holders.

[4] Cash and treasuries includes full face amount of treasuries maturing within 6 months and has also been adjusted up to assume the near-term receipt of approximately $5 million from Highland CLO Funding, Ltd.

[5] Segregated funds invested in US treasuries with near-term maturities. Funds are reserved for the Daugherty tax proof of claim, which remains pending. If Highland successfully objects to the proof of claim, funds would be released from the Disputed Claims Reserve. If the claim is ultimately allowed in full or in part, funds would be paid to Daugherty on account of the allowed claim and any excess remaining would be released from the Disputed Claims Reserve.

[6] Note receivable from The Dugaboy Investment Trust ("Dugaboy"). ~$17.4M principal and ~$0.2M interest currently outstanding, accruing at approximately $1,553/day. Fair value is less than face value as the note is long-dated, accruing interest at 3.26% and makes annual principal and interest payments through 2046, with the last of such payments due December 31, 2046. Dugaboy is current on its payments, including with the most recent payment completed for year-end 2024. Principal payments due are $790,215 yearly, plus accrued interest, which declines each year as principal declines. The next interest payment due December 31, 2025 is $566,677. No assurance that Dugaboy will continue making the annual principal and interest payments when due, although the holder of the note could accelerate and pursue collection in that event.

[7] 100% equity interest in Highland Capital Management Korea Limited ("HCM Korea"), plus $2.5 million note from HCM Korea. Ultimate value dependent on the monetization of the Caris Life Sciences investment through an expected 2025 IPO, which is expected to be in the range of $2 million to $5 million, but could also exceed or fall short of this range.

[8] Shares of Highland CLO Funding, Ltd. ("HCLOF"), a Guernsey company. Value has been adjusted down to assume a near-term cash dividend of approximately $5 million. Remaining value is primarily tied up in the "Acis 6" asset, for which a NexPoint entity has recently initiated an appeal in the 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals. Ultimate value dependent on the Acis 6 litigation and costs of winding down HCLOF and expected to be in the range of $2 million to $4 million, but could also exceed or fall short of this range.

[9] Bad faith sanction against HCRE of $825,940.55, currently on appeal in the District Court. Fully briefed since November 2024. Award was posted in the court registry and is accruing post-judgment interest at a rate of $118.80/day. Approximately $870k is outstanding, including post-judgment interest currently. No assurance that the appeal will resolve favorably and as a result, there is no assurance that any amounts will ultimately be collected.

[10] Litigation brought by Marc Kirschner as Litigation Trustee to the Litigation Sub-Trust. Adversary proceeding is currently stayed. The value of the claims, their collectibility, and the costs of their continued pursuit is ultimately unknown. For purposes of aggregating the current value of assets for this illustrative presentation, no value has been ascribed.

[11] Within the litigation brought by Marc Kirschner as Litigation Trustee to the Litigation Sub-Trust were claims against HMIT relating to the "HMIT note" receivable, which had originally been a portion of the consideration HMIT paid for acquiring limited partnership interests in Highland in 2015. These claims are also stayed as part of the overall stay in the case. The value of the note, its collectibility, and the costs of their continued pursuit is ultimately unknown. For purposes of aggregating the current value of assets for this illustrative presentation, no value has been ascribed.

in USD millions

Total combined assets	$	114.8	see "current snapshot"
Less:
Oustanding Class 9, including interest		(21.0)
Existing Incentive Compensation triggered through full payment of Class 9		(2.5)
Long-dated assets - Dugaboy Note receivable		(17.6)	[1]
Wind down expenses and accrued liabilities		(20.0)	[2]
Pending Class 8 claims (Daugherty tax)		See footnote	[3]
Indemnification obligations		See footnote	[4]
Net expected cash prior to any indemnification considerations and necessary reserves	$	53.7	[5]
Plus: Non-cash assets - Dugaboy Note receivable	$	17.6

[1] Note receivable from The Dugaboy Investment Trust ("Dugaboy"). ~$17.4M principal and ~$0.2M interest currently outstanding, accruing at approximately $1,553/day. Fair value is less than face value as the note is long-dated, accruing interest at 3.26% and makes annual principal and interest payments through 2046, with the last of such payments due December 31, 2046. Dugaboy is current on its payments, including with the most recent payment completed for year-end 2024. Principal payments due are $790,215 yearly, plus accrued interest, which declines each year as principal declines. The next interest payment due December 31, 2025 is $566,677. No assurance that Dugaboy will continue making the annual principal and interest payments when due, although the holder of the note could accelerate and pursue collection in that event.

[2] Amount is ultimately TBD and will ultimately depend on litigation, timing of monetization of remaining assets, and operational needs. For example, if additional litigation is brought forth, outside counsel will incur additional time and expense and certain employees may need to be retained for a longer period of time. If actual expenses exceed $20 million, less cash would be potentially available after Class 9; if actual expenses fall short of $20 million, more cash would be potentially available after Class 9.

[3] For illustrative purposes of this presentation, $0 is assumed. However, if the claim is ultimately allowed in full or in part, funds would be paid to Daugherty on account of the allowed claim, which would reduce cash potentially available after Class 9. No assurances can be provided that the claim will be completely disallowed.

[4] For illustrative purposes of this presentation, $0 is assumed. Thus, all funds utilized for purposes of satisfying indemnification obligations will reduce the funds available dollar for dollar. Under current conditions, it is believed that at least $100 million may be needed for indemnification obligations and as a result, there is not sufficient liquidity at this time to even make any further payments to Class 9 interest holders. Assuming a final/non-appealable order, providing for among other things, a complete cessation of litigation and comprehensive releases from the HMIT/DAF parties, the need for indemnification reserves could be greatly reduced.

[5] Assumes HCM Korea, HCLOF, and HCRE bad faith sanctions are monetized for the amounts described on the "current snapshot" ($6.4 million in aggregate). Monetization in excess of these amounts would result in more cash remaining; monetization below those amounts would result in less cash remaining.

HMIT Team:

Subject to our NDA, and further to our prior discussions, attached please find a draft settlement agreement.

The draft is consistent with the term sheet and the illustrative payment deck we reviewed with you.

However, we changed the timing of certain of the "gives" and “gets” so that the payments, reserves, releases, and litigation assignments, as well as a best-efforts undertaking are exchanged at or around execution. This is consistent with the DAF agreement, and these exchanges do not require Bankruptcy Court approval. We believe that an immediate exchange of as much of the material value of the settlement as possible is in the best interests of both sides.

The Class 10 claim allowance and the application of the HMIT Note to fix the amount requires court approval and is set up that way with future Indemnity Trust payments keyed to the Bankruptcy Court order becoming final. To assure that the order is timely procured and the expectations of the parties protected, we have included the aforementioned best efforts undertaking to reconstruct the essential terms of the deal and deliver it to the parties if for any reason the claim allowance is not approved or is overturned . We do believe there is much risk to either denial or reversal.

We are at your disposal. It may make sense for us to walk some or all of you through draft, and we can do that tomorrow. (We understand that Louis is away and do not presume to intrude on a well-earned holiday.) Nonetheless, if an overview is appealing, please let me know.

Thank you for your consideration. Please call me with any questions or issues. We look forward to working with you to resolve our disputes and reach a mutually satisfactory resolution.

Best. Jim

NOW THEREFORE, for good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, the Parties hereby agree as follows:

AGREEMENT

1. Dismissal of Pending Litigation With Prejudice. Within three (3) Business Days after the Agreement Date, the HMIT Entities shall take all steps necessary (at their own cost) to dismiss the Pending Litigation with prejudice.

2. Dismissal of Certain Defendants from the Amended Complaint.

(a) Within three (3) Business Days after the Effective Date, the Litigation Trustee shall take all steps necessary (at its own cost) to dismiss, with prejudice, HMIT and Rand PE Fund from Counts I, II, and III of the Amended Complaint. For the avoidance of doubt, Counts I, II, and III constitute all Kirschner Claims that are not HMIT Note Claims, and such dismissal shall not affect or impair any HMIT Note Claims or any liability or obligation of HMIT with respect to the HMIT Note, if any.

(b) Within three (3) Business Days after the Final Court Approval Date, the Litigation Sub-Trust shall take all steps necessary (at its own cost) to dismiss, with prejudice, HMIT and Rand PE from Count XXIV of the Amended Complaint, which constitutes all HMIT Note Claims against HMIT and Rand PE.

3. Cash Payment to HMIT. In consideration for the dismissal of the Pending Litigation, within three (3) Business Days following the Agreement Date, Highland shall pay HMIT a one-time, lump sum of [Five Hundred Thousand Dollars (US$500,000.00)] (the "Payment") by wire transfer:

[wire instructions]

4. HMIT Class 10 Interest.

(a) Subject to entry of the Bankruptcy Court Order, and the terms of this Agreement, the HMIT Class 10 Interest shall be deemed allowed in the amount of Three Hundred Thirty-Six Million Nine Hundred Forty Thousand Two Hundred Thirty and 58/100 Dollars (US$336,940,230.58), which amount represents the HMIT Capital Account Balance, less the HMIT Note Balance.

(b) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Plan or the Claimant Trust Agreement, as an integral part of this Agreement to consent to the allowance of the HMIT Class 10 Interest and the other considerations in this Agreement, HMIT shall not be deemed, and no holder of the HMIT Class 10 Interest shall be, a Claimant Trust Beneficiary or a "Beneficiary" under the Claimant Trust Agreement, and the Highland Released Parties, individually and collectively, shall owe no duty to any HMIT Releasor (whether contractual, fiduciary, equitable, statutory or otherwise), including with respect to the HMIT Class 10 Interest, in each case, except as expressly set forth in this Agreement. Furthermore, without limiting the foregoing and for the avoidance of doubt, the contractual right of the holder of the HMIT Class 10 Interest to receive or recover any payments or Indemnity Trust Assets from the Indemnity Trust as set forth in this Agreement or the Indemnity Trust Agreement does not make any HMIT Releasor or any other Person a beneficiary of the Indemnity Trust or under the Indemnity Trust Agreement.

(c) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the Plan, the Claimant Trust Agreement or the Indemnity Trust Agreement, in no event shall HMIT sell, transfer, assign, pledge, hypothecate, participate or otherwise dispose of the HMIT Class 10 Interest or any rights (including any right to payment) with respect thereto.

(d) For the avoidance of doubt, the HMIT Class 10 Interest is and shall remain senior to the not yet allowed, unvested contingent Class 11 Claims of Equity Interests as provided for in the Plan, the Plan Documents, and the Claimant Trust Agreement.

5. Initial Interim Cash Distributions on the Allowed Class 10 Interests.

(a) Within ten (10) Business Days of the Final Court Approval Date, the Indemnity Trust shall distribute (the date on which such distribution is made, the "Initial Interim Distribution Date") Pro Rata to the Holders of allowed Class 10 Claims or Equity Interests: (i) cash in the aggregate amount of [Ten Million Dollars (US$10,000,000.00)] (the "Initial Interim Cash Distribution Amount"); and (ii) cash in the aggregate amount of all principal and interest payments paid on the Dugaboy Note and actually received by Highland or the Indemnity Trust from and after the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date (the "Initial Interim Dugaboy Distribution Amount").

(b) Upon the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, the Indemnity Trust shall establish a balance sheet reserve in respect of the Initial Interim Cash Distribution Amount and the Initial Interim Dugaboy Distribution Amount (if and when received), which reserve will be held solely in cash or Permitted Investments and otherwise on the same terms as other Indemnity Trust Assets pursuant to the Indemnity Trust Agreement pending distribution in accordance with Section 5(a).

6. Subsequent Distribution(s) on the Allowed Class 10 Interests.

(a) On the later of the Final Court Approval Date and April 1, 2028, the Indemnity Trust shall distribute (such distribution, collectively, the "Subsequent Distribution", and the date on which such Subsequent Distribution is made, the "Subsequent Distribution Date") Pro Rata to the Holders of allowed Class 10 Claims or Equity Interests: (i) cash in the aggregate amount of [Five Million Dollars (US$5,000,000.00)]; and (ii)(x)(1) if HMIT elects in writing that it desires for the Indemnity Trust to sell the Dugaboy Note, the net proceeds, if any, actually received by the Indemnity Trust from such sale, or (2) if HMIT instead elects that it desires to receive the Dugaboy Note in kind, the Dugaboy Note in kind, plus (y) cash in the aggregate amount of all principal and interest payments actually received on the Dugaboy Note by the Indemnity Trust from and after the Initial Interim Distribution Date (the amount pursuant to subclause (y), the "Subsequent Dugaboy P+I Amount"). If the Dugaboy Note is distributed in kind, HMIT will engage an independent valuation service provider to value the Dugaboy Note for purposes of determining the magnitude of reduction to the outstanding allowed Class 10 Interests on account of such in-kind distribution. The HMIT Entities acknowledge and agree that none of the Highland Entities are representing or warranting that the Dugaboy Note can or will be sold or the price, if any, received for the Dugaboy Note and further acknowledge and agree that any such purchase price may be de minimis.

(b) Upon the Initial Interim Distribution Date, the Indemnity Trust shall establish a balance sheet reserve in respect of the cash portion of the Subsequent Dugaboy P+I Amount, which will be held solely in cash or Permitted Investments and otherwise on the same terms as other Indemnity Trust Assets pursuant to the Indemnity Trust Agreement pending distribution in accordance with Section 6(a).

(c) Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the obligations of the Indemnity Trust to make the Subsequent Distribution, including any Cash, the Dugaboy Note, or the Subsequent Dugaboy P+I Amount, is subject in all respects to (i) there being no Threats and (ii) a determination in accordance with Article VIII, Section 8.1(c) of the Indemnity Trust Agreement that the Indemnity Trust Assets comprising such distributions are not reasonably necessary to satisfy current or potential Indemnification Obligations (as defined in the Indemnity Trust Agreement) to all persons who are or might become Beneficiaries (as defined in the Indemnity Trust Agreement).

7. Final Distribution on the Allowed Class 10 Interests.

(a) On the later of the Final Court Approval Date and April 1, 2029, the Indemnity Trust will distribute all excess remaining Indemnity Trust Assets in accordance with Article VIII of the Indemnity Trust Agreement; provided, however, that the obligation of the Indemnity Trust to make any such distributions and/or dissolve and wind up the affairs of the Indemnity Trust is subject in all respects to (i) there being no Threats and (ii) a determination in accordance with Article VIII of the Indemnity Trust Agreement that (1) a Final Order(s) (as defined in the Indemnity Trust Agreement) has been entered resolving all litigation, claims or proceedings in any forum of any kind which could give rise to Indemnity Obligations (as defined in the Indemnity Trust Agreement) and payment in full of all such Indemnity Obligations and (2) all applicable statutes of limitations and any applicable tolling of such statutes of limitation have expired.

(b) The Indemnity Trust agrees to not use Indemnity Trust Assets to fund the operating expenses of Highland.

(c) Following the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, at the request of Mark Patrick, solely in his capacity, and to the extent he remains, as administrator of HMIT, but not more often than quarterly, Highland and the Indemnity Trust Administrator agree to review (i) the status of their respective assets, (ii) the balance of cash held, (iii) the status of any claims made for indemnification and any resolutions thereof, (iv) the status of any litigation, and (v) forecasted operating expenses with Mr. Patrick, and will each work in good faith to reduce operating expenses where reasonably practicable; provided, however, that all such reporting shall be subject to Mr. Patrick's agreement to maintain confidentiality with respect to any non-public information.

8. Transfer Kirschner Claims; Dismissal of HMIT Note Claims.

(a) In consideration of the dismissal of the Pending Litigation and the releases provided herein, within ten (10) Business Days of the Agreement Date, but after the dismissal provided for in Section 2, and solely to the extent permitted by the Plan, the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement and applicable law, the Litigation Sub-Trust shall execute an assignment in the form attached hereto as Exhibit [_] in favor of the HMIT Entities transferring all of the Litigation Sub-Trust's right, title, and interest in and to the Kirschner Claims (which, for the avoidance of doubt, shall not include any HMIT Note Claims) (the "Kirschner Transfer").[1] Each HMIT Entity acknowledges and agrees that none of the Highland Entities will have any duty or obligation to assist the HMIT Entities in any way with respect to the Kirschner Claims, including the prosecution thereof.

(b) THE HMIT ENTITIES SPECIFICALLY ACKNOWLEDGE AND AGREE THAT THE LITIGATION SUB-TRUST IS TRANSFERRING THE KIRSCHNER CLAIMS ON AN "AS IS AND WITH ALL FAULTS" BASIS AND THAT THE HMIT ENTITIES ARE NOT RELYING ON ANY REPRESENTATIONS OR WARRANTIES OF ANY KIND WHATSOEVER, EXPRESS OR IMPLIED, FROM THE HIGHLAND ENTITIES OR THEIR REPRESENTATIVES AS TO ANY MATTERS CONCERNING THE KIRSCHNER CLAIMS AND AMENDED COMPLAINT, INCLUDING WITH RESPECT TO THE ENFORCEABILITY, TRANSFERABILITY, VIABILITY, STRENGTH, OR VALUE OF ANY OF THE KIRSCHNER CLAIMS OR THE AMENDED COMPLAINT. The HMIT Entities hereby specifically acknowledge that they have carefully reviewed this Section and have had the opportunity to discuss its import with legal counsel and that the provisions of this Section are a material part of this Agreement. Thus, if for any reason HMIT is precluded from or is otherwise unable to prosecute all or any of the Kirschner Claims, (i) the HMIT Releasors shall have no recourse against the Highland Released Parties whatsoever and shall not be entitled to compensation of any kind, it being agreed that the HMIT Entities are otherwise receiving adequate consideration for the duties and obligations they are undertaking pursuant to this Agreement and (ii) there will be no effect whatsoever on the validity and enforceability of this Agreement or any of the other transactions contemplated hereby.

(c) As promptly as reasonably practicable following the Effective Date, the Highland Entities shall provide to the HMIT Entities electronic copies of written discovery requests and responses thereto, and documents produced in discovery in respect of the Kirschner Claims and the Amended Complaint. The Highland Entities will not provide any other documents regarding the Kirschner Claims including any attorney-client communications and any documents subject to the attorney work-product doctrine or similar privileges or immunities concerning the Kirschner Claims (collectively, the "Kirschner Privileges"), it being understood and agreed that the Highland Entities are retaining, and not transferring or waiving, the Kirschner Privileges.

(d) Each Party acknowledges and agrees that if (a) the Kirschner Transfer is found or deemed to be impermissible or invalid, for any reason, or (b) the Final Court Approval Date does not occur, the Kirschner Claims and Amended Complaint will revert to, and remain an asset of, the Litigation Sub-Trust.

9. General Release By The HMIT Entities. On the Agreement Date, and to the maximum extent permitted by law, each of the HMIT Entities, on behalf of itself and each of its respective Affiliates (including Affiliated and/or managed funds, accounts and other investment vehicles) and its and their respective current and former advisors, consultants, administrators, trustees, directors, officers, managers, executives, members, partners (including limited and general partners), employees, beneficiaries, direct and indirect shareholders and other equity holders, agents, participants, direct and indirect subsidiaries and parents, successors, predecessors, designees, and assigns (whether by operation of law or otherwise) (collectively with the HMIT Entities, the "HMIT Releasors") hereby forever, finally, fully, unconditionally, and completely releases, relieves, acquits, discharges, remises, and exonerates each Highland Released Party from, and waives and relinquishes, any and all Claims, which the HMIT Releasors, or any Person claiming through, under, or on behalf of any of the HMIT Releasors, ever had, now has, or hereafter can, shall, or may have against any of the Highland Released Parties by reason of, arising from, relating to, or in connection with, any fact, matter, or transaction that occurred prior to the Agreement Date, including any fact, matter, transaction, or occurrence in connection with, relating to, or with respect to the Bankruptcy Case, the management or operation of any of the Highland Released Parties, or the Highland Released Parties' property and including any defense, affirmative defenses, and right to setoff arising out of, or otherwise related to, any of the foregoing (collectively, the "HMIT Entity Released Claims").

10. General Release By The Highland Entities.

(a) On the Agreement Date, and to the maximum extent permitted by law, each of the Highland Entities, on behalf of itself and each of its respective Affiliates (including Affiliated and/or managed funds, accounts and other investment vehicles) and its or their respective current and former advisors, consultants, administrators, trustees, directors, officers, managers, executives, members, partners (including limited and general partners), employees, beneficiaries, direct and indirect shareholders and other equity holders, agents, participants, direct and indirect subsidiaries and parents, successors, predecessors, designees, and assigns (whether by operation of law or otherwise)(collectively with the Highland Entities, the "Highland Releasors") hereby forever, finally, fully, unconditionally, and completely releases, relieves, acquits, discharges, remises, and exonerates each HMIT Released Party from, and waives and relinquishes, any and all Claims, excepting any HMIT Note Claims, which the Highland Releasors, or any Person claiming through, under, or on behalf of any of the Highland Releasors, ever had, now has, or hereafter can, shall, or may have against any of the HMIT Released Parties by reason of, arising from, relating to, or in connection with, any fact, matter, or transaction that occurred prior to the Agreement Date, including any fact, matter, transaction, or occurrence in connection with, relating to, or with respect to the Bankruptcy Case, the management or operation of any of the HMIT Released Parties, or the HMIT Released Parties' property and including any defense, affirmative defenses, and right to setoff arising out of, or otherwise related to, any of the foregoing (collectively, the "Initial Highland Released Claims"). For the avoidance of doubt and notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the HMIT Note Claims shall not be released until Final Court Approval Date, at which time the HMIT Note will be applied to calculate the allowed HMIT Class 10 Interest set forth in Section 4 and the balance of the HMIT Note and any HMIT Note Claims shall be released pursuant to Section 10(b).

(b) Upon the Final Court Approval Date, and to the maximum extent permitted by law, each of the Highland Releasors hereby forever, finally, fully, unconditionally, and completely releases, relieves, acquits, discharges, remises, and exonerates each HMIT Released Party from, and waives and relinquishes, the HMIT Note Claims (the "Subsequent Highland Released Claims" and together with the Initial Highland Released Claims, the "Highland Entity Released Claims" and together with the HMIT Entity Released Claims, the "Released Claims").

11. Further Provisions Concerning The General Releases.

(a) FOR THE AVOIDANCE OF DOUBT, THE FOREGOING RELEASES ARE INTENDED TO BE GENERAL AND INCLUDE A RELEASE OF ALL RELEASED CLAIMS, WHETHER KNOWN OR UNKNOWN, SUSPECTED OR UNSUSPECTED, ARISING OR EXISTING FROM THE BEGINNING OF TIME THROUGH AND INCLUDING THE AGREEMENT DATE.

(b) To the maximum extent permitted by law, each of the HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, waives the benefit of any statute or other principle of law or equity that limits the applicability of a release with respect to Claims that the releasing party does not know or suspect to exist in his, her or its favor at the time of executing the release.

(c) Without limiting the scope of the foregoing waiver, in connection with the foregoing release, each of the HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on its own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, waives the benefits of Section 1542 of the California Civil Code (to the extent, if any, that Section 1542 might apply to the foregoing release), which provides as follows:

> A GENERAL RELEASE DOES NOT EXTEND TO CLAIMS THAT THE CREDITOR OR RELEASING PARTY DOES NOT KNOW OR SUSPECT TO EXIST IN HIS OR HER FAVOR AT THE TIME OF EXECUTING THE RELEASE AND THAT, IF KNOWN BY HIM OR HER, WOULD HAVE MATERIALLY AFFECTED HIS OR HER SETTLEMENT WITH THE DEBTOR OR RELEASED PARTY.

Each of the HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, hereby agrees that the provisions of Section 1542 of the Civil Code of the State of California and all similar federal or state law, rights, rules or legal principles, legal or equitable, in each case solely to the extent such provisions apply, ARE HEREBY KNOWINGLY AND VOLUNTARILY WAIVED AND RELINQUISHED BY EACH OF THE HMIT ENTITIES AND THE HIGHLAND ENTITIES, ON THEIR OWN BEHALF AND ON BEHALF OF THE OTHER HMIT RELEASORS AND HIGHLAND RELEASORS, RESPECTIVELY, in each and every capacity, to the full extent that such rights and benefits pertaining to the matters released herein may be waived, and each of the HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, hereby agrees and acknowledges that this waiver and relinquishment is an essential term of this Agreement, without which the consideration provided would not have been given.

In connection with such waiver and relinquishment, each of the HMIT Entities and Highland Entities acknowledges that it is aware that it may hereafter discover Claims presently unknown or unsuspected, or facts in addition to or different from those which it now knows or believes to be true, with respect to the matters released herein. Nevertheless, it is the intent of each of the HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on its own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, in executing this Agreement fully, finally, and forever to settle and release all such matters, and all Claims related thereto, which exist, may exist or might have existed (whether or not previously or currently asserted in any action) which are the subject to the releases granted above.

(d) As an integral component of this Agreement, and notwithstanding the Parties' intent set forth in the preamble hereto and the general nature of the releases in Sections 9 and 10, should:

(i) any HMIT Releasor contend or assert that any Claim of any kind whatsoever held by any HMIT Releasor against any Highland Released Party survives this

Agreement and is in any way related to or arising from or in connection with any HMIT Entity Released Claim (such claim or cause of action, a "HMIT Alleged Claim"), such HMIT Releasor will be deemed to have irrevocably, fully, and finally assigned such HMIT Alleged Claim to the Highland Entities and the Highland Entities will be deemed to have forever, finally, full, unconditionally, and irrevocably, and completely released such HMIT Alleged Claim.

(ii) any Highland Releasor contend or assert that any Claim of any kind whatsoever held by any Highland Releasor against any HMIT Released Party survives this Agreement and is in any way related to or arising from or in connection with any Highland Entity Released Claim (such claim or cause of action, a "Highland Alleged Claim"), such Highland Releasor will be deemed to have irrevocably, fully, and finally assigned such Highland Alleged Claim to the HMIT Entities and the HMIT Entities will be deemed to have forever, finally, full, unconditionally, and irrevocably, and completely released such Highland Alleged Claim.

12. Covenant Not To Sue; Limitation on Standing. Upon the Agreement Date:

(a) Each of the HMIT Releasors covenants and agrees that it will not institute or prosecute any Action, in law, in equity or otherwise, against any of the Highland Released Parties, to recover, enforce, or collect any HMIT Entity Released Claim and will not (i) induce, encourage or direct any other Person to do so or (ii) act in concert with or assist (financially or otherwise) any other Person in doing so.

(b) Each of the Highland Releasors covenants and agrees that it will not institute or prosecute any Action, in law, in equity or otherwise, against any of the HMIT Released Parties, to recover, enforce, or collect any Highland Entity Released Claim and will not (i) induce, encourage or direct any other Person to do so or (ii) act in concert with or assist (financially or otherwise) any other Person in doing so.

(c) For the avoidance of doubt, this Agreement shall not operate to give any HMIT Entity standing for any purpose in connection with the Bankruptcy Case (or in connection with any appeal arising from any order entered by the Bankruptcy Court), except for the limited purpose of seeking Court approval of this Agreement (including with respect to any appeal concerning any order entered granting or denying such approval), and except for the limited purpose of enforcing this Agreement, no HMIT Entity shall commence any Action in connection with the HMIT Class 10 Interest.

13. Representations and Warranties.

(a) Each of the HMIT Entities hereby represents and warrants that every HMIT Entity Released Claim has not heretofore been assigned or encumbered and is not the subject of a transfer (as such term is defined in 11 U.S.C. § 101(54)), by any HMIT Releasor.

(b) The HMIT Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors, acknowledge and agree that each Plan Provision is lawful, effective, and binding on the HMIT Releasors. The HMIT Entities further agree, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors, that the HMIT Releasors will never, in any way, challenge or seek to modify, nullify, vacate, or revoke, or induce, encourage or direct any other Person to do so or act in concert with or assist (financially or otherwise) any other Person in doing so the Confirmation Order, the Plan, the Plan Protections, or any Plan Document, including the Claimant Trust Agreement, the LPA, the Indemnity Trust Agreement or the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement, in the Bankruptcy Court, in any other state or federal court, in any other forum or tribunal, or otherwise, including administrative or regulatory tribunals and foreign courts.

(c) Each of the Highland Entities hereby represents and warrants that every Highland Entity Released Claim has not heretofore been assigned or encumbered and is not the subject of a transfer (as such term is defined in 11 U.S.C. § 101(54)), by any Highland Releasor.

(d) Each Party severally represents and warrants as to itself only that: (i) it has taken all necessary action to authorize and approve the execution, delivery and performance of this Agreement; (ii) such Party has full power and authority to execute and deliver this Agreement; and (iii) this Agreement constitutes a valid, legal and binding obligation of such Party, and is enforceable subject to its terms. Each individual signatory hereto individually warrants and represents to all Parties hereto that such individual has full power and authority to act on behalf of and bind the Party for which he or she has executed this Agreement; provided, however that no signatory shall otherwise provide any warranty or representation or otherwise be a party to this Agreement on an individual basis.

14. No Continuing Rights, Duties or Obligations. Except for the rights, duties, and obligations expressly set forth in this Agreement, all Rights and Obligations that existed or may have existed shall be deemed terminated, extinguished, and released upon the Agreement Date. For the avoidance of doubt, from and after the Agreement Date, (a) the Highland Released Parties, individually and collectively, shall owe no duty, past or present, including with respect to the Kirchner Claims, to the HMIT Releasors, individually and collectively, whether contractual, fiduciary, equitable, statutory or otherwise, except as arising out of this Agreement, and (b) the HMIT Released Parties, individually and collectively, shall owe no duty to the Highland Releasors, individually and collectively, whether contractual, fiduciary, equitable, statutory or otherwise, except as arising out of this Agreement.

15. Gatekeeper Standard.

(a) The HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, acknowledge and agree that, notwithstanding the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit's decision in Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P. v. Highland Capital Management, L.P., No. 23-10[53]4 (5th Cir. Mar. 18, 2025), the "Gatekeeper" provisions contained in Highland's Original Plan is forever binding on each of the HMIT Entities and for a claim or cause of action to be "colorable" for purposes of the Gatekeeper, it must be found by final order of the Bankruptcy Court (the "Gatekeeper Court"), which order shall be subject to appeal to a court of competent jurisdiction, to have satisfied the "Gatekeeper Colorability Test" as such term is defined in In re Highland Capital Management, L.P., 2023 Bankr. LEXIS 2104 at *124-36 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. Aug. 24, 2023).

(b) The HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, acknowledge and agree that compliance with the Gatekeeper requires (i) a motion seeking leave to sue an Exculpated Party (as that term is defined in Highland's original Plan) and a finding that the litigant's claims and causes of action are "colorable" attaching a complaint setting forth the basis for such claims or causes of action and (ii), in the Gatekeeper Court's sole discretion, an evidentiary hearing (during which the Gatekeeper Court may, among other things, hear testimony and assess the credibility of any witness(es)) to determine whether a proposed claim or cause of action is "colorable."

(c) The HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, further acknowledge and agree that the moving party under the Gatekeeper has the burden of satisfying the "Gatekeeper Colorability Test."

16. Indemnification.

(a) Without in any manner limiting the available remedies for any breach of this Agreement, the HMIT Entities, severally but not jointly, agree to indemnify, defend, and hold the Highland Released Parties harmless from and against any and all Liability, that may arise or result from or on account of, or that are otherwise related or attributable to (x) any breach of this Agreement or of any representation or warranty contained in the Agreement, including the representations and warranties of any HMIT Entity set forth in Section 13 or (y) any Actions brought or prosecuted by or on behalf of, any HMIT Releasor or that are induced, encouraged, assisted or directed by any HMIT Releasor or brought or prosecuted in concert with any HMIT Releasor against any Highland Released Party with respect to or related to any HMIT Entity Released Claims. Without limiting the scope of the foregoing in any manner, any HMIT Entity that breaches Section 12 shall be liable to the Highland Released Party against whom the applicable Action has been brought or prosecuted in violation of Section 12 for the reasonable attorneys' fees and costs incurred by such Highland Released Party in defending against or otherwise responding to such Action. Each HMIT Entity acknowledges and agrees that the HMIT Entities are and shall be severally but not jointly liable for any Liability arising from or out of any breach of this Agreement or of any representation or warranty set forth in this Agreement.

(b) Without in any manner limiting the available remedies for any breach of this Agreement, the Highland Entities, severally but not jointly, agree to indemnify, defend, and hold the HMIT Released Parties harmless from and against any and all Liability, that may arise or result from or on account of, or that are otherwise related or attributable to (x) any breach of this Agreement or of any representation or warranty contained in the Agreement, including the representations and warranties of any Highland Entity set forth in Section 13 or (y) any suits, proceedings, or other actions brought or prosecuted by or on behalf of, any Highland Releasor or that are induced, encouraged, assisted or directed by any Highland Releasor or brought or prosecuted in concert with any Highland Releasor against any HMIT Released Party with respect to or related to any Highland Entity Released Claims. Without in any manner limiting the scope of the foregoing, any Highland Entity that breaches Section 12 shall be liable to the HMIT

Released Party against whom the applicable Action has been brought or prosecuted in violation of Section 12 for the reasonable attorneys' fees and costs incurred by such HMIT Released Party in defending against or otherwise responding to such Action. Each Highland Entity acknowledges and agrees that the Highland Entities are and shall be severally but not jointly liable for any Liability arising from or out of any breach of this Agreement or of any representation or warranty set forth in this Agreement.

17. Execution. This Agreement may be executed by the exchange of signatures by facsimile or by PDF attachment to an email transmittal and in counterparts, and if so executed, shall be fully executed when a counterpart has been executed and delivered by all Parties hereto through counsel. All counterparts taken together shall constitute one and the same agreement and shall be fully enforceable as such.

18. Bankruptcy Court Order. The allowance of the allowed HMIT Class 10 Interest pursuant to Section 4 is subject to the entry of the Bankruptcy Court Order. To that end, the Highland Entities shall file the 9019 Motion no later than five (5) Business Days after the Agreement Date. Mark,

It's been a long time - I hope this email finds you doing well.

I understand that you have some time tomorrow for a Teams call for an initial discussion around financial information. Could I propose an hour starting at 11:30 CT?

We plan to have Kristin and Jim on (cc'd), in addition to me. I don't know that I have a good email for Shawn, so in addition to confirming the time works for you, could you also provide his email or just confirm that you will be able to forward him the invite? Once I hear from you, I'll circulate a Teams. Thanks and looking forward to speaking with you soon.

Nader and Katie:

Attached is final version of the Class 9 consent with Exhibit B showing the proposed payments to Class 9 and Class 10. I have also attached the latest version of the Settlement Agreement which will be an exhibit to the consent. Aside from the timing of the Class 10 payments, there are no provisions in the agreement that affect UBS.

As discussed, assuming final agreement on the settlement and filing of the approval motion this evening, we anticipate Bankruptcy Court approval in mid-July. After court approval, the first $10mm would be paid to Class 9 and Class 10 simultaneously.

Class 9 will also receive the proceeds from the Daugherty Class 8 reserve when that claim is disallowed. We filed our objection/complaint last week and expect resolution around September 30.

The balance of Class 9 will be paid off with the First Subsequent Distribution to Class 10 on December 1, 2027.

Please call me if you have any questions.

We appreciate your assistance trying to get the consent approved as soon as possible.

Thank you.

Best. Jim

The HMIT Entities acknowledge and agree that none of the Highland Entities are representing or warranting that the Dugaboy Note can be sold, or the price, if any, that could be received for the Dugaboy Note and further acknowledge and agree that any such purchase price may be de minimis.

2. Subsequent Distribution(s) on the Allowed Class 10 Interests.

(a) On December 1, 9097, the Indemnity Trust shall distribute (such distribution, collectively, the "First Subsequent Distribution", and the date on which such Subsequent Distribution is made, the "First Subsequent Distribution Date") Pro Rata to the Holders of allowed Class 10 Claims or Equity Interests: cash in the aggregate amount of Six Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars (US$2,500,000.00).

(c) Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the obligations of the Indemnity Trust to make the First Subsequent Distribution or Second Subsequent Distribution is subject in all respects to (i) there being no Threats and (ii) a determination in accordance with Article VIII, Section 8.1(c) of the Indemnity Trust Agreement that the Indemnity Trust Assets comprising such distributions are not reasonably necessary to satisfy current or potential

Indemnification Obligations (as defined in the Indemnity Trust Agreement) to all persons who are or might become Beneficiaries (as defined in the Indemnity Trust Agreement).

7. Final Distribution on the Allowed Class 10 Interests.

(a) On the later of the Final Court Approval Date and April 1, 9093, the Indemnity Trust will distribute all excess remaining Indemnity Trust Assets in accordance with Article VIII of the Indemnity Trust Agreement; provided, however, that the obligation of the Indemnity Trust to make any such distributions and/or dissolve and wind up the affairs of the Indemnity Trust is subject in all respects to (i) there being no Threats and (ii) a determination in accordance with Article VIII of the Indemnity Trust Agreement that (1) a Final Order(s) (as defined in the Indemnity Trust Agreement) has been entered resolving all litigation, claims or proceedings in any forum of any kind which could give rise to Indemnity Obligations (as defined in the Indemnity Trust Agreement) and payment in full of all such Indemnity Obligations and (9) all applicable statutes of limitations and any applicable tolling of such statutes of limitation have expired.

8. Transfer Kirschner Claims; Dismissal of HMIT Note Claims.

(a) Within five (5) Business Days after the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, but after the dismissal provided for in Section 9, the Litigation Sub-Trust shall execute a short-form assignment in in favor of the HMIT Entities transferring all of the Litigation Sub-Trust's right, title, and interest in and to the Kirschner Claims (the "Kirschner Transfer"). Such assignment shall be in a form mutually acceptable to the Parties and its substance shall be consistent with the terms, conditions and limitations set forth in this Agreement, including Section 8(b) below. Each HMIT Entity acknowledges and agrees that none of the Highland Entities will have any duty or obligation to assist the HMIT Entities in any way with respect to the Kirschner Claims, including the prosecution thereof, except as provided in this Agreement, including the terms of Section 8(c) below.

THEIR REPRESENTATIVES AS TO ANY MATTERS CONCERNING THE KIRSCHNER CLAIMS AND AMENDED COMPLAINT, INCLUDING WITH RESPECT TO THE ENFORCEABILITY, TRANSFERABILITY, VIABILITY, STRENGTH, OR VALUE OF ANY OF THE KIRSCHNER CLAIMS OR THE AMENDED COMPLAINT. The HMIT Entities hereby specifically acknowledge that they have carefully reviewed this Section and have had the opportunity to discuss its import with legal counsel and that the provisions of this Section are a material part of this Agreement. Thus, if for any reason HMIT is precluded from or is otherwise unable to prosecute all or any of the Kirschner Claims, (i) the HMIT Releasors shall have no recourse against any Highland Released Parties whatsoever and shall not be entitled to compensation of any kind, it being agreed that the HMIT Entities are otherwise receiving adequate consideration for the duties and obligations they are undertaking pursuant to this Agreement and (ii) there will be no effect whatsoever on the validity and enforceability of this Agreement or any of the other transactions contemplated hereby.

(c) As promptly as reasonably practicable following the Bankruptcy Court Approval Date, the Highland Entities shall provide to the HMIT Entities electronic copies of written discovery requests and responses thereto, and documents produced in discovery in respect of the Kirschner Claims and the Amended Complaint. The Highland Entities will not provide any other documents regarding the Kirschner Claims including any attorney-client communications and any documents subject to the attorney work-product doctrine or similar privileges or immunities concerning the Kirschner Claims (collectively, the "Kirschner Privileges"), it being understood and agreed that the Highland Entities are retaining, and not transferring or waiving, the Kirschner Privileges.

(d) Each Party acknowledges and agrees that if (i) the Kirschner Transfer is found or deemed to be impermissible or invalid, for any reason, or (ii) any HMIT Entity materially breaches this Agreement, the Kirschner Claims and Amended Complaint will revert to, and remain an asset of, the Litigation Sub-Trust.

3. General Release By The HMIT Entities. 1- . Representations and Warranties.

(a) Each of the HMIT Entities hereby represents and warrants that every HMIT Entity Released Claim has not heretofore been assigned or encumbered and is not the subject of a transfer (as such term is defined in 11 U.S.C. § 101(54)), by any HMIT Releasor.

LEXIS 9104 at *1946-2 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. Aug. 94, 909-).

(b) The HMIT Entities and the Highland Entities, on their own behalf and on behalf of the other HMIT Releasors and Highland Releasors, respectively, acknowledge and agree that compliance with the Gatekeeper requires (i) a motion seeking leave to sue an Exculpated Party (as that term is defined in Highland's original Plan) and a finding that the litigant's claims and causes of action are "colorable" attaching a complaint setting forth the basis for such claims or causes of action and (ii), in the Gatekeeper Court's sole discretion, an evidentiary hearing (during which the Gatekeeper Court may, among other things, hear testimony and assess the credibility of any witness(es)) to determine whether a proposed claim or cause of action is "colorable."

12. Indemnification.

(a) Without in any manner limiting the available remedies for any breach of this Agreement, the HMIT Entities, severally but not jointly, agree to indemnify, defend, and hold the Highland Released Parties harmless from and against any and all Liability, that may arise or result from or on account of, or that are otherwise related or attributable to (x) any breach of this Agreement or of any representation or warranty contained in the Agreement, including the representations and warranties of any HMIT Entity set forth in Section 1- or (y) any Actions brought or prosecuted by or on behalf of, any HMIT Releasor or that are induced, encouraged, assisted or directed by any HMIT Releasor or brought or prosecuted in concert with any HMIT Releasor against any Highland Released Party with respect to or related to any HMIT Entity Released Claims. Without limiting the scope of the foregoing in any manner, any HMIT Entity that breaches Section 19 shall be liable to the Highland Released Party against whom the applicable Action has been brought or prosecuted in violation of Section 19 for the reasonable attorneys' fees and costs incurred by such Highland Released Party in defending against or otherwise responding to such Action. Each HMIT Entity acknowledges and agrees that the HMIT Entities are and shall be severally but not jointly liable for any Liability arising from or out of any breach of this Agreement or of any representation or warranty set forth in this Agreement.

(b) Without in any manner limiting the available remedies for any breach of this Agreement, the Highland Entities, severally but not jointly, agree to indemnify, defend, and hold the HMIT Released Parties harmless from and against any and all Liability, that may arise or result from or on account of, or that are otherwise related or attributable to (x) any breach of this Agreement or of any representation or warranty contained in the Agreement, including the representations and warranties of any Highland Entity set forth in Section 1- or (y) any suits, proceedings, or other actions brought or prosecuted by or on behalf of, any Highland Releasor or that are induced, encouraged, assisted or directed by any Highland Releasor or brought or prosecuted in concert with any Highland Releasor against any HMIT Released Party with respect to or related to any Highland Entity Released Claims. 92. Other Provisions.

(a) No representation, inducement, agreement, promise or understandings altering, modifying, amending, taking from or adding to, the terms and conditions hereof shall have any force or effect unless the same is in writing and validly executed by each of the Parties hereto.

(b) The waiver by any Party of any breach of, or default under, any provision of this Agreement shall not operate or be construed as a waiver of any subsequent breach or default; provided, however, that for any such waiver to be enforceable, it shall be in writing and executed by the non6breaching Party.

(c) The headings contained in this Agreement are for convenience only and shall in no way restrict or otherwise affect the construction of the provisions hereof.

WHEREAS, on July 6, 2022, the Highland Parties filed the Reorganized Debtor and Claimant Trustee Joint Motion for Entry of an Order Further Extending the Claim Objection Deadline Pursuant to Confirmed Chapter 11 Plan by which Reorganized Debtor May Object to Certain Claims [Bankr. Dkt. No. 3387] (the "Second Extension Motion");

WHEREAS, Mr. Daugherty and the Highland Parties continue to consider potential resolutions of the Reserved Claim in the absence of a resolution of the IRS Dispute;

WHEREAS, it is unknown when the IRS Dispute may be resolved; and

WHEREAS, solely to avoid the expense, inconvenience, and uncertainty associated with litigation, and without any Party admitting liability, fault, or wrongdoing, or releasing or waiving any rights or defenses with respect to the Reserved Claim, the Parties desire to enter into this Agreement to extend the Claim Objection Deadline, solely with respect to the Reserved Claim, to January 11, 2023, at 5:00 p.m. (Central Time) (the "Objection Deadline").

NOW, THEREFORE, effective as of the Effective Date, each of the Parties agrees as follows:

1. Covenant to Reserve. In consideration of Mr. Daugherty's agreement to extend the Claim Objection Deadline (as set forth in paragraph 2 of this Agreement), the Highland Parties agree not to commence any lawsuit, action or proceeding to further object to the Reserved Claim at any time until the Objection Deadline (notwithstanding Mr. Daugherty's position that the Highland Parties would have no right to do so in any event under the Settlement Agreement until such time that the IRS resolves the IRS Dispute) and further agree to reserve $2,650,353.00 on account of the Reserved Claim in the "Disputed Claim Reserve" as such term is defined in the Plan until the Parties resolve the Reserved Claim pursuant to a signed agreement, or, alternatively, an order of the Bankruptcy Court.

2. Extension of Claim Objection Deadline. In consideration of the Highland Parties' "Covenant to Reserve" (as set forth in paragraph 1 of this Agreement), Mr. Daugherty agrees that the Claim Objection Deadline applicable to the Reserved Claim is hereby tolled as of, and extended from, the Effective Date to the Objection Deadline.

3. Acknowledgement and Waiver. Mr. Daugherty acknowledges and agrees that:

a. Regardless of whether the Second Extension Motion is approved by the Bankruptcy Court, Mr. Daugherty waives any right or ability to argue (x) that the terms of this Agreement and the extension of the Claim Objection Deadline required an order of the Bankruptcy Court; or (y) the application of the expiration of the Claims Objection Deadline to the Reserved Claim; and

b. Mr. Daugherty is estopped from arguing that this Agreement is ineffective to extend the time within which the Highland Parties must object to the Reserved Claim.

4. Acknowledgement and Waiver. The Highland Parties acknowledge and agree that regardless of whether the Second Extension Motion is approved by the Bankruptcy Court, the Highland Parties waive any right or ability to argue that the terms of this Agreement and the extension of the Claim Objection Deadline required an order of the Bankruptcy Court.

5. Representations and Warranties.

a. Mr. Daugherty represents and warrants that he has not sold, transferred, hypothecated, pledged, or assigned the Reserved Claim to any other person or entity, and that no person or entity other than Mr. Daugherty has been, is, or will be authorized to bring, pursue, or enforce the Reserved Claim on behalf of, for the benefit of, or in the name of (whether directly or derivatively) Mr. Daugherty.

b. Each Party represents and warrants to the other Party that such Party is fully authorized to enter into and perform the terms of this Agreement and that, as of the Effective Date, this Agreement will be fully binding upon each Party in accordance with its terms.

6. Miscellaneous.

a. Binding Effect; Successors-in-Interest. Each of the Parties agrees that this Agreement will be binding upon the Parties, and, as applicable, upon their predecessors, successors, subsidiaries, divisions, alter egos, affiliated and related entities, and their past or present officers, directors, partners, employees, attorneys, assigns, agents, representatives, and any or all of them.

b. No Admission of Liability. The Parties acknowledge that there is a bona fide dispute with respect to the validity and amount of the Reserved Claim. Nothing in this Agreement will imply an admission of liability, fault or wrongdoing by the Highland Parties, Mr. Daugherty, or any other person and the execution of this Agreement does not constitute an admission of liability, fault, or wrongdoing on the part of the Highland Parties, Mr. Daugherty, or any other person.

c. Notice. Each notice and other communication hereunder will be in writing and will be sent by email and delivered or mailed by registered mail, receipt requested, and will be deemed to have been given on the date of its delivery, if delivered, and on the fifth full business day following the date of the mailing, if mailed to each of the Parties thereto at the following respective addresses or such other address as may be specified in any notice delivered or mailed as set forth below:

i. Governing Law. This Agreement will be exclusively governed by and construed and enforced in accordance with the laws of the State of Delaware, without regard to its conflicts of law principles, and all claims relating to or arising out of this Agreement, or the breach thereof, whether sounding in contract, tort, or otherwise, will likewise be governed by the laws of the State of Delaware, excluding Delaware's conflicts of law principles.

John,

We think the ground for the change of lawyers for HCLOM is self-evident.

This is to advise that we will not be filing the motion Amelia sent around earlier (which she sent as a courtesy as I told you we would circulate). Hope to visit soon.

Thank you, Amelia.

I honestly don't know what to make of all of this—including Mr. Elms suddenly representing HCLOM rather than Ms. Deitsch Perez—but please confirm that neither HMIT nor HCLOM is making any request of Highland at this time.

Assuming that to be the case, Highland will wait to see what gets filed, if anything, and otherwise reserves all of its rights at law and in equity.

John

Good afternoon,

Per Louis, we said that we would circulate the attached draft before filing. We think our deadline is today but we are actively working with Mr. Elms who has been recently retained by HCLOM to resolve without necessity of litigating. But in case we do not reach a resolution this evening and as we said we would circulate a draft prior to filing, we wanted to get this draft to you.

thanks,

Amelia

Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland"), the reorganized debtor in the above-captioned bankruptcy case (the "Bankruptcy Case"), by and through its undersigned counsel, hereby files this Motion for (A) a Bad Faith Finding and (B) an Award of Attorneys' Fees Against Highland CLO Management, Ltd. and James Dondero in Connection with HCLOM Claims 3.65 and 3.66 (the "Motion") against Highland CLO Management, Ltd. ("HCLOM Ltd.") and James Dondero ("Dondero" and together with HCLOM Ltd., the "HCLOM Parties"). In support of its Motion, Highland states as follows:

I. PRELIMINARY STATEMENT[1]

1. The undisputed facts adduced during discovery show that the HCLOM Ltd. Claim is baseless and HCLOM Ltd. lacks a good faith basis to continue prosecuting its claim.

2. HCLOM Ltd. holds the Note at issue.[2] There is no dispute that (a) HCLOM Ltd. never gave anything of value to Highland (or Acis) for the Note, (b) HCLOM Ltd. never performed any of its obligations under the Transfer Agreement or even attempted the necessary steps to enable it to do so, (c) HCLOM Ltd. never paid Highland any Acis Participation Interests, and (d) Acis failed to pay any Acis Participation Interests after the Transfer Agreement was executed. Despite Highland not receiving the promised Acis Participation Interests and HCLOM Ltd. providing no consideration and breaching the Transfer Agreement, HCLOM Ltd. offers three reasons why it thinks it can nevertheless enforce the Note against Highland; each reason is meritless.

[1] Capitalized terms not defined in this Preliminary Statement shall have the meanings ascribed to them below.

[2] Incredibly, at the time of his deposition, Dondero claimed he did not know who held the Note or who was responsible for prosecuting this litigation on HCLOM Ltd.'s behalf. (Ex. 62 at 8:7-14; 14:10-14; 19:22-20:15; 110:2-19). At the hearing, Highland respectfully requests that Stinson be directed to disclose the identity of the individual(s) instructing it in this matter on HCLOM Ltd.'s behalf and who is paying its fees.

3. First, HCLOM Ltd. contends that the Note is a stand-alone document, enforceable without reference to the Participation Agreement or Transfer Agreement and without regard to whether HCLOM Ltd. provided any consideration or performed its obligations under those agreements. Response ¶¶ 16-24. This contention lacks any legal basis and is contradicted by the plain and unambiguous terms of (a) the Participation Agreement, pursuant to which Acis agreed to "participate" a portion of its Servicing Fees to Highland in exchange for a downpayment and deferred payments under the Note; (b) the Note which accompanied the Participation Agreement and conditioned its own effectiveness on the effectiveness of the Participation Agreement; and (c) the Transfer Agreement (concocted just days after Terry obtained an $8 million arbitration award against Acis), pursuant to which HCLOM Ltd. was to "step into the shoes of Acis" by becoming Acis' Successor Manager in exchange for the Note. There can be no credible dispute that these agreements were inextricably intertwined as part of one integrated transaction pursuant to which mutually dependent payments were to be made. Dondero and Waterhouse confirmed this point during their depositions. As Dondero testified, "it was essentially a trade of promises, and one side wouldn't have signed if they didn't get the promises of the other side."[3] HCLOM Ltd.'s contention that the Note is somehow enforceable as a separate, unrelated binding agreement, without regard to the others, is thus unsupported and belied by the documentary and testimonial evidence.[4]

[3] Ex. 62 at 50:7-21; see also id. at 50:23-51:12.

[4] Notwithstanding HCLOM Ltd.'s new tale, Dondero confirmed these facts under oath in direct examination by his own lawyer in the Acis case in 2018: "Q…it's Mr. Terry's position … that [the Note] does not condition payment by Highland of the promissory note to receipt of service fees from Acis. So what is your response to that contention? A. [Dondero] It was always a – it was always a paired transaction, and the tying of the two together and a recommendation for unwinding or whatever you want to call it, selling the note came to me from counsel and advisors. I mean does that not answer?" [Ex. 76 at 151:4-12].

4. Second, HCLOM Ltd. blames the Acis bankruptcy, this Court's June 2018 injunction, and the subsequent Acis plan injunction for its failure to become Acis' Successor Manager. Response ¶¶ 25-32. This contention is likewise false. It is indisputable that a different entity with a strikingly similar name—Highland CLO Management, LLC ("HCLOM LLC")—was created by Highland weeks before HCLOM Ltd. and was specifically organized, authorized, and equipped to serve as Acis' Successor Manager. But, HCLOM Ltd. and HCLOM LLC were completely separate entities, and HCLOM Ltd. never did, never could, and never would serve in the Acis replacement manager role—a fact Dondero admitted in the Acknowledgement and Waiver Agreement he signed eleven days before the Acis bankruptcy petition was even filed.[5]

5. Finally, HCLOM Ltd. contends that the Note is enforceable because Highland included it on its Schedules and Seery supposedly testified during the Acis 9019 hearing that the Note was enforceable. Response ¶¶ 33-49. These contentions are equally meritless. By its terms, the Schedules are subject to an extensive reservation of rights "including, but not limited to, the right to dispute or assert offsets or defenses to any claim reflected on the SoFA and Schedules as to amount, liability, or classification of the claim, or to otherwise subsequently designate any claim as 'disputed,' 'contingent' or 'unliquidated.'"[6] As HCLOM Ltd. acknowledges, while the [5] Ex. 7. As shown below, the indisputable evidence proves that HCLOM LLC was created and specifically constructed and enabled to serve as Acis' Successor Manager for the resetting and refinancing of the Acis CLOs. See infra ¶¶ 43-51. Incredibly, despite being designated as HCLOM Ltd.'s Rule 30(b)(6) witness, Waterhouse did not recall that there was an entity named "Highland CLO Management, LLC" and another entity named "Highland CLO Management, Ltd." (Ex. 3 at 6:2-11; 25:21-26:5). Whether negligently or deceitfully, HCLOM Ltd.'s Response completely and nonsensically confuses HCLOM Ltd. and HCLOM LLC. That confusion or deceit is also reflected in Dondero's recent verified interrogatories in the Acis case where, completely contradicting the terms of the Transfer Agreement and HCLOM Ltd.'s position here, he stated: "Highland CLO Management LLC ("Highland Management") was established to assume management of the Acis CLOs post-reset, including taking on Acis obligation to pay 50% of the Acis CLO fees to Highland Capital as well as becoming payee on Highland Capital's the [sic] Promissory Note. In accordance with the above, Acis, on November 7, [sic] 2017 agreed to transfer the Promissory Note to Highland Management [LLC] and also agreed to transfer to Highland Management [LLC], when it became manager of the Acis CLO's [sic] post-reset, to pay 50% of the CLO management fees to Highland Capital." Ex. 65 (response to Interrogatory No. 4).

[6] Notice of Filing of Debtor's Amended Schedules, Docket No. 1082, Ex. 1 at 2.

HCLOM Claim may be prima facie valid, Highland's Objection and the evidence adduced herein (and at trial) shifts the burden of proof back to HCLOM Ltd. to establish the validity and amount of its claim.[7] And Seery will testify that his testimony during the Acis 9019 hearing was based on the erroneous notion that Highland owned HCLOM Ltd. at the time, a notion HCLOM Ltd.'s own corporate representative ironically still believes is true.[8]

6. In addition to pursuing a baseless claim, HCLOM Ltd.'s witnesses—Dondero and Waterhouse, both individually and as HCLOM Ltd.'s Rule 30(b)(6) witness—were so uninformed and unprepared to testify that sanctions are warranted. See infra ¶¶ 52-59. Dondero deserves special focus because while he attempted to distance himself from virtually everything, (a) his family trust, The Dugaboy Investment Trust ("Dugaboy"), was the majority ultimate beneficial owner of Acis and therefore the primary beneficiary of the tax-driven strategy that lead to the Participation Agreement, (b) through Dugaboy, he indirectly owns a majority interest in HCLOM Ltd. and therefore has the largest stake in the outcome of this litigation, and (c) while he claimed to be unaware of it, Dondero was, and apparently remains, the President of HCLOM Ltd.

7. Discovery is complete. HCLOM Ltd. knows that there is no genuine dispute that the HCLOM Claim is invalid and will be disallowed; the continued pursuit of the HCLOM Claim is now just another vexatious abuse of the judicial process. HCLOM Ltd. should immediately consent to the entry of an order disallowing the HCLOM Claim—and all the factual and legal theories upon which it is based—with prejudice. If it fails to do so, Highland requests that the Court enter a finding of bad faith and an award of attorneys' fees[9] jointly and severally against HCLOM Ltd. and Dondero.[10]

II. RELEVANT BACKGROUND

A. The Bankruptcy Case: The HCLOM Claim, the Objection, and the Response

8. On October 16, 2019 (the "Petition Date"), the Debtor filed a voluntary petition for relief under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code in the Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware, Case No. 19-12239 (CSS) (the "Delaware Court").

9. On December 4, 2019, the Delaware Court entered an order transferring venue of the Debtor's Bankruptcy Case to this Court [Docket No. 186].[3]

10. On December 13, 2019, Highland filed its schedule of unsecured claims that identified "Highland CLO Holdco" as a creditor with claims under a note. Docket No. 247 (Schedule E/F, Part 3.64 and 3.65) (the "Initial HCLOM Claim").

11. On September 22, 2020, Highland filed a Notice of Filing of Debtor's Amended Schedules in which it, among other things, replaced Highland CLO Holdco as the creditor with the Initial HCLOM Claim with HCLOM Ltd., an entity Highland's independent directors then believed was owned directly or indirectly by Highland. Docket No. 1082 (Schedule E/F, Part 3.65 and 3.66) (the "HCLOM Claim").

[9] Highland reserves the right to offer proof of the legal fees it has incurred during the evidentiary hearing currently scheduled for December 18, 2024.

[10] As the Court will recall, Highland moved for similar relief against HCRE but only after the evidentiary hearing was completed and the Court rendered a decision on the merits. See Docket No. 3851. To be more efficient; because the evidence supporting Highland's Objection and this Motion will be the same; and to give HCLOM Ltd. fair notice of the relief requested, Highland files this Motion in advance of the hearing. While HCLOM Ltd. technically has 21 days to oppose the Motion, Highland has no objection to HCLOM Ltd. filing its response on December 16, 2024, to take into account the Thanksgiving holiday. Highland reserves the right to offer and rely on such further evidence that is adduced at trial in support of this Motion.

12. On February 22, 2021, this Court entered the Order Confirming the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) and (ii) Granting Related Relief [Docket No. 1943] (the "Confirmation Order"), which confirmed the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) [Docket No. 1808] (the "Plan"). The Plan became effective on August 11, 2021 (the "Effective Date") [Docket No. 2700].

13. Following the Effective Date and in furtherance of the Plan, Highland began reviewing the available information to determine the validity, amount, and priority of all unresolved claims. The evidence will show that, as part of the process, Highland discovered, among other things, that (a) it only held a 1% economic interest in HCLOM Ltd.,[11] (b) HCLOM Ltd. provided no consideration for the Note, (c) HCLOM Ltd. never performed its obligations under the Transfer Agreement and could never have done so, and (d) Acis failed to perform its obligations under the Participation Agreement and the Transfer Agreement, all of which vitiated any obligations Highland may have had under the Participation Agreement, the Note, or the Transfer Agreement. Based on these facts, among others, Highland filed its objection to the HCLOM Claim on February 2, 2023 (the "Objection"). Ex. 1.

14. On April 3, 2023, HCLOM Ltd. filed its response to the Objection (the "Response"). Ex. 20.

B. Dondero Terminates Terry and the Parties Execute the Participation Agreement

15. This dispute arises from a series of intercompany agreements and machinations orchestrated in the "Highland Complex" while James Dondero ("Dondero") was firmly in control of all sides of the enterprise.

[11] It also held 99% of the voting, non-economic interests in HCLOM Ltd.

16. Prior to the Petition Date, Acis Capital Management, L.P. ("Acis"), then an affiliate of Highland, provided portfolio management services to the issuers of certain collateralized loan obligations ("CLOs") in exchange for management fees ("Servicer Fees") to be paid under portfolio management agreements (the "PMA's").[12] The PMA's prohibit the portfolio manager from assigning any of its rights or obligations under the PMA's without permission and the satisfaction of certain conditions.[13] At all relevant times, Dondero controlled Acis and Highland.

17. Since Acis had no employees of its own, Highland provided back- and middle-office services as well as investment advisory services to Acis pursuant to certain Shared Services and Sub-Advisory Agreements (the "SSA" and "SAA", respectively, and together, the "HCMLP Services Agreements," as amended). The services provided under the HCMLP Services Agreements enabled Acis to perform under the PMA's. Joshua Terry ("Terry"), a Highland employee, was also an officer and portfolio manager of Acis until 2016.

18. On June 9, 2016, Dondero, acting through Highland, terminated Terry and as a result, Dondero and Frank Waterhouse ("Waterhouse") remained as the sole officers of Acis' general partner. See Ex. 9.

19. On July 29, 2016, Highland and Acis amended the HCMLP Services Agreements pursuant to which, among other things, Acis agreed to pay Highland a fee at the following rates for each of the Acis CLOs: (a) 20 basis points for sub-advisory services; and (a) 15 basis points for shared services, for a total of 35 basis points, with the rates applied retroactively to January 1, 2016. See Ex.10 at HCLOM00535306 (20 bps for sub-advisory services), HCLOM00535321 (15

[12] Fees under the PMA's are calculated by multiplying the fee earning assets in a given CLO by the fee rate, expressed in basis points. The CLO issuers were obligated to pay Acis the following under the Acis managed CLOs: Acis CLO 2013-1, Ltd. 50 bps; Acis CLO 2014-3, Ltd. 40 bps; Acis CLO 2014-4, Ltd. 40 bps, Acis CLO 2014-5, Ltd. 40 bps; and Acis CLO 2015-6, Ltd. 40 bps. See Ex. 13 (Schedule A under "Total Servicer Fee").

[13] See Ex. 32 §14; Ex. 34 §14; Ex. 36 §14; Ex. 38 § 14.

bps for shared services).[14] These fee amendments roughly doubled the aggregate annual fees Highland was to receive from Acis and the retroactive nature of the agreements immediately saddled Acis with approximately $3 million in additional payables to Highland.

20. In or around September 2016, Dondero caused Highland to sue Terry in Texas state court. Terry moved to compel arbitration, and his motion was granted. See Ex. 25. As discussed below, the arbitration was conducted in September 2017.

21. On October 7, 2016, Dondero caused Acis and Highland to enter into an Agreement for Purchase and Sale of CLO Participation Interests (the "Participation Agreement"). Ex. 13. The Participation Agreement was not an arms' length economic transaction but was adopted for the tax-driven purpose of converting ordinary income into capital gains for the benefit of Acis' ultimate beneficial owners—Dugaboy and Mark Okada—of up to 20%.[15] As Dondero previously testified: "So immediately upon Josh's [Terry] leaving back in June [2016], the partnership became just Mark and I, 75/25. What this transaction was and was meant to be and never anything more was a tax-planning strategy to reduce taxes. Because Acis was a full taxpaying entity and Highland wasn't. You know, the creation of the note of Highland paying Acis a note, that note—Highland never got any monies for it. Highland never got any value for it, other than a promise for Acis to pay its management fees over time." Ex. 76 at 133:23-134:7 (emphasis added).

22. In order to try to achieve the desired tax savings under the Participation Agreement, Acis agreed to participate to Highland a portion of the Servicer Fees (the participated portion, the "Acis Participation Interests") for a finite period of time in exchange for Highland's payment to [14] Dondero signed the amendments to the HCMLP Services Agreements on behalf of Acis and Highland.

[15] Dondero admitted that Acis and Highland were "pass through" entities and that the purpose of the Participation Agreement was to defer or recharacterize taxes for the benefit of the ultimate beneficial owners. (Ex. 62 at 35:10-36:16, 37:4-19; see also Ex. 3 at 79:19-80:24, 83:1-6,85:22-86:16 (Waterhouse testified that the Participation Agreement was a "tax-driven strategy" that also provided certain cash management benefits to Highland)).

Acis of $666,655 in cash (the "Cash Purchase Price") and the payment of deferred annual installments under a note in favor of Acis, in the original principal amount of $12,666,446.00 (the "Note"). See id. §§ 1, 1.1; see also Ex. 14.[16] While the Note references "advances" by Acis, no money was ever loaned to Highland. The Note simply reflected amounts that would be paid back to Acis by Highland—a "wash" according to Dondero—after Highland received payment of the Acis Participation Interests.[17]

23. Despite Terry's contentious departure in 2016 and the public litigation Highland launched against him later that year, it was "business as usual" for Acis. (See Ex. 3 at 68:7-69:24). For example, Acis continued serving as the portfolio manager for the CLOs, managing billions of dollars of bank loans and paying the Acis Participation Interests to Highland in exchange for the installment payments under the Note, all as required under the Participation Agreement. In March 2017, Dondero caused Highland and Acis to further amend the HCMLP Services Agreements. See Ex. 11 (Fourth Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement, dated March 17, 2017); Ex. 12 (Third Amended and Restated Sub-Advisory Agreement, Dated March 17, 2017). The next month, Acis even completed a new, risk-retention compliant CLO ("Acis 7"), using an indirect

[16] The Note called for annual payments to be made on May 31, 2017, 2018, and 2019. Ex. 14. The evidence will show that Acis and Highland performed their respective obligations under the Participation Agreement and the Note until the Transfer Agreement was executed in November 2017. After that, even though Dondero controlled Acis until the appointment of a trustee, Acis stopped remitting the Acis Participation Interests to Highland as required under the Participation Agreement, Highland stopped making payments to Acis under the Note and HCLOM Ltd. did absolutely nothing.

[17] In response to his attorney's questioning in the Acis case, Dondero testified as follows: "Q. "This is not like I – for example, I refinanced my house recently, give a note to the bank, but I get cash money at closing from the bank. Are you saying that did not happen here? A. [Dondero] Correct. In October. Highland got nothing other than a promise for Acis to pay. And all the payment schedule – the amortization on the note was timed exactly to match the expected management fees as Acis got them in." Ex. 76 at 134:13-20. Dondero continued: "It's essentially a wash. They're – yes, it doesn't matter which pocket it goes into." Id. at 152:23-24 (emphasis added). On cross, Dondero insisted: "A. I'm saying it was paired together, it was a tax transaction, it was supposed to have very little net value, there was supposed to be offsetting flows, and the recommendation on the sale was all guided by counsel, internal and external…." Id. at 36:10-14.

subsidiary, Acis CLO Management, LLC ("ACLOM LLC"), as the portfolio manager. Ex. 15 (Portfolio Management Agreement between Acis CLO 2017-7, Ltd. and ACLOM LLC).[18]

24. Things went south in 2017 as summer turned to fall. Dondero and his team spent 10 days opposing Terry's arbitration in September. Clearly sensing that the arbitration was not going well for him, Dondero instructed his attorneys to eliminate arbitration clauses in existing and future contracts. Even more tellingly, on October 19, 2017, Highland formed HCLOM LLC as a Delaware LLC to replace ACLOM LLC for future CLO issuances and resets of existing managed CLOs. Ex. 87. The next day, on October 20, 2017, Terry was awarded an $8 million arbitration award against Acis (the "Arbitration Award"). Ex. 26.[19]

C. The Note is Assigned to HCLOM Ltd. Under False Pretenses in Exchange for HCLOM Ltd. Agreeing to Become the Successor Manager of the CLOs

25. Despite having formed HCLOM LLC a week earlier and inserting that entity as successor manager into draft agreements and memoranda, on October 27, 2017, Highland also formed HCLOM Ltd. as a Cayman entity with Summit Management Limited ("Summit") appointed by Highland as HCLOM Ltd.'s initial and sole director. See Ex. 5. The creation of this entity in the Cayman Islands was no accident: its sole purpose was to secretly hold the Note and—according to Isaac Leventon, Highland's then-Assistant General Counsel in charge of litigation—cause Terry to spend "multiple years to collect" on his Arbitration Award. Ex. 69; Ex. 83.[20]

[18] Dondero stubbornly clings to the notion that all of the asset transfers away from Acis were required because the Acis brand was "toxic." As the Court will recall, during the Acis case, the Highland team under Dondero's leadership attempted to tag HarbourVest with the "toxicity" concept, but that effort failed. During his deposition, he tried to tag Goldman Sachs with the concept despite having no personal knowledge to support it. In fact, the documentary and testimonial evidence is to the contrary.

[19] Even though the Panel found that—under Dondero's watch—Highland concocted pretextual arguments for denying Terry his benefits and interfering with his economic rights, and that Acis breached its contractual and fiduciary duties (Ex. 26 at 21-22), Dondero inexplicably insists that he has never read the Arbitration Award and is unfamiliar with the findings. Ex. 62 at 67:11-22, 70:3-20).

[20] During his deposition, Dondero repeatedly disavowed responsibility for anything related to Terry's termination or arbitration or any of the events that followed; instead, he tried to point the finger at Thomas Surgent and Tim Cournoyer (two current employees of Highland). While the issue is legally irrelevant (it does not matter who caused

26. On November 3, 2017, roughly two weeks after the Arbitration Award was rendered, a meeting was held with Dondero in his office to discuss the "Terry Arbitration" and the "Acis Restructuring." See Ex. 69 (11/3/17 email among Leventon, Ellington, and Welton detailing "[d]raft bullets for internal management discussion"); Ex. 83 (final version of the bullet points); Ex. 81 (acceptance of meeting invite).

27. Sometime during or immediately after the November 3, 2017 meeting, Dondero executed the Assignment and Transfer Agreement (the "Transfer Agreement" or "Assignment") on behalf of Highland[21] and Acis; Summit (acting at the direction of Dondero-controlled Highland) executed the Transfer Agreement on HCLOM Ltd.'s behalf. See Ex. 16.

28. Pursuant to the Transfer Agreement, which falsely stated that Highland notified Acis that Highland was unwilling to continue providing services to Acis under the HCMLP Services Agreements and, therefore, Acis was unable to fulfill its portfolio management duties to the applicable CLO's,[22] (a) HCLOM Ltd. agreed to become the CLOs' Successor Manager (as defined in the Transfer Agreement); (b) Acis and HCLOM Ltd. agreed to remit the Acis Participation Interests to Highland; and (c) the Note was assigned to HCLOM Ltd. Significantly, the Transfer Agreement Assignment provides: "HCLOM, a qualified Successor Manager, irrevocably commits to be appointed as Successor Manager in consideration of Acis assigning to it the Note." Ex. 16 at 1 (emphasis added).

HCLOM Ltd. not to provide consideration for the Note or perform under the Transfer Agreement), it weighs on credibility or the lack thereof. The evidence will establish that Scott Ellington—with Dondero's knowledge—dictated that Leventon and an outside attorney, Jamie Welton, were to be solely responsible for working on the Terry case (Ex. 68), and that's exactly what happened (see, e.g., Ex. 69).

[21] Section 5.1 of the Participation Agreement requires Highland's written consent to an assignment by Acis of any of its rights or obligations thereunder.

[22] Written notice of termination was required under the HCMLP Services Agreements, but no such notice was ever given and, in fact, Highland continued to perform the services under the HCMLP Services Agreements until the summer of 2018 when a new service provided took over following the appointment of the Acis trustee.

29. According to Waterhouse, the Transfer Agreement was intended to authorize HCLOM Ltd. to take the necessary steps to become Acis' Successor Manager so that it would receive the Servicing Fees and remit them to Highland in exchange for the expected cash streams due under the Note. Ex. 3 at 135:24-136:24.

30. The Transfer Agreement also required (a) Acis (again, then under Dondero's control) to "promptly provide the Controlling Class (as defined in the CLO Indentures) with notice requesting the appointment of HCLOM [Ltd.] as Portfolio Manager pursuant to the requirements of the CLO Documents," and (b) each of Acis and HCLOM Ltd. to "promptly pursue Successor Manager appointment of HCLOM [Ltd.] in respect of each CLO." Id. §§ 1, 2. None of this occurred.

31. Section 3 of the Transfer Agreement provides:

> 3. Assignment and Transfer of the Promissory Note; Stabilization Payments.
> a. Effective immediately upon execution of this Agreement by the Parties, all right, title and interest of Acis under the Note, including the right to any and all Stabilization Payments not yet paid to Acis, are hereby irrevocably assigned and transferred by Acis to HCLOM [Ltd.], it being understood that from the date of such assignment, HCLOM [Ltd.] shall become the "Payee" thereunder.
> b. For so long as Acis shall receive Servicer Fees following the date hereof, Acis shall remit to H[ighland] the HCM Stabilization Fees [i.e., the Acis Participation Interests] pursuant to the Note Purchase Agreement [i.e., the Participation Agreement].
> c. For so long as HCLOM [Ltd.] receives any Servicer Fees following any Appointment, then HCLOM [Ltd.] shall remit to H[ighland] any portion of such fees that would otherwise have constituted HCM Stabilization Fees pursuant to the Note Purchase Agreement if Acis was the recipient of such fees.
> d. HCLOM [Ltd.] shall sign a joinder to Note Purchase Agreement upon HCM's written notice thereof.

Transfer Agreement, § 3 (emphasis added).

32. Thus, the Transfer Agreement provided that HCLOM Ltd. would receive Acis's rights under the Note, subject to HCLOM Ltd. becoming the Successor Manager, and Acis and HCLOM Ltd. continuing to remit Acis Participation Interests to Highland. According to Dondero, from Acis' and Highland's perspective, the purpose of the Transfer Agreement was to replace Acis as Portfolio Manager. Ex. 3 at 83:23-84:11.[23]

33. Although Dondero signed the Transfer Agreement, he now says he has no knowledge of any facts underlying its execution. For instance, Dondero says he does not recall (a) the document or reading it before he signed it, (Ex. 62 at 79:4-18; 83:12-19); (b) receiving any advice before signing, (id. at 100:4-10); or (c) taking any steps to make sure the Transfer Agreement accurately reflected the facts, (id. at 108:16-25). Dondero also says he does not know who John Cullinane is and never communicated with him, or anyone authorized to act on HCLOM Ltd.'s behalf, before executing the Transfer Agreement, (id. at 79:19-81:19; 82:24-83:3).

34. During his deposition, Dondero (a) could not recall if he expected Highland to receive any benefit under the Transfer Agreement, (id. at 84:22-25); (b) was unable to identify anything of value HCLOM. Ltd. provided to Highland pursuant to the Transfer Agreement, (id. at 88:15-89:2); and (c) did not know if HCLOM Ltd. ever gave anything of value to Highland for any purpose, (id. at 89:20-91:5). In fact, Dondero (x) was initially unaware that Highland was a party to the Transfer Agreement; (y) could not identify a benefit Highland was to receive even after reviewing the Agreement; and (z) has "no idea" why he signed the Agreement on behalf of Acis and Highland. Id. 85:8-86:15.

[23] The Transfer Agreement created a new consolidated defined term—"Note Purchase Agreement"—that provided further evidence that the Note and the Participation Agreement (what was being referred to in the Transfer Agreement as the "Purchase Agreement") are one integrated and mutually dependent agreement.

D. The Note and Payment of Acis Participation Interests are Part of One Integrated Transaction

35. Contrary to HCLOM Ltd.'s unsupported contentions, the evidence will show that the Note and payment of Acis Participation Interests under the Participation Agreement and Transfer Agreement are inextricably intertwined as one integrated transaction. The Participation Agreement attached a copy of the Note as an exhibit and made repeated references to the Note. See, e.g., Ex. 13 § 1.1 ("In consideration of the sale of the Acis Participation Interests to the Purchase, the Purchaser shall" pay the Cash Purchase Price and deliver the Note); § 1.3 (the Purchase Price "reflects the arm's length value of the Acis Participation Interests as of the date of this Agreement…"). Unlike the many promissory notes that were issued and separately litigated in the Highland bankruptcy, the Note was not tendered in exchange for a cash advance; rather it was tendered solely for the promise of future Acis Participation Interests.[24]

36. The Note also refers to, and depends on, the Participation Agreement. By its terms, the Note was to become effective only upon the effectiveness of the Participation Agreement, which was executed contemporaneously by Highland and Acis.[25] A condition precedent to the effectiveness of the Note provides:

> This Note shall not become effective and Payee shall have no obligation to make the advance hereunder until Payee has received each of the following in form and substance acceptable to Payee:

[24] Dondero under oath at deposition in the Acis case: "A. What did Highland get when the note was put in place? It's a $12 million note. Did Highland get $12 million? Did Highland get $13 million? Did Highland get an asset? No. Highland got a promise from Asis to pay it management fees that Acis was gonna get over the next three or four years, and the amortization [of the Note] was tied to the fees as they came in, and Highland got them. So when Highland got fees, it paid down – it paid the money to Acis to pay off the note." Ex. 78 at 12:8-19.

[25] Dondero on direct in the Acis case: "Q. And I think this is obvious, by why are Exhibits 14 [the Participation Agreement] and 15 [the Note] dated October 7, 2016? A, (Dondero) Because they're paired together." Ex. 76 at 141:6-8.

> (b) the Agreement for Purchase and Sale of CLO Participation Interests dated of even date herewith (the "Purchase Agreement"), by and between Maker and Acis Capital Management, LP, a Delaware limited partnership ("Highland") [sic], and copies of all agreements, documents and instruments executed or delivered in connection therewith and evidence that all conditions to the effectiveness of the Purchase Agreement have been or will be fulfilled contemporaneously with the initial advance under this Note;

Ex. 14 (Note) at 1 (emphases added).

37. The Transfer Agreement was ostensibly intended to assign Acis' rights and obligations under the Participation Agreement to HCLOM Ltd. Pursuant to the Transfer Agreement, HCLOM Ltd. would step into Acis' shoes as Successor Manager. And, as noted above, the Transfer Agreement combines the Note and the Participation Agreement into one agreement—the "Note Purchase Agreement"—and treats them as the fully integrated transaction they were intended to be.

38. In addition to the plain and unambiguous terms of the Note, Participation Agreement, and Transfer Agreement, Waterhouse—the former Treasurer of Acis and CFO of Highland—admitted that (a) "Highland is giving the Cash Purchase Price and the Note to Acis in exchange for Acis' promise to share the Acis' Participation Interest as defined in th[e] agreement," (Ex. 3 at 104:16-105:24 (emphasis added)), and (b) the Note and Participation Agreement "were part and parcel of the same overall transaction," (id. at 111:9-112:1). Regarding the Transfer Agreement, Waterhouse acknowledged "that the reason Highland agreed to transfer the note to HCLOM [Ltd.] is because HCLOM [Ltd.] was agreeing to become the new portfolio manager for the Acis CLOs and would share the servicing fees after that happened." (Ex. 3 at 150:13-23).

39. Dondero also (once again) confirmed that these agreements all constituted one integrated transaction. According to Dondero, under the Participation Agreement, Acis was to participate a portion of its expected Servicing Fees for cash and a Note for the purpose of reducing the taxes owed by the beneficial owners. (Ex. 62 at 35:13-41:25; 43:20-25; see also Ex. 3 at 79:19-80:24, 83:1-6, 85:22-86:16). As Dondero stated: "one side wouldn't have signed if they didn't get the promises of the other side" (Ex. 62 at 50:7-12; see also 50:23-51:12); see also (Ex. 28) (opinion letter from Hunton & Williams that conditions favored tax treatment on the continued exchange of Acis Participation Interests for payments under the Note).

E. Undisputed Evidence Proves that HCLOM Ltd. and Acis Breached the Transfer Agreement and Acis Breached the Participation Agreement

40. The overwhelming, undisputed evidence proves that HCLOM Ltd. breached the Transfer Agreement. HCLOM Ltd. never began, let alone fulfilled, its purported commitment to serve as the Successor Manager—the only "thing of value" that HCLOM Ltd. contends it "gave" to Highland in exchange for agreeing to the transfer of the Note. Ex. 21 (Response to Interrogatory 1) (when asked to identify each thing of value HCLOM Ltd. gave to Highland in exchange for the Note, HCLOM Ltd. stated that it "irrevocably committed in the Assignment to be appointed as successor manager and then took steps to effectuate the transfer as promised."). Contrary to its contention, HCLOM Ltd. never took any steps, nor did it ever have the operational capacity, to be appointed Successor Manager because it:

- had no employees, (Ex. Ex. 3 at 22:1-2);
- was never a registered investment advisor and earned no fees, (Ex. 3 at 26:17-19; Ex. 62 at 91:23-25);
- had no shared services or sub-advisory agreement and therefore could never fulfill its duties as portfolio manager, (Ex. 3 at 22:3-9; Ex. 62 at 93:6-19);
- was not "qualified" pursuant to PMAs and Indentures, (see Ex. 62 at 104:24-105:2);
- had no risk retention financing, nor ever tried to obtain any;
- never engaged an investment bank to arrange any reset or refinancing, reissue, refinancing, or new underwriting of any CLO or other vehicle or business;
- was never capitalized and had no bank account or bank relationship, (Ex. 3 at 26:6-10);

- never maintained financial statements or books and records, (Ex. 3 at 11-16); and
- never sought the consents required to become the Successor Manager.

41. In fact, HCLOM Ltd. admits that it failed to perform any of its obligations under the Transfer Agreement because it never (a) became Successor Manager, (b) managed the Acis CLOs, or (c) remitted any Acis Participation Interests to Highland. See Ex. 21 (Responses to Interrogatories 4-6 and RFAs 2, 4, and 6); Ex. 3 at 20:25-21:20, 31:14-24, 156:15-157:6; Ex. 62 at 106:14-16; 107:1-10.[26]

42. Notably, Acis—while under Dondero's control—also breached the Transfer Agreement. Between November 3, 2017 (when the Transfer Agreement was executed) and April 13, 2018, the time Dondero lost control of Acis with the granting of the order for relief and the appointment of the Acis trustee, Acis continued to receive Servicing Fees in its capacity as the CLO portfolio manager but failed to remit the Acis Participation Interests to Highland as required under both the Participation Agreement and the Transfer Agreement. See Ex. 3 at 120:10-18.

F. The Undisputed Evidence Shows that HCLOM LLC Was To Be the Acis Successor Manager

43. While HCLOM Ltd. was furtively established as a Cayman Islands entity that did nothing except enter into the Transfer Agreement and purportedly take title to the Note, HCLOM LLC (formed prior to HCLOM Ltd.) was busy actually taking the substantial steps required to become Acis' Successor Manager. As a result, the Note was effectively hidden in the Cayman Islands entity while Highland, under Dondero's control, worked to transfer the business of running the CLOs away from Acis to a separate, same-named, Delaware entity with no obligation to pay the Acis Participation Interests to Highland. If Highland could transfer the management of the CLO's to HCLOM LLC and abscond with the Note, Acis would no longer receive any Servicing Fees, Acis would get no payments under the Note, and Terry would be unable to collect on his Arbitration Award.

[26] Dondero could not recall ever signing a document (other than the Transfer Agreement) that contemplated that HCLOM Ltd. would serve as Acis' Successor Manager. (See Ex. 62 at 125:8-12).

44. In the weeks after Terry obtained his Arbitration Award:

- On November 15, 2017, HCLOM LLC entered into an agreement with Mizuho pursuant to which HCLOM LLC would serve as the manager of the Acis CLOs and Mizuho would serve as the placement agent for the resets and refinancings of certain of the applicable CLOs, (Ex. 64);[27]
- On December 19, 2017, HCLOM LLC entered into Shared Services and Sub-Advisory Agreements with Highland so that it was prepared to fulfill its expected duties as the manager of the applicable CLOs, (Ex. 85, Ex. 86);
- On January 19, 2018, HCLOM LLC signed a Custodial Agreement in order to be able to hold the securities required of it under the U.S. "risk retention" rules then in effect, (Ex. 27); and
- Later in January, HCLOM LLC entered into certain agreements (executed by Dondero) to obtain "risk retention" financing that would enable it to reset Acis-3, (Exs. 72, 73).

45. The Acis involuntary petition and the section 303(f) order did undercut the willingness of bankers to participate in resetting the CLO's away from Acis' control and, ultimately, the order for relief and the injunction prevented HCLOM LLC from continuing its plan to replace Acis as Successor Manager but—contrary to the Response (Ex. 20 ¶¶ 27-28)—neither the involuntary, the 303(f) order, nor the order for relief and the ultimate plan injunction had any impact on HCLOM Ltd.'s failure to perform it obligations under the Transfer Agreement because [27] See also Ex. 62 at 119:18-120:4; 122:5-11; 123:19-124:7 (despite signing the Mizuho Agreement, Dondero (a) did not know where HCLOM LLC obtained authority to enter in that Agreement, (b) acknowledged that HCLOM Ltd. is not mentioned in the document; and (c) does not know why HCLOM LLC entered into the Agreement rather than HCLOM Ltd.).

HCLOM Ltd. was never going to, nor did it take affirmative steps to, serve in that Successor Manager role.

G. The Parties' Post-Transfer Agreement Conduct Shows that the HCLOM Parties Knew Neither Acis Nor HCLOM Ltd. Would Perform under the Transfer Agreement or Participation Agreement After Terry Received His Arbitration Award

46. The parties' conduct further demonstrates that, following the issuance of the Arbitration Award, neither HCLOM Ltd. nor Acis would ever satisfy their obligations to Highland under the Participation Agreement or the Transfer Agreement.

47. For example, on January 19, 2018—before the Acis bankruptcy was commenced—Dondero signed an Acknowledgement and Waiver Agreement in which he (a) acknowledged that HCLOM LLC would succeed Acis rather than HCLOM Ltd., and (b) recognized that HCLOM Ltd.'s failure to serve as Acis' successor constituted a material breach of its obligations under the Transfer Agreement.[28] While purporting to waive HCLOM Ltd.'s breach, Dondero was unaware of anything Highland received in exchange for such waiver (i.e., Highland's waiver of HCLOM Ltd.'s material breach was unsupported by any consideration).[29]

48. The undisputed evidence will also show that both before and immediately upon the filing of the Acis involuntary petition, while Dondero continued to firmly control both Highland and Acis, Highland eliminated all payments to and from Acis under the Participation Agreement from its internal weekly cash flow forecasts. (Compare Ex. 44 at 6 (showing "Stability Transaction" payments during the projection period) with Ex. 45 at 3, 6 (showing the removal of the "stability" payments) and Exs. 46-61 (no reference to any stability payments in any forecast

[28] Although Dondero signed the Acknowledgement and Waiver Agreement, he does not remember reading it before signing it or discussing it with anyone (Ex. 62 at 129:10-130:7; 134:15-23).

[29] At deposition, Dondero testified that (a) he did not know what Highland received from HCLOM Ltd. in exchange for the waiver; (b) he never asked; and (c) no one ever explained what benefit Highland received for waiving the breaches of the Transfer Agreement (Ex. 62 at 135:18-136:6).

through May 31, 2018 the date the next amortization payment was due under the Note). The evidence will also show that Acis removed both the Note (asset) and the Participation Agreement (liability) from its financial statements and both Acis and Highland stopped making any payments related to the transaction.[30]

49. Further, under Dondero's leadership, Highland filed unsecured, priority, and administrative claims in the Acis bankruptcy case for fees due under the HCMLP Services Agreements, (Exs. 17, 67), yet Highland never filed a claim for the Acis Participation Interests due under the Participation Agreement.

50. Finally, while HCLOM Ltd. now claims it can seek payment under the Note notwithstanding the lack of consideration or performance, it abandoned whatever claims it may have had well before Highland filed its Objection. In fact, rather than trying to declare a default under the Note or suing to collect, HCLOM Ltd. signed "forbearance" agreements pursuant to which it agreed not to collect under the Note in exchange for Highland's promise not to demand the Acis Participation Interests. Exs. 18, 19. But this made no sense because Dondero had already acknowledged that HCLOM Ltd. would never succeed Acis and therefore would never receive any Servicing Fees. If HCLOM Ltd.'s current position had any merit (and it doesn't), HCLOM Ltd. should have been trying to enforce its purported rights under the Note. Waterhouse testified that the benefit HCLOM Ltd. received from entering into the forbearance was "preserv[ing] that relationship [with Highland]."[31] The Court can assess the credibility of that testimony.

[30] See, e.g., Ex. 76 at 147:6-150:12. Dondero specifically testified that the Transfer Agreement effectively cancelled the Participation Agreement and the Note: "The unwinding of the note plus the unwinding of the liabilities [the participation] which netted each other . . . were never really of any net value anyway." Id. at 147:6-9.

[31] Because "everyone knew" HCLOM Ltd. would never receive any Servicing Fees, Waterhouse could not identify any benefit it received from the forbearance agreements other than supposedly "preserving the relationship," even though the same people were making the decisions on behalf of both parties and HCLOM Ltd. was an empty box on a piece of paper. (Ex. 3 at 165:21-168:22, 171:25-172:3, 182:19-184:21).

51. Waterhouse admitted that he was unaware "of any discussion or attempt by anybody in the world after January 19, 2018 to install HCLOM Ltd. as the portfolio manager of the CLOs." (Ex. 3 at 172:4-173:11). Thus, whether by neglect or design, HCLOM Ltd.'s contention that the Acis bankruptcy and this Court's injunction prevented HCLOM Ltd. from becoming Acis' Successor Manager so that it could perform under the Transfer Agreement is simply untrue.

H. Waterhouse was Unprepared to Testify as HCLOM Ltd.'s Rule 30(b)(6) Witness and Otherwise Lacked Personal Knowledge Such that he Cannot Testify in Good Faith

52. Waterhouse testified as HCLOM Ltd.'s Rule 30(b)(6) witness but was so uninformed and unprepared that he cannot testify at trial in good faith. In fact, even his verification of HCLOM Ltd.'s interrogatory responses was false.[32]

53. Attached as Exhibit A is a demonstrative exhibit that summarizes Waterhouse's deposition testimony (the transcript of which is offered as Ex. 3). As shown therein, Waterhouse testified that the only thing he did to prepare to testify as HCLOM Ltd.'s Rule 30(b)(6) witness was meet with the Stinson lawyers for a few hours and review the primary transaction documents at issue. He (a) did not review a single email or speak with anyone other than counsel, and (b) testified about whole topics with no personal knowledge or preparation. (Ex. 3 at 6:18-8:9, 7:15-16, 9:15-17, 9:21-11:5, 41:9-42:7, 124:24-126:3).[33]

54. Reflecting his lack of preparation, Waterhouse testified, among other things, that:

- he did not know that there is an entity called "Highland CLO Management, [32] During his deposition, Waterhouse was forced to admit that (a) his verification falsely stated that it was based on discussions with people with personal knowledge concerning the events at issue and (b) it would be accurate to say that he only spoke with counsel, people he admitted lacked personal knowledge. (Compare Ex. 10 (last page) with Ex. 3 at 176:4-178:13). Waterhouse also sheepishly admitted he did nothing to verify the accuracy of the interrogatory responses except to take "what counsel provided as correct." As it turns out, certain of the discovery responses were unresponsive or lacked any basis that Waterhouse knew of. (Ex. 3 at 178:21-180:1, 180:14-181:12, 182:3-18).

[33] Waterhouse admitted that he never spoke with Dondero, Cullinane, Sevilla, Ellington or Leventon and read nothing but the primary documents at issue. (Ex. 3 at 9:21-11:5)

Ltd." and a different entity called "Highland CLO Management, LLC," (id. at 6:2-11; 25:21-26:5);

- he did not know if he ever served as an officer of HCLOM Ltd. and did not know if he was an officer of HCLOM Ltd. at the time of the deposition, (id. at 14:13-17);[34]

- despite being Acis' Treasurer at the time, and despite causing the Acis bankruptcy and its destructive and continuing aftermath, Waterhouse claimed to have no recollection of Acis transferring its assets to other Highland entities in the fourth quarter of 2017, (id. at 131:1-15); and

- he did not know if HCLOM LLC or HCLOM Ltd. was doing the resets and could not competently testify about the meaning, intent or terms of the Acknowledgement and Waiver Agreement, (id. at 157:7-163:2).

55. A fair reading of Waterhouse's deposition transcript shows he lacks a good faith basis to testify in this matter.

I. Dondero Cannot Testify in Good Faith

56. Dondero is one of two witnesses HCLOM Ltd. intends to call at the evidentiary hearing in this matter. Ex. 21 (response to Interrogatory No. 10). Given that (a) he controlled Highland, Acis, and HCLOM LLC at all relevant times, (b) has served as HCLOM Ltd.'s President beginning on February 7, 2018, (Ex. 6), and (c) executed many of the relevant agreements on those entities' behalf, that is not surprising. But other than providing certain broad perspectives (all of which undermine HCLOM Ltd.'s contentions), Dondero lacks such basic knowledge, and his testimony will be so disingenuous, that he cannot testify in good faith.

57. Attached as Exhibit B is a demonstrative exhibit that summarizes Dondero's deposition testimony (the transcript of which is offered as Ex. 62). As shown therein, Dondero testified, among other things, that:

- he did not know who holds the Note that is the subject of this litigation, (Ex.

[34] Of course, Waterhouse (a) has served as HCLOM Ltd.'s Treasurer since February 7, 2018 (Ex. 6), and (b) signed an agreement waiving HCLOM Ltd.'s purported right to collect on the Note at issue for a period of time (Ex. 19).

62 at 8:7-14; 14:10-14);

- he did not know anything about HCLOM Ltd. or HCLOM LLC other than that they were supposed to be involved in the Acis resets and refinancings, (id. at 9:24-10:22, 11:19-12:2);

- he did not know whether HCLOM Ltd. and HCLOM LLC are related in any way, (id. at 12:13-13:5);

- he could not identify the ultimate beneficial owners of HCLOM Ltd. or who controls it (and never asked) and did not know if he was authorized to act on its behalf, (id. at 14:15-16:13), (again, Dondero has been HCLOM Ltd.'s President for nearly seven years (Ex. 6));

- he never saw HCLOM's Response and does not know who is instructing Stinson in this litigation on HCLOM Ltd.'s behalf, (id. at 16:14-23, 18:8-19:13, 19:22-20:15, 110:20-111:3);

- he did not recall if he was an officer of Acis or if he controlled that entity, (id. at 24:21-25:6);[35]

- he claimed to have never read the Arbitration Award and was unfamiliar with the Panel's findings that the entities he controlled took actions under false pretenses and breached various agreements and fiduciary duties, (id. at 67:11-22, 70:3-20);

- he never communicated with Summit or Cullinane, the counterparty to the Transfer Agreement and related documents, (id. at 79:19-81:19, 82:24-83:3);

- he did not recall that Highland was a party to the Transfer Agreement, has "no idea" why he signed it, and could not identify any benefit Highland was expected to obtain even after reviewing the document, (id. at 84:22-86:14, 88:15-89:2, 89:20-91:5);

- he claimed to have no personal knowledge about the Notification, who gave it, or why Highland was unwilling to support Acis, (id. at 94:24-95:18, 98:12-16, 100:11-14);[36]

[35] As Waterhouse acknowledged, Dondero controlled Acis at all times from at least June 10, 2016 (the day after Terry's ouster) until the trustee was appointed in the Acis bankruptcy case. (Ex. 3 at 47;16-21; Ex. 9 (Acis consent showing Dondero's appointment as President)).

[36] "Notification" is defined in the Transfer Agreement and refers to the alleged fact that Highland was unwilling to continue providing services to Acis—the whole premise for the Transfer Agreement. Ex. 13 (third "Whereas" clause). Given that Dondero controlled both entities at the time, he either abdicated responsibility or gave false testimony. In fact, Waterhouse testified that Dondero made the decision to give the Notification. (Ex. 3 at 138:3-13). As noted above, there is no evidence that a written Notification was ever given as required by the HCMLP Services Agreements.

- he took no steps to make sure the assertions set forth in the Transfer Agreement were true and accurate, (id. at 108:6-25); and

- he could not identify anything of value Highland received in exchange for its purported waiver of HCLOM Ltd.'s breaches of the Transfer Agreement, (id. at 135:18-136:6).

58. As will be shown at trial, Dondero's deposition testimony in this case directly contradicts his sworn testimony in the Acis bankruptcy case (including in the ongoing adversary proceeding) as well as his sworn responses to interrogatories.

59. This is not just a matter of "credibility." Dondero's testimony is so uninformed and disingenuous that he cannot testify in good faith.

III. ARGUMENT

A. The HCLOM Parties' Prosecution of the HCLOM Claim Constitutes Bad Faith and Willful Abuse of the Judicial Process

60. Based on clear and convincing evidence, the HCLOM Parties' prosecution of the HCLOM Claim constitutes bad faith and a willful abuse of the judicial process. See In re Cleveland Imaging & Surgical Hosp., L.L.C., 26 F.4th 285, 297 (5th Cir. 2022) (noting that a bankruptcy court may sanction litigants if it finds, "by clear and convincing evidence, that they acted in bad faith or willfully abused the judicial process.").

1. HCLOM Ltd.'s Prosecution of the HCLOM Claim Despite Admitting that it Breached its Obligations Under the Transfer Agreement Constitutes Bad Faith

61. There is no dispute that HCLOM Ltd. failed to perform its obligations under the Transfer Agreement. See supra ¶¶ 40-42. Even Dondero and Waterhouse acknowledge that the Note is part of a fully integrated transaction with the Participation Agreement and Transfer Agreement. In fact, the Note represents those deferred payments that Highland was to make in exchange for the deferred Acis Participation Interest payments Acis was able to make under the Participation Agreement. The Note is unenforceable because HCLOM Ltd. (a) provided no consideration, (b) both Acis and HCLOM Ltd. materially breached their obligations under the Transfer Agreement, and (c) Acis breached its obligation to pay the Acis Participation Interests to Highland. HCLOM Ltd. knows this because Dondero caused the breaches for each entity which caused a complete failure of consideration to Highland for any purported obligations. Nevertheless, HCLOM Ltd. continues to prosecute the HCLOM Claim without any legal or factual basis.

a. The Note is Unenforceable Because HCLOM Ltd. Provided No Consideration

62. The Note is unenforceable because HCLOM Ltd. failed to provide any consideration in exchange for its assignment. Under Cayman Islands law,[37] "[a] compromise like any agreement, must be supported by consideration…" Folkvang Ltd v Valorte Capital (unreported, 29 February 2024, FSD 199 of 2023, Parker J. at ¶ 99);[38] see also Blue v Ashley [2017] EWHC 1928 (Comm) Leggatt J at ¶ 49 ("The basic requirements of a contract are that: (i) the parties have reached an agreement, which (ii) is intended to be legally binding, (iii) is supported by consideration, and (iv) is sufficiently certain and complete to be enforceable…").[39] Thus, an agreement is unenforceable for lack of consideration where one party's promised performance fails. See Barclays Bank Plc v. Kenton Capital [1994-95 CILR 489]: the Grand Court of the Cayman Islands, per Smellie J at page 499 ("... It may also be the case that the depositors would be entitled to recover, as against Kenton in claims at common law, for moneys had and [37] The Transfer Agreement is governed by the laws of the Cayman Islands. See Ex. 65, § 6(d).

[38] See Declaration of Hayley R. Winograd in Support of the Motion for (A) a Bad Faith Finding and (B) an Award of Attorneys' Fees Against Highland CLO Management, Ltd. and James Dondero in Connection with Scheduled Claims 3.65 and 3.66 (the "Winograd Dec.") (being filed concurrently herewith), Exhibit 1.

[39] See Winograd Dec., Exhibit 1. "Winograd Dec." refers to the Declaration of Hayley R. Winograd in Support of the Motion for (A) a Bad Faith Finding and (B) an Award of Attorneys' Fees Against Highland CLO Management, Ltd. and James Dondero in Connection with Scheduled Claims 3.65 and 3.66, being filed concurrently herewith.

received on the basis that the consideration on which the agreement is based has failed.");[40] H.E.B. Enterprises Ltd and Bodden Jr v Richards [2023] UKPC 7, ¶ 58 ("money had and received to the claimant's use can be recovered where the basis (there referred to as consideration) has wholly failed.");[41] Richards v H.E.B Enterprises Ltd and Bodden Jr [2018 (2) CILR 84] ¶¶ 102-4 (finding a total failure of consideration to have occurred in the context of two agreements (namely a sale/purchase agreement and a loan agreement) which, contrary to the defendant's argument, the Court found to constitute one agreement, and holding, "…[a]ccordingly, it is correctly submitted that under the terms of the agreements, there has still been a total failure of consideration on the sale of the parcels.")[42]

63. Here, in order to transfer any of the rights or obligations under the Participation Agreement, Highland's prior written consent was required. See Ex. 13, § 5.1. HCLOM Ltd. obtained Highland's agreement to enter into the Transfer Agreement through the commitments of HCLOM Ltd. set out in the agreement. HCLOM Ltd. admits that it failed to satisfy any of its obligations under the Transfer Agreement, the very document pursuant to which HCLOM Ltd. was assigned the Note. The ostensible purpose of the Transfer Agreement, i.e., for HCLOM Ltd. to succeed Acis as Successor Manager, was never realized (indeed, no steps were ever taken to enable HCLOM Ltd. to become Acis' Successor Manager). See supra ¶¶ 40-51. HCLOM Ltd. thus failed to perform its promised obligation under the Transfer Agreement, and as a result, the consideration on which the Transfer Agreement is based has failed. See Richards v H.E.B Enterprises Ltd and Bodden Jr [2018 (2) CILR 84] per Williams J at ¶ 72, applying Heyman v Darwins Ltd. [1942] AC 356, per Lord Porter at page 399 ("Strictly speaking, to say that, upon acceptance of the renunciation of a contract, the contract is rescinded is incorrect. In such a case the injured party may accept the renunciation as a breach going to the root of the whole of the consideration. By that acceptance he is discharged from further performance and may bring an action for damages, but the contract itself is not rescinded.")[43] HCLOM Ltd.'s failure of its promised performance under the Transfer Agreement renders the Note unenforceable by HCLOM Ltd. Based on the evidence adduced in discovery, including HCLOM Ltd.'s extensive admissions, HCLOM Ltd.'s continued prosecution of its HCLOM Claim, with knowledge that it provided no consideration for the Note, constitutes bad faith and a willful abuse of the judicial process.

b. The Note is Unenforceable Because HCLOM Ltd. Materially Breached its Obligations under The Transfer Agreement

64. It is also undisputed that HCLOM Ltd. materially breached its obligations under the Transfer Agreement. For this additional reason, the Note is unenforceable. Under Cayman law, a non-breaching party is relieved of performing its obligations where the counterparty materially breaches its obligations. See Beach Club Enterprises Limited v Horizon Management Limited [1980-83 CILR 223], Carberry J.A. at page 235 (an innocent party's termination following a breach of a condition excuses future performance) applying McDonald v Dennys Lascelles Ltd. (1933), 48 C.L.R. 457 as approved in Johnson v Agnew [1980] A.C. 367;[44] Hongkong Fir Shipping Co Ltd v Kawasaki Kisen Kaisha Ltd [1962] 2 W.L.R. 474, Lord Diplock, at pages 493-494 (noting that a breach of a condition in a contract provides the innocent party with an immediate, unequivocal right to terminate future performance of the contract);[45] Golfco Limited v Borden [2002 CILR 1], Kellock Ag. J at ¶ 25 (finding that the purchaser of an apartment block's failure: (a) to pay certain instalments to the seller pursuant to the contract for the sale of land; and (b) to remedy their breach within 28 days of receiving a written notice to do so (in accordance with clause 11(1) of the contract of sale) from the seller "would have had to be regarded as a fundamental breach");[46] In the Matter of Re Indies Suites Ltd [2004-05 CILR 498], Smellie C.J. at ¶ 22, (accepting that termination excuses future performance, together with a right of the innocent party to claim damages by way of compensation for the loss sustained in consequence of the non-performance of the contract in the future, applying the English case of Photo Production Ltd. v Securicor Transport Ltd. [1980] A.C. 827).[47]

65. A breach is "material" when it goes to the "root" of the contract or forms an essential condition of performance. See Tempo Group Ltd and others v. Fortuna Development Corporation (unreported, 31 March 2015, FSD 125 of 2012, Henderson J at ¶ 296) ("[a]n act of repudiation must go to the root of the contract ... The repudiatory breach must deprive the innocent parties of substantially the whole benefit which they would have obtained from due performance of the contract…");[48] Chitty on Contracts, 35th Ed. Chapter 28-014 (a "condition" of a contract is that of "an essential stipulation of the contract which one party guarantees is true or promises will be fulfilled.").[49]

66. Here, it is undisputed that HCLOM Ltd. materially breached the Transfer Agreement by failing to (a) "provide the Controlling Class (as defined in each of the CLO Indentures) with notice requesting the appointment of HCLOM as Portfolio Manager," as required by Section 1 of the Transfer Agreement; (b) "promptly pursue Successor Manager appointment," as required by Section 2 of the Assignment; (c) "achiev[e] all conditions precedent required by the CLO Documents," as required by Section 2 of the Transfer Agreement; and (d) execute a joinder to the to the Participation Agreement [referred to as the "Purchase Agreement" in the Transfer Agreement], as required by Section 3.d of the Transfer Agreement.

67. If there was any doubt—and there isn't—Dondero agreed on behalf of Highland that HCLOM Ltd. and Acis breached the Transfer Agreement in the Waiver and Acknowledgment Agreement (although he purportedly waived those breaches for no consideration). Ex. 7.

68. Based on the documentary evidence adduced during discovery, including the Waiver Agreement, HCLOM Ltd. is prosecuting its HCLOM Claim based on the Participation Agreement, the Note and the Transfer Agreement despite knowing that it materially breached its obligations the Transfer Agreement. HCLOM Ltd.'s material breaches of the Transfer Agreement excused Highland's obligations under the related Note. HCLOM Ltd.'s continued prosecution of this claim, despite knowing it materially breached the Transfer Agreement, constitutes bad faith and willful abuse of the judicial process.

c. Acis Breached its Obligation to Pay the Acis Participation Interest to Highland

69. As soon as Terry received the Arbitration Award and the Transfer Agreement was executed, Acis and HCLOM Ltd. breached their obligations under the Participation Agreement and the Transfer Agreement. In addition to the breaches of the Transfer Agreement by HCLOM Ltd. described above, Dondero-controlled Acis ceased paying any Acis Participation Interests to Highland. That failure of consideration continued after the Acis order for relief was entered. The complete failure of Acis and HCLOM Ltd to provide Highland with the consideration it was to receive under Participation Agreement and the Transfer Agreement—the Acis Participation Interests—vitiates any obligation Highland may have had under the Participation Agreement or its

Note. As recognized in the Participation Agreement, Highland bore the risk of payment of the Note other than in the event that Highland it did not receive the Acis Participation Interests "as a result of the Seller [Acis] breaching its covenants [including to promptly remit the Acis Participation Interests] under this Agreement or as result of the fraud or willful misconduct or the Seller." Ex. 13 §3.6. Acis' and HCLOM Ltd.'s breach of their obligations under the Participation Agreement and the Transfer Agreement relieved Highland of any duty to make any further payments under the Note.[50]

2. HCLOM Ltd.'s Designation of Waterhouse as its Rule 30(b)(6) Witness Constitutes Bad Faith and a Willful Abuse of the Judicial Process

70. HCLOM Ltd.'s designation of Waterhouse as its Rule 30(b)(6) further demonstrates that HCLOM Ltd. is prosecuting the HCLOM Claim in bad faith. As discussed above, Waterhouse was wholly unprepared to testify on behalf of HCLOM Ltd. He lacked knowledge of critical facts underlying the HCLOM Claim, including, for instance, (a) whether he was an officer of HCLOM Ltd. at the time of his deposition; (b) the purpose of the agreements at issue in the HCLOM Claim; and (c) that HLCOM LLC and HCLOM Ltd. were different entities. See supra ¶¶ 52-55. It is untenable for a 30(b)(6) witness to lack such fundamental information about the entity it represents.

3. Dondero's Involvement in the Prosecution of the HCLOM Claim Constitutes Bad Faith and a Willful Abuse of the Judicial Process

71. Dondero's involvement in the prosecution of the HCLOM Claims is likewise in bad faith. As set forth above, Dondero cannot testify in good faith on behalf of HCLOM Ltd. He, like HCLOM Ltd.'s 30(b)(6) witness, lacks critical knowledge underlying the facts of this case, including those as fundamental as, among other things, who holds the Note that is the subject of this litigation and why he signed the very agreements that are the subject of this litigation. See supra ¶¶ 56-59. Dondero's testimony is not credible, is directly contradicted by his sworn testimony and interrogatory responses given in the Acis case, and is otherwise uncorroborated; he simply cannot testify in good faith on behalf of HCLOM Ltd. Dondero's continued involvement in the prosecution of the HCLOM Claim constitutes bad faith and a willful abuse of the judicial process.

B. Highland is Entitled to Attorneys' Fees from the HCLOM Parties for Costs Incurred in Connection with the Bad Faith Prosecution of the HCLOM Claim

72. The HCLOM Parties should be sanctioned for their bad faith prosecution of the HCLOM Claim by reimbursing Highland for attorneys' fees and expenses incurred in connection with litigating the HCLOM Claim.

73. Bankruptcy courts possess inherent authority under section 105 of the Bankruptcy Code to issue sanctions after making a finding of bad faith. See In re Yorkshire, LLC, 540 F.3d 328, 332 (5th Cir. 2008) (affirming bankruptcy court's imposition of sanctions for bad faith filing "following an extensive hearing in which the bankruptcy court heard testimony from the parties and witnesses and made certain credibility determines," and made specific findings that Appellants acted in bad faith."); In re Brown, 444 B.R. 691, 695 (E.D. Tex. 2009) (issuing sanctions against party and their counsel, and relying on section 105(a) of the Bankruptcy Code as a basis for awarding attorney's fees against parties for acting "with reckless disregard of their duty to this Court"); In re Paige, 365 BR 632, 640 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2007) (awarding attorneys' fees against debtor for their "bad faith" conduct during bankruptcy case, noting "[t]he sanction here is derived from the Court's inherent power to sanction" under section 105(a)); Cleveland Imaging, 26 F.4th at 297 (noting that a bankruptcy court may sanction litigants "if it finds, by clear and convincing evidence, that they acted in bad faith or willfully abused the judicial process") ; Schermerhorn v.

Kubbernus (In re Skyport Glob. Commc'n, Inc.), 642 F. App'x 301, 304 (5th Cir. 2016) (same); (Lopez v. Portfolio Recovery Assocs. (In re Lopez), 576 B.R. 84, 93 (S.D. Tex. 2017) (same).

74. A bankruptcy court has "broad discretion" to determine reasonable attorneys' fees. See In re Monteagudo, 536 F. App'x 456, 459 (5th Cir. 2013) (sanctions orders granted under bankruptcy court's inherent powers are reviewed for "abuse of discretion"); ASARCO, L.L.C. v. Jordan Hyden Womble Culbreth & Holzer, P.C. (In re ASARCO, L.L.C.), 751 F.3d 291, 294 (5th Cir. 2014), aff'd sub nom., Baker Botts L.L.P. v. ASARCO LLC, 576 U.S. 121 (2015) ("A bankruptcy court has 'broad discretion' to determine reasonable attorneys' fees, as the bankruptcy court is familiar "with the actual services performed" and is well positioned to determine "what is just and reasonable") (internal quotations omitted); In re Paige, 365 B.R. 632, 637-640 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2007) (awarding attorneys' fees against debtor for their "bad faith" conduct during bankruptcy case, noting "[t]he sanction here is derived from the Court's inherent power to sanction" under section 105(a)); Lopez v. Portfolio Recovery Assocs., LLC (In re Lopez), 576 B.R. 84, 93 (S.D. Tex. 2017) (same); Dondero v. Highland Cap. Mgmt., L.P. (In re Highland Cap. Mgmt. L.P.), 105 F.4th 830, 841 (5th Cir. 2024) ("Undergirding our analysis of the sanctions award here is a recognition of the goal of such awards everywhere: "to do rough justice.' ... Complete accuracy is neither required nor expected. The bankruptcy court's judgments in these matters are entitled to our 'substantial deference.'") (internal quotations omitted).

75. Here, the Bankruptcy Court should award sanctions against HCLOM Ltd. and Dondero in the form of attorneys' fees and expenses incurred by Highland in connection with the bad faith prosecution of the HCLOM Claim, in an amount to be determined at trial.

CONCLUSION

WHEREFORE, for the foregoing reasons, Highland respectfully requests that the Court enter an order, in the form attached hereto as Exhibit C, (a) finding that HCLOM Ltd. and Dondero prosecuted the HCLOM Claim in bad faith, (b) entering sanctions jointly and severally against HCLOM Ltd. and Dondero in the form of reimbursement to Highland of Highland's costs and expenses incurred in objecting to HCLOM Ltd.'s HCLOM Claim in an amount to be determined at trial; and (c) granting such other and further relief that the Court deems just and proper under the circumstances.

EXHIBIT A

WATERHOUSE DEPOSITION DIGEST[1]

- FW does not know that there is an entity called "Highland CLO Management, Ltd." and a different entity called "Highland CLO Management, LLC" (6:2-11; 25:21-26:5)

WATERHOUSE DID NOT PROPERLY PREPARE TO TESTIFY

- To prepare, FW met with counsel and reviewed the Note, the Purchase and Sale Agreement, the Transfer Agreement, the Rule 30(b)(6) notice and the pleadings; he also reviewed portions of Dondero's deposition transcript from the Acis case. (6:18-8:9); FW met with counsel a few weeks before for 2-3 hours (41:9-42:7)

- But FW didn't review any emails (7:15-16); was unaware that there is ongoing, current litigation between Acis and Dondero (9:15-17); spoke with nobody other than counsel to prepare, including Dondero, Cullinane, Sevilla, Ellington or Leventon; and read nothing but the primary documents. (9:21-11:5)

- Even though "resets" were a Rule 30(b)(6) topic, FW looked at no documents to prepare, talked to no one other than counsel, and has no personal knowledge on the topic. (124:24-126:3)

- FW DNR if he ever served as an officer of HCLOM Limited, and did not know if he was an officer of HCLOM Limited at the time of the deposition. (14:13-17)

- FW DNR seeing HCLOM Limited resolutions; DNK how Summit Management became Limited's director at formation. (15:4-16:20)

- FW DNK who formed HCLOM Limited and DNK of any communications with Summit or Cullinane on the topic. (16:21-17:7)

- FW discussed with Dondero and legal team the need to form HCLOM because Acis could not continue to serve as CLO manager following Terry's arbitration award. (17:11-18:13)

- Needed to create successor manager. (18:14-23)

- FW claims Acis couldn't continue because Highland wouldn't support it and investors did not want to be associated with it. (18:24-19:13)

[1] "FW" refers to Frank Waterhouse. "DNR" means "does not recall" or "does not remember." "DNK" means "does not know." Citations are to the transcript of Waterhouse's deposition marked as Ex. 3.

- FW can't identify any specific person who told him investors did not want to be associated with Acis, nor could he identify any particular investors (19:10-20:17)

- FW DNR why Highland was unwilling to service Acis. (20:18-20)

- HCLOM Limited never served as Successor CLO Services for Acis and DNK if it ever generated a dollar of revenue. (20:25-21:10)

- Other than formation expenses, FW DNK if HCLOM Limited ever incurred any expenses. (21:11-23)

- FW DNK if he was HCLOM Limited's Treasurer. (21:24-25)

- FW DNR whether HCLOM Limited had any employees or a shared services agreement. (22:1-9)

- FW DNR seeing 2/7/18 HCLOM Limited resolutions; they show he is the Treasurer (22:11-23:7). This was a Rule 30(b)(6) topic, yet FW has no knowledge concerning HCLOM Limited's officers. (23:8-24:8)

- FW does not know if HCLOM Limited or HCLOM LLC was the entity that tried to take steps to become the Successor Manager. (24:14-25:20)

- FW DNR that HCLOM Limited had a bank account; prepared financial statements; maintained books and records; was a registered financial advisor. (26:6-19)

- FW never saw a document concerning resets where HCLOM Limited was identified as the proposed portfolio manager rather than LLC. (27:4-7)

- The Acknowledgement and Waiver Agreement was signed about 10 weeks after the Transfer Agreement by Dondero and Cullinane. (27:14-29:4)

- FW not aware of anything inaccurate or incorrect. (29:5-8)

- FW has no independent knowledge of the Acknowledgement and Waiver Agreement; it says what it says. (29:9-31:4)

- FW admits that the Notices and Appointments required under the Transfer Agreement never occurred. (31:14-24)

- Dugaboy and Okada own HCLOM Limited. (34:7-10)

- FW has no facts to support speculation that Limited and LLC are affiliates. (33:15-36:1)

- HCMLP had an ownership interest in Limited until 2022. (36:7-22)
- FW DNK if LLC ever had an ownership interest in Limited. (37:15-19)
- FW's understanding is that Highland owned LLC until 2022. (37:20-38:25)
- FW was "likely" Treasurer of Acis. (43:14-17)
- FW admits that on June 10, 2016, the day after Terry was terminated, he and Dondero were Acis' sole remaining officers. (44:2-45:14)
- FW has never discussed Acis with Nancy Dondero even though she is the Dugaboy trustee, which owned Acis, and FW was one of only two officers of Acis. (45:24-46:14)
- FW agrees that JD controlled Acis at all times from at least 6/10/16 until Phalen is appointed. (47:16-21)
- If FW needed approval to do something as Treasurer of Acis, he'd turn to Dondero. (48:12-16)
- Acis had no employees but did have shared services and sub-advisory agreements with Highland enabled Acis to fulfill its duties as portfolio manager. (48:22-50:1)
- Dondero signed amended SSA and Sub-Advisory Agreements the month after Terry is terminated. (50:6-51:10)
- Despite being Highland's CFO and Acis' Treasurer, FW testified that he wasn't involved in amending the service agreements. (51:11-52:9)
- Dondero would have to approve the 20-BPS formula for Acis and Highland. (59:2-7)
- FW does not know if Highland ever gave written notice of termination of the SSA pursuant to Section 14(b). (60:2-16)
- Acis was to pay Highland an aggregate of 35 basis points for shared and sub-advisory services. (64:21-65:4)
- FW DNR Highland providing written notice of termination of the sub-advisory agreement in accordance with Section 7.02. (65:4-66:7)
- Shared Services and Sub-Advisory Agreements were amended again in March 2017; Dondero signed the amended agreements so, again, Acis is still paying 35 basis points for services. (66:8-68:6)

- So as of March 2017, Acis was still the vehicle through which the Acis CLOs were expected to be managed. (68:7-69:6)
- FW does not recall anyone expressing concerns over Acis until 2018. (69:7-24)
- FW DNR either party ever giving written notice of termination of the service agreements. (69:25-70:16)
- FW DNR shared services agreement being amended. (72:4-22)
- FW DNR Highland assigning or delegating any rights or obligations. (72:23-75:2)
- FW DNR sub-advisory agreement being the subject of a written notice of termination. (75:16-76:21)
- FW DNR Sub-Advisory Agreement ever being amended. (76:22-77:10)
- FW DNR Sub-Advisory Agreement ever being assigned. (77:11-21)

CLO PARTICIPATION AGREEMENT

- "Highland purchased an … interest in Acis' management fees." (78:10-22)
- Whole concept was a "tax-driven strategy" that also gave Highland a cash management benefit because it would receive the Servicing Fees before it paid out on the Note. (79:19-80:24; 83:1-6)
- FW discussed tax planning and cash management aspects with tax group and Dondero. (82:4-25)
- Because Acis is a pass-through entity, Acis' ultimate beneficial owners were the beneficiaries of the expected tax benefits on the Acis side; same was true on the Highland side. (85:22-86:16)
- Unpredictability and instability of Servicing Fees never caused Acis to default or breach obligations. (98:14-22)
- FW cannot identify any adverse consequence to Acis from the alleged unpredictability and instability of Servicing Fees. (99:23-25)
- Terry, Okada, and Dondero were the only people who could make decisions on Acis' behalf because they were the owners; after Terry was terminated, Dondero and Okada remained in control until Phalen was appointed Trustee. (101:13-102:6)
- FW DNR the issuers ever breaching their obligation to pay servicing fees to Acis or Acis ever declaring a default. (102:7-14)

- Schedule A of the Transfer Agreement identifies the CLOs subject to the Agreement. Based on the figures in Schedule A, and the fees due under the Shared and Sub-Advisory Service Agreements, FW agrees that "Acis was obligated to pay to Highland more than it expected to receive in servicing fees." (102:15-104:15)

- As Treasurer of Acis and the CFO of Highland, FW admits that "Highland is giving the Cash Purchase Price and the Note to Acis in exchange for Acis' promise to share the Acis Participation Interest as defined in th[e] agreement" (104:16-105:24)

- FW DNR how the Cash Purchase Price and initial principal balance of the Note were determined; whether they equaled the value of the Participation interests; or whether they were the subject of negotiation. (106:1-16)

NOTE

- The Note was executed at the same time as the Participation Agreement, both of which "were part and parcel of the same overall transaction." (111:9-112:1)

- The same people made decisions on behalf of Acis and Highland in connection with the Participation Agreement and Note. (112:10-21)

- Highland did not have a dedicated team looking out for its interests; while H&W was involved, they were engaged solely by Acis. (112:22-113:10)

- HCLOM Limited never paid servicing fees because it never became the collateral manager of the CLOs. (118:7-15)

- FW still insists that HCLOM Ltd. didn't become collateral manager of CLOs because of the Acis bankruptcy. (118:7-18)

- Highland made the first payment under the Note, but not the second payment due of 5/31/18; HCLOM did not declare a default but entered into the forbearance agreement instead. (118:20-119:12)

- Dondero and FW were the sole officers of Acis from at least November 1, 2017 until Phelan was appointed in the Spring or Summer of 2018. (120:3-9)

- Acis continued to receive quarterly servicing fees from the CLOs after November 1, 2017. (120:10-15)

- FW DNR if Acis remitted servicing fees to Highland after 11/1/17. (120:16-18)

- In April 2017, under Dondero's direction, Acis launched a brand-new CLO (Acis-7). (121:11-21)

- FW admits that Dondero would not have launched a brand-new CLO if he didn't believe Acis could not perform. (121:18-25)

- FW DNR recall (a) anyone expressing any concern about Acis' ability to perform or (b) how Acis funded the risk retention amount (or whether Highland loaned the money). (122:1-23)

- Acis looking to reset Acis-3 in late 2017. (123:13-124:2)

ASSIGNMENT AND TRANSFER AGREEMENT

- Despite being the CFO of Acis, FW has no recollection of Acis transferring its assets to other Highland entities in the fourth quarter of 2017. (131:1-15)

- FW had no recollection that Highland caused a Delaware entity called "Highland CLO Management, LLC" to be created in October 2007. (131:16-132:7)

- FW DNK who authorized the creation of LLC or what its purpose was. (132:4-13)

- FW DNK why the Transfer Agreement was entered on 11/3/17 except that (a) Terry got his award and (b) Highland said it wouldn't support Acis; those are the only two reasons why this Agreement was entered. (132:22-134:25)

- Dondero made the decision to enter the Transfer Agreement on behalf of Highland and Acis, and Cullinane made the decision on behalf of HCLOM Limited. (135:1-10)

- The only purpose of the Transfer Agreement was to transfer the participation interest (i.e., the servicing fees) and the Note. (135:24-136:13)

- FW admitted that HCLOM Ltd. had to become the manager of the Acis CLOs "to receive the servicing fees to then in turn remit the participation interest to Highland. That was it." (136:14-24)

- FW DNK if Transfer Agreement was negotiated or what role, if any, Cullinane played in drafting or negotiating the Agreement and despite being the Rule 30(b)(6) witness, FW made no effort to ascertain Cullinane's thoughts concerning the Agreement. (136:25-138:2)

- Dondero made the decision on behalf of Highland to stop supporting Acis, as set forth in the third recital. (138:3-13)

- The team managing the Acis CLOs was the same the day after Terry left as it was on 11/3/17, lead by Dondero (139:23-140:24)

- In fact, despite Terry's departure and the public litigation that Highland initiated, Dondero still had enough confidence in the Acis brand that he entered into new service agreements and launched a new CLO with the Acis name. (140:25-142:13)

- The award was the sole reason FW could identify for entering into the Assignment and Transfer Agreement. (142:14-21)

- FW DNK who gave the Notice on behalf of Highland or who received it on behalf of Acis, although Dondero did control both entities at the time. (142:22-143:6)

- FW has no knowledge that Acis ever defaulted under either the SSA or Sub-Advisory Agreement. (143:7-144:8)

- Dondero made the decision on Highland's behalf not to support Acis, and then made the decision on behalf of Acis that it couldn't continue. (144:9-145:10)

- FW cannot identify any "damage to the Acis brand" other than the damage allegedly caused by the Acis arbitration award. (145:11-22)

- Acis "simply accepted Highland's notification and said, okay, we're done" without seeking alternatives or declaring a default on Highland's part. (146:13-10)

- And despite allegedly giving notice, Highland continued to perform under the service agreements until Phalen was appointed. (147:11-21)

- HCLOM was "going to step into Acis' shoes" and would "have the obligation under the CLO participation interest agreement to remit… that 20 bases point over to Highland." (149:18-150:12)

- FW agrees that it's fair to say "that the reason Highland agreed to transfer the note to HCLOM is because HCLOM was agreeing to become the new portfolio manager for the Acis CLOs and would share the servicing fees after that happened." (150:13-23)

- "The planning contemplated the sale of the CLO participation interest and a note to the CLO manger." (152:1-13)

- FW has no knowledge concerning the proofs of claim Highland filed in the Acis bankruptcy case. (153:20-155:25)

- FW admits that the obligations under sections 1 and 2 of the Transfer Agreement were never fulfilled. (156:15-157:6)

- FW has no idea if HCLOM LLC or HCLOM Limited was doing the resets and cannot competently testify about the meaning, intent or terms of the Acknowledgement and Waiver document. (157:7-163:2)

FORBEARANCE AGREEMENT

- FW signed – but doesn't know if its electronic signature or a wet signature (163:3-21)

- FW DNR (a) the circumstances surrounding his execution of the document or (b) why highland did not make the payment due on 5/31/18. (163:22-164:4)

- FW DNR HCLOM Limited (a) making a demand under the Note, (b) declaring a default, or (c) exercising any remedies. (164:11-20)

- FW DNR (a) reviewing before signing, (b) discussing the document with anyone before signing, (c) who asked him to sign it, or (d) where the idea originated. (164:21-165:20)

- FW admits that "everyone knew" HCLOM Ltd. wasn't receiving fees under the portfolio management agreement and was relieved of the obligation to make payments, so HCLOM received no benefit under the Forbearance Agreement. (165:21-167:11)

- The only thing Waterhouse could identify that HCLOM Ltd. received from entering into the Forbearance Agreement was somehow helping Highland preserve its relationships with the investors in the CLOs. (167:12-168:22)

AMENDED FORBEARANCE AGREEMENT

- Signed by FW on behalf of both Highland and HCLOM Limited after the Acis plan is confirmed and there is no prospect for Acis reset. (170:5-24)

- FW admits that by this time, there is no chance HCLOM Limited will ever become the portfolio manager of Acis. (170:25-171:13)

- FW DNR HCLOM Limited ever being identified as a portfolio manager in 2019. (171:14-24)

- Only alleged benefit to HCLOM Limited from Forbearance Agreement is "reserv[ation] of the relationship. (171:25-172:3)

- FW is not aware "of any discussion or attempt by anybody in the world after January 19, 2018 to install HCLOM, Ltd. as the portfolio manager of the CLOs." (172:4-173:11)

RESPONSE

- FW read it before and is unaware of any mistakes. (174:13-175:1)
- FW is not aware of any amendments needed to fully and accurately set forth HCLOM's factual and legal bases for responding to the Objection or of any intended amendments. (175:2-9)

HCLOM'S DISCOVERY RESPONSES

- Served before FW reviewed and verified. (176:4-177:1)
- The verification falsely states that FW spoke with people with "personal knowledge" about the responses. (177:2-178:13)
- FW does not believe the Responses need to be amended or modified to make them more accurate. (178:14-20)
- FW did not verify the accuracy of the Response to Interrogatory No. 2, he just "took what counsel provided as correct." (178:21-180:1)
- FW then admits the response to Interrogatory No. 2 is unresponsive; he doesn't know if the Transfer Agreement was subject to negotiations; and he did nothing to find out. (180:14-181:2)
- FW DNK basis for the denial of the Firs Request to Admit. (182:3-18)
- The "consideration" HCLOM gave was the "preservation of the relationship" even though the same people making the same decisions on behalf of both entities. (182:19-184:21)
- Dondero, Ellington & Waterhouse. (184:22-185-22)

EXHIBIT B

DONDERO DEPOSITION DIGEST[1]

- JD does not know who holds the Note that is the subject of the litigation. (8:7-14; 14:10-14)

- JD didn't do anything to prepare other than meet with counsel, an hour the Friday before and 15 minutes today; didn't review documents; didn't speak with anyone other than counsel (including FW). (8:15-9:23).

- JD doesn't know anything about HCLOM Limited other than it was one of the entities that was going to be involved in refinancing or resetting of the CLOS. (9:24-10:22)

- JD doesn't know when Limited was formed; formed by "the lawyers." (10:23-11:18)

- JD is aware that LLC exists and speculates that it was an onshore entity involved in resets and refinancings. (11:19-12:2)

- JD doesn't know if LLC/Limited have common ownership or had any contractual relationship. (12:13-13:5)

- JD never asked why there were entities with similar names because he "wasn't specifically involved in any of the details on a transaction of this size," and DNR anyone ever explaining why. (13:10-14:1)

- JD can't identify the ultimate beneficial owners of HCLOM Limited as of today or at the time of formation. (14:15-15:17)

- JD DNK who controls HCLOM Limited: "This is a small transaction. I wasn't involved in the details," and he never asked anyone. JD doesn't even know if he's authorized to act on behalf of HCLOM Limited. (15:18-16:13)

- JD never saw HCLOM's Response; DNR seeing before filed. (16:14-23; 18:8-19:13)

- JD doesn't know who, within his organization, is responsible for handling this litigation on behalf of HCLOM Limited; he never designated anyone; no one ever told him who that person was; and he never spoke with anyone internally concerning this litigation. (19:22-20:15)

[1] "JD" refers to James Dondero. "DNR" means "does not recall" or "does not remember." "DNK" means "does not know." Citations are to the transcript of Dondero's deposition in this matter, marked as Ex. 62.

- Acis: formed in 2011 by Dondero, Terry & Okada to be a RIA and manage and invest in CLOs. (22:4-16)

- Acis obtained role as CLO Manager through management agreements with issuers and would receive fees for services. (22:17-23:13)

- JD DNR if he was an officer of Acis or controlled that entity. (24:21-25:6)

- JD doesn't remember if he fired Josh Terry for cause. (25:7-22)

- Terry's interests in Acis were allocated between entities owned or controlled by Dondero and Okada, but JD believes the decisions were made by an unnamed in-house lawyer; JD did not delegate to a particular person the responsibility for addressing issues arising from Terry's departure. (26:3-27:13)

- JD DNR delegating or designating anyone to act on behalf of Acis after Terry departs. (29:5-10)

- JD controlled HCMLP at all times until Independent Board appointed in 1/20, and authorized HCMLP to file for bankruptcy. (31:6-17)

- JD acknowledges that Terry left in June 2016, HCMLP sued him based on JD's authority, and Terry moved to compel arbitration on 9/12/16. (31:18-32:23)

- JD DNR Acis and Highland entering into the Participation Agreement. (31:18-33:3)

PARTICIPATION AGREEMENT

- JD signed but did not read before doing so. (35:2-9)

- Purchase of expected fees for a note in order to recharacterize short-term income as capital gains. Tax advantage. (35:13-36:6)

- Acis is a pass-thru entity; not a tax-paying entity; tax liability goes to owners. (36:7-16)

- Highland was also pass through entity so neither Acis nor Highland were the tax-paying entities. (37:4-19)

- When JD signed, he understood that Acis "was agreeing to pay to Highland a portion of the servicing fees that it was going to receive from serving as the portfolio manager of the CLOs." (38:18-23)

- Schedule A: "In exchange for the Acis participation interests, as set forth on Schedule A, Highland agreed to give some cash and a note." (38:24-41:14; 41:10-25; 43:20-25)

- JD doesn't know the "nuts and bolts" that it takes "to be bona fide for tax purposes" so can't say if you needed cash going both ways. (42:1-13)

PROMISSORY NOTE

- JD signed. (42:24-43:9)

- JD doesn't know how principal amount of the Note was calculated; he "wouldn't have been involved with that." (44:1-6)

- JD does not know if there is a relationship between cash flow to/from Highland. (46:4-12)

- Benefit to Highland was tax deferral and/or recharacterization of income. (46:14-25)

- JD can't quantify the tax benefit to Highland; he didn't ask anyone what it would be; he doesn't know expected rate of return; he didn't ask; DNR if anyone ever told him IRR. (47:1-17)

- Idea originated with tax group, but can't name a person. (49:15-22)

- The Note was an integral part of the Participation Agreement:

    - Exchange of promises: "one side wouldn't have signed if they didn't get the promises of the other side." (50:7-21)

    - Wouldn't have agreed without the promises. (50:23-51:12)

    - JD DNK if HCMLP made any payments under the amortization schedule; he wasn't involved. (52:5-18)

SHARED SERVICES AND SUB-ADVISORY AGREEMENTS

- JD signed but DNK why he did so. (55:13-56:8)

- Goldman says brand toxic; JD has no personal knowledge; can't even remember who told him. (57:11-59:14; 61:18-62:21; 64:3-13)

ARBITRATION AWARD

- JD has never read it. (67:11-22)
- Not familiar with findings, only that it was against Acis. (70:3-20)
- Recalls that just after Award rendered, he signed the Transfer Agreement. (78:23-79:3)

TRANSFER AGREEMENT

- JD signed. (79:4-18)
- JD DNR Summit or Cullinane. (79:19-81:2)
- JD DNR ever meeting or communicating with Cullinane. (81:3-19)
- JD does not know if agreement was negotiated; "not involved." (82:16-18)
- JD never spoke with anyone authorized to act on HCLOM Limited's behalf before it was executed. (82:24-83:3)
- JD doesn't recall the document; didn't recall if he read it. (83:12-19)
- From Acis and Highland's perspective, JD's understanding is that the purpose of the agreement was to replace Acis as portfolio manager. (83:23-84:11)
- JD had no opinion when signing whether Highland would continue to receive serving fees in exchange for payments under the Note. (84:12-20)
- JD does not recall if he expected Highland to receive any benefit under this Agreement. (84:22-25)
- JD was unaware that Highland was a party to the Agreement; could not identify a benefit Highland was to receive even after reviewing the document. (85:8-86:4)
- JD has "no idea" why he signed the document on behalf of Acis and Highland. (86:5-14)
- Based on his reading of Sections 3(b) and (c), the Agreement is "just trying to make sure the promises and the obligations of Acis transfer to the new entity." (87:4-24)

- Asked to identify anything of value that HCLOM Limited provided to Highland pursuant to this Agreement, JD referred to "shared servicer fees" but didn't know if HCLOM Limited had a shared services agreement. (88:15-89:2)

- JD has no idea if HCLOM Limited ever gave anything of value to Highland for any purpose. (89:20-91:5)

- HCLOM Limited wasn't a registered investment advisor and had no fees. (91:23-25)

- JD DNK if HCLOM Limited ever entered into SSA or sub-advisory agreement with anyone. (93:6-19)

- JD has no personal knowledge about the Notification (as defined in Transfer Agreement.). (94:24-95:6)

- JD DNK who gave the Notification on Highland's behalf or who received it on Acis' behalf. (95:7-12)

- JD DNK why Highland was unwilling to support Acis. (95:13-18)

- JD has no opinion as to whether agreement was "neutral" to Acis. (97:16-24)

- JD DNK who made the decision on Highland's behalf not to service Acis – but it wasn't him. (98:12-16)

- The Terry relationship and litigation was handled by Surgent. (99:4-18)

- JD DNR any advice he received before signing the Agreement. (100:4-10)

- JD DNK who was authorized to give the Notification. (100:11-14)

- JD DNK if HCLOM Limited was a qualified Successor Manager. (104:24-105:2)

- DNK if HCLOM Limited ever appointed Successor Manager. (106:14-16)

- DNK if HCLOM Limited or HCLOM LLC took steps to become Successor Manager. (107:1-10)

- JD wouldn't have signed the Agreement if he thought there were errors in it (and there were: among other things, HCLOM Limited was not "qualified"). (108:6-14)

- Yet, took no steps to make sure the Agreement reflected the facts; just "trusted internal counsel," without asking any questions at all. (108:16-25)

- JD's understanding is that the Transfer Agreement "was intended to simply let HCLOM Limited step into the shoes of Acis." (109:22-110:1)

- JD DNK who is managing the litigation on behalf of HCLOM Limited and never asked. (110:2-19)

- JD DNK who owns HCLOM Limited or who its officers are or who is authorized to act on its behalf. (110:20-111:3)

- JD not involved in reset/refinance process. (112:13-22)

- One piece of the resets was that Acis would be replaced as portfolio manager and lose the right to receive the serving fees; the fees would go to the Successor Manager. (113:10-25)

- JD did not authorize or instruct anyone to pursue the resetting of the CLOs. (114:1-115:11).

- JD DNK who was authorized to have Acis reset the CLOs in 11/17. (116:12-15)

MIZUHO AGREEMENT

- JD signed but DNR ever reading before. (119:18-120:4)

- JD DNK where HCLOM LLC got the authority to engage Mizuho or why HCLOM Limited was designated as the "Company" for this purpose. (122:5-11)

- JD admits that HCLOM Limited is not referred to in the Agreement and he has no knowledge that HCLOM Limited was going to play a role in the transactions subject to the document. (123:19-124:7)

- JD DNK why LLC is the signatory and not Limited and never asked. (124:9-14)

- JD DNR ever signing a document (other than the Transfer Agreement) that contemplated that Limited would serve as Acis' successor portfolio manager. (125:8-12)

CUSTODIAL AGREEMENT

- JD signed but DNR doing so. (126:15-127:3)

- Every deal needs a custodial bank; it's a different role than placement agent. (127:25-128:14)

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT AND WAIVER

- JD signed it but doesn't remember seeing it; reading it before he signed it; or discussing it with anyone. (129:10-130:7; 134:15-23)
- JD has no reason to believe paragraph 3 is incorrect in any way. (131:6-13)
- JD DNK if Acis ever promptly gave notice to the controlling class of each CLO. (133:9-14)
- JD DNK if Acis and HCLOM ever promptly pursued an appointment for each CLO. (133:16-25)
- JD did not have a specific awareness that he was waiving breaches of the Transfer Agreement on Highland's behalf. (135:4-11)
- JD DNK what Highland received in exchange for the waiver; he never asked; and no one ever explained what benefit Highland would receive by waiving the breaches of the Transfer Agreement. (135:18-136:6)

DALLAS, TEXAS - DECEMBER 18, 2024 - 9:05 A.M.

THE CLERK: All rise. The United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division, is now in session, the Honorable Stacey Jernigan presiding.

THE COURT: Good morning, everyone. Please be seated.

All right. We have a hearing all day today scheduled for Highland, an objection to the scheduled claim of what I'm going to call HCLOM. You all tell me today if you want to call it something different. For the record, this is Case No. 19-34054. So let's start out by getting appearances from our lawyers.

MR. MORRIS: Good morning, Your Honor. It's been a while. Nice to see you. John Morris from Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones for Highland Capital Management, LP. I'm joined here today by my colleagues, Jeffrey Pomerantz, Hayley Winograd, and Zachery Annable.

THE COURT: Okay. Good morning to all.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Good morning, Your Honor. I'm Deborah Deitsch-Perez from Stinson representing HCLOM, which I will sometimes refer to as Limited to distinguish it from HCLOM, LLC. So I'll call one Limited and the other LLC, hopefully.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I'm here with my colleague Mike

Aigen, and Patricia Tomasky, who's a paralegal, and Fred Jones, who are assisting.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Thank you.

THE COURT: Good morning to all.

All right. I presume those are the only appearances, and anyone else on the WebEx is an observer.

Do we have a housekeeping matters or shall we go to opening statements?

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I have one housekeeping matter I'd like to raise. And this is really because Your Honor has on many occasions chided us and said, why are you here, have you done anything to try not to be here?

And this is not in the nature of settlement, but certain things happened last week. Last week, it became clear that $73-odd million is going to come out of the Registry of the Court into the estate, and another several million dollars is going to come out because of the administrative claims, because the Fifth Circuit just ruled, so it's another roughly $80 million in the estate. And there's already $80 million or so in the estate, and there's $80-ish million left in claims.

And so what we had proposed is that, rather than spending time and money fighting about all of this, we would agree to put HCLOM's claim behind Class 8, which I believe has otherwise been fully paid, and Class 9, because otherwise what the estate is doing here is bringing in money that's going to be the residual left over for former equity, and we're willing to put HCLOM back there anyway. And then we wouldn't be spending your time and our time and money to fight this, and particularly with a sanctions motion to try and get fees from Mr. Dondero.

I mean, honestly, Your Honor, what is the point, when there's enough money there to pay everyone and basically you're moving it from one pocket to the other, because at the end of the day there's going to be money left over for former equity?

And so I would ask that you use your ability to control your docket and send us all home.

THE COURT: Okay. And by the way, I neglected to ask, does Mr. Dondero have separate counsel today --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: No, I'm here --

THE COURT: -- or you are also his counsel?

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yes, I'm here for Mr. Dondero also.

THE COURT: All right. So what I have heard is there is an agreement by your client to essentially have a subordinated claim behind all --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yes.

THE COURT: -- Class 8, all Class 9?

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yep.

THE COURT: It would come above equity.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: Strand, I guess, or --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yeah, the 10 and 11, --

THE COURT: I think I still remember this --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yeah.

THE COURT: -- organizational structure. And that, of course, eliminates the sanction component of this.

What do you have to say, Mr. Morris?

MR. MORRIS: Sure. I'm just going to come to the podium. I'm more comfortable there.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: I'm surprised and disappointed that we're hearing this now. This is something that could have been raised the day after we filed our objection. Instead of raising this issue then, they filed a response, and we have spent more than $600,000 litigating this matter. She's opened the door now. Before there was a deposition taken, Your Honor, we offered to pay them a half a million dollars for the withdrawal of this claim. That was not accepted.

Here we are now. When I received this missive on Saturday, saying, gee, it's not -- not complete what's being said here. She also directed us to pay the Class 8 and Class 9 in full, which we're not going to do unless and until the Trustee determines that's in the estate's best interest. We responded by saying, if that's what you want to do, then just withdraw your claim with prejudice and we will withdraw our bad faith motion.

So, instead of accepting that, they pushed on. Right? Because it doesn't matter. If they're going to subordinate that claim to 8 and 9, the claim becomes irrelevant, because if there's ever a distribution to the Class 10, that's the same person. It's Jim Dondero. Right? We don't have to play games here.

So I said, withdraw your claim with prejudice, we'll withdraw our bad faith motion with prejudice, and we will have no trial. Not acceptable.

So here we are. We've now spent the time. They could have made this proposal two years ago. They didn't. They didn't accept the very generous offer that we made before a deposition was taken in this case. They've got no case here. There's no legal basis for this claim. There is no factual basis for this claim. We were prepared to actually write a meaningful check and avoid the whole thing. Not acceptable. We're forced to go through it.

This is like HCRE all over again, where, like, I don't know why we're here. I really don't know why we're here. It's the same person. Right?

But they pushed me here, and I think we ought to, as long as everybody's here, we ought to just get on with it and be done today.

THE COURT: Well, I'm trying to figure out if it's just a mechanical thing at this point. I mean, I'm hearing that your proposal is the claim be subordinated.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: And --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: And the reason we don't agree with Mr. Morris, and I'll correct a few of the things he said, is there are some differences between HCLOM and former equity, and we don't know what kind of tax or other implications there would be from changing it from HCLOM's claim to dumping it into some other category.

But as a practical and economic matter for the estate, we're willing to have it at the back. So it's no difference to the estate.

And the reason we didn't make this proposal initially and we made it last week is because of the very material change that the estate suddenly has $80 million more. And it should be clear to everybody that there's enough money to pay everyone.

It is also not true that I said to Mr. Morris that he had to pay everybody this minute to make this claim, because then I would be saying, oh, pay me next week. That's not what I said. What I said was we would agree that if it turns out, as we firmly believe and we're putting our money where our mouth is, that there's enough money to pay everyone, then pay HCLOM then. They've already reserved the money for it.

And for them to say this is a ridiculous claim is itself ridiculous. This is not a proof of claim. This is a claim that Highland scheduled, not just when Mr. Dondero was at the helm but when Mr. Seery was at the helm. And then he reaffirmed it for years afterwards. It's only when they realized that allowing the claim would benefit Mr. Dondero, among others, that they did an about-face and said, oh, no, now we object to the claim.

THE COURT: Okay. Now we're getting into argument.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Okay.

THE COURT: And I promise you, I've read every single --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Okay.

THE COURT: -- sentence of every single pleading.

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

THE COURT: So I know what the counter-arguments are.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: And --

THE COURT: I'm going to suggest this. Can we take a 15-minute break? And we are pressed for time today, because I think I told you all, or maybe, I mean, not me, but Traci probably told you all that I have a presentation at 6:00 o'clock tonight. It's five minutes away, but --

MR. MORRIS: I think --

THE COURT: What I'm really afraid of is you mentioned HCRE. I remember when we were in the devil-is-in-the-details kind of situation there, where we didn't really have a meeting of the minds on what might happen with a withdrawal of that claim.

So might I suggest a 15-minute break, and you can write it down and sign it in blood. I hate to say it. But if it's something that you both can get to the same point on.

MR. MORRIS: I'm happy to do it, but I just want to make this really clear on the record. The reason that we were prepared to agree to withdrawal of our bad faith motion in exchange for disallowance of the scheduled claim is because we would have no theoretical let alone legal duty to HCLOM. And that's where we need to get to. That's why we're going forward today. That's why their settlement proposal was unacceptable.

We probably -- I'd have to confer with my client, but we probably would still be willing to withdraw the bad faith motion with the disallowance of the scheduled claims. But the subordination of it, to leave it hanging out there to create new arguments that we owe some kind of duty is unacceptable.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: And that --

THE COURT: All right. Wouldn't you know at this point in time if there's a tax consequence or some sort of negative consequence from withdrawal? Withdrawal seems weird because it's a scheduled claim.

MR. MORRIS: That's why I say disallowance.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: It's --

THE COURT: Disallowance versus subordination?

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: We don't know. And there's really no --

THE COURT: Why wouldn't you, after all of this time?

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Because this only came up last week, and I don't know how many other things one would have to look at to know that, Your Honor.

But the bottom line is we don't. And there's also no reason, because it is economically no different for the Debtor to put us behind 9 than to disallow it, because there's going to be --

THE COURT: Oh, okay. Well, --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: -- money left over.

THE COURT: -- I still want the 15-minute break, --

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: -- because it seems like there's a mechanic, such as I think the HCRE issue was --

MR. MORRIS: They were saving claims for another day.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: And --

MR. MORRIS: That's what we want to avoid doing here today.

THE COURT: Yes. That this claim would never be used

--

MR. MORRIS: We want to make sure that we have finality, --

THE COURT: -- in litigation.

MR. MORRIS: -- that we're never going to see this again.

THE COURT: It would never be used in any future litigation.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Right. That I could -- as I stand here now, I don't know of any claims that HCLOM has other than this. And the time to make them is long past. I mean, the bar date has passed. The schedules are the schedules.

THE COURT: But that would be against Highland, not against who knows who else. I mean, I don't know.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: But why does the Debtor -- I mean, why does that matter to the Debtor?

THE COURT: Well, --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I mean, I also don't know of any claims HCLOM has against anybody else, but why is --

THE COURT: Mr. Seery has been the subject of a lot of claim litigation. Or trying to assert a claim.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

THE COURT: Fifteen-minute break.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I'll give you an example.

APPELLANT'S AMENDED DESIGNATION OF ITEMS TO BE INCLUDED IN THE RECORD ON APPEAL AND STATEMENT OF THE ISSUES PRESENTED

Pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr. P. 8009(a) and Docket No. 4366, Appellant Patrick Daugherty ("Daugherty") hereby submits his amended designation of items to be included in the record on appeal and statement of issues to be presented in connection with his appeal from the Order Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9019 and 11 U.S.C. § 363 Approving Settlement Between the Highland Entities and the HMIT Entities and Authorizing Actions Consistent Therewith [Docket

[1] Highland's last four digits of its taxpayer identification number are (8357). The headquarters and service address for Highland is 100 Crescent Court, Suite 1850, Dallas, TX 75201.

No. 4297] (the "HMIT Settlement Order").[2] See Notice of Appeal [Docket No. 4310, as amended at Docket No. 4327].

Statement of Issues on Appeal

1. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in its approval of the HMIT Settlement Order [Docket No. 4297], which permits payment to Class 10 creditors before all Class 8 and Class 9 claims have been paid in full when the plain language of the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. [Dkt. 1808], the Court's Confirmation Order [Dkt. 1943] and the Claimant Trust Agreement [Dkt. 3817-4] require full payment plus applicable interest to all Class 8 and Class 9 creditors before any Class 10 or Class 11 claims can vest.

2. Whether the Bankruptcy Court abused its discretion by approving the HMIT Settlement Order [Docket No. 4297] when the settlement is not fair, reasonable, or in the best interests of the estate as the Debtor, through its principals, is forgoing the recovery of millions in material value to the estate in exchange for, inter alia, self-serving releases of its principals.

Designation of Record

Daugherty respectfully designates the following items to be included in the appellate record pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 8009(a):

000001 1. Amended Notice of Appeal for Bankruptcy Case No. 19-34054-sgj11 [Dkt. 4327].

000011 2. Notice of Appeal for Bankruptcy Case No. 19-34054-sgj11 [Dkt. 4310].

000026 4. Docket Sheet for Bankruptcy Case No. 19-34054-sgj1 kept by the Bankruptcy Clerk.

5. Documents listed below for Bankruptcy Case No. 19-34054-sgj11:

[2] Unless otherwise defined herein, all capitalized terms shall have the meaning ascribed to them in the HMIT Settlement Order.

MR. MORRIS: Can we take that 15-minute break?

THE COURT: Yes. Yes.

MR. MORRIS: Yes. Thank you.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

THE CLERK: All rise.

(A recess ensued from 9:18 a.m. until 9:47 a.m.)

THE CLERK: All rise.

THE COURT: All right. Please be seated.

All right. Do we have anything that looks like a compromise and settlement, or no?

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: We do. Can I take your computer?

MR. MORRIS: Sure.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Or somebody's computer?

MR. MORRIS: It's Hayley's. But you can read it if you want.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, just context, we greatly appreciate the Court's indulgence of time. It was used constructively. I believe that we have reached an agreement to resolve today's matter.

And with that, I'm going to have Ms. Deitsch-Perez read the written terms that we have right now. Obviously, it'll be subject to definitive documentation, which we would work on promptly today.

But why don't you take it from here?

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Okay.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: And I'm not going to include your asterisks. The --

THE COURT: And can I ask you to come to the podium and speak into the mic? I just want it crystal clear on the record whatever is said.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Okay. Come. Yes. Come. Okay. The HCLOM claim would be converted to a Class 10 interest in the same amount.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Okay. HCLOM would release protected parties.

MR. MORRIS: It would be a general release.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: But only by HCLOM.

MR. MORRIS: Correct. Only HCLOM Limited.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: HCLOM would not separately make equity motions, like Hunter Mountain. However, because of the change in circumstances, I just want this to be clear. Hunter Mountain or Dugaboy may have -- may want to bring to the Court's attention the change in the finances in the estate.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: But it would --

MR. MORRIS: -- I really would prefer that we just read the terms of the agreement, and then she can put down the commentary. I'm going to do this the way we have -- the way we have it written, and then she can provide whatever commentary she'd like.

There's five elements to this settlement.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: HCLOM claim will be converted to a Class 10 interest in the amount of the claim.

Number 2, there shall be a general release of all Protected Parties, as that term is defined in the plan.

There will be no "equity" type motion by HCLOM Limited. HCLOM Limited shall take no position in connection with this case, including but not limited to in connection with this scheduled claim, as a holder of a Class 10 interest.

Number 4, no estate fiduciary, Highland Capital Management, LP, will owe any duty of any kind, whether it's contractual, fiduciary, or otherwise, now or forever.

And Number 5, there shall be no reserve established.

THE COURT: Let me -- let me --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Let --

THE COURT: -- make sure I heard that point.

MR. MORRIS: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: No estate fiduciary or Highland. What --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Other than this agreement. I mean, --

MR. MORRIS: Sure.

THE COURT: Just, if you could just repeat what you said.

MR. MORRIS: There -- no estate fiduciary or Highland Capital Management or the Trust shall owe any duty of any kind to HCLOM Limited, including but not limited to contractual, fiduciary, or any other duty.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Except the duties owed as a result of this agreement. In other words, you're not saying we'll make this agreement but, ha ha, you can't enforce it? That's all.

MR. MORRIS: The only thing that would be enforced is they would have a Class 10 interest.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Right.

MR. MORRIS: Right?

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: It would have its Class 10 rights.

MR. MORRIS: Period, full stop. So that's fine.

And then no reserve shall be established.

There actually has been a reserve. That reserve can be released. There will be no further reserve with respect to this 10 interest.

And, you know, we need to make sure, and I don't know that counsel has the authority to do that today, but we need to make sure that neither HMIT nor Dugaboy, the Class 10 and Class 11 interest holders, have any objection to this. It's got to be subject to their consent.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Although I guess I still don't quite understand, because right now HCLOM is ahead of them, but I -- so now they're moving into --

MR. MORRIS: Because if we had the trial today, I'm fairly confident that the claim would be disallowed.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: And I'm equally confident that it would not be --

MR. MORRIS: Okay. So --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: -- and that it would be ahead.

MR. MORRIS: So we're having a settlement that could impact them. So --

Just to state this really simply, Your Honor, because I want intent to be really clear on the record: HCLOM Limited is going to walk away with the economic interest of having an allowed Class 10 interest in the amount of the claim and nothing more, as if we actually tried the case today and the scheduled claim was disallowed. That's the point that we continue to make, that if we had this case, the reason why we really wanted to push forward to this case today and really what we were talking about before we took the break is we didn't want any continuing duty of any kind.

So this is why -- this is the compromise here. Highland gets what it wants, and that is, as a legal matter, the claim has been effectively disallowed. HCLOM gets what it wants, because, as an economic matter, when and if Class 10 claim -- interest holders get paid, they'll get a distribution, presumably prorated with HMIT if HMIT is ultimately found to have, you know, an allowed claim.

That's really it. We want the protection as if the claim had been disallowed in full, no strings attached. And they're going to get, in exchange for that, they're going to get the economic benefit of holding a Class 10 interest.

THE COURT: Okay. Let me ask the obvious question. It seemed to the Court that standing was the issue. When we had this back and forth before the break, Highland wanted disallowance. Your client wanted subordination. And we all know that there have been many adversary proceedings and many appeals where the standing of the plaintiff, the standing of the appellant, was challenged. And some court, maybe this one, maybe an appellate court, said no standing of Mr. Dondero. Hunter Mountain. You know.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: These are --

THE COURT: Is this the rub here, or are we in agreement from these five elements that HCLOM will not have standing to bring actions or to pursue appeals that involve --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: We're --

THE COURT: -- somehow Highland?

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: We're basically -- and this is why I was trying to give a little color earlier, which is to say circumstances have changed.

So former equity, Classes 10 and 11, are in a position to say, Your Honor, look, see how much money there is in the estate. Now can you agree that we have standing? But we're not going to rely on the addition of HCLOM to say it's somehow different than if Hunter Mountain had done it or Dugaboy had done it. Is that -- is that clear?

MR. MORRIS: Let me make sure that I understand. This settlement has no impact on Dugaboy or HMIT. It doesn't. They've done whatever they wanted. They'll continue to do whatever they wanted, unfortunately. But what the third bullet point says is that HCLOM Limited shall take no position in connection with this case. Period, full stop.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Other than --

MR. MORRIS: Other than -- other than if, you know, if we gave a distribution to HMIT but didn't give it to HCLOM Limited, they can come in and complain about that. That's their economic right.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Right. We could complain about --

MR. MORRIS: Economic right.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: -- the economic -- about whether we get or don't get what we've just agreed to. I mean, we have rights arising out of this agreement.

THE COURT: Okay. Would it be -- it might be superfluous, but any problem with either one of you just saying in this agreement, This compromise and settlement agreement does not operate to give HCLOM standing in connection with any adversary, any appeal?

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Not if it related to a violation of the settlement. So I think it's an unnecessary thing to say.

THE COURT: Except to enforce the settlement agreement? Could it have that proviso?

Because here's where I'm standing. Standing. No pun intended, actually. I mean, you mentioned that I have an obligation or duty to manage my docket. But I feel like I also have a duty not to clog the court system, including the appellate system, by entering an agreed order that might be construed later, look, --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Well, --

THE COURT: -- she acknowledged we have a Class 10 interest and therefore we have standing. Okay?

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor?

THE COURT: Do you see what I'm saying? I have some duty here, too, to make sure I have not created a standing argument where one --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: There --

THE COURT: -- might not have existed.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: There's nothing about this agreement that creates any standing other than with respect to the agreement itself. And I would be loath to say something that might be misconstrued about that. It's simply unnecessary.

And it's not, it's not clogging the courts for parties to appeal those decisions with which they disagree. And this settlement is actually efficient, in the sense that surely everybody here is aware that if we went forward on this case, whoever lost would appeal.

So this is managing both this docket and lessening the flow of --

THE COURT: So, --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: -- cases into the future.

THE COURT: -- to make me feel like I have done my duty, you all would add a sentence that this order, this agreed order, whatever you're calling the document, does not operate to give standing to HCLOM for any purposes related to the Highland estate except to allow it to enforce this order?

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I mean, I'll have to go back and ask, but that sounds -- that sounds okay. You know, as in this case, you're right, the devil is always in the details, but that sounds like what we've been saying.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I just --

THE COURT: You'll have to ask your client? I think I saw him here earlier. Has he left?

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: If he is, I'll go -- I'll go and call him in the hall.

THE COURT: Okay. Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I just added a sixth clause that says, This order shall not operate -- does not and shall not operate -- does not and shall not operate to give standing to HCLOM Limited for any purpose against Highland -- against the Highland estate except to enforce this order.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: And I just, I just need to respond to that last comment. Right? We know they've appealed your gatekeeper order. We know that they've, you know, we're in the Fifth Circuit now on recusal. There's no indication whatsoever that this case is nearing a conclusion. We have no more contested matters before you, at least as of this moment, Your Honor. There's no more adversary proceedings that I know of at this moment. I'm going to cross my fingers and hope that the appellate court upholds the orders of this Court, the orders that have -- from the district court that affirmed your orders.

But, clearly, Mr. Dondero still has an appetite for litigation. He is still pursuing, you know, attacking the gatekeeper. He's still pursuing your recusal. So I think --

I think the --

THE COURT: You know, I don't keep --

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

THE COURT: -- as close tabs --

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

THE COURT: -- as lawyers might think I --

MR. MORRIS: Right.

THE COURT: -- do on appeals.

MR. MORRIS: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: But I do think I read where the recusal order was -- was --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: It --

THE COURT: It's a done deal. They --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: No, Your Honor.

MR. MORRIS: No. No, they brought in Jonathan Mitchell, the former Solicitor General of the State of Texas, and John Ashcroft, the former Attorney General of the United States.

THE COURT: He's still alive? I don't mean to be rude, but --

MR. MORRIS: I thought it was his son.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: No, Your Honor.

MR. MORRIS: It's a great question. With all due respect to Mr. Ashcroft, --

THE COURT: Yes?

MR. MORRIS: -- I mean no disrespect whatsoever, --

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: -- but when I heard that I thought it was his son, too. But yes, --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: No.

MR. MORRIS: -- they're on the brief, and they filed a motion for a petition for a rehearing en banc.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: And --

MR. MORRIS: And our answer is due on December 26th.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yeah. But --

MR. MORRIS: So we'll see where that goes. But the point being that it validates Mr. Seery and Highland's concerns that there be no ability to create another vehicle, to create more litigation, and it validates the very concern that Your Honor was addressing earlier on the same topic.

I think we're in agreement here, --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Right.

MR. MORRIS: -- but I want there to be context for why we're so insistent that there be no duty of any kind and no ability of HCLOM all of a sudden to start raising its hand and commencing litigation.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Okay. And I do want to thank Mr. Morris for bringing this up and making the recusal status -- correcting it.

And for all of the complaints and saying these appeals are not well-founded, it is not often that the Fifth Circuit actually asks a respondent to answer an en banc petition, much less require them to do it the day after Christmas, which I am sorry about. They're an equal opportunity lawyer inconveniencer.

So I would just ask that we -- that Highland tone down the attacks on the appeals, because there have been ones that have been upheld.

THE COURT: Okay. I, you know, --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: That's all.

THE COURT: -- I didn't think Highland's lawyer's tone was at all, you know, angry or elevated or whatever you're thinking.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I --

THE COURT: Okay? I have been approached by judge colleagues in the circuit who have told me there have been more appeals out of the Highland bankruptcy than any other bankruptcy in Fifth Circuit history. Okay? So to say there have been a whole lot of appeals is just factually correct. I don't know the number.

MR. MORRIS: It's 15, Your Honor. And there's more in the pipeline.

THE COURT: There -- what?

MR. MORRIS: There have been 15 so far. There's more in the pipeline.

THE COURT: Wait, wait. Okay. You're talking at the Fifth Circuit?

MR. MORRIS: Correct.

THE COURT: But --

MR. MORRIS: Oh, there has been dozens in the district.

THE COURT: I think at one point a year or two ago you told --

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

THE COURT: -- me 50-plus.

MR. MORRIS: Right, right. I am just -- I am just talking about the Fifth Circuit. I've never heard of a circuit court in the United States of America that's had 15 appeals from any case, let alone a bankruptcy case.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Hmm.

THE COURT: So, anyway, it is what it is. But part of the reason I'm engaging in this back and forth is, again, we all have our duties. You have duties to your clients. I have duties to the system, okay. And if I sign anything that all of a sudden is going to create standing where it might not have existed had I allowed this to be litigated today, then I think I've been derelict in my duties. So it's essential, as far as I'm concerned.

So do we need a five-minute break? I'm telling you, if we have to go forward today, which it's looking like we won't, but if we have to, it's going to be compressed, because we've got to finish --

MR. MORRIS: Right.

THE COURT: -- by 5:30.

MR. MORRIS: I think the only thing I would request is that Ms. Deitsch-Perez just confirm --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Ask about the sixth.

MR. MORRIS: -- that -- confirm that Number 6 is acceptable.

THE COURT: Okay. She suggested she might need to run it by --

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yeah.

THE COURT: -- the client.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Let's -- can we take five minutes?

THE COURT: Five minutes.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

THE CLERK: All rise.

(A recess ensued from 10:05 a.m. until 10:12 a.m.)

THE CLERK: All rise.

THE COURT: Okay. Please be seated.

All right. We're back on the record in Highland. Have we gotten to closure on all the issues or not?

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: We have, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: And so what we'd like to do is Highland is going to take the laboring oar of doing an initial draft of a stipulated order. We expect to get that to Stinson today. And we'd like to just put a loose deadline to report to the Court if we're unable to file this document, let's just say by the 24th, next -- I think it's Tuesday.

And if we're unable to do it by then, we'll ask for another date for coming back. But I do just want to keep a deadline there just so --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I think it's a week. Okay.

MR. MORRIS: A week is -- it's six days instead of five days because I didn't want to take Christmas. That's just me.

THE COURT: Okay. Sounds reasonable to me.

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

THE COURT: Sounds more than reasonable that you can work this out --

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

THE COURT: -- with language within six days.

MR. MORRIS: I do appreciate Ms. Deitsch-Perez's listening and getting to yes on this. It's a good result.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Anything you want to add, or you're in agreement with everything you just heard, Ms. Deitsch-Perez?

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Deborah?

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: What?

MR. MORRIS: I assume part of this is withdrawing the bad faith motion?

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Oh, yes.

MR. MORRIS: Yes. I can confirm that that's Element Number 7. The bad faith motion will be deemed withdrawn.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. Well, --

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Well, will be withdrawn.

MR. MORRIS: Yeah. Thank you.

THE COURT: All right. I would have been happy to spend a whole day with you all, but we can now go on and take care of other business, I guess.

So I thank you all for getting this resolved. And I'm not going to be a happy camper if I don't see an order. I mean, the battle of the forms, I really don't think we need to have that here. Okay?

MR. MORRIS: Yep.

THE COURT: So, --

MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Happy holidays to everyone.

MR. MORRIS: You, too.

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: You, too.

THE CLERK: All rise.

RECITALS

WHEREAS, on September 22, 2020, Highland Capital Management, L.P. filed a Notice of Filing of Debtor's Amended Schedules in its pending Chapter 11 Case No. 19-34054-sgj11 (the "Bankruptcy Case") in which it, among other things, scheduled a creditor's claim by HCLOM Ltd. (the "HCLOM Claim"); and

DALLAS, TEXAS - JUNE 8, 2021 - 9:30 A.M.

THE COURT: All right. We have settings in Highland this morning. We have three settings. We have the show cause hearing with regard to a lawsuit filed in the District Court. We have a couple of more, I would say, ministerial matters, although I think we do have objections. I know we have objections. We have a motion to extend the removal period in this case as well as a motion to modify the order authorizing Mr. Seery's retention.

So let's go ahead and start out by getting appearances from the lawyers who are participating today. I'll get those now.

MR. MORRIS: Good morning, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MR. MORRIS: John Morris from Pachulski, Stang, Ziehl & Jones for the Debtor. I'm joined with me this morning by my colleagues, Jeffrey Pomerantz, Greg Demo, and Zachery Annable.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: We do have a proposal on how to proceed today, a substantial portion of which is in agreement with the Respondents.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: So, at the appropriate time, I'd be happy to present that to the Court.

THE COURT: All right. Well, let's get all the appearances and then I'll hear from you on that.

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, my name is -- would you like me to approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes, please.

MR. SBAITI: It's my first time appearing in Bankruptcy Court, Your Honor. My name is Mazin Sbaiti. I'm here on behalf of the charitable DAF Fund, CLO Holdco, and the Respondents to the show cause hearing. We are also representing them as the Movants on the motion to modify the Court's order appointing Mr. Seery.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

MR. BRIDGES: Jonathan Bridges, Your Honor, with Mr. Sbaiti, also representing the Charitable DAF and CLO Holdco, as well as our firm that is named in the show cause order.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BRIDGES: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you.

MR. PHILLIPS: Good morning, Your Honor. Louis M. Phillips from Kelly Hart Hallman here on behalf of Mark Patrick in the show cause matter. I'm joined with my colleague Michael Anderson from the Kelly Hart firm here in Fort Worth. And that's the matter that we're involved in, the show cause auction.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Mr. Phillips.

MR. TAYLOR: Good morning, Your Honor. Clay Taylor of Bonds Ellis Eppich Schafer Jones here on behalf of Jim Dondero. I have Mr. Will Howell here with me from my firm.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

MR. CLEMENTE: Good morning, Your Honor. Matthew Clemente from Sidley Austin on behalf of the Committee. I'm here with my partner, Paige Montgomery.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

MR. CLEMENTE: Good morning.

THE COURT: All right. Just to remind people, we do have participants on the WebEx, but in setting the hearing I made clear that participants today needed to be here live in the courtroom. So the WebEx participants are going to be only observers.

We have a camera on the screen here that is poised to capture both the lawyer podium as well as the witness box, and then another camera on the bench.

So, please be mindful. We want the lawyers to speak from the podium so that they are captured and heard by the WebEx. And so hopefully we don't have any cords you will trip over. We've worked hard to make it easy to maneuver around the courtroom.

All right. So, Mr. Morris, you had a proposal on how we would approach this today?

MR. MORRIS: I do, Your Honor. And it's rather brief, but I think it makes a lot of sense.

There are three motions on the calendar for today, --

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: -- only one of which required the personal appearance of certain parties.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: And for that reason, and because, frankly, it was the first of the three motions filed, we believe that that ought to go first.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: And then it can be followed by the motion for reconsideration of the July order, assuming time permits, and then the motion to extend the removal deadline.

And with respect to the contempt motion, Your Honor, the parties have agreed that each side shall have a maximum of three hours to make opening statements, closing arguments, direct and cross-examination of witnesses.

You know, I did point out to them that from time to time Your Honor has used the Court's discretion to adjust the time --

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: -- if the Court is making inquiries, and I guess we'll deal with that matter as it comes. But as a general matter, that is what we've agreed to. And I would propose that, unless anybody has any objections, that we just proceed on that basis.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: And I could -- I could go right forward.

THE COURT: So, three hours in the aggregate?

MR. MORRIS: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: It doesn't matter how people spend it -- with argument, examination, cross -- three hours in the aggregate?

MR. MORRIS: Correct.

THE COURT: Okay. So, Nate, you'll be the timer on that.

MR. MORRIS: Yeah. We thought it was very important to get this done today, with people coming in from out of town.

THE COURT: Okay. Sounds fine.

MR. MORRIS: So does the Court want to inquire if anybody has any questions or comments?

THE COURT: I do. Well, I see Mr. Bridges getting up. You confirm that that's agreeable?

MR. BRIDGES: Thank you, Your Honor. Yes, that's agreeable. We have one slight difference in our proposal. We would suggest to Your Honor that the motion for modification, if Your Honor decides our way, would moot the entire motion for contempt. And we'd suggest, if that possibility is realistic, that we would go first with that motion, perhaps obviate having to have the evidence presented and the lengthy hearing.

The motion for modification, Your Honor, asks the Court to reconsider -- to modify that order because of jurisdictional and other shortcomings in it that make the order unenforceable. And because that's the order that is the subject of the contempt motion, we'd ask Your Honor to consider putting that motion first.

THE COURT: Okay. Or second? Ahead of the contempt matter?

MR. BRIDGES: Ahead of the contempt matter, --

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. BRIDGES: -- because it has a possibility --

THE COURT: We have the removal matter, which I think is the shortest. All right.

MR. BRIDGES: No objection to that, Your Honor. That's correct.

THE COURT: Okay. So, Mr. Morris, that's fine by you?

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, that doesn't make a lot of sense to us. We don't believe there's any basis for the Court to reconsider, modify, or amend in any way the July order. But even if we were wrong about that, that would not retroactively validate conduct which was otherwise wrongful at the time it was committed.

The contempt motion needs to go first. The other motion will have no impact on whether or not there is a finding of contempt of court.

THE COURT: All right. And update me on this. There was something filed yesterday, a notice of a proposed form of order that the Debtor had proposed, that I think was not agreed to, where there would be a change about any action that goes forward, the cause of action would be in the sole jurisdiction of the Court, and you all agreed to change that part of the order, correct?

MR. MORRIS: So, just as a division of labor for Your Honor, I'm doing the contempt motion.

THE COURT: Okay. That's Mr. Pomerantz's?

MR. MORRIS: Mr. Pomerantz is going to take care of that.

MR. POMERANTZ: Yes, Your Honor. Good morning. Good to see you again.

THE COURT: Good to see you.

MR. POMERANTZ: Yes, Your Honor, that's correct. If Your Honor recalls, there's really three aspects of the January 9th and the July 16th order. First, requiring people to come to Bankruptcy Court before commencing or pursuing an action. Second, for the Bankruptcy Court to have the sole and exclusive authority to determine whether the claim is a colorable claim of willful negligence or gross misconduct. And then third, if Your Honor passed the claim through the gate, whether you would have jurisdiction.

In Your Honor's January 9th and July 16th orders, you said you would have exclusive jurisdiction. In the motion for reconsideration, and particularly the reply, Movants said, if you just change that and say that if passes through the gate that you'd have jurisdiction only to the extent you would otherwise have it, that would resolve the motion, in the same way that the plan of reorganization was amended.

We proposed that. They rejected it. We put it before Your Honor. So we believe that it moots out a good portion -- actually, we think it should moot out the entire motion. They obviously disagree. But we definitely agree it moots out the most significant portion of their motion, which is that Your Honor would take jurisdiction to adjudicate a matter on an exclusive basis when you might not otherwise have jurisdiction on an exclusive basis.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, --

MR. BRIDGES: Your Honor, may I respond to that?

THE COURT: You may. And --

MR. BRIDGES: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: -- why -- could you clarify why you think it would moot out the entire show cause matter? I wouldn't be retroactively changing my order. Is that what you're proposing?

MR. BRIDGES: Your Honor, with all respect, we believe the order is defective and unenforceable and has to be modified in order to fix it. And because of the defects, we're -- we're actually arguing, Your Honor, that it is unenforceable in a contempt proceeding. That is exactly what our argument is.

THE COURT: Okay. I think I'm getting way farther down this road than maybe I want to right now. But I guess here's the elephant in the room, I feel like: Republic Supply versus Shoaf.

MR. BRIDGES: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: The U.S. Supreme Court Espinosa case, for that matter. If I accept your argument that maybe there was a flaw in those orders, that maybe they went too far, don't you have a problem with those two cases?

MR. BRIDGES: Your --

THE COURT: The orders weren't appealed.

MR. BRIDGES: I understand completely, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. BRIDGES: And I think the answer is no because of the Applewood case from the Fifth Circuit. The Applewood case cited in our reply brief explains that in order for an order, a final order of the Bankruptcy Court to have exculpatory effect, in order for it to release claims, for example, that the claims at issue must be enumerated in the order. It's not enough to have a blanket statement like the order, the July order has, like the January order has, saying that Mr. Seery's claims -- claims cannot be brought against him for ordinary negligence at all. The -- Your Honor, we're delving into my argument.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BRIDGES: And I was hoping to do this on a preliminary basis.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. BRIDGES: I don't mean to bog you down with that. But Your Honor, no, mandatory authority from the Fifth Circuit after Shoaf limits Shoaf's application and says that it does not extinguish the claims that are not specifically enumerated in the order. And the reason for that is because it doesn't give the kind of notice to the parties that they would need to make an appearance and object to those orders at the time. It actually helps to stem the amount of litigation at the time rather than to encourage it.

THE COURT: All right. Well, you'll get your opportunity to make your full argument on this. But I'm not convinced, preliminarily, at least, to affect my decision on the sequence, okay? So even if it potentially wastes time under your view of the law, I am going to do the removal matter first -- the extension of time request, I should say -- and then the show cause and then the motion to modify. And I realize, those last two matters, everything is kind of interrelated. All right?

MR. BRIDGES: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. So, with that decided, is there a desire on the part of the lawyers to make opening statements, or shall we just go to the motions? And, of course, people can use their three hours for oral argument, however much they want to use for oral argument.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, the -- to be clear, the six-hour time limit only applies to the contempt proceeding.

THE COURT: Oh, yes. Yes. Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: And I do want to make an opening statement.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: So, as the Movant, I'd like to go first.

THE COURT: You want to make opening statements?

MR. BRIDGES: Yes. Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Okay.

MR. BRIDGES: I believe we've got a PowerPoint prepared that I think can lay out our side of it.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BRIDGES: I don't think we're participating in the motion to extend the removal time.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BRIDGES: That's going first.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. BRIDGES: So we'll wait until that is --

THE COURT: Well, so we don't get confused on the timing, let's just do the motion to extend right now. And I think we only had one objection. As Mr. Sbaiti just pointed out, they're not objecting on that one. We have a Dondero objection. So let's, without starting the timer, hear that one. Okay?

MR. DEMO: Good morning, Your Honor. Greg Demo; Pachulski, Stang, Ziehl & Jones.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MR. DEMO: I'll be arguing the removal motion and then turn it over.

It's fairly basic and straightforward, Your Honor. We're asking for a further extension of the statutory deadline to remove cases until December 14th, 2021. The deadline is procedural only. As Your Honor is well aware, there's a lot of moving parts in this case. You know, we don't know to this date, really, the full universe of what could actually be out there. So we're just asking for a short extension of the removal period to cover through December.

I know that there was an objection from Mr. Dondero. I know that he argues that 9006 does not allow us to extend that deadline past the effective date of the plan, and he cites one case for that purpose, which is Health Support. I think it's out of Florida. That case dealt with the extension of the two-year extension of the statute of limitations and was very clear that you can't use 9 --

THE COURT: You mean the 546 deadline?

MR. BRIDGES: Yes. Yes.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BRIDGES: That you can't use 9006 to extend non-bankruptcy deadlines. That's not what we're doing here, Your Honor. We're using 9006 to extend the bankruptcy deadline to remove the cases.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. DEMO: And we'd just ask Your Honor for the extension through December.

THE COURT: Okay. I'll hear Mr. Dondero's counsel.

MR. HOWELL: Good morning, Judge. Will Howell for Mr. Dondero.

So, the argument here is not that the Court can't do this. I was just pointing that there is an outside limit to what we're doing. And so if you look at the cases that the Debtor cites in support of this motion, the one that is most apt was when Judge Nelms did a fourth extension of time. But those were all 90-day extensions. Here, we're in a situation where the Debtor is asking for a fourth 180-day extension of time, and this is really where the, you know, objection came -- or, the response in opposition came from. They specifically asked that it be without prejudice to further extensions.

And so, at some point, you know, does 9006 have an outside limit? You know, do we need to see some sort of a light at the end of the tunnel here?

So we would ask that the motion, at a minimum, be denied in part with respect to this open-ended request for extension beyond two years for a 90-day period. The other cases that they cite, they have one extension here, one extension there, 120 days here, but not 180 days after 180 days after 180 days, and then asking specifically for without prejudice to further extensions beyond two years. So that's -- that's where this comes from.

THE COURT: All right. Do you think it matters that this is a very complex case?

MR. BRIDGES: I --

THE COURT: There's litigation here, there, and everywhere.

MR. HOWELL: I also think, you know, Mirant was complex. I think Pilgrim's Pride was complex. I think, you know, it is not out of bounds for the Court to grant a fourth extension.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. BRIDGES: But to -- you know, at some point -- you know, maybe the Court could grant a 90-day extension and make them come back a little more frequently to kind of corral this thing, rather than just saying "This grant of 180 days, the fourth time, is going to be without prejudice to further extensions." It just gets kind of large.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Demo, your motion. You get the last word.

MR. DEMO: Your Honor, I mean, it is without prejudice for further extensions, but that doesn't mean that Your Honor is granting the further extensions now. It means we'll have to come back. We'll have to make our case for why an extension is necessary. And, you know, if Your Honor doesn't want to give us another extension past December 2021, Your Honor doesn't have to. This is not an order saying that it's a limitless grant.

You know, I'd also ask, you know, quite honestly, why Mr. Dondero has such an issue with this. He hasn't said that any of these cases involve him. He hasn't given any reasons why this affects him. He hasn't given any reason why this damages him at all. So I do, I guess, wonder as an initial matter kind of why we're here, you know, why we're responding to Mr. Dondero's request, when that request really has no impact on him.

And then, Your Honor, to the extent that you are inclined to limit this, I would say, you know, we would ask for a reasonable extension of time. We do think an extension of time, because of the complexity of this case, through December is warranted. But if Your Honor for some reason does agree that a shorter extension is necessary under 9006 -- I don't think it is -- we'd just ask that Your Honor grant us leave to come back for further extensions of time.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. I will -- I'll grant a 90-day extension, without prejudice for further extensions.

MR. DEMO: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Maybe in 90 days we'll be farther down the road and we won't need any more extensions, but you'll have the ability to argue for more if you think it's really necessary. All right. So that will bring us to around September 14th, I guess.

All right. Well, let's go ahead and hear opening statements with regard to the show cause matter. And again, if you want to roll in arguments about the -- well, no, you said the six hours only applies to show cause, so we'll not hear opening statements with regard to the Seery retention modification, just show cause.

MR. MORRIS: All right. Before I begin, Your Honor, I have a small deck to guide --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: -- to guide my opening statement.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. MORRIS: Can I approach the bench?

THE COURT: You may. And is your legal assistant going to share her content --

MR. MORRIS: Yes.

THE COURT: -- so people on the WebEx will see? Okay.

MR. MORRIS: That's the intention, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: All right. Are you ready for me to proceed?

THE COURT: I am. And obviously, everyone has a copy?

MR. MORRIS: Yes.

THE COURT: Your opponents have a copy of this?

MR. MORRIS: Yep.

THE COURT: Okay. Although we hope to see it on the screen.

OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTOR

MR. MORRIS: Good morning, Your Honor. John Morris; Pachulski, Stang, Ziehl & Jones; for the Debtor.

We're here today on the Debtor's motion to hold certain entities and individuals in contempt of court for violating a very clear and specific court order. I hope to be relatively brief in my opening here, Your Honor, and I'd like to begin where I think we must, and that is, how do we -- how do we prove this and what do we have to prove?

The elements of a claim for contempt of court are really rather straightforward. The Movant must establish by clear and convincing evidence three things.

THE COURT: Let me stop you and stop the clock. We're not seeing the shared content.

MR. MORRIS: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: Did you want her to go ahead and share her content?

MR. MORRIS: I did.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I was hoping that she'd do that.

THE COURT: All right. It says it's receiving content.

MR. MORRIS: There we go. It's on my screen, anyway.

THE COURT: Oh, here it is. I don't know why it's not on my Polycom. Can you all see it out there?

(Chorus of affirmative replies.)

THE COURT: Okay. Very good.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: You may proceed.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

So, there's three elements to the cause of action for contempt, for civil contempt. We have to prove by clear and convincing evidence that a court order was in effect; that the order required certain conduct by the Respondents; and that the Respondent failed to comply with the Court's order.

We've cited in the footnote the applicable case law from the Fifth Circuit, and I don't believe that there's any dispute that is indeed the legal standard.

The intent of the Respondents as to liability is completely irrelevant. It doesn't matter if they thought they were doing the right thing. It doesn't matter if they believed in their heart of hearts that the court order was invalid. These are the three elements, and we will be able to establish these elements not by clear and convincing evidence, but if we ever had to, beyond reasonable doubt.

If we can go to the next slide, please.

We begin with the Court's order, the Court's July 9 order. And that order states very clearly what conduct was required. And the conduct that was required was that no entity could commence or pursue -- those are really the magic words -- commence or pursue a claim against Mr. Seery without the Bankruptcy Court doing certain things. And we've referred to this as the gatekeeper. And the only question I believe the Court has to ask today is whether the Respondents commenced or pursued a claim against Mr. Seery without seeking Bankruptcy Court approval, as set forth in this order.

I'll dispute that there's anything ambiguous about this. I'll dispute that it could not be clearer what conduct was prohibited. It could not be clearer. The only question is whether the conduct constitutes the pursuit of a claim.

Let's see what they did. If we could go to the next slide. There will be no dispute about what they did. And what they did is, a week after filing a lawsuit against the Debtor and two others arising out of the HarbourVest settlement, a settlement that this Court approved, after notice and a hearing and participation by the Respondents, after they had the opportunity to take discovery, after they had the opportunity to examine Mr. Seery about the value of HarbourVest's interest in HCLOF, after all of that, they brought a lawsuit after Mr. Patrick took control of the DAF and CLO Holdco. And that lawsuit related to nothing but the HarbourVest suit, and it named in Paragraph 2, right up above, Mr. Seery as a potential party. And a week later, Your Honor, they filed what we call the Seery Motion, and it was a motion for leave to amend their complaint to add Mr. Seery as a defendant.

We believe that that clearly violates the Court's July 7 order. And indeed, again, these are facts. They're not -- they're not in dispute. Just look at the first sentence of their motion. The purpose of the motion was to name James Seery as a defendant. That was the purpose of the motion. And the way that they made the motion, Your Honor -- and these are undisputed facts -- the way they made the motion, Your Honor, shows contemptuous intent. We don't have to prove intent, but I think it might be relevant when you get to remedies. Okay?

And so how do I -- why do I say that? Because they made this motion, Your Honor, and they didn't have to. Everybody knows that under Rule 15 they could have amended the complaint if they wanted to. If they wanted to, they didn't need the Court's permission. What they wanted to do was try to get the District Court to do what they knew they couldn't. And that's contemptuous.

And they did it, Your Honor, without notice to the Debtor. Even after the Debtor had accepted service of the complaint, even after we told them, if you go down this path, we're going to file a motion for contempt, they did it anyway. They didn't serve the Debtor. They didn't give the Debtor a courtesy copy. They didn't notify the Debtor. The only thing that happened was the next day, when the District Court dismissed it without prejudice, they sent us a copy of that notice. And within three days, we were here.

A court order was in effect. Mr. Patrick is going to admit to that. There's not going to be any dispute about that. The order required that the Respondents come to this Court before they pursue a claim against Mr. Seery, and they failed to comply with that order. The facts, again -- if we can go to the next slide. We can look at some of the detail, because the timeline is mindboggling.

Mr. Patrick became the Plaintiffs' authorized representative on March 24th. And folks, when I took their depositions, weren't specific about dates, and that's why some of the entries here refer to sometime after, but there's no question that the order of events is as presented here and as the evidence will show today.

The evidence will show that sometime after Patrick became the Plaintiffs' authorized representative, Mr. Dondero informed Mr. Patrick that Highland had usurped an investment opportunity from the Plaintiffs. Mr. Patrick is going to testify to that. Mr. Patrick is also going to testify that, without prompting, without making a request, D.C. Sauter, the general counsel of NexPoint Advisors, recommended the Sbaiti firm to Mr. Patrick. Mr. Patrick considered nobody else.

Mr. Patrick retained the Sbaiti firm in April. In other words, within 12 days of the filing of the complaint. They're retained and they conduct an investigation. You're going to hear the assertion of the attorney-client and the common interest privilege every time I ask Mr. Dondero what he and Mr. Sbaiti talked about and whether they talked about naming Jim Seery as a defendant. But with Patrick's authorization, the Sbaiti firm filed the complaint on April 12th, just days after they were retained.

It's like a -- it's an enormous complaint. I don't know how they did that so quickly. But in any event, the important point is that they all worked together. None of this happened until Mr. Patrick became the authorized representative.

Mr. Patrick is going to tell you, Your Honor, he's going to tell you that he had no knowledge of any wrongdoing by Mr. Seery prior to the time he assumed the rein of the DAF and the CLO Holdco. He had no knowledge, Your Honor, of any claims that the DAF and CLO Holdco had against the Debtor until he became the Plaintiffs' authorized representative and Mr. Dondero spoke to him.

If we can flip to the next page. Mr. Dondero has effective control of the DAF. He has effective control of CLO Holdco. You're going to be bombarded with corporate documents today, because they're going to show you -- and they want you to respect the corporate form, they really want you to follow the rules and respect the corporate form, because only Mr. Scott was responsible for the DAF and CLO Holdco until he handed the reins on March 24th to Mr. Patrick. Mr. Dondero has nothing to do with this. He's going to tell you. He's going to tell you he had nothing to do with the selection of Mr. Patrick as Mr. Scott's replacement.

The facts are going to show otherwise, Your Honor. The DAF is a $200 million charitable organization that is funded almost exclusively with assets derived from Highland or Mr. Dondero or the Get Good Trust or the Dugaboy Trust. The evidence is going to show that at all times these entities had shared services agreements and investment advisory agreements with HCMLP. The evidence will show that HCMLP at all times was controlled by Mr. Dondero.

And it made sense. The guy put in an awful lot of money for charitable usage. Is he really just going to say, I don't really care who runs it? The evidence is going to show that between October 2020 and January 2021, Grant Scott actually exercised independence. Grant Scott was Mr. Dondero's childhood friend. They went to UVA together. They were roommates. Mr. Scott was the best man at Mr. Dondero's wedding. But we were now in bankruptcy court. We're now in the fishbowl. And I will -- this may be a little argument, but there's no disputing the facts that Mr. Scott acted independently, and he paid the price for it. Mr. Scott did it three times.

He did it when he amended CLO Holdco's proof of claim to take it down to zero. He did it again after he withdrew the objection to the HarbourVest settlement motion. And he did it again when he settled the lawsuit that the Debtors had brought against CLO Holdco. And that -- and on each of those three occasions, the evidence will show that Mr. Scott did not communicate with Mr. Dondero in advance, that Mr. Dondero found out about these acts of independence after the fact, and that each time he found out about it he had a little conversation with Mr. Scott.

Mr. Dondero is going to tell you about it, and he's going to tell you that he told Mr. Scott each act was inappropriate.

You may have heard that word before. Each act was not in the best interests of the DAF.

The last of those conversations happened either on or just after January 26th. And by January 31st, Mr. Scott gave notice of his resignation. And you're going to see that notice of resignation. And he asks for releases.

Mr. Patrick becomes, almost two months later, the successor to Mr. Scott. Mr. Dondero is going to say he has no idea how that happened. He was just told after the fact that Mr. Patrick and Mr. Scott had an agreement. He's going to tell you they had an agreement and he just heard about it afterwards. He didn't really -- for two months, I guess, he sat there after Mr. Scott told him that he wanted out and did nothing to try to find out who's going to take control of my charitable foundation with $200 million. He wasn't interested.

But here's the thing, Your Honor. If we go to the next slide. Let's see what Mr. Scott said at his deposition last week. Question, "Do you know who selected Mark?" Answer, "I do not." Question, "Do you know how Mark was selected?" Mark is a reference to Mark Patrick. "I do not." "Did you ever ask Mark how he was selected?" "I did not." "Did you ever ask Mark who selected him?" "I did not." "Did you ever ask anybody at any time how Mr. Patrick was selected to succeed you?" "No, I did not." "Did you ever ask anybody at any time as to who made the decision to select Mr. Patrick to succeed you?" "No, I did not."

So I don't know what happened between Mr. Patrick and Mr. Dondero when Mr. Patrick supposedly told Mr. Dondero that there was an agreement with Mr. Scott, but that is news to Mr. Scott. He had no idea.

Your Honor, we are going to prove by clear and convincing evidence that each of the Respondents violated a very clear and specific court order. And unless the Court has any other questions, I'll stop for now.

THE COURT: No questions.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Who is making the argument for the Respondents?

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, I am. I'm just trying to put the PowerPoint up on the WebEx.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. SBAITI: Sorry about that.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I'll try not to make this a practice, but can I inquire as to how much time I used?

THE COURT: Oh. Nate?

THE CLERK: About thirteen minutes.

THE COURT: Thirteen minutes?

MR. MORRIS: Thank you very much.

THE COURT: Okay. All right.

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, our PowerPoint is a little bit longer than that one. May I approach with a copy?

THE COURT: You may. Uh-huh.

(Pause.)

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, it does feel good to be back in the courtroom.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. SBAITI: It's been a long time.

THE COURT: Yes. For us, too.

MR. SBAITI: Jut wish it wasn't under a circumstance where someone is trying to sanction me.

But we're going to be dividing up this oral argument a little bit. Also, to just kind of break up a little bit of the monotony, because I think we have a lot to cover at the opening stage of this. And I'll try to be as expeditious as I can be.

OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE SHOW CAUSE RESPONDENTS

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, the thing we -- the thing we open with is the due process issue that we raised in our brief. And where this really arises from is the Court's show cause order calls us violators before we've had a chance to respond to the allegations and before we've obviously been able to approach this hearing. And the word violators means something to us, Your Honor, because I've been a lawyer for a long time, my partner has been a lawyer for a long time, our clients have never been sanctioned, we've never been sanctioned, and for us to be labeled violators first by counsel and then in a court order makes us wonder whether or not this process is already prejudged or predetermined.

THE COURT: I actually want to address that. Turn off the clock.

Just so you know, I looked this up a while back, because we gave a bankruptcy judges panel at some CLE. The average bankruptcy judge in our district, back when I looked, signs over 200 orders a week.

MR. SBAITI: Sure.

THE COURT: Many of those -- in fact, most of them -- are submitted by lawyers. So, you know, a big chunk of my week is signing orders. And I obviously give more scrutiny to those that are substantive in nature. Okay? If someone submits to me a 50-page debtor-in-possession financing order, I will look at that much more carefully than what I consider a mere procedural order setting a hearing.

So I regret that that word was used, but I can assure you I fairly quickly set that -- signed that, I should say -- regarding it as a merely procedural order setting a hearing. Okay? So it's as simple as that. There was no hmm, I like that word, violator. I had a stack, if you will, an electronic stack of probably 200 orders in front of me the day I signed that. Okay?

So, if that makes anyone feel any better, I don't know, but that's the reality.

Okay. You can start the clock again.

MR. SBAITI: And I appreciate Your Honor saying that. It does make us feel better, both about where the -- the genesis of the order and the impact and its reflection on what Your Honor thinks in terms of going into this.

The other thing that obviously raised concerns, and I assume this comes from the same place, was four days ahead of that order counsel told us the Court was going to order everyone to be in person, and they had advance notice of that, and we weren't sure how they had advance notice of that. I guess they assumed --

THE COURT: I can assure you right here on the record I never had ex parte communications with any lawyer in this case, on this matter or any other matter. Okay? Again, those are pretty strong words to venture out there with, which your pleading did venture out there with those words.

My courtroom deputy, Traci, I think answers her phone 24 hours a day. So I'm quite sure she had communications with the lawyers about this, just like she probably had communications with you and your firm and every other firm in this case. Okay?

MR. SBAITI: Like I said, Your Honor, we appreciated what Your Honor -- appreciate what Your Honor said, but that issue obviously stuck out -- stuck out to us, in combination. So I'll move on from that issue.

This has to do with the lawsuit that was filed, and the lawsuit, the genesis of the lawsuit, I think it's important to say, because the argument has been raised in the briefing and we wanted to address it upfront, why the lawsuit comes about. And it comes about because of the Advisers Act and the responsibilities that the Debtor has to the assets of the funds that it manages. And the Advisers Act imposes a duty not only on Highland but obviously on its control people and its supervised people. And the lawsuit has to do with HCLOF, which is what HarbourVest owned a piece of. And Highland, as the advisor to HCLOF and the advisor to the DAF, owed fiduciary duties to CLO Holdco, which is the DAF's holding entity of its assets in HCLOF, but Highland Capital was also an advisor, a registered investment advisor to the DAF directly at the time. And so those federally-imposed fiduciary duties lie at the crux of that lawsuit.

Moving on, Mr. Seery testified at the hearing that was in this Court to be -- to get him appointed, and this was Exhibit 2 that was presented by the Debtor, and on Page 16 at the bottom he says -- of the transcript, he says, I think, from a high level, the best way to think about the Debtor is that it's a registered investment advisor. As a registered investment advisor, which is really any advisor of third-party money over $25 million, it has to register with the SEC, and it manages funds in many different ways.

In the middle of the next page he says, In addition, the Debtor manages about $2 billion, $2 billion in total managed assets, around $2 billion in CLO assets, and then other securities, which are hedge funds -- other entities, rather, which are hedge funds or PE style. Private equity style.

On Page 23 towards the bottom he says, As I said, the Investment Advisers Act puts a fiduciary duty on Highland Capital to discharge its duty to the investors. So while we have duties to the estate, we also have duties, as I mentioned in my last testimony, to each of the investors in the funds. CLO Holdco would be an investor in one of those funds, HCLOF.

He goes on to say, Some of them are related parties, and those are a little bit easier. Some of them are owned by Highland. HCLOF was not owned by Highland. But there are third-party investors in these funds who have no relation whatsoever to Highland, and we owe them a fiduciary duty both to manage their assets prudently but also to seek to maximize value.

Now, the lawsuit alleges that Seery testified that the HarbourVest portion of Highland CLO Funding was worth $22-1/2 million. Now, Mr. Morris wants the Court to hinge on the fact that, well, no one asked him whether he was lying. But that's not really the standard, and it certainly isn't the standard when someone's an investment advisor and owes fiduciary duties, which include fiduciary duties to be transparent with your investors.

It also includes fiduciary duties not to self-deal.

The lawsuit also alleges that, in reality, those assets were worth double that -- double that amount at the time. We found out just, you know, in late March/early April that a third -- from a third party who had access to the underlying valuations at the time that those values were actually double and that there was a misrepresentation, giving rise to the lawsuit. That change in circumstance is the key issue behind the lawsuit.

We allege that Mr. Seery and the Debtor, as RIAs, had a duty to not self-deal and be fully transparent with that information, and we think both of those things were violated under the Advisers Act.

We don't allege that the HarbourVest settlement should be undone or unwound. We can't unscramble that egg. We do seek damages, as I believe is our right, arising out of the wrongdoing and the process of pushing forth the settlement.

I think one of the allegations in the actual motion for the show cause order was that this was going to undo all of the hard work that Court had done and basically unwind and try to re-piece Humpty Dumpty back together again. But that's simply not the case. Nowhere in our allegations or in the relief that we request are we trying to undo the HarbourVest settlement as such.

Now, whether the lawsuit should be dismissed under the affirmative defenses that they bring up -- res judicata, waiver, release -- all of those are questionable under the Advisers Act, given the change of circumstance, and therefore are also questions on the merits. They don't go to the colorability of the underlying claims in and of themselves, which I think is important.

So we asked for leave to amend from the Court. And what they want us to do, Your Honor, is they want to sanction us for asking. They're saying asking for leave to amend is the same thing as pursuing a claim. And I'll get to the specifics on that in a little bit. But that's the frame. Can we be sanctioned for asking a court, any court, even if it's the wrong court, for permission to bring the lawsuit? They don't cite a single case that says that that, in and of itself, is sanctionable conduct, us asking.

So I'd like to introduce some of the Respondents.

Your Honor, may I have one of these waters?

THE COURT: Certainly.

MR. SBAITI: Thank you.

THE COURT: That's why they're there, by the way.

MR. SBAITI: I didn't know if they belonged to somebody else.

THE COURT: We've scattered water bottles around for people.

MR. SBAITI: I appreciate it. Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: So if you see these little ones, that's for anyone.

MR. SBAITI: So, this is an org chart, and you'll see it as -- the exhibits that the Debtor's going to bring up. And when we talk about the DAF, Your Honor -- I don't know if that's visible to you. We're on Slide 19, if you're looking at it on paper. There's a little number at the lower right-hand corner. The charitable DAF GP, LLP and then the Charitable DAF Holdco, Ltd. together are the principles of the Charitable DAF Fund, LP. And so when we refer to the DAF or the Charitable DAF, that's really the entity structure that we're referring to. And then the GP and Holdco Ltd. have a managing member. It used to be Grant Scott at the time this was done. Today, it's Mr. Mark Patrick, who's in the room, sitting next to Mr. Bridges.

The DAF is a charitable fund. It's funded over $32 million, as the evidence will show, including Dallas-Fort Worth organizations, The Family Place, Dallas Children's Advocacy, Center for Brain Health, the Crystal Ray Initiative, Friends of the Dallas Police, Snowball Express, various community and education initiatives, Dallas Arts, museums, the Perot Museum, Dallas Zoo. That evidence is undisputed, Your Honor. The DAF is a real fund. It is a real charitable fund. It does real good in the community.

Now, Respondents -- Holdco, which you will see at the bottom of that chart, is essentially the investment arm. There are assets that the DAF owns in various pots, and Holdco is the actual business engine that generates the money from those assets that then -- that then gets passed up to the charitable -- the four charitable foundations at the top.

I'll go back to Slide 21. And if you look at the top, Your Honor, the Dallas Foundation, Greater Kansas City Community, Santa Barbara Foundation, The Community Foundation of North Texas: Those are the charities that then themselves bestow the funds onto the actual recipients. So the money flows up as dividends or distributions, and then gets contributed.

CLO Holdco invests those assets, and it's an important part of the business model, so that you're not sending out principal. It's the money that CLO makes, the profits, if you will, that it is able to generate that gets donated and makes its way into the community.

So there's an important feature to the structure in that it has to be able to generate money. It's not just money that sits there and waits to be distributed. There's active investing going on.

Mr. Mark Patrick owns the control shares of the entities comprising the DAF and CLO Holdco, as I showed you, and the beneficiary charitable foundations hold what we call beneficial interests, where they just get money. They don't have a vote.

Mr. Patrick cares about the public service the DAF engages in. He's been an advisor to the DAF, CLO Holdco, and its predecessor, Mr. Scott, since its inception. He receives no compensation for the job he's doing today. And you'll hear how he became -- how he inured to the control position of the DAF and CLO Holdco from him, but it doesn't involve Mr. Dondero, and the absence of someone saying that it did, I think, is going to be striking by the end of the presentation of evidence.

Their only argument against you, Your Honor, is going to be you just can't believe them. But not believing witnesses is not a substitute for the lack of affirmative evidence.

Mr. Patrick has said all along he authorized the filing of the motion for leave to add Mr. Seery to the lawsuit in District Court. He doesn't believe the motion to amend violated this Court's orders, for the reasons stated in our responsive filings to the motions for contempt and show cause order. That's why he authorized it.

My firm, Sbaiti & Company, we're a small Dallas litigation boutique retained by the DAF and CLO Holdco to file the lawsuit. We did an investigation. I'm tickled to death that

Mr. Morris loved our complaint so much and gave us the compliment that we got it done in a short amount of time, but we did get it done in a short amount of time, because, in the end, it's a rather simple issue, as I was able to lay it out in about three or four bullet points in a previous slide.

The written aspect of that doesn't take that long, as Your Honor knows, but the idea that there's a suspicion that we didn't write it or someone else wrote it and ghost-wrote it and gave it to us, which I think is the insinuation he was making, is completely unfounded. There's no evidence of that.

We carefully read Your Honor's orders. We developed a good-faith basis, as required by Rule 11, that the lawsuit and the motion to add Mr. Seery were not filed in bad faith or for an improper purpose. We don't think they're frivolous. We don't think they're in violation of Your Honor's orders, given the current state of the law.

Mr. Dondero is one of the settlors of the CRT, of the Charitable Remainder Trust that ultimately provided assets to CLO Holdco and the DAF. He does care about the DAF's mission. I think Mr. Morris hit the nail on the head. Of course Mr. Dondero cares about what happens to it. He's one of the settlors, and it was his funds that initially were put into it, so he's allowed to care. And I don't think him caring is insidious, and him caring doesn't mean he has control and doesn't mean he's the driving force behind some insidious conspiracy that they're trying to insinuate exists.

He is an advisor to the DAF and CLO Holdco. It is a lot of money and it needs advice, and he's an advisor to Mr. Patrick. We don't run away from any of those facts, Your Honor.

We also don't run away from the fact that he was the source of some of the information that came in to that complaint and that he relayed some of that information. The content, we do claim work product privilege and attorney-client privilege, because he's an agent of our client, and as lawyers doing an investigation, the content of our communications is protected under the attorney-client and work product privileges, as well as the joint interest privilege. But the fact that we admit that those communications happened, we're not running away from that fact.

So, what does he have to do with this? It's interesting that that opening argument you just heard spent about three minutes on contempt and the other fourteen or fifteen minutes or so on Mr. Dondero. And only on Mr. Dondero. There's a negative halo effect, I believe, that they're trying to get this Court to abide by. They want to inflame Your Honor and hopefully capture -- cultivate and then capitalize on whatever antipathy you might have for Mr. Dondero, and then sweep us all in under that umbrella and sanction everybody just because he had some involvement.

But whatever involvement he has, which we admit he had some involvement in helping us marshal the facts, that's not a basis for us to be sanctioned if there isn't an actual sanctionable conduct that -- as we say there isn't.

We think there's an ulterior motive. That's why Mr. Morris just announced to Your Honor, Mr. Dondero controls it all. The ulterior motive, I believe, is, down the line, when they want to argue some kind of alter ego theory, they want to lay that foundation here. I don't think this is the appropriate time for that foundation, and I don't think any of the information and the evidence they're trying to marshal in front of you is really going to be relevant to the very specific question that's before Your Honor: Does our motion asking the District Court to add Mr. Seery violate your order, or violate it in a way that can be -- that we can be sanctioned for? We don't believe it violates it.

So, the three core standards that have to be met. First of all, civil contempt requires a valid, enforceable order. It's not debatable and it's not -- I don't think that's a shocking statement. Then they have to have clear and convincing evidence of a violation of a specific unambiguous term therein. Mr. Morris wants his version of the word pursue to be unambiguous, and I think the word pursue is unambiguous. But the way he wants you to construe it makes it completely ambiguous, and we'll -- I'll get to that in a moment.

Now, for sanctioning counsel, the Fifth Circuit has held you have to find bad faith. We're adjudged under a slightly separate standard under the Fifth Circuit law. So the contempt motion, though, to the extent it seeks to impose double and treble attorney's fees, those are in punitive fines. They are not compensatory. So criminal contempt standards are raised, and so they have to show a violation in bad faith. In other words, our arguments that we're making have to be bad faith, not simply that we're wrong, and they have to show beyond a reasonable doubt, usually in front of a jury. The U.S. Supreme Court explained the difference and the different procedural protections that have to be involved if they're really going to seek double and treble compensatory damages.

Now, he's right. Saying we intended -- saying that we didn't mean to violate it isn't necessarily a defense. But what you're actually going to hear from him is the opposite argument, that even though we didn't violate it, we wanted to. That's what he says. That's why he quoted you the opening section of our motion asking for permission to sue Mr. Seery, because that's a statement of purpose. And he says you should sanction them right there. That's literally what he said. It's right there, their purpose. If intent is irrelevant to them, it's irrelevant as to us. The fact that we wanted to sue Seery is fully admitted. We don't deny the fact that we believe Mr. Seery should be a defendant in this lawsuit. But the fact that we didn't sue him is why we didn't violate the order. And they can't say that the fact that we eventually wanted to sue him means we did violate the order. That door swings both ways, Your Honor.

We don't think any element is met. The order, while writ large, prohibits suing Mr. Seery without permission, and we did not sue James Seery, pure and simple. The July 12 -- 14th, 2020 order purports to reserve exclusively to this Court that which, according to the statutes and the case law, we believe the Court can't exclusively reserve to itself. And Your Honor, the order prohibits commencing and pursuing a claim against Jim Seery without coming here first to decide the colorability of such a claim.

They, I believe, admit that we didn't commence a claim against Jim Seery. I think they've admitted that now. So now we're talking about what does pursue mean? We didn't pursue a claim against Jim Seery. Is asking for leave to bring suit the same thing as pursuing a claim? That's the question that's really before Your Honor. Lawyers never talk of pursuing a claim that hasn't been filed. We don't say, I'm pursuing a claim and I'm going to file it next week or next year. Usually, that type of language is in an order, because when the order happens, there may already be claims against Mr. Seery. And so the pursuit of claim is supposed to attack those cases, to come here and show colorability, presumably, before they continue on with those lawsuits. It doesn't mean asking for permission.

If it did mean asking for permission, then complying with Your Honor's order would be a violation. If the motion for leave is a violation because it is pursuing a claim, if I had filed that motion in this Court, it would still be pursuing a claim without Your Honor's permission. I'd have to get permission just to ask for permission. It puts us in this endless loop of, well, if asking for permission is pursuing a claim, and pursuing a claim is without permission violates the Court's order, we'd always be in violation of the Court's order just for asking, just for following Your Honor's edict.

THE COURT: I'm just, I'm going to interject. You were supposed to, under the order, file a motion in this Court.

MR. SBAITI: I understand that, Your Honor, and I think that we can get to the specifics on why we disagree with how the motion went, Your Honor. We hadn't sued Mr. Seery. So as long as we dealt with the order, which is what our position is, then we don't believe we violated the order.

THE COURT: You think the order was ambiguous, requiring a motion to be filed in the Bankruptcy Court?

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, what we believe is that the order was ambiguous in terms of whether us asking for permission in the District Court was in and of itself a violation of the order. We don't think it was. Actually, we don't think the order's ambiguous to that extent. The second we file a suit against Mr. Seery and we don't have some resolution of the issue, then I think the question of sanctionability comes in. But we never filed suit, Your Honor.

The Court doesn't say I can't seek permission in the District Court or that we can't go to the District Court with -- which has general jurisdiction over this case, and has jurisdiction, we believe, over the actual case and controversy that's being raised. But the idea of pursuit being a violation of the order, of the letter of that order, is nonsensical under that, it leads to an absurd result, and it's plainly vague and ambiguous, Your Honor.

Asking Judge Boyle or asking a District Court for permission is not a violation of this Court's order, not the way it was written and not -- and I don't even believe it was a violation necessarily of the Court's -- of the language that the Court has. We -- it doesn't unambiguously prevent us from asking the District Court for leave.

The Court's order yesterday, Your Honor, applied this very rule. The TRO -- you said the TRO did not specifically state, Turn your cell phone over. And you denied motion for sanctions on that. That's basically the argument we're making here, Your Honor. We think that was the correct ruling, and we think the same type of ruling applies here.

Your order yesterday also determined that the Court ultimately believes that hiring lawyers to file motions should not be viewed as having crossed the line into contemptuous behavior. That's essentially the argument they want you to buy, that there's somehow a vindictiveness behind this and an insidious plan to violate court orders, Your Honor. We don't have any evidence of that.

THE COURT: Okay. Take the words vindictiveness and insidious out of the equation. That's making things personal, and I don't like that. The key is the literal wording of the order, is it not?

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, the key, I believe, is the --

THE COURT: No entity may commence or pursue a cause of action of any kind against Mr. Seery relating in any way to his role as the chief executive officer and chief restructuring officer of the Debtor without the Bankruptcy Court first determining, after notice, that such claim or cause of action represents a colorable claim of willful misconduct or gross negligence against Mr. Seery and specifically authorizing such entity to bring such a claim. So I'm trying to understand why you argue that filing a motion asking the District Court for permission is not inconsistent with this order.

MR. SBAITI: Because it's not commencing a claim, Your Honor. It's not commencing a claim against him.

THE COURT: Okay. So is your argument that if Judge Boyle authorizes amendment of the pleading to add Mr. Seery and then you do it, at that point they may have grounds for a motion for contempt, but not yet, because she has not actually granted your motion?

MR. SBAITI: Correct, Your Honor. I mean, in a nutshell. In fact, that's one of -- I think that's probably our next argument. We think, in a sense, this argument is incredibly premature. There is three ways that this -- well, I'd like to address this, so I've got -- I've got a diagram that I think will actually help elucidate what our thought process was.

There's three things she could have done. She could have referred -- referred it to Your Honor, which is what we expected was likely to happen.

THE COURT: But you didn't file a motion for referral of the motion before her.

MR. SBAITI: Well, no, I don't mean in respect of enforcing the reference. The referral we thought was most likely going to happen because it's an associated case, and we actually put those orders in front of her, so we expected that those orders would end up -- that the question would ultimately end up in front of Your Honor on that basis.

She could have denied our motion outright, in which case we haven't filed a claim, we haven't violated it, or she could have granted our motion and done one of two things. She could have granted it to the extent that she thought leave would be proper but then referred it down, or she could have decided -- taken the decision as the court with general jurisdiction and simply decided it all on her own. She had all of those options, Your Honor, and none of them results in a claim being commenced or pursued without the leave of this Court, if leave is absolutely necessary, Your Honor. And that's the point that we were trying to make.

Your Honor, the -- there's -- you know, there's no evidence that, absent an order from a court with jurisdiction, that we were going to file a claim against Mr. Seery, that we were going to commence or pursue a claim against Mr. Seery. We were cognizant of Your Honor's order. We considered that. And the reason we filed them the way we did is because, according to the statutes and the case law, this is the type of case that would be subject to a mandatory withdrawal of the reference.

And so there's this paradox that arises, Your Honor. And the paradox that arises is that we show up and immediately go, well, we need to be back in the District Court. So we filed our motion there, and I don't think that was contemptuous, it wasn't intended to be contemptuous of the Court, but we showed the orders to the Court, made the same arguments that we have been making here, that we believe that there's problems with the order, we believe the order oversteps its jurisdiction and maybe is unenforceable, and it's up to that District Court, as it has been in almost all of these other gatekeeper order cases that get filed. None of them result in sanctions, Your Honor. What they result in is a District Court deciding, well, either they refer it or they decide I don't need to refer it. But I don't think that that is the same thing as commencing or pursuing a claim in the end, Your Honor, because all we did was ask for permission, and permission could have been denied or granted or granted in part.

Your Honor, they haven't cited an injury. You've heard the testimony, Your Honor, that they -- the first time they knew we had filed a motion -- which I don't understand why that's the first time they knew we had filed a motion; we told them we were going to file the motion -- was when I forwarded an email saying that it's been denied without prejudice, Your Honor. Well, that means they didn't have to do any work to respond to the motion. They didn't have to do any work to do any of the other things.

And one hundred percent of the damages that they're going to say they incurred is the litigation of this contempt hearing or this sanction motion, as opposed to some other simpler remedy, like going in to Judge Boyle and saying, Your Honor, all that needs to go, which is what they eventually did. But they would have had to incur those costs anyway because they're now moving to enforce the reference. They filed a 12(b)(6). That briefing would have existed regardless of whether or not we had filed our motion, regardless of whether the sanctions hearing had commenced.

Your Honor, I'm going to let my partner, Mr. Bridges, address this part of it, if I could. I think that gets into more of the questions that you asked, and I think he can answer them a lot better than I can.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. SBAITI: Thank you.

THE COURT: That's fine.

MR. BRIDGES: Thank you, Your Honor. And I do want to address pointedly the questions that you're asking. First, though, I was hoping to back up to some preliminary remarks that you made and say that I find the 200 orders a week just mindboggling. It amazes me, and puts the entire hearing in a different perspective for me. I'm grateful that you shared that with us.

Your expression of regret about naming us violators was very meaningful to me. It causes me -- well, the strong words in our brief were mine. I wrote them. And your expression of regret causes me to regret some of those words. I'm hopeful that you can understand, at least in part, our reaction out of concern.

And Your Honor, it's awkward for me to talk about problems with your order, and that's the task that's come to me, to list and talk through four of them and why we think they put us in a really awkward position in deciding what to do in this case, in the filing of it, in where we filed it, and in how we sought leave to go forward against Mr. Seery. That was awkward and difficult for us, and I'm hopeful that I can explain that and that you'll understand, if I'm blunt about problems with the order, that I mean it very respectfully. Two hundred orders a week is still very difficult for me to get my mind around.

The four issues in the order start with the gatekeeping. Then, secondly, in the preliminary remarks, I made mention of the Applewood case and the notice that the order releases some claims. Its effect of --

THE COURT: And by the way, I mean, you might elaborate on the facts and holding of Applewood, because I came into this thinking Republic Supply v. Shoaf, and for that matter, as I said, Espinosa, were much more germane. And so, you know, you'll have to elaborate on Applewood. I remember that case, but it's just not one people cite as frequently as those two.

MR. BRIDGES: Yes, Your Honor. And our reply brief devotes a page to the case, and I'm hopeful that I can remember it well enough to give you what you're looking for about it, but I would point you to our reply brief on that topic as well.

The Shoaf case that Applewood quotes from and distinguishes and expressly limits, the Shoaf case actually has been cautioned and limited and distinguished numerous times, if you Shepardize it, and the Applewood case is the leading case, and it also is from the Fifth Circuit, that describes and cabins the effects of Shoaf. And in Applewood, what happened is a bankruptcy confirmation order became final with releases in it, and the court held that exculpatory orders in a final order from the Bankruptcy Court do not have res judicata effect and do not release claims unless those claims are enumerated in the exculpatory order. And --

THE COURT: Okay. So it was about specificity more than anything else, right?

MR. BRIDGES: Yes, Your Honor. It was a --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BRIDGES: -- a blanket release, a blanket --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BRIDGES: -- exculpatory order that didn't specify what claims were released by what parties, and therefore the parties didn't have the requisite notice.

In my mind, Your Honor, it's comparable to the Texas

Supreme Court's holdings on what's required in a settlement release in terms of a disclaimer of reliance, --

THE COURT: Okay. But, again, --

MR. BRIDGES: -- that if you aren't --

THE COURT: -- it's about specificity --

MR. BRIDGES: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: -- more than anything else? And then we've got the U.S. Supreme Court Espinosa case subsequent.

MR. BRIDGES: Okay. Your Honor, I'm not sure what Espinosa you're referring to. Can you tell me why that applies?

THE COURT: Well, it was a confirmation order. It was in a Chapter 13 context. And there were provisions that operated to discharge student loan debt, --

MR. BRIDGES: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: -- which, of course, cannot be discharged without a 523 action, a separate adversary proceeding. Nevertheless, the confirmation order operated to do what 523 suggests you cannot do, discharge student loan debt through a plan confirmation order.

The U.S. Supreme Court says, well, that's unfortunate that the confirmation order did something which it doesn't look like you can do, but no one ever objected or appealed. That's my recollection of Espinosa. So it seems to be the same holding as Republic Supply v. Shoaf. And what I -- why I asked you to elaborate on Applewood is because it does seem to deal with the specificity of the order versus the enforceability, no?

MR. BRIDGES: Your Honor, if it's not obvious already, I'm not prepared to argue Espinosa. And your explanation of it is very helpful to me. I think you're right that the specificity issue from Applewood is what we're relying on. And it sounds like --

THE COURT: Okay. So, that being the case, how was this order not specific? Okay?

MR. BRIDGES: That's easy, Your Honor, because it doesn't say which parties are releasing which claims. And what we're talking specifically about there -- as we go through the order, I can show you the language -- but what we're talking about specifically are the ordinary negligence and breach of fiduciary duty claims that your order doesn't provide for at all. Rather, it says colorability of gross negligence or willful wrongdoing, if I remember the words precisely, that's what must be shown to pursue a case -- a cause of action against Mr. Seery, thereby -- thereby indicating that claims for mere negligence, not gross negligence, or breach of fiduciary duty, which is an even lesser standard, that those claims are prohibited entirely.

And by having that kind of general all-encompassing release or exculpation for potential liability involving negligence, and most importantly, fiduciary duty breach under the Advisers Act, that that kind of exculpation under Applewood is not enforceable and has no res judicata effect because it wasn't -- those claims weren't enumerated in the order.

That for it to have the intended exculpatory effect, if that was what was intended, that the fiduciary duty claims and the parties who those claims may belong to would have to have been enumerated.

And indeed, that kind of specificity, what was required in Applewood, isn't even possible for a claim that hasn't yet occurred for future conduct. It's not possible to enumerate the details, any details, of a future claim, because the underlying act -- if the underlying basis, facts for that claim, haven't yet happened. It's something to happen in the future.

And here, that's what we're dealing with. We're dealing with conduct that took place well after the January and July 2020 orders that had that exculpatory effect. Is -- is that clear?

THE COURT: Understood.

MR. BRIDGES: Thank you, Your Honor. So, the four areas of the order, the four functions that the order does that are problematic to us that led us to do what we have done are the gatekeeping function; the release; the fact that by stating sole jurisdiction, that it had a jurisdiction-stripping effect; and then, finally, jurisdiction asserting, where, respectfully, Your Honor, we think to some extent the order goes beyond what this Court's jurisdiction is. And so that not only claiming exclusive jurisdiction, but claiming jurisdiction over all actions against Mr. Seery, as described in the order, is going too far.

And those are the four issues I want to talk about one at a time, and here -- I went two screens instead of one. There we go. And here's the order. I have numbered the highlights here out of sequence because this is the sequence that I wish to talk about them and that I think their significance to our decision applies.

Before we get into the words of this July 16, 2020 order, I want to mention the January order as well. Although the motion for contempt recites both orders, we don't actually think the January order applies to us, because our lawsuit against Mr. Seery is not about his role as a director at Strand in any way. We didn't make an issue of that, other than in a footnote in our brief, because we don't think that distinction matters much since the orders essentially say the same things.

I'm not sure that it matters whether we have potentially violated one order or two. If Your Honor finds we've violated one, I think we're on the hook regardless. If Your Honor finds that we didn't violate the July order, I don't think you will find that we violated the January order, either. So my focus is on the July order.

The gatekeeping function comes from the preliminary language about commencing or pursuing a claim or cause of action against Mr. Seery. And it says what you want us to do first before bringing such a claim.

The second issue of the release comes a little bit later. It's the colorable claim of willful misconduct or gross negligence language. In other words, because only claims of willful misconduct or gross negligence can pass the bar, can pass muster under this order, that lesser claims -- ordinary negligence and breach of fiduciary duty -- that those claims are released by this order. That's the second argument.

Third is your reference to sole jurisdiction and the effect that that has of attempting to say that other courts, courts of original jurisdiction, do not have jurisdiction because it solely resides here. That's the third thing I want to address.

And then the fourth is the notion that we have to come to this Court first for any action that fits the description of an action against Mr. Seery, when some actions are, through acts of Congress, removed from what this Court has the power to address. Under 157(d) of Title 28, Your Honor, there are some kinds of actions which withdrawal of the reference is mandatory, and therefore this court lacks jurisdiction to address those.

And so those are the four issues I want to tackle, starting with the first, the gatekeeping. Your Honor, Section 28 -- Section 959 of Title 28 appears to be precisely on point. It calls -- it is called by some courts an exception to the Barton Doctrine, which we believe is the only basis, the Barton Doctrine, for this Court to claim that it has jurisdiction or sole jurisdiction and can require us to come here first. We think the Barton Doctrine is the only basis for that. We haven't seen anything in the briefing from opposing counsel indicating there was another basis for it. We think we're talking about the Barton Doctrine here as the basis for that.

959 is exception to the Barton Doctrine, and we think it explicitly authorizes what we have done.

Secondly, Your Honor, the order, the gatekeeping functions of the order are too broad because of its incorporation of the jurisdictional problems and the release problem that we'll talk about later. But for problem number one, the key issue that we're talking about is 959 as an exception to the Barton Doctrine. And I went the wrong way.

THE COURT: So, we could go down a lot of rabbit trails today, and I'm going to try not to do that, but are you saying the very common practice of having gatekeeping provisions in Chapter 11 cases is just defective law under 28 U.S.C. § 959(a)?

MR. BRIDGES: Can I say yes and no?

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BRIDGES: Yes, to some extent, for some claims. No as to other claims to another extent. We are not saying gatekeeping orders are altogether wrong, --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BRIDGES: -- no.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BRIDGES: There are problems with gatekeeping orders that do more than what the law, Section 959 in particular, allows them to do.

THE COURT: Okay. Be more explicit. I'm not -- I think you're saying, no, except when certain situations exist, but I don't know what the certain situations are.

MR. BRIDGES: And Your Honor, you're exactly right. It's complicated, and it takes a long explanation. Let me start --

THE COURT: Okay. I really want to know, --

MR. BRIDGES: Yeah, me, too.

THE COURT: -- since I do these all the time, and most of my colleagues do.

MR. BRIDGES: Thank you, Your Honor. And 959 is on the screen. Managers of any property --

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. BRIDGES: -- is what we're talking about, including debtors in possession. Now, it starts off by saying trustees, receivers. I mean, this is exactly what the Barton Doctrine is about, right? We're talking about trustees and receivers, but not just them. We're also talking about managers of any property, including debtors in possession, --

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. BRIDGES: -- may be sued without leave of the court appointing that. That's contrary to the Barton Doctrine so far.

With respect to what I've numbered five here -- these numbers are mine -- the quote is directly verbatim out of the U.S. Code, but the numbering one through five is mine. With respect to what acts or transactions in carrying on business connected with such property.

And so, Your Honor, what we're talking about isn't Barton Doctrine is inapplicable, or you can't have a gatekeeping order for any claims, but it's about managers of property. And one of the hornbook examples of this is the grocery store that files for bankruptcy and then, when --

THE COURT: Slip-and-fall.

MR. BRIDGES: You've got it, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. BRIDGES: And because they're managing property,

--

THE COURT: So your cause of action, if it went forward, is the equivalent of a slip-and-fall --

MR. BRIDGES: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: -- in a grocery store?

MR. BRIDGES: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Let me skip ahead. What about the last sentence of 959(a)?

MR. BRIDGES: 959(b)? Or 959(a)?

THE COURT: No, of 959(a).

MR. BRIDGES: What we're looking at here?

THE COURT: That's the sentence that I have always thought was one justification for a gatekeeper provision. And I know, you know, a lot of others feel the same.

MR. BRIDGES: Are we talking about what I have listed in number five here?

THE COURT: No. I'm talking about the last sentence of 959(a). Such actions, okay, shall be subject to the general equity power of such court, you know, meaning the Bankruptcy Court, so far as the same may be necessary to the ends of justice, but this shall not deprive a litigant of his right to a trial by jury.

Isn't that one of the provisions that lawyers sometimes rely on in arguing a gatekeeper provision is appropriate?

MR. BRIDGES: Certain --

THE COURT: You, Bankruptcy Judge, have the power, the general equity power, so far as the same may be necessary to the ends of justice?

MR. BRIDGES: Your Honor, you bet. Absolutely, there is equitable power to do more. There's no doubt that there are reliance -- there is reliance on that in many instances. So I'm not sure -- I'm not sure I'm responding to your point.

THE COURT: Well, again, I think this is the third or fourth argument down the line that really you start with in the analytical framework here, but I guess I'm just saying I always thought a gatekeeping provision was consistent, entirely consistent with 28 U.S.C. § 959(a), the last sentence.

MR. BRIDGES: When you're dealing --

THE COURT: You disagree with that?

MR. BRIDGES: I do, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BRIDGES: And it's not that the Court lacks equitable powers to do more. It's that those equitable powers are affected by when management of other parties, third parties' property is at issue.

What we're talking about is similar to yesterday's contempt order. When you set the basis of describing what it is that Highland's business is, that they're a registered investment advisor in the business of buying, selling, and managing assets -- assets, of course, are property, and that property is not just Highland's, but it's third-party property, as if a railroad loses luggage belonging to its customers. Rather than the railroad with a trustee appointed having mismanaged railroad property, we're talking about third-party property here, third-party property that belongs to the CLOs, about a billion dollars of assets in these CLO SPEs that Highland manages.

And again, the slide that Mr. Sbaiti showed you showing Highland, yes, they manage their own assets, the assets of the Debtor, but also of the third parties, including the Charitable DAF and CLO Holdco, and that the Advisers Act imposes fiduciary duties on them that are unwaivable when they're doing that.

In Anderson, the Fifth Circuit called 959 an exception to the rule requiring court's permission for leave to sue. In Hoffman v. City of San Diego much more recently, relying on this statute again, the court rejected a Barton challenge and called it a statutory exception. And in Barton itself, from a century ago, the U.S. Supreme Court even acknowledged there that where a receiver misappropriated the property of another -- not the debtor's property, the property of another -- that the receiver could still be sued personally, without leave of court.

Absent Barton, absent applicability of the Barton

Doctrine, Your Honor, the gatekeeper order is problematic.

Barton applies where a court has appointed a trustee, and I don't think, Your Honor, under the circumstances in this case, that it is fair to say Mr. Seery was appointed, as opposed to approved by this Court. And it involves a trustee's actions under the powers conferred on him. The Barton Doctrine is not about a broader exculpation of the trustee.

Here, what the Debtor asked for in its motion for approval, approval of hiring Mr. Seery, what it asked for specifically in the motion was that the Court not interfere with corporate decisions absent a showing of bad faith, self-interest, or gross negligence, and asking the Court to uphold the board's decision to appoint Mr. Seery as the CEO as long as they are attributable to any rationale business purpose.

At the hearing, Your Honor, at the hearing, we've quoted your comments saying that the evidence amply shows a sound business justification and reasonable business judgment on the part of the Debtor in proposing that Mr. Seery be CEO and CRO. Your Honor, respectfully, those words don't sound like the judge using its discretion to choose -- appoint a trustee. They sound like the Court exercising deference to the business judgment of a business. And appropriately so. We don't have trouble with application of the business judgment rule. Our problem is with application of it and the Barton Doctrine.

Those two do not go together. A trustee has protection because it's acting under color of the court that appointed it. A court that merely deferred to someone else's appointment, that's not what the Barton Doctrine is about. The Barton Doctrine is about the court's function that the trustee takes on, not deference to the business judgment of the debtor in possession or the other fiduciary appointed by the court.

Problem one was the gatekeeping. Problem two is about the release and the Applewood case. Your Honor, again, ordinary negligence and ordinary fiduciary duty breaches do not rise to the level of gross negligence and willful misconduct. And because of that, the language of this order appears to be barring them entirely. No entity may bring a lawsuit against Mr. Seery in certain circumstances without the Bankruptcy Court doing what? Determining that the cause of action represents a colorable claim of willful misconduct or gross negligence against Mr. Seery.

A breach of fiduciary duty under the Advisers Act can be unintentional, it can fall short of gross negligence by miles, and to exculpate Mr. Seery from those kinds of claims entirely is to make him no longer a fiduciary. A fiduciary duty that is unenforceable makes someone not a fiduciary. That's plainly not what Mr. Seery thinks his role is. It's inconsistent with the Advisers Act. And Your Honor, the notion that he would not owe his clients fiduciary duties as he manages their assets would require disclosures under the SEC regulations. It creates all kinds of problems to state that a fiduciary under the Advisers Act does not have enforceable fiduciary duties. The order appears to be releasing all of those. But for Applewood's specificity requirement, it would be doing that.

As an asset manager under the Advisers Act, Mr. Seery is managing assets belonging to CLO Holdco and The Charitable DAF. That's precisely what the District Court action is about, those fiduciary duties. And Mr. Seery, in describing these recently in testimony here -- forgive me for reading through this, Your Honor, but it is pretty short -- Mr. Seery testifies, I think, from a high level, the best way to think about the Debtor is that it's a registered investment advisor. As a registered investment advisor, which is really any advisor of third-party money over $25 million, it has to register with the SEC and it manages funds in many different ways. The Debtor manages approximately $200 million current values -- it was more than that of the start of the case -- of its own assets.

I'm pausing there, Your Honor. $200 million of its own assets, but we're about to talk about third-party assets.

It doesn't have to be a registered investment advisor for those assets, but it does manage its own assets, which include directly-owned securities, loans, from mostly related entities but not all, and investments in certain funds, which it also manages.

And then here it comes: In addition, the manager -- the Debtor manages about roughly $2 billion, $2 billion in total managed assets, around $2 billion in CLO assets, and then other entities, which are hedge funds or PE style.

We also had to get a very good understanding of each of the funds that we manage. And as I said, the Investment Advisers Act puts a fiduciary duty on Highland Capital to discharge its duty to the investors. So while we have duties to the estate, we also have duties, as I mentioned in my last testimony, to each of the investors in the funds.

Now, some of them are related parties, and those are a little bit easier. Some of them are owned by Highland. But there are third-party investors in these funds who have no relation whatsoever to Highland, and we owe them a fiduciary duty both to manage their assets prudently but also to seek to manage -- maximize value.

Those duties do not require -- requires the opposite of what I mean. They don't merely require avoiding gross negligence or willful wrongdoing. When you're managing assets of others, the fiduciary duties that you owe are far stricter than that. The highest duty known to law is a fiduciary duty.

The order is inconsistent with that testimony, acknowledging the fiduciary duties owed to The Charitable DAF and to CLO Holdco. It appears to release the Debtor -- maybe not the Debtor. My slide may be wrong about that. It appears to release Seery from having to uphold these duties.

In addition to problems with the gatekeeping under the Barton Doctrine, in addition to the release problem and Applewood and the unwaivable fiduciary duties under the Advisers Act, there's also a problem with telling other courts that they lack jurisdiction. Your Honor knows bankruptcy court law -- bankruptcy -- and the Bankruptcy Code far better than I do, I'm certain. But a first principle, I believe, of bankruptcy law is that this Court's jurisdiction is derivative of the District Court's. And the only doctrine I've heard of that can allow this Court to exercise exclusive jurisdiction of the District Court that it sits in is the Barton Doctrine, which, again, is very problematic to apply in this case, for the reasons we've discussed already.

By claiming to have -- by stating in the order that this Court has sole jurisdiction, it appears to either be inclusive of the District Court, which I understand Your Honor doesn't think her order can be read that way, but if it's not read that way, then it results in telling the District Court that it doesn't have the original jurisdiction that Congress has given it. And that's problematic in the order as well.

THE COURT: Let me ask you. If you think the word

"power" had been used, or "authority," versus "jurisdiction," that would have cured it?

MR. BRIDGES: I think there would still have been other problems. Would it have cured this? I don't think so, Your Honor, because, again, I think the only basis for that power is the Barton Doctrine.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BRIDGES: To listen to opposing counsel, you'd think that our jurisdictional argument was entirely about the jurisdiction stripping. It's not. Frankly, Your Honor, that's maybe even a lesser point. A key problem here to is the assertion of jurisdiction, not over any of the claims, but over all of the claims, because of 157(d), Your Honor, because some claims, some causes of action, have been put outside the reach of bankruptcy, the Bankruptcy Court, and those actions may in some instances fit within your description of the cases that are precluded here.

That's a problem jurisdictionally with this Court's ability to say it retains jurisdiction or that it has, that it asserts jurisdiction. Over what? Any kind of claim or cause of action against Mr. Seery relating in any way to his role as the chief executive officer and chief restructuring officer of the Debtor.

Some claims that fit into that bucket also fit into the description in 157(d) of cases that require both consideration of bankruptcy law and federal laws affecting interstate commerce or regulating it. Right? Some cases must fall into -- under 157(d), despite having something to do with Mr. Seery's role as a chief executive officer. And Your Honor, the Advisers Act fiduciary duty claims asserted by Respondents in the District Court are such claims. They cannot be decided without considering the Advisers Act.

There are also RICO claims that, of course, require consideration of the RICO statute. But the Advisers Act claims absolutely require consideration of both bankruptcy law and this Court's order exonerating -- exculpating Mr. Seery from some liability, in addition to the unwaivable fiduciary duties imposed by the Advisers Act.

The assertion of jurisdiction here blanketed, in a blanket manner, over all claims against Mr. Seery in any way related to his CEO role is a 157(d) problem that the order has no -- has no solution for and we see no way around. 157(d) requires withdrawal of the reference, makes it mandatory, when a case requires considerations of federal law implicating interstate commerce.

Your Honor, we think we had to do it the way we did, filing in the District Court instead of filing here, in order to preserve our jurisdictional arguments. To come to this Court with a motion and then what? Immediately file a motion to withdraw the reference on our own motion here? To come here and ask for a decision on colorability, when first colorability would exclude the claims that we're trying to bring, at least some of them, the mere negligence, mere fiduciary duty breaches, because they don't rise to the level necessarily of gross negligence or willful wrongdoing.

Your Honor, coming here and asking this Court to rule on that may well have waived our jurisdictional objections. Coming here to this Court and doing that and immediately filing a motion --

THE COURT: I don't get it.

MR. BRIDGES: The ordinary --

THE COURT: Subject matter jurisdiction, if it's a problem, it's not waivable.

MR. BRIDGES: The ordinary issue -- the ordinary waiver rule, Your Honor, is that when you come and ask for a court to rule on something, that you waive your right to -- to later -- you're estopped judicially from taking the contrary position.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, again, I don't get it. If you filed your motion and I ruled in a way you didn't like, you would appeal to the District Court.

MR. BRIDGES: Yes, Your Honor. An appeal to the District Court, we would be entitled to do. I understand, no matter what happens here, we can appeal to the District Court. That's different from whether or not, by coming here first, have we waived or have we created an estoppel situation, in terms of arguing jurisdiction.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BRIDGES: Because of the problems with the order, we thought we were in a situation where coming here would waive rights that we could avoid waiving by asking in the District Court.

In other words, there was a jurisdictional paradox: How does a party ask a court to do something it believes the court lacks the power to do? That's the spot we found ourselves in. What were we supposed to do?

Your Honor, it is definitely a complex case. And coming into this matter with over 2,000 filings on the docket before I had ever heard of Highland was a very daunting thing, coming into this case. And whether or not there's something that we missed is certainly possible, but these orders that are the subject of the contempt motion, these orders are not things that we overlooked. These are things that we studied carefully, that we did not ignore or have disdain for, but that affected and changed our actions.

And in the Slide #3 from Mr. Morris's -- from Mr. Morris's presentation, in his third slide, he quotes from the first page of our motion for leave, the motion that he says exhibits our contemptuous behavior.

The second paragraph is kind of tiny print there, Your Honor, and it's not highlighted, but I'd like to read it. Seery is not named in the original complaint, but this is only out of an abundance of caution due to the Bankruptcy Court in HCM's pending Chapter 11 proceeding having issued an order prohibiting the filing of any causes of action against Seery in any way related to his role at HCM, subject to certain prerequisites. In that order, the Bankruptcy Court also asserts sole jurisdiction over all such causes of action.

Your Honor, our intent was not to violate the order. Our intent was to be cautious about how we proceeded, to fully disclose what we were doing, and to do it in a District Court that absolutely could refer the matter here to this Court for a decision, but to do it in a way that didn't waive our jurisdictional arguments, that didn't waive our arguments regarding the release of the very claims we were trying to bring, by first having to prove that they were colorful claims of willful misconduct or gross negligence, when we were trying to assert claims that weren't willful negligence or gross -- gross negligence or willful misconduct. That was what I was trying to say.

Your Honor, this was not disregard of your order. If we're wrong on the law, we're wrong on the law, but it's not that we disregarded your order or lacked respect for it. We disclosed it.

Mr. Morris has argued in the briefs that we attempted to do this on an ex parte basis. Your Honor, we did not attempt to do this on an ex parte basis. And if there are errors, they probably are mine. I know one error is mine. On the civil cover sheet in the filing in the District Court, I noted and passed on that we should check the box for related case and list this case on there. I did not follow up to make sure that it happened, and administratively, it didn't happen. We did not check the box on the civil cover sheet. Mr. Morris is correct that we failed to do that. He's incorrect that that was sneaky or intentional. It was my error, having noticed it but not followed up.

Your Honor, similarly, the argument that we didn't serve them with the motion I think is disingenuous. What happened, Your Honor, is that counsel for the Debtor had agreed to accept service of the complaint itself against the Debtor before the motion for leave, and after accepting service, I was under the impression that they'd be monitoring the docket, especially when I emailed them, informed them that we were filing the motion for leave to amend, because I was required to submit a certificate of conference on that motion. I informed them in a polite email. The polite email is not quoted in their brief. It is included in the record, and it's quoted in full in our brief.

The email exchange indicates to them, Thank you for pointing out the Court's orders. We've carefully studied them and we don't think what we're doing is a violation of those orders.

That we didn't serve them is because we thought they already knew that the motion was coming and would be monitoring the docket, and we didn't know which lawyers they were going to have make an appearance in that case, so we wouldn't have known who to serve. But if not serving them -- first, the Rules do not require that service. But if not serving them out of politeness --

THE COURT: Mr. Morris is standing up. Did --

MR. MORRIS: I move to strike all of this, Your Honor. If Counsel wants to take the stand and raise his hand, he should testify under oath. I'm just going to leave it at that. He's not on their witness list.

THE COURT: All right. I overrule. You can continue.

MR. BRIDGES: Thank you, Your Honor.

If failure to serve them was an error, it was mine. I know of no rule that requires it.

THE COURT: Can I ask you, you were talking about the cover sheet mistake in not checking the box. What about your jurisdictional statement in the actual complaint not mentioning 28 U.S.C. § 1334 as a possible basis for subject matter jurisdiction? Do you think that was a mistake as well, or was that purposeful, not necessary?

MR. BRIDGES: Candidly, Your Honor, standing here right now, I have no recollection whatsoever of it.

THE COURT: You mention 28 U.S.C. § 1331, and then 1367 supplemental jurisdiction, but you don't mention 1334.

MR. BRIDGES: I suspect it's true, but Mr. Sbaiti would have written that.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BRIDGES: I have no recollection of --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BRIDGES: -- making any decision at all --

THE COURT: All right.

MR. BRIDGES: -- with regards to that.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BRIDGES: Your Honor, you've been very patient with a very long opening argument, and I'm very grateful for that. Please know that we take this Court's order seriously. We voluntarily appeared here before the Court ordered us to do so by filing our motion asking for a modification of the order we're accused now of having been in violation of.

And the last thing I'd like to say, Your Honor, Mr. Morris's brief claims that the first he knew of the motion, the motion seeking leave to add Mr. Seery to the District Court claim, the first he knew of that was when Mr. Sbaiti forwarded him the District Court's order dismissing that motion, denying that motion without prejudice.

Your Honor, in a civil contempt proceeding, where the issue is compensating, not punishing, if the aggrieved party didn't even know about the action until it had been denied by the District Court, we submit that there can be no harm from that having taken place.

That's all I have for opening. Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

Before we give you a time check, do we have other opening statements?

MR. ANDERSON: Yes. Yes, Your Honor. Michael Anderson on behalf of Mr. Patrick. If we need to take a break, that's fine, too.

THE COURT: Well, how long do you plan to use?

MR. ANDERSON: No more than ten minutes, for sure.

THE COURT: Let's go ahead and do that, and then we'll take a break.

MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, after, I would ask the opportunity to respond to Mr. Bridges' argument. Probably another ten minutes.

THE COURT: All right. Let's go ahead and take a ten-minute break. And Mr. Taylor, you're going to have something, because you --

MR. TAYLOR: Five.

THE COURT: Okay. We'll take a ten-minute break. And Nate, can you give them a time?

THE CLERK: I'm showing it was about 59-1/2 minutes.

THE COURT: Fifty-nine and a half? And is that subtracting some for my questioning?

THE CLERK: I stopped whenever you talked, maybe a little over --

THE COURT: Okay. So he stopped it whenever I asked questions and you answered, so 59 minutes has been used by the Respondents.

All right. We'll take a ten-minute break. We'll come back at 11:35.

THE CLERK: All rise.

(A recess ensued from 11:25 a.m. to 11:37 a.m.)

THE COURT: All right. We're going back on the record in the Highland matter. We have further opening statements. Counsel, you may proceed.

OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF MARK PATRICK, RESPONDENT

MR. ANDERSON: Thank you. May it please the Court, Counsel. Michael Anderson on behalf of Respondent, Mark Patrick.

Your Honor, after listening to this and looking at the filings in this case, this issue of whether there's contempt -- and I would argue there's not -- is ripe for decision. We have no real undisputed facts for purposes of the contempt issue. We have your Court's July order, the subject of Mr. Bridge's arguments. We have the Plaintiffs in the underlying lawsuit at issue. They commenced the lawsuit in April of this year. There's absolutely nothing improper about that filing. It's not subject to the contempt. A week later, there is a motion for leave to add Mr. Seery. That's the issue. There's no dispute over that. There's no dispute that Mr. Patrick authorized the filing of the motion for leave.

And so then the question becomes we look at the Court's July order, did a motion for leave, did that violate the terms of the order? The motion for leave is not commencing a lawsuit. It's also not pursuing a claim, because whether or not the Court grants the motion, denies the motion, or whatever the Court does, nothing happened, because the day after the motion for leave was filed it was dismissed sua sponte without prejudice because not all parties had been served in the case.

It was permission asked one day. The matter was mooted the following day by the District Court. And so that is completely undisputed.

And so the question is, is asking permission, is that commence? I think everybody says there's no way that's commencing a lawsuit because you have asked permission. The question, then, is it pursuing a claim? And the argument, well, no, that's not pursuing a claim; it's asking permission.

And I think it's also important to note that when the motion for leave was filed, there were no secrets there. I mean, I'm coming in this after the fact, representing Mr. Patrick. You look at a motion for leave, and right there on Page 1 it talks about Your Honor's order. Page 2, it quotes the order and it gives the reasons, there's arguments being made as to why that order doesn't bar adding Mr. Seery as a defendant in the lawsuit, many of the arguments that Mr. Bridges made.

So that's where we are. And so when I hear, hey, we've got six hours, three hours and three hours, and we're going to split this up, you know, maybe too simplistic from Fort Worth, but I'm like, wait a second, this is all undisputed. It's totally undisputed. The -- whether or not the prior order is enforceable or not enforceable, those are all legal arguments. You know, no witnesses are necessary for that. And as I understood, right before we broke, counsel stood up and he's going to do what generally doesn't happen in opening statements, which is respond to opening statements, which shows that that's a legal issue.

And so it really does come down to undisputed facts. There's no testimony. No -- nothing is necessary. And a lot of what this comes down to is the old statement, you know, is it better to ask forgiveness or permission? And usually that statement comes up when somebody has already done something: Hey, I'm going to go do it anyway and I'll ask for forgiveness later. Well, what the Plaintiffs in the underlying case did was ask permission. Motion for leave. That is not contemptuous. And there's literally no damages. As was pointed out, by the time counsel found out, it had already been dismissed.

The last thing I want to point out, Your Honor, is that the argument from opposing counsel was, well, under Rule 15 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, since parties hadn't answered yet, the Plaintiffs in the underlying case could have just simply added Mr. Seery as a defendant and moved on that way, but then that would be another ball of wax and then we would be addressing issues as far as whether or not there is a violation of the Court's order, notwithstanding Mr. Bridge's arguments. But then we would have those issues. But that's not what happened. Everybody knows that's not what happened. It was a motion for leave that was resolved the following day.

And so, Your Honor, for those reasons, and those undisputed reasons, we would request that the Court at the end of this hearing deny the request for sanctions and a contempt finding against our client, Mr. Patrick.

Mr. Phillips is going to address one brief issue bankruptcy-wise I believe that was raised earlier.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Phillips?

MR. PHILLIPS: Your Honor, thank you very much. Louis M. Phillips on behalf of Mark Patrick.

The only thing that I would point out, Your Honor, and I'm going to do -- try to simplistically, because that's about the level at which I operate, boil down the questions about the order.

This order was an employment order. The problem that Mr. Bridges has elucidated to Your Honor is that the precise effect, one of the precise effects of that order is to bar the claims of third parties that arise into the future on the basis of the employment of Mr. Seery, because the order required that all claims asserting gross negligence or willful misconduct need to be brought before you to determine that they're colorable.

One question I have is, does it apply to the lawsuit that was filed? Doesn't apply unless the effect of the order was to release those claims and preclude any party from bringing those claims at all. And while you can say correctly that this Court issues gatekeeper orders all of the time, one thing I cannot imagine that you would say is that in employment orders you release claims of third parties existing and as may arise in the future that could be brought against the party employed to be a CRO of a debtor, who, by his own testimony, says we do all kinds of stuff in the billions of dollars for third parties that we owe fiduciary duties to.

There's no way, Your Honor, that you were considering your July order to bar third-party claims arising from breach of fiduciary duties by Mr. Seery to third parties who held third-party claims that did not involve some assertion that, in his capacity as CRO, he was in some way acting within the scope of his authority as CRO for the Debtor and yet committed negligence against the Debtor.

Now, if the order was asserting that you know what a lot of people in this courtroom know, that the standard of liability for a CRO doing work for a debtor, just like the standard of liability for the president of a corporation or an officer of the corporation, is as long as you're within the course and scope of your employment, your actions for the corporation have -- can -- the corporation takes care of you because there's no personal claim unless you're outside the scope, and you're outside the scope if you commit gross negligence or willful misconduct.

That, if you're restating the standard of care and standard of liability for a CRO, we have no problem with that, because Mr. Patrick did not authorize a cause of action arising against Mr. Seery against the Debtors for damage to the Debtors. He authorized the filing of a complaint in the District Court with jurisdiction for a third-party claim for breach of a fiduciary duty to a third party that Mr. Seery admits he owes, and then sought leave because they didn't understand the order that Your Honor issued. It couldn't have been to release the breach of fiduciary duty claims that wouldn't rise to gross negligence or willful misconduct, it couldn't be that, but it might be. But if it did, under an employment order? That's very different from Espinosa, that's very different from Shoaf, when you're at the end of a case in a confirmation of a plan and you're talking about matters arising in the past.

This order, if it has the effect it could be read to have, precludes any third party from asserting a breach of fiduciary duty against Seery for actions that violate the duty to that third party, when Seery's biggest job, it looks to us like, is running third-party money. That could not have been what Your Honor was thinking.

And so all I'm pointing out is I'm trying to distill down. The lawsuit doesn't involve gross negligence or willful misconduct allegations. It involves breach of fiduciary duty, breach of the Advisers Act, et cetera, et cetera. Mr. Patrick authorized that lawsuit.

Now, what we're here for today is to determine whether the complaint, which was not against the Debtor -- which was not against Seery, the motion for leave, which did not -- all they did was ask for permission, not forgiveness. And we can't understand how the Debtor should be saying, all they had to do was amend. Well, if they amended, would we be in hotter water than we are today for asking for permission to sue? I think we would have been, that should have been the prescribed course, when we are more concerned and we are more risk-averse by asking for leave rather than just amending by right. Absolutely, that makes no sense. We can't be held to be more contemptuous because we asked for permission, when we could have just sued him, because they're saying asking for permission was wrong. Certainly, suing him would have been wrong. That would have been easier.

THE COURT: But Mr. Phillips, the issue is you all didn't come to the Bankruptcy Court and ask permission.

MR. PHILLIPS: Look at your order, Your Honor.

THE COURT: It's right in front of me.

MR. PHILLIPS: Right. That order either doesn't apply to the claims that were brought or it released the claims that were brought. That's our point. It couldn't have released them. Does it apply to them? Thank you.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Taylor?

MR. TAYLOR: Good morning.

THE COURT: Good morning.

OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF JAMES DONDERO

MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, Clay Taylor on behalf of Jim Dondero. I'll be very brief because I know we've already spent a lot of time on opening argument. But I do think it is appropriate to, one, first look at who brought the lawsuit, CLO Holdco & DAF. That was authorized -- it's undisputed it was authorized by Mr. Patrick. There is no dispute about that. There's no dispute who the Plaintiffs are. But yet my client is up here as an alleged violator.

I think it's very clear, as all the parties have said, there's no dispute as to there's an order, there was a complaint, and there was a motion for leave.

It seems to me that the rest of the evidentiary hearing that you may be about to go through is going to be about pin the blame on Mr. Dondero. It is undisputed that he is not a control person for the DAF or CLO Holdco. The only type of evidence you will hear is going to be insinuation that he somehow controls Mr. Patrick and used to control Mr. Scott. There will be no direct evidence that he authorized this or that he's the control person and the proper corporate authorized representative that signed off on the --

It seems to me, Your Honor, first of all, that's a discrete issue that should be able to be decided separately from this, and the first gating issue is, was there indeed a violation of this Court's order? It would seem to me that there is no disputes about those facts and that we should bifurcate that, and if you then find that there is a violation and find that there is any even need to move into who the alleged violators are, that then we could have that evidentiary portion. But there is no reason to do that now before there's even been found to be a violation.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

All right. Well, someone made the point rebuttals in opening statements are not very common, --

MR. POMERANTZ: Your -- Your --

THE COURT: -- but you can use your three hours however you want.

OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTOR

MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, I didn't intend to stand up.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. POMERANTZ: I also didn't intend to have the motion to modify the sealing order presented to Your Honor, which it was in the course of that opening argument. And despite your comments at the beginning of the hearing, the Movants have taken Your Honor down a series of rabbit holes that have really no relevance to the contempt motion. And notwithstanding, as I said, your ruling that basically the contempt would go first and the modification would go second, there they were, persistent in making all the arguments why this Court should modify the order.

They're just really trying to obfuscate the simple issue that Mr. Morris presented and raised at the beginning of the hearing: Did they violate the order by pursuing a claim? We think the answer is undoubtedly yes.

I'm not going to try to address each of the issues they raised in connection with the modification motion in detail. I have a lengthy presentation. I'll do it at the appropriate time. But there are a few issues I want to address. I want to address one of the last points Mr. Bridges raised first. If they thought that the order was a problem, they could have filed their motion to modify that order before Your Honor. They could have had that heard first. There was no statute of limitations issue in connection with the HarbourVest matter. They could have come to Your Honor to do that. But no, they didn't. They went to the District Court first, and it was only after we filed our contempt motion that they came back and said, well, Your Honor, you should modify the order. Their argument that if they did that there would have been waiver and estoppel is just an after-the-fact justification for what they did and what they tried to do, which was unsuccessful. They tried to have the District Court make the decision.

And why? Your Honor, they've filed motions to recuse before Your Honor. They -- they -- it's no secret the disdain they have for Your Honor's rulings as it relates to them. They wanted to be out of this courtroom and in another courtroom.

And their belated argument, Mr. Bridges falling on the sword, that they failed to check the box, inadvertent, it's on me, it's very curious. Because if they had done so and had referred to the correct 1334 jurisdictional predicate, as Your Honor had mentioned, the complaint would have been referred to this Court and the entire trajectory of the proceedings would have been different. They would have had the opportunity to take their shot to go to District Court and argue that your order didn't apply.

Your Honor, they say the January 9th order is not relevant. It is entirely relevant. It covered the independent directors and their agents. Yes, Mr. Seery is an independent director, but he was also an agent of the independent directors and carried out the duties. You heard argument at the July 16th hearing that Mr. Seery had been acting as the chief executive officer for several months. And why is it important? Mr. Bridges said, well, if we violated one order, we violated the other. It's important because, Your Honor, number one, Mr. Dondero supported that order. We would never have had an independent board in this case if Mr. Dondero, the decision-making -- of the Debtor at that time, supported that order and supported the exculpations that are now claimed to have been invalid.

And also Your Honor heard testimony at the confirmation hearing that the independent directors would never have taken this job, would never have taken this job because of the potential for litigation, litigation that we've now had to endure for several months. So to come back 16 months later and say, well, you know, you couldn't really exculpate them, it's really an employment order: It was an employment order.

They know it. We know it. Your Honor knows it. It was a resolution of corporate governance issues that changed the whole trajectory of the case, and luckily it -- luckily, Your Honor approved it.

The question just is whether they violated the order, period. And I'll have a lot to say about res judicata, but I won't go in too much in detail, but I will just briefly address their arguments. They're correct and the Court is correct that there's a difference between Applewood and Shoaf. And Your Honor got the exact difference. In one case, a release was not specific, Applewood. In one case it was. Shoaf hasn't been discredited by Applewood. It was different facts. In fact, Shoaf relied on two Supreme Court cases, the Stoll case and the Chicot case, both for the propositions that a court that enters an order, a clear order, even if it didn't have jurisdiction, that cannot be attacked in res judicata. So here what we have is clear, unambiguous, you come to this Court before commencing or pursuing a claim. That's the clarity. The focus on the releases, that's not what we're here for today, that's not what we're here for on a contempt motion, on whether the release covered them or it didn't cover them. We're here on the clear issue of did they violate the language, and we submit that they did.

And similarly, Espinosa applies. Your Honor, just to quote some language, "Appellees could have moved to remand the action to state court after it improperly -- after its improper removal to the federal court or challenge the district court's exercise in jurisdiction on direct appeal. Because they did neither, they are now barred by principles of res judicata."

Res judicata actually does apply, and I will speak about it in much more detail in the modification motion.

With respect to Barton, Your Honor, we disagree with their argument that Mr. Seery is not a court-appointed agent. We've briefed it extensively in our motion to modify. Barton applies to debtors in possession. Barton applies to general partners of the debtor. Barton applies to chief restructuring orders -- officers who are approved by the debtor. And it applies to general counsel who are appointed by the chief restructuring order. Officer.

So the argument that Barton is somehow inapplicable is just wrong. Your Honor knows that. Your Honor has written extensively on Barton in connection with your Ondova opinion.

Some of the argument about 959 is all wrong, as well. Your Honor got it right that 959 applies to slip-and-fall cases or torts, injuries to parties that are strangers to this process. There is a legion of cases that I will cite to Your Honor in connection with argument. 959 does not apply here. There's nothing more core to this case than the transactions surrounding the resolution of the HarbourVest claims.

We also disagree, Your Honor, that the complaint is subject to mandatory withdrawal of the reference. We've -- one of our exhibits in the motion to modify is our motion to enforce the reference. We think Movants have it completely wrong. This is not the type of case that will be subject to withdrawal -- mandatory withdrawal of the reference, and in any event, for this contempt motion, it's irrelevant.

And they argue -- one of the other points Mr. Bridges raises is that, because this Court would not have had jurisdiction under 157 because of the mandatory withdrawal, then Your Honor could not legally act as a gatekeeper. But they haven't addressed Villegas v. Schmidt. We've raised it throughout this case. And again, in these series of pleadings, they don't even address it. And Villegas v. Schmidt was a Barton case. It was a Barton case where the -- where the argument was that Barton does not apply because it's a Stern claim and the Bankruptcy Court would not have jurisdiction. And Villegas said no, it does apply. And Your Honor even cited that in your Ondova case. And why does it apply? Because there's nothing inconsistent with a Bankruptcy Court having exclusive decision to make a Barton determination.

In fact, in that case Villegas said, you can't go to the District Court for that decision, it is the Bankruptcy Court's decision.

So, again, it's a red herring, Your Honor. Your Honor had the ability to act as an exclusive gatekeeper for these types of actions.

With that, Your Honor, I'll leave the rest of my argument for the next motion.

THE COURT: All right. Thanks.

All right. Nate, let's give everyone their time.

THE CLERK: That was just about eight and a half additional from the Debtor, and then altogether the other ones were just shy of fourteen minutes. Thirteen minutes and fifty seconds for the other three combined. Do you want me to --

THE COURT: Yes, I meant for Debtor combined versus --

THE CLERK: Oh. Oh.

THE COURT: Respondents combined.

THE CLERK: So that would be twenty one and a half the Debtor. Let me do the math on the other one. Be an hour twelve minutes and fifty seconds for --

THE COURT: Okay. All right. Got that? Debtors used a total of twenty one and a half minutes; Responders have used an hour twelve minutes and fifty seconds.

All right. Mr. Morris, you may call your first witness.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you very much, Your Honor. The Debtor calls Mark Patrick.

THE COURT: All right. Mr. Patrick? Please approach our witness stand and I'll swear you in. Please raise your right hand.

(The witness is sworn.)

THE COURT: All right. Please take a seat.

MARK PATRICK, DEBTOR'S WITNESS, SWORN

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Good afternoon, Mr. Patrick.

A Good afternoon.

Q Can you hear me okay?

A Yes, I can.

Q Okay. You have before you several sets of binders. They're rather large. But when I deposed you on Friday, we did that virtually. Now, I may direct you specifically to one of the binders or one of the documents from time to time, so I just wanted you to know that those were in front of you and that I may be doing that.

Mr. Patrick, since March 1st, 2001 [sic], you've been employed by Highland Consultants, right?

A I believe the name is Highgate Consultants doing business as Skyview Group.

Q Okay. And that's an entity that was created by certain former Highland employees, correct?

A That is my understanding, correct.

Q And your understanding is that Mr. Dondero doesn't have an ownership interest in that entity, correct?

A That he does not. That is correct.
Q And your understanding is that he's not an employee of that -- of Skyview, correct?
A That is correct.
Q Prior to joining Skyview on March 1st, you had worked at Highland Capital Management, LP for about 13 years, correct?
A Correct.
Q Joining in, I believe, early 2008?
A Correct.
Q Okay. I'm going to refer to Highland Capital Management, LP from time to time as HCMLP. Is that okay?
A Yes.
Q While at HCMLP, you served as a tax counselor, correct?
A No, I would like to distinguish that. I did have the title tax counsel. However, essentially all my activities were in a non-lawyer capacity, being the client representative. I would engage other outside law firms to provide legal advice.
Q Okay. So you are an attorney, correct?
A Yes, I am.
Q But essentially everything you did at Highland during your 13 years was in a non-lawyer capacity, correct?
A Correct.
Q In fact, you didn't even work in the legal department; is that right?

A That is correct. I worked for the tax department.
Q Okay. Let's talk about how you became the authorized representative of the Plaintiffs. You are, in fact, authorized representative today of CLO Holdco, Ltd. and Charitable DAF, LP, correct?
A Charitable DAF Fund, LP. Correct.
Q And those are the two entities that filed the complaint in the United States District Court against the Debtor and two other entities, correct?
A Correct.
Q And may I refer to those two entities going forward as the Plaintiffs?
A Yes.
Q You became the authorized representative of the Plaintiffs on March 24th, 2021, the day you and Mr. Scott executed certain transfer documents, correct?
A Correct.
Q And you had no authority to act on behalf of either of the Plaintiffs before March 24th, correct?
A Correct.
Q The DAF controls about $200 million in assets, correct?
A The Plaintiffs, you mean? CLO Holdco and Charitable DAF Fund, LP.
Q Yes.

A Around there.
Q Okay. Let me try and just ask that again, and thank you for correcting me. To the best of your knowledge, the Plaintiffs control about $200 million in assets, correct?
A Net assets, correct.
Q Okay. And that asset base is derived largely from HCMLP, Mr. Dondero, or Mr. Dondero's trusts, correct?
A Can you restate that question again, Mr. Morris?
Q Sure. The asset base that you just referred to is derived largely from HCMLP, Mr. Dondero, or donor trusts?
A The way I would characterize it -- you're using the word derived. I would characterize it with respect to certain charitable donations --
Q Uh-huh.
A -- that were -- that were made at certain time periods, where the donors gave up complete dominion and control over the respective assets and at that time claimed a federal income tax deduction for that.

I do -- I do believe that, as far as the donor group, as you specified, Highland Capital Management, I recall, provided a donation to a Charitable Remainder Trust that eventually had expired and that eventually such assets went into the supporting organizations. And then I do believe Mr. Dondero also contributed to the Charitable Remainder Trust No. 2, which seeded substantial amounts of the original assets that were eventually composed of the $200 million. And then from time to time I do believe that Mr. Dondero's trusts made charitable donations to their respective supporting organizations.

Q Okay. Thank you.

A Is that responsive?

Q It is. It's very responsive. Thank you very much. So, to the best of your knowledge, the charitable donations that were made that form the bases of the assets came from those three -- primarily from those three sources, correct?

A Well, you know, there's two different trusts. There's the Dugaboy Trust and the Get Good Trust.

Q Okay.

A Then you have Mr. Dondero and Highland Capital Management. So I would say four sources.

Q Okay. All right. Thank you. Prior to assuming your role as the authorized representative of the Plaintiff, you had never had meaningful responsibility for making investment decisions, correct?

A I'm sorry. You kind of talk a little bit fast. Please slow it down --

Q That's okay.

A -- and restate it. Thank you.

Q And I appreciate that. And any time you don't understand what I'm saying or I speak too fast, please do exactly what you're doing. You're doing fine.

Prior to assuming your role as the authorized representative of the Plaintiffs, you never had any meaningful responsibility making investment decisions. Is that correct?

A To whom?

Q For anybody.

A Well, during my deposition, I believe I testified that I make investment decisions with respect to my family. Family and friends come to me and they ask me for investment decisions. I was -- in my deposition, I indicated to you that I was a board member of a nonprofit called the 500, Inc. They had received a donation of stock in Yahoo!, and the members there looked to me for financial guidance. As an undergrad at the University of Miami, I was a -- I was a finance major, and so I do have a variety of background with respect to investments.

Q Okay. So you told me that from time to time friends and family members come to you for investing advice. Is that right?

A That is correct.

Q And when you were a young lawyer you were on the board of a nonprofit that received a donation of Yahoo! stock and the board looked to you for guidance. Is that correct?

THE COURT: Just a moment. I think there's an objection.

MR. MORRIS: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MR. ANDERSON: So far -- relevance, Your Honor. This is way out of the bounds of the contempt proceeding. You know, what he did as a young person with Yahoo! stock. We're here to -- he authorized the lawsuit. They filed the lawsuit. That's it. Getting into all this peripheral stuff is completely irrelevant.

THE COURT: Your response?

MR. MORRIS: My response, Your Honor, is very simple. Mr. Patrick assumed responsibility, and you're going to be told that he exercised full and complete authority over a $200 million fund that was created by Mr. Dondero, --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: -- that funds -- that is funded virtually by Mr. Dondero, and for which -- Mr. Patrick is a lovely man, and I don't mean to disparage him at all -- but he has no meaningful experience in investing at all.

THE COURT: All right. Counsel, I overrule. I think there's potential relevance.

And may I remind people that when you're back at counsel table, please make sure you speak your objections into the microphone. Thank you.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q When you were a young lawyer, sir, you were on the board of a nonprofit that received a donation of Yahoo! stock and the board looked to you for guidance, correct?

A Yes, correct.

Q And -- but during your 13 years at Highland, you never had formal responsibility for making investment decisions, correct?

A That is correct.

Q Yeah. In fact, other than investment opportunities that you personally presented where you served as a co-decider, you never had any responsibility or authority to make investment decisions on behalf of HCMLP or any of its affiliated entities, correct?

A That is correct.

Q And at least during your deposition, you couldn't identify a single opportunity where you actually had the authority and did authorize the execution of a transaction on behalf of HCMLP or any of its affiliates, correct?

A Correct.

Q And yet today you are now solely responsible for making all investment decisions with respect to a $200 million charitable fund, correct?

A Yes, but I get some help. I've engaged an outside third party called ValueScope, and they have been as -- effectively working as a "gatekeeper" for me, and I look to them for investment guidance and advice, and I informally look to Mr.

Dondero since the time period of when I took control on March 24th for any questions I may have with respect to the portfolio. So I don't feel like I'm all by myself in making decisions.

Q Okay. I didn't mean to suggest that you were, sir, and I apologize if you took it that way. I was just asking the question, you are the person now solely responsible for making the investment decisions, correct?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Let's talk about the circumstances that led to the filing of the complaint for a bit. On April 12, 2021, you caused the Plaintiffs to commence an action against HCMLP and two other entities, correct?

A Correct.

Q Okay. One of the binders -- you've got a couple of binders in front of you. If you look at the bottom, one of them says Volume 1 of 2, Exhibits 1 through 18. And if you could grab that one and turn to Exhibit 12. Do you have that, sir?

A It says -- it says the original complaint. Is that the right one?

Q That is the right one. And just as I said when we were doing this virtually last Friday, if I ask you a question about a particular document, you should always feel free to review as much of the document as you think you need to competently and fully answer the question. Okay?

A Okay. Thank you.
Q All right. You instructed the Sbaiti firm to file that complaint on behalf of the Plaintiffs, correct?
A Correct.
Q And to the best of your recollection, the Plaintiffs returned -- retained the Sbaiti firm in April, correct?
A Correct.
Q So the Sbaiti firm was retained no more than twelve days before the complaint was filed, correct?
A Correct.
Q You personally retained the Sbaiti firm, correct?
A Correct.
Q And the idea of filing this complaint originated with the Sbaiti firm, correct?
A Correct.
Q Before filing -- withdrawn. Before becoming the Plaintiffs' authorized representative, you hadn't had any communications with anyone about potential claims that might be brought against the Debtor arising out of the HarbourVest settlement, correct?
A That is correct.
Q Now, after you became the Plaintiffs' authorized representative, Mr. Dondero communicated with the Sbaiti firm about the complaint that's marked as Exhibit 12, correct?

A Yes. After he brought certain information to myself and then that I engaged the Sbaiti firm to launch an investigation, I also wanted Mr. Dondero to work with the Sbaiti firm with respect to their investigation of the underlying facts.

Q Okay. Mr. Dondero did not discuss the complaint with you, but he did communicate with the Sbaiti firm about the complaint, correct?

A I believe -- yeah. I heard you slip in at the end "the complaint." I know he communicated with the Sbaiti firm. I can't -- I can't say what he said or didn't say with respect to the -- the actual complaint.

Q Okay. But Mr. Dondero got involved in the process initially when he brought some information to your attention concerning the HarbourVest transaction, correct?

A Correct.

Q And he came to you with the HarbourVest information after you assumed your role as the authorized representative of the Plaintiffs on March 24th, correct?

A That is correct.

Q At the time he came to you, you did not have any specific knowledge about the HarbourVest transaction, correct?

A I did not have specific knowledge with respect to the allegations that were laid out and the facts with respect to the original complaint. I think I had just had a general awareness that there was a HarbourVest something or other, but the specific aspects of it, I was unaware.

Q Okay. And you had no reason to believe that Mr. Seery had done anything wrong with respect to the HarbourVest transaction at the time you became the Plaintiffs' authorized representative, correct?

A That is correct.

Q But you recall very specifically that some time after March 24th Mr. Dondero told you that an investment opportunity was essentially usurped or taken away, to the Plaintiffs' harm and for the benefit of HCMLP, correct?

A That is correct.

Q And after Mr. Dondero brought this information to your attention, you hired the Sbaiti firm to launch an investigation into the facts, correct?

A Correct.

Q You had never worked with the Sbaiti firm before, correct?

A That is correct.

Q And you had hired many firms as a tax counselor at HCMLP, but not the Sbaiti firm until now. Correct?

A That is correct.

Q You got to the Sbaiti firm through a recommendation from D.C. Sauter, correct?

A Correct.

Q Mr. Sauter is the in-house counsel, the in-house general counsel at NexPoint Advisors, correct?

A Correct.
Q You didn't ask Mr. Sauter for a recommendation for a lawyer; he just volunteered that you should use the Sbaiti firm. Correct?
A That is correct.
Q And you never used -- considered using another firm, did you?
A When they were presented to me, they appeared to have all the sufficient skills necessary to undertake this action, and so I don't recall interviewing any other firms.
Q Okay. Now, after bringing the matter to your action, Mr. Dondero communicated directly with the Sbaiti firm in relation to the investigation that was being undertaken. Correct?
A That is correct.
Q But you weren't privy to the communications between Mr. Dondero and the Sbaiti firm, correct?
A I did not participate in those conversations as the -- what I, again, considered Mr. Dondero as the investment advisor to the portfolio, and he was very versant in the assets. I wanted him to participate in the investigation that the Sbaiti firm was undertaking prior to the filing of this complaint.
Q Let's talk for a minute about the notion of Mr. Dondero being the investment advisor. Until recently, the entity known as the DAF had an investment advisory committee with HC -- an investment advisory agreement with HCMLP. Correct?

A It's my understanding that the investment advisory agreement existed with the Plaintiffs, CLO Holdco, as well as Charitable DAF Fund, LP, up and to the end of February, throughout the HarbourVest transaction.

Q Okay. And since February, the Plaintiffs do not have an investment advisory agreement with anybody, correct?

A That is correct.

Q Okay. So Mr. Dondero, if he serves as an investment advisor, it's on an informal basis. Is that fair?

A After I took control, he serves as an informal investment advisor.

Q Okay. So there's no contract that you're aware of between either of the Plaintiffs and Mr. Dondero pursuant to which he is authorized to act as the investment advisor for the Plaintiffs, correct?

A That is correct.

Q Okay. When you communicated with Grant Scott -- withdrawn. You know who Grant Scott is, right?

A Yes, I do.

Q He's the gentleman who preceded you as the authorized representative of the Plaintiffs, correct?

A Yes.

Q Okay. You communicated with Mr. Scott from time to time during February and March 2021, correct?

A February and March are the dates? Yes.

Q Yeah. And from February 1st until March 21st -- well, withdrawn. Prior to March 24th, 2021, Mr. Scott was the Plaintiffs' authorized representative, correct?

A Correct.

Q And you have no recollection of discussing with Mr. Scott at any time prior to March 24th any aspect of the HarbourVest settlement with Mr. Scott. Correct?

A Correct.

Q And you have no recollection of discussing whether the Plaintiffs had potential claims that might be brought against the Debtor. Correct? Withdrawn. Let me ask a better question.

You have no recollection of discussing with Mr. Scott at any time prior to March 24th whether the Plaintiffs had potential claims against the Debtor. Correct?

A That is correct.

Q You and Mr. Scott never discussed whether either of -- either of the Plaintiffs had potential claims against Mr. Seery. Correct?

A Correct.

Q Okay. At the time that you became their authorized representative, you had no knowledge that the Plaintiffs would be filing a complaint against the Debtors relating to the HarbourVest settlement less than three weeks later, correct?

A That is correct.
Q Okay. Now, if you look at Page 2 of the complaint, you'll see at the top it refers to Mr. Seery as a potential party. Do you see that?
A Yes, I do.
Q Okay. You don't know why Mr. Seery was named -- withdrawn. You don't know why Mr. Seery was not named as a defendant in the complaint, correct?
A No, I -- that's correct. I do not know why he was not named. That's in the purview of the Sbaiti firm.
Q Okay. And the Sbaiti firm also made the decision to name Mr. Seery on Page 2 there as a potential party when drafting the complaint, correct?
A That's what the document says.
Q And you weren't involved in the decision to identify Mr. Seery as a potential party, correct?
A That is correct. Again, I rely on the law firm to decide what parties to bring a suit to -- against.
Q Okay. Okay. Do you recall the other day we talked about a document called the July order?
A Yes.
Q Okay. That's in -- that's in Tab 16 in your binder, if you can turn to that. And take a moment to look at it, if you'd like. And my first question is simply whether this is the July order, as you understand it.

(Pause.)

A Yes, it is. I was just looking for the gatekeeper provision. It looks like it's Paragraph 5. So, --

Q Okay. Thank you for that. About a week after the complaint was filed, you authorized the Plaintiffs to file a motion in the District Court for leave to amend the Plaintiffs' complaint to add Mr. Seery as a defendant. Correct?

A I authorized the filing of a motion in Federal District Court that would ask the Federal District Court whether or not Jim Seery could be named in the original complaint with respect to the gatekeeper provision cited in that motion and with respect to the arguments that were made in that motion.

Q Okay. Just to be clear, if you turn to Exhibit 17, the next tab, --

A I'm here.

Q -- do you see that document is called Plaintiffs' Motion for Leave to File First Amended Complaint?

A Yes.

Q And that's the document that you authorized the Plaintiffs to file on or about April 19th, correct?

A Correct.

Q Okay. And can we refer to that document as the motion to amend?

A Yes.
Q Okay. You were aware of the July order at Tab 16 before you authorized the filing of the motion to amend. Correct?
A Yes, because it's cited in the motion itself.
Q Okay. And at the time that you authorized the filing of the motion to amend, you understood that the July order was still in effect. Correct?
A Yes, because it was referenced in the motion, so my assumption would be it would still be in effect.
Q Okay. Before the motion to amend was filed, you're -- you are aware that my firm and the Sbaiti firm communicated by email about the propriety of filing the motion to amend?
A Before it was filed? Communications between your firm and the Sbaiti firm? I would have to have my recollection refreshed.
Q I'll just ask the question a different way. Did you know before you authorized the filing of the motion to amend that my firm and the Sbaiti firm had engaged in an email exchange about the propriety of filing the motion to amend in the District Court?
A It's my recollection -- and again, I could be wrong here -- but I thought the email exchange occurred after the fact, not before. But again, I -- I just -- Q Okay. In any event, on April 19th, the motion to amend was filed. Correct?

A Correct.
Q That's the document that is Exhibit 17. And you personally authorized the Sbaiti firm to file the motion to amend on behalf of the Plaintiffs, correct?
A Correct.
Q And you authorized the filing of the motion to amend with knowledge -- withdrawn.
Can you read the first sentence of the motion to amend out loud, please?
A Yeah. (reading) Plaintiffs submit this motion under Rule 15 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure for one purpose: to name as defendant one James P. Seery, Jr., the CEO of defendant Highland Capital Management, LP (HCM) and the chief perpetrator of the wrongdoing that forms the basis of the Plaintiffs' causes of action.
Q And does that fairly state the purpose of the motion?
MR. SBAITI: Objection, Your Honor. Asks him to make a legal conclusion about the purpose of the legal motion filed in court that he didn't draft.
THE COURT: Okay. I overrule. You can answer if you have an answer.
THE WITNESS: It's always been my general understanding that the purpose of filing this motion was to go to the Federal District Court and ask that Court of reference to this Court whether or not Mr. Seery could be named with respect to the original complaint, citing again the gatekeeper provisions and citing the various arguments that we've heard much earlier.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Okay. You personally didn't learn anything between April 9th, when the complaint was filed, and April 19th, when the motion to amend was filed, that caused you to authorize the filing of the motion to amend, correct?

A That is correct.

Q In fact, you relied on the Sbaiti firm with respect to decisions concerning the timing of the motion to amend. Correct?

A Correct.

Q And you had no knowledge of whether anyone acting on behalf of the Plaintiffs ever served the Debtor with a copy of the motion to amend. Correct?

A Yes. I have no knowledge.

Q Okay. And you have no knowledge that the Sbaiti firm ever provided my firm with a copy of the motion to amend. Correct?

A I cannot recall one way or another.

Q Okay. You never instructed anyone on behalf -- acting on behalf of the Plaintiffs to inform the Debtor that the motion to amend had been filed, correct?

A That is correct.

Q And that's because you relied on the Sbaiti firm on procedural issues, correct?

A That is correct.
Q You didn't consider waiting until the Debtor --
(Interruption.)
Q -- had appeared in the action before authorizing the filing of the motion --
A Yeah, --
THE COURT: Yes. Y'all are being a little bit loud. Okay.
A VOICE: Sorry.
MR. MORRIS: No problem.
MR. PHILLIPS: I've heard that before, Your Honor, and I apologize.
THE COURT: I bet you have. Thank you.
MR. MORRIS: Admonish Mr. Phillips, please.
THE COURT: Okay.
MR. MORRIS: He's always the wild card.
MR. PHILLIPS: I admonish --
MR. MORRIS: He's always the wild card.
MR. PHILLIPS: I admonish myself.
THE COURT: All right. I think he got the message. Continue.
BY MR. MORRIS:
Q You didn't consider waiting until the Debtor had appeared in the action before filing the motion to amend, correct?

A Again, I am the client and I rely upon the law firm that's engaged with respect to making legal decisions as to the timing and notice and appearance and what have you. I'm a tax lawyer.

Q Okay. You wanted the District Court to grant the relief that the Plaintiffs were seeking. Correct?

A I wanted the District Court to consider, under the gatekeeper provisions of this Court, whether or not Mr. Seery could be named in the original complaint. That's -- that, from my perspective, is what was desired.

Q All right. You wanted the District Court to grant the relief that the Plaintiffs were seeking, correct?

MR. SBAITI: Objection, Your Honor. Asked and answered.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: Again, I would characterize this motion as not necessarily asking for specific relief, but asking the Federal District Court whether or not, under the gatekeeper provision, that Mr. Seery could be named on there. What happens after that would be a second step. So I kind of -- I dispute that characterization.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q All right. I'm going to cross my fingers and hope that Ms. Canty is on the line, and I would ask her to put up Page 57 from Mr. Patrick's deposition transcript.

THE COURT: There it is.

MR. MORRIS: There it is. It's like magic. Can we go down to Lines 18 through 20?

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Mr. Patrick, during the deposition on Friday, did I ask you this question and did you give me this answer? Question, "Did you want the Court to grant the relief you were seeking?" Answer, "Yes."

A I -- and it was qualified with respect to Lines 12 through 17. In my view, when I answered yes, I was simply restating what I stated in Line 12. I wanted the District Court to consider this motion as to whether or not Mr. Seery could be named in the original complaint or the amended complaint pursuant to the existing gatekeeper rules and the arguments that were made in that motion. That's -- that's what I wanted. And so then when I was asked, did you want the Court to grant the relief that you were seeking, when I answered yes, it was from that perspective.

Q Okay. Thank you very much. If the District Court had granted the relief that you were seeking, you would have authorized the Sbaiti firm to file the amended complaint naming Mr. Seery as a defendant if the Sbaiti firm recommended that you do so. Correct?

A If the Sbaiti firm recommended that I do so. That is correct.

Q Okay. Let's talk for a little bit about the line of succession for the DAF and CLO Holdco. Can we please go to Exhibit 25, which is in the other binder? It's in the other binder, sir.

(Pause.)

Q I guess you could look on the screen or you can look in the binder, whatever's easier for you.

A Yeah. I prefer the screen. I prefer the screen.

Q Okay.

A It's much easier.

Q All right. We've got it in both spots. But do you have Exhibit 25 in front of you, sir?

A Yes, I do.

Q All right. Do you know what it is?

A This is the organizational chart depicting a variety of charitable entities as well as entities that are commonly referred to the DAF. However, when I look at this chart, I do not look at and see just boxes, what I see is the humanitarian effort that these boxes represent.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, may I interrupt?

THE COURT: You may.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q I appreciate that, and when your lawyers get up to ask you questions, I bet they'll want to know just what you were about to tell me. But I just want to understand what this chart is. This chart is the DAF, CLO Holdco, structure chart. Correct?

A Correct.

Q Okay. And you were personally involved in creating this organizational structure, correct?

A I -- yes.

Q Okay. And from time to time, the Charitable DAF Holdco Limited distributes cash to the foundations that are above it. Correct?

A Correct.

Q All right. I want to talk a little bit more specifically about how this happens. The source of the cash distributed by Charitable DAF Holdco Limited is CLO Holdco, Ltd., that entity, the Cayman Islands entity near the bottom. Correct?

MR. ANDERSON: Your Honor, I have an objection. Completely irrelevant. I'm objecting on relevance grounds. This has nothing to do with the contempt proceeding. We've already gone over that he authorized the filing of the complaint, that he authorized the filing of the motion to amend. It's all in the record. This is completely irrelevant at this point.

THE COURT: Okay. Relevance objection. Your response?

MR. MORRIS: I believe that it's relevant to the Debtor's motion to hold Mr. Dondero in contempt for pursuing claims against Mr. Seery, in violation of the July 7 order. I think an understanding of what the Plaintiffs are, how they're funded, and Mr. Dondero's interest in pursuing claims on behalf of those entities is relevant to the -- to the -- just -- it's just against him. It's not against their clients, frankly. It's just against Mr. Dondero.

THE COURT: I overrule.

MR. MORRIS: I'll try and -- I'll try and make this quick, though.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q CLO Holdco had two primary sources of capital. Is that right?

A Two primary sources of capital?

Q Let me ask it differently. There was a Charitable Remainder Trust that was going to expire in 2011, correct?

A That is correct.

Q And that Charitable Remainder Trust had certain CLO equity assets, correct?

A Correct.

Q And the donor to that Charitable Remainder Trust was Highland Capital Management, LP. Correct?

A Not correct. After my deposition, I refreshed my memory. There were two Charitable Remainder Trusts that existed, which I think in my mind caused a little bit of confusion. The Charitable Remainder Trust No. 2, which is the one that expired in 2011, was originally funded by Mr. Dondero.

Q Okay. So, so the Charitable Remainder Trust that we were talking about on Friday wasn't seeded with capital from Highland Capital Management, it came from Mr. Dondero personally?
A That is correct.
Q Okay. Thank you. And the other primary source of capital was the Dallas Foundation, the entity that's in the upper left-hand corner of the chart. Is that correct?
A No.
Q The -- you didn't tell me that the other day?
A You said -- you're pointing to the Dallas Foundation. That's a 501(c)(3) organization.
Q I apologize. Did you tell me the other day that the Dallas Foundation was the second source of capital for HCLO Hold Company?
A No, I did not. You --
(Pause.)
Q Maybe I know the source of the confusion. Is the Highland Dallas Foundation something different?
A Yes. On this organizational chart, you'll see that it has an indication, it's a supporting organization.
Q Ah, okay. So, so let me restate the question, then. The second primary source of capital for CLO Holdco, Ltd. is the Highland Dallas Foundation. Do I have that right?

A Yes.
Q Okay. And the sources of that entity's capital were grantor trusts and possibly Mr. Dondero personally. Correct?
A In addition -- per my refreshing my recollection from our deposition, the other Charitable Remainder Trust, I believe Charitable Remainder Trust No. 1, which expired later, also sent a donation, if you will, or assets to -- and I cannot recall specifically whether it was just the Highland Dallas Foundation or the other supporting organizations that you see on this chart.
Q But the source of that -- the source of the assets that became the second Charitable Remainder Trust was Highland Capital Management, LP. Is that right?
A I think that is accurate from my recollection. And again, I'm talking about Charitable Remainder Trust No. 1.
Q Okay. So is it fair to say -- I'm just going to try and summarize, if I can. Is it fair to say that CLO Holdco, Ltd. is the investment arm of the organizational structure on this page?
A Yes.
Q And is it fair to say that nearly all of the assets that are in there derived from either Mr. Dondero, one of his trusts, or Highland Capital Management, LP?
A Yes. It's like the Bill Gates Foundation or the Rockefeller Foundation. These come from the folks that make their donations and put their name on it.

Q Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Now, now, Your Honor, I'm going to go back just for a few minutes to how Mr. Scott got appointed, because I think that lays kind of the groundwork for his replacement. It won't take long.

THE COURT: Okay. I have a question either --

MR. MORRIS: Sure.

THE COURT: -- for you or the witness. I'm sorry, but --

MR. MORRIS: Sure. Yeah.

THE COURT: -- the organizational chart, it's not meant to show everything that might be connected to this substructure, right? Because doesn't CLO Holdco, Ltd. own 49.02 percent of HCLOF, --

MR. MORRIS: That --

THE COURT: -- which gets us into the whole HarbourVest transaction issue?

MR. MORRIS: You're exactly right, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: But that's just an investment that HCLO Holdco made.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. MORRIS: Right? And so I -- let me ask the witness, actually.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Thank you.

MR. MORRIS: Let me ask the witness. Yeah.

THE COURT: I just want my brain --

MR. MORRIS: Right.

THE COURT: -- to be complete on this chart.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Mr. Patrick, there are three entities under CLO Holdco, Ltd. Do you see that?

A Yes.

Q And does CLO Holdco, Ltd. own one hundred percent of the interests in each of those three entities?

A Yes.

Q Do you know why those three entities are depicted on this particular chart? Is it because they're wholly-owned subsidiaries?

A Correct.

Q Okay. And CLO Holdco, Ltd. has interests in other companies. Isn't that right?

A It has other investments. That is correct.

Q And the reason that they're not depicted on here is because they're not wholly-owned subsidiaries, they're just investments; is that fair?

A That is fair.

MR. MORRIS: Does that--?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q So, so let's go back to Mr. Grant for a moment. Mr. Scott, rather. Mr. Dondero was actually the original general partner. If you look at this chart, while it's still up here, you see on the left there's Charitable DAF GP, LLC?

A Yes.

Q And the Charitable DAF GP, LLC is the general partner of the Charitable DAF Fund, LP. Correct?

A Correct.

Q And on this chart, Grant Scott was the managing member of Charitable DAF GP, LLC. Right?

A Correct.

Q Okay. But Mr. Dondero was the original general partner of that entity, correct?

A That is correct. But I do want to point out, I just note that the GP interest is indicating a one percent interest and the 99 interest to Charitable DAF Holdco. I believe that's incorrect. It's a hundred percent by Charitable DAF Holdco, Ltd., and the Charitable DAF GP interest is a noneconomic interest. So that should actually reflect a zero percent to the extent it may indicate some sort of profits or otherwise.

Q Okay. Thank you for the clarification. Can you turn to Exhibit 26, please, in your binder? And is it your understanding that that is the amended and restated LLC agreement for the DAF GP, LLC?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And this was amended and restated effective as of January 1st, 2012, correct?

A Yes.

Q And if you go to the last page, you'll see there are signatures for Mr. Scott and Mr. Dondero, correct?

A Yes.

Q And Mr. Dondero is identified as the forming -- former managing member and Mr. Scott is identified as the new managing member. Correct?

A Correct. That's what the document says.

Q And it's your understanding that Mr. Dondero had the authority to select his successor. Correct?

A Correct.

Q In fact, it's based on your understanding of documents and your recollection that Mr. Dondero personally selected Mr. Scott as the person he was going to transfer control to, correct?

A Upon advice of Highland Capital Management's tax compliance officer, Mr. Tom Surgent.

Q What advice did Mr. Surgent give?

A He gave advice that, because Mr. Dondero -- and this is what I came to an understanding after the fact of this transaction, because I was not a part of it -- that by Mr. Dondero holding that GP interest, that it would be -- the Plaintiffs, if you will, would be an affiliate entity for regulatory purposes, and so he advised that if he -- if Mr. Dondero transferred his GP interest to Mr. Scott, it would no longer be an affiliate, is my recollection.

Q Okay. You didn't appoint Mr. Scott, did you?

A No.

Q That was Mr. Dondero. Is that right?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Let's go to 2021. Let's come back to the current time. Sometime in February, Mr. Scott called you to ask about the mechanics of how he could resign. Correct?

A That is correct.

Q But the decision to have you replace Mr. Scott was not made until March 24th, the day you sent an email to Mr. Scott with the transfer documents. Correct?

A That is correct.

Q And it's your understanding that he could have transferred the management shares and control of the DAF to anyone in the world. Correct?

A Correct.

Q That's what the docu... that he had the authority under the documentation, as you understood it, to freely trade or transfer the management shares. Correct?

A Wait. Now, let's be precise here.
Q Okay.
A Are you talking about the GP interests or the management shares held by Charitable DAF Holdco, Ltd.?
Q Let's start with the management shares. Can you explain to the Court what the management shares are?
MR. ANDERSON: Your Honor? Hang on one second. Your Honor, I want to object again on relevance. We're going way beyond the scope of the contempt issue, whether or not --
MR. MORRIS: This is about control.
MR. ANDERSON: -- the motion to amend somehow violated the prior order of this Court. Getting into the management structure, transfer of shares, that's way outside the bounds. I object on relevance.
THE COURT: Okay. Relevance objection?
MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, they have probably 30 documents, maybe 20 documents, on their exhibit list that relate to management and control. I'm asking questions about management and control. Okay? This is important, again, to (a) establish his authority, but (b) the circumstances under which he came to be the purported control person.
THE COURT: Okay. Overruled. Go ahead.
THE WITNESS: It might be helpful to look at the organizational chart, but if not -- but I'll describe it to you again. With respect to the entity called --

MR. MORRIS: Hold on one second. Can we put up the organizational chart again, Ms. Canty, if you can? There you go.

THE WITNESS: Okay. So with respect to the Charitable DAF Holdco, Ltd., it is my understanding that Mr. Scott, he organized that entity when he was the independent director of the Charitable Remainder Trust, and he caused the issuance of the management shares to be issued to himself. And then those are, again, noneconomic shares, but they are control shares over that entity.

And I think, to answer your question, is -- it -- he alone decides who he can transfer those shares to.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Do I have this right, that whoever holds the noneconomic management shares has the sole authority to appoint the representatives for each of the Charitable DAF entities and CLO Holdco? It's kind of a magic ticket, if you will?

A It -- I think there's a -- the answer really is no from a legal standpoint, because Charitable DAF Holdco is a limited partner in Charitable DAF Fund, LP, so it does not have authority -- authority under all -- the respective entities underneath that. It could cause a redemption, if you will, of Charitable DAF Fund. And so, really, the authority -- the trickle-down authority that you're referencing is with respect to his holding of the Charitable DAF GP, LLC interest. It's a member-managed Delaware limited liability company. And from that, he -- that authority kind of trickles down to where he can appoint directorships.

Q All right. I think I want to just follow up on that a bit. Which entity is the issuer of the manager shares, the management shares?

A Yeah, the -- per the organizational chart, it is accurate, it's the Charitable DAF Holdco, Ltd. which issued the management shares to Mr. Scott.

Q Okay. And that's why you have the arrow from Mr. Scott into that entity?

A Correct.

Q And do those -- does the holder of the management shares have the authority to control the Charitable DAF Holdco, Ltd.?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And as the control person for the Charitable DAF Holdco, Ltd., they own a hundred -- withdrawn. Charitable DAF Holdco Limited owns a hundred percent of the limited partnership interests of the Charitable DAF Fund, LP. Correct?

A Correct.

Q And so does the holder of that hundred percent limited partnership interest have the authority to decide who acts on behalf of the Charitable DAF Fund, LP?

A I would say no. I mean, you know, just -- I would love to read the partnership agreement again. But I, conceptually, what I know with partnerships, I would say the limited partner would not. It would be through the Charitable DAF GP, LLC interest.

Q The one on the left, the general partner?

A The general partner.

Q I see. So when Mr. Scott transferred to you the one hundred percent of the management shares as well as the title of the managing member of the Charitable DAF GP, LLC, did those two events give you the authority to control the entities below it?

A Yes.

Q Thank you. And so prior to the time that he transferred those interests to you, is it your understanding that Mr. Scott had the unilateral right to transfer those interests to anybody in the world?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And you have that right today, don't you?

A Yes, I do.

Q If you wanted, you could transfer it to me, right?

A Yes, I could.

Q Okay. But of all the people in the world, Mr. Scott decided to transfer the management shares and the managing member title of the DAF GP to you, correct?

A Restate that question again?

Q Of all the people in the world, Mr. Scott decided to transfer it to you, correct?
A Yeah. Mr. Scott transferred those interests to me.
Q Okay. And you accepted them, right?
A Yes.
Q You're not getting paid anything for taking on this responsibility, correct?
A I am not paid by any of the entities depicted on this chart.
Q And Mr. Scott used to get $5,000 a month, didn't he?
A I believe that's what he testified to.
Q Yeah. But you don't get anything, right?
A Correct.
Q In fact, you get the exact same salary and compensation from Skyview that you had before you became the authorized representative of the DAF entities and CLO Holdco. Correct?
A Correct.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. Your Honor, if I may just take a moment, I may be done.

THE COURT: Okay.

(Pause.)

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I have no further questions.

THE COURT: All right. Pass the witness. Any examination of the witness?

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. ANDERSON:

Q Mr. Patrick, I just had a few follow-up questions. When you authorized the filing of the lawsuit against Highland Capital Management, LP, Highland HCF Advisor Limited, and Highland CLO Funding, Limited, when that lawsuit was filed in April of this year, was Mr. Seery included as a defendant?

A No.

Q Have the two Plaintiffs in that lawsuit, have they commenced any lawsuit against Mr. Seery?

A No.

Q Have they pursued any lawsuit against Mr. Seery?

A No.

Q Have they pursued a claim or cause of action against Mr. Seery?

A No.

Q At most, did the Plaintiffs file a motion for leave to add Mr. Seery as a defendant?

MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. To the extent that any of these questions are legal conclusions, I object. He's using the word pursue. If he's trying -- if he's then going to argue that, But the witness testified that he didn't pursue and that's somehow a finding of fact, I object.

THE COURT: Okay. I understand.

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

THE COURT: But I overrule. He can answer.

MR. MORRIS: That's fine.

THE WITNESS: Can you restate the question again?

BY MR. ANDERSON:

Q Sure. On behalf of the Plaintiffs -- well, strike that. Did the Plaintiffs pursue a claim or cause of action against Mr. Seery?

A No.

Q At most, did the Plaintiffs file a motion for leave to file an amended complaint regarding Mr. Seery?

A Yes. But, again, I viewed the motion as simply asking the Federal District Court whether Mr. Seery could or could not be named in a complaint, and then the next step might be how the Federal District Court might rule with respect to that.

Q And we have -- it's Tab 17 in the binders in front of you. That is Plaintiffs' motion for leave. If you could turn to that, please.

A Yes. I've got it open.

Q Is the Court's July order, the Bankruptcy Court's July order, is it mentioned on the first page and then throughout the motion for leave to amend?

A Yes, it is. I see it quoted verbatim on Page 2 under Background.

Q Was the Court's order hidden at all from the District Court?

A The document speaks for itself. It's very transparent.

Q Was there any effort whatsoever to hide the prior order of the Bankruptcy Court?
A No.
MR. ANDERSON: Pass the witness.
THE COURT: Okay. Other examination?
MR. SBAITI: Yes, Your Honor. Just a couple of questions.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. SBAITI:
Q Do you mind flipping to Exhibit 25, which I believe is the org chart, the one that you were looking at before?
A Okay.
Q It'll still be in --
A Okay. Yeah.
Q -- the defense binder. No reason to swap out right now.
A I've got the right binders. Some of them are repeatable exhibits, so --
Q Yeah.
A -- I have to grab the right binder. Yes.
Q As this org chart would sit today, is the only difference that Grant Scott's name would instead be Mark Patrick?
A Yes.
Q Was there ever a period of time where Jim Dondero's name would sit instead of Grant Scott's name prior?
A Yes, originally, when this -- yes.

Q So did Mr. Dondero both have the control shares of the GP, LLC and DAF Holdco Limited?
A No, I believe not. I believe he only held the Charitable DAF GP interest and that Mr. Scott at all times held the Charitable DAF Holdco, LTD interest, until he decided to transfer it to me.
Q Can you just tell us how Mr. Scott came to hold the control shares of the Charitable DAF Holdco, LTD?
A When he was the independent trustee of the Charitable Remainder Trust, he caused that -- the creation of that entity, and that's how he became in receipt of those management shares.
Q And does the Charitable DAF GP, LLC have any control over Charitable DAF Fund, LP's actions or activities?
A Yes, it does.
Q What kind of control is that?
A I would describe complete control. It's the managing member of that entity and can -- and effectively owns, you know, the hundred percent interest in the respective subsidiaries, and so the control follows down.
Q And when did Mr. Scott replace Mr. Dondero as the GP -- managing member of the GP?
A Well, I think as the -- and Mr. Morris had shown me with respect to that transfer occurring on March 2012.
Q So nine years ago?

A Yes.
Q Does Mr. Dondero today exercise any control over the activities of the DAF Charitable -- the Charitable DAF, GP or the Charitable DAF Holdco, LTD?
A No.
Q Is he a board member of sorts for either of those entities?
A No.
Q Is he a board members of CLO Holdco?
A No.
Q Does he have any decision-making authority at CLO Holdco?
A None.
Q The decision to authorize the lawsuit and the decision to authorize the motion that you've been asked about, who made that authorization?
A I did.
Q Did you have to ask for anyone's permission?
A No.

MR. SBAITI: No more questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Any -- I guess Mr. Taylor, no. All right. Any redirect?

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:
Q Since becoming the authorized representative of the Plaintiffs, have you ever made a decision on behalf of those entities that Mr. Dondero disagreed with?

A I have made decisions that were adverse to Mr. Dondero's financial -- financial decision. I mean, financial interests. Whether he disagreed with them or not, I don't -- he has not communicated them to me. But they have been adverse, at least two very strong instances.

Q Have you ever -- have you ever talked to him about making a decision that would be adverse to his interests? Did he tell -- did --

A I didn't -- I don't -- I did not discuss with him prior to making the decisions that I made that were adverse to his economic interests.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. No further questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Any further examination? Recross on that redirect?

MR. ANDERSON: No further questions.

MR. SBAITI: No further questions, Your Honor.

MR. ANDERSON: Sorry.

THE COURT: Nothing?

MR. ANDERSON: I think we're good.

THE COURT: Okay. I have one question, Mr. Patrick. My brain sometimes goes in weird directions.

EXAMINATION BY THE COURT

THE COURT: I'm just curious. What are these Cayman Island entities, charitable organizations formed in the Cayman Islands?

THE WITNESS: Yeah. I'll keep it as simple as I can, even though I'm a tax lawyer, so I won't get into the tax rules, but the Cayman structure is modeled after what you typically see in the investment management industry, and so I -- and I won't reference specific entities here with respect to the Highland case, but I think you'll note some similarities, if you think about it. They're -- it's described as an offshore master fund structure where you have a -- and that would be the Charitable DAF Fund that's organized offshore, usually in the Cayman or Bermuda Islands, where the general partner, typically, in the industry, holds the management --

THE COURT: Yeah. Let --

THE WITNESS: Okay.

THE COURT: -- me just stop you. I've seen this enough --

THE WITNESS: Yeah, it's

THE COURT: -- to know that it happens in the investment world. But in --

THE WITNESS: Yeah.

THE COURT: You know, usually, I see 501(c)(3), you know, domestically-created entities for charitable purposes, so I'm just curious.

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

THE WITNESS: The offshore master fund structure typically will have two different types of -- they call it foreign feeder funds. One foreign feeder fund is meant to accommodate foreign investors; the other foreign feeder fund is meant to accommodate U.S. tax-exempt investors.

Why, why is it structured that way? In order to avoid something called -- I was trying not to be wonkish -- UBTI. That's, let's see, Un -- Unrelated Trader Business Income. I probably have that slightly wrong. But it's essentially, it's a means to avoid active business income, which includes debt finance income, which is what these CLOs tend to be, that would throw off income that would be taxable normally if the exempts did not go through this foreign blocker, and it converts that UBTI income -- it's called (inaudible) income -- into passive income that flows -- that flows up to the charities.

And so it's very typical that you'll have a U.S. tax-exempt investor, when they make an investment in a fund, prefer to go through an offshore feeder fund, which is actually Charitable DAF Holdco, LTD. That's essentially what, from a tax perspective, represents as a UBTI blocker entity. And then you have the offshore investments being held offshore because there's a variety of safe harbors where the receipt of interest, the portfolio interest exception, is not taxable.

The creation of capital gains or losses under the -- they call it the trading, 864(b) trading safe harbor, is not taxable. So that's why you'll find these structures operating offshore to rely on those safe harbor provisions as well as -- as well as what I indicated with respect to the two type blocker entities. It's very typical and industry practice to organize these way. And so when this was set --

THE COURT: It's very typical in the charitable world to --

THE WITNESS: In the investment management --

THE COURT: -- form this way?

THE WITNESS: In the investment management world, when you have charitable entities that are taking some exposure to assets that are levered, to set this structure up in this way. It was modeled after -- they just call them offshore master fund structures. They're known as Mickey Mouse structures, where you'll have U.S. investors --

THE COURT: Yes. I -- yes, I --

THE WITNESS: -- enter through a U.S. partnership, and the foreign investors enter through a blocker.

THE COURT: It was really just the charitable aspect of this that I was --

THE WITNESS: Yeah. Yeah.

THE COURT: -- getting at.

THE WITNESS: Yeah. No, but I'm just trying to emphasize if --

THE COURT: All right. It's --

THE WITNESS: Yeah.

THE COURT: -- neither here nor there. All right.

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, may I ask a slightly clarifying leading question on that, because I think I understand what he was trying to say, just for the record?

THE COURT: Well, --

MR. MORRIS: I object.

THE COURT: -- I tell you what. Anyone who wants to ask one follow-up question on the judge's question can do so. Okay? You can go first.

MR. SBAITI: I'll approach, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. SBAITI:

Q Would it be a fair summary of what you were saying a minute ago that the reason the bottom end of that structure is offshore is so that it doesn't get taxed before the money reaches the charities on the U.S. side?

A Tax -- it converts the nature of the income that is being thrown off by the investments so that it becomes a tax friendly income to the tax-exempt entity. Passive income. That's --

Q So, essentially, --

THE COURT: Okay. Okay.

MR. SBAITI: -- so it doesn't get taxed before it hits the --

THE COURT: I said one question.

MR. SBAITI: Sorry, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. He answered it.

MR. PHILLIPS: And I have one question, Your Honor

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. PHILLIPS: I don't know if I need to ask this question, but I'd rather not ask you if I need to ask it.

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MR. PHILLIPS: But if I do, you know, I could --

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MR. PHILLIPS: Well, okay.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. PHILLIPS:

Q We've talked about the offshore structure. Are the foundations in the top two tiers of the organizational chart offshore entities?

A No.

Q They're --

A They're onshore entities. They're tax-exempt entities.

Q Thank you.

A The investments are offshore.

Q Thank you.

THE COURT: Mr. Morris? One question.

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Do you hold yourself out as an expert on the organizational structures in the Caribbean for charitable organizations?

A I hold myself out as a tax professional versant on setting up offshore master fund structures. It's sort of a bread-and-butter thing. But there are plenty of people that can testify that this is very typical.

Q Uh-huh. Okay.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

All right. You are excused, Mr. Patrick. I suppose you'll want to stay around. I don't know if you'll potentially be recalled today.

(The witness steps down.)

THE COURT: All right. We should take a lunch break. I'm going to put this out for a democratic vote. Forty-five minutes? Is that good with everyone?

MR. SBAITI: Do we have to leave the building to eat, Your Honor, or is there food in the building?

THE COURT: I think --

MR. SBAITI: I'm sorry to ask that question, but --

THE COURT: Yes. You know what, there used to be a very bad cafeteria, but I think it closed. Right, Mike? So, you know, --

MR. SBAITI: Sorry I asked that.

A VOICE: Hate to miss that one.

THE COURT: Is 45 minutes not enough since you have to go off campus? I'll give you an hour. It just means we stay later tonight.

A VOICE: Can we just say 2:00 o'clock?

MR. SBAITI: That's fine with us, Your Honor.

THE COURT: 2:00 o'clock. That's 50 minutes. See you then.

MR. SBAITI: Thank you.

A VOICE: Your Honor, can we just get a time check?

THE COURT: Okay.

THE CLERK: Yeah. The Debtors are at an hour and eleven minutes. Respondents at an hour nineteen.

THE COURT: And hour and eleven and an hour and nineteen.

A VOICE: Wait, that's not right.

A VOICE: That can't be right.

A VOICE: Two hours? We started at --

THE COURT: Okay. So, again, their side, the collective Respondents?

THE CLERK: An hour and eleven, responding to your questions, --

A VOICE: Yeah, he's not recording --

THE CLERK: So an hour and eleven and an hour and nineteen.

THE COURT: But they were already over an hour --

A VOICE: Yeah. It's been over three hours.

THE COURT: -- with opening statements.

THE CLERK: An hour and twelve. Yes. They were very short with the questioning. It was only like --

THE COURT: Okay. We'll double-check that over the break with the court reporter.

A VOICE: All right. Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: We'll double-check and let you know.

THE COURT: All rise.

(A luncheon recess ensued from 1:09 p.m. until 2:03 p.m.)

THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. We're going back on the record in Highland after our lunch break. I'm going to confirm time. We've had the Debtor an aggregate of an hour and eleven minutes. The Respondents, an aggregate of an hour and twenty minutes. Okay? So we've gone two hours and thirty-one minutes.

If it seems like we've been going longer, it's because we did not do the clock on the opening matters regarding removal, extension of time. And then when I interjected with questions, we stopped the clock. All right? So let's go.

You may call your next witness, Mr. Morris.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor. The Debtor calls

James Dondero.

THE COURT: All right.

A VOICE: He had to step down the hall. We had a little trouble getting through security. Let me --

THE COURT: All right. Mr. Dondero, you've been called as the next witness. So if you'll approach our witness stand, please. All right. Please raise your right hand.

(The witness is sworn.)

THE COURT: All right. Please be seated.

JAMES D. DONDERO, DEBTOR'S WITNESS, SWORN

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Good afternoon, Mr. Dondero.

A Good afternoon.

Q Can you hear me?

A Yes.

Q Okay. So, you were here this morning, correct?

A Yes.

Q All right. So, we're going to put up -- we'll put it up on the screen, but if you'd prefer to look at a hard copy in the binder that's marked Volume 1 of -- 2 of 2, I'd ask you to turn to Exhibit 25. Or you could just follow on the screen. And this is a one-page document, so maybe that's easier.

A Sure.

Q Do you have it? All right.

A Yes.
Q This is the organizational chart for what's known as the DAF, correct?
A Yes.
Q And Mark Patrick set up this structure, correct?
A I believe he coordinated. I believe it was set up by third-party law firms. I believe it was Hutton or a firm like that.
Q Mr. Patrick participated in the creation of this structure because you gave him the task of setting up a charitable entity for Highland at that time, correct?
A Yes.
Q And you approved of this organizational structure, correct?
A Yes.
Q And Grant Scott was the Trustee of the DAF for a number of years, correct?
A I often use that word, trustee, but technically I think it's managing member.
Q That's right. I appreciate that. I was using your word from the deposition. But is it fair to say that, to the best of your knowledge, Grant Scott was the sole authorized representative of the entity known as the DAF from 2011 until just recently?
A Sole -- I would describe it more he was in a trustee function.

Q Uh-huh.
A Advice was being provided by Highland on the investment side. He wasn't expected to be a financial or an investment expert. And then accounting, tax, portfolio, tracking, you know, compliance with all the offshore formation documents, that was all done by Highland as part of a shared services agreement.
Q Okay. I appreciate that, but listen carefully to my question. All I asked you was whether he was the authorized representative, the sole authorized representative for the ten-year period from 2011 until recently.
A Yes.
Q Okay.
A I believe so.
Q Thank you. You served as the managing member of the DAF GP, LLC before Mr. Scott, correct?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And if you turn to Exhibit 26 in your binder, that's the amended and restated limited liability company agreement for the DAF GP, LLC, correct?
A Yes.
Q And on the last page, that's your signature line, right?
A Yes.
Q And you stepped down as the managing member on March 12,

2012, and were replaced by Mr. Scott, correct?

A Yes.

Q And as you recall it, Mr. Scott came to be appointed the trustee of the DAF based on your recommendation, right?

A Based on my recommendation? Yes, I would say that's fair.

Q And you made that recommendation to Mr. Patrick, right?

A I -- I don't remember who I made the recommendation to. But I would echo the testimony of Mark Patrick earlier that the purpose of stepping down was to make the DAF unaffiliated or independent versus being in any way affiliated.

MR. MORRIS: I move to strike.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q And I'd ask you to listen carefully to my question.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q You made the recommendation to Mr. Patrick, correct?

A I would give the same answer again.

Q Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Can we please put up Mr. Dondero's deposition transcript from last Friday at Page 297?

I believe, Your Honor, that the court reporter thought that this was a continuation of a prior deposition, and that's why the pages begin in the, you know, high in the 200s and not at Page 1. Just to avoid any confusion.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Mr. Dondero, do you see the transcript in front of you?
A Yes.
Q Okay. Were you asked this question and did you give this answer? "Who did you make the" -- question, "Who did you make the recommendation to?" Answer, "It would have been Mark Patrick."
A I don't recall right now as I sit here, and it seems like I was speculating when I answered, but it -- it probably would have been Mark Patrick. I just don't have a specific recollection.
Q You made the recommendation to Mr. Patrick because he was responsible for setting up the overall structure, correct?
A I -- I can't testify to why I did something I don't remember. I think that would be -- Q Can we --
A -- speculative.
Q Are you finished, sir?
A Yeah.
Q Okay.
MR. MORRIS: Can we go to Page 299, please?
BY MR. MORRIS:
Q Lines 6 through 10. Did I ask this question and did you give me this answer? Question, "But why did you select Mr. Patrick as the person to whom to make your recommendation?" Answer, "Because he was responsible for setting up the overall structure."

Were you asked that question and did you give that answer last Friday?

A Yes.

Q Thank you. But it's your testimony that you don't really know what process led to Mr. Scott's appointment, correct?

A No, I -- I said I was refreshed by Mark Patrick's testimony earlier.

Q Yeah. Were you refreshed that, in fact, you specifically had the authority to and did appoint Grant Scott as the managing member of the DAF GP, LLC?

A I -- I don't know.

Q Well, you're referring to Mr. Patrick's testimony and I'm asking you a very specific question. Did you agree -- is your memory refreshed now that you're the person who put Grant Scott in the position in the DAF?

A I -- I don't know if I owned those secret shares that -- well, they're not secret, but shares that could appoint anybody on the planet. I guess if I was in that box at that time before Grant, then I would have had that ability. I'm not denying at all that I recommended Grant. I'm just saying I don't -- I don't remember if I went specifically to him or if it was Thomas Surgent that was orchestrating it at the time. I don't remember.

Q Do you deny that you had the authority to and that you did appoint Grant Scott as your successor?

MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, objection to the extent it calls for a legal conclusion. I can't get close to a mic, so --

THE COURT: I overrule the objection.

THE WITNESS: Can you repeat the question for me?

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Do you deny that you had the authority to and that you did, in fact, appoint Grant Scott as your successor?

A It'd be better to say I don't -- I don't -- no, I don't remember or I didn't know the details at the time. But, again, I -- I assume I owned those shares. And, again, I do remember recommending Grant and -- but exactly how it happened, I don't remember.

Q Did you hear Mark Patrick say just an hour ago that you appointed Grant Scott as your successor?

MR. SBAITI: Objection, Your Honor. Misstates testimony. The witness testified he transferred shares. That's different than an appointment power.

THE COURT: Response? I can't remember the exact way you worded it, to be honest.

MR. MORRIS: Neither can I, but I'll even take it that way.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I think he's wrong, but I'll even take it that way.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Mr. Dondero, did you listen to Mark Patrick say that you are the person who made the decision to transfer the shares to Mr. Scott in 2012?

A Yes, I heard him say that.

Q Okay. So, do you -- do you dispute that testimony?

A I -- I don't have any better knowledge to dispute or confirm.

Q You and Mr. Scott have known each other since high school, correct?

A Yes.

Q You spent a couple of years at UVA together, correct?

A Yes.

Q You were housemates together, correct?

A Yes.

Q He was the best man at your wedding, correct?

A Yes.

Q He's a patent lawyer, correct?

A Yes.

Q He had no expertise in finance when -- when he was appointed as your successor to the DAF, correct?

A Correct.

Q To the best of your knowledge, at the time Mr. Scott assumed his position, he had never made any decisions concerning collateralized loan obligations, correct?

A Correct, but he wasn't hired for that. That wasn't his position.

Q Was he the person who was going to make the decisions with respect to the DAF's investments?

A My understanding on how it was structured was the DAF was paying a significant investment advisory fee to Highland. Highland was doing portfolio construction and the investment selection of -- or the investment recommendations for the portfolio. There is an independent trustee protocol that I believe was adhered to, but it was never my direct involvement. It was always the portfolio managers or the traders.

You have to provide three similar or at least two other alternatives, and then with a rationale for each of them, but a rationale for why you think one in particular is better. And the trustee looks at the three, evaluates them. And the way I understand it always worked, that it works at pretty much every charitable trust or trust that I'm aware of, they generally, if not always, pick alongside the -- or, pick the recommendation of their highly-paid investment advisory firm.

Q And are you the highly-paid investment advisory firm?

A Highland was at the time, yes.

Q And you controlled Highland, right?

A Yes.
Q Okay. But at the end of the day, is it your understanding that Mr. Scott had the exclusive responsibility for making actual decisions on behalf of the charitable trust that you had created?
A Yeah, I mean, subject to the protocol I just described.
Q Yeah, okay, so let's keep going. Mr. Scott had no experience or expertise running charitable organizations at the time you decided to transfer the shares to him, correct?
A Yes, I believe that's correct.
Q Okay. You didn't recommend Mr. Scott to serve as the DAF's investment advisor, did you?
A No.
Q And until early 2021, as you testified, I believe, already, HCMLP served as the DAF's investment advisor, correct?
A Yes.
Q And until early 2021, all of the DAF's day-to-day operations were conducted by HCMLP pursuant to a shared services agreement, correct?
A Yes.
Q And from the time the DAF was formed until January 9, 2020, you controlled HCMLP, correct?
A Yes.
Q You can't think of one investment decision that HCMLP recommended that Mr. Scott ever rejected in the ten-year period, correct?

MR. SBAITI: Objection, Your Honor. Lacks foundation.

THE COURT: Response?

MR. MORRIS: I'm not quite sure what to say, Your Honor. The witness has already testified that HCMLP was the investment advisor, made recommendations to Mr. Scott, and that Mr. Scott was the one who had to make the investment decisions at the end of the day.

MR. SBAITI: He's not here as a witness for HCMLP. He's here in his personal capacity. There's no foundation he'd have personal knowledge of which specific investments were proposed, which ones were rejected or accepted. He said it was done by the portfolio manager.

THE COURT: Okay. I overrule. He can answer if he has an answer.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Sir, you can't think of one investment decision that HCMLP ever recommended to Mr. Scott that he rejected, correct?

A I can't think of one, but I would caveat with I wouldn't have expected there to be any.

Q So you expected him to just do exactly what HCMLP recommended, correct?

A No. I would expect him to sort through the various investments when he was given three or four to choose from and be able to discern that, just as we had with our expertise, which was much greater than his, discern which one was the best and most suitable investment, the best risk-adjusted investment, that he would come to the same conclusion.

Q Okay. You can't think of an investment that Mr. Scott ever made on behalf of the DAF that didn't originate with HCMLP, correct?

A Again, no, but I wouldn't expect there to be.

Q Okay. And that's because you expected all of the investments to originate with the company that you were controlling, correct?

A We were the hired investment advisor with fiduciary responsibility --

Q Uh-huh.

A -- and with a vested interest in making sure the DAF performance was the best it could be.

Q Okay. Let --

A He was, as you said, a patent attorney. It would have been unusual for him to second-guess. I'm sure, in any private investment or any investment that was one off or didn't have comps, you know, he probably sought third-party valuations. But you would have to talk to him about that, or the people at Highland that did that.

MR. MORRIS: I move to strike. It's a very simple question.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Sir, you can't think of one investment that Mr. Scott made on behalf of the DAF that did not originate with HCMLP, correct?

A I'm going to give the same answer.

Q Okay. Let's go to Page 371 of the transcript, please. Lines 7 through 11.

Oh, I apologize. I think I might -- I think I meant 317. I think I got that inverted. Yeah.

Did I ask this question and did you give this answer: "Can you think of any investment that Mr. Scott made on behalf of the DAF that didn't original with HCMLP?" Answer, "He wasn't the investment advisor, but no, I don't -- I don't recall."

Is that the answer you gave on Friday?

A Yes.

Q Thank you. Let's --

MR. SBAITI: Just for clarification, Your Honor, --

THE COURT: Pardon?

MR. SBAITI: -- the deposition was last Tuesday, not on Friday.

MR. MORRIS: I stand corrected, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I apologize.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I apologize if the Court thinks I misled it.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Let's talk about Mr. Scott's decision during the bankruptcy case that preceded his resignation. After HCMLP filed for bankruptcy, CLO Holdco, Ltd. filed a proof of claim, correct?

MR. ANDERSON: Your Honor, I haven't objected yet, but we literally haven't covered anything that deals with commencing or pursuing a claim or cause of action. I'm going to object. This is way outside, again, the bounds of the contempt hearing. It's -- otherwise, it's other discovery for something else. It literally has nothing to do with pursue a claim or cause of action.

THE COURT: We have another relevance objection. Your response?

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, the evidence is going to show that Mr. Dondero told Mr. Scott on three separate occasions that his conduct, which were acts of independence, were inappropriate and were not in the best interests of the DAF. Within days of the third strike, he resigned. Okay?

I think it's relevant to Mr. Dondero's control of the DAF. I think that the moment that Mr. -- this is the argument I'm going to make. I'll make it right now. You want me to make it now, I'll make it now. The moment that Mr. Scott exercised independence, Mr. Dondero was all over him, and Mr. Scott left. That's what happened. The evidence is going to be crystal clear.

And I think that that control of the DAF is exactly what led to this lawsuit. And what led -- and I'm allowed to make my argument. So that's why it's relevant, Your Honor, because I think it shows that Mr. Scott -- Mr. Scott, after exercising independence, was forced out.

MR. ANDERSON: That doesn't move the needle one bit as to whether a lawsuit was commenced or a claim or cause of action was pursued, which is the subject of the contempt motion. It doesn't move the needle one bit as to those two issues, as to whether that has any bearing on was it commenced or was it pursued.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I appreciate the very narrow focus that counsel for a different party is trying to put on this, but it is absolutely relevant to the question of whether Mr. Dondero was involved in the pursuit of these claims. All right? That's what the order says. Pursue.

THE COURT: All right. Overruled.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q After HCMLP filed for bankruptcy, CLO Holdco filed a proof of claim, correct?

A I believe so.
Q And in the fall of 2020, Mr. Scott amended the proof of claim to effectively reduce it to zero, correct?
A I -- I guess.
Q And Mr. Scott made that decision without discussing it with you in advance, correct?
A Yes.
Q But you did discuss it with him after you learned of that decision, correct?
A I don't -- I don't recall. I'm willing to be refreshed, but I don't remember.
Q Well, you told him specifically that he had given up bona fide claims against the Debtor, correct?
A Let me state or clarify my testimony this way. Um, --
MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, it's really just a yes or no question. His counsel can ask him if he wants to clarify, but it's really just a yes or no question.
BY MR. MORRIS:
Q You told Mr. Scott that he gave up bona fide claims against the Debtor, correct?
THE COURT: Okay.
THE WITNESS: I don't know if I told him then with regard to those claims.
BY MR. MORRIS:
Q Okay. Can we go to Page 321 of the transcript? At the bottom, Line 21? 22, I apologize.

Did I ask this question and did you give this answer? "And what do you" -- Question, "And what do you recall about your discussion with Mr. Scott afterwards?" Answer, "That he had given up bona fide claims against the Debtor and I didn't understand why."

Did I ask that question and did you give that answer last Tuesday?

A Yes.

Q Okay. A short time later, in December, the Debtor filed notice of their intention to enter into a settlement with HarbourVest, correct?

A Yes.

Q And CLO Holdco, under Mr. Scott's direction, filed an objection to that settlement, correct?

A Yes.

Q And that settlement, the substance of that settlement was that the Debtor did not have the right to receive HarbourVest's interests in HCLOF at the time, correct?

A I don't remember the exact substance of it.

Q Okay. But you do remember that you learned that Mr. Scott caused CLO Holdco to withdraw the objection, correct?

A Yes, ultimately.

Q Okay. And again, Mr. Scott did not give you advance notice that he was going to withdraw the HarbourVest objection, correct?

A No, he -- he did it an hour before the hearing. He didn't give anybody notice.
Q You learned that Mr. Scott caused CLO Holdco to withdraw its objection to the HarbourVest settlement at the hearing, correct?
A Yes.
Q And you were surprised by that, weren't you?
A I believe everybody was.
Q You were sur... you were surprised by that, weren't you, sir?
A Yes.
Q And you were surprised by that because you believed Mr. Scott's decision was inappropriate, right?
A Partly inappropriate, and partly because 8:00 o'clock the night before he confirmed that he was going forward with the objection. And I think the DAF's objection was scheduled to be first, I think.
Q After you learned that Mr. Scott instructed his attorneys to withdraw the CLO Holdco objection to the HarbourVest settlement, you again spoke with Mr. Scott, correct?
A Yes.
Q And that conversation took place the day of the hearing or shortly thereafter, correct?
A Yes.

Q And during that conversation, you told Mr. Scott that it was inappropriate to withdraw the objection, correct?
A Yes.
Q And in response, Mr. Scott told you that he followed the advice of his lawyers, correct?
A Yes.
Q But that didn't -- that explanation didn't make sense to you, right?
A Yes.
Q In fact, you believed that Mr. Scott failed to act in the best interests of the DAF and CLO Holdco by withdrawing its objection to the HarbourVest settlement, correct?
A Yes.
Q And while you didn't specifically use the words fiduciary duty, you reminded Mr. Scott in your communications with him that he needed to do what was in the best interests of the DAF, correct?
A Yes.
Q You're the founder of the DAF, correct?
A I put it -- I put it in motion. Yeah. I tasked Mark Patrick and third-party law firms to do it, but if that boils down to founder, I guess yes.
Q Uh-huh. And you're the primary donor to the DAF, correct?
A Yes.
Q You're the investment advisor to the DAF, or at least you were at that time?

A Yes.

Q And because you served in these roles, you expected Mr. Scott to discuss his decision to withdraw the HarbourVest objection in advance, correct?

A Yes, I -- I think it was even broader than that. I mean, he was having health and anxiety issues, and to the extent he felt overwhelmed, I -- you know, yeah, you should do what's in the best interests at all times, but -- but yes, I thought it would be helpful if he conferred with me or Mark Patrick or whoever he was comfortable with.

Q Mr. Dondero, you specifically believed that Mr. Scott's failure to tell you that he was going to withdraw the HarbourVest objection in advance was inappropriate, right?

A Yes.

Q Even though he was the sole authorized representative, you believed that, because you were the founder of the DAF, the primary donor of the DAF, and the investment advisor to the DAF, he should have discussed that before he actually made the decision, correct?

A No. What I'm saying is at 8:00 o'clock at night, when he confirms to numerous people he's ready to go first thing with his objection, and then he or counsel or some combination of them change their mind and don't tell anybody before the hearing, that's odd and inappropriate behavior.

MR. MORRIS: Can we go to Page 330 of the transcript, please?

And Your Honor, before I read the testimony, there is an objection there. So I'd like you to rule --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: -- before I do that. It can be found at -- on Page 330 at Line 21.

(Pause.)

MR. MORRIS: Here we go. Page 30, beginning at Line 19. 330, rather.

THE COURT: Okay.

(Pause.)

THE COURT: Okay. I overrule that objection.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Mr. Dondero, were you asked this question and did you give this answer last Tuesday? Question, "Do you believe that he had an obligation to inform you in advance?" Answer, "I don't know if I would use the word obligation, but, again, as the founder or the primary donor and continued donor to the DAF, and as the investment advisor fighting for above-average returns on a daily basis for the fund, significant decisions that affect the finances of the fund would be something I would expect typically a trustee to discuss with the primary donor."

Did you give that answer the other day, sir?

A Yes.
Q If Mr. Patrick decides tomorrow to withdraw the lawsuit that's in District Court, does he have an the obligation to tell you in advance?
A Again, I wouldn't use the word obligation. But something that I think ultimately is going to be a $20 or $30 million, if not more, benefit to the DAF, to the detriment of Highland, if you were to give that up, I would expect him to have a rationale and I would expect him to get other people's thoughts and opinions before he did that.
Q Okay. But does he have to get your opinion before he acts?
A No, he does not.
Q Okay. So he -- Mr. Patrick could do that tomorrow, he could settle the case, and if he doesn't come to you to discuss it in advance, you won't be critical of him, right?
A He doesn't have the obligation, but there's -- there's a reasonableness in alignment of interests. I -- a growing entrepreneur sets up a trust, a lot of times they'll put their wife in charge of it, and she hires investment advisers and whatever, but they've got the best interests at mind for the charity or the children or whatever.

You know, people who go rogue and move in their own self-interest or panic, that stuff can happen all the time. It doesn't make it appropriate, though.

Q A couple of weeks after Mr. Scott withdraw the objection to the HarbourVest settlement, he entered into a settlement agreement with the Debtor pursuant to which he settled the dispute between the Debtor and CLO Holdco, correct?
A Yes.
Q Okay. You didn't get advance notice of that third decision, correct?
A No.
Q Can we go to Page -- Exhibit 32 in your binder? And this is the settlement agreement between CLO Holdco and the Debtor, correct? Attached as the exhibit. I apologize.
A Yes.
Q And do you understand that that's Mr. Scott's signature on the last page?
A Yep.
Q And you learned about this settlement only after it had been reached, correct?
A Yep.
Q And you believed Mr. Scott's decision not to pursue certain claims against the Debtor or to remove HCMLP as the manager of the CLOs was not in the best interests of the DAF, correct?
A Correct.
Q And you let Mr. Scott know that, correct?
A Yes.

Q After learning about the settlement agreement on January 26th, you had one or two conversations with Mr. Scott on this topic, correct?
A Yes.
Q And your message to Mr. Scott was that the compromise or settlement wasn't in the DAF's best interest, correct?
A It was horrible for the DAF.
Q Uh-huh. And you told him that, right?
A Yes.
Q Okay. From your perspective, any time a trustee doesn't do what you believe is in the trust's best interest, you leave yourself open to getting sued, correct?
A Who is "you" in that question?
Q You. Mr. Dondero.
A Can you repeat the question, then, please?
Q Sure. From your perspective, any time you're a trustee and you don't believe that the trustee is doing what's in the best interests of the fund, the trustee leaves himself open to getting sued, correct?
A I don't know who the trustee leaves himself open to, but as soon as you go down a path of self-interest or panic, you -- you potentially create a bad situation. But I don't know who holds who liable.
Q Did you believe that Mr. Scott was acting out of self-interest or panic when he decided to settle the dispute with the Debtor on behalf of CLO Holdco?

A Yes.

Q Did you tell him that?

A He told me that.

Q He told you that he was acting out of panic or desperation? With self-int... withdrawn. Withdrawn. Did he tell you that he was acting out of self-interest?

A He was having health problems, anxiety problems, and he didn't want to deal with the conflict. He didn't want to testify. He didn't want to come to court. He didn't want to do those things. And I told him I didn't think the settlement was going to get him out of that stuff. I think, you know, it got him out of some issues, but I think you guys are going to go after him for other stuff. But he -- he panicked.

MR. MORRIS: I move to strike the latter remark.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Shortly after you had the conversation with Mr. Scott, he sent you notice of his intent to resign from his positions at the DAF and CLO Holdco, correct?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Let's take a look at that, please. Exhibit 29. This is Mr. Scott's notice of resignation, correct?

A Yes.

Q He sent it only to you, correct?

A Yes.
Q A couple of days before he sent this, he told you he was considering resigning; isn't that right?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And he told you he was considering resigning because he was suffering from health and anxiety issues regarding the confrontation and the challenges of administering the DAF given the bankruptcy, correct?
A Yes.
Q He didn't tell you that he made the decision -- withdrawn. Did you tell him in this same conversation -- withdrawn. Is this the same conversation where you conveyed the message that the compromise or settlement wasn't in the best interests of the DAF?
A You mean the conversation -- or the resignation? Is that -- can you rephrase the question, please?
Q Yeah, I apologize. It's my fault, sir. You testified that after the January 26th hearing you had a conversation with Mr. Scott where you told him that the compromise or settlement was not in the best interests of the DAF, correct?
A Yes.
Q Okay. Did Mr. Scott share with you his concerns about anxiety and health issues in that same conversation, or was it in a subsequent conversation?
A It was at or around that time. I -- I don't remember which conversation.

Q Okay.

A But it was right at or around that time.

Q All right. You never asked Mr. Scott to reconsider, did you?

A No.

Q You don't recall sending this notice of resignation to anyone, do you?

A No.

Q You don't remember notifying anyone that you'd received notice of Mr. Scott's intent to resign from the DAF, do you?

A It was -- yeah, no, I -- I don't remember. It was a busy time around that time and this was a secondary issue.

Q Okay. So the fact that the person who has been running the DAF for a decade gives you and only you notice of his intent to resign was a secondary issue in your mind?

A Yes, because when I talked to him at about that time, I said, okay, well, it's going to take a while. I don't even know how the mechanism works. But don't do anything adverse to the DAF, don't do anything else until, you know, you've figured out transition.

Q Uh-huh.

A And so once he had confirmed he wouldn't do anything outside normal course until he transitioned, I didn't worry about this. I had bigger issues to worry about at the time.

Q In the third paragraph of his email to you, he wrote that his resignation will not be effective until he approves of the indemnification provisions and obtains any and all necessary releases. Do you see that?
A Yes.
Q And that was the condition that on January 31st Mr. Scott placed on the effectiveness of his resignation, correct?
A Condition? Yeah, I -- I think he's trying to state the timing will happen after that.
Q After he gets the release, right?
A Yes.
Q And he wanted the release because you'd told him three different times that he wasn't acting in the best of the DAF, correct?
MR. TAYLOR: Objection, Your Honor.
MR. SBAITI: Objection. Calls for --
MR. TAYLOR: Objection. Calls for speculation.
THE WITNESS: Yeah, I --
THE COURT: Sustained.
THE WITNESS: I can't take that jump. Yeah.
BY MR. MORRIS:
Q In response to this email from your lifelong friend, you responded, if we could scroll up, about whether divest was a synonym -- if we can look at the first one -- whether divest is a synonym for resigned. Do I have that right?

A (no immediate response)
Q If you will look at your response on Monday morning at 9:50.
A Yes.
Q Okay. And then after Mr. Scott responds, you respond further, if we can scroll up, and you specifically told him, "You need to tell me ASAP that you have no intent to divest assets." Correct?
A Yes.
Q And you wrote that because you believed some of his behavior was unpredictable, right?
A I think I wrote that because the term divest in investment terms means sale or liquidate, but I guess it had a different legal term in the way he was looking at it. I wasn't aware at that time of the shares that could be bequeathed to anybody, and I think the divest refers to that, but I wasn't aware that that's how the structure worked at that time, and I was worried that divest could be the investment term and I -- it wouldn't have been appropriate for him to liquidate the portfolio.
Q So, and you wanted to make sure he wasn't liquidating or intending to liquidate any of the CLOs, correct?
A Correct.
Q Okay. So he's still the authorized, the sole authorized representative, but you wanted to make sure that he didn't do anything that you thought was inappropriate. Fair?

A It's because I had talked to him before this and he said he wasn't going to do anything outside normal course, and then the word divest scared me, but I didn't realize it was a legal term in this parlance here.
Q And so after he explained, you still wanted to make sure that he wasn't divesting any assets, correct?
A Yes.
Q Okay. Since February 1st, you've exchanged exactly one text messages with Mr. Scott; is that right?
A I think there've been several, several text messages. But one on his birthday.
Q Yeah. And you haven't spoken to him in months, correct?
A In a couple months, yes.
Q All right. Let's talk about the replacement of Mr. Scott. With -- with Mr. Scott's notice, someone needed to find a replacement, correct?
A Yes.
Q And the replacement was going to be responsible for managing a charitable organization with approximately $200 million of assets, most of which was seeded directly or indirectly through you, correct?
A Yes.
Q And the replacement was going to get his and her -- his or her investment advice from you and NexPoint Advisors; do I have that right?

A That was the plan.
Q Okay. Ultimately, Mr. Patrick replaced Mr. Scott, correct?
A Yes.
Q But it's your testimony that you had no knowledge that Mr. Patrick was going to replace Mr. Scott until after it happened on March 24, 2021. Correct?
A That's correct. I believe it happened suddenly.
Q So, for nearly two months after you had received notice of Mr. Scott's intent to resign, you were uninvolved in the process of selecting his replacement, correct?
A I was uninvolved. I'd say the process was dormant for an extended period of time until Mark Patrick came on board, and then Mark Patrick ran the process of interviewing multiple potential candidates.
Q Mark Patrick didn't have any authority prior to March 24th, correct?
A Is March 24th the date that he transitioned the shares to himself from Grant Scott?
Q Yep.
A That's when he then became the trustee of the DAF, yes.
Q Do you know -- do you know who was instructing Mr. Patrick on who to interview or how to carry the process out?
A He was doing that on his own with, I think, recommendations from third-party tax firms.

Q So Mr. Patrick was trying to find a successor to Mr. Scott, even though he had no authority to do that, and you were completely uninvolved in the whole process? Do I have that right?

A I was uninvolved, yes. He was trying to facilitate it for the benefit of his friendship with Grant Scott and knowing that it -- it -- with his resignation, it had to transition to somebody. And he enjoys working on the DAF, he enjoys the charitable stuff in the community, and he was the most appropriate person to work on helping Grant transition.

MR. MORRIS: All right. I move to strike, Your Honor. It's hearsay.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q You're aware that Mr. Seery was appointed the Debtor's CEO and CRO last summer, correct?

A Yes.

Q And you're aware that Mr. Seery's appointment was approved by the Bankruptcy Court, correct?

A Yes.

Q And you were aware of that at the time it happened, correct?

A Yes.

Q And even before that, in January of 2020, you consented to a settlement where you gave up control of the Debtor. Correct?

A To the independent board for a consensual Chapter 11 restructuring that would leave Highland intact.

Q And do you understand that the gatekeeper provision in the July order is exactly like the one that you agreed to in January except that it applies to Mr. Seery instead of the independent directors?

A I -- I learned a lot about that today, but I don't think it's appropriate to move what applied to the board to the CEO of a registered investment advisor.

Q Okay. I'm just asking you, sir. Listen carefully to my question. Were you aware in January 2020 that you agreed to a gatekeeper provision on behalf of the independent board?

A Generally, but not specifically.

Q Okay.

A Not -- not like what we've been going over today.

Q Okay. And you knew that Mr. Seery had applied to be appointed CEO subject to the Court's approval, correct?

A Wasn't it backdated to March? I -- I think the hearing was in June, but it was backdated for -- for money and other purposes, right? I -- that's my recollection. I don't remember otherwise.

Q You do remember that Mr. Seery got -- he got -- his appointment got approved by the Court, right?

A Yes. But, as far as the dates are concerned, I thought it was either in March or retroactive to March. Maybe it was June or July.

Q And you --

A But I don't remember.

Q Did you have your lawyers review the motion that was filed on behalf of the Debtor?

A I'm -- I assume they do their job. I -- if they didn't, I don't know.

Q Okay. That's what you hired them to do; is that fair?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Can we go to Exhibit 12, please? I think it's in Binder 1. You've seen this document before, correct?

A Yes.

Q In fact, you saw versions of this complaint before it was filed, correct?

A Yes, I saw one or two versions towards the end. I don't know if I saw the final version, but --

Q Sir, you participated in discussions with Mr. Sbaiti concerning the substance of this complaint before it was filed, correct?

A Some. I would just use the word some.

Q Okay. Can you describe for me all of your conversations with Mr. Sbaiti concerning the substance of this complaint?

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, I would object on the basis of work product privilege and attorney-client communications. He was an agent for my client, the DAF, at the time he was having these discussions with us, and our discussions with him were work product. So to the extent he can reveal the conversations without discussing the actual content, we would raise privilege objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Mr. Morris?

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, there is no privilege here. That's exactly why I asked Mr. Patrick the questions earlier today. Mr. Dondero is not party to any agreement with the DAF today. It's an informal agreement, perhaps, but there is no contractual relationship, there is no privity any longer between Mr. Dondero or any entity that owns and controls in the DAF, as far as I know. If they have evidence of it, I'm happy to listen, but that -- that's exactly why I asked those questions of Mr. Patrick earlier today.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. SBAITI: Your --

THE COURT: That was the testimony. There's an informal arrangement, at best.

MR. SBAITI: Well, Your Honor, I would suggest that that doesn't necessarily mean that he isn't an agent of the DAF. It doesn't have to be a formal agreement for him to be an agent of the DAF.

Everyone's agreed he was an advisor. Everyone's agreed he was helping out. That is an agency relationship. It doesn't have to be written down. It doesn't have to be a formal investment advisory relationship. He's still an agent of the DAF. He was requested to do something and agreed to do it under the expectation that all of us had that those would be privileged, Your Honor. That is -- that is sufficient -- that is sufficient, I would argue, to get us where we need to be. The privilege should apply, Your Honor, and they don't have a basis for, I would say, invading the privilege, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, do you have any authority? Because it just sounds wrong. He's not an employee of your client. He doesn't have any contractual arrangement with your client.

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, I would dispute the idea that he has no contractual arrangement with my client. The question was asked, do you have a -- do you have a written agreement, and then the question was, so you don't have a contract, and the answer was no, I don't have a contract, building upon that first -- that first question. But the testimony as he just recounted is that there is an agreement that he would advise Mr. Patrick and he would advise the DAF.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. SBAITI: That's -- that's a contract.

THE COURT: Okay. My question was, do you have any legal authority? That's what I meant when I said authority. Any legal authority to support the privilege applying in this kind of --

MR. SBAITI: In an informal arrangement, Your Honor? I don't have one at my fingertips at the moment, Your Honor, but I don't know that that should be a reason to invade the privilege.

And I would just add, Your Honor, I would just add, we've already -- because of the purpose of these questions, you've heard Mr. Morris state several times that the purpose is to show that Mr. -- that Mr. Dondero had some role in advising and participating in the creation of this complaint. That's been conceded by myself. I believe it was conceded by Mr. Dondero.

The actual specific facts, the actual specific conversations, Your Honor, shouldn't be relevant at this point and they shouldn't be admissible, given -- given the relevancy, given the perspective of the privilege.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: If I might --

THE COURT: I overrule your objection. I don't think a privilege has been shown here --

MR. SBAITI: And Your Honor, --

THE COURT: -- and I think it's relevant.

MR. SBAITI: -- I would ask if we could voir dire the witness on the basis of the privilege, if that's --

THE COURT: All right. You may do so.

VOIR DIRE EXAMINATION

BY MR. SBAITI:

Q Mr. Dondero, do you have a relationship with the DAF?

A Yes.

Q How would you describe that relationship?

A I view myself and my firm as the investment advisor. I was actually surprised by the testimony today that there wasn't a contract in place, but there should be one. There should be one soon, in my opinion.

Q Have you -- did you hear Mr. Patrick testify earlier that he comes to you for advice?

A Yes.

Q Is that --

A As he should. Yeah.

Q Is that true?

A Yes.

Q When you render that advice, do you render that advice with some expectation about him following or listening to that advice?

A Okay, I think there's only been one investment or one change in the DAF portfolio since Mark Patrick's been involved, only one, and it was a real estate investment that I wasn't directly involved in. And so the people who put that investment forward worked with Mark without my involvement, and then I think Mark got third-party appraisal firms and third-party valuation firms involved to make sure he was comfortable, which was a good process.

Q When you supplied information to Mr. Patrick, do you do so under the belief that there is a contractual, informal or formal, relationship?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

THE COURT: Overruled.

MR. SBAITI: What specific form?

THE COURT: Overruled.

MR. SBAITI: Thank you.

THE WITNESS: Yes. I believe it -- it's a relationship that can and should be papered as -- soon. That's my -- I mean, unless I get some reason from counsel not to, I think it's something that should be memorialized.

BY MR. SBAITI:

Q And when you have that -- in that relationship, when you communicate with Mr. Patrick about matters, investment or otherwise, is there an expectation of privacy?

A Yes.

Q When Mr. Patrick -- did Mr. Patrick request that you interface with my firm and myself, as he testified earlier?

A Yes.

Q And when he did so, did he ask you to do so in an investigatory manner?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

THE COURT: Sustained. Rephrase.

BY MR. SBAITI:

Q Did he tell you why he wanted you to talk to us?

A Yeah. At that point, he had started an investigation into the HarbourVest transaction.

Q And -- and when he -- when you were providing information to us, did he tell you whether he wanted you to help the Sbaiti firm conduct the investigation?

A The -- overall, the financial numbers and tables in there were prepared by not myself, but I -- I did -- I did help on -- on the -- some of the registered investment advisor issues as I understood them.

Q Okay. And the communications that you had with us, was that part of our investigation?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: Yes.

BY MR. SBAITI:

Q And did you understand that we had been retained by Mr. Patrick on behalf of the DAF and CLO Holdco?

A Yes.

Q And did you appreciate or have any understanding of whether or not you were helping the law firm perform its legal function on behalf of the DAF and CLO Holdco?

A Perform its legal function? I was just helping with regard to the registered investment advisor aspects of the overall, you know, like that.

Q Let me ask a more simple question. Did you -- did you appreciate that you were assisting a law firm in its representation of the DAF?

A Yes.

Q And you were helping the law -- and were you helping the law firm develop the facts for a complaint?

A Yes. I would almost say, more importantly, I wanted to make sure that there weren't errors in terms of understanding either how CLOs worked or how the Investment Advisers Act worked. So I was -- it was almost more of a proofing.

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, based upon that, I mean, he's helping a law firm perform its function for the client. That's an agency relationship that gets cloaked. You can call him a consulting expert. You can call him, to a certain extent, a fact witness, Your Honor. If we want to take a break, I'm sure we could find authority on that basis for a work product privilege pretty easily.

But he's an agent of the DAF. Even if it's an informal agency relationship, that's still agency. He's in some respects, I guess, an agent of the law firm, to the extent he's helping us perform our legal work. And it seems like invading that privilege at this juncture is (a) unnecessary, because we've already conceded that there's been conversations, which I think is the relationship they wanted to establish. And it's not unusual for a law firm to use someone with specialized knowledge to understand some of the intricacies of the actual issues that they're -- that they're getting ready to litigate.

THE COURT: Okay. I find no privilege. All right. That's the ruling.

MR. BRIDGES: Your Honor, may I add one thing to the objection for the record?

THE COURT: Okay, we have a rule, one lawyer per witness. Okay? So, thank you. A District Court rule, by the way, not mine.

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, may we take a short recess, given the Court's ruling?

THE COURT: Well, I'd really like to finish this witness. How much longer do you have?

MR. MORRIS: About eight more questions.

THE COURT: All right. We'll take a break after the direct, okay?

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, I would ask that we -- if he's going to ask him more questions about the content of the communications, I ask respectfully for a recess so we can figure out what to do about that. Because, right now, there's a ruling that he's going to have to reveal privileged information, and we don't have a way to go around and figure out how to resolve that issue if we needed to.

THE COURT: Okay. I've ruled it's not privilege. Okay?

MR. SBAITI: I understand that, Your Honor, but --

THE COURT: Your client is CLO Holdco and the DAF.

MR. SBAITI: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Representative, Mark Patrick. No contract with Mr. Dondero. The fact that he may be very involved I don't think gives rise to a privilege. That's my ruling.

MR. SBAITI: I understand, Your Honor. I understand, Your Honor, but I'm asking for a recess so that we can at least undertake to provide Your Honor with some case law on a reconsideration before we go there, because that bell can't be unrung.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, if I may?

MR. SBAITI: And it's --

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: I'm happy to give them ten minutes, Your Honor, as long as they don't talk to the witness.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I want to give them the opportunity. Go right ahead.

THE COURT: All right. We'll take a ten-minute break.

MR. SBAITI: Thank you.

THE COURT: It's 3:05.

THE CLERK: All rise.

(A recess ensued from 3:03 p.m. until 3:17 p.m.)

THE CLERK: All rise.

THE COURT: Okay. Please be seated. Going back on the record in Highland. Mr. Sbaiti?

MR. SBAITI: Yes, Your Honor. May I approach?

THE COURT: You may.

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, we have some authority to support the position we'd taken. We'd ask the Court to reconsider your ruling on the privilege.

The first bit of authority is Section 70 of the Restatement (Third) of Law Governing Lawyers. Privileged persons within the meaning of Section 68, which governs the privilege, says that those persons include either agents of either the lawyer or the client who facilitate communications between the two in order for the lawyers to perform their function.

Another case that we found is 232 F.R.D. 103 from the Southern District of New York, 2005. It's Express Imperial Bank of U.S. v. Asia Pulp Company. And in that case, Your Honor, the consultant was a -- had a close working relationship with the company and performed a similar role to that of the employee and was assisting the law firm in performing their functions, and the court there found that the work product privilege -- actually, the attorney-client privilege -- attached in what they called a Functional Equivalents Doctrine, Your Honor.

And here we have pretty much the same set of facts that's pretty much undisputed. The fact that there -- and the fact that there isn't a written agreement doesn't mean there isn't a contractual arrangement for him to have rendered services and advice. And the fact that he's, you know, recruited by us to help us perform our functions puts him in the realm, as I said, of something of a consulting expert.

Either way, the work product privilege, Your Honor, should apply, and we'd ask Your Honor not to invade that privilege at this point, Your Honor. And I'll ask you to reconsider your prior ruling.

Furthermore, I believe Mr. Morris, you know, in making his argument, is trying to create separation. The fact that he has no relationship, that the privilege can be invaded, seems to defeat the whole premise of his whole line of questioning.

So, once again, Your Honor, I just -- it's a tit for a tat there, and it seems to kind of eat itself. Either he is working with us, which we've admitted he is working with us, us being the law firm, and helping us do our jobs, or he's not. And if he's not, then this should be done.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, briefly?

THE COURT: Well, among other things, what do you want me to do? Take a break and read your one sentence from the Restatements and your one case? And could you not have anticipated this beforehand?

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, --

THE COURT: This is not the way we work in the bankruptcy courts, okay? We're business courts. We have thousands of cases. We expect briefing ahead of time.

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, this has been a rather rushed process anyway. And to be honest, --

THE COURT: When was the motion filed?

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, --

THE COURT: More than a month ago.

MR. SBAITI: -- his deposition was a week ago.

THE COURT: Well, okay. So you could not have anticipated this issue until his deposition one week ago?

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, this issue arose at the deposition, obviously, because that's what he's quoting from. However, at least to us, this is such a well-settled area, and to be honest, --

THE COURT: Such a well-settled area that you have one sentence from the Restatement and one case from the Southern District of New York?

MR. SBAITI: No, Your Honor. I think the work product privilege lexicon -- we had ten minutes to try to find something more on point than the general case law that applies the work product privilege to people that work with lawyers, consultants who work with lawyers, employees who work with lawyers, even low-down employees who normally wouldn't enjoy the privileges that attach to the corporation, when they work with the company for -- when they work with the company lawyers, it typically attaches.

THE COURT: You know, obviously, I know a few things about work product privilege, but he doesn't check any of the boxes you just listed out.

MR. SBAITI: I disagree, Your Honor.

THE COURT: He's not an employee. He's not a low-level employee.

MR. SBAITI: He's a consultant.

THE COURT: With no agreement.

MR. SBAITI: With a verbal agreement. He's an advisor. And he was recruited by us, and at the request of the DAF, of the head of the DAF, Mr. Patrick, to help us do our job for the DAF. I don't --

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Morris, what do you want to say?

MR. MORRIS: Just briefly, Your Honor. This issue has been ripe since last Tuesday. They directed him not to answer a whole host of questions about his involvement at the deposition last Tuesday, so they've actually had six days to deal with this. That's number one.

Number two, there's absolutely nothing inconsistent with the Debtor's position that Mr. Dondero is participating in the pursuit of claims and at the same time saying that his communications with the Sbaiti firm are not privileged. There's nothing inconsistent about that.

So the argument that he just made, that somehow because we're trying to create separation, that that's inconsistent with our overall arching theme that Mr. Dondero is precisely engaged in the pursuit of claims against Mr. Seery, I think that takes care of that argument.

Finally, your Honor, with respect to this consultancy arrangement, not only isn't there anything in writing, but either you or Mr. Sbaiti or I, I think, should ask Mr. Dondero the terms of the agreement. Is he getting paid? Is he doing it for free? Who retained him? Was it Mr. -- because the -- there's no such thing. There's no such thing.

The fact of the matter is what happened is akin to I have a slip-and-fall case and I go to a personal injury lawyer and I bring my brother with me because I trust my brother with everything. It's not privileged. Any time you bring in somebody who is not the attorney or the client, the privilege is broken. It's really quite simple. Unless there's a common interest. They can't assert that here. There is no common interest. So --

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Sbaiti, I'll give you up to three more minutes to voir dire Mr. Dondero to try to establish some sort of agency relationship or other evidence that you think might be relevant.

VOIR DIRE, RESUMED

BY MR. SBAITI:

Q Mr. Dondero, when you provided information to the law firm, were you doing so under an agency relationship? Do you know what an agency relationship is?

A Generally. When you're working on the -- or why don't you tell me?

Q Tell me your understanding, so we can use --

A That you're working for the benefit or as a proxy for the other entity or the other firm or the other person.

Q Right. So you're working for the DAF?

A Yes.

Q Do you do work for the DAF?

A Yes. As I stated, I'm surprised there isn't -- when we reconstituted after leaving Highland, we put in shared services agreements in place and asset management agreements in place and tasked people with doing that for most of the entities. There might be still a few contracts that are being negotiated, but I thought most of them were in place.

So I would imagine that there'll be an asset management agreement with the DAF back to NexPoint sometime soon, so it -- it's --

Q Let me ask you this question. When you were providing information to us and having conversations with us, were you doing that as an agent of the DAF, the way you described it, --

A Yes.

Q -- on their behalf?

A Yes.

Q Were you also doing it to help us do our jobs for the DAF?

A Yes.

Q Did you respond to requests for information from myself?

A Yes.

Q Did you help coordinate other -- finding other witnesses or sources of information at my request?

A Yes.

Q Did you do so based upon any understanding that I was working on behalf of the DAF for that?

A Yes. I knew -- I knew you were working for the DAF. No one else, yeah.

Q And so -- and so did you provide any expertise or any in-depth understanding to myself in helping me prepare that complaint?

A I think so, but I give a lot of credit to your firm for researching things that I -- I knew reasonably well but then you guys researched in even more depth.

MR. MORRIS: I'd move to strike the answer as nonresponsive.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. SBAITI:

Q Let me ask the question again. When you were providing us information and expertise, were you doing so knowing you were working -- helping us work for the DAF?

A Yes.

Q Now, did you demand any compensation for that?

A No.

Q Do you require compensation necessarily to help the DAF?

A No.

Q Do you do other things for the DAF sometimes without compensation?

A Right. We do the right thing, whether we get paid for it or not. Yes.

Q Had you known that our communications were not necessarily part of an agency relationship with the DAF, as you understood it, that you were just some guy out on the street, would you have had the same conversations with us?

A (sighs)

Q Let me ask a better question. If I had come to you working for someone that wasn't the DAF, you didn't already have a relationship with, would you have given us the same help?

A I wouldn't have been involved if it was somebody else.
Q Is the reason you got involved because we were the lawyers for the DAF?
A Correct.
MR. MORRIS: Objection. It's just leading. This is all leading.
THE WITNESS: Correct.
THE COURT: Sustained.
MR. SBAITI: Can --
THE WITNESS: Yeah. Sorry.
BY MR. SBAITI:
Q Do you get -- do -- did you -- did you do work for the -- did you provide the help for the DAF laboring under the understanding that there was an agreement?
MR. MORRIS: Objection; leading.
THE COURT: Sustained.
BY MR. SBAITI:
Q Earlier you testified you believed there was an agreement?
A I thought that was an agreement, and I thought there will be one shortly if there isn't one, yes.
Q Okay.
A And so we -- I've been operating in a bona fide way in the best interests of the DAF throughout -- assuming there was an agreement, but even if there wasn't a formal one, I would still be moving in the best interests of the DAF and helping your firm out or --

Q And you did that because you believed there was an agreement or soon would be?

A Yes.

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, I mean, I believe we've established a dual role here, both as an agent of the DAF and as an agent of the law firm, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Just a minute. I'm looking at Texas authority on common interest privilege to see if there's anything that --

(Pause.)

THE COURT: All right. Again, it would have been very nice to get briefing ahead of time. I think this absolutely could have been anticipated.

I do not find the evidence supports any sort of protection of this testimony under work product privilege, common interest privilege. I just haven't been given authority or evidence that supports that conclusion. So the objections are overruled.

Mr. Morris, go ahead.

DIRECT EXAMINATION, RESUMED

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Can you describe for the Court the substance of your communications with Mr. Sbaiti concerning the complaint?

A As I've stated, directing him toward the Advisers Act and then largely in a proofing function regarding CLO nomenclature and some of the other fund nomenclature that sometimes gets chaotic in legal briefs.

Q Did you communicate in writing at any time with anybody at the Sbaiti firm regarding any of the matters that are the subject of the complaint?

A I can't remember anything in writing. Almost everything was verbal, on the phone.

Q You don't tend to write much, right?

A Periodically.

Q Did you communicate with Mr. Patrick? Did you communicate with anybody in the world in writing regarding the substance of anything having to do with the complaint?

MR. SBAITI: Objection, Your Honor. Argumentative.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: I --

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, may I just -- one housekeeping. Rather than raise the same objection, may we have a standing objection, just so we're not disruptive, as to the privilege, just for preservation purposes, on the content of these communications? Otherwise, I'll just make the same objections and we can go through it.

THE COURT: Well, disruptive as it may be, I think you need to object to every --

MR. SBAITI: Okay.

THE COURT: -- question you think the privilege applies to.

MR. SBAITI: I will do so. Thank you, Your Honor. Uh-huh.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Mr. Dondero, the question was whether you've ever communicated with anybody in the world in writing concerning anything having to do with the complaint?

A Not that I remember.

Q Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I will point out, Your Honor, that last week, when the privilege was asserted, I had requested the production of a privilege log. I was told -- I forget exactly what I was told, but we never received one. I'll just point that out as well.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q You provided comments to the drafts of the complaint before it was filed, correct?

A Yes, a few.

Q Can you describe for the Court all of the comments that you provided to earlier drafts of the complaint?

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, we object on the basis of privilege and work product and joint -- joint interest privilege.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: It's along the lines of things I've said in this court several times. The obligations under the Advisers Act cannot be negotiated away and they cannot be waived by the people involved, full stop. I remember giving the -- Mazin the example of the only reason why we're in a bankruptcy is from an arbitration award that, even though we did what was in the best interests of the investors, we got the investors out more than whole over an extended period of time, they got an arbitration award that said when we purchased some of the secondary interests we should have offered them up to the other 800 members in the committee besides the -- the 800 investors in the fund besides the eight people on the committee who had approved it and that the committee couldn't approve a settlement that went against the Advisers Act and the Advisers Act stipulates specifically that you have to offer it up to other investors before you take an opportunity for yourself. And someday, hell or high water, in this court or some other, we will get justice on that. And that was the primary point that I reminded Mazin about.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q And that's exactly the conversation you had with Mark Patrick that started this whole thing, correct?

A No.

Q You told Mark Patrick that you believe the Debtor had usurped a corporate opportunity that should have gone to the DAF, didn't you?
A That was not our conversation.
Q So when Mr. Patrick testified to that earlier today, he just got it wrong, right?
A Well, maybe later on, but it wasn't that in the beginning. The beginning, any conversation I had with Mark Patrick in the beginning was smelling a rat in the way that the Debtor had priced the portfolio for HarbourVest.
Q Hmm. So you're the one, again, who started that piece of the discussion as well, correct?
A Started the -- I -- I guess I smelled a rat, but I put the person who could do all the numbers in touch with the Sbaiti firm.
Q And was the rat Mr. Seery?
A Was the rat Mr. Seery? Or the independent board. Or a combination thereof. I believe the independent board knew exactly what Seery was doing with -- Q Do you have any idea --
A -- HarbourVest.
Q Do you have any idea why, why the Sbaiti firm didn't name the whole independent board in the -- in the motion for leave to amend?
A I don't know. Maybe they will at some point.

Q Yeah.
A I don't know.
Q But did you tell the Sbaiti firm that you thought the whole independent board was acting in bad faith and was a rat?
MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, I object on the basis of privilege.
THE COURT: Overruled.
MR. SBAITI: All three.
THE WITNESS: I knew Jim Seery was and I knew Jim Seery had weekly meetings with the other independent board members, so the HarbourVest settlement was significant enough that it would have been approved, but I don't have direct knowledge of their involvement.
BY MR. MORRIS:
Q And so you -- but you believed Jim Seery was certainly a rat, right?
A Oh, I -- there was a defrauding of third-party investors to the tune of not insignificant 30, 40, 50 million bucks, and it was obfuscated, it was -- it was highly obfuscated in the 9019.
Q Did you think Mr. Seery was a rat, sir? Yes or no?
A I believe he had monthly financials. He knew that the numbers presented in the 9019 were wrong. And if that makes him a rat, that makes him a rat. Or maybe he's just being aggressive for the benefit of his incentive or for the estate.

APPELLANT'S AMENDED DESIGNATION OF ITEMS TO BE INCLUDED IN THE RECORD ON APPEAL AND STATEMENT OF THE ISSUES PRESENTED

Pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr. P. 8009(a) and Docket No. 4366, Appellant Patrick Daugherty ("Daugherty") hereby submits his amended designation of items to be included in the record on appeal and statement of issues to be presented in connection with his appeal from the Order Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9019 and 11 U.S.C. § 363 Approving Settlement Between the Highland Entities and the HMIT Entities and Authorizing Actions Consistent Therewith [Docket

[1] Highland's last four digits of its taxpayer identification number are (8357). The headquarters and service address for Highland is 100 Crescent Court, Suite 1850, Dallas, TX 75201.

No. 4297] (the "HMIT Settlement Order").[2] See Notice of Appeal [Docket No. 4310, as amended at Docket No. 4327].

Statement of Issues on Appeal

1. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in its approval of the HMIT Settlement Order [Docket No. 4297], which permits payment to Class 10 creditors before all Class 8 and Class 9 claims have been paid in full when the plain language of the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. [Dkt. 1808], the Court's Confirmation Order [Dkt. 1943] and the Claimant Trust Agreement [Dkt. 3817-4] require full payment plus applicable interest to all Class 8 and Class 9 creditors before any Class 10 or Class 11 claims can vest.

2. Whether the Bankruptcy Court abused its discretion by approving the HMIT Settlement Order [Docket No. 4297] when the settlement is not fair, reasonable, or in the best interests of the estate as the Debtor, through its principals, is forgoing the recovery of millions in material value to the estate in exchange for, inter alia, self-serving releases of its principals.

Designation of Record

Daugherty respectfully designates the following items to be included in the appellate record pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 8009(a):

000001 1. Amended Notice of Appeal for Bankruptcy Case No. 19-34054-sgj11 [Dkt. 4327].

000011 2. Notice of Appeal for Bankruptcy Case No. 19-34054-sgj11 [Dkt. 4310].

000026 4. Docket Sheet for Bankruptcy Case No. 19-34054-sgj1 kept by the Bankruptcy Clerk.

5. Documents listed below for Bankruptcy Case No. 19-34054-sgj11:

But I -- I believe those things wholeheartedly.

Q Did you tell the Sbaiti firm you thought Jim Seery was a rat?

MR. SBAITI: Objection, Your Honor. Privilege.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: I -- I don't remember using those words.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Did you tell the Sbaiti Firm that you thought Jim Seery had engaged in wrongful conduct?

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, objection. Privilege.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: I believe he violated the Advisers Act, and I was clear on that throughout.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Listen carefully to my question. Did you tell the Sbaiti firm that you believed that Jim Seery engaged in wrongful conduct?

MR. SBAITI: Objection, Your Honor. Calls for privileged communications.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: I think I gave the answer. I'll give the same answer. I believe he violated the Advisers Act.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q What other wrongful conduct did you tell the Sbaiti firm you thought Mr. Seery had engaged in?

MR. SBAITI: Same objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Overruled.

MR. SBAITI: Calls for privileged communications.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: I -- I just remember the obfuscating and mispricing portfolio violations of the Advisers Act was all I discussed with the Sbaiti firm regarding Seery's behavior.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Did you talk to them about coming to this Court under the gatekeeper order to see if you could get permission to sue Mr. Seery?

A I --

MR. SBAITI: Objection, Your Honor. Calls for privileged communication.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: I wasn't involved in any of the --

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Did you --

A -- tactical stuff on who to sell or -- who to sue or when or whatever.

Q Did you tell the Sbaiti firm that you thought they should sue Mr. Seery?

MR. SBAITI: Objection, Your Honor. Calls for privileged communication.

THE COURT: Overruled.

MR. SBAITI: I'll also say, Your Honor, the question is getting a little argumentative.

THE WITNESS: I didn't get directly --

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: I didn't get directly involved in who was -- who was specifically liable.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q How many times did you speak with the Sbaiti firm concerning the complaint?

A Half a dozen times, maybe.

Q Did you ever meet with them in person?

A I've only met with them in person a couple, three times. And I don't think any of them -- no, it was, excuse me, it was on deposition or other stuff. It wasn't regarding this.

Q Did you send them any information that was related to the complaint?

A I did not.

Q Did you ask anybody to send the Sbaiti firm information that related to the complaint?

A I did not. I -- I was aware that Hunter Covitz was providing the historic detailed knowledge to the firm, but it -- it wasn't -- I don't believe it was me who orchestrated that.

Q Did you talk to anybody at Skyview about the allegations that are contained in the complaint before it was filed?
A I don't -- I don't remember.
Q Have you ever talked to Isaac Leventon or Scott Ellington about the allegations in the complaint?
A No. They weren't involved.
Q How about -- how about D.C. Sauter? You ever speak to him about it?
A I don't --

MR. TAYLOR: Objection, Your Honor.

THE WITNESS: I don't remember.

MR. TAYLOR: At this point, D.C. Sauter is indeed an employee of Skybridge and is a general counsel for some of the entities which he worked for. And to the extent he's trying to ask for those communications, that would be invasion of the privilege.

MR. MORRIS: I'll withdraw it, Your Honor. That's fair.

THE COURT: Okay

MR. MORRIS: That's fair.

THE COURT: Question withdrawn.

THE WITNESS: I thought you only had eight more questions.

MR. MORRIS: Opened the door.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Can you describe the general fact -- withdrawn. You provided facts and ideas to the Sbaiti firm in connection with your review of the draft complaint, correct?
A Ideas and proofreading.
Q Anything beyond what you haven't described already?
A Nope.
Q Okay. Who is your primary contact at the Sbaiti firm, if you had one?
A Mazin.
Q Okay. Did you suggest to Mr. Sbaiti that Mr. Seery should be named as a defendant in the lawsuit before it was filed?
MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, calls for privileged communication. We object --
THE COURT: Overruled.
MR. SBAITI: -- to that answer.
MR. SBAITI: Okay.
THE WITNESS: Again, no. I wasn't involved with the tactics on who would be defendants and when or if other people would be added.
BY MR. MORRIS:
Q Did you -- are familiar with the motion to amend that was filed by the Sbaiti firm?
A I'm more familiar with it after today --
Q Right.
A -- than I was before.

Q And were you aware that that motion was going to be filed prior to the time that it actually was filed?
A I -- I don't remember. Probably.
Q And who would have been the source of that information? Would that have been Mr. Sbaiti?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And did you express any support for the decision to file the motion for leave to amend in the District Court?
A I -- I wasn't involved. It was very complicated legal preservation conver... -- I wasn't involved. I knew the conversations were going on between different lawyers, but I wasn't involved in the ultimate decision. I didn't encourage, applaud, or even know exactly what court it was going to be filed in.

MR. MORRIS: All right. I have no further questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Pass the witness.

MR. ANDERSON: We have no questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Any questions from Respondents?

MR. SBAITI: No questions.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Taylor?

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. TAYLOR:
Q Mr. Dondero, --

A Yes, sir.
Q -- you are not the authorized representative of CLO Holdco, are you?
A No.
Q You're not the authorized representative for the DAF, are you?
A No.
Q Do you know who that person is as we sit here today?
A Yes.
Q Who is that?
A Mark Patrick.
Q Thank you.

MR. TAYLOR: No further questions.

THE COURT: Any redirect on that cross?

MR. MORRIS: I do not, Your Honor. I would just like to finish up the Debtor's case in chief by moving my exhibits into evidence.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Dondero, you're excused.

(The witness steps down.)

THE COURT: All right. So you have no more witnesses; you're just going to offer exhibits?

MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: So, at Docket #2410, --

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: -- the Court will find Exhibits 1 through 53.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: In advance, Your Honor, I've conferred with the Respondents' counsel. They had previously objected to Exhibits 15 and 16, which I believe were the Grant Scott deposition transcripts. They objected to them on the grounds of lack of completeness because I had taken the time to make deposition designations, but I'm happy to put the entirety of both transcripts into evidence, and I hope that that will remove the objections to Exhibits 15 and 16.

THE COURT: All right. Before we confirm, let's just make sure we have the right one.

MR. MORRIS: Oh, I apologize.

THE COURT: I have 16 as the July order.

MR. MORRIS: I apologize. You're absolutely right, Your Honor. What I was referring to was -- oh, goodness. One second. (Pause.) I was referring to Exhibits 23 and 24. Those are Mr. Scott's deposition designations. They had lodged an informal objection with me on grounds of completeness. And in order to resolve that objection, we're happy to put the entirety of both transcripts in.

THE COURT: All right. So if our Respondents could confirm with the agreement to put in the entire depos at 23 and 24, you stipulate to 1 through 53?

MR. PHILLIPS: We also -- Your Honor, --

MR. MORRIS: Yeah, I was going to take them one at a time. Just take those two.

MR. PHILLIPS: Yeah, can we just take those two? Confirmed?

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: Oh, okay.

MR. PHILLIPS: Because there are other -- there are other -- we exchanged objections to each other's witness and exhibit lists. And so I think you can handle the rest of them kind of in a bunch, right?

MR. MORRIS: Yeah. Yeah, there's two bunches, actually.

MR. PHILLIPS: Yeah.

THE COURT: Okay. So you have just now stipulated to 23 and 24 being admitted --

MR. MORRIS: Correct.

THE COURT: -- with the full depos? Okay.

MR. PHILLIPS: Yes, ma'am. Thank you.

THE COURT: All right.

(Debtor's Exhibits 23 and 24 are received into evidence.)

MR. MORRIS: And then the next two that they objected to are Exhibits 15 and 16. 15 is the January order and 16 is the July order. They objected on relevance grounds. I think 16 -- these are the two orders that the Debtors contend the Respondents have violated, so I don't understand the relevance objection, but that's what it was and that's my response.

MR. PHILLIPS: Resolved, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. 15 and 16 are admitted.

(Debtor's Exhibits 15 and 16 are received into evidence.)

MR. MORRIS: Okay. And then the last objection relates to a group of exhibits. They're Exhibits 1 through 11. Those exhibits I think either come in together or stay out together. They are exhibits that relate to the HarbourVest proceedings, including deposition notices, including I think the transcript from the hearing, the Court's order, the motion that was filed.

The Debtor believes that those documents are relevant because they go right to the issue of the gatekeeper order and had they filed, had the Respondents followed the gatekeeper order, this is -- this is why they didn't do it. You know what I mean? That's the argument, is that the Respondents, one of the reasons the Respondents -- argument -- one of the reasons the Respondents didn't come to this Court is because they knew this Court had that kind of record before it. And I think that's very relevant.

THE COURT: All right. Response?

MR. PHILLIPS: Your Honor, we think that these exhibits are not relevant. We have a very focused, we think, -- we have the Court's order. Those objections are withdrawn.

We have the complaint. We have the motion to amend. And the issue is whether the motion to amend, which was dismissed one day, or the next day after it was filed, constitutes criminal -- constitutes contempt.

So we think the prior proceedings go to their underlying argument, which is the lawsuit or the complaint is no good, and that has nothing to do with -- there's been no foundation laid and it's not relevant what happened in connection with the HarbourVest settlement. It is what it is, and there's no dispute that it is what it is, but it's not relevant to establish any type of -- they've even said intent is not even relevant here. So we -- that's -- we think all of that goes out and simplifies the record, because it has nothing to do with whether or not there was a contempt.

THE COURT: Response?

MR. MORRIS: We withdraw the exhibits, Your Honor. I'm just going to make it simple for the Court.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I'm just going to make it simple for the Court.

THE COURT: 1 through 11 are withdrawn.

(Debtor's Exhibits 1 through 11 are withdrawn.)

MR. MORRIS: So, the balance, there was no objection. So all of the Debtor's exhibits on Docket #2410 -- let me restate that. Exhibits 12 through 53 no longer have an objection. Is that correct?

MR. PHILLIPS: Yes.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. And then --

MR. PHILLIPS: Confirmed.

THE COURT: Okay.

(Debtor's Exhibits 12 through 53 are received into evidence.)

MR. MORRIS: Okay. Thank you. And then we filed an amended list, I believe, yesterday --

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: -- to add Exhibits 40 -- 54 and 55.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: And those exhibits are simply my firm's billing records.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: You know, we added Mr. Demo to the witness list in case there was a need to establish a foundation. That's the only thing he would testify to. I don't know if there's an objection to those two exhibits, because we hadn't had an opportunity to confer.

THE COURT: Any objection?

MR. PHILLIPS: Your Honor, we're not going to require authenticity and foundation for -- we have the right, we think, to say that they're not a ground -- we're not going to challenge that they are the bills, and the bills say what they say. We don't need Mr. -- we don't need a witness to authenticate those exhibits. But we reserve all substantive rights with respect to the effect of those exhibits.

THE COURT: All right. 54 and 55 are admitted.

(Debtor's Exhibits 54 and 55 are received into evidence.)

MR. MORRIS: And with that, Your Honor, the Debtor rests.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. Respondents?

(Counsel confer.)

MR. PHILLIPS: If I could have a second?

THE COURT: Okay.

A VOICE: Sorry, Your Honor.

(Pause.)

MR. PHILLIPS: Your Honor, we have filed in our witness and exhibit list, and I have to say I don't have the number, but we'll get the docket entry number, but we have 44 exhibits. There's an objection to Exhibit #2, which is -- thank you -- it's Document 2411, Your Honor. Thank you.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. PHILLIPS: There is a pending objection to Exhibit #2 which we have not resolved. There's no objection to any other exhibit. But in reviewing our exhibit list, I found that we had some -- some mistakes and duplications.

So, with respect to 2411, we would withdraw Exhibit 13, 14, and 29, and we would offer Exhibit 1, and then 30 through 44, with 13, 14, and 29 deleted.

THE COURT: Okay. So 1, 3 through 12, --

MR. PHILLIPS: Yes.

THE COURT: -- 15 through 28, and then 30 --

MR. PHILLIPS: And then 30 through 44.

THE COURT: -- through 44? Do you confirm, Mr. Morris?

MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor. The only objection we have is to Exhibit #2.

THE COURT: And that's -- he's not offering that?

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

MR. PHILLIPS: Not at this time, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. PHILLIPS: We would have to have testimony about that.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. So those are admitted.

MR. PHILLIPS: Okay.

(Mark Patrick's Exhibits 1, 3 through 12, 15 through 28, and 30 through 44 are received into evidence.)

THE COURT: By the way, it looks like Exhibit 44 is at a different docket number, Docket 2420. Correct? You have --

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, I believe Exhibit 44 is the hearing transcript from the July approval hearing. At least that's what it's supposed to be.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. SBAITI: It was Exhibit 2 on the Debtor's list, and then I think they took it off, so we had to add it.

MR. PHILLIPS: Oh, okay. I was looking -- oh, that's right. They -- that's correct, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. PHILLIPS: Exhibit 44 was added --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. PHILLIPS: -- because the Debtor's withdrew it, and so it was added in the second -- in the supplemental and amended list. The -- the one that I was talking about was the prior list.

THE COURT: Okay. So that's at Docket 2420?

MR. PHILLIPS: Yes.

THE COURT: You're not offering 45 or 46?

MR. PHILLIPS: No, I think we'd offer 45 and 46 as well. I'm sorry.

THE COURT: Okay. Any objections, Mr. Morris?

MR. MORRIS: No, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. So 45 and 46 are admitted as well. They're at Docket Entry 2420.

(Mark Patrick's Exhibits 45 and 46 are received into evidence.)

THE COURT: All right. Your witnesses?

MR. PHILLIPS: Your Honor, could we have five minutes to just see what we're -- our plan is, and then we'll be back at 4:00?

THE COURT: Okay. We'll be back at 4:00.

MR. PHILLIPS: Thank you.

THE CLERK: All rise.

(A recess ensued from 3:55 p.m. until 4:04 p.m.)

THE CLERK: All rise.

THE COURT: Please be seated. All right. Back on the record in Highland. Mr. Phillips?

MR. PHILLIPS: Your Honor, with the introduction of the Respondents -- CLO Holdco, DAF Fund, LP, and Mark Patrick, those Respondents, and we consider Mark Patrick a Respondent although not formally named as a Respondent because he is the party who authorized the filing of the Seery motion -- we rest.

THE COURT: You rest? Okay. Well, Mr. Morris, closing arguments?

MR. MORRIS: How much time do I have?

THE COURT: You've got a lot more time than you probably thought you were going to. You're under an hour.

MR. MORRIS: 42 minutes?

THE COURT: How much?

THE CLERK: 42 minutes.

THE COURT: 42 minutes? Feel free not to use it all.

MR. SBAITI: Out of curiosity, how long do we have?

THE COURT: You have a lot of time, which I hope you won't use.

THE CLERK: Hour and twenty-five minutes or so.

MR. SBAITI: I was afraid it was going to be an hour and twenty, so --

MR. PHILLIPS: No, not either.

MR. MORRIS: I don't suspect I'll use all the time.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

MR. MORRIS: May I proceed?

THE COURT: You may.

CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTOR

MR. MORRIS: Good afternoon, Your Honor. John Morris; Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones; for the Debtor. I'd like to just make some closing remarks after the evidence has closed.

This is a very, very important motion, Your Honor. I take this stuff seriously. It's only the second contempt motion I've ever brought in my life. I've never gone after another law firm. But these facts and circumstances require it, because my client is under attack, and these orders were entered to prevent that.

It is serious stuff. There's no question in my mind, there's no question the evidence showed, clear and convincingly, beyond reasonable doubt, that they violated this Court's order.

I started off with three very simple prongs. So simple you'd think I'd remember them. Number one, was a court order in effect? There is no dispute. The court order was in effect.

Number two, did the order require certain conduct by the Respondent? We believe it did. We heard an hour-long argument styled as an opening statement, but it was really argument and not an opening statement, about all the defects in the order. But the one thing that is crystal clear in the order are the words commence or pursue. You've been told many times by the Respondent that nobody has commenced an action against Mr. Seery. That is true. We all know what the word commence means. We all know what the word pursue means.

I heard argument this morning that pursue means after a claim is filed you pursue a case. That's the way lawyers talk about it. But that doesn't make any sense, Your Honor, because once you've commenced the action you've violated the order. It's commence or pursue, it's in the disjunctive, and you can't read out of the order the concept of pursuit by making it an event that happens after the commencement, because that's exactly what they're trying to do. They're trying to read out of the order the word pursuit.

And I ask you to use very simple common sense. If filing a motion for leave to amend a complaint to add Mr. Seery as a defendant is not pursuit, what is? What is? There's nothing left. You commence an action or you do something less than commencing an action when you're going after the man. That's what pursuit means. They're going after the man. And they asked the District Court to do what they knew they couldn't.

Mr. Phillips is exactly right. I made the point about Rule 15 because they knew they couldn't do it. I'm not suggesting that they should have. I'm suggesting that the reason that they didn't is because they knew they were -- they were in a bad place. Because if they really just wanted to name Mr. Seery as a defendant, they wouldn't have done it. They knew commence was crystal clear.

What they're trying to do is claim that somehow there's an ambiguity around the word pursuit. Does that make any sense at all? Filing a motion for leave to amend the complaint. And Mr. Patrick, to his credit, candidly admitted that if the motion was granted, they were suing, yeah, as long -- as long as the Sbaiti firm, you know, recommended it. That's what would have happened.

Those orders that you signed, nothing, absolutely meaningless from their point of view. They believed they were wrong. They believed that they were overbroad. They believed they were too narrow. They believed they were vague. They believed they were without authority. They don't get to be the gatekeeper. They want to be the gate -- that's this Court's decision. That's why we went through all of the processes that we did. And they just flagrantly said, I don't agree. I don't agree because it's wrong this way and it's wrong that way and it's wrong the other way, and therefore let me go find a higher authority to validate my thinking. That's not the way this process is supposed to work.

The independent directors and Mr. Seery relied on the gatekeeper in accepting their positions. It was a quid pro quo. Mr. Dondero agreed to the exact same provision, the exact same gatekeeper provision in the January order that he now complains about today, that the DAF complains about today. Where were these people?

As the Court knows, nobody appealed either order. The Debtor, the independent board, Mr. Seery expected that the plain and unambiguous words would be honored and enforced. I think that's fair. I think that's the way the process is supposed to work.

Instead, we have games. We have these linguistic gymnastics. We have statements that are too cute by half. Mr. Dondero won't even admit that he appointed Mr. Scott back in 2012. I couldn't even get him to do that, really, even though the documents say it, even though Mr. Patrick says it.

I'll take the Respondents one at a time in a moment, but I just want to deal with some of the more interesting arguments they make. The order was vague because it didn't say you can't seek leave from the District Court to amend your complaint to add Mr. Seery. They said that that's what makes the order vague.

Your Honor, if you had thought to put that language in, you know what they would have done? They would have sued Mr. Seery in New York State Supreme Court, where he lives, and said, the order didn't say I couldn't do that. Where does it end?

There's a reason why the order was crafted broadly to say no commencement or pursuit without Bankruptcy Court approval. You have to bring a colorable claim.

We heard an argument this morning that they couldn't possibly have brought that motion for reconsideration first. You know, the one they filed about eight hours after we filed the contempt motion. They couldn't possibly have brought that motion before the motion for leave to amend because somehow they would have been estopped or they would have been found to have waived some right.

How could it be that anybody reasonably believes that complying with a court order results in a waiver of some right? It just -- these are games. These are not good arguments. And they certainly don't carry the day on a contempt motion.

We've heard repeatedly, the District Court denied the motion without prejudice, how have you been harmed? They shouldn't be able to rely on the District Court's prudence to protect themselves. The question shouldn't be, have you been harmed since the District Court didn't grant the motion? No. The question should be, were we harmed by the attempt to name Mr. Seery a defendant, in violation of court orders, without notice? Without notice.

I'm told they assumed that I'd be checking the dockets. I wasn't checking the docket, Your Honor. I hadn't filed an appearance in the case. And, in fact, if you look at the exhibits, because I could pull it out, but we put in the communications between the lawyers. The last communication was from Mr. Pomerantz, and the last communication from Mr. Pomerantz said, Don't do it or we're going to file a motion for contempt. That's now in the evidence.

So, having sent that message, I wasn't going to check the docket to see if they really were going to go ahead and do it. I didn't think they would. And if they did, I certainly thought I'd get notice of it. Nothing.

And, again, I don't really need to establish intent at all in order to meet my burden of clear and convincing evidence of a contempt of court, but I think it is relevant when the Court hopefully finds liability and is considering damages, because that's really the most important point I have to make right now, is the Court needs to enforce its own orders, because if the Court doesn't, or doesn't impose a penalty that's meaningful, this is just going to continue. And Your Honor, it's all in the record. Your Honor knows this. Mr. Daugherty has gone through it. Right? Mr. Terry went through it. UBS went through it. You've seen litigation now for a year and a half. It's happening in New York, right, the Sbaiti firm is reopening the Acis case. we've got this other lawsuit that's filed by an entity with like a five-tenths of one percent interest who's complaining about the SSP transaction that Mr. -- that the Debtor engaged in. There's no end here.

We need the Court to pump the brakes. We need the Court to exercise its authority. We need the Court to protect the estate fiduciary that it approved.

It is true, Mr. Seery is not a trustee. But it is also true that he is a third-party outsider who came into this case with the expectation and the promise in an order that he wouldn't be subjected to frivolous litigation, that this Court would be the arbiter of whether claims could be pursued against him. That was the code of conduct. That was the quid pro quo. That was the deal that Mr. Seery made. It's the deal that the board members made.

What gives these people the right to just say, your order is wrong, and because I think your order is wrong I'm going to go to the District Court, and if the District Court agrees, too bad, and if the District Court doesn't agree, we'll be back before Your Honor, and no harm, no foul? No. It can't be. It can't be that that's the way this process works. It just can't.

So, Your Honor, let me take the Defendants one at a time, the Respondents one at a time. CLO Holdco and the DAF are corporate entities. They've done what they've done. Mr. Patrick, bless him, I think he's a lovely man. I don't think he quite bargained for what he's getting right now, but nevertheless he is where he is and he's willing to stand up and be counted, and for that, at least, I admire his courage. He's willing to say, I authorized those. But you know what? It's a violation of the law, it's a violation of this Court's order to file that motion, and so he has -- and he was very candid today. He knew of the order. Right? He knew it was in effect. He pointed out that it was in their papers. Right?

They're trying to be cute, they're trying to thread this needle, but it has no hole in it. They keep -- they keep doing this. Well, maybe if we do it this way, maybe if we do it -- no. The order was crystal clear.

The Sbaiti firm. They're probably fathers and husbands and good people and I wish them no ill will, but this is wrong. This is wrong. To come into a court you've never been in before and in less than twelve days to jump the shark like this in twelve -- in less than twelve days, because Mr. Patrick said they weren't hired until April, and the complaint was filed on the 12th.

We're told that they understood this was an overwhelming case with two -- why don't you take your time? What was the rush? Why not wait until the Defendant -- the Debtor appeared in the action before rushing to do this?

It's bad conduct, Your Honor, and that's really a very important point that I have to make, is that there's lots of lawyers who are engaging in highly-questionable conduct here that, from my perspective, goes well beyond the bounds of zealous advocacy.

It's not aggressive lawyering. I love aggressive lawyering. I really do. Respectful, honest -- and I don't, you know, I don't want to say that they're dishonest people. I don't mean to do that. But I think, I think they made a gross error in judgment, and there's no question that they violated this Court's order.

And then that leaves Mr. Dondero. I don't even know what to say about his testimony, Your Honor. He pursued claims against Mr. Seery. He thinks he's a rat. He's the one who started the whole process. He's the one who put the bug in Mark Patrick's ear. All of this is uncontested. Right? Uncontested.

I don't have to go back in time. We can talk about what happened to Grant Scott. It's a very sad story. Mr. Scott, I think, did his honest best to do what he believed, on the advice of counsel, was in the best interest of the DAF. And

Mr. Dondero, as you hear time and time again when he speaks about Mr. Seery, it was inappropriate. He's the arbiter of what's in the best interest of entities that other people control. And they pay a price. And they pay a price. And so Mr. Dondero felt it was his job, even though he tries to distance himself from the DAF -- I have no responsibility, I don't -- I'm not involved -- until, until somebody wants to sue Seery and the Debtor. Then he'll go all in on that, no matter how specious the claim may be.

The Debtor's not going to fold its tent because a motion for leave to amend was denied without prejudice. That's not the point. The point is that people need to respect this Court, people need to respect the Court's orders, and those that aid and abet or otherwise support the violation of court orders ought to be held to account, Your Honor.

I have nothing further.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Respondents?

CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENTS

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, the fact that we're here on a motion for leave, and the motion for leave is what they're saying is pursuing a claim under the Court's order, and then you hear that the mere act of investigating a claim against Mr. Seery is also pursuing a claim, this goes to the infinite regression problem with this word pursue the way they want to construe it, Your Honor. Asking for permission is not pursuing a claim and can't be the definition of pursuing a claim because it's not doing anything other than asking for permission.

We didn't file a suit. We didn't commence a suit. I think that's established. We did not pursue a claim. Mr. Morris ignores, I think, the very commonsensical aspect that we put out in the opening, which is that the reason pursue -- and sometimes the language in these types of orders is, instead of pursue, it's maintain -- but the reason that word is there is because sometimes the case has already been started when the order is entered. And so to pursue a claim, i.e., one that's already been filed as of the date of the order, that would be lost if the commencement of that claim hadn't happened until after the -- until the -- if the commencement happened before the order was filed. That's the --

THE COURT: Okay. So are you saying it's a sequential thing?

MR. SBAITI: I'm not sure I understood your question, Your Honor. I'm sorry.

THE COURT: Well, I'm trying to understand what it is you're saying about how pursue should be interpreted.

MR. SBAITI: Sure.

THE COURT: I think you're saying you have to -- you can either have -- well, we've got a prohibition on commencing an action.

MR. SBAITI: Yes.

THE COURT: And then the separate word pursue, I think you're saying that must refer to you already have an action that's been commenced and you're continuing on with it. Is that what you're saying?

MR. SBAITI: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Then why not use the word continue?

MR. SBAITI: Well, Your Honor, the choice of --

THE COURT: Kind of like 362(a) of the Bankruptcy Code, you know, is worded.

MR. SBAITI: Well, Your Honor, the choice of the wording of pursue at that point, Your Honor, I believe ends up being ambiguous, because by filing the motion here that would be pursuing a claim under that definition. So before I got permission to pursue a claim, I've got to pursue a claim. That's the problem that they have with the words that they're trying to get you to adopt, or the meaning of the words they're trying to get you to adopt.

If I came to this Court and said, Judge, I need permission, I need leave to file suit against Mr. Seery, and then the question is, well, you're not allowed to seek leave because that's pursuing the claim, it's infinitely regressive. And in fact, his closing argument just proved how it's infinitely regressive.

THE COURT: Okay. Let me -- I'm not following this infinitely regressive or whatever the term was.

MR. SBAITI: Yes.

THE COURT: Just answer this very direct question. Why did you not file a motion for leave in the Bankruptcy Court? That would have clearly, clearly complied with the July order.

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, I believe we explained this in the opening. I took a stab at it. Mr. Bridges took a stab at it. We did not believe coming here and asking for leave and asking for -- for Your Honor to do what we don't believe Your Honor can do, would effectuate an estoppel or a waiver, which we didn't think was in the best interest of our client to have. Your Honor, this happens -- I don't believe this is the --

THE COURT: Okay. Connect the dots. Make that clear as clear can be for me. You file a motion for leave --

MR. SBAITI: Yes.

THE COURT: -- to file this District Court action against the Debtor and Seery, and if I say yes, everything is fine and dandy from your perspective. If I say no, tell me again what your estoppel argument is.

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, the key question is whether us putting the Court's ability to decide colorability and the Court's gatekeeper functions, for us to invoke those functions concerned us because there's case law that says that that effectuates an estoppel. And so we don't get our chance in front of an Article III judge to make that in the first instance.

THE COURT: Okay. Tell me what cases you're talking about and the exact context of those cases.

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, I would have to defer to my partner on this one, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. SBAITI: So, --

THE COURT: Because I'm just letting you know --

MR. SBAITI: Yes.

THE COURT: -- I am at a complete loss. I'm at a complete loss understanding what you're saying. I am.

MR. SBAITI: Well, Your Honor, the --

THE COURT: I don't understand. If you have followed the order to the letter and I tell you no, --

MR. SBAITI: Then --

THE COURT: -- what, you're saying you were worried you'd be estopped from appealing my order to the District Court and saying abuse of discretion or invalid order in the first place? You'd be estopped from taking an appeal?

MR. SBAITI: No, Your Honor. We wouldn't be estopped from taking an appeal.

THE COURT: Then why didn't you follow the letter of the order?

MR. SBAITI: For one thing, Your Honor, asking the District Court made sense to us, given the order and given our understanding of the law. Certainly, we had other options, as Your Honor is pointing out. We could have come here. Our read of the law, our understanding of what we were doing, made it -- put us in, like I said, put us in the sort of jurisdictional and paradoxical position.

THE COURT: This is your chance to tell me exactly which law you think applies here. What case? What statute?

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, like I said, I don't have those at the moment.

THE COURT: Why not? Your whole argument rides on this, apparently.

MR. SBAITI: Well, Your Honor, I don't know that our whole argument rides on that.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. SBAITI: I mean, our argument rides on we don't think we violated the letter of the order. I think that's really what I'm -- what we're here to say, is that we didn't commence a lawsuit and we didn't pursue a claim by filing for leave in the District Court, just like filing for leave in this Court would not be pursuing a claim. It would be filing for leave.

THE COURT: I agree. Filing a motion for leave in this Court would be exactly what the order contemplated.

MR. SBAITI: I understand, Your Honor.

THE COURT: What you did is not exactly what the order contemplated.

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, but we're -- we're moving back and forth between two concepts. One, your question is why didn't we file for leave?

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. SBAITI: And the answer to that, I've tried to explain. And if we -- if you'd like us to bring up the case law or to give you a better articulation of our concern, I'm happy to defer to my partner.

What I'm really here to say, Your Honor, is a very simple point, though. Just because we didn't file for leave here and we filed for leave in the District Court doesn't mean we violated your order, and that's the point I'm trying to make, Your Honor. And I think that's the simplest point I can make. Asking the Article III judge for leave to amend, for leave to amend to add Mr. Seery, doesn't violate, facially, at least as we read it, Your Honor's order. It's not commencing a suit and it's not -- it's not pursuing a claim against him. It's all preliminary to pursuing a claim against him, because a claim hasn't even been filed.

The judge could have -- the judge could have -- the District Court could have denied it, the District Court could have referred it down here, the District Court could have decided part of it and then asked Your Honor to rule on some portion of it. There are innumerable ways that could have gone. That fork -- those forks in the road is precisely why we say this is not pursuing the claim. Otherwise, where does it stop?

Does pursuing a claim happen just when we file the motion for leave? Why didn't it happen when we started the investigation? If pursuing a claim means having the intent and taking steps towards eventually filing a lawsuit, that's the point that I'm making that it is infinitely regressive, and that's exactly what Mr. Morris argued to you.

He said Mr. Dondero, by merely speaking to me, is pursuing a claim and that violates your order. Speaking to me. Even if we had never filed it. Speaking is pursuing a claim.

THE COURT: I don't agree with that, for what it's worth.

MR. SBAITI: Okay. But that was his argument. I'm just responding to it.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. SBAITI: And if that's not pursuing a claim, filing a motion for leave likewise wouldn't be pursuing a claim. I understand it's an official act in a court, but we did it in a Court that is an adjutant to this Court. This Court is an adjutant to that Court. It's the Court with original jurisdiction over the matter. So we didn't go to New York. We didn't go to the state court in New York where I learned Mr. Seery lives. We came to the Northern District of Texas, understanding that this Court and this Court's orders had to be -- had to be addressed. And that's the very first thing we did. We asked the Court to address it.

That judge could either decide to send it down here, which is normally what I think -- what we understood would happen. So it's not like we were avoiding it. But we wanted to invoke the jurisdiction which we, as the Plaintiff, we believe we had the right to invoke. We're allowed to choose our forum. So that's the forum we chose for the primary case, which there's not a problem, no one's raised an issue with us filing the underlying lawsuit.

Adding Mr. Seery to that lawsuit and filing a motion for leave in the same court where we actually had the lawsuit, knowing that it might get -- that might get decided or referred in some way, doesn't strike me as being anything improper, because he didn't get sued and we don't know what Judge Boyle would have said had the motion gone forward. And for them to speculate and to say that, well, this is exactly the type of thing you have to protect against, I completely disagree.

The case law that they cited for you on these -- on most of these orders really do discuss the fact that you have somebody who is actually protecting the underlying property of the Debtor. This claim comes from a complete third party that Mr. Seery himself has admitted under oath he owes a fiduciary duty to. Two third parties. One is an investor of a fund that he manages, and one to a fund that the Debtor, with Mr. Seery as the head of it, was an advisor for up until recently.

Those fiduciary duties exist. We felt like there was a valid claim to be brought against Mr. Seery. And the only reason -- and he says this like it's a negative; I view it as a positive -- the reason he wasn't named is because of Your Honor's orders. And so we asked a Court, the Court with general jurisdiction, to address it for us or to tell us what to do. And I don't see how that is a violation of this Court's order, nor is it contemptuous of this Court's order.

If every time one of these issues came up it was a contempt of the court that appointed a trustee, we'd see a lot more contempt orders.

Interestingly, the cases that were thrown out to you in the opening argument by the other side, for example, Villages [sic] v. Schmidt, was a trustee case, but not one that involved a sanction. And the trustee case specifically in that case held that the Barton Doctrine didn't have an exception for Stern cases, whereas the cases we cited to you, Anderson, for example, in the Fifth Circuit, which is 520 F.2d 1027, expressly held that Section 959 is an exception to the Barton Doctrine.

And my partner, Mr. Bridges, can walk through the issues that we had on the enforceability of the order, but all -- to me, all of that is sort of a secondary issue because, prima facie, we didn't violate this order. I understand it may irritate the Debtor and may raise questions about why the motion wasn't filed here versus the District Court. But it was a motion for leave. In order to sanction us, Your Honor would have to find that asking for permission is sanctionable conduct in the gatekeeper order. Even if we ask the wrong court. Simply asking the wrong court is sanctionable, not knowing what that court would have done, not knowing what that court's mindset was, not even having the benefit of the argument. And that's, I guess, where this bottom -- the bottom line is for me.

The evidence that they put on for you, Your Honor. Everything you heard was evidence in the negative. You know, they talk about the transition from Mr. Dondero to Mr. Scott and Mr. Scott to Mr. Patrick, but if you actually look at the evidence he wants you to see and he wants you to rule on, it's the evidence that wasn't there. It's the evidence that Mr. Dondero had no control. In fact, I believe that was the basis he argued for why there should be no privilege. And all he said is that he was promoting it.

But the fact of the matter is, like I said, all of that is secondary to the core issue that we didn't violate the order. We didn't take steps to violate the order. We took steps to try to not violate the order. And they want you to punish us to send a message. Even used words like the Court needs to enforce its own orders. And he did that as a transition away from the idea that there were no damages, Your Honor, and I think that has implications.

And then he said you have to enforce a meaningful penalty. Well, Your Honor, I don't think that is the purpose of these sanctions. These sanctions are supposed to be remedial, according to the case law, according to the case law that they cite. So a meaningful --

THE COURT: Coercive or remedial.

MR. SBAITI: Sorry?

THE COURT: Coercive or remedial. Civil contempt.

MR. SBAITI: Sure, Your Honor. But usually coercive sanctions require someone to do something or they are sanctioned until they do it.

THE COURT: Coerced compliance. Coerced compliance --

MR. SBAITI: Yes.

THE COURT: -- with an existing order.

MR. SBAITI: Yes.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. SBAITI: The last thing, he says you have to protect the estate of the fiduciary and his expectation -- I believe he's talking about Mr. Seery -- his expectation that the Court would be the gatekeeper. And Your Honor, that argument rings a little bit hollow here, given that what they're really saying is that we should have come here first and asked for permission. But that insinuates that, by coming here, the case is dead on arrival, which I don't think is the right argument.

I think the issue for us has been, who do we have to ask and who can we ask to deal with the Court's gatekeeper order? I believe we chose a court, a proper court, a court with jurisdiction, to hear the issue and decide the issue. Your Court's -- Your Honor's indication of the jurisdiction of this Court we believed invoked the District Court's jurisdiction at the same time.

And so the last thing is he said -- the last thing, and getting back to the core issue, is Mr. Morris wants you to believe that we intended to violate the order, and now, as an afterthought, we're using linguistic gymnastics to get around all of that. But it's not linguistic gymnastics. Linguistic gymnastics is saying that pursue means doing anything in pursuit of a claim. That's a little -- I believe that's almost a direct quote. They're chasing the man. Well, that's the infinite regression that I talked about, Your Honor, that it's going to be impossible in any principled way to reconcile

Mr. Morris's or the Debtor's definition of pursue with any logical, reasonable limitation that is readable into the order, Your Honor.

And I'm going to defer to my partner, Mr. Bridges -- oh, go ahead.

THE COURT: I'm going to stop you. I mean, we have the linguistic argument. But how do you respond to this?

MR. SBAITI: Sure.

THE COURT: What if I tell you, in my gut, this appears to be an end run? An end run. I mean, I'm stating something that should be obvious, right? An end run around this Court. This Court spent hours, probably, reading a motion to compromise issues with HarbourVest, issues between the Debtor and HarbourVest. I had objections. An objection from CLO Holdco that was very document-oriented, as I recall. Right of first refusal. HarbourVest can't transfer its 49.98 percent interest in HCLOF, right? Talk about alphabet soup. We definitely have it.

MR. SBAITI: Yes.

THE COURT: Without giving CLO Holdco the first right to buy those assets. Read pleadings. Law clerk and I stay up late. And then, you know, we get to the hearing and there's the withdrawal -- we heard a little bit about that today -- withdrawal of the objection. We kind of confirmed that two or three different ways on the record. And then I remember going to Mr. Draper, who represents the Dugaboy and Get Good Trusts. You know, are you challenging the legal propriety of doing this? And he backed off any objection.

So the Court ended up having a hearing where we went through what I would call the standard 9019 prove-up, where we looked at was it in the best interest, was it fair and equitable given all the risks, rewards, dah, dah, dah, dah. You know, HarbourVest had initially, you know, started at a $300 million proof of claim, eye-popping, but this all put to bed a very complicated claim.

MR. SBAITI: Yeah.

THE COURT: Tell me something that would make me feel better about what is, in my core, in my gut, that this is just a big, giant end run around the Bankruptcy Court approval of the HarbourVest settlement, which is not on appeal, right? There are a gazillion appeals in this case, but I don't think the HarbourVest --

A VOICE: It is on -- it is on appeal, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Is it? Oh, it is on appeal? Okay. So I may be told --

MR. SBAITI: I didn't know.

THE COURT: I may be told, gosh, you got it wrong, Judge. You know, that happens sometimes.

So, this feels like an end run. You know, the appeal is either going to prevail or not. If it's successful, then, you know, do you really need this lawsuit? You know, I don't -- okay. Your chance.

MR. SBAITI: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MS. SBAITI: Your Honor, this wouldn't be the first case where finality or where there was a settlement -- I'm not familiar as well with bankruptcy, but certainly in litigation -- where the settlement then reveals -- well, after a settlement is done, after everyone thinks it's done, some new facts come to light that change people's views about what happened before the settlement or before the resolution. And that's what happened here, Your Honor. This is what we've pled. And this is what we understand.

There were the instances of Mr. Seery's testimony where he testified to the value of the HarbourVest assets. I believe, as I recall, he testified in I believe it's the approval hearing that Your Honor is talking about that the settlement gave HarbourVest a certain amount of claims of I think it's, Series 8 and then Series 9 claims, and that those were discounted to a certain dollar value that he quantified as about $30, $31 million. And the way he ratified and justified the actual settlement value, the actual money or value he was conferring on HarbourVest, given the critique of HarbourVest claims that he was settling, is he explained it this way. He said $22-1/2 million of this whole pot that I'm giving them pays for the HarbourVest -- HarbourVest's interests in HCLOF -- it's alphabet soup again -- and Highland CLO Funding, Limited. And so it's the other $9 million that's really settling their claims. And given the amount of expense it's going to take, so on and so forth, $9 million seems like a reasonable amount to settle them with, especially since we're just giving them claims.

So that $22-1/2 million everyone apparently took to the bank as being the value, including CLO Holdco at the time, because they didn't have the underlying valuations. Highland was supposed to give the updated valuations.

So, fast-forward a couple of months -- and this is what we've played in our lawsuit, Your Honor; this is why I don't think it's an end run -- we pled in our lawsuit just a couple months later Highland -- I believe some of the people that worked at Highland started leaving, according to some mechanisms that I saw where Highland didn't want to keep all the staff and so the staff was migrated to other places. And one of those gentlemen, I believe Mr. Dondero referred to him as a gentleman named Hunter Covitz, and Hunter Covitz, who's also an investor in HCLOF, he owns a small piece of HCLOF, he had the data, he had some of the information that showed that, actually, in January, when Mr. Seery said that the HarbourVest settlement was worth 22 -- excuse me, the HarbourVest interests in HCLOF were worth $22-1/2 million, that they're actually worth upwards of $45 million.

And so that information, Your Honor, we believe gives us a different -- a different take on what happened and what was supposed to happen. This is strictly about the lack of transparency.

THE COURT: Okay. Assuming --

MR. SBAITI: Yeah.

THE COURT: -- I buy into your argument that this is newly-discovered evidence --

MR. SBAITI: Yes.

THE COURT: -- CLO Holdco would not have had reason to know -- I guess that's what you're saying, right?

MR. SBAITI: I'm saying they -- they didn't know.

THE COURT: That they didn't know.

MR. SBAITI: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: And didn't have reason to know. I'm trying to figure out who's damaged here.

MR. SBAITI: Well, CLO Holdco, my client, is damaged, Your Honor.

THE COURT: How?

MR. SBAITI: Because one of the aspects of the -- of Highland, one of the issues under, excuse me, of Highland's advisory, is that it has a fiduciary duty. And that fiduciary duty, at least here, entails two, if not, three prongs. The first prong is they have to be transparent. You can't say --

THE COURT: How is -- you know, I know a lot about fiduciary duties, believe it or not. How is CLO Holdco harmed and the DAF harmed?

MR. SBAITI: Because, Your Honor, they lost out on an investment opportunity to buy the piece of -- the HarbourVest piece. They would have been able to go out and raise the money. They had the opportunity --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. SBAITI: They would have had the opportunity to make a different argument.

THE COURT: What you're saying, you're saying, if they had known what they didn't have reason to know, that it was worth, let's say, $45 million, that they would have gone out and raised money and said, oh, we do want to exercise this right of first refusal that we decided we didn't have and gave in on, we're going to press the issue and then outbid the $22 million, because we know it's worth more? Is that where you're going? I'm trying to figure out where the heck you're going, to be honest.

MR. SBAITI: That's -- Your Honor, I'd push back on a little of the phrasing, only because the way these duties -- the way we understand the SEC's duties work when you're an investment advisor is you have a transparency obligation and an obligation --

THE COURT: Yes. Yes.

MR. SBAITI: -- not to divert these. So, yes, CLO Holdco would have at least had the opportunity and been offered the opportunity, which it could have taken advantage of, to, if the assets were really on the block for $22-1/2 million, they should have been able to buy their percentage pro rata share of that $22-1/2 million deal. I mean, in a nutshell, that's -- that's where we believe we've been harmed. And we believe that the obfuscation of those values and, to a certain extent, the misrepresentation of those values in the settlement is not cleansable by the argument, well, you should have asked.

Well, you should have asked is fine in normal litigation, but when the person you should have asked actually owes you a positive duty to inform, we believe that the should-have-asked piece doesn't really apply and there's -- and that's, that's the basis of our case.

So it's not an end run around the settlement, Your Honor. I think I opened with we're not trying to undo the settlement. We're not saying HarbourVest has to take its interest back. We're not saying the settlement has to go on. We're not even saying any of the things that happened in Bankruptcy Court need to change. But Section 959 is pretty clear that this is management of third-party property --

THE COURT: I guess -- okay. Again, rabbit trail, maybe. But CLO Holdco still owns its same 49.02 percent interest that it did before this transaction. So if there's value galore in HCLOF, it still has its 49.02 percent interest. What am I missing?

MR. SBAITI: Oh, I think Your Honor's assuming that HCLOF bought the piece back from HarbourVest. It didn't.

THE COURT: No, I'm not.

MR. SBAITI: Oh.

THE COURT: I'm not assuming that.

MR. SBAITI: Well, --

THE COURT: I know that now the Debtor has, what, fifty point, you know, five percent of HCLOF, whereas it only had, you know, a fraction.

MR. SBAITI: Point six-ish. Yeah.

THE COURT: Point six-ish, and HarbourVest had 49.98.

MR. SBAITI: Right.

THE COURT: So, again, please educate me. I'm really trying to figure out how this lawsuit isn't just some crazy end run around a settlement I approved. And moreover, what's the damages?

MR. SBAITI: Well, Your Honor, --

THE COURT: What's the damages? CLO Holdco still has its 49.02 percent interest in HCLOF.

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, again, --

THE COURT: What am I missing? I must be missing something.

MR. SBAITI: I think so, Your Honor.

THE COURT: What?

MR. SBAITI: The damages is the lost opportunity, the lost opportunity to own more of HCLOF.

THE COURT: Oh, it could have owned the whole darn thing?

MR. SBAITI: I could have owned 90 -- whatever 49 plus 49.98, 98.98 percent.

THE COURT: But --

MS. SBAITI: Or some pro rata portion.

THE COURT: But Mr. Seery had some information that you think he was holding back from CLO Holdco that CLO Holdco had no reason to know?

MR. SBAITI: Yes, Your Honor. The -- the -- what he testified to that the value of those assets, excuse me, the value of the HarbourVest interests in HCLOF or its share of the underlying assets being $22-1/2 million was either, one, intentionally obfuscated, or, two, and I don't think this excuses it at all, he simply used ancient data and simply never updated himself, not for the Court and not for any representations to the investors, who he himself testified under oath in this Court that he has a fiduciary duty to under the Investment Advisers Act.

THE COURT: This could get very --

MR. SBAITI: So that's injury to my client, Your Honor.

THE COURT: This could get really dangerous. Maybe --

MR. SBAITI: I'm sorry.

THE COURT: This could get really dangerous. Maybe I should cut off where I'm going on this.

MR. SBAITI: Okay.

THE COURT: Of course, someone dangled it out there in a pleading. You know where I'm going, right?

MR. SBAITI: I'm not sure I do, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Hmm. I do read the newspaper, but someone put it in a pleading. HCLOF owns MGM stock, right? Is that what this is all about? Is that what this is all about? Or shall we not do this on the record?

MR. SBAITI: Well, Your Honor, this has nothing -- I don't -- I don't think this has anything to do with the MGM stock one way or the other.

THE COURT: You don't? OH?

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, my charge as a counsel for the DAF is pretty straightforward. We looked at the claims. We looked at the newly-discovered information. We talked to the people who had it, Your Honor. That was our investigation. We put together a complaint. We believed that we had a good basis to file suit, despite Your Honor's -- the settlement approval. We expressly, because we understand how finality is so critical in a bankruptcy context, we expressly didn't ask for rescission. We expressly didn't ask for anything that would undo the settlement.

Asking for damages because of how the settlement happened, through no fault of the Court's, of course, but asking for damages is not, at least not as I see it, an end run around the Court's settlement, and it's a legitimate claim. And I don't think this is far from the first time that new evidence has come up that's allowed someone to question how something was done that actually -- that actually damaged them.

THE COURT: Usually, they come in for a motion to reopen evidence to the court who issued the order approving the settlement.

MR. SBAITI: Well, Your Honor, I mean, that's --

THE COURT: Newly-discovered evidence.

MR. SBAITI: That would be the case in a final judgment, Your Honor. But, you know, our understanding of the way the settlement worked was that that was not necessarily going to be -- not the direction anybody wanted to go, but seeking damages on a straight claim for damages, which we're allowed to seek, which I think is our prerogative to seek, we went that direction.

THE COURT: Okay. Okay.

MR. SBAITI: But this --

THE COURT: My last question.

MR. SBAITI: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Again, I have to know. You have filed some sort of pleading to reopen litigation against Acis in New York? I'm only asking this because it's part of what's going on here. What is going on here?

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, that's a -- that's a separate lawsuit, and it's not to reopen litigation against Acis. It deals with post-plan confirmation mismanagement by Acis.

THE COURT: Oh, okay. Okay.

MR. SBAITI: Yeah.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. SBAITI: But I believe there's a motion in front of Your Honor, just to -- that gave notice that the suit was filed, but I believe Mr. -- well, a bankruptcy lawyer filed it. I don't know.

THE COURT: A motion or a notice? I don't know.

MR. SBAITI: I don't know, Your Honor. That's above my paygrade.

THE COURT: I have not seen it. Okay?

MR. SBAITI: Okay.

THE COURT: Maybe it's there, but no one has called it to my attention.

MR. SBAITI: With the Court's permission, I'm going to yield time to Mr. Bridges.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Bridges?

CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENTS

MR. BRIDGES: Thank you, Your Honor. I'm grateful that you asked most of those questions to Mr. Sbaiti. I would not have been able to answer them. The one I can answer is the one about judicial estoppel. Apparently, I did a pretty lousy job earlier. I think I'm prepared to do a better job now.

The case law I'd like to refer you to is the Texas Supreme Court's 2009 decision in Ferguson v. Building Materials, 295 S.W.3d 642. And this was my concern and my issue, perhaps because I used to teach it and so it was at the front of my mind. But contrary to what you would think and what you said earlier, it's not your ruling against us that would create a judicial estoppel problem. It's if you ruled in our favor. And I know that seems weird. Let me explain.

The two things that have to take place for there to be judicial estoppel are, first, successfully maintaining a position in one proceeding, and then taking an inconsistent position in another. And Your Honor, what we talked about earlier is the notion that your July order forecloses the key claim that Mr. Sbaiti was just describing, that Mr. Seery should have known. Not that he was grossly negligent or did intentional wrong, but that he breached fiduciary duties because he should have known and should have disclosed.

And if your order forecloses that and we come and convince you that we nonetheless have colorable claims, colorable claims of gross negligence or willful wrongdoing, that we ultimately are unable to prove, our lawsuit could fail, even though we had proved -- in the lawsuit we had proved he should have known and that he breached fiduciary duties, but we would be estopped, having succeeded from coming here and asking in compliance with the order and its colorability rule, that we would be estopped from then saying that this Court lacked the authority to have issued that order in the first place, to have released the claim on the mere breach of fiduciary duty or ordinary negligence. That's the inconsistency that I was concerned about.

By coming here rather than trying to make our objection and our position known without submitting to the foreclosure of that claim that is, in many ways, the most important, the headliner from our District Court complaint, is the concern, Your Honor. And frankly, if Your Honor's order does foreclose that, then we're in serious trouble. That's the claim that we're trying to preserve.

But Your Honor, I don't think it was in anyone's contemplation in July of 2000 that what that order would do is terminate -- 2020; sorry, Your Honor -- in July of 2020, that that order would terminate future claims that might arise based on future conduct that had not yet happened in Mr.

Seery's role. Not in his role as a manager of the Debtor's property, but in his role as a registered investment advisor on behalf of his clients and their property. And that is the concern that the judicial estoppel argument is about.

THE COURT: I still don't understand. I'm very well aware of judicial estoppel, the old expression, you can't play fast and loose with the court. Take one position in one court, you're successful, and then take another position in another court. That's the concept.

MR. BRIDGES: Coming here --

THE COURT: How is this judicial estoppel if you had done what I think the order required and asked this Court for leave? What -- and I said fine, you have leave. Where's the judicial estoppel problem?

MR. BRIDGES: If you say fine, you have leave, but that leave is only, as the order states, because we have colorable claims of gross negligence, colorable claims of intentional wrongdoing, what happens to our mere negligence and mere breach of fiduciary duty claims? Are they foreclosed? The order on its face --

THE COURT: Well, I would interpret the order to be yes, and then you could appeal me, and the Court would either say it's too late to appeal that because you didn't appeal it in July 2020, or fine, I'll hear your appeal. Where's the estoppel?

MR. BRIDGES: Your Honor, our claims that this Court lacks the authority either to have made that order in the first place or the jurisdiction to rule on colorability now because of Section -- the mandatory abstention provision, whose section number I've now lost. That if we come to you and ask you to rule on those things, have we not thereby waived on appeal our claim that you couldn't rule in the first place on those things?

That is what our motion for leave in the District Court argues, is that there's -- there are jurisdictional shortcomings with your ability to decide what we're asking that Court to decide. And Your Honor, by coming here first and then appealing, that's what we fear we would have lost. And instead of coming here and appealing, what we -- what we would have done, in the alternative, I guess, would be to come here and ask you not to rule but move to withdraw the reference of our own motion.

That two-step, filing here and filing a motion to withdraw the reference on the thing we filed here, we didn't think was required, nor could we find any case law or rule saying that that was appropriate.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BRIDGES: These are not games, Your Honor. We were not trying to play games. We aren't bankruptcy court lawyers. We're not regularly in front of the Bankruptcy Court. So the notion why didn't we come here first isn't exactly at the top of our mind. The question for trial lawyers typically is, where can we file this, what are the permissible venues, not why don't we come to Bankruptcy Court? Especially when your order appears to say that causes of action that don't rise to the level of gross negligence or intentional wrongdoing are already foreclosed.

Your Honor, the January order, I think I have to just briefly address again, even though I don't understand why it makes a difference. Apparently, counsel thinks it makes a difference because Mr. Dondero apparently supported it in some way. Our position is, for whatever difference it makes, the January versus the July, we don't believe there's anything in the District Court complaint putting at issue Mr. Seery's role as a director, so we don't understand how that order is implicated.

Again, I'm not sure that matters at all. I'm not raising it as a defense. I'm just telling Your Honor this is all about the July order, from our perspective. Certainly, the July order puts his role as a CEO -- certainly, the District Court case puts his role as a CEO at issue, and that's what the July order is about.

Your Honor, the Applewood case requires specifics in order to terminate our rights to sue and to bring certain causes of action, and without that kind of specificity, Your Honor, we believe that that order fails to preclude, fails to have preclusive effect as to these later-arising claims. And we would submit not only that it was not contemplated, but that it was not intended to have that effect, and that even Mr. Seery's testimony suggests that that's not how he understood that order to be effective.

Counsel argued that the Barton Doctrine does apply here and rattled off the names of cases that don't -- to my knowledge, no case, no case that I can find deals with this type of deferential order where someone is asked -- where a court is asked to defer to the business judgment of an entity in approving an appointment, and nonetheless deciding that the Barton Doctrine applies. That's not what Villegas holds. That's not what Espinosa holds. I don't think Barton is applicable in a situation like that. Certainly, it's outside of the context of what Barton anticipated itself over a century ago when it was decided.

Your Honor, if we're wrong, please know we're wrong in earnest. These are not games. These are not sneakiness. No such motivation is at issue here. I was hopeful that that would be plain from the text of the motion for leave itself. If it's not, I'd offer this in addition. The docket at the District Court shows that immediately upon filing the motion for leave, a proposed order was filed with it asking to have the proposed complaint deemed filed, which as soon as I saw I asked us to immediately retract it and to substitute a new proposed order that does not ask for the amended complaint to be deemed filed. That is not what we wanted.

And the fear was what if our motion is granted because the District Court says you have the right, you don't even need leave, but as to the Bankruptcy Court, you're on your own, this is at your own risk, I'm not going to rule on any of the jurisdictional questions that you attempt to raise? We did not want our complaint deemed filed for that reason. What we did want was for a court where we did not risk judicial estoppel to decide whether or not our key claim under the Advisers Act had been foreclosed by your July order, and that was the key and motivating factor.

On top of that, Your Honor, instead of arguing the meaning of the word pursue, let me just say this. We understood pursue in that context to refer to claims or causes of action, not potential, unfiled, unasserted, contemplated claims or causes of action. That until a claim or cause of action is actually asserted in some way, that it can't be pursued, and that the reference here was to two kinds of action, those that had not yet been commenced -- and your order foreclosed the commencing of them without permission -- and those that had been commenced. And your order couldn't foreclose the commencing of them because they hadn't been commenced yet, but your order did foreclose pursuing them.

And that was my reading of what that order said. And it fits with this notion that a claim or cause of action isn't something you're considering or even researching. It didn't dawn on us that researching or talking to a client about a potential claim could violate the order because in some respect that conversation could be in pursuit of the claim.

By the same notion, we didn't think asking a court with original jurisdiction according to Congress, asking a court to decide whether or not we were foreclosed from bringing our claims in a motion for leave was violating your order.

We don't have much else, Your Honor. In terms of the need to enforce compliance with your orders, if we understand them, we sure as heck are going to follow them. And if we've misconstrued the term pursue, I'm certainly very sorry about that.

I appreciate counsel saying he thinks we're probably good people. I did not think what we did was any kind of gross error in judgment. I thought that what we were doing was preserving our clients' rights, going to a court of competent jurisdiction, and asking the question, can we do what we think we ought to be able to do, but is -- frankly, Your Honor, we're a bit confused about because of the order that seems on its face to foreclose the very lawsuit that we think we should be bringing on behalf on this charitable organization that foreclosed it months before the conduct at issue that gave rise to the complaint. And with that conundrum, knowing what to do was not obvious or easy for the lawyers or for the client who was dependent on his lawyers to give him good, sound advice.

I'm very grateful for you giving us the time and for your very pointed questions. Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you. All right. Who's next?

CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF MARK PATRICK

MR. ANDERSON: May it please the Court, Michael Anderson on behalf of Mr. Patrick, Mark Patrick.

You know, this is a contempt proceeding. It's very serious. And, you know, my stomach aches for the people here.

THE COURT: Mine does, too, by the way.

MR. ANDERSON: It truly aches.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. ANDERSON: And I mean what I said when I did opening, when I said we don't need a hearing, an evidentiary hearing. And I still don't believe we did, because it comes down to what does the word pursue mean, because there's already been an acknowledgement --

THE COURT: Do you all want to withdraw all your exhibits? I've got a lot of exhibits that I now need to go through. If I admit them into evidence, I'm going to read them.

MR. ANDERSON: No, I understand.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. ANDERSON: But it does come down to the word pursue. Counsel has already said commence doesn't do it, and so then it's pursue.

And I could ask Your Honor, what did you mean when you said pursue in the July order, but I'm not going to say that. And I asked my client on the stand, you know, did you pursue a claim or cause of action? And then it was very telling. What happened with counsel? He stood up and objected to me even asking if it was pursued. And it dawned on me, if he's going to object, does pursue have some sort of legal -- that was his objection. It was he objected on legal grounds. Does that have some sort of legal meaning?

This is contempt. You can't be held in contempt unless it is bright-line clear that you have deviated from a standard of conduct and there's no ambiguity. Well, clearly, there is ambiguity, because over on this side of the room we say filing a motion for leave can't be pursue. We can look at the order and we know it doesn't mean pursue because I just heard Your Honor say you should have filed a motion for leave in this Court before doing anything. All right? So if that -- if that is what without the Bankruptcy Court first determining, if that's what the motion for leave is, well, then if we go up to the first sentence, No entity may commence or pursue a claim or cause of action, then it has this, without the Bankruptcy Court first determining, that means -- if pursue means a motion for leave, if that's what that means, then that order says you can't commence or file a motion for leave before you file a motion for leave. Because that's what it means. If pursue means motion for leave and you've said you should have come here and filed a motion for leave because it says, Debtor, without the Bankruptcy Court first determining that notice that such claim or cause of action represents a colorable claim, and specifically authorizing. The vehicle to do that would be a motion for leave, right? And you can't pursue anything until a motion for leave has been filed.

Now, where was the motion for leave? And I understand, Your Honor, you know, no expert at reading the room, obviously, you're frustrated that the motion for leave was filed in the District Court and not in this Court. But it doesn't change the fact, and neither did any of the evidence, change anything, is what does pursue mean?

And if someone says, well, it's obviously clear it means x, well, is it really obviously clear it means filing a motion for leave? Because nobody on my side, when you read it, when you say pursue, can read it that way. And if we're going to have contempt sanctions being posed, and there has to be clear and convincing evidence or beyond reasonable doubt, depending upon, you know, I don't think you have to get to that part, but clear --

THE COURT: This is not criminal contempt.

MR. ANDERSON: Clear and convincing is the civil standard for contempt.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. ANDERSON: And if pursue is open to that much interpretation, it's not the kind of thing that can be held in contempt on. And I understand the frustration. I hear the frustration. I hear counsel talk about that was not their intent when they filed it. You know, I heard Mr. Patrick get up there. I heard counsel say, hey, Mr. Patrick's doing his job, he's a good guy, seems like a good guy. Well, Mr. Patrick's up there. Look, they filed the underlying lawsuit. Nobody -- there's no motion for that in this Court about the underlying lawsuit. It's only about the motion for leave. That's all we're here about.

And so you go to that, and we've heard all these arguments about it, and we've been here almost as long as the motion for leave was actually on file before it was sua sponte dismissed without prejudice.

And so I go back to that and I say that, if pursue means filing a motion for leave, then that order would require an order for anyone to violate -- it would be violated upon the filing of a motion for leave, because you can't pursue something until the Bankruptcy Court has already first determined, after notice, that such claim or cause of action represents a colorable claim and specifically authorizing the entity to bring such a claim. Because that -- we already know that's a motion for leave in and of itself. Therefore, pursue, just simply filing a motion for leave will put you in that.

But that gets into all these -- we don't need to be having this discussion about, you know, is a motion for leave pursue? Is pursue a motion for leave? I've heard both arguments here. It doesn't justify contempt. And I know -- and so certainly with respect to my side, I, you know -- given that, I would request that the Court deny the request for contempt.

And again, I want to say, too, look, we hear you. Absolutely hear you. Understand the frustration. Totally hear you on that.

I'm going to turn over the balance of my time to Mr. Phillips, --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. ANDERSON: -- unless you have any questions, Your Honor. I appreciate it.

THE COURT: Okay. I do not.

CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF MARK PATRICK

MR. PHILLIPS: Your Honor, Louis M. Phillips, and I'll be brief. I'm going to try to bring it down to -- I was not involved. We are -- we are here because of the indemnification provisions of CLO Holdco representing Mr.

Patrick individually. My firm was not involved in the litigation. We were hired to represent CLO Holdco and some of the defendants in the UCC litigation, and our role has expanded to do some other stuff, particularly represent Mr. Patrick because of the indemnification provisions of the Holdco entity documents. He's entitled to indemnification and we're providing a defense for him. That's why we're here.

So I come way after the order. We have not been involved in anything. But I think I'm just going to try to distill everything about the order and about the concern and about the litigation, because the Court is asking about is this an end run on the settlement? The Court is also saying, all you had to do was come here first.

But let's look. We're here about one thing, the motion for leave. And as Mr. Anderson pointed out, the commence or pursue a claim, according to the order, commence or pursue can only occur after the Court has authorized the litigation. Okay. So that's what the order says. You can't commence or pursue.

Counsel for the Debtors says, well, it can't be after commencement because you've already commenced the action. So pursue has to mean something before the commencement of the action. It would mean something before the commencement of the action under this order.

But it doesn't mean something before the Court approves the commencement of the action, because commence or pursue under this order does not occur before the Court has acted. That's the language of the order. It only occurs after the Court has authorized it. That's the context in which commence or pursue exists, after this Court has authorized.

Okay. So it can't be pursuit before the Court has authorized without commencement because it only is triggered by the Court's authorization of the action, which means, before you commence it, actions in time take time, before you commence the action, you have to pursue the action to commence it. But you can't do that until you've approved it. All right?

That's the temporal concern and why we say the motion for leave can't be pursuit of an action under this order. It might be pursuit under another definition or another order. In other words, maybe an order could be issued saying, you can't file a motion for leave in any other court but this one. I don't know whether it'd be a good order, but the order could say that. But when you say all you had to do was file a motion for leave in this Court and everything would be okay, no. The motion for leave is not, under this order, pursuit. Pursuit only occurs under this order after you've done something, after Your Honor has done something.

So if a motion for leave is violative at the District Court, the motion for leave would be violative here, because it occurs before Your Honor has taken action.

Now, clearly, you want people to ask, but just as clearly, and this was the point of my remarks earlier at the tail-end of opening, just as clearly, I have a question, because frankly, I understand what these guys are saying. These guys haven't really said it. They're a little shame-faced at what these guys are asking. Because what these guys are asking is whether or not an employee Seery, as the CRO -- and we heard, oh, he bargained for it, he wouldn't have done it without getting the order and the protections because -- did he bargain for not having to comply with the Investor Advisory Act? Did he bargain for not having a fiduciary duty to third parties? Because the one thing that Mr. Bridges has been trying to tell you is that, under this order, if it's interpreted one way, you would never authorize a violation of the Investment Advisory Act because it wouldn't necessarily be gross negligence or willful misconduct.

In other words, in employing Seery, did the Debtor go out in this disclosure statement and say, we are advisor to $1.2 billion of third-party money, and guess what, our CRO has no fiduciary duty to you? We have forestalled any claim under the Investment Advisory Act in our employment order. Did that happen?

Because if that happened, I don't know if the Court was really thinking that way, because that -- that can't happen in a confirmation order before, under the Fifth Circuit authority, after disclosure statement, plan, et cetera, et cetera, because that's a third party release of claims that may -- that haven't occurred yet. You would be releasing because you would be saying you have no right. You have no right. This is not temporal. This is saying you have no right, if it's saying that, to bring an Investment Advisory -- Investment Advisory Act or a Breach of Fiduciary Duty Act that's not gross negligence or willful misconduct forever upon an employment order.

Now, if that's not what it means, then we have another conundrum. The other conundrum -- and I'm new to this, maybe this has been thought out by everybody, but I don't think so. The other conundrum is this order doesn't apply to actions that don't involve willful -- gross negligence or willful misconduct. It only applies to those types of actions. So, frankly, I don't know what the order does.

I think the problem -- I probably shouldn't be the purviewer of who ought to know because my standard's probably really low, given my capacity here. But I'm a guy off the street. Seery gets hired to run the Debtor. Seery testifies and he admits, we've got Investment Advisory Act all over the place. We're making lots of fees out of administering all this third-party money. Do they know? Do they know he's immune? Do the third parties know?

Now, a standard about managing the Debtor? Absolutely. That's just pure D Chapter 11, pure D corporate, pure D standard liability if you're operating an entity. You're not liable for gross negligence or willful misconduct. You're not. And so any claim for damage to the Debtor or to the estate by actions taken in the CRO capacity, absolutely. Absolutely. You don't want a bunch of yoyos suing, you did something against the Debtor and the Debtor is now worth $147 less than it was because you did something, you were negligent and you forgot to put the dog out. No. It's got to be gross negligence or willful misconduct if you are talking about running the Debtor and running the estate.

But that's not what we have here. And you can ask all the questions you want about whether the lawsuit's any good, but that's not what's up before the Court. What's up before the Court is whether filing a motion for leave is contempt. And under this order, you're saying, all you had to do is come here. Well, in one reading of it, you'd have never got relief because you can't bring the kind of action. I foreclosed it by employing Seery. He no longer has a fiduciary duty and is no longer bound by the Investment Advisory Act. Case closed. Get out of here. Unless you can formulate something around so that you can establish gross negligence or willful misconduct, I've done away with all those causes of action.

I don't think that's what happened. And if that's not what happened, this doesn't apply because it shouldn't apply to third-party actions. It should apply to actions for damage to the estate by creditors of the estate for whom Seery is acting as CRO of the Debtor, who is the -- in possession of the estate. That makes perfect sense. Perfect sense. And nobody would say that you shouldn't have sole authority to determine whether a CRO who's acting for the estate and damages the estate -- because that'd be a claim against the estate. That would be an administrative claim against the estate. That is just hornbook law.

That's the way I see this order. And I admit I didn't write it. I admit I didn't submit it. I admit I didn't litigate it. I admit I'm coming in late. But sometimes maybe a fresh pair of elderly, trifocal-assisted eyes doesn't hurt. Because I will tell you, Judge, on one read this Court says don't bother coming here because you don't have the kind of claim that can be brought, even if you're a third party. And the only way that happens is if Seery's released from any obligation under the Investment Advisory Act, and I think everybody would like to know that. And he can't be sued for breach of fiduciary duty to third parties that he admits he owes. I think people would like to know that.

And if it doesn't, then this is not -- this order is not about that. But the fact -- I've been at this 40 years, and I usually don't want to talk about myself. There's really not a lot to talk about. But I hear Mr. Morris how he's never done this, he's never done that. I hear this, I'm a good -- you know, whatever. I'm confused. I've been doing this 41 years. Bankruptcy, 39.7. I must be crazy, but that's what I've been doing. And I'm confused because I don't even know if they needed to come here. I don't even know if, had they come here, if they could have even presented an action for gross -- for negligence or breach of fiduciary duty, could have -- gross negligence or willful misconduct? I don't know whether this order just applies to Seery's duties as CRO vis-a-vis creditors of the estate and property of the estate and damage to the estate. Because that's not what we're dealing with here.

The point is, Judge, this is contempt. And I understand Your Honor knows all about contempt. Your Honor knows about Matter of Hipp. Your Honor knows about civil contempt authorization for bankruptcy courts. Your Honor knows that you can't operate without the right to impose civil contempt sanctions. And Your Honor knows, and I agree with Your Honor, that civil contempt is both remedial and coercive.

But how do you coerce around my questions? Maybe I am all wet, but if I am, I don't think I am, and I don't understand that I am, and that's why I'm concerned about going off into this contempt wilderness and millions in fees, when the motion for leave was dismissed and when the lawsuit doesn't ask for or includes most of its claims. I don't even -- I have not studied the lawsuit. I wasn't involved in it. But if it's a breach of fiduciary duty and Advisory Act and it says what you've been told it says, that he should have pulled up different stuff, that the valuation metrics were different, that he shouldn't have used it, I don't know that they're saying fraud. I don't know that they're saying he knew he was doing -- I think they're saying he breached the Investment Advisory Act. And that's not gross negligence or willful misconduct. Then does this order apply or this order -- does this order foreclose that?

The fact is, I think we could have decided this on the pleadings and on the order. We didn't. The fact that Mr. Dondero did A, B, C. And I will tell you this. Mr. Patrick has stood up. He's going to get a harpoon, he's going to get a harpoon, subject to his right to appeal. But he has told this Court. We represent him. We're not trying to get him out of having authorized the order. It's very important for this Court to understand. Mr. Patrick is one of these entities. Mr. Dondero can holler and scream all he wants to. Mr. -- and look, did he terminate Grant Scott? If I'm Grant Scott, and this is my best friend and I was in his wedding and I was his roommate and I was his best friend and I'm doing this stuff for $5,000 and I do something and $5,000 a month and I do something and I get hollered at and I've got a full a law practice, I'm an IP lawyer, why don't I just tell him to go jump in a lake, which is the other way you could look at Grant Scott leaving. I want you to jump in a lake. I'm out of here. I don't need this.

Thank you.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

MR. DEMO: Your Honor, how much time do they have left, --

THE COURT: Um, --

MR. DEMO: -- to be honest?

THE COURT: Nate, are you -- 26 minutes? All right.

MR. TAYLOR: I'll go way under, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF JAMES DONDERO

MR. TAYLOR: Your Honor, Clay Taylor. I'm here on behalf of Mr. Dondero. He was named as an individual alleged violator within the order.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm getting lawyers mixed up. Mr. Anderson, who did you represent?

MR. ANDERSON: Mr. Patrick. Mr. Phillips and I represent --

THE COURT: You're Mr. Patrick?

MR. PHILLIPS: We're Mr. Patrick.

THE COURT: You're both --

MR. PHILLIPS: Mr. Patrick.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm sorry. I'm getting my Fort Worth law firms mixed up. Okay.

MR. TAYLOR: That's quite all right. Clay Taylor from Bonds Ellis here on behalf of Mr. Dondero. And we're here because he was named in the alleged violator motion within the order as an alleged violator. We don't think that he is, for the reasons that we're about to explain, but we were ordered to appear --

A VOICE: No.

MR. TAYLOR: -- and so therefore we are appearing and telling you why we're not an alleged violator.

First of all, for all the reasons that Mr. Sbaiti and Mr. Bridges and Mr. Phillips and Mr. Anderson said, the court order was in effect. We agree with that. It required certain conduct to be done. Yes, it did. It said you couldn't commence something. It said you couldn't pursue it. I think we have gone through what the pursuit and commence. Nobody is arguing that anything was commenced. It comes down to pursuit.

But let's talk about what the evidence shows about Mr. Dondero. It shows that Mr. Dondero believes that there have been breaches of fiduciary duty. He thinks that there has been negligence committed. He believes that actions should be taken. We don't run away from that. He, frankly, told you that.

But here, he didn't take any action to pursue it. The DAF did. CLO Holdco did. It's undisputed that he's not an officer, director, or control person for either of those entities. The act we're here on is a motion for leave to file an amended complaint to include Mr. Seery. That's -- Mr. Dondero didn't take any of those acts. He believes it should have been done, but he's not the authorizing person.

He might have -- let's just pretend that he thought he was authorizing something. It doesn't matter that he thought he could authorize something or that he was trying to push for it. The fact remains he can't authorize it. You know, he can say, I declare war on Afghanistan. Well, he can't. Congress can't. He can write a letter to his Congressman. He already wrote a letter to his Congressman. He talked. He talked with the head of the acting CLO -- CLO Holdco and he said, I think there's something wrong here. I think you should be looking into it. You know what, he goes, you might be right. Go talk with Mazin about it. Give him some data. Conduct an investigation. They did. And then they went to the authorizing person and they filed a motion for leave to include Mr. Seery. Mr. Dondero did nothing wrong in that.

Now, there is some personal animosity. I think that Your Honor has probably seen there seems to be some personal animosity between Mr. Seery and Mr. Dondero, and that's unfortunate. But just because there's some personal animosity doesn't mean that maybe something wasn't done wrong. Maybe that Mr. Dondero -- he's certainly allowed to at least tell people, well, I think there was something done wrong. And if there is an action to be had, then those appropriate entities can take it. But he didn't do those things.

And so even if he says, just like Michael Scott, "I declare bankruptcy," it doesn't matter. You have to take the certain actions.

THE COURT: I got it. I don't know if everyone did.

MR. TAYLOR: Yes, well, yeah, you have to be a The Office fan.

But so that's where we stand. And for all the reasons the prior people have discussed, I don't think that there was any violation of this Court's order. But even if there was, Mr. Dondero in this situation was not the one. We're going to have to deal with the other order that came out yesterday in due course, but for this discrete issue that is before this Court today, Mr. Dondero didn't violate anything.

Thank you.

THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, you get the last word.

REBUTTAL CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTOR

MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor. These are going to be discrete points because it's truly rebuttal. I'm going to try to respond to certain points.

Mr. Bridges and Mr. Phillips made extensive arguments about why they believe the order is wrong, why it's overreaching. They tried to get into your head to think about what you intended or what you thought. The fact of the matter is, the answer to all of those questions -- first of all, none of it's relevant to this motion because we've got the order -- but the answer is very simple. Forget about coming here to seek leave to amend to add Mr. Seery. We can avoid Mr. Sbaiti's concerns about judicial estoppel or something. Why didn't they just file the motion for reconsideration? They filed that after they filed the motion for leave to amend, after we filed the motion for contempt. Only then did they file the motion for reconsideration.

Now, we think it's ill-thought-out. We think it's problematic. Probably not today, is my guess, we'll argue to you as to why we think that motion ought to be denied. But if they truly believed that the order was infirm in any way, wouldn't the proper thing to have been to come here and tell you that? Wouldn't the proper thing to be to come to the court that issued the order that you have a problem with and ask the court to review it again? And if Your Honor overruled the motion, to appeal it.

Why are we even doing this? Why did they do it? It's not we. Why did they do it? Right? And that solves almost everything they've said. That's point one.

Point two, the January order. The January order is very important. It's important not just because it applies to directors, but it's important because Mr. Dondero agreed to it, and it also applies -- I want to get it -- Paragraph 10. It's Exhibit 15. It applies to the independent directors and the independents directors' agents. If a CEO is not an agent of an independent director, I'm not sure what is. The independent directors are the body that appointed the CEO. The CEO, Mr. Seery, is acting on behalf of the board. This is the order that Mr. Dondero agreed to. It's the order -- take out the word independent director; put in Mr. Seery -- it's the order everybody's complaining about. But even the January order certainly applied to Mr. Seery. That's point two.

Point three. I've heard a lot of concerns about the slippery slope and what does pursuit mean and does talking to a lawyer mean pursuit and doing an investigation being pursuit. I don't know, Your Honor, and I don't care, because that's not what we're here to talk about. We're here to talk about a specific act -- not a hypothetical, not a slippery slope. We're talking about the filing of a motion for leave to amend a complaint to add Mr. Seery as a defendant. That's all we're talking about. So, you know, the rest of it, it's just noise. And the only question is whether, and I think it's pretty clear, that means pursuit.

Another version on the theme of was there any alternative to filing the motion in the District Court, I think there was. The Sbaiti firm did file that suit against Acis in New York. And if Your Honor checks the docket in the Acis bankruptcy, I think you'll find that there's a motion from Mr. Rukavina, for a comfort order, basically, saying that -- asking the court to declare that the filing of the complaint in New York against Acis didn't violate the plan injunction. I think I have that right.

But I point that out, Your Honor -- it's not evidence in the record, but the Court can certainly take judicial notice of what's on its docket -- I point that out because there's another example of a lawyer who is very active in this case who actually -- now, he already commenced the suit, so he did -- they did both simultaneously, so I don't want to suggest that that's the perfect thing to have done, but at least he's here asking for -- he's bringing it to your attention, he's telling you it's happened, he's asking for a comfort order, and someday Your Honor may rule on it. I don't know.

Number six, what's with the pursuit of Mr. Seery? What is with the pursuit of Mr. Seery? Is there any doubt in anybody's mind that the Debtor is going to have to indemnify Mr. Seery and will bring in another law firm? And while I don't think it will ever happen in a hundred billion years, if there is a judgment against Mr. Seery, isn't that going to be the Debtor's responsibility? Why are they even bothering to do this? I think it's a fair question for the Court to ask.

I think Mr. Taylor came up and talked about animosity. How do you explain going after Jim Seery? How do you do it? He's going to be indemnified. It's in -- it's in like three different orders. It's in the confirmation order. It's in the CEO order. It's -- it's probably as a matter of law. It's in the Strand partnership agreement. It's -- he's been indemnified like 12 different times. What is the purpose, other than to make Mr. Seery's life miserable? There is none. You'll never hear a rational explanation for why they're doing this.

THE COURT: Just so you know, I've not looked at any of the pleadings in the District Court --

MR. MORRIS: And I'm not asking you to.

THE COURT: -- other than what has been presented to me today.

MR. MORRIS: Yeah. That's fine, Your Honor.

THE COURT: But I'm very flipped out about the causes of action against the Debtor, --

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

THE COURT: -- who hasn't reached an effective date.

MR. MORRIS: Well, --

THE COURT: And I'm most interested to know what the defenses, motions --

MR. MORRIS: We'll get to that.

THE COURT: -- are going to be raised in that regard.

MR. MORRIS: We will get to that in due course.

I do want to point out, just to be clear, because we keep hearing that they learned about, you know, all of these horrible things after the fact. In the complaint, which I think is Exhibit 12, --

THE COURT: I'm there.

MR. MORRIS: -- at Paragraph 127, the Plaintiffs allege, "Mr. Seery was informed in late December 2020 at an in-person meeting in Dallas, to which Mr. Seery had to fly, that HCO" -- excuse me "HCLF and HCM had to suspend trading in MGM Studios' securities because Seery had learned from James Dondero, who was on the board, of a potential purchase of the company. The news of the MGM purchase should have caused Seery to revalue."

I cannot begin to tell you the problems with that paragraph. We're not going to discuss them today. I made a promise to these folks that we wouldn't get into the merits of the complaint. But Your Honor was onto something before, and those issues, you know, may see the light of day one day. And if they do, folks are going to have to deal with it. But I will point out that at the time the communication was made, the other TRO was in effect. We didn't bring that one to the Court's attention. But the important point there, Your Honor, is December 2020. It is December 2020. That is the allegation that's being made against Mr. Seery. And the fact of the matter is, because I've done the research myself, the Court will find that on December 23rd, the day the HarbourVest settlement motion was filed, it was fully public knowledge that Amazon and Apple, I think, had shut down negotiations with MGM at that time. Right? So the big secret information, it was in the public domain on December 23rd.

There will also never be any evidence ever that Mr. Seery got on a plane and flew to Dallas in December 2020, but that's a minor point.

I'd like to just conclude, Your Honor, by saying I've heard pleas that they understand. They understand, Your Honor, now they understand. It would be good if they promised the Court that they won't seek to assert claims against Mr. Seery anywhere but in this Court and comply with the order as it's written. That, that, that would be taking a little bit of responsibility.

I have nothing further, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

All right. Let me give you some clue of when I'm going to be able to rule. I've been glancing at my email in hopes that something set tomorrow would go away, but that's not happening. I've got a hearing that I've been told will take all day tomorrow on a case involving a half-built hotel, luxury hotel in Palm Springs, California. So I have to spend the next I don't know how long getting ready for that hearing tomorrow, and then I have what looks like a full day of hearings Thursday, including you people coming back on something.

MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, I was going to address that. We have Dugaboy's motion to enforce compliance on the 2015(3) reports.

THE COURT: That's what it was.

MR. POMERANTZ: Since we haven't gotten to the motion to modify the Seery order, my suggestion would be we use that time -- of course, Dugaboy, I'm not sure if they're on the phone. They're not here. I'm not sure that's time sensitive. But if Your Honor wanted to have a hearing on that motion, which was contemplated to take place today, the Debtor would be okay having that motion heard on Thursday, perhaps by WebEx, unless Your Honor wants us to stay here, which we would if you do, and then reschedule the 2015(3) motion.

But again, that wasn't my motion. It's Dugaboy's. I'm not sure Mr. Draper is on. But we obviously have some calendar issues.

MR. MORRIS: And Your Honor, just to complete it, I think also on Thursday the Court is supposed to hear HCRE and Highland Capital Management Services motions for leave to amend their complaint in the promissory note litigation against each of them. I think that's also on the calendar for Thursday. I don't expect that -- I hope that doesn't take very long, but that's also, I believe, on the calendar.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Draper, are you out there?

MR. PHILLIPS: I didn't see him on the list, Your Honor. I was just looking. But --

THE COURT: Okay. All right. Well, --

MR. PHILLIPS: What is the question? I can send him a text real quick.

THE COURT: Well, just have -- if you all could follow up with Traci Ellison, my courtroom deputy, tomorrow, I am perfectly happy to continue the motion to modify the Seery order to Thursday morning at 9:30 if Draper is willing to continue the 2015 motion.

MR. POMERANTZ: I know, if I was him, my first question would be is what times does the Court have available? We could work that through Ms. Ellison.

THE COURT: Yes. And I'm just letting you know -- talk to her. Okay. Number one, I'll do these by video, okay? WebEx. But I know I don't have any time Wednesday, and Thursday's a busy day.

We have court Friday morning at 9:30 in--?

THE CLERK: Cici's Pizza.

THE COURT: Cici's Pizza? That's not going to take very long, right?

THE CLERK: I don't think so.

THE COURT: I can potentially do something, you know, 10:00 o'clock Friday morning. Other than that, then you've got to wait a while, because I have a seven-day trial, live human beings in the courtroom starting next Monday. And so my point is mainly to tell you, as much as I would like to rule very, very fast, it's going to be, it looks like, a couple of weeks or so before I can give you a ruling on this.

MR. BRIDGES: Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes?

MR. BRIDGES: May I? It's our motion. I would propose, if counsel would agree, that we just submit it on the papers.

THE COURT: Everybody good with that? I'm certainly good with that.

MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, I'd like there to be argument. I have a lengthy argument. I think I'd like to address a number of the things that -- Mr. Bridges made his argument today. Okay?

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. POMERANTZ: His deck, it was entitled, Motion to Modify.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. POMERANTZ: So that's very nice of him, but I would like to make my argument.

THE COURT: Okay. Let's try to nail this down right now. Friday at 10:00 o'clock, can we do the oral argument WebEx?

MR. POMERANTZ: On that one, yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: On that one? Everybody good? Okay. So we'll come back Friday, 10:00 o'clock, WebEx, for that motion.

You know, I'm going to say a couple of things where -- I've leaned toward thinking this is a pretty simple motion before me, the motion for contempt, but when people offer into evidence documents, I read your documents. Okay? That's my duty. And so I have however many exhibits I admitted today that I am going to look at and see how they sway me one way or another on this issue. But I will tell you that my gut is there has been contempt of court. Okay? I don't see anything ambiguous at all about Paragraph 5 of my July 16th, 2020 order. Somebody may think I overreached, but if that was the case, someone should have argued at the time I was overreaching. Someone should have appealed the order. And I think it's a Shoaf/Espinosa problem at this point for anyone to argue about the enforceability of that order.

I think there's nothing ambiguous in the wording. Pursue is not ambiguous. There's nothing confusing about the requirement that any entity who wanted to sue or pursue a claim, you know, commence claim, pursue a claim against Mr. Seery, had to come to the Bankruptcy Court. Standard-fare gatekeeping order.

So what I'm going to be looking at is, do these documents I admitted into evidence change my view on that, and then the harder question is who of the alleged contemnors am I going to think it's clear and convincing committed contempt and -- who are the contemnors, and then, of course, what are the damages? Coercive or compensatory damages?

So, again, you know how I feel, to the extent that's helpful in your planning purposes. I'm pretty convinced contempt of court has occurred. It's just a matter of who's a contemnor and what are the damages.

I'll say a couple of remaining things. I continue to be frustrated, I think was the word people used, about unproductive ways we all spend our time. I am going to spend I don't know how many more hours drafting another ruling on a contempt motion, and attorneys' fees are through the roof. And, you know, I dangled out there a question I couldn't resist about MGM.

And I will tell you, I mean, someone mentioned about their stomach aching. Personal story, I could hardly sleep the night it became public about the Amazon purchase, because, silly me, maybe, I'm thinking game-changer. This is such potentially a windfall, an economic windfall. Maybe this could be the impetus to make everyone get in a room and say look, we've got this wonderful windfall of money. I don't know how much is owned directly or indirectly by the Debtor of MGM stock. I don't know how much the Debtor manages. I don't know how much, you know, some other entity. I know it's probably spread out in many different entities. But I know, I know because I listen, that one or more of the Highland-managed CLOs has some of this, and I think I read -- remember that HCLOF, which now Highland owns more than 50 percent of, has some of this stock. Right?

MR. DONDERO: Do you want to know what happened?

THE COURT: Oh.

A VOICE: No.

THE COURT: Well, okay. So, you know, I can understand I'm getting into maybe uncomfortable territory in a public proceeding, so I'll stop.

But, you know, do we need to set up a status conference? Do you all need to like talk about this? Am I just being naïve? Couldn't this be a game-changer, where maybe it would give new incentive to --

MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, I would -- he's been pretty quiet through the whole hearing, Mr. Clemente. He has the Committee, that a couple of people you've heard have sold claims. They're now held by other parties.

You know, the door is always open. I don't think this is going to be game-changer, unfortunately. We would like nothing more, as Debtor's counsel. We don't enjoy coming to Your Honor for contempt hearings.

Mr. Clemente said that it was productive. We would sure participate. But right now, we have creditors who are very angry that millions and millions of dollars have been spent on really a waste of time and a waste of the Court's time and a waste of everyone's time and eating into the creditors' money. So I would ask Mr. Clemente to address that.

MR. CLEMENTE: I'm here.

THE COURT: Yes, he's way in the back, hoping to be ignored.

MR. CLEMENTE: It's too cold, Your Honor, where I was sitting. For the record, Your Honor, --

THE COURT: I noticed some entity called Muck Holdings bought HarbourVest, according to the docket.

MR. CLEMENTE: That's correct. Muck Holdings bought HarbourVest, and I believe also the Acis claim, and then there's a different entity that bought the Redeemer claim.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. CLEMENTE: So, as we mentioned in our -- one of our pleadings, I think it was the retention pleading for Teneo, the Committee consists of two members currently, Meta-e and UBS.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. CLEMENTE: Obviously, Your Honor just approved the UBS settlement recently. The U.S. Trustee is aware of the make-up of the Committee, and is currently comfortable with the Committee maintaining a two-person membership at this point.

In terms of whether the MGM transaction is a game-changer, we've not yet seen, to Your Honor's point, how all of that rolls up through the various interests that the Debtor may or -- you know, may have --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. CLEMENTE: -- that would be implicated by the MGM transaction. If ultimately the MGM transaction has to actually occur, right? I mean, so, you know, just based on what I read in the public documents, we're not sure when that transaction may actually happen. But obviously it's a good thing for the Debtor's estate because it's going to recognize value for the estate.

In terms of whether it ultimately changes how Mr. Dondero, you know, wishes to proceed, that's entirely up to him, Your Honor. But we don't see it as something at this point that would suggest that there's an overall back to let's talk about a pot plan because of where the MGM transaction might ultimately come out.

So I don't know if that's helpful to Your Honor, but those are -- that's my perspective.

THE COURT: Well, and I'm not trying to, you know, push a pot plan on anyone.

MR. CLEMENTE: No, I understand.

THE COURT: I'm just saying it looked like an economic windfall. I just -- I don't know how much is Highland versus other entities in the so-called byzantine complex, but, gosh, I just hoped that there might be something there to change the dynamic of, you know, lawsuit, lawsuit, lawsuit, lawsuit, motion for contempt, motion for contempt.

MR. CLEMENTE: Agreed, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. CLEMENTE: And like I said, it was a very positive development obviously for the creditors for the Debtor. But whether it's the game-changer that Your Honor would envision, I'm not sure that I can suggest at this point that it is.

I think that, you know, obviously, we don't like to see these lawsuits continue to be filed. That's the whole point of the gatekeeper order, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. CLEMENTE: I didn't say anything during the hearing, but obviously the January 9th order, as Your Honor has said many times, was in the context of a trustee being appointed.

THE COURT: Right. Right.

MR. CLEMENTE: Right? So, and the July 16th order, very similar vein, it's an outshoot of that. In fact, it was contemplated in the January 9th settlement that a CEO could be appointed.

So I think, again, it's just -- it's important, the context in which that January 9th order came into play, for this very reason, so we could avoid this type of litigation, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. CLEMENTE: And so again, I didn't -- I obviously didn't rise to mention that during the hearing, but Your Honor is already aware of that. I didn't need to remind Your Honor of that.

THE COURT: Uh-huh. Okay.

MR. CLEMENTE: Anything else for me, Your Honor?

THE COURT: No. Thank you.

MR. CLEMENTE: Okay, then, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sorry I picked on you. But, all right. Well, again, I hope the message has landed in the way I hope will matter, and that is I'm going to look at your documents but I feel very strongly that, unless there's something in there that, whoa, is somehow eye-opening, I'm going to find contempt of court. It's just a matter of who and what the damages are. There's just not a thing in the world ambiguous about Paragraph 5 of the July 9th, 2020 order. So I'll get to it as soon as we humanly can get to it.

Mr. Morris, anything else?

MR. MORRIS: Nothing. No, thank you.

THE COURT: I guess I'll see you Thursday on the WebEx. Thank you.

THE CLERK: All rise.

DALLAS, TEXAS - JUNE 8, 2023 - 9:42 A.M.

THE CLERK: All rise. United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division, is now in session, The Honorable Stacey Jernigan presiding.

THE COURT: Good morning. Please be seated. All right. We are here this morning for a setting in Highland. This is on a motion of Hunter Mountain for leave to file an adversary proceeding. I will start out by getting appearances from lawyers in the courtroom.

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, Your Honor. Sawnie McEntire along with my partner Roger McCleary and Tim Miller on behalf of Hunter Mountain Investment Trust, Ltd.

THE COURT: Thank you.

MR. MORRIS: Good morning, Your Honor. John Morris, Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones, for the Reorganized Highland, for the Highland Claimant Trust. I'm joined by Mr. Pomerantz, Mr. Demo, and Ms. Winograd.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MR. STANCIL: Good morning, Your Honor. Mark Stancil from Willkie Farr & Gallagher for Mr. Seery. I'm joined by my colleague Josh Levy.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MR. MCILWAIN: Good morning, Your Honor. Brent McIlwain from Holland & Knight here for Muck Holding, LLC, Jessup Holdings, LLC, Farallon Capital Management, LLC, and Stonehill Capital Management, LLC.

THE COURT: Thank you. All right. Is that all of our lawyer appearances? I know we have observers on the WebEx, but I assume you are just observers. We scheduled this to be a live hearing for participants.

All right. Well, we had some ground rules for how this would go forward today. We, of course, have had two -- I call them hearings on what kind of hearing we're going to have. We've had two status conferences. And so our ground rules were set. Three hours of total presentation time for each the Movant and the aggregate Respondents. We also had an order regarding what discovery would or would not be allowed.

And to my surprise, there were a flurry of pleadings. We're a few minutes late getting out here because we were trying to digest what was filed late yesterday and into the night.

So I understand we have a controversy about a couple of expert witnesses who were listed on Monday on the Movants' exhibit and witness list. And I've seen a motion to exclude the expert witnesses' testimony. And I think we need to address that right off the bat. I don't want to take too much time on this, because, again, we're going to finish today, and I won't let this housekeeping matter eat into our three hours, but I want to get going. So I'll hear from Movant, Mr. McEntire.

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, may --

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MR. STANCIL: We moved to exclude, so I would propose that my colleague, Mr. Levy, address this motion very briefly if --

THE COURT: Well, I guess --

MR. STANCIL: Or I will do as --

THE COURT: -- that actually makes sense.

MR. STANCIL: Okay.

THE COURT: I was thinking Mr. McEntire teed up the issue, but I suppose you did with the motion to exclude. So, Counsel?

MR. LEVY: Thank you, Your Honor. Josh Levy on behalf of Mr. Seery.

So, we think our papers largely speak for themselves, but two additional points we'd like to raise. In the response filed by Hunter Mountain this morning, and this is Docket Entry 3828, in Paragraph 11, they argue that this is a bench hearing on colorability, not a trial where junk science is a concern. But junk science is precisely what they're trying to introduce here. They have raised two expert witnesses, one who purports to be an expert in compensation but has no experience whatsoever in evaluating compensation, and they provide no methodology for their conclusion.

For example, they claim to have identified red flags.

They never explain what those red flags are, why they are red flags, or how they determined they were red flags. This is junk science, precisely what the Federal Rules are designed to exclude.

But that shouldn't detract from the broader procedural point that this is the first time we're hearing about expert witnesses, at 10:00 p.m. three days before the hearing. This is a trial by ambush. This motion was filed in March, we've been litigating this motion for over two months now, and this is the first time we're hearing about any expert witnesses.

As Your Honor noted, we've had multiple conferences. We've had rules setting the ground rules for this hearing. We've had orders setting the scope of discovery. But now Hunter Mountain is trying to pull a bait-and-switch. After never mentioning any experts, after obtaining orders limiting the scope of discovery, they then wait until right before the hearing to disclose their experts, ensuring that these experts are insulated from any kind of discovery and can ambush us at the hearing.

I'm happy to answer any other questions, but we believe they should be excluded and the accompanying exhibits should also be excluded.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you. And the accompanying exhibits, I don't review exhibits before a trial or a hearing because I don't know what's going to be objected to and admitted. So do you want to point out, were there expert reports in the proposed exhibits?

MR. LEVY: These were charts and analyses prepared by their experts, not actual expert reports.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. LEVY: In their witness and exhibit list, Hunter Mountain included several paragraphs that I guess serves as what would be their expert reports. And then it would be Exhibits 39 through 52, which consist of CVs, materials reviewed, and then what they term "data charts" prepared by their experts.

THE COURT: 39 through 52? Oh, I'm looking at the wrong exhibit notebook. Oh.

(Pause.)

THE COURT: Okay. Here we go. All right. No questions at this time.

Mr. McEntire?

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, Your Honor. May I proceed?

THE COURT: You may.

MR. MCENTIRE: Again, my presentation and response is subject to our objection concerning that any evidence is being admitted for any purpose, other than what we believe is the proper standard of review. So my response and our offer of these experts is subject to that objection.

With that said, Mr. Levy's argument he just presented to the Court presupposes that my client has a duty under 9014 to provide a report, which we do not; to provide detailed disclosures, which we do not, because 9014 is specifically exempted from the scope of Rule 26. What we did, we didn't have to do. What we did, and I made the decision to provide them some disclosure and identification of who they were, their backgrounds, and --

THE COURT: Well, let me stop you.

MR. MCENTIRE: Certainly.

THE COURT: "What we did, we didn't have to do." The Local Rules, first of all, do require an exhibit and witness list. And --

MR. MCENTIRE: We've provided that.

THE COURT: I know. I know. But you -- I thought I heard you --

MR. MCENTIRE: No, no.

THE COURT: -- saying you didn't have to do that. You do have to do that.

MR. MCENTIRE: No, no, no.

THE COURT: But I guess what you're saying is --

MR. MCENTIRE: What we provided was more than what the Local Rules require.

THE COURT: How so?

MR. MCENTIRE: We provided CVs. We provided their backgrounds. We disclosed in the actual witness description who they were and the key components of their opinions. And we refer to their data charts. That is not something that the Local Rule requires.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, let me back up. We have our Local Rules, but then we had our two status conferences --

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes.

THE COURT: -- on what the format of the hearing --

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes.

THE COURT: -- would be.

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes.

THE COURT: And, of course, there was extensive discussion, evidence or no evidence? What did the legal standard, colorability, require?

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes.

THE COURT: And I came out in the end and said, if people want to put on witnesses, they're entitled to put on witnesses. I think there may be a mixture of a fact question and law question on colorability. So, and then I set a three-hour time limit and I said, if someone wants to depose Mr. Seery and Mr. Dondero, they can, but no more discovery other than that. Okay?

MR. MCENTIRE: I understand.

THE COURT: Why then did you not say, well, wait, Judge, if it's going to be evidence, we're just letting you know, in full disclosure, we might call a couple of experts, and this may impact your decision on what kind of discovery can happen. And this may impact your decision on whether three hours each side is enough.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, Your Honor, in fairness, I don't think we had made a final decision to actually designate any experts. And at the time, the focus was on other witnesses. But there was no exclusion, there was no limitation at all on my right to bring an expert. And the Rules are very clear. And the Court's --

THE COURT: But I specifically limited discovery, and it was on your motion. It was on your motion we set the hearing on --

MR. MCENTIRE: Actually, --

THE COURT: You know, did you need a continuance, because if we were going to have evidence, maybe you needed a continuance. And then there was a discovery issue raised.

MR. MCENTIRE: To be clear, Your Honor, I'm looking at your orders.

THE COURT: Got them in front of me.

MR. MCENTIRE: Your order of May 26, 2023. You said, You can put on your witnesses and the Court is going to rule. You made no limitations as to who the witnesses would be. Your order did not limit the scope of witnesses to simply Mr. Seery or Mr. Dondero. In fact, any suggestion that you did limit the witnesses is contrary --

THE COURT: Now, which order are you looking at?

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm looking at the May 26, 2023 order, Page 51, Lines 3 through 14.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: You also stated --

THE COURT: I have -- have I entered three orders on this? I've got a May 10th order. I've got a May 22nd order.

MR. MCENTIRE: And I would also point out, Your Honor, --

THE COURT: Could you answer my question? I want to look at what you're looking at.

MR. MCENTIRE: Certainly.

THE COURT: Here we -- this is the one. Okay. Aha. Okay. May 26.

MR. MCENTIRE: Page 51, Lines 3 through 14.

THE COURT: I've entered three orders on what kind of hearing we're going to have. Okay. So you're looking where?

MR. MCENTIRE: Page 51, Lines 3 through 14. "You can put on your witnesses."

THE COURT: Page 51?

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, ma'am.

THE COURT: Oh. You're looking at a transcript, not the order.

MR. MCENTIRE: That's right. I apologize.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: Yeah, I'm looking at the transcript from the hearing.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, I'm looking at my order.

MR. MCENTIRE: And the order, the order also specifies no limitation at all in connection with the -- the --

THE COURT: But my order was based on what was discussed that day.

MR. MCENTIRE: And what was --

THE COURT: If you had said, hmm, Judge, if you're going to allow evidence, we may call a couple of experts, then there would have been a whole discussion about that and did I need to limit the discovery, as I did. And there would have been a whole discussion of, well, three hours, three hours each side, is that going to be enough if we have experts?

MR. MCENTIRE: The discovery ruling that you made was on my motion, and at the time I was not seeking to take any expert depositions. And you denied my request to take ample discovery. You limited my right to take only one deposition, without documents.

The issue of taking expert discovery was not even on the table. However, you made it very --

THE COURT: Well, that's my point precisely. The whole purpose of the hearing was, what kind of hearing are we going to have on June 8th?

MR. MCENTIRE: I understand. And our position --

THE COURT: We had already had one status conference on argument only versus evidence. And I allowed you all to file some briefing, which you did. And then I issued an order after the briefing, saying, I think I should allow evidence on the colorability question. I'm not forcing anyone to put on evidence, but if you want to put on evidence, you can.

And then you filed your motions and we had the next status conference on what kind of hearing we're going to have. And there was more argument: We don't think the evidence is appropriate, but if evidence is appropriate, we want you to continue the hearing to allow all kinds of discovery. I don't know what. And it was right before Memorial Day, and I hated the fact that a bunch of subpoenas were going to go out and ruin people's holidays. But there was no discussion then of, okay, but just so you know, since you have made the ruling that evidence can come in, we're going to have a couple of experts.

MR. MCENTIRE: As I've already mentioned, Your Honor, we had not made a decision to call experts at that time. We made a decision to call the experts shortly before we filed our designations.

The point here is this. The Rules do not require me to provide any more disclosure than I have. I have gone over and above the Local Rules.

If the Court believes that it would have allowed more time for this hearing, I would advise the Court that opposing counsel vehemently opposed any type of postponement or continuance. The discovery that I was requesting was discovery from fact witnesses. Experts were not at issue at that time. Experts are --

THE COURT: Because --

MR. MCENTIRE: -- at issue now.

THE COURT: -- nobody knew that experts might be called.

MR. MCENTIRE: I have a right to call experts, Your --

THE COURT: It changes the whole complexion.

MR. MCENTIRE: But I have a right to call experts, under the Rules. I have a right, a fundamental due process -- let me -- may I finish, Your Honor? A fundamental due process right to call experts. Their attempt to charge some type of Daubert challenge is nothing but a shotgun blast on the wall, having no meaning at all. At a minimum, I have a right to put the witnesses on the stand and we'll have a Daubert hearing.

If they want more time, they need to ask for it. They didn't ask for it. Their solution is to strike my experts, which is improper. It would be improper for this Court to strike my experts when they have been properly tendered under the Local Rules. They have not cited an alternative remedy.

If they want the alternative remedy, they need to ask the Court.

THE COURT: My next question is: How do you propose to get this all done in only three hours?

MR. MCENTIRE: We intend to move quickly.

THE COURT: But, see, now they, I'm guessing, prepared their case assuming there weren't going to be experts. And they, if they're good lawyers, which I know you all are, they have their script of the kind of things they were going to ask the witnesses.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, did they have a --

THE COURT: And now they've got to carve out time for two last-minute experts?

MR. MCENTIRE: They had an option. And one of the options was they could have called me up on Tuesday and asked for their depositions and I probably would have agreed.

THE COURT: I already said no depositions except Seery and Dondero.

MR. MCENTIRE: Then they could have come and filed a different kind of motion with the Court.

Their only remedy that they're seeking is a draconian one. There are other options that are more consistent with the implementation of due process here, Your Honor, not striking my experts, which were properly identified under the Local Rules.

If the Court is going to strike my experts, note our objection. We are tendering our experts. We will put -- like to put a proffer on for the Fifth Circuit or for the appellate process. But if the Court is going to strike our experts, then it needs to do so. We object because we have done everything correctly.

THE COURT: Okay. Here's another problem. I have not had time to process their motion to exclude. Beyond the procedural issues, they are saying junk science, that there's inadequate expertise on the part of I guess at least one of them regarding executive compensation. I haven't had -- they filed their motion to exclude at 4:00-something yesterday. Okay?

MR. MCENTIRE: I understand.

THE COURT: Now, yeah, I could have stayed up all night. I stayed up pretty late anyway, by the way. But --

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, first of all, --

THE COURT: -- I haven't even had the time to process and intelligently rule on their motion --

MR. MCENTIRE: I appreciate that, and I'll respect --

THE COURT: -- as far as the --

MR. MCENTIRE: I'll respect the Court's statement.

THE COURT: -- junk science argument.

MR. MCENTIRE: I'll respect the Court's statement. Their process and the procedure they've adopted is improper, because if you're going to have a Daubert hearing, that's a live hearing. Or they're going to have to have evidence to support their challenge. This is simply a conclusory shotgun blast on the wall, Your Honor.

If you even want to consider a Daubert challenge, the proper procedure is to put the witnesses on the stand and have an opportunity to have a proffer of evidence and a cross-examination. That's the proper procedure. Throwing something and innuendo and rhetoric and conclusions is not a proper Daubert motion at all. The Court could deny their Daubert motion just on those grounds.

THE COURT: I'm not going to rule on a motion that I've barely had a chance to read, not to mention your response that was filed at 8:00-something this morning.

MR. MORRIS: It was.

MR. MCENTIRE: It was. Well, then the option is you need to continue the proceeding to allow the experts to take the stand.

THE COURT: Well, I know you have thought on that, but here is something I'm contemplating doing. We'll go forward with the hearing in the manner my order said we would go forward with it. My, I guess, Order #3 of my three orders. And at the end of the evidence, you can argue in closing, each of you, why we should keep the evidence open to come back another day on only the experts. But time matters. If you've all already used your three hours on each side, then are we going to come back for five minutes on each of them? I mean, I don't know.

And then, of course, I would have to, if I ruled in that way, I believe I would have to give them a chance to depose these people.

MR. MCENTIRE: I think that would be reasonable.

THE COURT: Okay. But you think you can get all of your evidence in, other than your experts, and your opening statement, if any, your closing argument, if any, in three hours?

MR. MCENTIRE: I'll do my best.

THE COURT: Well, if you -- it's not a matter of -- I'm just saying this may all be an academic argument, because I'm not increasing this to more than three hours each. We've fully vetted that.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, what the Court is then doing by virtue of your ruling is that you're making me actually present my evidence in a shortened form today, two hours, two and a half hours, not knowing how -- whether or not you are actually going to allow experts.

So, without the certainty, I will have to abbreviate my entire presentation, giving them the advantage of putting more evidence on than I, in an effort to anticipate a positive ruling, which you're not prepared to provide yet. And so I'm actually being penalized.

THE COURT: Counsel, we had two status conferences on what kind of hearing we were going to have.

MR. MCENTIRE: I understand.

THE COURT: Now, the fact that you had not decided your strategy for this hearing, that's not my fault. Again, we had two hearings on what kind of hearing we were going to have today. We could have fully vetted this. I could have heard about the experts, I could have decided if we were going to continue the hearing past June 8th, could have decided if we were going to allow more depositions.

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, --

THE COURT: I could have fully studied the merits of the motion to exclude and decided if this is junk science or not.

MR. MCENTIRE: I would request a ruling at this time, Your Honor, on the experts. If you are not inclined to provide a ruling to me on the experts at this time, I would effectively be penalized on my time limits. I will have to set aside enough time to put the experts on, not knowing, not knowing whether you're going to give me the opportunity to do so until the end of the day. And that would be -- that would be punishment.

THE COURT: Isn't this going to be just preparing your case you would have -- I mean, going forward with your case the way you would have?

MR. MCENTIRE: No, I don't -- really don't think so. I think there's --

THE COURT: I mean, --

MR. MCENTIRE: There's a difference.

THE COURT: -- you did not prepare your witnesses and your possible cross-examination with the expectation of I'll get my two experts in?

MR. MCENTIRE: My -- of course. But the point is, then I'm going to have to set aside a half an hour or maybe even longer from my other witness preparations, not knowing whether you'll even give me that time.

THE COURT: Isn't the other side going to have to do the very same thing?

MR. MCENTIRE: No.

THE COURT: Why not? They don't know how I'm going to rule. I don't know how I'm going to rule. I have not studied the motion to exclude the way I should.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. Well, Your Honor, we request a ruling now. But if the Court is not inclined to do so, please note our objection.

THE COURT: All right. I'll give the Movants the last word. And I say "Movants" plural. I'm trying to remember where I saw a joinder and when I did not. Did I see a joinder? I can't remember.

MR. MORRIS: Can we just have a moment, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Okay. Okay.

MR. MCILWAIN: Your Honor, my clients did file a joinder, but --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCILWAIN: -- I'm going to let them handle this.

THE COURT: Okay.

(Pause.)

THE COURT: Counsel?

MR. LEVY: Thank you, Your Honor. Two brief points we'd like to make. The first is on the Rules. So, Hunter Mountain is focused on Rule 26(a) regarding reports. However, Rule 26(b) applies to contested matters under Rule 9014. And as we explain in Paragraph -- we explain in our brief, that -- or, in Paragraph 19 of our brief, that under Rule 26(b) we're entitled to depose the experts.

And so we agree with Your Honor's suggestion that if there's going to be any sort of experts, then we need the opportunity to depose them. This is Rule 26(b)(4)(A), which expressly does apply to contested matters under Bankruptcy Rule 9014(b).

The second point is we agree with the approach Your Honor has proposed. We think, for today, both sides can put on their full cases without expert witnesses. Both sides can have the full three hours, which should address Hunter Mountain's concern. And if Your Honor decides at the conclusion of the hearing that expert testimony would be helpful, then we could take the opportunity to depose their experts and then come back for an additional half-hour for each side to address any expert testimony that Your Honor believes would be helpful.

THE COURT: Okay. Is your proposal that you each today would be limited to two and a half/two and a half? Or three/three, and then another hour, 30 minutes/30 minutes, if I --

MR. LEVY: Three/three.

THE COURT: -- decide to allow any experts?

MR. LEVY: Yeah. Three. Three and three for each side, the hearing contemplated by Your Honor's orders, today. And if Your Honor decides that expert testimony would be helpful, we could come back for an hour, for half an hour on each side, regarding experts.

THE COURT: All right. Mr. McEntire, what about that?

Oh, I'm sorry, did you --

MR. STANCIL: Oh, I'm sorry. Just one additional point, Your Honor. We would ask that Your Honor's ruling on the ultimate admissibility of this be limited to what they've actually put in front of us. The day for the hearing is today, so I think I'd like -- I'd suspect Your Honor would like to avoid another raft of submissions. So we would just ask that they live or die with what they've said in the way of methodology, disclosures, and the like.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. McEntire, this seems like the best of all worlds, maybe.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, it may be the best of the worlds in which we're operating.

My first position is that the experts are admissible, period. And the Rules do not require anything more than what we've already done. In fact, we've done more than we were supposed to.

THE COURT: What is your argument about 26(b)(4), which --

MR. MCCLEARY: If they want to take a deposition, they could have called me up and asked for it.

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, I was --

THE COURT: Wait a second. They were under a court order. Okay?

MR. MCENTIRE: They could have -- they could have sought --

THE COURT: They were under my order. Okay? They would have been violating my order if they had done it.

MR. STANCIL: I was also, Your Honor, I was in a --

THE COURT: Not to mention that it was --

MR. STANCIL: I was in an airplane from 9:00 a.m.

Tuesday until 9:00 p.m. Tuesday.

THE COURT: I'm surprised a lot of you got here, with the Martian atmosphere that I saw pictures of.

Yes. That's not realistic, to think that you disclose an expert on Monday for a Thursday hearing and they can call you up and --

MR. MCENTIRE: The other --

THE COURT: -- quickly put together a deposition. So, --

MR. MCENTIRE: Sure. The other option, --

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MCENTIRE: -- of course, Your Honor, as I mentioned before, and I'm not going to repeat myself, is they -- there's other forms of relief they could seek. But under the circumstances, and in light of your apparent leaning on the issue, then this is the best under the circumstances that they've suggested. We'd like an hour each.

I would also point out that -- well, anyway, that's it, Your Honor. Thank you.

THE COURT: All right. So we are going to go forward as planned, three hours/three hours. No experts today. In making your closings -- well, this is kind of awkward. I'm trying to think if we really have closing arguments, when you don't know if it's -- it doesn't seem to make sense. Like, I guess we could have closing arguments if you want, subject to supplementing your closing arguments if we come back a second day with the experts. Okay?

And I'm not making a ruling today on the motion to exclude. I'm going to hear what I hear. And maybe what we'll do is I'll give you a placeholder hearing if we're going to come back on the experts. Then I'll go back and read the motion, the response, and make my ruling on are we coming back for another day of experts. Okay? Got it?

And with regard to the comment about not adding to, I think that's a fair point. You can't add new exhibits that the expert might talk about or that you might want me to consider between now and whenever the tentative day two is.

MR. MCENTIRE: Understand. We agree with that.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, there is one -- one exhibit that has a small typo transcription of a number on it. So we would like to substitute for that. It's a minor detail. But I'll provide opposing counsel with that. But it's very minor.

THE COURT: You have it today, I presume?

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, we have it.

THE COURT: Okay. So as long as you hand it to them today.

MR. STANCIL: No objection, Your Honor. We do -- I think someone is back at the office working on a short reply on our motion, which I assume we could file in support of -- I mean, we filed our motion. They filed an opposition. I assume we would be entitled under the Rules to file a short reply on the actual exclusion issue.

THE COURT: That is fair, but let's talk about timing. You said someone is back at the office working on it. Could you get it on file by Monday?

MR. STANCIL: Yes, ma'am.

THE COURT: Okay. Then that'll be allowed if it's filed by the end of the day Monday.

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, I'm providing a copy of Exhibit 43 to opposing counsel, which is the substitute exhibit.

And obviously, we'd like to have an opportunity to respond to what their filing is on Monday.

THE COURT: No. I mean, motion, response, reply. That's all our Rules permit. Okay? Motion, response, reply. Okay.

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Well, with that, do the parties want to make opening statements? If so, Mr. McEntire, you go first.

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, Your Honor. We have a PowerPoint I would like to utilize, if I could.

THE COURT: You may.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, before we get to that, the Plaintiff has objected to virtually every single exhibit that we have. Should we deal with the evidence first, because I don't want to refer to documents or evidence in my opening that they're objecting to. They've literally objected to every single exhibit except one, although I think they're withdrawing certain of those objections.

I don't -- I don't know if the Court has had an opportunity to see the objection that was filed to the exhibits.

THE COURT: That was what was filed like at 11:00 last night or so?

MR. MORRIS: That's right.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: And so at 2:00, 3:00, 4:00, 5:00 o'clock this morning, I actually typed out a response that I'd like to hand up to the Court. But we've got to resolve the evidentiary issues before we get to this.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, --

MR. MORRIS: And I don't know what their position is going to be --

THE COURT: -- as a housekeeping matter, let's do that first. And let's start with the Movants' exhibits. Do we have any stipulations on admissibility of Movants' exhibits?

MR. MORRIS: So, if I understand correctly, Your Honor, you'd like to know if we object to any of their exhibits first?

THE COURT: Yes. And --

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: -- we'll hold --

MR. MORRIS: Because we have very limited objections.

THE COURT: Yes. We're going to keep on hold for now your exhibits to the expert-related, --

MR. MORRIS: Yes.

THE COURT: -- your objections to the expert-related ones.

MR. MORRIS: Right. I think -- I think --

THE COURT: So let's not talk about, for this moment, --

MR. MORRIS: 39 --

THE COURT: -- 39 through 52.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: But as for 1 through 38 or 53 through 80, do the Respondents have objections?

MR. LEVY: Yes, Your Honor. We have very limited objections.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. LEVY: So, the three to which we object in their entirety are Exhibits 24, 25, and 76, all of which we object to on relevance grounds.

Exhibits 24 and 25 are email correspondence between counsel in an unrelated state court matter where Mr. Seery is responding to a third-party subpoena regarding the preservation of his text messages on his iPhone. This has absolutely nothing to do with whether or not the Movants have stated a colorable claim for breach of fiduciary duties.

What this appears to be is related to an entirely separate motion raised by Dugaboy regarding the preservation of Mr. Seery's iPhone. So we object to Exhibits 24 and 25 because they have simply nothing to do with the issues in this hearing.

We also object to Exhibit 76, which is a filing from two years ago in a different bankruptcy matter, from Acis, regarding an injunction in place in that -- in that plan about issues that -- that occurred before the bankruptcy was in place. So this is just an entirely different case from issues that arose many, many years ago that, again, has nothing to do with this case.

THE COURT: This was whether the Acis plan injunction barred some lawsuit?

MR. LEVY: Exactly.

THE COURT: Okay. Okay. Is that all?

MR. LEVY: We also have limited objections to certain exhibits that we think are admissible for the -- for the fact they're said, but not the truth of the matter asserted.

For example, Exhibits 1 and 2 are complaints filed in those actions. We have no objection to those coming in, but not for the truth of the matter asserted. These are advocacy pieces and pleadings. They're not actually substantive evidence.

And we would have similar -- similar objections to Exhibits 4, 6, 11, --

THE COURT: Wait. 4 is James Dondero Handwritten Notes, May 2021.

MR. LEVY: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. LEVY: So, we have no objection to that coming into evidence.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. LEVY: But there are -- those are hearsay. They're not admissible standing by themselves for the truth of the matter asserted.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. LEVY: And Exhibit 6 are news articles. Similarly, they're hearsay, but we have no objection to them coming in. They're admissible for the fact that they're published, but not the truth of the matter asserted.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. LEVY: Exhibit 11, which is a motion filed by the Debtor. Similarly, it's for -- we have no objection to anything on the docket coming in, but anything that's an advocacy piece, like a motion as opposed to an order, we think is not admissible for the truth of the matter asserted.

And that would be a similar objection, then, for Exhibit 58, which is a complaint.

Exhibits 59, 60, and 61 are -- are letters by counsel for Mr. Dondero to the U.S. Trustee's Office. We similarly have no objection to that coming in, but not for the truth of the matter asserted.

And Exhibits 62 and 63, Exhibit 62 is an attorney declaration attaching, similarly, documents that are -- that are advocacy pieces.

And Exhibit 63 appears to be an asset chart prepared by counsel. So it would be a similar objection.

And Exhibit 66 also is a declaration attaching documents.

No objections to those coming in, but not for the truth of the matter asserted.

Exhibits 72, 73, and 74 are all -- well, 72 are press articles. 73 and 74 are briefs. We don't object to that coming in, but we object to it being admitted for the truth of the matter asserted.

And similarly, Exhibit 80 is a pleading in an SDNY bankruptcy. We have no objection to that coming in, but not for the truth of the matter asserted.

And finally, Exhibits 81, 82, 83 don't specify particular documents. They appear to largely be reservations of rights. And so we would likewise reserve our right to object once we see any specific documents --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. LEVY: -- admitted under these exhibits.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. --

MR. LEVY: And I understand my colleague has an objection to Exhibit 5.

MR. MORRIS: Exhibit 5, which is the subject, I believe, of an unopposed sealing motion. That document has to do with purported restrictions on certain securities. Since it's subject to a sealing motion, I don't want to say too much more than that, other than that -- we don't think it should be admitted, because you can just see from the information on the document that it was created after the termination of a shared services agreement.

However, I'm hopeful that we can resolve the issue by simply stipulating that in December 2020 MGM was on a restricted list. What that means, what the consequences of it, the rest of it can be the subject of discussion. But if they're trying to get that document in for that particular fact, we would stipulate to it in order to resolve that dispute.

THE COURT: All right. Well, that's lots to respond to, Mr. McCleary. Why don't we start with the outright objections: 24, 25. It's apparently text messages related to Mr. Seery's iPhone. I know we've got another motion pending out there that's not set today regarding Mr. Seery's iPhone.

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor. Well, as the Court is aware, we've attempted to get discovery from Mr. Seery in relation to the allegations in this lawsuit. And by the way, all of our exhibits that we're tendering are subject to our objections that this should not be an evidentiary hearing. I just want to make that clear.

THE COURT: Understood.

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay. Thank you. So, we're not waiving that.

The Exhibits 24 and 25 are relevant to the fact that he's -- he's not preserving information that is relevant to the claims in this lawsuit. And that also is something that is a factor in the colorability of our claims in this case.

THE COURT: How?

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, there is an effort, we believe, underway to not have information available for us to discover. And it reflects that they have been involved in providing -- we think supports -- providing material nonpublic information to other people that would be in his phone. And we want him to preserve it. And we think the fact that he is not is evidence that supports the colorability of our claims.

THE COURT: So, --

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, this --

THE COURT: No. No. I'm processing that. You're wanting the Court to receive into evidence a text that may say something like, I delete messages periodically on my phone, to support your claim that you have a colorable claim that some sort of improper insider disclosure of information and insider trading is going on? He said he had an automatic delete feature on his phone; therefore, he -- that must be evidence of a colorable claim for insider trading. That's the argument?

MR. MCENTIRE: May I add to it, supplement, Your Honor? Mr. Seery, in his deposition, indicated that he did receive a text message that he had recently reviewed from Stonehill in February of 2021. To the extent, however, that is inconsistent with the fact that he has an automatic delete button, suggesting to me that certain text messages have been selectively saved and some other messages have been not selectively saved.

THE COURT: We don't have that motion set today.

MR. MCENTIRE: This is not -- that has nothing to do with the motion. It has to do with the fact that what is being presented to the Court in response, the Respondents' argument, is a selected window, a selected picture, that is -- distorts the reality of what we think has been destroyed evidence.

Mr. Seery can't save one message that may be helpful to them and not save others that may not be. And it is inconsistent with the notion that this automatic delete button was already in effect, so why does he have one favorable message? That's why it's relevant.

THE COURT: Maybe he stopped using the automatic delete after --

MR. MCENTIRE: No, he didn't at this time, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, --

MR. MCENTIRE: That's the relevance.

THE COURT: So, --

MR. MCCLEARY: And he should never have used it, Your Honor, given his role and responsibilities.

THE COURT: We don't have that motion set today. What is the content of these emails? February 16th, March 10th, 2023? What is the content, for me to really zero in --

MR. LEVY: I have --

THE COURT: -- on relevance or not.

MR. LEVY: -- copies of the emails, if that would be helpful --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. LEVY: -- to Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, you know, now I'm seeing them, so I don't know what the big deal is if --

MR. LEVY: As Your Honor can see, these are emails between counsel regarding preservation, which has nothing to do with whether there are colorable claims for fiduciary duties.

I'll add that -- and to show that this has nothing to do with this case and it is an attempt to generate a fishing expedition for documents in an entirely unrelated motion, we had a meet-and-confer where we represented to the counsel bringing that motion that we have been able to recover the text messages from the iCloud.

And so this is really just a sideshow. It has nothing to do with the issues of the colorability of claims for breach of fiduciary duties. It should not be introduced into evidence in this hearing.

THE COURT: All right. I'm going to sustain the objection, but this is without prejudice to you re-urging admission of these messages at the hearing on the motion regarding Mr. Seery's phone. Okay? Now, --

MR. MCCLEARY: That's as to 24 and 25, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Correct. And let's go now to the other one, the Exhibit 76, the Acis-related document, the relevance of that. Statement of Interested Party in Response to Motion of NexPoint to Confirm Discharge or Plan Injunction Does Not Bar Suit, or Alternatively, for Relief from All Applicable

Injunctions.

What is the relevance for today's matter?

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, this is background of pleadings and just background information generally to support the allegations made in the case and the background.

THE COURT: What do you mean, background?

MR. MCCLEARY: Kind of the history relative to the claims trading and relative to the claims of the use of insider information.

THE COURT: Okay. Be more specific, because I certainly have a background education on Acis litigation.

(Pause.)

MR. MCCLEARY: Yeah. Your Honor, this is a data point that is referred to in one of our experts' data charts, I believe, so --

THE COURT: All right. So let's just carry that to --

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes.

THE COURT: I'm just going to mark it as carried along with 39 through 62, related to the experts.

(HMIT's Exhibits 39 through 62 and Exhibit 76 carried.)

THE COURT: Okay. What about all of these objections that we don't object per se but we want it clear that the documents are not being offered for the truth of the matter asserted because there's hearsay?

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, I'll let Mr. McCleary address all of those.

I want to point out one exception, and that is Exhibit #4, which are handwritten notes from Mr. Jim Dondero. Those are not -- they are being offered for the truth of the matter asserted because it's an admission of a party opponent in these proceedings, and that's Farallon. They reflect significant statements and admissions by Farallon, which are not hearsay. It's an exception to the hearsay rule. And they're being offered for more -- they are being offered for the truth of the matter asserted, because -- and it's admissible in that format.

THE COURT: But are you referring to hearsay within hearsay? Because there would be, I guess -- I guess the handwritten notes of Mr. Dondero are his hearsay, and then you're saying there's --

MR. MCENTIRE: So, this is reflecting statements made to Mr. Dondero that are admissions of a party opponent.

MR. LEVY: None of that has been established. These are not notes from anybody at Farallon or Stonehill which could potentially be a party admission. These are notes by Mr. Dondero about what was purportedly said by somebody else, and there's no evidence that these were kept in the regular course of business.

This is hearsay and hearsay within hearsay. And this could be established in testimony, but it can't be admitted -- the document can't be admitted to speak on behalf of a third person who's not here.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, first of all, I agree, we'd need to lay a foundation. But that's not the purpose of this discussion right now. I am simply advising the Court that once I lay a foundation, it comes in for all purposes. It comes in as an admission of a party opponent.

MR. LEVY: It is not an admission of a party opponent. It is not notes or statements by any actual defendant. These are notes by Mr. Dondero being introduced for his own benefit. It is not a party admission.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to carry that one. If one of the witnesses that's on the witness stand -- well, presumably Mr. Dondero will be called -- we can get context at that time and decide if it's appropriate to let it in and let you cross-examine him on them if that's going to come in. All right? So we'll carry this one.

Anything else, though, unique, or can we consider as a batch all these other objections to -- most of them being pleadings, not all of them but a lot of them -- that the Respondents just want it clear that they're not being offered for the truth of the matter asserted? Your response?

MR. MCCLEARY: They're, again, largely data points relied on by experts in the course of coming up with their opinions and just setting the background and history of the claims trading.

THE COURT: Well, then which ones are data points? Because I just need to carry those, right? If they're not being offered for any other reason.

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, I would have to -- we would have to refer to the charts of the experts, Your Honor, to determine that on all of them.

MR. MCENTIRE: In order to facilitate this, may I make a suggestion, Your Honor? We'll agree that if we're going to offer anything that he's identified other than for the purposes indicated, we will advise the Court. Otherwise, we'll accept the limitations imposed. And as we go through, if we offer an exhibit that is more than the truth -- if we are offering it for the truth of the matter asserted, we will advise the Court, and then we could take it up then. I'm just trying to get the ball rolling.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, that's still going to be a time-consuming thing, maybe. But, okay. Just, when we start the clock here -- very shortly, I hope -- I want people clear that when you make objections, that counts against your three hours. Okay? All right?

MR. LEVY: Okay. Understood, Your Honor.

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, we have certainly made objection to some of their exhibits.

THE COURT: All right. Well, shall we turn to those now?

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, they objected to every single exhibit except one, so let's be clear.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: If they're withdrawing them, that's fine.

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, --

MR. MORRIS: But let's be clear.

MR. MCCLEARY: -- we are not withdrawing our general objection to all the evidence, of course. Just --

THE COURT: Okay. Let me just say for the record right now, I understand and you are preserving for all purposes your ability to argue on appeal that it was error for the Court to consider any evidence. Okay? You have not waived that argument by --

MR. MCCLEARY: Thank you.

THE COURT: -- now --

MR. MCCLEARY: Thank you. We can have --

THE COURT: -- agreeing to the admission of anybody's exhibit or offering your own exhibits.

MR. MCCLEARY: And we could have a running objection on that basis, on relevance to all the witnesses and the evidence that they offer on that basis. I would request that.

THE COURT: Well, okay, let me be clear. Relevance. Your argument is that no evidence is relevant because the Court doesn't need to consider any evidence --

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: -- on the colorability issue. You've got a running objection. It's not destroyed for appeal purposes. Okay?

MR. MCCLEARY: Thank you, Your Honor. Then, subject to that, in terms --

MR. MORRIS: I'm sorry to interrupt, but --

MR. MCCLEARY: Sure.

MR. MORRIS: -- would it be helpful if I gave the Court my list so she can see --

MR. MCCLEARY: Sure.

MR. MORRIS: -- what the --

MR. MCCLEARY: Sure.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: You may. I'm not sure, if everything has been objected to, I'm not sure how --

MR. MORRIS: Because I've tried -- I've tried to organize it in a way that would be helpful.

THE COURT: Okay.

(Pause.)

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay. Your --

THE COURT: I'm ready.

MR. MCCLEARY: -- Honor, yes.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MCCLEARY: So, we are withdrawing our objections, other than the general objections to relevance based on the evidentiary nature of the proceeding, to Exhibits 1 and 2.

With respect to 3, this is a verified petition to take deposition for suit and seek documents filed on July 22, 2021. We object on the grounds of relevance and hearsay to that. Is that --

THE COURT: Well, --

MR. MORRIS: I don't -- I don't understand this one.

THE COURT: This --

MR. MCCLEARY: Is that, I'm sorry, is that your #11?

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

MR. MCCLEARY: All right. We withdraw our objection to #3, subject to our general objection.

On Exhibit 4, we object to relevance and hearsay on a verified amended petition to take deposition before suit and seek documents.

THE COURT: Okay. This is my time to hear your argument. And we're going to be here --

MR. MORRIS: Can I -- can I do this here? It's going to be much quicker.

THE COURT: What do you mean? Do what here?

MR. MORRIS: So, if you just follow the chart that I gave the Court, --

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: -- Section A is a list of exhibits that they've objected to. Those exhibits are in the right-hand column.

At the same time, they are offering the exact same exhibits into evidence on their exhibit list. I don't understand how they can offer their exhibits and object to ours.

MR. MCCLEARY: Counsel. I'm sorry. We've already told them that, subject to our general objection, we'll withdraw the objections to those exhibits.

MR. MORRIS: Right. So can we agree that all objections to Section A are withdrawn?

MR. MCCLEARY: Subject to the general objection, yes.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

THE COURT: Okay. So, --

MR. MORRIS: That's going to be much quicker.

THE COURT: -- 11, 34, 2, 46, 42, 38, 41, 39, 40, and various attachments to Highland Exhibits 5 are withdrawn. So, admitted by stipulation.

(Debtors' Exhibits 2, 11, 34, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 46 are received into evidence. Certain attachments to Debtors' Exhibit 5 are received into evidence.)

MR. MORRIS: And to make this easy, Your Honor, at some point I hope later today, but perhaps tomorrow, we'll slap a caption on this, we'll file it on the docket, so that, you know, an appellate court, if necessary, can follow along. But I think that we've just stipulated that all of the exhibits identified in Section A of this document are -- the objections have been withdrawn.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCCLEARY: Subject to the general objections.

MR. MORRIS: Right. That gets us -- I'm going to jump to Section C, because I think the same is true. Section C identifies all exhibits that each party has taken from the docket. And you can see from Footnote 4, the Court can take judicial notice under Federal Rule of Evidence 201, we've just had the discussion about whether or not any of them would be limited for purposes of the truth of the matter asserted, but all of the exhibits identified in Section C I think the Court can take judicial notice of because they're on a docket.

THE COURT: Response?

MR. MORRIS: And so I would respectfully request that they withdraw their objections to anything in Section C.

THE COURT: Response, Mr. McCleary?

MR. MCCLEARY: I understand the Court can take judicial notice of those, Your Honor, but they do contain irrelevant and hearsay information also.

MR. MORRIS: The hearsay, I think that we just had the discussion. I mean, if there's something that he wants to really point out at this point that I can respond to. But we would agree that advocacy pieces shouldn't be offered for the truth of the matter asserted. Court orders, on the other hand, are law of the case.

THE COURT: So, I mean, it's the very same situation we just addressed with your own exhibits. You have a lot of court filings. And they didn't have a problem with it, as long as everyone knew advocacy was not being accepted for the truth of the matter asserted.

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, --

THE COURT: Isn't this the same thing?

MR. MCCLEARY: -- they're not offering it for the truth of the matter asserted. That's one thing. And certainly the Court can take judicial notice. We do object to the extent they're offering Exhibits 6 through 10 for the truth of the matter asserted.

MR. MORRIS: Well, let me check those.

THE COURT: Well, --

MR. MCCLEARY: I'm sorry. 6, 7, uh -- (pause).

THE COURT: Those are orders of --

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

THE COURT: -- courts.

MR. MORRIS: Yeah. They're orders of the Court.

MR. MCCLEARY: The orders are not relevant, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Explain.

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, they have not demonstrated that the orders that they seek to introduce are relevant. They have orders regarding, for example, the contempt proceedings that are irrelevant to these proceedings. And prejudicial under 403.

THE COURT: All right. Shall I take a five- or ten-minute break? Let me -- I think I've been very generous by not starting the clock yet on the three hours/three hours.

MR. MCCLEARY: Appreciate that.

THE COURT: But here's how we do things in bankruptcy court. And I don't mean to talk down to anyone. I don't know, you may appear in bankruptcy court every day of your life. But we expect counsel to get together ahead of time and stipulate to the admissibility of as many exhibits as you can. If there's a preservation of rights here and there, fine. But we --

MR. MCCLEARY: Maybe if we take --

THE COURT: You know, --

MR. MCCLEARY: We can try to --

THE COURT: -- helping everyone to understand, --

MR. MCCLEARY: Sure.

THE COURT: -- we have thousands of cases in our court.

MR. MCCLEARY: Sure.

THE COURT: And this is just something we have to do to give all parties their day in court when they need time. And so --

MR. MCCLEARY: If you'd like us to take ten minutes and try to narrow this, we certainly --

THE COURT: Okay. With everybody understanding you should have taken the ten minutes before we got here. But, again, when I say three hours, --

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

THE COURT: -- that's what I meant. Okay?

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: So we'll take a ten-minute break.

THE CLERK: All rise.

(A recess ensued from 10:42 a.m. until 10:54 a.m.)

THE CLERK: All rise.

THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. Have we reached agreements on some of these exhibits?

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, we have agreed on the ones that we can agree on, and we announced that to the Court with respect to the Paragraph A items that the Court's already ruled on.

I would like to point out to the Court that we just got their objections handed to us right before the hearing. We filed ours last night. So we didn't --

THE COURT: At 11:00-something, right?

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor, but we did --

THE COURT: Okay. Well, okay. So I guess your point is you want to make sure I'm annoyed with everyone, not just selective of you.

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, --

THE COURT: I mean, exhibit lists were filed Monday. So I don't know why on Tuesday people were not on the phone saying, you know, or Wednesday morning at the latest.

MR. MCCLEARY: Sure. And we haven't had much of an opportunity, in fairness, to consider their objections and respond because we just received them right at the time of the hearing, just before the hearing started.

Your Honor, we would urge our objections to Exhibit #4. We've objected to this petition to take deposition before suit and seek documents on the basis of relevance and hearsay. They have a number of pleadings in other matters that have nothing to do with, frankly, the colorability standard in this case. And this is an example.

THE COURT: Okay. This is the time for me to hear specific objections and what the basis is, and not just --

MR. MORRIS: Can we go back --

THE COURT: -- a category.

MR. MCCLEARY: Yeah.

MR. MORRIS: Can we go back to my way? Because it's just going to be much faster. It really will be. Right? We -- Category 1, A and C, we dealt with. Category B, --

THE COURT: Well, we dealt with A.

MR. MORRIS: Right. And --

THE COURT: All of those are withdrawn, and they are admitted by stipulation.

MR. MORRIS: Right.

MR. MCCLEARY: Subject to --

THE COURT: Category C, --

MR. MCCLEARY: -- the general objections.

THE COURT: -- I'm not sure we're to closure on.

MR. MORRIS: Um, --

THE COURT: Are we to closure on C? Are you stipulating?

MR. MCCLEARY: No. We are not stipulating on C.

MR. MORRIS: Let's do them one at a time.

MR. MCCLEARY: I have not had an opportunity to -- to --

MR. MORRIS: Let's do them one at a time.

MR. MCCLEARY: Have not had an opportunity to look at each and every one of these, Your Honor. Because we did just get these.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCCLEARY: But generally --

THE COURT: If we have not wrapped this up in 15 minutes, we're just going to start, and you can object the old-fashioned way. But I'm telling all lawyers here, objections count against your time. Okay?

MR. MORRIS: And I'd move for the admission of all of our exhibits right now, then.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: So let him -- let -- put him on the clock and let's go.

THE COURT: Okay. So, 15 minutes. Let start going through everything except Category A.

MR. MORRIS: Number 4?

MR. MCCLEARY: Number 4, Your Honor, we object on the basis of relevance and hearsay.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. My response to that, Your Honor, and this will be my response -- this is in Section B of my outline --

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: Okay? They object to Exhibits 3, 4, 5, and 9. These are Mr. Dondero's prior sworn statements. You just heard his lawyer stand here and tell the Court that somehow his handwritten notes should be admissible as an admission. You know what he did? He testified four different times under oath. That's Exhibits 3, 4, 5, and 9. Sworn statements.

They come into evidence not as hearsay but under Federal

Rule of Evidence 801(d)(1). It's beyond -- the notion that they can prove a colorable claim and that it's not relevant that he's got diametrically different -- he's got four different statements, now five with his notes, he's got five different statements. Doesn't that go to the colorability of these claims?

We believe it does. That's the basis for the introduction of these documents into evidence.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. McCleary, your response?

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, it's a verified amended petition, Your Honor, in another matter, to -- before suit to seek documents. Has nothing to do with the merits of this case and our motion for leave. So we object on the grounds of relevance and hearsay.

THE COURT: Well, since they're prior sworn statements of Mr. Dondero, --

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, then they might -- if they want to use it later to impeach, they can try to do that, but they have to lay the foundation.

THE COURT: What about 801(d)(1)?

MR. MCCLEARY: Again, relevance, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. I overrule. Those are --

MR. MCCLEARY: And Mr. --

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: Those are going to be admitted.

MR. MCCLEARY: By the way, on hearsay, Mr. Dondero is not Hunter Mountain. So when he argues that these are admissions, they're not admissions by Hunter Mountain.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, the only piece of evidence, literally the only piece of evidence they have are the words out of Mr. Dondero's mouth. There is no evidence, there will be no evidence of a quid, a pro, or a quo. There will be no evidence other than what Mr. Dondero testifies to --

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, --

MR. MORRIS: -- about what he was told. There will be no evidence that there was a meaningful relationship between Mr. Seery and Ms. -- and Farallon and Stonehill. There will be no evidence, none, that Farallon and Stonehill rubber-stamped Mr. Seery's compensation package. Nothing. The only thing we have are going to be the words out of Mr. Dondero's mouth and these notes that just showed up. And these statements --

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor?

THE COURT: Okay. Counsel, I mean, it just feels like --

MR. MORRIS: It's --

THE COURT: -- if notes get in, then sworn statements of Mr. Dondero should get in. Right?

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, he's making arguments, closing arguments, opening arguments, trying to run out the clock. We objected to relevance, and we stand on our objection.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCCLEARY: And on hearsay.

THE COURT: I'll admit 3, 4, 5, and 9.

(Debtors' Exhibits 3, 4, 5, and 9 are received into evidence.)

MR. MORRIS: Section E.

MR. MCCLEARY: I'm sorry. So our objections are overruled?

THE COURT: They are overruled.

MR. MCCLEARY: On 3, 4, 5?

THE COURT: And 9.

MR. MORRIS: Section E of my outline.

MR. MCCLEARY: What about 6?

THE COURT: That's not --

MR. MORRIS: Well, --

THE COURT: Well, I don't --

MR. MORRIS: -- it would -- it would --

THE COURT: Let's go back to C. I'm not clear if we're to closure on Section C.

MR. MORRIS: I'll let Counsel go through --

THE COURT: And 6 is within Section C.

MR. MORRIS: I'll let Counsel go through each one, one at a time.

MR. MCCLEARY: No. That's all right. If you want to go through, you have them lumped in. Yeah, I think it'd probably be quickest if, frankly, we just go down the list, Your Honor. Frankly.

THE COURT: Well, you've got ten minutes left.

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay. We object to #6, memorandum and opinion order granting Dondero's motion to remand, on the basis of relevance and hearsay.

THE COURT: Overruled. I can take judicial notice under 201 of that. So 6 is admitted.

(Debtors' Exhibit 6 is received into evidence.)

MR. MCCLEARY: We object to Exhibits 7 and 8 on the grounds of relevance. 7 on relevance and hearsay, and 8 on relevance.

MR. MORRIS: I'll take 7 first, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: It's an order dismissing Mr. Dondero's 202 petition. That 202 petition sought discovery on the basis of the exact same so-called insider trading claims that Hunter Mountain is asserting today.

I think it's not only relevant, it's almost dispositive that a Texas state court heard the exact same -- or, actually, not the exact same, because Mr. Dondero changed his story so many times -- but heard a version, I think Versions 1, 2, and 3, of this insider trading and would not even give them discovery.

So when the Court considers whether or not there's a colorable claim here, I think it ought to think about what a Texas state court decided on not whether or not they have colorable claims, whether or not they're even entitled to discovery. I think it's very relevant. Move for its admission right now.

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, it's ironic, because at that hearing counsel for the Respondents was arguing that it ought to be this Court that considers what discovery is appropriate.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, obviously, you can argue about that, but, again, I think I can take judicial notice of this. Right?

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, we argue that it's not relevant, Your Honor, and it is the --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCCLEARY: 7 is not relevant and is hearsay.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Number 8, --

THE COURT: Objection is overruled.

MR. MCCLEARY: Overruled?

THE COURT: And so 7 is admitted.

(Debtors' Exhibit 7 is received into evidence.)

MR. MCCLEARY: 8 is our verified petition. And we object on the grounds of relevance.

MR. MORRIS: You know, Your Honor, if I really had the time and the patience to do this, I think I'd find this document attached to Mr. McEntire's affidavit that's on their exhibit list.

But to speed this up just a little bit, how could their 202 petition that sought discovery on the basis of the very same insider trading allegation not be relevant? It's a judicial order. You can take notice of it. And it's incredibly relevant that a second Texas state court heard the same allegations that they're presenting to you as colorable and said no, you're not getting discovery.

MR. MCCLEARY: We don't know why they made that order, Your Honor. They could have simply accepted the opposition's arguments that this Court had jurisdiction and should consider what discovery ought to be done.

THE COURT: Overruled.

MR. MCCLEARY: It's not relevant to our --

THE COURT: I admit 8.

MR. MORRIS: Next?

MR. MCCLEARY: Overruled?

THE COURT: Yes.

(Debtors' Exhibit 8 is received into evidence.)

MR. MCCLEARY: The declaration of James Dondero. I think we withdrew the Dondero --

THE COURT: Right.

MR. MCCLEARY: -- declarations. If it --

THE COURT: It's --

MR. MCCLEARY: Numbered -- I'm sorry, #9.

THE COURT: 9. I've already checked it as admitted.

MR. MCCLEARY: If you want to -- if you want to offer #9, they can offer it.

THE COURT: It's admitted. I've already --

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay.

THE COURT: -- said.

MR. MCCLEARY: Number 10. It's an order denying our second Rule 202 petition. And we object to it on relevance, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Same objection. It's overruled. It's admitted.

(Debtors' Exhibit 10 is received into evidence.)

MR. MCCLEARY: Number 12, 13, and -- 12 and 13 are correspondence regarding resignation letters. We object on grounds of relevance.

THE COURT: Wait. Did we skip 11 for a reason?

MR. MCCLEARY: Pardon me?

THE COURT: Did we skip 11 for a reason?

MR. MCCLEARY: We only have it --

THE COURT: Oh, wait. It's already admitted by stipulation.

MR. MCCLEARY: Yeah, and we have --

MR. MORRIS: That's the one --

MR. MCCLEARY: We have our general objection.

MR. MORRIS: That's the one exhibit that they didn't object to.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCCLEARY: We only had our general objection with respect to that.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Thank you.

MR. MCCLEARY: On 12 --

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MCCLEARY: -- and 13, those are correspondence regarding resignations. We object on the grounds of relevance.

MR. MORRIS: So, the relevance of that, Your Honor, is to show that when Mr. Dondero sent this email to Mr. Seery in December 2020, he had absolutely no relationship to Highland, had absolutely no duty to Highland, had absolutely no reason to send this email to Highland. He wasn't in control of Highland. He wasn't --

If they'll stipulate to this, that's fine. He wasn't in control. He had no authority to do anything. He couldn't effectuate trades. He wasn't there. And that's what these documents are intended to prove.

THE COURT: Okay. Why are we -- this is --

MR. MCCLEARY: Because there are --

THE COURT: Some of this stuff, I mean, --

MR. MCCLEARY: There are other agreements.

THE COURT: -- is no big deal. Right?

MR. MCCLEARY: Sub-advisory agreements, other agreements that he had under which he had a responsibility to make the communications regarding material nonpublic information that he made. So this is simply irrelevant, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I overrule. I mean, again, I don't --

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay.

(Debtors' Exhibits 12 and 13 are received into evidence.)

MR. MCCLEARY: Number 14, --

THE COURT: You're both giving me just a lot of background that I already have, but of course a Court of Appeals --

MR. MORRIS: That's why we --

THE COURT: -- isn't going to have it.

MR. MORRIS: Yep.

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, #14, Exhibit 14, we object on the grounds of relevance and hearsay.

THE COURT: Okay. Wait a minute. We skipped 13 because -- why? Oh, wait, that was, I'm sorry, 12 and 13 --

MR. MORRIS: Yes.

THE COURT: -- where I've overruled the objection and admitted.

Okay. Go ahead.

MR. MCCLEARY: 14, we object on the grounds of relevance and hearsay, Your Honor.

MR. MORRIS: I'm just going to make this real quick, Your Honor. Here's the thing. This Court knows it. It's actually facts that cannot be disputed because they're subject of court orders.

As the Court will recall, beginning in late November 2020 continuing through late December 2020, Mr. Dondero was engaged in a continuous pattern of interference with Highland's business and trading. It was the subject of the TRO, which is why the TRO is relevant.

Your Honor will recall that at the end of November Mr. Dondero attempted to stop Mr. Seery from trading in Avaya stock. On December 3rd is when he sent this threatening email, text message, to Mr. Dondero [sic]. It caused us to get the TRO.

Your Honor will recall on December 16, 2020, that's when we had the hearing on Mr. Dondero's motion to try to stop Mr. Seery from trading in the CLOs that the Court dismissed as frivolous and granted the directed verdict of Highland.

So, that's December 16. He sends this email about MGM on December 17th. And what happens on December 18th? More interference with Highland's business. It's a matter of -- beyond dispute. It's law of the case at this point because that's the subject of the contempt order. And the Court found that, after -- after hours, on December 18th, Hunter Covitz told Mr. Dondero that Mr. Seery was again trying to trade in Avaya stock, and within a day or two Mr. Dondero was again interfering it, and that's what led to the second -- to the first contempt order.

So all of these documents are relevant to show motive and what was happening. This email was not sent for any legitimate purpose. The evidence is just overwhelming. And it's not -- it's not like, oh, that's an argument we're making. Between the TRO and the contempt order, it's law of the case. He was interfering with Highland's business nonstop for thirty days, including the day before he sent this email and the day after he sent the email.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, this is a lawsuit or an effort to file a lawsuit on behalf of Hunter Mountain Investment Trust, not James Dondero. And as much as Counsel wants to make this about Jim Dondero and attack him, this is a different case. So this exhibit has nothing to do with the claims in this lawsuit. It's not relevant. And hearsay.

MR. MORRIS: The only evidence is Mr. Dondero. It's -- could not be more relevant.

THE COURT: Okay. I overrule. I'm admitting this.

And so we're --

MR. MCCLEARY: Uh, --

THE COURT: It's 14. It's -- how far?

MR. MCCLEARY: 14. Exhibit 15 is where we are, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

(Debtors' Exhibit 14 is received into evidence.)

THE COURT: 15.

MR. MORRIS: Oh, that's -- that's the contempt order. And so these contain the judicial findings that are now beyond dispute that Mr. Dondero was engaged in interfering with Highland's business after the TRO was entered on December 10th.

THE COURT: Okay. Again, my own orders, --

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, it's not --

THE COURT: -- I can take judicial notice of --

MR. MCCLEARY: It's --

THE COURT: -- under the Federal Rules of Evidence.

MR. MCCLEARY: It's --

THE COURT: 201.

MR. MCCLEARY: We simply object as not relevant. We object based on Federal Rule of Evidence 403. Any possible relevance is outweighed by the prejudice. And we object on the grounds of hearsay, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Prejudice? Prejudice? They're orders I issued. I'm going to be prejudiced by my own orders?

MR. MCCLEARY: Uh, well, --

THE COURT: I don't --

MR. MCCLEARY: -- Hunter Mountain will be.

THE COURT: Okay. I'll overrule.

(Debtors' Exhibit 15 is received into evidence.)

THE COURT: I'll tell you what. We're out of our -- well, we've get probably 30 seconds left. Anything that we can maybe knock out to not have eat into your three hours? Both of you?

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, we filed written objections to all of these exhibits. We urge those objections. 16.

THE COURT: I know, but this is your chance to argue why your objections have merit. I can -- we can just --

MR. MCCLEARY: Because, well, obviously, we're talking about pleadings and filings in other matters. The evidence that they're trying to use to impugn Jim Dondero, which has nothing to do with the merits of HMIT's claims and allegations of insider trades.

THE COURT: Okay. A lot of this is articles. Articles, articles, articles about MGM.

MR. MCCLEARY: On the articles, Your Honor, subject to our general objection, we'll withdraw the objections to the articles if they'll agree to the articles that we've offered.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, we didn't lodge an objection to their articles.

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: And just so, if anybody is keeping track at home, this is Item B on the list that I created earlier this morning.

THE COURT: Okay. So, 25 through 30 are articles. Those are admitted by stipulation. Nothing is about the truth of the matter asserted. They're just articles that were out there for --

MR. MORRIS: Right. I would just --

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes.

THE COURT: -- the world.

MR. MORRIS: Just so we're clear, it's Exhibits 25, 6 -- 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, and 30.

THE COURT: Right.

(Debtors' Exhibits 25 through 30 are received into evidence.)

MR. MORRIS: And so, yes, those are all articles. They have their articles. Exhibit 72.

THE COURT: Oh, and 34 is another one. So that's admitted as well.

MR. MORRIS: Yes.

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor.

(Debtors' Exhibit 34 is received into evidence.)

THE COURT: Okay. Well, we're out of time, so as for the others, they can offer them the old-fashioned way if they want to, you can object the old-fashioned way, and it eats into both of your three hours.

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Let's hear opening statements. And by the way, before we wrap up today, I'm going to say out loud everything I've admitted so we're all crystal clear on what's in the record. This has been a bit chaotic.

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay. Understood.

THE COURT: So, Caroline is going to be the keeper of our time over here. And if the judge ever interrupts you, she's going to stop the timer. Okay?

MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.

THE COURT: I hope I won't any more, but you may proceed.

MR. MCENTIRE: No, I appreciate it. Thank you. Can you see it, Your Honor?

THE COURT: I can, yes. Thanks.

MR. MCENTIRE: Can opposing counsel see it?

MR. MORRIS: Yes, sir.

MR. MCENTIRE: All right.

THE COURT: And I'm just going to ask everyone who has a PowerPoint today, can I get a hard copy --

MR. MCENTIRE: Certainly.

THE COURT: -- before we close?

MR. MCENTIRE: Certainly.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF HUNTER MOUNTAIN INVESTMENT TRUST

MR. MCENTIRE: May it please the Court, Your Honor, at this time I'll be providing the opening statement on behalf of Hunter Mountain Investment Trust. It is a Delaware trust. Mark Patrick, who's in the courtroom, is the Administrator. He will be one of the witnesses that you'll hear today.

Hunter Mountain Investment Trust is the former 99.5 percent equity holder, currently classified as a Class 10 contingent beneficiary under the Claimant Trust Agreement. It is active in supporting various entities that in turn support charities throughout North Texas.

Your Honor, this is not an ordinary claims-trading case. I know the Court made those references in one of the hearings, and I wanted to more clearly respond. This has different indicia. An ordinary claims-trading case is normally outside the purview of the bankruptcy court. What makes this different is that we're involving, we believe and allege, breaches of fiduciary duty of the Debtor-in-Possession's CEO and the Trustee.

It involves also aiding and abetting by the entities that actually acquired the claims. And that falls into the category of willful misconduct.

It also involves injury to the Reorganized Debtor and to the Claimant Trust. Ordinarily, a claims trade would not involve injury to the estate or the reorganized debtor. Here, we have alleged that it has. And the injury takes the form of unearned excessive fees that Mr. Seery has garnered as a result of his relationship and arrangements, as we have alleged, with the Claims Purchasers.

During the course of my presentation today, I'll be referring to the Claims Purchasers as the collective of Farallon, Stonehill, Muck, and Jessup.

I would like to briefly discuss some of the issues that have already been presented to the Court, just to make sure that this record is clear.

Can you please continue?

We don't believe the Barton Doctrine is applicable. I believe that precedent is very clear that the Barton Doctrine deals with proceedings in other courts, and the various standards and requirements of Barton do not apply if in fact we're coming to the Court and filing the proceeding in the court where the Trustee was actually appointed.

And so I think that the law is clear. And this is Judge Houser here in the Northern District of Texas in the case In re Provider Meds. And she makes very clear that the standard for granting leave to sue here is actually less stringent than a 12(b)(6) plausibility standard. So if there is any issue as to what standard this Court should be applying to the -- to this process, we believe it's a 12(b)(6) standard, confined to the four corners of the document.

If the Court wishes to consult the documents that are referred to in the four corners of the petition or complaint, it may do so.

But the standard here is even more flexible than a standard plausibility. Our evidence, though, achieves the standard of plausibility as well.

The In re Deepwater Horizon case is another important case. That's a Fifth Circuit case. A plaintiff's claim is colorable if it can allege standing and the elements necessary to state a claim on which relief could be granted. Defining a colorable claim as one with some possible validity. I don't have to prove my case today. I didn't have to prove my case in the prior hearings. I have to prove sufficient allegations, not evidence, but sufficient allegations to show that it has some possible basis of validity.

Possible basis of validity. We're not here talking about likelihoods. We're not here talking about prima facie evidence. We're not here talking about probabilities. We're talking about something less than plausibility. But, again, we achieve plausibility.

A colorable claim is defined as one which is plausible or not without merit. These are various cases from around the country. The colorable claim requirement is met if a committee has asserted claims for relief that, on appropriate proof, would allow recovery. On appropriate proof. We're not required to put on that proof today, Your Honor.

Courts have determined that a court need not conduct an evidentiary hearing, but must ensure that the claims do not lack any merit whatsoever. We submit that our claims have substantial merit and deserve the opportunity to initiate our proceedings, have an opportunity to conduct discovery. And if they want to file a 12(b)(6) motion before this judge, before you, they can do so. If they want to file a motion for summary judgment, they can do so. But at this juncture, they cannot, and at this juncture this Court should not consider evidence in making its determination.

Standing under Delaware law. The Funds have collectively really hit the standing issue hard. I think it's easily resolved. First of all, it's clear that a beneficial owner has standing to bring a derivative action. Under Delaware law, a beneficial owner has a right to bring a derivative action on behalf of the -- against the trustee.

So the issue is, am I a beneficial owner? As a contingent beneficiary in Class 10, and that's the Court's inquiry here, do I qualify as a beneficial owner? And I think that Delaware law is clear that, by not limiting it to only vested interests, by not limiting it only to immediate beneficiaries, they are not -- they are not extending the scope of the statute to contingent beneficiaries. And this is consistent with the laws around the country, because even Texas recognizes that an unvested contingent beneficiary has a property right to protect.

Even Mr. Seery admitted in his deposition that a unvested contingent interest is in the nature of a property right. If you have a property right, that property right can be abused. If you have a property right, that property right, whether it's inchoate or not, it can be abused, it can be misappropriated, and you could become aggrieved. And that is the constitutional standard for standing: Is Hunter Mountain Investment Trust aggrieved? And the answer is yes.

Contingent beneficiaries from around the country, in addition to Mr. Seery's admission that we have a property interest, contingent beneficiary has standing. This is the Smith v. Clearwater case on Slide 11. Very clearly, they say that even if it's subject to a future event. Their argument is that Mr. Seery has not certified Hunter Mountain as in the money. We believe we are in the money. That's a different issue. We believe he should certify, in the discharge of his duties. That's a different issue.

But even assuming his case -- his argument for a moment, their argument is that since he's not done that act, which we also challenge and criticize that he's not done that act, that we can't qualify to bring this case. Well, that's not what the law is, that even an unvested interest, a contingent interest, has a right.

Slide 12. This is the State of Illinois. Despite the fact that interest is contingent and may not vest in possession, you still have a right to protect what you have. And you have standing to bring a cause of action.

The Claimant Trust Agreement, by the way, suggests that we have no vested interest, and they'll likely argue that point. But the point there is the law says that's irrelevant. If it's an inchoate interest, if it's potentially vested in the future, that's what imbues you with standing.

And in any event, the Claimant Trust Agreement is subject to Delaware trust law, and they can't get around that. They can say whatever they want to say in the agreement to try to block us from participation, but it's still subject to Delaware trust law, and Delaware trust law does not draw a distinction between vested or unvested.

The State of Missouri: There is no dispute in this case that the future -- that future beneficiaries have standing to bring an accounting action, whether they're vested or contingent. The Bucksbaum case. Article III standing exists, constitutional standing, including discretionary beneficiaries, have long been permitted to bring suits to redress trustees' breaches of trust. This applies not only to our standing as an individual plaintiff, which we've brought, but also in our standing -- in our capacity seeking to bring a derivative action to benefit the Claimant Trust of the Reorganized Debtor. Both are permitted under this law under these cases.

An interest -- in the Mayfield case, an interest is any interest, whether legal or equitable or both, vested, contingent, defeasible, or indefeasible. So the unilateral self-serving wording of the Claimant Trust does not abrogate our right to bring the claim.

I'd like to talk briefly about fiduciary duties. We know that Mr. Seery has fiduciary duties to the estate when he was the CEO prior to the effective date. We allege that he breached those fiduciary duties, and that gives us standing to bring the claim that we have brought for breaching fiduciary duties, causing damages that are accruing post-effective date.

In the Xtreme Power case, again, the directors can either appear on both sides of the transaction or expect to derive any personal financial benefit. We are alleging that Mr. Seery engaged in self-dealing. We allege that he engaged in self-dealing by arriving at an understanding where he could put business allies -- whether you call them friends, business allies, close acquaintances -- on the committee, the Oversight Board that would ultimately oversee his compensation, which, in the context of this case, makes no sense and it is excessive.

Muck is a specially -- special-purpose entity of Farallon. Farallon acquired the claims, created Muck to do the job. Muck is now on the Oversight Board.

Jessup. Jessup is a special-purpose entity, a shell created by Stonehill. Stonehill bought the claims, funneled the money through Jessup. Jessup is now on the Oversight Board. Jessup and Muck -- and by the way, the principals in Farallon are actually the representatives from Muck on the Oversight Board. So there's no suggestion that there's really a distinct corporate relationship here.

Michael Linn, who is a principal at Farallon. You'll hear his name today, throughout today. He actually is a representative of the Oversight Board, dealing with Mr. Seery and negotiating Mr. -- I put negotiation in quotes -- negotiating Mr. Seery's compensation.

I'd like to talk very briefly about background. We took Mr. Seery's deposition. I was unaware of this. I now know it. Perhaps the Court was already aware of it. This is Mr. Seery's first job as a CEO of any debtor. This is the first time Mr. Seery has ever been a chief restructuring officer. This is the first time Mr. Seery has ever been the CEO of a reorganized debtor. This is the first time that he's served as a trustee post-effective date. However, his compensation is excessive and not market-driven, and there's a reason for that. We believe and we allege that it's a quid pro quo because of prior relationships with Farallon and Stonehill.

Farallon and Stonehill are hedge funds, Your Honor. They created their special-purpose entities on the eve of this transaction simply to take the title to the claims, but the money is going upstream.

Seery has a relationship with Farallon. Do we know the full extent of that relationship? No. We have been deprived of discovery. We attempted to get the discovery in the state court 202 process. We were denied for reasons not articulated in the court's order.

We attempted to get the discovery here that the Court refused under the last hearing about these relationships.

So what we do have begins to put the pieces of the puzzle together. And sufficient is more than plausible. It is more than colorable.

We know that Mr. Seery went on a meet-and-greet trip to Farallon's offices in 2017. Didn't have to. He was trying to cultivate a business relationship. Farallon was important to him.

We know that in 2019 he was no longer with Guggenheim Securities. He goes out to Farallon's offices for another meet-and-greet and he specifically meets with the two principals who are reflected in Mr. Dondero's notes, Raj Patel and Michael Linn.

We know that in June 2020 Farallon emailed Seery. This is after Mr. Seery becomes the CEO. He says, "Congratulations. We're monitoring what you're doing."

Seery's relationship with Stonehill. These are all -- this is all before what we believe to be the events that are at issue in this case. We believe that -- represented Stonehill in the Blockbuster bankruptcy proceeding. There was an objection to a document. Mr. Seery was involved in the Blockbuster proceedings. Stonehill was one of his many clients on the committee that he represented.

We know that Stonehill is actively involved in one of Mr. Seery's charities in New York. We know that he sent text messages to Mr. Seery in February of 2021, wanting to know how to get involved in this bankruptcy.

Farallon and Stonehill were strangers to this bankruptcy. They weren't creditors. They were encouraged and they came into this process.

Farallon and Stonehill have not denied any of our allegations. They are not putting any evidence on today. We allege that these relationships was based and founded upon a quid pro quo. I'll scratch your back; you scratch mine. You give me some information; I want to evaluate these claims. And, by the way, we're going to be on the Oversight Board, or you're going to put us on the Oversight Board, or by default we'll be on the Oversight Board, and we'll work out your compensation agreement.

Mr. Seery also has an established relationship with Stonehill.

I like to have a timeline of certain events. This is not all of the relevant events, but this can give you a quick picture. We know that Mr. Dondero sent an email to Mr. Seery in December of 2020 relating to MGM. It is undisputed that Mr. -- that Farallon emailed Seery, Mr. Seery, in January of 2021 if there was a path to get information regarding the claims for sales. Mr. Seery says he never responded to it, but we know that this entity, Farallon, got deeply involved in buying these claims shortly after this email.

We have the Claimant Trust Agreement suddenly being amended to not have a base fee, but now we're going to incorporate a success participation fee. As part of a plan, we're not criticizing that, but suddenly the vehicle for post-effective date bonuses is being created.

The Debtors' analysis comes out in association with the plan confirmation. It projects a 71.32 percent recovery for Class 8 and Class 9, and those are the principal classes we're talking about. 95 percent -- 98 percent of all of the claims here are in Class 8 and Class 9, until you get to us, Class 10.

71.32 percent of Class 8 means that Farallon and Stonehill will get less than about a six percent internal rate return on their $163 million investment, which they have never denied. That is not a hedge fund investment goal. Investment -- hedge funds like these companies, they go for 38, 40, 50 percent of returns. Who would ever invest $163 million on a distressed asset that's not collateralized with only an expectation of an internal rate of turn of six percent? But that's going to be the evidence before the Court. That does not make any financial, rational wisdom at all.

The plan is confirmed. It's undisputed that Stonehill contacts Seery after the plan is confirmed to want to know how to get involved. They have phone calls after this text message. Muck is created on March 9. We know from Mr. Seery's deposition that Farallon told Seery that six days later they bought the claims. All the claims, by the way, when I say bought the claims, it's everything except UBS. To our knowledge. They may have negotiated the paperwork back then, but the claims transfers did not occur until the summer. All the other claims involved, the claims transfers were filed with this Court in mid-April and at the end of April.

Tim Cournoyer removes MGM from the restricted list. Tim Cournoyer is an employee of Highland. Well, it tells us that MGM was on the restricted list and there should be no discussion about MGM, but there was. There was discussions about MGM, and Mr. Dondero is going to testify to that.

And we also know that the HarbourVest settlement was consummated during this period of time. If it had been on the restricted list, as it was, that transaction should never have occurred. But it did occur. This Court ordered it. It approved it. And I'm not challenging -- we're not challenging that settlement. It is done. That is done. What we are challenging is the fact that Mr. Seery is actively involved in using inside material nonpublic information.

Jessup Holdings is created shortly thereafter, on April 8th. We have claims settling on April 30th. The Acis claim is transferred to Muck -- that's Farallon -- on April 16. The Redeemer and Crusader are all transferred on April 30th.

Stonehill and Farallon never deny that they did no due -- that they failed to do due diligence. We allege that there was no due diligence. And that relies in significant part upon Mr. Dondero. But now, because we have Mr. Seery's deposition, it also relies upon Mr. Seery's admissions in deposition, because he says he never opened up a data room, he doesn't know what due diligence they did. Farallon says the only due diligence they did is they talked to Jim Seery. And how do you invest $163 million, or $10 million or $50 million, whatever the part is, with an internal rate of return six percent, only on the advice of Mr. Seery, who's never been a trustee or a CEO before, unless there's something going on?

Your Honor, public announcement of MGM on May 26th. On May 28th, two days later, Mr. Dondero calls Farallon. It took Mr. Dondero or his group a few days, a week or so, to even understand who -- that Farallon was involved, because the registrations for Muck and Jessup did not disclose their principals, did not even disclose addresses. They were shell -- they were companies that came in in the last minute to buy these claims incognito, frankly.

They found out that Farallon was involved. They had a call initially with Raj Patel, who is the principal of Farallon. He has three conversations total: One with Mr. Patel and two with Michael Linn. Michael Linn was the one responsible for these claim purchases. Patel admitted that Farallon relied exclusively on Seery and did no due diligence. Linn rejected the premium to sell. The evidence you'll hear today, that Mr. Linn rejected a premium up to 40 percent to sell the claims. He actually said he would not sell at all because he was told by Mr. Seery that the claims were too valuable.

That is evidence of insider trading. Specifically, they said they were very optimistic about MGM and they were unwilling to sell because Seery said too valuable.

We have -- these are the purchases. This is where the Class 9 claims fall. And keep in mind -- Tim, go back -- that $95 million of this upside potential is being told, at least to the publicly available information, that you're never going to get there. Yet 95 -- $95 million is allocated to this category. So Class 8 is $275 million. Class 9 is 29 -- $95 million.

Next.

So we have the evidence that you'll hear today. Farallon admitted the timing. No due diligence, never denied by the Claim Purchasers. Based upon material nonpublic information. That's our allegation. Purchased over $160 million. This is never denied by the Claims Purchasers. They purchased claims when the return on investment was highly doubtful. Maximum expected annual rate of return, assuming publicly-available information, was approximately six percent, and that is totally atypical of what a hedge fund would seek.

Insider information. We're not talking about just MGM. The Respondents want to narrow the Court's inquiry. This is much larger than MGM. MGM is a part of it, it's a big part of it, but it's not the only part of it. It's other assets. Portfolio companies. Other invested assets. There's a lot of money out there, and it was never disclosed during the ordinary course of the bankruptcy, for reasons that the Court already knows, in terms of asset values. How does someone come in and purchase distressed assets, claims, without any understanding of what assets are backing those claims, when there's no publicly-available information there to do it and there's no evidence, no indication, no statement that actually due diligence was done?

That right there, without anything else, makes our claims plausible. You don't have to prove insider trading by direct evidence. Nobody's going to admit that they did something wrong. You prove it circumstantially, and we've cited cases and we'll give you cases to that effect.

Next.

We have material nonpublic information. It is very clear that Mr. Dondero on December 17th sent this email, not just to Mr. Seery but to several other individuals, including lawyers. It states that he'd just gotten off a board call. A pre-board call. The update, he provides the update. Active diligencing. It's probably a first-quarter event. We can scour all of the other media documents that are in evidence, both from us and them, and you're not going to find any indication anywhere that a board member has said, guys, gals, it's going to be a probable first-quarter event. That's material nonpublic information.

THE COURT: By the way, you all objected to this exhibit.

MR. MCENTIRE: No, this is my exhibit.

THE COURT: We spent --

MR. MCENTIRE: I did not. They objected to this.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, we didn't object to it, and that is the one exhibit that they did not object to.

THE COURT: Oh, it is?

MR. MORRIS: Nobody objected to this exhibit.

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm not going to object to this exhibit, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. It's a different version.

MR. MCENTIRE: Fair enough.

THE COURT: Okay. It was a different email around that same time frame.

MR. MCENTIRE: So just --

THE COURT: Apologies. We stopped the clock.

MR. MCENTIRE: This -- my next exhibit is simply a demonstrative, but I just want the Court to understand that MGM is no small matter here and Mr. Seery did testify in deposition that it probably made up $450 million. He was pretty close.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I object to this demonstrative. There is no evidence in the record. It's not cited to anything. We're not just going to start putting up stuff on the screen that we like.

MR. MCENTIRE: Excuse me. I'm not offering this document into evidence.

MR. MORRIS: I don't care. The Court shouldn't be seeing a demonstrative exhibit that contains matters that are never going to be in the record.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: I disagree. I can put the data in the record.

May I proceed?

MR. MORRIS: But you didn't.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm not considering the truth of this until and unless I get evidence of this.

MR. MCENTIRE: Fair enough. But the point is this, Mr. Seery has conceded in deposition that between the institutional funds and the CLOs, there's a lot of MGM securities and stock. We're talking a lot of money. We're not talking about just Highland Capital's investment.

You can skip the next slide. Skip.

So, rumors versus material nonpublic information. They can talk all day long, and if they want to use their time doing this, they can. There's a difference between rumor and actual material nonpublic information. Rumor from undocumented sources, lack of clarity, lack of timing. There is no -- there's no debate that a lot of people knew that maybe MGM might be for sale. Maybe they wouldn't. Sometimes it falls apart, you know. But the point is a board member is telling someone that there's a probable event in the first quarter of 2021. That is definite, specific, and it comes from the highest authority. That is -- if that's not material and public information, I don't know what could be.

Classic indications of insider trading. You have to have a tipper with access to MNPI. Here, we know that Mr. Seery, if he's the tipper, we allege he's the tipper -- and these are words of art out of case law, by the way -- he has access to information about MGM. He has access about asset values, projected values. He has a relationship. We believe he has a very strong relationship. It's more than just social acquaintances. He's giving congratulatory emails. He's getting solicitations. He's solicited. Benefits received. We know what the benefits are. They get the opportunity to invest money with huge upside.

There was a point mentioned some time ago that, well, only -- only the sellers really have the grievance. Well, Your Honor, we have a right to start our lawsuit and do some discovery, because, frankly, a lot of sellers have big-boy agreements. They say, you don't sue me if I have MNPI. I don't sue you if you have MNPI. We have mutual releases. Let's go by our way. Everybody's happy. We're not going to come back and see each other ever again.

That's one of the things we're being deprived of here. But otherwise, what we have here is a colorable plan. We've asked for the communications with the sellers. We can't get it. We have here an email.

Next.

We have here an email. This actually -- you'll hear Mr. Dondero say this actually reflects three communications. Raj

Patel, Farallon, bought it because of Seery. Mr. Dondero contacted Mr. Patel and says, Raj Patel bought it because of Seery. 50 to 70 percent's not compelling. Class 8. 50 percent, 70 percent. Give you a 30 percent to 40 percent premium. Not compelling. I ain't going to sell. Ask what would be compelling. Nothing. No offer. Bought in February/March. We now know the time frame. We know that Stonehill is communicating with them and we know that Farallon has been just communicating with Mr. Seery. Bought assets with claims. It's not just the MGM. It's not just the portfolio companies and other assets. It's also the claims.

Well, what are the claims? It's the claims against Mr. Dondero. Well, how would they know about all this if there's no due diligence and there's no evidence of any due diligence before you? 130 percent of costs, not compelling, no counter. Mr. Dondero's angry. Discovery is coming.

Atypical behaviors are also circumstantial evidence of insider trading. We have strange behaviors here, Judge. We have a vast majority of the claim value is acquired by only two entities post-confirmation. Most significant claims are only owned by two entities who were strangers to the whole process.

The removal of -- and Mr. Morris offered to stipulate. The sudden removal of MGM from the compliance list in April of 2021 -- by the way, the removal doesn't cleanse the MNPI. If you have material nonpublic information because you received it from Mr. Dondero, the fact that Mr. Dondero's no longer employed by Highland Capital or no longer directly or formally affiliated doesn't cleanse the MNPI.

We have no due diligence, regardless of the significant nine-digit numbers, and we have no rational explanation of why this kind of money would be invested when they're projecting an actual loss, if -- a modest return at best for Class 8 and a loss for Class 9.

Insider trading can be proved by circumstantial evidence, Your Honor. No fraudster, no person who's done wrong is going to admit to it, so you look for the classic -- you look for the classic elements. And that's what we had here. And we have alleged all of this in our pleadings. Not in extraneous evidence. Within the four corners of our pleadings. And that's why we have a plausible claim.

You know, I believe it's Rule 8, Rule 9 of the Federal -- you have to require specificity in a fraud claim. Well, this is not a fraud claim. This is a different claim. But we have provided specificity that passes the smell test of colorability. We have provided specificity that would satisfy even more stringent requirements under 12(b)(6).

The plan analysis. This is a, I think, a document admitted by everyone. Mr. Seery has testified that this projection of 71.32 percent for Class 8 came out in February of 2021 and never changed, all the way up to the effective date.

So this is what the public believed. This is what the public knew. And if this was all that Farallon and if is all that Stonehill had access to, that means that they were going to lose their entire investment on Class 9. They bought UBS at a loss to begin with. And on the other three investments, they were going to get a very, very modest, minor return, six percent over three years, or even less. That is not what hedge funds do.

Seery's excessive post-effective date compensation. We have obtained no discovery from Farallon or Stonehill in this regard, but we know that he had no prior experience. We know that the award that was given him was not market-based, even though the self-serving documents that have been produced and that are attached to their exhibit list suggests a robust negotiation. Well, they were robust without any kind of reality check in the real world about whether it was market-supported. None. Mr. Seery has admitted to that.

It was not lowered. He's making $1.8 million a year right now, with most -- a lot of the assets already sold, the reorganization done. All they're doing now is monetizing assets. He's getting $1.8 million. He's got 11 people working for him. And then he has a bonus, a bonus that is -- increases significantly with his ability to recover for Muck, Jessup, Farallon, and Stonehill.

And in the absence of -- if we were really dealing with uncertainty and risk, then that may be another issue, but here we're dealing with entities that already know that they're going to get a payday and they already have. They've already made about a $170 million return -- 170 percent return, excuse me -- over and above the original investment, when they were projected to actually lose money.

Just so you know, we have over $534 million of cash that has been basically monetized, and out of that, $203 million in total expenses -- $277 million to Class 8 and -- and -- 1 through 7, and Class 8 distributors. Excuse me, creditors. Even if you take -- if you take out the alleged obligations of Mr. Dondero on the promissory note cases, that still leaves over $100 million available, which puts us in the money. Puts us in the money. And the fact that you have $203 million of expenses in a case of this nature is part of our claim, is that we have delay actions. We have a situation where Mr. Seery is continuing to receive $1.8 million a year on a slow pace to monetize, paying other professionals, when this could have been over a long time ago. That's part of our allegations. It's not part of any valuation motion. It's actually in our allegations.

I'm going to reserve the rest. I think that's my opening statement, Your Honor. I'm going to reserve the rest for my closing. And let me see. Yes, that's right. And thank you for your time.

THE COURT: All right. Caroline, how much time was that?

THE CLERK: Thirty-four minutes and 27 seconds.

THE COURT: Thirty-four minutes and 37 seconds. Okay.

THE CLERK: Twenty-seven.

THE COURT: Oh, 27. Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: Thirty-four minutes?

MR. MCCLEARY: Thirty-four minutes.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I do have hard copies of my short slide presentation.

THE COURT: All right. You may approach.

And Mr. McEntire, are you going to give me your PowerPoint later, hard copies later?

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, Your Honor. I found one typo and I'd like to fix one typo and then we'll give it to you.

THE COURT: Okay.

OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTORS

MR. MORRIS: Good morning, Your Honor. John Morris, Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones, for Highland Capital Management and the Claimant Trust.

I want to be fairly brief because I really want to focus on the evidence. I look forward to Your Honor hearing from

Mr. Seery so that he could clear up a lot of the misleading statements that were just made.

The Court is here today on a gatekeeper function, and we're delighted that the gatekeeper exists. We're delighted that the Court will have an opportunity, after considering evidence, to determine whether or not these claims are actually colorable.

There's -- there were a lot of conclusory statements I just heard. There were a lot of assumptions that were made. There were a lot of misleading statements that were made. At the end of the day, what the Court is going to be asked to do is to decide whether, in light of the evidence, do these claims stand up on their own? And they do not.

And let me begin by saying that I made a mistake a couple of weeks ago. If we can go to Slide 1. I told Your Honor that you were the sixth body to consider these insider trading claims. Based on Hunter Mountain's exhibit list, there is actually one more, and I'll get to that in a moment. So you're actually -- this is the seventh attempt to peddle these claims to one body or another.

The first was Mr. Dondero's 202 petition.

Everything I have here, Your Honor, is footnoted to evidence. Okay?

So, Footnote 1, you can look in the paragraphs of Mr. Dondero's petition, his amended petition, his declaration, where he makes the same allegations. Again, I misspeak. Not the same allegations. Different versions of the allegations that are being presented today concerning insider trading.

He did it three times. The Texas state court said no discovery. In October of 2021, Douglas Draper wrote an extensive letter to the U.S. Trustee, setting forth the same allegations. You can find them at our Exhibit 5. It's attachment Exhibit A, Pages 6 through 11. Compare them to the allegations that are being made by Hunter Mountain today. The U.S. Trustee's Office took no action.

Mr. Rukavina followed up with the same thing to the same body in November of 2021. You can see where his allegations of insider trading are made and quid pro quo and all the rest of it. Again, they took no action.

The one that I don't have on this chart because I didn't -- I made the chart last week and then was unavailable. Mr. Rukavina sent a second letter. And you can find that at Plaintiffs' Exhibit 61. And in Plaintiffs' Exhibit 61, you'll see that Mr. Rukavina sent yet another letter to the U.S. Trustee's Office on May 11, 2022.

And these are all really important, right? The U.S. Trustee's Office has oversight responsibility for matters including claims trading. That's their job. They took three different swings at this. And these are pages of allegations. 6 to 11. 9 to 13. We think it's very important that the Court look at what was told to the U.S. Trustee's Office. And you're going to hear Mr. Seery testify that Highland has never heard from the U.S. Trustee's Office concerning any of these allegations or any of the other allegations that are set forth in Mr. Rukavina and Mr. Draper's letter. Never. Declined to even initiate an investigation.

Hunter Mountain filed its own 202 petition. It boggles my mind that they try to create distance with Mr. Dondero, because the whole petition, like this whole complaint, is based on Mr. Dondero. He submitted a declaration alleging the same insider trading case, and a second Texas state court said I'm not even giving you discovery. We know that's the result.

But the best is the Texas State Securities Board. I think we're going to hear testimony that Mr. Dondero or somebody under his control is the one who filed the complaint with the Texas State Securities Board. Who would be the better body to assess whether or not there's insider trading than a securities board? I can't imagine there's a better body. They did an investigation. Mr. Dondero could have told them anything he wanted. I'm sure he did. And they wrote in their motion in Paragraph 37 one of the reasons they have colorable claims is the investigation is ongoing.

Much to their dismay, I'm sure, two days before our opposition was due, the Texas State Securities Board said, we've looked at the complaint, we've done our investigation, and we're not taking any action. You can find that, Your Honor, Footnoted 5 at Exhibit 33.

You are now the seventh body who's being asked -- and you're being asked to do substantially more than any of the other prior bodies were. The Texas state courts were being asked, just let them have discovery. They said no. The U.S. Trustee's Office, charged with the responsibility of looking at claims trading, said, I'm not going to investigate. I know what you've told me. No. The Texas State Securities Board. Insider trading, insider trading. I'm not doing an investigation. I'm not doing anything. And now they want to come here and engage in, you know, in expensive, long litigation over the same claims nobody else would touch.

Can we go to the next slide?

Mr. Dondero's email. Good golly. "Amazon and Apple are in the data room." There's a hundred articles out there that they're putting into evidence that say that. "Both continue to express material interest." There's a hundred articles out there that say that. "Probably a first-quarter event. Will update as facts change."

There will not be any evidence that he ever updated anybody, because that wasn't the purpose of this, as Your Honor will recall. He had an axe to grind.

And I direct your -- I don't direct the Court to do anything -- I ask the Court to take a look at our opposition to the motion, in Paragraphs 23 to 25, where we cite to extensive evidence, all of which is now part of the record, showing just what was happening, from the moment he got fired on October 10th until the end of the year, with the interference, with the interference, with the threats, with the TRO. It was nonstop.

Was this email sent in good faith by somebody who owed no duty to anybody? Or was it really just another attempt -- and this is why the gatekeeper is so important, because I think that's exactly what this Court is supposed to do: Is this a good-faith claim? Is this a claim that's made in good faith? It can't be. And you know why? You know what's -- you know what's -- I'll just say it now. I won't even save it for cross.

Remember the HarbourVest settlement that they're making so much, you know, about? Mr. Dondero is the tipper. According to him, he gave Mr. Seery inside information. According to him, Mr. Seery abused it by engaging in the HarbourVest transaction. But Mr. Dondero filed an extensive objection to the HarbourVest settlement and never said a word about this, because that wasn't on his mind at the time. The email was sent in order to interfere. And when that failed, he's trying to play gotcha now. It's ridiculous.

He owed no duty to Highland. It would have been a breach of his own duty to MGM to share that information at that period of time.

The shared services agreement. They don't help him. Mr. Dondero has nothing to do with that. Highland is providing services. He's not providing services to Highland. Highland was providing. We had already given notice of termination. We had already had our plan and disclosure -- we had already had our disclosure statement approved. We were weeks away from confirmation. Please.

And the Wall Street Journal article on December 21st at Exhibit 27, that's not your garden-variety Wall Street Journal article, because it specifically says that investment bankers were engaged to start a formal process. The investment bankers are identified by name. Something has changed. Anybody could see that.

Yes, there were rumors for a long time. Nobody had ever said there was a formal process. Nobody had ever said investment bankers had ever been hired. Nobody had ever identified those investment bankers. Right? I mean, just the world changed.

If you can go to the next slide.

You know, before I get to the next slide in too much detail, quid pro quo. We look at it as quid. Did he -- is there any evidence that he actually gave anybody material nonpublic inside information? The answer is going to be no. The quo is the relationship. And I'm not going to spend too much time on that now. But wait until you hear Mr. Seery testify as to the actual facts about his relationship. Because some of what we just heard is mind-boggling, that little -- that little page from the Blockbuster case, like, 14 years ago, where Farallon was one of a group of people who Jim Seery never met. Like, the stretch, what they're trying to do is beyond the pale. But I'm delighted to have Mr. Seery sit in the box and answer all the questions they want to ask him about his relationship with Farallon and Stonehill.

But getting to the point, the quid pro quo. The quo is they fixed his compensation? Are you kidding me? They rubber-stamped his compensation? Highland and Mr. Seery and the board are alleged to have negotiated? There's nothing alleged. There are facts. There is evidence. It is beyond dispute. If you look, just for example, right, they take issue with his salary? The salary was fixed by this Court in 2020. Without objection. He's getting the exact same salary that he ever got.

You'll hear that it's a full-time job. Your Honor knows better than anybody in this courtroom, other than me, perhaps, the litigation burden that's been placed on this man. He has no other income. He doesn't do anything else. This is a full-time job. It's the exact same job that he had when Your Honor approved his compensation package three years ago, without a raise. They didn't give him a nickel more. Not one nickel. It's outrageous.

The balance of his compensation, of which he has not yet received a nickel, is exactly what this Court would want somebody in Mr. Seery's position to do. It aligns his interests with his constituency. Not with Stonehill. Not with Farallon. With all creditors. The greater the recovery, the greater the bonus. Outrageous, right? Remarkable, isn't it? Only in their world.

If Your Honor can go back to Mr. Rukavina's letter, because this is where it all -- that's where it all starts from. Like, excessive compensation. Mr. Rukavina, I don't know how he did this, why he did it, what it was based on. He actually told the U.S. Trustee's Office that they thought Mr. Seery made $50 million. It's in the letter. $50 million, they told the U.S. Trustee's Office he made. It's footnoted, so you can go find it. It's right there, at Page 14. Quote, Seery's success fee could approximate $50 million.

$8.8 million is what he's making. They think that's excessive? What do they think he should make? Three? Five? We're not going to hear that. But that's what this case is about. You just heard counsel in his opening statement. He literally said the only thing at issue is his compensation. And that has to be the case, because if there was -- if there was no claims trading, UBS and HarbourVest and Acis, right, the Redeemer Committee, they would all still be holding these claims today.

When Stonehill and Farallon acquired the claims, they were all allowed. There was no debate about what the claims were. If they held the claims today, they would be worth the exact same amount of money, only a different person would be benefitting from it.

So the case actually is only about Mr. Seery's compensation. And they've moved the goalposts, as often happens in this courtroom, from rubber-stamping -- I'll give you what you want. When I hear rubber-stamp, I hear, you make a demand and I'll give it to you. And now they realize, when they see the negotiation -- because it's in evidence, it's just the documents, you can see the board minutes -- what do we, doctor the board minutes and they should get discovery because we doctored the board minutes? The board minutes show a four-month negotiation with an Independent Board member fully involved. It's mind-boggling. It's actually -- well, I'll just leave it at that.

Next slide. Last slide. Let me finish up. Three of the four sellers were former Committee members. Mr. Dondero agreed that Committee members would have access to special nonpublic inside information as part of the protocols, as part of the corporate governance settlement. He agreed to that. These are the people who got abused? These are the people who didn't know what was happening? Committee members and HarbourVest, probably one of the biggest and most sophisticated funds in the world, didn't know what was happening? They got abused? Stonehill and Farallon took advantage of them?

If you read their pleadings closely, they actually allege, and I don't -- I don't know if there'll ever be any evidence of this -- but they actually allege that -- I forget which -- oh, somebody is an investor in Stonehill and Farallon, and so the theory is one of the sellers is an investor in Farallon. So not only did they abuse, they abused one of their own investors. Like, this is not a colorable claim. This is ridiculous.

None of the claims sellers are here. Sophisticated people who -- who -- right? Mr. Dondero could pick up the phone and say, hey, guys, you got ripped off. You sold your claims when you shouldn't have. They had an unfair advantage.

Nobody's here. Where is anybody complaining? They're not going to because they cut a deal that they thought was good for them at the time. In hindsight, maybe they have regrets. Right? We all have regrets sometimes in hindsight. But that doesn't create a claim.

We've heard so much about what hedge funds would get and how much and is this rational? The fact of the matter is, at the time Mr. Dondero had his phone call on May 28th, UBS had not been purchased, although MGM had already been announced.

So when they talk about MGM, maybe it's the fact -- and this is in evidence -- maybe it's the fact that, two days before, the MGM-Amazon deal actually was publicly announced. It actually was. So maybe when they say, hey, yeah, we like MGM, because, you know, that just -- that just got announced. Maybe that happened.

But at the end of the day, the claims that they bought, if you just look at the claims that were purchased at the time he had the conversation, all Mr. Seery had to do was meet projections and they were going to get $33 million in two years. A 30 percent return in two years. I don't know. That doesn't -- that doesn't sound crazy to me. Doesn't sound crazy to me. It certainly doesn't create a colorable claim, just because they think that Farallon or Stonehill -- there's not going to be any evidence of Farallon or Stonehill's risk profile. There's not going to be any evidence of Farallon or Stonehill's, you know, expected returns. There's not going to be any evidence at all about what due diligence they did or didn't do, other than what comes out of Mr. Dondero's mouth, as usual.

Mr. Dondero -- and let's look at what's going to come out of Mr. Dondero's mouth. He has multiple sworn statements. I'm going to take his notes and they're going to become mine. I'll put him on notice right now. Because those notes bear no relationship to the evolution of his sworn statements over time.

The first time he mentions MGM in a sworn statement is two years after the fact in Version #5. That's a colorable claim? You want -- you want to oversee a litigation, or maybe it gets removed to the district court, maybe I get lucky to be in front of a jury, and I'll have Mr. Dondero explain how it took him five tries before he could write down the letters MGM. Not a colorable claim. No evidence against Stonehill whatsoever. Zero. Zero. Never spoke to them. There's no colorable claim here, Your Honor.

I'm going to turn the podium over to Mr. Stancil to talk about the law.

THE COURT: Okay.

OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF JAMES P. SEERY, JR.

MR. STANCIL: Thank you, Your Honor. Mark Stancil, counsel for Mr. Seery. But I'm going to just very briefly address a few legal points. And I actually mean briefly.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. STANCIL: I'll come back to a good bit of this in closing as time permits.

I heard Mr. McEntire say Barton doesn't apply. I would encourage him to start with what the gatekeeping order actually says. Here it is. This is in -- it's in the plan. Your Honor has confirmed it. The question we have in terms of what standard applies is, what does this order mean? Well, we think that's going to be clear. It's not what they think the word "colorable" would mean in other contexts. It's not what they think they should have to satisfy now that they have a theory. It's, what does this mean?

And we'll get into some of the additional evidence from Your Honor's order at the time, later in closing.

Next slide, please.

But let me just start to say I'm awfully surprised to hear him say that he doesn't believe Barton applies, because the order says that it does. This is Paragraph 80 of the confirmation order. It says that the Court has statutory authority to approve the gatekeeper provision under these sections of the Bankruptcy Code. The gatekeeper provision is also within the spirit of the Supreme Court's Barton Doctrine. The gatekeeper provision is also consistent with the notion of a pre-filing injunction to deter vexatious litigants that has been approved by the Fifth Circuit in such cases as Baum v. Blue Moon Ventures.

So I think it is impossible, and respectfully, Your Honor, it's law of the case. This is what the order is based on. The day for objecting to what's in the confirmation order is long gone.

So let me come back, then -- first slide, please -- and I'll just very briefly give you a little legal framework for what we're going to be arguing to you later in closing.

So, Barton does require a prima facie showing. That is Vistacare and plenty of other cases. That is more than a 12(b)(6) standard, Your Honor. Numerous courts agree. And in fact, as you'll hear us discuss later, Judge Houser's opinion is not to the contrary, because she said explicitly, I'm not applying Barton. So anything that they're relying on for what Barton requires from that opinion is dicta. But we can show you case after case after case, and we will, to show that Barton requires evidentiary hearings.

Here's a point, this third bullet here is something I have not heard a single word in all of the briefing and ink that has been spilled and in as long as we've been here this morning, is what is a gatekeeping order doing if all it does is reproduce a 12(b)(6) standard? That's what they say. In fact, they're actually saying it's even lower. Now I think I heard them say it's even lower than a 12(b)(6) standard.

That makes no sense whatsoever. We've just shown you that this gatekeeping order was imposed consistent with Barton and vexatious litigant principles. Later I will walk Your Honor through factual findings that you made detailing the vexatious litigation, detailing the abuses. The notion that the gate is the same gate that every other litigant who hasn't demonstrated that record of bad faith is absurd, and it serves no purpose.

And as Mr. Morris described, Hunter Mountain woefully, woefully violates any prima facie showing. And we'll get into a little bit more exactly how that works.

We are going to ask this Court, in addition to ruling that Barton applies and that they've failed it, we're going to ask this Court, respectfully, to please consider ruling on multiple independent grounds as well. We know there's a penchant for appeals and appeals upon appeals. So we will argue to Your Honor, although we will largely spare you another rehash of our briefs, but we will explain to Your Honor why they do lack standing to bring this claim as a matter of Delaware law. And there was a lot of fuzzing up about constitutional standing and Delaware law. Not necessary.

If -- we will be happy to rely on our pleadings here, but on Page 27 of the Claimant Trust Agreement, that's what defines their rights under Delaware law, and they were talking about how beneficial owners under Delaware law have standing. Well, are they beneficial owners? They are not. Equity holders -- this is in Paragraph C, Page 27 of the Claimant Trust Agreement -- Equity holders will only be deemed beneficiaries under this agreement upon the filing of a payment certification with the bankruptcy court, at which time the contingent trust interests will vest and be deemed equity trust interests.

They are not beneficial owners of squat. That has not happened.

And last, Your Honor, we will -- and I will organize this for Your Honor in closing as well -- we would ask you to rule on a straight-up 12(b)(6) standard as an alternative, because we know what's coming on appeal and we think their complaint collapses under its own weight. You heard Mr. Morris detailing their own math shows significant returns. You'll also hear us describe how they have nothing but mere conclusions and naked assertions upon information and belief but unsupported.

Iqbal and Twombly would still apply under their 12(b)(6) standard, especially, and perhaps even more with a heightened standard under Rule 9(b), because they're essentially alleging some version of fraud, it sounds like.

They're never going to get there, Your Honor. All we would ask is for a full record to take inevitably, unfortunately, to the Court of Appeals.

And I think Mr. -- I'm not sure which of my colleagues will be speaking briefly for Holland & Knight, but I'll just turn it over to them.

THE COURT: All right. Mr. McIlwain?

OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE CLAIM PURCHASERS

MR. MCILWAIN: Thank you, Your Honor. I'll be even briefer. Brent McIlwain here for the Claim Purchasers.

Your Honor, Mr. McEntire stated to this Court that my clients have never denied any of this. In fact, in his reply, he says, The Claim Purchasers do not deny that they invested over $163 million. We do not deny that we did not due diligence, we do not deny that we refused to sell our claims at any price, and we do not deny that we invested the claims at what is, at best, a low ROI.

We had no duty to answer to HMIT or Mr. McEntire. We had no duty when we bought these claims to -- we had no duties to any creditor. We had -- it was a bilateral agreement with a third party. And frankly, Your Honor, it's not Mr. Dondero's or HMIT's business what due diligence we did and what information that we obtained.

But I will tell you right now, Your Honor, we were very careful in our pleadings to not bring issues of fact, because this -- HMIT has been chasing my clients, obviously, based on the notes that were presented in the initial PowerPoint, it was a -- it's retribution. It's retribution for not agreeing to sell the claims to Mr. Dondero when he offered to purchase at a 40 percent premium.

And Your Honor, when I look at that note, it's interesting, because I hadn't seen the note, obviously, until it showed up on the exhibit list. When you look at that note, I think it's -- I think it's very interesting. To the extent it was contemporaneous, I don't know. But what it shows, it shows that if you're a hammer, everything's a nail. And Mr.

Dondero is a vexatious litigator. And what did he write down? Discovery to follow.

But my question is this. Who was trying to trade on inside information? Mr. Dondero was offering a 40 percent premium, allegedly, on the cost. What information did he have? Certainly, he had inside information.

My client owed no duty to Mr. Dondero. My client owed no duty to anybody in this estate at the time of these claims purchase.

And Your Honor, we talk a lot about -- or, it's been talked a lot of insider trading. These are claims trades. I think the Court honed in on this from the very get-go. The Court does not have a role in claims trades. There's a 3001 notice that's filed post-claims trade, but there's no requirement that there's Court approval.

And these aren't securities. It's not as if we're trading claims and it could benefit or hurt you based on some equity position that you're going to obtain. We obtained claims that had been settled, they were litigated heavily, and the most that we can obtain is the amount of the claim. And that is, as Mr. Morris stated, all that changed was the name of the claimant. That's all. Because the claims didn't increase in value based on the trade.

Your Honor, our pleadings, I think, speak for themselves in terms of you really -- you really don't have to consider evidence, from our perspective, to determine that this proposed complaint has no merit and is not plausible and presents no colorable claims.

The gatekeeper provision, and we're going to talk a lot about that today, obviously, right, requires that Mr. Dondero establish a prima facie case that the claims have some plausibility. If you can simply write down allegations, file a motion for leave and attach those allegations and say, Your Honor, you have to take all these as true, the gatekeeper has no meaning. There's no point in having a gatekeeper provision.

And in summary, Your Honor, what -- and I think Mr. Morris honed in on this specifically -- this really comes down to compensation. Right? Because this -- the allegation is that my clients purchased claims, presumably at a discount, right, based on some inside information, which we obviously deny, but we don't have to put that at issue today. For what purpose? For what purpose? So we got inside information from Mr. Seery so that we could then scratch his back on compensation on the back-end?

Your Honor, there is no reason that my clients need to be involved in this litigation. If HMIT thinks that this -- that they have a claim against Mr. Seery for excessive compensation, they can -- they could have brought such a gatekeeper motion, or a motion for leave under the gatekeeper provision, without including my clients. Why did they include my clients? They included my clients because my clients did not sell to Mr. Dondero when he called, unsolicited, to try to get information. It's retribution. And that's what a vexatious litigator does, and that's why the gatekeeper provision is in place.

I'll reserve the rest for closing, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Caroline, what was the collective time of the Respondents?

THE CLERK: Twenty-eight minutes and 37 seconds.

THE COURT: Twenty-eight minutes, 37 seconds.

All right. Well, let's talk about should we take a lunch break now? I'm thinking we should, because any witness is going to be, I'm sure, more than an hour. So can you all get by with 30 minutes, or do you need 45 minutes? I'll go with the majority vote on this.

(Counsel confer.)

MR. MCENTIRE: 1:00 o'clock. 45 minutes.

MR. MORRIS: 40 minutes, whatever. 1:00 o'clock?

THE COURT: We'll come back at 1:00 o'clock.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

THE CLERK: All rise.

(A luncheon recess ensued from 12:19 p.m. until 1:05 p.m.)

THE CLERK: All rise.

THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. We're going back on the record in the Highland matter, the Hunter Mountain motion for leave to file lawsuit.

I'll just let you know that at 1:30 we're going to take probably what will be a five-minute break, maybe ten minutes at the most, because I have a 1:30 motion to lift stay docket. Just looking at the pleadings, I really think maybe one is going to be resolved and it won't be more than five or ten minutes. So whoever is on witness stand can either just stay there, because I think we won't be finished, or you can take a bathroom break or whatever. All right? So, it's video, the 1:30 docket.

All right. So, Mr. McEntire, are you ready to call your first witness?

MR. MCENTIRE: I am, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: May I proceed?

THE COURT: You may.

MR. MCENTIRE: At this time, Hunter Mountain calls Mr. James Dondero.

THE COURT: All right. Mr. Dondero, welcome. If you could find your way to the witness box, I will swear you in once you're there. It looks like you've got lots of notebooks there. Please raise your right hand.

(The witness is sworn.)

THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You may be seated.

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm not familiar with your procedure. Should I approach the -- here to --

THE COURT: If you would, unless you're having --

MR. MCENTIRE: That's fine.

THE COURT: -- any kind of --

MR. MCENTIRE: That's fine. I'm not.

THE COURT: -- knee issues or, you know, sometimes people want to stay seated for that reason.

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, again, my tender of Mr. Dondero as a witness is subject to our running objection on the evidentiary format.

THE COURT: Understood.

JAMES DAVID DONDERO, HUNTER MOUNTAIN INVESTMENT TRUST'S WITNESS, SWORN

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, would you state your full name for the record, please?

A James David Dondero.

Q With whom are you currently -- what company are you currently affiliated with?

A Founder and president of NexPoint.

Q All right. And I think the Court is well aware, but would you just briefly describe your prior affiliation with -- was it Highland Capital?

A Yes.

Q What was that affiliation?

A President and founder for 30 years, and then to facilitate an expeditious resolution of the estate I handed the reins to three Independent Board members and I became a portfolio manager until October of -- I was an unpaid portfolio manager until October of '20.

Q Thank you, sir. Do you have any current official position with Hunter Mountain Investment Trust?

A No.

Q Can you describe for us, sir, any actual or control you attempt to exercise on the business affairs of Hunter Mountain Investment Trust?

A None.

Q Are you -- do you have any official legal relationship with Hunter Mountain Investment Trust where you can attempt to exercise either direct or indirect control over Hunter Mountain Investment Trust?

A I do not.

Q Did you participate -- personally participate in the decision of whether or not to file the proceedings that are currently pending before Judge Jernigan?

A I did not.

Q As the former CEO of Highland Capital, are you familiar with the types of assets that Highland Capital owned? On the petition date?

A Yes.

Q And have you been monitoring these proceedings and the disclosures in these proceedings since the petition date?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Can you describe generally for me the types of assets on the petition date that Highland Capital owned? The types of assets? Describe the types of assets -- companies, stocks, securities, whatever, whatever you -- however you would describe it.

A There were some securities, but it was primarily investments in private equity companies and interests in funds.

Q Okay. I've heard the term portfolio company. What is a portfolio company?

A A portfolio company would be a private equity company that we controlled a majority of the equity and appointed and held accountable the management teams.

Q Would there be separate management, separate boards, for those portfolio companies?

A Yes.

Q All right. How many portfolio companies were there on the petition date, if you're aware? If you recall?

A Half a dozen, of different sizes.
Q Can you identify the names, if you recall?
A Yes.
Q What are those names?
A Trussway, Cornerstone, some small -- Carey International, CFA, SSP Holdings. Yeah, to a lesser extent, OmniCare.
Q All right.
A Or, um, --
Q In addition to the portfolio --
A Sorry.
Q -- of companies in which Highland Capital would own interests, did Highland also have interests in various funds?
A Yes. I said OmniCare. I meant OmniMax, I think was the name.
Q What type of funds?
A I'm sorry. The funds were usually funds that we were invested in or seeded or managed. So they're things like Multistrat, Restoration, a Korea fund, PetroCap.
Q Are these managed funds by Highland Capital? Or were they?
A Yes. Pretty much, with the exception of PetroCap. We were a minority -- a minority -- a large -- a large minority investor with a sub-advisor.
Q Did Highland Capital Management on the petition date own an interest, a direct security interest in MGM?

A Yes. And I -- yes.
Q Did the various portfolio companies that you've identified, did one or more of those portfolio companies also own MGM stock?
A Yes.
Q Did the various funds that you've identified, did one or more of those funds also own MGM stock?
A Yes. Between -- yes. Between the CLOs, the funds, Highland directly, it was about $500 million that eventually got taken out for about a billion dollars.
Q Okay. $500 million is what you said?
A Approximately. Depending on what mark, what time frame. But ultimately they got taken out for about a billion dollars.
Q Okay. And as a consequence of these investments, significant investment -- first of all, how would you describe that magnitude of investments? Is that a significant investment from the perspective of MGM?
A Yes.
Q As a consequence, what role, if any, did you play in terms of MGM's governance? Were you -- did you become a member of the board of directors?
A Yes. I was a board member for approximately ten years, and myself and the president of Anchorage, between our two entities, we had a majority of the equity in MGM.
Q Okay. If there was a third party, not familiar with the management of Highland Capital, who had been monitoring these bankruptcy proceedings as you have, was there any way that a third-party stranger to this bankruptcy proceeding could, from your perspective, actually appreciate or identify the -- all the details of the investments that Highland Capital had?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question. It calls for speculation. He's not here as an expert today. He shouldn't be allowed to testify what a third party would or wouldn't have thought or known.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, I'll --

THE COURT: I'll overrule.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero?

A The disclosures in the Highland bankruptcy were scant. I think there was six or eight line items listed, the descriptions of which were limited. But it didn't include -- it didn't include a broad listing of all the funds, and it didn't include subsidiaries or any net value or any offsetting liabilities or risks of any of the underlying companies or investments, either.

MR. MCENTIRE: Would you put up Exhibit 3, please?

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, we're going to -- do you have a screen in front of you as well?

A Yes.

Q We're going to put up Exhibit 3, and I'm going to ask you some questions about it. First of all, would you identify Exhibit 3?

A It didn't come up on my screen yet.

Q Still not up there?

A Yes. Now it is.

Q Can you identify Exhibit 3, please?

(Discussion.)

Q There we go. Mr. Dondero, would you identify Exhibit 3, please?

A This was an email I sent to Compliance and relevant people to put -- to put MGM on the restricted list.

Q It indicates it was on December 17, 2020. Did you personally author this email?

A Yes.

Q You sent it to multiple individuals, including Mr. Surgent. Was Mr. Surgent an attorney at Highland Capital at the time?

A He was head of compliance for both organizations.

Q Scott Ellington? Is he an attorney? Was he an attorney at the time?

A He's the general counsel of Highland.

Q You also sent it to someone at NexPoint Advisors, Jason Post. Who is Mr. Post?

A Mr. Post was head of compliance at NexPoint Advisors and a subordinate of Thomas Surgent's.

Q Jim Seery. Mr. Seery, of course. You also addressed it to Mr. Seery?

A Yes.

Q It says, Trading Restrictions Re: MGM Material Nonpublic Information. What did you mean by the term "material nonpublic information"?

A Material nonpublic information is when you have material nonpublic information that the public does not have, and it essentially makes you an insider and restricts you from trading.

Q All right. It says, Just got off a pre-board call.

First of all, you generated this in the ordinary course of your business, did you not?

A Um, --

Q This email.

A Yes.

Q Okay.

A Yes.

Q And --

A Any restricted list. Restricted list items happen all the time in the normal course of business.

Q And you've maintained a copy of this email as well, have you not?

A I'm sure we have one. I don't have it personally.

Q Fair enough. But you're -- you have -- you have access and custody over emails, correct?
A Not any of my Highland emails.
Q But those were left. Right?
A Yes. Yes.
MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I mean, he's leading the witness at this point, so I'm just --
MR. MCENTIRE: That's fine.
MR. MORRIS: I'm just --
THE COURT: Okay. Sustained.
MR. MORRIS: -- going to be sensitive to it.
THE COURT: Sustained.
BY MR. MCENTIRE:
Q Mr. -- this is a true and accurate copy of the email that you sent, is it not?
A It appears to be.
MR. MCENTIRE: At this time, I would offer Exhibit 3 into evidence, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Okay. I'm looking through what we admitted earlier. Did we not --
MR. MCENTIRE: This already may be in evidence.
THE COURT: Yes. I'm --
MR. MCENTIRE: I don't --
THE COURT: Was there any objection?
MR. MORRIS: There wasn't. I mean, --

THE COURT: I think there was an objection that I overruled.

MR. MORRIS: No. There wasn't. I mean, unfortunately, we've gotten the short end of the stick here, because all of their documents are in evidence, and I got caught short because I'm going to have to do it the old-fashioned way. But yes, this is in evidence.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. Fair enough.

MR. MORRIS: Because -- actually got through all of their documents.

MR. MCENTIRE: Fair enough.

THE COURT: Okay. All right.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q So, Mr. --

THE COURT: So it's in evidence.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q -- Dondero, going back to Exhibit 3, it says, Just got off a pre-board call.

Is that the MGM board, a pre-board call?

A Yes.

Q What is a pre-board call?

A It's a pre-board call that usually sets the agenda. And, again, myself and the Anchorage guys, we would move in locksteps, in a coordinated fashion, generally, in terms of agenda and company policy.

Q It says, Update is as follows. Amazon and Apple actively diligencing in the data room.

What was your understanding of -- of -- what was your intent in conveying that information to the recipients?

A The intent was really in the last sentence, or second-to-last sentence, that the transaction was likely to close. Amazon had come back. We had turned Amazon away earlier in the year at $120 a share, and they said they wouldn't be willing to pay more. And --

THE COURT: Is there an objection?

MR. MORRIS: There is an objection. None of this was shared with Mr. Seery, all of this background that we're -- that we're doing. He -- I would request that we stick with the -- only the information that was given to Mr. Seery, like -- like he's talking about his intent. Like, who cares at this point?

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, --

MR. MORRIS: This is what Mr. Seery got.

THE COURT: Okay. What is your response to that?

MR. MCENTIRE: I have a response to -- well, they've -- they've questioned his intent in sending this in his opening statement.

MR. MORRIS: Ah.

MR. MCENTIRE: And I'm trying to make it clear what his intent was.

MR. MORRIS: So, you know what, Your Honor? Quid pro quo. Now we're going to do a real quid pro quo. He can ask him about his intent, and then he can't object to all of the other documents and exhibits that I say prove that this was here only to interfere with Mr. Seery's trading activity. I'll do that quid pro quo.

MR. MCENTIRE: May I proceed, Your Honor?

THE COURT: You may. Objection is overruled.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, what was your intent in communicating --

A Okay.

Q -- that probably a first-quarter event? What was your understanding?

A After 30 years of compliance education: Taint one, taint all. We were all sitting together. I -- the trading desk was right outside my desk. All the employees of Highland that would eventually move to NexPoint, all the ones that would eventually move to Skyview, all the ones that eventually moved to Jim Seery, were all within 30 feet of my desk.

Q What do you mean by "Taint one, taint all"?

A That's a compliance concept that, as a professional, you have a responsibility, when you are in possession of material nonpublic information, to put something on the restricted list so that it's not traded. Okay? And you can't -- one person can't sit in their cube and say they know something and not tell anybody else, such that the rest of the organization trades. That's not the way compliance works.

Q It says also no -- also, any sales are subject to a shareholder agreement.

What was the meaning of that or the intent of that?

A There was a stringent shareholder agreement, particularly among the board members, that no shares could be bought or sold without approval of the company.

Q The company here being MGM?

A MGM, yes.

Q What is a restricted list?

A A restricted list is when you believe as an investment professional that you have material nonpublic information, you notify Compliance, and then Compliance notifies the entire organization and prevents any trading in that security.

Q You mentioned the doctrine taint one, taint all. If an individual or -- if an individual within a company setting is found to have traded on material nonpublic information, what is the potential consequence or sanction?

MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. This is like a legal conclusion. He's not a law enforcement officer. He's not a securities officer. What are we doing?

MR. MCENTIRE: I can rephrase.

THE COURT: Okay. He's going to rephrase.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Based upon your years -- based upon your years of experience as a board member of MGM, based upon your years of experience as a CEO of Highland Capital and an executive that trades in securities and has sold securities, what is your understanding, from a non-legal perspective, of what the risks are associated with trading on material nonpublic information?
A You could be -- you would be fired from the organization if you did. You could be banned from the securities industry. The industry can shut down the -- or, the SEC can shut down the advisor or they can fine the advisor.
Q Do you know what a compliance log is?
A Yes.
Q Should MGM have been placed on a compliance log at NexPoint?
A Throughout the organization -- throughout the organization, it should -- it should and it was on all -- at all organizations, yes.
Q Should it have been placed on a -- on a compliance log to Highland Capital, from your perspective?
A Yes.
Q Can you give us any explanation of why, to your knowledge, why MGM would be taken off the restricted list in April of 2021 at Highland Capital?
A When an investment professional puts something on the restricted list, in order for it to come off the restricted list, the material nonpublic information has to be public. So there has to be a cleansing that occurs by the company.

Q To the extent that you were no longer affiliated with Highland Capital in the early portion, the first quarter of 2021, does that somehow cleanse the material nonpublic information that you identified?

A It does not.

Q Why not?

A Because the -- it -- the company hasn't -- the company didn't come out and make public the information that we knew from a private perspective that the transaction was about to go through.

Q You sat here during opening statements when Mr. Morris referred to the various news coverage and media coverage concerning MGM and the fact that people had expressed interest in buying in the past?

A Yes. And at the board level, we had entertained numerous ones. There were rumors that had no basis in fact, and there were negotiations we had with people that were never in the news. But none of them got to this degree of certainty where it was going to close within a couple months.

Q From your perspective as an investment professional, with the years of experience that you described for the Court, what is the difference between receiving an email from a board member such as yourself and rumors or suggestions of possible sale in the media?

A I knew with certainty from the board level that Amazon had hit our price, agreed to hit our price, and it was going to close in the next couple months.
Q That's not rumor or innuendo; that's hard information from a member of the MGM board?
A Correct.
MR. MCENTIRE: All right. You can take that down, please, Tim.
BY MR. MCENTIRE:
Q I want to talk a little bit about due diligence. When you were the chief executive officer of Highland Capital, --
A Yes.
Q -- can you tell us whether Highland Capital ever involved itself in the acquisition of distressed assets?
A Yes. We did a fair amount of investing in distressed assets.
Q What is a distressed asset?
A It's something that trades at a discount, where the certainty and the timing of realizations or contractual obligations is uncertain.
Q Is a -- well, let me back up. Has Highland -- did Highland Capital ever invest in unsecured claims in connection with bankruptcy proceedings?
A Yes.

Q And in terms of the -- on the spectrum of risk, where does an unsecured creditor claim in a bankruptcy proceeding kind of rank in terms of the uncertainties or risk, from your perspective?

A It's high risk. It's a -- yeah, it would be highly-distressed, generally.

Q Explain to us -- I know the Court is very familiar with claims trading. Explain to us from your perspective as an investment -- a seasoned investment expert or executive what those risks are. What types of risk are associated with such an investment?

A You have to evaluate the assets tied to the claim specifically. Or if it's an unsecured in general, the assets in general in the estate.

You have to handicap the realization that a distressed seller might not get full value for something. You have to handicap the likelihood around that. And then you have to handicap the timing, and then you have to handicap the expenses and the other obligations of the estate, and then handicap risk items that aren't known or that are difficult if not impossible to underwrite, like unknown litigation or last-minute litigation or claims or something.

Q And all these handicapping, this handicapping process, how does that impact the price or the investment that you're willing to make? Generally?

A Generally, you put a much higher discount rate. You know, like if you would do debt at 10 percent and a normal public equity at a 15 percent return, you would do distressed or private equity investing at a 20, 25 percent return expectation to offset the risk and the unknowns.

Q In order to handicap an investment in an unsecured creditor's claim appropriately to reach an informed decision, what type of data would you need to have access to?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question. He's not here as an expert. He's here as a fact witness. He should -- he should limit himself to that instead of talking about what investors should be doing.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, Your Honor, with all due respect, he's here as the former CEO of Highland Capital. He has experience, firsthand knowledge experience, and he also has expertise because of his education, his career, and training.

And again, there's no limitation here under the Rules about what type of information I can elicit from him in this proceeding. This is, whether you call it expert testimony, I call it personal knowledge, but it has some expert aspects to it, but I think that's fair and appropriate.

THE COURT: Well, I think you can ask what kind of data would you rely on, would Highland Capital or entities he's been in charge of rely on, --

MR. MCENTIRE: I understand.

THE COURT: -- but not what would people rely on. So I sustain the objection partially.

MR. MCENTIRE: All right.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, I'll rephrase the question. When you were the chief executive officer of Highland Capital before Mr. Seery took the reins, and you, your company, Highland Capital, was investing in an unsecured creditor's claims, what due diligence, what type of information would you expect your team to explore and investigate?

A Sure. Distressed investment in a trade claim would be among our thickest folders, it would be among our most diligenced items, because you have those three buckets, the value of the assets, again, and the ability and timing of monetization of those as a not strong -- as a weak seller, and then you would have the litigation or claims against those, and then you would have to also have a third section of analysis for the litigation risk of the estate overall.

Q What type of legal analysis or legal due diligence would you have required as the CEO of Highland Capital?

A At Highland, we would have had third-party law firms, in addition to our own legal staff, in addition to our own business professionals, reviewing all the analysis and the assumptions.

Q With regard to a financial analysis, what types of financial due diligence would you have required?
A It would have been a detailed -- a detailed analysis of all the cash flows on the particular underlying investments, and an evaluation and valuation of what those companies or investments were worth.
Q Why is it important to look at the underlying value of the asset?
A Because that -- those are what will be monetized in order to give you a return on the claims or securities that you buy in a distressed situation.

MR. MCENTIRE: Tim, would you please put up Exhibit 4?

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I don't mean to be monitoring your time, but we're at the 1:30 --

THE COURT: I was just checking the clock here. Let's do take a break. So, --

MR. MCENTIRE: All right.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, can we have an instruction to the witness not to --

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. MORRIS: -- look at his phone and not to confer with anybody? Because we had that incident once before.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, I don't --

THE WITNESS: I don't have my phone.

THE COURT: Okay.

THE WITNESS: My phone's at the front desk.

THE COURT: So, no discussions with your lawyers or -- I guess he doesn't have his phone -- during this break.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. So, I really think this will take five minutes, so don't go far.

(Off the record, 1:33 p.m. to 1:47 p.m.)

THE COURT: Okay. We will go back on the record, then, in the Highland matter.

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm just going to grab him right now.

THE COURT: Okay. We are, for the record, waiting on Mr. Dondero to take his place again on the witness stand.

(Pause.)

THE COURT: All right, Mr. Dondero. We're ready for you to resume your testimony.

All right. Mr. McEntire, you may proceed.

MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you, Your Honor.

DIRECT EXAMINATION, RESUMED

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, when we left off, I was just putting up what I requested as Exhibit 4.

MR. MCENTIRE: And Tim, if you can put that back up, please.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, can you identify Exhibit #4, please?
A Yes. These are notes I took contemporaneous with three conversations with guys at Farallon.
Q I didn't quite hear you. Did you say contemporaneous?
A Yes.
Q So, you say with three conversations. Who were the conversations with?
A One was with Raj Patel that was fairly short, and he deflected me to Mike Linn, who was the portfolio manager in charge and had done the transactions.
Q Which transactions?
A The buying of the claim, the Highland claims.
Q All right. And what was your purpose in making these notes?
A We'd been trying nonstop to settle the case for two-plus years. We'd been counseled that it was a Kabuki dance that would just, you know, all settle at the end, and it never quite happened that way. And when we heard the claims traded, we realized there were new parties to potentially negotiate to resolve the case.

The ownership was initially hidden, but we were able to find out pretty quickly that Farallon was Muck. So I reached out the Farallon guys.
Q All right. And were you ever able at that time to determine who was affiliated with Jessup, the other special-purpose entity?

A We -- initially, we thought Farallon was all of the entities. We didn't find out about Stonehill -- it was more difficult and they had taken more efforts to hide the ownership in Stonehill. We didn't find out for two more months.
Q So your first conversation was with Mr. Patel?
A Yes.
Q And did you call him?
A Yes.
Q Your first entry, there's a 28 on the left-hand side. What does that 28 refer to, if you recall?
A That was the date, I believe.
Q Do you believe it was May 28th?
A Yes.
Q What makes you believe that?
A That's what it says.
Q Okay. Raj Patel --
THE COURT: Is there a way you can show the words that are cut off?
MR. MCENTIRE: On this particular one, I can't, Your Honor. We tried, but we can't. No.
THE COURT: If I look in the notebook, can I see it?
MR. MCENTIRE: I don't think so. I think this is -- what you see is exactly what's in the notebook. It's the same document. This is how -- how we -- this is how we have it.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Patel. Who is Mr. Patel?

A He's Mike Linn's boss. He's head of -- I believe head of credit at Farallon.

Q Okay. And Farallon is based where, if you know?

A San Francisco.

Q And what kind of company is Farallon, if you know?

A They -- they look a lot like Highland. Well, they do real estate. They do hedge funds. They do -- they don't do as many 40 Act or retail funds, but they're -- they're an investor.

Q Mr. Patel. What did he tell you during this phone call?

A That he bought it because Seery told him to buy it and they had made money with Seery before.

Q All right. And how long did the call last?

A Not long.

Q Okay. You said he referred you to Mr. -- who was the person?

A To Mike Linn.

Q Who is Mike Linn?

A Mike Linn is a portfolio manager that works for Mr. Patel.

Q And did you call Mr. Linn?

A Yes.

Q All right. The notes here, do these reflect several conversations?

A The first one reflects a conversation with Raj Patel, and then the rest of it reflects two conversations with Mike Linn.
Q All right. Where does the first conversation with Mike Linn start and where does it end?
A It ends -- it begins at the 50, 70 cents. We knew that they had -- that the claims had traded around 50 cents. And I said we'd be willing to pay 70 cents. We'd like to prevent the $5 million-a-month burn. We'd like to buy your claims.
Q Why 70 cents? What was -- what was that all about?
A I was trying to give them a compelling premium that was still less than I had offered the UCC three months earlier.
Q And so you have: Not compelling, Class 8. What does that mean?
A He said that was -- he just said 70 cents wasn't compelling.
Q There's a reference to: Asked what would be compelling. Was that a question you asked him?
A Yes.
Q And what was his response?
A He said he had no offer. And he -- we had heard he paid 50 cents and I offered him 70 cents and then -- but he was clear to me that he wouldn't tell me what he paid. And so the next time I called him I -- I -- instead of just making it cents on the dollar, I said I'd pay 130 percent of whatever he did pay. You don't have to tell me what you paid, but I'll pay you 30 percent more than you paid, you know, a couple months ago. And -- or we thought they notified the Court when they just bought it, but they had actually negotiated buying it back in February. January or February. So --

Q Who told you that they bought it in February or March time frame?

A He did.

Q Okay. Was this during the first or the second phone --

MR. MORRIS: I apologize for interrupting. Who's the "he"?

MR. MCENTIRE: Mike Linn.

THE WITNESS: Mike Linn.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you so much.

MR. MCENTIRE: I'll make sure the record --

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mike Linn --

A Yes.

Q -- told you that Farallon had bought their interest in the claims back in the February or March time frame?

A Yes.

Q All right. Bought assets with claims. What does that refer to?

A He said it wasn't compelling because he said Seery told him it would be worth a lot more. He -- he confirmed what Raj said, that -- I said, do you realize the estate is spending $5 million a month on legal fees? That, you know, you should want to sell this thing. And he said Seery told him it was worth a lot more and there were claims and litigation beyond the asset value.

Q You offered him 40 to 50 percent premium. What is that?

A That's what the 70 cents on the 50 cents represents. And then I changed the dialogue to I'll pay you 130 percent of whatever your cost was. And he said, not compelling. And then I, both -- both calls, I pressed him, what price would he offer at? And he said he had no offer, he wasn't willing to sell.

Q The 130 percent of cost, not compelling, was that in the second or the third call with Mr. Linn?

A It was at my third and final call with Farallon. My second call with Mike Linn was the 130 percent of cost.

Q And he said not compelling? You put it in quotation marks?

A Yep.

Q And then you said, no counter. What does that mean?

A He wouldn't -- he wouldn't give an offer, he wouldn't give a price at which he would sell.

Q What did Mike Linn tell you, in effect, with regard to his due diligence that Farallon had undertaken?

A When I -- when I told him about the risks and the litigation and the burn, he said he wasn't following the case, he wasn't aware of it, he was depending on Jim Seery.

Q What, if anything, did Michael Linn tell you about MGM?

A That was more the initial Raj Patel call, where he said we bought it because he was very optimistic regarding MGM.

Q Okay. Did you have any understanding when he first got his optimism about MGM?

A No. He just said that's why they had bought it initially, they were very optimistic about MGM.

Q That's why they had bought it initially?

A Yes.

Q And they had bought it initially in the February-March time frame?

A Yes.

Q And that -- would you -- does that predate the public disclosure of the MGM sale to Amazon?

A Yes.

Q Substantially by a couple of months?

A Yes.

Q I'd like to turn your attention now to a different topic.

MR. MCENTIRE: And Tim, if you could pull up Exhibit 8, please.

I believe this document is already in evidence, Your Honor.

THE COURT: 8 is?

MR. MCENTIRE: Oh, by the way, I offer Exhibit 4 into evidence.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Let me ask you a couple quick questions.

THE COURT: Is there an objection?

MR. MORRIS: Nope.

THE COURT: Okay. 4 is admitted.

(Hunter Mountain Investment Trust's Exhibit 4 is received into evidence.)

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Exhibit 8.

MR. MORRIS: I apologize, Your Honor. Just one caveat. It's not for the truth of the matter asserted; it's for what his impressions were at the time.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, --

MR. MORRIS: This is what he wrote down. I don't --

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm offering it for the truth of the matter asserted.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. And I object to that extent. This --

MR. MCENTIRE: Let me --

MR. MORRIS: Can I voir dire? Can I voir dire? May I do --

MR. MCENTIRE: May I finish my statement that I was --

THE COURT: Let him finish, and then --

MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.

THE COURT: -- you can.

MR. MCENTIRE: I am offering it for the truth of the matter asserted because these are documents that were prepared contemporaneously, it's an exception to the hearsay rule and reflects admissions of a -- of an adverse party. Admissions that are adverse to their interests. Declarations of interest adverse to their interest and admissions of an adverse party contemporaneously recorded. And so that's why I'm offering it.

MR. MORRIS: For all purposes?

THE COURT: Okay. Let me have you point me to the exact hearsay exception. I understand this hearsay exception you're arguing for the hearsay within the hearsay, the party opponent exception. But it's technically hearsay of Mr. Dondero, even though he's here on the stand.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, I could lay a foundation, then.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, --

THE COURT: Well, no. I'm asking for what your --

MR. MCENTIRE: It's --

THE COURT: -- rule reference is.

MR. MCENTIRE: I don't have the Rules with me right this second. It's 803(1) --

(Discussion.)

MR. MCENTIRE: All right. Well, it's -- it's admissible under several categories. It's not hearsay because it's an admission of a party opponent. It's also an admission under 803(1), present sense impression. It's also admissible --

THE COURT: So you say it's Mr. Dondero's statement describing or explaining an event --

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes.

THE COURT: -- or admission made while or immediately after the declarant perceived it?

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes. It's also a record of a regularly-conducted activity, which is 803(6). And I think it's also not technically hearsay because it's also an admission of a party. So, this --

THE COURT: Well, that's the hearsay within the hearsay.

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

THE COURT: But I'm -- I'm --

MR. MORRIS: That can't possibly be right. I can't go back to my hotel right now and write down that he told me that he did a bad thing and come in here tomorrow and say he admitted he did a bad thing because it's in my notes.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, --

MR. MORRIS: That's can't possibly be the law.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, --

MR. MORRIS: That's not the law.

MR. MCENTIRE: There are two hearsay issues here. One is whether this is a business record or otherwise qualifies as an exception to the hearsay rule, and then there's an internal hearsay issue of whether or not what Mr. Patel and Mr. --

THE COURT: You haven't established the business record exception. Okay?

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm prepared to lay the foundation right this second. At this moment.

THE COURT: You may proceed.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, is this a document that was generated by you in the ordinary course of your business?

A Yes.

Q Did you have personal knowledge when you recorded this document?

A Yes.

Q You personally recorded this document, correct?

A Yes.

Q And you have had custody of this document. Correct?

A Yes.

Q And this is --

MR. MCENTIRE: That's a -- that's a business record,

Your Honor.

MR. MORRIS: May I, Your Honor?

THE COURT: You may.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

VOIR DIRE EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Where's the document now? How come it's -- how come it's cut off?

A I don't know.

Q Do you have the document today? How come we're looking at a document that's cut off?

A I'm sure we have it somewhere. I don't have it.

MR. MORRIS: So, number one, Your Honor, we don't have the actual document. We have a partial document.

Number two, let's talk about it for a second.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q You say that you do this in the ordinary course of business. What's the purpose of taking these notes?

A When I'm starting negotiation with somebody new on something complicated and I don't know what their concerns or rationale is going to be, I take little notes like this.

Q And is it -- is it the purpose of it to capture the important things that are going on in the conversation?

A So I know next time how to address it differently, you know.

Q That's not my question. My question is, is the purpose of taking notes so that you have a written record of the important points that you discussed?
A Yes, so I know how to address it the next time.
Q Okay. And among the important points that you never put down on these notes was the letters MGM. Is that correct?
A Correct.
Q Okay. And you never put down here that Michael Linn told you he wasn't following the case, correct?
A No, I did not.
Q Okay.
A But it was --
Q And --
A Yeah. But I --
Q That --

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, if this is --

MR. MCENTIRE: (faintly) This is voir dire of the witness for a business record exception.

MR. MORRIS: No, because --

THE COURT: Overruled.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

BY MR. MORRIS:
Q Mr. Patel wouldn't tell you how much he paid and that's why you didn't write it down, right?
A Mr. Patel told me he bought it because of Seery. My conversation was very short with him. That was one of the few things he said. Linn said he wouldn't sell it because he didn't find it compelling.

Q Okay.

A And Linn was the one who wouldn't tell me --

Q Okay.

A -- the price.

Q But -- but even though you took these notes to write down things that you thought were important, you didn't write down MGM. Correct?

A Yes.

Q And you didn't write down that anybody was very optimistic about MGM. Correct?

A No, I did not.

Q And you didn't write down that Mr. Linn told you he wasn't following the case. Correct?

A Well, he said the same thing Patel said about he bought it because of Seery. He did confirm that. I didn't see any reason to write that again.

Q You didn't -- you never wrote it down. Not once. Not -- there's nothing about again, right. You never wrote down that --

A No, I did write --

Q -- anybody ever told you they weren't following the case. Correct?

A Correct.
Q Okay.
A But I wrote down that he bought it because of Seery.
Q Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, no objection. It can go in.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay.

THE COURT: Wait. Did you just say no objections?

MR. MORRIS: Except -- except for the hearsay on hearsay. It can't possibly be an admission. It's his -- it's his notes. This is what he wrote. It can come in for that purpose. It's -- it's a -- that's what he's testified to, and I can't object to that. But it can't possibly come in as an admission against Farallon.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, I disagree.

MR. MORRIS: That's the point.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, first of all, I disagree. This is otherwise admissible, and it can come. I think that's really, Your Honor, that's really the weight it's going to be given. It comes in. He's not making an objection to its admissibility. And if he wants to argue the weight of the document, that's a different issue.

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, if I may.

THE COURT: You may.

MR. STANCIL: The second layer of hearsay goes to whether this is a statement by Farallon. It is a statement by Mr. Dondero of what he heard, what he says he heard Farallon say. 801(d) refers to, when they're talking about an opposing party statement, made by the party, not made by a listener who says he heard the party. This is classic hearsay within hearsay. It's not admissible for that purpose.

THE COURT: Okay. I sustain the objection, and -- but I'm still struggling to understand what the Respondents have agreed to. Because --

MR. MORRIS: That -- that this is what he claims to have written down. I mean, right? So, so --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: -- a present sense impression.

THE COURT: So, it is admitted as Mr. Dondero's present sense impression, but it's not admitted as to the truth of anything that Claims Purchasers may have said.

MR. MORRIS: And -- and the --

THE COURT: That's what you're saying?

MR. MORRIS: Yes. And the most important thing is that he's testified that the purpose of the notes was to capture the things that were important that he was told. And we've established what he wasn't told.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. I believe the document is in evidence, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Exhibit 4 is in evidence. But, again, there's no admission in here as to what Claims Purchasers testified as to.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, they haven't testified yet because --

THE COURT: This is what he --

THE DEFENDANT: I understand. I understand.

THE COURT: -- he says he remembers.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. So, --

THE COURT: It's sort of an --

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, just so we're clear for our record, this is not admitted for the truth of what Farallon is purported to have said.

MR. MCENTIRE: Correct.

THE COURT: Correct.

MR. MCENTIRE: This --

MR. STANCIL: Thank you.

MR. MCENTIRE: This is offered for the truth of what Mr. -- Mr. Dondero recalls them saying.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: In part.

THE COURT: I think -- I think we're on the same page now. I think. I think.

(Hunter Mountain Investment Trust's Exhibit 4 is received into evidence.)

MR. MCENTIRE: All right. May I proceed, Your Honor?

THE COURT: You may.

MR. MCENTIRE: Can you please put up Exhibit 8, please? And I believe this document has been put into evidence --

THE COURT: It is.

MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, this document is a -- part of a -- the Court's docket. It was filed on February 1, 2021, if you could go to the top upper banner. It's Debtors' Notice of Filing of Plan Supplement of the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, as Modified.

Do you see that?

A Yes.

Q I'll direct your attention, --

MR. MCENTIRE: If you could go to Page 4, please, for me, Tim.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Page 4 has a schedule, a plan analysis and a liquidation analysis. Do you see that?

A Yes.

Q All right. For Class 8, what does it identify that is being projected for distributions to the general unsecured claims for Class 8?

A 71.3 percent.

Q What percentage is being identified that will be distributed to Class 9?

A 9, no distribution.

Q No distribution? All right. Mr. Dondero, in Paragraph -- I'm going to give you a piece of paper.

MR. MCENTIRE: Can you just give me a piece of paper real quick?

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q I'm handing you a piece of paper and I'm --

A Okay. Thank you.

Q Mr. Dondero, in our complaint in this case, the proposed complaint in this case, we allege that Class 8 had a total of $270 million, the claims that were purchased by Farallon and Stonehill had a face value in Class 8 of $270 million. Would you write that number down?

And assuming that this was public information that was available in February of 2021 at 71.32 percent, --

MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. That's an assumption not in evidence. He hasn't laid a foundation for what was available in February in 2021.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, according to --

THE COURT: Wait. Are you going to respond, or are you just going to --

MR. MCENTIRE: I'll rephrase the question.

THE COURT: -- rephrase? Okay.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q According to the document that is identified as Exhibit #8 that says that 71.32 percent is the anticipated projected payout on Class 8 claims, what is 71.32 percent of the face value of the claims that were purchased?

A About $192 million.

Q $192 million? And assuming for a moment that, as alleged by Hunter Mountain in this case, that $163 million was actually used to purchase the Class 8 claims, what is the difference?

A About $30 million.

Q A little less than that, isn't it? Or is the number --

A Yeah. $28 million or whatever.

Q $28 million? And based upon your years of experience in running Highland Capital, being involved in the purchase of unsecured claims, being involved in investigating and acquiring distressed assets, that return over a two-year period, is that the kind of return that a hedge fund would typically -- you would expect to receive?

MR. MORRIS: I just want to make sure that -- because the question changed a little bit in the middle. If he wants to ask him if he would have made the investment, that's fine. But he should not be permitted to testify as to what any other investor, including the ones who purchased these claims, would have done. Every -- there's different risk profiles. He can testify to whatever he wants about himself.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Go ahead. Based upon your experience at Highland Capital, would Highland Capital have ever acquired those claims based upon that kind of return over two years? For a distressed asset such as this?

A No.

Q Why not?

A It's below a debt level return that you could get on high-rated assets with certainty. It's --

Q What do you mean by it's below -- below a debt return that you could get on collateralized assets? What do you mean by that?

A I think in this case the debt that the Debtor put in place paid 12, 13 percent and was triple secured or whatever. So no one would buy the residual claims for an 8 percent compounded, whatever that $28 million works out to.

MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor. He shouldn't be talking about or testifying to what other people might do.

THE WITNESS: Well, we --

THE COURT: This is --

THE WITNESS: We would never have done that.

THE COURT: This is --

MR. MCENTIRE: He would not have.

THE COURT: -- Highland, not nobody. Okay.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, and what is it about the fact that these claims are not collateralized that impacts the decision-makers, from your perspective?

A You have all the risk that the $205 million of expenses this estate has currently paid grows to $300 or $400 million. You know, you have the risk that other litigation regarding Seery violating the Advisers Act --

MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor.

THE WITNESS: -- results in --

THE COURT: Sustained.

THE WITNESS: -- expenses.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Just respond to my question, sir. What does the fact about not being collateralized, how does that impact the decision-maker's --

A Well, I was trying to answer it. You just have all kinds of residual risk of bad acts that have happened at the estate or expenses increasing or whatever.

MR. MORRIS: I move to strike the phrase "bad acts," Your Honor.

THE COURT: Overruled.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q What did you mean by that? What did you mean by "bad acts"?

A We've highlighted it in a lot of complaints. There's been several violations of the Advisers Act.

MR. MORRIS: Move to strike, Your Honor. It's a legal conclusion.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, are you familiar with an entity known as NHF?

A Yes.

Q What is NHF?

A A NexPoint hedge fund. It was a closed-in fund that we manage still to this day at NexPoint. The name has changed to NXDT.

Q Was NHF publicly traded?

A It -- yeah, it's a publicly-traded equity. It's a closed-in fund, technically, but it's a publicly-traded security.

Q What -- what is your affiliation with NHF?

A I'm the portfolio manager.

Q And, again, what are your responsibilities as the portfolio manager?

A To optimize the portfolio and hopefully exceed investor expectations.

Q Have you become aware that Stonehill was purchasing MGM stock in the first quarter of 2021? And NHF?

APPELLANT'S AMENDED DESIGNATION OF ITEMS TO BE INCLUDED IN THE RECORD ON APPEAL AND STATEMENT OF THE ISSUES PRESENTED

Pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr. P. 8009(a) and Docket No. 4366, Appellant Patrick Daugherty ("Daugherty") hereby submits his amended designation of items to be included in the record on appeal and statement of issues to be presented in connection with his appeal from the Order Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9019 and 11 U.S.C. § 363 Approving Settlement Between the Highland Entities and the HMIT Entities and Authorizing Actions Consistent Therewith [Docket

[1] Highland's last four digits of its taxpayer identification number are (8357). The headquarters and service address for Highland is 100 Crescent Court, Suite 1850, Dallas, TX 75201.

No. 4297] (the "HMIT Settlement Order").[2] See Notice of Appeal [Docket No. 4310, as amended at Docket No. 4327].

Statement of Issues on Appeal

1. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in its approval of the HMIT Settlement Order [Docket No. 4297], which permits payment to Class 10 creditors before all Class 8 and Class 9 claims have been paid in full when the plain language of the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. [Dkt. 1808], the Court's Confirmation Order [Dkt. 1943] and the Claimant Trust Agreement [Dkt. 3817-4] require full payment plus applicable interest to all Class 8 and Class 9 creditors before any Class 10 or Class 11 claims can vest.

2. Whether the Bankruptcy Court abused its discretion by approving the HMIT Settlement Order [Docket No. 4297] when the settlement is not fair, reasonable, or in the best interests of the estate as the Debtor, through its principals, is forgoing the recovery of millions in material value to the estate in exchange for, inter alia, self-serving releases of its principals.

Designation of Record

Daugherty respectfully designates the following items to be included in the appellate record pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 8009(a):

000001 1. Amended Notice of Appeal for Bankruptcy Case No. 19-34054-sgj11 [Dkt. 4327].

000011 2. Notice of Appeal for Bankruptcy Case No. 19-34054-sgj11 [Dkt. 4310].

000022 3. The Judgment Order or Decree appealed from: Order Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9019 and 11 U.S.C. § 363 Approving Settlement Between the Highland Entities and the HMIT Entities and Authorizing Actions Consistent Therewith [Docket No. 4297].

000026 4. Docket Sheet for Bankruptcy Case No. 19-34054-sgj1 kept by the Bankruptcy Clerk.

5. Documents listed below for Bankruptcy Case No. 19-34054-sgj11:

[2] Unless otherwise defined herein, all capitalized terms shall have the meaning ascribed to them in the HMIT Settlement Order.

A Yes. We believe -- we're able to demonstrate from Bloomberg records, on the Bloomberg terminal, they show up as holders and purchasers in the -- in the first few months of 2021.

Q What magnitude?

A I think it was one of their top equity positions. It was about six million bucks.

MR. MCENTIRE: Can you put up the chart? This is for demonstrative purposes only.

I'm not offering this chart into evidence, Your Honor. It's simply a demonstration. Or a demonstrative.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, there's no such thing.

MR. MCENTIRE: There is.

MR. MORRIS: A demonstrative has to be based on evidence. A demonstrative is supposed to summarize evidence. You don't put up a demonstrative until --

THE COURT: All right. What's your response to that?

MR. MCENTIRE: That I'm about to walk through some points where he can establish as a point of evidence, and then we can talk about it. Demonstratives, demonstratives are used all the time, Your Honor.

MR. MORRIS: It's to --

THE COURT: Well, they summarize evidence.

MR. MORRIS: It's to summarize evidence.

THE COURT: Yes. So, --

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, this is --

THE COURT: -- you can elicit the evidence, and then if this chart seems to summarize whatever he testifies as to, then --

MR. MCENTIRE: All right.

THE COURT: -- then I think maybe you can put it up.

MR. MCENTIRE: Mr. -- you can take it down, Tim.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, do you have an understanding of how much total distributions have been paid to date in the Highland bankruptcy?

A I believe the Class 8 -- the 1 through 7 was only about $10 million. I believe Class 8 got $260 or $270 million so far.

Q All right. And do you have an understanding of what the total amount of expenses are?

A Total expenses paid to date was $203 million. $205 million.

Q So the -- the -- there's a rough approximation between the professional expenses and the actual all proofs of claim; is that correct?

A There is, yeah, a ratio, and -- yes.

Q The total cash flow, if you add those two together, what are they? What are they approximately?

A $470 million.

Q $470 million? And do you understand that the -- that the Reorganized Debtor and the Claimant Trust would have more than sufficient assets to reach Class 10 where Hunter Mountain is currently located, even setting aside the claims against you?

A Correct. There's $57 million of cash on the balance sheet, net of a couple million today, I guess. And then there's $100 million of other assets.

MR. MCENTIRE: Reserve the rest of my questions. Reserve the rest of my questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Pass the witness.

MR. MCENTIRE: Could I have my time estimate?

THE COURT: Yes. Caroline?

THE CLERK: (faintly) As of right now, we are at 81 minutes, so --

MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.

THE COURT: That was 81 minutes total?

THE CLERK: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: May I proceed, Your Honor?

THE COURT: You may.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Good afternoon, Mr. Dondero.

A Good to see you.

Q My pleasure. Do you know an attorney named Ronak

(phonetic) Patel?
A Is that Rakhee that they call --
Q Could be. Do you know an attorney named Rakhee Patel?
A There was a Rakhee Patel, I believe, early in the Acis case.
Q Let me try --
A I'm not -- I've never met her.
Q Let me try this differently.
A Okay.
Q Did you ever meet with the Texas State Securities Board?
A No.
Q Did anybody acting on your behalf ever file a complaint with the Texas State Securities Board?
A No.
Q Do you know if anybody's filed a complaint with the Texas State Securities Board? About Highland?
A I believe you covered it earlier. Mark Patrick.
Q Mark Patrick what?
A I guess he did, or Hunter Mountain did, or the DAF did. I don't -- I don't know.
Q Did you ever speak with Mark Patrick about a TSSB investigation of Highland?
A No.
Q Okay. Why do you think Mark Patrick knows about the TSSB investigation of Highland?

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection to form. Calls for speculation. He's just established that he's never --

THE WITNESS: I don't know.

MR. MCENTIRE: -- talked to Mark Patrick.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: Okay. Sustained.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Have you ever seen the draft Hunter Mountain complaint in this case?

A No.

Q Okay. I think you testified a moment ago that Amazon had hit MGM's price by December 17th. Do I have that right?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Then how come you didn't say that in your email to Mr. Seery?

A Your best practices and typical practices, when you put it on the restricted list, is to just give as little information as possible so that the inside information isn't promulgated specifically throughout the organization and leaked --

Q So, --

A -- throughout the organization.

Q So, even though your intent was to convey information to Mr. Seery, you didn't actually tell him the truth, right? You didn't tell him that Amazon had actually hit the stock price.

Right?
A I wouldn't characterize it that way.
Q Okay. In fact, all you told him was that they were interested. Isn't that right?
A I wasn't telling him anything. I was telling Compliance, as an investment professional, that it needed to be on the restricted list because we were in possession of material nonpublic information regarding a merger that was going to go through shortly. Or in the next few months.
Q Is it your testimony that, as of December 17th, Amazon had made an offer that was acceptable to MGM?
A Yeah, we were going into -- that's what the board meeting was. We were going into exclusive negotiations to culminate the merger with them.
Q Okay. I think you have a binder there of our exhibits. If you can go to #11.
A Which one?
MR. MORRIS: May I approach?
THE WITNESS: Sure.
(Pause.)
BY MR. MORRIS:
Q That's your email, sir, right?
A Yes.
Q Okay. It doesn't say anything about Amazon hitting the price, right?

A It doesn't need to.
Q In fact, it still mentions Apple, doesn't it? Why did you feel the need to mention Apple if Amazon had already hit the price?
A The only way you generally get something done at attractive levels in business is if two people are interested.
Q But why weren't you -- why were you creating a story for the Compliance Department when the whole idea was to be transparent so they would understand what was happening? Why would you create a story that differed from the facts?
A It didn't differ from the facts, and it's not a story. It's a, we have material nonpublic information. Please put this on the restricted list. And --
Q But that -- but you said Amazon and Apple are actively diligencing and they're in the data room. Do you see that?
A That's true.
Q So, even though -- you know what, I'll move on. But this -- this doesn't say what you testified to earlier, that Apple hit the -- that Amazon hit the price. Right? Can we just agree on that?
A Well, agree that it doesn't have to and it's not supposed to.
MR. MORRIS: I move to strike. I just want --
THE COURT: Sustained.
BY MR. MORRIS:

Q -- you to -- I want you to just work with me here. You did not tell the Compliance Department that Apple -- that Amazon had hit the strike price. Right? Isn't that correct? That's not what this email says?

A The -- you can pull up a hundred of these type emails. They're not specific.

MR. MORRIS: I'm going to move to strike and I'm just going to ask you, --

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q -- because you testified to one thing, and I just want to make clear that you told the Compliance Department something different. Can we just agree on that?

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, Your Honor, may I respond to his motions to strike? I think he's becoming argumentative.

THE COURT: Could you speak into the mic, --

MR. MCENTIRE: I can.

THE COURT: -- please.

THE COURT: He's becoming argumentative. And I think it's very clear that, if he asks a question, the witness has a right to respond. I think his answers are totally responsive. And I don't think anything should be struck.

THE COURT: Okay. Your question was you didn't put in there anything about it hit the strike price --

MR. MORRIS: He didn't --

THE COURT: -- or whatever?

MR. MORRIS: He didn't -- he didn't tell the Compliance Department what he just testified to. In fact, he told the Compliance Department something very different. That's all I'm asking.

THE COURT: And I think that's just a yes or no.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Yes or no? You told the Compliance Department something different than what was actually happening?

A That's not true.

Q Oh.

A Exactly what was here, what was happening. I didn't give more detail, which is more hearsay.

Q Okay. If somebody was filing -- following the Highland bankruptcy, they would have known that MGM was very important, right?

A You'd have to show me where. I don't -- I don't see it in any of the bankruptcy --

Q You don't think that that's true?

A I didn't see it in any of the public filings.

Q Do you remember we were here two years ago on this very day, June 8, 2021, for the second contempt hearing? You sat in that very witness box during the second contempt hearing? Remember that? That was two years ago.

A I remember sitting in the box. What are you asking?
Q And do you remember that that was just a few days after MGM had announced its deal with Amazon?
A I -- I don't remember -- I -- was that the day the judge was hopeful that would lead to a resolution of the case?
Q Exactly. So, --
A Okay.
Q -- Judge Jernigan certainly knew that MGM was important. Right?
A Yes.
Q And she's a bankruptcy judge, right?
A Yes.
Q And she was overseeing the bankruptcy case, right? Correct?
A Yes.
Q And the very first thing when she walked in the door two years ago on this day was, oh my goodness, MGM, they have a deal, maybe we can finally get to a settlement. Right?
A And I wish she had pushed on that.
Q Do you --
A And I remember you guys dismissing it.
Q Do you think she had material nonpublic inside information?
A No, I don't think so.
Q She probably learned it in the bankruptcy case, right?

A Yeah.
Q Okay. Do you believe Mr. Seery sold any MGM securities between the day you sent your email and the day the Amazon deal was announced on May 26th?
A I don't know.
Q Do you -- so you have no knowledge? Let's do this a different way. You have no basis to say that Mr. Seery sold any MGM securities between the moment you sent this email on December 17th and the day the Amazon deal was announced on May 26th. Correct?
A I'm sorry. Just to clarify, you're saying sold, not bought, right? You're not asking me if -- Q I'll do either way.
A Okay.
Q Fair point.
A Sure.
Q Very fair point.
A Okay.
Q Do you believe that Mr. Seery engaged in any transactions of MGM securities between those two relevant data points?
A Yes.
Q Okay. What do you think he did?
A The HarbourVest transaction.
Q Okay. So, you learned about the HarbourVest transaction when?

A When it was filed.
Q And that was on December 23rd. Do you remember that?
A Yes.
Q It was just less than a week after you sent your email, right?
A Yes.
Q And do you remember that you filed an objection to the HarbourVest settlement?
A Yes.
Q And you're the one who gave Mr. Seery this material nonpublic inside information, right?
A Yes.
Q Did you object to the HarbourVest settlement on the basis that Mr. Seery was engaging in insider trading?
A Not then, I don't think. I believe --
Q You didn't, right? Even though it was happening at the exact same moment, the very -- within a week of you giving him this information. He's announcing that he's doing this settlement and you don't say a word. Isn't that right?
A Because I delegated the responsibility to Compliance by notifying them of material nonpublic information, and Compliance should hold the organization accountable. Compliance is separate and discrete from management. Compliance reports to the SEC.
Q You filed a 15-page objection to the settlement, didn't you?

A I don't -- I don't know.
Q Did you tell Judge Jernigan that Mr. Seery was doing bad?
A Not then. I think a month later, two months later.
Q Even though you knew what was happening, you didn't say anything, right?
A I -- I'm not responsible for all the filings. I --
Q Even though it's under your name?
A Correct.
Q How about -- how about CLO Holdco? Did CLO Holdco file an objection to the HarbourVest settlement?
A I -- I don't know which entities did, but it -- whatever entities that were in control that could did, eventually, when they found out, you know, and -- but did -- did they, within a week or contemporaneously? No. It was right around the holidays. A lot of people weren't paying attention. You guys were trying to rush the HarbourVest thing through.
Q Sir, CLO Holdco filed an objection, claiming that it was entitled to purchase the HarbourVest interests in HCLOF because it had a right of first refusal, right? Isn't that right?
A Okay. I -- what ultimately governs the --
Q Isn't that right?
A I don't -- okay.
Q It's really just yes or no.

A I don't know.
Q If you don't remember, that's fine.
A I don't remember, yeah.
MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, would he please give the witness an opportunity to answer? He's interrupted three times in less than five seconds. Give the witness an opportunity to respond.
MR. MORRIS: This is real easy stuff.
THE COURT: Okay.
MR. MORRIS: I'm trying to cross him here.
MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, with all due respect, he's making it very difficult because he's being very aggressive --
MR. MORRIS: Nah.
MR. MCENTIRE: -- and he's interrupting the witness.
MR. MORRIS: I would never.
THE COURT: Okay. I don't feel the need to do that right now, but I will -- I will consider your request.
THE WITNESS: Can I give a complete answer to his last question, or one that I'd like to be my answer on the record?
THE COURT: Go ahead.
THE WITNESS: The governing responsibility as a registered investment advisor is you're not allowed to buy back from investors fund interests or investments unless you offer it to everybody else, in writing, in that fund first.

That's the Investment Advisers Act as I understand it, and that is what was improper in the HarbourVest transaction. I mean, besides the fact that the pricing was wrong, they misled HarbourVest. And I know HarbourVest hasn't complained, but just because your investors don't complain doesn't mean you can rip them off.

MR. MORRIS: I'd really move to strike the entirety of the answer, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Granted.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Mr. Dondero, HC --

A I'm not going to -- I'm not answering any more questions unless I can answer that question with that answer, --

Q Mr. Dondero, do you --

A -- because I believe it's responsive.

Q Do you remember that CLO Holdco withdrew their objection?

A I --

Q To the HarbourVest settlement?

A I don't remember.

Q Do you remember that's really when Grant Scott left the scene?

A I don't --

Q He thought it was inappropriate for them to withdraw, right?

A I don't remember all the details. I know they made some mistakes, and there's a tolling agreement against Kane's (phonetic) firm for making mistakes, and, you know, whatever. But I -- I don't remember all the details.

Q And a couple of months later, you conspired with Mr. Patrick to try to sue Mr. Seery in order to try to get that very same interest in HCLOF, right?

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, I have to object. There's no foundation and it's also highly argumentative and I move to object. That's a -- that's a question asked in bad faith.

THE WITNESS: I deny any conspiring.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q In April, Mr. Patrick filed a lawsuit on behalf of CLO Holdco a couple of weeks after getting appointed as the head of CLO Holdco and the DAF about the HarbourVest settlement. Isn't that right?

A I believe so.

Q Okay. And you worked with him on that, right?

A I -- I did not work with him on that. I was very just tangentially aware.

Q Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I'm just going to refer the Court -- I'm going to move for the admission into evidence of the second contempt order.

THE COURT: Exhibit what?

MR. MORRIS: Just one moment, Your Honor.

(Pause.)

MR. MORRIS: You know what, I don't know that I have it on the list. I'm just going to ask the Court to take judicial notice. We had a hearing two years ago to this day, and the Court found in the order that it entered at the conclusion of that hearing that Mr. Patrick had abdicated his responsibility to Mr. Seery. It's one of the reasons why Mr. Seery wasn't held in contempt of Court. And I'd like -- I'd like Counsel to address it now.

MR. MCENTIRE: Yeah, I'll -- you said Seery, didn't you?

MR. MORRIS: Oh, sorry. I said Seery. I meant Dondero.

MR. MCENTIRE: (faintly) Also, I believe it's entirely irrelevant. Judicial -- taking judicial --

THE COURT: Would you speak in the microphone, please?

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm sorry. Taking judicial notice of something that is utterly irrelevant is not necessary, not appropriate. What this Court did two years ago roughly to the day -- and I assume he's correct -- has no bearing on anything before the Court today. Nothing. This has zero connection, nexus, under any analysis, any fair scrutiny, dealing with the colorability of the claim that Hunter Mountain, who was not involved in those proceedings, is trying to advance here. And it would be -- it would be improper for this Court to even take it under judicial notice.

THE COURT: Okay. Response?

MR. MORRIS: Can I respond?

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. So, Your Honor, I'm going to move for the introduction into evidence of Exhibit 45. It is the Charitable DAF complaint that was filed in the federal district court on April 12, 2021, under the direction of Mark Patrick, who today stands here as the representative of Hunter Mountain.

This was the complaint, if Your Honor will recall, that they tried to amend and we had a hearing here about the circumstances, because that amendment was going to name Mr. Seery personally, in violation of the gatekeeper order. Right?

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: And so it is all tied together. If you go to Paragraph 77 of this exhibit, it says, HCLOF holds equity in MGM Studio. This is the exact same transaction, right? So, so Mr. Dondero says, I gave Mr. Seery inside information, he violated all of these things in the HarbourVest transaction, even though he didn't say a word then, and here, while it's still on the restricted list, before the Amazon deal is announced, they're actually in court saying that they should be entitled to acquire that same asset that Mr. Seery supposedly acquired improperly. He wants it for himself.

I mean, are you kidding me? It's not relevant?

THE COURT: I overrule the relevance objection. It's admitted.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you. And 45 is admitted, Your Honor?

THE COURT: 45 is admitted.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

(Debtors' Exhibit 45 is received into evidence.)

MR. MCENTIRE: Just, Your Honor, I was identifying my objection in connection with his original request that you take something under --

THE COURT: Would you speak in the microphone? Again, we --

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes. My original objection was addressing his request of you, Your Honor, to take something under judicial notice. I want to make sure my objection is also lodged with regard to Exhibit 45, which I understand you've overruled.

THE COURT: Correct.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay.

THE COURT: It is so noted.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: You've objected and I've admitted it.

MR. MORRIS: And I think I've said this already, but the reason that we're requesting the Court take judicial notice of its order on the second contempt proceeding is because it shows that Mr. Dondero and Mr. Patrick worked together, in violation of the gatekeeper, to try to suit Mr. Seery to obtain the interest in HCLOF that he is sitting here today saying somehow that Mr. Seery wrongfully acquired, even though he didn't say a word at the time.

THE COURT: Okay. So now we're talking about not Exhibit 45 --

MR. MORRIS: Yes.

THE COURT: -- but the order that was entered --

MR. MORRIS: Correct.

THE COURT: -- regarding the filing of Exhibit 45?

MR. MORRIS: Exactly.

THE COURT: Someone is going to need to give me a docket entry number before we're done here.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: I can and will take judicial notice of that, but I need to have it --

MR. MCENTIRE: So I assume, for the record, my objection is overruled?

THE COURT: Your objection is overruled.

MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.

MR. MORRIS: All right.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q You mentioned something about, I think, was it NXDT or NHF?

A Yes.

Q And just let me see if I can do it this way. Right? So there used to be a fund known as the NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund, right?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And in 2020 that was a closed-in fund. Correct?

A Yes.

Q And it traded under the ticker symbol NHF, correct?

A Yes.

Q And then late in 2021 the name of the fund was changed to NexPoint Diversified Real Estate Trust, correct?

A Yes.

Q And the ticker symbol changed from NHF to NXDT, correct?

A Yes.

Q And then it became a REIT the following year, right?

A Yes.

Q And I'm just going to refer to these letters as the Fund; is that fair?

A That's fine.

Q For purposes of these questions. And you were the Fund's portfolio manager, the president, the principal executive officer, correct?
A Yes.
Q And another entity that you controlled, NexPoint Advisors, provided advisory services to the Fund, correct?
A Yes.
Q And you controlled NexPoint Advisors at all times, correct?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And the Fund was publicly traded, right?
A Yes.
Q And the Fund owned shares of MGM at the end of 19 -- at the end of 2020, correct?
A Yes.
Q In fact, as of December 2020, MGM was one of the Fund's ten largest holdings, with -- valued at over $25 million. Isn't that right?
A Yes.
Q And by the end of 2021, MGM was the Fund's fifth largest holding, with assets -- with a value of over $40 million. Correct?
A Yes.
Q And the Fund also held MGM common stock indirectly; isn't that right?

A Yes.
Q In fact, when the Amazon deal closed at the -- in March of 2022, the Fund issued a press release disclosing that it stood to receive over $125 million on the MGM shares that it held directly and indirectly. Correct?
A We issued several press releases. I don't remember --
Q Okay. Do you remember that, that as a result of the MGM sale, the Fund was expected to receive approximately $126 million?
A Yes.
Q Okay.
A Roughly.
Q All right. In October 2020, just a few weeks before you sent your email, the Fund announced the commencement of a tender offer to acquire outstanding shares at a certain price. Correct?
A Yeah, I believe so.
Q And you authorized that, right?
A Yes.
Q And when a fund acquires shares and then retires them, the shareholders who did not tender consequently own a larger percentage of the fund than they did before the tender, correct?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And the tender was completed in January, in the first week of January 2001 [sic], correct?

A I don't remember when it was complete.
Q It started at the end of October 2020, and it ended sometime in January '21. Is that fair?
A Okay. I don't remember. Okay.
Q Do you want me to refresh your recollection?
A I'm just saying I don't remember.
Q Yeah, okay.
A I'm not dis...
Q Okay.
A -- denying it. I just don't remember the exact dates.
(Discussion.)
MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, can I mark for identification purposes Plaintiffs' Exhibit -- I'm just going to call it 100, to see if it refreshes the witness's recollection?
THE COURT: You may mark it.
MR. MORRIS: Okay.
THE COURT: We'll see where it goes from there.
(Debtors' Exhibit 100 is marked for identification.)
BY MR. MORRIS:
Q So, I've put --
MR. MCENTIRE: Hold it. Your Honor, I think we're now marking exhibits that we haven't put on an exhibit list.
MR. MORRIS: I'm trying to refresh his recollection.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, --

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. MORRIS: Okay? I haven't offered it in -- I haven't offered it --

THE COURT: I've not admitted -- I don't know what it is. I haven't admitted it yet. I'm waiting.

MR. MORRIS: I haven't offered it into evidence. He said he doesn't remember, --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: -- I've got an SEC document here, and I'm going to try and refresh his recollection.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q You're familiar with these forms, right?

A Generally.

Q In fact, in fact, you sign them in your capacity as the fund portfolio manager, right? Your signature is put on it, anyway?

A Generally.

Q Yeah. And do you see that this is the Form N-CSR that was filed with the SEC at the end of 2001 [sic] on behalf of NexPoint Diversified Real Estate Trust?

A Yes.

Q Okay. So if you just turn to Page 16. And the numbers are kind of at the bottom in the middle of the page. You'll see the notes to the consolidated financial statements.

A Yes.

Q Okay. And Note 1 discusses the organization. Do you see that?

A Yes.

Q And at the bottom of the left-hand column, it says, On January 8, 2021, the company announced the final result of its exchange offer pursuant to which the company purchased the company's outstanding -- the company's common shares in exchange for certain consideration.

Do you see that?

A Yes.

Q That's a reference to the tender offer that you authorized at the end of October, correct?

A Yes.

Q And then at the bottom it says, The company share -- company -- excuse me. I strike that. It says, quote, The common shares at a price of $12 per common share, for an aggregate purchase price of approximately $125 -- $105 million. Upon retirement of the repurchased shares, the net asset value was $152 million, or $17.41 million.

Do you see that?

A Yes.

Q Does that refresh your recollection that the tender offer was completed at the beginning of January?
A Yes.
Q And that's with all of the MGM stock that the Fund still owned at that time, right?
A Yeah. We -- we didn't -- we didn't violate --
Q You didn't --
A We didn't -- we didn't violate like Seery did. We didn't sell any shares or buy shares.
Q Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I'm going to move to strike that, Your Honor.

THE COURT: So granted.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, Your Honor, I've actually got a response to his motion to strike. This entire inquiry is irrelevant.

MR. MORRIS: Not --

MR. MCENTIRE: This has no relevance at all in connection with the allegations that we're making in this case.

THE COURT: Your response?

MR. MORRIS: My response, Your Honor, if you ask me -- let me just get a few more questions. He personally owned shares in the Fund. The Fund owned shares in MGM. And notwithstanding the restricted material, this is the insider, and he is benefiting from himself through the Fund's repurchase of these shares in the tender offer, and he went and he had substantial holdings. I'll get to that in a minute.

So he is actually doing something worse than what Mr. Seery -- what he accuses Mr. Seery of, because he's buying shares for his own personal benefit. Right? He's the insider. Right? And the Fund owns the shares directly. There's never going to be an allegation that HCLOF ever owned any MGM stock. Never.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to allow this. Obviously, on redirect, you can further question on this --

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, --

THE COURT: -- to --

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, first of all, his suggestions and his accusations are purely argumentative.

THE COURT: Would you please speak in the microphone? We --

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, he's standing in the way, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, --

MR. MCENTIRE: It's irrelevant.

THE COURT: There are two. There's room for both of you.

Continue. Go ahead.

MR. MCENTIRE: It's entirely irrelevant, and it's argumentative.

THE COURT: Okay. Overruled. You can continue.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q You did own an awful lot of the Fund's shares, didn't you?

A I owned some.

Q You owned some? You owned millions, right?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And as a result of the tender, you owned a greater interest of the Fund, right?

A Yes.

Q And therefore you owned a greater number -- a greater portion of the MGM stock, the $125 million of MGM stock that was owned directly and indirectly by the Fund, correct?

A You do know insiders weren't permitted to participate in the tender, which would have kept my percentage the same.

Q Sir, you benefitted -- you didn't stop the tender, right? You didn't say, now I know what's going to happen, I should stop it? You benefitted from the tender. Can we just agree on that?

A I did everything I was supposed to do, notifying Compliance. If they thought it was material, they would have -- it was in their hands once I notified Compliance of the material --

Q Okay.

A -- nonpublic information.
Q I appreciate that. I just want --
A It wasn't my responsibility to do Compliance's job to call you or call --
Q Okay.
A -- the SEC or call anybody else.
Q But you will agree that, even though you had material nonpublic inside information, you didn't take any steps to stop the tender, correct?
A The tender was for a relatively small amount of the stock. But I did -- I would -- it would not be my responsibility to change or adjust the tender --
Q Okay.
A -- or what was happening.
Q Okay. And then the last question is, you benefitted from the tender because the Fund repurchased shares, which increased your percentage ownership of the Fund, and therefore your percentage ownership of the MGM shares that were held directly and indirectly. Is that fair?
A Marginally, I guess. Yes.
Q Okay. From the -- from the millions of shares, you would describe it as marginal? Okay.

Let me move on. You've testified now that you spoke with representatives of Farallon in the late spring, I guess beginning on May 28th. Right?

A Yes.
Q And that was two days after the MGM deal was publicly announced, correct?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And had you ever communicated with Mr. Patel before that phone call?
A I don't believe so.
Q And then you spoke with Mr. Linn shortly after?
A Yes.
Q Had you ever spoken with Mr. Linn before that phone call with Mr. Linn?
A I don't believe so.
Q So these phone calls were the very first time that you ever spoke to either one of these gentlemen. Is that right?
A That I can remember.
Q Okay.
A If I ran into them at --
Q Uh-huh.
A -- a conference a decade ago, I don't know, but --
Q And they told you that they bought the shares in the February-March time frame, right?
A Yes.
Q And you have no reason to dispute that, correct?
A Correct.
Q Okay. And you didn't know how much they had paid for the claims as a result of these conversations, correct?

A They did not admit a price.
Q Okay. And it's your testimony that there wasn't sufficient information in the public for them to buy -- this is your view -- that there wasn't sufficient information in the public to justify their purchases. Is that your view?
A Correct.
Q And even though you didn't think there was sufficient information in the public, you were prepared to pay 30 percent more than they did, right?
A Yes.
Q And is that because you were 30 percent more irrational than them or because you had material nonpublic inside information?

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Argumentative, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: Even at a 30 percent premium, it was less than I offered the UCC several months earlier, number one.

Number two, I was still under the illusion there was a desire to resolve the place, not burn it down. You know, there was -- all the original members were happy to sell at $150 million. It was a $500 or $600 million estate. There should be $400 or $500 million of residual value. It shouldn't all be going out the door to lawyers and others.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q You were willing to pay 30 percent more for an unknown purchase price, 30 percent more of an unknown purchase price, at a moment that you didn't believe there was sufficient information to buy the claims, correct?

A You have a couple misstatements in there. The Grosvenor piece was public. The Grosvenor piece traded at $67 million. So we knew that piece trade at around 50 cents. We knew from people in the marketplace the other pieces were trading right around that level.

So I wasn't just offering 30 percent on any willy-nilly number, 130 percent of any willy-nilly number. I knew they had paid around 50, 60 cents. And so I was offering 30 percent more than that. Thirty percent more than $150 million, call it $200 million. I had offered $230 or $240 million to resolve the whole estate before the plan went effective, and I got no response from the original UCC members.

Q So why didn't you just try to settle the case with them? Why did you try to buy the claim? Why, if you had these new people, and your good intentions were to finally get to a settlement of the case, why didn't you say, hey, guys, how do we resolve the case? Why did you want to buy the claims at a 30 percent premium over what they paid with no knowledge and no diligence, according to you? Can you explain that to Judge

Jernigan?

A Because Seery told them to hold on, don't worry, they were going to make $270 million.

Q That doesn't answer my question. Why didn't you try -- you had new owners. Why didn't you try to settle with them?

A When someone owns an asset, buying their asset is settling with them. What claim does Farallon have against us? At that point, they had no claims against us.

Q It doesn't settle the case, does it?

A But if we owned all the claims, it would settle the case. Just like if Seery had objected to the claims trading that they were supposed to give written notice to the Court, he had enough cash on the balance sheet to buy and retire all the claims.

Q All right. Let's go back, I apologize, to that Exhibit 11. No, it's not Exhibit 11. I think it's their Exhibit 4, your notes.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, may I have -- just have one moment?

THE COURT: You may.

MR. MORRIS: Can you tell me how long I've been going? That's really my question.

THE CLERK: So, on cross, --

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

THE CLERK: -- you've been going for 32 minutes.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. Trying to speed this up.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q All right. So, do we have your handwritten notes, which are Exhibit 4, in this binder? Oh.

THE COURT: Do you want to put it up again on the screen?

MR. MORRIS: Ms. Canty, if you're listening and you can do that, that would be great. If not, --

(Discussion.)

MS. CANTY: One second, John.

MR. MORRIS: All right. He -- he's got it.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Okay. So, I just -- I just want to make -- you know, follow up on a few questions I asked you earlier on voir dire. So, these are your notes, right, and you said you write down the important stuff. Correct?

A I write down, yeah, the stuff I thought I would need for the next call.

Q Okay. And, you know, again, just so we have it all in one spot, it doesn't say anything about MGM. Correct?

A It does not.

Q It doesn't say anything about a quid pro quo, correct?

A Quid pro? Uh, no, it does not.

Q It doesn't say anything at all about Mr. Seery's compensation, correct?

A It does not.
Q It doesn't say anything about the sharing of material nonpublic inside information, correct?
A When I told them discovery was coming, that was my response to I knew they had traded on material nonpublic information.
Q Okay. That -- you told them that?
A Yes.
Q Is that what you're saying now?
A Yes.
Q Oh, so that's what you told them? They didn't tell you that; that's what you told them?
A Yes.
Q And that's why you wanted discovery, right?
A I thought it would be a lot easier to get discovery on a situation like this than it has been for the last two years, yes.
Q Okay. Um, --
A In fact, I told them that it would be coming in the next few weeks. And this has been a couple years.
Q And that's exactly what you did, right?
A Well, we've been trying for two years to get --
Q Right.
A -- discovery in this.

Q Okay. So you filed your Texas 202, right?
A I don't know who filed what.
Q That was the one by Mr. Sbaiti that was filed under your name? Do you remember that?
A Generally.
Q Okay. Let's take a quick look at that document. It's #3 in our binder.
A Binder #3?
(Discussion.)
MR. MORRIS: Okay. I think #3 is in evidence, Your Honor.
THE WITNESS: Number 3 is in evidence.
THE COURT: Yes.
MR. MORRIS: Okay.
THE COURT: It is.
BY MR. MORRIS:
Q And if you can turn to the last page, Mr. Dondero. Page 8.
A Yes.
Q Okay. And that's your signature, right?
A Yes.
Q And you verified that this document was true and correct within the best of your personal knowledge, correct?
A Yes.
Q Did you read it before you signed it?

A Probably.
Q You don't recall doing that?
A Not at this moment.
Q And you may not have. Is that fair?
A No, I probably did. Do you have a question?
Q I'm just wondering if you signed it or not.
A I did sign it.
Q Okay. Good. So, can you go to Paragraph 21? Well, let's start at Paragraph 20. It says that Mr. Seery, quote, has an age-old connection to Farallon, and upon information and belief, advised Farallon to purchase the claims.
Do you see that?
A Yes.
Q And then the next paragraph you refer to the telephone call that you had with Michael Linn, right?
A Yes.
Q It doesn't refer to any phone call with Mr. Patel, correct?
A It does not.
Q And the only reason that you swore under oath you were told that Farallon purchased the claims was because of Farallon's, quote, prior dealings with Mr. Seery. Correct? In Paragraph 21, it says, Relying entirely on Mr. Seery's advice solely because of their prior dealings?
A Yes.

Q Okay. You didn't -- you didn't swear under oath at that time that you were told that they bought the claims because of MGM. Right?

A If you're asking if this is -- it seems like it's not complete, if that's what you're asking me.

Q I'm not asking you that. I'm asking you what -- I'm asking you to confirm that you swore under oath to the Texas state court, just weeks after you had these conversations, about what you were told concerning Farallon's purchase of the claims.

I'm focused on Paragraph 21. The only reason that you gave, that you told the Texas state court under oath, was that Farallon told you they bought their claims because of their prior dealings with Seery. Right?

A Yeah. And that's true. And that's consistent with what I've said.

Q Okay. You didn't say anything about MGM, correct?

A Correct.

Q You didn't say anything about a quid pro quo, correct?

A Correct.

Q You didn't say anything about Mr. Seery's compensation. Correct?

A I did not.

Q You didn't say anything about the sharing of material nonpublic inside information, correct?

A Different document, different purposes.
Q Well, but that's now two documents. You have your notes and you had this document, neither one of which say any of those things. Fair?
A Different documents, different purposes. I don't know if that's --
Q Is it fair that neither one of those documents say any of those things?
A It's fair that they don't all match.
Q Okay. Okay. Well, that's a fair statement. Let's go to the next one. Do you remember the next year you filed an amended petition?
A What tab?
Q That's -- I appreciate that. It's Tab 4. Do you see at the last page you've again signed a verification?
A Yep.
Q And do you see this one's filed with the Texas state court on May 2, 2022?
A Yes.
Q And you swore under oath that this statement was complete, true, and accurate to the best of your knowledge, correct?
A Yes.
Q Okay. Can you go to Page 5, please?
A Yes.
Q Directing your attention to Paragraph 23, do you see where you say now that Farallon was relying, quote, on Mr. Seery's say-so because they had made so much money in the past when Mr. Seery told them to purchase claims.

Do you see that?

A Yes.

Q Again, you don't say anything about MGM, correct?

A Correct.

Q Again, you don't say anything about material nonpublic inside information, correct?

A Well, on 24 it does. Right? Mr. Seery had inside information on the price and value of claims. So, you've got to look at all of the bullet points.

Q But that's not the paragraph where you're talking -- that's -- it says, in other words. That's not the paragraph where you're describing your conversation with Farallon. That's your interpretation of it, correct, just as you just said?

A (no immediate response)

Q You told -- I'm sorry. I should let you finish the answer. That's your interpretation of it, correct?

A Well, I'm reading all the bullets in aggregate, and it's -- it's a picture of material information shared by Seery, not just MGM or one particular investment, but on all the other assets that aren't detailed in any of the public filings, also.

Q The only -- the only point I want to make, I think we can agree on this --
A Okay.
Q -- is that you believed that Mr. Seery gave them material nonpublic inside information. Farallon never told you that. Isn't that true? That's why you wanted discovery?
A They said they relied on him and did no diligence of their own. They were very express -- explicit about that.
Q Okay. Can you answer my question now?
A Which -- I thought -- that does, --
Q You concluded --
A -- yes.
Q -- that Mr. Seery gave them material nonpublic inside information. They never told you that. Fair?
A They said they relied on -- solely on Seery, didn't buy it for any other reason, and they did no due diligence of their own.
Q Okay. Let's go to the next one. Now, the no-due-diligence part, that's not in any version we've seen, right? That's something that you just --
A No, no, --
Q -- that you're just testifying to now? That's not in your notes, it's not in Version 1, and it's not in this version, correct?
A Well, let's go back to the Linn one, because when I was going back and forth and he wouldn't give a price, he kept saying, Seery told us it's worth a lot more. And I kept saying, you've got to look at the burn, you've got to look at the professionals. And --

Q Okay.

A -- that's --

Q Shortly after this, you filed yet another declaration, right?

A Yes.

Q Uh-huh. Can you turn to #5? And this is another version of your recollection of what you were told, correct? In Paragraph 2?

A These are all -- I don't know why you're saying they're different. They're all the same. They're just slightly different verbiage. What's the major difference between any of them?

Q I'll ask, I'll ask you the question. The question is, you had never written in any of the prior versions that they didn't do any due diligence; isn't that right? You never -- you never talked about their due diligence in any prior version, correct?

A It's all -- it's all the same version. I don't -- some versions --

Q Can you answer my question?

A I don't know. I don't know --

Q Which --
A -- which ones included which -- I don't --
Q We've just looked at them. Do you want to look at them again?
A I just looked at one page in the other one and it was five pages. I just looked at the one page and I found two or three things --
Q Your notes --
A -- it didn't include, but --

MR. MORRIS: You know what. I don't want to argue. They say what they say, Your Honor, and I would ask the Court to look carefully at our objection to the motion because we lay all of this out.

Your Honor can -- here's the point, because I do want to finish up right now. There are five different versions of this conversation. They're laid out in the brief. And the question that you have to ask yourself, Your Honor, is, if you allow this case to go forward, how do they make a colorable claim when the story keeps changing?

And I'll just leave it at that, because, you know, the last version says MGM for the first time. Like, it comes out of nowhere. This -- his notes don't say it, he hasn't testified that that's what he was told, but somehow that's in his sworn statement.

So I'm just going to rest on the papers, because this is

-- I don't want to be argumentative.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, I'll object to the argument of counsel. He's just doing another opening statement here, and it's inappropriate and not proper.

THE COURT: Okay. I agree. This is Q and A.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: So, --

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Do you know -- do you have any knowledge or information as to how Mr. Seery's compensation was established?

A Uh, --

Q Withdrawn. I'm talking now not in his capacity as an independent director or the CEO of the Debtor. I'm only talking about in his capacity as the CEO of the Reorganized Debtor and the Claimant Trustee. Do you have any personal knowledge as to how his compensation was established?

A The knowledge I have is that the Claimant Trust gives full latitude to change it at almost any time they want. Add more to it, add more than that we've seen, double it in the future if reserves are reversed. It can do anything it wants. And I guess we've seen some redacted partial statements of his compensation, but that's all I know.

Q Okay. You have no knowledge about how Mr. Seery's compensation package was determined, correct?

A I was not involved.
Q Okay. You've never -- I'll just leave it at that.
MR. MORRIS: I have nothing further, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Okay. Pass the witness. I'm sorry, I guess I should ask, do any of the other responding parties have examination?
MR. STANCIL: No, Your Honor.
THE COURT: No? Okay. Redirect?
MR. MCENTIRE: Just very briefly, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Okay.
MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you, Your Honor.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MCENTIRE:
Q Mr. Dondero, you remember the questions about Judge Jernigan walking into the courtroom on June 8 two years ago saying, MGM is sold, maybe we can settle this case? Do you recall those questions?
A Yes.
Q And do you remember Mr. Morris's dramatic suggestion that, well, how did Judge Jernigan know, or to that effect?
A Yes.
Q Well, that had already been announced, had it not, publicly?
A Yes.
Q Several weeks before?

A Yes.
Q I'd like to direct your attention -- do you still have Exhibit 4 that he handed you? Do you have Exhibit 4 there?
A Uh, --
Q His exhibit?
A Is that the notes?
Q No, it's -- Exhibit 4 is the verified amended petition to take deposition before suit -- take -- in the state court. To -- deposition.
A You've got to give me more of a clue. I'm sorry. There's like six binders.
MR. MCENTIRE: Mr. Morris, can you show us where the exhibit --
MR. MORRIS: Sure. Which one is it?
MR. MCENTIRE: It's Exhibit 4. I'm going to talk to him about Exhibit 4 (inaudible) that you've have used with this witness.
BY MR. MCENTIRE:
Q I assume -- Mr. Dondero, were you assuming from the tone and the substantive content of his questions that Mr. Morris is suggesting that your notes are not reliable?
A He was trying to make it seem like the versions were different. They were all 90 percent the same. Different -- it seemed like different emphasis for different purposes. And then you have to remember we learned more about Farallon and Stonehill over time. Like, in the beginning, when I had -- when I -- we didn't even know Stonehill was involved when I --

Q Sure.

A -- first talked to -- when --

Q Well, he made the big suggestion about you never talked about due diligence before. Turn to Exhibit 4, Paragraph 23, which he did not address with you. Can you turn to Paragraph 23 of Exhibit 4? Mr. Morris omitted to refer you to this particular paragraph.

A 23? Go ahead.

Q Would you read it into the record?

A (reading) On a telephone call between Petitioner and Michael Linn, a representative of Farallon, Michael Linn informed the Petitioner Farallon had purchased the claim sight-unseen and with no due diligence, a hundred percent relying on Mr. Seery's say-so, because they had made so much in the past with Mr. -- when Mr. Seery had (overspoken).

Q Now, since you've an opportunity to see other paragraphs and other -- that he was otherwise not selecting, you did refer to the -- to what Mr. Linn had told you about in May of 2021?

A Yes. I've been very consistent. Listen, I believe Farallon tapes all their conversations. So, eventually, as this goes further, I purposefully --

Q Well, let's --

MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q He also did not direct your attention or the Court's attention to Paragraph 27 of Exhibit 4, selecting -- presumably strategically selecting not to refer to that paragraph. Do you see Paragraph 27?

A Yes.

Q Could you read that into the record, please?

A (reading) However, Mr. Seery is privy to material nonpublic information, inside information of many of the securities that Highland deals in, as well as the funds that Mr. Seery manages through Highland. One of these assets was a publicly-traded security that Highland was an insider of, and therefore should not have traded, whether directly or indirectly, given its possession of insider information.

Q Isn't that paragraph just basically addressing MGM?

A Yeah, that's the only major position we had that that would apply to.

Q So the suggestion that you're just making this MGM stuff up is not true. It's consistent with what you've (inaudible) in other courts as well, correct?

A Yes. I believe it's disingenuous to say that there's different versions of my story.

Q Well, let's continue with Mr. Morris's strategy. Go to Exhibit 3, please. Mr. Morris suggested that there's no reference at all in any of these prior pleadings about Mr. Seery's excess conversation. Do you recall that series of questions?

A Yes. Or his statements, yes.

Q Yes. And he did not direct your --

MR. MORRIS: I move to strike. I asked him if he had any knowledge of the man's compensation package. That's what I asked him.

MR. MCENTIRE: No, sir. Your Honor, that's not what he asked him. That was one of the questions he asked. The other question was, there's nothing in here about compensation. That's what I'd like to address now.

MR. MORRIS: Oh, go right ahead.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Directing your attention --

THE COURT: You can ask. I'd have to go back and check the record whether you had that second question you mentioned. I remember questions about does he have knowledge of Seery's compensation. I just can't remember if he asked, --

MR. MCENTIRE: Fair enough.

THE COURT: -- were there references to it in the --

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, --

THE COURT: -- prior pleadings.

MR. MCENTIRE: -- for the record, we'll make it clear that there is a reference.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q If I could direct your attention to Paragraph 23, Exhibit -- as to --

MR. MORRIS: What exhibit is it?

MR. MCENTIRE: It's Exhibit 3.

MR. MORRIS: Hold on one second.

MS. MUSGRAVE: Your exhibit.

THE COURT: Highland's Exhibit 3.

MR. MORRIS: Give me a moment.

THE COURT: Page what?

MR. MCENTIRE: It's Paragraph 22 on Page 5.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry. My Exhibit 3?

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Could you read for me, please, Mr. --

MR. MORRIS: Hold on one second. It's my Exhibit 3 or your exhibit?

MR. MCENTIRE: It's your exhibit. This is Hunter Mountain's binder.

MR. MORRIS: Ah, I apologize.

MR. MCENTIRE: You were just using it.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. All right. Go ahead. What paragraph were you?

BY MR. MCENTIRE:
Q I'd direct your attention, Mr. Dondero, to Paragraph 22.
MR. MORRIS: Yeah.
BY MR. MCENTIRE:
Q Would you read -- would you read Paragraph 22 into the record, please?
A (reading) Mr. Seery had much to gain by brokering a sale of the claim suggested to Muck, mainly his knowledge that Farallon as a friendly investor would allow him to remain as Highland's CEO with virtually unfettered discretion to administer Highland. In addition, Mr. Seery's written compensation package incentivized him to continue the bankruptcy for as long as possible.
Q There was also a series of questions to you about a transaction involving NexPoint -- NexPoint Diversified Real Estate Trust. Do you recall those questions?
A Yeah. Let's talk about that.
Q All right. Tell me what the transaction was.
A I'm sorry. The tender that he was asking about or -- Q Yes, the tender.
A There was -- investors wanted some shares retired, and we didn't have enough cash on the balance sheets. So we tendered in the form of giving them Preferred, which was like equity but a better dividend or a more secured dividend, and 20 percent cash. And then insiders weren't allowed to participate. But the whole tender was only for eight or ten percent of the nominal amount outstanding. And again, you've got a package of securities, so you didn't get any -- you didn't cash. And although it reduced the share count, it also increased the Preferred or the claims against the company. So it was marginally accretive, I guess.

Q All right.

A But, again, as far as inside information is concerned, Compliance is a separate party organization that reports up to the SEC. Has a dotted line to me. Reports to the SEC. They make sure everything we do is compliant.

Q Mr. Dondero, --

A Yeah. Can --

Q -- you didn't participate in the transaction, did you?

A No. Insiders weren't allowed to participate in the transaction.

MR. MCENTIRE: Reserve the rest of my questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Any recross?

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q The reference to the compensation that we just looked at, that was your own personal view, not something that anybody from Farallon ever told you, correct? You can go back and look.

A Yeah, that --
Q I mean, it's not a trick question.
A Yeah, that was my pleading.
Q Okay. And that was your own speculation, if you will? It had nothing to do with anything Farallon ever told you, correct?
A I never discussed Seery's compensation with Farallon.
Q Okay. Thank you, sir, very much. Just one last question. The price of the tender --
A Yes.
Q -- was based in part on the value of the MGM stock, correct?
A The tender was based on market price --
Q And --
A -- of where the closed-in fund was trading. It was trading at a discount. And the discount to NAV, the NAV included MGM accurately marked at whatever time.
Q I appreciate that.
MR. MORRIS: No further questions, Your Honor.
THE COURT: All right. Mr. Dondero, that concludes your testimony.
THE WITNESS: Thank you.
THE COURT: You are excused from the witness box.
(The witness steps down.)

THE COURT: We probably should take a break, right?

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: Caroline, do you want to give them the aggregate time used?

THE CLERK: Yes. The Defendants used 91 minutes right now. And the Respondents together, 86 minutes.

THE COURT: Okay. I thought it was going to be higher than that.

(Laughter.)

MR. MCENTIRE: That's what it feels like.

MR. MORRIS: You were wishing.

THE COURT: I was wishing. Okay. A ten-minute break.

THE CLERK: All rise.

(A recess ensued from 3:17 p.m. until 3:28 p.m.)

THE CLERK: All rise.

THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. We're back on the record in the Highland matter. Mr. McEntire, you may call your next witness.

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, Hunter Mountain would call Mr. Seery adversely.

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, we're waiting for Mr. Morris for just 60 more seconds. I think he's on his way back to the courtroom.

THE COURT: Okay. I just noticed.

Did I hear you say you're going to call him virtually?

MR. MCENTIRE: Adversely.

THE COURT: Oh, adversely? Okay. I'm so used to hearing the word "virtually" the past few years.

Oh, and there he is. Okay.

MR. SEERY: I'm sorry, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Mr. Seery, welcome.

MR. SEERY: Good afternoon, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Please raise your right hand.

(The witness is sworn.)

THE WITNESS: I do.

THE COURT: All right. You may be seated.

JAMES P. SEERY, JR., HUNTER MOUNTAIN INVESTMENT TRUST'S ADVERSE WITNESS, SWORN

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Seery, would you please state your full name for the record?

A James P. Seery, Jr.

Q And you and I met for the first time I believe it was last Friday in your deposition; is that correct?

A You were by video.

Q I mean, --

A We didn't actually meet.

Q Correct. You are currently the CEO of the Reorganized

Debtor?
A That's correct.
Q Prior to your appointment as the CEO of the Reorganized Debtor, you've never served as a CEO of a reorganized debtor in the past, have you?
A I have not.
Q You previously served as the chief executive officer of Highland Capital as a Debtor-In-Possession. Is that correct?
A That's correct.
Q And that was the first time you'd ever served in a position such as that; is that correct?
A As the CEO of a debtor, yes.
Q Right. You also now currently serve as a Trustee for the Highland Claimant Trust, which was put into effect after the effective date of the plan, correct?
A Yes, I'm the Claimant Trustee.
Q All right. That's the first time --
THE COURT: Mr. McEntire, we usually require standing at the podium. I mean, do you need --
MR. MCENTIRE: That's fine. I'm totally fine.
THE COURT: Okay. That's --
MR. MCENTIRE: I forgot.
THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.
BY MR. MCENTIRE:
Q That was -- and your capacity as the Trustee for the Claimant Trust, that's a first experience as well, correct?

A As the Claimant Trustee, yes.
Q All right. And in these various capacities as a CEO of the Reorganized Debtor, do you consider yourself to be subject to the Investment Advisers Act?
A No, I don't I'm subject to the Investment Advisers Act. I think Highland in certain capacities could be.
Q All right. But do you have any duties that -- that you are required to fulfill under the Investment Advisers Act accordingly?
A Do I?
Q Yes.
A I believe Highland does. I don't know that I have any personal duties.
Q All right, sir. Let me now talk a little bit about your duties that you did have at Highland. You agree that when you were at Highland you had fiduciary duties that you owed to the estate?
A Yes.
Q What were those duties?
A To generally treat the estate on an honest and fair matter.
Q Avoid conflicts of interest?
A Yes.
Q Not self-deal?

A Yes.
Q Do you agree with me that you would have a duty not to trade on material inside -- material nonpublic information?
A Generally, I would have a duty to not trade on material nonpublic information, yes.
Q Can you think of an exception?
A There may be. I just don't think of any one off the top of my head.
Q So, today, you would agree, for purposes of these proceedings, that you would have an obligation as the CEO of the Debtor-In-Possession not to participate in a transaction involving material nonpublic information? Agreed?
A It would depend. So, for example, if I was trading with someone else who had material nonpublic information, that might be a permissible transaction.
Q The HarbourVest transaction, you were involved in negotiating the HarbourVest settlement?
A Yes, I was.
Q Did that involve any component related to MGM stock?
A No, it did not.
Q There was no involvement at all concerning the transfer of MGM stock to any entity as a result of that transaction?
A None whatsoever.
Q Okay. And does HCLOF not have a participation at this time in MGM stock?

A We call it H-C-L-O-F.
Q Yes.
A It does not own MGM stock, and as I far as I know, never owned MGM stock.
Q Okay. You agree you received an email from Mr. Dondero in December of 2020. We've had it here before. You've seen it in the courtroom, correct?
A Yes.
Q Okay. Did you ever send -- forward that email to anyone else?
A I'm sorry. Could you repeat that?
Q Did you forward that email on to anyone else?
A I believe I did, yes.
Q To whom?
A I certainly discussed it with counsel. I believe I forwarded it to counsel, both the Pachulski firm and the WilmerHale firm. Thomas Surgent had gotten it. He was on the email. And I also forwarded it, I believe -- certainly, discussed it -- with the other independent directors.
Q Okay. I'm not going to talk about your conversations with other lawyers in-house, okay, or your outside counsel. Did you take any steps yourself personally to make sure that MGM stock was placed on a restricted list at Highland Capital after you received that email?
A No. MGM was already on the restricted list at Highland Capital.

Q Okay. And is that because of Mr. Dondero's position on the board of MGM?

A It -- I believe that's the reason. It was on before I got to Highland.

Q Okay. And you agree, do you not, sir, that the email that you received from Mr. Dondero also contained material nonpublic information?

A I don't think so, no.

MR. MCENTIRE: Would you put up Exhibit -- our Exhibit 4, please?

MR. MORRIS: 4?

MR. MCENTIRE: 4.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Did H-C-L-O-F -- I'll refer to it as HCLOF, you refer to it as H-C-L-O-F -- did that -- did HCLOF own any funds that owned MGM stock?

A HCLOF had interest in certain Highland-managed CLOs that did own some.

Q As a result of the Highland settlement -- excuse me, the HarbourVest settlement, was there any impact on who owned some of those CLO funds?

A No.

Q Okay. How was the CLOs, the funds, handled, if at all, in the -- in the HarbourVest settlement?

A They didn't have any impact whatsoever on the HarbourVest settlement.

Q Looking at Exhibit 4 for a moment, please, did the interests, did the interests in -- HarbourVest's interests in any of those CLOs transfer?

A No, they did not.

Q Okay. And did HCLOF acquire any interest in any of those CLO's as a consequence of the HarbourVest settlement?

A No, it did not.

Q Looking at Exhibit 4. Excuse me, Exhibit 3 is what I meant to say. Exhibit 3.

THE COURT: Hunter Mountain Exhibit 3?

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, ma'am.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, Your Honor. Excuse me.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q This is the email that we were just referring to that you received, correct?

A Yes.

Q And you don't think -- you knew that Mr. Dondero was on the board of directors of MGM?

A Yes.

Q And he -- as a member of the board of directors, when you received this, you see where he indicated that it was probably a first-quarter event? Do you see that?

A I see what it says, yes.
Q Okay. And you did not think that that was material nonpublic information?
A No, I did not.
Q When he indicated that Amazon and Apple were actively diligencing -- are diligencing in the data room, both continue to express material interest, coming from a member of the board of directors of MGM, you did not think that was material nonpublic information?
A I did not, no.
Q You know the difference between a newspaper article or a media article that discusses rumors of a possible sale and the difference between that and a member of the board of directors saying that a sale is going to occur? You understand the difference between the two?
A Between the two things you just outlined?
Q Yes.
A Yes. One you said a sale is going to occur, and the other you said a media report. But it would depend on what's in the media report. Some media reports are pure speculation. Others have a lot of detail, and they clearly came from an inside source, and that's why the market moves on them.
Q Okay. So what you're suggesting to me, that there was some indication in the media press before you received this email suggesting that there was actually going to be a sale in the first quarter of 2021?

A I don't know if it had a first-quarter event in it, but certainly it was clear from the media reports and the actual quotes from Kevin Ulrich of Anchorage, who was the chairman at MGM, that a transaction had to take place very quickly. And in fact, the transaction did not take place in the first quarter.
Q Okay. So you -- when you received this particular email, you did not think that it was requiring any additional protection at -- in any way? Is that what you're suggesting to this Court?
A That the email required additional protection?
Q That you didn't take additional steps to make sure that it was maintained on the restricted list.
A It was already on the restricted list, so there was no change.
Q Was it --
A I --
MR. MORRIS: Hold on. Let him finish.
BY MR. MCENTIRE:
A I was suspicious when I got the email, but I didn't think I had to do anything else than the steps I told you I just took.
Q Yeah, I'm not asking whether you were suspicious or not. My question's a little bit different. You understand that MGM was taken off your restricted list in April of 2021?

A I understand that that's what you've recently shown me. I wasn't aware of that fact or I didn't have a recollection of that fact, but certainly April of 2021 would be beyond the first quarter. Mr. Dondero was not an employee, an affiliate, subject to a contractual relationship. He had no duty to Highland and Highland had no duty to him. And in fact, it was quite antagonistic by that time. So it would be appropriate to take MGM off the restricted list at the end of that time.

Q Well, hopefully you won't take this as argumentative, but I object as nonresponsive. That really wasn't my question. Okay? My question --

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q -- is a little bit different. As far as you were concerned, MGM was on the restricted list and stayed on the restricted list all the way until the public announcement in May of 2021?

A That's not true.

Q When did you first become aware it was taken off the restricted list?

A I didn't -- I wasn't aware that it had come off the restricted list. I would have assumed it would have been off the restricted list once Mr. Dondero had been severed from Highland.

Q I see. Now, Mr. Dondero has relayed a conversation that he had with Mr. Patel and Mr. Linn, suggesting that they were particularly optimistic about MGM based upon what you told them.

A I --

Q Let me finish. If that occurred, are you suggesting that that is a lie?

A Two things. One is I don't think he actually testified to that. I think he said he had a conversation with Mr. Patel. Then he had a different conversation with Mr. Linn, and a subsequent conversation with Mr. Linn. So the way he laid it out were multiple conversations.

Q Agreed.

A I don't -- I don't know which one you're talking about.

Q Mr. Dondero testified that Mr. Patel was particularly optimistic about the investment because of what he had learned from Mr. -- from you about MGM.

MR. MORRIS: I dispute that characterization. Why can't he just ask the question?

MR. MCENTIRE: That is my question. If that --

THE COURT: What is the question? I'm not sure I hear the question.

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm getting lost because I'm getting interrupted. I'll try to rephrase it again.

MR. MORRIS: It's my first objection.

MR. MCENTIRE: And I --

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm just going to rephrase, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Just rephrase your question.

MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero has testified that Farallon advised him in May of 2021 that they were optimistic about MGM based upon what you told them. Assuming that to be the case, do you deny that happened?

A I do deny that happened. Because I can't -- I don't know what Farallon told him, but I never told Farallon anything. And a conversation on May 28th, after the May 26th announcement that MGM was going through, might make people optimistic that it could go through, but there was a very difficult FTC process that MGM would have to go through.

Q And I'm referring to that. If Farallon stated that they were optimistic about MGM based upon what you had told them, --

A That would not be true.

Q -- that would be false?

A That would not be true.

Q And is Mr. Dondero says that's what Farallon told them, that would also be false?

A That's correct.
Q So we have your statement, we have what may be Farallon's statement, and we have what Mr. Dondero believes may have been Farallon's statement, and you're saying the latter two are just not true?
A I didn't have a conversation with Farallon about MGM that -- that I recall --
Q Well, you're on the witness stand.
A -- virtually at any time.
Q You're on the witness stand.
A Oh, I'm aware of where I am sitting.
Q Yeah. Good. We've got that cleared up. Now, are you suggesting that -- that you may not specifically recall this conversation?
A No, I am not saying that at all. After May 26th, when the MGM announcement was made and it was public, I may have had conversations with a number of people about MGM.
Q Well, let's make sure the record is clear. Did you call Farallon on May 26th and say, hey, did you know that MGM just sold?
A No, I don't recall any such conversation, and I wouldn't have had to, since it was in the paper.
Q I'm not talking about what's in the paper. I'm talking about conversations between you and Farallon.
A Yeah. I don't recall having a conversation with Farallon on May 26th.

Q How about May 27th?

A Not that I recall, no.

Q How about May 28th?

A Not that I recall off the top of my head.

Q And we understand that that's the day that Mr. Dondero actually had his conversation that he's reported, at least, with Farallon. Do you recall that?

A That's what he claims, yes.

Q You were with a company called River -- you're a lawyer, correct?

A I am. I'm in retired status.

Q Okay. I wish I was.

A It's simply retiring your license and not having to take the CLE.

Q Understood. Now, you were with a company called River Birch?

A Yes.

Q And from River Birch, you went to Guggenheim Securities?

A That's correct.

Q At Guggenheim Securities, did you go to Farallon and meet with Mr. Patel in their offices in San Francisco?

A I believe we did, yes.

Q You call it a meet-and-greet?

A I do, yes.

Q That was in 2017?
A 2017, 2018. I'm not exactly sure when it was.
Q And one of the purposes of meet-and-greet is to solicit business or to see if a business opportunity -- see if it exists?
A That's not correct, no.
Q What is a meet-and-greet for, then?
A It's to meet the people at the fund and to greet the people at the fund. Introduce them to other people in your firm.
Q Just because it's going to be fun, or does it have a business angle to it?
A Oh, it hopefully will be fun, yes, but it's done in order to build a relationship over time. You're not in there soliciting business. If you do that, you won't do very well.
Q Okay. Fair enough. So you're there trying to develop a relationship with Farallon?
A Guggenheim was, yes.
Q And you were part of it?
A That's correct.
Q And what was your job at Guggenheim?
A I was co-head of credit.
Q Is that a fairly significant position at Guggenheim?
A Not really, no.
Q It's not significant at all?

A No.
Q All right.
A Which is why --
Q Well, you left --
A Which is why they don't have that business.
Q Okay. So is that why you left Guggenheim?
A It -- I did, yeah. It wasn't a good fit for either Guggenheim or for me, because it really wasn't something --
Q When did you --
A -- that they were set up to do.
Q -- leave Guggenheim?
A In 2019.
Q And then you went back to Farallon to meet with them again, did you not?
A I met with Farallon while I was in San Francisco with my wife.
Q Okay. Did you call ahead to arrange the meeting, or was it just a --
A I --
Q -- a blind call?
A I did call ahead, yes.
Q A cold call, I guess, is the word -- the phrase that they use. Okay. So -- and was that a meet-and-greet?
A That was again, yes.
Q Again, what were you trying to do? Develop a relationship with Farallon?

A I was trying to catch up with them after having met them previously. And that was just Raj Patel. And this one I also met Michael Linn.

Q Okay. What kind of business were you in when you met with them the second time?

A I wasn't doing anything.

Q What were you hoping to do?

A I was hoping to get back into the investing side of the business, from running a credit-type lending business at Guggenheim, which is what they tried to do and it didn't work out. And I wanted to get back to what I was doing more at River Birch, but I was looking at other opportunities, whatever came along.

Q Well, what were the different options that you were looking at?

A I was looking at potentially getting back into investing, joining potentially a restructuring firm, any options like that. I was not looking to become a lawyer again.

Q And why would meeting and greeting with Farallon fit in within that scenario, the strategic scenarios that you've just discussed?

A They're a giant hedge fund.

Q A giant hedge fund?

A Yes.

Q And so it would be good to have a relationship with a giant hedge fund, wouldn't it?
A And to know what their thinking of the markets, where the opportunity set might be, who they are dealing with and interacting with. Those are -- those are valuable things to know over time.
Q And --
A And you need to maintain those relationships in order to be --
Q Sure.
A -- part of any business.
Q Sure. These meet-and-greets can actually evolve and provide relationship benefits, correct?
A I don't -- I'm not sure what you mean by relationship benefits.
Q Sloppy words for -- on my part. They can evolve into something that is a meaningful relationship?
A They could over time, yes.
Q And we know that after you became the CEO of Highland Capital that you received a call from, was it Farallon, to congratulate you on your appointment?
A It was an email.
Q And that was in the summer of 2020, shortly after your meet-and-greet out in San Francisco?
A Your calendar's a bit off, but it was in June of 2020, so that would have been more than shortly after, but yes.

Q Okay. And who contacted you to congratulate you on your appointment?
A This was my appointment as an independent director. I had not yet been appointed as CEO or CRO. This was in June of 2020, and it was Michael Linn.
Q Michael Linn? Was it a telephone call?
A I think 30 seconds ago I said it was an email.
Q Fair enough. Do you still have that email?
A I do, yes.
Q Okay. He contacted you again, "he" being Michael Linn, he contacted you again in January of 2021, did he not?
A That's correct, yes.
Q He wanted to see if he could get involved somehow in the Highland bankruptcy?
A Well, he congratulated -- he didn't congratulate -- he wished me a happy new year, and he basically said it looks like you're -- again, he's following the case -- it looks like you're doing good work. Is there any way for us to get involved? We're interested in claims or buying assets.
Q Okay. And Stonehill. Now, you know the founder of Stonehill, do you not?
A No, I don't know him. I've met him several times.
Q Doesn't he come by and stop in and talk with you when you're in Stonehill's offices? And that's happened recently?

A Your use of the plural is incorrect, and you know that from the deposition. I was in Stonehill's office one time, and I was in a meeting with Mr. Stern. We ended up having a board meeting from Stonehill's office with the other participants on video, and Mr. Motulsky came in and said hello.

Q All right. And who's Mr. Motulsky?

A He's the founder of Stonehill.

Q I see. And did you know Mr. Motulsky before that?

A I'd interacted with Mr. Motulsky over the years at -- mostly at industry-type functions.

Q Okay. Now, Stonehill is also a hedge fund?

A Yes.

Q Are they different than Farallon in that regard, or similar?

A I don't know as much about what their business is. They certainly do a direct lending component, so I know that they -- they will do some direct lending, which I don't think is something Farallon really does. Farallon is much bigger, as I understand it, but I don't really know the size of Stonehill.

Q Okay.

A I know they're not a $50 billion fund like Farallon.

Q And do you know Mr. Stern at Farallon?

A I now know him, yes, because he was -- he's really the representative on the -- no, he's not the representative on the board, but he is the one who manages the Stonehill and Jessup positions for Stonehill.

Q Well, we know that after you were CEO of Highland, you also got a text message, correct, a text message from someone at Stonehill, correct?

A Mr. Stern sent me a text message reintroducing himself -- I don't know if it was re- or just introducing -- and sent me his email and asked me to contact him about the case. This was at the end of February/beginning of March 2021, after the confirmation order.

Q Okay. After the -- after the confirmation order?

A Yes.

Q I believe the confirmation order -- I may be wrong -- I thought it was like the 21st, 22nd, somewhere in there. Does that sound right to you?

A Yes.

Q Okay. So, shortly after confirmation, then, Farallon calls you to congratulate you and wants to see how they can get involved?

A No. There was no congratulations there. Shortly after the confirmation order, which I believe was at least a week to ten days after confirmation, I got the communication from Mr. Stern to try to connect about the case.

Q All right.

A He's at Stonehill, not Farallon.

Q Correct. Now, --
A You said Farallon.
Q I misspoke, then. Thank you for correcting me. Let's talk about -- you live in New York?
A I do.
Q You're involved with a charity called Team Rubicon?
A Yes.
Q And Team Rubicon is a -- is that a veterans-type charity?
A Yeah. It's a veteran-led organization, and what it does is connects veterans to disasters. And mostly in the U.S., but also all over. So if there's a flood, if there's a hurricane, if there's an earthquake, veterans who have been trained in -- by the military in ready response and really being able to handle themselves when things are bad are deployed to help the communities that are hit. So I think that Team Rubicon likes to think, you know, on your worst day they're your best friend.
Q So you're -- are you on the board?
A No, I'm not.
Q You're on the Host Committee?
A I was on the Host Committee last year, and I'll be on the Host Committee this year.
Q Okay. And you have charity events?
A We have a charity event, yes.
Q Okay. And the purpose of the charity event is to raise a bunch of money?

A That's correct.
Q Okay. Have you been successful in the past?
A I do my best. Team Rubicon is a big organization. It's done very well raising money. It doesn't have an endowment. The founder's theory was that if people give us money, we're supposed to spend it on helping other people. And so each year it has to raise more money.
Q And Stonehill has been -- has contributed to your charity?
A I believe Stonehill, one or two years, and I should know this, and I didn't look it up after our deposition, gave $10,000.
Q Okay. Maybe once, maybe twice?
A Maybe twice.
Q Okay.
A I hope more.
Q Okay. And they also attend your -- your actual charity events, do they not?
A No.
Q All right. They just give money?
A That's right. And the Mike Stern who's on the board of Team Rubicon is not the Mike Stern who is at Stonehill. It's an older gentleman who's in Texas who just happens to give a lot of money to --
Q All right.

A -- Team Rubicon.
Q You also represented Blockbuster. Take that back. Were you the lawyer or the attorney representing the Creditors Committee, the UCC, in the Blockbuster bankruptcy?
A No, I was not.
Q Tell me what your capacity was.
A I represented a group of bondholders, secured bondholders. So I represented the group.
Q And was Stonehill a member of that group?
A Not that I recall, but your pleadings seem to indicate that they were. So if they were, they were a small participant. The largest participant was Carl Icahn, who owned about 30 percent of it. Then the others who were big were DK, Davidson Kempner, Monarch, Owl Creek. Those were the big players.
Q Well, --
A When Carl Icahn is in your group, you remember that.
Q Yeah, well, Carl Icahn is not here. We're talking about Stonehill right now.
A And I said I don't remember them actually being a part of it. If they were, --
Q Okay. Well, let me -- let me give you what I'm going to mark as Exhibit 80. That's your name at the top, right?
(Hunter Mountain Investment Trust's Exhibit 80 is marked for identification.)

A That's correct, yes.
Q You were at the time with Sidley & Austin?
A That's correct, yes.
Q This is In re Blockbuster.
MR. MCENTIRE: Scroll down, please.
BY MR. MCENTIRE:
Q And steering group of senior -- involves -- well, let's count them. Let's see. One, two, three, four, five. Five entities comprising the backstop lenders. Is that correct?
A I think that's the steering group. So, in order to represent the group, you need to try to assemble a large-enough group that it's material to the company. And then the company, if you're -- particularly if you're over 50 percent, will pay the fees of the group. And you don't represent any individual member of the group. I've never represented Carl Icahn. I represent the group. And if folks want to stay in the group, they can stay. If they want to trade out of the group, they do. And the company will generally continue to pay the fees, and you represent the group so long as you have a controlling interest in the -- whatever the issue is.
Q Well, that's interesting, because now what you're telling me is that this group right here, this is kind of like the executive committee of the group.
A No, it's called the steering group, and it doesn't necessarily --

Q That's fine.
A Well, it's not an executive committee. It doesn't necessarily include just the largest. Some large holders won't be on it. The largest holders here by a long shot were Icahn, who -- Q I'm not talking about --
A -- unloaded, as I say, over 30 percent. Monarch, Owl Creek, and I just don't recall Stonehill being a part of it.
Q I'm not really interested in Carl Icahn. I just want to establish this is a steering group in which you were the lead counsel and Blockbuster was on it. Is that correct?
A Yes.
Q Excuse me. Not Blockbuster.
A I'm sorry.
Q Stonehill.
A No, it's the Blockbuster case in 2010, and Stonehill was apparently on it, but I just don't have a recollection of their involvement.
Q All right. So when Mr. -- who sent you the text message in February of 2021 from Stonehill?
A Michael Stern.
Q And had you actually met him before?
A I think I had, but we didn't know each --
Q All right.
A You know, we certainly didn't know each other, we'd never worked on anything together, but I --

Q Do you have all your text messages from that period of time, that first quarter of 2021?

A I believe I do, yes.

Q They're saved?

A Yes.

Q Okay. When did the automatic delete button on your cell phone start?

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, objection. We've covered this this morning. I believe this is a motion coming down the pike, and I thought we had -- thought we had had tabled this preservation issue.

MR. MCENTIRE: This has a direct bearing on his communications with Farallon and Stonehill in this period of time, Your Honor. We have one text message that he's identified, and I have a right to examine whether there are others. Or if not, why not.

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, he's --

MR. MCENTIRE: That's a legitimate -- I'm not finished. That's a legitimate area of inquiry in this examination.

MR. STANCIL: He's testified he has them all. Your Honor did not order document discovery. I think that's it for purposes of today's hearing, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. I sustain the objection.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q After this text message that you received from Stonehill in February 2021, did you have any follow-up?

A Well, his text message, I don't recall what it said other than I was -- I do recall that he gave me his email address, because I didn't have it. And we just didn't know each other well enough. But we definitely had follow -up. He wanted to talk to me, and at some point we talked.

Q And when did you talk?

A I'm sorry?

Q When did you talk?

A When? I -- it was at the, initially, end of February, beginning of March. So it would have been somewhere in that -- in that time period.

Q End of February, beginning of March? And we also know that you next talked to Farallon, according to your testimony, and they advised you they had already purchased all their claims as of March 15, correct?

A On March 15th, they sent me an email that said they had purchased an interest in claims, and --

Q So -- go ahead.

A I'm not finished. And then at some point after that, we arranged a quick discussion, because that was a curious --

Q I want to assure you I will always let you finish.

A Thank you very much.

Q Unlike others. So, with that said, Mr. Seery, can you identify -- let me back up. Was there a data room set up at Highland Capital for claims investors to come in and look at data?

A No, there was not.

Q Are you aware, sitting here today, that Farallon did any due diligence in connection with its investment in the claims it purchased that are at issue in this proceeding?

A I have indication that they did some, yes. I don't know how much they did.

Q What is the indication?

A In the email in June of 2020, Mr. Linn said that he and his associate were following the case, thought it was -- that's the one that congratulated me on being an independent director, and that they were paying attention to the case. And it -- I don't recall the exact other items in there, but it was clear that they were following the Highland matter. And then in the email in January 2021, he also indicated that they'd been following the case further, and said, Looks like you have things well in hand, or something to that effect. So --

Q Do you have that email, too? Have you saved that email?

A They're all saved, yeah.

Q Okay. So let's talk about that. But you had no data room that would allow them to come in and actually investigate the underlying assets. Is that correct?

A Not in respect of anybody trying to buy claims. We did have a data room with respect to financing.
Q Please listen to my question. I'll get to it. Data room for claims investors. There was no data room set up on or before March 15 to allow Farallon to come in and investigate its investment in this claim?
A That's correct.
Q There was no data room set up prior to March 15 to allow Stonehill to come in and investigate its investment in the claims it purchased. Is that correct?
A That's correct.
Q Can you identify any due diligence, sitting here today -- let me back up. You heard Mr. Dondero's testimony about portfolio companies, correct?
A Yes.
Q Portfolio companies are companies in which Highland Capital has an interest that actually have separate and distinct management. Is that correct?
A Generally. And it -- I disagree with some of his testimony, but generally that's correct, yes.
Q Well, okay. Let's just take on the part that you agree with. With regard to those portfolio companies, was there anything that was disclosed in the Highland publicly-available financials that would allowed a detailed analysis of Highland's investments in each of those portfolio companies?

A I don't know. Certainly, in the four or five sets of projections that were filed, there were financial projections. I'm not sure exactly what was included in each one or in the disclosure statement.
Q Fair enough. Well, I'll represent to you I don't think there's detailed information on each individual portfolio company.
MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, he's not here to testify. I move to strike.
MR. MCENTIRE: Okay.
THE COURT: Sustained.
BY MR. MCENTIRE:
Q In that regard, Mr. Seery, can you identify what Farallon did to investigate the underlying asset value of any of these portfolio companies?
A I don't have any knowledge as to what Farallon did before it bought claims.
Q Can you identify what due diligence Stonehill did to investigate the underlying asset value in any of these portfolio companies?
A I don't -- I mean, in connection with claims purchasing, I have no idea what Stonehill did.
Q Now, I understand that you solicited -- perhaps I don't recall correctly. Did you solicit both Farallon and Stonehill to participate in a bid to provide exit financing?

A I don't think that's fair. I solicited Farallon because I knew they already owned claims. Stonehill reached out to me, and that was one of the things they were interested in doing, if there was financing needs.

Q Okay.

A And at the time they reached out, which was right after confirmation -- right after confirmation and the confirmation order, we didn't know what our needs would be. We didn't really, at the early stage, think we needed exit financing. When we looked at some of the difficulty we were going to have -- for example, collecting notes and realizing on assets -- we realized that we were going to need some exit financing in order to have enough money to support the enterprise to monetize the assets.

Q And I think you used the -- I think the phrase you used, you are the straw man or a straw man bid? Is that what you called it the other day?

A We did. You set up a very typical competitive process to do exit financing.

Q And what was the --

A And what -- well, I --

Q -- suggest --

A I was going to get to your straw man. And one of the things you do is you assess what the market's going to look like, what you think the market looks like, what you think a financing would be good for the enterprise, the flexibility you need, how you'd structure it. And then you put that out to prospective lenders and say, Here's our straw man. This is what we'd like you to consider in terms of financing. And then they do their work and come back. And they can either say, that looks great, or we have a totally different idea of what the financing might be, or some other combination of those things.

Q Mr. Seery, thank you for that answer, but I need to ask you to do me a favor. I'm on the clock, and so I'd just like to get my questions out, if you'd try to respond. Okay?

A Uh-huh.

Q Because your answers, as long as they may be, are impacting me a little bit.

So let me ask this question. In the straw man proposal that you put out for bid, what was the suggested interest rate?

A You know, you asked me that the other day, and I think I was slightly off. So it -- and I -- but I did tell you that it depended. There was -- I don't recall what the rate was, but it starts -- if everybody wants to put out money -- and I apologize for the length of the answer -- they look and they say, well, what if I get paid back in six months? Nobody wants to do that. So, duration makes a difference. So there's an interest rate. There's upfront fees. There's often exit fees. And sometimes there's other amounts. So, our -- my recollection is that our straw man was somewhere in the low teens on the high end, and then closer to high single-digits on the low end. Something in that range.

Q And Farallon indicated to you they were not interested, correct?

A No, not exactly. What Farallon said was they didn't -- they signed an NDA because we invited them in. We invited in six folks. Five signed NDAs. Two of the -- I invited in Farallon. I invited in Stonehill. Well, Stonehill called me. I invited in Contrarian because they had bought claims. And then two lenders that I knew. And Farallon did the work and came back and said, this isn't really what we do. And the other guys, you're telling me, which I was, that other people are more competitive. And so it's not really what we do, we don't think the returns are good enough, but if you need us, because now they're already invested in the claims, call us.

Q Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: And again, I'll object as nonresponsive. Your Honor, that was a very long answer talking about a lot of other entities. My only question was what the interest rate was.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, we oppose the motion to strike. I think it's --

MR. MCENTIRE: No, I didn't strike it. I said -- my objection was nonresponsive. I will now follow it up with a motion to strike his answer.

THE COURT: Overruled. Okay.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Seery, you just told us that the interest rate was in the high single digits to in the 12 and 13 percent range.

A No, I was giving you the all-in return for the lender. That's a very different --

Q All-in return?

A -- thing for the -- than an interest rate.

Q That's even better.

A And it depended on the time.

Q Fair enough.

Q So if -- the shorter the duration, the higher the effective return, because he's not getting the return for as long a period of time. If I have $100 million and I get 10 percent, I get just $10 million. But if I have that out for $3 million, I've earned $30 million. So maybe that gets squeezed in the longer it's out.

Q And Farallon said that the interest rate or the return rate was not what they were looking for?

A They indicated two things. I believe I've said this several times. One is they said, this isn't really what we do, a $50-ish million dollar loan to do an exit. But we're in the case. If you need us, call us. Included in that was, it doesn't look attractive enough to us because you're telling me other guys are more competitive.

Q Okay. And do you know what kind of rate of return they were going to get on the investment of the -- on the claims at a 71 percent projected return rate?

A If we only hit the plan, Farallon's two purchases, based on the numbers you get -- you gave, over a two-year period, would be 38.9 percent.

Q Okay, but we're going to talk about that in a second. Okay. How much -- how much did Farallon actually invest?

A I'd have to look back at your numbers. They're in your pleading. I don't know what they actually paid. I just have it from your pleading.

Q Okay. And do you have paperwork that -- can you (inaudible) calculation here?

A I have a calculator that, when I looked at your numbers, I ran that, and I --

Q I see. All right.

A I'm able to remember certain things.

Q So, so if it's projected that the internal rate of return is only six percent, do you disagree with that?

A A hundred percent disagree. There's -- that's virtually impossible.

Q Okay.

A And that's, by the way, for hitting the plan.
Q I'm sorry?
A That's for hitting the 70 -- the 71-and-change percent.
Q I want to ask you a question about that. The 71-percent-and-change --
A Uh-huh.
Q -- that came out of the plan for Class 8, --
A Yes.
Q -- that was for Class 8, correct?
A Correct.
Q There was zero expected return to Class 9, correct?
A That's correct. They would only get upside, and I think it says in the projections, based upon our view at the time, litigation that could ensue, and that was part of the plan.
Q And as I understand it, that 71-and-some-change --
A Uh-huh.
Q -- projected return rate never changed from the date of confirmation all the way up to the effective date. Am I correct?
A The -- we didn't change the projections that we'd filed with the plan because the plan was confirmed. We didn't need to change the projections that were filed with the plan.
Q The NDAs, as you understand it, can you tell me specifically when the NDAs were signed?
A I know it's the first week of April to the second week of April. Blue Torch may have signed -- who actually ended up doing the financing -- they may have signed it a week or so before. They'd been around offering financing a number of times in the past.

Q Fair enough. But we know that you understood as of March 15th that Farallon had already made their investments? I mean, claims?

A That's what they told me in that email, yes.

Q Okay. When did Stonehill sign the NDA?

A In and around the same time.

Q But you don't know when Stonehill actually purchased their claims?

A I don't know exactly when. I know generally that by the end of April, early May, they were -- they were the holder of the Redeemer claim. And --

(Interruption.)

A -- I can't remember whether it was from them or whether it was from --

Q Did you ever communicate with Stonehill during the time that they were doing their due diligence on the exit financing?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Did they come to your offices?

A I don't know if we were back yet. I think we were back, but I don't recall them coming to our offices. I think it was all virtual. It's early '21, so there would have been vaccines. It would have been very -- very -- I don't recall them coming to the offices at that time.

Q But just to be clear, you don't know, you can't give the Court a date when Stonehill actually completed their investments in either Redeemer or HarbourVest?

A No, I don't. I don't know. Did -- just --

Q That was my question.

A When you say Redeemer or HarbourVest, they never bought HarbourVest.

Q It was just Redeemer?

A Correct.

Q All right. You understand that Muck is an entity, a special-purpose entity created by Farallon?

A That's my understanding, yes.

Q And you understand Jessup is a special-purpose entity created by Stonehill?

A That's my understanding, yes.

Q Muck and Jessup are both on the Oversight Committee?

A They are. They -- those entities are the --

Q Is it the Oversight Committee or the Oversight Board?

A Same thing.

Q Fair enough.

A I'll consider them the same.

Q And there's a third member, too, correct?

A That's correct.
Q Okay.
A Independent member.
Q Okay. So you have a three-person board; is that right?
A That's correct.
Q And one of their jobs is to make decisions concerning your compensation?
A The structure of the Claimant Trust Agreement provides that I'm to negotiate with the -- either the Committee or the Oversight Board. And the compensation in the Claimant Trust Agreement is a base salary of $150,000, which is -- a month, which is the same as the one in the case, plus severance, plus a success fee. And it's very specific that that will be negotiated by the -- either the Committee or then the Oversight Board.
Q And Michael Linn, who Mr. Dondero has referred to, he's actually on the Oversight Board, is he not?
A He's the Muck representative on the Oversight Board.
Q All right.
A Yes.
Q If I understand it correctly, you are currently receiving, as the Trustee, $150,000 a month. Is that correct?
A That's incorrect.
Q What are you receiving?
A I receive $150,000 a month as the Trustee and the CEO of Highland Capital.

Q Well, --

A So I have --

Q -- fair enough.

A I have both roles. The Trustee, for example, doesn't manage the team, they actually work for Highland Capital, and I'm the CEO of Highland Capital.

Q There was some suggestion that the $150,000 was something that the Court had passed upon prior to the effective date or part of the plan. This is a separate negotiated item that you -- that you allegedly negotiated that was awarded to you post-effective date, correct?

A That's false.

Q Okay. So the $150,000 had a discount that was supposed to drop down to $75,000 after a period of time. That never happened, did it?

A The -- you seem to be mixing concepts. But the $150,000 a month was set by the plan and the -- and the Claimant Trust Agreement as the "base salary." That wasn't going to move. When we -- it never was supposed to move.

When I began negotiating with the Oversight Board for the success fee, they pushed back and said, we would like that to step down. So in our -- I did not say, oh, that's a great idea. We ended up negotiating, and they included a provision that we would renegotiate depending on the level of work.

That's one of the provisions.
Q Okay. But renegotiate down to $75,000 after a period of time, but that never happened?
A Initially, I believe it was supposed to step down to $75,000 automatic, subject to renegotiation that it go back up, not a structure that I particularly liked. And since then, we've negotiated on that point.
Q So you currently are making $150,000 a month?
A That's correct.
Q How often do you come to Dallas?
A Usually I'm here at least once a month. Usually it's between two and four days.
Q Okay. And you have a staff here in Dallas at Highland Capital, correct?
A Yes.
Q How many people?
A Eleven.
Q Eleven people?
A Uh-huh.
Q Working full-time?
A Yes.
Q And you're still making $1.8 million a year?
A Yes.
Q You also have a bonus structure, correct?
A That's correct.

Q And that's performance-based?
A That's correct.
MR. MCENTIRE: Can you pull up the agreement please? Okay.
(Pause.)
BY MR. MCENTIRE:
Q All right. Do you see --
MR. MCENTIRE: We're having technical difficulty here.
BY MR. MCENTIRE:
Q All right. Can you identify this document?
MR. MCENTIRE: What exhibit number is this?
MR. MILLER: 28.
BY MR. MCENTIRE:
Q Exhibit 28.
MR. MCENTIRE: I believe this is already in evidence.
THE COURT: Hunter Mountain Exhibit 28?
MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Okay.
BY MR. MCENTIRE:
Q This is the memorandum of agreement. Do you see that?
A Yes.
Q On the third line, it says -- and your name is identified here. You're the Claimant Trustee, correct?
A Claimant Trustee/CEO.

Q Engaged in robust, arm's length, and good-faith negotiations regarding the incentive compensation program.

As part of this robust, arm's length, and good-faith negotiation, did you personally conduct any independent search in the marketplace?

A I did -- what do you mean by search in the marketplace?

Q Well, did you try to do a market study? I asked that question in your deposition.

A I didn't know if you were asking a different question.

Q Same question.

A You mean market study on compensation?

Q Yes.

A No, I did not.

Q Are you aware of whether or not any member of the Oversight Board or Oversight Committee did a market study?

A On compensation?

Q On compensation.

A I'm not aware that they did one, no.

Q So this robust, arm's length, and good-faith negotiation, as far as you know, is divorced from any market study database or -- or methods. Is that correct?

A I don't believe that's correct, no.

Q I see. So did -- was any third-party consultant hired?

A Not by me or Highland or the Trust, no.

Q All right.

MR. MCENTIRE: Can you scroll down a little bit, please?

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q You signed this agreement, correct?

A Yes.

Q And we have Michael Linn signing on behalf of Muck, who also is with Farallon, correct?

A That's correct.

MR. MCENTIRE: Scroll down.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q And by the way, this is a heavily-redacted document. The redactions deal with what?

A The redactions deal with the portion that would go to the team as opposed to going to me.

Q Are we talking about the 11-member team?

A Correct.

MR. MCENTIRE: Can you scroll down? Stop. Go back.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q So we have the assumed allowed claim amounts under Section D. Do you see that?

A Yes.

Q Class 9, $98 million and some change. Class 8, $295 million and some change. Then we go into the incentive payment tiers. Do you see that?

A Yes.

Q What's the purpose of the tiers?
A The purpose of the tiers was to set additional compensation so that, the more recovery, the higher the compensation. So, below Tier 1, there was really effectively no bonus, is my recollection. And then in each tier there would be a percentage.

So the first tier is $10 million. There would be a percentage of that $10 million that could be allocated for bonus. Then in the next tier it would be $56 million. A portion of that would be allocated for bonus. And it's weighted more heavily to the higher-recovery tiers, meaning it incentivizes both me and the team to try to reach deeper into Class 8 and Class 9 and get higher recoveries.

Q Okay. So the idea is, the more difficult it is to get the recoveries, the higher percentage you should get, because if you're successful then you should be rewarded accordingly? Is that kind of how it works?
A I'm not sure if difficult is the term, but it's a combination of both expertise, difficulty, and time.

MR. MCENTIRE: All right. Can you scroll down, please? Next page.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:
Q And here are your actual tier participations. They go -- you said basically nothing Tier 1, up through 6 percent. So Tier 1 is the 71 percent, right?

A It's .72 percent, and it's of the -- that's the first piece. You have to get to Tier 1. So if we had not -- I believe it's structured is if we don't get to Tier 1, for example, we don't hit the plan, right around the plan number of 71-and-change cents, then there wouldn't -- there wouldn't be upside.

So it was very much structured in a way that you had to perform. And then the better the performance, the bigger the percentages of the tier.

Q So, in theory, Mr. Seery, by the time you get down to Tier 4 and Tier 5, it's a little bit less certain that you're ever going to get there. Is that right?

A Well, out of the gate, going deeper was uncertain. It's a question of being able to execute well on the assets and being able to control the costs and being able to make distributions. It wasn't based on what we just got for the assets. It's actually based on actual distributions --

Q I understand that.

A -- to Class 8 and 9 claimants.

Q I understand that. And the idea is, is that it take a lot more effort -- the theory was it might take a lot more effort to get all the way to the bottom of Tier 5 to pay all the Class 9 claims, right?

A And maybe a little luck.

Q Yeah. And Class 10 is not even factored into this, is it?

A No, it is not.
Q And so you didn't consider Class 10. You stopped at Tier 5?
A That's correct.
Q So your entitlement to a 6 percent return, or a 6 percent bonus on the recoveries, you say it's there to incentivize you. You didn't expect that to actually happen, did you, when you signed this? Is that your testimony?
MR. STANCIL: I object to the form of the question. It mischaracterizes the agreement.
BY MR. MCENTIRE:
Q You didn't expect it to happen, did you, sir?
THE WITNESS: Well, the six --
THE COURT: Wait. I'm sorry. Could you rephrase the question?
MR. MCENTIRE: Sure.
BY MR. MCENTIRE:
Q Are you telling the judge that you really didn't expect that to happen and that's why you were entitled to a higher percentage?
A No. We didn't expect to reach Class 9 and go deep into Class 9, but we certainly held out the possibility that we could. And it's not six percent. It's six percent of the increment. These are cumulative. So you get .72 of Tier 1. You get 1.17 of Tier 2. And you can add those, and you earn them when you've actually made the distribution, but you don't get paid until you get all your distribution or we're relatively done or there's a renegotiation. Because the Committee wanted to make sure that I didn't say, hey, I hit Tier 3, time to go, I got a better job.

Q So, Mr. Seery, if Farallon told Mr. Dondero that they wouldn't sell basically at any price because you said it was too valuable, and they rejected a 40 or 50 percent premium, if they said that, is that -- is that a lie?

A That I -- rephrase that, please. I don't -- didn't quite understand your question.

Q Yeah. You've heard the testimony that Farallon, Michael Linn, told Mr. Dondero that they were not going to sell their claim at any amount because you had told them it was too valuable. Is that a lie?

A I think that's -- yeah, I don't think that's true.

Q Okay. And obviously, if they're not going to be willing to sell at any amount, they must be pretty certain they're going to hit Tier 5. Would that just be a lie?

A That -- that conversation was before this negotiation. That -- there's no -- they could not have had any expectation, either when they had that conversation in May or when we had this discussion that I was going to hit Tier 5 and I hadn't hit Tier 5. And the idea that they wouldn't sell at any price is complete utter nonsense, because they're capped on what they can get.

Q So if -- sure. Okay. So, but if Farallon told --

A But that's what you said.

Q If Farallon told Mr. Dondero that they wouldn't even sell at 130 percent of the purchase price because you told them it would be too valuable, is that a lie?

A I never told them it would be too valuable. I don't -- I don't know any of the other parts that you're saying, the 130 percent of an unknown number, some guess number that Mr. Dondero had. I never told them it would be too valuable. That would be their own assessment of where we were at the end of May 2021.

Q If they said that you told them not to sell, that it was too valuable, is that a lie?

A That's untrue, yes.

Q If they told him -- if they told him that he told you -- that you told them it was too valuable because of MGM, is that a lie?

A Yes.

Q How many shares of stock did Highland Capital own?

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, one second. What is my time? How much time do I have?

THE CLERK: Right now you're at --

MR. MCENTIRE: So I'm almost two and a half hours in?

THE CLERK: Just about. A little under.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q I'm going to have to speed up here, Mr. Seery.

THE COURT: A little under two and a half, you said.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Seery, I want to make sure. Highland Capital owns interests in the CLOs. What is the CLOs' stake in the MGM stock, or what was it?

A Highland Capital does not own any interest in any of the CLOs it manages. It has a fee stream, and it can have certain deferred fees that it can get, but it didn't own any interest in any of the CLOs that it managed.

Q Fair enough. How about the portfolio companies?

A Did Highland Capital own interests in the portfolio companies?

Q Yes.

A Some of the ones Mr. Dondero listed, but they weren't portfolio companies. So he said OmniMax, but we didn't have any management of OmniMax. We just had debt that converted to equity, but we didn't control the -- the thing. That was during the case, the company.

Q Did Multistrat have an interest in MGM?

A Multistrat owned MGM, yes.

Q Okay. And did your company, Highland Capital -- your company -- Highland Capital have an interest in Multistrat?

A Highland Capital owns 57 percent of Multistrat, yes.

Q And did Highland Capital have an interest in any other portfolio companies that have an interest in -- had a stake in MGM?

A RCP. Restoration Capital Partners.

Q And do you recall what the value of that was?

A It shifted over time. I don't -- I don't know what time you're talking about.

Q And isn't it true that 90 percent of all the securities that Highland Capital owned at the time that the sale went public was roughly 90 percent of all of Highland Capital's securities?

MR. STANCIL: Objection, Your Honor. I don't know what that question is asking.

THE COURT: I don't understand it, either. Could you rephrase?

MR. MCENTIRE: I'll try to.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q At the time that the announcement was made about Amazon buying MGM in May of 2021, what percentage of all the securities did MGM comprise of the securities that were owned by Highland Capital?

A Of the securities that were directly owned by Highland Capital, it may have been -- I'm thinking of public or semi-public securities, the 150,000 or 170,000 that we had that were subject to the Frontier lien. Might have been almost all of the securities that we owned. It wasn't -- it was a good position, but it wasn't a huge driver for the directly-owned shares. There was more value in the Multistrat and the RCP.

Q What percent of shares of all --

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, I'm sorry, I'm having trouble hearing the end of Mr. Seery's answers. So I know it's not his --

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.

THE COURT: Okay. If you could make sure you speak into the mic.

THE WITNESS: Yeah. I'm sorry.

MR. STANCIL: I'm having trouble with Mr. McEntire talking over the end of Mr. Seery's answers.

THE COURT: Ah.

MR. STANCIL: I'm having trouble following.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. STANCIL: I apologize.

THE COURT: Okay. Could you --

MR. MCENTIRE: I didn't know I was doing that.

THE COURT: Well, --

MR. MCENTIRE: I'll try to do better.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Seery, of all the stock that Highland Capital owned in May of 2021, what percentage of that was (inaudible) stock?

A Hopefully this is clear. Highland Capital did not own a lot of stock. Highland Capital did have a direct ownership interest in MGM, so that might have been the vast majority of the stock that Highland Capital owned. It did own interest in other entities, like its investment in RCP or its investment in Multistrat. But of the stock that it owned directly, that was probably it, and that's the one that was liened up to Frontier.

Q Mr. Seery, did Highland Capital own approximately 170,000 shares of MGM stock in May of 2021?

A Yes. You -- I'm sorry. You asked me what percentage, and I think I said roughly that amount of stock liened up to Frontier, and that that might have been almost all of the stock we owned.

Q Does Highland Capital own a direct interest in HCLOF?

A In HC --

Q HCLOF?

A HCLOF? Yes. Highland Capital owns a small direct interest, and a large indirect interest which we got through the settlement with HarbourVest.

Q And the entity in which you acquired the indirect interest, what's the name of that entity?

A I don't recall. It's a -- it's a single-shell special-purpose entity that we own all of it and it has no other assets.

Q And just to make sure that the record is clear, you deny under oath that HCLOF has any interest -- or had any interest in MGM stock?

A HCLOF has never owned MGM stock and still doesn't own MGM stock. It's never owned it.

Q Um, --

A At least -- at least, as long as I've been in this case.

MR. MCENTIRE: One second, Your Honor, please.

(Pause.)

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm going to have to pass the witness because of time sensitivities, Your Honor, so I'll pass the witness at this time.

THE COURT: Okay. Cross?

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Mr. Seery?

A Yes, sir.

Q You just covered a lot of what we would have covered, so I want to be really, really quick here. Okay? We're not covering old ground. Let's just start with the HarbourVest settlement. Do you recall that Mr. Dondero sent the email to you on December 17th?

A Yes.

Q Okay. When did you reach the agreement with HarbourVest on the settlement?

A December 10th.

Q Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, I'd like to move into evidence Exhibit 31. Actually, let me lay a foundation first.

Can you give the witness --

MR. MCENTIRE: Is this a new exhibit?

MR. MORRIS: No. It's Exhibit 31.

MR. MCENTIRE: Can I see it, Tim, please?

MR. MORRIS: It's in your box.

MR. MCENTIRE: Give me a minute.

MR. MORRIS: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: Okay. We're about to focus on Highland Exhibit what?

MR. MORRIS: 31.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Do you have it, Your Honor?

THE COURT: I do.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Do you have it, Mr. Seery?

A I do, yes.

MR. MORRIS: Do you have it, sir?

MR. MCENTIRE: I do. Thank you.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Can you just tell the Court what this is?

A This is an email chain. It starts from me to the other independent directors, copying counsel, to outline the terms of the HarbourVest settlement that I had just made the offer to HarbourVest to settle on these terms on December 8th. And this was the product of a number of negotiations that had taken place over the prior weeks, and this was the final offer that I was making to them to settle.

Q Directing your attention to the bottom of the first page, the first email dated December 8, 2020 at 6:46 p.m., can you just read the first sentence out loud.

A I lost -- you lost me.

Q That begins, "As discussed yesterday."

A Oh. "As discussed yesterday, after consultation with John Morris" -- that would be you -- "regarding litigation risks, this evening I made an offer" -- it says "and," but it should have said "an" -- "offer to HarbourVest to settle their claims. The following are the proposed terms."

Q Okay. Just stop right there. And you were -- this is the report that you gave to the independent directors?

A The other independent directors.

Q Right.

A I was also one.

Q Right. And did Mr. Dubel respond?

A He did, yes.

Q And can you just describe briefly what your understanding was of his response?

A Dubel responds a couple hours after I sent the original email: "Jim, this basically looks like a $10 million -- net $10 million payment to HV." That's HarbourVest. "Is that correct? Does the 72-cent recovery include the $22-1/2 million that we get from the transfer of HCLOF interests? Remind me again, post-effective date, who is managing HCLOF?"

So I think my understanding was Mr. Dubel was querying me on some of the terms that I had set forth here, including that the value of the claim in our estimation was going to be about $9.9 million, meaning they would have a $45 million senior claim, a $35 million junior claim, and we thought, based on the values we had then, it was going to pay out about $9.9 million.

Q Okay. And was this offer accepted?

A Yes, it was.

Q When was it accepted?

A I think I just said. On -- on December 10th.

Q Okay. And did the terms that you described for the other independent directors on December 8th, did they change in any way at all from that reflected in this email until the time we got to the 9019 hearing?

A Not at all, no.

Q Okay. I see that you mention in here that you -- it says, quote, "The interests have a marked value of $22-1/2 million, according to Hunter Covitz." Do you see that?

A That's correct, yes.
Q Who's Hunter Covitz?
A Hunter Covitz was a Highland employee. He ran the structured products business. So he was responsible for making sure that the CLO we managed, which was AC7, was compliant and was -- with the indentures. He also was responsible for monitoring the -- what we call the 1.0 CLOs, even though they weren't really CLOs, they were more like closed-in funds. And he also kept track of the Acis -- CLOs that HCLOF had an interest in that were managed by Acis.
Q Okay. And do you recall how he conveyed to you the NAV?
A Well, I talked to him numerous times, so this wasn't our -- I didn't just call him up at the end and say, what's the NAV? I had had discussions with him while I was negotiating with HarbourVest. And at some point, he or someone -- he told me the amount, and at some point he gave me a NAV statement that actually showed the NAV of HCLOF, which at 11/30 was roughly $45 million.
Q Okay. Can you turn to Exhibit 31-A, the next document in the binder?
A Mine's completely blacked out.
THE COURT: I'm sorry, what number?
MR. MORRIS: 31-A.
THE COURT: Oh.
MR. MORRIS: And the first two pages are redacted just because they're not relevant and they're business information.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q But can you turn to the last page, sir?

A Yes.

Q Can you tell the judge what this is?

A So this is a net asset value statement from HCLOF. That's Highland CLO Funding, Limited. That's the Guernsey entity that -- that held these interests. And this is a net asset amount, and it shows what the net -- what the net asset value is as of this time on a carryforward basis of $45.191 million.

Q Okay. And where did you get this document?

A I believe I got it from Covitz. It's generated by an entity called Elysium, which is the fund administrator for HCLOF, and I believe they're out of Guernsey.

Q And did you rely on this document in setting the proposal to HarbourVest?

A Well, both the conversations with Covitz and the document. And frankly, HarbourVest got the same documents because they were -- they held a membership interest in HCLOF. So he -- Michael Pugatch knew what the NAV was.

Q And would Mr. Dondero or entities controlled by him who also have interests in HCLOF, is it your understanding that they would have also had this document available?

A All members would --

MR. MCENTIRE: Excuse me. Excuse me. I object to that question, the question being "and the entities controlled by Mr. Dondero." There's no foundation for this witness to answer a question like that.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Who else owned --

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q -- an interest in HCLOF?

THE COURT: Go ahead.

THE WITNESS: It would have been DAF.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q The DAF?

A Yeah.

Q Okay. Let's just ask this question. Is it your understanding that these NAV valuation reports were made to all holders of interests in HCLOF?

A Yes. And that would include the DAF. And I did leave off that there were three former Highland employees long gone, or at least not around at this point, who also owned very small interests, and they would have gotten those statements as well.

Q And does HCLOF also produce audited financial statements?

A It does, yes.

Q Can you go to Exhibit 60, please?

A Six zero?
Q Yes, sir. A couple of questions here. Is this a document that Highland would have received in the ordinary course of business?
A Yes, it is.
Q Okay. And what is the NAV depicted on this page as of the end of the year 2020?
A Well, you have to look through it, because this document is actually dated 4/21/21, --
Q Okay.
A -- which you can see on Page 10 where it's signed. And that shows a net asset value of $50.4 million as of 12/31/21. 12/20. I'm sorry. And -- but it wasn't prepared until -- the audits aren't done and we don't get this document until after the directors sign off in April.
Q Okay.
MR. MORRIS: And Your Honor, I move for the admission into evidence of these three HarbourVest-related documents, 30, 31-A, and 60.
MR. MCENTIRE: No objection.
THE COURT: They're admitted.
MR. MORRIS: Okay.
(Debtors' Exhibits 30, 31-A, and 60 are received into evidence.)
BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Okay. Let me move on. We've seen Mr. Dondero's email today. You've seen that before, correct?

A Yes.

Q Okay. What was your reaction when you got it?

A I was highly suspicious.

Q Why is that?

A Well, not to replow too much old ground, but this came after he threatened me. He threatened me in writing. I'd never been threatened in my career. I've never heard of anyone else in this business who's been threatened in their career. So anything I would get from him, I was going to be highly suspicious.

It also followed the imposition of a TRO for interfering with the business. He knew what was in the TRO and he knew what it applied to, and it restricted him from communicating with me or any of the other independent directors without Pachulski being on it.

Furthermore, Pachulski had advised Mr. Dondero's counsel that not only could they not communicate with us, if they wanted to communicate they had to prescreen the topics.

And how do we know that? Because Dondero filed a motion to modify the TRO. And that was all before this email.

In addition, that followed the termination of the shared service arrangements, the approval of the disclosure statement, and the demand to collect on the demand notes that

Mr. Dondero and his entities were liable for.

So at that point, he'd been interfering with the business, he had threatened me, he was subject to a TRO, and I got this email and I was highly suspicious.

Q Did you ever share this email with anybody at Farallon?

A No.

Q Did you ever share this email with anybody at Stonehill?

A No. And just to be clear, not just the email, the contents. Never discussed it with them.

Q That was going to be my next question. Did you ever share any information about MGM with anybody?

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.

MR. MORRIS: I'm asking the question.

MR. MCENTIRE: No, you're leading.

MR. MORRIS: This is the whole --

MR. MCENTIRE: You're leading the witness.

THE COURT: Overruled. Finish the question.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Did you ever share any information concerning with MGM with anybody at Stonehill before you learned that they had purchased claims?

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: No. No, I did not.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Did you ever share any information with anybody at Farallon concerning MGM before you learned that they purchased their claims?

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.

THE WITNESS: No, I did not.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.

(Pause.)

THE WITNESS: You know, you just asked me something about Stonehill.

THE COURT: No.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Yeah. No question.

A I wanted to clarify one.

Q What did you want to clarify, sir?

A Certainly didn't share anything about this email, any of the contents of it. I don't know if I ever -- I don't know exactly when Stonehill bought their claims, and they were subject to the NDA to do the financing process. So I know when Farallon told me they had bought their claims and I know we never had any discussions at all before they acquired their claims, and I don't know when Stonehill got those -- their claims, so I don't know when -- what was in the data room or what -- what might have been discussed about MGM while they were under an NDA.

Q Okay.
A But certainly nothing -- I never shared the contents of this email, the substance of this email, the email at all. That's what I wanted to clarify.
Q What data room are you talking about, sir?
A This was the data room related to the exit financing where we sought exit financing and ultimately got exit financing from Blue Torch Capital.
Q And who put together the data room?
A DSI, which was our financial consultants, and our finance team.
Q And why did you -- did you delegate responsibility for creating the data room to DSI and the members of your team you just identified?
A Yeah, of course.
Q How come?
A I don't really know how to put together a data room.
Q Did you -- did you direct them to put anything in the data room?
A Not specifically. We had a deck that we -- that certainly I worked on and commented on, which would have been a general overview of the -- of the post-reorganized Highland and the -- and the -- and the Claimant Trust. So I certainly commented on that. But the specific information in the data room, I don't -- I never looked at it. I don't know what it is.

Q How many -- how many entities who were participating in the exit facility process wound up making bids or offers?
A There were five that signed NDAs. Three provided substantive proposals. One was verbal. That was Bardin Hill, who'd been contacting me throughout the case, and they do this kind of financing, and they submitted a competitive bid. Stonehill in writing, and then amended, a more aggressive one, in writing. And Blue Torch probably three, and the most aggressive.
Q And did you give the -- did you give the opportunity to your age-old friends at Stonehill?
A They're not my age-old friends. And no, they lost. They were second, they were close, it was a good real proposal, but they didn't win.
Q So, --
A Blue Torch won.
Q So is it fair to say that you -- did you pick the best proposal that you thought provided the best value for the company that you were managing?
MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, again, for the last ten minutes, we've had nothing but leading questions. And it just is --
MR. MORRIS: Fine. Happy to --
THE COURT: Sustained. Rephrase.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Why did you pick Stone -- why did you pick Blue -- Blue-?

A Blue Torch.

Q Blue Torch, over the other bids?

A It was the best bid. So, structurally, it was the least expensive, although they were extremely close. I had a lot of confidence in Blue Torch because this type of financing is what they do. And while you can never have a hundred percent confidence that if somebody goes through the -- this is an LOI, right, so this is a letter of intent. When they go further, they may -- they may not complete it. But I had a high degree of confidence that they would get there, because, again, that's what they do. And they were the -- they were just the better bid.

Q Okay. Do you recall that in Mr. Dondero's notes he wrote down that he was told that Farallon had purchased their claims in February or March?

A I saw that on what he claimed, yes.

Q And is that consistent with what you were told by Farallon in March?

A They told me they acquired the claims -- they had acquired the claims on March 15th, by email. I don't know if they acquired them in February or March. Or even January. I know they said they had them on March 15.

Q Did you ever speak with Farallon about anything having to do with the purchase of their claims?

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: Not -- not before they sent me that email.

MR. MORRIS: I apologize. Withdrawn.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Before -- before learning of their purchase, had you had any discussions with them about potential claim purchases?

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection.

THE WITNESS: No.

MR. MCENTIRE: Leading.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: No, I didn't.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Okay. Before you learned that Stonehill had purchased claims in the Highland bankruptcy, had you ever had any conversation with them about the potential purchase of claims?

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.

THE WITNESS: No, I don't -- I don't --

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry. I don't -- I don't believe so, no.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Do you have any knowledge at all as to how the sellers went about selling their claims?

A I have some knowledge now, post-effective date, that I believe I have some understanding, but not a great one.

Q Did you ever communicate with any of the sellers about the potential sale of their claims prior to the time their claims were sold?

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: I did have a conversation with Eric Felton who was the Redeemer representative on the Creditors' Committee. And it came out of one of the emails I got. I think it indicated that --

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection, hearsay, Your Honor. I mean, hearsay, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: It's hearsay.

THE COURT: Okay. He's about to say something that's hearsay is the objection. Any response?

MR. MORRIS: I'm not offering it for the truth of the matter asserted. I'm offering it for Mr. Seery's state of mind and the extent of his communications. How about that?

MR. MCENTIRE: I don't see how you could offer it for anything other than for the truth of the matter asserted. It's coming from a third party, so I object to hearsay.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. You know what? We --

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Other than the one conversation --

THE COURT: Are you withdrawing the question or do I need --

MR. MORRIS: Yeah. This is just --

THE COURT: Okay. You're withdrawing the question.

MR. MORRIS: I'll withdraw the question.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Other than the one conversation with Mr. Felton, did you ever have a conversation with any seller prior to the time you learned that Farallon or Stonehill --

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q -- purchased the claims?

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: No.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Did you play any role in facilitating or recommending to Farallon or Muck that it purchase claims?

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: No. None whatsoever.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Did you play any role in facilitating or recommending that Stonehill or Jessup purchase claims?
A No.
MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.
THE COURT: Overruled.
THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.
BY MR. MORRIS:
Q All right. Let's just finish up with compensation. Can you go to Exhibit 41, please? Can you just identify that document for the Court?
A This is the -- it's a memorandum agreement that sits on top of an outline. It is the December 2 incentive compensation agreed terms for Highland Capital --
Q Okay.
A -- and the Trust.
Q And when was this signed?
A It would have been -- the date is December 6th.
Q And --
A 2021. I'm sorry.
Q Okay. And when did you and the Committee members begin discussing your compensation package?
A Shortly after the effective date, which was August 11, 2021.
Q And were there any negotiations during that intervening three- or four-month period?

A Considerable negotiations during that period, yes.
Q Can you go to the last page of Exhibit 41? Can you describe that for the Court? I know it's hard to read, but --
A I --
Q -- the numbers don't matter so much as the infor... you know, just, can you just describe --
A Yeah.
Q -- what's being conveyed?
A So it's very hard to read, but it says -- because it's small -- Seery Proposal 1, Oversight Counter 1, Seery Proposal 2, Oversight Counter 2, and then it continues down. My recollection is that we had four or five rounds of back-and-forth that were meaningful. But it -- but it even took a detour in the middle, because it started with my proposal, which was pretty robust, and their response to me that they didn't like the structure or the amount, and so then we started talking about that. And then they -- after we were kind of hitting numbers and structure at the same time, they came back to me and said, stop, we've got to agree on the structure before we agree on the amounts.
MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, I'm going to object as it's hearsay and move to strike. This is -- he's not talking about the document. He's talking about something outside of the four corners of the document. I object to hearsay.
MR. MORRIS: Hearsay? There's no statement.

THE COURT: There was --

MR. MORRIS: It's a description of what happened.

MR. MCENTIRE: But he's actually referring to statements in his substantive comments.

THE COURT: Overruled. Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I move for the admission into evidence of Exhibit 41.

THE COURT: Any objection?

MR. MCENTIRE: That's the memorandum agreement, Mr. Morris? Is that it?

MR. MORRIS: Yes, sir.

MR. MCENTIRE: No objection.

THE COURT: Admitted.

(Debtors' Exhibit 41 is received into evidence.)

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Can we go backwards to Exhibit 39, please? Can you describe for the Court what that is?

A This is a redacted copy of minutes of the board meeting on August 21 -- 26, 2021.

Q And there's a lot of stuff redacted there. Do you have an understanding as to why there is redactions?

A It would have nothing to do with these issues that we're discussing or the alleged quid pro quo.

Q Okay. Can you just read out loud the last portion that's unredacted on the second page, beginning with "Mr. Seery reviewed"?

A It actually says, "Mr. Seery also presented the board with an overview of his incentive compensation program proposal, which would include not only Mr. Seery but the current HCMLP team. The terms and structure of the proposal had been previewed with the board in prior operating models presented by Mr. Seery. Mr. Seery reviewed the proposal and stated his view that the proposal was market-based and was designed to align incentive between himself and the HCMLP team on the one hand and the Claimant Trust beneficiaries on the other. The board asked questions regarding the proposal and determined that it would consider the proposal and revert to Mr. Seery with a counterproposal."

Q All right. When you were -- when you were shown one of these documents before, you were asked to identify Mr. Linn, but you weren't asked about the others. Do you see Richard Katz there?

A Yes.

Q Who's that?

A He's the independent member.

Q Did he play any role in the negotiation of your compensation package?

A Yes. He was actively involved.

Q Okay. And how about Mr. Provost? Who's he?

A He is the Jessup person. Jessup is the board member.

He's their representative on the board.

Q Okay.

MR. MORRIS: And I move for admission into evidence of Exhibit 39.

MR. MCENTIRE: No objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Admitted.

(Debtors' Exhibit 39 is received into evidence.)

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Let's go to Exhibit 40, please. Can you just describe for the Court what that is?

A This is a subsequent board meeting minutes, August 30, 2021.

Q And can you just read into the record -- why are there redactions?

A Again, they would -- if there are redactions, it would have nothing to do with the issues that are being brought up in this motion.

Q And can you just read into the record the paragraph beginning, "Mr. Katz"?

A "Mr. Katz began the meeting by walking the Oversight Board and Mr. Seery through the Oversight Board's counterproposal to the HCMLP incentive compensation proposal, including the review of the spreadsheet and summary of the counterproposal. Discussion was joined by Mr. Linn and Mr. Stern. Mr. Seery asked numerous questions and received detailed responses from the Oversight Board. Mr. Seery and the Oversight Board agreed to continue the discussion and negotiations regarding the proposed incentive compensation plan for the Claimant Trustee and the -- and the HCMLP."

Q So they didn't accept your original proposal that you made in the earlier document?

A They did not.

Q Okay. And did negotiations continue?

A They did, yes.

MR. MORRIS: Before we go on, I move for admission into evidence Exhibit 40.

THE COURT: Any --

MR. MCENTIRE: No objection.

THE COURT: It's admitted.

(Debtors' Exhibit 40 is received into evidence.)

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Can you go to Exhibit 59, please? Can you describe for the Court what this is?

A This is an email string between me and the Oversight Board regarding the compensation proposal.

Q Okay. And directing your attention to the bottom, I guess, of the second page, there is an email from Mr. Katz dated October 26. Do you see that?

A At the bottom of the second -- oh, yes, yes.

Q Okay. Can you just read the sentence at the bottom of the page beginning "We propose"?

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, Your Honor, I would, first of all, object to him just reading from the document until it's been put into evidence.

THE COURT: I'm sorry, say again?

MR. MCENTIRE: I would object to Exhibit --

THE COURT: We can't pick things up on the record when you don't speak in a mic.

MR. MCENTIRE: I object to him simply reading from the document before the document is offered into evidence.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: Accepted into evidence.

MR. MORRIS: Sure. I'd move it into evidence.

MR. MCENTIRE: I object as hearsay.

MR. MORRIS: This is a present sense recollection -- recorded. It's a clear business record. It's a negotiation that's happening over time. Mr. Seery is here to answer any questions about authenticity.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, first of all, it's an email string involving communications with third parties. That's hearsay in and of itself. And it's not been established that this is a business record. And Mr. Morris's statements to that effect, frankly, don't carry his burden. There's internal hearsay contained throughout the document, Your Honor, even if it is a business record.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, just to be clear, let me respond.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: Exceptions to hearsay rule. 803(1) present sense impression; (2) -- (3) existing mental impression, state of mind about motive, (5) recorded recollection, (6) records of regularly-conducted activity, or Federal Rule of Evidence 807, residual exception for trustworthy and probative evidence. I'll take any of them.

MR. MCENTIRE: None of them apply.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: Okay. Overruled.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

THE COURT: I admit it. 59's admitted.

(Debtors' Exhibit 59 is received into evidence.)

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Can you just read that last sentence at the bottom of that page?

A This is from Rich Katz to me.

Q Uh-huh.

A (reading) We propose doing this in two stages. First, we'd like to come to agreement on structural, underscored, elements of the ICP.

ICP means incentive compensation program or plan.

Only after we'd done that, when the board had greater understanding of what plan they were pricing, would we haggle out the specific numbers, underscore, tier attachment points, and percentage participation in each tier.

Q Okay. And going to the right-hand part of that, do you see where it says, Salary J.S. Only?

A Yes.

Q Can you just, you know, generally describe for the Court what the debate is or the negotiation that's happening on that particular point?

A Well, this was brought up earlier. The salary was $150,000 a month. That was the same salary that I'd had during the case that was approved by the Court. It had been approved by the Committee, approved by the other independent members. That was continuing. It was also contained as an actual base salary in the plan and the Claimant Trust Agreement, and they were never amended.

The Committee came back to me and said, we'd like that to step down. And they'd like it to step down on a definitive specific schedule, because they had a view that that would incentivize me to work faster to make distributions before the stepdown and that I wouldn't linger in the role. And the yellow --

Q Can you just read the yellow out loud?

A That's --

Q Read the whole thing.

A That's my response.
Q Read the whole thing.
A (reading) Based on the required expertise, volume, and personal risk of the work today, I do not think that any formulaic reduction in base comp is appropriate. With the complexity and amount of issues that I have to manage on a daily basis, I currently do not have capacity to take on significant outside work. Of course, things can change. If they do, I am open to discussing reduction in the base. I have no interest in sitting around doing nothing, having no risk, and collecting the full base compensation. We can include prefatory language and an agreement to revisit our terms, but I do not see an avenue to set parameters to lock in an agreement for the future at this time.
And then there's another paragraph on severance.
Q You can stop there.
MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions.
THE COURT: All right. Pass the witness.
MR. MCENTIRE: Do you have any questions?
A VOICE: No.
MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. How much time do I have, please?
THE CLERK: So, the limit is at two hours and 32 minutes.
MR. MCENTIRE: All right.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Just a couple questions very quickly, Mr. Seery. Highland Capital Management paid HarbourVest cash as part of the settlement, correct?

A That's incorrect.

Q There was no cash component at all?

A There was not.

Q And in connection with the HarbourVest settlement, HarbourVest transferred an interest in HCLOF to Highland Capital or an entity affiliated with Highland Capital; is that not correct?

A That's correct.

Q And that -- that entity -- and HCLOF, and HCLOF had an interest in various CLOs, correct?

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I object. This is beyond the scope of my cross, or redirect, however you prefer.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, you spent a lot of time on HarbourVest. I'm just trying to clear it up.

MR. MORRIS: I didn't say the word CLO. I did not say the word CLO.

THE COURT: Overruled. He can go there.

If you'd please move the mic towards your voice.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q And HCLOF had an interest in various CLOs, correct?

A I believe it had an interest in five CLOs. Oh, that's not true. It had an interest in five of the 1.0 CLOs. It also owned one hundred -- basically, somewhere between 87 and a hundred percent of Acis 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7, which is about a billion dollars of CLOs to 10 (inaudible) leveraged vehicles, and they owned basically all the equity, so that was the driver of the value.

Q And various entities that were -- I mean, some of these various CLOs had an interest in MGM stock, correct?

A The 1. -- the Highland 1.0s did. The value drivers I just described -- Acis 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 -- had no interest in MGM.

Q But one of them did have an interest in MGM?

A That's not correct.

Q What did you just say?

A 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 did not have any interest in MGM.

Q Were there any CLOs that had an interest in MGM?

A Some of the 1.0 CLOs did, --

Q I see.

A -- yes.

MR. MCENTIRE: Pass the witness.

MR. MORRIS: No further questions.

THE COURT: Mr. Seery, I want to ask you one thing.

THE WITNESS: Yes, Your Honor.

EXAMINATION BY THE COURT

THE COURT: We dance around it a lot. The Highland ownership of MGM stock. If think -- if you could confirm I've heard this correct -- you said Highland itself owned 170,000 shares that were subject to a Frontier Bank lien?

THE WITNESS: Yes, Your Honor. I believe that's the right amount. So, Highland directly owned about 170,000 shares. Those were liened up to Frontier. They were -- they were never transferred. Highland never sold any MGM stock.

THE COURT: Okay. So Frontier still holds it or what?

THE WITNESS: No. In fact, post-effective -- I believe it was post-effective date, and with cash generated, we -- we paid off the Frontier loan, --

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

THE WITNESS: -- released that lien, and then we held those shares in MGM until the merger was consummated.

THE COURT: Okay.

THE WITNESS: So we tendered our shares into the -- into the merger and got the merger consideration, which was cash.

THE COURT: Okay. And so there was that. But other than that, you said Highland owned 50 percent of Multistrat, which owned some MGM stock?

THE WITNESS: Multistrat had a -- I don't recall the amount, but a material amount of MGM stock. That also -- so, Highland owned 57 percent of Multistrat. Is also the manager of Multistrat.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

THE WITNESS: Multistrat did not sell any MGM stock. It also tendered them into the merger as well.

THE COURT: Okay. And then you said Highland owned some percentage of Restoration --

THE WITNESS: Restorations Capital Partners.

THE COURT: -- Capital Partners, which owned some MGM stock?

THE WITNESS: Similarly, Highland is the manager of what we call RCP. RCP owned a material amount of MGM stock. RCP did not sell any MGM stock. However, in 2019, you'll recall that Mr. Dondero sold $125 million of stock postpetition out of RCP. It was MGM stock. He sold it back to MGM. We had a -- we had a hearing on it, because subsequently the Independent Board learned about it, the Committee learned about it, they had not -- it had not been disclosed, but there was a -- what we thought was a binding agreement with MGM, and MGM indicated that they were going to hold us to it, and so we had a hearing about approving that transaction. The Committee was not happy.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm fuzzy on when that was. You said?

THE WITNESS: That would have been in early 2020, probably April-ish timeframe.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

THE WITNESS: The transaction was in November, I believe.

MR. MORRIS: If it's helpful, Your Honor, you can find it at Docket 487.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I think that's the objection from the Committee where the issue was -- comes up at least at one time.

THE COURT: Okay. And then I think this is the last category I heard, that HCM and its specially-created sub owned just over 50 percent of HCLOF, and it in turn owns interest in a lot of CLOs, and a few of those, what you call the 1.0 CLOs, did own some MGM stock?

THE WITNESS: That's correct. So if you look on the audited financials that we had introduced into evidence, you'll see actually every asset that HCLOF owns. There's no MGM in there. It does own interest. There were minority interests in five or six of the 1.0 CLOs. Grayson, Greenbrier, Gleneagles, Brentwood, Liberty, and one other. And it had interest in those, but it never owned any MGM stock and it never traded any MGM stock. It didn't own any.

THE COURT: All right. Did I cover the universe of what MGM stock was owned by Highland or something Highland had an interest in?

THE WITNESS: Yeah. So, the ones that HCLOF had an interest in that I just listed, those -- Jasper was the other one. I apologize. The -- they owned -- they owned MGM stock among their other -- they had a lot of other assets. The other CLOs, the 1.0 CLOs that Highland had, every one of them owned MGM stock. None of them sold or bought any stock. Those all tendered into the merger as well. Highland did not own any interest in any of those entities.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

THE WITNESS: It just managed them.

THE COURT: Okay. And this is my last question. Someone brought up or it came up today that exactly two years ago today -- I didn't remember we were on an anniversary of that -- but was when we had a hearing, and I think it was a contempt hearing, but I had, I guess, read in the media, like many other human beings, an article about the MGM-Amazon transaction, and I had said I had hope in my heart and brain that this could be an impetus or a triggering event for maybe a settlement. And that was kind of quickly pooh-poohed, if you will.

Remind me why I was quickly persuaded, oh well, I guess that's not going to happen. I just can't remember what I heard that day.

THE WITNESS: Well, it was widely known that Highland, meaning not the 171,000 --

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

THE WITNESS: -- but the entities that Highland or related entities, including DAF, the other Dondero entities, controlled a lot of Highland stock, as even Mr. Dondero said between Anchorage --

THE COURT: You mean MGM?

THE WITNESS: MGM, I'm sorry. Between -- there were only five major holders. There was the two we just mentioned and Davidson Kempner and Monarch and Owl Creek, and just a few other big holders.

And so Your Honor would have learned it from the case, but you also would have learned it from the paper, that any time a holder is mentioned, it's first Anchorage, because they owned the biggest piece, and Kevin Ulrich, who was the chairman of Anchorage, was also the chairman of MGM. And then Highland was always mentioned.

The reason that it didn't have some great amount of capital that went on to Highland, although there was money from RCP and there was money from MGM, is Highland doesn't own the stock that's -- or interests in the 1.0 CLOs that owned all of it. We just manage it.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

THE WITNESS: And that goes to various other entities, including, in large part, to Dondero entities. So there wasn't a big windfall to Highland from that.

The possibility of some upside from HCLOF, because it owned small interests in those five, there was some value in that, but a lot of it got tied up in the litigation that other entities, Dondero entities, are bringing against U.S. Bank and Acis, which has tied up everything in that -- those distributions.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. Thank you. You are excused from the stand.

THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

MR. STANCIL: I owe you a docket number, Your Honor. You said don't let us leave before we give you a docket number for that second contempt order. We promised to come back. It was #2660.

THE COURT: Okay. Got it.

MR. STANCIL: Which -- did we move that into evidence?

MR. MORRIS: No. We asked the Court to take judicial notice.

THE COURT: I will take judicial notice of 2660, --

MR. STANCIL: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: -- I already said. Thank you.

THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: You're excused.

(The witness steps down.)

THE COURT: All right. Are you going to have any other evidence, Mr. McEntire?

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, as I respond to your question, I think we have 30 -- approximately 30 minutes left.

THE CLERK: Twenty-six, yes.

MR. MCENTIRE: Twenty-six. We do have another witness. We also have a closing final argument. And we also have an opportunity -- we want to reserve an opportunity for our experts that is still under advisement.

So my first action would be to ask for an extension of time, or we would like to add to our time limit. Instead of just three hours, we'd like to increase the time so we can accomplish all these things.

I mean, if the Court is unwilling to give us additional time, then I will be forced not to call another witness. I will move to a very short final argument. I need to preserve some time for my experts, should you allow them to testify.

THE COURT: Well, --

MR. MORRIS: May I respond?

THE COURT: -- you don't have to preserve time. I'm either going to allow you to put on your experts, and we said 30 minutes/30 minutes, --

MR. MORRIS: That was what I was going to say, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: There's no prejudice here. Nobody's being harmed. There's no appellate issue. I thought we were really clear. Everybody gets their three hours today. We will file our reply brief on Monday. The Court will determine both whether it needs to hear expert testimony and whether or not our motion should be sustained. If the Court denies the motion, we'll take a couple of depositions and each side will get whatever period of time the Court orders.

But, you know, the attempts to create an appellate record are just -- you know, that's not -- there's no issue here. He can -- he's got 26 minutes. He can put on his witness, he can make his closing in the 26 minutes that they've always had.

THE COURT: All right. Well, we have --

MR. MCENTIRE: May I caucus? May I caucus very quickly, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Okay. Uh-huh. And while you're caucusing, we have our game plan on the experts. We know how that's going to happen. And I'm not extending the three hours.

MR. MORRIS: (sotto voce) We have 62 minutes?

(Pause.)

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, accordingly, I'll just -- we'll move into a final argument at this time.

THE COURT: Okay. So you rest?

MR. MCENTIRE: I rest.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. MORRIS: We call Mark Patrick.

THE COURT: All right. Mr. Patrick, you've been called to the witness stand.

MR. MORRIS: I just need to find my examination notes. Just give me one moment, please.

THE COURT: All right. Please raise your right hand. Could you remain standing, please.

(The witness is sworn.)

THE COURT: All right. You may be seated.

MARK PATRICK, DEBTORS' WITNESS, SWORN

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Hi, Mr. Patrick.

A Hello.

Q Did you ever meet with anybody at the Texas State Securities Board?

A No.

Q Do you know if -- do you know anybody who ever met with anybody at the Texas State Securities Board concerning Highland?

A Yes.

Q And who met with the Texas State Securities Board concerning Highland?

A Ronnie (phonetic) Patel.

Q And is that a lawyer?
A Yes.
Q Do you know who retained Mr. -- that lawyer?
A Yes.
Q Who retained that lawyer?
A The DAF, the Charitable DAF Fund. Or one of its entities.
Q Okay. And is it your understanding that the DAF Fund or one of its charitable entities filed a complaint with the Texas State Securities Board?
A Yes.
Q Okay. Thank you very much. Does Hunter Mountain owe any money to Mr. Dondero?
A No.
Q Is there a promissory note that's outstanding that Mr. Dondero has pursuant to which Hunter Mountain owes him $60-plus million?
A No.
Q Who created Hunter Mountain?
A Well, I don't recall specifically. I just recall the facts that, when Hunter Mountain was created, Thomas Surgent, the chief compliance officer of Highland Capital Management, who was representing the Dugaboy Investment Trust as well as Highland Capital legally with respect to that transaction, requested to Rand that the Hunter Mountain Investment Trust be created for purposes of Highland filing its ADV with the SEC.

It was my understanding that when the ADV would be filed, sort of the ownership change would -- chain would stop at Hunter Mountain.

Q Okay. Dugaboy is Mr. Dondero's family trust, correct?

A No. But I'll help you along. Just please use the full name of the trust.

Q If I refer to the Trust, will you know that that's -- is that for the Hunter Mountain Investment Trust, or do you want me to use trust --

A There's no entity called Dugaboy. Just Dugaboy. There's not.

Q Okay.

A It's a shorthand. I'm --

Q Okay. I'll refer to Dugaboy then, okay?

A What are we referring to?

Q The trust known as Dugaboy.

A Okay. Fair enough. Go ahead.

Q Okay. Did Dugaboy contribute a portion of its ownership interest in Highland to the Highland -- to the Hunter Mountain Investment Trust?

A Contribute? No.

Q Did it transfer?

A Yes.

Q And did it receive in exchange a promissory note from Hunter Mountain?

A Yes, it did.
Q Okay. And Mr. Dondero is the lifetime beneficiary of Dugaboy, correct?
A Yes and no. It's a placeholder -- a placeholder provision that's never been used.
MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, pardon me. Pardon me. Objection, relevance, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Relevance?
MR. MORRIS: This is -- we've been told so many times that Mr. Dondero has no interest in this case, he has nothing to do with Hunter Mountain. He's the lifetime beneficiary of Dugaboy. And if I --
THE WITNESS: That provision has never been invoked. He's received no money through that provision.
THE COURT: Okay. Just wait. We're resolving --
MR. MORRIS: Right.
THE COURT: -- an objection at the moment.
BY MR. MORRIS:
Q Can we turn to Exhibit 51?
THE COURT: I'm still working on the objection.
MR. MORRIS: I'm going to try and lay a foundation. Okay?
THE COURT: Okay. So he's withdrawing the question.
MR. MCCLEARY: He's withdrawing the question? Okay.
THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q You have a binder in front of you, sir. Can you go to Exhibit 51?

THE COURT: And this is Highland's Exhibit 51?

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q And is that a promissory note that was made --

A Yes, it is.

Q -- that was made by Hunter Mountain in favor of Dugaboy back in 2015?

MR. MCCLEARY: Objection, relevance, Your Honor.

MR. MORRIS: I'm trying to connect Mr. Dondero to Hunter Mountain.

THE COURT: Okay. Overruled.

THE WITNESS: Yeah. It's a secured promissory note with the amount of approximately $62.6 million signed by Beacon Mountain, LLC, --

MR. MORRIS: Uh-huh.

THE WITNESS: -- as administrator for Hunter Mountain Investment Trust.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Okay. And as the -- what's your role with Hunter Mountain today?

A And it's in favor, just to answer your question, it's in favor of the Dugaboy Investment Trust. That's where I was just being a little stickler --

Q I appreciate that.

A -- previously. Sorry.

Q I do.

A Okay. What is your question?

Q What's your role with Hunter Mountain today?

A I am the administrator.

Q When did you become the administrator?

A On or about August of 2022.

Q Okay. How did you become the administrator?

A Through the acquisition of Rand Advisors.

Q And does Hunter Mountain have any employees?

A No.

Q Does it have any operations?

A No.

Q Does it generate any revenue?

A Not -- not currently.

Q Okay. Did it generate any revenue in 2022?

A No.

Q Does it own any assets?

A Yes.

Q What does it own?

A It has -- it's my understanding it has a contingent beneficiary interest in the Claimants Trust.

Q And that's the only asset it has, right?
A Correct.
Q So that if it -- if that interest has no value, then Hunter Mountain has no ability to pay the Dugaboy note. Fair?
A (sotto voce) If that interest has no value?
That is correct.
Q Okay.
MR. MORRIS: I move Exhibit 51 into evidence.
MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, relevance. Objection.
THE COURT: Your response?
MR. MORRIS: Mr. Dondero desperately needs Hunter Mountain to win in this lawsuit because otherwise his family trust will get nothing on this $63 million note.
THE COURT: Okay. Overrule the objection. It's admitted.
(Debtors' Exhibit 51 is received into evidence.)
BY MR. MORRIS:
Q Neither you or any representative of Hunter Mountain has ever spoken with any representative of Farallon, correct?
A Correct.
Q Neither you nor any representative of Hunter Mountain has ever spoken with anybody at Stonehill, correct?
A Correct.
Q You have -- neither you nor Hunter Mountain have any personal knowledge about a quid pro quo, correct?

A (sotto voce) Nor Hunter Mountain have any personal knowledge about a quid pro quo.

Correct.

Q Neither you nor anybody at Hunter Mountain have any personal knowledge about how Mr. Seery's compensation package was determined, correct?

A Correct.

Q Neither you nor anybody at Hunter Mountain had any knowledge about the terms of Mr. Seery's compensation package until the Highland parties voluntarily disclosed that in opposition to the Hunter Mountain motion, correct?

A No. I --

MR. STANCIL: Objection, relevance, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: No. I seem to -- I seem to have an awareness that the performance fee was amended at a certain time post-confirmation, or, you know, around the confirmation time period. And so that's with respect to the compensation. I -- just myself.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Can you tell Judge Jernigan everything you know or everything you knew before receiving Highland's opposition to this motion about Mr. Seery's compensation as the CEO of the Reorganized Debtor at the Claimant Trustee?

MR. MCCLEARY: Objection, Your Honor. That's overboard and an unclear question.

THE COURT: Overruled. He's gone through some specific things now. I guess he's just trying to encompass anything we haven't covered.

THE WITNESS: Yeah. I had a -- I personally had a general understanding that Mr. Seery's compensation changed after the claims trading to put in a performance-based-type measure. But I do recall that it was always very -- it was unclear exactly the terms.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Okay. Did you learn anything else?

A Such as?

Q Just, did you ever learn anything else about Mr. Seery's compensation package that you haven't testified to yet?

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, objection. Vague.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: No.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Okay. Neither you nor Hunter Mountain has any personal knowledge whatsoever about any due diligence that Stonehill did in connection with the purchase of claims, correct?

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, he's getting into allegations in the complaint which involve attorney work product, so we object on the basis of invading the attorney work product.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: Can you restate the question again?

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Yes, sir. Neither you nor Hunter Mountain have any personal knowledge as to what due diligence Stonehill did before purchasing its claims in this case, correct?

MR. MCCLEARY: Objection. Attorney work product. Invasion of that. Could I --

THE COURT: I just ruled.

MR. MCCLEARY: I understand.

THE COURT: I just --

MR. MCCLEARY: Could I have a running objection to this line of questioning on that basis, Your Honor, invasion of attorney work product?

THE COURT: Why don't you explain why it's attorney work product. I'm missing --

MR. MCCLEARY: Because they might -- he would have knowledge from the efforts and investigation through attorneys in the case. I assume he's not asking -- you can't separate that, potentially. So he's getting into attorney work product.

MR. MORRIS: I'm asking for facts.

THE COURT: He's asking for facts. I overrule.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Can you answer the question, sir?

A Yeah. I'm not aware -- I'm not personally aware of how much work Farallon did, or Stonehill.

Q You have no knowledge whatsoever about the diligence Stonehill did before purchasing its claims, correct?

A Well, I would generalize now is that they did nothing.

Q And that's on the basis of Mr. Dondero's testimony, correct?

A I would just call it on a basis of our general inquiry, which would be including, in part, Mr. Dondero's testimony.

Q What else are you relying upon for your conclusion that you just described other than Mr. Dondero's? What other facts?

A Yeah, we -- yeah, we have not uncovered any facts that indicated that they did conduct any due diligence of any sort.

Q Okay. And are you -- do you have any personal knowledge as to what Farallon did in connection with its due diligence prior to buying its claim?

A Yeah. We have not been able to find any facts that would suggest that Farallon conducted any due diligence of any kind.

Q Okay.

MR. MORRIS: One second, Your Honor.

(Pause.)

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Who's paying Hunter Mountain's legal fees?

A Hunter Mountain is paying -- is legally obligated and paying its own legal fees.

Q If it generates no income and its only assets is the interest in Highland, where is it getting the funds to pay legal fees?

MR. MCCLEARY: Objection, Your Honor. This is irrelevant and invades the attorney-client privilege.

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, I'm happy to read a Fifth Circuit case that says the identity of a third-party payer of attorneys' fees is not privileged. I would refer them to In re Grand Jury Subpoena, 913 F.2d 1118, a 1990 Fifth Circuit case. I can read from Judge Jones' opinion, but you tell me how much you want to hear on this.

THE COURT: Okay. I overrule your objection. He can answer.

THE WITNESS: There is a settlement agreement by Hunter Mountain Investment Trust as well as the Dugaboy Investment Trust that provides for the payment of attorney fees.

MR. MORRIS: No further questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Cross?

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor, briefly.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MCCLEARY:

Q Mr. Patrick, how would you describe Mr. Dondero's relationship with Hunter Mountain Investment Trust today?

A None.
Q You were asked some -- let me ask you about litigation, and litigation involving the sub-trust. Has Hunter Mountain been involved in litigation with Mr. Kirschner?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And what is your understanding of Mr. Kirschner's role?
MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, while I would love for them to continue --
MR. MCCLEARY: He's the --
MR. MORRIS: -- to use their time, I object that it's beyond the scope of my examination. They passed on the witness. They rested their case. He should be limited to the scope of my inquiry.
THE COURT: Okay. How does this tie to direct?
MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, it -- just very generally. This is --
THE COURT: Okay. I need to know how it ties to the direct.
MR. MCCLEARY: This doesn't tie directly to the direct, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Then it's beyond the scope, you acknowledge?
MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Okay. Sustained, then.

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay.

BY MR. MCCLEARY:

Q Mr. Patrick, has Hunter Mountain Investment filed any litigation as a plaintiff other than its efforts to be a plaintiff in this lawsuit and its action as a petitioner in the Rule 201 matter earlier this year in Dallas state court?

A The 202.

Q 202, yes.

A No, it has not.

Q All right. And then it's -- has it been a party, then, to any other litigation other than the efforts to file this action, the Rule 202 action, and has it been a defendant in any lawsuits?

A To my understanding, no.

Q Is it involved as a defendant in the Kirschner litigation?

A Yes.

Q Mr. Kirschner is suing Hunter Mountain; is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q Okay. So, is Hunter Mountain a vexatious litigant?

MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. This is now really beyond the scope. We're not doing -- this is -- we're not doing it. I'm not letting -- because there's a vexatious litigant motion pending now in the district court right now before Judge Starr. This has nothing to do with anything I asked.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCCLEARY: They're trying to draw --

THE COURT: You've already asked him is it a party in any other litigation besides the 202 and this attempted one, so where are we going with this?

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, they're just trying to draw Mr. Dondero into this and -- this vexatious litigant argument, and we're just developing the fact that obviously Hunter Mountain has only filed -- attempting to file this action and a Rule 202 proceeding. So they're not involved in a lot of litigation and they're not a vexatious litigant.

THE COURT: Okay. I think I'll sustain that and we can just move on.

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay. Then I'll pass the witness. Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Any redirect?

MR. MORRIS: No, thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. You are excused, Mr. Patrick.

(The witness steps down.)

THE COURT: Anything else?

MR. MORRIS: Just a time check for both sides and let's get to closings.

THE COURT: Okay. Caroline?

THE CLERK: Movant has 23 minutes left and the Respondents have 47.

THE COURT: 23 and 47. Any other evidence from the Respondents?

MR. MORRIS: That is a fair question.

(Discussion.)

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, I just want to confirm that all the exhibits that they did not object to have been admitted into evidence.

THE COURT: All right. Well, let me --

MR. MCCLEARY: We do offer them.

MR. MORRIS: Oh.

THE COURT: Hang on.

MR. MORRIS: Did I get Exhibit 45, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Just a moment. I'm doing two things at once here. 45 is in.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: All right. On HMIT's exhibits, okay, first, as we all know, 29 through 52 are carried until -- if we have another hearing with the experts.

(HMIT's Exhibits 29 through 52 carried.)

THE COURT: I'm showing we have -- and speak up if anyone questions this -- I show that we have Hunter Mountain Exhibits 3 and 4, and then 7 through 10, 12 through 23, and 26 through 38, and 53 through 57, 64, 65, and then 67 through seventy --

(HMIT's Exhibits 3, 4, 7-10, 12-23, 26-38, 53-57, 64, 65, 67-70 are received into evidence.)

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, I apologize. From 36 -- 26 to 32 are in?

THE COURT: I believe that was part of the stipulation, Mr. Morris, right?

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes.

MR. MORRIS: I think that's right.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: We really didn't object to very many.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. MCCLEARY: That would be 25, too. That would include 25?

MR. STANCIL: No. Objection. 25 is not --

THE COURT: It's not admitted.

MR. STANCIL: It's not in evidence.

THE COURT: 25 and 24 were not admitted.

MR. MORRIS: Correct. Those are my emails.

THE COURT: Okay. So --

MR. MCCLEARY: 25 is an article.

THE COURT: Your 25 was John Morris Email Re: Text Messages dated March 10, 2023.

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay.

THE COURT: Okay. I can't remember where I left off. I think I left off -- I'll just repeat after the expert exhibits that are carried. I've admitted 53 through 57. I have admitted 64, 65, 67 through 71.

(HMIT's Exhibit 71 is received into evidence.)

Now, I'm not sure if I ended up admitting 72. That was the articles. I can't remember if you stipulated on that finally.

MR. MORRIS: I said they --

MR. MCCLEARY: They had no objection.

MR. MORRIS: -- they come in --

THE COURT: Not for the truth of the matter asserted.

MR. MORRIS: -- self -- exactly.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Self-authenticating.

THE COURT: So 72 is in.

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay.

(HMIT's Exhibit 72 is received into evidence.)

THE COURT: Then we had some pleadings. I think 73, 74, 75 are in, but again, not for the truth of the matter asserted in any advocacy on 73 and 74. And then 77, 78, 79 are in. And that's it.

(HMIT's Exhibits 73, 74, 75, 77, 78, and 79 are received into evidence.)

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, I didn't make an appearance, but I was taking notes (inaudible).

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, I believe 80 should be in.

MR. MORRIS: No objection to 80. It's on our -- it's part of our Exhibit 5.

THE COURT: Okay. 80 is in. Admitted.

(HMIT's exhibit 80 is received into evidence.)

MR. MORRIS: Yeah. That's really Section A of that thing that I gave you this morning.

THE COURT: If Ms. Deitsch-Perez wants to consult with the Hunter Mountain lawyers, she can. I don't know --

MR. MORRIS: Can I go through quickly mine, Your Honor? Because we actually never had the opportunity to put our exhibits in.

THE COURT: Okay. Let's make sure we're to --

MR. MORRIS: Okay. I'm sorry. I'm sorry.

THE COURT: -- closure on the Hunter Mountain exhibits.

MR. MORRIS: I'm sorry.

THE COURT: Anything I said that you disagree with? I don't think --

(Pause.)

THE COURT: Okay. Let's hurry up. What is the controversy?

A VOICE: Roger? The Court's addressing you.

MR. MCCLEARY: Oh. Excuse me, Your Honor. So, just a little unclear of whether you have Exhibits 21 through 25 admitted.

THE COURT: I have 21, 22, and 23. Not 24. Not 25.

Okay. Anything else?

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay. Then we do offer 24 and 25.

THE COURT: You offered them. I did not admit them.

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay. 76. I believe -- was that -- you're carrying?

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Carried.

MR. MCCLEARY: You're carrying that?

THE COURT: Okay. I carried that and --

MR. MCCLEARY: It's part of the expert issue.

THE COURT: Okay. Yes, part of the expert. So it's carried.

(HMIT's Exhibit 76 is carried.)

(Pause.)

MR. MCCLEARY: I understand you've admitted 53 through 83, although some of them have now not been approved.

THE COURT: All right. Well, we need to clarify. 58 through 63, you think you offered them and I admitted them, but not for the truth? I remember that being discussed for 58 through 63. Are you actually offering them?

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes. 58 through 63.

THE COURT: All right. And Mr. Morris, you ultimately agreed that yes, but not for the truth of the matter asserted?

MR. MORRIS: That's right, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. So they are admitted. Okay.

(HMIT's Exhibits 58 through 63 are received into evidence.)

THE COURT: And then there was an objection to the Mark Patrick declaration for the same thing, not for the truth of the matter asserted.

MR. MORRIS: Exactly.

THE COURT: But you agree as long as it's --

MR. MORRIS: Correct.

THE COURT: Okay. So what that means is, to recap, 53 through 75 are admitted, although some of those are only -- they're not for the truth of the matter asserted. And then 77 through 80 are admitted. Okay?

MR. MCCLEARY: And 76? We offered 76.

THE COURT: That's -- we carried it. We carried it. It relates to the expert.

MR. MCCLEARY: Carried it.

(Pause.)

MR. MCCLEARY: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Now let's straighten out Highland's exhibits. So, I'm showing 1 through 16 have been admitted, and then 25 through 31-A?

MR. MORRIS: 25 through 31-A?

THE COURT: I'm sorry. Yes. 25 through 31-A.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: And then 34. And then 39, 40, 41, and then 45. 51, 59, and 60.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. So I'm going to do my best not to burden the Court. I'm trying to focus. We move for the admission into evidence of Exhibit 32, which is Mr. Dondero's objection to the HarbourVest settlement. And the reason that we're offering it is because he made no mention of any concern at all that the settlement implicated material nonpublic inside information.

THE COURT: All right. Any objection?

MR. MCCLEARY: 32?

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor. Relevance and hearsay.

THE COURT: Overruled. And I can take judicial notice of it in any event.

(Debtors' Exhibit 32 is received into evidence.)

MR. MORRIS: We move for the admission into evidence of Exhibit 33, which is the recent letter from the Texas State Securities Board declining to take any action after conducting an investigation of the Dugaboy complaint.

THE COURT: Okay. Any objection?

MR. MCCLEARY: We object on the grounds of relevance, 403, hearsay, and authenticity, Your Honor.

And I also, I think it's important that the decision by a regulatory body has no bearing on this cause of action or the colorability of this claim, and the Texas State Securities Board will tell you that. This is completely and utterly irrelevant to your inquiry, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. I overrule the relevance objection. Certainly, it goes to colorability. It's some evidence. It's some evidence. A regulatory body did not choose to go forward --

MR. MCCLEARY: But that could be for --

THE COURT: -- on the complaint.

MR. MCCLEARY: That could be for reasons entirely unrelated.

THE COURT: True, true. It's some evidence.

MR. MORRIS: That's speculation.

MR. MCCLEARY: Not for this.

THE COURT: But what is the authenticity objection?

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, there's no demonstration. I don't believe they sponsored that with anyone.

THE COURT: Pardon? Say again?

MR. MCCLEARY: They didn't sponsor that with anyone.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I actually -- if they really put me to it, because I was reading the Rules of Evidence in the wee hours of the morning, I am certain that there's an exception for government documents and government statements and government decisions.

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, as to its authenticity, I could produce a witness from Highland who said they got it, if that's really what we're doing. That it's the letter, they got it from the TSSB, if we're really doing authenticity.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, first of all, it's hearsay and there is no authenticity issue and it's irrelevant. I understand --

MR. STANCIL: What is the authenticity issue, Mr. McEntire?

THE COURT: I'm trying to understand the authenticity issue. You think this is a --

MR. STANCIL: Do you think it's a real letter or a fake letter?

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, first of all, I'm going to address the Court and not you, okay?

Your Honor, --

THE COURT: Well, address by speaking in a --

MR. MCENTIRE: Yeah. Thank you.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm just saving the court reporter from grief, okay?

MR. MCENTIRE: It is hearsay, and it is hearsay that is calculated to be misrepresented or mischaracterized because it's utter speculation as to the basis for their decision. And if it's -- utter speculation is the basis of your decision, it has no reason to come in. There's no --

THE COURT: What you're telling me, it goes to the weight of the evidence. Okay?

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, --

THE COURT: Okay. You're not telling me it's inadmissible hearsay.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, it is inadmissible hearsay.

MR. MORRIS: Can I just, for one second?

THE COURT: Please.

MR. MORRIS: Paragraph 34 of their motion, Your Honor. Quote, "The Court also should be aware that the Texas State Securities Board opened an investigation into the subject matter of the insider tradings at issue, and this investigation has not been closed. The continuing nature of this investigation underscores HMIT's position that the claims described in the attached adversary proceeding are plausible and certainly far more than merely colorable."

They used the investigation to try to convince you that their claims are colorable, and now we have a letter saying there's nothing.

THE COURT: Okay. You want to explain that to me?

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, we put no evidence in, in this proceeding --

THE COURT: You put what?

MR. MCENTIRE: We have put no evidence in, in this proceeding, --

THE COURT: You filed a pleading under Rule 11 suggesting this was highly relevant, right?

MR. MCENTIRE: We filed a motion. Yes, we did.

THE COURT: Under Rule 11.

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes. Of course we did.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: Of course we did.

THE COURT: Suggesting this Texas State Securities Board complaint and investigation was highly relevant.

MR. MCENTIRE: The fact that it had opened an investigation and was conducting an investigation is irrelevant. Its decision to stop the investigation without further elaboration or clarification, this is why it calls for utter speculation.

MR. MORRIS: Your --

THE COURT: Okay. Do you have the hearsay exception that applies? I'm looking at my evidence rules right now for the government record or public record. Is it 803(8) that we need to have addressed here?

MR. STANCIL: 803(8), Your Honor.

A VOICE: Yeah, public records.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. STANCIL: Public record. Sets out --

THE COURT: Public records, 803(8), hearsay exception. Moreover, you pled allegations suggesting this investigation was really relevant. So I overrule your objection, and so that means 33 is admitted.

(Debtors' Exhibit 33 is received into evidence.)

MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor. I continue. Exhibit 36 --

MR. MCENTIRE: Which one was that?

MR. MORRIS: That was 33.

So now we're up to 36, Your Honor. I'm going to skip some of these.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: But this is just the Court's order approving Mr. Seery's original --

THE COURT: I'm waiting for any objection for the record. Do we have an objection, Mr. McCleary?

MR. MCCLEARY: 36, relevance, Your Honor.

MR. MORRIS: The relevance is that this Court approved without objection Mr. Seery's compensation package in an amount that included a base salary of $150,000, which the Claimant Purchasers and the independent director saw fit to continue.

THE COURT: Objection overruled. It's admitted.

(Debtors' Exhibit 36 is received into evidence.)

MR. MORRIS: I think 38 may be on their list. Yeah, 38 is in as their 26, right? So that should be admitted.

THE COURT: Admitted.

(Debtors' Exhibit 38 is received into evidence.)

MR. MCCLEARY: If it's on our list, we agree.

THE COURT: Okay. It's admitted.

MR. MORRIS: That's it, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Do you all need a five-minute break before we do closing arguments?

MR. MORRIS: I'd be grateful.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor. Thank you.

THE COURT: Will do.

THE CLERK: All rise

(A recess ensued from 5:49 p.m. to 5:57 p.m.)

THE CLERK: All rise.

THE COURT: All right. Please be seated.

We're back on the record in the Highland matter. Closing arguments. Just for everyone's benefit, time -- you said 47 minutes and 23 minutes back several minutes ago, and then we had all the housekeeping stuff. So I'm not sure if that's where we are right now or if --

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm waiting for my monitor guy to be here.

THE COURT: Okay. Okay.

So Caroline, is it still 47 and 23?

THE CLERK: Yes.

THE COURT: That's when we started the housekeeping stuff.

MR. MCENTIRE: So 27 minutes?

THE COURT: Twenty-three.

THE CLERK: Twenty-three.

MR. MCENTIRE: Twenty-three? Can I get a five-minute warning, please? Would you pull up the PowerPoint? And let's go to Slide 39.

May I proceed, Your Honor?

THE COURT: You may.

CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF HUNTER MOUNTAIN INVESTMENT TRUST

MR. MCENTIRE: So, before I go to the PowerPoint, I'd like to kind of give a high-altitude overview of the situation as I see it from the evidence perspective. We don't believe this should have been an evidentiary hearing. Evidence has been allowed.

We had a situation where, if you believe Mr. Dondero's testimony as contrasted with Mr. Seery's testimony, you have a credibility issue. So the Court is now conducting an inquiry presumably on the basis in part on the credibility of witnesses. And if you engage -- and if you want to indulge that type of inquiry, the credibility of witnesses, without allowing the Plaintiff in this case or the Movant in this case to conduct some level of meaningful discovery, I would suggest we have been deprived of due process, because without documents to test Mr. Seery's statements, we are being deprived of something that's basically very fundamental in our judicial process.

And therefore, it underscores our argument and our rationale why this shouldn't be an evidentiary hearing, because I don't believe the Court can consider credibility issues.

We have, on the one hand, unequivocal notes from Mr. Dondero prepared contemporaneously that would suggest that someone admitted to him and stated to him that they did in fact obtain material nonpublic information. Mr. Seery says that didn't happen. I specifically said, is that a lie? Yes, it's not true. Well, that's a real problem, because that's not the criteria that this Court should use for determining whether we have a colorable claim. A colorable claim is whether there is some possibility. It's something less, even less stringent than a 12(b)(6) standard, plausibility. We have that.

If you look at our pleadings, we have set forth all of the facts we need, all the elements we need to establish a trade on material inside information, nonpublic information. We have evidence -- we have allegations that there was no due diligence. And Farallon's lawyer stood up here -- well, I'm not going to really address that today. But if there was any day to address it, it was today. We have no evidence to suggest they did do due diligence. Even Mr. Seery said, I don't know what due diligence they did. We have evidence to suggest that the only due diligence they did was to talk to Mr. Seery, who has told -- who told them that this is very valuable, don't -- this is a really good -- a good investment here, it's a lot better than the 71 percent that's on our disclosures.

And Judge, that evidence supports the colorability of the claim. And if you go down the pathway of saying, well, I'm not sure about Mr. Dondero because he had been held in contempt two years ago, that's a real problem. That's a problem for this Court. And I'm going to suggest that's why this should have been a four-corners deliberation. Even Farallon and Stonehill suggest this should be a four-corners deliberation.

We have evidence now of no due diligence. We have evidence before you that suggests that they did learn about MGM before the announcement date. We have evidence that Mr. Seery did trade on -- did -- was aware and received information of material nonpublic information. And for him, a CEO of his reputed stature, to sit here and say that was not material and that was nonpublic defies common sense. It defies reasonableness. That goes to credibility.

Mr. Dondero's notes speak volumes. The trades themselves speak volumes. Mr. Dondero established that the interest -- return of interest here is to be less than one -- it's in the one digits, and hedge funds trade in the 30, 40, 50 percent range. Well, if that's the case, we have Farallon walking away from a return on the exit financing of 13 percent, and that wasn't good enough for him. How could six percent be good enough for him? There's something missing here. There's something not right.

And we're entitled to get our lawsuit on file and do some discovery. And if they want to do a 12(b)(6), they do a 12(b)(6). If they want to do a Rule 56 after discovery, they could do a Rule 56, all in this Court. But to address this threshold issue now based upon this, what happened here today, is a fundamental denial of due process.

I'd like to go to my pleadings.

Can you go to Slide 39, please?

First of all, let there be no doubt -- 39. Slide 39. 38. 38, please.

We can plead on information and belief. We have a right to plead on information and belief. And the Fifth Circuit -- that is an acknowledged procedural practice in the Fifth Circuit. And if some of our allegations are based upon information and belief, so be it. The test here is not at this stage. The test here is whether I have sufficient factual allegations, whether on information and belief or otherwise, to satisfy at most a plausibility standard. That's it.

And if they want to challenge us at a later date, they can. Rule 56. 12(b)(6). Or standing. But we have standing. We have standing. We have standing under Delaware law. We're a contingent beneficial interest that has standing under Delaware law and all other law. All -- even Texas agrees that a contingent interest has standing, an inchoate interest as Mr. Seery described. A property interest. You have property interest, you have standing.

THE COURT: Let me ask you.

And Caroline, turn the clock off when the Court interrupts.

Just so you know, I mean, my analysis here is standing first. Does your client have standing? Because we all know that's a subject matter jurisdiction inquiry and I have to explore that first. And then I've said many times the legal standard question for colorability. That's kind of the second place I go --

MR. MCENTIRE: Sure.

THE COURT: -- if I find there's standing. But can you tell me, have there been appellate decisions that are relevant today on standing? Contrary to what people may expect, I don't follow every appellate decision from every appeal in the Highland case. Okay? I wait until I get a mandate --

MR. MCENTIRE: Sure.

THE COURT: -- to where I have to act on something.

MR. MCENTIRE: Sure.

THE COURT: So I feel like I've learned at some point that some either district judge or Fifth Circuit said some party didn't have standing. And I don't know if it was Hunter Mountain or some other trust.

MR. MCENTIRE: Not --

THE COURT: And is there anything they said that, if it wasn't Hunter Mountain, could be relevant here?

MR. MCENTIRE: I hope somebody kicks me if I'm wrong, what I'm about to say. I'm not aware of any such issue --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: -- dealing with Hunter Mountain Investment Trust. I am not.

THE COURT: But any other party that might somehow bear on this case?

MR. MORRIS: I apologize, Your Honor, I was distracted. For which issue?

THE COURT: Standing. Because I was saying my first thing I've got to tackle in ruling on this is standing of Hunter Mountain. And I seem to remember learning that either the district court on an appeal or the Fifth Circuit on some appeal from Highland --

MR. MORRIS: Correct.

THE COURT: -- said some party didn't have standing.

MR. MORRIS: Correct.

THE COURT: And I don't know if it was --

MR. MORRIS: Dugaboy on the 2015.3, for sure, was a Fifth Circuit standing decision.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I think there was a district court order that preceded that.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: That was the subject of the appeal.

THE COURT: The Dugaboy --

MR. MORRIS: 2015.3.

THE COURT: -- motion to require those --

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

THE COURT: -- 2015.3 statements. Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: So what we have here -- we can go back on the clock if you'd like.

THE COURT: Yes, please.

MR. MCENTIRE: How much time do I have?

THE CLERK: You have just under 16 minutes.

MR. MCENTIRE: Sixteen? Okay. Give me a two-minute warning. Sorry.

Your Honor, what we have here --

THE COURT: I don't think the U.S. Supreme Court justices will give you a two-minute warning, but maybe I'm wrong.

MR. MCENTIRE: Would you give me a two-minute warning, please?

THE COURT: And I'm sure not a Supreme Court justice.

MR. MCENTIRE: What we have here is we have a 99.5 percent equity interest that has now been relegated to a category of contingent interest, which we don't believe we should be, and that's part of our declaratory judgment relief we're asking for, which we have standing to do that at a minimum because we want to be treated like a Class 9.

If they want to treat us like a Class 10, I have an argument for that, and it's more than colorable. It's persuasive. It's -- it is a winning argument. And that is we do have standing in our individual capacity, and we have given you a whole bunch of cases in our PowerPoint, or we will give you a whole bunch of cases in our PowerPoint and in our briefing to support that.

We also have given you Delaware case law that says we have standing under Delaware trust law to bring a derivative action against the Trustee. We have done everything appropriate here.

We have the -- a demand upon Seery obviously would be futile to prosecute the claim. A demand upon the Oversight Board would be futile to make a demand on Muck and Jessup, because they're Defendants and they're SPEs of Farallon and Stonehill. And a demand upon Mr. Kirschner would be futile. They suggest that there's an assignment of some sort, but that would be a modification -- of the claims over to the Litigation Trust, but that would be a modification of the plan.

There's been no assignment of this claim, or these claims, to the Litigation Trust Trustee. But even if there had been, we pled that in the alternative as well. And it would be futile to make a demand on Mr. Kirschner because he's suing Hunter Mountain.

So we are an appropriate party. The only, then, issue becomes whether or not we have standing under Delaware law to bring a derivative action. And we have briefed that and we -- and that's included in our PowerPoint. The answer is yes.

I'd like to go briefly to Page -- next slide.

In our factual section, we set forth why this investment would defy any kind of rational economic sense in the absence of material nonpublic information as a factual allegation supported by data, supported by dates, supported by time.

Based upon that, we also have allegations that are framed around the admissions that Mr. Michael Linn provided. We have allegations that he turned down a 30 or 40 percent premium in our petition. We have allegations that they admitted that they did no due diligence. We have allegations that they admitted that they got material -- basically information about MGM.

And again, it's not all about MGM. It's about the values of all the portfolio companies. They want to make it about MGM. If they do, we win. But it's much broader than that.

And we have standing to bring this claim because if we're right Mr. Seery will have to return excess compensation and the Claims Purchasers will have to disgorge. And that's going to help not just Hunter Mountain. That's going to help other creditors who haven't been paid yet.

So this is not exclusively -- Hunter Mountain would substantially benefit. I'm not suggesting otherwise. But it also benefits innocent stakeholders other than Hunter Mountain. And that's why we are an appropriate party. We don't have a conflict of interest to bring this. Everybody on their side of the table does. There's no one else who could bring this.

Your Honor, it's very clear when the trades took place. We give dates and times. It's very clear that -- next slide, 40. It's very clear that their investment was over $160 million. If it isn't, I don't see any denials. All we got today was a lame statement from the lawyer saying we're not here today to deny this.

MR. MORRIS: I'm offended.

THE COURT: He's offended by being called lame.

MR. MCENTIRE: Not you lame personally.

MR. MORRIS: Oh, thanks for the clarification.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: A lame statement by you. In fact, it wasn't even you, so --

In any event, Your Honor, --

MR. MORRIS: I've been called worse.

MR. MCENTIRE: -- the point being is that there was no -- there's not -- never been an attempt to deny the factual allegations in our pleadings dealing with Farallon and Stonehill. None at all.

And so -- not that that's ultimately relevant, because that's an evidentiary issue outside of the four corners of our pleading, but it does -- it just stands out and screams. It screams. And it screams volumes.

So right, now based upon our pleadings -- we even plead in Paragraph 42, Paragraph 42, exactly what they invested. This is what you have before you. No one has disputed it. It's in the four corners of our pleading. We've got dates, times, amounts. We have admissions to Mr. -- well, we have admissions from Michael Linn, Paragraph 47. We have -- we do plead upon information and belief the quid pro quo on compensation. And frankly, the evidence here today is that the compensation is excessive. And the experts will further confirm that it is excessive. $1.8 million with a bonus program in place to pay him another $8, $9, $10 million, when in fact the risks don't exist and there's no uncertainty and therefore the percentages make no sense. That's --

THE COURT: What do you mean, the risks don't exist and there is no uncertainty?

MR. MCENTIRE: If Mr. Seery is telling Farallon and Stonehill don't sell, this could be really valuable, it's inconsistent with the notion that the schedule and the performance -- performance schedule in the compensation agreement is rationally justified. Because if it's really certain or it's likely you're going to make a lot of money, there's no reason to give him six percent to incentivize him because it's already a done deal.

And the whole point here is that I scratch your back, you scratch mine. They make a lot of money on their deal and he gets a lot of money on the backside post-effective date. Post-effective date.

Next slide, 49.

It would have been impossible, based upon the publicly-available information in Paragraph 49, impossible for Stonehill and Farallon, in the absence of inside information, to forecast any significant profit when they made their investments. It's not possible. Because given the amount of the Claim 8 and Claim 9 claims -- they actually invested in Claim 9 with a zero return. It's projected to be a negative result. On Claim 8, even if you allocate their entire purchase price to Claim 8, they're going to get something less than a 10 percent return paid out over a couple years. Nobody invests that kind of money in an unsecured creditor asset that hasn't been collateralized. There's something wrong here.

And we have a right to have our day in court to show that. We have our right to take a true deposition of Mr. Seery with documents. We have a right to take Farallon and Stonehill's deposition with documents. And we have tried to get information and we have been turned down at every turn. We have a right to have our day in court, Your Honor.

We have allegations of excessive compensation. I know Mr. Morris suggested the other day that we didn't have any such allegations. They're here. The whole idea here is that Mr. Seery would really profit on the backside. And, you know, he actually testified, I believe -- I won't do that because that's outside the four corners of our pleading. But the -- there is a quid pro quo. We allege there's a quid pro quo upon information and belief. And we also allege willfully and knowingly, we allege conduct that falls clearly within the exceptions.

None of this -- none of these claims were released. Mr. Seery's not an exculpated party in the context of how we -- proposing to sue him here. None of the protected parties, to the extent that Muck and Jessup claim to be protected parties, they're not protected here, because all of the claims we're making are on the basis of willful misconduct and bad faith, which are the standards that they used and incorporated in the plan and in the gatekeeper provisions.

How much time do I have?

THE CLERK: Right now you have --

MR. MCENTIRE: Thirty seconds?

THE CLERK: -- seven minutes left.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. Next slide, please.

Mr. Seery has admitted that he has a duty to avoid self-dealing. We allege that he did self-deal. There is clearly a relationship. We have a right to explore the depths of that relationship. Well, already we know there is a relationship. We have investments in charities, contributions to charities, meet-and-greets, congratulatory emails. It's not as if Farallon and Stonehill are strangers, or Mr. Seery's a stranger to them. It's not like that at all. They contacted him to get involved.

And by placing -- by acquiring these claims -- and by the way, this is the most significant trading activity in your bankruptcy, in this bankruptcy proceeding. Post-confirmation. Post-confirmation. By acquiring these claims, they were guaranteed to be put onto the Oversight Board. By acquiring these claims, they were guaranteed to be put in a position -- into a position where they would adjust, monitor, compensate Mr. Seery. That's the terms of the Claimant Trust. Those are the terms.

And it's interesting, because one of the amendments that's in evidence to the plan, I think it's either the third or the fourth amendment, that came out of nowhere right before confirmation, they changed the structure of the Claimant Trust to go off a standard base pay and added in a bonus structure at the last minute. That's evidence.

Mr. Seery has acknowledged, we have alleged he had duties to avoid self-dealing, to always look out for the best interests of the estate, to avoid conflicts of interest. Well, here, to the extent that there is a quid pro quo, he is self-dealing and he has injured the Reorganized Debtor and he's injured the Claimant Trust, because that's just less money.

And we also allege, Your Honor, it's also an allegation that --

THE COURT: And let me ask, the sole injury here is compensation was more than it would have been if not for the sale of the claims to Farallon and Stonehill --

MR. MCENTIRE: That's one of the injuries.

THE COURT: -- and therefore less money at the end of the day for creditors and ultimately Hunter Mountain?

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes. And we also allege that, as part of this arrangement, conspiracy, as we allege conspiracy, we have seen over $200 million flow out of the coffers of this estate in the form of --

THE COURT: What do you mean, as a result of the alleged conspiracy? What do you mean?

MR. MCENTIRE: A delay, a postponement, making long-term payouts, keeping the litigation alive. They actually suggested to Mr. Linn, don't settle these claims, don't sell out, because this is asset-backed, and we also have claims. And so --

THE COURT: Wait, what? Say again?

MR. MCENTIRE: One of the things that Mr. Linn told Mr. Dondero, according to Mr. Dondero's notes, is we have -- this is very valuable, we're buying assets and we're buying into claims, the litigation claims that are being asserted in this bankruptcy proceeding.

THE COURT: Yes. Got it.

MR. MCENTIRE: Yeah. And so the whole idea here is, is that people are funneling money in and taking money out of the coffers of this estate to fuel future litigation in order to have a bigger payday at the end for Class 8 and Class 9. That's exactly what those notes suggest.

THE COURT: I don't understand the correlation. What correlation are you making? Because of the claims being purchased, what?

MR. MCENTIRE: The claims being purchased allow Muck and Jessup to be in a position to award compensation. We've talked about that.

THE COURT: I got that.

MR. MCENTIRE: That's one type of injury. The other injury is, and we have alleged it, is the fact that these claims become very valuable not only because they're asset-backed but because also the litigation claims that Mr. Kirschner is prosecuting.

THE COURT: But how does the purchase of the claims impact that? They were allowed claims at certain amounts before, and after the purchase they're still allowed claims.

MR. MCENTIRE: Mr. Seery is telling them that, basically, this is our plan, this is what we're doing, this is --

THE COURT: That was the plan of reorganization that was confirmed by the Court. I don't get how something changed. I'm trying to get to what are the injuries that your client has suffered. And I get the compensation argument you're making, but I don't get the rest of it.

MR. MCENTIRE: If Mr. Dondero had been in a position, or one of his entities had been in a position, or even Hunter Mountain, and I'm not sure why Hunter Mountain -- be in a position to have acquired the claims, then we would -- this bankruptcy wouldn't even be in existence anymore. It'd be over. All creditors would be paid. It would be done. Be over. And that is an allegation we have made --

THE COURT: How do I know that?

MR. MCENTIRE: Because all the creditors would have been paid off.

THE COURT: How do I know, if he would have purchased the claims, that's what would have happened?

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, that's what he testified to today here. I don't want to get off on a rabbit trail.

THE COURT: I'm trying to understand the injury, --

MR. MCENTIRE: Sure. I understand.

THE COURT: -- because that's part of my analysis here.

MR. MCENTIRE: The focus, the focus is on the compensation. And once they aid and abet, once they aid and abet a breach of fiduciary duties, they are subject to disgorgement, and disgorgement of all of their ill-gotten gains. And the ill-gotten gains are now well over -- approaching over $100,000 million.

THE COURT: How do you get to that number?

MR. MCENTIRE: Easily. We know how much they purchased, which has never been denied. We know how much has been distributed to Class 8. And we know what percentage of Class 8 they own. They own about 95 percent of all Class 8 claims. So if $270,000 million has been distributed to Class 8, they got 90 percent of that, 95 percent of it has already gone to them, Farallon and Stonehill.

THE COURT: But it would have gone to the sellers of the claims as well. I'm trying to make the connection.

MR. MCENTIRE: That's not the injury. The injury is what -- that is a consequence of their conduct. The injury is the compensation. All right? That's a distinct injury. They are subject to disgorgement as a consequence because they have done wrong, and the law should not tolerate -- should not tolerate and allow wrongdoers to get away. And that's where the unjust enrichment and disgorge --

THE COURT: And what are your best cases for that, that they would have to disgorge --

MR. MCENTIRE: We have cited --

THE COURT: -- the Purchasers would have to disgorge --

MR. MCENTIRE: We have cited cases in our brief.

THE COURT: I'm asking you now to --

MR. MCENTIRE: I don't have them in front of me right this second. But an aider and abettor --

THE COURT: The CVC case, is that your best case?

MR. MCENTIRE: I don't have the cases in front of me. I can say this, that the case law is robust, and I can supply you --

THE COURT: It is not robust. That's why I'm asking you to zero in. I read your CVC case from the Third Circuit, and I'm wondering, is that your strongest case?

MR. MCENTIRE: No. I think we -- I think we have a lot of strong cases. I'm not sure that it is the strongest.

THE COURT: Tell me which ones, so I --

MR. MCENTIRE: Ma'am, I just said I don't have it in front of me. If you'll look --

THE COURT: Okay. Well, this is closing argument where you present law in support of your position.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, actually, I'm arguing facts right now. But Your Honor, what I want to tell you is if you'd like me to submit a letter brief on that, I will.

THE COURT: No.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. Then I won't. It's in my brief. All of our authorities are in the brief.

In conclusion, --

THE COURT: Okay. So that was the CVC case from the Third Circuit which dealt with an insider who purchased claims, statutory insider, a board member, a 28-percent equity owner, who purchased claims during the case to be in a position to file a competing plan and didn't disclose to the board or file a 3001(e) notice. Okay. There was -- claims shouldn't be allowed at more than what the purchaser paid for it.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm asking you, is that your best case? Because you also cited Adelphia, which seemed kind of factually off the mark. And so I really --

MR. MCENTIRE: I -- I'm sorry, --

THE COURT: I need to know, because I've made clear from the beginning, --

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes.

THE COURT: -- I'm struggling with how is there a cause of action related to claims trading.

MR. MCENTIRE: (chuckles)

THE COURT: I don't know why you're giggling. This is --

MR. MCENTIRE: No, I'm not. But --

THE COURT: -- serious stuff. Okay?

MR. MCENTIRE: Agreed. Agreed.

THE COURT: A bankruptcy estate is being charged ka-ching, ka-ching -- not bankruptcy estate -- the post-confirmation trust. Ka-ching, ka-ching, ka-ching. So this is serious stuff.

MR. MCENTIRE: Agreed.

THE COURT: I need to, you know, colorable claim.

MR. MCENTIRE: Agreed.

THE COURT: Colorable claim.

MR. MCENTIRE: Agreed.

THE COURT: Even if plausibility is the standard, which I've expressed my doubt about that, how do you have a plausible claim? What is your best case?

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. This --

THE COURT: Just to recap what I'm focused on, purchaser and seller, okay? I can see where breach of contract, maybe some sort of torts between those two. Okay. I can see where the U.S. Trustee, the SEC, I don't know, the Texas State Securities Board, they might get concerned about allegations of insider trading and there might be a regulatory action. But the estate? Again, the post-confirmation trust --

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay.

THE COURT: -- and a contingent beneficiary. I'm trying to understand what is the best legal authority that might support a colorable claim. And we talked about the CVC case and Adelphia. I'm trying to figure out what are other cases you think I should really hone in on to understand this.

MR. MCENTIRE: All right. At the very beginning this morning, during my opening statement, I had said this is not your typical claims-handling case, because I recall from our last conference you asked that question a couple of times. This is not your typical claims-handling case. And it's not a typical claims-handling case because we have a fiduciary that we claim breached his duties that were owed to the estate. And he self-dealt. And he -- this has nothing to do with the plan. This has something to do with what Mr. Seery did outside the corners of the plan. Perhaps he used the plan expediently. He self-dealt.

That's why this is not just between a seller and a buyer of a claim. That's number one.

We have been denied an opportunity to discover the communications between the sellers and the buyers, and my guess is we have big boy agreements that prevent the sellers from ever coming back at anybody for fraud. My expectation, that's the case. We should have a right to go explore that. So that's why they're not here.

THE COURT: Why? I mean, what would that tell you? What would that tell you?

MR. MCENTIRE: That --

THE COURT: If there's a big boy agreement, if there's not, what --

MR. MCENTIRE: It would tell us --

THE COURT: -- consequence would that have for this --

MR. MCENTIRE: It would tell us --

THE COURT: -- proposed lawsuit?

MR. MCENTIRE: It would answer Mr. Morris's question that he's raised several times, this is the seller's issue, this is not -- this is not the Hunter Mountain's issue. It is Hunter Mountain's issue. Hunter Mountain as an equity interest-holder should be in a position to be certified as a Class 9 beneficiary now pursuant to our declaratory judgment action. That's number one.

Number two. As a contingent beneficiary, it is entitled to protect its interests and bring suits if it sees that something has happened that is incorrect and is a tort involving the Reorganized Debtor and the Claimant Trust. That is the nature and the essence of our claim.

And as a consequence, the aiders and abettors should not be allowed to walk away unharmed. They should be required to disgorge their ill-gotten profits. And that calculation is easily done, as I've just demonstrated.

Your Honor, that's all I have. Thank you very much.

THE COURT: Thank you.

MR. MCENTIRE: And we talked -- we'd need an opportunity to argue on the issue of experts, because -- whether you're just going to take it under advisement, I'm not sure how you're going to handle that.

THE COURT: I'm going to read the pleadings and then I'm going to let you all know are we coming back for another day.

MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.

THE COURT: All right. Who is making the closing argument -- do we have three closing arguments?

MR. STANCIL: Yes.

MR. MCILWAIN: We're going to do it in reverse order.

MR. MORRIS: Reverse order in.

THE COURT: Okay. Reverse order of --

MR. STANCIL: Keep it interesting.

MR. MORRIS: I think I was last on the opening.

THE COURT: -- importance?

(Laughter.)

THE COURT: No. Just kidding. Just kidding.

MR. MORRIS: We're assuming you remember what the original order was.

MR. STANCIL: Yeah, right, right.

MR. MORRIS: It was so many hours ago.

THE COURT: Okay. Oh, so many hours ago.

MR. MCILWAIN: I think I was referred to earlier as the lame lawyer.

THE COURT: Oh, you were. I think --

MR. MCILWAIN: So I'll start. I think --

THE COURT: I think you --

MR. MCILWAIN: Or maybe it was the lame argument, whatever. Whatever.

THE COURT: I think you were the lame one.

CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE CLAIM PURCHASERS

MR. MCILWAIN: Your Honor, Brent McIlwain here for the Claim Purchasers.

Let me start, I guess, by saying I understand now why Hunter Mountain did not want to put on evidence, because the evidence that they put on, frankly, made their case much worse.

As we argued or we stated in the opening statement, our position is that you can look within the four corners of this document and determine that there is no plausible or colorable claim. What the evidence showed is that Mr. Dondero allegedly had a call with one -- with Farallon, not with Stonehill, with Farallon, Farallon wouldn't tell him what they paid, Farallon did not accept an offer of 130 or 140 percent of whatever they paid for the claim, and he thinks they did no due diligence, right? He had nothing in his notes about MGM. So he can say that he thought that they were positive because of MGM, but it's certainly not -- I don't think the Court should take that evidence with any credibility.

But interestingly, what Mr. Dondero says is, well, how do you know how much they paid for these claims? He goes, well, there was a market for the claims, right? They were all trading at 50 or 60 cents. But yet no one would ever buy these claims without any due diligence because the projections in the plan indicate that they wouldn't -- they wouldn't get a return.

Well, if there's a market for the claims and he's willing to pay 30 or 40 percent more than whatever someone purchased, certainly there is a market for the claims. And he is the only one, frankly, that had inside information. That's why he was willing to maybe pay more.

Or, alternatively, the case that you were describing before, Mr. Dondero maybe wanted to buy the claims so he could control the case, right, so he could dismiss any litigation that was pending against himself so he could avoid the ire of the estate that is aimed at him.

It also -- the Court's inquiry as to what the injury is I think is precisely on point. The only injury offered at this point really is that somehow my client's agreed-to higher compensation that is reasonable or appropriate in return for some inside information on claims that were allegedly trading at 50 or 60 cents in any instance. And what the evidence showed is that, one, Mr. Dondero never had any information about that, about the compensation that Seery is receiving when this complaint was filed, when this motion for leave was filed.

And so if you judge the complaint within the four corners, there is no -- there is no quid pro quo, right? Because he says, well, there's obviously something up here because they wouldn't have bought these claims without due diligence, and they must have agreed to higher compensation, and that's why it all happened. And if we throw all this out here, then we'll get to do the discovery that we wanted to do.

Importantly, if you look at his notes, right, the first thing that's written down is discovery to follow, because that's how he operates. That's how a serial litigator operates. Discovery to follow so that I can pay you back for not selling your claim to me. Right? So I can't control the world, so I can't control this case, you're going to pay. And we're all paying. Every one of us here. Right? There's 15 lawyers in the courtroom and probably 10 on the phone, right? We're all paying.

And so when Mr. McEntire says I'm not getting my day in court, we've had an entire day in court. We've had three hearings to decide what this hearing is going to be. And he's gotten more than his day in court for, frankly, what is word salad. This complaint doesn't pass any test, whether it's 12(b)(6) or under the Barton Doctrine. It's simply allegations that are thrown out there, and they're saying, so that we can do more discovery to determine if we actually have allegations. Because they want to continue to harass people, they want to continue to be a thorn in everyone's side, so that perhaps they can avoid further litigation against Mr. Dondero or they can convince somebody to settle with Mr. Dondero.

It doesn't make any sense, Your Honor, and this is exactly why there is a gatekeeper provision, right. That's why the Court imposed this.

And you ask yourself, why would someone sell these claims? Obviously, the sellers of the claims have not shown up. Whether they're big boy, it doesn't matter, because the Court and this estate had nothing to do with those sales. But they haven't shown back up. I can -- I can venture a guess why, if I was involved with Mr. Dondero, I would sell my claim, right? Because I wouldn't have to be here. And that's exactly why the Court should not authorize this complaint to be filed and the gatekeeper provision of the order should prevent it. And frankly, this should be shut down and we should not have to have continued litigation over experts, or anything else, for that matter. And frankly, we should just be able to go on and let Mr. Seery do his job.

Because I think the evidence was pretty clear that his compensation is reasonable and it was in line, frankly, with what he was making before. And candidly -- and maybe it's because Mr. McEntire is not involved in bankruptcy cases, but this is similar compensation that I see in numerous cases, and it's tiered to incentivize Mr. Seery to do his job, and he's doing his job.

So, with that, Your Honor, I'll cede the rest of the time to the other parties.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF JAMES P. SEERY, JR.

MR. STANCIL: Thank you, Your Honor. I'm going to focus -- and I'm going to put my little clock up so Mr. Morris doesn't, you know, give me the hook here.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. STANCIL: But first --

THE COURT: Next time we're all here, maybe I'll have one of those red, what do you call them, the buzzer.

MR. STANCIL: Oh, the big light?

THE COURT: The red light.

MR. STANCIL: We used to joke that the judge I clerked for wished he had a trapdoor and he could just pull the lever when it was done.

THE COURT: Okay.

(Laughter.)

MR. STANCIL: Maybe I shouldn't have put that in your head.

THE COURT: Who was that? Are we going to say who that was?

MR. STANCIL: So Your Honor, I'm going to try to set the legal framework. I'm going to ask you -- and I think we have our -- we have the deck. It's the little -- if we could put that up and start on Slide 2.

I'd like to address what standard applies, and then I'd like to spend a few minutes asking Your Honor again not only to rule on multiple alternative grounds, but also I'd like to walk through what if you did this on a pure 12(b)(6), because it's going to collapse.

So, well, we'll just jump in. I said at the beginning that we know that the question here is not what does the word colorable mean in isolation. We wouldn't do that in any context. We would always look and see what the operative language here is in the Court's confirmation order. So the question is, what did the Court mean, it must represent a colorable claim?

So we mentioned before Paragraph 80 of the confirmation order. That cites Barton. It cites the vexatious litigant cases. I've not heard one word from Mr. McEntire answering how it can be that we're here on a sub-12(b)(6) standard he now says when the Court articulated this legal authority and this legal basis in the confirmation order. If he believed that, the time to make that argument was on the confirmation appeal, and that's over.

But let me then say, how did we get, how did the Court get to Paragraph 80? Well, that came after a series of factual findings in the confirmation order -- in fact, actually, Josh, do you have the hard copy of this?

MR. LEVY: Yeah.

MR. STANCIL: If I could hand that to the Court.

May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: You may. Thanks.

MR. STANCIL: And I don't propose to go through every slide, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. STANCIL: But if you could turn to Slide #5. This is Paragraph 77 of the Court's confirmation order. Factual support for gatekeeper provision.

MR. MCENTIRE: Excuse me. May I have a copy? I can't see it.

THE COURT: Oh.

MR. LEVY: Oh, yeah, sure, sure.

MR. STANCIL: And can we get a copy of yours as well, --

MR. MCENTIRE: Sure.

MR. STANCIL: -- while we're at it? Thanks.

The facts supporting the need for the gatekeeper provision are as follows. I will not read them all, but if you scroll about eight lines down, it says, During the last several months, Mr. Dondero and the Dondero-related entities have harassed the Debtor, which has resulted in further substantial, costly, and time-consuming litigation for the Debtor. And then there are six separate enumerated examples of that.

Paragraph 78 on the next slide. Findings regarding Dondero postpetition litigation. The Bankruptcy Court finds that the Dondero postpetition litigation was a result of Mr. Dondero failing to obtain creditor support for his plan proposal and consistent with his comments, as set forth in Mr. Seery's credible testimony, that if Mr. Dondero's plan proposal was not accepted he would, quote, burn down the place.

Next slide. This is Paragraph 79. Necessity of the gatekeeper provision. If you would just skim to the bottom of that first column, it says, Approval of the gatekeeper provision will prevent baseless litigation designed merely to harass the post-confirmation entities charged with monetizing the Debtors' assets for the benefit of its economic constituents, will avoid abuse of the court system and preempt the use of judicial time that properly could be used to consider the meritorious claims of other litigants.

And then came Paragraph 80, which we've just discussed. With respect, Your Honor, the question is, what is the meaning of Paragraph 80? And in context, following those paragraphs regarding vexatious litigation and abuse of litigation, it is simply implausible to suggest that colorability is a sub-12(b)(6) standard.

And that is Mr. McEntire's contention today, that the gatekeeping order is actually lower than the threshold that every other litigant faces. Everyone else has to file a claim, pass a 12(b)(6), and on they go to get to discovery. Mr. McEntire believes that the gatekeeping order imposes less than that on him, and then he's treated just like everybody else. It makes no sense whatsoever.

So I'll skip Slides 8 and 9, Your Honor, but that's where the Fifth Circuit described the gatekeeping orders, affirmed them in relevant part, citing Barton. There is no mystery here.

If you could flip, Your Honor, to Slide 10 very briefly. We've talked about this case a little bit in one of our status hearings, In re Vistacare Group. This is the leading case that describes what it is that one does under a Barton analysis, and it says that the trustee must make a -- pardon me -- a party seeking leave to sue a trustee must make a prima facie case against the trustee, showing that its claim is not without foundation. A prima facie case is more than a 12(b)(6).

And I would direct Your Honor to the language in the third bullet. It involves a greater degree of flexibility than a Rule 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss because the bankruptcy court, which, given its familiarity with the underlying facts and the parties, is uniquely situated to determine whether a claim against the trustee has merit. Boy howdy, are we -- I'm sorry. My kids are going to tease me for that.

But this -- no case has ever proved the wisdom of that statement, Your Honor. We are here, and the Court is all too familiar with the facts and the parties of this case. And we're not here on an adversary proceeding. We're here on a contested matter. And Your Honor has the authority on any contested matter to take evidence, and a broad, broad discretion as to what evidence is appropriate to meet that standard.

So we have laid out briefly in Slide 11 what -- why we believe that -- or how we believe that the prima facie showing would work. And in short -- and maybe this will help us going forward -- we believe that if they make -- if a party seeking relief under the gatekeeping order says things, we have the right to rebut them, like in a burden-shifting or a burden of production -- pardon me -- analysis. So you can say that the sun rises in the west, but we can bring in evidence to say it doesn't, it rises in the east. And that's the plausibility threshold.

And here, and if Your Honor would flip to the next slide, I'm not sure it's entirely fair to say, even after they have purported to withdraw their evidence, that they've really done so. And we disagreed with Mr. McEntire, and advised him of such leading up to this hearing, that we do not agree that his redactions fully excise all of the evidentiary assertions from his motion.

And I'll just pick one example here on Slide 12. On the left is Paragraph 32 of the motion for leave prior to the purported withdrawal. On the right is Paragraph 32 after the withdrawal. Your Honor will see all they've withdrawn are the citations. It's verbatim. It's the same allegations. And they have argued various facts and put them in evidence. So even if it were true, and it's not, but even if it were true that all you get here is a 12(b)(6) ruling in the ordinary case if you put no evidence in dispute, they forfeited that right by putting these facts and evidence in dispute in their motion.

The fact that they have withdrawn evidentiary support for their evidentiary assertions does not relieve them of the reality that they have made all sorts of factual arguments in their motion for leave, and as a contested matter we have the right to address it.

I'm proposing, Your Honor, unless you have questions on the cases on 13, 14, those are the cases where we have described the hearings that have been held under Vistacare and Foster, and I know more about the down-in-the-weeds of Foster than I ever cared to, but I don't want to repeat what's in our briefs.

If Your Honor is willing to flip to Page 15, this is an argument I've alluded to briefly, but boy, we don't hear -- we have not heard a single thing as to what function the gatekeeper serves, particularly in context of Your Honor's factual findings in the confirmation order, if all it means is 12(b)(6) or lower. It just, it's an unanswerable point that they just persist in ignoring.

But I'd like to address very briefly that third bullet, because at various times and in their brief they have cited, Hunter Mountain has cited, down here we call it Louisiana World, I think in the Second Circuit we call it STN, but this UCC derivative standing. There are, in fact, two elements one has to pass for that, and that's a different context. The first is colorability as it's used in that context, and that is often a 12(b)(6) standard in that context. But still to have standing, to bring that claim on behalf of the estate, you have to show a cost-benefit analysis. As we've heard today, we've probably spent more in legal fees today, or over the last three months, than the purportedly excessive compensation to Mr. Seery. And so I would respectfully submit, if we were here on a Louisiana World or STN hearing, this would be an open-and-shut case just as well.

So if I could, Your Honor, if you are willing to jump ahead to Slide 17, I'd like to ask you -- and I do want to address the standing jurisdictional question a little bit.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. STANCIL: Not to get into the weeds of standing, because I think we have briefed that out the wazoo in our papers, and I read this morning -- I think it was this morning -- from the Claimant Trust Agreement, which says they're not a beneficial interest.

But my understanding is that Article III standing, whether there is a theoretical injury in any way, that is -- that goes to Your Honor's subject matter jurisdiction under Article III, but that is not true of statutory standing under Delaware law or prudential standing. Those are -- those go to basically whether they state a claim.

So, Your Honor, I believe, can -- and I've confessed to my colleague that the only way I remember this is I screwed it up really, really badly when I was clerking years ago -- but I believe Your Honor can, and in this case should, rule on the standing ground in the alternative. Not on the Article III. Article III is binary. They either have it or they don't. But on the statutory standing, you can say -- I think you can hold that they do not have standing under Delaware law to pursue the claim, but even if they do have standing, and then reach the remainder.

And we know we're headed for appeal. We've heard -- pretty much two-thirds of the time this morning has been laying the groundwork for an appeal. And we would only like -- we would like to make sure that we give the Fifth Circuit a fulsome record.

So I would like to ask Your Honor to flip to Page 19. And this is really the end of, I think, what we need to do. So, Your Honor, what if we were here just on 12(b)(6)? So we've got a quid, we've got a pro, we've got a quo. They fail at each turn. Let me spend most of my time on the quid. I'll let the documents of which the Court can take judicial notice speak for themselves. I will let the bare-bones nature of the assertion -- and it's okay to put in a complaint something on information and belief, but you still have to pass Iqbal and Twombly. I can't say upon information and belief that I was denied a starting position on the Knicks, right? I would like to believe that's the case, but it still has to be a plausible allegation.

Let's look at this chart. And this chart is taken right out of our brief. These are their numbers. This is at the bottom. And I want to -- I would like to take head-on this proposition that this is not a rational investment on their numbers.

So let's take the Stonehill purchase of Redeemer. They paid $78 million to earn a projected profit, according to the November 30 disclosure statement, of $19.71 million. By my arithmetic, that is a return of 25.27 percent. Even by Mr. Dondero's lights, that's a pretty good return.

I'm going to come back to why that's not the end of the return, but let's look at the Farallon purchase of Acis. Spent $8 million. Projected profit, $8.4 million. I'll take 105 percent return any day.

Let's look at the Farallon purchase of HarbourVest. Purchase price, $27 million. Projected profit, $5.09 million. That is -- oh, I can't read my own writing anymore -- I think that is 18.85 percent. I would again gladly take that every day of the week, whether it's a distressed asset or otherwise.

But let me make one really important point that Mr. Dondero obfuscated, Mr. McEntire does not acknowledge, and it is just a fact. These are projected profits if all Mr. Seery does is hit the plan. November 30, 2021. If he does no better than what he thought these assets were worth then, this is the expected return. So for those trades that we've talked about, that's a slam dunk even on that.

But let's look about -- we'll talk about upside. Because, as Your Honor knows from doing bankruptcy cases, upside, it's all about upside for people who are purchasing claims. So it isn't just that their returns were capped at these already-ample percentages. If Class 8, for example, of Redeemer paid out in full, they would be making not -- oh, gosh, I'm not sure I should do this on the fly -- but they'd be recovering $137 million on the Class 8 claim, not the $97.71 million. So there's another $40 million of upside.

Even if it's a low-probability event, that's a -- hedge funds do that all day every day.

Same here with Acis. Paid $8 million, expected $16.4 million, but they could get up to $23 million.

Now, we've heard so much about how Class 9 was worthless, worthless, worthless. No, it's not. There's always the potential for upside. Paid $27 million. Could recover $45 million just on Class 8. Could recover another $35 million on Class 9. They could recover $80 million on a $27 million purchase. Now, the probability of that is complicated, but it's not zero. We know that it's not zero. All we've heard from them today is that Mr. Seery is -- could pay off 8 and 9 in full. So I don't think that is even remotely plausible.

Let's talk briefly about UBS. They like to talk about UBS for the projected profit of $3.61 million in loss. But that was -- that's in August, and that claim trades.

So a couple of things that happened between the November 30 disclosure statement setting that projected value and the purchase of the UBS claim in August. Number one is we are nine, ten months past the worst of COVID. And Your Honor could take judicial notice of massive market movements just if you do nothing.

We don't need to get to that, because we talked all morning about MGM. May 26th, it's announced publicly. May 26, 2021.

So the notion that a purchaser of a UBS claim in the summer of 2021, after this MGM transaction is announced, would think, you know what, I think these claims are only worth what they were worth back in November, is not plausible.

And so this is why the comparisons to the debt, the exit financing, well, 12 percent. That's a 12 percent capped return. We're talking here about returns of 25 percent, 105 percent, 18.85 percent, just based on projections at the -- sort of in the darkest days post-COVID.

So it's not plausible. If a court were looking at this just under the 12(b)(6) standard, we would be -- we'd be dismissing this claim as well. And we really -- respectfully,

Your Honor, we need that ruling. We think we need that ruling so that whatever the -- whatever they may say the standard is in the Fifth Circuit, we only have to go one time. And we really believe that we're entitled to that.

I'll let Your Honor -- I will just stand on the deck and our briefs on the pro and the quo. But meet-and-greets, these are just conclusory allegations in the complaint. He says they worked -- that he worked for them 10 or 15 years ago, which some of that's not even true, but even if it were all true, if I were beholden to every client I've met at a schmooze fest or everybody I worked for in a group 20 years ago or 15 years ago, you know, I would be incapable of operating without a conflict of interest. And it's just not plausible. This is something that needs to go.

Unless the Court has questions, I will cede the remainder of our time to Mr. Morris.

THE COURT: No questions. Thank you.

CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE REORGANIZED DEBTOR

MR. MORRIS: Thank you so much, Your Honor, for your patience. It's been a very long day. I am very grateful that we're going to finish today.

As I said at the beginning, I believe this exercise, as difficult as it may have been, is so important and so vital, preserving this estate and what's left of it.

The gatekeeper exists for very important reasons. Your Honor made those findings in her order that has been upheld on appeal. And we're here to make sure that frivolous litigation is not commenced against my clients, or, frankly, against Stonehill and Farallon, given their capacity as Claimant Oversight Board members.

Hunter Mountain confuses argument with facts. There's no facts here to support anything, and that's what the gatekeeper is about. The gatekeeper is making sure that there's a good-faith basis to pursue claims. And as Mr. Stancil points out, it is certainly acceptable to state things upon information and belief. But the point of the gatekeeper is if somebody says -- not somebody says -- somebody offers proof that those beliefs are wrong, you no longer have a plausible claim. And that's why we thought it was so important to go through this exercise today. Because the facts show that their beliefs are simply wrong, and the entire complaint is based on their beliefs.

There is zero evidence concerning the compensation other than their belief that the compensation is excessive. The case is over. Like, you could stop there. I'm going to go through a bunch of things that -- you could stop there.

I want to actually begin backwards, though, in time, with the HarbourVest settlement. Right? After two years of litigation and re-litigation and re-litigation of the HarbourVest settlement, the claims of insider trading, finally the Court has before it admissible indisputable evidence that Mr. Seery negotiated the terms of the HarbourVest settlement before he ever got this notorious email from Mr. Dondero. That should be a finding of fact in Your Honor's order and it should never be -- nobody should ever make that allegation again. It's over. You have the documents. You have the email from Mr. Seery to the board, here are the terms, and those are the terms Your Honor approved.

And there's more. Because this is so important for us, because we're tired of being accused of wrongdoing. We're tired of being falsely accused of wrongdoing.

$22-1/2 million. That's the valuation Mr. Seery put on it. You can see that he's doing it to his Independent Board colleagues, copying his lawyers. He's telling them where he got it, from Hunter Covitz. The evidence is now in the record. It came from a regularly-published NAV report from November 30th. It was seven days old. It can never be disputed again that $22.5 million was a fair value, not based on some subjective view of Mr. Seery but based on the person who gave him the report that everybody relies upon that Mr. Dondero got.

And it was ratified yet again in the audited financial statements that came out, and it shows for the period ending -- this is Exhibit 60, I believe -- for the period ending December 31, 2020, $50 million. Okay, so it went up a few million dollars in December.

This is their case? This is the case? Your Honor I know is still working on the motion to dismiss. That's Mark Patrick, right? That's the complaint that he brought. That's what this is about. I don't mean to confuse the issue, but it's time to put this stuff to rest, because it's wrong. Mr. Dondero has lost and he's got to get over it at some point.

But here's the best piece of evidence about this whole shenanigans about MGM being inside information. Mr. Dondero filed a 15-page objection to the HarbourVest settlement and didn't say a word about it. How is that possible? Six days before the settlement, he sends this email. Two weeks later, in January, he files a 15-page objection and doesn't mention anything about insider trading, MGM, or any wrongdoing by Mr. Seery. In fact, he argues the exact opposite, that Mr. Seery cut a bad deal. How is that possible? This is a plausible claim?

It gets better, or worse, depending on your point of view. CLO Holdco filed an objection and they said they're entitled to buy the asset. This is Mr. Dondero's, you know, operating arm of the DAF. They lost -- they actually had an honorable person who concluded, I don't really have that right. But these are the claims that Mr. Patrick is asserting, and he asserted them on April -- in April, before the MGM deal was announced. Right? And Your Honor found, and that's why it was so important for the Court to take judicial notice of the second contempt order, because Mr. Dondero was intimately involved in bringing those claims and in bringing those claims against -- or trying to bring those claims against Mr. Seery, in violating of the gatekeeper. This is all tied together.

I have to tell you, I don't know why we're not doing Rule 11. Forget about colorable claims. This is a fraud on the Court. It really is. And I don't know when it's going to stop. I'd love to move on with my life, to be honest with you.

The tender offer. He's out there doing a tender offer benefitting as the fund that he manages acquires more shares and his interest goes up and the value goes up with all these MGM holdings. Really? And he's going to accuse Mr. Seery of wrongdoing?

There was one point of Mr. Dondero's testimony that made my heart skip a beat. It's when he referred to the need to get discovery. And why did it skip a beat? Because he actually had a moment of candor where he admitted that the notion that Mr. Seery gave them material nonpublic inside information was his thought. It's not anything that Farallon ever told him. And then it spins and it spins and it spins, and finally when he gets to the fifth version of his sworn statement MGM suddenly appears. It's not right. Colorable claims? Fraudulent claims.

What's the undisputed evidence right now? I'll take Mr. Dondero at his word that Mr. Patel told him that Farallon bought the claims in February or March. How did they reconcile that with the undisputed testimony that Mr. Seery thereafter invited Farallon to participate in the exit financing? And they signed an NDA in early April. Why would you sign an NDA if you already got inside information? Who would do that? What would be the purpose of that?

How do you reconcile the fact that, according to Mr. Dondero, the claims were already in Farallon's pocket when they signed an NDA to get information for an exit facility. Is that plausible?

We've heard Mr. McEntire say a bunch of times it's much broader than MGM. Not only not a scintilla of evidence, but no substantive allegation. Again, confusing argument with facts. Because he had -- yes, Mr. Seery had access to inside information relative to Highland. He's the CEO. But where is the evidence that he shared anything with anybody? There is nothing.

Mr. Dondero admitted in his motion -- in a moment of candor, he said that's what he concluded based on the fact that Mr. Patel supposedly told him, I bought because Seery told me to. He made the inference. No evidence. Nothing.

They're bringing this case for the benefit of innocent parties? These people have told you time and again that assets exceed liabilities. What innocent parties? Where are they and how come they're not -- let's get to that point, too. Because they're saying, oh, Mr. Seery is, like, just not declaring the end of this. Seriously? How much do they think Mr. Seery should reserve for indemnification claims as we do trials like this with a mountain of lawyers billing $800, $1,500 an hour? Seriously? Mr. Seery is somehow acting in bad faith by not declaring the end of this case? How much is he supposed to reserve? They keep skipping over that. We'll talk about that in the mediation motion. We'll talk about that in the Hunter Mountain motion in July. Who's prosecuting that? Mr. Dondero's lawyer. I know there's a really big separation between Hunter Mountain and Mr. Dondero, but Stinson is prosecuting that claim on behalf of Hunter Mountain when they're seeking information.

And they complain about the legal fees? We've put our pens down. Kirschner put his pens down. We put down the claim objection. What we're doing is defense at this point.

We're awaiting the ruling on the notes litigation, and we will very much prosecute the vexatious litigant motion if Judge Starr grants the pending motion to exceed the page limit that's been out there for months. I'm not sure what's happening there. We'll do that for sure. But otherwise, we're just playing defense.

We're here today because they've made a motion, a motion that lacks any good-faith basis whatsoever. And that's why today was so important, so the Court could hear the witnesses. They could -- the Court -- I mean, think about it. Texas State Securities Board. The audacity of saying that somehow a letter from the Texas State Securities Board saying they're taking no action after conducting an investigation of Dugaboy's claim of insider trading is irrelevant? Like, what?

I've told you before, all we do is play Whack-A-Mole. Whack-A-Mole. They make an argument, we prove it's frivolous, so they just make a new argument. Their pleading says their claims are colorable because there's an open investigation. Now there's no investigation and they say that's irrelevant. How can they say that with a straight face? I couldn't.

I want to talk about Mr. Seery. I want to finish with my Mr. Seery. I may not use all my time. We can go home early.

(Laughter.)

THE COURT: It's past early.

MR. MORRIS: But this guy has worked doggedly, Your Honor, and I will defend him until the end of time. He's a man who has so far exceeded expectations. And they're saying he's not -- he's overpaid? The guy is overpaid? When he's into Class 9? When he's being pursued with these frivolous claims? Every day he's being attacked. How much do they think he should be paid? I would have loved to -- I hope -- no, I don't hope. I don't think there's any reason to hear expert testimony. I think Your Honor should exercise -- the Court should exercise its discretion and say there's no need, the Court doesn't need to hear expert testimony.

But if we do, I'll be delighted to hear their expert's view on what Mr. Seery -- if it's not $8.8 million for all these years, what should it be, after he takes an estate from 71 percent on the 8s to, according to them, assets exceed liabilities, 9s are paid in full?

You know what? If they put their pens down, maybe there would be a conversation. But as long as we keep doing this ridiculous, baseless, frivolous litigation, Mr. Seery is going to conserve resources, because he's got to pay people like me to defend him and to defend the estate. This is a preview of what we'll talk about at the mediation motion. He's doing a great job. He's devoting his life to it. He has no other income. He's got no other job. It's wrong.

The claims are not only not colorable, they are frivolous. I ask the Court to stop this in its tracks right now.

Thank you very much.

THE COURT: Thank you.

All right. Is there any time for the Movant to have the last word, which we usually give the Movant the last word.

THE CLERK: The Movant, I think, has a little under -- maybe about a minute left.

THE COURT: Anything you want to say in a minute?

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, just I'll take 30 seconds. How is that?

THE COURT: Okay.

REBUTTAL CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF HUNTER MOUNTAIN

MR. MCENTIRE: I just want to direct your attention to our reply brief, specific paragraphs that address your question about authorities. We do cite several cases on Page 41, 40 and 41, dealing with the issue of unjust enrichment. That's it.

Thank you, Your Honor, very much.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Unjust enrichment?

MR. MCENTIRE: Disgorgement.

THE COURT: Okay. But I was really, you know, claims trading in the bankruptcy context, just your best --

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, I think the cases that you identified were our best cases. The --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: -- Adelphia and the other cases.

THE COURT: All right. Well, --

MR. MCENTIRE: There are other cases, Your Honor, in different contexts. There's also the Washington Mutual case dealing with equitable disallowance. There's also the Mobile Steel case, a Fifth Circuit --

THE COURT: Mobile Steel? Oh, my goodness. Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. All right.

THE COURT: 1968? Or no. That doesn't mean it isn't still quoted often, but --

MR. MCENTIRE: Those would also be relevant.

THE COURT: Equitable subordination --

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, ma'am.

THE COURT: -- when there's bad acts.

MR. MCENTIRE: And Footnote #10 in the Mobile Steel case. That is relevant, too. Just, --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.

THE COURT: All right. So I gave a deadline of Monday, right, --

MR. STANCIL: Yes.

THE COURT: -- to reply to the response to the motion in limine?

MR. STANCIL: Yes, Your Honor. Do you want time before you leave for the day? I mean, it's not going to be that long, so 4:00 o'clock Monday? Does that work for you?

THE COURT: I don't care. I probably won't start looking at it until the next day.

MR. STANCIL: But I will -- I'll just reserve and so I don't have my associates --

THE COURT: Yes. I think these days midnight, 11:59 p.m., is what lawyers tend to want.

MR. STANCIL: Oh, not this lawyer.

THE COURT: Oh, well, okay. Okay. So I'll just have to look at this, and probably by Friday of next week I will reach out through Traci and let you know what my decision is on whether we're going to have another day of just 30 minutes, 30 minutes of experts.

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, another housekeeping matter. You'd wanted a copy of our PowerPoint, --

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. MCENTIRE: -- which I'm pleased to give you. We found a typo that we can correct electronically on the version I showed.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MCENTIRE: I likely will send that to you and I can copy opposing counsel. Is that --

THE COURT: Okay. Send it to Traci Ellison, my courtroom deputy.

MR. MCENTIRE: All right.

THE COURT: And she'll --

MR. MCENTIRE: We'll do that first thing in the morning.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: So you'll have a copy --

MR. STANCIL: Can we get the hard copy that -- from today, though?

MR. MCENTIRE: No, that had a typo on it. I really don't want to share it. We fixed it.

THE COURT: What? I'm sorry, what?

MR. MORRIS: That's fine.

MR. STANCIL: Never mind.

THE COURT: Do I not need to know?

MR. STANCIL: Let's all go home.

THE COURT: Okay. And then my last question is -- and there was a mention of the CLO Holdco lawsuit, where there's a pending motion to dismiss. There's an opinion I'm writing well underway. I just keep getting sidetracked by other things. Imagine that. So I know that people are wanting to get an answer to that. So, trust me, it's going to get done here pretty soon.

You mentioned Brantley Starr. I mean, it is not my role to pick up the phone and call him and say hey, --

MR. MCENTIRE: No, I wasn't suggesting that.

THE COURT: -- District Judge, get busy on that.

MR. MCENTIRE: Yeah.

THE COURT: But I'll at least tell you, I know the man seems to have more jury trials than any judge I've seen in this building, so I suspect he's working late hours trying to get things done.

MR. MCENTIRE: Yeah.

THE COURT: What do we have upcoming? We have what you called the mediation motion. When is that set?

MR. MORRIS: June 26.

THE COURT: June 26th. Be here before we know it.

MR. MORRIS: Yeah. And just to keep the Court informed, the Movant's reply was due today. We gave them a week extension. They asked earlier today. I saw in my email we gave them. So I think you should expect the reply on the 15th. The hearing is the 26th, and that's not in person.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, I'm very interested to dive into those pleadings. I knew the motion was coming because one of the lawyers said at a prior hearing it would be coming. So I haven't read any of those pleadings, but, well, I'm just very interested to hear how this plays out. I mean, I've said it before.

MR. MORRIS: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: We had global mediation in summer of 2020. We had two very fine mediators. We had a heck of a lot settled, to my amazement. But we're now way down the road and whole lot of money has been eaten up fighting lots of stuff. I mean, it would have to be pens down. There's an enormous amount out there that would have to be part of it, and I just don't know if everyone is fully appreciating that. I hope they are. Anyone listening. We're really, really far down the road now, and there's just how many appeals? Someone at one time told me there were 26. I bet it's more than that by now.

MR. MORRIS: I think that's right. I think we argued on Monday, what is it, the sixth of nine appeals in the Fifth Circuit. And we've got, you know, a cert petition that we're waiting to hear from on the Supreme Court. And yeah, there's still a couple dozen matters in the district court.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Not one of them, not one of them we're prosecuting, with the exception of waiting on the Court to rule on the Report and Recommendation on the notes litigation and vexatious litigant. We are not the plaintiff, movant, in anything.

THE COURT: We've got adversaries. The Reports and Recommendations. That's just made everything go a lot slower. But all right. So we have that. And anything else coming up?

MR. MORRIS: I think on July 11th maybe there is a hearing scheduled on Hunter Mountain. If you recall, Hunter Mountain had that valuation motion last year that you denied on the grounds that they didn't have a legal right to valuation information. They made a motion earlier this year for leave to file an adversary proceeding to assert an equitable claim and some other declaratory relief, is my recollection.

While we filed an opposition, we didn't oppose the relief requested, so that motion got resolved. They have filed an adversary proceeding. And I think, if I remember correctly, our response to the complaint, maybe that's what due. Oh, the 11th is a status conference. It could be a status conference, maybe to set a scheduling order.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: But that's it. I think that's the only thing on the calendar.

THE COURT: That's a lot.

MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.

THE COURT: Anything else? Okay.

MR. STANCIL: Thank you, Your Honor.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE CLERK: All rise.

Each capital account shall be adjusted to reflect such Member's share of allocations and distributions as provided in Sections 14 and 15 of this Agreement, and any additional capital contributions to the Company or withdrawals of capital from the Company. Such capital accounts shall further be adjusted to conform to the Treasury Regs. under Section 704(b) of the U.S. Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"), as interpreted in good faith by the Managing Member.

Notwithstanding any provision to the contrary contained in this Agreement, the Company shall not make a distribution to the Members on account of their interest in the Company if such distribution would violate Section 18-607 of the Act or other applicable law.

Section 16 Management.

(a) The business and affairs of the Company shall be managed by the Managing Member. Subject to the express limitations contained in any provision of this Agreement, the Managing Member shall have complete and absolute control of the affairs and business of the Company, and the Managing Member shall possess all powers necessary, convenient or appropriate to carrying out the purposes and business of the Company, including, without limitation, doing all things and taking all actions necessary to carrying out the terms and provisions of this Agreement.

(b) Subject to the rights and powers of the Managing Member and the limitations thereon contained herein, the Managing Member may delegate to any person any or all of his powers,

Section 17 Officers. The Managing Member may, from time to time as he deems advisable, appoint officers of the Company (the "Officers") and assign in writing titles (including, without limitation, President, Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer) to any such person. Unless the Managing Member decides otherwise, if the title is one commonly used for officers of a business corporation formed under the Delaware General Corporation Law, the assignment of such title shall constitute the delegation to such person of the authorities and duties that are normally associated with that office. Any delegation pursuant to this Section 17 may be revoked at any time by the Managing Member.

Section 18 Other Business. The Members (including, for the avoidance of doubt, the Managing Member) may engage in or possess an interest in other business ventures (unconnected with the Company) of every kind and description, independently or with others. To the fullest extent permitted by law, the Company agrees to indemnify and hold harmless: (i) the Managing Member, and (ii) in the discretion of the Managing Member, the Company's managers, shareholders, partners, officers, employees, agents and affiliates and/or the other Members (each, an "Indemnified Party") from and against any and all claims, actions, demands, losses, costs, expenses (including attorneys' fees and other expenses of litigation), damages, penalties or interest, as a result of any claim or legal proceeding related to any action taken or omitted to be taken by any of them in connection with the business and affairs of the Company (including the settlement of any such claim or legal proceeding); provided, however, that the party against whom the claim is made or legal proceeding is directed is not guilty of gross negligence or willful misconduct, as determined by a final non-appealable decision of a court of competent jurisdiction. Any indemnity under this Section 19 shall be provided out of and to the extent of Company assets only, and no Member (including the Managing Member) shall have personal liability on account thereof.

Section 20 Admission of Additional Members. Additional Members may be admitted to the Company only with the written consent of the Managing Member. The capital contribution required of, and the Percentage Interests assigned to, such newly-admitted Member shall be determined by the Managing Member.

Section 21 Effect of Bankruptcy, Dissolution, Death or Incompetence of a Member. The bankruptcy, dissolution, death or disability of a Member, or an adjudication that such Member is incompetent (a Member experiencing any such event, a "Disabled Member"), shall not cause the termination or dissolution of the Company, and the business of the Company shall continue. If a Member is dissolved or becomes bankrupt, the trustee or receiver of such Disabled Member's estate or, if a Member dies, such Disabled Member's executor, administrator or trustee, or, if such Member is adjudicated incompetent, such Disabled Member's committee, guardian or conservator, or the personal representative of such Disabled Member, as applicable, shall have the rights of such Disabled Member for the purposes of settling or managing such Disabled Member's estate or property and such power as the Disabled Member possessed to dispose of all or any part of such Member's interest in the Company, and to join with any assignee in satisfying conditions precedent to the admission of the assignee as a substitute Member.

(a) The Company shall dissolve, and its affairs shall be wound-up upon the first to occur of the following: (i) the written consent of the Managing Member; (ii) the death, disability, bankruptcy or withdrawal of the Managing Member, in the event no successor managing member is appointed pursuant to Section 16(d); and (iii) the entry of a decree of judicial dissolution under Section 18-802 of the Act.

(b) In the event of dissolution, the Company shall conduct only such activities as are necessary to wind-up its affairs (including the sale of the assets of the Company in an orderly manner).

Section 24 Tax Matters Partner. John Honis shall be the tax matters partner within the meaning of Section 6231(a)(7) of the Code. All expenses incurred by the tax matters partner in connection with his duties as tax matters partner shall be expenses of the Company.

Section 25 Elections. The Managing Member shall determine the accounting methods and conventions under the tax laws of any and all applicable jurisdictions as to the treatment of income, gain, loss, deduction and credit of the Company or any other method or procedure related to the preparation of such tax returns. The Managing Member may cause the Company to make or refrain from making any and all elections permitted by such tax laws, and the Managing Member shall not be liable for any consequences to any previously admitted or subsequently admitted Members resulting from making or failing to make any such elections.

Section 26 Separability of Provisions. Each provision of this Agreement shall be considered separable and if for any reason any provision or provisions herein are determined to be invalid, unenforceable or illegal under any existing or future law, such invalidity, unenforceability or illegality shall not impair the operation of or affect those portions of this Agreement which are valid, enforceable and legal.

Section 27 Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original of this Agreement.

Section 28 Entire Agreement. This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement of the Members with respect to the subject matter hereof and shall supersede all prior and contemporaneous agreements, understandings and discussions with respect thereto.

Section 29 Governing Law, Personal Jurisdiction and Venue. The parties acknowledge and agree that any claim, controversy, dispute or action relating in any way to this Agreement or the subject matter of this Agreement shall be governed solely by the laws of the State of Delaware, without regard to any conflict of laws doctrines. The parties irrevocably consent to and submit to being served with legal process issued from the state and federal courts located in the State of New York and irrevocably consent to the exclusive personal jurisdiction of the federal and state courts situated in the State of New York. The parties irrevocably waive any objections to the personal jurisdiction of these courts. The federal and state courts of the State of New York in New York County shall have sole and exclusive jurisdiction over any and all claims, controversies, disputes and actions which in any way relate to this Agreement or the subject matter of this Agreement. Any such claim, controversy, dispute or action must first be brought in the federal court of the State of New York in New York County, unless the federal courts do not have subject matter jurisdiction as a matter of law, in which case it must first be brought in the Commercial Division of the New York State Supreme Court in New York County (and can only proceed in New York County outside the Commercial Division if the Commercial Division rejects it). The parties also irrevocably waive any objections that these courts constitute an oppressive, unfair, or inconvenient forum and agree not to seek to change venue on these grounds or any other grounds.

Section 30 Amendments. This Agreement may be modified, altered, supplemented or amended in the sole discretion of the Managing Member.

RESPONSE AND DISCLOSURES RELATED TO THE COURT'S ORDER REQUIRING DISCLOSURES

CLO HoldCo, Ltd. ("CLO HoldCo"), Charitable DAF Fund, LP ("DAF Fund"), Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc., ("Highland Dallas Foundation," collectively, the "Charitable Respondents"),[1] file this Response ("Response") and submit these Disclosures ("Disclosures") to comply with the Court's sua sponte Order Requiring Disclosures (Dkt. No. 2460) (the "Disclosures Order").

[1] CLO Holdco and Highland Dallas Foundation have filed a Motion to Withdraw the Reference in Adversary Case No. 20-03195 (the "Adversary Proceeding"), at Dkt. No. 24 (in the Adversary Proceeding), and neither the fact nor content of this Response is intended to be nor shall be deemed a waiver of their right to a trial by jury on all claims asserted in the Adversary Proceeding nor consent to the entry of final orders in the Adversary Proceeding by the Bankruptcy Court. DAF Fund is also a defendant in the Adversary Proceeding but has not been served. Neither the fact nor content of this Response by DAF Fund is intended to be nor shall be deemed: a waiver of service requirements in the Adversary Proceeding; acceptance of service of citation or summons in the Adversary Proceeding; waiver of its right to a trial by jury on all claims in the Adversary Proceeding (if ever served), nor consent to the entry of final orders in the Adversary Proceeding by the Bankruptcy Court (again, if ever served). The Charitable Respondents submit this Response in the Bankruptcy Case solely because the Court has ordered them to do so, and because they have appeared before this Court previously.

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. CLO HoldCo, DAF Fund, and Highland Dallas Foundation have each previously filed pleadings in this Court and are, at least arguably, parties to the Bankruptcy Case. As set forth herein, several targets of the Court's Disclosures Order have never made an appearance before this Court including Charitable DAF Holdco, Ltd.[2] ("DAF Holdco"), Highland Santa Barbara Foundation, Inc. ("Highland Santa Barbara Foundation"), and Highland Kansas City Foundation, Inc. ("Highland Kansas City Foundation," collectively with DAF Holdco and Highland Santa Barbara Foundation, the "Non-Party Targets").[3] The Court does not have the power to order a non-party to produce documents nor undertake sua sponte investigations, particularly into non-parties. The fact that these entities are non-parties and at the same time targets, is telling. Further the Non-Party Targets have not been served with the Disclosures Order.

2. Neither the Charitable Respondents nor undersigned counsel are authorized to make appearances for the Non-Party Targets, and the Non-Party Targets are not by this Response submitting themselves to this Court's jurisdiction. The Charitable Respondents file this Response and submit these Disclosures solely on their own behalf and neither they nor undersigned counsel are appearing for or on behalf of the Non-Party Targets. Nonetheless, much of the Disclosures provided by the Charitable Respondents on their own behalf will be informative regarding the Non-Party Targets. Further, the Non-Party Targets have provided limited authorization for the [2] Undersigned counsel has been retained to represent DAF Holdco; however, DAF Holdco has never made an appearance in this bankruptcy case and has not been served in the Adversary Proceeding. Nor has DAF Holdco been served with this Disclosures Order. DAF Holdco has not authorized undersigned counsel to accept service nor to make an appearance for it in this Bankruptcy Case.

[3] The Highland Dallas Foundation, the Highland Santa Barbara Foundation, and the Highland Kansas City Foundation are sometimes also referred to as "Supporting Organizations."

Charitable Respondents, through Mr. Mark Patrick ("Patrick"), to provide the information to the Court that is submitted by the Charitable Respondents in this Response.

3. Further, the Disclosures Order does not mention the third-party foundation level entities included in the Structure Chart (infra) ("Foundations"); however, these Foundations have provided the Charitable Respondents with documents and important information regarding their charitable giving structures and the supporting organizations include the Highland Dallas Foundation and the supporting organizations that are Non-Party Targets. The fact and content of this Response is not intended to be nor shall be deemed to be an appearance by these Foundations in this Bankruptcy Case, nor submission by them to this Court's jurisdiction. The Charitable Respondents file this Response and submit these Disclosures solely on their own behalf and neither they nor undersigned counsel are appearing for or on behalf of the Foundations.

4. Patrick has provided a declaration regarding the information provided by and/or about the Foundations and the Supporting Organizations, and as provided herein within the Disclosures. As well, he has reviewed the Response and Disclosures. See Exhibit 1 [Mark Patrick Declaration]

5. As set forth herein, contrary to the Court's unsupported and highly prejudicial sua sponte assertions that the Charitable Respondents and Non-Party Targets "appear to be under the de facto control of Mr. Dondero," the Charitable Respondents and Non-Party Targets (along with the Foundations) make up a legal and viable charitable giving structure, established through a non-byzantine set of entities that has committed over $42 million in grants, and funded $32.5 million, to nonprofits across a wide-range of issues including education, support of military, veterans, and first-responders, and victims of family violence and child abuse. With respect to Mr. Dondero, of course he is involved, personally in the capacity as the Donor personality. In addition, as disclosed

APPELLANT'S AMENDED DESIGNATION OF ITEMS TO BE INCLUDED IN THE RECORD ON APPEAL AND STATEMENT OF THE ISSUES PRESENTED

Pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr. P. 8009(a) and Docket No. 4366, Appellant Patrick Daugherty ("Daugherty") hereby submits his amended designation of items to be included in the record on appeal and statement of issues to be presented in connection with his appeal from the Order Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9019 and 11 U.S.C. § 363 Approving Settlement Between the Highland Entities and the HMIT Entities and Authorizing Actions Consistent Therewith [Docket

[1] Highland's last four digits of its taxpayer identification number are (8357). The headquarters and service address for Highland is 100 Crescent Court, Suite 1850, Dallas, TX 75201.

No. 4297] (the "HMIT Settlement Order").[2] See Notice of Appeal [Docket No. 4310, as amended at Docket No. 4327].

Statement of Issues on Appeal

1. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in its approval of the HMIT Settlement Order [Docket No. 4297], which permits payment to Class 10 creditors before all Class 8 and Class 9 claims have been paid in full when the plain language of the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. [Dkt. 1808], the Court's Confirmation Order [Dkt. 1943] and the Claimant Trust Agreement [Dkt. 3817-4] require full payment plus applicable interest to all Class 8 and Class 9 creditors before any Class 10 or Class 11 claims can vest.

2. Whether the Bankruptcy Court abused its discretion by approving the HMIT Settlement Order [Docket No. 4297] when the settlement is not fair, reasonable, or in the best interests of the estate as the Debtor, through its principals, is forgoing the recovery of millions in material value to the estate in exchange for, inter alia, self-serving releases of its principals.

Designation of Record

Daugherty respectfully designates the following items to be included in the appellate record pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 8009(a):

000001 1. Amended Notice of Appeal for Bankruptcy Case No. 19-34054-sgj11 [Dkt. 4327].

000011 2. Notice of Appeal for Bankruptcy Case No. 19-34054-sgj11 [Dkt. 4310].

000022 3. The Judgment Order or Decree appealed from: Order Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9019 and 11 U.S.C. § 363 Approving Settlement Between the Highland Entities and the HMIT Entities and Authorizing Actions Consistent Therewith [Docket No. 4297].

000026 4. Docket Sheet for Bankruptcy Case No. 19-34054-sgj1 kept by the Bankruptcy Clerk.

5. Documents listed below for Bankruptcy Case No. 19-34054-sgj11:

Cristo Rey Dallas Update

Cristo Rey Dallas (CRD) is incredibly grateful for the gifts from Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc. CRD is excited to have the Highland Capital Academic Center and the NexBank Gymnasium in the Innovation Center on our campus. These naming rights were given as the result of a donation that Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc.made to our Innovation Center Capital Campaign. These facilities truly impact our students and allow us to provide our services to our population of 465 students.

CRD also receives support from Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc. through the Corporate Work Study Program (CWSP). Cornerstone Healthcare and NexBank both currently have one job team (a team of 4 students) that work in their offices. In the upcoming year, NexBank will host two teams of students. One team is funded through the gift from Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc. and the other is supported by NexBank. The work study program allows students to earn about 60% percent of their tuition to CRD, and the involvement in the work study program makes such a difference in the lives of the 8 students that work in those businesses.

Finally, CRD is incredibly thankful for the remote workspace at Cityplace Tower. CWSP has been greatly affected by COVID-19. This year, many partners were unable to host students in their offices. The space at Cityplace Tower allows 30 students to work remotely for their job partners each day which means that about 120 students benefit from the offices each week. Without this space, CRD would not have the capacity to allow these students to work remotely.

The support of Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc. has meant so much to us at CRD. We are so appreciative, and we look forward to continuing our partnership for many years.

Dallas Children's Advocacy Center (DCAC)
Partnership with Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc.

Organization Mission and History
The mission of DCAC is to improve the lives of abused children in Dallas County and to provide national leadership on child abuse issues. Since opening its doors in 1991, DCAC has served more than 60,000 of the most severely abused children and their non-offending family members in Dallas County. In FY2021, DCAC will serve 8,400 children and their non-offending family members.

DCAC was created to coordinate the investigation of child abuse cases that rise to the criminal level in a seamless, collaborative process. We facilitate a coordinated approach to child abuse cases that results in more successful investigation and prosecution outcomes and provides a less traumatic response to child victims and families. DCAC partners with 39 organizations to form a Multidisciplinary Team (MDT) that includes medical, legal, and law enforcement and is designed to ensure child clients receive the appropriate services for healing and safety.

In 2015 DCAC's Partner Relations Team began reading all reports of abuse and neglect made to DFPS in Dallas County as part of a state-wide effort to ensure every child who needs services from a children's advocacy center (CAC) gets them. In FY2019 we read 28,131 reports of child abuse for Dallas County. At the beginning of March 2020 before COVID-19 safety measures were implemented, we had experienced a 15% increase in the number of cases read. While case reports went down during quarantine, we have projected and experienced a dramatic increase in cases; at the end of February 2021, we had experienced a 35% increase in cases read year-over-year.

In addition to supportive services provided by the MDT, DCAC also provides the following Core Programs at no cost to our clients. Please note, for the second half of FY2020, DCAC provided therapy and family advocacy services via a HIPPA-approved telehealth platform, Doxy.me. Forensic interviews were always conducted on-site during quarantine. Below you will find details and outcomes for FY 2020.

Forensic Interview Program
Trained DCAC forensic interviewers conduct interviews of children, both as a first step in the child's healing process and as a vital component of the investigation and prosecution of alleged perpetrators. The result is a legally defensible investigative interview of each alleged child victim. During FY2020, DCAC conducted 1,921 forensic interviews.

Family Advocacy Program
The Family Advocacy Team is committed to helping each family navigate the complex process of investigation, prosecution and healing after a child makes an outcry of abuse. The team helps the family learn about their rights and resources available to them during crisis as well as provides tangible, critical needs items like clothing, toiletries, and financial assistance on an as-needed basis. During FY 2020, the Family Advocacy Program supported 7,431 children and their non-offending family members.

Evidence-Based Therapy Program

Dallas Children's Advocacy Center™
PROVIDING JUSTICE • RESTORING HOPE

The Evidence-Based Therapy Program provides clients and their non-offending caregivers with cutting-edge, no-cost therapeutic services. Treatment is informed by an initial assessment to enhance engagement between families and therapists toward the recovery of children. When clients are assessed at the end of treatment, over 70% report a reduction in trauma symptoms. During FY 2020, the DCAC Therapy Program provided services to 2,498 clients.

Education Program

DCAC has pioneered a comprehensive, multi-part training curriculum that provides holistic responses to Texas child abuse reporting laws. In the past year, 100,405 people were educated in our curriculum by means of in-person instruction or online learning. In addition to our cutting-edge curriculum, we also host a Lecture Series at the Center. Lecture Series topics are designed to provide continuing education for medical, legal, clinical, law enforcement and other children's advocacy professionals. Since the start of the pandemic, we moved all lecture series' online; we continue to provide this education virtually and as such have discovered we can reach even more professional.

Partnership with Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc.

Since 2016, Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc. has supported DCAC through yearly, general operating investments towards our mission. We have received over $85,000 over the past five years through sponsorship of our Art for Advocacy event as well as from a golf tournament where DCAC was the dedicated beneficiary. This funding has been critical to the sustainability of our programs and each dollar allows us to serve our clients with transformative services at no cost to them. Alongside the financial commitment, Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc. has gone above and beyond in introducing us to additional community advocates who individually support our efforts as well. The ripple effect of our partnership with Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc. is invaluable and for that we are so grateful.

ORIGINAL COMPLAINT

I.

INTRODUCTION

This action arises out of the acts and omissions of Defendant Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("HCM"), which is the general manager of Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd. ("HCFA"), both of which are registered investment advisers under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 (the "Advisers Act"),[1] and nominal Defendant Highland CLO Funding, Ltd. ("HCLOF") (HCM and HCFA each a "Defendant," or together, "Defendants"). The acts and omissions which have recently come to light reveal breaches of fiduciary duty, a pattern of violations of the Advisers Act's anti-fraud provisions, and concealed breaches of the HCLOF Company Agreement, among others, which have caused and/or likely will cause Plaintiffs damages.

[1] https://adviserinfo.sec.gov/firm/summary/110126

At all relevant times, HCM was headed by CEO and potential party James P. Seery ("Seery"). Seery negotiated a settlement with the several Habourvest[2] entities who owned 49.98% of HCLOF. The deal had HCM (or its designee) purchasing the Harbourvest membership interests in HCLOF for $22.5 million. Recent revelations, however, show that the sale was predicated upon a sales price that was vastly below the Net Asset Value ("NAV") of those interests. Upon information and belief, the NAV of HCLOF's assets had risen precipitously, but was not disclosed to Harbourvest nor to Plaintiffs.

Under the Advisers Act, Defendants have a non-waivable duty of loyalty and candor, which includes its duty not to inside trade with its own investors, i.e., not to trade with an investor to which HCM and Seery had access to superior non-public information. Upon information and belief, HCM's internal compliance policies required by the Advisers Act would not generally have allowed a trade of this nature to go forward—meaning, the trade either was approved in spite of compliance rules preventing it, or the compliance protocols themselves were disabled or amended to a level that leaves Defendants HCM and HCLOF exposed to liability. Thus, Defendants have created an unacceptable perpetuation of exposure to liability.

Additionally, Defendants are liable for a pattern of conduct that gives rise to liability for their conduct of the enterprise consisting of HCM in relation to HCFA and HCLOF, through a pattern of concealment, misrepresentation, and violations of the securities rules. In the alternative, HCFA and HCM, are guilty of self-dealing, violations of the Advisers Act, and tortious interference by (a) not disclosing that Harbourvest had agreed to sell at a price well below the current NAV, and (b) diverting the Harbourvest opportunity to themselves.

For these reasons, judgment should be issued in Plaintiffs' favor.

IV.

RELEVANT BACKGROUND

HCLOF IS FORMED

10. Plaintiff DAF is a charitable fund that helps several causes throughout the country, including providing funding for humanitarian issues (such as veteran's welfare associations and women's shelters), public works (such as museums, parks and zoos), and education (such as specialty schools in underserved communities). Its mission is critical.

11. Since 2012, DAF was advised by its registered investment adviser, Highland Capital Management, L.P., and its various subsidiaries, about where to invest. This relationship was governed by an Investment advisory Agreement.

12. At one point in 2017, HCM advised DAF to acquire 143,454,001 shares of HCLOF, with HCFA (a subsidiary of HCM) serving as the portfolio manager. DAF did so via a holding entity, Plaintiff CLO Holdco, Ltd.

13. On November 15, 2017, through a Subscription and Transfer Agreement, the DAF entered into an agreement with others to sell and transfer shares in HCLOF, wherein the DAF retained 49.02% in CLO Holdco.

14. Pursuant to that agreement, Harbourvest acquired the following interests in the following entities:

Harbourvest Dover Street IX Investment, L.P., acquired 35.49%;

Harbourvest 2017 Global AIF, L.P., acquired 2.42%;

Harbourvest 2017 lobal Fund, L.P., acquired 4.85%;

HV International VIII Secondary, L.P., acquired 6.5%; and for a total of 49.98% (altogether, the "Harbourvest interests").

15. On or about October 16, 2019, Highland Capital Management filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy in Delaware Bankruptcy Court, which was later transferred to the Northern District of Texas Bankruptcy Court, in the case styled In Re: Highland Capital Management, L.P., Debtor, Cause No. 19-34054, (the "HCM Bankruptcy" and the Court is the "Bankruptcy Court").

The Harbourvest Settlement with Highland Capital Management in Bankruptcy

16. On April 8, 2020, Harbourvest submitted its proofs of claim in the HCM bankruptcy proceeding. Annexed to its proofs of claims was an explanation of the Proof of Claim and the basis therefor setting out various pre-petition allegations of wrongdoing by HCM. See, e.g., Case No. 19-bk-34054, Doc. 1631-5.

17. The debtor, HCM, made an omnibus response to the proofs of claims, stating they were duplicative of each other, overstated, late, and otherwise meritless.

18. Harbourvest responded to the omnibus objections on September 11, 2020. See Cause No. 19-bk-34054, Doc. 1057.

19. Harbourvest represented that it had invested in HCLOF, purchasing 49.98% of HCLOF's outstanding shares.

20. Plaintiff CLO Holdco was and is also a 49.02% holder of HCLOF's member interests.

21. In its Omnibus Response, Harbourvest explained that its claims included unliquidated legal claims for fraud, fraud in the inducement, RICO violations under 18 U.S.C. 1964, among others (the "Harbourvest Claims"). See Cause No. 19-bk-34054, Doc. 1057.

22. The Harbourvest Claims centered on allegations that when Harbourvest was intending to invest in a pool of Collateralized Loan Obligations, or CLOs, that were then-managed by Acis Capital Management ("Acis"), a subsidiary of HCM, HCM failed to disclose key facts about ongoing litigation with a former employee, Josh Terry.

23. Harbourvest contended that HCM never sufficiently disclosed the underlying facts about the litigation with Terry, and HCM's then-intended strategy to fight Terry caused HCLOF to incur around $15 million in legal fees and costs. It contended that had it known the nature of the lawsuit and how it would eventually turn out, Harbourvest never would have invested in HCLOF. See Cause No. 19-bk-34054, Doc. 1057.

24. HCLOF's portfolio manager is HCFA. HCM is the parent of HCFA and is managed by its General Partner, Strand Management, who employs Seery and acts on behalf of HCM.

25. Before acceding to the Harbourvest interests, HCM was a 0.6% holder of HCLOF interests.

26. While even assuming Harbourvest's underlying claims were valid as far as the lost $15 million went, the true damage of the legal fees to Harbourvest would have been 49.98% of the HCLOF losses (i.e., less than $7.5 million). Harbourvest claimed that it had lost over $100 million in the HCLOF transaction due to fraud, which, after trebling under the racketeering statute, it claimed it was entitled to over $300 million in damages.

27. In truth, as of September 2020, Harbourvest had indeed lost some $52 million due to the alleged diminishing value of the HCLOF assets (largely due to the underperformance of the Acis entities[3])—and the values were starting to recover.

28. HCM denied the allegations in the Bankruptcy Court. Other than the claim for waste of corporate assets of $15 million, HCM at all times viewed the Harbourvest legal claims as being worth near zero and having no merit.

29. On December 23, 2020, HCM moved the Court to approve a settlement between itself and Harbourvest. No discovery had taken place between the parties, and Plaintiff did not have any notice of the settlement terms or other factors prior to the motion's filing (or even during its pendency) in order to investigate its rights.

30. HCM set the hearing right after the Christmas and New Year's holidays, almost ensuring that no party would have the time to scrutinize the underpinnings of the deal.

31. On January 14, 2021, the Bankruptcy Court held an evidentiary hearing and approved the settlement in a bench ruling, overruling the objections to the settlement.

[3] Acis was being managed by Joshua Terry. JP Morgan had listed the four ACIS entities under his management as the four worst performers of the 1200 CLOs it evaluated.

32. An integral part of the settlement was allowing $45 million in unsecured claims that, at the time of the agreement, were expected to net Harbourvest around 70 cents on the dollar. In other words, Harbourvest was expected to recover around $31,500,000 from the allowed claims.

33. As part of the consideration for the $45 million in allowed claims, Harbourvest agreed to transfer all of its interests in HCLOF to HCM or its designee.

34. HCM and Seery rationalized the settlement value by allocating $22.5 million of the net value of the $45 million in unsecured claims as consideration to purchase Harbourvest's interests in HCLOF, meaning, if 70% of the unsecured claims—i.e., $31.5 million—was realized, because $22.5 million of that would be allocated to the purchase price of the Harbourvest interests in HCLOF, the true "settlement" for Harbourvest's legal claims was closer to $9 million.

35. Plaintiffs here are taking no position at this time about the propriety of settling the Harbourvest legal claims for $9 million. That is for another day.

36. At the core of this lawsuit is the fact that HCM purchased the Harbourvest interests in HCLOF for $22.5 million knowing that they were worth far more than that.

37. It has recently come to light that, upon information and belief, the Harbourvest interests, as of December 31, 2020, were worth in excess of $41,750,000, and they have continued to go up in value.

38. On November 30, 2020, which was less than a month prior to the filing of the Motion to Approve the Settlement, the net asset value of those interests was over $34.5 million. Plaintiffs were never made aware of that.

39. The change is due to how the net asset value, or NAV, was calculated. The means and methods for calculating the "net asset value" of the assets of HCLOF are subject to and governed by the regulations passed by the SEC pursuant to the Adviser's Act, and by HCM's internal policies and procedures.

40. Typically, the value of the securities reflected by a market price quote.

41. However, the underlying securities in HCLOF are not liquid and had not been traded in a long while.

42. There not having been any contemporaneous market quotations that could be used in good faith to set the marks[4] meant that other prescribed methods of assessing the value of the interests, such as the NAV, would have been the proper substitutes.

43. Seery testified that the fair market value of the Harbourvest HCLOF interests was $22.5 million. Even allowing some leeway there, it was off the mark by a mile.

44. Given the artifice described herein, Seery and the entity Defendants had to know that the representation of the fair market value was false. But it does not appear that they disclosed it to Harbourvest to whom they owed fiduciary duties as the RIA in charge of HCLOF, and they certainly did not disclose the truth to the Plaintiff.

45. It is either the case that (i) Defendants conducted the proper analysis to obtain a current value of the assets but decided to use a far lower valuation in order to whitewash the settlement or enrich the bankruptcy estate; or (ii) Defendants never conducted the proper current valuation, and therefore baselessly represented what the current value of the assets was, despite knowingly having no reasonable basis for making such a claim.

46. For years HCM had such internal procedures and compliance protocols. HCM was not allowed by its own compliance officers to trade with an investor where HCM had superior knowledge about the value of the assets, for example. While Plaintiff has no reason to believe that those procedures were scrapped in recent months, it can only assume that they were either overridden improperly or circumvented wholesale.

[4] The term "mark" is shorthand for an estimated or calculated value for a non-publicly traded instrument.

47. Upon finalizing the Harbourvest Settlement Agreement and making representations to the Bankruptcy Court to the Plaintiffs about the value of the Harbourvest Interests, Seery and HCM had a duty to use current values and not rely on old valuations of the assets or the HCLOF interests.

48. Given Defendants' actual or constructive knowledge that they were purchasing Harbourvest's Interests in HCLOF for a less than 50% of what those interests were worth—Defendants owed Plaintiff a fiduciary duty not to purchase them for themselves.

49. Defendants should have either had HCLOF repurchase the interests with cash, or offer those interests to Plaintiff and the other members pro rata, before HCM agreed to purchase them all lock, stock and barrel, for no up-front cash.

50. Indeed, had Plaintiff been offered those interests, it would have happily purchased them and therefore would have infused over $20 million in cash into the estate for the purpose of executing the Harbourvest Settlement.

51. That Defendants (and to perhaps a lesser extent, the Unsecured Creditors Committee (the "UCC")) agreed to pay $22.5 million for the HCLOF assets, where they had previously not consented to any such expenditure by the estate on behalf of HCLOF, strongly indicates their awareness that they were purchasing assets for far below market value.

52. The above is the most reasonable and plausible explanation for why Defendants and the UCC forwent raising as much as $22.5 million in cash now in favor of hanging on to the HCLOF assets.

53. Indeed, in January 2021 Seery threatened Ethen Powell that "[Judge Jernigan] is laughing at you" and "we are coming after you" in response to the latter's attempt to exercise his right as beneficial holder of the CLO, and pointing out a conflict of interest in Seery's plan to liquidate the funds.

54. HCM's threat, made by Seery, is tantamount to not only a declaration that he intends to liquidate the funds regardless of whether the investors want to do so, and whether it is in their best interests, but also that HCM intends to leverage what it views as the Bankruptcy Court's sympathy to evade accountability.

V.

CAUSES OF ACTION

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
Breaches of Fiduciary Duty

55. Plaintiffs respectfully incorporate the foregoing factual averments as if fully set forth herein and further alleges the following:

56. HCM is a registered investment advisor and acts on behalf of HCFA. Both are fiduciaries to Plaintiffs.

57. The Advisers Act establishes an unwaivable federal fiduciary duty for investment advisers.[5]

[5] See e.g, SEC v. Capital Gains Research Bureau, Inc., 375 U.S. 180, 194 (1963); Transamerica Mortg. Advisors (tama) v. Lewis, 444 U.S. 11, 17 (1979) ("§ 206 establishes 'federal fiduciary standards' to govern the conduct of investment advisers."); Santa Fe Indus, v. Green, 430 U.S. 462, 471, n.11 (1977) (in discussing *SEC v. 58. HCM and the DAF entered into an Amended and Restated Investment Advisory Agreement, executed between them on July 1, 2014 (the "RIA Agreement"). It renews annually and continued until the end of January 2021.

59. In addition to being the RIA to the DAF, HCM was appointed the DAF's attorney-in-fact for certain actions, such as "to purchase or otherwise trade in Financial Instruments that have been approved by the General Partner." RIA Agreement ¶ 4.

60. The RIA Agreement further commits HCM to value financial assets "in accordance with the then current valuation policy of the Investment Advisor [HCM], a copy of which will provided to the General Partner upon request." RIA Agreement ¶ 5.

61. While HCM contracted for the recognition that it would be acting on behalf of others and could be in conflict with advice given the DAF, (RIA Agreement ¶ 12), nowhere did it purport to waive the fiduciary duties owed to the DAF not to trade as a principal in a manner that harmed the DAF.

62. HCFA owed a fiduciary duty to Holdco as an investor in HCLOF and to which HCFA was the portfolio manager. HCM owed a fiduciary duty to the DAF (and to Holdco as its subsidiary) pursuant to a written Advisory Agreement HCM and the DAF had where HCM agreed to provide sound investment advice and management functions.

63. As a registered investment adviser, HCM's fiduciary duty is broad and applies to the entire advisor-client relationship.

64. The core of the fiduciary duty is to act in the best interest of their investors—the advisor must put the ends of the client before its own ends or the ends of a third party.

65. This is manifested in a duty of loyalty and a duty of utmost care. It also means that the RIA has to follow the terms of the company agreements and the regulations that apply to the investment vehicle.

66. The fiduciary duty that HCM and Seery owed to Plaintiff is predicated on trust and confidence. Section 204A of the Advisers Act requires investment advisors (whether SEC-registered or not) to establish, maintain, and enforce written policies and procedures reasonably designed to prevent the RIA from trading on material, non-public information. See 17 C.F.R. § 275.206(4)-7. That means that Plaintiff should be able to take Defendants at their word and not have to second guess or dig behind representations made by them.

67. The simple thesis of this claim is that Defendants HCFA and HCM breached their fiduciary duties by (i) insider trading with Harbourvest and concealing the rising NAV of the underlying assets—i.e., trading with Harbourvest on superior, non-public information that was neither revealed to Harbourvest nor to Plaintiff; (ii) concealing the value of the Harbourvest Interests; and (iii) diverting the investment opportunity in the Harbourvest entities to HCM (or its designee) without offering it to or making it available to Plaintiff or the DAF.

68. HCM, as part of its contractual advisory function with Plaintiffs, had expressly recommended the HCLOF investment to the DAF. Thus, diverting the opportunity for returns on its investment was an additional breach of fiduciary duty.

69. This violated a multitude of regulations under 27 C.F.R. part 275, in addition to Rules 10b-5 and 10b5-1. 17 CFR 240.10b5-1 ("Rule 10b5-1") explains that one who trades while possessing non-public information is liable for insider trading, and they do not necessarily have to have used the specific inside information.

70. It also violated HCM's own internal policies and procedures.

71. Also, the regulations impose obligations on Defendants to calculate a current valuation when communicating with an investor, such as what may or may not be taken into account, and what cannot pass muster as a current valuation. Upon information and belief, these regulations were not followed by the Defendants.

72. HCM's internal policies and procedures, which it promised to abide by both in the RIA Agreement and in its Form ADV SEC filing, provided for the means of properly calculating the value of the assets.

73. HCM either did not follow these policies, changed them to be out of compliance both with the Adviser Act regulations and its Form ADV representations, and/or simply misrepresented or concealed their results.

74. In so doing, because the fiduciary duty owed to Plaintiff is a broad one, and because Defendants' malfeasance directly implicates its relationship with Plaintiff, Defendants have breached the Advisers Act's fiduciary duties owed to Plaintiff as part of their fiduciary relationship.[6]

75. At no time between agreeing with Harbourvest to the purchase of its interests and the court approval did Defendants disclose to either Harbourvest or to Plaintiff (and the Bankruptcy Court for that matter) that the purchase was at below 50% the current net asset value as well, and when they failed to offer Plaintiff (and the other members of HCLOF) their right to purchase the interests pro rata at such advantageous valuations. Plaintiff's lost opportunity to purchase has harmed Plaintiff. Plaintiff had been led to believe by the Defendants that the value of what was being purchased in the Harbourvest settlement by HCM (or its designee) was at fair market value. This representation, repeated again in the Bankruptcy Court during the Harbourvest confirmation, implicitly suggested that a proper current valuation had been performed.

[6] See Advisers Act Release No. 4197 (Sept. 17, 2015) (Commission Opinion) ("[O]nce an investment Advisory relationship is formed, the Advisers Act does not permit an adviser to exploit that fiduciary relationship by defrauding his client in any investment transaction connected to the Advisory relationship."); see also SEC v. Lauer, No. 03-80612-CIV, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 73026, at 90 (S.D. Fla. Sept. 24, 2008) ("Unlike the antifraud provisions of the Securities Act and the Exchange Act, Section 206 of the Advisers Act does not require that the activity be 'in the offer or sale of any' security or 'in connection with the purchase or sale of any security.'").

76. Defendant's principal, Seery, testified in January 2021 that the then-current fair market value of Habourvests's 49.98% interest in HCLOF was worth around $22.5 million. But by then, it was worth almost double that amount and has continued to appreciate. Seery knew or should have known that fact because the value of some of the HCLOF assets had increased, and he had a duty to know the current value. His lack of actual knowledge, while potentially not overtly fraudulent, would nonetheless amount to a breach of fiduciary duty for acting without proper diligence and information that was plainly available.

77. Furthermore, HCLOF holds equity in MGM Studios and debt in CCS Medical via various CLO positions. But Seery, in his role as CEO of HCM, was made aware during an advisors meeting in December 2020 that Highland would have to restrict its trading in MGM because of its insider status due to activities that were likely to apply upward pressure on MGM's share price.

78. Furthermore, Seery controlled the Board of CCS Medical. And in or around October 2020, Seery was advocating an equatization that would have increased the value of the CCS securities by 25%, which was not reflected in the HCM report of the NAV of HCLOF's holdings.

79. Seery's knowledge is imputed to HCM.

80. Moreover, it is a breach of fiduciary duty to commit corporate waste, which is effectively what disposing of the HCLOF assets would constitute in a rising market, where there is no demand for disposition by the investors (save for HCM, whose proper 0.6% interest could easily be sold to the DAF at fair value).

81. As holder of 0.6% of the HCLOF interests, and now assignee of the 49.98% Harbourvest Interests), HCM has essentially committed self-dealing by threatening to liquidate HCLOF now that it may be compelled to do so under its proposed liquidation plan, which perhaps inures to the short term goals of HCM but to the pecuniary detriment of the other holders of HCLOF whose upside will be prematurely truncated.

82. Seery and HCM should not be allowed to benefit from the breach of their fiduciary duties because doing so would also cause Plaintiffs irreparable harm. The means and methods of disposal would likely render the full scope of damages to the DAF not susceptible to specific calculation—particularly as they would relate to calculating the lost opportunity cost. Seery and HCM likely do not have the assets to pay a judgment to Plaintiffs that would be rendered, simply taking the lost appreciation of the HCLOF assets.

83. Defendants are thus liable for diverting a corporate opportunity or asset that would or should have been offered to Plaintiff and the other investors. Because federal law makes the duties invoked herein unwaivable, it is preposterous that HCM, as a 0.6% holder of HCLOF, deemed itself entitled to the all of the value and optionality of the below-market Harbourvest purchase.

84. Defendants cannot rely on any contractual provision that purports to waive this violation. Nothing in any agreement purports to permit, authorize or otherwise sanitize Defendants' self-dealing. All such provisions are void.

85. In the fourth quarter of 2020, Seery and HCM notified staff that they would be terminated on December 31, 2020. That termination was postponed to February 28, 2021.

Purchasing the Harbourvest assets without staffing necessary to be a functioning Registered Investment Advisor was a strategic reversal from prior filings that outlined canceling the CLO management contracts and allowing investors to replace Highland as manager.

86. Seery's compensation agreement with the UCC incentivizes him to expedite recoveries and to prevent transparency regarding the Harbourvest settlement.

87. What is more, Seery had previously testified that the management contracts for the funds—HCLOF included—were unprofitable, and that he intended to transfer them. But he later rejected offers to purchase those management contracts for fair value and instead decided to continue to manage the funds—which is what apparently gave rise to the Harbourvest Settlement, among others. He simultaneously rejected an offer for the Harbourvest assets of $24 million, stating that they were worth much more than that.

88. Because of Defendants' malfeasance, Plaintiffs have lost over $25 million in damages—a number that continues to rise—and the Defendants should not be able to obtain a windfall.

89. For the same reason, Defendants' malfeasance has also exposed HCLOF to a massive liability from Harbourvest since the assignment of those interests is now one that is likely unenforceable under the Advisers Act, Section 47(b), if there was unequal information.

90. HCM and HCFA are liable as principals for breach of fiduciary duty, as are the principals and compliance staff of each entity.

91. Plaintiffs seek disgorgement, damages, exemplary damages, attorneys' fees and costs. To the extent the Court determines that this claim had to have been brought derivatively on behalf of HCLOF, then Plaintiffs represent that any pre-suit demand would have been futile since asking HCM to bring suit against its principal, Seery, would have been futile.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
Breach of HCLOF Company Agreement
(By Holdco against HCLOF, HCM and HCFA)

92. Plaintiffs respectfully incorporate the foregoing factual averments as if fully set forth herein and further alleges the following:

93. On November 15, 2017, the members of HCLOF, along with HCLOF and HCFA, executed the Members Agreement Relating to the Company (the "Company Agreement").

94. The Company Agreement governs the rights and duties of the members of HCLOF.

95. Section 6.2 of HCLOF Company Agreement provides that when a member "other than … CLO Holdco [Plaintiff] or a Highland Affiliate," intends to sell its interest in HCLOF to a third party (i.e., not to an affiliate of the selling member), then the other members have the first right of refusal to purchase those interests pro rata for the same price that the member has agreed to sell.

96. Here, despite the fact that Harbourvest agreed to sell its interests in HCLOF for $22.5 million when they were worth more than double that, Defendants did not offer Plaintiff the chance to buy its pro rata share of those interests at the same agreed price of $22.5 million (adjusted pro rata).

97. The transfer and sale of the interests to HCM were accomplished as part of the Harbourvest Settlement which was approved by the Bankruptcy Court.

98. Plaintiff was not informed of the fact that Harbourvest had offered its shares to Defendant HCM for $22.5 million—which was under 50% of their true value.

99. Plaintiff was not offered the right to purchase its pro rata share of the Harbourvest interests prior to the agreement being struck or prior to court approval being sought.

100. Had Plaintiff been allowed to do so, it would have obtained the interests with a net equity value over their purchase price worth in excess of $20 million.

101. No discovery or opportunity to investigate was afforded Plaintiff prior to lodging an objection in the Bankruptcy Court.

102. Plaintiff is entitled to specific performance or, alternatively, disgorgement, constructive trust, damages, attorneys' fees and costs.

THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION
Negligence
(By the DAF and CLO Holdco against HCM and HCFA)

103. Plaintiffs respectfully incorporate the foregoing factual averments as if fully set forth herein, and further alleges the following:

104. Plaintiffs incorporate the foregoing causes of action and note that all the foregoing violations were breaches of the common law duty of care imposed by law on each of Seery, HCFA and HCM.

105. Each of these Defendants should have known that their actions were violations of the Advisers Act, HCM's internal policies and procedures, the Company Agreement, or all three.

106. Seery and HCM owed duties of care to Plaintiffs to follow HCM's internal policies and procedures regarding both the propriety and means of trading with a customer [Harbourvest], the propriety and means of trading as a principal in an account but in a manner adverse to another customer [the DAF and Holdco], and the proper means of valuing the CLOs and other assets held by HCLOF.

107. It would be foreseeable that failing to disclose the current value of the assets in the HCLOF would impact Plaintiffs negatively in a variety of ways.

108. It would be reasonably foreseeable that failing to correctly and accurately calculate the current net asset value of the market value of the interests would cause Plaintiffs to value the Harbourvest Interests differently.

109. It would be reasonably foreseeable that referring to old and antiquated market quotations and/or valuations of the HCLOF assets or interests would result in a mis-valuation of HCLOF and, therefore, a mis-valuation of the Harbourvest Interests.

110. Likewise, it would have been foreseeable that Plaintiff's failure to give Plaintiff the opportunity to purchase the Harbourvest shares at a $22.5 million valuation would cause Plaintiff damages. Defendants knew that the value of those assets was rising. They further knew or should have known that whereas those assets were sold to HCM for an allowance of claims to be funded in the future, selling them to Plaintiff would have provided the estate with cash funds.

111. Defendants' negligence foreseeably and directly caused Plaintiff harm.

112. Plaintiff is thus entitled to damages.

FOURTH CAUSE OF ACTION
Racketeering Influenced Corrupt Organizations Act
(CLO Holdco and DAF against HCM)

113. Plaintiffs respectfully incorporate the foregoing factual averments as if fully set forth herein, and further alleges the following:

114. Defendants are liable for violations of the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations ("RICO") Act, 18 U.S.C. § 1961 et seq., for the conduct of an enterprise through a pattern of racketeering activity.

115. HCLOF constitutes an enterprise under the RICO Act. Additionally, or in the alternative, HCM, HCLA, and HCLOF constituted an association-in-fact enterprise. The purpose of the association-in-fact was the perpetuation of Seery's position at HCM and using the Harbourvest settlement as a vehicle to enrich persons other than the HCLOF investors, including Holdco and the DAF, and the perpetuation of HCM's holdings in collateralized loan obligations owned by HCLOF, while attempting to deny Plaintiffs the benefit of its rights of ownership.

116. The association-in-fact was bound by informal and formal connections for years prior to the elicit purpose, and then changed when HCM joined it in order to achieve the association's illicit purpose. For example, HCM is the parent and control person over HCFA, which is the portfolio manager of HCLOF pursuant to a contractual agreement—both are registered investment advisors and provide advisory and management services to HCLOF.

117. Defendants injured Plaintiffs through their continuous course of conduct of the HCM-HCLA-HCLOF association-in-fact enterprise. HCM's actions (performed through Seery and others) constitute violations of the federal wire fraud, mail fraud, fraud in connection with a case under Title 11, and/or securities fraud laws, pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 1961(1)(B) and (D).

118. HCM operated in such a way as to violate insider trading rules and regulations when it traded with Harbourvest while it had material, non-public information that it had not supplied to Harbourvest or to Plaintiffs.

119. In or about November 2020, HCM and Harbourvest entered into discussions about settling the Harbourvest Claims. Seery's conduct of HCLOF and HCLA on behalf of HCM through the interstate mails and/or wires caused HCM to agree to the purchase of Harbourvest's interests in HCLOF.

120. On or about each of September 30, 2020, through December 31, 2020, Seery, through his conduct of the enterprise, utilized the interstate wires and/or mails to obtain or arrive at valuations of the HCLOF interests. Seery's conduct of the enterprise caused them to cease sending the valuation reports to Plaintiffs, which eventually allowed Plaintiffs to be misled into believing that Seery had properly valued the interests.

121. On or about September 30, 2020, Seery transmitted or caused to be transmitted though the interstate wires information to HCLOF investors from HCM (via HCFA), including Harbourvest, regarding the value of HCLOF interests and underlying assets.

122. Additionally, Seery operated HCM in such a way that he concealed the true value of the HCLOF interests by utilizing the interstate wires and mails to transmit communications to the court in the form of written representations on or about December 23, 2020, and then further transmitted verbal representations of the current market value (the vastly understated one) on January 14, 2021, during live testimony.

123. However, Harbourvest was denied the full picture and the true value of the underlying portfolio. At the end of October and November of 2020, HCM had updated the net asset values of the HCLOF portfolio. According to sources at HCM at the time, the HCLOF assets were worth north of $72,969,492 as of November 30, 2020. Harbourvest's share of that would have been $36,484,746.

124. The HCLOF net asset value had reached $86,440,024 as of December 31, 2021, which means that by the time Seery was testifying in the Bankruptcy Court on January 14, 2021, the fair market value of the Harbourvest Assets was $22.5 million, when it was actually closer to $43,202,724. Seery, speaking on behalf of HCM, knew of the distinction in value.

125. On January 14, 2021, Seery also testified that he (implying HCM, HCLA and HCLOF) had valued the Harbourvest Assets at their current valuation and at fair market value. This was not true because the valuation that was used and testified to was ancient. The ostensible purpose of this concealment was to induce Plaintiff and other interest holdings to take no action.

126. In supporting HCM's motion to the Bankruptcy Court to approve the Harbourvest Settlement, Seery omitted the fact that HCM was purchasing the interests at a massive discount, which would violate the letter and spirit of the Adviser's Act.

127. Seery was informed in late December 2020 at an in-person meeting in Dallas to which Seery had to fly that HCLOF and HCM had to suspend trading in MGM Studios' securities because Seery had learned from James Dondero, who was on the Board of MGM, of a potential purchase of the company. The news of the MGM purchase should have caused Seery to revalue the HCLOF investment in MGM.

128. In or around October 2020, Seery (who controls the Board of CSS Medical) was pursuing "equatization" of CSS Medical's debt, which would have increased the value of certain securities by 25%. In several communications through the U.S. interstate wires and/or mails, and with Plaintiffs, and the several communications with Harbourvest during the negotiations of the settlement, Seery failed to disclose these changes which were responsible in part for the ever-growing value of the HCLOF CLO portfolio.

129. Seery was at all relevant times operating as an agent of HCM.

130. This series of related violations of the wire fraud, mail fraud, and securities fraud laws, in connection with the HCM bankruptcy, constitute a continuing pattern and practice of racketeering for the purpose of winning a windfall for HCM and himself--a nearly $30,000,000 payday under the confirmation agreement.

131. The federal RICO statute makes it actionable for one's conduct of an enterprise to include "fraud in connection with a [bankruptcy case]". The Advisers' Act antifraud provisions require full transparency and accountability to an advisers' investors and clients and does not require a showing of reliance or materiality. The wire fraud provision likewise is violated when, as here, the interstate wires are used as part of a "scheme or artifice … for obtaining money or property by means of false … pretenses, [or] representations[.]"

132. Accordingly, because Defendants' conduct violated the wire fraud and mail fraud laws, and the Advisers' Act antifraud provisions, and their acts and omissions were in connection with the HCM Bankruptcy proceedings under Title 11, they are sufficient to bring such conduct within the purview of the RICO civil action provisions, 18 U.S.C. § 1964.

133. Plaintiffs are thus entitled to damages, treble damages, attorneys' fees and costs of suit, in addition to all other injunctive or equitable relief to which they are justly entitled.

FIFTH CAUSE OF ACTION
Tortious Interference
(CLO Holdco against HCM)

134. Plaintiff respectfully incorporates the foregoing factual averments as if fully set forth herein and further alleges the following:

135. At all relevant times, HCM owned a 0.6% interest in HCLOF.

136. At all relevant times, Seery and HCM knew that Plaintiff had specific rights in HCLOF under the Company Agreement, § 6.2.

137. Section 6.2 of HCLOF Company agreement provides that when a member "other than … CLO Holdco [Plaintiff] or a Highland Affiliate," intends to sell its interest in HCLOF to a third party (i.e., not an affiliate of the member), then the other members have the first right of refusal to purchase those interests pro rata for the same price that the member has agreed to sell.

138. HCM, through Seery, tortiously interfered with Plaintiff's contractual rights with HCLOF by, among other things, diverting the Harbourvest Interests in HCLOF to HCM without giving HCLOF or Plaintiff the option to purchase those assets at the same favorable price that HCM obtained them.

139. HCM and Seery tortiously interfered with Plaintiff's contractual rights with HCLOF by, among other things, misrepresenting the fair market value as $22.5 million and concealing the current value of those interests.

140. But for HCM and Seery's tortious interference, Plaintiff would have been able to acquire the Harbourvest Interests at a highly favorable price. HCM and Seery's knowledge of the rights and intentional interference with these rights has caused damage to Plaintiff CLO Holdco.

141. Plaintiff is therefore entitled to damages from HCM and Seery, as well as exemplary damages.

VI.

JURY DEMAND

142. Plaintiff demands trial by jury on all claims so triable.

VII.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

143. Wherefore, for the foregoing reasons, Plaintiffs respectfully pray that the Court enter judgment in its favor and against Defendants, jointly and severally, for:

a. Actual damages;

b. Disgorgement;

c. Treble damages;

d. Exemplary and punitive damages;

e. Attorneys' fees and costs as allowed by common law, statute or contract;

f. A constructive trust to avoid dissipation of assets;

g. All such other relief to which Plaintiff is justly entitled.

The parties irrevocably waive any objections to the personal jurisdiction of these courts. The federal and state courts of the State of New York in New York County shall have sole and exclusive jurisdiction over any and all claims, controversies, disputes and actions which in any way relate to this Agreement or the subject matter of this Agreement. Any such claim, controversy, dispute or action must first be brought in the federal court of the State of New York in New York County, unless the federal courts do not have subject matter jurisdiction as a matter of law, in which case it must first be brought in the Commercial Division of the New York State Supreme Court in New York County (and can only proceed in New York County outside the Commercial Division if the Commercial Division rejects it). The parties also irrevocably waive any objections that these courts constitute an oppressive, unfair, or inconvenient forum and agree not to seek to change venue on these grounds or any other grounds.

21. Dissolution.

(i) The Partnership shall dissolve, and its affairs shall be wound-up upon the first to occur of the following: (A) the written consent of the General Partner, (B) the death, disability, termination, dissolution, bankruptcy or withdrawal of the last remaining General Partner (subject to Section 14(iv)), and (C) the entry of a decree of judicial dissolution under Section 17-802 of the Act.

22. Tax Matters Partner. The General Partner shall be the tax matters partner within the meaning of Section 6231(a)(7) of the Code. All expenses incurred by the tax matters partner in connection with its duties as tax matters partner shall be expenses of the Partnership.

24. Separability of Provisions. Each provision of this Agreement shall be considered separable and if for any reason any provision or provisions herein are determined to be invalid, unenforceable or illegal under any existing or future law, such invalidity, unenforceability or illegality shall not impair the operation of or affect those portions of this Agreement which are valid, enforceable and legal.

25. Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original of this Agreement.

26. Entire Agreement. This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement of the Partners with respect to the subject matter hereof and shall supersede all prior and contemporaneous agreements, understandings and discussions with respect thereto.

27. Governing Law, Personal Jurisdiction and Venue. The parties acknowledge and agree that any claim, controversy, dispute or action relating in any way to this Agreement or the subject matter of this Agreement shall be governed solely by the laws of the State of Delaware, without regard to any conflict of laws doctrines. The parties irrevocably consent to and submit to being served with legal process issued from the state and federal courts located in the State of New York and irrevocably consent to the exclusive personal jurisdiction of the federal and state courts situated in the State of New York. The parties irrevocably waive any objections to the personal jurisdiction of these courts. The federal and state courts of the State of New York in New York County shall have sole and exclusive jurisdiction over any and all claims, controversies, disputes and actions which in any way relate to this Agreement or the subject matter of this Agreement. Any such claim, controversy, dispute or action must first be brought in the federal court of the State of New York in New York County, unless the federal courts do not have subject matter jurisdiction as a matter of law, in which case it must first be brought in the Commercial Division of the New York State Supreme Court in New York County (and can only proceed in New York County outside the Commercial Division if the Commercial Division rejects it). The parties also irrevocably waive any objections that these courts constitute an oppressive, unfair, or inconvenient forum and agree not to seek to change venue on these grounds or any other grounds.

28. Amendments. This Agreement may not be modified, altered, supplemented or amended except pursuant to a written agreement executed and delivered by the Partners.

WHEREAS, the General Partner desires to amend and restate the Current Agreement in its entirety pursuant to, and in accordance with the terms of, Section 28 thereof, including to reflect the conversion of the Partnership into a "series" limited partnership.

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises of the parties hereinafter set forth and of other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, the undersigned parties agree to amend and restate the Current Agreement in its entirety with the following terms and conditions:

ARTICLE I
GENERAL PROVISIONS

Section 1.01 Formation of Partnership. The Partnership was formed as a limited partnership under the Delaware Revised Uniform Limited Partnership Act (as in effect on the date hereof and as amended from time to time, the "Act") by the filing of its Certificate of Limited Partnership (the "Certificate") with the Secretary of State of the State of Delaware (the "Delaware Secretary") on October 29, 2015. On November 19, 2015, an amended Certificate was filed with the Delaware Secretary to convert the Partnership into a "series" limited partnership under Section 17-218 of the Act. The General Partner, for itself and as agent for the Limited Partners, shall accomplish all filing, recording, publishing and other acts necessary or appropriate for compliance with all the requirements for the formation and operation of the Partnership as a limited partnership under this Agreement and the Act and under all other laws of the State of Delaware and such other jurisdictions in which the General Partner determines that the Partnership may conduct business. Each Limited Partner admitted to the Partnership by the General Partner shall promptly execute all relevant certificates and other documents, as the General Partner shall request.

Section 1.02 Partnership Name. The name of the Partnership is Atlas IDF, LP.

Section 1.03 Purpose. The Partnership was organized for the purpose of investing and trading in a wide variety of securities and financial instruments, domestic and foreign, of all kinds and descriptions, whether publicly traded or privately placed, including but not limited to, common and preferred stocks, bonds and other debt securities, convertible securities, limited partner interests, mutual fund shares, options, warrants, commodities, futures, derivatives (including swaps, forward contracts and structured instruments), currencies, monetary instruments, and cash and cash equivalents. In furtherance of the foregoing, the Partnership may engage in any lawful act or activity for which limited partnerships may be formed under the Act, and any and all activities necessary or incidental thereto, including any other business activities described in the Partnership's confidential private placement memorandum (as amended and supplemented from time to time, the "Memorandum"). In addition to investing in individual traded assets, the Partnership may invest a significant portion of its assets in other investment vehicles, including, without limitation, hedge funds, managed accounts and other private investment funds (collectively, the "Portfolio Funds"), including those managed by, or otherwise affiliated or related to, the Investment Manager (as defined in Section 3.01). Portfolio Funds may allocate their assets to Illiquid Investments (as defined in Section 9.07(a)).

Section 1.04 Place of Business. The Partnership shall have offices located at 87 Railroad Place, Suite 403, Saratoga Springs, New York, 12866, or elsewhere as the General Partner may from time to time determine. The Partnership may have more than one (1) office as may from time to time be determined by the General Partner.

Section 1.05 Fiscal Year. The fiscal year of the Partnership (the "Fiscal Year") shall end on December 31 of each year, except that it may be changed at any time by the General Partner in its sole discretion. In the event that the General Partner changes the Partnership's Fiscal Year, the dates and time periods referred to in this Agreement shall be appropriately adjusted.

Section 1.06 Term of Partnership. The term of the Partnership commenced upon filing of the Partnership's Certificate with the Delaware Secretary and shall continue indefinitely; provided, however, that the Partnership shall be dissolved forthwith upon the occurrence of any one of the events set forth in Section 13.01.

ARTICLE II
COMPOSITION; ADMISSIONS

Section 2.01 Names of the Partners. Atlas IDF GP, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company, is the sole general partner of the Partnership as of the date hereof. The names and addresses of the General Partner and of each of the Limited Partners shall be set forth in the records of the Partnership to be kept on file at all times at the principal place of business of the Partnership.

Section 2.02 Admission of Partners. Additional Limited Partners (as defined in Section 8.01) may be admitted to the Partnership at such times as provided in Article VIII. In connection with the admission of a Limited Partner to the Partnership, such Limited Partner shall, in advance of such admission and as a condition thereto, sign a copy of this Agreement or an agreement to become bound by the provisions of this Agreement and such other subscription materials as shall be determined by the General Partner. Upon the admission of a Limited Partner, the Initial Limited Partner listed on the signature page hereof shall automatically be deemed to have withdrawn from the Partnership. For the avoidance of doubt, the General Partner shall be permitted to make an investment in the Partnership and be issued Partnership Interests hereunder, and such Interests of the General Partner shall be treated as a Limited Partner's Partnership Interests hereunder. A substitute general partner and additional general partners may be admitted to the Partnership as provided in Article IV.

Section 2.03 Partnership Interests.

(a) For purposes of this Agreement, the term "Partnership Interest" shall mean the quotient resulting from dividing (i) the amount in a Partner's Capital Account (as defined in Section 9.01), including the fair value of such Partner's interests in any Side Pocket Accounts (as defined in Section 9.07) or New Issues Accounts (as defined in Section 9.08(a)) and other memorandum accounts, by (ii) the aggregate amount in the Capital Accounts of all Partners, including the fair value of any Side Pocket Accounts, New Issues Accounts and other memorandum accounts. "Partnership Interests" shall mean the sum of all amounts in the Capital Accounts of all Partners (including all Side Pocket Accounts, New Issues Accounts and other memorandum accounts).

(b) The Partnership is an "insurance-dedicated" fund. The Partnership Interests are being offered only to Limited Partners that are: (x) insurance company investors, on behalf of certain of their segregated separate accounts ("Separate Accounts"), that fund certain variable life insurance and variable annuity contracts (collectively, the "Policies") to be issued to policy owners (each, a "Policy Owner") by the Limited Partners, or (y) state or local government pension plans, qualified tuition plans ("§529 plans"), and private sector qualified pension or retirement plans, as generally described in Treasury Regulation 1.817-5(f)(3). In addition, if an investor is an insurance company, such investor must require its Policy Owners to meet certain suitability standards, as further set forth in the Memorandum. While an insurance company, not a Policy Owner, will become a Limited Partner in the Partnership, it is expected that Policy Owners will be able to allocate a portion of their investment held in the Separate Account to the Partnership as one of the investment options of the Policies.

Each life insurance company Limited Partner will be deemed to hold a Partnership Interest in respect of the account of each Policy Owner and will be treated as a separate Limited Partner with respect to each such Partnership Interest.

Section 2.04 Issuance of Interests in Series.

(a) Pursuant to Section 17-218 of the Act, the Partnership Interests will be offered in separate series ("Series"). The Partnership is currently offering one Series of Partnership Interests: "Series 1 Partnership Interests". Each Series of Partnership Interests will have separate rights and obligations.

(b) In addition, each Series of Partnership Interests may correspond to a separate portfolio of assets, which may have different investment objectives and strategies. The Partnership may issue additional Series of Partnership Interests in the future, which may have rights and obligations that differ from those of the Series 1 Partnership Interests with respect to any matters, including without limitation, fees, withdrawal rights, participation in Side Pocket Accounts (as defined) and other rights and terms. The terms of such additional Series shall be determined by the General Partner, in its sole discretion.

(c) Each Series shall have separate rights, powers and duties with respect to its investment portfolio and other property and obligations and the profits and losses associated with such portfolio, property and obligations. The Partnership shall maintain separate and distinct records for each Series and shall hold and account for the assets and liabilities of such Series separately from other Series. The Partnership shall not accept additional Limited Partners into any existing Series if such Series has existing Side Pocket Accounts at the time of such admission.

(d) Pursuant to Section 17-218 of the Act, (i) the debts, liabilities and obligations incurred, contracted for or otherwise existing with respect to a particular Series shall be enforceable against the assets of such Series only, and not against the assets of any other Series, and (ii) none of the debts, liabilities and obligations incurred, contracted for or otherwise existing with respect to the Partnership generally or any other Series shall be enforceable against the assets of such Series.

(e) As of the date hereof, the Investment Manager intends to allocate approximately 45% of the Series 1 investment portfolio to traded investments and approximately (but not more than) 55% of the Series 1 investment portfolio to the first series of limited partnership interests to be issued by the PE Portfolio Fund (as defined in Section 2.04(f)). However, the Investment Manager reserves the right to change such allocation in the future, subject to compliance with all applicable laws, including the diversification requirements applicable to insurance-dedicated investment funds, as further set forth in the Memorandum.

(f) As of the date hereof, (i) the Investment Manager acts as the investment manager to Rand PE Fund I, L.P., a Delaware "series" limited partnership ("PE Portfolio Fund") that: (x) is expected to initially invest in the Highland Transaction (as defined in the Memorandum), if any, and (y) will potentially make investments in the future in other private transactions similar to the Highland Transaction; (ii) Rand PE Fund Management, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company and an affiliate of the General Partner and the Investment Manager, is the general partner of the PE Portfolio Fund; (iii) the Principal (as defined in the Memorandum) is the managing member and controlling person of Rand PE Fund Management, LLC; and (iv) the Investment Manager acts as the investment subadvisor to a series of SALI Multi-Series Fund, L.P., a Delaware "series" limited partnership, and provides certain discretionary investment advisory or consulting services to such series, as further set forth in the Memorandum.

(g) Unless the context otherwise requires, Series 1 Partnership Interests and any other Series of Partnership Interests shall be collectively referred to throughout this Agreement as the "Partnership Interests." As the context may require, the holders of Series 1 Partnership Interests may be referred to herein as "Series 1 Limited Partners". Series 1 Limited Partners and, to the extent applicable, all the Limited Partners of other Series shall be collectively referred to throughout this Agreement the "Limited Partners".

(h) References herein to the Partnership shall include, where appropriate, each Series of the Partnership. The terms of the other Series may be set forth in an amended version of this Agreement and/or in a separate supplement thereto.

ARTICLE III
MANAGEMENT

Section 3.01 Management of Partnership

(a) The business and affairs of the Partnership shall be managed exclusively by the General Partner. The Limited Partners shall take no part in the management or control of the Partnership's business and shall have no authority to act for or bind the Partnership. The General Partner shall have sole discretion and authority to select investments, shall invest the funds of the Partnership from time to time as the General Partner deems appropriate in accordance with the purposes set forth in Section 1.03, and shall have (without limitation) the powers set forth in Section 3.02. The General Partner may select an investment manager ("Investment Manager") to provide all or any portion of the portfolio management services required by the Partnership, including the valuation of assets of the Partnership. The Investment Manager may be changed from time to time by the General Partner in its sole and absolute discretion. The initial Investment Manager shall be Rand Advisors, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company and an affiliate of the General Partner. If at any time there is no Investment Manager, then the General Partner shall provide such portfolio management services, and be subject to the provisions of this Agreement applicable to the Investment Manager.

(b) Each of the General Partner and the Investment Manager shall not be required to devote its full time to the business of the Partnership, but shall devote so much of its time and efforts to the affairs of the Partnership as may in its judgment be necessary to accomplish the purposes of the Partnership. Nothing herein contained shall prevent the General Partner or the Investment Manager from conducting any other business, including any business with respect to securities (and/or other investments), whether or not such business ventures are in direct or indirect competition with the Partnership. Each of the General Partner and the Investment Manager is not prohibited from buying or selling securities for its own account, including the same securities (and/or other investments) as are purchased, sold or held by the Partnership, but none of the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of their respective affiliates (which shall not include, for purposes of this paragraph, advisory clients or managed funds) shall buy securities (and/or other investments) from or sell securities (and/or other investments) to the Partnership without the written consent of either all Limited Partners or a committee of independent Limited Partners.

Section 3.02 Powers of the General Partner. Without in any way intending to limit the powers of the General Partner, the General Partner shall have the right, power and authority on behalf of the Partnership (or to delegate any portion of such rights, power and authority):

(a) As provided in Section 3.01, to allocate all of the assets of the Partnership among securities (and/or other investments) to be selected by the General Partner in its sole and absolute discretion, including, but not limited to the right to:

(i) purchase, hold and sell securities (and/or other investments) and rights therein of any kind or nature;

(ii) allocate any and all of the assets of the Partnership among a number of Portfolio Funds;

(iii) purchase, hold, sell and otherwise deal in put and call options, monetary instruments and any combinations thereof and any other financial instruments or contracts of any nature or kind;

(iv) maintain margin accounts with brokers, pledge securities for loans and, in connection with any such pledge, effect borrowings from brokers or banks in such amounts as may be determined from time to time; and

(v) transact business through brokers and dealers and other persons selected by the General Partner in its sole discretion, and in selecting such brokers, dealers and other persons, and determining the compensation payable to such persons, it shall seek to obtain the best execution for the Partnership taking into account the value of any research and brokerage services or products provided by such persons to the General Partner or the Partnership even though other persons may be able to provide transactional services (without any accompanying research or brokerage services or products) at lower rates of compensation;

(b) To acquire and enter into any contract of insurance that the General Partner deems necessary or appropriate for the protection of the Partnership and the General Partner or for any purpose convenient or beneficial to the Partnership;

(c) To engage in any transaction with affiliates of the General Partner, including entering into and amending and restating an investment management agreement with the Investment Manager (any such agreement, in effect from time to time, "Investment Management Agreement"), subject to the restrictions in Section 3.01(b);

(d) To employ persons, whether full-time or part-time, in the operation and management of the business of the Partnership, on such terms and for such compensation as the General Partner shall determine, regardless of whether or not such persons also may be employed by the General Partner or its affiliates;

(e) To file, conduct and defend legal proceedings of any form, including proceedings against Partners, and to compromise and settle any such proceedings or any claims, including claims against Partners, on whatever terms deemed appropriate by the General Partner;

(f) To open brokerage, bank and other accounts and, to the extent that funds are not invested, to deposit and maintain such funds in the name of the Partnership in such accounts and to temporarily invest such funds in short term United States and/or foreign government securities, money market accounts and/or other short term interest-bearing instruments; provided, however, that the Partnership's funds shall not be commingled with the funds of any other person or entity;

(g) To cause the Partnership to make or revoke any of the elections referred to in Section 754 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended ("Code"), or any similar provision enacted in lieu thereof;

(h) To act as the "tax matters partner" of the Partnership within the meaning of Section 6231(a)(7) of the Code;

(i) To select as its accounting year the annual period ending December 31 or any other Fiscal Year as is permitted by the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS");

(j) To engage independent accountants, attorneys, investment managers, sub-advisers, broker-dealers, administrators, custodians, consultants and such other persons as the General Partner may deem necessary or advisable;

(k) To establish and maintain for the conduct of Partnership affairs one or more offices and in connection therewith rent or acquire office space, engage personnel, whether part time or full time, and do such other acts and incur such expenses as the General Partner may deem necessary or advisable in connection with the maintenance or administration of such office;

(l) To require a provision in any Partnership contract that the General Partner shall not have any personal liability therefor, but that the person or entity contracting with the Partnership is to look solely to the Partnership and its assets for satisfaction;

(m) To purchase and sell Partnership assets at such price or amount for cash, securities or other property and upon such terms as are deemed in the General Partner's absolute discretion to be in the best interests of the Partnership;

(n) To prepare (or cause to be prepared), execute, acknowledge and/or deliver any and all instruments to effectuate the business of the Partnership, including, but not limited to, annual and/or interim reports, a copy of which shall be delivered to each Partner, as provided in Sections 3.06(b) and 13.05;

(o) To effect on behalf of the Partnership any "agency cross transaction" (as contemplated in Rule 206(3)-2 under the U.S. Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended ("Advisers Act")) through the General Partner or any of its affiliates that is registered as a broker or dealer; provided that the authority granted in this subsection may be revoked at any time by the General Partner or by vote or consent of Limited Partners owning more than fifty percent (50%) of the Partnership Interests held by Limited Partners;

(p) To "cross" any transaction for the purchase or sale of securities between two or more advisory clients or managed funds, including the Partnership (as contemplated in Rule 206(3) under the Advisers Act and interpretations thereunder) ("Cross Trading"); provided that the General Partner receives no additional compensation in connection with such Cross Trading activities, and subject to the restrictions in Section 3.01(b);

(q) To waive or reduce, in whole or in part, any notice period, minimum amount requirement, or other limitation or restriction imposed on Capital Contributions (as defined in Section 8.01), withdrawals of capital, any fee, any payment to the General Partner and/or any requirement imposed on a Limited Partner by this Agreement, regardless of whether such notice period, minimum amount, limitation, restriction, withdrawal provision, fee, payment or other requirement of this Agreement, or the waiver or reduction thereof, operates for the benefit of the Partnership, the General Partner or fewer than all the Limited Partners;

(r) To establish such reserves for the Partnership as the General Partner shall, in its sole but reasonable discretion, deem appropriate to pay current and future, definite, contingent and possible obligations of the Partnership or a Series (even if such reserves are not in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"));

(s) To value the assets and liabilities of the Partnership;

(t) To create special purpose vehicles to make or pursue investments either alone or as a joint-venture with other persons or entities;

(u) To establish and offer multiple Series of Partnership Interests with such rights and privileges as the General Partner shall determine, and to amend this Agreement in connection therewith to reflect such multi-Series structure;

(v) To convert the Partnership from a stand-alone fund into a "feeder fund" as part of a master-feeder structure, and to amend this Agreement pursuant thereto to reflect such master-feeder structure;

(w) To create a liquidating fund entity (e.g., a liquidating trust or similar vehicle), and to transfer all or a portion of the Partnership's assets to such entity for any reason, including an orderly liquidation of any illiquid Partnership assets; and

(x) To do any act, engage in any activity or execute any agreement of any nature, necessary or incidental to the accomplishment of the purposes of the Partnership in accordance with the provisions of this Agreement, the Memorandum and all applicable federal, state and local laws and regulations.

Section 3.03 Actions of General Partner. The General Partner is authorized, directed and empowered to act individually on behalf of the Partnership, and in accordance therewith, to execute all documents and instruments on behalf of the Partnership. Third parties may rely on the execution of any documents on behalf of the Partnership by the General Partner.

Section 3.04 Liability and Indemnification

(a) None of the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates (as defined in Section 6.02(a)) shall be liable to the Partnership or the Limited Partners for any action or inaction in connection with the business and affairs of the Partnership unless such action or inaction is determined by a final, non-appealable decision of a court of competent jurisdiction to constitute gross negligence or willful misconduct. It shall be conclusively presumed and established that the General Partner, the Investment Manager and such persons acted in good faith if any action is taken, or not taken, by any of them on the advice of legal counsel or other independent outside consultants; provided that the General Partner, the Investment Manager and such persons did not act with gross negligence or willful misconduct in the selection of such counsel or consultants. Any exculpation under this Section 3.04(a) shall apply only to the extent that such exculpation does not violate applicable federal and state laws.

(b) The Partnership shall indemnify and hold harmless the General Partner, the Investment Manager and the Investment Manager Affiliates (which, for purposes of this Section 3.04(b), shall include fund counsel (except for legal malpractice)) from and against any and all claims, liabilities, obligations, judgments, suits, proceedings, actions, demands, losses, costs, expenses (including attorneys' fees and other expenses of litigation), damages, penalties or interest, as a result of any claim or legal proceeding (made or threatened) related to any action or inaction by any of them in connection with the business and affairs of the Partnership (including the settlement or appeal of any such claim or legal proceeding); provided, however, that the party against whom the claim is made or legal proceeding is directed is not guilty of gross negligence or willful misconduct, as determined by a final, non-appealable decision of a court of competent jurisdiction. Any indemnity under this Section 3.04(b) shall be paid from and to the extent of Partnership assets only, and shall apply only to the extent that such indemnity does not violate applicable federal and state laws. The Partnership shall, in the sole discretion of the General Partner, advance amounts and/or pay expenses as incurred in connection with the indemnification obligation herein. In the event this indemnification obligation shall be deemed unenforceable, whether in whole or in part, such unenforceable portion shall be stricken or modified so as to give effect to this paragraph to the fullest extent permitted by law. For the avoidance of doubt, the foregoing indemnification provisions shall apply on a Series-by-Series basis.

(c) If, to the extent, and at such times as, any assets of the Partnership are deemed to be "plan assets" within the meaning of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended ("ERISA"), of any Limited Partner that is an employee benefit plan governed by ERISA, the General Partner shall be, and hereby acknowledges that it shall be considered to be, a fiduciary within the meaning of Section 3(21) of ERISA as to that Limited Partner. In such an event, or if any manager, member, officer, employee, agent or affiliate of the General Partner, is ever held to be a fiduciary of any Limited Partner, then, in accordance with Sections 405(b)(1), 405(c)(2) and 405(d) of ERISA, the fiduciary responsibilities of that person shall be limited to the person's duties in administering the business of the Partnership, and the person shall not be responsible for any other duties to such Limited Partner, specifically including evaluating the initial or continued appropriateness of this investment in the Partnership under Section 404(a)(1) of ERISA.

Section 3.05 No Prohibition Against Other Business Ventures. Each of the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal and the Investment Manager Affiliates may engage and hold interests in other business ventures of every kind and description for its own account, including, without limitation, other investment entities similar to the Partnership, whether or not such business ventures are in direct or indirect competition with the Partnership, and whether or not the Partnership or any of the Partners also has an interest therein, without having to account to the Partnership or any Partner for any profits or other benefits derived therefrom and without incurring any obligation to offer any interest in any such activity to the Partnership or any Partner.

Section 3.06 Duty to Keep Books, Financial and Tax Reports

(a) At all times during the existence of the Partnership, the General Partner shall keep true and complete records and books of account, in which each transaction of the Partnership shall be entered fully and accurately. The General Partner has the power, in its sole and absolute discretion, to delegate some or all of the administrative bookkeeping functions relating to the Partnership to an administrator or other agent, which may be the Partnership's accountants.

(b) The General Partner shall cause to be prepared and distributed to each Partner as soon as practicable following each Fiscal Year the Partnership's annual financial statements prepared in accordance with GAAP (except to the extent that the Memorandum or this Agreement states or contemplates that such statements may be inconsistent with GAAP) and audited by an independent certified public accounting firm. The General Partner shall also have prepared and filed all federal, state and local income, franchise, gross receipts, payroll and other tax returns that the Partnership is obligated to file. Subject to the limitations set forth in Section 5.04, copies of all Partnership tax returns, information returns or reports shall be available to all Partners as soon as possible after the close of the Partnership's Fiscal Year at the principal office of the Partnership. Copies of each Partner's Schedule K-1 of the Partnership's Tax Return (Form 1065) shall be distributed to such Partner as soon as practicable after the close of the Partnership's Fiscal Year. The General Partner may agree to provide certain Limited Partners with additional information on the underlying investments of the Partnership, as well as heightened access to the General Partner, the Investment Manager and their respective employees for relevant information. For the avoidance of doubt, the foregoing reporting provisions shall apply on a Series-by-Series basis.

(c) The General Partner may at any time choose to change the Partnership's accounting guidelines from GAAP to the International Financial Reporting Standard ("IFRS"). In such event, the financial performance of the Partnership, as determined under IFRS, may vary from those determined under GAAP.

ARTICLE IV
GENERAL PARTNER RESIGNATION; TRANSFER OF GENERAL PARTNER INTEREST; CONTINUATION OF PARTNERSHIP; SUBSTITUTION OF GENERAL PARTNER

Section 4.01 General Partner Resignation and Involuntary Withdrawal; Admission of Additional General Partners and Transfer by General Partner

(a) The General Partner shall not be permitted to voluntarily withdraw or resign as the general partner of the Partnership, except upon no less than thirty (30) days' prior written notice to all Limited Partners. In the event of dissolution of the General Partner, or if a voluntary or involuntary petition for bankruptcy shall be filed by or against the General Partner, or the General Partner shall make any assignment for the benefit of its creditors (any of the foregoing, an "Involuntary Withdrawal"), the General Partner or the General Partner's trustee, receiver or assignee shall have none of the rights and powers of a general partner hereunder, and shall have no authority to act on behalf of the Partnership or have any voice in the management and operation of the Partnership, except as provided in Section 13.02.

(b) The General Partner may admit additional general partners to the Partnership at such times as the General Partner shall determine, without the consent of the Limited Partners. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the General Partner shall have the right to transfer its interest, as the general partner of the Partnership, to any affiliate of the General Partner, including any person or entity controlled by the General Partner, controlling the General Partner or under common control with the General Partner, without the consent of the Limited Partners. In the event of such transfer by the General Partner to an affiliate, the General Partner shall not be deemed to have resigned or withdrawn from the Partnership for purposes of Section 13.01(a). Any affiliate transferee of the General Partner under this Section 4.01(b) shall assume the status of and shall have all of the rights, powers and obligations that the General Partner possessed prior to such transfer. The General Partner shall not assign, transfer, sell, mortgage or otherwise encumber or transfer its interest as the general partner of the Partnership, except as set forth herein. Any additional general partner or transferee of the General Partner shall execute and acknowledge any and all instruments that are necessary or appropriate to effect the admission of any such person or entity as a general partner, including, without limitation, the written acceptance and adoption by such person of the provisions of this Agreement and, if required by the Act, an amendment of the Certificate. For the avoidance of doubt, should the General Partner transfer its interest, as the general partner of the Partnership, to any non-affiliate of the General Partner, the Limited Partners shall have the right to revoke such appointment within ninety (90) days after such event, by affirmative vote of Limited Partners owning more than fifty percent (50%) of the Partnership Interests held by Limited Partners.

Section 4.02 Continuation of Partnership; Appointment of Substitute General Partner by Limited Partners. If an event as set forth in Section 13.01(a) occurs, the Limited Partners shall have the right, within ninety (90) days after such event, by affirmative vote of Limited Partners owning more than fifty percent (50%) of the Partnership Interests held by Limited Partners, to appoint a substitute general partner, in which event the Partnership shall not dissolve and shall continue its existence.

Section 4.03 Substitute General Partner Requirements. Any substitute general partner shall execute and acknowledge any and all instruments that are necessary or appropriate to effect the admission of any such person or entity as a substitute general partner, including, without limitation, the written acceptance and adoption by such person of the provisions of this Agreement and, if required by the Act, an amendment of the Certificate. Any successor to such office of general partner shall assume the status of and shall have all of the rights, powers and obligations that the General Partner possessed prior to its withdrawal, resignation or Involuntary Withdrawal from the Partnership.

ARTICLE V
STATUS, RIGHTS, POWERS AND VOTING RIGHTS OF LIMITED PARTNERS

Section 5.01 Limited Liability. No Limited Partner, Substitute Limited Partner (as defined in Section 10.02) or Additional Limited Partner shall be personally liable or bound for the expenses, liabilities or obligations of the Partnership or the relevant Series beyond the amount in such Partner's Capital Account in the relevant Series, from time to time, including any amounts thereof attributable to Capital Contributions, except that such Partner may be obligated to return all or a portion of any distributions (including withdrawal proceeds) received from the Partnership (x) in an amount up to its aggregate Capital Contributions in the relevant Series (including any income or gains thereon) to the Partnership in order to pay such Partner's pro rata share of any Partnership liabilities that arose while such Partner held Partnership Interests, and (y) as required under Section 5.02(b).

Section 5.02 Capital Contributions

(a) No Limited Partner shall be entitled to a return of such Limited Partner's Capital Contribution or any portion thereof, except as set forth in Section 7.01, and no time has been agreed upon for the return of any Partner's Capital Contribution, except as herein provided.

(b) Each Limited Partner, if such Limited Partner receives a return of all or any part of such Limited Partner's Capital Contribution, may, to the extent provided for in the Act, be liable to the Partnership or the relevant Series for an amount equal to such distribution, if at the time of such distribution, the Limited Partner knew the Partnership or the relevant Series was prohibited from making such distribution under the Act.

Section 5.03 Liability of Limited Partner for Additional Contributions and Loans. No Limited Partner shall be obligated to provide any contributions to the Partnership, other than the Original Capital Contribution (as defined in Section 9.02) of such Limited Partner. No Limited Partner shall be obligated to make any loan to the Partnership.

Section 5.04 Rights of Limited Partners to Inspect Books, Records, and Partnership Documents. Upon reasonable advance written notice and during reasonable business hours, a Limited Partner may inspect and copy, at the Limited Partner's expense and solely for a purpose reasonably related to the Limited Partner's interest as a Partner, the records of the Partnership required to be maintained pursuant to Section 17-305 of the Act and any financial statements maintained by the Partnership. Any such inspection must be in good faith without any intent to damage the Partnership or any of its Partners in any manner. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the General Partner in its discretion may limit the information that a Limited Partner may obtain pursuant to this Section 5.04 to the extent that such information shall allow a Limited Partner to identify any other Limited Partner. As a result, each Limited Partner agrees and acknowledges that any books and records of the Partnership made available to a Limited Partner for inspection may be redacted to exclude any information concerning the identity of the other Limited Partners, and, to the extent such books and records cannot be so redacted, such books and records may be withheld for inspection to such requesting Limited Partner. Copies of this Agreement and all amendments hereto shall be furnished to each Limited Partner upon request. For the avoidance of doubt, the foregoing reporting provisions shall apply on a Series-by-Series basis.

Section 5.05 No Restriction on Other Activities. Limited Partners may engage and hold interests in business ventures of every kind and description for their own accounts, including, without limitation, business ventures which are, directly or indirectly, in competition with the Partnership and whether or not the Partnership or any of the Partners also has an interest therein. Neither the Partnership nor any of the Partners shall have any rights in such independent business ventures by virtue of this Agreement.

Section 5.06 Voting Rights. In addition to the rights to vote conferred upon the Limited Partners in Sections 3.01(b), 3.02, 4.02 and 13.02 or otherwise specifically set forth herein, Limited Partners shall have the right to vote on amendments to this Agreement to the extent provided in Section 14.08.

Section 5.07 Constructive Consent by Limited Partners. In the event that the General Partner requires the consent of the Limited Partners in order to take action (including approving amendments to this Agreement), and written notice of such action is sent to any such Limited Partners by (i) certified mail, return receipt requested, (ii) electronic mail, or (iii) overnight delivery by a reputable private carrier or by the postal service, those Limited Partners not affirmatively objecting in writing within thirty (30) days after such notice is deemed to have been mailed or sent (under Section 14.01) be deemed to have consented to the proposed action set forth in the General Partner's notice.

Section 5.08 Rights as to Dissolution. The Limited Partners shall have no right or power to cause the dissolution and winding up of the Partnership by court decree or otherwise or to withdraw or reduce their Capital Contributions, except as set forth in the Certificate and this Agreement. No Limited Partner shall have the right to bring an action for partition against the Partnership, and each Partner hereby waives any right to partition of the Partnership's property.

Section 5.09 Consent by Partners in Lieu of Meeting. Any action required by this Agreement or the Act to be taken at any regular or special meeting of the Partners, may be taken without a meeting, without prior notice and without a vote, if a consent or consents in writing, setting forth the action so taken, shall be signed by the Partners (or shall be deemed signed by the Partners pursuant to Section 5.07) having not less than the minimum number of votes that would be necessary to authorize or take such action at a meeting at which all Partners entitled to vote thereon were present and voted.

Section 5.10 Non-Voting Interests of BHC Limited Partners; Other Non-Voting Interests

(a) The portion of any Partnership Interest held for its own account by a BHC Limited Partner (as defined in this Section 5.10(a)) whose interests in the Partnership are determined, at any time, to be in excess of 4.99% (or such greater or lesser percentage as may be permitted or required from time to time under Section 4(c)(6) of the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956, as amended ("BHCA")) of the aggregate outstanding Partnership Interests of all Limited Partners, excluding any other Partnership Interests that are non-voting Partnership Interests pursuant to this Section 5.10, shall be deemed to be non-voting Partnership Interests to the extent of such excess above 4.99% (whether or not subsequently transferred, in whole or in part, to any other person or entity) (collectively, "Non-Voting Interests"); provided that such Non-Voting Interests shall be permitted to participate in any vote by the Limited Partners on (i) any proposal to dissolve or continue the business of the Partnership under this Agreement, (ii) any vote pursuant to Section 4.02, and (iii) matters with respect to which voting rights are not considered to be "voting securities" under 12 C.F.R. § 225.2(q)(2), including such matters which may "significantly and adversely" affect a BHC Limited Partner (such as amendments to this Agreement or modifications of the terms of its Partnership Interest). Except as provided in Section 13.01(a), a BHC Limited Partner shall not be permitted to vote on the selection of any successor general partner of the Partnership, and each BHC Limited Partner irrevocably waives its right to vote its Non-Voting Interest on the selection of a successor general partner of the Partnership under Section 17-801 of the Act, which waiver shall be binding upon such BHC Limited Partner or any person or entity that succeeds to its Partnership Interest. A "BHC Limited Partner" shall mean any Limited Partner that is, or is an affiliate of, a bank holding company (as defined in Section 2(a) of the BHCA) that is subject to the provisions of Regulation Y issued by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

(b) To the extent permitted by the BHCA, and except as otherwise provided in this Section 5.10, Non-Voting Interests shall not be counted as Partnership Interests held by any Limited Partner for purposes of determining whether any vote or consent required by this Agreement has been approved or given by the requisite percentage of the Limited Partners.

(c) Notwithstanding the foregoing, any BHC Limited Partner may elect to no longer be treated as a BHC Limited Partner for the purposes of this Agreement by delivering written notice of such election to the General Partner. Any such election made by a BHC Limited Partner may be rescinded at any time by providing written notice thereof to the General Partner.

(d) The General Partner may, for legal, regulatory or other reasons, designate any other Partnership Interests as non-voting, in whole or in part. Except as provided in this Section 5.10, a Partnership Interest held by a Limited Partner as a non-voting Partnership Interest shall be identical in all regards to all other Partnership Interests held by Limited Partners.

(e) For the avoidance of doubt, the provisions of this Section 5.10 shall apply on a Series-by-Series basis.

ARTICLE VI
FEES AND EXPENSES; BROKERAGE PRACTICES

Section 6.01 Management Fee.

(a) In consideration for services provided pursuant to the Investment Management Agreement, the Investment Manager shall receive a quarterly management fee ("Management Fee") equal to a percentage of each Limited Partner's share of the Partnership's Net Asset Value (as defined in Section 9.04), and based on the Partnership's total Net Asset Value, as follows:

Partnership's Total Net Asset Value	Management Fee (per annum)

$0 - $99,999,999	0.5500%
$100,000,000 - $199,999,999	0.5000%
$200,000,000 - $249,999,999	0.4500%
$250,000,000 - $499,999,999	0.3500%
> $500,000,000	0.3400%

For the avoidance of doubt, the Management Fee calculated based on the foregoing schedule will be calculated on a "progressive" basis. For example, if the Partnership's Net Asset Value reaches $150,000,000, the initial $99,999,999 will always be charged a Management Fee of 0.55000% annually. The benefit of the declining Management Fee schedule above is intended to benefit all Limited Partners as each Capital Account will be charged a blended Management Fee based on the above schedule.

The Management Fee shall be calculated and payable to the Investment Manager quarterly, in advance, as of the first day of each calendar quarter. A pro rata Management Fee shall be charged to Limited Partners on any amounts accepted by the General Partner during a calendar quarter. No part of the Management Fee shall be refunded in the event that a Limited Partner withdraws, whether voluntarily or involuntarily, all or any of the value in such Limited Partner's Capital Account during any calendar quarter. Management Fees shall be payable with respect to the Partnership Interests of a Limited Partner in any Side Pocket Account.

(b) For purposes of calculating the Management Fee with respect to Side Pocket Accounts, Illiquid Investments (each as defined in Section 9.07) shall be carried at their fair value (which may be at, above or below cost) as determined by the Investment Manager.

(c) With respect to any Limited Partner who has requested to withdraw all of its Partnership Interests from the Partnership, with the exception of any Partnership Interests maintained in a Side Pocket Account, the Partnership may reserve an amount from the withdrawing Limited Partner's withdrawal proceeds in order to cover the estimated accrued Management Fees and expenses attributable to the Limited Partner's Partnership Interests in the Side Pocket Account based on the Investment Manager's estimate of the time period that the Illiquid Investments held in the Side Pocket Account shall remain in such Side Pocket Account (collectively, the "Management Fee Reserve"). The Management Fee Reserve shall be treated as a liability of the Partnership, and the balance of the Management Fee Reserve, if any, shall be paid to the withdrawing Limited Partner, without interest, upon such Limited Partner's complete withdrawal from the Side Pocket Account.

(d) The Partnership will also bear its pro rata share of the management fees charged by the managers of the Portfolio Funds. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Investment Manager intends to waive any management fees due to the Investment Manager with respect to any investment of the Partnership in any Affiliated Funds (as defined in the Memorandum), including the PE Portfolio Fund (as defined in the Memorandum). Accordingly, to the extent that the Partnership invests in any Affiliated Funds, including the PE Portfolio Fund, the Partnership will not be subject to a layering of fees.

Section 6.02 Expenses

(a) Organizational and Initial Offering Expenses. The Partnership shall pay or reimburse the General Partner, the Investment Manager and/or their respective managers, members, shareholders, directors, officers, partners, employees, agents and/or affiliates (collectively, "Investment Manager Affiliates") for all organizational and initial offering expenses of the Partnership, including, but not limited to, legal and accounting fees, printing and mailing expenses and government filing fees (including blue sky filing fees). The Partnership's organizational and initial offering expenses may be, for accounting purposes, capitalized and amortized by the Partnership for up to sixty (60) months from the date the Partnership commences operations. Amortization of such expenses is a divergence from GAAP. In certain circumstances, this divergence may result in a qualification of the Partnership's annual audited financial statements. In such instances, the Partnership may elect to: (i) avoid the qualification by recognizing the unamortized expenses or (ii) make GAAP-conforming changes for financial reporting purposes, but capitalize and amortize expenses for purposes of calculating the Partnership's Net Asset Value (resulting in a divergence in Fiscal Year-end Net Asset Values reported in the Partnership's financial statements, and as otherwise applicable under the provisions of this Agreement). If the Partnership capitalizes and amortizes such expenses and is then terminated within sixty (60) months of its commencement, any unamortized expenses shall be recognized. If a Limited Partner makes a withdrawal prior to the end of the period during which the Partnership is capitalizing and amortizing expenses, the Partnership may, but is not required to, accelerate a proportionate share of the unamortized expenses based upon the amount being withdrawn and reduce withdrawal proceeds accordingly.

(b) Operating Expenses. The Partnership shall pay or reimburse the General Partner, the Investment Manager and/or the Investment Manager Affiliates for: (i) all expenses incurred in connection with the ongoing offer and sale of Partnership Interests, including, but not limited to, printing of the Memorandum and exhibits, marketing expenses and documentation of performance and the admission of Limited Partners, (ii) all operating expenses of the Partnership, such as tax preparation fees, governmental fees and taxes, fees to the Partnership's administrator ("Administrator"), costs of communications with Limited Partners, and ongoing legal, accounting, auditing, bookkeeping, consulting and other professional fees and expenses, (iii) all Partnership research, trading and investment-related costs and expenses (e.g., brokerage commissions, research fees, margin interest, expenses related to short sales, custodial fees, bank service fees, and clearing and settlement charges), (iv) technology-related costs and expenses, including, but not limited to, software licenses, data feeds and colocation expenses, (v) all expenses related to attending any conference or seminar related to alternative investments (e.g., registration, transportation, accommodation or meal expenses), (vi) regulatory and other filing fees and expenses, (vii) travel expenses related to meeting with management teams, or related to any of the other categories of expenses set forth herein, (viii) any costs and expenses incurred by the Partnership in connection with converting from a stand-alone fund into a "feeder fund" as part of a master-feeder structure, (ix) director and officer liability insurance or other insurance premiums for any principal or employee of the Partnership, the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates, (x) all fees and other expenses incurred in connection with the investigation, prosecution or defense of any claims, assertion of rights or pursuit of remedies, by or against the Partnership, including, without limitation, professional and other advisory and consulting expenses, and (xi) any and all costs and expenses incurred in connection with the dissolution, winding up, or termination of the Partnership. Each of the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates, in its sole discretion, may from time to time pay for any of the foregoing Partnership expenses. Any such person may elect to be reimbursed for such expenses, or to waive its right to reimbursement for any such expenses, as well as terminate any such voluntary payment or waiver of reimbursement.

The Partnership will also bear its pro rata share of the expenses of each Portfolio Fund.

(c) Allocation of Expenses Among Series. The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager will allocate all expenses attributable to the Partnership among the Series on a pro rata basis or otherwise in their reasonable discretion.

(d) General Partner and Investment Manager Expenses. The General Partner and the Investment Manager shall pay for their own general operating and overhead expenses associated with providing the management and investment management services required under this Agreement and the Investment Management Agreement, respectively. These expenses include all expenses incurred by the General Partner and the Investment Manager in providing for their normal operating overhead, including, but not limited to, the cost of providing relevant support and administrative services (e.g., employee compensation and benefits, rent, office equipment, computer systems, insurance (other than as expressly set forth above), utilities, telephone, secretarial and bookkeeping services, etc.), but not including any Partnership operating expenses described above. The General Partner and the Investment Manager may use "soft dollar" commissions or rebates by brokerage firms of commissions generated by the Partnership's brokerage transactions executed through those firms to pay for certain brokerage and research products and services that fall within the safe harbor under Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, as set forth in the Memorandum.

Section 6.03 Marketing Fees and Sales Charges. The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may sell Partnership Interests through broker-dealers and pay a marketing fee or commission in connection with such activities, including ongoing payments, at the General Partner's or the Investment Manager's own expense. The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may also deduct a percentage of the amount invested by a Limited Partner in the Partnership to pay sales fees or charges, on a fully disclosed basis, to a broker-dealer based upon the Capital Contribution of such Limited Partner introduced to the Partnership by such broker-dealer. Any such sales fees or charges would be assessed against the referred Limited Partner and would reduce the amount actually invested by such Limited Partner in the Partnership. If a Limited Partner is introduced to the Partnership through a broker-dealer that is not affiliated with the General Partner and/or the Investment Manager, the arrangement, if any, with such broker-dealer shall be disclosed to, and acknowledged by, such Limited Partner.

Section 6.04 Directed Brokerage. The Investment Manager is authorized to direct Partnership brokerage transactions to brokers or other persons who refer prospective Limited Partners to the Partnership. The Investment Manager is authorized to pay finders' fees or other compensation at its own expense to such persons.

Section 6.05 Allocation of Investment Opportunities. The Investment Manager may at times determine that certain investments shall be suitable for acquisition by the Partnership and by other accounts managed by the Investment Manager, the Investment Manager's own accounts or accounts of an affiliate. If that occurs, and the Investment Manager is not able to acquire the desired aggregate amount of such investments on terms and conditions which the Investment Manager deems advisable, the Investment Manager shall endeavor to allocate in good faith the limited amount of such investments acquired among the various accounts for which the Investment Manager considers them to be suitable. The Investment Manager may make such allocations among the accounts in any manner which it considers to be fair under the circumstances, including, but not limited to, allocations based on relative account sizes, the degree of risk involved in the investments acquired, and the extent to which such investments are consistent with the investment policies and strategies of the various accounts involved.

Section 6.06 Aggregation of Orders. The Investment Manager may aggregate purchase and sale orders of investments held by the Partnership with similar orders being made simultaneously for other accounts or entities if, in the Investment Manager's reasonable judgment, such aggregation is reasonably likely to result in an overall economic benefit to the Partnership based on an evaluation that the Partnership shall be benefited by relatively better purchase or sale prices, lower commission expenses or beneficial timing of transactions, or a combination of these and other factors. In some instances, the purchase or sale of investments for the Partnership may be effected simultaneously with the purchase or sale of like investments for other accounts or entities. Such transactions may be made at slightly different prices, due to the volume of investments purchased or sold. In such event, the average price of all investments purchased or sold in such transactions may be determined, at the Investment Manager's sole discretion, and the Partnership may be charged or credited, as the case may be, with the average transaction price.

ARTICLE VII
WITHDRAWALS FROM CAPITAL ACCOUNT; DISTRIBUTIONS

Section 7.01 Permissible Withdrawals. A Limited Partner may withdraw all or any of the value in such Limited Partner's Capital Account in any Series in the manner and to the extent provided in Section 7.02. Each of the General Partner and its principals and affiliates may withdraw all or any of the value in its respective Capital Account at any time, from time to time, without the consent of the Limited Partners and without notice to any of the Limited Partners.

Section 7.02 Withdrawal Procedures

(a) Subject to the Lock-Up Period (as defined in Section 7.02(b)) and certain other restrictions described herein, each Limited Partner may withdraw a minimum of $100,000 as of the last day of each calendar quarter and at such other times as the General Partner may determine in its sole discretion (each such date shall be referred to herein as a "Withdrawal Date"), upon at least ninety-one (91) days' prior written notice to the Administrator, with a copy to the General Partner. Unless the General Partner consents, partial withdrawals may not be made if they would reduce a Limited Partner's Capital Account balance below $500,000. All withdrawals shall be deemed made prior to the commencement of the following calendar quarter (or other relevant period).

(b) Each Capital Contribution by a Limited Partner to the Partnership will be subject to a twelve (12)-month lock-up period ("Lock-Up Period") during which such capital may not be withdrawn from the Partnership, unless the Lock-Up Period is waived or reduced by the General Partner. If a Limited Partner purchases Partnership Interests on multiple dates, each tranche of Partnership Interests will be tracked separately for purposes of the Lock-Up Period, and withdrawals will be deemed made from Partnership Interests purchased on the earliest date (as adjusted for changes in the Net Asset Value). For the avoidance of doubt, the foregoing Lock-Up provisions shall apply on a Series-by-Series basis.

(c) The General Partner believes (but cannot guarantee) that the assets of the Partnership will be invested in a manner which would allow the General Partner to satisfy withdrawal requests. The General Partner may, in its sole discretion: (i) defer withdrawal requests until the Partnership's assets mature or are liquidated in due course, (ii) elect to purchase with its own funds the Partnership Interests of the withdrawing Partner, or (iii) borrow from a third party or draw from a line of credit, subject to availability and other factors, in order to fund any withdrawal. In addition, notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein, the General Partner may limit and/or suspend withdrawals in order to ensure that the Partnership, at all times, meets the diversification requirements applicable to insurance-dedicated investment funds, as further set forth in the Memorandum.

(d) A Limited Partner may not withdraw any of the amounts in its Capital Account that are attributable to the value of an Illiquid Investment held in a Side Pocket Account until such time that such Illiquid Investment (or the sales proceeds thereof) is reallocated to such Limited Partner's Capital Account. At the sole discretion of the Investment Manager, an Illiquid Investment may be held in a Side Pocket Account until the occurrence of a Realization Event (as defined in Section 9.07). For the avoidance of doubt, any investment made by Series 1 into the series of the PE Portfolio Fund that corresponds to the latter fund's investment made in the Highland Transaction (if any) may be held in a Side Pocket Account indefinitely.

(e) The following provision shall apply to withdrawals, on a Series-by-Series basis:

(i) A Limited Partner who requests any withdrawal of capital that constitutes, together with prior withdrawals within any Fiscal Year, less than ninety percent (90%) of the value of such Limited Partner's Capital Account (excluding any amounts held in any Side Pocket Accounts) shall be paid within ninety (90) days after the applicable Withdrawal Date.

(ii) In the event that a Limited Partner requests a withdrawal of capital that constitutes, together with prior withdrawals within any Fiscal Year, ninety percent (90%) or more of the value of such Limited Partner's Capital Account (excluding any amounts held in any Side Pocket Accounts), the General Partner may reduce the amounts paid after any Withdrawal Date so that they constitute, in the aggregate during such Fiscal Year ninety percent (90%) of an amount estimated by the General Partner to be the amount to which the withdrawing Limited Partner is entitled in the aggregate (calculated on the basis of unaudited data); such amount will be paid within ninety (90) days after the applicable Withdrawal Date. The balance of the amount payable upon such withdrawal shall be paid, without interest, within ninety (90) days after completion of the audited financial statements for the Fiscal Year in which the withdrawal occurs. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the General Partner may, in its sole discretion, agree to pay up to the full Capital Account balance (calculated on the basis of unaudited data) to a withdrawing Limited Partner within ninety (90) days after the applicable Withdrawal Date, subject to adjustment based on audited financial statements. To the extent that the sum previously paid to a withdrawing Limited Partner is calculated to have exceeded the amount to which it is entitled, that Limited Partner shall be required to repay to the Partnership the balance.

(f) The General Partner may, in its sole discretion, require a Limited Partner to withdraw any or all of the value of such Limited Partner's Capital Accounts on at least five (5) days' notice for any reason or no reason; provided, however, that the General Partner may require such a withdrawal on less (or no) notice in order to comply with any laws and regulations applicable to the Partnership and/or its affiliates.

(g) The Partnership or the relevant Series has the right to pay cash or in-kind, or a combination of both, to a Limited Partner that makes a withdrawal from such Limited Partner's Capital Account under this Article VII.

(h) All withdrawals shall be subject to the General Partner's power to establish such reserves for the Partnership or a Series as the General Partner shall, in its sole but reasonable discretion, deem appropriate to pay current and future, definite, contingent and possible obligations of the Partnership or a Series (even if such reserves are not in accordance with GAAP), including estimated expenses in connection therewith, which could reduce the amount of a distribution upon withdrawal.

(i) All notices of withdrawal must specify the dollar amount or percentage of value of a Limited Partner's Capital Account to be withdrawn. The General Partner, in its sole discretion, may waive or modify any of the terms relating to withdrawals, including, without limitation, minimum amounts, notice periods and the Lock-UP Period, for all or any of the Limited Partners in its discretion without notice to the other Limited Partners.

(j) If the General Partner, in its sole discretion, permits a Limited Partner to withdraw capital other than on a regularly scheduled Withdrawal Date, the General Partner may impose an administrative fee to cover the actual legal, accounting, administrative, brokerage, and any other costs and expenses associated with such withdrawal. Such fee shall be payable to the relevant Series of the Partnership and shall be deducted from the withdrawal proceeds of the withdrawing Limited Partner as of such Withdrawal Date.

(k) Upon withdrawal of all of the capital in its Capital Account (excluding for purposes hereof, any remaining investments held in a Side Pocket Account), a Limited Partner shall be deemed to have withdrawn from the Partnership or the relevant Series and, upon notice of such withdrawal, a Limited Partner shall not be entitled to exercise any voting rights afforded to Limited Partners under this Agreement.

(l) In addition to the above limitations on withdrawals, all withdrawals by Limited Partners will be subject to any limitations on withdrawals imposed by the Portfolio Funds, as applicable. For example, the ability of the Partnership to provide withdrawal proceeds to a Limited Partner may be subject to, among other things, various notice period requirements of the Portfolio Funds.

Section 7.03 Limitations on Withdrawals

(a) The Partnership or a Series may suspend (or postpone) withdrawals, subscriptions, calculations of Net Asset Value and/or payments upon any withdrawals (in whole or in part) from Capital Accounts:

(i) during the existence of any state of affairs which, in the opinion of the General Partner, makes the disposition of the Partnership's investments impractical or prejudicial to the Partners, or where such state of affairs, in the opinion of the General Partner, makes the determination of the price or value of the Partnership's investments impractical or prejudicial to the Partners;

(ii) where any such withdrawals, subscriptions, calculations and/or payments, in the opinion of the General Partner, would result in the violation of any applicable law or regulation, including any diversification requirements applicable to insurance-dedicated investment funds;

(iii) if the General Partner determines, in its sole discretion, that such suspension or postponement is prudent in order to prevent the Partnership from being subject to adverse tax or regulatory implications;

(iv) a Portfolio Fund suspends the right to, or the payment of proceeds due upon, withdrawal and/or a Portfolio Fund allocates assets to its side pocket account;

(v) a Portfolio Fund satisfies a withdrawal request by making an in-kind distribution; or

(vi) for such other reasons or for such other periods as the General Partner may in good faith determine.

(b) All Limited Partners shall be notified in writing of any such suspension or postponement and the termination thereof. Following any suspension or postponement of withdrawals, a withdrawal request made by a Limited Partner prior to such suspension or postponement shall be effected as of the first Withdrawal Date following the recommencement of withdrawals.

(c) For the avoidance of doubt, the following "gate" provisions shall apply on a Series-by-Series basis. In the event that Limited Partners, in the aggregate, request, as of any Withdrawal Date, withdrawals of more than twenty-five percent (25%) of the aggregate balances of the Partnership's Capital Accounts (excluding any Side Pocket Accounts), the requested amounts may, in the General Partner's sole discretion, be reduced to an amount equal to twenty-five percent (25%) of the aggregate Capital Account balances of the Partnership (excluding any Side Pocket Accounts) as of such date, and satisfied on a pro rata basis, based on the respective amounts of requested withdrawals of capital by each withdrawing Limited Partner. Capital withdrawal requests that are deferred due to such limitation may be revoked by the withdrawing Limited Partner, and if not revoked, will be aggregated with other withdrawal requests received for subsequent Withdrawal Dates. In the interim, all of the remaining capital in such Limited Partner's Capital Account (including the capital subject to such deferred withdrawal request) shall remain subject to the performance of the Partnership.

Section 7.04 Distributions

(a) The Partnership (or any Series) is not required, and generally does not intend, to make any distributions of cash or other property. However, the Partnership (or any Series) may make such distributions at such times and in such amounts as the General Partner shall determine in its sole discretion.

(b) All distributions hereunder (other than those made related to withdrawals from Capital Accounts) shall be made pro rata to all Partners in accordance with their relative Capital Accounts (or Side Pocket Accounts, New Issues Accounts or other memorandum accounts, as applicable) at the time of any such distribution. The General Partner may set up such reserves as it shall determine shall be appropriate or necessary to accomplish the purposes of the Partnership (even if such reserves are not in accordance with GAAP). If the Partnership (or a Series) shall distribute property other than cash pursuant to this Section 7.04, the Capital Accounts of the Partners shall be adjusted as if such property were sold at the value of such property as determined under Section 9.04, and the cash proceeds of such sale were distributed.

(c) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein, to the extent that the Partnership makes any distributions, the General Partner may limit such distributions, in its sole discretion, in order to ensure that the Partnership, at all times, meets the diversification requirements applicable to insurance-dedicated investment funds.

ARTICLE VIII
ADDITIONAL LIMITED PARTNERS

Section 8.01 Future Issuance of Partnership Interests. The General Partner may admit as of the first day of each month (each such date, a "Contribution Date"), or at any other time that the General Partner determines in its sole and absolute discretion, as additional Limited Partners ("Additional Limited Partners"), persons who contribute cash or, in the General Partner's sole discretion, persons who contribute securities (and/or other investments), for Partnership Interests ("Capital Contributions"). If the General Partner consents to a Limited Partner's contribution of securities (and/or other investments) to the Partnership, the Partnership may, in the General Partner's discretion, assess a special charge against such Limited Partner equal to the actual costs incurred by the Partnership in connection with accepting such contributed securities (and/or other investments), including, but not limited to, the costs of liquidating, or otherwise adjusting the Partnership's portfolio to accommodate, such securities (and/or other investments), and legal, accounting and administration costs. Such special charge shall be assessed as of such dates deemed appropriate by the General Partner. Any securities (and/or other investments) accepted as a Capital Contribution shall be valued by the General Partner, in its sole discretion, using the valuation criteria set forth in Section 9.04.

ARTICLE IX
CAPITAL ACCOUNTS; CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS; NET ASSET VALUE ADJUSTMENTS; TAXABLE INCOME AND LOSS AND DISTRIBUTIONS

Section 9.01 Capital Accounts. A Partner's "Capital Account" as of a particular date shall consist of the following:

(a) an amount equal to the Partner's Original Capital Contribution;

(b) the increases, if any, to such account by reason of Additional Capital Contributions (as defined in Section 9.03(a));

(c) the decreases, if any, to such account by reason of withdrawals (and distributions) from such Capital Account; and

(d) the increases or decreases, if any, to such Capital Account in accordance with the provisions of this Article IX.

Capital Accounts shall be maintained in accordance with the provisions of Treasury

Regulations Section 1.704-1(b)(2), or any successor provisions thereto.

Section 9.02 Original Capital Contributions. A Partner's "Original Capital Contribution" shall be the amount of the cash, or in the sole discretion of the General Partner, securities (and/or other investments), contributed by such party upon such Partner's admission as a Partner. The General Partner may establish such minimum Original Capital Contribution as the General Partner deems appropriate and that minimum may thereafter be waived or changed by the General Partner. In the event an Original Capital Contribution is accepted as of any day other than a Contribution Date, the General Partner shall cause appropriate adjustments to be made for purposes of applying the accounting and allocation provisions of this Agreement. At any time that a Partner is admitted, the General Partner shall end the prior accounting period on the day prior to the date of the acceptance of the Original Capital Contribution, and commence a new accounting period on the date of such admission, and upon such admission, the Partnership Interests shall be adjusted and reallocated based upon the Capital Accounts of the respective Partners.

Section 9.03 Additional Capital Contributions

(a) A Partner shall be permitted, with the consent of the General Partner, to make additional Capital Contributions in an amount deemed appropriate by the General Partner in cash or, in the sole discretion of the General Partner, securities (and/or other investments) ("Additional Capital Contributions") to the capital of the Partnership as of any Contribution Date, or at any other time that the General Partner determines in its sole and absolute discretion. In the event an Additional Capital Contribution is accepted as of any day other than a Contribution Date, the General Partner shall cause appropriate adjustments to be made for purposes of applying the accounting and allocation provisions of this Agreement. At any time that Additional Capital Contributions are accepted pursuant to this Section 9.03, the General Partner shall end the prior accounting period on the day prior to the date of the acceptance of the Additional Capital Contributions, and commence a new accounting period on the date of such acceptance, and upon such acceptance, the Partnership Interests shall be adjusted and reallocated based upon the Capital Accounts of the respective Partners. Any securities accepted as an Additional Capital Contribution shall be valued by the General Partner, in its sole discretion, using the valuation criteria set forth in Section 9.04.

(b) In connection with an Additional Capital Contribution by an existing Limited Partner, the General Partner shall (i) treat such Additional Capital Contribution as a Capital Contribution with respect to one of such Limited Partner's existing Capital Accounts or (ii) establish a new Capital Account to which such Capital Contribution shall be credited and which shall be maintained for the benefit of such Limited Partner separately from any existing Capital Account of such Limited Partner. Such separate Capital Account may be maintained for any purpose, in the discretion of the General Partner, including the calculation of the Incentive Fee, the Loss Carryforward (each as defined in Section 9.05) and/or the Lock-Up Period. If a Limited Partner has more than one Capital Account, any withdrawals by or distributions to such Limited Partner shall be applied to such Capital Accounts in such manner and proportion as the General Partner shall determine in its sole discretion.

Section 9.04 Determination of Net Asset Value

(a) The net asset value ("Net Asset Value") of the Partnership, on a Series-by-Series basis, shall be determined on an accrual basis of accounting, as of the end of each calendar month (or other period, as the case may be), in accordance with GAAP, consistently applied (except that: (x) organizational and initial offering expenses of the Partnership may be capitalized and amortized over a period of up to sixty (60) months from the date the Partnership commences operations and (y) reserves may be taken that are inconsistent with GAAP), the Memorandum and the following:

(1) No value shall be assigned to goodwill;

(2) All accrued debts and liabilities shall be treated as liabilities, including, but not limited to, all compensation payable to the Investment Manager that has been earned but not yet paid (e.g., Management Fees and Incentive Fees), any allowance for the Partnership's estimated annual audit and legal fees and other operating expenses and any contingencies for which reserves are required;

(3) Securities, commodities and other financial instruments (other than options) that are listed on a national securities, commodities or other exchange, or over-the-counter instruments listed on NASDAQ, shall be valued at their last sales prices on such date or, if no sales occurred on such date, at the midpoint between the last "bid" and "ask" prices for such securities, commodities or financial instruments on such date;

(4) Options that are listed on a securities or commodities exchange shall be valued at their last sales prices on the date of determination on the largest securities or commodities exchange (by trading volume) on which such options shall have traded on such date; provided that, if the last sales prices of such options do not fall between the last "bid" and "ask" prices for such options on such date, then such options shall be valued at the midpoint between the last "bid" and "ask" prices for such options on such date;

(5) Securities, commodities, options and other financial instruments that are not listed on an exchange or quoted on an over-the-counter market, but for which there are available quotations, shall be valued based upon quotations obtained from market makers, dealers or pricing services;

(6) Securities (and/or other investments) contributed to the Partnership as subscription proceeds shall be treated as if purchased by the Partnership at market value on the date of contribution, and securities (and/or other investments) distributed from the Partnership as withdrawal proceeds shall be treated as if sold by the Partnership at market value on the date of distribution;

(7) Net profits and net losses from New Issues (as defined in Section 9.08(a)) shall only be credited or debited to the Net Asset Value of the New Issues Accounts, except to the extent permitted by the applicable rules of the FINRA (as defined in Section 9.08(a)), in which case a portion of the net profits and net losses from New Issues may be credited or debited to the Net Asset Value of the Capital Accounts of Limited Partners who are Restricted Persons (as defined in Section 9.08(a)) up to an amount permitted by applicable FINRA rules;

(8) Any securities, commodities, options and other financial instruments that have no public market, investments in other asset classes (including those in Side Pocket Accounts), and all other assets of the Partnership for which a valuation methodology is not specified, shall be valued by the Investment Manager in a manner determined in good faith to reflect their fair market value; and

(9) In the case of investments in Portfolio Funds, which investments are expected to constitute most of the Partnership's assets, the net asset value calculation provided by the relevant managers (or any affiliates or service providers thereof) of those Portfolio Funds will generally be used in determining the Partnership's Net Asset Value. The Investment Manager intends to engage an independent third-party valuation agent (in addition to the Administrator) to appraise the Partnership's interests in Illiquid Investments, including, without limitation, the PE Portfolio Fund; provided that, if the PE Portfolio Fund engages its own independent third-party valuation agent, the Partnership may rely on such valuation of any investment in the PE Portfolio Fund. None of the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of their respective affiliates will be responsible for calculating the net asset value of the Portfolio Funds or for verifying the accuracy and completeness of any such values received.

(b) If the Investment Manager determines, in its sole discretion, that the valuation of any security, commodity, option or other financial instrument does not fairly represent its market value, the Investment Manager shall value such security, commodity, option or other financial instrument as it reasonably determines.

(c) In connection with the determination of the Net Asset Value of the Partnership, the Investment Manager may consult with and is entitled to rely upon the advice of the Partnership's brokers and any other third parties deemed appropriate by the Investment Manager. In no event and under no circumstances shall the Investment Manager, the Partnership's brokers or such other third parties incur any individual liability or responsibility for any determination made or other action taken or omitted by them in good faith.

(d) Absent bad faith or manifest error, all Net Asset Value determinations pursuant to this Agreement are conclusive and binding as to all Partners.

(e) After the foregoing determinations have been made, a further calculation shall be made to determine the increase or decrease in Net Asset Value of the Partnership during the month (or other time period, as the case may be) just ended. The term "increase in Net Asset Value" shall be the excess of Net Asset Value at the end of any month (or other time period, as the case may be) over that of the Net Asset Value of the Partnership as of the end of the preceding period, after adjusting for Capital Contributions, distributions and withdrawals. The term "decrease in Net Asset Value" shall be the amount by which the Net Asset Value at the end of the month (or other time period, as the case may be) is less than the Net Asset Value of the Partnership as of the end of the preceding period, after making the adjustments specified above.

Section 9.05 Allocation of Increases and Decreases in Net Asset Value; Incentive Fee

(a) Any net increase or decrease in Net Asset Value during any month (or such other period, as the case may be) shall be allocated as of the end of such month (or such other period, as the case may be) to the Capital Account of each Partner in the proportion which such Partner's Capital Account bore to the sum of the Capital Accounts of all the Partners as of the beginning of such month (or such other period, as the case may be); provided that net increases or decreases in Side Pocket Accounts, New Issues Accounts and other memorandum accounts shall be allocated as provided in Sections 9.07 and 9.08, respectively.

(b) In consideration for the management services provided pursuant to this Agreement, the General Partner shall receive an incentive fee ("Incentive Fee") at the close of each Fiscal Year (or such other applicable period that this payment is made in accordance with this Agreement, as the case may be) equal to five percent (5%) of the net increase in Net Asset Value (including realized and unrealized gains and losses and net of the Management Fee) attributable to each Limited Partner's Capital Account for such Fiscal Year (or other applicable period), as determined on the accrual basis of accounting; provided, however, that the Incentive Fee shall be subject to a Loss Carryforward (as described below in Section 9.05(g)).

(c) The Incentive Fee shall not include any change in the value of an Illiquid Investment held in a Side Pocket Account until such Illiquid Investment (or the sales proceeds thereof) has been reallocated from such Side Pocket Account to the Capital Accounts of participating Partners. Notwithstanding the foregoing, any income generated from an Illiquid Investment shall be transferred to and included in the Capital Accounts of participating Partners for purposes of calculating the Incentive Fee.

(d) The Partnership will also bear its pro rata share of the incentive-based fees/allocations charged by the managers of the Portfolio Funds. Notwithstanding the foregoing, (x) the General Partner intends to waive any incentive-based fees/allocations due to the General Partner and/or any affiliate thereof with respect to any investment of the Partnership in any Affiliated Funds, including the PE Portfolio Fund, such that, to the extent that the Partnership invests in any Affiliated Funds, including the PE Portfolio Fund, the Partnership will not be subject to a layering of fees; and (y) to the extent that the Partnership is subject to a waiver or reduction of incentive-based fees/allocations, or any other special arrangement, with respect to its investment in the PE Portfolio Fund, the General Partner shall nevertheless not charge any such fees or allocations (or otherwise change such arrangement) at the level of the Partnership.

(e) The General Partner shall also receive the Incentive Fee with respect to any amounts withdrawn by a Limited Partner, whether voluntary or involuntary, and upon dissolution of the Partnership under Article XIII. The Incentive Fee shall be paid to the General Partner in addition to, and separately from, the allocations of net increases or decreases in Net Asset Value to its Capital Account pursuant to Section 9.05(a).

(f) In the event of a net decrease in the Net Asset Value of the Capital Account of any Limited Partner in any Fiscal Year (or other relevant Incentive Fee period), the amount of such net decrease shall be recorded and carried forward as a "Loss Carryforward". Any net increase in the Net Asset Value of the Capital Account of such Limited Partner in a subsequent Fiscal Year (or other period) shall be applied to reduce (but not below zero) such Loss Carryforward balance (and, conversely, any net decrease in Net Asset Value shall be applied to increase such Loss Carryforward balance). No Incentive Fee shall be paid in any subsequent Fiscal Year (or other period) in respect of such Capital Account until the Loss Carryforward has been fully recovered as described above, and in such Fiscal Year (or other period) of such recovery, the Incentive Fee shall be calculated based on the excess net increase in Net Asset Value of such Capital Account (i.e., after being applied to reduce the Loss Carryforward to zero). However, in the event that a Limited Partner withdraws funds at a time in which such Limited Partner's Capital Account has a Loss Carryforward, the amount of such Loss Carryforward at such Withdrawal Date applicable to such Limited Partner's Capital Account shall be reduced by a percentage equal to one hundred percent (100%) multiplied by a fraction, the numerator of which is the amount to be withdrawn from the Limited Partner's Capital Account, and the denominator of which is the amount in such Capital Account immediately prior to the withdrawal.

(g) Notwithstanding the provisions set forth above, if the Partnership has a material item of income or loss in any fiscal period which relates to a matter or transaction occurring during a prior fiscal period (e.g., if the Partnership wins a cash settlement in a case it began in a prior period) the item of income or loss may, at the sole discretion of the General Partner, be shared among the Partners (including persons who ceased to be Partners) in accordance with each such Partner's Partnership Interest in the Partnership during the prior period.

Section 9.06 Allocations for Tax Purposes; General Partner Discretion on Allocations; Withholding

(a) Ordinary income, gains, losses and deductions of the Partnership for each Fiscal Year shall accrue to, and be borne by, the Partners in proportion to their sharing of net increases or decreases in Net Asset Value, the allocations of various types of taxable income and losses likewise being as nearly as possible proportionate.

(b) All allocations under this Section 9.06 shall be made pursuant to the principles of Section 704 of the Code and in conformity with Treasury regulations promulgated thereunder ("Regulations"), or the successor provisions to such Code Section and Regulations.

(c) All matters concerning the allocation of profits, gains and losses among the parties (including the taxes thereon) and accounting procedures not expressly provided for by the terms of this Agreement shall be determined by the General Partner in its sole discretion, and the General Partner is expressly permitted to use the aggregate method of apportioning taxable gain and loss under Treasury Regulation Section

704(b). The General Partner is expressly authorized to make special allocations to the Partners of such gains or income as shall be necessary to satisfy the "qualified income offset" requirements of Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-1(b)(2)(ii)(d). The General Partner's determination of the foregoing matters shall be final and conclusive as to all parties.

(d) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this Agreement, in the event a Partner withdraws all of the capital in its Capital Account from the Partnership (excluding any amounts held in Side Pocket Accounts), the General Partner shall have the discretion to specially allocate an amount of the Partnership's taxable gains or losses to the withdrawing Partner to the extent that the Partner's Capital Account exceeds, or is less than, its federal income tax basis in its Partnership Interest.

(e) Any taxes, fees or other charges that the Partnership is required to withhold under applicable law with respect to any Partner shall be withheld by the Partnership (and paid to the appropriate government authority) and shall be deducted from the Capital Account of such Partner as of the last day of the Fiscal Year (or earlier if the Partner withdraws) with respect to which amounts are required to be withheld.

(f) For the avoidance of doubt, the provisions of this Section 9.06 shall apply on a Series-by-Series basis.

Section 9.07 Side Pocket Accounts

(a) The Investment Manager may designate that certain investments held by a Series of the Partnership and/or by the Portfolio Fund(s) be carried in one or more separate memorandum accounts (each, a "Side Pocket Account") for such period of time as the Investment Manager determines. Such investments may include: (i) privately placed, unregistered securities, commodities, options and other financial instruments, or those investments that, in the opinion of the Investment Manager, do not have a readily ascertainable market value; (ii) other illiquid securities that may be valued but are not freely transferable; (iii) an investment into a Portfolio Fund with an extended lock-up period and/or that invests in illiquid assets; (iv) that portion of an investment in a Portfolio Fund that is attributable to side pocket accounts designated by the manager of such Portfolio Fund (which may be designated with respect to assets that are subject to legal or contractual restrictions on transferability, or that the Investment Manager believes either lack a readily assessable market value (without impairing the value of such investments) or should be held until the resolution of a special event or circumstance; and (v) investments in other asset classes (such as real estate) and other property that are not traded on public exchanges (each, as designated by the Investment Manager, along with follow-on investments, if any, an "Illiquid Investment"). For the avoidance of doubt, (i) there will be no limitation on the percentage of the Partnership's portfolio that may be carried in a Side Pocket Account, and (ii) any investment made by Series 1 into the series of the PE Portfolio Fund that corresponds to the latter fund's investment made in the Highland Transaction (if any) may be held in a Side Pocket Account indefinitely. Illiquid Investments held in a Side Pocket Account shall be carried at their fair value (which may be at, above or below cost) as determined by the Investment Manager. For the avoidance of doubt, each Policy Owner investing through the relevant Limited Partner will indirectly participate in the economics from a pro rata portion of a Side Pocket Account and the corresponding Illiquid Investment.

(b) At the sole discretion of the Investment Manager, an Illiquid Investment may be held in a Side Pocket Account until the occurrence of a Realization Event. Upon a Realization Event, such Illiquid Investment (or the sales proceeds thereof) shall be reallocated, pro rata, from the Side Pocket Account to the Capital Accounts of participating Partners in accordance with their respective interests in such Side Pocket Account. Until such reallocation, a Limited Partner may not withdraw any of the amounts in its Capital Account that are attributable to the value of Illiquid Investments held in a Side Pocket Account. Upon such reallocation, a Limited Partner that has withdrawn all of its capital from the Partnership other than the capital attributable to such Side Pocket Account shall receive an amount equal to its interest in such Side Pocket Account (net of: (i) any accrued Management Fees and accrued expenses (to the extent not covered by the Partnership's reserves, including the Management Fee Reserve), and (ii) any accrued Incentive Fee, with respect thereto) within ninety (90) days after such reallocation. A "Realization Event" occurs: (1) when an Illiquid Investment becomes liquid, as determined in the reasonable discretion of the Investment Manager; (2) when an Illiquid Investment is sold or otherwise disposed of by the Partnership; (3) when circumstances otherwise exist that, in the reasonable judgment of the Investment Manager, conclusively establish a value for an Illiquid Investment, as determined in the reasonable discretion of the Investment Manager (including, without limitation, when additional securities substantially similar to the Illiquid Investment have been issued by the issuer of the Illiquid Investment); or (4) as otherwise determined in the sole discretion of the Investment Manager.

(c) Newly-admitted Limited Partners may not participate in Illiquid Investments that were placed in a Side Pocket Account prior to their admission. For the avoidance of doubt, the Partnership shall not accept additional Limited Partners into any existing Series if such Series has existing Side Pocket Accounts at the time of such admission. Notwithstanding any provisions of this Agreement to the contrary, any expenses relating specifically to a Side Pocket Account shall be charged to the Partners participating in such account in proportion to their respective interests therein, as of the commencement of such Side Pocket Account.

(d) If the Investment Manager in its discretion designates any investment as a follow-on investment to an existing Illiquid Investment (each, a "Follow-On Investment"), only the Partners participating in such original investment shall participate in such Follow-On Investment in proportion to their interest in the related Side Pocket Account; provided, however, that if a Partner shall have withdrawn from the Partnership, the General Partner shall equitably adjust the interests of the remaining participating Partners to reflect such withdrawn Partner's non-participation in the Follow-On Investment. In its discretion, the Investment Manager need not designate as a "Follow-On Investment" an additional investment in the same or similar opportunity as the investment for which a Side Pocket Account has been established, but instead may designate such investment as a new investment with a separate Side Pocket Account. Additionally, the Investment Manager, in its sole and absolute discretion, may determine that, for various reasons, an asset that initially was not an Illiquid Investment should be categorized as an Illiquid Investment.

Section 9.08 New Issues; Other Memorandum Accounts for Restricted Transactions.

(a) From time to time, the Partnership may invest in initial public offerings of equity securities ("New Issues"). Under rules adopted by the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA"), (i) certain persons engaged in the securities, banking or financial services industries (and members of their immediate families) and (ii) certain persons who are affiliated with companies that are current, former or prospective investment banking clients of the Partnership's broker(s) (collectively, "Restricted Persons") are restricted from participating in New Issues, each subject to a de minimis exemption ("De Minimis Limit"). To the extent necessary to comply with FINRA rules, in addition to the Partnership's regular Capital Accounts and any Side Pocket Accounts, the General Partner may establish one or more memorandum accounts that are authorized to participate in New Issues (each, a "New Issues Account"). Participation in New Issues Accounts shall be limited to (i) those Limited Partners who are not Restricted Persons, and (ii) those Limited Partners who are Restricted Persons, but only to the extent that such participation by Restricted Persons does not exceed the De Minimis Limit. To the extent not prohibited by applicable FINRA rules, the General Partner shall be entitled to receive the Incentive Fee with respect to any profits arising from New Issues trades.

(b) In the event a New Issues Account is established, to effect a transaction in New Issues, the requisite funds shall be transferred from the Partnership to the New Issues Account. Securities held in the New Issues Account shall be held there until they are eventually sold or transferred. Upon the sale or other disposition of New Issues (including any transfer of the underlying securities in the New Issues Account to the Capital Accounts of all of the Partners after such securities no longer constitute New Issues), any profits or losses resulting from securities transactions in the New Issues Account in any fiscal period shall be credited or debited to the Capital Accounts of Limited Partners participating in the New Issues Account in accordance with their interests therein. In the event that the Partnership establishes one or more New Issues Accounts, the General Partner shall be authorized to make an equitable adjustment to account for the fact that Limited Partners that are not Restricted Persons were receiving profits based in part on the capital of Limited Partners that are Restricted Persons. Such adjustment may, in the sole and absolute discretion of the General Partner, and to the extent not prohibited by rules of FINRA, consist of: (i) assessing an interest charge to the Capital Accounts of Limited Partners that are not Restricted Persons, in favor of the Partnership, in an amount deemed appropriate to compensate the Partnership for the use of capital by Limited Partners that are not Restricted Persons in connection with New Issue trades; or (ii) such other adjustment as the General Partner considers equitable and is not inconsistent with the rules of FINRA.

(c) In addition to the foregoing provisions with respect to New Issues Accounts and Side Pocket Accounts, to the extent that certain Limited Partners are restricted from participating in any transactions of the Partnership by applicable laws or regulations, or for any other reason determined by the General Partner in good faith, the General Partner may, in its discretion, establish one or more separate memorandum accounts to hold such investments and isolate ownership away from such non-participating Limited Partners. Only those Limited Partners who the General Partner determines are eligible shall participate in such accounts. In the event that the Partnership establishes one or more memorandum accounts, the General Partner shall be authorized to make an equitable adjustment to account for the fact that participating Limited Partners were receiving profits based in part on the capital of non-participating Limited Partners. Such adjustment may, in the sole and absolute discretion of the General Partner, consist of: (i) assessing an interest charge to the Capital Accounts of participating Limited Partners, in favor of the Partnership, in an amount deemed appropriate to compensate the Partnership for the use of capital by participating Limited Partners in connection with such trades; or (ii) such other adjustment as the General Partner considers equitable.

ARTICLE X
RESTRICTIONS ON TRANSFERS OF PARTNERSHIP INTERESTS OF LIMITED PARTNERS; ADMISSION OF SUBSTITUTE LIMITED PARTNERS; OTHER MATTERS AFFECTING PARTNERSHIP INTERESTS

Section 10.01 Restrictions on Transfer of Partnership Interests of Limited Partners

(a) Except for transfers by will or intestate succession or by operation of law, no Limited Partner may offer, sell, transfer, assign, exchange, hypothecate or pledge, or otherwise dispose of or encumber (hereinafter collectively, "Transfer" or "Transferred"), in whole or in part, such Limited Partner's Partnership Interest without the consent of the General Partner, which may be given or withheld in the sole and absolute discretion of the General Partner.

(b) No Limited Partner may Transfer, in whole or in part, such Limited Partner's Partnership Interest if, in the General Partner's discretion, such Transfer could result in the termination of the Partnership for federal income tax purposes, and any purported Transfer that could result in the termination of the Partnership for federal income tax purposes shall be void ab initio. In its sole and absolute discretion, the General Partner may request a written opinion of counsel acceptable to the General Partner (the expenses of which may be allocated to the relevant Limited Partner) as to whether any contemplated Transfer could result in the termination of the Partnership for federal income tax purposes, and the General Partner shall be entitled to rely conclusively upon such opinion in determining whether such Transfer could result in the termination of the Partnership and whether consent to such disposition should be given.

(c) The Partnership Interests may not be transferred without documentation acceptable to the General Partner, which may include a written opinion of counsel acceptable to the General Partner (the expenses of which may be allocated to the relevant Limited Partner) that such proposed Transfer may be effected without:

(i) registration of the Partnership Interest being made under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended;

(ii) violating any applicable state securities or "blue sky" law (including investment suitability standards) or the laws of any other jurisdiction;

(iii) the Partnership becoming subject to the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended ("1940 Act"); or

(iv) violating the Act.

(d) In no event shall the Partnership Interest of a Limited Partner or any portion thereof be Transferred to a minor or incompetent, unless by will or intestate succession.

Section 10.02 Admission of Substitute Limited Partner

(a) Subject to the provisions of this Article X, an assignee of the Partnership Interest of a Limited Partner (which shall include any purchaser, transferee, donee or other recipient of any disposition of such Partnership Interest) shall be deemed admitted to the Partnership as a Limited Partner (a "Substitute Limited Partner") only upon the satisfactory completion of the following:

(i) consent of the General Partner shall have been given, which may be given or withheld in the sole and absolute discretion of the General Partner and which shall be evidenced by a written document executed by the General Partner;

(ii) the assignee shall have accepted and agreed to be bound by the terms and provisions of this Agreement (as it may be amended from time to time) by executing a counterpart hereof and such assignee shall have expressly assumed all of the rights and obligations of the assignor Limited Partner hereunder, and shall have executed such other documents or instruments as the General Partner may require in its sole and absolute discretion in order to effect the admission of such person as a Limited Partner;

(iii) an amendment to the Certificate, if required by the Act (in the opinion of the General Partner), evidencing the admission of such person as a Limited Partner shall have been filed;

(iv) the assignee shall have delivered a letter containing a representation that the assignee's acquisition of the Partnership Interest is made as a principal, for the assignee's own account, for investment purposes only and not with a view to the resale or distribution of such Partnership Interest, and that the assignee will not Transfer such Partnership Interest or any fraction thereof to anyone in violation of this Agreement;

(v) if the assignee is a corporation, partnership, limited liability company, trust or other entity, the assignee shall have provided to the General Partner evidence satisfactory to the General Partner of its authority to become a Limited Partner under the terms and provisions of this Agreement;

(vi) the assignee shall have complied with all applicable governmental rules and regulations, if any;

(vii) the assignee meets the suitability requirements for investing in the Partnership and the assignee completes the subscription documents

("Subscription Documents") provided by the General Partner; and (viii) all costs and expenses incurred by the Partnership and the General Partner in connection with this Section 10.02 shall be paid by the person or entity seeking to become a Substitute Limited Partner (or the transferor Limited Partner).

Section 10.03 Rights of Assignee of Partnership Interest

(a) Subject to Section 10.01(b), if a Limited Partner Transfers all or a portion of such Limited Partner's Partnership Interest, involuntarily, by operation of law or voluntarily, without the consent required by this Article X, the transferee or assignee shall: (i) be entitled only to receive that proportion of profit and loss, and any distribution of Partnership assets, attributable to the Partnership Interest acquired by reason of such disposition from and after the effective date of such disposition, and only upon written notification of same to the General Partner consistent with Section 10.03(b); and (ii) have no other rights as a Limited Partner unless admitted as a Substitute Limited Partner in accordance with the terms of this Agreement.

(b) Subject to the provisions of Section 10.01, and except as required by operation of law, the Partnership shall not be obligated for any purposes whatsoever to recognize the assignment by any Limited Partner of such Limited Partner's Partnership Interest until the General Partner has received notice thereof.

(c) Any person or entity who is the assignee of all or any portion of the Partnership Interest of a Limited Partner, but who has not become a Substitute Limited Partner, and desires to make a further disposition of such Partnership Interest, shall be subject to all the provisions of this Article X to the same extent and in the same manner as any Limited Partner desiring to make a disposition of such Limited Partner's Partnership Interest.

Section 10.04 Effect of Bankruptcy, Death or Incompetence of a Limited Partner. The bankruptcy, dissolution or winding up of a Limited Partner, the death of a Limited Partner or an adjudication that a Limited Partner is incompetent (which term shall include, but not be limited to, insanity), shall not cause the termination, wind-down or dissolution of the Partnership and the business of the Partnership shall continue. If a Limited Partner becomes bankrupt, dissolved or wound up, the trustee or receiver of such Limited Partner's estate or, if a Limited Partner dies, such Limited Partner's executor, administrator or trustee, or, if such Limited Partner is adjudicated incompetent, such Limited Partner's committee, guardian or conservator, shall have the rights of such Limited Partner for the purposes of settling or managing such Limited Partner's estate or property and such power as the bankrupt, deceased or incompetent Limited Partner possessed to dispose of all or any part of such Limited Partner's Interest and to join with any assignee in satisfying conditions precedent to the admission of the assignee as a Substitute Limited Partner.

Section 10.05 Attachment by Creditors. If a Partnership Interest is subjected to attachment by a creditor, or is assigned for the benefit of any creditor, the Partnership Interest obtained by such creditor shall be only that of an assignee, and in no event shall such creditor have the rights of a Substitute Limited Partner or an Additional Limited Partner.

ARTICLE XI
REPRESENTATIONS, WARRANTIES AND COVENANTS

Section 11.01 Limited Partners. Each Limited Partner represents, warrants and covenants to the Partnership and to every other Partner as follows:

(a) Such Limited Partner shall provide promptly, upon request by the General Partner, all financial data, documents, reports, certifications or other information necessary or appropriate to enable the Partnership to apply for and obtain an exemption from the registration provisions of applicable law and any other information required by governmental agencies having jurisdiction over the Partnership.

(b) There is no misrepresentation contained in the Subscription Documents and the forms attached thereto completed by such Limited Partner.

(c) If such Limited Partner is a corporation, partnership, limited liability company, trust or other entity, that the officer (or other signatory) signing on its behalf has been duly authorized to execute and deliver this Agreement and, to the extent requested by the General Partner, the Certificate.

(d) Such Limited Partner that is an entity that would be an "investment company" under the 1940 Act, but for an exclusion under either Section 3(c)(1) or Section 3(c)(7) thereof, has advised the General Partner of the number of persons that constitute "beneficial owners of such Limited Partner's outstanding securities (other than short-term paper)" within the meaning of Section 3(c)(1)(A) of the 1940 Act, and shall advise the General Partner promptly upon any change in that number.

ARTICLE XII
SPECIAL POWER OF ATTORNEY

Section 12.01 Execution and Consent. Each Limited Partner hereby irrevocably constitutes and appoints the General Partner and its respective successors (hereinafter referred to as "Special Attorney") as the attorney-in-fact for such Limited Partner with power and authority to act in the Limited Partner's name and on the Limited Partner's behalf to execute, acknowledge, swear to and file documents and instruments necessary or appropriate to the conduct of the Partnership's business, which shall include, but not be limited to, the following:

(a) the Certificate and this Agreement, as well as amendments thereto as required by the laws of any state, or any other jurisdiction, or as otherwise permitted under the terms of this Agreement;

(b) any other certificates, instruments and documents, including fictitious name certificates, as may be required by, or may be appropriate under, the laws of any state;

(c) the amendment and/or restatement of this Agreement in accordance with Section 14.08; and

(d) any documents that may be required to effect the continuation of the Partnership, the admission of an Additional Limited Partner or a Substitute Limited Partner, the withdrawal of a Limited Partner, or the dissolution and termination of the Partnership, provided that such continuation, admission, withdrawal or dissolution and termination are in accordance with the terms of the Certificate and this Agreement.

Section 12.02 Procedural Aspects. The power of attorney granted by each Limited Partner to the Special Attorney:

(a) is a special power of attorney, coupled with an interest, and is accordingly irrevocable;

(b) may be exercised by the Special Attorney for each Limited Partner either by signing separately as attorney-in-fact for each Limited Partner or, by executing any instrument with the single signature of such Special Attorney acting as attorney-in-fact for all of the Limited Partners; and

(c) shall survive the assignment by a Limited Partner of the whole or any portion of such Limited Partner's Partnership Interest; provided that where the assignee has been approved in accordance with the provisions of this Agreement for admission to the Partnership as a Substitute Limited Partner, the Power of Attorney shall survive such assignment for the sole purpose of enabling the Special Attorney to execute, acknowledge and file any instrument necessary to effect such substitution.

ARTICLE XIII
DISSOLUTION AND LIQUIDATION

Section 13.01 Dissolution. The Partnership shall be dissolved upon the earliest to occur of:

(a) the withdrawal, resignation or Involuntary Withdrawal of the General Partner, or any other event that results in such entity ceasing to be a general partner, unless the remaining Limited Partners agree, within ninety (90) days after such event, to continue the Partnership with a new and qualified substitute general partner pursuant to and in accordance with the terms and conditions set forth in Article IV;

(b) an election to dissolve the Partnership made by the General Partner, in its discretion, upon thirty (30) days' prior written notice to the Limited Partners; or

(c) the happening of any other event, including the entry of a decree of judicial dissolution under Section 17-802 of the Act, that under the law of the State of Delaware, mandatorily requires the dissolution of the Partnership.

For the avoidance of doubt, the termination of the Partnership shall constitute the termination of all Series. For the avoidance of doubt, the termination of an individual Series, however, shall not constitute the termination of the Partnership.

Section 13.02 Liquidation. Upon the dissolution of the Partnership, the "Liquidators", namely: (i) the General Partner or, if there is no general partner at the time, or if the principal(s) of the General Partner are unable to act on its behalf, (ii) (A) the person or persons previously designated in writing by the General Partner and notified to the Partnership's auditors, or (B) if the General Partner has not made such a designation, the person or persons designated by Limited Partners owning more than fifty percent (50%) of the Partnership Interests held by Limited Partners, shall cause the cancellation of the Certificate, liquidate (or distribute) the assets of the Partnership, and apply and distribute the balance of the proceeds of such liquidation in accordance with the following order of priority: (1) pay off known liabilities; (2) establish reserves for contingent liabilities and expenses of liquidation (even if such reserves are not in accordance with GAAP); and (3) distribute the remainder to the Partners in proportion to the Capital Account balances maintained in accordance with the provisions of Section 9.01 and the Act. The Liquidators shall take all other steps necessary to wind up the affairs of the Partnership as promptly as practicable. To the extent reasonable, the business of the Partnership may continue to be conducted until liquidation is complete. For purposes hereof, the term "Liquidators" shall also include the trustees, receivers or other persons required by law to wind up the affairs of the Partnership.

Section 13.03 Notice of Dissolution

(a) Upon the dissolution of the Partnership or the relevant Series, the Liquidators shall promptly notify the Partners of such dissolution as well as known creditors and claimants whose addresses appear on the Partnership's or the relevant Series' records.

(b) The General Partner shall give at least fifteen (15) days' prior written notice to each Limited Partner that is a BHC Limited Partner (as defined in Section 5.10) of any proposal to distribute property in-kind to such Limited Partner and the proposed date of such distribution, and shall not make any such distribution in-kind to the extent that such Limited Partner advises the General Partner at least five (5) days prior to the date set forth in such notice for such distribution that such distribution in-kind could reasonably be expected to cause it to violate the BHCA. In the event that a BHC Limited Partner notifies the General Partner to such effect, the General Partner shall be authorized to make such arrangements for the property that it would have otherwise distributed in-kind as the General Partner shall determine in its reasonable discretion.

Section 13.04 Deferred Liquidation; Distribution In-Kind of Joint Interests in Property. For the avoidance of doubt, the following provisions of this Section 13.04 shall apply on a Series-by-

Series basis. Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 13.02, if on dissolution of the Partnership the Liquidators shall determine that an immediate sale of part or all of the Partnership's assets would be impractical or would cause undue loss to the Partners, the Liquidators may, in their absolute discretion, either defer for a reasonable time the liquidation of any assets, except those necessary to satisfy liabilities of the Partnership (other than those to Partners), or distribute to the Partners, in lieu of cash, as tenants in common and in proportion to their respective interests in the Partnership, undivided interests in such Partnership assets as the Liquidators deem not suitable for liquidation. To the extent that the General Partner exercises its right, power and authority under Section 3.02(w), this Section shall be construed by the Liquidators in their reasonable discretion to give effect thereto.

Section 13.05 Final Statement. As soon as practicable after the dissolution of the Partnership or the relevant Series, a final statement of its assets and liabilities shall be prepared by the General Partner and/or the internal accountants for the Partnership or the relevant Series and furnished to the Partners.

ARTICLE XIV
GENERAL PROVISIONS

Section 14.01 Address and Notices. The address of each Partner (other than the General Partner) for all purposes shall be the address set forth on the signature page to this Agreement or such other address of which the General Partner has received written notice in accordance with this Section 14.01. The address of the General Partner for all purposes shall be the address set forth in Section 1.04 or such other address of which the General Partner has provided written notice to the Partners in accordance with this Section 14.01. Any notice, demand or request required or permitted to be given or made hereunder shall be in writing and shall be deemed given or made (i) when delivered in person, (ii) when sent to such Partner at such address by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, or by electronic mail, or (iii) when delivered by overnight delivery by a reputable private carrier or by the postal service.

Section 14.02 Titles and Captions. All Article and Section titles and captions in this Agreement are for convenience only. They shall not be deemed part of this Agreement and in no way define, limit, extend or describe the scope or intent of any provisions hereof.

Section 14.03 Pronouns and Plurals. Whenever the context may require, any pronoun used herein shall include the corresponding masculine, feminine or neuter forms. The singular form of nouns, pronouns and verbs shall include the plural and vice versa.

Section 14.04 Further Action. The Limited Partners shall execute and deliver all documents, provide all information and take or forbear from taking all such action as may be necessary or appropriate, in the discretion of the General Partner, to achieve the purposes set forth in this Agreement.

Section 14.05 Governing Law, Personal Jurisdiction and Venue. EACH LIMITED PARTNER ACKNOWLEDGES AND AGREES THAT ANY CLAIM, CONTROVERSY, DISPUTE OR ACTION RELATING IN ANY WAY TO THIS AGREEMENT, THE SUBSCRIPTION AGREEMENT OR SUCH LIMITED PARTNER'S INVESTMENT IN THE PARTNERSHIP SHALL BE GOVERNED SOLELY AND EXCLUSIVELY BY THE LAWS OF THE STATE OF DELAWARE, WITHOUT REGARD TO ANY CONFLICT OF LAWS DOCTRINES. EACH LIMITED PARTNER UNDERSTANDS AND AGREES THAT IT IS WAIVING THE PROTECTION OF STATUTES IN ITS STATE OF RESIDENCE THAT PROVIDE IT WITH CERTAIN RIGHTS, REMEDIES AND PROTECTIONS IN THE CASE OF FRAUD OR MISREPRESENTATION AND AGREES TO RELY SOLELY UPON THE LAWS OF THE STATE OF DELAWARE AND ANY APPLICABLE FEDERAL LAWS. EACH LIMITED PARTNER MAKES THIS WAIVER KNOWINGLY AND REPRESENTS THAT IT HAS CONSULTED INDEPENDENT COUNSEL, OR THAT IT HAS HAD THE OPPORTUNITY TO CONSULT WITH SUCH INDEPENDENT COUNSEL BUT HAS ELECTED NOT TO DO SO, AND AGREES THAT THE ONLY STATE LAWS THAT WILL APPLY TO THIS AGREEMENT, THE SUBSCRIPTION AGREEMENT AND ITS INVESTMENT IN THE PARTNERSHIP ARE THE LAWS OF THE STATE OF DELAWARE.

EACH OF THE LIMITED PARTNERS, FUND COUNSEL AND ANY OTHER PARTY TO THIS AGREEMENT, THE SUBSCRIPTION AGREEMENT OR ANY OTHER AGREEMENT REGARDING SUCH LIMITED PARTNER'S INVESTMENT IN THE PARTNERSHIP (COLLECTIVELY, FOR PURPOSES OF THIS CLAUSE, THE "PARTIES") IRREVOCABLY CONSENTS TO BEING SERVED WITH LEGAL PROCESS ISSUED FROM THE STATE AND FEDERAL COURTS LOCATED IN THE STATE OF NEW YORK AND IRREVOCABLY CONSENTS TO THE EXCLUSIVE PERSONAL JURISDICTION OF THE FEDERAL AND STATE COURTS SITUATED IN THE STATE OF NEW YORK. THE PARTIES IRREVOCABLY WAIVE ANY OBJECTIONS TO THE PERSONAL JURISDICTION OF THESE COURTS. SAID COURTS SHALL HAVE SOLE AND EXCLUSIVE JURISDICTION OVER ANY AND ALL CLAIMS, CONTROVERSIES, DISPUTES AND ACTIONS, OF ANY KIND OR MANNER, WHICH IN ANY WAY RELATE TO THIS AGREEMENT, THE SUBSCRIPTION AGREEMENT, OR SUCH LIMITED PARTNER'S INVESTMENT IN THE PARTNERSHIP. THE PARTIES ALSO IRREVOCABLY WAIVE ANY OBJECTIONS THAT THESE COURTS CONSTITUTE AN OPPRESSIVE, UNFAIR, OR INCONVENIENT FORUM AND AGREE NOT TO SEEK TO CHANGE VENUE ON THESE GROUNDS OR ANY OTHER GROUNDS. THE PARTIES FURTHER AGREE THAT THEY WILL NOT FILE SUIT IN A JURISDICTION OTHER THAN NEW YORK AND THAT, SHOULD THEY DO SO, THEY SHALL BE LIABLE FOR ALL DAMAGES AS A RESULT OF MAKING SUCH A FILING AND SHALL PAY ALL ATTORNEYS' FEES INCURRED BY ANY PARTY IN CONNECTION WITH MOVING TO DISMISS THE SUIT FOR FAILURE TO COMPLY WITH THIS PROVISION.

In the event that (i) any current or prior Limited Partner ("Claiming Party") initiates or asserts any litigation, arbitration or similar claim or counterclaim, or joins, offers substantial assistance to or has a direct financial interest in any claim ("Claim") against the Partnership, the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any Investment Manager Affiliates, including any Claim purportedly filed on behalf of the Partnership or any Limited Partner, and (ii) the Claiming Party (or the third party that received substantial assistance from the Claiming Party or in whose Claim the Claiming Party had a direct financial interest) does not obtain a judgment on the merits that substantially achieves, in substance and amount, the full remedy sought, then each Claiming Party shall be obligated jointly and severally to reimburse the Partnership and/or the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any such Investment Manager Affiliate for all fees, costs and expenses of every kind and description (including, but not limited to, all reasonable attorneys' fees and other litigation expenses) that the parties may incur in connection with such Claim.

Section 14.06 Binding Effect. This Agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties and their heirs, executors, administrators, successors, legal representatives and permitted assigns; provided, however, that fund counsel shall be a party to this Agreement solely with respect to Sections 3.04(b) and 14.05 hereof in order to benefit from and enforce such Sections, and a conformed signature page for fund counsel is included as a counterpart to this Agreement.

Section 14.07 Entire Agreement. This Agreement, together with the related Subscription Documents and any other written agreement between the General Partner, on behalf of the Partnership (acting severally in the name of and for the account of any individual Series), and any Limited Partner of that Series, shall constitute the entire agreement and understanding among all the parties hereto with respect to the subject matter hereof, and supersedes all prior and contemporaneous agreements, negotiations, correspondence, undertakings and communications of the parties, oral or written, respecting such subject matter, including, without limitation, the Current Agreement. The parties hereto acknowledge that, notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement or the Subscription Documents, the General Partner, on its own behalf or on behalf of the Partnership, without any act, consent or approval of any other Partner, may enter into side letters or other writings to or with one or more Limited Partners that have the effect of establishing rights under, or altering or supplementing the terms of, this Agreement or the Subscription Documents ("Side Letters"). The parties agree that any rights established, or any terms of this Agreement or the Subscription Documents altered or supplemented, in a Side Letter to or with one or more Limited Partners shall govern with respect to such Limited Partner(s) notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement or the Subscription Documents. No covenant, representation or condition not expressed in this Agreement or such Subscription Documents (and, if applicable, any Side Letter) shall affect or be deemed to interpret, change or restrict the express provisions hereof and thereof.

Section 14.08 Amendment. This Agreement may be modified or amended only by the affirmative vote of the General Partner and Limited Partners owning more than fifty percent (50%) of all of the outstanding Partnership Interests of each Series; provided that the General Partner may amend this Agreement from time to time (x) only with the affirmative vote of the General Partner and Limited Partners owning more than fifty percent (50%) of the Partnership Interests held by Limited Partners of a specific Series of Partnership Interests, if such amendment, in the opinion of the General Partner, only has a material effect on such Series of Partnership Interests, and (y) without the consent, approval or other authorization of, or notice to, any of the Limited Partners (including pursuant to Sections 3.02(u) and (v)) if, in the opinion of the General Partner, the amendment does not have a material adverse effect on any Limited Partner. Notwithstanding the foregoing, no amendment may: (i) convert a Limited Partner's interest to that of a general partner or, modify the limited liability of any Limited Partner, without the consent of each affected Partner or (ii) amend any provision hereof which requires the consent or approval of a specified percentage in interest of the Limited Partners without the consent of such specified percentage in interest of the Limited Partners.

Section 14.09 Creditors. None of the provisions of this Agreement shall be for the benefit of or enforceable by any creditors of the Partnership or the relevant Series.

Section 14.10 Waiver by Partner

(a) Any Partner by notice to the General Partner may, but shall be under no obligation to, waive any of its rights or any conditions to its obligations hereunder, or any duty, obligation or covenant of any other Partner to such first mentioned Partner.

(b) No such waiver shall affect or alter the remainder of this Agreement, but each and every covenant, agreement, term and condition hereof shall continue in full force and effect with respect to any other existing or subsequent breach.

Section 14.11 Rights and Remedies

(a) The rights and remedies of any of the Partners hereunder shall not be mutually exclusive, and the implementation of one or more of the provisions of this Agreement shall not preclude the implementation of any other provision.

(b) Each of the Partners confirms that damages at law may be an inadequate remedy for a breach or threatened breach of any provision hereof. The respective rights and obligations hereunder shall be enforceable by specific performance, injunction or other equitable remedy but nothing herein contained is intended to or shall limit or affect any rights at law or by statute or otherwise of any Partner aggrieved as against the other Partners for a breach or threatened breach of any provision hereof, it being the intention of this paragraph to make clear that the respective rights and obligations of the Partners hereunder shall be enforceable in equity as well as at law or otherwise, except as provided in Section 5.08.

Section 14.12 Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in counterparts, all of which taken together shall constitute one agreement binding on all parties, notwithstanding that all the parties are not signatories to the original or the same counterpart. Each party shall become bound by this Agreement immediately upon affixing his, her or its signature hereto, independently of the signature of any other party.

Section 14.13 Certain Tax Matters

(a) Tax Matters Partner

(i) The Tax Matters Partner (as such term is defined in Section 6231(a)(7) of the Code) of the Partnership shall be the General Partner. The General Partner shall have all powers necessary to perform fully in its capacity as Tax Matters Partner and, in such capacity, the General Partner shall use its reasonable efforts to comply with the responsibilities outlined in Sections 6221 through 6233 of the Code (including the Regulations) and shall have any powers necessary to perform fully in such capacity.

(ii) In furtherance of the foregoing, the General Partner is authorized to represent the Partnership before taxing authorities and courts in tax matters affecting the Partnership and the Partners in their capacity as such and shall keep the Partners informed of any such administrative and judicial proceedings. The General Partner shall be entitled to be reimbursed by the Partnership for all costs and expenses incurred by it in connection with any administrative or judicial proceeding affecting tax matters of the Partnership and the Partners in their capacity as such and to be indemnified by the Partnership (solely out of Partnership assets) with respect to any action brought against it in connection with any judgment in or settlement of any such proceeding, except in the case of the General Partner's own fraud, gross negligence, willful misconduct or conduct that is the subject of a criminal proceeding (where the General Partner has a reasonable cause to believe that such conduct was unlawful).

(iii) Any Partner that is in dispute with any tax authority in relation to any Partnership matter shall notify the General Partner within thirty (30) calendar days, and if the General Partner reasonably determines that the matter is of material relevance to the tax position of the Partnership, such Partner shall consult with the General Partner (or any advisor appointed by the General Partner for the purpose) as to how that dispute shall be handled. Any Partner who enters into a settlement agreement with respect to any Partnership item shall notify the Tax Matters Partner of such settlement agreement and its terms within thirty (30) calendar days after the date of settlement.

(iv) The provisions of this Section 14.13(a) shall survive any termination of this Agreement.

(b) Tax Elections. Each Partner agrees to provide the Partnership with such information which may be necessary or desirable in order for the General Partner to carry out its powers under this Section 14.13 and Section 3.02(g), including, without limitation, to facilitate compliance with Section 743 of the Code and elections permitted thereunder.

(c) Classification as a Partnership. The parties hereto intend that the Partnership be classified as a partnership for federal income tax purposes. The General Partner shall not elect to have the Partnership classified as an association taxable as a corporation for federal income tax purposes pursuant to Regulation Section 301.7701–3. The General Partner shall, for and on behalf of the Partnership, take all steps as it may deem reasonably necessary to maintain the Partnership's classification as a partnership for federal income tax purposes.

(d) Tax Audits. Each Limited Partner shall reasonably cooperate with the General Partner in connection with any tax audit of the Partnership or any existing or former investment.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, this Amended and Restated Limited Partnership Agreement has been duly executed as of the day and year first above written.

The Partnership may offer Interests in separate Series (as defined and described herein). Only Series 1 Interests (as defined herein) are offered at this time pursuant to this Memorandum.

Only persons that are Accredited Investors (as defined in Rule 501 of Regulation D promulgated under the Securities Act), Qualified Clients (as defined in Rule 205-3 promulgated under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended ("Advisers Act")), and Qualified Purchasers (as defined under Section 2(a)(51) of the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended ("Investment Company Act")) may purchase Interests. The Subscription Documents (as defined below) set forth in detail the definitions of Accredited Investor, Qualified Client and Qualified Purchaser. If an investor is an insurance company, such investor must require its Policy Owners (as defined herein) to meet the same suitability standards.

The Partnership was formed to pool investment funds of its investors (each, a "Limited Partner" and, collectively, "Limited Partners"; and, together with the General Partner (as defined below), "Partners") for the purpose of investing and trading in a wide variety of securities, financial instruments and other assets and investments, including other investment vehicles, as more fully described herein.

In addition to noting the investor qualifications listed above, Limited Partners should note that the Partnership is an insurance-dedicated investment fund. As such, the Interests are being offered only to Limited Partners that are: (x) insurance company investors, on behalf of certain of their segregated separate accounts ("Separate Accounts"), that fund certain variable life insurance and variable annuity contracts (collectively, the "Policies") to be issued to policy owners (each, a "Policy Owner") by the Limited Partners, or (y) state and local governmental pension plans, qualified tuition plans ("§529 plans"), and private sector qualified pension or retirement plans, as generally described in Treasury Regulation 1.817-5(f)(3). In addition, if an investor is an insurance company, such investor must require its Policy Owners to meet the same suitability standards described herein. While an insurance company, not a Policy Owner, will become a Limited Partner in the Partnership, it is expected that Policy Owners will be able to allocate a portion of their investment held in the Separate Account to the Partnership as one of the investment options of the Policies. See "SUMMARY OF OFFERING AND PARTNERSHIP TERMS—Investor Control" herein.

Atlas IDF GP, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company ("General Partner"), is the general partner of the Partnership and is responsible for the management of the Partnership's affairs.

Rand Advisors, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company ("Investment Manager"), is the investment manager of the Partnership and has discretionary investment authority over the Partnership's assets. The Investment Manager is registered as an investment adviser with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC"). A copy of Part 2 of the Investment Manager's Form ADV is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

As the managing member and controlling person of the General Partner and the Investment Manager, John Honis controls all of the Partnership's operations and activities.

The minimum initial capital contribution that will be accepted from a new Limited Partner is $500,000. The minimum additional capital contribution that will be accepted from an existing Limited Partner is $500,000. In each case, the General Partner has discretion to accept lesser amounts. Generally, new Limited Partners will be admitted on the first day of each month, and withdrawals may be made on the last day of each calendar quarter upon 91 days' prior written notice, subject to certain restrictions as described herein (unless, in each case, the General Partner, in its sole discretion, permits subscriptions or withdrawals at another time).

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE AND STRATEGY

The Partnership's primary objective is to seek consistent above-average returns primarily through capital appreciation. The Investment Manager intends to use a disciplined investment philosophy by combining thorough fundamental research and in-depth analysis of investment opportunities. No assurance can be given, however, that the Investment Manager will achieve the Partnership's investment objective, and investment results may vary substantially over time and from period to period. See "INVESTMENT PROGRAM" herein for further details.

As of the date hereof, the Investment Manager intends to allocate approximately 45% of the Series 1 investment portfolio to traded investments and approximately (but not more than) 55% of the Series 1 investment portfolio to the first series of limited partnership interests to be issued by the PE Portfolio Fund (as defined herein) that: (x) is expected to initially invest in the Highland Transaction (as defined herein), if any, and (y) will potentially make investments in the future in other private transactions similar to the Highland Transaction. However, the Investment Manager reserves the right to change such allocation in the future, subject to compliance with all applicable laws, including the diversification requirements applicable to insurance-dedicated investment funds, as further set forth herein. Further, the Partnership shall not accept additional Limited Partners into any existing Series if such Series has existing Side Pocket Accounts (as defined herein) at the time of such admission.

RISK FACTORS, CONFLICTS OF INTERESTS AND OTHER CONSIDERATIONS

Before purchasing an Interest in the Partnership, you should carefully consider various risk factors and conflicts of interest, as well as suitability requirements, restrictions on transfers and withdrawals of Interests and various legal, tax and other considerations, all of which are discussed elsewhere in this Confidential Private Placement Memorandum (this "Memorandum").

You should not construe the contents of this Memorandum as legal, tax or investment advice and, if you acquire an Interest, you will be required to make a representation to that effect. You should review the proposed investment and the legal, tax and other consequences thereof with your own professional advisors. The purchase of an Interest involves certain risks and conflicts of interest among the General Partner, the Investment Manager and the Partnership. See "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST". The General Partner reserves the right to refuse any subscription for any reason.

In making an investment decision, you must rely on your own examination of the Partnership and the terms of the offering of Interests, including the merits and risks involved. You and your representative(s), if any, are invited to ask questions and obtain additional information from the General Partner concerning the terms and conditions of the offering, the Partnership, and any other relevant matters to the extent that the General Partner possesses such information or can acquire it without unreasonable effort or expense.

Neither the SEC nor any state securities commission has passed upon the merits of participating in the Partnership, nor has the SEC or any state securities commission passed upon the adequacy or accuracy of this Memorandum. Any representation to the contrary is a criminal offense. The General Partner anticipates that: (i) the offer and sale of the Interests will be exempt from registration under the Securities Act and the various state securities laws; (ii) the Partnership will not be registered as an investment company under the Investment Company Act, pursuant to an exemption provided by Section 3(c)(7) thereunder; and (iii) neither the General Partner nor the Investment Manager will be registered as a commodity pool operator under the Commodity Exchange Act, as amended ("CEA"), based upon an exemption available under Rule 4.13(a)(3) thereunder. Consequently, you will not be entitled to certain protections afforded by those statutes.

The Investment Manager is registered as an investment adviser with the SEC. A copy of Part 2 of the Investment Manager's Form ADV is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

Pursuant to Rule 4.13(a)(3) of the CEA, each of the General Partner and the Investment Manager is exempt from registration with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission ("CFTC") as a commodity pool operator and therefore, unlike a registered commodity pool operator, it is not required to deliver a Disclosure Document (as such term is defined under CFTC rules) and a certified annual report to participants in the pool. The foregoing registration exemption is based on the Partnership's limited commodity trading activity and its undertaking that at all times either: (a) the aggregate initial margin and premiums required to establish commodity interest positions, determined at the time the most recent position was established, will not exceed 5% of the liquidation value of the Partnership's portfolio, after taking into account unrealized profits and losses on any such positions; or (b) the aggregate net notional value of the Partnership's commodity interest positions, determined at the time the most recent position was established, will not exceed 100% of the liquidation value of the Partnership's portfolio, after taking into account unrealized profits and losses on any such positions. Similar limitations will apply with respect to investments in Portfolio Funds. Certain types of swaps are included in the definition of "commodity interests". These swaps include interest rate swaps, currency swaps, energy and metal swaps, agricultural swaps, swaps on broad-based indices, swaps on government securities and certain mixed swaps.

As a Limited Partner, you may withdraw from the Partnership and receive payment for your Interests, subject to certain restrictions, as specified in the Amended and Restated Limited Partnership Agreement of the Partnership (as the same may be amended and/or restated from time to time, the "Partnership Agreement"), a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A.

The offering of Interests is made only by delivery of a copy of this Memorandum to the person whose name appears hereon. The offering is made only to potential investors who are Accredited Investors, Qualified Clients and Qualified Purchasers. If an investor is an insurance company, such investor must require its Policy Owners to meet the same suitability standards. By accepting delivery of this Memorandum, you agree not to reproduce or divulge its contents, in whole or in part, and, if you do not purchase any Interests, to return this Memorandum and the exhibits attached hereto to the General Partner or the Partnership's administrator, a provider of administrative services ("Administrator"), as further set forth herein under "SERVICE PROVIDERS—Administrator".

Notwithstanding any provision in this Memorandum to the contrary, prospective Limited Partners (and their employees, representatives, and other agents) may disclose to any and all persons the U.S. federal income tax treatment and tax structure of the Interests offered hereby. For this purpose, "tax structure" is limited to facts relevant to the U.S. federal income tax treatment of the Interests, and does not include information relating to the identity of the issuer, its affiliates, agents or advisors.

There is no public market for the Interests nor is any expected to develop. Even if such a market develops, no distribution, resale or transfer of an Interest will be permitted, except in accordance with the provisions of the Securities Act, the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder, any applicable state securities laws and the terms and conditions of the Partnership Agreement. Any transfer of an Interest by a Limited Partner, public or private, will require the consent of the General Partner. Accordingly, if you purchase an Interest, you will be required to represent and warrant that you have read this Memorandum and are aware of and can afford the risks of an investment in the Partnership for an indefinite period of time. You will also be required to represent that you are acquiring the Interest for your own account, for investment purposes only, and not with any intention to resell or transfer all or any part of the Interest. This investment is suitable for you only if you have adequate means of providing for your current and future needs, have no need for liquidity in this investment and can afford to lose the entire amount of your investment.

Although this Memorandum contains summaries of certain terms of certain documents pertaining to the Partnership, you should refer to the actual documents (copies of which are attached hereto or are available from the General Partner or the Administrator) for complete information concerning the rights and obligations of the parties thereto. All such summaries are qualified in their entirety by the terms of the actual documents. No person has been authorized to make any representations or furnish any information with respect to the Partnership or the Interests, other than the representations and information set forth in this Memorandum or other documents or information furnished by the General Partner upon request, as described above.

Certain information contained in this Memorandum constitutes "forward-looking statements", which can be identified by the use of forward-looking terminology, such as "may", "will", "seek", "should", "expect", "anticipate", "project", "estimate", "intend", "continue" or "believe" or the negatives thereof or other variations thereon or comparable terminology. Due to various risks and uncertainties, including those set forth under "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST", actual events or results or the actual performance of the Partnership may differ materially from those reflected or contemplated in such forward-looking statements.

No rulings have been sought from the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") with respect to any tax matters discussed in this Memorandum. You are cautioned that the views contained herein are subject to material qualifications and subject to possible changes in regulations by the IRS or by the U.S. Congress in existing tax statutes or in the interpretation of existing statutes and regulations.

TO THE EXTENT THAT THE INTERESTS ARE OFFERED OR SOLD IN OR FROM BERMUDA, SUCH OFFER OR SALE WILL BE MADE IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE BERMUDA ACT.

THE BERMUDA MONETARY AUTHORITY, THE BERMUDA REGISTRAR OF COMPANIES AND THE BERMUDA MINISTER OF ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT ACCEPT NO RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE FINANCIAL SOUNDNESS OF ANY PROPOSAL OR FOR THE CORRECTNESS OF ANY OF THE STATEMENTS MADE OR OPINIONS EXPRESSED HEREIN.

NO INVITATION, WHETHER DIRECTLY OR INDIRECTLY, MAY BE MADE TO THE PUBLIC IN OR FROM BERMUDA TO SUBSCRIBE FOR THE INTERESTS.

SUMMARY OF OFFERING AND PARTNERSHIP TERMS

The following summary is qualified in its entirety by other information contained elsewhere in this Confidential Private Placement Memorandum (this "Memorandum") and by Amended and Restated the Limited Partnership Agreement of the Partnership (as defined below) (as the same may be amended and/or restated from time to time, the "Partnership Agreement"), a copy of which is attached to this Memorandum as Exhibit A. You should read this entire Memorandum and the Partnership Agreement, carefully before making any investment decision regarding the Partnership and should pay particular attention to the information under the heading "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST". To the extent relevant, you should also read the offering and governing documents of the PE Portfolio Fund (as defined herein) in which the Partnership intends to initially invest on behalf of the initial Limited Partners (as defined herein), which are available from the Partnership upon request. In addition, you should consult your own advisors in order to understand fully the consequences of an investment in the Partnership.

The Partnership

Atlas IDF, LP, a Delaware "series" limited partnership ("Partnership"), was formed to pool investment funds of its investors (each, a "Limited Partner" and, collectively, "Limited Partners"; and, together with the General Partner (as defined below), "Partners") for the purpose of investing and trading in a wide variety of securities, financial instruments and other assets and investments, including other investment vehicles, as more fully described herein. See "INVESTMENT PROGRAM" and "—Portfolio Funds" below.

The Partnership may offer Interests in separate Series (as defined and described herein). Only Series 1 Interests (as defined herein) are offered at this time pursuant to this Memorandum.

Management

Atlas IDF GP, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company ("General Partner"), is the general partner of the Partnership and is responsible for the management of the Partnership's affairs.

Rand Advisors, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company ("Investment Manager"), is the investment manager of the Partnership and has discretionary investment authority over the Partnership's assets. The Investment Manager is registered as an investment adviser with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC"). A copy of Part 2 of the Investment Manager's Form ADV is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

As the managing member and controlling person of the General Partner and the Investment Manager, John Honis ("Principal") controls all of the Partnership's operations and activities. See "MANAGEMENT" for additional information.

Issuance of Interests in Multiple Series

The Interests will be offered in separate series ("Series"). The Partnership is currently offering one Series of Interests: "Series 1 Interests". Each Series of Interests will have separate rights and obligations. In addition, each Series of Interests may correspond to a separate portfolio of assets, which may have different investment objectives and strategies. The Partnership may issue additional Series of Interests in the future, which may have rights and obligations that differ from those of the Series 1 Interests with respect to any matters, including without limitation, fees, withdrawal rights, participation in Side Pocket Accounts (as defined herein) and other rights and terms. The terms of such additional Series will be determined by the General Partner, in its sole discretion.

Each Series shall have separate rights, powers and duties with respect to its investment portfolio and other property and obligations and the profits and losses associated with such portfolio, property and obligations. The Partnership will maintain separate and distinct records for each Series and shall hold and account for the assets and liabilities of such Series separately from other Series. The Partnership shall not accept additional Limited Partners into any existing Series if such Series has existing Side Pocket Accounts at the time of such admission.

Under Delaware law, (i) the debts, liabilities and obligations incurred, contracted for or otherwise existing with respect to a particular Series shall be enforceable against the assets of such Series only, and not against the assets of any other Series, and (ii) none of the debts, liabilities and obligations incurred, contracted for or otherwise existing with respect to the Partnership generally or any other Series shall be enforceable against the assets of such Series.

Unless the context otherwise requires, Series 1 Interests and any other Series of Interests shall be collectively referred to throughout this Memorandum as the "Interests." As the context may require, the holders of Series 1 Interests may be referred to herein as "Series 1 Limited Partners". Series 1 Limited Partners and, to the extent applicable, all the Limited Partners of other Series shall be collectively referred to throughout this Memorandum as the "Limited Partners".

References herein to the Partnership shall include, where appropriate, each Series of the Partnership. The terms of the other Series may be set forth in an amended version of this Memorandum and/or in a separate supplement hereto.

Portfolio Funds

In addition to investing in individual traded assets, the Partnership may invest a significant portion of its assets in other investment vehicles, including, without limitation, hedge funds, managed accounts and other private investment funds (collectively, the "Portfolio Funds"), including those managed by, or otherwise affiliated or related to, the Investment Manager. Portfolio Funds may allocate their assets to Illiquid Investments (as defined herein). As of the date hereof, the Investment Manager intends to allocate approximately 45% of the Series 1 investment portfolio to traded investments and approximately (but not more than) 55% of the Series 1 investment portfolio to the first series of limited partnership interests to be issued by the PE Portfolio Fund (as defined herein). However, the Investment Manager reserves the right to change such allocation in the future, subject to compliance with all applicable laws, including the diversification requirements applicable to insurance-dedicated investment funds, as further set forth herein.

As of the date hereof, (i) the Investment Manager acts as the investment manager to Rand PE Fund I, L.P., a Delaware "series" limited partnership ("PE Portfolio Fund") that: (x) is expected to initially invest in the Highland Transaction (as defined herein), if any, and (y) will potentially make investments in the future in other private transactions similar to the Highland Transaction; (ii) Rand PE Fund Management, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company and an affiliate of the General Partner and the Investment Manager, is the general partner of the PE Portfolio Fund; and (iii) the Principal is the managing member and controlling person of Rand PE Fund Management, LLC, as further set forth herein.

The Portfolio Funds will bear their own operating and investment related expenses, which will be shared by the partners in such Portfolio Funds, including the Partnership. These fees and expenses may result in greater expenses than if Limited Partners invested directly in the Portfolio Funds or the relevant underlying investments. Limited Partners should take into account that the return on their investment will be reduced to the extent of both levels of fees and expenses.

The Offering

The Partnership is offering limited partner interests in the Partnership ("Interests") to persons who are Accredited Investors (as such term is defined in Rule 501 of Regulation D promulgated under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended ("Securities Act")), Qualified Clients (as defined in Rule 205-3 promulgated under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended ("Advisers Act")), and Qualified Purchasers (as defined under Section 2(a)(51) of the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended ("Investment Company Act")). Interests represent a percentage interest in the Partnership proportionate to the capital accounts of all Partners.

In addition to noting the investor qualifications listed above, Limited Partners should note that the Partnership is an insurance-dedicated investment fund. As such, the Interests are being offered only to Limited Partners that are: (x) insurance company investors, on behalf of certain of their segregated separate accounts ("Separate Accounts"), that fund certain variable life insurance and variable annuity contracts (collectively, the "Policies") to be issued to policy owners (each, a "Policy Owner") by the Limited Partners, or (y) state and local governmental pension plans, qualified tuition plans ("§529 plans"), and private sector qualified pension or retirement plans, as generally described in Treasury Regulation 1.817-5(f)(3). In addition, if an investor is an insurance company, such investor must require its Policy Owners to meet the same suitability standards described in the previous paragraph. While an insurance company, not a Policy Owner, will become a Limited Partner in the Partnership, it is expected that Policy Owners will be able to allocate a portion of their investment held in the Separate Account to the Partnership as one of the investment options of the Policies. See "SUMMARY OF OFFERING AND PARTNERSHIP TERMS—Investor Control" herein.

Each life insurance company Limited Partner ("Insurance Company Limited Partner") will be deemed to hold an Interest in respect of the account of each Policy Owner and will be treated as a separate Limited Partner with respect to each such Interest.

Marketing Fees and Sales Charges. The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may sell Interests through broker-dealers and pay a marketing fee or commission in connection with such activities, including ongoing payments, at the General Partner's or the Investment Manager's own expense. The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may also deduct a percentage of the amount invested by a Limited Partner in the Partnership to pay sales fees or charges, on a fully disclosed basis, to a broker-dealer based upon the capital contribution of such Limited Partner introduced to the Partnership by such broker-dealer. Any such sales fees or charges would be assessed against the referred Limited Partner and would reduce the amount actually invested by such Limited Partner in the Partnership. If a Limited Partner is introduced to the Partnership through a broker-dealer that is not affiliated with the General Partner and/or the Investment Manager, the arrangement, if any, with such broker-dealer will be disclosed to, and acknowledged by, such Limited Partner. See "BROKERAGE PRACTICES—Referral of Investors and Sales Charges".

How to Subscribe

Attached as Exhibit B to this Memorandum are the subscription documents and instructions for subscribing ("Subscription Documents"). In order to subscribe for Interests, you must complete the Subscription Documents and return them to the Partnership's administrator, a provider of administrative services ("Administrator"), as further set forth herein under "SERVICE PROVIDERS—Administrator". You must pay 100% of your investment at the time you subscribe. Payment must be made by wire transfer of immediately available funds to the Partnership. To ensure compliance with applicable laws, regulations and other requirements relating to money laundering, the General Partner and/or the Administrator may require additional information to verify the identity of any person who subscribes for an Interest in the Partnership.

If the General Partner consents to a Limited Partner's contribution of securities (and/or other investments) to the Partnership, the Partnership may, in the General Partner's discretion, assess a special charge against such Limited Partner equal to the actual costs incurred by the Partnership in connection with accepting such contributed securities (and/or other investments), including the costs of liquidating, or otherwise adjusting the Partnership's portfolio to accommodate, such securities (and/or other investments). Such special charge will be assessed as of such dates deemed appropriate by the General Partner. Any investor who contributes securities (and/or other investments) in lieu of cash to the Partnership should consult with such person's counsel or advisors as to the tax effect of such contribution.

Eligible Investors and Suitability

In order to invest in the Partnership, you must meet certain minimum suitability requirements, including qualifying as an Accredited Investor under the Securities Act, a Qualified Client under the Advisers Act and a Qualified Purchaser under the Investment Company Act. The Subscription Documents set forth in detail the definitions of Accredited Investor, Qualified Client and Qualified Purchaser. You must check the appropriate places in the Subscription Documents to represent to the Partnership that you are an Accredited Investor, a Qualified Client and a Qualified Purchaser in order to be able to purchase Interests. In addition, you must check the appropriate places in the Subscription Documents and/or make the appropriate representations that you are an insurance company investor. If an investor is an insurance company, such investor must require its Policy Owners to meet the same suitability standards. The General Partner, in its sole discretion, can accept or reject any initial subscriptions from prospective Limited Partners and any additional capital contributions from existing Limited Partners for any reason or for no reason.

Qualified pension or retirement plans subject to the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended ("ERISA"), and other tax-exempt entities described in Treasury Regulation 1.817-5(f)(3) may purchase Interests. However, investment in the Partnership by such entities requires special consideration. Trustees or administrators of such entities should consult their own legal and tax advisors. The General Partner intends to use reasonable efforts to limit the aggregate equity participation by "benefit plan investors" in the Partnership to less than 25% of the value of any class of Interests in the Partnership. See "ERISA CONSIDERATIONS" and "TAXATION—Tax-Exempt Investors".

Minimum Investment

The minimum initial capital contribution that will be accepted from a new Limited Partner is $500,000. The minimum additional capital contribution that will be accepted from an existing Limited Partner is $500,000. In each case, the General Partner has discretion to accept lesser amounts. Limited Partners are not required to make any additional capital contributions to the Partnership. There is no minimum or maximum aggregate amount of funds that must or may be contributed by all Partners to the Partnership.

Admission of Limited Partners

Capital contributions generally will be accepted as of the first day of each month, although the General Partner, in its sole discretion, has the right to admit new Limited Partners and to accept additional funds from existing Limited Partners at any time. Upon such admission or receipt of additional capital contributions, the Interests of the Partners will be readjusted in accordance with their capital accounts.

In connection with an additional capital contribution by an existing Limited Partner, the General Partner will: (i) treat such additional capital contribution as a capital contribution with respect to one of such Limited Partner's existing capital accounts, or (ii) establish a new capital account to which such capital contribution will be credited and which will be maintained for the benefit of such Limited Partner separately from any existing capital account of such Limited Partner. Such separate capital accounts may be maintained for any purpose, in the discretion of the General Partner.

Management Fee

The Partnership has entered into an investment management agreement (as the same may be amended and/or restated from time to time, the "Investment Management Agreement") by and among the Partnership and the Investment Manager. In consideration for services provided pursuant to the Investment Management Agreement, the Investment Manager will receive a quarterly management fee ("Management Fee"), equal to a percentage of each Limited Partner's share of the Partnership's Net Asset Value (as defined herein), and based on the Partnership's total Net Asset Value, as follows:

Partnership's Total Net Asset Value	Management Fee (per annum)
$0 - $99,999,999	0.5500%
$100,000,000 - $199,999,999	0.5000%
$200,000,000 - $249,999,999	0.4500%
$250,000,000 - $499,999,999	0.3500%
> $500,000,000	0.3400%

For the avoidance of doubt, the Management Fee calculated based on the foregoing schedule will be calculated on a "progressive" basis. For example, if the Partnership's Net Asset Value reaches $150,000,000, the initial $99,999,999 will always be charged a Management Fee of 0.55000% annually. The benefit of the declining Management Fee schedule above is intended to benefit all Limited Partners as each capital account will be charged a blended Management Fee based on the above schedule.

The Management Fee will be calculated and payable to the Investment Manager quarterly, in advance, as of the first day of each calendar quarter. A pro rata Management Fee will be charged to Limited Partners on any amounts accepted by the General Partner during a calendar quarter. No part of the Management Fee will be refunded in the event that a Limited Partner withdraws, whether voluntarily or involuntarily, all or any of the value in such Limited Partner's capital account during any calendar quarter. Management Fees will be payable with respect to the Interests of a Limited Partner in any Side Pocket Account (as defined below). For purposes of calculating the Management Fee with respect to Side Pocket Accounts, Illiquid Investments will be carried at their fair value (which may be at, above or below cost) as determined by the Investment Manager.

With respect to any Limited Partner who has requested to withdraw all of its Interests from the Partnership, with the exception of any Interests maintained in a Side Pocket Account, the Partnership may reserve an amount from the withdrawing Limited Partner's withdrawal proceeds in order to cover the estimated accrued Management Fees and expenses attributable to the Limited Partner's Interests in the Side Pocket Account based on the Investment Manager's estimate of the time period that the Illiquid Investments held in the Side Pocket Account will remain in such Side Pocket Account (collectively, the "Management Fee Reserve"). The Management Fee Reserve will be treated as a liability of the Partnership, and the balance of the Management Fee Reserve, if any, will be paid to the withdrawing Limited Partner, without interest, upon such Limited Partner's complete withdrawal from the Side Pocket Account.

The Partnership will also bear its pro rata share of the management fees charged by the managers of the Portfolio Funds. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Investment Manager intends to waive any management fees due to the Investment Manager with respect to any investment of the Partnership in any Affiliated Funds (as defined herein), including the PE Portfolio Fund. Accordingly, to the extent that the Partnership invests in any Affiliated Funds, including the PE Portfolio Fund, the Partnership will not be subject to a layering of fees.

Expenses

Organizational and Initial Offering Expenses. The Partnership will pay or reimburse the General Partner, the Investment Manager and/or the Investment Manager Affiliates (as defined herein) for all organizational and initial offering expenses of the Partnership, including, but not limited to, legal and accounting fees, printing and mailing expenses and government filing fees (including "blue sky" filing fees). The Partnership's organizational and initial offering expenses may be, for accounting purposes, capitalized and amortized by the Partnership for up to 60 months from the date the Partnership commences operations. Amortization of such expenses is a divergence from U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"). In certain circumstances, this divergence may result in a qualification of the Partnership's annual audited financial statements. In such instances, the Partnership may elect to: (i) avoid the qualification by recognizing the unamortized expenses, or (ii) make GAAP-conforming changes for financial reporting purposes, but capitalize and amortize expenses for purposes of calculating the Partnership's Net Asset Value (resulting in a divergence in fiscal year-end Net Asset Values reported in the Partnership's financial statements, and as otherwise applicable under the provisions of the Partnership Agreement). If the Partnership capitalizes and amortizes such expenses and is then terminated within 60 months of its commencement, any unamortized expenses will be recognized. If a Limited Partner makes a withdrawal prior to the end of the period during which the Partnership is capitalizing and amortizing expenses, the Partnership may, but is not required to, accelerate a proportionate share of the unamortized expenses based upon the amount being withdrawn and reduce withdrawal proceeds accordingly.

Operating Expenses. The Partnership will pay or reimburse the General Partner, the Investment Manager and/or the Investment Manager Affiliates for: (i) all expenses incurred in connection with the ongoing offer and sale of Interests, including, but not limited to, printing of this Memorandum and exhibits, marketing expenses and documentation of performance and the admission of Limited Partners, (ii) all operating expenses of the Partnership, such as tax preparation fees, governmental fees and taxes, fees to the Administrator, costs of communications with Limited Partners, and ongoing legal, accounting, auditing, bookkeeping, consulting and other professional fees and expenses, (iii) all Partnership research, trading and investment-related costs and expenses (e.g., brokerage commissions, research fees, margin interest, expenses related to short sales, custodial fees, bank service fees, and clearing and settlement charges), (iv) technology-related costs and expenses, including, but not limited to, software licenses, data feeds and colocation expenses, (v) all expenses related to attending any conference or seminar related to alternative investments (e.g., registration, transportation, accommodation or meal expenses), (vi) regulatory and other filing fees and expenses, (vii) travel expenses related to meeting with management teams, or related to any of the other categories of expenses set forth herein, (viii) any costs and expenses incurred by the Partnership in connection with converting from a stand-alone fund into a "feeder fund" as part of a master-feeder structure, (ix) director and officer liability insurance or other insurance premiums for any principal or employee of the Partnership, the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates, (x) all fees and other expenses incurred in connection with the investigation, prosecution or defense of any claims, assertion of rights or pursuit of remedies, by or against the Partnership, including, without limitation, professional and other advisory and consulting expenses, and (xi) any and all costs and expenses incurred in connection with the dissolution, winding up, or termination of the Partnership.

Each of the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates, in its sole discretion, may from time to time pay for any of the foregoing Partnership expenses. Any such person may elect to be reimbursed for such expenses, or to waive its right to reimbursement for any such expenses, as well as terminate any such voluntary payment or waiver of reimbursement.

The Partnership will also bear its pro rata share of the expenses of each Portfolio Fund.

Allocation of Expenses Among Series. The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager will allocate all expenses attributable to the Partnership among the Series on a pro rata basis or otherwise in their reasonable discretion.

General Partner's and Investment Manager's Expenses. The General Partner and the Investment Manager will pay their own general operating and overhead expenses associated with providing the management and investment management services required under the Partnership Agreement and the Investment Management Agreement, respectively. These expenses include all expenses incurred by the General Partner and the Investment Manager in providing for their normal operating overhead, including, but not limited to, the cost of providing relevant support and administrative services (e.g., employee compensation and benefits, rent, office equipment, computer systems, insurance (other than as expressly set forth above), utilities, telephone, secretarial and bookkeeping services, etc.), but not including any Partnership operating expenses described above.

The General Partner and the Investment Manager may use "soft dollar" commissions or rebates by brokerage firms of commissions generated by the Partnership's brokerage transactions executed through those firms to pay for certain brokerage and research products and services that fall within the safe harbor under Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended ("Exchange Act"), as further described herein. See "BROKERAGE PRACTICES—Soft Dollar Arrangements".

Withdrawals

Limited Partner Withdrawals Generally. Subject to certain restrictions described herein, each Limited Partner may withdraw a minimum of $100,000 as of the last day of each calendar quarter and at such other times as the General Partner may determine in its sole discretion (each such date, a "Withdrawal Date"), upon at least 91 days' prior written notice to the Administrator, with a copy to the General Partner. Unless the General Partner consents, partial withdrawals may not be made if they would reduce a Limited Partner's capital account balance below $500,000. All withdrawals will be deemed made prior to the commencement of the following calendar quarter (or other relevant period).

If the General Partner, in its sole discretion, permits a Limited Partner to withdraw capital other than on a regularly scheduled Withdrawal Date, the General Partner may impose an administrative fee to cover the actual legal, accounting, administrative, brokerage, and any other costs and expenses associated with such withdrawal. Such fee will be payable to the relevant Series of the Partnership and will be deducted from the withdrawal proceeds of the withdrawing Limited Partner as of such Withdrawal Date.

Ability to Withdraw Is Not Guaranteed. The General Partner believes (but cannot guarantee) that the assets of the Partnership will be invested in a manner which would allow the General Partner to satisfy withdrawal requests. The General Partner may, in its sole discretion: (i) defer withdrawal requests until the Partnership's assets mature or are liquidated in due course, (ii) elect to purchase with its own funds the Interests of the withdrawing Partner, or (iii) borrow from a third party or draw from a line of credit, subject to availability and other factors, in order to fund any withdrawal.

In addition, notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein, the General Partner may limit and/or suspend withdrawals in order to ensure that the Partnership, at all times, meets the diversification requirements applicable to insurance-dedicated investment funds, as further set forth herein.

Payments with Respect to Withdrawals; Applicable on a Series-by-Series Basis. A Limited Partner who requests any withdrawal of capital that constitutes, together with prior withdrawals within any fiscal year, less than 90% of the value of such Limited Partner's capital account (excluding any amounts held in any Side Pocket Accounts) will be paid within 90 days after the applicable Withdrawal Date. In the event that a Limited Partner requests a withdrawal of capital that constitutes, together with prior withdrawals within any fiscal year, 90% or more of the value of such Limited Partner's capital account (excluding any amounts held in any Side Pocket Accounts), the General Partner may reduce the amounts paid after any Withdrawal Date so that they constitute, in the aggregate during such fiscal year, 90% of an amount estimated by the General Partner to be the amount to which the withdrawing Limited Partner is entitled in the aggregate (calculated on the basis of unaudited data); such amount will be paid within 90 days after the applicable Withdrawal Date. The balance of the amount payable upon such withdrawal will be paid, without interest, within 90 days after completion of the audited financial statements for the fiscal year in which the withdrawal occurs. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the General Partner may, in its sole discretion, agree to pay up to the full capital account balance (calculated on the basis of unaudited data) to a withdrawing Limited Partner within 90 days after the applicable Withdrawal Date, subject to adjustment based on audited financial statements. To the extent that the sum previously paid to a withdrawing Limited Partner is calculated to have exceeded the amount to which it is entitled, that Limited Partner shall be required to repay to the Partnership the balance.

Upon withdrawal of all of the capital in its capital account (excluding for purposes hereof, any remaining investments held in a Side Pocket Account), a Limited Partner will be deemed to have withdrawn from the Partnership or the relevant Series, and upon notice of such withdrawal, a Limited Partner will not be entitled to exercise any voting rights afforded to Limited Partners under the Partnership Agreement.

The Partnership or the relevant Series has the right to pay cash or in-kind, or a combination of both, to a Limited Partner that makes a withdrawal from such Limited Partner's capital account.

Limitations on Withdrawals. The Partnership or a Series may suspend (or postpone) withdrawals, subscriptions, calculations of Net Asset Value and/or payments upon any withdrawals (in whole or in part) from capital accounts: (i) during the existence of any state of affairs which, in the opinion of the General Partner, makes the disposition of the Partnership's investments impractical or prejudicial to the Partners, or where such state of affairs, in the opinion of the General Partner, makes the determination of the price or value of the Partnership's investments impractical or prejudicial to the Partners; (ii) where any such withdrawals, subscriptions, calculations and/or payments, in the opinion of the General Partner, would result in the violation of any applicable law or regulation, including any diversification requirements applicable to insurance-dedicated investment funds; (iii) if the General Partner determines, in its sole discretion, that such suspension or postponement is prudent in order to prevent the Partnership from being subject to adverse tax or regulatory implications; (iv) a Portfolio Fund suspends the right to, or the payment of proceeds due upon, withdrawal and/or a Portfolio Fund allocates assets to its side pocket account; (v) a Portfolio Fund satisfies a withdrawal request by making an in-kind distribution; or (vi) for such other reasons or for such other periods as the General Partner may prudently and in good faith determine.

All Limited Partners will be notified in writing of any such suspension or postponement and the termination thereof. Following any suspension or postponement of withdrawals, a withdrawal request made by a Limited Partner prior to such suspension or postponement will be effected as of the first Withdrawal Date following the recommencement of withdrawals.

Required Withdrawals. The General Partner may, in its sole discretion, require a Limited Partner to withdraw any or all of the value of such Limited Partner's capital accounts on at least five days' notice for any reason or no reason; provided, however, that the General Partner may require such a withdrawal on less (or no) notice in order to comply with any laws and regulations applicable to the Partnership and/or its affiliates.

Side Pocket Accounts. A Limited Partner may not withdraw any of the amounts in its capital account that are attributable to the value of an Illiquid Investment held in a Side Pocket Account until such time that such Illiquid Investment (or the sales proceeds thereof) is reallocated to such Limited Partner's capital account. At the sole discretion of the Investment Manager, an Illiquid Investment may be held in a Side Pocket Account until the occurrence of a Realization Event (as defined below). For the avoidance of doubt, any investment made by Series 1 into the series of the PE Portfolio Fund that corresponds to the latter fund's investment made in the Highland Transaction (if any) may be held in a Side Pocket Account indefinitely.

Reserves. All withdrawals shall be subject to the General Partner's power to establish such reserves for the Partnership or a Series as the General Partner shall, in its sole but reasonable discretion, deem appropriate to pay current and future, definite, contingent and possible obligations of the Partnership or a Series (even if such reserves are not in accordance with GAAP), including estimated expenses in connection therewith, which could reduce the amount of a distribution upon withdrawal. See "—Management Fee" for more information on the Management Fee Reserve.

Other Limitations on Withdrawals. In addition to the above limitations on withdrawals, all withdrawals by Limited Partners will be subject to any limitations on withdrawals imposed by the Portfolio Funds, as applicable. For example, the ability of the Partnership to provide withdrawal proceeds to a Limited Partner may be subject to, among other things, various notice period requirements of the Portfolio Funds.

Waiver. The General Partner, in its sole discretion, may waive or modify any of the terms relating to withdrawals, including, without limitation, minimum amounts and notice periods, for all or any of the Limited Partners in its discretion without notice to the other Limited Partners.

Withdrawals, Resignation and Transfers by General Partner and its Affiliates

Each of the General Partner, the Investment Manager and/or any Investment Manager Affiliate may withdraw all or any of the value in its respective capital account at any time, from time to time, without the consent of the Limited Partners and without notice to any of the Limited Partners. The General Partner may resign as the general partner of the Partnership upon 30 days' prior written notice to the Limited Partners. Upon such resignation of the General Partner, or upon its bankruptcy or dissolution, the remaining Limited Partners have the right to appoint a substitute general partner; otherwise, the Partnership will be dissolved pursuant to the procedures set forth in the Partnership Agreement. The Partnership Agreement permits the General Partner to appoint additional general partners and to transfer its general partner interest to an affiliate of the General Partner without the consent of Limited Partners.

Leverage

The Investment Manager may cause the Partnership to undertake leverage. Leverage may take a variety of forms, including, but not limited to, the following: long-term loans, convertible notes and repurchase arrangements. Leverage arrangements used by the Partnership when financing is contingent on the market value of the financed assets may include those which may be subject to mark-to-market collateral or margin calls. See "INVESTMENT PROGRAM" and "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST" herein.

Determination of Net Asset Value

The net asset value ("Net Asset Value") of the Partnership, on a Series-by-Series basis, is determined in accordance with the Partnership Agreement and is generally equal to the amount by which the value of the Partnership's assets exceeds the amount of its liabilities. Net Asset Value calculations will be made by the Administrator (based on the information provided by the Investment Manager) on an accrual basis of accounting, as of the end of each calendar month (or other period, as the case may be), in accordance with GAAP, consistently applied (except that: (x) organizational and initial offering expenses of the Partnership may be capitalized and amortized over a period of up to 60 months from the date the Partnership commences operations, and (y) reserves may be taken that are inconsistent with GAAP), this Memorandum and the Partnership Agreement.

In making such determinations, securities, commodities and other financial instruments (other than options) that are listed on a national securities, commodities or other exchange, or over-the-counter instruments listed on NASDAQ, will be valued at their last sales prices on such date or, if no sales occurred on such date, at the midpoint between the last "bid" and "ask" prices for such securities, commodities or financial instruments on such date. Options that are listed on a securities or commodities exchange will be valued at their last sales prices on the date of determination on the largest securities or commodities exchange (by trading volume) on which such options shall have traded on such date; provided that, if the last sales prices of such options do not fall between the last "bid" and "ask" prices for such options on such date, then such options will be valued at the midpoint between the last "bid" and "ask" prices for such options on such date. Securities, commodities, options and other financial instruments that are not listed on an exchange or quoted on an over-the-counter market, but for which there are available quotations, will be valued based upon quotations obtained from market makers, dealers or pricing services.

In the case of investments in Portfolio Funds, which investments are expected to constitute most of the Partnership's assets, the net asset value calculation provided by the relevant managers (or any affiliates or service providers thereof) of those Portfolio Funds will generally be used in determining the Partnership's Net Asset Value. The Investment Manager intends to engage an independent third-party valuation agent (in addition to the Administrator) to appraise the Partnership's interests in Illiquid Investments, including, without limitation, the PE Portfolio Fund; provided that, if the PE Portfolio Fund engages its own independent third-party valuation agent, the Partnership may rely on such valuation of any investment in the PE Portfolio Fund. None of the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of their respective affiliates will be responsible for calculating the net asset value of the Portfolio Funds or for verifying the accuracy and completeness of any such values received.

If the Investment Manager, in its sole discretion, determines that the valuation of any security, commodity, option or other financial instrument pursuant to the foregoing does not fairly represent its market value, the Investment Manager will value such security, commodity, option or other financial instrument as it reasonably determines. Any securities, commodities, options and other financial instruments that have no public market, investments in other asset classes (including those in Side Pocket Accounts), and all other assets of the Partnership for which a valuation methodology is not specified, will be valued by the Investment Manager in a manner determined in good faith to reflect their fair market value. Absent bad faith or manifest error, all Net Asset Value determinations pursuant to the Partnership Agreement are conclusive and binding as to all Partners.

Allocation of Profit and Loss

To determine how the economic gains and losses of the Partnership will be shared, the Partnership Agreement allocates net income or loss (increases and decreases in Net Asset Value) to each Partner's capital account. Net income or loss includes all portfolio gains and losses, whether realized or unrealized, plus all other Partnership items of income (such as interest) and less all Partnership expenses. Generally, net income and net loss for each month (or other period, as the case may be) will be allocated to the Partners in proportion to their capital account balances as of the start of such month (or such other period). Net income and net losses in any Side Pocket Accounts or other memorandum accounts will be allocated to those Partners participating in such accounts in proportion to their capital account balances in such accounts. All matters concerning the allocation of profits, gains and losses among the parties (including the taxes thereon) and accounting procedures not expressly provided for by the terms of the Partnership Agreement will be determined by the General Partner in its sole discretion. Capital account balances will reflect capital contributions, previous allocations of increases and decreases in Net Asset Value, withdrawals, distributions (if any), and expenses. For the avoidance of doubt, the foregoing provisions will apply on a Series-by-Series basis.

Allocation of Taxable Income and Loss

For income tax purposes, all items of taxable income, gain, loss, deduction and credit will be allocated among the Partners at the end of each fiscal year in a manner consistent with their economic interests in the Partnership. In light of the fact that the Partnership does not intend to make distributions, to the extent that the Partnership's investment activities are successful, Limited Partners should expect to receive allocations of income and loss, and may incur tax liabilities from an investment in the Partnership without receiving cash distributions from the Partnership with which to pay those liabilities. To obtain cash from the Partnership to pay taxes, if any, Limited Partners may be required to make withdrawals, subject to the limitations in the Partnership Agreement. For the avoidance of doubt, the foregoing provisions will apply on a Series-by-Series basis.

Side Pocket Accounts

The Investment Manager may designate that certain investments held by a Series of the Partnership and/or by the Portfolio Fund(s) be carried in one or more separate memorandum accounts (each, a "Side Pocket Account") for such period of time as the Investment Manager determines. Such investments may include: (i) privately placed, unregistered securities, commodities, options and other financial instruments, or those investments that, in the opinion of the Investment Manager, do not have a readily ascertainable market value; (ii) other illiquid securities that may be valued but are not freely transferable; (iii) an investment into a Portfolio Fund that invests in illiquid assets; (iv) that portion of an investment in a Portfolio Fund that is attributable to side pocket accounts designated by the manager of such Portfolio Fund (which may be designated with respect to assets that are subject to legal or contractual restrictions on transferability, or that the Investment Manager believes either lack a readily assessable market value (without impairing the value of such investments) or should be held until the resolution of a special event or circumstance; and (v) investments in other asset classes (such as real estate) and other property that are not traded on public exchanges (each, as designated by the Investment Manager, along with follow-on investments, if any, an "Illiquid Investment"). Additionally, the Investment Manager, in its sole and absolute discretion, may determine that, for various reasons, an asset that initially was not an Illiquid Investment should be categorized as an Illiquid Investment, or that a follow-on investment should be categorized as a new Illiquid Investment. For the avoidance of doubt, (i) there will be no limitation on the percentage of the Partnership's portfolio that may be carried in Side Pocket Accounts; and (ii) any investment made by Series 1 into the series of the PE Portfolio Fund that corresponds to the latter fund's investment made in the Highland Transaction (if any) may be held in a Side Pocket Account indefinitely. Illiquid Investments held in a Side Pocket Account will be carried at their fair value (which may be at, above or below cost) as determined by the Investment Manager. For the avoidance of doubt, each Policy Owner investing through the relevant Limited Partner will indirectly participate in the economics from a pro rata portion of a Side Pocket Account and the corresponding Illiquid Investment.

At the sole discretion of the Investment Manager, an Illiquid Investment may be held in a Side Pocket Account until the occurrence of a Realization Event. Upon a Realization Event, such Illiquid Investment (or the sales proceeds thereof) will be reallocated, pro rata, from the Side Pocket Account to the capital accounts of participating Partners in accordance with their respective interests in such Side Pocket Account. Until such reallocation, a Limited Partner may not withdraw any of the amounts in its capital account that are attributable to the value of Illiquid Investments held in a Side Pocket Account. Upon such reallocation, a Limited Partner that has withdrawn all of its capital from the Partnership other than the capital attributable to such Side Pocket Account will receive an amount equal to its interest in such Side Pocket Account (net of any accrued Management Fee and accrued expenses (to the extent not covered by the Partnership's reserves, including the Management Fee Reserve) with respect thereto), within 90 days after such reallocation. For the avoidance of doubt, any investment made by Series 1 into the series of the PE Portfolio Fund that corresponds to the latter fund's investment made in the Highland Transaction (if any) may be held in a Side Pocket Account indefinitely.

A "Realization Event" occurs: (1) when an Illiquid Investment becomes liquid, as determined in the reasonable discretion of the Investment Manager; (2) when an Illiquid Investment is sold or otherwise disposed of by the Partnership; (3) when circumstances otherwise exist that, in the reasonable judgment of the Investment Manager, conclusively establish a value for an Illiquid Investment, as determined in the reasonable discretion of the Investment Manager (including, without limitation, when additional securities substantially similar to the Illiquid Investment have been issued by the issuer of the Illiquid Investment); or (4) as otherwise determined in the sole discretion of the Investment Manager.

Newly-admitted Limited Partners may not participate in Illiquid Investments that were placed in a Side Pocket Account prior to their admission. For the avoidance of doubt, the Partnership shall not accept additional Limited Partners into any existing Series if such Series has existing Side Pocket Accounts at the time of such admission. Any expenses relating specifically to a Side Pocket Account will be charged to the Partners participating in such account. If the Investment Manager in its discretion designates any investment as a follow-on investment to an existing Illiquid Investment, only the Partners participating in such original investment will participate in such follow-on investment in proportion to their interest in the related Side Pocket Account; provided, however, that, if a Partner shall have withdrawn from the Partnership, the General Partner will equitably adjust the interests of the remaining participating Partners to reflect such withdrawn Partner's non-participation in the follow-on investment.

Also see "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST—Conflicts of Interest" herein.

New Issues Accounts; Other Memorandum Accounts

From time to time, the Partnership may purchase securities that are part of a public distribution. Under rules adopted by the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA"), (i) certain persons engaged in the securities, banking or financial services industries (and members of their immediate families) and (ii) certain persons who are affiliated with companies that are current, former or prospective investment banking clients of the Partnership's broker(s) (collectively, "Restricted Persons") are restricted from participating in initial public offerings of equity securities ("New Issues"), each subject to a de minimis exemption. To the extent necessary to comply with FINRA rules, in addition to the Partnership's regular accounts and any Side Pocket Accounts, the General Partner may establish one or more memorandum accounts that are authorized to participate in New Issues (each, a "New Issues Account"). Participation in New Issues Accounts will be limited to (i) those Limited Partners who are not Restricted Persons, and (ii) those Limited Partners who are Restricted Persons, but only to the extent that such participation by Restricted Persons does not exceed levels permitted under applicable FINRA rules.

In addition, as a matter of fairness to Partners that do not participate in New Issues, a use-of-funds charge may be debited to the capital accounts of those Partners that do participate in New Issues and credited to the capital accounts of all the Partners. The General Partner may calculate such charge, in its discretion, in any manner consistent with applicable FINRA rules, including, debiting amounts equal to interest, (i) on the funds used to purchase the New Issues at the annual rate being paid by the Partnership, or (ii) that would be paid by the Partnership on borrowed funds during the applicable period.

Upon the sale or other disposition of New Issues (including any transfer of the underlying securities in the New Issues Account to the capital accounts of all of the Partners, after such securities no longer constitute New Issues), any profits or losses resulting from securities transactions in the New Issues Account in any fiscal period will be credited or debited to the capital accounts of Limited Partners participating in the New Issues Account in accordance with their interests therein. Accordingly, the returns to Limited Partners on their investments in the Partnership may differ depending upon whether or not they are a Restricted Person.

In addition to the foregoing with respect to Side Pocket Accounts and New Issues Accounts, to the extent that certain Limited Partners are restricted from participating in any other transactions of the Partnership by applicable laws or regulations, or for any other reason determined by the General Partner in good faith, the General Partner may, in its discretion, establish one or more separate memorandum accounts to hold such investments and isolate ownership away from such restricted Limited Partners. Only those Limited Partners who the General Partner determines are eligible will participate in such accounts.

Side Letters

The Partnership, the General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may from time to time enter into side letters or other similar agreements (collectively, "Side Letters") with one or more Limited Partners that provide such Limited Partner(s) with additional and/or different rights (including, without limitation, with respect to access to information, minimum investment amounts and liquidity terms) than such Limited Partner(s) have pursuant to this Memorandum and the Partnership Agreement. Neither the General Partner nor the Investment Manager will be required to notify any or all of the other Limited Partners of any such Side Letters or any of the rights and/or terms or provisions thereof, nor will the General Partner or the Investment Manager be required to offer such additional and/or different rights and/or terms to any or all of the other Limited Partners. Specifically, certain Insurance Company Limited Partners may have additional withdrawal rights not offered to other Limited Partners. See "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST—Partnership Risks—Impact of Side Letters" herein.

Reports to Limited Partners

Each Limited Partner will receive the following, with respect to the relevant Series: (i) annual financial statements of the Partnership audited by an independent certified public accounting firm; (ii) quarterly unaudited performance information; (iii) copies of such Limited Partner's Schedule K-1 to the Partnership's tax returns; and (iv) other periodic reports or letters as determined by the General Partner in its sole discretion. The financial statements of the Partnership will be prepared in accordance with GAAP (except to the extent that this Memorandum or the Partnership Agreement states or contemplates that such statements may be inconsistent with GAAP).

The General Partner may at any time choose to change the Partnership's accounting guidelines from GAAP to the International Financial Reporting Standard ("IFRS"). In such event, the financial performance of the Partnership, as determined under IFRS, may vary from those determined under GAAP.

The Partnership will bear all fees incurred in providing such tax returns and reports.

The General Partner may agree to provide certain Limited Partners with additional information on the underlying investments of the Partnership, which may affect investment and withdrawal decisions, as well as heightened access to the General Partner, the Investment Manager and their respective employees for relevant information.

Transferability of Interests

As a Limited Partner, you may not assign or transfer your Interest (except by operation of law) without the consent of the General Partner, which consent may be given or withheld in its sole discretion. No transfer of an Interest by a Limited Partner will be permitted if it would result in the termination of the Partnership for federal income tax purposes. Transfers of Interests are subject to other restrictions set forth in the Partnership Agreement, including compliance with ERISA and federal and state securities laws.

Due to these limitations on transferability, Limited Partners may be required to hold their Interests indefinitely, unless they withdraw from the Partnership in accordance with the provisions set forth in the Partnership Agreement.

Distributions; Distributions

The Partnership does not expect to make any distributions to Limited Partners from profits or capital, except pursuant to requests for withdrawals and upon termination of the

Upon Termination of the Partnership

Partnership or the relevant Series. Upon the termination of the Partnership (as further described in the Partnership Agreement), the assets of the Partnership or the relevant Series will be liquidated (or distributed) and the proceeds of liquidation will be used to pay off known liabilities, establish reserves for contingent liabilities and expenses of liquidation (even if such reserves are not in accordance with GAAP), and any remaining balance will be applied and distributed in proportion to the respective capital accounts of the Partners. The Partnership or the relevant Series may satisfy any distributions to Limited Partners in cash, in-kind or any combination thereof. Additionally, the General Partner may create a liquidating fund entity (e.g., a liquidating trust or similar vehicle) and may transfer all or a portion of the Partnership's assets to such entity for any reason, including an orderly liquidation of any illiquid Partnership or Series assets, including, but not limited to Side Pocket Accounts, and may distribute ownership interests in such entity to Limited Partners.

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein, to the extent that the Partnership makes any distributions, the General Partner may limit such distributions, in its sole discretion, in order to ensure that the Partnership, at all times, meets the diversification requirements applicable to insurance-dedicated investment funds.

The termination of the Partnership shall constitute the termination of all Series. For the avoidance of doubt, the termination of an individual Series, however, shall not constitute the termination of the Partnership.

Bank Holding Companies

Limited Partners that are Bank Holding Companies ("BHC Limited Partners") (as defined by Section 2(a) of the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956, as amended ("BHCA")) are limited to 4.99% of the voting Interest in the Partnership under Section 4(c)(6) of the BHCA. The portion of the Interest in the Partnership held by a BHC Limited Partner in excess of 4.99% of the aggregate outstanding voting Interests of all Limited Partners will be deemed non-voting Interests in the Partnership. BHC Limited Partners holding non-voting Interests in the Partnership are permitted to vote such Interests (i) on any proposal to dissolve or continue the business of the Partnership under the Partnership Agreement and (ii) on matters with respect to which voting rights are not considered to be "voting securities" under 12 C.F.R. § 225.2(q)(2), including such matters which may "significantly and adversely" affect a BHC Limited Partner (such as amendments to the Partnership Agreement or modifications of the terms of its Interest). For the avoidance of doubt, the foregoing provisions shall apply on a Series-by-Series basis. Except with regard to restrictions on voting, non-voting Interests are identical to all other Interests held by Limited Partners.

Voting Rights and Amendments

The voting rights of Limited Partners are very limited. Other than as explicitly set forth in the Partnership Agreement, Limited Partners have no voting rights as to the Partnership or its management. Generally, the Partnership Agreement may be amended only with the consent of the General Partner and Limited Partners owning more than 50% of all of the outstanding Interests of each Series; provided that: (x) for matters only relating to one Series, only the Limited Partners of that Series will vote on such matters, and (y) that the General Partner may amend the Partnership Agreement without the consent of or notice to any of the Limited Partners if, in the opinion of the General Partner, the amendment does not materially adversely affect any Limited Partner.

Liability of Limited Partners

No Limited Partner shall be personally liable or bound for the expenses, liabilities or obligations of the Partnership or the relevant Series beyond the amount in such Limited Partner's capital account in the relevant Series, from time to time, including any amounts thereof attributable to capital contributions, except that such Limited Partner may be obligated to return all or a portion of any distributions (including withdrawal proceeds) received from the Partnership or the relevant Series in an amount up to its aggregate capital contributions (including any income or gains thereon) to the Partnership or the relevant Series in order to pay such Limited Partner's pro rata share of any Partnership or Series liabilities that arose while such Limited Partner held Interests. Subject to the foregoing, no Limited Partner shall be obligated to provide any contributions to the Partnership or the relevant Series, other than its initial capital contribution. No Limited Partner shall be obligated to make any loan to the Partnership or a Series.

Under the Delaware Revised Uniform Limited Partnership Act ("Delaware Act"), when a Limited Partner receives a return of all or any part of such Limited Partner's capital contribution, the Limited Partner may be liable to the Partnership or a Series for any sum, not in excess of such return of capital (together with interest), if at the time of such distribution the Limited Partner knew that the Partnership or the relevant Series was prohibited from making such distribution pursuant to the Delaware Act.

Brokerage Practices

Portfolio transactions for the Partnership will be allocated by the Investment Manager to brokers on the basis of best execution and in consideration of, among other factors, such brokers' ability to effect transactions, operational efficiency, reputation and financial strength. See "BROKERAGE PRACTICES".

Other Activities of the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal and Affiliates

None of the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal or any of their respective partners, managers, members, directors, officers, employees, agents and affiliates (collectively, "Investment Manager Affiliates") is required to manage the Partnership as its sole and exclusive function. In addition to managing the Partnership and its investments, each of the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal and the Investment Manager Affiliates may provide investment management and other services to other parties and may manage other accounts and/or establish other private investment funds in the future (both domestic and offshore) (such accounts and funds, collectively, "Affiliated Funds"), including those that may employ an investment program and strategy similar to that of the Partnership.

Specifically, as of the date hereof: (i) the Investment Manager acts as the investment manager to Rand PE Fund I, L.P., a Delaware "series" limited partnership ("PE Portfolio Fund") that: (x) is expected to initially invest in the Highland Transaction, if any, and (y) will potentially make investments in the future in other private transactions similar to the Highland Transaction; (ii) Rand PE Fund Management, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company and an affiliate of the General Partner and the Investment Manager, is the general partner of the PE Portfolio Fund; (iii) the Principal is the managing member and controlling person of Rand PE Fund Management, LLC; and (iv) the Investment Manager acts as the investment subadvisor to a series of SALI Multi-Series Fund, L.P., a Delaware "series" limited partnership, and provides certain discretionary investment advisory or consulting services to such series.

See "MANAGEMENT" and "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST" herein.

Exculpation and Indemnification

The Partnership Agreement provides that none of the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates will be liable to the Partnership or the Limited Partners for any action or inaction in connection with the business and affairs of the Partnership unless such action or inaction is determined by a final, non-appealable decision of a court of competent jurisdiction to constitute gross negligence or willful misconduct. The Partnership (but not the Limited Partners individually) is obligated to indemnify the General Partner, the Investment Manager and the Investment Manager Affiliates (which, for purposes of this indemnity, shall include fund counsel (except for legal malpractice)) from and against any and all claims, liabilities, obligations, judgments, suits, proceedings, actions, demands, losses, costs, expenses (including attorneys' fees and other expenses of litigation), damages, penalties or interest, as a result of any claim or legal proceeding (made or threatened) related to any action or inaction by any of them in connection with the business and affairs of the Partnership (including the settlement or appeal of any such claim or legal proceeding); provided that such indemnity will not extend to conduct determined by a final, non-appealable decision of a court of competent jurisdiction to constitute gross negligence or willful misconduct. For the avoidance of doubt, the foregoing indemnification provisions shall apply on a Series-by-Series basis. The Investment Management Agreement also provides similar protections to the Investment Manager.

Investor Control

The Partnership is an insurance-dedicated investment fund. In certain circumstances, the owner of a variable life insurance or annuity contract invested in a Separate Account may, for federal income tax purposes, be considered the owner of the assets of the Separate Account that funds the variable contract under an "investor control" theory. Each Policy Owner should consult his or her own tax advisors regarding the "investor control" theory and the particular tax risks, if any, posed by the Policy Owner's selection of the Partnership as its investment option under a related Policy.

Policy Owners have no right to communicate with or direct the investment policies or decisions of the Partnership and/or the Investment Manager Affiliates relating in any way to the Partnership. For purposes of this Memorandum, the term Policy Owner includes: (i) any trustees of a Policy Owner; (ii) any Policy beneficiaries; (iii) any affiliated person (as this term is defined in Section 2(a)(3) of the Investment Company Act) of the foregoing persons; or (iv) any person that represents the Policy Owner.

There is not, nor shall there be, a pre-arranged binding agreement between the General Partner, the Administrator and the Investment Manager, on the one hand, and any Policy Owner, on the other hand, relating to the investments of the Partnership. Furthermore, Limited Partners have no right or power to take part in the management of the Partnership.

None of the Partnership, the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates will be held responsible to any Limited Partner or Policy Owner for any loss, damage, liability or expense resulting from a violation of the "investor control" theory to the extent such violation is attributable to conduct of a Policy Owner.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Partnership's investment program permits investments in Portfolio Funds, Illiquid Investments and other investments that are managed by, or otherwise affiliated with or related to the Investment Manager. None of such investments, if made, will be deemed to be directed by the Policy Owner or be part of a pre-arranged binding agreement as a result of such affiliation or relation.

A substantial portion of the Partnership is expected to be invested in illiquid Portfolio Funds and/or Illiquid Investments. Such investments are often structured as "pass-through" entities for tax purposes and therefore may generate significant taxable income to the Limited Partners without any corresponding liquidity from such investments. As a result, an investment in the Partnership may be unsuitable for those investors that do not receive a corresponding deduction for such allocated income.

Tax Considerations
