REPLY IN SUPPORT OF WELDED'S APPLICATION FOR ATTORNEYS' FEES AND EXPENSES

Welded Construction, L.P. respectfully submits this reply (the "Reply") in support of Welded's Application for Attorneys' Fees and Expenses [Adv. D.I. 479] (the "Application")[2] and in response to Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Company, LLC's Objection to Welded Construction, LP's Application for Attorneys' Fees and Expenses [Adv. D.I. 483] (the "Objection"). and Welded's proposed reductions (as applicable) is attached to this Reply as Appendix A. In support of this Reply, Welded also submits the supplemental declaration of Michael S. Neiburg (the "Neiburg Supplemental Declaration") and respectfully states as follows:

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

Welded's six-year odyssey from wrongful withholding and bankruptcy to a $102,079,431.01 Judgment was a decisive victory by any measure. But by Transco's telling, it was only a "limited success" justifying halving Welded's application for fees and expenses.[3] The Judgment included a momentous $57,447,123.01 CASPA award. Transco fails to acknowledge this anywhere in its Objection, Ewald Declaration, or Report. When factoring in the CASPA penalties and interest, the Judgment equates to 182% of the contract damages Welded sought at trial.

The Judgment is even more notable when viewed in the context of the underlying litigation. Transco started this fight by suing Welded in Oklahoma, withholding $21 million without warning, and then filing $94 million in claims after Welded was forced into the bankruptcy. In other words, Welded beat back $94 million in setoff claims in addition to obtaining a $102,079,431.01 Judgment. The numbers are even better for Welded when accounting for the competing claims asserted at trial. There, Transco's $85,234,384 setoff claim dwarfed Welded's $56 million claim for unpaid invoices.

Transco's entire litigation strategy was to assert its own claims to reduce by setoff or recoupment all money owed for outstanding invoices, based mostly on meritless claims created after the fact to justify withholding payment. Transco now posits, for purposes of its Objection, that its claims and Welded's are unrelated. Far from it. Welded's claim to recover the amounts owed under the Contract, as reflected in Welded's invoices, is inseparable from Transco's argument that it was overcharged. There is no way to split the competing claims about whether certain costs are properly billed to Transco under the Contract. Welded's only chance to recover the amounts it was owed was to defeat Transco's claims and setoffs. It did just that.

While Transco ignores the true economics of this litigation, its specific fee-reduction arguments are divorced from reality and fail to consider Transco's ever-shifting litigation tactics and pernicious efforts to avoid paying the amounts owed to Welded. Despite being on notice of its liability for attorneys' fees and expenses under CASPA, Transco continued to take unreasonable positions that needlessly inflated Welded's litigation costs. Most of Transco's arguments here are no different, telling a skewed story of this litigation and painting an inaccurate picture of Welded's success.

Welded was objectively successful in this litigation, despite dealing with complex issues and facing an experienced, deep-pocketed, and difficult foe. Indeed, Transco's relentless effort to avoid paying Welded resulted in inflated fees and expenses—a direct consequence of Transco's litigation strategy. Transco describes the litigation as a limited success, but any objective observer would call it a decisive victory—culminating in a substantial award under CASPA. Welded's award of fees and expenses should reflect that.

ARGUMENT

The attorneys' fees and expenses that Welded seeks are entirely reasonable, as demonstrated by the Application, the Neiburg Declaration, the exhibits attached thereto, and the Neiburg Supplemental Declaration. Welded obtained a significant result for the benefit of its creditors, who may now receive substantial recoveries thanks to the Judgment against Transco. Obtaining the significant result required significant effort.

Reducing the fee award to Welded takes money out of the pockets of Welded's creditors, which is exactly what CASPA aims to avoid.[4] Indeed, "CASPA's underlying objective of making an unpaid contractor whole by awarding him his litigation costs when he is the substantially prevailing party is compromised and, indeed, can be gutted, when he is subjected to expensive litigation costs . . . ."[5] It would be unfair, and contrary to the purpose and spirit of CASPA, were Welded's stakeholders required to pay for the litigation that was a "pretext" for Transco to withhold payment. Op. at 166.

Transco cannot legitimately complain about legal fees it caused Welded to incur. In Waller for instance, the trial court more than doubled the attorneys' fees originally awarded under CASPA because, among other things, the court found that the project owner "was responsible for a large and disproportionate fee for failing to resolve the dispute with Waller in a timely manner."[6] On appeal, the Superior Court affirmed, holding "the trial court was justified in finding that [the contractor] was entitled to attorneys' fees under section 512(b)" because, among other things, "the large and disproportionate attorney fee was due to the protracted time over which this case has lingered, which is largely due to the action of [the project owner] . . . ."[7]

Super Ct. 2009) ("Our construction of §512(b) recognizes how Pyrrhic a victory would be for a contractor who, to collect his just due, is required to expend his 'paper recovery' on attorney fees necessitated by a defendant's obstructionist tactics. CASPA endeavors to make a contractor whole when failure to be paid promptly forces him to resort to litigation to collect a just debt . . . . CASPA's underlying objective of making an unpaid contractor whole by awarding him his litigation costs when he is the substantially prevailing party is compromised and, indeed, can be gutted, when he is subjected to expensive litigation costs . . . .") Thus, if a contractor's damages were less than the cost of litigation, it might well be dissuaded from vindicating its rights. . . . CASPA . . . provided additional incentives—in the form of interest payments at a statutorily-provided rate, penalty damages, reasonable attorneys' fees, and costs—that reduced the aforementioned disincentives for contractors to pursue their contractual rights.") The attorneys' fees and expenses requested by Welded are entirely reasonable given the complexity of the matter, the effort required, and the result that Welded achieved. Transco's arguments to the contrary are unavailing; and thus, the Court should grant the Application.

I. Transco's argument to cut Welded's fee award by one-third is contrary to the facts and the law.

Transco's main argument to reduce Welded's fee award, at least in terms of dollar values, is that Welded should have its fee request chopped by one-third to account for "partial or limited success." Obj. ¶ 137. More specifically, after spending 40 pages of its Objection identifying approximately $2.8 million in specific line-item deductions, Transco tacks on a further haircut of 33.3%—approximately $2.6 million—effectively doubling the specific deductions that Transco seeks.[8] Presumably, Transco's hope is that the Court will split the baby based on the total number rather than on either element standing alone. That hope is misplaced because the blanket one-third reduction is untenable for at least three reasons.

First, Welded obtained a significant victory for its client, and Transco's attempt to recast the Judgment as something less than a decisive victory for Welded is unavailing. Welded obtained a $44 million award—which was almost 80% of the unpaid contract balance that Welded sought at trial.[9] Welded also obtained an award of more than $57.6 million in penalties

[8] See Obj. at 3 ("Welded's attorneys' fees should be reduced to no more than $5,455,681.72"); Obj. ¶¶ 136–140; see also Obj. at Ex. D (subtracting $2.8 million from Welded's fee request and reducing the result by one-third to arrive at Transco's total proposed reduction).

[9] Transco repeatedly attempts to downplay Welded's recovery by insisting that Welded sought $71 million in its complaint. See Obj. ¶¶ 15, 35(b), 139. This is not true. Welded has explained, over and over, that counsel made a math error in the complaint when totaling the unpaid invoices. See, e.g., Feb. 8, 2021 Hr'g Tr. at 19:17–19 (Mr. Neiburg explaining, in response to Transco's question about the quantification of damages in the complaint, that "Transco knows Welded['s] damages. It's all in the invoices. If Welded invoiced X, Transco withheld Y. That is what Welded believed it's owed . . . ."); Pometti Dep. at 141:24–143:6 (Mar. 4, 2021) (testifying that the complaint inadvertently included the October cash call when tallying the unpaid invoices and that "roughly 54 million would be the correct number"); Welded's Reply in Support of its Motion for an Order (I) Enforcing the Waiver Orders and (II) Imposing Sanctions [Adv. D.I. 272] ¶ 19 (stating, in September 2021, that "the Complaint that counsel drafted did contain a math error when adding up Welded's bills"); Pometti Trial Tr. (Aug. 28, 2023) at 1113:16–1114:25 (testifying that "[t]he short-pay and that true-up invoice were inadvertently added together when, really, it is the

and interest under CASPA, which brings Welded's total award to nearly 182% of its unpaid contract balance. Welded also achieved an overwhelming victory on Transco's claims against it, reducing Transco's $85 million claim by roughly 87%, to just $11 million. Op. at 168. This included defeating Transco's $1.5 million schedule penalty claim and reducing its $16.3 million pipeline remediation claim (POC 632) to less than $1.4 million. Obj. ¶ 139; Op. at 168. In total, the Court reduced Transco's Proofs of Claim from approximately $94 million to just over $11 million, which still resulted in a net recovery to Welded (before CASPA) of $44,632,308. The argument that the Court did not grant Welded relief on its claim objections (see Obj. ¶ 139) is nonsense.

The Court has already made clear that Welded won, stating that "Welded has met its burden to prove its outstanding costs and expenses under the Contract" and that "Welded has met its affirmative burden to show what is outstanding on its unpaid invoices and thus what it is owed."[10] By contrast, "Transco's argument that it was justified in its position that Welded was improperly billing for certain costs rings a bit hollow even if some of its claims have been borne out by my findings." Op. at 167. At the end of the day, the Court was clear that, "[w]hile Transco was successful in some of its arguments regarding improper charges, Welded ultimately true-up invoice should have been the total basis for the unpaid amount" in the complaint); Welded's Post-Trial Brief [Adv. D.I. 433 (Sealed)] at 25 n.64 ("Welded's complaint miscalculated the amount of Transco's unpaid invoices. Transco has seized on counsel's math error to accuse Welded of fraudulent double-billing."). Transco is fully aware—and has been for more than four years—that Welded was not seeking $71 million for unpaid invoices. See, e.g., Jun. 30, 2021 Hr'g Tr. at 35:10-23 (D. Del.) ("So in May of 2019, Welded filed the complaint against Transco as an adversary proceeding in bankruptcy seeking $71 million. We have also learned through discovery based on the corporate representative's testimony that that was inadvertently double-counted by $17 million. . . . [I]n October of 2019, we also did not know that their complaint was overstated by $17 million.") (excerpts attached to Neiburg Supp. Decl. at Ex. A); Defendants' Opposition to Welded's Motion for an Order (I) Enforcing the Waiver Orders and (II) Imposing Sanctions [Adv. D.I. 269] at 5–6 & n.3 (acknowledging, in September 2021, that "the claimed amount of $71,310,018.67 was overstated . . . and should have been $54 million").

[10] Op. at 40, 42; see also Op. at 89 ("Welded has met its burden to show, absent evidence to the contrary, that all invoiced amounts are properly billed as the invoices were itemized and the costs were incurred on the ASR Project.").

prevailed on the primary claims at issue." Op. at 168. Transco's claim that Welded achieved limited success is untenable.

Second, Transco's proposed reduction is arbitrary. Transco claims to seek a flat 33.3% reduction. But in fact, it seeks to reduce Welded's fee request by 33% only after Transco has spent 40 pages of its brief chopping $2,834,308.87 of specific line items from Welded's Application. Welded is not aware of caselaw supporting that double-barreled approach, and Transco does not cite any.[11] Many of the line-item objections that Transco makes are explicitly based on Welded's purported lack of success, so Transco is effectively double-counting.[12] The $2.5 million flat deduction is also grossly disproportionate to the limited analysis that Transco gives the issue and to the single cursory paragraph that Transco's expert tacks onto the end of his opinion. See Obj. ¶ 140 & Ex. D at 16. Indeed, Transco provides no basis or support for the 33% haircut other than the say-so of its purported expert, whose opinion is unhelpful and unsupportable, as explained below.

Third, and perhaps most significantly, the Third Circuit has instructed that courts should not parse between successful and unsuccessful claims where they depend on the same facts and law. In McKenna v. City of Philadelphia, the Third Circuit held that "courts should not reduce ESDNetwork*, Case No. 11-CV-9236 (LTS)(RLE), 2015 WL 899016, at *3 (S.D.N.Y. Mar. 3, 2015). When dealing with a voluminous fee application, an across-the-board percentage reduction is permissible because the essential goal in shifting fees "is to do rough justice, not to achieve auditing perfection." Am. Bd. Internal Med., 540 F. App'x at 108 (quoting Fox v. Vice, 563 U.S. 826, 838 (2011)). A court may also apply an hour-by-hour review and percentage reduction in reviewing the same fee application, but the percentage reduction is not applied wholesale after making hour-by-hour reductions. See Qorvo, Inc. v. Akoustis Techs., Inc., Case No. 1:21-cv-01417-JPM, slip op., 2024 WL 5165155, at *6–7 (D. Del. Sept. 9, 2024) (applying line-item reductions to some buckets of the fee application, while applying percentage reductions to others).

fees simply because some of a prevailing party's related claims are unsuccessful."[13] Again, in Tenafly Eruv Ass'n, Inc. v. Borough of Tenafly, the Third Circuit concluded "that the issues presented by appellants are linked sufficiently that work performed on one would likely have had value for the others."[14] The fact that Transco may have attempted to rely on different Contract provisions does not change the analysis, since the claims are based on a "common core of facts" and the legal arguments are "intertwined."[15]

The C.J. Hughes case is illustrative. There, the court declined to parse the contractor's fee award where the litigation centered on enforcing the project owner's payment obligations under the contract:

> In this case, all of C.J. Hughes' claims arose from the same common core of facts. All arose relating to C.J. Hughes' work under the [construction agreement] and EQM's payment obligations thereunder. This is a prime example of a case where "much of counsel was devoted generally to the litigation as a whole, making it difficult to divide the hours expended on a claim-by-claim basis." The Court declines, therefore, to undertake a claim by claim, hour by hour, review of the time expended by counsel for C.J. Hughes.[16]

Transco's own authority comes to the same conclusion. In D.A. Nolt Inc. v. Philadelphia Municipal Authority, for example, the court expressly stated that, where attorney fees are awarded under a Pennsylvania statute, fees will be awarded both for those attorney fees incurred Eckerhart*, 461 U.S. 424, 434–35 (1983) (holding that fees should not be reduced for unsuccessful related claims where a prevailing party's claims involve "a common core of facts or [are] based on related legal theories. [15] See Tenafly, 195 F. App'x at 98 ("Although these arguments were in some sense 'distinct' (in that they were based on different legal provisions), this is not a reason to deny fees for all claims. in pursuing the claim under the statute and for those associated inseparable claims based on "a common core of facts and related legal theories."[17] The court refused to base the fees on the damages awarded for the statutory claims and instead considered all claims litigated and whether any claims could be clearly apportioned from those warranting the fee award.

Transco's reliance on the Posner and Apple Corp. cases is similarly unavailing. In Posner, which was not a CASPA case, the court may have denied the fee application, but it expressly acknowledged the rule from McKenna and Hensley that courts should not reduce fee awards unless the unsuccessful claims are readily distinguishable from the successful claims.[18] And in Apple Corp., the award of attorney fees was based on the terms of a consent order, not a statute, and the claims could be clearly apportioned because they were not based on the same core facts.[19]

Here, Welded's claims and legal theories presented at trial each centered around the Contract, Transco's withholding of payments under the Contract, and the application of CASPA. The Court, like the McKenna and C.J. Hughes courts, should decline to cut a flat one-third from Young Conaway's time because, due to the "the overlapping nature of the claims," such time was devoted to the litigation as a whole. Op. at 31. As the Court already explained, "[t]he dispute before me centers around whether certain costs are properly billed to Transco under the Contract." Op. at 30. "Welded seeks payment of its unpaid invoices" while "Transco seeks affirmative recovery of payment already made for alleged improper charges and to avoid payment for those same costs in the unpaid invoices." Id. at 30–31. At bottom, the competing claims and legal theories before the Court are two sides of the same coin. Welded ultimately prevailed on the primary claims at issue, and Transco's argument to chop Welded's fee request by one-third has no merit.

II. Transco's attempts to make line-item deductions to Welded's invoices are similarly unavailing.

As an initial matter, Transco slept on its rights and cannot challenge the reasonableness of Welded's attorneys' fees and expenses at this late date, at least with respect to the pre-Effective Date fees and expenses. Transco, through its counsel, received ECF notice of the Welded's fee applications setting out the attorneys' fees and expenses that Welded incurred.[20] And Transco has been on notice since May 3, 2019, that Welded was seeking to recover its attorneys' fees and expenses from Transco under CASPA.[21] Yet Transco never objected or reserved rights to challenge the hours, rates, and time entries set forth in Weldeds' fee applications.

In any event, even if Transco had preserved its ability to challenge the reasonableness of attorneys' fees and expenses already approved by the Court, the dozens of arguments that Transco has invented to whittle down Welded's fee request are unavailing.

[20] Transco was not a "Notice Party" under the Interim Compensation Order [Main Case. D.I. 230] but received ECF notices.

[21] See, e.g., Complaint ¶ 358 ("Under 73 Pa. Cons. Stat. § 512(b), Transco's failure to comply with CASPA's payment terms requires that Welded be awarded a reasonable attorney fee in an amount to be determined by the Court, together with expenses."); ¶ 361 ("As a result of Williams's refusal to deliver or otherwise remit the Withheld Funds to Welded, Welded should be awarded its attorneys' fees and costs and [sic] incurred in bringing this action."); see also id. at 84 (stating a Prayer for Relief that included "[a]n award of damages, in an amount to be determined at trial, incurred as a result of Transco's violation of CASPA, plus any interest, penalties, attorneys' fees, and expenses provided for under the statute" and "[p]ayment of Welded's attorneys' fees and expenses incurred in connection with this adversary proceeding").

A. Welded's time entries are not related to "ancillary" claims and parties simply because they may implicate Williams [Appendices 7, 8, 9].[22]

Transco tries to argue that Welded cannot recover a fee award for matters that would implicate Williams because those matters would be "ancillary" to the litigation against Transco. For instance, Transco argues that Welded should not be able to recover for time entries (i) before January 2020 that refer to the "Williams litigation" generally (Appendix 7), (ii) related to the Defendants' motion to dismiss (Appendix 8), and (iii) related to the Defendants' motion to withdraw the reference (Appendix 9).[23] Transco is wrong on each account.

First, the time entries from before January 2020 referring to the "Williams litigation" relate to this matter. See Neiburg Decl. ¶¶ 20–21. For years, the Williams Companies, Inc., Williams Partners Operating, LLC, and Transco filed joint pleadings, joint motions and responses, and joint discovery papers.[24] The use of "Williams" in early time entries was not drawing a meaningful distinction. It was an expediency based on the understanding, shared by all parties, of the close relationship between Williams and Transco (and the claims against them). The cover page of Welded's Contract with Transco even used Williams's letterhead. See JX1.0001. During the argument on Transco's Appeal/Petition for Mandamus, moreover, Transco itself represented to the District Court that there was no need to distinguish among the Defendants.[25] In pursuing its Motion to Withdraw the Reference, Transco stated to the District Court that "Transco's and the Williams Defendants' witnesses are one and the same, and the fact witnesses and decision-makers for Transco and the Williams Defendants are also substantially the same. . . . Transco . . . has no employees."[26] The breach-of-contract claims against Transco and tortious-interference claims against Williams are highly interconnected.[27] Put simply, referring to the "Williams litigation" is not an indication that Welded was working on claims against Williams as opposed to claims against Transco.

Transco is similarly wrong to argue that the Defendants' motion to dismiss was a "Williams" matter rather than a "Transco" matter. Transco and the Williams entities jointly moved the Court to dismiss certain counts of the Complaint or, in the alternative, to abstain or transfer venue [Adv. D.I. 24]. Transco was named in each of the five counts that the Defendants sought to dismiss, including counts for breach of the implied covenant and for a declaratory judgment that Transco was not entitled to setoff. Moreover, the Defendants asked the Court to abstain from hearing Welded's claims against Transco or to transfer those claims to Oklahoma—and Welded's opposition to that request is clearly not ancillary to its efforts to hold Transco accountable for its contractual obligations.

Last, Transco is flat wrong that the Defendants' motion to withdraw the reference pertained to Williams, not Transco. Obj. ¶ 48. Again, Transco and the Williams entities jointly moved to withdraw the entire adversary proceeding (including the competing claims between Welded and Transco) to the District Court.[28] The focus of Welded's opposition to that motion was that (i) Transco waived its right to a jury trial by filing proofs of claim and (ii) Transco's competing breach-of-contract claims were core bankruptcy matters for which the Court has constitutional authority to enter final orders.[29] The District Court denied the motion to withdraw and, specifically as to Transco, denied it with prejudice.[30] Welded's claims against Williams were parked until Welded's claims against Transco were resolved by this Court.[31] So the withdrawal proceedings were not ancillary to Welded's contract claims against Transco; rather, they were what allowed Welded to move forward to trial and judgment on those claims.

B. Attorneys' fees are not "unnecessary" simply because Transco prevailed on a particular motion during the litigation [Appendices 15, 16, 17, 18].[32]

Transco cannot now relitigate Welded's success as the substantially prevailing party. Even so, Transco cherry-picks isolated case events to try to argue that Welded was unsuccessful, and thus incurred fees unnecessarily, on certain matters. Specifically, Transco argues that Welded was "unsuccessful on all aspects" of Welded's first motion for summary judgment (Appendix 15), its motion to enforce the Court's waiver order and obtain sanctions (Appendix 18), its opposition to Transco's motion to compel a further 30(b)(6) deposition (Appendix 16), and its motion to quash Scott Schoenherr's deposition (Appendix 17).

There are two main problems with Transco's argument that Welded was unsuccessful and that the fees it incurred were unnecessary. First, Transco overstates Welded's supposed lack of success on these matters. Welded was, for example, ultimately successful on the claims underlying its first motion for summary judgment. In its Opinion, the Court ruled that CASPA applies to the Contract and that Welded is entitled to recover its labor costs and Equipment Fee. Welded is not aware of any caselaw denying attorneys' fees related to a motion for summary judgment that was ultimately borne out by the facts at trial. Success for a substantially prevailing party is not measured piecemeal throughout the case.

Welded was similarly successful on its motion to enforce the Court's waiver order. The Court had first found a "complete waiver" of privilege and work-product protection nearly a year earlier and had ordered Transco to produce the audit documents on multiple occasions. On appeal, the District Court agreed, denying the Defendants' request for mandamus and explaining that "frankly I think [the Court's decision] was appropriate" and that "'complete waiver' . . . was the appropriate language to use in this case."[33] And, though Judge Sontchi "g[a]ve [Transco] the benefit of the doubt" and declined to impose specific sanctions, the Court granted Welded's motion to enforce the waiver order partially and directed Transco to produce unredacted documents [Adv. D.I. 267 at ¶¶ 23–24].

Welded's purported lack of success on the 30(b)(6) and Schoenherr motions was, at the very least, more nuanced than Transco suggests. Prior to Transco's motion to compel an additional 30(b)(6) deposition, Welded had already presented four different corporate representatives for a total of 44 hours of testimony in their individual and corporate representative capacities. Welded justifiably took the position that yet another deposition would be overkill. Welded was similarly justified in opposing the deposition of Scott Schoenherr, Welded's former employee. Welded filed the motion seeking to quash the deposition until

Welded was able to confer with Mr. Schoenherr and probe the communications that had occurred between Mr. Schoenherr and Transco's counsel without including Welded's counsel—circumstances that Transco had been less than candid about at a hearing the day before. Indeed, at a subsequent hearing on Transco's emergency motion for authority to proceed with a re-noticed deposition, Judge Sontchi remarked that he was "concerned that [he] was perhaps not dealt with truthfully . . . ." [Adv. D.I. 234 at 43:3–6]. At the end of the day, Mr. Schoenherr's deposition occurred only after the Court had vetted the situation and imposed procedural guardrails for the deposition. Transco's contention that Welded was unsuccessful on these matters is thus overstated, particularly given that they were all in service of Welded's ultimate victory at trial.

Second, as explained above, the Third Circuit has instructed that courts should not reduce fee awards for unsuccessful claims that are related to successful claims.[34] The Stimson Lumber case that Transco relies on is not to the contrary.[35] In that case, the court reduced the fee award explicitly because the claims at issue involved real property and, by their very nature, real-property claims are always distinct based on the parcel.[36]

Here, all of these matters that Transco takes issue with are related to Welded's ultimate success on its contract claims at trial. Welded prevailed on the claims underlying its initial motion for summary judgment. Transco abandoned the audit as a basis for its claims and defenses at trial once Welded finally obtained the audit documents that Transco withheld.[37] The

C. Recovering the amounts owed for unpaid invoices necessarily required Welded to defeat Transco's contractual setoff claims [Appendices 11, 12, 13, 14].

Transco attempts to argue that Welded's fees were incurred defending against Transco's arguments that it was overcharged rather than proving that Welded was entitled to recover on its invoices. Obj. ¶¶ 51–58. But the Court itself recognized "the overlapping nature of the claims" here.[40] To recover on its invoices, Welded had to disprove the scheduling penalty claim that Transco asserted (and for which Transco withheld $1.9 million) way back on October 4, 2018.[41] To recover on its invoices, Welded had to disprove Transco's claim to set off the amounts that Transco claimed to be overcharged for excessive tie-in welds, rework, weld repairs, and early mobilization. Id. Transco cannot seek to obtain setoffs and prevent Welded from recovering on its breach-of-contract claim by interposing contractual arguments that it was overcharged and then complain that Welded's efforts to defeat those arguments are unrelated to Welded's own contract claims.

As in McKenna, C.J. Hughes, Tenafly, and D.A. Nolt, the competing claims between Welded and Transco relating to invoicing and payment under the Contract cannot be clearly apportioned. It would therefore be inappropriate, indeed impossible, to limit Welded's fee award to only its "underpayment" claims as opposed to Transco's "overpayment" claims. Transco initiated the whole dispute with the October 4 letter, Oklahoma Complaint, and its proofs of claim. Appl. ¶ 11. And in the pretrial order, Transco identified more than $85 million in setoff claims. See Adv. D.I. 390-1 at 53–56. During the litigation, Transco admitted that its claims involved overlapping facts with Welded's affirmative claims.[42] The Court agreed on several occasions.[43]

Welded sought payment for unpaid invoices, and Transco sought to set off the amounts it claimed it was overcharged. It is two sides of the same coin. And the Court found that Welded "ultimately prevailed on the primary claims at issue," all of which dealt with a common core of facts. Op. at 168.

Fees awarded under CASPA are not limited to those incurred pursuing affirmative claims.[44] Even Transco's expert opined that, if Transco had defeated Welded's CASPA claims, it would have been entitled to recover attorneys' fees. In Zimmerman v. Harrisburg Fudd I, L.P., the Pennsylvania Superior Court held that post-judgment collection fees are recoverable because CASPA's purpose of making the contractor whole "is compromised when he is subjected to expensive litigation costs."[45] In E. Allen Reeves, Inc. v. Old York, LLC, the court affirmed a fee award that included expenses incurred in related bankruptcy proceedings.[46] CASPA permits recovery of all attorneys' fees reasonably incurred in pursuing or protecting the payment right, including ancillary or defensive litigation that is inextricably linked to the CASPA claim.

Transco fares no better with its argument that Welded cannot recovery the attorneys' fees and costs identified in Appendix 13 because those fees related to or involved work with experts retained to "defend against claims that are unrelated to the claims associated with Welded's collection on the Contract balance." Obj. ¶ 58 (applying a 2/3 reduction to Young Conaway's fees).[47] In the first place, the two-thirds reduction is arbitrary—as the Neiburg Declaration shows, Dr. Singh's workstream was far more limited than Mr. Gray's and Mr. Kakol's.[48] Moreover, it is hard to imagine how Mr. Gray's work could be considered unrelated to Welded's claim to recover under the Contract when Mr. Gray was the one who quantified the amounts that Welded was owed under the Contract. Welded relied on Mr. Kakol to rebut the opinions offered by Mr. Triche that Welded had overcharged for items like tie-in welds and early mobilization.

[48] See Neiburg Decl. at Appendix II.b–d (summarizing expert fees incurred by Ankura, Contech, and PolymaPro).

Accordingly, Young Conaway's work with Messrs. Gray and Kakol was directly related to Welded's successful attempt to recover payment on the Contract balance.

Every dispute here arose out of the same core facts and legal theories: Welded sought to recover the amounts it invoiced by arguing that it properly billed Transco for its work, and Transco sought to avoid its payment obligations by arguing it was overcharged. The claims and defenses here are inextricably intertwined—indeed, they are mirror images of one another—and cannot be split apart in the way Transco claims.

D. Welded provides sufficient detail to demonstrate that the fees and expenses it seeks are recoverable [Appendices 1, 2, 3, 6, 23].[49]

In its Application and the Neiburg Declaration, Welded detailed the experience of Young Conaway attorneys who worked on the case, their respective hourly rates, a narrative describing the work performed, the hours worked, and the amounts billed. See Neiburg Decl. ¶ 14 (describing the experience of the 13 principal timekeepers); id. ¶ 37 (providing summaries of professional services rendered); id. at Exs. 1–69 (monthly billing statements detailing the work performed, and amount billed by each timekeeper). This is precisely the information that the District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania found sufficient to determine that a fee request made under CASPA was reasonable.[50]

Young Conaway's time entries (including those Transco takes issue with in Appendices 6 and 23) are sufficiently detailed to allow the Court to determine reasonableness. When analyzing a petition for attorneys' fees, courts should ensure that "[a]ny hours to be used in calculating attorneys' fees . . . be detailed with sufficient specificity."[51] The level of detail should allow a court to "determine if the hours claimed are unreasonable for the work performed."[52] "'[I]t is not necessary,' however, 'to know the exact number of minutes spent nor the precise activity to which each hour was devoted nor the specific attainments of each attorney.'"[53] The preferred practice in the Third Circuit is to submit contemporaneous time records in support of a fee application[54]—as Welded did here.

The cases in which courts have rejected time entries as being too vague are readily distinguishable from the situation here. In Tenafly Eruv Association v. Borough of Tenafly, the Third Circuit analyzed contemporaneous time records and determined that certain narratives (e.g., "attn to papers," "communications," and "emails") for those time entries were vague such that the court could not determine reasonableness.[55] In Clemens v. New York Central Mutual Fire Insurance Co., the court found certain time entries (e.g., "other," "communicate," "communicate-other," "attorney review," "analysis/strategy," or "review/analyze") impermissibly vague.[56]

The time entries here are far more like those that courts have deemed to be sufficiently specific. In Burgo v. Boulevard Autogroup, LLC, the court found that "[t]ime entries such as "miscellaneous research, telephone conversations, and conferences concerning facts, evidence, and witnesses' are sufficiently specific."[57] Similarly, in Carpenter Technology, the court found that "legal research," "analysis of issues," "review of correspondence," and "review documents" were specific enough to award fees.[58]

Young Conaway's time entries are sufficiently detailed and satisfy the specificity requirements for the Third Circuit. Indeed, (1) the entries recording research identify the topic; (2) the entries recording communications, correspondence, and/or meetings identify who was involved and the topic of discussion; (3) the entries recording document review describe the types of documents being reviewed; and (4) the entries recording document drafting identify the type of document being drafted. See generally, Neiburg Decl. Exs. 1–69.

Tellingly, the Court has already approved Welded's interim fee applications and final fee application. Appl. ¶¶ 48, 50.[59] The Court would not have done so were the time entries unreasonable or insufficiently descriptive. Section 330 of title 11 and Rule 2016 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure mandate that bankruptcy professionals seeking compensation from the bankruptcy estate must file applications that include a detailed statement of the services rendered, time expensed, and expenses incurred.[60] Rule 2016 does not permit estimates or vague descriptions; instead, it requires contemporaneous and accurate documentation of the work performed.[61] Compensation may only be awarded for actual and necessary services that provide [59] As Mr. Neiburg stated in his declaration, the billing practices pre- and post- effective date were identical. Neiburg Decl., ¶ 32. Transco asserts no basis to distinguish Young Conaway's Post-Plan Effective Date time entries differently from the Pre-Plan Effective Date time entries, especially where such entries were already approved by the Court as reasonable.

a benefit to the estate.[62] The Court has already made these findings for Young Conaway's Pre-Plan Effective Date invoices. Transco offers no response to this argument. Young Conaway's time entries were sufficiently specific when it created them and when the Court approved them, and they remain sufficiently specific now.

Finally, and as Mr. Neiburg already explained, "Young Conaway undertook a detailed review of its invoices and time entries in connection with the Adversary Proceeding and related appeals to ensure that only the fees and expenses associated with services performed in connection with the Adversary Proceeding and related appeals are sought thought the application. To the extent Young Conaway could not identify with a high degree of certainty that the time billed to non-B768 task codes was time appropriately billed to the Adversary Proceeding or related appeals, the fees associated with such time entries are not sought through the Application." See Neiburg Decl. ¶¶ 20–21.

While the time entries Transco identifies in Appendices 1, 2, and 3 were properly billed by Young Conaway, Welded wishes to avoid burdening the Court with unnecessary litigation. Accordingly, Welded will no longer seek to recover the fees associated with the time entries that have been highlighted in yellow in Exhibits A–C, respectively, within Appendix B to this Reply.[63]

In addition to the highlighted time entries in Exhibits A–C relating to Appendices 1–3, Welded no longer seeks to recover the fees associated with the time entries highlighted in yellow in Appendices 5, 6, 9, 11, 12, 13, 19, 22, 23, 24, and 27, as shown in Exhibits D–N within Appendix B. Only those Appendices with yellow highlighting reflecting agreed on deductions regarding certain time entries appear in the exhibits within Appendix B. These highlighted time entries are in addition to the fees for time entries Welded no longer seeks to recover as described in Section IV, infra, and as shown in Appendix A. For the avoidance of doubt, if Appendix B does not include an exhibit with a yellow-highlighted version of a particular Appendix to the Ewald Declaration, or if Welded does not otherwise expressly state that it will forego recovery of the fees included in an entire Appendix as stated in Section IV, infra, Welded still seeks to recover those fees and expenses.

E. Young Conaway's fees are not excessive [Appendices 19, 20, 21].[64]

Generally, courts should not cut time unless it is "obviously and convincingly excessive."[65] The Third Circuit has itself indicated that courts should not be cutting time without expressly identifying the entries they find excessive and specifying the number of hours that would be reasonable for the challenged time entries.[66] As a result, it is a nonstarter for Transco to suggest that the Court should simply cut Young Conaway's fees in half for time spent preparing the pretrial brief and pretrial order (Appendix 19), preparing the post-trial brief (Appendix 20), and preparing and participating in mediation (Appendix 21).[67]

Courts recognize, moreover, that significant matters require significant efforts from the attorneys involved. In C.J. Hughes, for example, the court concluded that the hours expended by counsel were reasonable under CASPA given the scope and complexity of the matter:

> The Court also believes that the number of hours expended by counsel and associated paraprofessionals is reasonable in light of the length and scope of this action. This case has been pending for over five years. The parties engaged in extensive discovery (including over twenty depositions), the case required multiple rounds of briefing on dispositive motions before and after trial, preparation for trial, and a jury trial exceeding two weeks in length. Finally, the case presented complex and unique issues of fact and law that required an extensive expenditure of time. Taking all of these facts together, and informed by the details provided by C.J. Hughes, the Court holds that its fee request is reasonable.[68]

Young Conaway's efforts here were commensurate with those of counsel in C.J. Hughes. In C.J. Hughes, the contractor incurred $1,634,761.44 in legal fees and expenses to recover damages of $11,684,314.42, which equates to $1 spent in attorney fees for every $7.15 recovered.[69] For its part, Welded incurred $12,728,507.55 (fees and expenses) to recover $102,079,431.01, which equates to $1 spent for every $8.02 recovered.

Transco does not explain what a reasonable expenditure of time would be for the pretrial brief, joint pretrial order, post-trial brief, and mediation time entries found in Appendices 19, 20, and 21. It would have been easy for Transco to provide a simple comparison—how many hours did Transco incur with respect to the same work streams? Either Transco never considered making this comparison, or it did and thought it best not to include the comparison. Regardless, Transco offers nothing to support its claims of excessiveness, or its arbitrary 50% deduction, beyond the ipse dixit of its purported expert. See Obj. ¶¶ 108, 109.

Young Conaway did the work that was required to best present Welded's case. The case, from start to finish, was a complicated and multi-faceted breach-of-contract case with a difficult opponent and a CASPA overlay. Trial took place over 10 days and involved extensive opening arguments and presentations, six fact witnesses and four expert witnesses, the identification of nearly 2,900 exhibits, and the designation of 29 deposition transcripts. The parties submitted 200 pages of pre- and post-trial briefing and provided six hours of post-trial argument.[70] The Court analyzed the issues from the close of trial in September 2023 through February 2025 when the Court issued its 169-page Opinion. Nothing about this case was simple or straightforward.[71]

The same issues and materials that existed for trial existed for mediation—i.e., Welded's claims to recover improperly withheld payments under the Contract and Transco's attempts to setoff against those amounts. Transco's offhanded argument that mediation did not involve the same claims for the collection of invoiced amounts is absurd.

[71] Even after Welded's Plan went effective and its counsel stopped filing fee applications, the plan administrator continued to monitor Young Conaway's fees and expenses, as demonstrated by the various time entries related to

F. Young Conaway's fees are not redundant [Appendices 22, 27].[72]

Where an opposing party fails to identify the specific attorneys who performed duplicative work and the fee application itself does not suggest duplicative billing, a court is not required to reduce the fee award.[73] Transco needs to do more than make generalized allegations about multiple Young Conaway attorneys attending depositions, conferences, meetings, hearings, and the trial.

Yet the only specific references Transco gives the Court are those Young Conaway attorneys that attended trial. The court in Bayer Cropscience AG v. Dow Agrosciences LLC shot down an argument similar to the one Transco makes here. In that case, a party (Bayer) objected that billing for six attorneys to attend a summary judgment hearing was redundant. The court put Bayer's objection in context: "[s]urely, if Bayer believed the summary judgment hearing . . . reasonably required the attendance of four attorneys plus two local counsel, it can hardly quarrel with the reasonableness of Dow's expenditure of fees for the same number of attorneys. Put bluntly, what's reasonable for Bayer should be reasonable for Dow."[74] Transco cannot quarrel with the number of Young Conaway attorneys that attended trial. As the Court well knows, Transco felt it was proper to have two partners, two associates, Delaware counsel, and at times, Transco's in-house counsel present at trial. Similar to Welded, only two of Transco's attorneys addressed the Court or a witness. What is good for the goose is good for the gander.

litigation funding and the budget that Transco takes issue with in Appendix 4. As noted in Section IV below, while these time entries were reasonable and appropriately billed, to avoid unnecessary litigation and burden on the Court, Welded will no longer seek to recover the fees identified in Appendix 4.

[72] Obj. ¶¶ 114–117.

[73] See Morris v. Astrue, No. 10-414-LPS-CJB, 2013 WL 257108, at *5 (D. Del. Jan. 23, 2013) (internal citation omitted).

[74] Bayer Cropscience AG v. Dow Agrosciences LLC, No. 12-256 RMB/JS, 2015 WL 5772219, at *3 (D. Del. June 18, 2015).

The Bayer Cropscience court also noted that Dow made the decision that one associate should not attend every day of trial "although it is evident from the billing entries that he was fully involved with the preparation of the hearing."[75] The same can be said here for Ms. Fortunato, Mr. Lambe, and Ms. Eastes, who each were integral to the Welded team—performing extensive pre- and post-trial work including preparing fact and expert witnesses for deposition and trial, defending depositions, identifying exhibits, and drafting motions and briefing. They also provided invaluable assistance during trial in developing and preparing argument in response to claims and legal theories asserted by Transco for the first time at trial. And contrary to Transco's assertion in the Objection, neither Ms. Fortunato, nor Mr. Lambe, nor Ms. Eastes attended every day of trial despite their extensive contributions to preparing Welded and its witnesses for trial. See Neiburg Supp. Decl. ¶ 8.

Nor is there any merit to the argument that Young Conaway's fees were redundant because it utilized "transient" timekeepers. See Appendix 27; see also Neiburg Decl. at Exs. 1–69. Transco arbitrarily asserts that attorneys and professionals contributing 100 or fewer hours to this matter are "transient" and did not provide value to Welded because their time was inefficient.[76] Yet Transco fails to identify which time entries associated with those "transient" timekeepers were inefficient or to provide even one or two examples to support its position. Young Conaway is a large firm that, like any other large law firm, experiences turnover and attrition. See Neiburg Supp. Decl. ¶ 3. Moreover, many of the timekeepers who billed fewer than 100 hours to the matter were used expressly for discrete tasks because they were able to perform certain work at lower billing rates. See id. ¶¶ 5–6. In fact, every timekeeper Transco

[76] Neither Transco nor its so-called expert explain the legal basis for asserting that 100 hours is the threshold for timekeepers whose work is inefficient or does not provide value.

identified in Appendix 27 (i) was utilized to perform legal research or perform document review of tens, if not hundreds, of thousands of documents exchanged between the parties, (ii) was a paralegal utilized to perform clerical tasks, (iii) left Young Conaway (and thus only appeared to be transient), (iv) was added to the Welded team to compensate for attrition, (v) was an eDiscovery team member utilized specifically in document collection and production, (vi) was a subject matter expert utilized on a discrete issue, or (vii) was utilized for legal services that Young Conaway no longer seeks to recover through the Application. See id. ¶¶ 3–7.

For these reasons, Young Conaway's fees are not redundant; thus, the fees sought in connection with the time entries identified in Appendices 22 and 27 should not be reduced.

G. Transco misunderstands the facts [Appendices 5, 24].

Several of Transco's arguments to reduce Welded's fee award are based on a misapprehension of the facts. For instance, in Appendix 5,[77] Transco takes issue with 44.9 hours billed for administrative work allegedly performed by attorneys. In total, 129 time entries appear on Appendix 5. Of those 129 time entries, eighty entries amounting to 21.1 billed hours valued at $6,717.50 belong to Beth Olivere (BOLIV) and Brenda Walters (BWALT), two of Young Conaway's paralegals. See Neiburg Decl. ¶ 14. Transco's asserted objection of $21,035.00 worth of fees appearing on Appendix 5 should thus be reduced to $14,317.50. With respect to the balance, many of the time entries identified by Transco as clerical or administrative work relate to Young Conaway's analysis of (i) invoices and negotiation of lower rates and write-offs with respect to expert witnesses and vendors or (ii) partner or senior associate review and execution of ESI protocols and considerations.[78] These types of analyses were necessary and

[78] See e.g., Erin Edwards (EEDWA) May 7, 2020 time entry: "Second level review (5.2); analyze invoice ESI options (.4); telephone to M. Neiburg re: same (.4); emails with DLS re: additional statistics (.3); see also Kevin important to prosecuting Welded's case in this matter, were appropriately billed, and are appropriately recoverable here.

Transco also takes issue with certain tasks performed by senior attorneys. See Appendix 24.[79] Senior and supervising partners and attorneys are not precluded from billing on the matters they oversee. The Third Circuit confirmed in Carpenter Technology, "[w]hile much routine work can and should be directed to low level attorneys, senior attorneys still have an obligation to contribute minimally to cases they oversee."[80] The tasks Transco complains about in Appendix 24 are either not attributable to partners or are entirely appropriate (if not required) for partners to perform.

First, Transco claims that senior Young Conaway partners improperly billed 412.9 hours, valued at $299,284.50, for tasks such as legal research, document review, and drafting of basic pleadings and memoranda. Of the 261 time entries that appear on Appendix 24, 23 entries amounting to 64.5 hours valued at $39,614 belong to Roxanne Eastes (REAST), Lauren Fortunato (LFORT), and Travis Buchanan (TBUCH). Roxanne Eastes and Lauren Fortunato, responsible for 5.3 hours valued at $2,707.50, are not partners. See Neiburg Decl. ¶¶ 14(f), 14(i). Travis Buchanan became a partner in January 2022. The time entries for Mr. Buchanan appearing on Appendix 24 while he was an associate total $26,693.00. Accordingly, Transco's objection to and proposed deduction of $299,284.50 worth of fees appearing on Appendix 24 must be reduced by $66,307 in the first instance.

Guerke (KGUER) time entries from July 5, 6, 12, and 14, 2022: "Review expert invoices and emails with expert re: same"; "Emails with expert re: invoices."

[79] See Obj. ¶¶ 120, 122–123.

[80] 808 F. Supp. at 412.

Second, Transco objects to time entries for Kevin Guerke (KGUER) and Michael Neiburg (MNEIB), which include 193 time entries amounting to 294.9 billed hours valued at $221,605.50. The vast majority of Mr. Guerke's and Mr. Neiburg's time entries appearing on Appendix 24 are entirely appropriate—if not required—for the two primary partners assigned to this case. These time entries include: (i) second-level review and production review of documents produced to Transco (necessitating the highest levels of factual knowledge and privilege review); (ii) analyzing Transco's responses and objections to Welded's discovery requests; (iii) identifying legal issues; (iv) discussions with the surety, the client, and the committee regarding claims and discovery status; (v) supervising Young Conaway attorneys with respect to document review, subpoenas, and protective orders; (vi) analyzing documents produced by Transco to develop litigation strategies; (vii) reviewing research to prepare for argument and deposition; (viii) analyzing Transco's filings; and (ix) correspondence with Transco's counsel regarding depositions. See Neiburg Suppl. Decl. ¶ 9.

The cases cited by Transco do not support a 75% cut to Mr. Guerke's and Mr. Neiburg's time. Rather, those cases provide support only for the proposition that senior attorneys should not be conducting basic research. In Ursic, the court created the oft-repeated phrase "Michelangelo should not charge Sistine Chapel rates for painting a farmer's barn."[81] Even a cursory glance at Appendix 24 demonstrates that Mr. Guerke and Mr. Neiburg are not performing basic research.

Appendix 24 also identifies time entries by James Higgins (JHIGG) totaling 51.6 hours valued at $37,855. Mr. Higgins is the partner at Young Conaway who worked with Dr. Singh, [81] Ursic v. Bethlehem Mines, 719 F.2d 670, 677 (3d Cir. 1983) (holding that an attorney cannot demand a high hourly rate and then rack up inordinate charges conducting research).

Welded's coating expert. To avoid further burden on the Court and unnecessary litigation, Welded will no longer seek to recover the fees and expenses associated with Dr. Singh, including those Transco identifies in Appendix 10. With respect to Appendix 24, Welded will also agree to deduct $37,855 in fees for time billed by Mr. Higgins.

Other than as set forth in this Section II.G. of the Reply, the Court should not reduce the fees recoverable by Welded for time entries identified on Appendix 24.

H. CASPA allows a substantially prevailing party to recover expert and consultant fees.

Transco does not identify a single case in which a court held that CASPA precludes a substantially prevailing party from recovering expert and consultant fees as part of the expense award authorized under § 512(b). There are no such cases. Indeed, expert fees are routinely considered litigation expenses, as the Court well knows.[82]

Awarding expert fees to Welded here comports with the purpose of CASPA—to cure abuses in the construction industry and encourage fair dealing. As the Pennsylvania Supreme Court explained in the Scungio Borst case, absent CASPA, "an unpaid contractor would be required to pay its own litigation costs, including attorneys' fees and expenses."[83] And if, for example, the contractor's expected recoveries "were less than the cost of litigation," the contractor "might well be dissuaded from vindicating its rights."[84] CASPA reduced these

"disincentives for contractors to pursue their contractual rights" by providing for contractors to recover their attorneys' fees and litigation expenses.[85]

That CASPA does not specify the litigation "expenses" a contractor may recover is not a reason to disqualify experts fees or any other particular litigation expense. Courts must accord remedial statutes like CASPA "a liberal construction 'to effect [their] objects and to promote justice.'"[86] And allowing contractors to recover expert fees among their other litigation expenses furthers the goals of CASPA articulated by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court in Scungio Borst.

The Pennsylvania Unfair Trade Practice and Consumer Protection Law ("UTPCPL") provides an apt comparison. That statute permits the court to award a reasonable attorney fee, but the statute does not mention expert fees explicitly.[87] Nonetheless, in Krishnan v. Cutler Group, Inc., the Pennsylvania superior court upheld the trial court's award of expert fees.[88] According to the trial court there, "'it is far more in keeping with the intent of the legislation that the claimant be made whole and not have to diminish his recovery by paying attorney[s'] fees.'"[89] And "the same logic applies when considering an award of costs, including expert fees."[90]

CASPA exists to protect contractors by, among other things, reducing the risk that litigation expenses would deter a contractor from vindicating its rights. CASPA does so by reversing the "American Rule" where each side pays its own attorneys' fees and litigation expenses. The Pennsylvania legislature could have limited contractors to recovering just their attorneys' fees, or it could have carved out certain litigation expenses, if that was what it intended. But it did not. Expert fees are a litigation expense and are recoverable under CASPA.

The same is true of consultant fees. See Obj. ¶ 69 (arguing that the Pennsylvania legislature did not specifically identify consultant fees as litigation expenses). Transco also attempts to argue that the services AlixPartners provided were unrelated to Welded's claims that it was underpaid and Transco's claims that it was overcharged. But even a cursory review of the AlixPartners invoices reveals that AlixPartners developed a specific task code related to the litigation of the Adversary Proceeding, which was separate and distinct from the work performed in the main chapter 11 case. See Neiburg Decl., at Ex. 80.[91] AlixPartners provided invaluable assistance with respect to recovery waterfall scenarios and models, developing and analyzing the litigation budget, and calculating final damages as provided in the Opinion and Judgment. These consultant fees are related to the CASPA claims. They are litigation expenses. And they are recoverable under CASPA.

III. Jankowski cannot save Transco's arguments by telling the Court what is reasonable.

As it did at trial, Transco attempts to use expert testimony to carry its water on the legal questions before the Court.[92] This is improper and unhelpful. Mr. Jankowski states: "[t]his report reflects my opinions regarding the reasonableness of the fees and costs presented by Young." Id. at 2. But the determination of the reasonableness of attorneys' fees and expenses is a legal question for the Court alone to decide.[93] The reasonableness of Welded's request for attorneys' fees is the precise question the Court is being asked to answer in the Application. Mr. Jankowski's reasonableness opinions invade the province of the Court and are unhelpful.

[91] Examples of these entries include "Constructing analysis for recovery assumptions," "Updated recovery and presentation for litigation scenario requested," "Discuss commitment letter, potential declaration and summary judgment response," and "Review ASR reconciliation and invoice PDF for trial prep." See e.g., Neiburg Decl., Ex. 80, at 372 of 384 – 378 of 384.

Even if Mr. Jankowski's conclusions were a proper subject of expert opinion, his report (the "Report") is not credible for at least four reasons. First, Mr. Jankowski is merely a mouthpiece for Transco and its counsel, adopting their opinions and work product.[94] His report states: "Watt has provided me with multiple appendices of Young's time entries identifying and drawing my attention to possible examples of problematic billings." Report at 6. In other words, Transco performed the analysis and spoon-fed it to Mr. Jankowski. Simply regurgitating material and offering it as expert opinion is impermissible.[95] Transco made a similar attempt at trial with its expert, Brian Triche.[96] The Court rejected that effort at trial and should do the same here.

Second, Mr. Jankowski is not qualified. He is a nearly retired surety-company executive and former in-house lawyer with little relevant experience. He claims to have attended trials in the 1980s, but a search of Westlaw revealed only light involvement in civil litigation. He may be a lawyer with some experience, but most of his experience is not relevant to this case. He has no experience in Delaware. He has no experience in bankruptcy court. He does not disclose any bankruptcy trial experience and has no trial experience at all in 30 years. And he has no experience litigating CASPA claims. Mr. Jankowski taking issue with Welded developing, discussing, and executing case strategy illustrates his misunderstanding of commercial litigation in bankruptcy court. Report at 11. The cases that Mr. Jankowski "handled" in Pennsylvania as a government lawyer in the early 1980s may have been routine, but, in complex high-risk litigation, strategy is paramount. Id. at 3.

Third, Mr. Jankowski does not disclose what specific information or data he relied on in forming his opinions. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26(a)(2)(B)(ii) requires an expert report to include "the facts or data considered by the witness in forming" the expert's opinions. Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(a)(2)(B)(ii). Mr. Jankowski identifies the Application, Opinion, CASPA, and "[p]leadings, motions, reports, briefs, declarations, and other correspondence relating to the referenced litigation." Report at 6. That generic description covers a six-year docket with 483 filings, yet the Report does not specify which docket submissions he actually reviewed. Mr. Jankowski was required to disclose the specific materials he reviewed and how he selected the specific materials he reviewed, all of which are unknown to Welded and the Court. Regardless, whatever materials Mr. Jankowski relied on did not provide him with an accurate picture of the litigation. Indeed, a central fact used in the Report is wrong. Mr. Jankowski states: "Welded was awarded a net judgment in the amount of $44,632,30[8]." Id. However, this figure is off by $57,447,123.01. See Judgment. This mistake draws into question whether Mr. Jankowski ever read the Judgment on which he is basing his opinions. Indeed, the Judgment is not listed as a document reviewed. See Report at 6. There is also no evidence that Mr. Jankowski considered the billing rates and time entries of similarly situated law firms or comparably skilled practitioners. For example, Mr. Jankowski could have compared the skill, experience, and size of Welded's trial team to Transco's trial team and could have easily reviewed the work performed and invoices submitted as a reference point for his opinions. He failed to do so, or, if he did, he did not mention this in the Report.

Fourth, Mr. Jankowski did not use any recognized methodology, standards, or benchmarks in formulating his opinions. "An expert must explain how and why he or she has reached the conclusion being proffered and must have as a basis more than a subjective belief or speculation."[97] Mr. Jankowski states: "I have applied a mindset and methodology that I have developed over my 40+ years working in the fields of surety claims and construction disputes." Report at 2. In the Report, Mr. Jankowski opined that certain fees and expenses should be reduced by 50% or 75%. Id. at 8, 11, 14. However, he offers no methodology to support such reductions. As a result, Welded and the Court have no way to evaluate the reliability and credibility of Mr. Jankowski's process in reaching the categorical reductions set forth in the Report. The Report is full of similarly arbitrary conclusions unsupported by any identifiable methodology or process.

The most glaring defect that pervades Mr. Jankowski's Report is his opinion that "Welded's fee award should be reduced for the level of limited success it achieved." Report at 16. Anyone looking at the case "holistically" as Mr. Jankowski suggests would consider Welded's result an overwhelming success.

In the end, Mr. Jankowski is uninformed and unqualified, and his opinions are disconnected from the facts. The Court is well acquainted with the complexities of the case and the relevant issues, having presided over it for two years and inherited a docket dating back to

[97] Cantor v. Perelman, No. CIVA 97-586 KAJ, 2006 WL 3462596, at *2 (D. Del. Nov. 30, 2006).

2019. Indeed, after six years of contentious litigation and a two-week trial, the parties developed a massive record that ultimately resulted in a detailed 169-page Opinion unpacking dozens of complicated issues. The Court does not need Mr. Jankowski to tell it whether the fee request sought here is reasonable. Cf. Opinion at 116 ("The finder of fact—in this case me—does not need assistance in drawing the conclusions [Transco's expert] would like to be drawn from the evidence.").

IV. Miscellaneous arguments [Appendices 4, 10, 25, 26, 28, 29, 30]

Welded maintains that all the fees and expenses it seeks in the Application are reasonable and were properly invoiced and, indeed, have been paid by Welded. At the same time, Welded wishes to avoid burdening the Court with unnecessary litigation. Solely for purposes of the Application, Welded is willing to voluntarily forego its effort to recover the fees and expenses identified in the below-listed Appendices attached to the Ewald Declaration and addressed in Transco's Objection: (i) Appendix 4 – $24,446.50; (ii) Appendix 10 – $80,417.50; (iii) Appendix 25 – $19,315.00; (iv) Appendix 26 – $6,586.00; (v) Appendix 28 – $55,207.97; (vi) Appendix 29 – $22,050.00; and (vii) Appendix 30 – $12,843.94. This amounts to a reduction of $220,866.91. The individual time entries highlighted in yellow in Exhibits A–N, respectively, within Appendix B amount to a further reduction of $201,732.00. Welded is also willing to voluntarily forego the expenses charged by Dr. Singh in the amount of $54,625.33, for a combined voluntary reduction of $477,224.24. Accordingly, as reflected on Appendix A attached hereto, Welded will reduce the total amount of fees and expenses sought through the Application to $12,251,283.31.

RESERVATION OF RIGHTS

As asserted in the Application, Welded seeks to recover its Collection-of-Judgment Fees and Collection-of-Fees Fees, including those fees and expenses Welded has already incurred with respect to the Appeals, and Welded expressly reserves the right to submit a further application for those fees and expenses once they are quantifiable. See Appl. ¶¶ 67–70.

CONCLUSION

For the reasons set forth herein, Welded respectfully requests the Court grant this Application and find that Welded is entitled to attorneys' fees and expenses in the total amount of $12,251,283.31, plus the post-award attorneys' fees and expenses associated with collecting on the Judgment, including the Appeals, and collecting the fees and expenses themselves. A revised proposed judgment order is attached hereto.

However, the vast majority of the entries identified on Appendix 3 relate to this adversary proceeding and are recoverable under CASPA.(Reply § II. D.; s*ee also* Appendix B, Exhibit C) |
| App. 4: Attorneys' Fees for Litigation Funding | $24,466.50 | Time entries relating to funding the adversary proceeding should be excluded | $24,446.50 | While these fees are reasonable and were properly invoiced, Welded will no longer seek to recover the fees associated with the time entries identified in Appendix 4.(Reply § IV) |
| App. 5: Attorneys' Fees for Administrative Tasks performed by Timekeepers | $15,766.25 | Time entries for attorneys and paralegals performing administrative tasks should be reduced by 75% | $349.50 | The vast majority of the time entries identified on Appendix 5 reflect analyses that were necessary and important to prosecuting Welded's case in this matter. Those fees were appropriately invoiced and are recoverable under CASPA. However, Welded will no longer seek to recover the fees associated with the few entries highlighted in yellow in Exhibit D to Appendix B to the Reply.(Reply § II. G.; s*ee also* Appendix B, Exhibit D) |
| App. 6: Attorneys' Fees for Litigation Strategizing | $158,735.75 | Time entries relating to "litigation strategy" and "case strategy" are vague and should be reduced by 50% | $4,195.00 | Welded provided sufficient detail to demonstrate these fees are recoverable, and arbitrarily reducing the recovery by 50% is not appropriate. All of the fees are reasonable and were properly invoiced. However, Welded will no longer seek to recover the fees associated with the entries highlighted in yellow in Exhibit E to Appendix B to the Reply. The vast majority of the entries identified on Appendix 6 are recoverable.(Reply § II. D.; s*ee also* Appendix B, Exhibit E) |
| App. 7: Attorneys' Fees for Williams Parties | $166,118.50 | Time entries before January 2020 relating to "Williams litigation" are not distinguishable from, and do not pertain to Transco litigation, and should be reduced by 50% | $0.00 | The Williams Companies, Inc., Williams Partners Operating, LLC, and Transco filed joint pleadings, joint motions and responses, and joint discovery papers. The use of "Williams" in early time entries was not drawing a distinction. It was an expediency based on the parties' understanding of the close relationship between Williams and Transco (and the claims against them). The fees associated with the entries identified in Appendix 7 are recoverable under CASPA, and no reduction is warranted.(Reply § II. A.) |

| App. 8: Attorneys' Fees for Williams Parties | $62,957.25 | Time entries relating to Welded's opposition to Defendants' Motion to Dismiss should be reduced by 50% | $0.00 | Transco and the Williams entities jointly moved to dismiss certain counts of the Complaint or, in the alternative, to abstain or transfer venue. Transco was named in each of the five counts Defendants sought to dismiss. Further, Defendants asked the Court to abstain from hearing Welded's claims against Transco or to transfer those claims to Oklahoma. All of the fees associated with the entries identified in Appendix 8 are recoverable under CASPA, and no reduction is warranted.(Reply § II. A.) |
| App. 9: Attorneys' Fees for Motion for Withdrawal of the Reference | $112,308.00 | Time entries relating to the Motion to Withdraw the Reference pertain to Williams and should be excluded | $497.50 | Transco and the Williams entities jointly moved to withdraw the reference with respect to the entire adversary proceeding. Welded argued that Transco waived its right to a jury trial by filing proofs of claim and that the competing breach-of-contract claims were core bankruptcy matters. The motion to withdraw the reference, as it related to Transco, was denied with prejudice. However, Welded will no longer seek to recover the fees associated with the few entries highlighted in yellow in Exhibit F to Appendix B to the Reply.(Reply § II. A.; see also Appendix B, Exhibit F) |
| App. 10: Attorneys' Fees for Pipe/Coating Defects Claim Relating to Expert Singh | $80,417.50 | Time entries relating to Dr. Peter Singh, when Welded did not call him to testify at trial, should be excluded | $80,417.50 | The fees associated with the entries identified on Appendix 10 are reasonable and were properly invoiced. However, Welded will no longer seek to recover these fees, which relate to work with Dr. Singh on pipeline coating issues.(Reply § IV) |
| App. 11: Attorneys' Fees for Claim: Pipe/Coating Defects | $68,297.50 | Time entries relating to defending against Transco's claim for pipeline defects, including POC 632, should be excluded | $65,130.00 | The fees associated with the entries identified on Appendix 11 are reasonable and were properly invoiced. However, Welded will no longer seek to recover the fees highlighted in yellow in Exhibit G to Appendix B to the Reply.(Reply § II. C.; see also Appendix B, Exhibit G) |
| App. 12: Attorneys' Fees for Schedule Incentive/Weld Repairs Claim Relating to Expert Kakol | $92,784.50 | Time entries relating to Dennis Kakol, in support of Welded's claim for the schedule incentive bonus under the Contract and in defense of Tranco's claim for the schedule penalty under the Contract, as well as addressing Transco's counterclaims, should be excluded because Welded was not successful | $1,249.50 | The competing claims between Welded and Transco dealt with the same common core of facts and legal theories and cannot be apportioned to limit Welded's fee award to only its underpayment claims, as opposed to Transco's overpayment claims. The reduction proposed by Transco is not warranted. However, Welded will no longer seek to recover the fees associated with the few entries highlighted in yellow in Exhibit H to Appendix B to the Reply.(Reply § II. C.; see also Appendix B, Exhibit H) |
| App. 13: Attorneys' Fees for Welded's Vague Time Entries Relating to Pipe/Coating and Schedule Incentive/Weld Repair Claims & Experts | $332,196.74 | Time entries that relate to Welded's experts, but do not state which expert, are too vague to attribute to any specific expert and may be unrelated to CASPA claims, and should be reduced by 66.66% | $29,048.50 | The competing claims between Welded and Transco dealt with the same common core of facts and legal theories and cannot be apportioned to limit Welded's fee award to only its underpayment claims, as opposed to Transco's overpayment claims. Most of the time entries identified on Appendix 13 relate to work performed in connection with Mr. Gray and Mr. Kakol, and the associated fees are recoverable. However, Welded will no longer seek to recover the fees associated with the entries highlighted in yellow in Exhibit I to Appendix B to the Reply, which relate to working with Welded's coating expert.(Reply § II. C.; see also Appendix B, Exhibit I) |
| App. 14: Attorneys' Fees for Claim: Schedule Incentive/Weld Repairs | $63,949.50 | Time entries relating to Brian Triche should be excluded because Welded was not successful on the claims which he testified | $0.00 | The competing claims between Welded and Transco dealt with the same common core of facts and legal theories and cannot be apportioned to limit Welded's fee award to only its underpayment claims, as opposed to Transco's overpayment claims. Welded defeated Transco's claims related to excessive tie-in welds, rework, weld repairs, and early mobilization, and the fees associated with the entries identified on Appendix 14 are recoverable.(Reply § II. C.) |
| App. 15: Welded's First Motion for Partial Summary Judgment (CASPA) | $140,835.50 | Time entries relating to Welded's first Motion for Partial Summary Judgment should be excluded because the motion was denied | $0.00 | Welded's arguments regarding the Contract and the application of CASPA were proven correct at trial. The fees associated with the time entries identified on Appendix 15 are recoverable.(Reply § II. B.) |

| App. 16: Transco's Motion to Compel Corporate Representative | $52,847.00 | Time entries relating to Welded's opposition to Defendants' Motion to Compel should be excluded because the Court granted the Motion to Compel | $0.00 | Success for a substantially prevailing party is not disaggregated throughout the case. Welded justifiably resisted yet another 30(b)(6) deposition given that Transco had already deposed four 30(b)(6) representatives for approximately 44 hours. Discovery disputes regarding the parties' competing breach-of-contract claims cannot be disaggregated from Welded's success on the merits of those claims.(Reply § II. B.) |
| App. 17: Welded's Obstruction of Schoenherr Deposition | $15,803.00 | Time entries relating to Welded's Motion to Quash and opposition to Defendants' Motion for Authority to Proceed should be excluded because the Court granted Transco's motion | $0.00 | Success for a substantially prevailing party is not disaggregated throughout the case. Given the circumstances, as explained in the Reply and in the MTQ, Welded successfully sought court intervention. And discovery disputes regarding the parties' competing breach-of-contract claims cannot be disaggregated from Welded's success on the merits of those claims.(Reply § II. B.) |
| App. 18: Welded's Motion for Sanctions | $60,172.50 | Time entries relating to Welded's Sanctions Motion should be excluded because the Court did not saction Defendants | $0.00 | Success for a substantially prevailing party is not disaggregated throughout the case. Transco mischaracterizes Welded's success. The court ordered Transco to produce unredacted audit documents that Transco had refused to produce in unredacted form notwithstanding the court's prior order on Welded's motion to compel. And discovery disputes regarding the parties' competing breach-of-contract claims cannot be disaggregated from Welded's success on the merits of those claims.(Reply § II. B.) |
| App. 19: Attorneys' Fees for Prehearing Brief & Joint Pretrial Order | $88,967.75 | Excessive time entries relating to Welded's pre-trial order and pre-trial brief should be reduced by 50% | $1,911.00 | The pre-trial work, including the pre-trial order and brief, was required. The fees are reasonable, are not excessive, and were properly invoiced. The recovery of such fees should not be arbitrarily reduced by 50%. However, Welded will no longer seek to recover the fees associated with the time entries highlighted in yellow in Exhibit J to Appendix B to the Reply(Reply § II. E.; see also Appendix B, Exhibit J) |
| App. 20: Attorneys' Fees for Posthearing Brief | $254,815.00 | Excessive time entries relating to Welded's post-hearing brief should be reduced by 50% | $0.00 | The post-trial work, including with respect to the post-trial brief, was required. The fees are reasonable, are not excessive, and were properly invoiced. The recovery of such fees should not be arbitrarily reduced by 50%. No reduction is warranted.(Reply § II. E.) |
| App. 21: Attorneys' Fees for Mediation | $108,313.25 | Time entries relating to mediation in 2022 should be reduced by 50% | $0.00 | The mediation-related work, including with respect to the mediation statement and mediation preparations, was required. The fees are reasonable, are not excessive, and were properly invoiced. The recovery of such fees should not be arbitrarily reduced by 50%. No reduction is warranted.(Reply § II. E.) |
| App. 22: Attorneys' Fees for Multiple Attorneys Performing Same Work | $106,156.50 | Time entries for non-participatory attorneys that attended depositions, arguments, and trial should be excluded | $11,229.00 | The work reflected in the time entries identified on Appendix 22 was not redundant and was appropriately performed and invoiced. However, Welded will no longer seek to recover the fees associated with the entries highlighted in yellow in Exhibit K to Appendix B to the Reply.(Reply § II. F.; see also Appendix B, Exhibit K) |
| App. 23: Attorneys' Fees for Vague Time Entries | $129,451.50 | Time entries that do not specify their relationship to the Adversary Proceeding or Welded's contract claims are are vague and should be excluded | $6,316.00 | The entries on Appendix 23 are sufficiently detailed to allow the Court to determine the reasonableness of the fees sought. While the fees are reasonable and properly invoiced, Welded will no longer seek to recover the fees associated with the entries highlighted in yellow in Exhibit L to Appendix B to the Reply.(Reply § II. D.; see also Appendix B, Exhibit L) |

| App. 24: Attorneys' Fees for Partners performing Entry-level Tasks | $224,463.38 | Time entries for senior partners performing legal research and document review, and drafting basic pleadings and memorandums, should be reduced by 75% | $37,855.00 | Transco misunderstands these time entries. Further, Mr. Guerke and Mr. Neiburg were not performing basic research. The work associated with all entries identified on Appendix 24 was necessary, and the appropriate attorneys performed the work. However, Welded will no longer seek to recover the fees associated with the entries highlighted in yellow in Exhibit M to Appendix B to the Reply, which are entries relating to work performed by Mr. Higgins regarding pipeline coating issues.(Reply § II. G.; see also Appendix B, Exhibit M) |
| App. 25: Attorneys' Fees for Unrelated PA Case | $19,315.00 | Time entries relating to Pennsylvania state court litigation involving Transco should be excluded | $19,315.00 | The fees associated with the entries identified on Appendix 25 are reasonable and were properly invoiced. However, Welded will no longer seek to recover these fees.(Reply § IV) |
| App. 26: Attorneys' Fees for Active Project Consulting | $6,586.00 | Time entries relating to legal consulation on ongoing work under the Post-Petition Commitment Letters should be excluded | $6,586.00 | The fees associated with the entries identified on Appendix 26 are reasonable and were properly invoiced. However, Welded will no longer seek to recover these fees.(Reply § IV) |
| App. 27: Attorneys' Fees for Transitory Professionals | $292,415.00 | Timekeepers who billed fewer than 100 hours should be excluded | $20,389.50 | The work performed in connection with the entries identified on Appendix 27 was not redundant, and the associated fees are reasonable and were properly invoiced. Arbitrarily reducing the recovery of the fees for work performed by attorneys that billed fewer than 100 hours to the matter is not warranted. However, Welded will no longer seek to recover the fees associated with the entries highlighted in yellow in Exhibit N to Appendix B to the Reply, which are entries relating to work involving pipeline coating issues.(Reply § II. F.; see also Appendix B, Exhibit N) |
| App. 28: Additional Rate Reduction for Credit | $55,207.97 | Time entries where timekeepers invoiced using their regular increased rates rather than the agreed-upon frozen rates should be excluded | $55,207.97 | While these fees are reasonable and were properly invoiced, Welded will no longer seek to recover the fees associated with the entries identified on Appendix 28.(Reply § IV) |
| App. 29: Expenses for Rented Carts (DLS Discovery) | $22,050.00 | Fees for renting rolling carts from DLS Discovery following the end of trial should be excluded | $22,050.00 | While these fees are reasonable and were properly invoiced, Welded will no longer seek to recover the fees associated with the entries identified on Appendix 29.(Reply § IV) |
| App. 30: Expenses for Relativity User Licenses (DLS Discovery) | $12,843.94 | Relativity user-license fees incurred monthly as part of Welded's DLS Discovery expenses should be excluded because they are not case-specific | $12,843.94 | While these fees are reasonable and were properly invoiced, Welded will no longer seek to recover the fees associated with the entries identified on Appendix 30.(Reply § IV) |
