This Joint Pretrial Order is jointly submitted to the Court for entry pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 7016-1(a) and the Court's Order Approving Second Stipulated Scheduling Order [Docket No. 94][2] by Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Plaintiff" or "Highland") and Patrick Hagaman Daugherty ("Daugherty," and together, the "Parties").

I. NATURE OF ACTION AND PROCEDURAL POSTURE

1. This action concerns Daugherty's contingent, unliquidated claim against Highland arising from the audit of Highland's 2008 tax return (the "Reserved Claim"), and Highland's claims against Daugherty, seeking to disallow and estimate his Reserved Claim.[3] This action also concerns Daugherty's Counterclaims (defined below).

2. On October 16, 2019, Highland filed its petition for relief under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code (the "Bankruptcy Case" or the "Case"). Thereafter, Daugherty filed several proofs of claims in the Bankruptcy Case. Those claims culminated in Claim No. 205, which superseded and replaced all prior claims.

3. In November 2021, Daugherty and Highland entered into that certain Settlement Agreement (the "Settlement Agreement"), which resolved all aspects of Daugherty's claims against the Debtor's estate except for the Reserved Claim. On March 8, 2022, the Court entered an order approving the Settlement Agreement (the "Settlement Order") [Bankr. Docket No. 3299].[4] The Settlement Agreement provided that Highland would transfer to Daugherty its "interests in HERA and ERA," and that such transfer will include "the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system . . . [and] be without representation or warranty of any type … and without any liability or material cost to HCMLP or its affiliates..." Highland Ex. 5 ¶8 (the "Books and Records Provision"). The Settlement Agreement further provided that Highland expressly "reserve[d] the right to assert any and all defenses" to the Reserved Claim. Id. ¶9.

4. On May 2, 2025, Highland commenced the Adversary Proceeding by filing its Complaint for (1) Disallowance of Claim No. 205 in its Entirety, (2) Estimation of Claim No. 205 for Allowance Purposes, or (3) Subordination of Any Allowed Portion of Claim No. 205 of Patrick Hagaman Daugherty [Docket No. 1] (the "Complaint"). In its Complaint, Highland asserted three claims: (a) disallowance of the Claim, (b) estimation of the Claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 502(c), and (c) subordination of the Claim under 11 U.S.C. § 510(b), (excluding the claim for subordination being withdrawn with prejudice, "Highland's Claims").

5. On June 5, 2025, Daugherty filed a Motion to Dismiss the Complaint [Docket No. 5]. Highland filed an Objection and a Cross Motion for Relief from a Final Order Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9024 [Docket No. 10]. At the hearing on Daugherty's Motion to Dismiss and Highland's Cross Motion, the Court denied the Motion to Dismiss and granted the Cross Motion. The Court's ruling struck a particular provision of the Settlement Agreement that Daugherty contends prohibited Highland from filing this Adversary Proceeding.[5]

6. On October 3, 2025, Daugherty filed his Answer and Original Counterclaim [Docket No. 39], asserting three causes of action against Highland: (a) breach of contract for breach of the Books and Records Provision; (b) specific performance through which Daugherty seeks an order requiring Highland to turn over all of HERA and ERA books and records in compliance with the Books and Records provision; and (c) attorneys' fees arising from Highland's allegedly bad faith

[5] Daugherty appealed to the district court from this Court's order granting the Cross Motion. That appeal is still pending. Daugherty does not intend to relitigate those issues at the upcoming April 17 hearing, but Daugherty is not waiving his existing appeal or any right to re-raise the issue in an appeal from the Court's ruling after the April 17 hearing.

conduct in commencing the Adversary Proceeding (collectively, the "Counterclaims"). On October 24, 2025, Highland filed its Answer to the Counterclaims (which included its affirmative defenses) [Docket No. 56].

7. A trial on Highland's Claims and Daugherty's Counterclaims is scheduled for April 17, 2026.

II. STATEMENT OF STIPULATED FACTS

A. The Parties Stipulate to the Following Facts:

8. From 1998-2011, Daugherty was employed by Highland.

9. Daugherty and Highland entered into that certain Amended Employment Agreement dated as of December 31, 2004 (the "Employment Agreement"). Highland Ex. 11.

10. On or about February 27, 2009, Highland issued to Daugherty a Comprehensive Compensation and Benefits Statement. Highland Ex. 13 (the "Comprehensive Statement").

11. In 2009, based on a draft Schedule K-1 that Highland provided to him, Daugherty filed his 2008 federal income tax return.

These forms incorporated Highland's losses that had been allocated to him as provided for in the draft Schedule K-1.

15. On October 16, 2019, Highland filed its petition for relief under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code (the "Bankruptcy Case").

16. On February 22, 2021, the Court entered the Order (i) Confirming the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) and (ii) Granting Related Relief [Main Docket No. 1943] (the "Confirmation Order") with respect to the Plan.[6]

17. The Plan included a form of Claimant Trust Agreement (the "CTA"). [Bankr. Docket No. 1811, Exhibit R (preamble)].

18. The Plan created the CTA when the Plan went effective on August 11, 2021. [Main Docket No. 2700].

19. On November 22, 2021, Daugherty and Highland executed the Settlement Agreement. Highland Ex. 5.

20. On March 8, 2022, the Court entered the Settlement Order approving the Settlement Agreement.

21. On May 5, 2022, and October 19, 2022, Highland delivered certain documents and materials to Daugherty as reflected in Daugherty Exhibits 33 and 34, respectively.

22. The Reserved Claim remains disputed, contingent, and unliquidated.

III. CONTESTED ISSUES OF FACT

The statements and contentions in this section reflect the respective views of each Party and are not a joint statement or stipulation. No Party admits, agrees, or acquiesces to any factual or legal contentions, statements, or allegations of any other Party.

23. The Parties disagree on the following issues of fact:

- Whether the Compensation Statement is a binding and enforceable contract (Mixed

[6] The "Plan" refers to the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) filed on the main docket at Docket No. 1808. The Confirmation Order was subsequently modified for reasons irrelevant to the Motion. See Main Docket No. 4378.

- Whether Highland fulfilled its obligations, if any, under the Compensation Statement?
- If the Compensation Statement is an enforceable contract, and Highland has not fulfilled its obligations thereunder, whether Daugherty's Reserved Claim can be estimated in accordance with Section 502(c) of the Bankruptcy Code (Mixed question of law and fact)?
- If Daugherty's Reserved Claim can be estimated, how much should the Reserved Claim be estimated at for purposes of allowance.
- Whether the failure to estimate Daugherty's Reserved Claim before August 11, 2026, would unduly delay the administration of Highland's bankruptcy case?
- Whether Highland breached the Settlement Agreement's Books and Records Provision?
- Whether Highland acted in "bad faith" and is therefore liable for Daugherty's attorneys' fees?

IV. CONTESTED ISSUES OF LAW

24. The Parties disagree on the following issues of law:

- The Parties disagree over whether Daugherty's Reserved Claim should be disallowed (Mixed question of law and fact).
- The Parties disagree about whether Highland fulfilled its obligations under the Books and Records Provision (Mixed question of law and fact).
- The Parties disagree about whether Daugherty's breach of contract claim is barred by the statute of limitations.
- The parties disagree about who has the ultimate burden of proof on each cause of action and what those burdens are.

V. PARTIES' CLAIMS AND DEFENSES

The following statements and contentions of the respective Parties in this Section reflect the respective views of each Party and are not a joint statement or stipulation. No Party admits, agrees, or acquiesces to any factual or legal contentions, statements, or allegations of any other Party.

A. Summary of Highland's Claims and Defenses

1. Daugherty Has the Ultimate Burden of Proof

27. Under 11 U.S.C. § 502(a) a "claim ..., proof of which is filed under section 501 [of the Bankruptcy Code], is deemed allowed, unless a party in interest ... objects." 11 U.S.C. § 502(a). The ultimate burden of proof for a claim always lies with the claimant. In re Armstrong, 347 B.R. 581, 583 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2006) (citing Raleigh v. Ill. Dep't of Rev., 530 U.S. 15 (2000)). Thus, Daugherty has the ultimate burden of proof with respect to the allowance and amount of his Reserved Claim.

28. Daugherty also has the ultimate burden of proof with respect to each of his Counterclaims.

2. Daugherty's Claim Should Be Disallowed

29. Daugherty's Claim should be disallowed for three independent reasons: (a) the Compensation Statement[7] is unenforceable as a contract because it is vague and indefinite and is missing material terms required to form a contract; (b) if the Compensation Statement creates an enforceable contract, Highland long-ago satisfied any obligations it may have had thereunder; and (c) under the plain and unambiguous terms of the Employment Agreement,[8] Daugherty surrendered any rights he may have had under the Compensation Statement when he voluntarily resigned from all positions at Highland in October 2011.

[8] Highland Ex. 11.

a. Material Terms of the Compensation Statement Are Either Vague or Indefinite or Are Missing Such that the No "Agreement" Was Reached and Claims Under the Compensation Statement are Unenforceable as a Matter of Law

30. The Compensation Statement does not constitute an offer by Highland and acceptance by Daugherty, an "at will" employee with an Employment Agreement, for anything. It is simply a summary of what Highland had or was going to pay Daugherty for services he had already performed during the prior year and a reiteration of his base salary for the next year. Every employee of Highland received a similar statement every year at the end of the performance review cycle each February. Material terms in the Compensation Statement Daugherty relies upon to claim an enforceable agreement are either vague or indefinite or are completely missing such that the so-called "agreement" is unenforceable as a matter of law. As relevant here, the alleged "agreement" is contained in three sentences that state only: "Refund is an estimated amount. If actual refund deviates materially from estimate, other compensation will be fairly adjusted. Refund is expected to be received in approximately 4 months."[9] That's it.

31. Under Texas law, a contract that fails to address all of its essential and material terms with a reasonable degree of certainty and definiteness is unenforceable as a matter of law. See APS Cap. Corp. v. Mesa Air Grp., Inc., 580 F.3d 265, 272 (5th Cir. 2009) ("In order to be a legally enforceable contract, an agreement must be formed around the contours of sufficiently specific terms."). Material terms "are those that the parties would reasonably regard as vitally important elements of their bargain," and "a contract must define its essential terms with enough precision to enable the court to determine the obligations of the parties." In re ACM-Tex., Inc., 430 B.R. 371, 408 (Bankr. W.D. Tex. 2010); see also Wesdem, LLC v. Illinois Tool Works Inc., 2022 WL 18585978, at *4 (W.D. Tex. July 28, 2022), aff'd sub nom., 70 F.4th 285 (5th Cir. 2023) ("Where the agreement is so indefinite that the Court must 'speculate' about its terms, the contract fails 'as a matter of law.'") (quoting RealPage, Inc. v. EPS, Inc., 560 F. Supp. 2d 539, 547 (E.D. Tex. 2007) (granting summary judgment on a breach of contract claim because the licensing agreement failed to specify the product to be licensed and its price, affording the court no basis for understanding the parties' obligations); Coppock v. Doug's Corner, Inc., No. 5:21-CV-43-RWS-JBB, 2023 WL 11947178, at *3 (E.D. Tex. May 17, 2023) (noting that "the agreement's terms must also be sufficiently definite to 'enable a court to understand the parties' obligations' and to give 'an appropriate remedy' if they are breached.") (quoting Fischer v. CTMI, L.L.C., 479 S.W.3d 231, 237 (Tex. 2016)).

32. "As a general matter, Texas courts have consistently held that a contract may be held void for indefiniteness if it fails to specify 'the time of performance, the price to be paid, the work to be done, the service to be rendered, or the property to be transferred.'" Liberto v. D.F. Stauffer Biscuit Co., 441 F.3d 318, 324 (5th Cir. 2006) (quoting Engelman Irr. Dist. v. Shields Bros., 960 S.W.2d 343, 352 (Tex. App. 1997)). "The question of indefiniteness—whether an agreement reaches all essential terms of a given transaction—is one of law for the court." APS, 580 F.3d at 271 (citing COC Svcs., Ltd. v. CompUSA, Inc., 150 S.W.3d 654, 664 (Tex.App.—Dallas 2004)).

33. Here, under Texas law, the Compensation Statement either contains vague or indefinite terms, or omits material terms, that render it unenforceable.

34. First, the 2008 tax refund is explicitly stated to be an "estimated" amount. While unstated, the refund could only come from the IRS (as the taxing authority), not Highland. But the amount is not clear; it is merely estimated because a tax refund to an individual can only be determined after that individual files his/her tax return and all of the individual's particularized tax attributes are taken into consideration.[10] While Highland could (and did quite accurately) estimate the amount of losses it would pass through to Daugherty as a limited partner, and could therefore estimate the potential tax refund solely on account of those losses, it could not set forth with definiteness the amount of the refund Daugherty would get from the IRS. Accordingly, the prospective amount of the refund was an estimate—and "estimates" are necessarily uncertain.

35. Second, as used in the Compensation Statement, the word "materially" is vague and ambiguous. To create an enforceable obligation, the Court must determine, among other things, whether the actual refund Daugherty received from the IRS "deviate[s] "materially" from [the] estimate." Here, the estimate was $1,475,816[11], which as contemporaneous evidence shows, wasn't an estimate of the cash refund that Daugherty could expect to receive, but rather an estimate of the pre-tax equivalent of such a refund. In other words, the amount reflected on the Compensation Statement was a 35% "grossed-up" amount of his estimated cash refund of $959,280 to reflect what the refund would feel like to Daugherty on an "apples-to-apples" basis with other pre-tax compensation amounts. There is simply no agreed way to determine whether a refund amount received is materially consistent with the grossed-up amount listed on the Compensation Statement.

36. Third, the phrase "other compensation" is also vague and ambiguous because it had many potential permutations at the time. The Compensation Statement proves the point as it identifies myriad forms of "Earnings and Awards" and "Highland Paid Benefits" that comprise the "Total Compensation Package" that Daugherty received for services he provided to Highland in 2008, including: (a) base salary, (b) tax refund, (c) loan forgiveness, (d) other awards (including a

[10] This would include things like other sources of income, unrelated capital gains and losses from investments, unrelated K-1's from other partnerships, spousal income, estimated tax payments the individual or their spouse made during the year, individual itemized deductions, and a litany of others. Each of these factors can impact an individual's refund or tax owed each year, and Highland did not have visibility into all the factors impacting Daugherty's "married-filing-jointly" return.

[11] Highland Ex. 13.

401(k) match and a "defined benefit"); and (e) deferred compensation.[12] In all, as reflected on the Compensation Statement, Daugherty was compensated 13 different ways in 2008 alone, and other years had even more methods of "compensation". To create a contract out of the Compensation Statement, the Court would have to pick without guidance which method of compensation should be adjusted.

37. Fourth, the phrase "fairly adjusted" is another subjective term susceptible to differing meanings. Indeed, it is hard to imagine in 2011 that Daugherty and Highland would have reached an agreement on what was "fair." Had the parties intended to reach a binding "agreement," they surely would have done so. Again, to create Daugherty's alleged agreement, the Court will have to identify on its own what amount would have been deemed "fair" by the parties in February 2009.

38. Finally, the Compensation Statement omits numerous material terms. For example, the Compensation Statement does not (a) mention what happens if an actual tax refund is received by Daugherty (as it was) but that refund is subject to potential recovery by the IRS (as it always is); (b) reference or even consider the possibility of an audit of Highland or Daugherty; (c) provide for what would happen in the event of an audit adjustment affecting Highland or Daugherty; (d) include any time frame or due date for any potential adjustment of "other compensation"; (e) state that Highland would "adjust other compensation" to account for any interest or penalties arising in connection with any unconsidered audit; (f) state that Highland would "make Daugherty whole" if any portion of the refund was clawed back after the unconsidered audit; (g) state that any obligation Highland purportedly had would continue indefinitely, even after Daugherty was no longer affiliated with Highland; or (h) contain the words "indemnify," "reimburse," "cover," "back-stop," or phrases of similar import. Contemporaneous evidence actually contradicts Daugherty's theory of endless indemnification – that rather, tax refunds "are not guaranteed, as the IRS still has the authority to audit our claimed losses and resulting refunds due."[13] It is indisputable that Highland did not (1) even file its 2008 partnership return until nearly seven months after giving Daugherty the Compensation Statement, and (2) learn that the 2008 partnership return was selected for an IRS audit until March 2010.

39. In sum, the Compensation Statement is not an enforceable contract as a matter of law because essential terms to form an agreement are either vague, indefinite, or missing. For this reason alone, the Claim should be disallowed.

b. Highland Satisfied its Obligations Under the Compensation Statement

40. Even if the unsigned Compensation Statement is deemed an enforceable contract, Highland satisfied any obligations it may have had long ago because Daugherty received a tax refund from the IRS based on partnership losses passed to him and reflected in a draft Form K-1 for 2008 that Highland provided to him, which was further validated by a final Form K-1 for 2008 that was provided in September 2009. (the "2008 K-1").[14] Specifically, as reflected on his final 2008 K-1, Daugherty was allocated ordinary business losses by Highland in excess of $4 million, along with other losses that well-exceeded the partnership allocated income he received from Highland during 2005-2007. Thus, Daugherty received even more than what was referenced in the Compensation Statement which resulted in a greater refund for Daugherty than estimated. In other words, the allocation to Daugherty of over $4 million of actual losses from 2008 reflected in the final Form K-

[14] Daugherty Ex. 26 (draft 2008 K-1); Daugherty Ex. 24 (final 2008 K-1).

1 delivered in 2009 (when tax-effected at 35%) exceeded the originally estimated cash refund which formed the basis of the amount referenced in the Compensation Statement.

41. When Daugherty voluntarily terminated his employment with Highland in October 2011, he acknowledged and agreed that, pursuant to the express conditions of his Employment Agreement, Highland would "have no further liability or obligation to [Daugherty] under [the Employment Agreement] or in connection with his/her employment of termination."

42. Highland, therefore, satisfied its obligations (to the extent it had any) under the Compensation Statement and Employment Agreement in full. Accordingly, the Claim should be disallowed in its entirety.

c. Under the Terms of His Employment Agreement, Daugherty Forfeited Any Right He May Have Had to Compensation When He Resigned.

43. Even if the Compensation Statement was enforceable, Daugherty's Claim still fails because he forfeited any rights he had thereunder when he terminated his employment at Highland in October 2011.

44. Daugherty voluntarily resigned from Highland on September 28, 2011, and his employment terminated on October 31, 2011.[15] By his own contention, the 2008 Tax Refund that Daugherty received from Highland was part of his discretionary bonus under the Employment Agreement. But Daugherty surrendered any right he may have had to a bonus under the Compensation Statement (to the extent he had any) when he voluntarily terminated his employment at Highland. The Employment Agreement expressly states that Daugherty must be employed in order to be eligible for a bonus. Section 3.1 of the Employment Agreement provides:

> Salary and Bonus. The annual salary (the "Base Salary") payable to the Executive during the term of this Agreement shall be an amount > determined by the Company (in its sole discretion) and communicated in writing to the Executive, and will be subject to annual review pursuant to the Company's normal review policy for other similarly situated executives of the Company. Any increase in salary shall be based upon the Executive's performance and shall be determined by the Company in its sole discretion. In addition, the Company may from time to time award bonuses to the Executive based on such criteria as the Company may establish in its discretion. Any such bonus, unless specifically stated otherwise, will be paid in three (3) equal installments and is not earned or accrued until each payment date. The Executive must be employed on the payment date(s) in order to be eligible for the bonus. The payment of salary and bonuses shall be subject to all federal, state and withholding taxes, social security deductions and other general obligations. Furthermore, the designation of the Executive's compensation does not constitute a guarantee of employment for any specific period of time.[16]

45. Daugherty terminated his employment at Highland on October 31, 2011, and therefore, was no longer eligible for any bonus under the Employment Agreement after that date. Daugherty has admitted this in writing 15 years ago -- literally the day before he resigned in 2011. Highland Ex. 38 ("I would have to be employed at Highland in order to get any payment of bonus (as has always been the case).").

46. Further, Section 4.5 of the Employment Agreement expressly addresses Highland's liability to Daugherty in the event Daugherty voluntarily terminates his employment and does not take up work with a "competing business":

> In the event that [Daugherty] terminates his/her Continuous Status as an Executive hereunder and within one (1) year thereafter [Daugherty] is not employed by a Competing Business, [Highland] shall have no further liability or obligation to [Daugherty] under this Agreement or in connection with his/her employment hereunder, except for (i) any unpaid Base Salary accrued through the date of termination, (ii) any accrued but unused vacation time, (iii) any amounts or rights to which [Daugherty] is entitled under any other written agreement with [Highland], (iv) any unreimbursed expenses properly incurred prior to the date of termination, and (v) severance pay equal to the product of (a) two (2) weeks Base Salary … multiplied by (b) the number of

> [years of service]… [total severance not to exceed six weeks of Base Salary]... [Daugherty] acknowledges that [Highland's] obligation to pay severance, if any, will arise only … if [Daugherty] signs and returns a duly executed separation agreement and release substantially in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A….In the event that [Daugherty] declines to sign the separation agreement and release, he/she shall not be entitled to any severance, and [Highland] will have no further liability or obligation to Daugherty under this Agreement or in connection with his/her employment or termination. [17]

47. Since Daugherty did not sign the separation and release form and deliver it to Highland and elected to counter-sue Highland under the Employment Agreement instead (and lost against Highland),[18] he forfeited any right he may have had under the Compensation Statement for any additional consideration, including his claim for unlimited indemnity or adjustment of other pre-termination compensation.

48. Finally, one other document proves that the Parties never believed the Compensation Statement constituted an agreement that would survive Daugherty's termination from Highland: a form of Separation Agreement Daugherty refused to sign following his resignation (the "Draft Separation Agreement").[19] The Draft Separation Agreement contains, among other things, the very promise by Highland pay taxes, interest, and penalties arising from an audit of Highland's tax returns (the "Rejected Indemnity") that Daugherty now claims is implicitly included in the Compensation Statement. The evidence will show that in October 2011, when Daugherty was presented with the Draft Separation Agreement, the IRS was only auditing Highland's 2008 return. There would have been no reason to include the Rejected Indemnity in the Draft Separation Agreement if the Parties believed it was already included in the Compensation Statement and would survive Daugherty's termination.

[19] Daugherty Ex. 44 §3(b)(ii).

3. Daugherty's Claim Must Be Estimated Under Section 502(c)

49. Even if Daugherty's Claim is allowed, it must be estimated under Section 502(c) of the Bankruptcy Code ("Section 502(c)"). Under Section 502(c), the Bankruptcy Court is required to estimate contingent and unliquidated claims for allowance purposes in the circumstances present here.[20] The statute provides: "[t]here shall be estimated for purposes of allowance ... (1) any contingent or unliquidated claim, the fixing or liquidation of which ... would unduly delay the administration of the case ...." 11 U.S.C. § 502(c).

50. "The public policy underlying claims estimation under the Code is to facilitate the timely administration of the case by making an expeditious assessment of the value of certain claims which would otherwise unduly delay administration." In re Perry, 425 B.R. 323, 381 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 2010). Thus, where, as here, both prerequisites are met, the bankruptcy court does not merely have discretion to estimate – it has an affirmative mandatory duty to do so. The method by which the bankruptcy court estimates a claim under Section 502(c) is within the court's broad discretion. See Matter of Brints Cotton Mktg., Inc., 737 F.2d 1338, 1341 (5th Cir. 1984) ("A bankruptcy court's estimation of the value of an unliquidated claim, the liquidation of which would unduly delay the proceedings, may be disturbed on appellate review only in the event of an abuse of discretion.").

[20] Daugherty's expert opines that Daugherty's Claim cannot possibly be estimated until all disputes concerning the 2008 Audit are finally resolved, if then. Aside from the fact that the expert is wrong (see below), Daugherty cannot reconcile his expert's opinion with Congress' explicit mandate reflected in the plain text of in Section 502(c)—and that's not surprising since Daugherty's expert admits he has no bankruptcy expertise and is unfamiliar with Section 502(c). Indeed, if Daugherty's expert is right, and Daugherty's Claim cannot possibly be estimated, then the Claim should be disallowed as too speculative. The one result that is not permitted under the circumstances is that Daugherty gets to hold up implementation of the express agreement between Highland and all of its stakeholders (as reflected in the court-approved Plan and Claimant Trust Agreement) concerning the deadline for the resolution of claims and the commencement of dissolution (i.e., August 11, 2026).

51. Daugherty's Claim, which is both contingent and unliquidated, is precisely the type of claim that must be estimated under Section 502(c). As set forth above, the Plan was confirmed in February of 2021 and has been effective since August of 2021. Under the Sunset Provisions[21] in the Plan, CTA, Confirmation Order, and related extension orders, Highland must resolve all disputed claims, and the Highland Claimant Trust must commence the Dissolution Process, by August 11, 2026. Mr. Daugherty's Claim is the last unresolved claim against Highland's estate. Although the parties dispute whether the IRS made a "final determination" with respect to the completed 2008 IRS tax audit that concluded in 2018,[22] they agree that any final resolution of the appeal of the audit results will not be complete by the court-ordered and Plan-mandated August 11, 2026 deadline to resolve the estate's outstanding claims and commence Highland's dissolution process. Thus, if Daugherty' Claim is not estimated, Highland will be in violation of the Confirmation Order and the Extension Order and the administration of the bankruptcy case will be unduly delayed. Accordingly, this Court is required to exercise its congressionally mandated duty to estimate Daugherty's Claim under Section 502(c).

52. In applying Section 502(c), the Court has ample information to apply a reasonable methodology to estimate Daugherty's Claim, assuming any liability for Highland. The only figure subject to estimation is the amount of adjustment to Highland's 2008 partnership return (the "HCMLP Income Adjustment"). Once the sole, unknown variable—the HCMLP Income Adjustment—is estimated, the amount of Daugherty's Claim may be determined by a simple [21] See generally Highland's Motion for An Order Further Extending Duration of Trusts, Docket 4213 (the "Extension Motion"). This Court granted the Extension Motion and extended the life of the Claimant Trust only until August 11, 2026. Docket No. 4298 (the "Extension Order").

[22] The dispute over whether "the IRS [made] a final determination with respect to the IRS Audit Dispute" (Highland Ex. 5 ¶9) was addressed by this Court when it granted Highland's motion under Rule 60 to strike the Stay Provision from the Settlement Agreement (Adv. Pro. Docket No. 23), and is irrelevant to the current dispute before the Court. See also Memorandum Opinion and Order, Adv. Pro. Docket No. 80) (denying Daugherty motion to stay adversary proceeding pending appeal of order granting Highland's Rule 60 motion).

arithmetic formula: [HCMLP Income Adjustment] x [Daugherty's 0.7403 percentage interest in the partnership as of the December 31, 2008]; x [Daugherty's 35% maximum personal federal income tax rate as of December 31, 2008]. Thus, the Court can reasonably estimate Daugherty's Claim by plugging in one of four different numbers for the HCMLP Income Adjustment, which in all but one case requires no subjectivity whatsoever: (i) the IRS's original determination at the conclusion of the 2018 audit;[23] (ii) the IRS's 2024 offer to the tax matters partner (Dondero) of a discounted settlement; (iii) Dondero's 2025 offer to the IRS of an even further discounted settlement; or (iv) some estimate of a hypothetical discounted settlement based on the several existing known data points. The results are set forth in the demonstrative exhibit attached as Highland D-1.

53. While Highland believes there is no basis to hold it liable for any penalties or interest that Daugherty could be required to pay on account of an "underpayment" amount resulting from HCMLP Income Adjustment, as further set forth below, Highland has nevertheless calculated these objective and statutorily determined amounts in the same demonstrative for the sake of completeness and to provide the Court with all the tools it needs to fulfill its mandate. Even if the Compensation Statement is deemed to be an enforceable contract (which Highland disputes), such Compensation Statement makes no reference to penalties or interest whatsoever, nor does it provide for any indemnification or similar obligations with respect thereto (and in fact, contemporaneous evidence contradicts such a notion). That said, even if the Court determines that the claim ought to be allowed and should include some estimate for penalties and/or interest, Daugherty has benefited from having actually received the original $1.3 million refund amount from the IRS in 2009, and Daugherty has an affirmative duty to mitigate any damages arising from penalties and/or interest, which could have been accomplished through investment of the tax refund he received. Even assuming extremely conservative rates of return on such a hypothetical investment, such returns would dwarf the penalties and interest the IRS would charge in any of the scenarios described in the demonstrative.[24]

54. The Court may also use another methodology it deems appropriate under the circumstances. But there can be no dispute that this is the exact type of situation that mandates claim estimation. Accordingly, if Daugherty's Claim is allowed, it shall be estimated under Section 502(c).

4. Highland Withdraws Its Third Cause Of Action--Subordination Under Section 510(b)—With Prejudice

55. Upon reflection, Highland withdraws with prejudice its Third Cause of Action for the subordination of Daugherty's Claim pursuant Bankruptcy Code section 510(b) because (a) Daugherty's Claim has long been subject to a reserve in an amount that greatly exceeds any plausible estimate of value, (b) withdrawal will simplify the trial by eliminating the Parties' burden of litigating whether (i) Daugherty's Claim should be subordinated, and (ii) if so, whether it should be subordinated to Class 10 and Class 11, (c) withdrawal will reduce this Court's burden to decide such issues, (d) withdrawal will narrow the scope of any potential appeal, and (e) Daugherty cannot be prejudiced because, if the Court determines that the Compensation Statement is an enforceable contract, and estimates Daugherty's Claim, the Claim will remain in Class 8 where it has always been and will be paid in full.[25]

[24] Mr. Daugherty has had the use of the 2008 Refund for more than 16 years during a historically bullish period for investors, with the S&P 500, for example, returning approximately 10x for investors from the start of 2009 to early 2026. For underpayment with a filed return, the IRS charges a one-time 20% penalty on the underpaid amount, and the effective interest rate on the underpayment since Daugherty received the refund would be approximately 4.6% per year by statute.

[25] If Daugherty's Claim is subordinated to Class 10, it will receive a small fraction of its allowed amount that will be potentially paid by the Highland Claimant Trust over an indeterminate period of time. If Daugherty's Claim is subordinated to Class 11, it will be valueless since the holders of Class 10 interests will never be paid in full.

56. Based on the foregoing, Highland hereby gives notice that it withdraws with prejudice its Third Cause of Action for subordination.

5. Daugherty's Counterclaim for Books and Records is meritless

57. This counterclaim is a narrow issue that is definitively covered by the terms of the Settlement Agreement and Highland's satisfaction of its obligations. Under the Settlement Agreement, Highland agreed to "transfer its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty. Such transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system. Such transfer will be without representation or warranty of any type. . . Such transfer will be without any liability or material cost to HCMLP or its affiliates . . ."[26]

58. While Daugherty negotiated Section 8 directly with Highland's Chief Executive Officer, James P. Seery, Jr., Daugherty has no recollection about the negotiations of this provision or why the unique phrase "books and records (spreadsheet)" was included. Seery does—and he will testify that phrase and accompanying text (a) refers to a specific set of documents and (b) was used to circumscribe the documents Highland would turn over to Daugherty. Yet here we are.

59. Despite having no recollection of the meaning and intent of Section 8, Daugherty has asserted a counterclaim contending that Highland breached its obligation under Section 8 by failing to provide all of HERA and ERA's "books and records" and suggests Highland will be liable for consequential damages if HERA does not prevail in unrelated litigation.[27] Daugherty has also asserted counterclaims for specific performance and attorney's fees. Daugherty's counterclaims are meritless.

[27] Highland Ex. 1 ¶¶12-13 (Counterclaim).

60. There is no dispute that HERA and ERA (a) were shell entities established for the sole purpose of holding limited, passive assets for the benefit of certain then-Highland employees as a compensation vehicle, and (b) never had any of its own employees or operations of any kind. With that in mind, the evidence will show that on May 5, 2022, just after this Court approved the Settlement Agreement, Highland delivered to Daugherty "HERA and ERA books and records" available on Highland's system, together with tax documents, and noted that, subject to a final review, it had fulfilled its obligations under Section 8.[28]

61. On October 19, 2022, in an effort to placate Mr. Daugherty, Highland provided additional information concerning HERA and ERA (including back-up for virtually all of HERA's historically recorded expenses reflected in the records previously delivered to Daugherty) and re-iterated its position that it had "satisfied all of its obligations under the settlement agreement, and our involvement in HERA/ERA (your entities) will be complete."[29]

62. Daugherty did not raise the issue of "books and records" again until January 30, 2024, when Gray Reed requested[30] that Highland supplement its delivery of documents seeking Word, Excel, and Powerpoint documents, email correspondence, legal communications, among others, all with corresponding metadata, and requesting that Highland employ an outside vendor to collect and produce the documents.

63. With Gray Reed having not yet received a substantive response from Highland, on February 29, 2024, HERA filed its original complaint against 24 individuals, law firms, or other entities.

[28] Daugherty Ex. 33.

[29] Daugherty Ex. 34.

[30] Highland Ex. 53

64. Just days later, on March 5, 2024, Highland's counsel responded to the January 30, 2024 letter, and stood by Highland's prior statements that it had fulfilled its obligations under the Settlement Agreement[31]

65. Then, two months later, on May 10, 2024 when a new Daugherty lawyer suddenly demanded a broad swath of documents concerning HERA and ERA that had been demanded by Gray Reed on January 30, 2024, while misquoting the settlement agreement along the way and again requesting that Highland's use of an outside vendor. Highland responded within hours, rejected Daugherty's newest demands, reiterated yet again that it believed that it had fulfilled its obligations under Section 8, and expressly invited Daugherty to seek judicial relief to finally bring the matter to a close. [32]

66. Daugherty did no such thing because—as he has proven time and time again—Daugherty has no interest in resolving anything. Thus, rather than sue Highland and enforce his purported rights under the Settlement Agreement and bring finality to the issue, Daugherty will admit that he voluntarily chose to commence an action in federal district court on behalf of HERA and ERA (the "HERA Action") knowing that Highland had refused to produce any further documents concerning those entities.[33] Daugherty will also admit that even in the face of a motion to dismiss the HERA Action, Daugherty chose not to seek leave to seek additional documents from Highland, a entity known to be in the latter stages of liquidating. It was only in October 2025, after being forced to litigate his unrelated tax claim and three and a half years after Highland informed him that it believed it had fulfilled its obligations under Section 8, that Daugherty finally sought to enforce his purported rights.

[31] Highland Ex. 54

[32] Daugherty Ex. 35.

[33] Highland Ex. 1 ¶¶12-13 (Counterclaim).

67. The evidence will show that Daugherty's breach of contract claim is barred by the three-year statute of limitations and that Highland otherwise did not breach Section 8.[34]

B. Summary of Daugherty's Claims and Defenses

68. Daugherty understood the local rule to require a brief summary (identification) of the claims and defenses that are at issue in the adversary proceeding hearing, and that either party could file a separate trial brief addressing issues that they belief were pertinent to the upcoming hearing. Daugherty intends to file a separate trial brief on April 13, pursuant to the Second Stipulated Scheduling Order [Docket No. 94].

69. Daugherty asserts three causes of action against Highland. First, Daugherty has a breach of contract claim related to his contention that Highland violated the Settlement Agreement's Books and Records Provision. Second, Daugherty has a cause of action for specific performance through which Daugherty seeks an order requiring Highland to fully comply with the Books and Records Provision. Third, Daugherty seeks his attorneys' fees related to his position that Highland breached the Settlement Agreement in bad faith.

70. Daugherty's defense against Highland's claim is equitable estoppel. Daugherty also continues to maintain that the Settlement Agreement's stay provision (which is quoted above) precludes Highland from filing this adversary proceeding because there has not been a final determination with respect to the IRS Audit Dispute. Daugherty has appealed that issue to the district court in connection with this Court's grant of Highland's Cross Motion under Rule 9024, which struck the stay provision. Although Daugherty is not going to relitigate that issue at the April 17 hearing, he is not waiving his pending appeal or any arguments relating to this issue.

[1] Ex. 17 – Form 886-Z

[2] Ex. 30 – Imposition of penalties. 20% applied to the V case (based on the 2018 adjustments); 0% applied in the II and IV case (based on the contents of those offers); 10% applied in the III case as a 50% concession.

[3] Statutory rate is short term federal rate, plus 3%, rounded to the nearest whole percent, updated quarterly, and compounding daily. The amount described herein is the blended simple rate resulting from the application of the actual statutory, daily compounding rate. Average applicable statutory rate over the period was approximately 3.8%, and the effect of daily compounding added approximately 0.8%. See Ex's: 29, 31, 32, 33.

[4] April 15, 2009 to October 16, 2019

[5] Mr. Daugherty received cash IRS refund amounts of $493,629 and $780,301 in 2009 on account of 2008 Forms 1040 and 1045, respectively (see Ex.'s 35 and 36) for a total of $1,273,930. Had Mr. Daugherty invested this refund and earned just 4%, compounding annually (an easily obtained rate of return in the 2009-2019 period), he would have earned in excess of $600,000 as of October 16, 2019. This amount dwarfs any potential penalty or interest that is potentially assessable to Mr. Daugherty in any of the five cases described herein. However, for the sake of conservatism, Highland has assumed that Mr. Daugherty's use of the $1,273,930 of refund only generated returns equal to the penalty and interest assessed in cases III, IV, and V (in other words, Highland is assuming a rate of return of substantially below 4% compounding annually in those cases). In case I, there's simply nothing owed by Daugherty to the IRS, so no income has been calculated. And in case II, there is no penalty or interest, so it is merely assumed that Mr. Daugherty would have generated at least his underpayment amount ($59,224) of income based on investing the $1,273,930 refund over the course of over ten years – a rate of return substantially below 1% annually.

[6] Ex. 22 – HUNTON_001105. Tax matters partner's offer was for a single payment of $8M in resolution of all liability for all partners. Calculation of Daugherty's share is simply $8M x his partnership share (0.7403%). It is unclear from the offer whether the tax matters partner would or could allocate the liability amongst the partners, including Daugherty, but for the sake of conservatism, it is assumed that Daugherty would have to pay a ratable share.

[7] Assumes 50% of all adjustments and penalties in the V column as a hypothetical middle of the road resolution that sits between the current known settlement offers.

[8] Ex. 21 – HUNTON_000079; Ex. 26 – HUNTON_001120. Assumes 50% concession by the IRS on adjustment FP-01, 0% concession by the IRS on adjustment FP-02, 100% concession by the IRS on adjustment FP-03. The letter description of the FP-02 adjustment is less than crystal clear, but for purposes of this calculation, the maximum adjustment is applied.

JOINT PRETRIAL ORDER

[1] Highland's last four digits of its taxpayer identification number are (8357). The mailing address for Highland is 6333 E. Mockingbird Lane, Suite 147 #5045, Dallas, TX 75214.

This Joint Pretrial Order is jointly submitted to the Court for entry pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 7016-1(a) and the Court's Order Approving Second Stipulated Scheduling Order [Docket No. 94][2] by Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Plaintiff" or "Highland") and Patrick Hagaman Daugherty ("Daugherty," and together, the "Parties").

I. NATURE OF ACTION AND PROCEDURAL POSTURE

1. This action concerns Daugherty's contingent, unliquidated claim against Highland arising from the audit of Highland's 2008 tax return (the "Reserved Claim"), and Highland's claims against Daugherty, seeking to disallow and estimate his Reserved Claim.[3] This action also concerns Daugherty's Counterclaims (defined below).

2. On October 16, 2019, Highland filed its petition for relief under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code (the "Bankruptcy Case" or the "Case"). Thereafter, Daugherty filed several proofs of claims in the Bankruptcy Case. Those claims culminated in Claim No. 205, which superseded and replaced all prior claims.

3. In November 2021, Daugherty and Highland entered into that certain Settlement Agreement (the "Settlement Agreement"), which resolved all aspects of Daugherty's claims against the Debtor's estate except for the Reserved Claim. On March 8, 2022, the Court entered an order approving the Settlement Agreement (the "Settlement Order") [Bankr. Docket No. 3299].[4] The Settlement Agreement provided that Highland would transfer to Daugherty its "interests in HERA and ERA," and that such transfer will include "the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system . . . [and] be without representation or warranty of any type … and without any liability or material cost to HCMLP or its affiliates..." Highland Ex. 5 ¶8 (the "Books and Records Provision"). The Settlement Agreement further provided that Highland expressly "reserve[d] the right to assert any and all defenses" to the Reserved Claim. Id. ¶9.

[3] As set forth in Highland's contentions below, Highland is withdrawing its Third Cause of Action for subordination under Bankruptcy Code Section 510(c).

4. On May 2, 2025, Highland commenced the Adversary Proceeding by filing its Complaint for (1) Disallowance of Claim No. 205 in its Entirety, (2) Estimation of Claim No. 205 for Allowance Purposes, or (3) Subordination of Any Allowed Portion of Claim No. 205 of Patrick Hagaman Daugherty [Docket No. 1] (the "Complaint"). In its Complaint, Highland asserted three claims: (a) disallowance of the Claim, (b) estimation of the Claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 502(c), and (c) subordination of the Claim under 11 U.S.C. § 510(b), (excluding the claim for subordination being withdrawn with prejudice, "Highland's Claims").

5. On June 5, 2025, Daugherty filed a Motion to Dismiss the Complaint [Docket No. 5]. Highland filed an Objection and a Cross Motion for Relief from a Final Order Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9024 [Docket No. 10]. At the hearing on Daugherty's Motion to Dismiss and Highland's Cross Motion, the Court denied the Motion to Dismiss and granted the Cross Motion. The Court's ruling struck a particular provision of the Settlement Agreement that Daugherty contends prohibited Highland from filing this Adversary Proceeding.[5]

6. On October 3, 2025, Daugherty filed his Answer and Original Counterclaim [Docket No. 39], asserting three causes of action against Highland: (a) breach of contract for breach of the Books and Records Provision; (b) specific performance through which Daugherty seeks an order requiring Highland to turn over all of HERA and ERA books and records in compliance with the Books and Records provision; and (c) attorneys' fees arising from Highland's allegedly bad faith conduct in commencing the Adversary Proceeding (collectively, the "Counterclaims"). On October 24, 2025, Highland filed its Answer to the Counterclaims (which included its affirmative defenses) [Docket No. 56].

[5] Daugherty appealed to the district court from this Court's order granting the Cross Motion. That appeal is still pending. Daugherty does not intend to relitigate those issues at the upcoming April 17 hearing, but Daugherty is not waiving his existing appeal or any right to re-raise the issue in an appeal from the Court's ruling after the April 17 hearing.

7. A trial on Highland's Claims and Daugherty's Counterclaims is scheduled for April 17, 2026.

II. STATEMENT OF STIPULATED FACTS

A. The Parties Stipulate to the Following Facts:

8. From 1998-2011, Daugherty was employed by Highland.

9. Daugherty and Highland entered into that certain Amended Employment Agreement dated as of December 31, 2004 (the "Employment Agreement"). Highland Ex. 11.

10. On or about February 27, 2009, Highland issued to Daugherty a Comprehensive Compensation and Benefits Statement. Highland Ex. 13 (the "Comprehensive Statement").

11. In 2009, based on a draft Schedule K-1 that Highland provided to him, Daugherty filed his 2008 federal income tax return.

These forms incorporated Highland's losses that had been allocated to him as provided for in the draft Schedule K-1.

15. On October 16, 2019, Highland filed its petition for relief under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code (the "Bankruptcy Case").

16. On February 22, 2021, the Court entered the Order (i) Confirming the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) and (ii) Granting Related Relief [Main Docket No. 1943] (the "Confirmation Order") with respect to the Plan.[6]

17. The Plan included a form of Claimant Trust Agreement (the "CTA"). [Bankr. Docket No. 1811, Exhibit R (preamble)].

18. The Plan created the CTA when the Plan went effective on August 11, 2021. [Main Docket No. 2700].

19. On November 22, 2021, Daugherty and Highland executed the Settlement Agreement. Highland Ex. 5.

20. On March 8, 2022, the Court entered the Settlement Order approving the Settlement Agreement.

21. On May 5, 2022, and October 19, 2022, Highland delivered certain documents and materials to Daugherty as reflected in Daugherty Exhibits 33 and 34, respectively.

22. The Reserved Claim remains disputed, contingent, and unliquidated.

23. The Parties disagree on the following issues of fact:

- Whether the Compensation Statement is a binding and enforceable contract (Mixed

[6] The "Plan" refers to the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) filed on the main docket at Docket No. 1808. The Confirmation Order was subsequently modified for reasons irrelevant to the Motion. See Main Docket No. 4378.

- Whether Highland fulfilled its obligations, if any, under the Compensation Statement?
- If the Compensation Statement is an enforceable contract, and Highland has not fulfilled its obligations thereunder, whether Daugherty's Reserved Claim can be estimated in accordance with Section 502(c) of the Bankruptcy Code (Mixed question of law and fact)?
- If Daugherty's Reserved Claim can be estimated, how much should the Reserved Claim be estimated at for purposes of allowance.
- Whether the failure to estimate Daugherty's Reserved Claim before August 11, 2026, would unduly delay the administration of Highland's bankruptcy case?
- Whether Highland breached the Settlement Agreement's Books and Records Provision?
- Whether Highland acted in "bad faith" and is therefore liable for Daugherty's attorneys' fees?

IV. CONTESTED ISSUES OF LAW

24. The Parties disagree on the following issues of law:

- The Parties disagree over whether Daugherty's Reserved Claim should be disallowed (Mixed question of law and fact).
- The Parties disagree about whether Highland fulfilled its obligations under the Books and Records Provision (Mixed question of law and fact).
- The Parties disagree about whether Daugherty's breach of contract claim is barred by the statute of limitations.
- The parties disagree about who has the ultimate burden of proof on each cause of action and what those burdens are.

V. PARTIES' CLAIMS AND DEFENSES

The following statements and contentions of the respective Parties in this Section reflect the respective views of each Party and are not a joint statement or stipulation. No Party admits, agrees, or acquiesces to any factual or legal contentions, statements, or allegations of any other Party.

A. Summary of Highland's Claims and Defenses

1. Daugherty Has the Ultimate Burden of Proof

27. Under 11 U.S.C. § 502(a) a "claim ..., proof of which is filed under section 501 [of the Bankruptcy Code], is deemed allowed, unless a party in interest ... objects." 11 U.S.C. § 502(a). The ultimate burden of proof for a claim always lies with the claimant. In re Armstrong, 347 B.R. 581, 583 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2006) (citing Raleigh v. Ill. Dep't of Rev., 530 U.S. 15 (2000)). Thus, Daugherty has the ultimate burden of proof with respect to the allowance and amount of his Reserved Claim.

28. Daugherty also has the ultimate burden of proof with respect to each of his Counterclaims.

2. Daugherty's Claim Should Be Disallowed

29. Daugherty's Claim should be disallowed for three independent reasons: (a) the Compensation Statement[7] is unenforceable as a contract because it is vague and indefinite and is missing material terms required to form a contract; (b) if the Compensation Statement creates an enforceable contract, Highland long-ago satisfied any obligations it may have had thereunder; and (c) under the plain and unambiguous terms of the Employment Agreement,[8] Daugherty surrendered any rights he may have had under the Compensation Statement when he voluntarily resigned from all positions at Highland in October 2011.

[7] Highland Ex. 13.

[8] Highland Ex. 11.

a. Material Terms of the Compensation Statement Are Either Vague or Indefinite or Are Missing Such that the No "Agreement" Was Reached and Claims Under the Compensation Statement are Unenforceable as a Matter of Law

30. The Compensation Statement does not constitute an offer by Highland and acceptance by Daugherty, an "at will" employee with an Employment Agreement, for anything. It is simply a summary of what Highland had or was going to pay Daugherty for services he had already performed during the prior year and a reiteration of his base salary for the next year. Every employee of Highland received a similar statement every year at the end of the performance review cycle each February. Material terms in the Compensation Statement Daugherty relies upon to claim an enforceable agreement are either vague or indefinite or are completely missing such that the so-called "agreement" is unenforceable as a matter of law. As relevant here, the alleged "agreement" is contained in three sentences that state only: "Refund is an estimated amount. If actual refund deviates materially from estimate, other compensation will be fairly adjusted. Refund is expected to be received in approximately 4 months."[9] That's it.

31. Under Texas law, a contract that fails to address all of its essential and material terms with a reasonable degree of certainty and definiteness is unenforceable as a matter of law. See APS Cap. Corp. v. Mesa Air Grp., Inc., 580 F.3d 265, 272 (5th Cir. 2009) ("In order to be a legally enforceable contract, an agreement must be formed around the contours of sufficiently specific terms."). Material terms "are those that the parties would reasonably regard as vitally important elements of their bargain," and "a contract must define its essential terms with enough precision to enable the court to determine the obligations of the parties." In re ACM-Tex., Inc., 430 B.R. 371, 408 (Bankr. W.D. Tex. 2010); see also Wesdem, LLC v. Illinois Tool Works Inc., 2022 WL 18585978, at *4 (W.D. Tex. July 28, 2022), aff'd sub nom., 70 F.4th 285 (5th Cir. 2023) ("Where the agreement is so indefinite that the Court must 'speculate' about its terms, the contract fails 'as a matter of law.'") (quoting RealPage, Inc. v. EPS, Inc., 560 F. Supp. 2d 539, 547 (E.D. Tex. 2007) (granting summary judgment on a breach of contract claim because the licensing agreement failed to specify the product to be licensed and its price, affording the court no basis for understanding the parties' obligations); Coppock v. Doug's Corner, Inc., No. 5:21-CV-43-RWS-JBB, 2023 WL 11947178, at *3 (E.D. Tex. (quoting Fischer v. CTMI, L.L.C., 479 S.W.3d 231, 237 (Tex. 2016)).

32. "As a general matter, Texas courts have consistently held that a contract may be held void for indefiniteness if it fails to specify 'the time of performance, the price to be paid, the work to be done, the service to be rendered, or the property to be transferred.'" Liberto v. D.F. Stauffer Biscuit Co., 441 F.3d 318, 324 (5th Cir. 2006) (quoting Engelman Irr. Dist. v. Shields Bros., 960 S.W.2d 343, 352 (Tex. App. 1997)). "The question of indefiniteness—whether an agreement reaches all essential terms of a given transaction—is one of law for the court." APS, 580 F.3d at 271 (citing COC Svcs., Ltd. v. CompUSA, Inc., 150 S.W.3d 654, 664 (Tex.App.—Dallas 2004)).

33. Here, under Texas law, the Compensation Statement either contains vague or indefinite terms, or omits material terms, that render it unenforceable.

34. First, the 2008 tax refund is explicitly stated to be an "estimated" amount. While unstated, the refund could only come from the IRS (as the taxing authority), not Highland. But the amount is not clear; it is merely estimated because a tax refund to an individual can only be determined after that individual files his/her tax return and all of the individual's particularized tax attributes are taken into consideration.[10] While Highland could (and did quite accurately) estimate the amount of losses it would pass through to Daugherty as a limited partner, and could therefore estimate the potential tax refund solely on account of those losses, it could not set forth with definiteness the amount of the refund Daugherty would get from the IRS. Accordingly, the prospective amount of the refund was an estimate—and "estimates" are necessarily uncertain.

35. Second, as used in the Compensation Statement, the word "materially" is vague and ambiguous. To create an enforceable obligation, the Court must determine, among other things, whether the actual refund Daugherty received from the IRS "deviate[s] "materially" from [the] estimate." Here, the estimate was $1,475,816[11], which as contemporaneous evidence shows, wasn't an estimate of the cash refund that Daugherty could expect to receive, but rather an estimate of the pre-tax equivalent of such a refund. In other words, the amount reflected on the Compensation Statement was a 35% "grossed-up" amount of his estimated cash refund of $959,280 to reflect what the refund would feel like to Daugherty on an "apples-to-apples" basis with other pre-tax compensation amounts. There is simply no agreed way to determine whether a refund amount received is materially consistent with the grossed-up amount listed on the Compensation Statement.

36. Third, the phrase "other compensation" is also vague and ambiguous because it had many potential permutations at the time. The Compensation Statement proves the point as it identifies myriad forms of "Earnings and Awards" and "Highland Paid Benefits" that comprise the "Total Compensation Package" that Daugherty received for services he provided to Highland in 2008, including: (a) base salary, (b) tax refund, (c) loan forgiveness, (d) other awards (including a

[10] This would include things like other sources of income, unrelated capital gains and losses from investments, unrelated K-1's from other partnerships, spousal income, estimated tax payments the individual or their spouse made during the year, individual itemized deductions, and a litany of others. Each of these factors can impact an individual's refund or tax owed each year, and Highland did not have visibility into all the factors impacting Daugherty's "married-filing-jointly" return.

401(k) match and a "defined benefit"); and (e) deferred compensation.[12] In all, as reflected on the Compensation Statement, Daugherty was compensated 13 different ways in 2008 alone, and other years had even more methods of "compensation". To create a contract out of the Compensation Statement, the Court would have to pick without guidance which method of compensation should be adjusted.

37. Fourth, the phrase "fairly adjusted" is another subjective term susceptible to differing meanings. Indeed, it is hard to imagine in 2011 that Daugherty and Highland would have reached an agreement on what was "fair." Had the parties intended to reach a binding "agreement," they surely would have done so. Again, to create Daugherty's alleged agreement, the Court will have to identify on its own what amount would have been deemed "fair" by the parties in February 2009.

38. Finally, the Compensation Statement omits numerous material terms. For example, the Compensation Statement does not (a) mention what happens if an actual tax refund is received by Daugherty (as it was) but that refund is subject to potential recovery by the IRS (as it always is); (b) reference or even consider the possibility of an audit of Highland or Daugherty; (c) provide for what would happen in the event of an audit adjustment affecting Highland or Daugherty; (d) include any time frame or due date for any potential adjustment of "other compensation"; (e) state that Highland would "adjust other compensation" to account for any interest or penalties arising in connection with any unconsidered audit; (f) state that Highland would "make Daugherty whole" if any portion of the refund was clawed back after the unconsidered audit; (g) state that any obligation Highland purportedly had would continue indefinitely, even after Daugherty was no longer affiliated with Highland; or (h) contain the words "indemnify," "reimburse," "cover," "back-stop," or phrases of similar import. Contemporaneous evidence actually contradicts Daugherty's theory of endless indemnification – that rather, tax refunds "are not guaranteed, as the IRS still has the authority to audit our claimed losses and resulting refunds due."[13] It is indisputable that Highland did not (1) even file its 2008 partnership return until nearly seven months after giving Daugherty the Compensation Statement, and (2) learn that the 2008 partnership return was selected for an IRS audit until March 2010.

39. In sum, the Compensation Statement is not an enforceable contract as a matter of law because essential terms to form an agreement are either vague, indefinite, or missing. For this reason alone, the Claim should be disallowed.

b. Highland Satisfied its Obligations Under the Compensation Statement

40. Even if the unsigned Compensation Statement is deemed an enforceable contract, Highland satisfied any obligations it may have had long ago because Daugherty received a tax refund from the IRS based on partnership losses passed to him and reflected in a draft Form K-1 for 2008 that Highland provided to him, which was further validated by a final Form K-1 for 2008 that was provided in September 2009. (the "2008 K-1").[14] Specifically, as reflected on his final 2008 K-1, Daugherty was allocated ordinary business losses by Highland in excess of $4 million, along with other losses that well-exceeded the partnership allocated income he received from Highland during 2005-2007. Thus, Daugherty received even more than what was referenced in the Compensation Statement which resulted in a greater refund for Daugherty than estimated. In other words, the allocation to Daugherty of over $4 million of actual losses from 2008 reflected in the final Form K-

[14] Daugherty Ex. 26 (draft 2008 K-1); Daugherty Ex. 24 (final 2008 K-1).

1 delivered in 2009 (when tax-effected at 35%) exceeded the originally estimated cash refund which formed the basis of the amount referenced in the Compensation Statement.

41. When Daugherty voluntarily terminated his employment with Highland in October 2011, he acknowledged and agreed that, pursuant to the express conditions of his Employment Agreement, Highland would "have no further liability or obligation to [Daugherty] under [the Employment Agreement] or in connection with his/her employment of termination."

42. Highland, therefore, satisfied its obligations (to the extent it had any) under the Compensation Statement and Employment Agreement in full. Accordingly, the Claim should be disallowed in its entirety.

c. Under the Terms of His Employment Agreement, Daugherty Forfeited Any Right He May Have Had to Compensation When He Resigned.

43. Even if the Compensation Statement was enforceable, Daugherty's Claim still fails because he forfeited any rights he had thereunder when he terminated his employment at Highland in October 2011.

44. Daugherty voluntarily resigned from Highland on September 28, 2011, and his employment terminated on October 31, 2011.[15] By his own contention, the 2008 Tax Refund that Daugherty received from Highland was part of his discretionary bonus under the Employment Agreement. But Daugherty surrendered any right he may have had to a bonus under the Compensation Statement (to the extent he had any) when he voluntarily terminated his employment at Highland. The Employment Agreement expressly states that Daugherty must be employed in order to be eligible for a bonus. Section 3.1 of the Employment Agreement provides:

> Salary and Bonus. The annual salary (the "Base Salary") payable to the Executive during the term of this Agreement shall be an amount > determined by the Company (in its sole discretion) and communicated in writing to the Executive, and will be subject to annual review pursuant to the Company's normal review policy for other similarly situated executives of the Company. Any increase in salary shall be based upon the Executive's performance and shall be determined by the Company in its sole discretion. In addition, the Company may from time to time award bonuses to the Executive based on such criteria as the Company may establish in its discretion. Any such bonus, unless specifically stated otherwise, will be paid in three (3) equal installments and is not earned or accrued until each payment date. The Executive must be employed on the payment date(s) in order to be eligible for the bonus. The payment of salary and bonuses shall be subject to all federal, state and withholding taxes, social security deductions and other general obligations. Furthermore, the designation of the Executive's compensation does not constitute a guarantee of employment for any specific period of time.[16]

45. Daugherty terminated his employment at Highland on October 31, 2011, and therefore, was no longer eligible for any bonus under the Employment Agreement after that date. Daugherty has admitted this in writing 15 years ago -- literally the day before he resigned in 2011. Highland Ex. 38 ("I would have to be employed at Highland in order to get any payment of bonus (as has always been the case).").

46. Further, Section 4.5 of the Employment Agreement expressly addresses Highland's liability to Daugherty in the event Daugherty voluntarily terminates his employment and does not take up work with a "competing business":

> In the event that [Daugherty] terminates his/her Continuous Status as an Executive hereunder and within one (1) year thereafter [Daugherty] is not employed by a Competing Business, [Highland] shall have no further liability or obligation to [Daugherty] under this Agreement or in connection with his/her employment hereunder, except for (i) any unpaid Base Salary accrued through the date of termination, (ii) any accrued but unused vacation time, (iii) any amounts or rights to which [Daugherty] is entitled under any other written agreement with [Highland], (iv) any unreimbursed expenses properly incurred prior to the date of termination, and (v) severance pay equal to the product of (a) two (2) weeks Base Salary … multiplied by (b) the number of

> [years of service]… [total severance not to exceed six weeks of Base Salary]... [Daugherty] acknowledges that [Highland's] obligation to pay severance, if any, will arise only … if [Daugherty] signs and returns a duly executed separation agreement and release substantially in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A….In the event that [Daugherty] declines to sign the separation agreement and release, he/she shall not be entitled to any severance, and [Highland] will have no further liability or obligation to Daugherty under this Agreement or in connection with his/her employment or termination. [17]

47. Since Daugherty did not sign the separation and release form and deliver it to Highland and elected to counter-sue Highland under the Employment Agreement instead (and lost against Highland),[18] he forfeited any right he may have had under the Compensation Statement for any additional consideration, including his claim for unlimited indemnity or adjustment of other pre-termination compensation.

48. Finally, one other document proves that the Parties never believed the Compensation Statement constituted an agreement that would survive Daugherty's termination from Highland: a form of Separation Agreement Daugherty refused to sign following his resignation (the "Draft Separation Agreement").[19] The Draft Separation Agreement contains, among other things, the very promise by Highland pay taxes, interest, and penalties arising from an audit of Highland's tax returns (the "Rejected Indemnity") that Daugherty now claims is implicitly included in the Compensation Statement. The evidence will show that in October 2011, when Daugherty was presented with the Draft Separation Agreement, the IRS was only auditing Highland's 2008 return. There would have been no reason to include the Rejected Indemnity in the Draft Separation Agreement if the Parties believed it was already included in the Compensation Statement and would survive Daugherty's termination.

[18] See Highland Ex. 44.

[19] Daugherty Ex. 44 §3(b)(ii).

3. Daugherty's Claim Must Be Estimated Under Section 502(c)

49. Even if Daugherty's Claim is allowed, it must be estimated under Section 502(c) of the Bankruptcy Code ("Section 502(c)"). Under Section 502(c), the Bankruptcy Court is required to estimate contingent and unliquidated claims for allowance purposes in the circumstances present here.[20] The statute provides: "[t]here shall be estimated for purposes of allowance ... (1) any contingent or unliquidated claim, the fixing or liquidation of which ... would unduly delay the administration of the case ...." 11 U.S.C. § 502(c).

50. "The public policy underlying claims estimation under the Code is to facilitate the timely administration of the case by making an expeditious assessment of the value of certain claims which would otherwise unduly delay administration." In re Perry, 425 B.R. 323, 381 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 2010). Thus, where, as here, both prerequisites are met, the bankruptcy court does not merely have discretion to estimate – it has an affirmative mandatory duty to do so. The method by which the bankruptcy court estimates a claim under Section 502(c) is within the court's broad discretion. See Matter of Brints Cotton Mktg., Inc., 737 F.2d 1338, 1341 (5th Cir. 1984) ("A bankruptcy court's estimation of the value of an unliquidated claim, the liquidation of which would unduly delay the proceedings, may be disturbed on appellate review only in the event of an abuse of discretion.").

[20] Daugherty's expert opines that Daugherty's Claim cannot possibly be estimated until all disputes concerning the 2008 Audit are finally resolved, if then. Aside from the fact that the expert is wrong (see below), Daugherty cannot reconcile his expert's opinion with Congress' explicit mandate reflected in the plain text of in Section 502(c)—and that's not surprising since Daugherty's expert admits he has no bankruptcy expertise and is unfamiliar with Section 502(c). Indeed, if Daugherty's expert is right, and Daugherty's Claim cannot possibly be estimated, then the Claim should be disallowed as too speculative. The one result that is not permitted under the circumstances is that Daugherty gets to hold up implementation of the express agreement between Highland and all of its stakeholders (as reflected in the court-approved Plan and Claimant Trust Agreement) concerning the deadline for the resolution of claims and the commencement of dissolution (i.e., August 11, 2026).

51. Daugherty's Claim, which is both contingent and unliquidated, is precisely the type of claim that must be estimated under Section 502(c). As set forth above, the Plan was confirmed in February of 2021 and has been effective since August of 2021. Under the Sunset Provisions[21] in the Plan, CTA, Confirmation Order, and related extension orders, Highland must resolve all disputed claims, and the Highland Claimant Trust must commence the Dissolution Process, by August 11, 2026. Mr. Daugherty's Claim is the last unresolved claim against Highland's estate. Although the parties dispute whether the IRS made a "final determination" with respect to the completed 2008 IRS tax audit that concluded in 2018,[22] they agree that any final resolution of the appeal of the audit results will not be complete by the court-ordered and Plan-mandated August 11, 2026 deadline to resolve the estate's outstanding claims and commence Highland's dissolution process. Thus, if Daugherty' Claim is not estimated, Highland will be in violation of the Confirmation Order and the Extension Order and the administration of the bankruptcy case will be unduly delayed. Accordingly, this Court is required to exercise its congressionally mandated duty to estimate Daugherty's Claim under Section 502(c).

52. In applying Section 502(c), the Court has ample information to apply a reasonable methodology to estimate Daugherty's Claim, assuming any liability for Highland. The only figure subject to estimation is the amount of adjustment to Highland's 2008 partnership return (the "HCMLP Income Adjustment"). Once the sole, unknown variable—the HCMLP Income Adjustment—is estimated, the amount of Daugherty's Claim may be determined by a simple

[21] See generally Highland's Motion for An Order Further Extending Duration of Trusts, Docket 4213 (the "Extension Motion"). This Court granted the Extension Motion and extended the life of the Claimant Trust only until August 11, 2026. Docket No. 4298 (the "Extension Order").

[22] The dispute over whether "the IRS [made] a final determination with respect to the IRS Audit Dispute" (Highland Ex. 5 ¶9) was addressed by this Court when it granted Highland's motion under Rule 60 to strike the Stay Provision from the Settlement Agreement (Adv. Pro. Docket No. 23), and is irrelevant to the current dispute before the Court. See also Memorandum Opinion and Order, Adv. Pro. Docket No. 80) (denying Daugherty motion to stay adversary proceeding pending appeal of order granting Highland's Rule 60 motion).

arithmetic formula: [HCMLP Income Adjustment] x [Daugherty's 0.7403 percentage interest in the partnership as of the December 31, 2008]; x [Daugherty's 35% maximum personal federal income tax rate as of December 31, 2008]. Thus, the Court can reasonably estimate Daugherty's Claim by plugging in one of four different numbers for the HCMLP Income Adjustment, which in all but one case requires no subjectivity whatsoever: (i) the IRS's original determination at the conclusion of the 2018 audit;[23] (ii) the IRS's 2024 offer to the tax matters partner (Dondero) of a discounted settlement; (iii) Dondero's 2025 offer to the IRS of an even further discounted settlement; or (iv) some estimate of a hypothetical discounted settlement based on the several existing known data points. The results are set forth in the demonstrative exhibit attached as Highland D-1.

53. While Highland believes there is no basis to hold it liable for any penalties or interest that Daugherty could be required to pay on account of an "underpayment" amount resulting from HCMLP Income Adjustment, as further set forth below, Highland has nevertheless calculated these objective and statutorily determined amounts in the same demonstrative for the sake of completeness and to provide the Court with all the tools it needs to fulfill its mandate. Even if the Compensation Statement is deemed to be an enforceable contract (which Highland disputes), such Compensation Statement makes no reference to penalties or interest whatsoever, nor does it provide for any indemnification or similar obligations with respect thereto (and in fact, contemporaneous evidence contradicts such a notion). That said, even if the Court determines that the claim ought to be allowed and should include some estimate for penalties and/or interest, Daugherty has benefited from having actually received the original $1.3 million refund amount from the IRS in 2009, and Daugherty has an affirmative duty to mitigate any damages arising from penalties and/or interest, which could have been accomplished through investment of the tax refund he received. Even assuming extremely conservative rates of return on such a hypothetical investment, such returns would dwarf the penalties and interest the IRS would charge in any of the scenarios described in the demonstrative.[24]

54. The Court may also use another methodology it deems appropriate under the circumstances. But there can be no dispute that this is the exact type of situation that mandates claim estimation. Accordingly, if Daugherty's Claim is allowed, it shall be estimated under Section 502(c).

4. Highland Withdraws Its Third Cause Of Action--Subordination Under Section 510(b)—With Prejudice

55. Upon reflection, Highland withdraws with prejudice its Third Cause of Action for the subordination of Daugherty's Claim pursuant Bankruptcy Code section 510(b) because (a) Daugherty's Claim has long been subject to a reserve in an amount that greatly exceeds any plausible estimate of value, (b) withdrawal will simplify the trial by eliminating the Parties' burden of litigating whether (i) Daugherty's Claim should be subordinated, and (ii) if so, whether it should be subordinated to Class 10 and Class 11, (c) withdrawal will reduce this Court's burden to decide such issues, (d) withdrawal will narrow the scope of any potential appeal, and (e) Daugherty cannot be prejudiced because, if the Court determines that the Compensation Statement is an enforceable contract, and estimates Daugherty's Claim, the Claim will remain in Class 8 where it has always been and will be paid in full.[25]

[24] Mr. Daugherty has had the use of the 2008 Refund for more than 16 years during a historically bullish period for investors, with the S&P 500, for example, returning approximately 10x for investors from the start of 2009 to early 2026. For underpayment with a filed return, the IRS charges a one-time 20% penalty on the underpaid amount, and the effective interest rate on the underpayment since Daugherty received the refund would be approximately 4.6% per year by statute.

[25] If Daugherty's Claim is subordinated to Class 10, it will receive a small fraction of its allowed amount that will be potentially paid by the Highland Claimant Trust over an indeterminate period of time. If Daugherty's Claim is subordinated to Class 11, it will be valueless since the holders of Class 10 interests will never be paid in full.

56. Based on the foregoing, Highland hereby gives notice that it withdraws with prejudice its Third Cause of Action for subordination.

5. Daugherty's Counterclaim for Books and Records is meritless

57. This counterclaim is a narrow issue that is definitively covered by the terms of the Settlement Agreement and Highland's satisfaction of its obligations. Under the Settlement Agreement, Highland agreed to "transfer its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty. Such transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system. Such transfer will be without representation or warranty of any type. . . Such transfer will be without any liability or material cost to HCMLP or its affiliates . . ."[26]

58. While Daugherty negotiated Section 8 directly with Highland's Chief Executive Officer, James P. Seery, Jr., Daugherty has no recollection about the negotiations of this provision or why the unique phrase "books and records (spreadsheet)" was included. Seery does—and he will testify that phrase and accompanying text (a) refers to a specific set of documents and (b) was used to circumscribe the documents Highland would turn over to Daugherty. Yet here we are.

59. Despite having no recollection of the meaning and intent of Section 8, Daugherty has asserted a counterclaim contending that Highland breached its obligation under Section 8 by failing to provide all of HERA and ERA's "books and records" and suggests Highland will be liable for consequential damages if HERA does not prevail in unrelated litigation.[27] Daugherty has also asserted counterclaims for specific performance and attorney's fees. Daugherty's counterclaims are meritless.

[27] Highland Ex. 1 ¶¶12-13 (Counterclaim).

60. There is no dispute that HERA and ERA (a) were shell entities established for the sole purpose of holding limited, passive assets for the benefit of certain then-Highland employees as a compensation vehicle, and (b) never had any of its own employees or operations of any kind. With that in mind, the evidence will show that on May 5, 2022, just after this Court approved the Settlement Agreement, Highland delivered to Daugherty "HERA and ERA books and records" available on Highland's system, together with tax documents, and noted that, subject to a final review, it had fulfilled its obligations under Section 8.[28]

61. On October 19, 2022, in an effort to placate Mr. Daugherty, Highland provided additional information concerning HERA and ERA (including back-up for virtually all of HERA's historically recorded expenses reflected in the records previously delivered to Daugherty) and re-iterated its position that it had "satisfied all of its obligations under the settlement agreement, and our involvement in HERA/ERA (your entities) will be complete."[29]

62. Daugherty did not raise the issue of "books and records" again until January 30, 2024, when Gray Reed requested[30] that Highland supplement its delivery of documents seeking Word, Excel, and Powerpoint documents, email correspondence, legal communications, among others, all with corresponding metadata, and requesting that Highland employ an outside vendor to collect and produce the documents.

63. With Gray Reed having not yet received a substantive response from Highland, on February 29, 2024, HERA filed its original complaint against 24 individuals, law firms, or other entities.

[28] Daugherty Ex. 33.

[29] Daugherty Ex. 34.

[30] Highland Ex. 53

64. Just days later, on March 5, 2024, Highland's counsel responded to the January 30, 2024 letter, and stood by Highland's prior statements that it had fulfilled its obligations under the Settlement Agreement[31]

65. Then, two months later, on May 10, 2024 when a new Daugherty lawyer suddenly demanded a broad swath of documents concerning HERA and ERA that had been demanded by Gray Reed on January 30, 2024, while misquoting the settlement agreement along the way and again requesting that Highland's use of an outside vendor. Highland responded within hours, rejected Daugherty's newest demands, reiterated yet again that it believed that it had fulfilled its obligations under Section 8, and expressly invited Daugherty to seek judicial relief to finally bring the matter to a close. [32]

66. Daugherty did no such thing because—as he has proven time and time again—Daugherty has no interest in resolving anything. Thus, rather than sue Highland and enforce his purported rights under the Settlement Agreement and bring finality to the issue, Daugherty will admit that he voluntarily chose to commence an action in federal district court on behalf of HERA and ERA (the "HERA Action") knowing that Highland had refused to produce any further documents concerning those entities.[33] Daugherty will also admit that even in the face of a motion to dismiss the HERA Action, Daugherty chose not to seek leave to seek additional documents from Highland, a entity known to be in the latter stages of liquidating. It was only in October 2025, after being forced to litigate his unrelated tax claim and three and a half years after Highland informed him that it believed it had fulfilled its obligations under Section 8, that Daugherty finally sought to enforce his purported rights.

[31] Highland Ex. 54

[32] Daugherty Ex. 35.

[33] Highland Ex. 1 ¶¶12-13 (Counterclaim).

67. The evidence will show that Daugherty's breach of contract claim is barred by the three-year statute of limitations and that Highland otherwise did not breach Section 8.[34]

B. Summary of Daugherty's Claims and Defenses

68. Daugherty understood the local rule to require a brief summary (identification) of the claims and defenses that are at issue in the adversary proceeding hearing, and that either party could file a separate trial brief addressing issues that they belief were pertinent to the upcoming hearing. Daugherty intends to file a separate trial brief on April 13, pursuant to the Second Stipulated Scheduling Order [Docket No. 94].

69. Daugherty asserts three causes of action against Highland. First, Daugherty has a breach of contract claim related to his contention that Highland violated the Settlement Agreement's Books and Records Provision. Second, Daugherty has a cause of action for specific performance through which Daugherty seeks an order requiring Highland to fully comply with the Books and Records Provision. Third, Daugherty seeks his attorneys' fees related to his position that Highland breached the Settlement Agreement in bad faith.

70. Daugherty's defense against Highland's claim is equitable estoppel. Daugherty also continues to maintain that the Settlement Agreement's stay provision (which is quoted above) precludes Highland from filing this adversary proceeding because there has not been a final determination with respect to the IRS Audit Dispute. Daugherty has appealed that issue to the district court in connection with this Court's grant of Highland's Cross Motion under Rule 9024, which struck the stay provision. Although Daugherty is not going to relitigate that issue at the April 17 hearing, he is not waiving his pending appeal or any arguments relating to this issue.

Notes:

[2] Ex. 30 – Imposition of penalties. 20% applied to the V case (based on the 2018 adjustments); 0% applied in the II and IV case (based on the contents of those offers); 10% applied to the III case as a 50% concession.

[3] Statutory rate is short term federal rate, plus 3%, rounded to the nearest whole percent, updated quarterly, and compounding daily. The amount described herein is the blended simple rate resulting from the application of the actual statutory, daily compounding rate. Average applicable statutory rate over the period was approximately 3.8%, and the effect of daily compounding added approximately 0.8%. See Ex's: 29, 31, 32, 33.

[5] Mr. Daugherty received cash IRS refund amounts of $493,629 and $780,301 in 2009 on account of 2008 Forms 1040 and 1045, respectively (see Ex.'s 35 and 36) for a total of $1,273,930. Had Mr. Daugherty invested this refund and earned just 4%, compounding annually (an easily obtained rate of return in the 2009-2019 period), he would have earned in excess of $600,000 as of October 16, 2019. This amount dwarfs any potential penalty or interest that is potentially assessable to Mr. Daugherty in any of the five cases described herein. However, for the sake of conservatism, Highland has assumed that Mr. Daugherty's use of the $1,273,930 of refund only generated returns equal to the penalty and interest assessed in cases III, IV and V (in other words, Highland is assuming a rate of return of substantially below 4% compounding annually in those cases). In case I, there's simply nothing owed by Daugherty to the IRS, so no income has been calculated. And in case II, there is no penalty or interest, so it is merely assumed that Mr. Daugherty would have generated at least his underpayment amount ($59,224) of income based on investing the $1,273,930 refund over the course of over ten years – a rate of return substantially below 1% annually.

[6] Ex. 22 – HUNTON_001105. Tax matters partner's offer was for a single payment of $8M in resolution of all liability for all partners. Calculation of Daugherty's share is simply $8M x his partnership share (0.7403%). It is unclear from the offer whether the tax matters partner would or could allocate the liability amongst the partners, including Daugherty, but for the sake of conservatism, it is assumed that Daugherty would have to pay a ratable share.

[7] Assumes 50% of all adjustments and penalties in the V column as a hypothetical middle of the road resolution that sits between the current known settlement offers.

[8] Ex. 21 – HUNTON_000079; Ex. 26 – HUNTON_001120. Assumes 50% concession by the IRS on adjustment FP-01, 0% concession by the IRS on adjustment FP-02, 100% concession by the IRS on adjustment FP-03. The letter description of the FP-02 adjustment is less than crystal clear, but for purposes of this calculation, the maximum adjustment is applied.

PATRICK DAUGHERTY'S TRIAL BRIEF

Pursuant to the Order Approving Second Stipulated Scheduling Order [Docket No. 94], Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff Patrick Daugherty ("Daugherty") files his trial brief and would show the Court as follows[2]:

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. As set forth below, and as the evidence will show at the hearing, Daugherty's Reserved Claim[3] should be allowed. The Compensation and Benefits Statement ("Compensation Statement") that Highland issued to Daugherty constitutes a separate, enforceable unilateral contract between the parties that cannot be properly estimated at this time due to numerous uncertainties. Finally, Highland materially breached the Books and Records provision in their Settlement Agreement because Highland failed to provide Daugherty with all books and records in its possession, custody and control that related to HERA and ERA.

I. The Court should allow Daugherty's Reserved Claim.

A. Legal standard for allowance.

1. The Court show allow Daugherty's Reserved Claim because it is an allowable contract claim that Highland cannot rebut. But even if Highland overcomes its burden and rebuts the prima facie case created by the filing of the claim, Daugherty can still prove the allowable nature of the Reserved Claim prove by a preponderance of the evidence. As the Fifth Circuit has held when analyzing 11 U.S.C. § 502, "a party correctly filing a proof of claim is deemed to have established a prima facie case against the debtor's assets." In re Fid. Holding Co., Ltd., 837 F.2d 696, 698 (5th Cir. 1988). Under Section 502(a) of the Code, a proof of claim filed pursuant to Section 501 "is deemed allowed, unless a party in interest…objections." 11 U.S.C. § 502(a).

[2] Daugherty reserves the right to amend or supplement the arguments in his trial brief. Daugherty filed a Motion to Dismiss Highland's adversary Complaint [Docket No. 5], and Highland filed a Cross Motion for Relief from a Final Order Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9024 [Docket No. 10]. The Court denied the Motion to Dismiss and granted the Cross Motion. Daugherty filed an appeal therefrom, which remains pending. Nothing herein constitutes a waiver of that appeal.

2. Upon the filing of an objection, the burden shifts to the debtor as the objecting party. Once the objection is on file, the objecting party must "produce evidence tending to defeat the claim that is of a probative force equal to that of the creditor's proof of claim." In re Simmons, 765 F.2d 547, 552 (5th Cir. 1985). And if the objecting party does not produce sufficient evidence, "the claimant will prevail." In re Fid. Holding Co., Ltd., 837 F.2d at 698. It is, therefore, critical to appreciate that "mere allegations unsupported by evidence are insufficient to rebut the prima facie case." Matter of TransAmerican Natural Gas Corp., 978 F.2d 1409, 1416 (5th Cir. 1992). Only if the objecting party presents sufficient evidence to rebut the claimant's prima facie case does the ultimate burden shift back to the claimant.

3. When the ultimate burden rests with the claimant, the claimant must merely prove the merits of its claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Fid. Holding Co., Ltd., 837 F.2d at 698. Moreover, when the burden rests with the claimant, the "basic federal rule in bankruptcy is that state law governs the substance of claims." Raleigh v. Illinois Dept. of Revenue, 530 U.S. 15, 120 S.Ct. 1951, 147 L.Ed.2d 13, 15 (2000). Here, as detailed below, Texas law applies to the Reserved Claim.

4. On December 23, 2020, Daugherty filed his claim as Proof of Claim No. 205 – the "Reserved Claim" as previously defined. The Reserved Claim superseded and amended Daugherty's prior claims filed as Proof of Claim Nos. 67 and 77. Daugherty's Reserved Claim established a prima facie case of allowance and validity, and it is Highland's burden to come forward and rebut. Specifically, Highland must produce "evidence tending to defeat the claim that is of a probative force equal to that of the creditor's proof of claim." In re Simmons, 765 F.2d 547, 552 (5th Cir. 1985). If Highland cannot do that, Daugherty's claim stands. And if the Court does find that Highland has met its burden in rebutting the prima facie case, Daugherty can (and will) put forward substantial evidence at trial to prove his claim by a mere preponderance of the evidence. As detailed below, Daugherty's claims against Highland pursuant to the Compensation Statement and the Settlement Agreement are meritorious and the Court should, therefore, allow them.

B. The Compensation Statement created a unilateral contract under Texas law.

5. The Compensation Statement (Highland's Exhibit 13), when read in conjunction with the Amended Employment Agreement (Highland's Exhibit 11), created an enforceable unilateral contract between Daugherty and Highland. In Texas, a unilateral contract is "created by the promisor promising a benefit if the promisee performs. The contract becomes enforceable when the promisee performs." Vanegas v. American Energy Services, 302 S.W.3d 299, 302 (Tex. 2009) (citing Plano Surgery Ctr. v. New You Weight Mgmt. Ctr., 265 S.W.3d 496, 503 (Tex. App.—Dallas 2008, no pet.)).

6. In the employment context, a unilateral contract is created when "an employer promises an employee certain benefits in exchange for the employee's performance, and the employee performs." City of Hous. v. Williams, 353 S.W.3d 128, 136 (Tex. 2011). For instance, in Vanegas, the supreme court held that a unilateral contract could be formed when an employer offered to share proceeds of a sale of the company with employees if the employees stayed employed until the sale occurred. 302 S.W.3d at 303. In that case, the supreme court held that "[w]hether the promise was illusory at the time it was made is irrelevant; what matters is whether the promise became enforceable by the time of the breach." Id. (quoting 2 Joseph M. Perillo & Helen Hadjiyannakis Bender, Corbin on Contracts § 6.2 (1995)) ("[U]nilateral contract analysis is applicable to the employer's promise to pay a bonus or pension to an employee in case the latter continues to serve for a stated period.").

7. Section 61.015 of the Texas Labor Code governs the payment of bonus compensation in Texas. See Tex. Labor Code Ann. § 61.015. That statute provides that "[w]ages paid on commission and bonuses are due according to the terms of: (1) an agreement between the employee and employer; or (2) an applicable collective bargaining agreement." Id. Additionally, "[a]n employer shall pay wages paid on commission and bonuses to an employee in a timely manner as required for the payment of other wages under this chapter." Id.

8. It is well-established law in Texas that "instruments pertaining to the same transaction may be read together to ascertain the parties' intent, even if the parties executed the instruments at different times and the instruments do not expressly refer to each other." Fort Worth Indep. Sch. Dist. v. City of Fort Worth, 22 S.W.3d 831, 840 (Tex. 2000) (internal citations omitted; see also Jim Walter Homes, Inc. v. Scheunemann, 668 S.W.2d 324, 327 (Tex. 1984) (same); Jones v. Kelley, 614 S.W.2d 95, 98 (Tex. 1981) (same). "[A] court may determine, as a matter of law, that multiple documents comprise a written contract." Id. (citing Jones, 614 S.W.2d at 98; Miles v. Martin, 321 S.W.2d 62, 65 (Tex. 1959); Braniff Inv. Co. v. Robertson, 81 S.W.2d 45, 47 (Texas 1935)).

9. The supreme court has stated that together, the documents must define the "essential terms" of the contract, including "'the time of performance, the price to be paid, … [and] the service to be rendered.'" City of Hous., 353 S.W.3d at 139-40 (citing Kirby Lake Dev. Ltd. v. Clear Lake City Water Auth., 320 S.W.3d 829, 838 (Tex. 2010); Liberto v. D.F. Stauffer Biscuit

Co., 441 F.3d 318, 324 (5th Cir. 2006)). In the context of employment agreements, "typical essential terms include, among others, 'compensation, duties or responsibilities.'" Id. (citing Martin v. Credit Prot. Ass'n Inc., 793 S.W.2d 667, 669 (Tex. 1990)). Courts applying Texas law must determine whether the referenced documents, read together, "demonstrate a manifestation of [the employer's] intention to be bound to provide [the referenced benefits.]" Parvis-Khyavi v. Alcon Laboratories, Inc., 395 S.W.3d 376, 382 (Tex. App.-Dallas 2013, pet. denied) (citing City of Hous., 353 S.W.3d at 138)).

10. Here, the applicable documents between Highland and Daugherty are the Amended Employment Agreement and the Compensation Statement. The Amended Employment Agreement provides, at Article III, subsection (a):

> The annual salary (the "Base Salary") payable to [Daugherty] during the term of this Agreement shall be an amount determined by the Company (in its sole discretion) and communicated in writing to [Daugherty], and will be subject to annual review pursuant to the Company's normal review policy for other similarly situated executives of the Company. Any increase in salary shall be based upon [Daugherty's] performance and shall be determined by the Company in its sole discretion. In addition, the Company may from time to time award bonuses to [Daugherty] based on such criteria as the Company may establish in its discretion. Any such bonus, unless specifically stated otherwise, will be paid in three (3) equal installments and is not earned or accrued until each payment date. [Daugherty] must be employed on the payment date(s) in order to be eligible for the bonus. The payment of salary and bonuses shall be subject to federal, state, and withholding taxes, social security deductions and other general obligations. Furthermore, the designation of [Daugherty's] compensation does not constitute a guarantee of employment for any specified period of time.

Highland Ex. 11, p. 4, art. III.1(a) (emphasis in original). In the Amended Employment Agreement, Highland sets out specific conditions for Daugherty's eligibility for bonus compensation, and the services to be rendered by Daugherty. See id. at p. 3, art. II.1-2. Additionally, Article 3(a) of the Amended Employment Agreement states that, on an annual basis, Highland was to determine Daugherty's annual salary and bonus compensation for each year and communicate the same "in writing" in the annual Compensation Statement. Thus, the Amended Employment Agreement, read alone, does not establish Highland's "intention to be bound to provide" bonus compensation to Daugherty. Alcon Laboratories, 395 S.W.3d at 382. However, when read in connection with the Compensation Statement, Highland's intent to guarantee Daugherty's compensation is plain.[4]

11. The Compensation Statement specifically stated that Daugherty would receive $1,475,816, labeled as a "2008 Tax Refund" but included as part of his "Earnings and Awards" for his service as an employee of Highland during the 2008 year. See Compensation Statement, p. 1. Base salary was specifically denoted, as were his "paid benefits" in a separate category. Id. Additionally, the Compensation Statement contained the following statement: "Refund is an estimated amount. If actual refund deviates materially from estimate, other compensation will be fairly adjusted. Refund is expected to be received in approximately 4 months." Id.

12. There is no question that the 2008 Tax Refund amount was included in the total of Daugherty's promised "Earnings and Awards" as part of his service to Highland in 2008. See, e.g., id. ("2008 Base Salary, as of 12/31/08," "2008 Deferred Compensation," and "2008 Other Awards.") There is no question that Daugherty performed his required services for Highland in 2008, nor that he continued to be an employee of Highland until 2011. The only question was whether the actual amount he received as a "refund" would "deviate materially" from the estimate based on the IRS review, at which point Highland promised to fairly indemnify him by adjusting his compensation.

[4] In Texas, when an employment agreement sets out an employee's eligibility for a discretionary bonus, courts look to additional documentation signaling an employer's promise or guarantee of a bonus in a "fixed, nondiscretionary amount." See Shanklin v. Columbia Management Advisors, L.L.C., Civ. Act. No. H-07-2690, 2008 WL 4899631 at *12-*13 (S.D. Tex. Nov. 12, 2008) (contrasting the difference between an employer's guarantee of a bonus in a fixed amount and a bonus offered discretionarily without any evidence of a promise or consideration).

C. Highland cannot say it satisfied its obligations under the Compensation Statement.

13. Highland asserts it "satisfied any obligations long ago because Daugherty received a tax refund from the IRS." Joint Pretrial Order at ¶ 40. But this completely ignores the fact that Highland's own partnership filing is being audited and subject to adjustment, which means that Daugherty's personal tax return, and thus the amount of the refund, are subject to adjustment. In fact, Highland recognized the possibility that its partnership filing would be audited and was subject to adjustment. It told the profits interest partners that the refund could be "claw[ed] back . . . if the return if [sic] audited and the outcome is negative." Highland Ex. 39. Moreover, Highland agreed in the Compensation Statement to "fairly adjust" other compensation to Daugherty to cover any difference between the estimated and actual tax refund. Given that Highland's dispute with the IRS over the audit of the partnership filing is still ongoing, and thus Daugherty's refund is subject to "claw back,' and thus the actual refund may change, Highland cannot be said to have "satisfied" its obligations to Daugherty under the Compensation Statement.

D. The Employment Agreement is a red herring.

14. Highland next argues that if the Compensation Statement is an enforceable contract, Daugherty's Reserved Claim is barred by the Amended Employment Agreement. Joint Pretrial Order at ¶ 44. Specifically, Highland argues that because Article III.1(a) of the Amended Employment Agreement provides that "[t]he Executive must be employed on the payment date(s) in order to be eligible for the bonus[,]" Daugherty was no longer eligible for any bonus under the Amended Employment Agreement after the date he terminated his employment on October 31, 2011. Id. at ¶¶ 44-45. Not so.

15. Article III.1(a) of the Amended Employment Agreement provides that bonus compensation, "unless specifically stated otherwise," would be paid in three equal installments and is not earned or accrued until each payment date. See Highland Ex. 11, p. 4, art. III.1(a) (emphasis added). However, in this instance, Highland chose to specifically state otherwise. Highland chose not to pay Daugherty three equal installments of his regular bonus compensation, but instead guaranteed that he would receive at least $1,475,816, labeled as a "2008 Tax Refund" and which was "expected to be received in approximately 4 months." See Compensation Statement, p. 1. Indeed, Daugherty was employed by Highland when he received payment of the 2008 Tax Refund, thus fulfilling the requirement in Article III.1(a) that he "must be employed on the payment date(s) in order to be eligible for the bonus." Highland Ex. 11, p. 4, art. III.1(a).

16. However, Highland's obligations under the 2008 Compensation Statement did not end upon payment of the 2008 Tax Refund. As Highland acknowledged when it told the profits interest partners that the refund could be "claw[ed] back . . . if the return if [sic] audited and the outcome is negative", the 2008 Tax Refund was subject to considerable uncertainty. Highland, Ex. 39. Because of this uncertainty, Highland chose to guarantee the amount of compensation it promised to Daugherty by stating "[i]f actual refund deviates materially from estimate, other compensation will be fairly adjusted." Compensation Statement, p. 1.

17. Highland also argues that Daugherty declined to sign a separation and release form referenced in his employment agreement, and thus "forfeited any right he may have had under the Compensation Statement." Joint Pretrial Order at ¶ 47; see also id. at ¶ 46. But the evidence will show that Highland never presented the separation and release form attached to Daugherty's employment agreement as Exhibit A upon Daugherty's resignation. See Highland Ex. 6 at RFA No. 8.

18. Finally, Highland speciously claims that "the Parties never believed the Compensation Statement constituted an agreement that would survive Daugherty's termination from Highland" because a separate separation agreement was presented that Daugherty refused to sign. Joint Pretrial Order at ¶ 48. What Highland omits is that the separation agreement presented to Daugherty was part of a "all or nothing" package of proposed agreements that Highland demanded Daugherty sign following his resignation. Daugherty refused to do so. And just because Daugherty refused to sign a document that contained the same effective indemnification agreement contained in the Compensation Statement does not mean that Daugherty and Highland believed the Compensation Statement obligations would not survive Daugherty's resignation.

II. Once the Court allows Daugherty's claims, the Court should not feel burdened to estimate, as the Court has significant equitable authority to leave Daugherty's claims as-is until the IRS concludes its audit.

19. Although estimation is routinely used by courts to provide closure to a bankruptcy case, it is not a requirement. Courts have recognized that 11 U.S.C. § 502(c) only creates an obligation to estimate if certain factors are present. Specifically, it is only when "fixing or liquidating the claim would 'unduly delay' the reorganization proceeding," that a court should estimate a claim. In re Continental Airlines, Inc., 57 B.R. 842, 844 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 1985). Highland refuses to acknowledge that there are several scenarios in which a court can (a) refrain from estimating and (b) allow a claim to be revisited upon the occurrence of a future event.

20. The court's conclusion in In re Dow Corning is instructive. In re Dow Corning Corp., 211 B.R. 545 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 1997). There, Dow Corning was involved in significant mass tort litigation. Id. at 549-50. After it filed for bankruptcy protection and the court became aware of the magnitude of the tort claims, the court explicitly declined to estimate the claims. Id. at 562. The court declined to estimate for several reasons: (a) the delay from liquidation would not be "undue", (b) estimation wasn't necessary for the plan of reorganization, (c) estimation would duplicate subsequent litigation proceedings. Id. at 562-66. Those same factors in the present case weigh in favor of not estimating Daugherty's claim. The Court can (and should) rely on its equitable authority to limit the relief that Highland seeks.

21. Importantly, the Court's analysis of what constitutes "undue delay" is a balance of the burden of estimation against the benefits of case administration. It is a matter of equity and here, it would be entirely inequitable for the Court to estimate Daugherty's claim. On one hand, if the Court were to estimate Daugherty's claims and that estimated claim value was less than Daugherty's liability as a result of the IRS audit, Daugherty will be without recourse against Highland for money he is owed. As an individual taxpayer with hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of dollars on the line, that is substantially prejudicial to Daugherty. On the other hand, if the Court did not estimate Daugherty's claim and left it open until the IRS audit is complete, the burden on Highland would be minimal. As Highland itself stated, the resolution of "Daugherty's Reserved Claim" is one of only a few remaining items prior to dissolution. Docket No. 10 at p. 3. But Highland points to no burden in delaying its own dissolution. The present situation is distinct from a situation where a debtor is looking to quickly and efficiently exit a reorganization. There, Daugherty would appreciate the urgency in which that debtor sought to exit bankruptcy. That is decidedly not the case here.

22. The present situation is a result of Highland's own decision making. Only Highland and its Tax Matters Partner have insight into the IRS' audit and Highland's ongoing discussions with the IRS. But regardless of that insight, Highland chose to create a framework where it sought to dissolve prior to the IRS' final determination resulted in the present quagmire. Highland could have—quite easily—waited on the results of the IRS audit and then cleanly moved forward with adjudicating Daugherty's claim. Instead, Highland chose to seek rescission of the Settlement Agreement between it and Daugherty so it could file an adversary complaint and increase its litigation pressure on Daugherty. No one—not the IRS, not Daugherty, not the Court—forced Highland to sue Daugherty. That was Highland's choice. The Court should heavily consider the fact that it was Highland's own actions that are the sole cause of this dilemma in which the parties find themselves.

23. In situations where neither the case law nor the code squarely addresses the facts at hand, the Court is well within its inherent, equitable powers to address unique situations in an equitable manner. As other bankruptcy courts in Texas have stated, "[Section 105 serves] to fill gaps Congress less unanswered so that the Rules and the Code operate consistent with their purposes." In re IFS Financial Corp., 417 B.R. 419, 448 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 2009) (citing Rodriguez v. Countrywide Home Loans, Inc. (In re Rodriguez), 369 B.R. 436, 460 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 2008). Here, the Court has the absolute right to manage Highland's dissolution and the remaining claims how it sees fit. Daugherty asks the Court to refrain from estimating his allowed claim and instead, allow the IRS audit to run its course. Then, the parties will have the information they need to cleanly and efficiently conclude Highland's protracted bankruptcy.

III. The Court should remedy Highland's breach of the Settlement Agreement by requiring, through specific performance, Highland to transfer the totality of its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty.

A. Highland breached the parties' Settlement Agreement by failing to fully transfer its "Interests" in HERA and ERA, including all of their books and records, to Daugherty.

24. The parties' Settlement Agreement (Daugherty Exhibit PD-3, Main Bankr. (19-34054) Doc. No. 3089-1) provides that Delaware law governs its interpretation. PD-3 at § 22. Delaware follows the objective theory of contracts: a contract's construction should be that which would be understood by an objective, reasonable third party, and courts enforce the plain, ordinary meaning of clear and unambiguous language. Vill. Practice Mgmt. Co. LLC v. West, 342 A.3d 295, 314 (Del. 2025); Gunderson v. Trade Desk, Inc., 326 A.3d 1264, 1273, 1280 (Del. Ch. 2024), as corrected (Nov. 8, 2024); Tatum v. Fairstead Affordable LLC, 347 A.3d 1221, 1252 (Del. Ch. 2025). Delaware courts read the agreement as a whole, give effect to all its provisions, and give priority to the parties' intentions as reflected in the four corners of the agreement. Origis USA LLC v. Great Am. Ins. Co., 345 A.3d 936, 952 (Del. 2025); Johnson & Johnson Fortis Advisors LLC, No. 490, 2024, 2026 WL 89452, at *25 (Del. Jan. 12, 2026); Parke Bancorp Inc. v. 659 Chestnut LLC, 217 A.3d 701, 715 n. 52 (Del. 2019).

25. Highland's cramped reading of Section 8—which, as described below, is the section mandating that Highland turnover certain interests of HERA and ERA to Daugherty—ignores the Agreement's plain language and evident purpose. The Agreement required Highland to "transfer its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty" "[t]o facilitate [the] recovery of [] potential claims" belonging to those entities against third parties. PD-3 at § 8. Highland's "interests" is a broad term encompassing all ownership rights, property, data, documents, and records relating to HERA and ERA. The Agreement confirms this by specifying that "[s]uch transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on [Highland's] system"—expressly identifying books and records as one component of Highland's "interests," not the entirety. Id. (emphasis added).

26. First, the operative term is Highland's "interests" — the full scope of what Highland possessed relating to HERA and ERA. The word "include" is critical: it signals that books and records are one component of the broader "interests" being transferred, not the only thing being transferred. While Highland may argue "(spreadsheet)" limits this to a single document or subset of documents, "books and records" is a comprehensive term of art, with "(spreadsheet)" identifying merely one format. The inclusive "include" contrasts with the following sentences where the drafters expressly limited the transfer using "without." Id. Had the parties intended to limit the transfer to a single spreadsheet, they would have used "consist of" or "limited to"—not "include," a term of expansion.

27. Second, the stated purpose of "to facilitate the recovery of… potential claims" requires a broad interpretation of Highland's "interests." Daugherty needs complete access to all HERA and ERA materials in Highland's possession to meaningfully pursue those claims. A narrow reading would frustrate the express purpose the parties articulated. Because Daugherty was to receive Highland's full "interests" in HERA and ERA—including all "potential claims"—he must receive everything Highland possessed relating to those entities. To hold otherwise would render the transfer illusory and largely meaningless.

28. The record confirms Highland's breach. Daugherty requested these materials so HERA and ERA could pursue potential claims against bad actors not released under the Agreement. Main Bankr. Case No. 19-34054, Doc. No. 4449 at Ex. B, Decl. of P. Daugherty at ¶ 2. Highland refused. Id. HERA has since sued James Dondero, Mark Okada, Scott Ellington, and others, relying on records that Abrams & Bayliss—not Highland—produced. See id. at ¶ 3; Ex. B-1; Ex. B-2. These documents plainly fall within Highland's "interests," yet Highland refuses to produce them.

29. Highland has thus breached its obligation to transfer its "interests" in HERA and ERA, including the full scope of their books and records. Its refusal to produce all materials relating to those entities—while they pursue the very claims the Agreement was designed to facilitate—cannot be squared with the Agreement's plain language, its purpose, or Delaware law. The Court should give "interests" and "books and records" the broad reading the terms deserve. Having established Highland's breach, the question becomes remedy.

B. Daugherty is entitled to specific performance requiring Highland to produce the entirety of HERA and ERA's books and records.

30. Specific performance is "the decisively preferable remedy" when a party breaches a contract involving unique subject matter and damages cannot be reasonably calculated. In re IBP, Inc. S'holders Litig., 789 A.2d 14, 22 (Del. Ch. 2001). To obtain this remedy, a plaintiff must prove by clear and convincing evidence: (1) a valid contract exists, (2) the plaintiff is ready, willing and able to perform, (3) a legal remedy would be inadequate, and (4) the balance of equities tips in favor of the party seeking specific performance. Am. Healthcare Admin. Servs., Inc. v. Aizen, 285 A.3d 461, 495 (Del. Ch. 2022). Here, the validity of the Settlement Agreement is undisputed. Highland does not contest Daugherty's full performance. See Docket No. 100, Joint Pretrial Order. Highland's refusal to produce the books and records of HERA and ERA thus squarely presents the question of remedy—and equity demands specific performance.

31. Delaware courts "read a contract as a whole and [] give each provision and term effect, so as not to render any part of the contract mere surplusage." Osborn ex rel. Osborn v. Kemp, 991 A.2d 1153, 1159 (Del. 2010). Section 8 of the Settlement Agreement exists for one express purpose: "to facilitate the recovery of potential claims." Highland's position—that it may retain HERA and ERA's books and records while claiming to have transferred the relevant interests—eviscerates that purpose entirely. One cannot "facilitate the recovery of potential claims" without permitting access to the records necessary to identify, investigate, and prosecute those claims. Highland's interpretation is precisely the kind of "absurd" reading that "no reasonable person would have accepted when entering the contract." Id. at 1160.

32. In Lee Builders, Inc. v. Wells, the Court of Chancery granted specific performance (despite arguments about contractual uncertainty), reasoning that "it is obvious that what was intended by the parties was to furnish defendants with such improvements as were necessary and suitable by reason of the contemplated…" purpose of the agreement. Lee Builders, Inc. v. Wells, 92 A.2d 710, 715 (Del. Ch. 1952). The same principle applies here. Denying specific performance would defeat the very purpose for which the parties agreed to when drafting Section 8.

33. The books and records at issue are not fungible assets that can be replaced or monetized. They are the sole repository of information about HERA and ERA's operations, transactions, and potential claims against bad actors. Delaware courts recognize that specific performance is particularly appropriate where the subject matter is unique. Osborn, 991 A.2d at 1161-62; see also IBP, 789 A.2d at 82-83 (granting specific performance where merger represented "a truly unique opportunity that cannot be adequately monetized").

34. Any damages calculation would necessarily be speculative. In IBP, the court granted specific performance in part because calculating damages would "lack any pretense to precision" and would require the parties to "haggle over huge valuation questions." 789 A.2d at 83. Here, the speculative nature of damages is even more pronounced. The HERA litigation is in its infancy (motion to dismiss stage) with no outcome in sight. Specific performance avoids this inequity by "entirely eliminat[ing] the need for a speculative determination of damages." Id.

35. The balance of equities tips decidedly in Daugherty's favor. First, Daugherty comes to this Court with clean hands, having fully performed his obligations under the Settlement Agreement. See Osborn, 991 A.2d at 1162. Second, the relief sought is discrete and readily enforceable: Highland possesses the books and records, and the Court need only order their production. The Court need not supervise compliance; there is no complex compliance process nor is there a conflict with other proceedings. 26 Capital Acquisition Corp. v. Tiger Resort Asia Ltd., 309 A.3d 434, 466-72 (Del. Ch. 2023) (denying specific performance where enforcement would be complex and foreign court orders created conflict). Third, Highland can demonstrate no hardship from being required to honor its contractual commitment—mere inconvenience has never constituted grounds for denying specific performance. See Osborn, 991 A.2d at 1162. Finally, the purpose of the Settlement Agreement—to allow Daugherty to pursue claims on behalf of HERA and ERA—can only be achieved through specific performance.

36. Specific performance is the only adequate remedy. Daugherty is entitled to an order compelling Highland to produce the entirety of HERA and ERA's books and records.

C. The statute of limitations does not bar Daugherty's books and records claim.

37. As discussed below, Federal courts located in Texas apply Texas' four-year statute of limitations to breach of contract claims. The Court entered the order approving the parties' Settlement Agreement[5] in March 2022, and Daugherty filed his breach of contract claim on October 3, 2025 — less than four years later. Even more, Highland and Daugherty executed the Settlement Agreement on November 22, 2021—less than four years before.[6] Accordingly, by any measure, Daugherty's October 2025 breach of contract claim is timely.

38. Conversely, Highland's allegation that a Delaware choice of law provision in the parties' Settlement Agreement mandates a three-year statute of limitations is wrong. In adversary proceedings, bankruptcy courts engage in the same choice of law analysis as a federal district court. See In re Soporex, Inc., 446 B.R. 750, 760–61 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2011); In re Vantage Benefits Admins. Inc., No. 18-31351-SGJ-7, 2024 WL 3842796, at *17 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. Aug. 14, 2024). A federal district court "sitting in diversity must apply its forum state's conflict of laws rules to perform a conflict of laws analysis." Cypress/Spanish Ft. I, L.P. v. Prof. Serv. Indus., Inc., 814 F.

[5] Daugherty Ex. PD-3.

[6] Id. The Settlement Agreement did not become effective, however, until March 8, 2022, when this Court approved it. Daugherty Ex. PD-4.

Supp. 2d 698, 708 (N.D. Tex. 2011); see also Vantage Benefits, 2024 WL 3842796, at *17 (applying same rule in adversary proceeding context to state-law claims).

39. Texas courts apply (a) the substantive law of the contractually chosen state and (b)Texas procedural law to procedural matters. See Cypress/Spanish, 814 F. Supp. 2d at 708. Texas considers statutes of limitation procedural, not substantive. See id.; see also Baker Hughes, Inc. v. Keco R. & D., Inc., 12 S.W.3d 1, 4 (Tex. 1999); Hunt Oil Co. v. Live Oak Energy, Inc., 313 S.W.3d 384, 387 (Tex. App.—Dallas 2009). Consequently, Texas federal courts evaluating the applicable statute of limitations when faced with a foreign choice of law provision in a contract consistently apply the four-year Texas statute of limitations. See Cypress/Spanish, 814 F. Supp. 2d at 709 (concluding Texas statute of limitations applies despite Alabama choice of law provision); Hunter v. Berkshire Hathaway, Inc., No. 4:14-CV-663-Y, 2017 WL 11679602, at *4 (N.D. Tex. May 31, 2017) (concluding Texas statute of limitation applies despite Delaware choice of law provision); Albritton v. Acclarent, Inc., No. 3:16-cv-03340-M, 2017 WL 6628122, at *6 (N.D. Tex. Dec. 27, 2017) (concluding Texas statute of limitations applies despite California choice of law provision); see also Soporex, 446 B.R. at 761–62 (concluding Texas statute of limitations applies to Trustee's tort claims).

40. Regardless of the Settlement Agreement's choice of law provision, Texas' four-year statute of limitations applies to Daugherty's breach of contract claim because it is a procedural matter under Texas choice of law principles. Daugherty's October 2025 claim falls less than four years from the date of the Settlement Agreement's execution on November 2021, and less than four years from the Court's March 2022 order approving the Settlement Agreement. Daugherty's claim is not barred.

41. Even if Delaware's three-year statute of limitations applied (it does not), Daugherty's claim would still be timely. In Delaware, a cause of action accrues when the contract is broken. Allstate Ins. Co. v. Spinelli, 443 A.2d 1286, 1292 (Del. 1982); Lehman Bros. Holdings Inc. v. Kee, 268 A.3d 178, 185 (Del. 2021). At the earliest, Highland's breach accrued on October 19, 2022—the date Highland told Daugherty it had completed its performance (it had not). Highland's Ex. 3 ("Upon transmission of the information described above, [Highland] will have satisfied all of its obligations under the settlement agreement, and our involvement in HERA/ERA (your entities) will be complete."). Daugherty filed his breach of contract claim less than three years later, on October 3, 2025.

42. Finally, to resolve any lingering doubts regarding the inapplicability of limitations, Texas Civil Practice & Remedies Code § 16.069 expressly states "[i]f a counterclaim or cross claim arises out of the same transaction or occurrence that is the basis of an action, a party to the action may file the counterclaim or cross claim even though as a separate action it would be barred by limitation on the date the party's answer is required." Daugherty did so here by filing his counterclaim on the date his answer was due. His counterclaim arises from the same Settlement Agreement that is central to Highland's claims. Hence, by any measure, Daugherty's claim is timely.

CONCLUSION

43. Daugherty's claims in this action are supported by law and the evidentiary record. Daugherty asks the Court to find as follows: (1) Daugherty's Compensation Statement with Highland created a unilateral contract between the two, with obligations flowing from Highland to Daugherty; (2) Daugherty possesses an allowable claim against Highland, (3) the Court cannot estimate Daugherty's claim until the IRS concludes its audit of Highland, as this is the most equitable result given all circumstances, and (4) Daugherty's claim for books and records against Highland is meritorious, and Highland should turn over all HERA and ERA books, records, information, and material in its possession, without reservation.

PLAINTIFF HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P. AND DEFENDANT PATRICK HAGAMAN DAUGHERTY'S JOINT MOTION FOR LEAVE TO FILE CERTAIN EXHIBITS UNDER SEAL

Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland") and Patrick Hagaman Daugherty ("Daugherty") (together the "Parties"), in support of this joint motion (the "Motion") for leave of the Court to file certain exhibits from Highland Capital Management, L.P.'s Witness and Exhibit List with Respect to Trial to Be Held on April 17, 2026 ("Highland's Witness and Exhibit List") and Daugherty's Witness and Exhibit List for Hearing Set for April 17, 2026 ("Daugherty's Witness and Exhibit List"), including supplements and amendments thereto, under seal, respectfully states the following:

Relief Requested

1. By this Motion, the Parties seek entry of an order from this Court, substantially in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A (the "Order") (a) authorizing Highland to file under seal Highland's exhibits 14, 21-28, 35-37, 57, 61, 62 ("Highland's Sealed Exhibits") from Highland's Witness and Exhibit List and Daugherty to file under seal exhibits 17-26, 21a, 29, 60-62, 64-67, 69, 72-77 and 83-85 ("Daugherty's Sealed Exhibits," and together with Highland's Sealed Exhibits, the "Sealed Exhibits") from Daugherty's Witness and Exhibit List because these Sealed Exhibits discuss information designated as confidential by agreed protective orders entered in this matter (Docket Nos. 67 and 77) (the "Protective Orders"); and (b) granting related relief. The Parties also request that any and all testimony and documentary evidence disclosing designated confidential information at any hearing discussing the Sealed Exhibits be sealed at such hearing.

2. The Parties have exchanged copies of their exhibits, agree that the above-listed Sealed Exhibits should be sealed, and will produce copies to other persons upon further order of the Court or upon agreement of the Parties.

Jurisdiction and Venue

3. The Court has jurisdiction over this matter pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1334. This is a core proceeding within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. § 157(b).

4. Venue is proper pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1409.

5. The bases for the relief requested herein are sections 105(a) and 107 of title 11 of the United States Code (the "Bankruptcy Code"), rule 9018 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure (the "Bankruptcy Rules"), and rule 9077-1 of the Bankruptcy Local Rules for the Northern District of Texas.

Basis For Relief

6. Section 107(b)-(c) of the Bankruptcy Code, in relevant part, provides courts with the power to issue orders that protect entities and individuals from potential harm that may result from the disclosure of certain confidential information:

> (b) On request of a party in interest, the bankruptcy court shall, and on the bankruptcy court's own motion, the bankruptcy court may—
> (1) protect an entity with respect to a trade secret or confidential research, development, or commercial information . . . .
> (c)(1) The bankruptcy court, for cause, may protect an individual, with respect to the following types of information to the extent the court finds that disclosure of such information would create undue risk of identity theft or other unlawful injury to the individual or the individual's property:
> (A) Any means of identification (as defined in section 1028(d) of the title 18) contained in a paper filed, or to be filed, in a case under this title . . . .

11 U.S.C. §§ 107(b)(1), (c)(1)(A); see also Fed. R. Bankr. P. 9018.

7. Although courts recognize a public right of access to judicial records and documents, this right is not absolute. See Nixon v. Warner Comm., Inc., 435 U.S. 589, 598 (1978); Test Masters Educ. Servs., Inc. v. Robin Singh Educ. Servs., Inc., 799 F.3d 437, 454 (5th Cir. 2015).

"Every court has supervisory power over its own records and files, and access has been denied where court files might have become a vehicle for improper purposes." Nixon, 435 U.S. at 598.

8. Here, certain of the exhibits—those identified as Highland and Daugherty's Sealed Exhibits—are documents subject to the Protective Orders. These documents were denoted as "confidential" or otherwise contain information derived from confidential documents.

9. Furthermore, the Sealed Exhibits contain "means of identification" as that term is defined by section 1028(d) of title 18. See 18 U.S.C. § 1028(d). For instance, the vast majority of the Sealed Exhibits are tax filings, or related tax appeal filings, that contain social security numbers, addresses, and other information related to Highland, Daugherty, and other persons such that there is a potential risk that either Highland, Daugherty, or other persons could be subject to identity theft or other unlawful injury. See 11 U.S.C. § 107(c)(1).

WHEREFORE, the Parties respectfully request that the Court enter the Order granting the relief requested herein and such other relief as the Court deems appropriate under the circumstances.

Respectfully submitted this 15th day of April 2026.

Respectfully submitted,

GRAY REED

APPELLANT'S AMENDED DESIGNATION OF ITEMS TO BE INCLUDED IN THE RECORD ON APPEAL AND STATEMENT OF THE ISSUES PRESENTED

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 8009(a), Appellant Patrick Daugherty ("Daugherty") hereby submits his amended designation of items to be included in the record on appeal and statement of issues to be presented in connection with his appeal from the July 24, 2026 Judgment and Memorandum Opinion [Docket Nos. 138, 139 in Adversary No. 25-03055-bwo]. See Notice of Appeal [Docket No. 142 in Adversary No. 25-03055-bwo].

Statement of Issues on Appeal

1. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in disallowing Daugherty's Reserved Claim based on the Employment Agreement's termination provisions, when the Court itself found the 2009 Compensation Statement was incorporated into the Employment Agreement and resolved its ambiguity in Daugherty's favor, concluding that Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland") intended to compensate Daugherty for any material deviation in his 2008 tax refund.

2. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in applying the "no further liability or obligation" language of Sections 4.5 and 4.6 of the Employment Agreement to extinguish Daugherty's compensation entitlement under the 2009 Compensation Statement, when that language pertains to severance contingent upon execution of a separation agreement and not to earned compensation that accrued during Daugherty's active employment.

3. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in holding that James Dondero's oral promises to cover Daugherty's contingent tax liability were unenforceable under Texas's statute of frauds, Tex. Bus. & Com. Code § 26.01, when Highland had a main purpose of its own in making the promise and when the Court failed to consider Daugherty's continued employment and forbearance as adequate consideration.

4. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in denying Daugherty's counterclaim for specific performance of the Settlement Agreement's books-and-records provision by construing that provision through the statutory categories of 6 Del. C. § 18-305(a), rather than by the plain meaning of the negotiated Settlement Agreement requiring Highland to "transfer its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty" "[t]o facilitate [the] recovery of [] potential claims," including "the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system."

5. Whether the Bankruptcy Court abused its discretion by granting Highland Capital Management, L.P.'s Cross Motion pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 60(b)(6) when Highland failed to make a showing of manifest injustice and exceptional circumstances required to rewrite a term of the parties' bargained-for, court-approved settlement agreement that Highland Capital Management, L.P. entered on a free, deliberate, calculated, and counseled basis.

6. Whether the Bankruptcy Court abused its discretion by granting Highland Capital Management, L.P.'s Cross Motion pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 60(b)(6) when Highland was estopped from seeking such relief after it obtained the benefits of the tolling provision in the settlement agreement, including, inter alia, the parties' negotiation and execution of a series of tolling agreements to the benefit of Highland Capital Management, L.P. regarding its certain claim-objection deadline.

V. CONCLUSION 43

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.'S POST-TRIAL PROPOSED FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland" or "HCMLP") submits its Post-Trial Proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law pursuant to the Court's direction provided at the conclusion of the trial (the "Trial") of this adversary proceeding (the "Adversary Proceeding") on April 17, 2026.

I. NATURE OF ACTION AND PROCEDURAL POSTURE

1. This action concerns Daugherty's contingent, unliquidated claim against Highland arising from the audit of Highland's 2008 tax return (the "Reserved Claim") and Highland's claims against Daugherty seeking to disallow and estimate his Reserved Claim.[2] This action also concerns Daugherty's Counterclaims (defined below). JPO ¶ 1.[3]

2. On October 16, 2019, Highland filed its petition for relief under chapter 11 of title 11 of the United States Code (the "Bankruptcy Code") commencing the above-captioned bankruptcy case (the "Bankruptcy Case" or the "Case"). Thereafter, Daugherty filed several proofs of claim in the Bankruptcy Case. Those claims culminated in Daugherty's claim filed December 23, 2020 appearing as claim no. 205 on the claims register in the Highland Bankruptcy Case ("Claim 205"), which superseded and replaced all Daugherty's prior claims. JPO ¶ 2.

3. In November 2021, Daugherty and Highland entered into that certain Settlement Agreement (the "Settlement Agreement"), which resolved all aspects of Daugherty's claims against Highland's estate except for the Reserved Claim. On March 8, 2022, the Court entered an order approving the Settlement Agreement [Bankr. Docket No. 3299] (the "Settlement Order").

[3] "JPO" refers to the Joint Pretrial Order entered on April 13, 2026 at Docket No. 101.

The Settlement Agreement provided, among other things, that Highland would transfer to Daugherty its "interests in HERA and ERA,"[4] and that such transfer will include "the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system . . . [and] be without representation or warranty of any type … and without any liability or material cost to HCMLP or its affiliates ...." Highland Ex. 5 ¶ 8 (the "Books and Records Provision"). The Settlement Agreement further provided that Highland expressly "reserve[d] the right to assert any and all defenses" to the Reserved Claim. Id. ¶ 9; JPO ¶ 3.

4. On May 2, 2025, Highland commenced the Adversary Proceeding by filing its Complaint for (1) Disallowance of Claim No. 205 in Its Entirety, (2) Estimation of Claim No. 205 for Allowance Purposes, or (3) Subordination of Any Allowed Portion of Claim No. 205 of Patrick Hagaman Daugherty [Docket No. 1] (the "Complaint"). In its Complaint, Highland asserted three claims: (a) disallowance of the Reserved Claim, (b) estimation of the Reserved Claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 502(c), and (c) subordination of the Reserved Claim under 11 U.S.C. § 510(b), (excluding the claim for subordination which has been withdrawn with prejudice, "Highland's Claims"). JPO ¶ 4.

5. On June 5, 2025, Daugherty filed a motion to dismiss the Complaint [Docket No. 5] (the "Motion to Dismiss"). On July 18, 2025, Highland filed Highland Capital Management, L.P.'s (A) Objection to Patrick Daugherty's Motion to Dismiss and (B) Cross Motion for Relief from a Final Order Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9024 [Docket No. 10] (the "Cross Motion"). At the hearing on Daugherty's Motion to Dismiss and Highland's Cross Motion, the Court denied the Motion to Dismiss and granted the Cross Motion. The Court's ruling struck a particular provision of the Settlement Agreement that Daugherty contends prohibited Highland from filing this Adversary Proceeding.[5] JPO ¶ 5.

6. On October 3, 2025, Daugherty filed his Answer and Original Counterclaim [Docket No. 39] asserting three causes of action against Highland for (a) breach of contract for breach of the Books and Records Provision; (b) specific performance through which Daugherty seeks an order requiring Highland to turn over all of the HERA and ERA books and records in compliance with the Books and Records Provision; and (c) attorneys' fees arising from Highland's alleged bad faith conduct in commencing the Adversary Proceeding (collectively, the "Counterclaims"). On October 24, 2025, Highland filed its answer to the Counterclaims (which included its affirmative defenses) [Docket No. 56]. JPO ¶ 6.

7. The Court conducted the Trial on Highland's Claims and Daugherty's Counterclaims on April 17, 2026 in which it admitted certain documents into evidence (subject to certain limitations stated on the record) [Docket No. 132] and heard testimony from James P. Seery, Jr. (Highland's Chief Executive Officer), David Klos (Highland's Chief Financial Officer), Patrick Daugherty (the Claimant and defendant in this Adversary Proceeding), and Trevor Jason Liles-Tims (an individual who proffered expert testimony on Daugherty's behalf).

II. STIPULATED FACTS

8. From 1998-2011, Daugherty was employed by Highland. JPO ¶ 8.

9. Daugherty and Highland entered into that certain Amended Employment Agreement dated as of December 31, 2004 (the "Employment Agreement"). Highland Ex. 11; JPO ¶ 9.

[5] Daugherty appealed to the District Court from this Court's order granting the Cross Motion. That appeal is still pending. In the JPO, Daugherty agreed that he would not relitigate those issues during the April 17 Trial. See JPO at 3 n.5.

10. On or about February 27, 2009, Highland issued to Daugherty a Comprehensive Compensation and Benefits Statement (the "Comprehensive Statement"). Highland Ex. 13; Daugherty 14; JPO ¶ 10.

11. In 2009, based on a draft Schedule K-1 that Highland provided to him, Daugherty filed his 2008 federal income tax return. JPO ¶ 11.

12. In 2009, Daugherty received refunds from the IRS of previously paid taxes in the amounts of $493,629 and $780,301 related to his 2008 Individual Income Tax Return (Form 1040) and his 2008 Application for Tentative Refund (Form 1045), respectively. These forms incorporated Highland's losses that had been allocated to him as provided for in the draft Schedule K-1. JPO ¶ 12.

13. On March 3, 2010, the IRS notified Highland that it was initiating an audit of Highland's 2008 federal income tax returns. JPO ¶ 13.

14. On September 28, 2011, Daugherty gave voluntarily notice of resignation from all positions at Highland. Highland Ex. 12; JPO ¶ 14. His last day as an employee at Highland was October 31, 2011. JPO ¶ 14.

15. On October 16, 2019, Highland filed its petition for relief under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code. JPO ¶ 15.

16. On February 22, 2021, the Court entered the Order (i) Confirming the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) and (ii) Granting Related Relief [Bankr. Docket No. 1943] (the "Confirmation Order") with respect to the Plan.[6] JPO ¶ 16.

[6] The "Plan" refers to the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) filed on the main docket at Docket No. 1808. The Confirmation Order was subsequently modified for reasons irrelevant to the Motion. See Bankr. Docket No. 4378.

17. The Plan included a form of Claimant Trust Agreement (the "CTA"). Bankr. Docket No. 1811, Exhibit R (preamble); JPO ¶ 17.

18. The Plan created the CTA when the Plan went effective on August 11, 2021. Bankr. Docket No. 2700; JPO ¶ 18.

19. On November 22, 2021, Daugherty and Highland executed the Settlement Agreement. Highland Ex. 5; JPO ¶ 19.

20. On March 8, 2022, the Court entered the Settlement Order approving the Settlement Agreement. JPO ¶ 20.

21. On May 5, 2022, and October 19, 2022, Highland delivered certain documents and materials to Daugherty as reflected in Daugherty Exhibits 33 and 34, respectively. JPO ¶ 21.

22. The Reserved Claim remains disputed, contingent, and unliquidated. JPO ¶ 22.

III. FACTS ADDUCED AT TRIAL

23. The following facts were established by the testimony and documentary evidence admitted at the Trial of this matter.

A. Daugherty's Employment, Partnership, and 2008 Comp Statement

24. Daugherty was an employee and limited partner of Highland from 1998 until his resignation, noticed by letter dated September 28, 2011. Highland Ex 12; Daugherty Ex. 15; Trial Tr. at 247:11-16.

25. The unsigned Comprehensive Statement summarizes the compensation and benefits that Daugherty received for his work at Highland in 2008 and includes a statement of his prospective base salary effective March 1, 2009. Highland Ex. 13; Daugherty Ex. 14.

26. In the "Earnings and Awards" section, the Comprehensive Statement includes the following: "2008 Tax Refund $1,475,816 Refund is an estimated amount. If actual refund deviates materially from estimate, other compensation will be fairly adjusted. Refund is expected to be received in approximately 4 months." Highland Exhibit 13; Daugherty Ex. 14.

27. Daugherty testified that the 2008 Tax Refund was provided by Highland in place of a cash bonus, as Highland did not have the funds to pay cash bonuses directly as a result of its strained financial circumstances arising from the 2008 financial crisis. Trial Tr. at 294:24-295:20.

B. Daugherty's 2008 Tax Return and Receipt of Refund

28. In April 2009, based on a draft Schedule K-1 that Highland provided to him (the "Draft K-1"), Daugherty filed his 2008 federal income tax return with the IRS. JPO § 11; Daugherty Ex. 26.

29. The Draft K-1 identified Daugherty's "partner's share of loss" as 0.746998% as of December 31, 2008. Id.

30. Using the Draft K-1, Daugherty filed his 2008 form 1040 U.S. Individual Tax Return with the IRS attesting "under penalties of perjury I declare that I have examined this return and accompanying schedules and statements, and to the best of my knowledge and belief, they are true, correct and complete" (the "2008 1040"). Highland Ex. 35; Daugherty Ex. 23.

31. Based on line 73a of the 2008 1040, Daugherty requested an IRS refund in the amount of $493,629 of 2008 tax previously paid. Highland Ex. 35 (line 73a); Daugherty Ex. 23 (line 73a).

32. In addition to the 2008 1040, Daugherty also filed a 2008 IRS Form 1045 Application for Tentative Refund (the "2008 1045") to recover taxes previously paid related to the 2006 tax year. The 2008 1045 was also delivered to the IRS by Daugherty with the attestation: "under penalty of perjury, I declare that I have examined this application and the accompanying schedules and statements and to the best of my knowledge and belief, they are true accurate, and complete." Highland Ex. 36; Daugherty Ex. 22.

33. Based on line 27 of the 2008 1045, Daugherty requested an IRS refund in the amount of $780,301 from the IRS for 2006 tax previously paid. Highland Ex. 36 (line 27); Daugherty Ex. 22 (line 27).

34. In sum, in 2009, as a result of the 2008 1040 and the 2008 1045 filings, Daugherty actually received refunds from the IRS of previously paid taxes in the amounts of $493,629 and $780,301 for a total refund of $1,273,930 (the "Refund Received") based on Daugherty's allocable partner's share of losses as identified in the Draft K-1. JPO ¶ 12.

35. Later in 2009, Highland issued its final 2008 Schedule K-1 to Daugherty identifying Daugherty's "partner's share of loss" as 0.740262% as of December 31, 2008 (the "Final K-1"). Highland Ex. 14; Daugherty Ex. 24.

36. The Final K-1 with Daugherty's 0.740262% partner's share of loss was delivered to the IRS, set Daugherty's partner's share of loss as 0.00674% less than the Draft K-1, and was later used by the IRS, rounded to 0.74030000%, in its calculation of Daugherty's percentage of Highland portfolio income in connection with the 2008 Tax Year Audit (below). Highland Ex. 17; Daugherty Ex. 28.

C. The Highland 2008 Tax Year Audit; Daugherty Resigns from Highland; Daugherty Sues for Breach of Employment Agreement

37. On March 3, 2010, the IRS notified Highland that it was initiating an audit of Highland's 2008 federal income tax return (the "2008 Tax Year Audit"). JPO ¶ 13.

38. On September 28, 2011, Daugherty gave voluntary notice of resignation from all positions at Highland with his last day as an employee being October 31, 2011 (the "Resignation Date"). JPO ¶ 14.

39. On May 22, 2012, Daugherty filed his original answer, counterclaim, and third-party petition (the "Texas Action") against a number of counter-defendants, including Highland, in the 68th Judicial District Court of Dallas County. Among the causes of action Daugherty asserted was a claim for breach of the Employment Agreement. Highland Ex. 45.

40. On February 6, 2014, a jury returned a verdict in the Texas Action, which found, among other things, that Highland had complied with the Employment Agreement. Highland Ex. 44 (Jury Questions and Answers: "Q: Did Highland fail to comply with the Employment Agreement? A: No.").

41. On December 8, 2017, the IRS examiner completed the IRS audit of the 2008 Tax Year Audit and executed IRS Form 4605-A with the Examination Changes to the Highland 2008 tax return ("Form 4605-A"). Highland Ex. 15; Daugherty Ex. 27.

42. Pursuant to Form 4605-A, the IRS proposed to increase Highland's reported 2008 short-term portfolio income by $166,332,713 (the "2008 Adjustment"). Id. The IRS proposed no adjustments to Highland's reported ordinary loss of $546,177,906. Id.

43. After Highland's previously reported 2008 portfolio income of $3,570,236 was upwardly adjusted by the 2008 Adjustment, the corrected short-term portfolio income for Highland for 2008 was determined by the IRS to be $169,902,949 ("Total 2008 Partnership Income"). Id.

44. By letter dated February 3, 2018, Brian Collins of Highland advised Daugherty in writing that the IRS (a) had concluded its 2008 Tax Year Audit, (b) proposed adjustments to the Highland 2008 tax return, and (c) would hold a closing conference on March 2, 2018 ("Collins 1"). Highland Ex 16; Daugherty Ex. 16.

45. Collins 1 also attached (a) IRS Form 886-Z (redacted) ("Form 886-Z") and (b) IRS Form 870-PT ("Form 870-PT"). Highland Exs. 17, 18; Daugherty Exs. 28, 29.

46. The Form 886-Z entitled "TEFRA Partners' Share of Income" lists all of the 2008 Highland partners by name and address, their respective TIN (taxpayer identification number), and "Percentage of Profit, and Portfolio income (loss) net short-term gain (loss)."[7] Highland Ex. 17; Daugherty Ex. 28.

47. The Form 886-Z lists Daugherty with his address and TIN, his percentage of profit at 0.74030000% (same as the Final K-1, only rounded to four decimal places), and his total adjusted portfolio income as $1,257,792. Highland Ex. 17; Daugherty Ex. 28; Trial Tr. at 50:14-22 (Klos); 253:19-254:1 (Daugherty).

48. The Form 886-Z total adjusted portfolio income for Daugherty was calculated by multiplying Daugherty's 0.74030000% share of the partnership interest by Highland's Total 2008 Partnership Income shown on page 2 of the Form 886-Z. Highland Ex. 17; Daugherty Ex. 28.

49. Collins 1 also provided Daugherty with a copy of IRS Form 870-PT specifically made out for Daugherty's assent. Highland Exs. 16, 18; Daugherty Exs. 16, 29.

50. The Form 870-PT is an offer of agreement from the IRS to Daugherty pursuant to which the IRS and Daugherty would agree on the IRS's proposed adjustments to the Highland 2008 return resulting from the 2008 Tax Year Audit. Id.

51. Annexed to the Form 870-PT is the IRS's "Schedule of Adjustments" which proposes that Daugherty agree to the 2008 Adjustment and the 2008 Total Partnership Income. Highland Ex. 18.

[7] Highland's and Daugherty's Exhibits are redacted to exclude all of the partners' information, except for Daugherty's and the total.

52. No evidence was offered that Daugherty accepted the 2008 IRS proposal reflected in the Form 870-PT, and based on the existence of the pending dispute, the Court infers that Daugherty effectively rejected the IRS's proposal.

53. By email dated July 3, 2018 ("Collins 2"), Collins advised Daugherty that: (a) Daugherty may have received a 60-Day Letter from the IRS, (b) Highland's tax matters partner would appeal the 2008 Adjustment to the IRS Appeals Office, and (c) Daugherty would have the opportunity to accept any settlement by the tax matters partner as to his pro rata share or individually dispute the adjustment in judicial proceedings. Highland Ex. 19; Daugherty Ex. 31.

54. By email dated December 9, 2019, Collins advised Daugherty that "by letter dated December 8, 2017, Exam [i.e., the IRS field examiners] indicated that they had concluded their audit," made proposed adjustments, issued an audit report, and held a closing conference ("Collins 3"). Highland Ex. 20; Daugherty Ex. 32.

55. Collins 3 also advised Daugherty that Highland had formally disagreed with the IRS's proposed adjustments and that the 2008 Tax Year Audit had been transferred to the IRS Office of Appeals. Id.

56. The appeal of the IRS's final adjustments from the 2008 Tax Year Audit continues, and there is no known date when the appeal is expected to be completed. Trial Tr. at 61:10-23 (Klos), 173:18-174:1 (Liles-Tims)

D. Daugherty's Employment Agreement and Failure to Sign Separation Agreement

57. Daugherty and Highland entered into the Employment Agreement. JPO ¶ 9. Highland Ex. 11.[8]

[8] While Daugherty testified that he did not have a copy of his Employment Agreement (Trial Tr. at 248:22-24), the parties stipulated that Daugherty and Highland entered into the Employment Agreement dated as of December 31, 2004, and a copy of the Employment Agreement was admitted into evidence without objection. See JPO ¶ 9 ; Highland Ex. 11.

58. The Employment Agreement was in effect through the Resignation Date, and Daugherty has not been employed at Highland since the Resignation Date. Trial Tr. at 248:5-16.

59. Daugherty claims that the 2008 Tax Refund he received and any "guarantee" thereof was part of his discretionary "non-cash" bonus for 2008. Claim 205, Addendum to Proof of Claim filed by Patrick H. Daugherty ("Addendum") ¶ 3(ii)); Patrick Hagaman Daugherty's Motion for Leave to Amend Proof of Claim No. 77 [Bankr. Docket No. 1280], Ex. B, Addendum ¶ 3(ii); see also Patrick Daugherty's Trial Brief [Docket No. 102] (the "Daugherty Trial Brief") ¶ 10 ("Highland's intent to guarantee Daugherty's compensation is plain.").

60. Section 3.1 of the Employment Agreement requires that Daugherty must be employed in order to be eligible for a bonus: "[Daugherty] must be employed on the payment date(s) in order to be eligible for the bonus." Highland Ex. 11 § 3.1.

61. Section 4.5 of the Employment Agreement mandates that if, at the future time his employment terminates, Daugherty does not sign the separation and release form attached as Exhibit A to the Employment Agreement, "[Daugherty] shall not be entitled to any severance, and [Highland] will have no further liability or obligation to [Daugherty] under [the Employment Agreement] or in connection with [Daugherty's] employment or termination." Highland Ex. 11 § 4.5.

62. Daugherty and Highland later attempted to negotiate a different set of separation and release documents that would have provided Daugherty with, among other things, a tax indemnity related to the 2008 Tax Audit. Trial Tr. at 207:9-209:5; Highland Exs. 38, 40, 41. The parties did not reach agreement, and Daugherty never signed and returned to Highland an executed Exhibit A to the Employment Agreement or any other separation agreement and release. Trial Tr. at 206:2-207:3.

E. The Claimant Trust, Claim 205, the Settlement Agreement, and the Objection to Reserved Claim

63. The Plan and the CTA created the Claimant Trust when the Plan went effective on August 11, 2021 (the "Effective Date"). Bankr. Docket No. 2700; JPO ¶ 18.

64. Section 9.1 of the CTA requires that the Claimant Trust be dissolved no later than three years from the Effective Date, subject to a maximum additional two years of extensions as approved by the Bankruptcy Court on motion. CTA § 9.1 [Bankr. Docket No. 1811]. The Bankruptcy Court granted two one-year extensions of the life of the Claimant Trust with the final date of dissolution set at August 11, 2026. See Highland's Motion for An Order Further Extending Duration of Trusts [Bankr. Docket No. 4213] (the "Extension Motion") and Order Extending the Duration of the Trusts [Bankr. Docket No. 4298] entered June 30, 2025.

65. Daugherty filed Claim 205 on December 23, 2020, which included the Addendum. Highland Claims Register Claim 205; Bankr. Docket No. 1280, Ex. B; Trial Tr. 179:4-16; 258:19-259:3.

66. Claim 205 is an unsecured claim against Highland; Daugherty admitted that no part of the claim is secured. Claim 205, part 2 § 9.

67. As set out in the Addendum to Claim 205, Daugherty claimed damages for "2008 Compensation" which was comprised of two components: "Compensation Award $1,475,816.00" and "Estimated Interest on Compensation Award $1,174,537.00." Claim 205, Addendum ¶ 3. Accordingly, the Reserved Claim is capped at $2,650,353.00. Claim 205, Addendum ¶ 3; Trial Tr. 203:17-25. See also Patrick Daugherty's Reply in Support of Motion for Temporary Allowance of Claims for Voting Purposes Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 3018 [Bankr. Docket No. 1411] ¶¶ 40-42 ("Daugherty provided an amount in his claim covering the maximum amount of his contingent liability for which Highland is responsible only to preserve the claim…. The full amount of the potential contingent liability, $2,650,353, should be included in Daugherty's claim for voting purposes.").

68. In respect of the Reserved Claim, Daugherty asserted that: "[Highland] did not have sufficient cash available to pay bonuses on the February 29, 2009 payments date. Instead, it opted to award non-cash bonuses …[and] provided Daugherty with [the Comprehensive Statement]." Claim 205, Addendum ¶ 3(ii).

69. On November 22, 2021, Daugherty and Highland executed the Settlement Agreement settling and releasing all claims Daugherty had against Highland and its related parties except the Reserved Claim. Highland Ex. 5 ¶ 9; Daugherty Ex. 3 ¶ 9. The Settlement Agreement was approved by the Court on March 8, 2022. Bankr. Docket No. 3298.

70. The Reserved Claim is fully reserved in an account held by the Claimant Trust with a balance equal to the $2,650,353.00 amount of the Reserved Claim. Daugherty Ex. 94 ¶ 1; Trial Tr. at 203:13-204:2. It is the only unresolved claim left in the Highland estate. Trial Tr. at 241:25-242:3.

F. Evidence at Trial Concerning Estimation of the Reserved Claim

71. Two witnesses testified at trial concerning the estimation of the Reserved Claim, David Klos, Highland's CFO ("Klos"), and Trevor Jason Liles-Tims ("Liles-Tims"), an expert retained by Daugherty.

72. Klos offered lay testimony in which he described an objective methodology to estimate the Reserved Claim.[9] Klos' calculation was a straightforward arithmetic formula based on a number of identified inputs. The first of those inputs was the magnitude of the adjustment to Highland's total 2008 short-term portfolio income, for which Klos set forth five possible outcomes. The lowest of the outcomes reflected a complete reversal of the IRS's proposed adjustments resulting from the 2008 Tax Year Audit. The other outcomes reflected specific positions taken by the IRS and Highland's tax matters partner with respect to the IRS's proposed adjustments resulting from the 2008 Tax Year Audit.

[9] Klos is a CPA in Texas with undergraduate degrees in accounting and finance and both a Masters of Science in accounting and a Masters of Business Administration from SMU. Trial Tr. at 45:1-14. While Klos is clearly experienced in tax matters, he was not offered as an expert witness (Trial Tr. at 45:15-23); the Court finds that Klos' testimony did not require unique expertise because it focused on applying objective, factual information to the agreed-upon methodology. While a basic understanding of certain statutes was required, Klos' testimony was fundamentally

73. Notably, Liles-Tims adopted the exact same methodology Klos employed. Trial Tr. at 122:4-14; Highland Ex. 59 ¶ 44 (describing the methodology). Yet, Liles-Tims testified that the value of the Reserved Claim could not be estimated because there were supposedly "too many variables," "too much uncertainty," and such an analysis required "too much speculation." Trial Tr. at 90:7-91:13. Highland Ex. 59 ¶¶ 33, 43, 48-49.

74. The Court rejects Liles-Tims' testimony that the Reserved Claim cannot be estimated for purposes of Section 502 for several reasons. First, the evidence established that the parties agree on a methodology that could be used to estimate the Reserved Claim. Second, with the sole exception of the adjustment to Highland's total 2008 short-term portfolio income, the divergence between Klos and Liles-Tims concerning the remaining inputs to the arithmetic formula were insignificant. Third, Klos' inputs were all reasonably supported by documentary evidence. Fourth, contrary to his expert, Daugherty did estimate the value of the Reserved Claim—a valuation that the parties used to establish the claim reserve.[10] And finally, since the arithmetical and supported by specific statutes that both Klos and Liles-Tims agree apply and which can be found at Highland Exs. 29-34.

[10] Liles-Tims admitted that he never reviewed Daugherty's Claim 205 and never asked Daugherty if he had a view as to what his maximum liability might be. Trial Tr. at 113:11-21. The "Compensation Award" amount set forth on Daugherty's Claim 205 had simply listed the amount found on the Compensation Statement. The "Estimated Interest on Compensation Award" amount set forth in Daugherty's Claim 205 was not accompanied by details as to how it had been calculated or what inputs were used to calculate it. Claim 205, Addendum ¶ 2 and ¶ 3(ii). During his

Court finds and determines that the administration of Highland's Bankruptcy Case would be unduly delayed if the Reserved Claim were not estimated and fixed at this time, acceptance of Liles-Tims' opinion would necessarily result in the disallowance of Daugherty's Reserved Claim.[11]

75. While Liles-Tims insisted that the Reserved Claim could not be estimated and acknowledged that he hadn't specifically analyzed the applicable statutes or calculated interest using the applicable interest rates (one of the inputs to the formula), he nevertheless offered his views on each of the individual inputs of the agreed-upon methodology.

1. IRS Income Adjustment to HCMLP

76. Klos' testimony on estimation was aided by a demonstrative exhibit (Highland Ex. 65; see Trial Tr. at 49:11-21) that set out, in tabular format, the inputs and arithmetical calculations for estimating five potential outcomes of the 2008 Tax Year Audit.[12] The only input deposition, Mr. Daugherty indicated that he thought he had "googled" penalty rates and interest rates, but he couldn't recall what those rates were. Highland Ex. 57 at 237:22-240:14.

[11] While not determinative, the Court also has considerable concerns regarding Liles-Tims' expertise and credibility. Liles-Tims appears to be an expert in business valuations, fraud examinations, and quantifying commercial damages (Trial Tr. 88:1-3), not IRS audits. Moreover, while Liles-Tims' history of teaching seminars and providing expert testimony on those subject matters is impressive, nothing in their lengthy descriptions evinces knowledge or expertise in the area of federal income tax audits or even tax issues generally. See Highland Ex. 59 (Appendix (Liles-Tims' CV at 2-7)). Further, Liles-Tims is not a CPA, has never played more than a supporting role in an IRS audit, has never testified in tax court, is not an expert in bankruptcy law, and has no opinions concerning Bankruptcy Code Section 502, the statute at issue. Trial Tr. at 88:5-89:13. Most concerning to the Court is Liles-Tims' opinion that he would be unable to estimate Daugherty's Reserved Claim even if Highland's tax matters partner reached an agreement with the IRS or there was a final judicial determination concerning the 2008 Tax Year Audit. Id. at 91:14-92:15. That is an extreme position that is hard to understand.

[12] The Court rejects Daugherty's counsel's suggestion that Highland unfairly presented its evidence concerning the estimate of the Reserve Claim for several reasons. First, Daugherty never moved to compel the production of such evidence thereby indicating such evidence was not responsive to Daugherty's discovery requests. Second, under the scheduling order in this Adversary Proceeding (Docket No. 37), Daugherty had the right to depose Klos (a fairly obvious witness given his role at Highland and the subject matter of this proceeding) during discovery but apparently chose not to do so. Third, Klos was identified on Highland's Witness & Exhibit list filed more than two weeks before the hearing (Docket No. 97), yet Daugherty apparently made no effort to depose Klos even then. Finally, with respect to Highland Ex. 65, the Court notes that (a) it set forth the same methodology that Daugherty's expert recited, (b) Daugherty's expert admitted that he analyzed the two-page demonstrative exhibit for 10 hours (Trial Tr. at 164:22-165:1), and (c) Daugherty's expert was able to offer his views as to the appropriateness of the inputs Klos utilized. If that changed among the outcomes was the amount of the "IRS income adjustment to HCMLP."[13]

Klos identified the following potential outcomes based on available data:

- (I) complete reversal of the 2008 Adjustment (i.e., no further tax liability to HCMLP or its former limited partners such as Daugherty);
- (II) the value of the tax matters partner's recent settlement counter-offer to the IRS ($8 million in settlement);[14]
- (III) the mid-point amount between a complete reversal (see I above) and the full 2008 Adjustment (see V below) ($83,166,357 of IRS income adjustment to HCMLP);
- (IV) the IRS's recent settlement offer ($129,528,078 of IRS income adjustment to HCMLP), and
- (V) the full IRS proposed 2008 Adjustment from the 2008 Tax Year Audit ($166,332,713 of IRS income adjustment to HCMLP).

Highland Ex. 65; Trial Tr. at 50:4-13; 58:4-59:21.

2. Daugherty's Percentage Interest in the Highland Limited Partnership

77. The next input in the methodology is Daugherty's interest in the Highland limited partnership. Relying on the Final K-1 (Highland Ex. 14) and the IRS Form 886-Z (Highland Ex. 17), Klos used 0.7403% as Daugherty's allocable share of Highland's limited partnership interests as of December 31, 2008. Highland Ex. 65; Trial Tr. at 50:14-51:6.

78. While acknowledging that Klos relied on the percentage interest that Daugherty used to obtain his tax refund (Trial Tr. at 116:3-20), Liles-Tims nevertheless suggested that the Daugherty believed Highland unfairly presented its evidence concerning the estimation of the Reserved Claim, it could have and should have sought an adjournment or other relief.

[13] The variance in penalty percentage rates simply reflected that certain of the settlement offers had included waiver of the penalty, so were 0% and not applicable in those instances.

[14] See Highland Ex. 22. The tax matters partner's offer was for a single payment of $8 million to resolve all liability for all former limited partners. Calculation of Daugherty's share would be $8 million times his partnership share of 0.7403%. While it is unclear from the offer whether liability for such a payment would or could be allocated amongst the partners, including Daugherty, Highland's estimate under this scenario assumed that Daugherty would pay his ratable 0.7403% share. Trial Tr. at 84:3-21.

percentage interest somehow remained uncertain. Upon cross-examination, however, Liles-Tims was forced to admit that based on the information he reviewed, there was only one other possible alternative to the partnership percentage used in the Final K-1 and Form 886-Z: 0.783%, a percentage taken from a prior Highland limited partnership agreement that was not used by Daugherty in his 2008 1040 or 2008 1045 or by the IRS. Trial Tr. at 157:18-162:4; Highland Ex. 10 at Ex. A.

79. Based on IRS Forms 886-Z (Highland Ex. 17) and 870-PT (Highland Ex. 18), it is clear that the IRS applied 0.7403% as Daugherty's percentage interest in the partnership both for purposes of allocating his share of the proposed HCMLP 2008 Adjustment and for purposes of providing Daugherty with an opportunity to settle the audit dispute as it pertains to his partnership interest. The Court finds as a matter of fact that adopting the percentage used in the Final K-1 given to Daugherty and reported to the IRS in 2009 and used in IRS Form 886-Z (i.e., 0.7403%) in 2018 is appropriate to use for claim estimation purposes.

3. 2008 Applicable Tax Rate

80. After multiplying the adjustment by Daugherty's percentage partnership interest in Highland (Trial Tr. at 51:13-17; 116:21-117:3), the next step in the agreed-upon methodology is to multiply that product by the personal income tax rate in effect in 2008. Highland Ex. 65.

81. Klos testified that the highest federal income tax rate for individuals in 2008 was 35%, and he used that rate to be conservative. Trial Tr. at 51:18-52:3, 84:5-17. Liles-Tims agreed that 35% was the highest federal income tax bracket in 2008. Id. at 117:4-23; 162:17-163:15; 173:2-17.

82. Based on the foregoing, the Court finds as a matter of fact that, while a lower rate may ultimately be applicable in Daugherty's particular circumstances, applying a 35% federal income tax rate is appropriate for claims estimation purposes.

4. Statutory Penalty

83. After quantifying the tax underpayment for Daugherty under the five scenarios, the next step in the agreed-upon methodology is to determine the applicable penalty to be included in the estimated claim, if any.[15]

84. According to Klos, under the applicable IRS statute and the IRS's proposed adjustments from the audit, Daugherty would face a one-time 20% penalty. Trial Tr. at 52:18-53:2; Highland Ex. 65 (Statutory Penalties). But Klos testified that no penalty would be imposed under scenarios I, II, or IV because (a) there would be no penalty if the audit was reversed (scenario I), and (b) the tax matters partner's and the IRS's settlement offers did not include a penalty component. Klos applied the 20% penalty to scenario V and a 10% penalty (the simple mid-point of 0% and the 20% statutory penalty) to scenario III. See Trial Tr. at 53:3-22, 55:19-23.

85. Liles-Tims (a) acknowledged that Klos relied on the right statute to determine any applicable penalty; (b) testified that the penalty could be either 20% or 30%; (c) suggested that the 30% penalty rate applies to corporations, not limited partnerships such as Highland; (d) suggested that the 30% penalty rate applies to "reported transactions", which the proposed adjustments by the IRS are not; (e) admitted that he had no opinion as to which penalty rate to use; and (f) otherwise deferred to the Court on this issue. Trial Tr. at 122:15-123:24; 126:19-127:6; 128:9-10; 163:19-164:9; 169:16-23.

86. Based on the foregoing, including that Highland was not a corporation in 2008, the Court finds as a matter of fact that using a 20% penalty rate is appropriate for claim estimation purposes (except that if the Court ultimately estimates the claim based on the IRS settlement offer or the tax matters partner's settlement offer, then a 0% penalty rate would be appropriate in those instances, since those settlement offers explicitly excluded the application of any penalty).

5. Interest Rate

87. Klos and Liles-Tims agreed that the IRS is authorized to impose interest on tax payment deficiencies.[16]

88. According to Klos, the applicable statutory blended interest rate to be applied is 4.59%. This rate is based on the average applicable statutory rate over the interest period (described below), updated quarterly and compounded daily. Trial Tr. at 55:25-56:8; Highland Ex. 65 n.3. The historical rates that were used in the blended rate calculation and referred to in the demonstrative footnote can further be found at Highland Ex. 29 at 10-12 (with applicable rates at 11). The simple average of the historical applicable rates described above during the interest accrual period was approximately 3.8%, and the effect of the daily compounding added approximately 0.8% in the aggregate. See Highland Ex. 65 n. 3.

89. Liles-Tims admitted that (a) Klos relied on the same statutes cited in his own report and (b) he did not personally calculate the applicable interest rate. Yet, Liles-Tims mistakenly testified that Klos erred by not compounding interest daily, apparently overlooking Klos' contrary testimony. Highland Ex. 29; Highland Ex. 65 n. 3; Trial Tr. at 119:19-120:9; 128:11-21; 164:10-165:7.

90. Because Liles-Tims agreed that Klos relied on the appropriate statute, and because Klos correctly compounded interest daily, the Court finds as a matter of fact that utilizing a statutory blended interest rate of 4.59% to be reasonable for claims estimation purposes.

6. Time Outstanding (years)

91. The last input in the agreed-upon methodology is determining the length of time interest, if any, would be imposed.[17]

92. Liles-Tims agreed with Klos' determination that the period of time from the tax payment date (i.e., April 15, 2009) through Highland's petition date (i.e., October 16, 2019) equaled 10.51 years. Trial Tr. at 56:9-18; 120:10-122:3; 154:23-155:8; 165:8-12; Highland Ex. 65.

93. As set forth above, the Reserved Claim is a general unsecured claim; as such, the claim amount cannot and does not include unmatured, post-petition interest. 11 U.S.C. § 502(b)(2). Based on that, and to the extent that the Court finds that pre-petition interest should be included in the estimated claim amount, the Court finds as a matter of fact that there is no dispute that the period of time to be used to calculate pre-petition interest, if any, is 10.51 years.

7. Summary of Potential Claim Estimates

[17] This input is only relevant if the Court finds that an estimation of Daugherty's allowed claim requires the inclusion of interest. If the Court finds that (a) Highland was not responsible for interest under the Compensation Statement or (b) even if it was, (i) Daugherty assumed the risk that interest might be imposed when he elected to reject the IRS's settlement offer in early 2018; or (ii) such interest is completely mitigated by the investment return Daugherty should have been able to reasonably achieve on the 2008 Refund, then interest is irrelevant and should be ignored for purposes of estimating the claim.

94. Applying the findings of fact above to the agreed-upon methodology yields the following estimates of the Reserved Claim under the five scenarios:

Scenario	Estimated Claim amount if Highland is either not responsible for penalties or interest, or is responsible, but mitigated by investment return	Estimated Claim amount if Highland responsible for penalties and interest and no offset for mitigating damages
Scenario 1 (audit reversal)	$0	$0
Scenario 2 (tax matters partner settlement counter-offer)	$59,224	$59,224 (same because the counter-offer had no penalties or interest)
Scenario 3 (mid-point amount)	$215,488	$340,897
Scenario 4 (IRS settlement offer)	$335,614	$497,371
Scenario 5 (IRS adjustments)	$430,976	$724,892

Highland Ex. 65; see Trial Tr. at 58:4-60:8.

G. Highland's Performance Under the Books and Records Provision in the Settlement Agreement

95. The Settlement Agreement required Highland to "transfer its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty. Such transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system. Such transfer will be without representation or warranty of any type …. Such transfer will be without any liability or material cost to HCMLP or its affiliates …." Highland Ex. 5 ¶ 8; Daugherty Ex. 3 ¶8.

96. On or about April 1, 2022, Highland transferred its interests in HERA and ERA, respectively, to Daugherty pursuant to written agreements (the "Transfer Agreements"). Highland Ex. 52; Trial Tr. at 190:10-15.

97. HERA and ERA were non-operating entities whose purpose was to passively hold certain assets after the 2008 financial crisis for the benefit of certain Highland employees. Neither HERA nor ERA had any employees, offices, operations, servers, or email addresses. Trial Tr. at 183:4-185:25.

98. The phrase "books and records" is not expressly defined in the Settlement Agreement. Seery credibly testified that, when read as a whole, the Books and Records Provision was intended to require Highland to deliver a limited set of documents to Daugherty. Trial Tr. at 186:24-189:8. He also testified that the parenthetical "(spreadsheet)" referred to the manner in which HERA and ERA's accounting records were maintained (in QuickBooks, an electronic format that generates output to users in Microsoft Excel), and how they would be provided to Daugherty. Trial Tr. at 189:9-25.

99. Daugherty provided no extrinsic evidence concerning the meaning of the phrase "books and records (spreadsheet)" at time the Settlement Agreement was negotiated. Daugherty admitted that the Books and Records Provision does not require Highland to provide all documents concerning HERA and ERA in its possession. Trial Tr. at 263:3-6. Daugherty also acknowledged that Highland had cooperated in good faith to deliver additional documents at his request. Trial Tr. at 271:17-272:7.

100. Daugherty never sought relief from this Court concerning Highland's compliance with the Books and Records Provision at any time before filing his Counterclaims on October 3, 2025, including at any time before commencing his action in the District Court on HERA's behalf. Trial Tr. at 277:12-17.

101. Seery credibly testified that in May 2022, Highland delivered over 50 mb of data to Daugherty in satisfaction of the Books and Records Provision (the "May Production"). Trial

Tr. at 193:16-194:4; Highland Ex. 2. The May Production contained all of HERA and ERA's (a) corporate governance records, (b) historical accounting records, and (c) historical tax filings. Trial Tr. at 192:6-21, 193:4-11; Highland Ex. 2. In the transmittal letter with the May Production, Daugherty was told: "We believe this production completes HCMLP's obligations under paragraph 8 of the settlement agreement." Highland Ex. 2.

102. Klos credibly testified that Highland also provided all the legal invoices it could locate, some 300. Trial Tr. at 81:6-11.

103. After Highland completed the May Production (which it contended satisfied its obligations under the Books and Records Provision), Daugherty requested backup documents for the materials already produced. In response, Highland re-produced the May Production as well as "as many backup documents as [David Klos] could find." Trial Tr. at 194:5-19. Highland provided those documents (including the legal invoices) to Daugherty, identifying them in an email dated October 19, 2022 (the "October Production," and together with the May Production, "Highland's Books and Records Production"). Highland Ex. 3; Trial Tr. 80:16-81:11.

104. Daugherty's Counterclaims failed to identify specific documents or categories of HERA and ERA's "books and records" that he contends Highland did not provide. See Highland Ex. 1. In fact, in his Counterclaims, Daugherty demanded "Highland's books and records related to HERA." Highland Ex. 1 ¶ 14 (emphasis added). The Daugherty Trial Brief also describes documents that plainly go beyond any reasonable interpretation of the phrase "the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system," claiming:

- Highland failed to provide "books and records . . . that related to HERA and ERA." Daugherty Trial Brief ¶ 1 (emphasis added);
- Daugherty is entitled to "all ownership rights, property, data, documents, and records relating to HERA and ERA." Id. ¶ 25 (emphasis added);

- Daugherty needs "all HERA and ERA materials in Highland's possession." Id. ¶ 27 (emphasis added); and
- Daugherty "must receive everything Highland possessed relating to those entities." Id. (emphasis added).

IV. DETERMINATION OF CONTESTED ISSUES OF FACT AND LAW

A. The Party with the Ultimate Burden of Proof on Each Cause of Action and Defining Those Burdens

105. Under 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), a "claim ..., proof of which is filed under section 501 [of the Bankruptcy Code], is deemed allowed, unless a party in interest ... objects." 11 U.S.C. § 502(a). The ultimate burden of proof for a claim always lies with the claimant. In re Armstrong, 347 B.R. 581, 583 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2006) (citing Raleigh v. Ill. Dep't of Rev., 530 U.S. 15 (2000)); see also In re Couture Hotel Corp., 554 B.R.369, 380 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2016). Thus, Daugherty has the ultimate burden of proof with respect to the allowance and amount of his Reserved Claim.

106. Daugherty also has the ultimate burden of proof with respect to each of his Counterclaims. Couture Hotel, 554 B.R. at 380.

B. The Compensation Statement Is Not a Binding and Enforceable Contract (Mixed Question of Law and Fact)

107. The Compensation Statement is unenforceable as a contract because it is vague and indefinite and is missing material terms required to form a contract. See APS Cap. Corp. v. Mesa Air Grp., Inc., 580 F.3d 265, 272-73 (5th Cir. 2009).

108. The Compensation Statement does not constitute an offer by Highland and acceptance by Daugherty, who was an "at will" employee with an Employment Agreement; rather, it is simply a summary of what Highland had or was going to pay Daugherty for services already rendered during the prior year and a reiteration of his base salary for the next year.

109. As relevant here, the alleged agreement is contained in three sentences that state only: "Refund is an estimated amount. If actual refund deviates materially from estimate, other compensation will be fairly adjusted. Refund is expected to be received in approximately 4 months." Highland Ex. 13 (emphases added).

110. The Compensation Agreement provides no guidance to the parties or the Court as to (a) what "materially" means for this purpose; (b) how "other compensation" might be adjusted; (c) how the "fair[ness]" of an adjustment will be assessed; (d) who will make the determinations as to (i) whether the "actual refund deviates materially from estimate," (ii) what compensation would be adjusted, or (iii) how such compensation would be "fairly adjusted"; or (e) when all of this was supposed to happen.

111. Under Texas law, an alleged contract that fails to address all essential and material terms with a reasonable degree of certainty and definiteness is unenforceable as a matter of law. See APS Cap. Corp., 580 F.3d at 272 ("In order to be a legally enforceable contract, an agreement must be formed around the contours of sufficiently specific terms."). Material terms "are those that the parties would reasonably regard as vitally important elements of their bargain," and "a contract must define its essential terms with enough precision to enable the court to determine the obligations of the parties." In re ACM-Tex., Inc., 430 B.R. 371, 408 (Bankr. W.D. Tex. 2010); see also Wesdem, LLC v. Ill. Tool Works Inc., 2022 WL 18585978, at *4 (W.D. Tex. July 28, 2022), aff'd sub nom., 70 F.4th 285 (5th Cir. 2023) ("Where the agreement is so indefinite that the Court must 'speculate' about its terms, the contract fails 'as a matter of law.'" (quoting RealPage, Inc. v. EPS, Inc., 560 F. Supp. 2d 539, 547 (E.D. Tex. 2007))); Coppock v. Doug's Corner, Inc., No. 5:21-CV-43-RWS-JBB, 2023 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 242726, at *10 (E.D. Tex. May 17, 2023) (noting that "the agreement's terms must also be sufficiently definite to 'enable a court to understand the parties' obligations' and to give 'an appropriate remedy' if they are breached.") (quoting Fischer v. CTMI, L.L.C., 479 S.W.3d 231, 237 (Tex. 2016)).

112. "As a general matter, Texas courts have consistently held that a contract may be held void for indefiniteness if it fails to specify 'the time of performance, the price to be paid, the work to be done, the service to be rendered, or the property to be transferred.'" Liberto v. D.F. Stauffer Biscuit Co., 441 F.3d 318, 324 (5th Cir. 2006) (quoting Engelman Irr. Dist. v. Shields Bros., 960 S.W.2d 343, 352 (Tex. App. 1997)). "The question of indefiniteness—whether an agreement reaches all essential terms of a given transaction—is one of law for the court." APS Cap. Corp., 580 F.3d at 271 (citing COC Svcs., Ltd. v. CompUSA, Inc., 150 S.W.3d 654, 664 (Tex. App. 2004)).

113. Here, under Texas law, the Compensation Statement either contains vague or indefinite terms, or omits material terms, that render it unenforceable as a contract.

114. First, the 2008 tax refund is explicitly stated to be an "estimated" amount. While unstated, the refund could only come from the IRS (as the taxing authority), not Highland. But the amount is unclear; it is merely "estimated" because a tax refund to an individual can only be determined after that individual files his/her tax return and all of the individual's particularized tax attributes are taken into consideration.[18] While Highland could estimate the amount of losses it would pass through to Daugherty as a limited partner, and could therefore estimate the potential tax refund of prior taxes paid on a previous year's partnership income, it could not definitively set forth the amount of the refund Daugherty would get from the IRS. Accordingly, the prospective amount of the refund was an estimate—and "estimates" are, by definition, uncertain.

[18] This would include things like other sources of income, unrelated capital gains and losses from investments, unrelated K-1s from other partnerships, spousal income, estimated tax payments the individual or their spouse made during the year, individual itemized deductions, and a litany of others. Each of these factors can impact an individual's refund or tax owed each year, and no evidence was adduced demonstrating that Highland had visibility into all the factors impacting Daugherty's return.

115. Second, as used in the Compensation Statement, the word "materially" is vague and ambiguous. To create an enforceable obligation, the Court would have to determine, among other things, whether the actual refund Daugherty received from the IRS "deviate[s] "materially" from [the] estimate." Here, the estimate was $1,475,816 (Highland Ex. 13) and the Received Refund was $1,273,930 (JPO ¶ 12), a $201,886 difference. But, as contemporaneous evidence shows, the Compensation Statement estimate was not an estimate of the cash refund that Daugherty could expect, but rather an estimate of the derivative pre-tax equivalent of such a refund. Highland Exs. 39 and 47. In other words, the amount reflected on the Compensation Statement was a "grossed-up" amount of his estimated cash refund of $959,280 to reflect what the refund would effectively be to Daugherty on an "apples-to-apples" basis with other pre-tax compensation amounts. Highland Ex. 47.[19] On that basis, Daugherty received an actual refund greater than the Compensation Statement estimate. Because the language is vague and ambiguous, there is simply no objective way for the Court to determine whether the Received Refund deviates materially from the grossed-up estimate on the Compensation Statement.

116. Third, the phrase "other compensation" is also vague and ambiguous because it had many potential permutations at the time. The Compensation Statement proves the point as it identifies myriad forms of "Earnings and Awards" and "Highland Paid Benefits" that comprise the "Total Compensation Package" that Daugherty received for services he provided to Highland in 2008, including: (a) base salary, (b) tax refund, (c) loan forgiveness, (d) other awards (including a 401(k) match and a "defined benefit"), and (e) deferred compensation.[20] In all, as reflected on the Compensation Statement, Daugherty was compensated 13 different ways in 2008 alone. Daugherty introduced no evidence as to how the parties intended to revise his compensation to make any adjustment, assuming one was needed, and the Compensation Statement provides no guidance for the Court to pick.

117. Fourth, the phrase "fairly adjusted" is another subjective term susceptible to differing meanings. Indeed, based on the testimony by Daugherty about Highland's financial circumstances in early 2009, it is hard to imagine that Daugherty and Highland would have reached an agreement on what was "fair." And even if they had, based on Daugherty's own testimony as to the constraints Highland's lenders sought to place on Highland, it's unclear what even would have been allowed. Trial Tr. 294:24-295:20. Nevertheless, had the parties intended to reach a binding agreement, they surely would have done so. To create an enforceable agreement, the Court would have to identify on its own what amount would have been deemed "fair" by the parties in February 2009. Daugherty did not offer any testimony or documentary evidence concerning the meaning of "fairly adjusted."

118. Finally, the Compensation Statement omits numerous material terms.[21] For example, the Compensation Statement does not (a) mention what happens if an actual tax refund is received by Daugherty (as it was) but that refund is subject to potential recovery by the IRS (as it always is); (b) reference or even consider the possibility of an audit of Highland or Daugherty; (c) provide for what would happen in the event of an audit adjustment affecting Highland or Daugherty; (d) include any timeframe or due date for any potential adjustment of "other compensation"; (e) state that Highland would "adjust other compensation" to account for any interest or penalties arising in connection with any unconsidered audit; (f) state that Highland would "make Daugherty whole" if any portion of the refund was clawed back after the unconsidered audit; (g) state that any obligation Highland purportedly had would continue indefinitely, even after Daugherty voluntarily resigned from Highland (as he did); or (h) contain the words "indemnify," "reimburse," "cover," "back-stop," or any word or phrase of similar import. Contemporaneous evidence actually contradicts Daugherty's theory of endless indemnification: Tax refunds "are not guaranteed, as the IRS still has the authority to audit our claimed losses and resulting refunds due." Highland Ex. 47; see also Trial Tr. 296:15-17 (Daugherty: "I was very concerned about blow-back for the IRS, which was definitely going to get, in my opinion, their attention."). It is undisputed that Highland did not (i) even file its 2008 partnership return until nearly seven months after giving Daugherty the Compensation Statement (see JPO ¶ 40; Daugherty Ex. 57 at 159:10-15; Daugherty Ex. 24), and (ii) learn that the 2008 partnership return was selected for an IRS audit until March 2010. Highland Ex. 64 (IRS Notice of Beginning of Administrative Proceeding, dated March 3, 2010).

[20] Highland Ex. 13. The Compensation Statement also ascribes value to paid benefits as part of Daugherty's "total compensation package", including benefits like life insurance, disability insurance, executive long-term disability, daily catered lunches, "Blackberry" charges, and paid parking.

[21] Daugherty's allegation that the Compensation Statement contained some sort of make-whole is aspirational at best. Daugherty testified that in 2009, Highland was in financial extremis and did not have the wherewithal to make any cash bonus payment, but instead used the 2008 Tax Refund Amount as an alternative to a cash bonus. Trial Tr. at 294:15-295:20. If Highland lacked the resources to make payment at the time, it could not have made a reliable promise to make payment in an unknown amount at some contingent, uncertain, future time. Indeed, at trial, the most Daugherty could come up with to support his vague, ambiguous, and unspecific make-whole contention was "[Dondero] said, I'll take care of you. I'll make it up to you. Not just me, but others." Trial Tr. 296:21-22.

119. In sum, the Compensation Statement is not an enforceable contract as a matter of law because essential terms to form an agreement are either vague, indefinite, or missing. For this reason alone, the Claim should be disallowed.

C. If Highland Had Obligations Under the Compensation Statement, They Were Fulfilled

120. Even if the Court deemed the unsigned Compensation Statement to be an enforceable contract, Highland satisfied any obligations it may have had because Daugherty actually received a tax refund from the IRS based on partnership losses passed to him and reflected in the Draft K-1. JPO ¶12; Daugherty Ex. 26 (Draft K-1). The losses passed through to Daugherty as reflected on the Draft K-1 were further validated by the Final K-1 for 2008 that was provided in September 2009 and was materially consistent with the Draft K-1. Daugherty Ex. 26; Daugherty Ex. 24 (Final K-1). Specifically, as reflected on his Final K-1, Daugherty was allocated ordinary business losses by Highland in excess of $4 million, along with other losses that well exceeded the Highland partnership income allocated to Daugherty from 2005-2008. Thus, Highland generated and passed through to Daugherty even more losses than what was originally estimated in the Compensation Statement, which resulted in a greater "after-tax" refund for Daugherty than estimated. In other words, the allocation to Daugherty of over $4 million of actual losses from 2008 reflected in the Final K-1 delivered in 2009, when tax-effected at 35%, generated an even larger refund than was originally estimated and formed the basis of the amount referenced in the Compensation Statement[22].

121. When Daugherty voluntarily terminated his employment with Highland in October 2011 without signing and returning the form of separation agreement attached as Exhibit A (or any other severance agreement), Highland was—pursuant to the express terms of his Employment Agreement—relieved of any "further liability or obligation to [Daugherty] under [the Employment Agreement] or in connection with his/her employment of termination." Highland Ex. 11 § 4.5.

122. Highland, therefore, fully satisfied any obligations it might have had under the Compensation Statement when Daugherty got the Received Refund, and the Employment Agreement cut off any right he may have had to additional amounts.

123. Daugherty voluntarily resigned from Highland on September 28, 2011, and his employment terminated on October 31, 2011. Daugherty Ex. 15. Daugherty concedes that the 2008 Tax Refund that he received from Highland was part of his discretionary bonus under the Employment Agreement. Trial Tr. at 300:24-301:1 Daugherty forfeited any right he may have had to a bonus under the Compensation Statement (to the extent he had any) when he voluntarily terminated his employment at Highland.

124. The Employment Agreement states that Daugherty must be employed at the time of payment in order to be eligible for a bonus payment. Section 3.1 of the Employment Agreement provides:

> Salary and Bonus. The annual salary (the "Base Salary") payable to the Executive during the term of this Agreement shall be an amount determined by the Company (in its sole discretion) and communicated in writing to the Executive, and will be subject to annual review pursuant to the Company's normal review policy for other similarly situated executives of the Company. Any increase in salary shall be based upon the Executive's performance and shall be determined by the Company in its sole discretion. In addition, the Company may from time to time award bonuses to the Executive based on such criteria as the Company may establish in its discretion. Any such bonus, unless specifically stated otherwise, will be paid in three (3) equal installments and is not earned or accrued until each payment date. The Executive must be employed on the payment date(s) in order to be eligible for the bonus. The payment of salary and bonuses shall be subject to all federal, state and withholding taxes, social security deductions and other general obligations. Furthermore, the designation of the Executive's compensation does not constitute a guarantee of employment for any specific period of time.

Highland Ex. 11 § 3.1(a) (emphases added).

125. Daugherty terminated his employment at Highland and therefore was no longer eligible for any additional bonus payment under the Employment Agreement after termination. Daugherty admitted this in writing 15 years ago—literally the day before he resigned in 2011.

Highland Ex. 38 ("I would have to be employed at Highland in order to get any payment of bonus (as has always been the case).").

126. Likewise, as noted above, Section 4.5 of the Employment Agreement addresses Highland's liability to Daugherty in the event Daugherty voluntarily terminates his employment and does not take up work with a "competing business":

> In the event that [Daugherty] terminates his/her Continuous Status as an Executive hereunder and within one (1) year thereafter [Daugherty] is not employed by a Competing Business, [Highland] shall have no further liability or obligation to [Daugherty] under this Agreement or in connection with his/her employment hereunder, except for (i) any unpaid Base Salary accrued through the date of termination, (ii) any accrued but unused vacation time, (iii) any amounts or rights to which [Daugherty] is entitled under any other written agreement with [Highland], (iv) any unreimbursed expenses properly incurred prior to the date of termination, and (v) severance pay equal to the product of
> (a) two (2) weeks Base Salary … multiplied by (b) the number of [years of service]… [total severance not to exceed six weeks of Base Salary]... [Daugherty] acknowledges that [Highland's] obligation to pay severance, if any, will arise only … if [Daugherty] signs and returns a duly executed separation agreement and release substantially in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A….In the event that [Daugherty] declines to sign the separation agreement and release, he/she shall not be entitled to any severance, and [Highland] will have no further liability or obligation to [Daugherty] under this Agreement or in connection with his/her employment or termination.

Highland Ex. 11 at § 4.5 (emphasis added).

127. Daugherty did not sign the separation and release form and deliver it to Highland and instead elected to counter-sue Highland under the Employment Agreement (and lost against Highland). See Highland Ex. 44. Any right Daugherty may have had under the Compensation Statement for any additional consideration terminated with his employment, including his claim for unlimited indemnity or adjustment of other pre-termination compensation.

128. The Court also admitted into evidence an additional document, a form of Separation Agreement, that Daugherty refused to sign following his resignation (the "Draft Separation Agreement"). Daugherty Ex. 44 § 3(b)(ii). The Draft Separation Agreement contains, among other things, the very indemnity promise of payment of taxes, interest, and penalties arising from an audit of Highland's tax returns (the "Rejected Indemnity") that Daugherty now claims is implicitly included in the Compensation Statement. The evidence established that in October 2011, when Daugherty was presented with the Draft Separation Agreement, the IRS was only auditing Highland's 2008 return. There would have been no reason to include the Rejected Indemnity in the Draft Separation Agreement if the parties believed it was already included in the Compensation Statement and would survive Daugherty's termination. Daugherty's Reserved Claim is disallowed.

D. Daugherty's Reserved Claim Should Be Disallowed (Mixed Question of Law and Fact)

129. For the reasons set out in Section IV.C., supra, Daugherty's Reserved Claim is disallowed.

E. If the Compensation Statement Is an Enforceable Contract, and Highland Has Not Fulfilled Its Obligations Thereunder, Daugherty's Reserved Claim Can Be Estimated in Accordance with Section 502(c) of the Bankruptcy Code (Mixed Question of Law and Fact)

130. If Daugherty's Reserved Claim is allowed, the Court must estimate it under Section 502(c) of the Bankruptcy Code. Under Section 502(c), the Court is required to estimate contingent and unliquidated claims for allowance purposes in the circumstances present here.[23]

[23] Liles-Tims opined that Daugherty's Reserved Claim cannot be estimated until all disputes concerning the 2008 Audit are finally resolved, if then. Trial Tr. at 90:13-91:8. Liles-Tims' opinion cannot be reconciled with Congress' intent as reflected in the plain and unambiguous terms of Section 502(c)—a provision he acknowledges he never considered. See Trial Tr. 89:3-11. Indeed, if Daugherty's expert is right, and Daugherty's Reserved Claim cannot possibly be estimated, then the Reserved Claim should be disallowed as too speculative. The Court is bound to implement the court-approved agreement between Highland and its stakeholders (as reflected in the court-approved Plan and Claimant Trust Agreement) concerning the deadline for the resolution of claims and the commencement of dissolution (i.e., August 11, 2026).

The statute provides: "[t]here shall be estimated for purposes of allowance ... any contingent or unliquidated claim, the fixing or liquidation of which ... would unduly delay the administration of the case. " 11 U.S.C. § 502(c) (emphasis added)

131. "The public policy underlying claims estimation under the Code is to facilitate the timely administration of the case by making an expeditious assessment of the value of certain claims which would otherwise unduly delay administration." In re Perry, 425 B.R. 323, 381 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 2010). Thus, where, as here, both prerequisites are met, the bankruptcy court does not merely have discretion to estimate—it has an affirmative, mandatory duty to do so. The method by which the bankruptcy court estimates a claim under Section 502(c) is within the court's broad discretion. See In re Brints Cotton Mktg., Inc., 737 F.2d 1338, 1341 (5th Cir. 1984) ("A bankruptcy court's estimation of the value of an unliquidated claim, the liquidation of which would unduly delay the proceedings, may be disturbed on appellate review only in the event of an abuse of discretion.").

F. Failure to Estimate Daugherty's Reserved Claim Before August 11, 2026 Would Unduly Delay the Administration of Highland's Bankruptcy Case

132. Daugherty's Claim, which is both contingent and unliquidated, is the type of claim that, if allowed, must be estimated under Section 502(c). As set forth above, the Plan was confirmed in February 2021 and has been effective since August 2021. Under the Sunset Provisions[24] in the Plan, CTA, Confirmation Order, and related extension orders, Highland must resolve all disputed claims, and the Claimant Trust must commence the Dissolution Process, by August 11, 2026. Trial Tr. at 209:6-211:13. The Reserved Claim is the last unresolved claim against Highland's estate. The parties agree that final resolution of the appeal of the 2008 Tax [24] See generally Highland's Motion for an Order Further Extending Duration of Trusts [Bankr. Docket No. 4213] (the "Extension Motion"). This Court granted the Extension Motion and extended the life of the Claimant Trust only until August 11, 2026. Bankr. Docket No. 4298 (the "Extension Order").

Year Audit will not be complete by the court-ordered and Plan-mandated August 11, 2026 deadline to resolve the estate's outstanding claims and commence the Dissolution Process. See Trial Tr. at 173:18-174:1 (Liles-Tims), 209:11-210:3 (Seery). Thus, if the Reserve Claim is not estimated by August 11, 2026, Highland will violate the Confirmation Order and the Extension Order, and the administration of the Bankruptcy Case will be unduly delayed. Accordingly, this Court is required to estimate Daugherty's Claim under Section 502(c).

G. If Daugherty's Reserved Claim Can Be Estimated, How Much Is the Reserved Claim Estimated to Be for Purposes of Allowance?

133. [This section is contingent on the Court's finding that the Reserved Claim should be allowed in an estimated amount.]

134. The Court has sufficient information to apply a reasonable methodology to estimate Daugherty's Reserved Claim. The only inputs subject to estimation are (a) the amount of adjustment to Highland's 2008 partnership return (the "HCMLP Income Adjustment") and (b) whether any penalty or interest should be included. Once the HCMLP Income Adjustment is estimated, the amount of Daugherty's Reserved Claim is determined by a simple arithmetical formula: (a) HCMLP Income Adjustment x Daugherty's 0.7403% interest in the partnership as of the December 31, 2008 x 35% (the maximum personal federal income tax rate as of December 31, 2008). The product of those amounts represents Daugherty's tax underpayment. Then, if the Court determines that a penalty and interest apply, those amounts are added to the underpayment.

135. Highland has advanced five possible amounts for the HCMLP Income Adjustment: (i) the IRS's original determination $166,332,713 at the conclusion of the 2008 Tax Year Audit (see Highland Ex. 65);[25] (ii) the IRS's 2024 $129,528,079 income adjustment offer to the tax matters partner of a discounted settlement (Highland Exs. 21 and 65 n. 8); (iii) Dondero's 2025 $8 million full settlement offer to the IRS (Highland Exs. 22 and 65 n. 6); (iv) a complete reversal of the 2008 Tax Year Audit with $0.00 HCMLP Income Adjustment; or (v) a mid-point hypothetical discounted settlement based on the simple average of the two extremes: 2008 Tax Year Audit income adjustment and a reversal of the 2008 Tax Year Audit with no adjustment. The results are set forth in the demonstrative exhibit, Highland Ex. 65, which was the subject of extensive testimony at trial.

136. In consideration of the testimony concerning the amounts at issue and the state of the tax matters partner's discussions with the IRS, the Court finds that the $83,166,357 mid-point between (a) the $166,332,713 HCMLP Income Adjustment demanded by the 2008 Tax Year Audit and (b) a reversal of the 2008 Tax Year Audit resulting in a $0.00 HCMLP Income Adjustment constitutes a reasonable basis for estimation of the HCMLP Income Adjustment as it is both (i) the mid-point of the lowest and highest outcomes and (ii) close to the mid-point of the known IRS settlement offers and tax-matters partner counter-offer.

137. An estimated $83,166,357 HCMLP Income Adjustment results in an income adjustment to Daugherty of $615,681 (adjustment (x) 0.7403% partnership interest) with a resulting estimated tax underpayment by Daugherty of $215,488 ((adjustment (x) 0.7403%) (x) 35% (the highest marginal federal tax rate in 2009)). The resulting estimated Reserved Claim, without penalty or interest, is therefore $215,488.

138. The Court will not hold Highland liable for any penalties or interest that Daugherty could be required to pay on account of an "underpayment" amount resulting from the HCMLP on its original tax return. The income adjustment, and the subsequent dispute over the adjustment, affect only roughly 30% of the overall losses Highland reported.

Income Adjustment because (a) the Compensation Statement makes no reference to penalties or interest whatsoever, nor does it provide for any indemnification or similar obligations with respect thereto (and in fact, contemporaneous evidence (i.e., the Draft Separation Agreement, including the Rejected Indemnity (Daugherty Ex. 44 § 3(b)(ii))) contradicts such a notion), (b) Daugherty could have mitigated his damages—including avoiding penalties and interest—by accepting the IRS's proposed adjustments pursuant to Form 870-PT (Highland Ex. 18), and (c) the benefit to Daugherty of the use of the Received Refund substantially exceeds any penalties and interest that would have accrued to the Petition Date.

H. Whether Daugherty's Breach of Contract Counterclaim Is Barred by the Statute of Limitations?

139. Upon review of the law cited by Daugherty, Highland respectfully withdraws its affirmative defense based on the statute of limitations.

I. Highland Fulfilled Its Obligations Under the Books and Records Provision (Mixed Question of Law and Fact)

140. Daugherty bears the burden of proof on this claim. In re Neria, No. AP 16-03148, 2022 WL 17254478, at *13 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. Nov. 28, 2022) (Jernigan, J.). The Settlement Agreement contains a Delaware choice of law clause (§ 22). Delaware law therefore controls the Court's interpretation of the Settlement Agreement. Mozido, Inc. v. Papermaster, No. A-16-CA-0675-LY, 2017 WL 8161165, at *10 (W.D. Tex. Aug. 14, 2017) (federal court applies forum choice of law rules; Texas law gives effect to contractual choice of law provisions, so Delaware law as chosen law applied to substantive contract law issues and contract interpretation).

141. While Highland offered documentary and testimonial evidence showing that it satisfied its obligations under the Books and Records Provision, Daugherty failed to specifically identify which "books and records" Highland failed to produce or how Highland otherwise breached the Books and Records Provision—and repeatedly failed to contest Highland's consistent assertions that it had satisfied its obligations under the Books and Records Provision. Daugherty withdrew his claim for damages for breach of the Books and Records Provision and is seeking only specific performance. Trial Tr. at 33:12-16.

142. As set out above, under the Books and Records Provision, Highland agreed to "transfer its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty. Such transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system. Such transfer will be without representation or warranty of any type …. Such transfer will be without any liability or material cost to HCMLP or its affiliates …." Highland Ex. 5 ¶ 8.

143. Daugherty negotiated the Books and Records Provision directly with Highland's Chief Executive Officer, Seery. Daugherty has no recollection about the negotiations of this provision or why the unique phrase "books and records (spreadsheet)" was included. Trial Tr. at 259:17-260:5 (no recollection of meaning of "spreadsheet" or "Highland system"). Seery credibly testified that phrase and accompanying text (a) refers to a specific set of documents and (b) was used to circumscribe the documents Highland would be required to turn over to Daugherty. Trial Tr. at 187:13-189:25.

144. The parties do not disagree that HERA and ERA (a) were shell entities established for the sole purpose of holding limited, passive assets for the benefit of certain then-Highland employees as a compensation vehicle, and (b) never had any of their own employees, offices, servers, email addresses, or operations of any kind. Trial Tr. at 183:17-185:7.

145. On May 5, 2022, shortly after the Court approved the Settlement Agreement, Highland delivered to Daugherty "HERA and ERA books and records" available on Highland's system, together with tax documents, and asserted that, subject only to a final review, it had fulfilled its obligations under the Books and Records Provision. Trial Tr. at 192:6-193:15; Daugherty Ex. 33.

146. On October 19, 2022, in response to Daugherty's further requests for "back up" information, Highland provided additional information concerning HERA and ERA (including invoices backing up virtually all of HERA's historically recorded expenses reflected in the records previously delivered to Daugherty) and reiterated its position that it had "satisfied all of its obligations under the settlement agreement, and our involvement in HERA/ERA (your entities) will be complete." Daugherty Ex. 34; see Trial Tr. at 194:22-196:12. Daugherty admitted that he did not take issue with Highland's position. Trial Tr. at 197:18-22.

147. Daugherty did not raise the issue of "books and records" again until January 30, 2024, when his counsel requested that Highland supplement its document production to include Word, Excel, and PowerPoint documents, email correspondence, and legal communications, among others, all with corresponding metadata, and requesting that Highland employ an outside vendor at its expense to collect and produce the documents. Highland Ex. 53.

148. Klos testified without challenge that Highland had produced all the HERA/ERA legal invoices it could find—over 300—constituting 90% of such invoices. Trial Tr. at 81:6-11.

149. Before Daugherty received a substantive response from Highland, on February 29, 2024, HERA (under Daugherty's control) filed its original complaint against 24 individuals, law firms, and other entities. See Trial Tr. at 198:22-199:13; Highland Ex. 54 (York March 1, 2024 email). A few days later, on March 5, 2024, Highland's counsel responded to the January 30, 2024 letter and stood by Highland's prior statements that it had fulfilled its obligations under the Settlement Agreement. Highland Ex. 54.

150. On May 10, 2024, different counsel for Daugherty again demanded a broad set of documents concerning HERA and ERA that had been demanded on January 30, 2024 and again requested Highland's hiring of an outside vendor. Highland Ex 53. Highland responded promptly and again rejected Daugherty's newest demands, reiterating that it believed that it had fulfilled its obligations under the Books and Records Provision and inviting Daugherty to seek judicial relief to finally bring the matter to a close. Daugherty Ex. 35.

151. Daugherty did not seek judicial resolution at that time, notwithstanding that he had commenced an action in federal district court on behalf of HERA and ERA (the "HERA Action"), knowing that Highland would not produce any further documents concerning those entities. See Highland Ex. 1 ¶¶ 12-13 (Counterclaim). It was only in October 2025, three and a half years after Highland informed him that it had fulfilled its obligations under the Books and Records Provision, that Daugherty finally sought to enforce his claimed rights—and then, only as a counterclaim.

152. The Court finds that Highland fulfilled its obligations and did not breach the Books and Records Provision. As a matter of Delaware law, the Books and Records Provision is not ambiguous, as the term has a defined meaning in Delaware law:

> Unless there is ambiguity, Delaware courts interpret contract terms according to their plain, ordinary meaning. Where a word has attained the status of a term of art and is used in a technical context, the technical meaning is preferred over the common or ordinary meaning. When established legal terminology is used in a legal instrument, a court will presume that the parties intended to use the established legal meaning of the terms. If a writing is plain and clear on its face, i.e., its language conveys an unmistakable meaning, the writing itself is the sole source for gaining an understanding of intent.

153. To that end, the Delaware Court of Chancery has stated that "the meaning of the term 'books and records' can readily be understood through § 18–305 of the LLC Act and through its corporate law and limited partnership law counterparts, 8 Del. C. § 220 and 6 Del. C. § 17–305, respectively."[26] Arbor Place, L.P. v. Encore Opportunity Fund, L.L.C., 2002 Del. Ch. LEXIS 102, at *7 n.3 (Del. Ch. Jan. 29, 2002) (finding tax returns were within the scope of a contractual "books and records" provision).

154. The Delaware Limited Liability Company Act, 6 Del. C. § 18-305(a), generally identifies the statutory base-level books and records that a Delaware LLC must provide to its managers for inspection:

> 1) True and full information regarding the status of the business and financial condition of the limited liability company;
> (2) Promptly after becoming available, a copy of the limited liability company's federal, state and local income tax returns for each year;
> (3) A current list of the name and last known business, residence or mailing address of each member and manager;
> (4) A copy of any written limited liability company agreement and certificate of formation and all amendments thereto, together with executed copies of any written powers of attorney pursuant to which the limited liability company agreement and any certificate and all amendments thereto have been executed;
> (5) True and full information regarding the amount of cash and a description and statement of the agreed value of any other property or services contributed by each member and which each member has agreed to contribute in the future, and the date on which each became a member; and
> (6) Other information regarding the affairs of the limited liability company as is just and reasonable.

[26] 8 Del. C. § 220, the corporate books and records provision, sets out defined categories of corporate financial and governance documents and does not have a "just and reasonable" category. The Delaware Limited Partnership Law books and records provision, 6 Del. C. § 17–305, is substantially similar to the Delaware LLC Law's provision.

155. The Transfer Agreements do not describe any "other information" that Highland was required to provide regarding the affairs of HERA and ERA. Daugherty introduced no evidence that might guide an understanding of "other information" potentially included within the Books and Records Provision. He did not put any purported operating agreements, which might shed some light on the information required to be available to members or managers of the companies, into evidence.

156. Given the established and limited meaning of "books and records" in Delaware law and the absence of evidence that the parties intended to give those words some other meaning, Daugherty's contentions in his trial brief that he is entitled to "all HERA and ERA materials in Highland's possession" and that he "must receive everything Highland possessed relating to those entities," (Daugherty Trial Brief ¶ 27 (emphasis added)), are themselves vague and are otherwise not supported by the Books and Records Provision.

157. Instead, as required, Highland provided HERA and ERA's financial, governance and tax records—indeed, Daugherty does not complain that Highland failed to provide information of the types described in items (1) through (5) of the statute—including (as described above), among other things, HERA/ERA's QuickBooks (i.e., financial) information, governance records, and tax returns.

158. The Court also finds that, at Daugherty's request, Highland provided substantial additional business documents to Daugherty. Daugherty has not proven that the totality of the information Highland provided was not "just and reasonable," particularly in light of the limiting proviso that information would be provided "without liability or material cost" to Highland. In the absence of the parties' agreement as to the inclusion of specific categories of documents beyond the scope of the matters set out in items (1)-(5) of the Delaware LLC Law, and given Highland's provision of extensive information beyond that scope, the Court finds that Daugherty's requests for "all" documents or documents that "related to" HERA and ERA were not "just and reasonable" and Highland was under no obligation to satisfy them. The Court thus finds that Highland did not breach the Books and Records Provision.

J. Daugherty Withdrew His Claim for Attorneys' Fees

159. Daugherty has stated that he has withdrawn his claim for attorneys' fees for claimed violation of the stay provision of the Settlement Agreement "without prejudice" in light of the Court's rulings that this matter could go forward. Trial Tr. at 33:17-34:7.

V. CONCLUSION

160. For the reasons set forth above, the Court concludes as follows:

- [If Claim 205 is disallowed] Highland's First Claim for Relief is granted, and Claim 205 is disallowed;
- [If Claim 205 is not disallowed] Highland's First Claim for Relief is denied, and Claim 205 shall be allowed;
- [If Claim 205 is disallowed] Highland's Second Claim for Relief is dismissed as moot;
- [If Claim 205 is not disallowed] On Highland's Second Claim for Relief, for estimation of Claim 205, the Court estimates Claim 205 in the allowed amount of $[215,488];
- On Highland's Third Claim for Relief, for subordination of Claim 205, that Highland has withdrawn the claim and it is therefore denied;
- On Daugherty's Counterclaim Count I, for a determination that Highland has breached the Books and Records Provision of the Settlement Agreement, that Highland has not breached the Settlement Agreement;
- On Daugherty's Counterclaim Count II, that Daugherty's demand for specific performance of the Books and Records Provision of the Settlement Agreement is denied;
- On Daugherty's Counterclaim Count III, Daugherty's demand for attorneys' fees, that Daugherty has withdrawn the claim and it is therefore denied.

PATRICK HAGAMAN DAUGHERTY,	§

PROPOSED FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW FILED BY DEFENDANT AND COUNTER-PLAINTIFF PATRICK HAGAMAN DAUGHERTY

[1] Highland's last four digits of its taxpayer identification number are (8357). The headquarters and service address for Highland is 100 Crescent Court, Suite 1850, Dallas, TX 75201.

Patrick Hagaman Daugherty ("Daugherty"), Defendant and Counter-Plaintiff in this adversary proceeding, hereby submits these Proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law.

If any finding of fact is in truth a conclusion of law, or if any conclusions stated is in truth a finding of fact, or if any finding or conclusion is a mixed questions of fact and law, it shall be deemed so and adopted as such.

PROPOSED FINDINGS OF FACT

1. Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland") is a Delaware limited partnership that filed a voluntary petition for relief under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code on October 16, 2019. Highland's bankruptcy case is pending in this Court under Case No. 19-34054.

2. On February 22, 2021, the Court entered an order confirming Highland's Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization (the "Plan"). The Plan became effective on August 11, 2021. (PD-09.)

3. Patrick Hagaman Daugherty is a former senior employee of Highland who was hired on April 3, 1998. During his employment, Daugherty became eligible to participate in Highland's long-term incentive plan and became a profits-interest partner of Highland. (Ex. H-13; Trial Tr. at 246:21-247:10.)

4. On February 27, 2009, Highland provided Daugherty with a Comprehensive Compensation and Benefits Statement for calendar year 2008 (the "Compensation Statement" or "2009 Statement"). The Compensation Statement included, as part of Daugherty's "Earnings and Awards," a line item for a "2008 Tax Refund" in the amount of $1,475,816. (Ex. H-13; Trial Tr. at 219:17-20.)

5. The Compensation Statement contained the following language regarding the 2008 Tax Refund: "Refund is an estimated amount. If actual refund deviates materially from estimate, other compensation will be fairly adjusted. Refund is expected to be received in approximately 4 months." (Ex. H-13.)

6. The 2008 Tax Refund was included as part of Daugherty's total "Earnings and Awards" for his service as an employee of Highland during 2008. Highland was unable to pay cash bonuses due to the financial crisis and restrictions imposed by its bank lenders, and instead devised a compensation method through a tax allocation mechanism that would generate a tax refund for senior employees in lieu of a cash bonus. (Trial Tr. at 294:15-295:9.)

7. Daugherty received a tax refund from the IRS on a net basis of approximately $1,157,046 in 2009. (Ex. H-7.)

8. The idea to implement Daugherty's compensation through the tax refund mechanism was not Daugherty's idea. The scheme was devised by James Dondero and Highland's tax personnel. Daugherty testified he would have preferred Highland pay him a cash bonus for 2008. (Trial Tr. at 294:15-23.)

9. In prior Texas state court litigation, Highland used a demonstrative exhibit summarizing Daugherty's compensation that categorized the 2008 Tax Refund under the heading "Bonus." The exhibit listed the identical $1,475,816 amount. James Seery ("Seery"), Highland's current CEO, testified he was not aware of Highland's prior characterization and did not recall seeing the document. (Trial Tr. at 236:13-237:16; Daugherty Ex. 99 (admitted))

10. Seery joined Highland in January 2020 as an independent director. He was not employed at Highland during Daugherty's tenure, was not involved in the preparation of Daugherty's Compensation Statement, and has had no conversations with anyone at Highland about it. He testified he has "no idea" whose idea the tax refund compensation mechanism was. No witness with personal knowledge of the 2008 compensation arrangement testified on behalf of Highland. (Trial Tr. at 177:1-12; id. at 212:1-213:7; id. at 221:15-21.)

11. On October 31, 2011, Daugherty terminated his employment with Highland. (Trial Tr. at 246:22-23; Ex. H-7.)

12. On or around December 8, 2017, IRS field examiners issued a summary report proposing adjustments to Highland's 2008 partnership tax return (the "IRS Proposed Adjustments"). (Ex. H-20.)

13. On February 3, 2018, Highland sent Daugherty a letter enclosing certain IRS forms, advising that the IRS field examiners had proposed an adjustment. Highland advised Daugherty that "no action on your part is required" and that Highland would "handle the closing conference" and "appeal the proposed adjustment to the IRS Appeals Office." (Ex. H-16.)

14. On July 3, 2018, Highland notified Daugherty that a 60-Day Letter had been issued and that Highland would timely appeal the proposed adjustments to the IRS Independent Office of Appeals. Highland again told Daugherty "you do not need to take any action." (Ex. H-19.)

15. On December 23, 2020, Daugherty filed Proof of Claim No. 205. (See Main Bankr. Case No. 19-34054-sgj11 at Doc. No 1533 (authorizing the amended Proof of Claim No. 205, which Daugherty filed on the claims register on December 23, 2020)).

16. On November 21, 2021, Highland and Daugherty executed a Settlement Agreement (the "Settlement Agreement") whereby Daugherty settled his claims against Highland, as more fully set forth in the terms of the Settlement Agreement. The Court entered an order approving the Settlement Agreement on March 8, 2022. The Settlement Agreement resolved all of Daugherty's claims (Claim No. 205) except Daugherty's remaining claim relating to the IRS Audit (the "Reserved Claim"). (Ex. H-5; PD-03.)

17. Under Section 9 of the Settlement Agreement, the parties agreed that "[a]ny litigation by and between the Debtor and Daugherty concerning the validity and amount of the Reserved Claim shall be stayed until the IRS makes a final determination with respect to the IRS Audit Dispute" (the "Stay Provision"). (Ex. H-5 at § 9.)

18. IRS Audit Dispute is a defined term in the Settlement Agreement, meaning "the dispute between the Debtor and the IRS…"

19. Daugherty's Reserved Claim was reserved at an amount of $2,650,353 consisting of the full amount of the 2008 Refund ($1,475,816) plus estimated interest of $1,174,537. This amount was estimated as of October 23, 2020. The Debtor reserved all rights to assert any and all defenses to the Reserved Claim. (Ex. H-5 at § 9; PD-05 at ¶ 9.)

20. On May 2, 2025, Highland filed the present adversary complaint seeking (1) disallowance of the remainder of Claim No. 205, (2) estimation of any allowed portion under 11 U.S.C. § 502(c), or (3) subordination of any allowed portion under 11 U.S.C. § 510(b). (PD-01.)

21. On April 10, 2026, Highland withdrew its third cause of action—subordination under § 510(b)—with prejudice through the parties' proposed joint pretrial order. [Doc. 100 at p. 19-20]. On April 13, 2026, the Court entered the parties' joint pretrial, including Highland's withdrawal of its subordination claim with prejudice. [Doc. 101 at p. 19-20].

22. On July 13, 2021, Strand Advisors, Inc., the Tax Matters Partner for Highland, notified Daugherty that the IRS Appeals Office had scheduled an Appeals hearing for September 14-16, 2021. (Expert Report of Liles-Tims at ¶ 21.)

23. On May 31, 2024, Highland's Tax Matters Partner submitted a counteroffer to the IRS Office of Appeals as part of mediation procedures, confirming continued active dispute of the IRS Audit. (Expert Report of Liles-Tims at ¶ 24.)

24. On June 26, 2024, Highland's Tax Matters Partner met with the IRS Office of Appeals team to further discuss settlement positions and narrow outstanding issues. (Expert Report of Liles-Tims at ¶ 25.)

25. On February 28, 2025, Highland's Tax Matters Partner's counsel submitted a revised settlement counteroffer to the IRS Office of Appeals and renewed its request for post-Appeals mediation, confirming that no final IRS determination had yet been made. (Expert Report of Liles-Tims at ¶ 26.)

26. As of April 16, 2026, the date of the final hearing in this adversary proceeding, Daugherty has received no notice of a final settlement or resolution of the IRS Audit.

27. As of the date of final hearing in this adversary proceeding, it is unknown when, if, or how the 2008 IRS Audit will be finally resolved.

28. Before the Plan's effective date, Highland's independent board—including Seery—controlled Strand Advisors and had the legal authority to resolve the IRS audit dispute. Highland chose not to accept or settle the IRS' proposed adjustments. Seery testified that Highland "certainly would have been sued by Mr. Dondero" and that he did not think Highland "ever thought of" accepting the audit result. After the effective date, control of Strand reverted to Dondero. Daugherty has never had authority to resolve the IRS audit at the partnership level. (Trial Tr. at 227:23-228:19; id. at 244:10-16.)

29. Daugherty's "damage calculation cannot be made until Highland's Tax Matters Partner resolves the IRS Audit" because the audit remains ongoing and unresolved, with no expected timeline for completion. (Trial Tr. at 89:19-23.)

30. Without a final IRS determination, the underlying inputs necessary for a reliable damage calculation do not exist.

31. T.J. Liles-Tims, Daugherty's expert witness, identified the following variables that remain unknown and prevent a reliable estimate: (a) the final adjustment type (income, deductions, etc.); (b) the total partnership adjustment amount; (c) Daugherty's partner allocation percentage for each adjustment item; (d) Daugherty's marginal tax rate at the time of any assessment; (e) the partnership basis impact; (f) the applicability and amount of any penalties; and (g) the amount of interest calculated based on the underpayment amount and time outstanding. (Trial Tr. at 88-90.)

32. Highland has had "no idea" of Daugherty's tax attributes since 2012 and had no knowledge of whether he invested the refund money. (Trial Tr. at 82:22-83:9 (Court: "[…]you have no idea whether he invested that money or what his investments have or haven't done?" Klos: "Correct." Court: "[…]Highland would have no idea what his tax attributes are, whether he has losses or gains or income?" Klos: "…[Y]es, I don't have knowledge of those periods.").)

33. At the November 17, 2020 claim estimation hearing, Highland's own counsel argued that Daugherty's tax claim was "contingent" and that "there is no definite liability to the IRS." The Court agreed that the tax refund claim was "at best, contingent" and declined to allow it for voting purposes. (PD-36 at 17:15-18:5.)

34. Under the Plan and Claimant Trust Agreement, Class 10 and Class 11 interests cannot vest until the Claimant Trustee certifies to the Bankruptcy Court that all holders of Class 8 claims have been paid indefeasibly in full, including all accrued and unpaid post-petition interest at the Federal Judgment Rate from the Petition Date. Daugherty's Reserved Claim is a Class 8 claim entitled to such interest. To date, the Claimant Trustee has not filed a certification that all Class 8 claims have been paid. (PD-09 at p. 44; PD-09 at p. 102 (Plan § 27); PD-10 at § 1.1(h); PD-10 at § 5.1(c).)

35. Seery testified that upon dissolution of the Claimant Trust, residual funds flow to an indemnity trust that Seery solely administers. Once Seery determines no further indemnification obligations exist, remaining funds—approximately $45 million—will be distributed to Hunter Mountain Investment Trust, a Class 11 holder. Daugherty's unresolved Reserved Claim is a Class 8 unsecured claim senior to those Class 10 and Class 11 interests. (Trial Tr. at 241:17-243:11.)

36. Under Section 8 of the Settlement Agreement, Highland agreed to "transfer its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty." The Settlement Agreement further provided that "[s]uch transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system." (Ex. H-5 at § 8; Trial Tr. at 185:8-14.)

37. The stated purpose of the transfer under Section 8 was "[t]o facilitate recovery of such potential claims" belonging to HERA and ERA against persons or entities not released under the Settlement Agreement. (Ex. H-5 at § 8.)

38. Despite repeated demands, Highland has refused to produce all HERA and ERA books and records in its possession. Highland's position is that emails do not constitute "books and records" and that it has fulfilled its obligations. Daugherty and HERA dispute this position. (Trial Tr. at 193:12-194:4.)

39. Neither HERA nor ERA maintains its own email accounts or servers. Rather, all documents and communications related to HERA and ERA are in Highland's possession, custody, or control.

40. HERA is currently engaged in litigation with James Dondero and others in the case styled Highland Employee Retention Assets LLC v. James Dondero, et al., Civil Action No. 3:24-cv-00498-K, pending in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Texas. That litigation centers on Dondero's mismanagement of monetary contributions that Highland made on behalf of its employees into retention vehicles managed by HERA. (Daugherty Counterclaim at ¶ 13.)

41. Daugherty performed and satisfied all obligations that the Settlement Agreement imposed upon him. Highland does not contest Daugherty's full performance of the Settlement Agreement. (Joint Pretrial Order.)

42. On or about October 19, 2022, Highland's counsel communicated that Highland considered its obligations under Section 8 complete, stating: "Upon transmission of the information described above, [Highland] will have satisfied all of its obligations under the settlement agreement, and our involvement in HERA/ERA (your entities) will be complete." Highland nonetheless refused to produce certain documents that Abrams & Bayliss — not Highland — ultimately produced to HERA in connection with HERA's litigation against Dondero, Okada, Ellington, and others. These documents fall within Highland's "interests" in HERA and ERA. (Ex. H-3; Main Bankr. Case No. 19-34054, Doc. No. 4449 at Ex. B, Decl. of P. Daugherty at ¶¶ 2–3; Ex. B-1; Ex. B-2.)

PROPOSED CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

1. The Fifth Circuit has held when analyzing 11 U.S.C. § 502, "a party correctly filing a proof of claim is deemed to have established a prima facie case against the debtor's assets." In re Fid. Holding Co., Ltd., 837 F.2d 696, 698 (5th Cir. 1988). Under Section 502(a) of the Code, a proof of claim filed pursuant to Section 501 "is deemed allowed, unless a party in interest…objections." 11 U.S.C. § 502(a).

2. Upon the filing of an objection, the burden shifts to the debtor as the objecting party. Once the objection is on file, the objecting party must "produce evidence tending to defeat the claim that is of a probative force equal to that of the creditor's proof of claim." In re Simmons, 765 F.2d 547, 552 (5th Cir. 1985). And if the objecting party does not produce sufficient evidence, "the claimant will prevail." In re Fid. Holding Co., Ltd., 837 F.2d at 698. It is, therefore, critical to appreciate that "mere allegations unsupported by evidence are insufficient to rebut the prima facie case." Matter of TransAmerican Natural Gas Corp., 978 F.2d 1409, 1416 (5th Cir. 1992). Only if the objecting party presents sufficient evidence to rebut the claimant's prima facie case does the ultimate burden shift back to the claimant.

3. When the ultimate burden rests with the claimant, the claimant must merely prove the merits of its claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See In re Fid. Holding Co., Ltd., 837 F.2d at 698.

4. The parties do not dispute that Texas law governs Daugherty's Reserved Claim. In Texas, a unilateral contract is "created by the promisor promising a benefit if the promisee performs. The contract becomes enforceable when the promisee performs." Vanegas v. American Energy Services, 302 S.W.3d 299, 302 (Tex. 2009) (citing Plano Surgery Ctr. v. New You Weight Mgmt. Ctr., 265 S.W.3d 496, 503 (Tex. App.—Dallas 2008, no pet.)). In the employment context, a unilateral contract is created when "an employer promises an employee certain benefits in exchange for the employee's performance, and the employee performs." City of Hous. v. Williams, 353 S.W.3d 128, 136 (Tex. 2011). For instance, in Vanegas, the supreme court held that a unilateral contract could be formed when an employer offered to share proceeds of a sale of the company with employees if the employees stayed employed until the sale occurred. 302 S.W.3d at 303. In that case, the supreme court held that "[w]hether the promise was illusory at the time it was made is irrelevant; what matters is whether the promise became enforceable by the time of the breach." Id. (quoting 2 Joseph M. Perillo & Helen Hadjiyannakis Bender, Corbin on Contracts § 6.2 (1995)) ("[U]nilateral contract analysis is applicable to the employer's promise to pay a bonus or pension to an employee in case the latter continues to serve for a stated period.").

5. The Compensation Statement constitutes an enforceable unilateral contract between Highland and Daugherty.

6. It is well-established law in Texas that "instruments pertaining to the same transaction may be read together to ascertain the parties' intent, even if the parties executed the instruments at different times and the instruments do not expressly refer to each other." Fort Worth Indep. Sch. Dist. v. City of Fort Worth, 22 S.W.3d 831, 840 (Tex. 2000) (internal citations omitted); see also Jim Walter Homes, Inc. v. Scheunemann, 668 S.W.2d 324, 327 (Tex. 1984) (same); Jones v. Kelley, 614 S.W.2d 95, 98 (Tex. 1981) (same). "[A] court may determine, as a matter of law, that multiple documents comprise a written contract." Id. (citing Jones, 614 S.W.2d at 98; Miles v. Martin, 321 S.W.2d 62, 65 (Tex. 1959); Braniff Inv. Co. v. Robertson, 81 S.W.2d 45, 47 (Tex. 1935)).

7. The supreme court has stated that together, the documents must define the "essential terms" of the contract, including "'the time of performance, the price to be paid, … [and] the service to be rendered.'" City of Hous., 353 S.W.3d at 139–40 (citing Kirby Lake Dev. Ltd. v. Clear Lake City Water Auth., 320 S.W.3d 829, 838 (Tex. 2010); Liberto v. D.F. Stauffer Biscuit Co., 441 F.3d 318, 324 (5th Cir. 2006)). In the context of employment agreements, "typical essential terms include, among others, 'compensation, duties or responsibilities.'" Id. (citing Martin v. Credit Prot. Ass'n Inc., 793 S.W.2d 667, 669 (Tex. 1990)). Courts applying Texas law must determine whether the referenced documents, read together, "demonstrate a manifestation of [the employer's] intention to be bound to provide [the referenced benefits.]" Parvis-Khyavi v. Alcon Laboratories, Inc., 395 S.W.3d 376, 382 (Tex. App. —Dallas 2013, pet. denied) (citing City of Hous., 353 S.W.3d at 138).

8. Here, the applicable documents between Highland and Daugherty are the Amended Employment Agreement and the Compensation Statement. The Amended Employment Agreement provides, at Article III, subsection (a):

> The annual salary (the "Base Salary") payable to [Daugherty] during the term of this Agreement shall be an amount determined by the Company (in its sole discretion) and communicated in writing to [Daugherty], and will be subject to annual review pursuant to the Company's normal review policy for other similarly situated executives of the Company. Any increase in salary shall be based upon [Daugherty's] performance and shall be determined by the Company in its sole discretion. In addition, the Company may from time to time award bonuses to [Daugherty] based on such criteria as the Company may establish in its discretion. Any such bonus, unless specifically stated otherwise, will be paid in three (3) equal installments and is not earned or accrued until each payment date. [Daugherty] must be employed on the payment date(s) in order to be eligible for the bonus. The payment of salary and bonuses shall be subject to federal, state, and withholding taxes, social security deductions and other general obligations. Furthermore, the designation of [Daugherty's] compensation does not constitute a guarantee of employment for any specified period of time.

(Ex. H-11, p. 4, art. III.1(a) (emphasis in original)). In the Amended Employment Agreement, Highland sets out specific conditions for Daugherty's eligibility for bonus compensation, and the services to be rendered by Daugherty. (See id. at p. 3, art. II.1-2). Additionally, Article 3(a) of the Amended Employment Agreement states that, on an annual basis, Highland was to determine Daugherty's annual salary and bonus compensation for each year and communicate the same "in writing" in the annual Compensation Statement. Thus, the Amended Employment Agreement, read alone, does not establish Highland's "intention to be bound to provide" bonus compensation to Daugherty. Alcon Laboratories, 395 S.W.3d at 382.

9. However, the Compensation Statement, when read in conjunction with the Employment Agreement, established a binding requirement on Highland to guarantee Daugherty the compensation set forth therein, including the 2008 Tax Refund and the promise to "fairly adjust" other compensation if the refund deviated materially from the estimate.

10. Daugherty possesses an allowable claim against Highland. Daugherty's Reserved Claim is properly allowed under 11 U.S.C. § 502(a), as it was timely filed in Proof of Claim No. 205 and is supported by the Compensation Statement's express promise that "[i]f actual refund deviates materially from estimate, other compensation will be fairly adjusted." Highland has failed to carry its burden to demonstrate that the claim should be disallowed. (Ex. H-13; Ex. H-5 at § 9.)

11. Daugherty's tax liability arising from the 2008 IRS Audit of Highland's partnership tax return is uncertain. The IRS has not made a final determination with respect to the audit. Highland's Tax Matters Partner continues to actively negotiate with the IRS Office of Appeals, most recently submitting a revised settlement counteroffer on February 28, 2025. The ultimate amount of any tax liability, including penalties and interest, cannot be determined or reasonably estimated until the audit is resolved.

12. The Court cannot reliably estimate Daugherty's claim under 11 U.S.C. § 502(c) because of the uncertainty surrounding the IRS Audit. Section 502(c) provides that a claim "shall be estimated" only when "the fixing or liquidation of which ... would unduly delay the administration of the case." However, estimation is not appropriate where doing so would result in unreliable speculation rather than a reasonable approximation of the claim's value. See In re Dow Corning Corp., 211 B.R. 545, 562 (Bankr. E.D. Mich. 1997).

13. The failure to estimate Daugherty's claim does not constitute "undue delay" within the meaning of Section 502(c). The Court has recognized that estimation is discretionary, not mandatory, and that courts may refrain from estimating a claim where: (a) the delay would not be "undue"; (b) estimation is not necessary for the plan of reorganization; and (c) estimation would duplicate subsequent proceedings. In re Dow Corning Corp., 211 B.R. at 562–66; In re Continental Airlines, Inc., 57 B.R. 842, 844 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 1985).

14. The equities weigh in favor of leaving Daugherty's Reserved Claim open until the IRS concludes its audit. If the Court were to estimate Daugherty's claim and that estimated value were less than Daugherty's actual liability as a result of the IRS audit, Daugherty would be without recourse against Highland for money he is owed. As an individual taxpayer with potentially millions of dollars at stake, a premature estimation would be substantially prejudicial to Daugherty.

15. The Stay Provision in the Settlement Agreement provides that litigation concerning the Reserved Claim "shall be stayed until the IRS makes a final determination with respect to the IRS Audit Dispute." The IRS has not made a final determination. While the Court struck the Stay Provision under Rule 60(b)(6), this does not eliminate the underlying equitable considerations that favor deferring estimation until a final determination exists.

16. Daugherty's Class 8 claim accrues post-petition interest at the Federal Judgment Rate under the Plan and Claimant Trust Agreement. Any estimation that fails to account for accruing interest as a result of the IRS Audit—and thus accruing liability to Daugherty depending on the ultimate resolution of the IRS Audit—understates Highland's obligation and overstates the residual available for Class 10 and Class 11 interest holders—including Hunter Mountain Investment Trust—cannot vest until such interest is paid. Any estimation that fails to account for accruing interest understates Highland's obligation, overstates the residual available for distribution, and contravenes the confirmed Plan's distribution waterfall. (PD-09 at p. 44; PD-10 at §§ 1.1(h), 5.1(b)-(c).)

17. Highland had the legal authority to resolve the IRS audit through its control of Strand Advisors before the Plan's effective date but chose not to do so. Highland cannot create uncertainty through its own inaction and then invoke that uncertainty to compel premature estimation to Daugherty's detriment.

18. The distribution waterfall further supports the inequity of premature estimation. If Daugherty's Class 8 claim is underestimated, the difference inures to the benefit of Class 10 and Class 11 interest holders—specifically Hunter Mountain Investment Trust, controlled by Dondero—through residual distributions from the indemnity trust that Seery solely administers. Estimation thus risks transferring value from a senior unsecured creditor to subordinated interests controlled by the individual whose decisions as tax matters partner perpetuate the very uncertainty Highland invokes.

19. Highland breached the Settlement Agreement by failing to transfer all of its "interests" in HERA and ERA to Daugherty, including the full scope of books and records. The Settlement Agreement required Highland to "transfer its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty" and stated that "[s]uch transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system." (Ex. H-5, § 8).

20. The term "interests" referenced above is a broad and undefined term encompassing all ownership rights, property, data, documents, and records, including emails, relating to HERA and ERA. The word "include" signals that books and records are one component of the broader "interests" being transferred, not the only thing being transferred. Courts will enforce the plain, ordinary meaning of clear and unambiguous language. See generally Vill. Practice Mgmt. Co. LLC v. West, 342 A.3d 295, 314 (Del. 2025).

21. The stated purpose of Section 8 in the Settlement Agreement—"to facilitate the recovery of potential claims"—requires a broad interpretation of Highland's "interests." Daugherty needs complete access to all HERA and ERA materials in Highland's possession to meaningfully pursue those claims. A narrow reading would frustrate the express purpose the parties articulated.

22. Specific performance is the appropriate remedy for Highland's breach of Section 8 of the Settlement Agreement. Specific performance is "the decisively preferable remedy" when a party breaches a contract involving unique subject matter and damages cannot be reasonably calculated. In re IBP, Inc. S'holders Litig., 789 A.2d 14, 22 (Del. Ch. 2001). The books and records at issue are not fungible assets that can be replaced or monetized.

23. To obtain specific performance under Delaware law, a plaintiff must prove by clear and convincing evidence: (1) a valid contract exists, (2) the plaintiff is ready, willing, and able to perform, (3) a legal remedy would be inadequate, and (4) the balance of equities tips in favor of the party seeking specific performance. Am. Healthcare Admin. Servs., Inc. v. Aizen, 285 A.3d 461, 495 (Del. Ch. 2022). Each element is satisfied here. The validity of the Settlement Agreement is undisputed, and Highland does not contest Daugherty's full performance. (Joint Pretrial Order.) The books and records are the sole repository of information about HERA and ERA's operations and potential claims, making specific performance particularly appropriate where the subject matter is unique. Osborn ex rel. Osborn v. Kemp, 991 A.2d 1153, 1161–62 (Del. 2010); see also IBP, 789 A.2d at 82–83.

24. A legal remedy would be inadequate because any damages calculation would be speculative — the HERA litigation is at the motion to dismiss stage with no outcome in sight. Specific performance "entirely eliminat[es] the need for a speculative determination of damages." IBP, 789 A.2d at 83. The balance of equities tips decidedly in Daugherty's favor. Daugherty comes to this Court with clean hands. Osborn, 991 A.2d at 1162. The relief is discrete and readily enforceable — the Court need only order Highland to produce records it already possesses — and Highland can demonstrate no hardship beyond mere inconvenience. Id.; 26 Capital Acquisition Corp. v. Tiger Resort Asia Ltd., 309 A.3d 434, 466–72 (Del. Ch. 2023).

25. Delaware courts "read a contract as a whole and give each provision and term effect, so as not to render any part of the contract mere surplusage." Osborn, 991 A.2d at 1159. Highland's position — that it may retain HERA and ERA's books and records while claiming to have transferred the relevant interests — eviscerates the express purpose of Section 8. See Lee Builders, Inc. v. Wells, 92 A.2d 710, 715 (Del. Ch. 1952) (granting specific performance where parties' intent was obvious despite arguments about contractual uncertainty). Denying specific performance would defeat the very purpose for which the parties agreed to Section 8.

26. Highland is the sole custodian of the HERA and ERA books and records, as well as documents and communications, that it agreed to turn over to Daugherty. If the Court does not order Highland to comply with the terms of the Settlement Agreement and turn over all of the books and records, documents and communications, Daugherty will be irreparably harmed and HERA will be unable to adequately pursue its litigation against Dondero, Okada, Ellington, and others.

27. Daugherty's claim for breach of the books and records provision in the Settlement Agreement is timely. Federal courts located in Texas apply Texas' four-year statute of limitations to breach of contract claims. Federal courts apply (a) the substantive law of the contractually chosen state and (b)Texas procedural law to procedural matters. See Cypress/Spanish Ft. I, L.P. v. Prof. Serv. Indus., Inc., 814 F. Supp. 2d 698, 708 (N.D. Tex. 2011). Texas considers statutes of limitation procedural, not substantive. See id.; see also Baker Hughes, Inc. v. Keco R. & D., Inc., 12 S.W.3d 1, 4 (Tex. 1999); Hunt Oil Co. v. Live Oak Energy, Inc., 313 S.W.3d 384, 387 (Tex. App.—Dallas 2009). The statute of limitations in Texas for breach of contract claims is four years. Tex. Civ. Prac. & Rem. Code §§ 16.004, 16.051; Eagle Oil & Gas Co. v. TRO-X, L.P., 619 S.W.3d 699, 707 (Tex. 2021). The Court entered the order approving the parties' Settlement Agreement in March 2022, and Daugherty filed his breach of contract claim on October 3, 2025 — less than four years later.

28. In adversary proceedings, bankruptcy courts engage in the same choice-of-law analysis as a federal district court. In re Soporex, Inc., 446 B.R. 750, 760–61 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2011); In re Vantage Benefits Admins., Inc., No. 18-31351-SGJ-7, 2024 WL 3842796, at *17 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. Aug. 14, 2024). Regardless of the Delaware choice-of-law provision, Texas' four-year statute applies. See Cypress/Spanish, 814 F. Supp. 2d at 709; Hunter v. Berkshire Hathaway, Inc., No. 4:14-CV-663-Y, 2017 WL 11679602, at *4 (N.D. Tex. May 31, 2017); Albritton v. Acclarent, Inc., No. 3:16-cv-03340-M, 2017 WL 6628122, at *6 (N.D. Tex. Dec. 27, 2017).

29. The parties executed the Settlement Agreement on November 22, 2021 — also less than four years before Daugherty's October 2025 claim. Still, even if Delaware's three-year statute of limitations applied, Daugherty's claim would be timely. In Delaware, a cause of action accrues when the contract is broken. Allstate Ins. Co. v. Spinelli, 443 A.2d 1286, 1292 (Del. 1982); Lehman Bros. Holdings Inc. v. Kee, 268 A.3d 178, 185 (Del. 2021). At the earliest, Highland's breach accrued on October 19, 2022 — the date Highland communicated that it had completed its performance when it had not — and Daugherty filed less than three years later. (Ex. H-3.)

30. Additionally, Daugherty's claim for breach of the books and records provision was brought as a counterclaim in this adversary proceeding. Daugherty's claim is also timely filed under Texas Civil Practice and Remedies Code § 16.069 because Daugherty filed his counterclaim on or before his answer was due.

MEMORANDUM OPINION

The Court issues this Memorandum Opinion in the action between Plaintiff and Counter-Defendant, Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland"), and Patrick Hagaman Daugherty ("Daugherty"), Defendant and Counter-Plaintiff.

Highland contests the validity of Daugherty's proof of claim filed in its related bankruptcy case and seeks to disallow the claim. In the alternative, Highland asks the Court to estimate Daugherty's contingent claim under 11 U.S.C. § 502(c) for purposes of making a distribution under Highland's confirmed chapter 11 plan.[1] Daugherty's counterclaims allege that Highland breached a prior settlement agreement between the parties, in which Highland agreed to turnover the Highland Employee Retention Assets LLC ("HERA") and ERA Management, LLC ("ERA") books and records. Daugherty seeks specific performance of the settlement agreement.[2] Trial was held on April 17, 2026, after which the parties submitted proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law.

The Court's findings and conclusions are based upon the record before the Court and are issued under Rule 52 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, made applicable in this adversary proceeding by Rule 7052 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure.

The issues here raise mixed questions of fact and law. Accordingly, where appropriate, findings of fact may be considered conclusions of law and conclusions of law may be considered findings of fact.

[1] Prior to trial, Highland withdrew its claim for subordination under 11 U.S.C. § 510(b). Unless otherwise stated, all "§" or "section" references are to Tile 11 of the United States Code (the "Bankruptcy Code").

[2] Prior to trial, Daugherty withdrew his claim for attorney's fees.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Highland's Bankruptcy Case and Daugherty's Reserved Claim

1. On October 16, 2019, Highland filed its petition for relief under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code commencing the above-captioned bankruptcy case. Case No. 19-34054, Dkt. No. 1. In Highland's bankruptcy case, Daugherty filed several proofs of claim that culminated in proof of claim number 205, which is subject to the parties' dispute in this adversary proceeding. Dkt. No. 101, ¶ 2.[3]

2. On November 24, 2020, this Court entered an Order temporarily allowing Daughtery's claim in the amount of $9,134,019.00 for voting purposes only. Case No. 19-34054, Dkt. No. 1474. Then, on February 22, 2021, this Court entered the Order (i) Confirming the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) and (ii) Granting Related Relief.[4] Id., Dkt. No. 1943. Highland's confirmed plan became effective on August 11, 2021, at which time a claimant trust was established over which James P. Seery, Highland's Chief Executive Officer, was appointed trustee. Id., Dkt. Nos. 1808, 2700.

3. Following confirmation, on November 22, 2021, Highland and Daugherty executed a settlement agreement. Dkt. No. 101, ¶ 19. Among other things, the settlement agreement resolved Daugherty's claims against Highland's bankruptcy estate, save for one, and required Highland to turnover HERA and ERA's books and records to Daugherty. Highland Ex. 5; Daugherty Ex. 3. Below are provisions from the settlement agreement relevant to this dispute:

[4] The Confirmation Order was subsequently modified for reasons irrelevant to this dispute. See Case No. 19-34054, Dkt. No. 4378.

> 8. HERA and ERA: The Parties acknowledge and agree that as of the date hereof, HERA and ERA have no material assets other than potential claims that may exist against persons or entities not released at or prior to the date hereof, and no claims against the HCMLP Released Parties. The allowed claims provided in paragraph 1 hereof are expressly agreed to in order to satisfy any liability the Debtor may have in connection with the HERA Judgment. To facilitate recovery of such potential claims – which expressly excludes any and all claims by or in the name of HERA and ERA against any of the HCMLP Released Parties -- HCMLP will transfer its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty. Such transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system. Such transfer will be without representation or warranty of any type; including, for the avoidance of doubt, without any representation or warranty as to the merits of the potential claims or the efficacy of the transfer of the potential claims. Such transfer will be without any liability or material cost to HCMLP or its affiliates or the other HCMLP Released Parties, including any liability in respect of any assets that HERA or ERA ever actually or allegedly owned, possessed, or controlled and that were actually or allegedly transferred, conveyed, sold, written off or otherwise disposed of (in any such case, a "Disposition"). In connection with the transfer, HERA and ERA have expressly released the HCMLP Released Parties from any and all claims, including any claims actions or remedies related to any Disposition, either of them may have against any HCMLP Released Party now or in the future (the "HERA and ERA Release"). Daugherty on behalf of himself and each of the Daugherty Released Parties acknowledges, accepts, and agrees not to challenge the HERA and ERA Release or support any challenge thereto. A copy of the HERA and ERA Release is annexed hereto as Exhibit A. Daugherty acknowledges and agrees that even though HERA and ERA are not HCMLP Released Parties under this Agreement, Daugherty and all Daugherty Released Parties shall (a) not seek to hold any HCMLP Released Party liable for any action or inaction taken by or on behalf of HERA or ERA, including through any derivative, veil-piercing or similar cause of action or remedy; and (b) not seek to recover damages or obtain any form of relief against any HCMLP Released Party on account of any action or inaction taken by or on behalf of HERA or ERA, including through any veil piercing or similar cause of action or remedy. If, for any reason, HERA or ERA, or any person or entity acting on their behalf, recovers anything from any HCMLP Released Party, Daugherty shall promptly turnover to HCMLP or its successors and assigns any amounts actually recovered by Daugherty or any Daugherty Released Party, from HERA or ERA arising from, related to, or derived from any claim that HERA or ERA or any person or entity acting on their behalf has or may have against any HCMLP Released Party. HCMLP will provide reasonable assistance to Daugherty to assist with the preparation of any required HERA K-1s for 2021, but any requirement to provide such K-1s will be the obligation, if any, of HERA.

9. IRS Compensation Claim: In section 4(ii) of the Addendum to Proof of Claim No. 205, Daugherty contends that he has a contingent, unliquidated claim against the Debtor arising out of a 2008/2009 compensation letter (the "Reserved Claim"), which claim is also related to an audit/dispute between the Debtor and the Internal Revenue Service (the "IRS") (the dispute between the Debtor and IRS being referred to herein as the "IRS Audit Dispute"). The Debtor disputes the validity and amount of the Reserved Claim. Daugherty shall retain the Reserved Claim solely against the Debtor and not against any other HCMLP Released Party, and the Debtor reserves the right to assert any and all defenses thereto. Any litigation by and between the Debtor and Daugherty concerning the validity and amount of the Reserved Claim shall be stayed until the IRS makes a final determination with respect to the IRS Audit Dispute; provided, however, that Daugherty may file a motion with the Bankruptcy Court to have the Reserved Claim estimated for purposes of establishing a reserve as a "Disputed Claim" under the Debtor's Plan (the "Reserve Motion"), and the Debtor (and any successor) reserves the right to assert any and all defenses thereto. Notwithstanding the foregoing, Daugherty may address any personal claim or personal liability to the IRS as a result of the IRS Audit Dispute, including settlement of any such claims; provided, however, Daugherty agrees to forego settling or addressing any claims with the IRS without the written consent of the Debtor until March 31, 2022.

Highland Ex. 5, ¶¶ 8, 9; Daugherty Ex. 3, ¶¶ 8, 9. The Court entered an order approving the settlement agreement on March 8, 2022, which allowed Daugherty's proof of claim number 205 in the amounts set forth in the settlement agreement, subject to further resolution of the Reserved Claim.[5] Case No. 19-34054, Dkt. No. 3298.

4. On May 2, 2025, Highland commenced this adversary proceeding by filing its Complaint seeking to disallow the Reserved Claim or, alternatively, requesting that the Court estimate the Reserved Claim.[6] Dkt. No. 1. On June 4, 2025, Daugherty filed his Motion to Dismiss Highland's complaint. Dkt. No. 5.

[5] "Reserved Claim" has the meaning given to it by the Parties in the Settlement Agreement. Highland Ex. 5, ¶ 9; Daugherty Ex. 3, ¶ 9.

5. On July 18, 2025, Highland filed its (A) Objection to Patrick Daugherty's Motion to Dismiss, and (B) Cross Motion for Relief from a Final Order Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9024 ("Cross Motion"). Dkt. No. 10. The Cross Motion sought to modify the order approving the settlement agreement to strike the so-called "Stay Provision." Such relief would permit Highland to proceed with its claim-disallowance proceeding against Daugherty despite there being no "final determination with respect to the IRS Audit Dispute." The Court granted the Cross Motion on September 5, 2025, and modification of the settlement order remains subject of Daugherty's appeal. Dkt. Nos. 23, 25.

6. Pursuant to the settlement agreement, Daugherty's Reserved Claim is fully reserved in an account held by the Claimant Trust with a balance equal to $2,650,353.00, the amount of the Reserved Claim asserted by Daugherty in his proof of claim. Daugherty Ex. 94, ¶ 1. At trial, Mr. Seery testified that this amount remains in a claimant trust account and is the last unresolved claim of the Highland bankruptcy estate. Trial Tr. at 241:21–242:3. Any distribution made to Daugherty on account of the Reserved Claim must occur prior to distributions to Highland's partnership interests—Classes 10 and 11. Trial Tr. at 240:23–243:11.

[6] See supra n.1 regarding Highland's claim for subordination.

7. Daugherty was employed by Highland from 1998 to his voluntary resignation in 2011. Dkt No. 101, ¶ 8, 14. On December 31, 2004, Highland and Daugherty entered into an Amended Employment Agreement ("Employment Agreement"), which, among other things, described Daugherty's compensation and benefits. Highland Ex. 11. As 'Salary and Bonus" the Employment Agreement states the following:

> (a) Salary and Bonus. The annual salary (the "Base Salary") payable to the Executive during the term of this Agreement shall be an amount determined by the Company (in its sole discretion) and communicated in writing to the Executive, and will be subject to annual review pursuant to the Company's normal review policy for other similarly situated executives of the Company. Any increase in salary shall be based upon the Executive's performance and shall be determined by the Company in its sole discretion. In addition, the Company may from time to time award bonuses to the Executive based on such criteria as the Company may establish in its discretion. Any such bonus, unless specifically stated otherwise, will be paid in three (3) equal installments and is not earned or accrued until each payment date. The Executive must be employed on the payment date(s) in order to be eligible for the bonus. The payment of salary and bonuses shall be subject to all federal, state and withholding taxes, social security deductions and other general obligations. Furthermore, the designation of the Executive's compensation does not constitute a guarantee of employment for any specific period of time.

Id. ¶ 3.1(a). The Employment Agreement also includes a Form of Separation Agreement and Release, which an employee may sign at the termination of their employment. If an employee does not sign the separation agreement, then the Employment Agreement states that the employee is not entitled to severance, and Highland "will have no further liability or obligation to the [employee] under [the Employment Agreement] or in connection with [their] employment or termination." Id. ¶¶ 4.4–4.6.

8. Consistent with the Employment Agreement, Daugherty was provided with a Comprehensive Compensation and Benefits Statement ("2009 Compensation Statement") dated February 27, 2009. Highland Ex. 13. Therein, Daugherty's 2008 earnings and awards totaled $3,594,136, of which $1,475,816 was allocated as a 2008 tax refund.[7] Id. Stated with the 2008 tax refund line item is the following language:

> Refund is an estimated amount. If actual refund deviates materially from estimate, other compensation will be fairly adjusted. Refund is expected to be received in approximately 4 months.

Id. This language forms the basis for Daugherty's Reserved Claim against Highland's bankruptcy estate.

9. In an email from Scott Wilson, Highland's Principal, Internal Strategy, dated February 26, 2009, to Brian Collins and Patrick Boyce, Mr. Wilson included an attachment with draft questions and answers related to the 2008 tax refund. Highland Ex. 47. Of note, the following questions included draft answers:

> Why would you consider the tax refund as part of compensation? Isn't the refund in my name?
> When you paid taxes in 2006 and 2007 that are now potentially subject to a refund, you received a distribution from Highland to pay those taxes. Now we believe that the taxes were overpaid, due to subsequent losses, and as such, Highland distributed an excessive amount to you to pay the taxes. Accordingly, any difference, now or then, ends up being extra compensation to you, and keeping the refund represents an extra compensation to you from Highland (NOTE: this is by no means well researched legal argument. The Tax Dept. is investigating various legal and tax rationale in this matter, and we can discuss various options on this argument further in a verbal conversation)
> What would happen if my actual tax refund is different from this estimate, or if the timing is significantly delayed? Would I be "trued-up" if is it less? What if it is more?

[7] With the inclusion of "Highland Paid Benefits," Daugherty's compensation package totaled $3,619,376. Highland Ex. 13.

> If the actual refund ends up being different than the estimated amount, then we would consider what action to take on a case-by-case basis, considering several factors including the difference in the refund amount and if that creates any "gap" between the target total cash compensation and your actual cash compensation would be.

Id. at 3–5 (emphasis in original). A slide-deck dated March 6, 2009, and titled "Tax Discussion" included "[p]rovide overview of tax refund estimate calculation" as an objective. Highland Ex. 39; see also Trial Tr. 296:6–11. One slide answered affirmatively the following question: "Can the IRS claw back the refund?" Id. at 7.

10. In 2009, based on a draft Schedule K-1 that Highland provided to him, Daugherty filed his 2008 federal income tax return. Dkt. No. 101, ¶ 11. The Draft K-1 identified Daugherty's "partner's share of loss" as 0.746998% as of December 31, 2008. Daugherty Ex. 26. In 2009, Daugherty received refunds from the IRS of previously paid taxes in the amounts of $493,629 and $780,301 related to his 2008 Individual Income Tax Return (Form 1040) and his 2008 Application for Tentative Refund (Form 1045), respectively, for a total refund of $1,273,930. Highland Exs. 35, 36. These forms incorporated Highland's losses that were allocated to him as provided for in the draft Schedule K-1. Dkt. No. 101, ¶ 12. Later in 2009, Highland issued its final 2008 Schedule K-1 to Daugherty identifying Daugherty's "partner's share of loss" as 0.740262% as of December 31, 2008. Highland Ex. 14; Daugherty Ex. 24.

11. On March 3, 2010, the IRS notified Highland that it was initiating an audit of Highland's 2008 federal income tax return. Dkt. No. 101, ¶ 13.

12. On September 28, 2011, Daugherty gave voluntary notice of resignation from all positions at Highland with his last day as an employee being October 31, 2011. Id. ¶ 14. Daugherty did not sign the form separation agreement attached to the Employment Agreement. Prior to his last day of employment, Daugherty and Highland attempted to negotiate different separation and release terms that included, among other things, Highland's agreement to pay a "Notice of Tax Due," or other similar demand, delivered to Daugherty because of the IRS audit of Highland's tax return. Highland Exs. 40, 41. These negotiations did not culminate in a signed agreement. Trial Tr. 207:23–209:5.

13. At trial, Daugherty testified that James Dondero, Highland's former chief executive officer, made promises to Daugherty about the 2009 tax refund. Trial Tr. 296:18–22 ("[Dondero] said, I'll take care of you. I'll make it up to you.")

14. On December 8, 2017, an IRS examiner executed Form 4605-A, which proposed to increase Highland's reported 2008 short-term portfolio income by $166,332,713. Highland Ex. 15, Daugherty Ex. 27. Settlement discussions with the IRS remain ongoing. See Highland Ex. 20, Daugherty Ex. 32. To date, Daugherty has not received notice that he is required to repay any amount refunded to him in connection with his 2009 tax refund.

Compliance with the Settlement Agreement

15. The Settlement Agreement required Highland to "transfer its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty. Such transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system. Such transfer will be without representation or warranty of any type . . . . Such transfer will be without any liability or material cost to HCMLP or its affiliates . . . ." Highland Ex. 5 ¶ 8;

Daugherty Ex. 3 ¶ 8. On April 1, 2022, Highland transferred its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty pursuant to written agreements. Highland Ex. 52. Both HERA and ERA are Delaware limited liability companies. Id.

16. HERA and ERA were non-operating entities that did not have any employees, offices, servers, or email addresses. Trial Tr. at 183:17–185:7. The phrase "books and records (spreadsheet)" is not otherwise expressly defined in the settlement agreement.

17. On May 5, 2022, and October 19, 2022, Highland delivered certain documents and materials to Daugherty as reflected in Daugherty Exhibits 33 and 34. The May 2022 production included over 50MB of data and included all of HERA and ERA's (a) corporate governance records, (b) historical accounting records, and (c) historical tax filings. Trial Tr. at 192:6–21, 193:4–194:2. At Daugherty's request, Highland transmitted additional records in October 2022 that included legal invoices. Trial Tr. 80:16–81:11.

18. On February 29, 2024, HERA filed a lawsuit in the Northern District of Texas against 24 defendants. Case No. 3:24-cv-00498-K, Dkt. No. 1 (N.D. Tex.); see also Highland Ex. 54; Trial Tr. 198:22–199:9, 277:3–8.[8] In that case, there are pending motions to dismiss, and the district court stayed the case pending resolution of those motions to dismiss. Case No. 3:24-cv-00498-K, Dkt. No. 119. Daugherty testified that if HERA prevails on the motions to dismiss, it will seek discovery from Highland. Trial Tr. 277:18–22.

[8] The Court takes judicial notice of the docket in Case No. 3:24-cv-00498-K pending in the Northern District of Texas. Fed. R. Evid. 201(b)(2), (c)(1).

19. Daugherty performed and satisfied all obligations that the Settlement Agreement imposed upon him. Highland does not contest Daugherty's full performance of the Settlement Agreement. Daugherty's demand for specific performance relates to the HERA and ERA "books and records (spreadsheet)" provision of the settlement agreement. In particular, Daugherty seeks all materials "related to HERA and ERA" that are in Highland's possession. Dkt No. 102, ¶¶ 1, 27, 36 (emphasis added). Prior to filing his counterclaims in this adversary proceeding, Daugherty did not otherwise seek relief from this Court to enforce the settlement agreement.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

20. The Court has jurisdiction over this adversary proceeding under 28 U.S.C. § 1334. This action is a core proceeding under 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2)(B) and (O). Venue is proper under 28 U.S.C. §§ 1408 and 1409(a).

Burdens of Proof

21. 11 U.S.C. § 502(a) states, "A claim . . . proof of which is filed under section 501 [the Bankruptcy Code], is deemed allowed, unless a party in interest . . . objects." A properly filed proof of claim is prima facie evidence of the claimant's entitlement to collect against assets of the debtor's estate. Cal. State Bd. Of Equalization v. Off. Unsecured Creditors' Comm. (In re Fid. Holding Co.), 837 F.2d 696, 698 (5th Cir. 1988).

22. If a claim objection is filed, then the burden shifts to the objector to "produce evidence tending to defeat the claim that is of a probative force equal to that of the creditor's proof of claim." Simmons v. Savell (In re Simmons), 765 F.2d 547, 552 (5th Cir. 1985). If an objector produces evidence to rebut the prima facie validity of the claim, then the claimant must prove the validity of its claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See United States v. Canada, 574 B.R. 620, 627 (N.D. Tex. 2017).

23. Daugherty properly filed proof of claim number 205 and attached a compensation summary dated August 18, 2011, and the 2009 Compensation Statement. Case No. 19-34054, Dkt. No. 1280-2.[9] Thus, Highland must bring forward evidence equal in probative force to defeat Daugherty's claim.

The Employment Agreement Absolves Highland of Any Liability to Daugherty.

24. The parties do not contest that Texas law controls this dispute over Daugherty's Reserved Claim. Likewise, neither party contests the validity of the Employment Agreement. At issue, then, is how to construe the 2009 Compensation Statement.

25. "In construing a written contract, the primary concern of the court is to ascertain the true intentions of the parties as expressed in the instrument." Coker v. Coker, 650 S.W.2d 391, 393 (Tex. 1983). "Incorporation by reference" allows courts to also consider separate documents that are plainly referred to in the contract. See Zamora v. Swift Transp. Corp., 547 F. Supp. 2d 699, 702 (W.D. Tex. 2008) ("An employment agreement may incorporate, by reference, the terms of a separate document where the agreement directly and expressly refers to the separate document."); Owen v. Hendricks, 433 S.W.2d 164, 166 (Tex. 1968) ("It is uniformly held that an unsigned paper may be incorporated by reference in the paper signed by the person sought to be charged. The language used is not important provided the document signed by the defendant plainly refers to another writing.").

26. Article 3.1(a) of the Employment Agreement "plainly" states, ". . . annual salary . . . payable to the Executive . . . shall be communicated in writing to the Executive . . . ." Highland Ex. 11. The 2009 Compensation Statement was such a communication in writing related to Daugherty's compensation, and its terms are, therefore, incorporated in the Employment Agreement. The inquiry now turns to whether the terms in the 2009 Compensation Statement are ambiguous.

27. A contract is not ambiguous if its words can be given a certain or definite legal meaning. Coker, 650 S.W.2d at 393. On the other hand, ambiguity in a contract exists if its terms are uncertain, doubtful, or reasonably susceptible to more than one meaning. Towers of Tex., Inc. v. J & J Sys., Inc., 834 S.W.2d 1, 2 (Tex. 1992). Parties to a disputed contract are likely to take conflicting interpretation views, "but neither conflicting expectations nor disputation is sufficient to create an ambiguity." Forbau v. Aetna Life Ins. Co., 876 S.W.2d 132, 134 (Tex. 1994) (emphasis in original).

28. Neither Highland nor Daugherty argue that the Employment Agreement or the 2009 Compensation Statement are ambiguous. Rather, Highland argues that the 2009 Compensation Statement lacks material terms rendering it an indefinite agreement.

29. An alleged contract that fails to address all essential and material terms with a reasonable degree of certainty and definiteness is unenforceable as a matter of law. See APS Cap. Corp. v. Mesa Air Grp. Inc., 580 F.3d 265, 272 (5th Cir. 2009) ("In order to be a legally enforceable contract, an agreement must be formed around the contours of sufficiently specific terms."). Material terms "are those that the parties would reasonably regard as vitally important elements of their bargain," and "a contract must define its essential terms with enough precision to enable the court to determine the obligations of the parties." Tex. Architectural Aggregate, Inc. v. ACM-Tex., LLC (In re ACM-Tex., Inc.), 430 B.R. 371, 408 (Bankr. W.D. Tex. 2010) (internal citation omitted). Essential terms are unique to the type of agreement, and, in the employment context, essential terms include compensation, duties, and responsibilities. See City of Hou. V. Williams, 353 S.W.3d 128, 139 (Tex. 2011).

30. Legally, there is significant difference between ambiguity and indefiniteness. See Marx v. FDP, LP, 474 S.W.3d 368, 375 (Tex. App.—San Antonio 2015, pet. denied) ("Unlike the trial court's obligation to resolve any ambiguity necessary to enforce a contract, indefiniteness in a contract makes the contract unenforceable."); Sifuentes v. Carrillo, 982 S.W.2d 500, 504 (Tex. App.—San Antonio 1998, pet. denied). When an ambiguity is discovered, courts seek to resolve the ambiguity "by looking at the contract as a whole in light of the circumstances present when the contract was entered" to ascertain the parties' intent. Coker, 650 S.W.2d at 393–94. "As a general matter, Texas courts have consistently held that a contract may be held void for indefiniteness if it fails to specify" essential terms. Liberto v.

D.F. Stauffer Biscuit Co., 441 F.3d 318, 324 (5th Cir. 2006). In either instance, however, determining whether the contract is ambiguous or indefinite is a question of law. See Coker, 650 S.W.2d at 394; Abatement Inc. v. Williams, 324 S.W.3d 858, 862 (Tex. App.—Houston [14th Dist.] 2010, pet. denied).

31. The Employment Agreement incorporates by reference the 2009 Compensation Statement, such that, read together, the contract contains all material terms and is not indefinite. The following language, though, from the 2009 Compensation Statement is ambiguous:

> Refund is an estimated amount. If actual refund deviates materially from estimate, other compensation will be fairly adjusted. Refund is expected to be received in approximately 4 months.

In particular, the phrases "deviates materially," "other compensation," and "fairly adjusted" are all uncertain and reasonably susceptible to more than one meaning. There are no other provisions in the Employment Agreement or the 2009 Compensation Statement that give certain or definite legal meaning to these phrases. Thus, the Court must resolve the ambiguity to enforce the agreement.

32. The "ultimate goal" when resolving an ambiguity "is always to determine the parties' intent as objectively expressed in the words of their agreement." Endeavor Energy Res., L.P. v. Energen Res. Corp., 615 S.W.3d 144, 148 (Tex. 2020). To that end, courts may consider the facts and circumstances surrounding the contract, including "objectively determinable factors that give context to the parties' transaction." Id. (internal quotation and citation omitted). And while this extrinsic evidence is helpful in resolving the ambiguity, courts cannot interpret "contractual language to say what it unambiguously does not say." Id. (citation modified).

33. There can be little doubt that Highland intended the tax refund referenced in the 2009 Compensation Statement to be Daugherty's bonus for his work performed in 2008. Daugherty seemingly admits as much in his proof of claim. The ambiguity arises from the remaining language of the 2009 Compensation Statement that provided for a fair adjustment to other compensation if the refund amount materially deviated from the estimate. Highland Ex. 13; Daugherty Ex. 14.

34. Daugherty asserts the language obligates Highland to compensate Daugherty if the IRS Audit results in him paying back to the IRS all or part of the refund he received in 2009. Dkt. No. 102, ¶¶ 10–12. Highland argues the language is too vague and indefinite to create an enforceable obligation. Dkt. No. 101, ¶¶ 29–39.

35. The Court endeavors to resolve the ambiguity by determining the parties' intent from the entirety of the Employment Agreement and 2009 Compensation Statement. In doing so, the Court gives the words used in these documents their plain and ordinary meaning because they were not specifically defined or used in a technical manner. See Plains Expl. & Prod. Co. v. Torch Energy Advisors Inc., 473 S.W.3d 296, 307 (Tex. 2015). The Court concludes that, as a component of Daugherty's compensation, Highland estimated Daugherty's refund at $1,475,816 and, if the refund amount he received materially deviated from that estimate, Highland would adjust his other compensation to make up the difference.

Highland Ex. 13, Daugherty Ex. 14. Certainly, it is a material deviation if Daugherty must pay back the entire amount he received as a refund on account of the IRS Audit.

36. Nonetheless, whether the 2009 Compensation Statement language is ambiguous and capable of resolution is immaterial, because Daugherty's Reserved Claim faces a bigger obstacle for allowance against Highland's bankruptcy estate. While the language used in the 2009 Compensation Statement is susceptible to more than one meaning, the termination provisions in the Employment Agreement are clear and unambiguous.

37. Sections 4.5 and 4.6 of the Employment Agreement deal with an executive's voluntary termination of their employment with Highland. Each provision contains the following language:

> In the event the Executive declines to sign the separation agreement and release, he/she shall not be entitled to any severance, and the Company will have no further liability or obligation to the Executive under this Agreement or in connection with his/her employment or termination.

Highland Ex. 11 at 6 (emphasis added). Attached to the Employment Agreement as Exhibit A is the form separation agreement and release.

38. Daugherty submitted his resignation from Highland in September 2011 with an effective date of October 31, 2011. Highland Ex. 12; Daugherty Ex. 15. If Daugherty signed the separation agreement attached as Exhibit A, under the Employment Agreement, Daugherty would have been entitled to severance pay and additional earned compensation or benefits, including, potentially, a true up of the 2008 Tax Refund. Daugherty did not sign the separation agreement and release.

39. In fact, Daugherty attempted to negotiate a different general release and separation agreement with Highland prior to his last day with the company. See Highland Ex. 41. This separation agreement specifically referenced in paragraph 3.(c)(ii) Daugherty's right to payment from Highland if Daugherty were obligated to pay back the 2008 Tax Refund to the IRS. Id., ¶ 3.(c)(ii). Daugherty did not sign this separation agreement either.

40. Therefore, the Court finds that the Employment Agreement controls whether Daugherty's Reserved Claim should be allowed against the Highland bankruptcy estate. Pursuant to its express terms, Highland is absolved of all liability or obligations to Daugherty because he failed to execute either of the separation agreements presented to him. The Reserved Claim is disallowed.

Dondero's Oral Promises did not Create an Enforceable Guaranty.

41. To the extent Daugherty argues Dondero's promises are binding agreements to cover his contingent tax liability, this argument also fails.

42. "[I]t is so obviously just that a promisor receiving no benefits should be bound only by the exact terms of his promise." Davis v. Patrick, 141 U.S. 479, 488 (1891). In Texas, a promise by one person to answer for the debt of another person, must be in writing and "signed by the person to be charged with the promise or agreement or by someone lawfully authorized to sign for him." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code § 26.01(a), (b)(2).[10]

43. There is, however, an exception to the general rule that a promise to pay another's debt must be in writing—the main purpose doctrine.

> [W]herever the main purpose and object of the promisor is, not to answer for another, but to subserve some purpose of his own, his promise is not within the statute [of frauds], although it may be in form a promise to pay the debt of another, and although the performance of it may incidentally have the effect of extinguishing the liability of another.

Lemmon v. Box, 20 Tex. 329, 332 (1857). Three elements must be met to satisfy the main purpose doctrine and thereby remove the promise from the statute of frauds:

> (1) the promisor intended to create primary responsibility in itself to pay the debt; (2) there was consideration for the promise; and (3) the consideration given for the promise was primarily for the promisor's own use and benefit—that is, the benefit it received was the promisor's main purpose for making the promise.

Cruz v. Andrews Restoration, Inc., 364 S.W.3d 817, 828 (Tex. 2012). "Consideration is a bargained-for exchange of promises or return performance and consists of benefits and detriments to the contracting parties." Marx, 474 S.W.3d at 378. Without it, a contract is unenforceable. Id.

[10] The Texas Business and Commerce Code defines "person" as "an individual, corporation, business trust, estate, trust, partnership, limited liability company, association, joint venture, government, governmental subdivision, agency, or instrumentality, public corporation, any other legal or commercial entity, or a protected series or registered series of a for-profit entity." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code § 1.201(b)(27).

The evidence before the Court is that Daugherty worked in Highland's Texas office, negotiated his separation while in Texas, and the Employment Agreement identifies Texas in its "choice of law" provision. Thus, the Court will consider Texas law when construing Daugherty's testimony about Highland's promise to pay his unliquidated tax liability.

44. Assuming without deciding that Highland intended to create primary responsibility in itself to pay Daugherty's tax liability, the promise fails because there was no consideration. Though Daugherty testified that Dondero repeatedly promised to cover his tax liability, the only evidence before the Court of consideration for such promise is an unexecuted separation agreement. Highland Ex. 41. In that unexecuted separation agreement, Daugherty would give certain releases in favor of Highland and its subsidiaries in exchange for Highland's promise to pay "a 'Notice of Tax Due' or other such letter from a governmental taxing authority demanding payment for taxes that relates to an Internal Revenue Service audit." Id., ¶¶ 3(c)(ii), 4. Neither party, however, agreed to be bound by the terms of the separation agreement, and there is no evidence that Dondero's oral promise, made conceivably on behalf of Highland, is relieved from the statute of frauds. These unwritten promises are not enforceable and, likewise, prohibit Daugherty from collecting his Reserved Claim from Highland's bankruptcy estate.

45. Based on an argument that Dondero promised to make Daugherty whole, for the reasons set forth above, Daugherty's Reserved Claim is disallowed.

Highland Fulfilled its Obligations under the Settlement Agreement.

46. Daugherty bears the burden of proving that Highland breached the settlement agreement by failing to turnover the HERA and ERA "books and records (spreadsheet)," which is remedied only by specific performance. Movora LLC v. Gendreau, 345 A.3d 997, 1011 (Del. 2025); In re IBP, Inc. S'holders Litig., 789 A.2d 14, 53 (Del. Ch. 2001). To obtain specific performance under Delaware law, a plaintiff must prove by clear and convincing evidence: (1) a valid contract exists, (2) the plaintiff is ready, willing, and able to perform, (3) a legal remedy would be inadequate, and (4) the balance of equities tips in favor of the party seeking specific performance. Am. Healthcare Admin. Servs., Inc. v. Aizen, 285 A.3d 461, 495 (Del. Ch. 2022).

47. "Delaware adheres to the objective theory of contracts, i.e. a contract's construction should be that which would be understood by an objective, reasonable third party." Osborn v. Kemp, 991 A.2d 1153, 1159 (Del. 2010). Courts will give effect to the plain-meaning of a contract's terms and provisions where they are clear and unambiguous. Id. at 1159–60.

48. To that end, the Delaware Court of Chancery has stated that "[t]he meaning of the term 'books and records' can readily be understood through § 18–305 of the LLC Act and through its corporate law and limited partnership law counterparts, 8 Del. C. § 220 and 6 Del. C. § 17–305, respectively."[11] Arbor Place, L.P. v. Encore Opportunity Fund, L.L.C., No. CIV.A. 18928, 2002 WL 205681, at *3 n.3 (Del. Ch. Jan. 29, 2002) (finding tax returns were within the scope of a contractual "books and records" provision). The Delaware Limited Liability Company Act, 6 Del. C. § 18-305(a), generally identifies, at a minimum, the statutory books and records that a Delaware LLC must provide to its managers for inspection:

> (1) True and full information regarding the status of the business and financial condition of the limited liability company;

[11] 8 Del. C. § 220, the corporate books and records provision, sets out defined categories of corporate financial and governance documents and does not have a "just and reasonable" category. The Delaware Limited Partnership Law books and records provision, 6 Del. C. § 17–305, is substantially similar to the Delaware LLC Law's provision.

> (2) Promptly after becoming available, a copy of the limited liability company's federal, state and local income tax returns for each year;
> (3) A current list of the name and last known business, residence or mailing address of each member and manager;
> (4) A copy of any written limited liability company agreement and certificate of formation and all amendments thereto, together with executed copies of any written powers of attorney pursuant to which the limited liability company agreement and any certificate and all amendments thereto have been executed;
> (5) True and full information regarding the amount of cash and a description and statement of the agreed value of any other property or services contributed by each member and which each member has agreed to contribute in the future, and the date on which each became a member; and
> (6) Other information regarding the affairs of the limited liability company as is just and reasonable.

49. Highland provided Daugherty with HERA and ERA's financial, governance, and tax records. And, at Daugherty's request, Highland provided additional information that supported HERA and ERA's financial records. Daugherty's requests for "all" documents or documents that "related to" HERA and ERA were not "just and reasonable," and Highland was under no obligation to satisfy them. The Court thus finds that Highland did not breach the Books and Records Provision of the settlement agreement, and Daugherty is not entitled to specific performance.

50. The Court's conclusion here is without prejudice to HERA seeking discovery from Highland in connection with its lawsuit pending in the Northern District of Texas.

CONCLUSION

Daugherty's Reserved Claim is disallowed, and he shall collect nothing further from Highland's bankruptcy estate or the claimant trust. Daugherty's counterclaim for breach of contract and specific performance is denied. The Court will issue a judgment consistent with this Memorandum Opinion.

MEMORANDUM OPINION

The Court issues this Memorandum Opinion in the action between Plaintiff and Counter-Defendant, Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland"), and Patrick Hagaman Daugherty ("Daugherty"), Defendant and Counter-Plaintiff.

Highland contests the validity of Daugherty's proof of claim filed in its related bankruptcy case and seeks to disallow the claim. In the alternative, Highland asks the Court to estimate Daugherty's contingent claim under 11 U.S.C. § 502(c) for purposes of making a distribution under Highland's confirmed chapter 11 plan.[1] Daugherty's counterclaims allege that Highland breached a prior settlement agreement between the parties, in which Highland agreed to turnover the Highland Employee Retention Assets LLC ("HERA") and ERA Management, LLC ("ERA") books and records. Daugherty seeks specific performance of the settlement agreement.[2] Trial was held on April 17, 2026, after which the parties submitted proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law.

The Court's findings and conclusions are based upon the record before the Court and are issued under Rule 52 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, made applicable in this adversary proceeding by Rule 7052 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure.

The issues here raise mixed questions of fact and law. Accordingly, where appropriate, findings of fact may be considered conclusions of law and conclusions of law may be considered findings of fact.

[1] Prior to trial, Highland withdrew its claim for subordination under 11 U.S.C. § 510(b). Unless otherwise stated, all "§" or "section" references are to Tile 11 of the United States Code (the "Bankruptcy Code").

[2] Prior to trial, Daugherty withdrew his claim for attorney's fees.

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. On October 16, 2019, Highland filed its petition for relief under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code commencing the above-captioned bankruptcy case. Case No. 19-34054, Dkt. No. 1. In Highland's bankruptcy case, Daugherty filed several proofs of claim that culminated in proof of claim number 205, which is subject to the parties' dispute in this adversary proceeding. Dkt. No. 101, ¶ 2.[3]

2. On November 24, 2020, this Court entered an Order temporarily allowing Daughtery's claim in the amount of $9,134,019.00 for voting purposes only. Case No. 19-34054, Dkt. No. 1474. Then, on February 22, 2021, this Court entered the Order (i) Confirming the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) and (ii) Granting Related Relief.[4] Id., Dkt. No. 1943. Highland's confirmed plan became effective on August 11, 2021, at which time a claimant trust was established over which James P. Seery, Highland's Chief Executive Officer, was appointed trustee. Id., Dkt. Nos. 1808, 2700.

3. Following confirmation, on November 22, 2021, Highland and Daugherty executed a settlement agreement. Dkt. No. 101, ¶ 19. Among other things, the settlement agreement resolved Daugherty's claims against Highland's bankruptcy estate, save for one, and required Highland to turnover HERA and ERA's

> 8. HERA and ERA: The Parties acknowledge and agree that as of the date hereof, HERA and ERA have no material assets other than potential claims that may exist against persons or entities not released at or prior to the date hereof, and no claims against the HCMLP Released Parties. The allowed claims provided in paragraph 1 hereof are expressly agreed to in order to satisfy any liability the Debtor may have in connection with the HERA Judgment. To facilitate recovery of such potential claims – which expressly excludes any and all claims by or in the name of HERA and ERA against any of the HCMLP Released Parties -- HCMLP will transfer its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty. Such transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system. Such transfer will be without representation or warranty of any type; including, for the avoidance of doubt, without any representation or warranty as to the merits of the potential claims or the efficacy of the transfer of the potential claims. Such transfer will be without any liability or material cost to HCMLP or its affiliates or the other HCMLP Released Parties, including any liability in respect of any assets that HERA or ERA ever actually or allegedly owned, possessed, or controlled and that were actually or allegedly transferred, conveyed, sold, written off or otherwise disposed of (in any such case, a "Disposition"). In connection with the transfer, HERA and ERA have expressly released the HCMLP Released Parties from any and all claims, including any claims actions or remedies related to any Disposition, either of them may have against any HCMLP Released Party now or in the future (the "HERA and ERA Release"). Daugherty on behalf of himself and each of the Daugherty Released Parties acknowledges, accepts, and agrees not to challenge the HERA and ERA Release or support any challenge thereto. A copy of the HERA and ERA Release is annexed hereto as Exhibit A. Daugherty acknowledges and agrees that even though HERA and ERA are not HCMLP Released Parties under this Agreement, Daugherty and all Daugherty Released Parties shall (a) not seek to hold any HCMLP Released Party liable for any action or inaction taken by or on behalf of HERA or ERA, including through any derivative, veil-piercing or similar cause of action or remedy; and (b) not seek to recover damages or obtain any form of relief against any HCMLP Released Party on account of any action or inaction taken by or on behalf of HERA or ERA, including through any veil piercing or similar cause of action or remedy. If, for any reason, HERA or ERA, or any person or entity acting on their behalf, recovers anything from any HCMLP Released Party, Daugherty shall promptly turnover to HCMLP or its successors and assigns any amounts actually recovered by Daugherty or any Daugherty Released Party, from HERA or ERA arising from, related to, or derived from any claim that HERA or ERA or any person or entity acting on their behalf has or may have against any HCMLP Released Party. HCMLP will provide reasonable assistance to Daugherty to assist with the preparation of any required HERA K-1s for 2021, but any requirement to provide such K-1s will be the obligation, if any, of HERA.

9. IRS Compensation Claim: In section 4(ii) of the Addendum to Proof of Claim No. 205, Daugherty contends that he has a contingent, unliquidated claim against the Debtor arising out of a 2008/2009 compensation letter (the "Reserved Claim"), which claim is also related to an audit/dispute between the Debtor and the Internal Revenue Service (the "IRS") (the dispute between the Debtor and IRS being referred to herein as the "IRS Audit Dispute"). The Debtor disputes the validity and amount of the Reserved Claim. Daugherty shall retain the Reserved Claim solely against the Debtor and not against any other HCMLP Released Party, and the Debtor reserves the right to assert any and all defenses thereto. Any litigation by and between the Debtor and Daugherty concerning the validity and amount of the Reserved Claim shall be stayed until the IRS makes a final determination with respect to the IRS Audit Dispute; provided, however, that Daugherty may file a motion with the Bankruptcy Court to have the Reserved Claim estimated for purposes of establishing a reserve as a "Disputed Claim" under the Debtor's Plan (the "Reserve Motion"), and the Debtor (and any successor) reserves the right to assert any and all defenses thereto. Notwithstanding the foregoing, Daugherty may address any personal claim or personal liability to the IRS as a result of the IRS Audit Dispute, including settlement of any such claims; provided, however, Daugherty agrees to forego settling or addressing any claims with the IRS without the written consent of the Debtor until March 31, 2022.

Highland Ex. 5, ¶¶ 8, 9; Daugherty Ex. 3, ¶¶ 8, 9. The Court entered an order approving the settlement agreement on March 8, 2022, which allowed Daugherty's proof of claim number 205 in the amounts set forth in the settlement agreement, subject to further resolution of the Reserved Claim.[5] Case No. 19-34054, Dkt. No. 3298.

4. On May 2, 2025, Highland commenced this adversary proceeding by filing its Complaint seeking to disallow the Reserved Claim or, alternatively, requesting that the Court estimate the Reserved Claim.[6] Dkt. No. 1. On June 4, 2025, Daugherty filed his Motion to Dismiss Highland's complaint. Dkt. No. 5.

[5] "Reserved Claim" has the meaning given to it by the Parties in the Settlement Agreement. Highland Ex. 5, ¶ 9; Daugherty Ex. 3, ¶ 9.

5. On July 18, 2025, Highland filed its (A) Objection to Patrick Daugherty's Motion to Dismiss, and (B) Cross Motion for Relief from a Final Order Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9024 ("Cross Motion"). Dkt. No. 10. The Cross Motion sought to modify the order approving the settlement agreement to strike the so-called "Stay Provision." Such relief would permit Highland to proceed with its claim-disallowance proceeding against Daugherty despite there being no "final determination with respect to the IRS Audit Dispute." The Court granted the Cross Motion on September 5, 2025, and modification of the settlement order remains subject of Daugherty's appeal. Dkt. Nos. 23, 25.

6. Pursuant to the settlement agreement, Daugherty's Reserved Claim is fully reserved in an account held by the Claimant Trust with a balance equal to $2,650,353.00, the amount of the Reserved Claim asserted by Daugherty in his proof of claim. Daugherty Ex. 94, ¶ 1. At trial, Mr. Seery testified that this amount remains in a claimant trust account and is the last unresolved claim of the Highland bankruptcy estate. Trial Tr. at 241:21–242:3. Any distribution made to Daugherty on account of the Reserved Claim must occur prior to distributions to Highland's partnership interests—Classes 10 and 11. Trial Tr. at 240:23–243:11.

[6] See supra n.1 regarding Highland's claim for subordination.

7. Daugherty was employed by Highland from 1998 to his voluntary resignation in 2011. Dkt No. 101, ¶ 8, 14. On December 31, 2004, Highland and Daugherty entered into an Amended Employment Agreement ("Employment Agreement"), which, among other things, described Daugherty's compensation and benefits. Highland Ex. 11. As 'Salary and Bonus" the Employment Agreement states the following:

> (a) Salary and Bonus. The annual salary (the "Base Salary") payable to the Executive during the term of this Agreement shall be an amount determined by the Company (in its sole discretion) and communicated in writing to the Executive, and will be subject to annual review pursuant to the Company's normal review policy for other similarly situated executives of the Company. Any increase in salary shall be based upon the Executive's performance and shall be determined by the Company in its sole discretion. In addition, the Company may from time to time award bonuses to the Executive based on such criteria as the Company may establish in its discretion. Any such bonus, unless specifically stated otherwise, will be paid in three (3) equal installments and is not earned or accrued until each payment date. The Executive must be employed on the payment date(s) in order to be eligible for the bonus. The payment of salary and bonuses shall be subject to all federal, state and withholding taxes, social security deductions and other general obligations. Furthermore, the designation of the Executive's compensation does not constitute a guarantee of employment for any specific period of time.

Id. ¶ 3.1(a). The Employment Agreement also includes a Form of Separation Agreement and Release, which an employee may sign at the termination of their employment. If an employee does not sign the separation agreement, then the Employment Agreement states that the employee is not entitled to severance, and Highland "will have no further liability or obligation to the [employee] under [the Employment Agreement] or in connection with [their] employment or termination." Id. ¶¶ 4.4–4.6.

8. Consistent with the Employment Agreement, Daugherty was provided with a Comprehensive Compensation and Benefits Statement ("2009 Compensation Statement") dated February 27, 2009. Highland Ex. 13. Therein, Daugherty's 2008 earnings and awards totaled $3,594,136, of which $1,475,816 was allocated as a 2008 tax refund.[7] Id. Stated with the 2008 tax refund line item is the following language:

> Refund is an estimated amount. If actual refund deviates materially from estimate, other compensation will be fairly adjusted. Refund is expected to be received in approximately 4 months.

Id. This language forms the basis for Daugherty's Reserved Claim against Highland's bankruptcy estate.

9. In an email from Scott Wilson, Highland's Principal, Internal Strategy, dated February 26, 2009, to Brian Collins and Patrick Boyce, Mr. Wilson included an attachment with draft questions and answers related to the 2008 tax refund. Highland Ex. 47. Of note, the following questions included draft answers:

> Why would you consider the tax refund as part of compensation? Isn't the refund in my name?
> When you paid taxes in 2006 and 2007 that are now potentially subject to a refund, you received a distribution from Highland to pay those taxes. Now we believe that the taxes were overpaid, due to subsequent losses, and as such, Highland distributed an excessive amount to you to pay the taxes. Accordingly, any difference, now or then, ends up being extra compensation to you, and keeping the refund represents an extra compensation to you from Highland (NOTE: this is by no means well researched legal argument. The Tax Dept. is investigating various legal and tax rationale in this matter, and we can discuss various options on this argument further in a verbal conversation)
> What would happen if my actual tax refund is different from this estimate, or if the timing is significantly delayed? Would I be "trued-up" if is it less? What if it is more?

[7] With the inclusion of "Highland Paid Benefits," Daugherty's compensation package totaled $3,619,376. Highland Ex. 13.

> If the actual refund ends up being different than the estimated amount, then we would consider what action to take on a case-by-case basis, considering several factors including the difference in the refund amount and if that creates any "gap" between the target total cash compensation and your actual cash compensation would be.

Id. at 3–5 (emphasis in original). A slide-deck dated March 6, 2009, and titled "Tax Discussion" included "[p]rovide overview of tax refund estimate calculation" as an objective. Highland Ex. 39; see also Trial Tr. 296:6–11. One slide answered affirmatively the following question: "Can the IRS claw back the refund?" Id. at 7.

10. In 2009, based on a draft Schedule K-1 that Highland provided to him, Daugherty filed his 2008 federal income tax return. Dkt. No. 101, ¶ 11. The Draft K-1 identified Daugherty's "partner's share of loss" as 0.746998% as of December 31, 2008. Daugherty Ex. 26. In 2009, Daugherty received refunds from the IRS of previously paid taxes in the amounts of $493,629 and $780,301 related to his 2008 Individual Income Tax Return (Form 1040) and his 2008 Application for Tentative Refund (Form 1045), respectively, for a total refund of $1,273,930. Highland Exs. 35, 36. These forms incorporated Highland's losses that were allocated to him as provided for in the draft Schedule K-1. Dkt. No. 101, ¶ 12. Later in 2009, Highland issued its final 2008 Schedule K-1 to Daugherty identifying Daugherty's "partner's share of loss" as 0.740262% as of December 31, 2008. Highland Ex. 14; Daugherty Ex. 24.

11. On March 3, 2010, the IRS notified Highland that it was initiating an audit of Highland's 2008 federal income tax return. Dkt. No. 101, ¶ 13.

12. On September 28, 2011, Daugherty gave voluntary notice of resignation from all positions at Highland with his last day as an employee being October 31, 2011. Id. ¶ 14. Daugherty did not sign the form separation agreement attached to the Employment Agreement. Prior to his last day of employment, Daugherty and Highland attempted to negotiate different separation and release terms that included, among other things, Highland's agreement to pay a "Notice of Tax Due," or other similar demand, delivered to Daugherty because of the IRS audit of Highland's tax return. Highland Exs. 40, 41. These negotiations did not culminate in a signed agreement. Trial Tr. 207:23–209:5.

13. At trial, Daugherty testified that James Dondero, Highland's former chief executive officer, made promises to Daugherty about the 2009 tax refund. Trial Tr. 296:18–22 ("[Dondero] said, I'll take care of you. I'll make it up to you.")

14. On December 8, 2017, an IRS examiner executed Form 4605-A, which proposed to increase Highland's reported 2008 short-term portfolio income by $166,332,713. Highland Ex. 15, Daugherty Ex. 27. Settlement discussions with the IRS remain ongoing. See Highland Ex. 20, Daugherty Ex. 32. To date, Daugherty has not received notice that he is required to repay any amount refunded to him in connection with his 2009 tax refund.

Compliance with the Settlement Agreement

15. The Settlement Agreement required Highland to "transfer its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty. Such transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system. Such transfer will be without representation or warranty of any type . . . . Such transfer will be without any liability or material cost to HCMLP or its affiliates . . . ." Highland Ex. 5 ¶ 8;

Daugherty Ex. 3 ¶ 8. On April 1, 2022, Highland transferred its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty pursuant to written agreements. Highland Ex. 52. Both HERA and ERA are Delaware limited liability companies. Id.

16. HERA and ERA were non-operating entities that did not have any employees, offices, servers, or email addresses. Trial Tr. at 183:17–185:7. The phrase "books and records (spreadsheet)" is not otherwise expressly defined in the settlement agreement.

17. On May 5, 2022, and October 19, 2022, Highland delivered certain documents and materials to Daugherty as reflected in Daugherty Exhibits 33 and 34. The May 2022 production included over 50MB of data and included all of HERA and ERA's (a) corporate governance records, (b) historical accounting records, and (c) historical tax filings. Trial Tr. at 192:6–21, 193:4–194:2. At Daugherty's request, Highland transmitted additional records in October 2022 that included legal invoices. Trial Tr. 80:16–81:11.

18. On February 29, 2024, HERA filed a lawsuit in the Northern District of Texas against 24 defendants. Case No. 3:24-cv-00498-K, Dkt. No. 1 (N.D. Tex.); see also Highland Ex. 54; Trial Tr. 198:22–199:9, 277:3–8.[8] In that case, there are pending motions to dismiss, and the district court stayed the case pending resolution of those motions to dismiss. Case No. 3:24-cv-00498-K, Dkt. No. 119. Daugherty testified that if HERA prevails on the motions to dismiss, it will seek discovery from Highland. Trial Tr. 277:18–22.

[8] The Court takes judicial notice of the docket in Case No. 3:24-cv-00498-K pending in the Northern District of Texas. Fed. R. Evid. 201(b)(2), (c)(1).

19. Daugherty performed and satisfied all obligations that the Settlement Agreement imposed upon him. Highland does not contest Daugherty's full performance of the Settlement Agreement. Daugherty's demand for specific performance relates to the HERA and ERA "books and records (spreadsheet)" provision of the settlement agreement. In particular, Daugherty seeks all materials "related to HERA and ERA" that are in Highland's possession. Dkt No. 102, ¶¶ 1, 27, 36 (emphasis added). Prior to filing his counterclaims in this adversary proceeding, Daugherty did not otherwise seek relief from this Court to enforce the settlement agreement.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

20. The Court has jurisdiction over this adversary proceeding under 28 U.S.C. § 1334. This action is a core proceeding under 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2)(B) and (O). Venue is proper under 28 U.S.C. §§ 1408 and 1409(a).

21. 11 U.S.C. § 502(a) states, "A claim . . . proof of which is filed under section 501 [the Bankruptcy Code], is deemed allowed, unless a party in interest . . . objects." A properly filed proof of claim is prima facie evidence of the claimant's entitlement to collect against assets of the debtor's estate. Cal. State Bd. Of Equalization v. Off. Unsecured Creditors' Comm. (In re Fid. Holding Co.), 837 F.2d 696, 698 (5th Cir. 1988).

22. If a claim objection is filed, then the burden shifts to the objector to "produce evidence tending to defeat the claim that is of a probative force equal to that of the creditor's proof of claim." Simmons v. Savell (In re Simmons), 765 F.2d 547, 552 (5th Cir. 1985). If an objector produces evidence to rebut the prima facie validity of the claim, then the claimant must prove the validity of its claim by a preponderance of the evidence. See United States v. Canada, 574 B.R. 620, 627 (N.D. Tex. 2017).

23. Daugherty properly filed proof of claim number 205 and attached a compensation summary dated August 18, 2011, and the 2009 Compensation Statement. Case No. 19-34054, Dkt. No. 1280-2.[9] Thus, Highland must bring forward evidence equal in probative force to defeat Daugherty's claim.

The Employment Agreement Absolves Highland of Any Liability to Daugherty.

24. The parties do not contest that Texas law controls this dispute over Daugherty's Reserved Claim. Likewise, neither party contests the validity of the Employment Agreement. At issue, then, is how to construe the 2009 Compensation Statement.

25. "In construing a written contract, the primary concern of the court is to ascertain the true intentions of the parties as expressed in the instrument." Coker v. Coker, 650 S.W.2d 391, 393 (Tex. 1983). "Incorporation by reference" allows courts to also consider separate documents that are plainly referred to in the contract. See Zamora v. Swift Transp. Corp., 547 F. Supp. 2d 699, 702 (W.D. Tex. 2008) ("An employment agreement may incorporate, by reference, the terms of a separate document where the agreement directly and expressly refers to the separate document."); Owen v. Hendricks, 433 S.W.2d 164, 166 (Tex. 1968) ("It is uniformly held that an unsigned paper may be incorporated by reference in the paper signed by the person sought to be charged. The language used is not important provided the document signed by the defendant plainly refers to another writing.").

26. Article 3.1(a) of the Employment Agreement "plainly" states, ". . . annual salary . . . payable to the Executive . . . shall be communicated in writing to the Executive . . . ." Highland Ex. 11. The 2009 Compensation Statement was such a communication in writing related to Daugherty's compensation, and its terms are, therefore, incorporated in the Employment Agreement. The inquiry now turns to whether the terms in the 2009 Compensation Statement are ambiguous.

27. A contract is not ambiguous if its words can be given a certain or definite legal meaning. Coker, 650 S.W.2d at 393. On the other hand, ambiguity in a contract exists if its terms are uncertain, doubtful, or reasonably susceptible to more than one meaning. Towers of Tex., Inc. v. J & J Sys., Inc., 834 S.W.2d 1, 2 (Tex. 1992). Parties to a disputed contract are likely to take conflicting interpretation views, "but neither conflicting expectations nor disputation is sufficient to create an ambiguity." Forbau v. Aetna Life Ins. Co., 876 S.W.2d 132, 134 (Tex. 1994) (emphasis in original).

28. Neither Highland nor Daugherty argue that the Employment Agreement or the 2009 Compensation Statement are ambiguous. Rather, Highland argues that the 2009 Compensation Statement lacks material terms rendering it an indefinite agreement.

29. An alleged contract that fails to address all essential and material terms with a reasonable degree of certainty and definiteness is unenforceable as a matter of law. See APS Cap. Corp. v. Mesa Air Grp. Inc., 580 F.3d 265, 272 (5th Cir. 2009) ("In order to be a legally enforceable contract, an agreement must be formed around the contours of sufficiently specific terms."). Material terms "are those that the parties would reasonably regard as vitally important elements of their bargain," and "a contract must define its essential terms with enough precision to enable the court to determine the obligations of the parties." Tex. Architectural Aggregate, Inc. v. ACM-Tex., LLC (In re ACM-Tex., Inc.), 430 B.R. 371, 408 (Bankr. W.D. Tex. 2010) (internal citation omitted). Essential terms are unique to the type of agreement, and, in the employment context, essential terms include compensation, duties, and responsibilities. See City of Hou. V. Williams, 353 S.W.3d 128, 139 (Tex. 2011).

30. Legally, there is significant difference between ambiguity and indefiniteness. See Marx v. FDP, LP, 474 S.W.3d 368, 375 (Tex. App.—San Antonio 2015, pet. denied) ("Unlike the trial court's obligation to resolve any ambiguity necessary to enforce a contract, indefiniteness in a contract makes the contract unenforceable."); Sifuentes v. Carrillo, 982 S.W.2d 500, 504 (Tex. App.—San Antonio 1998, pet. denied). When an ambiguity is discovered, courts seek to resolve the ambiguity "by looking at the contract as a whole in light of the circumstances present when the contract was entered" to ascertain the parties' intent. Coker, 650 S.W.2d at 393–94. "As a general matter, Texas courts have consistently held that a contract may be held void for indefiniteness if it fails to specify" essential terms. Liberto v.

D.F. Stauffer Biscuit Co., 441 F.3d 318, 324 (5th Cir. 2006). In either instance, however, determining whether the contract is ambiguous or indefinite is a question of law. See Coker, 650 S.W.2d at 394; Abatement Inc. v. Williams, 324 S.W.3d 858, 862 (Tex. App.—Houston [14th Dist.] 2010, pet. denied).

31. The Employment Agreement incorporates by reference the 2009 Compensation Statement, such that, read together, the contract contains all material terms and is not indefinite. The following language, though, from the 2009 Compensation Statement is ambiguous:

> Refund is an estimated amount. If actual refund deviates materially from estimate, other compensation will be fairly adjusted. Refund is expected to be received in approximately 4 months.

In particular, the phrases "deviates materially," "other compensation," and "fairly adjusted" are all uncertain and reasonably susceptible to more than one meaning. There are no other provisions in the Employment Agreement or the 2009 Compensation Statement that give certain or definite legal meaning to these phrases. Thus, the Court must resolve the ambiguity to enforce the agreement.

32. The "ultimate goal" when resolving an ambiguity "is always to determine the parties' intent as objectively expressed in the words of their agreement." Endeavor Energy Res., L.P. v. Energen Res. Corp., 615 S.W.3d 144, 148 (Tex. 2020). To that end, courts may consider the facts and circumstances surrounding the contract, including "objectively determinable factors that give context to the parties' transaction." Id. (internal quotation and citation omitted). And while this extrinsic evidence is helpful in resolving the ambiguity, courts cannot interpret "contractual language to say what it unambiguously does not say." Id. (citation modified).

33. There can be little doubt that Highland intended the tax refund referenced in the 2009 Compensation Statement to be Daugherty's bonus for his work performed in 2008. Daugherty seemingly admits as much in his proof of claim. The ambiguity arises from the remaining language of the 2009 Compensation Statement that provided for a fair adjustment to other compensation if the refund amount materially deviated from the estimate. Highland Ex. 13; Daugherty Ex. 14.

34. Daugherty asserts the language obligates Highland to compensate Daugherty if the IRS Audit results in him paying back to the IRS all or part of the refund he received in 2009. Dkt. No. 102, ¶¶ 10–12. Highland argues the language is too vague and indefinite to create an enforceable obligation. Dkt. No. 101, ¶¶ 29–39.

35. The Court endeavors to resolve the ambiguity by determining the parties' intent from the entirety of the Employment Agreement and 2009 Compensation Statement. In doing so, the Court gives the words used in these documents their plain and ordinary meaning because they were not specifically defined or used in a technical manner. See Plains Expl. & Prod. Co. v. Torch Energy Advisors Inc., 473 S.W.3d 296, 307 (Tex. 2015). The Court concludes that, as a component of Daugherty's compensation, Highland estimated Daugherty's refund at $1,475,816 and, if the refund amount he received materially deviated from that estimate, Highland would adjust his other compensation to make up the difference.

Highland Ex. 13, Daugherty Ex. 14. Certainly, it is a material deviation if Daugherty must pay back the entire amount he received as a refund on account of the IRS Audit.

36. Nonetheless, whether the 2009 Compensation Statement language is ambiguous and capable of resolution is immaterial, because Daugherty's Reserved Claim faces a bigger obstacle for allowance against Highland's bankruptcy estate. While the language used in the 2009 Compensation Statement is susceptible to more than one meaning, the termination provisions in the Employment Agreement are clear and unambiguous.

37. Sections 4.5 and 4.6 of the Employment Agreement deal with an executive's voluntary termination of their employment with Highland. Each provision contains the following language:

> In the event the Executive declines to sign the separation agreement and release, he/she shall not be entitled to any severance, and the Company will have no further liability or obligation to the Executive under this Agreement or in connection with his/her employment or termination.

Highland Ex. 11 at 6 (emphasis added). Attached to the Employment Agreement as Exhibit A is the form separation agreement and release.

38. Daugherty submitted his resignation from Highland in September 2011 with an effective date of October 31, 2011. Highland Ex. 12; Daugherty Ex. 15. If Daugherty signed the separation agreement attached as Exhibit A, under the Employment Agreement, Daugherty would have been entitled to severance pay and additional earned compensation or benefits, including, potentially, a true up of the 2008 Tax Refund. Daugherty did not sign the separation agreement and release.

39. In fact, Daugherty attempted to negotiate a different general release and separation agreement with Highland prior to his last day with the company. See Highland Ex. 41. This separation agreement specifically referenced in paragraph 3.(c)(ii) Daugherty's right to payment from Highland if Daugherty were obligated to pay back the 2008 Tax Refund to the IRS. Id., ¶ 3.(c)(ii). Daugherty did not sign this separation agreement either.

40. Therefore, the Court finds that the Employment Agreement controls whether Daugherty's Reserved Claim should be allowed against the Highland bankruptcy estate. Pursuant to its express terms, Highland is absolved of all liability or obligations to Daugherty because he failed to execute either of the separation agreements presented to him. The Reserved Claim is disallowed.

Dondero's Oral Promises did not Create an Enforceable Guaranty.

41. To the extent Daugherty argues Dondero's promises are binding agreements to cover his contingent tax liability, this argument also fails.

42. "[I]t is so obviously just that a promisor receiving no benefits should be bound only by the exact terms of his promise." Davis v. Patrick, 141 U.S. 479, 488 (1891). In Texas, a promise by one person to answer for the debt of another person, must be in writing and "signed by the person to be charged with the promise or agreement or by someone lawfully authorized to sign for him." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code § 26.01(a), (b)(2).[10]

43. There is, however, an exception to the general rule that a promise to pay another's debt must be in writing—the main purpose doctrine.

> [W]herever the main purpose and object of the promisor is, not to answer for another, but to subserve some purpose of his own, his promise is not within the statute [of frauds], although it may be in form a promise to pay the debt of another, and although the performance of it may incidentally have the effect of extinguishing the liability of another.

Lemmon v. Box, 20 Tex. 329, 332 (1857). Three elements must be met to satisfy the main purpose doctrine and thereby remove the promise from the statute of frauds:

> (1) the promisor intended to create primary responsibility in itself to pay the debt; (2) there was consideration for the promise; and (3) the consideration given for the promise was primarily for the promisor's own use and benefit—that is, the benefit it received was the promisor's main purpose for making the promise.

Cruz v. Andrews Restoration, Inc., 364 S.W.3d 817, 828 (Tex. 2012). "Consideration is a bargained-for exchange of promises or return performance and consists of benefits and detriments to the contracting parties." Marx, 474 S.W.3d at 378. Without it, a contract is unenforceable. Id.

[10] The Texas Business and Commerce Code defines "person" as "an individual, corporation, business trust, estate, trust, partnership, limited liability company, association, joint venture, government, governmental subdivision, agency, or instrumentality, public corporation, any other legal or commercial entity, or a protected series or registered series of a for-profit entity." Tex. Bus. & Com. Code § 1.201(b)(27).

The evidence before the Court is that Daugherty worked in Highland's Texas office, negotiated his separation while in Texas, and the Employment Agreement identifies Texas in its "choice of law" provision. Thus, the Court will consider Texas law when construing Daugherty's testimony about Highland's promise to pay his unliquidated tax liability.

44. Assuming without deciding that Highland intended to create primary responsibility in itself to pay Daugherty's tax liability, the promise fails because there was no consideration. Though Daugherty testified that Dondero repeatedly promised to cover his tax liability, the only evidence before the Court of consideration for such promise is an unexecuted separation agreement. Highland Ex. 41. In that unexecuted separation agreement, Daugherty would give certain releases in favor of Highland and its subsidiaries in exchange for Highland's promise to pay "a 'Notice of Tax Due' or other such letter from a governmental taxing authority demanding payment for taxes that relates to an Internal Revenue Service audit." Id., ¶¶ 3(c)(ii), 4. Neither party, however, agreed to be bound by the terms of the separation agreement, and there is no evidence that Dondero's oral promise, made conceivably on behalf of Highland, is relieved from the statute of frauds. These unwritten promises are not enforceable and, likewise, prohibit Daugherty from collecting his Reserved Claim from Highland's bankruptcy estate.

45. Based on an argument that Dondero promised to make Daugherty whole, for the reasons set forth above, Daugherty's Reserved Claim is disallowed.

Highland Fulfilled its Obligations under the Settlement Agreement.

46. Daugherty bears the burden of proving that Highland breached the settlement agreement by failing to turnover the HERA and ERA "books and records (spreadsheet)," which is remedied only by specific performance. Movora LLC v. Gendreau, 345 A.3d 997, 1011 (Del. 2025); In re IBP, Inc. S'holders Litig., 789 A.2d 14, 53 (Del. Ch. 2001). To obtain specific performance under Delaware law, a plaintiff must prove by clear and convincing evidence: (1) a valid contract exists, (2) the plaintiff is ready, willing, and able to perform, (3) a legal remedy would be inadequate, and (4) the balance of equities tips in favor of the party seeking specific performance. Am. Healthcare Admin. Servs., Inc. v. Aizen, 285 A.3d 461, 495 (Del. Ch. 2022).

47. "Delaware adheres to the objective theory of contracts, i.e. a contract's construction should be that which would be understood by an objective, reasonable third party." Osborn v. Kemp, 991 A.2d 1153, 1159 (Del. 2010). Courts will give effect to the plain-meaning of a contract's terms and provisions where they are clear and unambiguous. Id. at 1159–60.

48. To that end, the Delaware Court of Chancery has stated that "[t]he meaning of the term 'books and records' can readily be understood through § 18–305 of the LLC Act and through its corporate law and limited partnership law counterparts, 8 Del. C. § 220 and 6 Del. C. § 17–305, respectively."[11] Arbor Place, L.P. v. Encore Opportunity Fund, L.L.C., No. CIV.A. 18928, 2002 WL 205681, at *3 n.3 (Del. Ch. Jan. 29, 2002) (finding tax returns were within the scope of a contractual "books and records" provision). The Delaware Limited Liability Company Act, 6 Del. C. § 18-305(a), generally identifies, at a minimum, the statutory books and records that a Delaware LLC must provide to its managers for inspection:

> (1) True and full information regarding the status of the business and financial condition of the limited liability company;

[11] 8 Del. C. § 220, the corporate books and records provision, sets out defined categories of corporate financial and governance documents and does not have a "just and reasonable" category. The Delaware Limited Partnership Law books and records provision, 6 Del. C. § 17–305, is substantially similar to the Delaware LLC Law's provision.

> (2) Promptly after becoming available, a copy of the limited liability company's federal, state and local income tax returns for each year;
> (3) A current list of the name and last known business, residence or mailing address of each member and manager;
> (4) A copy of any written limited liability company agreement and certificate of formation and all amendments thereto, together with executed copies of any written powers of attorney pursuant to which the limited liability company agreement and any certificate and all amendments thereto have been executed;
>
> (5) True and full information regarding the amount of cash and a description and statement of the agreed value of any other property or services contributed by each member and which each member has agreed to contribute in the future, and the date on which each became a member; and
> (6) Other information regarding the affairs of the limited liability company as is just and reasonable.

49. Highland provided Daugherty with HERA and ERA's financial, governance, and tax records. And, at Daugherty's request, Highland provided additional information that supported HERA and ERA's financial records. Daugherty's requests for "all" documents or documents that "related to" HERA and ERA were not "just and reasonable," and Highland was under no obligation to satisfy them. The Court thus finds that Highland did not breach the Books and Records Provision of the settlement agreement, and Daugherty is not entitled to specific performance.

50. The Court's conclusion here is without prejudice to HERA seeking discovery from Highland in connection with its lawsuit pending in the Northern District of Texas.

CONCLUSION

Daugherty's Reserved Claim is disallowed, and he shall collect nothing further from Highland's bankruptcy estate or the claimant trust. Daugherty's counterclaim for breach of contract and specific performance is denied. The Court will issue a judgment consistent with this Memorandum Opinion.

If an appellant filing this notice wishes to have the appeal heard by the United States District Court, check below. Do not check the box if the appellant wishes the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel to hear the appeal.

NOTICE REGARDING THE RECORD FOR A BANKRUPTCY APPEAL

Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 8009 prescribes the deadlines for filing the designations of items to be included in the record, requires copies to be submitted to the bankruptcy clerk to prepare the record, and directs all parties to "take any other action necessary to enable the clerk to assemble and transmit the record." Fed.R.Bankr.P. 8009(g). The purpose of this notice is to provide guidance on the local application of this rule.

DESIGNATION OF THE RECORD

- If you are the appellant, when designating items for inclusion in the record,
  - ♦ list the following items first, in this order: (1) the notice of appeal, (2) the judgment, order, or decree appealed from, (3) any opinion, findings of fact, and conclusions of law of the bankruptcy court, and (4) the docket sheet;
  - ♦ then list the other items to be included, leaving for the end of your list any sealed documents, any exhibits, and any transcripts.
- If you are the appellee, cross−appellant, or cross−appellee and are designating additional items,
  - ♦ list the following items first, in this order: (1) any notice of cross−appeal, (2) any judgment, order, or decree appealed from that the appellant has not designated, and (3) any opinion, findings of fact, and conclusions of law of the bankruptcy court that the appellant has not designated;
  - ♦ then list the other items to be included, leaving for the end of your list any sealed documents , any exhibits, and any transcripts.
- All parties designating items to be included in the record on appeal must
  - ♦ for each item, specify the document number shown on the docket sheet. If an item does not have a document number, specify the date the item was filed.

- ♦ If you have designated a transcript that has not been filed, order it immediately by contacting the presiding bankruptcy judge's courtroom deputy or following the instructions at http://www.txnb.uscourts.gov/transcript−and−tape−orders.

ASSEMBLY OF THE RECORD

Within 14 days of filing your designation of the record, pursuant to Rule 8009, submit to the bankruptcy clerk any item that is not available in the ECF system, using this procedure:

- Enclose sealed items and non−documentary items (e.g., removable media) in 8.5" x 11" envelopes.
- Copy all other items in PDF files to a removable storage device (e.g., USB drives, DVDs, etc.), organized in the sequence in which they were designated. Limit files to 5.0 MB in size and do not include color.
- Save copies of court exhibits in PDF files to a removable storage device, organized in the sequence in which they are designated. Limit files to 5.0 MB in size and do not include color. (Use a separate removable storage device for each hearing.)
- Label any submission with the case caption and bankruptcy court case and/or adversary proceeding number.

TRANSMITTAL OF THE RECORD

- The bankruptcy clerk will electronically transmit the record to the district clerk. The parties must provide a paper copy of the record, if required.

REQUIREMENTS REGARDING PAPER RECORD

- If the district judge requires a paper copy, the district clerk will notify you that you are required to provide a copy of the items in your designation to the bankruptcy clerk, for quality review.
- If you are notified to provide a paper copy, organize the record according to the volumes maintained in the district court's ECF system.
- Even if a paper copy is not required when an appeal is entered on the docket, the district judge or the district clerk may later notify you that a paper copy is required for the use of the district judge or the court of appeals.

APPELLANT'S AMENDED DESIGNATION OF ITEMS TO BE INCLUDED IN THE RECORD ON APPEAL AND STATEMENT OF THE ISSUES PRESENTED

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 8009(a), Appellant Patrick Daugherty ("Daugherty") hereby submits his amended designation of items to be included in the record on appeal and statement of issues to be presented in connection with his appeal from the July 24, 2026 Judgment and Memorandum Opinion [Docket Nos. 138, 139 in Adversary No. 25-03055-bwo]. See Notice of Appeal [Docket No. 142 in Adversary No. 25-03055-bwo].

Statement of Issues on Appeal

1. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in disallowing Daugherty's Reserved Claim based on the Employment Agreement's termination provisions, when the Court itself found the 2009 Compensation Statement was incorporated into the Employment Agreement and resolved its ambiguity in Daugherty's favor, concluding that Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland") intended to compensate Daugherty for any material deviation in his 2008 tax refund.

2. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in applying the "no further liability or obligation" language of Sections 4.5 and 4.6 of the Employment Agreement to extinguish Daugherty's compensation entitlement under the 2009 Compensation Statement, when that language pertains to severance contingent upon execution of a separation agreement and not to earned compensation that accrued during Daugherty's active employment.

3. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in holding that James Dondero's oral promises to cover Daugherty's contingent tax liability were unenforceable under Texas's statute of frauds, Tex. Bus. & Com. Code § 26.01, when Highland had a main purpose of its own in making the promise and when the Court failed to consider Daugherty's continued employment and forbearance as adequate consideration.

4. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in denying Daugherty's counterclaim for specific performance of the Settlement Agreement's books-and-records provision by construing that provision through the statutory categories of 6 Del. C. § 18-305(a), rather than by the plain meaning of the negotiated Settlement Agreement requiring Highland to "transfer its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty" "[t]o facilitate [the] recovery of [] potential claims," including "the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system."

5. Whether the Bankruptcy Court abused its discretion by granting Highland Capital Management, L.P.'s Cross Motion pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 60(b)(6) when Highland failed to make a showing of manifest injustice and exceptional circumstances required to rewrite a term of the parties' bargained-for, court-approved settlement agreement that Highland Capital Management, L.P. entered on a free, deliberate, calculated, and counseled basis.

6. Whether the Bankruptcy Court abused its discretion by granting Highland Capital Management, L.P.'s Cross Motion pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 60(b)(6) when Highland was estopped from seeking such relief after it obtained the benefits of the tolling provision in the settlement agreement, including, inter alia, the parties' negotiation and execution of a series of tolling agreements to the benefit of Highland Capital Management, L.P. regarding its certain claim-objection deadline.

NO. 1] AND ORIGINAL COUNTERCLAIM[2]

Defendant Patrick Daugherty files this Answer to Plaintiff Highland Capital Management, L.P.'s Complaint for (1) Disallowance of Claim No. 205 in its Entirety, (2) Estimation of Claim No. 205 for Allowance Purposes, or (3) Subordination of Any Allowed Portion of Claim No. 205 of Patrick Hagaman Daugherty [Doc. No. 1] and Original Counterclaim and would respectfully show the Court as follows:

I. ANSWER TO PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. Daugherty admits that he is a former employee of, and former limited partner as a profits interest holder in, Highland. 3. Daugherty denies the allegations in Paragraph 3.

[2] Daugherty files this Answer and Counterclaim without waiving the rights and arguments he asserts in his September 26, 2025 Motion to Stay Pending Appeal [Doc. No. 33] currently pending before the Court, as well as his Motion to Dismiss [Doc. No. 5] which the Court denied on September 5, 2025 [Doc. No. 23].

4. Daugherty admits that his remaining claim against Highland depends, at least in part, on the result of the IRS' "final determination" of Highland's 2008 tax return. Daugherty denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 4.

II. ANSWER TO JURISDICTION AND VENUE

5. Daugherty admits the allegations in Paragraph 5.

6. Daugherty admits the allegations in Paragraph 6.

IV. ANSWER TO STATEMENT OF FACTS

11. Daugherty admits the allegations in Paragraph 11.

12. Daugherty admits the allegations in Paragraph 12.

13. Daugherty admits the allegations in Paragraph 13.

14. Daugherty admits the allegations in Paragraph 14.

15. Daugherty admits the allegations in Paragraph 15.

16. Daugherty admits that he was hired by Highland in 1998 and that he later became eligible to participate in various Highland incentive plans including Highland's long-term incentive plan. Daugherty denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 16.

17. Daugherty admits the Highland was a limited partnership and a pass-through entity as alleged in Paragraph 17 but denies any actual or implied characterization that Daugherty's 2008 pre-tax refund was based on taxable losses or that he or any partner other that Dondero, Okada, and their affiliates were ever allowed to participate in pass-through distributions from Highland.

18. Daugherty admits that Highland provided him with the Comprehensive Compensation and Benefits Statement, but Daugherty denies the allegation that such statement was entirely accurate and reserves the right to dispute same.

19. Daugherty admits that the Comprehensive Compensation and Benefits Statement included a characterized estimated tax refund, but Daugherty denies the allegation that such statement was entirely accurate and reserves the right to dispute the same. Daugherty otherwise denies any remaining allegations in Paragraph 19.

20. In response to the allegations in Paragraph 20, Daugherty admits that Highland provided him with the Comprehensive Compensation and Benefits Statement, but Daugherty denies the allegation that such statement was entirely accurate and reserves the right to dispute same.

21. Daugherty denies the characterization of the allegations in Paragraph 21 to the extent that the quotes cited therein refer to non-binding statements or assertions made by or to Daugherty.

22. Daugherty admits that the allegations in Paragraph 22 reflect some of what was included on the 2008 K-1, but Daugherty denies the reference to him receiving what "he was promised . . . if not more" to the extent it refers to something that alters the relevant, binding contractual language.

23. Daugherty admits that the IRS began an audit of Highland's 2008 tax return but denies that all "obligations" to Daugherty have been satisfied. To the best of Daugherty's belief, the IRS audit is not yet fully resolved.

24. Daugherty admits that he terminated his employment with Highland on October 31, 2011, because of improprieties regarding treatment of investor accounts, among other things, but Daugherty denies the allegations to the extent Highland interprets them to constitute a waiver on Daugherty's behalf.

25. Daugherty admits that Claim No. 205 originally estimated Highland was liable to him for $2,650,353 among other costs. Daugherty otherwise denies the allegations in Paragraph 25.

26. Daugherty denies the allegations in Paragraph 26.

27. Daugherty denies the allegations in Paragraph 27.

29. Paragraph 29 contains statements that are legal conclusions for which no response is required. To the extent a response is required Daugherty denies the allegations.

30. Paragraph 30 contains statements that are legal conclusions for which no response is required. To the extent a response is required Daugherty denies the allegations.

31. Daugherty admits that he earned bonus compensation from Highland in 2008 that was allocatable to him pursuant to Highland's decision to fund the bonus with the tax refund scheme, but Daugherty denies Highland's characterization of same in the allegations in Paragraph 31.

32. Daugherty denies the allegations in Paragraph 32.

33. Daugherty denies the allegations in Paragraph 33.

34. Daugherty denies the allegations in Paragraph 34 to the extent they seek to present prior opinions and legal conclusions as statements of verifiable fact.

35. Daugherty denies the allegations in Paragraph 35.

36. Paragraph 36 contains statements that are legal conclusions for which no response is required. To the extent a response is required Daugherty denies the allegations and further denies the statute governs given the express language of the settlement agreement between Daugherty and Highland.

37. Daugherty admits the allegations in the first sentence of Paragraph 37. Daugherty lacks information to admit or deny the second sentence of Paragraph 37 and therefore denies it.

38. Daugherty admits the allegations in Paragraph 38.

39. Daugherty denies the allegations (and requests for relief) in Paragraph 39.

40. Daugherty denies the allegations in Paragraph 40 to the extent they seek to present prior opinions and legal conclusions as statements of verifiable fact.

41. Paragraph 41 contains legal conclusions for which a response is not required. To the extent a response is required Daugherty denies the allegations.

42. Paragraph 42 contains legal conclusions for which a response is not required. To the extent a response is required, Daugherty denies the allegations.

43. Daugherty admits he owned the Partnership Interests in the form of a profits interest in Highland but denies the remaining allegations in Paragraph 43.

44. Daugherty denies the allegations in Paragraph 44.

45. Daugherty denies the allegations (and request for relief) in Paragraph 45.

VI. PRAYER

Daugherty denies that Highland is entitled to any of the relief requested in its Complaint, or to any relief whatsoever, and requests that Highland's claims be dismissed with prejudice. Daugherty further requests that the Court award it costs and any other relief the Court deems proper.

VII. AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES

1. Further answering Highland's claims, Daugherty asserts the following defenses without assuming any burden that he would not otherwise have, including without admitting or acknowledging that he bears the burden of proof as to any of the defenses denoted herein.

Prior Material Breach

2. Highland's claims are barred in whole or in part by its prior material breach of the governing employment agreement as well as the settlement agreement previously approved by this Court.

Failure to State a Claim

3. Highland's claims are barred in whole or in part by their failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

Equitable Estoppel

4. Highland's claims are barred in whole or in part by the doctrine of equitable estoppel. Highland and Daugherty entered into a binding settlement agreement wherein Daugherty gave up various rights and claims in exchange for a bargained-for agreement that Highland would not commence litigation under the IRS has concluded audit of Highland's 2008 tax return. Highland's decision to seek judicial modification of a binding contract prevents it from having the equitable right to relief. Highland should be estopped from bringing the immediate litigation against Daugherty.

Failure of Consideration

5. Highland's claims fail because they are based upon a settlement agreement that was modified without consideration. Daugherty and Highland engaged in robust and detailed negotiations that ultimately culminated in the binding settlement agreement between the parties. Highland's decision to seek judicial modification of the settlement agreement—without providing substitute consideration to Daugherty—renders the Settlement Agreement unenforceable due to failure of consideration.

COUNTERCLAIM AGAINST PLAINTIFF/COUNTER DEFENDANT HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.

Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff Patrick Hagaman Daugherty files this Original Counterclaim Against Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant Highland Capital Management, L.P. and would show the Court as follows:

1. On November 22, 2021, Daugherty and Highland signed a Settlement Agreement wherein Daugherty acquired the "interests in HERA and ERA." The Settlement Agreement also mandated that Highland transfer the books and records of HERA (Highland Employee Retention Assets LLC) and ERA (Highland ERA Management LLC) that are "maintained on HCMLP's system." Despite demand, however, Highland refused and failed to turn over all books and records in its possession related to HERA and ERA – entities that Daugherty and his affiliates now own in their entirety. Highland's failure in this regard is a breach of the Settlement Agreement.

2. Daugherty's demand is even more urgent given Highland's latest filing in the main bankruptcy through which Highland seeks to destroy a significant amount of the records in its possession (under the guise of saving $7,500/month). As the Court is aware, there is extensive litigation between HERA and Dondero and his enablers in other forums. Daugherty bargained for and obtained the interests in HERA and acquired the rights to the HERA books and records in Highland's possession. HERA needs those books and records to continue litigating its claims against James Dondero and other former Highland employees and representatives. The Court should enforce the Settlement Agreement as written and require Highland to turn over to Daugherty what is rightfully his.

3. Jurisdiction and venue are proper in this Court for the reasons alleged and authorities cited in Highland's Complaint [Doc. No. 1] and pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 13, as incorporated by Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7013.

PARTIES

4. Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff Patrick Hagaman Daugherty is an individual residing in the State of Texas.

5. Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant Highland Capital Management, L.P. is a Delaware limited partnership with its principal place of business located at 100 Crescent Court, Suite 1850, Dallas, Texas 75201. Highland has appeared in this adversary proceeding through its attorneys of record.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

6. Daugherty and Highland executed a Settlement Agreement on November 22, 2021, that provided clarity for both parties as the main bankruptcy case proceeded towards confirmation.

Main Case Docket No. 3088, 3089.[3] The Court approved the Settlement Agreement on March 8, 2022. Id.

7. Through the Settlement Agreement, Highland agreed to transfer to Daugherty Highland's interests in Highland Employee Retention Assets LLC ("HERA") and ERA Management, LLC ("ERA"). Specifically, the Settlement Agreement provided that, "[Highland] will transfer its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty. Such transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on [Highland's] system." Id.

8. The Settlement Agreement was not permissive or discretionary in this regard. The Settlement Agreement required that Highland "will" do these things. Since March 2022, however, Daugherty has made several requests to Highland that it comply with the Settlement Agreement by turning over all of the HERA and ERA books and records. To date, Highland has not complied – and in fact has refused to do so. Daugherty, therefore, brings this counterclaim against Highland.

CAUSES OF ACTION

Count I – Breach of Contract

9. Daugherty incorporates by reference the above paragraphs.

10. On November 22, 2021, after extensive negotiations, Daugherty and Highland executed a binding contract – the Settlement Agreement. The Court approved the Settlement Agreement on March 8, 2022.

11. Daugherty performed and satisfied all obligations that the Settlement Agreement imposed upon him.

[3] All capitalized terms used but not defined in this motion shall have the same definitions as they have in the Settlement Agreement at Main Case Doc. No. 3089. The Settlement Agreement is also attached as Exhibit A.

12. Highland breached the Settlement Agreement by refusing to turn over all the HERA and ERA books and records in Highland's possession. Settlement Agreement at ¶ 8 (Highland agreed to turn over to Daugherty all "interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty…Such transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system.").

13. HERA is currently engaged in litigation with Dondero and others in the case styled Highland Employee Retention Assets LLC v. James Donero, et al., Civil Action No. 3:24-cv-00498-K, pending in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Texas. That litigation centers on Dondero's mismanagement of the monetary contributions that numerous Highland employees made into retirement vehicles managed by HERA. But because of Dondero's and others' underhanded efforts to fraudulently transfer assets to benefit themselves and others, those contributions were funneled out of HERA and into various entities and accounts controlled by Dondero, Okada, Ellington and their affiliates.

14. Daugherty bargained for and obtained Highland's interests in HERA as well as Highland's books and records related to HERA. There is no question that Highland breached the Settlement Agreement by refusing to turn over all of those books and records. And as evidenced by Highland's Motion for Order Authorizing Destruction of Documents filed in the main bankruptcy, Highland clearly has no intention of honoring its commitment to turn over documents. See Main Bankruptcy Doc. No. 4416. In fact, Highland wants to destroy the very records it contractually promised to turn over to Daugherty.

15. Daugherty asks this Court to find that Highland breached the Settlement Agreement.

Count II – Specific Performance

16. Daugherty incorporates by reference the above paragraphs.

17. The Settlement Agreement is a binding contract that Daugherty has not repudiated or breached.

18. Daugherty performed and satisfied all obligations that the Settlement Agreement imposed upon him.

19. Highland breached the Settlement Agreement by refusing to turn over all the HERA and ERA books and records in Highland's possession. Settlement Agreement at ¶ 8 (Highland agreed to turn over to Daugherty all "interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty…Such transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system.").

20. At all relevant times, Daugherty has been ready, willing, and able to work with Highland to effectuate the transfer of the HERA and ERA books and records.

21. Because of Highland's unique position as the sole custodian of the HERA and ERA books and records that Highland agreed to turn over to Daugherty, the circumstances are such that Daugherty cannot recover absent the Court ordering specific performance. The Court's specific performance order against Highland would be the just result, as the balance of equities tips in favor of Daugherty. See generally Osborn v. Kemp, 991 A.2d 1153, 1158 (Del. 2010).

22. If the Court does not order Highland to comply with the terms of the Settlement Agreement and turn over the relevant books and records, Daugherty will be irreparably harmed. HERA will be unable to adequately pursue its litigation against Dondero, Okada, Ellington and the others.

Count III – Attorneys' Fees

23. Daugherty incorporates by reference the above paragraphs.

24. As a result of Highland's bad faith conduct and breach of the Settlement Agreement, Daugherty has been forced to retain the services of the undersigned counsel to pursue his claims in this case. Because Delaware law governs the Settlement Agreement, Daugherty asks the Court to award him his reasonable and necessary attorneys' fees due to Highland's bad faith conduct. See generally Tandycrafts, Inc. v. Initio Partners, 562 A.2d 1162, 1164 (Del. 1989); see also Slawik v. State, 480 A.2d 636, 639 n. 5 (Del. 1984). The requirements of the Settlement Agreement are clear – Highland "will" turn over the HERA and ERA books and records to Daugherty. In bad faith, Highland has refused to do so, and the Court should award Daugherty his attorneys' fees accordingly.

CONCLUSION AND PRAYER

Defendant Patrick Hagaman Daugherty prays that the Court render final judgment that Highland takes nothing by its suit and award Daugherty a judgment against Highland for:

a. Specific performance against Highland that it be required to turn over the books and records in its possession related to HERA and ERA;

b. Daugherty's actual and compensable damages, if any;

c. Daugherty's reasonable and necessary attorneys' fees;

d. All costs of court;

e. Post-judgment interest accruing on the foregoing amounts at the maximum rate allowed by law; and

f. Any such further relief, both general and specific, legal or equitable, to which Daugherty may be justly entitled.

EXHIBIT A

Final Execution Copy

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This Settlement Agreement (the "Settlement") is made and entered into by and between (i) Highland Capital Management, L.P., as reorganized debtor ("HCMLP" or the "Debtor"), and (ii) Patrick Hagaman Daugherty ("Daugherty" and together with HCMLP, the "Parties," and individually as a "Party"). This Settlement provides for the treatment of certain claims asserted by Daugherty against the Debtor, and for the Parties to take certain other specified actions in settlement thereof.

RECITALS

WHEREAS, on October 16, 2019 (the "Petition Date"), the Debtor filed a voluntary petition for relief under title 11 of the United States Code (the "Bankruptcy Code");

WHEREAS, the Debtor's chapter 11 case (the "Bankruptcy") is pending in the Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division (the "Bankruptcy Court");

WHEREAS, on February 2 and 3, 2021, the Court conducted a confirmation hearing with respect to the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) [Docket No. 1808] (the "Plan");

WHEREAS, on February 8, 2021, the Court rendered an opinion from the bench in which it confirmed the Plan [Docket No. 1924];

WHEREAS, on February 22, 2021, the Court issued an order confirming the Plan [Docket No. 1943];

WHEREAS, on August 11, 2021, the Effective Date (as defined in the Plan) occurred [Docket No. 2700];

WHEREAS, Daugherty is a former employee and limited partner of the Debtor and has served in other positions with affiliates and former affiliates of the Debtor;

WHEREAS, at the time of his resignation, Daugherty owned 19.1% of the preferred units of Highland Employee Retention Assets LLC ("HERA"), an employee deferred compensation vehicle managed by the Debtor and Highland ERA Management, LLC ("ERA") and contends that he owned or had the right to own all of the preferred units of HERA;

WHEREAS, prior to his resignation from HCMLP, Daugherty was awarded units of HERA, which vehicle owned interests in Restoration Capital Partners, LP ("RCP"), an HCMLP managed private equity fund, and other investments;

WHEREAS, in April 2012, the Debtor commenced an action against Daugherty in Texas state court (the "Texas Action"), and Daugherty subsequently asserted counterclaims for breach of contract and defamation, and third-party claims against HERA and others;

WHEREAS, after a three-week trial, the jury returned a verdict partially in favor of the Debtor, but Daugherty prevailed on his claims against the Debtor and James Dondero ("Dondero") for defamation with malice and a third-party claim against HERA and was awarded damages of $2.6 million against HERA, plus prejudgment and post-judgment interest at 5% (the "HERA Judgment");[1]

WHEREAS, in July 2017, after being unable to collect on the HERA Judgment, Daugherty commenced an action against the Debtor, Dondero, HERA, and ERA Management in the Delaware Chancery Court (the "Delaware Court"), in a case captioned Daugherty v. Highland Capital Management, L.P., et al., C.A. No. 2017-0488-MTZ, for fraudulent transfer, promissory estoppel, unjust enrichment, indemnification, and fees on fees (the "Highland Delaware Case");

[1] The Debtor prevailed on its claims against Mr. Daugherty for breach of contract and breach of fiduciary duty for non-monetary damages and obtained an award of $2.8 million in attorney's fees. The HERA Judgment was affirmed on appeal on December 1, 2016.

WHEREAS, the Delaware Court in the Highland Delaware Case (i) found that the Dondero-related defendants improperly withheld dozens of documents in discovery on privilege grounds, and (ii) ruled that there was "a reasonable basis to believe that a fraud has been perpetrated" such that the Delaware Court applied the "crime-fraud exception" to the attorney-client privilege assertion, and such rulings have not been overturned;

WHEREAS, Daugherty asserts that such withholding of documents and the failure to search defendants' and their employees personal electronic devices for stored documents and texts as well as other emails and domain names such as sasmgt.com and gmail.com which were in their possession and control and to provide required discovery injured him by undermining his attempts to build an evidentiary record to support his claims against the Debtor and the other defendants in the Highland Delaware Case;

WHEREAS, on October 14, 2019, the Highland Delaware Case proceeded to trial and two days later, on October 16, 2019, before the completion of the trial and before the Delaware Court ruled on Daugherty's and the Debtor's cross-motions for summary judgment regarding indemnification and fees on fees, the Debtor filed for bankruptcy;

WHEREAS, on December 1, 2019, Daugherty filed a separate lawsuit in the Delaware Court, captioned Daugherty v. Dondero, et al., C.A. No. 2019-0956-MTZ, against Dondero, HERA, ERA, Hunton Andrews Kurth LLP ("Andrews Kurth"), Marc Katz ("Katz"), Michael Hurst ("Hurst"), the Debtor's Chief Compliance Officer, the Debtor's then in-house counsel (Isaac Leventon ("Leventon")), and the Debtor's then general counsel (Scott Ellington ("Ellington")), for conspiracy to commit fraud, among other claims (the "HERA Delaware Case" and together with the Highland Delaware Case, the "Delaware Cases");

WHEREAS, on April 1, 2020, Daugherty filed a general, unsecured, non-priority claim against the Debtor in the amount of at "least $37,483,876.59," and such claim was denoted by the Debtor's claims agent as Proof of Claim No. 67 ("Proof of Claim No. 67");

WHEREAS, on April 6, 2020, Daugherty filed a general, unsecured, non-priority claim against the Debtor in the amount of at "least $37,482,876.62" that superseded Proof of Claim No. 67 and that was denoted by the Debtor's claims agent as Proof of Claim No. 77 ("Proof of Claim No. 77");

WHEREAS, on August 31, 2020, the Debtor commenced an adversary proceeding against Daugherty by filing a complaint (the "Complaint") in which the Debtor: (1) objected to Proof of Claim No. 77 on various grounds (the "Claim Objection"), and (2) asserted a cause of action for the subordination of part of Daugherty's claim pursuant to section 510(b) of the Bankruptcy Code. Adv. Proc. No. 20-03107 (the "Adv. Proc.") [Adv. Docket No. 1] (the "Adversary Proceeding");

WHEREAS, on September 29, 2020, Daugherty filed his answer to the Complaint [Adv. Docket No. 8] (the "Answer");

WHEREAS, on September 24, 2020, Daugherty filed his Motion to Confirm Status of Automatic Stay, or Alternatively to Modify Automatic Stay [Docket No. 1099] (the "Stay Motion") pursuant to which he sought to sever the Debtor from the Highland Delaware Case and then consolidate the remaining claims in the Highland Delaware Case into the HERA Delaware Case and proceed with one case against the non-Debtor parties;[2]

WHEREAS, on October 23, 2020, Daugherty filed a motion seeking leave to amend his Proof of Claim No. 77 [Docket No. 1280] (the "POC Amendment Motion"). The amended proof

[2] On October 8, 2020, the Debtor commenced a second adversary proceeding against Daugherty (the "Second Adversary Proceeding"), seeking to enjoin him from prosecuting the Delaware Cases. Adv. Proc. 20-03128 ("2d Adv. Proc.") [2d Adv. Proc. Docket No. 1]. On January 29, 2021, the parties filed a Settlement that resolved the Second Adversary Proceeding, and the Second Adversary Proceeding was subsequently dismissed with prejudice. [2d Adv. Proc. Docket No. 12].

of claim attached to the POC Amendment Motion increased Daugherty's general, unsecured, non-priority claim against the Debtor to the amount of at "least $40,410,819.42" and sought to supersede Proof of Claim No. 67 and Proof of Claim No. 77;

WHEREAS, on October 23, 2020, Daugherty filed his Motion for Temporary Allowance of Claim for Voting Purposes Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 3018 Motion, seeking for his Claim to be temporarily allowed for voting purposes in this amount of $40,410,819.42 [Docket No. 1281] (the "3018 Motion");

WHEREAS, on November 3, 2020, the Court granted the Stay Motion [Docket No. 1327];

WHEREAS, the Debtor opposed the 3018 Motion, and after conducting an evidentiary hearing for the limited purpose of determining the 3018 Motion, the Court entered an order temporarily allowing Daugherty's Claim only for voting purposes in the amount of $9,134,019 [Docket No. 1474];

WHEREAS, on December 10, 2020, the Court entered an order [Docket No. 1533] granting the POC Amendment Motion, and Daugherty was permitted to file an amendment to his proof of claim. On December 23, 2020, Daugherty filed an amended proof of claim, designated by the Debtor's claim agent as Proof of Claim No. 205 ("Proof of Claim No. 205" or the "Daugherty Claim"). Proof of Claim No. 205 superseded Proof of Claim No. 77 and increased the amount of the Daugherty's Claim to $40,710,819.42;

WHEREAS, on November 30, 2020, Daugherty filed his Motion to Lift the Automatic Stay (the "Lift Stay Motion") [Docket No. 1491] seeking to lift the automatic stay to allow him to finish his trial in the Delaware Court and liquidate his claims. The Debtor opposed the Lift Stay Motion, and after a hearing was held on December 17, 2020, the Court denied the relief requested in the Lift Stay Motion [Docket No. 1612];

WHEREAS, except with respect to the Reserved Claim (as defined below), the Parties have agreed to settle and resolve all claims and disputes between them and their respective current affiliates, managed entities, and employees, including the Daugherty Claim, on the terms set forth in this Settlement:

AGREEMENT

NOW, THEREFORE, after good-faith, arms-length negotiations, and in consideration of the foregoing, it is hereby stipulated and agreed that:

1. Allowed Claims: In full satisfaction of the entirety of the Daugherty Claim against the Debtor and HCMLP Released Parties (defined below), excluding the Reserved Claim, Daugherty shall receive (a) an allowed general unsecured Class 8 claim in the amount of $8,250,000; (b) an allowed subordinated general unsecured Class 9 claim in the amount of $3,750,000; and (c) a one-time lump sum cash payment in the amount of $750,000 to be paid within 5 business days of Bankruptcy Court approval of this Settlement Agreement.

2. Recovery: The Debtor makes no representation or warranty as to the recovery on Class 8 or Class 9 claims under the Plan.

3. Observation Access: As soon as practicable following entry of an order of the Bankruptcy Court approving this Settlement, HCMLP shall use reasonable efforts to petition the Claimant Trust Oversight Board[3] to permit Daugherty to have access as an observer to meetings of the Claimant Trust Oversight Board, subject to policies, procedures, and agreements applicable to other observers of the Claimant Trust Oversight Board, including policies, procedures, and agreements related to confidentiality and common interest. Whether Daugherty will be granted observer access and any continuing observer access is and will remain at the sole discretion of the

[3] The Claimant Trust Oversight Board refers to the Oversight Board as defined in the August 11, 2021 Highland Claimant Trust Agreement establishing the Claimant Trust, as defined therein.

Claimant Trust Oversight Board.

4. RCP Track Record: HCMLP shall use reasonable efforts to provide Daugherty with data constituting the investment performance track record of RCP during Daugherty's tenure at HCMLP. Daugherty shall not be entitled to any compensation with respect to the performance of RCP. HCMLP makes no representations or warranties regarding such data and takes no responsibility with respect to the use of such data for any purposes.

5. Daugherty Releases: Except as specifically provided in this paragraph 5, and to the maximum extent permitted by applicable law, the Debtor, on behalf of itself and each of the HCMLP Entities and HCMLP Parties (as those terms are defined in paragraph 6 below), hereby forever, finally, fully, unconditionally, and completely releases, relieves, acquits, remises, and exonerates, and covenants never to sue Daugherty, his successors, affiliates, and assigns, (and in each such category to include their respective advisors, trustees, directors, officers, managers, members, partners, employees, beneficiaries, shareholders, agents, participants, subsidiaries, parents, affiliates, and designees) (collectively, the "Daugherty Additional Release Parties" and together with Daugherty, the "Daugherty Released Parties"), in each case acting in such capacity, for and from any and all claims, debts, liabilities, demands, obligations, promises, acts, agreements, liens, losses, costs and expenses (including, without limitation, attorney's fees and related costs), damages, injuries, suits, actions, and causes of action of whatever kind or nature, whether known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, matured or unmatured, liquidated or unliquidated, contingent or fixed, at law or in equity, statutory or otherwise, including, without limitation those which were or could have been asserted in the Bankruptcy, including the Adversary Proceeding, the Texas Action, or the Delaware Cases, all existing as of the date hereof (collectively, the "HCMLP Released Claims"); provided, however, that such release shall not apply with respect to any and all defenses that HCMLP or the HCMLP Entities may have to the Reserved Claim or the Reserve Motion (as those terms are defined herein) or Daugherty's obligations under this Settlement. For the avoidance of doubt, the HCMLP Released Claims include all claims or causes of action and facts, known or unknown, that exist as of the date hereof but do not include or apply to claims or causes of action based on facts occurring after the date hereof.

6. HCMLP Releases: Except as specifically provided in this paragraph 6, and to the maximum extent permitted by law, Daugherty, on behalf of himself and each of the Daugherty Released Parties, hereby forever, finally, fully, unconditionally, and completely releases, relieves, acquits, remises, and exonerates, and covenants never to sue, (a)(i) HCMLP; (ii) Strand Advisors Inc.; (iii) the Claimant Trust; (iv) the Claimant Trust Oversight Board; (v) the Highland Litigation Sub-Trust; (vi) the Highland Indemnity Trust; (vii) any entity of which greater than fifty percent of the voting ownership is held directly or indirectly by HCMLP as of the date hereof and any entity otherwise directly or indirectly controlled by HCMLP as of the date hereof,; and (viii) any entity managed by either HCMLP or a direct or indirect subsidiary of HCMLP, including Highland Restoration Capital Partners, L.P., Highland Restoration Capital Partners Offshore, L.P., Highland Restoration Capital Master, L.P. (and all of their respective general partners, feeder funds, managers, and affiliates) (the foregoing (a)(i) through (a)(viii) the "HCMLP Entities"), and (b) with respect to each such HCMLP Entity, such HCMLP Entity's respective current (meaning employed in their respective roles as of the date hereof) advisors, trustees, directors, officers, managers, members, partners, employees, beneficiaries, shareholders (but not the shareholders of Strand Advisors Inc.), agents, participants, subsidiaries, parents, affiliates, successors, designees, and assigns, except as expressly set forth below (the "HCMLP Parties," and together with the HCMLP Entities, the "HCMLP Released Parties"),[4] in each case acting in such capacity, for and from any and all claims, debts, liabilities, demands, obligations, promises, acts, agreements, liens, losses, costs and expenses (including, without limitation, attorney's fees and related costs), damages, injuries, suits, actions, and causes of action of whatever kind or nature, whether known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, matured or unmatured, liquidated or unliquidated, contingent or fixed, at law or in equity, statutory or otherwise, including without limitation those which were or could have been asserted in the Bankruptcy, including the Adversary Proceeding, the Texas Action, the Daugherty Claim, or the Highland Delaware Case (collectively, the "Daugherty Released Claims"); provided, however, that such release shall not apply with respect to the Reserved Claim or the Reserve Motion (as those terms are defined in paragraph 9 below) or HCMLP's obligations under this Settlement. This release expressly applies to all current employees of HCMLP as the Reorganized Debtor (as defined in the Plan), in their capacities as such. For the avoidance of doubt, the Daugherty Released Claims includes all claims or causes of action and facts, known or unknown, that exist as of the date hereof but do not include or apply to claims or causes of action based on facts occurring after the date hereof.

7. Reservation of Daugherty Rights: Notwithstanding anything contained herein to the contrary, the term HCMLP Released Parties shall not include (a) NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (or any of its subsidiaries and employees, advisors, or agents), (b) the Charitable Donor Advised Fund, L.P. (and any of its subsidiaries, including CLO Holdco, Ltd., and any of their respective employees, advisors, or agents), (c) NexBank, SSB (or any of its subsidiaries, employees, advisors, or agents), (d) James Dondero or any trust in which Dondero or any of his family members are a trustee or beneficiary (or any trustee acting for such trust), including but not limited to Hunter

[4] The Daugherty Additional Released Parties and the HCMLP Released Parties are collectively referred to as the "Additional Released Parties."

Mountain Investment Trust, The Get Good Trust, Dugaboy Investment Trust, SLHC Investment Trust, (e) HERA (subject to paragraph 8 below), (f) ERA (subject to paragraph 8 below), (g) Grant Scott, (h) Mark Okada and any trust in which Mark Okada or any of his family members are a beneficiary (or any trustee acting for such trust in their respective capacities), (i) Ellington, (j) Leventon, (k) Katz, (l) Hurst, (m) Andrews Kurth, or (m) any other former employee (as of the date hereof) of the HCMLP Released Parties.

8. HERA and ERA: The Parties acknowledge and agree that as of the date hereof, HERA and ERA have no material assets other than potential claims that may exist against persons or entities not released at or prior to the date hereof, and no claims against the HCMLP Released Parties. The allowed claims provided in paragraph 1 hereof are expressly agreed to in order to satisfy any liability the Debtor may have in connection with the HERA Judgment. To facilitate recovery of such potential claims – which expressly excludes any and all claims by or in the name of HERA and ERA against any of the HCMLP Released Parties -- HCMLP will transfer its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty. Such transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system. Such transfer will be without representation or warranty of any type; including, for the avoidance of doubt, without any representation or warranty as to the merits of the potential claims or the efficacy of the transfer of the potential claims. Such transfer will be without any liability or material cost to HCMLP or its affiliates or the other HCMLP Released Parties, including any liability in respect of any assets that HERA or ERA ever actually or allegedly owned, possessed, or controlled and that were actually or allegedly transferred, conveyed, sold, written off or otherwise disposed of (in any such case, a "Disposition"). In connection with the transfer, HERA and ERA have expressly released the HCMLP Released Parties from any and all claims, including any claims actions or remedies related to any Disposition, either of them may have against any HCMLP Released Party now or in the future (the "HERA and ERA Release"). Daugherty on behalf of himself and each of the Daugherty Released Parties acknowledges, accepts, and agrees not to challenge the HERA and ERA Release or support any challenge thereto. A copy of the HERA and ERA Release is annexed hereto as Exhibit A. Daugherty acknowledges and agrees that even though HERA and ERA are not HCMLP Released Parties under this Agreement, Daugherty and all Daugherty Released Parties shall (a) not seek to hold any HCMLP Released Party liable for any action or inaction taken by or on behalf of HERA or ERA, including through any derivative, veil-piercing or similar cause of action or remedy; and (b) not seek to recover damages or obtain any form of relief against any HCMLP Released Party on account of any action or inaction taken by or on behalf of HERA or ERA, including through any veil piercing or similar cause of action or remedy. If, for any reason, HERA or ERA, or any person or entity acting on their behalf, recovers anything from any HCMLP Released Party, Daugherty shall promptly turnover to HCMLP or its successors and assigns any amounts actually recovered by Daugherty or any Daugherty Released Party, from HERA or ERA arising from, related to, or derived from any claim that HERA or ERA or any person or entity acting on their behalf has or may have against any HCMLP Released Party. HCMLP will provide reasonable assistance to Daugherty to assist with the preparation of any required HERA K-1s for 2021, but any requirement to provide such K-1s will be the obligation, if any, of HERA.

9. IRS Compensation Claim: In section 4(ii) of the Addendum to Proof of Claim No. 205, Daugherty contends that he has a contingent, unliquidated claim against the Debtor arising out of a 2008/2009 compensation letter (the "Reserved Claim"), which claim is also related to an audit/dispute between the Debtor and the Internal Revenue Service (the "IRS") (the dispute between the Debtor and IRS being referred to herein as the "IRS Audit Dispute"). The Debtor disputes the validity and amount of the Reserved Claim. Daugherty shall retain the Reserved Claim solely against the Debtor and not against any other HCMLP Released Party, and the Debtor reserves the right to assert any and all defenses thereto. Any litigation by and between the Debtor and Daugherty concerning the validity and amount of the Reserved Claim shall be stayed until the IRS makes a final determination with respect to the IRS Audit Dispute; provided, however, that Daugherty may file a motion with the Bankruptcy Court to have the Reserved Claim estimated for purposes of establishing a reserve as a "Disputed Claim" under the Debtor's Plan (the "Reserve Motion"), and the Debtor (and any successor) reserves the right to assert any and all defenses thereto. Notwithstanding the foregoing, Daugherty may address any personal claim or personal liability to the IRS as a result of the IRS Audit Dispute, including settlement of any such claims; provided, however, Daugherty agrees to forego settling or addressing any claims with the IRS without the written consent of the Debtor until March 31, 2022.

10. Current HCMLP Employees: The HCMLP Parties set forth on Appendix A hereto are currently employed by the Debtor are HCMLP Released Parties. By executing a copy of this Settlement and delivering it to Daugherty, each of the persons on Appendix A agrees not to sue, attempt to sue, or threaten or work with or assist any entity or person to sue, attempt to sue, or threaten any Daugherty Released Party on or in connection with any claim or cause of action arising prior to the date of this Settlement.

11. Dismissal and Motions in Other Actions. Within ten business days after approval of this Settlement by the Bankruptcy Court, the Parties shall take all steps necessary (a) to dismiss with prejudice (i) the Highland Delaware Case, as against the Debtor and any HCMLP Released Party, and (ii) the HERA Delaware Case, as against every HCMLP Released Party, (b) to file an agreed motion and proposed order to partially vacate the final judgment entered against Daugherty in the Texas Action, (c) withdraw HCMLP's objection to the Daugherty motion to recuse in the Texas Action, and (d) to dismiss the Adversary Proceeding with prejudice. The parties shall file the foregoing motions and withdrawals substantially in the form of the documents annexed hereto as Exhibit B.

12. Additional Third Party Claims Discovery: The Debtor (a) shall accept service of any subpoenas via email served by Daugherty in connection with the Delaware Cases on behalf of itself, the HCMLP Entities, the HCMLP Parties (but only in their capacity as employees of HCMLP); and (b) acknowledge and consent to the jurisdiction of the Delaware Chancery Court for purposes of enforcing any such subpoenas, subject in all respects to the rights that the HCMLP Entities and HCMLP Parties to defend the requested production, if any.

13. Settlement of Third Party Claims: Daugherty shall not settle any claims or causes of action against any current or former director, officer, employee, agent or representative of HCMLP or Strand Advisors Inc. (collectively, the "Potentially Indemnified Parties") to the extent such claims have been brought or could have been brought against any Potentially Indemnified Parties, if any such settlement designates, defines or describes the settled claims as arising out of or relating to simple negligence or as having otherwise been within the scope of employment of the Potentially Indemnified Party.

14. Claims Register: As soon as practicable after the Settlement Effective Date, HCMLP shall instruct the claims agent in the Debtor's chapter 11 case to adjust the claims register in accordance with this Settlement.

15. Daugherty Representations: Daugherty represents and warrants to each of the HCMLP Released Parties that (a) he has full authority to release the Daugherty Released Claims and has not sold, transferred, or assigned any Daugherty Released Claim to any other person or entity and that (b) no person or entity other than Daugherty has been, is, or will be authorized to bring, pursue, or enforce any Daugherty Released Claim on behalf of, for the benefit of, or in the name of (whether directly or derivatively) Daugherty.

16. HCMLP Representations: Each of HCMLP and each HCMLP Released Party who has signed this Settlement represents and warrants to Daugherty that (a) he, she or it has not sold, transferred, pledged, assigned or hypothecated any HCMLP Released Claim to any other person or entity and (b) he, she, or it has full authority to release any HCMLP Released Claims that such HCMLP Released Party personally has against Daugherty.

17. Additional HCMLP Representations: HCMLP represents and warrants that it is releasing the HCMLP Released Claims on behalf of the HCMLP Entities to the maximum extent permitted by any contractual or other legal rights HCMLP possesses. To the extent any of the HCMLP Entities dispute HCMLP's right to release the HCMLP Released Claims on behalf of any of the HCMLP Entities, HCMLP shall use commercially reasonable efforts to support Daugherty's position, if any, that such claims were released herein. For the avoidance of doubt, HCMLP will have no obligations to assist Daugherty under this paragraph if HCMLP has been advised by external counsel that such assistance could subject HCMLP to liability to any third party or if such assistance would require HCMLP to expend material amounts of time or money. HCMLP shall not argue in any forum that the non-signatory status of any of the HCMLP Entities to this Settlement shall in any way affect the enforceability of this Settlement vis-à-vis any of the HCMLP Entities. The Parties agree that all of the HCMLP Entities are intended third-party beneficiaries of this Release.

18. HCMLP Covenant: HCMLP and the HCMLP Entities covenant and agree that they will not pursue or seek to enforce any injunctions entered in the Texas Action against Daugherty.

19. Entire Agreement; Modification: This Settlement contains the entire agreement between the Parties as to its subject matter and supersedes and replaces any and all prior agreements and undertakings between the Parties. This Settlement may not be modified other than by a signed writing executed by the Parties.

20. Bankruptcy Court Approval: Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, the effectiveness of HCMLP and the Claimant Trust's execution of this Settlement shall be subject to entry of an order of the Bankruptcy Court approving this Settlement. HCMLP shall take all steps necessary to file with the Bankruptcy Court a motion for an order approving this Settlement pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 9019 and section 363 of the Bankruptcy Code (the "Motion"). The parties agree to cooperate in the preparation and prosecution of the Motion which shall be filed no later than 5 business day after execution of this Settlement, unless such time is extended by mutual agreement.

21. Counterparts: This Settlement may be executed in counterparts (including facsimile and electronic transmission counterparts), each of which will be deemed an original but all of which together constitute one and the same instrument and shall be effective against a Party or Additional Released Party upon approval of the Settlement by the Bankruptcy Court.

22. Governing Law; Jurisdiction: This Settlement will be exclusively governed by and construed and enforced in accordance with the laws of the State of Delaware, without regard to its conflicts of law principles, and all claims relating to or arising out of this Settlement, or the breach thereof, whether sounding in contract, tort, or otherwise, will likewise be governed by the laws of the State of Delaware, excluding Delaware's conflicts of law principles. The Bankruptcy Court will retain exclusive jurisdiction over all disputes relating to this Settlement.

23. Headings: Paragraph headings included herein are for convenience and shall have no impact whatsoever on the meaning or interpretation of any part of this Settlement.

AGREED MOTION TO PARTIALLY VACATE THE FINAL JUDGMENT DATED JULY 14, 2014

TO THE HONORABLE JUDGE OF SAID COURT:

Plaintiff Highland Capital Management, LP ("Highland") and Defendant Patrick Daugherty ("Daugherty" and together with Highland, the "Parties") file this Agreed Motion to Partially Vacate the Final Judgment dated July 14, 2014 (the "Motion"), and respectfully show the following:

1. On July 14, 2014, this Court entered a Final Judgment (the "Judgment") that, among other things, granted Highland's motion for injunctive relief against Daugherty.

2. The Judgment was amended on March 23, and June 23, 2017.

3. On October 16, 2019, filed a petition under chapter 11 in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware ("Highland's Bankruptcy Case"). On October 24,

2019, as a result of the commencement of Highland's Bankruptcy Case, the Supreme Court of Texas issued an order abating a related case that Daugherty had brought in that court, Case No. 19-0758. Highland's Bankruptcy Case was subsequently transferred to the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas.

4. Daugherty asserted certain claims against Highland in Highland's Bankruptcy Case. The Parties have fully and finally resolved their disputes pursuant to a settlement agreement (the "Settlement Agreement") reached in the Highland Bankruptcy Case pursuant to which, among other things, (a) all of Daugherty's known and unknown claims against each of the Highland Released Parties (as those terms are defined in the Settlement Agreement) are resolved, and (b) this Motion seeking the vacatur of certain provisions of the Judgment specifically set forth below is being filed.

5. Highland and Daugherty hereby agree and stipulate that the Court has plenary power to issue an order granting this Motion because the Court retained authority to enforce the permanent injunction rendered in the Judgment, and that changed circumstances have now arisen such that the Court should dissolve the permanent injunction. Highland and Daugherty further agree and stipulate that this Motion shall be treated as an agreement of the Parties pursuant to Texas Rule of Civil Procedure 11, and is fully enforceable. See Coale v. Scott, 331 S.W.3d 829, 831-32 (Tex. App.—Amarillo 2011, no pet.) ("Irrespective of whether a trial court lost its plenary jurisdiction over its judgment, the trial court's authority to approve a Rule 11 agreement does not depend on whether it has such jurisdiction.").

6. Highland and Daugherty agree that the following portions of the Judgment shall be vacated pursuant to their settlement in the Highland Bankruptcy:

a. The second full paragraph on Page 2 of the Judgment, which begins "The Court, after considering the jury's findings regarding Daugherty's breaches of contract and breaches of fiduciary duty . . .";

b. The permanent injunction rendered against Daugherty in the third full paragraph on Page 2 of the Judgment, which begins "It is therefore further ORDERED that Daugherty be and hereby is commanded to cease and desist from . . .";

c. The fourth and fifth full paragraphs on Page 2 of the Judgment awarding Highland a monetary judgment against Daugherty for reasonable and necessary attorney's fees, as well as post-judgment interest on that award[1]; and

d. The jury's answers to Questions 1, 2, 5, 6, 9 and 12 in the Verdict, which was attached as Exhibit 1 to the Judgment.

7. Highland and Daugherty further agree that, as a result of the vacation of the permanent injunction in the Judgment, Highland hereby withdraws any pending motions to show cause or motions for contempt against Daugherty that allege Daugherty violated or is violating the permanent injunction. Highland also agrees not to seek to enforce the permanent injunction in any manner in the future.

[1] Daugherty previously satisfied the monetary judgment awarded to Highland, and Highland filed a release of the monetary judgment. Although Highland and Daugherty have agreed to vacate the monetary judgment awarded to Highland, Daugherty waives and relinquishes any right or claim to recover any amount previously paid in satisfaction of the Judgment and Highland shall not be required to reimburse Daugherty for his prior satisfaction of the monetary judgment. To the extent Daugherty is entitled to indemnification for any liabilities, losses, and damages allegedly incurred by him for actions taken in connection with Highland's business, including the liabilities Daugherty allegedly incurred in connection with this action and the Judgment, such indemnification claims have been fully and finally satisfied and resolved under the Settlement Agreement.

8. Concurrent with the filing of this Motion, Daugherty will file a motion to dismiss his as-yet unfiled petition for review pending before the Supreme Court of Texas under Case No. 19-0758.

9. Highland and Daugherty further agree that any portions of the Judgment that are not specifically vacated pursuant to this Motion shall remain in full force and effect.

WHEREFORE, Highland and Daugherty pray that the Court grant this Motion in its entirety, and for all further relief, at law or in equity, the Court deems necessary.

Tom,

Following up on your email of earlier this week, below is a link to certain of the HERA/ERA books and records.

I will send you two (2) further e-mails with zip files that contain additional tax-related documents and other business records.

We believe this production completes HCMLP's obligations under paragraph 8 of the Settlement Agreement, although Highland is making a final review to be certain and will produce any additional records it may identify.

Please let me know if you have any questions or if you have any difficulty accessing any of the books and records.

John

Subject: Daugherty Settlement Agreement Follow-Up
Date: Wed, 19 Oct 2022 17:23:06 +0000

Pat,

To follow-up on your recent request for additional information pertaining to the HERA/ERA entities, members of the Highland team have worked to gather further documentation for you. We previously provided corporate documents to you as well as the Quickbooks accounting file to your accountants using their file sharing system.

If acceptable to you, we propose to deliver this new large document delivery (400+ files) via DSI's Sharefile system. Use is straight forward and allows you to download all of the files in an orderly manner. Otherwise, please let me know if there is a different way you would prefer to receive these additional electronic files.

Under our settlement agreement, HCMLP agreed to "transfer its interests in HERA and ERA" to you, and that transfer "include[s] the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system." The transfers are without any liability or material cost to HCMLP. HCMLP also agreed to provide reasonable assistance to you in the preparation of HERA K-1s for 2021.

HCMLP previously made these entity and record transfers and provided books and records information through summarized financial statements and general ledger detail in excel spreadsheets, historical tax returns, governing documents, the raw Quickbooks file containing the historical accounting data, and a spreadsheet detailing the amounts charged by HCMLP to HERA down to the invoice level. HCMLP also prepared and signed the 2021 HERA tax returns with your (and your accountants) input and approval.

While we believe the information already provided satisfied HCMLP's undertakings under the settlement agreement, we nevertheless understand your request for additional HERA and ERA information and have been able to gather the further documentation broken down as follows (some of which may be duplicative to certain documents you've already received, but we are re-including regardless):

HERA

- Governing documents
- Amendments
- Assignments
- Correspondence
- Director resignations
- Expense allocations (resolutions + allocation agreement)
  - Actual copies of invoices (330+ individual invoices across 36 different vendors or law firms tracked down and will be transmitted; <10% couldn't be located and are therefore not included)
- Other resolutions
- Transfer agreements

ERA

- Governing documents

There is less documentation regarding ERA because it was solely a management entity. It did not have any economic activity, did not generate financials, and was a disregarded entity for tax purposes.

At your request, we also included excel tracking spreadsheets summarizing the assets of HERA from 2009 to May 2012 as well as the individual unit holder's respective interests in HERA. This file was maintained by HCMLP and appears to be an HCMLP business record tracking "The Vessel" (as HERA was sometimes known) and the interests of HCMLP employees in The Vessel.

We have also included certain additional HERA records that we have found relating to HERA assets and distributions to vested HERA participants. These records include: (i) miscellaneous spreadsheets reflecting various items, including actual cash distributions to vested participants; (ii) Smith Barney statements reflecting cash of HERA and ownership of NHF; and (iii) RCP Statements reflecting HERA interests.

Upon transmission of the information described above, HCMLP will have satisfied all of its obligations under the settlement agreement, and our involvement in HERA/ERA (your entities) will be complete. Of course, to the extent one-off questions come up, you're always welcome to contact me. Best of luck with these entities.

And again, as requested above please let us know how you would like us to deliver these files.

Best. Jim

Bo:

Thank you for you e-mail and supporting documentation. Please copy my partner, Jeff Pomerantz (copied here), on all written communications going forward.

Initially, we note that—intentionally or mistakenly—you misquoted the operative provision of the settlement agreement. Section 8, provides, in pertinent part, that the transfer would "include HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HMCLP's system." As Mr. Daugherty knows, the highlighted language you omitted is material and tracks the discussions between Mr. Seery and Mr. Daugherty concerning the limited nature of the books and records.

On the merits, your assertions concerning the emails are wrong. Again, HERA had no employees or URL nor did it have a repository of e-mails that it owned or controlled. Your contention that HERA had a "shared services" agreement with Highland is also wrong; if your clients want to rely on the supposed veracity of Ellington and Leventon's ambiguous (but false) statements, so be it (you refer to testimony from Dondero, but I did not see that among the documents included in your e-mail). Based on our experience, we suspect Judge Jernigan is already familiar with these issues.

Finally, there is nothing "ironic" or "enlightening" about an e-mail subject line referring to HERA's "books and records" in reaction to an apparent demand letter sent by Mr. Daugherty for HERA documents over eleven years ago. Highland doesn't dispute that HERA had "books and records." Highland provided them—and more—to your client long ago. Nothing in the e-mails you provided states, suggests, or even implies that anyone ever believed that HERA owned or possessed emails and that such emails were part of its "books and records."

Highland has taken all reasonable steps to fulfill its obligations to provide HERA's books and records to Pat. While it would be an unfortunate turn, if your clients honestly believe otherwise, a judicial order bringing finality to these matters would—ironically—be helpful.

Highland reserves all rights and claims at law and in equity.

Subject: HERA

Dear John,

Please be advised I represent Highland Employee Retention Assets, LLC ("HERA"). I have reviewed the correspondence between you and Drew York at Grey Reed earlier this year regarding obtaining HERA's books and records from Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland") and I find your response severely lacking. The November 22, 2021 Settlement Agreement between HERA and Highland is explicitly clear "HMCLP will transfer its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty. Such transfer will include HERA and ERA books and records maintained on HMCLP's system." See attached November 21, 2021 Settlement Agreement, page 10 Paragraph 8. This language is neither ambiguous nor confusing and includes all books and records that Highland has related to HERA without caveats or exclusions.

First, your position that emails do not constitute books and records is simply wrong. The Delaware Supreme Court (and almost ever other supreme court in the country) has held that emails constitute books and records of a corporation. KT4 Partners LLC v. Palantir Techs., Inc., 203 A.3d 738 (Del. 2019). The KT4 court went on to hold "[R]ather, it follows from one earlier recognized at common law, before email became a dominant mode of written communication, when stockholders were granted the right to inspect a variety of corporate "papers," often including letters and memoranda among officers and directors. Today, emails and other electronic communications do much of the work of the paper correspondence of yore." Id. Even more to the point at hand, this was a stockholders rights case to inspect corporate books and records, with certainty a court would hold that emails related to a corporation's operations are included in the "variety of corporate 'papers'". We are especially confident the Bankruptcy Court will find the emails previously requested, and requested again below, are part of HERA's books and records as required by the Settlement Agreement to be turned over.

Second, your position that "(a) HERA and ERA had no employees; (b) no person used an e-mail address with HERA or ERA URL; (c) neither HERA or ERA ever had a shared services agreement with HCMLP and (d) HCMLP's emails are not now and never were, HERA and ERA's property" is here again not only wrong but disingenuous at best.

Whether or not HERA had employees has no bearing on any analysis as to what constitutes HERA's books and records. Further, the URL address is irrelevant if persons were acting on behalf of HERA, which the evidence shows Highland clearly was. Abrams & Bayliss was outside counsel selected solely to represent HERA and yet took direction from Highland and its affiliates. Highland in house legal team members, including but not limited to, Thomas Surgent, Ted Demaris and Scott Ellington, along with Highland's outside counsel, including but not limited to, Mark Katz, Paul Lackey and Michael Hurst worked directly with Abrams & Bayliss (Steven Hough, Kevin Abrams) to create legal documents, coordinate strategy, and transfer assets on behalf of HERA. Please see the attached pdf labeled HERA legal team emails. It is enlightening, if not ironic, that the subject line of those emails is Books and Records [HERA].

Your assertion that Highland and its affiliates never had a shared services agreement with HERA is shocking in light of the record evidence. I appreciate the fact that you and your firm were not retained as bankruptcy counsel until late September 2019; however, I am hopeful the attached will clarify this issue. Please see attached sworn deposition testimony of Ellington whereby he verifies that he, while also serving as Highland's General Counsel and others including Leventon, while also serving as Highland Chief Legal Counsel, were performing legal services on behalf of HERA. Throughout his deposition Ellington testifies there was a "shared services" agreement with Highland as the manager (and Advisor under the 1940 Securities Act- aka the Registered Investment Advisor Act or RIA). Further, see attached sworn deposition testimony of Leventon where he testifies that Andrews Kurth provided legal services to HERA under a "Joint Defense Agreement". Moreover, see attached sworn trial testimony of Dondero where he testifies he performed work on behalf of HERA pursuant to a shared services agreement. I do not think I need to belabor this point further.

Your assertion that Highland's emails are not now and never were, HERA and ERA's property, while I will not quibble the details, as shown above and pursuant to the Settlement Agreement, they are clearly books and records "maintained on Highlands systems" and thus clearly need to be produced.

In light of the foregoing I am asking that Highland and its affiliates turn over the following within fourteen days:

- All original Word, Excel and PowerPoint documents concerning HERA. This request includes originally created documents and drafts, as well as modified or amended versions of the same.
- All email correspondence concerning HERA.
- All documents related to the transfer of HERA assets.
- All documents related to expenses of HERA assets.
- All email and documents concerning HERA assets, legal communications, tax issues, or unit holder communications.
- All email and documents by Highland in house legal team members, Highland outside counsel and HERA's outside legal counsel related to HERA
- All email and documents by and between HERA board members and with either in house or outside counsel or other service providers at Highland.

As previously requested, all of these requested documents, files and communications should include the corresponding metadata. I am happy to discuss with you what metadata should be included with the load file for the production. Finally, I recommend Highland utilize an outside vendor to collect and produce these requested documents, files and communications due to the sensitive nature of the information, as well as any potential for a conflict of interest among any existing Highland employees that are asked to participate in the collection and production efforts.

HERA has an absolute right to its books and records pursuant to the explicit terms of the Settlement Agreement and you (Highland) are in possession of those books and records. I am hopeful that you will agree to produce those books and records to us. Rest assured your continued refusal to comply with the Settlement Agreement will result in our seeking enforcement of same with the Bankruptcy Court. I look forward to your response.

Bo

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This Settlement Agreement (the "Settlement") is made and entered into by and between (i) Highland Capital Management, L.P., as reorganized debtor ("HCMLP" or the "Debtor"), and (ii) Patrick Hagaman Daugherty ("Daugherty" and together with HCMLP, the "Parties," and individually as a "Party"). This Settlement provides for the treatment of certain claims asserted by Daugherty against the Debtor, and for the Parties to take certain other specified actions in settlement thereof.

RECITALS

WHEREAS, on October 16, 2019 (the "Petition Date"), the Debtor filed a voluntary petition for relief under title 11 of the United States Code (the "Bankruptcy Code");

WHEREAS, the Debtor's chapter 11 case (the "Bankruptcy") is pending in the Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division (the "Bankruptcy Court");

WHEREAS, on February 2 and 3, 2021, the Court conducted a confirmation hearing with respect to the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) [Docket No. 1808] (the "Plan");

WHEREAS, on February 8, 2021, the Court rendered an opinion from the bench in which it confirmed the Plan [Docket No. 1924];

WHEREAS, on February 22, 2021, the Court issued an order confirming the Plan [Docket No. 1943];

WHEREAS, on August 11, 2021, the Effective Date (as defined in the Plan) occurred [Docket No. 2700];

WHEREAS, Daugherty is a former employee and limited partner of the Debtor and has served in other positions with affiliates and former affiliates of the Debtor;

Daugherty 1/29/2026 L.M.

WHEREAS, at the time of his resignation, Daugherty owned 19.1% of the preferred units of Highland Employee Retention Assets LLC ("HERA"), an employee deferred compensation vehicle managed by the Debtor and Highland ERA Management, LLC ("ERA") and contends that he owned or had the right to own all of the preferred units of HERA;

WHEREAS, prior to his resignation from HCMLP, Daugherty was awarded units of HERA, which vehicle owned interests in Restoration Capital Partners, LP ("RCP"), an HCMLP managed private equity fund, and other investments;

WHEREAS, in April 2012, the Debtor commenced an action against Daugherty in Texas state court (the "Texas Action"), and Daugherty subsequently asserted counterclaims for breach of contract and defamation, and third-party claims against HERA and others;

WHEREAS, after a three-week trial, the jury returned a verdict partially in favor of the Debtor, but Daugherty prevailed on his claims against the Debtor and James Dondero ("Dondero") for defamation with malice and a third-party claim against HERA and was awarded damages of $2.6 million against HERA, plus prejudgment and post-judgment interest at 5% (the "HERA Judgment");[1]

WHEREAS, in July 2017, after being unable to collect on the HERA Judgment, Daugherty commenced an action against the Debtor, Dondero, HERA, and ERA Management in the Delaware Chancery Court (the "Delaware Court"), in a case captioned Daugherty v. Highland Capital Management, L.P., et al., C.A. No. 2017-0488-MTZ, for fraudulent transfer, promissory estoppel, unjust enrichment, indemnification, and fees on fees (the "Highland Delaware Case");

[1] The Debtor prevailed on its claims against Mr. Daugherty for breach of contract and breach of fiduciary duty for non-monetary damages and obtained an award of $2.8 million in attorney's fees. The HERA Judgment was affirmed on appeal on December 1, 2016.

WHEREAS, the Delaware Court in the Highland Delaware Case (i) found that the Dondero-related defendants improperly withheld dozens of documents in discovery on privilege grounds, and (ii) ruled that there was "a reasonable basis to believe that a fraud has been perpetrated" such that the Delaware Court applied the "crime-fraud exception" to the attorney-client privilege assertion, and such rulings have not been overturned;

WHEREAS, Daugherty asserts that such withholding of documents and the failure to search defendants' and their employees personal electronic devices for stored documents and texts as well as other emails and domain names such as sasmgt.com and gmail.com which were in their possession and control and to provide required discovery injured him by undermining his attempts to build an evidentiary record to support his claims against the Debtor and the other defendants in the Highland Delaware Case;

WHEREAS, on October 14, 2019, the Highland Delaware Case proceeded to trial and two days later, on October 16, 2019, before the completion of the trial and before the Delaware Court ruled on Daugherty's and the Debtor's cross-motions for summary judgment regarding indemnification and fees on fees, the Debtor filed for bankruptcy;

WHEREAS, on December 1, 2019, Daugherty filed a separate lawsuit in the Delaware Court, captioned Daugherty v. Dondero, et al., C.A. No. 2019-0956-MTZ, against Dondero, HERA, ERA, Hunton Andrews Kurth LLP ("Andrews Kurth"), Marc Katz ("Katz"), Michael Hurst ("Hurst"), the Debtor's Chief Compliance Officer, the Debtor's then in-house counsel (Isaac Leventon ("Leventon")), and the Debtor's then general counsel (Scott Ellington ("Ellington")), for conspiracy to commit fraud, among other claims (the "HERA Delaware Case" and together with the Highland Delaware Case, the "Delaware Cases"); against the Debtor in the amount of at "least $37,483,876.59," and such claim was denoted by the Debtor's claims agent as Proof of Claim No. 67 ("Proof of Claim No. 67");

WHEREAS, on April 6, 2020, Daugherty filed a general, unsecured, non-priority claim against the Debtor in the amount of at "least $37,482,876.62" that superseded Proof of Claim No. 67 and that was denoted by the Debtor's claims agent as Proof of Claim No. 77 ("Proof of Claim No. 77");

WHEREAS, on August 31, 2020, the Debtor commenced an adversary proceeding against Daugherty by filing a complaint (the "Complaint") in which the Debtor: (1) objected to Proof of Claim No. 77 on various grounds (the "Claim Objection"), and (2) asserted a cause of action for the subordination of part of Daugherty's claim pursuant to section 510(b) of the Bankruptcy Code. Adv. Proc. No. 20-03107 (the "Adv. Proc.") [Adv. Docket No. 1] (the "Adversary Proceeding");

WHEREAS, on September 29, 2020, Daugherty filed his answer to the Complaint [Adv. Docket No. 8] (the "Answer");

WHEREAS, on September 24, 2020, Daugherty filed his Motion to Confirm Status of Automatic Stay, or Alternatively to Modify Automatic Stay [Docket No. 1099] (the "Stay Motion") pursuant to which he sought to sever the Debtor from the Highland Delaware Case and then consolidate the remaining claims in the Highland Delaware Case into the HERA Delaware Case and proceed with one case against the non-Debtor parties;[2]

WHEREAS, on October 23, 2020, Daugherty filed a motion seeking leave to amend his Proof of Claim No. 77 [Docket No. 1280] (the "POC Amendment Motion"). The amended proof

[2] On October 8, 2020, the Debtor commenced a second adversary proceeding against Daugherty (the "Second Adversary Proceeding"), seeking to enjoin him from prosecuting the Delaware Cases. Adv. Proc. 20-03128 ("2d Adv. Proc.") [2d Adv. Proc. Docket No. 1]. On January 29, 2021, the parties filed a Settlement that resolved the Second Adversary Proceeding, and the Second Adversary Proceeding was subsequently dismissed with prejudice. [2d Adv. Proc. Docket No. 12].

of claim attached to the POC Amendment Motion increased Daugherty's general, unsecured, non-priority claim against the Debtor to the amount of at "least $40,410,819.42" and sought to supersede Proof of Claim No. 67 and Proof of Claim No. 77;

WHEREAS, on October 23, 2020, Daugherty filed his Motion for Temporary Allowance of Claim for Voting Purposes Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 3018 Motion, seeking for his Claim to be temporarily allowed for voting purposes in this amount of $40,410,819.42 [Docket No. 1281] (the "3018 Motion");

WHEREAS, on November 3, 2020, the Court granted the Stay Motion [Docket No. 1327];

WHEREAS, the Debtor opposed the 3018 Motion, and after conducting an evidentiary hearing for the limited purpose of determining the 3018 Motion, the Court entered an order temporarily allowing Daugherty's Claim only for voting purposes in the amount of $9,134,019 [Docket No. 1474];

WHEREAS, on December 10, 2020, the Court entered an order [Docket No. 1533] granting the POC Amendment Motion, and Daugherty was permitted to file an amendment to his proof of claim. On December 23, 2020, Daugherty filed an amended proof of claim, designated by the Debtor's claim agent as Proof of Claim No. 205 ("Proof of Claim No. 205" or the "Daugherty Claim"). Proof of Claim No. 205 superseded Proof of Claim No. 77 and increased the amount of the Daugherty's Claim to $40,710,819.42;

WHEREAS, on November 30, 2020, Daugherty filed his Motion to Lift the Automatic Stay (the "Lift Stay Motion") [Docket No. 1491] seeking to lift the automatic stay to allow him to finish his trial in the Delaware Court and liquidate his claims. The Debtor opposed the Lift Stay Motion, and after a hearing was held on December 17, 2020, the Court denied the relief requested in the Lift Stay Motion [Docket No. 1612];

WHEREAS, except with respect to the Reserved Claim (as defined below), the Parties have agreed to settle and resolve all claims and disputes between them and their respective current affiliates, managed entities, and employees, including the Daugherty Claim, on the terms set forth in this Settlement:

AGREEMENT

NOW, THEREFORE, after good-faith, arms-length negotiations, and in consideration of the foregoing, it is hereby stipulated and agreed that:

1. Allowed Claims: In full satisfaction of the entirety of the Daugherty Claim against the Debtor and HCMLP Released Parties (defined below), excluding the Reserved Claim, Daugherty shall receive (a) an allowed general unsecured Class 8 claim in the amount of $8,250,000; (b) an allowed subordinated general unsecured Class 9 claim in the amount of $3,750,000; and (c) a one-time lump sum cash payment in the amount of $750,000 to be paid within 5 business days of Bankruptcy Court approval of this Settlement Agreement.

2. Recovery: The Debtor makes no representation or warranty as to the recovery on Class 8 or Class 9 claims under the Plan.

3. Observation Access: As soon as practicable following entry of an order of the Bankruptcy Court approving this Settlement, HCMLP shall use reasonable efforts to petition the Claimant Trust Oversight Board[3] to permit Daugherty to have access as an observer to meetings of the Claimant Trust Oversight Board, subject to policies, procedures, and agreements applicable to other observers of the Claimant Trust Oversight Board, including policies, procedures, and agreements related to confidentiality and common interest. Whether Daugherty will be granted observer access and any continuing observer access is and will remain at the sole discretion of the

[3] The Claimant Trust Oversight Board refers to the Oversight Board as defined in the August 11, 2021 Highland Claimant Trust Agreement establishing the Claimant Trust, as defined therein.

Claimant Trust Oversight Board.

4. RCP Track Record: HCMLP shall use reasonable efforts to provide Daugherty with data constituting the investment performance track record of RCP during Daugherty's tenure at HCMLP. Daugherty shall not be entitled to any compensation with respect to the performance of RCP. HCMLP makes no representations or warranties regarding such data and takes no responsibility with respect to the use of such data for any purposes.

5. Daugherty Releases: Except as specifically provided in this paragraph 5, and to the maximum extent permitted by applicable law, the Debtor, on behalf of itself and each of the HCMLP Entities and HCMLP Parties (as those terms are defined in paragraph 6 below), hereby forever, finally, fully, unconditionally, and completely releases, relieves, acquits, remises, and exonerates, and covenants never to sue Daugherty, his successors, affiliates, and assigns, (and in each such category to include their respective advisors, trustees, directors, officers, managers, members, partners, employees, beneficiaries, shareholders, agents, participants, subsidiaries, parents, affiliates, and designees) (collectively, the "Daugherty Additional Release Parties" and together with Daugherty, the "Daugherty Released Parties"), in each case acting in such capacity, for and from any and all claims, debts, liabilities, demands, obligations, promises, acts, agreements, liens, losses, costs and expenses (including, without limitation, attorney's fees and related costs), damages, injuries, suits, actions, and causes of action of whatever kind or nature, whether known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, matured or unmatured, liquidated or unliquidated, contingent or fixed, at law or in equity, statutory or otherwise, including, without limitation those which were or could have been asserted in the Bankruptcy, including the Adversary Proceeding, the Texas Action, or the Delaware Cases, all existing as of the date hereof (collectively, the "HCMLP Released Claims"); provided, however, that such release shall not apply with respect to any and all defenses that HCMLP or the HCMLP Entities may have to the Reserved Claim or the Reserve Motion (as those terms are defined herein) or Daugherty's obligations under this Settlement. For the avoidance of doubt, the HCMLP Released Claims include all claims or causes of action and facts, known or unknown, that exist as of the date hereof but do not include or apply to claims or causes of action based on facts occurring after the date hereof.

6. HCMLP Releases: Except as specifically provided in this paragraph 6, and to the maximum extent permitted by law, Daugherty, on behalf of himself and each of the Daugherty Released Parties, hereby forever, finally, fully, unconditionally, and completely releases, relieves, acquits, remises, and exonerates, and covenants never to sue, (a)(i) HCMLP; (ii) Strand Advisors Inc.; (iii) the Claimant Trust; (iv) the Claimant Trust Oversight Board; (v) the Highland Litigation Sub-Trust; (vi) the Highland Indemnity Trust; (vii) any entity of which greater than fifty percent of the voting ownership is held directly or indirectly by HCMLP as of the date hereof and any entity otherwise directly or indirectly controlled by HCMLP as of the date hereof,; and (viii) any entity managed by either HCMLP or a direct or indirect subsidiary of HCMLP, including Highland Restoration Capital Partners, L.P., Highland Restoration Capital Partners Offshore, L.P., Highland Restoration Capital Master, L.P. (and all of their respective general partners, feeder funds, managers, and affiliates) (the foregoing (a)(i) through (a)(viii) the "HCMLP Entities"), and (b) with respect to each such HCMLP Entity, such HCMLP Entity's respective current (meaning employed in their respective roles as of the date hereof) advisors, trustees, directors, officers, managers, members, partners, employees, beneficiaries, shareholders (but not the shareholders of Strand Advisors Inc.), agents, participants, subsidiaries, parents, affiliates, successors, designees, and assigns, except as expressly set forth below (the "HCMLP Parties," and together with the HCMLP Entities, the "HCMLP Released Parties"),[4] in each case acting in such capacity, for and from any and all claims, debts, liabilities, demands, obligations, promises, acts, agreements, liens, losses, costs and expenses (including, without limitation, attorney's fees and related costs), damages, injuries, suits, actions, and causes of action of whatever kind or nature, whether known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, matured or unmatured, liquidated or unliquidated, contingent or fixed, at law or in equity, statutory or otherwise, including without limitation those which were or could have been asserted in the Bankruptcy, including the Adversary Proceeding, the Texas Action, the Daugherty Claim, or the Highland Delaware Case (collectively, the "Daugherty Released Claims"); provided, however, that such release shall not apply with respect to the Reserved Claim or the Reserve Motion (as those terms are defined in paragraph 9 below) or HCMLP's obligations under this Settlement. This release expressly applies to all current employees of HCMLP as the Reorganized Debtor (as defined in the Plan), in their capacities as such. For the avoidance of doubt, the Daugherty Released Claims includes all claims or causes of action and facts, known or unknown, that exist as of the date hereof but do not include or apply to claims or causes of action based on facts occurring after the date hereof.

7. Reservation of Daugherty Rights: Notwithstanding anything contained herein to the contrary, the term HCMLP Released Parties shall not include (a) NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (or any of its subsidiaries and employees, advisors, or agents), (b) the Charitable Donor Advised Fund, L.P. (and any of its subsidiaries, including CLO Holdco, Ltd., and any of their respective employees, advisors, or agents), (c) NexBank, SSB (or any of its subsidiaries, employees, advisors, or agents), (d) James Dondero or any trust in which Dondero or any of his family members are a trustee or beneficiary (or any trustee acting for such trust), including but not limited to Hunter

[4] The Daugherty Additional Released Parties and the HCMLP Released Parties are collectively referred to as the "Additional Released Parties."

Mountain Investment Trust, The Get Good Trust, Dugaboy Investment Trust, SLHC Investment Trust, (e) HERA (subject to paragraph 8 below), (f) ERA (subject to paragraph 8 below), (g) Grant Scott, (h) Mark Okada and any trust in which Mark Okada or any of his family members are a beneficiary (or any trustee acting for such trust in their respective capacities), (i) Ellington, (j) Leventon, (k) Katz, (l) Hurst, (m) Andrews Kurth, or (m) any other former employee (as of the date hereof) of the HCMLP Released Parties.

8. HERA and ERA: The Parties acknowledge and agree that as of the date hereof, HERA and ERA have no material assets other than potential claims that may exist against persons or entities not released at or prior to the date hereof, and no claims against the HCMLP Released Parties. The allowed claims provided in paragraph 1 hereof are expressly agreed to in order to satisfy any liability the Debtor may have in connection with the HERA Judgment. To facilitate recovery of such potential claims – which expressly excludes any and all claims by or in the name of HERA and ERA against any of the HCMLP Released Parties -- HCMLP will transfer its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty. Such transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system. Such transfer will be without representation or warranty of any type; including, for the avoidance of doubt, without any representation or warranty as to the merits of the potential claims or the efficacy of the transfer of the potential claims. Such transfer will be without any liability or material cost to HCMLP or its affiliates or the other HCMLP Released Parties, including any liability in respect of any assets that HERA or ERA ever actually or allegedly owned, possessed, or controlled and that were actually or allegedly transferred, conveyed, sold, written off or otherwise disposed of (in any such case, a "Disposition"). In connection with the transfer, HERA and ERA have expressly released the HCMLP Released Parties from any and all claims, including any claims actions or remedies related to any Disposition, either of them may have against any HCMLP Released Party now or in the future (the "HERA and ERA Release"). Daugherty on behalf of himself and each of the Daugherty Released Parties acknowledges, accepts, and agrees not to challenge the HERA and ERA Release or support any challenge thereto. A copy of the HERA and ERA Release is annexed hereto as Exhibit A. Daugherty acknowledges and agrees that even though HERA and ERA are not HCMLP Released Parties under this Agreement, Daugherty and all Daugherty Released Parties shall (a) not seek to hold any HCMLP Released Party liable for any action or inaction taken by or on behalf of HERA or ERA, including through any derivative, veil-piercing or similar cause of action or remedy; and (b) not seek to recover damages or obtain any form of relief against any HCMLP Released Party on account of any action or inaction taken by or on behalf of HERA or ERA, including through any veil piercing or similar cause of action or remedy. If, for any reason, HERA or ERA, or any person or entity acting on their behalf, recovers anything from any HCMLP Released Party, Daugherty shall promptly turnover to HCMLP or its successors and assigns any amounts actually recovered by Daugherty or any Daugherty Released Party, from HERA or ERA arising from, related to, or derived from any claim that HERA or ERA or any person or entity acting on their behalf has or may have against any HCMLP Released Party. HCMLP will provide reasonable assistance to Daugherty to assist with the preparation of any required HERA K-1s for 2021, but any requirement to provide such K-1s will be the obligation, if any, of HERA.

9. IRS Compensation Claim: In section 4(ii) of the Addendum to Proof of Claim No. 205, Daugherty contends that he has a contingent, unliquidated claim against the Debtor arising out of a 2008/2009 compensation letter (the "Reserved Claim"), which claim is also related to an audit/dispute between the Debtor and the Internal Revenue Service (the "IRS") (the dispute between the Debtor and IRS being referred to herein as the "IRS Audit Dispute"). The Debtor disputes the validity and amount of the Reserved Claim. Daugherty shall retain the Reserved Claim solely against the Debtor and not against any other HCMLP Released Party, and the Debtor reserves the right to assert any and all defenses thereto. Any litigation by and between the Debtor and Daugherty concerning the validity and amount of the Reserved Claim shall be stayed until the IRS makes a final determination with respect to the IRS Audit Dispute; provided, however, that Daugherty may file a motion with the Bankruptcy Court to have the Reserved Claim estimated for purposes of establishing a reserve as a "Disputed Claim" under the Debtor's Plan (the "Reserve Motion"), and the Debtor (and any successor) reserves the right to assert any and all defenses thereto. Notwithstanding the foregoing, Daugherty may address any personal claim or personal liability to the IRS as a result of the IRS Audit Dispute, including settlement of any such claims; provided, however, Daugherty agrees to forego settling or addressing any claims with the IRS without the written consent of the Debtor until March 31, 2022.

10. Current HCMLP Employees: The HCMLP Parties set forth on Appendix A hereto are currently employed by the Debtor are HCMLP Released Parties. By executing a copy of this Settlement and delivering it to Daugherty, each of the persons on Appendix A agrees not to sue, attempt to sue, or threaten or work with or assist any entity or person to sue, attempt to sue, or threaten any Daugherty Released Party on or in connection with any claim or cause of action arising prior to the date of this Settlement.

11. Dismissal and Motions in Other Actions. Within ten business days after approval of this Settlement by the Bankruptcy Court, the Parties shall take all steps necessary (a) to dismiss with prejudice (i) the Highland Delaware Case, as against the Debtor and any HCMLP Released Party, and (ii) the HERA Delaware Case, as against every HCMLP Released Party, (b) to file an agreed motion and proposed order to partially vacate the final judgment entered against Daugherty in the Texas Action, (c) withdraw HCMLP's objection to the Daugherty motion to recuse in the Texas Action, and (d) to dismiss the Adversary Proceeding with prejudice. The parties shall file the foregoing motions and withdrawals substantially in the form of the documents annexed hereto as Exhibit B.

12. Additional Third Party Claims Discovery: The Debtor (a) shall accept service of any subpoenas via email served by Daugherty in connection with the Delaware Cases on behalf of itself, the HCMLP Entities, the HCMLP Parties (but only in their capacity as employees of HCMLP); and (b) acknowledge and consent to the jurisdiction of the Delaware Chancery Court for purposes of enforcing any such subpoenas, subject in all respects to the rights that the HCMLP Entities and HCMLP Parties to defend the requested production, if any.

13. Settlement of Third Party Claims: Daugherty shall not settle any claims or causes of action against any current or former director, officer, employee, agent or representative of HCMLP or Strand Advisors Inc. (collectively, the "Potentially Indemnified Parties") to the extent such claims have been brought or could have been brought against any Potentially Indemnified Parties, if any such settlement designates, defines or describes the settled claims as arising out of or relating to simple negligence or as having otherwise been within the scope of employment of the Potentially Indemnified Party.

14. Claims Register: As soon as practicable after the Settlement Effective Date, HCMLP shall instruct the claims agent in the Debtor's chapter 11 case to adjust the claims register in accordance with this Settlement.

15. Daugherty Representations: Daugherty represents and warrants to each of the HCMLP Released Parties that (a) he has full authority to release the Daugherty Released Claims and has not sold, transferred, or assigned any Daugherty Released Claim to any other person or entity and that (b) no person or entity other than Daugherty has been, is, or will be authorized to bring, pursue, or enforce any Daugherty Released Claim on behalf of, for the benefit of, or in the name of (whether directly or derivatively) Daugherty.

16. HCMLP Representations: Each of HCMLP and each HCMLP Released Party who has signed this Settlement represents and warrants to Daugherty that (a) he, she or it has not sold, transferred, pledged, assigned or hypothecated any HCMLP Released Claim to any other person or entity and (b) he, she, or it has full authority to release any HCMLP Released Claims that such HCMLP Released Party personally has against Daugherty.

17. Additional HCMLP Representations: HCMLP represents and warrants that it is releasing the HCMLP Released Claims on behalf of the HCMLP Entities to the maximum extent permitted by any contractual or other legal rights HCMLP possesses. To the extent any of the HCMLP Entities dispute HCMLP's right to release the HCMLP Released Claims on behalf of any of the HCMLP Entities, HCMLP shall use commercially reasonable efforts to support Daugherty's position, if any, that such claims were released herein. For the avoidance of doubt, HCMLP will have no obligations to assist Daugherty under this paragraph if HCMLP has been advised by external counsel that such assistance could subject HCMLP to liability to any third party or if such assistance would require HCMLP to expend material amounts of time or money. HCMLP shall not argue in any forum that the non-signatory status of any of the HCMLP Entities to this Settlement shall in any way affect the enforceability of this Settlement vis-à-vis any of the HCMLP Entities. The Parties agree that all of the HCMLP Entities are intended third-party beneficiaries of this Release.

18. HCMLP Covenant: HCMLP and the HCMLP Entities covenant and agree that they will not pursue or seek to enforce any injunctions entered in the Texas Action against Daugherty.

19. Entire Agreement; Modification: This Settlement contains the entire agreement between the Parties as to its subject matter and supersedes and replaces any and all prior agreements and undertakings between the Parties. This Settlement may not be modified other than by a signed writing executed by the Parties.

20. Bankruptcy Court Approval: Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, the effectiveness of HCMLP and the Claimant Trust's execution of this Settlement shall be subject to entry of an order of the Bankruptcy Court approving this Settlement. HCMLP shall take all steps necessary to file with the Bankruptcy Court a motion for an order approving this Settlement pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 9019 and section 363 of the Bankruptcy Code (the "Motion"). The parties agree to cooperate in the preparation and prosecution of the Motion which shall be filed no later than 5 business day after execution of this Settlement, unless such time is extended by mutual agreement.

21. Counterparts: This Settlement may be executed in counterparts (including facsimile and electronic transmission counterparts), each of which will be deemed an original but all of which together constitute one and the same instrument and shall be effective against a Party or Additional Released Party upon approval of the Settlement by the Bankruptcy Court.

22. Governing Law; Jurisdiction: This Settlement will be exclusively governed by and construed and enforced in accordance with the laws of the State of Delaware, without regard to its conflicts of law principles, and all claims relating to or arising out of this Settlement, or the breach thereof, whether sounding in contract, tort, or otherwise, will likewise be governed by the laws of the State of Delaware, excluding Delaware's conflicts of law principles. The Bankruptcy Court will retain exclusive jurisdiction over all disputes relating to this Settlement.

23. Headings: Paragraph headings included herein are for convenience and shall have no impact whatsoever on the meaning or interpretation of any part of this Settlement.

AGREED MOTION TO PARTIALLY VACATE THE FINAL JUDGMENT DATED JULY 14, 2014

TO THE HONORABLE JUDGE OF SAID COURT:

Plaintiff Highland Capital Management, LP ("Highland") and Defendant Patrick Daugherty ("Daugherty" and together with Highland, the "Parties") file this Agreed Motion to Partially Vacate the Final Judgment dated July 14, 2014 (the "Motion"), and respectfully show the following:

1. On July 14, 2014, this Court entered a Final Judgment (the "Judgment") that, among other things, granted Highland's motion for injunctive relief against Daugherty.

2. The Judgment was amended on March 23, and June 23, 2017.

3. On October 16, 2019, filed a petition under chapter 11 in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware ("Highland's Bankruptcy Case"). On October 24,

2019, as a result of the commencement of Highland's Bankruptcy Case, the Supreme Court of Texas issued an order abating a related case that Daugherty had brought in that court, Case No. 19-0758. Highland's Bankruptcy Case was subsequently transferred to the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas.

4. Daugherty asserted certain claims against Highland in Highland's Bankruptcy Case. The Parties have fully and finally resolved their disputes pursuant to a settlement agreement (the "Settlement Agreement") reached in the Highland Bankruptcy Case pursuant to which, among other things, (a) all of Daugherty's known and unknown claims against each of the Highland Released Parties (as those terms are defined in the Settlement Agreement) are resolved, and (b) this Motion seeking the vacatur of certain provisions of the Judgment specifically set forth below is being filed.

5. Highland and Daugherty hereby agree and stipulate that the Court has plenary power to issue an order granting this Motion because the Court retained authority to enforce the permanent injunction rendered in the Judgment, and that changed circumstances have now arisen such that the Court should dissolve the permanent injunction. Highland and Daugherty further agree and stipulate that this Motion shall be treated as an agreement of the Parties pursuant to Texas Rule of Civil Procedure 11, and is fully enforceable. See Coale v. Scott, 331 S.W.3d 829, 831-32 (Tex. App.—Amarillo 2011, no pet.) ("Irrespective of whether a trial court lost its plenary jurisdiction over its judgment, the trial court's authority to approve a Rule 11 agreement does not depend on whether it has such jurisdiction.").

6. Highland and Daugherty agree that the following portions of the Judgment shall be vacated pursuant to their settlement in the Highland Bankruptcy:

a. The second full paragraph on Page 2 of the Judgment, which begins "The Court, after considering the jury's findings regarding Daugherty's breaches of contract and breaches of fiduciary duty . . .";

b. The permanent injunction rendered against Daugherty in the third full paragraph on Page 2 of the Judgment, which begins "It is therefore further ORDERED that Daugherty be and hereby is commanded to cease and desist from . . .";

c. The fourth and fifth full paragraphs on Page 2 of the Judgment awarding Highland a monetary judgment against Daugherty for reasonable and necessary attorney's fees, as well as post-judgment interest on that award[1]; and

d. The jury's answers to Questions 1, 2, 5, 6, 9 and 12 in the Verdict, which was attached as Exhibit 1 to the Judgment.

7. Highland and Daugherty further agree that, as a result of the vacation of the permanent injunction in the Judgment, Highland hereby withdraws any pending motions to show cause or motions for contempt against Daugherty that allege Daugherty violated or is violating the permanent injunction. Highland also agrees not to seek to enforce the permanent injunction in any manner in the future.

[1] Daugherty previously satisfied the monetary judgment awarded to Highland, and Highland filed a release of the monetary judgment. Although Highland and Daugherty have agreed to vacate the monetary judgment awarded to Highland, Daugherty waives and relinquishes any right or claim to recover any amount previously paid in satisfaction of the Judgment and Highland shall not be required to reimburse Daugherty for his prior satisfaction of the monetary judgment. To the extent Daugherty is entitled to indemnification for any liabilities, losses, and damages allegedly incurred by him for actions taken in connection with Highland's business, including the liabilities Daugherty allegedly incurred in connection with this action and the Judgment, such indemnification claims have been fully and finally satisfied and resolved under the Settlement Agreement.

8. Concurrent with the filing of this Motion, Daugherty will file a motion to dismiss his as-yet unfiled petition for review pending before the Supreme Court of Texas under Case No. 19-0758.

9. Highland and Daugherty further agree that any portions of the Judgment that are not specifically vacated pursuant to this Motion shall remain in full force and effect.

WHEREFORE, Highland and Daugherty pray that the Court grant this Motion in its entirety, and for all further relief, at law or in equity, the Court deems necessary.

PATRICK DAUGHERTY'S AMENDED ANSWERS TO HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.'S REQUESTS FOR ADMISSION

TO: Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant, Highland Capital Management, L.P., by and through its attorneys of record, Jeffrey N. Pomerantz, John A. Morris, Gregory V. Demo, and Hayley R. Winograd, PACHULSKI STANG ZIEHL & JONES LLP, 10100 Santa Monica Blvd., 13th Floor, Los Angeles, CA 90067; and Melissa S. Hayward and Zachery Z. Annable, HAYWARD PLLC, 10501 N. Central Expressway, Suite 106, Dallas, Texas 75231.

Pursuant to Rule 36 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, and Rule 7034 of the Federal Bankruptcy Rules of Procedure, and based on the parties' meet and confer process concerning discovery disputes, Patrick Daugherty ("Daugherty") hereby makes and serves his Amended Answers to certain of Highland Capital Management, L.P.'s Requests for Admission ("Amended Answers"). Specifically, Daugherty hereby provides an Amended Answer to Request for Admission No. 5.

ANSWERS TO REQUESTS FOR ADMISSION

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 1:

Admit that You have not communicated with the IRS for the purpose of resolving the dispute Concerning the 2008 Refund or Your 2008 K-1.

ANSWER: Deny.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 2:

Admit that before October 10, 2022, Highland informed You, in substance, of its contention that it had fulfilled its obligations under the Settlement Agreement, including its obligation to provide Books and Records.

ANSWER: Daugherty lacks sufficient information to admit or deny this request, therefore, deny. Daugherty has made a reasonable inquiry and has been unable to locate any documents or communications that are dated before October 10, 2022, in which Highland informed Daugherty, in substance, of its contention that it had fulfilled its obligations under the Settlement Agreement, including its obligation to provide Books and Records. Further, Daugherty does not recall any verbal communication from anyone on behalf of Highland before October 10, 2022, that made such a contention. If Plaintiff has a communication in its possession dated before October 10, 2022, wherein Plaintiff contends it fulfilled its obligations, Daugherty can review and will amend his answer accordingly.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 3:

Admit that before October 10, 2022, Highland informed You, in substance, that it would not produce any additional Books and Records.

ANSWER: Deny.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 4:

Admit that in 2025, You authorized your counsel to offer Highland a general release in exchange for $20 million.

ANSWER: Daugherty objects to this request as seeking information not relevant to the claims or defenses in this adversary proceeding. Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(1). Plaintiff's lawsuit is focused solely on Daugherty's claim in the underlying bankruptcy case, which is premised entirely on the 2008 Refund and related tax issues. Daugherty's counterclaim is based on Plaintiff's breach of the Settlement Agreement for failing to produce HERA and ERA's books and records. Daugherty further objects because the request as written seeks an answer implicating attorney-client privilege.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 5:

Admit that in 2025, Your counsel offered Highland a general release in exchange for $20 million.

ANSWER: Daugherty objects that this request seeks information that is not relevant to the claims or defenses asserted in this adversary proceeding. Plaintiff's lawsuit is focused solely on Daugherty's claim in the underlying bankruptcy case, which is premised entirely on the 2008 Refund and related tax issues. Daugherty's counterclaim is based on Plaintiff's breach of the Settlement Agreement for failing to produce HERA and ERA's books and records. Daugherty further objects that this request seeks information concerning to settlement communications or offers made pursuant to Federal Rule of Evidence 408, Daugherty objects to the production or use of same in this proceeding.

AMENDED ANSWER: Daugherty objects that this request seeks information that is not relevant to the claims or defenses asserted in this adversary proceeding. Plaintiff's lawsuit is focused solely on Daugherty's claim in the underlying bankruptcy case, which is premised entirely on the 2008 Refund and related tax issues. Daugherty's counterclaim is based on Plaintiff's breach of the Settlement Agreement for failing to produce HERA and ERA's books and records. Daugherty further objects that this request seeks information concerning to settlement communications or offers made pursuant to Federal Rule of Evidence 408, Daugherty objects to the production or use of same in this proceeding. Daugherty admits that in response to an invitation from Highland's counsel for a demand from Daugherty, Daugherty opened negotiations by demanding $20 million in exchange for providing Highland and its representatives with a general release of all claims that Daugherty had or might have.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 6:

Admit that since January 1, 2021, you recorded at least one conversation with a Highland employee, officer, agent, or representative without his or her knowledge or consent.

ANSWER: Daughety objects that this request seeks information that is not relevant to this adversary proceeding. Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(1). Plaintiff's lawsuit is focused solely on Daugherty's claim in the underlying bankruptcy case, which is premised entirely on the 2008 Refund and related tax issues. Daugherty's counterclaim is based on Plaintiff's breach of the Settlement Agreement for failing to produce HERA and ERA's books and records. This request has no bearing on either of those claims, and Plaintiff cannot use discovery for the sole purpose of developing new claims. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(1), Advisory Committee Note (2000) ("The court…has the authority to confine discovery to the claims and defenses asserted in the pleadings, and…the parties…have no entitlement to discovery to develop new claims or defenses that are not already identified in the pleadings.").

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 7:

Admit that You resigned from all positions at Highland prior to December 31, 2011.

ANSWER: Admit.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION NO. 8:

Admit that You never executed a separation agreement and release substantially in the form of Exhibit A to the Amended Employment Agreement.

ANSWER: Daugherty objects to this request as misleading and assuming facts not in evidence, namely that Highland presented Daugherty with a separation and release agreement in the form of Exhibit A to execute. Daugherty admits he did not execute a separation agreement and release substantially in the form of Exhibit A to the Amended Employment Agreement since Highland never presented it to him.

Central Expressway, Suite 106, Dallas, Texas 75231.

Pursuant to Rule 34 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, and Rule 7034 of the Federal Bankruptcy Rules of Procedure, and following the parties' meet and confer process, Patrick Daugherty ("Daugherty") hereby makes and serves his Amended Answers to certain of Highland Capital Management, L.P.'s Interrogatories ("Amended Answers"). Specifically, Daugherty is providing Amended Answers to Interrogatory Nos. 1-3 and 5.

ANSWERS TO INTERROGATORIES

INTERROGATORY NO. 1:

If You deny RFA No. 1, identify the date(s) you communicated with the IRS concerning the 2008 Refund or the 2008 K-1 or the 2008 Audit.

ANSWER: Daugherty does not recall the specific dates that he affirmatively communicated directly with the IRS. Daugherty is investigating the dates his accounting firm affirmatively communicated with the IRS and will supplement his answer to this Interrogatory with that information if he is able to obtain it.

AMENDED ANSWER: After further investigation, Daugherty is not able to recall or determine the specific dates upon which he and his accounting firm communicated with the IRS. Daugherty's accounting firm filed the Form 1045 Refund request on or about April 2009. Daugherty recalls two instances on or about November 2024 and on or about April 2018 where the IRS requested and he and/or his accounting firm provided information with regard to matters concerning the 2008 Tax Refund audit.

INTERROGATORY NO. 2:

Identify (a) the amount of the 2008 Refund You received pursuant to the Compensation Statement and (b) the date you received it.

ANSWER: Daugherty answers that he received the refund sometime in 2009 but does not recall the exact date. Plaintiff should be in possession of an email from Patrick Boyce to Daugherty in 2009 in which Mr. Boyce, on behalf of Plaintiff, congratulated Daugherty on his "bonus." That email will provide the closest approximate date to when Daugherty received the refund. Daugherty no longer has access to this email. As to the amount, Daugherty will supplement upon review of his relevant tax return.

AMENDED ANSWER: [redacted]

INTERROGATORY NO. 3:

If You elected to use the 2008 Refund to satisfy any other then-current or then-future obligations to the IRS, identify (a) the amount of the 2008 Refund that was used to offset such obligations and (b) the date(s) that such offsets occurred.

ANSWER: Daugherty objects that the term "obligations" is vague. Daugherty did not have any pre-existing payment obligations to the IRS from previous years' tax returns at the time he filed his 2008 tax year return. Daugherty also did not use the 2008 Refund to satisfy any payment obligations to the IRS that arose in any subsequent tax year.

AMENDED ANSWER: Daugherty objects that the term "obligations" is vague. Daugherty's 2008 Refund amount was net of [redacted] that Daugherty already paid the IRS in in 2008 for the 2007 tax year.

INTERROGATORY NO. 4:

Identify any Books and Records that You contend Highland has failed to provide in accordance with the Settlement Agreement.

ANSWER: Daugherty objects that this Interrogatory is overbroad, not proportionate to the needs of this adversary proceeding, and requires Daugherty to marshal his evidence. This Interrogatory literally requires Daugherty to identify thousands and thousands of documents and communications that constitute HERA and ERA books and records that have not been provided by Plaintiff to Daugherty. Daugherty answers that Plaintiff has significant information of HERA and ERA that Plaintiff was obligated to produce pursuant to the Settlement Agreement. Plaintiff has extensive email communications regarding HERA and ERA that it previously failed to provide, as well as invoices from law firms (such as Hunton Andrews Kurth LLP, Gruber Hurst Elrod Johansen Hail Shank LLP, Lynn Pinker Hurst Schwegmann LLP, DLA Piper, Abrams and Bailess LLP, and others) and other service providers for work that was expensed to HERA and ERA. Lastly, there are a myriad of documents related to HERA that Plaintiff provided in discovery in its litigation with Daugherty through 2013, but that Plaintiff failed to provide on an updated basis through 2022. All of these documents and communications, as well as similar documents and communications, are in the sole possession of Plaintiff and must be produced. Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 33(d), Daugherty will separately produce to Plaintiff examples of such records that Daugherty has been able to obtain from other sources.

INTERROGATORY NO. 5:

Identify each category of damages claimed by You, including the amount of damages and the methodology utilized for calculating such damages. See FED. R. CIV. P. 26 (a)(1)(A)(ii).

ANSWER: Daugherty answers that any actual damages related to Plaintiff's breach of the books and records provision of the Settlement Agreement are contingent upon future events. As such, those damages are not yet quantifiable. Daugherty also seeks relief in the form of specific performance and recovery of his attorneys' fees for Plaintiff's breach of the Settlement Agreement. The amount of methodology of the attorneys' fees in this case will be provided through expert testimony. Pursuant to the Order Approving Stipulated Scheduling Order [Doc. No. 37], Daugherty will disclose information concerning his testifying experts on or before February 13, 2026.

AMENDED ANSWER: Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 33(d), Daugherty refers Highland to Documents produced concurrently herewith at Bates PDADV_006886-PDADV_006905 that are redacted attorney's fee invoices from Daugherty's counsel relating to his counterclaim for attorney's fees through the end of October 2025. Daugherty will supplement any additional redacted invoices that also contain time entries that Daugherty will seek in connection with his counterclaim. With respect to Daugherty's other damage claim, any actual damages related to Highland's breach of the books and records provision of the Settlement Agreement are contingent on the outcome of the HERA v. Dondero et al. lawsuit. In the event that the HERA v. Dondero et al. lawsuit were dismissed or was otherwise lost due to books and records that Highland failed to produce to Daugherty under the Settlement Agreement, Daugherty would seek as damages based on his applicable ownership interest in HERA, of the damages sought by HERA in that lawsuit. Daugherty also seeks relief in the form of specific performance on his counterclaim.

INTERROGATORY NO. 6:

For each conversation with a current or former Highland employee, officer, agent, or representative that You recorded without his or her knowledge or consent, identify (a) the name of the person whose voice was recorded, (b) the date of the recording, (c) the method of recordation, and (d) the length of each conversation.

ANSWER: Daugherty objects to this interrogatory because it seeks information not relevant to the immediate lawsuit. Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(1). Plaintiff's lawsuit is focused solely on Daugherty's claim in the underlying bankruptcy case, which is premised entirely on the 2008 Refund and related tax issues. Daugherty's counterclaim is based on Plaintiff's breach of the Settlement Agreement for failing to produce HERA and ERA's books and records. This interrogatory has no bearing on either of those claims, and Plaintiff cannot use discovery for the sole purpose of developing new claims. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(1), Advisory Committee Note (2000) ("The court…has the authority to confine discovery to the claims and defenses asserted in the pleadings, and…the parties…have no entitlement to discovery to develop new claims or defenses that are not already identified in the pleadings.")

ARTICLE 3

FINANCIAL MATTERS

3.1 Capital Contributions.

(a) Initial Capital Contributions. The initial Capital Contribution of each Partner shall be set forth in the books and records of the Partnership.

(b) Additional Capital Contributions.

(i) The General Partner, in its reasonable discretion and for a bona fide business purpose, may request in writing that the Partners make additional Capital Contributions in proportion to their Percentage Interests (each, an "Additional Capital Contribution").

(ii) Any failure by a Partner to make an Additional Capital Contribution requested under Section 3.1(b)(i) on or before the date on which that Additional Capital Contribution was due shall result in the Partner being in default.

(iii) Any Additional Capital Contribution (of more than a de minimis amount) shall cause a revaluation of the Partnership as set forth in Section 3.7(f).

(c) Consequences to Defaulting Partners. In the event a Partner is in default under Section 3.1(b) (a "Defaulting Partner"), the Defaulting Partner, in its sole and unfettered discretion, may elect to take either one of the option set forth below.

(i) Default Loans. If the Defaulting Partner so elects, the General Partner shall make a loan to the Defaulting Partner in an amount equal to that Defaulting Partner's additional capital contribution (a "Default Loan"). A Default Loan shall be deemed advanced on the date actually advanced. Default Loans shall earn interest on the outstanding principal amount thereof at a rate equal to the Applicable Federal Mid-Term Rate (determined by the Internal Revenue Service for the month in which the loan is deemed made) from the date actually advanced until the same is repaid in full. The term of any Default Loan shall be six (6) months, unless otherwise extended by the General Partner in its sole and unfettered discretion. If the General Partner makes a Default Loan, the Defaulting Partner shall not receive any distributions pursuant to Section 3.9(a) or Section 5.3 or any proceeds from the Transfer of all or any part of its Partnership Interest while the Default Loan remains unpaid. Instead, the Defaulting Partner's share of distributions or such other proceeds shall (until all Default Loans and interest thereon shall have been repaid in full) first be paid to the General Partner. Such payments shall be applied first to the payment of interest on such Default Loans and then to the repayment of the principal amounts thereof, but shall be considered, for all other purposes of this Agreement, to have been distributed to the Defaulting Partner. The Defaulting Partner shall be liable for the reasonable fees and expenses incurred by the General Partner (including, without limitation, reasonable attorneys' fees and disbursements) in connection with any enforcement or foreclosure upon any Default Loan and such costs shall, to the extent enforceable under applicable law, be added to the principal amount of the applicable Default Loan. In addition, at any time during the term of such Default Loan, the Defaulting Partner shall have the right to repay, in full, the Default Loan (including interest and any other charges). If the General Partner makes a Default Loan, the Defaulting Partner shall be deemed to have pledged to the General Partner and granted to the General Partner a continuing first priority security interest in, all of the Defaulting Partner's Partnership Interest to secure the payment of the principal of, and interest on, such Default Loan in accordance with the provisions hereof, and for such purpose this Agreement shall constitute a security agreement. The Defaulting Partner shall promptly execute, acknowledge and deliver such financing statements, continuation statements or other documents and take such other actions as the General Partner shall request in writing in order to perfect or continue the perfection of such security interest; and, if the Defaulting Partner shall fail to do so within seven (7) days after the Defaulting Partner's receipt of a notice making demand therefor, the General Partner is hereby appointed the attorney-in-fact of, and is hereby authorized on behalf of, the Defaulting Partner, to execute, acknowledge and deliver all such documents and take all such other actions as may be required to perfect such security interest. Such appointment and authorization are coupled with an interest and shall be irrevocable. The General Partner shall, prior to exercising any right or remedy (whether at law, in equity or pursuant to the terms hereof) available to it in connection with such security interest, provide to the Defaulting Partner a notice, in reasonable detail, of the right or remedy to be exercised and the intended timing of such exercise which shall not be less than five (5) days following the date of such notice.

(ii) Reduction of Percentage Interest. If the Defaulting Partner does not elect to obtain a Default Loan pursuant to Section 3.1(c)(i), the General Partner shall reduce the Defaulting Partner's Percentage Interest in accordance with the following formula:

> The Defaulting Partner's new Percentage Interest shall equal the product of (1) the Defaulting Partner's current Percentage Interest, multiplied by (2) the quotient of (a) the current Capital Account of the Defaulting Partner (with such Capital Account determined after taking into account a revaluation of the Capital Accounts immediately prior to such determination), divided by (b) the sum of (i) the current Capital Account of the Defaulting Partner (with such Capital Account determined after taking into account a revaluation of the Capital Accounts immediately prior to such determination), plus (ii) the amount of the additional capital contribution that such Defaulting Partner failed to make when due.

To the extent any downward adjustment is made to the Percentage Interest of a Partner pursuant to this Section 3.1(c)(ii), any resulting benefit shall accrue to the Partners (other than the Defaulting Partner) in proportion to their respective Percentage Interests.

3.2 Allocations of Profits and Losses.

(a) Allocations of Profits. Except as provided in Sections 3.4, 3.5, and 3.6, Profits for any Fiscal Year will be allocated to the Partners as follows:

(i) First, to the Partners until cumulative Profits allocated under this Section 3.2(a)(i) for all prior periods equal the cumulative Losses allocated to the Partners under Section 3.2(b)(iii) for all prior periods in the inverse order in which such Losses were allocated; and

(ii) Next, to the Partners until cumulative Profits allocated under this Section 3.2(a)(ii) for all prior periods equal the cumulative Losses allocated to the Partners under Section 3.2(b)(ii) for all prior periods in the inverse order in which such Losses were allocated; and

(iii) Then, to all Partners in proportion to their respective Percentage Interests.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, the General Partner, in its sole and unfettered discretion, may allocate up to ten percent (10%) of the Profits for each Fiscal Year among the Profits Interest Partners in any manner it deems appropriate (the "Reallocation Amount"). The General Partner shall make such allocation by April 1 of the succeeding Fiscal Year. The General Partner shall have the authority to allocate taxable items under this Article 3 in any manner it deems appropriate to account for these allocations of the Reallocation Amount.

(b) Allocations of Losses. Except as provided in Sections 3.4, 3.5, and 3.6, Losses for any Fiscal Year will be will be allocated as follows:

(i) First, to the Partners until cumulative Losses allocated under this Section 3.2(b)(i) for all prior periods equal the cumulative Profits allocated to the Partners under Section 3.2(a)(iii) for all prior periods in the inverse order in which such Profits were allocated; and

(ii) Next, to the Partners in proportion to their respective positive Capital Account balances until the aggregate Capital Account balances of the Partners (excluding any negative Capital Account balances) equal zero; and

(iii) Then, to all Partners in proportion to their respective Percentage Interests.

(c) Limitation on Loss Allocations. If any allocation of Losses would cause a Partner to have an Adjusted Capital Account Deficit, those Losses instead shall be allocated to the General Partner.

3.3. Allocations on Transfers. Taxable items of the Partnership attributable to a Partnership Interest that has been Transferred (including the simultaneous decrease in the Partnership Interest of existing Partners resulting from the admission of a new Partner) shall be allocated between the transferor and the transferee as follows: (i) for the months before the Transfer, to the transferor; (ii) for the months after the Transfer, to the transferee; and (iii) for the month of the Transfer, to the transferee if the Transfer occurs on or before the fifteenth (15th) day of the month and to the transferor if the Transfer occurs thereafter. For purposes of the above allocation, taxable items of the Partnership shall be allocated equally among the months of the Fiscal Year without regard to the operations of the Partnership during those months. Distributions of assets of the Partnership with respect to a Partnership Interest shall be made only to the Persons who, according to the records of the Partnership, are the owners, on the actual date of distribution, of the Partnership Interests with respect to which the distributions are made. No liability shall result from making distributions in accordance with the provisions of the preceding sentence, whether or not the General Partner or the Partnership has knowledge or notice of a Transfer or purported Transfer of ownership of a Partnership Interest.

3.4. Special Allocations. If the requisite stated conditions or facts are present, the following special allocations shall be made in the following order:

(a) Partnership Minimum Gain Chargeback. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Article 3, if there is a net decrease in Partnership Minimum Gain during any taxable year or other period for which allocations are made, prior to any other allocation under this Agreement, each Partner shall be specially allocated items of Partnership income and gain for that period (and, if necessary, subsequent periods) in proportion to, and to the extent of, an amount equal to that Partner's share of the net decrease in Partnership Minimum Gain during that year determined in accordance with Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-2(g)(2). The items to be allocated shall be determined in accordance with Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-2(g). This Section 3.4(a) is intended to comply with the partnership minimum gain chargeback requirements of the Treasury Regulations and shall be subject to all exceptions provided therein.

(b) Partner Nonrecourse Debt Minimum Gain Chargeback. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Article 3 (other than Section 3.4(a)), if there is a net decrease in Partner Nonrecourse Debt Minimum Gain with respect to a Partner Nonrecourse Debt during any taxable year or other period for which allocations are made, any Partner with a share of such Partner Nonrecourse Debt Minimum Gain as of the beginning of the year shall be specially allocated items of Partnership income and gain for that period (and, if necessary, subsequent periods in an amount equal to that Partner's share of the net decrease in the Partner Nonrecourse Debt Minimum Gain during that year determined in accordance with Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-2(g)(2). The items to be so allocated shall be determined in accordance with Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-2(g). This Section 3.4(b) is intended to comply with the partner nonrecourse debt minimum gain chargeback requirements of the Treasury Regulations, shall be interpreted consistently with the Treasury Regulations and shall be subject to all exceptions provided therein.

(c) Qualified Income Offset. If a Partner unexpectedly receives any adjustments, allocations or distributions described in Treasury Regulations Sections 1.704-1(b)(2)(ii)(d)(4), (d)(5) or (d)(6), then items of Partnership income and gain shall be specially allocated to each such Partner in an amount and manner sufficient to eliminate, to the extent required by the Treasury Regulations, the Adjusted Capital Account Deficit of the Partner as quickly as possible; provided, however, an allocation pursuant to this Section 3.4(c) shall be made if and only to the extent that the Partner would have an Adjusted Capital Account Deficit after all other allocations provided for in this Article 3 have been tentatively made without considering this Section 3.4(c).

(d) Gross Income Allocation. If a Partner has a deficit Capital Account at the end of any Fiscal Year of the Partnership that exceeds the sum of (i) the amount the Partner is obligated to restore, and (ii) the amount the Partner is deemed to be obligated to restore pursuant to the penultimate sentences of Treasury Regulations Sections 1.704-2(g)(1) and 1.704-2(i)(5), then each such Partner shall be specially allocated items of income and gain of the Partnership in the amount of the excess as quickly as possible; provided, however, an allocation pursuant to this Section 3.4(d) shall be made if and only to the extent that the Partner would have a deficit Capital Account in excess of that sum after all other allocations provided for in this Article 3 have been tentatively made without considering Section 3.4(c) or 3.4(d).

(e) Nonrecourse Deductions. Nonrecourse Deductions for any taxable year or other period for which allocations are made shall be allocated among the Partners in accordance with their Percentage Interests.

(f) Partner Nonrecourse Deductions. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Agreement, any Partner Nonrecourse Deductions for any taxable year or other period for which allocations are made will be allocated to the Partner who bears the economic risk of loss with respect to the Partner Nonrecourse Debt to which the Partner Nonrecourse Deductions are attributable in accordance with Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-2(i).

(g) Section 754 Adjustments. To the extent an adjustment to the adjusted tax basis of any asset of the Partnership under Code Section 734(b) or Code Section 743(b) is required, pursuant to Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-1(b)(2)(iv)(m), to be taken into account in determining Capital Accounts, the amount of the adjustment to the Capital Accounts shall be treated as an item of gain (if the adjustment increases the basis of the asset) or loss (if the adjustment decreases the basis of the asset) and that gain or loss shall be specially allocated to the Partners in a manner consistent with the manner in which their Capital Accounts are required to be adjusted pursuant to that Section of the Treasury Regulations.

3.5. Curative Allocations. The "Basic Regulatory Allocations" consist of (i) the allocations pursuant to Section 3.2(c), and (ii) the allocations pursuant to Sections 3.4. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement, the Basic Regulatory Allocations shall be taken into account in allocating items of income, gain, loss and deduction among the Partners so that, to the extent possible, the net amount of the allocations of other items and the Basic Regulatory Allocations to each Partner shall be equal to the net amount that would have been allocated to each such Partner if the Basic Regulatory Allocations had not occurred. For purposes of applying the foregoing sentence, allocations pursuant to this Section 3.5 shall be made only with respect to allocations pursuant to Section 3.4(g) to the extent that it can reasonably be determined that those allocations will otherwise be inconsistent with the economic agreement among the parties to this Agreement.

3.6. Allocations of Built-in Items. In accordance with Code Sections 704(b) and 704(c) and the Treasury Regulations thereunder, income, gain, loss and deduction with respect to property actually or constructively contributed to the capital of the Partnership (for example, as set forth in Section 3.7(f)) shall, solely for tax purposes, be allocated among the Partners so as to take account of any variation at the time of the contribution between the tax basis of the property to the Partnership and the fair market value of that property. Except as otherwise provided herein, any elections or other decisions relating to those allocations shall be made by the General Partner in any manner that reasonably reflects the purpose and intent of this Agreement. Allocations of income, gain, loss and deduction pursuant to this Section 3.6 are solely for purposes of federal, state and local taxes and shall not affect, or in any way be taken into account in computing, the Capital Account of any Partner or the share of Profits, Losses, other tax items or distributions of any Partner pursuant to any provision of this Agreement.

3.7 Capital Accounts.

(a) Maintenance of Capital Accounts. The Partnership shall establish and maintain a separate capital account ("Capital Account") for each Partner in accordance with the rules of Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-1(b)(2)(iv) and in accordance with the provisions set forth in this Section 3.7; provided, however, the General Partner shall "book-up" or "book-down" the Capital Accounts of the Partners in accordance with Section 3.7(f).

(i) The Capital Account balance of each Partner shall be credited (increased) by (A) the amount of cash contributed by that Partner to the capital of the Partnership, (B) the fair market value of property contributed by that Partner to the capital of the Partnership (net of liabilities secured by that contributed property that the Partnership assumes or takes subject to under Code Section 752), and (C) that Partner's allocable share of Profits and any items in the nature of income or gain which are specially allocated pursuant to Sections 3.4 and 3.5; and

(ii) The Capital Account balance of each Partner shall be debited (decreased) by (A) the amount of cash distributed to that Partner by the Partnership, (B) the fair market value of property distributed to that Partner by the Partnership (net of liabilities secured by that distributed property that such Partner assumes or takes subject to under Code Section 752), (C) that Partner's allocable share of expenditures of the Partnership described in Code Section 705(a)(2)(B), and (D) that Partner's allocable share of Losses and any items in the nature of expenses or losses which are specially allocated pursuant to Sections 3.2, 3.4 and 3.5.

The provisions of this Section 3.7 and the other provisions of this Agreement relating to the maintenance of Capital Accounts have been included in this Agreement to comply with Code Section 704(b) and the Treasury Regulations promulgated thereunder and will be interpreted and applied in a manner consistent with those provisions. The General Partner may modify the manner in which the Capital Accounts are maintained under this Section 3.7 in order to comply with those provisions, as well as upon the occurrence of events that might otherwise cause this Agreement not to comply with those provisions.

(b) Negative Capital Accounts. If any Partner has a deficit balance in its Capital Account, that Partner shall have no obligation to restore that negative balance or to make any Capital Contribution by reason thereof, and that negative balance shall not be considered an asset of the Partnership or of any Partner.

(c) Interest. No interest shall be paid by the Partnership on Capital Contributions or on balances in Capital Accounts.

(d) No Withdrawal. No Partner shall be entitled to withdraw any part of his/her/its Capital Contribution or his/her/its Capital Account or to receive any distribution from the Partnership, except as provided in Section 3.9 and Article 5.

(e) Loans From Partners. Loans by a Partner to the Partnership shall not be considered Capital Contributions.

(f) Revaluations. The General Partner shall "book-up" or "book-down" the Capital Accounts of the Partners to their fair market values, regardless of the rules set forth in Treasury Regulations Section 1.704(c)-1(b)(2)(iv)(f), at the following times: (i) immediately prior to (A) a Capital Contribution (of more than a de minimis amount) to the Partnership by a new or existing Partner as consideration for a Partnership Interest, (B) the liquidation of the Partnership or a distribution of property (of more than a de minimis amount) by the Partnership to a retiring or continuing Partner as consideration for a Partnership Interest, or (C) the issuance of a new Partnership Interest (other than a de minimis amount) as consideration of the provision of services to or for the benefit of the Partnership by an existing Partner acting in a Partner capacity or by a new Partner acting in a partner capacity or in anticipation of being a Partner, and (ii) on January 1 of each Fiscal Year. The resulting increase or decrease in the Capital Accounts of each Partner shall be treated as a Code Section 704(c) item.

(g) Capital Accounts as of February 29, 2004. The Partners hereby acknowledge that, on February 29, 2004, after the Partnership's issuance of Partnership Interests to Profits Interest Partners:

(i) The Partnership "booked-up" the Capital Account of each Partner that is a member of the Founding Partner Group to its fair market value, and the resulting increase or decrease in the Capital Accounts of each Partner that is a member of the Founding Partner Group was treated as a Code Section 704(c) item. On February 29, 2004, the "book" Capital Account for each Partner that is a member of the Founding Partner Group is set forth below:

Strand Advisors, Inc.	$1,250,000
Canis Minor Trust	$12,500,000
James D. Dondero	$6,250,000
The Get Good Trust	$15,000,000
The Get Better Trust	$58,750,000
The Mark and Pamela Okada Family Trust-Exempt #1	$8,750,000

TOTAL	$125,000,000

(ii) On February 29, 2004, each Profits Interest Partner had a Capital Account balance of zero (0).

3.8 Distributive Share for Tax Purposes. Items of Partnership gain or loss recognized for federal income tax purposes and arising from Securities will be allocated among the Partners in accordance with the methods set forth in Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-3(e)(3) promulgated under Code Section 704(c). All other items of income, deduction, gain, loss or credit that are recognized for federal income tax purposes will be allocated amount the Partners in accordance with the allocations of Profits and Losses hereunder as determined by the General Partner in its sole and unfettered discretion. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the General Partner will (i) as to each New Issue, specially allocate to the Partners who were allocated New Issue Profit from that New Issue any short-term capital gains realized during the Fiscal Year upon the disposition of such New Issue during that Fiscal Year, and (ii) specially allocate items of gain (or loss) to Partners who withdraw capital during any Fiscal Year in a manner designed to ensure that each withdrawing Partner is allocated gain (or loss) in an amount equal to the difference between that Partner's Capital Account balance (or portion thereof being withdrawn) at the time of the withdrawal and the tax basis for his/her/ its Partnership Interest at that time (or proportionate amount thereof); provided, however, that the General Partner may, without the consent of any other Partner, (a) alter the allocation of any item of taxable income, gain, loss, deduction or credit in any specific instance where the General Partner, in its sole and unfettered discretion, determines such alteration to be necessary or appropriate to avoid a materially inequitable result (e.g., where the allocation would create an inappropriate tax liability); and/or (b) adopt whatever other method of allocating tax items as the General Partner determines is necessary or appropriate in order to be consistent with the spirit and intent of the Treasury Regulations under Code Sections 704(b) and 704(c).

3.9 Distributions.

(a) General. The General Partner shall review the Partnership's accounts at the end of each calendar quarter to determine whether distributions are appropriate. The General Partner may make such distributions as it may determine in its sole and unfettered discretion, without being limited to current or accumulated income or gains, but no such distribution shall be made out of funds required to make current payments on Partnership indebtedness. The Partnership has entered into one or more credit facilities with financial institutions that may limit the amount and timing of distributions to the Partners. Thus, the Partners acknowledge that distributions from the Partnership may be limited. Except to the extent Sections 5.3 or 5.4 are applicable, all distributions pursuant to this Section 3.9 shall generally be made in proportion to the Partners' Capital Accounts; provided, however, the General Partner may, in its sole and unfettered discretion, make a disproportionate distribution to a Partner to the extent that Partner has (or is anticipated to have by the end of the current Fiscal Year) a sufficient positive balance in his/her/its Capital Account therefor; provided, further, the maximum amount per Fiscal Year that the General Partner may distribute to a member of the Founding Partner Group in a disproportionate distribution is ten percent (10%) of Partnership Capital.

(b) Tax Distributions. The General Partner shall promptly declare and make cash distributions pursuant hereto to the Partners to allow the federal and state income tax attributable to the Partnership's taxable income that is passed through the Partnership to the Partners to be paid by such Partners (a "Tax Distribution"). To satisfy this requirement, the Partnership shall pay to each Partner on or before April 14 of each Fiscal Year, an amount at least equal to the product of (i) the sum of the Partnership's positive taxable income attributed to that Partner during the prior Fiscal Year (including without limitation, the taxable income attributable to the special allocation of Profits constituting the Reallocation Amount) multiplied by (ii) the sum of the highest federal and state individual income tax rates imposed on any Partner in effect that prior Fiscal Year. Any Tax Distribution to a Partner shall reduce the amount that Partner is otherwise entitled to receive on its next distribution pursuant to Section 3.9(a).

(c) Payments Not Deemed Distributions. Any amounts paid pursuant to Sections 4.1(e) or 4.1(h) shall not be deemed to be distributions for purposes of this Agreement.

(d) Withheld Amounts. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Section 3.9 to the contrary, each Partner hereby authorizes the Partnership to withhold and to pay over, or otherwise pay, any withholding or other taxes payable by the Partnership with respect to that Partner as a result of that Partner's participation in the Partnership. If and to the extent that the Partnership shall be required to withhold or pay any such taxes, that Partner shall be deemed for all purposes of this Agreement to have received a payment from the Partnership as of the time that withholding or tax is paid, which payment shall be deemed to be a distribution with respect to that Partner's Partnership Interest to the extent that the Partner (or any successor to that Partner's Partnership Interest) is then entitled to receive a distribution. To the extent that the aggregate of such payments to a Partner for any period exceeds the distributions to which that Partner is entitled for that period, the amount of such excess shall be considered a loan from the Partnership to that Partner. Such loan shall bear interest (which interest shall be treated as an item of income to the Partnership) at the "Applicable Federal Rate" (as defined in the Code), as determined hereunder from time to time, until discharged by that Partner by repayment, which may be made in the sole and unfettered discretion of the General Partner out of distributions to which that Partner would otherwise be subsequently entitled. Any withholdings authorized by this Section 3.9(d) shall be made at the maximum applicable statutory rate under the applicable tax law unless the General Partner shall have received an opinion of counsel or other evidence satisfactory to the General Partner to the effect that a lower rate is applicable, or that no withholding is applicable.

3.10 Compensation and Reimbursement of General Partner.

(a) Compensation. The General Partner and any Affiliate of the General Partner shall receive no compensation from the Partnership for services rendered pursuant to this Agreement or any other agreements unless approved by a Majority Interest.

(b) Reimbursement for Expenses. In addition to amounts paid under other Sections of this Agreement, the General Partner and its Affiliates shall be reimbursed for all expenses, disbursements, and advances incurred or made, and all fees, deposits, and other sums paid in connection with the organization and operation of the Partnership, the qualification of the Partnership to do business, and all related matters.

3.11 Books, Records, Accounting, and Reports.

(a) Records and Accounting. The General Partner shall keep or cause to be kept appropriate books and records with respect to the Partnership's business, which shall at all times be kept at the principal office of the Partnership or such other office as the General Partner may designate for such purpose. The books of the Partnership shall be maintained for financial reporting purposes on the accrual basis or on a cash basis, as the General Partner shall determine in its sole and unfettered discretion, in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and applicable law.

(b) Fiscal Year. The fiscal year of the Partnership shall be the calendar year unless otherwise determined by the General Partner in its sole and unfettered discretion.

(c) Reports.

(i) As soon as reasonably practicable after the end of each Fiscal Year, the General Partner shall cause to be mailed to each Partner reports containing financial statements of the Partnership for that Fiscal Year, presented on cash or accrual basis, including a balance sheet and statement of income and, if the General Partner shall so determine, in its sole and unfettered discretion, such statements may be audited by a firm of independent public accountants selected by the General Partner.

(ii) As soon as reasonably practicable after the end of each fiscal quarter of the Partnership, the General Partner shall, if it shall so determine in its sole and unfettered discretion, cause to be mailed to each Partner a report containing such financial information for that calendar quarter as the General Partner deems appropriate.

(d) Other Information. The General Partner may release information concerning the operations of the Partnership to any financial institution or other Person that has loaned or may loan funds to the Partnership or the General Partner or any of its Affiliates, and may release such information to any other Person for reasons reasonably related to the business and operations of the Partnership or as required by law or regulation of any regulatory body.

3.12 Tax Matters.

(a) Tax Returns. The General Partner shall arrange for the preparation and timely filing of all returns of Partnership income, gain, loss, deduction, credit and other items necessary for federal, state and local income tax purposes. The General Partner shall deliver to each Partner as copy of his/her/its IRS Form K-1 as soon as practicable after the end of the Fiscal Year, but in no event later than October 1. The classification, realization, and recognition of income, gain, loss, deduction, credit and other items shall be on the cash or accrual method of accounting for federal income tax purposes, as the General Partner shall determine in its sole and unfettered discretion. The General Partner in its sole and unfettered discretion may pay state and local income taxes attributable to operations of the Partnership and treat such taxes as an expense of the Partnership.

(b) Tax Elections. Except as otherwise provided herein, the General Partner shall, in its sole and unfettered discretion, determine whether to make any available tax election.

(c) Tax Controversies. Subject to the provisions hereof, the General Partner is designated the Tax Matters Partner (as defined in Code Section 6231), and is authorized and required to represent the Partnership, at the Partnership's expense, in connection with all examinations of the Partnership's affairs by tax authorities, including resulting administrative and judicial proceedings, and to expend Partnership funds for professional services and costs associated therewith. Each Partner agrees to cooperate with the General Partner in connection with such proceedings.

(d) Taxation as a Partnership. No election shall be made by the Partnership or any Partner for the Partnership to be excluded from the application of any of the provisions of Subchapter K, Chapter 1 of Subtitle A of the Code or from any similar provisions of any state tax laws.

The General Partner caused the Certificate of Limited Partnership of the Partnership to be filed with the Secretary of State of Delaware as required by the Delaware Act and shall cause to be filed such other certificates or documents (including, without limitation, copies, amendments, or restatements of this Agreement) as may be determined by the General Partner to be reasonable and necessary or appropriate for the formation, qualification, or registration and operation of a limited partnership (or a partnership in which Limited Partners have limited liability) in the State of Delaware and in any other state where the Partnership may elect to do business.

(c) Reliance by Third Parties. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement to the contrary, no lender or purchaser or other Person, including any purchaser of property from the Partnership or any other Person dealing with the Partnership, shall be required to verify any representation by the General Partner as to its authority to encumber, sell, or otherwise use any assess or properties of the Partnership, and any such lender, purchaser, or other Person shall be entitled to rely exclusively on such representations and shall be entitled to deal with the General Partner as if it were the sole party in interest therein, both legally and beneficially. Each Limited Partner hereby waives any and all defenses or other remedies that may be available against any such lender, purchaser, or other Person to contest, negate, or disaffirm any action of the General Partner in connection with any such sale or financing. In no event shall any Person dealing with the General Partner or the General Partner's representative with respect to any business or property of the Partnership be obligated to ascertain that the terms of this Agreement have been complied with, and each such Person shall be entitled to rely on the assumptions that the Partnership has been duly formed and is validly in existence. The General Partner may, in its sole and unfettered discretion, deposit funds of the Partnership in a central disbursing account maintained by or in the name of the General Partner, the Partnership, or any other Person into which funds of the General Partner, the Partnership, on other Persons are also deposited; provided, however, at all times books of account are maintained that show the amount of funds of the Partnership on deposit in such account and interest accrued with respect to such funds as credited to the Partnership. The General Partner may use the funds of the Partnership as compensating balances for its benefit; provided, however, such funds do not directly or indirectly secure, and are not otherwise at risk on account of, any indebtedness or other obligation of the General Partner or any director, officer, employee, agent, representative, or Affiliate thereof. Nothing in this Section 4.1(d) shall be deemed to prohibit or limit in any manner the right of the Partnership to lend funds to the General Partner or any Affiliate thereof pursuant to Section 4.1(e)(i). All withdrawals from or charges against such accounts shall be made by the General Partner or by its representatives. Funds of the Partnership may be invested as determined by the General Partner in accordance with the terms and provisions of this Agreement.

(e) Loans to or from General Partner; Contracts with Affiliates; Joint Ventures.

(i) The General Partner or any Affiliate of the General Partner may lend to the Partnership funds needed by the Partnership for such periods of time as the General Partner may determine; provided, however, the General Partner or its Affiliate may not charge the Partnership interest at a rate greater than the rate (including points or other financing charges or fees) that would be charged the Partnership (without reference to the General Partner's financial abilities or guaranties) by unrelated lenders on comparable loans. The Partnership shall reimburse the General Partner or its Affiliate, as the case may be, for any costs incurred by the General Partner or that Affiliate in connection with the borrowing of funds obtained by the General Partner or that Affiliate and loaned to the Partnership.

(ii) The Partnership may loan funds to the General Partner and any Affiliate thereof; provided, however, if the amount of that proposed loan exceeds twenty percent (20%) of the aggregate Capital Account balances of the General Partner and its Affiliates, then any Limited Partner may elect to borrow his/her/its pro rata portion of the sum of (a) the amount of the proposed loan minus (b) twenty percent (20%) of the aggregate Capital Account balances of the General Partner and its Affiliates, on the same terms and conditions as the General Partner and/or its Affiliate, as appropriate, and such loan shall be secured by only that Limited Partner's Partnership Interest.

(iii) The General Partner or any of its Affiliates may enter into an agreement with the Partnership to render services, including management services, for the Partnership. Any service rendered for the Partnership by the General Partner or any Affiliate thereof shall be on terms that are fair and reasonable to the Partnership.

(iv) The Partnership may Transfer any assets to joint ventures or other partnerships in which it is or thereby becomes a participant upon terms and subject to such conditions consistent with applicable law as the General Partner deems appropriate.

(v) If requested by a Profits Interest Partner, the Partnership shall lend funds to that Profits Interest Partner in an amount up to the excess of (a) the aggregate amount that would have been distributed to that Profits Interest Partner pursuant to Section 3.9 since first becoming a Profits Interest Partner, if each such distribution made by the Partnership pursuant to Section 3.9 since first becoming a Profits Interest Partner were made in accordance with Percentage Interests in effect at the time of each such distribution over (ii) the aggregate amount actually distributed to such Profits Interest Partner pursuant to Section 3.9 since first becoming a Profits Interest Partner (for this purpose, not taking into account distributions attributable to the special allocations with respect to the Reallocation Amounts). Each such loan shall be recourse to the Profits Interest Partner and shall be secured by his/her Partnership Interest. Each such loan shall bear interest at the Applicable Federal Mid-Term Rate in effect at the time such loan is made and shall have a term of one (1) year; provided, however, the loan must be repaid earlier in the case of that Profits Interest Partner's termination of employment from the Partnership or any Affiliate thereof for any reason, with repayment due in four (4) quarterly payments beginning the July 31st after the termination of his/her employment. Notwithstanding the preceding, the maximum loan amount available to any Profits Interest Partner under this Section 4.1(e)(v) shall be the amount specified on Exhibit C.

(f) Outside Activities; Conflicts of Interest. The General Partner or any Affiliate thereof and any director, officer, employee, agent, or representative of the General Partner or any Affiliate thereof shall be entitled to and may have business interests and engage in business activities in addition to those relating to the Partnership, including, without limitation, business interests and activities in direct competition with the Partnership. Neither the Partnership nor any of the Partners shall have any rights by virtue of this Agreement or the partnership relationship created hereby in any business ventures of the General Partner, any Affiliate thereof, or any director, officer, employee, agent, or representative of either the General Partner or any Affiliate thereof.

(g) Resolution of Conflicts of Interest. Unless otherwise expressly provided in this Agreement or any other agreement contemplated herein, whenever a conflict of interest exists or arises between the General Partner or any of its Affiliates, on the one hand, and the Partnership or any Limited Partner, on the other hand, any action taken by the General Partner, in the absence of bad faith by the General Partner, shall not constitute a breach of this Agreement or any other agreement contemplated herein or a breach of any standard of care or duty imposed herein or therein or under the Delaware Act or any other applicable law, rule, or regulation.

(h) Indemnification. The Partnership shall indemnify and hold harmless the General Partner and any director, officer, employee, agent, or representative of the General Partner (collectively, the "GP Party"), against all liabilities, losses, and damages incurred by any of them by reason of any act performed or omitted to be performed in the name of or on behalf of the Partnership, or in connection with the Partnership's business, including, without limitation, attorneys' fees and any amounts expended in the settlement of any claims or liabilities, losses, or damages, to the fullest extent permitted by the Delaware Act; provided, however, the Partnership shall have no obligation to indemnify and hold harmless a GP Party for any action or inaction that constitutes gross negligence or willful or wanton misconduct. The Partnership, in the sole and unfettered discretion of the General Partner, may indemnify and hold harmless any Limited Partner, employee, agent, or representative of the Partnership, any Person who is or was serving at the request of the Partnership acting through the General Partner as a director, officer, partner, trustee, employee, agent, or representative of another corporation, partnership, joint venture, trust, or other enterprise, and any other Person to the extent determined by the General Partner in its sole and unfettered discretion, but in no event shall such indemnification exceed the indemnification permitted by the Delaware Act. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Section 4.1(h) or elsewhere in this Agreement, no amendment to the Delaware Act after the date of this Agreement shall reduce or limit in any manner the indemnification provided for or permitted by this Section 4.1(h) unless such reduction or limitation is mandated by such amendment for limited partnerships formed prior to the enactment of such amendment. In no event shall Limited Partners be subject to personal liability by reason of the indemnification provisions of this Agreement.

(i) Liability of General Partner.

(i) Neither the General Partner nor its directors, officers, employees, agents, or representatives shall be liable to the Partnership or any Limited Partner for errors in judgment or for any acts or omissions that do not constitute gross negligence or willful or wanton misconduct.

(ii) The General Partner may exercise any of the powers granted to it by this Agreement and perform any of the duties imposed upon it hereunder either directly or by or through its directors, officers, employees, agents, or representatives, and the General Partner shall not be responsible for any misconduct or negligence on the part of any agent or representative appointed by the General Partner.

(j) Reliance by General Partner.

(i) The General Partner may rely and shall be protected in acting or refraining from acting upon any resolution, certificate, statement, instrument, opinion, report, notice, request, consent, order, bond, debenture, or other paper or document believed by it to be genuine and to have been signed or presented by the proper party or parties.

(ii) The General Partner may consult with legal counsel, accountants, appraisers, management consultants, investment bankers, and other consultants and advisers selected by it, and any opinion of any such Person as to matters which the General Partner believes to be within such Person's professional or expert competence shall be full and complete authorization and protection in respect of any action taken or suffered or omitted by the General Partner hereunder in good faith and in accordance with such opinion.

(k) Limitation on Authority. The General Partner shall have no authority to undertake any of the following actions without the consent of the Limited Partners holding ninety-six percent (96%) of the Percentage Interests:

(i) Do any act which would make it impossible to carry on the ordinary business of the Partnership (excluding the liquidation of the Partnership);

(ii) Possess Partnership property or assign any rights in specific Partnership property for other than a Partnership purpose; and

(iii) Require any Limited Partner to make any contribution to the capital of the Partnership that is not otherwise provided for in this Agreement.

4.2 Rights and Obligations of Limited Partners. In addition to the rights and obligations of Limited Partners set forth elsewhere in this Agreement, Limited Partners shall have the following rights and obligations:

(a) Limitation of Liability. Limited Partners shall have no liability under this Agreement except as provided herein or under the Delaware Act.

(b) Management of Business. No Limited Partner shall take part in the control (within the meaning of the Delaware Act) of the Partnership's business, transact any business in the Partnership's name, or have the power to sign documents for or otherwise bind the Partnership other than as specifically set forth in this Agreement.

(c) Return of Capital. No Limited Partner shall be entitled to the withdrawal or return of its Capital Contribution except to the extent, if any, that distributions made pursuant to this Agreement or upon termination of the Partnership may be considered as such by law and then only to the extent provided for in this Agreement.

(d) Amended Buy-Sell and Redemption Agreement. Each Limited Partner shall comply with the terms and conditions of the Amended Buy-Sell and Redemption Agreement. The admission of the Profits Interest Partners into the Partnership was contingent upon their execution of the Amended Buy-Sell and Redemption Agreement.

4.3 Transfer of Partnership Interests.

(a) Transfer. No Partnership Interest shall be Transferred, in whole or in part, except in accordance with the terms and conditions set forth in this Section 4.3 and the Amended Buy-Sell and Redemption Agreement. Any Transfer or purported Transfer of any Partnership Interest not made in accordance with this Section 4.3 and the Amended Buy-Sell and Redemption Agreement shall be null and void. An alleged transferee shall have no right to require any information or account of the Partnership's transactions or to inspect the Partnership's books. The Partnership shall be entitled to treat the alleged transferor of a Partnership Interest as the absolute owner thereof in all respects, and shall incur no liability to any alleged transferee for distributions to the Partner owning that Partnership Interest of record or for allocations of Profits, Losses, deductions or credits or for transmittal of reports and notices required to be given to holders of Partnership Interests.

(b) Transfers by General Partner. The General Partner may Transfer all, but not less than all, of its Partnership Interest to any Person only with the approval of a Majority Interest. Any Transfer by the General Partner of its Partnership Interest under this Section 4.3(b) to an Affiliate of the General Partner or any other Person shall not constitute a withdrawal of the General Partner under Section 4.5(a), Section 5.1(b), or any other provision of this Agreement. If any such Transfer is deemed to constitute a withdrawal under such provisions or otherwise and results in the dissolution of the Partnership under this Agreement or the laws of any jurisdiction to which the Partnership of this Agreement is subject, the Partners hereby unanimously consent to the reconstitution and continuation of the Partnership immediately following such dissolution, pursuant to Section 5.2.

(c) Transfers by Limited Partners. The Partnership Interest of a Limited Partner may not be Transferred without the consent of the General Partner (which consent may be withheld in the sole and unfettered discretion of the General Partner), and in accordance with the Amended Buy-Sell and Redemption Agreement.

(d) Distributions and Allocations in Respect of Transferred Partnership Interests. If any Partnership Interest is Transferred during any Fiscal Year in compliance with the provisions of Article 4 and the Amended Buy-Sell and Redemption Agreement, Profits, Losses, and all other items attributable to the Transferred interest for that period shall be divided and allocated between the transferor and the transferee by taking into account their varying interests during the period in accordance with Code Section 706(d), using any conventions permitted by law and selected by the General Partner. All distributions on or before the date of that Transfer shall be made to the transferor. Solely for purposes of making such allocations and distributions, the Partnership shall recognize that Transfer not later than the end of the calendar month during which it is given notice of that Transfer; provided, however, if the Partnership does not receive a notice stating the date that Partnership Interest was Transferred and such other information as the General Partner may reasonably require within thirty (30) days after the end of the Fiscal Year during which the Transfer occurs, then all of such items shall be allocated, and all distributions shall be made, to the person who, according to the books and records of the Partnership, on the last day of the Fiscal Year during which the Transfer occurs, was the owner of the Partnership Interest. Neither the Partnership nor any Partner shall incur any liability for making allocations and distributions in accordance with the provisions of this Section 4.3(d), whether or not any Partner or the Partnership has knowledge of any Transfer of ownership of any Partnership Interest.

4.4 Issuances of Partnership Interests to New and Existing Partners.

(a) Issuance of Partnership Interests to New Limited Partners. The General Partner may admit one or more additional Persons as Limited Partners ("Additional Limited Partners") to the Partnership at such times and upon such terms as it deems appropriate in its sole and unfettered discretion. Upon the admission of any Additional Limited Partner, the Percentage Interest of the existing Limited Partners shall be diluted proportionately. No Person may be admitted to the Partnership as a Limited Partner until he/she/it executes an Addendum to this Agreement in the form attached as Exhibit B (which may be modified by the General Partner in its sole and unfettered discretion) and an addendum to the Amended Buy-Sell and Redemption Agreement.

(b) Issuance of an Additional Partnership Interest to an Existing Partner. The General Partner may issue an additional Partnership Interest to any existing Partner at such times and upon such terms as it deems appropriate in its sole and unfettered discretion. Upon the issuance of an additional Partnership Interest to an existing Partner, the Percentage Interest of all existing Limited Partners shall be diluted proportionately; provided, however, only the Percentage Interests of the members of the Founding Partner Group shall be diluted when the General Partner issues an additional Partnership Interest to an existing Profits Interest Partner in accordance with the terms of the HCM Plan upon the vesting of that Profits Interest Partner's "Long-Term Incentive Units" (as defined in that Plan) granted to him/her prior to the date hereof. Any additional Partnership Interest shall be subject to all the terms and conditions of this Agreement and the Amended Buy-Sell and Redemption Agreement.

4.5 Withdrawal of General Partner.

(a) Option. In the event of the withdrawal of the General Partner from the Partnership, the departing General Partner (the "Departing Partner") shall, at the option of its successor (if any) exercisable prior to the effective date of the departure of that Departing Partner, promptly receive from its successor in exchange for its Partnership Interest as the General Partner, an amount in cash equal to its Capital Account balance, determined as of the effective date of its departure.

(b) Conversion. If the successor to a Departing Partner does not exercise the option described in Section 4.5(a), the Partnership Interest of the Departing Partner as the General Partner of the Partnership shall be converted into a Partnership Interest as a Limited Partner.

(c) Capital Contribution. If the successor to a Departing Partner does not exercise the option described in Section 4.5(a), its successor shall, at the effective date of its admission to the Partnership, contribute to the capital of the Partnership cash or property or other consideration such that its Capital Account, after giving effect to that contribution, shall be equal to one percent (1%) of the total Capital Account balances at that date.

4.6 Admission of Substitute Limited Partners and Successor General Partner.

(a) Admission of Substitute Limited Partners. A transferee (which may be the heir or legatee of a Limited Partner) or assignee of a Limited Partner's Partnership Interest shall be entitled to receive only the distributive share of the Partnership's Profits, Losses, deductions, and credits attributable to that Partnership Interest. To become a substitute Limited Partner (a "Substitute Limited Partner"), that transferee or assignee shall (i) obtain the consent of the General Partner (which consent may be withheld in the sole and unfettered discretion of the General Partner), (ii) comply with all the requirements of this Agreement and the Amended Buy-Sell and Redemption Agreement with respect to the Transfer of the Partnership Interest at issue, and (iii) execute an Addendum to this Agreement in the form attached as Exhibit B (which may be modified by the General Partner in its sole and unfettered discretion) and an addendum to the Amended Buy-Sell and Redemption Agreement. Upon admission of a Substitute Limited Partner, that Limited Partner shall be subject to all of the restrictions applicable to, shall assume all of the obligations of, and shall attain the status of a Limited Partner under and pursuant to this Agreement with respect to the Partnership Interest held by that Limited Partner.

(b) Admission of Successor General Partner. A successor General Partner selected pursuant to Section 5.2 or the transferee of or successor to all of the Partnership Interest of the General Partner pursuant to Section 4.3(b) shall be admitted to the Partnership as the General Partner, effective as of the date of the withdrawal or removal of the predecessor General Partner or the date of Transfer of that predecessor's Partnership Interest.

(c) Action by General Partner. In connection with the admission of any substitute Limited Partner or successor General Partner or any additional Limited Partner, the General Partner shall have the authority to take all such actions as it deems necessary or advisable in connection therewith, including the amendment of Exhibit A and the execution and filing with appropriate authorities of any necessary documentation.

4.7 Business Opportunities.

(a) In the event that the Partnership recapitalizes, distributes or otherwise transfers any of its business units, business interests or assets to a new entity that will be primarily owned by one or more members of the Founding Partner Group, each of the Limited Partners shall receive a proportionate share of that entity, subject to identical terms and conditions as are provided to the members of the Founding Partner Group, unless that Limited Partner agrees to receive a different percentage interest in that entity; provided, however, this Section 4.7(a) shall not apply to any disproportionate distribution made to a member of the Founding Partner Group as long as such disproportionate distribution does not exceed ten percent (10%) of Partnership Capital.

(b) In the event that one or more members of the Founding Partner Group establishes a new business venture (i) whose business operations will be substantially related to, or otherwise operated substantially in connection with, the Partnership, or (ii) that James D. Dondero and/or Mark K. Okada directly or indirectly control and that is an entity whose business operations are substantially related to, or otherwise operated substantially in connection with, the Partnership, the members of the Founding Partner Group agree to use their reasonable best efforts to ensure that (a) the total ownership interest of the members of the Founding Partner Group in that entity shall not exceed their total percentage ownership interest in the Partnership; and (b) each of the Non-Founding Limited Partners shall be permitted to acquire an ownership interest in that entity, subject to identical terms and conditions as the members of the Founding Partner Group; provided, however, the members of the Founding Partner Group may elect to limit the amount of such ownership interest for any particular Non-Founding Limited Partner. With regard to investments referenced in clause (b) of the preceding sentence, if a Limited Partner declines to make an investment in a new business entity, the members of the Founding Partner Group shall allocate the opportunity to make that investment to one or more of the remaining Limited Partners (including James D. Dondero and Mark K. Okada).

DISSOLUTION AND WINDING UP

5.1 Dissolution. The Partnership shall be dissolved upon:

(a) The withdrawal, bankruptcy, or dissolution of the General Partner, or any other event that results in its ceasing to be the General Partner (other than by reason of a Transfer pursuant to Section 4.3(b));

(b) An election to dissolve the Partnership by the General Partner that is approved by the affirmative vote of a Majority Interest; provided, however, the General Partner may dissolve the Partnership without the approval of the Limited Partners in order to comply with Section 14 of the Amended Buy-Sell and Redemption Agreement;

(c) Any other event that, under the Delaware Act, would cause its dissolution; or

(d) A sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the Partnership that results in the liquidation of operating assets, the material shrinking of operations and personnel and the failure to redeploy the proceeds within twelve (12) months into other activities and investments.

For purposes of this Section 5.1, the bankruptcy of the General Partner shall be deemed to have occurred when the General Partner: (i) makes a general assignment for the benefit of creditors; (ii) files a voluntary bankruptcy petition; (iii) becomes the subject of an order for relief or is declared insolvent in any federal or state bankruptcy or insolvency proceeding: (iv) files a petition or answer seeking a reorganization, arrangement, composition, readjustment, liquidation, dissolution, or similar relief under any law; (v) files an answer or other pleading admitting or failing to contest the material allegations of a petition fled against the General Partner in a proceeding of the type described in clauses (i) through (iv) of this paragraph; (vi) seeks, consents to, or acquiesces in the appointment of a trustee, receiver, or liquidator of the General Partner or of all or any substantial part of the General Partner's properties; or (vii) one hundred twenty (120) days expire after the date of the commencement of a proceeding against the General Partner seeking reorganization, arrangement, composition, readjustment, liquidation, dissolution, or similar relief under any law if the proceeding has not been previously dismissed, or ninety (90) days expire after the date of the appointment, without the General Partner's consent or acquiescence, of a trustee, receiver, or liquidator of the General Partner or of all or any substantial part of the General Partner's properties if the appointment has not previously been vacated or stayed, or ninety (90) days expire after the date of expiration of a stay, if the appointment has not previously been vacated.

5.2 Continuation of the Partnership. Upon the occurrence of an event described in Section 5.1(a), the Partnership shall be deemed to be dissolved and reconstituted if Limited Partners unanimously elect to continue the Partnership within ninety (90) days of that event. If no election to continue the Partnership is made within ninety (90) days of that event, the Partnership shall conduct only activities necessary to wind up its affairs. If an election to continue the Partnership is made upon the occurrence of an event described in Section 5.1(a), then:

(a) Within that ninety (90)-day period a successor General Partner shall be selected by seventy percent (70%) of the Percentage Interests owned by Limited Partners;

(b) The Partnership shall be deemed to be reconstituted and shall continue until the end of the term for which it is formed unless earlier dissolved in accordance with this Article 5;

(c) The interest of the former General Partner shall be converted to an interest as a Limited Partner; and

(d) All necessary steps shall be taken to amend or restate this Agreement and the Certificate of Limited Partnership, and the successor General Partner may for this purpose amend this Agreement and the Certificate of Limited Partnership, as appropriate, without the consent of any Partner.

5.3 Liquidation. Upon dissolution of the Partnership, unless the Partnership is continued under Section 5.2, the General Partner or, in the event the General Partner has been dissolved, becomes bankrupt (as defined in Section 5.1), or withdraws from the Partnership, a liquidator or liquidating committee selected by a Majority Interest, shall be the Liquidator. The Liquidator (if other than the General Partner) shall be entitled to receive such compensation for its services as may be approved by a Majority Interest. The Liquidator shall agree not to resign at any time without fifteen (15) days' prior written notice and (if other than the General Partner) may be removed at any time, with or without cause, by notice of removal approved by a Majority Interest. Upon dissolution, removal, or resignation of the Liquidator, a successor and substitute Liquidator (who shall have and succeed to all rights, powers, and duties of the original Liquidator) shall within thirty (30) days thereafter be selected by a Majority Interest. The right to appoint a successor or substitute Liquidator in the manner provided herein shall be recurring and continuing for so long as the functions and services of the Liquidator are authorized to continue under the provisions hereof, and every reference herein to the Liquidator shall be deemed to refer also to any such successor or substitute Liquidator appointed in the manner provided herein. Except as expressly provided in this Article 5, the Liquidator appointed in the manner provided herein shall have and may exercise, without further authorization or consent of any of the parties hereto, all of the powers conferred upon the General Partner under the terms of this Agreement (but subject to all of the applicable limitations, contractual and otherwise, upon the exercise of such powers) to the extent necessary or desirable in the good faith judgment of the Liquidator to carry out the duties and functions of the Liquidator hereunder for and during such period of time as shall be reasonably required in the good faith judgment of the Liquidator to complete the winding up and liquidation of the Partnership as provided herein. The Liquidator shall liquidate the assets of the Partnership and apply and distribute the proceeds of such liquidation in the following order of priority, unless otherwise required by mandatory provisions of applicable law:

(a) To the payment of the expenses of the terminating transactions including, without limitation, brokerage commission, legal fees, accounting fees and closing costs;

(b) To the payment of creditors of the Partnership, including Partners, in order of priority provided by law;

(c) To the Partners and assignees to the extent of, and in proportion to, the positive balances in their respective Capital Accounts as provided in Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-1(b)(2)(ii)(b)(2); provided, however, the Liquidator may place in escrow a reserve of cash or other assets of the Partnership for contingent liabilities in an amount determined by the Liquidator to be appropriate for such purposes; and

(d) To the Partners in proportion to their respective Percentage Interests.

5.4 Distribution in Kind. Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 5.3 that require the liquidation of the assets of the Partnership, but subject to the order of priorities set forth therein, if on dissolution of the Partnership the Liquidator determines that an immediate sale of part or all of the Partnership's assets would be impractical or would cause undue loss to the Partners and assignees, the Liquidator may defer for a reasonable time the liquidation of any assets except those necessary to satisfy liabilities of the Partnership (other than those to Partners) and/or may distribute to the Partners and assignees, in lieu of cash, as tenants in common and in accordance with the provisions of Section 5.3, undivided interests in such Partnership assets as the Liquidator deems not suitable for liquidation. Any such distributions in kind shall be subject to such conditions relating to the disposition and management of such properties as the Liquidator deems reasonable and equitable and to any joint operating agreements or other agreements governing the operation of such properties at such time. The Liquidator shall determine the fair market value of any property distributed in kind using such reasonable method of valuation as it may adopt.

5.5 Cancellation of Certificate of Limited Partnership. Upon the completion of the distribution of Partnership property as provided in Sections 5.3 and 5.4, the Partnership shall be terminated, and the Liquidator (or the General Partner and Limited Partners if necessary) shall cause the cancellation of the Certificate of Limited Partnership in the State of Delaware and of all qualifications and registrations of the Partnership as a foreign limited partnership in jurisdictions other than the State of Delaware and shall take such other actions as may be necessary to terminate the Partnership.

5.6 Return of Capital. The General Partner shall not be personally liable for the return of the Capital Contributions of Limited Partners, or any portion thereof, it being expressly understood that any such return shall be made solely from Partnership assets.

5.7 Waiver of Partition. Each Partner hereby waives any rights to partition of the Partnership property.

ARTICLE 6

GENERAL PROVISIONS

6.1 Amendments to Agreement. The General Partner may amend this Agreement without the consent of any Partner if the General Partner reasonably determines that such amendment is necessary and appropriate; provided, however, any action taken by the General Partner shall be subject to its fiduciary duties to the Limited Partners under the Delaware Act.

6.2 Addresses and Notices. Any notice, demand, request, or report required or permitted to be given or made to a Partner under this Agreement shall be in writing and shall be deemed given or made when delivered in person or when sent by United States registered or certified mail to the Partner at his/her/its address as shown on the records of the Partnership, regardless of any claim of any Person who may have an interest in any Partnership Interest by reason of an assignment or otherwise.

6.3 Titles and Captions. All article and section titles and captions in the Agreement are for convenience only, shall not be deemed part of this Agreement, and in no way shall define, limit, extend, or describe the scope or intent of any provisions hereof. Except as specifically provided otherwise, references to "Articles," "Sections" and "Exhibits" are to "Articles," "Sections" and "Exhibits" of this Agreement. All Exhibits hereto are incorporated herein by reference.

6.4 Pronouns and Plurals. Whenever the context may require, any pronoun used in this Agreement shall include the corresponding masculine, feminine, or neuter forms, and the singular form of nouns, pronouns, and verbs shall include the plural and vice versa.

6.5 Further Action. The parties shall execute all documents, provide all information, and take or refrain from taking all actions as may be necessary or appropriate to achieve the purposes of this Agreement.

6.6 Binding Effect. This Agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties hereto and their heirs, executors, administrators, successors, legal representatives, and permitted assigns.

6.7 Integration. This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement among the parties hereto pertaining to the subject matter hereof and supersedes all prior agreements and understandings pertaining thereto.

6.8 Creditors. None of the provisions of this Agreement shall be for the benefit of or enforceable by any creditors of the Partnership.

6.9 Waiver. No failure by any party to insist upon the strict performance of any covenant, duty, agreement, or condition of this Agreement or to exercise any right or remedy consequent upon a breach thereof shall constitute waiver of any such breach or any other covenant, duty, agreement, or condition.

6.10 Counterparts. This agreement may be executed in counterparts, all of which together shall constitute one agreement binding on all the parties hereto, notwithstanding that all such parties are not signatories to the original or the same counterpart.

6.11 Applicable Law. This Agreement shall be construed in accordance with and governed by the laws of the State of Delaware, without regard to the principles of conflicts of law.

6.12 Invalidity of Provisions. If any provision of this Agreement is declared or found to be illegal, unenforceable, or void, in whole or in part, then the parties shall be relieved of all obligations arising under that provision, but only to the extent that it is illegal, unenforceable, or void, it being the intent and agreement of the parties that this Agreement shall be deemed amended by modifying that provision to the extent necessary to make it legal and enforceable while preserving its intent or, if that is not possible, by substituting therefor another provision that is legal and enforceable and achieves the same objectives.

(c) Election to Exercise by Unrelated Limited Partners. The Partnership shall, within twenty (20) days after receipt of the CP Event Notice, notify the Unrelated Limited Partners that the Subject Limited Partner will exercise his/her option for none, or less than all, of the Spouse's Interest. The Unrelated Limited Partners shall have the right to purchase their pro rata portion of the Spouse's Interest that is not acquired by the Subject Limited Partner. Within twenty-five (25) days after the CP Event Notice, the Unrelated Limited Partners shall notify the Partnership and the Partners of the portion of the Available Spouse's Interest, if any, that they elect to purchase. If any Unrelated Limited Partner elects to purchase none or less than all of his pro rata portion of the remaining Spouse's Interest (the remaining Spouse's Interest which the Unrelated Limited Partner elects not to purchase being called "Available Spouse's Interest"), the Partnership shall, within thirty (30) days after the CP Event Notice, notify the Unrelated Limited Partners of that election and each other Unrelated Limited Partner may elect, by notifying the Partnership in writing within thirty-five (35) days after the CP Event Notice, to purchase that Available Spouse's Interest in the proportion which the Partnership Interest owned by that other Unrelated Limited Partner bears to the aggregate Partnership Interest owned by all other Unrelated Limited Partners who similarly elect to purchase that Available Spouse's Interest.

(d) Mandatory Purchase by the Partnership. If the Subject Limited Partner and the Unrelated Limited Partners notify the Partnership that they will exercise their option for none, or less than all, of the Spouse's Interest, the Partnership shall be obligated to purchase any remaining portion of the Spouse's Interest that is not acquired by the Subject Limited Partner or the Unrelated Limited Partners.

(e) Manner of Exercise. Upon determination of the portion of the Spouse's Interest to be purchased by the Limited Partners or the Partnership, the Partnership, on its behalf and/or on behalf of the Limited Partners who are purchasing the Spouse's Interest, shall give notice of exercise to the spouse and/or the estate and heirs of the Spouse, as appropriate, of the Subject Limited Partner within forty (40) days after the CP Event Notice. Any Limited Partner notifying the Partnership of his desire to purchase all or any portion of the Spouse's Interest shall be obligated to do so.

(f) Payment Terms. The closing of the purchase of all or any portion of the Spouse's Interest pursuant to this Section 6 shall occur on or before the seventieth (70th) day after receipt of the CP Event Notice. The Purchase Price for that Spouse's Interest shall be determined in accordance with Section 11(c). The purchasers of the Spouse's Interest may, at their sole and unfettered discretion, pay for that Spouse's Interest either (i) in readily available funds; or (ii) with a promissory note, the form of which is attached as Exhibit F; provided, however, the minimum and maximum aggregate amount per calendar quarter that the Partnership or any of its Affiliates must pay to the Subject Limited Partner's spouse or that spouse's estate or heirs under this Agreement and the Second Amended and Restated HCM Services Long-Term Incentive Plan, as may be amended from time to time, is $250,000.

(g) Interest Purchased. The Spouse's Interest (or portion thereof) acquired by any existing party to this Agreement shall become subject in all respects to this Agreement. If the Subject Limited Partner is a Founding Limited Partner, that Subject Limited Partner may, but shall not be required to, designate any trust that is permitted to acquire a Partnership Interest hereunder as an Affiliated Limited Partner of that Subject Limited Partner.

(h) Right of Assignment. Dondero and Okada shall have the right to assign their right to purchase the Spouse's Interest to any Person that is, or becomes pursuant to the terms of this Agreement, an Affiliated Limited Partner of Dondero or Okada.

Section 7. Disposition Upon a Trigger Event with Respect to a Non-Founding Limited Partner.

(a) Option. Upon the occurrence of a Trigger Event with respect to a Non-Founding Limited Partner (the "NFLP"), the Partnership shall, within five (5) days after it has the Determined Value, send a written notice to the Partners regarding the sale of the NFLP's Interest (as defined herein) pursuant to this Section 7 (the "Trigger Event Notice"). The NFLP shall be deemed to have granted (i) first, to the Limited Partners, other than that selling NFLP, for any Trigger Event, other than a Change in Control (the "Other Limited Partners"); and (ii) second, to the Partnership, an option to purchase any and all interest with respect to the NFLP's Partnership Interest (the "NFLP's Interest") upon the terms set forth in this Section 7.

(b) Election to Exercise by Other Limited Partners. The Other Limited Partners shall have the right to purchase their pro rata portion of the NFLP's Interest upon any Trigger Event other than a Change of Control. Within fifteen (15) days after the Trigger Event Notice, each of the Other Limited Partners shall notify the Partnership whether that Other Limited Partner desires to purchase that Other Limited Partner's pro rata portion of the NFLP's Interest. If any Other Limited Partner elects to purchase none, or less than all, of his pro rata part of the NFLP's Interest (the remaining NFLP's Interest which that Other Limited Partner elects not to purchase being called the "Available NFLP Interest"), the Partnership shall, within twenty (20) days after receipt of the Trigger Event Notice, notify the Other Limited Partners of that Available NFLP Interest, and each of the Other Limited Partners may elect, by notifying the Partnership in writing within twenty-five (25) days after receipt of the Trigger Event Notice, to purchase that Available NFLP Interest in the proportion which the Partnership Interest owned by that Other Limited Partner bears to the aggregate Partnership Interest owned by all Other Limited Partners who similarly elect to purchase that Available NFLP Interest.

(c) Mandatory Purchase by the Partnership. If the Other Limited Partners notify the Partnership that they will exercise their option for none, or less than all, of the NFLP's Interest, the Partnership shall be obligated to purchase any remaining portion of the NFLP's Interest that is not acquired by the Other Limited Partners. If the Trigger Event is a Change in Control, the Partnership shall be obligated to purchase all of the NFLP's Interest.

(d) Manner of Exercise. Upon determination of the portion of the NFLP's Interest to be purchased by the Limited Partners, the Partnership, on its behalf and/or on behalf of the Limited Partners who are purchasing the NFLP's Interest, shall give notice of exercise to the NFLP within thirty (30) days after receipt of the Trigger Event Notice. Any Limited Partner notifying the Partnership of his desire to purchase all or any portion of the NFLP's Interest shall be obligated to do so.

(e) Payment Terms. The closing of the purchase of all or any portion of the NFLP's Interest pursuant to this Section 7 shall occur on or before the fiftieth (50th) day after receipt of the Trigger Event Notice. The Purchase Price for that NFLP's Interest shall be determined in accordance with Sections 11(b) and 11(c), as appropriate. The purchasers of the NFLP's Interest may, at their sole and unfettered discretion, pay for that NFLP's Interest either (i) in readily available funds, or (ii) with a promissory note, the form of which is attached as Exhibit F; provided, however, the minimum and maximum aggregate amount per calendar quarter that the Partnership or any of its Affiliates must pay to the NFLP under this Agreement and the Second Amended and Restated HCM Services Long-Term Incentive Plan, as may be amended from time to time, is $250,000. If the Trigger Event is a Change in Control, the NFLP shall receive a payment from the Partnership upon the earlier of (A) one (1) year following the Change of Control, (B) the date the Partnership or an Affiliate Employer terminates the NFLP's employment with the Partnership or the Affiliate Employer without Cause, (C) the date the Partnership or Affiliate Employer reduces the NFLP's Compensation to less than one hundred percent (100%) of his/her prior year's Compensation or (D) the date either James D. Dondero or Mark K. Okada receive his/their first payment for his/their Partnership Interest. For purposes of this Section 7(e), "Compensation" means, with respect to any NFLP for any calendar year, the sum of (i) that NFLP's wages as reported by the Partnership or Affiliate Employer on an IRS Form W-2, (ii) all the Partnership's or Affiliate Employer's contributions to that NFLP's 401(k) account, and (iii) any consideration paid to that NFLP under that certain HCM Services Option Plan, dated June 28, 2001, as may be amended from time to time.

(f) Interest Purchased. The NFLP's Interest (or portion thereof) acquired by any existing party to this Agreement shall become subject in all respects to this Agreement.

(g) Mutual Dependence. The rights, obligations, and liabilities of the Non-Founding Limited Partner and the Partnership with respect to a Trigger Event are conditioned, and dependent on, the Non-Founding Limited Partner's consent and agreement to the promises set forth in Section 15, and to the enforceability of such covenants as stated therein with respect to that Non-Founding Limited Partner in the event of a dispute between that Non-Founding Limited Partner and the Partnership or an Affiliate Employer.

(h) Right of Assignment. Dondero and Okada shall have the right to assign their right to purchase the NFLP's Interest to any Person that is, or becomes pursuant to the terms of this Agreement, an Affiliated Limited Partner of Dondero or Okada.

Section 8. Termination of a Non-Founding Limited Partner for Cause. If any Non-Founding Limited Partner's employment with any Affiliate Employer or participation in the Partnership is terminated for Cause, that Non-Founding Limited Partner's Partnership Interest shall be forfeited to Dondero's Founding Limited Partner Group and Okada's Founding Limited Partner Group and that Non-Founding Limited Partner shall not receive any compensation therefore. In such event, the Non-Founding Limited Partner's Partnership Interest and related Capital Account (as defined in the Partnership Agreement) shall be allocated to Dondero's Founding Limited Partner Group and Okada's Founding Limited Partner Group pro rata. Dondero and Okada shall have the right to assign their right to the forfeited Partnership Interest and related Capital Account to any Person that is, or becomes pursuant to the terms of this Agreement, an Affiliated Limited Partner of Dondero or Okada.

Section 9. Obligation of Spouses of Limited Partners. The spouse of each Limited Partner, if any, shall join in the execution of this Agreement to evidence his/her knowledge of its existence, and his/her acknowledgment that he/she agrees to the provisions of this Agreement, and that he/she desires to bind his/her community interest, if any, in the Partnership Interest of that Limited Partner to the performance of this Agreement. Accordingly, each Limited Partner's spouse agrees that, in the event of the death of his/her spouse, or occurrence of any other event as herein provided, the covenants made in this Agreement shall be, and hereby are, accepted as binding on that spouse individually and upon all Persons ever to claim under that spouse. However, the foregoing is not intended to, and should not be construed as, conferring or creating any community property interest in a Partnership Interest in the spouse of any Limited Partner. A Limited Partner who marries or remarries after the date hereof shall cause his/her spouse to promptly join in the execution of this Agreement in accordance with this Section 9.

Section 10. Determination of Agreed Value of the Partnership.

(a) The parties hereto acknowledge that the Agreed Value of the Partnership on February 29, 2004, was $125,000,000 and on May 27, 2004 and continuing through the date hereof it is $200,000,000. On January 1 of each calendar year, or at such other times as the Founding Limited Partners deem appropriate, the Agreed Value of the Partnership shall be such other amount as may be fixed by the Founding Limited Partners in a written statement signed by each Founding Limited Partner in the form of Exhibit C, a copy of which shall promptly be sent to all Partners and the trustee of each Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust. The Agreed Value shall be based on one hundred percent (100%) of the Partnership Interests in the Partnership. If more than one such statement is signed by the Founding Limited Partners after the date of the adoption of this Agreement, the statement with the latest date shall control.

(b) The Founding Limited Partners, or an appraiser, as applicable, may consider any one or more factors when determining the Agreed Value, including, but not limited to, the following: (i) profitability of the Partnership; (ii) earning trends; (iii) accumulated and undistributed capitalization; (iv) growth potential; and (v) other economic factors affecting the business of the Partnership, including the likely negative impact caused by the death of a Founding Limited Partner or any key employee, if applicable; however, the existence of insurance on the lives of the Founding Limited Partners shall not be taken into account in determining the Agreed Value.

(c) If the Founding Limited Partners have not fixed the Agreed Value within twelve (12) months prior to a Determination Event, the Agreed Value shall be determined by a written agreement between the Founding Limited Partners, or if a Founding Limited Partner is not living, between the surviving Founding Limited Partner and the Departing Founding Limited Partner Group (acting by majority vote based upon their respective Partnership Interests) of the deceased Founding Limited Partner. If such parties cannot agree upon the Agreed Value within ten (10) days following the Determination Event, the Agreed Value shall be determined by an independent, third-party appraisal performed by an appraiser mutually agreed upon by the parties. The Founding Limited Partners and the Partnership shall promptly provide to the appraiser any information reasonably requested by such appraiser and such appraiser shall notify the Founding Limited Partners, the trustees of the Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trusts and the Departing Founding Limited Partner Group (if applicable) of the Agreed Value no later than twenty (20) days after receiving all such information from the Founding Limited Partners and the Partnership.

(d) If such parties (being the Founding Limited Partners or, if applicable, the surviving Founding Limited Partner and the Departing Founding Limited Partner Group) are unable to agree on a single independent third-party appraiser within twenty (20) days after a Determination Event, then each party shall select a separate appraiser. If either party fails to select an appraiser, then the Agreed Value shall be determined by the appraiser selected by the other party. The parties shall promptly provide to each appraiser any information reasonably requested by each such appraiser. Each appraiser shall determine the fair value of the Partnership and shall notify the Founding Limited Partners, the trustees of the Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trusts and, if applicable, the Departing Founding Limited Partner Group, of their calculation of the Agreed Value no later than twenty (20) days after receiving all such information from the parties. If the lower value so determined is at least ninety percent (90%) of the higher value so determined, the Agreed Value shall be the average of the two values so determined. If the lower value is less than ninety percent (90%) of the higher value so determined, the two appraisers shall, within ten (10) days, select a third appraiser and provide such third appraiser with all information relevant to determining the Agreed Value. Such third appraiser shall thereafter determine the fair value of the Partnership and shall notify all the Partners and the trustees of the Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trusts of such value within twenty (20) days after receiving the information from the first two (2) appraisers. The Agreed Value shall be the average of the three (3) values so determined. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the determination of the Agreed Value must be finalized within seventy-five (75) days following the date of the Determination Event. If the Determination Event was the death of a Founding Limited Partner, and if the Agreed Value has not been finalized within seventy-five (75) days following the date of the Determination Event, the appropriate trustee of a Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust shall select an independent third-party appraiser who shall determine the Agreed Value in accordance with this Agreement.

(e) If the parties agree on a single appraiser, all costs of the appraisal shall be paid by the Partnership. If the parties are unable to agree on an appraiser and more than one appraiser is required to determine the Agreed Value, then the costs of all the appraisals shall be borne equally by such parties. If a trustee of a Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust selected an appraiser, all costs of the appraisal shall be paid by the Partnership.

(f) If an appraiser is selected to determine the Agreed Value of Partnership Interests under this Agreement, and if there is a simultaneous dispute as to the value of an equity interest in the General Partner under the Buy-Sell Agreement, by and between Okada, Dondero and the General Partner, then the appraiser selected hereunder shall also serve as the appraiser of the equity interests in the General Partner.

(g) A copy of the statement of Agreed Value determined pursuant to this Section 10 shall promptly be sent to the General Partner and the trustee of each Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust. The trustee of each Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust shall be entitled to rely upon the written agreement on the Agreed Value without further duty of inquiry.

Section 11. Purchase Price of Partnership Interests. The purchase price to be paid for any Partnership Interest (the "Purchase Price") shall be determined as follows:

(a) The purchase price to be paid for any Partnership Interest to be purchased by the Partnership or the Limited Partners, as applicable, pursuant to the Founding Limited Partner's death, Disability or termination of employment with the Partnership or any Affiliate Employer (for any reason whatsoever), shall be equal to the amount the holder of that Partnership Interest would be entitled to receive upon a hypothetical liquidation of the Partnership, assuming the Partnership were able to distribute liquidating proceeds to the Partners in an amount equal to the Agreed Value of the Partnership in effect as of the date of the Determination Event.

(b) The purchase price to be paid for any Partnership Interest to be purchased by the Partnership or the Limited Partners, as applicable, pursuant to (i) the death or Disability of a Non-Founding Limited Partner; (ii) the termination of a Non-Founding Limited Partner's employment with any Affiliate Employer without Cause; (iii) the retirement of a Non-Founding Limited Partner who has at least ten (10) years of service with any Affiliate Employer; or (iv) the voluntary resignation of a Non-Founding Limited Partner who has at least ten (10) years of service with any Affiliate Employer, shall be equal to the amount the holder of that Partnership Interest would be entitled to receive upon a hypothetical liquidation of the Partnership, assuming the Partnership were able to distribute liquidating proceeds to the Partners in an amount equal to the Determined Value of the Partnership.

(c) The purchase price to be paid for any Partnership Interest to be purchased by the Partnership or the Limited Partners, as applicable, pursuant to (i) a Community Property Event; (ii) the Bankruptcy of a Non-Founding Limited Partner; (iii) the Bankruptcy of a Founding Limited Partner; (iv) the retirement of a Non-Founding Limited Partner who has less than ten (10) years of service with any Affiliate Employer; or (v) the voluntary resignation of a Non-Founding Limited Partner who has less than ten (10) years of service with any Affiliate Employer, shall be equal to the sum of (a) the amount the holder of that Partnership Interest would be entitled to receive upon a hypothetical liquidation of the Partnership, assuming the Partnership were able to distribute liquidating proceeds to the Partners in an amount equal to the Determined Value of the Partnership minus (b) the product of (1) the Discount Factor multiplied by (2) the amount to be received upon a hypothetical liquidation of the Partnership subsection (a) of this paragraph. The "Discount Factor" shall be the discount to the purchase price that takes into consideration lack of control and lack of marketability of a Partnership Interest. The Discount Factor shall be twenty percent (20%).

Section 12. Assignment of Partnership Interests. Any Transfer of a Partnership Interest pursuant to this Agreement and the Partnership Agreement shall be made pursuant to an Assignment of Interest, in the form attached as Exhibit K. In the event any Limited Partner who is required to sell its Partnership Interest pursuant to this Agreement, fails or refuses to execute a proper Assignment of Interest, the General Partner shall be authorized to execute such Assignment of Interest as attorney-in-fact for that Limited Partner. Each Limited Partner hereby constitutes and appoints the General Partner, with full power of substitution, its true and lawful attorney-in-fact, and empowers and authorizes such attorney, in the name, place and stead of such Limited Partner, to make, execute, sign, swear to, acknowledge and file in all necessary or appropriate places all documents relating to the Assignment of Interest. This power of attorney is coupled with an interest, is irrevocable and shall continue notwithstanding the subsequent incapacity or death of the Limited Partner. Each Limited Partner and/or his assignee, transferee or successor-in-interest shall execute and deliver to the General Partner an executed and appropriately notarized power of attorney in such form consistent with the provisions of this Section 12 as the General Partner may request.

Section 13. Life Insurance on the Life of a Founding Limited Partner.

(a) In order to fund the purchase of Partnership Interests in the event of the death of a Founding Limited Partner pursuant to Section 4, the Partnership shall purchase or obtain insurance policies on the lives of the Founding Limited Partners in such amounts as the Partnership may deem to be desirable to provide for the performance by the Partnership of its rights and obligations under this Agreement giving due regard for the Agreed Value and the relative ownership of the Founding Limited Partners and their respective Affiliated Limited Partners. The Partnership shall take any actions necessary to maintain in force each policy it is required to maintain hereunder, including paying all premiums as they become due, and shall not cancel or allow that policy to lapse. The Partnership shall provide proof of such premium payment within twenty (20) days after the due date of each premium, if requested by any Founding Limited Partner. If any premium is not paid within twenty (20) days after its due date, a Founding Limited Partner may pay that premium and shall be entitled to reimbursement from the Partnership.

(b) The Partnership shall have the right to purchase additional insurance on the life each of the Founding Limited Partners from time to time, whenever, in the opinion of the Partnership, additional insurance may be required for the benefit of the Partnership to enable it to carry out its obligations under this Agreement.

(c) In furtherance of the Partnership's obligations under this Section 13, the Partnership is authorized and directed: (i) to establish two insurance rabbi trusts, one in the name of each of the Founding Limited Partners (each, a "Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust"), to acquire the insurance policies required to be obtained by the Partnership; (ii) to assign to each such Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust all rights and obligations of the Partnership to acquire and pay for that insurance; (iii) to assign to each Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust any existing insurance on the life of the respective Founding Limited Partner now or hereafter obtained by the Partnership; (iv) to make payments to that Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust for the necessary premiums on that insurance; (v) to make payments to that Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust to acquire additional insurance; and (vi) to assign its obligation to purchase Partnership Interests pursuant to this Agreement to each that Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust. Each Founding Limited Partner's Insurance Trust, forms of which are attached hereto as Exhibit D and Exhibit E, shall be designated as the beneficiary of the insurance policies on that Founding Limited Partner's life when such policies are obtained by the respective trusts or transferred by the Partnership to the applicable trust, and the trustee of that Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust shall be responsible for the payment of the designated insurance proceeds to the members of a Departing Founding Limited Partner Group in partial satisfaction of the Partnership Interest purchase obligations under this Agreement.

(d) All benefits owing under this Agreement shall be paid out of the Partnership's general funds, which are subject to the claims of creditors, or out of each Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust, provided that all assets of any such Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust shall, at all times before actual payment to a member of the Departing Founding Limited Partner Group, remain subject to the claims of general creditors of the Partnership. Although the obligations set forth herein are to be deemed totally unfunded, the Partnership may, but shall not be obligated to, purchase one or more life insurance or annuity policies or contracts for the purpose of providing for its obligations hereunder. Any such policies or contracts, if so purchased, shall name Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust as beneficiary and sole owner, with all incidents of ownership therein, including (but not limited to) the right to cash and loan values, dividends (if any), death benefits, and the right of termination. Any such policies or contracts purchased hereunder shall remain a general restricted asset of the Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust. No member of the Departing Founding Limited Partner Group shall have any right, title or interest whatever in or to, or any claim, preferred or otherwise, in or to, any particular assets of the Partnership as a result of being a signatory to this Agreement, any policy or contract as provided for herein, or any Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust. Nothing contained in this Agreement, and no action taken pursuant to its provisions, shall create or be construed to create a trust or a fiduciary relationship of any kind between the Partnership and a member of the Departing Founding Limited Partner Group or any other Person. No member of the Departing Founding Limited Partner Group shall acquire any interest greater than that of an unsecured creditor in any assets of the Partnership or in a Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust

Section 14. Payment of Purchase Price to the Departing Founding Limited Partner Group Upon the Death of a Founding Limited Partner. The Purchase Price to be paid by the Partnership to the Departing Founding Limited Partner Group upon the death of a Founding Limited Partner shall be paid as follows:

(a) Upon the death of a Founding Limited Partner, the trustee of the Founding Limited Partner's Insurance Trust shall collect the proceeds of the insurance policies carried on the life of the Founding Limited Partner. After the trustee of the Founding Limited Partner's Insurance Trust has received written confirmation of the Agreed Value as determined in accordance with Section 10, the trustee shall promptly, but no later than ten (10) days following the receipt of any insurance proceeds, pay by wire transfer or by certified check, that part of such proceeds which does not exceed the Purchase Price, to the members of the Departing Founding Limited Partner Group, (i) without any right to any set-off against, defense to, counterclaim of, or reduction of such payments to be made hereunder; and (ii) without regard to any dispute as to the Agreed Value. The trustee of the Founding Limited Partner's Insurance Trust will not use the insurance proceeds for any other purpose until that trustee has satisfied all of the obligations under this Agreement. If the amount of insurance proceeds exceeds the Purchase Price under the terms of this Agreement, that trustee shall distribute the excess proceeds to the Partnership.

(b) If there is more than one insurance policy held by a Founding Limited Partner's Insurance Trust upon the date of death and all of the proceeds of such policies are not received at the same time, then in making the above payments to the members of the Departing Founding Limited Partner Group, the trustee shall make payments first to the Founding Limited Partner's estate, up to the full amount of the Purchase Price to which the estate is entitled, and second to the other members of the Departing Founding Limited Partner Group pro rata.

(c) The Partnership shall indemnify the trustee of the Founding Limited Partner's Insurance Trust for any taxes, judgments, losses, or other costs that such trust shall incur as a result of receiving and transferring the insurance proceeds as herein provided. The trustee of the Founding Limited Partner's Insurance Trust shall also have the discretion to retain up to ten percent (10%) of the insurance proceeds for a reasonable period upon immediate payment of ninety percent (90%) of the insurance proceeds. Such reasonable period shall not extend beyond ninety (90) days after the date of the Determination Event. After such reasonable period, that trustee shall pay the remaining ten percent (10%) of the insurance proceeds held in that trust under the terms provided in this Section 14, together with interest on that withheld amount at a rate equal to Internal Revenue Service "Midterm Applicable Federal Rate" at the date of the Founding Limited Partner's death (on the basis of a 365-day or 366-day year, as applicable) and limited only by the maximum rate of interest provided by the laws of the State of Texas, to the Founding Limited Partner's estate and any other Affiliated Limited Partner of that Founding Limited Partner or Person owning Partnership Interests as designated by that Founding Limited Partner, but with that payment of interest not to exceed the balance under that trust.

(d) If the insurance proceeds are not sufficient to pay the entire Purchase Price, the trustee of the Founding Limited Partner's Insurance Trust can elect of the following options:

(i) Elect to have the Partnership pay the balance of the Purchase Price pursuant to a promissory note, in the form attached as Exhibit G (the "Partnership Note"). In order to provide collateral security for the payment of the Partnership Note, the Surviving Founding Limited Partner Group shall execute a continuing guaranty in the form attached as Exhibit H and a pledge agreement in the form attached as Exhibit I.

(ii) Elect to have the General Partner cause the Partnership to liquidate, if the Founding Limited Partner who died is James D. Dondero. In the event of such election, the General Partner shall promptly begin to dissolve the Partnership in accordance with Article 5 of the Partnership Agreement.

(e) Any trustee of a Founding Limited Partner's Insurance Trust purchasing a Partnership Interest pursuant to this Agreement, in his sole and unfettered discretion, may require each member of the Departing Founding Limited Partner's Group to provide him with an opinion of counsel (such counsel to be approved by the trustee in his sole and unfettered discretion) stating that there is no prohibition against the transfer of that member's Partnership Interest, that member has the authority to transfer that member's Partnership Interest, and that transfer is made free and clear of all liens, encumbrances, security interests, claims or options. The trustee shall not be obligated to purchase the Partnership Interest of any member until such time as he receives the legal opinion herein requested and that member has fully complied with all the terms of this Agreement.

(f) If any member of the Departing Founding Limited Partner Group or any other intended beneficiary of this Agreement or of the Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust of the Departing Founding Limited Partner (an "Objector"), in any manner whatsoever, directly or indirectly, contests or attacks this Agreement or any of its provisions or the Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust or any of its provisions, or performs any act that would frustrate the purpose of this Agreement or the Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust or conspires or cooperates with anyone attempting to contest, attack, or frustrate this Agreement or the Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust, then that Objector shall be deemed to forfeit all of its interest in the Partnership; provided, however, that a petition, made in good faith, seeking an interpretation of this Agreement or the Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust shall not be considered a contest of, an attack on, or an attempt to frustrate the purpose of this Agreement or the Founding Limited Partner Insurance Trust.

Section 15. Confidentiality, Non-Competition, Non-Solicitation, and Non-Recruitment.

(a) The Partnership's Promise to Provide Confidential Information and Specialized Training. At the inception of this Agreement, and continuing on an ongoing basis during the Non-Founding Limited Partner's participation in the Partnership, the Partnership agrees to provide the Non-Founding Limited Partner with new Confidential Information and Specialized Training to which the Non-Founding Limited Partner has not previously had access.

(b) The Non-Founding Limited Partner's Promise not to Use or Disclose the Confidential Information. In exchange for the Partnership's promise to provide the Non-Founding Limited Partner with Confidential Information and Specialized Training, the Non-Founding Limited Partner shall not, during the period of participation in the Partnership under this Agreement or at any time thereafter, disclose to anyone, including, without limitation, any Person, or publish, or use for any purpose, any Confidential Information, except as: (i) required in the ordinary course of the Partnership's business or the Non-Founding Limited Partner's work for the Partnership or its Affiliate Employer; (ii) required by law; or (iii) directed and authorized in writing by the Partnership. Upon the termination of the Non-Founding Limited Partner's participation in the Partnership and/or any Affiliate Employer, for any reason, the Non-Founding Limited Partner shall immediately return and deliver to the Partnership any and all computers, hard-drives, papers, books, records, documents, memoranda, manuals, e-mail, electronic or magnetic recordings or data, including all copies thereof, belonging to the Partnership or Affiliate Employer, containing Confidential Information, or relating to the Partnership's or Affiliate Employer's business, which are in the Non-Founding Limited Partner's possession, whether prepared by the Non-Founding Limited Partner or others. If at any time after termination of the Non-Founding Limited Partner's participation in the Partnership, for any reason, the Non-Founding Limited Partner determines that the Non-Founding Limited Partner has any Confidential Information in the Non-Founding Limited Partner's possession or control, the Non-Founding Limited Partner shall immediately return to the Partnership all such Confidential Information in the Non-Founding Limited Partner's possession or control, including all copies and portions thereof.

(c) Mutual Dependence. The rights, obligations, and liabilities of the Non-Founding Limited Partner and the Partnership with respect to a Trigger Event as set forth in Section 7 are conditioned and dependent on, the Non-Founding Limited Partner's consent and agreement to the promises set forth in Section 15 of this Agreement, and to the enforceability of such covenants as stated therein with respect to that Participant in the event of a dispute between that Non-Founding Limited Partner and the Partnership or Affiliate Employer.

(d) The Restrictive Covenants. Each Non-Founding Limited Partner recognizes and agrees that: (i) the Partnership has devoted a considerable amount of time, effort, and expense to develop its Confidential Information and business goodwill; (ii) the Confidential Information and the Partnership's business goodwill are valuable assets to the Partnership; and (iii) any unauthorized use or disclosure of the Partnership's or Affiliate Employer's Confidential Information would cause irreparable harm to the Partnership for which there is no adequate remedy at law, including damage to the Partnership's business goodwill. Accordingly, each Non-Founding Limited Partner agrees that to protect the Partnership's Confidential Information and business goodwill, it is necessary to enter into the following restrictive covenants, which are ancillary to the enforceable promises between the Non-Founding Limited Partner and the Partnership in Sections 7(g), 15(a) and 15(b). The Non-Founding Limited Partner, either individually or as a principal, partner, stockholder, manager, agent, consultant, contractor, employee, lender, investor, or as a director or officer of any corporation or association, or in any other manner or capacity whatsoever, agrees that during the period in which the Non-Founding Limited Partner is a Partner in the Partnership and for a period of one (1) year following the date on which the Non-Founding Limited Partner ceases (for whatever reason) to be a Partner (the "Non-Competition Period"), the Non-Founding Limited Partner shall not, whether directly or indirectly, without the express prior written consent of the General Partner (excluding the activities of the Non-Founding Limited Partner's spouse or other immediate family members independently engaged in such activities):

(i) Non-Solicitation. Solicit business, attempt to solicit business, or accept business in products or services competitive with products or services sold by any of the Applicable Entities, from any of the Applicable Entities' clients, customers, prospective or potential clients or customers, or those individuals or entities that any of the Applicable Entities did business with during the Non-Founding Limited Partner's employment with the Partnership or any Affiliate Employer, with whom the Non-Founding Limited Partner solicited or dealt with, in any capacity, while a Partner in the Partnership or employee of any Affiliate Employer during the twenty-four (24) months immediately preceding the Non-Competition Period.

(ii) Non-Recruitment. Hire, solicit for employment, induce or encourage to leave the employment of the Partnership or otherwise cease their employment with any of the Applicable Entities, any employee or any former employee of any Applicable Entities whose employment with any of the Applicable Entities ceased than less than six (6) months earlier.

(iii) Non-Competition. Within any market in which any of the Applicable Entities provided services or sold products during the twenty-four (24) months immediately preceding the Non-Competition Period, become employed, advise, perform services or otherwise serve in any capacity with a Competing Business in which Partner would (1) perform similar duties to those performed while at the Partnership or Affiliate Employer; (2) engage in or provide services to any client, customer, or prospective or potential clients or customers of any of the Applicable Entities, or competitor of any of the Applicable Entities; or (3) provide services that are competitive with a product, service, process or development on which the Non-Founding Limited Partner worked at the Partnership or Affiliate Employer, or with which the Non-Founding Limited Partner had access to Confidential Information while a Partner with the Partnership or employed with an Affiliate Employer. However, the Non-Founding Limited Partner may own, directly or indirectly, solely as an investment, securities of any business traded on any national securities exchange or NASDAQ, provided that the Non-Founding Limited Partner is not a controlling person of, or member of a group that controls such business, and provided further that the Non-Founding Limited Partner does not, directly or indirectly, own three percent (3%) or more of any class of securities of such business. If the Partnership or Affiliate Employer notifies a Partner in writing that he/she is being terminated as the result of a downsizing or reduction in force by the Partnership or Affiliate Employer, then this Section 15(d)(iii) shall not apply to that Partner after termination of his/her employment with the Company or Affiliate Employer.

(e) Remedies. The Non-Founding Limited Partner acknowledges that the restrictions contained in this Section 15, in view of the nature of the Partnership's business, are reasonable and necessary to protect the Partnership's legitimate business interests and business goodwill and that any violation of this Agreement would result in irreparable injury to the Partnership. In the event of a breach by the Non-Founding Limited Partner of any provision of this Section 15, the Partnership shall, assuming the provisions of Section 15(e)(i) are applied and upheld, only be entitled to take the following actions as its sole remedy against that Non-Founding Limited Partner for such breach:

(i) Forfeiture of the Partnership Interest. From the date of breach by the Non-Founding Limited Partner of this Section 15, the Non-Founding Limited Partner's Partnership Interest shall automatically lapse and be forfeited and shall revert to Dondero's Founding Limited Partner Group and Okada's Founding Limited Partner Group on a pro rata basis; provided, however, Dondero and Okada may assign their right to the forfeited Partnership Interest to any Person that is, or becomes pursuant to the terms of this Agreement, an Affiliated Limited Partner of Dondero or Okada. The Partnership shall have no further obligation to the Non-Founding Limited Partner pursuant to Section 7 of this Agreement, nor any further obligation to make any further distributions or allocations of Partnership income to the Non-Founding Limited Partner under the terms of the Partnership Agreement. In addition, the Partnership shall be entitled to (1) a refund from the Non-Founding Limited Partner of any payments the Partnership or any Partner made to that Non-Founding Limited Partner pursuant to this Agreement, plus (2) the sum of the Partnership's attorneys' fees, costs and expenses related to the breach.

(ii) Temporary Restraining Order and Injunctive Relief. A temporary restraining order and injunctive relief restraining the Non-Founding Limited Partner from the commission of any breach of this Section 15 (other than Section 15(d)(iii)), and to recover the Partnership's attorneys' fees, costs and expenses related to the breach.

The existence of any claim or cause of action by the Non-Founding Limited Partner against the Partnership, whether predicated on this Agreement or otherwise, shall not constitute a defense to the enforcement by the Partnership of the restrictive covenants contained in this Section 15.

(f) Reformation. The Non-Founding Limited Partner and the Partnership agree that all of the covenants contained in this Section 15 shall survive the termination or expiration of this Agreement, and agree further that in the event any of the covenants contained in this Section 15 shall be held by any court to be effective in any particular area or jurisdiction only if said covenant is modified to limit its duration or scope, then, at the sole option of the Partnership, excluding the vote of the Non-Founding Limited Partner in breach of this Agreement, the provisions of Section 15(i) may be deemed to have been triggered, and the rights, liabilities, and obligations set forth therein shall apply. In the event the Partnership does not elect to trigger application of Section 15(i), then the court shall have such authority to so reform the covenant and the parties hereto shall consider such covenant(s) and/or other provisions of this Section 15 to be amended and modified with respect to that particular area or jurisdiction so as to comply with the order of any such court and, as to all other jurisdictions, the covenants contained herein shall remain in full force and effect as originally written. Should any court hold that these covenants are void or otherwise unenforceable in any particular area or jurisdiction, then notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this Section 15(f), the provisions of Section 15(i) shall be applicable and the rights, liabilities and obligations of the parties set forth therein shall apply. Alternatively, at the sole option of the Partnership, the Partnership may consider such covenant(s) and/or provisions of this Section 15 to be amended and modified so as to eliminate therefrom the particular area or jurisdiction as to which such covenants are so held void or otherwise unenforceable and, as to all other areas and jurisdictions covered hereunder, the covenants contained herein shall remain in full force and effect as originally written.

(g) Tolling. If the Non-Founding Limited Partner violates any of the restrictions contained in this Section 15, the restrictive period will be suspended and will not run in favor of the Non-Founding Limited Partner until such time that the Non-Founding Limited Partner cures the violation to the satisfaction of the Affiliate Employer, or for a period of three (3) years after the Non-Founding Limited Partner's employment with the Affiliate Employer ended, whichever period is shorter.

(h) Notice. If a Non-Founding Limited Partner, in the future, seeks or is offered employment, or any other position or capacity with another company or entity, the Non-Founding Limited Partner agrees to inform each new employer or entity, before accepting employment, of the existence of the restrictions in this Section 15. Further, before taking any employment position with any Person during the Non-Competition Period, the Non-Founding Limited Partner agrees to give prior written notice to the Partnership of the name of such Person. The Partnership shall be entitled to advise such Person of the provisions of Section 15 and to otherwise deal with such Person to ensure that the provisions of Section 15 are enforced and duly discharged.

(i) Pre-conditional Obligation and Restoration. This Section 15 (the "Non-Compete Article") is material to this Agreement, and this Agreement is a material and important component of the Partnership Agreement. The enforceability of the Non-Compete Article is a precondition for the Partnership's and/or any Limited Partner's purchase of the Non-Founding Limited Partner's Interest pursuant to this Agreement, as well as receipt of Non-Founding Limited Partner's payments under any promissory note following a Non-Founding Limited Partner's termination from the Partnership, for any reason. Should all or any part or application of the Non-Compete Article be held or found invalid or unenforceable for any reason whatsoever by a court or other constituted legal authority of competent jurisdiction in an action between a Non-Founding Limited Partner and the Partnership, that Non-Founding Limited Partner and Partnership agree as follows:

(i) That Non-Founding Limited Partner's Partnership Interest shall automatically lapse and be forfeited and shall revert to Dondero's Founding Limited Partner Group and Okada's Founding Limited Partner Group on a pro rata basis;

(ii) The Partnership shall have no obligation to make any further allocation of Partnership income or distributions to that Non-Founding Limited Partner under the terms of the Partnership Agreement; and

(iii) The Partnership shall be entitled to discontinue future payments and receive the full value of any payments which were made to that Non-Founding Limited Partner in exchange for its Partnership Interest from the date of that Non-Founding Limited Partner's termination from the Partnership, for any reason, through the date on which a court or other constituted legal authority held or found the Non-Compete Article to be invalid or unenforceable. If that Non-Founding Limited Partner has Transferred his Partnership Interest, Dondero and Okada shall be entitled to recover the full monetary value of the consideration paid to that Non-Founding Limited Partner for its Partnership Interest.

Section 16. Termination. This Agreement shall terminate upon the earliest to occur of the following events:

(a) The voluntary or involuntary termination of the Partnership;

(b) All of the Partnership Interests become owned by one Founding Limited Partner and that Founding Limited Partners' Affiliated Limited Partners; or

(c) The mutual agreement of the Founding Limited Partners to terminate this Agreement.

Section 17. Legend on Certificates. The following statement must appear conspicuously on each certificate (if any) issued by the Partnership related to a Partnership Interest:

> THE PARTNERSHIP INTERESTS REPRESENTED BY THIS CERTIFICATE ARE SUBJECT TO RESTRICTIONS UPON TRANSFER AND ARE SUBJECT TO A BUY-SELL AND REDEMPTION AGREEMENT AMONG THE LIMITED PARTNERS OF THE PARTNERSHIP. FOR A COPY OF THIS BUY-SELL AND REDEMPTION AGREEMENT, CONTACT THE GENERAL PARTNER OF THE PARTNERSHIP AT THE PRINCIPAL OFFICE OF THE PARTNERSHIP AT 13455 NOEL ROAD, SUITE 1300, DALLAS, TEXAS 75240.

Section 18. Miscellaneous.

(a) Amendments to Agreement. The Partnership may amend this Agreement without the consent of any party hereto if the Partnership reasonably determines that such amendment is necessary and appropriate. An amendment to this Agreement shall not be deemed to be a termination of this Agreement.

(b) Joinder. The spouses, if any, of the Limited Partners join in the execution and delivery of this Agreement for the express purpose of binding their community property or other interests, if any, in the Partnership Interest now owned or hereafter acquired by the Limited Partner who is his/her spouse.

(c) Benefit. This Agreement is binding upon and inures to the benefit of all parties hereto and their respective heirs, legatees, legal representatives, successors and permitted assigns. The executors, administrators or legal representatives of the Limited Partners, upon their deaths, shall execute and deliver any and all instruments and documents and do any and all acts and things necessary and appropriate to carry out the terms and provisions of this Agreement.

(d) Notices. All notices, offers, acceptances, requests and other communications hereunder shall be in writing and shall be deemed to have been duly given when delivered with receipt given, personally, by certified or registered mail, or by courier by a nationally recognized overnight mail service (e.g., Federal Express) to the parties to this Agreement (at the address set forth on Exhibit J, as that Exhibit may be amended from time to time) as applicable, unless any party hereto designates in writing to the other parties that it shall be notified at a different address; or, in the event a party dies, that notice shall also be sent to a duly appointed guardian of the estate of that party or, if no such guardian has been appointed, to such person as the party may have designated in writing to receive notices on his behalf under this Agreement.

(e) Construction. The headings of Sections of this Agreement are provided for convenience only and do not affect its construction or interpretation. All references to "Section" or "Sections" refer to the corresponding Section or Sections of this Agreement. All words used in this Agreement will be construed to be of such gender or number as the circumstances require.

(f) Entirety. This Agreement contains the entire understanding and agreement between the parties and supersedes any prior written or oral agreements between them respecting the subject matter contained herein. This Agreement may not be changed, modified or amended except by an instrument in writing duly executed by the Partnership and the Limited Partners.

(g) No Waiver. The failure of any party to insist upon strict performance of a covenant hereunder or of any obligation hereunder, irrespective of the length of time for which such failure continues, is not a waiver of that party's right to demand strict compliance in the future. No consent or waiver, express or implied, to or of any breach or default in the performance of any obligation hereunder constitutes a consent or waiver to or of any other breach or default in the performance of the same or any obligation hereunder.

(h) Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts, all of which taken together shall constitute one and the same Agreement, and any of the parties to this Agreement may execute this Agreement by signing any of the counterparts. Any counterpart of this Agreement may be executed via facsimile transmission or pdf transmission.

(i) Governing Law. This Agreement has been prepared, is being executed and delivered, and is intended to be performed, in the State of Texas, and, at the sole choice of the Partnership, the substantive laws of Texas or the applicable law of the state in which the Non-Founding Limited Partner performed services for the Partnership or Affiliate Employer, and the applicable federal laws of the United States of America shall govern the validity, construction, enforcement, and interpretation of this Agreement.

(j) Venue. This Agreement is performable in Dallas County, Texas, and the venue for any action brought with respect to this Agreement shall, at the choice of the Company, be brought in Dallas County, Texas, or in the federal or state courts in which the Non-Founding Limited Partner worked for the Partnership or the Affiliate Employer.

7. Costs. If this Promissory Note is placed in the hands of an attorney for collection, or if it is collected through any legal proceeding at law or in equity, or in bankruptcy, receivership or other court proceedings, Maker agrees to pay all reasonable costs of collection, including, but not limited to, court costs and reasonable attorneys' fees, including all costs of appeal.

No waiver by Payee of any of its rights or remedies hereunder or under any other document evidencing or securing this Promissory Note or otherwise, shall be considered a waiver of any other subsequent right or remedy of Payee; no delay or omission in the exercise or enforcement by Payee of any rights or remedies shall ever be construed as a waiver of any right or remedy of Payee; and no exercise or enforcement of any such rights or remedies shall ever be held to exhaust any right or remedy of Payee.

4. Default and Remedies.

(a) A "Default" shall exist hereunder if any one or more of the following events shall occur and be continuing: (i) Maker shall fail to pay when due (A) any principal of, or interest upon, this Promissory Note or (B) any other Obligation, and any such failure under this subsection (i) continues for three (3) Business Days; (ii) any representation or warranty made by Maker (or one or more Guarantors whose aggregate Limited Guaranteed Obligations (as defined in the Guaranty) exceed thirty three percent (33%) of the total Guaranteed Obligations (as defined in the Guaranty)) under the Loan Documents shall prove to be untrue or inaccurate in any material respect; (iii) any default shall occur in the performance of any of the covenants or agreements of Maker (or one or more Guarantors whose aggregate Limited Guaranteed Obligations (as defined in the Guaranty) exceed thirty three percent (33%) of the total Guaranteed Obligations (as defined in the Guaranty)) under the Loan Documents and such default continues for ten (10) Business Days after notice from Payee to Maker; (iv) Maker (or one or more Guarantors whose aggregate Limited Guaranteed Obligations (as defined in the Guaranty) exceed thirty three percent (33%) of the total Guaranteed Obligations (as defined in the Guaranty)) shall (A) apply for or consent to the appointment of a receiver, trustee, intervenor, custodian or liquidator of itself or of all or a substantial part of its assets, (B) be adjudicated a bankrupt or insolvent or file a voluntary petition for bankruptcy or admit in writing that it is unable to pay its debts as they become due, (C) make a general assignment for the benefit of creditors, (D) file a petition or answer seeking reorganization or an arrangement with creditors or to take advantage of any bankruptcy or insolvency laws, or (E) file an answer admitting the material allegations of, or consent to, or default in answering, a petition filed against it in any bankruptcy, reorganization or insolvency proceeding, or take corporate action for the purpose of effecting any of the foregoing; (v) an order, judgment or decree shall be entered by any court of competent jurisdiction or other competent authority approving a petition seeking reorganization of Maker or such Guarantor(s) or appointing a receiver, trustee, intervenor or liquidator of any such person, or of all or substantially all of its or their assets, and such order, judgment or decree shall continue unstayed and in effect for a period of sixty (60) days; (vi) Payee's liens, mortgages or security interests in any of the collateral for this Promissory Note or the Guaranty should become unenforceable, or cease to be first priority liens, mortgages or security interests; or (vii) a default shall exist and be continuing under any other promissory note executed by Maker pursuant to Section 14 of the Buy-Sell Agreement.

(b) Subject to Section (c) below, if Maker fails or refuses to pay any part of the principal of or interest upon this Promissory Note or the Obligation as the same become due, or upon the occurrence of any Default hereunder or under any other agreement or instrument securing or assuring the payment of this Promissory Note or executed in connection herewith, then in any such event the holder hereof may, at its option, (i) declare the entire unpaid balance of principal and accrued interest of the Obligation to be immediately due and payable without presentment or notice of any kind which Maker waives pursuant to Section 3 herein, (ii) reduce any claim to judgment, and/or (iii) pursue and enforce any of Payee's rights and remedies available pursuant to any applicable law or agreement including, without limitation, foreclosing all liens and security interests securing payment thereof or any part thereof.

(c) Notwithstanding any other provision in this Note, during the existence of a Default, Payee's right to (i) exercise any of its remedies hereunder, (ii) apply any funds received hereunder, and (iii) take any other actions hereunder, shall be subject to the provisions of the Agency Agreement.

5. Voluntary Prepayment. Maker reserves the right to prepay the outstanding principal balance of this Promissory Note, in whole or in part, at any time and from time to time, without premium or penalty. Any such prepayment shall be made together with payment of interest accrued on the amount of principal being prepaid through the date of such prepayment.

6. Usury Laws. Regardless of any provisions contained in this Promissory Note, Payee shall never be deemed to have contracted for or be entitled to receive, collect, or apply as interest on the Promissory Note, any amount in excess of the Maximum Rate, and, in the event Payee ever receives, collects, or applies as interest any such excess, such amount which would be excessive interest shall be applied to the reduction of the unpaid principal balance of this Promissory Note, and, if the principal balance of this Promissory Note is paid in full, then any remaining excess shall forthwith be paid to Maker. In determining whether or not the interest paid or payable under any specific contingency exceeds the highest lawful rate, Maker and Payee shall, to the maximum extent permitted under applicable law, (a) characterize any non-principal payment (other than payments which are expressly designated as interest payments hereunder) as an expense, fee, or premium, rather than as interest, (b) exclude voluntary prepayments and the effect thereof, and (c) spread the total amount of interest throughout the entire contemplated term of this Promissory Note so that the interest rate is uniform throughout such term.

7. Costs. If this Promissory Note is placed in the hands of an attorney for collection, or if it is collected through any legal proceeding at law or in equity, or in bankruptcy, receivership or other court proceedings, Maker agrees to pay all reasonable costs of collection, including, but not limited to, court costs and reasonable attorneys' fees, including all costs of appeal.

CONTINUING GUARANTY

FOR VALUE RECEIVED, the sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, and in consideration of the redemption or purchase by Highland Capital Management, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership (the "Borrower") of certain limited partnership interests owned by [list or schedule each note holder] (collectively the "Lenders"), each of the undersigned Guarantors being a limited partner in Borrower as of the date hereof (collectively, the "Guarantor") hereby severally, and not jointly, furnishes its limited guaranty of the Guaranteed Obligations (as hereinafter defined) as follows for the benefit of: _____, as Agent to the Lenders pursuant to the Agency Agreement (as defined below):

1. Guaranty.

(a) Subject to Subsection (b) below, each Guarantor hereby absolutely and unconditionally guarantees, as a guarantee of payment and not merely as a guarantee of collection, prompt payment upon the occurrence and existence a Default under any of the Notes (as defined below), and at all times thereafter, of any and all indebtedness and liabilities of every kind, nature and character, direct or indirect, absolute or contingent, liquidated or unliquidated, voluntary or involuntary, of the Borrower to the Lenders arising under those certain Promissory Notes dated _____ and executed by the Borrower in favor of the Lenders (as amended, modified, and restated from time to time, the "Notes") and all instruments, agreements and other documents of every kind and nature now or hereafter executed in connection with the Notes (including all renewals, extensions and modifications thereof and all costs, attorneys' fees and expenses incurred by the Lenders in connection with the collection or enforcement thereof) (collectively, the "Guaranteed Obligations"). This Guaranty shall not be affected by the genuineness, validity, regularity or enforceability of the Guaranteed Obligations or any instrument or agreement evidencing any Guaranteed Obligations; or by the existence, validity, enforceability, perfection, or extent of any collateral therefor, or by any fact or circumstance relating to the Guaranteed Obligations which might otherwise constitute a defense to the obligations of the Guarantor under this Guaranty.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Guaranty, the obligations of each Guarantor hereunder (each such obligation, the "Limited Guaranteed Obligations") shall be limited to the lesser of (i) an aggregate amount equal to the largest amount that would not render its obligations hereunder subject to avoidance under Section 548 of the Bankruptcy Code (Title 11, United States Code) or any comparable provisions of any applicable state law, and (ii) for each Guarantor, an aggregate amount equal to the product of (A) the outstanding amount of the Guaranteed Obligations, times (B) the corresponding percentage of such Guarantor as set forth on Schedule A hereto [Schedule A shall set forth the percentage of the limited partnership interest owned by each Guarantor in the Borrower as of the date of this Guaranty.]

(c) To the extent that the Agent or any Lender receives any proceeds from the collateral pledged by a Guarantor in the Pledge Agreement dated as of the date of this Guaranty (as renewed, extended, amended or restated) executed by such Guarantor, the proceeds will be applied to reduce the Limited Guaranteed Obligations of such Guarantor as set forth in paragraph 1(b) above. Such Guarantor shall be given credit for all such amounts in reduction of its obligations to pay the Limited Guaranteed Obligations.

2. No Setoff or Deductions; Taxes. All payments by any Guarantor hereunder shall be paid in full, without setoff or counterclaim or any deduction or withholding whatsoever, including, without limitation, for any and all present and future taxes. If notwithstanding the foregoing, any Guarantor makes a payment under this Guaranty to which withholding tax applies, or any taxes are at any time imposed on any payments under or in respect of this Guaranty including, but not limited to, payments made pursuant to this Paragraph 2, such Guarantor shall pay all such taxes to the relevant authority in accordance with applicable law such that the applicable Lender receives the sum it would have received had no such deduction or withholding been made and shall also pay to such Lender, on demand, all additional amounts which Agent specifies as necessary to preserve the after-tax yield the applicable Lender would have received if such taxes had not been imposed. Each Guarantor shall promptly provide Agent with an original receipt or certified copy issued by the relevant authority evidencing the payment of any such amount required to be deducted or withheld.

3. No Termination. This Guaranty is a continuing and irrevocable guaranty of all Guaranteed Obligations now or hereafter existing and shall remain in full force and effect until all Guaranteed Obligations and any other amounts payable under this Guaranty are paid and performed in full.

4. Waiver of Notices. Each Guarantor waives notice of the acceptance of this Guaranty and of the extension or continuation of the Guaranteed Obligations or any part thereof. Each Guarantor further waives presentment, protest, notice, dishonor or default, demand for payment and any other notices to which such Guarantor might otherwise be entitled.

5. Subrogation. No Guarantor shall exercise rights of subrogation, contribution or similar rights with respect to any payments such Guarantor makes under this Guaranty until all of the Guaranteed Obligations and any amounts payable under this Guaranty are paid and performed in full. If any amounts are paid to any Guarantor in violation of the foregoing limitation, then such amounts shall be held in trust for the benefit of the Lenders and shall forthwith be paid to Agent to reduce the amount of the Guaranteed Obligations, whether matured or unmatured.

6. Waiver of Suretyship Defenses. Each Guarantor agrees that Agent or any Lender may, at any time and from time to time, and without notice to the Guarantor, make any agreement with the Borrower or any other Guarantor or with any other person or entity liable on any of the Guaranteed Obligations or providing collateral as security for the Guaranteed Obligations, for the extension, renewal, payment, compromise, discharge or release of the Guaranteed Obligations or any collateral (in whole or in part), or for any modification or amendment of the terms thereof or of any instrument or agreement evidencing the Guaranteed Obligations or the provision of collateral, all without in any way impairing, releasing, discharging or otherwise affecting the obligations of such Guarantor under this Guaranty. Each Guarantor waives any defense arising by reason of any disability or other defense of the Borrower or any other guarantor, or the cessation from any cause whatsoever of the liability of the Borrower, or any claim that any Guarantor's obligations exceed or are more burdensome than those of the Borrower and waives the benefit of any statute of limitations affecting the liability of such Guarantor hereunder. Each Guarantor waives any right to enforce any remedy which Agent or any Lender now has or may hereafter have against the Borrower and waives any benefit of and any right to participate in any security now or hereafter held by the Agent or any Lender. Further, each Guarantor consents to the taking of, or failure to take, any action which might in any manner or to any extent vary the risks of such Guarantor under this Guaranty or which, but for this provision, might operate as a discharge of such Guarantor.

7. Exhaustion of Other Remedies Not Required. Subject to Paragraph 2(b) above, the obligations of each Guarantor hereunder are those of primary obligor, and not merely as surety, and are independent of the Guaranteed Obligations. Each Guarantor waives diligence by the Lenders and action on delinquency in respect of the Guaranteed Obligations or any part thereof, including, without limitation any provisions of law requiring Agent or any Lender to exhaust any right or remedy or to take any action against the Borrower, any other guarantor or any other person, entity or property before enforcing this Guaranty against such Guarantor, including but not limited to the benefits of Chapter 34 of the Texas Business and Commerce Code, §17.001 of the Texas Civil Practice and Remedies Code, and Rule 31 of the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure, or any similar statute.

8. Reinstatement. Notwithstanding anything in this Guaranty to the contrary, this Guaranty shall continue to be effective or be reinstated, as the case may be, against any Guarantor if at any time any payment of any portion of such Guarantor's Limited Guaranteed Obligations is revoked, terminated, rescinded or reduced or must otherwise be restored or returned upon the insolvency, bankruptcy or reorganization of the Borrower or any other person or entity or otherwise, as if such payment had not been made and whether or not any Lender is in possession of or has released this Guaranty and regardless of any prior revocation, rescission, termination or reduction.

9. Subordination. Upon the occurrence and continuance of a Default under the Notes, each Guarantor shall subordinate the payment of all obligations and indebtedness of the Borrower owing to such Guarantor, whether now existing or hereafter arising, including but not limited to any obligation of the Borrower to such Guarantor as subrogee of the Lenders or resulting from such Guarantor's performance under this Guaranty, to the payment in full of all Guaranteed Obligations. If the Agent or any Lender so requests, any such obligation or indebtedness of the Borrower to any Guarantor shall be enforced and performance received by such Guarantor as trustee for the Lenders and the proceeds thereof shall be paid over to the Agent on account of the Guaranteed Obligations, but without reducing or affecting in any manner the liability of such Guarantor under this Guaranty.

10. Information. Each Guarantor agrees to furnish promptly to the Agent or any Lender any and all financial or other information regarding such Guarantor as such party may reasonably request in writing.

11. Stay of Acceleration. In the event that acceleration of the time for payment of any of the Guaranteed Obligations is stayed, upon the insolvency, bankruptcy or reorganization of the Borrower, all such amounts shall nonetheless be payable by each Guarantor immediately upon demand by Agent.

12. Expenses. Guarantors shall pay on demand to Agent all out-of-pocket expenses (including reasonable attorneys' fees and expenses and the allocated cost and disbursements of internal legal counsel) in any way relating to the enforcement or protection of any Lender's rights under this Guaranty, including any incurred in the preservation, protection or enforcement of any rights of such Lender in any case commenced by or against any Guarantor under the Bankruptcy Code (Title 11, United States Code) or any similar or successor statute. The obligations of any Guarantor under the preceding sentence shall survive termination of this Guaranty.

13. Amendments. No provision of this Guaranty may be waived, amended, supplemented or modified, unless consented to in writing by each Lender, Agent and each Guarantor.

14. No Waiver; Enforceability. No failure by Agent or any Lender to exercise, and no delay in exercising, any right, remedy or power hereunder shall operate as a waiver thereof; nor shall any single or partial exercise of any right, remedy or power hereunder preclude any other or further exercise thereof or the exercise of any other right. The remedies herein provided are cumulative and not exclusive of any remedies provided by law or in equity. The unenforceability or invalidity of any provision of this Guaranty shall not affect the enforceability or validity of any other provision herein.

15. Assignment; Governing Laws; Jurisdiction. This Guaranty shall (a) bind each Guarantor and its successors and assigns, provided that such Guarantor may not assign its rights or obligations under this Guaranty without the prior written consent of Agent (and any attempted assignment without such consent shall be void), (b) inure to the benefit of Agent and its successors and assigns provided that that no obligations of any Guarantor hereunder can be assigned without prior written consent of Agent, and Agent and the Lenders may not assign this Guaranty without the without prior written consent of each Guarantor, and (c) be governed by the internal laws of the State of Texas. Any attempted assignments in violation of this Section 9 shall be null and void. Each Guarantor hereby irrevocably (i) submits to the non-exclusive jurisdiction of any United States Federal or State court sitting in Dallas, Texas in any action or proceeding arising out of or relating to this Guaranty, and (ii) waives to the fullest extent permitted by law any defense asserting an inconvenient forum in connection therewith. Service of process by Agent in connection with such action or proceeding shall be binding on the applicable Guarantor if sent to such Guarantor by registered or certified mail at its address specified below.

16. Condition of the Borrower. Each Guarantor acknowledges and agrees that it has the sole responsibility for, and has adequate means of, obtaining from the Borrower such information concerning the financial condition, business and operations of the Borrower as such Guarantor requires, and that the Lenders have no duty, and such Guarantor is not relying on the Lenders at any time, to disclose to such Guarantor any information relating to the business, operations or financial condition of the Borrower.

17. Setoff. If and to the extent any payment is not made when due hereunder, Agent may setoff and charge from time to time any amount so due against any or all of the Guarantor's accounts or deposits with Agent or any Lender.

18. Other Guarantees. Unless otherwise agreed by Agent and the Guarantor in writing, this Guaranty is not intended to supersede or otherwise affect any other guaranty now or hereafter given by the Guarantor for the benefit of the Lenders or any term or provision thereof.

19. Representations and Warranties. Each Guarantor represents and warrants that (i) this Guaranty constitutes its legal, valid and binding obligation enforceable in accordance with its terms; (ii) the making and performance of this Guaranty does not and will not violate the provisions of any applicable law, regulation or order, and does not and will not result in the breach of, or constitute a default or require any consent under, any material agreement, instrument, or document to which it is a party or by which it or any of its property may be bound or affected, unless such violation, conflict, or default would not have a material adverse effect on such Guarantor or this Guaranty; (iii) all material consents, approvals, licenses and authorizations of, and filings and registrations with, any governmental authority required under applicable law and regulations for the making and performance of this Guaranty by such Guarantor have been obtained or made and are in full force and effect, unless the failure to obtain such consents, approvals, or licenses would not have a material adverse effect on such Guarantor or this Guaranty; and (iv) by virtue of its relationship with the Borrower, the execution, delivery and performance of this Guaranty is for the direct benefit of such Guarantor and it has received adequate consideration for this Guaranty.

20. Agency Agreement. Notwithstanding any other provision herein, all rights and actions of Agent and Lenders hereunder and the application of all funds collected hereunder are subject to Section 9 of each Pledge Agreement dated the date hereof and executed by a Guarantor, Agent and the Lenders (the "Agency Agreement").

21. WAIVER OF JURY TRIAL; FINAL AGREEMENT. TO THE EXTENT ALLOWED BY APPLICABLE LAW, THE GUARANTORS AND AGENT EACH WAIVE TRIAL BY JURY WITH RESPECT TO ANY ACTION, CLAIM, SUIT OR PROCEEDING ON OR ARISING OUT OF THIS GUARANTY. THIS GUARANTY REPRESENTS THE FINAL AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE PARTIES AND MAY NOT BE CONTRADICTED BY EVIDENCE OF PRIOR, CONTEMPORANEOUS, OR SUBSEQUENT ORAL AGREEMENTS

BETWEEN THE PARTIES. THERE ARE NO UNWRITTEN ORAL AGREEMENTS BETWEEN THE PARTIES.

(a) Additional Documents and Information. Pledgor covenants and agrees to: (i) From time-to-time promptly execute and deliver to Agent all such stock powers, assignments, certificates, supplemental writings, financing statements, and other items and do all other acts or things as Agent may reasonably request in order more fully to evidence and perfect the interest of Agent in the Pledged Collateral; (ii) punctually and properly perform all of Pledgor's covenants and duties under any other security agreement, deed of trust, collateral pledge agreement, or contract of any kind now or hereafter existing as security for or in connection with payment of the Secured Indebtedness (to the extent liable thereon) in accordance with the terms hereof; (iii) promptly furnish Agent with any information or writings which Agent may reasonably request concerning the Pledged Collateral or the Partnership, including, without limitation, all material non-public information; (iv) allow Agent to inspect all records of Pledgor relating to the Pledged Collateral or to the Secured Indebtedness, and to make and take away copies of such records; (v) promptly notify Agent of any material change in any fact or circumstance warranted or represented by Pledgor in this Pledge Agreement or in any other writing furnished by Pledgor to Agent in connection with the Pledged Collateral or the Secured Indebtedness; (vi) promptly notify Agent of any claim, action, or proceeding affecting title to the Pledged Collateral, or any part thereof, or the security interest therein, and, at the request of Agent, appear in and defend, at Pledgor's expense, any such action or proceeding; and (vii) promptly, after being requested by Agent, pay to Agent the amount of all reasonable expenses, including reasonable attorneys' fees and other legal expenses, incurred by Agent in perfecting, maintaining, and enforcing the security interest.

(b) Proceeds. Should the Pledged Collateral, or any part thereof, ever be in any manner converted by the Partnership or maker into another type of property, or any money or other proceeds ever be paid or delivered to Pledgor as a result of Pledgor's rights in the Pledged Collateral, then, in any such event, all such property, money, and other proceeds, except only ordinary cash dividends (unless and until payable to Agent pursuant to Section 6(c) hereof), shall become part of the Pledged Collateral and shall be delivered to Agent by such Pledgor.

(c) Performance by Agent. During the occurrence and continuation of a Default under any Note, should any covenant, duty, or agreement of Pledgor fail to be performed in accordance with its terms hereunder, Agent may, but shall never be obligated to, perform or attempt to perform such covenant, duty, or agreement on behalf of Pledgor, and any amount expended by Agent in such performance or attempted performance shall become a part of the Secured Indebtedness. At the request of Agent, Pledgor agrees to pay such amount promptly to Agent at Agent's office in Dallas, Texas, together with interest thereon at the rate provided in the Note.

(d) Negative Covenants. Pledgor covenants and agrees that, without the prior written consent of Agent, Pledgor will not: (i) sell, assign, or transfer any rights of Pledgor in the Pledged Collateral; (ii) grant any options or other rights in the Pledged Collateral; (iii) create any other lien or security interest in, mortgage, or otherwise encumber the Pledged Collateral, or any part thereof, or permit the same to be or become subject to any lien, attachment, execution, sequestration, other legal or equitable process, or any encumbrance of any kind or character, except the security interest herein created; (iv) vote for, consent to, or permit any amendment of the charter, partnership agreement, limited liability agreement, or any other governing agreement of the Partnership that could materially adversely affect the value of the Pledged Collateral; (v) permit the Partnership of the Pledged Interest to merge or consolidate with or into any corporation or other person, unless the Partnership is the surviving entity; and (vi) vote for, consent to, or permit (A) any transfer of interest in, or change in ownership of, the Partnership, or (B) any other changes in the capital structure of the Partnership to the extent any such action described in this subsection (vi) could materially adversely affect the value of the Pledged Collateral.

Section 6. Voting Rights; Dividends, Etc., Prior to Default.

(a) Rights Prior to Default. So long as no Default exists under any Note and Agent shall not have given written notice to Pledgor of its intention to foreclose upon or otherwise dispose of the Pledged Collateral, or to exercise its voting rights pertaining to the Pledged Collateral:

(i) Pledgor shall be entitled to exercise any and all voting and/or consensual rights and powers relating or pertaining to the Pledged Collateral or any part thereof for any purpose not inconsistent with the terms of this Pledge Agreement; provided, however, that Pledgor shall not exercise or refrain from exercising any such right or power if such action would have a material adverse effect on the value of the Pledged Collateral or any part thereof.

(ii) Agent shall execute and deliver (or cause to be executed and delivered) to Pledgor all such proxies, powers of attorney, dividend orders, and other instruments as Pledgor may request for the purpose of enabling Pledgor to exercise the voting and/or consensual rights and powers which it is entitled to exercise pursuant to Section 6(a)(i) above.

(b) Termination of Rights. Upon (i) the occurrence and during the continuance of a Default under any Note, and (ii) the giving of written notice by Agent to Pledgor of its intention to (A) foreclose upon or otherwise dispose of the Pledged Collateral or (B) exercise its voting rights pertaining to the Pledged Collateral, all rights of Pledgor to exercise the voting and/or consensual rights and powers which it is entitled to exercise pursuant to Section 6(a)(i) hereof shall cease, at the option of Agent, and all such rights shall thereupon become vested in Agent, who shall have the sole and exclusive right and authority to exercise such voting and/or consensual rights. Further, Agent shall have the right, at any time during the existence of a Default, to notify and direct the Partnership of the Pledged Collateral to thereafter make all payments, dividends, and any other distributions payable in respect thereof directly to Agent. The Partnership of the Pledged Collateral making any such payment or distribution to Agent hereunder shall be fully protected in relying on the written statement of Agent that it then holds a security interest which entitles it to receive such payments and distributions. Any and all money and other property paid over to or received by Agent pursuant to the provisions of this Section 6(b) shall be retained by Agent as additional collateral hereunder and may be applied (and upon Pledgor's written request all cash shall promptly be applied) in accordance with the provisions hereof.

(c) Distributions. Upon the occurrence and during the continuance of a Default under any of the Notes, all cash distributions, returns of capital, or other similar distributions made on or in respect of the Pledged Collateral, whether resulting from a subdivision, combination, or reclassification of the outstanding capital or other ownership interests of the Partnership, received in exchange for Pledged Collateral or any part thereof, or as a result of any merger, consolidation, acquisition, or other exchange of assets to which the Partnership may be a party or otherwise, and any and all cash and other property received in exchange for the Pledged Collateral, or received in payment of the principal of or in redemption of the Pledged Collateral, shall be paid or delivered to Agent.

Section 7. Rights and Remedies of Agent Upon and After Default.

(a) Remedies. Upon the occurrence of a Default under any of the Notes, in addition to any and all other rights and remedies which Agent may then have hereunder, under other contracts or agreements between Pledgor and Agent, under applicable law, or under the Uniform Commercial Code as in effect in the State of Texas (hereinafter called "Code"), or otherwise, Agent may, subject to Section 9 hereof, at its option: (i) declare the entire unpaid balance of principal and all accrued interest on the Secured Indebtedness immediately due and payable, without written notice of demand, notice of intent to accelerate, notice of acceleration, or presentment, all of which are hereby waived; (ii) reduce its claim to judgment, foreclose, or otherwise enforce its security interest in all or any part of the Pledged Collateral by any available judicial procedure; (iii) after notification, if any, expressly provided for herein, sell or otherwise dispose of, at the office of Agent or elsewhere, as chosen by Agent, all or any part of the Pledged Collateral, and any such sale or other disposition may be as a unit or in parcels, by public or private proceedings, and by way of one or more contracts (it being agreed that the sale of any part of the Pledged Collateral shall not exhaust Agent's power of sale, but sales may be made from time-to-time until all of the Pledged Collateral has been sold or until the Secured Indebtedness has been paid in full; provided, however that Agent shall have no obligation to sell the Pledged Collateral piecemeal, it being specifically acknowledged that a sale of all of the Pledged Collateral to one purchaser in a single transaction shall be conclusively presumed to be commercially reasonable), and at any such sale it shall not be necessary to exhibit the Pledged Collateral; (iv) at its discretion, retain the Pledged Collateral in satisfaction of the Secured Indebtedness whenever the circumstances are such that Agent is entitled to do so under the Code; (v) purchase the Pledged Collateral at any public sale in accordance with the Code; (vi) purchase the Pledged Collateral at any private sale in accordance with the Code; and (vii) exercise the rights set forth in this Section 7 in accordance with the Code.

(b) Sale of Pledged Collateral. Agent is authorized at any sale of the Pledged Collateral, if it deems it advisable, to restrict the prospective bidders or purchasers to those persons who will represent and agree that they are purchasing for their own account, for investment, and not with a view to distribution or sale of any of the Pledged Collateral. Upon any such sale, Agent shall have the right to deliver, assign, and transfer to the purchaser thereof the Pledged Collateral so sold. Each purchaser at any such sale shall hold the property sold absolutely free from any claim or right of whatsoever kind, including any equity or right of redemption of Pledgor which hereby specifically waives, to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, all rights of redemption, stay, or appraisal which it has or may have under any rule of law or statute now existing or hereafter adopted, and such waiver shall be deemed to have been made after default. Agent shall give Pledgor ten (10) days' written notice of its intention to make any such public or private sale or sale at broker's board or on a securities exchange. Such notice, in case of sale at broker's board or on a securities exchange, shall state the board or exchange at which such sale is to be made and the day on which the Pledged Collateral, or that portion thereof so being sold, which will first be offered for sale at such board or exchange. Agent shall have no obligation to disclose or provide any information concerning the Partnership or the Pledged Collateral to prospective purchasers of the Pledged Collateral other than information in its possession at such time, and Pledgor agrees and acknowledges that it shall be commercially reasonable for any notices of any such sale, published or otherwise, to specifically so state. At any such sale the Pledged Collateral may be sold in one lot as an entirety or in separate parcels, as Agent may elect, and any such election shall be presumed to be commercially reasonable. Agent shall not be obligated to make any such sale pursuant to any such notice. Agent may, without notice or publication, adjourn any public or private sale or cause the same to be adjourned from time-to-time by announcement at the time and place fixed for the sale, and such sale may be made at any time or place to which the same may be so adjourned. In case of any sale of all or any part of the Pledged Collateral on credit or for future delivery, the Pledged Collateral so sold may be retained by Agent until the selling price is paid by the purchaser thereof, but Agent shall not incur any liability in case of the failure of such purchaser to take and pay for the Pledged Collateral so sold, and, in case of any such failure, such Pledged Collateral may again be sold upon like notice. Agent may also, at its discretion, proceed by a suit or suits at law or in equity to foreclose the pledge and sell the Pledged Collateral, or any portion thereof, under a judgment or decree of a court or courts of competent jurisdiction. If any consent, approval, or authorization of any state, municipal, or other governmental department, agency, or authority should be necessary to effectuate any sale or other disposition of the Pledged Collateral, or any partial disposition of the Pledged Collateral, each Pledgor will execute all such applications and other instruments as may be required in connection with securing any such consent, approval, or authorization, and will otherwise use its best efforts to secure the same.

(c) Possible Restrictions on Sale of Pledged Collateral. Because of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the "Securities Act"), or any other applicable laws or regulations, there may be legal restrictions or limitations affecting Agent in any attempts to dispose of certain portions of the Pledged Collateral in the enforcement of its rights and remedies hereunder. For these reasons Agent is hereby authorized by Pledgor, but not obligated, in the event of any Default hereunder giving rise to Agent's rights, to sell or otherwise dispose of the Pledged Collateral, and after the giving of any notices required herein, to sell all or any part of the Pledged Collateral at a private sale, subject to an investment letter or in any other manner which will not require the Pledged Collateral, or any part thereof, to be registered in accordance with the Securities Act, as amended, or other applicable rules and regulations promulgated thereunder, or any other law or regulation, at the best price reasonably obtainable by Agent at any such private sale or other disposition in the manner mentioned above, and Pledgor specifically acknowledges that any such disposition shall be commercially reasonable under the Code. Agent is also hereby authorized by Pledgor, but not obligated, to take such actions, give such notices, obtain such consents, and do such other things as Pledgor may deem required or appropriate in the event of a sale or disposition of any of the Pledged Collateral. Pledgor clearly understands that Agent may at its discretion approach a restricted number of potential purchasers and that a sale under such circumstances may yield a lower price for the Pledged Collateral, or any part or parts thereof, than would otherwise be obtainable if same were registered and sold in the open market. Pledgor agrees (i) in the event Agent shall, upon a Default hereunder, sell the Pledged Collateral, or any portion thereof, at such private sale or sales, Agent shall have the right to rely upon the advice and opinion of any member firm of a National Security Exchange (as defined in the Securities Exchange Act of 1934) or other business or stock valuation company as to the best price reasonably obtainable upon such private sale thereof, and (ii) that such reliance shall be conclusive evidence that Agent handled such matter in a commercially reasonable manner under the Code.

(d) Notification. Reasonable notification of the time and place of any public sale of the Pledged Collateral, or reasonable notification of the time after which any private sale or other intended disposition of the Pledged Collateral is to be made, shall be sent to Pledgor and to any other person entitled under the Code to notice; provided, that if the Pledged Collateral threatens to decline quickly in value or is of a type customarily sold on a recognized market, Agent may sell or otherwise dispose of the Pledged Collateral without notification, advertisement, or other notice of any kind. It is agreed that notice sent or given not less than ten (10) calendar days prior to the taking of the action to which the notice relates is reasonable notification and notice for the purpose of this Pledge Agreement.

(e) Application of Proceeds. Upon the maturity of any instrument evidencing the Secured Indebtedness or any part thereof, whether such maturity be by such terms of such instruments or through the exercise of any power of acceleration, Agent is authorized and empowered to apply any and all funds realized from the sale of the Pledged Collateral not previously credited against the Secured Indebtedness first, toward the payment of the costs, charges, and expenses, if any, incurred in the collection of such funds hereunder, and then, toward the payment (in such order as Agent shall elect) of the Secured Indebtedness, and shall pay any balance remaining to Pledgor or as prescribed by the Code.

(f) Notices. In the event that any notice is required to be given to Pledgor with respect to any sale or liquidation of the Pledged Collateral, any notice addressed to Pledgor at the address set forth in Section 11(f) below, postage prepaid, deposited in the United States mail ten (10) days prior to the date of any such intended action shall be deemed to be a sufficient and commercially reasonable notice. Nothing contained herein shall prevent Agent from giving notice in any other manner which is considered reasonable.

Section 8. Agent Appointed Attorney-in-Fact. Pledgor hereby appoints Agent as Pledgor's attorney-in-fact for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this Pledge Agreement and taking any action and executing any instrument which Agent may deem reasonably necessary or advisable to accomplish the purposes hereof, which appointment is irrevocable and coupled with an interest. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, upon the occurrence and during the continuance of a Default under any Note, Agent shall have the right and power, except and to the extent otherwise provided in Section 6(a)(ii), to receive, endorse, and collect all checks and other orders for the payment of money made payable to Pledgor representing any dividend or other distribution payable or distributable in respect of the Pledged Collateral, or any part thereof, and to give full discharge for the same.

Section 9. Agency Agreement.

(a) Pari Passu Liens. The liens of all the Lenders upon the Pledged Collateral shall rank pari passu.

(b) The Agent.

(i) Appointment and Authorization. Agent hereby declares, and Pledgor and each Lender agree, that Agent holds the right, title and interest of Agent in, to and under each of the Pledge Agreements for the ratable benefit of Lenders as provided herein. By acceptance of the benefits of this Agreement and the other Loan Documents, each Lender (A) consents to the appointment of Agent, as agent hereunder and under the Guaranty, and grants Agent all rights and powers necessary for Agent to perform its obligations hereunder and under the Guaranty, (B) agrees that there shall be only one Agent under the Loan Documents; (C) agrees that upon the occurrence and during the continuance a Default under any Note, subject to subsection (ii) below, Lender shall have the exclusive authority to exercise on behalf of the applicable Lender any rights and remedies such Lender may have under the applicable Note; and (D) confirms that Agent shall have the authority to act as the exclusive agent of each Lender to take any action on behalf of the Lenders contemplated under the Pledge Agreements, the Notes (to the extent a Default under any Note has occurred), and the Guaranty.

(ii) Action Following Default.

(A) So long any Obligations are outstanding, each of the Lenders, hereby for itself, its successors and assigns, severally agrees that no individual Lender shall have the right to foreclose upon or exercise any rights or remedies with respect to the Pledged Collateral or under the Loan Documents, except to the extent set forth in this Section 9. Agent, hereby for itself, its successors and assigns, agrees that it shall not have the right to foreclose upon or exercise any rights or remedies in respect of the Pledged Collateral or under any Loan Documents in a manner inconsistent with, or otherwise contrary to the terms of, this Section 9.

(B) The Agent (x) shall not exercise any rights or remedies granted to it under any of the Loan Documents, or otherwise available to it at law or in equity, without the approval of the Required Lenders and (y) upon the direction of the Required Lenders, shall exercise such rights and remedies as so directed. The Agent shall incur no liability under or in respect of this Pledge Agreement or the Loan Documents by acting upon any notice, consent, certificate, warranty or other paper or instrument believed by it to be genuine or authentic or to be signed by the proper party on parties, or with respect to anything that it may do or refrain from doing in the reasonable exercise of its judgment, or that may seem to it to be necessary or desirable under the circumstances.

(C) Agent shall have the sole authority to waive any Defaults under any of the Loan Documents or enter into any forbearance agreements with the Partnership or any Guarantor solely upon the direction of the Required Lenders.

(D) Nothing set forth herein shall be construed to qualify or otherwise limit the right of any Lender to declare such Lender's Obligations to be due and payable in accordance with the Note of such Lender, provided that no such Lender shall be entitled to exercise any other right or remedy with respect to Note, the Guaranty, the Pledge Agreement, the Pledged Collateral, or any other Loan Document except in accordance with the provisions of this Section 9.

(iii) Indemnification of Agent by Lenders. The Lenders agree to indemnify the Agent (to the extent not reimbursed by Pledgor or the Partnership) ratably according to the respective amounts of the Obligations originally held by each of the Lenders, from and against any and all liabilities, obligations, losses, damages, penalties, actions, judgments, suits, costs, expenses or disbursements of any kind or nature whatsoever that may be imposed on, incurred by or asserted against the Agent in any way relating to anything the Agent does in accordance with the express requirements of this Pledge Agreement or otherwise at the request of the Required Lenders.

(iv) Resignation or Removal of Agent. Subject to the appointment and acceptance of a successor Agent as provided below, the Agent may (i) resign at any time by giving five (5) days' written notice thereof to the Lenders and Pledgor or (ii) be removed by the Required Lenders with or without cause upon five (5) days' written notice to the Agent. Upon any such resignation or removal, the Required Lenders shall have the right to appoint a successor Agent. In the case of resignation by the Agent, if no successor Agent shall have been so appointed and shall have accepted such appointment within thirty (30) days after the retiring Agent's notice of resignation, then the retiring Agent may, on behalf of the Lenders, appoint an interim successor Agent. Any interim successor Agent appointed under the preceding sentence may be replaced at any time by a successor Agent designated by the Required Lenders.

(c) Application of Proceeds of the Pledged Collateral.

(i) Upon (i) the receipt by the Agent under any of the Loan Documents of any insurance or condemnation proceeds arising from the Pledged Collateral, (ii) the receipt by the Agent or any Lender of any funds during the existence of a Default, or (iii) the exercise of any rights or remedies by the Agent under this Pledge Agreement or any of the Loan Documents, any and all proceeds from the sale, foreclosure or other disposition of the Pledged Collateral, including in a bankruptcy or other insolvency proceeding, shall, promptly following their receipt by the Agent, be applied and distributed by the Agent as follows:

(A) First, to the payments of all costs, expenses, liabilities and advances made or incurred by the Agent (in its capacity as Agent and not individually) in connection with such proceedings, adjustments, sale, foreclosure or other disposition and in performing its duties under this Pledge Agreement, including compensation payable to the Agent and the costs, expenses and compensation of agents and legal counsel to the Agent;

(B) Second, to the extent any proceeds remain after payment in full of those items specified in clause (A) above, to the payments of all costs, expenses, liabilities and advances made or incurred by the Lenders in connection with such proceedings, adjustments, sale, foreclosure or other disposition;

(C) Third, to the extent any proceeds remain after payment in full of those items specified in clauses (A) and (B) above, to the payment of the Obligations, to be allocated among each Lender until all remaining Obligations is paid in full; but if such proceeds shall be insufficient to pay the whole amount so due upon the Obligations, then with application to be made pro rata, in accordance with each Lender's Percentage Interest as follows: first, to the unpaid interest thereon; second, to unpaid principal thereof; and third, to all other Obligations;

(D) Fourth, to the extent any proceeds remain after payment in full of those items specified in clauses (A), (B) and (C) above, to the payment of any additional Obligations until all remaining Obligations are paid in full; but if such proceeds shall be insufficient to pay the whole amount of any Obligations, then with application to be made pro rata in accordance with each Lender's respective share of any Obligations; and

(E) Fifth, to the extent any proceeds remain after payment in full of those items specified in clauses (A), (B), (C) and (D) above such proceeds shall be paid to or at the direction of the Pledgor or as a court of competent jurisdiction shall direct.

(ii) The Agent and each Lender signatory hereto hereby agrees that (i) if at any time it shall receive the proceeds of any Pledged Collateral, or shall apply any balances, credits, accounts or monies with the Agent, or such Lender, through the exercise of any right of set-off, counterclaim or other similar right, whether pursuant to the Note or otherwise, (other than through application by the Agent in accordance with this section), it shall promptly turn the same over to the Agent for application in accordance with this section and (ii) it will not take or cause to be taken any action, including, without limitation, the commencement of any legal or equitable proceedings, the purpose of which is to give the Agent or such Lender any preference or priority against the other parties hereto with respect to the Pledged Collateral or the right to payment from the Partnership.

(d) Notices of Default. Agent and Lenders shall each use their best efforts to give to each other copies of any notice of the occurrence or existence of an event of default under the Loan Documents, but the failure to do so shall not affect the validity of such notice or create a cause of action against the party failing to give such notice or create any claim or right on behalf of any third party.

(e) Amendments. No change, amendment, modification, cancellation, or discharge of any provision of this Pledge Agreement shall be valid, unless consented to in writing by each Lender, Agent and Pledgor. Furthermore, no Lender shall modify the default, remedy, or agency provisions of its Note, without the prior written consent of each Lender.

(f) Authority of Agent. Agent shall have and be entitled to exercise all such powers hereunder as are specifically delegated to Agent by the terms hereof, together with such powers as are reasonably incidental thereto. Agent may execute any of its duties hereunder by or through sub-agents or employees and shall be entitled to retain counsel and to act in reliance upon the advice of such counsel concerning all matters pertaining to said duties. Agent and any affiliate, director, officer, or employee of Agent shall not be liable for any action taken or omitted to be taken by them or any of them hereunder or in connection herewith, except for their own gross negligence or willful misconduct; nor shall Agent be responsible for the validity, effectiveness, or sufficiency hereof or of any document or security furnished pursuant hereto or in connection herewith. Agent shall be entitled to rely on any communication, instrument, or document believed by it to be genuine and correct and to have been signed or sent by the proper person or persons. Pledgor hereby agrees to reimburse Agent, on demand, for all reasonable expenses incurred by it in connection with the administration and enforcement of this Pledge Agreement and agrees to indemnify and hold harmless Agent from and against any and all liability incurred by it hereunder or in connection herewith, unless such liability shall be due to willful misconduct or gross negligence on the part of Agent. Other than the exercise of reasonable care in the physical custody of the Pledged Collateral while held by Agent, Agent shall have no responsibility for or obligation or duty with respect to all or any part of the Pledged Collateral or any matter or proceeding arising out of or relating thereto, including, without limitation, any obligation or duty to collect any sums due in respect thereof or to protect or preserve any rights against prior parties or any other rights pertaining thereto, it being understood and agreed that Pledgor shall be responsible generally for the preservation of all rights in the Pledged Collateral. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, Agent shall be conclusively deemed to have exercised reasonable care in the custody of the Pledged Collateral if Agent takes such action, for purposes of preserving rights in the Pledged Collateral, as Pledgor may reasonably request in writing, but no failure or omission or delay by Agent in complying with any such request by Pledgor, and no refusal by Agent to comply with any such request by Pledgor, shall be deemed to be a failure to exercise reasonable care.

(g) Termination of Agency Agreement. This Section 9 shall survive the release of the Pledged Collateral and/or the termination of this Pledge Agreement, and shall not terminate unless agreed to be by each Lender in writing or upon the repayment in full of all the Obligations.

Section 10. Certain Rights Before and After a Default.

(a) Agent's Responsibility for Pledged Collateral. Agent shall have no duty to fix or preserve rights against prior parties to the Pledged Collateral, and shall never be liable (except for its own gross negligence or willful misconduct) for its failure to use diligence to collect any amount payable with respect to the Pledged Collateral, but shall be liable only to account to Pledgor for what it may actually collect or receive thereon.

(b) Purchase Price for Pledged Collateral. If Agent advances funds to or for the account of Pledgor to enable the latter to purchase or otherwise acquire rights in the Pledged Collateral, or any part thereof, such funds may, at Agent's option, be paid (i) directly to the person, firm, or corporation from whom Pledgor will make such purchase or acquisition or (ii) to Pledgor, in which event such Pledgor covenants to promptly pay the same to such person, firm, or corporation and forthwith furnish to Agent evidence satisfactory to Agent that such payment has been made.

(c) Financing Statement. Agent shall have the right at any time to execute and file this Pledge Agreement as a financing statement, but the failure of Agent to do so shall not impair the validity or enforceability of this Pledge Agreement.

(d) Maximum Interest. It is expressly stipulated and agreed to be the intent of each Pledgor and Agent at all times to comply with applicable state law or applicable United States federal law (to the extent that it permits Agent to contract for, charge, take, reserve, or receive a greater amount of interest than under state law) and that this Section 10(d) shall control every other covenant and agreement in this Pledge Agreement and the other Loan Documents. If the applicable law (state or federal) is ever judicially interpreted so as to render usurious any amount called for under this Pledge Agreement, or under any of the other Loan Documents, or contracted for, charged, taken, reserved, or received with respect to the indebtedness evidenced by the Loan Documents, or if Agent's or any Lender's exercise of the option to accelerate the maturity of any Note (pursuant to a Default or otherwise), or if any prepayment by Pledgor, late payment charge, default interest, or any fee, charge, or imposition of any kind under applicable law results in Pledgor having paid any interest in excess of that permitted by applicable law, then it is Pledgor's and Agent's express intent that all excess amounts theretofore collected by Agent be repaid to such Pledgor with interest thereon at the Maximum Rate (or if any principal of any loan under the Loan Documents is outstanding, that such amounts with such interest thereon be applied to reduce the principal balance of such loans pro rata), and the provisions of this Pledge Agreement, each applicable Note, the Guaranty and the other Loan Documents immediately be deemed reformed and the amounts thereafter collectible hereunder and thereunder reduced, without the necessity of the execution of any new document, so as to comply with the applicable law, but so as to permit the recovery of the fullest amount otherwise called for hereunder and thereunder. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein or in any of the Loan Documents, it is not the intention of Agent to accelerate the maturity of any interest that has not accrued at the time of any acceleration of any Note or to collect unearned interest at the time of such acceleration.

(e) Disclosure. Agent is granted the right to discuss Pledgor's and the Partnership's affairs, finances, and accounts with all parties to such degree as Agent deems necessary or advisable to protect its security interest and/or the repayment of the indebtedness secured hereby. Each Pledgor covenants to do all things necessary or appropriate to permit Agent to fully exercise its rights under this paragraph.

(f) Deposit of Proceeds. Except as expressly prescribed above, all payments received by Agent with respect to the Pledged Collateral shall, at Agent's option, be deposited in a special interest bearing account at a bank to be designated by Agent in the name of Agent styled a "Collateral Account." Funds in said account are hereby assigned to Agent and shall be impressed with a lien to secure the Secured Indebtedness, and shall be applied by Agent as provided for above.

(g) Payment of Expenses. At Agent's option, Agent may (but shall not be obligated to) discharge taxes, liens, and interest, perform or cause to be performed, for and on behalf of Pledgor, any actions and conditions, obligations, or covenants which Pledgor has failed or refused to perform, and may pay for the repair, maintenance, or preservation of any of the Pledged Collateral, and all sums so expended, including, but not limited to, reasonable attorneys' fees, court costs, agents' fee or commissions, or any other costs or expenses, shall become part of the Secured Indebtedness, shall bear interest from the date of payment as provided in the Note, shall be payable at the place designated for payment of the Secured Indebtedness, and shall be secured by this Pledge Agreement.

Section 11. Miscellaneous.

(a) Terms Commercially Reasonable. The terms of this Pledge Agreement shall be deemed commercially reasonable within the meaning of the Code in effect and applicable hereto.

(b) Headings. The headings of articles and sections herein are inserted only for convenience and shall in no way define, describe, or limit the scope or intent of any provision of this Pledge Agreement.

(c) Assignments. No obligations of Pledgor hereunder can be assigned without prior written consent of Agent, and Agent or any Lender may not assign any part of this Pledge Agreement without the without prior written consent of Pledgor. Any attempted assignment in violation of this subsection shall be null and void.

(d) Parties in Interest. As and when used herein, the term "Pledgor" shall mean and include Pledgor herein named and any successors and permitted assigns, and the term "Agent" shall mean and include Agent herein named and its successors and assigns, and all covenants and agreements herein shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of Pledgor and Agents and their respective successors and assigns..

(e) Governing Law and Venue. THIS PLEDGE AGREEMENT AND ALL ISSUES AND CLAIMS ARISING IN CONNECTION WITH OR RELATING TO THE PLEDGED COLLATERAL OR THE SECURED INDEBTEDNESS, INCLUDING BUT WITHOUT LIMITATION, ALL CONTRACT, TORT, EQUITY, OR OTHER CLAIMS OR COUNTERCLAIMS SHALL BE GOVERNED AND CONSTRUED IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE LAWS OF THE STATE OF TEXAS (WITHOUT CONSIDERATION OF ITS CONFLICTS OF LAWS RULES) AND THE APPLICABLE LAWS OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA. AGENT AND PLEDGOR HEREBY IRREVOCABLY (I) SUBMIT TO THE NON-EXCLUSIVE JURISDICTION OF ANY UNITED STATES FEDERAL OR STATE COURT SITTING IN DALLAS, TEXAS IN ANY ACTION OR PROCEEDING ARISING OUT OF OR RELATING TO THIS GUARANTY, AND (II) WAIVES TO THE FULLEST EXTENT PERMITTED BY LAW ANY DEFENSE ASSERTING AN INCONVENIENT FORUM IN CONNECTION THEREWITH. If any provision of this Pledge Agreement is held to be invalid or unenforceable, the validity and enforceability of the other provisions of this Pledge Agreement shall remain unaffected.

(f) Notices. 1.2 Purpose. The Partnership has established the Plan to create positive morale and teamwork, to attract and retain key talent, and to encourage the achievement of common goals. Section 5. Grants of Long-term Incentive Units and Cash Awards.

5.1 Awards. An award under the Plan will be granted, as of its Grant Date, to a Participant in the form of Long-term Incentive Units or Cash Awards. 5.2 Date of Grant. The Grant Date of an award will be set forth in the Award Agreement.

5.4 Limitation on Grants. The aggregate number of Long-term Incentive Units that may be awarded under the Plan is unlimited. In the event a Participant's rights to Long-term Incentive Units lapse or are forfeited, such Long-term Incentive Units shall become available for future grant under the Plan unless the Plan has terminated.

5.5 Term of Grants. The Award Agreement shall set forth the term of each Award; provided, however, an Award shall not be exercisable after the expiration of ten (10) years from the Grant Date of such Award or sooner as set forth under the Plan. The vesting schedule for each Award will be set forth in each Award Agreement. Any vesting of a Long-term Incentive Unit or Cash Award is conditioned and dependent on the Participant's consent and agreement to the promises set forth in Section 8.8 and to the enforceability of such covenants as stated therein with respect to that Participant in the event of a dispute between that Participant and the Plan. Unless otherwise specified in the Plan or Award Agreement, Long-term Incentive Units and Cash Awards granted under the Plan will vest as follows:

Vesting Date	Vested Percentage

(b) In the event of death of a Participant, all then outstanding Awards granted to such Participant pursuant to any Award Agreement shall become fully Vested.

(c) In the event of Termination of a Participant's Continuous Status as an Employee due to Disability, vesting of all then outstanding Awards granted to such Participant shall be recalculated as if the Participant's original vesting schedule was determined on a monthly (rather than annual) basis with 1/12 of the vesting percentage applicable to the year of Disability applied to such units for each complete month of such year, ending with the first day of the month following the date of Disability.

(d) The Administrator, in its sole and unfettered discretion, may determine that all Long-term Incentive Units or Cash Awards granted to a Participant will become fully Vested.

Section 7. Exercise of Awards; Forfeiture.

7.1 Entitlement to Benefit. Vested Awards shall be exercised in accordance with this Section 7 of the Plan upon the occurrence of a Triggering Event or at the discretion of the Administrator, provided, however, the exercise of Vested Awards at the discretion of the Administrator is permissible under Section 409A of the Code and any guidance issued thereunder.

7.2 Method of Exercise. After the occurrence of a Triggering Event with respect to a Participant, an Award shall be deemed exercised.

7.3 Change in Control. As set forth in Section 6.2(a), in the event of a Change in Control, all then outstanding Awards shall become fully Vested. Upon a Change in Control, all then outstanding Vested Awards of all Participants shall be deemed to have been exercised as of the effective date of such Change in Control.

7.4 Termination of Continuous Status as an Employee. Except as otherwise provided herein or in an Award Agreement, if the Triggering Event is the termination of a Participant's Continuous Status as an Employee for reasons other than death, Disability, or termination for Cause, any Long-term Incentive Units or Cash Awards which are not Vested shall lapse and be forfeited and shall revert to the Plan, and any then outstanding Vested Long-term Incentive Units or Cash Awards shall be deemed to have been exercised as of the date of the termination of the Participant's Continuous Status as an Employee.

7.5 Death or Disability. Upon the termination of a Participant's Continuous Status as an Employee due to death or Disability, any then outstanding Vested Long-term Incentive Units or Cash Awards shall be deemed to have been exercised as of the date of the termination of the Participant's Continuous Status as an Employee due to death or Disability.

7.6 Termination For Cause. Unless provided otherwise in an Award Agreement, upon the termination of a Participant's Continuous Status as an Employee for Cause, any Award Agreements of the Participant shall immediately terminate and the outstanding Vested Long-term Incentive Units or Cash Awards covered by such Award Agreements shall lapse and be forfeited and shall revert to the Plan.

7.8. Voluntary Termination without Proper Notice. Unless provided otherwise in an Award Agreement, if the Participant voluntarily terminates his/her Continuous Status as an Employee without providing the Partnership and his/her Affiliate Employer (if applicable) at least thirty (30) days' advance written notice, any Award Agreements of the Participant shall immediately terminate and the unexercised Vested Long-term Incentive Units or Cash Awards covered by such Award Agreements shall lapse and be forfeited and shall revert to the Plan.

Section 8. Account Balance.

8.1A Long-term Incentive Unit Formula for Participants Who Are Not Partners in the Partnership. Upon exercise, unless provided otherwise in an Award Agreement, the value of the Participant's Account Balance with respect to Long-term Incentive Units will be determined according to the following formula and adjusted according to Sections 8.2 through 8.8, as applicable:

> The Participant's Account Balance = (i) Lower of: (A) the Fair Market Value as of January 1 of the current year used for grants under the Plan; or (B) the Fair Market Value as of January 1 of the following year used for grants under the Plan, divided by (ii) 30,000,000, or, if greater, the total number of Long-term Incentive Units granted under the Plan, multiplied by (iii) the number of the Participant's Vested Long-term Incentive Units.

8.1B Long-term Incentive Unit Formula for Participants Who Are Partners in the Partnership. Upon exercise, unless provided otherwise in an Award Agreement, the value of the Participant's Account Balance with respect to Long-term Incentive Units will be determined as follows, and adjusted according to Sections 8.2 through 8.8, as applicable.

(a) The value of the Long-term Incentive Units that become Vested each year shall be determined and added to the Participant's Account as follows:

> The Participant's Account Balance = (i) Lower of: (A) the Fair Market Value as of January 1 of the year ending prior to the year in which such Units Vest, or (B) the Fair Market Value as of January 1 of the year in which such Units Vest, divided by (ii) 30,000,000, or, if greater, the total number of Long-term Incentive Units granted under the Plan (sometimes referred to herein as the "Fair Market Value of a Unit"), multiplied by (iii) the number of the Participant's Vested Long-term Incentive Units.

After determination of the value of Vested Units, no adjustment shall be made to the value of such Vested Units unless the Fair Market Value of a Unit at the time of a Triggering Event which entitles the Participant to distribution of his/her Account under Section 9 of the Plan (the "Triggering Event Value") is less than the Fair Market Value of a Unit calculated above, in which case the Participant's Account Balance shall be determined by applying the Triggering Event Value to such Vested Units. The Fair Market Value at the time of a Triggering Event is determined under the "Account Balance" formula described above in this Section 8.1B, by treating the Units as if they became Vested on the Triggering Event date.

(b) Partnership Interests in the Partnership. Each year when a Participant's Long-term Incentive Units become Vested Units, the Partnership will issue the Participant a new equity interest in the Partnership ("Interest") that will be treated as a "profits interest" for federal income tax purposes, in an amount equal to the quotient of (i) the number of the Participant's Long-term Incentive Units that become Vested Units that year, divided by (ii) 30,000,000, or, if greater, the total number of Long-term Incentive Units granted under the Plan. For example only, if a Participant has 10,000 Long-term Incentive Units that become Vested Units in 2008 and 30,000,000 or fewer Long-term Incentive Units have been granted under the Plan, the Participant will receive a new Interest that will be treated as a "profits interest" for federal income tax purposes in 2008 equal to 0.03333% (i.e., 10,000/30,000,000). This Interest will be provided to the Participant in addition to any Awards that the Participant receives.

8.2 Change in Control. Upon a Change in Control, the value of the Participant's Account Balance with respect to Long-term Incentive Units will be equal to (i) the total market capitalization determined (or implied, in the case of a partial Change in Control) by the purchase price of the Partnership at the time of the Change in Control, multiplied by (ii) the number of the Participant's Vested Long-term Incentive Units, divided by (iii) 30,000,000, or, if greater, the total number of Long-term Incentive Units granted under the Plan.

8.3 Cash Award Formula. The value of the Participant's Account Balance with respect to Cash Awards will be determined as follows: the value of each separate Cash Award shall be determined by adding to the initial amount of the Cash Award interest calculated at five percent (5%) and compounding on an annual basis on December 31 of each year, beginning with the calendar year of the date of grant of the Cash Award. For example, if a Cash Award of $50,000 is made on July 1, 2005, to a Participant, on December 31, 2005, the Account Balance with respect to that Cash Award would be $51,250 ($50,000 plus 5% for 6 months); then, on December 31, 2006, the Account Balance with respect to that Cash Award would be $53,812.50 ($51,250 plus 5% interest for 12 months). Interest shall also be added at the time of distribution of a Cash Award (or any portion of a Cash Award) from the most recent December 31 to the date of actual distribution.

8.4 Voluntary Termination with Proper Notice or Involuntary Termination without Cause. Except as otherwise provided herein and in any applicable Award Agreement, upon exercise of a Vested Award under Section 7 after termination of the Participant's Continuous Status as an Employee either (i) by voluntary termination which is a Triggering Event and the Participant has ten (10) years of service and provides at least four (4) months' advance written notice of such termination to the Partnership and his/her Affiliate Employer (if applicable), or (ii) involuntary termination which is a Triggering Event, such Participant shall become entitled to receive a distribution in accordance with Section 9 equal to one-hundred percent (100%) of his/her Vested Account Balance. However,

(a) If, at the time of an involuntary termination of Continuous Status as an Employee which is a Triggering Event, the Participant does not have ten (10) years of service, then twenty percent (20%) of his/her Vested Account Balance shall automatically lapse and be forfeited and shall revert to the Plan, and such Participant shall become entitled to receive a distribution in accordance with Section 9 equal to eighty percent (80%) of his/her Vested Account Balance; or

(b) If, at the time of a voluntary termination of Continuous Status as an Employee which is a Triggering Event, the Participant either (a) does not have ten (10) years of service; or (b) does not provide at least four (4) months' advance written notice (but does provide at least thirty (30) days' advance written notice) of such termination to the Partnership and his/her Affiliate Employer (if applicable), then twenty percent (20%) of his/her Vested Account Balance shall automatically lapse and be forfeited and shall revert to the Plan, and such Participant shall become entitled to receive a distribution in accordance with Section 9 equal to eighty percent (80%) of his/her Vested Account Balance.

8.5 Death, Disability or Retirement. Except as otherwise provided herein and in any applicable Award Agreement, upon exercise of a Vested Award under Section 7 after termination of the Participant's Continuous Status as an Employee due to death, Disability, or Retirement, such Participant shall be entitled to receive a distribution in accordance with Section 9 equal to one hundred percent (100%) of his/her Vested Account Balance.

8.6 Unforeseeable Emergency. Upon a request by a Participant for a distribution due to Unforeseeable Emergency, the Administrator, in its discretion, shall determine the eligibility of the Participant for a distribution and the percentage of the Participant's Vested Account Balance which may be distributed, but in no event shall the amount of the Unforeseeable Emergency distribution exceed the amount necessary to satisfy such emergency plus amounts necessary to pay taxes reasonably anticipated as a result of the distribution, after taking into account the extent to which such hardship is or may be relieved through reimbursement or other compensation by insurance or otherwise, or by liquidation of the Participant's assets (to the extent such a liquidation would not cause severe financial hardship).

For purposes of this Section 8.6, an "Unforeseeable Emergency" means a severe financial hardship to the Participant resulting from an illness or accident of the Participant, the Participant's spouse, or a dependent of the Participant, loss of the Participant's property due to a casualty, or other similar extraordinary and unforeseeable circumstances arising as a result of events beyond the control of the Participant. Any determination of Unforeseeable Emergency shall be made in accordance with the requirements of Section 409A of the Code and any guidance issued thereunder.

8.7 Voluntary Termination without Proper Notice or Involuntary Termination for Cause. Unless provided otherwise in an Award Agreement, upon the involuntary termination of a Participant's Continuous Status as an Employee for Cause or the voluntary termination of a Participant's Continuous Status as an Employee which is not a Triggering Event, the Participant's entire Vested Account Balance shall automatically lapse and be forfeited and shall revert to the Plan.

8.8 Forfeiture of All Benefits in Event of Competitive Activity.

(a) Access to Confidential Information and Specialized Training. In addition to the mutual promises contained in this Plan, each Participant acknowledges that he/she received from the Partnership and its Affiliates, at the inception of this Plan and continuing on an ongoing basis during the Participant's participation in the Plan, new Confidential Information and Specialized Training to which the Participant has not previously had access. Any reference in this Section 8.8 to the Partnership shall be deemed to include all Affiliates of the Partnership.

(b) The Restrictive Covenants. Each Participant recognizes and agrees that: (i) the Partnership has devoted a considerable amount of time, effort, and expense to develop its Confidential Information and business goodwill; (ii) the Confidential Information and the Partnership's business goodwill are valuable assets to the Partnership; and (iii) any unauthorized use or disclosure of the Partnership's Confidential Information would cause irreparable harm to the Partnership and the Plan for which there is no adequate remedy at law, including damage to the Partnership's business goodwill. Accordingly, each Participant agrees that to protect the Confidential Information and business goodwill, it is necessary to enter into the following restrictive covenants, which are ancillary to the enforceable promises between the Plan and the Participant in Sections 6, 7, and 8.8(a). The Participant, either individually or as a principal, partner, stockholder, manager, agent, consultant, contractor, employee, lender, investor, or as a director or officer of any corporation or association, or in any other manner or capacity whatsoever, agrees that during the period in which the Participant is a participant in the Plan and for a period of one (1) year following the date on which the Participant ceases (for whatever reason) to be in Continuous Status as an Employee (the "Non-Competition Period"), the Participant shall not, whether directly or indirectly (excluding the activities of the Participant's spouse or other immediate family members independently engaged in such activities):

(i) Non-Solicitation. Solicit business, attempt to solicit business, or accept business in products or services competitive with products or services sold by any of the Applicable Entities, from any of the Applicable Entities' clients, customers, prospective or potential clients or customers, or those individuals or entities that any of the Applicable Entities did business with during the Participant's employment with the Partnership, with whom the Participant solicited or dealt with, in any capacity, while an employee in the Partnership during the twenty-four (24) months immediately proceeding the Non-Competition Period.

(ii) Non-Recruitment. Hire, solicit for employment, induce or encourage to leave the employment of any of the Applicable Entities or otherwise cease their employment with any of the Applicable Entities, any employee or any former employee of any of the Applicable Entities whose employment with any of the Applicable Entities ceased than less that six (6) months earlier.

(iii) Non-Competition. Within any market in which any of the Applicable Entities provided services or sold products during the twenty-four (24) months immediately proceeding the Non-Competition Period, become employed, advise, perform services or otherwise serve in any capacity with a Competing Business in which Participant would (a) perform similar duties to those performed while at the Partnership, (b) engage in or provide services to any client, customer, or prospective or potential clients or customers of any of the Applicable Entities or competitor of any of the Applicable Entities, (c) or provide services that are competitive with a product, service, process or development on which the Participant worked at the Partnership, or with which the Participant had access to Confidential Information while an employee with the Partnership. However, the Participant may own, directly or indirectly, solely as an investment, securities of any business traded on any national securities exchange or NASDAQ, provided that the Participant is not a controlling person of, or member of a group that controls such business, and provided further that the Participant does not, directly or indirectly, own three percent (3%) or more of any class of securities of such business. If the Partnership or an Affiliate Employer notifies that Participant in writing that he/she is being terminated as the result of a downsizing or reduction in force by the Partnership or Affiliate Employer, then this Section 8.8(b)(iii) shall not apply to that Participant after termination of that Participant's Continuous Status as an Employee.

(c) Remedies. The Participant acknowledges that the restrictions contained in this Section 8.8 are reasonable and necessary to protect the Partnership's legitimate business interests and business goodwill and that any violation of this Plan would result in irreparable injury to the Partnership. In the event of a breach by the Participant of any provision of this Section 8.8, the Plan shall, assuming the provisions of this Section 8.8(c) are applied and upheld, only be entitled to take the action set forth in this Section 8.8(c) as its sole remedy against the Participant for such breach. From the date of breach by the Participant, the Participant's entire Vested Account Balance shall automatically lapse and be forfeited and shall revert to the Plan. In the event any Vested Award has been exercised under Section 7 for any reason other than a Change in Control prior to engaging in competitive activity, unless otherwise provided in an Award Agreement, any amounts otherwise payable under this Plan or any Award Agreement to such Participant shall automatically lapse and be forfeited, and neither the Partnership nor any Affiliate shall have any obligation to make any further payment to such Participant with respect to this Plan, any Award Agreement, or any Award. From the date of breach by the Participant, the Plan shall have no obligation to make any further allocation of Cash Awards, Long-Term Incentive Units, or any other benefits under the Plan to Participant. In addition, the Partnership shall be entitled to (i) a refund from Participant of any payments the Partnership made to Participant pursuant to Section 9, plus (ii) the sum of the Partnership's attorneys' fees, costs and expenses related to the breach. The existence of any claim or cause of action by the Participant against the Plan or the Partnership, whether predicated on this Plan or otherwise, shall not constitute a defense to the enforcement of the provisions contained in this Section 8.9.

(d) Tolling. If a Participant violates any of the restrictions contained in Section 8.8, the Non-Competition Period shall be suspended and will not run in favor of the Participant until such time that the Participant cures the violation to the satisfaction of the Partnership, or for a period of three (3) years after the Participant's Continuous Status as an Employee ended, whichever period is shorter.

(e) Pre-conditional Obligation and Restoration. This Section 8.8 (the "Non-Compete Article") is material to this Plan, and this Non-Compete Article is a material and important component of the Plan. The enforceability of the Non-Compete Article is a precondition for the Participant's receipt of any benefits under the Plan, including, without limitation, Long-Term Incentive Units, Cash Awards, or any other awards or benefits. Should all or any part or application of the Non-Compete Article be held or found invalid or unenforceable for any reason whatsoever by a court or other constituted legal authority of competent jurisdiction in an action between a Participant and the Plan, that Participant and Plan agree as follows:

(i) That Participant's entire Vested Account Balance shall automatically lapse and be forfeited and shall revert to the Plan;

(ii) The Plan shall have no obligation to make any further allocation of Cash Awards, Long-Term Incentive Units, or any other benefits under the Plan to that Participant; and

(iii) In the event any Vested Award has been exercised under Section 7 for any reason other than a Change in Control prior to engaging in competitive activity, unless otherwise provided in an Award Agreement, any amounts otherwise payable under this Plan or any Award Agreement to that Participant shall automatically lapse and be forfeited, and neither the Partnership nor any Affiliate shall have any obligation to make any further payment to that Participant with respect to this Plan, any Award Agreement, or any Award.

Section 9. Payment of Account Balance.

9.1 Normal Form of Distribution; Time of Payment. Unless provided otherwise in an Award Agreement, payments to which a Participant (or his/her successor in interest) may be entitled under the Plan upon exercise of Vested Awards shall be made in a lump sum, subject to the provision of Section 9.2, and in cash (or cash equivalents) as determined by the Administrator and such payments shall begin within thirty (30) days after June 30 of the calendar year following the calendar year in which the Triggering Event occurs; provided, however,

(i) If the Triggering Event is a Change of Control, then payment shall begin upon the earlier of (A) one (1) year following the Change of Control, (B) the date the Partnership or Affiliate Employer terminates the Participant's Continuous Status as an Employee without Cause, (C) the date the Partnership or Affiliate Employer reduces the Participant's Compensation (as defined herein) to less than one hundred percent (100%) of his/her prior year's Compensation, or (D) the date either James D. Dondero or Mark K. Okada receives his first payment for his interest in the Partnership; provided further, the Plan may loan Participant funds that the Administrator deems necessary for that Participant to pay any federal income tax liability associated with that Change of Control;

(ii) In its discretion, the Administrator may begin payments to a Participant earlier than such date in the event of an Unforeseeable Emergency.

For purposes of this Section 9.1, "Compensation" means, with respect to any Participant for any calendar year, the sum of (i) that Participant's wages as reported by the Partnership or Affiliate Employer on an IRS Form W-2, (ii) all the Partnership's or Affiliate Employer's contributions to that Participant's 401(k) account, and (iii) any consideration paid to that Participant under that certain HCM Services Option Plan, dated June 28, 2001, as amended from time to time.

9.2 Limitation on Amount of Payment. Unless provided otherwise in an Award Agreement, the aggregate cash payments to a Participant under this Plan and the Amended and Restated Buy-Sell and Redemption Agreement by and among Highland Capital Management and its Limited Partners, dated February 29, 2004, as may be amended, supplemented or restated from time to time, will be limited to two hundred fifty thousand dollars ($250,000.00) per calendar quarter, and deferred balances will accrue simple interest at the appropriate "Applicable Federal Rate" determined by the Internal Revenue Service per annum until paid. Notwithstanding the foregoing, if the Triggering Event is a Change in Control and payments begin due to an event described in part (C) or (D) of Section 9.1(i), the payments to which a Participant may be entitled under the Plan will be fully distributed to the Participant on or before March 10 of the calendar year following the calendar year in which the Change in Control occurs.

9.3 Facility of Payment. If the Administrator determines that any person to whom a payment is due is unable to care for his/her affairs because of minority, or physical or mental disability, the Administrator will have the authority to cause the payments to be made to the spouse, brother, sister or other person the Administrator determines to have incurred, or to be expected to incur, expenses for that person unless a prior claim is made by a qualified guardian or other legal representative. Neither the Administrator nor the Partnership nor any of its Affiliates will be responsible to oversee the application of those payments. Payments made pursuant to this power will be a complete discharge of all liability under the Plan and the obligations of the Partnership, its Affiliates and the Administrator. Any amount payable to a minor under any provision of this Plan, including the foregoing provisions of this Section 9.3, may be paid directly to the minor or to a parent or qualified guardian or conservator. The receipt by the minor (or guardian or conservator) will be a complete discharge of all liability under the Plan and the obligations of the Partnership, its Affiliates and the Administrator.

10.1 Limitation of Rights. Nothing in this Plan shall be construed:

(a) To give any Participant any right to be granted any Award other than at the sole and unfettered discretion of the Administrator;

(b) To disclose to any Participant the right to the formula, including any variables contained in the formula, used by the Administrator to value the Long-term Incentive Units;

(c) To disclose to any Participant the right to any financial information which the Administrator may have used to value the Long-term Incentive Units;

(d) To limit in any way the right of the Partnership or its Affiliates to terminate a Participant's employment with the Partnership and its Affiliates at any time; or

(e) To evidence any agreement or understanding, expressed or implied, that the Partnership or its Affiliates will employ a Participant in any particular capacity or for any particular remuneration.

10.2 No Control and Nature of Interest. The granting of an Award to a Participant under the provisions of the Plan represents only a right to receive compensation as specified solely by the terms of this Plan, as interpreted and administered by the Administrator. Accordingly, except as otherwise expressly provided herein, the Plan grants no right to, or interest in, either express or implied, any equity position or ownership in the Partnership or continued employment by the Partnership, or its Affiliates.

Furthermore, the Participant shall take no part in the control or management of the affairs of the Partnership, and shall not be entitled to any rights as a partner or shareholder of the Partnership, nor shall any Participant, acting either alone or in accord, have any right or authority to act for or bind the Partnership, or veto any action taken by the officers or directors of the Partnership, which is in excess of such management right or authority as is customarily appropriate with respect to the duties and responsibilities of the position held by such Participant in the normal course of his/her employment with the Partnership or its Affiliates.

Section 11. Amendment, Modification and Termination of Plan.

11.1 Amendment, Modification, and Termination of Plan. The Administrator may: (i) at any time terminate the Plan, and (ii) from time to time amend or modify the Plan, and (iii) from time to time amend or modify any outstanding Award Agreement; provided, however, no such action by the Administrator shall reduce the Vested Account Balance of any Participant. In the event it is determined that any provision in this Plan results in a violation of the requirements of Section 409A of the Code and any guidance issued hereunder, the Administrator shall have the power to unilaterally modify or eliminate such provision.

Section 12. Miscellaneous.

12.1 No Loans. Except as otherwise provided in Section 9.1(i), no loans of any kind shall be permitted under the Plan.

12.2 Alienation. No benefit provided by this Plan shall be transferable by the Participant except on the Participant's death by will or by the laws of descent and distribution. No right or benefit under this Plan shall be subject to anticipation, alienation, sale, assignment, pledge, encumbrance or charge. Any attempt to anticipate, alienate, sell, assign, pledge, encumber or charge any right or benefit under this Plan shall be void. No right or benefit under this Plan shall, in any manner, be liable for or subject to any debts, contracts, liabilities or torts of the person entitled to the right or benefit. If any Participant becomes bankrupt or attempts to anticipate, alienate, assign, pledge, sell, encumber or charge any right or benefit under this Plan, then the right or benefit shall, in the discretion of the Administrator, cease. In that event, the Partnership may hold or apply the right or benefit, or any part of the right or benefit, for the benefit of the Participant, his/her spouse, children, or dependents, the beneficiary or any of them, in the manner or in the proportion that the Administrator shall deem proper, in his/her sole discretion, but is not required to do so. The terms of the Plan and any Award Agreement shall be binding upon the executors, administrators, heirs, successors and assigns of the Participant.

12.3 Tax Withholding. Payments under the Plan shall be subject to all applicable federal, state, and local tax withholding requirements. To the extent required by applicable federal, state, local or foreign law, a Participant shall make arrangements satisfactory to the Partnership or its Affiliate, if applicable, for the satisfaction of any required statutory federal, state, local and/or foreign withholding tax obligations that arise by reason of a payment under the Plan. Such obligations may, as authorized by the Administrator, consist of a cash payment made by the Participant to the Partnership or its Affiliate, if applicable, a reduction in salary payments to the Participant, withholding the required amount from such payments due pursuant to this Plan or any other form of consideration as authorized by the Administrator.

12.4 Changes in Capitalization. In the event of any merger, acquisition or other restructuring of the Partnership which does not result in a Change in Control or other Triggering Event, the number of Long-term Incentive Units that may be issuable under the Plan, the number of Long-term Incentive Units subject to outstanding awards, and/or the determination of the Account Balance under Section 8 may, at Administrator's discretion, be adjusted so that the proportionate interest of the Participant is maintained as before the occurrence of such event. Except as expressly provided herein, no issuance by the Partnership of shares of equity, or securities convertible or exchangeable into shares of equity of any class, shall affect, and no adjustment by reason thereof shall be made with respect to, the number of Long-term Incentive Units issued and available under the Plan.

12.5 Unfunded Plan. The Plan shall be unfunded. The Partnership shall not be required to segregate any assets that may be represented by Long-term Incentive Units or Cash Awards; the Partnership shall not be deemed to be a trustee or fiduciary of any amounts to be paid from an Account. Any liability of the Partnership to pay any Participant with respect to Long-term Incentive Units or Cash Awards shall be based solely upon any contractual obligations created pursuant to the provisions of the Plan; no such obligation shall be deemed to be secured by any pledge or encumbrance on any property of the Partnership. However, the Partnership has the discretion at any time to segregate such assets that may be represented by Long-term Incentive Units or Cash Awards. The assets will at all times remain property of the Partnership. The Participants shall at all times be unsecured creditors of the Partnership.

12.6 Governing Law. The Plan, and all agreements hereunder, has been prepared, is being executed and delivered, and is intended to be performed, in the State of Texas, and, at the sole choice of the Partnership, the substantive laws of Texas, or the applicable law of the state in which the Participant performed services for the Partnership or its Affiliates, and the applicable federal laws of the United States of America shall govern the validity, construction, enforcement, and interpretation of this Plan.

12.7 Successors and Assigns. This Plan shall be binding on the Partnership's successors and assigns.

See revised version attached, which should capture the final agreement. There are not many changes, so it should only take a few minutes to flip through it. Jim wants this final tomorrow.

ARTICLE V

Confidentiality, Non-Competition, Non-Solicitation, and Non-Recruitment

5.1 The Company's Promise to Provide Confidential Information and Specialized Training. At the inception of this Agreement, and continuing on an ongoing basis during the Executive's employment with the Company, the Company agrees to provide the Executive with new Confidential Information and Specialized Training to which the Executive has not previously had access.

5.2 The Executive's Promise not to Use or Disclose the Confidential Information. In exchange for the Company's promise to provide the Executive with Confidential Information and Specialized Training, the Executive shall not, during his/her employment with the Company under this Agreement or at any time thereafter, disclose to anyone, including, without limitation, any Person, or publish, or use for any purpose, any Confidential Information, except as: (i) required in the ordinary course of the Company's business or the Executive's work for the Company; (ii) required by law; or (iii) directed and authorized in writing by the Company. At the conclusion of the Executive's Continuous Status as an Executive, for any reason, the Executive shall immediately return and deliver to the Company any and all computers, hard-drives, papers, books, records, documents, memoranda, manuals, e-mail, electronic or magnetic recordings or data, including all copies thereof, belonging to the Company or any of the Applicable Entities, containing Confidential Information, or relating to the Company's or any of the Applicable Entities' business, which are in the Executive's possession, whether prepared by the Executive or others. If at any time after termination of the Executive's participation in the Company, for any reason, the Executive determines that the Executive has any Confidential Information in the Executive's possession or control, the Executive shall immediately return to the Company all such Confidential Information in the Executive's possession or control, including all copies and portions thereof.

5.3 The Restrictive Covenants. Each Executive recognizes and agrees that: (i) the Company has devoted a considerable amount of time, effort, and expense to develop its Confidential Information and business goodwill; (ii) the Confidential Information and the Company's business goodwill are valuable assets to the Company; and (iii) any unauthorized use or disclosure of the Company's or any of the Applicable Entities' Confidential Information would cause irreparable harm to the Company for which there is no adequate remedy at law, including damage to the Company's business goodwill. Accordingly, each Executive agrees that to protect the Company's Confidential Information and business goodwill, it is necessary to enter into the following restrictive covenants, which are ancillary to the enforceable promises between the Executive and the Company in this Article V. The Executive, either individually or as a principal, partner, stockholder, manager, agent, consultant, contractor, employee, lender, investor, or as a director or officer of any corporation or association, or in any other manner or capacity whatsoever, agrees that during the period of the Executive's Continuous Status as an Executive, and for a period of one (1) year following the date on which the Executive's Continuous Status as an Executive ceases (for whatever reason) (the "Non-Competition Period"), the Executive shall not, whether directly or indirectly, without the express prior written consent of the Company (excluding the activities of the Executive's spouse or other immediate family members independently engaged in such activities):

(a) Non-Solicitation. Solicit business, attempt to solicit business, or accept business in products or services competitive with products or services sold by any of the Applicable Entities, from any of the Applicable Entities' clients, customers, prospective or potential clients or customers, or those individuals or entities that any of the Applicable Entities did business with during the Executive's employment with the Company, with whom the Executive solicited or dealt with, in any capacity, while employed with the Company during the twenty-four (24) months immediately preceding the Non-Competition Period.

(b) Non-Recruitment. Hire, solicit for employment, induce or encourage to leave the employment of the Company or otherwise cease their employment with any of the Applicable Entities, any employee or any former employee of any Applicable Entities whose employment with any of the Applicable Entities ceased than less than six (6) months earlier.

(c) Non-Competition. Within any market in which any of the Applicable Entities provided services or sold products during the twenty-four (24) months immediately preceding the Non-Competition Period, become employed, advise, perform services or otherwise serve in any capacity with a Competing Business in which the Executive would (a) perform similar duties to those performed while at the Company, (b) engage in or provide services to any client, customer, or prospective or potential clients or customers of any of the Applicable Entities, or competitor of any of the Applicable Entities, or (c) provide services that are competitive with a product, service, process or development on which the Executive worked at the Company, or with which the Executive had access to Confidential Information while employed with the Company. However, the Executive may own, directly or indirectly, solely as an investment, securities of any business traded on any national securities exchange or NASDAQ, provided that the Executive is not a controlling person of, or member of a group that controls such business, and provided further that the Executive does not, directly or indirectly, own three percent (3%) or more of any class of securities of such business. If the Company notifies the Executive in writing that he/she is being terminated as the result of a downsizing or reduction in force by the Company, then this Section 5.3(c) shall not apply to the Executive after termination of his/her Continuous Status as an Employee.

5.4 Remedies. The Executive acknowledges that the restrictions contained in this Article V, in view of the nature of the Company's business, are reasonable and necessary to protect the Company's legitimate business interests and business goodwill and that any violation of this Agreement would result in irreparable injury to the Company. In the event of a breach by the Executive of any provision of this Article V, the Company shall, assuming the remedy provisions of Section 15(e)(i) of the Amended and Restated Buy-Sell and Redemption Agreement, dated December 31, 2004, as may be amended from time to time, and Section 8.9(c) of the Long-Term Incentive Plan are applied and upheld, only be entitled to take the following actions as its sole remedy against the Executive for such breach:

(a) In the event of a breach by the Executive of any provision of Articles V (other than Section 5.3(c)), the Company shall be entitled to a temporary restraining order and injunctive relief restraining the Executive from the commission of any breach, and to recover the Company's attorneys' fees, costs and expenses related to the breach.

(b) In the event of a breach by the Executive of Section 5.3(c), the Company shall be entitled to a payment from the Executive equal to the sum of (i) the sum of (A) the amount the Executive received pursuant to Section 4.5 and (B) the amount the Executive would have been entitled to receive under Section 4.6 at the time his/her/her Continuous Status as an Executive ended, plus (ii) the sum of the Company's attorneys' fees, costs and expenses related to the breach.

The existence of any claim or cause of action by the Executive against the Company, whether predicated on this Agreement or otherwise, shall not constitute a defense to the enforcement by the Company of the restrictive covenants contained in this Article V.

5.5 Reformation. The Executive and the Company agree that all of the covenants contained in this Article V shall survive the termination or expiration of this Agreement, and agree further that in the event any of the covenants contained in this Article V shall be held by any court to be effective in any particular area or jurisdiction only if said covenant is modified to limit its duration or scope, then the court shall have such authority to so reform the covenant and the parties hereto shall consider such covenant(s) and/or other provisions of this Article V to be amended and modified with respect to that particular area or jurisdiction so as to comply with the order of any such court and, as to all other jurisdictions, the covenants contained herein shall remain in full force and effect as originally written. Should any court hold that these covenants are void or otherwise unenforceable in any particular area or jurisdiction, then the Company may consider such covenant(s) and/or provisions of this Article V to be amended and modified so as to eliminate therefrom the particular area or jurisdiction as to which such covenants are so held void or otherwise unenforceable and, as to all other areas and jurisdictions covered hereunder, the covenants contained herein shall remain in full force and effect as originally written.

5.6 Tolling. If the Executive violates any of the restrictions contained in this Article V, the restrictive period will be suspended and will not run in favor of the Executive until such time that the Executive cures the violation to the satisfaction of the Company, or for a period of three (3) years after the Executive's employment with the Company ended, whichever period is shorter.

5.7 Notice. If a Executive, in the future, seeks or is offered employment, or any other position or capacity with another company or entity, the Executive agrees to inform each new employer or entity, before accepting employment, of the existence of the restrictions in this Article V. Further, before taking any employment position with any Person during the Non-Competition Period, the Executive agrees to give prior written notice to the Company of the name of such Person. The Company shall be entitled to advise such Person of the provisions of Article V and to otherwise deal with such Person to ensure that the provisions of Article V are enforced and duly discharged.

5.8 Restricted Securities. The Executive agrees that, during the Non-Competition Period, he/she will not directly or indirectly, invest in or otherwise participate in any investment decision, including the preparation of or contribution to any research relating to Restricted Securities (as defined below) that are designated by the Company as set forth herein for his/her own account or for the account of others without the prior written consent of the Company.

For purposes of this Agreement, "Restricted Securities" shall include any debt or equity related security, including common stock. The Company agrees to provide such list of Restricted Securities to the Executive within five (5) days following the termination of the Continuous Status as an Executive, which list shall set forth the Restricted Securities and shall be the list maintained by the Company and/or the Applicable Entities in the ordinary course of business for purposes of compliance with applicable securities law restrictions. The Executive agrees that for the Non-Competition Period, the Executive will not directly or indirectly participate in any investment decision regarding the Restricted Securities on the list provided to the Executive. The Executive may, by written notice to the Company, request that the Restricted Security designation be removed from a specific security or securities. Upon receipt of such notice from the Executive, the Company may, in its sole discretion, determine that the Restricted Security designation be removed from any or all of the securities included in the notice. If the Company so determines, the Company shall send written notice (the "Release Notice") to the Executive that the securities specified in such Release Notice are no longer designated as Restricted Securities for purposes of the Agreement. Any security designated as a Restricted Security will become unrestricted upon the earliest to occur of (i) the termination of the Non-Competition Period, (ii) the delivery of a Release Notice by the Company to the Executive covering such security, and (iii) the termination of the Without Cause Severance Pay Period, if applicable. The Company agrees from time to time to maintain a list of Restricted Securities to be used in conjunction with the foregoing and not to vary more than twenty-five percent (25%) in any month the number of Restricted Securities designated thereon.

ARTICLE VI

Return of Company Property

All lists, records, designs, patents, plans, manuals, memoranda and other property delivered to the Executive by or on behalf of any of the Applicable Entities or by any of their clients or customers (including, but not limited to, clients or customers obtained for the Applicable Entities by the Executive), and all records compiled by the Executive that pertain to the business of the Applicable Entities (whether or not confidential) shall be and remain the property of the Company and be subject at all times to its discretion and control. Likewise, all correspondence with clients, customers or representatives, reports, research, records, charts, advertising materials, and any data collected by the Executive, or by or on behalf of the Applicable Entities or its representatives (whether or not confidential) shall be delivered promptly to the Company without request by it upon termination of the Continuous Status as an Executive.

FORM OF SEPARATION AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

This Separation Agreement and Release ("Agreement") is between Highland Capital Management Services, Inc. ("Employer") and [Executive] ("Employee").

WHEREAS, Employee has been employed by Employer; and

WHEREAS, Employee's employment with Employer is terminated, effective [DATE].

WHEREAS, Employee and Employer wish to resolve amicably all outstanding issues between them.

THEREFORE, in consideration of the promises set forth below, and for other good and valuable consideration, the receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, the parties hereto agree as follows:

1. The unnumbered preceding paragraphs are incorporated herein by reference.

2. Employee's employment with Employer is terminated, effective [DATE].

   Employer shall pay employee for salary through the date of termination, accrued but unused vacation pay due, and any outstanding reimbursable expenses incurred through the date of termination.

3. SEVERANCE. Employer shall pay Employee [$_____] as severance pay (the "Severance Payments") in accordance with the following payment schedule: [RESERVED]. This amount will be paid net of withholding taxes and any amount owed to the Employer for vacation taken over the accrued amount.

   A. Employee acknowledges that he/she is not entitled to the Severance Payments but for his/her execution of this Agreement and Sections 4 through 6 in particular. Employee acknowledges that he/she is not entitled to any further compensation, except as otherwise set forth on Schedule 1, from Employer pursuant to this Agreement or his/her employment.

   B. If Employee breaches this Agreement prior to full payment of the Severance Payments, then, in addition to any other remedy at law or in equity which Employer may have, Employer shall not be obligated to pay an unpaid part of the Severance Payment.

4. RELEASE. Employee on behalf of Employee, his/her heirs, executors, successors and assigns, hereby releases, remises and discharges Employer and each and every one of its former or current directors, officers, employees, members, agents, successors, predecessors, subsidiaries, assigns and attorneys of and from all actions, causes of action, claims or complaints (collectively, "Claims") in law or equity which Employee or his/her heirs, executors, administrators, assigns, agents, representatives, attorneys, officers or employees ever had or now has by reason of any matter, cause or thing whatsoever at any time up to and including the date of execution of this Agreement, including but not limited to any Claim of discrimination, harassment, retaliation, breach of contract, wrongful termination, interference with contractual relations, intentional infliction of emotional distress, any alleged violation of any federal, state or local statutes, regulations or ordinances, including but not limited to the federal and state laws known as the Civil Rights Acts of 1964 and 1991, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Americans With Disabilities Act, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (other than any accrued benefit(s) to which Employee has a non-forfeitable right under any ERISA pension benefit plan), the retaliation provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Family and Medical Leave Act, the Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act, and any amendments to any of the foregoing, or any other Claims of any kind. Such release includes, but is not limited to, any claim Employee or his/her counsel may have, or had, for payment of attorney's fees, commissions or reimbursement of expenses. Furthermore, except as provided herein, Employee shall not pursue any such Claim in any court, agency, board, committee or forum whatsoever, and shall reimburse Employer for all fees and expenses associated with Employer's defense should Employee pursue such a Claim, unless that claim challenges the knowing and voluntary nature or the validity of this Separation Agreement and Release under the Older Worker Benefit Protection Act [this only needs to be included if the employee is 40 years old or older]. However, this does not preclude Employee from exercising his/her right, if any, to apply for unemployment benefits.

5. The content of this Agreement, the fact of the execution of this Agreement and the circumstances leading to the execution of the Agreement, are confidential and are not to be disclosed by any party except as necessary to a party's respective accountants, attorneys, income tax preparers or similar professionals, each of whom shall be bound by this confidentiality requirement. All documents, records, techniques, business secrets and other information which have come into Employee's possession from time to time during Employee's affiliation with the Employer and/or any of its subsidiaries or affiliates shall be deemed to be confidential and proprietary to the Employer and/or any of its subsidiaries or affiliates and shall be their sole and exclusive property. Employee agrees that Employee will keep confidential and not divulge to any other party any of the Employer's or its subsidiaries' or affiliates' confidential information and business secrets, including, but not limited to, such matters as investor information, proprietary investment strategies, portfolio information, key personnel, operational methods, plans for future developments, and other business affairs and methods and other information not readily available to the public, except as required by law. Additionally, Employee agrees that he/she shall promptly return to the Company any and all confidential and proprietary information that is currently in Employee's possession.

6. NONDISPARAGEMENT/NONDISRUPTION.

A. Employee and Employer shall reasonably cooperate with one another to effect a smooth transition of Employee's workload.

B. Employee shall not disparage Employer any partner or employee of Employer nor will Employer's officers and directors disparage Employee in any communication with any third party. Employer and Employee agree that this is a material term of this Agreement. This Section 6.B. does not restrict either party from responding fully and truthfully in the context of a legal or other government proceeding in which either is under oath or responding to subpoena or otherwise required by law to cooperate with a government entity.

C. Neither Employee nor Employer shall not take any action to disrupt the business operations of the other.

7. Employee understands and agrees that this Release Agreement shall not in any way be construed as an admission by Employer of any unlawful or wrongful acts whatsoever against employee or any other employee, and Employer specifically disclaims any liability to or wrongful acts against Employee or any other person.

8. Please Note—For the Agreement to validly release claims under the Age Discrimination and Employment Act for employees who are 40 years old or older, the Agreement must contain certain language.

(a) Please note—Language if employee is under 40 years old. The parties acknowledge that each has read carefully this entire Agreement, including but not limited to the release provision of Section 4. By executing this Agreement, Employee acknowledges that (a) Employee has been advised to consult with an attorney of his/her own choosing regarding the terms of this Agreement, (b) any and all questions regarding the terms of this Agreement have been asked and answered to his/her complete satisfaction, (c) Employee has read this Agreement and fully understands its terms and their importance, (d) except as provided in this Agreement, Employee has no other right or claim to any other payments or benefits, and that the consideration provided for herein is good and valuable and of a kind to which Employee was not otherwise entitled, and (e) Employee is entering into this Agreement voluntarily, of his/her own free will, and without any coercion, undue influence, threat or intimidation of any kind or type whatsoever.

(b) Please note—Language for a single termination if employee is 40 years old or older. Employee represents and agrees that he/she has had a reasonable time to review the Agreement and is voluntarily entering into this Agreement. Employee understands that he/she may revoke this Agreement within seven (7) days after execution. Employee's notice of revocation must be in writing and addressed and delivered to the attention of (insert name and address), on or before the end of the seven (7)-day period. This Agreement will not be effective or enforceable against the Employer until eight (8) days after the Employer has received employee's signed copy of this Agreement. That will be the "effective date" of this Agreement. If the Employee revokes this Agreement as described herein, the Agreement will not become effective, and Employee will not receive the payments set forth in this Agreement. By signing below, Employee further confirms that he: (a) has read this Agreement carefully and completely; (b) has been given a period of at least twenty-one (21) days to consider and review this Agreement; (c) has been advised to consult with legal counsel; and (d) understands all the provisions in this Agreement.

Employee understands that it is his/her choice whether or not to enter into this Separation Agreement and Release and that his/her decision to do so is voluntary and made knowingly in the absence of fraud, duress, or coercion.

(c) Please note—Language for multiple terminations if employees are 40 years old or older. Employee acknowledge that he/she has been advised in writing by Employer that he/she should consult with an attorney prior to executing this Agreement, and Employee further acknowledges that he/she has been given a period of forty-five (45) calendar days after his/her termination by Employer within which to review and consider the provisions of this Separation Agreement and Release.

Employee acknowledges that he/she has been given information regarding the ages and job titles of persons terminated and eligible for severance as a result of Employer's terminations, and of those persons who are not eligible.

Employee understands and acknowledges that he/she has seven (7) calendar days following the execution of the Separation Agreement and Release to revoke his/her acceptance of this Separation Agreement and Release and that this Agreement shall not become effective and the severance shall not become payable until this revocation period has expired. In order to revoke this Separation Agreement and Release, Employee acknowledges that he/she is required to deliver written notice clearly stating his/her intent to revoke this Separation Agreement and Release to (insert name and address). Employee agrees that his/her notice will not be considered effective unless (insert name), or a representative designated by employer receives it within seven (7) calendar days following Employee's execution of this Separation Agreement and Release.

Employee understands and acknowledges that it is his/her choice whether or not to enter into this Separation Agreement and Release that his/her decision to do so is voluntary and made knowingly in the absence of fraud, duress, or coercion.

9. This Agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of Texas.

10. If any portion of this Agreement is void or deemed unenforceable for any reason, the unenforceable portion shall be deemed severed from the remaining portions of this Agreement that shall otherwise remain in full force and effect.

11. This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement between the parties and supersedes any and all prior agreements or understandings relating thereto. This Agreement may be modified only in writing and signed by both parties.

Please read carefully as this document includes a release of claims.

As evidenced by my signature below, I hereby certify that I have read the above Separation Agreement and Release and agree to its terms.

Re: Field Examiners' Proposed Tax Adjustments – 2008 Tax Year
Highland Capital Management, L.P.

Dear Patrick,

As previously advised, a team of IRS field examiners ("Exam") conducted an audit of the 2008 partnership tax return filed on behalf of Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland"). Exam concluded their audit and have proposed an adjustment to the 2008 return.

We have enclosed with this letter the following items: (a) IRS Form 886-Z except -A, and (b) IRS Form 870-PT. At this time, no action on your part is required with respect to these documents unless you wish to agree to Exam's proposed adjustments – which we do not recommend.

Exam has scheduled a closing conference on March 2, 2018. You do not need to attend the closing conference. Please let us know by the close of business on February 15, 2018 if you wish to attend. Highland will handle the closing conference (unless waived) and appeal the proposed adjustment to the IRS Appeals Office after the conference.

Please contact me at 972-419-4438 if you have any questions.

Regards,

Brian Collins
Director of Human Resources
Highland Capital Management, L.P.

Offer of Agreement to Partnership Items and Partnership Level Determinations as to Penalties, Additions to Tax, and Additional Amounts & Waiver of Restrictions on Assessment for Partnership Items, Penalties, Additions to Tax, and Additional Amounts

Under the provisions of sections 6224(c) and 7121 of the Internal Revenue Code (IRC), the Commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service and the undersigned taxpayer(s) agree to the determination of partnership items and partnership level determinations as to penalties, additions to tax, and additional amounts that relate to adjustments to partnership items as shown on the attached Schedule of Adjustments.

The undersigned taxpayer(s), in accordance with IRC sections 6224(b) and 6213(d), also waive(s) the restrictions provided by IRC sections 6225(a) and 6213(a) and consent(s) to the assessment and collection of any deficiency attributable to partnership items, penalties, additions to tax, and additional amounts that relate to partnership items, as set forth in the attached Schedule of Adjustments (plus any interest provided by law). If this is a partial agreement, the period of limitations for assessing any tax attributable to the settled items shall be determined as if this agreement had not been entered into.

If this part of this agreement form is signed for the Commissioner, the treatment of partnership items and partnership level determinations as to penalties, additions to tax and additional amounts that relate to adjustments to partnership items under this agreement will not be reopened in the absence of fraud, malfeasance, or misrepresentation of fact. In addition, no claim for an adjustment of partnership items, refund or credit based on any change in the treatment of partnership items or partnership level determinations as to penalties, additions to tax, and additional amounts may be filed or prosecuted.

Once the taxpayer signs such a waiver and it is countersigned by the Commissioner, the taxpayer cannot file an Administrative Adjustment Request (AAR) on any partnership items for the related TEFRA entity. This includes partnership items not specifically addressed on the attached Schedule of Adjustments.

Pat,

As a limited partner in Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland") in 2008, you may have recently received a copy of the 60-Day Letter that was sent to the Tax Matters Partner (TMP) of Highland. The 60-Day Letter relates to the audit of Highland's 2008 partnership tax return and the proposed adjustment by the IRS.

As we indicated in our previous correspondence, Highland (through its TMP) will timely appeal the proposed adjustment. Thereafter, the matter will proceed to the IRS Appeals Office. At this time, you do not need to take any action.

We may reach a settlement regarding the 2008 adjustment in IRS Appeals. If so, you will have an opportunity to accept the settlement as to your pro rata share or individually dispute the IRS adjustment in judicial proceedings.

Dear Pat,

As previously advised, a team of Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") field examiners ("Exam") conducted an audit of the 2008 partnership tax return filed on behalf of Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland"). By letter dated December 8, 2017, Exam indicated that they had concluded their audit and provided a summary report proposing certain adjustments to the 2008 return.

After Exam issued its audit report and the closing conference, Highland formally disagreed with the adjustments proposed by Exam. Exam then transferred the matter to its TEFRA unit for formal processing of Highland's appeal. The matter recently was transferred to the IRS Office of Appeals. The Appeals Office is an independent division of the IRS that has the authority to resolve tax disputes such as this one, without litigation, in a fair and impartial manner to the taxpayer.

Highland will continue to defend against the proposed adjustments by Exam and prosecute the appeal of those adjustments in the Appeals Office. At this time, we have no further information regarding when the Appeals Office will review Highland's appeal or when a resolution may be made.

Section 6621.--Determination of Rate of Interest

Rev. Rul. 2020-28

Section 6621 of the Internal Revenue Code establishes the interest rates on overpayments and underpayments of tax. Under section 6621(a)(1), the overpayment rate is the sum of the federal short-term rate plus 3 percentage points (2 percentage points in the case of a corporation), except the rate for the portion of a corporate overpayment of tax exceeding $10,000 for a taxable period is the sum of the federal short-term rate plus 0.5 of a percentage point. Under section 6621(a)(2), the underpayment rate is the sum of the federal short-term rate plus 3 percentage points.

Section 6621(c) provides that for purposes of interest payable under section 6601 on any large corporate underpayment, the underpayment rate under section 6621(a)(2) is determined by substituting "5 percentage points" for "3 percentage points." See section 6621(c) and section 301.6621-3 of the Regulations on Procedure and Administration for the definition of a large corporate underpayment and for the rules for determining the applicable date. Section 6621(c) and section 301.6621-3 are generally effective for periods after December 31, 1990.

Section 6621(b)(1) provides that the Secretary will determine the federal short-term rate for the first month in each calendar quarter. Section 6621(b)(2)(A) provides that the federal short-term rate determined under section 6621(b)(1) for any month applies during the first calendar quarter beginning after that month. Section 6621(b)(3) provides that the federal short-term rate for any month is the federal short-term rate determined during that month by the Secretary in accordance with section 1274(d), rounded to the nearest full percent (or, if a multiple of 1/2 of 1 percent, the rate is increased to the next highest full percent).

Notice 88-59, 1988-1 C.B. 546, announced that in determining the quarterly interest rates to be used for overpayments and underpayments of tax under section 6621, the Internal Revenue Service will use the federal short-term rate based on daily compounding because that rate is most consistent with section 6621 which, pursuant to section 6622, is subject to daily compounding.

The federal short-term rate determined in accordance with section 1274(d) during October 2020 is the rate published in Revenue Ruling 2020-22, 2020-45 IRB 963, to take effect beginning November 1, 2020. The federal short-term rate, rounded to the nearest full percent, based on daily compounding determined during the month of October 2020 is 0 percent. Accordingly, an overpayment rate of 3 percent (2 percent in the case of a corporation) and an underpayment rate of 3 percent are established for the calendar quarter beginning January 1, 2021. The overpayment rate for the portion of a corporate overpayment exceeding $10,000 for the calendar quarter beginning January 1, 2021 is 0.5 percent. The underpayment rate for large corporate underpayments for the calendar quarter beginning January 1, 2021, is 5 percent. These rates apply to amounts bearing interest during that calendar quarter.

Sections 6654(a)(1) and 6655(a)(1) provide that the underpayment rate established under section 6621 applies in determining the addition to tax under sections 6654 and 6655 for failure to pay estimated tax for any taxable year. Thus, the 3 percent rate also applies to estimated tax underpayments for the first calendar quarter beginning January 1, 2021. Pursuant to section 6621(b)(2)(B), in determining the addition to tax under section 6654 for any taxable year for an individual, the federal short-term rate that applies during the third month following the taxable year also applies during the first 15 days of the fourth month following the taxable year. In addition, pursuant to section 6603(d)(4), the rate of interest on section 6603 deposits is 0 percent for the first calendar quarter in 2021.

Interest factors for daily compound interest for annual rates of 0.5 percent are published in Appendix A of this Revenue Ruling. Interest factors for daily compound interest for annual rates of 2 percent, 3 percent and 5 percent are published in Tables 9, 11, and 15 of Rev. Proc. 95-17, 1995-1 C.B. 563, 565, and 569.

Annual interest rates to be compounded daily pursuant to section 6622 that apply for prior periods are set forth in the tables accompanying this revenue ruling.

§6662. Imposition of accuracy-related penalty on underpayments

(a) Imposition of penalty

If this section applies to any portion of an underpayment of tax required to be shown on a return, there shall be added to the tax an amount equal to 20 percent of the portion of the underpayment to which this section applies.

(b) Portion of underpayment to which section applies

This section shall apply to the portion of any underpayment which is attributable to 1 or more of the following:
(1) Negligence or disregard of rules or regulations.
(2) Any substantial understatement of income tax.
(3) Any substantial valuation misstatement under chapter 1.
(4) Any substantial overstatement of pension liabilities.
(5) Any substantial estate or gift tax valuation understatement.
(6) Any disallowance of claimed tax benefits by reason of a transaction lacking economic substance (within the meaning of section 7701(o)) or failing to meet the requirements of any similar rule of law.
(7) Any undisclosed foreign financial asset understatement.
(8) Any inconsistent estate basis.
(9) Any overstatement of the deduction provided in section 170(p).
(10) Any disallowance of a deduction by reason of section 170(h)(7).

This section shall not apply to any portion of an underpayment on which a penalty is imposed under section 6663. Except as provided in paragraph (1) or (2)(B) of section 6662A(e), this section shall not apply to the portion of any underpayment which is attributable to a reportable transaction understatement on which a penalty is imposed under section 6662A.

(c) Negligence

For purposes of this section, the term "negligence" includes any failure to make a reasonable attempt to comply with the provisions of this title, and the term "disregard" includes any careless, reckless, or intentional disregard.

(d) Substantial understatement of income tax

(1) Substantial understatement

(A) In general

For purposes of this section, there is a substantial understatement of income tax for any taxable year if the amount of the understatement for the taxable year exceeds the greater of-
(i) 10 percent of the tax required to be shown on the return for the taxable year, or
(ii) $5,000.

(B) Special rule for corporations

In the case of a corporation other than an S corporation or a personal holding company (as defined in section 542), there is a substantial understatement of income tax for any taxable year if the amount of the understatement for the taxable year exceeds the lesser of-
(i) 10 percent of the tax required to be shown on the return for the taxable year (or, if greater, $10,000), or
(ii) $10,000,000.

(C) Special rule for taxpayers claiming section 199A deduction

In the case of any taxpayer who claims any deduction allowed under section 199A for the taxable year, subparagraph (A) shall be applied by substituting "5 percent" for "10 percent".

(2) Understatement

(A) In general

For purposes of paragraph (1), the term "understatement" means the excess of-

(i) the amount of the tax required to be shown on the return for the taxable year, over

(ii) the amount of the tax imposed which is shown on the return, reduced by any rebate (within the meaning of section 6211(b)(2)).

The excess under the preceding sentence shall be determined without regard to items to which section 6662A applies.

(B) Reduction for understatement due to position of taxpayer or disclosed item

The amount of the understatement under subparagraph (A) shall be reduced by that portion of the understatement which is attributable to-

(i) the tax treatment of any item by the taxpayer if there is or was substantial authority for such treatment, or

(ii) any item if-

(I) the relevant facts affecting the item's tax treatment are adequately disclosed in the return or in a statement attached to the return, and

(II) there is a reasonable basis for the tax treatment of such item by the taxpayer.

For purposes of clause (ii)(II), in no event shall a corporation be treated as having a reasonable basis for its tax treatment of an item attributable to a multiple-party financing transaction if such treatment does not clearly reflect the income of the corporation.

(C) Reduction not to apply to tax shelters

(i) In general

Subparagraph (B) shall not apply to any item attributable to a tax shelter.

(ii) Tax shelter

For purposes of clause (i), the term "tax shelter" means-

(I) a partnership or other entity,

(II) any investment plan or arrangement, or

(III) any other plan or arrangement, if a significant purpose of such partnership, entity, plan, or arrangement is the avoidance or evasion of Federal income tax.

(3) Secretarial list

The Secretary may prescribe a list of positions which the Secretary believes do not meet 1 or more of the standards specified in paragraph (2)(B)(i), section 6664(d)(3), and section 6694(a)(1). Such list (and any revisions thereof) shall be published in the Federal Register or the Internal Revenue Bulletin.

(e) Substantial valuation misstatement under chapter 1

(1) In general

For purposes of this section, there is a substantial valuation misstatement under chapter 1 if-

(A) the value of any property (or the adjusted basis of any property) claimed on any return of tax imposed by chapter 1 is 150 percent or more of the amount determined to be the correct amount of such valuation or adjusted basis (as the case may be), or

(B)(i) the price for any property or services (or for the use of property) claimed on any such return in connection with any transaction between persons described in section 482 is 200 percent or more (or 50 percent or less) of the amount determined under section 482 to be the correct amount of such price, or

(ii) the net section 482 transfer price adjustment for the taxable year exceeds the lesser of $5,000,000 or 10 percent of the taxpayer's gross receipts.

(2) Limitation

No penalty shall be imposed by reason of subsection (b)(3) unless the portion of the underpayment for the taxable year attributable to substantial valuation misstatements under chapter 1 exceeds $5,000 ($10,000 in the case of a corporation other than an S corporation or a personal holding company (as defined in section 542)).

(3) Net section 482 transfer price adjustment

For purposes of this subsection-

(A) In general

The term "net section 482 transfer price adjustment" means, with respect to any taxable year, the net increase in taxable income for the taxable year (determined without regard to any amount carried to such taxable year from another taxable year) resulting from adjustments under section 482 in the price for any property or services (or for the use of property).

(B) Certain adjustments excluded in determining threshold

For purposes of determining whether the threshold requirements of paragraph (1)(B)(ii) are met, the following shall be excluded:

(i) Any portion of the net increase in taxable income referred to in subparagraph (A) which is attributable to any redetermination of a price if-

(I) it is established that the taxpayer determined such price in accordance with a specific pricing method set forth in the regulations prescribed under section 482 and that the taxpayer's use of such method was reasonable,

(II) the taxpayer has documentation (which was in existence as of the time of filing the return) which sets forth the determination of such price in accordance with such a method and which establishes that the use of such method was reasonable, and

(III) the taxpayer provides such documentation to the Secretary within 30 days of a request for such documentation.

(ii) Any portion of the net increase in taxable income referred to in subparagraph (A) which is attributable to a redetermination of price where such price was not determined in accordance with such a specific pricing method if-

(I) the taxpayer establishes that none of such pricing methods was likely to result in a price that would clearly reflect income, the taxpayer used another pricing method to determine such price, and such other pricing method was likely to result in a price that would clearly reflect income,

(II) the taxpayer has documentation (which was in existence as of the time of filing the return) which sets forth the determination of such price in accordance with such other method and which establishes that the requirements of subclause (I) were satisfied, and

(III) the taxpayer provides such documentation to the Secretary within 30 days of request for such documentation.

(iii) Any portion of such net increase which is attributable to any transaction solely between foreign corporations unless, in the case of any such corporations, the treatment of such transaction affects the determination of income from sources within the United States or taxable income effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States.

(C) Special rule

If the regular tax (as defined in section 55(c)) imposed by chapter 1 on the taxpayer is determined by reference to an amount other than taxable income, such amount shall be treated as the taxable income of such taxpayer for purposes of this paragraph.

(D) Coordination with reasonable cause exception

For purposes of section 6664(c) the taxpayer shall not be treated as having reasonable cause for any portion of an underpayment attributable to a net section 482 transfer price adjustment unless such taxpayer meets the requirements of clause (i), (ii), or (iii) of subparagraph (B) with respect to such portion.

(f) Substantial overstatement of pension liabilities

(1) In general

For purposes of this section, there is a substantial overstatement of pension liabilities if the actuarial determination of the liabilities taken into account for purposes of computing the deduction under paragraph (1) or (2) of section 404(a) is 200 percent or more of the amount determined to be the correct amount of such liabilities.

(2) Limitation

No penalty shall be imposed by reason of subsection (b)(4) unless the portion of the underpayment for the taxable year attributable to substantial overstatements of pension liabilities exceeds $1,000.

(g) Substantial estate or gift tax valuation understatement

(1) In general

For purposes of this section, there is a substantial estate or gift tax valuation understatement if the value of any property claimed on any return of tax imposed by subtitle B is 65 percent or less of the amount determined to be the correct amount of such valuation.

(2) Limitation

No penalty shall be imposed by reason of subsection (b)(5) unless the portion of the underpayment attributable to substantial estate or gift tax valuation understatements for the taxable period (or, in the case of the tax imposed by chapter 11, with respect to the estate of the decedent) exceeds $5,000.

(h) Increase in penalty in case of gross valuation misstatements

(1) In general

To the extent that a portion of the underpayment to which this section applies is attributable to one or more gross valuation misstatements, subsection (a) shall be applied with respect to such portion by substituting "40 percent" for "20 percent".

(2) Gross valuation misstatements

The term "gross valuation misstatements" means-

(A) any substantial valuation misstatement under chapter 1 as determined under subsection (e) by substituting-

(i) in paragraph (1)(A), "200 percent" for "150 percent",

(ii) in paragraph (1)(B)(i)-

(I) "400 percent" for "200 percent", and

(II) "25 percent" for "50 percent", and

(iii) in paragraph (1)(B)(ii)-

(I) "$20,000,000" for "$5,000,000", and

(II) "20 percent" for "10 percent".

(B) any substantial overstatement of pension liabilities as determined under subsection (f) by substituting "400 percent" for "200 percent",

(C) any substantial estate or gift tax valuation understatement as determined under subsection (g) by substituting "40 percent" for "65 percent", and

(D) any disallowance of a deduction described in subsection (b)(10).

(i) Increase in penalty in case of nondisclosed noneconomic substance transactions

(1) In general

In the case of any portion of an underpayment which is attributable to one or more nondisclosed noneconomic substance transactions, subsection (a) shall be applied with respect to such portion by substituting "40 percent" for "20 percent".

(2) Nondisclosed noneconomic substance transactions

For purposes of this subsection, the term "nondisclosed noneconomic substance transaction" means any portion of a transaction described in subsection (b)(6) with respect to which the relevant facts affecting the tax treatment are not adequately disclosed in the return nor in a statement attached to the return.

(3) Special rule for amended returns

In no event shall any amendment or supplement to a return of tax be taken into account for purposes of this subsection if the amendment or supplement is filed after the earlier of the date the taxpayer is first contacted by the Secretary regarding the examination of the return or such other date as is specified by the Secretary.

(j) Undisclosed foreign financial asset understatement

(1) In general

For purposes of this section, the term "undisclosed foreign financial asset understatement" means, for any taxable year, the portion of the understatement for such taxable year which is attributable to any transaction involving an undisclosed foreign financial asset.

(2) Undisclosed foreign financial asset

For purposes of this subsection, the term "undisclosed foreign financial asset" means, with respect to any taxable year, any asset with respect to which information was required to be provided under section 6038, 6038B, 6038D, 6046A, or 6048 for such taxable year but was not provided by the taxpayer as required under the provisions of those sections.

(3) Increase in penalty for undisclosed foreign financial asset understatements

In the case of any portion of an underpayment which is attributable to any undisclosed foreign financial asset understatement, subsection (a) shall be applied with respect to such portion by substituting "40 percent" for "20 percent".

(k) Inconsistent estate basis reporting

For purposes of this section, the term "inconsistent estate basis" means any portion of an underpayment attributable to the failure to comply with section 1014(f).

(l) Increase in penalty in case of overstatement of qualified charitable contributions

In the case of any portion of an underpayment which is attributable to one or more overstatements of the deduction provided in section 170(p), subsection (a) shall be applied with respect to such portion by substituting "50 percent" for "20 percent".

(m) Substantial understatement of income tax due to disallowance of applicable energy credits

(1) In general

In the case of a taxpayer for which there is a disallowance of an applicable energy credit for any taxable year, for purposes of determining whether there is a substantial understatement of income tax for such taxable year, subsection (d)(1) shall be applied-

(A) in subparagraphs (A) and (B), by substituting "1 percent" for "10 percent" each place it appears, and

(B) without regard to subparagraph (C).

(a) General rule

If any amount of tax imposed by this title (whether required to be shown on a return, or to be paid by stamp or by some other method) is not paid on or before the last date prescribed for payment, interest on such amount at the underpayment rate established under section 6621 shall be paid for the period from such last date to the date paid.

(b) Last date prescribed for payment

For purposes of this section, the last date prescribed for payment of the tax shall be determined under chapter 62 with the application of the following rules:

The last date prescribed for payment shall be determined without regard to any extension of time for payment or any installment agreement entered into under section 6159.

In the case of the tax imposed by section 531 for any taxable year, the last date prescribed for payment shall be deemed to be the due date (without regard to extensions) for the return of tax imposed by subtitle A for such taxable year.

(4) Last date for payment not otherwise prescribed

In the case of taxes payable by stamp and in all other cases in which the last date for payment is not otherwise prescribed, the last date for payment shall be deemed to be the date the liability for tax arises (and in no event shall be later than the date notice and demand for the tax is made by the Secretary).

(c) Suspension of interest in certain income, estate, gift, and certain excise tax cases

In the case of a deficiency as defined in section 6211 (relating to income, estate, gift, and certain excise taxes), if a waiver of restrictions under section 6213(d) on the assessment of such deficiency has been filed, and if notice and demand by the Secretary for payment of such deficiency is not made within 30 days after the filing of such waiver, interest shall not be imposed on such deficiency for the period beginning immediately after such 30th day and ending with the date of notice and demand and interest shall not be imposed during such period on any interest with respect to such deficiency for any prior period.

(2) Foreign tax credit carrybacks

If any credit allowed for any taxable year is increased by reason of a carryback of tax paid or accrued to foreign countries or possessions of the United States, such increase shall not affect the computation of interest under this section for the period ending with the filing date for the taxable year in which such taxes were in fact paid or accrued, or, with respect to any portion of such credit carryback from a taxable year attributable to a net operating loss carryback or a capital loss carryback from a subsequent taxable year, such increase shall not affect the computation of interest under this section for the period ending with the filing date for such subsequent taxable year.

(3) Certain credit carrybacks

(A) In general

If any credit allowed for any taxable year is increased by reason of a credit carryback, such increase shall not affect the computation of interest under this section for the period ending with the filing date for the taxable year in which the credit carryback arises, or, with respect to any portion of a credit carryback from a taxable year attributable to a net operating loss carryback, capital loss carryback, or other credit carryback from a subsequent taxable year, such increase shall not affect the computation of interest under this section for the period ending with the filing date for such subsequent taxable year.

(B) Credit carryback defined

For purposes of this paragraph, the term "credit carryback" has the meaning given such term by section 6511(d)(4)(C).

(4) Filing date

For purposes of this subsection, the term "filing date" has the meaning given to such term by section 6611(f)(4)(A).

(e) Applicable rules

Except as otherwise provided in this title-

(1) Interest treated as tax

Interest prescribed under this section on any tax shall be paid upon notice and demand, and shall be assessed, collected, and paid in the same manner as taxes. Any reference to this title (except subchapter B of chapter 63, relating to deficiency procedures) to any tax imposed by this title shall be deemed also to refer to interest imposed by this section on such tax.

(2) Interest on penalties, additional amounts, or additions to the tax

(A) In general

Interest shall be imposed under subsection (a) in respect of any assessable penalty, additional amount, or addition to the tax (other than an addition to tax imposed under section 6651(a)(1) or 6653 or under part II of subchapter A of chapter 68) only if such assessable penalty, additional amount, or addition to the tax is not paid within 21 calendar days from the date of notice and demand therefor (10 business days if the amount for which such notice and demand is made equals or exceeds $100,000), and in such case interest shall be imposed only for the period from the date of the notice and demand to the date of payment.

(B) Interest on certain additions to tax

Interest shall be imposed under this section with respect to any addition to tax imposed by section 6651(a)(1) or 6653 or under part II of subchapter A of chapter 68 for the period which-

(i) begins on the date on which the return of the tax with respect to which such addition to tax is imposed is required to be filed (including any extensions), and

(ii) ends on the date of payment of such addition to tax.

(3) Payments made within specified period after notice and demand

If notice and demand is made for payment of any amount and if such amount is paid within 21 calendar days (10 business days if the amount for which such notice and demand is made equals or exceeds $100,000) after the date of such notice and demand, interest under this section on the amount so paid shall not be imposed for the period after the date of such notice and demand.

(f) Satisfaction by credits

If any portion of a tax is satisfied by credit of an overpayment, then no interest shall be imposed under this section on the portion of the tax so satisfied for any period during which, if the credit had not been made, interest would have been allowable with respect to such overpayment. The preceding sentence shall not apply to the extent that section 6621(d) applies.

(g) Limitation on assessment and collection

Interest prescribed under this section on any tax may be assessed and collected at any time during the period within which the tax to which such interest relates may be collected.

(h) Exception as to estimated tax

This section shall not apply to any failure to pay any estimated tax required to be paid by section 6654 or 6655.

(i) Exception as to Federal unemployment tax

This section shall not apply to any failure to make a payment of tax imposed by section 3301 for a calendar quarter or other period within a taxable year required under authority of section 6157.

(j) 2-percent rate on certain portion of estate tax extended under section 6166

(1) In general

If the time for payment of an amount of tax imposed by chapter 11 is extended as provided in section 6166, then in lieu of the annual rate provided by subsection (a)-

(A) interest on the 2-percent portion of such amount shall be paid at the rate of 2 percent, and

(B) interest on so much of such amount as exceeds the 2-percent portion shall be paid at a rate equal to 45 percent of the annual rate provided by subsection (a).

For purposes of this subsection, the amount of any deficiency which is prorated to installments payable under section 6166 shall be treated as an amount of tax payable in installments under such section.

(2) 2-percent portion

For purposes of this subsection, the term "2-percent portion" means the lesser of-

(A)(i) the amount of the tentative tax which would be determined under the rate schedule set forth in section 2001(c) if the amount with respect to which such tentative tax is to be computed were the sum of $1,000,000 and the applicable exclusion amount in effect under section 2010(c), reduced by

(ii) the applicable credit amount in effect under section 2010(c), or

(B) the amount of the tax imposed by chapter 11 which is extended as provided in section 6166.

(3) Inflation adjustment

In the case of estates of decedents dying in a calendar year after 1998, the $1,000,000 amount contained in paragraph (2)(A) shall be increased by an amount equal to-

(A) $1,000,000, multiplied by

(B) the cost-of-living adjustment determined under section 1(f)(3) for such calendar year by substituting "calendar year 1997" for "calendar year 2016" in subparagraph (A)(ii) thereof.

If any amount as adjusted under the preceding sentence is not a multiple of $10,000, such amount shall be rounded to the next lowest multiple of $10,000.

(4) Treatment of payments

If the amount of tax imposed by chapter 11 which is extended as provided in section 6166 exceeds the 2-percent portion, any payment of a portion of such amount shall, for purposes of computing interest for periods after such payment, be treated as reducing the 2-percent portion by an amount which bears the same ratio to the amount of such payment as the amount of the 2-percent portion (determined without regard to this paragraph) bears to the amount of the tax which is extended as provided in section 6166.

(k) No interest on certain adjustments

For provisions prohibiting interest on certain adjustments in tax, see section 6205(a).

In case of failure-

(2) to pay the amount shown as tax on any return specified in paragraph (1) on or before the date prescribed for payment of such tax (determined with regard to any extension of time for payment), unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, there shall be added to the amount shown as tax on such return 0.5 percent of the amount of such tax if the failure is for not more than 1 month, with an additional 0.5 percent for each additional month or fraction thereof during which such failure continues, not exceeding 25 percent in the aggregate; or

(3) to pay any amount in respect of any tax required to be shown on a return specified in paragraph (1) which is not so shown (including an assessment made pursuant to section 6213(b)) within 21 calendar days from the date of notice and demand therefor (10 business days if the amount for which such notice and demand is made equals or exceeds $100,000), unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, there shall be added to the amount of tax stated in such notice and demand 0.5 percent of the amount of such tax if the failure is for not more than 1 month, with an additional 0.5 percent for each additional month or fraction thereof during which such failure continues, not exceeding 25 percent in the aggregate.

In the case of a failure to file a return of tax imposed by chapter 1 within 60 days of the date prescribed for filing of such return (determined with regard to any extensions of time for filing), unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, the addition to tax under paragraph (1) shall not be less than the lesser of $435 or 100 percent of the amount required to be shown as tax on such return.

(b) Penalty imposed on net amount due

For purposes of-

(1) subsection (a)(1), the amount of tax required to be shown on the return shall be reduced by the amount of any part of the tax which is paid on or before the date prescribed for payment of the tax and by the amount of any credit against the tax which may be claimed on the return,

(2) subsection (a)(2), the amount of tax shown on the return shall, for purposes of computing the addition for any month, be reduced by the amount of any part of the tax which is paid on or before the beginning of such month and by the amount of any credit against the tax which may be claimed on the return, and

(3) subsection (a)(3), the amount of tax stated in the notice and demand shall, for the purpose of computing the addition for any month, be reduced by the amount of any part of the tax which is paid before the beginning of such month.

(c) Limitations and special rule

(1) Additions under more than one paragraph

With respect to any return, the amount of the addition under paragraph (1) of subsection (a) shall be reduced by the amount of the addition under paragraph (2) of subsection (a) for any month (or fraction thereof) to which an addition to tax applies under both paragraphs (1) and (2). If any case described in the last sentence of subsection (a), the amount of the addition under paragraph (1) of subsection (a) shall not be reduced under the preceding sentence below the amount provided in such last sentence.

(2) Amount of tax shown more than amount required to be shown

If the amount required to be shown as tax on a return is less than the amount shown as tax on such return, subsections (a)(2) and (b)(2) shall be applied by substituting such lower amount.

(d) Increase in penalty for failure to pay tax in certain cases

(1) In general

In the case of each month (or fraction thereof) beginning after the day described in paragraph (2) of this subsection, paragraphs (2) and (3) of subsection (a) shall be applied by substituting "1 percent" for "0.5 percent" each place it appears.

In the case of any return made by the Secretary under section 6020(b)-

(1) such return shall be disregarded for purposes of determining the amount of the addition under paragraph (1) of subsection (a), but

(2) such return shall be treated as the return filed by the taxpayer for purposes of determining the amount of the addition under paragraphs (2) and (3) of subsection (a).

(h) Limitation on penalty on individual's failure to pay for months during period of installment agreement

In the case of an individual who files a return of tax on or before the due date for the return (including extensions), paragraphs (2) and (3) of subsection (a) shall each be applied by substituting "0.25" for "0.5" each place it appears for purposes of determining the addition to tax for any month during which an installment agreement under section 6159 is in effect for the payment of such tax.

(i) Application to imputed underpayment

For purposes of this section, any failure to comply with section 6226(b)(4)(A)(ii) shall be treated as a failure to pay the amount described in subclause (II) thereof and such amount shall be treated for purposes of this section as an amount shown as tax on a return specified in subsection (a)(1).

(j) Adjustment for inflation

(1) In general

In the case of any return required to be filed in a calendar year beginning after 2020, the $435 dollar amount under subsection (a) shall be increased by an amount equal to such dollar amount multiplied by the cost-of-living adjustment determined under section 1(f)(3) for the calendar year determined by substituting "calendar year 2019" for "calendar year 2016" in subparagraph (A)(ii) thereof.

Its not a retrade, we were clarifying a general understanding. You will trust or you will leave; you will get no agreement in writing. You will stop pushing and wasting my time. You will contribute and be rewarded and when u feel unfairly treated you can go elsewhere but I won't deal with this much distraction, disrespect or disruption.

You are the one who told me to "f@ck myself", not the other way around. For the record, the agreement always expressly noted that I would have to be employed at Highland in order to get any payment of bonus (as has always been the case). As for Tunstall, we had already negotiated that agreement which clearly states the nature of my interest and your interest. The nature of the Restoration economic interest will be as agreed subject to investor approval as they are going to have their own views of how my, yours and the teams comp should be structured. I have never tried to skim you and I am not trying to now. That said, it is reasonable to get the nature of my compensation in writing so that everyone is clear. Every other Company in the universe commits their economic relationships with their managers to writing so that there can be no confusion down the road. To insist that I do otherwise is flat out wrong and you know it.

If you don't want me to give a damn about you personally then I guess I'll do my best to comply. That said, I have been by your side thru a whole lot of sh@t and it is so refreshing to get your boot up my a$$ now that you are back on your feet. I'm glad to see you are back to the point where you can tell those closest to you to "f@ck themselves".

I won't take you speaking with me like that. "Big brother u never wanted" doesn't allow u to be that disrespectful. I'm not willing to make that indicative letter a contract. There are things that need to be corrected such as bonus amounts of 750k feb aug need to both be described as retention, in-good-standing to receive. 25% interest in funstall and RCP need to be described as LP interests not a fee skim. Re REIT you will be treated fairly re a transaction that may or may not happen and if the anticipated deal occurs as expected you can expect approx 15% but its too lose to define and you will have to trust me. You have been treated more than fair in a value proposition that is always shift. If you believe I have been untrustworthy you should move on.
Re my personal life, its not relevant except to say I will tolerate the individual, passions and peculiarities, to a point. Beyond that point it becomes too unpleasant and I'd rather start over alone. You need to stop pushing me.

Tax Discussion

March 6, 2009

Objectives

- Provide overview of tax refund estimate calculation
- Describe the next steps that must be taken by Highland and you to obtain the tax refund
- Answer your questions – please hold questions until the end of presentation to ensure we are able to cover all the intended material

Tax Refund Estimate

1. Estimate 2008 loss for Partnership:
- Estimate based on proposed tax strategies

2. Loss Allocation to Partners per Partnership Agreement:
- Allocated portion of 2008 estimated loss to each partner based on terms in Partnership Agreement
  - Based on K-1 income from 2007 and followed by earlier years until loss is completely allocated

3. Estimate of 2008 HCMLP Loss Permitted by IRS:
- Will not exceed loss allocation per partnership agreement
- Will likely be further limited to "At-Risk Basis" – excess loss remainder will be suspended, but can be used towards future partnership income (no time limit)
- Using appropriate basis offset 2008 income first. Excess may create an Net Operating Loss (NOL) that can be then be carried back to 2006 and 2007. Any unused NOL can be carried forward 20 years.

4. Refund Calculation
- 27% effective tax rate utilized on the estimated loss to determine tax refund estimate

- How is partner capital calculated?
  - Book basis vs. Tax Basis vs. GAAP Basis
- Can the loss exceed my tax basis in the Firm?
  - Possibly– if you personally guarantee debt of the firm you can claim additional losses up to the amount of debt allocated to you
  - The debt is nonrecourse to you if you do not personally guarantee it
- Why was 27% used as the effective tax rate?
- Factors affecting refund estimate
  - Personal circumstances (itemized deductions, AMT situation, character of HCMLP income)
  - Willingness to personally guarantee firm debt
- Factors affecting timing of refund
  - It is likely the refund related to 2008 income should be received within 6-10 weeks of filing
  - IRS is required to act on the 2006 and 2007 refund claims within 90 days

- Can the IRS claw back the refund?
  - Yes, if the return if audited and the outcome is negative
  - Timing?

Next Steps

- Highland will provide by March 31, 2009:
  - Your share of the estimated 2008 Profit & Loss
  - Tax capital amount according to HCM records
  - Estimated debt allocation
  - Examples of filing disclosures that Jim and Mark will utilize
- Potential actions by you to facilitate the refund:
  - Request extension for 2008 return now
  - Prepare 2008 return – file early and then later correct with final numbers (prior to September 15)
  - Claim 2008 tax year loss followed by 2006 and 2007 as eligible
- Call with Deloitte tax professionals late next week to answer your questions and share information

Dear Pat:

This letter confirms our discussions with you concerning your resignation from your employment with Highland Capital Management, L.P. After the termination of your health insurance benefits on that date, you are entitled at your option to continue your group health insurance coverage in accordance with the health insurance plan and applicable law. Please complete a COBRA election form, which will be furnished to you, and return it to Discovery Benefits at your earliest convenience, in accordance with the terms of the election form, if you elect to continue such insurance coverage.

You acknowledge that your eligibility for any other employee benefit programs maintained by Highland Capital for current employees will cease as of the Separation Date, except as provided in Section 3 below.

You also acknowledge and agree that your acceptance of the Special Separation Compensation and attendant obligations as described in this Agreement is in consideration of your promises and undertakings as set forth in this Agreement.

If any provision of this Agreement (or of any award of compensation) would cause you or Highland Capital to incur any additional tax or interest under Section 409A of the Internal Revenue Code or any regulations or Treasury guidance promulgated thereunder, Highland Capital may reform such provision; provided that it will (i) maintain, to the maximum extent practicable, the original intent of the applicable provision without violating the provisions of Section 409A of the Code and (ii) notify and consult with you regarding such amendments or modifications prior to the effective date of any such change.

Thus, you agree to waive to the maximum extent permitted by law any claims, liabilities, demands, or causes of action, known or unknown, fixed or contingent, that you may have or claim against Highland Capital or any of the other Released Parties growing out of, resulting from, or connected in any way with your employment, the Employment Agreement and/or the termination from your employment with Highland Capital, and you do hereby agree not to file any lawsuit or other cause of action to assert any such claim.

"Confidential Information" includes any and all confidential or proprietary information or trade secrets of Highland Capital or any of the other Released Parties that was obtained or developed by you since the commencement of your employment with Highland Capital. You further acknowledge and agree that such Confidential Information was communicated to you when you knew of its confidential nature, and that such information constitutes valuable, special and unique assets, trade secrets, properties, rights and interests of Highland Capital and the other Released Parties, the disclosure of which could cause substantial injury and loss of profits and good will to Highland Capital, and the other Released Parties.

You acknowledge and agree that you will maintain the confidentiality of, and will not use or disclose, either directly or indirectly, any or all Confidential Information of Highland Capital or any of the other Released Parties, irrespective of whether such information is written, oral, or computerized. If you breach any obligation under this Section, you acknowledge and agree that Highland Capital and the other Released Parties have no complete and adequate remedy at law and would suffer irreparable harm and substantial loss, and that monetary damages cannot fully compensate Highland Capital or the other Released Parties in such event; and as a result of which you admit that a temporary injunction, without bond, should be entered for Highland Capital or any of the other Released Parties in any such event, restraining you from using or disclosing, in whole or in part, any Confidential Information of Highland Capital or any of the other Released Parties. You further acknowledge and agree that nothing herein will be construed to prohibit Highland Capital or any of the other Released Parties from pursuing other remedies available to them, by law and equity, for breach of any obligation of this Section, and should you breach any obligation under this Section, Highland Capital and any of the other Released Parties will also be entitled to enforce the provisions of this Section by seeking to recover any monetary damages Highland Capital and any of the other Released Parties may sustain as a result of such breach, including but not limited to their attorney's fees and costs of court incurred to enforce the provisions of this Section, and will have no obligation to pay you the unpaid portion of the Special Separation Compensation described above. You further acknowledge and agree that this Agreement will bar you from receiving any compensation or personal relief in any such event.

(d) You will not make to any other persons or entities any statement, oral or written, which directly or indirectly impugns the quality or integrity of Highland Capital's or any of the other Released Parties' business or employment practices, or any other disparaging or derogatory remarks about Highland Capital or any of the other Released Parties.

(c) Highland Capital and the Released Parties will not make to any other persons or entities any statement, oral or written, which directly or indirectly impugns the quality or integrity of your character, any service or activity you provided relating to your employment or resignation of your employment, or any other disparaging or derogatory remarks about you. Furthermore, neither Highland Capital nor the Released Parties will make any statement, remark, or publication of any fact or opinion that could affect a third party from engaging in or refraining from a business relationship of any kind with you. Additionally, neither Highland Capital nor the Released Parties may not cause intentionally or unintentionally through a statement or omission of fact or speculation that would likely result in third party to terminate an existing business relationship of any kind with you.

If you appear as a witness or provide information in any pending or future litigation, claims, investigations, examinations, or audits at the request of Highland Capital or any of the other Released Parties, Highland Capital agrees to reimburse you at the agreed hourly rate of $400 for your time devoted to such activities, upon presentation of substantiating documentation and for any reasonable out of pocket expenses incurred by you in cooperating pursuant to this Section 10. While performing services pursuant to this Agreement, and thereafter, you acknowledge and agree that your relationship to Highland Capital will be that of an independent contractor, that Highland Capital will not exercise any control or direction over the methods by which you perform services pursuant to this Agreement, and that you will not be nor will you represent to anyone that you are an agent or active employee of Highland Capital. Consequently, you will have no authority to enter into contracts, commitments, or obligations of any kind, or to make any representations, on behalf of Highland Capital, unless expressly authorized to do so in writing by an authorized representative of Highland Capital. Nor will you have or exercise the authority to supervise or direct the activities of any Highland Capital employee. You further agree to hold harmless and indemnify Highland Capital for any claim, expense, loss, or damage, including without limitation its costs and attorney's fees, occasioned by your breach of this obligation. You further acknowledge and agree that, during such period when you are providing consulting services to Highland Capital and thereafter, you will not be eligible to participate in any of the rights and benefits afforded to employees of Highland Capital. Highland Capital and the Released Parties agree to hold harmless and indemnify you for any claim, expense, loss or damage, including without limitation your costs and attorney's fees, arising out of or in connection with any such cooperation you undertake pursuant to this Section 10. Notwithstanding the foregoing, this Section 10 will be inapplicable to your consultation to or cooperation with Cornerstone or its subsidiaries, which will be governed exclusively by the Cornerstone Agreement.

11. Restrictive Covenants: Non-Solicitation, Non-Recruitment, and Non-Competition. In consideration of the Special Separation Compensation provided to you by Highland Capital and all promised contained herein, you hereby reaffirm the obligations set forth in Section 5.3 of your Employment Agreement.

You agree that you will forfeit the Special Separation Compensation paid to you by Highland Capital if the obligations in set forth in Section 5.3 of your Employment Agreement are not fulfilled.

12. Personnel Records. You acknowledge and agree that your personnel records will reflect that you are not eligible for rehire with Highland Capital or any of the other Released Parties.

13. Agreement Not to Seek Reemployment. Further in consideration of the Special Separation Compensation and all promised contained herein, you understand and agree that Highland Capital and the other Released Parties have no obligation to employ or to hire or rehire you, to consider you for hire, or to deal with you in any respect at any location, office, or place of business with regard to future employment or potential employment. Accordingly, in consideration of the Special Separation Compensation and all promised contained herein, you hereby agree: (i) that you will not apply for or otherwise seek employment by Highland Capital or any of the other Released Parties at any time in the future, at any location, office, or place of business, and (ii) that your forbearance to seek future employment as just stated is purely contractual and is in no way involuntary, discriminatory, or retaliatory.

14. Non-admission of Liability or Wrongdoing; Non-admissibility. You acknowledge and agree that this Agreement does not in any manner constitute an admission of liability or wrongdoing on the part of Highland Capital or any of the other Released Parties, or on your part. In fact, Highland Capital and the other Released Parties and you expressly deny any such liability or wrongdoing. Further, neither this Agreement nor any part of it may be construed, used, or admitted into evidence in any judicial, administrative, or arbitral proceedings, except to the extent necessary to enforce this Agreement.

15. Authority to Execute. You represent and warrant that you have the authority to execute this Agreement on behalf of all the Releasing Parties, and that you have not assigned, sold, transferred or otherwise granted to any person any right related to your employment by, or your resignation from your employment with, Highland Capital, including any claims or demands in respect thereof. You further agree to indemnify fully and hold harmless Highland Capital and any of the other Released Parties from any and all claims brought by the Releasing

Parties or derivative of your own, including the amount of any such claims Highland Capital or any of the other Released Parties are compelled to pay, and the costs and attorneys' fees incurred in defending against all such claims.

16. Governing Law and Interpretation. This Agreement and the rights and duties of the parties under it will be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of Texas. If any provision of this Agreement is held to be unenforceable, such provision will be considered separate, distinct, and severable from the other remaining provisions of this Agreement, and will not affect the validity or enforceability of such other remaining provisions, and that, in all other respects, this Agreement will remain in full force and effect. If any provision of this Agreement is held to be unenforceable as written but may be made to be enforceable by limitation thereof, then such provision will be enforceable to the maximum extent permitted by applicable law. The language of all parts of this Agreement will in all cases be construed as a whole, according to its fair meaning, and not strictly for or against any of the parties. Any dispute regarding the subject matter, terms, or performance of this Agreement will be brought only in a court of competent jurisdiction in Dallas County, Texas. Highland Capital and you expressly agree that proper jurisdiction and venue for any such disputes must be in Dallas County, Texas only.

17. Breach of Agreement. If you violate or fail to comply with any of your obligations as set forth in this Agreement, including but not limited to Section 11. Restrictive Covenants: Non-Solicitation, Non-Recruitment, and Non-Competition, Highland Capital will have no obligation to make payment of any unpaid Special Separation Compensation, however all other provisions of this Agreement will remain in full force and effect.

If, notwithstanding your release of claims as described in Section 4 above, you (or any other party asserting any claim derivative of your own) should nonetheless proceed to make any such claims against Highland Capital or any of the other Released Parties by bringing an action in a federal, state, or municipal court, or before any administrative or arbitral body that has the power to make a monetary or equitable award, then in addition to any other legal or equitable remedies available to Highland Capital for your breach of this Agreement, Highland Capital may seek, and the court or other body hearing the claims may hold you liable for, Highland Capital's damages and costs, including attorneys' fees, incurred in defending against your claims.

Both Highland Capital and you agree that any controversy or claim arising out of or relating to this Agreement will first be submitted to non-binding mediation prior to the commencement of litigation proceedings, with mediation expenses to be borne equally by the parties. Only in the event the parties are unable to resolve their differences through mediation may either party initiate litigation proceedings to enforce this Agreement.

You agree and acknowledge that Highland Capital and/or the other Released Parties would suffer irreparable harm, incur substantial damage and would not have an adequate remedy at law for money damages if you were to breach this Agreement. Accordingly, you acknowledge that, without the necessity of proving actual damages or posting bond or other security, Highland Capital and/or the other Released Parties are entitled to temporary or permanent injunction or injunctions to prevent breaches of performance and to specific enforcement of applicable covenants in addition to any other remedy to which Highland Capital and/or the other Released Parties may be entitled, at law or in equity. In such a situation, Highland Capital and/or the other Released Parties may pursue any remedy available, including declaratory relief, concurrently or consecutively in any order as to any breach, violation, or threatened breach or violation of any of the provisions set forth in this Agreement, and the pursuit of any particular remedy is not to be deemed an election of remedies or waiver of the right to pursue any other remedy.

18. Expiration of Offer. Highland Capital's offer of the Special Separation Compensation will expire at 5:00 p.m. twenty-one (21) days following the date of this Agreement (the "Expiration Date"). You may accept the terms and condition contained in this Agreement at any time before the Expiration Date by signing in the space provided below, and delivering this Agreement to Human Resources Director, Highland Capital Management, L.P., 13455 Noel Road, Suite 800, Dallas, Texas 75240. Whether or not you execute this Agreement, you are required to fulfill the obligations set forth in Sections 6 and 7 of this Agreement.

19. Effective Date. This Agreement will become effective and enforceable upon the expiration of seven (7) days after your and the Company's execution of it and delivery of a signed copy to the Human Resources Department, Highland Capital Management, L.P., 13455 Noel Road, Suite 800, Dallas, Texas 75240 ("Effective Date").

20. Assignment of Work Product/Works for Hire. You further acknowledge and agree that any work product prepared, conceived or developed by you during the term of your employment with Highland Capital, including but not limited to all written documents and electronic data pertaining thereto, are and shall remain the exclusive property of Highland Capital, and will be considered Confidential Information subject to the terms of this Agreement. You agree that when appropriate, and upon written request of Highland Capital, you will acknowledge that your work product constitute "works for hire" and will cooperate in the filing for patents or copyrights with regard to any or all such work product and will sign documentation necessary to evidence ownership of such work product in Highland Capital.

21. Consultation with an Attorney. You acknowledge that you have the right and are encouraged to consult with an attorney of your choosing before executing this Agreement.

22. Assignment of Claims. Further in consideration of the promises and undertakings of Highland Capital memorialized in this Agreement, you represent and warrant to Highland Capital that you have not assigned any part of your claims or causes of action, whether vicarious, derivative, or direct, to anyone, and that no persons are or may be entitled to any portion of the proceeds paid in settlement of your claims or causes of action, if any, either by subrogation or otherwise, except as may be set forth in this Agreement. You further agree to indemnify fully and hold Highland Capital and any of the other Released Parties harmless from any and all claims derivative of your own, including the amount of any such claim Highland Capital or any of the other Released Parties are compelled to pay, and the costs, including attorney's fees, incurred by them in defending against all such claims.

23. Knowing and Voluntary Agreement. You acknowledge that this Agreement has been read and explained to you by your attorney if you choose to retain counsel, or that you have had the opportunity to engage an attorney for such purpose; and that you have had a reasonable period of time in which to deliberate regarding its terms and to consider whether you wish to enter into this Agreement, that you fully understand the meaning and effect of your action in executing it; and that your execution of this Agreement is knowing and voluntary. You further acknowledge that neither Highland Capital nor any of the other Released Parties has made any promise or representation to you that is not expressed in this Agreement, and that in entering this Agreement, you are not relying on any statement or representation by Highland Capital or any of the other Released Parties, but are instead relying solely on your own judgment in consultation with your attorneys, if you choose to retain counsel.

24. Status of Released Parties as Third-Party Beneficiaries. Highland Capital and you further acknowledge and agree that all the other Released Parties and third-party beneficiaries of this Agreement, and, in that capacity, are entitled to assert their own claims against you or Highland Capital (as the case may be) in the event of your or Highland Capital's breach of this Agreement that adversely affects their interests. Further, this Agreement will be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties hereto and their respective heirs, executors, administrators, legal representatives, successors, and assigns.

25. Arbitration. In the event there is an unresolved legal dispute between the parties and/or any of their respective officers, directors, partners, employees, agents, affiliates or other representatives that involves legal rights or remedies arising from this Agreement or the employment relationship between Employee and Highland Capital or the Released Parties, the parties agree to submit their dispute to binding arbitration under the authority of the Federal Arbitration Act; provided, however, that Highland Capital or the Released Parties thereof may pursue a temporary restraining order and/or preliminary injunctive relief in connection with any non-competition, non-solicitation and/or confidentiality covenants or agreements binding on Employee, with related expedited discovery for the parties, in a court of law, and, thereafter, require arbitration of all issues of final relief. This paragraph does not prohibit Employee from filing or cooperating in a charge before a federal administrative agency without pursuing private litigation. Insured workers compensation claims (other than wrongful discharge claims), and claims for unemployment insurance are excluded from arbitration under this provision. The Arbitration will be conducted by the American Arbitration Association, or another, mutually agreeable arbitration service. The arbitrator(s) shall be duly licensed to practice law in the State of Texas. The discovery process shall be limited to the following: Each side shall be permitted no more than (i) two party depositions of six hours each. Each deposition is to be taken pursuant to the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure; (ii) one non-party deposition of six hours; (iii) twenty-five interrogatories; (iv) twenty-five requests for admission; (v) ten requests for production. In response, the producing party shall not be obligated to produce in excess of 5,000 total pages of documents. The total pages of documents shall include electronic documents; (vi) one request for disclosure pursuant to the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure. Documents produced pursuant to Texas Rule of Civil Procedure 194.2(f) shall not be included in, or counted toward, the 5,000 page limit described supra. Any discovery not specifically provided for in this paragraph, whether to parties or non-parties, shall not be permitted. The arbitrator(s) shall be required to state in a written opinion all facts and conclusions of law relied upon to support any decision rendered. No arbitrator will have authority to render a decision that contains an outcome determinative error of state or federal law, or to fashion a cause of action or remedy not otherwise provided for under applicable state or federal law. Any dispute over whether the arbitrator(s) has failed to comply with the foregoing will be resolved by summary judgment in a court of law. In all other respects, the arbitration process will be conducted in accordance with the American Arbitration Association's employment dispute resolution rules or other mutually agreeable, arbitration service rules. As necessary Highland Capital will pay any up-front arbitration costs and arbitrator's fees, subject to a final arbitration award on who should bear costs and fees. All proceedings shall be conducted in Dallas, Texas, or another mutually agreeable site. Each party shall bear its own attorneys fees, costs and expenses, including any costs of experts, witnesses and/or travel, subject to a final arbitration award on who should bear costs and fees. The duty to arbitrate described above shall survive the termination of this Agreement. Except as otherwise provided above, the parties hereby waive trial in a court of law or by jury. All other rights, remedies, statutes of limitation and defenses applicable to claims asserted in a court of law will apply in the arbitration. Employee expressly acknowledges and agrees that the agreements set forth in this paragraph shall also apply to any disputes under all other agreements between Employee and either of Highland Capital or any Released Parties.

26. Waiver. You and Highland Capital further acknowledge and agree that the failure of Highland Capital or any of the other Released Parties or you at any time to enforce any provisions of this Agreement shall not be construed to be a waiver of such provisions or any other provisions of this Agreement, or of Highland Capital's or any of the other Released Parties' right thereafter to enforce any such provision.

27. Entire Agreement. This Agreement (i) contains and constitutes the entire understanding and agreement between you and Highland Capital with respect to its subject matter; (ii) supersedes and cancels any previous negotiations, agreements, commitments, and writings with respect to that subject matter; and (iii) may not be released, discharged, abandoned, supplemented, changed, or modified in any manner except by a writing of concurrent or subsequent date executed by both you and an authorized officer of Highland Capital. This Section 27 is not applicable to Article V of your Employment Agreement, the Sierra Verde Agreement, the Cornerstone Agreement or any other confidentiality, non-compete, non-recruit, or non-solicitation provisions in any other documents you are subject to.

I do not consent to allow Highland Capital to represent me regarding the field examiners' proposed tax adjustments based on their audit of the 2008 partnership tax return, and I reserve the right to attend the closing conference (personally, through my own counsel, or both) and actively participate in it if I feel it is necessary to protect my interests concerning the proposed adjustment. Please provide me with any future correspondence that Highland Capital receives from the IRS concerning the audit and proposed adjustments.

PATRICK DAUGHERTY, Defendant and Counter-Plaintiff,	§	DALLAS COUNTY, TEXAS
v.	§

FINAL JUDGMENT

On January 14, 2014, this case was called to trial. Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland"), and Third-Party Defendants Sierra Verde, LLC and James Dondero ("Dondero") appeared themselves and/or through their attorneys of record and announced ready for trial. Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff/Third-Party Plaintiff Patrick Daugherty ("Daugherty") appeared himself and through his attorneys of record and announced ready for trial. Highland Employee Retention Assets LLC ("HERA"), Patrick Boyce, and William L. Britain appeared themselves and/or through their attorneys of record and announced ready for trial.

After a jury was impaneled and sworn, it heard evidence and arguments of counsel. In response to the jury charge, the jury made findings that the Court received, filed, and entered of record. The questions submitted to the jury and the jury's findings are attached as Exhibit 1 hereto and incorporated by reference.

The Court renders this Final Judgment under the jury verdict and the evidence heard at trial, as well as having considered any and all post-verdict motions and briefing submitted to the Court and arguments of counsel.

The Court, after considering the jury's findings regarding Daugherty's breaches of contract and breaches of fiduciary duty owed to Highland, and after hearing evidence and considering the nature of the harm suffered by Highland as a result, finds and concludes that Highland is entitled to relief hereinafter given.

It is therefore further ORDERED that Daugherty be and hereby is commanded to cease and desist from retaining, using, disclosing, publishing or disseminating Highland's (or its affiliates') confidential, proprietary, and/or privileged information, including but not limited to information concerning Highland's customers, clients, marketing, business and operational methods, contracts, financial data, technical data, e-mail, pricing, management methods, finances, strategies, systems, research, plans, reports, recommendations and conclusions, tear sheets, industry comparative analysis, Collateralized Loan Obligation (CLO) and other structured products, and names, arrangements with, or other information relating to Highland's (or its affiliates') customers, clients, suppliers, financiers, owners, and business prospects. Notwithstanding the foregoing, Daugherty may use or disclose the information described in this paragraph only as (i) required by law; or (ii) directed and authorized in writing by Highland.

The Court further ORDERS that Highland have and recover from Daugherty $2,800,000 for reasonable and necessary attorneys' fees rendered through trial.

It is further ORDERED that the total amount of the judgment here rendered for Highland against Daugherty will bear interest at the rate of 5% per annum from the date this judgment is signed until paid.

Furthermore, the Court, after considering the jury's findings regarding HERA's breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing, finds and concludes that Daugherty is entitled to relief hereinafter given.

It is therefore further ORDERED that Daugherty have and recover $2,600,000 from HERA, ~~representing the full value of Daugherty's interest in HERA as determined by the jury.~~

It is further ORDERED that Daugherty shall no longer have any ownership or other interest in HERA or any proceeds or accounts arising from Daugherty's prior interest in HERA that were not distributed to Daugherty prior to the entry of this judgment, Daugherty having been awarded the full value of that interest in HERA as determined by the jury.

It is further ORDERED that total amount of the actual damages rendered against HERA herein will bear prejudgment interest at the rate of 5% simple interest from May 22, 2012, until the day before this judgment is signed.

It is further ORDERED that the total amount of the judgment here rendered against HERA will bear interest at the rate of 5% per annum, compounded annually, from the date this judgment is signed until paid.

Furthermore, the Court, after considering the jury's findings regarding the claims for breach of fiduciary duty asserted against Patrick Boyce and William L. Britain by Third-PartyCounter -Plaintiff Patrick Daugherty, suing individually and/or suing derivatively on behalf of Highland Employee Retention Assets LLC, finds that Boyce and Britain are entitled to a take-nothing judgment as to all claims asserted against them.

It is therefore further ORDERED that Third-Party Counter-Plaintiff Patrick Daugherty, suing individually and/or derivatively on behalf of Highland Employee Retention Assets LLC, shall take nothing on the claims for breach of fiduciary duty against Patrick Boyce and William L. Britain.

This judgment disposes of all claims asserted against Patrick Boyce and William L. Britain in the above-captioned cause. All other relief that Daugherty seeks pertaining to Boyce and Britain not expressly granted in this judgment is denied.

It is further ORDERED that all Parties shall bear their own respective costs of Court.

All writs and processes for the enforcement and collection of the judgment may issue as necessary.

All relief requested and not expressly granted is denied. This judgment disposes of all parties and claims and is appealable.

SIGNED on July 1-1, 2014.

JURY CHARGE

Presiding Juror:

1. When you go into the jury room to answer the questions, the first thing you will need to do is choose a presiding juror.

2. The presiding juror has these duties:

   a. have the complete charge read aloud if it will be helpful to your deliberations;

   b. preside over your deliberations, meaning manage the discussions, and see that you follow these instructions;

   c. give written questions or comments to the bailiff who will give them to the judge;

   d. write down the answers you agree on;

   e. get the signatures for the verdict certificate; and f.

   notify the bailiff that you have reached a verdict.

Do you understand the duties of the presiding juror? If you do not, please tell me now.

Instructions for Signing the Verdict Certificate:

1. You may answer the questions on a vote of ten jurors. The same ten jurors must agree on every answer in the charge. This means you may not have one group of ten jurors agree on one answer and a different group of ten jurors agree on another answer.

2. If ten jurors agree on every answer, those ten jurors sign the verdict.

If 11 jurors agree on every answer, those eleven jurors sign the verdict

If all 12 of you agree on every answer, you are unanimous and only the presiding juror signs the verdict.

3. All jurors should deliberate on every question. You may end up with all twelve of you agreeing on some answers, while only ten or eleven of you agree on other answers. But when you sign the verdict, only those ten who agree on every answer will sign the verdict.

Do you understand these instructions? If you do not, please tell me now.

JUDGE PRESIDING

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS AND DEFINITIONS

MEMBERS OF THE JURY:

After the closing arguments, you will go to the jury room to decide the case, answer the questions that are attached, and reach a verdict. You may discuss the case with other jurors only when you are all together in the jury room.

Remember my previous instructions: Do not discuss the case with anyone else, either in person or by any other means. Do not do any independent investigation about the case or conduct any research. Do not look up any words in dictionaries or on the Internet. Do not post information about the case on the Internet. Do not share any special knowledge or experiences with the other jurors. Do not use your phone or any other electronic device during your deliberations for any reason. I will give you a number where others may contact you in case of an emergency.

Any notes you have taken are for your own personal use. You may take your notes back into the jury room and consult them during deliberations, but do not show or read your notes to your fellow jurors during your deliberations. Your notes are not evidence. Each of you should rely on your independent recollection of the evidence and not be influenced by the fact that another juror has or has not taken notes.

You must leave your notes with the bailiff when you are not deliberating. The bailiff will give your notes to me promptly after collecting them from you. I will make sure your notes are kept in a safe, secure location and not disclosed to anyone. After you complete your deliberations, the bailiff will collect your notes. When you are released from jury duty, the bailiff will promptly destroy your notes so that nobody can read what you wrote.

Here are the instructions for answering the questions.

1. Do not let bias, prejudice, or sympathy play any part in your decision.

2. Base your answers only on the evidence admitted in court and on the law that is in these instructions and questions. Do not consider or discuss any evidence that was not admitted in the courtroom.

3. A fact may be established by direct evidence or by circumstantial evidence or both. A fact is established by direct evidence when proved by documentary evidence or by witnesses who saw the act done or heard the words spoken. A fact is established by circumstantial evidence when it may be fairly and reasonably inferred from other facts proved.

4. Deposition testimony is testimony which has previously been taken under oath. You are instructed that such testimony is entitled to be given the same weight you would give it if it were presented by a witness appearing in the courtroom during trial.

5. You are to make up your own minds about the facts. You are the sole judges of the credibility of the witnesses and the weight to give their testimony. But on matters of law, you must follow all of my instructions.

6. If my instructions use a word in a way that is different from its ordinary meaning, use the meaning I give you, which will be a proper legal definition.

7. All the questions and answers are important. No one should say that any question or answer is not important.

8. Answer "yes" or "no" to all questions unless you are told otherwise. A "yes" answer must be based on a preponderance of the evidence unless you are told otherwise. Whenever a question requires an answer other than "yes" or "no," your answer must be based on a preponderance of the evidence unless you are told otherwise.

The term "preponderance of the evidence" means the greater weight of credible evidence presented in this case. If you do not find that a preponderance of the evidence supports a "yes" answer, then answer "no." A preponderance of the evidence is not measured by the number of witnesses or by the number of documents admitted in evidence. For a fact to be proved by a preponderance of the evidence, you must find that the fact is more likely true than not true.

9. Do not decide who you think should win before you answer the questions and then just answer the questions to match your decision. Answer each question carefully without considering who will win. Do not discuss or consider the effect your answers will have.

10. Do not answer questions by drawing straws or by any method of chance.

11. Some questions might ask you for a dollar amount. Do not agree in advance to decide on a dollar amount by adding up each juror's amount and then figuring the average.

12. Do not trade your answers. For example, do not say, "I will answer this question your way if you answer another question my way."

13. Unless otherwise instructed, the answers to the questions must be based on the decision of at least ten of the twelve jurors. The same ten jurors must agree on every answer. Do not agree to be bound by a vote of anything less than ten jurors, even if it would be a majority.

As I have said before, if you do not follow these instructions, you will be guilty of juror misconduct, and I might have to order a new trial and start this process over again. This would waste your time and the parties' money, and would require the taxpayers of this county to pay for another trial. If a juror breaks any of these rules, tell that person to stop and report it to me immediately.

A "trade secret" is any formula, pattern, device, information, or combination of any of the foregoing that is used in a business and that gives the owner an opportunity to obtain an advantage over his competitors who do not know or use it.

QUESTION NO. 13

Did Dondero or Sierra Verde fail to comply with the Sierra Verde Limited Liability Company Agreement?

Dondero and Sierra Verde failed to comply with the Sierra Verde Limited Liability Company Agreement if Dondero, as Manager of Sierra Verde, lacked express authority under the Sierra Verde Limited Liability Company Agreement to rescind the Services Agreements and Compensation Agreements with Cornerstone and Trussway.

Dondero and Sierra Verde failed to comply with the Sierra Verde Limited Liability Company Agreement if they failed to comply with the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing.

Every contract contains implied covenants from the parties of good faith and fair dealing. In determining whether a party is acted in good faith and fair dealing, you must consider what the parties would have agreed to themselves had they considered the issue in their original bargaining positions at the time of contracting. In other words, is it clear from what was expressly agreed upon that the parties who negotiated the express terms of the contract would have agreed to proscribe the act later complained of as a breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing—had they thought to negotiate with respect to that matter.

"Good faith" means faithfulness to the scope, purpose, and terms of the parties' contract. "Fair dealing" means a commitment to deal "fairly" in the sense of consistently with the terms of the parties' agreement and its purpose.

An implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing requires that a party refrain from arbitrary or unreasonable conduct which has the effect of preventing the other party to the contract from receiving the fruits of his bargain. When exercising a discretionary right, a party to the contract must exercise its discretion reasonably.

Answer "Yes" or "No" for each of the following.

	Express Authority	Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing

b. Sierra Verde	NO	NO

If you answered "Yes" to any part of Question No. 13, then answer the following question. Otherwise, do not answer the following question.

"Fair market value" is typically defined as the amount a willing buyer, who desires to buy but is under no obligation to buy, would pay to a willing seller, who desires to sell but is under no obligation to sell.

Answer separately in dollars and cents, if any.

a. Fair market value of Daugherty's Sierra Verde Units at the time of rescission. Answer: _____

b. Fair market value of Daugherty's Sierra Verde Units at the highest intermediate value between October 2011 and the time of trial. Answer: _____

QUESTION NO. 15

Did Dondero, as the Manager of Sierra Verde, breach his fiduciary duty, if any, to Daugherty?

A fiduciary owes the duties of care, loyalty, and to act in good faith.

The duty of loyalty mandates that the best interests of the company and its shareholders takes precedence over any interest possessed by a director, officer or controlling shareholder and not shared by the stockholders generally.

The duty of care requires that the directors individually and the board collectively inform themselves fully and in a deliberate manner before voting as a board upon a transaction.

A failure to act in good faith may be shown: (1) where the fiduciary intentionally acts with a purpose other than that of advancing the best interests of the company; (2) where the fiduciary acts with the intent to violate applicable positive law; or (3) where the fiduciary intentionally fails to act in the face of a known duty to act, demonstrating a conscious disregard for his duties.

Answer "Yes" or "No."

If you answered "Yes" to Question No. 15, then answer the following question. Otherwise, do not answer the following question.

b. Fair market value of Daugherty's Sierra Verde Units at the highest intermediate value between October 2011 and the time of trial. Answer: _____

QUESTION NO. 17

Did HERA fail to comply with the HERA Agreement?

HERA failed to comply with the HERA Agreement by amending the HERA Agreement to include Section 12.1 of the Second Amended HERA Agreement if the Second Amended HERA Agreement divested Daugherty's Series A Preferred Units.

HERA failed to comply with the HERA Agreement if it failed to comply with the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing by amending the HERA Agreement to include Section 12.1 of the Second Amended HERA Agreement.

Do not consider any actions taken by HERA after February 16, 2012, when the Second Amended and Restated Limited Liability Company Agreement of HERA was adopted when determining if HERA failed to comply with the HERA Agreement.

Every contract contains implied covenants from the parties of good faith and fair dealing. In determining whether a party is acted in good faith and fair dealing, you must consider what the parties would have agreed to themselves had they considered the issue in their original bargaining positions at the time of contracting. In other words, is it clear from what was expressly agreed upon that the parties who negotiated the express terms of the contract would have agreed to proscribe the act later complained of as a breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing—had they thought to negotiate with respect to that matter.

"Good faith" means faithfulness to the scope, purpose, and terms of the parties' contract. "Fair dealing" means a commitment to deal "fairly" in the sense of consistently with the terms of the parties' agreement and its purpose.

An implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing requires that a party refrain from arbitrary or unreasonable conduct which has the effect of preventing the other party to the contract from receiving the fruits of his bargain. When exercising a discretionary right, a party to the contract must exercise its discretion reasonably.

Answer "Yes" or "No" for each of the following.

	Divesting by Section 12.1	Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing by Section 12.1
HERA	NO	yes

If you answered "Yes" to any part of Question No. 17, then answer the following question. Otherwise, do not answer the following question.

QUESTION NO. 18

What sum of money, if any, if paid now in cash, would fairly and reasonably compensate Daugherty for his damages, if any, that resulted from such failure to comply?

Answer separately in dollars and cents, if any.

Fair market value of Daugherty's HERA Units. Answer: 2.6 Million

QUESTION NO. 19

Did Boyce or Britain, in bad faith, fail to comply with their implied contractual covenant of good faith and fair dealing owed to HERA by amending the HERA Agreement to include the dispute resolution provision in Section 12.1 of the HERA Agreement or by directing the Offer to Purchase to be sent to minority holders of units in HERA?

Consider the following additional instructions in answering:

Bad faith means that a fiduciary intentionally acts with a purpose other than that of advancing the best interests of the company, or the fiduciary intentionally fails to act in the face of a known duty to act, demonstrating a conscious disregard for his duties to the company.

A party does not act in bad faith by relying on contract provisions for which that party bargained where doing so simply limits advantages to another party.

Do not consider any actions taken by Boyce or Britain after the Second Amended and Restated Limited Liability Company Agreement of HERA was adopted or the Offer to Purchase was sent to minority holders of units in HERA when determining if Boyce or Britain failed to comply with their implied contractual covenant of good faith and fair dealing owed to HERA.

Answer "Yes" or "No" for each of the following parties.

a. Boyce

Answer: NO

b. Britain

Answer: NO

If you answered "Yes" to any part of Question No. 19, then answer the following question. Otherwise, do not answer the following question.

QUESTION NO. 20

What sum of money, if any, if paid now in cash, would fairly and reasonably compensate HERA for damages, if any, that were proximately caused by such conduct?

Answer separately in dollars and cents, if any.

Fair market value of Daugherty's HERA Units. Answer: _____

QUESTION NO. 21

Did Dondero or Highland publish a defamatory statement concerning Daugherty that was false at the time it was made?

"Publish" means intentionally or negligently to communicate the matter to a person other than Daugherty who is capable of understanding its meaning.

"Defamatory" means an ordinary person would interpret the statement in a way that tends to injure a living person's reputation and thereby expose the person to public hatred, contempt or ridicule, or financial injury or to impeach the person's honesty, integrity, virtue, or reputation. In deciding whether a statement is defamatory, you must construe the statement as a whole and in light of the surrounding circumstances based upon how a person of ordinary intelligence would perceive it.

"False" means that a statement is not literally true or not substantially true. A statement is not "substantially true" if, in the mind of the average person, the gist of the statement is more damaging to the person affected by it than a literally true statement would have been.

Answer "Yes" or "No" for each of the following.

	Dondero	Highland
a. Daugherty left Highland for lifestyle reasons	yes	yes
b. Daugherty left Highland because he was burned out	yes	yes

If you answered "Yes" to any part of Question No. 21, then answer the corresponding part(s) of the following question. Otherwise, do not answer the following question.

QUESTION NO. 22

Were the statements privileged?

> A statement is privileged if the party making the statement reasonably believes that the party to whom the statement is made has a common interest in the particular subject matter of the statement. The common interest may be a financial, moral, social, or legal interest.

Answer "Yes" or "No" for each of the following.

	Dondero	Highland
a. Daugherty left Highland for lifestyle reasons	yes	yes
b. Daugherty left Highland because he was burned out	yes	yes

If you answered "No" to any part of Question No. 22, then answer the corresponding part(s) of the following question. Otherwise, do not answer the following question.

QUESTION NO. 23

Did one or more of the following parties know or should have known, in the exercise of ordinary care, that the statements contained in Question No. 21 were false and had the potential to be defamatory?

> "Ordinary care" concerning the truth of the statement and its potential to be defamatory means that degree of care that would be used by a person of ordinary prudence under the same or similar circumstances.

Answer "Yes" or "No" for each of the following.

	Dondero	Highland
a. Daugherty left Highland for lifestyle reasons
b. Daugherty left Highland because he was burned out

If you answered "Yes" to any part of Question No. 22, then answer the corresponding part of the following question. Otherwise, do not answer the following question.

QUESTION NO. 24

Do you find by clear and convincing evidence that, at the time Dondero or Highland made the statement or statements in Question No. 21—

1. Highland or Dondero knew it was false as it related to Daugherty, or

2. Highland or Dondero made the statement with a high degree of awareness that it was probably false, to an extent that Highland or Dondero had serious doubts as to the truth of the statement?

"Clear and convincing evidence" is that measure or degree of proof that will produce in the mind of the jury a firm belief or conviction as to the truth of the allegations sought to be established.

Answer "Yes" or "No" for each of the following.

	Dondero	Highland
a. Daugherty left Highland for lifestyle reasons	yes	yes
b. Daugherty left Highland because he was burned out	yes	yes

If you answered "Yes" to any part of Question No. 23 or any part of Question No. 24, then answer the corresponding parts of the following question. Otherwise, do not answer the following question.

QUESTION NO. 25

What sum of money, if paid now in cash, would fairly and reasonably compensate Daugherty for his injuries, if any, that were proximately caused by the statements?

Consider the elements of damages listed below and none other. Consider each element separately. Do not award any sum of money on any element if you have otherwise, under some other element, awarded a sum of money for the same loss. That is, do not compensate twice for the same loss, if any. Do not include interest on any amount of damages you find.

Answer separately in dollars and cents for damages if any.

	Lost Earning Capacity Sustained in the Past	Loss of earning capacity that, in a reasonable probability, Daugherty will sustain in the future.

APPELLANT'S AMENDED DESIGNATION OF ITEMS TO BE INCLUDED IN THE RECORD ON APPEAL AND STATEMENT OF THE ISSUES PRESENTED

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 8009(a), Appellant Patrick Daugherty ("Daugherty") hereby submits his amended designation of items to be included in the record on appeal and statement of issues to be presented in connection with his appeal from the July 24, 2026 Judgment and Memorandum Opinion [Docket Nos. 138, 139 in Adversary No. 25-03055-bwo]. See Notice of Appeal [Docket No. 142 in Adversary No. 25-03055-bwo].

Statement of Issues on Appeal

1. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in disallowing Daugherty's Reserved Claim based on the Employment Agreement's termination provisions, when the Court itself found the 2009 Compensation Statement was incorporated into the Employment Agreement and resolved its ambiguity in Daugherty's favor, concluding that Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland") intended to compensate Daugherty for any material deviation in his 2008 tax refund.

2. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in applying the "no further liability or obligation" language of Sections 4.5 and 4.6 of the Employment Agreement to extinguish Daugherty's compensation entitlement under the 2009 Compensation Statement, when that language pertains to severance contingent upon execution of a separation agreement and not to earned compensation that accrued during Daugherty's active employment.

3. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in holding that James Dondero's oral promises to cover Daugherty's contingent tax liability were unenforceable under Texas's statute of frauds, Tex. Bus. & Com. Code § 26.01, when Highland had a main purpose of its own in making the promise and when the Court failed to consider Daugherty's continued employment and forbearance as adequate consideration.

4. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in denying Daugherty's counterclaim for specific performance of the Settlement Agreement's books-and-records provision by construing that provision through the statutory categories of 6 Del. C. § 18-305(a), rather than by the plain meaning of the negotiated Settlement Agreement requiring Highland to "transfer its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty" "[t]o facilitate [the] recovery of [] potential claims," including "the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system."

5. Whether the Bankruptcy Court abused its discretion by granting Highland Capital Management, L.P.'s Cross Motion pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 60(b)(6) when Highland failed to make a showing of manifest injustice and exceptional circumstances required to rewrite a term of the parties' bargained-for, court-approved settlement agreement that Highland Capital Management, L.P. entered on a free, deliberate, calculated, and counseled basis.

6. Whether the Bankruptcy Court abused its discretion by granting Highland Capital Management, L.P.'s Cross Motion pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 60(b)(6) when Highland was estopped from seeking such relief after it obtained the benefits of the tolling provision in the settlement agreement, including, inter alia, the parties' negotiation and execution of a series of tolling agreements to the benefit of Highland Capital Management, L.P. regarding its certain claim-objection deadline.

V.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

12. In April 1998, Daugherty was hired by HCM as a Portfolio Analyst. He reported to Dondero and his duties initially consisted of underwriting and performing credit analysis for a portfolio of corporate loans held by investment vehicles known as collateralized loan obligations

("CLOs"). Daugherty prepared annual self-reviews through 2008, where his yearly performance was evaluated and benchmarked against other employees within the firm. These evaluations reflected his strong performance, and he was promoted several times to more senior positions as his responsibilities and compensation grew. After 2008, Daugherty was no longer required to prepare self-reviews.

13. Through his tenure at HCM, Daugherty was promoted from Portfolio Analyst to Senior Analyst to Portfolio Manager to Senior Portfolio Manager to Team Leader to Head of Distressed to Head of Distressed and Special Situations to Head of Distressed, Special Situations and Private Equity. Daugherty founded HCM's profitable stressed, distressed and private equity lines of business. He also served twice as General Counsel of HCM during his successful career there.

14. During Daugherty's employment, he entered into various agreements with HCM, including an Amended Employment Agreement, effective December 31, 2004, which purports to contain a non-competition provision and various other restrictive covenants (the "Employment Agreement").

15. During Daugherty's annual compensation review, he received a Compensation and Benefits Statement that detailed various forms of earnings and awards granted to Daugherty as a result of his performance at HCM over the previous year. These awards included cash and incentive-based compensation in the form of equity or equity-like options that served to track the performance of reference investments which Dondero and HCM deemed important. The equity and equity-like options were issued under various tax based structures and were generally referred to as the STIP program, the Option-it program and the Vessel program (also known as the LTIP/Vessel program). The LTIP/Vessel programs included HERA and Sierra Verde.

17. The Option-it program consisted of reference positions in the Highland Crusader Fund, L.P., Highland Real Estate Fund 2002-A, L.P., Highland CDO and Structured Product Fund, Highland Equity Focus Fund, L.P. and the Highland Credit Strategies Fund-HCF.

18. The LTIP/Vessel programs included at least two valuable, vested awards for Daugherty: 1) the HERA program (the Amended and Restated Limited Liability Company Agreement between HERA and HCM), which included most HCM employees; and 2) the Sierra Verde program, which included Daugherty's private equity team.

19. The HERA program consisted of limited partnership grants in the Restoration Capital Partners, L.P. ("Restoration"), HE Sugarland Project, LLC., and the Highland CLO Value Fund, L.P.

20. The Sierra Verde vessel, an entity formed in December 2010 to hold and distribute assets, was a program conceived to retain, reward and incentivize Daugherty and his private equity team, which received equity and options in Cornerstone Healthcare Group Holdings, Inc. ("Cornerstone") and Trussway Holdings, Inc.

21. For high ranking employees ("Partners"), HCM also awarded LTIP interests that tracked the performance of the Highland Partnership. This program was separate from the LTIP/Vessel program. The LTIP program (the 2005 HCMLP Long-Term Incentive Plan) is an incentive plan created for non-voting partners in HCM, a partnership controlled by Strand Advisors which is controlled by affiliates of Dondero. Daugherty also had an interest in the Defined Benefit Pension Plan.

22. Contrary to HCM's assertions, which characterize Daugherty as some "unmanageable, erratic and insubordinate" or brain-damaged[1] employee, Daugherty was dedicated, hard-working, healthy and consistently ranked and paid as the top performer through the 2011 bonus year. In fact, Daugherty was held out by Dondero as the model manager which others should aspire to emulate. Dondero regularly praised Daugherty's "warrior" mentality and effective restructuring skills. However, beginning in 2006, Daugherty, in his role of Portfolio Manager, began to disagree with the firm's shift in strategy and risk. He was concerned that the Highland Crusader Fund, L.P. ("Crusader"), started in 2000 by Daugherty and Dondero, had drifted too far from its original mandate and had become an unfocused and levered mix of non-

[1] HCM falsely alleges that Daugherty "recently" admitted to having "two strokes," that left him with "dead spots in his brain." Such statement is a complete fabrication. In January of 2000, Daugherty suffered a Transient Ischemic Attack while working at HCM. The symptoms abated within less than 60 seconds without Daugherty ever losing consciousness. EMS was called to the scene and Daugherty was taken to the hospital for evaluation. Daugherty received a battery of tests that came back inconclusive. After not feeling well a few days later, Daugherty returned to the hospital and underwent a series of tests including numerous blood tests, electrocardiograms, MRIs, CatScans, Carotid Ultrasounds, and a Transesophageal Echocardiogram. It was determined that Daugherty had a Atrial Septal heart defect consisting of a "hole" in his heart about the size of a quarter. The remedy was routine open-heart surgery to patch/repair the hole between the two upper chambers of Daugherty's heart. Daugherty had successful surgery to make the repair in early April of 2000.

HCM was fully aware that Daugherty reported back to work within 10 days of having the surgery and actively participated in leading the Genesis/Multicare bankruptcy and restructuring negotiations. At no time did Daugherty suffer damage to his brain as a result of the 2000 TIA. Daugherty has had no recurrence of TIA. Daugherty has had no adverse neurological or cardiovascular occurrences or tests since 2000. HCM was fully aware that Daugherty received a full release from his cardiologist and neurologist within months of the surgery in 2000. HCM was fully aware of Daugherty's medical releases as he qualified for HCM's Life Insurance and Healthcare coverage programs within a year of the surgery.

core strategies. He was particularly troubled by the fact that Dondero had begun to more actively and unilaterally change the focus and risk profile of Crusader, allocating the vast majority of the fund's assets to Dondero's other "seed" initiatives that were beyond the expertise of HCM and its employees' skill sets. Daugherty voiced these concerns to Dondero on numerous occasions beginning in 2006.

23. From 2006 thru 2008, Daugherty objected to speculative bets being placed on heavily concentrated and leveraged public equities, residential mortgage backed securities ("RMBS"), commercial mortgage backed securities ("CMBS"), treasuries, foreign exchange, life settlement investments, undeveloped residential real estate, timber, and oil and gas investments—all utilizing the assets of Crusader. Daugherty was quite vocal in expressing his growing disapproval of the increased leverage being used in Crusader.

24. In late October 2007, Daugherty pleaded with Dondero to reduce the leverage in Crusader's equity portfolio on the basis that it left no room for error. Despite having positive year-to-date returns, Dondero was not satisfied with the performance, and said that if Crusader could not achieve certain unrealistic return goals by the end of the year, then he would take the firm's capital out of Crusader and invest it elsewhere where he could achieve those returns. Daugherty thought this was wrong and continued to lobby to reduce the leverage in Crusader. Even so, Dondero rejected Daugherty's advice and assigned Dave Semic to reallocate vast portions of Crusader's capital, and increase its overall leverage by shorting treasuries and buying RMBS and CMBS securities on virtually limitless margins.

25. During 2007, HCM also decided to pursue a new distressed for control private equity fund named Restoration. This fund was created based on Daugherty's successful distressed for control track record within Crusader. However, HCM's senior management decided that Daugherty would not be part of the Restoration management team. When Daugherty objected, Mark Okada ("Okada"), HCM's co-founder, explained to him (with Dondero and Jack Yang ("Yang") on the phone) that while they appreciated his contributions to the track record, they had decided to reduce their exposure to Daugherty and feature another manager within HCM, John Honis ("Honis"), despite the fact that Honis had much less involvement with the referenced track record. Daugherty was disappointed with their decision, but agreed to assist in the development of the target strategy and preparation of the marketing materials.

26. Soon after the launch of Restoration, it was apparent that the marketing process was failing miserably. Initially Yang and Okada blamed Honis for having poor marketing skills as cause for the failure. Honis was even directed to enroll in a public speaking course. Yang then briefly took control of the marketing effort for Restoration, but he, too, failed due to his lack of knowledge of the details behind the track record.

27. Ultimately, it was determined that Daugherty needed to be included in the Restoration marketing effort, because he was best suited to handle the in-depth questions that arose from detailed investor due diligence. Daugherty hesitantly accepted the new role as a key man in the revised Restoration platform and spent the second half of 2007 leading Restoration's capital-raising efforts.

28. By the end of 2007, Honis had been functionally removed from Restoration and was replaced with Brett Pope ("Pope"), who was named co-manager with Daugherty. Dondero announced that Daugherty would be in charge of sourcing and restructuring of distressed investments, while Pope would be placed in charge of post-restructured operations and traditional private equity. Neither Pope nor Daugherty favored this arrangement, since the responsibilities were ambiguous and the available capital for each initiative came from the same source.

29. In January 2008, Daugherty informed Dondero of his intent to leave the firm on his anniversary date in April 2008. He offered a 6-month transition period. Also in January, HCM experienced the worst performance of its existence with many funds deteriorating significantly. By March 2008, Pope resigned from HCM. The problems at HCM and the funds it managed had continued to escalate and Dondero asked Daugherty to stay and help him manage through the crisis. Daugherty agreed to stay and assist HCM, even though he would experience significant deterioration in his personal wealth by not having sold out of the various incentive compensation awards he could have liquidated had he resigned as planned. Daugherty worked with Britt Brown and Brian Lording from the accounting team at HCM and began to raise cash for various HCM funds by selling investments, as the firm and its funds entered a severe liquidity crisis. He was also appointed to sole head of the Private Equity Team and Senior Manager of the Restoration Fund.

30. By July 2008, Daugherty was troubled to hear that available cash was flowing out of HCM to support struggling initiatives and affiliates of HCM that were experiencing liquidity crises of their own. He was equally concerned to hear that Dondero refused to de-lever (reducing debt by selling more assets) in anticipation of further deterioration because Dondero had declared to Daugherty, Okada and Kurt Plumer that he was going to "robo trade our way out of this."

31. Daugherty's concerns were validated when later in July/August, Dondero refused to satisfy a prime brokerage capital call with its bank counter party, triggering a breach in the financing line for several of its funds. This led to a daily liquidity crisis, since margin arrangements could be modified by the bank at its sole discretion. Instead of meeting the mandated margin call, Dondero chose not to liquidate the necessary assets and only authorized a partial payment. However, the margin call required 100% satisfaction, and this partial payment resulted in a breach of the loan (total return swap arrangement). On the Friday that the breach occurred, Dondero was happily passing out $100 bills and dinner vouchers to accountants and analysts in attendance, thinking he had done "enough" to comply with the requirement. HCM found out the following Monday that the breach had caused an immediate acceleration in the credit line and that Crusader was now at the mercy of its creditors.

32. In August 2008, Daugherty continued to raise cash in Crusader and other funds for margin calls, as well as for investor redemptions that were due to be paid in early October. Daugherty attempted to reject several purchases into Crusader (e.g., life settlement and real estate investments), but Dondero overruled him, instructing him that he was to make purchases if Crusader had cash to make the trade on that day, regardless of what the future impact on cash would be post looming redemptions. In fact, Dondero instructed Daugherty to respond only with "ok" in response to Dondero's trades if Crusader had cash.

33. Dondero's actions had led to a substantial write down/write-off in the value of Daugherty's and the other employees' previously awarded incentive compensation. By September 10, 2008, Daugherty was out of patience with Dondero's reckless and self-serving actions. He formally submitted his resignation in writing, although he gave 30 days' notice in order to effect an orderly transition. By the last week in September, Daugherty had raised enough cash to meet margin calls as well as make a partial cash payment to prior redeemers in Crusader. By this time, it was apparent that Crusader and the Highland Credit Strategy Fund ("Strat") would have to liquidate by October with a "payment in-kind" distribution of securities and assets to investors, because there simply wasn't enough cash to pay redeemers in full.

34. During the last week in September, Michael Colvin ("Colvin") and Okada came to Daugherty's office to seek his help in preventing Dondero from orchestrating a series of trades that would sell the most liquid investments in Crusader and Strat to the CLOs and then have Crusader take that cash and funnel it into Highland Financial Partners ("HFP"). HFP was another HCM fund which was experiencing a major liquidity crisis, even though Dondero had previously transferred over $100 million in cash to keep it afloat, in return for illiquid notes to be held by Crusader and Strat. Colvin and Okada explained their concerns and objections with the appropriateness of the transactions and Daugherty agreed.

35. Daugherty phoned Dondero, told him of his conversation with Colvin and Okada, and informed him that the trades in question should not be completed. At first, Dondero calmly explained that his intention was to make Crusader, Strat and HFP as illiquid as possible to punish Barclays for raising the margin requirements on HCM's pledge of limited partnership interests to another loan. Dondero then instructed Daugherty to authorize the trades. Daugherty resisted and told Dondero that he would not allow the trades. Dondero grew angry and ordered Daugherty to make the trades, claiming that it was his decision, and telling Daugherty to stay out of the trade approval process. Daugherty then angrily shouted to Dondero that he was not going to approve the trades nor was he going to let Dondero make the trades. Dondero was furious. He told

Daugherty that he was not to "waste any more of his time" and was to immediately "go home until further notice." Daugherty was further instructed by Dondero to inform Boyce, the Chief Administrative Officer, Chief Operating Officer and Chief Financial Officer of HCM at the time, of his absence and was not to discuss the matter with anyone at HCM until further notice.

36. Daugherty followed Dondero's instruction and stayed at home for the remainder of the last week of September 2008. While Daugherty was at home on the mandated leave, the trades were completed. Britain took control of Daugherty's team during this time and directed Daugherty's team at the time the trades were executed. Boyce, as CFO and head of the Pricing Committee, also presided over the execution and settlement of the trades. Daugherty received an email from a Haynes and Boone attorney attempting to formalize closing of the trades and asking Daugherty whether "Crusader approves of these trades." Since Daugherty was on orders from Dondero to keep his views to himself, he simply responded: "I don't think Crusader has a say." The Haynes and Boone representative pressed more directly and asked Daugherty, as Portfolio Manager of Crusader, if he "approves of the trades on behalf of the Crusader investors." To which Daugherty replied: "Jim Dondero is approving these trades on behalf of the Crusader investors."

37. In September 2008, Lehman Brothers failed, causing it to file for bankruptcy. HCM was directly and indirectly impacted by the Lehman collapse because Dondero had invested HCM's and many of its fund's last remaining cash on a desperate bet for Lehman's survival. Additionally, with the fall of Lehman, HCM and the funds it managed lost almost all of their hedges because Lehman was its counter-party and had failed in its obligations when it filed for bankruptcy. As the crisis worsened, asset prices reached new lows, and financial firms were liquidating performing loans at pennies on the dollar. HCM was forced to "put up the gates" to stem withdrawals at Crusader and Strat. Shockingly, Dondero determined that he would not make "payment in kind" distributions to the Crusader and Strat investors. In fact, he declared that he had traded the positions of the funds in such a manner as to render them completely illiquid in order to punish those investors who had redeemed or might attempt to redeem in the future. He used this approach to take advantage of investors who needed immediate liquidity by offering to buy their partnership interests at huge discounts to value. He and Okada purchased these interests into Highland Capital Services, L.P. ("Highland Services"), an entity wholly owned and operated by Dondero, Okada and their affiliates. He further schemed to manufacture a dispute between the "prior redeemers" and the "compulsory redeemers" of the two funds so that he could delay unwinding the fund until the "dispute" was eventually resolved.

38. Many of the Crusader and Strat investors brought suits or threatened to bring suits against HCM for its self-serving actions. The investors were disgusted with HCM's blatant disregard for its fiduciary duties towards them, but were being held hostage with their own money, since Dondero refused to liquidate the portfolio until he received full releases from the investors. These suits were ultimately resolved through settlement negotiations that were finalized in July 2011. Dondero declared the outcome a success and ordered news releases posted to the HCM website so that the investment community and the SEC would see the news.

39. By "putting up the gates," HCM effectively committed to a liquidation of Crusader and Strat, and lost its ability to charge most of its management and incentive fees to those funds. This would play a critical role later in 2012, as HCM attempted to purchase the assets being liquidated from these funds at deep discounts into other HCM-managed funds or into portfolio companies owned by other HCM-managed funds that were paying full fees.

40. Late in 2008, HCM was widely viewed as a firm certain to default. Dondero assigned Yang with the task of negotiating a restructure of HCM's credit facility. The banks were furious to discover that Dondero and Okada had been siphoning tens of millions of dollars out of HCM into their closely-held affiliated account at Highland Services under the guise of repaying their loan to HCM.

41. The banks demanded that the cash be returned immediately or they would put HCM into an involuntary bankruptcy. During a telephonic bank meeting, Dondero refused to return the cash and defiantly proclaimed: "Highland will fail before I fail." To make matters worse, Yang was repeatedly caught lying to the bank group about the status of HCM and its funds (namely Crusader, Strat and HFP) and their redemption activity. The situation deteriorated so badly that the banks would no longer speak with Yang. In January 2009, Boyce asked Daugherty to intervene.

42. Boyce and Daugherty agreed that the payments to Highland Services needed to stop immediately. Daugherty then assumed an active role in negotiations with the bank group. During the process of negotiating with the banks, Dondero and Okada refused to provide collateral pledges to the banks until they were allowed to withdraw tens of millions of additional non-cash assets from HCM. Dondero brought the negotiations to the brink of a midnight bankruptcy filing in June 2009 until he got what he wanted. Dondero ultimately took the incremental amount he demanded from the employee compensation reserve, which had been set aside by the banks in order to retain employees during the crisis. Neither Dondero nor Okada returned the tens of millions of cash they siphoned from HCM during this horrible crisis in late 2008, despite ordering lay-offs of more than 50% of HCM's employees.

43. By the Compensation Review period for February 27, 2009, moral was at an all-time low at HCM. Employees were resigning and being fired en mass. HCM had very little cash and available assets for incentive compensation grants. In fact, Dondero, Okada and Boyce announced that managers were to consider the tax-loss refund checks for prior year's compensation awards that had been written off in 2008 as their "bonus" for 2009. Dondero and Boyce determined arbitrary values for the "2008 Tax Refund" and distributed them to employees in their Compensation and Benefits Statement for 2009. These "awards" were notorious for being inconsistent with what the employees actually received from the Internal Revenue Service.

44. During late 2009, members of Daugherty's private equity team (Lawler, Carl Moore ("Moore"), Callan, and Smith) expressed to Daugherty their concerns regarding the stability of HCM. They were especially concerned about the tens of millions of dollars that Dondero and Okada had siphoned from HCM and what that said about their commitment to HCM. Accordingly, the members of the team presented a proposal that would incentivize them to stay with HCM, while aligning their interests with those of the investors. The plan included options and equity that tracked the performance of certain HCM-managed portfolio companies targeted for the plan. Options were chosen in addition to equity grants, since it was generally HCM's policy to grant option-like compensation programs to reward performance when the stock price of the underlying Company could have sufficient value that would lead to high cash taxes in the year of the grant. Importantly, these options would not create a taxable event for the recipient until they were exercised.

45. The intent of the plan was to provide equity-based incentives to the private equity team that would be realized upon the successful sale of certain portfolio companies managed by the team. Daugherty, together with Moore and Lawler, presented the plan to Dondero for approval. Daugherty explained to Dondero that the plan would act as an incentive to retain the employees on the private equity platform, since much of the value of their existing HCM retention-based incentive compensation had been destroyed as a result of right-offs and the liquidations caused by HCM's numerous margin defaults in late 2008.

46. After a series of discussions between Dondero, Moore, Thomas Surgent ("Surgent") (HCM's in-house attorney and Chief Compliance Officer) and Daugherty, including one where Dondero inserted himself into the program as the largest recipient under the retention plan, Dondero approved moving forward on the plan. He then instructed Daugherty to work with Surgent and Moore to implement the plan. In addition, Dondero gave strict instructions that the plan was not to be mentioned to Boyce, since he believed Boyce would also demand to be included, and he did not want to include Boyce in this particular incentive plan.

47. Surgent then gave instructions to Daugherty and Moore on what processes were required in order to make the plan align with HCM's Compliance Policy. He instructed Daugherty and Moore that any rewards under the plan would be subject to the Turnover Grid (a chart listing what percentage of compensation must be repaid or turned over to certain funds and what percentage of compensation could be retained by HCM employees in compliance with the various fund indenture agreements) applied to HCM employees who received compensation as portfolio company board members.

48. Surgent also instructed Daugherty that independent counsel would need to be retained on behalf of the portfolio companies involved and that the independent board members of the companies involved would have to approve of the plans. In January 2010, Moore retained Matt Lyons ("Lyons") of Andrews Kurth LLP to review the plan and negotiate on behalf of the portfolio companies and the board of directors (the board generally consisted of the Chief Executive Officer, Highland Private Equity personnel and independent board members). Numerous discussions took place between Lyons, Daugherty, Moore, senior executive management and the independent board members. Lyons advised all of the board members, including Daugherty, that all options awarded to executive management, independent board members and HCM employees should have the same strike prices.

49. Over the next several months, Lyons negotiated the various other points and concerns with Moore and Daugherty, who interceded on behalf of Dondero. These negotiations caused numerous delays on finalizing the incentive compensation to the executive teams and the independent board members, but by July 2010, the plans were submitted to the independent board members for final approval.

50. During the board meetings and prior to seeking approval of the independent board members, Lyons detailed the purpose, merits, market standards and fairness for each one of the option incentive grants. Lyons hosted question and answer sessions (with and without HCM representatives present) where all board members had the opportunity to discuss any matters regarding the option plans. Daugherty and the other board members relied heavily on Lyon's advice during these sessions. Finally, a vote for final approval was made with all HCM affiliated board members abstaining from the vote. By the end of July 2010, each portfolio company received final approval to grant the options to the executive management teams, independent board members and the private equity team.

51. In accordance with Dondero's instruction, the HCM employee grants were amalgamated and held in a separate holding entity called Sierra Verde. This was an entity named by Moore and created by Lyons to resemble the HERA vessel which was created to hold equity-based compensation for other HCM employees. Final ownership of Sierra Verde was allocated among the private equity team on December 16, 2010, with Dondero receiving the largest share at 24%. As far as Daugherty was concerned, Sierra Verde was finalized and was just another component of his and the private equity team's deferred compensation package from HCM.

52. HCM began to stabilize in the second half of 2009, although it remained significantly leveraged and had become the target of many large lawsuits. In late 2009, Dondero informed the senior managers at HCM that he intended to position future fund initiatives outside of HCM to avoid having to contribute such interests to the bank group's collateral pool. He sketched a schematic for Daugherty where new "brands" would be created for HCM's future initiatives, with Dondero, Okada and their affiliates retaining 75% via Highland Services. The proposed brands eventually included:

> Tunstall – for stressed and distressed investing in hedge fund, private equity fund and 40act sub-advisory (retail funds) – led by Daugherty;
>
> ACIS – for structured product and CLOs – led by Mahmoud, later Terry;
>
> Falcon – for oil and gas investments in private equity funds – led by Britain;
>
> Canopy – for timber investments in private equity funds – led by Britain;

Highland Funds (now Pyxis) – for various comingled, sub-advisored and equity based 40act funds (retail) – led by Joe Dougherty (no relation to Patrick Daugherty);

Granite Bay – for long-short credit investing – led by Okada and Kaufman with Dondero taking a minority interest;

Brazillian Fund-unnamed at Daugherty's departure to pursue debt investing with Brazilian partners – led by Latimer, later Bramer; and Swiss Fund – unnamed at Daugherty's departure to pursue healthcare venture capital investing based on Gregory and Daugherty's track record in healthcare – led by Gregory.

53. Dondero offered to partner with Daugherty on the Tunstall fund initiative, giving Daugherty 25% of Tunstall Capital Management, LP ("Tunstall Capital"). He also offered Daugherty 5-10% of all of the other management companies (or branded initiatives). The rest of the initiatives were doled out by Dondero to the managers he believed were most critical to their success.

54. In December 2009, Daugherty spoke to Dondero about the desire of several independent board members within the private equity portfolio platform to get better returns on the accumulated cash on their balance sheets. Daugherty suggested a non-leveraged, lower risk fund primarily with senior debt, bonds and highly liquid public equities that would carry no fees. Dondero agreed with the concept but wanted to incorporate a fee structure consistent with the hedge fund standard of 2% management fee and 20% incentive fee. Daugherty was opposed to charging a fee for managing these funds, since the cash balances were owned by companies that were owned by pre-existing funds managed by HCM and so were already being charged such fees or had their fees intentionally terminated (as was the case with Crusader and Strat).

55. Further, because Dondero intended to structure the fund like a hedge fund with monthly marking, both the management fee and the incentive fee would be paid monthly without disclosure to the various fund investors. This contrasted with the Sierra Verde equity/options, which would not be paid until a realization event occurred (e.g. when the companies were actually sold), at which time all distributions would be transparent to fund investors, and any turnover or netbacks against HCM's incentive fees would be made. Dondero agreed to make the incentive fee subject to realization events (actual sales of the investments), but Daugherty was not satisfied because there was no pass-through distribution to fund investors, unlike Sierra Verde. Daugherty thought the new fund idea had died until early January 2010, when Dondero inquired about the progress and instructed Daugherty and Surgent to "get it done."

56. Daugherty enlisted the help of Moore and once again retained Lyons at Andrew Kurth to advise them on the best way to achieve Dondero's demand. On January 26, 2010, Daugherty received an email from Surgent, copying Dondero, Boyce, Clint Gilchrist ("Gilchrist") and Honis, with attachments for documents related to Tunstall Distressed Opportunities Fund, which was later renamed Tunstall Special Opportunities Fund ("Tunstall"). In the email, Surgent instructed Daugherty that Dondero directed that the documents were to be distributed to the board of directors by the end of the day. This was just one of many emails from Surgent to Daugherty pushing to get Tunstall launched. Daugherty continued to resist signing the Tunstall Capital Management, LP ("Tunstall Capital") documents because he was not comfortable with numerous elements of the documents, including the fee structure to be paid to Tunstall Capital to manage Tunstall.

57. Daugherty made his views opposing the structure of Tunstall Capital and the fees paid by Tunstall clear to Dondero during several meetings in Dondero's office. On September 1, 2010, Daugherty learned that all committee members for the portfolio companies had approved the formation of Tunstall and the fees structure.

58. On January 22, 2011, Dondero sent Daugherty another email stating that 75% of Tunstall Capital fees had already been distributed (to Dondero and Okada and their affiliates via Highland Services), and that the remainder must be distributed by February 15, 2011 to Daugherty, and he needed to sign the documents. Daugherty again refused to sign. On March 13, 2011, Daugherty was informed that Tunstall Capital was a part of his compensation for 2010. He received several other emails from Dondero, declaring that he needed to sign the Tunstall Capital documents. Daugherty again refused to sign.

59. Having his past incentive compensation awards virtually wiped out from late 2008 to early 2009, but avoiding a bankruptcy filing for HCM, Daugherty focused on managing his HCM private equity portfolio back to health, and again began to experience significant successes by the end of 2009 and into 2010. HCM stabilized, primarily as a result of hundreds of millions of dollars of gains due to Daugherty's investments and restructuring contributions. Dondero proposed that Daugherty launch a new follow-on fund to Restoration, which had been tremendously successful under his leadership. Daugherty began the marketing process for Tunstall RCP II in early 2011.

60. Daugherty received his Compensation and Benefits letter for 2010 on the last day of February 2011. He was disappointed to see that he was awarded less compensation than the year before, reduced by 50% of the board fees he was allowed to keep pursuant to HCP's Board Compensation Turnover Plan, with a payout over two years instead of one. He was also told that Dondero would not grant him the promised 5-10% ownership interests in any of the new branding initiatives agreed to earlier. Finally, he was again told to sign the Tunstall Capital documents so that he could receive his 25% share and fees earned at that entity. Daugherty expressed his disappointment to Dondero. Dondero explained that Daugherty had to trust him and that he based his decision on Highland 2.0 (a "back to future" attempt at resetting HCM's culture to the earlier days of HCM when Dondero made decisions and awarded or changed compensation purely at his discretion). Daugherty told Dondero that Highland 2.0 would not work for him because he wanted an agreement in writing that clearly defined how he and his team would be compensated. He told Dondero that he would negotiate in good faith thru the end of the summer of 2011, explaining that if they did not have a deal by that time, he would resign from HCM at the end of the summer.

61. In the spring of 2011, Dondero asked Daugherty and David Smith ("Smith") what they thought the ultimate value and recovery would be for Cornerstone equity and bank debt, respectively, and whether Daugherty would be interested in buying some cheap for the Restoration Fund. Daugherty and Smith gave Dondero their views regarding the value of the Cornerstone debt and equity consistent with their presentations that had been prepared on a quarterly and semi-annual basis for investors. Daugherty and Smith presented Dondero with a series of analyses demonstrating what the value of the Company could be once the reimbursement environment had stabilized. Dondero then directed HCM trading personnel to offer to purchase Cornerstone's equity and debt at a significant discount from the valuation offered by Daugherty and Smith.

62. After a couple of weeks had passed, Dondero informed Daugherty and Smith that the seller was actually the committee representative for the Strat Fund, and that they were willing to pursue a sale of their Cornerstone interests for liquidity reasons, so long as the buying party was not affiliated with HCM because they did not trust Dondero's or HCM's pricing motives. More time passed, leading Daugherty and Smith to assume that the trade had died.

63. As summer began, Dondero began to show enhanced interest in how Cornerstone was valued. Daugherty found this strange, since the value used for Cornerstone was basically meaningless because the funds that held the investment did not pay fees based on estimated values; they only paid incentive fees based on realized values (e.g. when the asset was actually sold). Daugherty and Smith had appropriately and conservatively marked the position for many months and had discounted the negative factors that could impact the stock price over the foreseeable future.

64. As Dondero continued to pursue a transaction with the Highland Credit Strat Committee, he directed that a third-party valuation of Cornerstone should be performed. By early August, the new valuation of Cornerstone had been completed, and Smith presented it to Dondero. However, Dondero was not pleased with the new valuation of Cornerstone because it was "not low enough." Smith explained that Cornerstone was already conservatively marked and that he and the third-party valuation expert had already valued Cornerstone at a steep discount compared to its publicly-traded peers. Boyce was put in charge of getting a "better" third-party valuation.

65. While Daugherty was out of the office, Dondero and Boyce directed Smith to present additional and more onerous discounts to the third-party valuation expert. Additionally, Dondero, after being fully appraised of the value of real estate owned by Cornerstone as well as settlement negotiations in Cornerstone's pending litigation, instructed Smith to ignore and to omit any other value from the third-party firm's data package. Dondero and Boyce instructed Smith to make additional value reduction assumptions, including more draconian future reimbursement assumptions and management team discounts that would further reduce the third-party valuation. Finally, Dondero and Boyce received the lower valuation they had sought and presented it to the Highland Credit Strat Committee as proof for the legitimacy of their low bid price.

66. About this same time, Dondero instructed Daugherty and Smith to begin the process of granting another series of options for the Sierra Verde vehicle in order to true-up the dilutive effect of the rights offering promulgated by the Restoration investment into Cornerstone in December 2010, which effectively diluted/reduced the ownership of preexisting holders by approximately 30%. The purpose of the original rights offering was to infuse additional capital into Cornerstone so that it could make strategic acquisitions and acquire hospital real estate assets.

67. By the end of August 2011, Smith reported to Daugherty that Lyons was not comfortable with the mechanics of the second round of equity/option grants and that the request had "numerous problems." Daugherty instructed Moore, who had been the point man on the original Sierra Verde transaction, to take over the discussions with Andrews Kurth, and to advise Daugherty about any problems he discovered. By mid-September, Moore indicated that a second round of equity/option grants was not advisable at the past levels due to the company's material improvement since the last grants. Daugherty agreed with Moore's assessment and informed Dondero accordingly. Dondero disagreed with the assessment and instructed Daugherty to "find a way to get it done." Daugherty said he would try to find a way to complete the transaction, but that it was unlikely.

68. Also during the summer of 2011, Dondero broached the subject of having Daugherty serve as CEO of Cornerstone, while Dondero assumed the role of Chairman of the Board. Dondero told Daugherty that they could each collect the equivalent of a CEO's salary via this arrangement. Daugherty disagreed and explained to Dondero that there could only be the equivalent of one CEO's salary paid, regardless of the split between the CEO and Chairman responsibilities. Dondero then proposed a co-CEO arrangement: Daugherty would manage "operations" and work at Cornerstone three days a week while Dondero would handle "marketing" and work at Cornerstone two days a week. Dondero also informed Daugherty that Dondero would receive 60% of the CEO compensation while Daugherty would receive 40%. Dondero suggested that they would not have to follow the firm's Turnover guidelines as used for board fees. Daugherty disagreed. Dondero gave Daugherty a highlighted copy of the Restoration indenture and told him that HCM's legal/compliance group recommended that they would have to turnover certain compensation mandated by the indentures consistent with the process for board fees earned by HCM employees, but that Dondero thought it was a "grey area" and would let Daugherty decide. Daugherty showed the highlighted document to Moore and told him he did not think there was any way to keep all of the compensation as Dondero suggested. Moore agreed, and Daugherty informed Dondero that he concurred with HCM's legal/compliance department's conclusions that Dondero's approach was not permitted. Dondero and Daugherty were elected as co-CEO's of Cornerstone during the last week of August 2011. Daugherty resigned by the end of September and never collected any compensation for his services as co-CEO of Cornerstone.

69. In early September 2011, Dondero informed Daugherty of his intent to issue a second rights offering for NexBank Capital, Inc. ("NexBank Capital"). NexBank Capital is a holding Company controlled by Dondero, Okada and their affiliates, and is the sole shareholder of NexBank Capital, SSB). Daugherty and other senior HCM and affiliate employees had been granted shares in NexBank Capital pursuant to their Compensation and Benefits award for 2004. After Todd Travers and Davis Deadman left HCM and its affiliates in 2010, Dondero ordered the first rights offering to raise capital for NexBank Capital. Dondero disputed with Travers and Deadman regarding the "fair value" and lack of arms length process for the rights offering. Dondero guided the valuation experts' price lower so that he could cheaply dilute existing holders who were unwilling to participate under Dondero's leadership. Existing holders that were HCM employees were expected to be "loyal" and participate or suffer reprisals in their 2011 bonuses. Travers and Deadman were removed from the board and subsequently diluted. Daugherty reluctantly participated and was named to the NexBank Capital board of directors in early 2011. When Dondero informed Daugherty of his intent to launch a second rights offering in September 2011, Daugherty protested. This time, Dondero launched an even lower value for the rights offering and did not even bother to retain a third-party valuation expert. Dondero assured Daugherty that he would benefit because his purpose was to increase the ownership of current HCM employees like Daugherty and decrease the ownership of those former employees perceived as "disloyal" to the firm. He specifically identified Travers and Deadman as being his targets for dilution. Daugherty and other senior ranking HCP employees declined to participate.

Daugherty later learned that Amit Wahlia, who did not participate, was subsequently demoted and reassigned to report to a more junior HCM employee, Trey Parker, in early 2012.

70. Daugherty worked from Montana during the Summer of 2011, and spent most of his weeks on the road attempting to raise funds for Tunstall RCP II, a second distressed for control private equity fund. From March 2011 to September 2011, Daugherty was also in the process of negotiating his future compensation package with Dondero that would keep him at HCM through the investment period of Tunstall RCP II, which was about 5 years. Daugherty made it clear to Dondero in March 2011 that he intended to leave HCM if a new arrangement could not be worked out. He also told Dondero that he would not remain at HCM through the first close on Tunstall RCP II without an agreement that committed him to the firm for the investment period of the Tunstall RCP II Fund. Dondero assured Daugherty that he would provide him and his team with more autonomy and a market-based deal by the end of the summer.

71. Dondero offered Daugherty a Compensation and Benefits Statement that was delivered to Daugherty by Brian Collins on September 26, 2011. The statement included a series of inducements that included cash and bonuses, 25% of the management fees in Tunstall RCP II, the 40% share of the CEO compensation from Cornerstone, full retention of portfolio board fees as allowed by HCM compliance, 15% of a future REIT (assuming it was launched) and 25% of the before-mentioned Tunstall Capital management fees.

72. Daugherty had concerns about some of the components of the compensation offer, namely the co-CEO role at Cornerstone and the Tunstall Capital fees. However, before he could address these issues, Dondero retracted the REIT award and inexplicably rescinded the entire offer on September 27, 2011. When Daugherty called Dondero to protest, he was told "Fuck you! Quit!" When he later tried to discuss the matter by email, Dondero sent him a response (with a copy to Boyce) telling him: "[You] will get no agreement in writing" and "[You] will trust or you will leave."

73. By this point, Daugherty was already very frustrated by the proposition of having Dondero as a co-CEO of Cornerstone, since he regularly missed entire board meetings and corporate dinners for Cornerstone and other portfolio companies in which he served as board member. He was also tired of having his job made more complicated by constantly having to find solutions to Dondero's self-dealing and conflicts of interest. Further, he was generally disgusted by Donderos's attempts to manipulate mark-downs so that he could take advantage of his own investors. Daugherty was unwilling to tolerate Dondero's latest attempt to re-trade his commitment to Daugherty's compensation and bonus terms and was totally fed up with the entire HCM culture, which pitted senior managers against one another in order to incite negative comments and backstabbing to justify paying each less. Daugherty submitted his letter of resignation on September 28, 2011.

74. The day following his resignation and pursuant to his 30-day notice, Daugherty reported to work and attended a meeting in Boyce's conference room to present his thoughts and recommendations on each investment within his portfolio and each member of his team. Boyce and Britain were in attendance. Daugherty again brought up the problems with issuing a second round of equity/option grants for Cornerstone to the Sierra Verde entity. He also told all in attendance that the lawyers at Andrews Kurth, as counsel to Cornerstone and the board, were unlikely to approve of the supplemental issuance demanded by Dondero and that the idea should not be pursued. He continued to give his views on other portfolio positions and personnel.

75. After the meeting, Boyce and Britain conspired to deprive Daugherty of his earned compensation by converting and modifying contracts and vessels which Daugherty had vested ownership in. They both disliked Daugherty and each stood to gain by acquiring power and prestige with his departure. Throughout 2011, Boyce inserted himself into the affairs of Daugherty's team and created problems and tensions in order to undermine Daugherty. Boyce and Britain also led the implementation of Highland 2.0, which was used to reduce Daugherty's influence at the firm and over his team.

76. On September 30, 2012, Boyce and Britain began interrogating many of the members of Daugherty's private equity team regarding the initial Sierra Verde grants and the formation of that vessel. Boyce was livid to learn that he had not been included in the Sierra Verde transaction and that its value was now substantial. In fact, Boyce and Britain focused much of their attention in the days following Daugherty's departure on investigating and confronting private equity team members with the fact that their equity/option grants could now be worth more than what Boyce and Britain had received in total compensation for 2010.

77. Their accusations were self-serving and wholly ignored the fact that the Sierra Verde grant process began in 2009, when all security levels were much lower because of the global financial crisis against a context where HCM itself had defaulted on its bank loans and had contemplated filing for bankruptcy. Their investigation ignored the fact that these grants were approved by the independent board members on behalf of each company following a process that was dictated by outside counsel at Andrews Kurth and by HCM counsel, Surgent, on behalf of the HCM-managed funds. In fact, Britain boasted that he intended to never speak to Daugherty again upon hearing of his resignation. This obviously made it difficult for Britain to determine the reason for Sierra Verde's creation and the purpose and process behind it.

78. Several of the private equity team members, including Moore, Lawler, Smith and Callan, reported to Daugherty that Boyce and Britain were determined to unwind the Sierra Verde vessel and presented it as a rogue transaction promulgated by Daugherty. Never once did Britain or Boyce seek Daugherty's explanation for the genesis, scope and intent of the plan. They later discovered that Dondero had mandated the plan in 2009 and that Surgent had given the Legal Department's approval for the plan -- with Lyon's blessing.

79. On October 2, 2011, Dondero reached out to Daugherty to have drinks at Nicola's Restaurant telling Daugherty: "Life is too short for it to be anything but a pleasant exchange between two battle-hardened warriors." They met at Nicolas's on October 6, 2011. In that meeting, Dondero discussed, in great detail, how he recently discovered his wife's infidelity. He suggested that other wives of HCM employees had not been faithful to their husbands as well, while assuring Daugherty that his wife had remained faithful.

80. Dondero then offered, as evidence of his wife's unfaithfulness to their marriage, about 20 pages of emails and text messages between his wife and her alleged lover. He explained to Daugherty that he had spent about three sleepless days reading almost 20,000 emails and texts raided from various tracking sources he had through his connections with certain branches of the intelligence community. Dondero explained that the emails and texts covered every communication his wife had over their five-year marriage. He also mentioned that he had used sources that were illegal in order to obtain the information and had committed about 20,000 misdemeanors in the process.

81. In the meeting, Dondero went on to explain that at the time of Daugherty's resignation, he was in the process of reviewing these communications and that initially, a cell phone number he identified as belonging to Daugherty kept recurring, causing him to think Daugherty may have been having an affair with his wife as well. Dondero admitted that it was not until the following week when he was able to match up phone numbers with messages that he had been able to determine that his wife was communicating with Daugherty's wife, primarily regarding children's activities.

82. Dondero then attempted to entice Daugherty to come back to HCM by re-offering him the options of Cornerstone that had previously been held in the Sierra Verde vessel, which had been illegally dissolved after Daugherty's departure. He also offered Daugherty the full CEO position at Cornerstone, conditioned upon Daugherty's agreement that Dondero could alter his compensation as he felt appropriate and that his private equity team members could be reassigned as Dondero determined to be necessary. Dondero also told Daugherty that he would continue to lead the marketing effort for the Tunstall RCP II Fund. He dangled other incentives before Daugherty in order to attempt to entice him to return, including his right to maintain his board positions at MGM Studios and Safety-Kleen Systems, Inc.

83. Daugherty was understandably unnerved by this entirely bizarre conversation. He thanked Dondero for the offer, but respectfully declined. As Daugherty prepared to leave, Dondero asked that Daugherty think it over and get back to him with a final answer later. The following morning, Daugherty reported to work and was soon greeted by Boyce who remarked that he had heard the meeting with Dondero "went well" and that Daugherty would be staying at HCM under the revised offer proposed by Dondero. Daugherty informed Boyce that while the meeting was civil, he had no intention of remaining at HCM under the new terms or under any other terms. Boyce left Daugherty's office with a surprised look on his face.

84. On October 12, 2011, Boyce informed Daugherty that Dondero had originally instructed him to find a way to get out of paying Daugherty under Sierra Verde the day after Daugherty resigned. Boyce, in an attempt to play "good cop," then assured Daugherty that he would try and get him the value of his Sierra Verde holdings. Boyce's efforts were hollow, since he did not like Daugherty. Boyce considered Daugherty a threat and envied Daugherty's senior position within the firm. Boyce desperately wanted to lead the private equity group managed by Daugherty. When Daugherty informed Boyce that he was unwilling to accept Dondero's revised offer, Boyce aggressively lobbied to have Daugherty removed from the office immediately.

85. When Daugherty returned to the office on October 17, 2011, Boyce had Brian Collins, Head of Human Resources, present Daugherty with three documents relating to HCM's separation offer: (1) Sierra Verde Consent – a document to be signed by the Board of Directors of Sierra Verde agreeing to have the vessel dissolved; (2) Cornerstone Separation Agreement - a document dictating that Daugherty was no longer co-CEO and Chairman of Cornerstone, and that he would be paid $600,000.00 over the following 18 months in exchange for his continuing duty to consult and cooperate relating to Cornerstone matters; and (3) HCM Separation Agreement – with new and more restrictive terms and release provisions from Daugherty's 2004 Employment Agreement. At this meeting, Daugherty stated that he wanted his compensation awards and that he was exercising any rights to be paid such awards. Daugherty received a compensation spreadsheet explaining his remaining payouts.

86. Daugherty was also informed by various HCM employees that Dondero had hastily called a brief meeting with Restoration investors the previous Friday and had informed them that Daugherty had resigned from the firm because he had "flaked out" and "wanted to go to Montana because he didn't know what he wanted to do with his life." Dondero also told Julie Silcock at Houlihan Lokey that Daugherty had "taken a one year leave of absence."

87. Within days of being asked to vacate HCM's offices, Daugherty received immediate pressure from Surgent, Collins and Dondero to sign the new separation documents, which he refused to do. He also noted that the documents he was given instructed him to seek the advice of legal counsel, which he had not had a chance to do. On October 20, 2011, Daugherty asked Collins if the offer was an all or nothing deal and whether he had to execute all three documents in order for any one of them to be effective. Collins replied that he did.

88. Daugherty also inquired of Surgent why Sierra Verde was being unwound and dissolved. Surgent told him it was an "improper transaction" and was not permitted under the relevant indenture documents. When Daugherty asked how it was that this was just being discovered now, especially since Surgent was involved in the Sierra Verde approval and formation process dating back to 2009, Surgent did not respond. Daugherty said he was willing to entertain substitute consideration if there was a legitimate mistake, but that he was confused as to how it was now determined that the indenture did not permit Daugherty and the private equity team to receive options on the performance of Cornerstone and Trussway – especially since a payment could only be realized upon a successful sale of the company, with full disclosure to the funds' investors. Further, if the Sierra Verde vessel was improper, Daugherty could not understand how it was permissible for him to receive monthly payments by Cornerstone equaling $600,000.00 under the proposed Cornerstone Separation Agreement, when there was no connection to Cornerstone's performance and the payments would not be visible to the fund's investors. Surgent again did not respond.

89. Daugherty further inquired about how the rest of his private equity team was being compensated. Surgent refused to answer Daugherty's question, other than to say that his former private equity team had been taken care of. Finally, Daugherty asked Surgent how it was deemed that the performance-driven option program under Sierra Verde was considered impermissible but the Tunstall fees were considered permissible. Surgent did not respond.

90. Daugherty later discovered that the Cornerstone independent board members had not been informed of the Sierra Verde unwind and were completely unaware that there was a compensation dispute with Daugherty. Dondero left voice messages with Daugherty telling him he needed to sign the documents and offering to update him on "what it's like to be married to a tramp wife."

91. On October 27, 2011, Dondero sent Daugherty an email notifying him that HCM had changed the documents and that all of the new documents would have to be signed. Surgent, Collins and Dondero attempted to schedule another meeting to discuss the new documents on October 28, 2011. Daugherty declined to discuss the matter further with HCM and referred the matter to his attorneys.

92. In January 2012, Daugherty was informed that Dondero, Boyce, Britain and Honis were schedule to host an investor committee update for the Crusader Fund. Daugherty was listed in the presentation materials as having left HCM for "lifestyle" reasons. Dondero explained to those in attendance that Daugherty left HCM due to "lifestyle" reasons, that he was "burned out," that he was only willing to "work 30 hour weeks," and that he had effectively spent the summer of 2011 on vacation in Montana. Dondero, Boyce, Britain and Honis knew these remarks were wholly untrue, misleading and defamatory in nature. To the contrary, Daugherty was actively managing the various funds and investments and people that reported to him, and was aggressively marketing the new Tunstall RCP II Fund. Dondero was fully aware of, and indeed specifically approved of, Daugherty's request to work from a base in Montana during the summer of 2011 since so much of his time was spent on the road attending board meetings and marketing Tunstall RCP II in places like Dallas, Chicago, Boston and New York. In fact, Daugherty maintained an approximate 57 hour per week average approved by Dondero through the day of his resignation.

93. The Crusader investors did not trust Dondero because of the misrepresentations, broken promises and activities that took place with the management of their fund since 2008. Many of them knew Daugherty to be blunt, honest and hard working, and found it suspicious that he would leave HCM for "lifestyle" reasons. They insisted on having access to Daugherty to conduct an exit interview. Dondero and HCM complied with this demand and included Daugherty's email and contact information in the same presentation materials that listed Daugherty as having left for "lifestyle" reasons.

94. In late January 2012, Daugherty participated in exit interviews with certain fund committee members and detailed his views on the prospects and liquidity for the various fund investments and his reasons for leaving HCM. Daugherty presented his views in the same manner and thoroughness that he had done while conducting quarterly and semi-annual updates consistent with his responsibilities at HCM.

95. Apparently, Daugherty's views were materially inconsistent with information and advice provided by Dondero, Boyce and Britain regarding the companies in the Fund. Daugherty gave a very strong review of one of the fund's largest investments, noting that discussions were taking place at the board level to sell one of the Fund's companies to a private equity firm or take it public in an IPO (Initial Public Offering) in the third quarter of 2012, which would likely more than double the price of the stock. Britain and Dondero had presented a completely different scenario to these investors, telling them there were no plans for a liquidity event.

96. Britain and Dondero had recommended that these investors sell their shares into a HCM-endorsed tender that the portfolio company was pursuing at the direction of Dondero and Britain at half of the expected IPO/sale price. The investors were told this was their only foreseeable option for liquidity, while Dondero and Britain were simultaneously campaigning to block the company from pursuing the IPO or outright sale. Dondero and Britain knew this would transfer more value to themselves and to HCM, since other HCM-managed funds were paying full management fees and incentive fees to HCM and this would increase one fund's percentage ownership of the company at the expense of another fund's investors. The net effect of their scheme allowed higher fee paying funds to increase their ownership and take part in the higher price liquidity event later, while funds that had suspended fees to HCM would sell out at depressed levels. Additionally, Dondero and Britain were actively trying to acquire shares in the company from an investment bank for their personal accounts, while instructing the fund's investors to tender (sell) their shares.

97. Daugherty was asked by the committee to give his views on value and future prospects of another portfolio company. Daugherty told the group that the bank debt was easily worth 100% on the dollar, and that the equity would likely be worth two and maybe three times its current market price. Daugherty mentioned that EBITDA had significantly improved and there was a significant potential value from a proposed settlement.

98. In contrast, Daugherty learned that Dondero and Boyce had presented a far lower and bleaker value picture. In addition, among other things, they omitted any reference to the EBITDA improvement. Instead, they focused their analysis on the trailing reported quarterly EBITDA numbers and contraction by trading multiples of industry peers. Daugherty later learned that Dondero and Boyce were attempting to buy the debt and equity in this company from other Highland fund investors at deep discounts.

99. This pattern of abuse and self-dealing continues through the acts of Dondero, Okada, Britain, Boyce and Surgent. Recently, these same principals threatened investors to agree to being bought out at .75 cents on the dollar on their entire holdings in a fund, or run the risk of having their covenants stripped and being made silent partners if HCM was able to raise enough cash to buy over 50% of the partnership. Simply put, HCM is attempting to raise cash from new investors in order to steal the assets of its old investors by claiming that they are "distressed."

100. In response to a request from Dondero on Christmas Eve 2011, Daugherty agreed to meet Dondero for drinks on February 2, 2012. Daugherty had been subpoenaed by Rebecca Dondero to testify in the Dondero's divorce that morning, but the hearing had been postponed.

Dondero again chose Nicola's Restaurant to meet. During the meeting, which lasted about an hour and a half, Dondero explained to Daugherty how evil his wife was and why he was determined to pay her nothing in the divorce. Daugherty advised Dondero to pay his wife the $5 million stipulated in their prenuptial agreement because she would always be the mother of his children and would always have primary custody of them. Daugherty also advised Dondero that it wasn't good for the kids to see their father disparaging their mother in public as a "whore." Dondero said he was leery about the cost of litigation, but was following his lawyer's advice that "if his wife got all of the money up front, it would be too easy to just leave the kids with a nanny and go party in Aspen." Dondero further commented that he could also trade custody for more cash compensation at a later date.

101. Dondero then briefly mentioned Daugherty's unresolved compensation issues and acknowledged that Daugherty was treated poorly during his exit from HCM. Daugherty expressed his opinions about the real value of Sierra Verde and its underlying investments. Dondero mentioned his appreciation for Daugherty's most recent investments/restructurings and the positive impact they had on the firm's performance (MGM, Safety-Kleen, Rotech and Graceway Pharmaceuticals just to name a few). Dondero further stated that he would try to get Daugherty's compensation issues resolved quickly.

102. Daugherty awoke the next morning to a phone message requesting that he call Dondero back. The message had been left around 9:00 p.m. the previous night. Daugherty called Dondero around 7:30 a.m., and Dondero proceeded to interrogate Daugherty as to why Rebecca Dondero was seeking his testimony. Daugherty explained that he did not know, but that he was subpoenaed and was required to produce any emails between him and Dondero in 2011, any financial information of HCM, any partnership documents, and to surrender his cell phone. Dondero then attempted to help Daugherty remember how he should testify regarding his wife, suggesting that it was Daugherty's idea that he pay his wife nothing and that Daugherty had referred to Dondero's wife as a whore. Daugherty denied Dondero's manipulated version of the facts and reminded Dondero that he had encouraged him to seek marriage counseling in September 2011. Dondero became annoyed and hung up on Daugherty.

103. On February 9, 2012, Dondero phoned Daugherty and left him a message, again offering to pay him $600,000.00 from Cornerstone with a "consulting contract" in exchange for seizing his Sierra Verde shares. He also offered to purchase Daugherty's shares in Nexbank Holdings for $40 per share, compared to a recent rights offering price of $30 per share, as long as Daugherty would cease communications with former investors and executives of companies affiliated with HCM's funds.

104. Daugherty reminded Dondero that he was very familiar with the appropriate value for Cornerstone, since he had presided over the investment in various capacities as Chairman, Executive Chairman and CEO since 2008. Daugherty refused to accept Dondero and Boyce's valuation. Dondero raged at Daugherty, claiming it was his mark that was used for valuation purposes, but Daugherty reminded Dondero that it was his and Boyce's valuation, since they were the ones who ordered Smith to have the company revalued by a third-party firm while Daugherty was working from Montana.

105. Dondero then angrily proclaimed that he had spoken to someone at Concorde who told him they were not pursuing the Strat sale because Daugherty had given them HCM's confidential information and had told them not to do so. This was not true. Concorde representative served on both the Crusader committee and the Strat committee, and were thus informed of Daugherty's views of Cornerstone during the exit interview granted by HCM. Concorde independently determined not to sell to Dondero or his affiliates, despite numerous attempts by Dondero to induce a sale through the summer of 2011.

106. In the last week of February 2012, Dondero instructed certain HCM employees, as board members of the HERA program, to amend the governing documents. The amendments would allow the entity to terminate the payments and ownership interests if the board, in its sole discretion, determined that a former employee violated the terms of the confidentiality provisions in HCM's employment agreement. Dondero also instructed the board members to amend the governing documents to cause any former employee to forfeit his interest if he or she ever brought suit against HCM. This effectively made it impossible for anyone to enforce collection under the rewards program. These actions took place even though Daugherty was fully vested in the program and received a 2011 W2 from HCM claiming it as income for Daugherty and an expense for HCM.

107. In the first week of March 2012, Dondero, Okada, Boyce and Britain called a mandatory meeting among HCM professionals to inform them that there would soon be litigation with Daugherty, and that anyone caught communicating with Daugherty for any reason would be fired on the spot. They were also told that anyone who helped HCM provide damaging testimony or dirt on Daugherty would be well-regarded by management, and any misdeeds or failings of the past would be forgiven.

108. On March 19, 2012, Daugherty received a letter from counsel for HCM alleging broad, ambiguous and unsupported violations of various agreements, and claiming that Daugherty had therefore forfeited "compensation and other payments and distributions" that he was entitled to under "any policy, plan, or agreement with Highland or any of its affiliates." Such conduct constitutes an anticipatory repudiation of the parties' agreements.

109. On April 4, 2012, Daugherty testified, pursuant to a subpoena issued by Rebecca Dondero, in Dondero's divorce proceedings, currently pending in a Family District Court in Dallas County. At the hearing, Daugherty testified that he believed Highland was stable and solvent. He also testified that while he was having drinks with Dondero, Dondero told Daugherty that he was going to get his net worth down to as little as possible in order to avoid paying his wife the $5 million that she was entitled to pursuant to the couple's prenuptial agreement. During the hearing and after Daugherty had testified, Dondero stated, off the record, that he would "destroy" Daugherty. Two weeks later, Plaintiff filed its Original Petition.

V.

GENERAL CAUSES OF ACTION

110. For each cause of action herein, Daugherty re-alleges and incorporates by reference each and every allegation and statement contained in the foregoing paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

A. REQUEST FOR DECLARATORY JUDGMENT AS TO THE EMPLOYMENT AGREEMENT

111. Pursuant to Section 37.001 of the Texas Civil Practice & Remedies Code, et seq., Plaintiff requests that the Court determine the rights of the parties with regard to the Restrictive Covenants contained in Section 5.3 of the Employment Agreement. Plaintiff seeks a declaratory judgment that the non-solicitation and non-competition covenants are overly-broad and unenforceable and not reasonably tailored to protect the business interests and good will of HCM and are accordingly, unenforceable under Section 15.50 of the Texas Business & Commerce Code.

B. BREACH OF THE EMPLOYMENT AGREEMENT AGAINST HCM

112. Pursuant to the Employment Agreement, Daugherty was entitled to participate in any bonus, option or similar incentive compensation plan, including the LTIP, the HERA Plan, Sierra Verde and HCM's Defined Benefit Pension Plan. Daughtery's termination under the Employment Agreement was a "Voluntary Termination—Non-Competing Business," as dictated by Section 4.5 of the Employment Agreement, which requires HCM to honor any amounts or rights to which the employee would be entitled to under any other written agreements with HCM.

113. Section 4.5 of the Employment Agreement further required HCM to pay Daugherty severance pay dependent upon his execution of a separation agreement and release "substantially in the form" as Exhibit "A" to the Employment Agreement. In further breach of the Employment Agreement, HCM presented Daugherty with a General Release and Separation Agreement on October 27, 2011 which did not resemble, in any respect, Exhibit "A" to the Employment Agreement.

114. By reason of the foregoing acts and conduct of HCM, and breach of numerous agreements, including the Employment Agreement, Daugherty has been damaged in an amount in excess of the minimum jurisdictional limits of this Court.

C. DEFAMATION AGAINST HCM AND DONDERO

115. In connection with Daugherty leaving his employment with HCM, HCM and Dondero published false statements of fact regarding Daugherty stating, among other things, that Daugherty was "burned out" and had left for "lifestyle" reasons. HCM and Dondero made such statements knowing them to be false, and published them to third parties intentionally with actual malice or reckless disregard for the truth and/or created an unreasonable risk that the defamatory statements would be communicated to third parties.

116. HCM and Dondero's actions constitute defamation per se, because the nature of the defamatory statements related to Daugherty's professional character, reputation or standing. HCM and Dondero's defamation of Daugherty proximately caused damage to Daugherty in excess of the minimum jurisdictional limits of this Court.

VI.

SIERRA VERDE CAUSES OF ACTION

117. For each cause of action herein, Daugherty re-alleges and incorporates by reference each and every allegation and statement contained in the foregoing paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

A. BREACH OF CONTRACT AGAINST SIERRA VERDE AND DONDERO

118. On December 16, 2010, a Limited Liability Company Agreement ("Agreement") was entered into by Sierra Verde and certain Members, including Daugherty, who were holders of units. Pursuant to the Agreement, Dondero was named the Manager of Sierra Verde and given "sole right, power and authority to manage, direct and control all of the business and affairs" of Sierra Verde.

119. After Daughterly left his employment at HCM, and in an illegal and unilateral breach of the Agreement intended to cause harm to Daugherty and to deprive him of his valuable ownership interests in Sierra Verde, Sierra Verde and Dondero took steps to purportedly unwind and dissolve Sierra Verde.

120. Sierra Verde and Dondero further breached the Agreement by failing to give Daugherty, as a holder of units, his entitled vote, as required by Section 3.3 of the Agreement.

121. Sierra Verde and Dondero failed to deliver to Daugherty, as a holder of units, the quarterly reports required by Section 3.5 of the Agreement, again in breach of the Agreement.

122. Sierra Verde and Dondero engaged in other acts amounting to blatant, illegal breaches of the Sierra Verde Agreement, including but not limited to, the improper delegation of power and authority to Dondero as Manager and the failure to properly distribute cash and assets of Sierra Verde to Daughtery, as a holder of units, upon the dissolution of Sierra Verde.

123. By reason of the foregoing acts and conduct of Sierra Verde and Dondero, Daugherty has been damaged in an amount in excess of the minimum jurisdictional limits of this Court.

B. OPPRESSION OF A MINORITY SHAREHOLDER AGAINST SIERRA VERDE AND DONDERO

124. At all relevant times, Daugherty was a minority holder of units in Sierra Verde. Sierra Verde and Dondero, as Manager, have engaged in conduct that constitutes oppression of Daugherty, a minority shareholder, including but not limited to the following: (i) unwinding and dissolving Sierra Verde; (ii) failing to provide Daugherty with required quarterly reports; (iii) committing multiple breaches of the Sierra Verde Agreement; (iv) failing to provide Daugherty with his voting rights under the Agreement; and (v) failing to distribute any property or other assets to Daughtery in accordance with his ownership interests.

125. The actions of Sierra Verde and Dondero served to substantially defeat the expectations of Daugherty, as a member of Sierra Verde with a minority ownership. Daugherty's expectations were both reasonable under the circumstances and central to his decision to continue in the employ of HCM. Further, the actions of Sierra Verde and Dondero were burdensome, harsh, and wrongful conduct amounting to a lack of probity and fair dealing in the affairs of Sierra Verde to the prejudice of Daugherty. Sierra Verde and Dondero visibly departed from the standards of fair dealing on which Daugherty was entitle to rely.

126. By reason of the foregoing acts and conduct, Daugherty has suffered damages in an amount in excess of the minimum jurisdictional limits of this Court.

C. BREACH OF FIDUCIARY DUTY ON BEHALF OF SIERRA VERDE

127. At all relevant times, Daugherty was a holder of units in Sierra Verde, and may thus pursue a derivative action if Sierra Verde refuses to pursue action against Dondero.

128. As a majority shareholder and an officer of Sierra Verde, Dondero owed fiduciary duties of due care and loyalty to Sierra Verde.

129. Dondero engaged in unfair business transactions with respect to Sierra Verede, including: (i) unwinding and dissolving Sierra Verde; (ii) fraudulently inducing holders of units in Sierra Verde to agree to unwind Sierra Verde based upon false statements of fact; (iii) attempting to coerce Daugherty to agree to unwind Sierra Verde; (iv) failing to provide Daugherty with required quarterly reports; (v) committing multiple breaches of the Sierra Verde Agreement; (vi) failing to provide Daugherty with his voting rights under the Agreement; and

(vii) failing to distribute any property or other assets to Daughtery in accordance with his ownership interests.

130. Specifically, Dondero breached his duties of (i) candor; (ii) loyalty and utmost good faith; (iii) refraining from self-dealing; (iv) integrity of the strictest kind; and (v) full disclosure.

131. The transactions decreased the value of Sierra Verde's shares and caused damages to Sierra Verde and its unit holders.

D. IMPROPER WITHHOLDING OF CORPORATE BOOKS AND RECORDS

132. Defendant is a minority holder of units and has demanded to inspect Sierra Verde's books and records. Defendant's purpose for inspecting the company books and records is reasonably related to his ownership of a minority holder of units. Dondero refused to allow Daugherty access to the books and records; thus, they violated Tex. Bus. Corp. Act, Art. 2.44(B) and damaged Sierra Verde and its unit holders. Daugherty hereby requests that the Court compel Dondero to open the books and records of Sierra Verde to Daugherty for inspection and to award Daugherty his reasonable attorneys' fees pursuant to Tex. Bus. Corp. Act, Art. 2.44(B).

E. CONVERSION AGAINST SIERRA VERDE AND DONDERO

133. Daugherty, as a holder of units in Sierra Verde, owned, possessed, or had the right to immediate possession of his property.

134. Sierra Verde and Dondero, in engaging in the above described intentional conduct, wrongfully exercised dominion and control over Daugherty's personal property in a manner inconsistent with Daugherty's exclusive rights to the property. This conversion of Daugherty's property was willful, malicious and in conscious disregard of Daugherty's rights.

135. Consequently, Daugherty suffered damages in an amount in excess of the minimum jurisdictional limits of this Court. Further, Daugherty is entitled to an award of exemplary damages sufficient to punish Sierra Verde and Dondero and to serve as a deterrent to such conduct in the future.

F. UNJUST ENRICHMENT AGAINST SIERRA VERDE AND DONDERO

136. Sierra Verde and Dondero illegally received and retained benefits from Daugherty when they wrongfully dissolved and maintained the property and assets of Sierra Verde. The benefits obtained by Sierra Verde and Dondero were not gratuitous, and Sierra Verde and Dondero will be unjustly enriched if allowed to retain the benefits.

137. As a direct and proximate result of unjust enrichment, Daugherty has sustained damages in an amount in excess of the minimum jurisdictional limits of this Court.

G. BREACH OF FIDUCIARY DUTY AGAINST DONDERO

138. As Manager of Sierra Verde, Dondero controlled Sierra Verde. In engaging in the wrongful conduct described above, Dondero breached fiduciaty duties owed to Daugherty as a minority holder of units in Sierra Verde. A special relationship of trust and confidence exists between Daugherty and Dondero. Specifically, Dondero breached his duties of (i) candor; (ii) loyalty and utmost good faith; (iii) refraining from self-dealing; (iv) integrity of the strictest kind; and (v) full disclosure. Dondero's breaches of these duties has materially harmed Daugherty and unlawfully benefited Dondero and Sierra Verde.

139. Daugherty is entitled to recover damages sustained by him as a result of Dondero's breach of fiduciary duty. In addition to actual damages, Daugherty is also entitled to recover exemplary damages because Dondero intentionally and maliciously violated the fiduciary duties he owed Daugherty.

VII.

HERA CAUSES OF ACTION

140. For each cause of action herein, Daugherty re-alleges and incorporates by reference each and every allegation and statement contained in the foregoing paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

A. BREACH OF CONTRACT AGAINST HCM AND HERA

141. On October 26, 2009, a Limited Liability Company Agreement ("Agreement") was entered into by HERA and HCM and other members of the board of HERA, including Daugherty. The purpose of the HERA Plan was to receive and hold assets contributed by HCM and to distribute proceeds of those assets from time to time to create a retention initiative. Daugherty was granted units of ownership in the HERA Plan. The unilateral decision of HCM and HERA to amend the Agreement to divest Daugherty of his valuable ownership interest constitutes a material breach of the Agreement.

142. As a result of this breach of contract, Daugherty has been damaged in an amount in excess of the minimum jurisdictional limits of this Court.

B. SHAREHOLDER OPPRESSION AGAINST DONDERO, BOYCE AND BRITAIN

143. Dondero, as well as, Boyce and Britain, who were members of HERA's board of directors, which is effectively controlled by Dondero, engaged in oppressive conduct by unilaterally amending the Agreement to suspend distributions for any holder of units who commenced litigation, initiated a dispute or made a claim related to HERA or its management or members. This conduct substantially defeated the expectations of Daugherty, as a member of the HERA Plan with a minority ownership. Daugherty's expectations were both reasonable under the circumstances and central to his decision to join HCM. Further, these defendants engaged in burdensome, harsh, and/or wrongful conduct and a lack of probity and fair dealing in the company's affairs to the prejudice of Daugherty. Defendants visibly departed from the standards of fair dealing on which Daugherty was entitled to rely.

144. As a direct and proximate result, Daugherty has suffered damages in an amount in excess of the minimum jurisdictional limits of this Court.

C. DERIVATIVE CLAIM FOR BREACH OF FIDUCIARY DUTY

145. At all relevant times, Daugherty was a member of HERA with a minority ownership.

146. As members of HERA's Board of Directors, Dondero, Boyce, and Britain owed fiduciary duties of due care and loyalty to Sierra Verde.

147. Dondero, Boyce, and Britain enganged in unfair business transactions with respect to HERA by unilaterally amending the Agreement to suspend distributions for any holder of units who commenced litigation, initiated a dispute or made a claim related to HERA or its management or members, making it impossible for anyone to enforce collections through the rewards program.

148. By engaging in the aforementioned conduct, Dondero, Boyce, and Britain breached their duties of (i) candor; (ii) loyalty and utmost good faith; (iii) refraining from self-dealing; (iv) integrity of the strictest kind; and (v) full disclosure.

149. The transactions decreased the value of ownership in HERA and caused damages to HERA and its members.

D. CONVERSION AGAINST HERA, HCM, DONDERO, BOYCE AND BRITAIN

150. Daugherty owned, possessed, or had the right to immediate possession of his property, including his interests in HERA.

151. These Defendants wrongfully exercised dominion and control over Daugherty's personal property in a manner inconsistent with Daugherty's exclusive rights to the property. Daugherty suffered injury in an amount in excess of the minimum jurisdictional limits of this Court. Defendants' conversion of Daugherty's property was willful, malicious and in conscious disregard of Daugherty's rights. Consequently, Daugherty is entitled to an award of exemplary damages sufficient to punish HERA, HCM, Dondero, Boyce and Britain and to serve as a deterrent to such conduct in the future.

VIII.

LTIP CAUSES OF ACTION

152. For each cause of action herein, Daugherty re-alleges and incorporates by reference each and every allegation and statement contained in the foregoing paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

A. BREACH OF CONTRACT AGAINST HCM

153. Effective January 1, 2005, HCM established a long-term incentive program for selected key employees, including Daugherty. The LTIP was established to create positive morale and teamwork, to attract and retain key talent and to encourage achievement of common goals. Daugherty was granted long-term incentive units in the LTIP. HCM's unilateral decision to divest Daugherty of his valuable ownership interest in units held by him constitutes a material breach of the parties' agreement.

154. As a result of this breach of contract, Daugherty has been damaged in an amount in excess of the minimum jurisdictional limits of this Court.

B. CONVERSION AGAINST HCM

155. Daugherty owned, possessed, or had the right to immediate possession of his property, including his interests in the LTIP.

156. HCM wrongfully exercised dominion and control over Daugherty's personal property in a manner inconsistent with Daugherty's exclusive rights to the property. Daugherty suffered injury in an amount in excess of the minimum jurisdictional limits of this Court. HCM's conversion of Daugherty's property was willful, malicious and in conscious disregard of Daugherty's rights. Consequently, Daugherty is entitled to an award of exemplary damages sufficient to punish HCM and to serve as a deterrent to such conduct in the future.

IX.

ATTORNEYS' FEES AGAINST HCM, DONDERO, SIERRA VERDE AND HERA

157. Daugherty seeks recovery of the costs and reasonable and necessary attorneys' fees incurred in connection with this action pursuant to Sections 37.009 and 38.001 of the Texas Civil Practice and Remedies Code.

X.

REQUEST FOR DISCLOSURE

158. Pursuant to Rule 194 of the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure, HCM, HERA, Sierra Verde, Dondero, Boyce and Britain are hereby requested to disclose the information or material described in Rule 194.2. This is a continuing duty and requires supplementation in accordance with the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure.

PRAYER

WHEREFORE, PREMISES CONSIDERED, Daugherty respectfully requests that this Honorable Court grant the following relief:

Upon trial of this cause, that the Court make an award in favor of Daugherty and against HCM, HERA, Sierra Verde, Dondero, Boyce and Britain for the following:

a. Actual damages and exemplary damages;

b. A declaratory judgment that the covenants not to compete are unenforceable under Section 15.50 of the Texas Business & Commerce Code;

c. Reasonable and necessary attorneys' fees and costs incurred; prejudgment and post judgment interest as allowed by law; and,

d. Any and all further relief the Court deems just and equitable.

Respectfully submitted,

By: _____

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that a true and correct copy of the foregoing document has been transmitted by certified mail – return receipt requested to counsel for Defendant, Marc D. Katz and Aaron J. Epstein, Andrews Kurth LLP, 1717 Main St., Suite 3700, Dallas, Texas 75201, on this 22nd day of May, 2012.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P.,	§	IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF

v.	§
PATRICK DAUGHERTY,	§
Defendant and Counter-Plaintiff,	§
v.	§	DALLAS COUNTY, TEXAS
SIERRA VERDE, LLC, HIGHLAND EMPLOYEE RETENTION ASSETS LLC, JAMES DONDERO, PATRICK BOYCE, AND WILLIAM L. BRITAIN,	§
Third-Party Defendants.	§	68th JUDICIAL DISTRICT

ORDER ON AGREED MOTION TO PARTIALLY VACATE THE FINAL JUDGMENT DATED JULY 14, 2014

On this day the Court considered the Agreed Motion to Partially Vacate the Final Judgment Dated July 14, 2014 (the "Motion") filed by plaintiff Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland") and defendant Patrick Daugherty ("Daugherty"). Capitalized terms not defined in this Order shall have the meanings ascribed to them in the Motion. The Court finds that it has plenary jurisdiction to enter this Order on the Motion because the Motion is agreed to by Highland and Daugherty and only affects the portion of the Judgment relating to Highland's claims against Daugherty. The Court further finds that it has plenary jurisdiction to enter this Order based on its plenary jurisdiction to enforce the Judgment, including the permanent injunction against Daugherty that was included in the Judgment. Additionally, the Court finds that it has authority to issue this Order modifying the permanent injunction contained in the Judgment because of changed circumstances that now exist. The Court also finds that Highland and Daugherty stipulated that the Motion constituted an agreement pursuant to Tex. R. Civ. P. 11, and the Court has plenary jurisdiction to enforce that agreement irrespective of whether the Court lost its plenary jurisdiction over the Judgment itself. See Coale v. Scott, 331 S.W.3d 829, 831-32 (Tex. App.—Amarillo 2011, no pet.) ("Irrespective of whether a trial court lost its plenary jurisdiction over its judgment, the trial court's authority to approve a Rule 11 agreement does not depend on whether it has such jurisdiction").

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that the following portions of the Judgment are hereby vacated:

a. The entirety of the second full paragraph on Page 2 of the Judgment, which begins "The Court, after considering the jury's findings regarding Daugherty's breaches of contract and breaches of fiduciary duty . . .";

b. The entirety of the permanent injunction rendered against Daugherty in the third full paragraph on Page 2 of the Judgment, which begins "It is therefore further ORDERED that Daugherty be and hereby is commanded to cease and desist from . . .";

c. The entirety of the fourth and fifth full paragraphs on Page 2 of the Judgment awarding Highland a monetary judgment against Daugherty for reasonable and necessary attorney's fees, as well as post-judgment interest on that award.[1]

[1] Daugherty previously satisfied the monetary judgment awarded to Highland, and Highland filed a release of the monetary judgment. Although Highland and Daugherty agree to vacate the monetary judgment awarded to Highland, Highland is not required to reimburse Daugherty for his prior satisfaction of the monetary judgment. See Motion at 3, n.1. To the extent Daugherty is entitled to indemnification from any liabilities, losses, and damages allegedly incurred by him for actions taken in connection with Highland's business, including the liabilities Daugherty allegedly incurred in connection with the action and the Judgment, the Parties have represented that all of Daugherty's claims

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the jury's answers to Questions 1, 2, 5, 6, 9 and 12 in the jury's verdict, which was attached as Exhibit 1 to the Judgment, are hereby vacated.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that if either Party has any pending motions seeking relief against the other Party, such motions are denied as moot in conformity with their Settlement Agreement.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Highland shall not seek to enforce the permanent injunction in any manner.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that this Order shall not affect any provision or term of the Judgment not specifically vacated herein, and all such provisions shall remain in full force and effect.

SIGNED THIS ____ DAY OF MARCH 2022.

HONORABLE MARTIN HOFFMAN

against the Highland Released Parties, including such indemnification claims, were fully and finally resolved in the Settlement Agreement approved by the Court in Highland's Bankruptcy Case.

Potential TL compensation questions and answers (written as if they were answered by Jim and Mark)

- Q: Why am I not getting any cash compensation until at least May?
  - As part of our ongoing negotiations with our bank group, we needed to reduce our total compensation paid in February
  - Rather than further reduce bonus amounts across the board, or even within just TLs, we felt that any delay should be felt by the firm's leaders more than the majority of our employees
  - Therefore, we felt it was best to delay the cash payments to TLs until we receive our next flow of fees in May
- How did you determine my bonus?
  - We evaluated each TL's performance in 2008, using your own self-evaluations, financial results, results of other efforts/projects led, feedback from around the firm, and our own experiences. Then we set a target total cash compensation for each TL based on their performance. The total cash compensation includes base salary from 2008, the 2008 Defined Benefit contribution, any Waiver and Release payments, other bonuses or compensation given in 2008, as well as a cash bonus award, and any anticipated estimated upcoming tax refund from taxes paid by partners in 2006 and 2007 via a distribution from Highland.
  - From this target total cash compensation, we subtracted all other forms of compensation listed above except for the cash bonus award, and if there was any additional amount remaining, made the cash bonus award equal to that remaining amount
- Why would you consider the tax refund as part of compensation? Isn't the refund in my name?
  - When you paid taxes in 2006 and 2007 that are now potentially subject to a refund, you received a distribution from Highland to pay those taxes. Now we believe that the taxes were overpaid, due to subsequent losses, and as such, Highland distributed an excessive amount to you to pay the taxes. Accordingly, any difference, now or then, ends up being extra compensation to you, and keeping the refund represents an extra compensation to you from Highland (NOTE: this is by no means well researched legal argument. The Tax Dept. is investigating various legal and tax rationale in this matter, and we can discuss various options on this argument further in a verbal conversation)

- Is the tax refund amount listed what I should expect to receive?
  - It is the Tax Department's current best estimate. As we get closer to completing the work to generate K-1 statements for you, we will have a better sense of the amounts (your tax professional would then use the K-1 statement to file your refund request).
  - The specific amount for each person will vary based on each person's individual tax situation and rates in the years 2006 and 2007, so there is not a single answer. The number shown assumes an estimated 27% tax rate, and then grosses-up the tax refund at that rate to show a true, apples-to-apples number vs. the other forms of compensation (which are pre-tax, while the tax refund is not taxable). Each person's own actual refund may vary based on their own effective tax rate
  - Furthermore, these tax refund amounts are not guaranteed, as the IRS still has the authority to audit our claimed losses and resulting refunds due
- What would happen if my actual tax refund is different from this estimate, or if the timing is significantly delayed? Would I be "trued-up" if is it less? What if it is more?
  - If the actual refund ends up being different than the estimated amount, then we would consider what action to take on a case-by-case basis, considering several factors including the difference in the refund amount and if that creates any "gap" between the target total cash compensation and your actual cash compensation would be.

Keep in mind one thing – the tax refund would be one lump sum, so it would be effectively a much greater amount of money than you may have received as a bonus in past years, which have been paid in installments. By getting the money in 1 installment, at time 0, we think this creates a form of compensation that you will value much more.

- When can I expect my tax refund? My cash bonus award?
  - The IRS has 90 days to respond to a refund filing. A response may be paying the refund, or it may be additional clarifying questions or even an audit request. You can file for your refund once you have received a K-1 statement from Highland. The tax refund covers tax years 2006 and 2007, and these statements from each of these years may be ready at different times. We expect to have an estimated version (of 2006, 2007, or both?) ready within the next two weeks (note: this is from Rick, who also says that he, Patrick B, others should have a conversation to discuss this process and how we would want to communicate this to others partners)
  - The first installment of the cash bonus award will follow our next CLO flow payments, which is May 1. Like everyone else in the firm with bonuses greater than $50,000, the cash bonus will be paid in 4 installments: early May 2009, August 31, 2009, February 26, 2010, and August 31, 2010.
- What is the 2009 Deferred Compensation / Retention Award?
  - Three year cliff vest (100% vesting occurs on February 28, 2012)
  - Invested 50% into Restoration and 50% into the Real Estate Fund
  - Awarded under terms of the Highland Capital Management, L.P. and Affiliates Short-Term Incentive Plan (STIP)
  - Deferred Compensation is composed of:
    - Retention Award, which is designed to enhance the alignment of interests between the firm and key performers

  - Retention Award - Catch-up, which maintains alignment of interests for previously awarded Option IT and STIP and recognizes decline in value of those awards

- Why Restoration and Real Estate?
  - We feel these funds are the most appropriate at this time for the Retention structure and purpose
- Why am I finding out that I will not get any 2008 cash bonus paid in February now instead of earlier in the month?
  - As most of you are aware, our discussions with our bank group have consistently evolved in recent days and weeks. This created enough uncertainty to prevent us from committing to anything earlier, although we were happy to be able to pay the last portion of the 2007 cash award earlier than expected

2.2 Objectives.

(a) The Claimant Trust is established for the purpose of satisfying Allowed General Unsecured Claims and Allowed Subordinated Claims (and only to the extent provided herein, Allowed Class A Limited Partnership Interests and Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests) under the Plan, by monetizing the Claimant Trust Assets transferred to it and making distributions to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries. The Claimant Trust shall not continue or engage in any trade or business except to the extent reasonably necessary to monetize and distribute the Claimant Trust Assets consistent with this Agreement and the Plan and act as sole member and manager of New GP LLC. The Claimant Trust shall provide a mechanism for (i) the monetization of the Claimant Trust Assets and (ii) the distribution of the proceeds thereof, net of all claims, expenses, charges, liabilities, and obligations of the Claimant Trust, to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries in accordance with the Plan. In furtherance of this distribution objective, the Claimant Trust will, from time to time, prosecute and resolve objections to certain Claims and Interests as provided herein and in the Plan.

The Claimant Trust shall retain all rights to commence and pursue all Causes of Action of the Debtor other than (i) Estate Claims, which shall be assigned to and commenced and pursued by the Litigation Trustee pursuant to the terms of the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement, and (ii) Causes of Action constituting Reorganized Debtor Assets, if any, which shall be commenced and pursued by the Reorganized Debtor at the direction of the Claimant Trust as sole member of New GP LLC pursuant to the terms of the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement. The Claimant Trust and Claimant Trustee shall have and retain, and, as applicable, assign and transfer to the Litigation Sub-Trust and Litigation Trustee, any and all rights, defenses, cross-claims and counter-claims held by the Debtor with respect to any Claim as of the Petition Date. On and after the date hereof, in accordance with and subject to the Plan, the Claimant Trustee shall have the authority to (i) compromise, settle or otherwise resolve, or withdraw any objections to Claims against the Debtor, provided, however, the Claimant Trustee shall only have the authority to compromise or settle any Employee Claim with the unanimous consent of the Oversight Board and in the absence of unanimous consent, any such Employee Claim shall be transferred to the Litigation Sub-Trust and be litigated, comprised, settled, or otherwise resolved exclusively by the Litigation Trustee and (ii) compromise, settle, or otherwise resolve any Disputed Claims without approval of the Bankruptcy Court, which authority may be shared with or transferred to the Litigation Trustee in accordance with the terms of the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement. For the avoidance of doubt, the Claimant Trust, pursuant to section 1123(b)(3)(B) of the Bankruptcy Code and applicable state trust law, is appointed as the successor-in-interest to, and representative of, the Debtor and its Estate for the retention, enforcement, settlement, and adjustment of all Claims other than Estate Claims, the Employee Claims, and those Claims constituting Reorganized Debtor Assets.

(b) The Claimant Trust shall be administered by the Claimant Trustee, in accordance with this Agreement, for the following purposes:

(i) to manage and monetize the Claimant Trust Assets in an expeditious but orderly manner with a view towards maximizing value within a reasonable time period;

(ii) to litigate and settle Claims in Class 8 and Class 9 (other than the Employee Claims, which shall be litigated and/or settled by the Litigation Trustee if the Oversight Board does not unanimously approve of any proposed settlement of such Employee Claim by the Claimant Trustee) and any of the Causes of Action included in the Claimant Trust Assets (including any cross-claims and counter-claims); provided, however, that Estate Claims transferred to the Litigation Sub-Trust shall be litigated and settled by the Litigation Trustee pursuant to the terms of the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement;

(iii) to distribute net proceeds of the Claimant Trust Assets to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries;

(iv) to distribute funds from the Disputed Claims Reserve to Holders of Trust Interests or to the Reorganized Debtor for distribution to Holders of Disputed Claims in each case in accordance with the Plan from time to time as any such Holder's Disputed Claim becomes an Allowed Claim under the Plan;

(v) to distribute funds to the Litigation Sub-Trust at the direction the Oversight Board;

(vi) to serve as the limited partner of, and to hold the limited partnership interests in, the Reorganized Debtor;

(vii) to serve as the sole member and manager of New GP LLC, the Reorganized Debtor's general partner;

(viii) to oversee the management and monetization of the Reorganized Debtor Assets pursuant to the terms of the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement, in its capacity as the sole member and manager of New GP LLC pursuant to the terms of the New GP LLC Documents, all with a view toward maximizing value in a reasonable time in a manner consistent with the Reorganized Debtor's fiduciary duties as investment adviser to the Managed Funds; and

(ix) to perform any other functions and take any other actions provided for or permitted by this Agreement and the Plan, and in any other agreement executed by the Claimant Trustee.

2.4 Transfer of Assets and Rights to the Claimant Trust; Litigation Sub-Trust.

(a) On the Effective Date, pursuant to the Plan, the Debtor shall irrevocably transfer, assign, and deliver, and shall be deemed to have transferred, assigned, and delivered, all Claimant Trust Assets and related Privileges held by the Debtor to the Claimant Trust free and clear of all Claims, Interests, Liens, and other encumbrances, and liabilities, except as provided in the Plan and this Agreement. To the extent certain assets comprising the Claimant Trust Assets, because of their nature or because such assets will accrue or become transferable subsequent to the Effective Date, and cannot be transferred to, vested in, and assumed by the Claimant Trust on such date, such assets shall be considered Reorganized Debtor Assets, which may be subsequently transferred to the Claimant Trust by the Reorganized Debtor consistent with the terms of the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement after such date.

(b) On or as soon as practicable after the Effective Date, the Claimant Trust shall irrevocably transfer, assign, and deliver, and shall be deemed to have transferred, assigned, and delivered, all Estate Claims and related Privileges held by the Claimant Trust to the Litigation Sub-Trust Trust free and clear of all Claims, Interests, Liens, and other encumbrances, and liabilities, except as provided in the Plan, this Agreement, and the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement. Following the transfer of such Privileges, the Litigation Trustee shall have the power to waive the Privileges being so assigned and transferred.

(c) On or before the Effective Date, and continuing thereafter, the Debtor or Reorganized Debtor, as applicable, shall provide (i) for the Claimant Trustee's and Litigation Trustee's reasonable access to all records and information in the Debtor's and Reorganized Debtor's possession, custody or control, (ii) that all Privileges related to the Claimant Trust Assets shall transfer to and vest exclusively in the Claimant Trust (except for those Privileges that will be transferred and assigned to the Litigation Sub-Trust in respect of the Estate Claims), and (iii) subject to Section 3.12(c), the Debtor and Reorganized Debtor shall preserve all records and documents (including all electronic records or documents), including, but not limited to, the Debtor's file server, email server, email archiving system, master journal, SharePoint, Oracle E-Business Suite, Advent Geneva, Siepe database, Bloomberg chat data, and any backups of the foregoing, until such time as the Claimant Trustee, with the consent of the Oversight Board and, if pertaining to any of the Estate Claims, the Litigation Trustee, directs the Reorganized Debtor, as sole member of its general partner, that such records are no longer required to be preserved. For the purposes of transfer of documents, the Claimant Trust or Litigation Sub-Trust, as applicable, is an assignee and successor to the Debtor in respect of the Claimant Trust Assets and Estate Claims, respectively, and shall be treated as such in any review of confidentiality restrictions in requested documents.

(d) Until the Claimant Trust terminates pursuant to the terms hereof, legal title to the Claimant Trust Assets (other than Estate Claims) and all property contained therein shall be vested at all times in the Claimant Trust as a separate legal entity, except where applicable law in any jurisdiction requires title to any part of the Claimant Trust Assets to be vested in the Claimant Trustee, in which case title shall be deemed to be vested in the Claimant Trustee, solely in his capacity as Claimant Trustee. For purposes of such jurisdictions, the term Claimant Trust, as used herein, shall be read to mean the Claimant Trustee.

2.5 Principal Office. The principal office of the Claimant Trust shall be maintained by the Claimant Trustee at the following address: 100 Crescent Court, Suite 1850, Dallas, Texas 75201.

2.6 Acceptance. The Claimant Trustee accepts the Claimant Trust imposed by this Agreement and agrees to observe and perform that Claimant Trust, on and subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein and in the Plan.

The Debtor, Reorganized Debtor, and any successors thereof will, upon reasonable request of the Claimant Trustee, execute, acknowledge and deliver such further instruments and do such further acts as may be necessary or proper to transfer to the Claimant Trustee any portion of the Claimant Trust Assets intended to be conveyed hereby and in the Plan in the form and manner provided for hereby and in the Plan and to vest in the Claimant Trustee the powers, instruments or funds in trust hereunder.

The cost of any such insurance shall be a Claimant Trust Expense and paid by the Claimant Trustee from the Claimant Trust Assets;

(x) without further order of the Bankruptcy Court, but subject to the terms of this Agreement, employ various consultants, third-party service providers, and other professionals, including counsel, tax advisors, consultants, brokers, investment bankers, valuation counselors, and financial advisors, as the Claimant Trustee deems necessary to aid him in fulfilling his obligations under this Agreement; such consultants, third-party service providers, and other professionals shall be retained pursuant to whatever fee arrangement the Claimant Trustee deems appropriate, including contingency fee arrangements and any fees and expenses incurred by such professionals engaged by the Claimant Trustee shall be Claimant Trust Expenses and paid by the Claimant Trustee from the Claimant Trust Assets;

(c) [Reserved.]

3.4 Investment of Cash. The right and power of the Claimant Trustee to invest the Claimant Trust Assets, the proceeds thereof, or any income earned by the Claimant Trust, with majority approval of the Oversight Board, shall be limited to the right and power to invest in such Claimant Trust Assets only in Cash and U.S. Government securities as defined in section 29(a)(16) of the Investment Company Act; provided, however that (a) the scope of any such permissible investments shall be further limited to include only those investments that a "liquidating trust" within the meaning of Treasury Regulation Section 301.7701-4(d), may be permitted to hold, pursuant to the Treasury Regulations, or any modification in the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") guidelines, whether set forth in IRS rulings, other IRS pronouncements, or otherwise, (b) the Claimant Trustee may retain any Claimant Trust Assets received that are not Cash only for so long as may be required for the prompt and orderly monetization or other disposition of such assets, and (c) the Claimant Trustee may expend the assets of the Claimant Trust (i) as reasonably necessary to meet contingent liabilities (including indemnification and similar obligations) and maintain the value of the assets of the Claimant Trust during the pendency of this Claimant Trust, (ii) to pay Claimant Trust Expenses (including, but not limited to, any taxes imposed on the Claimant Trust and reasonable attorneys' fees and expenses in connection with litigation), and (iii) to satisfy other liabilities incurred or assumed by the Claimant Trust (or to which the assets are otherwise subject) in accordance with the Plan or this Agreement).

3.5 Binding Nature of Actions. All actions taken and determinations made by the Claimant Trustee in accordance with the provisions of this Agreement shall be final and binding upon any and all Beneficiaries.

3.6 Term of Service. The Claimant Trustee shall serve as the Claimant Trustee for the duration of the Claimant Trust, subject to death, resignation or removal.

3.7 Resignation. The Claimant Trustee may resign as Claimant Trustee of the Claimant Trust by an instrument in writing delivered to the Bankruptcy Court and Oversight Board at least thirty (30) days before the proposed effective date of resignation. The Claimant Trustee shall continue to serve as Claimant Trustee after delivery of the Claimant Trustee's resignation until the proposed effective date of such resignation, unless the Claimant Trustee and a simple majority of the Oversight Board consent to an earlier effective date, which earlier effective date shall be no earlier than the date of appointment of a successor Claimant Trustee in accordance with Section 3.9 hereof becomes effective.

3.8 Removal.

(a) The Claimant Trustee may be removed by a simple majority vote of the Oversight Board for Cause for Cause immediately upon notice thereof, or without Cause upon 60 days' prior written notice. Upon the removal of the Claimant Trustee pursuant hereto, the Claimant Trustee will resign, or be deemed to have resigned, from any role or position he or she may have at New GP LLC or the Reorganized Debtor effective upon the expiration of the foregoing 60 day period unless the Claimant Trustee and a simple majority of the Oversight Board agree otherwise.

(b) To the extent there is any dispute regarding the removal of a Claimant Trustee (including any dispute relating to any compensation or expense reimbursement due under this Agreement) the Bankruptcy Court shall retain jurisdiction to consider and adjudicate such dispute. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Claimant Trustee will continue to serve as the Claimant Trustee after his removal until the earlier of (i) the time when a successor Claimant Trustee will become effective in accordance with Section 3.9 of this Agreement or (ii) such date as the Bankruptcy Court otherwise orders.

3.9 Appointment of Successor.

(a) Appointment of Successor. In the event of a vacancy by reason of the death or Disability (in the case of a Claimant Trustee that is a natural person), dissolution (in the case of a Claimant Trustee that is not a natural person), or removal of the Claimant Trustee, or prospective vacancy by reason of resignation, a successor Claimant Trustee shall be selected by a simple majority vote of the Oversight Board. If Members of the Oversight Board are unable to secure a majority vote, the Bankruptcy Court will determine the successor Claimant Trustee on motion of the Members. If a final decree has been entered closing the Chapter 11 Case, the Claimant Trustee may seek to reopen the Chapter 11 Case for the limited purpose of determining the successor Claimant Trustee, and the costs for such motion and costs related to re-opening the Chapter 11 Case shall be paid by the Claimant Trust. The successor Claimant Trustee shall be appointed as soon as practicable, but in any event no later than sixty (60) days after the occurrence of the vacancy or, in the case of resignation, on the effective date of the resignation of the then acting Claimant Trustee.

(b) Vesting or Rights in Successor Claimant Trustee. Every successor Claimant Trustee appointed hereunder shall execute, acknowledge, and deliver to the Claimant Trust, the exiting Claimant Trustee, the Oversight Board, and file with the Bankruptcy Court, an instrument accepting such appointment subject to the terms and provisions hereof. The successor Claimant Trustee, without any further act, deed, or conveyance shall become vested with all the rights, powers, trusts and duties of the exiting Claimant Trustee, except that the successor Claimant Trustee shall not be liable for the acts or omissions of the retiring Claimant Trustee. In no event shall the retiring Claimant Trustee be liable for the acts or omissions of the successor Claimant Trustee.

(c) Interim Claimant Trustee. During any period in which there is a vacancy in the position of Claimant Trustee, the Oversight Board shall appoint one of its Members to serve as the interim Claimant Trustee (the "Interim Trustee") until a successor Claimant Trustee is appointed pursuant to Section 3.9(a). The Interim Trustee shall be subject to all the terms and conditions applicable to a Claimant Trustee hereunder. Such Interim Trustee shall not be limited in any manner from exercising any rights or powers as a Member of the Oversight Board merely by such Person's appointment as Interim Trustee.

3.10 Continuance of Claimant Trust. The death, resignation, or removal of the Claimant Trustee shall not operate to terminate the Claimant Trust created by this Agreement or to revoke any existing agency (other than any agency of the Claimant Trustee as the Claimant Trustee) created pursuant to the terms of this Agreement or invalidate any action taken by the Claimant Trustee. In the event of the resignation or removal of the Claimant Trustee, the Claimant Trustee shall promptly (i) execute and deliver, by the effective date of resignation or removal, such documents, instruments, records, and other writings as may be reasonably requested by his successor to effect termination of the exiting Claimant Trustee's capacity under this Agreement and the conveyance of the Claimant Trust Assets then held by the exiting Claimant Trustee to the successor Claimant Trustee; (ii) deliver to the successor Claimant Trustee all non-privileged documents, instruments, records, and other writings relating to the Claimant Trust as may be in the possession or under the control of the exiting Claimant Trustee, provided, the exiting Claimant Trustee shall have the right to make and retain copies of such documents, instruments, records and other writings delivered to the successor Claimant Trustee and the cost of making such copies shall be a Claimant Trust Expense to be paid by the Claimant Trust; and (iii) otherwise assist and cooperate in effecting the assumption of the exiting Claimant Trustee's obligations and functions by his successor, provided the fees and expenses of such assistance and cooperation shall be paid to the exiting Claimant Trustee by the Claimant Trust. The exiting Claimant Trustee shall irrevocably appoint the successor Claimant Trustee as his attorney-in-fact and agent with full power of substitution for it and its name, place and stead to do any and all acts that such exiting Claimant Trustee is obligated to perform under this Section 3.10.

3.11 Claimant Trustee as "Estate Representative". The Claimant Trustee will be the exclusive trustee of the Claimant Trust Assets for purposes of 31 U.S.C. § 3713(b) and 26 U.S.C. § 6012(b)(3), as well as the representative of the Estate appointed pursuant to section 1123(b)(3)(B) of the Bankruptcy Code (the "Estate Representative") with respect to the Claimant Trust Assets, with all rights and powers attendant thereto, in addition to all rights and powers granted in the Plan and in this Agreement; provided that all rights and powers as representative of the Estate pursuant to section 1123(b)(3)(B) shall be transferred to the Litigation Trustee in respect of the Estate Claims and the Employee Claims. The Claimant Trustee will be the successor-in-interest to the Debtor with respect to any action pertaining to the Claimant Trust Assets, which was or could have been commenced by the Debtor prior to the Effective Date, except as otherwise provided in the Plan or Confirmation Order. All actions, claims, rights or interest constituting Claimant Trust Assets are preserved and retained and may be enforced, or assignable to the Litigation Sub-Trust, by the Claimant Trustee as an Estate Representative.

3.12 Books and Records.

(a) The Claimant Trustee shall maintain in respect of the Claimant Trust and the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries books and records reflecting Claimant Trust Assets in its possession and the income of the Claimant Trust and payment of expenses, liabilities, and claims against or assumed by the Claimant Trust in such detail and for such period of time as may be necessary to enable it to make full and proper accounting in respect thereof. Such books and records shall be maintained as reasonably necessary to facilitate compliance with the tax reporting requirements of the Claimant Trust and the requirements of Article VII herein. Except as otherwise provided herein, nothing in this Agreement requires the Claimant Trustee to file any accounting or seek approval of any court with respect to the administration of the Claimant Trust, or as a condition for managing any payment or distribution out of the Claimant Trust Assets.

(b) The Claimant Trustee shall provide quarterly reporting to the Oversight Board and Claimant Trust Beneficiaries of (i) the status of the Claimant Trust Assets, (ii) the balance of Cash held by the Claimant Trust (including in each of the Claimant Trust Expense Reserve and Disputed Claim Reserve), (iii) the determination and any re-determination, as applicable, of the total amount allocated to the Disputed Claim Reserve, (iv) the status of Disputed Claims and any resolutions thereof, (v) the status of any litigation, including the pursuit of the Causes of Action, (vi) the Reorganized Debtor's performance, and (vii) operating expenses; provided, however, that the Claimant Trustee may, with respect to any Member of the Oversight Board or Claimant Trust Beneficiary, redact any portion of such reports that relate to such Entity's Claim or Equity Interest, as applicable and any reporting provided to Claimant Trust Beneficiaries may be subject to such Claimant Trust Beneficiary's agreement to maintain confidentiality with respect to any non-public information.

(c) The Claimant Trustee may dispose some or all of the books and records maintained by the Claimant Trustee at the later of (i) such time as the Claimant Trustee determines, with the unanimous consent of the Oversight Board, that the continued possession or maintenance of such books and records is no longer necessary for the benefit of the Claimant Trust, or (ii) upon the termination and winding up of the Claimant Trust under Article IX of this Agreement; provided, however, the Claimant Trustee shall not dispose of any books and records related to the Estate Claims or Employee Claims without the consent of the Litigation Trustee. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Claimant Trustee shall cause the Reorganized Debtor and its subsidiaries to retain such books and records, and for such periods, as are required to be retained pursuant to Section 204-2 of the Investment Advisers Act or any other applicable laws, rules, or regulations.

3.13 Compensation and Reimbursement; Engagement of Professionals.

(a) Compensation and Expenses.

(i) Compensation. As compensation for any services rendered by the Claimant Trustee in connection with this Agreement, the Claimant Trustee shall receive compensation of $150,000 per month (the "Base Salary"). Within the first forty-five days following the Confirmation Date, the Claimant Trustee, on the one hand, and the Committee, if prior to the Effective Date, or the Oversight Board, if on or after the Effective Date, on the other, will negotiate go-forward compensation for the Claimant Trustee which will include (a) the Base Salary, (b) a success fee, and (c) severance.

(ii) Expense Reimbursements. All reasonable out-of-pocket expenses of the Claimant Trustee in the performance of his or her duties hereunder, shall be reimbursed as Claimant Trust Expenses paid by the Claimant Trust.

(b) Professionals.

(i) Engagement of Professionals. The Claimant Trustee shall engage professionals from time to time in conjunction with the services provided hereunder. The Claimant Trustee's engagement of such professionals shall be approved by a majority of the Oversight Board as set forth in Section 3.3(b) hereof.

(ii) Fees and Expenses of Professionals. The Claimant Trustee shall pay the reasonable fees and expenses of any retained professionals as Claimant Trust Expenses.

3.14 Reliance by Claimant Trustee. Except as otherwise provided herein, the Claimant Trustee may rely, and shall be fully protected in acting or refraining from acting, on any resolution, statement, certificate, instrument, opinion, report, notice, request, consent, order or other instrument or document that the Claimant Trustee has no reason to believe to be other than genuine and to have been signed or presented by the proper party or parties or, in the case of facsimiles, to have been sent by the proper party or parties, and the Claimant Trustee may conclusively rely as to the truth of the statements and correctness of the opinions or direction expressed therein. The Claimant Trustee may consult with counsel and other professionals, and any advice of such counsel or other professionals shall constitute full and complete authorization and protection in respect of any action taken or not taken by the Claimant Trustee in accordance therewith. The Claimant Trustee shall have the right at any time to seek instructions from the Bankruptcy Court, or any other court of competent jurisdiction concerning the Claimant Trust Assets, this Agreement, the Plan, or any other document executed in connection therewith, and any such instructions given shall be full and complete authorization in respect of any action taken or not taken by the Claimant Trustee in accordance therewith. The Claimant Trust shall have the right to seek Orders from the Bankruptcy Court as set forth in Article IX of the Plan.

3.15 Commingling of Claimant Trust Assets. The Claimant Trustee shall not commingle any of the Claimant Trust Assets with his or her own property or the property of any other Person.

3.16 Delaware Trustee.

(a) The Delaware Trustee shall have the limited power and authority, and is hereby authorized and empowered, to (i) accept legal process served on the Claimant Trust in the State of Delaware; and (ii) execute any certificates that are required to be executed under the Delaware Statutory Trust Act and file such certificates in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of Delaware, and take such action or refrain from taking such action under this Agreement, in either case as may be directed in a writing delivered to the Delaware Trustee by the Claimant Trustee and upon which the Delaware Trustee shall be entitled to conclusively and exclusively rely; provided, however, that the Delaware Trustee shall not be required to take or to refrain from taking any such action if the Delaware Trustee shall believe, or shall have been advised by counsel, that such performance is likely to involve the Delaware Trustee in personal liability or to result in personal liability to the Delaware Trustee, or is contrary to the terms of this Agreement or of any document contemplated hereby to which the Claimant Trust or the Delaware Trustee is or becomes a party or is otherwise contrary to law. The Parties agree not to instruct the Delaware Trustee to take any action or to refrain from taking any action that is contrary to the terms of this Agreement or of any document contemplated hereby to which the Claimant Trust or the Delaware Trustee is or becomes party or that is otherwise contrary to law. Other than as expressly provided for in this Agreement, the Delaware Trustee shall have no duty or power to take any action for or on behalf of the Claimant Trust. For the avoidance of doubt, the Delaware Trustee will only have such rights and obligations as expressly provided by reference to the Delaware Trustee hereunder. The Delaware Trustee shall not be entitled to exercise any powers, nor shall the Delaware Trustee have any of the duties and responsibilities, of the Claimant Trustee set forth herein. The Delaware Trustee shall be one of the trustees of the Claimant Trust for the sole and limited purpose of fulfilling the requirements of Section 3807 of the Delaware Statutory Trust Act and for taking such actions as are required to be taken by a Delaware Trustee under the Delaware Statutory Trust Act. The duties (including fiduciary duties), liabilities and obligations of the Delaware Trustee shall be limited to those expressly set forth in this Section 3.16 and there shall be no other duties (including fiduciary duties) or obligations, express or implied, at law or in equity, of the Delaware Trustee. To the extent that, at law or in equity, the Delaware Trustee has duties (including fiduciary duties) and liabilities relating thereto to the Claimant Trust, the other parties hereto or any beneficiary of the Claimant Trust, it is hereby understood and agreed by the other parties hereto that such duties and liabilities are replaced by the duties and liabilities of the Delaware Trustee expressly set forth in this Agreement.

(b) The Delaware Trustee shall serve until such time as the Claimant Trustee removes the Delaware Trustee or the Delaware Trustee resigns and a successor Delaware Trustee is appointed by the Claimant Trustee in accordance with the terms hereof. The Delaware Trustee may resign at any time upon the giving of at least thirty (30) days' advance written notice to the Claimant Trustee; provided, that such resignation shall not become effective unless and until a successor Delaware Trustee shall have been appointed by the Claimant Trustee in accordance with the terms hereof. If the Claimant Trustee does not act within such thirty (30) day period, the Delaware Trustee may apply to the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware for the appointment of a successor Delaware Trustee.

(c) Upon the resignation or removal of the Delaware Trustee, the Claimant Trustee shall appoint a successor Delaware Trustee by delivering a written instrument to the outgoing Delaware Trustee. Any successor Delaware Trustee must satisfy the requirements of Section 3807 of the Delaware Statutory Trust Act. Any resignation or removal of the Delaware Trustee and appointment of a successor Delaware Trustee shall not become effective until a written acceptance of appointment is delivered by the successor Delaware Trustee to the outgoing Delaware Trustee and the Claimant Trustee and any undisputed fees, expenses and indemnity due to the outgoing Delaware Trustee are paid. Following compliance with the preceding sentence, the successor Delaware Trustee shall become fully vested with all of the rights, powers, duties and obligations of the outgoing Delaware Trustee under this Agreement, with like effect as if originally named as Delaware Trustee, and the outgoing Delaware Trustee shall be discharged of its duties and obligations under this Agreement.

(d) The Delaware Trustee shall be paid such compensation as agreed to pursuant to a separate fee agreement. The Claimant Trust shall promptly advance and reimburse the Delaware Trustee for all reasonable out-of-pocket costs and expenses (including reasonable legal fees and expenses) incurred by the Delaware Trustee in connection with the performance of its duties hereunder.

(e) WTNA shall not be responsible or liable for any failure or delay in the performance of its obligations under this Agreement arising out of or caused, directly or indirectly, by circumstances beyond its control, including without limitation, any act or provision of any present or future law or regulation or governmental authority; acts of God; earthquakes; fires; floods; wars; terrorism; civil or military disturbances; sabotage; epidemics; riots; interruptions, loss or malfunctions of utilities, computer (hardware or software) or communications service; accidents; labor disputes; acts of civil or military authority or governmental actions; or the unavailability of the Federal Reserve Bank wire or telex or other wire or communication facility.

(f) Any corporation or association into which WTNA may be converted or merged, or with which it may be consolidated, or to which it may sell or transfer all or substantially all of its corporate trust business and assets as a whole or substantially as a whole, or any corporation or association resulting from any such conversion, sale, merger, consolidation or transfer to which the Delaware Trustee is a party, will be and become the successor Delaware Trustee under this Agreement and will have and succeed to the rights, powers, duties, immunities and privileges as its predecessor, without the execution or filing of any instrument or paper or the performance of any further act.

As set forth in the Plan, the Confirmation Order, and herein, the Oversight Board shall have the authority and responsibility to oversee, review, and govern the activities of the Claimant Trust, including the Litigation Sub-Trust, and the performance of the Claimant Trustee and Litigation Trustee, and shall have the authority to remove the Claimant Trustee in accordance with Section 3.8 hereof or the Litigation Trustee in accordance with the terms of the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement; provided, however, that the Oversight Board may not direct either Claimant Trustee and Litigation Trustee to act inconsistently with their respective duties under this Agreement (including without limitation as set in Section 4.2(e) below), the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement, the Plan, the Confirmation Order, or applicable law.

(b) The Oversight Board shall also (i) monitor and oversee the administration of the Claimant Trust and the Claimant Trustee's performance of his or her responsibilities under this Agreement, (ii) as more fully set forth in the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement, approve funding to the Litigation Sub-Trust, monitor and oversee the administration of the Litigation Sub-Trust and the Litigation Trustee's performance of his responsibilities under the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement, and (iii) perform such other tasks as are set forth herein, in the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement, and in the Plan.

(d) Notwithstanding any provision of this Agreement to the contrary, the Claimant Trustee shall not be required to (i) obtain the approval of any action by the Oversight Board to the extent that the Claimant Trustee, in good faith, reasonably determines, based on the advice of legal counsel, that such action is required to be taken by applicable law, the Plan, the Confirmation Order, or this Agreement or (ii) follow the directions of the Oversight Board to take any action the extent that the Claimant Trustee, in good faith, reasonably determines, based on the advice of legal counsel, that such action is prohibited by applicable law the Plan, the Confirmation Order, or this Agreement.

in the investment decision making process relating to any such Managed Funds, nor shall the Oversight Board or any member thereof serve as a fiduciary to any such Managed Funds. It is agreed and understood that investment decisions made by the Reorganized Debtor (or its subsidiary entities) with respect to Managed Funds shall be made by the Claimant Trustee in his capacity as an officer of the Reorganized Debtor and New GP LLC and/or such persons who serve as investment personnel of the Reorganized Debtor from time to time, and shall be subject to the fiduciary duties applicable to such entities and persons as investment adviser to such Managed Funds.

4.3 Fiduciary Duties. The Oversight Board (and each Member in its capacity as such) shall have fiduciary duties to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries consistent with the fiduciary duties that the members of the Creditors' Committee have to unsecured creditors and shall exercise its responsibilities accordingly; provided, however, that the Oversight Board shall not owe fiduciary obligations to any Holders of Class A Limited Partnership Interests or Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests until such Holders become Claimant Trust Beneficiaries in accordance with Section 5.1(c) hereof; provided, further, that the Oversight Board shall not owe fiduciary obligations to a Holder of an Equity Trust Interest if such Holder is named as a defendant in any of the Causes of Action, including Estate Claims, in their capacities as such, it being the intent that the Oversight Board's fiduciary duties are to maximize the value of the Claimant Trust Assets, including the Causes of Action. In all circumstances, the Oversight Board shall act in the best interests of the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries and in furtherance of the purpose of the Claimant Trust. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this Agreement, the foregoing shall not eliminate the implied contractual covenant of good faith and fair dealing.

4.4 Meetings of the Oversight Board. Meetings of the Oversight Board are to be held as necessary to ensure the operation of the Claimant Trust but in no event less often than quarterly. Special meetings of the Oversight Board may be held whenever and wherever called for by the Claimant Trustee or any Member; provided, however, that notice of any such meeting shall be duly given in writing no less than 48 hours prior to such meeting (such notice requirement being subject to any waiver by the Members in the minutes, if any, or other transcript, if any, of proceedings of the Oversight Board). Unless the Oversight Board decides otherwise (which decision shall rest in the reasonable discretion of the Oversight Board), the Claimant Trustee, and each of the Claimant Trustee's designated advisors may, but are not required to, attend meetings of the Oversight Board.

4.5 Unanimous Written Consent. Any action required or permitted to be taken by the Oversight Board in a meeting may be taken without a meeting if the action is taken by unanimous written consents describing the actions taken, signed by all Members and recorded. If any Member informs the Claimant Trustee (via e-mail or otherwise) that he or she objects to the decision, determination, action, or inaction proposed to be made by unanimous written consent, the Claimant Trustee must use reasonable good faith efforts to schedule a meeting on the issue to be set within 48 hours of the request or as soon thereafter as possible on which all members of the Oversight Board are available in person or by telephone. Such decision, determination, action, or inaction must then be made pursuant to the meeting protocols set forth herein.

4.6 Manner of Acting.

(a) A quorum for the transaction of business at any meeting of the Oversight Board shall consist of at least three Members (including no less than one (1) Disinterested Member); provided that if the transaction of business at a meeting would constitute a direct or indirect conflict of interest for the Redeemer Committee, Acis, and/or UBS, at least two Disinterested Members must be present for there to be a quorum. Except as set otherwise forth herein, the majority vote of the Members present at a duly called meeting at which a quorum is present throughout shall be the act of the Oversight Board except as otherwise required by law or as provided in this Agreement. Any or all of the Members may participate in a regular or special meeting by, or conduct the meeting through the use of, conference telephone, video conference, or similar communications equipment by means of which all Persons participating in the meeting may hear each other, in which case any required notice of such meeting may generally describe the arrangements (rather than or in addition of the place) for the holding hereof. Any Member participating in a meeting by this means is deemed to be present in person at the meeting. Voting (including on negative notice) may be conducted by electronic mail or individual communications by the applicable Trustee and each Member.

(b) Any Member who is present and entitled to vote at a meeting of the Oversight Board when action is taken is deemed to have assented to the action taken, subject to the requisite vote of the Oversight Board, unless (i) such Member objects at the beginning of the meeting (or promptly upon his/her arrival) to holding or transacting business at the meeting; (ii) his/her dissent or abstention from the action taken is entered in the minutes of the meeting; or (iii) he/she delivers written notice (including by electronic or facsimile transmission) of his/her dissent or abstention to the Oversight Board before its adjournment. The right of dissent or abstention is not available to any Member of the Oversight Board who votes in favor of the action taken.

(c) Prior to a vote on any matter or issue or the taking of any action with respect to any matter or issue, each Member shall report to the Oversight Board any conflict of interest such Member has or may have with respect to the matter or issue at hand and fully disclose the nature of such conflict or potential conflict (including, without limitation, disclosing any and all financial or other pecuniary interests that such Member may have with respect to or in connection with such matter or issue, other than solely as a holder of Trust Interests). A Member who, with respect to a matter or issue, has or who may have a conflict of interest whereby such Member's interests are adverse to the interests of the Claimant Trust shall be deemed a "Conflicted Member" who shall not be entitled to vote or take part in any action with respect to such matter or issue. In the event of a Conflicted Member, the vote or action with respect to such matter or issue giving rise to such conflict shall be undertaken only by Members who are not Conflicted Members and, notwithstanding anything contained herein to the contrary, the affirmative vote of only a majority of the Members who are not Conflicted Members shall be required to approve of such matter or issue and the same shall be the act of the Oversight Board.

(d) Each of Acis, the Redeemer Committee, and UBS shall be deemed "Conflicted Members" with respect to any matter or issue related to or otherwise affecting any of their respective Claim(s) (a "Committee Member Claim Matter"). A unanimous vote of the Disinterested Members shall be required to approve of or otherwise take action with respect to any Committee Member Claim Matter and, notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the same shall be the act of the Oversight Board.

4.7 Tenure of the Members of the Oversight Board. The authority of the Members of the Oversight Board will be effective as of the Effective Date and will remain and continue in full force and effect until the Claimant Trust is terminated in accordance with Article IX hereof. The Members of the Oversight Board will serve until such Member's successor is duly appointed or until such Member's earlier death or resignation pursuant to Section 4.8 below, or removal pursuant to Section 4.9 below.

4.8 Resignation. A Member of the Oversight Board may resign by giving prior written notice thereof to the Claimant Trustee and other Members. Such resignation shall become effective on the earlier to occur of (i) the day that is 90 days following the delivery of such notice, (ii) the appointment of a successor in accordance with Section 4.10 below, and (iii) such other date as may be agreed to by the Claimant Trustee and the non-resigning Members of the Oversight Board.

4.9 Removal. A majority of the Oversight Board may remove any Member for Cause or Disability. If any Committee Member has its Claim disallowed in its entirety the representative of such entity will immediately be removed as a Member without the requirement for a vote and a successor will be appointed in the manner set forth herein. Notwithstanding the foregoing, upon the termination of the Claimant Trust, any or all of the Members shall be deemed to have resigned.

4.10 Appointment of a Successor Member.

(a) In the event of a vacancy on the Oversight Board (whether by removal, death, or resignation), a new Member may be appointed to fill such position by the remaining Members acting unanimously; provided, however, that any vacancy resulting from the removal, resignation, or death of a Disinterested Member may only be filled by a disinterested Person unaffiliated with any Claimant or constituency in the Chapter 11 Case; provided, further, that if an individual serving as the representative of a Committee Member resigns from its role as representative, such resignation shall not be deemed resignation of the Committee Member itself and such Committee Member shall have the exclusive right to designate its replacement representative for the Oversight Board. The appointment of a successor Member will be further evidenced by the Claimant Trustee's filing with the Bankruptcy Court (to the extent a final decree has not been entered) and posting on the Claimant Trustee's website a notice of appointment, at the direction of the Oversight Board, which notice will include the name, address, and telephone number of the successor Member.

(b) Immediately upon the appointment of any successor Member, the successor Member shall assume all rights, powers, duties, authority, and privileges of a Member hereunder and such rights and privileges will be vested in and undertaken by the successor Member without any further act. A successor Member will not be liable personally for any act or omission of a predecessor Member.

(c) Every successor Member appointed hereunder shall execute, acknowledge, and deliver to the Claimant Trustee and other Members an instrument accepting the appointment under this Agreement and agreeing to be bound thereto, and thereupon the successor Member without any further act, deed, or conveyance, shall become vested with all rights, powers, trusts, and duties of a Member hereunder.

4.11 Compensation and Reimbursement of Expenses. Unless determined by the Oversight Board, no Member shall be entitled to compensation in connection with his or her service to the Oversight Board; provided, however, that a Disinterested Member shall be compensated in a manner and amount initially set by the other Members and as thereafter amended from time to time by agreement between the Oversight Board and the Disinterested Member. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Claimant Trustee will reimburse the Members for all reasonable and documented out-of-pocket expenses incurred by the Members in connection with the performance of their duties hereunder (which shall not include fees, costs, and expenses of legal counsel).

4.12 Confidentiality. Each Member shall, during the period that such Member serves as a Member under this Agreement and following the termination of this Agreement or following such Member's removal or resignation, hold strictly confidential and not use for personal gain any material, non-public information of or pertaining to any Person to which any of the Claimant Trust Assets relates or of which such Member has become aware in the Member's capacity as a Member ("Confidential Trust Information"), except as otherwise required by law. For the avoidance of doubt, a Member's Affiliates, employer, and employer's Affiliates (and collectively with such Persons' directors, officers, partners, principals and employees, "Member Affiliates") shall not be deemed to have received Confidential Trust Information solely due to the fact that a Member has received Confidential Trust Information in his or her capacity as a Member of the Oversight Board and to the extent that (a) a Member does not disclose any Confidential Trust Information to a Member Affiliate, (b) the business activities of such Member Affiliates are conducted without reference to, and without use of, Confidential Trust Information, and (c) no Member Affiliate is otherwise directed to take, or takes on behalf of a Member or Member Affiliate, any actions that are contrary to the terms of this Section 4.12.

Equity Holders will only be deemed "Beneficiaries" under this Agreement upon the filing of a GUC Payment Certification with the Bankruptcy Court, at which time the Contingent Trust Interests will vest and be deemed "Equity Trust Interests." The Equity Trust Interests shall be subordinated in right and priority to Subordinated Trust Interests, and distributions on account thereof shall only be made if and when Subordinated Beneficiaries have been repaid in full on account of such Subordinated Beneficiary's Allowed Subordinated Claim, in accordance with the terms of the Plan, the Confirmation Order, and this Agreement. The Equity Trust Interests distributed to Allowed Holders of Class A Limited Partnership Interests shall be subordinated to the Equity Trust Interests distributed to Allowed Holders of Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests.

5.2 Interests Beneficial Only. The ownership of the beneficial interests in the Claimant Trust shall not entitle the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries to any title in or to the Claimant Trust Assets (which title shall be vested in the Claimant Trust) or to any right to call for a partition or division of the Claimant Trust Assets or to require an accounting. No Claimant Trust Beneficiary shall have any governance right or other wright to direct Claimant Trust activities.

The Parties hereto intend that the rights of the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries arising under this Claimant Trust shall not be "securities" under applicable laws, but none of the Parties represent or warrant that such rights shall not be securities or shall not be entitled to exemption from registration under the applicable securities laws. The Oversight Board, acting unanimously, and Claimant Trustee may amend this Agreement in accordance with Article IX hereof to make such changes as are deemed necessary or appropriate with the advice of counsel, to ensure that the Claimant Trust is not subject to registration and/or reporting requirements of the Securities Act, the Exchange Act, the TIA, or the Investment Company Act. ARTICLE VII.
TAX MATTERS

7.1 Tax Treatment and Tax Returns.

(a) It is intended for the initial transfer of the Claimant Trust Assets to the Claimant Trust to be treated as a grantor trust for federal income tax purposes (and foreign, state, and local income tax purposes where applicable) as if the Debtor transferred the Claimant Trust Assets (other than the amounts set aside in the Disputed Claim Reserve, if the Claimant Trustee makes the election described below) to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries and then, immediately thereafter, the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries transferred the Claimant Trust Assets to the Claimant Trust. Consistent with such treatment, (i) it is intended that the Claimant Trust will be treated as a grantor trust for federal income tax purposes (and foreign, state, and local income tax purposes where applicable), (ii) it is intended that the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries will be treated as the grantors of the Claimant Trust and owners of their respective share of the Claimant Trust Assets for federal income tax purposes (and foreign, state, and local income tax purposes where applicable). The Claimant Trustee shall file all federal income tax returns (and foreign, state, and local income tax returns where applicable) for the Claimant Trust as a grantor trust pursuant to Treasury Regulation Section 1.671-4(a).

(b) The Claimant Trustee shall determine the fair market value of the Claimant Trust Assets as of the Effective Date and notify the applicable Beneficiaries of such valuation, and such valuation shall be used consistently by all parties for all federal income tax purposes.

(c) The Claimant Trustee may file an election pursuant to Treasury Regulation 1.468B-9(c) to treat the Disputed Claims Reserve as a disputed ownership fund, in which case the Claimant Trustee will file federal income tax returns and pay taxes for the Disputed Claim Reserve as a separate taxable entity.

7.2 Withholding. The Claimant Trustee may withhold from any amount distributed from the Claimant Trust to any Claimant Trust Beneficiary such sum or sums as are required to be withheld under the income tax laws of the United States or of any state or political subdivision thereof. Any amounts withheld pursuant hereto shall be deemed to have been distributed to and received by the applicable Beneficiary. As a condition to receiving any distribution from the Claimant Trust, the Claimant Trustee may require that the Beneficiary provide such holder's taxpayer identification number and such other information and certification as may be deemed necessary for the Claimant Trustee to comply with applicable tax reporting and withholding laws. If a Beneficiary fails to comply with such a request within one year, such distribution shall be deemed an unclaimed distribution and treated in accordance with Section 6.5(b) of this Agreement.

ARTICLE VIII.
STANDARD OF CARE AND INDEMNIFICATION

8.1 Standard of Care. None of the Claimant Trustee, acting in his capacity as the Claimant Trustee or in any other capacity contemplated by this Agreement or the Plan, the Delaware Trustee, acting in its capacity as Delaware Trustee, the Oversight Board, or any current or any individual Member, solely in their capacity as Members of the Oversight Board, shall be personally liable to the Claimant Trust or to any Person (including any Claimant Trust Beneficiary) in connection with the affairs of the Claimant Trust, unless it is ultimately determined by order of the Bankruptcy Court or, if the Bankruptcy Court either declines to exercise jurisdiction over such action, or cannot exercise jurisdiction over such action, such other court of competent jurisdiction that the acts or omissions of any such Claimant Trustee, Delaware Trustee, Oversight Board, or Member constituted fraud, willful misconduct, or gross negligence. The employees, agents and professionals retained by the Claimant Trust, the Claimant Trustee, Delaware Trustee, Oversight Board, or individual Member shall not be personally liable to the Claimant Trust or any other Person in connection with the affairs of the Claimant Trust, unless it is ultimately determined by order of the Bankruptcy Court or, if the Bankruptcy Court either declines to exercise jurisdiction over such action, or cannot exercise jurisdiction over such action, such other court of competent jurisdiction that such acts or omissions by such employee, agent, or professional constituted willful fraud, willful misconduct or gross negligence. None of the Claimant Trustee, Delaware Trustee, Oversight Board, or any Member shall be personally liable to the Claimant Trust or to any Person for the acts or omissions of any employee, agent or professional of the Claimant Trust or Claimant Trustee taken or not taken in good faith reliance on the advice of professionals or, as applicable, with the approval of the Bankruptcy Court, unless it is ultimately determined by order of the Bankruptcy Court or, if the Bankruptcy Court either declines to exercise jurisdiction over such action, or cannot exercise jurisdiction over such action, such other court of competent jurisdiction that the Claimant Trustee, Delaware Trustee, Oversight Board, or Member acted with gross negligence or willful misconduct in the selection, retention, or supervision of such employee, agent or professional of the Claimant Trust.

8.2 Indemnification. The Claimant Trustee (including each former Claimant Trustee), WTNA in its individual capacity and as Delaware Trustee, the Oversight Board, and all past and present Members (collectively, in their capacities as such, the "Indemnified Parties") shall be indemnified by the Claimant Trust against and held harmless by the Claimant Trust from any losses, claims, damages, liabilities or expenses (including, without limitation, attorneys' fees, disbursements, and related expenses) to which the Indemnified Parties may become subject in connection with any action, suit, proceeding or investigation brought or threatened against any of the Indemnified Parties in their capacity as Claimant Trustee, Delaware Trustee, Oversight Board, or Member, or in connection with any matter arising out of or related to the Plan, this Agreement, or the affairs of the Claimant Trust, unless it is ultimately determined by order of the Bankruptcy Court or other court of competent jurisdiction that the Indemnified Party's acts or omissions constituted willful fraud, willful misconduct, or gross negligence. If the Indemnified Party becomes involved in any action, proceeding, or investigation in connection with any matter arising out of or in connection with the Plan, this Agreement or the affairs of the Claimant Trust for which an indemnification obligation could arise, the Indemnified Party shall promptly notify the Claimant Trustee and/or Oversight Board, as applicable; provided, however, that the failure of an Indemnified Party to promptly notify the Claimant Trustee and/or Oversight Board of an indemnification obligation will not excuse the Claimant Trust from indemnifying the Indemnified Party unless such delay has caused the Claimant Trust material harm. The Claimant Trust shall pay, advance or otherwise reimburse on demand of an Indemnified Party the Indemnified Party's reasonable legal and other defense expenses (including, without limitation, the cost of any investigation and preparation and attorney fees, disbursements, and other expenses related to any claim that has been brought or threatened to be brought) incurred in connection therewith or in connection with enforcing his or her rights under this Section 8.2 as a Claimant Trust Expense, and the Claimant Trust shall not refuse to make any payments to the Indemnified Party on the assertion that the Indemnified Party engaged in willful misconduct or acted in bad faith; provided that the Indemnified Party shall be required to repay promptly to the Claimant Trust the amount of any such advanced or reimbursed expenses paid to the Indemnified Party to the extent that it shall be ultimately determined by Final Order that the Indemnified Party engaged in willful fraud, willful misconduct, or gross negligence in connection with the affairs of the Claimant Trust with respect to which such expenses were paid; provided, further, that any such repayment obligation shall be unsecured and interest free. The Claimant Trust shall indemnify and hold harmless the employees, agents and professionals of the Claimant Trust and Indemnified Parties to the same extent as provided in this Section 8.2 for the Indemnified Parties. For the avoidance of doubt, the provisions of this Section 8.2 shall remain available to any former Claimant Trustee, WTNA in its individual capacity and as Delaware Trustee, or Member or the estate of any decedent Claimant Trustee or Member, solely in their capacities as such. The indemnification provided hereby shall be a Claimant Trust Expense and shall not be deemed exclusive of any other rights to which the Indemnified Party may now or in the future be entitled to under the Plan or any applicable insurance policy. The failure of the Claimant Trust to pay or reimburse an Indemnified Party as required under this Section 8.2 shall constitute irreparable harm to the Indemnified Party and such Indemnified Party shall be entitled to specific performance of the obligations herein. The terms of this Section 8.2 shall survive the termination of this Agreement and the resignation or removal of any Indemnified Party.

8.3 No Personal Liability. Except as otherwise provided herein, neither of the Trustees nor Members of the Oversight Board shall be subject to any personal liability whatsoever, whether in tort, contract, or otherwise, to any Person in connection with the affairs of the Claimant Trust to the fullest extent provided under Section 3803 of the Delaware Statutory Trust Act, and all Persons asserting claims against the Claimant Trustee, Litigation Trustee, or any Members, or otherwise asserting claims of any nature in connection with the affairs of the Claimant Trust, shall look solely to the Claimant Trust Assets for satisfaction of any such claims.

8.4 Other Protections. To the extent applicable and not otherwise addressed herein, the provisions and protections set forth in Article IX of the Plan will apply to the Claimant Trust, the Claimant Trustee, the Litigation Trustee, and the Members.

ARTICLE IX.
TERMINATION

9.1 Duration. The Trustees, the Claimant Trust, and the Oversight Board shall be discharged or dissolved, as the case may be, at such time as: (a) the Litigation Trustee determines that the pursuit of Estate Claims is not likely to yield sufficient additional proceeds to justify further pursuit of such Estate Claims, (b) the Claimant Trustee determines that the pursuit of Causes of Action (other than Estate Claims) is not likely to yield sufficient additional proceeds to justify further pursuit of such Causes of Action, (c) the Clamant Trustee determines that the pursuit of sales of other Claimant Trust Assets is not likely to yield sufficient additional proceeds to justify further pursuit of such sales of Claimant Trust Assets, (d) all objections to Disputed Claims and Equity Interests are fully resolved, (e) the Reorganized Debtor is dissolved, and (f) all Distributions required to be made by the Claimant Trustee to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries under the Plan have been made, but in no event shall the Claimant Trust be dissolved later than three years from the Effective Date unless the Bankruptcy Court, upon motion made within the six-month period before such third anniversary (and, in the event of further extension, by order of the Bankruptcy Court, upon motion made at least six months before the end of the preceding extension), determines that a fixed period extension (not to exceed two years, together with any prior extensions) is necessary to facilitate or complete the recovery on, and liquidation of, the Claimant Trust Assets.

9.2 Distributions in Kind. Upon dissolution of the Claimant Trust, any remaining Claimant Trust Assets that exceed the amounts required to be paid under the Plan will be transferred (in the sole discretion of the Claimant Trustee) in Cash or in-kind to the Holders of the Claimant Trust Interests as provided in the Claimant Trust Agreement.

9.3 Continuance of the Claimant Trustee for Winding Up. After dissolution of the Claimant Trust and for purpose of liquidating and winding up the affairs of the Claimant Trust, the Claimant Trustee shall continue to act as such until the Claimant Trustee's duties have been fully performed. Prior to the final distribution of all remaining Claimant Trust Assets, the Claimant Trustee shall be entitled to reserve from such assets any and all amounts required to provide for the Claimant Trustee's own costs and expenses, including a reserve to fund any potential indemnification or similar obligations of the Claimant Trust, until such time as the winding up of the Claimant Trust is completed. Upon the dissolution of the Claimant Trust and completion of the winding up of the assets, liabilities and affairs of the Claimant Trust pursuant to the Delaware Statutory Trust Act, the Claimant Trustee shall prepare, execute and file a certificate of cancellation with the State of Delaware to terminate the Claimant Trust pursuant to Section 3810 of the Delaware Statutory Trust Act (such date upon which the certificate of cancellation is filed shall be referred to as the "Termination Date"). If the Delaware Trustee's signature is required for purposes of filing such certificate of cancellation, the Claimant Trustee shall provide the Delaware

Trustee with written direction to execute such certificate of cancellation, and the Delaware Trustee shall be entitled to conclusively and exclusively rely upon such written direction without further inquiry. Upon the Termination date, the Claimant Trustee shall retain for a period of two (2) years, as a Claimant Trust Expense, the books, records, Claimant Trust Beneficiary lists, and certificated and other documents and files that have been delivered to or created by the Claimant Trustee. At the Claimant Trustee's discretion, all of such records and documents may, but need not, be destroyed at any time after two (2) years from the Termination Date.

9.4 Termination of Duties. Except as otherwise specifically provided herein, upon the Termination Date of the Claimant Trust, the Claimant Trustee, the Oversight Board and its Members shall have no further duties or obligations hereunder.

9.5 No Survival. The rights of Claimant Trust Beneficiaries hereunder shall not survive the Termination Date, provided that such Claimant Trust Beneficiaries are provided with notice of such Termination Date.

ARTICLE X.
AMENDMENTS AND WAIVER

The Claimant Trustee, with the consent of a simple majority of the Oversight Board, may amend this Agreement to correct or clarify any non-material provisions. This Agreement may not otherwise be amended, supplemented, otherwise modified, or waived in any respect except by an instrument in writing signed by the Claimant Trustee and with the unanimous approval of the Oversight Board, and the approval of the Bankruptcy Court, after notice and a hearing; provided that the Claimant Trustee must provide the Oversight Board with prior written notice of any non-material amendments, supplements, modifications, or waivers of this Agreement. No amendment or waiver of this Agreement that adversely affects the Delaware Trustee shall be effective unless the Delaware Trustee has consented thereto in writing in its sole and absolute discretion.

ARTICLE XI.
MISCELLANEOUS

11.1 Trust Irrevocable. Except as set forth in this Agreement, establishment of the Claimant Trust by this Agreement shall be irrevocable and shall not be subject to revocation, cancellation or rescission by the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries.

11.2 Bankruptcy of Claimant Trust Beneficiaries. The dissolution, termination, bankruptcy, insolvency or other similar incapacity of any Claimant Trust Beneficiary shall not permit any creditor, trustee, or any other Claimant Trust Beneficiary to obtain possession of, or exercise legal or equitable remedies with respect to, the Claimant Trust Assets.

11.3 Claimant Trust Beneficiaries have No Legal Title to Claimant Trust Assets. No Claimant Trust Beneficiary shall have legal title to any part of the Claimant Trust Assets.

Following up on the distribution below.

We took the liberty of setting up the distribution through developmentspecialists.sharefile.com using your Glacier Lake Capital email address (pdaugherty@glacierlakecap.com). Please let us know if you would prefer to use another email or you want anyone else added to the site. You should be receiving any email to Glacier Lake that will provide you with access to the site.

We propose to keep the site open until the close of business on October 31, 2022. That should give you and any of your lawyers or accountants (that you advise us to provision with their email addresses) plenty of time to download the information.

Please let me know if this works for you.

Subject: Daugherty Settlement Agreement Follow-Up

Pat,

To follow-up on your recent request for additional information pertaining to the HERA/ERA entities, members of the Highland team have worked to gather further documentation for you. We previously provided corporate documents to you as well as the Quickbooks accounting file to your accountants using their file sharing system.

If acceptable to you, we propose to deliver this new large document delivery (400+ files) via DSI's Sharefile system. Use is straight forward and allows you to download all of the files in an orderly manner. Otherwise, please let me know if there is a different way you would prefer to receive these additional electronic files.

Under our settlement agreement, HCMLP agreed to "transfer its interests in HERA and ERA" to you, and that transfer "include[s] the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system." The transfers are without any liability or material cost to HCMLP. HCMLP also agreed to provide reasonable assistance to you in the preparation of HERA K-1s for 2021.

HCMLP previously made these entity and record transfers and provided books and records information through summarized financial statements and general ledger detail in excel spreadsheets, historical tax returns, governing documents, the raw Quickbooks file containing the historical accounting data, and a spreadsheet detailing the amounts charged by HCMLP to HERA down to the invoice level. HCMLP also prepared and signed the 2021 HERA tax returns with your (and your accountants) input and approval.

While we believe the information already provided satisfied HCMLP's undertakings under the settlement agreement, we nevertheless understand your request for additional HERA and ERA information and have been able to gather the further documentation broken down as follows (some of which may be duplicative to certain documents you've already received, but we are re-including regardless):

HERA

1. Governing documents
2. Amendments
3. Assignments
4. Correspondence
5. Director resignations
6. Expense allocations (resolutions + allocation agreement)
    1. Actual copies of invoices (330+ individual invoices across 36 different vendors or law firms tracked down and will be transmitted; <10% couldn't be located and are therefore not included)
7. Other resolutions
8. Transfer agreements

ERA

1. Governing documents

There is less documentation regarding ERA because it was solely a management entity. It did not have any economic activity, did not generate financials, and was a disregarded entity for tax purposes.

At your request, we also included excel tracking spreadsheets summarizing the assets of HERA from 2009 to May 2012 as well as the individual unit holder's respective interests in HERA. This file was maintained by HCMLP and appears to be an HCMLP business record tracking "The Vessel" (as HERA was sometimes known) and the interests of HCMLP employees in The Vessel.

We have also included certain additional HERA records that we have found relating to HERA assets and distributions to vested HERA participants. These records include: (i) miscellaneous spreadsheets reflecting various items, including actual cash distributions to vested participants; (ii) Smith Barney statements reflecting cash of HERA and ownership of NHF; and (iii) RCP Statements reflecting HERA interests.

Upon transmission of the information described above, HCMLP will have satisfied all of its obligations under the settlement agreement, and our involvement in HERA/ERA (your entities) will be complete. Of course, to the extent one-off questions come up, you're always welcome to contact me. Best of luck with these entities.

And again, as requested above please let us know how you would like us to deliver these files.

Best. Jim

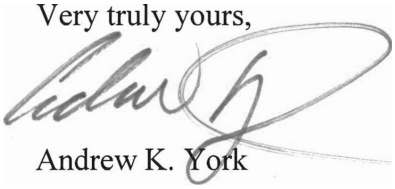
Re: Highland Capital Management, L.P. and Patrick Daugherty Settlement Agreement

Dear John:

As you know, Gray Reed represents Patrick Daugherty and Highland Employee Retention Assets, LLC ("HERA" or the "Vessel"). Pursuant to the November 22, 2021 settlement agreement between Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland") and Mr. Daugherty, Highland transferred its interests in HERA to Mr. Daugherty and his affiliates. The transfer included the HERA books and records maintained on Highland's system.

As Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Seery discussed last summer, Mr. Daugherty and HERA appreciate the documents Highland has provided to date. However, HERA continues to seek the remaining source documents, emails, governance actions, and other activity of HERA since its inception. For example, HERA has not received any email correspondence between HERA's in-house counsel (Scott Ellington, Isaac Leventon, Thomas Surgent, Eric Girard, and others) and HERA's outside legal counsel at Gruber Hurst, Andrews Kurth, DLA Piper, and Abrams and Bayliss, among others. Other email exchanges regarding the transfer of assets, allocation of expenses, creation of governance documents, solicitation of preferred unit holder signatures, board member communication, and anyone directing the operations of HERA is all important to the continuing operations of HERA. Additionally, HERA has received only a few documents in native format. Those documents were Microsoft Excel files. Highland has not produced any Microsoft Word or Powerpoint documents in native format (with corresponding metadata) despite the production of numerous PDF documents that indicate they were originally created using Word or Powerpoint. The metadata associated with both the native files and PDF versions are of critical importance to HERA.



Accordingly, HERA requests Highland supplement its production of the transferred books and records with at least the following categories:

- All original Word, Excel and Powerpoint documents concerning HERA or the Vessel. This request include originally created documents and drafts, as well as modified or amended versions of the same.
- All email correspondence concerning HERA or the Vessel.
- All documents related to the transfer of HERA or the Vessel assets.
- All documents related to expenses of HERA or Vessel assets.
- All email and documents concerning HERA or Vessel assets, legal communications, tax issues, or unit holder communications.

All of these requested documents, files and communications should include the corresponding metadata. I am happy to discuss with you what metadata should be included with the load file for the production. Finally, I recommend Highland utilize an outside vendor to collect and produce these requested documents, files and communications due to the sensitive nature of the information, as well as any potential for a conflict of interest among any existing Highland employees that are asked to participate in the collection and production efforts.

Again, my clients appreciate Highland's efforts on this matter to date, and its attention to these additional requests. Please feel free to reach out to me if you have any questions.

Very truly yours,

Andrew K. York

Drew,

On March 8, 2022, the court entered an order approving the settlement between Highland and Mr. Daugherty. Docket No. 3299. Since that time, HCMLP has provided an enormous number of documents and information to Mr. Daugherty as required by the settlement. HCMLP believes that after these exhaustive, good faith efforts it has fully complied with all of its obligation under the Settlement Agreement.

To summarize:

- on March 10, 2022, we sent an e-mail to you with certain books and records,
- on May 5, 2022, we sent three separate e-mails to Mr. Uebler with more books and records,
- last year, HCMLP made available to Mr. Daugherty and his accountant a share site file depository with 180 MBs of data including (a) corporate and related documents from the legal filing system; (b) 11 years' worth of financial statements exported from QuickBooks (which include detailed, entry-level financials for each year encapsulating all recorded accounting entries for HERA); (c) approximately 320 invoices from 35 different vendors (nearly all of which were law firms); (d) nearly 30 other statements and spreadsheets; and (e) nine years of tax returns.
- In addition—with no obligation to do so—the HCMLP team helped in the filing of the HERA tax returns during the transition year and provided historical RCP return information.

Under the circumstances, HCMLP stands by its prior statement that it has fulfilled its obligations under the Settlement Agreement.

For completeness, and to avoid any misunderstanding, we strongly disagree with your suggestion that emails constitute "books and records." Even if they did, (a) HERA and ERA had no employees, (b) no person used an e-mail address with a "HERA" or "ERA" URL, (c) neither HERA nor ERA ever had a shared services agreement with HCMLP, and (d) HCMLP's e-mails are not now, and never were, HERA and ERA's property.

HCMLP reserves all rights under the Court's order and with respect to any further request for "books and records." We consider this matter closed.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

John

Hi John,

I never received a response to the attached letter I sent a month ago. Additionally, please see the attached complaint filed yesterday in the Northern District of Texas. To the extent any of the individuals named in the complaint would otherwise be involved in the collection and review process associated with the requests in my letter, I once again ask that those individuals be excluded from that process to ensure that all responsive materials are not modified or destroyed.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Subject: Re: Daugherty Settlement Agreement Follow-Up

Hi Jim,

Thanks for sending us the HERA data last week. We are reviewing the large files and will get back to you with comments or questions after we cross-reference to the sample data that was provided from the Texas litigation (Exhibit examples from pervious emails).

As discussed last week, we simply were not in a position to sign and file K-1 partnership tax returns on behalf on HERA. We have made a clear record since the initial filings of the Delaware Case #1 in 2017 that the historical HERA filings were erroneous. In addition, I was not able to sign a 2021 return on behalf of HERA because I was not given the information or time necessary to evaluate such information to make such a filing. Accordingly, we approved of the good faith efforts by your team to develop what we agree was a reasonable solution to a situation not of our making. As I understand it, your team was relying on the advice of the Skyview Team (formerly Highland Capital's in-house tax experts led by Rick Swadley). Importantly, the Skyview Team includes many of the same people who were involved in the dubious allocations of expenses between Highland Capital and HCRE related to the SE Multifamily transaction (refer to yesterday's hearing and the comments about tax shields). I appreciate the efforts of you and your team but I feel it necessary to clarify that we did not direct the filing of the 2021 tax return nor did Highland employees serve as our agents for the preparation of the return. We simply approved the treatment of the Daugherty capital account pursuant to the recommendations for the overall return during this transition period.

Thanks again for your cooperation and we look forward to continuing our dialogue in that spirit.

Best,

Subject: Daugherty Settlement Agreement Follow-Up

Pat,

To follow-up on your recent request for additional information pertaining to the HERA/ERA entities, members of the Highland team have worked to gather further documentation for you. We previously provided corporate documents to you as well as the Quickbooks accounting file to your accountants using their file sharing system.

If acceptable to you, we propose to deliver this new large document delivery (400+ files) via DSI's Sharefile system. Use is straight forward and allows you to download all of the files in an orderly manner. Otherwise, please let me know if there is a different way you would prefer to receive these additional electronic files.

Under our settlement agreement, HCMLP agreed to "transfer its interests in HERA and ERA" to you, and that transfer "include[s] the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system." The transfers are without any liability or material cost to HCMLP. HCMLP also agreed to provide reasonable assistance to you in the preparation of HERA K-1s for 2021.

HCMLP previously made these entity and record transfers and provided books and records information through summarized financial statements and general ledger detail in excel spreadsheets, historical tax returns, governing documents, the raw Quickbooks file containing the historical accounting data, and a spreadsheet detailing the amounts charged by HCMLP to HERA down to the invoice level. HCMLP also prepared and signed the 2021 HERA tax returns with your (and your accountants) input and approval.

While we believe the information already provided satisfied HCMLP's undertakings under the settlement agreement, we nevertheless understand your request for additional HERA and ERA information and have been able to gather the further documentation broken down as follows (some of which may be duplicative to certain documents you've already received, but we are re-including regardless):

HERA

- Governing documents
- Amendments
- Assignments
- Correspondence
- Director resignations
- Expense allocations (resolutions + allocation agreement)

- Actual copies of invoices (~330+ individual invoices dating 364 different vendors or law firms tracked down and will be transmitted; <10% couldn't be located and are therefore not included)
- Other resolutions
- Transfer agreements

ERA

- Governing documents

There is less documentation regarding ERA because it was solely a management entity. It did not have any economic activity, did not generate financials, and was a disregarded entity for tax purposes.

At your request, we also included excel tracking spreadsheets summarizing the assets of HERA from 2009 to May 2012 as well as the individual unit holder's respective interests in HERA. This file was maintained by HCMLP and appears to be an HCMLP business record tracking "The Vessel" (as HERA was sometimes known) and the interests of HCMLP employees in The Vessel.

We have also included certain additional HERA records that we have found relating to HERA assets and distributions to vested HERA participants. These records include: (i) miscellaneous spreadsheets reflecting various items, including actual cash distributions to vested participants; (ii) Smith Barney statements reflecting cash of HERA and ownership of NHF; and (iii) RCP Statements reflecting HERA interests.

Upon transmission of the information described above, HCMLP will have satisfied all of its obligations under the settlement agreement, and our involvement in HERA/ERA (your entities) will be complete. Of course, to the extent one-off questions come up, you're always welcome to contact me. Best of luck with these entities.

And again, as requested above please let us know how you would like us to deliver these files.

Best. Jim

[redacted]

Taxpayer Identification Number: [redacted]
Partnership Name: Highland Capital Management LP
Tax Period(s): 2008

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Daugherty:

The partnership you have invested in, identified above, is subject to possible tax adjustments from a Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act (TEFRA) examination for the tax period(s) shown. Any tax adjustment resulting from this examination may result in a corresponding adjustment to your personal return as well.

We unfortunately have exhausted all efforts to find your amended tax return copies in our records; therefore, we are asking you to send us a copy of your amended tax return for 2008 that is under examination, so we can make any necessary adjustments accurately. Please include all schedules, documents and statements filed with your amended return.

The normal statute of limitations (to adjust a tax return) is three years from the due date of the return or three years from the date of the return's filing, whichever is later. The statute of limitations for a return from a taxpayer who is an investor in a TEFRA partnership under examination, however, does not expire until one year after the partnership's flow-through tax issue is resolved.

Please mail or fax your documentation to us within 30 days from this letter's date. Our Fax number is (855) 244-9676. Please include your phone number, convenient hours during which we may reach you, and a copy of this letter with your response. Please write "COPY DO NOT PROCESS" in red on the top of each return. If you no longer have tax return copies, please respond to us anyway so we may continue to process your account as quickly as possible.

Unless you send us your documentation, we will have to adjust your account using only the information we have available. Should we do this, you likely will receive a higher tax assessment than if you had sent us a copy of your return.

In most cases, you will not need to file an amended federal tax return for tax adjustments from a partnership return. We usually make the necessary adjustments to your personal tax account.

Please call Ms. Permar at (801) 620-2427 between the hours of 4 p.m. - 7 p.m. with questions you may have about this matter. This person is best qualified to answer any general questions you may have about this matter. If you prefer, you can call us also at the telephone number listed in your local telephone directory.

Please contact your Tax Matters Partner, who is responsible for providing investors with tax information about the partnership, if you have questions about specific tax matters involving the partnership.

We apologize for any inconvenience we may have caused you.

Sincerely,

Ms. Permar

VI. Opinions and Findings

A. Opinion No. 1

28. Courts and professional standards require economic damage analysis must be presented with reasonable certainty. As such, an analysis must rely on verifiable data and established facts, ensuring that the testimony meets accepted standards for reliability.

a. Basis for Opinion No. 1

29. An expert witness calculating economic damages must base any opinion on sufficient, reliable, and verifiable inputs. This requirement is grounded in Federal Rule of Evidence ("FRE") 702, which mandates expert testimony be "based on sufficient facts or data" and reflect a "reliable application of the principles and methods to the facts of the case."[20] Courts have excluded expert opinions when the underlying assumptions or data are incomplete, untested, speculative, or otherwise unreliable.[21]

30. Authoritative guidance reinforces the same principle. Damages must be proven with reasonable certainty, meaning the calculation must have a "sufficient foundation exists to support a rational conclusion."[22],[23] Courts emphasize that, "damages calculation must be 'capable of measurement based upon reliable factors without undue speculation'[24]."[25]

31. To further illustrate the necessity of experts relying on reasonable inputs Compania Embotelladora Del Pacifico, S.A. v. Pepsi Cola Co., states:

> "…an expert's testimony must be excluded if it is 'speculative or conjectural' or if it is 'based on assumptions that are so unrealistic and contradictory' that the testimony

20 Federal Rule of Evidence 702.

22 Albert v. Warner-Lambert Co., 234 F.Supp.2d 101, 103 (D. Mass. 2002). See also W.W. Gay Mechanical Contractor, Inc. v. Wharfside Two, Ltd., 545 So.2d 1348, 1351 (Fla. 1989) .

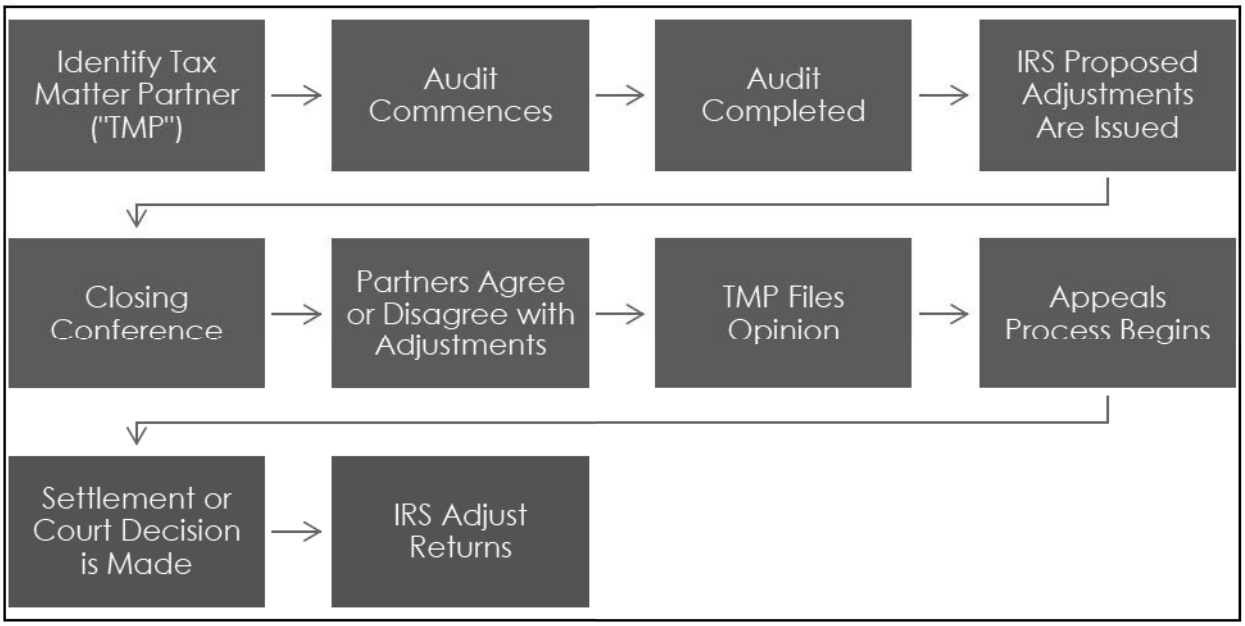
amounts, in essence, to an 'apples and oranges comparison.' Similarly, 'when an expert opinion is based on data, a methodology, or studies that are simply inadequate to support the conclusions reached, Daubert and Rule 702 mandate the exclusion of that unreliable opinion testimony.' Moreover, an expert's analysis must be 'reliable at every step'…"[26]

32. Furthermore, courts require experts to evaluate and test inputs, particularly material assumptions, that drive their damage calculations. Reliance on inputs that are untested, contradictory, or incomplete may result in an exclusion under the Daubert precedent.[27] The NACVA's professional standards also require experts to obtain "sufficient relevant data" and to confirm the reliability of assumptions and inputs used in any damages model.[28]

33. It is our understanding at the date of this Report, the outcome of the IRS Audit is still pending. Given that the IRS Audit has not been resolved (i.e., that there has not been a final determination), the core inputs needed for a reasonable and reliable damages calculation do not yet exist. Any model attempting to calculate damages with the current information would be forced to rely on assumed and unknown variables, in contrast with expert witness guidelines outlined in FRE 702.

B. Opinion No. 2

34. The IRS Audit has not been finalized and the timeline for conclusion is unknown. The sequence of a typical IRS audit under TEFRA is outlined below. Milestones highlighted in green have been completed, while steps in blue indicate outstanding stages of the process:[29]



---

[26] Compania Embotelladora del Pacífico, S.A. v. Pepsi Cola Co., No. 00 Civ. 7677 (JSR) (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 4, 2009).

[27] Daubert v. Merrell Dow Pharmaceuticals, Inc., 509 U.S. 579 (1993).

[28] National Association of Certified Valuators and Analysts (NACVA), Professional Standards, Rev. Nov. 22, 2024

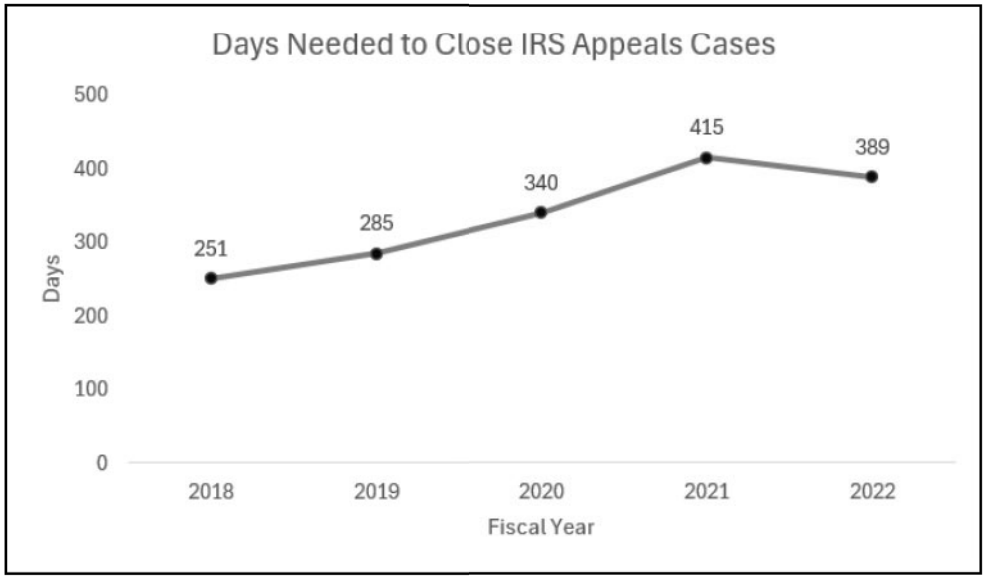
[29] Internal Revenue Service, Internal Revenue Manual (IRM) 4.31.2, TEFRA Examinations – Field Office Procedures, Part 4, Chapter 31, Section 2 (Apr. 22, 2025).

35. It is our understanding the IRS Audit has not been finalized, and the timeline of conclusion is unknown. The chart above outlines no final agreement, or settlement has been reached with the IRS. Therefore, since the IRS Audit is unresolved and there is no expected completion date, it would be not be reasonable or reliable for a financial expert to assess damages, at this point.

b. Basis for Opinion No. 2

36. As of the date of this Report, the IRS Audit has not yet resulted in a final determination. In December 2017, IRS field examiners completed their examination of the 2008 return and issued a summary report proposing adjustments.[30]

37. A letter dated February 3, 2018 from Highland's Director of Human Resources, Brian Collins ("Mr. Collins"), states, "[Highland] scheduled a closing conference on March 2, 2018. You do not need to attend the closing conference…Highland will handle the closing conference…and appeal the proposed adjustment to the IRS Appeals Office after the conference."[31] It was clear Highland intended to appeal the IRS Proposed Adjustments



[30] Based on IRS correspondence in a December 9, 2019, email from Highland's Director of Human Resources, Brian Collins, which states that "By letter dated December 8, 2017, Exam indicated that they had concluded their audit and provided a summary report proposing certain adjustments." [PDADV_004856] soon after receiving the results, which would indicate reliance on the December 2017 results would not be reasonable or reliable.

38. Almost two years later, in an apparent update email to Mr. Daughtery on December 9, 2019, Mr. Collins states, "the matter recently was transferred to the IRS Office of Appeals."[32] Approximately two years apart, Mr. Collins indicates the appeals process was "recently" started, while still maintaining the position the IRS Proposed Adjustments are not reliable. Later in the letter, Mr. Collins further cast doubt on the IRS Proposed Adjustments when he states, "Highland will continue to defend against the proposed adjustments by Exam and prosecute the appeal of those adjustments in the Appeals Office."[33] The sentiment expressed from a Highland representative, until this point, has been the results of the IRS Audit are not final and are, therefore, not reliable.

39. According to Government Accountability Office ("GAO"), the average time to close an appeal with the IRS Office of Appeals in 2019 was 282 days, trending upward from 251 the previous year.[34] The number of days to resolve a case with the IRS Office of Appeals would continue to rise in the following years as seen in the chart below.[35]

[35] GAO-23-105552.

40. Although, the IRS Office of Appeals had received the case by December 2019, no timetable existed for when the IRS Office of Appeals would conduct its review or issue any decision. Mr. Collins emphasized this point when states, "we have no further information regarding when the Appeals Office will review Highland's appeal or when a resolution may be made."[36] In connection, this information shows that while the IRS examination was completed in 2017 and a summary report was issued, it did not constitute a final determination of tax liability as Highland has not exhausted its efforts in an appeal.

41. Highland's Tax Partner As outlined above, Highland continues to dispute the proposed adjustments before the IRS Office of Appeals. The most recent communication dated February 28, 2025, indicates Highland's Tax Partner submitted a revised settlement counteroffer and again requested post-Appeals mediation.[37]

42. These actions confirm that, at least by February 28, 2025, no final partnership-level adjustment had been reached and the Appeals review was still ongoing. As of the date of this report, Mr. Daugherty has received no notice settlement. As such, it is clear Highland's Tax Partner is actively negotiating with the IRS on settlement offers.

43. With no expected timeline for completion and the ongoing dispute of the IRS Audit, it would not be reasonable or reliable for a financial expert to opine on damages. As such, it is our opinion a damage calculation cannot be made until Highland's Tax Matters Partner resolves the IRS Audit.

C. Opinion No. 3

44. If or when Highland's Tax Partner reaches a final agreement with the IRS, the tax impact to Mr. Daugherty should be calculated using the following process:

Step 0: Identify adjustment type (income, deductions, etc.);
Step 1: Total partnership adjustment for that item (IRS proposed change);
Step 2: Partner allocation % for that item (from K-1 / agreement);
Step 3: Partner's share = (Step 2) × (Step 3);
Step 4: Calculate tax effect = (Step 4) × partner's marginal rate;

36 PDADV_004856.

37 HUNTON_001105- HUNTON _001108.

Step 5: Calculate partnership basis impact;[38]

Step 6: Assess if there is any underpayment. If no, process ends here.

Step 7: If necessary, assess penalties;[39]

Step 8: Compute interest (Interest = Underpayment x Rate x Time Outstanding);[40]

Step 9: Calculate total partner-level exposure (Tax + Penalties + Interest).

c. Basis for Opinion No. 3

45. If Highland's Tax Partner reaches a final partnership-level agreement with the IRS, the resulting tax impact to Mr. Daugherty must be computed at the partner level. The partnership-level adjustment itself is the first step; the ultimate economic consequence to any individual partner necessarily depends on the partner's allocable share of the adjustment, federal and state tax rates, basis consequences, and any penalties or interest that may be imposed.

38 26 C.F.R. § 1.705-1, Determination of basis of partner's interest (as amended)

40 26 U.S.C. § 6601; 26 U.S.C. § 6621.

46. The chart below illustrates the steps that occur after the IRS's determination becomes final.

47. However, this process cannot begin until the IRS issues a final determination. As shown in the record, the IRS examination concluded in 2017 with "proposed" adjustments, not final ones, and Highland formally disagreed and appealed those adjustments. Subsequent correspondence confirms:[41]

- Highland did not accept the IRS Proposed Adjustments;
- Highland intended to and did appeal;
- The case entered the IRS Office of Appeals, where no timeline existed for resolution; and
- As of 2025, Highland continued to negotiate, submit revised counter offers, and request post-Appeals mediation.

48. Because no final partnership-level adjustment exists, any damage calculation today would not be reasonable or reliable. Once the IRS issues a final determination, however, the calculation of partner-level impact should follow the nine steps outlined above.

VII. Conclusion

49. As discussed throughout this report, due to Highland ongoing IRS Audit it would not be reasonable or reliable to opine on any economic damages to Mr. Daugherty. Our analysis, conclusions and opinions are based on the data and information that was available as of the date of this report. We reserve the right to revise the opinions, assumptions and calculations set forth herein upon consideration of the reports of any other testifying expert, the testimony of or new documents produced by any witness, any information or documents that any testifying expert produces or upon which he or she relies, and other material that may be presented to me prior to or at the time of trial that we may properly consider under the governing rules or guidelines set by the Court.

Its not a retrade, we were clarifying a general understanding. You will trust or you will leave; you will get no agreement in writing. You will stop pushing and wasting my time. You will contribute and be rewarded and when u feel unfairly treated you can go elsewhere but I won't deal with this much distraction, disrespect or disruption.

You are the one who told me to "f@ck myself", not the other way around. For the record, the agreement always expressly noted that I would have to be employed at Highland in order to get any payment of bonus (as has always been the case). As for Tunstall, we had already negotiated that agreement which clearly states the nature of my interest and your interest. The nature of the Restoration economic interest will be as agreed subject to investor approval as they are going to have their own views of how my, yours and the teams comp should be structured. I have never tried to skim you and I am not trying to now. That said, it is reasonable to get the nature of my compensation in writing so that everyone is clear. Every other Company in the universe commits their economic relationships with their managers to writing so that there can be no confusion down the road. To insist that I do otherwise is flat out wrong and you know it.

If you don't want me to give a damn about you personally then I guess I'll do my best to comply. That said, I have been by your side thru a whole lot of sh@t and it is so refreshing to get your boot up my a$$ now that you are back on your feet. I'm glad to see you are back to the point where you can tell those closest to you to "f@ck themselves".

I won't take you speaking with me like that. "Big brother u never wanted" doesn't allow u to be that disrespectful. I'm not willing to make that indicative letter a contract. There are things that need to be corrected such as bonus amounts of 750k feb aug need to both be described as retention, in-good-standing to receive. 25% interest in tunstall and RCP need to be described as LP interests not a fee skim. Re REIT you will be treated fairly re a transaction that may or may not happen and if the anticipated deal occurs as expected you can expect approx 15% but its too lose to define and you will have to trust me. You have been treated more than fair in a value proposition that is always shift. If you believe I have been untrustworthy you should move on.
Re my personal life, its not relevant except to say I will tolerate the individual, passions and peculiarities, to a point. Beyond that point it becomes too unpleasant and I'd rather start over alone. You need to stop pushing me.

Notes:
[1] Ex. 17 – Form 886-Z

[2] Ex. 30 – Imposition of penalties. 20% applied to the V case (based on the 2018 adjustments); 0% applied in the II and IV case (based on the contents of those offers); 10% applied in the III case as a 50% concession.

[3] Statutory rate is short term federal rate, plus 3%, rounded to the nearest whole percent, updated quarterly, and compounding daily. The amount described herein is the blended simple rate resulting from the application of the actual statutory, daily compounding rate. Average applicable statutory rate over the period was approximately 3.8%, and the effect of daily compounding added approximately 0.8%. See Ex's: 29, 31, 32, 33.

[4] April 15, 2009 to October 16, 2019

[5] Mr. Daugherty received cash IRS refund amounts of $493,629 and $780,301 in 2009 on account of 2008 Forms 1040 and 1045, respectively (see Ex.'s 35 and 36) for a total of $1,273,930. Had Mr. Daugherty invested this refund and earned just 4%, compounding annually (an easily obtained rate of return in the 2009-2019 period), he would have earned in excess of $600,000 as of October 16, 2019. This amount dwarfs any potential penalty or interest that is potentially assessable to Mr. Daugherty in any of the five cases described herein. However, for the sake of conservatism, Highland has assumed that Mr. Daugherty's use of the $1,273,930 of refund only generated returns equal to the penalty and interest assessed in cases III, IV, and V (in other words, Highland is assuming a rate of return of substantially below 4% compounding annually in those cases). In case I, there's simply nothing owed by Daugherty to the IRS, so no income has been calculated. And in case II, there is no penalty or interest, so it is merely assumed that Mr. Daugherty would have generated at least his underpayment amount ($59,224) of income based on investing the $1,273,930 refund over the course of over ten years – a rate of return substantially below 1% annually.

[6] Ex. 22 – HUNTON_001105. Tax matters partner's offer was for a single payment of $8M in resolution of all liability for all partners. Calculation of Daugherty's share is simply $8M x his partnership share (0.7403%). It is unclear from the offer whether the tax matters partner would or could allocate the liability amongst the partners, including Daugherty, but for the sake of conservatism, it is assumed that Daugherty would have to pay a ratable share.

[7] Assumes 50% of all adjustments and penalties in the V column as a hypothetical middle of the road resolution that sits between the current known settlement offers.

[8] Ex. 21 – HUNTON_000079; Ex. 26 – HUNTON_001120. Assumes 50% concession by the IRS on adjustment FP-01, 0% concession by the IRS on adjustment FP-02, 100% concession by the IRS on adjustment FP-03. The letter description of the FP-02 adjustment is less than crystal clear, but for purposes of this calculation, the maximum adjustment is applied.

JOINT PRETRIAL ORDER

[1] Highland's last four digits of its taxpayer identification number are (8357). The mailing address for Highland is 6333 E. Mockingbird Lane, Suite 147 #5045, Dallas, TX 75214.

This Joint Pretrial Order is jointly submitted to the Court for entry pursuant to Local Bankruptcy Rule 7016-1(a) and the Court's Order Approving Second Stipulated Scheduling Order [Docket No. 94][2] by Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Plaintiff" or "Highland") and Patrick Hagaman Daugherty ("Daugherty," and together, the "Parties").

I. NATURE OF ACTION AND PROCEDURAL POSTURE

1. This action concerns Daugherty's contingent, unliquidated claim against Highland arising from the audit of Highland's 2008 tax return (the "Reserved Claim"), and Highland's claims against Daugherty, seeking to disallow and estimate his Reserved Claim.[3] This action also concerns Daugherty's Counterclaims (defined below).

2. On October 16, 2019, Highland filed its petition for relief under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code (the "Bankruptcy Case" or the "Case"). Thereafter, Daugherty filed several proofs of claims in the Bankruptcy Case. Those claims culminated in Claim No. 205, which superseded and replaced all prior claims.

3. In November 2021, Daugherty and Highland entered into that certain Settlement Agreement (the "Settlement Agreement"), which resolved all aspects of Daugherty's claims against the Debtor's estate except for the Reserved Claim. On March 8, 2022, the Court entered an order approving the Settlement Agreement (the "Settlement Order") [Bankr. Docket No. 3299].[4] The Settlement Agreement provided that Highland would transfer to Daugherty its "interests in HERA and ERA," and that such transfer will include "the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system . . . [and] be without representation or warranty of any type … and without any liability or material cost to HCMLP or its affiliates..." Highland Ex. 5 ¶8 (the "Books and Records Provision"). The Settlement Agreement further provided that Highland expressly "reserve[d] the right to assert any and all defenses" to the Reserved Claim. Id. ¶9.

[3] As set forth in Highland's contentions below, Highland is withdrawing its Third Cause of Action for subordination under Bankruptcy Code Section 510(c).

[4] "Bankr. Docket No. __" refers to the docket maintained in the Bankruptcy Case.

4. On May 2, 2025, Highland commenced the Adversary Proceeding by filing its Complaint for (1) Disallowance of Claim No. 205 in its Entirety, (2) Estimation of Claim No. 205 for Allowance Purposes, or (3) Subordination of Any Allowed Portion of Claim No. 205 of Patrick Hagaman Daugherty [Docket No. 1] (the "Complaint"). In its Complaint, Highland asserted three claims: (a) disallowance of the Claim, (b) estimation of the Claim pursuant to 11 U.S.C. 502(c), and (c) subordination of the Claim under 11 U.S.C. § 510(b), (excluding the claim for subordination being withdrawn with prejudice, "Highland's Claims").

5. On June 5, 2025, Daugherty filed a Motion to Dismiss the Complaint [Docket No. 5]. Highland filed an Objection and a Cross Motion for Relief from a Final Order Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9024 [Docket No. 10]. At the hearing on Daugherty's Motion to Dismiss and Highland's Cross Motion, the Court denied the Motion to Dismiss and granted the Cross Motion. The Court's ruling struck a particular provision of the Settlement Agreement that Daugherty contends prohibited Highland from filing this Adversary Proceeding.[5]

6. On October 3, 2025, Daugherty filed his Answer and Original Counterclaim [Docket No. 39], asserting three causes of action against Highland: (a) breach of contract for breach of the Books and Records Provision; (b) specific performance through which Daugherty seeks an order requiring Highland to turn over all of HERA and ERA books and records in compliance with the Books and Records provision; and (c) attorneys' fees arising from Highland's allegedly bad faith

[5] Daugherty appealed to the district court from this Court's order granting the Cross Motion. That appeal is still pending. Daugherty does not intend to relitigate those issues at the upcoming April 17 hearing, but Daugherty is not waiving his existing appeal or any right to re-raise the issue in an appeal from the Court's ruling after the April 17 hearing.

conduct in commencing the Adversary Proceeding (collectively, the "Counterclaims"). On October 24, 2025, Highland filed its Answer to the Counterclaims (which included its affirmative defenses) [Docket No. 56].

7. A trial on Highland's Claims and Daugherty's Counterclaims is scheduled for April 17, 2026.

II. STATEMENT OF STIPULATED FACTS

A. The Parties Stipulate to the Following Facts:

8. From 1998-2011, Daugherty was employed by Highland.

9. Daugherty and Highland entered into that certain Amended Employment Agreement dated as of December 31, 2004 (the "Employment Agreement"). Highland Ex. 11.

10. On or about February 27, 2009, Highland issued to Daugherty a Comprehensive Compensation and Benefits Statement. Highland Ex. 13 (the "Comprehensive Statement").

11. In 2009, based on a draft Schedule K-1 that Highland provided to him, Daugherty filed his 2008 federal income tax return.

12. In 2009, Daugherty received refunds from the IRS of previously paid taxes in the amounts of $493,629 and $780,301 related to his 2008 Individual Income Tax Return (Form 1040) and his 2008 Application for Tentative Refund (Form 1045), respectively. These forms incorporated Highland's losses that had been allocated to him as provided for in the draft Schedule K-1.

13. On March 3, 2010, the IRS notified Highland that it was initiating an audit of Highland's 2008 federal income tax returns.

14. On September 28, 2011, Daugherty gave voluntarily notice of resignation from all positions at Highland. Highland Ex. 12. His last day as an employee at Highland was October 31, 2011.

15. On October 16, 2019, Highland filed its petition for relief under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code (the "Bankruptcy Case").

16. On February 22, 2021, the Court entered the Order (i) Confirming the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) and (ii) Granting Related Relief [Main Docket No. 1943] (the "Confirmation Order") with respect to the Plan.[6]

17. The Plan included a form of Claimant Trust Agreement (the "CTA"). [Bankr. Docket No. 1811, Exhibit R (preamble)].

18. The Plan created the CTA when the Plan went effective on August 11, 2021. [Main Docket No. 2700].

19. On November 22, 2021, Daugherty and Highland executed the Settlement Agreement. Highland Ex. 5.

20. On March 8, 2022, the Court entered the Settlement Order approving the Settlement Agreement.

21. On May 5, 2022, and October 19, 2022, Highland delivered certain documents and materials to Daugherty as reflected in Daugherty Exhibits 33 and 34, respectively.

22. The Reserved Claim remains disputed, contingent, and unliquidated.

III. CONTESTED ISSUES OF FACT

The statements and contentions in this section reflect the respective views of each Party and are not a joint statement or stipulation. No Party admits, agrees, or acquiesces to any factual or legal contentions, statements, or allegations of any other Party.

23. The Parties disagree on the following issues of fact:

- Whether the Compensation Statement is a binding and enforceable contract (Mixed question of law and fact)?

[6] The "Plan" refers to the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) filed on the main docket at Docket No. 1808. The Confirmation Order was subsequently modified for reasons irrelevant to the Motion. See Main Docket No. 4378.

- Whether Highland fulfilled its obligations, if any, under the Compensation Statement?
- If the Compensation Statement is an enforceable contract, and Highland has not fulfilled its obligations thereunder, whether Daugherty's Reserved Claim can be estimated in accordance with Section 502(c) of the Bankruptcy Code (Mixed question of law and fact)?
- If Daugherty's Reserved Claim can be estimated, how much should the Reserved Claim be estimated at for purposes of allowance.
- Whether the failure to estimate Daugherty's Reserved Claim before August 11, 2026, would unduly delay the administration of Highland's bankruptcy case?
- Whether Highland breached the Settlement Agreement's Books and Records Provision?
- Whether Highland acted in "bad faith" and is therefore liable for Daugherty's attorneys' fees?

IV. CONTESTED ISSUES OF LAW

24. The Parties disagree on the following issues of law:

- The Parties disagree over whether Daugherty's Reserved Claim should be disallowed (Mixed question of law and fact).
- The Parties disagree about whether Highland fulfilled its obligations under the Books and Records Provision (Mixed question of law and fact).
- The Parties disagree about whether Daugherty's breach of contract claim is barred by the statute of limitations.
- The parties disagree about who has the ultimate burden of proof on each cause of action and what those burdens are.

1. Estimated length of trial.

25. The Parties estimate that trial in this case will take one full day.

2. Additional matters that might aid in the disposition of the case.

26. None at this time.

V. PARTIES' CLAIMS AND DEFENSES

The following statements and contentions of the respective Parties in this Section reflect the respective views of each Party and are not a joint statement or stipulation. No Party admits, agrees, or acquiesces to any factual or legal contentions, statements, or allegations of any other Party.

A. Summary of Highland's Claims and Defenses

1. Daugherty Has the Ultimate Burden of Proof

27. Under 11 U.S.C. § 502(a) a "claim ..., proof of which is filed under section 501 [of the Bankruptcy Code], is deemed allowed, unless a party in interest ... objects." 11 U.S.C. § 502(a). The ultimate burden of proof for a claim always lies with the claimant. In re Armstrong, 347 B.R. 581, 583 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2006) (citing Raleigh v. Ill. Dep't of Rev., 530 U.S. 15 (2000)). Thus, Daugherty has the ultimate burden of proof with respect to the allowance and amount of his Reserved Claim.

28. Daugherty also has the ultimate burden of proof with respect to each of his Counterclaims.

2. Daugherty's Claim Should Be Disallowed

29. Daugherty's Claim should be disallowed for three independent reasons: (a) the Compensation Statement[7] is unenforceable as a contract because it is vague and indefinite and is missing material terms required to form a contract; (b) if the Compensation Statement creates an enforceable contract, Highland long-ago satisfied any obligations it may have had thereunder; and (c) under the plain and unambiguous terms of the Employment Agreement,[8] Daugherty surrendered any rights he may have had under the Compensation Statement when he voluntarily resigned from all positions at Highland in October 2011.

[7] Highland Ex. 13.

[8] Highland Ex. 11.

a. Material Terms of the Compensation Statement Are Either Vague or Indefinite or Are Missing Such that the No "Agreement" Was Reached and Claims Under the Compensation Statement are Unenforceable as a Matter of Law

30. The Compensation Statement does not constitute an offer by Highland and acceptance by Daugherty, an "at will" employee with an Employment Agreement, for anything. It is simply a summary of what Highland had or was going to pay Daugherty for services he had already performed during the prior year and a reiteration of his base salary for the next year. Every employee of Highland received a similar statement every year at the end of the performance review cycle each February. Material terms in the Compensation Statement Daugherty relies upon to claim an enforceable agreement are either vague or indefinite or are completely missing such that the so-called "agreement" is unenforceable as a matter of law. As relevant here, the alleged "agreement" is contained in three sentences that state only: "Refund is an estimated amount. If actual refund deviates materially from estimate, other compensation will be fairly adjusted. Refund is expected to be received in approximately 4 months."[9] That's it.

31. Under Texas law, a contract that fails to address all of its essential and material terms with a reasonable degree of certainty and definiteness is unenforceable as a matter of law. See APS Cap. Corp. v. Mesa Air Grp., Inc., 580 F.3d 265, 272 (5th Cir. 2009) ("In order to be a legally enforceable contract, an agreement must be formed around the contours of sufficiently specific terms."). 33. Here, under Texas law, the Compensation Statement either contains vague or indefinite terms, or omits material terms, that render it unenforceable.

34. First, the 2008 tax refund is explicitly stated to be an "estimated" amount. While unstated, the refund could only come from the IRS (as the taxing authority), not Highland. But the amount is not clear; it is merely estimated because a tax refund to an individual can only be determined after that individual files his/her tax return and all of the individual's particularized tax attributes are taken into consideration.[10] While Highland could (and did quite accurately) estimate the amount of losses it would pass through to Daugherty as a limited partner, and could therefore estimate the potential tax refund solely on account of those losses, it could not set forth with definiteness the amount of the refund Daugherty would get from the IRS. Accordingly, the prospective amount of the refund was an estimate—and "estimates" are necessarily uncertain.

35. Second, as used in the Compensation Statement, the word "materially" is vague and ambiguous. To create an enforceable obligation, the Court must determine, among other things, whether the actual refund Daugherty received from the IRS "deviate[s] "materially" from [the] estimate." Here, the estimate was $1,475,816[11], which as contemporaneous evidence shows, wasn't an estimate of the cash refund that Daugherty could expect to receive, but rather an estimate of the pre-tax equivalent of such a refund. In other words, the amount reflected on the Compensation Statement was a 35% "grossed-up" amount of his estimated cash refund of $959,280 to reflect what the refund would feel like to Daugherty on an "apples-to-apples" basis with other pre-tax compensation amounts. There is simply no agreed way to determine whether a refund amount received is materially consistent with the grossed-up amount listed on the Compensation Statement.

36. Third, the phrase "other compensation" is also vague and ambiguous because it had many potential permutations at the time. The Compensation Statement proves the point as it identifies myriad forms of "Earnings and Awards" and "Highland Paid Benefits" that comprise the "Total Compensation Package" that Daugherty received for services he provided to Highland in 2008, including: (a) base salary, (b) tax refund, (c) loan forgiveness, (d) other awards (including a

[10] This would include things like other sources of income, unrelated capital gains and losses from investments, unrelated K-1's from other partnerships, spousal income, estimated tax payments the individual or their spouse made during the year, individual itemized deductions, and a litany of others. Each of these factors can impact an individual's refund or tax owed each year, and Highland did not have visibility into all the factors impacting Daugherty's "married-filing-jointly" return.

[11] Highland Ex. 13.

401(k) match and a "defined benefit"); and (e) deferred compensation.[12] In all, as reflected on the Compensation Statement, Daugherty was compensated 13 different ways in 2008 alone, and other years had even more methods of "compensation". To create a contract out of the Compensation Statement, the Court would have to pick without guidance which method of compensation should be adjusted.

37. Fourth, the phrase "fairly adjusted" is another subjective term susceptible to differing meanings. Indeed, it is hard to imagine in 2011 that Daugherty and Highland would have reached an agreement on what was "fair." Had the parties intended to reach a binding "agreement," they surely would have done so. Again, to create Daugherty's alleged agreement, the Court will have to identify on its own what amount would have been deemed "fair" by the parties in February 2009.

38. Finally, the Compensation Statement omits numerous material terms. For example, the Compensation Statement does not (a) mention what happens if an actual tax refund is received by Daugherty (as it was) but that refund is subject to potential recovery by the IRS (as it always is); (b) reference or even consider the possibility of an audit of Highland or Daugherty; (c) provide for what would happen in the event of an audit adjustment affecting Highland or Daugherty; (d) include any time frame or due date for any potential adjustment of "other compensation"; (e) state that Highland would "adjust other compensation" to account for any interest or penalties arising in connection with any unconsidered audit; (f) state that Highland would "make Daugherty whole" if any portion of the refund was clawed back after the unconsidered audit; (g) state that any obligation Highland purportedly had would continue indefinitely, even after Daugherty was no longer affiliated with Highland; or (h) contain the words "indemnify," "reimburse," "cover," "back-stop," or phrases of similar import. Contemporaneous evidence actually contradicts Daugherty's theory of endless indemnification – that rather, tax refunds "are not guaranteed, as the IRS still has the authority to audit our claimed losses and resulting refunds due."[13] It is indisputable that Highland did not (1) even file its 2008 partnership return until nearly seven months after giving Daugherty the Compensation Statement, and (2) learn that the 2008 partnership return was selected for an IRS audit until March 2010.

39. In sum, the Compensation Statement is not an enforceable contract as a matter of law because essential terms to form an agreement are either vague, indefinite, or missing. For this reason alone, the Claim should be disallowed.

b. Highland Satisfied its Obligations Under the Compensation Statement

40. Even if the unsigned Compensation Statement is deemed an enforceable contract, Highland satisfied any obligations it may have had long ago because Daugherty received a tax refund from the IRS based on partnership losses passed to him and reflected in a draft Form K-1 for 2008 that Highland provided to him, which was further validated by a final Form K-1 for 2008 that was provided in September 2009. (the "2008 K-1").[14] Specifically, as reflected on his final 2008 K-1, Daugherty was allocated ordinary business losses by Highland in excess of $4 million, along with other losses that well-exceeded the partnership allocated income he received from Highland during 2005-2007. Thus, Daugherty received even more than what was referenced in the Compensation Statement which resulted in a greater refund for Daugherty than estimated. In other words, the allocation to Daugherty of over $4 million of actual losses from 2008 reflected in the final Form K-

[13] Highland Ex. 47.

1 delivered in 2009 (when tax-effected at 35%) exceeded the originally estimated cash refund which formed the basis of the amount referenced in the Compensation Statement.

41. When Daugherty voluntarily terminated his employment with Highland in October 2011, he acknowledged and agreed that, pursuant to the express conditions of his Employment Agreement, Highland would "have no further liability or obligation to [Daugherty] under [the Employment Agreement] or in connection with his/her employment of termination."

42. Highland, therefore, satisfied its obligations (to the extent it had any) under the Compensation Statement and Employment Agreement in full. Accordingly, the Claim should be disallowed in its entirety.

c. Under the Terms of His Employment Agreement, Daugherty Forfeited Any Right He May Have Had to Compensation When He Resigned.

43. Even if the Compensation Statement was enforceable, Daugherty's Claim still fails because he forfeited any rights he had thereunder when he terminated his employment at Highland in October 2011.

44. Daugherty voluntarily resigned from Highland on September 28, 2011, and his employment terminated on October 31, 2011.[15] By his own contention, the 2008 Tax Refund that Daugherty received from Highland was part of his discretionary bonus under the Employment Agreement. But Daugherty surrendered any right he may have had to a bonus under the Compensation Statement (to the extent he had any) when he voluntarily terminated his employment at Highland. The Employment Agreement expressly states that Daugherty must be employed in order to be eligible for a bonus. Section 3.1 of the Employment Agreement provides:

> Salary and Bonus. The annual salary (the "Base Salary") payable to the Executive during the term of this Agreement shall be an amount > determined by the Company (in its sole discretion) and communicated in writing to the Executive, and will be subject to annual review pursuant to the Company's normal review policy for other similarly situated executives of the Company. Any increase in salary shall be based upon the Executive's performance and shall be determined by the Company in its sole discretion. In addition, the Company may from time to time award bonuses to the Executive based on such criteria as the Company may establish in its discretion. Any such bonus, unless specifically stated otherwise, will be paid in three (3) equal installments and is not earned or accrued until each payment date. The Executive must be employed on the payment date(s) in order to be eligible for the bonus. The payment of salary and bonuses shall be subject to all federal, state and withholding taxes, social security deductions and other general obligations. Furthermore, the designation of the Executive's compensation does not constitute a guarantee of employment for any specific period of time.[16]

45. Daugherty terminated his employment at Highland on October 31, 2011, and therefore, was no longer eligible for any bonus under the Employment Agreement after that date. Daugherty has admitted this in writing 15 years ago -- literally the day before he resigned in 2011. Highland Ex. 38 ("I would have to be employed at Highland in order to get any payment of bonus (as has always been the case).").

46. Further, Section 4.5 of the Employment Agreement expressly addresses Highland's liability to Daugherty in the event Daugherty voluntarily terminates his employment and does not take up work with a "competing business":

> In the event that [Daugherty] terminates his/her Continuous Status as an Executive hereunder and within one (1) year thereafter [Daugherty] is not employed by a Competing Business, [Highland] shall have no further liability or obligation to [Daugherty] under this Agreement or in connection with his/her employment hereunder, except for (i) any unpaid Base Salary accrued through the date of termination, (ii) any accrued but unused vacation time, (iii) any amounts or rights to which [Daugherty] is entitled under any other written agreement with [Highland], (iv) any unreimbursed expenses properly incurred prior to the date of termination, and (v) severance pay equal to the product of (a) two (2) weeks Base Salary … multiplied by (b) the number of

> [years of service]… [total severance not to exceed six weeks of Base Salary]... [Daugherty] acknowledges that [Highland's] obligation to pay severance, if any, will arise only … if [Daugherty] signs and returns a duly executed separation agreement and release substantially in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A….In the event that [Daugherty] declines to sign the separation agreement and release, he/she shall not be entitled to any severance, and [Highland] will have no further liability or obligation to Daugherty under this Agreement or in connection with his/her employment or termination. [17]

47. Since Daugherty did not sign the separation and release form and deliver it to Highland and elected to counter-sue Highland under the Employment Agreement instead (and lost against Highland),[18] he forfeited any right he may have had under the Compensation Statement for any additional consideration, including his claim for unlimited indemnity or adjustment of other pre-termination compensation.

48. Finally, one other document proves that the Parties never believed the Compensation Statement constituted an agreement that would survive Daugherty's termination from Highland: a form of Separation Agreement Daugherty refused to sign following his resignation (the "Draft Separation Agreement").[19] The Draft Separation Agreement contains, among other things, the very promise by Highland pay taxes, interest, and penalties arising from an audit of Highland's tax returns (the "Rejected Indemnity") that Daugherty now claims is implicitly included in the Compensation Statement. The evidence will show that in October 2011, when Daugherty was presented with the Draft Separation Agreement, the IRS was only auditing Highland's 2008 return. There would have been no reason to include the Rejected Indemnity in the Draft Separation Agreement if the Parties believed it was already included in the Compensation Statement and would survive Daugherty's termination.

[17] Highland Ex. 11 at §4.5 (emphasis added).

[18] See Highland Ex. 44.

[19] Daugherty Ex. 44 §3(b)(ii).

3. Daugherty's Claim Must Be Estimated Under Section 502(c)

49. Even if Daugherty's Claim is allowed, it must be estimated under Section 502(c) of the Bankruptcy Code ("Section 502(c)"). Under Section 502(c), the Bankruptcy Court is required to estimate contingent and unliquidated claims for allowance purposes in the circumstances present here.[20] The statute provides: "[t]here shall be estimated for purposes of allowance ... (1) any contingent or unliquidated claim, the fixing or liquidation of which ... would unduly delay the administration of the case ...." 11 U.S.C. § 502(c).

50. "The public policy underlying claims estimation under the Code is to facilitate the timely administration of the case by making an expeditious assessment of the value of certain claims which would otherwise unduly delay administration." In re Perry, 425 B.R. 323, 381 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 2010). Thus, where, as here, both prerequisites are met, the bankruptcy court does not merely have discretion to estimate – it has an affirmative mandatory duty to do so. The method by which the bankruptcy court estimates a claim under Section 502(c) is within the court's broad discretion. See Matter of Brints Cotton Mktg., Inc., 737 F.2d 1338, 1341 (5th Cir. 1984) ("A bankruptcy court's estimation of the value of an unliquidated claim, the liquidation of which would unduly delay the proceedings, may be disturbed on appellate review only in the event of an abuse of discretion.").

[20] Daugherty's expert opines that Daugherty's Claim cannot possibly be estimated until all disputes concerning the 2008 Audit are finally resolved, if then. Aside from the fact that the expert is wrong (see below), Daugherty cannot reconcile his expert's opinion with Congress' explicit mandate reflected in the plain text of in Section 502(c)—and that's not surprising since Daugherty's expert admits he has no bankruptcy expertise and is unfamiliar with Section 502(c). Indeed, if Daugherty's expert is right, and Daugherty's Claim cannot possibly be estimated, then the Claim should be disallowed as too speculative. The one result that is not permitted under the circumstances is that Daugherty gets to hold up implementation of the express agreement between Highland and all of its stakeholders (as reflected in the court-approved Plan and Claimant Trust Agreement) concerning the deadline for the resolution of claims and the commencement of dissolution (i.e., August 11, 2026).

51. Daugherty's Claim, which is both contingent and unliquidated, is precisely the type of claim that must be estimated under Section 502(c). As set forth above, the Plan was confirmed in February of 2021 and has been effective since August of 2021. Under the Sunset Provisions[21] in the Plan, CTA, Confirmation Order, and related extension orders, Highland must resolve all disputed claims, and the Highland Claimant Trust must commence the Dissolution Process, by August 11, 2026. Mr. Daugherty's Claim is the last unresolved claim against Highland's estate. Although the parties dispute whether the IRS made a "final determination" with respect to the completed 2008 IRS tax audit that concluded in 2018,[22] they agree that any final resolution of the appeal of the audit results will not be complete by the court-ordered and Plan-mandated August 11, 2026 deadline to resolve the estate's outstanding claims and commence Highland's dissolution process. Thus, if Daugherty' Claim is not estimated, Highland will be in violation of the Confirmation Order and the Extension Order and the administration of the bankruptcy case will be unduly delayed. Accordingly, this Court is required to exercise its congressionally mandated duty to estimate Daugherty's Claim under Section 502(c).

52. In applying Section 502(c), the Court has ample information to apply a reasonable methodology to estimate Daugherty's Claim, assuming any liability for Highland. The only figure subject to estimation is the amount of adjustment to Highland's 2008 partnership return (the "HCMLP Income Adjustment"). Once the sole, unknown variable—the HCMLP Income Adjustment—is estimated, the amount of Daugherty's Claim may be determined by a simple

[21] See generally Highland's Motion for An Order Further Extending Duration of Trusts, Docket 4213 (the "Extension Motion"). This Court granted the Extension Motion and extended the life of the Claimant Trust only until August 11, 2026. Docket No. 4298 (the "Extension Order").

[22] The dispute over whether "the IRS [made] a final determination with respect to the IRS Audit Dispute" (Highland Ex. 5 ¶9) was addressed by this Court when it granted Highland's motion under Rule 60 to strike the Stay Provision from the Settlement Agreement (Adv. Pro. Docket No. 23), and is irrelevant to the current dispute before the Court. See also Memorandum Opinion and Order, Adv. Pro. Docket No. 80) (denying Daugherty motion to stay adversary proceeding pending appeal of order granting Highland's Rule 60 motion).

arithmetic formula: [HCMLP Income Adjustment] x [Daugherty's 0.7403 percentage interest in the partnership as of the December 31, 2008]; x [Daugherty's 35% maximum personal federal income tax rate as of December 31, 2008]. Thus, the Court can reasonably estimate Daugherty's Claim by plugging in one of four different numbers for the HCMLP Income Adjustment, which in all but one case requires no subjectivity whatsoever: (i) the IRS's original determination at the conclusion of the 2018 audit;[23] (ii) the IRS's 2024 offer to the tax matters partner (Dondero) of a discounted settlement; (iii) Dondero's 2025 offer to the IRS of an even further discounted settlement; or (iv) some estimate of a hypothetical discounted settlement based on the several existing known data points. The results are set forth in the demonstrative exhibit attached as Highland D-1.

53. While Highland believes there is no basis to hold it liable for any penalties or interest that Daugherty could be required to pay on account of an "underpayment" amount resulting from HCMLP Income Adjustment, as further set forth below, Highland has nevertheless calculated these objective and statutorily determined amounts in the same demonstrative for the sake of completeness and to provide the Court with all the tools it needs to fulfill its mandate. Even if the Compensation Statement is deemed to be an enforceable contract (which Highland disputes), such Compensation Statement makes no reference to penalties or interest whatsoever, nor does it provide for any indemnification or similar obligations with respect thereto (and in fact, contemporaneous evidence contradicts such a notion). That said, even if the Court determines that the claim ought to be allowed and should include some estimate for penalties and/or interest, Daugherty has benefited from having actually received the original $1.3 million refund amount from the IRS in 2009, and Daugherty has an affirmative duty to mitigate any damages arising from penalties and/or interest, which could have been accomplished through investment of the tax refund he received. Even assuming extremely conservative rates of return on such a hypothetical investment, such returns would dwarf the penalties and interest the IRS would charge in any of the scenarios described in the demonstrative.[24]

54. The Court may also use another methodology it deems appropriate under the circumstances. But there can be no dispute that this is the exact type of situation that mandates claim estimation. Accordingly, if Daugherty's Claim is allowed, it shall be estimated under Section 502(c).

4. Highland Withdraws Its Third Cause Of Action--Subordination Under Section 510(b)—With Prejudice

55. Upon reflection, Highland withdraws with prejudice its Third Cause of Action for the subordination of Daugherty's Claim pursuant Bankruptcy Code section 510(b) because (a) Daugherty's Claim has long been subject to a reserve in an amount that greatly exceeds any plausible estimate of value, (b) withdrawal will simplify the trial by eliminating the Parties' burden of litigating whether (i) Daugherty's Claim should be subordinated, and (ii) if so, whether it should be subordinated to Class 10 and Class 11, (c) withdrawal will reduce this Court's burden to decide such issues, (d) withdrawal will narrow the scope of any potential appeal, and (e) Daugherty cannot be prejudiced because, if the Court determines that the Compensation Statement is an enforceable contract, and estimates Daugherty's Claim, the Claim will remain in Class 8 where it has always been and will be paid in full.[25]

[24] Mr. Daugherty has had the use of the 2008 Refund for more than 16 years during a historically bullish period for investors, with the S&P 500, for example, returning approximately 10x for investors from the start of 2009 to early 2026. For underpayment with a filed return, the IRS charges a one-time 20% penalty on the underpaid amount, and the effective interest rate on the underpayment since Daugherty received the refund would be approximately 4.6% per year by statute.

[25] If Daugherty's Claim is subordinated to Class 10, it will receive a small fraction of its allowed amount that will be potentially paid by the Highland Claimant Trust over an indeterminate period of time. If Daugherty's Claim is subordinated to Class 11, it will be valueless since the holders of Class 10 interests will never be paid in full.

56. Based on the foregoing, Highland hereby gives notice that it withdraws with prejudice its Third Cause of Action for subordination.

5. Daugherty's Counterclaim for Books and Records is meritless

57. This counterclaim is a narrow issue that is definitively covered by the terms of the Settlement Agreement and Highland's satisfaction of its obligations. Under the Settlement Agreement, Highland agreed to "transfer its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty. Such transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system. Such transfer will be without representation or warranty of any type. . . Such transfer will be without any liability or material cost to HCMLP or its affiliates . . ."[26]

58. While Daugherty negotiated Section 8 directly with Highland's Chief Executive Officer, James P. Seery, Jr., Daugherty has no recollection about the negotiations of this provision or why the unique phrase "books and records (spreadsheet)" was included. Seery does—and he will testify that phrase and accompanying text (a) refers to a specific set of documents and (b) was used to circumscribe the documents Highland would turn over to Daugherty. Yet here we are.

59. Despite having no recollection of the meaning and intent of Section 8, Daugherty has asserted a counterclaim contending that Highland breached its obligation under Section 8 by failing to provide all of HERA and ERA's "books and records" and suggests Highland will be liable for consequential damages if HERA does not prevail in unrelated litigation.[27] Daugherty has also asserted counterclaims for specific performance and attorney's fees. Daugherty's counterclaims are meritless.

[26] Highland Ex. 5 ¶8 ("Section 8")

[27] Highland Ex. 1 ¶¶12-13 (Counterclaim).

60. There is no dispute that HERA and ERA (a) were shell entities established for the sole purpose of holding limited, passive assets for the benefit of certain then-Highland employees as a compensation vehicle, and (b) never had any of its own employees or operations of any kind. With that in mind, the evidence will show that on May 5, 2022, just after this Court approved the Settlement Agreement, Highland delivered to Daugherty "HERA and ERA books and records" available on Highland's system, together with tax documents, and noted that, subject to a final review, it had fulfilled its obligations under Section 8.[28]

61. On October 19, 2022, in an effort to placate Mr. Daugherty, Highland provided additional information concerning HERA and ERA (including back-up for virtually all of HERA's historically recorded expenses reflected in the records previously delivered to Daugherty) and re-iterated its position that it had "satisfied all of its obligations under the settlement agreement, and our involvement in HERA/ERA (your entities) will be complete."[29]

62. Daugherty did not raise the issue of "books and records" again until January 30, 2024, when Gray Reed requested[30] that Highland supplement its delivery of documents seeking Word, Excel, and Powerpoint documents, email correspondence, legal communications, among others, all with corresponding metadata, and requesting that Highland employ an outside vendor to collect and produce the documents.

63. With Gray Reed having not yet received a substantive response from Highland, on February 29, 2024, HERA filed its original complaint against 24 individuals, law firms, or other entities.

[28] Daugherty Ex. 33.

[29] Daugherty Ex. 34.

[30] Highland Ex. 53

64. Just days later, on March 5, 2024, Highland's counsel responded to the January 30, 2024 letter, and stood by Highland's prior statements that it had fulfilled its obligations under the Settlement Agreement[31]

65. Then, two months later, on May 10, 2024 when a new Daugherty lawyer suddenly demanded a broad swath of documents concerning HERA and ERA that had been demanded by Gray Reed on January 30, 2024, while misquoting the settlement agreement along the way and again requesting that Highland's use of an outside vendor. Highland responded within hours, rejected Daugherty's newest demands, reiterated yet again that it believed that it had fulfilled its obligations under Section 8, and expressly invited Daugherty to seek judicial relief to finally bring the matter to a close. [32]

66. Daugherty did no such thing because—as he has proven time and time again—Daugherty has no interest in resolving anything. Thus, rather than sue Highland and enforce his purported rights under the Settlement Agreement and bring finality to the issue, Daugherty will admit that he voluntarily chose to commence an action in federal district court on behalf of HERA and ERA (the "HERA Action") knowing that Highland had refused to produce any further documents concerning those entities.[33] Daugherty will also admit that even in the face of a motion to dismiss the HERA Action, Daugherty chose not to seek leave to seek additional documents from Highland, a entity known to be in the latter stages of liquidating. It was only in October 2025, after being forced to litigate his unrelated tax claim and three and a half years after Highland informed him that it believed it had fulfilled its obligations under Section 8, that Daugherty finally sought to enforce his purported rights.

[32] Daugherty Ex. 35.

[33] Highland Ex. 1 ¶¶12-13 (Counterclaim).

67. The evidence will show that Daugherty's breach of contract claim is barred by the three-year statute of limitations and that Highland otherwise did not breach Section 8.[34]

B. Summary of Daugherty's Claims and Defenses

68. Daugherty understood the local rule to require a brief summary (identification) of the claims and defenses that are at issue in the adversary proceeding hearing, and that either party could file a separate trial brief addressing issues that they belief were pertinent to the upcoming hearing. Daugherty intends to file a separate trial brief on April 13, pursuant to the Second Stipulated Scheduling Order [Docket No. 94].

69. Daugherty asserts three causes of action against Highland. First, Daugherty has a breach of contract claim related to his contention that Highland violated the Settlement Agreement's Books and Records Provision. Second, Daugherty has a cause of action for specific performance through which Daugherty seeks an order requiring Highland to fully comply with the Books and Records Provision. Third, Daugherty seeks his attorneys' fees related to his position that Highland breached the Settlement Agreement in bad faith.

70. Daugherty's defense against Highland's claim is equitable estoppel. Daugherty also continues to maintain that the Settlement Agreement's stay provision (which is quoted above) precludes Highland from filing this adversary proceeding because there has not been a final determination with respect to the IRS Audit Dispute. Daugherty has appealed that issue to the district court in connection with this Court's grant of Highland's Cross Motion under Rule 9024, which struck the stay provision. Although Daugherty is not going to relitigate that issue at the April 17 hearing, he is not waiving his pending appeal or any arguments relating to this issue.

IMPORTANT: SEE NOTES ON THE SUCCEEDING PAGE

Notes:

[1] Ex. 17 – Form 886-Z

[2] Ex. 30 – Imposition of penalties. 20% applied to the V case (based on the 2018 adjustments); 0% applied in the II and IV case (based on the contents of those offers); 10% applied in the III case as a 50% concession.

[3] Statutory rate is short term federal rate, plus 3%, rounded to the nearest whole percent, updated quarterly, and compounding daily. The amount described herein is the blended simple rate resulting from the application of the actual statutory, daily compounding rate. Average applicable statutory rate over the period was approximately 3.8%, and the effect of daily compounding added approximately 0.8%. See Ex's: 29, 31, 32, 33.

[4] April 15, 2009 to October 16, 2019

[5] Mr. Daugherty received cash IRS refund amounts of $493,629 and $780,301 in 2009 on account of 2008 Forms 1040 and 1045, respectively (see Ex.'s 35 and 36) for a total of $1,273,930. Had Mr. Daugherty invested this refund and earned just 4%, compounding annually (an easily obtained rate of return in the 2009-2019 period), he would have earned in excess of $600,000 as of October 16, 2019. This amount dwarfs any potential penalty or interest that is potentially assessable to Mr. Daugherty in any of the five cases described herein. However, for the sake of conservatism, Highland has assumed that Mr. Daugherty's use of the $1,273,930 of refund only generated returns equal to the penalty and interest assessed in cases III, IV and V (in other words, Highland is assuming a rate of return of substantially below 4% compounding annually in those cases). In case I, there's simply nothing owed by Daugherty to the IRS so no income has been calculated. And in case II, there is no penalty or interest, so it is merely assumed that Mr. Daugherty would have generated at least his underpayment amount ($500,000) of income based on investing the $1,273,930 refund over the course of over ten years – a rate of return substantially below 1% annually.

[6] Ex. 22 – HUNTON_001105. Tax matters partner's offer was for a single payment of $8M in resolution of all liability for all partners. Calculation of Daugherty's share is simply $8M x his partnership share (0.7403%). It is unclear from the offer whether the tax matters partner would or could allocate the liability amongst the partners, including Daugherty, but for the purposes of conservatism, it is assumed that Daugherty would have to pay a ratable share.

[7] Assumes 50% of all adjustments and penalties in the V column as a hypothetical middle of the road resolution that sits between the current known settlement offers.

[8] Ex. 21 – HUNTON_000079; Ex. 26 – HUNTON_001120. Assumes 50% concession by the IRS on adjustment FP-01, 0% concession by the IRS on adjustment FP-02, 100% concession by the IRS on adjustment FP-03. The letter description of the FP-02 adjustment is less than crystal clear, but for purposes of this calculation, the maximum adjustment is applied.

APPELLANT'S AMENDED DESIGNATION OF ITEMS TO BE INCLUDED IN THE RECORD ON APPEAL AND STATEMENT OF THE ISSUES PRESENTED

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 8009(a), Appellant Patrick Daugherty ("Daugherty") hereby submits his amended designation of items to be included in the record on appeal and statement of issues to be presented in connection with his appeal from the July 24, 2026 Judgment and Memorandum Opinion [Docket Nos. 138, 139 in Adversary No. 25-03055-bwo]. See Notice of Appeal [Docket No. 142 in Adversary No. 25-03055-bwo].

Statement of Issues on Appeal

1. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in disallowing Daugherty's Reserved Claim based on the Employment Agreement's termination provisions, when the Court itself found the 2009 Compensation Statement was incorporated into the Employment Agreement and resolved its ambiguity in Daugherty's favor, concluding that Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland") intended to compensate Daugherty for any material deviation in his 2008 tax refund.

2. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in applying the "no further liability or obligation" language of Sections 4.5 and 4.6 of the Employment Agreement to extinguish Daugherty's compensation entitlement under the 2009 Compensation Statement, when that language pertains to severance contingent upon execution of a separation agreement and not to earned compensation that accrued during Daugherty's active employment.

3. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in holding that James Dondero's oral promises to cover Daugherty's contingent tax liability were unenforceable under Texas's statute of frauds, Tex. Bus. & Com. Code § 26.01, when Highland had a main purpose of its own in making the promise and when the Court failed to consider Daugherty's continued employment and forbearance as adequate consideration.

4. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in denying Daugherty's counterclaim for specific performance of the Settlement Agreement's books-and-records provision by construing that provision through the statutory categories of 6 Del. C. § 18-305(a), rather than by the plain meaning of the negotiated Settlement Agreement requiring Highland to "transfer its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty" "[t]o facilitate [the] recovery of [] potential claims," including "the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system."

5. Whether the Bankruptcy Court abused its discretion by granting Highland Capital Management, L.P.'s Cross Motion pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 60(b)(6) when Highland failed to make a showing of manifest injustice and exceptional circumstances required to rewrite a term of the parties' bargained-for, court-approved settlement agreement that Highland Capital Management, L.P. entered on a free, deliberate, calculated, and counseled basis.

6. Whether the Bankruptcy Court abused its discretion by granting Highland Capital Management, L.P.'s Cross Motion pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 60(b)(6) when Highland was estopped from seeking such relief after it obtained the benefits of the tolling provision in the settlement agreement, including, inter alia, the parties' negotiation and execution of a series of tolling agreements to the benefit of Highland Capital Management, L.P. regarding its certain claim-objection deadline.

ESCROW AGREEMENT

THIS ESCROW AGREEMENT is entered into December 13, 2013, by and between Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Depositor"), and Abrams & Bayliss, LLP, as escrow agent (the "Escrow Agent").

WHEREAS, from time to time, pursuant to certain transactions, Depositor receives and holds certain funds; and

WHEREAS, Depositor is desirous of appointing the Escrow Agent as its agent to hold these funds subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein;

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the foregoing and of the mutual covenants hereinafter set forth, the parties hereto agree as follows:

1. Appointment. Depositor hereby appoints Escrow Agent as its escrow agent for the purposes set forth herein, and Escrow Agent hereby accepts such appointment under the terms and conditions set forth herein.

2. Deposit Assets. Depositor agrees to deposit with Escrow Agent the assets as set forth in Schedule 1 (the "Deposit Assets"). Escrow Agent shall hold the Deposit Assets as set forth in this Escrow Agreement. Escrow Agent shall not have any liability for any loss sustained as a result of any increase or decrease of value of any Deposit Assets or for the failure of an Authorized Representative of Depositor to give Escrow Agent instructions regarding any Deposit Asset. All interest or other income earned under this Agreement shall be accumulated and become part of the Deposit Assets. Depositor hereby represents to Escrow Agent that Depositor shall file all necessary tax documentation in relation to the Deposit Assets and no other tax reporting of any kind is required given the underlying transaction giving rise to this Agreement.

3. Disposition and Termination.

(a) The Escrow Agent shall deliver the Deposit Assets upon, and pursuant to, the written instructions of Depositor in compliance with Section 3(b). Any instructions setting forth, claiming, containing, objecting to, or in any way related to the transfer or distribution of the Deposit Assets, must be in writing or set forth in a Portable Document Format ("PDF"), executed by Depositor as evidenced by the signatures of the person or persons signing this Agreement or one of its designated persons as set forth in Schedule 2 (each an "Authorized Representative"), and delivered to Escrow Agent only by confirmed facsimile or attached to an email on a Business Day only at the fax number or email address set forth in Section 8 below. No instruction for or related to the transfer or distribution of the Deposit Assets shall be deemed delivered and effective unless Escrow Agent actually shall have received it on a Business Day by facsimile or as a PDF attached to an email only at the fax number or email address set forth in Section 8 and as evidenced by a confirmed transmittal to Depositor's transmitting fax number or email address and Escrow Agent has been able to satisfy any applicable security procedures as may be required hereunder. Escrow Agent shall not be liable to Depositor or other person for refraining from acting upon any instruction for or related to the transfer or distribution of the Deposit Assets if delivered to any other fax number or email address, including but not limited to a valid email address of any employee of Escrow Agent. Depositor acknowledges that Escrow Agent is authorized to use the following funds transfer instructions to disburse any Deposit Assets due to Depositor, respectively, without a verifying call-back, as set forth in Section 3(b) below:

Depositor: Bank name: Compass Bank Account Name: Highland Capital Management, L.P. (Master Operating Account)
Routing# [redacted]
Account# [redacted]

CONFIDENTIAL

(b) Escrow Agent shall only transfer Deposit Assets under the following circumstances:

i. In the event Escrow Agent is provided a final, non-appealable judgment against Highland Employee Retention Assets, LLC ("HERA") by Patrick Daugherty, his successors, or assigns ("Daugherty") in the case Highland Capital Management, L.P. and Cornerstone Healthcare Group Holding, Inc. v. Patrick Daugherty v. Sierra Verde, LLC, et al., Cause No. 12-04005 in the 68th Judicial District of Dallas County, Texas ("Daugherty Action"), Escrow Agent shall, within 10 Business Days, transfer to HERA Deposit Assets equivalent to the amount of such judgment, or if the judgment against HERA exceeds the amount of Deposit Assets, Escrow Agent shall transfer to HERA all Deposit Assets, including accumulated income, held by Escrow Agent.

ii. In the event Escrow Agent is provided a final, non-appealable order dismissing Daugherty's claims against HERA in the Daugherty Action, Escrow Agent shall, within 10 Business Days, transfer all Deposit Assets, including accumulated income, to Depositor.

All transfers made in this Section 3(b) shall be made subject to Sections 6 and 7 herein.

(c) As used in this Section 3, "Business Day" shall mean any day other than a Saturday, Sunday or any Federal holiday. Upon delivery of the Deposit Assets by Escrow Agent, this Agreement shall terminate, subject to the provisions of Sections 6 and 7 herein.

4. Escrow Agent. Escrow Agent shall have only those duties as are specifically and expressly provided herein, which shall be deemed purely ministerial in nature. No other duties shall be implied, and under no circumstances shall the Escrow Agent be deemed a fiduciary of Depositor for the purposes of this Agreement. Escrow Agent has no knowledge of, nor any requirement to comply with, the terms and conditions of any other agreement, instrument or document other than this Agreement. Escrow Agent may conclusively rely upon any written notice, document, instruction or request delivered by Depositor believed by it to be genuine and to have been signed by an Authorized Representative without inquiry and without requiring substantiating evidence of any kind. Escrow Agent shall not be liable for any action taken, suffered or omitted to be taken by it pursuant to, or in relation to this Agreement, except for willful misconduct causing direct loss to Depositor. Escrow Agent may execute any of its powers and perform any of its duties hereunder directly or through affiliates or agents. Escrow Agent shall have no duty to confirm or verify the accuracy or correctness of any amounts deposited with it hereunder. Anything in this Agreement to the contrary notwithstanding, in no event shall Escrow Agent be liable for special, incidental, punitive, indirect or consequential loss or damage of any kind whatsoever (including but not limited to lost profits), even if Escrow Agent has been advised of the likelihood of such loss or damage and regardless of the form of action.

5. Resignation; Succession. Escrow Agent may resign and be discharged from its duties or obligations hereunder by giving ten (10) days advance written notice specifying a date when such resignation shall take effect. Escrow Agent shall deliver the Deposit Assets to any appointed successor escrow agent, or to the Depositor, at which time Escrow Agent's obligations under this Agreement shall cease and terminate. Any entity into which Escrow Agent may be merged or converted or with which it may be consolidated, or any entity to which all or substantially all the escrow business may be transferred, shall be the Escrow Agent under this Agreement without further act.

6. Compensation. Depositor agrees to pay Escrow Agent upon execution of this Agreement and from time to time thereafter reasonable compensation for the services to be rendered hereunder as agreed by Escrow Agent and Depositor.

7. Indemnification and Reimbursement. Depositor agrees to indemnify, defend, hold harmless, pay or reimburse Escrow Agent and its affiliates and their respective successors, assigns, directors, partners, agents and employees (the "Indemnitees") from and against any and all losses, damages, claims, liabilities, penalties, judgments, settlements, litigation, investigations, costs or expenses (including, without limitation, attorney's fees, expert fees and expenses and out-of-pocket expenses) (collectively "Losses"), arising out of or in connection with (a) Escrow Agent's performance of this Agreement, except to the extent that such Losses are determined by a court of competent jurisdiction through a final, non-appealable order to have been caused by the willful misconduct of such Indemnitee; and (b) Escrow Agent's following any instructions or directions from Depositor received in accordance with this Agreement. Depositor shall pay all expenses (including attorney's fees) incurred by such Indemnitee as they are incurred in advance of the dispute's final disposition. The foregoing indemnification includes, but is not limited to, disputes between Depositor and Escrow Agent arising out of or in connection with this Agreement. Depositor hereby grants Escrow Agent a lien on, right of set-off against and security interest in the Deposit Assets for the payment of any claim for indemnification, fees, expenses and amounts due to Escrow Agent or an Indemnitee. In furtherance of the foregoing, Escrow Agent is expressly authorized and directed, but shall not be obligated, to charge against and withdraw from the Deposit Assets for its own account or for the account of an Indemnitee any amounts due to Escrow Agent or to an Indemnitee under Section 6 or 7. The obligations set forth in this Section 7 shall survive the resignation, replacement or removal of Escrow Agent or the termination of this Agreement.

8. Notices. All communications hereunder shall be in writing or set forth in a PDF attached to an email, and all instructions from Depositor to the Escrow Agent shall be executed by an Authorized Representative, and shall be delivered in accordance with the terms of this Agreement by facsimile, email or overnight courier only to the appropriate fax number, email address, or notice address set forth for each party as follows:

9. Compliance with Court Orders. Escrow Agent shall provide Depositor with prompt written notice in the event that any of the Deposit Assets shall be attached, garnished, levied upon, or otherwise be subject to any court order, or the delivery thereof shall be stayed or enjoined by an order of a court. Escrow Agent hereby is expressly authorized, in its sole discretion, to obey and comply with all such orders so entered or issued, which it is advised by legal counsel of its own choosing is binding upon it, whether with or without jurisdiction, and in the event that Escrow Agent obeys or complies with any such order it shall not be liable to Depositor hereto or to any other person by reason of such compliance notwithstanding such order be subsequently reversed, modified, annulled, set aside or vacated.

All signatures of the parties to this Agreement may be transmitted by facsimile, and such facsimile will, for all purposes, be deemed to be the original signature of such party whose signature it reproduces, and will be binding upon such party. If any provision of this Agreement is determined to be prohibited or unenforceable by reason of any applicable law of a jurisdiction, then such provision shall, as to such jurisdiction, be ineffective to the extent of such prohibition or unenforceability without invalidating the remaining provisions thereof, and any such prohibition or unenforceability in such jurisdiction shall not invalidate or render unenforceable such provisions in any other jurisdiction. Depositor represents warrants and covenants that each document, notice, instruction or request provided by Depositor to Escrow Agent shall comply with applicable laws and regulations. Except as expressly provided in Section 7 above, nothing in this Agreement, whether express or implied, shall be construed to give to any person or entity other than Escrow Agent and Depositor any legal or equitable right, remedy, interest or claim under or in respect of the Deposit Assets or this Agreement. The parties agree that irreparable harm would occur in the event that any of the provisions of this Agreement were not performed in accordance with their specific terms or were otherwise breached. It is accordingly agreed that the parties shall be entitled to an injunction or injunctions to prevent breaches of this Agreement and to enforce specifically the terms and provisions of this Agreement, this being in addition to any other remedy to which they are entitled at law or in equity. Compensation and Other Benefits

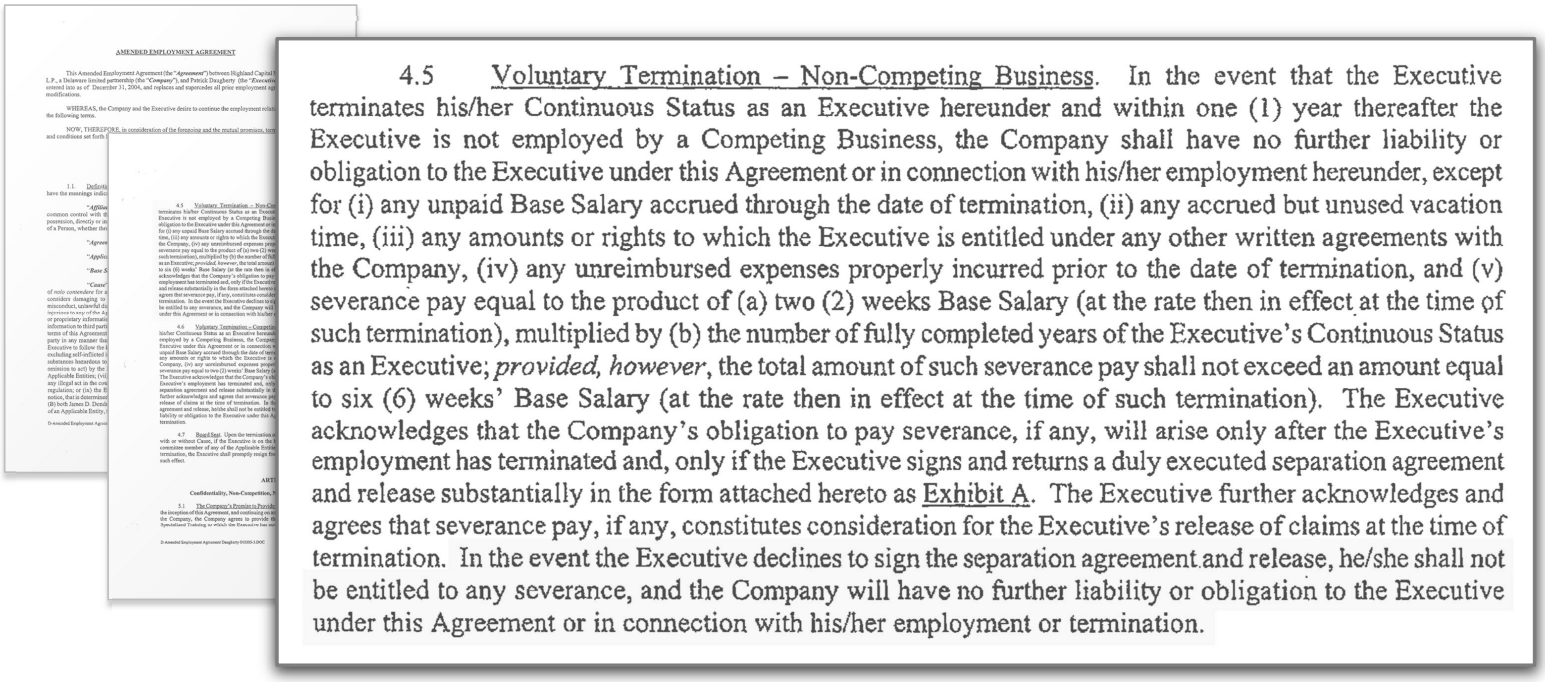
3.1 For all services rendered by the Executive to the Company, the Company shall compensate, or shall cause any Applicable Entity to compensate, the Executive as follows:

(a) Salary and Bonus. The annual salary (the "Base Salary") payable to the Executive during the term of this Agreement shall be an amount determined by the Company (in its sole discretion) and communicated in writing to the Executive, and will be subject to annual review pursuant to the Company's normal review policy for other similarly situated executives of the Company. Any increase in salary shall be based upon the Executive's performance and shall be determined by the Company in its sole discretion. In addition, the Company may from time to time award bonuses to the Executive based on such criteria as the Company may establish in its discretion. Any such bonus, unless specifically stated otherwise, will be paid in three (3) equal installments and is not earned or accrued until each payment date. The Executive must be employed on the payment date(s) in order to be eligible for the bonus. The payment of salary and bonuses shall be subject to all federal, state and withholding taxes, social security deductions and other general obligations. Furthermore, the designation of the Executive's compensation does not constitute a guarantee of employment for any specific period of time.

Highland Ex. 11 § 3.1(a). See also Daugherty Ex. 41 (showing that in lieu of cash bonus in February 2009, Daugherty was granted a tax refund and loan forgiveness).

Daugherty Admitted Before Resigning That He Had to Be Employed to Receive His Bonus



From: Pat Daugherty

Subject: RE: What do you stand for? This retrade is unfair and unjust.

You are the one who told me to "f@ck myself", not the other way around. For the record, the agreement always expressly noted that I would have to be employed at Highland in order to get any payment of bonus (as has always been the case). As for Tunstall, we had already negotiated that agreement which clearly states the nature of my interest and your interest. The nature of the Restoration economic interest will be as agreed subject to investor approval as they are going to have their own views of how my, yours and the teams comp should be structured. I have never tried to skim you and I am not trying to now. That said, it is reasonable to get the nature of my compensation in writing so that everyone is clear. Every other Company in the universe commits their economic relationships with their managers to writing so that there can be no confusion down the road. To insist that I do otherwise is flat out wrong and you know it.

If you don't want me to give a damn about you personally then I guess I'll do my best to comply. That said, I have been by your side thru a whole lot of sh@t and it is so refreshing to get your boot up my a$$ now that you are back on your feet. I'm glad to see you are back to the point where you can tell those closest to you to "f@ck themselves".

Highland Has No Liability to Daugherty Because Daugherty Decided Not to Sign and Return Exhibit A

4.5 Voluntary Termination – Non-Competing Business. In the event that the Executive terminates his/her Continuous Status as an Executive hereunder and within one (1) year thereafter the Executive is not employed by a Competing Business, the Company shall have no further liability or obligation to the Executive under this Agreement or in connection with his/her employment hereunder, except for (i) any unpaid Base Salary accrued through the date of termination, (ii) any accrued but unused vacation time, (iii) any amounts or rights to which the Executive is entitled under any other written agreements with the Company, (iv) any unreimbursed expenses properly incurred prior to the date of termination, and (v) severance pay equal to the product of (a) two (2) weeks Base Salary (at the rate then in effect at the time of such termination), multiplied by (b) the number of fully completed years of the Executive's Continuous Status as an Executive; provided, however, the total amount of such severance pay shall not exceed an amount equal to six (6) weeks' Base Salary (at the rate then in effect at the time of such termination). The Executive acknowledges that the Company's obligation to pay severance, if any, will arise only after the Executive's employment has terminated and, only if the Executive signs and returns a duly executed separation agreement and release substantially in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A. The Executive further acknowledges and agrees that severance pay, if any, constitutes consideration for the Executive's release of claims at the time of termination. In the event the Executive declines to sign the separation agreement and release, he/she shall not be entitled to any severance, and the Company will have no further liability or obligation to the Executive under this Agreement or in connection with his/her employment or termination.

The Books and Records Provision

8. HERA and ERA: The Parties acknowledge and agree that as of the date hereof, HERA and ERA have no material assets other than potential claims that may exist against persons or entities not released at or prior to the date hereof, and no claims against the HCMLP Released Parties. The allowed claims provided in paragraph 1 hereof are expressly agreed to in order to satisfy any liability the Debtor may have in connection with the HERA Judgment. To facilitate recovery of such potential claims – which expressly excludes any and all claims by or in the name of HERA and ERA against any of the HCMLP Released Parties -- HCMLP will transfer its interests in HERA and ERA to Daugherty. Such transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system. Such transfer will be without representation or warranty of any type; including, for the avoidance of doubt, without any representation or warranty as to the merits of the potential claims or the efficacy of the transfer of the potential claims. Such transfer will be without any liability or material cost to HCMLP or its affiliates or the other HCMLP Released Parties, including any liability in respect of any assets that HERA or ERA ever actually or allegedly owned, possessed, or controlled and that were actually or allegedly transferred, conveyed, sold, written off or otherwise disposed of (in any such case, a "Disposition"). Highland is incurring meaningful expenses addressing Mr. Daugherty's counterclaims.

If we do not receive a constructive response to the proposal below by 5:00 pm Central Time on Monday, November 24, the proposal will be deemed withdrawn without further notice.

As always, we're available to confer.

Subject: Highland: Settlement Proposal on HERA/ERA Books and Records

Bo and Drew,

Now that we have resolved the Destruction Motion, Highland believes we should try and resolve Mr. Daugherty's counterclaims in a way that gets him what he apparently wants while mitigating the burden to Highland.

The sole issue in dispute is whether e-mails are part of the HERA/ERA books and records (the parties' positions are clear and need not be repeated here).

In his Second Amended Complaint filed in the Delaware Chancery Court on February 22, 2019, Mr. Daugherty alleges that the wrongdoing relating to HERA/ERA began in February and March 2012, culminating in the asset assignment in April 2013. See Amended Complaint ¶¶ 22-39.

Based on that, Highland is prepared to conduct reasonable searches of up to four custodians for the period January 1, 2012, through April 30, 2013, and produce all "hits" without the assertion of any privilege in exchange for the dismissal with prejudice of Mr. Daugherty's counterclaims and the exchange of mutual general releases between Highland and HERA/ERA and a limited release from Mr. Daugherty with respect to all duties and obligations arising under paragraph 8 of the Settlement Agreement.

Such a settlement would eliminate the risk that Mr. Daugherty obtains nothing, promptly puts the potentially relevant documents in his hands, mitigates Highland's burden, and allows the parties to avoid all attorneys' fees and expenses arising from the litigation of Mr. Daugherty's counterclaims.

If that makes sense, please propose custodians and search terms and we'll respond quickly.

Regards,

John

P R O C E E D I N G S

THE COURT: Good morning, everyone. Sorry we had a little bit of our own technical issues that we had to get ready. When you come to a new court, you've got to figure it out as a judge, too. Luckily Judge Jernigan keeps paper up here, which we'll start with the old traditional way.

All right. Very good. We will go ahead. We're here on a special setting. We'll go ahead and call the matter which is the matter of Highland Capital Management, L.P. versus Daugherty, case number 25-03055. Let me go ahead and start off with appearances first by the movant's counsel.

MR. MORRIS: Good morning, Your Honor. John Morris, Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones. I'm here on behalf of the plaintiff Highland Capital Management. I am joined by Highland's chief executive officer, Jim Seery, Highland's chief operating officer and chief financial officer, David Klos, Highland's general counsel, Tim Cournoyer, and my co-counsel, my local co-counsel, Zach Annable. We're pleased to be here today.

THE COURT: Welcome.

All right. Counsel for the defendant, for the responding party, we'll put it that way.

MR. YORK: Good morning, Your Honor, Drew York from Gray Reed on behalf Patrick Daugherty. With me today is not just Mr. Daugherty, but also from my firm two of our associates, Drake Rayshell, R-a-y-s-h-e-l-l, and then Reid, R-e-i-d, Burley, B-u-r-l-e-y. We also have our paralegal, Laura DeBerg here for AV. And then we also have T.J. Liles-Tims our expert from Weaver.

THE COURT: Okay. All right.

Let me -- let me start off by seeing, are we -- is there any announcements that need to be made by the parties?

MR. MORRIS: Good morning, Your Honor, John Morris again. A pleasure to be here.

Let me try and set the table as I can and then Mr. York can chime in, if I say anything incorrectly, or if he wants to supplement.

First of all, I want to thank Mr. York and his firm for cooperating in getting us to this point. This is a difficult job under the best of circumstances. And it becomes just a little bit easier when lawyers meet and confer properly, cooperate, and try to resolve issues, evidentiary issues. And we've done all of that. And so I thank him for that.

The way I think we've agreed to proceed today, Highland has no objection to any of Mr. Daugherty's exhibits. We had a bunch of relevance objections, but I think to the extent they are the subject of examinations, we can let the Court make any determination about what weight, if any, to give any particular document. So we're not going to object to any of Mr. Daugherty's documents. I believe that Mr. Daugherty still has a handful of objections to Highland's documents. I'm prepared to proceed, you know, with my understanding of what those objections are. Once we get those matters out of the way, I think our expectation is that we'll proceed to opening statements, you know, as the plaintiff and the party who at least bears the initial burden we'll go first. Mr. York can make his opening statement. We're going to get right to the testimony after that.

I do -- I did tell Mr. York earlier this morning that Mr. Klos is one of our witnesses. It's a very limited examination relating to the estimate of Mr. Daugherty's claim. He's got a wedding out of town and I'd really love to get him on and off the stand so that he can catch his flight. So it may not thematically or logically fit in the proper order, but I'd really like to do that for Mr. Klos.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. York.

MR. YORK: Thank you, Your Honor.

First, thank you to you and your staff for traveling to Dallas for this hearing today. And I concur with Mr. Morris that the professionalism between counsel trying to get us to narrow the issues has been very good.

We have a couple of issues with a couple of their exhibits, which I think we can take up. And then I agree, let's move to openings and then straight into the witnesses so that we can keep this process moving today.

THE COURT: Okay. And so just real quick, Mr. York, so you filed your objections. All of those still are outstanding, or did you all confer and resolve any of those?

MR. YORK: We have conferred a little further, Your Honor. And if I may, my understanding is with respect to Highland's Exhibits 21, 26, and 27, they are not going to offer -- we had objected on hearsay grounds. They're not going to offer them for the truth of the matter asserted; is that correct, Mr. Morris?

MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor.

MR. YORK: And based upon that, we will withdraw objection.

MR. MORRIS: Should I just address the balance?

MR. YORK: Sure. That's fine with me.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. So 29 to 34, Your Honor, are statutes and regulations. They are statutes and regulations relating to the Tax Code that Mr. Klos is relying upon in order to do an arithmetic calculation of the estimate of damages. You know, I don't know that they have to be on an exhibit list. I think the Court can certainly take judicial notice of the law. But they're certainly not hearsay. They're the law.

MR. YORK: So we're going to withdraw the objection to those, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: The next group is really limited. It's Exhibit 43 to 46. And what those documents are are documents relating to pleadings, judgments, and verdicts from a long time ago litigation between Mr. Daugherty, Highland, and other parties. There is a relevance objection to that. And if I may just quickly explain, Your Honor.

In Mr. Daugherty's second affirmative defense he alleges that Highland had breached his employment agreement. The fact of the matter is, Your Honor, in that earlier lawsuit Mr. Daugherty asserted a breach of contract cause of action. The jury in that case rejected his claim. And so we think that those documents are very important to show that the very defense that he's asserting today has already been rejected.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. YORK: Your Honor, they're not relevant because if you look at the jury's verdict and the instructions specifically, none of those claims that were asserted were for breach of this specific issue with respect to any claim on the employment agreement. And, Your Honor, I'll go a step further. We actually are going to withdraw the prior material breach defense with respect to the employment agreement. So I think that resolves that issue.

MR. MORRIS: It may. I want to be perfectly clear, Your Honor. As I think you may have seen in the joint pre-trial order, we set forth our contentions as clearly and concisely as we could instead of filing a pre-trial brief. It was just a matter of convenience. But our first cause of action is that their claim should be disallowed. And we offer three reasons for that.

One of those reasons, the third reason is that the claim should be disallowed because even if the contract was enforceable, even if the Court finds that Highland hadn't fulfilled its duties under the contract -- and we're talking about the tax and reserve claim here -- the third alternative is to why the claim should be disallowed is because under the terms of the employment agreement, it was waived, okay. And we have two -- we have two provisions that we rely on in the employment agreement. One just says that if it's a bonus and you're not at Highland at the time the payment is due, you have forfeited. The second is Section 4.5. Section 4.5 and that provision says that if Mr. Daugherty had signed what is referred to as Exhibit A, he would have gotten a severance. There's no dispute that he didn't sign Exhibit A. But that paragraph goes on to say if you don't sign Exhibit A, then Highland is absolved of all liability. And we're relying on Section 4.5 of the employment agreement to urge the Court to disallow the claim on the grounds that he failed to provide Exhibit A. And that is exactly what he alleged in the Texas action.

So if you go to -- and so if that's what they're withdrawing, if they're withdrawing any claim that Highland breached the employment agreement by failing to provide Exhibit A, then I'll withdraw the Texas documents.

MR. YORK: Well, let's -- okay, so let's be clear. I'm not withdrawing the argument with respect to Exhibit A. But I can tell you that that issue was not an issue that the jury took up as part of the instructions and questions that they answered in that state court action. So it's irrelevant.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. YORK: And let me back up. I need to give you some context too.

The exhibits that they intend -- or that they're offering into evidence are the jury's verdict and the final judgment in that case.

MR. MORRIS: That's not exactly right.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, let me -- let me make sure I understand, because I guess maybe I misunderstood.

What we have is outstanding evidentiary objections based on the motion. But it was my understanding we had a lot of hearsay objections. It sounds to me like we're arguing relevancy at this point.

MR. MORRIS: Correct.

MR. YORK: Correct.

THE COURT: Can we not take up the relevancy issues during trial and if they decide if they want to put on that exhibit, we'll deal with it then as opposed to dealing with relevancy right now?

MR. MORRIS: That's fine.

THE COURT: Okay. So where does that leave us then on all remaining exhibits for Highland?

MR. MORRIS: I think there's only one, which is 47, which is also a relevance exception -- relevance objection.

MR. YORK: I'm fine with that. We'll withdraw 47 objection. There's one more.

MR. MORRIS: I'm sorry, hold on. So the objection is withdrawn to 47. The objection is withdrawn to 29 to 34. We have the limitation of 21, 26, and 27 that it's not being offered for the truth of the matter asserted. And then 43 to 46, the Court will deal with it as it comes.

MR. YORK: There was one more.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

MR. YORK: Highland's Exhibit 57, which is the transcript of T.J. Liles-Tims. And we're just objecting under Rule 32, Your Honor. He's here to testify live.

Certainly if they believe there's something from his deposition testimony they want to impeach him with, I understand. But if they're offering it somehow affirmatively and the witness is here, let's deal with it with live testimony rather than through his deposition.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor --

THE COURT: Mr. Morris.

MR. MORRIS: -- I don't want to burden the Court. That's fine.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. YORK: I'm not sure that's accurate, but I don't want to debate the point.

THE COURT: Okay. So does that then resolve all document objection -- objections to documentary evidence, other than obviously we're reserving 43 through 46?

MR. YORK: Correct. And --

THE COURT: Go ahead, Mr. York.

MR. YORK: So one other housekeeping matter, Your Honor. So on Daugherty's exhibit list we are going to withdraw 58 through 77.

THE COURT: 58 through --

MR. YORK: 77. And I told Mr. Morris about this earlier this morning.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. So do we -- are you all wanting to each move for the admittance of all these exhibits at this point? Yes?

MR. YORK: Yes.

MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor. I'll put it this way, Highland moves for the admission of all of its exhibits that were filed at Docket Numbers 107 and 128, subject to the outstanding relevance objections to 43 to 46 and subject to the limitations of 21, 26, and 27.

THE COURT: All right. Let me address those first and then, Mr. York, we'll have you go.

So I have an offer for admission into evidence all exhibits that were filed at Docket Number 107 and 128 with the limitation being applied to Exhibits 21 and then 26 and 27. And then dealing with relevancy at the time of testimony for Exhibits 43 through 46.

Do I have any objections?

MR. YORK: No, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Those will be admitted as stated.

All right, Mr. York.

THE COURT: Daugherty moves to admit, Your Honor, the exhibits on his witness and exhibit list, which is -- excuse me, his second amended witness and exhibit list, Docket Number 105, as well as the supplement, first supplemental that was filed thereto, which is Docket Number 126, with the exceptions of Exhibits 58 through 77.

MR. MORRIS: No objection.

THE COURT: All right. Then those documents will be admitted, as well.

All right. So I think that moves us to opening statements. All right, Mr. Morris.

Actually, one moment before I get started. I just recognized this. We have on the Webex a party appearing, or having a phone number with 313 and ending in 44. Would you please announce who you are?

Again, this is Judge Odell. We have a party with a phone number of Area Code, what appears to be Area Code 313 and then ending in 44. Please announce for the record who you are.

All right. Hearing no response, we're going to exclude that number as this will be an evidentiary hearing.

So you may proceed, Mr. Morris.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you very much.

Good morning, Your Honor, John Morris, Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones on behalf of Highland Capital Management.

We filed earlier this morning, pursuant to Your Honor's rules, a demonstrative exhibit that I'm going to use in my opening statement that was filed this morning at approximately 7:00. It's at Docket 128. I've provided hard copies of that to counsel. Would you like -- would Your Honor prefer to have a hard copy?

THE COURT: If you have one available, that would be great.

MR. MORRIS: I do.

THE COURT: Thank you.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. So just moving to the first slide. I'll try to be as quick as I can here, Your Honor. This is a very narrow set of issues, I think, that the Court has to consider. Mr. Daugherty is a former employee and partner of Highland Capital Management. He filed a number of proofs of claim. They got consolidated into what was called Claim 205. You'll hear testimony today that prior to confirmation or on the eve of confirmation we struck a deal with Mr. Daugherty to resolve all but what is now being referred to as the reserved claim. We presented that to Judge Jernigan at confirmation. For reasons that Mr. Seery will testify to, that original agreement never got reduced to a signed writing. Certain events occurred that led the parties to negotiate further and eventually they got to a settlement in November of 2021.

Highland today is asking the Court to do a couple of things. We are asking the Court to disallow the claim in its entirety. That claim has been fully reserved at an amount of $2.6 million since way back in the day. That number was not negotiated. That number was not drawn out of thin air. It is the maximum amount that Mr. Daugherty asserted in his proof of claim for the reserved claim. And we'll get to that issue shortly. But it's $2.6 million. That's the reserve number. We're looking to disallow that claim. If the claim is not disallowed, we're looking to estimate that claim pursuant to Section 502 of the Bankruptcy Code. Under Section 502, the Court shall estimate the claim if the failure to do so will unduly delay the administration of the case. And we believe that that latter issue of the administration and the delay of the administration of the case is exactly what Judge Jernigan decided last fall and why we're here today. That's why we're here today, because the claim has to be decided before August 11th, 2026, as you'll hear.

We had a cause of action for subordination, Your Honor. We've withdrawn that. It wasn't worth the fight. In addition to, you know, litigating over whether or not the claim should be subordinated, you have the ancillary issue if it was subordinated whether it would go into Class 10 or Class 11. And it just didn't seem to us to be worth it, so we withdrew that to try to speed this up today. And we withdrew it with prejudice. We said that in our joint pre-trial order. And I'll confirm that today.

And then Mr. Daugherty asserted several causes of action, breach of contract for the failure to provide the books and records of -- and specific performance and bad faith.

If we move to the next slide, Your Honor, I want to just deal with the first cause of action for Highland. We don't think the so-called contract is enforceable because it is vague and has missing terms. We've addressed this very specifically in paragraphs 30 to 39 in the joint pre-trial order. That can be found at Docket 101. So I don't want to repeat everything that's in there. We've highlighted for you on this slide those portions of the statement that we believe are vague and ambiguous. We've identified the reasons why those terms are vague and ambiguous. And I would just ask Your Honor to look at what's in the box.

This is the entirety of the so-called contract that Mr. Daugherty is seeking to enforce. It is three sentences. The first sentence has nothing to do with anything. It says, refund is an estimated amount. Although it's interesting that he's trying to enforce a contract that's based on an estimated amount but he's here to tell you today you can't estimate what the number is, right. But that's what it says. And then the last sentence is kind of irrelevant too. It just says, Hey, you're going to receive the refund in approximately four months. So really the entire so-called contract can be boiled down to a single sentence. And we believe those terms are vague and ambiguous. And obviously that very simple sentence doesn't include any of the concepts that Mr. Daugherty is trying to introduce here today. It doesn't say anything about indemnity. It doesn't say anything about guaranteeing a particular result. It doesn't say that Highland is going to reimburse him a nickel. It doesn't say that Highland is going to cover. It doesn't refer to an audit. It doesn't refer to penalties or interest. So we believe that the claim should be disallowed because the contra -- this sentence is not enforceable. It's not an enforceable contract.

Even if it was, you will hear testimony that Highland fulfilled its obligations by issuing a (k)(1) that had the losses that Mr. Daugherty could utilize in order to obtain a refund. And they did exactly that. And now we get to the point that we were talking about earlier, the third alternative for disallowance of the claim, even if the Court finds that the contract is enforceable, even if the Court finds that Highland didn't satisfy its obligations, if the tax refund was, in fact, a bonus, Mr. Daugherty forfeited it when he resigned. Why did he do that? Because his employment agreement says that.

In paragraph 3.1(a) we've highlighted the sentence that says the executive must be employed on the payment date in order to be eligible for the bonus. We may dispute a number of things today, Your Honor. One of the things we are not going to dispute is that Mr. Daugherty is not employed by Highland today and hasn't been for more than a decade. So, you know, from our perspective under 3.1(a) the Court can certainly disallow the claim based on the fact that he is not employed by Highland and whatever payment he may or may not get, whatever right he may be entitled to is going to be in the future and I don't think there's going to be any evidence that he's likely to be rehired by Highland.

And Mr. Daugherty knows this. If you go to the next slide. As he was walking out the door he and Mr. Dondero got into a very heated debate over what Mr. Daugherty was owed. And this is Mr. Daugherty's email that he sent to Mr. Dondero just before he quit, probably moments before he quit. And among the other things he said, For the record, the agreement has always expressly noted that I would have to be employed at Highland in order to get any payment of bonus. And has always been the case. So he knew it then that he had to be employed in order to get a bonus. He's going to tell you today that this tax refund was in lieu of a bonus. He's not employed today at Highland. He doesn't get a bonus. He doesn't get any more money from Highland.

If we move to the next slide, Your Honor. This is like the (b) part of number three, if you follow me. Disallowance because it's vague and ambiguous and is missing key terms. Number two, disallowance because Highland has performed. And then three has (a) and (b) and I just did the (a), 3.1. The

(b) of 3. -- of number three is 4.5. And this is what I referring to earlier. It has this reference and it says, voluntary termination. And there won't be any dispute that Mr. Daugherty voluntarily resigned. And he had a choice to make at that moment in time. He could either sign what was Exhibit A, there's no obligation in this -- in this provision that required Highland to do anything.

You'll see attached to the employment agreement, which is Exhibit 11, you'll see attached to the employment agreement is Exhibit A. All right. And all Mr. Daugherty had to do -- it says, if the executive signs and returns. All he had to do was sign it and send it back to Highland. But he didn't want to do that. Because if he did that, he would have only been entitled to six weeks of severance and he would have had to give Highland a release. So he didn't do it. And that's okay. That was his right. He wasn't obligated. It doesn't make him a bad person because he didn't send Exhibit A back. But that's what -- that's what he was required to do. And it says, if the executive declines to do so, he gets no severance and the company has no further liability or obligation to the executive under this agreement or in connection with his employment or termination. That's it. Don't send it back, it's fine.

But a funny thing happened. And you'll see this -- you'll see this in the evidence. Before Mr. Daugherty walked out the door and they got engaged in that lawsuit that I told you about earlier, they did try to negotiate some other form of severance package. And you'll see an exhibit where Highland send to Mr. Daugherty a form of severance agreement that has the exact same language that he's now trying to engraft onto the compensation statement, that one sentence of the compensation statement. You'll see the exact same -- so after -- this is 2 1/2 years later. He quits. He doesn't want to sign Exhibit A. No problem. They negotiate. Highland sends him a form of severance agreement. It's an all or nothing deal. No doubt about it. But here's the killer. The killer is that in that very document, it has the very indemnity for tax obligations arising from Highland's tax returns that he's now trying to tell you was somehow in this other one-sentence paragraph. Like why would you do that? Why would you put into an agreement what you thought you already had? Nobody would do that.

Let me move on. So then we get to the second cause of action, which is the next slide. This cause of action asks the Court to do what 502 mandates and that is estimate the claim in the event that the failure to do so will unduly delay the administration of justice. Again, we'll present evidence, but I think it's already law of the case. Judge Jernigan decided this issue last fall when she denied the motion to dismiss and granted the Rule 60 motion. She did it precisely because this claim had to be completed before August 11th. And why is that the case, Your Honor? You'll hear Mr. Seery testify it's deep, deep, deep, deep in the record in this case on multiple motions. Under the plan and the claim and trust agreement there was a five-year life span for the claim and trust. That was the agreement with the creditors. It was the agreement with the creditors, including Mr. Daugherty. It was going to be a three-year term subject to two one-year extensions upon motion and upon Court approval. And that's exactly what happened.

Just before the end of the third year, we had to make a motion. We had to get approval from the Court to extend the life of the trust one more year. We did it again last June. We were in this courtroom on June 25th. Mr. Daugherty was there. Dugaboy, who you'll hear about more in the coming days, objection to the extension of the life of the trust by one more year. We resolved that objection by saying, we're going to live with the terms of the agreement. And, you know, unless something changes, we have no expectation that we're going to need that. And so Judge Jernigan extended the life of the claim and trust by one more year until August 11th, 2026, the five-year anniversary of the effective date of the plan.

And so that's where we are. And so I think we'll easily be able to meet that second part of 502. I think it is law of the case. But be that as it may, Mr. Seery will touch on that for a few minutes during his testimony.

So what is the slide that's before you? It's math. It's arithmetic. It's not expert -- there's no expert analysis here. What Mr. Klos is going to testify to is that there are a number of different factors that must be considered in order to estimate Mr. Daugherty's claim. And you'll see the highlighted pieces are fixed numbers. There's not an ounce of subjectivity to them. There is no debate about the amount of Mr. Daugherty's partnership interest or the highest applicable tax rate of 35 percent. I mean, if Mr. Daugherty wants to tell us it should be 34 percent, we'd listen. But there's no subjectivity to that. There's no subjectivity to the interest rate. There's no subjectivity to the time period. And all the Court has to do is determine what is, you know, a fair estimate of the adjustment that the IRS might -- not even that the IRS might make. The IRS has already made its adjustment. What's happening now is a dispute resolution process. The IRS made its determination back in late 2017, 2018. And all that's happening now is you have mediation. You have settlement negotiations. You have an appellate process within the IRS. You might go to tax court. All that's happening now is a dispute resolution mechanism. And so all Mr. Klos is going to tell you -- and by the way, I just want to talk about Mr. Klos for just a moment.

Mr. Klos is a CPA. He's the CFO. We're not offering him as an expert. But he has a lot of experience with tax returns. He has some experience with audits. This is what he does every day. And, again, there's no subjectivity anywhere on this document and that's the important point the Court -- that I want to emphasize to the Court, not expert opinion. We didn't think that we had to go do that.

You've got five scenarios on the top. The first is that -- let's start from the right side, the fifth scenario. That is $166 million. That's the amount that the IRS determined back in December 2017 was the adjustment that should be made to Highland's 2008 income tax returns. Right. It can't get more than that. That was the determination that was made way back in the day. You will hear testimony that it's never changed.

Moving to the left. What's number four? Number four is a settlement proposal that we -- that we have in the record that we cite to that the IRS made to the tax matter's partner which is, you know, controlled by Jim Dondero. So that $129 million number, that's not subjective. That's not anything we did. We just said, hey, that's a data point. The Court can consider the offer that the IRS made.

What's number three? It's 50/50, right. We're not presenting -- we're not here -- we're not here handicapping as to the likelihood that anybody is going to succeed or not succeed. But that would be a reasonable estimate, it's 50/50.

What is number two? That is Mr. Dondero's offer. Mr. Dondero offered to settle this at $8 million and Mr. Klos will walk you through that.

And case number one is a complete victory by the tax matter's partner. And, of course, neither Mr. Daugherty nor any of the former limited partners of Highland would owe a nickel.

So, you know, Mr. Klos does this stuff every day. There's not a wit of subjectivity that's brought to it. It's simply arithmetic. I think -- I think their expert is going to agree with most of what I just said. So you'll hear that.

If we move to the next slide, we get to Mr. Daugherty's claim. It's a books and records claim. As part of the settlement, Highland agreed to transfer its interests in two shell companies called HERA and ERA, I think it's Highland Employee Retention Assets, or something like that. There won't be any dispute those entities never had any employees. They never had any operations. They never had -- they never leased office space. They never had a server. They never had anything, right. They had a couple of assets that they held for the benefit of certain individuals. That and nothing more.

It had nothing to do with Mr. Daugherty's claim as filed. But nevertheless, in order to get to yes, Highland agreed to transfer its ownership interest in those two interests -- in those two entities to Mr. Daugherty. And it did so. And we'll show you the transfer documents to show just what it meant by transferring the interests. These were limited liability companies, so there's no shareholders. There's no common stock. They're limited liability companies. And the ownership of a limited liability company, you'll hear Mr. Seery testify, is reflected in membership interests. And that's what Highland agreed to transfer. And that's what Highland did transfer.

But what do we have? We have the sentence under -- above the red. And we have one sentence before. That's the entirety of the agreement on the reserve claim. And this is one sentence above the red that's the entirety of the three causes of action that Mr. Daugherty is asserting. And what does it say? I think we all believe that it's plain and unambiguous. It says, such transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet maintained on Highland's system). That's it. That's all it says.

I mean, there's some other, we believe, relevant information that we've highlighted in yellow. We say that it's clear that the transfer will be without any liability or material cost to Highland. You know, we'll give you the books and records of HERA and ERA.

But what has Mr. Daugherty done? If you go -- well, let's talk about what Highland did first. If you'll go to the next page, Your Honor.

You can see we made two enormous document dumps to Mr. Daugherty. The first was just a couple of weeks after the settlement got approved by Judge Jernigan on May 5th. You'll find this at Exhibit 2. Highland delivered corporate books, governing documents, historical financial records, historical tax returns. And we told Mr. Daugherty at that time that subject to one final look through, we believe the production completes Highland's obligations under the settlement agreement.

But Mr. Daugherty I think later in the summer, in the fall, starting asking for more information, for some backup. And so on October 19th, 2022 Highland delivered another large batch of documents. They reproduced everything that had produced earlier in May. And now they produced certain backup invoices, certain, you know, quarterly investor summaries. It's described there. I don't think there's any -- going to be any dispute whatsoever that Highland delivered all of this stuff within six months of the settlement. And, again, if you go to Exhibit 19 -- I'm sorry, it's Exhibit 3, it's the cover email from Mr. Seery to Mr. Daugherty and he again says, we're done here. We've given you the HERA and ERA books and records. We said it before and we're saying it again, we're doing you a favor. We're going to give you some more stuff. But we'll done here. He literally says, upon transmission of the information, Highland will have satisfied all of its obligations. Our involvement in HERA and ERA, your entities, will be complete. It can't be any clearer than that.

We don't hear from Mr. Daugherty again for a year and a half, until Mr. York writes me a letter. And you'll -- you'll see this stuff as it comes into evidence. Mr. York at the end of January 2024 sends me a very formal letter and he says, I need all of this stuff on HERA and ERA. And I don't immediately respond. I don't know exactly why. It's not my practice not to respond, but I didn't for whatever reason. But I did -- I did in early March and I said, Drew, no, we're done. We told you we were done. We're done. Then he had another lawyer write to me, we need all of the stuff that relates to HERA and ERA. And he said, if you don't give it to us, we're going to sue you. And I wrote back, I said, we don't owe you anything. Please sue us. We need finality here. We can't keep doing this. But he didn't sue. Nobody did anything. Nobody tried to enforce their rights. Instead, actually, they did do something. What they did is they commenced this HERA and ERA action in federal court here in Dallas.

And so knowing, at least from Mr. Daugherty's perspective that he didn't have all of the books and records, he still nevertheless didn't rely on us. He went and had him file that lawsuit. That was his choice. But he did it with his eyes wide open. And what he's trying to do here today is to get you to order us to produce something so that when he loses that Texas action, he can bring another claim against Highland and say, I lost because of you. I lost because you didn't give me the books and records. And he says it right in his pleadings. It says it in the last paragraph. It's Exhibit 1. He says it in his last paragraph for specific performance.

If the Court does not order Highland to comply with the terms of the settlement agreement and turnover the relevant books and records, whatever they may be, Daugherty will be irreparably harmed and he will be unable to adequately pursue his litigation that he's talking about. He's trying to manufacture a new claim today. That is what he's trying to do. But we need to focus -- I would encourage Your Honor to just focus on the plain and unambiguous provisions of the parties' agreement.

If we can go to the last slide. Because Mr. Daugherty completely represents what the very, very simple words are, the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet maintained on Highland system). Highland has nothing to do with this, except that it happens to hold certain of the HERA and ERA books and records. And, yet, in his answer at paragraph 14 Mr. Daugherty claims that he bargained for and obtained Highland's books and records related to HERA. I'm sorry, Your Honor, I mean no disrespect to Mr. Daugherty or his lawyers, but that's not what the provision above says in any way, shape, or form.

In their pre-trial brief they say that Highland failed to provide books and records that related to HERA and ERA. We didn't agree to provide books and records that relate to HERA and ERA. We agreed to provide the HERA and ERA books and records. They have to own them, not Highland. They again say that he's entitled to all ownership rights, property, data, documents, records relating to HERA and ERA. That's not what he bargained for. It's not what the plain and unambiguous language says. He needs all HERA and ERA materials. I don't even know what materials are. But he wants all of the materials in Highland's possession. He wants everything Highland possessed. Highland did not agree to give him anything, other than the HERA and ERA books and record (spreadsheet). And they only agreed to do so at minimal cost.

So I think what Mr. Daugherty had not done, what he's never done, this is not a document request. This provision of the settlement agreement is not discovery. He's trying to -- he's trying to take discovery now. He could have served Highland with a subpoena in his federal action on behalf of HERA if he wanted to. I know there's a motion to dismiss. But nothing stops him from seeking leave. I mean, he can't do it now. It's years later. That motion was made two years ago. I would object on that basis alone. But he had so many opportunities. This is not the one. This is a contract.

We're here today to debate the meaning of a contract. We're not here to give discovery. We're not here to cause Highland to produce any books and records. We're not here to produce things that are related to HERA and ERA. We're here to see if Highland complied with its obligations to produce the HERA and ERA books and records. And we submit, Your Honor, that if you take a look at the prior slide and you take a look at the two letters from May 5th and October 22nd that are Exhibits 2 and 3, we are confident the Court will find that Highland in good faith with the term books and records provided more than they were ever required to provide.

That's all I have, Your Honor. Do you have any questions?

THE COURT: I do not. Thank you.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. Thank you very much.

THE COURT: Mr. York.

MR. YORK: Thank you, Your Honor. I'm a little old school. Do it without my own slides. But I will actually walk through some of what Mr. Morris had on his slides, point out some thing that he failed to mention to you.

So I want to start with a couple of housekeeping matters, just to make sure we're clear on something. Highland in the second page, second slide indicates that we have three causes of action; one, for breach of contract of the books and records; two, for specific performance; and then, three, relating to attorney's fees.

With respect to the breach of contract books and records. We do have that claim. We did assert both claim potentially for damages and then also for specific performance. We're only seeking specific performance today, Your Honor. I just wanted to be clear on that.

And then secondly, Your Honor, with respect to the attorney's fees. Given the Court's -- this Court's ruling on the motion to dismiss and also -- by Judge Jernigan and then, also, Your Honor's ruling with respect to the motion to stay, we're going to withdraw that without prejudice. We obviously, as you know, have appealed the issue on the motion to dismiss relating to the stay provision. But we're going to withdraw that without prejudice.

THE COURT: I don't know if I'm following you there.

MR. YORK: I do not see how, given this Court's ruling, that this Court would find that there would be any bad faith in commencing the adversary proceeding --

THE COURT: Oh, okay.

MR. YORK: -- in violation of the stay provision in the parties' settlement agreement. Okay?

THE COURT: Okay. Now I understand. Thank you.

MR. YORK: So, Your Honor, let's first talk about the allowance issue. And Mr. Morris talked about how that the compensation and benefits statement is vague and unenforceable. Well, what Your Honor is going to hear is evidence today concerning what this provision actually meant in terms of that Mr. Daugherty was getting a true up. And I think I probably need to explain what was happening here so Your Honor fully understands.

In lieu of paying a cash bonus to Mr. Daugherty and to other executives at Highland, Highland decided that it would pay that bonus through its tax return in which it would claim losses and then attribute those losses to various profits interest partners' tax returns. And so instead of the cash having to come out of Highland's pockets, that bonus would ultimately be paid by the IRS through a refund.

And so the phrase refund is an estimated amount there is something that Highland came up with. And it was accurate at the time, because it was something that Highland was simply estimating what it believed the refund amount would be, but it would be different depending upon the particular profits interest partners' situation in terms of their overall tax return that they were filing.

No one disputes, as Mr. Morris said, that Mr. Daugherty received a refund. And that's critical, Your Honor, to the fact that that meets the burden under Section 3.1 of Mr. Daugherty's employment agreement that the bonus be paid. The issue that we're here on is Mr. Daugherty's contractual right to be trued up at the end of the day if what Highland was attempting to pay and promised to pay through this refund is not what Mr. Daugherty actually ultimately gets because Highland has its partnership return amended and changed due to the IRS' audit, which is exactly what Highland promised to Mr. Daugherty at the time that they gave him the compensation of benefits statement in February of 2009, when he was still employed at Highland. And that's also why, contrary to Mr. Morris' arguments, Highland did not fulfill its obligations, because it has the obligation still to true up Mr. Daugherty if and when and once the IRS audit dispute is fully and finally resolved.

Mr. Morris said that Mr. Daugherty forfeited his tax refund rights once he resigned. And he pointed Your Honor to slide 6, the section 4.5. And I want to talk about that in specific detail because there are two problems with Mr. Morris' argument. The first one is, Your Honor, he fails to point to the very first sentence in Section 4.5 which provides that in the event the executive terminates his or her continuous status as an executive and is not employed with a competing business within one year, the company shall have no further liability or obligation to the executive under the agreement or in connection with his or her employment hereunder, except -- and go to clause 3, Your Honor -- any amounts or rights to which the executive is entitled under any other written agreements with the company. That's exactly what the compensation of benefits statement is.

Additionally, Your Honor, as to the part that Mr. Morris highlights at the bottom, if you read the last two sentences of that part of 4.5 closely, what it's referring to is no right to severance if the form of the separation and release agreement is not signed. Severance being six weeks of base salary pay. It doesn't say that he's not entitled to any bonus that has been earned already.

Mr. Morris said that Mr. Daugherty declined to sign the separation and release agreement. And he did mention in passing that it was part of an all or nothing package. And that's important, Your Honor. Because what Highland presented to Mr. Daugherty at the time in which he announced that he was resigning was a different settlement and release agreement form -- severance and release agreement form, excuse me. But also two other agreements, which they said, you have to sign these, as well. And you'll hear evidence as to why Mr. Daugherty objected to signing those other agreements because they related to interests that he had in vessels that Highland had created for employee retention. And it wasn't as if Highland was willing to accept just the separation and release agreement. It required an all or nothing at the end of the day. So Highland waived the provision, from its perspective, by demanding more than what it actually required.

At the end of the day what we have is a situation in which Mr. Daugherty had an accrued right to an unilateral contract with Highland. That is Highland would fully reimburse him for his liabilities associated with any changes to his personal taxes and his personal tax return that deviates from what the tax refund that Highland had promised him he would get in lieu of the cash bonus for that year.

So let's go to estimation. You're going to hear testimony, Your Honor, from T.J. Liles-Tims from Weaver that under the circumstances given where everything is at and what's known, that there are myriad of variables that are out there that it is impossible to reasonably and accurately estimate what the ultimate liability could be to Mr. Daugherty as a result of the Highland IRS audit dispute. You're going to hear that the IRS audit dispute is still ongoing. That it's unclear when it's going to be resolved. It's unclear how it's going to be resolved.

Setting that aside for the moment, there are issues even with the estimation that Highland presents to the Court in the various categories. There are a myriad of assumptions that they've taken into account. And additionally, Your Honor, their -- their calculations do not include whatever interest and penalties Mr. Daugherty would continue to accrue after Highland filed its bankruptcy petition which would still be part of its principal liability. It's not as if it's a contractual interest that is accruing on a debt. It's part of its principal liability at the end of the day. And they're not even including that.

So, Your Honor, it is impossible to estimate what the potential liability is to Mr. Daugherty at the end of the day because there are a myriad of these unknown factors that remain in play due to the IRS audit dispute. Which, by the way, Highland will admit, Mr. Daugherty will also attest that neither really has any insight to because the IRS audit dispute is being handled by Strand Advisors, which is not -- which is the tax matters partner for Highland and is run by Jim Dondero.

So finally, Your Honor, I turn to the HERA books and records request claim. There's some context that the Court needs with respect to this, as well. And that is if you -- under the settlement agreement, the parties acknowledge that HERA and ERA had potential claims against, at that point in time, some current and some former Highland employees and executives relating to their activities when they were at Highland. And that under the terms of the settlement agreement, Mr. Daugherty was getting a transfer of the membership interest in Highland -- I'm sorry, in HERA and ERA in which then Mr. Daugherty on behalf of HERA and ERA could decide whether he wanted to proceed with any of those claims against those executives and other individuals.

And so the intent of the HERA and ERA books and records provision, as I call it, is that Highland would transfer to Mr. Daugherty not just its interest, a membership interest in HERA and ERA, but also the information and materials relating to those claims so that HERA and ERA could pursue them if they wanted to. Mr. Morris wants to focus on the parenthetical of spreadsheet in the agreement. And what he ignores is the fact that it says, such transfer will include. That is it's not an exhaustive list of some spreadsheet is the only thing that's going to be transferred. And you're also going to hear testimony and evidence that Highland transferred not a spreadsheet, but as Mr. Morris said, other material and information that they had. But they didn't transfer everything. And that included invoices that HERA and ERA had been charged by various law firms relating to other litigation that had gone on, communications with those attorneys relating to those lawsuits and those claims, all of which gave rise to potential claims that HERA and ERA have against the executives and officers.

Mr. Morris also mentioned that there was a year and a half that passed between the time that the last transmission of information went and when I sent a letter. But what I failed to tell the Court and what the Court will hear evidence about is that there were numerous conversations going on between Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Seery discussing the books and records that Mr. Daugherty was seeking for HERA and ERA. And that Mr. Daugherty was trying to deal with this issue in a polite respectful manner and in a direct conversation between two business people.

And finally, Mr. Morris argues that the settlement agreement provides that Highland is only supposed to -- or only holds certain HERA and ERA books and records. That's not true. Because ultimately what, as Mr. Morris explained, HERA and ERA were a vessel that Highland was using for employee retention purposes. And so Highland was running HERA and ERA at the time. Highland is the one who controlled the possession, custody, and control of the books and records and all of the information that related to HERA and ERA. Highland is the one who could transfer all of that information to Mr. Daugherty and to HERA and ERA, if it wanted to under the settlement.

And so what we're asking the Court to do is to order Highland to specifically perform and transfer those additional records and information so that HERA, not Mr. Daugherty, but HERA may utilize them in the lawsuit that it has filed against those executive separately in district court. All of which could have been done at a minimal cost through searches based upon the information that Mr. Daugherty had provided to Highland and to Mr. Seery and all of which all it had to be was emailed. And they didn't do it.

So we're asking the Court to order Highland to specifically perform in providing that information to Mr. Daugherty. You'll hear examples of what's missing as part of the evidence.

Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you.

Before we get started on calling the first witness, let's take a quick 5-minute recess and then we'll be back out.

(Brief recess ensued.)

THE COURT: Okay. You may proceed,

Mr. Morris.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I apologize, but I had one housekeeping item to clean up. Mr. Annable points out my errors. And I'm grateful for that.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: And the only error that we have here, Your Honor, is I earlier moved into evidence the exhibits that were on Docket 107 and 128. We've gone through all of that. I'm not changing anything about that. But I do want to point out that at Docket 107 are only the documents that were filed that are not subject to the sealing order.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: And so I just want the record to be clear that at Docket Numbers 109 to 123 are certain documents that the parties agreed to file under seal that Your Honor ordered to be filed under seal. They're reflected on the exhibit list that was filed on Docket 107, but I just wanted to clarify that if anybody ever wanted to find the actual documents, they would be at Docket 107 and then 109 to 123 and then 128.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. Mr. York, let me just ask you, do you have the same scenario? In other words, did you have some of your sealed documents that you wanted admitted into evidence that weren't already done, as you see it?

MR. YORK: Well, actually, so I think the exhibits between 109 and 123 are collectively the exhibits that were filed under seal. But we'll confirm all of that.

Let me confirm that, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. We can come back to that at another time. But real quick while I have you there, Mr. York, so I've got an offer for admission into evidence Docket Numbers 109 through 123, which are the sealed documents. Do I have any objections?

MR. YORK: No objection.

THE COURT: Okay. Then documents that are located on the docket at Docket Numbers 109 to 123 will be admitted.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you very much.

THE COURT: Thank you.

MR. MORRIS: And with that Highland calls David Klos to the stand.

THE COURT: Mr. Klos, my law clerk over here will swear you in before you have a seat there.

(The witness was sworn by the Court's law clerk.)

(no omission)

DAVID KLOS

The witness, having been duly sworn to tell the truth, testified on his oath as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q. Good morning, Mr. Klos. Can you hear me okay?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Let me know when you're comfortable.

A. I'm good. Thank you.

Q. Okay. Are you currently employed, sir?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. By whom?

A. Highland Capital Management, L.P.

Q. And when did you join Highland Capital Management, L.P.?

A. March 30th, 2009.

Q. Prior to joining Highland, were you employed at any other firm?

A. Yeah. I was employed at Deloitte.

Q. And how long were you at Deloitte?

A. I was at Deloitte from 2005 to 2009.

Q. And what position did you hold or what work did you do at Deloitte?

A. I was an auditor in the audit and assurance division.

Q. Okay. Do you have any licenses or certificates?
A. I'm a CPA in Texas.
Q. Did you go to college?
A. I did.
Q. Where did you go to college? When did you graduate? And what degree did you obtain?
A. I did undergraduate at Boston College. I graduated in 2004. My degrees were in accounting and finance. I did a masters of science in accounting at SMU. In 2005 is when I got that degree. And I got my MBA from SMU, I think at the end of 2009. It might have been 2010.
Q. Okay. So you graduated from college. You went to Deloitte for four years to serve as an auditor. And you've been at Highland since 2009; does that summarize it?
MR. RAYSHELL: Your Honor, I'm going to object. He's not been disclosed as an expert witness here. He's offering lay testimony under Rule 701. It feels like we're trying to establish his qualifications here.
THE COURT: Mr. Morris, response?
MR. MORRIS: I'm not offering any expert testimony whatsoever. I'm giving the Court the man's background so the Court can understand and appreciate why his experience leads him to do arithmetic.
THE COURT: Okay. The objection's overruled.
Q. Can you describe your employment history at Highland beginning from the time you joined until the present?

A. Sure. So I joined March 30th, 2009. I was hired as a valuation analyst in the valuation department. After that time I had several, multiple, multiple, multiple job roles and responsibilities that have shifted over time. But some of those titles were senior financial analyst manager, senior manager, assistant controller, controller, chief accounting officer, and then in 2021 I became the CFO and COO.

Q. And in your capacity -- and in those capacities, did you have an opportunity, or did you participate in the preparation of any corporate tax returns?

A. Yes. I would have to bifurcate that. Significant involvement since 2021 with the role that I have now. Prior to that point more of a supporting role. There was an in-house tax department at Highland. So they would come to the accountants from time to time with questions and we'd certainly help out wherever we could. But no direct preparation of returns, but assistance as needed.

Q. And how did that change when you became the CFO in 2021?

A. Well, so one of the changes when I became CFO is we reduced head count and so we moved to an outsourced tax department. There were no tax people. So as CFO our outside tax providers effectively reported to me and then I reviewed their work and have conversations with them and either sign tax returns or authorize them to sign returns that they prepare.

Q. Do you have any experience with IRS audits?

A. Yes, a little.

Q. Can you just describe your experience with IRS audits to the Court?

A. Yeah. So again to bifurcate, pretty minimal prior to the CFO role. Again, more something that I would hear about or maybe assist on the very edges with our old CFO. And then post-2021, you know, we've had an audit that I've led with our service provider.

Q. Let's just switch -- let's just get to the chase here. Are you aware that Highland is asking the Court to estimate Mr. Daugherty's reserved claim?

A. Yes. If the claim isn't disallowed.

Q. I appreciate the clarification. Let me restate the question.

If the Court allows Mr. Daugherty's reserved claim, are you aware that Highland is asking the Court to then estimate that claim?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you have an understanding of what that reserve claim is?

A. A general understanding.
Q. What is your general understanding of what the reserve claim is?
A. Effectively that the claim arises from the 2009 comp statement that he received. And that choose your word indemnify, backstop, make whole, he's -- he believes that he's entitled to a make whole depending on what results from the IRS audit. That's my basic understanding.
Q. Have you done any work to try to estimate the value of Mr. Daugherty's reserve claim in the event the Court allows it?
A. Yes.
Q. Can you turn to Exhibit 65 in your binder, please?
MR. MORRIS: Do you have that, Your Honor?
THE COURT: Yeah. I believe I'm pulling it up right now.
MR. MORRIS: Let me know when everybody's ready.
THE COURT: You said Exhibit --
MR. MORRIS: 65.
THE COURT: -- 65?
MR. MORRIS: Yes.
THE COURT: Okay. It will just be a moment.
MR. MORRIS: Uh-huh.
A. I'm there.

MR. MORRIS: If you'd like a hard copy, Your Honor, we do have an extra.

THE COURT: Yeah. If you have a hard copy, that will probably make it a little bit easier.

MR. MORRIS: Sure.

THE COURT: Thank you.

MR. MORRIS: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: You may.

MR. MORRIS: May I proceed?

THE COURT: You may.

Q. Mr. Klos, can you just describe for the Court what this document is?

A. This is a demonstrative that is describing various possible outcomes based on information that we've been able to determine either in our own records or through discovery with Hunton.

Q. And who prepared it?

A. I did.

Q. When did you prepare it?

A. Within the last month or so. I guess two months, judge a hedge.

Q. Okay. Can you -- let me see if I can just ask some simple questions.

You were here for my opening?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. And does this demonstrative reflect five different scenarios under which the reserve claim has been estimated?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. I want to deal with the column on the left first.

IRS income adjustment to HCMLP. What does that column represent?

A. So that would be one of the inputs to the ultimate output of what the claim is. And if I could just step back a second. What you're seeing on the left side is those various inputs and the -- the arithmetic that I'm doing to get to the end answer of what should the claim be allowed at, if it is allowed.

Q. Okay. So let's go to the one below that, Daugherty's percentage of partnership. Am I reading that correctly that for every scenario it's 0.7403 percent?

A. You are. And that's straight off the K-1 and also in the IRS' 886Z form.

Q. And that's what referred to in footnote 1, Exhibit 17.886Z?

A. Yes, exactly. And I should point out that the end notes are important. So it's a good reminder.

Q. What are the end notes? Can you just describe generally what the end notes are?

A. Oh, just describing some of these numbers and where they're derived from.

Q. Okay. Did you have -- did you bring any subjectivity to the determination of Daugherty's percentage of partnership interest?

A. No. And, again, that's right off the K-1 and right off the IRS form.

Q. Okay. And is the next -- I always forget, is it row or column going across?

A. What?

Q. Is it a row or a column, which goes up?

A. Oh, no, row.

Q. Row. Okay. So let's call it row.

Looking at the next row, you've got Daugherty's share of IRS income adjustment. Is that just mathematics, A times B?

A. Exactly. That's -- that's just -- that's math. That's not an input. It's just the product of A and B.

Q. Okay. And then the next one is 2000 applicable tax rate, 35 percent. That's the same for all scenarios; is that fair?

A. That's correct.

Q. Okay. How did you come up with that number?

A. So 35 percent was the highest individual tax rate in 2008. And so there -- I suppose there is a degree of subjectivity and that we defaulted to the most conservative tax rate for that year.

Q. Okay. And --

A. Conservative meaning highest.

Q. Okay. And so then you've applied that tax rate to the -- to Mr. Daugherty's share of the income adjustment; is that right?

A. Correct. So just kind of following the flow. Income gets adjusted at Highland pursuant to however the dispute is fully and finally resolved. That is applied to Mr. Daugherty's percentage. That results in the amount of adjustment to his personal return. And then you tax effect that at 35 percent to come up with his potential under paying amount to the IRS.

Q. Okay. So the tax underpayment, the number in that row is the product of the ultimate adjustment times Mr. Daugherty's percentage interest times his tax rate?

A. That's right.

Q. Okay. And what -- what are you doing underneath that? What is statutory penalty?

A. Yes. So there is certainly possibility that penalties and interest will be applied to -- to Mr. Daugherty. Our position is that from a claim estimation standpoint, Highland shouldn't be responsible for those. But we -- we did go ahead and do the work on what those amounts would be if they were applied. And so statutory penalty is the potential penalty amount that could be applied, depending on where the resolution falls out.

Q. And did you apply the maximum amount based on each of the scenarios?

A. Yes. And we -- we've applied based on -- in the case of -- I should make clear which cases we're talking about. In case five, one of the IRS adjustments was that they would apply statutory penalties so that the 20 percent number that you see out to the far right is the applicable penalty. And that's just straight off the -- the Code section.

Q. Uh-huh.

A. In the other scenarios you see different percentages. In case one the whole thing's reversed so everything is a zero. In cases two and four, based on the settlement offers that have been made thus far, in both cases either party agreed that there would be no penalties. So those cases reflect that assumption.

Q. So would it be fair to say that with respect to statutory penalties you either applied the law or you applied what the parties presented, as the case may be?

A. Correct.

MR. RAYSHELL: Your Honor --

A. With a small caveat that --

MR. RAYSHELL: -- I'm going to object again.

THE COURT: Hold on one second.

MR. RAYSHELL: I'm going to object again. We're asking him to apply the law. He hasn't been designated as an expert. We're combining facts and law here and offering expert testimony.

THE COURT: Any response, Mr. Morris?

MR. MORRIS: Sure. If you look at footnote 2, he points to the law.

Q. Mr. Klos, you can read; is that fair?

A. Yes.

Q. And --

THE COURT: Go ahead if you're going to rephrase or --

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

A. Sorry, if you could just repeat.

Q. You can read, right?

A. Oh, yes, I can read. Sorry, I thought I answered you.

Q. And you're citing to the very specific -- it's Exhibit 30 to the backup?

A. Yes. I'm citing to the backup. It's the -- it's the Code section.

Q. Is it your opinion that these statutory penalties would be applied in each of these scenarios?

MR. RAYSHELL: Objection, Your Honor. That's the basis of my objection.

THE COURT: You're basis -- I'm sorry, state the basis of your objection.

MR. RAYSHELL: So he's being offered as a fact witness under 701. But under 701(c) he's offering testimony, opinion testimony off his experience, experience at this point when he's applying the IRS Revenue Code -- or the Revenue Code, I'm sorry, to the analysis in this chart.

THE COURT: I'm going to overrule the objection.

Q. Mr. Klos, are you familiar with Mr. Daugherty's expert report?

A. Yes. Yes, I am.

Q. Does he -- does he rely on the same statutes that you do?

A. He cites to the same Code sections.

Q. Okay. Thank you.

Then you deal with potential interests; is that right?

A. Yes. And I need to clean up one point, because he said it's either based on the Code or the offers. Our case three, we just took the midpoint. So that is a little bit different. So we took 10 percent. That's a 50 percent haircut.

Q. I appreciate your candor.

The next one is applicable statutory blended rate.

Where did that come from?

A. Very similar answer. The applicable Code sections, IRS Code sections. And so those are straight off the Code sections. They're promulgated by the IRS regularly. You can look those up. And the Code sections describe how you're supposed to apply the interest. A, what interest rate should apply and then how to calculate it. And so we just followed that.

Q. And time outstanding, what is that referring to?

A. So that's -- that's a non-dollar number that's years. So 10.51 years. And that's the time from April 15th, 2009, which was the tax due date for individuals for their 2008 tax year, that's the beginning date. And then the end date is the petition date for Highland, that's October 16th, 2019. It's about 10 1/2 years.

Q. Why did you use the petition date?

A. Because that's the date when any possible unsecured pre-petition interest would stop accruing.

Q. Then did you calculate the interest accrued?

A. Yes.

Q. And how did you do that?

A. So that is just the -- the underpayment amount times the applicable rate times the number of years. And that gets you to interest accrued.

Q. And then what's the maximum theoretical amount?

What is that line intended to represent?

A. That's just an addition. So what that is is it's the sum of the row that says tax underpayment Daugherty, statutory penalty and interest accrued. So it's the sum of those three numbers.

Q. Okay. So up to this point it's any subjectivity at all, other than the use of the midpoint on the penalty as you pointed out?

A. Yeah. No, no subjectivity. Like I said on the tax rate we used the most conservative rate. So I suppose that could be construed as subjective, but we defaulted to the conservative.

Q. Okay. And then what's the last line, the income on previous refund?

A. So, again, we don't think that there should be liability related to penalties and interest. But even if there was, Mr. Daugherty's had the use of $1.3 million since 2009. And so we looked at what kind of a return that would have resulted in based on very conservative investing. We determined that if he could have just earned a 4 percent return for those same 10 1/2 years, that would have generated about $600,000 of income. We're not trying to be aggressive with any of the assumptions that we took. And so we basically just backed out the penalties and interest. So you don't -- you see numbers on this row that don't come close to 600,000, meaning it's an implied return of significantly less than 4 percent, you know, in some cases it's down less than a half a percent.

Q. Okay. So let's go -- let's finish up right now. Let's go back to the top. Let's look at the five cases that you have. Moving from left to right, how did you determine each of the five cases?

A. Sure. So from left to right, case one is the easiest to wrap your head around. That's the case going to its conclusion, wherever that goes, tax court and Dondero/Strand winning and reversing all of the adjustments that the IRS had given Highland. And so in that event, there's nothing due. There's no tax owed. There's no adjustment. So you see a lot of zeros on that column.

Case two -- I'm actually going to take these out of order. I'll go to case four. So in May of 2024, or thereabouts, April, May, 2024, the IRS offered a settlement offer to the tax matters partner. And we see that in both an email as well as a formal letter from tax matters partner's counsel to the IRS that describes that offer. And so column four is basically plugging in that IRS offer as the income adjustment. And then everything flows from there.

If I could bounce back to case two. Case two is the counter offer to that IRS settlement offer. And Strand, Mr. Dondero, I'm -- I'm not certain if it's Strand or

Mr. Dondero, but I think of them as the same. They offered to just kind of skip the whole adjustment and application of percentage interest and just resolve the whole thing for $8 million, just a single payment. So case two is just $8 million times Mr. Daugherty's percentage.

I'm going to skip over midpoint. And I apologize for bouncing around. But -- but case five is the results of the audit. So the audit concluded in late 2017, early 2018, I believe is when the closing conference occurred and the IRS proposed three adjustments. There was one that was approximately $73 million related to a hedging transaction. There was a second adjustment for about $93 million that was -- it's described as a change of accounting method, but it relates to the same hedging series of transactions. That's about 93 million. And the third adjustment that they proposed was the application of statutory penalties. So there's no a discrete number to number three, other than just look at the statute for the penalties because we intend to apply those. The sum of adjustment one and adjustment two is the number that you see on this demonstrative, the 166 million of global adjustment to income.

Q. Okay. So based on the work that you did, is it your conclusion that Mr. Daugherty's reserved claim is worth somewhere between zero and $430,976 with the only subjective -- with the only variable being the -- the ultimate adjustment?

A. That's right. The other variable, I suppose that's out there is the open question of whether penalties and interest should apply.

Q. Uh-huh.

A. And obviously we believe that it shouldn't. But if it does, we've done the work.

Q. Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, before I cede the podium, do you have any questions for Mr. Klos?

THE COURT: I'll let -- is it -- sorry, I'm not familiar with which one of the two he announced you as.

MR. RAYSHELL: Drake Rayshell.

THE COURT: I'll let Mr. Rayshell first before I have any questions.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

I have nothing further then.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. RAYSHELL: Thank you, Your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. RAYSHELL:

Q. It's Klos, right?

A. It's Klos, like Santa --

Q. Okay. I've seen it in a transcript and it looked like Claus like Santa Claus, so I wanted to confirm that.

As a starting point, you don't know what Daugherty's solvency was from 2012 to today, do you?

A. I -- no, I don't.

Q. Okay. And you don't know if he's been able or has been investing in anything, do you?

A. That's correct.

Q. Okay. And, Mr. Klos, the -- the audit that we're discussing, it's still ongoing; is that correct?

A. No, that's not right.

Q. The IRS tax audit is not ongoing?

A. If I could clarify. The audit is concluded. There is a dispute resolution process that is certainly ongoing and is not fully and finally resolved. Understood. So it's on appeal and the IRS has yet to come to a final determination; is that fair?

A. I don't think that's fair.

Q. Okay.

A. I don't think that's fair.

Q. But the IRS is still analyzing the tax returns from 2008; is that correct?

A. I don't believe it is.

Q. Okay. But it's being appealed; is that fair?

A. Their audit conclusions are under appeal.

Q. Okay. Thank you, sir.

Mr. Klos, we've already established this, but you've not been designated as an expert witness in this case; is that correct?

A. That's right.

Q. And you've not been qualified as an expert in the Internal Revenue Code in this proceeding either, correct, Mr. Klos?

A. I don't know, but I assume not.

Q. Okay. And you're not holding yourself out today as an expert in interpreting the Internal Revenue Code for the purpose of this hearing, are you, Mr. Klos?

A. I don't know if I can answer that because I don't know how expert is defined. But I'm not here as an expert. But I -- I am --

Q. So, sorry --

MR. MORRIS: Let him --

Q. -- a simple yes or no. So you are not here testifying as an expert today, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And on top of that, because you're not here as an expert, you're not representing yourself as an expert in the IRS tax audit or appeals process; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And you're here just as a fact witness; is that fair?

A. I'm not sure. That's a legal concept. I don't know what --

Q. You're here to do arithmetic; is that correct?

A. I think that's oversimplifying. But basically, yes.

Q. Okay. Well, I believe Highland's counsel stated that you were here to do simple arithmetic for the judge; is that fair?

A. I don't disagree with that.

Q. Based on those things, you'd agree with me that you're not sitting here in a position to offer an opinion on the meaning, interpretation, or application of any provision of the Internal Revenue Code; is that fair?

A. I don't know how to answer that.

Q. Okay. Are you applying an interpretation of the Internal Revenue Code to your analysis today?

A. I'm reading the Internal Revenue Code and -- and I'm reading and interpreting the Code.

Q. Okay. So you are, then, even though you're not here as an expert, correct?

A. I don't know how to answer that question.

Q. I believe you stated a moment ago that in the -- in handling Highland's affairs when you've dealt with tax disputes that you have a service provider that you're actually handing out tax returns and analysis to; is that correct?

A. I wouldn't characterize it that way. We utilize a service provider.

Q. Okay. So you utilize a service provider for tax reasons, we'll say; is that fair?

A. Yes.

Q. And that service provider is Skyview?

A. No.

Q. It's not?

A. It used to be, but it's not at this time.

Q. It's not currently Skyview, okay.

A. Correct.

Q. And is Frank Waterhouse involved with Highland's tax analysis and returns?

A. Not --

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

THE COURT: What's the objection?

MR. MORRIS: Just a moment in time. Are you asking about today?

Q. Is Frank Waterhouse involved in Highland's tax analysis for any purpose today?

A. No.

Q. Mr. Klos, if you would, do you still have Exhibit 65, the demonstrative in front of you?

A. I do.

Q. Okay. Would you look down to row H where it says, time outstanding (years); do you see that?
A. I see that.
Q. Okay. And it says 10.51 years, correct?
A. It does.
Q. And according to note four we were just walking through, that's calculated from April 15th, 2009 to October 16th, 2019; is that right?
A. Yes.
Q. And as you stated a moment ago, tax returns for the fiscal year 2008 were due on or around April 15th, 2009, correct?
A. For our purposes here, yes, you could have extended the tax payment, which they'll be due on the same date. So for our purposes today, yes.
Q. Okay. And Highland filed its bankruptcy petition on October 16th, 2019, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And as you discussed with Mr. Morris, that's why you selected October 16th, 2019 as the end date of your calculation, right?
A. That's correct.
Q. And you selected that date because Highland's bankruptcy filing affected the accrual of interest on Highland's IRS debts; is that correct?

A. Can you ask the question again?
Q. Sure. You selected October 16th, 2019 as the end date for your calculation because Highland's bankruptcy petition affected the accrual of interest on Highland's IRS debts, correct?
A. I wouldn't characterize it that way. We selected that date because that is the petition date.
Q. Okay. But I believe you testified a moment ago that as of that date interest stopped accruing, correct?
A. That's my basic understanding under bankruptcy is unsecured pre-petition claims don't accrue interest beyond the petition date.
Q. Okay. But Highland's bankruptcy filing and the accrual of interest didn't affect Mr. Daugherty's personal accrual of interest on October 19th -- October 16th, 2019, did it?
A. If I could ask for a clarification. Are you asking could Mr. Daugherty have interest accruing beyond that date that he's responsible for?
Q. That's exactly what I'm asking.
A. Then, yes.
Q. Okay. So easy math then. April 15th, 2009, today, April 17th, 2026, that's 17 years; is that correct, Mr. Klos?
A. Yeah. Thereabouts.
Q. So by your calculation, looking again at the time outstanding and your testimony now that his interest has not stopped accruing, it's possible that your calculation's wrong, it could require a 17-year basis; is that fair?

A. No, that's not fair.

Q. Okay. So Mr. Daugherty's personal debts that he owes the IRS --

A. That's a different question.

Q. If -- well, that's the question I'm asking.

A. You're asking two different questions.

Q. Okay. Let me be clear then.

We've established that on October 16th, 2019 Highland's interest stopped accruing because of the bankruptcy petition, correct?

A. Interest on Mr. Daugherty's claim stopped accruing.

Q. Okay. But for Mr. Daugherty, if he owes the IRS money on an ongoing basis because he underpaid or overpaid, the interest accruing on that amount did not stop as of October 16th, 2019, did it?

A. The interest to him did not stop, but we're here to estimate Highland's potential liability under a claim. And that interest stops on the petition date.

Q. Okay. So Mr. Daugherty's interest could exceed 10.5 years. Your claim is just that Highland wouldn't be responsible for it?

A. That's right.

Q. Okay. And we disagree on that. But you made an assumption here that 10.5 years was the appropriate calculation for Mr. Daugherty's exposure, correct?

A. No. We -- that's part of the -- that's part of the calculation to get to the estimation amount.

Q. Understood. And the estimation amount is an estimate of what Mr. Daugherty's potential exposure, or his claim against Highland is, correct?

A. No. The estimation amount is Highland's potential liability. It's Highland's potential obligation under the claim.

Q. To Mr. Daugherty?

A. To Mr. Daugherty. He filed the claim.

Q. Okay. I think we were saying the same thing there with two sides of the same coin.

A. I don't think we were, but that's okay.

Q. Okay. And I heard you testify at the end of your direct that you had multiple assumptions you were basing these calculations on; is that correct?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A. I wouldn't describe --

THE COURT: Hold one second.

Mr. Morris, I apologize. You keep objecting based on form. I mean, what is the issue?

MR. MORRIS: Because I didn't -- because that mischaracterizes both what I said and what the testimony is. He could just ask the question.

THE COURT: All right. Mr. -- sorry --

MR. RAYSHELL: Rayshell.

THE COURT: -- Rayshell, do you have a response, or are you just going to --

MR. RAYSHELL: I'll restate the question, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

Q. Your calculations are based on a series of assumptions, correct?

A. They're based on a series of inputs. I don't know if I would go so far as to say assumptions. They're based on objective data points that we're able to use.

Q. Okay. Objective data points that include applying the Internal Revenue Code; is that fair?

A. Objective data points like applying the 20 percent one-time statutory penalty that's contained in the IRS Code section, yes.

Q. Okay. So under your five scenarios you have here, there are at points an assumption made to get to your final calculation; is that fair?

A. I don't think that's fair. I -- I don't think that's -- I don't think that's the way I would characterize it.

Q. Okay. We'll move on then.

Mr. Klos, you're familiar with the settlement agreement between Highland and Mr. Daugherty that is the subject of today's trial, correct?

A. Generally, yeah.

Q. Okay. And do you have -- is that Highland's exhibits in front of you?

A. It is.

Q. Okay. Would you mind turning to Highland Exhibit 5, please, on page 12?

A. I'm sorry, did you say page 12?

Q. Page 12 within Highland 5 there.

A. Thank you.

I'm there.

Q. Okay. And if you'd go with me to Section 10.

A. I'm there.

Q. Okay. The first sentence reads, the HCMLP parties set forth on Appendix A hereto are currently employed by the debtor or HCMLP released parties. Do you see that?

A. I see that.

Q. And HCMLP, for the purposes of today's hearing refers to Highland; is that correct?

A. I don't know. I assume so. However it's defined. But I would assume that it relates to Highland Capital Management, L.P.

Q. Okay. Now if you would, please turn with me to Appendix A, which is going to be the last page of Highland 5.

A. Okay. I'm there.

Q. Okay. And if you go down that list to number 10, that's you listed there, correct?

A. That's me.

Q. Okay. So you received an express release from Mr. Daugherty under the settlement agreement; is that correct?

A. That's my general understanding. I don't know exactly. I probably need a lawyer to interpret that. But that's my general understanding.

Q. Okay. But you would agree with me that the language that we read from Section 10 says those listed in Appendix A are a part of the HCMLP released parties, correct?

A. Yes. They are part of that group, yeah.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, if I may. If Mr. Daugherty is really contending that by testifying today Mr. Klos is using the benefit of his release, he should say that explicitly and we should deal with that right now. This is outrageous.

MR. RAYSHELL: That's not the basis of this line of questioning, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I'm going to let the witness be questioned along these lines. I'll overrule the -- yeah, I'll overrule the objection.

Q. Mr. Klos with that, you're aware that Mr. Daugherty sued Highland and others in the Delaware Chancery Court, right?

A. Generally. I don't know the specific parties he sued. I believe Highland was one. I'm not sure who else.

Q. Okay. You're aware of the litigation though, correct?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question. There is so much litigation in Delaware. I would really appreciate specificity.

MR. RAYSHELL: That's fair.

Q. In October 2019 you took the stand on behalf of Highland in litigation against Daugherty; is that correct?

A. I took the stand. I don't recall who the parties were. I was in Delaware. I testified in October of 2019, yes.

Q. Okay. And you testified at that trial that a significant portion of Highland's legal spend defending against Daugherty's claims was allocated to HERA, correct?

A. I don't recall my testimony specifically.

Q. Would it help you if I refreshed your recollection?

A. Sure.

Q. Okay.

MR. RAYSHELL: Your Honor, if I may approach.
THE COURT: You may.
MR. RAYSHELL: Your Honor, what we're looking at here is -- I will concede a condensed copy of the filing at Docket 1280 regarding Mr. Daugherty's proof of claim. It's condensed to include the lead page, his proof of claim, and then a copy of the transcript from proceedings occurring in the Delaware Chancery Court on October 15th, 2019.

Q. Mr. Klos, for your benefit, would you please turn to what at the top what we listed as page 398 out of 1207?

A. I'm there.

Q. And starting at line 15, which briefly I'll represent to you that if you look at the top of this page it says D. Klos direct. This is a portion of your direct that was offered to the Delaware Chancery Court in October of 2019.

If you would, please, just read to yourself starting at line 15 through line 10 on page 464.

A. Okay. Just give me a moment.

Okay.

Q. Does that reflect -- refresh your recollection regarding your testimony in October of 2019?

A. Not really, but I can read it.

Q. And according to this transcript, you testified that a significant portion of Highland's legal spend defending against Daugherty's claims was allocated to HERA, correct?

A. I think I testified that the legal spend was split between the two entities and Highland funded it. And the words speak for themselves.

Q. Okay. And the words there, you testified that 93 percent of Highland's legal spend was allocated to HERA when it was invoiced, correct?

A. 93 percent of the invoices were allocated to HERA.

Q. Okay.

A. 100 percent of the invoices were paid by Highland.

Q. Okay.

A. And there was a receivable. And I'm not going to just repeat this, but the testimony is, it says what it says.

Q. Okay. But it's your recollection that 93 percent were allocated to HERA, correct? Just simply put.

A. 93 percent was allocated to HERA, that's right.

Q. Okay.

A. It's approximate. It's not to the --

Q. Fair. That's fair. Your approximation is similar to mine saying a significant portion, 93 out of 100 percent. I'll agree with you on the approximate.

Now, Mr. Klos, you're aware that Mr. Daugherty alleges that that allocation from Highland to HERA was fraudulent, correct?

A. I'm not sure what he alleges.

Q. Okay. Well, you're aware that Mr. Daugherty alleges that certain of Highland's former principals committed fraud against HERA through those allegations, correct?

A. Can you define principals for me, please?

Q. Sure. Old Highland. I'll keep it simple. But listing the names of the unreleased parties under the settlement agreement, he's alleging that former principals, such as Mr. Dondero, Mr. Ellington, and others were fraudulently allocating funds from Highland -- I'm sorry, invoices, legal fees to be specific, from Highland to HERA's books?

A. I don't know the specifics of the allegation. But I know he has alleged bad acts by those actors.

Q. Okay. So you're aware he's bringing claims against them on behalf of HERA, correct?

A. Yeah. Those individuals among others.

Q. Okay. Now if you would, please -- sorry, we've got this stack of paper in front of you. But if you'd go back to Highland 5, the settlement agreement in the binder.

A. Oh, sure.

Okay. I'm there.

Q. And if you'll turn to page 10, Section 8 with me.

A. I'm there.

Q. Okay. Looking at Section 8, if you'll just read along with me. The first sentence states, The parties acknowledge and agree that as of the date hereof, HERA and ERA have no material assets other than potential claims, correct?

A. That's what it says.

Q. Okay. And then the next sentence provides that to facilitate recovery of such potential claims, HCMLP will transfer its interest in HERA and ERA to Daugherty, correct?

A. I don't think you read that fully, unless I missed it. And if so, I apologize.

Q. Sure. I was advancing from the first sentence to the second sentence.

A. Are you starting with, to facilitate?

Q. Correct.

A. Okay.

Q. And you'd agree with me that it states, to facilitate recovery of such potential claims, HCMLP will transfer its interest in HERA and ERA to Daugherty? And I'll concede, there's an exception or carveout in there between parens that's irrelevant to our discussion here that lands between those two.

A. Okay. Yeah, you excluded the middle part. Can I just read it? I mean, this document says what it says. It says, To facilitate recovery of such potential claims which expressly excludes any and all claims by or in the name of HERA and ERA against any of the HCMLP release parties, HCMLP will transfer its interest to HERA -- in HERA and ERA to Daugherty. That's what it says.

Q. Okay. So since you've read the whole sentence for the Court's benefit it says, To facilitate recovery of such potential claims. And then we'll take the paren that you added. It's an exception which states, Which expressly excluded any and all claims by or in the name of HERA and ERA against any HCMLP release parties, correct?

A. That's what it says.

Q. Okay. And earlier we established that HCMLP released parties includes you, that's that Appendix A, correct?

A. I'm one of the HCMLP released parties.

Q. Okay. So would it be fair to say that facilitating recovery of potential claims doesn't include claims against the HCMLP released parties?

A. I'm not going to speculate that. This is a legal document. I didn't look at it. I haven't -- I didn't review it. The document stands for itself.

Q. Okay. And that's fair. Because as I said, the exception here is not relevant to our discussion. But since we've acknowledged the exception the sentence begins, To facilitate recovery of such potential claims, going past the exception, HCMLP will transfer its interest in HERA and ERA to Daugherty, correct?

A. Yes. The document says what it says.

Q. Okay. And the next sentence says, Such transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records spreadsheet maintained on HCMLP's system. Did I read that correctly, Mr. Klos?

A. I believe you did.

Q. Okay. So the settlement agreement then provides that Highland will transfer its interest in HERA and ERA to Daugherty to facilitate the recover of potential -- recovery of potential claims, correct?

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, objection. I've listened to this for 5 minutes. He said what he said about his knowledge about the document. The document says what it says. He -- I don't know why we're having a debate with this witness.

THE COURT: Yeah. I'm not quite sure where this is going either.

MR. RAYSHELL: The -- I think we're quickly going to turn there. And to his point, the document does say what it says. It's just been getting tripped up on an exception I was hoping to expedite for the purpose of today's trial.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, I mean, and he's answered the document says what it says and the document's in evidence so --

MR. RAYSHELL: Okay.

THE COURT: So the objection's sustained.

MR. RAYSHELL: Understood. Thank you, Your Honor.

Q. Mr. Klos, that transfer included the books and records according to the language of the document, correct?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

A. The document speaks for itself. The document says what is going to be transferred.

Q. Okay. And as part of transferring books and records, you helped collect information to forward to Mr. Daugherty; is that correct?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Okay. Which included some accounting information; is that right?

A. Yes. With help. I don't know that I collected it directly. But I would have asked somebody to -- to provide it.

Q. Okay. And it also included some of the governing documents of HERA and ERA; is that correct?

A. The -- what was transferred over did. I don't think I was involved in those -- that collection.

Q. Okay. And that collection, however, did not include all of Highland's emails regarding HERA and ERA; is that correct?

A. It did not include all of Highland's emails regarding HERA and ERA.

Q. Or the attachments to those emails presumably; is that fair?

A. Correct. I mean, I suppose it's possible that there might be some population of emails that have attachments that we did provide, but I don't know.

Q. Okay. And in collecting those, you also didn't collect all of the invoices that Highland -- in Highland's possession regarding legal fees allocated to HERA; is that correct?

A. You need to be clear on when.

Q. For the time period 2019 -- prior to 2019 the invoices that were being allocated, the 93 percent, those have not been produced as a part of the production of the books and records?

A. No, they have. They have. We produced over 300 invoices.

Q. Okay. So it's your testimony today then that all of those records have been produced prior to 2019?

A. Those invoices have been produced. There was over 300 of them.

Q. Okay. And those would be, to be clear, the invoices that were allocated from Highland to HERA?

A. They were the invoices -- I don't know with exact precision. But these were the invoices that ultimately were reflected on HERA's records as expenses.

Q. So it's fair to say then that we got some, but not every invoice that Highland allocated to HERA?

A. You got over 90 percent. That was as much as we could find. I'm sure if we, you know, reached to the ends of the earth we could find the other 30 or so that we couldn't find. But we did provide over 300.

Q. Okay. And, again, it was your testimony that we didn't produce all of the emails, though, to HERA, correct?

A. Correct. Not emails, that's right.

Q. And those emails between Highland personnel discussing legal fees allocated to HERA would be relevant to understanding HERA's potential claims, though, wouldn't they?

A. That's not a question for me. I don't know what would be relevant. I don't know the nature of the claims in detail, so I'm not prepared to answer that.

Q. But additional documents or available information would help facilitate the recovery of HERA's potential claims; is that fair?

A. I have no idea.

MR. RAYSHELL: Pass the witness, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Let me just ask a couple of questions that I have.

Mr. Klos, if you'll go back to Exhibit 65.

THE WITNESS: Okay. I'm there. I'm there. Thank you. Sorry.

THE COURT: I just want to make sure I'm understanding this correctly. At the -- at line K, that's a calculation that you did based on what you all believe he, he being Mr. Daugherty, should have or could have earned based on investing the refund that he received in 2009, I believe it was, in 2009; is that correct?

THE WITNESS: That's correct.

THE COURT: So help me understand why does that number fluctuate based on the amount of the line A?

THE WITNESS: It's really -- it's all those numbers are, the reason that they fluctuate is that in cases three, four, and five, those numbers are exactly equal to the total of penalties and interest. So what we did is we basically said, you should have earned income up to the penalties and interest that we calculated in those cases.

THE COURT: Okay. And this is -- this is an assumption, you have no idea -- I believe you testified you have no idea whether he invested that money or what his investments have or haven't done?

THE WITNESS: Correct.

THE COURT: Okay. And I believe you also testified that since 2012, which is when I presume Mr. Daugherty was no longer with Highland, Highland would have no idea what his tax attributes are, whether he has losses or gains or income or --

THE WITNESS: Certainly beyond 2012 I think we received returns up to tax year 2008 and didn't receive returns thereafter. So -- so, yes, I don't have knowledge of those periods.

THE COURT: Okay. But is it fair for me to say then that essentially you all have -- if I look at this demonstrative and basically take everything under -- I think I just answered my own question, but I'll go ahead and continue to ask it. If I take everything under line E, I get the same amount, the income reduction doesn't matter, if I take away everything after line E?

THE WITNESS: That's -- that's right. There's a small caveat. It does matter in case two. But I think for your purposes, that's exactly right. You'll see line E matches estimation amount, except in case two.

THE COURT: Okay.

THE WITNESS: And the only reason for that is it's such a di minimus amount of money, you know, being able to earn $60,000 on 1.3 or whatever the number is over 10 plus years was --

THE COURT: Let me ask this.

THE WITNESS: Yeah.

THE COURT: Well, let me look at note 6 real quick.

Okay. So why in case two do we not have -- well, that see note 6 on both of those, are you taking 8 million in line A and multiplying that by line B and multiplying that by line D to get to line E?

THE WITNESS: No. And I'm sorry to cut you off. What we're really doing is we're putting 8 million in line A. We're leaving line B at .704 -- 7403. And there is nothing for applicable tax rate. Because that offer was just a simple, we're going to pay you to resolve everything and what we're going to pay you is $8 million. So Mr. Daugherty's percentage of $8 million would just be his share of the partnership. There's no additional application of a tax rate.

THE COURT: And that's the 59,000 --

THE WITNESS: That's the 59,000. Yeah, if you did the math it would be 8 million times .7430 percent equals 59,224.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

Mr. Morris, any redirect?

(no omission)

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q. Just one question, Mr. Klos.

If the Court decides not to reduce an estimated amount for the time value of money, would your analysis remain the exact same, except you would eliminate line K?

A. That's right.

MR. MORRIS: No further questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

All right. You may step down. Thank you.

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I'm next going to call Mr. Daugherty's expert, Mr. Liles-Tims.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Just so we can get this piece of the case out of the way and I can get him out of the courtroom and get him on his way.

THE COURT: Okay. I was just about to ask, are we -- are you wanting to have Mr. Klos excused, or not yet because you're going to be --

MALE SPEAKER: I think he's going to hang around for a few minutes, but he can --

MR. MORRIS: You can leave. It's okay, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, let me -- let me just make sure. Mr. York, are you all agreeable that Mr. Klos can be excused?

MR. YORK: It's fine with us.

THE COURT: Okay. All right.

MR. YORK: And a housekeeping matter about the sealed exhibits earlier, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. YORK: I checked, our sealed exhibits were filed at Docket Number 125.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. YORK: So with the caveat that I stated earlier that we were withdrawing 58 to 77, to the extent that any of the sealed exhibits on Docket Number 125 are within that range, we are moving to admit all of the sealed exhibits at Docket Number 125.

THE COURT: Okay. Any objections, Mr. Morris?

MR. MORRIS: No, Your Honor, it's fine.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: So, again, Highland calls T.J. Liles-Tims.

THE COURT: Sorry, one moment. I'm trying to figure out something real quick.

MR. LILES-TIMS: Your Honor, may I bring water up to the stand?

THE COURT: I believe there's water on the stand.

MR. LILES-TIMS: Oh, there is, okay.

THE COURT: Yes. I don't believe that Mr. Klos took a sip of it. If that's your bottle, you're welcome to bring it. I won't make you share water.

Sorry, I've got a communication here about audio. Are we having any audio problems?

Okay. Sir, I'll have my law clerk swear you in first.

(The witness was sworn by the Court's law clerk.)

THE COURT: You may proceed, Mr. Morris.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you very much.

T.J. LILES-TIMS

The witness, having been duly sworn to tell the truth, testified on his oath as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q. Good morning, sir.

A. Good morning.

Q. Good to see you in person.

A. Good to see you.

Q. I just have hopefully not a very lengthy examination here.

You're a partner today at a firm called Weaver & Tidwell; do I have that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And your expertise lies in business valuations, fraud examinations, and quantifying commercial damages, correct?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. You're not a CPA, correct?
A. I am not.
Q. You do not hold yourself out as an expert in IRS audits, correct?
A. I do not agree with that.
Q. Okay. You haven't personally represented any clients in an IRS audit, correct?
A. In some manners, yes. In terms of in its totality, no.
Q. Okay. And what do you mean by, in its totality?
A. In terms of the audit itself as much as subject matters that are being audited.
Q. Okay. So you play a supporting role; is that fair?
A. That is correct.
Q. Okay. You've never testified in tax court, correct?
A. That is correct.
Q. Okay. And you don't hold yourself out as an expert in bankruptcy law, correct?
A. No, sir.
Q. You've prepared opinions in this case; is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. But none of those opinions take into account Section 502 of the Bankruptcy Code, correct?

A. They do not.

Q. You didn't even review that section, fair?

A. That is correct.

Q. You're not offering any opinion as to what the term, estimate, means for purposes of Section 502 of the Bankruptcy Code, correct?

A. I would have to read 502 to indicate that.

Q. And you haven't done that as of today, correct?

A. I have not.

Q. Okay. You're not offering any opinion as to whether Mr. Daugherty -- withdrawn.

You're not offering any opinion as to whether the failure to estimate Mr. Daugherty's claim will unduly delay the administration of the Highland bankruptcy, correct?

MR. BURLEY: Your Honor, I would just object on the basis of relevance. Mr. Morris can ask these questions if he would like to, but it's very clear from my direct of this expert, as well as his written report that he's not being designated nor has he been designated as someone who is going to opine on estimation or the Bankruptcy Code. He can ask these questions, but that's not at all what we designated him for so there's really no relevance to these questions.

THE COURT: I'm going to overrule the objection. You may proceed.

Q. I apologize if I just asked you this question, but I got interrupted.

You're not offering any opinion as to whether Mr. Daugherty's failure to estimate -- withdrawn.

You're not offering any opinion as to whether the failure to estimate Mr. Daugherty's claim will unduly delay the administration of the Highland bankruptcy case, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. You're not offering any opinion as to the estimated value of Mr. Daugherty's claim, correct?

A. I disagree.

Q. Isn't it your opinion that there's too much uncertainty and that estimating Mr. Daugherty's claim is impossible today?

A. I have indicated my opinion is is there are too many variables.

Q. So you're not offering an estimate of the value of Mr. Daugherty's claim today, correct?

A. Well, again, I -- I disagree. I have offered an opinion as to how to calculate it once the information has been provided.

Q. Okay.

A. But in terms of actually having that information, I do not have that.

Q. All right. So I appreciate the point. Is it fair to say that it's your opinion that you cannot quantify Mr. Daugherty's claim today for estimation purposes because there's too much uncertainty?

A. I would agree.

Q. Thank you very much.

In your opinion you would have to engage in too much speculation in order to estimate Mr. Daugherty's reserved claim today; is that fair?

A. I would agree.

Q. Okay. And the reason that you believe a reasonable estimate can't be made is because you don't know what the final deficiency will be after the dispute resolution process plays out with respect to Highland's 2008 income tax returns; is that fair?

A. Well, you utilized the term, deficiency. So I believe that I don't agree with the concept of deficiency as much as what may be owed.

Q. Okay. So the reason you believe a reasonable estimate can't be made today is because you don't know what ultimately may be owed with respect to Highland's 2008 income tax return?

A. Well, that is one of a multitude of different factors.

Q. Okay. And that number of what will be owed will only be known when either the tax matters partner settles the case on behalf of Highland, or there is a final judicial resolution from the Tax Court; is that right?

A. I would agree.

Q. Okay. But at that point there won't be anything to estimate; is that right, because you know exactly what is owed?

A. I disagree.

Q. Okay. So even then it's your expert opinion even then you won't be able to estimate the value of Mr. Daugherty's reserve claim?

A. I would agree.

Q. Okay. Do you have a binder in front of you there, sir?

A. Yes, sir, I do.

Q. If you could just open up to Exhibit 59.

A. Yes, sir, I'm there.

Q. Okay. This is your expert report; is that right? And, please, take your time.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you coauthored this report with Garry McIntosh; is that right?

A. That is correct.
Q. Okay. Mr. McIntosh is a CPA with tax and audit experience, correct?
A. That is correct.
Q. But he's not here to testify today, correct?
A. He is not.
Q. In preparing your report with Mr. McIntosh you made no effort to speak with the tax matters partner to learn about the history or status of the audit, correct?
A. Can you restate that for me, please?
Q. In preparing your report and doing your diligence, you didn't make any attempt to speak with the tax matters partner regarding the history and status of the audit; is that fair?
A. I did not.
Q. Okay. And you're aware that Hunton & Williams has been representing the tax matters partner in connection with the audit from the beginning?
A. That is my understanding, yes.
Q. And in connection with your preparation of this report, you made no effort to speak with anybody at Hunton & Williams concerning the history of the status of the audit, correct?
A. Outside of reviewing subpoenaed documents, no, sir.
Q. Okay. You didn't review all of the documents that were produced by Hunton in response to the subpoena, correct?

A. I did not.

Q. Okay. You just read what Mr. Daugherty's lawyers chose to give you; is that fair?

A. I read what I requested specifically and was provided by Mr. Daugherty's attorneys.

Q. When did you learn that a subpoena was served on Hunton & Williams for documents related to the audit?

MR. BURLEY: Objection, Your Honor, relevance. It's no secret that in the case Hunton & Williams was subpoenaed for documents. This witness' knowledge of when, how that occurred, objections that were served, dispute resolution between the parties about that, that has no bearing on Mr. Liles-Tims' expert testimony in this case. He reviewed the documents that are relevant to his analysis. Those are part of his report. He cited them. Mr. Morris had the chance to depose him already. What he's asking right now is not relevant to this analysis.

THE COURT: Response, Mr. Morris?

MR. MORRIS: I sense a bit of defensiveness here, Your Honor, and I understand why. Highland served the subpoena on Hunton Williams. Mr. Liles-Tims is going to testify that he knows that thousands of documents were produced. And yet when we look at the list of documents that he reviewed, it's just a handful of documents for Hunton &

Williams. And so I think it goes to the credibility of his analysis, his credibility of the report that he was aware that there were thousands of documents related the audit and he found no interest, no intellectual curiosity in knowing what was happening as part of the audit.

I just -- I mean, it's kind of standard. What documents did you review? I can do it that way.

THE COURT: That's what I was going to say. Let's -- I don't know whether we need to get into the minutia of when was the subpoena served --

MR. MORRIS: It was just going to be a couple of questions.

THE COURT: -- and responses.

MR. MORRIS: But that's fine.

THE COURT: Let's get into what documents might have been produced and --

MR. MORRIS: Sure.

THE COURT: So I'm going to sustain the objection.

MR. BURLEY: Thank you, Judge.

Q. Can you go to the last page of the exhibit, sir?

A. Yes, sir, I'm there.

Q. This lists all of the documents that you reviewed; is that right?

A. These are -- this is a list of the documents reviewed and relied upon, yes.

Q. Okay. And which of these documents did you specifically request?

A. I requested a multitude of documents. In terms of which specific ones, I -- I can't recall at this time.

Q. Okay. But you understood at the time you were doing your work that Hunton & Williams had produced thousands of pages of documents; is that fair?

A. Not until actually documents were produced did I learn that.

Q. Okay. And the only Hunton & Williams documents that you reviewed are these couple that are in this statement, correct?

A. I would disagree to your term, couple. Usually that means two. But there's four there.

Q. I apologize. I stand corrected.

You reviewed a total of four documents that were produced by Hunton; is that fair?

A. I would say that I reviewed four documents that are Bates labeled Hunton.

Q. Okay. And if there were any other documents that were Bates labeled Hunton that you reviewed, they would be on this list; is that right?

A. I don't know that that's true because there could have been documents within the subpoenaed documents that were either produced by Highland or produced by Daugherty that were not Bates labeled Hunton. So they may have been produced by one of the parties in this matter.

Q. You haven't studied the facts concerning the underlying transactions that are the subject of the IRS audit, correct?

A. Outside of what was -- outside of the correspondence reviewed between the IRS and Hunton, I have not.

Q. Okay. You didn't attempt to understand the reasons for the IRS' adjustments, correct?

MR. BURLEY: Objection, Your Honor, relevance. Again, we are not here to dispute the mechanisms by which Highland tried to institute its 2008 refund scheme and the way the IRS treated that in terms of their analysis. We're here simply to look at the results that we've seen from the IRS. And this witness is going to testify about the vast amount of uncertainty that we still have. We are not here to re-litigate why or how Highland instituted a hedging scheme that did or didn't work out in its favor. That is so far out of bounds with this witness. It has no relevance here.

THE COURT: I don't know that that's what I understood from his question. But regardless, I'm going to overrule the objection and allow the question. We're getting into what did he review and what does he understand about the underlying IRS issue. So --

Q. You didn't attempt to understand the reasons for the IRS' adjustments; is that fair?

A. Can you be a little more specific for me? Sorry.

Q. There's nothing in your report that describes the transactions that are the subject of the IRS audit; is that fair?

A. I was not engaged to opine as to the -- the audit itself. Rather, the outcome as it relates to Mr. Daugherty.

Q. Okay. And you weren't engaged and ordered to understand the reasons for the IRS' adjustments, correct?

A. That was not part of my engagement.

Q. Okay. You're aware that the audit at issue here concerns Highland Capital Management's 2008 federal income tax return, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Except as it may relate to Highland's tax returns for 2008, you have no reason to believe that Mr. Daugherty's 2008 returns are otherwise subject to IRS review; is that fair?

A. Can you restate that for me, please, sir?

Q. So it's possible that the outcome of the dispute resolution mechanism pertaining to the Highland audit might impact Mr. Daugherty's 2008 liability; is that right?

A. You asked if it's possible? Yes, it's possible.

Q. Okay. But you're not aware of anything else that would cause and adjustment to be made to Mr. Daugherty's liability under his 2008 income tax return; is that fair?

A. I would disagree.

Q. Is Mr. Daugherty's income tax return being audited today?

A. No, sir. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Has it ever been audited, to your knowledge?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Is there any aspect -- can you identify for the Court any aspect of his income tax return in 2008 that is the subject of IRS review today, other than the potential impact from the ultimate resolution of the Highland audit?

A. Outside of the IRS form 886, which specifically outlines Mr. Daugherty, then I would indicate that that document in itself would trigger the IRS.

Q. Right. But nothing other than that document. I'm saying, except for that, you're not aware of any review that the IRS was doing with respect to Mr. Daugherty; is that fair?

MR. BURLEY: Objection, Your Honor, asked and answered. He's already testified to this.

THE COURT: Overruled.

A. Can you restate that? Sorry.

Q. Sure. Other than the document that you just mentioned, is there any other aspect of Mr. Daugherty's 2008 income tax return that you believe is the subject of the IRS' review today?

A. Not -- not that I'm aware of, no.

Q. Thank you very much.

And you have no reason to believe that the 2008 federal income tax returns for Mr. Daugherty and his wife are the subject of any ongoing IRS review or audit, correct?

A. Outside of the document that was part of the Highland Capital audit, no, sir.

Q. Okay. You're aware that the IRS field examiners completed their audit of Highland's 2008 tax returns in December 2017, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the field examiners are IRS employees responsible for conducting audits, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And there was a form 4605 that reflected the IRS' final determination as to the audit, correct?

A. I don't remember the exact form, if it was a 4605 or a 4459. Typically what it's referred to is a revenue agent report.

Q. Can you go to Exhibit 15 in your binder?

A. Mr. Morris, do you want me to keep -- keep my spot on my report?

Q. Eventually, yeah.
A. Okay.
And you said 15, sir?
Q. Yes.
A. Okay. I'm there.
Q. This is the form 4605(a) that you just referred to; is that right?
A. This is a part of it.
Q. Okay. And this is dated December 8, 2017; is that right?
A. That appears to be the signature on the bottom right, yes, sir.
Q. Okay. And it's your understanding that this form reflects the IRS' final determination as to the audit, correct?
A. I'm not familiar with who did the actual field audit itself. Assuming that Linda Yao, it was the field auditor, then I would agree.
Q. Okay. And then in February 2018, do you understand that the tax matters partner informed Mr. Daugherty of the proposed adjustments flowing from the IRS' final determination?
A. I would have to look at the communications. I know there was a number of communications.
Q. Okay. Can you turn to Exhibit 16?

A. Yes, sir, I'm there.
Q. Do you understand that that's the letter from the tax matters partner, or somebody acting on behalf of the tax matters partner to Mr. Daugherty in February 2018 informing him of the outcome of the IRS audit?
A. Well, there's two parts to that question. I don't know that this is the letter. And I'm not sure as to whether Mr. Collins was representing the tax matters partner or not.
Q. Okay. But they do enclose the form, the IRS Form 886Z, correct?
A. That is correct.
Q. And if you turn to Exhibit 17. That's exactly what that document is.
A. Exhibit 17 does appear to be the Form 886Z.
Q. Okay. And if you go to the third page, the one in the lower right-hand corner ending in 31. That page sets forth MR. Daugherty's allocable share of the adjustment; is that fair?
A. That has a number there. I don't know that I agree that that is his allocable share.
Q. What do you believe his allocable share is?
A. That's -- that's part of the issue in terms of the assumptions and the speculation.
Q. Okay. So I appreciate the clarity.
That is his allocable share, though, based on the adjustment that was set forth in the document that we just looked at that 4605(a), correct?

Do you know what, let's do it this way. Withdrawn.

If you go to Exhibit 15.

A. Yes, sir, I'm there.

Q. You'll see that the corrected amount on that document is about $170 million, correct, on (indecipherable word) 5(a)(3)?

A. It is approximately 170 million rounding, yes, sir.

Q. And is it your understanding that that is the IRS audit conclusion with respect to the proposed adjustments that are being made?

A. No, sir, I would not agree with that.

Q. Why is that?

A. Because you said proposed adjustment. The proposed adjustment would be 166 million because they did report 3 million.

Q. Okay. So they did -- so the corrected amount should be 169 in total; is that fair?

A. In total. That is the IRS' opinion, yes, sir.

Q. I appreciate the precision.

And then if you go to Exhibit 17 and you look at the document ending in Bates number 33, you'll find that exact same number that approximates $170 million, right?

A. I would agree, yes, sir.

Q. Okay. And so all that's happening on the prior page is that the IRS has applied Mr. Daugherty's partnership interest to that amount in order to yield the number that's in column 4; is that fair?

A. I believe that the IRS has indicated based off of the K-1 that Mr. Daugherty received that indicated .7403. However, again, I believe that there is quite a bit of subjectivity as to whether that is the correct percentage or not.

Q. Has anybody told you that the percentage is wrong?

A. Based off of my research, as indicated in my deposition, there appears to be difference -- differences in that -- in that ownership interest.

Q. Who -- who contends that ownership interest is incorrect?

A. That is part of my review.

Q. So you're challenging the percentage interest; is that right?

A. I'm not challenging it. I'm saying that there is question to that based off of the documents that I've reviewed.

Q. Has Mr -- to the best of your knowledge, has Mr. Daugherty ever challenged that number?

A. I believe Mr. Daugherty in my interview has indicated that he does not know whether that is a correct amount or not.

Q. Have you looked at the partnership agreement to see if that's the number in the partnership agreement?

A. Yes, sir, I have. And that's actually why there's a discrepancy.

Q. Okay. I thought you testified in your deposition that you never looked at the partnership agreement. Am I mistaken?

A. No, sir. I think I indicated.

Q. Okay. So is the discrepancy that you're talking about between the number in the partnership agreement and the number on this document?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. Do you know what the difference between those two numbers are?

A. Well, in the partnership agreement there was a second -- a second amend to a second amendment that actually had four different percentages and then as well as an additional issuance that didn't tie to any of those four ownership interests.

Q. Let's go to that document. It's Exhibit 10.

A. Yes, sir, I'm there.

Q. Can you go to Exhibit A, which is Bates number ending 48?

A. Yes, sir, I'm there.

Q. And Mr. Daugherty's percentage is reflected at 783, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Okay. And if we go back to Exhibit 17, it's represented at 7.4 -- 7.7403; is that right?

A. That is correct. As well as additional percentages in the body of the agreement.

Q. Okay. So as between the two, Mr. Daugherty would be better off with the lower number; is that fair?

A. Again, there's multiple different percentages that's in this document.

Q. But that's the only one that -- that's the one -- I don't want to argue with you. It's fine.

The tax matters partner disputed the adjustments that the IRS determined after the field audit was concluded, correct?

A. That is my understanding, yes, sir.

Q. Okay. And all that's happened since the beginning of 2018 is a dispute resolution process, correct?

A. I'm not sure in terms of the date. But my understanding is is that there is a dispute resolution process currently ongoing.

Q. Okay. The IRS' determination hasn't changed, all that's happening is the tax matters dispute is being attempted to be resolved; is that fair?

A. I disagree because the IRS in the correspondence that I've reviewed, there is the dispute resolution component going on. The appeals office had indicated that they tend to lean towards the field examiner. However, that they were willing to take a second look at it. And so there are multiple -- there are multiple discussions being made in terms of what actual numbers apply. I'm not sure.

Q. Only the field examiners conduct audits, correct?

A. The field examiner is the one that conducts an audit, yes.

Q. Appeals do -- the appeals group within the IRS does not conduct audits, correct?

A. They do not conduct it. Rather they are part of the dispute resolution and can negotiate it.

Q. Okay. So the field examiner's determination has not changed as of today, correct?

A. I have not seen any evidence to indicate that, yes, sir.

Q. Okay. And there's been settlement negotiations, to the best of your knowledge; is that fair?

A. That is my understanding, yes, sir.

Q. And there's been attempts at mediation; do you understand that?

A. I recall references to settlement conferences. So if you want to say settlement conference is mediation.

Q. And then -- and then if the tax matters partner still doesn't agree, he could appeal to the IRS appeals group, right?

A. My understanding is is that he has appealed to the appeals group.

Q. And if he doesn't like that outcome, he can still go to the Tax Court, correct?

A. That is one option. There are other options.

Q. Okay. But nobody other than the field examiner conducts IRS audits, correct?

A. That is my understanding.

Q. At the time of your deposition you were not familiar with the terms of the IRS' offer; is that right?

A. That is correct.

Q. Are you familiar with the terms of the IRS' offer today?

A. I am not.

Q. You're aware that, I think you just said, right, that -- that the tax matters partner appealed the IRS' determination to the appeals unit within the IRS?

A. That is my understanding from correspondence, yes, sir.

Q. Okay. You're not offering any opinion as to the likelihood the tax matters partner will succeed on that appeal, correct?

A. I am not.

Q. In fact, handicapping the tax matters partner's likelihood of success was beyond the scope of your engagement, correct?

A. I was not asked to do that, correct.

Q. So let me just ask you a couple of hypotheticals. If you knew today that whether by agreement or final judicial determination that the amount owed by Mr. Daugherty as a result of the conclusion of the IRS audit was a million dollars and you assume that his tax rate is 40 percent, you would agree before you get to interest and penalties that Mr. Daugherty would owe $400,000; is that fair?

A. You're asking me to assume a million, assume a 40 percent tax liability?

Q. Yes.

A. Then I would -- I would say under that assumption, that it would be 400,000.

Q. And then you might add to that interest and penalties pursuant to the tax bill, correct?

A. Assuming that, again, there are a multitude of other factors as it relates to his other investments and his other tax -- his other tax income could affect the million or the 40 percent. So if you're asking me to only look at the million and not take into consideration the rest of his tax picture, then, yes, I would agree that is 40 percent.

Q. Do you know what the agreement is that Mr. Daugherty is seeking to enforce today? Do you know what the agreement is?

A. In terms of -- you're going to have to be more detailed, please, sir.

Q. Can you describe for the Court your understanding of the agreement that Mr. Daugherty is seeking to enforce today?

MR. BURLEY: I'll object, Your Honor. That's vague. I'm not even sure I understand the question. He's talking about the employment agreement and the common benefits statement, again, those are not germane to this expert witness' testimony.

THE COURT: Can you add more to your question?

Q. You're suggesting -- are you suggesting that Highland -- that as part of the agreement Highland was going to guarantee Mr. Daugherty's income tax return, even if adjustments are made based on his own personal tax attributes?

A. You asked me a hypothetical question. And what I was saying -- indicating is -- you asked me a hypothetical. And what I'm saying is is that if we are only looking at a million dollars in a vacuum, then 40 percent would apply to that million. However, there could be other factors that offset that million that then either lower that million or change the tax rate.

Q. But none of those factors have to do with Highland's -- the audit of Highland's 2008 income tax return; is that fair?

A. Restate that for me.

Q. Whatever it is you're thinking about in your head has absolutely nothing to do with the finality of the audit of Highland's 2008 income tax return, correct?

A. It has to do with my opinion, no, not with the audit itself -- yes, not with the audit itself.

Q. Okay. Because I'm asking you to assume that as a result of the audit he's taxed with a million dollars of additional income, right? That's the assumption I'm asking you to make.

A. And given that assumption, you have to take into consideration his other -- his other personal tax issues to determine whether or not there is an offset to that million and whether or not the tax rate is increased or decreased.

Q. But those things that you're talking about right now have nothing to do with Highland's 2008 income tax audit, correct? They're about Mr. Daugherty's own personal tax attributes, correct?

A. Well, I'm confused because I feel like at one point you're asking me to exclude and only look at the audit, but then also go back to my opinion as to what the impact is on

Mr. Daugherty. And so it -- and I'm just trying to clarify that as it relates to how it impacts Mr. Daugherty, there are other factors that have to be taken into play.

Q. But those other factors relate solely to Mr. Daugherty's personal tax attributes, correct?

A. And the -- correct and the impact, the ultimate impact that the audit would have on Mr. Daugherty.

Q. But I'm telling you to assume that it's a million dollars. That's not an impact that you have to take into account. Do you understand that?

A. I -- obviously I do not.

Q. Okay. I'll try one last time. Mr. -- Highland's 2008 income tax returns are subject to a dispute resolution concerning -- as a follow up to the audit, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And we know from the document we just looked at how much the IRS has allocated to Mr. Daugherty, correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. You're not aware of Mr. Daugherty's tax return being under audit today, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. You're not aware of any reason the IRS is going to adjust anything in this tax return today, other than as it may be impacted by the outcome, the ultimate outcome of the IRS audit of Highland, correct?

A. That's where I disagree.
Q. Okay. What is it you're aware of?
A. That the impact of the audit, what it will do to Mr. Daugherty's tax picture.
Q. But the impact on the tax picture is just a factor of his own personal tax attributes, correct?
A. That is correct.
Q. Okay. Thank you.
Can we go to Exhibit 65, please?
A. Yes, sir, I'm there.
Q. Before we look at that, are you aware that Mr. Daugherty estimated his potential tax liability?
A. I don't recall that.
Q. Did you ask Mr. Daugherty if he has any thought as to what his maximum tax liability might be?
A. I have not.
Q. Do you know what a proof of claim is?
A. I do.
Q. Did you ask Mr. Daugherty to see the proof of claim that he filed in this case?
A. I did not.
Q. Okay. So let's look at 65.
THE COURT: Just real quick, Mr. Morris, how much longer are you thinking? We're right at noon.
MR. MORRIS: Yeah. I think we can -- 10 or 15 minutes.

THE COURT: Okay.

Q. You sat here -- have you reviewed this document before today?

A. Yes, sir, I have.

Q. Okay. And you heard Mr. Klos' testimony, right?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. Okay.

A. Well, I stepped out for a moment to go to the restroom. But I believe that I did hear the majority of it.

Q. Do you understand that looking at this chart, the first column where it says IRS income adjustment to HCMLP, do you see that column?

A. Yes, sir, I do.

Q. You would agree that you need that information in order to estimate the ultimate -- the ultimate amount of the claim. That's a fact that you have to know, right? You have to know what the total partnership adjustment would be for Highland?

A. I would agree.

Q. And would you agree that the numbers that Mr. Klos used there in that column are all fairly represented, that the 166 is the final determination by the field audit. The 129 -- I'll just -- let me withdraw it.

Those are the numbers -- those are the numbers as he's described them; is that fair?

A. I would disagree.

Q. In what sense?

A. I would disagree in sense of column number 4, as well as column number 3.

Q. Okay. Column Number 4 is a column that relates to the IRS offer; is that correct?

A. That -- that's what it indicates. However, the footnotes that it indicates do not specify that number.

Q. Do you have any reason to believe that numbers were wrong?

A. Do I have any reason to believe that it's wrong?

Q. Have you -- do you have your own expert opinion as to the value of the IRS coffee?

A. I have not seen any evidence. So you would be -- given the support that is indicated here, I would have to speculate. I would have to speculate that that number is correct.

Q. Okay. And then the midpoint range, that's just math, that's 50/50, right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. So there's nothing subjective about that either, right?

A. There is nothing subjective with 50/50. It is subjective to indicate as to whether or not this is an option that the IRS would take.

Q. Okay. That's for the judge to decide.

The next thing you would do if you wanted to estimate the claim is apply the partners' allocation for that item, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And Mr. Klos used .7403, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And that's the -- that's the number that the IRS used, correct?

A. That is the number reported on his K-1.

Q. Okay. So in reliance on the K-1, Mr. Klos just used the number that was reported -- that Mr. Daugherty gave to the IRS, correct?

A. He assumed that was the -- he assumed that percentage of partnership.

Q. So it's your understanding that he filed his tax return, included the K-1, the K-1 had that percentage in it, and he received a refund in reliance on that K-1, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Okay. The next thing that you would do is you would calculate the partner's share, correct?

A. In terms of taking the IRS -- the assumed IRS income adjustment and applying the assumed percentage of partnership, yes.

Q. Okay. That's just -- that's just multiplying the income adjustment times the percentage interest, right?
A. That is correct.
Q. And then you would calculate the tax affect by determining the applicable tax rate, fair?
A. You have to assume that it's 35 percent. Based off of that assumption then, yes.
Q. Okay. And in your expert opinion, is 35 the highest personal income tax rate at the time?
A. In 2008 35 percent was the highest.
Q. So this is as conservative as it can be with respect to Mr. Daugherty, correct?
A. You would have to again look at his entire tax picture to indicate that.
Q. But his -- his federal income tax at that time couldn't be higher than 35 percent, correct?
A. I don't know that I agree with that.
Q. How much higher could it be?
A. That's -- that's part of the subjectiveness.
Q. Okay. So are you aware of any federal income tax rate for personal income taxes that was in effect in 2008 that was higher than 35 percent?
A. That was the highest tax bracket.
Q. Okay. Great. Then you've got -- once you do that, you get to penalties and interest, right?

A. No. You get to the actual tax underpayment.
Q. Okay. And what is -- and is that just math?
A. That is the calculation in terms of the share -- Mr. Daugherty's share of the IRS income. And, again, this is based off my understanding of this document, Mr. Daugherty's share of the IRS income and then applying a 35 percent tax rate.
Q. So to state it another way, it's to calculate the partnership basis impact; is that fair?
A. It doesn't -- it's not calculating the basis.
Q. It's arithmetic, though, right? It's taking Mr. Daugherty's share of the income adjustment and simply multiplying it by the highest possible tax rate, that's what Mr. Klos has done here, right?
A. Yes. He's taken two assumptions and made another assumption.
Q. And you would agree that there's nothing wrong with the way he's doing that at this point, of his methodology, correct?
A. I don't -- I don't agree with the variables. In terms of the math, the arithmetic, I don't disagree.
Q. Okay. Then the next thing you do is you assess if there's any underpayment, the process stops there, right? But if there's an over -- what's the next step you would do?
A. The next step would be to determine if there's an underpayment or an overpayment.

Q. Okay. And what happens if there's an underpayment?

A. Then you would have to look at the penalties and interest associated with that.

Q. Okay. And that's exactly what Mr. Klos has done here, correct?

A. He has assumed a statutory penalty.

Q. Okay. And do you see that -- do you know if he has relied on the right statutes in order to do that?

A. There are multiple statutes as it relates to statutory penalty. And he's relied upon one.

Q. And those statutes are 26 USC 662 and 26 USC 6651, correct?

A. It is a part of 26 USC 6662.

Q. Fair enough.

And you understand that that's what he's relying on, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Okay. And then -- and then the next thing you do is you compute interest, right?

A. You would compute interest, that is correct.

Q. Okay. And he has applied a statutory blended rate and came up with 4.59 percent, correct?

A. That is what he has -- that is what he has done, yes.

Q. Have you made any attempt to calculate the interest rate that would be applicable?

A. I have reviewed the documents that were provided along with this document. And I have not taken the step to calculate the blended rate as much as the accrued interest.

Q. Okay. But, again, you know exactly what statutes to look at in order to do that, right, it's 26 USC Section 6601 and 6621, correct?

A. That is a potential statute.

Q. Okay. And then the last step, let's put aside line K. The last step would be to simply add up the tax underpayment, the statutory penalties, and the interest that's owed, correct?

A. No, sir. You've got to determine how long.

Q. Good point. That's the 10 years, 10 1/2 years that's there?

A. Yes. He has assumed 10 1/2 years.

Q. Okay. And you're not a bankruptcy lawyer, right?

A. I am not.

Q. And so for purposes of estimating Mr. Daugherty's claim against Highland, you're not offering any opinion as to whether Mr. Daugherty as a general unsecured creditor would be entitled to post-petition interest, correct?

A. Well, my opinion is is that that is an option and another variable that needs to be considered in determining estimation.

Q. What is your basis for your opinion that the Court can award post-petition interest on a general unsecured claim?

MR. BURLEY: Objection, Your Honor. Mischaracterizes the testimony. He didn't testify that he thinks that's something the Court could or should do. He's talking about the impact on Mr. Daugherty. He's not talking about Bankruptcy Code provisions related to the post-petition interest availability or not. That mischaracterizes what this witness said. We've already said and stipulated that he's not a bankruptcy expert and he's not testifying about that.

THE COURT: Well, I believe his testimony was is that he's not certain as to whether or not Mr. Daugherty would be entitled to interest.

THE WITNESS: Correct.

THE COURT: And the question that was asked is what is your basis for that? So I'm going to overrule the objection. And to the extent you know the answer, you can answer the question.

A. My understanding is is that that is a question of law. And that that is another variable that has to be determined.

Q. So it's a variable for you, but it may not be for the judge; is that fair?

A. Well, I believe that if that is a variable, that he would then consider. But I will leave that up to Your Honor.

Q. Okay. Can you go back to your Exhibit 59?

A. Yes, sir, I'm there.

Q. Okay. Can you go to page 11 of 15?

A. Yes, sir, I'm there.

Q. You provide a methodology for estimating Mr. Daugherty's claim against Highland, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And that is the exact methodology that Mr. Klos used in Exhibit 65, correct?

A. With -- with various assumptions, yes, that is the mathematical equation he utilized.

Q. And if you look at footnote 39, that is a footnote that relates to penalties, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And it refers to portions of the US Code, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Have you looked to see whether the exhibits Mr. Daugherty -- Mr. Klos relied on are the same as the documents that you're citing to in your own footnote for the determination of penalties?

A. Mr. Klos, as indicated, that statute has multiple different components to it with multiple different interest rate, or penalty and interest. And he has applied one that -- of, I believe three that's inside of that statute.

Q. Okay. So which one do you think -- which one did he apply and which one do you think should apply?

A. He -- I'm not opining as to which one should apply because it depends on the variables associated with the equation.

Q. Okay. So you will admit that Mr. Klos is relying on the exact same statutes that you have cited in your own expert report in order to assess penalties, correct?

A. I will admit that he has taken one portion, not the entirety of the statute.

Q. Is there any portion of the statute that would result in the imposition of penalties that are higher than what Mr. Klos has put in his analysis?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How much higher would it be?

A. I would have to look. I believe it's 3 percent.

Q. Okay. So instead of 20 percent, you think maybe it would be 23 percent?

A. No, no, no. My apologies, it's 30.

Q. 30 percent. And is that just for scenario five?

A. That is actually 30 percent is for what is deemed a reported transaction.

Q. Okay. Any other -- any other opinions you want to share with the Court as to Mr. Klos' analysis?

A. Again, there are a multitude in terms of --

Q. I'm sorry to cut you off. I want to know every multitude that you're aware of. I want -- I want the Court to have all of the options here. If you disagree with Mr. Klos and his calculation of the penalty, even though he's relying on the same statute, would you please tell the judge what you think the penalty ought to be?

MR. BURLEY: Your Honor, I'd just object to the question, it's misleading. I want to kind of reframe and reset what we're doing here which is, Mr. Morris is using a demonstrative that was only recently provided to counsel that this witness has only had a few days to analyze and look at. This is not a substantive report or position of Highland in the substance, the duration of this case that this witness has had a fair availability to look at and prepare counter opinions on. It was not provided when he was deposed. It was not provided by the time he issued his report. It was not provided until I believe the end of last week. So my point there, Judge, if you want to take this line of questioning under advisement, you're of course entitled to.

But -- Mr. Morris, I'm sorry? I didn't know if he was chiming in.

My point simply is, Your Honor, this witness has not had this demonstrative to prepare in response in substance to, because it's a demonstrative. That's kind of the whole point here. Mr. Klos is entitled to do it. We've not objected to it on that basis. But the notion that he can poke holes in my witness' potential lack of knowledge about something that he's detailed but only recently provided is inherently unfair.

MR. MORRIS: May I respond, Your Honor?

We disclosed Mr. Klos on our witness list, I don't know when. I personally expected them to depose him. I don't know why they didn't ask for that. But be that as it may, I think if you just look at the expert's report at pages 11 and 12, I think he has already acknowledged for you that Mr. Klos has applied the exact same methodology for estimating the claim that he did. All we're arguing now, to the extent there is an argument because they've relied on the exact same statutes for the calculation of penalties, they relied on the exact same statutes for the calculation of interest, is the witness is contending that maybe there was a different piece of the Code that would have resulted in a higher amount. And I don't care. I mean, I don't need to be right here. I want you to have the best information to do what I think is required under the law and that is estimate the claim. And if Mr. Klos has used 20 percent in the statute, the same statute that he uses but he thinks the number should be used is 30 percent, you decide if 20 percent or 30 percent is right. I don't care. I don't care. I just want you to have the best information.

What I don't want is for them to say later on, oh, my God, there's so much uncertainty here. There's so much -- there's no -- there's virtually no uncertainty. Is it 7.03 that's in the K-1 or is it 7.38 that's --

THE COURT: Mr. Morris, I think you've gone beyond responding to the objection.

Okay. I'm going to overrule the objection. What I hear the question to be is his question -- he's questioning the witness based on the statutes that are being referenced for purposes of penalty what variables, or in what ways would they be different? He's not asking him to opine as to this calculation. He's asking, if you don't agree with this, what are the variables, or what are the rates that could be applicable based on the statute? That's what I hear the question --

MR. MORRIS: It's really that simple.

THE COURT: And so to the extent that you can answer that question, which you've somewhat already answered saying it could be as high as 30, please answer the question.

A. To answer the Court's clarification of it, you would have to look at the transaction itself. If it is a reported transaction under the -- if the IRS considers it a reported transaction, it could be 30 percent. If the IRS considers it a simple underpayment, then it could be 20 percent. If they consider it to be a failure to pay, that has a percentage. All of those different components fall under the statute 6662.

Q. Do you have an opinion as to which one applies here?

MR. BURLEY: Objection, Your Honor. That's exactly what we just spoke about. This witness has said that this is the general basis. He doesn't have an opinion on that question --

MR. MORRIS: Great.

MR. BURLEY: Mr. Morris, please let me finish.

THE COURT: Please let him say his objection.

MR. BURLEY: Thank you, Your Honor.

That's the exact position we have here is that he was not tasked with doing the math himself. You can see that in our report. He was tasked with analyzing the situation and the lack of variables and the lack of clarity. So he's already answered Your Honor's question which is, give me a general framework for what's applicable here, potentially applicable here. And then Mr. Morris asked the question that you said is arguably impermissible, which is, and how does it apply? That's not fair here.

And I will also say to Mr. Morris' prior speaking objection, he might have disclosed Mr. Klos as a witness. He certainly did not disclose this demonstrative at the time of that disclosure. So that's an inherently unfair way to characterize that disclosure.

THE COURT: All right. I don't want a response.

I'm going to overrule the objection. He asked whether he has an opinion. If he doesn't have an opinion, he can state whether he does or doesn't.

Q. Do you have a view as to what the maximum penalty?

A. Not at the time, no, sir.

Q. Okay. How about with respect to interest? Mr. Klos used 4.59 percent. Have you made any attempt to calculate the interest rate that would be applicable?

A. I have not.

Q. Okay. You do understand that Mr. Klos relied on the exact same statutes that you've cited in your report, correct?

A. General, broadly, yes, sir.

Q. Okay. You don't -- he cited to the right statutes in your opinion, correct?

A. He cited -- yes, I would agree.

Q. Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I've got nothing further, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. We're at 12:15. We're going to take, I don't want to give us too short a time. We're going to take an hour recess for lunch. We're back at 1:15.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

(Lunch recess ensued.)

THE COURT: All right. Mr. Liles Tim if you'll go ahead -- did I say your name, right?

THE WITNESS: Liles-Tims.

THE COURT: Liles-Tims, okay, I apologize. Mr. Liles-Tims, if you'll go ahead and take the stand. And, again, you're still under oath, sir.

THE WITNESS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: Give me just one moment while I pull up my notes.

MR. BURLEY: Of course.

FEMALE SPEAKER: Judge, I have defendant's binders here, if you'd like them.

THE COURT: That will be fine.

MR. BURLEY: Judge, for my direct, we're putting the exhibits up on the screen.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BURLEY: So ideally you can avoid having to rummage through.

THE COURT: All right. You may proceed.

MR. BURLEY: Thank you, Your Honor. Again,

Reid Burley with Gray Reed.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. BURLEY:

Q. Mr. Liles-Tims, could you formally introduce yourself to the Court, please.

A. Sure. My name is Trevor Jason Liles-Tims. I go by T.J.

Q. And what is your current position and where are you employed?

A. I'm employed at Weaver & Tidwell LLP, which is a certified public accounting firm. And I am a partner at the firm.

Q. And can you generally describe to the Court the types of services that Weaver provides?

A. It provides tax services, as well as audit -- audit functions and a multitude of advisory functions, as well.

Q. What are your areas of expertise at Weaver?

A. Sure. So my areas of expertise are business valuation, as well as quantification of personal economic damages, as well as fraud examination.

Q. Can you describe to the Court briefly your educational background, degrees, certifications you have?

A. Sure. So I attended Cornell University. Ultimately got my bachelors in finance from the University of Central Oklahoma. And I got my masters degree from the University of Central Oklahoma in 2007. I also hold the Certified Valuation Analyst credential under the -- that is issued by the National Association of Certified Valuators & Analysts. I hold the Certified Fraud Examiner credential that's issued by the Association of Certified Fraud Examiners. And I also hold the Master Analyst in Financial Forensics credential that is issued by the National Association of Certified Valuators & Analysts.

Q. How long have you been doing this type of work?

A. I have been doing this line of work approximately 23 years.

Q. Okay. And have you previously been qualified as an expert in federal court proceedings?

A. I have.

Q. In state court proceedings?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Arbitration proceedings?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. And have you authored or coauthored publications in your line of work?

A. Yes, sir, I have.

Q. Can you just generally -- I know they're a little bit voluminous. Can you just give the Court a picture of what you've done in that regard?

A. Sure. So one of the designations that I indicated that I have is the Master Analyst in Financial Forensics. I am one of the coauthors of the curriculum for that credential. I also teach for that credential. I teach fraud examination at the University of Central -- sorry, no longer. I used to teach at the University of Central Oklahoma. I now teach fraud examination at Oklahoma City University. And I do various teaching courses for the National Association of Certified Valuators & Analysts.

Q. Great. And in all of the work that you've done in those roles you have, do you deal with IRS matters in that line of work?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. Can you elaborate to the Court on your experience with IRS matters and related tax issues?

A. Sure. So one -- in fact, my very first federal court case was an IRS tax matter where an individual was a bookie and accused of not reporting income. And it was a forensic accounting in terms of challenging the audit as it relates to what income was, in fact, reported. I have also, I deal with tax returns and the IRS for estate tax matters, gift tax matters, charitable contribution matters. I'm familiar with the audit process as it relates to that. I actually got permission to indicate this, that I am -- I have been actually retained by the IRS in audit matters in terms of calculating differences between the taxpayer and the IRS.

Q. That's great.

And Mr. Liles-Tims, you testified earlier you're not a CPA. Did someone else that works with you at Weaver, one of your colleagues, coauthor and review this report with you in this case?

A. Yes, sir, he did.

Q. Okay. Who is that?

A. His name is Gary McIntosh.

Q. Do you work with Mr. McIntosh regularly?

A. Yes. Mr. McIntosh is actually a managing director for Weaver & Tidwell. And I want to give Mr. McIntosh his credit. Mr. McIntosh has put in 50 years in the profession. And due to our partnership agreement, he can no longer be a partner. And that's the only reason he's not a partner and is a managing director.

Q. Thank you.

And he's a CPA, correct?

A. He is a -- he holds the certified public accountant as well as certified in financial forensics.

Q. Okay. And did he confirm to you the conclusions laid out in your report?

You can answer.

A. Mr. McIntosh and I did --

MR. MORRIS: Objection; hearsay. This is not right. He's not here testifying. It's not right. Hearsay.

THE COURT: He asked -- well, do you want to rephrase the question, or --

MR. BURLEY: I can. I'm not sure if I need to, but I can. I can reask it.

THE COURT: Well, why don't you rephrase the question.

MR. BURLEY: Okay.

Q. Mr. Liles-Tims, did Mr. McIntosh review your report in this matter?

A. Yes, sir, he did.

Q. Did he approve it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Including the conclusions you came to?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. Thank you.

Mr. Liles-Tims, who retained you in this matter and on whose behalf?

A. I always get confused on this. Mr. Daugherty retained me and Gray Reed contacted me.

Q. Okay. And what were you asked to do in connection with this case, generally speaking?

A. To review the audit that is being conducted by Highland -- or by the IRS for Highland Capital. And determine whether or not the outcome or the impact of that audit can be determined on Mr. Daugherty's behalf.

Q. Okay. And did you prepare a written expert report in this case?
A. Yes, sir, I did.
Q. Okay.
MR. BURLEY: Laura, if we could turn to Defendant's Exhibit 82, please.
Q. Just let me know once you've gotten there.
A. Yes, sir, I'm there.
Q. Okay. And is this the report that you prepared for this case?
A. Yes, sir, it is.
Q. Okay. Who assisted you in preparing this report?
A. A gentleman by the name of Mr. Logan Woods.
Q. Okay. And what is his role with Weaver?
A. Mr. Logan Woods is my senior manager.
Q. Okay. And is that in addition to Mr. McIntosh's, you know, work on this report that you talked about earlier?
A. Yes. Both individuals worked under my direction. Mr. McIntosh reviewed the report and agreed with the opinions. And Mr. Woods assisted in drafting the report.
Q. Okay. And what's your hourly billing rate for the services you're providing in this matter?
A. I believe its 595 an hour.
Q. Okay. And is your compensation in any way contingent upon the outcome here today?

A. No, sir.

Q. Okay. Generally speaking, what documents and information did you review as you prepared that report?

A. Generally speaking, and as Mr. Morris pointed out on page 1 of 1, very last page of my report are all of the documents reviewed. However, generally speaking, I reviewed correspondence between the IRS and the tax matters partner. I reviewed the partnership agreement, amendments thereto. I reviewed, you know, various emails, various hearing transcripts, and various other documents.

Q. Looking now at your report --

MR. BURLEY: And, Your Honor, I'll mention that Defense Exhibit 82 has been pre-admitted in this case over no objection. So this is in evidence already.

Q. Mr. Liles-Tims, let's go to your first opinion in this case. Can you tell the Court generally what that first opinion of your's is?

A. Yes, sir. So that first opinion would be on page 7 of 15 on my report. And basically the first opinion is an opinion as to the professional standards that someone that holds the credential of the certified fraud examiner, as well as a master analyst in financial forensics has to adhere by in terms of relevant, reliability, reasonable certainty, and then also discusses how those professional standards also come into play and are basically dictated by Federal Rules of Evidence 702.

Q. Okay. And although you're not a lawyer, you're aware of and familiar with the requirements of providing expert testimony in cases, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Let's go to your second opinion there, your first substantive opinion, I may add. I think it's a couple of pages later.

A. It's actually page 8 of --

Q. Opinion number two.

A. -- 8 of 15.

Q. Okay. Thank you.

Okay. Mr. Liles-Tims, can you tell the Court generally what your opinion number two is, which is your first substantive opinion in your report?

A. Sure. So opinion two is effectively that the IRS audit process has not been finalized. And based off of the correspondence that I have seen, there does not appear to be a conclusion in the near future.

Q. Okay. And let's talk about that term a little bit. What is your understanding, from your expertise, as to the term, final determination when it comes to IRS audits and related disputes?

A. Sure. So final determination is not a term -- is not, you know, a defined term. You know, a taxpayer may consider the final determination to be once they have a judicial remedy, whether that's to pay a refund, file in federal court to get that refund. It may be a situation where they file in tax court and the Tax Court then render an opinion, the Federal Court render an opinion. The IRS could consider their final determination to be, you know, a field examination, to the extent that that's what they stick with. It could be once they've determined their opinion, once it goes through the appellate process. So final determination is really dependent on who's asking the -- who you're asking the question of.

Q. Gotcha.

Did you review the settlement agreement between Mr. Daugherty and Highland in this case?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. Do you remember that including the language, final determination --

A. I --

Q. -- generally speaking? I'll pull it up shortly.

A. Generally speaking, yes, sir.

Q. Okay.

MR. BURLEY: Ms. DeBerg, if you could go to Plaintiff's 5, please.

Q. Okay. Are you there?

A. Yes, sir, I am.

Q. Is this the settlement agreement that you reviewed in this case?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay.

MR. BURLEY: Your Honor, this is Plaintiff's Exhibit 5. It's been pre-admitted in this case.

Ms. DeBerg, if you could go to page 12 of this exhibit, please.

Q. Okay. Mr. Liles -- are you there, Mr. Liles-Tims? Or do you have it on your screen, as well?

A. I've got it both, hard copy and electronic.

Q. Okay. Got it all covered.

If you look at that top paragraph, which is a continuation of what appears to be paragraph 9, do you see the second full sentence beginning on that page with, Any litigation by and between?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. And it states, Any litigation by and between the debtor and Daugherty concerning the validity and amount of the reserve claim shall be stayed until the IRS makes a final determination with respect to the IRS audit dispute. Do you see that?

A. Yes, sir, I do.

Q. Okay. And final determination is not capitalized, but is IRS audit dispute, does that appear to be a capitalized term?

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I object to this line of questioning. It's completely irrelevant to whether or not the claim should be allowed or estimated. What they're trying to do here is to revisit the issue that was the subject of their motion to dismiss last fall. And that is whether or not this matter should have been stayed. The Court addressed that issue last fall. Denied the motion to dismiss. That motion to dismiss denial was not appealed. The only thing that was appealed was the Rule 60 order. And I object to any questioning on a document that is not really the subject of any particular opinion they're trying to get in today. I don't even know why, because the case -- because the issue's over. But we're going to waste time now trying to buttress an argument that was rejected by the Court last fall.

MR. BURLEY: If I may?

THE COURT: You may respond.

MR. BURLEY: Your Honor, I'm just getting into what Mr. Morris got into with the witness, which was a relatively lengthy examination regarding when the IRS concluded, is it final, you know, you heard him talk about the field examiner. They've done what they've needed to do. All of that goes to this usage of final determination and the ongoing dispute between the parties. I only have a few more lines of questions here. But it's directly on point and specifically in response to lines of questioning from Mr. Morris.

THE COURT: Okay. The Court will weigh whether this line of questioning and testimony is relevant to the matters. So the Court's going to overrule the objection.

MR. BURLEY: Thank you, Judge.

Q. Mr. Liles-Tims, if you could flip one page prior to page 11. We'll look at that defined term, IRS audit dispute.

A. Yes, sir, I see it.

Q. Okay. At the bottom of page 11 you see that there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And can you read out loud to the Court what is meant by IRS audit dispute in that parenthetical?

A. Do you want me to read the whole sentence, or just the --

Q. No, just the parenthetical that defines IRS audit dispute.

A. Okay. The dispute between the debtor and IRS being referred to herein -- herein as IRS audit dispute.

Q. Okay. So the dispute between the debtor and the IRS. Based on what you've reviewed in this case, is there still an ongoing dispute between the debtor and the IRS?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. Let's walk through just a few more of those.

Let's look now at Defendant's Exhibit 32.

THE COURT: Is this Defendant's 32 or Plaintiff's?

MR. BURLEY: Defendant's 32, Your Honor.

Q. Are you there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Thank you.

I'm showing you what's been marked as Defendant's Exhibit 32. This is a December 9th, 2019 email from Brian Collins at Highland to Mr. Daugherty. Do you see that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And do you see the third paragraph -- well, I should say -- let me start with the first paragraph. That last sentence, could you read that out loud, please, the by letter dated December 8th.

A. By letter dated December 8th, 2017, Exam indicated that they had concluded their audit and provided a summary report proposing certain adjustments to the 2008 return.

Q. Okay. And then if you look at the third paragraph beginning with Highland, that states that Highland will continue to defend against the proposed adjustments and prosecute the appeal. Do you see that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. So based on -- and was this an exhibit that you reviewed in your report?

A. Yes.
Q. Or in conjunction with preparing your report?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And based on your review of this, do you believe that the dispute between the IRS and the debtor is ongoing?
A. As of December 9th, 2019, yes.
Q. Okay.
MR. BURLEY: Ms. DeBerg, if you could now go to Defendant's Exhibit 17. And unfortunately I think that's another different one.
A. Yes, sir, I'm there.
Q. Okay. This is the February 28th, 2025 letter from Hunton, the law firm, to the IRS. Do you see that?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Okay. And is it your understanding that Hunton represents Highland's tax matters partner in regards to their IRS dispute?
MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. I just want to clarify. It's not Highland's tax matter partner. It's the tax matters partner who's overseeing the return, but they have nothing to do with Highland today. I just want to make that clear. I hope there's not -- because I heard the word, debtor, before. This is not -- this is not our's any more. That's why we're not involved. That's why we have no knowledge of what's happening today. The tax matters partner.

THE COURT: I mean is that your understanding?

MR. BURLEY: Yeah. I mean, it's the tax matters partner, correct me if I'm wrong, that is in charge of managing, resolving the audit of Highland. But, yes, my understanding is that Highland, as they sit here today, don't have direct involvement with the tax matters partner. If that's what he's getting at. I understand that.

MR. MORRIS: It's not just direct. It's not indirect. It's not anything. This has nothing to do with reorganized Highland Capital Management.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. BURLEY: Fair. We'll continue.

THE COURT: You all can't testify. He has to testify. So if you want to ask questions that gets him to testify that he understands that, or if he doesn't, that's fine. But the Court will take the evidence and gather its understanding from the testimony of the witnesses.

MR. BURLEY: Of course. Thank you, Judge.

Q. Mr. Liles-Tims, do you have an understanding as to whether Hunton represents the tax matters partner that is involved in this audit dispute?

A. That is my understanding.

Q. Okay. And this letter, again, February 28th, 2025, based on your review of this -- strike that. Let me ask you, was this exhibit part of your review in preparing your report?

A. I recall the letter. I don't recall the power of attorney that's attached to it.

Q. Okay.

A. But I do recall the letter.

Q. Okay. And based on your review of the letter, do you believe that the dispute between the IRS and Highland has concluded or not?

A. Based on my read of the letter, it has not concluded.

Q. Okay. And this letter, again, February 2025, is this the latest correspondence or information that you have in your possession related to this dispute?

A. I believe so. There was a new letter that was attached to Mr. Klos' and I don't recall the date of that letter. But I do believe this is the last one.

Q. For that letter that you're referring to, do you recall if it indicated there had been a resolution of the dispute or not?

A. No. There -- no, to the contrary.

Q. Okay. Mr. Liles-Tims, switching gears briefly we've talked a lot and you've already been examined about what materials are at issue here with regard to the IRS dispute. And switching gears to Mr. Daugherty as a taxpayer and a profits interest partner of Highland, in your opinion what is the information that Mr. Daugherty would need to be able to understand his tax picture as it relates to this audit dispute?

A. Sure. It goes back to the question about final determination in terms of, you know, the taxpayer. So what Mr. Daugherty would need is a letter from the tax matters partner indicating this matter has been finalized. Here is your final K-1 that you now need to amend your return, or not, or it would be the outcome from the judicial venue of either the Tax Court or Federal Court.

Q. And in addition to the -- excuse me. In addition to the K-1, is there anything else that Mr. Daugherty as a taxpayer could or, I should say would need to determine that final picture for himself? Are there other forums out there that would give him clarity?

A. No. He would need -- he would need an amended K-1.

Q. Okay. What about the Form 886, how does that have an interplay here?

A. The Form 886 is not generally provided to the taxpayer. That is a tax matter partner issue. And so that's handled more at the partnership level than the partner level.

Q. Gotcha.

Have you seen anything in this case regarding what you just testified to that would give Mr. Daugherty that clarity as to his tax picture?

A. No, sir, to the contrary in terms of the correspondence that was provided that this matter is ongoing.

Q. Okay. Are you -- and I know that you are not Mr. Daugherty. Are you aware of him, or have you reviewed any documents that would show that he's received confirmation from the IRS that the disputes been resolved?

A. I am not aware of any such, no.

Q. Okay. And given that absence of a final determination between the parties, is it your opinion that any expert can reasonably opine on the outcomes here?

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, he's really leading the witness here. So I object on leading grounds. The answer, all he's going to do is give yes or no answers to these kinds of questions. He's asking him basically a leading question.

MR. BURLEY: Your Honor, yes or no is an open-ended question, it's either yes or no. It's not leading.

THE COURT: Yeah. I'm going to overrule the objection. I don't believe the question was leading.

Q. Mr. Liles-Tims, let's move on to your second opinion which dovetails a lot with Mr. Morris' cross of you which is the process of calculating these, you know, the estimation, the damages, however you want to call it.

What is your general opinion about that process and the ability for someone like Mr. Daugherty to accurately calculate his liability? Just generally speaking.

A. Generally speaking the process of an audit is the issuance of a tax return. Then the IRS questioning that tax return, at which point then a field examiner is assigned. There's correspondence that goes back and forth between the taxpayer and the field examiner. The field examiner will then issue generally what is referred to as a revenue agent report, an RAR. And then from that standpoint the taxpayer then has the ability to accept. They have the ability to negotiate with the field examiner. And if unsuccessful, then it goes to the appeals. Then the appellate process or the appeals process is a much more lengthy process at which point then the appeals can say, we are standing firm with the field examination, or they can modify through negotiation a different stance at which point if -- if that's their final stance, the taxpayer then has the option to actually pay that amount, file for a refund or whatever in federal court, or have the ability to take -- take the matter to tax court.

Q. And I believe that process that you're describing, which is on page 9 of 15 of your report, where in that process, in that flow chart is it your opinion that Mr. Daugherty and Highland's audit dispute is currently at?

A. It currently is at the settlement or the settlement negotiation standpoint which then at times goes -- reverts back to what's referred to here as a closing conference. But in essence it's a settlement conference. And so there negotiations just go back and forth in terms of the settlement.

Q. Thank you.

Let's -- let's turn now to Highland's demonstrative, which is their Exhibit 65.

MR. BURLEY: Ms. DeBerg, if you could just put that up on the screen.

Q. I probably could have just given you an extra copy.

A. Now I've got to flip all of the pages back over.

Q. I know. I'm sorry. Too many papers.

MR. BURLEY: And, Your Honor, we're going to be flipping back to some other exhibits, as well. But if you'd like, I have a hard copy of the demonstrative if you need it.

THE COURT: I'm okay. Thank you.

Q. Mr. Liles-Tims, were you -- have you been able to review this demonstrative just in the past week or so?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. Was this demonstrative available to you when you were deposed in the case?

A. It was not.

Q. Okay. Was it available to you when you created your report in this case?

A. It was not.

Q. Okay. Was it available to you when you created your report in this case?

A. It was not.

Q. Okay. Let's look at some of this. I know you walked through this with Mr. Morris. Going first to line B, row B, which is Mr. Daugherty's percentage of the partnership.

MR. BURLEY: Ms. DeBerg, can we please turn to Plaintiff's Exhibit 17, please?

Q. And, Mr. Liles-Tims, I think we can just leave that on the screen maybe, that way we can hopefully move a little bit more quickly.

A. Okay.

MR. BURLEY: If you could go, I think, to the next page, Ms. DeBerg.

Q. Mr. Liles-Tims, based on your review, is this where the allocated partnership interest for Mr. Daugherty on the demonstrative comes from?

A. I believe -- I recall Mr. Klos' testimony was that it was from here, as well as the K-1.

Q. Okay. And this Form 886 and that K-1, like we talked about, have those or have those not been finalized between the parties at dispute here?

A. I don't believe -- I do not believe that they have been finalized.
Q. Okay.
MR. BURLEY: Ms. DeBerg, if you could go to Plaintiff's 8, please.
Q. And I think it's page 54, which is Bates 4319 at the bottom. This is the second and amended restated partnership agreement.
MR. BURLEY: Thank you. That's great.
Q. Mr. Liles-Tims, like I said, this is the second amended and restated partnership agreement between the relevant parties. What is that percentage that's allocated to Mr. Daugherty there?
A. .608.
Q. Okay.
MR. MORRIS: What exhibit is this?
MR. BURLEY: This is Plaintiff's Exhibit 8.
And, Ms. DeBerg, if you can now go to Plaintiff's 10, please.
Q. And, Mr. Liles-Tims, earlier you, I believe, spoke briefly about the fact that you had reviewed this, which is a second amendment to the second amended and restated. Do you recall that?
A. I do.
Q. Okay.

MR. BURLEY: Ms. DeBerg, can you please turn to page 7 of this one which, again, is Plaintiff's Exhibit 10? Thank you.

Q. And, Mr. Liles-Tims, on this one, which is the live version of the partnership agreement, what allocated interest does that have for Mr. Daugherty there?

A. .783.

Q. Okay. Are either of those numbers what are indicated in the demonstrative?

A. They were not.

Q. Okay. Let's go back to the demonstrative exhibit. We'll go down to the next rows.

MR. BURLEY: Okay. Thank you, Ms. DeBerg.

Q. If we could look at row D, Mr. Liles-Tims. Could you just please tell the Court generally your opinion on the usage of 35 percent as an estimated tax rate?

A. So 35 percent is the highest tax rate paid. However, there are other tax brackets, as well as this is -- this is the assumption of ordinary income tax and it's not -- it is not applicable to long-term capital gains, short-term capital gains, portfolio income. So those in itself have various tax rates, as well.

Q. And would it also not include things like ownerships of other entities, membership interest, et cetera, or would this include that?

A. Well, it would depend. Because the K-1 has -- so I believe the K-1 has approximately 21, 22 boxes that have various different income and expense categories. And so it would depend on how that income flows through on the K-1 to determine which is applicable.

Q. Okay. But your testimony is that it would depend?

A. That is correct.

Q. Okay. Looking at row F, which is statutory penalty, I don't need to belabor this, but you were examined about it earlier. Could you please tell the Court your opinion of the usages of 10 and 20 percent as the -- I should say also add 0, as the only estimated penalty numbers on this demonstrative?

A. Well, according to the 26 IRC 6662, the amounts that are shown are 20 percent and 30 percent. I reviewed and did not see a 10 percent. I believe I recall Mr. Klos saying that the 10 percent was based off of a -- off of a 50 percent. I forgot the term used in the latter, but essentially a 50 percent negotiation.

Q. So in your opinion the penalty rates, the statutory penalty rates that are included on this demonstrative, do those encompass all potential penalty numbers?

A. They do not.

Q. Okay. Let's look down at row G, which is the applicable blended rate. And that is footnoted or endnoted as sub (3), which is defined on the next page.

Mr. Liles-Tims, in regards to that blended rate, could you give the Court your opinion on the validity of using an averaged out number like this demonstrative has done?

A. Sure. So utilizing a blended rate whenever you are calculating compounded daily interest is highly inappropriate because it does not take into account that compounding. And so what you would have to do is literally you would have to calculate that number out due to a -- because as indicated by the footnote, that is a figure that is determined quarterly. And that number is then compounded daily.

Q. And although this demonstrative purports to cite to those provisions of the Code, you know, dictating you use the prime rate, do those provisions of the Code, in your opinion, tell you how to make this calculation in terms of compounding daily updated quarterly?

A. No. It -- rather what it does is it says this number is provided quarterly and should be compounded daily.

Q. Okay. But it doesn't do the math for you, the provisions of the Code?

A. No. It gives that -- the narrative that I just testified to as well as the rates themselves.

Q. Okay. And then in the time outstanding on years, I won't belabor that one. But you've testified earlier that -- and I believe that the Court's already heard testimony that this is based on leading up to the petition date of Highland. Do you recall that?

A. I do.

Q. And in your opinion does their usage of 10.51 across the board in row H, does that cover all possible scenarios here?

A. I believe that that is a question for this Court as to where that stops.

Q. And, Mr. Liles-Tims, the final column -- I should say the second to row there, row K, which is income on previous refund, what is your understanding of what they've attempted to do with that row?

A. It is my understanding that they have tried to attempt to look and mitigate what the penalties and interest are by what the potential usage of those funds that Mr. Daugherty had the option of.

Q. And based on your experience in finance, do you believe that that's a fair assumption as to someone's usage of money over time?

A. I believe that you have to conduct a very thorough investigation to mitigate what we call in the industry to mitigate damages is in itself a calculation that you would have to look at multitude of different factors.

Q. Do you believe that this demonstrative is that very thorough analysis you're speaking of?

A. I do not.

Q. Okay. Mr. Liles-Tims, in conclusion, what is your opinion to the Court as to whether it is reasonable for an expert to opine on the outcomes of this demonstrative as we see here?

A. I don't believe that it fairly represents it. One of the -- the item that stuck out at first with this is a very simple finance 101 calculation of what we refer to as the Rule of 72. And that indicates that the Rule of 72 is you take 72 divide it by an interest rate, and that will tell you the number of years that it takes to double that money. And so in this calculation under I, the interest accrued, for instance, the first -- the first number -- first column with a number in it is a column 3. It indicates $103,860. And what's trying to be calculated here is what are the penalties and interest on the $215,488. But if you take that finance 101 calculation and you take 72 divided by 4.59, indicates that it would take 15 years to double that. Under this calculation that's 10 1/2 years. So that $103,860 should be very close to $430,000, or double that $215,000 number. And so what it appears, again, I have not had it very long. It appears what they've done is made an error in the calculation in trying to determine net present value, which is not appropriate in this situation. Rather what you're trying to do is determine a future value. And so I believe that it significantly underestimates the interest accruing.

Q. Okay. And that number that you're pulling out of there to opine on, that's in column 3. I think you said they would go from 103 to in the 400s. That same extrapolation would occur and increase the numbers in columns 4 and 5, as well; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Okay.

MR. BURLEY: Your Honor, I'll pass the witness at this time.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q. Let's go through this one more time.

You have the demonstrative there?

A. Yes, sir. Do you mind if I -- if I use this one?

Q. Sure. Sure.

A. Okay.

Q. You talked about the Daugherty's percentage of partnership interest, correct?

A. I recall that line of questioning, yes, sir.

Q. Okay. And you understand that Mr. Klos relied on the K-1 that Mr. Daugherty gave to the IRS to receive his refund, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And Mr. Klos relied upon the document that the IRS gave the, what is it the 886?

A. Can you restate that for me? Sorry.

Q. The other document that also had the 7.403 percentage was a document that we looked at from the IRS.

A. The 886Z, yes, sir.

Q. Right. So you were asked a couple of questions about the partnership agreements, right, and you were asked about Exhibit 8. Do you remember that?

A. I recall being asked. I don't specifically recall Exhibit 8.

Q. Okay. That was the partnership agreement from 2004. It was amended and it's not relevant after it gets amended, correct?

A. Is that the nonamended one, because we looked at two. We looked at one that was a second amendment and then we looked at one that was a second amend to the second amendment.

Q. So take a look at Exhibit 8.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Okay. That's dated as of December 31st, 2004, right?

A. That is correct. Effective as of February 29, 2004.

Q. That's right. And that's the document that had that .608 number in it, right?

A. Do you have that Bates label?
Q. I do. I do, sir. Good question. It ends with 4381.
And Mr. Daugherty's percentage at that time is 0.608, correct?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Okay. But you know that this agreement was amended, right, because you reviewed the partnership agreements, right?
A. That's correct.
Q. Okay. So nobody would suggest using that number, right?
A. The .608?
Q. Yep.
A. Since it's amended, I mean, I would say that's a legal question. But my understanding is with an amendment then it supersedes this.
Q. You would never as a professional use a number from an agreement that was superseded and amended, would you?
A. If you're stating that it's superseded as an Officer of the Court then, correct.
Q. Okay. So go to the next Exhibit 9. That second amended and restated partnership was amended as of April 15, 2006, correct?
A. That is correct.

Q. Okay. And if you go to Exhibit 10, the second amended and restated partnership agreement was amended a second time, right?
A. That is correct.
Q. And that's as of April 15, 2007, correct?
A. Yes. But that number is different than the one --
Q. Just stick with me.
A. Okay.
Q. That was amended, correct?
A. That is a first amendment, yes.
Q. This is the second amendment, Exhibit 10 is the second amendment, correct?
A. I thought you had me on Exhibit 9, which --
Q. All right. I'll slow down.
So you established that Exhibit 9 is amended Exhibit 8, right?
A. Correct.
Q. And now Exhibit 10 amends Exhibit 9, right?
A. It doesn't indicate that it amends the first amendment. But logically speaking I would make that assumption.
A. Okay. And if you go to the page ending in Bates number 7748 you'll see that Mr. Daugherty's percentage is .783, right?
A. I do see that, yes, sir.

Q. Okay. In the work that you did, have you seen the second amended agreement ever amended again?

A. I have not seen, no.

Q. So is it fair to say that the Court could either pick the .7403 percentage in Mr. Klos' analysis that he got from the K-1 that he got from the IRS, or if he wanted to he could pick the 783 number out of the second amended agreement?

A. I don't mean to be controversial. But given the venue, I think the Court can do what they choose.

Q. But you have no -- there's no possibility in your mind, other than those two numbers, right?

A. Well, is there a possibility? Yeah, there's a possibility.

Q. What possibility is there, other than the number that was given to the IRS and the number that was given in the last amended partnership agreement, what other number could there be?

A. That -- you asked me what the Court could do and I indicated the Court could pick a number. And so --

Q. Okay. I'm asking your professional opinion, you're the expert.

A. Correct.

Q. You've been given information, right?

A. Correct.

Q. Do you have any information, other than the number in Mr. Klos' chart or the number in the second amendment to the second amended restated partnership agreement?

A. I do not.

Q. Thank you. That's the uncertainty.

Let's go to --

MR. BURLEY: I'll actually move to strike that side bar. That wasn't a question, Your Honor.

Q. Let's go to the second --

THE COURT: I'm -- look, this isn't a jury -- this is not a jury trial. I know how to handle what is being said and what isn't.

MR. BURLEY: Understood.

THE COURT: So I'm going to overrule the objection. But let's try to keep remarks down.

MR. MORRIS: Okay, Your Honor.

Q. Let's go to the next one, the applicable tax rate, 35 percent. You admit that that's the highest personal income tax rate that existed in 2008, correct?

A. We were on agreements. Where are we at now?

Q. I'm on the next line, applicable tax rate.

A. So you're on the demonstrative?

Q. Yep.

A. All right.

Okay. And what line now, Mr. Morris?

Q. The one that says, 2008 applicable tax rate, 35 percent.
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And you agree that that's the highest individual income tax rate that was in existence on a federal level in 2008, correct?
A. On a federal level, yes, sir.
Q. Okay. So sticking on a federal level, is there any reason the Court shouldn't apply that 35 percent in this case?
A. It depends, again. That is the highest -- the highest level.
Q. Okay. It can't be higher, fair?
A. I don't want to say it can't be. I mean, at the federal level that is the highest tax rate.
Q. Okay. Let's go to -- where are we next, the applicable statutory blended rate? Is that the next input? Oh, penalties, I'm sorry, penalties.
You took issue with the 10 percent on model three; is that right?
A. That's correct.
Q. And that's because it says, 20 percent in the -- in the regulation that you looked at?
A. In the statute it says 20 percent or 30 percent depending on which -- which part of it you're looking at.

Q. So if the Court used 20 percent or 30 percent, you would have no qualm with that, right?
A. I believe that -- no, no, I would not.
Q. Okay. And if the Court used 20 percent or 30 percent for the fifth scenario, you'd have no qualms with that, right?
A. To the extent that the Court looked at the statute and interpreted it as an Officer of the Court, then I would have no issue with it.
Q. Okay. Let's go down to the applicable statute -- the applicable blended rate. You said the problem with that was that they haven't taken into account compounding; is that right?
A. That is correct.
Q. Okay. Have you made any effort to try to compound and give the Court a number as to what the applicable statutory blended rate would be?
A. I have not calculated that. Rather I have looked at the attachment to opine that that number would not be correct. But I have not calculated it to determine what the correct number would be.
Q. How much time have you spent looking at this exhibit?
A. I don't know.
Q. Can you estimate?

A. I would say probably 10 hours.
Q. And in that 10 hours you didn't spend any time trying to figure out what the applicable tax rate might be?
A. The applicable tax rate?
Q. I apologize. The applicable statutory blended rate, the interest rate.
A. I did not.
Q. Okay. Time here is outstanding. I think we've discussed enough. That's an accurate number if one was calculating it from the tax payment date to the petition date; is that fair?
A. That's fair.
Q. And then the last one is the income on the previous refund. You take issue with the analysis. Do I have that right?
A. Define -- restate that question, please.
Q. Yes. Fair enough.
Do you take issue with the use of a 4 percent interest rate for purposes of creating time value of money?
A. I think you may be mixed up, because you're talking about the income on previous refund doesn't -- doesn't impact -- or the 4 percent doesn't impact that.
Q. This is -- this is an attempt to value Mr. Daugherty's use of the money, right?
A. Agreed.

Q. Okay. Is 4 percent fair?
A. I do not believe so.
Q. How much lower than 4 percent do you think it should be?
A. I don't have an opinion on that.
Q. But is it fair -- you don't -- you haven't spent any time thinking about that either, right?
A. It -- that's another variable that could be lower and it could be higher.
Q. Okay. But we're here telling the Court that 4 percent is the right number. Is it fair to say that it's somewhere between zero and 4?
A. I believe it is equally likely to be zero to 4 as well as higher.
Q. Okay. But we're not asking you to do higher, right?
A. I believe the Court has that discretion.
Q. Okay. And then -- and then the last question I have is in terms of finality. Can you turn to, I think it's 15, Exhibit 15, Plaintiff's Exhibit 15?
A. Yes, sir, I'm there.
Q. Okay. So this is the 4605, this is the field audit report that was completed in December of 2017, right?
A. This is -- this is one page from it, yes.
Q. Okay. And according to this page the adjustment that's being made by the field audit as a result of the audit is that there's $166,332,713 of adjustments that are being applied here, correct?

A. Of portfolio income, yes.

Q. Okay. That number has never changed, correct?

A. I'm sorry, do what?

Q. That number has never changed, to the best of your knowledge, correct?

A. To the best of my knowledge, I have not seen that number change.

Q. And the appellate office is not going to conduct a new audit, correct?

A. I -- I have not seen indications of such.

Q. Have you ever heard of the office of appeals and the IRS conducting an audit?

A. I have -- in terms of conducting an audit, no. In terms of adjusting a number, yes.

Q. Okay. But the -- I'll just leave it at that.

That number is the exact same number that is scenario five in Mr. Klos' chart, right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And you have never heard the IRS suggest that there should be a greater adjustment, correct?

A. I have not seen documents to such.

MR. MORRIS: No further questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I've got a few questions for you, Mr. Liles-Tims.

THE WITNESS: Sure.

THE COURT: I'm going to be looking at, it's Plaintiff's Exhibit 59, which is your report. And in particular I'm looking at page 9.

So the chart that you have there that goes through this process, I just want to make sure that I'm clear because I don't -- I've never handled tax matters. Once the field examiner has come out and stated what they believe the adjustment should be, other than through negotiations, does that adjustment change?

THE WITNESS: In -- sorry, were you finished?

THE COURT: Yeah, I'm finished. Sorry, yes.

THE WITNESS: So it typically does not change on paper as much as it changes in terms of formality where we saw the -- the 4506 as well as the 886. Those two forms typically don't change. However, settlement agreements and so on and so forth may specify a different number.

THE COURT: Okay. And typically speaking, is it your experience that in those settlement negotiations that is the highest number that they're working from? In other words, they don't go into a negotiation and ultimately come out and say, you now owe us 1. -- sorry, 180 million?

THE WITNESS: So there's two parts to that question. That number typically does not change. However, when you add in penalties and interest, there are times where that number becomes larger because they're adding on penalties and interest to that number.

THE COURT: And would that -- would the 166 million, would the penalties and interest be added to the 166 at the Highland Capital level, or would it be added to the partners when they file their amended returns?

THE WITNESS: That is an excellent question. And it can happen on both -- on both scenarios.

THE COURT: Okay. Are you aware whether or not the 166 includes penalty and interest as it pertains to Highland Capital, the entity?

THE WITNESS: Based off of the 886 and the 4506, it does not include penalties and interest.

THE COURT: Okay. And then what would be the highest rate of penalty that could be imposed on that number?

THE WITNESS: That is where the -- the Title 26 IRC 6662 comes into play. And it specifies a range between, again, 20 and 30 percent. And if it's viewed as a corporation, which there's question of that because in technicality it's not a corporation, it would be 30 percent. Otherwise it would be 20.

THE COURT: If the IRS adds penalty and interest to the 166 million, do they have the right to add penalty and interest at the partner level on the return of Mr. Daugherty?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE COURT: Since it's already been assessed at Highland?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay. Can a penalty ever be higher than 30 percent?

THE WITNESS: I have not seen documentation to indicate higher than 30 percent outside of outright fraud.

THE COURT: Okay. And to your knowledge there's no allegation of outright fraud on this case?

THE WITNESS: I have not seen any, no, sir.

THE COURT: Okay. Continuing with your diagram here. If they never come to an agreement or settle this matter and it goes to either the Tax Court or Federal Court, as I understand the process, at any point can the Tax Court or the Federal Court impose a higher number than the 166, separate and aside from penalties and interest?

THE WITNESS: Separate and aside from penalties and interest, I have not seen that in my experience.

THE COURT: Okay. But it has a possibility of going down?

THE WITNESS: It does, yes, sir.

THE COURT: Okay. I think Mr. Morris kind of hit this, but I just want to make sure. We neither got Mr. Daugherty's partnership interest based on the K-1 and the 886Z form or based on this second amendment to the second amended partnership agreement, those are the two numbers that are out there, to your knowledge?

THE WITNESS: To my knowledge, yes, sir. Those are the two most recent.

THE COURT: Okay. Do you know what -- at what percentage Mr. Daugherty filed his return when he filed the return?

THE WITNESS: It would be the -- what was in the 886, which is, I believe, the .7403.

THE COURT: Okay. And if -- when the time comes for Mr. Daugherty to amend his return, if he amends his return and maintains what's in the K-1 or on the 886Z form, would the IRS have to audit him in order to change that number to what is stated in the second amendment to the second amended partnership agreement?

THE WITNESS: Sure. So there's -- there's two parts to that. Number one is that once a settlement is made, then that number has to be basically flow through the partnership agreement for proper allocations. So it's possible that that .7403 changes based off of that number. So for instance, if it settles at the 166 million, it has to abide by that partnership agreement and have allocations of profits and losses and so on and so forth. So it's possible that number changes. To the extent that we are to assume the .7403, from there then, I'm sorry, you asked another question there that had to deal specifically with that. Can you reask that.

THE COURT: Yeah. My question is is if he's filed his return with the .7403, I believe, and the audit issue on Highland is done, they issue new K-1s, he amends his return based on the .7403, but the partnership agreement says it'.78 whatever the number was, is it not -- does that not change until the IRS audits him? In other words, what's the risk to Mr. Daugherty of it actually coming back and saying, no, you should have been at .7863, or whatever that number is in the partnership agreement?

THE WITNESS: I understand that question. The risk, in my opinion, is not at the IRS level, it's at the issuance of the K-1 level as to whether that number changes.

THE COURT: Okay. So assuming that Highland, I don't know if it's Highland or if it's going to be the tax partner, but whoever issues the new K-1, once that's issued that's what he's going to be using in order to amend his return and recognize what should have been income back in 2008.

THE WITNESS: Based on an assumption of this is final determination then, yes, I would agree.

THE COURT: Okay. There's been conversation or testimony about 35 percent being the highest for individual income tax rate. Is this issue, would it be at the individual income tax rate, or would there be some other applicable rate that would apply in this situation with Mr. Daugherty?

THE WITNESS: That is an excellent question. And this is a partnership and so, therefore, the income flows through to the individual and therefore only the individual's tax rate is applicable.

THE COURT: Okay. And am I correct at that rate highest could be 35 percent?

THE WITNESS: From a federal perspective, yes. It's possible that it's higher, that it's higher due to, as I said, the allocations of income and everything. More likely than not, 35 would be the highest.

THE COURT: Okay. And it's your testimony, if I have it correct, that you have no idea, or you're unable to estimate or give the Court a timeline of when you believe this would be resolved?

THE WITNESS: No, sir.

THE COURT: No, sir, you can't give me a timeline, or, no, sir, you can?

THE WITNESS: No, sir, I cannot give you a timeline. These audits are -- take on their own life.

THE COURT: Okay. And I realize you testified you did not do anything with the blended rate. But in your opinion, and based on your expertise, what do you believe would be the range of the highest rate of interest and accrual by the IRS that would be applicable to this situation?

THE WITNESS: Sure. So effectively the best way to answer that is to look at what the interest was over that period of time. And it ranged anywhere from 3 percent to 9 percent. And so, again, you would look at what is that blended rate actually compounding daily that interest to determine a blended rate. But it would be somewhere between 3 and 9 percent.

THE COURT: Okay. So let me make sure that I understand. Your dispute with this calculation is what is the blended interest rate amount, not in the methodology used to calculate the interest. Does that make sense?

THE WITNESS: It's actually the reverse.

THE COURT: Okay.

THE WITNESS: I don't take as much issue with the 4.59. I don't believe it is an accurate blended rate. It's the calculation of its use. And it goes back to the testimony of the Rule of 72 where what you would do is you would take -- and to get technical on a compounded daily matter it's not 72, it's 69.3 divided by the interest rate. So you would take 69.3 divided by 4.59. That would give you the number of years that it takes for a specific number to double. And so when you look at this demonstrative, the issue that I take is looking at, let's say column 3 there, the interest being accrued is off of the $215,488. And so the proper use and the compounding daily would indicate that at 10 1/2 years, that number of $215,488 should have almost doubled. And it clearly hasn't by the $103,860.

THE COURT: Okay. So is it fair to say that you believe that this is just a simple interest calculation of how they got to the interest number as opposed to the compounding daily?

THE WITNESS: It's either that or they've made a calculation error in trying to determine what a present day value is versus a future day value.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. I believe those are the questions that I have. I'm going to allow either party to ask any questions that they might have based on the questions of the Court.

MR. BURLEY: Nothing further from us, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Mr. Morris?

MR. MORRIS: If I may just have one moment?

THE COURT: That's fine.

MR. MORRIS: I have nothing further, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. You may be excused. Thank you.

MR. YORK: He may be fully excused, right, Your Honor, Mr. Liles-Tims?

THE COURT: Mr. Liles-Tims, yeah. Mr. Morris, are you fine with that?

Yeah, he's excused.

MR. YORK: Thank you, Judge.

MR. MORRIS: Highland calls Jim Seery.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Seery.

And, again, my law clerk will go ahead and swear you in.

(The witness was sworn by the Court's law clerk.)

THE COURT: You may proceed.

JIM SEERY

The witness, having been duly sworn to tell the truth, testified on his oath as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q. Good afternoon, Mr. Seery.

A. Good afternoon.

Q. Are you currently employed?

A. I am, yes.

Q. By whom?
A. Highland Capital.
Q. How long have you been with Highland?
A. Six years.
Q. Can you describe for the Court the circumstances under which you joined Highland Capital?
A. I was selected in early 2020 in January to be one of two independent directors. The two independent directors then selected the third independent director for Highland in bankruptcy. That was approved by the Bankruptcy Court. And then subsequently I became the CEO of Highland Capital, also approved by the Bankruptcy Court.
Q. Do you recall when you became approved to serve as the CEO of Highland?
A. The order was in July of 2020. It was nunc pro tunc until some time in March when I'd been the lead director and running it any way.
Q. And did there come a time when Highland proposed a plan of reorganization?
A. Yes.
Q. Did there come a time when it was confirmed?
A. Yes.
Q. Did there come a time when it was effective?
A. Yes.
Q. Did your role at Highland change after the effective date?

A. After the effective date the CRO title dropped and I just became the CEO. In addition, because the plan has a claimant trust, I became the Claimant Trustee.

Q. All right. Can you just describe for the Court briefly --

A. Sorry, this chair is really tight here. I apologize. There we go. We're closer.

Q. Okay. Can you just describe briefly for the Court your professional background before you got to Highland?

A. Yes. I was a restructuring and finance lawyer for ten years before I went to the business side. The business side for me was investment bank and Lehman Brothers. I ran prop investments in distress, debt, and then ultimately ran the loan businesses globally there, restructuring and a number of other groups aligned with the loan business.

Q. And after leaving Lehman did you join Highland, or did you do anything between?

A. After leaving Lehman, we started our own -- actually went back to the law for a couple of years. Ran a restructuring -- co-ran a restructuring business out of New York for a large law firm. And then ultimately we had our own hedge fund, Long/Short Credit, small billion and a half dollar hedge fund which we ran for about six years.

Q. Okay. Let's cut to the chase here. In your capacity as the CEO of Highland, are you generally familiar with Pat Daugherty?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you understand that he filed certain claims in the Highland bankruptcy case?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you describe your understanding of those claims at a high level?

A. There were multiple claims and they're extremely large, so you'll find them on your system, but you won't find them on the KCC cite because they're really big. They're consolidated in what's called Claim 205. That claim has been settled except for one piece. One piece was an unsecured claim for basically tax indemnity, for lack of a better term and interest of the petition date and that was $2.65 million, roughly.

Q. Okay. And prior to confirmation had a settlement in principle been reached with Mr. Daugherty?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you just describe for the Court the circumstances that led up to that point?

A. We were driving towards confirmation. Had reached -- we'd done mediation with a number of creditors. I don't believe Mr. Daugherty was part of that. But on the side there was separate negotiations with Mr. Daugherty. His claim had been estimated by the Bankruptcy Court for voting purposes. And we had been negotiating and we reached agreement with him on a cash settlement, which included some cash at confirmation, a Class 8 claim, which I think was about 8.25 million. We expected to pay about 70 cents on Class 8. And then a Class 9 claim, which at the time I believe was about 2 million, 2.2 million, and that we expected to pay zero at confirmation.

Q. Did that settlement get consummated?

A. It did not.

Q. Why not?

A. At confirmation we had -- we had reached a settlement with UBS, as well. And UBS had a very large claim. And we announced that settlement and I think we were about to document it shortly. Shortly after confirmation we had not yet documented Mr. Daugherty's settlement. Shortly after confirmation we discovered a massive, what can only be described as a massive fraud involving Highland and UBS and the Highland principals. And we had to go to UBS and tell them, we can't cut your deal, or sign up your deal because we have now discovered this and we have to tell you about it before we consummate a deal. We very quick told them about it. And very quickly had to renegotiate that deal with UBS. And subsequently that got approved in a public notice. When Mr. Daugherty saw that, he then wanted to renegotiate his deal. His argument was that seeing the fraud that happened, vis-a-vis UBS, gave heft -- more heft to some of his claims for fraud, as well.

Q. And in the ensuing months, did you personally negotiate aspects of what ultimately became the settlement with Mr. Daugherty?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you recall when that settlement was ultimately reached?

A. November 2021. It took -- it took months and months to come to a final agreement. And it didn't move that much from the original settlement we announced in court, but there was more consideration for him, more cash dollars. Bigger both, I believe a bigger Class A claim, but maybe not, but a bigger, I think another million dollars under Class 9. Which again at that time was not expected to get any distribution, but did have option value.

Q. Okay. Can you turn in your binder to Exhibit 5, please?

MR. YORK: Highland 5?

MR. MORRIS: Yes, sir.

A. I've got it.

Q. Is that the settlement agreement you just referred to?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you recall that the following March the Bankruptcy Court approved that settlement?

A. I believe it was beginning of March, yes.

Q. Yep. All right. Let's -- let's focus on the claims here. Are you aware that Mr. Daugherty has a breach of contract claim and a claim for specific performance relating to certain books and records?

A. Yes. Yes. So the breach of contract claim being the tax claim, if you will. And the books of records claim which I thought was a damage claim and a specific performance. But as of this morning, I guess it's a specific performance.

Q. Let's go to paragraph 8 and let's just deal with the books and records claim, if we can.

In the middle of paragraph 8 there's a sentence that says, "Such transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP system." Do you see that?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Do you understand that that is the basis for Mr. Daugherty's books and records claims?

A. I don't understand that that sentence is the basis of Mr. Daugherty's claims. I understand that he's saying we may not have adhered to that sentence. But his complaint is entirely different from that, as your demonstrative showed and anyone reading the complaint can see.

Q. Let's --

A. His counterclaim.

Q. -- let's just talk about HERA and ERA for a moment. As the CEO of Highland do you have an understanding of what HERA was?

A. Yes.

Q. What's your understanding of what HERA was?

A. So it was called Highland Employee Retention Assets and it was a vehicle that was set up after the 2008 financial crisis. Passive assets that Highland had were put into this vehicle to sit there and hopefully accrue value. And that would then ultimately go to certain Highland employees who had -- who became vested over time. So it was a delayed way to give them investment in the business and upside that would get paid out over time.

Q. All right. Just focusing on HERA, did HERA have any employees at any time, to the best of your knowledge?

A. No. No, it did not.

Q. Did HERA have any operations at any time, to the best of your knowledge?

A. No, it did not.

Q. Did HERA lease any of its own office space at any time, to the best of your knowledge?

A. No, it did not.

Q. Did HERA have its own server at any time, to the best of your knowledge?
A. No, it did not.
Q. Did HERA have its own email address at any time, to the best of your knowledge?
A. No, it did not.
Q. Let's go to ERA. Can you explain to the Court your understanding of what ERA is?
A. So HERA was a -- the vehicle was a limited liability company. Limited liability companies are designated by the interest in them or membership interests. And they are managed, unlike a corporation which is managed by a board of directors and officers, typically a limited liability company is managed by a managing member. ERA was the managing member of HERA. And that structure came into being in 2012, '13, that part of the structure.
Q. Did ERA have any employees of its own?
A. No.
Q. Did ERA have any operations of its own?
A. No.
Q. Did ERA lease any office space of its own?
A. No.
Q. Did ERA have its own server?
A. No.
Q. Did ERA have an email address?

A. No.
Q. Did ERA have any books and records?
A. Not really. Very -- almost nothing. It just didn't have really anything. It didn't have financials. It was disregarded. It didn't have tax returns, I'm sorry, because it was disregarded. So it really didn't have very much of anything.
Q. Going back to paragraph 8, you'll agree that Highland agreed in that paragraph to transfer its interest in HERA and ERA to Mr. Daugherty?
A. Yes. So this was a late add in those negotiations. And Mr. Daugherty wanted these entities transferred to him. They didn't have any value to Highland. They didn't have any assets. So we agreed to transfer them very carefully.
Q. Okay. Can you go to Exhibit 52, please?
A. I'm there.
Q. Okay. The second page there's a document entitled transfer agreement. Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. And is that your signature on the second page?
A. That is, yes.
Q. And did Mr. Daugherty sign it on the same day that you did?
A. Yes.
Q. And is this the document by which Highland transferred its interest in ERA to Mr. Daugherty?

A. That's right. This is the ERA as opposed to the HERA membership transfer agreement.

Q. And I see interest is a defined term in this document; is that right?

A. That's correct.

Q. And what does interest mean for purposes of this document?

A. It's the membership interest in ERA that would be standard when transferring the membership interest.

Q. Let's go to the next document. Is there a second transfer agreement in Exhibit 52?

A. Yes. This is the one related to HERA.

Q. Okay. And what is being transferred pursuant to this agreement?

A. Once again this is a transfer of the membership interest of HERA to Daugherty. HERA's a little bit different because of the original structure and the way employees -- I mentioned they had to vest. It had two different kinds of members interest. I think they call them common units and Series A preferred units, which is here. And so those are the membership interests that are transferred to Daugherty pursuant to this agreement.

Q. Okay. Let's go back to the settlement agreement, Exhibit 5, paragraph 8, page 10. The next --

A. Sorry. Page 10, yes.

Q. Yeah. Going back -- going back to the middle again where it says, "Such transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on HCMLP's system." Are you familiar with that particular sentence?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that sentence the subject of negotiations?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know who conducted those negotiations?

A. I did.

Q. And who did you negotiate with?

A. Pat Daugherty.

Q. And what do you recall about those negotiations?

A. After this provision was added, which related to the HERA and ERA interests, Daugherty said, I also want the HERA and ERA books and records. And we want it to be very clear that we didn't want any involvement with HERA and ERA and anything he thought he might be doing with HERA and ERA. So I went to my people and said, What do we have? My people meaning Dave Klos, who you saw, my general counsel. We searched our records. Dave told me, we don't have anything. We just have a spreadsheet. We have corporate books and records, general counsel told me, resolutions. There's no giant set of books and records and they're all in different places. So we'll have to go find them.

So I went back to Daugherty and said, we don't have much. We'll give you what we have of the HERA and ERA books and records. But you should know, it's going to be very small. We're just taking them off our system. We're not going looking for anything. And we're not going to incur any costs or expenses related to this.

Q. Is that concept of not incurring costs, is that reflected in the agreement in this paragraph 8?

A. Yes.

Q. And where is that?

A. Such transfer will be without any liability or material cost to HCMLP, or its affiliates, or the other HCMLP released parties, including any liability with respect to any assets that HERA and ERA ever actually or allegedly owned, possessed, controlled, and that were actually allegedly transferred, conveyed, sold, written off, or otherwise disposed of in any such case or disposition.

Q. And what was -- what was your intent in including that provision?

A. The intent of including that provision and a couple of others and throughout, you have the transfer. And then after that for the remaining page, onto the next page, are a bunch of limitations. When we -- when Daugherty asked for a HERA and ERA transfer, we said, we'll assign you these entities, because they're -- have the sleeves off our vest, really. Well, we don't want anything to do with whatever you're going to do with them. We don't want any liability and we don't want any costs. So we'll -- then he wanted the books and records. We said, we'll give you the books and records. But, again, it's a limited subset of things. We're going to provide them to you. But we don't want anything else to do with them. We don't want this to be at any cost to us.

Q. Okay. Back up to the sentence that begins, Such transfer will include. Do you have any recollection as to why the parenthetical spreadsheet is included there?

A. Yes.

Q. Why was that term included in a parenthetical?

A. Because when I called Dave Klos and said, what do we have? He told me that we had -- they weren't running -- the financials for HERA and ERA were not run on Highland's accounting system, they were run on QuickBooks. Highland used our -- and so he told me all we have is QuickBooks, so we'll give you the output from QuickBooks. I believed that just to be a spreadsheet. I thought we were actually going to have to print it out and deliver it to him. It turns out we could deliver that electronically.

Q. Okay.

A. And we can give him the full output of the QuickBooks for HERA and ERA.

Q. After -- after the Court approved the settlement, did Highland take steps to implement it, the agreement?

A. Yes.

Q. What steps did it take?

A. There's a number of releases contained in here. There was obviously the payments that we needed to make under the settlement agreement. We also began assembling these books and records of HERA and ERA for Daugherty. And we worked on that for the next, I think about month and a half.

Q. And the membership interest in HERA and ERA were transferred?

A. They were almost done. That was the exhibit we were on. I thought those were done almost right a way. Because that's pretty straightforward and easy to do. It's just a transfer agreement of the LLC membership interest.

Q. Was there any litigation that needed to be addressed or resolved pursuant to the settlement agreement?

A. Yeah. I thought -- my apologies, I thought I mentioned it. There was a number of litigations. I think Daugherty wanted some partial vacatur of judgments that were against him in Texas court. I think they were dismissed. They, but not us were dismissing a Delaware action. I don't recall if we had one to dismiss, as well, because there were -- there were several actions and there might have been counterclaims. So we addressed all those things. So it was litigation issues, the payments, and then the transfer of the membership interest and then the follow up with the books and records of HERA and ERA.

Q. Other than the HERA and ERA books and records, is there any aspect of the settlement agreement that Mr. Daugherty has ever contended Highland hasn't complied with, to the best of your knowledge?

A. No. I think it's worked out extremely well for him.

Q. Okay. Let's go -- and after the settlement approved, did Highland make efforts to produce the HERA and ERA books and records that were maintained on Highland's system?

A. Yes.

Q. Can we go to Exhibit 2, please? Starting with my email at the bottom of the first page that continues on to the top of the second page. Can you just let me know if you're familiar with that document?

A. Yes.

Q. And what -- what is that document?

A. This is the transmit. You've got an internal email here just showing everybody what you're doing to, your counsel. And we're delivering these through counsel, meaning the books and records that we've assembled for HERA and ERA. And you were delivering it to Daugherty's counsel. And this is the -- the first letter is you basically just showing us, you know, how we're going to get this done and making sure that you're saying it correctly. And you gave us a copy of this letter, as your practice, to make sure that I approved it.

Q. And do you recall that Highland provided a link with certain HERA and ERA books and records?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you recall that Highland also provided further emails with zip files that contained additional tax related documents and other business records?

A. Yeah. These were all of the corporate books and records. So all of the normal corporate formations, resolutions, director consents, whatever we had in the corporate files that we could assemble.

Q. Uh-huh.

A. And then all of the financials, so the complete output from Oracle -- not Oracle, I'm sorry, from QuickBooks and any of the historical tax filings of HERA, again, ERA was disregarded. And then any other corporate documents that we had assembled at that time.

Q. Okay. And then in the last substantive paragraph I wrote, "We believe this production completes HCMLP's obligations under paragraph 8 of the settlement agreement, although Highland is making a final review to be certain and will produce any additional records it may identify." Have I read that correctly?

A. You have, yes.

Q. Did you authorize me to send that -- to include that in this email?

A. I did. And it's true. We did a lot of work to get these documents delivered. These were all of the books and records that we have for HERA and ERA, all of the financial records of HERA and ERA. Historical tax returns, as I said. And we thought we had complied with everything in -- all the requirements of the settlement agreement at this time.

Q. And to the best of your recollection, did Highland ever agree at any time after May 5th, 2022 that it did not comply with paragraph 8 of the settlement agreement?

A. No, we did not.

Q. Did Highland undertake to do a final review to be certain that there were no further HERA and ERA books and records?

A. I believe that was just -- we didn't do a final additional review. I believe Dave wanted to just -- Dave Klos wanted to just double check that he had one other thing. And if he determined that that was already been produced, so that's fine. And then on the next page you do see what was actually transmitted. This was the first of the transmittals. So this is 38.9 megs, a lot of data. And then there were two other files which bring the total from this delivery over 50 megs.

Q. Okay.

A. Thousands of pages.

Q. Did there come a time when Highland produced more information to Mr. Daugherty?

A. There did. Mr. Daugherty is nothing, if not persistent. And continued to harangue me for backup information related to the books and records and the financials that we provided.

Q. And did there come a time when you personally wrote to Mr. Daugherty to address that issue?

A. Well, we actually talked to him a couple of times. I think that's some of the tape recordings he has with me and Mr. Klos. We did not know we were being taped. And we said, okay, we'll take a look. We'll see what we can find. And really put David Klos on the job to go find as many backup documents as he could find related to the QuickBook records of HERA.

Q. Can you go to Exhibit 3, please?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that an email that you sent to Mr. Daugherty in October 2022 on the topic of books and records?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you describe for him the documents that were being produced?

A. Yes. As you can see, this is a detailed email and it's -- it was thoughtfully put together because at this point I'd already been dragged into Mr. Daugherty's stalking dispute with Mr. Ellington. And I really wanted nothing more to do with any of these folks. So we put together a comprehensive filing. We resent him all of the corporate docs as you see there; the HERA governing docs, the amendments, the assignments, correspondence. And really wanted to spell it out so I was clear that somebody could see what we gave. We gave all the HERA docs. We resent the QuickBook docs. And then we actually went out and did a lot of work to get backup documents. And this was, I believe, over 100 megs of data.

Q. And did you tell Mr. Daugherty in this email, "Well, we believe the information already provided satisfied HCMLP's undertakings under the settlement agreement, you were nevertheless going to provide additional information that was requested"?

A. Yes. This was really responding to his request for backup. We thought when we did the prior delivery in May that we were done. And this was a follow up to say, okay, we'll redeliver all of those documents to you. And we did more work finding backup documents that you said you were interested in. And we found really the vast majority of anything that could have been related to the financials that we'd previously delivered.

Q. And can you read for the Court what you wrote there in the last paragraph beginning, upon transmission?

A. Oh, you mean the second to the last.

Q. Yeah. Last substantive paragraph.

A. Upon transmission of the information described above, HCMLP will have satisfied all of its obligations under the settlement agreement. And our involvement with HERA/ERA (your entities) will be complete. Of course, to the extent one-off questions come up, you're always welcome to contact me. Best of luck with these entities.

Q. Okay. And was there any further communications in the weeks that followed concerning your email and the documents that were produced by Highland?

A. I thought not. But then in preparing for this hearing, I noticed that there were a couple of back and forth. And really they related to telling Mr. Daugherty, look, we want to take down this large share file site that we put up for you. I want to make sure you have gotten these documents and downloaded everything that you think you need. And so there's a couple of emails back and forth on that. And I think you've got them in an exhibit somewhere.

Q. It's 51.

A. Okay.

Q. Can we turn to Exhibit 51?

Is this the back and forth that you just referred to that followed your delivery of the October 19th email to Mr. Daugherty on the topic of books and records?

A. Yes. So it starts -- and I'm not sure of the order of these. I assume it starts with the most recent to the lease. And it starts with our outside consultants at the time, DSI, making sure that Daugherty and his counsel had full access to the share file that we previously posted to let them know that if they needed help, DSI was available to do that. And then you'll see in the prior emails it looks like maybe Daugherty had had trouble getting to it. So we wanted -- we told him that we were going to take the site down, so we wanted to make sure that he got everything. And then the subsequent emails show that it's really just -- all of these emails were put to follow up with the original email, delivery email that I sent on October 19th.

Q. To the best of your recollection, in the weeks and months that followed did Mr. Daugherty complain about the scope of the documents that Highland had provided in response to Section 8?

A. No, he did not.

Q. And in the weeks and months that followed, did Mr. Daugherty dispute Highland's contention that it had complied with the books and records provision of Section 8?

A. No, he did not. I don't even think I spoke to him.
Q. Do you recall if Mr. Daugherty ever raised the issue again?
A. I don't believe until we got the counterclaim, although his counsel, I think, raised it with you.
Q. So go to Exhibit 53, please.
Do you recall that in late January 2024, approximately 15 or 16 months after your October 2022 email, Mr. York wrote to me and asked for additional documents concerning HERA?
A. I see that, yes.
Q. And is this -- did you see this letter on or about the time that it was sent?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall if we responded?
A. I think we did not respond, at least not initially. We were quite sure we had already satisfied all of our obligations. We really wanted nothing to do with what he was doing with this entity, or any litigations he might be trying to bring. And the letter actually had some very odd provisions in it, so I know we discussed them and took a little bit of umbrage at them. But we didn't do anything.
Q. Okay. If you can go to Exhibit 54. Do you see at the bottom of the second page you'll see a copy of Mr. York's email that attached the letter we just looked at and then he followed up on March 1st; do you see that?

A. Yes.
Q. And do you see that he says that he was attaching a copy of a complaint that was filed?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you have any knowledge that a complaint was being filed in the Northern District of Texas?
A. I knew Mr. Daugherty intended a lawsuit against someone, I assumed it was Dondero and Okada, because that's what he always complained about.
Q. Uh-huh.
A. But I did not know that this was being filed at this time. And I certainly had not seen it before it was filed.
Q. And if you go to the prior page, do you recall that I responded after the weekend?
A. Yes. I think we went back to Mr. York and told him we previously gave you everything we're required to give you under your agreement. And that's that.
Q. Okay. Do you recall that Mr. Daugherty pressed one more time for more documents and information concerning or related to HERA?
A. Yes. I believe it was one of his other counsel, the counsel who brought the action in the Northern District of Texas.
Q. Can we go to Exhibit 4, please?

Do you recall that on May 10th another lawyer for Mr. Daugherty, Mr. Bobo, wrote to me on the topic of HERA and ERA documents?

A. Yeah. To be fair, he's a lawyer for HERA, which Daugherty now owns all of the membership interest in because of our transfer.

Q. Okay. I appreciate that. Do you see at the bottom of the second page Mr. Bobo write after quoting -- after purporting to quote from paragraph 8 of the settlement, "This language is neither ambiguous nor confusing and includes all books and records that Highland has related to HERA without caveats or conclusions." Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you understand at that time that Mr. Bobo on behalf of HERA was seeking documents that Highland had that were related to HERA?

A. Yeah. This is -- this is a follow up of what Mr. Daugherty sought for backup, which weren't books and records and HERA and ERA, but things that related to their financials. And it's evolved since then to be this type of language and the others that we see in the counterclaim and in the various pleadings.

Q. If we went back and looked at the settlement agreement, did Highland have any obligation to give HERA anything at any time?

A. No.
Q. Okay. Do you see that at the end of Mr. Bobo's email he threatened to sue Highland if Highland didn't comply?
A. I recall it. I'd have to find it.
Q. If you look at the last sentence he writes, "Rest assured, your continued refusal to comply with the settlement agreement will result in our seeking enforcement of the same with the Bankruptcy Court."
A. I see that, yes.
Q. Okay. And did you authorize me to respond to Mr. Bobo?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. And did I do so on the prior page?
A. You did.
Q. And did we again tell Mr. Bobo that Highland had complied with all of its obligations?
A. Reiterated that. Explained to him why what he was asking for wasn't part of the contract. And told him if you don't think we're living up to our agreement, you should go to the Bankruptcy Court.
Q. Okay. Did Mr. Daugherty ever come to the Bankruptcy Court before filing his counterclaim in October 2025?
A. Not with respect to this, no.

Q. Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I just have one or two more questions on this topic and then just a couple of more after that.

May I just show him the demonstrative that I used this morning?

THE COURT: Do you mean the slides, or do you mean --

MR. MORRIS: That I used in the opening.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: If you can just go to, I'm looking, Your Honor, at slide 9.

Do you have that, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

Q. Mr. Seery, does the information on slide 9 accurately describe, to the best of your knowledge, the information that was provided to Mr. Daugherty pursuant to paragraph 8 on May 5th and October 19th respectively?

A. Yes. And this -- these are reflected to some degree, certainly on the October 19th, but the May 5th there's less of an explanation, but that's the 40 megs that then you then added on to that becomes over 50 megs of data. And that's the information that was given on May 5th, the HERA/ERA books and records, HERA/ERA historical financials, HERA/ERA historical taxes, full satisfaction. Again, 50 megs of a fair amount of data. And then, as I explained and had in my letter that we just looked at, in October we re-delivered those corporate books and records. We went and found backup for the QuickBooks data that we had already given him. We gave him historical data on Restoration Capital. We gave him historical data on Smith Barney. Why does it end in 2012? Because after that HERA didn't have any more assets. Those assets were swept to Highland. That's actually the basis of Daugherty's original claim that we settled. And we gave him the tracking sheets for all of those assets up to 12. And reiterated that we satisfied our obligations.

Q. Okay. Let's just finish up with a few questions on the reserve claim. Are you aware that Highland is looking to disallow or estimate Mr. Daugherty's reserve claim?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know why it's called a reserve claim?

A. It's called a reserve claim for two reasons. Number one, it's the thing we reserved and didn't decide. But number two, we fully reserved on it. So his claim was filed in the amount of -- full amount on the comp statement, 1.47, I believe, million dollars. And then Daugherty included interest on the addendum to his proof of claim of 1.1. So that takes it up to 2.65. And the 2.65 is what we've reserved and it's been fully reserved since, I think 2023. It's in one of the tolling agreements that's part of the Court docket.

Q. Are you aware that one of the reasons Highland is asking the Court to disallow the claim is based on Highland' contention that the claim has been satisfied to the extent there ever was a claim?

A. Yeah. I think there's three basis that we have to disallow the claim. Number one, there is no contract for indemnity, guaranty, anything else. And I think we've gone through that. That's legal argument. Number two, importantly and sometimes gets overlooked, he received $1.3 million in 2009 from the IRS. And he's had that money for 17 years.

Q. Okay.

A. And then there's the arguments we've talked about before specifically related to his employment agreement, which we think is really the end of the story.

Q. Well, let's look at the employment agreement. If you can look at Exhibit 11. And go to paragraph 3.1(a). Does Highland rely on that paragraph in its first cause of action to disallow Mr. Daugherty's claim in its entirety?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you describe for the Court your understanding of that paragraph and what Highland's position is with regard to it?

A. Yes. Mr. Daugherty claims that the tax refund he got from the IRS was a bonus from Highland, or a payment in lieu of bonus. He would have gotten that tax refund irrespective of anything on a comp statement because he got it because he was a partner in Highland. He had an employment agreement, even though he was an at-will employee. And it's clear in here that he was subject to the terms and abiding by the terms of the employment agreement. If it's a bonus, it's very clear that typically any bonus is going to be paid in installments. It's going to be multiple installments, unless otherwise agreed. He argues that that somehow modifies other parts of the sentence and makes very little -- parts of the paragraph when it's in one sentence. It's very specific and Mr. Daugherty knew this. And every Highland employee has known this and this started as soon as I got into the bankruptcy and was dealing with employees with their deferred bonuses that you must be employed at the time that the bonus is going to be paid. If you are not, it has not been earned and you don't get it. And that's crystal clear in the agreement.

Q. And can you just point the Court to where in the agreement that's crystal clear?

A. It's the second to the last sentence. I'm sorry, third to the last. The executive must be employed on the payment date or dates, parenthetical s, in order to be eligible for the bonus.

Q. Okay. Is there another provision in the employment agreement that Highland relies upon in asking the Court to disallow Mr. Daugherty's claim?

A. Yes. Section 4.5.

Q. And what about that section is Highland relying upon?

A. Mr. Daugherty had an option when he left, as every employee who had a similar provision had. And there were a few people who had contracts. You can either sign the separation agreement and deliver it that's next to this agreement, or -- and then you release Highland and you get your six weeks of severance, or you don't sign it and you don't release Highland. So by signing it, you'd only get six weeks of severance and you'd only get -- for his tenure, because he had enough years. And you would -- but you'd release Highland.

And we've seen a letter earlier, I believe it was in the demonstrative. He attempted to negotiate a different deal and ultimately never signed and delivered Exhibit A.

Q. And what's the consequence of not delivering a separation agreement and release?

A. Oh, it's very clear. In the last sentence it says, In the event the executive declines to sign the separation agreement and release, he/she shall not be entitled to any severance and the company will have no further liability or obligation to the executive under this agreement or in connection with his/her employment or termination.

Q. And do you understand that Mr. Daugherty resigned from Highland in late September 2011?

A. It was 2011, fall, I forget the exact date. But I think you're right around the time.

Q. Can you go to Exhibit 40, please?

Are you aware based on your review of Highland's records that Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Dondero attempted to negotiate a resolution of their disputes after Mr. Daugherty resigned?

A. Yeah. I think it didn't -- there's a long litany of evidence of this, some of which is now in the record of the back and forth. And Daugherty was looking for a different deal. Dondero was looking for a different deal. And they never were able to reach agreement on what that would be.

Q. Okay. But are you aware that on or around October 27th Mr. Dondero sent some separation agreements to Mr. Daugherty?

A. Yes.

Q. And if you turn to Exhibit 41, is it your understanding that that is one of the documents that was attached?

A. That is one of the documents. It was a package of documents, three separate, I believe. And they provided a lot of value to Mr. Daugherty, but they also provided a lot of release to Highland and Mr. Dondero. And a lot of the value, some of it would be paid by Highland, but a bunch of the value would be paid by companies that Highland controlled.

Q. If you take a look at the second page of this letter agreement, directing your attention to Section 3(c)(ii). Do you have an understanding of what that is?

A. Yeah. This is part of paragraph 3. It's rather complicated, complex. It is the separation -- what they call the special separation compensation. And basically (c) is a tax indemnity related to certain tax years. And then (c)(ii) is a broad indemnity that would have covered anything related to -- to this audit. And you've got (c)(iii), as well. Now they also require him, if he -- if Highland provided that value and then subsequently IRS sent him more money, he had to send it back to Highland. So it was a backstop for potential tax liability.

Q. And did Highland agree to pay penalties and interest associated with any notice of tax due that was issued by the IRS with respect to the income being allocated to Mr. Daugherty?

A. It would have if this agreement were put in place.

And this agreement was part of a, as I said, I believe it was a three-part package. So we had to agree to all parts.

Q. Okay. And your understanding is this was never signed; is that fair?

A. This was never signed, no.

Q. Okay. Last couple of questions. Are you aware that under Section 502 the Court shall estimate any contingent claim if the failure to do so will result in the undue delay of the administration of the bankruptcy case?

A. I am. I was a bankruptcy lawyer for ten years.

Q. Does Highland contend that the failure to estimate Mr. Daugherty's claim will unduly delay the administration of the Highland bankruptcy case?

A. Yes.

Q. And why does -- why does Highland contend that?

A. Well, I think you heard Mr. Daugherty's expert say there's no expectation of when this is going to end. What I think's really important to understand in context is this audit took seven years. There were hundreds, and I mean hundreds of IDRs, individual document requests from the IRS that were produced. Ultimately they completed their audit and issued their findings in the end of 2017. We're now nine full years later and we don't have a conclusion. Why? Because the tax matters partner is entitled to appeal. And they have continued to appeal. And it looks like they're going to continue to appeal and they haven't been able to resolve it. And there's no end in sight in Mr. Daugherty's expert's view. And I tend to concur with that.

The case has to resolve. This case is six years old. More than six, six and a half. And it has a finite limit to the life of the claim in trust. The claim in trust had a three-year term. It had two potential discretionary one-year extensions. And as a liquidating trust, it is required not to be in continuing business, but has to have an end date. And without modifying the plan and without taking substantial tax risks related to the treatment of the trust, this thing can't be extended.

Q. And, I'm sorry, can you explain to the -- let me ask -- withdrawn.

If dissolution does not begin on or before August 11, 2026, is it your understanding that there could be adverse consequences for the claim in trust and for Highland?

A. There's a risk for sure. So --

Q. Can you just explain to the Court your understanding of what that risk is?

A. Again, a liquidating trust is not a partnership. It's not a limited liability company. It's not a corporation. And it exists to liquidate and make distributions to creditors. To the extent that it's looked at as a continuing business by the IRS, there could be a risk of adverse tax consequences. But importantly, there is no mechanism to extend the trust. There is no mechanism to go beyond that August 11, 2026 date.

Q. Is it your understanding that the August 11, 2026 date was a date that the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors insisted upon as one of the conditions to agreeing to Highland's plan in the form of claim and trust agreement?

A. It was a key -- it was a key provisions. There's a number of key provisions. They didn't want it to go five years. They wanted it to be done at three. Unfortunately we have not been able to do that and that's why the two extensions were built in to the max five years that we believe we could get.

MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. We've been going at this for about two hours. We're going to go ahead and take a 10-minute recess.

(Brief recess ensued.)

THE COURT: You may proceed, Mr. York.

MR. YORK: Thank you, Your Honor.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. YORK:

Q. Good afternoon, Mr. Seery.

I just want to make sure we get one thing straight. You said you started working at Highland in 2020; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And so you weren't around at Highland back at the time Mr. Daugherty was employed there, right?

A. No.

Q. Or even for about an eight or nine-year period after he resigned, right?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. Okay. And so you weren't involved in the preparation of Mr. Daugherty's compensation in a benefit statement that Highland issued to him in February of 2009, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And you weren't -- you haven't talked to anyone at Highland that was involved in the preparation of that compensation and benefit statement; isn't that correct?

A. I've talked to dozens of people who were at Highland who worked on it, but I have not talked to them about the compensation statement.

Q. Right. And you also were not involved in Mr. Daugherty's -- discussions relating to Mr. Daugherty's resignation and the proposed separation and release agreement, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. Nor have you talked to anyone that was a current or former employee of Highland that was involved in any discussions with Mr. Daugherty about that separation and release agreement, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. All right. And, in fact, if we go to Highland Exhibit 11, let's take a look. That form of separation and release agreement that you spoke about earlier, just to be clear, it is four pages long, isn't it?

A. I'm sorry.

Q. It's four pages long.

A. Exhibit --

Q. 11, Highland Exhibit 11.

A. -- 11. Exhibit A?

Q. Yes, Exhibit A. The form of the separation and release agreement that is listed -- that was attached to Mr. Daugherty's employment agreement. That form of separation and release agreement was only four pages long, correct?

A. It's, yeah, four single space pages, yes.

Q. All right. And if we go then to what is Highland's Exhibit 41, let's just compare real quick. The separation -- the draft of the separation and release agreement that was sent to Mr. Daugherty is a total of, based on the header at the top, 18 pages; isn't that right?

A. Yeah. I think it's 15 -- it goes onto 15 with the signature page and then has a couple of appendices.

Q. All right. One of the things that's in the -- the draft of the separation and release agreement that was sent to Mr. Daugherty is a clause 7 called, use of confidential information. Do you see that?

A. You mean not the one sent to him on his employment agreement, you mean this one?

Q. Correct. Exhibit 41, the version that was given to him around the time that he issued his resignation notice, okay. Paragraph 7 in there is a use of confidential information provision, correct?

A. I see it, yes.

Q. And that clause isn't found anywhere in Exhibit 11, the form of separation and release agreement that was attached to Mr. Daugherty's employment agreement, correct?

A. I don't know.

Q. Go ahead and take a look at Exhibit 11 real quick.

A. You mean Exhibit A.

Q. Exhibit A to Exhibit 11, correct.

A. I don't know what the other one says, but paragraph 5 is a confidentiality provision.

Q. Confidentiality provision? Okay.

What about a --

A. Paragraph 6, I'm sorry. Paragraph 6 is a nondisparagement disruption --

Q. A nondisparagement provision. But does it say confidentiality?

A. Paragraph 5 seems to be confidentiality, because it says, confidentiality requirement.

Q. All right. What about -- well, that's with respect to the agreement, correct?

A. They're definitely different agreements.

Q. Definitely different agreements.

A. Yeah, they're --

Q. Okay. Fair enough.

A. One's next to the employment agreement that he had.

Q. All right.

A. And the other one was part of the negotiations that he was having with Dondero when he left.

Q. All right. So let's then move on to something else that you testified about with respect to Section 4.5 in Mr. Daugherty's employment agreement.

So, again, let's stick with paragraph -- I'm sorry, Exhibit 11, Highland's Exhibit 11. Go to Section 4.5.

A. Yes.

Q. And do you agree with me that on Section 4.5 in the first sentence it states that in the event that the executive, and the executive there refers to Mr. Daugherty; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. Terminates his or her continuous status as an executive hereunder and within one year thereafter the executive is not employed by a competing business, the company shall have no further liability or obligation to the executive under this agreement, or in connection with his or her employment hereunder except for -- and there are a number of exception clauses there; is that right?

A. There are, yes.

Q. One of which is clause 3, any amounts or rights to which the executive is entitled under any other written agreements with the company?

A. That's correct.

Q. Okay. And, in fact, the part at the bottom of Section 4.5 that you were discussing with Mr. Morris earlier, that last sentence says that if the -- in the event that the executive does not sign the form of separation agreement and release that's attached to his employment agreement, he's not entitled to any severance; isn't that right?

A. It says well more than that.

Q. In the last sentence of that paragraph? It says he'd not be entitled to any severance and the company will have no further liability or obligation to the executive under this agreement, correct?

A. Or in connection with his or her employment or termination.

Q. And you don't think that relates back to the severance provision right above it, the severance sentence right above it?

A. I read that to roll over that provision, yes. That if you don't sign the separation agreement, you don't get anything.

Q. Do you agree that Mr. Daugherty had a written agreement in terms of his compensation and benefit statement with Highland?

A. No, I do not agree.

Q. You disagree with that?

A. That's not an agreement, no.

Q. It's not an agreement?

A. No.

Q. Okay. You mentioned earlier that Mr. -- or that Highland had fully satisfied its obligations under the compensation and benefits statement. And how is that?

A. To the extent -- we believe it's not an agreement because it's indefinite. It's vague. And it's missing essential terms to form an agreement. To the extent that someone, meaning the Court, determines that there is an agreement, Highland will satisfy it.

Q. How so?

A. Highland passed through more than $4 million of losses to Mr. Daugherty for 2008 tax year as a partner at Highland. He used those losses on the K-1 that he got. He actually filed it on the draft, but the final K-1 is the same. He actually got more than originally contemplated. He used those losses -- those losses that Highland had on his tax return to generate refunds. Those refunds gave him refunds of taxes previously paid that were distributions that Highland made to him, which is why Highland could calculate how much he would get back. And those were tax distributions that he'd gotten as a partner in prior tax years.

Q. All right. So let's break that down for a second. In terms of the allocation to Mr. Daugherty from Highland's overall partnership losses, on Highland's partnership tax return that was done in 2009, correct?

A. You get your -- your taxes are done on a calendar year.

Q. Right.

A. And the losses were generated in 2008.

Q. And reported in 2009.

A. The losses are generated in 2008. Under the partnership agreement Mr. Daugherty was entitled to a percentage or an allocation of profits or losses. Those losses for 2008 are reflected in his K-1. That K-1 is delivered in 2009 for the 2008 tax year.

Q. Okay. So the K-1 was delivered in 2009, which allowed Mr. Daugherty then to file the tax return which is, to simplify things, allowed him to receive, as you put it, a refund on his tax return for the 2008 year?

A. Not as I put it. He stipulated in the joint pre-trial order.

Q. Yeah. So what that -- just to be clear, though, all of that happened while Mr. Daugherty was still employed at Highland, right?

A. It all did happen while he was employed. But it would not have made a difference because it was under the partnership agreement. If he resigned on January 1, 2009, he would have gotten the same allocation of profits and losses.

MR. YORK: Ms. DeBerg, would you pull up Daugherty Exhibit 14 for me?

Q. The tax refund was listed on Mr. Daugherty's compensation and benefit statement that year as part of his earnings and awards, correct?

A. Yes. It is listed there, yes.

Q. And what you've characterized as a bonus, correct? You've talked about it as a bonus in this case. Mr. Morris has referred to it as a bonus, right?

A. Wrong. Mr. Daugherty in your pleadings characterized it as a bonus. We've said, fine, if you want to call it a bonus, then this provision applies. I don't believe it's actually a bonus. When you have a bonus, it usually says it's a bonus. And if you could find bonus on this piece of paper, then I'll pay you a quarter.

Q. Find the word bonus on here?

A. Yeah.

Q. Actually it's right below that loan forgiven in 2009 as part of bonus.

A. There you go. You got a quarter.

MALE SPEAKER: At a boy.

THE COURT: I was going to say something too, but --

MALE SPEAKER: You can't play. You can't play.

THE WITNESS: I owe Mr. York a quarter. Not in that section, but it does show up on the page, I guess.

Q. But you'd agree with me that in terms of the mechanics of the filing of the tax return by the partnership and the allocation of Mr. Daugherty, all of that happened while Mr. Daugherty was still employed at Highland, correct?

A. It did. But, again, his allocation of profits and losses when he quit, he was a partner. He would have had a tax return for 2011. He wouldn't have gotten a K-1 for 2011.

Q. That's not my question.

A. Even though -- you just asked -- it doesn't matter if he was employed. But, yes, he was employed.

Q. You've argued on the stand as part of your testimony that under Article or Section 3.1 of his employment agreement he had to be employed at the time that the bonus was to be paid, right?

A. I've read that section, correct, yes.

Q. And he received this compensation here under his compensation benefit statement while he was still employed at Highland, correct?

A. He did get the refund while he was still employed at Highland, yes.

Q. Subject, of course, to the fact that it could be audited by the IRS, right?

A. Always.

Q. All right. And by the way, was it Mr. Daugherty's idea to implement this compensation through this tax refund?

A. I don't know if it was his idea or somebody else. I have no idea whose idea it was.

Q. Right. Because you weren't at Highland at the time, right?

A. Nope. No, I was not.

Q. You also testified that Mr. Daugherty had the money for 17 years. Do you actually have any personal knowledge as to what happened to the refund that Mr. Daugherty received on his 2008 return?

A. Yes.
Q. What happened to it?
A. He received the money.
Q. Yeah. And I'm asking after that, what happened to it? Do you have any personal knowledge as to what happened to it after that?
A. What he did with the specific money?
Q. Yes.
A. I mean, money's fungible. I have no idea what he does with his money.
Q. All right. Let's turn to the estimation issue for a second. We've talked a lot about the fact that Highland believes that this can be -- this claim that Mr. Daugherty has can be estimated. And I believe in your direct examination, excuse me, you testified that the IRS refund claim came up in the context of valuing Mr. Daugherty's overall claim for voting purposes in this bankruptcy case in March of 2020. Do you recall that?
A. I don't believe that's what I testified to. It may have, but I don't recall specific discussion around this part of his claim in respect of the estimation in the winter -- end of the year of 2020. I just don't recall.
Q. Do you recall participating, maybe not actively, but at least listening to the hearing in front of Judge Jernigan regarding how Mr. Daugherty's claims overall should be valued for purposes of voting?

A. I'm not quite sure I understand the question. But there's a Webex, but did I -- because it was during COVID, did I -- did I participate? Yes. I definitely was involved. I don't remember if I testified at that hearing or not.

Q. And Mr. Morris was present and participated in that hearing?

A. I'm sure he was.

Q. All right. Do you recall that Mr. Morris informed the Court that Mr. Daugherty's IRS reserved claim was something that could not be calculated?

A. I don't have a specific recollection of what happened in his estimation for voting purposes.

Q. All right.

MR. YORK: Ms. DeBerg, would you put up Daugherty Exhibit 36, please? And if you'd go to page 81, please?

Q. So we're looking here at page 81 of Exhibit 36. This is the transcript from that hearing, Mr. Seery. Mr. Morris starts talking in closing arguments there at line 8. Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. And at line 12 he says, We don't believe it would be just to give him anything on account of a tax claim that is completely contingent, unliquidated and where the debtor admittedly owes absolutely nothing to Mr. Daugherty today.

Did I read that correctly?

A. I believe so, yes.

Q. All right. Did you know then that the Court, Judge Jernigan also said that it wasn't something -- this portion of Mr. Daugherty's claim could not be calculated or estimated for purposes of voting?

A. No. They don't.

MR. YORK: Let's go to page 85 then, Ms. DeBerg.

Q. Starting at line 12. They're discussing the math with respect to Mr. Daugherty's claim. And about line 13 -- or excuse me, line 12 there it says, So what else in that chart gives me pause? She says, The tax refund, the 2008 tax refund component. She says what the number is. And then on line 15, It's very clear that at this point this is at best contingent. And again down the road we may get to a point where it's not contingent. The IRS has finished doing what it's going to do and we may get to a point where we think that a result is appropriate. I don't know. And then -- so what she does is if you go down further at the beginning at line 24 she begins subtracting amounts, which includes the 1.475 million and the estimated interest associated with the IRS tax claim.

Do you see that?

A. I do. But I feel like the bonus thing, you missed the whole part of that estimation.

MR. YORK: And then go to the next page, please, Ms. DeBerg.

A. She just said that we may get to a point where we have to do estimation. I feel like you should all pay me that quarter back.

Q. And so she says there that she's thinking about deducting and she ends up deducting that out of it at the end of the day. Do you understand that?

A. I don't recall exactly. The claim had so many components. But clearly this is dealing with the tax component. Judge Jernigan says that I may get to the point where I have to estimate it. But she didn't want to do it at that time. That's the previous page. And it looks to me that she just deducts the amount that was in the proof of claim. But I'm not -- I'm not really sure.

Q. Well, I'm sure the Court can look back at the transcript, if it wants to.

But let me go to another issue. You talk about that there could be undue delay as a result of this claim if this isn't resolved with an estimation now. Do you remember that?

A. That's correct, yes.

Q. And you talked about how, I believe but I want to make sure I'm correct, but that the claimant trust agreement has -- it's been extended twice; isn't that right?

A. Yeah. Pursuant to its terms it had a three-year initial term and there was a possibility of two, could have done it at one time or two separate ones. We got two separate extensions of one year that were built into the claimant trust agreement.

Q. And Mr. Daugherty's, this remaining claim is the only claim that remains outstanding in the Highland bankruptcy; is that right?

A. That's right. We would hope to get done with this and dissolve the claimant trust and work to just close this thing down now after six plus years.

Q. Okay. But it's possible you could get Mr. Daugherty's approval to extend the claimant trust agreement further, correct?

A. I don't think it's up to Mr. Daugherty.

Q. You could -- you could ask for his permission to do that as the remaining claimant, correct?

A. Could do a lot of things, but it doesn't have the affect of modifying the plan, modifying the claim and trust agreement, dealing with other beneficiaries who have already received distributions and could be negatively affected by it.

Q. The parties -- the parties could agree to it. Obviously it's subject to Court approval. I get that. But that's something that the parties could do and seek Court approval, right? Fair?

A. No, I don't believe so. I think modifying a confirmed plan is a very difficult thing. It's not just a couple of parties coming in and saying, hey, we'd like to modify this plan. Move on. That's just not how the Bankruptcy Code works.

Q. So then let's talk about undue delay again. So Strand is the tax matters partner handling this for Highland, correct?

A. That -- it's a -- we touched on this earlier. Strand is the tax matters partner, full control and authority over the matters related to the pre-petition Highland. We, Highland reorganized, don't have any authority, don't have any visibility, don't have any liability. This is a limited partnership pre-- slight change in the Tax Code. So nothing affects Highland, even pre-petition Highland. It doesn't pay any taxes. It goes to the partners.

Q. Well, isn't there a period in time before the, I think it was the plan was approved, fully aware the independent board of Highland -- I'm sorry. Strike that. Let me back up.

Wasn't there a period of time when the independent board of Highland was in control of Strand?

A. That's correct, yes.

Q. Which included you, correct --
A. That's correct.
Q. -- on board?
A. Yes.
Q. And so the independent board of Highland could have worked through Strand to resolve the IRS audit dispute, couldn't it?
A. It's a good question. We definitely did have Hunton and they were Highland's counsel at that time, because Highland was in bankruptcy and Highland -- and Hunton was handling the negotiations with the -- the IRS. And I don't know if we could have just rolled over and taken the IRS' offer. We certainly would have been sued by Mr. Dondero. Now I'm pretty sure we would have been sued by Mr. Daugherty, as well. So I don't think we ever thought of that. I'm totally speculating. But I know we didn't think of it as we could just accept the audit, the completed audit result and go. But, frankly, at that time I don't think I knew the audit was actually done, too.
Q. But there was a period of time of approximately two years where that was within the control of Highland's independent board?
A. The independent board controlled the tax matter partner, yes.
Q. Okay. Let's go to HERA and ERA and the books and records real quick.

So Mr. Morris asked you a number of questions about who -- or whether HERA had its own servers, own email domains, stuff like that and you answered, no to all those questions. Do you remember that?

A. That's correct, yes.

Q. And so all of the business in terms of communications or documents relating to HERA and ERA were maintained on Highland's servers; is that fair?

A. There was no business. There was assets that were owned at HERA and then there were Highland employees that were the beneficiaries, if they had vested. And there wasn't a separate business. But if there was something that had to be done like keeping the financials updated, those were maintained, as I said, in QuickBooks, not on Highland's system. But they were maintained by Highland employees.

Q. So are you contending, as you sit here today, even though you weren't at Highland at the time, that there were no email communications that went back and forth amongst Highland employees that were handling certain matters with respect to HERA or ERA?

A. No. They're not HERA and ERA's emails. They're Highland emails.

Q. But they related to HERA and ERA, right?

A. Just as if my lawyers have emails amongst themselves, they're not my lawyers -- they're not my emails, they're about me.

Q. And who was the manager of HERA at the time?

A. The manager of HERA at the time before ERA was a board of directors of HERA that, for at least some period of time, Mr. Daugherty was on.

Q. And also Mr. Dondero, correct?

A. I don't think Dondero was a member of the board of HERA. I'm pretty sure he wasn't.

Q. What about other Highland employees?

A. Yeah, there were only Highland employees. They were the beneficiaries. So the ones who would get whatever the benefit from that vehicle was going to be.

Q. What about litigation that HERA or ERA was involved in? Was that being handled by any in-house counsel that were employed by HERA or ERA?

A. No.

Q. Was it being handled by in-house counsel that were employed by Highland?

A. Certain Highland employees would have been involved in that. But outside counsel would have represented HERA. Highland employees only worked for Highland. Meaning as that's who their duty would lie to.

MR. YORK: So let's go to the settlement agreement. Let's go to Highland 5, please.

Q. Go to Section, I think it's 8.
A. Yes.
MR. YORK: Ms. DeBerg, thanks.
Q. All right. We talked about that there would be a transfer of interest with respect to HERA and ERA, correct, as it's written in the settlement agreement?
A. That's correct.
Q. Okay. The term interest there is not a capitalized term, is it?
A. It's a term of art that anybody who deals with corporate forum knows what it is.
Q. It's not a defined term either, is it?
A. No. It's what everybody would know it would mean.
Q. Okay. In fact, the -- in HERA and ERA the ownership mechanism was through something called units, wasn't it?
A. There was -- I testified before, yeah, there are two kind of units and it depended on whether people vested.
Q. Right. So let's go to Exhibit -- Highland Exhibit 52.
So we first have the transfer agreement that's with respect to ERA; isn't that correct? Highland ERA Management, LLC, which we shorthanded as ERA here, correct?
A. That's correct.
Q. Which it uses the capitalized term in this transfer agreement of interest, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. Which it refers back to the membership interest, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And then on the next page, or the next document there, the transfer agreement with respect to HERA, it uses the capitalized term, interest, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. That refers to common -- outstanding common units of HERA and also Series A preferred units of HERA, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And by the way, neither of these transfer agreements contains any provision acknowledging or agreeing by Mr. Daugherty that Highland has fully complied with its obligations to transfer all of the interest, including the books and records of HERA and ERA to him under the settlement agreement, correct?

A. These agreements only deal with the transfer of the membership interest. I don't believe they have any kind of release in them.

Q. And, in fact, the purpose of the settlement agreement was to transfer these, quote/unquote, interests as it's in the settlement agreement to Mr. Daugherty for the purpose of facilitating potential claims against former Highland executives and employees, correct?

A. No. The purpose of the settlement agreement was to settle his claims against Highland.

Q. I apologize. I mis-spoke then. The purpose of the transfer of the interest as it's written in paragraph 8 of the settlement agreement is to facilitate the prosecution, or the potential prosecution of claims against former Highland executives and employees, correct?

A. I don't know if it said exactly what they were against. But it was certainly he thought he could bring claims against at least Dondero and Okada is what I understood it to be. And he wanted to use this entity to try to do that because he previously sued this entity and he thought based on that jury trial verdict that he still might be able to do something with the entity.

Q. Okay. I just want to be clear. Are you -- are you agreeing or disagreeing that the purpose of the transfer of the interest, which included HERA and ERA books and records was to facilitate the recovery of those potential claims?

A. Yeah. You asked me about executives. And it doesn't say anything about who's he going to go sue.

Q. Okay. Now you said that you had concerns about the cost associated with gathering this information. And that was conducted by Mr. Klos and Mr. -- is it Cortoware (phonetic)? Did I pronounce that correct?

A. Cornway, according to -- Conaware (phonetic).

MALE SPEAKER: Ivan Conyia (phonetic).

A. I'm sorry, that was just the Seery, when I asked Seery it says Cornway. But, no, he's Conaware.

Q. The searches for the HERA and ERA materials were conducted by Mr. Klos and Mr. Conaware, correct?

A. Conaware. I don't know if Mr. Conaware participated in that. I don't recall.

Q. Okay. Were these searches something that were -- I mean, Mr. Klos, I assume he's a salaried employee, right?

A. He does get a salary.

Q. And you didn't pay an outside vendor to conduct any of the searches, right?

A. No, we did not pay an outside vendor to conduct any searches.

Q. And you would agree with me, if you turn to Exhibit 53, Highland Exhibit 53, this is my letter dated January 30th of 2024. Let me know when you get there.

A. Yes.

Q. First off, at the very first line of the second paragraph on the first page I say, As Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Seery discussed last summer, Mr. Daugherty and HERA appreciate the documents Highland has provided to date.

Do you see that?

A. I see it.

Q. All right. Do you agree that at some point in the Summer of 2023 you and Mr. Daugherty had a conversation that related to the HERA -- the materials that Highland had provided about HERA?

A. I don't think that's true.

Q. You don't think that's true?

A. No.

Q. Okay.

A. I can tell you why, if you want me to.

Q. No. Hang on. I want to go to the next part.

I then go down and identify that there were email correspondence involving HERA's in-house counsel. And I identified them by name with outside legal counsel at various firms, as well as other email exchanges regarding the transfer of assets, allocation of expenses, et cetera, et cetera, et cetera as I go down there. And a demand was made for Highland to provide that information.

Do you see that?

A. Yes. It generally -- generally I see what you're saying.

Q. And to be clear as we looked at in Mr. Morris' response which was Exhibit, I believe, 54, Highland refused to do so, correct?

A. Yeah. You were asking for what you called in-house counsel at HERA. They were Highland employees, not HERA employees. Then you were asking for not books and records, but you were asking for emails which are not produced, metadata, native format, the pdf -- you certainly weren't asking for books and records. But I do see that.

Q. That's the way you interpreted the agreement?

A. That's the way I'm reading your letter.

MR. YORK: Just one second, Your Honor. Your Honor --

Q. Mr. Seery, you mentioned earlier that it was Mr. Daugherty who was characterizing the tax refund as a bonus. Do you remember that?

A. That's in your pleadings, yes.

Q. All right. Are you aware that Highland in Mr. Daugherty's prior state court litigation had characterized the tax refund as a bonus under the category of bonus?

A. I'm not aware of that.

Q. Okay. I'm going to -- let me show you. I only have an electronic copy.

I'll represent to you, Mr. Seery, that this is what was marked by Highland as Exhibit 131 in that trial. And it's a summary of Mr. Daugherty's compensation. Do you see that?

A. Yep.

Q. And there's a category called bonus on here. Do you see that?

A. Yes, I see it.
Q. And then it's got four subcategories underneath bonus which is bonus, spot bonus, tax refund, and loan forgiveness. Do you see that?
A. Yep.
Q. And in 2000 -- February of 2009 for Mr. Daugherty the tax refund under bonus it has the $1.475 million number, the same one that's on his compensation of benefits statement, right?
A. I believe that is, what, 2013, yeah. Something like that.
Q. Yep. For 2009.
A. I don't know if I've ever seen this document before.
Q. You've never seen this before?
A. I don't know.
Q. Okay.
A. I just don't specifically recall that one.
THE COURT: Hold on one moment, Mr. York. Okay. I just wanted to make sure that the record picks it up.
MR. YORK: Sorry.
THE COURT: No, you're doing fine. It was -- I'm not blaming Mr. York. But because he was closer over there, he wasn't in front of a microphone.

MR. YORK: Apologies, Mike.
THE COURT: Okay.
MR. YORK: Your Honor, I'm going to move to admit this as, I believe it will be Daugherty's 99. And I've got -- we'll get an electronic copy uploaded after the hearing.
THE COURT: Can you tell me what it is?
MR. YORK: It is -- I'll describe it as it was -- it's a summary of Mr. Daugherty's compensation while he was at Highland that was marked by Highland as an exhibit in the prior state court action between Highland and Mr. Daugherty.
THE COURT: And it was -- what was the exhibit? It was an exhibit in what?
MR. YORK: In the prior state court litigation between Highland and Mr. Daugherty.
THE COURT: Go back over in front of the microphone, please. I've got some more questions.
MR. YORK: Sure.
THE COURT: Is this a Delaware case? Is it Texas?
MR. YORK: Texas.
THE COURT: But not before this Court?
MR. YORK: Correct. It was in state court.
THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Morris?

MR. MORRIS: Why wasn't this on their exhibit list? They objected to our documents in the Texas state court matter and now they don't put them on their exhibit list and they're offering them in the middle of a hearing?

MR. YORK: I'm offering it simply as impeachment to his testimony earlier that it's -- we're -- saying we're the ones characterizing it as a bonus. Highland is the one who characterized it as a bonus back then.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. YORK: Which by -- sorry.

THE COURT: You've seen the document, correct, Mr. Morris?

MR. MORRIS: I've seen the document.

THE COURT: And they've shown you on the screen?

MR. MORRIS: It's fine, Your Honor. Objection withdrawn.

THE COURT: Okay.

Daugherty's Exhibit 99 will be admitted.

MR. YORK: All right. Your Honor, pass the witness.

MR. MORRIS: I have nothing further, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. I do have some questions for your, Mr. Seery. And forgive me, these are probably going to be some really basic questions that you're probably going to be going, what's going on? But --

THE WITNESS: It's six years.

THE COURT: -- please understand, I haven't had this case.

THE WITNESS: I understand, Your Honor.

THE COURT: So one of the things that I'm trying to understand as it pertains the claimant trust and Highland Capital Management, my first question is this, is Highland Capital Management still operating?

THE WITNESS: Yes. So very, very minimally, but we still are operating. So we -- the employees who were listed on the release, which I'm at the top of Mr. York showed previously and Mr. Daugherty is (inaudible word). Those were the -- there had been 75 employees, roughly, at Highland. That was the team that I selected and took to be the reorganized Highland. And that was -- I didn't need 75 folks. I needed 13 really good ones. And so that's the group that took over to manage these assets, manage claims, and there were a lot of assets. And we've done that now for six years and have been incredibly successful in making distributions.

The plan was reorganization of Highland and then a claimant trust would sit above it. All the claims would get converted to different classes of trust interests in this liquidating trust. The ones for our purposes that are important is Class 8, general unsecured, Class 9, which is the subordinated class that we sort of put in place for iffier claims, if you will. Because we -- they were much more speculative claims and much more speculative recovery. And then Class 10, which was senior unvested contingent partnership interests. Those go to Hunter Mountain Investment Trust. And then Class 11, which is senior -- or subordinated partnership interests that are also contingent, unliquidated, unvested. But they're now liquidated because we had a hearing on it.

We have since wound down almost all of the assets. And we have along the way reduced the size of our team so that we have a much smaller team now that we're holding together. It's really just four of us left. And we're down to pretty minimal assets that we can manage. We have claims we have to still pay off, but we have money in the indemnity trust to do so. And we'll be winding down and dissolving the claimant trust by August 11th. And then we'll only have an entity that can continue and that's the indemnity trust. So we hope to have all of the claims resolved. If Mr. Daugherty's claim is disallowed, then there will be no payment on it. If it's allowed and then estimated for some amount, there will be a payment on it that's fully reserved. He'll get his payment. We'll be done. A prerequisite to dissolving the claimant trust is that all claims are resolved. And this is the last one. So once that's done, we'll basically be winding everything down.

Now we do -- we'll probably still have appeals with Mr. Dondero, because that's just the nature of it. But that will be funded and handled by the indemnity trust. And the claimant trust will ultimately go away.

THE COURT: Okay. The funds that will -- let me rephrase that.

Assuming that the Court estimates a claim and that claim was estimated for an amount less than the reserve, the funds that are remaining after the payment of that claim from the reserve, where do they go?

THE WITNESS: So they'll be used to continue the operations, the wind-down operations. There's always required to keep somebody around to turn off the lights, including dealing with the tax man who has to -- we have yet to file final returns. Then ultimately those will go up to the indemnity trust. To the extent that the indemnity trust doesn't have any more indemnification obligations that it has to deal with, and that really has to address a lot of, frankly, litigation that you'll hear more about in a few weeks, then it ultimately will get distributed to Hunter Mountain Investment Trust which is the Class 11 holder. There's a little piece that's owned by an entity called H

Clom (phonetic), which Dondero owns, but has really no rights and just a right to some distribution. So ultimately if, frankly, it's me as the indemnity trust administrator, I'm completely certain that there's no liability for anybody who might be indemnified or any entities that might have been indemnified, then we'll start making distributions to Hunter Mountain Investment Trust.

THE COURT: Okay.

THE WITNESS: And they have a $320ish million claim. There's about $45 million that ultimately could get distributed to them.

THE COURT: Okay. And so once that is done, the claimant trust has been dissolved. The indemnity trust gets dissolved.

THE WITNESS: Ultimately indemnity trust would get dissolved, yes.

THE COURT: And Highland Capital Management dissolves, as well?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay. I just couldn't understand. And forgive me, I just wasn't for sure if we actually had an ongoing operation that was doing similar things that Highland was doing before and just now we have a reorganized debtor. But it was always a liquidating plan and a liquidation termination where a ceasing of all -- all of Highland, the pre-petition Highland?

THE WITNESS: Correct. And there is no -- there will be no post-petition Highland going forward. It's a liquidating plan where every asset will be gone, every claim will be paid. And then ultimately the only thing left will be the indemnity trust to indemnify unfortunately people like me.

THE COURT: Okay. You had testified earlier that the independent board did actually control the tax matter partner. When did that change? Did that change upon confirmation?

THE WITNESS: Effective date.

THE COURT: Oh, the effective date of the plan.

THE WITNESS: So we -- we -- the independent board was actually appointed as the board of Strand with control over the debtor because of the LP structure and Strand was the GP. And so it was a little bit of an awkward structure any way. I think we could have done it differently in hindsight, but that's the way it was set up. And that litigation with the IRS, as I said, the audit took seven years. And then the litigation has been going on since then. And unfortunately, Your Honor, you'll find that the litigation continues.

THE COURT: Okay. I believe that's the questions I have. Either side is welcome to have any questions based on what the Court asked.

MR. YORK: No, Your Honor. Thank you.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. MORRIS: No further questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right.

THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: You may step down. Thank you.

MR. MORRIS: So Highland calls Mr. Daugherty.

THE COURT: Let me ask this question. Maybe I should have asked this beforehand.

I'm assuming that these are similar witnesses that we would have had for both sides. And so, Mr. York, are you intending to recall anybody, or are you all handling what would be your direct and cross at the same time?

MR. YORK: The latter.

MR. MORRIS: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay. So we're not planning on once you are finished with Mr. Daugherty, okay, now Mr. York is ready to call him back up on the stand or anything like that. Okay. I just wanted to make sure. That's what I figured. I just wanted to make sure. Because as you guys know, we're getting closer towards the end of the day.

MR. MORRIS: Yeah. I'm going to try and cut this down, to the extent that I can.

May I proceed?

THE COURT: You may proceed.

MR. MORRIS: Good afternoon, Mr. Daugherty.

MR. DAUGHERTY: Hello.

MR. MORRIS: You were employed by Highland from 1998 to 2011, correct?

THE COURT: I'm sorry, thank you. We haven't sworn Mr. Daugherty in. I'll let my law clerk take care of that. I do understand he is an attorney -- if I'm not mistaken, he's an attorney. But we'll still have him sworn in.

(The witness was sworn by the Court's law clerk.)

THE COURT: All right. You may proceed now, Mr. Morris.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

PATRICK DAUGHERTY

The witness, having been duly sworn to tell the truth, testified on his oath as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q. Mr. Daugherty, you were employed by Highland from 1998 to 2011; is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And you entered into an amended employment agreement dated as of December 31st, 2004, correct?

A. I don't remember the dates, but there was an employment agreement.

Q. I think you have our binder there. If you could just go to Exhibit 11. Can you just confirm that that's the employment agreement, the last employment agreement that you had at Highland?

A. I'm sorry, where are you telling me to look?

Q. 11.

A. 11. Yeah. This is the employment agreement that I was operating under.

Q. Okay. And that's -- do you recall that in late September 2011 you resigned?

A. Sounds about right. I think September 28th.

Q. Okay. If we can go to Exhibit 12, the next exhibit. Is that your resignation letter?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And to the best of your recollection, the employment agreement that we just looked at that is Exhibit 11 was the employment agreement that was in effect at the time of your resignation, correct?

A. As far as I know.

Q. Okay. And do you recall that attached to the employment agreement was that form of release and separation agreement that was attached as Exhibit A?

A. It was -- I'm sorry, what was that attached to?

Q. Attached to your employment agreement.
A. Are you talking about historically?
Q. No, no, no. Let's take a look at Exhibit 11. I don't want to rush this. I apologize for that.
So 11 is the employment agreement that was in effect at the time of your resignation, correct?
A. Yes. 11 was in effect, as I understand it, at the time I resigned.
Q. Okay. And the last --
A. However, my resignation wasn't effective as of 9/28.
Q. And when was it effective as of?
A. I think they made it effective late October, October 30th, because they tried to convince me to come back.
Q. And you didn't come back, correct?
A. I did not.
Q. And attached to the employment agreement is Exhibit A, the form of separation agreement and release, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And you never signed that, correct?
A. I was never given the opportunity to sign that.
Q. Okay. But it was attached to your employment agreement and you had a copy of your employment agreement?
A. I did not have a copy of my employment agreement.
Q. You received K-1s during the time that you were at Highland; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. At the time that you left in 2011, to the best of your knowledge, none of Highland's tax returns were subject to an audit, other than the 2008 tax return at the time of your departure, correct?

A. I don't think that's true. I think the 2005 was subject to an audit at that time.

Q. And did that have any impact on you?

A. There's ultimately a resolution that came from the IRS. I can't -- you know, they sent me a letter saying it was resolved in some manner. I can't remember what it was.

Q. And it's certainly not part of your claim today, correct?

A. It is not.

Q. Okay. And as you sit here today, you're not aware of any of Highland's pre-2011 tax returns that are subject to an audit today, correct?

A. I can't say that. No, there's 2008, '07, and '06.

Q. Are all three of them subject to an audit?

A. As I understand it.

Q. Okay.

A. When you guys did the -- when Highland did the 2008, well, they did the maneuvers in 2009 for the 2008 period, there was some second version of this that went through where they had to restate 2007 and '06.

Q. Only your 2008 federal income tax return -- withdrawn.

Your 2008 -- your own personal 2008 federal income tax returns are not being audited, correct?

A. That is not correct. The IRS has reserved the right to look at all of it. They made that point to me on multiple occasions.

Q. Have they identified -- so you filed this in 2009, right?

A. I did.

Q. We're in 2026, correct?

A. Yeah.

Q. In the 17 years since you filed your returns has the IRS identified any, anything about your personal 2008 income tax returns that they're reviewing?

A. They just noticed to me that everything in the return is still under review, pending resolution of this other matter and its affect on the rest of my return.

Q. Okay. I'm going to ask you the question again. Has the IRS identified anything with respect to your 2008 reviewing the last 17 years that you understand to be under review?

A. I'm sorry, I want to make sure I answer it. Could you give me that one more time?

Q. In the 17 years since you filed your 2008 returns, has the IRS identified any aspect of your return that they are reviewing?

A. No. They have not been specific on anything.

Q. Okay. You're aware that in December 2017 the IRS field audit -- apologies. You're aware that in December 2017 the IRS field office concluded their audit and proposed adjustments to Highland's 2008 income tax returns, correct?

A. I don't think that's fair. I think I was made aware of it through this process. But I -- I can't say that I thought that I was aware that they completed their audit. I never dealt with the IRS about it, so I can't say specifically what the IRS determined.

Q. But that's what you were told by Highland in 2018, correct?

A. Yeah. I was told by Brian Collins, the HR director at Highland who was not the tax partner for the partnership.

Q. Okay. And Mr. Collins told you specifically that the IRS field audit had -- the IRS field examiners had completed the audit, correct?

A. He sent me a couple of communications. I'd be more comfortable if you'd just show me what they were, because I want to make sure we get this right.

Q. Sure. Exhibit 60.

A. All right. So you're asking me about 2017?

Q. Let's just -- this is an email that Mr. -- this is a letter that Mr. Collins sent to you by regular mail and email in February 2018, correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. And he told you in this email that a team of IRS field examiners had conducted and audit of Highland's 2018 returns, correct?

A. Yeah. I thought you said final before.

Q. Is that correct?

A. It doesn't say, final. It says, conducted an audit. So I agree with that that this was sent to me. I don't know if they really did or not.

Q. And in the last sentence he told you the exam, meaning the IRS field examiners, concluded their audit and have proposed an adjustment to the 2008 return, correct?

A. Are you reading in the last paragraph?

Q. The last sentence of the first paragraph.

A. Oh, I'm sorry.

It says, Exam concluded their audit. Am I reading that right?

Q. Yes.

A. Exam concluded their audit and have proposed an adjustment to the 2008 return. You said IRS. It says exam. I'm just reading off your letter here.

Q. It's not my letter, it's Mr. Collins'. But exam is a defined term in that --

A. When I say, you, I'm sorry, Highland Capital is who you're here to represent.

Q. Yeah.

A. So, yeah, Exam concluded their audit and have -- it says that. I'm not exactly sure what that means.

Q. Okay. And you understood at the time from the documents that Mr. Collins provided to you that Highland had shown that your allocable share of the adjustment was about $1.257 million, right?

A. You're saying I got that from this, no.

Q. Well, he included Form 886Z, right?

A. I don't know. Did he? It's not on here. Are you talking about for February 3rd, 2018?

Q. Yeah. He refers to the -- he says --

A. He's referring to it, but you're saying what it says and I don't see the document. I can't tell you what it says.

Q. Okay. Turn the page to Exhibit 17.

A. Okay.

Q. And if you look at the bottom right corner ending in Bates number 31, that has the same number that I just read, right? He provided you with Form 886 that showed your allocable share of the adjustment was approximately $1.257 million, correct?

A. For this particular issue, yes.
Q. Okay. That's -- what do you mean, this particular issue?
A. Well, as I mentioned, there's 2008, 2007, and '06, and there were multiple issues going on, as I understand it.
Q. That's not part of your proof of claim, is it?
A. I'm not sure what you're talking about.
Q. Your proof of claim only deals with 2008, correct?
A. Well, I think you're taking it out of context. And I understand why you are, because you weren't there. But in 2008 they made these elections, okay. But the way to get to the refund -- I'm sorry, in 2009 they made the elections. It impacted 2008. But the way they made the elections also impacted 2007 and 2006. So when I say I'm here for the tax refund, the tax refund I got in 2009 for what was filed in 2008, but as I said, they had to go back and restate '07 and '06 to try and capture some of the stuff, and I use that term loosely, some of these elections through these other entities going back tax years.
Q. Sir, can you go to Exhibit 15, please?
A. Yeah.
Q. Do you see that the adjustment that is proposed is approximately $166 million?
A. I see that this adjustment for this particular issue is 166.3 million, yes.

Q. Okay. And so the total corrected amount should be $169 million plus change?

A. I'm not -- I see that there's a corrected that says 169.9, yeah. I don't know what that's for.

Q. And do you see at the top of that column it says, period end 12/31/2008?

A. Where am I looking?

Q. Just above those numbers there it says, period end 12/31/2008.

A. Yes, I do see that.

Q. Okay. And then if you flip back to the document that was given to you, Exhibit 17, the page ending in 31, that is our allocable share of the corrected number, correct?

A. I don't know. Is that listed on there? Are you just -- I don't know if that relates to the other or not.

Q. Okay. If you go to the next page that $169,902,949 --

A. Can you slow down a second? Okay. I'm on 18.

Q. 17.

A. Sorry. Okay. I'm on 17 and I see a 1.257 number. Is that what you're talking about?

Q. Sure. That's your allocable --

A. With my Social Security Number, which I prefer us not to be making this public.

Q. That's -- the document's been filed under seal.

A. Oh, thank you.
Q. Okay. The -- you understood that the 1.257 number was your allocable share of the total corrected adjustment, correct?
A. I did not.
Q. You didn't?
A. No.
Q. Did you understand that the allocation reflected in this document pertains solely to December -- the 2008 income tax return?
A. I did not. As I told you, I didn't see this document for the first time until when we did our deposition. So I don't know what it pertains to and what it's limited to.
Q. Okay. You received refunds from the IRS of previously paid taxes in the aggregate amount of $1,273,930 related to your 2008 tax returns, correct?
A. I always thought it was 1.1 to 1.2 so I'll take your number there.
MR. MORRIS: Okay. And that's the number that's in the joint pre-trial order, Your Honor.
A. Okay.
Q. You've never been required to pay that back to anybody, correct?
A. I mean it's undetermined, so I don't know.
Q. I'm asking you as of today --

A. Today, no.
Q. -- in the 18 years or 17 years since you got the money, you could have done whatever you wanted with it, fair?
A. No.
Q. Okay. You understand that your reserve claim is the last undisputed claim in the Highland bankruptcy case, correct?
A. That's what I've been told.
MR. YORK: Undisputed?
MR. MORRIS: Disputed, thank you.
MR. YORK: I'll take that right now.
THE WITNESS: Maybe I answered too soon.
MR. MORRIS: I'll give you a quarter.
Q. You --
A. I know where it's been. I don't want that quarter.
Q. You can't -- you can't identify any other disputed claim, correct?
A. I'm sorry, anything other than that 2000 --
Q. Other than your claim, you're not aware of any other disputed claim?
A. Oh, yeah, not that I'm aware of. But I wouldn't be in a position to know.
Q. Okay. Do you have any knowledge or any view as to whether or not there would be any consequences to Highland if it did not begin the dissolution process by August 11, 2026?

A. Yeah. They just need to amend.
Q. Did you hear Mr. Seery testify that there could be tax consequences by failing to begin the dissolution process because it's a trust and not a corporate entity?
A. I don't think he has expertise to say that and he's made up things to me before. So I don't put a whole lot of faith in what he says.
Q. Okay. But you also don't have any knowledge or ability to tell the judge that Mr. Seery is wrong; is that fair?
A. He's just pulling things out of the air, you know. So I couldn't tell the judge that either, or I would be pulling it out of the air.
Q. Okay. I'll let the judge assess Mr. Seery's credibility.
Let's fast forward to 2019. That's the year that Highland filed for bankruptcy, correct?
A. Yeah. Yes, it is.
Q. And you filed a number of proofs of claim that were later consolidated into Claim 205, right?
A. You're talking about 2020 now, not 2019?
Q. Whenever it was. I'm not putting a time --
A. Oh, okay. I thought you were asking 2019. That was done in 2020.
Q. Okay.

A. I'm thinking October of 2020.
Q. It was consolidated?
A. I think so.
Q. Okay. And ultimately you reached an agreement with Highland to resolve all of your claims except for what we're referring to as the reserve claim, correct?
A. I wouldn't say all my claims. I think I reached an agreement to release Highland from all my claims. I had other claims. I've got claims against others, as we well know.
Q. Maybe it was my bad question.
You reached an agreement to resolve all of your claims against Highland --
A. Correct.
Q. -- other than the reserve claim, my fault.
A. Maybe I misunderstood.
Q. And Exhibit 5 is the settlement agreement; is that right?
A. I'm sorry, where are you now?
Q. Exhibit 5.
A. Yes.
Q. And that has the books and records provision in paragraph 8, correct?
A. Yes, it does.
Q. And in your deposition you testified that you didn't recall what the reference to spreadsheet was, correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And you didn't have an understanding of what the phrase, Highland system meant, correct?

A. No, not really.

Q. Okay. Again, the sentence refers to, "The HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on Highland's system -- on HCMLP's system", correct?

A. Yes. That's what it says.

Q. And you understood at the time that HCMLP referred to Highland Capital Management LP, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. So you would agree that what Highland was required to do was to deliver the HERA and ERA books of records (spreadsheet) that were in Highland's system; is that fair?

A. Yes. But I believe HCMLP included its affiliates, didn't it?

Q. Highland was required under Section 8 of the settlement agreement to deliver the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on Highland's system, correct?

A. That's what that says, yes.

Q. Okay. So if it wasn't on Highland's system, Highland would have no obligation -- even if it was the HERA and ERA books and records, if the HERA and ERA books and records weren't maintained on Highland's system, Highland wouldn't even have an obligation to provide that; is that fair?

A. That gets into how you define Highland system. You've got to remember there's the secret server at SAS Management that these guys were working off of. I know it's not you and your team, but they had some secret systems that were funneling through Highland.

Q. And did you know that before you signed this agreement?

A. I found out that, I think you brought it out in discovery, or a deposition, I guess. Was it Scott Ellington and Isaac Levington?

Q. I have no idea. I'm just going to move on.

A. Well, I think it happened some time in 2021, so -- and as you recall there was like -- we came up with our settlement agreement the morning you all were going to go confirm a plan. And then it kind of continued thereafter. So I think --

Q. Can -- can --

A. I'm trying to answer your question.

Q. I know. I'm going to try and make this really simple.

A. Yeah.

Q. At some point you learned about what you just testified to, what did you call it, SAS?

A. Well, you know it too, SASManagement.com. They were operating out of the Cayman Islands with it.

Q. So if you knew that before you signed the agreement, you didn't take the time to, you know, reference that in the agreement, correct?

A. Again, I thought in was incorporated in HCM's system.

Q. But you didn't -- you didn't understand what that term meant, you just told the judge that, didn't you?

A. I'm not following you.

Q. And if --

A. Oh, I'm saying in my mind HCM system includes everything that HCM touches.

Q. Okay. Okay.

A. Yeah.

Q. The sentence that you negotiated that we're focused on here does not say that Highland had to deliver any of its own books and records, correct?

A. That's true.

Q. Okay. And the sentence that you negotiated that we're looking at right now does not say that Highland had to deliver anything in its possession that related to HERA and ERA, correct?

A. I'm not sure that's exactly true because it says all interest in HERA. So to the extent it was with them, they had to give it to me -- or you.

Q. The sentence that you negotiated does not say that Highland was required to deliver anything in its possession that related to HERA or ERA, correct?

A. The sentence itself doesn't say that, no.

Q. Okay. And the sentence that you negotiated that we're looking at -- withdrawn.

A. I was going to say, please tell me which sentence.

Q. Shortly after the Court approved the settlement agreement you and Highland signed the transfer agreements that we looked at earlier, correct?

A. That is true.

Q. Okay. So you don't -- you don't make any claim that Highland failed to perform any obligation under the settlement agreement except the books and records sentence that we're just focused on right here; is that fair?

A. Well, it gets into all of its interest, all of its stuff, to me is a crude term. When I talk to Seery I said, stuff. So that's what I'm talking about.

Q. Okay. And the stuff that you're talking about is the HERA and ERA books and records (spreadsheet) maintained on Highland's system, correct?

A. It's emails. It's communications. It's case files. And all these things I've talked to Seery about, you know, So I know you weren't part of that dialogue. But that's what really happened.

Q. Let me try -- let me try and ask this question for simplicity purposes.

Other than that provision of Section 8, you do not contend that Highland failed to perform every obligation it made to you under the settlement agreement; is that fair?

A. That's totally false. You violated the section that said you wouldn't -- that we agreed to stay the tax refund thing and you violated that too.

Q. Okay. Anything else?

A. I mean, that's what comes to mind. I don't know if this is a trick question or something but, you know.

Q. Nope.

A month later after signing the agreement after the Court approved it, a month after the Court approved it Highland delivered a whole bunch of documents concerning HERA and ERA, correct?

A. That is true.

Q. And if we look at Exhibit 2, that exhibit describes at least broadly some of the documents that were provided, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And so you would agree that on May 5th, 2022 Highland delivered a link to certain HERA and ERA books and records and they -- and sent two additional emails with zip files that contain additional tax related documents and other business records, correct?

A. Listen, none of that's said here, but I do remember that that happened. It was a very collaborative process so, yes, I remember those things even though this email doesn't say it specifically. I'm not disputing that.

Q. Okay. I mean I think it does, but that's fine. I appreciate that.

A. You said tax and I don't see anything about tax in there.

Q. So if you look at the -- the page ending on 01, the second sentence says, I will send you two further emails with zip files that contain additional tax related documents and other business records.

A. My apologies. I didn't see that.

Q. That's okay.

A. I read the first one.

Q. That's okay. But you were aware of this at the time, right?

A. Look, I was aware that we were trying to get this information. I had a very positive relationship with Mr. Seery at the time. So this is not inconsistent with how we were operating with each other.

Q. And were you aware at the time that -- Mr. Uebler was your lawyer at the time, correct?

A. Yeah, he was.

Q. And were you aware at the time that Mr. Uebler was told that Highland believed that the production completed its obligations under paragraph 8?

A. Say that last part.

Q. Were you aware at the time that Highland told Mr. Uebler that with the production of these materials, subject to a final review, Highland believed that it had satisfied all of its obligations under Section 8?

A. I'm sorry, but you just made a really good point. This is between Tom and you.

Q. Correct.

A. And I wasn't always privy to those email communications. I had my own dialogue going with Mr. Seery, which was very collaborative, very -- he was doing all the right things, I was trying to do all the right things. So we were not taking the position that that was whatever you said, last and final, or complete, any of that. Because there were certain things that I knew existed that I knew Seery may not know about. And I'd say, what about this? What about that? And so he would go and look and then we would get more.

Q. Okay. There's no question that Mr. Uebler was authorized to act on your behalf with respect to the delivery of documents pursuant to the settlement agreement, correct?

A. Well, that's not fair. I mean, he was certainly authorized to communicate with you because it would be inappropriate for you to communicate with me. But I went principal to principal. And so he didn't make any final determinations with you.

Q. And he didn't send you a copy of this email?

A. I don't know because my dialogue was with Jim Seery. And I didn't focus on what you guys were haggling about.

Q. Okay. Over the summer and into the fall did you have further communications with Mr. Seery about more information that you wanted?

A. Many times.

Q. And did Mr. Seery respond to your request for additional information?

A. He was pretty good about it.

Q. And is that reflected in Exhibit 3?

A. I don't know about that.

Q. Take a look.

A. Yeah. Okay.

Q. And pursuant to this letter, Highland produced more information to you; is that correct?

A. That is true.

Q. Were you -- did you receive this email? It was obviously sent to you, right?

A. Yeah. This is obviously what I was talking about, Seery and I talking to each other. So I focused much more on this than what you guys were doing.

Q. Okay. And Mr. Seery said a couple of times in this email, we're done with HERA and ERA, right?

A. Not quite, because we were also have phone dialogue. And I'd say, I mean, there's a recording of it. He's mad about it, but we go into great detail of what I'm missing and what I need. I can't remember exactly when that was, but it was like -- I just can't remember exactly when it was.

Q. Mr. Daugherty, Mr. Seery told you in writing with copies to other people that upon the transmission of the information described above, Highland will have satisfied its obligations under the settlement and our involvement in HERA and ERA, your entities, will be complete. He told you that at that time, correct?

A. All right. Let me just look at it and make sure it says what you're saying it says.

Q. I'm referring to the last --

A. Last paragraph?

Q. -- substantive paragraph, yes.

A. That last paragraph seems right. I mean, he said that. But I pointed out that there was more and he realized I was right.

Q. You didn't respond with an email taking issue with anything that he said in this email, correct?
A. Well, we talked on the phone most of the time. I didn't -- I didn't feel the need to make formalized emails.
Q. Even though he's making formalized emails to you?
A. You know, again, it was a cordial relationship. And I had a lot of respect for him, frankly, and the job he was doing. And I was appreciative that he was working with me on this.
Q. Okay. If you go to Exhibit 51.
This is -- take your time. I don't mean to rush you.
A. Yeah, give me a second, please.
Q. Take your time.
A. Yes, sir.
Q. This is the follow-up emails to Mr. Seery's October 19th email; is that fair?
A. If we're looking at -- this is from DSI Consulting to Jim Seery.
Q. Well, if you start at the back you'll see Mr. Seery's email. And then --
A. Back of what?
Q. The page --
A. Oh, over here on the right?
Q. Yeah.
A. Okay.

Q. So that's the email we were just looking at. And then there's a series of responses where you chime in and Mr. Seery chimes in, Mr. Romey signs in -- chimes in. And it's all about, you know, making sure you have all of the information and have access to the data, correct?

A. Yeah. It's this dialogue right here.

Q. Okay. And nobody on your behalf reaches out to Highland again until January of 2024 with respect to the issues of HERA and ERA documents; is that fair?

A. I don't think that's true. I think Jim and I had phone calls.

Q. Okay. Can you take a look at Exhibit 53?

A. Yeah.

Q. This is an email from Mr. York to me?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you see in the second paragraph the only discussions between you and Mr. Seery that he refers to were the discussions from the prior summer?

A. I'll just read it.

Okay. Well, that would be 2023, right?

Q. Uh-huh.

A. As I mentioned, I think I talked to him on the phone in 2023.

Q. Okay. There's no correspondence that you're aware of, correct, between October --

A. He says, As Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Seery discussed last summer, that's the Summer of 2023.

Q. So listen, stick with me here.

A. Okay.

Q. In preparation for this trial between October 2022 and January 2024 there's no written communication between or among principals or lawyers concerning any documents, correct?

A. Yeah, I don't know.

Q. Okay. And at no time during that period did Highland give you anything, correct, in terms of documents related to HERA or ERA?

A. I think that's right. Oh, actually, I don't know if I got something in 2023 or not.

Q. Okay. But you don't know?

A. I don't. I don't recall.

Q. All right. Is it fair to say that after October 2022 Highland never produced any more information relating to HERA and ERA?

A. I think that's -- I think that's right.

Q. Okay. And Highland never deviated from its position that it had satisfied its obligations under paragraph 8, correct?

A. That part I don't agree with because I had numerous conversations with Seery up to 2023 when I was telling him, like I said in a collaborative way, hey, Jim, I know it's not you. I don't trust Thomas Surgent or David Klos because I have reasons not to. I think you should get somebody else, an independent third party because I'm missing this item, this item, that item. I actually went by category. And he always embraced me, you know, with good faith. So it was just not combative.

Q. Okay. You started a lawsuit at that time; is that right?

A. When you say I, what are you talking about?

Q. HERA was the plaintiff.

A. HERA started a lawsuit in 2024.

Q. And you authorized that lawsuit, correct?

A. I did, as the chief asset recovery officer.

Q. Okay. This is the important part here. You authorized that lawsuit believing that Highland hadn't satisfied its obligations under Section 8, correct?

A. That's true.

Q. Okay.

A. By that time you all ghosted me. You ghosted me in like January 2024. I'm like, wow, okay.

Q. Okay. And -- and instead of starting the lawsuit you could have attempted to enforce rights under Section 8 of the agreement in order to get the documents that you believed you were entitled to; is that correct?

A. Listen, I didn't want trouble with Highland. I tried -- I told you, I've got a lot of respect for you. I mean, you do some things that I don't like, but you're a very good attorney. And I didn't want to deal with this. I didn't want to spend all of this money. I was -- I'm insolvent. You know, I don't have the money to do this. So I didn't want to go and have a battle that -- I had to pick my battles at that time.

Q. So I appreciate everything you just said. And I'm grateful that we've always had a professional interaction. But I just have to ask you the question, you made the decision based on your circumstances not to seek the documents from Highland before you authorized HERA to commence that lawsuit in early 2024; is that fair?

A. That's fair, yeah.

Q. Great. And Mr. Bobo is another lawyer who represents HERA; is that correct?

A. Yeah. Bobo had just come on the scene I think in December '23, maybe January 2024.

Q. And do you recall --

A. The HERA scene, the HERA scene. He doesn't work for me.

Q. And do you recall -- but you retained him on behalf of HERA; is that fair?

A. I mean, I'm the human that signed the documents, yeah.

Q. Yeah. And do you recall that Mr. Bobo threatened to sue Highland in order to get more HERA and ERA documents?

A. No, I didn't. Didn't really focus on it.

Q. Let's go to Exhibit 54.

A. Okay.

Q. Oh, no, I apologize. I think it's Exhibit 4.

A. 4.

Q. What back at the beginning.

And if you'll look --

A. Okay, I see it.

Q. Okay. And do you see Mr. Bobo's email to me starting at the bottom of the second page?

A. I do. I mean, are you talking about over here?

Q. Yeah.

A. Yes, okay.

Q. And at the very last line of it, very last sentence says, "This language is neither ambiguous or confusing" in reference to that sentence in paragraph 8. And he goes on to say --

A. Wait, wait, wait. Where? Give me a line number so I can get there.

Q. Sure. So it's Exhibit 4.

A. I got that.

Q. It's Mr. Bobo's email that begins on the bottom of the second page.

A. Yep.

Q. And do you see that he purports to quote from paragraph 8 of the settlement agreement?

A. This is a long email.

Q. I'm just focused on the one sentence at the bottom.

A. Bottom of what?

Q. The second page.

A. HERA has absolute right, this?

Okay. Thanks. Yep, I see it.

Q. Okay. So Mr. Bobo purports to quote from paragraph 8 and then says, "This language is neither ambiguous nor confusing and includes all books and records that Highland has related to HERA without caveats or exclusions." That's what you're looking for, right, books and records that Highland has --

A. Me being Pat Daugherty, or do you mean HERA?

Q. Yeah. Well that's what your lawyer was asking for at the time. You would agree with that, right?

A. I didn't read this email. But I'm reading it now. This language is neither ambiguous and confusing includes all books and records that Highland has related to HERA. That's what it says.

Q. Okay. And he concludes his letter -- his email, if you look at the end on page 4 by telling me, Rest assured, your continued refusal to comply with the settlement agreement will result in our seeking enforcement of same with the Bankruptcy Court.

Did you know that he threatened to sue Highland if we didn't comply with his demands?

A. Again, I tend to go principal to principal. I don't get involved in lawyers manning up on one another. So I didn't -- I didn't read this. I didn't focus on it. I didn't think about it.

Q. Okay. Do you see my response to Mr. Bobo beginning on the first page?

A. Typical you. Two guys going at it, yeah.

Q. And I told him, bring it on.

A. Yes, you did.

Q. I did. I told him to bring it on, didn't I?

A. You did. You guys do that.

Q. And he didn't do that, though, he didn't bring it on, right?

A. No, he didn't.

Q. Right. I mean, I specifically said, well, it would be an unfortunate turn if your client's honestly believe otherwise, meaning that we haven't fulfilled our obligations, a judicial order bringing finality to these matters would ironically be helpful. That's what I told your lawyer at the time, right?

A. I mean, like I said, I wasn't involved in you guy's dialogue. But it says what it says.

Q. Okay. And then after you -- after you authorized HERA to file a lawsuit there's a motion to dismiss. Do I have that right?

A. Are you talking about in the HERA action?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. Yeah, it's been out for 17 months now.

Q. Yeah. And you were aware that the motion to dismiss was filed, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And at no time did HERA ever make a motion in the district court for leave to serve discovery on Highland, correct?

A. We thought that was inappropriate and antagonistic to the Court to ask for discovery when he hadn't even ruled on the dismissal. So there's a reason for that.

Q. So again -- but that's your reason, that's a decision that you made. It's an option that was available that you chose not to pursue, correct?

A. To make -- to seek discovery on you guys? If we make it to dismissal, of course that's going to happen.

Q. Listen carefully to my question.

A. Okay.

Q. In early 2024 after you filed --

A. It did not happen in 2024. It hasn't happened yet.
Q. Hasn't happened yet. You made the decision that you didn't want to ask the Court for leave to serve discovery, correct?
A. I don't want to get into attorney/client privilege, but we didn't do anything.
MR. YORK: I'm going to tell you not to.
THE WITNESS: Okay. Sorry.
Q. I'm not asking for attorney/client. As a matter of fact, you made --
A. I can tell you we didn't do it.
Q. You didn't do it?
A. Yeah.
Q. Okay.
THE COURT: Real quick just so the Court's clear I want to ask this question right now. Is this the January 2024 lawsuit that was filed?
MR. MORRIS: Yes.
THE COURT: Okay.
THE WITNESS: I think it's February 2024.
MR. YORK: I think it was February.
THE COURT: Okay. But we're talking about the early 2024 lawsuit?
THE WITNESS: This is it, yes.
Q. Now you have -- you have a counterclaim for specific performance, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And you're pretty explicit about your motives for that counterclaim, correct?

A. I don't know what you mean by that. But, yes, I have that counterclaim.

Q. Just a couple of more questions.

If you can go to Exhibit 1.

A. Okay.

I'm there.

Q. Okay. So you've got the first cause of action is for breach of contract for failure to provide all the books and records --

A. What page are you on, please?

Q. Apologies. 10.

A. Okay.

Q. Okay. And in paragraph 14 you say, Daugherty bargained for and obtained Highland's interest in HERA as well as Highland's books and records related to HERA. Have I read that first sentence of paragraph 14 correct?

A. You're on 11 then, okay.

Q. Yeah.

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. So that's the claimed breach, the claimed breach is that --

A. I would say that I'm looking at --
Q. Let me just finish the question.
A. Oh, yeah.
Q. The claimed breach is that Highland has not provided what you describe as the bargained for consideration of Highland's books and records related to HERA, correct?
A. As I said, I want to go back to that sentence because it's wonky. It says, Daugherty bargained for and obtained Highland' interest in HERA as well as Highland's books and records related to HERA. I think the -- I think it probably could have been worded better. But what we're saying, you've got our stuff and we want it. We don't want Highland's stuff, if that's what you're suggesting. We want HERA's stuff.
Q. Okay. I'm not suggesting anything. I'm just reading your --
A. Listen, I just read it and you're trying to have me validate it and I'm like, what are we trying to do there, you know?
Q. Okay. And on the next page you've got your cause of action for specific performance, right?
A. Okay.
Q. And in paragraph 22 you said, If the Court does not order Highland to comply with the terms of the settlement agreement and turn over the relevant books and records, Daugherty will be irreparably harmed. Have I read that correctly?

A. Yeah. I think that's a better sentence to describe it.

Q. And the reason that you would be irreparably harmed is because HERA will be unable to adequately pursue its litigation against Dondero, Okada, and Ellington, correct?

A. That's a concern, yes.

Q. Okay. And what this really amounts to is an insurance policy for you so that if you lose the HERA lawsuit, are you going to come back and sue us because we didn't give books and records?

A. No. Just give us the stuff and we can get out of here.

Q. I just want the judge to understand what the motivation for this claim and this cause of action is.

A. It's simple. Give us the stuff. You were so cooperative and then you stopped.

Q. Is that really what you wanted, all you wanted was the stuff?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know that we offered to give you the stuff immediately after you filed the counterclaim?

A. Okay.

MR. YORK: Your Honor --

A. This guy.

THE COURT: Go ahead and object.

MR. YORK: -- I'm going to object. Seriously, we're going to get into some sort of like 408 type discussions.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, 408 is not nearly as broad as people think. You're not allowed to use settlement materials for the purpose of establishing liability. I'm not doing that. What I'm doing here is establishing motive. The fact of the matter is, Your Honor, we in writing offered to do email searches. We offered to use up to four custodians. We gave them date ranges. We gave -- and I think it's important for the Court to understand that what's going on here is that this is an attempt to manufacture a contingent claim in the event that he loses the HERA litigation. I'm going to grab that too, Your Honor, 408.

Prohibited uses. Evidence of the following is not admissible to prove or disprove the validity or amount of a disputed claim or to impeach a prior contradiction. The furnishing of an offer. That's the thing. I'm not using the fact that we made an offer to prove or disprove the validity or amount of a disputed claim. If Your Honor finds that paragraph 8 says that Highland has to turn over its own books and records, or that Highland has to turn over books and records related to or concerning, I lose. It doesn't matter.

I'm not here trying to prove that. I'm trying to prove that Mr. Daugherty has no interest in getting books and records because he would have worked with us.

MR. YORK: I tell you what, I -- you know what, I'll let you ask the question if you tell him what the specific terms are and he can answer as to why those were insufficient.

MR. MORRIS: Sure.

THE COURT: All right. So the objection is withdrawn?

MR. YORK: Sure. Objection's withdrawn.

MR. MORRIS: May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: You may.

Q. Mr. Daugherty, are you aware that I sent the email to Bo and to Drew on the last -- the next to the last page on November 17th?

A. I'm aware that you had communications with them. This is the first time I'm looking at this.

Q. So you haven't seen this email either?

A. No. My lawyers typically summarize things to me and then I tell them.

Q. And did they tell you that we offered to do email searches using up to four custodians for a specified date range and to produce all hits without regard to attorney/client privilege?

A. Okay. So I did get the first part of that. You were going to limit it to four custodians. And I'm like, no, these guys are notorious for hiding behind other custodians, et cetera, et cetera using other email sites. I'm like, we're not going to limit it that way. I'm not going to agree to it. So if you want to open it up to anybody that touched this stuff and give us back our stuff, then we have something to talk about. If you want to limit it to four people, that's not right because we -- Highland Capital is an institution of fraud and lying which you guys -- you know. And by the way, it's not that I think that Seery is trying to hide this stuff. But I know Thomas Surgent was.

Q. Do you know Thomas Surgent hasn't worked at Highland for a long time?

A. Yeah. Well, I mean, he left like, what, February 2025?

Q. He certainly wasn't there in November 2025, correct?

A. No. He -- you put him in charge of the search up to that point. And I told Seery, don't do it. That guy's a criminal.

Q. Sir -- sir --

MR. MORRIS: I move to strike. Your Honor, I move to strike. That's just reprehensible to attack people who aren't even here without basis.

THE COURT: I'm going to overrule the motion to strike. He's testified. I'll deal with credibility and relevance and all of that.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

Q. The only response your lawyer made was that you rejected the proposal, right?

A. That's right.

Q. You didn't -- you didn't make a counter-proposal, you didn't take the opportunity to see how much information you could get so you could assess what the boundaries were, correct?

A. I had a dialogue with Seery when I did all that kind of stuff for a couple of years. And then you all went cold on me. And so, yeah, this is what the relationship turned into. No relationship, lawyers talking to each other.

Q. Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I have nothing further, Your Honor.

May I approach the witness just to put an exhibit sticker on this?

THE COURT: Okay. Did you want to move for this to be admitted into evidence?

MR. MORRIS: Oh, yes, I do. I thought the objection was withdrawn, but I'll --

MR. YORK: Well, the objection to the question was withdrawn. I'm not going to object to the exhibit.

THE COURT: Okay. So I have -- so Exhibit 67, Highland's Exhibit 67 will be admitted.

MR. YORK: By the way, Your Honor, as a matter of housekeeping, Exhibit 99 that I moved to enter earlier, I have -- I realized after I was done, it actually was Daugherty Exhibit 41 which has been admitted. I apologize.

THE COURT: That's okay.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. YORK:

Q. All right. Mr. Daugherty, I'm going to try to make this brief because there are a lot of things that I was going to ask you about that Mr. Morris covered with you.

A. That's fine.

Q. Let's do this first.

MR. YORK: Laura, would you please pur up Daugherty Exhibit 57?

A. Is that in here, or is that a separate?

Q. Do you have Daugherty Exhibit 57 --

A. Oh, thanks for putting that up.

Q. -- in front of you, Pat?

A. Yeah, I do.

Q. Do you recognize this document?

MR. YORK: Zoom out a little bit, please. It's a little to --

A. I've got it in a hard copy.
Yeah, I recognize it.
Q. Can you tell us what it is?
A. Yeah. So when I took over control through my entities, I don't actually own it personally, which we can talk about that, but other entities that I'm invested in own HERA. When HERA got its -- when I had those units transferred over to me, first thing I did was have our counsel reach out to all of the law firms who had done legal work for HERA since -- actually, since the beginning, 2009. And that would have been Abrams & Bayliss. That would have been Andrews Kurth. That would have been DLA Piper. And then individual lawyers, if you want me to go through them I can. There's others. Those are the primary ones and then we went to Highland.
Q. All right.
A. So I'll make it quick. We went out and we said, hey, you know, give us your case files. Give us your invoices. And give us everything you had to do with HERA. This -- all those other law firms basically told us to pound sand, except for Abrams & Bayliss, the Delaware counsel. And they gave us a treasure trove of exhibits, including this email right here.
Q. And just to be clear, so this was something that was given to Mr. Uebler?

A. Yes.
Q. Okay. And the email here that you're referring to was sent by Mr. Surgent in 2013, correct?
A. This is correct.
Q. And it's related to HERA and has a whole bunch of HERA documents that are attached to it, right?
A. Correct.
Q. Something that you -- did you get this from Highland separately under your settlement agreement?
A. No.
MR. YORK: Okay. Let me go then to Daugherty Exhibit 95, please, Laura.
Q. And, Mr. Daugherty, do you -- look at the screen, Mr. Daugherty. Do you recognize this document?
A. Yes.
Q. And is this another document that you received from Abrams & Bayliss in response to your request?
A. Yes. Steven Howell is a lawyer at Abrams & Bayliss.
Q. That related to HERA, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And that included emails that were at least at the top, an email from Steven Hoff at Abrams & Bayliss to Tdemaris@HCMLP.com. and also to Mr. Surgent and also to Kevin Abrams, correct?

A. Correct.
Q. Was this email string and the attachments something that you received from Highland as part of the settlement?
A. No.
MR. YORK: Go to Daugherty 96, please, Laura. Zoom in at the top, please.
Q. Do you recognize this document?
A. Yes.
Q. What is it?
A. This is an email from Isaac Levington who was in-house counsel at Highland and he also represented himself in the Delaware case as counsel to HERA who sends an email to Kevin Abrams. I'm not going to go through the list. You can see them all there. But Scott Ellington, the general counsel at Highland who also represented himself as counsel to HERA in Delaware, Mark Katz, who also represented himself as counsel for HERA in Delaware, and Michael Hurst who also represented himself. And then to Eric Gerard, who at the time of this email was at Highland representing HERA as it related to December 2013, the escrow.
Q. And the escrow that was purportedly set up to satisfy any judgment that you obtained in the Texas State Court action against Highland and HERA back in 2014, correct? Is that when it went to trial?
A. He represented to the jury that this escrow was in place to pay me any claim I would get against HERA.

Q. What happened to that escrow account?

A. The day my judgment was mandated, Ellington, Katz, Levington orchestrated a series of transactions to strip the escrow of all its assets and leave it with zero.

Q. Now, as part of that state court action, Highland had claims back against you, didn't they?

A. They did.

Q. And as part of that a jury awarded Highland, I believe it was approximately $2.8 million in attorney's fees against you; is that right?

A. Plus interest.

Q. Not on attorney's fees?

A. No, that's right. The interest was 3.12 or something.

Q. Okay. And when that mandate occurred in addition to stripping the escrow out, did Highland take any other steps to try to enforce the judgment against you?

A. Yes.

Q. How so?

A. They put a lien against my house. They sent a constable --

Q. Let me -- I'll do it this way.

A. I don't want to do it.

Q. Did they file a writ of execution against you?

A. I'm not going to lose. They forwarded a writ of garnishment. They filed turnover and they sent the constable over to my house.

Q. And the writ of garnishment --

A. In front of my wife and kids.

Q. And the writ of garnishment was filed with respect to your interest in HERA, correct?

A. Yeah.

Q. And was there an affidavit that was filed by Scott Ellington the general counsel of Highland that was attached to that writ of garnishment application?

A. He said he was in charge of litigation with me. I'm paraphrasing. And that I didn't have the means to satisfy the judgment so that that garnishment order needed to be executed.

Q. Specifically didn't his affidavit say that he was unaware of any other assets that you had other than the HERA -- your HERA interests?

A. He was trying to seize what he thought was mine, (indecipherable few words), which were my wife's and Trustway.

Q. Okay. Was -- did you get any of these emails relating to the escrow agreement from Highland as part of your settlement?

A. I'm sorry, I'm a little shaken up. Give me that one more time.

Q. Did you receive any of these emails from Highland as a result of the settlement?

A. No.

Q. Okay. And by the way, what did you end up having to use the tax refund money that you received from the 2008 tax return for?

A. I was on fumes and I used what was left of that and I had to borrow.

Q. Did you use it to pay the judgment to Highland?

A. Yeah.

Q. Did you have to use it to fund your -- to pay your attorneys to represent you in the litigation Highland brought against you?

A. Yeah.

MR. YORK: Okay. Show Exhibit 98, please, Laura.

Q. Do you know what -- do you recognize this document, Mr. Daugherty?

MR. YORK: If you can zoom in, please.

A. That print is too small. I can't read it.

Q. Is this another email relating to the Abrams & Bayliss escrow?

A. Yeah. This is Scott Ellington.

Q. And is this the email that reflects that it was transferred out of HERA?

A. Yeah.

Q. This was an email that you didn't receive as part of -- from Highland as part of the settlement in this -- of your claims in the bankruptcy; is that right?

A. No.

Q. Okay. Did you -- Mr. Klos you heard testify earlier about admitting that you did not get all of the invoices from all of the law firms that had been representing HERA in the past. Do you agree with him on that?

A. That I didn't get them all?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes, I agree with that.

Q. And do you know specifically are there ones in particular that you're interested in seeing that you don't have?

A. Yes.

Q. Why?

A. They're from Gruber Hurst and they involve communications with Thomas Surgent. And there's some missing from Andrews Kurth with Mark Katz. And also this Gerard guy and Scott Ellington.

MR. YORK: Okay. You can take this down, Laura.

Q. Mr. Daugherty, briefly let's go to your compensation and benefits statement.

MR. YORK: Which is, I'm sorry, Laura, Daugherty 14. Thanks.

Q. Okay. Mr. Daugherty, you've seen this document before?

A. Sorry, I got it. I don't got it.

Yeah, I see it.

Q. Did you have any discussions with anyone at Highland at the time that this compensation and benefits statement was issued to you?

A. Up to and at this time. But primarily most of the conversations were prior to this. This was the result.

Q. Who did you have those conversations with?

A. Jim Dondero.

Q. Was the idea of paying you a bonus through an IRS tax refund your idea?

A. No.

Q. Whose idea was it, to your knowledge?

A. It was a scheme Dondero cooked up with the tax people at Highland.

Q. Would you have rather Highland paid you a cash bonus for 2008?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that something that Highland was unable to do?

A. Yeah. They were -- this was the first time Highland almost filed for bankruptcy. It was during a great financial crisis. Lehman had failed and that triggered -- Dondero had sold a bunch of credit protection on Lehman swap, credit swaps the week before Lehman failed which blew Highland up. And the banks declared an event of default. And they came in. They wanted FTI Financial Advisor to review the books. They saw that Dondero and Okada were taking out money when the company was insolvent. So they file us in an involuntary 7. They asked me to come in and negotiate with the creditors because we didn't get into what my role was at Highland, but I was head of distress and head of restructuring. So call us knuckle draggers, but I knew all the knuckle draggers at the banks because we'd been on the same side and now they were against us. And they were like, Pat, we need you to step in.

So I started negotiating with them. And they were furious, initially with me and all of the other team leaders. And I'm like, we didn't get anything. But any way they said, you're going to agree immediately to no further cash payments, other than for base salary. And they -- they required a 20 percent reduction in force head count.

Q. Mr. Daugherty, when you received this compensation and benefits statement, did you discuss with Mr. Dondero at all what would happen if there was an audit of the Highland's partnership return for 2008?

A. On multiple occasions.

Q. What did he tell you?
A. He said --
Q. Strike that.
A. I was going to say --
Q. Okay. Let me back up.
All right. When you spoke to Mr. Dondero did you express concerns about the possibility that there would be an audit?
A. Yes, all of us did. And the tax people even informed us, you know, in a conference room. And they had a presentation about it.
Q. Did you express to Mr. Dondero that you didn't want to be on the hook at the end of the day for any adjustment as a result of that audit?
A. I told him it was a hair-brain scheme and I was very concerned about blow back for the IRS, which was definitely going to get, in my opinion, their attention.
Q. Okay. And did Mr. Dondero say to you at the time, we'll take care of any delta between what we're giving you and what the IRS ultimately decides?
A. Yeah. He said, I'll take care of you. I'll make it up to you. Not just me, but others.
Q. There's been a mention about the separation and release agreement form that was attached to your employment agreement. I want to go to Daugherty Exhibit 42, because it's a better version.

A. This big one, or this one you just handed me?

Q. 42. Are you there? Let me know when you're there.

A. I'm not.

I guess I should just look at the screen. Yes, I see this email.

Q. It's an email from Mr. Collins to you on October 17th of 2011, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And he attaches three documents -- he indicates he's attaching three documents to that, his email; a Highland separation agreement, a Cornerstone separation agreement, and a CR Verde (phonetic) consent. Do you see that?

A. I do.

Q. I will represent to you, Mr. Daugherty, that Exhibits 43, 44, and 45 are the attachments of those three draft agreements, okay?

A. Got it.

MR. YORK: Laura, if you would, would you please go for a moment to Daugherty Exhibit 46?

Q. So, Mr. Daugherty, at the bottom of this page of Exhibit 46 we get back to the email we just looked at in 42. And then you respond a few days later in the morning. Thanks, Brian. To clarify, is the offer an all or none deal? Meaning do I have to sign all three documents attached in order for any one to be effective? Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Mr. Collins responds to you later that day, Pat, yes, this is an all or nothing deal. We need all three documents signed. Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. Setting aside the differences between the form of the separation and release agreement that was on your employment agreement and what they sent you, did you have concerns about the other two agreements that they wanted you to sign?

A. Yes.

Q. And specifically which agreement or agreements?

A. The Cornerstone separation agreement and the CR Verde consent, action by consent.

Q. Because?

A. The Cornerstone separation agreement was one of -- I was a chairman of the board. It was one of the companies in my private equity portfolio. And the gates had gone up on the funds that -- I don't know if you know what that means, but it's in the talk right now with private debt funds, or whatever. But you put up the gates, you can't get your fees and you're limited as a manager on what you could do. And they were using Cornerstone to pay me $600,000 to sign the separation agreements with Highland, which I thought was illegal and against the Investment Advisor Act of 1940.

Q. And so even if you had -- were willing to sign the separation and release agreement that they had sent you, which was different that the form that they had sent you, you still couldn't do that because of what your concerns with the Cornerstone and the CR Verde documents?

A. Yeah. We didn't talk about CR Verde, but that was making me release all of my interests that were validly awarded to me there. So, no, I wasn't going to sign all three. It was a Catch 22.

MR. YORK: Your Honor, I pass the witness.

MR. MORRIS: I just have like two or three questions, I hope.

THE COURT: Okay.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q. Mr. Daugherty, I'm sorry that you went through what you went through many years ago. You filed claims against Highland relating to those issues, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And those claims were settled, correct?

A. Again, only against Highland. I'm still pursuing against others.

Q. Correct. How much have you received from the Highland estate on account of the allowed claims that you have today?

A. Net of having to pay back debt or just what I got?
Q. What you received from the Highland estate.
A. Oh, 12 -- the settlement agreement, 12.75 million.
Q. Okay. So today you've received over 12.75 million and the only things left is this income tax reserve claim, right?
A. Oh, I don't have any of the 12.75 million.
Q. I didn't ask you that. The only -- the only thing --
A. What do you mean the only thing left?
Q. The only claim that you have left --
A. Oh, I have left against Highland, well, books and records --
Q. Right.
A. -- and the interest thing.
Q. Okay. Can you go to the compensation statement, whether it's Highland Exhibit 32 --
A. Do you want to give me a number?
Q. -- or I think it might be your Exhibit 14.
MR. YORK: Daugherty 14, yeah.
Q. Either Daugherty 14 or Highland --
A. Yeah, I got it.
Q. Okay. This is the compensation statement that you're suing on, right?

A. Yeah. This is the tax refund issue bonus, yeah.
Q. And you don't disagree with what I said to the Court earlier this morning that the entirety of the agreement is reflected in those three sentences under 2008 tax refund, right?
A. I do not agree with that. You're just taking the words, but there were oral agreements and discussions that went along with it to get there.
Q. Okay. Are those cited in your proof of claim?
A. I don't know what you're talking about.
Q. You filed a proof of claim in this case, didn't you?
A. I don't know how -- I mean, there's conversations I had with Dondero that awarded me this.
Q. Okay. This document doesn't say anything about an audit, correct?
A. It implies it.
Q. Sir, this document doesn't refer to any audit, correct?
A. It implies it. But it doesn't say it in actual words. But it implies -- if actual refund deviates materially from estimate. The only way that can happen is from an audit.
Q. It doesn't say anything about a guarantee, does it?
A. What do you mean guarantee?

Q. This doesn't guarantee anything for you, does it?
A. Everything in here was guaranteed on the compensation as long as I was employed that day.
Q. As long -- and you're not employed today, correct?
A. I was employed the day that it was given to me. That's when it became guaranteed.
Q. Okay.
A. I'm not employed there today.
Q. And we know that bonuses were typically given in three installments, correct?
A. Three, sometimes four.
Q. And you understood that if you were employed at the time that you got that award and you quit between, let's say hypothetically payment number two and payment number three, you'd forfeit your right to payment number three, correct?
A. That is true. In fact, when I left that was the case.
Q. Okay. So what's happened here is that you got the tax refund back in 2008 or 2009 and what you're looking to do is get a payment in the future when you're no longer employed, correct?
A. Incorrect. I got this the day I was there and it was subject to being trued up based on what's -- as we all, I think can acknowledge, a 17 year odyssey that won't end.
Q. There's a place for your signature at the bottom of this document. Do you see that?

A. I do.

Q. You didn't sign it, did you?

A. I did sign it.

Q. Have you produced that in discovery? Have you seen it anywhere?

A. Highland had that document.

Q. Okay.

MR. MORRIS: No further questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Hold on one second, Mr. Daugherty. I don't know if I have any questions.

I do want to just make sure I'm understanding. And I don't think that it -- it sounds like maybe it was related to your other proofs of claim or your other grounds for your claims against the bankruptcy estate. But you're not asserting that any of these -- any of the parties that are still with Highland, any of the officers, were the ones that were directing the actions taking to collect judgments. That was all pre-bankruptcy?

THE WITNESS: If I understand you correctly, I have -- yeah, it was all pre-bankruptcy.

THE COURT: Okay.

THE WITNESS: David Klos is the only one who's a legacy issue. And I had to release him, you know, pursuant to my settlement with Seery for everything up to the time of that settlement agreement. So if that's what you're asking, am I trying to make claims against any of these people for the past? No.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

And so the issue on the documents is some invoices related to attorneys that were paid by Highland related to HERA and ERA transactions; is that correct?

THE WITNESS: Not exactly. This is the bait and switch. If you could indulge me for a minute.

What Highland did is they took all the money out of HERA and then they allocated, as Klos did truthfully say, 93 percent of their legal costs back to HERA. And through accounting (inaudible word), they're like, oh, HERA, you don't have any money. Highland will lend you the money to pay our legal fees. But since you don't have any money at the end of each year we'll write off the note so that Highland can expense it in their K-1s.

THE COURT: Okay.

THE WITNESS: And Klos was the architect for that.

THE COURT: Okay.

THE WITNESS: So HERA was paying it, even though it was Highland. But Highland gave HERA the money to pay for it and then forgave the loan against HERA each -- well, they didn't forgive the loan, wrote it off and kept the loan out there so that when Mr. Seery transferred the units over to me in March, there was a $14 million debt owed back to Highland. And I'm like -- we had a long dialogue on this. I'm like, Jim, this is fraud.

THE COURT: The lawsuit that was -- thank you. The lawsuit that was started in February of 2024, that's HERA's efforts to recover for these, I'm just going to say bad acts that are being asserted by the former Highland employees or directors, officers, partners.

THE WITNESS: Yeah. There's a spirit of negotiation with Mr. Seery. He's like, you can have all the former guys, Dondero, Ellington, I'm sure you're going to hear those names in these other matters. He goes, but you're going to release everybody in my core unit. And I didn't want to release Thomas Surgent. And we went back and forth and back and forth and he goes, you're releasing Thomas Surgent. And I'm like, I hate doing this, but, okay. So Seery's core group of, I want to say 13 people on that list, I released all of them. And then I got HERA in order to go after Hunter Mountain Trust, Dondero, law firms, Hunton Williams. It's 21 defendants. And I say, I. HERA is going after them for stripping of its assets.

THE COURT: Okay. This wasn't asked of you, but what is your position as to what your percentage ownership of Highland is or was at the time of the 2008 tax return?

THE WITNESS: Yeah. In all fairness, it's been an item of debate because we had a profit's interest in the form of an LTIP, long-term incentive plan, that converted out of the partnership interest. And so there are really only two real partners at Highland, it was Dondero and Okada. They got all the money, all the distributions. And we got phantom income. You know, we got our percentage allocated to us, but they never gave us distributions. So then they would true us up for the tax, you know, we'd get like a tax true up each year. And I think that's what they're talking about. He had a tax account. Well, I never got a dime from there and I had a tax account, but it was so small when Highland gave me, as Mr. Seery said, oh, you got $4 million of carry loss forward. I'm like, well, my capital account isn't enough to take advantage of it.

So the way the tax rules work, you only get to take the losses up to the amount of your capital base. And anything else you have to wait until future years, if you make money. And if you quit, you lose it forever. So I never got what's been presented as me getting. And that' why this is so complicated. Because how much do you really own? How much are you really getting? And then what is your capital base in that account, because that limits what the IRS can give you, even if they're on your side.

THE COURT: Okay. But you don't dispute that when you filed your 2008 tax return, your K-1 provided a specific percentage of ownership?

THE WITNESS: I mean, I had no say in it. The K-1 comes from the issuing company, Highland Capital. I had no say in it.

THE COURT: Okay. I think that's all the questions that I have. Any party is welcome to ask any follow-up questions.

MR. YORK: I don't have any follow up.

MR. MORRIS: I've got -- I've got two quick ones.

FURTHER REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q. I understand that Highland sent you the K-1 --

A. Yeah.

Q. -- with your percentage interest in Highland, correct?

A. Whatever they allocated to it.

Q. And you accepted that document. You sent it to the IRS. And you received a refund based on that document, right?

A. I wouldn't say accepted it. You make it like I had a choice. When an issuing company gives you your K-1, the IRS is getting notified of that so you have to file it in your tax statements. It's not a matter of you agreeing with it. They're doing it in dual purposes. They're giving it to the IRS for the whole entity. And then each individual has to basically recognize their pro rata share. You don't get to debate it. You don't get to say, it's not mine.

Q. Did you ever tell anybody that you thought it was wrong?

A. I thought it was all BS, yes.

Q. Okay. But --

A. Dondero --

Q. -- that BS you took, you sent to the IRS, and you received a refund, correct?

A. And I got that provision in my compensation letter so that if it ever got called BS by the IRS, I would be made whole.

Q. And you said that you didn't have sufficient capital in your account; is that right?

A. Not to use all of it.

Q. Can you go to Exhibit 10, please?

A. Yep. Claimant trust agreement?

Q. Yeah. This is the -- the last amendment.

THE COURT: Which Exhibit 10?

MR. MORRIS: Highland Exhibit 10.

Q. Do you remember Mr. Seery pointed out the $4 million?

A. I heard it.
Q. Yeah.
A. It's accurate, I guess, from your end but not accurate from the Receiver's end. But go ahead and tell me where you want to go.
Q. Exhibit 10, Highland Exhibit 10.
A. I think it might be over here. Highland exhibits over here?
Q. Uh-huh.
A. This?
Q. Yes.
MR. MORRIS: This will be the last question, Your Honor.
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. If you go to page 3.
A. Yes.
Q. As of this -- according to this page, as of April 15, 2007 the book capital account for you was over $9 million; is that right?
A. For what year?
Q. As of April 15, 2007.
A. I don't know.
MR. MORRIS: Okay. No further questions, Your Honor.
THE WITNESS: Okay.

THE COURT: Anything further?
MR. YORK: Nothing further.
THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Daugherty.
THE WITNESS: Thank you.
THE COURT: Any other witnesses?
MR. MORRIS: No, Highland rests.
THE COURT: Okay.
Mr. York?
MR. YORK: Mr. Daugherty rests, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Okay. I'm assuming you all have closings that you'd like?
MR. MORRIS: I can do it in 5 minutes.
MR. YORK: Same.
THE COURT: All right.
MR. MORRIS: I'm anxious to catch my plane.
THE COURT: What I was going to say is, we can end and we can set up a Webex and we could do closings if you wanted to, we could do them virtually. And I could set -- we could --
MR. MORRIS: I so appreciate that, Your Honor. Unless Mr. York insists, I'd like to be done today.
MR. YORK: Whatever is most convenient for the Court. I know the Court probably wants to get back to --
THE COURT: Well, I don't have a flight until 9:55. I don't trust lawyers and their estimates, so I'm actually very impressed.

So the Court is okay. If you really want to do closings, we can do closings. I mean, let me just double check. Staff, and the building, I don't --

MR. EDMOND: We can always get out.

THE COURT: We can always get out.

MR. YORK: We just can't get back in.

MR. MORRIS: No one tell California, it's in reverse.

So really quickly, Your Honor. I just have like five points to make.

Number one, in no particular order, Exhibit 41, I think they are missing the boat on that. We've heard argument from counsel, we've heard from Mr. Daugherty that they believe that somehow that one sentence in that compensation statement provides some indemnity or guarantee to satisfy, you know, any obligation to the IRS, including interest and penalties. That's what they interpret the compensation statement today -- to mean.

Exhibit 41, I appreciate that Mr. Daugherty didn't accept it. I appreciate there's lots of reasons why he didn't accept it, but they've never directly addressed the issue that I'm asking the Court to focus on and that is, why would you include the very provision in that agreement, if you already thought it was included in the compensation statement? It doesn't make any sense. And it certainly doesn't say the same thing. That's point one.

Point two. HERA/ERA, the HERA and ERA books and records. In my opening I pointed out to at least five different times where they have completely distorted the plain -- what Mr. Bobo said was plain and unambiguous language. It is the HERA and ERA books and records. It is not Highland's books and records. And I think Mr. Daugherty ultimately agreed with that. It is not books and records concerning HERA and ERA. It's not books and records related to HERA and ERA. It is a very intentionally narrow statement, plain and unambiguous. There's no dispute about that. The HERA and ERA books and records. We have provided them. And I think that's the end of the story.

The claim. I appreciate Mr. Liles-Tims' testimony. But that's not credible. It is not credible to tell the Court that under Section 502 you can't -- you don't have enough information in order to estimate the claim for purposes of distribution. I will argue, yet again, if the Court actually concludes that, the right thing to do is to disallow the claim. The right thing -- the wrong thing to do would be to say that even though there is indisputable evidence of undue delay, that the failure to estimate would cause undue delay in the administration of the Highland case, that we will let this go on indefinitely. I think there's only two choices for the Court to make today. One is either to disallow it based on Mr. Liles-Tims' testimony that it's just impossible to estimate the claim, or the Court can take Mr. Klos' analysis and make whatever reasonable adjustments the Court thinks is appropriate. It's a completely objective analysis. The only possible exception is that that last line item with respect to, you know, the benefit to Mr. Daugherty from having the asset for 17 years, you know, it's a very modest number to begin with. It's 4 percent is what Mr. Klos used. And it's not even 4 percent. It's probably half of that, because he testified that they capped it at an amount that was equal to the penalties and interest.

If Your Honor thinks it's not worth anything, take it out. But you can surely estimate this claim. The undisputed testimony from Mr. Seery was that both, because there's a contractual obligation, the contractual obligation provides no out for further extensions. I mean, think about it. It would be a plan modification to try to change this again. Everybody would have to get notice. We've already had an objection from Dugaboy. I mean, how much money are we going to spend just litigating the issue. And what if we're wrong? What happens if the motion's denied? It doesn't make any sense. I appreciate that Mr. Daugherty has his own parochial interests. But those interests conflict with the broader estate. And in addition to, you know, the really challenging problem of trying to get an extension on notice to everybody subject to objections after we had that just in June of last year, you have what Mr. Seery pointed out to, very real potential tax consequences because this is a trust with a finite life. That's what's supposed to happen any way.

We had the cross of, I think it was Mr. Seery, about, you know, testimony that happened at the claims estimation hearing. And, oh, that Judge Jernigan somehow said that the claim couldn't be estimated. The Court wasn't presented with information for that purpose. And she specifically said, it's not like I'm here in a claims estimation hearing, right? This is a very different procedure than that was. This is a procedure under 502. It's a procedure that requires the Court to estimate, if it can. And if it can't, the claim should be disallowed, if it can't for a very particular purpose. And that is because the failure to estimate will result in undue delay in the administration of the estate.

Finally just, again, on the books and records. You heard Mr. Daugherty. I appreciated his candor. He filed his lawsuit believing that he didn't have anything. He made a very conscious decision not to sue to collect the documents. We're here only because Highland had to get this case resolved, this particular claim resolved. So he filed a counterclaim. There's no question that we offered to give him, you know, emails and he refused to take those. And I think the Court should take him at his word. In paragraph 22 of his specific performance claim that if the Court orders us to produce one single piece of paper, that is going to be his guarantee in a new claim, and a new lawsuit in the event that he loses his suit, which, you know, is very possible.

And I don't -- I don't think -- and, gosh, I feel bad for Mr. Daugherty. I've seen him get emotional before. I really do sympathize with it. I empathize with it. But that's not a reason to ignore the plain and unambiguous terms of the parties' bargained for agreement. It is the HERA and ERA books and records.

And so with that, Your Honor, unless you have any questions, I'm good to go.

THE COURT: So let me make sure I understand your position, because there has been discussion about emails. There was a showing of emails that they had received that existed. Is it -- is it your client's position that because they are coming from Highland email addresses and on Highland servers that that is why they are not HERA and ERA documents?

MR. MORRIS: And they're Highland employees on Highland server, Highland email addresses. If he wanted Highland's books and records, he should have negotiated that. That is not what he negotiated for. He negotiated for the books and records of HERA and ERA. And so those are Highland's books and records. That has always been our position. Because if you start down the road of, oh, well, you know what, let me interpret that really broadly and let me ignore the fact that it says, the HERA and ERA books and records and interpret it to be anything related to HERA and ERA, anything concerning HERA and ERA, Highland's books and records, there is no end. And that was really Mr. Seery's primary concern. That's why he put limitations on costs and burden and why he told you quite candidly, look, we'll give you the interest. If we have books and records, we'll give them to you. No question that we gave it to them. No question Highland complied with every freaking -- every single obligation that it had. This is just -- this is just like it's time to cut the cord. It's time to -- it's time to estimate his claim. If the Court is going to allow it, estimate it. And it's time to be done with Mr. Daugherty and Highland. That's what we're looking for here.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you.

MR. YORK: All right. Thank you, Your Honor. I'm also going to try to be brief. And I'm going to start with the allowance issue.

It is unequivocal that Mr. Daugherty had a separate written agreement in that compensation statement with Highland. They don't dispute that at all. That allowed -- that entitled Mr. Daugherty to the true up based on however the IRS audit turns out. That has been established both under his Section 4.5 in the language about the bonus that had been paid and also -- that's 3.1 and then 4.5 for any other written agreements between the company and the executive.

I found it ironic that Mr. Morris brought up the transmission of the draft of the larger settlement -- separation and release agreement to Mr. Daugherty. And he raised what I think he thought was a rhetorical question of why would you include about the tax issue in that agreement if you thought it was covered by the compensation statement? Well that's because the draft actually supports Mr. Daugherty's testimony that that's what Highland and Mr. Dondero had promised him. Because -- Laura, if you'd put up PD-42.

Mr. Collins says at the bottom of his email, The documents are in draft format and are not available for execution at this time. After we have agreed on the terms, we can finalize and execute the documents. Highland was sending this to him saying, we know we've agreed to this in the past, so we're putting it in here. That's what they did.

You can take that down, Laura. Thank you.

With respect to estimation. The fact of the matter is is that nothing has changed in terms of whether you can estimate reasonably Mr. Daugherty's claim relating to the IRS audit from 2020 until now. The IRS audit remains unresolved. And Mr. Morris argued that you couldn't quantify it. And it shouldn't be quantified for purposes -- for voting purposes. The Court agreed with that.

Mr. Liles-Tims has testified as to exactly why there are problems with Highland's own proposed calculations of what it thinks an estimate might be and all of the variables that apply here. And that it's unreasonable under the circumstances to be able to come up with a reasonable estimation of what that claim would be.

If the Court disagrees with Mr. Liles-Tims on that and is going to do some sort of estimation, I think the Court needs to keep in mind the fact that this is still an unresolved issue that Highland has with the IRS. And any estimation that the Court makes needs to be on the most conservative side possible for whatever Mr. Daugherty's potential exposure could be down the road, depending on how long that IRS audit dispute lasts. Because if the Court -- we face a Hobson's Choice here, as a result of Highland bringing this adversary proceeding. Mr. Daugherty could, if the Court were to estimate, end up at the end of the day with less that he receives on that claim than what he ultimately has to pay back to the IRS and what he was entitled to under the compensation benefit statement.

Finally --

THE COURT: The reverse is true, though, too, correct? I mean, he could receive an amount of money and then ultimately the IRS could say, we accept your settlement offer at 50/50 or whatever and Mr. Daugherty's liability could be less than what the allowed claim is, if I estimate it.

MR. YORK: I acknowledge that, Your Honor. But a balance of the equities here, given that Highland is the one who decided now we've got to bring this when -- by the way, Highland was aware of the claimant trust expiration date at the time that they entered into the settlement agreement with Mr. Daugherty. All of that -- that agreement was already in place. They entered into a settlement agreement in which they had said they were going to stay all of this. And so if you're going to balance the equities here of, you know, a chance that Mr. Daugherty has additional exposure versus a potential windfall, you must err on the side of being the most conservative estimate at the end of the day.

THE COURT: Do you have any cases that stand for that proposition?

MR. YORK: I don't, Your Honor. I haven't been able to come across anything that is in this sort of a context.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. YORK: Finally, Your Honor --

THE COURT: One more question.

Mr. Morris argued that if I take what Mr. Liles-Tims says as correct, that you cannot estimate this claim at this time because of all these various out there. But I find that I have to estimate a claim. Do you agree that that means that I should be disallowing the claim?

MR. YORK: No, I do not.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. YORK: Because Highland is the one that brought the cause of action, so the burden is on Highland.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. YORK: Switching gears to the books and records provision for a second, Your Honor.

It is clear that Highland did not provide Mr. Daugherty everything that he was entitled to. And I appreciated your question to Mr. Morris about whether Highland is contending that anything that is maintained on Highland's system is Highland's and doesn't belong to HERA.

Let's be clear. Paragraph 8 of the parties' settlement agreement said that Highland would -- the transfer will include the HERA and ERA books and records, "maintained on HCMLP's system," on Highland's system. And that's the only practical way it could have worked if HERA was simply a vessel and all of the Highland employees who were dealing with issues related to HERA and ERA were doing it on Highland's own servers.

And so what the Court should do, it should order specific performance. Order Highland to produce the communications, the emails, the invoices, everything relating to HERA and ERA that it has, because it no longer has that entity. And they can turn it over to Mr. Daugherty. And then we'll be done with that issue.

THE COURT: I'm going to ask you a question about that.

Who's going to oversee the performance of that? I heard today that a settlement was offered for them to have four custodians go about the process of doing that, which was rejected. So if the Court orders Highland, who has those four people to operate this search for these records and they go about doing it and they come back and they produce 100 documents, or 100 pages of documents, or whatever, how do I know -- how do we -- how do you all get comfortable with that was sufficient if you can't -- if you weren't even comfortable with their offer to do it already? I'm just trying to understand. Because I'm afraid that if I say, I order them to produce emails and they produce 100, or 10,000, or whatever the number is, that somebody doesn't come back and say, nope, still more emails out there. We know it. How do I do it?

MR. YORK: Sure. So I think what you -- to go to the, one of the points you made about the prior discussions was about the number of custodians. And that's, I think, where a big issue lies. If -- I think the Court can put other parameters in place that don't have restrictions on custodians, but have other parameters in place that allow for searches to be run in a manner in which it would provide adequacy as to whether everything's been produced. It could also be done, theoretically, with the involvement of some, you know, outside forensic inspector -- inspection.

THE COURT: Who's paying for that?

MR. YORK: That would be up to the Court to decide at the end of the day.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. YORK: Apparently my client says he will pay for it.

THE COURT: Keep going.

MR. YORK: So those are ways in which the concerns that you have can be resolved is having those parameters in place, having that forensic inspection done to ensure that everything has been adequately searched and adequately produced.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. YORK: And that's all I had, Your Honor.
THE COURT: All right. Thank you.
MR. YORK: Thank you.
THE COURT: Mr. Morris, brief.
MR. MORRIS: Just really briefly.

I think your questions pointed to the problems here. There was never -- there was never an end and it ignores, I think, the plain and unambiguous statement in the agreement. Yes, maintained on Highland's system. That's why I asked the question if there are -- if the HERA and ERA books and records weren't on Highland's -- maintained on Highland's system, Highland wouldn't even have an obligation to produce that, if it wasn't maintained. So we all acknowledge the only place the obligation arises is if the HERA and ERA books and records are maintained. So there's no dispute about that. The only question I think Your Honor has to ask yourself is what is the -- what does the HERA and ERA books and records mean? And you have an enormous description of the information that we've provided. And I don't know what the contours are, what they're looking for. It's a moving target. It always has been a moving target. There's -- I think Your Honor put your finger right on it. How am I ever going to get to the end of this? And how can we assure ourselves that if we produce a piece of paper today and he loses his case tomorrow, that the next day he's not going to turn around and sue us? Because that's just -- that's not acceptable. They're not -- we have produced the HERA and ERA books and records. It's really that simple.

You know, we made an offer to try to do it to resolve this thing. He wouldn't bite. Wouldn't even counter. And he sat on his hands for years, right, sat on his hands for years.

Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you.

All right. I appreciate the parties. I appreciate the professionalism that was shown throughout the hearing by both counsel, as well as the witnesses. The Court is going to take this matter under advisement. I will ask -- I don't believe that as part of the pre-trial you all had any provision there regarding proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law. I'm going to ask that each side file proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law. And then I'll take it under advisement and issue a ruling.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, can I have an extended period of time to do that? I am going to be up all night again tonight. I've got other commitments that I have to do. I was not planning for this. I've got a two-day mediation in Los Angeles on the 5th and 6th. We've got the big hearing on the 11th. We've got a big hearing next Friday on the motion for protective order. Proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law are substantial. We'll have to get the transcript. If Your Honor can wait six or eight weeks, I would be delighted to do that.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. York, let me hear what you have to say to that. I mean, I understand, yes, we're going to be back here. We've got a hearing next Friday. We've got trial in the middle of May. So I understand the issue.

MR. YORK: I agree.

THE COURT: I mean, I can scratch -- I can scrap the proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law. I just often times like the parties to, you know, provide what they believe and we'll work off of that.

MR. YORK: What was Your Honor's intended time frame?

THE COURT: I don't know that I had one in mind. I was going to ask the parties. But I'm happy to give a month. But I'm also happy to give six weeks. You know, this is not going to be any decision I'm going to have out next week. Let me put it that way. So I don't have a problem with six weeks, if the parties are agreeable, or --

MR. MORRIS: Can we confer?

THE COURT: That's fine.

MR. MORRIS: And get back to you early in the week?

But where does six take us?

MR. YORK: End of May.

MR. MORRIS: Yeah, like a June 1st kind of time frame.

MR. YORK: That's fine with me, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Let me pull up the calendar.

MR. MORRIS: Yeah, June 1st.

THE COURT: How about I give the parties until June 5th, which is that Friday?

MR. MORRIS: Great.

THE COURT: Okay. So if you'll submit findings of fact -- proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law by June 5th.

MR. MORRIS: Perfect.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. Anything further?

MR. MORRIS: No, Your Honor.

MR. YORK: No, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you all.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you so much.

MR. YORK: We really appreciate it.
